MOON FLIGHT

Lovell Does Not Favor Quarantine

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The commander of man's third voyage to the moon said Saturday he felt plans to put the astronauts in quarantine when they return are "ridiculous."

Astronaut James Lovell, the normally soft spoken commander of Apollo 13 which is scheduled for launch next month, said that he feels the quarantine after Apollo 11 and Apollo 12 "have proven conclusively" that isolation is no longer necessary.

The astronaut made the statement during an interview following a formal press conference, the Apollo 13 crew's last public appearance until launch day next month.

Lovell also revealed the names of the Apollo 13 spacecraft.

He said the lunar module, which lands on the moon, will be called Aquarius, which in Egyptian mythology was the carrier of knowledge and fertility. The command module, he said, would be called Odyssey, defined as "a long wandering usually marked by many changes of fortune."

Lovell said on Apollo 11, the first moon landing, "We didn't really know and I thought the quarantine was necessary. And to be doubly sure, I thought the one on Apollo 12 was necessary."

Lovell, who may walk on the moon for a total of 10 hours, said he has never worried about any lunar germs and feels the first two flights proved the worry of scientists to be groundless.

"I'm the one who's going to be exposed to the perils of the lunar environment," he said, "and I'm not worried."

Lovell and astronauts Fred Haise and Thomas K. Mattingly II will be launched toward the moon from Cape Kennedy on April 11. Lovell and Haise are scheduled to land on the moon and make two long walks while Mattingly orbits overhead.

During their moon walks, the astronauts plan to drill into the moon as far as 10 feet. Some scientists feel that these drillings may uncover moon life.

"I can't believe it," said Lovell Saturday. "I would be willing to eat the stuff from 10 feet down to prove a point."

Haise said the reasons for quarantine "were in a way valid," but he said he didn't look forward to it.

"Obviously, I had just as soon not," said Mattingly when asked about the quarantine. He noted, however, that the confinement will give the crew a good chance to de-brief on their 10-day moon mission.

CREW AND INSIGNIA — The Apollo 13 crew of astronauts, James Lovell left, Thomas K. Mattingly, center, and Fred Haise with their insignia for the coming April 11 moon landing flight. The three astronauts faced newsmen today and talked about their flight and what they hope to accomplish. They also said that the Lunar Landing Module will be known as Aquarius and the command module will be known as Odyssey.

Battle Shapes Over Lower Voting Age

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate-House test of wills is shaping up over the proposal to lower the voting age to 18. But Sen. Mike Mansfield, who guided the plan through the Senate, made clear Saturday he is determined to see it become law.

The Senate Democratic leader told reporters he will oppose any compromise version of the Voting Rights Act that drops the 18-year-old vote provision which the Senate put into the measure this week before sending it back to the House.

There it faces the determined opposition of Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., of the House Judiciary Committee, who has vowed "I'll fight it, come hell or high water."

Mansfield disclosed Celler had called him when it became evident he planned to seek Senate action. "He was very concerned that I was going to push it," the Montana said, adding:

"I guess we both feel strongly about it."

When the matter comes before the House, the choices will be to accept the Senate version including the 18-year-old vote provision, send it to Senate-House conference to resolve this and the other differences with the House version or try to instruct the conference to accept the Senate bill.

In the past, Senate versions of some civil rights bills have been accepted by the House, rather than face delay. Senior members of the Senate Judiciary Committee, in line to serve on the conference, opposed the voting measure and the 18-year-old vote.

But Mansfield said "I think we can work it out."

Blast Victims Were Transporting Device

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — An FBI report said Saturday the explosive device that killed two black civil rights workers in a car last week apparently was not concealed. That and reports of state authorities were offered to support the theory that the two were not victims of a bombing, but were transporting the device.

Gov. Marvin Mandel released the FBI report at a news conference only hours before the funeral in Washington of one of the dead, Ralph Featherstone, former program director for the Student National (formerly Non-Violent) Coordinating Committee—SNCC.

The car explosion last Monday near Bel Air, Md., also killed William H. Payne of Atlanta.

Both were friends of former SNCC leader H. Rap Brown, whose trial on charges of arson and inciting to riot began in Bel Air the same day. It was recessed and resumes Monday.

The FBI report said the explosive was dynamite, and the blast centered near the floor of the right front seat of the car.

The report was in the form of a telegram that read:

"An explosive charge so positioned would logically be resting on floorboard. Area of car where explosion occurred does not include glove compartment, dashboard or parts of automobile where explosive charge could have been concealed from

Overseas Mail May Be Opened

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Post-Dispatch says the Post Office Department has quietly issued new regulations authorizing the opening of nearly all mail from overseas at the discretion of a postal clerk, but a Post office spokesman said "that report is entirely wrong."

Marquis Childs, a contributing editor, said in a Sunday edition story that only mail addressed to ambassadors and high government officials is exempt from the new policy.

"Parts of key-wound clock characteristic of Westclox manufacture found in automobile debris. Fragments of mercury battery or batteries among items reportedly removed from body of victim William H. Payne.

"Above clock and battery fragments could represent an electrical firing system for a bomb," the report said.

Dr. Werner Spitz, state medical examiner, confirmed that his autopsy on Payne showed a tiny mercury battery, the type used in hearing aids, embedded in the victim's skull.

He said the battery had entered the mouth and tore through to the rear of the skull, indicating Payne was bent over the explosive device when it detonated.

Spitz said Payne's arms were blown off to the elbows and that this also indicated the victim was bending over the dynamite.

Had the charge been hidden under the seat, Payne's "back and buttocks would have sustained considerably more injury," the medical examiner said.

State Police Lt. Col. Thomas S. Smith said the floorboard of the car was bent downward by the force of the blast, eliminating any possibility the explosive device could have been hidden beneath it.

And, he said, reconstruction of the car showed all four windows had been up, negating the theory that someone had thrown the explosives through a car window.

Couple Killed By Delivered Bomb

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — A gift-wrapped package delivered Saturday morning to the home of a prominent Bolivian publisher exploded 10 minutes later, killing the man and his wife.

Alfredo Alexander Jordan, about 66, and his wife Marta, about 60, were killed when Alexander opened the package on his bed, where he had been reading the morning newspapers.

THE EVIDENCE — Dr. Werner Spitz, deputy state medical examiner, holds up an X-ray showing the skull of one of the two victims of an explosion near Bel Air Monday night containing a tiny battery imbedded in the skull by the blast. Gov. Marvin Mandel watches.

Ex-POW Gives Credit To Perot

DALLAS (AP) — Army Maj. James N. Rowe, a Green Beret who escaped from a North Vietnamese prisoner of war camp, says Dallas industrialist H. Ross Perot scored a victory even though he failed to deliver supplies to prisoners last Christmas.

Rowe said Perot's efforts put the United States in a favorable light internationally, especially when the supplies were prevented from reaching the prisoners.

He said Friday the Dallas computer executive also should be considered the catalyst that prompted the North Vietnamese to release names of prisoners.

Rowe, 32, escaped in 1968 after five years in prison. He now is stationed at Ft. Sill, Okla., and is on leave to write about his experiences with the Viet Cong.

Rowe addressed the West Point Society of North Texas' Founders Day dinner Friday.

"Perot caused more midnight kerosene to be burned in Hanoi," he said. "The Viet Cong had always said a man like Ross Perot can't exist because he's the epitome of capitalism."

Rowe urged others to follow Perot's example, saying, "a silent majority is of utterly no value—as long as you don't stand up and be counted, you might as well not be there."

Big Spring Week

. . . with Joe Pickle

Winter "snuck" in another punch last week, bringing brisk winds, then snow, and finally temperatures down to 26 degrees. Although some fruit and early leaves may be nipped, it is unlikely that the freeze did serious damage. By this weekend, spring should be back in center stage. Rains of the previous week have helped that cause along.

Webb AFB was included for $349,000 in recommended expenditures by the Defense Department. This is chiefly for X-ray shop equipment, plus buildings, etc. In comparison to former years, this is a modest amount (and it is not assured until it is voted first as an authorization and (See THE WEEK, Page 4-A, Col. 1)

Clark Panel Calls March Peaceful

WASHINGTON (AP) — A panel of lawyers headed by former Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark said Saturday the rights of free speech and assembly were cramped by misleading statements from the Nixon administration about antiwar demonstrations here last November.

"Many Americans formed their impression of what happened from misleading statements by administration spokesmen," a report by the Lawyers' Task Force said.

"To the extent that those impressions were erroneous, and based on misleading accounts as to the nature of the assembly and the level of violence, the viability of the First Amendment in our society has been weakened."

The report came from accounts of some 300 lawyer-observers and other helpers who watched the series of demonstrations here last Nov. 13-15.

Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell said shortly after the event, "the planned demonstrations were marred by such extensive physical injury, property damage and street confrontations that I do not believe that, overall, the gathering can be characterized as peaceful."

The Clark report said the demonstrations planned by the New Mobilization Committee were overwhelmingly peaceful and that the only violence came in two splinter demonstrations not sanctioned by the New Move.

The violent episodes involving an abortive march on the South Vietnamese embassy the night of Nov. 14 and a clash with police outside the Justice Department on Nov. 15 were described as "more theatrical than violent."

"Despite Justice Department predictions of impending holo-caust, the post-Moratorium fixation of administration spokesmen and much of the national news media on the two minor occasions where confrontations occurred, tear gas was used, and some property was damaged," the report said, "the clear and overriding characteristic of the demonstrations was their peacefulness."

Laos Casualty Figure Climbs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has lost several military men to hostile fire on the ground in Laos—not just the one Army captain identified by the White House, administration spokesmen now concede.

The Nixon administration spokesmen have revised their count of U.S. deaths to Communist action in Laos—civilian and military—from a precise figure of 27 to a fuzziest "less than 50" since 1962.

In a lengthy give and take with newsmen Friday, White House spokesman Ronald L. Ziegler said "some would be U.S. civilians, some would be U.S. military."

New Translation Of Bible Aimed At Youth Of Today

NEW YORK (AP) — The Holy Bible has had another facelift. A new translation rendered in 20th-century English with hopes it will appeal to young people, comes out Monday.

The New English Bible—NEB—look British scholars 26 years to complete. Unlike the popular Revised Standard Version (RSV)—a revision of the King James Bible, the NEB is a fresh translation of the Greek, Hebrew and Aramaic texts.

The translators say the result is up-to-date in scholarship and free of the confusions wrought by 17th-century diction without sacrificing poetic beauty. Lines run the width of the page for easier reading.

"We aim at a version which shall be as intelligible to contemporary readers as the original version was to its first readers," said Dr. C. H. Dodd, a New Testament scholar and director of the translation work.

The New Testament only of the NEB was published in 1961 and seven million copies have been sold around the world, including 2.7 million in the United States.

Although the NEB was not designed to be read from the pulpit, Dodd added, "It is to be hoped that, at least occasionally, it may produce arresting and memorable renderings. It should have sufficient dignity to be read aloud."

Judge for yourself, in the NEB Lord's Prayer, for instance:

"Forgive us the wrong we have done."

"as we have forgiven those who have wronged us."

"And do not bring us to the test,"

"but save us from the evil one."

Jeremiah 5:28 reads in the King James: "They are waxen fat, they shine, yea, they overpass the deeds of the wicked."

The NEB translates the line: "They grow rich and grand, 'bloated and rancorous; 'their thoughts are all of evil."

The 23rd Psalm in the NEB translation starts:

"The Lord is my shepherd; I shall want nothing."

"He makes me lie down in green pastures,"

"and leads me besides the waters of peace;"

"he renews life within me,"

"and for His name sake guides me in the right path."

"Even though I walk through a valley dark as death

"I fear no evil . . ."

In the King James Bible, the sixth Beatitude, reads: "Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled." In the NEB, that becomes, "How blest are those who hunger and thirst to see right prevail; they shall be satisfied."

SAFETY AWARD — Big Spring trainmen were honored Friday night when Missouri-Pacific Railroad officials presented a miniature train and a plaque to members of the Rio Grande Division, headquartered in Big Spring. Shown with the awards are R. F. Hanfeld, trainmaster, Odessa, (left); J. A. Wright, general roadmaster, Big Spring; and H. A. Hopkins, general superintendent for rules and safety, St. Louis, (right).

Local Trainmen Get MoPac Safety Trophy

A miniature replica of a modern diesel locomotive, the safety trophy of Missouri Pacific Railroad, was presented Friday night to the Big Spring office of the Rio Grande Division. The trophy and a plaque will be kept on display in the trophy case in the lobby of the freight office here. J. A. Austin, superintendent of the division, said Big Spring has about 250 of the 600 persons employed in the division.

The awards were presented in recognition of 2,830,200 man-hours worked in 1969 with only three lost-time injuries in the division. None of those injuries were to Big Spring employees, Austin said.

The Rio Grande Division, which extends from El Paso to Fort Worth with headquarters here, won the trophy away from the 1968 winner, the Kingsville Division, Corpus Christi. If the Rio Grande Division wins the

Mansfield Assured No More Bombing Of Laos

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield said Saturday he has assured that President Nixon does not plan to repeat use of B52 bombers against Communist positions in North Vietnam.

The Montana Democrat said that after the big bombers were used in last month's unsuccessful effort to prevent the North Vietnamese recapture of the Plain of Jars he asked that the raid not be repeated.

Now, he said in an interview, he has received "good enough assurance to suit me" that the strike will not be repeated.

Use of small fighter aircraft against Communist positions is continuing, Mansfield said, adding that he thinks the delicate situation in North Laos has stabilized somewhat in the past few days.

"By and large, the fighting has stopped at the usually selected line," where other offensives have halted, Mansfield said, a development which could indicate the North Vietnamese have no present plans of trying to capture Vientiane and Luang Prabang, the administrative and royal capitals, and force the fall of Laos.

The B52 strike in the Plain of Jars brought accusations that the Nixon administration was escalating the conflict in Laos and threatening to involve the United States in another Vietnam.

"I doubt they will be made again," Mansfield said. "I don't know why it happened. It must have been in the area of good and sufficient reason for the President to have ordered such an attack."

He declined to say who gave him the requested assurances.

The Montana said he thinks "the President feels the same way" as Senate critics about the need to avoid further involvement in Laos.

"I am certain in my own mind that the President does not intend to become engaged in a full-fledged war in Laos," he said.

Demos Credited On Welfare Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's welfare program would not have cleared its first legislative hurdle without a fundamental change made by the House Ways and Means Committee, Chairman Wilbur D. Mills contends.

The committee's contribution was to require that the working poor who would be made eligible for family assistance must be given training or job assignments to help them improve their earnings—and must accept such assignments.

Without such a requirement, Mills said in an interview, the committee would not have approved expansion of the welfare rolls by 15 million persons in working poor families.

Mills himself withheld endorsement of the measure until the last month. Three Democratic members of the committee voted against the bill, primarily because of the working poor provisions, which they de-

Terrorists Plant Bombs In Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — Three bombs exploded in Saigon Saturday, five days after officials predicted an increase in Viet Cong terrorist attacks in the capital in order to create "an illusion of strength."

Only one of the bombings was deadly. A South Vietnamese civilian was killed and five were wounded when a bomb exploded outside the administrative headquarters of the Saigon's 3rd Precinct.

Officials said the Viet Cong planted the plastic bomb in a flower pot outside the precinct headquarters building. The blast blew out part of the building's front wall.

The second most destructive bombing wrecked the interior of an empty movie theater in a five-story Eden building in downtown Saigon. There were no casualties but people in the street began running in confusion at the sound of the blast.

The explosion jarred downtown Saigon shortly before midnight, but no other damage was reported in the building, a complex of apartments and offices, including those of The Associated Press and the National Broadcasting Co.

About three hours earlier, two terrorists on a motorbike hurled an explosive charge into a parking lot about a mile from Phu Tho race track. Two motorbikes were damaged but there were no casualties. Police said one of the terrorists was captured.

There have been two other bombings of major downtown buildings in Saigon so far this year. No one was killed but three South Vietnamese and two Americans were injured.

Last week official sources said they expected increased Viet Cong terrorist attacks against U.S. and government buildings.

They said they had intelligence reports that the U.S. Embassy, the Presidential Palace, capital military district and national police headquarters were among the Viet Cong targets.

On the fighting front, enemy rockets struck the headquarters base of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division in the far north Saturday.

The first rocket hit the base, Camp Eagle, before dawn and within 15 minutes 14 other of the 122mm rockets had exploded.

U.S. officials reported that despite the size of the rockets, Camp Eagle was only lightly damaged and no casualties were reported.

It was the first rocket attack on the camp since Dec. 6. It is located four miles southeast of the old imperial capital of Hue. Enemy activity has picked up slightly in the Hue - Da Nang area recently.

The U.S. Command reported six enemy rocket and mortar attacks against U.S. units or installations during the 24-hour period ending at 8 a.m. Saturday. The attacks elsewhere killed three Americans.

Field reports said U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division troops killed 22 North Vietnamese in two clashes Saturday in War Zone C north of Saigon and about three miles from the Cambodian border. U.S. casualties were put at

18 STEERS, 100 LAMBS EXPECTED Junior Stock Show Set Tuesday

The 1970 4-H and FFA Live-stock Show will kick off Tuesday at 4 p.m. when the 18 steers and 100 lambs entered begin weighing in, according to County Agent Paul Gross.

Deadline for entering animals in the show is 7 p.m. Tuesday, with no animals taken after that time, Gross said.

The tedious work of sifting and classifying lambs and steers is scheduled to begin at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Howard County Fair Grounds buildings, west of town, where all activities are to take place.

There will be four classes of lambs, Finewools, Crossbreds, Southdowns (including Shropshires) and Hampshires, and three champion lambs will be chosen beginning at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Champion banners will go to the Champion Finewool, Champion Crossbred and Champion Medium Wool. All lamb classes will be judged in two divisions, lightweight and heavyweight.

Prize money is $12 for first; second, $10; third, $9; fourth, $8; fifth, $7; and sixth through tenth places, ribbons will be awarded. The grand champion steer and the reserve champion steer will each receive banners, and the winner of the showmanship award will receive a trophy.

A special award to be presented will be the Loy Acuff Award, a $100 savings bond and a plaque to the first place Hereford steer bred in Howard County.

Jack Lacy, vocational agriculture teacher, Lampasas, will be the steer judge, and Franklin Brownfield, Colorado City vocational agriculture teacher, will be the lamb judge.

Labor Survey Lists 2,200

The Chamber of Commerce Industrial Team's "Survey Saturday" added approximately 500 forms for a total of 2,200 completed forms with information on the local labor market.

Charles Bell, personnel representative of the team, said about 40 persons manned 20 stations in retail stores around town, and about 20 persons canvassed house-to-house. The drive to obtain complete information on the local labor market among women is officially over, Bell said, but he anticipates a 2,500 total after the active files of the Texas Employment Commission are searched.

The Choir Boosters, Herald carriers, members of the DeMolays, the Catholic Youth Organization of Sacred Heart Church and the Boys Club helped in "Survey Saturday," Bell said.

The survey was held between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Objective of the survey is to determine the number of local women available to work in a garment manufacturing operation. Several clothing industries are prospects for locating plants in Big Spring.

Lights Stolen

A workman for Strain Brothers Construction Co., San Angelo, reported Friday afternoon to city police that four yellow flashing lights mounted on stop signs and about 30 red 12-inch ones have been stolen from along FM 700 where workmen are widening the highway for the Texas Highway Department. He said three barricades with yellow flashing lights have been vandalized on FM 700 at IS 20, Virginia and US 87 South.

Lively Voting Indicated In Area City Elections

By TERRY STARK

Most area cities finished preparations for their April elections about the same time the 13 candidates for the three Big Spring commission seats drew for a place on the ballot Friday and, as is the case here, several of the area races promise a lively campaign.

BIG SPRING

The order of the ballot in Big Spring for the April 7 election is as follows: 1. Arnold Marshall, incumbent mayor and transport company executive; 2. Wade Choate, credit union manager; 3. Tony Tarant, shipping supervisor; 4. Jimmy Morehead, incumbent commissioner and transfer company executive; 5. De Witt Bunn, investment counselor; 6. Eddie Acrl, finance company executive; 7. Neel G. Barnaby, retired military; 8. Dr. Halvard T. Hansen, chiropractor; 9. Lowell N. Jones, soft drink company manager; 10. E. L. Meeks, electronics repair; 11. Don R. Brooks, radio announcer; 12. Jack Pearson, Stanton, Colorado City and motor lines terminal manager; 13. O. T. Brewster, motel manager. Incumbent commissioner Walter Stroup chose not to run for re-election and the places of Commissioners George Zachariah and Garner McAdams go uncontested this

Bill Logsdon, H. L. Fraser, and

City Secretary Charles Smith said he will have extra ballots printed in the event of a record voter turnout, and that the ballots will be ready for the start of absentee voting Wednesday.

City elections in Coahoma, Stanton, Colorado City and Lamesa will also be held April 7.

H-SU Organizes President's Club

ABILENE — Organized by approval of the trustees in November, 1968, the President's Club of Hardin-Simmons University will be launched April 13 at a dinner meeting at 7 p.m. in the H-SU cafeteria. The dinner, which will be an invitation affair, will also honor H-SU President Dr. Elwin L. Skiles on the fourth anniversary of his service. Skiles assumed the presidency of H-SU April 3, 1966.

