2nd satellite launched successfully

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — An Indonesian satellite spun out of Challenger's cargo bay today and its rocket engine fired successfully — avoiding the fate of Westar VI, whose rocket failed, leaving it alive and healthy in space but totally useless.

"We saw the beginning of the burn ... It looked good," crewman Robert Stewart reported. "It was rather bright at first."

The 7,300-pound satellite, Palapa B2, was streaking toward a stationary orbit 22,300 miles out.

That was good news to the astronauts, Mission Control, the Indonesians and the companies that hold the $100 million insurance on the satellite.

Westar VI failed Friday when its rocket shattered after the payload was ejected by Challenger's astronauts.

Commander Vance Brand and pilot Robert Gibson maneuvered Challenger to a safe eight miles away to avoid possible damage to the ship from the rocket firing. Crewman Bruce McCandless monitored the operation.

Palapa B2 will add to a network that serves the nation of 13,000 islands as well as the Philippines, Thailand, Malaysia, Singapore and Papua, New Guinea. The satellite's name means national unity.

Although the Westar failure remained a mystery, the Indonesian government gave the go-ahead for the spacemen to launch Palapa B2, after delaying the exercise, which had been set for Saturday.

Indonesia was counting on the overall success record of the rocket that is suspected of causing the loss on Friday. The rocket has logged 16 space firings, five on shuttle flights, without a miss.

The string was broken with Westar VI. There was evidence of at least a brief ignition. But rocket and satellite rose only a few miles, and the rocket separated and broke into one large and 11 smaller pieces.

The package was lost in space for several hours until Air Force radar detected a cluster of objects in orbit near Challenger on Saturday.

Show opens season

More than 150 Scurry County residents turned out Saturday afternoon at Ira for the county's first junior livestock show of the season.

Some 30 Ira FFA students paraded 100 animals in front of judge Ron Mayfield of Lamesa in the school's open air show barn.

