Bula Poet's 2nd Book Out

Marion J. (Mc) McDaniel, superintendent of Bula schools, has published a second volume of poems in a planned volume of 11 books.

McDaniel has been publishing poetry since his May High School days in the mid Thirties.

His first book of poetry, "A Beginner's Luck" is printed and covered in red. McDaniel termed it his "penny a poem series" because it contains 50 poems and sells for 50 cents. It was the first of 11 volumes of 50 poems each.

His second volume, "Leveling Off," also contains 50 poems, but inflation has doubled the penny per poem rate. Printed in green and with a green cover, it sells for $1. A third book is planned in the near future, and Mc said it will be printed in purple with a purple cover.

Many of the poems in the two volumes have been published in various editions and anthologies, including the anthology of the National Poetry Association and the Hardin-Simmons University literary magazine.

McDaniel graduated from Howard Payne with a bachelor of arts, and received his master of arts from Hardin-Simmons. While attending college, he contributed to various anthologies and college magazines.

He became superintendent at Pep in 1956, and was named superintendent at Bula in 1964.

Some of his major awards as a poet are prizes from the Poetry Society of Texas, being listed in the Dictionary of International Biography, listed in the Royal Blue Book, London, listed in the Two Thousand Men of Achievement-1969, and listed in the International Who's Who in Poetry.

The poet Milton is sometimes given the Narrow row cotton production, grain sorghum insects and fertilizer usage for Lamb County--and how farmers may best utilize the knowledge of those subjects--will be featured as topics to be offered here Monday at the Annual Lamb County-Wide Farm Facts Day (formerly known as Soil Fertility Day.)

"Narrow Row Cotton Production," and "Local Adaptability of Narrow Row Cotton Production" will be discussed by Dr. Lavon Ray, associate professor at Texas A&M, and Ray Joe Riley, cotton breeder and farmer in Lamb and Castro Counties.

Fund Started For Local Girl

A special fund has been started for 9-year-old Tammy Trotter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Trotter of Littlefield, who is hospitalized in the Texas Children's Hospital in Houston with a kidney ailment.

Tammy has been hospitalized more than a month, and was moved to the Houston hospital a week ago from Methodist Hospital in Lubbock.

Friends of the Trotter family are sponsoring a bake sale all day Friday in the building south of Mode O'Day, and all proceeds from the sale will go to the Tammy Trotter Hospital Fund.

Anyone wishing to donate baked goods, or contribute in any way to the hospital fund, is asked to contact Mrs. Otis Witcher at 385-3828, or bring the goods or contributions to the site of the sale Friday.

Leonard Trotter, the girls' father, is employed by the city as water and sewer superintendent.

$26,000 Allotted To County Veterans

Some 390 of Lamb County's war veterans will be better off to the tune of approximately $26,000 in the months ahead, according to figures from Washington.

The money, a record amount, represents the payment of dividends due them under their GI insurance policies.

They and the other veterans of World I and World War II who are holders of such policies will share in a distribution of $275,000,000, the Veterans Administration reports.

Those veterans who saw service solely in the Korean War or in the Vietnam War will not be eligible for any part of this money because of the type of insurance they have.

The majority of the recipients are veterans who are covered by National Service Life Insurance, which was issued for World War II service. The others who will participate are World War I vets who hold U. S. Government Live Insurance policies.

The 390 men and women in Lamb County who will be on the receiving end comprise about one-fourth of the local World War veterans, listed at 1,510 in the latest tabulation by the Veterans Administration.

Those who saw service in the first World War will get checks averaging $122 apiece. The others will receive about $64 each, on average.

The overall total of $26,000 in local payments will generate added business activity in the area, it is expected, as the money circulates and re-circulates.

Nationally, according to the VA, there are close to 4,000,000 veterans with World War II policies and 163,400 veterans of World War I who have retained their GI insurance and will share in the distribution.

What they will be receiving, it is explained, is a return of part of the premiums they have paid on their insurance policies.

