Cyr Takes Oath Of Office In Effort To Oust Long From Chair; Third Claimant For Position Is Seen

Long Orders Troops, So Does Cyr And Aldrich; Move May Be Made On Baton Rouge By Attacking Parties

(By Associated Press)

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 14. — Governor Huey P. Long had an armed force ready tonight to combat any effort former Lieut. Governor Paul N. Cyr might make to oust him and seize Louisiana's chief executive office.

HUEY P. LONG

Cyr took the oath of office as governor yesterday and announced he would attempt to remove Long and assume the governorship on the grounds that Long had been elected to the United States senate and therefore could not be governor at the same time.

Police On Duty

Squads of state highway policemen remained on duty during the day and night at the governor's mansion and the state capitol with orders to resist any attempt by Cyr to take over the duties of chief executive.

A special guard was placed in the office of the secretary of state, presided over by Miss Alice Lee Grosjean, with orders to eject Cyr if he came in and to arrest him if he formally pressed his claim to the governorship.

A third angle was injected into the situation today when a hitherto unknown and unemployed citizen, Walter L. Aldrich, Shreveport, went before E. G. Eagle, a notary public and took the oath as governor.

Burlesque Claimed

Cry's supporters claimed it was an alleged attempt on the part of the Long forces to burlesque Cyr's contentions but in a statement, Aldrich said he based his claim on the assumption that the governor's office was vacant and that "all good lawyers know that any one may take possession of and retain abandoned property."

"If what Paul Cyr asserts be true both in fact and in law that Governor Long vacated the office when he was elected to the senate, of

Baptists Plan For Financial Drive In City

Three Hundred Delegates Are Included In Session Held Here Wednesday; $25,000 Is Goal Of Campaign

Three hundred Baptists, representing seven associations in Texas district No. 9, attended the conference at the First Baptist church here Wednesday, called for the purpose of formulating plans for the staging of a stewardship revival campaign. Inclement weather in many sections of the large district materially cut down attendance, Rev. R. C. Campbell, pastor of the First Baptist church here and in charge of the meeting, said.

Explanatory and inspirational talks were made at the morning session by Howard J. Williams of Dallas, secretary of the Texas Baptist association; Dr. Harlan J. Matthews, pastor of the First Baptist church of Marshall; Dr. W. M. Wright, pastor of the First Baptist church of Paris, and Rev. Campbell of Lubbock.

Remain In City

Dr. Matthews and Dr. Wright remained in Lubbock to address the prayer meeting group at the First Baptist church last night.

Associational conferences, in charge of associational organizers, were held Wednesday afternoon, and definite plans of action outlined.

The campaign will be staged in the district from November 29 through December 5. During that

Federal Court Injunction Is Defied By Texas Executive And State Troopers Guard Vast Oil Area

Wells Shut Down

Sterling Declares That "This Is A State Affair And That Federal Courts Should Let State Care For It"

(By The Associated Press)

KILGORE, Oct. 14. — Governor Ross S. Sterling held the East Texas oil fields under control tonight with troops, defying a federal court injunction restraining state officials from interfering with operation of certain wells.

He declared the principle of "state's rights is involved and the federal court should not be permitted to throttle the will of the people. This is the state's affair and federal courts should let the state take care of it."

Judicial Matter

Federal Judge Randolph Bryant at Tyler, who granted the Brock-Lee Oil company the temporary injunction permitting operation of five of its wells, said the governor's action was "simply a judicial matter" to be settled Oct. 29 before a three-judge federal court at Beaumont.

Brig. Gen. Jacob F. Wolters, commandant in the oil fields since martial law was invoked August 17 to halt waste in the field, moved swiftly to carry out the governor's orders, closing four wells of the company found in operation.

The injunction granted yesterday at Tyler was directed at the state railroad commission, the militia and the attorney general.

Military Order

General Wolters issued a military order today embodying the governor's commands, and declared that in closing the wells, he followed instructions of the governor as commander-in-chief of state troops, not the orders of the state railroad commission.

Production in the field was resumed about six weeks ago, after the martial law order was modified to embody a state railroad commis-

Gin Probe Is To Be Sought

Crosbyton Gin Directors Urge Attorney General To Make A Thorough Investigation Of Oil Mill Activities

(Special To The Avalanche)

CROSBYTON, Oct. 14.—Directors of the Crosbyton Cooperative gin No. 2 at a meeting here this afternoon adopted a resolution urging Attorney General James V. Allred to investigate the activities of oil mills owning cotton gins.

Directors of the local gin charge that certain oil mills have entered into unlawful combines to put the independent and cooperative gins out of business by cutting ginning prices, Perry Roberts, president said. Gins operated by oil mill companies are cutting the ginning prices so low that the revenue will not take care of the operating expenses, he said.

Roberts said one gin in Crosbyton had cut its ginning price to 20 cents per 100 pounds. Directors of the cooperative gin in addition to Roberts are: I. V. Freeman, C. I. Seiber, J. R. Holman, W. K. Davis and G. T. Heath.

HOUSTON, Oct. 14. (AP) — Mrs. Mabel L. Geeson, about 38, a widow, was at a hospital today believed to be dying from a fractured skull suffered at her home early today. She had been struck by an iron window weight, it appeared to investigators.

The woman was found in a rear room. A tub of water nearby led officers to believe she had taken a bath and had started to dress when she was struck down. She wore only a pink slip when found.

Fate Plays Tragic Card To Beat Schoolboy Team

Stunt Which Had Often Been A Success On Other Occasions Mars Practice Of Pair

FAILURE to judge what his companion was planning to do was responsible for an unfortunate human collision in which Thomas McMillan, Lubbock high school senior, suffered a broken neck Wednesday afternoon, the injured boy's chum, Hollis Carroll, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Carroll, 1911 Broadway, said last night.

A rapid somersault stunt, which they had completed successfully many times before, went wrong while they were playing at the new high school gymnasium, young Carroll, also a high school senior, said.

"Thomas and I had just been informed we were to participate in a tumbling stunt at the football game Friday afternoon along with seven other boys," he explained. "We decided we would try it out this afternoon, although the regular practice was not scheduled until Thursday night.

"Thomas started rapidly down the mat turning forward somersaults and I followed closely behind him," he continued. "When Thomas got to the end of the mat he made a reverse somersault while I continued going forward. We collided violently.

Manuel Azana Assumes Office As President Of Spain After Zamora Resigns With Cabinet

Formal Transfer Of Power To Take Place Today; Cabinet Of New President Has Only Two New Names

(By The Associated Press)

MADRID, Oct. 14.—Niceto Alcala Zamora, who has served as provisional president of Spain since the ousting of King Alfonso XIII six months ago, resigned with his cabinet today and was succeeded within a few hours by Manuel Azana, his minister of war.

The formal transfer of power will take place at noon tomorrow. At the same time the new cabinet, which, with two exceptions, is the same as Alcala Zamora's will be sworn in.

MINISTRY NAMED
(By Associated Press)

The new president-designate immediately gave the names of his ministry, in which there were only two changes and one new name. Jose Giralt is the newcomer, with the post of minister of marine. Casares Quiroga, who had the marine portfolio, becomes minister of interior, in place of Miguel Maura. Senor Azana will retain his post as minister of war.

Demonstrations Seen

The shift in government resulted from the measures restricting religious orders that have been inculcated by the assembly in the constitution under which republican Spain will be governed, and it was accompanied by spectacular street demonstrations.

Bands of communists and anticlericals roamed the streets of Madrid tonight, singing the "Red Flag" and shouting, "down with the Catholic church" and "death to all Jesuits."

Intense excitement prevailed as a consequence of the bitter parliamentary fight over the status of the church and of ecclesiastical organizations in the new-born republic.

The situation was laden with dan-

Chicago Police Are Given Order To "Shoot To Kill" After Bombing Of Movies

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—Thirteen theatre bombings in recent weeks today led to an order of "shoot to kill" by Commissioner of Police James P. Allman and Mayor Cermak. The 13th bomb was thrown last night at the feet of two policemen guarding a theater, one of several in dispute with picture operators.

"The bombers can't keep getting away," Allman said. "We expect to kill a few if they keep this bombing up." Allman smiled but declined to answer when asked whether he had machine guns placed at affected theaters, mostly outlying.

The jury was reported as having stood 11 to 1 for conviction. Deliberations of the case began at 12:50 p. m., yesterday.

Indications were that the case would be tried at the next term of court in February. Judge T. M. Cox who heard the case said there was no chance of the case coming up again during the two weeks of the present session.

Freight Rate Reduction On Cotton Asked

Three Hundred Persons Appear At Hearing Of Railroads In Austin Before Commission; Witnesses Testify

Railroads Seek Reduction To An Even Plane With Trucks; Benefits And Disadvantages Aired At Hearing

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Oct. 14.—Three hundred persons sought the ear of the Texas railroad commission today to tell it that should the railroads be granted a freight rate reduction to haul cotton the producer in the interior would reap a market benefit and to caution against a compression allowance that would put inland compresses out of business.

Representatives of the railroads and compresses sought to agree on a reasonable charge for compression to be absorbed by the rate the railroads would charge for hauling the cotton, but that had not been effected and the hearing was started with the two interests in opposing positions.

Clayton Is Principal

It was proposed to make the rates on cotton compression in transit 30 cents per bale higher than the uncompressed rates, out of which rates compression not exceeding sixty cents per bale would be absorbed by the railroad company. Compress interests said this proposed absorption was not enough.