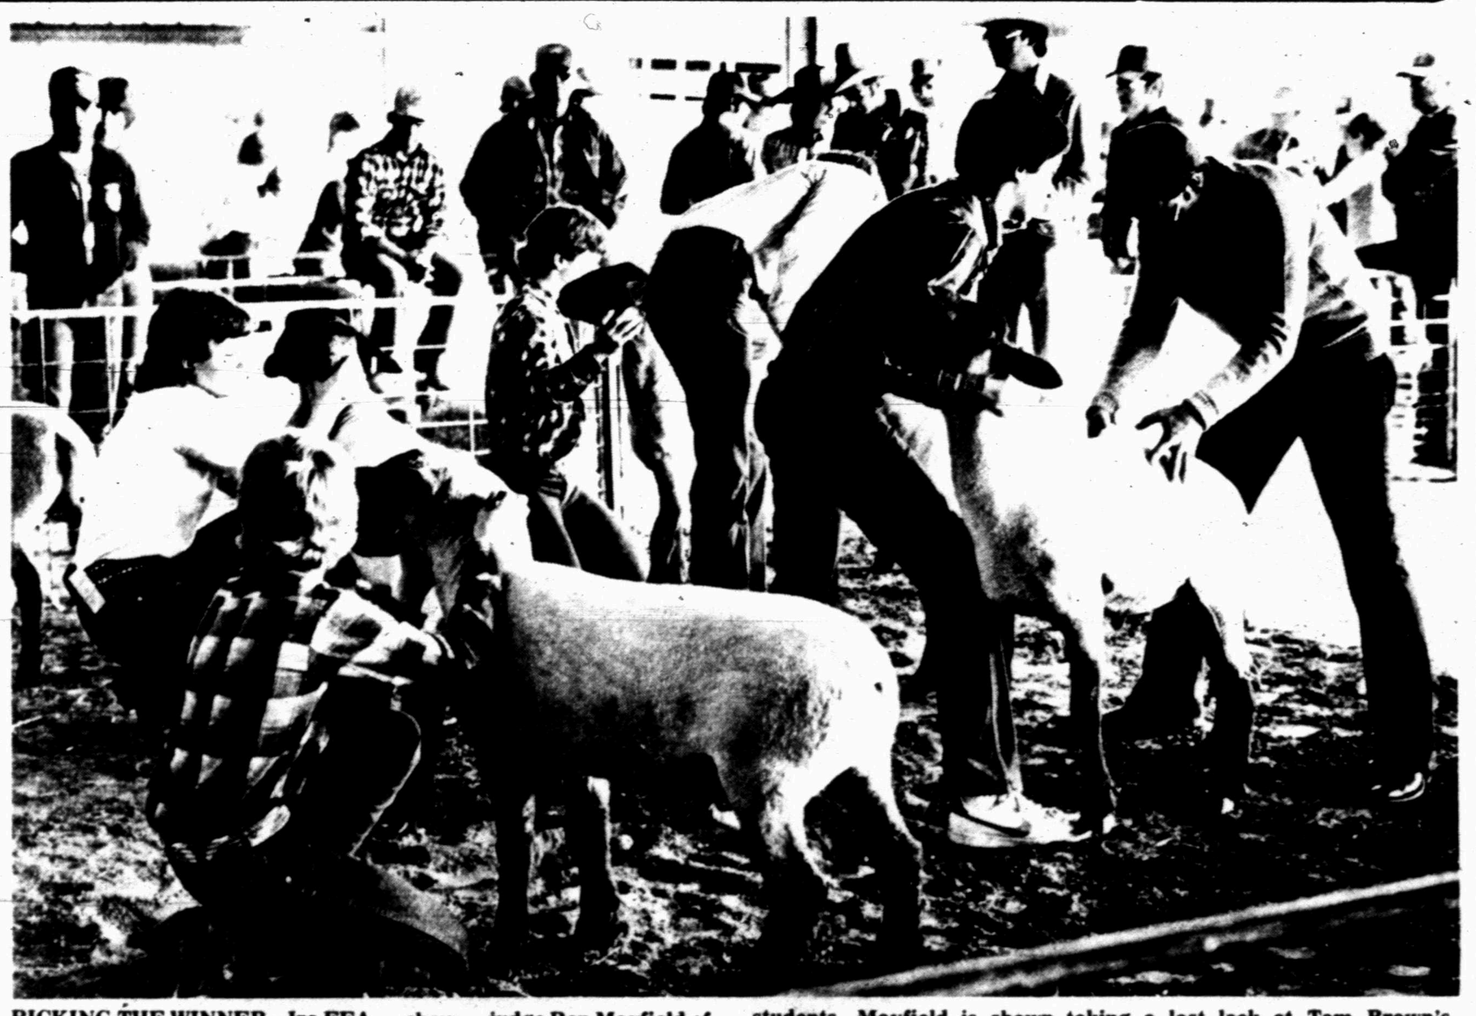

Mayfield worked more than 4½ hours before all of the entrants were assigned places in the competition. At show's end, he had high praise for the quality of entrants, saying it made this year's show difficult to judge.

The Ira school students exhibited four steers, 37 top grade lambs and 51 hogs before the afternoon ended and Mayfield named champions in each class.

Dirk Dunn and Pam Laster each showed two steers — one each in the lightweight and heavyweight classes — and Dunn won both classes. His heavyweight Chianina-Maine Anjou entry was named Grand Champion of the show while Laster's heavyweight entry took the Reserve Champion ribbon.

In the lamb competition, 15-year-old Tom Brown, already a veteran of the lamb showing circuit, took top honors for 1984 with his heavyweight medium wool entry which captured Grand Champion honors. Rodney White took home

Informants' loss hurts probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The loss of two key informants about Salvadoran "death squads" — one possibly murdered for what he knew — has undermined the U.S. Embassy's investigation of El Salvador's right-wing violence, administration officials say.

The officials, who spoke on condition they not be identified, said losing the sources — and not an intentional cover-up by the Reagan administration — explains the failure to act against Miami-based exiles linked to the killings or against rightist leader Roberto D'Aubuisson.

