Large Section Of Florida Isolated And Damage Big

Communication Lines Are Smashed; Hurricane Grows In Intensity With Wind Velocity 60 to 70.

FLOOD THREAT GROWS AS GIG RAINS FALL

New Disturbance Near Haiti Reported Moving Toward Coast and Caution Asked In U. S. Warning.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 14.—After isolating a 150 mile stretch of northwest Florida coast in its journey up the Gulf of Mexico last night, Florida's latest tropical storm veered inland with hurricane force today, and tonight was blowing across Southern Georgia toward the Atlantic.

Thomasville, Cairo, Quitman and other extreme southern Georgia towns felt approach of the disturbance which the weather bureau believed was fanned by winds of 60 to 70 miles an hour. It was believed the center would pass in the vicinity of Thomasville late tonight.

Sudden emergence of the storm from the Gulf of Cedar Keys in northwest Florida together with its seemingly increased intensity isolated the theory the center passed so far out in the gulf last night at Tampa and St. Petersburg those cities felt merely a lashing from the western edge.

Wire communications into the new storm area rapidly were going down and first reports said the damage apparently would be greater than that done by last week's storm which followed virtually the same course. Cairo on the Georgia-Florida border sent word that business was suspended.

Harrison Denies Texas Goes GOP

Desertion of Party Claimed By Republican Leaders Is Held Overdrawn By Senator From Mississippi.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Senator Harrison of the advisory committee of the democratic national committee tonight issued a statement denying assertions made at a republican meeting in San Francisco yesterday that democrats in Texas and other southern states were deserting their party.

The rainbow picture of possible republican victory in Texas rests only in the imagination of those who hope to drive a wedge into the democracy of that state, Senator Harrison said.

"Every report coming to our headquarters indicates that Governor Smith and Senator Robinson will carry Texas by just as substantial a majority as the democratic ticket there has in the past.

"It is true there is some defection in Texas growing out of the attitude of certain democrats in that state who have been misled by republican propaganda carried on through certain organizations which are being financed by the republican party, or republican financiers. But that defection will only stimulate democrats to greater efforts and insure more intense and effective organization.

"What is true of democratic success in Texas is likewise true in North Carolina and all the other southern states."

HAND MADE CANE IS WONDER STICK

Exhibiting a walking stick and constructed and made of 99 different kinds of woods, D. Thornton, Wortham farmer, was in Lubbock yesterday on business. The walking stick weighs 14 pounds and each of the 100 parts is marked to show the kinds of wood used.

According to Mr. Thornton, he received 5,000 orders in Texas, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Louisiana, and Arkansas to get the wood from which the stick was made used the 75 hours working time was used in making it.

He plans to enter the stick in the State Fair at Dallas, he said. Thornton made another stick, an ounce lighter than the one he displayed, with 28 different kinds of wood in it, he said.

Has Queer Alibi

Rex Mead, 13, declares that he would rather kill a man than have that man love him as his mother's estimation. When the lad was captured at Eugene, Ore., he freely admitted that he had killed E. D. Dewey because "I had done things which he threatened to tell my mother. I couldn't stand that."

Candidate Slate Named By Texas GOP Convention

State To Go Republican Predictions Say, With Harmony Prevalent In Fort Worth Meet.

FORT WORTH, Aug. 14.—Content of swinging Texas into the O. P. column through added strength of Hoover democrats, delegates to the republican state convention held today here left tonight after having selected state nominees and endorsed the candidacy of Herbert Hoover.

An anticipated challenge of the Texas county delegation by Congressman Harry Wornbach, Texas' only republican in Congress, failed tonight when he mounted the speaking platform and pledged support to Hoover.

Lilienthal Draws Cheers. C. C. Lilienthal, Fort Worth, who led the faction opposed to an instructed delegation to the national convention, was cheered enthusiastically when he mounted the speaking platform and pledged support to Hoover.

W. H. Holmes, Amarillo oil operator and candidate for lieutenant governor two years ago, was nominated for governor and T. M. Kennedy, Houston attorney was chosen as the party nominee for the United States senate.

Holmes will be opposed by Dan Moody, nominated for reelection at the recent democratic preferential primary. For party will contest for a seat in the United States senate with either Senator Earle B. Mayfield, the incumbent, or Congressman Tom Connally, one of whom will be chosen in the August 25 election.

Mrs. Lena More, Brownsville, member of the Texas delegation to the national convention, was nominated for lieutenant governor, as was the incumbent of Barry Miller, democratic incumbent.

Opponent to Follard. For their candidate as attorney general, republicans elected C. O. Harris, San Antonio attorney. He will oppose Attorney General Claude Follard.

Eugene Nolle, Seguin, was re-elected executive committee chairman. Victory for Hoover and Curtis, was predicted by the party keynote, C. K. McDowell, Del Rio.

"This year Texas is going republican through the help of democrats who will not wear the Tammany collar," McDowell said. "This will make Texas a two party state that will be recognized by the national government. The opportunity now is here."

DRAKE IS CHARGED

Local Man Held On Count Of Liquor Possession

Charges of possession of beer were filed yesterday in Justice O. R. Sont's court against M. D. Drake.

Drake was arrested last Saturday night by members of the sheriff's department, who made a raid about a mile southeast of town. A quantity of the beer was seized as evidence, but the greater part was emptied on the ground.

The house where the raid was made is located near the old Glendon road.

WHELOCK REFUSES TO CALL GATHERING

Warlick, Signing Plea, Says No Effort Is Planned To Force Candidate Support Of Demo Nominee.

Answering the refusal of Frank E. Wheelock, Lubbock county democratic chairman to recognize a resolution passed by the county executive committee at a recent meeting which would have required candidates in the run-off primary to pledge support to democratic national nominees, a call for a meeting of the county executive committee was issued here Tuesday under signature of Marvin T. Warlick, committee man from precinct one. "To meet and act on said resolutions and transact other business for the good of the democratic party in Lubbock county," the meeting is to be held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

LOWENSTEIN PROBE

Toxic Matter Is Reported Found In Viscera

PARIS, Aug. 14.—The international mystery of the death of Capt. Alfred Lowenstein, Belgian financier, while crossing the English channel in his airplane on July 4, today entered another phase when it was reported unofficially toxic matter had been found in the viscera of his body.

