American Woman Charged With High Treason Against Cuban Army

ELEVEN DIE AS 'TEXAS SPECIAL' LEAVES RAILS

Home Town Talk

By B. D. D.

J. A. Kemp, pioneer business leader, says that drouth relief can best be provided by the federal government and he favors a special session of congress and the sending of a delegation from this section to Washington to lay the situation before the proper committee. Talker would like to add his approval to what Mr. Kemp has said.

This is no ordinary drouth and it is brought about by no ordinary conditions. Only the federal government, Talker believes, has the resources to provide relief. The number of persons affected, the area covered and the want that will follow unless relief is given are greater than in the Mississippi flood.

Mr. Kemp remembers the drouth of 1886 but says that drouth covered only a limited area and is not to be compared with the drouth of 1930. Mr. Kemp realizes that an appeal for aid is not good publicity but warmly human as he is he does not give this consideration when there is want and suffering.

Wichita county is in better shape than most other counties in this section because of its irrigated valley in which normal crops are being harvested this year. The drouth is likely to be a great impetus to irrigation. It is probably no exaggeration to say that at least 10 times as much in crops could be raised in the valley with the proper application.

Charlie Lockhart, candidate for state treasurer, ran next to Jimmy Allred in Wichita county receiving 6,954 votes while his opponent got 2,344. Mr. Lockhart got his big vote in Wichita county partly through his own appeal as a candidate but mostly because he had some loyal relatives who saw that his candidacy got before the public.

Mr. Lockhart has won by a big majority in the state. He is well qualified to fill the office and if he is as efficient in having the office himself as he has been an assistant, he ought to be able to hold it as long as he wants it.

The Milk and Ice Fund sponsored by the Daily Times has reached $1,428.30 and has already made a new record in the amount collected. During the long, hot, dry summer and with much unemployment and depressed conditions this fund has contributed to a greater need than ever before in its history. It will be continued for several weeks. Every dollar that is contributed to this fund goes directly to the purchase of milk and ice for those most needy.

Neither the drouth nor depressed business conditions are likely to cut down the attendance in our schools and colleges. Of course such a condition of want may be reached in some communities and by some individuals that their children cannot attend school but such instances will be rare. Most parents are willing to make any sacrifice to keep their children in school and college students somehow find a way to continue their studies through times of depression. In fact times of unusual prosperity are more likely to take young people out of college than an ordinary depression, for in such times the student is under the urge of going out and getting a share of the ready money that seems to be floating around during such periods.

Talker bought a picture a few weeks ago from a young Wichita Falls artist. He bought the picture because he liked it and the longer he has had it the better he likes it. He wouldn't sell this picture today for many times the price he paid for it. He now reads from Murdock Pemberton, the art critic, in the current issue of Home and Field that he took the right course in selecting his own painting rather than have an expert do it for him.

"Any individual's most trustworthy guide to art is his own feelings for it, no matter how uncultivated," says Mr. Pemberton. "Whatever you buy, you should approach the adventure with a light heart. It is pleases you it is a good picture. If you change your mind later you can still retain your integrity and feel that your aesthetic impulse is merely having growing pains."

FLIER'S WIDOW HELD FOR SALE OF CODE KEY

Suspect Put Under Heavy Military Guard At Mariano

CHARGES DENIED

Prisoner Mystified by Talk Of Air Corps Secrets

MARIANAO, Cuba, Aug. 31. (AP)—Mrs. Martha Lane Morlote, an American woman, was held here today under military guard under charges of high treason in connection with an alleged plot to reveal Cuban military secrets. She said she was mystified by the government's action.

Mrs. Morlote, formerly of Longmeadow, Mass., and widow of the late Lieutenant Rogelio Morlote of the Cuban army air corps, was arrested yesterday by military authorities and ordered detained for 72 hours while investigation was made into her alleged espionage.

She was specifically charged with "entering into negotiations with secret agents of Colombia and the United States to sell the secret key of the Cuban army air corps code."

Denies Charges

Her arrest by officers of the general staff of the Cuban army took place shortly after she had booked passage on the steamship Morro Castle, which sailed for New York yesterday.

Detained with her at Camp Columbia is Luis Marti, a soldier who had been an orderly under Lieutenant Morlote up until the time the latter was killed in an airplane accident at Alacranes, July 1.

"I know nothing of the charges against me," she told newspapermen. "I have been in mourning since my husband was killed in an airplane accident on July 1, and know nothing of any 'secret keys' he might have possessed to the Cuban military code.

"If he had any such 'keys' he did not impart them to me. I was just about to sail for Longmeadow to visit my father, Roy Lane, who has been seriously ill, when the officers

Houston Man Critically Burned in Gas Blast

HOUSTON, Aug. 31. (AP)—Blown through a bathroom door and set afire by an explosion in his home, H. R. Keeble, 45, retired lawyer and semi-invalid, was at the point of death at St. Joseph's infirmary tonight with burns from head to foot.

The blast was attributed to leaking gas, presumably ignited when Mr. Keeble struck a match. J. A. Fiechtner, a roomer, who was awakened by the explosion, extinguished the flaming clothing of Mr. Keeble by throwing him down and wrapping him in a rug.

Keeble and Fiechtner were alone in the house. The latter asleep, when the explosion occurred about 5 p. m. The noise was heard for blocks and a large crowd gathered.

Historic Sea Plane Sought for Museums

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Aug. 31. (US)—The historic Dornier-Wal sea plane with which Capt. Roald Amundsen crossed the Polar sea and in which Von Gronau flew over the Atlantic, may be presented to either New York City or Chicago. Its importance in history is the fact that it was the first flying boat ever to have crossed the Atlantic.

It is understood that a suggestion to this effect has been made in German aviation circles and the matter is to be taken under consideration this week.

PARIS, Aug. 31. (UP)—Thirty soldiers, on their way from Langres to participate in army maneuvers in Lorraine, were prostrated by sunstroke today.

The heat wave generally continues. A heat fog in the English channel disrupted the cross-channel steamship services, and blanketed coastal towns in a warm cloud.

Fall Business Expected to Bring Jobs for Majority of Unemployed

A. F. of L. President Optimistic Despite Depression and Need For Work for 2,000,000 Persons

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31. (UP)—Labor day of 1930 finds more than 2,000,000 men and women out of work but with indications that acceleration of business and industry may give jobs to many this fall.

President William Greene of the American Federation of Labor in a message for the day hailed the maintenance of high wage standards, despite the depression, as an outstanding achievement of the year.

Wages Upheld

Everywhere, as the forces of labor prepared for their parades and celebrations tomorrow, the problem of unemployment, and programs for immediate relief and for stabilization of employment to prevent such developments in the future, was uppermost.

In other fields, workers saw progress in the conclusion of an anthracite wage agreement for a five and one-half year term, which is expected to help stimulate that industry, in reports of increased totals of savings deposits, and in late market and production reports, particularly in iron and steel, which pointed to an expansion of industrial activity.

On the other hand, the period since the November stock market crash was recognized as a term of extreme economic stress for millions of workers. Particularly is this true in recent months, due to inroads made on reserves by partial or whole unemployment during the slack months.

Unemployment Census

Perhaps the high point of the year in achievement for labor relief was the pledge of leading American industrialists at the Hoover business stabilization conference not to cut wages. Most employers are reported to have adhered to this policy, although unemployment is said to have increased since that conference and earnings of workers have dropped in a relatively large amount. But part of the drop in earnings was due to part-time employment, a system adopted in many places to prevent complete layoffs. The wage pledge was made after President Green and other labor officials conferred with the president and the employers' leaders.

"The fact that there have been no important advocates of labor deflation is national progress," was the way Green summarized this achievement in his message.

During the year the first national census of unemployment was taken in connection with the regular decennial census, as of April 1. Complete figures on unemployment have not been tabulated, but those out of work, able to work, and looking for a job on that day totalled 2,500,000—approximately 5 per cent of the wage-earners of the country. In the future, using the completed totals of this census as a basis, it is expected to keep much closer tab on the situation, in order to deal with the problem nationally.

Washington-New York Air Line Opens Today

NEW YORK, Aug. 31. (US)—Vice President Charles Curtis will open the hourly airplane service to New York and Philadelphia from Washington tomorrow. STORM KILLS HOUSTON MAN

Second Tornado Strikes City's Airport

HOUSTON, Aug. 31. (AP)—Roaring from a blackened sky at noon a tornado accompanied by a high wind and severe electrical and rain storm struck the Houston Municipal airport and vicinity claiming one life, damaging two hangars and demolishing a garage.

William A. Glover, 73, who lives near the flying field, was killed instantly when a bolt of lightning struck a tree beneath which he was seated as the second tornado within a month struck the airport and vicinity.

Slight damage was done to the airport by the high wind which reached a velocity of 60 miles an hour when the storm was at its height.

Two doors from the Southern Air Transport hangar and the ventilator of the National Guard hangar were carried away. A garage near the hangars was lifted from the ground and carried several yards by the gale and demolished.

A heavy downpour of rain which followed the storm flooded Houston gutters and disrupted traffic for a few moments.

On Aug. 1 a tornado struck the Houston airport late in the afternoon, caving in the walls of one hangar and damaging five planes to the extent of $50,000.

FRENCH ACES START FLIGHT TO U. S. TODAY

Ideal Weather Conditions Forecast on Eve Of Take-Off

PILOTS CONFIDENT

French Government Backs 'Return Call' For Lindbergh's Visit

LE BOURGET AIRPORT, Paris, Aug. 31. (US)—With their giant record-making plane, The Question Mark, all in readiness and weather indications favorable, Capt. Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte tonight await the break of dawn to take off on their great adventure over the Atlantic.

Their projected flight to New York is backed by the French government and every possible measure has been taken to assure its success. Both are confident of taking the veteran Question Mark to its destination. It will be a return call for Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's historic flight to Paris.

The final preparations for departure were begun this afternoon, immediately following the declaration of the weather bureau that conditions over the Atlantic are favorable. Their course lies over the southwest corner of England, south of Ireland, and thence by the great circle route to America. The total trajectory is approximately 3,850 miles.

Expecting favorable winds approximately two-thirds of the way, Coste has decided to discard two of the supplementary fuel tanks with a capacity of 200 liters each. They had been placed below the lower wings of the plane.

Gas Tanks Filled

His attempt to span the North Atlantic has been variously reported on the brink of getting under way all summer. The air ministry tonight gave his present preparations an air of certainty. A spokesman for the ministry said:

"We consider Coste's departure almost certain."

Coste retired early after busily supervising the fueling of the Question Mark. Mechanics poured 1,400 gallons of fuel into the tanks, an operation requiring about four hours.

They worked under the glare of great searchlights concentrated on the airplane in the military hangar at Le Bourget.

"We'll start all right," Coste declared enthusiastically. He indicated he thought too many delays already had occurred in this daring attempt to make the East-to-West crossing of the treacherous Atlantic. "We'll start even if the weather is less favorable," he said.

Coste said they would carry enough fuel to last 56 hours at an average flying speed of around 100 miles an hour.

Route Outlined

Coste said if they had favorable winds, or if they did not meet head

New York Woman May Lose Place in Congress

NEW YORK, Aug. 31. (US)—Mrs. Ruth Pratt, Republican, New York City's only woman representative in congress, is facing the hardest fight of her political career. This is the consensus of opinion of both Democratic and Republican observers of Mrs. Pratt's coming campaign for re-election.

Although even Mrs. Pratt's political adversaries speak highly of her, serious doubts are being expressed on both sides of the political fence as to the outcome of her present contest. While the candidacy of Heywood Broun, Mrs. Pratt's columnist-Socialist rival, is not expected to make any deep cut in either the Republican or Democratic vote for her district, the candidacy of City Magistrate Louis Brodsky is regarded by G. O. P. leaders as amounting to extremely serious opposition.

Payne's Broken Body Draws Throng Of Curious On Eve Of Funeral Rites Today

AMARILLO, Texas, Aug. 31. (UP)—The broken body of A. D. Payne, who ended his life with a vial of explosive to atone for his confessed crime of bombing his wife to death two months before, lay in state in a downtown funeral home tonight.

A private funeral with only close friends and relatives will be held for Payne at 2 p. m. Monday from a funeral home here. The services will be brief and burial will be in the cemetery at Tulia at 4:30 p. m.

Hundreds of townspeople visited the mortuary throughout the day and night to pay their last respects to one whom they once knew as a brilliant attorney of this section of the state.

Among the crowds were neighbors who a month before were shocked to the point of frenzy when suspicion was directed at Payne in one of the town's most baffling murders. Mrs. Payne was torn to pieces by dynamite planted in the family car and her son, A. D. Jr., was maimed and critically injured.