Last week, Robert E. White, former U.S. ambassador to El Salvador, accused the administration of concealing evidence implicating D'Aubuisson in the 1980 murder of that country's Roman Catholic archbishop. White also said the administration had done little with information on six wealthy Salvadorans in Miami who, he charged, direct death squad activity.

"For three years the Reagan administration has pretended it did not know that death squads and military butchery are intrinsic features of the government and military of El Salvador," said White, who was fired as ambassador by President Reagan in January 1981.

White was expected to expand on his accusations during testimony today before the House Foreign Affairs subcommittee on Latin America.

An administation official said the military officer who implicated D'Aubuisson in the assassination of Archbishop Oscar Arnulfo Romero was himself murdered in San Salvador about two years ago.

D'Aubuisson, an ex-military intelligence officer, has denied involvement in the still-unsolved assassination of Romero, who was considered by Salvadoran rightists to be sympathetic to the left.

The skimpiness of U.S. evidence about the rightist death squads in El Salvador has long been criticized by Congress.

Due at museum...

Foreign fare from AFS

Native dishes representing several countries from which foreign exchange students have come to Snyder will be served at an International Tasting Tea now scheduled Feb. 24 — a Friday — in the Scurry County Museum.

The tea will begin at 7 p.m. and is planned in conjunction with the American Field Service exhibit currently being featured in the facility. Tickets are $4 each and are to be purchased in the museum through Feb. 20.

Foods served at the tasting tea will be identified according to the country of origin. The food will be prepared by volunteers from the local American Field Service chapter and by members of the museum staff. A brief program provided by AFS members is to be presented also.

The AFS exhibit is to remain in the museum through March 11.

Countries represented in the display and persons who have loaned items include George and Shirley Stewart, Norway; Mr. and Mrs. Thayne Mebane, Chile; Mr. and Mrs. Marlin Terrell, Norway; Mark Musselman, Brazil; Dorothy Wolfe, Brazil; Eloise Morgan, Peru; Helen Martin, Sweden and the Phillippines; Claude McCormick Jr., Austria, Brazil, Columbia, Thailand and Equador.

In addition, Pat Dennis, Costa Rica; Mrs. Gloria Ziske, Canada; Marshall Parham, Indonesia; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Carter, Brazil and Switzerland; Leon Autry, Brazil; D.V. Merritt Jr., Belgium; Juanita Raborn, Thailand; and Gary and Kathy Roberts, France.

Council ballot will be called

Monday night, city council members will officially call for the April election which will decide four council seats here.

The election is among agenda items to be considered Monday during the February session of the Snyder city council. The meeting will begin at 6:30 p.m. at city hall.

Board members with expiring terms include Mayor Rod Waller and Councilmen Ed Thrift, place 2; Don Gressett, place 4; and Don Osborn, place 6.

Election judge for the ballot will be named also.

In other city business, council members will:

—Meet with Snyder man Henry Tolleson to discuss questions raised by him regarding the amount of a recent water bill.

—Consider the 1982-83 outside audit, which was recently completed by the Snyder accounting firm of Anderson, Anderson and Vestal.

—Consider seeking bids for fencing along the Houston Parkway right of way extension.

—Consider on first

Second report has city sales tax at minus again

City sales tax generated during this past Christmas buying season in Snyder apparently was less than that reported from holiday transactions one year ago.

This was the indication following the latest release of sales tax figures by State Comptroller Bob Bullock's office.

The local figures — which reflect sales made during the final Christmas quarter of 1983 — equaled a return of some $105,000. For the same period last year, the return equaled almost $144,000 in Snyder.

The second reporting period for 1984 brought the sales tax payments to date to more than $148,000 as compared to $175,000 one year ago. This approximate $26,000 deficit indicates that sales in the city were down some 15.1 percent.

For figures reported across the state, the sales tax information indicates Texas returns are up overall by some 2.5 percent.

However, comparisons are not totally accurate due to changes in reporting requirements that converted 15,000 small and medium-sized taxpayers from quarterly to monthly payment schedules.