W. L. Clayton, of Houston, member of the firm of Anderson, Clayton and company, and I. H. Kempner, of Galveston, president of the Galveston cotton exchange, were the principal witnesses. Both said they believed the railroads were entitled to reduced rates to enable them to retrieve some of the business they had lost to truck competition.

The railroads had sought a reduction to put the rates on a par with the trucks.

Favors Application

Clayton estimated that 90-per cent of cotton originating at noncompressed points as far west as

Japan Objects To Invitation

Representatives Are Against Move To Invite America To Participate In Attempts To Down War Threat

(By The Associated Press)

Japan's representatives at the League of Nations council at Geneva objected yesterday when the council decided to invite the United States to participate in peace attempts and as a result the American invitation was held up in the hope that Tokyo's opposition might be withdrawn.

China and Japan broke off preliminary efforts aiming at negotiations while the peacemakers labored at Geneva to solve the Manchurian problem. China insisted on Japanese evacuation of occupied districts before negotiating and Japan insisted on assurances of protection of Japanese lives and property before withdrawing troops.

U. S. Is Prepared

At Washington it was said the American government is prepared to put aside its role of observer and to pull up a chair at the league council table.

A mukden dispatch to the Rengo News agency of Japan said Japanese planes reconnoitering along the line of the Mukden-Peiping railway were fired upon by Chinese troops aboard a military train and that the Japanese retaliated with bombs.

The note was unsigned.

Al Capone Is Described As Race 'Sucker'

Heavy Losses Of Gang Leader Are Revealed By "Bookies" Called To Testify In Case Against Gangster

(By The Associated Press)

FEDERAL BUILDING, CHICAGO, Oct. 14. — Al Capone was "a sucker for the races" it was testified at his income tax trial today by half a dozen "bookies" who said they won thousands of dollars from him—and that he always paid without complaint.

The defense called the bookmakers with the intent to show that Capone's gambling losses kept him so poor he had no income left on which to pay taxes. Such losses defense Attorneys Michael Ahern and Albert Fisk maintain, are deductable from income tax returns.

Losses Recounted

Several of the bookmakers admitted they were embarrassed by having to reveal their business. George Liedermann was forced to acknowledge that he now is running a gambling house on the north side under the direction of George "Bugs" Moran.

Evidence was that Capone lost about $25,000 on horse races in 1924, $47,000 in 1925, $55,000 in 1926 and $9,000 in 1927. The total, therefore was well above $200,000. And there were about a dozen bookmakers waiting in the corridor just outside Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson's court to tell of additional wagering by Capone.

Almost Always Lost

The bookmakers who testified agreed in their statements that Al almost always lost, paid his obligations promptly, and usually came back the next day to make more bets. His credit was good and he could make bets one day and pay the next.

Capone's biggest race losses were

Lubbock Youth Is Thought To Be Near Death

Thomas McMillan, 15, Suffers Broken Neck In Accident At New High School Gymnasium Wednesday Afternoon

Condition Grave

Mishap Occurred As Two Young Students Sought To Make A Backward Somersault; Other Youth Is Uninjured

THOMAS McMILLAN, 15-year-old Lubbock high school senior, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam B. McMillan, 1904 Sixteenth street, suffered a broken neck Wednesday afternoon while he and a companion were playing at the new high school gymnasium here.

Attending physicians at the Lubbock sanitarium, where the youth was taken for treatment, said young McMillan's condition was extremely critical and that chances for his recovery were remote. X-ray pictures showed that his sixth cervical vertebrae was fractured and dislocated.

Tells Of Mishap

The youth, in recounting the accident, said he and Hollis Carroll, a classmate, after attending a pep squad meeting, had stopped in the gymnasium to practice turning backward somersaults. Both attempted to turn a somersault at the same time, not knowing each other's plans, he said. McMillan was of the opinion that Carroll's head struck his neck. The other youth was unhurt.

The two boys were members of a physical education class at the high school, but the class was not in session at the time of the accident, young McMillan said.

Edison Is Less Easily Aroused

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Oct. 14. (AP) — Thomas A. Edison was less easily aroused this afternoon, his son Charles said in a bulletin at 4 p. m.

Mr. Edison has been able to eat only six spoonfuls of pears since last Friday and has drunk nothing since then, Dr. Hubert S. Howe reported. The physician commented in his morning bulletin, however, that "nothing new has developed to cause immediate concern."

Nation-Wide Call Is To Be Broadcast By Hoover

Brief Message Will Set In Motion Drive For Funds For Use In Aid Of Needy

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Leaving a battleship to enter an ancient Virginia fortress at sundown on Sunday, President Hoover will sound by radio a nation-wide call for funds to aid the jobless.

Enroute to the sesquicentennial celebration at Yorktown, Va., the president will break his trip at Fortess Monroe. There, in the home of the station's commandant, he will stand before the microphone shortly after 6 p. m. E.S.T.

Drive Will Start

The brief presidential message will set in motion a five-week drive, extending from Oct. 19 to November 25. It was planned by the president's emergency unemployment relief organization as a period in which federal aid would be lent local communities in raising funds for next winter's needs.

There was little surprise at the White House today at word of the president's plan. Although arrangements had gone forward for a battleship cruise over the entire week-end, his words to Walter S. Gifford, head of his relief organization, were recalled:

"The whole force of the administration is at your disposal."

Production Loans To Be Talked At Meeting Here

Director Of St. Louis Office Arrives In City Today; No General Session Called

R. H. McELVEEN, director of the St. Louis feed-seed loan office, which made hundreds of production loans to West Texas farmers during the drouth period last year, is scheduled to arrive here this morning for a conference with C. C. Ellis, supervisor of Texas agents of the office, and six new field men assigned to the Texas district.

Ellis arrived Wednesday afternoon to make preparations for the meeting.

Contrary to press reports current this week, McElveen is not scheduled to confer with farmer borrowers, landlords and other persons interested in the repayment of cotton production loans, Ellis said. The primary purpose of the director's visit to Texas is to confer with the new field men, he said.

Go To New Mexico

"I have not been advised of Mr. McElveen's plans for conferences, other than with field men, but he may confer with other interested parties after the meeting with agents is over," the state supervisor said. "However, I cannot say when that will be. Mr. McElveen will go to New Mexico from Lubbock for a similar meeting there."

Ellis said the original plans for the meeting did not include a general meetnig. He said he was almost sure that the St. Louis man would not make a public address.

ROASTING CONTROL COMPLETES WORK THAT NATURE BEGINS

Full Charm of Coffee Blend Developed by Hills Bros.' Patented Process

Coffee, as it comes from the plantations, is not a finished product. Man must develop the flavor by roasting. Yet very often, man spoils the work that Nature began. For roasting is a delicate task. But there is one method that always roasts to perfection — Controlled Roasting, invented and patented by Hills Bros.

As the accuracy of the hour-glass depends upon an even, continuous flow . . . a little at a time . . . so a perfect, uniform roast is produced by Controlled Roasting — the patented process that roasts evenly, continuously . . . a little at a time. This is directly opposite to ordinary methods of roasting in bulk. The advantages are seen, when you drink Hills Bros. Coffee. It has a flavor no other coffee has. For no others are roasted the same way. And the flavor never varies, either!

Hills Bros. Coffee is packed in vacuum cans. Air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is removed and kept out of these cans. Ordinary, "air-tight" cans won't keep coffee fresh. But Hills Bros. Coffee can't go stale! Always fresh wherever and whenever you buy it. Order some today. Ask for it by name, and look for the Arab trade-mark on the can.

Gold, Plucked From Folds Of Dress, Draws Throngs Of Curiosity Seekers

NEW YORK, Oct. 14. (AP)—Mrs. Ida E. Wood's gold, plucked like magic from the ample folds of her dress and hidden crannies of her modest hotel room, has brought unwelcome visitors to her stoop.

The eccentric, 93-year-old recluse whose seclusion has been destroyed by and order placing her affairs in the hands of the court, was greatly agitated yesterday when five curious interlopers made their way into her rooms.

It was the first time in a decade her privacy had been disturbed. The little lady who habitually sent out for a single egg to boil on her electric grill—though banknotes totaling more than three-quarters of a million dollars were within reach of her hands—was considerably disturbed by the intrusion.

She demanded that her unwelcome visitors get out. She said she did not intend to have her two-room suite "profaned" by their presence. Otis E. Wood, her nephew and guardian, said the intrusion had aroused anew the fear that has haunted his aunt—that she would be sent to an "institution"—she who once was a belle of New York, a dancing partner of a crown prince and the wife of a wealthy publisher.

Yesterday's incident led Wood to increase the force of "guards" stationed outside his Aunt's hotel rooms. Publication of the discovery of her wealth has aroused scores of people to seek to talk with her, each hopeful of getting some share of the wealth.

Mrs. Wood, despite her 93 years and her slight statute and weight—which is only 90 pounds—is unusually active and healthy, her physician said.

Building construction in Johannesburg, South America, is greater than a year ago.

In keeping the opposing football team, the Rangers, from making a goal during a close game at Glasgow, Scotland, recently, John Thompson, 22, of the Celtics was knocked down by a player and killed.

Without stopping to remove his clothing seventy-year-old Charles D. Thompson jumped into the sea at Southsea, England, and saved a twelve-year-old boy, swimming ashore with the lad under one arm.

Irish people who returned to the old country from the United States in the first half of this year numbered more than double the emigrants who left Ireland in the same period.