Dr. Paul, chemical analyst of the French Scotland Yard, made an exhaustive autopsy at request of the Lowenstein family. It was said at the court house in Boulogne, according to Le Matin, today that the expert's report, which will not be made public, reveals "the existence of traces of a very characteristic toxic matter in the viscera."

HOMER GRANT SAYS PLAN GOOD ONE

"It's a fine idea. You may quote me as saying that I not only endorse the plan but that I approve of it from every angle." That was the statement made the Morning Avalanche last night by Homer D. Grant, one of the owners of the Panhandle Construction company, secretary of the Lubbock Baseball club, Rotarian and civic worker, when asked his opinion of the Avalanche-Journal's plan to present on September 23rd a combined edition featuring the Battle of the South Plains fair and the prosperity of the South Plains and Eastern New Mexico section.

"I have always favored the fair editions and with the added prosperity feature, showing the economic, industrial, agricultural and oil development of the section should make this year's edition the finest in history," he stated.

Love Withdraws To 'Concentrate' On Smith Scrap

Concedes Defeat To Miller For Lieut.-Governor And Reiterates Opposition To Democratic Nominee.

DALLAS, Aug. 14.—State Senator Thomas B. Love, recognized leader of Texas democratic forces opposed to Alfred E. Smith, democratic presidential nominee, today announced his withdrawal from the race for lieutenant governor of Texas.

As a result, Lieut. Gov. Barry Miller's re-election, will be the only contest on the ballot in the August 25 primary. The state executive committee, it was pointed out, does not have right to certify another candidate to take Love's place in the run-off.

Miller Refuses Comment. Informed of Love's action, Miller declined to make a statement. Other than expressing curiosity as to whether Love had "jumped on him" in his statement, Miller apparently was little interested.

Names of both Love and Miller were certified for placing on the primary ballot by the state democratic executive committee at its meeting yesterday at San Antonio.

In announcing withdrawal Love said in part: "I believe it most improbable that I can overcome the substantial majority of votes in the run-off primary; that to further continue the contest would serve no useful purpose, but would result in a waste of time and effort and on the part of my friends which ought to be utilized in defeating Al Smith in November."

Love pointed out that while the state executive committee had certified his name, the recent decision of the San Antonio court of appeals upholding several county executive committees in barring his name makes it possible for his name to be barred in the second primary ballot. He said he had been advised that several counties planned to do so on this decision.

"I do not say I would be nominated if my name were printed on the official ballots in every county," he said. "What I do say is that without my name being so printed on the ballot in every county as the law requires, it is impossible for me to have a fair chance to be nominated."

Illiterate Negro Bootblack Is Held In Woman's Death, Indicted Tuesday

Prosecution To Demand Execution After The Black Confesses to Constance Slaying In Evanston; Negro Rehearses The Scene

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—David Shanks, illiterate negro bootblack, who police said confessed slaying Miss Jennie M. Constance, Peoria educator, today was arraigned, bound over to the grand jury and indicted within the space of a few hours.

Prosecutors said that they would demand his execution.

Shanks was arrested last night by Evanston police after they had traced a wrist watch, which belonged to the victim, to the bootblack's stall. The bootblack readily confessed the slaying.

The prisoner was kept under a heavy guard last night. Today he

BURTON LEADS OHIO RACE FOR SENATOR

Begg and Cooper Run Neck And Neck In G. O. P. Race For Governor In Returns From Sixth of State.

(By Associated Press) LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 14.—Governor Harvey Parnell was leading in his race for re-nomination tonight in returns from 81 precincts out of 2,039 in today's democratic primary.

These gave Parnell 2,318; Brooks Hays 1,520; J. Carroll Cone 894, and former Governor Tom Terral 782. Three other candidates were far behind.

Activity of women voters in the primary swelled total vote to a figure believed to have exceeded the 219,000 cast in the primary two years ago and to have approached a record established a few years ago when the key issue was a dominant issue in the state.

Nominees were selected for state, district and county offices with the nomination equivalent to election to all state and district offices.

Reports generally indicated comparatively few voters were changed by officials for refusal to pledge support to the party's presidential nominees, Smith and Robinson.

Party officials in some counties had announced voters would be required to pledge support of the national ticket, but indications were the rule followed in most places was to challenge only those democrats who had been especially outspoken in their opposition to the national ticket.

Burton Leading In Ohio Senatorial Race. COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 14.—(By Associated Press) Theodore E. Burton, former Senator Theodore E. Burton, of Cleveland, held the lead in the race for senatorial nomination in returns from one-sixth of the state compiled by the Associated Press.

Influenced by the prohibition issue and ideal weather, a new vote record was expected. Estimates of a total vote of 900,000 which would exceed any previous Ohio primary, appear to have been substantiated by reports from over the state.

The fires in Idaho had burned over 10,000 acres before the rain fell.

Governor Smith Attends Brennan Rites

Gov. Al Smith of New York, traveled from Albany to Chicago to attend the funeral of his friend, George Brennan, democratic leader of Illinois. Here is the democratic nominee snuffed during the high Requiem mass which was read for Brennan.

Smith Refuses To Debate Clergyman Except In Church. In a terse letter to the clergyman, the democratic presidential nominee renewed his demand they meet face to face in Calvary Baptist church, where Dr. Stratton recently charged the governor was the "deadliest foe of the forces of moral progress in America."

Explorer and Two Nephews Claimed By Frozen North. Bodies of Three Reported Found In Cabin After Over Year's Search When Party Disappeared.

(By Associated Press) OTTAWA, Aug. 14.—The Hudson Bay country—home to John Hornby, explorer—has taken his life. The bodies of Hornby and his two nephews have been found in a cabin on the north bank of the Thelon river west of Hudson Bay, Canadian mounted police at Chesterfield inlet, on the bay, reported by wireless today.

The three died of starvation in a barren land where the fate of travelers depends on plentifulness of Caribou. In 1926, when they set out in a canoe for Chesterfield inlet, and in 1927, Caribou were scarce.

