Airplane Bandits Object Of Search In Oklahoma

United States Department of Justice Joins Search for Yeggs, Believed Bank Robbers

(By Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Sept. 18.—United States Department of Justice officials entered the search tonight for airplane bandits who stole a plane at Elk City, Oklahoma, this morning and were believed to have been implicated in the $18,500 robbery of the Lincoln National Bank and Trust company at Lincoln, Nebr., yesterday.

Assuming jurisdiction under the recent ruling of the federal circuit court of appeals which placed interstate transportation of stolen airplanes under the federal motor theft acts, Roy St. Lewis, district attorney, spread a federal net over Oklahoma and adjoining states in an effort to capture the men.

An OX-5 powered Travelair biplane owned by Walter D. Mauk, flying instructor, was stolen from its hangar at the Elk City airport at about 5 o'clock this morning and an attendant at the Curtiss-Wright airport here said he believed it was the same machine that landed here later in the morning. The pilot attempted to purchase gasoline and took off to the north after being informed the gasoline pump was locked.

Mauk found maps indicating the thieves had traveled by automob'le from Horton, Kansas, to Hays Kansas, and that they presumably divided there.

Aviatrix Dies As Ship Falls

Ruth Alexander Crashes Into Hill After Takeoff on Hop After New Record; Broken Body Found in Wreckage

(By The Associated Press)

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Sept. 18. — Ruth Alexander, noted aviatrix, died today in the crash of her low wing light monoplane only a few minutes after her takeoff from Lindbergh field for Wichita, Kansas, and New York, in search of a new speed record for her sex.

The cause of the accident could not be determined. Possibly she lost her bearings in the low early morning fog sweeping in from the ocean. Her plane was seen flying close to the ground after she had climbed 500 feet above the field. A moment later it plunged into a hill four miles north of the airport.

FIREMAN INJURED

Slight Damage Caused as Two Trains Run Together

HOUSTON, Sept. 18. (AP)—O. R. Hayes, fireman, was slightly injured early today in the collision of two Missouri Pacific passenger trains about six miles south of Odem near here. Hayes hurt an arm and an ankle when he jumped from the cab of his train No. 16.

Both trains virtually had stopped when they collided and only the pilots on the engines were damaged, not even the headlights being broken, according to Mallory McDonald, Missouri Pacific official, who was on the northbound train.

McDonald declared the mishap, which involved northbound train No. 16 and southbound train No. 13 was due to the engineer of the former passing his meeting point with No. 13.

Motorcade Promises to Be the Largest Yet Conducted in Interest of Approaching Exposition Here

NORTHWESTERN and western sectors of the South Plains will be toured today by the third 1930 Lubbock friendship caravan advertising the Panhandle-South Plains fair. A group of about 150 persons is scheduled to leave on the booster journey at 7:30 o'clock this morning.

Towns in which stops will be made and short programs presented include: Shallowater, Anton, Littlefield, Amherst, Sudan, Muleshoe—where the trippers will have lunch, Morton, Lehman, Biedsoe, Whiteface, Levelland, Snyder and Hurlwood.

Promises of about 35 automobiles for the motorcade have been received and persons desiring to make the trip, although without means of transportation, were inivted by R. F. Bayless, chairman of arrangements, to assemble at the city hall at 7:15 o'clock this morning and join the group.

Mr. Bayless particularly urged that women become trippers for the day. Today's goodwill caravan probably will be the largest and the tour the least tiring of the four planned, said Mr. Bayless. Several women had indicated Thursday that they expected to be in the motorcade.

Women Lead in India Disorder

Two Hundred and Fifty Hurt In Strong Picketing Effort By Nationalists; Volunteers Are Beateen by Police

(By The Associated Press)

BOMBAY, India, Sept. 18. — The strongest nationalist picketing effort to recent date caused injury today to 250 persons, many of them women, beaten with police sticks before the Bombay town hall in which legislative elections were being held.

The women led the movement. There were 382 women arrested and only 18 men. Tonight, after they had spent the day as prisoners, the women were released but the men were not.

Scenes reminiscent of salt raids in the early summer before the monsoon put an end to that branch of activity of the followers of Mahatma Gandhi were enacted when the constabulary made charges after charge to clear away the obstructionists who sought to prevent voters from reaching the polling place.

Women volunteers clad in orange garb played a prominent role in the amazing events during the polling for three legislative council seats allotted to the Bombay south general constituency. From 8 o'clock this morning until 6 this evening the disorders recurred at intervals. Each time the police cleared the streets new picketers appeared.

Date for the next convention will be set by the executive committee.

Fear Foul Play For Texas Pair

SHAMROCK, Sept. 18. (AP)—Relatives expressed fear today that foul play had befallen Lee Bailey, 24, and Elmer Wingett, 35, brother-in-law, who left Paducah Sept. 5 for Shamrock.

Mrs. R. L. Bailey, mother of Lee, has been seriously ill and physic'ans feared she would not recover unless her son returned.

Wingett, a plasterer, went to Quanah from here Sept. 2 to work, accompanied by Bailey. Mrs. Wingett was told over the phone three days later they were returning to Shamrock. Nothing has been heard from them since.

They were driving a new automobile.

County Judges Divided Over Lateral Roads

Texas Officials Argue Over Whether Counties Should Receive Part of Gas Tax for Rural Road Work

(By The Associated Press)

FORT WORTH, Sept. 18. — County officials of Texas are divided on the question of weather counties should receive a share of the state gasoline tax for lateral road construction. A majority of speakers before the session today of the County Judges and Commissioners Association of Texas declared themselves unmistakably opposed to "robbing" the state highway commission of a part of the gasoline tax for lateral roads.

Many in favor of state aid for lateral roads did not speak. These officials, however, expressed themselves by heckling County Judge Oscar Dancy of Brownville who expressed the most extreme views on the subject.

A round table discussion was led by County Judge William McGehee of Floydada on consolidation of the questions: "The relation of lateral roads to highways and what is to be done with them," and "should the counties receive a part of the gasoline tax for lateral road usage?"

At the opening, County Judge J. C. Strong, Panola county, association president, declared relief is needed for lateral highway construction. He pointed out that his county in east Texas, has 700 miles of lateral roads with hundreds of bridges and with only $16,000 available each year for maintenance.

Judge McGehee, declared the state received three cents out of the four cent tax on gasoline and that this fund is the chief source for financing the construction of state highways. He took the position that the fund for lateral roads is more abundantly provided than that for the connected system of highways.

It was pointed out by Judge McGehee, that the smaller counties now receive more money for lateral road maintenance than ever before. He appealed to the officials not to cripple the efforts of the state highway officials to put the highway system on a solid basis of financing.

Arcos Happy Over Last Minute Stay

HUNTSVILLE, Sept. 18. (AP)—Notified that Governor Moody had postponed his execution for a month to allow a sanity trial, Luz C. Arcos, convicted Medina county slayer, broke his silence this afternoon to say "I'm awful thankful to everybody."

Twice, now, last minute clemency has come. Arcos, convicted of killing Joe Barrientes of Hondo Christmas Day of 1929, was to have been executed a wee kago tonight but only a few hours before the time set Governor Moody telephoned a week's respite at the request of a priest. Today the Mexican again was close to death when the reprieve was granted. He would have been electrocuted shortly after midnight.

Barrientes, according to testimony, was slain over an argument concerning a bottle of milk sold to Arcos' son, which Arcos contended was soured.

Coastguards Search Waters of Southwest for Survivors, Believed to Have Foundered On Coast

(By The Associated Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18 — Coastguard craft searched the waters of the Pacific southwest of Cape Blanco, Oregon, today for survivors of the lumber schooner South Coast, believed foundered with the captain and crew of 18 men.

The South Coast left Crescent City, California, northbound Tuesday afternoon in a heavy fog and was not seen again. Wreckage from the vessel, an empty lifeboat, a floating deckhouse and many logs were found scattered on the sea.

Coast Dreaded

Captain Stanley Sorenson, master of the vessel, was said by relatives here to have dreaded the South Coast of Oregon, considered very treacherous. The crew all signed on from the San Francisco bay region.

The South Coast, one of the oldest vessels in coastwise service, was built in 1887 and remodeled. It carried 100,000 feet of cedar.