What were quarterly payments last year are now spread over three months, a change that should show higher numbers for the middle of the quarter months.

The latests sales tax figures for surrounding communities were much the same as Snyder's. Abilene showed a fraction of an increase in sales tax returns, but all others were in the minus category.

The following is a sampling of this recent sales tax information:

—Lubbock: a minus 3 percent return. Year to date figures equal $2,322,519 compared to $2,399,616 last year.

—Abilene: a plus 0.25 percent return. Year to date figures equal $1,565,919 compared to $1,562,018 last year.

—Big Spring: a minus 13 percent return. Year to date figures equal $272,516 compared to $314,101 last year.

—Snyder: a minus 15 percent return. Year to date figures equal $148,653 compared to $175,117 last year.

—Sweetwater: a minus 8 percent return. Year to date figures equal $124,187 compared to $135,788 last year.

—Colorado City: a minus 5 percent return. Year to date figures equal $44,490 compared to $47,241 last year.

Ask Us

Q. — Was North Park the name originally given this facility or has it become known as North Park due to its location?

A. — The park was originally named North Park by the Scurry County commissioners court. When park land has been donated in Snyder, the facility has traditionally been named after its donor. The land for North Park was purchased by the county, however.

In Brief

2 more Marines wounded

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Moslem militiamen poured through the heart of Beirut today in running battles with the Lebanese army, and the government appeared to have lost control of much of the city's western half.

Two U.S. Marines guarding the American and British embassies were wounded in a brief firefight, witnesses reported.

Gunfire rang out at the U.S. and British embassies on west Beirut's seafront boulevard, and two wounded U.S. Marines were seen being put in a station wagon by other Marines, said witnesses in an adjacent apartment building. One could walk, but the other was on a stretcher, his head bandaged, they said.

There was no confirmation of the report from Marine spokesmen, since telephone communication was disrupted.

Andropov had transplant

COLOGNE, West Germany (AP) — Soviet President Yuri V. Andropov is recovering from a kidney transplant operation and has been working "more than two days a week," a West German expert on the Kremlin said today.

Eberhard Schneider said a "well-informed" Soviet source recently told him that Andropov's condition has improved and that the Soviet leader was expected to give a speech in public sometime before the elections to the Supreme Soviet on March 4.

"I assume, with great probability he will appear publicly before then, although one cannot predict how sickness will run its course," Schneider told The Associated Press in a telephone interview.

Reagan to observe birthday

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, who left his hometown of Dixon, Ill., a half century ago to pursue his ambitions, is returning to celebrate his 73rd birthday with a tour of his boyhood home, a parade and a cake without candles.

It was Reagan's first trip back as president, but at least his second as a presidential candidate. Despite the campaign-style undertones of today's nostalgic journey, it was being paid for by taxpayers because it was not considered an overtly political event.

Car rollover here Sunday

A Lamesa woman was treated and released from Cogdell Memorial Hospital following a one-vehicle accident 11 miles west of Snyder on U.S. Highway 180 around 4:30 a.m. Sunday.

According to Department of Public Safety accident reports, Brenda Redman was driving west on the highway in a 1973 Volkswagen when she apparently lost control of the car. Accident investigators report the car rolled three times after leaving the roadway and came to rest in a field north of the highway.

Redman sustained what were termed minor injuries including bruises and lacerations. A passenger in the car, Reuben Gutierrez, also of Lamesa, was not injured in the mishap.

Vandalism at East noted

School employees reporting for work at East Elementary Monday morning discovered that vandals had poured furniture oil in the school hallway.

The incident of criminal mischief was reported at 3:45 a.m. Monday.

Police reports indicate the school building was apparently entered sometime between 5:30 p.m. Friday and the time of discovery. A damage estimate of $100 was noted.

Satellite mishap is not NASA's fault

Paul Harvey

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — If you order an electric widget from a mail-order house and it explodes the first time you plug it in, do you blame the postman who delivered it?