The President's Club honors the 13 men who have served as presidents of H-SU. It was organized to aid the present president, Dr. Skiles, and those who succeed him in achieving their goals for the institution.

Purposes of the group include seeking undesignated gifts to aid the University and the President in achieving Endowment Program, according to the speaker. Last year, the National Scholarship Committee of the AB-

Ambucs Urged To Boost Living Endowment Plan

Bob Hickson appealed to his fellow American Business Club members to support the national organization's Living Endowment Program at the Ambucs' luncheon Friday in the Settles Hotel.

Hickson said that AB Clubs across the land had raised an estimated $500,000 to provide college scholarships to young people who want to become physical therapists.

Those participating in the project can subscribe for as little as $1.25 a month. Upwards to 1,000 such scholarships have been granted since the fund became a reality, two of them to local people, Hickson said.

It developed that neither of the scholarships granted here was used but the ABC has on file two more applications for scholarship help.

A total of 28 present and former members of the club are now participating in the Living Endowment Program, according to the speaker. Last year, the National Scholarship Committee of the AB-

Clubs had to pare 115 requests for aid totaling $120,000 down to 59 grants aggregating $34,500, simply because the funds were not available.

Hickson also revealed that one local member of the club contributed $100 annually toward the fund, substantially above the average donation.

The club's annual election of officers will be conducted next Friday, ABC proxy Daryl Pittman reminded other members. DeWitt Bunn will stand for office as the club president.

Merrill Creighton was presented with a star for his "big hat," which symbolizes added success in the individual's personal membership campaign.

Frank Dietrich and Earl Newell were introduced as new members. Guests included Neel Barnaby, Harold Davis and Lou Braun, the latter of Odessa.

Braun is chairman of the ABC's district committee for new club building and spoke briefly to the gathering. Morris Robertson was in charge of the program.

City Secretary Charles Smith said he will have extra ballots printed in the event of a record voter turnout, and that the ballots will be ready for the start of absentee voting Wednesday.

Philip A. Wynn, Mayor Jack Cauble, C. C. Harrison and Tommy Aberegg do not have to stand election this year.

In Stanton the choices are incumbent Mayor Edwin Magruder, incumbent councilman Martin Neill, and John L. Pike, oil company production manager. A. A. Thomas Jr., Pat M. Baskin, and Robert B. Holt are holdover members.

The places of three councilmen are up for election in Colorado City. The five candidates are Eddie Piland, incumbent, Finis L. May, J. O. Dockrey Jr., Abel Alvarez, and Trevlyn Kelley. Dr. John H. Chinn, mayor and incumbent Councilman R. J. Hoback decided not to run. C. C. Burt, J. C. Britton, J. C. Brown, and Paul Hunter are holdovers.

There are three candidates for the three council seats up for election in Lamesa: incumbents John Palmore and Don Bryant, and Joe Carroll running for the seat vacated by councilman Wendell Strahan. Mayor Lloyd Cline and Councilman Douglas B. Black do not stand for election.

Candidates in Ackerly for April 18 election are Earl Newcomer, Gale Batson, Clyde Kennemur and incumbent P. L. Batson. Mayor Jack Bowlin and Councilman D. L. Rasberry are not seeking re-election.

Forsan has a candidate for each of three aldermen to be elected April 4; Mayor C. J. Lamb, incumbent G. L. Monroney, and Lee D. Whetsel.

Expo '70 Opens Gates In Japan

OSAKA, Japan (AP) — Children sang, trumpets blared and the emperor of Japan bowed as Expo '70 began officially Saturday.

Under clearing skies and brisk weather, Emperor Hirohito declared Asia's first world exposition open during ceremonies in the vast festival plaza dominated by the massive Tower of the Sun.

Thousands of invited guests, including Prime Minister Eisaku Sato and survivors of the 17 workers who died while building the fair attended the 72-minute inaugural.

The fair is braced to receive more than half a million visitors when it opened its gates to the public Sunday, and hopes for a record 60 million during its six months of life.

First in line at the main gate, waiting for the public opening was Al Carter, 39, of Chicago, Ill. A jazz drummer, Carter claimed that he was the first admitted to the Montreal exposition in 1967.

Although the diplomats of 77 participating nations sat in the stands, the opening ceremony had a predominately Japanese flavor.

The Asian impact was apparent not only in the colorful hemisphere, but also in many of the architectural designs on the grounds — pagodas, junks, bamboo stalks, soaring temples and spidery palaces.

The 815-acre site was built with its surrounding roads and rail nets at a cost of $2.7 billion.

The opening was a mixture of Japanese solemnity, and love of spectacle. After the formal speeches, the Japanese let go in an exuberant outburst of singing, music, dancing and fireworks.

There were no incidents during the ceremonies, televised live by satellite to Canada, Nationalist China, the Philippines and Brazil, which has a large Japanese immigrant population.

During Sunday's public opening, traffic police from 51 nations paraded on the grounds and gave exhibitions of their skills.

A Tokyo newspaper quoted Japanese pavilion officials as complaining that a number of foreign nations were pushing their products too hard.

Many Have A Part In Easter Sunrise Service

Many interests of the community have combined in developing the traditional non-denominational Easter sunrise service to be in the Comanche Trail Park amphitheatre at 6:49 a.m. March 29.

The service is sponsored by the Howard County Ministerial Fellowship, with many other groups assisting.

The program will be highlighted by an address by Chaplain (Col.) John W. New, assistant command chaplain for the Air Training Command at Randolph AFB. He is a veteran of World War II, left the service to assume pastorate, then returned to the Air Force during the Korean conflict.

Special music will be given by the Mt. Bethel Baptist choir and various members of the Ministerial Fellowship will have parts on the program.

The program will open with a trumpet fanfare at sunrise, and the posting of colors by the Webb AFB color guard.

Members of the Chamber of Commerce Ambassadors Club will serve as ushers, and local florists are cooperating with the Council of Garden Clubs in special decorations.

The City of Big Spring is supporting the service and other facilities at the amphitheatre and directing traffic and parking.

The Easter service regularly attracts crowds of several hundred.

Collection helps to finance the Bible courses in Big Spring High School.

If weather is too severe for an outdoor service, it will be moved to the First Baptist Church.

New Ouster Move Today Aimed At Kinross-Wright

AUSTIN (AP) — The State Board of Mental Health and Mental Retardation meets behind closed doors Sunday to consider what reportedly will be another effort to oust the mental health commissioner, Dr. John Kinross-Wright.

No official announcement of the meeting was issued, despite a legal requirement of a 72-hour notice before state agency sessions, but sources confirmed it will be at 2 p.m. in the board headquarters.

The Rev. Robert Tate, pastor of Austin's First United Methodist Church and a member of the MHMR board, said no ouster motion has been prepared but "I would support one."

Informants said Saturday it appeared there were five votes to oust the commissioner and four to keep him.

Dr. Tate instigated a move against Kinross-Wright last year but the matter was disposed of with a vote of confidence by the board Nov. 8.

Board chairman Ward Burke of Diboll called Sunday's meeting, Dr. Tate said. Asked if he had requested it, Tate said, "I told him I would like to have one."

Sources said the meeting evidently was precipitated by Kinross-Wright's firing of Deputy Commissioner Gary Miller.

Miller, one source said, was fired because he had trouble getting along with Kinross-Wright and other board employees. The deputy, however, has the support of some board members.

Legislative sources say one reason for Dr. Tate's opposition to Kinross-Wright is that the minister does not think Kinross-Wright has pushed hard enough for community treatment centers for the retarded and mentally ill.

But House Speaker Gus Mutscher said Saturday that Kinross-Wright deserves the credit for a $3 million increase in the current appropriation for community mental health centers.

Kinross-Wright, Mutscher said, has "done a remarkable job, much better than anybody has ever stopped to give him credit for."

The British-Born, Oxford-educated psychiatrist has been commissioner since March, 1967. He is a former director of the Houston State Psychiatric Institute.

then as an appropriation), but the pinch is on the defense establishment everywhere.

The Golden Horns, a 25-member BSHS stage band under direction of Don Turner, was picked as the outstanding band in competition at Lubbock last weekend. The young musicians did such a fine job that they got a spontaneous, standing ovation.

Seeing that justice is done is a bit on the expensive side for Howard County in the instance of Rae Bourbon and Bobbie E. Chriss, both of whom were convicted of the murder of A. D. Blount. So far the county has paid out $9,135 and there are more costs to come, not to mention the charges for trying Bobby Crain, the third member charged with the slaying. But you can't put a price tag on justice.

City commissioners want to get more information on the drainage plan proposed by the U.S. Corps of Engineers. Before they recommend a half million dollar bond issue for this, they want to be a lot surer than they are now. In the end, when it gets to weighing potential damages from flooding against costs, the proposal is apt to experience even closer scrutiny.

Howard County commissioners court authorized a special deputy for night patrol in response to complaints from residents in areas outlying Big Spring. Unfortunately, some young people seem to think any spot outside the city limits is suitable for a beer bust or pot party.

Mobile homes are going on the tax rolls this year. Official bodies have instructed the joint appraiser to begin making the assessments. Only military personnel, who are not liable under the law, are exempt.

More than 100 individuals in this area took part Thursday in a clinic on adolescent psychology. This is a field which is tremendously important and deserves utmost consideration. This calls to mind how blessed our people are with clinics and seminars which result from the State Hospital and the VA Hospital.

There are places you can visit today, to see some wonderful work going on in the community. The Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center will have open house from 2 to 5 p.m. to demonstrate its various facilities. And also from 2 to 5 you may call at the Boys Club, 114 1/2 E. 2nd. Here's a growing organization giving healthy direction to youngsters.

The "Pride People" of The Chamber of Commerce are devising new programs for civic beautification, and they all point to making Big Spring an All-American City. This can be a success only if all citizens work at it.

The local Elks Lodge had festivities over the weekend in observance of the organization's 20th anniversary. Alex A. McKnight, Dallas, past state president, was a special visitor.

Easter is just two weeks away, and the traditional Sunrise Worship will be held in the City Park amphitheatre starting at 6:49 a.m. Colonel John W. New, assistant command chaplain at Air Training Command headquarters, San Antonio, will be the speaker.

Directors of the Colorado River Municipal Water District reviewed the supply situation Thursday and concluded to continue operating as usual. While more runoff is needed in the two lakes, there is enough water on hand to carry through the year, said S. W. Freese, consulting engineer. Everyone is hoping this is the year of a big runoff — which would leave this area in excellent condition for water supply.

'Drowned' Man Surrenders

JENNINGS, La. (AP) — A man recently reported drowned near Galveston, Tex., is alive in Jennings where he surrendered to authorities early Saturday to face conspiracy charges.

W. Jimmy Mallett surrendered at his brother's home, Sheriff Louis DeLaunay said.

Mallett's wife, Leola, reported him drowned on a fishing trip near Galveston March 2, the sheriff said.

Mallett is charged with selling $40,000 of seed rice that farmers said was never delivered. Mallett is a farm supply dealer.

He also is charged with arson with intent to defraud in connection with a warehouse fire in Calcasieu Parish in February. Charges began mounting Wednesday against Mallett and his wife. By Friday, charges against Mallett had mounted to 18. His wife was charged with 21 counts and is in jail in lieu of a $372,000 bond.

Questioners To Get Help From Mailman For Census

By JIM BARLOW
Associated Press Writer
DALLAS (AP) — An army of questioners, joined this year by your friendly mailman, will be fanning across Texas this spring.

Their object is to find out if there really are 11,187,000 Texans as the Census Bureau estimates.

But they also will be assembling information to decide the geographical makeup of the Texas Legislature and to tell manufacturers of electric dishwashers just how many more customers they might expect to have.

The Regional Office of the Census Bureau in Texas will hire between 9,000 and 10,000 temporary workers between now and April 1.

Directing this vast operation will be just five people in a Dallas office. They'll also be responsible for similar operations in Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana.

One of the five is Michael Long, deputy regional director. Long will be helping train the top three people in the 23 district offices which will be set up in Texas. They in turn train the thousands of local workers.

Where do all these part-timers come from.

"Traditionally, the census taker has been the housewife," Long said.

But the top temporary help comes from the Texas Republican Party.

"We test and choose the district directors from persons submitted to us by senators and congressmen," he said. And since the Republicans now control the national government, "it's the Republicans who are doing the submitting," Long adds.

But Long thinks this holdover from the old days of patronage really isn't bad.

"We are not paying people executive salaries for district director. They have a hard job, supervising 500 to 550 people, keeping up the payroll, not to mention the census taking itself. Most of the directors are doing it because they want to help the census and not because

Crew Chiefs For 'Nose Count'

Plans for the 1970 "nose count" are being firmed up and over 40 enumerators will probably be named later this week, according to Dr. Akin Simpson, who is heading up the effort in Howard and Glascock counties.

Three crew chiefs were named last week, and they will attend an Abilene training session Monday and Tuesday. The three are Mrs. James E. Williams, Mrs. Robert F. Penner and Mrs. Donald C. Lee.

Hal Graham, supervisory crew leader with headquarters in Wichita Falls, was in the city last week to help firm up plans for the count, which will get started April 1. He said each of the crew chiefs will have about 13-14 districts, and each district will include about 600 houses.

Residents will receive a "short form" in the mail, which they are to complete and have ready when the enumerator calls on the home. Each fifth house will have a long form to be completed, and each 20th house will be asked some additional questions by the enumerator who picks up the form.

Graham said the crew chiefs of nine counties will attend the training meeting in Abilene this week. He estimated about 30 enumerators will be used in Howard County, and about a dozen in Glascock County.

they want to make the $5 an hour. That's not a salary you pay a manager."

This decade, the Census Bureau has a trick for holding down the number of census takers. In many metropolitan areas of Texas, they'll be turning citizens into their own census takers.

"We plan to use the mails for the first time this year in the larger areas of the United States," Long said.

In Texas, this means that people in counties of Dallas, Tarrant (Fort Worth), Bexar (San Antonio), Harris (Houston), Jefferson (Beaumont-Port Arthur), Galveston and Chambers will get their census forms in the mail, fill them out and mail them back.

The Census Bureau tried a test run in Madison, Wis., and found 91 per cent returned their questionnaire. Where they don't, the bureau will send out foot troops to ask the questions face to face.

But with American citizens the most mobile in the world, how can the Census Bureau be sure of catching up with people.

"Three ways," said Long.

"First, we bought a commercial mailing list. Then we are having the Post Office Department improve it three times, bringing it up to date. The final check is done the day the census is mailed out, March 28. Finally, the Census Bureau itself checks the addresses."

The mail procedure is being used because the bureau believes it will do a better job of finding people in the larger cities than the conventional knocking on doors.

"Another reason we are using it is economy. Without it, we would have to hire nationally about 207,000 census takers, instead of the 185,000 we plan to hire."

Mail census taking won't be used in the smaller cities because, "We need to know where people live for such things as congressional and legislative redistricting. We know where 123 Main St. might be. We wouldn't know exactly where Route 3, San Angelo might be."

On April 1, all big city householders should get their questionnaires. Long said 80 per cent of them will get a short form which has three pages of questions. But even the short census wants to know if you have a flush toilet, a bathtub or shower and how much rent you pay a month or how much your house is worth.

The long form, which one householder in five gets, asks if you ever served in the armed forces, if any language is spoken in your home besides English, how many hours you worked the week before and how your living quarters are heated.

When all this information floods back into the district offices they'll start telling people just how big a town they live in. The information will be available "sometime" between July and December," Long said vaguely. "Since Texas is one of the more difficult states to process, because it is so big and has such a big population, I would expect it will be later than many."

Some district offices will work faster than others and some cities will know sooner exactly what numbers those signs at the city limits will carry next year.

And then, some screaming can be expected to start. "One of the reasons why we ask people to give their names on the census form is that when some mayor says we have miscounted his city we can ask for names, then check against our files," Long said.

The bureau also checks all district offices before they close to see if the elaborate system has been correctly used.

And like football rating polls, when it's all over, the Census Bureau puts out a list of who is number one, and two, and 4,890th.

Stray Dog Problem Getting Worse Again

The city may not be going to the dogs, but the dogs are definitely coming to town, if the number of stray muzzles the police receive are any indication.

"As seems to happen this time every year, we are overwhelmed with calls on stray dogs," Chief of Police Jay Banks said. "I would like to remind all dog owners that it is a violation to permit a dog to run at large, regardless of whether the animal is licensed."

Borden Stock Show Slated

The Borden County Junior Livestock Association will hold its annual junior livestock show Friday and Saturday in Gall with more than 200 barrows, lambs and steers entered.

Approximately 75 of the top animals will sell at auction at 1:30 p.m. Saturday. Barrows will be judged at 3:30 p.m. Friday with the lamb judging to follow at 7:30 p.m. The steer show will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday.

A barbecue lunch will be held at noon Saturday, following the steer judging, with the auction to be held after the luncheon.

Five Cases Are Set For Trial

In a Friday afternoon docket call, five of the 15 cases set for jury trial Monday were pronounced ready by attorneys. Prospective jurors have been called for 10 a.m. Monday in 118th District Court, Judge R. W. Caton said.

Four of the cases are damage suits resulting from automobile accidents. They are: John A. Warner et ux vs. William E. Parker and D. Tidwell; Coy Ford et ux vs. Derwin Hansford; A. H. Neves et al vs. Pollard Chevrolet et al; Joe Gonzales et al vs. Harold H. Rhoden.

The fifth case is Norman Webb et ux vs. Safeway Stores Inc. Mr. and Mrs. Webb are seeking $50,800 in damages for a fall by Mrs. Webb in a local Safeway store.

complaints and the animal warden has more strays than he can handle alone.

"We invite all persons who can catch a stray dog to help out by bringing it to the police department," Banks said. "We will keep keys to the animal pound at police headquarters at all times when the animal warden is off duty and will receive any dogs which citizens may bring to us."

Banks said last week that many of the calls are coming from the neighborhood near the Kate Morrison School, where the four and five-year-olds are involved in the Head Start Project. The chief said project officials had reported several instances where strays had harassed students there.

Mrs. Brewster To Pronounce For Bee

The Howard County Spelling Bee will have a real "pro" as its pronouncer March 24.

Mrs. O. T. (Lila) Brewster, who has filled this role in the county bee for several years, has consented again to pronounce from the "Word of Champions," the official practice book for the contest.

Mrs. Brewster has a rich background in English, and in word derivation, construction and meaning.

She has been a member of the Big Spring High School faculty for the past seven years, teaching English and French.

Mrs. Brewster also has been the faculty member in charge of the school's humanities program to which only outstanding students are nominated. Before that, she handled the enrichment program for the honors students who took the special work as a summer extra.

MRS. LILA BREWSTER

Avoid Separate Checks For Tax

Anyone planning to pay two Federal taxes at the same time should use separate checks or money orders to avoid possible billing errors, Ellis Campbell Jr., district director of Internal Revenue for North Texas, said.

Under the IRS system, which has a different processing cycle for each type of return, the entire payment could be credited to one tax and a bill issued for the other.

Campbell said, "If one check or money order covers a 1970 estimated tax payment and a 1969 tax balance due, for example, when the returns are separated for processing, the entire payment might be credited to one tax, leaving the other tax unpaid." In such a situation, one tax would be overpaid and a refund issued, while on the other tax a bill would be sent, Campbell explained.

Cambodian Prince Asking For Help

MOSCOW (AP) — Prince Norodom Sihanouk, Cambodia's chief of state, met two of the Kremlin Big Three Saturday to seek Soviet help in curbing the activities of North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops in his country. The meeting came a day after disclosure that the government in Phnom Penh, Cambodia's capital, had told North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops to get out of the nation's border regions by dawn Sunday.

The Japanese newspaper Asahi, in a dispatch from Phnom Penh, said Sunday there were no signs the 60,000 or so North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops in Cambodia were withdrawing.

Recognition that is more than memory is stirred when Western buffs first view a painting by Joe Grandee. The approach used by this young man is becoming recognized by art critics as one of the finest examples of realistic western art technique used since Russell and Remington. Grandee feels each painting must tell a detailed story of time and the marks it leaves on both man and his accomplishments.

Israelis Strike Across Canal

Twin Israeli strike forces slipped across the Suez Canal before dawn Saturday and overran four Egyptian gun positions in hand-to-hand combat, the Israeli military said. The Egyptians claimed the attack was foiled.

A sharply worded commentary in the Soviet Defense Ministry's organ, Krasnaya Zvezda—Red Star—called the decision to put the MIRV into operation a "stick in the spokes" of efforts to curb the arms race.

The Pentagon's decision seriously threatens the Soviet-American talks and encourages the arms race," the Red Star commentary said in the first Soviet reaction.

Vandals Uproot, Strip, Trample Nursery Trees

By TERRY STARK
Some hard working vandals evidently struck the city's tree nursery in Comanche Trail Park Friday, uprooting or otherwise damaging about 30 of the nursery's young trees and stripplings.