Death Closes Case

Popular feeling became so intense when Payne was arrested that he was removed from the local jail and secured at Stinnett, under heavy guard.

Tonight the case was closed. Payne stilled the wheels of justice, deciding his case, by exploding a charge of nitroglycerin which he grasped firmly against his breast while lying face downward on his bunk in the county jail.

He meted to himself a death similar to the one his wife had met. His death came 15 minutes after midnight on the day his insurance policy went into effect.

Payne's insurance was his bequest to his children and in his last interview with a United Press correspondent an hour before he died, the matter of the insurance weighed heavily upon his mind. He asked that every effort be made to see that his children share the money.

The following document, found in the writings of Payne and setting forth his last requests, was released for publication tonight:

"Requests:

"I hope that at my funeral these songs will be sung: 'In the Sweet Bye and Bye,' 'Rock of Ages,' 'Home, Sweet Home.'

"I wish I might be buried by Exa's body. That was the wish she often expressed while living here and she has asked me several times since her departure to make that, and her present desire to the same effect, known. Such is her and my present desire.

"We each now prefer that a simple, plain in one piece be placed at our heads with this inscription on it: 'Mother and Daddy.' 'Together they labored and here lie their town clothes.'

"I would like for Mr. A. J. Hill of Canyon to talk at my funeral if he will consent to do so. I hope he will.

"I am more concerned about the three darling children than anything. But do not know what is best for their welfare. I trust in Exa's and my relatives to do the best possible by them. They are as innocent and sweet and all this is such a cruel blow to them I wish I could take all of them with me now. But mother says they will be fortunate here for a long time yet. A. D. Payne."

Relatives said all of Payne's requests would be granted, excepting the desire to be buried by his wife.

Orphans Grieve

The tragedy has left the three Payne children, Ladell, 14, A. D. Jr., 11 and Bobbie Joe, 9, orphans. All three mourned the loss of their father tonight. They "had forgiven daddy" after his confession of killing their mother. The two older children visited him at the jail on the night he killed himself and

BABY ELK

Stork Leaves Addition To Wichita Falls Muny Zoo

A new member has been added to the zoo family. Saturday night a baby elk was born and the two mature specimens fenced in at the Scotland zoo, seem to recognize this calf sized animal as a specimen of their family even if there are spots adorning the baby.

C. C. Bunnenberg, who is good authority, says that in time the spots will disappear and the baby will be "pure elk."

TWO HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Wives of Hal Wiltse And Jim Geygan Injured

Special to The Record News.

BELLEVUE, Texas, Aug. 31.—Mrs. Hal Wiltse, wife of the Wichita Falls baseball club's leading pitcher, and Mrs. James Geygan, wife of the Spudder utility infielder were seriously injured near here early tonight in an automobile accident. They were en route to Dallas, where they expected to attend the Labor day double-header between the Wichita Falls club and teh Dallas team.

The automobile in which the two were riding crashed into a ditch alongside the highway six miles west of here when Mrs. Wiltse, who was driving, was blinded by the lights of an approaching automobile, according to details given physicians here. The accident occurred about 8 p. m.

Passersby rushed the victims to a doctor's office here. After a preliminary examination, Drs. L. S. Cook and B. W. Holmes said Mrs. Wiltse was injured internally, while Mrs. Geygan had sustained a broken wrist, and probably a broken arm. An ambulance was called and it was planned to remove the patients to a Wichita Falls hospital immediately.

INJURED WOMEN IN HOSPITAL HERE

Mrs. Hal Wiltse, wife of the Spudder pitcher, was brought to the Wichita Falls Clinic hospital late Sunday night suffering from injuries she sustained in an automobile accident near Bellevue earlier in the night.

Later Mrs. James Geygan, wife of the Spudder utility infielder, was brought to the hospital for treatment of injuries sustained in the same crash. She was reported to have a broken wrist and severe bruises about the body.

Physicians at the hospital reported Mrs. Wiltse had sustained a cut and bruised knee, severe body bruises, a broken rib and possible internal injuries. Her condition was not critical, they said. Mrs. Geygan will probably be allowed to leave the hospital Monday, attendants said.

Rain Delays Start Of Cleveland Air Carnival

CLEVELAND, Aug. 31. (AP)—Rainy weather forced postponement of an aerial carnival at Cleveland Municipal airport today but the famous international Gordon Bennett balloon race remained scheduled to start tomorrow. Satisfactory weather was forecast for this classic event in which three of the greatest balloonists of Belgium, France and Germany, with their aides, will try to keep the three United States entries from winning for this country a second leg on the third Bennett cup.

A big program of airplane tricks, glider and parachute demonstrations is on tomorrow's schedule as an introduction to the balloon race, and today's program is to be held Tuesday.

PILE OF ROCKS HURLS COACHES FROM TRACKS

Deliberate 'Wrecking' Job Seen in Probe Of Disaster

ENGINE DEMOLISHED

Engineer and Fireman Are Among Victims Of Crash

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 31. (AP)—Eleven persons were known to have been killed and approximately 30 were injured early tonight when the "Texas Special" of the St. Louis-San Francisco railroad was derailed at Osage Hills, about 10 miles west of here, in St. Louis county. After an examination, Dr. John O'Connell, coroner of St. Louis county, said the derailment was caused by a large pile of rock placed on the track.

The accident occurred about 500 feet east of the Osage, Ill., station. The train, which left St. Louis at 6:30 p. m. for Fort Worth, Dallas and San Antonio, Texas, was traveling about 60 miles an hour when the locomotive and three coaches left the rails and overturned. The other coaches also left the rails, but did not overturn, reports indicated.

Coaches Smashed

The known dead include:

Mrs. Mabel Newton, and Charles Newton, both of New York.

Engineer C. E. (Dick) Ray of New Burg, Mo.

Fireman E. T. White, Maplewood, Mo.

Unidentified white woman about 35 years old, blue eyes, brown hair.

Unidentified man, probably Mexican, about 21 years old.

The injured:

Daniel Russell, 30, College Station, Texas, Frisco flagman, lacerations and bruises.

Atlee Wickersham, 37, Springfield, Mo., brakeman and baggage man, lacerations of the head and body bruises.

William M. Meador, 60, conductor, Springfield, Mo., fractured left leg.

J. D. Burch, address unknown, Pullman conductor, broken left shoulder.

Lawrence R. Johnson, passenger, address unknown, lacerations and bruises.

Alec Hawn, address unknown, minor injuries.

Robert A. Newton, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Newton, New York, fractured skull.

M. D. Stephenson, 55, Greenville, Texas, body bruises.

Two of the coaches were completely demolished, the force of the derailment having torn two other coaches from their trucks. The track at the point of the wreck is eight feet higher than the tracks of the eastbound roadway, which adjoins.

Within an hour a crowd estimated at 10,000 persons had assembled near the scene, St. Louis county officers reported. The officers took charge. Firemen from small towns near the wreck began removing the bodies of dead and the injured as soon as they arrived on the scene.

Four of the bodies were taken to an undertaking establishment at Kirkwood, in St. Louis county.

Three members of the train crew whose names were not determined,

Convict Forces Guard To Drive Him From Pen

ANAMOSA, Iowa, Aug. 31. (US)—Nursing a 5-year-old vengeance to kill the policeman who arrested him in 1926, for his robbery of the Modvale, Iowa, bank Broy Harding, 26, a convict, under life sentence, made good his escape today.

He forced Marsh Ireland, reformatory guard, to drive him 500 miles last Friday, keeping a long knife at Ireland's side which he threatened to plunge into the guard the moment the latter failed to obey him. For nine hours over side roads to Logan, Iowa, where he left the car, and made his getaway in to Nebraska, Harding kept the guard at the wheel, ordering him to drive 50 miles before giving an alarm.

Harding is believed to have gone to Omaha, in search of the policeman whose life he has sworn to take.

Canadian Flier Plans Transatlantic Flight

TORONTO, Aug. 31. (AP)—Capt. Erroll Boyd, who is planning a transatlantic flight "within the next few days," spent the day here after a flight last night from Montreal in which he tested special navigating instruments on his famous monoplane "Columbia."

He had planned to return to Montreal today, but decided to postpone his departure until tomorrow morning. On his arrival back in Montreal his plane will be given a final check in preparation for the ocean hop to London.

Horn Breaks Silence to Describe Andree Discoveries

Tiny Whaling Vessel Bears Bodies Into Norwegian Harbor

(The following interview was given by Dr. Horn exclusively to the Universal Service correspondent at Hasvik when his whaler, the Bratvaag, put in there yesterday on its voyage back to Tromsoe with the bodies of Salomon Auguste Andree and his two companions on the ill-fated aerial expedition to the north pole. This is Dr. Horn's first and only statement to the world since he found Andree's camp on White Island, Fridjof Nansen land, Aug. 6.)

By DR. GUNNAR HORN
(Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service, Inc.)

HASVIK, Norway, Aug. 31.—We came here only to enable me to send a telegram to Dr. Hoel, the Norwegian government's representative at Tromsoe, and one to the owners of my ship, Qin Aalesund. We are now on our way to Tromsoe with Andree's body.

We have received wireless orders to go to Tromsoe, but, owing to the meager wireless equipment on the Bratvaag, the messages were indistinct.

Andree's body seems to be in good condition. We have three bodies aboard the Bratvaag. The other two are those of Strindberg and Frankel, Andree's followers on his tragic attempt to reach the north pole in a balloon.

All the bodies are contained in margarine boxes piled in the front of the ship. In the same pile are many relics and remains of Andree's expedition to the arctic.

The boxes containing the bodies are packed over with ice and over the ice has been stretched a tarpaulin covering to keep the packing from thawing.

We have not examined the bodies since placing them on the ship but I am certain that they are in good condition. We had some difficulty in transferring the bodies from their long icy uncovered grave to these boxes. The remains had been damaged very much from lying 33 years in the grip of so icy a death.

The diary and log book are locked in my private safe aboard ship.

Sledge Recovered

We have the sledge in which Andree and his companions tried to make their way over the ice after crashing in their balloon. We had a difficult time getting this sledge. It took us many hours to dig through the ice and snow without destroying it, but finally we succeeded in getting it out intact. It had almost become a part of those frozen regions.

The diary is not in too good condition. It will have to be properly handled to be read. I expect to write a report of the discovery. It does not appear, however, that I shall have my account ready by the time we land. The time is too short and the subject too difficult to complete this report and it shall probably be necessary for me to finish it after we have landed at Tromsoe.

Tiny Whaling Craft Bears Bodies Into Port

Our expedition was one of the most fascinating possible. Everything went well from the start. In addition to finding the Andree camp, we captured five live ice bears who have been making life difficult for us on our return trip.

They have been conducting themselves very badly. This didn't help our peace of mind or permit us as much leisure for scientific matters as we should have had.

We captured the bears after discovering the remains of the Andree encampment and while we were in the course of returning to civilization.

Bodies Protected

The bodies of Andree and his companions were placed in boxes and covered over so as to protect them from exposure to wind and rain.

Everything had to be placed on the forward deck and tied down with stout ropes. It will remain undisturbed until we reach our destination, where the bodies and the relics can be properly transferred. Our ship is a fishing vessel whose owner is in Ajlesund and therefore it is necessary to get instructions from there.

This is the first time we have spoken with anyone from the outside world since we left for the arctic. I understand that other ships have been looking for us, but we have seen nothing of them.

I do not believe that the missing members of the Nobile expedition will be found near Giles island, as is believed. We kept a careful watch for a trace of them. The ice had melted considerably this year and yet we saw no vestige of their remains or any trace of their last encampment.

Dogs Hinder Police Seeking to Aid Woman

NEW YORK, Aug. 31. (US)—In mistaken devotion to their mistress, a pair of German police dogs for some time today fought off eight policemen in a Brooklyn backyard. The police were summoned by neighbors of John E. Kinney, of 99 Madison street when the caretaker of the house, Mrs. Sarah Lacy, 60, was stricken by paralysis.

To avoid killing the valuable pedigreed animals, Sergeant Murphy ordered a round of shots fired over the dogs' heads and in the smoke screen Mrs. Lacy's body was carried out to the ambulance.

Treaty Seeks Limits For Loads of Ships

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31. (US)—Marking a long forward step to insure safety at sea, an international load line treaty, signed by 27 nations, will be submitted to the senate for ratification next December, the state department announced today.

With the treaty in effect, sea disasters due to overloading will be virtually impossible.

The treaty was negotiated at London early this summer, and was an outgrowth of the Vestris disaster.