Probably not. And that's the position NASA is taking on the Westar satellite that failed to go into the correct orbit after being launched by the space shuttle Challenger and has been described as a "total loss."

"Our responsibility ends once we have deployed the satellite," said flight director Randy Stone. A whole chorus of other National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials has joined in the chant to make sure the world knows that the space agency just delivers satellites — it doesn't guarantee that they'll work. That's up to the customer.

"We're just a trucking firm," said a NASA spokesman. "We just take something from here and deliver it there. If the customer has ordered a faulty product, that's his problem."

And for Western Union, owner of Westar VI, it is a big problem, indeed. It's also a problem for Hughes Aircraft, manufacturer of the communications satellite.

Westar left Challenger precisely as planned, at the scheduled time and place, on Friday. A turntable started the 7,300-pound satellite spinning at 50 revolutions a minute in the shuttle cargo bay. Then, forced by four powerful springs, it rose majestically from its nest and moved smoothly away into the blackness of space. That ended the $10 million job NASA had a agreed to do.

After that, an automatic sequencer on the Westar was to ignite a solid-rocket engine called the Payload Assist Module. The thrust was to send the satellite to a higher orbit. Later, a second rocket engine was to push the craft to a 22,300-mile orbit in sync with Earth's.

But something went wrong on the first rocket firing, the satellite did not respond to ground signals and appeared to be lost. On Sunday Westar VI was found — but in the wrong orbit.

A ground station succeeded in changing the satellite's attitude so that its batteries could be charged by the sun's energy, said Bill Ziegler, a spokesman for Western Union.

"As far as we know, we have a spacecraft (satellite) that's on the wrong orbit that's completely healthy," he said.

However, with no hope of raising the satellite to its planned orbit, Ziegler said, "I think it's a total loss."

Western Union invested $75 million in the Westar, and a loss would be covered by Western Union's $100 million insurance policy, which cost $6 million in premiums, company officials said. However, the real financial drain would come from the loss of revenue the satellite would have brought while in operation.

Hughes Aircraft is anxious to find the cause of Westar's failure because the company has sold the same type of satellite to a number of other customers. Four such satellites have been successfully launched on earlier shuttle missions.

Despite the problem, NASA's Mission Control assured the astronauts, "We want to congratulate you on a fantastic launch (of the satellite). You did a great job."

Some viewed the statement as an effort to assure the astronauts that Westar's failure was not their fault. The astronauts and Challenger delivered as promised, says NASA — it was the customer's machine that failed.

We are seeing an increasing number of ads in magazines offering Asian women as brides for American men.

Mail order marriages are not new. During American's frontier days, before the Civil War, settlers in remote outposts chose brides sight-unseen from professional marriage brokers.

The practice waned in popularity after that — until the women's liberation movement of the 1960s.

Suddenly there were a dozen different services offering long-distance courtship.

Today there are fifty rival services.

With all of the beautiful young women in the United States, why would any man look elsewhere for a bride?

The Wall Street Journal asked around and found "an increasing number of American men feel that American women are too competitive and are not likely to fulfill the role of wife and mother."

A high prcentage of the men who seek Asian brides are middle-aged or older, disillusioned and divorced.

A few younger men confess feeling ill-at-ease with assertive western women.

The one place in the world where subservient women are available is the Philippines. The catalogues of available Asian women list mostly Filipino girls and women, ages 15 to 60.

The Journal finds statistics inconclusive. While the number of visas issued to Asians coming to the United States has multiplied in recent years, there is no accurate count of how many are responding to a mail-order courtship.

K-1 visas specifically require marriage to an American within 90 days. Last year 3,428 of those were issued, a hundred times more than ten years ago.

Subscribers to one of these matchmaking services may pay as little as $5 for a single referral to as much as $360. The latter contract gets the client's name and likeness listed in Asian newspapers and brings him names and snapshots of women from all over Asia.

Some of the catalogues are cheaply produced, tawdry, containing thinly-veiled enticement.

Quote: "My name mean yellow fruit which taste very sweet."