VANDALS STRIKE — These trees were among those uprooted by vandals. Parks Superintendent Johnny Johansen (left) and Police Officer Claude Morris survey the damage.

ing more than a dozen mulberry trees and about 15 live oak stripplings he planned to transplant to parks around the city were discovered pulled up, broken or stripped Friday night. The vandals went to some pains to uproot the mulberry trees, some of which were seven to eight feet tall, then tossed several of them into a ditch lining a park road. One of the trees was left standing, but stripped of bark by a vandal who apparently enjoyed a tedious chore. The live oaks looked to have been trampled.

Police Officer Claude Morris said the damage was reported to the police by a park employee, who was informed by a neighborhood resident Saturday morning. Johansen said many of the trees would probably survive the damage with care and constant watering for the next few weeks. The mulberries were just getting to the point where they would show blooms, he said, and expressed little sympathy for anyone who would tear down trees in their prime. Morris put it more succinctly when he said, "As few trees as there are in this part of the country, it ought to be a federal offense to tear them down."

Treatment Helps Victims Of Hodgkins Disease

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new four-drug combination treatment that arrests — at least temporarily — the cancer-like Hodgkins disease has been reported by the National Cancer Institute.

The multiple-drug treatment has been under study since 1964 and has prolonged the life of some victims the entire six years. Sixty-three per cent of the 43 patients that entered treatment at various times during the period survived four years.

Hodgkins disease, of unknown origin, is a cancer of the lymph nodes, spleen and liver which kills approximately 3,300 Americans per year. It strikes some 15,000 annually. Most of the victims are in their 20s.

Dr. C. Gordon Zubrod of the NCI Friday identified the newest of the four drugs used in the "shot gun" treatment as procarbazine hydrochloride. It was developed by the Hoffman-LaRoche Co. of Nutley, N.J., and is derived in part from hydrazine, a rocket fuel.

Motive In Stabbing Is Sought

DALLAS (AP) — Police sought a motive Saturday in the grisly stabbing death of a 29-year-old Oklahoma State University instructor.

The body of Dale H. Stockton of Stillwater, Okla., was found Friday on a blood-soaked bed at a motor hotel. Stockton had been slashed across the neck and both wrists, officers said. He was partly clad and his feet were bound together with a man's tie. No weapon was found.

Stockton, a former minister at Highland Park Methodist Church in Dallas, was an associate professor and debate coach at OSU. A bellman found the body after Stockton's wife asked hotel employees to see why he failed to answer when she tried to telephone him from their home.

Stockton checked into the hotel Thursday morning. He was to address a meeting of oilmen. A "do not disturb" sign hung on the doorknob of his room, but the unlocked door stood open an inch.

Police said Stockton's billfold and all personal identification were missing. Clothing that appeared to belong to him was scattered about the room. Stockton and his wife and two children had lived in Stillwater since 1963.

He received a bachelor of divinity degree from Southern Methodist University in 1968 and a master's degree from OSU.

Closing VA Beds Called Disaster

SHERMAN (AP) — Sen. Ralph Yarborough said Sunday the closing down of 5,000 beds in veterans hospitals is "a major disaster."

He said 12.5 per cent of the men wounded in Vietnam are permanently and totally disabled, with many requiring hospitalization for months.

"This is three times as high a percentage of the wounded veterans who remain totally and permanently disabled as we have ever had in any past war. The closing of more beds in our veterans hospitals will eventually make the care and treatment of these wounded veterans impossible," Yarborough said.

His remarks were prepared for the American Legion's District 10 meeting.

LBJ Returns To Ranch, Lots Of Rest Prescribed

LBJ RANCH, Tex. (AP) — In the eyes of Lyndon B. Johnson, there is no better place to convalesce than the ranch once known as the Texas White House.

The former president is home again, back at the LBJ Ranch after spending 12 days in an Army hospital suite at San Antonio. Now begins a gradual return to his normally active life on the 300-acre spread where he has lived quietly with his wife since leaving Washington.

Johnson came home Friday after treatment at the Army's Brooke General Hospital for chest pains, which have now disappeared. Doctors advised him to take it easy for the present. They prescribed plenty of rest and told him to avoid strenuous or stressful activity.

In time, they said, the former president should be able to resume his normal schedule. They talked in terms of a few weeks. Lyndon Johnson returned to the ranch in 1955, too, after suffering a major heart attack. Since then he has convalesced here at least one other time following hospitalization.

In 1955, doctors diagnosed the heart attack after he suffered severe chest pains—so there was reason for worry when pains grabbed at his chest this time.

After he entered the special penthouse suite at Brooke March 2, however, doctors said there were no signs of another heart attack. They said the "main thrust" of treatment was aimed at preventing one.

Aides said Johnson remained at his suite throughout the hospital stay. He and Mrs. Johnson, who was with him every day, spent much of their time working on separate books they are writing about their years in the White House.

Johnson also spent his time reading. On his last night in the hospital, aides said, he read a book by a Navy chaplain who served with the Marines in Vietnam. His title was not disclosed. Johnson was allowed to walk around his room on a gradually increased scale as his condition improved. If he looked out his windows, he could see the palm trees surrounding the big hospital and beyond them the parade field of Ft. Sam Houston.

Wellwishers sent the former chief executive more flowers than his room could handle. He asked his younger daughter, Luci Nugent, and Mrs. Johnson to distribute them to other patients.

"Thank the President very much," beamed one excited patient after Luci handed him a lavish bouquet. Mail flooded the hospital. Aides counted 3,500 cards and letters in just one day.

Johnson's convalescence period after his heart attack in 1955 included dieting and a careful regimen of exercise. Soon he was back on the job in the Senate, vigorous as usual. Doctors have indicated they will prescribe a similar program of dieting and exercise this time.

Over the years Johnson has suffered other ailments from which he recovered fully. He underwent a gall bladder operation in 1965, while president. Again while president, on Nov. 16, 1966, he underwent surgery at Bethesda, Md., to correct an abdominal protrusion, or "incisional hernia," resulting from the gall bladder operation. A small, benign polyp was removed from his throat. On Nov. 19, three days after the twin operations, he returned to his Texas ranch to convalesce just as he did Friday.

Bush Announces For Young Ideas

DALLAS (AP) — U. S. Rep. George Bush, R-Tex., said Saturday Republicans stand for "young ideas," while the Democratic Party is for "maintaining the status quo."

He said "young ideas vs. old ideas" is a major issue in the current Texas U. S. Senate race. Bush is the favorite to win the GOP senatorial primary for the right to run against the winner of the Democratic primary between U. S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough and Lloyd Bentsen.

Bush addressed the Texas Young Republican Federation Convention. Republicans, he said, reformed the draft, are trying to reform Congress and have "given recognition" to the pollution problem.

Prosecution Nears End Of Case Against Scarmado

EDINBURG, Tex. (AP) — Dist. Atty. Oscar McInnis has nearly completed presentation of the prosecution's case in the lengthy, often sensational murder for hire trial of Pete Thomas Scarmado.

McInnis is seeking the death penalty for Scarmado, 31, of Hearne, who is being tried on a charge of being an accomplice in the July 6, 1968, shooting death near McAllen of Sam Degelia Jr. of Hearne.

Scarmado, a pall bearer at Degelia's funeral, is accused of offering Charles Harrelson of Houston $2,000 to kill Degelia, his former business partner and longtime friend.

The state alleges that Degelia was murdered so that Scarmado could collect on a $25,000 life insurance policy. The insurance policy has been the only motive mentioned although a key witness for the state said "Pete told me Sam was going to blow the whistle on him."

The witness never finished the statement because it brought defense lawyer Percy Foreman, who represents both Harrelson and Scarmado, to his feet with an objection.

Dist. Judge J. R. Alamia, presiding at his first jury trial since being appointed last year, has had to rule on numerous legal arguments launched by Foreman and co-defense lawyer Thomas G. Sharpe of Brownsville.

The trial, the longest and reportedly most expensive trial in Hidalgo County history, has been heard by a packed courtroom for most of the 17 days of testimony. It took 17 days to select a jury of six men and six women.

Key witnesses for the prosecution have been Jerry O. Watkins, a former convict from Houston; Bo. H. Musser, a Houston polygraph examiner and Miss Sandra Sue Attaway, a former girl friend of the accused triggerman.

Watkins, formerly charged with murder with malice in the Degelia slaying, testified that he was present outside an abandoned pump house near McAllen when Harrelson shot Degelia. He testified that Harrelson, also known as Charles S. Stoughtenborough, later told him Scarmado had hired the killing because he was in financial trouble and wanted to collect on a $25,000 life insurance policy on Degelia.

Watkins testified that Harrelson disassembled the .25 caliber pistol and threw it along a country road. Texas Ranger T. H. Dawson of Pecos testified that the frame of the pistol was found in January, 1969, at the spot where Watkins said it was thrown.

Two Department of Public Safety ballistics experts testified that they were not able to prove that the bullets taken from Degelia's skull were fired from the pistol. McInnis later introduced a picture of the weapon, showing that it was very rusty at the time it was found.

Musser, the polygraph examiner, testified that Scarmado told him Sept. 13, 1968, he hired a man to kill Degelia in order to collect on the life insurance policy. Musser said Scarmado told him "I had old Sam killed."

It was Musser who also testified that Scarmado told him "Sam was going to blow the whistle on me."

Miss Attaway, 25, testified that Harrelson told her the day of the Degelia slaying that "he was going to do away with Pete Scarmado's business partner so he (Scarmado) could collect insurance money."

Miss Attaway, alleged by the defense to be Harrelson's common law wife, testified that Harrelson told her of the slaying. She said that Harrelson told her he shot the man twice, left his body in a shack on a lonely road and threw away the .25 caliber pistol he used.

The attractive former private club hostess and waitress said Harrelson told her he killed Degelia because he "owed Pete a favor."

McInnis has also introduced testimony and evidence that Scarmado signed two $200 checks to Stoughtenborough (Harrelson) and that Scarmado later sent Harrelson money orders. Testimony also showed Harrelson had Scarmado's automobile in his possession when he was arrested in November, 1968, on a murder charge filed in Brazoria County in connection with the slaying of Alan Berga, Houston carpet executive.

Miss Attaway, 25, who returns to the witness stand Monday for more cross-examination, is also charged with murder with malice in the Berg slaying. She is free on $5,000 bond. The final state witness will be Mrs. Sam Degelia Sr., mother of the victim.

Food Relief Is Improving

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — Relief officials say the food situation in the former Biafran enclave has improved greatly and the emphasis has shifted from emergency care to long-term rehabilitation. Nevertheless, they add, the problem is still crushing.

About three million refugees were still on the feeding rolls in mid-March, as relief teams used improved mobility to reach badly hit areas.

Foreign newsmen are not yet allowed to visit the East to see the situation for themselves, two months after the civil war ended.

Federal authorities are not explaining the ban on journalists' travel, but a civil servant heading relief, A. A. Ayida said Western journalists "whose dire predictions have once again been proved false, will go down in Nigerian history as the scum of international society."

Relief workers returning from the East say that although the situation is much better than when the refugees first started pouring out after the war ended, there is still much to be done.

There are sufficient stocks, officials say, as high protein meal and stockfish are moved from jammed Lagos warehouses to Eastern distribution points.

Only Two Listed On HCJC Ballot

Dr. P. W. Malone's name was selected Saturday to be first on the ballot with J. A. Coffey second in the April 4 election of trustees for Howard County Junior College. The board has two incumbent candidates seeking two posts.

The drawing was held Saturday at a noon luncheon. The March meeting of the trustees, in the parlor of the Dora Roberts Student Union Building on campus.

Trustees also accepted the high bid on two lathes for the vocational department of the college, on the recommendation of Dr. W. A. Hunt, college president.

"We need to take the high bid in order to match the lathes to our present equipment," Hunt said. "It would cost us approximately $1,500 to replace the equipment."

The board voted unanimously to accept the bid from Briggs-Weaver, Dallas, for $3,184. The two other bids were from Broadhead-Garrett, Cleveland, Ohio, $2,990, and Alamo Iron Works, San Antonio, $2,964.

"These are budget items paid for by the state," Hunt told the trustees. "We have to get them now or lose them," he said.

The board members also voted to buy a key machine and approved approximately $4,000 in repairs to the air-conditioning system in the science-library complex.

"All schools periodically have to change keys, and we think the machine will pay for itself," Hunt said. The board voted to buy the machine from Huey and Philp Co., Dallas.

"The air conditioning system will have to be drained because of oil leakage into the fluid," Hunt said. He said he had checked with the manufacturer who recommended the draining. "The fluid can't be filtered because of the chemical content," Hunt said.

The board also received notice from three employees who asked that their contracts not be renewed at the end of this year.

Mrs. Emily Elrod, math teacher, and Dallas Nash Sr. and Dallas Nash Jr., computer data instructors, sent formal notice to the board that they will not be available to teach at the college next year.

Hunt also asked board members to begin considering the purchase of an automobile for the night watchman.

"We can rent a car for $69 a month, but I think we should buy a car several years old. I think we could get one for $500 or $800," Hunt said. He said the car is strictly for on-campus use for the watchman

Panel Discussion Winds Up Parley

A panel discussion of current philosophies in the field of child psychology Friday wound up two days of activity at the adolescent workshop hosted by Big Spring State Hospital.

About 125 psychologists, teachers, church representatives, and law enforcement officers attended the conference, which was sponsored by the hospital and West Texas Education Center, Midland.

J. A. Coffey, president, appointed Tom Barber to join Dr. Charles Warren on the school's athletic committee in the event Barber is needed.

Friday morning, four experts began the deliberations by discussing the trend in treatment and facilities for the troubled child. After lunch the members attended small discussion groups to allow free conversation among the participants in the same area.

Dr. Harry Davis, staff psychiatrist, coordinated the program and said Saturday he felt the meeting had evoked favorable reactions from those participating.

A new method was initiated this year in which the workshop allowed more individual participation on the part of the audience through small group discussions and demonstrations, Davis said. Many of the guests said they hoped this would continue in the years to come.

The hospital staff helped with much of the program offering demonstrations of group and play therapy and relatively new concepts such as psychodrama and sensitivity exercises during the conference. Probably the most effective participants, however, were the children themselves.

Several young patients at the hospital aided in the demonstrations and through their individual and honest reactions to the workshop, helped dissolve many of the myths surrounding the mentally disturbed adolescent.

Hounds, Guns Foil Escape

SUGARLAND, Tex. (AP) — Shotgun pellets and bloodhounds foiled an escape attempt by two inmates of the Sugarland prison unit, officers said Saturday.

Parsell Colvin, 22, was shot by a guard as he tried to climb a fence Friday night. Joe M. Cehand, 28, escaped into a wooded area but was recaptured by guards with bloodhounds.

Officers said Colvin was in satisfactory condition in the prison infirmary with minor shotgun wounds and a broken leg suffered in his fall from the fence.

Colvin had been convicted of rape in Harris County and Cehand was convicted of robbery in Bell County, Warden Thomas C. Sanders said.

Sanders said the inmates were working in the prison canteen when they attempted to escape.

Mothers Unite For Safety

MONTREAL (AP) — A group of angry mothers has formed the West End Traffic Council to keep careless motorists in line. An infant safety program will teach tots how to watch for sloppy driving, teen age courses will focus on defensive driving and bicycle safety, and street signs and marches will focus attention on double-parking, jay walking, tire squealing and speeding.

Two Are Named To Vacancies

The Howard County Youth Horsemen met Monday night in the Flame Room of Pioneer Gas Co. L. C. Gibbs and Melvin Fryar were named to fill two vacancies on the board.

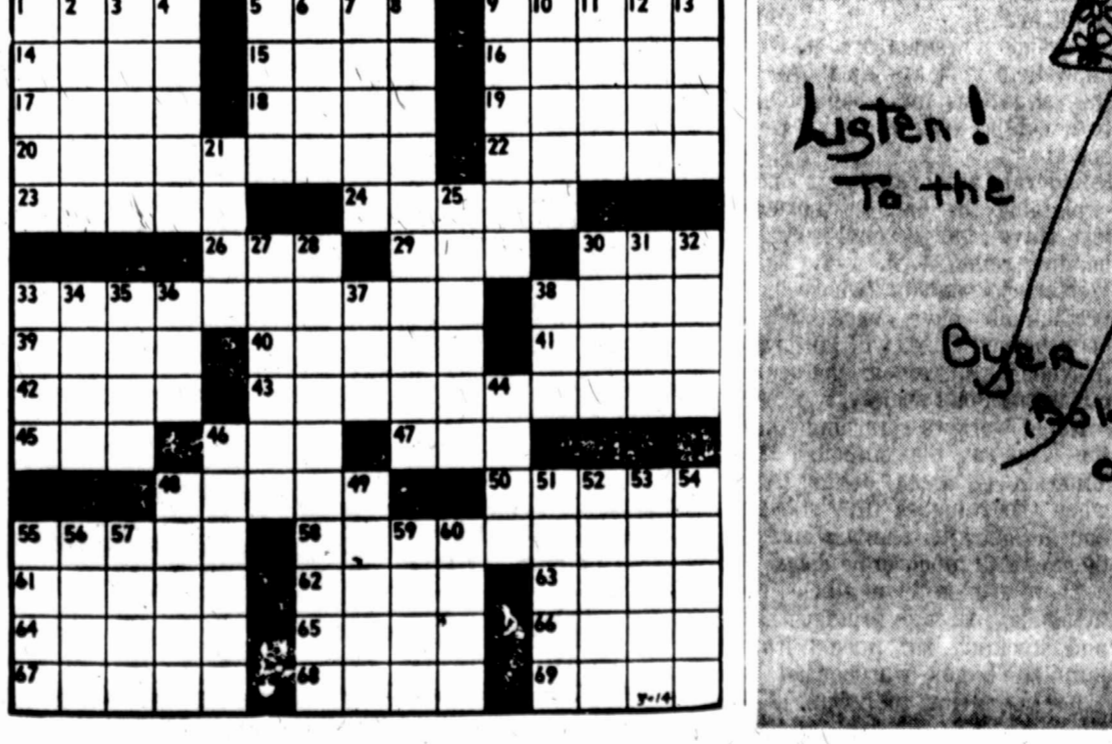

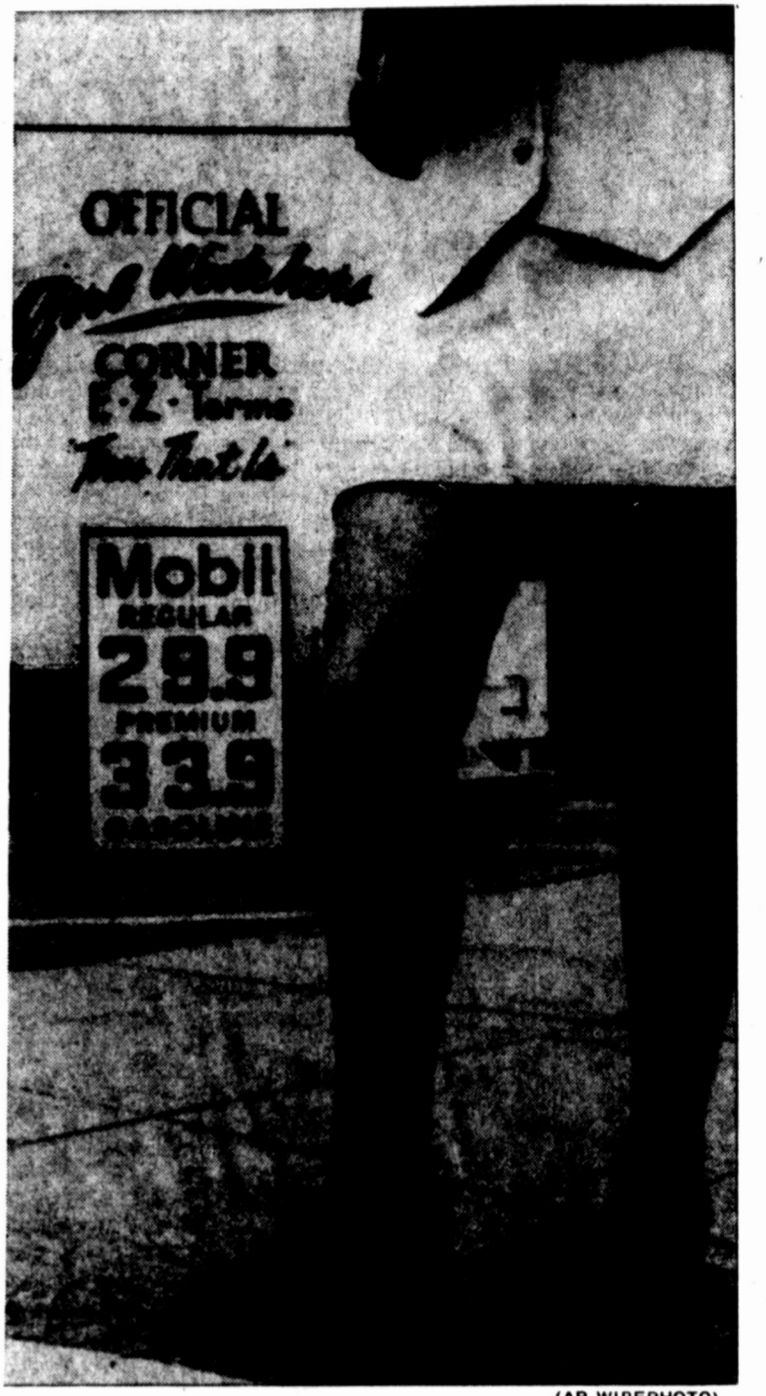

Gibbs is taking the unexpired term of R. G. Click, who resigned to become vice president, and Fryar will serve a three-year term in place of Jay Dunham who has transferred.