Suspect Jailed In Kidnaping of Child

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 31. (AP)—George Caine, 32, of South Bend, Ind., was arrested here today as a suspect in the kidnaping and slaying of 8-year-old Marverine Appel at South Bend last week. Caine was taken into custody after police said he had attacked his 14-year-old step-daughter who lives here. The girl was taken to the city hospital in a serious condition.

Movie Star to Adopt Five-Year-Old Girl

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 31. (UP)—Marjorie Elizabeth, a golden haired little girl 5 years old, will be adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lloyd as a sister for their 6-year-old daughter, Gloria, the screen comedian announced tonight.

Floral Heights Pastor Gives Final Sermon of Union Services

With the close of August, the fifth and final union service was held Sunday night on the lawn of the Memorial auditorium with about 1,400 attending, according to the estimate of C. C. Bunnenberg. Dr. C. M. Simpson, pastor of Floral Heights Methodist church, was the speaker, using as his subject "Mastering Spiritual Difficulties."

Taking as his text the beautiful figure of speech that tells us of the hills and mountains breaking forth into song, Doctor Simpson explained the difference between the meaning of the verses literally and their figurative prophecy. Israel, the little land that lay between Babylon and Egypt, was the country on which the sermon was based, but the application made to the people of Israel was brought plainly into the world of 1930.

The wandering of the 12 tribes was mentioned and the letter of the prophet reading, "Lo, everyone that thirsteth, come ye to the waters." Doctor Simpson compared the modern Christian who had once been active in the church to the Israelites who were swallowed up by a nation of enemies and whom the prophet encouraged with the thought that they might yet be together to worship.

Doctor Simpson's experience in a wireless telegraphy office years ago in Port Arthur, was used as an illustration to explain how hearts can be tuned to Christianity. He spoke of a message coming in of six men just this side of Cuba, all sick and wishing a doctor on their arrival in Port Arthur and of how he was impressed with the thought of little instruments being so tuned to one another. "In just such manner, he said, "will the ear and the spirit and the heart be tuned with God."

The wicked and the unrighteous were defined in contrasting ways but hearing and believing was pointed out as the only hope for each. Doctor Simpson spoke of how a person saved in a home might help the home; how the home might help the community; the community the city and the city in turn save the nation.

The meeting began at 7:30 p. m. with a concert by the Lion's club band under the direction of Leo M. Underwood. Mrs. A. H. Mahaffey, musical director of the First Presbyterian church, arranged the other numbers which included congregational singing with the words of the song thrown on a slide; a solo, "The Voice in the Wilderness" by Mrs. J. C. Payne and a double trio, "Far From My Heavenly Home" sung by Mrs. J. C. Payne and Mrs. C. M. Robinson, first sopranos; Mrs. W. M. Priddy and Mrs. C. H. Evans, second sopranos; Miss Katherine Sullivan and Miss Harriet Bradley contraltos.

Dr. Gaines B. Hall of the First Southern Presbyterian church presided.

placed me under arrest. I cannot understand why this action has been taken against me."

Officials Reticent

General Alberto Herrera, chief of the general staff of the army, went to Pinar Del Rio province for a week-end trip shortly after Mrs. Morlote was detained and could not be reached today. None of the members of the staff here would discuss the affair.

The case has aroused considerable comment here although the general public attaches little importance to the charges placed against the American woman. Several prominent Cubans said they did not see why the United States or the remote country of Colombia should be particularly interested in the military secrets of this republic.

And they point to the inconsistency of espionage charges as far as the United States is concerned owing to the fact that Capt. Jack Bean, of the United States army air corps, for months has been in complete charge of the instruction school at Camp Columbia where recruits to the Cuban army air service are instructed in the rudiments of flying and aerial warfare.

FATHER TO ASK U. S. INTERVENTION

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Aug. 31. (AP)—Following telephonic communication with a brother in Havana, Roy G. Lane of Long Meadow, a suburb of this city, said he learned tonight that his daughter, Mrs. Martha Lane Morlote, arrested by Cuban authorities on charges of treason, is to be released tomorrow morning. Mr. Lane said if this did not take place he will immediately appeal to the American state department for assistance in bringing about her release.

Lane characterized as "absurd" the charges brought against his daughter. He said there "must be some misunderstanding" and intimated that perhaps a grudge on the part of some minor army officer formerly associated with his son-in-law, Roger Morlote, Cuban aviator, who was killed July 1, must be behind the charges.

Mrs. Morlote is 20 years old and was born in Mexico. Subsequently she lived for 15 years in Cuba. She attended schools in Texas and Ohio. She met Morlote in 1927 while en route to Cuba and they were married at Key West, Fla., Christmas day of that year.

Mr. Lane is a member of the firm of Lane and Sons, dealers in steel in Havana, and vice president of Premeid Products, Inc., of this city.

winds too stiffly against them they should reach New York with sufficient fuel to carry them far into the interior of America, should they want to continue the flight. He did not indicate they would do this, however.

"The present weather situation is ideal," Coste said. "By passing the southwestern extremity of England and proceeding over Ireland at a section somewhat south of the center of that country, we should be at the southern edge of the Atlantic anti-cyclone.

"This should give us favorable winds until we reach the United States coast. The distance along this route should be about 3,875 miles. We must take advantage of present conditions, which are much better than on June 8, the last most favorable date."

The Question Mark will carry about 100 gallons less than when the airplane broke the world's distance record in September, 1929, flying from Paris to near Tsitsihara, Manchuria. That distance was given as 4,909 miles. The old airplane since has been fitted up with two new gasoline tanks, and has a new 645 horsepower motor.

TEXAS LEGION BARS NEGROES

Action Precedes Convention Opening Day

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 31. (UP)—Negro membership in the American Legion was prohibited by a unanimous vote of a special committee here today as a forerunner to the state convention of the legion which will open tomorrow.

D. Roy Temple, of Waco, presided over the committee session considering the organization of subordinate negro posts over the state. He announced that the matter had been tabled for at least a year.

Convention committees of societies and auxiliaries of the legion were engaged in greeting hundreds of legionnaires who arrived hourly tonight.

The city was in festive dress and plans were made to entertain the largest gathering of delegates in the state's history.

El Paso appeared to be presenting the strongest bid for next year's convention. Corpus Christi and Mineral Wells also had strong support.

Arrival of National Commander O. L. Bodenhamer, who will deliver an address Tuesday, was awaited tonight.

The convention will select a new state commander to succeed Ernest Cox, who has declined the nomination for re-election.

Geo. Robsion Near Death

Suspect in Altus Battle Fights for Life

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Aug. 31.—George Robsion, under guard in a hospital here where he is in a critical condition from a bullet wound in the back sustained in the gun battle in which Elmer Carter, Jackson county deputy sheriff, was killed Friday night, is a nephew of Representative John M. Robsion, member of congress from Kentucky, it was revealed today.

The wounded man's father was the oldest brother of the family, his brother in congress being next below him in age, it was said. Representative Robsion has served in congress since 1928.

With internal bleeding caused by the bullet which penetrated his back placing him in a critical condition, Robsion spent a restless night Sunday. Physicians said the critical day would be Monday and his recovery or death from the wound would depend largely upon how his condition changes within the next 24 hours.

Jackson at Altus

Ernest Jackson of Vernon, third member of the trio allegedly implicated in the fatal shooting of Deputy Carter and the wounding of Joe Whitt, Altus night police chief, was being held at Altus Sunday night despite plans to transfer him to the Granite reformatory following his arrest Saturday evening here in Frederick at the home of Vernon Robsion, who had previously been arrested in connection with the shooting and taken to the reformatory for safekeeping. Officers at Altus said feeling had died down there sufficiently to allow his being held in jail safely.

Funeral services for Deputy Carter were held Sunday afternoon in Altus, with burial following in the cemetery at Eldorado. Throngs of persons attended, although the services passed quietly with no indication of pending violence to the three men held for the fatal shooting.

Ross Rutherford, Jackson county attorney, announced Sunday he would file murder charges against the three men Monday.

Whitt Improved

The condition of Night Chief Whitt was reported slightly improved at the Altus hospital Sunday night, although attendants said he was not resting quietly. His sight, taken away by the shot which struck him, was partially though not entirely recovered Sunday. Attendants said he was able only to see light but not to distinguish objects.

The gun battle occurred when Carter and Whitt attempted to stop a truck in which Jackson and the Robsions were riding on a road near Altus suspecting that it contained liquor. Carter was mortally wounded. He crawled to a farm house and called for aid, dying within a few minutes on the roadside. Whitt said he remembered seeing one of the other men fall but could recall nothing beyond that. George Robsion is said to have made a confession in the hospital here Saturday stating he had fired 10 shots at the officers. Vernon Robsion is said to have admitted to officers that he and his companions were transporting a whisky still to Texas.

Payne's Funeral To Be Held Today

showed deep affection for the parent.

The children are in the care of Payne's two brothers, Ben, of near Roswell, N. M., and Sidney, of Tulia, at the Payne home here.

Funeral services had been set tentatively for this afternoon but were postponed to await the arrival of two sisters, Mrs. Buena Strike, of Long Beach, Calif., and Mrs. Alfa Wichards, of San Gabriel, Calif. The two women arrived late today by airplane.

Probe Ordered

Payne's mother, Mrs. Etta Payne, of Pecos and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Johnson, of New Mexico, were in charge of arrangements.

One issue in the case remained undetermined tonight. Officials were puzzled as to the source of the explosive with which Payne killed himself. Fellow prisoners said Payne had told them of having secreted the vial on his person since his arrest.

District Attorney E. W. Thomerson announced tonight that he may request the grand jury which indicted Payne the day before his death, to investigate the explosion.

Frederick Asks New Power Contract

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Sept. 1.—No agreement has yet been reached between the Frederick city council and officials of the Southwestern Light and Power company regarding a new contract for light and power to take the place of the present one. Following several sessions during the past few days when this matter was discussed the power and light committee of the city council requested the Southwestern Light and Power company to submit a proposition at the next regular meeting, Sept 9.

John Zumwalt, city superintendent of water, light and power, said Saturday that as cheap a rate is expected as it would cost Frederick were this city to generate its own electricity. Electricity for points in this locality furnished by the Southwestern Light and Power company is now generated at the company's plant at Lawton.

The present contract made with this public service corporation was made more than three years ago and recently expired.

Youths Held In Childress Holdup

Special to The Record News.

CHILDRESS, Texas, Aug. 31.—Two youths attempted a bold daylight holdup here Sunday when they threw a gun on Bill Lamb, proprietor of the T. Lamb filling station. Lamb offered fight and the youths fired at him and fled. The shot went wild.

Dick Moore, chief of police, was notified and got the trail of the youths who were captured a few blocks from the station when their car refused to start. They were arrested and are being held in the county jail.

The young men gave Standury, Mo., as their home and denied they were the ones who held up the station. The car they were driving had an Iowa license number.

A blackjack and an army automatic was taken from the youths by Chief Moore. Lamb has identified them as the ones who attempted to hold him up.

ELEVEN DIE IN TRAIN WRECK

were reported to have been seriously injured.

The locomotive, after leaving the rails, ran into a bank, against which it came to a stop.

Switch in Order

Examination of the switch, over which the train passed before being derailed, showed it to be in operating condition, disposing the original theory that split switch had caused the accident.

Doctors and nurses from the Frisco hosiptal as well as physicians and nurses from other institutions were rushed to the scene in ambulances.

The place where the derailment occurred is a "cut" in the side of rising ground.

A passenger on the train, who refused to give his name, told reporters:

"I was seated in the rear coach when I felt a sudden shock and the train was jerked forward in a sickening lurch. There followed another shock and a crash. This was repeated three or four times as the cars ahead jumped the track one by one and piled up.

Passengers Terrified

"Finally the train slowed down and stopped. Everybody in my coach jammed the doors in getting out. Outside there was shouting and screaming and confusion as the passengers struggled to get out of the derailed cars or to extricate themselves or others from the wreckage."

"I saw the last five coaches were not derailed and ran up to the front. One of the first things I saw was a little boy whose feet were caught in the wreckage and who was weeping loudly. Beside him, unconscious or dead, was a woman who incidentally was his mother."

OFFICIAL SEES 'WRECKING' MOTIVE

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Aug. 31. (AP)—John A. Rutledge, yardmaster of the St. Louis-San Francisco railroad, reported late tonight to Vice President J. E. Hutchison, in charge of operations, that the wreck of the railroad's de luxe passenger train, the "Texas Special," was caused by a pile of rock placed on the rail. Rutledge reported the pile of rock had been firmly braced by timber.

After receiving the roadmaster's report, Hutchison said, "It is very clearly a train wrecking job. There seems to be no doubt of it."