There's no way to backtrack on how many unions are exploitative.

The Journal found one Filipino professional woman arrived in the United States to discover her husband-to-be was a California podiatrist, already married and planning to keep her as a mistress.

A retired patent attorney from Virginia explained his interest: "American women put themsleves on a pedestal, are neglecting us men. It's the same thing as when Detroit keeps turning out bad products; you turn to the Japanese."

End quote.

When suits don't behave

Oswald: "Let's talk about problems with the trump suit — when and when not to pull the enemies' trumps."

Jim: "Here is a good sample hand. South is in five spades, and a look at dummy shows that he ought to be in six. Instead of commenting on that, South saw that a 5-0 break in either black suit would beat him. South couldn't guard against a 5-0 trump break, since the defense had led two rounds of hearts and South had to trump the second one."

Oswald: "Most players would simply draw trumps, but South saw a safety play. He led a trump to dummy's king and continued with a club from dummy. East discarded, and South was sure glad he hadn't bid six."

Jim: "South's next play was to lead the king of clubs. East could do nothing better than to ruff and lead a third heart, but South was now in control. He ruffed, ruffed a low club with dummy's jack of trumps, drew trumps and claimed."

Oswald: "Before umpteen readers write in, let me point out that a club lead by West would beat the contract if, after ruffing, East underleads his ace of hearts. Farfetched, but not too unreasonable."

Children Rarely Lie About Sexual Abuse

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1984 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: The recent ABC television special, "Something About Amelia," caused hundreds of people to come forward and admit that they are—or had been—victims of child sexual abuse.

I am enclosing a column you wrote several years ago. I think it should be printed on the front page of every newspaper in the country.

Please run it again. The message it contains cannot be repeated often enough.

SACRAMENTO SOCIAL WORKER

DEAR SOCIAL WORKER: The column you sent was published in July 1982. Many other professionals dedicated to halting child abuse requested permission to reprint it. And here it is:

DEAR ABBY: I am a psychiatrist who works closely with a child development specialist. As an example of the power for good that your column has, we want to share this story:

Two years ago, a teacher in a nearby town gave her class an assignment to bring in a news item for class discussion. Expecting current events and human interest stories, the teacher was surprised when a quiet 12-year-old approached her desk with a clipping from your column about a girl who was being sexually abused (raped), and said, "This is happening to me."

The teacher and the school's guidance person obtained our help in providing supportive counseling during the difficult process in which the child was placed in foster care because her mother "stood by" her husband (the child's stepfather) and called her daughter a "lying bitch."

You have many young readers. We urge you to encourage children to seek help from their school guidance people, doctors or community health center if they are being involved sexually by adults. You may use our names or sign us ...

CONCERNED PROFESSIONALS

DEAR CONCERNED: The importance of your message cannot be overstated. Whenever I publish a letter from someone who has been sexually abused as a child, I am inundated with letters from readers saying that this has happened to them. (Many confide that they had lived with that ugly secret for as long as 40 and 50 years—too ashamed to tell anybody.)

It is the responsibility of adults to teach children (3- and 4-year-olds are not too young to understand) that it is not OK for ANYONE to touch their private parts, and if someone does, the child should tell a trusted adult immediately. Stress that even if the person who has made these advances has threatened to "kill" her (or him—little boys are molested, too), the child must tell anyway and be assured she (or he) will be protected.

Some facts: Today in many communities there is a 1-in-4 chance that a child will be the victim of incest, child molestation or rape by the time he or she reaches 18 years of age. Statistics tell us that 80 percent of the offenders had themselves been physically or sexually abused as children.

Children seldom lie about sexual abuse.

Child molesters are rarely strangers. They are usually related to or living near the child and are known and trusted by the child.

A child needs to tell a trusted adult if he or she has been molested; if not believed, the child should tell another adult, and still another adult until believed.

A child needs to be assured that if he or she has been molested, the shame and blame belong to the adult—the child is the victim!

P.S. To report suspected child abuse, dial this toll-free number: (800) 422-4453.