The junior members were to participate Friday in the San Angelo parade. All club members who have not paid 1970 dues have been asked to mail them to Box 1941.

SCHOOLBOY Wheatley Is Again Champ Of Class 4A

AUSTIN (AP) — Houston Wheatley climaxed the most incredible three-year streak in Texas schoolboy basketball history Saturday, smashing Carrollton Turner, 108-80, for the Wildcats third state championship in Conference AAAA.

Turner, a Dallas County school which had won 26 straight games, found out what 100 other foes have learned in the past three years: You can't run with Wheatley and win.

It was the 62nd consecutive victory without a loss for Wheatley, an all-black school, and for the seniors the 100th triumph against only two losses since they were sophomores.

The 108 points against Turner, a short, extremely quick team pushed Wheatley's two-game tournament mark to 211, way above the old record of 174 set by Kennard in 1968.

The 108 points also was a single-game scoring record, erasing the 106 points by Houston Jones in 1965.

Wheatley's 108 points was only the third time a team has scored more than 100 points in the state tournament, and the Wildcats have done it twice, whipping Dallas Jefferson, 103-91, in the semi-finals Friday night.

The victory was more amazing because offensive leader Dwight Jones, a 6-foot-9-1/2 senior, and 6-7 Lawrence Johnson probably each out a full quarter because of fouls or the scoring margin.

But Jones, who swatted at least half a dozen Turner shots away from the basket, pitched in 21 points and clutched 15 rebounds. Johnson had 18 points and 14 rebounds, and Allen Batro 14.

AUSTIN (AP) — Underdog Chester shattered Henrietta Midway's glittering record Saturday night and won the Conference B championship with a 75-53 victory at the State Schoolboy tournament.

Midway, east of Wichita Falls, had won 45 and lost only one, but seemed to have lost its quickening after a run-and-shoot morning semi-finals game against Ackerly Sands.

SANDS LOSES TO MIDWAY

AUSTIN (AP)—Al Bryan's 20-foot jump shot with 50 seconds remaining carried Chester to a 54-52 semi-final victory today over Larue-La Poyner and vaulted Chester into the finals against Henrietta midway at the schoolboy basketball tournament.

Midway kept its glittering record intact earlier by whipping Ackerly Sands, 82-55.

With one second left in the game and two free throws coming up for Johnnie Cofer, La Poyner called time out. Cofer made the first free throw, missed the second on purpose and high-jumping Jimmy Street tried to stuff it in, but the ball fell away as several players fought for the ball.

Willie Johnson led Chester, a Southwest Texas team with 21 points, and Cofer had 17 for Larue, from East Texas.

Midway, east of Wichita Falls, ran its season record to 45-1 without much trouble as Sands, north of Big Spring, fell behind 23-10 at the end of the first quarter and never could catch up.

HOWARD COUNTY LOSES COACH Travis Hired By SPC

D. E. (Buddy) Travis, 38, who guided the Howard County Junior College Jayhawks to 270 basketball victories over 11 seasons, has been hired as coach of South Plains College in Levelland.

Dr. Marvin Baker, president of the Levelland school and one-time assistant to Dr. W. A. Hunt at Howard County JC, said Travis' contract would extend for one year but declined to divulge salary terms. One unconfirmed story said the pact calls for a salary boost of $1,100 over what he was making here.

Dr. Hunt said he had not yet received Travis' formal resignation but had discussed the matter with Travis. Buddy has been out of town the past week and is now in Hutchinson, Kan., where he is representing Region V at the National JC Basketball tournament.

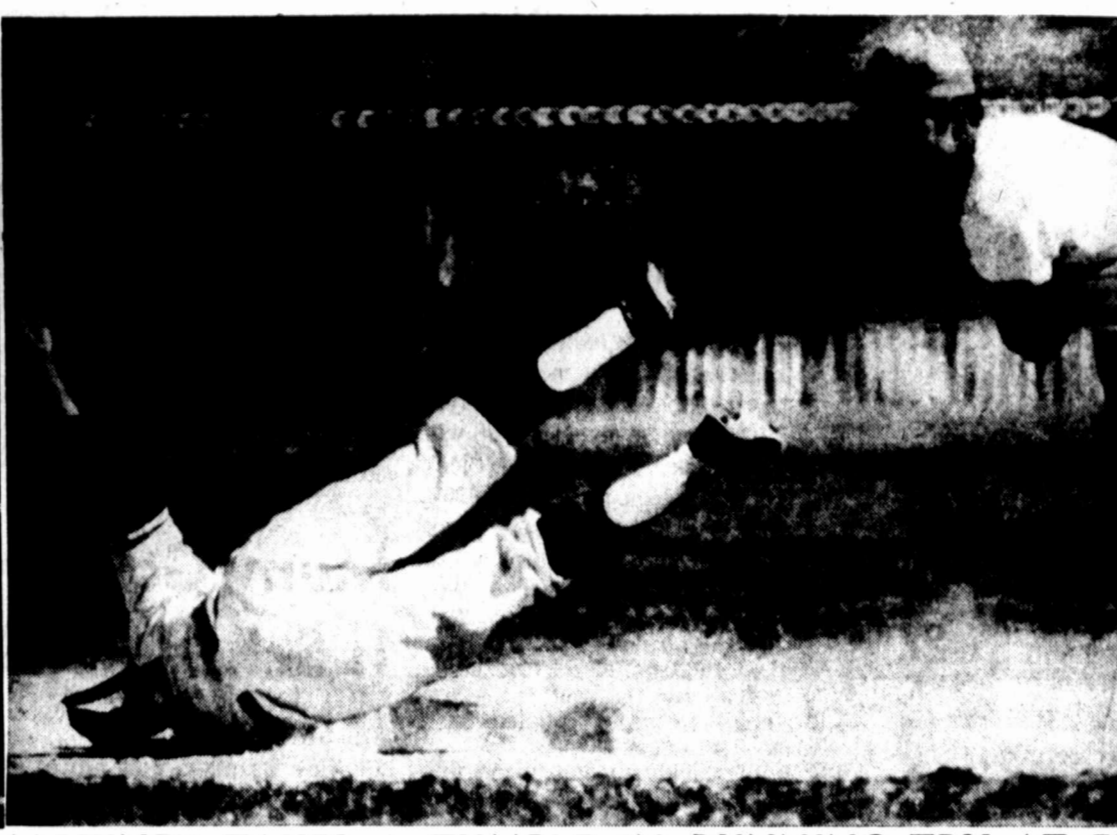

Buddy's HCJC teams have won or shared five consecutive Western Conference championships. The Hawks won the crown outright in 1966-67, 1967-68 and 1968-69 and shared it in 1964-65 with San Angelo and 1964-65 with Lubbock Christian College and Odessa.

Since joining the HCJC staff in 1959-60, Travis has guided his teams to 270 wins, compared to only 103 defeats.

Kentucky Upset By Jacksonville

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Jacksonville continued its climb in major college basketball Saturday, stunning Kentucky 106-100 in the NCAA Midwest Regional Final.

Rex Morgan fired in 28 points, and 7-foot-2 Artis Gilmore made 24 points and seized 20 rebounds to move the Dolphins into the NCAA semifinals next week against St. Bonaventure at College Park, Md.

Top-ranked Kentucky, suffering its second loss against 26 wins, played the last 10 minutes without All-American Das Issel. The 6-8 Wildcat star fouled out with 28 points and 10 rebounds.

The Southeastern Conference champions also lost Tuesday night, Mike Pratt and substitutes Terry Mills and Larry Steele via fouls. The four scored 63 of Kentucky's total.

Despite their foul trouble the Wildcats roared from 10 points behind with 5:54 to play and closed the gap to two points three times.

Morgan sealed Kentucky's doom when he hit two free throws for a 104-100 Dolphin lead with 27 seconds to go. Greg Nelson scored Jacksonville's last basket with eight seconds left.

Kentucky controlled the early tempo, moving to a 19-13 lead on the outside shooting Kent Hollenbeck.

Jacksonville, now 26-1, moved in front 34-27 late in the first half, mainly on the work of Chip Dublin. He scored 11 points in the last 12 minutes of the first half to spring the Dolphins in front at halftime 52-45.

In the Midwest consolation game earlier Saturday, John Johnson and Chad Calabria rifled in 31 points apiece as Iowa shattered two NCAA basketball tournaments records while whipping Notre Dame 121-106.

Drake on the inside and clever Jimmy Collins softened the Bulldogs on the outside, leading fifth-ranked New Mexico State to an 87-78 victory and the NCAA Midwest Regional basketball championship Saturday.

The triumph gave the Aggies a 26-2 season record and their first regional title after bowing to NCAA champion UCLA each of the last two years in the Western Region.

Drake, dethroned as regional champion, finished 22-7.

New Mexico State advanced to the NCAA finals next Thursday and Saturday at College Park, Md.

Lacey, the Aggies' 6-10, 235-pound senior center, pulled down 24 rebounds—one short of the record for this regional.

Collins, 6-2 senior guard, scored 26 points, most of them at crucial times, when Drake threatened to come back after falling behind midway in the first half.

Drake's only leads were a couple of slender advantages with about 8 minutes gone in the game.

The Bulldogs were in front 20-19 with 10:47 left in the first half. New Mexico State reserve Roy Neal hit a follow shot from underneath to put the Aggies ahead. They never trailed again.

With Lacey, Collins and another reserve, Milton Horne, leading the charge, New Mexico State outscored Drake 28-11 in an eight-minute span to move ahead 47-31 with 2:22 left before halftime.

Kansas State broke the scoring record for this regional in the consolation game, beating 12th-ranked Houston 107-98.

Playoff Plan Is Backed

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Emil Joe Holub says Max Winter might be on the right track with that best-of-three Super Bowl business.

Winter, president of the Minnesota Vikings, said recently he thought the only fair way to decide the world champion of professional football was to play a three-game series at different sites.

Holub, the star center of the Kansas City Chiefs who is recovering from his ninth operation in nine years of pro football, says "I've been on both ends of the Super bowl—loser and winner but I think it would be a good idea."

Holub says "It would be a bunch of money for the ball players. We got $15,000 for beating Minnesota at New Orleans. Two more games would jack it up three times."

The 32-year-old Holub was reached by telephone at his ranch halfway between Sheffield and Dryden in West Texas.

"The biggest objection would be that we play too many games as it is," Holub says. "We played 26 straight games last year. That's a lot of ball games. Your body takes a pretty good beating."

Farris On Target As Steers Split

Jimmy Farris strong-armed Lubbock Monterey into submission to lead Big Spring to a 3-2 victory in the opening game but the Plainsmen routed the Steers in the afterpiece of a double-header here Saturday afternoon.

Farris limited the Lubbock team to two hits and fanned 10 but it appeared it was going to get beat until the Longhorns rallied for two runs after two of the second game. Highlight of the contest, as far as local fans were concerned, was a sixth inning home run by Andy Gamba, which cleared the left field wall.

Pete Shaffer followed by gaining a life on a bobble. Dixon was forced at second but Thomas Brewer got an infield hit and Roddy Caffey followed with a resounding double, enabling Dave Duncan — who was running for Shaffer — to score the tying run.

Peurifoy then doubled to break up the contest.

Monterey got off to a six-run lead in the first two innings of the second game. Highlight of the contest, as far as local fans were concerned, was a sixth inning home run by Andy Gamba, which cleared the left field wall.

Big Spring used three pitchers in a vain attempt to stop the Monterey offensive thrust.

The defeat left Big Spring with a 1-4 record. The Steers return to play in Odessa Tuesday against Ector. They host El Paso Austin in three contests here next weekend.

Monterey is now 2-3 on the year.

Milwaukee Buys Seattle Club

OAKLAND (AP) — Owners of the Seattle Pilots and a group of Milwaukee businessmen have reached a purchase agreement to transfer the Pilots to Wisconsin, the Oakland Tribune reported Saturday.

The financially-plagued Pilots will be transferred to the Milwaukee Brewers Inc. headed by Bud Selig and Judge Robert Cannon, the report said.

The newspaper reported that Milwaukee Brewers would pay $9.5 million for the club and put $1.5 million for working capital. The agreement was worked out last week when Drey Soriano, one of the three major Seattle owners, spent three days in Milwaukee, the paper said.

Signatures have not been affixed, pending American League approval of the transfer, expected Tuesday in Tampa, the newspaper said.

Joe Cronin, president of the American League, has called a league meeting to discuss the Pilots' situation in Tampa Tuesday morning.

In Milwaukee, Selig, president of Milwaukee Brewers Inc., said he had "absolutely no comment" on the Tribune's story.

He said "there are a lot of stories about a lot of things but our policy of the last six months remains unchanged, we will have no comment."

In Seattle, Bill Sears, publicity director of the Pilots, said "we haven't heard a word about it. I wouldn't think that's a possibility because we've been selling tickets and everything on the assumption we're going to open here (Seattle) April 7."

But efforts are being made in Seattle to prohibit the transfer.

Attorney Alfred J. Schweppé won a temporary restraining order in Superior Court Friday to bar the relocation of the club.

The owners were ordered by Judge Warren Chan to show cause Thursday why a temporary injunction should not replace the restraining order.

Odessa Permian Adds To 3-4A Links Lead

Big Spring jumped from fifth to third in District 3-AAAA Golf standings after Friday's 18 holes of competition at the Big Spring Country Club but still lost six strokes to front-running Odessa Permian.

Permian now has a 54-hole aggregate of 934 while San Angelo skidded to 947 after carding a 314 Friday.

Odessa High slumped to fourth place Friday after recording a 319 and is two shots back of Big Spring. Midland Lee also had a 319 Friday and is fifth with a score of 954.

Medalist for the day was Randy Smith of Permian, who sailed around the course under near-perfect conditions in 71 strokes, even par.

Closest to him was Mike Courter of Midland, who settled for a 75, while Big Spring's Mark Slate was third with a 76.

Smith's splendid round made him the medalist over 54 holes with a 226. Billy Carson of Odessa is second with a 229 while the previous leader, Midland's Scott Shaeffer, skidded to an 81 and is third with a 231, two shots ahead of Slate.

Since the players will use only four of their five rounds in competition, a number of players are still in the scrap for medal laurels.

Play will be resumed next Friday at Abilene's Municipal Course.

Williams Is New Coach At Ector

ODESSA — Prentis Williams has been named head football coach and athletic director at Odessa Ector High School.

He succeeds Harold King, who resigned following last season.

Williams will be paid $13,000 annually. He formerly coached at Lubbock Dunbar High School.

King, who drew an annual stipend of $11,980, watched his two Ector teams win only one of 20 starts. Ector is returning to Class AAA, however.

Williams' Dunbar team won seven of 10 starts last season. He formerly coached at Sealy, where his team was 7-2-1.

Prentis coached the Dunbar track team to state championships on three occasions — in 1962, 1963 and 1968. The 34-year-old Negro is a graduate of Prairie View A.M.

Williams indicated he would bring two assistants with him from Lubbock.

Cowboys Set 5 Records

ABILENE — Good individual and team performances in the season finale against the University of Portland last week not only gave the Hardin-Simmons University Cowboys their best basketball season in four years but helped them set five new team records.

Charles Ray Williams, talented 6-5 sophomore from Clarksdale, Miss., finished the season as the most accurate field goal shooter in H-SU history. He made good on 544 per cent of his shots, breaking the old record of 542 set by Sylvester Neal in 1965-66.

Williams, who became a starter after the Christmas holidays, made 154 field goals out of 283 attempts for a scoring total of 379, or 14.9 per game. He also led the team in rebounding, with an average of 10.8 per game.

The 70 rebounds against Portland was a new Cowboy record for one game, and also enabled them to set a new season record of 1,388. The top for one game previously was 74, which occurred twice — against Arizona State in 1959 and against Centenary in 1967. The old season's record was 1,354 in 1966-67.

The Cowboys also set a new mark in field goals scored in one season, making 908 compared to the previous high of 895 in 1968-69. They also put the ball up more in the Portland game than in any previous single contest. They attempted 106 field goals Saturday against the Pilots, breaking the old record of 101 tried against Arizona State in 1959.

Individually, Cliff Harris led the Cowboys all season in scoring finishing with a total of 520, or 20 points per game, to become the fourth H-SU player ever to top 500. He was followed by Bill Starks, who had a total of 417 for a 16-point average, and J. W. Fairman, who had 403 for a 15.5 average. This was the first season in history that three players have scored more than 400 points.

Beast, Funk To Square Off Here Monday Night

The lights at the municipal auditorium go on again Monday night, when wrestler promoter Dean Slatton presents another in his series of shows.

Headliner of the four-bout show has been billed as a Texas Death Match and pits The Beast against popular Terry Funk.

This will be the third meeting here between the professed enemies but the rules for this month are different. No one will be counted out. No one will be disqualified. One or the other will have to run up the white flag.

This is the first match of its kind ever held here, so the fans should find it interesting.

The Beast weighs 255 pounds, which means he'll have a weight advantage over the youngest member of the famed Funk clan.

Terry, however, figures things will be going his way because

The Beast won't have anyone to turn to in case he gets in trouble.

The semifinal will be a tag team match with Gorgeous George Jr. and The Lawman on one side of the ring and Mr. X and Bobby Lane on the other.

It's not hard to figure out who'll be the villains in that one. George and The Lawman have built up quite a following in previous appearances here.

Two other matches lined up by Slatton will be announced shortly before show time.

Advance tickets are on sale at local Giant Discount stores. Ringside seats sell for $2.50, general admission area pews for $1.50 while kids four to 11 years of age will be admitted for $1.

Slatton has had excellent turnouts in the three previous shows he has staged here.

FOR INSPIRATIONAL IMPACT Murtaugh Likes Mets

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — Murtaugh "is that all the boys feel there are jobs open. Everybody knows we are not sure about the physical condition of Bill Mazerowski and Gene Alley. They all heard during the winter that our pitching was bad. With jobs available they have the spirit of competition."

"The Mets proved how far you can go by giving a little bit more," said Murtaugh, back for his third term as manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates. "If each player just gives a little more, you can win. It should be a lesson to all clubs in our division."

The Pirates finished third in the National League East last season under Larry Shepard, winding up 12 games behind the Mets. They led the league in hitting at .2767, a fraction of a point ahead of Cincinnati's power-houses, but were eighth in pitching and seventh in fielding.

Alley the all-star shortstop in 1967 and 1968, has a chronic shoulder injury that has handicapped his throwing.

"We have a good-looking young kid in Dave Cash who could do it if Maz can't," said Murtaugh. "And Fred Patek did a great job at short last year."

Al Oliver, a 1969 find, is set at first and Richie Hebner at third. Bob Robertson, who won first base last spring but lost it to Oliver, is confident he can win it back.

The outfield could be the best in the league with Roberto Clemente, the four-time batting champ in right, Matty Alou in center and long-ball hitting Willie Stargell in left.

Catching is in the capable hands of Manny Sanguillen, a .303 hitter as a rookie, and Jerry May, the No. 1 man until he gave way to Sanguillen.

"I have given the starting jobs to Steve Blass, Bob Veale, Bob Moose, Dock Ellis and Luke Walker," said Murtaugh of his

The Pirates picked up Dave Giusti from St. Louis in a winter deal and count on him for long relief or spot starting.

"Everybody has a dark horse," said Murtaugh, "and ours is Fred Cambria, a kid we signed in the draft last June from St. Louis College in Dade City, Fla. We sent him to York in Class Double A, expecting to ship him lower. But he wound up with a 9-2 record and even pitched a perfect game."

Relief pitching was a Pirate weakness last year although Joe Gibson did an excellent job after he was reacquired from San Francisco. Murtaugh is giving Gene Garber, who was 13-9 in three different leagues, every chance to become his short bullpen man. Chuck Hartenstein and Bruce Dal Canton are holdovers who figure in the battle.

