THREE DEAD, EIGHT DYING, AFTER EXPLOSION

Jury Convicts Kelly Hunt Of Perjury After Officers Deny Bribery Charges

VERDICT IS RETURNED IN EIGHT MINUTES

Judge Atwell Defers Sentence Pending Trial Of Other Cases

OFFICERS TESTIFY

Hunt Repeats Story of His "Pay Off" But Fails To Convince Jury

Kelly Hunt was found guilty of perjury on two counts, as charged, by a jury in Judge William H. Atwell's federal court here Thursday night. The decision was returned by the jury after eight minutes of deliberation, after being given the case shortly before 9:30 o'clock.

The passing of sentence by Judge Atwell was deferred until the completion of two more cases against Hunt, in which he is charged with receiving and concealing governmental evidence, and with conspiracy to violate the national prohibition law.

Hunt's trial was continued into the night when court was resumed at 7:45 o'clock Thursday night, after being recessed at 5:50 p. m. when the defense rested. Arguments of attorneys upon the court's charge consumed about an hour and a half.

Hunt took the stand in his own defense Thursday afternoon and in a lengthy recital repeated charges of having paid money to prohibition officers for alleged aid in evading the prohibition law.

Called as a witness by his counsel, Will S. Payne of Fort Worth, Hunt told again the story unfolded in a padlock hearing before Judge Atwell on Nov. 16. Following a raid upon his place near the Seymour road west of this city on July 24, he related, N. D. Heaton, an "under cover" agent for the government, called at Hunt's home and offered to return evidence held by the United States marshal for $500.

Gives Details of "Trade"

Heaton told him at that time, the witness said, that pictures taken of the bar in Hunt's home at the time of the raid would prove very "damaging" to the defendant, as well as the containers of liquor taken by officers at that time. Heaton was quoted as saying that they could be destroyed before Hunt's eyes "for a new Ford car." The officer said he was in need of a new car, the witness continued. Hunt declared that he then agreed to pay $500 for the return, or destruction, of evidence held against him.

"We were standing in my garage," Hunt continued, "over by a work bench, to the left of the door. I left Heaton there, went in the

This Might Be Gandhi—But Where Is the Goat?

A person claiming to be Mahatma Gandhi, India's man of the hour, is shown above as he was welcomed to Wichita Falls by Mayor Walter Nelson Jr., immediately following his arrival here Thursday to attend the Junior chamber of commerce banquet Saturday. Despite the resemblance, the balustrade in the background is not a carved pillar of alabaster Taj Mahal, but is a facement of Wichita Falls' own mosaic monument, the Memorial auditorium. That strange animal on Gandhi's leash is variously reputed and denied to be a goat.

John S. Saunders Passes At Age of 101

Special to The Record News.

MANGUM, Okla., Dec. 3.—John S. Saunders, Greer county's oldest citizen, died at the home of his son, J. C. Saunders, 10 miles northwest of the city.

His age was 101 years, five months and eight days.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Reed Baptist church by Rev. A. B. Hughes, Vernon, Texas, a friend of the deceased for many years.

John S. Saunders was born in Georgia on June 25, 1830. He has made his home in Greer county for 28 years. He served for four years in the army of the Confederacy, with company B, 42nd regiment of Mississippi infantry. He was captured by federal soldiers during the battle of Gettysburg and was confined at Point Lookout until June 20, 1865.

He was married to Elizabeth Collins at Arkabattler, Miss., in 1859. She died Nov. 11, 1918.

Mr. Saunders is survived by five children: S. P. Saunders, Holdenville, Okla.; Mrs. M. A. Burgess, Ralls, Texas; W. P. Saunders, Vernon, Texas; J. C. Saunders, Mangum, Okla. He is also survived by 38 grandchildren, 59 great grandchildren and four great great grandchildren.

Upon the occasion of Mr. Saunders' 100th birthday anniversary, June 25, 1930, a reunion was held at the J. C. Saunders home, attended by 120 persons.

Mr. Saunders had been a member of the Primitive Baptist church since 1865.

Oklahoma Bank Looted By Unmasked Pair

COLLINSVILLE, Okla., Dec. 3. (AP)—Two men robbed the American Exchange bank here today after shutting two employes and four customers in the vault.

P. L. Troutt, cashier, was one of the persons ordered into the vault. "The robbers didn't lock the door. They simply threw the catch," he said. "We had no way of getting out, however, and had to wait until a customer came in. We shouted and hammered on the vault and the customer opened the door."

Troutt said the robbers took "several hundred dollars," but said no accurate check had been made.

Gandhi's Visit Called Fake In Junoir C-C Row

That sacred and holy man of India, Gandhi, or at least one who greatly resembles him, arrived late Thursday in Wichita Falls and according to Jerry Vinson, chairman of the Junior chamber of commerce distinguished guests committee, will remain here to attend that organization's annual banquet Saturday.

Whether the man is the real Gandhi or an imposter, his appearance Thursday precipitated bitter squabbling among junior chamber officers. The sight of the Mahatma by some was greeted by the shout of "Hail Gandhi!" Others, dubious, shouted "Fake! Imposter!"

Despite this varied reception, the reputed Gandhi remained calm. In the absence of an interpreter, junior chamber members contented themselves with shaking the visitor's hand, and presenting him with a goat. This animal, brought to town by Frank Wolf's agricultural committee, proved the basis of a hot tiff between members.

After the alleged Gandhi had passed from sight, Mr. Vinson cornered Mr. Wolf and bitter words ensued.

"That isn't a goat; it's a sheep," shouted Mr. Vinson.

"That's nothing—that isn't Gandhi, it's Frank Haley in disguise," yelped Mr. Wolf.

Whereupon Mr. Vinson grinned sheepishly, and retired. Later, however, he said he would ask the removal of the entire agricultural committee on the grounds its members didn't know a sheep from a goat.

PRESIDENT OF SALVADOR OUT

Government Overthrown In Brief Uprising

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 3. (US)—President Arturo Araujo of Salvador was deposed today after a short revolution in which one cabinet minister was killed and another reported wounded.

Minister of Finance Francisco J. Espinosa was shot to death when he refused to resign, according to messages received here tonight. Gen. Hernandez Martinez, minister of war, was reported wounded.

President Araujo fled as a military directorate took over the government. The directorate promised elections within 48 hours.

A radio message announcing the overthrow of the Araujo government was intercepted here. The message stated:

"Situation calm here now. President deposed. Military directorate composed of three men installed. Elections will be announced shortly, probably within 48 hours.

Minister Shot

"The trouble started at 10 p. m. last night. The finance minister was shot when he refused to accept terms. American Minister Warren D. Robbins seems to think communications will be reopened speedily."

President Araujo was inaugurated only last March, and his term was to have extended to 1935. It is not known from the meager advices received here whether the vice president, General Martinez, played any part in the revolution.

The uprising has been brewing for a week, according to report, and today broke out with the mutiny of two garrisons in San Salvador, capital of the tiny republic on the Pacific coast of the Isthmus of Panama.

Uprising Spreads

First reports, which were unconfirmed, stated that at least 20 persons had been killed in the first brush between the rebels and loyal troops in San Salvador. The uprising spread quickly from the capital throughout the country, which is about the size of the state of New Jersey.

A strict censorship was clamped

WESTERN G. O. P. SENATORS TO OPPOSE MOSES

Borah, Norris Cite Hints Of Retaliation In Party Breach

TEXAS DEMOS ACT

Sumners Instructed To Name Garner For Speakership

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. (AP)—The long-smouldering senate Republican row burst into lively flames today with declarations from western independent leaders that they would oppose the re-election of George Moses of New Hampshire as president pro tempre.

Senator Moses referred to the independents as the "sons of the wild jackass" when they went into a coalition with the Democrats on the tariff two years ago.

Senators Borah of Idaho and Norris of Nebraska, the insurgent leaders, in announcing against Moses, insisted their action was evoked by threats that they would be deprived of committee chairmanships if they failed to support the outspoken New Hampshire member.

Retaliation Seen

Borah and Norris defied retaliatory action but it seemed unlikely tonight that such a move would be made against them. Until the dispute is fought out on the senate floor next week, there is no telling what may happen. However, Democratic aversion to taking over control of the senate without a majority is expected to preclude an upset in the Republican organization.

The independents have no intention of attempting to replace Moses with a Democrat. They are prepar-

Russian Cotton Crop 200,000 Bales Short

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. (INS)—The Russian cotton crop this year is estimated by the bureau of agricultural economics to be 2,000,000 bales, it was announced today.

This figure is 200,000 bales lower than the bureau estimated recently and is marked contrast with the reports from Russia and the international institute of agriculture that the 1931 Russian cotton crop is from 70 to 80 per cent larger than the 1930 crop. That crop was estimated at 1,550,000 bales of 478 pounds.

The bureau said indications now were that the United States cotton production would be almost 2,971,000 bales larger than last season and that foreign production would be at least 500,000 bales less. The present crop in this country, in addition to being large, is the best in quality of any recent crop.

No City Ever Has Won Lower Gas Rate Before Texas Rail Commission

History of Rate Fights Shows Futility of State Methods in Controlling Charges; 47 Oklahoma Cities Pay 45 Cents—and Wichita Pays 75 Cents

Unless qualified voters of Wichita Falls go to the polls Saturday almost 100 per cent and register their attitude toward the proposed municipal gas distribution system, members of the city council will be materially handicapped in a utilities fight which now seems inevitable, officials of the city declared Thursday to The Record News.

Statements that the city probably will be forced to provide its own distribution of natural gas in order to obtain lower domestic rates were based upon the seeming futility of seeking relief through the state railroad commission.

It was pointed out Thursday that in the records of the commission, there can be found no instance in which a city has obtained any measure of relief with reference to gas rates. The cases most familiar to citizens of Wichita Falls are those of this city, Fort Worth and San Antonio. In each instance, the final result of negotiations was defeat of the city's motion and a raising of gas costs.

Methods now being employed by the railroad commission's special division on gas plant valuations were pointed out as illustrating the usual trend of such investigations. Inventories of pipe lines, etc., set up by the Lone Star Gas company are now being copied by employes of Laten Stanberry, in charge of the railroad commission's special division, according to that official.

State's Methods Futile

Officials of Wichita Falls declared such methods of arriving at correct present values of such equipment are futile, asserting that such inventories are drawn by utilities concerns to provide apparent support for excessive gas rates. A Fort Worth engineering firm, employed by the state to make a survey of the properties, will require several months for its work, and even if favorable to the cities would be subject to attack in state courts.

In connection with this situation, it was charged that the major utilities concerns admittedly kept two sets of books. According to V. R. Smitham, city manager, it is common knowledge among city officials in this section of the country that the gas company's two sets of books were involved in the unsuccessful fight made by Fort Worth before the railroad commission and in the courts for lower rates. The varying uses of these separate sets of accounts, it was said, were so well known in the court proceedings on the case that they eventually were identified as the "sunshine" books and the "rainy weather" set. This designation first was used by the auditor who had studied the gas company's books for the city of Fort Worth.

Fort Worth's Experience

Supporting the statement that relief from the railroad commission is apparently not to be expected, local officials cited the experience of Fort Worth. Taking its petition before the commission, and then into the courts, that city spent considerably more than $100,000 in an effort to obtain lower rates from its then-franchised gas company. Its rates were increased. Fort Worth soon called an election, and the citizens of that city voted to install their own gas distributing system. At a subsequent election, bonds were voted to finance that project. The validity of this second election has been attacked recently in the courts by the Lone Star Gas company, the case not yet having been heard.

With reference to this city's fight for lower rates here, it was pointed out that a domestic consumer pays a net rate of 67.5 per cent for 1,000 cubic feet of gas from any given line. An industrial consumer drawing gas from the same line is charged 17 cents per 1,000 cubic feet. Each connection required a short branch line into the property and each requires employment of a meter-reader to record the monthly consumption. Strenuous exception was taken to the differential of 50.5 cents per 1,000 cubic feet based on the difference in amounts of gas consumed.

Without almost a 100 per cent vote of local taxpayers Saturday, it

Mass Home Production Urged by Committee

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. (US)—Mass production of homes as the most economical method of building modern dwellings was recommended today to the president's conference on home building and home ownership.

This suggestion was advanced by the committee on large scale operations which was one of 16 committees to make recommendations on various phases of the home problem.

Fifteen other committees will report to the conference tomorrow with additional suggestions.

25-Cent Gas Cut Means $183,600 To Business Here

Just how much of a boost to local business conditions might be wrought by a 25-cent reduction in the gas rate here, as sought by the city council in its present campaign, may be estimated from a comparison of gas bills figured on each rate on the basis of present average consumption.

There are now approximately 8,500 gas consumers in Wichita Falls. The Municipal Gas company's records show that the average daily consumption is 1,932,600 cubic feet. With a 50-cent rate instead of 75 cents per 1,000 cubic feet, and without considering the ready-to-serve charge of 50 cents per meter, each consumer would save approximately six cents per day. Extended, that saving would amount to $1.80 per month, and $21.60 per year.

With approximately 8,500 gas consumers, there would be a total saving of approximately $183,600 annually which would be turned back into local circulation through the purchase of needed commodities.

TEACHERS' PAY WAITS TAXES

$12,000 Needed to Meet Payroll Saturday

Members of the Wichita Falls school board announced late Thursday that writing of checks for the Dec. 5 pay roll of city teachers is being delayed in the hope that sufficient funds would be received Friday and Saturday to meet the $48,000 pay roll. The board announced Monday that it lacked $26,000 of having sufficient funds to pay the teachers. Approximately $12,000 still was needed late Thursday.

Taxpayers of Wichita Falls continued Thursday to take up 1931 school taxes in an effort to maintain a cash balance in the account of the school district in the present emergency. A total of $418.25 was received by City Tax Collector W. R. Hyer during the day on that account, 16 local citizens comprising the honor roll for the day.

The total now paid since the drive for early payment began about two months ago is $136,340.20. Since Monday morning, a total of

FURNACE BLAST WRECKS HOME AT BERKELEY

Fifty Persons Injured In Terrific Detonation At Residence

20 CHILDREN HURT

Firemen Trapped in Basement While Fighting Big Fire

BERKELEY, Calif., Dec. 3. (UP)—Three persons were killed and 50 others, including a score of children, were hurt when a gas furnace exploded while firemen were fighting a blaze in the home of Norman L. Saunders, reserve navy lieutenant, here tonight.

The blast was so terrific it wrecked the Saunders home and an adjoining dwelling and showered broken and burning embers and debris over a radius of three blocks. Except for the firemen, most of those killed or injured were spectators drawn to the scene when a fire alarm was turned in.

Student Killed

Those killed were Sherman Pepper, 16, University of California student and son of Prof. S. C. Pepper, instructor in philosophy at the university; Peggy Skytte, 10, and an unidentified fireman who was burned beyond recognition.

Another fireman, Lieutenant Rosenstraeder, was reported missing after the blast and was believed dead beneath the debris in the Saunders house.

At least eight persons, including university students and firemen, were so seriously injured they were not expected to live. Among them was Fire Chief George Haggerty, 50, one of the most famous fire fighters in California. Haggerty was severely burned and crushed.

Ten firemen were in the basement fighting a stubborn blaze when the detonation occurred. A deafening roar was followed by a loud, tearing crash as the furnace shot upward, ripping a gaping hole in the roof.

The blast came without warning and hundreds of persons, including scores of neighborhood children, were showered with broken and burning timbers.

Spectators Trampled

Those in the front rank were knocked to the ground and trampled as others, terrified and panic-stricken, broke and ran for shelter.

The firemen in the basement were trapped and most of them were seriously hurt or burned.

The blast was so terrific that it ripped part of the roof off an adjoining house and scattered burning embers and debris over a radius of three blocks.

Within a few moments, doctors, nurses and ambulances were on the scene and the injured were removed to hospitals.

Children May Die

It was not learned immediately how seriously the children were hurt. They were taken to Memorial hospital where every available physician and nurse was detailed to minister to them.

Several firemen were so critically burned they were not expected to live.

The Saunders home is located near the University of California campus and hundreds of students were among the first on the scene. Several were among those injured.

Lieutenant Saunders and his wife and son were outside when the furnace blew up. They escaped with minor hurts. Saunders could advance no cause for the fire although he said he believed a leaky gas main was responsible.

Panic Grips Crowd

Utmost confusion seized the crowd after the blast. Screams of terrified women and children mingled with moans of the injured. Everyone not felled or trampled started running and several minutes elapsed before rescue crews were organized.

The wounded were gathered together and ambulances sped them away to hospitals. Volunteers, meantime, fought their way into the partially wrecked house and worked frantically to extricate the firemen trapped within.

Allan McCharles, 18, Berkeley High school student, who was standing at the rear of the house when the detonation occurred, gave the United Press an eye-witness account of the explosion.

"My brother and I were standing at the rear of the house," he said. "Several firemen were in the basement putting out the fire. Others on the outside were chopping holes through the basement wall.

Walls Bulge

"Suddenly there was a deep rumble. A second later the walls of the house bulged out and I was knocked off my feet.

"It was the most awful thing I ever saw. Everybody screamed and started to run but they soon got organized and began carrying the wounded away from the fire."

McCharles and his brother were injured.