College Teams Asked To Play Benefit Games

Every College And School Grid Team In Nation Requested To Schedule Post-Season Go For Unemployed, Charity

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 14. —Assured already of widespread support from such enterprises as another Army-Navy post-season battle, Owen D. Young today called upon every college and school football team in the United States to help raise funds for the unemployed.

The chairman of President Hoover's committee on mobilization of relief resources appealed to each college and school to play at least one game for the jobless. Where this can not be done during the regular season, Mr. Young asked that special games be scheduled.

Would Add Millions

This cooperation, he pointed out, can add millions of dollars to emergency funds in every section of the country.

The Western Conference, as well as Army and Navy, has decided to play post-season games. Big Ten officials have amended the rules to permit members to extend their season to Nov. 28.

Maj. John L. Griffith, big ten athletic commissioner, estimated five games in the conference would draw more than 200,000 persons and net the unemployed close to $1,000,000.

School Men Favorable

Before issuing a nation-wide call, Mr. Young sought the views of college presidents. Not all approved of benefit games but so many rallied to the suggestion that the president's representative is satisfied the plan is practical.

Where possible, Mr. Young asks that the gross receipts, less the actual expenses, of at least one game be turned over to the local relief committee.

Senior Classes To Help

With the idea of obtaining cooperation of the student body as well the players, Mr. Young has suggested the senior class in each institution organize the students to promote attendance and interest.

Westerners In Daylight Game Here Friday

Memories Of Last Meeting Of Lubbock And Snyder In 1917 Remembered As Team Comes Here For Contest

A football game that will doubtless bring back many pleasant and otherwise memories to Lubbock citizens who have enjoyed their present residence for at least fifteen years will be played on the Texas Tech field Friday afternoon when the Snyder High school eleven comes to mix wits and ability with the Lubbock Westerners.

An open date until early this week, Friday will mark the first game between Lubbock and Snyder since the great days of 1917, when Lubbock boasted an undefeated team, unscored against save for Wayland college. On a cool fall day of 1917 the Snyder team came to Lubbock and went home with the tail end of an 88 to 0 score. Several men in Lubbock will see Friday's game and reflect upon the day which saw them in uniform against the Snyder forces.

Too Cold at Night?

The game will start at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon on Matador Field. At the time the game was matched, local officials were wearing fall clothes and thinking in terms of cold weather so that a night game was not planned. Too, an afternoon contest will make it possible for the Snyder team to return home Friday night.

The Lubbock Westerners, opening their district championship race with a decisive 46 to 0 victory over Slaton here Friday night, face a rest before jumping into the race again. They meet Pampa at Pampa on October 31 in the next important game. Coach Chapman will not present his charges before a Lubbock fandom until November 11, following tomorrow's game.

Fearing a let down before the heavy work comes on, Coach Chapman is driving his men at a rapid rate this week and is keeping things moving in an effort to allay any staleness which might become evident. Workouts at Tech last week against Pete Cawthon's Tech Matadors had a fine effect on the high school gridsters.

Basketball Men To Meet Here Tonight To Plan Schedules

For the purpose of arranging a schedule and to make a definite layout of plans for the season, officials and representatives of the recently organized South Plains Semi-Pro Basketball league will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in the chamber of commerce rooms at the Lubbock City hall. President Martin of Meadow will preside.

Indications are that at least seven towns are ready to get started. Tonight will mark the deadline for entries and it is thought that several others will make application for league membership.

Following is a list of the towns already cinched as members of the league, and the managers: Idalou, Carney Stoape; Hale Center, J. A. Payne; Wolffarth, Fred Rich; Santa Fe of Slaton, Paul Self; Meadow, J. A. Earhart; Ropes, Lloyd Evans, and Lubbock, Dutch Leuenberger.

Other towns expected to get into the league and to be represented tonight are Tahoka, Brownfield, Littlefield and Anton.

It is planned to start the playing season on or about Oct. 26, and to play 32 games, the season to be split.

Barney Dreyfuss Smiles At Requests For Ens' Job But Won't Say Who'll Get It

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 14. (AP) — What started as a quiet quest of a few for the job of managing the Pittsburgh Pirates next season has developed into a scramble of many.

These mellow autumn days have brought a smile to the face of Barney Dreyfuss, gray-haired owner of the Bucs, not because he gets any particular kick out of the season that takes thousands to the big football stadium near his ball park, but because so many baseball men want the job vacated by Jewel Ens.

Dreybuss' desk is littered with letters from managers and would-be managers representing almost every league in the land.

Hence the smile. With fandom still watching the afterglow of the World Series and with a wealth of material from which to make his selections, the Pirate boss says he'll take his own time in naming the new manager. And no one has the "inside track" to the job, he says.

Joe Schultz, Pittsburgh boy who won a flag this year for Houston, St. Louis Cardinal chain outfit in the Texas League, is after the job.

Coach Lindsey Centers Men And Attention On Texas Go

NORMAN, Okla., Oct. 14. (AP) — Coach Ad Lindsey concentrated his attention and that of his first string University of Oklahoma footballers on attack today, leaving defensive drill to his assistants and the reserves.

Preparing for the Texas game at Dallas Saturday, Lindsey experimented with the heaviest backfield combination he has had on the field this season, Dunlap, Ellstrom, Massad and Maloney. All except Massad are sophomores. They average nearly 180 pounds.

Dixie Grid Teams Bear Greatest Share Of Honors In Intersectional Contests

Five Big Wins Are Recorded South Section Teams

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Out of the battlesmoke of intersectional wars waged to date along a national football front come charging the light horse brigades of Dixie with most of the honors.

Although the forces of the east, due in major part to the Army's three victories over mid-western opponents, lead the lists with nine victories out of 11 contests, southern teams have scored the most brilliant conquests in "big league" warfare.

South Wins Five

Five victories have been recorded by the hard-hitting sons of the south with Georgia's 26-7 rout of Yale and Vanderbilt's 26-21 victory over Ohio State outstanding. One game has been tied—Auburn holding Wisconsin to a 7-7 deadlock last Saturday—and five games have been lost.

The other victories have been Tulane's 7-0 conquest of the Texas Aggies, Duke's 18-0 defeat of a favored Villanova squad and Centenary's 24 to 13 triumph over Baylor of the Southwest Conference. The losing games have been Oglethorpe's 0-6 defeat by Duquesne and a 0-13 losing venture with Manhattan, Louisiana State's 0-3 capitulation to Texas Christian, Georgia Tech's unexpected defeat 0-13 by Carnegie Tech and Richmond's 0-27 rout by Cornell.

Midwest Fares Ill

The Midwest has fared the worst of any section, losing nine games, tieing one and winning two from teams of the east, south, west and southwest. The two winning games were Oklahoma's 19-6 victory over Rice and Kansas' 27-06 win over Colorado Aggies.

The southwest broke even in six games for a percentage of .500.

Aside from games with neighboring Rocky Mountain teams only one major intersectional foe has been met by any of the Pacific Coast teams, Stanford rolling over Minnesota 13-0 at Palo Alto Saturday.

Strong Teams Beaten

Many of the midwest defeats were suffered by weaker teams, but Ohio State, Minnesota, Iowa and Missouri also have been beaten.

Iowa has lost twice, to Pittsburgh 0-20 and to the Texas Aggies 0-29, while Texas buried Missouri, 21-0.

The lot of the invader was a hard one, only five of the 21 engagements being won by the visiting team. On the reasoning that a team plays better at home, added credit goes to the south since Georgia Vanderbilt and Auburn played their intersectional engagements on alien fields.

"Pug" Rentner, star Northwestern university fullback and forward passer, has broken his right wrist four times.

World Series Of 1931 Was Even More Spectacular Than 8-Game Series Of 1912, President Heydler Points Out

(This is the 2nd of two interviews with President John Heydler of the National League, in which he discusses the effect of the new ball on the outcome of the recent World Series.)

BY GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Thanks to the advent of the new ball and Pepper Martin, one of its great beneficiaries, the World Series just concluded possibly was the most spectacular ever played, in the opinion of President John A. Heydler of the National League.

"I can think of but one that compared with it from the standpoint of speed, tense situations and the general excellence of play," he told the Associated Press. "That was the 1912 series between the Boston Red Sox and the New York Giants. It went eight games, with the result in doubt right to the last play, but even at that I don't believe it had as many thrills as this last one. At least, it didn't for me.

No Martin Then

"For one thing, there wasn't any Pepper Martin in that 1912 series. Fellows like that come along but once a lifetime. I think he was inspired. If they had been using the rabbit ball and the Cardinals had been standing flatfooted and trying to outslug the Athletics, like they did last year, Martin might have been just another ball player. But that youngster knew his team was going to depend on speed and skill and daring to upset the A's, and that was right down his alley. He knew he could hold his own with any of them at that game and he went in there determined to prove it. He proved it, all right."

Adulation Hurt Pepper

But for the adulation showered upon Martin after the games at Philadelphia, President Heydler believes the sensation rookie might have continued to bang the ball in the concluding contests at St. Louis.

"The reporters and photographers didn't give him a minute's peace on the way back to St. Louis, and after he got there it was even worse."

As proof that the deadened ball was a dominant factor in the big series, the National League head pointed out that most of the games were decided by air-tight pitching, daring work in the base paths and spectacular fielding, rather than by straight-away hitting, as in the 1930 series.

Southern Association Prexy Says Cards May Buy Mobile

Tech Frosh Gridders Tangle With Badgers Friday; Coach Cawthon, Teal Return Today

Matadors Practice For Game Next Week With Colorado Miners; Return From Dallas After Trying Ordeals

Back on their home field this afternoon for the first time this week, the Texas Tech Matadors will go into another period of training in preparation for games to come. Their next game, one which they are doped as favorites to win, will be played here next Friday week against the Colorado School of Mines. The weekend will be spent in recuperating from the hard Dallas trip and experience while there.