Park Department To End Summer Activities

Autumn closes many of the summer park activities, according to C. G. Bunnenberg, city park superintendent. The wading pools in Scotland park and in O'Reilly park have been closed and the three women who have been in charge of children's activities will be associated no longer with the park work this year. Tom McCarty who has been in charge of general activities and Olin Harvey who had charge of the junior baseball will also leave the department for the season.

There will be, however, another concert on Thursday night, Sept. 4. This vaudeville will be put on entirely by KGKO. The Paul Seeds Playground band will furnish band music for the station and all artists will be KGKO artists.

Divers Seek Vault After Gambling Ship Sinks

LONG BEACH, Calif., Aug. 31. (UP)—Deep sea divers today worked for hours under the sea in an effort to locate a vault containing $50,000 in silver, currency and checks lost late last night when the gambling ship Monfalcone sank after a spectacular fire.

The notorious craft was set afire by a leaking gasoline line and a spark from a motor and burned to the waterline after 300 fashionably dressed visitors were rescued by water taxies and other small boats which put out from Seal Beach, six miles from where the Manfalcone lay at anchor.

Thrift Exchange Open for Service Tuesday Morning

It seems that those ambitious and needy children who wish to start to school this fall have found one big sister. And perhaps they will find others.

One business girl of the city wished to help the Thrift Exchange and donated the money so that an interested mother might shop and get as much as possible with the amount. She bought six readymade dresses for girls of 10 and 12 and with the remainder of the money, purchased material for four more.

Three high school girls, who also became much interested, made four dresses in sizes for high school girls and in this way, 10 pretty new dresses came to the Thrift exchange. Many other smaller gifts have been sent to the room in the Memorial auditorium also but not enough to clothe the children who will apply in the next week. The need is strong at the present time.

The Thrift exchange, under direction of Mrs. R. P. Willis, will open at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, and remain open until noon. The same hours will be observed Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, as long as the clothing lasts.

Any child applying for help must come recommended by a reliable person.

Iowa Park Man Arrested After Electra Holdup

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, Aug. 31.—An Iowa Park man was named Sunday in a complaint charging robbery with firearms in connection with the hijacking of W. D. Cross, operator of an ice house on West Cleveland street here, Saturday night when Cross was robbed of $58 in cash.

The complaint was taken by George W. Anderson, assistant district attorney, at Wichita Falls after the accused man had been taken to that city by Roy Hart, night police chief, and Mayor Wheeler. The complaint was not filed in court Sunday since a justice of the peace was not on duty at that time, but Mr. Anderson said the charge, a capital offense, would be filed Monday. The accused man was lodged in the Wichita county jail.

The holdup took place shortly after Mr. Cross had closed his place of business Saturday night. He had taken $58 in cash with him as he left, locking the ice house and going to his car outside. Just as he stepped into the car a man jumped on the running board and placed the point of a gun against his ribs, ordering him to be quiet. The hijacker took the $58 and escaped.

Mr. Cross immediately turned in the alarm and police began a search for the robber. They found the man subsequently charged with the holdup hiding in the freight yards, although no gun nor money was found on his person. He was positively identified as the hijacker, however, by Mr. Cross, who repeated his identification Sunday. The arrest was made by Night Chief Hart and Officer Creek Brown. Police and county officers were seeking an accomplice Sunday in the belief that the accused man may have transferred the gun and money to another shortly before his arrest. Officers were also investigating the theory that the man hid the articles in a nearby lumber yard.

Engagement Announced And Newcomer Honored At Tea

The wood tinted walls and lovely furnishings of Mrs. J. A. Heyman's pretty new home on McGregor made an artistic background for the tea given Sunday afternoon to announce the engagement of her sister, Miss Beryl Knickerbocker to David MacPherson of Dallas and to introduce Miss Mary Jo Strother of Dallas, who will take Miss Knickerbocker's place in the piano department of the studio. Miss Knickerbocker's marriage will take place on Sept. 23. Mr. MacPherson is a well known baritone singer of Dallas. Dainty parchment rolls with the names and date, tied with pink and green ribbons, told the wedding news.

The long living room with touches of yellow coming to life in the tints of gray on the walls were beautiful with baskets of giant golden chrysanthemums, autumn leaves and tall stalks of pink gladioli, that with the furnishings made delicious harmonies of color. Mrs. Heyman with her two guests of honor received the guests at the door. Mrs. Heyman was vivaciously attractive in white point d'esprit over white satin and with Miss Knickerbocker in lemon yellow chiffon and Miss Strother in nile green satin, made a lovely hostess trio.

Mrs. Jasper Ferguson, like an English rose in her shell pink lace gown poured tea from the handsome silver service in the dining room where the long table covered with filet over green satin carried out the bride-elect's colors of pink and green in the pink and green candles in tall silver candelabrae and pink and green mints in tall silver bonbon dishes. Wedding bells of pink and green, held by feathery sprays of fern and adorned with tiny tinted lilies of the valley, hung from the chandelier. Mrs. Josephine Reynolds and Mrs. Newman Hill were lovely assistant hostesses with Mrs. Ferguson in the dining room. Mrs. Reynolds wore an exquisite imported handmade frock of pink organdy and Mrs. Hill handsome black lace. Soft lights in both living and dining rooms made a pretty picture of the hostess party in their lovely evening gowns.

Fathers and mothers of pupils in the piano department were invited from 4 to 5 o'clock, and from 5 to 6 o'clock immediate friends of Miss Knickerbocker were entertained. The refreshment plates were unusually attractive and delicious.

The earlier guests included Messrs. and Mesdames H. L. Fulfs, Thomas, Walter Robbins, Gibbs, C. H. Gilchrist, Moore, Rahl, M. Staniforth, Dr. and Mrs. O. T. Kimbrough, Messrs. and Mesdames J. J. Maucini, Carter McGregor, Judge and Mrs. A. H. Carrigan, Messrs. and Mesdames H. C. Huper, Charles Chenault, Miss Agnest Morton, Messrs. and Mesdames H. Bagby, Guy Rogers, Jim Hanks, Larrick, H. A. Rathke, J. W. Akin Jr., Menke, W. F. Kolter, Pearson, Dr. and Mrs. G. K. Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. Perkins of Petrolia.

Among Miss Knickerbocker's friends who called from 5 to 6 o'clock were Messrs. and Mesdames Emil Hermann, J. W. Nossett, Jasper Ferguson, Newman Hill, Ernest Fain, Elthel Allen Nelson, Dr. and Mrs. Paul Connor, Dr. and Mrs. Paul Griesel, Dr. J. B. Casey and Dr. Collins, Mrs. E. Kilander and Miss Kilander, Mrs. Bennet and Mrs. J. F. Curtin, Messrs. and Mesdames Joe Farabee, and G. PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

"They say."

The saddest words of tongue or pen in our language may be "It might have been," but the words causing more trouble than any others are those quoted above.

Just the other day we heard a mother tell her daughter she must not go with a certain girl because "they" said various things about her. "Mother, who says?" asked her daughter and when no names could be mentioned, the daughter preached a sermon about the damage done to girls by those words.

It is a good thing sometimes for mothers to be made ashamed. For mothers of embryo women and of future men, should be first to guard their tongues. The things "they say" have ruined too many lives.

Nobody's utterly wrecked, however, so long as they can feel sorry for repeating some of the things they hear said. We make vows we will not, and then forget sometimes and do.

We know one old lady who sits in the south window of her bedroom in a comfortable rocking chair, dips snuff and watches the world go by. The happy or tragic stories that may lie beneath physical bodies never appeal to her, but she is so quick to snap at a chance to criticise them she would have made a model for Hawthorne.

Better than that, she would have been a marvelous piece of Americana for Mr. Mencken.

Mr. Mencken, however, may altogether change his viewpoint of America since he has taken unto himself a wife.

That very act does change the viewpoint of many a man—and woman.

No matter how broadvisioned the Mercury writer is in some things, he is himself a terrible gossip. There's no other writer in the country with the exception of the daily columnist Walter Winchell, who has scandalized so many people.

And how people do eat it up! It isn't always just the pecadilloes of one's neighbors that is of interest. Much of the popular taste for biography is based on the fact that this age likes to learn the past age was at least as wicked.

Our taste for biography is a taste for history and history is the most interesting thing there is except people themselves.

We watched the small members of the boys club as they sat perched on the high stand at their Sunday school meeting Sunday morning and there was a wistful look on so many faces that we yearned to do something for them.

We were not being imposed on. Boys are one thing we do know, having had four in our family. But sometimes when we are driven to think of little boys as little devils, we always add sweet little devils.

People in general do like boys. They're almost as much loved as lovers are reputed to be.

As for lovers, just wait; we have something more to say about them.

Prison "Apartments" A Matter of Money Mightier Than the Sword It Is the Radio

By EMILE GAUVREAU

In this land of the free, cells in certain prisons can be rented the same way that rooms are rented in an apartment house. An investigation of the state prison at Trenton, N. J., reveals the fact that inmates who can afford it are accommodated with "outside" rooms, put in wings with select views and southern exposures and are accorded other "conveniences," such as easy accessibility to narcotics, for example. "Dapper" Don Collins is said to be one of the favored beneficiaries at this progressive institution.

The conditions obtaining at the Trenton prison are not without parallel in other prisons throughout the country. The public that thinks it has gotten rid of a criminal when the doors of a prison shut on him are patently laboring under a delusion. Where "justice," after great effort, will close the door on a racketeer, money, without any effort at all, will open it.

Always remember that organized crime in this country has secured such a foothold that the gangman who gets a life sentence is apt to be the first to break jail—with the connivance or even the assistance of the guards. From getting "choice" cells to escape is but a step.

Professor Einstein, solicitous for world amity, and who thinks for millions and looks ahead, decides that radio broadcasting has vast possibilities in this direction and should be promoted to the utmost. His phophecy is not only true but timely. With France bitter over the Rhine evacuation, with the Polish police protecting German consulates from excited nationalists, with the unrest in India and other English-ruled possessions, war is not so far off as you might imagine. It used to be the pen that was mightier than the sword. You will live to see the day when the radio, in an international crisis, will be mightier than the pen.

In a region called Touaregs, in southern Sahara, the men, and not the women, go veiled. There, also, the women do the divorcing, and preside generally over the household.

This may strike some of us as comical. But stranger fashions have been adopted in America. When American women first donned the trousers of a Turk, a roar went up. Beach pajamas, fashionable today at Southampton and elsewhere, are simply the modified sarong of the Dutch East Indies, while the colorful one-piece bathing suit is camouflaged pareu of the primitive Polynesians.

The savants at the Rockefeller institute have succeeded in diagnosing parrot disease. With the aid of white mice, this virulent fever, which is influenza and typhoid combined, has been revealed and controlled in the human system.

The credit is due to three physicians at the institute, one of whom caught the disease and fortunately recovered. He asks that his name be not divulged. He is perfectly willing to remain unknown and unsung. Science needs such men.

Indiana can no longer sneer at the fair Southland in its criticism of mob law. The lynching of two negroes by an infuriated gang of 1,000 men and women bring mob law north of the Mason and Dixon line with a sad tinge of inhumane cruelty. Lynchings in the Southland have lessened materially in recent years. But it remains for a northern state to break the peaceful reign of more-recent months. The South has broken its lynch law combination by drastic punishment of a lyncher. It remains to be seen if Indiana officials will check its wanton slaughter of unconvicted men.

Then there was the shipping room clerk who thought he would be a success in the ring because he was so efficient at boxing.

Gene Tunney has been dropped from the Social Register. The guess is he would rather mix it in the ring than in more select circles.

When Big Shots Rule

IN the northern part of Ohio there is a very exclusive little village of some 270 inhabitants, nearly all of whom are millionaires.

This village, like all others, has its own government; but this village is unique in that all of its elected officials are rich business men. The mayor, the councilmen and so on are, in their private lives, high-pressure executives accustomed to large affairs, enamored of efficiency and bred to the orderly conduct of things.

As a result, one would expect this village to have a city hall fairly reeking with good government.

However, a state examiner recently looked into affairs and reported sadly that such was not the case. He intimated that somehow these titans of the business world had found the task of running their own village a bit too much for them. The council had not met as often as it should, the mayor had failed to sign documents he should have signed, certain needed ordinances had failed of passage through oversight and village funds had been spent without proper authority.

There was nothing improper, of course; no graft, no padded payrolls or anything of that kind. There was just a bit of governmental slovenliness, that was all. The village fathers were dozing at their posts.

This is highly unimportant, of course, but it is rather interesting, and if one tried hard enough one probably could draw some sort of moral out of it.