There were numerous miraculous escapes. L. C. Gilbert, a university instructor, and his wife and

Oklahoma Offers Scholarships To Mexicans in Amends for Killings

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 3. (UP)—The state of Oklahoma will offer two scholarships to Mexican youths in commemoration of two Mexican students who were slain by deputy sheriffs at Ardmore last June.

Gov. William H. Murray announced late today that one scholarship, caring for tuition and probably incidental expenses, will be offered each by the University of Oklahoma at Norman and Oklahoma A. & M. college, Stillwater.

The scholarships were suggested by President W. B. Bizzell of the University of Oklahoma as a gesture to repay, in a measure the Mexican nation for the death of Manuel Garcia Gomez and Emilio Cortes Rubio, a cousin of President Pascual Ortiz Rubio. The officers recently were acquitted in the slayings.

Murray was enthusiastic when he announced the plan. The youths would be appointed by the president of Mexico.

G. O. P. Drys Whipped When Party Decides to Allow Prohi Vote

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. (US)—Republican drys in the house were given a smashing defeat today when they fought to prevent their party, in secret conference, from approving a liberal rule which would permit a record vote on prohibition at the next session of congress.

By a vote of 43 to 36, the Republicans decided to sponsor a rule providing that upon petition of 145 members, the house must vote on prohibition or any other legislation.

Though the Republicans yesterday had tecnically adopted the 145 rule, powerful leaders in the dry forces launched a battle at today's session to raise the numbers to 190 on constitutional questions.

Representatives Moore and Murphy of Ohio, led the drys. On a voice vote their 190 proposal was rejected and then the party adopted the lower figure, recommended by Representative Snell of New York, G. O. P. choice for speaker.

G. O. P. SPLITS OVER MOSES

Independents Won't Support Senate Leader

ing to support Senator McNary, of Oregon, the popular assistant Republican leader, or the veteran Wesley Jones of Washington.

The regular Republican conference will be held tomorrow. Few of the independents usually attend the conference.

Demos to Meet

The Democrats also will meet tomorrow to organize for the session. Their slate is about ready for prompt ratification with Robinson of Arkansas and Walsh of Montana assured re-election as leader and assistant leader, respectively.

While the re-election of Moses was today declared impossible by Senator Norris, votes for a third candidate may make impossible any election, in which event Moses would hold on to the office. A majority is necessary for election. Unless some of the independents fail to vote, the Democratic candidate, Key Pittman of Nevada, would not have a majority.

Senator Moses, who has been keeping quiet about the whole affair, was not here today. He pointed out in a magazine article last summer how retaliatory action might be taken, but he insists he has never threatened to oust others from their chairmanships as a measure of reprisal.

Vote Close

Some friends of Moses, however, have said privately that if the independents attempt to put a Democrat in Moses' place or permit that to happen, they would not hesitate to vote to remove those responsible from their chairmanships. Borah and Norris are chairmen of the powerful foreign relations and judiciary committees, respectively.

How many will vote with Borah and Norris for a candidate other than Moses is uncertain but guesses ranged tonight from five to 10.

Because of the even division of the senate, just a couple of votes can control. The lineup for the session is Republicans 48, Democrats 47, Farmer-Labor 1.

"WHAT THREATS?" ASKS MOSES

CONCORD, N. H., Dec. 3. (AP)—"What threats?" was the only comment forthcoming from Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire today on the statement of Senators Borah and Norris. The latter two said they would oppose the re-election of Moses as president pro tempore of the senate and said they took the position because of threats made against them if they failed to support Moses.

Pressed further for a statement Moses said, "I did not comment in Washington and I shall not comment in New Hampshire."

TEXAS ORDERS GARNER NOMINATION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. (AP)—The Texas congressional delegation today designated Representative Hatton Sumners of Dallas to place Representative John N. Garner of Uvalde in nomination for the speakership at the Democratic caucus Saturday.

Sumners was chosen because of his close friendship with Garner and because of the rank he holds in the delegation. Garner has no opposition for the Democratic speakership nomination and is expected to be unanimously supported by the caucus.

Jones Chairman

The Texas delegation elected Representative Marvin Jones of Amarillo chairman. Jones has been in congress since 1916 and would become chairman of the agriculture committee if the Democrats organize the house. He succeeds Representative Daniel E. Garrett of Houston.

Representative-elect Martin Dies of Orange, youngest member of the delegation, was named secretary.

The delegation also agreed to nominate Representative Morgan G. Sanders of Canton for the ways and means committee. Garner is the Texas member of the ways and means group that designates members of all legislative committees. He is expected to relinquish his place in event he is elected speaker.

Marooned Lighthouse Guards Eat Once More

GALVESTON, Dec. 3. (UP)—Two lighthouse attendants enjoyed their first full meal in three days today.

Gus Peoples and Dan Vincent, assistant keepers, were marooned at the South Jetty lighthouse when E. K. Wakefield, keeper, was kept ashore by high seas. He had gone for food.

He and the coast guard tried for three days to get to the lighthouse but rough water drove them back.

Today when Wakefield took the supply boat out without trouble, Peoples and Vincent had eaten their scrap of food.

Hoover's Brother-in-Law Wins Another Delay

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Dec. 3. (US)—Trial of Corneilus Van Ness Leavitt, brother-in-law of President Herbert Hoover, charged with liquor possession, was again continued today by Police Magistrate C. A. M. Spencer on motion of deputy City Attorney McInerny who stated two of his witnesses, prohibition agents, were unable to be present today.

The case was set for 10 a. m. tomorrow in police court.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

OKLA. SOLONS CONFER TODAY

Oil Tariff Plans Will Be Mapped Out

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. (AP)—Determination of what steps are best to help the oil industry recuperate and decision for united action will be made tomorrow by Oklahoma Democrats in congress.

Representative McClintic, chairman of the house group, said today they and Senator Thomas would meet to discuss the question of an oil tariff, or some form of protection, with Russell Brown of the Independent Producers association.

"After hearing Mr. Brown," McClintic said, "we will decide what we should do. We don't know yet whether the proposition we approve will be for $1 a barrel tariff or for a higher levy that would be almost an embargo and would decrease as time goes on and ruinous competition is eliminated.

"One of the two likely will be our course," McClintic added, saying that if the entire delegation agreed on a program, he would be hopeful of its passage.

Representative Disney said he thought the tariff should be $1 a barrel.

Other congressmen from oil producing states also have been working for oil protection. Representative Garber, the only Oklahoma Republican in the house, is preparing to draft a tariff measure as soon as the tariff commission makes its report on comparative production costs. His duty, he said, would equalize the difference in cost—whatever it might be.

The oil tariff group in both houses is planning a determined drive to get that product under the roof of protection.

Some Oklahomans want a duty of $1 a barrel. Senator Shortridge also has a bill for a duty of $1 a barrel with a rate of 50 per cent ad valorem on by products.

BEATY REAFFIRMS FAVORING TARIFF

FORT WORTH, Dec. 3. (AP)—Amplifying previous remarks that a majority interested in the petroleum industry favor a protective tariff, Amos L. Beaty, president of the American Petroleum institute, said failure of congress to include petroleum in its list of duty products would be an injustice of the first magnitude. Beaty left early this evening for New York.

Beaty refused to be quoted on other questions pertaining to the industry, including production control. Atty. Gen. James V. Allred's ouster suits, martial law and the purported dangers of burdensome gasoline stocks.

Elaborating on his tariff stand, Beaty said practically every major industry was a beneficiary of the protective system with exception of oil. While results of a membership poll is being taken by the A. P. I. have not been learned, Beaty said without doubt the industry favors enactment of a tariff.

Better Than Whiskey For Colds and Coughs

The sensation of the drug trade is Aspironal, the two-minute relief for colds and coughs due to colds. Authoritatively guaranteed by the laboratories; tested, approved and most enthusiastically endorsed by the highest authorities, and proclaimed by the people as ten times as quick and effective as whiskey, rock and rye, or any other cold and cough remedy they have ever tried.

All drug stores are supplied with the wonderful elixir, so all you have to do is to step into the nearest drug store, hand the clerk sixty cents for a bottle of Aspironal and tell him to serve you two teaspoonfuls. With your watch in your hand, take the drink at one swallow and call for your money back in two minutes if you cannot feel the distressing symptoms of your cold or cough fading away like a dream, within the time limit. Don't be bashful, for all druggists invite you and expect you to try it. Everybody's doing it.

Take the remainder of the bottle home to your wife and children for Aspironal is by far the safest and most effective, the easiest to take and the most agreeable cold and cough remedy for children as well as adults. Quickest relief for catarrhal croup and children's choking up at night.—Adv.

CANUCK ROADS TO CUT WAGES

Trainmen Lodge Protest at Ottawa

MONTREAL, Quebec, Dec. 3. (AP)—The railway systems have advised representatives of the running trades that a 10 per cent cut in wages is to be made as from Nov. 15, James Murdock, vice president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, stated today, and a protest on behalf of the men has been made to labor department at Ottawa.

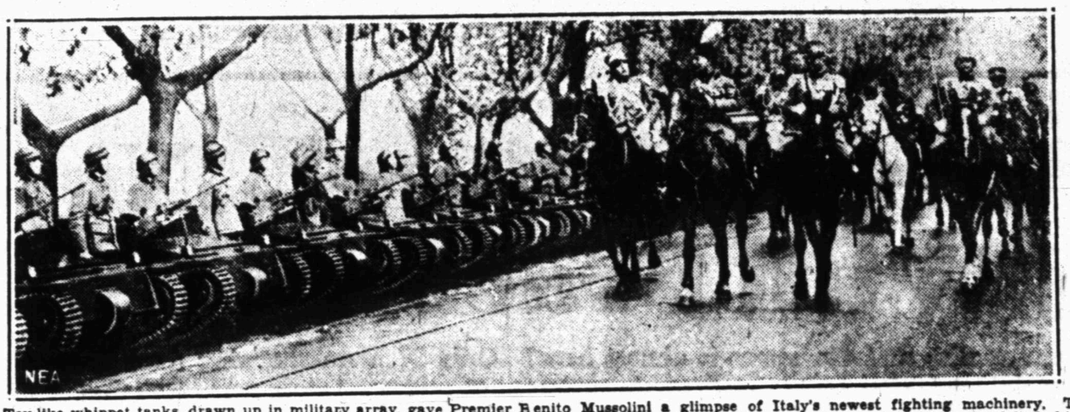

Notification has been given the men, said Senator Murdock, who represented the employes before the conciliation board which recommended the reduction, that checks on Dec. 15 will be issued on the basis of the reduced rate. These checks, according to the method of payment in use by the railways, cover wages earned between Nov. 15 and 30. Nov. 15 was the date recommended in the conciliation board's majority report as that when the reduced rate should become effective.

In sending the protest to Gideon Robertson, minister of labor, Senator Murdock declared such action by the railways was illegela, having regard to the industrial disputes investigation act. Protests have also been sent, he said, to officers of the railway systems.

According to an estimate made here, the cut will amount to approximately $225 for each man on an annual basis.

There are about 12,340 building and loan associations in the United States.

Iowa Park P.-T. A. Hears Program of Special Stories

Special to The Record News.

IOWA PARK, Texas, Dec. 3.—Iowa Park Parent-Teacher association held the last meeting of the calendar year at the W. F. George High school auditorium Wednesday afternoon with the president, Mrs. Marshall Clark, in the chair. The meeting was opened with the singing of "Cousin Jediah" and "Love's Old Sweet Song" by the Singing Mothers double quartet. Mrs. Mike B. Cain led in prayer.

The program consisted of specially planned stories written by Mrs. Carl Hofman for grade children who in costume impersonated their favorite characters. Mrs. B. L. Turner, home service chairman, read the names of 15 books donated to the library during Good Book week. Mrs. J. Paul Lusk gave a short talk on "Ways to Improve Our Library."

Visitors were invited to view projects, illustrating "Peoples and Their Different Customs" made by ward pupils. Winners in this contest were the 3-A pupils taught by Mrs. Alice Palm.

Mrs. T. M. Black, health chairman, delivered blue ribbons to five children who were found without physical defects in the health clinic held this fall for pre-school ages. Those receiving these ribbons were Mary Miles Hines, Betty Abernathy, Lerline Beasley, Eva Lopez, and Gordon Lewis Turner. Red ribbons were given to six children found with only one physical defect as follows: Nell Marie George, Donald Dodson, Betty Levy, Billy Jane Guantt, Francis Johnson, and Joline Huff.

The fifth grade, taught by Mrs. Bratton Reaves, received the prize offered for the most paid members among mothers of the room. The prize for largest percentage of mothers present at the meeting went to the second grade taught by Mrs. Dave O. Harbour.

WATER BILLS PAID

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, Dec. 3.—Approximately $1,200 more money was collected in the water department during the month of November than in the preceding month, according to A. B. Corder, water commissioner. This is due partially to a campaign to collect more water bills, he stated.

YOUTH HELD IN POKER KILLING

Game Hijacking Results In Fatal Shooting

HOUSTON, Dec. 3. (AP)—W. H. Daniels, 24, was charged with murder today in the slaying of J. F. (Easy) Copeland, 30, in a poker game holdup this morning.

Copeland was killed by two shots fired from a pistol in the hands of a man wearing a white mask, Justice C. R. Overstreet announced he had not completed his inquest and the verdict was being held open.

Daniels was held incommunicado at a police sub-station.

Witnesses said the shots were fired from a darkened front room when Copeland shouted "don't do that" and advanced on a masked figure.

They said the armed man was in the front room and that they were in the second room of the house—the room where the game had been in progress.

REDUCTION IN DIVORCES SEEN

Judge Sabath Explains Why Separations Decrease

By WILLIAM F. SULLIVAN

CHICAGO, Dec. 3. (US)—Turbulent 1931 has brought at least one item of salvation to America—it has imbued husbands and wives with a better spirit to "give and take"—Judge Joseph Sabath, the "divorce jurist" of Chicago observed today.

The judge, who has served more marital knots than any other jurist in the circuit court was commenting on figures showing an appreciable reduction in divorces throughout the United States and particularly in Chicago.

Fewer Divorces

"It is true that there are fewer divorces this year than in years past," Judge Sabath said. "In the days when men were making money fast, husbands had too much to occupy their time to devote much attention to the wives. Now they are staying at home more and the wives are helping them in working out their problems."

His record of effecting more reconciliations in his 10 years on the bench than any other Chicago jurist has made Judge Sabath an authority on the subject of marriage and divorce. He has heard approximately 48,000 divorce cases, he estimated today, and of that number has caused approximately 2,100 couples to forget their differences and return to their homes.

"Gin Marriages"

"In the boom days, too, there were too many 'gin' marriages," he continued. "After a few drinks, they would seek a midnight marriage mill and wake up in the morning to find they were husband and wife. In many cases, each knew little of the other and the result was a divorce after brief marriage.

"Marriage as an institution should be at the same time encouraged and restricted. Couples should not marry unless each has known the other for some period of time and the ceremony should be such as to impress both with some feeling of solemnity. Licenses should be taken out 10 days in advance of the marriage date and during that time each give some thought to the approaching nuptials."

In his advice to women, Judge Sabath said a woman should pick a husband with at least the care she exercises in selecting her hats and gowns.

Cupid Less Active

"Women go to 10 or 12 stores before they buy a hat," he explained, "but often, when it comes to picking a husband, they take the first man who comes along."

While divorces were becoming less frequent, the jurist observed also that Cupid was having less success with his bow and arrows. A reduction of 9.4 per cent in divorces thus far this year was almost offset by a falling off in marriages of 8.5 per cent in the same period.

But Judge Sabath is maintaining his record in reconciliations.

"Why, yes, I succeeded in getting four couples to forget thoughts of divorce at this morning's session," the judge said as he ascended the bench to continue to hear the troubles of husbands and wives.

U. S. Worker Blames 'Weak Moment' For Theft of $4,000 Gold Brick

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK, Dec. 3. (UP)—Charles A. Muche, never earning more than $30 a week, worked in the United States assay office for 10 years, always within easy reach of stupendous fortunes in gold.

Finally, he yielded to temptation and stole a gold brick worth $4,000.

Tonight a vindicative government was preparing to send him to prison.

Muche sat in the plain but neatly furnished parlor of his Staten Island home. His wife, red-eyed from weeping, hovered over him. His two boys, one 6, the other 8, played noisily on the floor.

Did It to Save Home

"See this house?" he asked. "My wife and I started paying for it eight years ago. We've paid and paid, sacrificed, half-starved. Do you know why I took the gold brick? So we wouldn't lose our home after all we put into it. Oh, I'm not offering that as an excuse. I did something. I'm just telling you why I did it."

Muche took off his gold-rimmed glasses, wiped them with his handkerchief and ran a hand through his blond hair.

"I was going to lunch," he mumbled. "I passed through the weighing room and saw a truck loaded with a half million dollars worth of gold. No one was there. I was tempted and before I knew it one of those bricks was in my overcoat pocket. Twenty minutes later I'd have given my life if I could have returned it."

Hard-Boiled Policy

The government has a hard-boiled policy for employes who stray from honesty. As an example to others, they must atone.

But Muche's Staten Island neighbors, who know him as a model husband and father and a soft-voiced, gentle, man tonight were ready to do what they could to make his offense the exception.