The team, or most of it, returned home late last night in their big bus after a tiring journey over muddy roads for Dallas. The entire day was consumed by the trip, and there was little spirit or enthusiasm on the part of the Cawthonmen as they disembarked before their dormitory. The trip to Dallas was just as trying, it requiring almost two days to make the drive. The game with the Haskell Indians, won by the latter, 8 to 0, was a test for anybody's stamina and the Matadors did themselves proud in the face of overwhelming odds.

Cawthon Stays Over

Head Coach Pete Cawthon remained in Dallas yesterday at the bedside of Bill Teal, his star end who was removed from Tuesday's game with a broken leg. It probably meant curtains for Teal, a brilliant light in the Matador forward wall, so far as football is concerned, when he made a desperate try at the fleeting legs of Captain Louis (Little Rabbit) Weller, Indian safety who took a punt for a 60-yard ride down the field when Teal was blocked out by a pair of husky Injuns. The play finally resulted in a touchdown, the only one of the day.

Cawthon and Teal will return to Lubbock by train tonight.

Rigid Practice Begins

It is thought that the Matador mentor will institute another rigid rehearsal season upon his arrival. While they are favored to down the Coloradoy Miners, never a slouch club, they will be drilled and practiced as though for much tougher opposition. A week following the Colorado game, they go to Waco for a scheduled affair with the Baylor University Bears.

To keep the football light burning Coaches Del Morgan and Weir Washam will take their Tech freshman Picadors to Amarillo Friday for a game with the Amarillo Junior college Badgers, coached by Al Baggett. Tougher than ever before, the Badgers have been running wild over nearly all opposition this season and are considered the most dangerous band of junior college gridsters anywhere.

Morgan will have two complete freshman teams ready to send in against the Badgers Friday. It will be the first public appearance of the local freshmen since the first game of the season when they held the varsity Matadors to a 13 to 6 count.

Arkansas Razorbacks Suffer Hurts; Meet Bears Saturday

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Oct. 14. (AP)—The Coaching staff of the university of Arkansas football squad took inventory of its reserve material for the game with Baylor University Saturday as regulars fell victims to injuries and sickness today.

Cowboy Kyle, being counted upon to bear the brunt of the running attack of the Razorbacks, was out of practice with a back injury. Lewis Stout, first string tackle, was on the sidelines with injuries, while "Red" Johnson, end, was out with malaria fever. Holmes, quarterback, was reported as not in the best of condition.

Foreign Women To Be Honored

French And Italian Visitors Will Receive Courtesies On Visit To America; Interest Is Being Manifest

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14. (AP)—The coming of Premier Laval of France and Foreign Minister Grandi of Italy is not all talk of ponderous world problems for the prospect of entertaining officially two young women has its own place in the capital chit-chat.

The French leader's 19-year-old daughter Josette and Signora Grandi, who is but a few years older, are expected, although officials are keeping a proper silence concerning both.

To Mlle. Josette has gone the center of discussion because of reports she won her own way to the trip over the first grumbling opposition to her father.

Too, by those who know her, she is pictured as a typically vivacious French girl, as attractive in the saddle or the drawing room as she is able in her law studies; a girl who knows what she wants and loses no time in getting it.

Both she and Signora Grandi are likely to be received or entertained at the White House, if they come. The latter speaks English fluently as does Mlle Josete, and is noted for her beauty.

Recent precedent is available for forecasts of the ladies' entertainment program.

Miss Ishbel MacDonald, the British prime minister's daughter, found a full official program and opportunity to visit a modern school and a meeting of some professional working women during her trip to this county with her father in 1929.

Although Mlle. Laval would have no official rank, she probably would be accorded ceremonious courtesies. The dark and slight signora of course would rank with her husband.

Seven Relief Points Given

American Legion Commander In Address Points Out Program For Unemployment Relief In United States

RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 14. (AP) — Henry L. Stevens, jr., national commander of the American Legion, advanced seven suggestions for relief of the unemployment situation in an address here today.

They were:

"1. That the 11,008 posts of the American Legion immediately contact existing agencies in their own communities, and if no proper agency exists, join with other elements of the community to establish an agency for the proper registration and placement of the unemployed.

"2. Prevent migration. Adversity is alleviated and overcome in one's home town rather in strange or foreign surroundings.

"3. 'Make work.' Whenever possible create work instead of direct relief to hold up the morale and courage and pride of our people.

"4. Create public sentiment that will release to the building stage public improvements of federal, state and local character to the end that more work will be available for the unemployed, and as far as possible hire workers in their own communities.

"5. It was the concensus of the Washington conference that we recommend to the posts that they urge their own communities to assume as far as possible the problem that is local and county and state likewise.

"6. We recommend to employers and employed the consideration of the five day week, the six hour day and staggered employment where practicable.

"7. Recommendation of the consideration of further restriction of immigration during the present emergency to offer more employment to American citizens."

A Mountain Of Tires

Anybody that drives an automobile knows full well there are many more of 'em in the world, but this mountain of 2,000,000 used tires in Los Angeles affords graphic proof of the extent of the industry. Huge piles of tires, like this one, which covers 10 acres and is from 75 to 100 feet high, are collected by a salvage concern for domestic and foreign use. Some are rebuilt into new tires, others are sent to Europe, where they are converted into hard rubber products. Others go to China, where they are made into cheap footwear.

The class will meet two hours twice each week during a period of about six weeks. A fee of $3 will be charged instead of the usual $10, the lower price being possible because of state and federal aid for this type of work, which is known as adult education.

This course will be followed by others in cooking, household decoraton, and child care, which will be announced from time to time, according to J. F. McDonald of the extension department.

NEW CLASS BEGINS

Two extension classes which were organized last week will meet Friday evening. The business English class taught by Cecil Horne will meet at 7 o'clock in room 207, and the class in group study method of instruction will meet in room 216 at 6:30 with W. P. Clements.

J. T. Shaver will begin work with his class in practice teaching Saturday afternoon at 2:30.

There is, too, an added something about it that brings enthusiastic comments from every one who has ever driven a Ford . . . the joy it puts in motoring.

"I have been a car owner continuously for nearly 20 years," writes a motorist connected with a leading university. "During this period I have bought eleven new automobiles. Eight of the eleven were in the middle-price field, one cost three thousand dollars, and the last is a Ford I purchased thirteen months ago.

"In the light of this experience I can say in all sincerity that I have derived more genuine satisfaction from the Ford than any car I ever owned. In saying this, I am thinking in terms of comfort, safety, driving pleasure, ease of control and economy. My next car will also be a Ford because it will give me what I want at a price I can afford to pay."

When you get behind the wheel of the Ford and drive it yourself you will know it is a truly remarkable car at a low price. You will like it when you first buy it. You will become more and more enthusiastic the longer you drive it.

After thousands of miles of driving you will say "it's a great car." Its economy will save you many dollars.

Alertness Is Required

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—"Here's the story," said Senator Cordell Hull of Tennessee, as he laid down his newspaper the morning after the world series opening and pointed to a paragraph he had marked with his lead pencil, "of a fan who waited two days and nights at the entrance to Sportsman's park in St. Louis, to make sure of the first ticket to the initial game for the 1931 baseball championship.

Cordell Hull

"Ah, if ye only had that spirit in politics!

"Let the public take the same interest in its government that it takes in baseball and we no longer shall drift into perils like the present economic crisis, through the lack of alert statesmanship to steer clear of such dangers."

"CAPABLE, disinterested political leaders," phil... osophised the senator, "are created by the demand for them, just as brilliant ball players are created by the demand for brilliant ball playing.

"Political leadership of that sort has not been in demand in post-war years. Consequently we haven't had it.

"The leadership we have had has aimed wholly at material ends.

"Its concept of the public good has consisted in the accumulation of immense piles of money.

"It has not even proved itself intelligent in that respect, for the money has gravitated naturally into so few hands that the necessary process of readjustment threatens the very leadership which is responsible for the situation it has caused, not to mention the foundations of representative government."

"THE INEVITABLE tendency of our economics," observed the author of the existing income tax system, "is toward the upbuilding of a steadily decreasing number of increasingly enormous fortunes.

"Far from being encouraged, this tendency manifestly should be restrained, to avoid a dangerous concentration.

"Restraint being utterly neglected and every imaginable encouragement given, a time presently arrives when relief is too urgent readily to await the development of orderly methods of affording it, and actual revolution becomes a possibility.

"The extreme peril of revolution lies in the fact that no one can foresee whither it will lead—in our case, perhaps, from representative government to fascism or socialism."

"OUR MATERIALISTIC leaders in recent years," said the senator, "continued to assume, until undeceived by the crash which finally overtook them, that we were living in a new age of the world, an era of unending prosperity; that poverty was abolished, as they expressed it.

"Not only our own people believed them.

"They were so convinced and convincing that the peoples of other countries believed them also.

"They tried to imitate us, especially in the imposition of prohibitive tariffs, outdoing us in some instances, and interrupting international trade in every directon. Such money as was left to them by the war they poured into our markets.

"The boom's collapse was no greater shock to our leaders than to the rest of the world's.

"They looked on, not merely in alarm, but in paralyzed horror, as the entire edifice of inflation, which they had deemed absolutely unshakable, simply disintegrated before them."