The refund became possible because the death rate among ex-servicemen has been lower than was expected when the premium rate was set and because the interest earned by the insurance trust funds was greater than usual.

Lamb County veterans will receive their checks automatically on the anniversary dates of their policies, the VA states.

BARGAIN DAY, BY GEORGE!!

Monday, Feb. 15, the national celebration of George Washington's birthday, will be a day of bargains galore in Littlefield when local merchants do their annual axing of prices to conform to the good old days.

A special George Washington Day paper will be printed this week and will go in the mail in time for delivery Saturday.

The Littlefield Post Office and other government agencies will be closed Monday. There will be no city, rural or star route deliveries made Monday. Mail will be put in post office boxes and special deliveries will be on a holiday basis. Other offices which will be closed include the SCS, ASCS and FHA.

The traditional Feb. 22 date was changed this year by the Monday Holiday Bill that moved all national holidays to the third Monday of the month.

Vote Registration Time Is Extended

Voter registration is again open for Lamb County residents during the month of February, due to a federal ruling which passed both the Texas House and Senate last week.

The Legislature passed a bill to extend the sign-up period beyond Jan. 31, and Governor Preston Smith has signed it into law.

Persons in Lamb County, as in all other states and counties in Texas, will have an additional month in which to register to vote in upcoming 1971 elections--with Feb. 26 as the last day to come in to the tax assessor-collector's office. Registrations in the mail, which are postmarked by Feb. 28 will be accepted.

The federal government voted it un-

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

Cities Are Made

By BOB WEAR

CITIES ARE MADE by people, and the greatest asset of any city or community is the spirit of the people.

This does not minimize the importance of business concerns, industry, good government, etc.

Nevertheless, there is very little about a city to recommend it, if the spirit of the people is wrong.

A GREAT SPIRIT makes a great city, small or large. Regardless of the physical and material assets and resources of a city, if the spirit of the people is not right, the city is an undesirable place.

It is also true that these material assets do not make people of great spirit.

The reality of a right spirit depends upon the quality of the people.

GOOD LEADERSHIP HELPS, but the development of the spirit a city needs must not be made the responsibility of a few persons.

It must become the responsibility of a sizable majority of the people. If it is to have any significant and enduring good effect, it must be an indomitable spirit.

This demands many people working together in a community climate of mutual encouragement and upbuilding.

THE SPIRIT must prevail, not because everything is going along as it should, but because it is our city.

While we live in it, it is all we have. One of the worst things we can do is bemoan it, run it down and otherwise prevent its being the best it has the potential to be.

WHEN WE ARE ASHAMED of our city, because it is imperfect, we are proving ourselves unworthy citizens.

It is our home, and home is a very important place. Being ashamed of our city is the very poorest way to express our appreciation for it; and it is a grossly unjustified feeling.

Of course, there are needed improvements to be made.

We, however, have no right to add to our problems by assuming the role of critic together with the attitude, "why don't they do something?"

A GREAT SPIRIT grows from a sincere gratitude for all the desirable things about our city, a genuine appreciation for every constructive action and service being performed.

When we emphasize all of these good qualities, they will increase in significance and this action will be the strongest force against community deterioration.

THIS GREAT SPIRIT has more value for us and our city than the aesthetic value.

It, interestingly enough, is one of the greatest practical resources in a community.

In fact, other essentially physical and material resources never reach their greatest worth and usefulness without this great spirit of pride, interest, and devotion.

IMPROVEMENTS will be made when the people in a community are making the most of what they have by being fully appreciative.

This is the spirit which helps produce the essential dynamics of human progress.

CITIES ARE MADE by people who will work together, and pay the price in planning, in time, in effort and in money.

There is no better investment, because, in the doing, the people themselves become better people.

CITIES LIVE, if they live, from the vitality of the contributions made to them by the people who care.

Silent Majority

FOR MORE THAN a decade now, with new laws to back them up and white empathy to urge them on, America's blacks have been feeling their oats, flexing their muscles, burning old barricades—and sometimes smashing some new store fronts, too.