The Rev. C. C. Cain, pastor of the Trinity Methodist church, where Muche, his wife and his two children go to Sunday school and in whose orchestra Muche played a violin, denounced a social order that demanded a heavy penalty for one moral lapse.

"I do not condone his offense," the pastor said. "He has sinned and he should pay. But society is at fault in this case. A government that trusts a man with fortunes in gold and pays him a wage that is barely enough to give his loved ones a comfortable living, need not be astonished or angered when that man in a moment of stress yields to temptation against his better judgment. Society should be tried at the bar, not Muche."

Muche was arrested Sunday night by secret service men. A gold bar was missed Nov. 19, the first theft in the assay office's history. Every gold dealer in the city was checked until the purchaser was located. The dealer described Muche so minutely the detectives had no difficulty in recognizing him.

If Your Ears Ring With Head Noises

If you have catarrhal deafness or head noises go to Allison's Drug store or your druggist and get 1 oz. of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little sugar. Take a tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucous stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little, and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has catarrhal deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.—Adv.

To End a Cough In a Hurry, Mix This at Home

To quickly end stubborn coughs due to colds, it is important to soothe the inflamed membranes, get rid of the germs and also to aid the system inwardly to help throw off the trouble.

For these purposes, here is a home-made medicine, far better than anything you could buy at 3 times the cost. From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to fill up the pint. This takes but a moment, saves money, and makes a remedy so effective that you will never do without, once you have used it. Keeps perfectly, and children like it.

This simple remedy does three necessary things. First, it loosens the germ-laden phlegm. Second, it soothes away the inflammation. Third, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. This explains why it brings such quick relief, even in the obstinate coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest medicinal agents for severe coughs and bronchial irritations.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Poetry Prize Winner Gives Forum Program

Rev. Patrick D. Moreland was honor guest and gave the program at the writers luncheon held at the Woman's Forum clubhouse Thursday at noon. Mrs. M. T. Clements, chairman of the department, presented him as an old friend of the group and before reading from the volume "Arrow Unspent," which won the annual prize awarded for the best volume of poems each year in Texas, Mr. Moreland spoke briefly.

From the lovely new home in Kaufman where his lawn stretches to the golden woods and where 11 giant oak trees shade a playground for his children, he went in words to the two-room cabin where he was born in North Carolina. He gave a picture of the apple orchard before it that wore a bridal gown of pink and white in the spring time; of the crimson berried meadow in the rear; of the clear streams that came down from the hills. But, Mr. Moreland stated, when he came back to this part of the country and heard people speak of "where the West begins," he felt that in West Texas, there was a splendid "gift of living," not experienced anywhere else and he was among friends.

Speaking as a writer and a student of literature, Mrs. Moreland said that Texas was one of the active spots in the literary world; that people had passed through the period of pioneering and that at some not far distant period, there would emerge from this section a writer who would astound the country with what he could tell.

A writer, Mr. Moreland said, is one who can translate into words what he sees and feels; who can put into words those unfathomable things of the spirit. A poet he described as one who attempts the impossible.

The group of poems read by the author, descriptive, humorous, tragic, and spiritual, were received with acclamation by the attentive audience.

Winners Announced

Mrs. W. W. Cook gave the invocation and following the minutes, Mrs. Henry C. Fulcher announced winners in the annual play contest. "The Worm," by Mrs. Ben G. Oneal won first place; "The Iconoclast," by Mrs. James P. Bowen, second and "A Question Mark," by Mrs. W. W. Fraser, third.

In the business meeting, it was announced that subscriptions would be taken by the writers department committee, Mrs. James P. Bowen, chairman, for any writers magazines. Mrs. Newton Maer announced the drama department play to be given the evening of Dec. 8 and the need of 4,000 toys for the Municipal Christmas tree, urging women to take as many discarded ones as possible to the Boy Scouts, Memorial auditorium, where they would be mended and freshened for the annual tree.

Jars of chrysanthemums in varied beautiful autumnal colors were used for effective decorations on the luncheon table. A delightful two-course luncheon was served.

Covers were laid for Mesdames J. Truman Stevens, Geo. W. Thorburn, Finis A. Crutchfield, M. T. Clements, John T. Abbott, Henry C. Fulcher, Carl Yeager, J. E. O'Brien, W. W. Cook, Bentley Nelson, David Gray, W. N. Maer, G. A. McWhirter, C. A. Rogers, Fred B. Sharp, Ben G. Oneal, P. H. Myers, T. H. Peery, E. F. Bailey, James P. Bowen, W. M. Cason, Ann Barker, C. W. Staley, Misses Marguerite Peery, Mary Louise Staley, Dr. Maude Lindsay, Miss Nancy McChesney of Olney, Mesdames Ollie Raulston and Sam Newman of Archer City and the honor guest, Rev. Patrick D. Moreland.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

"They never sing songs about a bile of rent receipts," said Mr. Hoover, urging that provision be made so that the American people may be able to purchase homes on easy terms. But when it is time to pay fire insurance, city and county and other taxes, to put on a new roof and look after pipes that have frozen—well then the man who merely has rent to pay has the advantage. He may sing while property owners merely whistle to keep up their courage.

At that, we are all for homes. We believe in ancestral homes. By which we indicate no mansions. That part of American youth that can go into the attics of the homes where their grandparents were born and can trace the pathway of their parents' favorite stories—those young people have riches that cannot be counted. They are rooted in home.

Antiques in furniture are quite often very uncomfortable things. The quest of an antique that some one else once owned rouses no excitement in our spirit. We do not even care to slide again off the horsehair sofas of our grandmother's parlor. But we would like to see period homes still furnished in period furniture and owned by descendants of the families who built and furnished them.

For instance, strange as it may seem, we would rather own an old weather beaten farmhouse in Maryland, part of which was built on an original king's grant of land, than to own Monticello or the Hermitage.

And for just the same sort of reason, we have an inborn tenderness for open grate fires and holly Christmas trees; for barrels of winesaps and pewter castors; for four post beds and padded carpets; for half a dozen cakes at Christmas and turkey, oysters and goose; for roasting chestnuts and popping corn: such things spelled winter when we were 14.

Tenderness—yes—but we do not want all that now. Those things are pictures which we, with other Americans of the period, kiss and lay away—not forget. We grow with time, and choose the comfort of steam heated homes—with an open fire for cheer. (Wonder where Mrs. N. H. Martin got the wood that crackled so cheerily in her fireplace the other day. It had a sound of home.)

And if you don't mind my telling you, we (I speak for all women—not just editorially),—wish one luxury in our homes today, whether it be a home by deed or rent receipt—which was not always in the old houses; that is lots of closet room and linen shelves. Needless to add we'd like lots of clothes and linens to fill them.

Great wardrobes and narrow closets were the order of old times. The wardrobes were massive ugly things—great for playing hide and go seek, however.

There was one thing in the old houses we do not often see now; that is the store pantry that the housewife kept locked. Our mothers and grandmothers measured out flour and sugar, coffee and home-rendered lard from them to the black autocrat of the kitchen. And if ever a perfume of Araby gets to be as appetizing as these store rooms, restaurateurs will lay it in wholesale.

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Fillers left Thursday afternoon for a trip through Fort Worth to Corsicana, where Mr. Fillers, superintendent of Wichita Falls public schools, will make an address.

Mrs. Ben G. Oneal Wins in Annual Play Contest

Winners announced Thursday in the annual one-act play contest conducted by the writers' department of the Woman's Forum, point to Wichita Falls once more as an active spot in the writing field of the state and nation. This contest is open to writers of a large part of Northwest Texas and announcement of the winner is awaited with interest each year.

Mrs. Ben G. Oneal, with a dramatic one-act play picturing penitentiary life, "The Worm," was winner of first place and received the prize given by the Cargill Book and Stationery store, a handsome copy of a Burns Mantle "Review of Plays."

Mrs. Oneal compiled the "Prize Winning One-Act Plays," produced several years ago, which has become extremely popular as material for radio and club presentation through the state. Another prize winning play of hers, entitled "Inspiration," was completed in the volume.

Mrs. James P. Bowen, winner of second place in the annual contest with "Iconoclast," has a vivid play in the same book. Mrs. Bowen is actively engaged in writing at this time; a series of her Oklahoma folk tales are running each Sunday in the Tulsa Sunday World.

Mrs. W. W. Fraser was winner of third place in the contest with an unnamed play called "Question Mark." Mrs. Fraser has ventured in a field in which she already had acquaintance. She is writer of several excellent plays.

Country Club Postpones Supper and Dance

The regular club night featuring a buffet supper and dance which was scheduled to be held at the country club on the evening of Dec. 5, has been postponed until Dec. 12, it has been announced. The former date conflicts with the Junior chamber of commerce banquet to be held at the Woman's Forum clubhouse.

New York leads American cities for motor vehicle registrations, followed by Los Angeles, Chicago and Detroit.

Artistic Work Features Musicians Club Program

The development of the voice was a theme treated by Mrs. Pearl Calhoun Davis with the same beautiful sincerity that she exhibited in her singing at the monthly meeting of the Musicians club at the Woman's Forum clubhouse Thursday morning. The beauty of the speaking voice was emphasized as a requisite in life which may be attained by the individual after the fundamentals of breathing and general principles of development are learned, according to the individual's understanding of the subject. Mrs. Davis spoke from a professional and from an artistic standpoint in a charming address.

The program elicited delighted praise from the large audience present. Piano, voice and violin numbers were given by artists ranking first in musical circles. Numbers were as follows:

Lungi dal Caro Bene ..... Sartf
Slumber Song ..... McDowell
Mrs. Stanley M. Raub, accompanied by Mrs. J. W. Akin Jr.
Adagio, Op. 34, No. 3 ..... Franz Ries
Mrs. Fred B. Sharp
My Lover Is a Fisherman ..... Lily Strickland
Harriett Bradley, accompanied by Ruby Murrell
Chopin Prelude ..... Chopin
Number Announced ..... McDowell
Viennese Waltz ..... Friedman Gartner
Ernest Katz
Ah Rendimi ..... Italian Song
Mrs. Wm. E. Young, accompanied by Miss Annette Walsh
Prelude in A Minor ..... Debussy
Charles Kiker

The beautiful finale was from act 1 of La Bohme with Mrs. Lucile Brooks Huff playing accompaniments, Walter Robbins carrying the tenor and Mrs. C. Y. Tully the soprano. The voices were exquisitely suited to the numbers. Rudolf's Narrative, was sung by Walter Robbins; "They Call Me Mimi," by Mrs. C. Y. Tully. Before the duet closing the program, "Lovely Maid in the Moon," sung by Mrs. Tully and Mr. Robbins, Mrs. Davis gave a brief sketch of the act.

Mrs. Lester Jones was chairman of the program and Mrs. J. E. Hall gave a clever five minutes talk on musical current events. The auditorium at the Forum clubhouse was well filled.

Motherhood Is Theme of Grant Street Meeting

A program of unusual interest was sponsored Thursday afternoon at Grant Street Methodist church by the superintendent of the childrens division of the Woman's Missionary society.

The devotional was given by Mrs. O. F. Coleman who used "Motherhood" as the theme in her inspiring talk. Special music featured the meeting in a solo number, "Living for Jesus," by Mrs. R. E. Stewart and a piano number, "Evening Time," by Mrs. Ben Bell.

Mrs. M. T. Clements and Mrs. S. E. Trevathan of Floral Heights Methodist church made interesting talks. Mrs. Clements talked on "Our Children," stressing the fact that the moulding of the child's character lies in the hands of mothers, and Mrs. Trevathan spoke on the importance of home training, urging mothers to accept the challenge to work for the calling Master. She closed her talk with the song, "I Can Hear My Savior Calling" in which she led the assembly.

Guests were present from Wilson Memorial and Floral Heights Methodist churches. There were 34 attending the meeting.

LAY AWAY A GIFT A DAY

so bad she cried...

EVERY MONTH...the same old story... doubled up with cramps. Almost wishes she could die.

What a shame! Some one should tell her about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for monthly pains. It drives away cramps... headaches... backaches... keeps you on your feet four more active days. Buy a box of the new tablets at any drug store, and be prepared next month.

Lydia E. Pinkham's VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Ask yourself "Isn't it safer to use a fat that's digestible?"

Crisco is digestible— because it is not a "loaded" fat

You wouldn't buy a yard of wool if it was loaded (or filled up) with cheap shoddy—would you?

Remember, then, that Crisco, too, is not loaded. It is not just a "compound." Not one speck of indigestible fat has been added to Crisco. No tallow has been mixed into Crisco to "load" it and make it solid. So Crisco is digestible!

By Crisco's wonderful secret process, pure digestible oils are turned into creamy, digestible Crisco. That's why Crisco keeps so sweet and digestible to the very last spoonful in the Crisco can. Crisco can't turn rancid, streaky or greasy because it is pure— free from "loading." Crisco is not just a "lard compound."

Crisco never smells "off" or tastes strong after it's been in your warm kitchen a few days. Be safe—use Crisco, the shortening that keeps sweet and digestible at all times.

Spoon out creamy Crisco. Blend its digestible sweetness into your fluffy biscuits, velvety cakes and flaky pies. Your family will love them—and digest them easily!

RUSSIAN WRAP-AROUNDS

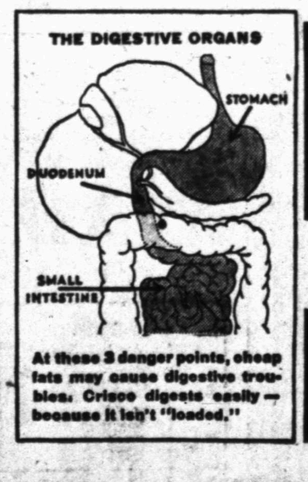

1 pound chopped steak — salt and pepper to taste
1 tablespoon minced onion — Crisco

Mix steak with onion and seasoning. Form into flat patties. Put enough Crisco into skillet to cover bottom liberally when melted. Brown meat on both sides. Save Crisco in pan for cream gravy.

BISCUIT DOUGH

2 cups flour — ½ teaspoon salt — ¾ cup milk (variable)
4 teaspoons baking powder — 4 tablespoons Crisco

Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt. Now cut in the shortening. For light, digestible biscuits use the digestible shortening—Crisco. Because Crisco is not a "loaded" fat, it makes foods taste better—digest more easily. Cut in the Crisco with a knife or rub in with the finger tips. Add milk gradually and mix to a soft dough. Roll out on a slightly floured board to ½ inch thickness. Cut into triangles or squares. Place cooked meat patties on dough triangles and fold over as for apple dumplings. Place in Criscoed pan and bake for 10 to 15 minutes at 450° F. (hot oven). To Crisco left in frying pan add 2 tablespoons flour. Stir until well blended. Then add about 1 cup milk; cook until slightly thick. Salt to taste. Add chopped parsley and pour over biscuits.

Why does CRISCO digest easily? It is not a "loaded" fat

FREE BRIDGE WORK SPEEDED

Concrete Pouring Due at Vernon-Elmer Span

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, Dec. 3.—With approximately 10 additional bents to be constructed at the site of the Vernon-Elmer Red river free bridge concrete pouring is expected to start next week, if weather conditions are favorable. The bridge site is 20 miles north of Vernon and the structure may be completed and opened to traffic early in the new year.

The bridge is an important link in the Canada-to-Gulf international highway listed as U. S. 283. It connects No. 23 of Texas with No. 24 of Oklahoma, leading north through Altus, Okla.

ACCIDENT VICTIM

Special to The Record News.

WELLINGTON, Texas, Dec. 3.—Hunter Sims who has been confined to his bed for the past 10 weeks following an accident which resulted in a broken hip and broken leg was taken to Dallas Tuesday for treatment in Baylor hospital. Sims was thrown from a cotton truck 10 weeks ago, a bale of cotton falling upon him which caused the fractures. He has been employed by a local hardware store for the past seven years.

Price War With Gotham's Huge Milk Bill as Prize Gets Warm

NEW YORK Dec. 3. (UP)—If New York were poured into a single container, it would make a reservoir 300 feet long, 200 feet wide and 22 feet deep.

If you dipped this out, one quart at a time, you would dip exactly 3,500,000 times.

But at 12, or 15, or 17 cents a quart, anybody can figure up that the daily milk bill for this metropolis reaches a minimum of $420,000 and for this trade amounting to $150,000,000, three large corporations are engaged today in a trade war.

The first skirmish came 10 days ago, when the board of health indicated its determination to stop traffic in loose milk—milk sold to cash and carry customers who take their own pitchers or cans to the store.

A warning that, for reasons of sanitation, sale of loose milk must be abandoned next year, sent the three companies which now do 90 per cent of the business, into a conflict that has forced the price of milk down two cents.

The Sheffield farms and Borden companies already have divided, fairly evenly, the business in bottled milk. The Dairy league, a marketing corporation formed of up-state farmers, thus far has controlled a large percentage of the loose milk trade.

The ban on loose milk caused the farmers' organization some cogitation. Its answer was that it would maintain its present price level, averaging nine cents a quart to the retailer, but exacting a deposit charge of three cents on each bottle. This meant a retail price of 14 or 15 cents, including the deposit.

A saving of two cents a quart means $70,000 a day for New York, or more than $25,000,000 a year. Housewives are wondering whether the "war" will continue after loose milk goes off the market.