LOOKING 'EM OVER Shell Series Discontinued

By TOMMY HART

Kenny Washington, a great Negro footballer for UCLA when Jackie Robinson was an underclassman there, is gravely ill. The recent Region V Junior College tournament staged in Amarillo played to bigger crowds than it has in the past there but nothing like the meet attracted the two years it was staged in Big Spring. The Amarillo people didn't support it but Lubbock Christian College followers did. Regional officials were getting $2.50 per customer for each night's session. Joe Hamilton, star of the Regional meet here a couple of years ago, wound up averaging 22.3 points a game and grabbed off a total of 102 rebounds — not bad for a fellow who stands only 5-10. Wahoo McDaniel, the former Midland grid star, and Dory Funk Jr., wrestled before a turnout house of more than 12,000 in Houston recently. Big Spring's Pete Cook went to Austin this weekend to referee in the Class B-Class AAAA State basketball tournament. Shell Oil Company, in a period of retrenchment, canceled its Shell's Wonderful World of Golf series after nine years on the air. Its narrator, Jimmy Demaret, may become a commentator on the ABC links show, however. Footballer Joe Namath describes Oakland's Ben Davidson as a "cheap shot artist" — a fellow who hits after the whistle. Davidson is that fellow with the handlebar mustache you've probably seen on some of TV's breakfast food ads. Joe Williams, who got the Jacksonville Dolphins in the NCAA basketball playoffs, attended SMU as a freshman and then switched to Oklahoma City University. Twenty-four boys are seeking places on the UT-Austin golf team, including Tony Pfaff, Abilene Cooper ex; Pat Campbell, Odessa; and Craig Campbell, Midland. Gregg Willis, former BSHS athlete and student manager, was hopeful of accompanying the Stephen F. Austin College team all the way to the NAAIA tournament in Kansas City. Willis is helping out in the Nacogdoches school's athletic department. He was in Texas A&M, where he was a student manager of the Aggie baseball team, through the fall term. Gregg is studying Management, has designs on entering the business world after his graduation. Sunland Park's betting handle last Sunday was up $36,155 over the corresponding day last year.

BEN DAVIDSON

Austin's Gregory Gym had less than capacity houses in all sessions of the State basketball tournament (Classes AAA-AA-A) last week. The Chicago Bears' Dick Butkus reportedly will ask for a $30,000 raise this fall. Such a windfall would up his salary to $80,000. America's only 10-goal polo star now is Bob Skene. Some of ex-Houston star Elvin Hayes' teammates are saying he won't pass the ball as a member of the San Diego NBA entry. Hayes wants more than ever to depart the West Coast club and return to "his town," Houston. Dub Malaise, who resigned recently as basketball coach at South Plains College, has been on the griddle for some time for failure to produce a Western Conference winner. Marvin Baker, the South Plains prexy, is a fellow who believes in giving his coach maximum help but who, in return, expects a winner. Pari-mutuel betting at Florida horse tracks is down but the bettors are going to the dogs. In 201 nights and 29 days at two Florida dog tracks, the mutuel windows handled bets totaling $92,068,739. Coach George White of Forsan loses four boys off this year's basketball team, including second all-district former Leon Hobbs, but picks up added talent in 6-3 Steve Yeats, a senior; and freshman Terry Hodnett, 6-2. It appears the Bisons will have more height than any time in recent years. Don Haskins, the UT-El Paso coach, picked New Mexico State to win the NCAA championships. Worldwide retail sales of Arnold Palmer products now reach $40 million annually. Mike Cross, last year an all-district baseball shortstop for Midland Lee, is breaking into the Oklahoma State varsity lineup this year. A few years ago, Kentucky basketball coach Adolph Rupp hitched a ride in Florida with two sports writers. The scrivener who was at the wheel took one curve too fast and Rupp admonished him: "You must be more careful, son. You have the world's greatest basketball coach with you." Vince Lombardi insists Pro Football Player of the '60's honors belongs not to Johnny Unitas (who got it) but to Green Bay's Bart Starr. "Starr did the winning, that is the object of the game," Lombardi explained. The season ticket sale of the Cincinnati Bengals has already soared above the 40,000 mark. Martin County's Melton McMorris thought he had a fight nailed down recently with either Dick Tiger or Emile Griffith for his ring tiger, Sal Martinez, but the two slipped the halter. The Pebble Beach golf course in northern California is now getting $20 a round from guest players. A fellow should take at least 200 shots over 18 holes to get his money's worth. Fran Tarkenton and Sonny Jurgensen each had nine 200-yard passing games in NFL play last fall.

Wheatley Is Triumphant Over Jeff

AUSTIN (AP) — Touted Houston Wheatley, seeking a record third straight state title in Conference AAAA, walloped Dallas Thomas Jefferson 103-91 Friday night and Carrollton Turner defeated disappointing Austin Johnston, 73-52, in the afternoon semi-finals.

Wheatley, as expected, was awesome, winning his 61st consecutive game over two seasons, and extending the record of Dwight Jones, Lawrence Johnson and Allen Batro to 161-2 counting junior and senior high school contests.

The game total of 194 points smashed the old record of 180 set by Abilene and Fort Worth Paschal in 1967, and Wheatley's 103 points was just three shy of tying the tournament mark set by Houston Jones in 1965.

Jones, a 6-foot-9 1/2 senior who was a starter on the other two Wheatley championship teams, pitched in 34 points and tugged in an amazing 26 rebounds before fouling out with two minutes seven seconds left in the game. Batro had 15, but shot poorly, as did Johnson, 6-7, who had a sub-par game with nine points and only four rebounds, way off his average.

Bill Marcellus hit 14 field goals, two less than Jones, in scoring 29 points for Jefferson, which finished its season at 30-7.

But the flashiest player seen in many years at the state meet was 5-11 Bob McKay of Jefferson, who zipped passes so cleverly that he often almost fooled his own teammates and broke through three Wheatley players at a time while dribbling the ball.

Jefferson lost the ball a fantastic 32 times without getting a shot, however, and Wheatley got 32 points out of it.

McKay was held to 12 points, and screamed at his teammates, team manager and occasionally the referee when things went wrong on the court. He stomped around in circles, smacked his hands on the floor and once shouted for an official to get a photographer away from one end of the court. After the photographer on a play he was charged with a foul.

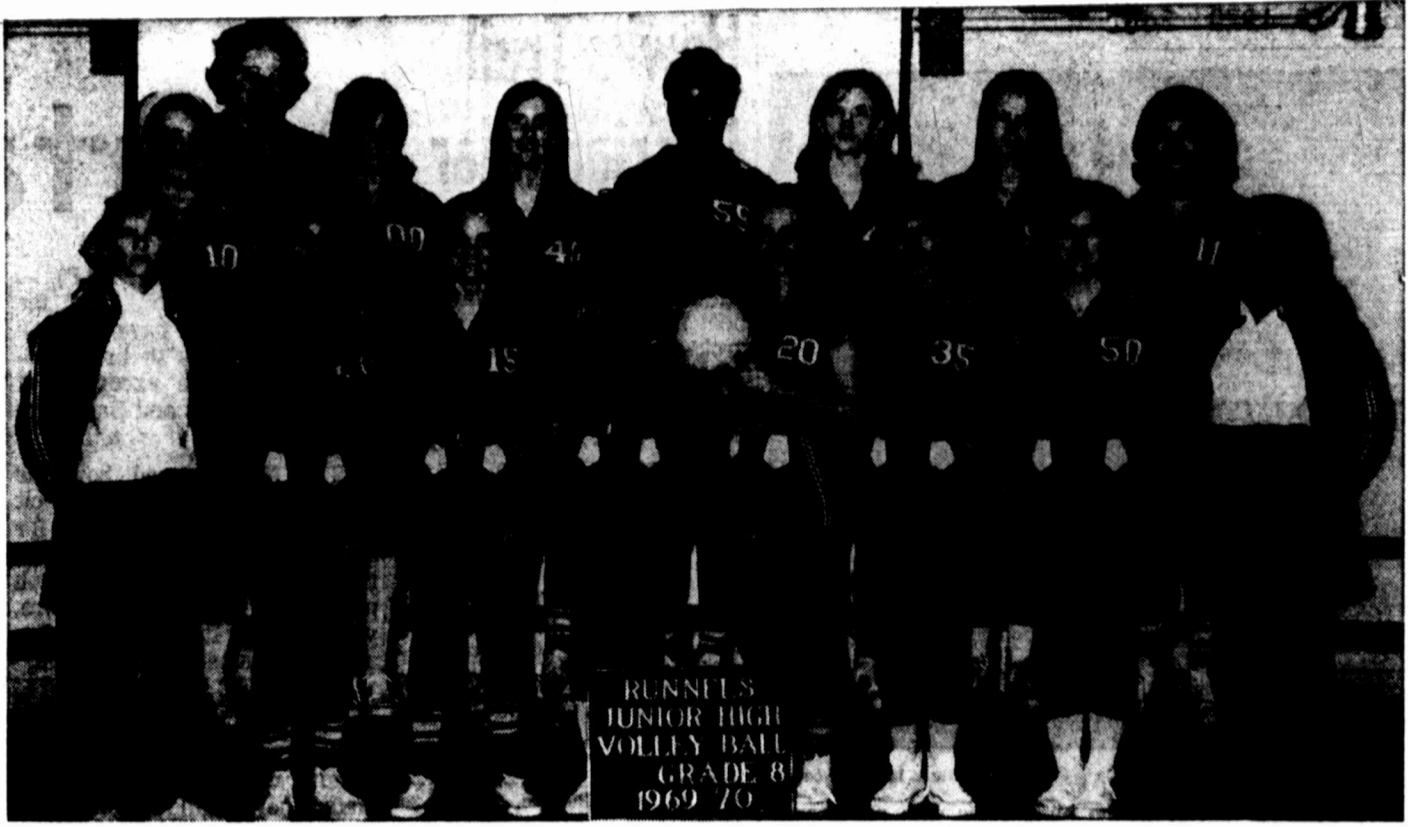

Carrollton hardly looks impressive, with just one starter over 6-feet, but blitzed Johnny Johnston with 27 second-quarter points to seal the victory early. A Carrollton, which beat Jefferson early in the year by 10 points, had a comfortable 49-27 half-time lead and was actually outscored by the Rams, now 31-3, in the second half.

When the game was in question, Carrollton dominated it, scoring 10 points in one stretch of 63 seconds and causing Johnston to throw the ball out of bounds time after time.

Johnston had won 24 straight but appeared completely rattled most of the time.

Jimmy Murphy, the tallest player for Carrollton at 6-3 1/2, scored 25 points and yanked down 14 rebounds although he was usually surrounded by two players his height or taller.

It was Carrollton's 26th straight victory and ran the Lions' season record to 37-2.

McCovey Has Eye Trouble

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Willie McCovey was a big question mark today as the San Francisco Giants moved over to Mesa, Ariz., to play the Oakland Athletics in a Cactus League game.

McCovey, called Big Stretch by his teammates, was to leave Sunday for the University of California Medical School in San Francisco, where he will undergo treatments on a special machine for an inflamed retina in his right eye.

The 6-foot-4 first baseman was the National League's most valuable player last year. He hit 320 and 45 homers and had 126 runs batted in.

The 32-year-old left-handed swinger was taking medication after complaining of a blurred right eye when he struck out twice Thursday.

"Naturally, we're worried to death," said Giant Manager Clyde King. "But we're hoping for the best."

King said he probably wouldn't know until Tuesday whether McCovey could leave Wednesday with the Giants for a tour in Japan.

Two Phoenix ophthalmologists, Drs. Paul Case and Robert Lorenzen, diagnosed the ailment as an inflamed retina, and said medication would probably work, but that it would keep McCovey out of the lineup for several weeks.

Eddie Kasko Has Job Of Reviving Boston

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (AP) — Eddie Kasko, a baldish managerial staff and the players." Kasko says he wants to turn the game over to the players.

"I don't know what went on last year," Kasko answers if asked about the 1969 season when rumbles of dissension shook Fenway Park. Kasko was managing the Louisville farm club at the time. "All I know is that the spirit is great this spring."

The spirit wasn't always great last year. Williams fined Carl Yazwzanski, the club's $125,000-salaried star, to the tune of $500 for hot hustling. Cliques developed on the team that once had been known as a "country club."

PLAYED IN 1966

Kasko, like Williams, finished out his career as a fringe player with the Red Sox in 1966 after playing in the infield at St. Louis, Cincinnati and Houston. He has managed their top Triple A farms for three years.

"A manager affects only three or four games a year," says Kasko. "Anybody can manage. My function is getting the guys to go out there and play. To take away the little doubts they have and get them off their minds."

"I want the players to become involved, use their own judgment, and not wait for the manager to tell them what to do. If a guy can handle a bat I'll let him pick the pitch for the hit-and-run. Same way for stealing a base. I'll be the one to say 'I want you to steal or hit and run' but I'll let them pick the pitch. Once a guy shows me he doesn't know how to handle a bat, he'll wait for me."

Permian Hands Bovines Third Reversal, 7 To 0

ODESSA — The Permian Panthers enjoyed two big innings on their way to a 7-0 victory over Big Spring here Friday.

Tom Sevey started on the mound for Big Spring and did reasonably well but hit three batters and walked one. He was tagged for five hits in his three innings on the hill.

Moses Flores finished up on the mound for Big Spring. The Steers were able to get only two hits off Rice, the Permian flinger. One was a first inning single by Andy Gamboa, the other a seventh inning one-baser by pinch-hitter David Englert.

The Steers were guilty of five errors in the contest.

Maynard and Clark singled in succession with one out for Permian in the first. Maynard later scored when Sevey attempted to pick the runner off third. With two outs, an outfield error enabled two more Permian runners to get home.

In the third, Permian scored three more on as many hits, a base on balls and three Big Spring misplays.

The Panthers put together an error and a triple by Clark to pick up their final run in the sixth.

Big Spring's only threat occurred in the second when David Hanson and Joe Martinez walked after two were out but pinch hitter Pete Shaffer fanned to end the run.

Maynard and Clark each had two hits for the Panthers.

LOOKING TO THE FUTURE of the Boys' Club of Big Spring are Mrs. W. L. Wilson Jr., a member of the board of directors, and Bert Andries, right, board president, who shows architect's sketch of the proposed new clubhouse to Kent Morgan, local rancher and developer. Morgan, among others, is interested in seeing the building become a reality.

CRAFTS CAN KEEP a fellow absorbed in developing new skills and give him pride in his creations. In the basement workshop at the Boys' Club, Bob Parker, a member of the board, teaches club members how to use tools properly.

At left, young Albert DeLeon watches as Parker instructs Raymond Lopez. At the front saw is Ezequiel Flores who is making decorative shelving. Mrs. J. R. Bizzell and Mrs. G. C. Broughton Jr., board members, assist the boys in other arts and crafts.

A BOOST FOR BOYS

By JO BRIGHT

Almost 200 local boys are issuing an invitation today for the public to visit a very special place—their club. Assisting the young people in receiving their guests will be members of the club's board of directors including the officers, Bert Andries, president; Phil Edwards, first vice president; Joe Maratta, second vice president; Mrs. Virginia Black, secretary; and Bill Crooker, treasurer.

Other board members who will help at the event are

Faulkner, Mrs. Frances Parras, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Wilson Jr., Miss Pam Wilson, Floyd McIntyre, Guy Lara, Mrs. Don Wiley, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Hendricks and Bob Parker. BOOKS, THE BEST WAY to open a boy's mind to his own possibilities, came to the Boys' Club last week as a gift from several publishers. On hand when the three boxes were opened were these four young men and Mrs. Virginia Black, secretary. The boys are Larry Porras, Louis Porras, Raul Rubio and Danny DeLeon, who are the first to be fascinated by the tales of adventure.

Opening Of Boys' Club Was Need Of Many—Work Of Few

By JO BRIGHT
The establishment of a Boys' Club in Big Spring was a dream first envisioned by only a handful of local citizens. What they saw was a need — and what they had to work with was little more than determination.

"A Boys' Club, to be different, must provide in its program a contribution to a boy which is significant but distinguishable from what he gets elsewhere — in school, at home, in church, in other private agencies, or in public recreation." So says a brochure from the Boys' Clubs of America, founded in 1906 and chartered by the United States Congress.

Although individual Boys' Clubs vary in program, quality and services, depending on their resources, all have certain characteristics in common.

It is for boys, with all-boy membership, designed to satisfy an age-old desire of boys to have a club of their own. It has professional leadership, supplemented by part-time volunteers. No proof of good character is required, for the club helps and guides boys who may be in danger of acquiring, or have had, bad habits and wrong attitudes, as well as boys of fine character.

Boys of all races, religions and color are eligible for membership, and in order for any boy to belong, membership in the local club costs fifty cents per year. The club has an open door policy, wherein it is open to any members during its hours of operation.

In Big Spring, like most every community, there are boys who are left to find their own recreation and companionship. Often this leads to the creation of groups or gangs which may have the wrong type of leaders. It is the Boys' Club aim to provide a place for companionship while at the same time letting youngsters know there are adults who care about their future enough to furnish leadership and guidance.

Actually, the Boys' Club movement began as early as 1860. Its immediate goal of establishing at least 1,000 Boys' Clubs to serve over one million boys, was set by the late Herbert Hoover, for 28 years Boys' Club board chairman. He described the organization as the "greatest character-building institutions in our country."

The Boys' Club of Big Spring opened about two years ago at 304 Gregg, moving Dec. 19 to the present location, 114½ E. Second, a building donated by the Woodmen of the World. Although the building has no air conditioning, the upstairs location is roomy, and there is a basement where a woodworking shop is in operation.

The building is open from 4 p.m. to 8 p.m., and at the present time, there is a ping-pong table, billiards, boxing ring, wrestling mat, slot car track, piano, book corner and a few games such as checkers. At the side of the downtown building is a basketball hoop, but traffic operates within a few feet of the play area.

In the basement shop, the boys are learning to make birdhouses, and decorative shelves which they may take to their homes. In arts and crafts, the several women are showing the boys how to make banks, switch plate covers and other items.

At the present time, there is a need for more volunteers, of course, and especially needed is a boxing coach, and later, men to help with football or tennis when the boys can go to outdoor areas for recreation.

In conjunction with the clubhouse, which the boys take pride in since it is their own, the club has a 20-year contract with the city to use and operate a swimming pool on the North Side.

Each afternoon, a van drives to the North Side to pick up a load of youngsters, usually about 30, and bring them to the club. Daily attendance averages about 70.

Near the entryway at the top of the stairs is a glass case holding a football. The boys are very proud of that football, for it has this message:

"You guys do everything the very best you can and always study hard." Signed — Charley Johnson.

George McAlister Jr. Describes Datamate

George A. McAlister Jr., president of Datamate, was guest speaker for the Altrusa Club luncheon at Coker's Restaurant Thursday.

"Datamate employs 32 people," he said, "and its main project is the development of a new type of computer." He explained that the computer can be programmed to individual needs and is smaller and more compact than present computers.

"Computers are still in their infancy," he said.

Datamate has been involved in research and development for the past two years and plans to go into production next year. McAlister compared present computers to the refrigerated air-conditioners of 20 years ago when they were primitive, expensive and few people owned them. He predicted that in the next 20 years computers will be within financial reach of a vast number of businesses.

New officers were elected for installation in July. They are Mrs. Lloyd Wooten, president; Mrs. Bill Thompson, vice president; Mrs. Ethel Stockton, recording secretary; Mrs. R. F. Dorsey, corresponding secretary; Mrs. E. B. Martin, treasurer; Mrs. G. T. Orenbaun, director; and Mrs. Bill Kay, hold-over director. Mrs. G. C. Broughton, as a past president, assumes a post on the board of directors.

The next luncheon meeting will be at Coker's Restaurant March 26.

A LOVELIER YOU Fanciful Sunglasses Screen Bright Sun

By MARY SUE MILLER
It is a sure thing that spring is just around the corner when new fashions in sunglasses come on the scene. Sunglasses offer as much fashion value as a polished leather purse and pump in the bright days ahead.

Frames are fascinating. Some favor forthright geometricals — six- and eight-sided shapes of pale to dark tortoise with subtly tinted lenses. Another sort is on the sporty, Sun Valley side, with "unisex" styling — the strong form of his glasses scaled for her in wowsier colors like white rims and violet lenses. This type of spec wraps in a way that allows for maximum vision and really lets you dig the scene.

Newsy too are paperflat frames, either round or "geo," with no-nonsense bridges and straight temple pieces. The striking color combo here is blond with a smoky lens. Altogether, rimless specs give promise of top ratings. Here temple bars of gold and silver are spashed with color and floral fancies. "Antiqua" as Florentine frescoes!

However handsome, sunglasses still must be worn with a deft touch. They should sparkle, sit straight and be removed indoors if the lenses are dark toned. To save scratches, do stow yours in a case when not in use. A fact to note is that spring sunlight is the brightest of all.

EYES OF YOUTH

You are not lost to youthful beauty because of dark circles, puffiness, or wrinkles around the eyes. These problems can be brought under control by proper skin care, cosmetic applications, health habits and facial expressions. Methods are detailed in my leaflet, "The Eyes of Youth." To obtain your copy, write Mary Sue Miller in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing 15 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

KNOTT CLUB

A program on safety for women was given by Mrs. R. J. Shortes, president, at the Knott Home Demonstration Club meeting Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Glenn Neill.

Mrs. Shortes suggested ways women could defend themselves against assailants. Women should try to catch an attacker off guard, she said. She also advised against screaming for help when there is no chance of anyone hearing. Screaming wastes energy and is likely to infuriate the attacker, she said.

The Knott HD Club will sponsor a talk on safety and the new laws on safety by highway patrolman Jack White at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Knott Community Center for all area residents.