Trappers brought out last word of the party. A note, written in 1926 and found in an abandoned camp, read: "Traveling slowly. Flies bad. Shot a fat buck Caribou. Hope to see you down the Harbury this winter."

The party apparently did not survive the winter. Search for them had been in progress since 1927.

Commissioner Doubts Identity of Party

SASKATOON, Sask., Aug. 14.—(By Associated Press) Doubt was cast today on identification of the bodies found on the bank of the Thelon river as those of John Hornby, explorer, and his two nephews, by A. J. Bell, of Saskatoon, former commissioner of the northeast territories.

"The answer to my request to appear in your church before your parishioners under the conditions I mentioned is yes or no. Unless and until I hear from you in the affirmative, the matter is closed," Lieutenant Governor Edwin Cornhill, ill in Maine, had forwarded to him his resignation as chairman of the New York state democratic committee, prior to receiving a call from Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, the nominee, disclosed Norman H. Davis of New York, democrat, who served as an assistant secretary of the treasury and as under-secretary of state during the Wilson administration, had stopped for a chat.

Checks Acceptance Speech

The Governor spent part of the day checking over proofs of his complete acceptance speech, which will be delivered here a week from tomorrow night. On top of his conference with Senator Glass, the governor has appointments to see Josephus Daniels there tomorrow, Senator George of Georgia, Thursday, and Senator Walsh of Montana on Friday.

On Thursday, August 22, day after the nomination ceremony, the Governor plans to go to New York and proceed to Seagriff, N. J. to attend a big democratic rally on August 25.

Site Purchased For Construction Of Snyder Hotel

Bank Building Bought For Temporary Shop As Plans Made To Ultimately Erect 4 to 6 Story Building.

SNYDER, Aug. 14.—A real estate deal consummated late last week brought the title of the First National Bank building to Mayor H. T. Tyele at a cash consideration of $18,500.

At the present time Mr. Tyele intends remodeling the building and using the first floor for an optical shop, while the second floor will be transformed into a suite of business offices. Work on this improvement commenced early Monday morning.

Later on, according to Mr. Tyele, a four to six story hotel building will be erected at this site which is at the junction point of state highways No. 7, 101 and 51, and located directly on the public square. Plans call for a basement store extending the entire length and breadth of the ground floor, with business stores located directly at its street level, hotel lobby and a new elevator will be added.

Snyder for years has been cited as one of the best locations for a real hotel of any city in West Texas and with the new improvement under way, the traveling public will soon with the citizens of Snyder in congratulating the new owner and

With the announcement of the new building change, building permits for the city of Snyder have run close to $200,000 mark since January 1st. That rapid strides have been made in Snyder for 1928 is cited in the fact that during the entire year of 1927 only $95,000 worth of permits were issued while for the first six months of this year, the total exceeds the $200,000 mark.

Scenic Route In Davis Mountains Lauded By Colp

Will Be Worth Millions To Section, Parks Board Head Says In Praising Plan On Mountain Road.

(Special To The Avalanche) ALPINE, Aug. 14.—The building of the scenic highway through the Davis mountains will be worth at least a million dollars a year to this section, is the opinion of Hon. D. E. Colp, chairman of State Parks board, who was a visitor here last week.

Arrangements are being made for the acquisition of a right-of-way for the ten miles of incomplete road on the Mexican border highway in Pecos county.

Acquisition of park sites by the city of Alpine was urged by Mr. Colp in his talk C. A. Broome, a member of the city park commission at San Angelo.

Mr. Colp also was a guest at the luncheon further emphasizing the need of setting aside tracts of land for park purposes here, looking forward to the future continued growth of the city.

F. R. Senor and Mr. Shelton, representing the Forward Southwest Magazine of San Antonio, were also guests of the Chamber of Commerce luncheon.

DAILY MARKETS

CHICAGO GRAIN CHICAGO, Aug. 14. (AP)—Wheat prices ran up rapidly influenced by news of frost in Canada and by outlook of more there tonight.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled 2-3-8c to 2-7-8c net higher, with corn 1-2c to 7-8c, oats varying from 1-4c decline to 1-8c advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 15c.

Unrest over indications the crop in Canada is less favorable than has been assumed became manifest soon after opening.

Temperatures in part of Canadian wheat belt were given as none. Liverpool quotations higher than had been looked for and with apparent possibility of widespread damage from frost.

Unsettled weather in the eastern belt, reports of increasing boll weevil infestation or damage, and relatively firm Liverpool cables appeared to be in the cotton market today.

December contracts sold up to 18.7c, or 48 points above yesterday's closing quotations and 62 points above yesterday's low level.

The opening was steady at an advance of 12 to 21 points on the better tone reported in Liverpool and nervousness over the prospect of further rains in the eastern belt.

Prices eased back to about yesterday's closing quotations, but selling was much less active and aggressive than recently.

October advanced to 18.7c and January to 18.7c, and closing prices were about the best of the day.

Private cables attributed the advance in the Liverpool market to covering and continued buying on reports of rains in eastern belt.

Exports today 3,223 bales, making 104,229 so far this season. Port receipts today 5,882. U. S. port stocks 488,968.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 14. (AP)—Covering and trade buying in an oversold market carried cotton prices up practically $2.50 a bale from an early decline today.

When the detailed weather report was issued, however, it failed to substantiate the private advice of rain in the east and early buyers sold freely with a resultant sag in prices of 29 points.

medium weight steers in Chicago scored 16.65 while heavy steers topped at 16.50. Better kinds of grass beef at 16.50. Aggregate receipts were estimated at 43,550 as compared with 36,392 last Tuesday and 32,719 the corresponding day a year ago.

A light supply of hog at Chicago resulted in a sharp advance of 20-35c but other markets were on a more normal basis with steady to higher prices in force.

Today's sheep supply totalled around 57,500 as compared with 49,953 a week ago and 44,782 the same day last year.

Death House At Texas Pen Full And Overflowing

Five White Men, 3 Mexicans and Negro Comprise List Slated for Death After Crime Conviction.