Mercenary self-appointed black misleaders, fanning the flames, got rich at the expense of the poor blacks to whom they promised more and more and more.

BUT EVEN THEY are sobering up now. Even Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver has disavowed the "drug culture" which he once espoused.

And while these few noisy ones have been making headlines, the black silent majority has been making some real progress.

I REMEMBER after the 1954 Supreme Court decision, a Negro man was stopped for running a red traffic light in Gadsden, Ala. To the arresting policeman he protested, "You can't arrest me; I'm equal now!"

There was that much misunderstanding among unenlightened blacks about the relationship of "rights" and "responsibilities."

A NEW GENERATION has been born and has matured in the years since.

The new generation has heard about the "black rage" and the "ghetto revolts" and has read the many books by angry authors.

YET WHILE instances of extremism and confrontation have been center-stage, behind the scenes these past dozen years the percentage of Negro families earning $6,000 or more has increased from 10 percent to 32 percent.

While militants have been swaggering from camera to microphone threatening "violent revolution," a "quiet revolution" already has been accomplished.

IN ALL TOP JOB categories, blacks have made proportionately greater gains than have whites.

Negro clerical workers more than doubled, from 400,000 to more than a million.

Negro craftsmen and foreman increased from 380,000 to 700,000.

Negro managers, officials and proprietors increased from 140,000 to 250,000. And during that dozen years the number of Negroes holding professional positions increased from 250,000 to 700,000!

SOCIOLOGIST Gary Marx asked blacks, "Do you think things are getting better or worse for Negroes in the United States?"

Eighty per cent said "better."

It can be argued that the belligerent ones have served a purpose during the past decade; that their shouted demands intimidated whites while this black silent majority was silently infiltrating industry, business, politics and the professions.

IF THAT IS SO, then it is timely that the raving and ranting has been subdued—lest it engender resentment and resistance and undo the social and economic homogenization already accomplished.

Street-corner surveys of slum-dwellers have misled the sociologists. They fail to see that around the corner and off the street the adult, married black is working at a better job for more money, schooling his children, buying his home, paying his way.

AND HE'S AS WORRIED about crime and altogether as fearful of and prejudiced against troublemakers as the next guy.

...And The Pendulum Swings

Elementary and secondary teachers, mathematicians and life scientists will grow in overabundance in the 1970's according to Labor Department estimates reported by the January 1971 National Consumer Finance Association monthly newsletter, "Finance Facts."

After years of political rhetoric and media reporting that our schools were in sad shape because of a lack of space and teachers, we find ourselves glutted with college graduates in these teaching occupations.

The nation's colleges and universities are turning out record numbers of graduates and are expected to continue to do so throughout the 1970's. The number of persons earning a bachelor's degree will climb by two-thirds, and those earning master's and doctor's degrees will double by 1980.

Ample total supply of graduates roughly in balance with manpower requirements seems in the offing for the 12-year period between 1968 and 1980. Although different demand-supply situations appear likely among different occupations, teaching, long a shortage occupation, is about to undergo a sharp change in prospects. Aggregate supply is expected to significantly exceed demand if recent entry patterns in the occupation continue.

In scientific fields, shortages of chemists, geologists, and geophysicists, seem likely, and surpluses of mathematicians and life scientists may result if students continue to elect these fields in the same proportions as in the past.

Other areas for which potential shortages are in prospect include counseling, social work, urban planning, and a variety of occupations related to the planning and administration of local governments.

THE PHILOSOPHER

(Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm studies the post office department this week, with what success we won't say.)

Dear editor:

According to some articles I've been reading in the newspapers that turn up out here, the post office department is undergoing a lot of changes in order, Washington says, to help balance the budget.

While I don't understand why Washington should balance its budget, very few people in the country balance theirs, still I've been following the reorganization plans and as I understand them the way to make the post office pay is to increase rates and cut down on service.