"WE SHALL find a way out of our difficulties," promised the Tennesseean, "with the realization that there is no reality in an extravagantly exaggerated prosperity.

"For the boom structure, which provided the semblance, we must erect a substantial substitute—and hope that others again will imitate us.

"As for competent leadership, we can depend on it if enough of us want it as badly as the fan, who spent two days and nights waiting at the entrance to Sportsman's park, wanted the first ticket to the opening game of this year's world's series."

MORE MONKEY BUSINESS

Certain smugly satisfied Americans frequently revel in hilarity when the subject of Mexican, South and Central American politics is introduced. All of us have heard the revolts of those nations described as "comic opera wars" and have been regaled with the joke which likens a Latin-American republic with an airplane motor, because each has "21,000 revolutions per minute."

All in all, our neighboring countries have furnished us with many a Yankee grin but from the looks of things in Louisiana, the grin now is on the other side of the face.

In Texas' neighboring state we are presented with the ludicrous situation of two men claiming the governorship, with one calling out state troops and the other issuing dispersement orders.

We see the Great "Hooey" Long attempting to be both Senator and Governor, and his long time enemy, Paul Cyr, trying to double as Governor and Lieutenant-Governor. Each is panning the other; the papers are filled with political flubdubbery and, taking everything into consideration, official Louisiana is in one whale of a mess.

Regardless of the outcome of hte Louisianians rookus, it at least serves us with an example of peanut politics, making the public the goat.

It is to be hoped that we are still far ahead of our Latin-American neighbors as far as self-government is concerned, but the silly activities of Louisiana's governmental chieftains certainly make us wonder about it.

GUILTY LIPS

NEA FICTION

by LAURA LOU BROOKMAN — Author of "MAD MARRIAGE"

©1931 BY NEA SERVICE INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Pretty NORMA KENT, 20-year-old secretary, marries MARK TRAVERS, son of F. M. TRAVERS, millionaire real estate dealer, in spite of the father's opposition and threats to disinherit Mark.

The story opens in Marlboro, middle western metropolis. Mark sells his expensive roadster to get money for the honeymoon and he and Norma go to fashionable Blue Springs. There Norma meets HOLLIS STONE, and it is evident from the girl's manner that she has known Stone before and for some reason seems to fear him.

Their money is soon gone, partly due to Mark's gambling. With $500 borrowed from Stone the couple return to Marlboro. Mark sets out on a round of pleasure seeking instead of hunting a job. He introduces Norma to NATALIE PRICE, a debutante who has long hoped to marry Mark. When their funds dwindle again Mark and Norma move to a cheap apartment. Mark begins to hunt work seriously. He gets one job and loses it. Then he becomes a floor walker in Blossomdale's department store. Norma practices rigid economies at home. When Mark's mother comes to call on them and urges the young man to seek reconciliation with his father Mark refuses. He and Norma spend a happy Thanksgiving Day together. A few days later GEORGE JOHNSON, an employe of the elder Travers, come to Mark and tells him his father wants to see him. Reluctantly Mark goes to his father's office.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXVIII

Travers eyed his son levelly. "When I make a bargain," he began, "I expect fair return for my money. Otherwise I'm not interested. And if you agree to what I'm suggesting I'll expect you to keep that agreement as rigidly as any business contract."

"Let's hear those terms you mentioned."

"Allr ight. Here they are. You are to return to employment in this organization on exactly an equal footing with other employes. Your salary will be fixed on a basis of your work. If at the end of a year I am convinced you have in you the making of a real business man you will come into the company as a junior officer with a certain amount of stock to your credit. It will be a year of hard work, possibly a half dozen different departments. I will issue strict orders no favors are to be shown you because you happen to bear my name. Well—what do you think of it?"

"Father! You honestly mean this?"

"Would I be setting here wasting hours when I might be much more comfortable at home if I didn't mean it!"

Emotion he could not find words for overwhelmed Mark Travers. He flushed. "Gee, Dad, that's—that's white of you!" he exclaimed. "I want to tell you I've been sorry a good many times for the things I said that night—I didn't mean what I said—!"

"No? Then forget it! I've said things I didn't mean and been sorry about them. Forget it, Mark. It's been hard on your mother, though, to have you away."

"I know. I'm sorry for that too. Oh, Dad—I'll take you up on this thing! I'll show you I can make good too! You'll see that I've changed about a lot of things—!"

The elder Travers was on his feet, hand outstretched. He took Mark's hand in his and shook it firmly. "Then it's agreed," he said. "When can you start?"

"Why—why almost any time. I'll tell them I' mquitting tomorrow at Blossomdale's." The red of his cheeks deepened. "You knew, I suppose, that's where I've been.

The answer was a grunt that might have been interpreted, "Heard something of the sort.

"Dad!" Mark exclaimed jubilantly. "Gee, I can't believe this has happened! I don't know what to say to you. It's—it's wonderful!"

If the elder Travers were equally moved he restrained all signs of it. "So it's settled, then," he said, stepping back and heaving a sigh of satisfaction. "Remember those terms—one year without favors, unquestioning obedience to superiors and hard work."

"I'll show you, Dad!" Mark was grinning broadly. "Those terms—why they're nothing at all! I'll show you!"

"Fine. By the way," (the father's eyes narrowed slightly as he spoke) "your fist job will be something a little out of the ordinary. Not at all unpleasant, I hope. It's a little

Letters To The Editor

Lubbock Man Discusses The Future For U. S. Farmers

Editor, The Avalanche: Not long since we were told by an honorable gentleman in an address to a mass meeting of farmers that we are drifting into socialism, bolshevism, red radicalism, etc.

At first thought this seemed a pretty gross insult to a lifelong Democrat, but after giving the matter more serious thought, we concluded that the gentleman was more than half way right. A large majority of the men whom we elect to make our laws are of the profession addressed by Jesus Christ in the following words: "Woe unto you, ye have laden men with burdens grievous to be bourne." And you will not touch, lighten, or relieve them with the weight of your finger. When we come to think of the source of our laws, is it any wonder we are drifting into socialism, bolshevism, etc?

If the manufacturer of farm implements, which are now selling for double what they were fifteen years ago, asks for protection against his foreign competitor, that is big business. But if the poor horny-handed, hard visaged son of toil asks for protection for his products, which are now selling for eight or ten times less than were fifteen years ago, that is bolshevism, etc.

But this state of affairs does not seem so strange when we remember that ninety-nine out of every one hundred of our representatives in the legislature are from the city. Then we can hardly blame them for making and upholding such laws.

High priced farm machinery does not affect the city man. We are told that self-preservation is the first law of nature; and anyone knows that the more cows, sows and hens and the more wheat fields and cotton fields there are, the cheaper the city man's living comes. The city people are not to be blamed for this. I suppose I should do the same thing if I were in their place.

Brother Farmer, what are we going to do about it? Are we going to continue to work our arms and legs off and let our heads rest, or are we going to reverse the procedure by resting our arms and legs and using our heads a little? Give this matter a little thought. It is worth trying, don't you think? What say you?

M. S. GOODPASTURE,
Lubbock.

THE NEWS OF THE DAY — THROUGH THE CAMERA'S EYE

Man Of War In Scenes Of Peace; Nation's Most Colorful Military Leader In New Role Of Civilian

HOME MAN—Marine rookies who trembled at the approach of Major Gen. Smedley D. Butler won't recognize their former chief in this unfamiliar role. For it's the blade of the lawn-mower and not of the sword that concerns Citizen Butler as you see him here, trimming the grass at the Newtown, Pa., home where he will live in his retirement.

FRUIT OF SUCCESS—It's a distinguished, if fiery, career that Major Gen. Smedley D. Butler left behind him when he retired from the Marine Corps. And here you see him, apparently content in the peaceful life of an ordinary citizen, as he munched on a pear that he picked from a tree on his new estate at Newtown, Pa.

WITH HIS MEMORIES—Strenuous campaigns in the Philippines . . . . peril-fraught days in China . . . then the "big scrap" in France . . . . those must have been some of the memories that came crowding back to retired Major Gen. Smedley D. Butler when, as pictured above, he packed away his Marine Corps uniform the other day. The veteran chieftain of the "devil dogs" is shown below with his daughter, Miss Ethel Butler, and their pets at Butler's new home at Newtown, Pa., where he is living following his retirement at the end of 33 years of service.

Rich Man, Poor—

Ethelind Terry (above), Broadway favorite, is remembered for the statement, made in 1929, that "none but millionaires would be considered matrimonially." Suiting action to the word, she married B. E. Bogeaus, Chicago contractor and member of the aforementioned favored class. But now she's announcing that she plans a divorce. Anyhow, Ethelind looks perfectly contented in this picture—taken in New York.

City Hall Is "Bed Room" For Philadelphia's Jobless

Here's where a part of Philadelphia's homeless, jobless men will be given refuge on cold winter nights—the marble floor of the City Hall. This picture shows a group of unfortunates who already have taken advantage of the city's offer of a haven and sleep with only newspapers between them and the hard floor. Note the bare feet and tattered clothes of several of the sleepers.

Best Farm Girl

NEA Los Angeles Bureau

She's a winner! Miss Maurine Hamann, crowned champion farm girl at the Los Angeles county fair in Pomona, Calif., is shown here with some of the corn she husked. She rolled up high score in the milking, churning, corn husking, tractor driving and other farming events.