(By Associated Press) HUNTSVILLE, Aug. 14.—Once more the Texas "death house" at the State Penitentiary in Huntsville is overflowing with condemned men who are waiting in the small box-like cells on death row for the time when they will be marched through the "little green door" to an adjoining room where they will execute their crimes with their lives.

The condemned group is comprised of five white men, three Mexicans and one negro. Clemente Rodriguez and Esiquiel Seron, Mexicans from San Antonio, will go first. Their time for execution has been set for August 21. The two were arrested for a series of attacks on high school girls in San Antonio. Three such attacks occurred within a little more than a month.

Bill Smith who was given the supreme penalty for the slaying of a Fisher county sheriff and his deputy, is scheduled to "go" this month. He has received several stays of execution. Captain E. P. Harrell, warden of the penitentiary, declared that he believed Smith was insane.

Juan Flores, Mexican from San Antonio, who was sentenced to die for the fatal slaying of a 13-year-old Mexican boy, is scheduled to "go over" August 30. Six times Flores has been snatched from the chair since his confinement in "death row" by stays from Governor Moody.

John R. "Bob" Silver, white man from Fort Worth, is the latest addition to the "legion of the condemned." He was placed in his cell Wednesday. His date to die has been set for September 2. Silver was an accomplice with W. A. Stone in the robbery of the Majestic theater in Fort Worth last year, when Roscoe Wilson, employee of the theater, was killed.

Stone, who confessed to having fired the fatal shot, is serving a life term, while Silver, who declares that he was only an accomplice, received the chair.

O. C. Wells, who was to die for the murder of J. A. Mitchell on the night of January 27, 1927, in Coleman county, is in death row for safe keeping until he can be taken here to the state penitentiary to be passed on him, the court of criminal appeals having already affirmed his death sentence.

Floyd Newton Byrnes, the "triple slayer" from San Angelo, is also confined in death row to await an appeal to the higher courts. Byrnes is one of the largest men ever to be confined in the death house.

Tom Rose, negro, from Nacogdoches, is scheduled to forfeit his life at a rather early date. Rose is one of the largest men ever to be confined in the death house.

Dr. Frank S. Onderdonk, who is doing the preaching in the revival services that began Sunday at First Methodist church brought one of the most practical messages to the people of this city, who were fortunate enough to be present.

That probably any preacher has delivered in this city. "Compromising with Satan" was the theme, and the speaker took his text from the eighth chapter of Exodus, 27th verse. He applied the taking of the Children of Israel out of the Land of Egypt and out of bondage, to the present day.

He exhorted the Christian people of this city and time, to cut loose from the world, the flesh and the devil, and live consecrated lives. He declared that the churches were filled with people that were never regenerated, never converted, and had not separated their lives from the world, that they were from the church rolls of the different denominations but were clinging on to all the worldly pleasures, and were only willing to be church members if they were permitted to do all of the things that the worldly non-church members were doing.

At the 8 o'clock service this morning he will speak on the personality of the Holy Ghost, and this message will be one of the very important ones of the series that he proposes to bring during the morning hours of the present week.

Love Withdraws

He congratulated his opponent, Lieut. Gov. Miller, on his opportunity to serve the people of Texas again and declared that he had "no complaints and no regrets," in discontinuing his own candidacy.

"I am a democrat, and I am against Al Smith because I am a democrat, the San Antonio court of civil appeals to the contrary notwithstanding," he declared. "I have great respect for our courts but no court has the power to compel me to violate my conscience by voting for Al Smith or to compel me to leave the democratic party in which I was born and in which I have served unselfishly for 40 years."

"All that I have invested in Texas agriculture. As a farmer I would think myself very foolish to vote for Al Smith against Herbert Hoover."

Charges of burglary have been filed in justice court here against Leonard Harvey, alleged to have a prison record, following the recovery of a diamond ring and other valuables stolen from Mrs. Cliff C. Cooke, 15th and Avenue M, on the night of July 3.

Harvey was arrested when a diamond ring on the hand of a girl was identified by Mrs. Cooke while she was shopping in a downtown store. The girl said that Harvey had given the ring to her. Harvey claims that he won the ring in a dice game, according to the sheriff's department, who made the arrest.

The theft of the jewelry occurred the night of July 3, between the hours of midnight and 5 a. m. It was taken from a table near where Mr. and Mrs. Cooke were sleeping. The loot included the recovered ring, a watch, and several other rings.

ness had been demoralized by the gale and driving rains. Quitman was darkened at noon and a high wind already had done more damage to crops than did the storm last week.

Communication in a section of the Florida Coast reaching from above Cedar Keys to near Apalachicola was paralyzed. Small damage was reported east.

Torrential rains accompanied advance of the storm, bringing flood threat to lowlands in northern Florida and southern Georgia.

Meanwhile Lake Okechobee flood conditions held the spotlight in Florida, while other sections were recuperating from the two blows within one week.

Unofficial reading of the water gauge in the lake was 17 feet, within one foot of danger from overflow which would inundate a stretch of country from Okechobee City around the western shores of the lake to the vicinity of Labelle.

medium weight steers in Chicago scored 16.65 while heavy steers topped at 16.50. Better kinds of grass beef at 16.50. Aggregate receipts were estimated at 43,550 as compared with 36,392 last Tuesday and 32,719 the corresponding day a year ago.

A light supply of hog at Chicago resulted in a sharp advance of 20-35c but other markets were on a more normal basis with steady to higher prices in force.

Today's sheep supply totalled around 57,500 as compared with 49,953 a week ago and 44,782 the same day last year.

The opening was steady at an advance of 12 to 21 points on the better tone reported in Liverpool and nervousness over the prospect of further rains in the eastern belt.

Prices eased back to about yesterday's closing quotations, but selling was much less active and aggressive than recently.

October advanced to 18.7c and January to 18.7c, and closing prices were about the best of the day.

LOVE FOR TWO

RUTH DEWEY GROVES

THIS HAS HAPPENED
BERTIE LOU WARD marries ROD BRYER, who had previously been engaged to LILA MAHSE. Lila makes life miserable for the bride until she meets a rich MR. LOREZ, and marries him. Then she asks Bertie Lou to forgive the past.