Cookies were brought to be taken for cookie day at Big Spring State Hospital. Guest at the meeting was Mrs. W. C. Hull, Midland. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. O. B. Gaskins, March 24.

LEES CLUB

Ways to economize in grocery shopping were discussed by Mrs. James Eiland, Glasscock County agent, at the Tuesday meeting of Lees Home Demonstration Club in the home of Mrs. Bennie Joe Blissard.

In her "Penny Satchers" program Mrs. Eiland warned of the built-in service costs of cut-up chickens and prepared cake mixes.

"Compare the prices of the hundred new items coming into stores each month, which is 82 per cent more items than 10 years ago," she said. "Each year 600 million TV dinners are sold. Now each person uses 32 pounds of soap or detergent every year which is five pounds more a person than in 1940.

"Daily shopping and over-buying during sales are more expensive," she cautioned.

Mrs. C. E. Staten was a visitor at the meeting. The next meeting will be March 24 at the home of Mrs. Lynn Glass.

CENTER POINT CLUB

Picture transferring was demonstrated at the Center Point Home Demonstration Club meeting Tuesday at the home of Mrs. W. L. Eggleston, 1311 Main. Mrs. J. F. Skalicky, guest speaker, brought a program on transfers. She was assisted by Mrs. Alden Ryan.

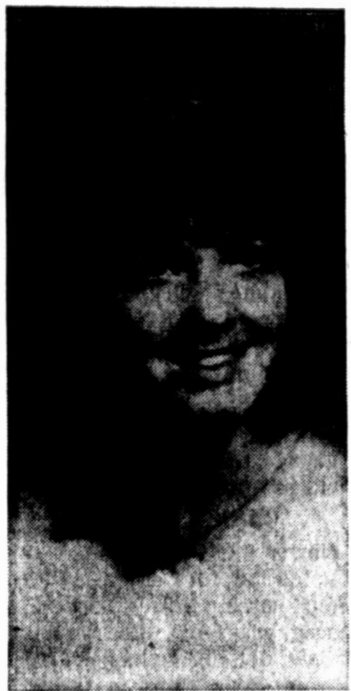

They described ways of transferring pictures and the art of picture selection. They listed some of the tools needed which include a rolling pin, scissors, detergent, a solid working surface and acrylic solution.

Guests at the meeting were Mrs. Miller Russell and Mrs. Florence Rhoden.

Center Point Club will operate a concession at the Future Farmers of America - 4-H Club county calf show March 18-19 at the sales barn. Club members made plans to attend the district spring conference in Lamesa April 2.

Mrs. H. M. Haygood and Mrs. Jack Smith will represent the club at the recreation leaders training session Monday at the county HD agent's office.

The next meeting will be March 24 at the home of Mrs. Nannie Garrett, 602 E. 16th. A make, bake and grow contest will be held. Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Haygood will present the early history of Howard County.

TO WED — Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Ringener, 2802 Ann, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Becky, to Ronnie Baird, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Baird, 109 Canyon. The couple plan to marry April 11 in Prairie View Baptist Church with the Rev. Elra Phillips, North Birdwell Lane Methodist Church, officiating.

Garden Clubs Advised On Plans For Center

Guest speakers this week at several garden club meetings gave advice on preparing and arranging flowers for shows as well as planting procedures for best results in growing plants.

MEN'S GARDEN CLUB
Bill Fryrear, superintendent of the U.S. Experiment Station, was guest speaker at the Men's Garden Club meeting Tuesday at the Veteran's Administration Hospital. Fryrear gave a slide program on his European trip last October as a representative of the government to present studies on soil erosion. His slides included views of Germany, Austria, France and Spain.

A new member, LeRoy Dolan, was welcomed into the club.

Plans for the city garden center were discussed. The Men's Garden Club is seeking the support of all city garden clubs in establishing a garden center. If backing is gained, land on Thorp Road for the center will be donated. The next meeting will be April 14 at the VA Hospital.

PLANTERS CLUB
"Flower Bulbs — the Dependables" were discussed by Mrs. John Knox, guest speaker at the Planter's Garden Club meeting Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Herman Taylor, 310 E. 16th.

Mrs. Knox, a national flower show judge, created an arrangement of fresh flowers and driftwood.

"The dependable bulbs," she said, "are lilies, dahlias and gladioli. Cannas are the easiest to grow, and tulips are the most difficult."

Seven Tables In Play For Bridge

Seven tables were in play at the Big Spring Country Club duplicate bridge games Friday. North-south winners were Mrs. E. L. Powell and Mrs. Hudson Landers, first; Mrs. J. D. Stone and George Pike, second; and Mrs. D. A. Brazel and Mrs. Ray McMahon, third.

She demonstrated the three basic steps in flower arranging and proper use of materials for a flower show. She also discussed table settings for the show which will be held jointly with the Rosebud Garden Club May 1. Committees were assigned with Mrs. Lois O'Barr Smith as general chairman.

Cohostess for the meeting was Mrs. C. O. Hitt. Mrs. Paschal Odum was welcomed as a new member.

Bill Sneed spoke to the club about plans to establish a city garden center where all clubs could meet and hold their flower shows.

FOUR O'CLOCK CLUB
New officers were elected and a program on flower arrangement given at the Four O'Clock Garden Club meeting Wednesday in the home of Mrs. John Edgar, 4109 Muir.

RECITAL SET ON TUESDAY

"Sugar and Spice," a rhythm band and dance revue, will be held by Farrar Private School at 7:45 p.m. Tuesday in Municipal Auditorium. There is no charge, and the public is invited to attend. Highlighting the show will be a number from the "Wizard of Oz," featuring Linda Beard as the scarecrow, Betsy Wozencraft as the tin man and Linda Ballard as the cowardly lion.

To be installed in May are Mrs. Guy Cook, president; Mrs. George McGann, vice president; Mrs. Paul Koshi, secretary; treasurer; and Mrs. Don Campbell, council delegate.

Mrs. Campbell gave the flower arranging program, demonstrating how to place flowers.

"Flowers should be picked early in the morning or in the late afternoon," she said. "If possible, they should be left in water overnight to recover from the shock of being cut and to absorb water. They should be placed in room temperature water."

Bill Sneed from the Men's Garden Club spoke briefly on plans to build a garden center for the use of all garden clubs and public garden shows.

Visitors at the meeting were Mrs. B. W. Owen, Mrs. Bill Brown, Mrs. Loyde Jolly, Mrs. Glenn Waller and Mrs. Richard Nikolai.

The next meeting will be April 8 at the home of Mrs. McGann, 2700 Apache.

Miss Kness Marries Milton R. Williamson

Miss Kay Diane Kness, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Kness, Ft. Stockton, and Milton Raymond Williamson, Ft. Stockton, were married at 3 p.m. Saturday in the First United Methodist Church, Ft. Stockton.

Williamson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Williamson, 1608 Bluebird.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. H. Hardwick, pastor, before an altar decorated with a floral arrangement of yellow and white gladioli and twin candelabra entwined with ivy.

Mrs. Ray Hardin sang "Wedding Prayer" and "I Love You Truly" as Mrs. Ed Ten Eyck played the organ.

The bride wore a long-sleeved, fitted gown of peau de soie trimmed at the neck with Chantilly lace. The long sleeves were of lace, and lace decorated the bodice and front panel of the gown. The circular train was decorated in matching lace. Her lace petal and pearl trimmed headpiece held a veil of illusion, and she carried a cascade of carnations centered by a yellow rosebud corsage.

ATTENDANTS
Mrs. Jimmy Hinkle, matron of honor, wore an empire gown of yellow chiffon over taffeta with a matching bow headpiece.

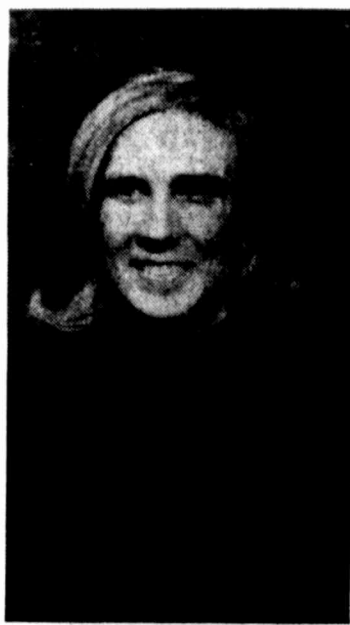

Miss Dede Dodge and Mrs. Frank Van Volkinburg served as bridesmaids in identical gowns of light green chiffon over taffeta. Each carried a long-stemmed yellow rose.

Melvin Williamson, Big Spring, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. G. H. Geaslin and Jimmy Hinkle served as ushers and altar tapers.

The bridal couple is taking a wedding trip to Cloudford, N.M. The bride wore a two-piece yellow, green and white suit with white accessories. They will make their home in Ft. Stockton.

The bride is a 1967 graduate of Ft. Stockton High School and attended Sul Ross State University. The bridegroom is a 1964 graduate of Big Spring High School. He was discharged from military service, including a year in Vietnam, in 1969, and is employed by Firestone Test Center.

RECEPTION
The wedding reception was held in Hardwick Hall of the church. The bride's table was covered with white linen and set with crystal appointments. A centerpiece of yellow and white gladioli adorned the table. The four-tiered wedding cake was decorated in yellow and white and topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. The bridegroom's table was covered

WILL MARRY—Dr. and Mrs. D. H. McGonagill, 1207 Settles, are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Karen Elaine, to Thomas Frederick Porter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adrain A. Porter, Sterling City Rt. The couple is planning an early August wedding in the Baptist Temple with the Rev. James A. Puckett officiating.

Practice Good Health Habits For Pretty Hair

In pursuit of fashion modes, a stunning figure and the most flattering hairstyles, women often overlook good health habits that can spell the difference between a gal who looks her best and one who tries hard but doesn't quite make the grade. Lifeless hair is often the first sign that good health habits are lagging. Therefore, strong, lustrous hair calls for a well-balanced diet, enough sleep, shampooing as often as necessary, daily brushing and lots of fresh air and exercise. None of these need be a drag either. For instance, a "well-balanced diet," even for the figure-conscious, can include a startling variety of imaginative foods. The trick is in observing moderation and proper nutrition.

Hints From Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

It seemed to me there just had to be an easier way to clean baseboards than to do all that bending and stooping.

After some thought, I got an old paintbrush, a broom handle, and a stove bolt. I drilled a hole at the base of the broom handle and in the wooden part of the paintbrush, and then attached the two, using the bolt.

Now I have a long-handled baseboard brush and it's just as sturdy as can be. It certainly eliminates all that bending and stooping.

In fact, it was such a huge success and did the job so well that I really got carried away — made several and gave them to friends. . . . Albert Flaherty.

Albert, I'm convinced that every home should have a "honey" like you. . . . you're a housewife's dream and we love you for caring! . . . Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

Hope this hint might be useful to some of your readers:

Somewhat back I got a dandelion digger (the two-prong kind) and since then have found many uses for it.

Best of all, however — and I wish I had thought of this before — if you have tall windows in your home and need to adjust the curtains on the rods, nothing will do the job easier and quicker. This little dandelion digger works so well you would think it was made for this very purpose. And you don't even have to get out the stepladder or stand on a chair. . . . Frances Allen.

DEAR HELOISE:

I wonder how many housewives with electric floor polishers are aware of this:

When applying wax and buffing your floors, they will not streak nearly as much if you will first use long sweeping SIDEWAY strokes with the polisher, until the shine begins to show through. Then you can revert to the usual straight up-and-down strokes.

This has always resulted in a higher gloss and fewer streaks of the wax finish on my inlaid floors. . . . Louise P.

LETTER OF THOUGHT
DEAR HELOISE: Little ones get so excited when they finally lose a baby tooth that, very often in the excitement, the precious tooth is lost.

Well, "tooth fairies," when you snatch one from under that pillow, don't throw it away. Wrap it in a little piece of plastic wrap or foil and place it in your jewel case (it is a jewel) and it may very well come in handy in the future. It saves many a tear when mommy can't "find" that next lost tooth! . . . Mom of Six

DEAR HELOISE:
When I need to drain fruit, etc., I punch two holes (one opposite the other) in the top of the can and turn it upside down in a large measuring cup. In this way the liquid drains out one end and air enters the other.

In a few minutes the job is done, and the juice is all measured and ready to use in a cake mix or however you desire. . . . Joy

DEAR HELOISE:
I happened to read in your column about the mother and daughter who loved onions and garlic but didn't know what to do about the after-effects.

Well, it's simple to get rid of garlic or onion breath by chewing on a couple of sprigs of parsley. . . . Mrs. K.W.H.

DEAR HELOISE:
Try adding one level teaspoon of anise seed to the usual spices put in apple pie.

It will make your old favorite very special. . . . Mrs. Axelson

LETTER OF LAUGHTER
DEAR HELOISE: I remembered your hint about putting a girdle into the refrigerator and how it would make it easier to get it on. Well, having an important meeting to attend, I thought I'd go you one better and put my girdle in the freezer!

When it was time to don it, I found that the girdle was frozen stiff and, as it melted, it became soaking wet. Had to go without. Believe me, I'll stick to the letter from now on! . . . Mrs. G.S.

LETTER OF THOUGHT
Dear Heloise: Use fingernail polish to write "WOW" on all of your tools, buckets, etc., and when other members of the family borrow them, they find their way back without argument.

Upside down, of course, that spells "Mom." . . . "WOW"

DEAR HELOISE:
I put a small amount of cherry gelatin in my cherry pies to improve flavor and color. . . . Mrs. E. N.

(Write Heloise in care of the Big Spring Herald.)

See Signs Of Unhappy Marriage

What are the danger signs that tell a marriage is growing unhappy and unhealthy? When life becomes grim and the couple no longer laughs together — that's the first clue that problems are serious, the psychiatrist says.

When laughter leaves, communication begins to break down — and when this happens, understanding and concern for one another diminishes. Professional help is needed to get the marriage functioning again when there is little between a husband and wife.

The most important factor for both partners is awareness of each other's changing needs. Both spouses have fluctuating ego and personality requirements. These fluctuate daily. They never remain static, caution both experts.

NCOA Asks Citizens To Fly Flags

M. Sgt. Robert Butler of the Permian Basin Non-Commissioned Officers Association, Webb AFB, was guest speaker at the Veterans of World War I Barracks 1474 and Ladies Auxiliary meeting Thursday.

Sgt. Butler stressed the importance of American patriotism and displaying the symbol of patriotism, the flag. The NCOA is encouraging every family in Big Spring to fly the flag.

"I hope to see at least 5,000 flags on display here," he said, "then Big Spring could be designated as 'Flag City, USA.'"

Wednesday is "flag day" in the city, Sgt. Butler said. Guests included Mrs. Butler, M. Sgt. and Mrs. Walter Purgason and Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Barber.

Delegates were chosen for the state convention in Abilene July 23-26.

A St. Patrick's theme was carried out in the refreshments and decorations, and John Waddill was honored with a surprise birthday cake.

The next meeting will be April 9.

Elderly Are Busy

Senior citizens spend little time complaining about the "evils of old age," reports a recent gerontology study. Life is about what the seniors expect.

They say that "complaining just doesn't do much good." They listed their favorite leisure activities as visiting, reading, playing games, listening to radio, watching television, going to church and working around the house.

Scenic Texas Trails Explored By Modern Woman's Forum

The Modern Woman's Forum held its annual "Texas Day" program Friday in the home of Mrs. J. P. Dodge, 610 Goliad.

Leader for the program was Mrs. T. G. Adams who discussed the "Texas Plains Trail."

The other speakers were Mrs. H. M. Rowe, "Texas Tropical Trail"; Mrs. Mary Brown, "Texas Hill Trail"; Mrs. Clyde Lowry, "Texas Forest Trail"; and Mrs. M. A. Cook, "Texas Mountain Trail."

Former Texas governor, John Connally is credited with setting up plans for these various trails which were designed for enjoyable sight-seeing and care-free vacationing. In all, there are 10 trails, planned to take travelers through areas rich in scenic beauty, steeped in history and filled with recreational opportunities.

Each trail offers unique entertainment, excellent food and cultural attractions. The routes chosen are off the fast-paced interstate highways, yet on hard-surfaced roads.

The speakers located each trail on a map as they described the country and places of interest.

Mrs. W. A. Laswell, second vice president, presided as reports were heard from Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Rowe and Mrs. W. E. Moren on the recent convention of the Western District, Texas Federation of Women's Clubs.

A guest, Mrs. W. G. Wilson, was introduced, and refreshments were served. The next meeting will be March 27 at Holiday Inn with Mrs. J. S. Sims as hostess.

Watercolor Art Show By Mrs. F. Robison

A program on the art of watercolor painting was given by Mrs. Frosty Robison, guest speaker at the Junior Woman's Forum Thursday at the home of Mrs. Alton Marwitz, 1611 Osage.

Mrs. Robison, who does watercolors as a hobby, showed the results of various techniques and paints used in watercolors she had done of nature and buildings.

Mrs. Paschal Odum reported on the district convention March 6-7 in Odessa. The forum won first place on the report in conservation and in Texas heritage.

A membership coffee was planned. The next meeting March 26 will feature a program on charcoal sketching by Mrs. Roy Webb. The forum will gather at the home of Mrs. Marwitz for a field trip.

Clean Brush Too

When shampooing while showering, first fill the washbasin with warm soapy water. Pop in your brush and comb to soak while you are under the spray. After soaking, accumulated dirt and oils will be easier to wash away. Saves precious minutes in cleaning your grooming aids.

'ROUND TOWN

BY LUCILLE PICKLE

Now that winter is in its waning days... that's what the calendar says... I am thinking back on all those delicious cold day meals that we like to have when the family gathers at the evening meal.

Just like we did when we were in our parents' homes we like to have a big pot of home-made vegetable soup, the kind that a bowl is a meal especially if you have a big pan of corn bread. Then, of course, everyone in this part of the country has chili and beans. The Mexican people are probably not nearly as fond of this combination as we are. And who among us doesn't like beef stew? Remember when it was one of our most economical concoctions? Now the meat costs almost as much as steak but you can make it go further with vegetables and a lot of slow cooking.

Are you among the fortunate who have tasted split pea soup like the farm people in Minnesota make it? After they boil a ham hock until the meat falls from the bone, the split peas are added and cooked until they are smooth in the broth. Then the little egg noodles are added and herein lies the secret. And the secret is still their's as far as I'm concerned. I never learned to make the noodles, but I remember the delicious soup.

Had a fine visit with MRS. FLORENCE McNEW who is now making her home in Corpus Christi with her youngest daughter MRS. VERNON MCKENZIE, and her family. Mrs. McNew was here to visit another daughter, MRS. L. E. RUSH, and her family during the visit of MR. and MRS. GLEN BANKS who live in Alameda, Calif. Mrs. Banks is the daughter of Mrs. Rush. They left Wednesday for their home. Mrs. McNew left Friday.

A welcome new addition to the PAUL FANNIN family of Killean is BRADLEY TODD who was born last Sunday, weighing 8 pounds, 1 ounce. The other son is Rodney Paul who is 2 1/2 years of age.

The Fannins were in a serious automobile accident two weeks ago and both Mr. and Mrs. Fannin were injured and had to be hospitalized. Fannin's mother, Mrs. JUANITA FANNIN, was in Lampasas two weeks ago today to visit them. Mrs. Paul Fannin's parents are MR. and MRS. L. H. (COTTON) MANLEY who now live in Stephenville but are former Big Spring residents.

HELEN REAGAN SMITH, author, lecturer and teacher of creative writing at the University of Oklahoma, was a speaker at the South Plains

Creative Writers Association Monday evening in Lubbock. She read and analyzed a story to show use of fiction techniques in the non-fiction range. Mrs. Smith is the sister of Horace Reagan and was reared in Big Spring. At Oklahoma where she assists Master Harris in a world-famed writing school, she is assistant professor of journalism and has authored several magazine articles as well as the textbook, "Basic Story Techniques." While here she wrote a religious book, "If My People," and recently she wrote another, "Blessed Are Those Who Mourn." She holds her BA and MA degrees from Baylor University.

MR. and MRS. JOE A. MOSS are expected back this week from a 10-day trip to Paris, France, where he is attending to business for Cosden Oil and Chemical Co. While they are away Mrs. Moss' parents, MR. and MRS. F. D. REESE, came to keep son Joe David company.

With the sudden change of weather we had during the past week I can't think of a more pleasant place to be than the Bahamas. That's where MR. and MRS. CHARLES BUTTS have been. They were expected to return last night.

MRS. PAULINE THOMPSON of Sonora has been visiting her aunt, MISS CARRIE SCHOLZ, MRS. T. E. O'KEEFE and MRS. A. W. SHELER.

MR. and MRS. J. H. EASTHAM have returned from Houston where they visited their son and his family, the DOUG EASTHAMS and Gary, and in Keren with Mrs. Eastham's mother, MRS. SADIE HOFFMAN. They were away two weeks.

Sewing Club Makes Quilt Of Silk Ties

The Sew and Chatter Club continued work Wednesday on a quilt of silk neckties, that they are making to sell for the club treasury and charity. The club met at the home of Mrs. William Gage, who served a salad plate as refreshment. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Bill McIlvain, Garden City Route.