Every so often someone advances the idea that our city, state and national governments would become, overnight, all that they ought to be if only their various posts could be manned by real business men. The business man has a passion for efficiency and accuracy. He likes to see every subordinate do a full day's work and he likes to see every dollar in expenditures bring back a dollar's worth of results. These wholly desirable things are not always visible in governmental affairs; hence, it is argued, the remedy is to fill the big jobs with business men and let them hop to it.

Perhaps it would work beautifully; but there are valid grounds for being skeptical. Executive talents that can be exercised admirably in a private office tend to go under a blight when they are transferred to a city hall or a statehouse. The Ohio village mentioned above is a case in point.

As a matter of fact—to leave this dimunitive village out of it—the defects we observe in government are generally the defects that are inherent in democracy itself. All along the line, we get just the kind of government we deserve. Giving the jobs to the big shots of the business world will never help so long as we stick to our old habit of sitting on the silelines and letting governmental organizations run themselves.

Lon Chaney's Contribution

LON CHANEY was never one of those movie actors who quicken the languid pulse of the high-brows. No wordy essayist ever wrote articles for the rough-paper magazines expatiating on his art. Visiting novelists never went out of their way to write him up as they wrote up Charlie Chaplin and Emil Jannings.

But Lon Chaney, nevertheless, was supreme in his own field. As a character actor he had no equal. His list of accomplishments in the days of the silent films was extraordinarily long, and it had just become evident, before his death, that he was going to make an equally good record in the talkies.

Most important of all was the fact that he gave good entertainment to millions of people. He has probably furnished more exciting thrills to more different men and women than any other man in America. The movie world will miss him sincerely. His place will not be easy to fill.

Baseball Is Still Flourishing

EVERY year or so some calamity howler arises to remark that big league baseball is dead, or at least dying. And every year, regular as clockwork, something comes up to prove that there is a great deal of life in the old game yet.

The latest bit of evidence in rebuttal of the calamity howler is contained in the recent attendance figures at Wrigley field, Chicago. When the Cubs finished their series with the Dodgers and the Giants they had set a new attendance record for baseball. The good old days at their liveliest could not match the enormous outpouring of fans that visited Wrigley field this summer.

Baseball, obviously, is a long way from death or the danger of death. As long as it can continue to produce thrills and hot competition it will remain what it has been called—the great American game.

In Search of the Griffon

ONE of the most interesting expeditions of the year should be the one recently authorized by the government of Ontario, which is going to scan the bottom of Mississagi straits, off Manitoulin island, in Lake Huron, for the wreckage of LaSalle's old ship, the Griffon.

LaSalle built the Griffon in 1679, while he was trying to open a way to the Mississippi river. He used it on the Great Lakes—it was the first ship other than a canoe to ply those waters—and it disappeared in a storm while en route from Mackinac to the foot of Lake Erie.

Now it is believed that a certain submerged wreck near Manitoulin island is the wreck of the Griffon. One cannot help hoping that this proves true, and that the wreck can be raised. It would prove one of the new world's most interesting historical relics.

"STEP-CHILD"

By ROB EDEN

Kay Smith discovers that she is actually Karen Mayhew and married to Larry Nettleton, from whom she fled on her wedding night. Larry is insistent that she return with him at once, but Kay argues that she does not love him. With Dane Talbot, whom she truly loves, Kay faces a real problem. Must she go with her husband?

CHAPTER XLV

Doctor Raleigh dropped Kay at Edith's apartment in his car. She had talked to him for an hour after he had told Dane to go. There had been little said while Dane was there, except for Raleigh's parting admonition when he dismissed Talbot.

"I'd rather you two didn't see each other until later—after I've seen Mr. Nettleton. Is that all right?"

It was not, although neither of them would admit it.

Dane's flowers were in Kay's arms as she went into the flat. The bouquet she wouldn't wear. The bouquet Dane had meant for her wedding. Carefully she unwound the ribbon from the stems and put the orchids in a vase. The silver bow, which she could not bear to take off, trailed on the table. The flowers were out of place in the plain room, with its ordinary furniture—the typical "furnished" look. Orchids in a room like this.

And yet they comforted the girl as she drew up a chair, and contemplated them, now and then touching a petal with her fingers, or brushing her hand over the soft ribbon.

She had seen Dane for such a few minutes in Doctor Raleigh's office. The doctor had talked on in an even, calm voice—as if there were nothing wrong. And when he had asked Dane to go, Dane had gone. His eyes, as he had given Kay a last look, had told her what she wanted to know. The pain in them, the love. His lips twisting into a smile to reassure her, but which only saddened her the more.

If she could really have a talk with him! She had to. . . .

And yet Doctor Raleigh had asked her not to see him. Why? Why, when she loved him so much? Needed him now, more than ever.

She was glad Edith had not come in yet. Glad she did not have to explain to the nurse about Larry, and who she was.

As she gazed longer and longer at the flowers, the urge to see Dane grew stronger and stronger. If she only saw him for a moment alone—it wouldn't matter.

Surely it would be all right. She could phone him and tell him to come here. No, Edith would come in any moment—and she wanted to see him alone.

She could tell him to meet her some place. . . .

With sudden determination she put on the coat she had taken off, picked up her purse and flew down the hall. Her hat she had not yet removed. She knew where his apartment was, although she had never been there. He would be there when she reached the place. In the forties downtown.

Before she knew it she was in front of the building, one of those gigantic edifices which tower twenty stories. The clerk at the desk gave her Mr. Talbot's number, and told her where the elevator was. Then she was ringing a bell, which had his name below it.

Disobeying Doctor Raleigh—it was wrong, of course, when he had asked her especially not to see Dane. Made quite a point of it. Was she foolish—coming here?

A Chinese servant answered her ring. Mr. Talbot had not yet come in, but he was expected any moment.

Kay hesitated. Should she wait? She turned away from the door disappointed, then seeing the servant half closing the door, announced she would wait. A flicker of surprise showed on the man's yellow face. His master didn't have many feminine visitors. In fact, none, and this girl was so young. . . . Rather reluctantly he led her into the library, which was Dane's living room.

"What is the name please?" he asked.

"Miss Smith—" unconsciously Kay had mentioned the name. The next moment she realized she should have said Mrs. Nettleton. She frowned and bit her lips. Mrs. Nettleton—that was her real name. There was no more need for Kay Smith. Dane's name for her. And yet she wasn't going to give up Kay. The first time in her life she had been nicknamed and she liked it. Besides it seemed hers, now. Because Dane had given it to her.

The servant was poking up the blazing log in the fireplace, and hot red flames shot up the chimney. Now and then, he glanced through his slitlike eyes at the girl.

She left his scrutiny and was uncomfortable under it. When the man left the room softly, she took courage to look around. Dane's home. The home she was wondering about, trying to picture only this noon. Was it only this noon? So much had happened since then, that noon seemed years away.

A large room, with a high beamed ceiling, bookshelves covering one end of the wall, a big tapestry the other, and a fine collection of hunting prints another. The fireplace, a cowled, large affair, the fourth. A red leather couch was stretched in front of it, and a spaniel lay on the hearth, warming himself before the fire.

Kay didn't see him at first, and jumped when he came up and nuzzled her foot, wagging his tail. She patted his head. Dane hadn't told her he had a dog. His hair was long and feathery. Dane probably loved him very much. She did, too, because he was Dane's. She had never had a dog, never been around one.

The room smelled faintly of tobacco, and on a table pulled alongside the couch was a pewter, scarred pipe stand, with a briar pipe resting on it. Near it was a half filled tobacco jar. Kay noticed some hangings at her left. She rose to investigate. They were on a French door which led to a small roof garden. It was bare of furniture now, and snow covered, but she realized that in the summer months it would be gorgeous. The room was so homey, so comfortable . . .

The spaniel had followed her slowly to the door and stood beside her while she peered through the glass at the lights which spread below her. So quiet up here. She could hear nothing of the traffic, and yet the place was in the heart of New York.

A glance at a tall grandfather clock in the corner told her it was 6 o'clock. And she must have been in the apartment 10 minutes—at least at that time.

When was Dane coming?

The servant looked in.

"Has Mr. Talbot come in yet?"

"No, miss." The man spoke excellent English. He had brought in some evening papers, and put them down beside her.

"What is the dog's name?"

"Malachai—" Then he was gone.

Strangely Kay felt rested as she waited. More peaceful, contented than she had been since she had recognized Larry. She lay her head back on the couch and closed her eyes. She was going to see Dane. Malachai lay at her feet. Funny naming the dog Malachai. A saint's name, wasn't it?

Somewhere in the apartment a door closed, and the girl sprang to her feet. Dane!

And then he came in struggling out of his overcoat, his eyes weary, his shoulders a little stooped. The servant was following him.

"Kay!"

He had her two hands and was looking into her face eagerly.

"I couldn't help coming, even if Dr. Raleigh said I shouldn't. You don't mind?"

"I just came from your place. Edith was there and told me you weren't there—"

The servant effaced himself quickly. He didn't understand this. His master so glad to see the young lady, who did not correspond in the least to the photograph that stood on the dresser in his bedroom. The photograph, Kim knew, was that of Mr. Talbot's fiancee . . .

"What shall we do, Kay?"

He turned to see Kim back again at his elbow, coughing slightly to attract his attention.

"Miss Drew, she's come to see you—" Kim said slowly.

Kay's lips formed the word, Julie. Julie mustn't see her here. Wildly she looked for an exit.

"She mustn't see me," she whispered to Dane, picking up her hat which she had thrown on the couch . . .

Before Dane knew what she was doing, she sped across the room, and slipped behind the hangings which concealed the French door onto the roof garden.

"Hello," Julie was in the room greeting Dane. "I thought I'd find you in. I want to talk with you."

There was Dane's incoherent murmur . . .

Q.—Please give some information about Josiah Wedgewood.—A. B.

A.—Josiah Wedgewood was born on July 12, 1730. He was the youngest son of a potter and came of a family of which members had been notable potters in Staffordshire. Soon after the death of his father in 1739, he became skilled in the art of shaping pottery on the wheel. In 1753 he became manager of a small pottery. In 1759 he began work on his own account in the Ivy House Pottery at Burslem. Salt glaze and green and yellow glaze seem to have been his first staples. However, the fine white English earthenware was just reaching perfection and Wedgewood became one of its best known makers. He presented a service of his ware to Queen Charlotte in 1762 and was appointed potter to the queen and later to the king. He next turned his attention to artistic pottery and reproduced designs based on the later phases of Greek art.

Q.—How is the sturgeon caught? —B. R.

A.—The bureau of fisheries says that the sturgeon is caught by snagging. It will not take any bait. Snagging is done with a hook and line. A very heavy linen thread is used for the line about ⅛ inch in diameter. The hook should be very stout and from 3 to 4 inches in length.

Q.—On what date did Queen Victoria first sign herself V. R. and I.? —D. P. A.

A.—The diary kept by the Queen records that this first occurred on Jan. 1, 1877.

Q.—When is it correct to use the word farther, and when should it be further?—E. P.

A.—The word farther is used to express physical distance. The word further is employed when mental progression is indicated. It is, therefore, correct to say, "I will walk farther along the road than you will" and "Let us discuss this no further."

Q.—What is dead reckoning in airplane travel?—E. W. M.

A.—Dead reckoning means navigating, or laying the course taking into consideration the following factors: Air speed of the plane, true course from starting point to destination, magnetic variation at start and at destination which would affect reading of compass, miles between start and destination, wind, its direction and velocity (this would affect speed and direction of travel of plane). Considering these factors, one would figure what the true direction would be, then applying the variation, what the magnetic direction would be, then applying the comparative speed and direction of the plane and how much he would have to "crab" it to keep him on his course he would get his compass reading for his flight and also the time it should take him to make it. That is dead reckoning.

Q.—What is the source of the remark, "Twenty million Frenchmen can't go wrong"?—E. H. B.

A.—It is a song in the musical comedy, "Tour of Paris."

Q.—Who is the minister to Panama?—F. N.

A.—The Hon. Roy T. Davis of Missouri has been envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to the Republic of Panama since Dec. 16, 1929.

Q.—Does the color of a person's clothes make him easier or harder to see on a highway at night?—F. M. L.

A.—There is a decided difference. Light colored clothes are a protection to a pedestrian.

Q.—How high is the fog over Newfoundland? What is the difference between fog and clouds?—J. E. H.

A.—The fog near Newfoundland is sometimes 8,000 feet high. There is no difference between fog and clouds except that when a cloud formation is low and is unbroken it is called a fog.

Q.—Were soldiers during the world war paid while confined in disciplinary barracks?—J. L. D.

A.—Soldiers who were thus confined were paid only from the date of their restoration to active service.