For example, first-class stamps are going up to 8 cents, air mail to 11 cents, second-class rates are going up, etc. At the same time, post office hours are being cut back, city deliveries are being limited, and it has been suggested that rural delivery be made only every other day.

HOMINY GRITS

By CORNBALL BLEVINS

I SIT AND STRAIN MY little ol' pea-sized brain and try to comprehend space. It don't compute.

I'm aware that one of the primary worries of the spacemen, was; If their aim wasn't accurate, the spacecraft would just drift on out into space and become some sort of asteroid, or, space junk.

STILL, with their computers, they can shoot a vehicle into space and have it connect with the spot in the universe where the planet will be when the spacecraft arrives!—Incredible!

Yet, more incomprehensible, should the craft miss its target, it would continue to travel on through space from now on! (Barring the accident, of course, that it didn't connect with the magnetic field or some other asteroid body!)

I CANNOT comprehend space without end. Can you?

Sure, we've taken for granted for years, that the world, and indeed the universe, as we know it, hangs suspended upon nothing. But to envision it is something else. Add, too, that its timetable is unchangeable and infallible in its cycles!

YET, WE'RE taught that the whole kit and kaboodle is a huge accident!

It just so happens that the earth is the correct distance from the sun to be conducive to life, yet the moon, a comparable distance from the sun doesn't even have atmosphere. Hogwash!

LIKEWISE, we have the same trouble comprehending eternity.

We earthlings, being dominated by the clock and calendar, cannot recognize the possibility of time without end.

The mental block keeps arising when we try to imagine a world with no clocks, or calendars, where the sun neither sets nor rises, and time is NOT! Indeed, most of us are prone to reject this idea.

YET, WE'RE advised by the Holy Writ that such a place will be! Further, we're warned that we will live in this environment—and forever.

We're told, also, that our behavior in this short time that we inhabit earth, will determine our happiness, or, unhappiness in this neverending time. We don't like that idea, either!

SUPPOSE THE BIBLE IS TRUE! Then what? ? ?

Man is a puzzle to himself. He doesn't want to accept the idea of the finality of constitutional to stop voter registration on Jan. 31 since it became official only on Jan. 11 that 18-21 year olds would have the right to vote in national elections.

Federal officials felt this did not give the newly-eligible voters enough time to register.

Sen. Joe J. Bernal of San Antonio, who sponsored the measure, said that the bill shows the Legislature's good faith by getting in line with the Federal court decision.

It threw out the annual voter registration requirement and criticized the gap between the end of the registration period and the election date.

A constitutional amendment proposal to wipe out Texas' annual registration requirement by state action and other bills to authorize a registration-by-voting system are now pending in the Legislature.

The main argument about the latter is whether registration should be for a two or a four-year period.

credit for having said that no one should attempt to publish anything until he has worked it over for at least nine years. "As a matter of fact," McDaniel said, "I've exceeded Milton in the length of time I have carefully kept and edited these poems."

Creating something of lasting value rather than publishing commercially has been McDaniel's deep concern. "If I had known from the beginning that I would never have created anything that would pass for pure art," he said, "by all probability I would never have written the first poem. Certainly, not all of my poems are masterpieces. Some are gravies and pebbles, and some are rocks. Art, like rock, endures."

and why not say "I Love You" to your family or special loved ones with some heart-warming Valentine's cards from your very own bakery—with that personal touch of enthusiasm, along with imagination and color—set a table theme with decorations of cupids, arrows, hearts, red and white lace, doves, and other cut-outs for a special bouquet of love from your florist, that says "love."

Valentine's Day originated in Rome—boys drew girls' names from a love urn on a day in February. The custom has continued through centuries and now is connected with the feast of St. Valentine, a bishop of Rome who was martyred on February 14, A.D.

Today all types of Valentine cards are exchanged, from the love-filled to the comic contemporary.

Today is especially for our little ones to fix something gay and colorful that would be eye-catching to them. The excitement will set their little hearts aflutter.