Statisticians, however, are wondering how long the 89,000 farmers and 350,000 cows that furnish this astonishing amount of material are going to remain contented.

Texas Facts

By BILL EDWARDS

Texas industries expend annually for fuels for power and for electric energy $41,489,860, according to the 1930 census bureau figures.

HELPING BUILD TEXAS

Opening of the Texas potash fields, whose supply is sufficient for all the needs of the United States, is brought definitely nearer by the announcement that three methods of profitably extracting the pure chemical from polyalite, the form in which it exists in the Texas fields, have been worked out by chemists of the federal bureau of mines. Three-fourths of the potash used in the United States is imported from France and Germany. The polyhalite deposists are found in Ector, Crockett, Upton, Reagan, Glasscock Crane and Winkler counties.

Fourteen thousand and 78 men in Texas were given employment on construction of 242 miles of state highway construction for which contracts were let in October, according to reports to the president's organization on employment. The total value of the contracts was $1,448,110, showing that the volume of work is holding up well beyond the seasonal average with a decline during the last three months of the years.

Development of a rail-and-water freight rate between the citrus orchards of Texas and the consuming centers of the Atlantic seaboard is largely responsible for the fact that New York buyers have increased their purchases of Texas grapefruit 50 per cent in the past two years. Shipments for the first 10 months of 1931 were 6,107 carloads as compared with 4,186 in 1929, and the total for 1931 is expected to show an even greater discrepancy by reason of larger shipments of the 1931 crop now being marketed.

Fort Worth is to have a fireworks factory. Raymondville is to have a new creamery. Another company to quarry and sell Texas granite has been chartered at Llano. A Michigan ice cream company is removing its plant from Flint to Houston.

Interpreting Christmas

MOST youngsters believe that there is a benevolent old saint somewhere, far to the north, who locks up his toy factory on Christmas Eve and travels around the world with a bottomless pack of toys. Children's eyes hold a little of the glory of the Bethlehem star-shine as they hang up their stockings on the magic night. Maybe they are hungry. Cold, too, perhaps. And disappointed. But Santa Claus won't fail them, they tell themselves.

They remember that he has stood on the corner and asked them exactly what they wanted. He has pocketed their letters. They saw him do it. Secure in their dreams, they go to sleep.

But a great many children are going to have lumps in their throats when they waken on Christmas morning unless we get busy. They are going to be hurt and baffled when they find limp stockings where they had expected them to be so plump and gay and merry. They are going to bury their heads in the blankets to crush the sobs while they wonder why they were forgotten.

And ever after the tinsel gleam will mean nothing. A world in which Santa Claus will take all of his toys to somebody else can never be quite so lovely to a little boy or girl again.

It is up to us to see that no wistful youngsters wonder why Santa Claus crossed their addresses from his calling list. If we interpret the spirit of giving as we should, every stocking will be fat and every child's voice will be as lilting as a Christmas carol.

The large number of children who are dependent on our generosity for their faith in Christmas brings back the thought that this is a season of giving, not of exchanging. The wise men didn't give their gifts to each other. They brought them to one who couldn't repay them in like coin.

It takes such a little to make a child happy. A doll or a horn or spinning top and a candy cane for the top of the stocking. But he won't forget. After a while when he is older and understands that Santa Claus is only the spirit of Christmas, he will remember gratefully that life didn't fail him. He won't be afraid to trust it again.

In a few days the Salvation Army's Christmas kettles will be ringing on our streets. And the coins we drop in these kettles will ring again in the heart of some child or some one less fortunate than ourselves on Christmas day and the echo will reach the heart of the giver.

In some instances Santa Claus distributes his gifts from a Christmas tree. He will be at the Municipal Christmas tree sponsored by the Wichita Falls Ad club and made possible by the generosity of Wichita Falls citizens.

Through these or some other agency we can gladden the heart and sustain the faith of every child in Wichita Falls and attain for ourselves some small part of the glory of Santa Claus himself.

New York's Mayor in California

REGARDLESS of the resentment that many Californians feel against Mayor Walker of New York for coming to California to appeal for a pardon for Tom Mooney serving a term in a California penitentiary for participation in the San Francisco Preparedness day celebration more than a decade ago, no doubt the New York mayor has increased his prestige at home.

The resentful Californians feel that if Mayor Jimmy wants to champion the oppressed and the wronged he can find plenty of subjects much nearer home than all the way across the continent, and perhaps their resentment is the deeper because of their own doubts as to whether Mooney was actually guilty of the offense charged. Surely some doubt of this must have been raised in all these years of campaign for Mooney's pardon. People are likely to be more bitterly resentful against those who oppose them in something that pricks their conscience.

We read that a crowd gathered outside the courtroom in which Walker made his plea to Governor Rolph for the release of Mooney jeered and booed the governor and the mayor when they walked from the building. But inside the courtroom we read that many were moved to tears by the eloquence of the mayor's plea.

Mayor Walker appeared at the hearing as an attorney for Mooney, and so far as reported, there was nothing in his plea to indicate that he appeared as a representative of labor organizations in New York or as a representative of the people of New York as a whole. But in the eyes of the country Walker does appear as a champion of labor organizations and of the millions who do believe that a man innocent of the offense with which he was charged has been made a victim. That is a role which Mayor Walker has been delighted to play.

The opportunity to appear in behalf of Mooney must be counted as a great advantage for the New York mayor. It has given him an opportunity to make a trip across the continent; it has given him an opportunity to appear in his profession as an attorney; it must strengthen his prestige with the labor vote in his own city and state and to some extent it has diverted attention from his own laxness in his duties as mayor of New York.

Q.—Do all railroads use the same code of signals for train whistles?—P. S.

A.—The code is uniform. The most familiar signal is two blasts. If the train is standing, it means proceed; if the train is running, it means stop.

Q.—Is the sap of the maple tree flowing up or down when the tree is tapped?—J. C.

A.—The movement of sap is described generally as follows: It is the watery solution which circulates through the vascular tissue in woody plants. The ascending current consists of the water of imbibition in which are dissolved various salts obtained from the earth. This so-called crude sap passes through the xylem portion of the vascular bundles to the chlorophyll-containing tissues, the leaves in most plants, where the surplus water is transpired into newly formed carbohydrates and proteids through the phloem or sieve tissue to the parts of the plant which may require them, the descending current often being called elaborated sap. From this it will be seen that the sap taken in tapping a tree is the type of sap which has already formed the carbohydrates and proteids and is therefore largely from the descending or elaborated sap.

SYNOPSIS

Jan, the beautiful daughter of Stephen Ashe, well known criminal lawyer, had been taught to live her own life. She defied social conventions and was greatly criticized, yet every one admired her. Jan dearly loves her father and is heartbroken when his career is threatened by drink. At a boxing match, Jan meets Ace Wilfong, a gambler noted for his honesty. As a boy, Ace had sold flowers to Jan, and both carried the memory of one another through the years. That night, Ace sends orchids to Jan.

Ace's sister, Gwennie, disapproves of his interest in Jan. Metha Sutro, whose brother, Dwight, loves Jan, and Agatha Gracey, who would welcome a proposal from Dwight see Jan and Ace at a restaurant.

CHAPTER XX

"Who is the man with Jan Ashe." She was the kind of girl who always would ask about the man.

"I don't know," said Miss Suttro staring. "Isn't he grand looking? Makes me have thrills up and down my spine."

"U-mm," said the dark girl, who knew a great deal more about thrills than did Miss Sutro. "Yes—he's attractive. I wonder who he is."

Attractive men were rare. She was a girl who was greatful for her thrills, secret though they were. But she looked again at Jan Ashe, a little tired and pale under the shadowy brim of a gray hat, and became pitifully conscious of her own limitations.

"I don't think she's so marvelous looking," she said.

Metha Sutro fluttered a glance in Jan's direction. "No-o-o," she said, "but she doesn't have to be. She does and says just whatever she wants to. It's very fascinating. At school she never paid any attention to anybody. But she wouldn't lie. She told Miss Harvey once that any woman as ugly as she was couldn't possibly know enough about life to teach girls. She was kind to me and I know she didn't have any—respect for me. She thought I was stupid."

"What a good time she must have," said the dark girl suddenly, "doing just what she likes all the time. Seems to me I never do anything I want without lying and sneaking about it."

"Well," said Miss Sutro doubtfully, "Jan never sneaks. But people do say such things about her."

They did. They were saying them now. Men in the luncheon room at the Palace, crowded with its gay and fashionable throng, knew who Ace Wilfong was if well-bred debutantes did not. They told the ladies with whom they were lunching, and those ladies looked at the king of the gamblers and gasped.

"I wonder," they said, "at her father allowing it."

But the men shrugged. "Oh, Steve Ashe—he lets her do anything. Bad blood in the Ashes somewhere."

The music began to play. Now, as everyone knows, the jazz which has swept a nation originated in San Francisco. It was born upon the sunken dance floor of the Midway, in the black and tan hilarity of Purcells, amid the tortuous shadows of the Cave. And it knows its home town.

"Dance?" said Ace Wilfong.

Jan looking at him over a glass of ginger ale. Her eyes shone. "I can't dance in the daytime," she said, with that odd frankness of hers. "Always seems sort of indecent, dancing in the daytime. There are things, don't you think, that belong in the daytime—like riding and swimming and playing tennis; and then there are other things that belong to the night, like—dancing."

"But I should like so much to dance with you, Jan," said Ace Wilfong with his most engaging smile. "Couldn't you pretend it was night, so that I might dance with you?"

Soft, the music was. Drunken music. People get drunk on music like that. A melody made indecent promises to the throbbing demands of the rhythm.

They took the floor together. They danced divinely—there is no other word for the way they danced together. Other people watched them and felt clumsy. Ace Wilfong danced with just a touch more abandon, just a showy side-step or two more than the men with whom, according to all social codes, the daughter of the Ashes should have been dancing. But his serene face, his proud eyes flatly contradicted the evidence of his lithe, swift body. Jan's head was flung back, her shoulders were flung back, her eyes over his shoulder were absorbed in some mysterious contemplation. They did not seem conscious of each other, of the fact that they were so close in the dance, welded together by that soft music. Disdainfully, perfectly indifferently they danced on, the tal dark young man and the slim girl in a slip of a gray dress and a gray hat.

They did not speak for a long time after they returned to their table. A burning wall was between them. Casual words sizzled into nothing against it.

Jan Ashe's jaw stuck out a little. There was this between them, and yet he held himself back from her. She could not make him speak. She felt the words she wanted to hear, and yet he had not spoken them. Her mind was full of strange, sweet thoughts. Her heart hurt with a longing she had never known, and there were nails driven through the palms of her hands, burning her.

She said suddenly "I've got to go. I have to be in court at 2 o'clock."

The tiredness came back to her eyes. He spoke of it.

"Didn't sleep much," she said briefly. "Do you want to come along? Dad's trying a case in the federal court."

They went out, and he put her into the roadster as a man loads priceless treasure. Sitting low in the swift car, she swayed against him, tiredly, like a child. How could a man not feel tender toward so small a frail and tired thing? She liked the way he drove. She was very susceptible to the way men did things. A man had once lit a cigar and puffed it, in what he considered no mean fashoin, and that was the last time he had seen Jan Ashe; and another man had spoken to a waiter in a certain tone of voice which he had been brought up to believe was exactly the proper tone to use to waiters, and thus had forever deprived himself of the privilege of now and again buying Jan Ashe's dinner. She was particularly susceptible to the way men drove their automobiles. No debutante of the mode whose mother disapproved of the Ashe girl could have been so fastidious as Jan was. Nor could a man keep her waiting by so much as a fraction of a second, nor be careless of small courtesies; so that even those men who had perhaps least cause to respect Jan Ashe treated her like a royal princess.

But Ace Wilfong in the driving of his roadster had a reckless assurance, a daring skill that pleased her.

Court was already in session. There was not much of a crowd. The room was barely half full. Still, it was rather an important case. The young man, who was accused of draft evasion, was the only son of a very rich woman. They had at last brought him back from somewhere in South America, and he sat there with that supreme indifference to his fate that many men acquire in a courtroom. But it was not his fate that hung in the balance. It was more or less in the nature of a test case.

Also, Stephen Ashe was there, with Mac beside him. He was doz-

ANNUAL WICHITA POULTRY AND RABBIT SHOW OPENS FRIDAY

MANY ENTRIES IN EXHIBIT

Valley's Finest Birds And Rabbits Shown

The valley's finest poultry will compete for honors and valuable prizes in the annual show of the Wichita Valley Poultry association, which opens here for four days Friday morning. The progress of a second growing industry of this section, rabbit breeding, will be seen in the annual show of the North Texas Rabbit Breeders association, held jointly with the poultry exposition.

Both shows are scheduled to open at 10 a. m. Friday in the Barkley building, 606-10 Scott avenue.

Final preparations for the shows were being made Thursday night, and according to C. O. Smith, secretary of the poultry association, and R. S. Dougherty, secretary of the rabbit organization, every indication points to the most successful expositions thus far held.

Approximately 500 birds are expected to be on display with the opening of the poultry show Friday morning. Many more entries probably will be received before poultry entries close at 9 p. m. Friday, it was said. The time limit for poultry entries was extended to that hour in order to allow out-of-town breeders to participate.

As many as 100 breeders of poultry are expected to show birds, with 15 breeds on exhibition. Major classifications consist of chickens, turkeys and water fowls. Each major classification is divided into subclassifications.

In addition to cash prizes, for each classification, of $3, $2 and $1, for first, second and third places, respectively, and ribbons for fourth and fifth places, special prizes have been offered in certain events of the show. One such prize is a set of dishes.

A grand champion will be selected in a final sweepstake, held under the American Poultry association rules. Special ribbons will be awarded for grand champions in each class.

Many out-of-town people, in addition to Wichitans, are expected to show their fowls and rabbits and to view the numerous exhibits.

Once Hostile Indian Tribes Kneel Together in Thanks Rite

SAN XAVIER, DEL BAC, Ariz. Dec. 3. (AP)—Red men from three great Indian nations, Papago, Yaqui, and Apache, once bitter foes, knelt beneath the Moorish towers of this historic mission today and thanked the white man's god for the fall harvest.

Stalwart braves who last night whirled to the rhythm of tom-toms in honor of Itiol, or "Elder Brother," whom they believe created the world, with the aid of "Coyote," bowed their heads as Bishop Daniel J. Gercke celebrated the feast day of St. Francis of Xavier, their patron saint.

Old Papago chieftains, some of whom fought the Apache half a century ago; strong youths and gayly-garbed women trekked miles to his "snow white shell of the desert."

Tonight childlike legends connected with "elder brother's" life will be unfolded in a sequence of pagan dances and chants. A rambling story will be woven in pantomime.

The winter fiesta, held since the time immemorial, will end tomorrow as the sun streaks over the nearby peaks.

Election of Bankhead Questioned in Report

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. (US)—Southern election laws were sharply challenged today when a senate report was submitted questioning the election of John H. Bankhead, Democrat, of Alabama.

Drafted by Senator Hasting, Republican, of Delaware, it charged literally thousands of law violations in the contest between Bankhead and former Senator Tom Heflin.

Submitting his report to the senate privileges and elections committee, Hastings intimated that Bankhead should be disqualified and a new election held.

AGENTS DENY BRIBE STORY

Jury Convicts Kelly Hunt Of Perjury

house, got about $80 from the cash drawer and bedroom, and got from Lex McClelland $20 of money I'd just paid him for work. I gave Heaton that $100, and told him to come back that night for the fest. He came ou that night, and circled around by the house. I didn't have the other $400. Being determined to have that evidence, and not knowing just what he might do, I had my gun on. I stepped to the side of his car, he handed me one bottle from a brown paper sack, and said for me to taste it to see that it was my stuff. I did, and it was. He said he had the rest of it in that sack. I reached in, lifted the sack out and set it on the ground. I told him I didn't have the money, and told him to go. He started to get out. I pushed the door shut, so he couldn't open it, and told him to get going. I watched him until his car turned on into the highway."

With reference to the pictures, Hunt quoted Heaton as having explained that he could not get them, but that the defendant probably could obtain the films, or destruction of them, through W. R. King, local prohibition officer under whose supervision Heaton operated.

Hunt declared that he took the sack containing the four bottles in the house, emptied the contents into other containers, and then hid the empty bottles in a hole north of his house. On the following day, he said, he moved the bottles to a favorite hiding place further west, and left them there until early in September. At that time, he related, they were brought to the garage, wrapped in newspapers, and hidden under the garage floor. They were removed from that cache to be brought into the padlock hearing on Nov. 16, he testified.

Witness Supports Hunt's Story

The witness also repeated his declarations that he paid W. R. King $50 a month for at least six or eight months, besides providing hat officer with liquor on numerous occasions. Payments to King were discontinued, he said, when he (Hunt) began making repairs on his roadhouse, a process which required all his money. That was shortly before the raid on July 24, he testified. He charged King with having mentioned the need of money to pay "$100 rent" in a conversation alleged to have taken place in the basement of the courthouse.