Q.—Why was Wall street, New York City, so named?—G. A. F.

A.—It was so named because it follows the line of the early city wall across Manhattan island.

The Record News Offers A Booklet on the School Child's Health

Children may not like to think of it, but vacation is almost over and school time is at hand. Parents must give thought to it and one of the first questions that confronts them is, "Is my child fit to attend school?" The answer to this question is one of the gravest of parental responsibilities. Clothes, shoes, books, bags and lunch boxes are the usual considerations, but the routine of going to school has a new and more important side to which parents have previously paid too little attention—the health of the child. Children should be prepared for school as carefully and completely as soldiers are got ready for war.

The booklet, The School Child's Health, prepared by the American School Hygiene association, with the cooperation of the American Red Cross, should be in the hands of every mother.

That Body Of Yours

By JAS. W. BARTON, M. D.

Your Shape May Affect Your Health

I have spoken before about the three general shapes of individuals; one with the short narrow body and long legs; one with the long wide body and short legs; and one with what might be called normal length of body and legs.

The narrow thin short body on legs would be more likely (but not necessarily) to have lung trouble and indigestion.

The wide long body and short legs would be stronger naturally, but as he would be a good "feeder" he was more likely to have liver, heart, and kidney ailments.

The individual with normal length of body and legs would naturally have a little better chance than either of the others in avoiding definite ailments.

However there is another factor enters into this matter and that is the ductless glands.

Too much thyroid activity and you get the thin nervous individual easily flushed, feels the heat keenly; heart rapid, often grows very tall in his teens.

Not enough thyroid activity and you find slow heart, overweight, habitual headache. Activity of adrenal glands, situated one above each kidney, means strength of body and mind. Inactivity of these glands means long slender bones, tending to tuberculosis.

Activity of the pituitary glands in the skull means great increase in length and strength of bones such as in these "giants" of the circus side show.

Inactivity or lowered activity of these glands means shortness of height, increase in fat about body, bones thin, teeth irregular.

Activity of parathyroid glands, behind the breast bone means shortness of height.

Less or lowered activity of these glands means more length and slenderness of bone, thus increase in height. Also while intelligence is normal there is mental depression very marked.

The secretion of the pancreas gland affects the handling of the sugar in the blood.

The secretion of the thymus gland in neck affects growth of bones and nerves and muscles, as does also the pineal body in the skull.

You can thus see that you are to a considerable extent what your glands have made you.

You are what you are in shape. Take a look at yourself.

If thin get out of doors and eat good food.

If tendency to be stout, eat less and take more exercise.

This is all you can do about it, but this is really all you need to do about it, because nature is really very kind to us.

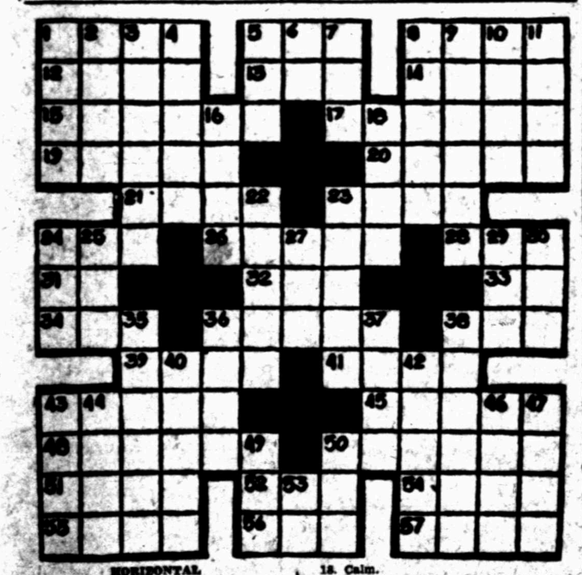

School opens soon. Why not rent your bedroom or apartment to teachers or students? A small want ad in The Times and Record News may bring results.—Adv.

Texas League Stars May Jump to Majors in 1931

By GAYLE TALBOT JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Aug. 31.—When the flag goes down on the Texas league race Sept. 7, some choice young material will be available for duty in the big show.

It is considered a certainty that at least a half dozen of the circuit's brightest stars will see service in the majors before the year is out. Several should stick.

The St. Louis Browns, owners of the Wichita Falls entry, will have the inside track on several of the best prospects.

They include the burly Larry Bettencourt, Jim Levey, a shortstop, Irving Burns, first baseman, and Jack Kloza, outfielder.

Bettencourt, former all-American football center at St. Mary's, played a vital part with his big bat in driving the Spudders to the first-half title.

He has led the loop in home runs, been among the leaders in runs scored and batted in, and has played practically every position including backstop. He failed to stick with the Browns last year, but his chances are good if given another chance.

The Fort Worth Cats have set a price of $20,000 on Leslie Mallon, rookie second sacker. Scouts of a dozen clubs have looked the youngster over and the Yanks are expected to get him. Although playing his first year in class A, Mallon has fielded brilliantly and hit around .320.

In Joe Moore the San Antonio club has what President Alvin Gardner of the Texas league regards as the greatest outfield prospect since Tris Speaker went up.

Moore has been one of the loop's leading sluggers and has a great throwing arm. The Indians were reported to have rejected a $30,000 offer for him.

Waco offers Gene Rye, a squat little outfielder, who has been hitting around .360 consistently. Rye either equalled or broke eight records in a game against Beaumont when he cracked out three home runs in one inning and drove in eight runs.

DOVE SEASON OPENS TODAY

Lake Shores to See Score Of Nimrods

Scores of Wichita Falls nimrods were expected to fare forth Monday with gun a-shoulder to see what they could wing, the occasion being the opening of the dove season, a period full of excitement for those who follow the sport.

The surrounding country has rarely experienced a dearth of doves, on account of the numerous lakes and ponds. Hunters were expected to be numerous around Lake Wichita and Lake Kemp Monday and throughout the season.

Authorities cautioned the hunters, however, to avoid crossing into neighboring counties without a hunting license. Some of Wichita county's best hunting grounds are near the Archer county line, it was pointed out.

Shawkey To Retain Job

By BILL SLOCUM

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31. (US)—Bob Shawkey will remain as manager of the New York Yankees through the season of 1931. It is possible that the new contract which he will be asked to sign will be for a two-year term. Regardless of whether the Yankees finish second or third or what the team may accomplish in the last month of the season, Shawkey's place is secure.

Official announcement of Shawkey's reappointment may be withheld until the close of the season, but it already has been decided upon.

McLarnin Ready For Hard Training Grind

ORANGEBURG, N. Y., Aug. 31. (US)—Jimmy McLarnin is ready for the hard regular grind with the gloves now. He has had three workouts in light exercises since establishing camp here and before that trained several times on the train while en route East from the coast.

McLarnin after his workout had been completed today scaled a bit more than 143 and thus, with about eight hard boxing sessions facing him should encounter no difficulty in paring down to the 141 mark by easy stages.

The baby-faced coast sensation declared he is now in prime condition and stated that he only required the necessary boxing before meeting Al Singer. McLarnin looks upon his fight with Singer as one of the most important of his career and also anticipates probably the hardest fight of all.

Pirates and Browns Lead Majors In Scoring and Winning During Week

By HUGH S. FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

With fewer games than usual on the schedule, due principally to the end of the intersectional series, the major leagues gave a few remarkable examples of different methods of winning and losing ball games last week. In general, the teams scoring the most runs won the most games. The two high scorers, Pittsburgh and the St. Louis Browns, led in the weekly standings.

The Pirates led the National league again, winning six games and losing two by virtue of belting out 103 hits and scoring 59 runs. The St. Louis Cardinals, who took second with five victories and two defeats, were second in hitting with 88 wallops, but scored only 40 times and allowed their opponents 42 tallies. Chicago's Cubs scored 50 runs for second place and came in third for the week with four games won and two lost. The Boston Braves and Brooklyn Robins each won two games and lost two to tie for fourth place. The Robins led defensively giving their rivals only 19 runs while Pittsburgh made about the same average with 39 opponents' runs in seven games.

The St. Louis Browns had to yield first place in the American league hit totals to the Chicago White Sox. They made 67 hits to Chicago's 84, but the Browns topped the scorers with 41 runs to 38 for the Sox. Chicago, however, finished only third for the week with its record of four victories and three defeats. The Browns had five victories and one defeat to lead while Washington with one less victory took second.

The Boston Red Sox, who scored only eight runs and gave their opponents 17, finished fourth by getting an even break in their four games. Defensively, the Philadelphia Athletics followed Boston in the junior circuit, allowing only 21 opponent's runs but the A's could do little better. St. Louis and Washington each gave their rivals 24 tallies.

British Poloists Revamp Lineup

PORT WASHINGTON, N. Y., Aug. 31. (AP)—The British international polo team, casting around for a scoring punch, suddenly discovered it today by switching their lineup in the midst of a practice match on the field of the Sands Point club.

The Britons, as one of their spokesmen put it, were "having the very deuce of a time" holding a lead of 6 to 2 over a picked-up American team, featuring Elmer Boeseke and Cecil Smith, the two westerners, when a sudden decision was reached at the outset of the sixth chukker to try a new formation.

The shake-up was sensationally radical, with Lieutenant Humphrey Guinness replacing Lewis Lacey, the famous Anglo-Argentine at back; Lacey moving up to No. 2, from which post Gerald Balding was advanced to No. 1, replacing his younger brother, J. Barney Balding.

The revamped British four, taking on new life and aggressiveness, staged a scoring spree that produced three goals in each of the remaining three periods and enabled them to beat the blue-shirted Roslyn quartet by the final score of 15 to 6. No handicaps were conceded although the British had a seven-goal advantage in this respect over the 26-goal Roslyn combination.

A'S DEFEAT RED SOX, 2 TO 1

Shores Bests MacFayden In Mound Battle

BOSTON, Aug. 31. (AP)—The Athletics defeated the Boston Red Sox, 2 to 1 here today behind the three-hit pitching of Bill Shores, who had slightly the better of Danny MacFayden in a pitchers' duel.

The Red Sox made only one hit after the first inning, when they scored for the only time on singles by Scarritt and O. Miller with a stolen base in between. The Athletics tied the count in the second on a pass to Foxx and singles by Bing Miller and Boley. They scored the winning run in the sixth in similar fashion on a pass to Simmons and singles by Summa and Foxx. Score:

CLEVELAND 17, BROWNS 6

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 31. (AP)—One big inning in which 10 runs were scored was more than enough to give the Cleveland Indians a 17 to 6 victory over the St. Louis Browns in the opening game of a series here today. Thirteen men went to bat for Cleveland in the big seventh inning. Hodapp and Morgan contributed homers in that frame besides getting another hit each. Walter Stewart, who has won 16 games for the Brownies this year, was the losing pitcher. Score:

Wild Bill Limits Cubs to Four Hits as Cards Beat Champs, 8 to 3

CHICAGO, Aug. 31. (AP)—Wild Bill Hallahan held the Cubs to four hits today and the St. Louis Cardinals trounced the National league champions, 8 to 3, to even the series at two each. Outside of the eighth when the Cubs bunched three of their safeties, Hallahan was in no danger, and embellished his triumph by striking out 12 men. Jess Petty started for the Cubs, but was batted out of action in four innings. Guy Bush succeeded him and fared little better, and Lynn Nelson and Al Shealy finished without further Cardinal scoring. BROOKLYN, Aug. 31. (AP)—The Robins fell on Sweetland and Hansen for 23 hits here this afternoon and easily beat the Phillies, 14 to 3. Adolfo Luque went the route for the victors.

It was the first day of play since a new 20-foot screen had been constructed atop the right field fence at Ebbets field. The screen was entirely ignored by the players who celebrated the occasion with five homers. Wright, Bressler and Whitney hit home runs into the left field bleachers and Herman and Hurst hit home runs completely over the new screen. Score:

GIANTS, BRAVES SPLIT

NEW YORK, Aug. 31. (AP)—The Giants had a chance to pick up a game and a half on the league leading Cubs today but the McGraw men could only break even in a double-header with the Braves, squeezing through to win the first game, 4 to 3, and dropping the second duel of sluggers, 14 to 10.

A four-run rally in the fourth inning overcame the Braves' three-run lead to win the opener, and a five-run furore in the fifth frame tied the score in the second contest, but even the heavy hitting of Melvin Ott, who slammed out a double and three home runs, could not bring victory to the Giants in the twilight session. Rixey was never in danger except in the fifth inning when the Pirates counted their only tally. Hemsley singled to center with one out and Rixey let loose a wild one that hit Brame on the hand. P. Texas Poloist

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—The spectacular entry of Herbert W. (Rube) Williams into the battle this year for places on the American polo "Big Four" marks a salient step in the game's nationwide growth.