Trying to keep up socially with wealthy friends plunges the Bryers in debt and Rod becomes depressed. Lila seizes her chance to persuade him to accept a higher salary from Lorez. Shortly after she asks Rod to put some jewels in the safe during her husband's absence. They disappear and Rod wants to notify the police, but Lila insists that they keep the matter secret, pointing out that suspicion against him might spoil his career. Bertie Lou finds out that he has been seeing Lila secretly and is heart-broken.

She is called home to her sick mother and catches a train without seeing Rod. The separation adds to Lila's plotting, causes a coldness to spring up between them. Each expects the other make advances or explanations. Rod goes to the Lorez without MARCO PALMER to retaliate. They grow farther apart, and one evening Rod finds her packing a suitcase for a week-end at the Palmer estate. Angered, he admits to himself that their love is dead and that he is infatuated with Lila. He attends a dinner at the Lorez and a Frenchman admires Lila's pearls—which Rod thinks are imitations of the ones he lost.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXIII

A distinct pallor showed under Lila's makeup as she dropped the pendant and settled back in her chair. She made no move to hand over the pearls to Monsieur Clavier.

A hush fell over the party. One by one the guests began to stare at her attitude. She did not wish the pearls examined. Cyrus looked at her in astonishment and Monsieur Clavier began to consider a way to relieve the growing tension. It was Rod who supplied it. He overtopped a glass of wine. Lila was quick to grasp the lifeline he had thrown her. She turned and beckoned the butler, who already was hurrying toward her. She made as much of the incident as possible. But it did not save her. When the broken glass was removed and the slight commotion over, Cyrus very quietly requested that she let Monsieur Clavier have the pearls.

He was deeply puzzled over Lila's strange behavior but it was plain to him that their guests also were puzzled. And he knew these pearls were genuine. Surely, he thought, Lila did not realize what comment might be passed upon her reluctance to have an expert handle them.

Cyrus had heard of women who substituted imitations for their real gems but he did not believe that Lila had done that. Why should she? His allowance to her was more than generous. He did not want people saying that his wife had to resort to tricks to obtain money.

Lila looked up at him. He nodded, and she noted that he was wearing what she called his business expression. He had worn it when he had dismissed an insolent servant a few days before.

She looked at Rod and he fancied there was a despairing appeal in her glance. But there was nothing he could do to help her now. Cyrus must know that the gems were false. Rod hoped that he would be the only one to suffer and that Lila would escape her husband's wrath. He regretted that the exposure couldn't have been put off until the next day—when he meant to tell Cyrus himself.

His expression to Lila appeared apathetic. She had never made such a great appeal to him as at that moment, when he thought she was facing a painful revelation in consequence of her kindness to him.

His features became blank in order not to risk showing his feelings, but he hoped that Lila would see in his calm composure a willingness to face the music—that he understood she had done her utmost for him.

Lila slowly drew the rope of pearls over her head and gave them to Monsieur Clavier. They're really very insignificant to receive your attention," she found voice to say disparagingly.

Privately Monsieur Clavier hid them, and was mentally chiding himself for having created an awkward situation over a few small pearls. Hereafter, he resolved, he would refrain from commenting upon the jewels belonging to people who practically were strangers to him. Especially if his appreciation of the gems was less than his admiration for their wearer.

But he was in it now, and he did not wish to say before Madam's husband and her guests that he had been more interested in the perfection with which the pearls matched her complexion than in the pearls themselves.

Still, his breeding would not permit him to express his true opinion of them, which was in accord with Lila's. Turning them over in his hand, scrutinizing them closely, he cast about in his mind for some genuine praise to bestow upon them.

Rod was watching him with fascinated interest, waiting for the denouncement. He expected the Frenchman to show surprise, to become embarrassed. Instead, Monsieur Clavier returned the pearls to Lila with the remark that they were very well matched, indeed, and of a really good color.

"They're the iridescent pearls that are found in the Pacific, near Australia," he told Cyrus. "No others could be so suitable for Madam's fair skin."

Lila took them in a limp hand. She did not look at Rod, who sat with a rather foolish expression of amazement spreading over his countenance.

Cyrus alone thanked Monsieur Clavier for his opinion. Then the company burst into an excited chatter, that covered their relief over a threatening cloud dispelled. It was still evident, however, that their hostess was disturbed but at least there was no further cause to dread the subtle sense of trouble that had hovered over them.

Lila did not turn her head toward Rod until the dinner was ended. In rising, while he stood to pull back her chair, she let her eyes meet his with great reluctance. Rod gazed back at her from a frozen visage. A slow flush stole up Lila's cheeks as she turned quickly away without a word.

Rod contributed very little in conversation to the half-hour the men spent at the table over their black coffee after Lila had taken her women guests away. He sat still frowning over his cigarette while the other men told their stories and drank their liqueurs.

When they went to the drawing room he was black-browed with suspicion. Lila was seated before the piano, half-heartedly trying a new jazz piece. She seemed to know, without looking up, when Rod entered the room. Someone twittered her for the harsh discord she drew from the keys, and Lila stopped playing.

Bridge followed, but Rod was among those who did not care to play. Lila played indifferently, absorbed about an hour later, when she was "dummy," to see her rise and make some excuse for leaving the table. He also rose from a nearby chair, and when Lila opened the door that led to the small grilled-in balcony, off the library he was close behind. Lila stepped to the edge and stared down at the city. Rod closed the door.

Lila did not lift her head even when he stepped up beside her. For a few seconds he stood there, waiting. Then he put a hand on her wrist and turned her around to face him. She was a new Rod. There was a hard purpose in his set expression and accusing eyes. It caused her to shiver slightly with fear.

"You'd better tell me all about it, Lila," he said with ominous quietness.

For a moment Lila was silent. The impulse to lie that had seized her, the lies themselves that she had been formulating since leaving the dining room, slipped from her mind. Rod could not be deceived. She realized with unmistakable certainty.