Tex McClelland, who worked for Hunt during the summer and fall, and whose family lives in the Hunt house, testified that he was at the place when Heaton called several days after the raid occurred. Hunt paid McClelland about $21 for work that evening, the witness said. On the following day, the witness continued, Hunt showed him the bottles hidden in a hole north of the house. His testimony then corroborated Hunt's statements relative to the subsequent handling of the bottles.

The government rested at 4:20 o'clock Thursday, after having presented numerous witnesses in an effort to prove that Hunt had charged the prohibition officer falsely in statements made in the padlock hearing and subsequently before the grandjury.

D. B. King, one of the federal grand jury, told of the testimony given by Hunt before the inquisitors, the narrative being substantially that told by the defendant on the stand.

Agent Denies Charge

W. R. King, the prohibition agent charged with having been in the pay of Hunt for several months, emphatically denied in lengthy testimony that he ever had procured liquor or received money from the defendant. He told of having taken up his duties here in June of 1930 as "under cover" man, and of trying to buy liquor from Hunt to be used as evidence. He was unsuccessful in both efforts, he said. That was in June, 1930. When he took charge of the work early last summer, King narrated, he obtained the help of Heaton, and instructed that officer as to how he might proceed to obtain evidence against Hunt.

The witness flatly denied having talked with Hunt at the courthouse, except on two occasions before and two after the July raid. At those times, he said, he talked with Hunt in the office of J. T. Bentley, United States deputy marshal.

Heaton Playing Golf

Mr. Bentley was placed on the stand to testify that on about Aug. 29 he showed the accumulation of liquor-evidence to Sheriff Arch Holmes of Baylor county, and that the Hunt evidence was in the vault at that time. After the office and vault had been burglarized on Sept. 12 or 13, he declared, the liquor held as evidence against Hunt had disappeared.

In an effort to establish the fact of Heaton's presence in Dallas on Sept. 12 and 13, the state presented two employes of the Tennyson Park Golf club in East Dallas, employing a caddy on Sunday, Sept. 13, and playing 18 holes. Numerous other witnesses were used during the day to attest the same fact.

Prohibition officers and other government employes identified exhibits in the case, and George W. Parker, court clerk, told of having administered the oath to Hunt at the padlock hearing.

The court overruled a motion for change of venue entered at the outset of the trial by defense counsel.

Charges of receiving and concealing government evidence and records, and of having conspired to violate the national prohibition law are pending against Hunt. He has entered a plea of guilty to the possession and sale of whisky.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

Archer Makes Tax Report for Month

Special to The Record News.

ARCHER CITY, Texas, Dec. 3.—One hundred and ten Archer county taxpayers took advantage of the split tax law by paying before Dec. 1.

This is a very small per cent of the taxpayers of Archer county, and the amount paid by the 110 taxpayers was a very small per cent of the total taxes on the tax rolls of Archer county.

County Commissioner Chas. L. Abercrombie said this morning: "I do not approve of the split tax law for the reason that it is an inducement for the larger tax payer to hold back payments that heretofore he has made prior to Jan. 1, and thereby deprives the county and state of moneys that are badly needed at present, to take up scrip held by a vast number of the people in this county and many other counties of the state. You can verify this by making an examination of the tax payments made prior to Dec. 1."

Notice the figure in the foreground is causing a lot of trouble with the pepper, and in the background a sign on the building says "Mart" and on the door the word "In"—so of course the name of the man represented is "Pepper Martin," a young man who made a name for himself in the recent world series.

RECIPES

Sweet Pickle Salad

Dissolve one package lemon jell-o in one pint of boiling water; stir and set aside until it starts to set. Rinse molds in cold water. Add to the cold jelly mixture one small can of sliced pineapple cut thin, five or six sweet pickles chopped, one-fourth cupful pecans chopped and one small bottle of stuffed olives. (A part of the sliced olives may be used to garnish molds by placing on the bottom of mold after a little of the gelatin has been poured into it.) Pour into molds and chill. Serve on lettuce or watercress or endive with mayonnaise, 1000 isle mixed with whipped cream or French dressing.

Vanilla Wafer Lemon Pie

About 35 vanilla wafers, rolled to a fine meal.
Yolks of three eggs, beaten.
Juice of two lemons.
Grated lemon rind.
One can Eagle Brand condensed milk.
Whites three eggs.

Line a pie plate by pressing rolled vanilla wafers against the bottom and side; beat egg yolks; add lemon juice, grated rind and canned milk; beat well; pour on wafers. Make meringue as usual using the egg whites and place on pie; bake in a slow oven about 20 minutes.

Meringue

Beat chilled egg whites to a stiff, dry froth. Allow two tablespoonfuls sugar for each egg. Add sugar, one tablespoonful at a time, beating egg whites constantly until meringue is stiff, but glossy and creamy in consistency. Flavor, allowing one-fourth teaspoonful of vanilla to three egg whites. Arrange on pie or pudding and bake in a slow oven of 300 degrees F. for 15 minutes.

Chicken Creole Style

Three tablespoonfuls butter.
Two tablespoonfuls chopped green pepper.
One-half teaspoonful salt.
One-half cupful tomato pulp.
One teaspoonful lemon juice.
One tablespoonful chopped onion.
Three tablespoonfuls flour.
One cupful canned chicken broth.
One tablespoonful horseradish.
One and one-half cupfuls canned chicken meat.

Melt the fat in a frying pan, add chopped onion and green pepper, and saute until golden brown. Add salt and flour and stir until well blended. Add chicken broth and tomato pulp. Stir until the mixture reaches the boiling point, then add horseradish, lemon juice, and chicken. Keep hot in a double-boiler. Serve in bread cases. Serves six.

Bread Cases

Remove crusts from a loaf of sandwich bread. Cut loaf in slices about two and one-half inches thick. Remove bread from center of each slice, forming cup-like depressions. Spread with melted fat and brown under the broiler heat. Fill with chicken creole style.

Posy Salad

Orange sections.
Canned peach slices.
Lettuce.
Candied ginger, chopped.
Pimiento, chopped.
Green pepper, chopped.
Chopped dates.
Chopped salted peanuts.
Mayonnaise.
Whipped cream.

On individual salad plates arrange orange sections and canned peach slices in petal form on a bed of lettuce. Combine equal quantities of chopped dates and chopped salted peanuts. Moisten with mayonnaise, form into balls, and place one in the center of each posy. Chop finely the candied sugar and make a thin border around the date ball. Serve with mayonnaise, to which chopped pimiento and chopped green pepper have been added, and enough whipped cream folded in to make a thin dressing. In order to keep the effect of the flower arrangement it is better to serve the dressing separately.

Coffee Bavarian Cream

One and one-half tablespoonfuls gelatin.
One-half cupful cold water.
Two egg yolks.
Three-fourths cupful sugar.
One-half cupful strong coffee.
One cupful scalded milk.
One-eighth teaspoonful salt.
One teaspoonful vanilla.
Two egg whites.
One cupful cream, whipped.

Soak gelatin in cold water for five minutes. Add sugar, scalded milk and hot coffee to the well-beaten egg yolks. Return to double-boiler, add gelatin and salt, cook until thickened. Remove and cool. Fold in beaten egg whites, whipped cream and vanilla. Pour into a cold wet mold and chill. Serves six.

Game

At this time of the year a great many people are interested in the preparation, cooking and serving of game.

Game is the term applied to all wild animals taken in hunting, trapping, fowling and fishing. Pigeons and squabs are also included. Game is rich in phosphates and on account of the natural manner in which wild creatures feed and live and, also, from absence of fat, is more readily digested than most nitrogenous foods. Wild geese and ducks are an exception as they are ordinarily very fat. The flesh of most game is tender when it is properly prepared and hung.

Rabbits and squirrels are common game foods and can be cooked in many ways. Fricassee, stew, pie and roast are popular and easy to prepare.

When venison is properly cooked it is one of the most delicious of the wild meats and is tender and easily digested. Although newly killed deer has a sweet flavor, it is quite tough and must be allowed to hang in a very cold place for a week or two before cutting into joints and steaks. This process is known as ripening.

Venison killed in the autumn, when wild berries are plentiful, is of the best quality. Plenty of fat is an indication of good quality. Naturally it is a very solid meat with only a little fat. For this reason, it is improved if it is allowed to stand in a marinade of oil and vinegar for several hours or overnight before cooking. For the same reason small roasts of about four pounds are best. These roasts should be larded with tiny strips of fat salt pork, called lardoons. This is done by cutting the rind from a well-chilled piece of pork with a sharp knife and then slicing it a little less than one-fourth-inch thick. These slices are then cut into strips of the same width, having them about two and one-fourth inches long. Insert one end of a strip into a larding needle, hold the needle firmly and with the pointed end take up a stitch one-third of an inch deep and three-fourths wide. Draw the needle through, being careful to leave the lardoon in the meat; let the ends project equally.

Arrange the lardoons in parallel rows one inch apart, having the stitches in the alternative rows directly under each other. Lard the upper surface with the grain, never against it. Strips of salt pork may be placed over the meat if no larding needle is at hand, but the meat is more delicious if it is properly larded. Baste venison roasts often with the fat in the pan. The saddle is the most desirable cut for roasting.

Venison should be served rare enough for the juice to run from the meat. If the meat is cut, as directed about an hour will be required for roasting. Currant jelly is ordinarily served with venison as it goes particularly well with it. Other garnishes for roast saddle of venison are turnip cups, cooked and glazed and filled with peas mixed with Bernaise sauce; rice cups holding currant jelly; rings of tart apples, cooked in syrup or in currant jelly reduced with syrup and friend bananas. Currant jelly may be used for basting a roast or may be added to the gravy.

Baked Saddle of Venison

Wash the saddle carefully; see that no hairs are left dried on to the outside. Use a saddle of venison of about 10 pounds. Cut some salt pork in strips according to directions given above and lard the saddle with two rows on each side. In a large dripping pan cut two carrots, one onion and some salt pork in thin slices; add two bay leaves, two cloves, four kernels of all-spice, half a lemon, sliced and season with salt and pepper; place the saddle of venison in the pan, with a quart of good stock, boiling hot, and a small piece of butter, and let it boil about 15 minutes on top of the stove; then put it in a hot oven and bake, basting well every five minutes, until it is medium rare. Allow 20 minutes to the pound. (The blood should run when cut.) Serve with jelly or a wine sauce. If the venison is desired well done cook much longer and use a cream sauce with it, or stir cream into the venison gravy.

Venison should never be roasted unless it is very fat. The haunch may also be roasted. It should be cooked until it is well done.

In having the saddle prepared request the butcher to cut the ribs off pretty close, as the only part that is of much account is the tenderloin and thick meat that lies along the backbone up to the neck. The ribs which extend from this have very little meat on them. When neatly cut off they leave the saddle in a better shape and the ribs can be put into the stock pot.

Venison Cutlets

Clean and trim slices of venison cut from the loin. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, brush over with melted butter and roll in soft stale bread crums. Place in a broiler and boil five minutes or saute in butter. Serve with Bearnaise sauce.

One-half cupful butter
One tablespoonful lemon juice
Yolks of two eggs
One-fourth teaspoonful salt
Few grains cayenne
One teaspoonful fresh tarragonar
One teaspoonful chopped parsley.

Wash butter, divide in two pieces. Put one piece in a sauce pan with lemon juice and egg yolks; place saucepan in a larger one containing boiling water, and stir constantly with a wire whisk. Add second piece of butter, and, as it thickens, third piece. Remove from fire and add salt, cayenne, finely chopped tarragon and finely chopped parsley. If this mixture is left over the fire a moment too long it will separate. If a richer sauce is desired, add one-half teaspoonful hot water and one-half tablespoonful heavy cream.

Bearnaise Sauce No. 2

Beat the yolks of three eggs slightly, add three tablespoonfuls olive oil, two tablespoonfuls hot water, three-fourths tablespoonful tarragon vinegar, one-fourth teaspoonful salt, and a few grains cayenne. Cook over boiling water until the mixture thickens.

Game birds are cooked in a number of ways and while they are usually liked rare, care should be taken that they are not too rare. The smaller-sized ones are broiled, either whole or in halves, and served on buttered toast. The larger ones are roasted like young chickens and served in much the same way. Of course, any size can be disjointed or cut in halves and cooked en casserole.

The usual savory stuffing used for domestic fowls is not liked in game birds. An onion, apple, a few uncooked cranberries, celery or butter may be placed inside the bird before roasting to give flavor. This material is removed before serving.

Guinea hen, although not a game bird, has a "gamey" flavor and is roasted like pheasant. An onion, a few stalks of celery and two or three tablespoonfuls butter dropped inside either guinea fowl or pheasant before roasting gives a delicious flavor. This stuffing is not served with the bird.

The slightly fishy taste common to wild ducks can be overcome by rubbing them with a cut onion and stuffing with apples or onions before roasting. Neither the apples nor onions are to be served. Ducks may be parboiled with small peeeled carrots or onions in them. These materials absorb the unpleasant taste.

Wild rice is an excellent dish to serve with wild duck. Olives, plain or fancy, or stoned and stuffed, black currant jelly in rice or hominy croustades and sliced oranges are delicious accompaniments.

Roast Wild Duck

Dress and clean a wild duck and truss. Place on a rack in a dripping pan, sprinkle with salt and pepper, and cover the breast with thin slices of bacon. Bake 20 to 30 minutes in a very hot oven, basting every five minutes with fat in pan. Cut string and remove skewers. Serve with orange or olive sauce. If a stuffing to be eaten is desired, parboil the duck and cover pieces of dry bread with boiling water. As soon as the bread has absorbed the water, squeeze to remove as much as possible; season with salt, pepper, melted butter and finely chopped onion, or use the following stuffing:

RECIPES FOR COOKING GAME

Larding Adds Much to Taste of Venison

Peanut Stuffing

Three-fourths cupful cracker crumbs.
One-half cupful shelled and skinned roasted peanuts, finely chopped.
One-half cupful heavy cream.
Two tablespoonfuls butter.
Few drops onion juice.
Salt and pepper.
Cayenne.

Mix the ingredients in the order given and place in duck that have been parboiled.

Cider Sauce

Make like turkey gravy using half cider and half water for the liquid. Season as preferred, adding one or two grains of cayenne.

Stuffed Oranges

Boil seedless oranges whole until quite tender, then cool and halve. Scoop out some of the pulp and fill with a mixture of chopped nuts, crystallized ginger and candied cherries and, if necessary, enough sugar to sweeten. Place the orange halves in a shallow pan, pour over them a cupful of sirup made by boiling one cupful of sugar with three-quarters of a cupful of water 10 minutes. Glaze in a hot oven. Serve as garnish with a maraschino cherry on each.

Fried Hominy

Pack thick hominy mush in greased, one-pound baking powder boxes, or a small bread pan, cool and cover. Cut in thin slices and saute; cook slowly, if it is preferred crisp and dry. Where mushes are cooked to fry, use less water in steaming. If cups are desired for the currant jelly, shape cold mush in balls, roll in crumbs, then shape in form of nests. Dip in egg, again in crumbs, fry in deep fat, and drain. Put a cube of jelly in each. The yolks of two eggs may be added to the hot mush if desired.

Orange Sauce

One-half cupful butter.
One-half cupful flour.
One and one-third cupfuls brown stock.
One-half teaspoonful salt.
Few grains cayenne.
Juice of two oranges.
Rind of one orange grated or cut in fancy shapes.

Brown the butter, add flour, salt and cayenne; stir until well browned. Add stock gradually and just before serving orange juice and pieces of rind.

Olive Sauce

Remove the stones from 10 olives, cover the stoned olives with boiling water and cook for five minutes. Drain olives and add two cupfuls brown sauce made from the fat used in roasting the duck.

With game, the vegetables are usually prepared in an elaborate manner. The vegetable considered par excellence is celery, which may be served plain, stewed in cream sauce, braised with a brown sauce, or as a salad. Other vegetables are white potatoes in croquets, or balls, sweet potatoes, glazed, tomatoes, broiled, or in a salad, cauliflower au gratin, spinach a la creme, or peas. Olives and black currant jelly are passed with duck; currant jelly, with venison; and fried hominy, with grouse and duck.

Church Group Urges Financial Reforms

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 3. (AP)—Recommendations for workmen's compensation, health insurance, unemployment insurance and old age pensions were presented today to the annual meeting of the executive committee of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America.

The recommendations were contained in the report of the commission on the church and social service and will be considered later by the executive committee.

The commission deplores "the massing of wealth through stock speculation without regard to social consequences."

The commission also presented the statement of its committee on marriage and the home, expressing the majority and minority positions on birth control. This statement, the commission report says, was the subject of much controversy when it was released for publication in newspapers last March.

Woman Robbed After She Faints During Holdup

DEQUEEN, Ark., Dec. 3. (UP)—Two bandits escaped with $7,000 from the First National bank here today after locking Assistant Cashier Terry Hunsucker and A. O. Williams, a customer, into the vault.

A woman customer refused to enter the vault and fainted when one of the men pointed a gun at her. They took $150 from her purse.

The vault door failed to catch and Hunsucker and Williams sounded an alarm within a few minutes.

HORSE SENSE

Norris Ready to Vote on Dry Law but Calls It Waste of Time

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. (AP)—Readiness to vote on prohibition is coupled by Senator Norris with a feeling that it's "a waste of time to think this congress is going to repeal or modify" the law.