Eight years ago the Rube was a cow-puncher on a big ranch near Llano, Texas. The Lone Star state had bred many a good polo pony and Williams knew a good one when he saw it. But at that time he had no special ambition to take up the game.

This year the Texan has galloped to the vanguard in the big parade of polo on Long Island, along with Cecil Smith, another rider from the Southwest.

Williams at 39, the oldest of the international squad, has attracted unusual attention by his daring, brilliant riding.

Ponies seem to know they have a master in the saddle when the Rube has the leg up.

Whether or not Williams makes the American team for the series with England, starting Sept. 6, he will have played a prominent role in the campaign of preparation.

Primarily a defensive player, Rube consistently has spurred Capt. Tommy Hitchcock's varsity "Whites" by his spectacular work at No. 3 or at back for the jayvee "Reds." Williams finally was given a trial at No. 2 with the regulars, inasmuch as this position has been the one most difficult to fill. He made a good impression, but did not do so well as when in the backfield.

Williams and Smith broke into polo at about the same time, through the aid of George Miller, well known San Antonio dealer in polo ponies.

They first were given jobs at breaking in the mounts and fell naturally into competition. Williams has ranked at six goals, as a back, for the past two years. He has earned a two-goal increase, on the basis of his performances in the test matches.

Nocona Organizes Third League Croquet Team

Special to The Record News.

NOCONA, Texas, Aug. 31.—The organization of the third league croquet team was completed this week and there are five courts on which to play. However, only three are used regularly.

Matched games are being played every week between the north and south side leagues, and quite an interest is being taken by fans on both sides.

Croquet is played here summer and winter. Players are becoming skilled and games between the different leagues are sometimes very exciting.

An invitation is extended players of other cities and games can readily be matched most any time. Local players do not consider themselves particularly experts, but believe they can make it interesting to all comers.

Of a squad of 50 grid men at Duke this fall only five will be seniors.

GOLFERS READY FOR TOURNEY

Annual Country Club Meet Starts Today

Looking over the battle-ground and planning their strategy, groups of golfers Sunday toured the Wichita Falls Country club course here in anticipation of the third annual invitation tournament which opens Monday.

First round eliminations will be the order of the day Monday, with the entry list being closed at noon. Driving, approaching and putting contests will be held late Monday afternoon.

Play in the various flights will start Tuesday morning, with the second round in regular flights and first round in consolation flights being played that afternoon. Finals are expected to be reached Thursday, when trophies will be awarded the winners.

Wichita Falls entrants will make a bid to cinch the tournament this year. Gus Moreland, Dallas, won out over Jack Jackson of this city in the 1929 tournament.

East-West Tennis Meet Starts Today

NEW YORK, Aug. 31. (US)—East is East and West is West and tomorrow the twain shall meet in another one of those East-West tennis matches, first made memorable by the struggles of the giants, William Tilden and William Johnston.

Although Tilden and Johnston will be absent tomorrow the one conserving his energies for the defense of his national championship, commencing Saturday, and the other fighting disease in the Pacific coast region, talent will not be lacking when the opposing teams foregather at Forest Hills.

For the East John van Ryn of East Orange, Gregory S. Mangin of Newark, and Frank X. Shields of New York, will bear the brunt of the enemy's singles attack. J. Gilbert Hall of South Orange accompanied by Shield, and Van Ryn and Mangin, will compete in the doubles affairs.

George Lott of Chicago, John Hope Doeg of Santa Monica, Calif., and Berkeley Bell of Texas, will appear on the western front, with Lott and Doegg collaborating in one of the doubles and Bell and Ellsworth Vines of Pasadena, Calif., co-ordinating in the supplementary tandem engagement.

On the surface the Western delegation seems to have the better chance for victory. Shields should defeat Bell but Doeg, on his 1929 form, is the superior of Mangin. Lott has greater potentialities than Van Ryn, while Lott and Doeg have too much power for Van Ryn and Mangin as a doubles unit. Bell and Vines vs. Shields and Hall is too close a proposition for simple forecast.

Mishaps Overtake Speedboat Racer

DETROIT, Aug. 31. (AP)—Deprived of one of her two challenging boats, Miss Marion Barbara Carstairs, making her third attempt to wrest the Harmsworth trophy from the veteran Gar Wood, faces an almost impossible task in the second heat tomorrow of the British international speedboat classic.

Mishap, which has beset each of the English girl's two previous efforts to recapture for Great Britain the trophy that symbolizes the world's speedboat championship, overtook her Estelle V., driven by Bert Hawker in the opening heat yesterday, forcing it definitely out of the race.

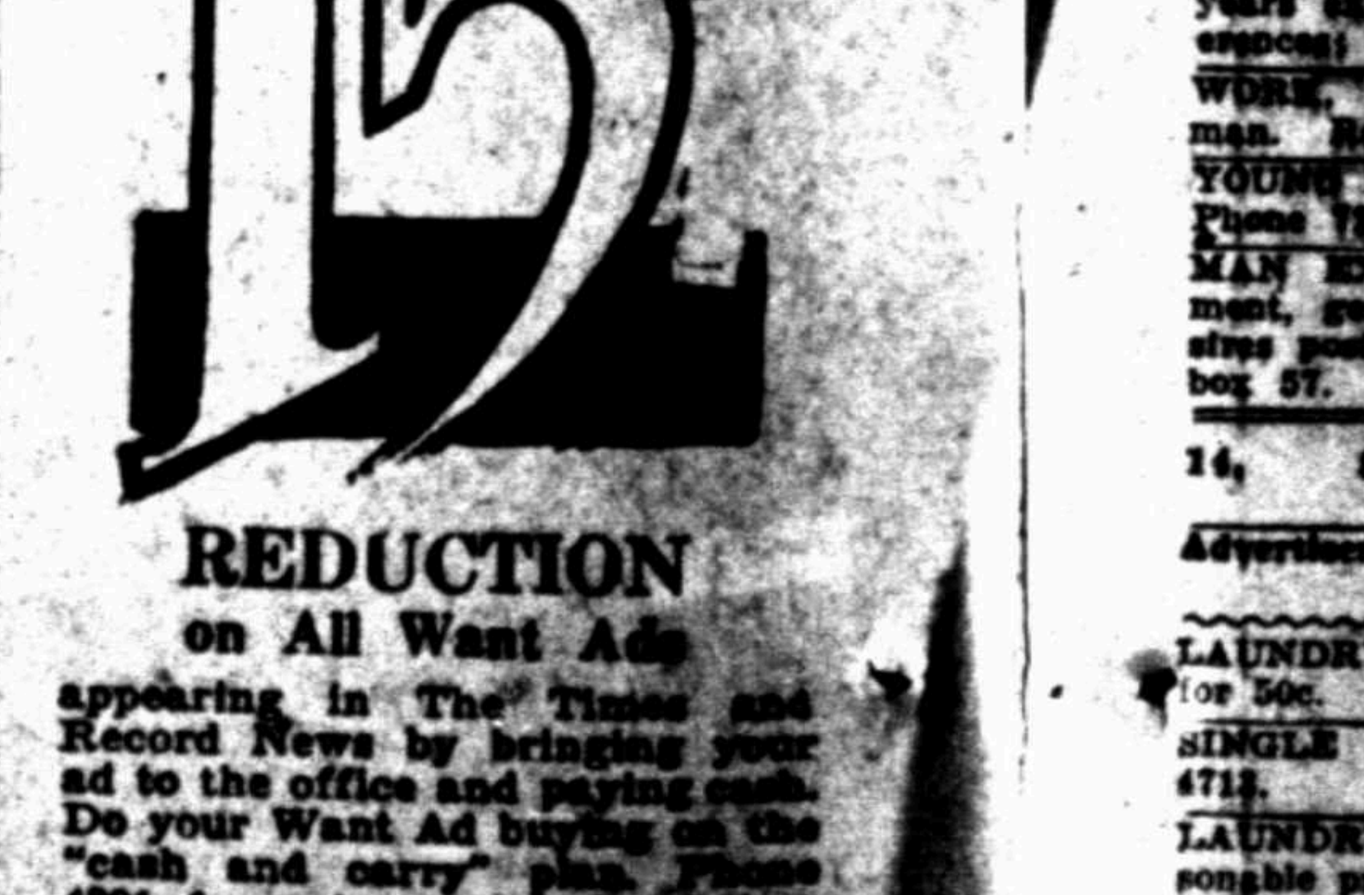

When Hawker accepted a tow after his fuel tanks collapsed in the first heat, Miss Carstairs was left alone with her Estelle IV, as the sole hope of Great Britain in the remainder of the heat and race. She was hopelessly beaten in the first race, but was forcing her boat at better than 72 miles an hour at the end of yesterday's heat.

Mishap also entered today into what was to have been the first heat of the international race for 5½ liter hydroplanes. The Phantom, driven by Luetcher Brown, of Houston, Texas, turned over when a patrol boat crossed its path, and Miss Britain I, Hubert Scott Paine's challenger, was forced out by engine trouble after making a sudden stop to offer aid to the Phantom. The crew of the Phantom was unhurt and was taken off by a patrol craft. Declaring the heat "no contest," the regatta committee ordered it re-run tomorrow.

Beaten Central Texans Walk Off Diamond

LLANO, Texas, Aug. 31. (AP)—The Fredericksburg Giants, who were leading the hill country league by half a game, yielded first place to Llano when they forfeited the game here today with the score 3 to 1 in favor of Llano in the eighth inning. The Fredericksburg team walked off of the field.

In the first 20 games he worked this year Herb Pennock, Yankee left-hander, issued only 12 bases on balls.

BARRON TELLS AMOS' STORY

'The Man and His Message' Subject of Talk

"God is more interested in judgment and righteousness than He is in ritual observances," the members of the Kay Bible class were told Sunday morning in an address by John Daniel Barron on the subject, "Amos, the Man and His Message." Mr. Barron described God as an ethical being in his address on the prophet Amos, saying He is a gracious and a good God who offers us the invitation to do good but who charges us a high rate of interest for our evils.

The address in full follows:

"Amos was a herdsman of Tekoa. His occupation, like that of a rural postman, was such that he had much spare time. Amos, being an industrious man, applied himself to a sideline to augment the old monthly pay-check. His sideline was that of pinching the figlike fruit of the sycomores, for the purpose of hastening its maturity. That is to say, then, Amos was not born a prophet nor schooled a prophet; he was just a plain country layman. This early background, like the early background of every man, colored and gave direction to all his official life.

Mystic Temperament

"Though he was not born and bred to the prophetic office, Amos possessed the essential qualifications of a prophet. He had a mystic temperament. He had a keen insight into the moral character of God. He could read the trend of events. He was mastered by abiding convictions. He was fearless in the pronouncement of those convictions. He felt the urge to go tell Israel what he knew about God and what the evil life would surely lead them to in the end. So he went, and became one of the most unique and colorful prophets of the Old Testament, as well as one of the most important. Along with Hosea, Isaiah, and Micah, Amos was an eighth century prophet who ushered in a new type of prophesy, a type of prophesy which had an ethical God at its center.

"Before speaking about the prophetic message of Amos, I desire to say one word about the nature of prophesy. The primary function of the Old Testament prophet was not that of predicting future events. His primary function was that of interpreting the mind and purpose of God, and what predictions he made were based on his insight into the character of God. his reading of history, his knowledge of cause and effect, and his common sense. We have prophets today, in the fullest sense of the word; that is, men who interpret the mind and the purpose of God. They predict too, but their predictions are based on their insight into things. The prophets then, as now, were preachers who interpreted life in terms of God. That is what Amos did.

"Notice some of the things to which the clear-eyed prophet directed his earnest message. First, great prosperity had come to Israel and a wealthy class had grown up who lived in luxury and extravagance. 'There were houses of hewn stone, furniture inlaid with ivory, cushions of silk, costly and elaborate dress, the drinking of wine from bowls, the eating of flesh every day, drunkenness and gluttony.' Amos' rustic molded soul abhorred this. The thing that stirred his soul to a frenzy was the fact that all this yealth was procured by selling 'the righteous for silver, and the poor for a pair of shoes.' Then, as now, the rich climbed high over the bodies of the poor.

"In addition to the rich, Amos directed his message to the local tribunal which did not effect justice in the land. The wealthy man with a 'pull' could bribe the judges, while the wrath of the same judges was visited upon the defenseless heads of the widows, orphans and aliens. The poor often lost his land or even members of his family in order to buy food. The rich living in luxury and ease did not care about the lot of the unfortunate masses. Amos had a word for them!