Members of the crew included Captain Sorenson, A. J. Tallaksen, first mate; W. N. Stanbourge, second mate; W. J. Baird, chief engineer; F. J. Efford, assistant engineer; Crist Larsen, Harry Lukkas, Ludvig Olson, John Sundman, John Davis, Benjamin Hanso, Mattie Dahl and Lauritz Hoem, Able seamen; Evird Ellingson, George Newlands and Gust Osborn, firemen; Rudolph Gramstad, Winchman, and Robert Hayes, Galleyman. He was expected to make an announcement within several days relative to opening of the barrel and box plant.

To Bring 20 Families

When Mr. Camp and A. J. Bowie, another representative of the Capital City company, were here last month and announced selection of Lubbock as a factory location, it was said that about 20 families of skilled labor would be brought here in connection with the plant, while a comparatively large number of others would be given employment.

The Capital City company's factory will be virtually the only one of the kind in West Texas, boxes and barrels used here in the past having been manufactured in Fort Worth and other cities farther removed from this section.

Mr. Camp's wife and three children also will reside here.

Hoodlum Drive Under Way on Chicago Gangs

Twenty-Six "Public Enemies" Object of Intensive Hunt by Officers; Brother of Al Capone Is Picked Up

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—The huntsmen pounded through the brush of Chicago's nether world today in search of "public enemies" and found their birds had flown.

But one was flushed, Matthew Capone, youngest brother of the best known quartet of Chicago gangland, who has no criminal record.

Youth Picked Up

A police squad watching the Capone home for a chance to pick up "Scarface Al" or Ralph, whose names adorn the list of 26 wanted on vagrancy warrants in the latest drive to expel hoodlums from Chicago, gathered in the youngest brother as he stepped from his automobile.

Over the pleas of Mrs. Theresa Capone that Matthew was a "good boy and hasn't done anyone any harm," they took him to the lockup, examined his automobile and decided if nothing else could be found against the 21 year old he would be charged with driving without a city vehicle tag.

Fined for Speeding

Matthew's only offenses have been such charges as speeding, including an arrest in Philadelphia while attending Villanova college during the prison term of his brother Alhponse for carrying a revolver.

Danny Stanton, Capone follower and the only one of the 26 wanted hoodlums now in custody, asked jury trials today on the assortment of charges lodged against him.

The board of strategy of the anti-racket campaign determined on unconditional surrender of the racketeers today when Judge John H. Lyle reported emissaries of some of the "public enemies" had sought to negotiate their surrender on favorable conditions.

Two Convicts Are Stabbed to Death

HUNTSVILLE, Sept. 18. (AP)—Using dirks, two inmates of the Texas penitentiary stabbed each other to death last night on the Ferguson state farm. Penitentiary officials were unable to say what started the fight.

Elmer Butler with only three months of a four years' sentence for assault to murder to serve, died instantly when the blade of a knife in the hands of Volmer Tinney penetrated to his heart. Butler was sent up from—Johnson county. Tinney, serving 25 years from Wilson county for robbery by firearms, died several hours later in the prison hospital here. He had received deep knife wounds in his abdomen, inflicted by a knife wielded by Butler, prison authorities said.

The fight started on a top bunk in the cell house, prisoners said. The men fought strenuously on the bunk, they said, then fell to the floor clinched. They broke apart and lunged at each other with dirks.

America's Cup Retained With Thrilling Win

Last of Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrocks Completely Routed as U. S. Yacht Proves Supremacy in Easy Victory

Takes Early Lead

All Records Smashed in Fourth Race of 1930 Competition For American Cup; Invader Is Given Final Blow

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEWPORT, R. I. Sept. 18. (AP)—In a race that smashed all records for America's cup competition, Enterprise today completed the rout of the last of Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrocks on the high seas and the classic emblem of world yachting supremacy remains safely in the custody of Uncle Sam for the 80th year since it was captured in British waters.

The slim, white and bronze-bodied cup defender, beautifully sailed by her millionaire skipper, Harold Stirling Vanderbilt, ran away from Shamrock V in the first 10 miles of the 30 mile triangular course. Thus she settled matters before the contest was a third over.

Has Little Trouble

The American sloop had little trouble holding enough margin to capture the fourth and deciding race of the series, concluded in choppy seas and with a breeze that blew up to 18 knots, tilting the racers at a rakish angle.

Enterprise was the victor by exactly five minutes and 17 seconds, covering the course in the record time of three hours, 10 minutes, 13 seconds.

Th's was not only by far the fastest race of the 1930 series, but was the fastest 30 miles ever sailed in the 60 years since the British first challenged for the cup in American waters in 1870.

Lead Not Overcome

The winner's margin today of nine minutes on the first leg, beat to windward, in which she left Shamrock a mile and a half astern, clinched the race and was more than sufficient to offset the substantial gains of the challenger in the two subsequent legs.

The big green sloop, fin'shing with her best exhibition, closed more than a half mile of the gap in the reach to the 20 mile mark. She footed along beautifully and cont'nued to gain on the run home, but she did not have a chance to overhaul her distant rival. Shamrock's elapsed time was 3:15:30.

Enterprise swept majestically across the finishing mark, her sa'ls full-bellied and her crew alertly at their posts, in a characteristic display of efficiency, regardless of the siren blasts of victor'ous acclamation in their ears and the knowledge that the cup was clinched.

Final Blow To Lipton

Not only was the sweeping triumph of Enterprise a final blow to the hopes of Lipton, a keen disappo'ntment to the thousands who had for sentiment's sake hoped he would at last come through to a win, but it was a climax to the smashing series of setbacks administered to Brit'sh challengers by

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN
Avalanche Woman's Editor

WITHIN a week two girls have told me that they are hunting other jobs because they can't continue for their present salaries. And each has been informed that she cannot expect a larger wage where she is now employed, even though she becomes more proficient in her work.

"I don't mind staying now for the same salary if I thought there would be a possibility of a raise later, but I find that I cannot expect more in this place," one said to me last night and she is proficient, I know.

This is no new story. In eevry office, virtually, there are girls doing as much as the men but they are not able to demand a sufficient salary because of age-old prejudices. I heard one man say recently that no girl can be worth $150 a month to a firm and yet he pays men more than that, who are doing work identical with that the women in his office are doing.

This situation has little to do with general financial conditions in the country, it is a constant one. Among school teachers, particularly, where men and women are in parallel positions, there is a lot of discussion. Yet, men are usually the higher paid.

Excepting a few who have unusual positions, few working women in Lubbock are paid much more than a hundred dollars monthly and yet the business of the city is dependent to a large extent upon their skill.

The rush of women into commercial fields has been the cause of this situation to a large extent. They had not been acustomed to working outside the home and many have hurried out of the public schools into business schools to receive hasty training to enter, particularly, stenographic and secretarial positions for which they have been only superficially trained They cannot spell, they do not know the meaning of words well enough to transcribe an intelligent letter from their notes following dictation, they have not had the contacts that will give them the proper poise in a business house, and cannot be of much value to their employer.

Yet there are so many of these who are willing to work for practically no wage at all that the woman who is trained is not given as much opportunity as she deserves.

The prejudice against women workers is dying, however, as women are proving their worth in many positions and within a few years this campaign will be won as women have won in their other fights for rights.

IT IS UNIVERSAL

To hear a prayer in a foreign language, or a sermon, is to me one of the most impressive notes in religion. The effeciveness of reading a passage of scripture in her native language by a German woman was felt by women in the Asbury Methodist Women's Missionary society this week.

To most of us, I am sure, religion smacks of our native language because that has been the instrument through which we have learned it, but all the sermons I have ever heard did not leave the feeling of wonder with me that I had one Sunday years ago when I attended a Mexican mission service for the first time.

It was a hot summer day and there was to be a mission service in a squalid Mexican community. The gathering was in a dirty one-room school house and, as is typical of the race, the men and women and children were packed in the room—women and children on one side ad men along the opposite wall—waiting with stolidity for the services to begin. Finally, a poorly dressed Mexican went to the front and started a song.

It was a familiar tune but I could not recognize a word. The peculiar minor voices of the race sang but poorly the hymns and then, at a soft word from the leader, heads were bowed and the leader turned his face upward with closed eyes to utter his invocation in a language of which I understood practically nothing. It was then that I knew for the first time that there is no language in religion and that words are just things to which we cling and which do not tell an infinite being anything at all.

Across the U.S.A. and back 7180 miles IN REVERSE!

A triumph for the NEW "CRACK-PROOF" TEXACO

DRIVE a few yards in reverse gear. Notice how the engine races. Notice what a pull it places on your motor! Then imagine driving across the entire continent, from New York to Los Angeles and back—all the way in reverse!