PTA Told Of Aid Programs

Coy Burt of the county welfare office was guest speaker at the Boydston Parent-Teacher Association meeting Thursday. He described different types of aid programs and how recipients qualified for assistance. He stressed that parents could help by encouraging children to stay in school.

"Many who apply for welfare aid are under-educated and therefore unable to apply for suitable jobs," Burt said.

He emphasized that people should have "empathy not sympathy" for those on welfare. "We would then hold a different view on many situations," he said.

The PTA decided to hold project funds until next year in order to accumulate more for a better school gift. The room count and savings stamp award were won by the class of Mrs. T. E. Grissam.

A school of information for all new officers will be held from 8:45 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. March 26 in the First Federal Community Room.

The next meeting will be April 9 with Chaplain Lee Butler, Big Spring State Hospital, as the guest speaker.

Workshop Slated For Writers

A workshop for the beginning and professional writer is being offered by Abilene Writer's Guild at Hardin-Simmons University June 12-13, co-sponsored by Mrs. Billie Lacy, professor of English at Hardin-Simmons.

Mrs. Louise Boggess, a professional writer and teacher of San Mateo, Calif., will conduct the workshop in the fields of fiction, non-fiction and poetry. The course is designed to teach development of an idea from the beginning to the printed page. Mrs. Boggess holds a bachelor and masters degree from the University of Texas at Austin. From San Mateo College, she conducts a writer's correspondence course. Also, she holds workshops in many sections of the country and has authored numerous articles, stories and books.

Political History Talk Given At Luncheon

The political history of Texas from the turn of the century, including its governors and most colorful politicians, was discussed by Mrs. Clyde E. Thomas Jr. at the Permian Basin Medical Society Auxiliary luncheon at Big Spring Country Club Thursday.

Mrs. Thomas described the problems of office holders during the Depression and how they reacted to pressures which were exerted on the state and nation.

She took her lecture from the book, "Lone Star," by T. R. Fehrenbach. It included the unusual terms of Jim and Ma Ferguson. She related the platform and personal politics of various office holders.

In conclusion, she said that Texas has exerted more influence on the national government in Washington, D.C., than is realized. Texas has exerted its influence since before 1900 and now continues to influence policies.

The next luncheon meeting at Big Spring Country Club will be April 9.

Plan Wardrobe With Child For Best Clothing Values

By CATHERINE CRAWFORD
County HD Agent

Planning is as essential for a 6 to 12-year-old child's wardrobe as it is for an adult's. A first consideration is to know what other children are wearing. Plan at home with the child, and make some decisions before you shop. Keep the plan flexible to adjust to changing role and clothing wishes of the child, and growth, color and styles that are in fashion for children.

When you shop, keep in mind: The child's wardrobe

What the child needs

How the item will be used

What size, color, quantity and quality you want

The price you want to pay

Timing is important in efficient shopping. If possible, take the child to the store to try on garments. One brand may fit differently from another depending upon how the manufacturer has designed it and allowed for ease. Care required durability, cost and how a child feels in his clothes are important points to consider in buying. Select clothes that are designed for comfort, activity, growth and personal development.

FABRIC:

Today's busy mothers want easy-to-care-for fabric. They may be of three kinds:

Fabrics such as cotton, rayon or blends that have a special finish added, as Permanent Press.

Fabrics made entirely of man-made fibers such as polyester, acrylic and nylon.

Fabrics of blends of certain man-made fibers.

Cottons are favorites for children's wear because they are absorbent, comfortable and washable. The man-made fibers are easy to care for, and resist wrinkling, though they may not be as absorbent as cotton, linen and wool.

Colorfastness, shrinkage control and other fabric finishes such as durable press and soil release are important in children's clothes.

SIZE AND FIT:

Because sizes for children's clothing differ from brand to brand, it is wise to try clothes on the child, rather than to depend on the size on the label.

To allow for growth, instead of buying garments which are too large, look for clothing design that may adapt itself more easily to growth. Features that allow some growth include:

Undefined waistlines

Deep-cut armholes for set-in sleeves

Raglan or kimono sleeves

Two-piece garments

Deep hems or cuffs

Long tails on shirts and blouses

No tight cuffs or bands

Some elastic (elastic should never entirely encircle the arm, leg or waistline)

Sizing of children's clothing is often confused with age. The age of the child does not determine the size of clothing, because children of the same age vary greatly in height and weight as well as body proportions. The best way to choose the right size is to be fitted at the store. When shopping without the child, know his weight and height, as these are factors used in determining a child's size.

CONSTRUCTION:

To withstand hard wear and laundering, children's clothes should be well constructed. Reinforcements at points of strain at knees, elbows and ends of pockets are desirable. Seams should be finished as needed, depending on the type of fabric. Firm strong buttonholes and buttons sewed with a thread-shank are found on quality garments. Hems should be even and sewn substantially. Wide hems are an indication of quality. Stitches should be close together. Any decorative trim should be of a quality to last the life of the garment. Be sure that the trim will hold up to the care that the garment will receive.

APPEARANCE:

Younger children prefer bright colors. They often enjoy expressing their own preferences for color. A few sometimes overlooked in designing clothes for the school child is the number and size of pockets. Children are collectors and enjoy many large pockets.

Simple uncluttered lines are compatible with a child's active life. The trim should be interesting and enhance the design of the garment rather than detract from it.

The wardrobe for a school-age child may range from a small, well-planned wardrobe to a large closet full of clothes. No one wardrobe is best for all children in the school-age group. A child's wardrobe plan depends on many things — the time and money to be spent on clothing, climate and weather. A growing child needs clothing replacements at different times during the school year; therefore, it is usually necessary not to buy more than is necessary for a child at one time.

The information in this article is found in Fact Sheet L-874, "Buying Children's Clothes," which is available at the County Extension Office in the basement of the courthouse.

BETROTHED — The wedding of Miss Adele Deming to James P. Speer is scheduled June 6 at the Trinity University Chapel in San Antonio. The bride-elect's parents are SM, Sgt and Mrs. Warner A. Speer, USAF, (Ret.) of San Antonio. Chap. Deming will officiate for the ceremony.

Wedding Ceremony Performed In Stanton

The wedding of Mrs. Jean Marie Newman, Garden City Rt., and Russell Norris Tidwell, 4204 Connally, was held at 7 p.m., Saturday in the First Baptist Church at Stanton. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Richard Payne, pastor, before an altar accented with baskets of fern.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. Ervin Harrison of Fort Worth and the late Mr. Harrison, was given in marriage by her son, Ralph Newman Jr. Her daughter, Mrs. Melvin Fryar served as matron of honor, wearing a gold linen dress styled with Empire waistline. Her corsage was white carnations.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Carl Tidwell, 4204 Connally, and the late Mr. Tidwell. H. C. Tidwell served as his brother's best man. The couple will delay a wedding trip until the Easter holidays when they will travel to Houston and points in East Texas. They are residing on the Garden City Rt., Big Spring. Tidwell is a salesman for Texas Electric Service Company and is a Mason and member of the Optimist Club. Mrs. Tidwell is a member of the Order of Eastern Star and is employed as a secretary at Stanton High School. Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Harrison and family, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Maderer and the bride's mother.

Fashions Of Future Forecast For Club

Fashions of the past, present and future were illustrated on paper dolls during Mrs. Bill Draper's program Thursday for the Big Spring Progressive Forum at the home of Mrs. Hugo Campbell, 2609 Clanton.

The next meeting will be April 23 at the home of Mrs. Joe Austin, 2719 Ann, when Mrs. Campbell will give a program on crafts.

Mrs. Draper made clothing for the dolls to show the fashions of various eras and forecast fashions of the future.

"We have returned to the long dresses of the post-war 1940's," she said.

She predicted that fashions of the future will find men and women dressing in identical, unisex styles. Women will shave their heads bald and have no eyebrows. Youths will wear tight-fitting knitted garments with high-girth boots in the winter and only short skirts or pants in the summer, she speculated. The older people will wear high-collared tunics reaching to the toe. She predicted that youths will dress in dull colors while the old people wear bright colors and prints.

The group plans to give another scholarship to the nursing school at Howard County Junior College.

The next meeting will be April 23 at the home of Mrs. Joe Austin, 2719 Ann, when Mrs. Campbell will give a program on crafts.

Music Influenced By War Studied By Club Members

"Music Influenced by the French-Austrian War" and the most notable composers of the period were discussed Wednesday by the Big Spring Music Study Club. The club met at the home of Mrs. Aubrey Hyden, 725 Yale, with Miss Helen Ewing as cohostess.

Mrs. G. R. Robinson led the program with a resume of the French-Austrian War. She described how folk tunes were influenced by war and how folk songs in turn, influenced the work of Austrian composers such as Wolfgang Mozart and Franz Haydn. During the time of Mozart and Haydn most composers were writing for patrons who also had an influence on their work, Mrs. Robinson explained.

Selected works of Mozart and Haydn were played. The

Modern Techniques Used For Travelogue Program

The most modern equipment in motion and still photography, projection, lighting and sound techniques — all are employed for an entrancing presentation of the Eastman Kodak travelogue show to be given in Big Spring Thursday and Friday nights.

The technical aspect of the show is matched by wonderful color of Japan, with emphasis on upcoming Expo '70, in the film, "Traveling The Tokaido Road."

The presentation under Herald sponsorship is at the municipal auditorium at 7:30 both evenings and is free to the public. However use of tickets is required, and these may be obtained at a number of convenient locations.

Kodak program specialists Owen 'Bud' Roth and Bob Johnston will handle the program, with Roth as narrator.

Roth, a program specialist in Kodak's consumer markets

GET TICKETS
The outstanding film presentation, "Traveling The Tokaido Road," on Thursday and Friday nights, is a family affair, and it is entirely free. However, so that all can be accommodated on either night, tickets at the door are required.

They may be obtained for the asking at any of the following places:
Lees Service Club and the Base Exchange at Webb AFB; The Chamber of Commerce, The Herald office, Howard County Junior College, Big Spring High School; and at First National, State National and Security State Banks in Big Spring and Coahoma State Bank.

tensive knowledge of recording, public-address systems, sound equipment and multi-image program techniques. These serve him in preparation and presentation of the Kodak film.

His educational background is diversified, encompassing photography, mechanical engineering and business administration. He has been technical assistant in the design and engineering department of Kodak's camera works.

It follows that he enjoys a variety of picture-taking pursuits, including informal portraiture, scenic and candid pictures. His artistic pictures have won him several top honors.

effects. With slides and images projected on the three giant screens, the travelogue provides an endless variety of image sizes and shapes. One projection method — "fade and dissolve" — causes pictures to merge and creates an overlap of wondrous color. The whole show, with its color, action, music and sound effects, offers an extensive view of dynamic Japan, with a blending of the old and the new.

Junk Cars Removed Free

A free program for residents who want an old junk car moved is being offered this week by the City of Big Spring.

Last Tuesday, the City Commission directed City Manager Larry Crow to step up the program of removing junk cars. Friday, Crow met with City Attorney Herb Prouty, Acting Public Works Director Bo Anderson, and Building Inspector Tom Newton to draw plans for the project.

Crow said some junk cars are on public property, some are on private property, and the owners of some of these have already been served notice to have them moved, but no charges filed.

During this week, anyone wanting such a car moved, need only call City Hall, Crow said, and arrangements will be made to have them removed. The "bargain program" will be held only this week, he emphasized. A "car crusher" is now available in the city and the junk cars will be hauled to it for disposal.

Cotton Meeting Planned Tuesday
A cotton production meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the district courtroom on the third floor of the Howard County Courthouse.

Dr. Bob Metzger, area agronomist, will speak on some of the latest information on cotton research, County Agent Paul Gross said.

Dr. Don Rummell, area entomologist, will bring the 700 area farmers and ginners invited up to date on the insect problem they will be facing in a few weeks, Gross said.

New Offices Are Opened At Webb AFB

The 3561st Student Squadron at Webb AFB was host to all staff officers and representatives of each section on the base last Tuesday during a ribbon cutting ceremony. The ceremony marked the opening of the new office building portion at Withycombe Hall.

Col. Harrison Lobdell Jr., wing commander, and Col. Anderson Atkinson, deputy commander for operations, officiated. Lt. Col. John L. O'Donnell, student squadron commander, Maj. Paul P. Adams, chief of officer training, Maj. L. D. Eggen, chief of academics and all training officers and academics instructors were hosts of the occasion.

The $115,000 facility provides 8,264 square feet of office space, enabling all officers and personnel of the squadron to have offices in the one building. Started in May 1969, the building was scheduled to be fully operational by Friday. Only the parking lot and landscaping are yet to be completed.

The modern building is equipped with summer-winter air conditioning units. Frank Miller Construction Co., Fort Worth, was the contractor for the building, which will receive its final inspection and acceptance later, according to James Tidwell, military construction program monitor.

THEY BAKED A CAKE — Major L. D. Eggen, (left), chief of academics, and Lt. Colonel John O'Donnell, 3561st Student Squadron commander, knew the offices to the student squadron, were moving to Withycombe Hall, so they arranged to have a cake ready for the official opening ceremony last week.

A Devotion For Today . . .

Your sins are forgiven for his sake. (1 John 2:12, RSV)

PRAYER: O loving heavenly Father, You are so willing to forgive if we would only ask, so willing to give us a Father's care if we would only have faith. Help us to give to You and not to take back. In the name of Christ. Amen.
(From the 'Upper Room')

Tell Us About Good Young People

Frequently the protest is sounded that too much public attention is given to the small minority of young people who make trouble.

But there is ample opportunity to praise the ambitious, hard-working, conscientious youth, too, and The Herald wants to take advantage of every such opportunity.

Forthcoming, for the fifth year, is the program called the Zale-Herald Youth Achievement Awards. Juniors and seniors in high schools in the county may be nominated for the awards, this being done on the basis of scholastic aptitude, but also with emphasis on volunteer work done in school, church, hospital, community activities and the like. In sum, the awards are intended to give recognition to the young people who exhibit the qualities of leadership, have a social and civic conscience and put this actively to work.

A principal awardee will be chosen by judges this year from each of the high schools in Big Spring, Coahoma, Forsan and Sands. While only one school representative takes the top honor, every boy or girl nominated receives special attention with gift, certificate and public commendation.

The fact that a high schooler is nominated is in itself a tribute to his meritorious activities.

Anyone can make a nomination (using a form which appears in The Herald), and friends, parents, ministers, teachers, neighbors, may participate. If you are among those who say it's time to put the emphasis on youth achievement rather than youth shortcomings, perhaps you will join in the nominations. You are invited to do so.

... And Tell Us About Industry

You may have noticed the appeal in The Herald for help in gathering information about our industries, large and small. And when we say small — we mean down to a one-man operation.

So far, we have found out about several we had no knowledge of. Doubtless there are others. Sometimes these entrepreneurs are modest, but nevertheless they are doing something — and we would like to know about it. You can help by calling to mention one you know about — we'd rather have duplications than to overlook anyone.

Naturally we are proud of all our industries, but the little ones have a special fascination. You never know when one of them may get traction and take off like a winner. So please help us tell a complete story.

Clear From The Start

WASHINGTON — Anyone looking for a classic case of how weapons technology becomes an irresistible force can stop right now. The announcement by the Pentagon that deployment of multiple independently targeted re-entry warheads on the Minuteman III missile is no more than confirmation of what has been the clear intention of the scientist weaponizers from the start.

FOR THAT matter, you could start with the announcement even as the brilliant researchers began to put together the incredibly complex formulae for this latest step-up in the kill ratio of the nuclear force. To suggest to these men that there might be a pause to take a reading on the possibility of a moratorium with the Soviet Union is, as this reporter discovered a year ago, to meet with blank incredulity. The galloping horses of technology are on course and there was no staying them.

Those in Congress seeking to put some restraint on the arms race are seen in this light to be impotent. Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., had 43 signers on his resolution calling for a moratorium on the testing of MIRV pending an attempt to reach agreement with the Soviet Union at the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT). The new SALT round is only a month away, opening in Vienna on April 16.

HOWEVER well-intentioned they may be, members of Congress simply do not have the time, the expert knowledge or the concentrated power to resist the Pentagon with its annual budget of $70 billion to $80 billion. Of necessity they expend their energies in a hundred different ways. A resolution calling on the President to delay a few months before putting the many-warheaded missile in place is fine. But it is just that, a resolution that reads well in the Congressional Record.

On the eve of the resumed SALT talks not one but two critical decisions have been taken. The President announced at his January press conference a start with funds in the 1971 budget on Phase II of the Safeguard antiballistic missile. This, he said, was to protect additional Minuteman missiles in their bases and to begin this continental protection against Chinese missiles in the late 70s.

SINCE THEN there has been some waffling on motivation. Yet the intention is to go forward on a project eventually costing $12 billion and probably a great deal more. Opponents in the Senate who came within one vote a year ago of knocking out the appropriation for ABM will try again. In the view of this observer, their chances are somewhat less now that the weaponizers have made a start on a defensive system that is nevertheless shadowed by serious doubts on capability and performance.

One line of reasoning behind the ABM decision — and MIRV too — is that the United States at Vienna will be "negotiating from strength." In light of the huge ratio of overkill on both sides of the nuclear divide this hardly holds water. The Poseidon-Polaris submarines are an indispensable force capable of destroying a half to one-third of the Soviet Union's industrial capacity and at least a third of the population if every U.S. land-based missile were knocked out.

SUFFICIENTLY THAWED out, with tensions increasing at home and abroad, the crippling smog of the cold war could again dominate the scene. A bitter controversy over ABM Phase II with senators and scientists on opposing sides might do it. This is a hazard that the advocates of a pause in the race are taking.

Sen. Brooke has written an urgent personal letter to President Nixon asking him to hold up deployment of MIRV until there can be at least an exploratory beginning at the Vienna talks. He also is urging that his resolution on testing be approved by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which has shown a curious reluctance to consider it. Brooke argues that while MIRV may be established as a city-destroying weapon extended testing is essential to prove it out as a missile destroyer. He clings earnestly to this last hope — slim as he knows it to be — to keep the genie from escaping the bottle once and for all.

I would like to understand this more, and maybe I can live with it better. — Mrs. L.Z.

Money Policies On Tightrope

By CAROLE MARTIN
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Monetary and credit policies continued a tightrope-balancing act between too much restraint and too much ease during the past week.

Toward the end of the week, Herbert Stein, a member of President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers, suggested that the current economic slowdown might end as early as this summer.

Earlier, a government survey had shown that businessmen were scaling up their plans for capital outlays this year. The survey showed that the nation's businesses plan a 10.6 per cent increase in capital spending.

Analysts said the report indicated there would not be a serious economic decline but added that it also softened the case for easing the tight credit conditions.

The week began with the news that the jobless rate reached its highest point since 1965 last month with a 3 gain to 4.2 per cent, and that the widely watched average manufacturing work week dropped to its lowest level since January, 1962.

Officials of the Nixon administration have estimated that their attack on inflation will push the average unemployment rate to about 4.3 per cent this year, with the monthly rate likely to hit five per cent by December.

Zenith Radio Corp. told the Commerce Department it would reduce its U.S. work force by about 3,000 jobs this year—more than one-third of which are held by blacks — and that when the company's new Taiwan plant starts up early next year, it would generate 4,000 jobs "that will probably be lost in this country."

Too Much Restraint, Ease

- Businessmen scaling up outlays
- Jobless rate hits high point
- Penn Central wants to cancel
- Bank reduces its 'points' charge
- Increases in net savings deposits

Joseph S. Wright, Zenith president, criticized the federal government for failing to help the domestic electronics industry compete with Japanese imports.

General Motors said it would add a third work turn at its Norwood, Ohio, plants that produce the Chevrolet Camaro and Pontiac Firebird. GM said the extra work turn would require 2,500 additional hourly workers and would increase production from about the current 880 a day to 1,300.

Meanwhile, increases in net savings deposits were reported by the nation's thrift institutions, which were plagued by heavy withdrawals last year. Several finance companies and at least one dealer in bankers' acceptances lowered their rates on commercial paper at midweek.

The Bank of America announced it had reduced the "points" it charges to make one-half per cent mortgage loans backed by the Federal Housing Administration and the Veterans Administration. It said the rate had been cut to four per cent of the loan value from six per cent.

There were these other developments during the week:

Penn Central Railroad formally requested permission from the Interstate Commerce Commission to cancel 48 passenger trains, including the celebrated Broadway Limited which has connected Chicago and New York since 1902. Penn Central contends the trains are losing money because of diminishing passenger business.

Late in the week, the Senate Commerce Committee began considering a proposal to set up a semipublic corporation to keep most of the nation's passenger trains running. The proposal under discussion is a variation of Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe's ill-fated Railpax plan which failed to receive support from the Nixon administration.

Recall notifications went out to 26,525 more Toyota Corolla owners. Toyota Motor Sales U.S.A., Inc., a subsidiary of the Japanese automaker, said the cars were being recalled to replace the brake fluid reservoir cap and the brake tube clamp. These items also will be changed on the 32,000 Corollas the company recalled earlier in the month for replacement of the brake pedal assembly.