They Look Like Winners

One more sport thought safely exclusive for males went by the boards when this charmingly feminine rowing crew started to practice on the Long Beach, Calif., course in preparation for races between women crews to be run in connection with the 1932 Olympic games. Although the girls will not be permitted to take a part in the Olympic rowing events, which are for men only, this crew is expected to give spectators a thrill or two which male competitors cannot supply. "Cap'n" Billy Comstock, who serves as coxwain, is shown with her snappy crew.

Vacation Is Over

Following a month's vacation in the Hawaiian islands, Allan Hoover, younger son of President Hoover, returns to San Francisco and goes immediately to the Hoover home in Palo Alto before departing for Washington and Boston.

Boy, 9, Pushes Child To Death

NEA San Francisco Bureau

Bobby Labourd, above, 9-year-old Bakersfield, Calif., boy, has admitted to police that he pushed a playmate, George Leistikow, 6, into a mill ditch, watched him drown, and then went to a movie. Bobby said George always "tagged" him.

Mayor? Huh, Melons!

Raising watermelons appeals to Jim Pollitt of Amelia, O., more than being mayor, but he just can't seem to resign. He has served for eight years now. "The job of being mayor is a consarned nuisance," Pollitt says. "People think the mayor can fix everything and the telephone keeps ringing all night."

Uses Size To Good Advantage

Lucky brute—this horse. Not only is he the largest nag at the Los Angeles County Fair at Pomona, Calif., but "Sam" (that's his name) certainly knows how to use his size to the best advantage. Entered by the Carnation Stables, "Sam," a 2,500-pound Percheron, is shown carrying seven pretty riders with all the ease with which ordinary horses carry a single person. Almost needless to say, "Sam" took all the prizes, even without his fair load.

Would Oust Mellon

Citing the law that prohibits a secretary of the treasury from being directly or indirectly interested in trade and commerce, Representative Wright Patman, above, a Texas Democrat, has reiterated his intention of bringing impeachment proceedings against Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon. Patman charges that Mellon was a stockholder in the Aluminum Company of America and that he and his family owned the Gulf Oil corporation and the Koppers company. Mellon declined to comment on the charges.

Pastor Filicide?

Charged with having murdered his son R. G. Williams, 22, a sailor in the U. S. Navy, the Rev. J. N. Williams (above), of Augusta, Ga., is held by the authorities. The body of the young man was found on a lonely road near Augusta and the minister was taken into custody on the suspicion that he lured his son from his ship at New York and killed him in order to collect $2,500 insurance.

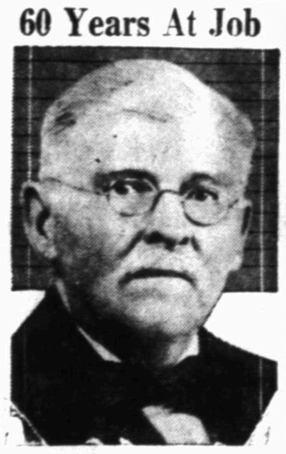

Innocent, Welcomed Home

NEA Chicago Bureau

Twenty-three years after being innocently sent to prison for murder, Jesse Lucas, left, is seen above being welcomed back to Mount Carmel, Ill., by Mayor T. B. Wright. Lucas was freed when a former neighbor, George Pond, made a death-bed confession, admitting the crime. Lucas' home and all his relatives are gone. He will live in the mayor's home.

60 Years At Job

After 60 years spent in the composing room of the Detroit Daily Abend Post, German newspaper, Philipp Baust is retiring on Oct. 3. Despite the fact that Mr. Baust is 80, he has worked steadily to round out his six decades, a period of service which his employers believe is a record.

Clown And Saint

NEA London Bureau

Religious leader of millions—and a man who has made millions laugh . . . A striking study in countenances is this picture, taken as Mahatma Gandhi and Charlie Chaplin met by pre-arrangement in a tiny house in London's East End. The meeting was at the seeking of the little Indian leader who, until he arrived in London recently, never had heard of Chaplin. Though their argument over the place of the machine in modern life was serious, their attitudes were good-humored, as seen here.

Held As Decoy

NEA Chicago Bureau

Irene Thompson Hendrix, above, faces charges of "conspiracy to impersonate a federal officer" at Mattoon, Ill., in what the government charges was a blackmail plot which cost business men $500,000. It is charged that she and other young women lured prominent men into aljoining states, after which men in the ring threatened the victims with arrest.

Operated Upon To Curb Crime

Howard Buck, above, 30, of Akron, O., underwent an operation on his brain at Massillon, O., to remove criminal tendencies he has suffered since his skull was fractured in a football game in 1922. Buck requested the delicate operation.

New Envoy To U. S.

Dr. W. W. Yen (above), Premier of the old Peiping Government, has been appointed Minister to the United States by the Chinese Nationalist Government at Nanking. Rated as one of China's ablest statesmen, Dr. Yen twice previously declined the appointment, pleading his retirement. Dr. Yen succeeds C. C. Wu.

Just Twice As Studious

This picture shows, left to right—oh, we give up! One of them is Mary Thayer and the other is her twin sister Alice, and they both live in Norwood, Pa. They dress alike and look alike, and now they're going to the University of Pennsylvania on a joint scholarship—because they won the same honors in high school.

GUILTY LIPS

By LAURA LOU BROOKMAN — Author of "MAD MARRIAGE" — NEA SERVICE, INC.

iece of special work I want you o do for me—"

"What is it?"

"Sit down." Travers dropped to is desk chair, waved the young an to one beside it. "I told you if ou agreed to my terms it would ean a year of hard work. You've ready agreed. Today's Wednesday, n't it? Tell them at Blossomdale's ou're quitting Saturday. Monday ou can begin here. Then Tuesday t midnight you sail for Liverpool."

"Dad!"

Travers was nodding. "Tuesday at midnight," he repeated. "You have our passport, haven't you? I'll have verything else arranged. Monday ou'll be in Liverpool—"

"But what on earth—?" Mark cut "I don't know what you're talk- g about!"

"No. But I'm going to tell you. romised to obey instructions, did- t you? Promised to tackle any job ithout favoritism! This first as- ignment, as I said, is a little un- sual. I hope it isn't going to prove difficult. Now here's what I'm get- ng at—!"

The father paused long enough to touch a match to his cigar. "I sent Johnston to tell you to come here today for two reasons," he con- tinued. "One because, well, you're the only son your mother and I have. Maybe I seem a harsh man sometimes. I'm not so bad inside. Anyhow your mother and I need you, Mark. That's one reason I sent for you. The other is this business in Spain.

"You remember — maybe you don't though—that Jules was in country for a Spanish copper min- ing concern when Alicia met him? Looking for American capital. Well, he persuaded me to go into the thing rather heavily. That was two years ago. Going on three and it's been a bigger loss every year. It's come to the place where I've got to know what's going on—"

Mark had been following the words wide-eyed. "But, Dad, I don't know anything about copper min- ing!"

"No. You don't. It isn't going to be necessary. I've got a man who knows all about it going over next month. You see, Mark, I can stand the loss. They come and we take them and fight it out on some other line. I can stand the loss. What I'm sending you over there for is to find out just how much Jules is in on this business. I want to know if the deal is square. If it is—we go on with it and fight. If Alicia's husband in spite of his high-sound- ing titles is just another foreign crook I want to know that too.

"You'll go over there ahead of Moffett, the engineer. There's been nothing said or done as yet to arouse suspicion. That's why the trip must be made at this time. And you're the one to make it. Don't you see I can't send an ordinary employe over there and tell him what's in my mind about my own son-in-law? Besides, you can go about with Jules an no employe could—"

"It's a spying job you're asking me to undertake, is it?"

"Now wait a minute! Not so hot- headed. It's nothing on earth but a straight business deal. I want you to go to France for three weeks, drop over at this mine and have a look at it, go to see Jules and Alicia and make certain inquiries about Jules. It's a thing that's done every day in business. A man has to know his associates are honest. If they're dishonest he has to out- smart them. Well, that's a very brief outline. We'll go over the whole thing in detail later. You're working for me on this job, Mark. Directly under my orders and no one else!"

Mark met his glance. "No use to pretend I know what it's all about," he said, "but I'll try to do what you want. How long will I be abroad?"

"That depends. Ought to make the trip. I should say, in a month or five weeks. We'll see how it works out."

The young man was smiling. "Well, a month in France is certain- ly no hardship. Be able to stop over a day or so in Paris, will I? Say—I'll get a kick out of showing Norma Paris!"

The father pursed his lips. "Cer- tainly you can spend a day or two in Paris. Matter of fact, on the sur- face this journey is to appear a pleasure trip. You're to do all the things you would if you were on vacation. Jules and Alicia will as- sume that's why you're there. On this other matter of taking—er, Norma—well, I'm afraid that's out of the question."

"But, Dad—?"

"It will be better for you," his father went on evenly, "and also for your wife if you make this trip alone. In the first place, though you are to seem to be on a pleasure trip, you will really be working. It's a conviction of mine that a man can't keep his mind on business when he's traveling with his wife. Arbitrary ruling of the company. If I let you take Norma along it would be favoritism and I told you there was to be none. On the other hand she can be more comfortable here. We'll see that everything is done for her. It would please your mother if she'd come to the house and stay with us while you're gone. When this year's ended and you've proven you know how to work—if you do—you and she can take a three or four months' trip abroad and do it properly."

Mark said slowly, "I hate to leave her but, as you say, it may be best. Five weeks is a long time, though—"

"Why, five weeks is nothing— Well—do you think you understand your first assignment?"

"Enough to say I'll tackle it. I'll be tied up at the store until Satur- day, of course. When will you go over the whole thing with me?"