That's exactly what the "back-up" boys, world's champion reverse drivers, did with a Ford at a speed of 10 to 12 miles an hour. This is equal, according to Ford authorities, to 50 to 60 miles in high gear.

Success depended upon perfect lubrication

Practically all radiator ventilation and fan cooling were eliminated by driving backward. Their engine speed, equivalent to 50 to 60 miles in high gear, was maintained for 42 consecutive days. The abnormal engine heat was intensified to almost scorching proportions on the Great Salt Lake Desert, where the thermometer registered 121° F. Anything less than perfect lubrication would have spelled disaster.

FACTS

The driver—James C. Hargis, 26, St. Louis Interior Decorator.

Car—a new Ford roadster equipped with rear headlights. The forward gears were taken out so that it was impossible to drive any way but backward.

Conditions—Drove from New York to Los Angeles and back, 7180 miles, in reverse gear.

Products used—The same new crack-proof Texaco Motor Oil and "dry" Texaco Gasoline sold in all our 48 States.

Crack-proof Texaco meets every test

After they had conducted many comparative tests they selected the new crack-proof Texaco as the one motor oil most likely to withstand the terrific heat and engine strain. And once again the new Texaco has lived up to every expectation—has proved its longer-lasting qualities that will not break down under any driving conditions.

Modern engines demand an extra margin of protection. They demand better lubrication. Car owners demand lower oil consumption, smoother, quieter engines and freedom from carbon.

The new crack-proof Texaco Motor Oil and Texaco-Ethyl, the "dry" Ethyl Gasoline, provide all these advantages. Wherever you may be, stop at the first Texaco Service Station—where you see the Texaco Red Star with the Green T.

ONE MINUTE PULPIT

And this is his commandment, That we should believe on the name of his Son Jesus Christ, and love one another, as he gave us commandment.

And he that keepeth his commandments dwelleth in him, and he in him. And hereby we know that he abideth in us, by the spirit which he hath given us.—I John, iii, 23, 24.

RAPID GROWTH OF AIR MAIL

POSTAL matter lends itself so readily to aircraft transportation that the growth of the air mail has been both steady and rapid. Several years ago the postoffice department blazed the way. Gradually it built up the business until, when it was turned over to private capital, it was a going concern. At the present time most of the air mail lines are operating at a profit.

It is probable that the first transoceanic air lines will depend largely upon the transport of mail and express matter for their sustenance. Eventually, of course, they may develop a large passenger traffic, but that will not come until it has been demonstrated that planes can cross the ocean in safety and on schedule time.

Already several propects are afoot for regular commercia ltransatlantic flying, all of which are counting on mail contracts. Congress last spring had before it a bill fixing the postal rate for transoceanic air mail. Perhaps, that bill was not so premature as some congressmen thought.

A large part of America's mail is now being transported by air. Since the "cut rates" became effective the volume of air mail has grown by leaps and bounds. The air mail carriers frequently find it necessary to run their mail trains of the air in sections because of the large volume of mail matter. Now that the people trust their mail and express to the air, it is but a short step to trusting their lives.

Right here in Lubbock, and throughout the South Plains, patronage of air mail is increasing to a marked degree, despite the fact that the section's lethargy in air transport matters has thus far excluded any regularly operated lines. Within another year, when Lubbock may be expected to have one or more air lines radiating from it, the business should be more than doubled over its present size.

Air transportation is here to stay, and we'd just as well face it. A few more years will find trans-Atlantic mail service no more of an oddity than ordinary air mail is today.

ANTIQUATED METHODS

An advertising man caused a stir in life insurance circles some time ago by a vigorous assault not only upon its sales methods but also upon the general attitude of insurance companies toward the public. He assumed that people need life insurance badly, and if the companies would advertise more extensively and adopt less of a sphinxlike, frozen-faced attitude toward the public, customers would step right up to the counter and buy insurance the way they buy postage stamps or railroad tickets. He seemed to feel that the costly and extensive agency or salesmanship system might be improved upon.

The sale of life insurance is not wholly unlike the sale of other commodities. Advertising can and does help enormously. It furnishes the salesman a background, and the more extensively people learn to know what insurance means through advertising, the less mere footwork the salesman must do and the more he becomes a true financial doctor. This fact is recognized and utilized by many progressive companies.

There is still an almost hopeless amount of educational work to be done to make the public insurance-wise. How to do it is the problem. Let advertising do it. Every other business educates its public through the medium of advertising. It can do as much for life insurance.

Contrary to popular belief, there are still a few enterprises which have yet to discover the power of advertising. They have survived only because of their indispensability.

WITHHOLDING THE SECRET

Strive as they may to refrain from lese majesty, the American people must at times give vent to mirth under provocation of the antics and pretensions of their public servants and politicians. To take them seriously would be the greater sin.

In Pennsylvania's heated gubernatorial contest former Governor Gifford Pinchot, zealously bidding for four more years in the state house, promises relief from the drought, unemployment and the business depression if elected governor.

The inference is that if the suffering Pennsylvania farmers, jobless and business men deny him their votes the secret of relief—his panacea for the economic ills of the commonwealth—will remain forever sealed in Pinchot's fertile mind.

Doctor Pinchot's ethics are not quite those of the medical and scientific world, which consider as public property every great humanitarian discovery and invention. He will save mankind, but at his price.

STEWART SYMPATHIZES WITH VISITORS WHO TOTE PLUG HATS ACROSS OCEAN TO FIND THEM NOT NEEDED HERE

By Charles P. Stewart
(Central Press Staff Writer)

ASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Anyone who ever encumbered himself with a plug hat on a long trip (especially a trip involving many changes, from boat to train, from train to train and back again, with the infernal stovepipe to worry about every time) will be certain to sympathize with the British and French delegations of guests at the American Bar association's recent meeting, who brought their toppers all the way across the Atlantic, only to find blue serge sack coats and white flannel pants "de rigeur" at the White House reception in their honor.

Does a silk tile do to wear in combination with such a get-up? Well, hardly!

Accordingly, back went a score or so of elegant beaver lids to Europe, never once out of their hat-boxes on this side of the water; or, if any of them were taken out at all, it was for some other occasion than the most important one on which their owners had expected to wear them.

An experienced traveler can pack almost anything but a plug hat into comparatively small compass.

I myself, have journeyed, all on the same expedition, as far as from London to Constantinople and return, including short stopovers in Paris, Munich, Vienna, Budapest, Belgrade, Sofia and Bucharest, with every necessary appurtenance compressed into an easily-portable suitcase—save and excepting the stovepipe hat needed, to complete my "ensemble," when calling on cabinet ministers, generals, prominent revolutionists and miscellaneous notabilities.

A plug lid, however, simply cannot survive transport in a suitcase or a trunk or any other type of container except a large sole leather cylinder, especially constructed to protect it.

A hat-box is not heavy, but it is a bulky, awkward thing to handle, always coming unfastened also, flopping open and threatening to spill the hat out.

It is an extra piece of baggage, anyway.

Besides, to an American tourist (maybe not to a European, because of his different training) it is a constant source of irritation—the darn box and its contents seem so utterly redundant.

Yet a topper is not, in fact, redundant—not in Europe, that is to say.

There it is as essential as a pair of trousers, for an appearance in official society—a topper and a frock coat. Any other sartorial deficiency, perhaps, will be pardoned, as an oversight or an accident—but never the omission of a japanned sky-piece, or cock-tails.

Ah, that trip I took to Constantinople!—now called Istanbul.

Unused to old world travel's hazards, I had risked carrying my starched millinery in the pasteboard box I originally bought it in, and a frontier guard at Adrianopolis accidentally grounded his rifle butt through the top of it when I set it down on the station platform to get out my passport.

It was a tense situation.

Due in the then Ottoman capital in a couple of hours, I already was dated to interview the foreign minister, Hilmi Pasha, immediately on arrival—actually had donned my tail-coat in transit—and here was my plug hat with the crown gone out of it—no time to scare up another and much too important a potentate to be kept waiting.

Turkey was the only country in Europe in which there was a means of escape from such a dilemma in those days.

But that was a long while ago. Abdul Hamid still reigned. President Kemal Pasha (with his post-war decree excluding all but occidental styles in head gear from the present republic) had not so much as been heard of. The fez was stip-top form for any occasion. Indeed, it was deemed a mark of courtesy in a "gaiour" to wear one, calling on a Moslem functionary.

The apologetic guard surrendered his—for a consideration. It was not a very fancy one, but it passed muster at Hilmi's.