He expressed it that way today as chairman of the judiciary committee, which holds the key to prohibition legislation in the senate. Referring to opponents of the eighteenth amendment, the Nebraskan said:

"If they want a vote, all right. But let us not waste a lot of time. I am ready to vote in five minutes.

"I want something to take the place of the eighteenth amendment before I will vote to submit its repeal to the people. Nothing has been suggested. We woud just have chaos with repeal."

'Old Three Toes,' Sly Coon, at Last Is Dog's Victim

CHERRYVALE, Kan., Dec. 3. (AP)—"Old Three Toes," elusive raccoon of the Verdigris river and Big Hill creek, has been captured and Walter Johnson, manager of the Washington Senators, owes his captor $25.

Ed Ballew will receive the reward offered by the noted baseball player after Johnson's repeated failures to capture the cunning animal with the Johnson pack of hounds.

The honor of ending the six-year battle of wits between the 34-pound river-type raccoon and numerous packs of hounds and scores of hunters goes to Ballew's dog, Heinie.

"Old Three Toes" paraded all his strategy in his last effort at escape. There were circles and cutbacks to be unraveled, the crossing of Big Hill creek on a grapevine and a final leap of seven feet into his home tree to be overcome.

The animal, which had achieved a reputation throughout the countryside, apparently as a youngster had lost the great toe of his left hind foot in a trap, and thus acquired his name.

Farmers Near Ryan Sell $5,000 Worth of Turkeys

RYAN, Okla., Dec. 3.—Five thousand dollars worth of turkeys were bought of the farmers of Ryan vicinity this season, and many more are expected for Christmas market.

The Jefferson County Hatchery hatched this year 3,000 turkeys and 200,000 baby chicks. The poultry business is rapidly increasing in this territory which shows a turning away from the one crop way of living.

Jockey Drug Addict Sentenced to Hospital

CHICAGO, Dec. 3. (AP)—Quaking from the effects of narcotics, used for three years, Floyd Halbert, 28, a noted jockey, today was sentenced to 60 days in the Bridewell hospital.

Halbert said he had become addicted to narcotics while recovering from a fall from a horse three years ago and had spent $75,000 on drugs.

ANTI-TARIFF PLOT CHARGED

Smoot Says Demos Are Dodging Facts

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. (AP)—A Democratic "conspiracy to deceive the people as to the effects of the Smoot-Hawley tariff," was charged today by Senator Reed Smoot, one of its authors.

The chairman of the finance committee, in a lengthy statement, said Democratic leaders "refuse to face the facts" and instead "are trying to bolster up their arguments for an assault upon American protective duties in this critical period by hysterical appeals to prejudice and ignorance and by copious use of misleading data."

"Foreign importers are steadily encroaching upon the American market at a time when domestic industry is crippled and millions are unemployed," he said. "I defy any one to disprove that fact.

"But the Democratic leaders will not meet that issue. They prefer to keep their heads in the clouds of theory, disdaining to contemplate the actual conditions with which the American people are confronted."

The report was circulated at the capitol today that an effort would be made in the new congress for a horizontal cut in the tariff.

It appeared unlikely, however, that Republican independents would join any Democratic movement for tariff revision.

Young Convict Blames Aged Man for Crimes

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Dec. 3. (AP)—Michael Burke, 17-year-old life term convict in the Missouri penitentiary, testified in circuit court here today that Walter Powell, 62, was the guiding force in a career of crime that led Burke to prison.

Burke was brought here from Jefferson City two days ago as the state's key witness in the trial of Powell, charged with first degree murder of John Fisher, packing company mechanic, last winter.

Young Burke named several business he had planned to rob, he said, at Powell's instigation.

A Free Soul

By Adelia Rogers St. John

ing a little. He had dozed rather like that all the days of this trial.

Jan Ashe looked at Mac, and he raised his eyebrows in deprecatory fashion. She made a helpless, unconscious gesture with her hand, and Ace Wilfong took it very gently and held it between his own. He felt the flutter and beat of it as though he held her body in his arms. It comforted her, and she needed comfort.

To see her father sitting there like that, dozing in this half-filled courtroom. To see his black and silver head sunk forward in some deep defeat. To see the stern and contemptuous eyes with which the judge fixed him, a fat, wheezy judge whom Steve Ashe in his day had been wont to jest about. To see Mac and a half-baked student constituting Steve Ashe's retinue and following as best they could the day's unfoldment.

Jaw out, head up, she stared at the judge.

Patches of muggy sunshine, sickened unto death by its battle with the early fog. The judge's bench, hideously carved in bright yellow oak. Smells of leather and cheap varnish mingled with the smell of careless humanity, so that the scent of Ace Wilfong's shaving lotion and hair tonic, and the fragrance of violets that hung about Jan Ashe were the only hope of sweetness in a soggy world.

A young, thin assistant United States attorney was making the opening arguments for the prosecution with many unnecessary flourishes. For it looked as though Steve Ashe had lost a case at last.

A lost case. Everybody knew it. The bored bailiffs knew it, and the triumphant judge. Old-timers who sat about, and stray reporters who dashed in to keep an eye on things and dashed out to fields more fertile of sensation—they all knew it. The boy had better have taken his chances upon the battle-fields.

A lost case, and Stephen Ashe dozing in his chair, three days' growth of beard on his cheeks.

The young United States attorney finished. The law student tapped Stephen Ashe on the shoulder. Then he shook him. The untidy head came up, eyes blinking, eyebrows twisted in a distressed frown.

"Your argument," said the boy, nodding toward the jury.

Stephen Ashe got to his feet, swaying a little. He walked over to his place in front of the jury-box. As an old fire horse falls into a gallop, he took the old fighting pose, shoulders a little forward, one finger pointing. A breathless moment while he hesitated, groping. He began a rambling, none too definite, none too accurate summing-up of the evidence—a weak and inadequate effort.

And then suddenly his eyes lighted upon the flag.

MYSTERY

Actress Can't Explain How Her Shoulder Was Broken

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 3. (AP)—Ann Harding, film actress was confined to her hotel room here today with a dislocated shoulder but she doesn't know how it happened.

En route from California to Venice, Fla., to make exterior scenes of a picture in which she will appear, she was beset with pain on reaching Jacksonville last night so she left her train and summoned a physician.

Her secretary, Miss Maria Lombard, said the actress thought the pains came from neuritis until the doctor found the dislocation. Miss Harding could offer no explanation of how or when she was injured.

Cotton Oil Company To Fatten Herd

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Dec. 3.—In order to fatten 2,000 head of cattle recently purchased, the Frederick Cotton Oil mill has obtained a 120 acre tract by the Frisco right of way south of the Traders compress, and permanent stock pens and watering troughs are being constructed.

The cattle will be fattened on cotton seed meal and hulls, by-products of the mill, and housed in strongly re-enforced pens. Troughs connecting with the city water lines are of brick. The animals will arrive by freight.

About 80 men are furnished employment by the present construction, and probably 10 will be given permanent work at the pens. The Frisco Railway company is moving its pens and loading chutes to the site of the new yard, employing its own crew.

BRIDGE DUELS START MONDAY

Public Interest Mounts in Culbertson-Lenz Match

By H. ALLEN SMITH

NEW YORK, Dec. 3. (UP)—The forthcoming battle of the bidding systems, in which Ely Culbertson and Sidney S. Lenz, with their partners, will play 150 rubbers of contract bridge in an effort to determine which employs the better system, is threatening to develop into a Frankenstein.

Public interest in the match, which opens Monday, has reached such heights already that those in charge of arrangements are walked around in circles and talking to themselves.

One of the greatest problems they have had to face involved the press, which is displaying almost as much interest as if the contest were a six-week fight between Dempsey and Tunney, or a two-month football game between Notre Dame and U. S. C.

Special Wires Set Up

Special wires are being set up in the Hotel Chatham to take care of the thousands of words that will be written about the play. Arrangements already have been made for a 15-minute, nation-wide radio broadcast at the first session. And newsreel companies are clamoring for the right to record part of the play, which undoubtedly will be accorded them.

The very nature of the contest makes the staging of it a difficult matter. Both Culbertson and Lenz have objected to having a horde of reporters and cameramen in the room. So it has been arranged that only players and "staff members" shall be permitted in the playing room.

Culbertson, Mrs. Culbertson, Lenz and his partner, Oswald Jacoby, already have been signed up to write their own versions of the contest for news and feature syndicates. It is understood "ghost writers" will do this work for them and be permitted in the playing room.

The match is to be played in the drawing room of Culbertson's apartment. The table will be placed at one end of the room and the referees and a number of clerks will be grouped around the players. The clerks will record each bid and each play while the referees will keep a constant watch on the players to prevent cheating and to see that the rules are obeyed.

Matches will be held each Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evening, always beginning at 8 o'clock. The schedule for a session calls for eight rubbers, but no rubber will be started after 12:30 a. m., if the players are behind on rubbers, a special session will be called for the purpose of catching up.

Culbertson must have Mrs. Culbertson for his partner in 75 of the 150 rubbers, while Lenz must keep Jacoby across the table for that length of time. Later they may change partners if desired. It has been agreed that Culbertson, who has bet $5,000 against $1,000 that he will win, is to employ the approach-forcing system exclusively, while Lenz will use the official or 1-2-3 bidding system.

Referees to Shuffle

The cards must be shuffled by one of the referees at each deal and each player will have the right to re-shuffle them. The dealer will get the last shuffle.

The possibility of cheating is remote, one of the officials said today. Signalling between partners would be virtually impossible with three referees looking on. The only chance for cheating, it is said, lies in the making of agreements by partners before a match starts.

Culbertson, for example, uses a two forcing bid. He might agree with Mrs. Culbertson beforehand that, in a certain session, his bid of two would not carry its ordinary significance, but would mean something else. The same thing might hold true in Lenz's case. Lenz uses a three-forcing bid.

Culbertson and Lenz will be captains of their respective sides and will have the power to make decisions on all questions that may arise. In the matters of disagreement, however, the referees will hold the whip hand.

Farm Mechanics Class Draw Hall Students

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, Dec. 3.—A farm mechanics class is proving interesting as well as instructive to some 30 boys of the Lakeview school, according to B. F. Dearmore, superintendent of the Lakeview school and the instructor of the class. The class was first organized in September in 1930. A large number of the class are also members of the 4-H club of that community.

Among the many things done in the class, woodwork seems to be a specialty. Many useful articles have been made.

A complete set of carpenter tools is owned by the class. A farm level and a milk tester are also in their work room. A considerable amount of electrical equipment has been added recently.

*Pear Salad—Use canned halves of pears for this salad. Place a half (cut side up) in a bed of crisp lettuce. Fill the center (not quite full) with thick peanut butter dressing. Be sure and use the roasted nut butter, thinned with a little sweet cream. Place the other half of the pear over the half containing the dressing, cut side down, forming a whole pear. A clove may be used to represent the stem, and a further decorative effect may be given by adding a touch of red coloring with the fingertip to the outside of the top pear, blending it in well.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Inflammation of the Caecum

Question—Mr. Horace Y. writes: "I have been diagnosed as having inflammation of the caecum. I seem to be in good health except for burning pains in my intestines. My appetite is good and I have one movement daily. Have been on a high vitamin diet to correct this trouble. Please explain the cause and possible cure."

Answer—Inflammation of the caecum may have a number of possible causes; among them rough foods, excessive use of cathartics, infection from bacteria, excessive fermentation, prolapsus, etc. In any type of inflammation of the bowels I advise the use of a liquid diet until the inflammation subsides, as any rough food may cause additional inflammation. I do not believe that a high vitamin diet would have any particular on such trouble. I would suggest that you use a milk and orange juice diet alternately, using orange juice for about five days followed by milk for about a month, until the inflammation subsides.

Health Articles Obtainable

Question—G. L. O. writes: "My family and I have greatly enjoyed reading your newspaper articles. May I ask if you have published a book containing these articles and where I may obtain them."

Answer—My newspaper articles have not been published in book form. I have, however, made mimeographed copies of some 800 articles pertaining to various diseases and symptoms and covering all of the important disorders. Such articles may be obtained by writing to me in care of this newspaper and enclosing a two-cent stamp for each article you are interested in. Simply mention the name of the disorder about which you want information.

P.-T. A. at Petrolia Hears Yule Program

Special to The Record News.

PETROLIA, Texas, Dec. 3.—A Christmas program was given at the meeting of the parent-teacher association of Petrolia Tuesday. Forty-three members were present. Mrs. James E. Dokey, P.-T. A. president, presided during the business meeting and Supt. C. C. Bock offered prayer.

Mrs. James E. Dokey outlined some new work that was received with much enthusiasm by those present. It consisted of informing the members what was expected of them in order that the Petrolia P.-T. A. might be a standard and superior association. Mrs. Dokey announced that Mrs. V. C. Calvin had recently been appointed chairman of the health committee and that she would start her work in January. It was requested that all mothers say something about the hot lunches for their children to Mrs. V. C. Calvin at once. Mrs. James E. Dokey also gave a report of the county council, held at Linville. She extended the invitation and it was accepted for the next county council to be at Petrolia in February.

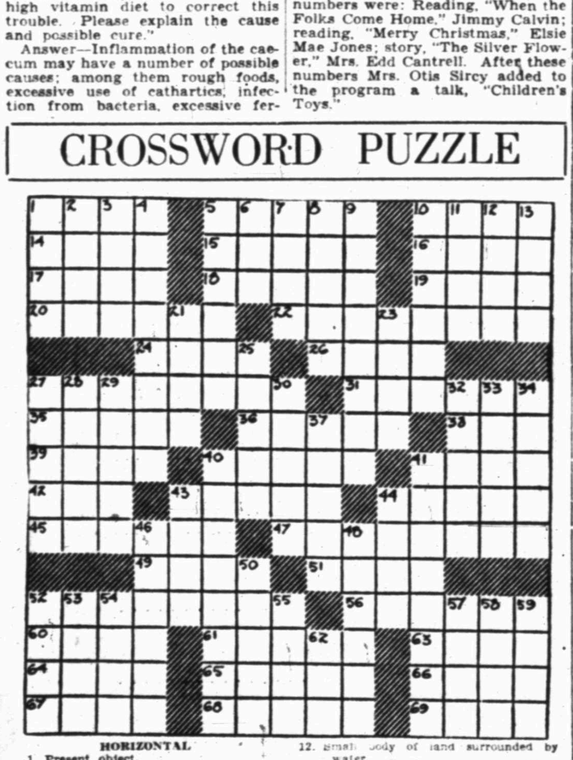

Reports were made by all chairmen of the standing committees.

The attendance banner was awarded to the first grade.

Mrs. D. P. Long, chairman of the program committee, took charge of the program and anonunced that one dollar would be given for the best essay in the high school on thrift, and one dollar for the best poster in the grammar grades on the same subject. All essays and posters must be ready by Dec. 23 and the prizes will be awarded Jan. 5.

The program was opened with "Joy to the World" and "Holy Night" by the Choral club. Other numbers were: Reading, "When the Folks Come Home," Jimmy Calvin; reading, "Merry Christmas," Elsie Mae Jones; story, "The Silver Flower," Mrs. Edd Cantrell. After these numbers Mrs. Otis Sircy added to the program a talk, "Children's Toys."

LUBBOCK WHIPS SANDIES, 7-0, TO WIN DISTRICT ONE CROWN

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED THOMPSON

Four powerful class B teams play today in the semifinals of the regional championship. Masonic Home of Fort Worth plays at Olney. Lamesa plays at Clarendon. Each is the champion of its district.

We predict victories for Olney and Clarendon. The scores? Well, I don't know about Clarendon and Lamesa. Clarendon might whitewash the Lamesans under a big score, for the reports from Clarendon show the Broncs to be a mighty strong outfit. We figure that any team able to beat Dalhart, which Clarendon did, is able to whip about anything else in its section.

Now as to the Masons and Olney. If Olney wins it will be by a six-point margin.

If the Cubs win 6 to 0 it will be one of the greatest achievements of the Olney High school team.

We predict an Olney victory because we have confidence that the Cubs are going in there fighting man for man like a bunch of wild bulls. If the Cubs do that, they have a chance. If they don't, they're going to get just about as bad a licking as any Cub team ever received.

As we have stated in this corner before, the Cubs are not going up against an ordinary class B team, but one of the best teams in any division in the state of Texas. The Masons have pestered their local class A teams in Fort Worth all year.

The Cubs are well coached. Albert Acker has hurled his Cubs at one title after another in the last four years, and they have come through for him each time, winning four district crowns and two regional titles.

But the Masons are well coached, too. The orphans are just as well coached as the Cubs. The Masons have the same smooth-working offensive and defensive team as the Cubs have. If anything, they are better. So the Olney Cubs, we figure, will enter the game as underdogs.

Can you remember the last time the Cubs entered a game as underdogs? Even against the mighty Crowell Wilcats the Cubs were slight favorites. It has been a long time since an Olney team entered a contest with the dope against them, but it certainly favors their enemies this time.

So the Cubs today will not only be fighting the Masons, but the dope as well. The prestige of Young county football is at stake, as well as the regional championship. In addition, the prestige of district No. 3, class B, is at stake. The district this year was stronger than in any previous year. It's champion must not falter. The Cubs must deliver the goods. Everybody in Young county, everybody in the district, is pulling for them.