"On Monday. Monday morning. By the way, your mother and I would like to have you and Norma come to dinner Saturday evening."

Mark's eyes brightened. "Fine!" he said. "By George—do you know what time it's getting to be? Look at that clock!"

The dial of the handsome bronze timepiece on the book case indi- cated it was after 6:30.

"Norma'll be phoning the po- lice!" Mark exclaimed. "I'd better call her right away." He picked up the telephone from his father's desk and gave the number. Pres- ently he was saying into the mouth- piece, "I'm on my way home, Norma. Everything's O. K. Got a lot to tell you. No, it will have to wait until I get there. It's good news though. Wonderful! See you in half an hour. 'Bye!"

The elder Travers was standing, hat and overcoat on. "Harvey's downstairs with the car," he an- nounced. "Run you out?"

"Thanks. It'll be a big favor."

On the threshold—just before they left the room—Mark turned and clapped a hand on his father's arm. "Dad," he said, fumbling for the words, "I wish I could tell you how I appreciate all this—!"

"That's all right!"

The interview was ended. The pair sauntered down the corridor to the elevator car. Throughout the drive to the east side apartment their talk was of irrelevant subjects.

The big limousine paused long enough for Mark to step to the sidewalk, then darted away. Thirty minutes later F. M. Travers was relinquishing his hat and coat to a servant.

"Where's Mrs. Travers?" he asked.

"I think she's in her room, sir. She said dinner would be at 7:30."

"Yes, of course."

Travers mounted the stairs heav- ily. He was not usually stout, rath- er well built for one of his years, but he had worked hard all his life and moved customarily as though he were tired.

Before a door at the head of the stairs he paused and knocked. A voice inside called "Who is it?"

"It's I—Frank."

"Come in, dear!"

Travers opened the door. His wife, in a low-cut gown of gray lace, turned from the dressing table and came toward him. "Oh, Frank —" she cried, "did ou see him?"

Her husband nodded. He placed a matter-of-fact kiss on her fore- head. "I did," he announced. "Everything's settled! He's leaving Monday night!"

Mrs. Travers raised anxious gray eyes. "And the girl—?" she asked.

"The girl!" Travers repeated with an unpleasant smile. "She'll be gone in a week!"

When one of those sick nervous headaches come and you want three-minute relief, go to any drug store or soda fount and ask for a package or dose of "B-C" (10c and 25c) the wonderful new prepara- tion of two North Carolina drug- gists that is guaranteed safe and speedy, without depression or bad after effects.

"B-C" relieves any kind of a headache, sciatic, neuralgic or fe- male pain, because it contains sev- eral ingredients that function to- gether for the relief of pain, re- gardless of its origin. Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 14. (AP)—Trading was less active in the cotton market today although there was nevertheless a fair business prices fluctuated somewhat nervously and without definite trend but were fairly well sustained, despite rather liberal hedge selling, which was absorbed by trade buying. The close was near the lowest, being called steady and showing net losses for the day of 8 to 10 points. Liverpool is due tomorrow 4 penny points down on New Orleans.

The census bureau reported consumption by domestic mills in September at 463,704 bales as against 423,619 the previous month and 393,390 for the corresponding month last year.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Oct. 14. (AP) — Rallies from an early decline in cotton today were attributed to trade buying and covering, but the demand was supplied by realizing while during the afternoon, there was a little more local and Wall street selling.

December contracts after selling off to 6.18 during the early trading, rallied to 6.31 or 5 points net higher, but broke to 6.15 later and closed at 6.20. The general market closed steady at net declines of 5 to 7 points.

The opening was steady unchanged to a decline of 4 points.

January declined to 6.27 and March to 6.45 but there was a flurry of covering toward the close and last prices showed rallies of 5 ord points from the lowest on most points.

Lubbock Youth

formed of the accident. Mrs. McMillan, who is said to be in poor health, had gone to San Angelo to consult a respiratory specialist there.

The father said his boy had never been active in athletics until this year. The boy was taking a great deal of interest in his physical education work at the high school, Mr McMillan said.

The youth's body was paralyzed from the neck downward. In the event the injury should not prove fatal at this time, physicians said he probably would be paralyzed during the remainder of his life. His spinal cord was believed to have been severely bruised.

Accident Unavoidable

R. W. Matthews, high school principal, said as far as he could determine the accident was unavoidable. The two youths and several other boys and girls were in the gymnasium for a pep meeting and after the boys had received their instructions the girls were taken to another part of the gymnasium for drill practice. Carroll and McMillan were playing as boys will, whether or not they are in a gymnasium, when the accident occurred, the principal said.

"There is a rule that students may not use the equipment in the gymnasium except under the supervision of an instructor," he said. "But, of course, students cannot be watched at all times when they visit the gym for other meetings."

M. H. Duncan, superintendent of Lubbock schools, made a similar statement.

"Of course I regret exceedingly the unfortunate accident, but I do not see where the school authorities are to blame. A similar accident might occur on the playground, at the home, or at any place where boys play. The boys' exercises in the gymnasium were no part of their school work."

recounted by Oscar Gutter, a hunchback "bookie" who said "Al dropped about $60,000 to me in 1927."

Gutter explained he limited his clientele to "sportsmen who could make big bets, no pikers, you see." Gutter explained he considered a person making "a small bet like $500" to be to some extent a "piker."

Capone's bets always were at least $1,000, Gutter said, and sometimes he would bet $6,000 on a horse.

Security Prices Lower And Market Settles After An Attempt At Rally

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 14. (AP) — Security prices were lower again today.

The decline of stocks tended to level off, but public interest obviously was small and the market settled steadily after only attempt at a rally. Bonds were depressed in many directions, apparently because of bank selling. Commodities, however, closed steady. Heavy losses of gold, amounting to considerable more than half a billion dollars in about six weeks, have failed to cause alarm in banking circles but there is some talk in Wall street of another rise in the federal reserve rediscount rate if the outward flow should continue.

The immediate effects of this movement are being felt in the money markets where hardening tendencies are at work. There was no change in open market rates for call or time loans today, but some banks asked 2 1-2 per cent for the former against the official stock exchange quotations of 2.

many parts of West Texas requesting information on a general meeting. Executives of the chamber of commerce said they were not officially advised of the conference until Wednesday afternoon when Ellis arrived.

Mr. Ellis said as far as he knew there had been no change in the policy of the feed-seed loan office from that announced early in the week.

A policy of liberality in the collecting of federal loans was announced in dispatches Saturday from Abilene. At that time Ellis said he had received instructions that when a borrower had deposited warehouse receipts on sufficient cotton collateralized at six cents per pound to cover the amount of his loan, the government will release its mortgage on the remainder of the crop, enabling him to dispose of that surplus as he sees fit.

gerous possibilities and there were strong threats of revolt in the north, where the church adherents are strong, against the constitutional provisions separating state and church and regulating religious orders.

The government was flooded with telegrams of protest, some of them opposing the religious measures, others accusing the ministry of having been too lenient in not expelling religious organizations from the country.

Livestock

MIDDLEWESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 14. (AP)—Offering of sheep at the various markets totalled 91,900, as compared with 77,594 last week. Lambs found a dependable outlet at a majority of markets and values were rated as strong to 50 higher. Mature sheep held steady with most fat ewes at 1.75@2.25. Range feeding lambs were steady to strong at 4.50@5.50.

General trade on hogs was fairly active at steady to 10 higher figures as compared with Tuesday's average. Arrivals totalled 61,650 as against 56,520 last Wednesday.

Rate Hearing

Austin from the Red river to the Texas seaboard was transported by trucks. He stated he believed the railroads' application should be granted to permit them to recover this business.

He said he could not say what the allowance for compression should be, but it should not exceed the transportation economy created by the handling of compressed bales rather than flat bales.

He urged that should a reduction be advisable it be granted soon, "because the crop is moving freely." He said the charge should be reduced from $1 to $1.50 per bale.

Boon To Producer

"In view of existing low prices such a reduction would prove to be a boon to the producer," Clayton stated. "If the transportation charge from West Texas should be $3.50 instead of $4.50, that would mean an advance on the interior markets of $1 per bale to the farmer."

Kempner said the entire rate structure on cotton had been destroyed by truck competition. He said he believed the railroads as "civic builders and tax payers of magnitude," were entitled to support in an effort to retrieve their lost cotton tonnage.

There was a long list of representatives of chambers of commerce and other organizations waiting to be heard in pleas not to "put the interior compresses out of business."

Jack Blalock of Marshall said he was interested in "preservation of the market in my community." To fix a rate that discriminated against the compresses would destroy that market, he said.

J. H. "Cyclone" Davis of Sulphur Springs, veteran Texas politician and colorful figure in many campaigns, pleaded on the side of the compresses.

period of time, leaders of the campaign hope to obtain 5,500 others and raise $25,000 for missions and additional amounts for church budgets. The $25,000 quota has been prorated among the 15 churches in the district, it was said.

Organize Committee

A central committee, consisting of seven members, is to be organized in each church to conduct the every-member-canvass. Each committee will be composed of an organizer, Sunday school superintendent, B. Y. P. U. leader, W. M. U. leader, publicity director and two laymen helpers.

Rev. Campbell said the leaders of the campaign were pleased with results obtained at the meeting here. The attendance would have been much larger had favorable weather prevailed, he said.

District No. 9 is composed of the following associations: Lubbock, Brownfield, Dickens, Floyd, Staked Plains, West Plains, and Tierra Blanca.