Now, however, Turkish officialdom is the most plugged hatted anywhere.

NERVOUS TEMPERAMENT IS OFTEN SEVERE HANDICAP TO WORKER

By Dr. Morris Fishbein, Editor Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

Two hundred years after the beginning of the Christian era, a famous physician named Galen described what is now called the nervous temperament. Indeed, it was customary in those days to classify all men according to their constitutions. With the beginning of modern scientific medicine less attention was paid to this point of view and more attention was concentrated on the study of individual tissues and organs and of the blood.

More recently medicine has again begun to concentrate on the human being as a whole, including the mind and the body as a single working unit. It is recognized that people vary as to their amounts of nervous energy and responses to various situations.

In many instances the glands of internal secretion regulate the action of human beings. We recognize the dynamic types. It is definitely understood that the hyperthyroid type is quick, nervous and emotional, and the hypothyroid type rather stolid and slow.

When all of the tissues of the body function well, the attitude toward life is one of cheerfulness and content. With the beginning of imperfection of function of any organ or tissue or with the incidence of infection, the mental attitude toward life may become exceedingly sour. Fear is an emotion which destroys happiness.

In an attempt to define nervous temperament, Dr. May Smith has studied it from every possible point of view, and her results have recently been made available in the British Journal of Medical Psychology. She was concerned particularly with the nervous temperament as it affects the life of the worker in industry.

The worker of nervous temperament cannot work in the midst of noise and confusion. The nervous person tends to be away more because of sickness than those who are less nervous. Nervous people do not inevitably break down, so that there is a distinction between nervous symptoms and nervous disability.

A nervous person working under some conditions may go on for many years, whereas under different conditions he or she soon becomes unable to continue. A typist who has symptoms, working in a room alone, is rarely disturbed and gets along satisfactorily. The same typist who may fear too much supervision, working in a large room with many other typists and a supervisor, develops an acute mental discomfort, makes numerous mistakes and as a result of her mistakes loses her position.

Laundry workers do not break down easily because the responsibility is less. A girl who has ironed 30 shirts knows they are ironed and worries little about the effect of the iron on public life. A typist who goes home worrying whether or not she has sent a letter to Cleveland when she meant Chicago can lose an entire night's sleep because of the fear of the result.

Nervous people on the average tend to be away from work more and to be less efficient and to develop occupational disturbances more than those who are not nervous. Some people are temperamentally unsuited for certain jobs and it is desirable that they be diverted into those which are suitable for them, if possible.

The Hollywood Story

COPYRIGHT 1930 by NEA SERVICE Inc. by ERNEST LYNN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

DAN RORIMER, a scenario writer in Hollywood, is in love with ANNE WINTER, who, beginning as an extra is now under contract to one of the largest studios. Anne lives with two other girls, MONA MORRISON, a gay little red head, and EVA HARLEY, a quiet girl who has had a tragic love experience. Eva and Mona are extras, but Mona works only occasionally and Eva very rarely, and this is another reason for her despondency.

PAUL COLLIER, who writes a daily movie column for a string of newspapers, shares Dan's apartment with him. Collier accidentally meets Eva on Hollywood Boulevard one day, and they run into a movie actor named FRANK MAURY. At sight of Eva Maury colors and hurries away and Eva almost faints. Collier takes her home. Late that night Anne Winter telephones to come right over.

Eva has tried to take poison.

Mona has prevented it, but Eva is struggling when he arrives. The doctor advises that Eva be taken to the hospital, and the next day she is reported improved. That same day Collier encounters Maury, who is the man who has broken Eva's heart, and he pulls his nose.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXIX

"You big brute," said Dan, and he sat on Collier's bed and laughed, and watched the other's agonizing struggle with his collar button.

"Johnny tells me the story's all over Hollywood," Dan said. "Here, let me fix that collar for you before you tear it apart."

Paul sighed in relief as Dan snapped the intractable collar in place. He said, with some concern: "I sure hope it doesn't get to Eva. I wouldn't like that a bit."

"Who saw it?"

Why, there were two or three people around, I guess. I didn't pay much attention. I told him I wanted to see him privately, but he tried to duck it; so I put it up to him right there." Paul stopped and went to work on his tie.

"Aw, tell me what happened, will you?" Dan cried in exasperation.

"That's all. He said it wasn't any of my business, and I said, 'Yes, Frank, I guess that's right, only I thought it was king of funny'; and then he tried to tell me where I headed in. He thought he could get away with it, but he made a mistake."

"Good!" Dan exclaimed, and he glanced into Paul's mirror to straighten his own tie. "He didn't try to take a punch at you, did he?"

And Paul grunted, "No such luck." But Dan, surveying the other's long arms and broad shoulders fondly, thought: "I'm glad Paul didn't hit him." Frank Maury had it coming, all right, but he was glad Paul had not got into trouble.

They went for Maria Farrell, and Rorimer for Anne.

A Hollywood "opening" is ballyhoo triumphant. It is a magnificent exaggeration, an implausible thing born of press agentry and vanity. It is a piece of night as light as a thousand suns, and a procession of smiling masks flanked by roped-off adulation.

"It reminds me," said Dan as the roadster turned a corner and they beheld the great glare, "of a piece of magnesium ribbon burning in the dark."

And Anne smiled and agreed. "Except that it's much noisier."

He parked the car a block away and they loitered along in the shadows, watching the mass of curious ones on either side of the long canopy that stretched from curb to entrance. Names were hurled at the crowd through a flourishing megaphone, and there was applause; and half way down the line of march was a radio announcer with his microphone who did duty for his invisible public.

Dan said, tightening his hold on Anne's arm: "It won't be long now until they're shouting your name through that thing and asking you to step up to the mike and say hello to your fans."

"You're such a comfort, Dan, Anne said, and she laughed.

They were later than Maria Farrell and Collier, and Maria was elated because she had been "announced."

"The little girl got a big hand," Paul declared. "I feel like a big shot myself now . . . . There's Garry Sloan."

Anne swung her head, following his gaze. "Where, Paul?"

"Across the aisle there. See him? I believe he's alone—no, that's Hedrick with him, the head man at Grand United."

During intermission they ran into Sloan outside. The director paused to pay Anne a smiling compliment on her appearance and Collier introduced the others. Sloan murmured a few words and someone touched him on the shoulder then and he nodded and moved away.

"Seems funny not to see Sylvia Patterson with him," Paul murmured. "That was kind of tough on Sloan when Sylvia got married right after his wife divorced him."

But Maria nodded her head and said wisely: "I don't think Garry was in love with Sylvia—not really. He just thought he was, I think".

Four Oklahoma Men Named In Bribery Count

Contractors are Charged In Connection With Alleged Alteration of 17 Sewerage And Paving Bids

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 18. (AP)—Four Oklahoma City contractors were charged with bribery today in connection with the alleged alteration of 17 sewerage and paving bids, in complaints filed by George M. Callihan, Oklahoma county attorney.

The charges named Charles Swatek, official of M. A. Swatek and company; E. R. Koller, head of Koller Construction company; Joe Tibey, of the Tibey Construction company and W. S. Clark of Earl Baker and company.

The complaints were signed by Malcolm McKenzie, city counselor, and Callihan. They were filed after Harry V. Becker, former assistant city engineer, signed a sworn statement that he had changed and lowered bids for certain contractors. Becker, who was discharged three months ago after the alteration of bids had been discovered, declared no one else in the city's employ was responsible and that each of the contractors thought he was the only one being favored.

The discovery was made by Francis G. Baker, city auditor. His audit disclosed that 12 sewer bids and five paving bids had been changed after they had been opened by the city council. The bids had been in the custody of Becker.

All of the contractors benefitted denied any knowledge of the alterations and agreed to make full refunds, amounting to about $4,300.

Westerners Open Season Against Colorado High Today

Memphis Chicks Helpless As Cats Win Second, 4 To 1

Lubbock High Gridsters In Shape to Win

Three Weeks of Training Has Enabled Westerners to Take Field Today With Favor On Their Side; Wolves Strong

And so today the Westerners, the Lubbock High School Westerners, start their playing season for 1930. At 3:45 this afternoon the knickerbockered referee will blow the whistle that sounds the beginning of what may terminate in one of the greatest football seasons, if not the greatest season, ever recorded by a Lubbock team.