With this knowledge, sinking like a poisoned arrow into her heart, Lila became a wild creature fighting with its back against the wall. She tore her wrist free with a quick gesture and stood back from Rod, smiling mockingly at him.

"You've guessed it, I think," she said coolly. "The things never were stolen. What do you make of that?"

"Make of it?" Rod echoed, rendered less accusing by her unerring attitude.

"Oh, Rod," Lila said with surprising softness, "don't be a complete idiot any longer. You must know why I did it."

You never would have said it, Rod, darling, but it was in your heart. I knew it, I'd have done anything to make you speak. And I never intended to let you pay for the jewels. Oh you dear stupid, never to have guessed that I gave you an empty case . . ."

Rod silenced her by tearing her hands hastily from his arms, where gradually they had been creeping toward his shoulders. "Lila, for God's sake . . ." he began but she interrupted him with a soft palm on his lips.

"Not so loud," she cautioned. "And don't act as if I'd murdered you or something. You must have known for months that we'd have to have an understanding some day. Well, I'm glad the time has come. I couldn't stand it any longer."

"But what did you do that for?" Rod asked her. "You don't know what I've gone through over that fake theft."

"Yes, I do," Lila contradicted. "But don't you see, Rod, that it served to put things in their true light for you?"

"How do you mean?" Rod questioned sharply.

"Why, I mean about . . . us, and Bertie Lou, of course."

"I'm afraid you're jumping to conclusions," Rod rejoined; "everything is hopelessly muddled as far as I am concerned."

Lila made an impatient gesture. "Why do you make me say it?" she cried. "Can't you see that if you hadn't got in trouble you wouldn't have found out that Bertie Lou doesn't care anything about you? That she was only interested in your future success with Cy? When you put a stop to her extravagance she found someone with money to spend on her, didn't she?"

Rod was white. "You mean you faked that theft to get me in a hole?" he asked.

"To make you think me a good friend," Lila explained; "to get you to thinking of me with gratitude. You've always loved me, Rod; if you hadn't started hating me simply because we couldn't afford to marry each other you'd never have imagined that you didn't love me. Do we have to be cheated out of happiness forever simply because you made a mistake like that? I've never stopped loving you," she added and moved forward again to throw herself into his arms.

"I know I tricked you," she went on, as Rod sought to loosen her arms from his neck—"but that old bromide about love and war is as good today as it ever was."

"I wouldn't have taken any money from you, but I had to do something to start you caring for me again, and I did help you with Cyrus, you know."

She paused and looked beseechingly at him. "You do love me, don't you?" she pleaded and reached up quickly to put her lips to his.

WHAT?

If you use Conoco Ethyl Gasoline, it will cost you on the average only about twenty-five cents more per week of motor operation than if you buy ordinary gasoline. But you ask, why should I pay even that negligible premium?

And the answer is this: For your quarter a week you get all your motor's power with no knocks. You get practically high compression performance—no matter how choked with carbon the engine may be; you get an instant pick-up, greater flexibility, less gear shifting.

Weighing all of these advantages together you will finally discover that instead of paying a premium you are actually saving a great many dollars due to reduced repair bills and the longer life which the regular use of Conoco Ethyl will give to your motor.

In the long run, Conoco Ethyl Gasoline is the economy fuel. A good fair trial will convince you.

CONCRETE EVIDENCE.

SO THINK WE

We think one of the best ways for a husband to find out who is boss in his home is to try to prove that he is.

We think Jess Mitchell of the Littlefield Leader probably was right when he said the way to find out whether liquor is good or bad is to drink some of it and then lie down, and if you can get up it was good.

We think it is a rather new idea that revival services be held at 8:00 o'clock in the morning instead of ten, as is the usual schedule...

We think that this penny business is probably not so bad after all. A chewing gum and candy company who does business through the penny vending machines has recently issued a statement to its stockholders...

We think a great many men kick about the extravagance of their wife when they spend more money foolishly than the wife does for clothes.

We think that a great many reformers are merely men who use some other fellow's money to put over their own ideas.

We think possibly the maker of word definitions had in mind a fellow who courts an old maid for her money when he spoke of the court of last resort.

We think people are so different in so many different ways. Some men get great pleasure out of a radio, while others put in their time swearing at the machine.

We think that the newspaper that started a column headed "what women are wearing" certainly will not have much to put in it.

We think too that something needs to be done with the trail load of old tin cans and rubbish out at the dumping grounds. Since the highway has been changed to pass right by the side of it, it does not look good to those who come into town from the north.

YOUR HEALTH

Great Care Needed in Training the Hyper-Sensitive Child

By DR. MORRIS FISHEIN Editor Journal of the American Medical Ass'n and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine. Medical literature and that of education and psychology have been filled with articles on the kind of attention that parents must give to unusual children.

Dr. Brian Crichton has described in the Irish Journal of Medical Science a special group which he classifies as hyper-sensitive children.

These children respond unduly to simple situations, developing hatreds and remarkable affections on small basis. They are easily impressionable, exaggerating small remarks into serious situations.

For instance, one such child developed the notion that children could be had by eating great quantities of food and becoming constipated. It persisted in this technique for weeks, became severely ill and it was only after mental as well as physical study of the child's condition was made that relief was obtained.

The case was important, emphasizing the danger of imparting knowledge to a child in an unsuitable manner. Hyper-sensitive children fear ridicule above every other impression. Physical punishment means little to them, but ridicule produces a sense of inferiority with a terrific reaction.

Hyper-sensitive children respond in most instances with unduly severe reactions to music. Fear plays a great part in their lives and they are likely to demand the presence of light in their sleeping rooms and to indicate in other ways fear of the dark and of the unknown.

Doctor Crichton advises that parents and teachers study the hyper-sensitive child to determine the basis for the sensitivity. Little should be said of their failures and they should be encouraged. Such children can not be terrorized into obedience but must be handled with sympathetic insight.

Many such a child has been ruined by the desire of a too physical parent to make a man of the boy, or a girl, in their own minds.

TEXAS, A RETROSPECT

Texas is a thoroughly civilized country, and wallows in peace and plenty, as it were; but now and again we do something or say something that makes us think that Texas, after all, is still a raw and undeveloped country.