Forty Foot Plunge Is Fatal To Man; Dies Of Injuries

FORT WORTH, Oct. 14. (AP)—A 40-foot plunge down an elevator shaft at the fair last night cost the life of C. W. Weaver, 51, a night watchman. He died today in a hospital.

When two employes of the store wanted to go to higher floors, Weaver found the elevator door closed. He forced it open with a knife, expecting to find the car at the first floor level. As the door slid open he stepped forward, falling 40 feet to the bottom of the shaft.

Habeas Corpus Application Of Condemned Men Is Denied

AUSTIN, Oct. 14. (AP)—The court of criminal appeals today denied an application for habeas corpus of Victor Rodriguez and Nicandro Munoz, under death sentence for the murder of Bert Ellison, customs officer, who was killed near Edinburg August 9, 1930.

Rodriguez and Munoz had been given a reprieve by Governor R. S. Sterling until the appellate court could pass on their case. They contended they had not had a fair trial because the attorney who represented them was not a practicing attorney. October 30 has been set as the electrocution date for the men.

Grain

FORT WORTH GRAIN

Quotations ranged as follows, basis carloads delivered Texas Gulf ports, export rate, or group three points, freight paid:

Wheat, No. 1 ordinary hard milling 51 1-2—52 1-2c; No. 1 hard 13 per cent protein 52 1-2@53 1-2c; 14 per cent protein 56 1-2@57 1-2c; 15 per cent protein 60 1-2@61 1-2c; 16 per cent 64 1-2@65 1-2.

Barley, No. 2, 36@38c.

Sorghums, No. 2 milo per 100 pounds 70@72c; No. 2 kaffir 70@72c.

Delivered Texas group three points. Oats: No. 2 red 23@24c.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 14. (AP)—Dampening of ardor for higher prices on grains accompanied a late selling movement today in which stock market unsettlement played a conspicuous part. The fact that wheat had risen to 7 cents a bushel higher than low prices last week, was a handicap to bulls. Before down swings began, however, fresh war rumors from across the Pacific suggested more forcibly than heretofore that Russia might be embroiled with Japan and China engaged the major attention of wheat traders, and led to flurried buying at times.

Wheat closed irregular, 3-8 cent lower to a shade advance, corn unchanged to 1-4 up, oats unchanged to 1-8 off, and provisions at a rise of 7 to 25 cents.

Lubbock Negro Is Being Held

Unidentified Prisoner Being Held In Hillsboro Prison In Connection With Murder Of Woman Here

A Lubbock negro man, whose name was not revealed, has been arrested at Hillsboro for the murder of Bertie Robinson, 32-year-old negro woman, who was stabbed to death here July 6 at the close of a negro baseball game at Merrill park, Assistant District Attorney Burton S. Burks said Wednesday.

Bettie Lou Heron, who suffered minor stab wounds in the affray, was charged with murder following the Robinson woman's death. She was released under bond to await the action of the county grand jury.

New evidence unearthed recently led officers to believe that a man, rather than the Heron woman, was responsible for the negro woman's death, Burks said.

A complaint was filed in Justice of the Peace H. K. Porter's court Wednesday against George Mayberry, Lubbock negro, charging him with testifying falsely before the grand jury in connection with the murder investigation.

Board Of Trade President Heard

HOUSTON, Oct. 14. (AP) — President James C. Murray of the Chicago board of trade, speaking here today on politics and the grain market, advocated to delegates of the grain dealers national convention that three demands should be made of the federal government, each of which he said would limit the disastrous workings of the agricultural marketing act.

"First, we should demand of our government that it discontinue for all time, directly or indirectly, the merchandising of commodities. Second, that in its efforts to assist the farmers, such advances as are made to co-operative organizations should be limited to a constructive program of education in organization and business principles. Third, that loans should be made only at reasonable banking rates, on a normal banking credit basis," Murray declared.

Unfair competition, he continued, outweighs every other factor to be considered in the tragic failure of the federal farm board policies, made possible by passage of the agricultural marketing act.

Story Of Progress Is Behind Present Sino-Jap Difficulty

Japan First To Feel An Urge To Modernize; Trouble Now At Crisis Has Been Brewing For A Long Time

(By The Associated Press)

BEHIND the present controversy between China and Japan over the latter's occupaton of Southern Manchuria lies the story of the differences developing between the two peoples in the face of the march of progress.

Until the latter half of the nineteenth century, both Japan and China were considered back numbers in the family of nations, remaining culturally and geographically separated from the rest of the world and existing more or less as medieval powers. Both were saddled with treaties giving special privileges to foreign powers with oriental interests.

Japan was first to feel the urge to westernize and modernize. However, China and Korea, the latter then being nominally an independent kingdom, did not follow Japan's path.

Korea, because of its nearness to Japan, was of special importance to the latter country because Japanese held large commercial interests there. China, which had exercised suzeralnty over Korea, objected to the Japanese expansion there and because of this the two great eastern nations went to war in 1894.

Japanese forces drove Chinese troops back through Manchuria and Shantung and were opening the way to Peking when China sued for peace. Under the peace treaty, Korea was made completely independent of China.

Ten years after the beginning of the Sino-Japanese war, Russia, which already had established interests in Manchuria, clashed with Japan over conflicting claims in Korea and the Russian occupation of Manchuria incidental to the Boxer trouble and the result was the Russo-Japanese war. Under the treaty which ended that conflict, Russia agreed to recognize Japan's supremacy in Korea.

Japan's extension of interest in Manchuria since that time has been considerable. She has about $1,000,000,000 invested there and about 1,000,000 Japanese subjects live in Manchuria. Russia also is extensively interested in Manchuria.

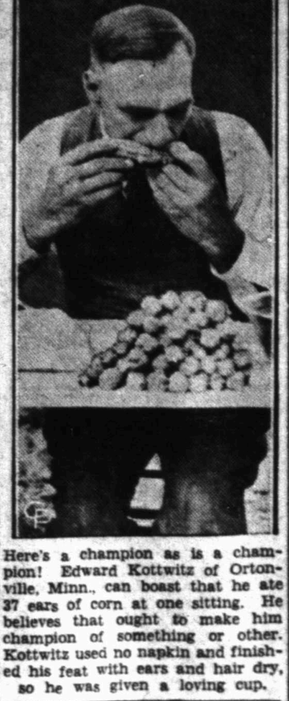

China's discomfiture at the losses growing out of these events was renewed in 1915 with the presentation by Japan of her famous "twenty-one demands" relating to the interests of the latter in Chinese territory. One by one these demands were superseded, however, and at present only five of them are in effect.

Sino-Japanese relations were stirred again in 1919 by the settlement of Japan's interest in Shantung under the Versailles treaty. Japan was given certain vested interests in the Shantung area. This resulted in a boycott of Japanese goods in China which lasted until 1922, when the Shantung affair was adjusted.

Then present trouble had been brewing for months. Japanese and Koreans rioted in Korea and Manchuria as the result of racial disputes. Chinese troops executed a Japanese in Mongolia as a spy, although he bore permission from the Nanking government to be in Chinese territory.

On September 18 the Japanese occupied Mukden, Manchuria, after a battle with Chinese soldiers which allegedly had started when the latter attempted to destroy a bridge of the Japanese operated South Manchurian railway. The occupation was extended to other cities. China appealed to the League of Nations. Japan repeatedly disavowed any territorial ambitions in Manchuria and defended the occupation on the ground that such was necessary to protect its extensive interests there.

Dr. Jack Lewis Speaks To Club

People of today are experiencing unusual conditions for their generation but it is a time when real men should rise in their might and cope with the problems of the day, Dr. Jack M. Lewis, president of the Lubbock Kiwanis club, told members of the Lubbock Rotary club Wednesday.

"It is simply a call to arms," he said. "Our country needs the loyal, undivided and cooperative support of its citizens. It is mighty easy to turn around and face this glorious flag and sing 'My Country 'Tis of Thee' when things are running along smoothly but the real test comes when times are difficult."

Wesley Read was accepted as a new member of the Rotary club. Visitors included W. T. Strange, Big Spring; Dick O'Brien, Floydada; J. S. Hilliard, Littlefield; Tom Overby and John Prye of Slaton, out-of-town Rotarians, and E. V. Spence, city manager of Big Spring.

Earl Earp Speaks For Legionnaires At Lamesa Confab

(Special To The Avalanche)

LAMESA, Oct. 14.—Earl V. Earp of Sweetwater, Texas commander of the American Legion, told members of the Allen Houston post that the press of the nation misrepresented the Legion's stand on prohibition at the national convention at Detroit.

The state commander assisted in the installation of officers of the Lamesa unit.

The Legion did not vote in favor of repeal or light wines and beer, but did ask for a referendum, Earp said. Earp led the Texas vote in convention for continuance of prohibition.

Describing the United States as the least prepared, for war, of all nations, the Texas commander attributed the loss of thousands of lives and millions of dollars in the World war to the condition. He quoted figures to show that the legion was seeking money from the United States government only to aid in relieving unemployment. The Legion's work for the unemployed this year was greater than that of any other American organization, Earp asserted.

Louis B. Reed, Lamesa attorney, was installed as new commander of the post here. H. Richardson is retiring commander.

Earp spoke after an airplane trip from Oklahoma City to Sweetwater and an automobile dash over muddy roads from Sweetwater to Lamesa in a single day.

Experiments on himself with a new form of rubber mask for administering oxygen and gas are believed to have caused the death of Dr. Gilbert Blurton, who recently was found dead in his room in West Bridfford, England, with the mask over his face.