Probable Starting Lineup.
Colorado	Pos.	Lubbock
Soper	L. End	Watson
Smith	L. Tackle	McCasland
Dunn	L. Guard	McGehee
Haines	Center	Scoggins
Crawford	R. Guard	Grigg
Joyce	R. Tackle	Brawley
Harlow	R. End	Martin
Mann, C.	Quarter	Lawson, C.
Burrows	L. Half	Watkins,C
Ambrey	R. Half	Johnson
Floyd	Full	Teal

Westerners Are Popular

In every part of Texas where high school football is known, the Lubbock Westerners have come in for a goodly share of comment as the dope bucket is passed around for the observation of all who take interest in the state high school race. Most of the comment is based on the showing made by the Westerners of 1929, and so far the 1930 aggregation has not lived up to everything that is expected of it by the sensation loving public.

The game today with the Colorado High school Wolves will bring out numerous points of weakness and strength of the Westerners, and whether the Lubbock team makes a good or a poor showing today need be no criterion of the season's work. Although they are favorites to win with no great degree of trouble, the Westerners may find a stone wall in the Wolves' line and may have no defense for the aerial attack which the visitors are sure to launch.

Second Game For Wolves

Today's game will not be the first of the season for the Wolves. How well do the Abilene Eagles, contenders for the Oil Belt title know it! One week ago today the Wolves swept down on the collegiate little city which claims San Angelo as a suburb and vice versa and for three gruelling periods of football held the upper hand over the Eagles and all but defeated them with a sensational passing attack that was stopped late in the fourth quarter.

Although the above lineup will run more or less according to print, there are others who are almost certain to see service in the game today. The backfield may have the chance to go all the way, but there will be numerous changes in the Westerner forward wall.

For instance, Pace and Crawford have been making determined bids for the pivot position, and the day may see both of them at center. Grigg and McGehee are appointed to start at guards, though Abbott and Welch are very likely to go in before the first half is over. At tackles will be Castle and Brawley, to begin with, but Payne and Williams will be on the side lines only for a brief time.

COLORADO, Sept. 18. (Special)—The Colorado Wolves will be accompanied to Lubbock Friday by the Colorado High School Band and some fifty business men and their families, according to announcement made here today. The band will leave Colorado at 10 o'clock, arriving at Lubbock at 2:30. J. E. Watson, superintendent, will have charge of the motorcade. Roy Hester is director of the band and claims one of the best high school bands in the state.

Watson and Martin are selected to start at ends, with Spears and Bragg ready for relief duty at any moment. All four are sure to play in the game today.

Starting Monday the Westerners will point to the opening league game next Friday with Pampa. The Harvesters will come to Lubbock with three games behind them, and practically in mid-season form. Coach Henry Frnka will concentrate his energies and those of his charges on the Harvesters next week, engaging his men in stiff scrimmages almost daily.

Klein, Simmons Gain in Bix Six

Chuck Klein and Al Simmons registered big gains in the Big Six standing yesterday, mainly through the home run route. Klein hit two homers and two lesser blows in five trips to the plate and raised his average three points to .387. Simmons gained two points with three hits in six times up.

Philadelphia Athletics Beat White Sox To Cinch American League Flag

Senators Drop Game to Indians As A's Win

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—Connie Mack led his Philadelphia Athletics to the threshold of World series gold and glory for the second consecutive season today, as they scored a 14 to 10 victory over the White Sox, while Washington was losing to Cleveland, to clinch the American league title.

A La Cornelius McGillicuddy

The 68-year-old leader — born Cornelius McGillicuddy —saw his team move into the championship port today, for the eighth time since he took charge of the club. His first triumph was in 1902 and he repeated in 1905. He waited until 1910 before his team again was able to conquer, but it won again in 1911. The years 1913 and 1914 also were his, but he wrecked his great club at the end of the latter season, and carried on for 15 years before he fashioned the club that won the title last year and followed up with World series victory over the Cubs.

Seventh Championship

The seventh championship for Mack gave Philadelphia an all-time American league record for producing winners, Boston and New York having been tied with the A's until today's climax.

The Athletics did not blaze impressively to victory today. Rather, they staggered in. George Earnshaw, one of Mack's right handed aces, was extremely wild and was removed in the third after being caught for five runs. Philadelphia tied it up in the third with a five-run assault of its own, but the Sox kept going and by the end of the sixth were leading by 10 to 9. The Athletics rose in their might in the seventh and banged in five more runs to win the ball game and the pennant.

Boston Downs Tigers In Close Contest

DETROIT, Sept. 18.—Mark Koenig, veteran shortstop, went into the Detroit-Boston game today as a relief pitcher. The Red Sox won by 4 to 3 but through no fault of Koenig. He held them scoreless during the last two innings, allowing one hit. Koenig, who was acquired from the New York Yankees on a trade this season, has been having eye trouble and today wore eye glasses in the game. He showed a good slow ball, curve and some fast ones.

Red Birds Win Over Brooklyn By 4-3 Margin

Cardinals In Good Position to Win National League Pennant; Dodgers Lack Power To Hit In Pinches; Cubs lose

(By The Associated Press)

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Sept. 18.—The fighting Cardinals of St. Louis today made it three out of three from the somewhat punch-drunk Robins of Brooklyn, winning the final game, 4 to 3. The series advanced the Red Birds to a position of odds-on favorites in the pennant chase and, barring another astonishing upheaval in the turbulent championship season, seemed to insure their right to challenge the Athletics in the World series now just around the corner.

In the closing contest the home team outhit the visitors 8 to 5, but the safeties of the invaders were a bit more substantital than those of the home guard. St. Louis won the game with three hits, converting two triples, a home run and a base on balls into the four runs needed to sweep the board.

Burleigh Grimes, who spent nine years pitching for Brooklyn but since 1926 has been touring the National league, was tight in the pinches, while St. Louis was able to reach the delivery of Raymond (Babe) Phelps, Brooklyn youngster, when hits were vital.

Nine to Go

St. Louis has nine games left to play, the Cubs eight and the Robins seven. The Cardinals now move over to Philadelphia for five games with a double header scheduled for Saturday. Sunday gives them an off day, the series being resumed next week.

Whitworth on Mound Allows 7 Safe Slams

Teams Resort to Panthers' Field for Three Games To Start Tomorrow; Cats In Big Hitting Exhibition

(By The Associated Press)

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 18.—The Chicken walked meekly into the hungry Cat's mouth again today and the Fort Worth Panthers of the Texas league won their second straight Dixie series victory, 4 to 1, from the Memphis Chicks. Two more wins would clinch the series, the winner's money share and Fort Worth's fifth Dixie pennant.

Chicken Eating Cats

Up in the rooting section where several hundred hysterical Texas fans yelled, rang cow bells and played brass instruments, a big bass drum boomed out from a cover in which was depicted a Panther strutting along with a sadly picked Chicken in its mouth. Maybe there's a prophet down in Texas, where the teams will resume the series Saturday at Fort Worth.

Walks and errors gave the Cats yesterday's game in the eighth. Today, in the same inning, Fort Worth broke a one-all tie by means of hits and Chick errors which cleared the way for the deciding runs. Another score in the ninth merely added to the slaughter.

Whitworth Gives Six Hits

After Cox, Fort Worth left fielder, doubled to right, Manager Prothro threw Tavener's bunt high to first. On the next play Brazill dropped Meyers' liner and a prospective double play went glimmering and the bases filled. Kelly fanned Whitworth, and McDaniel grabbed Moore's grounder to force Cox at the plate. The two runs were scored on a double by Mallon, who got four hits in four times up. Prothro ended the inning by throwing out Bonowitz.

Hitting Exhibition

Fort Worth staged a hitting exhibition of first proportions, getting 13 hits while Whitworth allowed only seven.

Memphis started scoring in the second when Hutcheson's double scored Brazill. Fort Worth retaliated in the third, three singles producing one score.

Go To Fort Worth Today

Kelly struck out five and Whitworth fanned one.

The teams travel to Fort Worth tomorrow, and start a three-game schedule there Saturday. If these games don't end the tenth Dixie series, another will be played here next week.

Tahoka Wins South Plains Baseball League Title In Final Win Over Southland

Lynn County Team Wins By Score of 25 to 9, Ending Play-Off Series; Southland Uses Five Pitchers

SOUTHLAND, Sept. 18. (Special).—In the poorest exhibition of baseball seen in this section since the league was organized, Tahoka and Southland exchanged errors and lobs for nine innings in the championship game of the season. Tahoka won by the decisive score of 25 to 9, but had nothing to crow about when it was all over. By winning the game, which was the final of the five-game championship series, the Lynn County club won the title of champions of the South Plains and the $300 prize money offered the winner.