We're for Quanah

Lubbock upset the dope yesterday, beating Amarillo to win the district one, class A championship, and the right to play our Quanah Indians in the bi-district game.

Like Olney, Quanah will enter its bi-district game as under-dogs, but we predict the Tribe will win. The Westerners have a mighty fine football team, a team able to whip an opponent to whom it lost a week previous by the lopsided score of 25 to 2. But they have played three gruelling games in a week while the Tribe has been recuperating from its district conquest. The Indians, in addition to being in better shape physically for their game with Lubbock Saturday, will have the advantage of playing on their home grounds.

But all of these considerations aside, we believe the Indians capable of whipping Lubbock if they arise to the occasion and make the most of it.

Mangum Junior Hi Team Wins Title

Special to The Record News.

MANGUM, Okla., Dec. 3.—The Mangum Junior high school here today kept clear its perfect football record and annexed the Oklahoma-Southwestern Junior high conference championship with a 7 to 0 win over the Hobart Junior high eleven.

Mangum assumed the championship and averted a tie game when, in the final quarter, Moss grabbed a pass from Witcher and after a 55-yard gain set the ball back of the Hobart goal line. Witcher drop-kicked for the extra point.

Moss threatened to score earlier in the game when he snagged a Hobart pass and raced 40 yards before he was downed. Subsequent line plays placed the ball on the one-foot stripe, where Hobart held the champions for downs.

Mrs. Fisk Winner Of Women's Golf Match

Mrs. R. R. Fisk won top honors in the regular weekly golf match of the Women's Golf association at the cuntry club yesterday. Thirteen members attended the meeting, including Mesdames Rhuel, Fisk, Abbott, Booth, White, Ledford, Keith, Jones, Baker, Myers, Rochon and Witcher. Mrs. White was hostess. Mrs. Witcher was named hostess for next week's meeting.

J. H. S. Bonner, president of the club, announced the family dinner scheduled for Saturday night, has been postponed until the following Saturday.

Juniors and Seniors at Burk to Meet on Grid

BURKBURNETT, Texas, Dec. 3.—The junior and senior classes of Burkburnett High school will meet in a football contest here Thursday, Dec. 10. The game resulted from a challenge made by the junior class early this week to the seniors, who accepted without hesitation. The battle is expected to equal any gridiron contest played here this year, as the majority of the football players on the high school team this fall were members of one of these classes.

STEADY DRIVE WINS CONTEST

Westerners Meet Quanah In Bi-District Saturday

Special to The Record News.

LUBBOCK, Texas, Dec. 3.—Taking the kickoff at the second half on the five-yard line, and returning it to the 26, the Lubbock High school Westerners, playing an inspired ball game, marched to Amarillo's goal line on six successive first downs to make the lone touchdown of the game here today when the Westerners defeated Amarillo, 7 to 0, for the district No. 1 championship.

Scoggin pushed the ball over on the fourth down, going about a yard. Little Briton, regular quarter who made some pretty runs with the ball, kicked the goal for the extra point.

Steady March Wins

There were no spectacular runs in the march for the touchdown, no long passes, just a steady drive barely making the downs, time after time.

The first half, that resulted in a scoreless tie, saw the ball go back and forth with neither team having much advantage, Amarillo making four first downs and gaining 68 yards as compared with two first downs made by Lubbock for a gain of 55 yards. Neither team penetrated the 20-yard line in the first half and at the end of the game, Amarillo had only one penetration, while Lubbock had but two, one of which resulted in a touchdown.

In the final quarter, Lubbock pushed the ball to the one-yard line, only to see Barnett, playing with an injured foot, fumble and lose the ball to the Sandies.

Sandie Star Stopped

Enochs, Amarillo threat, was constantly guarded and with the exception of a few runs of 10 yards and less, he was held by the powerful Westerners line, with Griggs, guard, Spears, tackle, and Watson, end, leading with the number of tackles made.

As usual, Merrill looked the best in the backfield, but Scoggin, who made the touchdown, Briton, who kicked the goal and made a number of good runs, carrying the ball for the first time, and Barnett, playing with an injured foot, deserve almost as much credit.

Captain Crawford at center was right in there, intercepting a pass that meant much for Lubbock, as was dimutive Blagg at the end, Williams, on tackle, and Welch, stellar guard. The game ended with Lubbock having 11 first downs to six for the visitors and with Lubbock clearly outplaying the Sandies in the last half.

10,000 See Game

Nearly 3,000 Amarillo fans came in cars and rode a special train to Lubbock and helped fill the Tech bleachers and stands to a record crowd of approximately 9,000 people while nearly a thousand watched outside the fence.

One of Amarillo's most serious threats was Bob Howse, back and safety man, who always returned the ball from 10 to 25 yards when given any chance at all, and who did a lot of gaining from scrimmage.

Lubbock played the entire game without a substitution, which is a testimonial to the fact that it was 11 men and not just one, who were functioning on every down. Amarillo made seven substitutions in an effort to get a combination in there that could outmatch the Westerners.

Lubbock wins a chance to meet Quanah Saturday for the bidistrict championship. The game will be played at Quanah.

Starting line-ups:

Amarillo—Lee, Floyd, ends; Roach, Kirby, tackles; Talbot, Howse, guards; Scarbrough, center; Cazzell, quarter; La Barge, Enochs, halves; Bassett, full.

Lubbock—Watson, Blagg, ends; Spears, Williams, tackles; Griggs, Welch, guards; Crawford, center; Briton, quarter; Merrill, Scoggins, halves; Barnett, full.

Substitutions—Amarillo: Foster for Talbert; Dunaway for Cazzell; Estes for Roach; Carter for Scarborough; Seward for Foster; Carroll for La Barge; Hardy for Floyd.

Lubbock, none.

Score by quarters:

Amarillo	0	0	0	0	0
Lubbock	0	0	0	7	7

Officials—Referee, Meyer (Texas Christian); umpire, Lipscomb (Centre); head linesman, Howell (Trinity); field judge, Sears (Kentucky Teachers).

Class B Champs Meet Bi-District Foes This Afternoon

OLNEY READY FOR MASONS

Lamesa Invades Home of Clarendon Broncs

Before the sun, if any, sets in the wane west sky this afternoon the identity of the two finalists in Region No. 1, class B, will be known.

For the semifinal rounds in the race for class B's highest honor will be unreeled today before throngs of fans at Olney and Clarendon.

Masonic Home of Fort Worth, powerful champions of district No. 4, will meet the Olney Cubs, defending regional champions, and monarchs of district No. 3, at Olney. The game will start promptly at 2:45 o'clock.

Lamesa at Clarendon

The Lamesa Golden Tornadoes, champions of district No. 2, will meet the Clarendon Broncs, champions of district No. 1 at Clarendon.

Winners of these bi-district games will clash during the week ending Dec. 12 for the regional title, which Olney has held for two successive years.

Muddy gridirons likely will await the warriors in both Olney and Clarendon. However, a kind sun beamed Thursday, promising fair weather and record attendances at the two crucial games tomorrow.

The games are to be played in such distant cities that each is holding the gridiron spotlight in its respective section. Ardent supporters of the Lamesa team will invade Clarendon in scores, reports state, as the game in that city ranks as the outstanding grid battle in the Panhandle.

Olney prepared Thursday to entertain hundreds of fans from this district, as well as a sizeable group of Masonic Home rooters from Fort Worth.

While the Lamesa-Clarendon game will be very much in the minds of Panhandle fans today, it will not, however, dampen an intense interest in the Olney-Masonic Home game, since the Olney team has gained much prominence in this section of the state in winning four district titles and two regional crowns. The interest is heightened by the fact that Olney is defending regional champions and by the fact that the Cubs have not lost a district or bi-district game since 1928, when Mineral Wells, now a class A team, trounced them in a bi-district encounter.

Since that time the Cubs have been all-powerful, under the guidance of their coach, Albert Acker. The team this year has run up 415 points to seven for the opposition in 11 games.

Masons Favored

Today, however, might mark a turning point in the brilliant history of the Cubs. The Masonic Home team this year has piled up 320 points against 32 for the opposition in 10 games, and in addition has made a great showing against strong class A teams in Fort Worth. The Masons defeated the North Side High school team early in the season, and tied the Central High school eleven, 13 to 13. The Central High gridders later won the championship of their class A district.

The Masonic Home offense is centered around their captain, Quarterback McFall, an agressive line plunger and fast broken field runner. The Masons slightly outweigh the Cubs, and have a slight edge in the dope. On the other hand, the Olney line has improved steadily of late, and Cub officials promise that Olney's forward wall will be playing a great game against the Masons today. The Cub backfield likewise has improved.

Plans were announced Thursday for a banquet for both teams after today's game. The banquet will be given by the Masonic lodge of Olney in the city hall building shortly after the game.

Plans for Shamrock Cage Tourney Complete

Special to The Record News.

SHAMROCK, Texas, Dec. 3.—Plans for the Shamrock rural basket ball tournament, to be held at the Shamrock High school record the week beginning Dec. 11 are nearing completion and the contest crowds are expected to attend.

Practically all rural schools in communities surrounding Shamrock have signified their intentions of entertaining the contest which is open to all unaffiliated schools. Eight worth while awards are to be presented to the winners by the Shamrock Athletic council who are sponsors of the event each year.

This meet will mark the opening of boys' basket ball season in Shamrock as the boys basket ball team has not been organized because of late grid season and the girls' team has already played a few pre-season games to get in trim for what promises to be an exceptionally hard season.

THEY'RE READY, BOYS

By JACK WILLIAMS

OLNEY, Texas, Dec. 3.—The Olney Cubs will be seeking their fourth straight ticket to the class B regional football championship when they meet the powerful Masons of Fort Worth here Friday.

On two previous occasions, 1929 and 1930, Acker's boys have entered the regional finals and won the highest honor offered class B schools. In 1928, Mineral Wells turned the Olney team back 26 to 14 in a bi-district game. Since that time Olney has not lost a game.

After the 13 to 6 victory over Slaton for regional honors last year, six regulars on the Cub line turned in their uniforms for the last time. Prospects for 1931 looked dark then for Cub fans. Co-captain O'Brien was the only regular returning for duty in the line. "We're lost," was the cry from every corner. When the 1931 edition of Acker's Cubs took the field in defense of their many honors, the backfield did about as expected. Little more could be asked for. But the line was inexperienced. They looked ragged. Slowly the worm began to turn. Coaches Acker and Hays worked long and diligently with the forwards. Finally they began to click. One by one strong teams were turned back without a score. The finest bit of all-round line play ever shown Cub coaches has kept the Olney goal line uncrossed and has cleared the way for a total score of 286 in seven league games.

The game Friday will be fought on the line. The Cub forward wall has been compared with others in these parts, but the seven white-shirted Cubs that turned back the Chillicothe Eagles Turkey day played almost perfectly and was unbeatable, and displayed a brand of play college coaches yearn for. It is this same line that is ready to stop Capt. Scott McCall and his able assistants Friday. From end to end the boys avow they can do it. Fans and coaches here believe they can, too. At ends Wright and Gilmore have not been outplayed this year. They are ready. The tackle posts are well cared for by Ellis and Sloan, two six-footers who like the going when it is rough. At guards Acker has Vaughn and Brown, both of whom are fast and alert. Blocking is their specialty. At center Acker has Co-captain O'Brien, the best defensive man on the squad. That is saying a lot. For reserves in the line Acker has Martens and Ture, guards; A. Pyeatt, tackle; Williams and Holt, ends; and Crawford, who can play any position on the line.

The backfield has two capable reserves in Perkins and Morris. The four Cubs who have piled up nearly 300 points in seven games need no further introduction. They say it was that fighting line that made it possible. They, too, believe the Masons will meet the best line they have seen this year. Fans who like to see football played with reckless abandon, yet with near perfect execution, will have plenty to talk about around the stove this winter after the game.

By SAM BRASWELL JR.

CLARENDON, Texas, Dec. 3.—The Clarendon High school Bronchos, champions of district one, have been corraled by Coaches Frank Stocking and John Hutton and on the eve of their bidistrict gridiron struggle are impatiently awaiting the invasion of the rampaging Golden Tornadoes from Lamesa Friday afternoon. The final workout Thursday afternoon consisted of light exercises and a final rehearsal of the many plays which make up the repertoire of the local offense. The Maroon and White outfit has been given orders to open up in the contest which will decide the supremacy of West Texas' class "B" football and the hundreds of fans are assured of a dazzling display of football never before seen on the local gridiron.

In the previous games Broncho opponents have only faced a brand of hard, straight football which has been effective enough to count for 172 points. However, the district one titalists have been playing under cover, and it has been decreed by local mentors that Lamesa will have the honor of being the first to attempt to solve a defense for the great variety of football which will be turned loose by the frolicking Horses in Friday's battle. Included in the menu for the Tornadoes will be tricky formations, shifts, forward, lateral, flat and combination passes, fakes, running and power plays.

Every member of the Maroon squad is in the peak of condition and will be ready to give the Lamesa visitors a real taste of district one football. The Bronos will be met by a team equally free from injuries and boasting an equally impressive season's record. Neither of these clubs have been scored on by class B opposition this season and each packs a powerful scoring punch of more than ordinary merit. While Lamesa depends upon the ability of Captain Treadway and Quarterback Marr for long gains on quick opening plays the Bronchos will feature their own speed merchants, Fred Reid, the lad who sprinted 77 yards against Dalhart for victory Thanksgiving, and Snooks Andis, who also has a number of sensational runs to his credit. Besides these fast lads the Maroon attack features two of the best line smashers in Texas in Captain Nichols, 185-pound charging full and Elery Watson, little but hard driving half. Lamesa's line plunger extraordinary is "Red" Moore, reputed to be a terror to opposing lines.

Every one is expecting a hard battle and despite the dope which points slightly in favor of the Dawson county lads, high hope is held for a Broncho victory which will send the Clarendon representatives into the regional playoff against the winner of the Olney-Masonic Home combat.

Ponies Work Out At Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 3. (AP)—Mixing play with work, 27 members of the Southern Methodist football squad made full use of their stopover here today en route to San Francisco where they play the St. Mary's gridsters Saturday.

Coach Ray Morrison took his team on a tour of Hollywood's studios this morning immediately after arrival and then put the squad through a snappy workout at the Olympic stadium in the afternoon.

Marion Hammon, star tackle, who suffered a broken ankle in the Navy game, was flying here from Dallas today. He expected to join the Mustangs before they left for San Francisco late tonight. Hammon will cheer the Mustangs in the contest with the Gaels.

Coach Morrison expressed belief his team would maintain its record of no defeats against St. Mary's and intimated if his team won, Southern Methodist would welcome a bid to the Rose tournament game at Pasadena New Year's day with the University of Southern California.

MINOR LEAGUES REORGANIZE

Committee Replaces Prexy In Future

By PAUL MICKELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

WEST BADEN, Ind., Dec. 3.—A new era dawned today in the world of minor league baseball. Determined to halt decline of interest in their smaller fields of the great national pastime, minor league club owners abolished the office of president of their parent governing body, the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, and voted to appoint a committee of five from among themselves to govern, control and guide the organization.

The action, by far the most drastic taken in the association's 30 years of existence, ended the 22-year-old reign of Mike Sexton, Rock Island, Ill., as president. Under the plan adopted unanimously the committee will take charge for one year during which time it will study every phase of minor league baseball. All other officers, including Secretary-Treasurer Henry Farrell, Auburn, N. Y., and the board of arbitration will continue their work until the committee makes its report at next year's meeting. At that time it will make recommendations and doubtless will suggest a director in chief as head of the organization.

The committee will paint a picture of what can be done in every way to make baseball more attractive and to get it solidly back on its feet, said Branch Rickey, head of the St. Louis Cardinals' farm system and sponsor of the drastic reorganization plan.

Sexton, one of the founders of the organization, joined in the spirit of the plan before its adoption and released all delegates who had pledged themselves to vote for his re-election. He was praised for his sportsmanship by the framers of the resolution under which he was retired with a full salary of $5,000 for one year.

The governing committee will be chosen immediately and will consist of three club owners from the three class AA leagues and two from leagues of lower classification.

The St. Louis Browns announced Garland Braxton, southpaw pitcher, had been sent to their Milwaukee farm in the American association.

The 1932 convention was given to Columbus, Ohio.

DALLAS STEERS BUY SHORTSTOP

WEST BADEN, Ind., Dec. 3. (AP)—Officials of the Dallas club of the Texas Baseball league announced they had purchased Lou Brower, shortstop, from Detroit of the American league, and Catcher Lena Styles from Cincinnati of the National circuit.

Burk All-Stars Play Munday Today

Special to The Record News.

BURKBURNETT, Texas, Dec. 3.—The all-star football team of Burkburnett will play the Munday all-star team Friday. As both teams have played several games already this fall, an interesting contest is predicted. The Burk all-stars lost a game last Sunday to the army team at Fort Sill.

Cougars Get Ready For Tulane Game

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 3. (AP)—The brawny men of Washington State who hope to smear Tulane's 1931 record of no defeats and no ties Saturday, put in a stiff workout in the Green Wave stadium this afternoon, showing little ill effects from a four-day train ride that brought them from sub-zero temperatures into almost mid-summer weather.