Take the news items from the first page of the Waco News-Tribune of a day or two ago, for instance. With his item of everyday news, we get a whiff of those far-off days when Richard Coke was governor (he was, wasn't he?), when Sil Ross made it hot for those thieves and when Abilene, San Angelo and Colorado were ran raw and squalling infants of lusty newness.

Read this, and see if it doesn't carry you back to those hale and hearty times and is only a few days old.

Old "Bob-Tail" has been "out-smarted." But it took one of the best trained trappers in Uncle Sam's big group of men employed to catch predatory animals to turn the trick.

"Bob-Tail" was a big wolf. When just a pup, soon after she was taken out of the den by her wolf-mother,

"Bob-Tail" was caught by some wolf hunters near Valley Mills, in Boque county, and her tail chopped off. She was then released.

It is rare for a female wolf to lead her pack of whelps in depredations on livestock, experienced government trappers say, but in this case "Bob-Tail" has trained her whelps to prey upon small animals. Usually it is the dog wolf that leads the whelps.

She evaded their traps, kept beyond the range of their guns, she out-witted especially trained dogs, brought in to capture her, and ranchmen in McLennan county have at times posted from $25 to $50 rewards for her capture.

On the day that she was caught she had killed eight turkeys; she revealed in murder. As a rule, men who have studied wild life say, predatory animals will kill only what they can devour at one time if the food supply is plentiful.

But "Bob-Tail" was a destroyer. She is no mercy and Anderson has successfully trapped three of her whelps within a week—Abilene Reporter.

Public Opinion

THE OLD ISSUES

There was a popular song a few years ago entitled "What Has Become of the Friends of Yesterday?" A similar question might be asked and a hit made with the title "What Has Become of the Political Issues of Yesterday?"

Some of us can remember quite a long distance back if we stop to consider the matter, it will surprise us to realize how those "paramount issues" which troubled the country, divided the people into fierce political factions, filled the newspapers with comment and argument, and apparently were essential to the future of the country, have been forgotten.

We might drop back in mind to the campaign of thirty-two years ago or at least some of us might. The county was all worked up over the alleged necessity of the free coinage of silver at the ratio of sixteen to one.

There probably never was a campaign with greater excitement, and nearly had the people thought that the United States was a busted community unless the free coinage of silver should be adopted.

The election went against the issue, which was described by Mr. Bryan as "heaven-born," and it has never been discussed.

Four years later the agitation was based on the threat of "imperialism." Sometimes it was called "militarism." The charge was made and was believed by a very large proportion of the American people.

The United States had begun with the acquisition of the Philippines, and was intending to make a conquest of the world regardless of the feelings of the other nations and other races.

Millions of our people were "let up" over the outrage we were going to commit. It was declared by the Democratic party to be the "paramount issue of the campaign."

I doubt if many can actually state the proposition now even with the reminder I have suggested.

How many people remember the nation-wide debate, and the great popular interest in Colonel Roosevelt's declaration favoring "the recall of judicial decision?"

Some such measure as that was to be the salvation of the plain common people. The courts were not to be permitted to construe the laws against the wish of the majority of the people.

It was the prize issue of the campaign of 1912. I am almost sorry I have dug it up because most people have forgotten it.

Then in 1918 we had "the kept in out of war." That was the argument which landed President Wilson in the executive mansion for a second term.

It was endorsed by the state of Kansas with a good majority. It was a heart-shrinking issue which made strong men weep and women sing, "I did not raise my boy to be a soldier."

Of course that issue did not survive until the following spring as President Wilson was soon recommending to Congress a declaration of war.

Then in 1920 came the Cox campaign.

Today's Poems

THERE'S RED ENOUGH IN OLD GLORY TO SUIT ME!

There's a flag in our nation we love so dear—

It's the flag of freedom we all should cherish;

We call it Old Glory and it floats on high.

Under that banner we shall live and die.

We have carried that flag through many great wars.

It has won our victories and battle scars.

The colors blend well with the story they tell—

There's red enough in Old Glory to suit me.

There is another flag they have brought to our land—

For "flag and strife it always will stand."

It was brought to our land, and as many know,

The seeds of anarchy it is trying to sow.

It's the flag of rebellion, of hunger and strife;

Wherever it is floating it's a menace to life.

Its color is red, but we have always said,

There's red enough in Old Glory to suit me.

Old Glory has been here since seventy-six—

Don't change it for red and get colors mixed.

—E. O. Dexter.

Washington carried it in the olden time;

Our "rough boys" carried it over the Rhine;

It is the banner of freedom floating above.

Where we find its colors there are peace and love.

So down with the red, for it's just as we've said,

There's red enough in Old Glory to suit me.

New, which flag shall we follow—

which one is right?

Shall it be the red, with its riots and strike?

Or will it be Old Glory, we all can cheer.

And down with red—there's no room for it here?

There is only one flag and one thing we should do—

Up with Old Glory and cheer the red, white and blue!

The time has now come, when there's room for just one flag.

There's red enough in Old Glory to suit me.

Chorus—

There's red enough in Old Glory to suit me.

The colors blend well with the story they tell.

There's red enough in Old Glory to suit me.

Until December 1, 1928

The regular price of the Lubbock Morning Avalanche at 75c per month from now until December 1, 1928 would be $2.75. By sending in your subscription now at this special offer you save nearly one half. Think of buying a newspaper like the Morning Avalanche for a fraction more than 1c per day.

The Avalanche is published at 4:00 a. m. and you can receive it the very same day that it is printed. That means that you receive 12 to 24 hours later news in the Morning Avalanche than you would receive in the predated down state papers that were printed late yesterday afternoon and dated today.

The Lubbock Morning Avalanche is a member of the old reliable Associated Press leased wire service which furnishes it with all the state, national and worldwide news of interest. The NEA Service furnishes the Avalanche with daily comic strips, news pictures, news feature stories and serial stories. The Associated Press and the NEA Service are the best that money can buy.