Burleson, Gregory Start

Burleson started the game on Tahoka's mound, but was relieved by Lefty Squires who finished the tilt. Southland used five pitchers in a desparate attempt to stop the slugging visitors. Cummins started, was relieved by Gregory, and Craft, Johnson, and Mosely pitched in turn.

Errors, ten by Southland and eight by Tahoka players, played an important part in the scoring. On nearly every error at least one run was made, and the comedy of errors stopped only when the curtain fell with the ninth inning.

The Tahoka sluggers hit to every part of the field, the hitter going the circuit when the ball found the wall. Home runs in nearly every inning kept the base tracks hot.

League Formed This Summer

Thus ends the 1930 South Plains baseball league season. Starting early in July with six teams forming the league, the season has been featured by the winning teams of Southland and Tahoka. In the first half of the season, Southland staged a winning streak that brought the team through in top position, with Southland coming through as runner up. For the second half, the opposite proved true. Southland sailed along on the heels of Tahoka for a time, then launched a winning spree that lasted until the team was firmly entrenched in top place. Tahoka finished the second half in second place.

When the league was organized Tahoka, Southland, Lubbock, Lamesa, Brownfield, and Levelland composed the charter members. Just prior to the close of the second half Lamesa dropped out, and Anton was elected to membership in the league.

Three American Women Survive in Canadian Tourney

MONTREAL, Sept. 18. —(AP)— Helen Hicks of Newlett, N. Y., and two of her compatriots survived quarter-final round play in the Canadian women's open golf championship today.

Joining the champion in the semi-finals were Maureen Orcutt of New York, Mrs. Harlan Higbie of Detroit and Ada MacKenzie of Toronto, sole surviving Dominion hope.

Miss Hicks eliminated Marion Bennett, of New Britain, Conn., after an unexpectedly close battle, 3 and 2. Miss Orcutt surprised the gallery with a decisive 6 and 5 triumph at the expense of Mrs. Alexa Stirling Fraser of Ottawa. Mrs. Higbie eliminated Peggy Wattles of Buffalo at the 20th hole after a bitter duel. Miss MacKenzie easily defeated Edith Quier, of Reading, Pa., 5 and 4.

RITCHIE NOMINATED

BALTIMORE, Sept. 18. (AP)—The Maryland Democratic convention today formally renominated Governor Albert C. Ritchie, unopposed for a fourth term and adopted a platform containing an anti-prohibition plank.

Why do you say that?" Dan ted to know.

Because," Maris replied, "no n can really love a woman who s his art the way—you're laugh- aren't you?" she said, and she le a face.

nd she insisted: "But Garry an is an artist—a real artist. u can dislike Garry Sloan—and hy people do, because he takes self so seriously—but he's a nderful director; you can't take away from him. If he had done picture, now," she said, mean- the one they had come to see, would have been a great picture. the best you can say for it is t it's a good one."

There you are," said Collier, and grinned at Dan. "Maris is right usual. Dan," he explained to ris, "can't see Sloan, for some on or other."

Hollywoods tin goods give me a n". Rorimer muttered. He glanc- as he spoke, at Anne Winter. Anne gave him a puzzled glance was silent.

fter the picture they went to ry's. On the way home with e, Dan said something about ing her Sunday, but she told him t Eva was to return that day m the hospital and she thought and Mona ought to spend the with her.

e began to hum a song, and he ked expectantly at Anne, hoping t she would sing; but she was in the mood. When he asked she explained that she was ed.

And still a little nervous, Dan". e knew that she still had Eva her mind.

Paul Collier had been invited to nd the week-end out of town at of the beaches. On an impulse n telephoned Maris Farrell, and Sunday he played tennis with r. Later in the afternoon they nt for a drive among the hills d then had tea at a little road- e inn.

Maris was an agreeable com- nion. He was glad that he had led her up. She made him tell about his work, and when he ame deprecating and pessimistic laughed at him.

I'm sure you're going to do some- ng really fine some time. You , I've been talking with Martin llins. Do you know what he said out you"?

No."

He said, 'If they don't spoil this low Rorimer he's going to write me real picture stuff.' I think rtin Collins ought to know what 's talking about."

All this was pleasant; it fed his ide. Dan felt confident once re.

On the way back she said, "You ow, you're the strangest person, n Rorimer."

He had been driving along in nce for some minutes, the wind ffling his hair and whipping his about his neck, and now as he rned to look at her curiously he sed that she had been studying m.

"How's that?" he asked.

"You're moody, aren't you?"

Maris laughed and gestured with r hand. "Up like this one min- e, and the next—way down here."

"Am I? I never gave it much ought, Maris."

"I suppose not," and she said no- ing more about it.

At her suggestion they played nnis again two mornings later. hat was the morning he learned at Amalgamated had rejected his ot; but along with the rejection d come the request to try some- ing else; it had just missed, had en voted down only after a story nference in which there had been nsiderable difference of opinion. Dan extracted little comfort from at; a miss, he told Collier, was good as a mile.

"Well, send it around, my boy. me other studio'll be sure to take

"Yeah?"

Collier laughed disgruntley. "Aw, on out and play tennis." He said, ly: "How are you and Maris get- ng along?"

* * *

Paul returned early that after- oon; he was trying to "get ahead" his vacation, during which time daily column would run as usual. "Mail for you," he said when Dan ame in, and Rorimer, ripping open e large and heavy envelope, laugh- shortly.

"I know what this is," he said. "This is rejection day—and how!"

"What is it?"

"My famous play," Dan said. "The one that's been kicking around Broadway for lo these many months. Come home to papa to roost. Oh, well. . . ."

He read the letter that accompanied the manuscript and handed it over to Paul, and when Paul had read it he observed:

Well, your agent thought highly of it at least; and I guess the play market in New York is all shot to pieces."

He said, "I guess you just don't get the breaks, Dan. Let me look at it, will you?"

"Sure. I'm going to take a bath." He went off to his room, whistling loudly, and Paul picked up the manuscript and settled comfortably and began to read it.

Half an hour later, when Dan had leisurely bathed and dressed, Paul was still absorbed in the play, and when Dan made some joking remark about it he stirred impatiently in his chair and glanced up to say that he didn't want to be bothered.

"It's a damn good play," he said. "I didn't know you had it in you. . . . No fooling," he insisted at the other's skeptical smile; "this is great stuff, Dan."

He sat up straight then to reach for a cigaret, and with the lighted match in his hand he paused to deliver a lecture.

"You give me a big pain—worrying about what the studios think of your stuff when you can knock out something like this. No kidding; if I could write like this I'd have Hollywood eating out of my hand. Where'd you get the idea?"

"Women's night court in New York," Dan told him.

"I see. Well, it's some story! Run along now, my boy, like a good fellow, and let your Uncle Dudley finish it."

Hadn't Seen A Well Day For 15 Years, Says Farmer

Abilene Man Says Argotane Has Done Him A World Of Good—Gains Daily

"It sounds like it would be enough to say that Argotane has relieved my troubles that have made me miserable for 15 years but that's not all this medicine is doing for me, for I can just feel myself gain in health and strength every day, and feel like a different man."

The above remarkable statement was made on January 7, by L. G. Calcote, a well-known farmer who resides on Rural route 4, Abilene, Texas.

"I've been a farmer for thirty years," he continued, "and for fifteen years of that time I've hardly known what it was to have a well day. In fact, for the past four years I haven't been able to do any work at all. My nerves and system have been so torn up, I was very sore across my back as well as weak and run down. I never had any sharp pains exactly but there was a dull achy feeling in my stomach and back practically all the time that made me miserable and no medicines I took gave any relief.

"That's what makes it seem so wonderful to be feeling like I am today. I have only taken two bottles of Argotane and I can tell you truthfully a great many of my old troubles are disappearing. I can eat a good hearty meal, sleep like a log and that soreness in my stomach and back has left me. All I could say wouldn't tell half the gratitude I feel toward Argotane."

Genuine Argotane may be purchased in Lubbock at the Bowen's Drug Store. Adv.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 18. (AP)—The cotton market today developed moderate activitiy with a slight upward trend, favorable cables, too much rain in the eastern belt coupled with fair trade buying and shorts covering were the sustaining influences. At one time during the morning prices showed gains of 11 to 12 points over the previous close. While 6 to 8 points of this advance was lost by midsession due to moderate hedge selling the undertone continued steady.