Scathing Message

"Then, Amos directed a scathing message to the religious folk of his day. When he went up to Bethel from the desert hills of Tekoa he saw religion profaned. The people there had departed from the old moralities and accepted the Canaanites' modes of worship. High ethical standards were not required by the religion practiced under the name of Jehovah but which was in fact Baal worship. Amos thundered his condemnations in the name of Jehovah. The people of his day felt that when they had offered sacrifices, said their prayers, and observed the Sabbath laws that God required no more of them. They could observe the ritual then plunge in to corruption up to their rotten necks.

"To the condition of illegitimite riches, cruel injustice, and divorce of religion from morals Amos came with his interpretation of the mind and purpose of God. First of all, says the prophet, God is opposed to all this. What is more, he will not stand for it. Do not forget that he can punish you and that he will. Do not ever think he cannot or will not bring his hand down upon you for your sins. Through history he is able and does work his will and his penalty falls heavily upon such as goes on in Israel.

"Amos interprets God's nature as ethical. He represents Him as saying: 'I hate, I despise your feast days, and I will not smell in your solemn assemblies. Though ye offer me burnt offerings and your meat offerings, I will not accept them: neither will I regard the peace offerings of your fat beasts. Take thou away from me the noise of thy songs; for I will not hear the melody of thy viols. But let judgment run down as waters, and righteousness as a mighty stream.' That is, God is more interested in judgment and righteousness than he is in ritual observances. That is a trite thing to say today; it was heresy then. But the point is well taken today: God demands of us justice and righteousness, for He is an ethical being.

"The invitation of Amos to the wrongdoers of his day was to seek the good, not evil; hate evil, love good, and establish justice and righteousness. That is the invitation that is still extended. The old doom still hangs over us: do wrong and you will pay for it. We are paying now: paying with a high rate of interest for our evils. Amos saw God as a gracious and forgiving God who would save those who gave up their meanness and learned to do good, to use one of Sam Jones' favorite phrases. The security of the world still lies in the direction indicated by this clear-visioned prophet from Tekoa.

Science Sermon Of 'Christ Jesus'

"Christ Jesus" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday.

The golden text was from I John 4:14. "We have seen and do testify that the Father sent the Son to be the Savior of the world."

Included in the lesson-sermon was the following passage from the Bible: "I saw in the night visions, and, behold, one like the Son of Man came with the clouds of Heaven, and came to the ancient of days" (Daniel 7:13.)

The service also included the following citations from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The advent of Jesus of Nazareth marked the first century of the Christian era, but the Christ is without beginning of years or end of days . . . Abraham, Jacob, Moses, and the prophets caught glorious glimpses of the Messiah, or Christ, which baptized these seers in the divine nature, the essence of Love" (p. 333).

CITY OBSERVES LABOR DAY

Many Events Listed For Holiday Crowds

Wichita Falls will find a diversity of recreational activities Monday by which to celebrate Labor day, many residents having begun their holiday Saturday afternoon or Sunday in order to take full advantage of the extended week-end.

The opening of dove hunting season Monday morning added one more sport to those offered here and many hunters had taken up their position at favored spots late Sunday night in order to try for the bag limit the first day. Along other lines there will be the theaters, swimming, dancing at Lakeside park, fishing, pleasure trips to nearby resorts including Lake Kemp and the Wichita mountains, boating, picnicking, golfing including the miniature kind, motoring, even airplane hops, and dozens of other recreations, not forgetting that many will celebrate the day with quiet reading and resting at their homes.

Lakeside park will offer a special celebration of the holiday, with a baloon ascension and parachute leap headlining the bill. Mullins Musical Maids in vaudeville acts, the selection of winners in an old fiddlers' contest and "Farbian the Great" in a 500-foot slide through fire suspended by his teeth on a cable from the pavilion into the waters of Lake Wichita will be other features on the program for the day, at no extra cost to visitors at the park.

City and county officials will take a holiday and the postoffice will be open only from 8 to 9 a. m., with the exception of the money order window. Postal clerks and carriers will have the day off, and only special delivery letters will be delivered. Practically all stores and offices and all banks will be closed.

A Wichita Falls delegation of Kiwanians will spend their holiday by attending the district convention of Kiwanis International at Lubbock. Other Wichitans will journey to Dallas to witness the doubleheader between the Spudders and the Steers, the game promising to have great effect on the second half championship.

August, 1930, Neither as Hot Nor As Dry as in 1929, Says Weather Man

Considered as a whole, the month of August just past was a considerably more pleasant month so far as heat and rainfall—what little there was—is concerned than August a year ago in Wichita Falls.

This fact, which is almost sure to be doubted by those who were forced to remain in the city throughout the month, was revealed Sunday in the monthly report of the government cooperative weather bureau at the Texas Electric Service company. The report, showing comparative figures for August this year and August, 1929, indicated that while the month just past gave Wichita Falls one record high temperature, the average maximum for August a year ago was considerably higher than the mean maximum this year, and while August, 1929, had heavy rainfall on one day, that was the only rain during the whole month and August this year had seven days of appreciable rain.

A comparative table presenting the bureau's report follows:

	Aug., 1930	Aug., 1929
Mean maximum	101.87	102.55
Mean minimum	74.22	75.13
Mean temperature	88.05	88.84

Minimum	66.00 on 26th	68.00 on 15th
Greatest daily range	34.00 on 18th, 31st	35.00 on 16th
Precipitation, total inches	1.35	1.05

HASKELL PLANS COUNTY FAIR

Leaders Foresee Record Crowds in October

Special to The Record News.

HASKELL, Texas, Aug. 31.—After the two-inch rainfall that was general throughout the entire county of Haskell, the Haskell County Fair association is very optimistic as to the outlook for this year's fair, predicting not only the best agricultural exhibits and poultry show, but also by far the largest attended fair in its history. The dates have been set for Oct. 16, 17, and 18, and will open the first night with a spectacular pageant and coronation in which some 30 towns and cities have already signified their intention of participation.

Munday, Knox county, and Anson, Jones county, will compete with Haskell for the international burro polo championship. The feature atttraction in entertainment will be one of the best and largest rodeos ever held in the state and will be open to the world, with valueable cash prizes in all divisions.

The fair park plant is undergoing a general overhauling and painting with the enlargement of the poultry and livestock buildings and in addition to the 2,000 capacity grandstand the management is to install 2,400 seats around the arena to take care of the overflow crowd that is expected for the rodeo and real Mexican bull fight that is to be held during the fair with real, wild Mexican bulls, matadors and vaqueros.

District Convention to Open Today

Special to The Record News.

LUBBOCK, Texas, Aug. 31.—District Gov. E. L. Mitchell of Clinton, Okla., will open the 13th annual Texas-Oklahoma district convention of Kiwanis International here at 9 o'clock Monday morning.

Several hundred Kiwanians from 113 clubs in Texas and Oklahoma arrived here Saturday and Sunday and over 1,500 are expected by the time the convention opens.

Guests Welcomed

The out-of-town visitors were met at the train by J. T. Trigg, chairman and nearly a hundred Lubbock citizens on the committee. An auto tour was staged Sunday afternoon for the visitors. The visitors were honor guests at Lubbock churches Sunday evening when special programs were held honoring the guests.

Dr. R. C. Campbell, pastor of the First Baptist church will give the invocation when the convention opens Monday morning.

The welcome address will be made by Judge Clark M. Mullican, president of the Lubbock club, to be followed by a welcome song by Mrs. Violet Graham McKnight.

John R. Woodard of Tulsa, Okla., past district governor will respond to the welcome address.

Denton Man to Speak

L. A. McDonald, Denton, will speak on the "Future of Kiwanis in This District." Two discussions will be held. E. H. Homberger, Woodard, Okla., will lead a discussion on "Vocational Guidance and Placement," and J. W. Collins, Amarillo will lead a discussion on "Underprivileged Child Work."

Three luncheon conferences will be held at noon. Thomas G. Cook, Buffalo, Okla., will preside over the district trustees. Loyal L. Nelms, president of the Houston club will preside over the presidents, and James L. Webb, secretary at Gainesville, will preside at a luncheon for the club secretaries.

Four addresses and discussions will be heard Monday afternoon.

O. Sam Cummings and R. G. Story of Dallas are on the afternoon program. Cummings will address the Kiwanians on "Kiwanis and Business Standards." Cummings is a past president of the international organization. Story will lead a discussion of "Attendance as the Keystone of Success in Kiwanis Clubs." The discussion is to be followed by another on the subject, "How Our Club Secures Good Attendance," led by D. E. Hodges, Ponca City, Okla.

F. Marion Bralley, Amarillo, will lead a discussion on "Club Programs in Relation to Good Attendance."

J. Frank Smith, Tyler, will lead a discussion on "How to Interest the Individual Club in Public Affairs of the Community."

In Convention Attire

Lubbock is all dressed up for the convention. Colored street lights swing across each street intersection in the downtown business district. These lights are supplimented during the day time by flags and other decorations and most everywhere one looks, there is a sign "Welcome Kiwanians," and special window displays set up for the visitors.

MAJESTIC: Ruth Chatterton and Clive Brook in "Anybody's Woman." Labor day feature, sound news, Chinatown fantasy and Laurel and Hardy comedy.

STRAND: "All Quiet on the Western Front," best-seller and recent Record News serial. Mickey Mouse musical comedy. Sound news.

STATE: Jack Mulhall and Sue Carol in "The Golden Calf." Comedy and sound news.

GEM: "The Girl Said No," with William Haynes and Leila Hyams. Short subjects.

There is a gulf wider than that which separates two countries—the difference between the woman in the Rolls-Royce and the girl in the third-floor bedroom, in spite of what has been said about Judy O'Grady and the colonel's lady. A contrast of the Ruth Chatterton who played in "Charming Sinners" and the one who is "Anybody's Woman" is ample proof. It was probably much more difficult for Miss Chatterton to learn the gum-chewing, slangy part in the latter than it has been for her to portray a Frenchwoman in "Madame X" or a German in "Sarah and Son,"—if anything is difficult for her.

It is hard to believe one's ears and eyes—Ruth Chatterton oh-yeahing and getting loop-legged. Yet her characterization of the pitiful Parisy is not in the least overdone. It requires a belief in fairies and Santa Claus and congress to ever grasp the reality of the plot, if any. Of course, if some omnipotent director were to embellish life by putting ex-wives and husbands in adjoining rooms in the same hotel, just for the sake of a happy ending, there would be more of such faith.

During the past year, a new test has been given actors—the ability to get drunk and be funny about it. Marie Dressler started it, or at least gave it its present impetus but nobody has approached her own faultless style of inebriation. Clive Brook proved his merit in "Anybody's Woman." He can get squiffy with the best of them. Brook, incidentally, can do more with a stiff back and a crooked eyebrow than most of them can do with dramatic hands and facial contortions. Superb acting, rather than a wonderful plot, makes "Anybody's Woman" a good show.

A good noisy comedy featuring the Messrs. Laurel and Hardy and their half-pint replicas as sons, furnishes enough contrast to make a good bill—if Ruth Chatterton, Clive Brook and Paul Lukas aren't enough, which they should be.

At the Strand, hundreds continue to pack the theater to see the most powerful force for world peace ever created—"All Quiet on the Western Front." The crowd was shooed out at midnight Saturday to give way to a collegiate gathering who wanted to see the four Marx brothers in "Animal Crackers," and the theater immediately filled up again, proving that tragedy and comedy are equally popular—or maybe proving nothing at all.

WAR HOWLERS TOLD TO SEE "ALL QUIET"

Editor, The Record News:

May all those who howled for war in 1917 see "All Quiet on the Western Front." And realize how great a debt we owe our courageous senators and congressmen who voted for war at that time. Splendid men they were who could send their fellow men out to suffer, and die in the name of glory.

The two hands hanging from the barbed wire, the horror stricken blinded boy, the maimed, the dead, all fighting for an imaginary cause, trumped up and carried through by the all-wise governments.

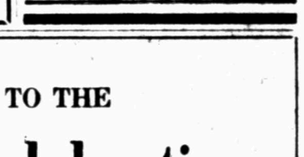

In another five or 10 years there will be another war. The crowds will cheer again, the bands play, orators enfuriate, older men encourage and but few object. Commissions will hasten to coin words of scorn and contempt for the few who remember the misery, and horror of the last war. Mediocre congressmen will herdlike follow the leader and vote again for the slaughter. Mothers will weep but not object for it "was always thus." And thousands will suffer again in the trenches, will suffer and die as before.

Why was this thing endured in a free country? Or is the country free? Why will they again endure it? What will be the next excuse now that the world has been made safe for democracy?

ANTHONY JENNINGS.