NATIONAL Beauty Salon Week

A medley of deep waves and playful curls gives a flattering frame to the face in this Lively Lilt Coiffure for Spring.

Designed by the Official Hair Fashion Committee of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association, it has the new fancy-free look that will be shown throughout the United States during National Beauty Salon Week, February 14-20.

Hair at the crown follows the contours of the head. In the nape area it is fitted closely into a neat neckline.

A professional permanent wave gives the hair just the right amount of hold for the soft look and carefree wear that are a part of the fashion scene.

This Easy Swing Coiffure has that look of classic chic. The soft waves flow gently around the face from a side part, as well as over the crown area down to a softly fitted neckline, but always with the new feeling of freedom and ease.

It is one of the Spring styles with the new fancy-free look, designed by the Official Hair Fashion Committee of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association, being featured throughout the nation February 14-20, the dates of the 21st observance of National Beauty Salon Week.

Highly expert haircutting is a must with this style, as is a soft professional permanent wave, so that it can be interpreted for your individual preferences, as well as carefree wear.

This Lighthearted Coiffure is tuned especially to the young ultra-romantic on Spring's fashion scene. Designed by the Official Hair Fashion Committee of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association, it will be shown across the nation during National Beauty Salon Week, February 14-20.

The uncomplicated crown of softly brushed hair gives a striking but gentle contrast to the lavish use of little girl curls that sweep around the back of the head from temple to temple. This effect can be even more disarming with an add-on hair piece of more curls.

A professionally prescribed permanent wave is required for just the right touch of support your hair needs, as well as to give you the easy wear that is such a part of the season's fashions.

HAIR STYLES FOR SPRING ARE FANCY-FREE

There is a fancy-free look in hair styles for Spring that foretells a carefree and happy ease in coiffures for the coming season, according to a collection of the new styles that was unveiled by the Official Hair Fashion Committee of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association.

The new styles were previewed by several thousand hairdressers from all states meeting in Portland, Oregon, in advance of their public presentation. They will be shown throughout the country at local fashion shows, February 14-20, during the 21st annual observance of National Beauty Salon Week.

This Spring, suggested the hair fashion authority of the beauty profession with the presentations of the new styles, is a perfect time for you to select the style you like, for this is definitely a season that is freer than in many years. Whether you prefer a look of classic chic, or one of mystic romance, the choice is yours.

However, you must have the loop interpreted for yourself, because this is also a season of great appreciation for the individual good looks of each person. Also, keep it feminine, keep it soft, keep it as natural-looking as possible, and you will have beautiful coiffure harmony throughout the wide range of looks on the fashion scene.

The freedom in Spring hair styles, however, is more than one of choice. The hair itself also moves more freely, and looks more free and easy-going. The styling and dressing of the individual coiffures, too, is freer.

The new styles also underscore the return of classic good taste. Kookiness of past seasons is out.

Styles for the young reflect the free spirit of youth, and frequently feature curls. Coiffures for more sophisticated personalities emphasize womanly beauty, often combining softly flowing line movements with sexy waves, deep, sensuous undulations.

Just as new Spring clothes show off the form and curves of the body, new hair styles show off the curves of the head with crown hair combed softly to follow head contours.

The hair is generally dressed from the top crown area and then moved into the direction of the desired style, usually flaring out at the sides where volume is formed with soft airy curls, waves, or a combination of the two.

Hair lengths are generally shorter for Spring. Whenever length adjustments are desired for variations with skirt and pant lengths, hair pieces are used with such great convenience and adaptability that they have become one of the more indispensable parts of the fashion wardrobe.

Treatment of the hair at the neckline is also one of the important parts of the new hair style picture. In most styles shown it was dressed to follow its natural growth direction, and always its design harmonized with the design of the sides and crown.