The market continued to ease off slowly during the afternoon owing to hedge selling and selling induced by weakness in stocks and practically all the early gains were lost. The close was near the lows showing net 2 points up to 1 down for the day.

Liverpool came in 2 points better than due and first trades here showed no change to 4 points advance. The market improved after the start on covering, but lost 6 points a little later on hedge selling. October eased off to 10.93 and December to 11.11.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Sept. 18. —(AP)—Early advances in cotton on trade buying and covering promoted by relatively steady Liverpool cables, were followed by reactions today under realizing or re-selling by early buyers. New December contracts after selling up from 11.08 to 11.24 during the early trading, closed at 11.10 with the general market closing steady, net 1 point lower to 1 point higher.

The opening was steady at a decline of 2 points of July, but Liverpool and a continuance of more encouraging reports from the Manchester cloth market.

One of the cables received here from Liverpool said there had been some buying there on fear of a storm, apparently referring to reports of storm warnings and rains along the east gulf coast which evidently were not considered in the local market a serious threat to the crops. Other cable advices from Liverpool reported general buying and covering in that market and said there had been moderate cloth sales to the British home trade and South America with the Indian news considered encouraging in Manchester.

George Kelly's home run with Gabby Hartnett on base in the fourth saved the Cubs from a shutout and gave them the lead for the only time during the game. The Cubs made three of their six bows in that inning.

Mel Ott started the Giants off ahead by connecting with Guy Bush's delivery for a homer in the second.

Stock Market Hobbles Wearily Lower Thursday Losing Two Points Average

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18. (AP)—The stock market hobbled wearily lower today, losing a couple of points on the average in a session that was nearly as lifeless as yesterday's when prices made narrow recoveries. Sales dropped to 1,271,900 shares.

A selling flurry in the late trading was characteristic of the day's dealings, which were largely a succession of small bear raids. Assuming that the apathetic rally Wednesday meant that some stock was waiting to be sold on further indications of weakness, the shorts shot at the big industrial and utility shares during the forenoon and chipped a point of two from quotations.

Bonds showed increasing strength, bolstered by the cheapness of money which was plentifully offered at 1 1-2 per cent, although the stock exchange rate did not get below the 2 per cent renewal. Grains were easy.

After the close of the market it was learned that broker's loans had increased $79,000,000. This gain, in a week of declining stock prices, did not appear so startling, however, when it was recalled that temporary borrowing for income tax payments, as well as several large new security offerings had to be taken into account. Loans have risen $120,000,000 in the past three weeks.

Wheat, closing barley steady, dipped 5-8 of a cent on reports of substantial Russian shipments and in sympathy with the Winnipeg market. Corn eased 3-8 to a full cent under September liquidation. Cotton closed a point higher to a point lower.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 18 — Wesley Ferrell pitched his way to a brilliant 3 to 2 victory, his 25th of the season, over Sad Sam Jones as Cleveland made it two out of three from Washington today and spoiled the Senators' last chance for the pennant.

Dick Porter, right fielder, shared honors with Ferrell, blasting a double to score Jamieson with the winning run in the ninth, when the score was tied and two were out.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 18. —(AP)—The New York Yankees took the odd game of the series with the Browns today, winning a 10-inning slugging match, 7 to 6. Charley Ruffing, Yankee pitcher, hit two home runs and Combs and Schulte one each.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, Sept. 18. —(AP)—Slow trading and lower values were noticeable here today. The best steer sold at 6.75 or about steady; common steers 4.25. Better weighty bulls sold around 4.25.

Yearlings sold from 9.50 down. Canner cows ranged from 2.25 to 2.65 with some sales up to 2.75. Calves mostly 25c lower, light calves sold up to 7.50 with heavy calves from 7.00 to 7.25.

Stocker buyers took several loads of cows from 3.00 to 4.50 with several steer yearlings selling from 6.00 to 6.10.

MIDDLEWESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 18. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Opening hog trade around the 11-market circuit was fairly active at strong to 15c higher prices but the close at several points was slow with early gains erased. The day's extreme top of 11.00 was paid at Chicago. Offerings were around 55,500.

Fully steady prices were maintained on killing classes of sheep and some markets slight strength developed on light lambs. Chicago had a top of 8.60 on choice range lambs and at Kansas City choice western paid 8.15. Supply numbered around 64,500.

Packers were again bearish on most all classes of cattle with trade very slow at prices steady to 25c lower. Beef steers with weight and the in-between grades of stock were especially difficult to move. Chicago scored 12.35 on a load of choice 1035 lb. yearlings and at Kansas City choice 1,109 lb. steers brought 12.00. Receipts were estimated at 24,200.

American Cup

American yachtsmen.

It used to be that "Britannia ruled the waves," but since 1871, 14 successive challenges by Scotch, Canadian, English and Irish sailormen have been turned back with little or no glory to the losers, all seeking the queer - looking, vase-like "mug" that the schooner America brought back to the United States in 1851.

Sir Thomas Has No Hard Feelings

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 18. (AP)—Sir Thomas Lipton, standing in the sun this afternoon on the deck of his big steam yacht Erin took once more the defeat that has always been his share in five gallant efforts to lift the America's cup. He was taking it as he always had taken it, standing up, his browned face wrinkled deeply and his dim eyes staring at the Enterprise, a better vessel than his, swooping across the finish line of the fourth and last race of the series, with his own Shamrock a mile behind.

Turning to the group that had gathered about him for the finish, he said:

"End of the Race"

"It's the end of the race, it's the finish, yes, the finish. I will'na challenge again. It's no use. We canna win."

The 80-year old Scotch-Irish baronet turned away and started for his cabin. He found pencil and paper and brought his radio man a message for Vincent Astor, aboard the Vera, commodore of the New York Yacht club owners of the Enterprise. He asked Astor please to accept and convey to Harold S. Vanderbilt, skipper of the defender, and his crew "congratulations on your well merited victory."

No Hard Feelings

"I want them to know right away," he explained, "that I hold no hard feelings. Although they've beaten me again I couldn't have fairer sportsmen against me. You can't blame them for doing their best.

"I put their success down to the mast they have, the metal mast and I don't blame them for having it. Taking everything into consideration, I think my boat did very well. They licked us fairly and squarely."

About that time the radio operator came back with a slip in his hand. It was a message from Astor and said:

"Very many thanks for your kind and thoughtful message which will, indeed, be appreciated not only by the Enterprise but by every member of the New York Yacht club.

"This is from the boat that licked us," Sir Thomas said and he passed it around for all to look at. Then he carefully tucked it away in his pocket, a thin paper souvenir, one of the few he has to remember his fifth and last quest of the old mug that has cost him almost $5,000,000.

From the start of the day's race —even from the end of the first race last Saturday—Sir Thomas knew he was beaten again.

In spite of the disturbances in China, North China reports that tourist travel continues undisturbed, and many Americans are visiting Peiping.

FORT WORTH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Sept. 18. (AP)—Fair domestic demand continued for wheat on the Fort Worth cash grain market Thursday but exporters still reported nothing doing. Mills were bidding 93 1-2 to 94c for No. 1 hard wheat of any protein delivered Texas common points.

Corn, oats and barley were in fair demand with offerings very light. Grain sorghum values were irregular with trade small.

Estimated receipts: wheat, 18 cars; corn, 10; oats, 1; barley, 1, and grain sorghums, 1.

Bids and offers on coarse grains ranged as follows, basis carloads delivered Texas common points, freight paid:

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, September 18. (AP)—Reports that extensive grinding of government sponsored holdings of wheat is planned to provide feed in drought territory led to lower prices today for all grain. Downturns of wheat values and of corn were in the face of recent statements by President Milnor of the Grain Stallization corporation would be replaced by open market purchasing. There also were reports that Canadian barley is being imported into the United states at a profit, notwithstanding 20 cents a bushel duty.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled 3-8 @ 3-4c lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed 1-2 @ 1c down, and oats a shade to 5-8c off, with provisions varying from 20c decline to a rise of 12c.

Uneasiness over reports of Grain Stabilization corporation plans to have a large part of the corporation's surplus wheat holdings ground to be used as an emergency feed supply in drouth stricken areas became the outstanding feature in all the grain pits today.

INCREASE PREDICTED
Financial Relationship With Nations to Be Improved

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18. —(AP)—Indication of an increasing financial relationship with Argentine, Bolivia and Peru was given today at the state department as diplomatic moves were made to complete formal recognition by the United States of the three new provisional governments.