Gallbladder surgery

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — What causes gallstones? Can an 85-year-old be operated on to have gallstones removed and survive the operation? Could the stone be removed and the gallbladder sewed up?

DEAR READER — One of the miracles of modern surgery is that age alone is seldom a limitation; but the medical status of the individual is. If a person has advanced heart disease, a stroke or other serious medical problems, he may not be a very good surgical risk at any age.

But if he's in good health, he usually can withstand surgery remarkably well. Surgery is more dangerous in older people only because so many older people have medical problems.

Most surgeons probably think it would be as easy to remove the entire gallbladder as it would be to remove a stone and sew the gallbladder up.

A more important question is whether the stone needs to be removed at all. In old studies, about half the patients who had gallstones developed complications that required surgery within 11 to 20 years. But those older studies were based primarily on patients who had symptoms. More recent studies show that individuals who have silent gallstones that do not cause any symptoms, or just mild symptoms, seldom have complications from their stones.

In one study, only 10 percent of the patients with silent stones developed any symptoms at all in the succeeding five years. Only 15 percent developed symptoms in a 10-year span. If you have silent stones, that means you have only a 15 percent likelihood of developing symptoms between now and the age of 95. And if you develop significant symptoms that require surgery, it could be considered at that time.

To update you on gallstones, surgery and the question of pills to dissolve gallstones and gallbladder disease, I'm sending you the Health Letter 20-6, Your Gallbladder: Stones and Attacks. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I recently attended a class on nutrition and health. At one point the lecturer spoke about colonics. He recommended that we treat ourselves to a colonic a few times a year. He claimed colonics would make you feel like a new person.

My general health is excellent and I have no bowel problems. Would you recommend a colonic on a regular basis? If so, how often?

DEAR READER — I don't recommend colonics or enemas just to make you feel better. A small tap-water enema is sometimes useful for constipation and getting off the laxative habit. Of course, enemas are sometimes needed to prepare the bowel for examination for medical diagnostic studies or in preparation for surgery.

The habit of using colonics and enemas otherwise can be dangerous. The colon can be severely inflamed with soapy enemas. Bacterial contamination of the colon can occur, resulting in serious illness.

Therefore, in general, I disapprove of the practice. It offers no benefits if you have no bowel problems — and can be downright dangerous. I hope your lecturer's advice on nutrition was better than his advice in reference to colonics.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Material conditions favor you today. You may buy something which will appreciate in value, or sell something for more than you envisioned.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) In serious situations today, try to maintain your sense of humor. Be firm where necessary, but do so with a smile, not a frown.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Be more concerned today about doing a good job rather than with what you'll be paid for your efforts. A solid performance will yield an ample reward.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You should do very well with new ventures at this time, but don't feel that traditional methods won't apply just because the project is different.

Newman show

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — An exhibition of 43 lithographs, etchings and acquatints by Barnett Newman is being shown at the Princeton University Art Museum through March 25.

The museum says Newman (1905-1970) is "known most widely for his large, monochromatic paintings, carefully divided by a 'zip', or vertical band, which he painted in the late '40s and early '50s. In the 1960s, Newman produced a remarkable body of printed work that functions significantly within the totality of his artistic creation."

"Considering the sickness that we've had we played pretty well but we noticed a lot of areas we need to work on," said Coach Charlie Chrane of Saturday's match with Monahans. "All of us are rusty in match play. We made a lot of errors that we need to overcome. As we get into the season a lot of that will start smoothing out, hopefully."

Trial continues

GEORGETOWN, Texas (AP) — Children who suffered mysterious seizures after injections from nurse Genene Jones recovered shortly after the unexplained attacks, the murder defendant's former boss testified today.

Dr. Kathleen Holland of Kerrville, returning to the stand for the eighth day, read medical records showing that doctors, in several cases, could not figure out why the children had suffered the seizures.

Ms. Jones, 33, faces a murder charge in the death of one child who did not recover. Fifteen-month-old Chelsea McClellan died in 1982 after injections from Ms. Jones.