Hair length in the nape area ranges from zero for a softly fitted neckline to one-and-a-half inches, or more, to allow for freedom in design. Crown hair is relatively long, from five to nine inches. Front hair lengths vary freely in accordance with individual style requirements. Professional permanent waving was recommended throughout the style presentations of the experts. It is vital for the soft foundation you need for today's freer look and carefree wear. But it must be given by a professional expert, so that your hair has just enough support to hold your style with the degree of softness your style features.

Hair coloring for Spring calls for soft, warm tones of blended color to give a quality look to your hair. Soft shades of blended blonde and ash tones will continue in popularity, as will soft shades of brunette highlighted with golden reflectors. However, a new spectrum of exceptionally warm and rich value in reds and browns is making the scene for attention. Grays and silvers continue to hold their regal sway, enriched with violet and sapphire tones.

Here is the worst joke of the month! Once upon a time three friars went into the floral business. One day a few of the town's children ran into the backyard and were gobbled up by the man-eating plant the friars were growing. The parents of the children demanded that the plant be destroyed. But the friars refused. So the townspeople got the blacksmith, Hugh, to run the friars out of town. The moral of the story: Hugh, and only Hugh, can prevent florist friars.

On Feb. 25, 1969, Rev. Hall was elected as president of the Pastors' and Laymen's Conference held annually at Wayland Baptist College.

The conference covers four areas: Amarillo, Top O Texas, Caprock-Plains and Llanos Altos.

He served as president of the Littlefield Ministerial Alliance, president of the Llanos Altos Pastors' Alliance and is a member of the Executive Board of the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

Police Department May Get Teletype Loop Funds

Littlefield's Police Department could be a recipient of funds to support the operation of a teletype loop for the South Plains region, if an application to the Texas Criminal Justice Council by the South Plains Association of Governments (SPAG) is approved.

The SPAG board of directors, acting on a recommendation from the Criminal Justice Advisory Committee, has authorized SPAG to submit an application to the Texas Criminal Justice Council for funding assistance to develop a law enforcement teletype loop for the South Plains region.

The application, asking for $20,605.46, will provide partial funds to install 100-word-per-minute teletypes for several city agencies, including the Littlefield Police Department.

The lease cost of the teletype per agency per month is $183.06, of which the grant will pay 60 percent. Local governments will absorb the remaining 40 percent of the lease cost and supply costs for the equipment.

The total monthly bill for each government involved, with grant assistance, should run about $75.

A one-time charge for installation of the terminals will be $120 with the local government having to pay only 40 percent of the cost or $48.

Elected officials and law enforcement officers met Dec. 29 to discuss the proposed teletype system. Representatives from the Criminal Justice Council, Department of Public Safety, and Southwestern Bell Telephone Company explained the advantages, technical capabilities, costs and funding requirements of teletype communication.

If SPAG's application for funds is granted by the Criminal Justice Council, SPAG will contact the telephone company and place an order for the installation of the machines at the various locations.

Other agencies besides Littlefield are Slaton Police Department, Lubbock County Sheriff's Office; Terry County Sheriff's Office; Post Police Department and Garza County Sheriff's Office (joint effort); Brownfield Police Department; Plainview Police Department; Levelland Police Department; Lubbock Police Department; Denver City Police Department and Yoakum County Sheriff's Office (joint effort); Bailey County Sheriff's Office and Muleshoe Police Department (joint effort); Tahoka Police Department; and Hale County Sheriff's Office.

Install gas air conditioning now?

You should be so foxy

Installing GAS air conditioning now means you'll beat the rush that always comes with the first hot or dusty spring day. While everyone else is waiting for the overworked installers you'll be cool, calm, and collected.

GAS air conditioning cools your whole house quietly and efficiently. You'll save on repairs, too, because there is no compressor to break down or wear out. And, GAS air conditioning cools your whole house for what you might have been paying to cool just two or three rooms before.

So, be foxy. Call Pioneer and tell them you'd like to find out more about installing GAS air conditioning in the winter. A representative will tell you what it will take to include it in your present forced air heating system. You may be able to use the same ductwork for heating and cooling. It costs nothing to get a complete survey of your home or business.