You will surely be interested in the returns from the second primary election on August 25th as well as the general election in November. The Avalanche will give you later and more complete returns hours earlier than you can get them from any other newspaper. In addition to these returns the Avalanche will carry all the news of the state and presidential campaigns. These two features alone will be worth more to you than the price we ask for the Avalanche from now until December 1st.

The longer you wait to take advantage of this unusual offer, the less time you will receive the Avalanche. Send us $1.50 now and receive the Avalanche until December 1st, 1928.

Leaders of Farm Belt Committees Talk With Smith

Demo Nominee Says He Will Stand on Platform. But Details of Stand Not Yet Ready for Public.

(By Associated Press) ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 14.—With his acceptance speech still incomplete, Governor Smith gave a tentative ear today to the group of middle western and southern farm leaders...

Reiterating intention to touch on the farm problem fully at his notification ceremony a week from Wednesday night, Smith said he had assured his visitors today, in his opinion, "essentials of the belief they are seeking through legislation are covered in the democratic platform on which I stand."

Details Yet Lacking "There remains but to determine," he added in a statement, "the details to make the essentials effective."

In another statement the nine men and one woman who took part in the round table discussion joined in declaring they were "pleased with the Governor's interest in an understanding of the agricultural problem."

Arrangements for the meeting were made by George N. Peek, Illinois, chairman of the so-called farm committee of 22 and chairman of the McNary-Haugen bill, turned down by President Coolidge, Peek as in on the conference as did Earl C. Smith, president of the Illinois Agricultural association; Frank W. Murphy of Minnesota, legislative chairman of the corn belt committee of farm organizations; William Hirth, chairman of the corn belt committee; W. H. Settle, president Indiana Farm Bureau federation; Chester C. Davis, former commissioner of agriculture in Montana; X. Caverno, president of the Missouri Cotton Growers' association; J. N. Kehoe, former democratic member of congress from Kentucky and now in the Barley Tobacco Growers' association; Dr. Tait Butler of Memphis, co-publisher of "The Progressive Farmer," and Mrs. Verne Hatch, in charge of women's department of the Indiana Farm Bureau federation.

One Misses Train Dr. E. W. Kilgore, president of the American Cotton Growers' exchange, also was to have been present, but it was explained that he had missed his train. He arrived at the conference as breaking up. The delegation first went to a hotel for an informal conference. All were his guests at luncheon.

Settle, in particular, declined to say whether he was satisfied with Governor Smith's position on agriculture and intended to support him. The statement issued on behalf of the farm group, brought out that the presidential nominee had not invited his callers to discuss the political situation in their states or sections, and emphasized the need of providing an effective control of agricultural surpluses.

"If such surplus control is to be effective, and if treasury subsidy is to be avoided," the statement added, "we explained our conviction that the costs involved in handling the surplus must be assessed against the units of the commodity benefited."

Hoover's Speech Is Lauded by Raskob NEW YORK, Aug. 12. (AP)—Herbert Hoover's speech accepting republican presidential nomination was "one that tends to raise politics to a higher level," John J. Raskob, chairman of the national democratic committee, said late today.

"It was tempered," asserted Mr. Raskob. "There was a tempered expression of the issues, as I presume, he sees them."

Mr. Hoover's desire to elevate this campaign to the dignity that a contest of this kind, I feel, should command

Officers Seek To Fix Blame In Big Insurance Muddle

Officials of Institution In St. Louis Quizzed But No Definite Information Yet Uncovered In Case.

(By Associated Press) ST. LOUIS, Aug. 14.—Questioning of officers of the International Life Insurance company to fix responsibility for a $5,562,000 shortage in its assets which resulted in receivership, was begun at Attorney General Stratton Shartel of Missouri, United States District Attorney Louis H. Brewer and Circuit Attorney Howard Sidener.

Awaiting arrival of the company's president, Roy C. Toombs, of Chicago, who received the money in a series of cash withdrawals and has made no accounting for it, prosecutors first called T. J. McReynolds, vice president in charge of the investment bureau of the company.

McReynolds also is a member of the company's finance committee, other members of which are President Toombs and his brother, George E. Toombs, treasurer of the company.

Little Information Found Examiners representing insurance departments of nine states, who discovered the shortage, reported July 28, they had been unable to obtain any information from McReynolds. They stated McReynolds and George Toombs apparently carried out President Toombs' wishes in every way, "having manipulated the funds of the company in such a way that the company at the present time is insolvent, its condition hazardous to the public stockholders and policyholders."

Governor Sam Baker today said he felt an effort should be made to withdraw state and federal receiverships so the Missouri insurance department could take over the company and work out some plan of reinsurance if it was found the company could not proceed with safety to policyholders.

SHOOT COLEMAN WELL Swab 80 Barrels In 18 Hours As Sand Topped

COLEMAN, Aug. 14.—Further proving the Santa Anna pool, Harold Byrd and Roy Colston topped the regular sand in their No. 2 Moody, 500 feet west of the original discovery well in that pool, at a depth of 1852-69 feet and before the shot swabbed 80 barrels in 18 hours.

However, the well was shot breaking the string of casing and now the company has just completed running a string of six-inch pipe which, according to the owners will likely be followed by a second shot in the sand.

Former Sufferers from Stomach Trouble Laud Discovery.

The Discoverer of Gordon's

Thousands of former sufferers from stomach and bowel troubles, many of whom had given up hope of ever being well—unqualifiedly endorse "Gordon's" (formerly Gordon's Antiseptic), the discovery of a well-known Dallas pharmacist.

"Gordon's," an internal antiseptic, stops and prevents fermentation (souring of food matter), which is the greatest obstacle to the successful treatment of stomach and bowel disorders.

"Gordon's" goes right to the seat of the trouble because it exercises a distinctly antiseptic as well as a laxative effect. It will soothe and heal any irritated or inflamed condition and bring quick relief in cases of indigestion, gas, dyspepsia, heartburn, bloating after meals, excess acid, bad breath, constipation, sick headache, and nervousness, when caused by faulty digestion. It will tone up the digestive organs and stimulate the bowels to their normal functions. A few doses will convince you.

"Gordon's" is made in liquid form. A large 8-ounce bottle, price $1.50—less than 3 cents a dose—at all druggists.