Also on the consumer front, the Nixon administration revealed plans to offer legislation requiring certain disclosures by manufacturers of what their warranties cover or do not cover. The bill would cover all consumer products costing $25 or more.

Moments In Memories

On a recent visit to the neighboring native town, a good friend asked "Why don't you write something on Colorado City? I take it the suggestion was for me to do an authentic history, an endeavor for which I am not qualified."

But the idea turned over in the mind during those waking moments of the night, and this touched off a spell of nostalgia.

ODDS ARE that there is not a human anywhere but that in looking back on childhood memories, would like to put into expression something of his old home town. A great author has written that "you can't go home again," but nearly everybody tries it, via the memory express.

I have not the resources to tell the story of Colorado City, and memory, at best, is a slippery thing.

THERE ARE boyhood scenes and incidents that emerge once in a while:

—When there was no such thing as a paved street, and when the city water sprinkler wagon made its tour up and down Second Street, to lay the dust. This created a bit of goo for a time (which barefoot boys didn't mind), but it must have settled the dust.

—When my whole concept of local law and order rested in Mr. Hickman, who was the city marshal. Mr. Hickman patrolled the town on horseback, and the reason I remember is that when he and his horse came by our house, my old Collie dog played nips with the horse's heels. That's when I scurried out of sight.

—WHEN THE swimming hole on

Lone Wolf Creek seemed miles away. (A later look has proven that it was a matter of only a few hundred yards). And when the spot of water seemed very broad, deep and clear. (I suppose in actuality it was four or five feet deep, and usually very muddy. Kids didn't care).

—When the circus came to town, and all the colorful wagons lumbered across the plank-floored south bridge over the Colorado River, on their way to the grounds on the south side of town.

—WHEN THE same grounds were the scene of inter-city baseball games, and how hot the rivalry got!

—When the same river used to get on mammoth "rises" after heavy downpours, and people would be convinced that the west bridge or the T&P trestle would "go out any minute." (There was a time when they did).

—When kids had nothing but wholesome respect for the influential men in town (were they the "establishment"?). Like Judge Earnest and Judge Looney and Colonel Adams and Mr. Smoot and Mr. Laskey).

—WHEN THE Colorado City Band held its rehearsals at that vacant room over Burns & Bell dry good store.

—When all the town's churches had steeples and bells, and the bells would ring in unison on a Sunday morning.

Ah, the times, the memories! Just a smidgen of them here, but they might set you to dreaming of your own childhood in a small town.

Recording The Silent Majority

WASHINGTON — A friend of mine named Bill Rabe, who lives in Saulte Ste. Marie, Mich., heads a very successful phonograph company called Hush. Where Rabe's company differs with others is that the Hush label specializes in the recording of silent records. Realizing that as other companies raised the decibels of their records there would be a great market for silence, Rabe has been successfully recording silent records under the Hush label since 1960.

His first golden record which sold over a million copies was "Calvin Coolidge Speaks" which had on the other side of the label "More of Greta Garbo." Rabe followed up this silent LP with "Wall Street Cheering Herbert Hoover After the Stock Market Crash."

EVERY YEAR, Rabe has put out three or four silent records that have been played and appreciated by Americans all over this country.

This year, Rabe has just issued a new release that could be the biggest hit Hush records ever had. It is titled "The Silent Majority" and has been recorded on LP as well as tape. Rabe and his brilliant staff of sound engineers traveled all over the country to get the exact silence necessary for each cut on the label. "The Silent Majority" is not only an electronic marvel, but an inspirational triumph as well. It could, with the proper playing by disc jockeys, become the biggest seller since "My Fair Lady."

I SPOKE TO Rabe by telephone and he told me that Hush label was working day and night to meet the orders.

"I believe our timing was perfect. The Silent Majority wanted to hear themselves on records, and if I must say so myself the silence on this particular record is deafening."

"Where did you record 'The Silent Majority'?" I asked him.

"WE WENT EVERYWHERE, but we still found the best quality of silence to be in Washington, D.C. For example, the first cut on the record is titled 'The State Department Explaining Our Commitment in Laos.' It's a silent triumph.

"We also recorded 'Civil Rights Leaders Listening to a Speech by Spiro Agnew.' The Pentagon at the Senate Defending Lockheed Overruns and 'Strom Thurmond's Attack on the People Who Overturned the School Buses in Lamar, S.C.'"

"You certainly got some great silence there," I said. "What other silences did you record?"

"WE BELIEVE we got a wonderful cut of Lawrence O'Brien when he was told the Democratic Party owed $9 million, but we could never get Hubert Humphrey to stay quiet long enough to record him. So we eliminated him from the record."

"Did you record Daniel Moynihan's reaction when reporters told him his phrase urging the President to use 'benign neglect' in dealing with the blacks had been made public?"

"No, we passed that one up though we did record President Nixon alone in the Oval Room trying to decide whether Texas or Penn State had the number one football team in the country."

Compulsion Of The Union Shop

WASHINGTON — The latest survey shows that nearly 83 per cent of the union contracts made with companies nowadays provide some requirement either for membership in the union or dues paying on the part of the employee.

The Bureau of National Affairs, Inc., which has just completed a comprehensive study, says that the most prevalent form of union security is the "union shop," which requires all employees to join the union after 30 days on the job and to maintain membership as a condition of employment. Eighty-six per cent of the contracts call for the deduction of union dues from pay envelopes. In 9 per cent of the contracts, employees who do not become members are required to pay service fees equal to the amount of union dues.

HIRING PROVISIONS — For example, requiring only that preference be given to workers living in the area or to those with prior experience in the industry — are found in 17 per cent of the contracts. But agreements expressly stipulating that union members be hired are almost nonexistent, as these are illegal in companies subject to the Taft-Hartley Act.

In construction and other skilled trade unions, the labor union office supplies the worker when an employer begins a building project in a new area or expands his working force. As a practical matter, a building contractor who operates under a union contract usually asks the union office to send out carpenters, plumbers and other skilled craftsmen for jobs that open up.

THIS IS WHERE union leaders run into conflict with the government's efforts to impose racial quotas on hiring of new employees. Labor leaders complain that the government is trying to force them to take into their unions — and into construction jobs — unqualified Negroes.

Labor unions have steadily grown in size until today the membership is approximately 19,000,000. The entire labor force is estimated at about 82,000,000. The unorganized labor population, however, is largely in rural districts and in occupations in which it would be difficult to effect organization.

BROADLY SPEAKING, labor union leaders feel that over the years they have benefited by collective bargaining, and that they have in many cases prevented the passage of legislation unfavorable to their own interests. The power of the national labor union has grown extensively in recent decades. When a strike is called, an entire industry can be shut down because the local unions obey the orders of the leaders of the national union with which they are affiliated. Workers in the skilled trades are almost completely unionized. They have a monopoly in virtually all the manufacturing industries.

NINETEEN STATES have what are known as "right-to-work" laws. These prohibit any labor union from compelling a worker to join a labor organization as a means of getting a job or remaining in a job. The labor groups, however, have managed to prevent the spread of such laws to other states.

What is surprising, of course, is that with all the talk about "liberalism" and "individual rights," a worker in numerous industries must join a union after 30 days in order to keep his job. The employer, moreover, has agreed to the mandate. The courts have never ruled against this obvious invasion of individual rights.

THE ARGUMENT usually heard is that the non-members can hardly bargain by themselves and that the labor union represents the only organized body which can conduct collective bargaining negotiations. But the element of compulsion nevertheless remains.

Billy Graham

I am a faithful member of a church and love the Lord very much. Recently, I had a serious illness and my pastor whom I love didn't even visit me. I lingered between life and death for many days, and he just didn't seem to care. How do you explain this?
M.T.

It is tragic that life in our nation is becoming so depersonalized. The demands upon a pastor are tremendous. I am not making excuses for him, for the Bible plainly says, "Pure religion . . . before God is this, To visit the fatherless and orphans in their affliction . . ." James 1:27.

The modern pastor must be an administrator, a preacher, a burier of the dead, a conductor of weddings, a counselor and a visitor of the sick. Sometimes he just can't do justice to every facet of his job. Many churches are understaffed, and the people who need visiting feel neglected. I know this is true. Some churches have large memberships numbering into the thousands, and it would be physically impossible for a pastor to pay proper attention to all the sick and needy. Perhaps some of our churches are too large.

As busy as I am, I take time to visit the sick and afflicted. It is not that they need me; I need them. The Bible says, "To whom much is given much is required." (Luke 6:38). To one who has received the gift of salvation, whether minister or not, much is required of us. We should all spend more time visiting the sick, the discouraged and the needy. Jesus said, "Inasmuch as ye had done it unto the least of these, my brethren, ye have done it unto me." Matt. 25:40.

The Order of DeMolay is dedicated to the principles of building better citizens of teenage boys. Leon P. Moffett Chapter, Order of DeMolay, is sponsored by the Big Spring Shrine Association. Each chapter is supervised by an advisory board of Master Masons, who attend all of the chapter functions. One member of the advisory board is designated the "Chapter Dad" to oversee the supervision of chapter meetings and counsel the members.

DeMolay does not attempt to take the place of the home or church, but rather to supplement them. DeMolay offers the teenage boy of today a wholesome occupation for his sparetime, worthwhile associates, the best of environment and an interesting and complete program of all-round youth development.

By meeting these goals DeMolay leaders believe that the young men learn to be better citizens and leaders, thereby providing a better world tomorrow.

DeMolay membership is open to any boy of good character who is between the ages of 14 and 21. It is not necessary for boys to be relatives of Master Masons to belong to the Order of DeMolay.

By PHIL STEPHENS

Delbert Hutchings demonstrated some of the newer methods of proper first aid for snake bite, in Miss Anna Smith's health classes, March 3 and 4.

Quite effective visual aids were used—a live rattlesnake, Hutchings, a technician at Malone and Hogan Clinic, has handled snakes at several Big Springs rodeos, including Big Springs, and he gave a "milking" demonstration.

Hitchcock's 51st Movie, 'Topaz,' Opens At Ritz

Alfred Hitchcock's production of "Topaz," based on the Leon Uris best-selling novel, is his 51st motion picture and perhaps the most eagerly awaited of all the films that have carried the Hitchcock imprint. A story of espionage in high European places, "Topaz" opens Thursday at the Ritz Theatre. The property was almost two years in preparation. The book itself was a national best-seller for 50 straight weeks.

To achieve authenticity Hitchcock took camera crews and players to distant locations. These ranged from Hollywood to Copenhagen, Wiesbaden, Germany, Paris, New York and Washington. As a change in pace — again for the sake of authenticity — Hitchcock passed up familiar faces and familiar stars names to cast virtual unknowns in leading roles.

The only exception is John Forsythe of "Bachelor Father" and "To Rome With Love" TV fame, who plays an American secret agent. The leading role of a Frenchman attached to his Washington embassy who spies for the U.S. against the wishes of his superiors, and thus exposes the "Topaz" spy ring that

Natalie Wood Goes Mod In New Film

Natalie Wood, who has been making films since she was five, is one of Hollywood's best-known personalities. But still, she managed to surprise most of filmdom with her appearance in "Bob & Carol & Ted & Alice," opening Wednesday at the Cinema Theatre. A contemporary comedy of young marrieds caught up in today's sexual revolution, "Bob & Carol & Ted & Alice" presented Miss Wood in extremely mod styles.

Her garb as the "Carol" of the title includes the mini-est of minis, as well as some see-through and see-into clothes and lingerie. For Natalie, this sort of wardrobe was a departure: for her co-workers, it was a revelation. No one knew what a shapely figure Natalie had.

Natalie had no reluctance about doing near-nude scenes for the comedy because, she said, "They're in good taste. There is much unnecessary nudeness in films today. I think scenes are more effective if participants aren't entirely nude — the old boudoir trick, you know."

Once before, as a stripper in "Gypsy," Miss Wood had shown flashes of her shapeliness, but that was some time ago. "Mostly," she said, "I've been playing roles about girls in the 1930's. I think I'm finally through with those years."

And why hasn't she done more sexy and revealing roles like "Carol" in her present comedy satire on today's sexual revolution? "No one asked," Natalie says.

Shaggy Star Has Stand-In, Leading Lady, In 'Eggroll'

Doris Day and Brian Keith have top billing in Cinema Center Films' rollicking new romantic comedy, "With Six You Get Eggroll," but it is a shaggy actor of English descent who rates as the picture's biggest wag.

Lord Nelson is his name. He plays a member of Doris Day's family, and appears throughout the film. Though he is a veteran actor, "With Six You Get Eggroll" is his first "talkie" — no small wonder considering he's a 175-pound lovable English Sheep Dog. "Eggroll" opens tonight at the Jet.

Star Considers Acting Therapy

Every acting role is a "trip" for Jack Lemmon.

"Once I get 'inside' a character, that's who I am for the duration of the picture — even on weekends. I know it bugs people, but I can't help it," apologized the Academy Award winning actor.

Now he's "back" from what must have been one of the nicest "trips" of his career, with no apparent ill after-effects. He spent it with the internationally acclaimed French film actress Catherine Deneuve in "The April Fools," opening tonight at the Jet Theatre.

Lemmon describes himself as "a born Walter Mitty," and says, "Lucky I'm an actor. If I weren't, I'd probably wind up on a psychiatrist's couch, having my fantasies analyzed. For me, acting is therapy. It gives me a legitimate outlet."

He doesn't just fall into a role, though, as Mitty does in James Thurber's classic story. Getting "inside a character" is work for Lemmon. "But once I'm there, there's no getting out till the picture's over."

Professionally, he has been an alcoholic, a lecher, a sycophantic opportunist, though not without wear and tear, both physical and mental. "Sometimes," said Lemmon, "it can be rough."

In "The April Fools," which is a solid comedy with a strong point of view of life and love in the 20th century, he's Howard Brubaker, a Wall Street stock broker whom he describes as "basically a good man, but so busy pursuing empty goals in both his job and marriage that he doesn't realize what an unhappy man he is."

Out-drawing Brigitte Bardot on their native heath these days, the blonde, beautiful Mlle. Deneuve came to make her American motion picture debut billed by Look Magazine as "possibly the most beautiful woman in the world." It is Deneuve who wakes Lemmon up and at the same time finds herself awakening to the fact that as the neglected wife of a status-chasing financier, she really has nothing very satisfactory or important in her life either.

"The April Fools" also stars Peter Lawford, Jack Weston, Myrna Loy, Harvey Korman and Charles Boyer.

SNAKE HUNTERS (left to right) Arnold Tonn, Pete Sanderson and C. A. Tonn display two rattlers captured in the field which will make up what the Jaycees hope will be only a small part of the catch brought in for the annual Rattlesnake Roundup set to begin Friday.

Jaycees Open Snake Hunt Here Friday

Snake hunters from all over the state will gather here Friday for the beginning of the Jaycees' annual Rattlesnake Roundup, headquartered in Highland Shopping Center.

The Jaycees are expecting a record turnout of hunters, spectators and snakes for the hunt, which will last through Sunday. Trophies and cash prizes will be awarded the hunters with the longest and shortest snakes and the Jaycee who will cook most of the captured reptiles for a gourmet "snake snack."

The Jaycees are now building their rattlesnake house and plan to have the bleachers and snake pits ready by the weekend. Hunters are advised that there will be several new hunting areas this year and that maps will be furnished to guide the snake snatchers over the new terrain. Anyone interested in participating can arrange to do so by contacting any of the Jaycees.

The accepted method of snaring rattlers is to spray a small amount of incompacitating gas into the snake den and grabbing the wriggling reptiles as they

Weather Variety Keeping Outdoor Work At Halt

COLLEGE STATION, (AP) — There was at least a lot of variety to Texas weather this week. Temperatures dipped below freezing in northern and northwestern sectors with some snow and the moisture was needed. Rains to the east and south kept fields boggy and outdoor work near a standstill, said Director John E. Hutchison, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, on Wednesday.

He noted the present situation closely parallels that of a year ago in the eastern half of the state. Planting of early crops is being delayed and the lack of sunshine is slowing the growth of small grains at least in some areas, he said.

Improved grazing is becoming available, supplemental feeding is decreasing and some improvement is being noted in the condition of livestock, Hutchison said.

W. W. Grisham Jr. of Amarillo said the Panhandle district received some showers last week and snow this week but soil moisture was still on the short side and preplant irrigation was underway. Wheat needs moisture and cattle are being moved from wheat fields, he said. Greenbugs infestations are present in at least five counties, he noted. Livestock conditions are generally good, he said.

General rains late last week boosted small grain prospects on the South Plains and left adequate preplant moisture over most of the district, reported Billy Gunter from Lubbock. He added that winter made a return visit this week. Ranges and pastures should show rapid improvement because of the moisture. Livestock are generally in good condition and marketing was listed as normal. More rain in North Central Texas this week has kept fields boggy and soil moisture at a surplus level in most counties and fully adequate in others, said Ted Martin from Denton. Small grains are doing fairly well considering surplus moisture and lack of sunshine. Some insect infestations have been noted, he said.

Recent rains in far West Texas have improved the soil moisture situation generally to adequate and the best in years in some counties, reported Ray Siegmund from Ft. Stockton. Spring crops, small grains and grass are making good growth and livestock conditions in general are good, he added.

Moist soil in West Central Texas is back up to adequate to surplus in all parts of the district and small grains are making good growth, said Roy Huckabee at San Angelo.

Hospital Is Rated High

The 3560th USAF Hospital at Webb AFB received an over-all "very satisfactory" rating from the Air Training Command Surgeon-Medical Inspector General's team last week.

According to Lt. Col. Edward C. Parker, hospital commander, the supervisory staff members "checked everything." He said, "they followed the same standard and criteria used by the ATC Inspector General team, of which they are a section."

The team was headed by Col. Eric H. Stephenson, of the Royal Australian Air Force Medical Corps.

Col. Parker said the team was complimentary of the hospital physical facility appearance, and members were pleased with the progress of the new hospital construction. Singled out for special recognition were the physiological training unit, medical squadron section, business office and aeromedical services. These sections received "excellent" ratings.

The team also commented on the morale and the high degree of cooperation among personnel and sections of the hospital.

The inspection, held March 4-6, was, according to Capt. J. F. Scarbrough, hospital administrator, "the most thorough and comprehensive inspection by any team with which I have been associated."

The executive committee of the Howard County Democratic Committee will meet at 7 p.m. Monday to draw the names of candidates for placing on the May 2 first primary ballot.

The meeting will be held in the county courtroom on the second floor of the courthouse, and Cecil Riordan, party chairman, said all candidates and party precinct chairmen have been asked to attend the session.

The meeting is open to all interested residents. Riordan said. The names will be drawn by Howard County Sheriff A. N. Standard.

Christmas Comes Early For Janitor

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Police, called to a north Philadelphia high school, arrived to find nine teenagers carting out desks and chairs.

The boys and girls told police the janitor said "it was okay to help ourselves."

The janitor, William Barron, 42, admitted he told the youngsters, ages 12 to 14, they could take the furniture, police said.

"The city and the school board don't care what's going on in the schools," Barron told police.

Police recovered five desks and 10 chairs in a house-to-house search of the neighborhood, Wednesday night. Four desks and four chairs still were missing.

Barron was charged with larceny by an employee.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: Do you think I have the right to be disillusioned because my husband of 19 years finds it easier to lie than tell the truth?

When he's away on business trips, he calls and says if he isn't coming home the next day, he will call me. But he doesn't call, and he doesn't come home. I have also caught him lying about where he's been. Also, on many occasions the money that was supposed to go on bills never got there. And he gets terribly upset if I touch his wallet or any of his papers. He's forever making promises but "forgets" when the time comes.

Otherwise he's been a good husband. Please don't suggest professional help because in HIS estimation, I am the one who is crazy. So please go to work on my problem.

"SHERMAN OAKIE,"
DEAR OAKIE: You cite evidence that your husband lies, cheats, breaks his promises, and cannot be depended upon. So, how do you figure that he's a "good husband?" Explain this to me, and I'll go to work on your problem.

DEAR ABBY: I have a very dear friend who has started to see a psychiatrist. I have known this woman for many years, and we've been extremely close. Abby, I believe that if I were to fill her doctor in on some very important facts concerning this woman's life it could help him to understand her problem better. I know my friend has not told her psychiatrist the faults to which I refer because she told me she had not. I urged her to tell him the whole truth about herself, but she says she's too ashamed.

Do you think it would be acceptable to her doctor if I volunteered information?

STEADY READER
DEAR READER: Offer your help and let the doctor decide whether he wishes to accept it or not. It would be highly unethical for a doctor to discuss a patient's problems with an outsider, but there is nothing unethical in accepting pertinent information from a patient's friend who offers it in the best interest of the patient.

DEAR ABBY: You were generous to mention the "silent majority" of teenagers who are not loud-mouthed troublemakers. As one of the "silent majority," I resent and despise the troublemakers of my generation, just as you did those of yours. The next decade will be difficult to live down the image people have of us as pot-heads, thrillseekers, and irresponsible drifters.

A plea to parents: Please don't judge your child or his friends by the actions of the few who make the "news." Find out for yourself what your child is thinking. If we both try hard enough, the generation gap may some day close.