Secretary Stimson said he had heard informally a number of United States concerns probably would be bidding for loans to the new South American regimes.

The secretary of state had announced previously that speedy recognition had been granted the three "in order that in the present economic situation our delay may not embarrass the people of these friendly countries in re-establishing their normal intercourse with the rest of the world."

quiet funeral. Nearby a dressing table were pictures of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Blaney, of Irving, Kansas, and one of Elliott.

The marriage certificate showed the young couple was wed in Yuma, Arizona. In applying for the license the young aviatrix gave her name as Ruth L. Blaney, her maiden name. She had been divorced from her first husband, Mack Alexander.

Friendship Known

That Mrs. Alexander and Elliott had long been close friends was well known by their friends. Elliott in his spare moment while stationed here gave her instruction in flying and her wide kowledge of motors was said to have been due largely to knowledge she had received from Elliott.

The note left behind by Miss Alexander for Elliott read:

"To my husband, Bob: Life is strange, honey. If I have preceded you do not grieve for me, but be content. Finish your work down here and make me proud of you, as I ever will be at your side. And when you come I will welcome you. Always I will love and wait for you. And, sweetheart, keep my pretty wedding ring always with you. Ruth."

The wedding ring mentioned in this note, a tiny silver band set with small diamods, was found in her jewel box.

24 Years Old

Mrs. Alexander, who was 24 years old and who recently flew from Vancouver, B. C., to Agua Caliente, Lower California, in 16 hours, a record for women, left Agua Caliente airport at 1 a. m. today and landed at Lindbergh field here for checking. The fog was blowing in from the sea, but she believed she could get through it and took off for Wichita at 3:28 a. m.

Her brokenn body was found in the shattered fuselage. Parts of the plane were scattered over several hundred feet of the hillside.

Before leaving Lindbergh field Mrs. Alexander laughingly told reporters to "send me purple pansies" should she crack up. "I like them best," she added.

Telephone communiation between Paris and London was interrupted for two and one-half hours recently when Paris operators went on strike.

Crenshaw Speaks At Kiwanis Meet

Members of the Lubbock Kiwanis club gathered in weekly meeting at Hotel Lubbock yesterday at noon to hear Charles C. Crenshaw, attorney, speak on "States' Rights." This was in observance of the 142nd anniversary of the acceptance of the constitution of the United States. E. L. Klett was in charge of the program.

Culver Hill, Tech student, addressed the club on the new Tech band and campaigned for sale of tickets to the first concert, the proceeds of which will go towards buying costumes for band members.

A general sing-song was held with Hunter W. Richardson leading. President Clark M. Mullican was in the chair.

CUBA BLOCKS LEAGUE
Revision of World Court's Statute Is Prevented

GENEVA, Sept. 18. (AP)—The little republic of Cuba today blocked a move in a League of Nations assembly committee to put into effect the protocol for revision of the World Court statute. The action caused anxiety among many members of the league.

Informed persons felt the failure of this project might embarrass the United States administration in its efforts to obtain senate ratification of that other and more famous protocol, which provides for American entry to the World Court.

Cuba won her point today after a verbal combat between her ambassador at Washington, Orestes Ferrara, and the Greek delegate, Nicholas Politis.

JURY IS DEADLOCKED
No Verdict Returned In Trial of Baptist Minister

MOUNT VERNON, Sept. 18. (AP)—The jury weighing evidence in the murder trial of Rev. J. T. Smith, 71 Baptist minister, charged in the slaying of W. C. Lammons, tonight was still deadlocked, after deliberating since 5:30 p. m. Wednesday.

Unofficial reports indicated the vote was standing 11 to 1 but the verdict being argued was not known. Judge R. T. Wilkins intimated the jury would not be released until tomorrow should it still fail to agree.

FAVOR LIGHT WINES

BALTIMORE, Sept. 18. —(AP)—Governor Albert C. Ritchie was nominated formally for his fourth term today by the Democratic state convention on a platform which urged return of liquor control to the states and in the meantime modification of the Volstead act to allow manufacture of light wines and beer.

ACOSTA GIVE NNOLLE

CUBA WINS ROW

GENEVA, Sept. 18. —(AP)—In a heated encounter before the assembly of the League of Nations today Cuba defended her sovereign rights as an independent state within the league and won. Cuba's critic who met defeat was Nicholas Politis of Greece. He sharply censured Cuba for blocking entry into force of the protocol for revision of the world court statute.

Tech Band to Play at Fair

Student Players to Be Heard During Tri-State Exposition At Amarillo; Stock Is to Be Exhibited

Student band of Texas Technological college next Thursday will represent the state school at the Tri-State Exposition in Amarillo, it was announced Thursday by Dr Paul W. Horn, president of Technological college. The school alsb will exhibit stock at the exhibition.

Directed by Harry Le Maire, the 30-piece band is slated to arrive in Amarillo about 10 o'clock Thursday morning, to give concerts both in the downtown section and on the exposition fair grounds during the day.

To Broadcast

In addition, this band will broadcast a concert over an Amarillo radio station, which will be followed by a brief address by some member of the college faculty.

Texas Tech will be represented by entries in three departments of the fair. Exhibited in the dairy show will be seven Holsteins, six Jerseys and one Gurnsey belonging to the college. In the swine department, Tech will show 10 fine Poland-China hogs. And an agricultural exhibit featuring farm products of the South Plains country will compete in the agricultural department.

JUDGING CONTINUES

Winners Not Announced Here In Kiwanis Yard Contest

Because more than 200 lawns and yards were entered in the Kiwanis Yard Beautiful contest, it will be several days before the winners are announced, officials supervising the competition announced Thursday.

Judging began Tuesday and is continuing, but the large number of entries will prevent immediate determination of the winners. Mrs. W. B. Atkins is in charge of the judging.

EXPECTED RECORD CROWD

Poultrymen all over the South Plains are advising Slaton that they are coming to that town in December in "full force," L. A. Wilson, secrtary of the chamber of commerce, reports. "We hope to have a record crowd for our first regional show," he said. "It is the plan to secure two vacant business buildings located together, if we can get them, to hold the show in. Slaton business men are providing the prize money. This will be the biggest regional show ever held on the plains."

PICKING IN FULL BLAST

Cotton picking is now on in full blast all over the South Plains and scores of people are seen daily in the cotton fields dragging their sacks behind them as they walk down the row. Occasionally there will be only one or two in a field, but for the most part there are generally from three to six or seven. Frequently an entire family, the parents and all the children, may be seen in the fields at the same time.

DOG CROSSES EARS

Down at Southland there is a dog that spends a good part of his time in front of the hotel, with a most unusual habit of crossing his ears. The animal is frequently seen to wiggle his ears until the left ear is resting across a part of the right ear while the right ear does the same thing across the left.

ANOTHER DETOUR USED

Another detour for traffic between Lubbock and points south, over highways 7 and 9, is now in use. With the opening up of a sector of the state paving from the end of the city work on Avenue H south to the turn on No. 7 it is possible now to come into Lubbock over Avenue G, one block east of the state highway. The city paving is being completed on Avenue H to a short distance north of the Fort Worth and Denver City tracks. Brick for the city paving is being laid and it will not be long before the entire distance between Slaton and Lubbock will be hard surfaced.

GRADED ROAD JONAH

The recently graded road between Southland and Slaton has been a Jonah for some of the speed boys. On several occasions the boys who like to drive fast have been forced out of the main traveled ruts into the softer dirt, by an on coming car that has right of way. When this is done and the car on the wrong side has to turn out sometimes there is a blowout. Not long ago three boys in a coupe made too quick a turn with the result that one of the tires sounded like a .22 when it was unable to stand the strain.

EXCHANGE GOSSIP

Some of the Santa Fe clerical force at Slaton, like to drink a cup of coffee at the mid-morning, instead of a coke. They generally go over to the Harvey House, just south, and get a cup of coffee. It is there that the clerks and the trainmen get a chance to rub shoulders and exchange bits of gossip.

RUMORS SET AT REST

Charlie Taylor, chief clerk to the Santa Fe division superintendent, is authority for a statement tended to set at rest rumors about the possible construction of a Harvey House restaurant at the Lubbock Station. "Nothing to it," he said. The Santa Fe purchased some property in Lubbock for its own program. We know of nothing down this way about a Harvey House. I've heard that tale for years and presume I always will." The Santa Fe has not completed its program of future work for the recently purchased Lubbock property but is expected to have its plans matured by the time the next budget is made up, late in 1930.