The squad of 36 huskies, accompanied by a full coaching and training staff, lost little time in going through kicking, passing and signal drill on a wet field, with fog hanging low. The workout was less strenuous than Head Coach O. E. Hollinbery had planned, and he ordered another for tomorrow.

T. I. A. A. TEAMS PLAY TODAY

A. & I. Barred for Use Of Freshman Players

ABILENE, Dec. 3. (AP)—Daniel Baker and Abilene Christian college football teams, meeting for the second time in 10 days, will fight it out here Saturday afternoon for the championship of the T. I. A. A., western division.

Arrangements for the game were completed this afternoon after D. A. Shirley of West Texas State Teachers college, conference president, had overruled a claim of A. C. C. officials to the undisputed championship.

President Shirley also announced the disqualification of Texas College of Arts and Industries, co-leader in the eastern half, for use of freshman players. This decision gave the eastern half title to the North Texas Teachers at Denton, who will oppose the winner of the Daniel Baker-Abilene Christian game, probably Thursday of next week.

Daniel Baker defeated A. C. C., 7 to 0, at Brownwood last week on a 90-yard return of an intercepted pass by Spec Smith, star halfback of the Billies.

Change in Kickoff To Be Recommended

NEW YORK, Dec. 3. (AP)—Tom Thorp, noted football offical, said today he and other eastern coaches and officials had decided, informally, to recommend a change in the present kickoff as a means of reducing the number of injuries and deaths attached to the game.

Instead of the present method, whereby the ball is held by another player at the kickoff Thorp said he and his associates favor a return to the old system of putting the ball on a high mound, added height and distance is obtained by the latter method.

"When the kickers use a mound, he gets a high, floating ball that enables his players to get down the field almost with it," Thorp explained. "The receiving team does not have time to form a flying wedge in front of the ball carrier and there is much less danger of injury. Many times the ball will carry over the goal line on the fly."

ABILENE PLAYS SWEETWATER

Bi-District Clash to Be Staged Today

ABILENE, Dec. 3. (AP)—Sweetwater and Abilene pit their high school elevens here Friday afternoon in the first round of class A state competition. Sweetwater represents the new district 4 while Abilene is the standard bearer of district 3, the old Oil Belt.

With stores closing in Sweetwater for the affair, that city is expected to send two or three thousand fans to the game. Part of them will come on a special train. A motorcade has been planned for the rest.

The high school classic of this section of West Texas has been heralded as the conflict of a great line against a great backfield. Led by Wilson Groseclose, 190-pound tackle, and Stanley Smith, 170-pound center, both all-state candidates, the Eagles lay claim to one of the best forward setups in the interscholastic league.

On the other hand, Sweetwater boasts a backfield second to none in high school circles, composed of Sammy Baugh, Ney Sheridan, Mike Hicks and Speegle Wood.

AUSTIN HIGH MEETS EL PASO

AUSTIN, Dec. 3. (AP)—The Austin High school Maroons, champions of district 12, will meet Austin High school of El Paso, champions of district 11 in a bi-district championship game here tomorrow. The Austin eleven, which has suffered from injuries through the season, was in good physical condition.

Rains of the past week ceased today but a slippery field was in prospect.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Dec. 3. (AP)—Trading in cotton was comparatively quiet today with correspondingly narrow fluctuations, but the undertone was generally steady.

January contracts sold up from 6.01 to 6.14 and closed at 6.13, with the general market closing steady at net advances of 5 to 8 points.

The opening was steady 1 to 3 points higher on some overnight buying orders which seemed to be partly for trade account.

There was very little southern selling and after these early offerings had been absorbed the market showed indications of an improved technical position. This was reflected by covering which was promoted by the development of a firmer tone in the stock market and the buying was a little more active in the late trading, when there appeared to be some demand from Wall street interests as well as covering and trade buying. December sold up to 6.07 and May to 6.49 and the close was within a point or two of the best for the day.

Three more of the private crop reports were issued. One of them placed the indicated yield at 17,265,000 bales and ginnings prior to Dec. 1 at 15,100,000 bales. Another made the crop indication 16,689,000 and the ginnings 15,130,000 bales while the third pointed to a crop of 16,825,000 running bales or 17,074,000 bales of 500 pounds gross. None of these figures appeared to have any particular effect on the market, which seemed to be waiting on the action of the stock market or for the further development of general business conditions.

Liverpool cables said there had been continental selling and liquidation in that market and reported yarn sales below production. Exports today 56,235 making 2,962,412 so far this season. Port receipts 36,281.

Futures closed steady, 5 to 8 higher. Spot steady; middling 6.20.

The market made new highs 13 to 14 points above the early lows, but lost 2 to 4 points at the end on realizing. The close was steady showing net gains for the day of 8 to 10 points.

Liverpool is due tomorrow 5 penny points up on New Orleans.

Liverpool cables came in 2 to 3 penny points worse than due and bar silver in London closed at 18¼d while sterling was firmer. Private cables reported continental selling and general liquidation on a recovery in sterling. Manchester cabled that yarn sales were below production.

March closed at 6.29, up 9 points net for the day and May at 6.48, up 10 points.

Stock Market Closes Higher On Buying for Short-Covering

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Dec. 3. (US)—The stock market closed higher today, but not until the railroad and industrial averages had reached new lows for the bear movement. Bond prices did not participate in the recovery, the average closing at a new low for the present downturn. The stock market seemed invigorated by a flood of stories which strangely in contrast to most recent rumors were almost exclusively optimistic in nature. Short-covering was indulged in on an extensive scale, and presumably contributed most to the day's net improvement. Such covering was especially evident among railroad stocks, and when this group showed resistance to offerings, the entire market displayed noticeable firming-up. Trading continued on the same scale as recently, just under two million shares.

This column's persistent declaration that the most important interests have been steadily reducing their short commitments was stubbornly accepted today as a fact. It has been evident for some time that the big, concentrated bear selling was over for the time being at least. The "public," made up of small-fry traders, has been encouraged by the steadily declining prices of late to increase their short positions. As a result, the short account in the market today is constituted almost entirely of such public commitments, accounts which usually are none too well protected and may be forced to cover on two or three successive days of strength.

The most persistent of today's stories was to the effect that some organization similar to the war finance corporation is to be organized to act as a revolving fund for the railroads. The funds available for such an enterprise were estimated all the way from $250,000,000 to two billion dollars. It is a fact, however, that the supposedly smartest people in Wall street expect some announcement from Washington along the lines of these rumors. The claim is made that conditions affecting the railroads have become so desperate that immediate and vast assistance must be forthcoming in order to stave off additional receiverships. Government assistance figures in all the railroad-credit stories of today, and it appears that the treasury will be called upon to lend substantial aid to the railroads in their present plight.

At least a contributing factor in the improved sentiment was the disclosure that the St. Louis-San Francisco has a few weeks more to go before becoming confronted with a serious financial problem. The street had already begun to talk receivership for the road. During the market, the gossip also was heard that the New York Central "would have something to say after the close." This referred to the application for permission to issue $100,000,000 bonds to be utilized as needed as collateral for bank loans and other short-term borrowing. It also was known that a large bank merger in New York would be very heartily welcomed because of persistent rumors.

All in all, the market displayed the most pleasing tone in weeks. While the principal basis for the betterment undoubtedly existed in short-covering, there was also some evidence of a decided change in attitude of important interests. It was rumored that some overhanging blocks of stock had been absorbed.

The real cue to the market must still come from the bond list. If the second-grade bonds are able to show improvement and maintain advances, that would be concrete proof of a fundamental improvement. Today, the bond list was a tragic affair because of additional large declines in individual issues. The German obligations sunk to new lows.

Yet, it was understood that for the first time in weeks various lower-type bonds were being quietly bought by banking institutions. The largest operators still incline toward a no-short selling policy.

Radio corporation omitted its class "B" preferred dividend but maintained payments on the "A." Wheat improved slightly.

DRY GOODS MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 3. (AP)—Cotton goods eased ⅛ of a cent in the print cloth division today on spot sales of 38½ inch 64x60s. Demand for winter merchandise was stimulated a little by cooler weather. Silk goods were quiet. Burlaps were easy, with trade light. Rayon yarns were in lighter demand pending the receipt of better cloth orders by mills.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 3. (AP)—Brisk upturns in wheat values today resulted largely from signs of a fadeout of Russia as a bogey threatening the success of market gains. Reports were current that Russia had bought two cargoes of Australian wheat in the English market, and was trying to cancel future delivery sales of Russian wheat both to Great Britain and Greece. For the first time this season, Russia's export clearances of wheat dropped under those of last year.

Wheat closed unsettled, ⅛@1¼c higher than yesterday's finish, corn unchanged to ¼c lower, oats ⅛@1¼c up, and provisions 2@7 cents down.

An outstanding bullish feature, however, was that Russia's total exports of wheat in the last week had dwindled to 989,000 bushels compared with 3,448,000 a year ago, and that Russia was actually an importer to a considerable extent, having bought about 500,000 bushels of Australian wheat to go to Valdivostok.

Heavy deliveries of December corn contracts took the edge off from demand in the corn market. Oats also were somewhat laggard, sympathizing with corn.

Provisions were responsible to a downward trend of the hog market.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—Dec. 53⅛c, bid; March 55c, bids; May 56½@⅝c, 60@60¼c; July 56⅛c, 59½@⅝c.

Corn—Dec. 35⅝c, 37⅝c; March 41⅛c, offers; May 41⅛c, 43@43⅛c, July 43⅛@45⅛c.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, Dec. 3. (US)—Although the price swings in wheat are nervous and erratic the market gives indication of settling into a trading range. This coupled with a steadier tone in exchange markets is taken as indication of a better foreign demand in the near future.

Speculative leadership is absent. While the market receives good support on the breaks and sentiment generally favors the constructive side of wheat for the long term the unfavorable financial news and depressing action of securities markets restrains extensive commitments and aggressive action on the bull side.

In corn the feeling is somewhat different. Although country offerings continue very light and the western sections of the belt report premiums being paid for corn there is little in the way of shipping demand to absorb the moderate arrivals, let alone make any impression on the fair terminal stocks here. Local industries continue to pursue a hand-to-mouth buying policy, cash traders say.

Broomhall says that conditions in Argentina remain unchanged with showers delaying threshing in some of the northern sections.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 3. (INS)—"There is no doubt that the next year looks like a Democratic year," Joseph T. Robinson, senior United States senator from Arkansas and Democratic nominee for vice president in 1928, declared here today.

"The Hoover administration has failed lamentably," Senator Robinson said, "and I think there is a general feeling that the Republicans have had their inning and haven't done much with it."

TEXAS TAX CUT PARLEY CALLED

Business Men Sponsor Dallas Conference

DALLAS, Dec. 3. (AP)—A group of Texas business men has invited business men from all parts of the state to meet here Dec. 10 to consider what could be done to bring about a tax reduction.

Opinions on the county and district highway bond situations will be encouraged. Sponsors of the issue suggested it might be good business to "create a bond issue large enough to reimburse the counties for the money they have spent on state and federal highways and also large enough to complete our state highway system without future aid from the counties."

Among those backing the meeting were A. R. Wilson, Waco; Ed. L. Kurth, Keltys; Van Zandt Jarvis, Fort Worth; T. M. Cullum, Dallas; J. K. Hughes, Mexia; Earnest Alexander, Fort Worth; Will B. Marsh, Dallas; J. W. Slaughter, Dallas; Tom Payner, Fort Worth; John J. Simmons, Dallas; Ben B. Stone, Fort Worth; Sam B. Baswell, Clarendon; R. A. Thompson, Dallas; T. E. Acker, Jacksonville, and W. G. Cullum, Dallas.

Settlement Nears In Radio Trust Suit

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. (AP)—Attorney General Mitchell said today progress was being made toward a partial settlement out of court of antitrust proceedings against the Radio Corporation of America and other radio companies.

Mitchell said, however, that complete settlement out of court was unlikely.

"I have information that we are making progress," he added. He said progress toward an open patent pool, one of the chief issues, was apparent.

The justice department is seeking to have all patents of RCA and about 10 other companies pooled and put under jurisdiction of an impartial board which would handle requests for use by independent concerns.

"I have never had in mind that we would be able to persuade the defendants to agree with us on all things," Mitchell said, "but we are hoping now to get an agreement on the patent pool and to arrive at a condition which a court can settle the matter."

BANDIT ROBS GAS STATION

Hijacker Gets $5 From Magnolia

A lone bandit held up the Magnolia filling station at Fourth and Burnett streets early Thursday night and escaped with about $5 in change.

The presence of mind of the attendant, Harmon Porter, resulted in the robber passing up a quantity of money in currency. Porter opened the change till for the hijacker, instead of showing him the currency, and told the man that was all the money at the station.

Porter told Tom Poe and Bob Miller, detectives who investigated, the man walked in the station and asked the road to Amarillo. As Porter finished outlining the route, it was said, the man drew a gun from his pocket, levelled it at the attendant and remarked, "You know what I want."

Porter was forced to open the cash drawer. The bandit, holding the gun on the attendant with his right hand, scooped up the small change with his left hand. The currency was contained in a second drawer below the change till.

Leaving the station, the bandit ran until he turned a corner on Fourth street.

47 LEADING OKLAHOMA CITIES NOW ENJOY GAS RATE OF 45 CENTS

CAPITAL PLANS OWN SYSTEM

Lone Star Only Major Firm Charging High Rate

was said, the city government will be deprived of the real attitude of Wichita Falls toward obtaining its own gas distribution system if, as seems probable, that procedure becomes necessary.

OKLAHOMA CITY STUDIES MUNICIPAL PLAN

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 3.—With gas rates in virtually all of the 47 state cities served by Oklahoma Natural Gas corporation cut from 57 to 45 cents since June, Oklahoma City, with a great gas supply at its door, still is seeking a price lower than the 45-cent figure set Oct. 1.

The fight for lower gas rates in Oklahoma has been a long one and largely has centered in Oklahoma City and on the Oklahoma Natural, although Governor Murray

LONE STAR REFUSES TO ANSWER SUBPOENA

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 3. (AP)—An order demanding that the Lone Star Gas company of Pittsburgh, Pa., which refused recently to answer subpoenas issued by the Oklahoma Corporation commission, produce records bearing on the Lone Star Gas company rate investigation in Oklahoma, was issued by the commission today.

The Lone Star corporation is a holding company for the Lone Star Gas company and the Community Natural Gas company, which serves 26 cities in Oklahoma. The corporation recently declined to answer a subpoena on the ground it is a foreign corporation not doing business in Oklahoma.

and the corporation commission, rate-fixing board, now are engaged in an attack on rates charged by Lone Star Gas company in 26 Oklahoma cities it serves. Top price charged by Lone Star is 75 cents a thousand.

Courts Stop Reduction

The state dropped out of the Oklahoma Natural fight, however, when the company posted the 45-cent rate after a two-year fight launched with discovery of the Oklahoma City oil and gas field in 1929.

The battle started with appointment of a civic committee of seven men here who made a study of existing rates and possibility of the city field as a gas source. The committee was divided in its report on advisability of Oklahoma City cutting loose from the Oklahoma Natural and seeking a municipal plant or interesting a new company if Oklahoma Natural rates, then 57 cents with a two-cent penalty for delayed payment, were not cut.

The fight dragged along without definite action until finally, in February, the corporation commission ordered the rate cut 10 cents a thousand feet pending a rate-fixing valuation it started on Oklahoma Natural properties. The company balked this move by federal court injunction.

Murray Leads Fight

Then, in June, 1930, came a voluntary reduction by the company to 50 cents after Governor Murray filed suit to escheat the company's property and oust it from the state. The new general cut to 45 cents came after the Oklahoma Natural had failed to gain renewal of one of its valuable franchise, in an election at Shawnee, and was ready to seek a new franchise in Oklahoma City on the 45-cent price. The price cuts brought dismissal of the state suit and abandonment of the appraisal.

During the hot campaign here the company claimed it needed a new franchise for financing and charged the city field supply not dependable enough for Oklahoma City's size. Opponents held a lower rate should be made for Oklahoma City, which much gas available at wells for five cents a thousand feet and charged that Oklahoma Natural would raise the 45-cent rate after obtaining a new 25-year franchise.

Franchise Defeated

The franchise was resoundingly defeated in voting Oct. 27, 13,259 to 8,932. The present franchise has three years before its expiration and the fight has quieted.

Proponents of cheaper gas, however, still are planning for still cheaper gas for Oklahoma City, some of them leaning toward establishment of a municipal plant and others to a new company.

Court Sets Aside Verdict for Woman

Holding that an award of damages may be revoked in cases where a trial court erred in not giving an instructed verdict, Judge W. W. Cook Thursday set aside a verdict of $13,000 damages in favor of Mrs. Pearl Tedford returned against the Wichita Falls Traction company several weeks ago, returning a judgment for no damages.

Judge Cook based his decision upon a recent ruling of the appeals court, and upon a new law providing for the setting aside of a verdict under the stated conditions.

The plaintiff brought her action as the result of a collision between an ambulance and a street car at the corner of Thirteenth and Hollidays streets in July, 1930. She was a passenger in the ambulance, en route to a hospital, and claimed to have been seriously injured.
