Marshals Arrest 16 In Rights Workers' Death

By JIM BONNEY

MERIDIAN, Miss. (AP) — Federal marshals today arrested 16 persons indicted by a federal grand jury which probed the slaying of three civil rights workers near Philadelphia, Miss., last June.

Those arrested included Neshoba County Sheriff Lawrence Rainey and his deputy, Cecil Price.

One of those picked up was Philadelphia city policeman Richard Andrew Willis, 40, who was not among the 21 arrested in December by the FBI in connection with the triple slaying June 21.

The 16 were brought to the federal post office-courthouse building here and began appearing before U.S. Commissioner Esther Carter.

Miss Carter told them they were charged under two acts of the U.S. code — conspiracy to deprive a person of his civil rights and depriving a person of his civil rights.

A crowd gathered outside the Neshoba County courthouse at Philadelphia as snow flurries were whipped by 30-mile-an hour winds.

Newsmen waiting outside were threatened and told "You' better get the hell out of here."

At least two other persons were expected to be arrested — probably outside Mississippi — in connection with the slaying of Andrew Goodman and Michael Schwerner, both white New Yorkers, and James Chaney, a Meridian Negro.

The arrests were made both here and in Philadelphia.

At Philadelphia, 39 miles northwest of Meridian, Rainey, Price and a half-dozen others gathered at the courthouse some 30 minutes before the federal marshals arrived.

In Meridian, when Rainey arrived he waved at newsmen and said "Howdy.' '

It was Miss Carter who freed 19 of the 21 arrested previously when she ruled that what the FBI described as a "confession" by one, Horance Doyle Barnette, was inadmissable as evidence in a preliminary hearing. The other two were later released.

The grand jury spent two days earlier this week hearing what the Justice Department said was important new evidence. The same jury had looked into the triple slaying in October and refused to return indictments.

The grand jury, consisting of 22 whites and one Negro, also studied more than 50 other cases, many involving relatively minor liquor violations.

Schwerner, Goodman and Chaney had gone to the Philadelphia area June 21 to investigate the burning of a rural Negro church used for civil rights meetings.

Their bodies were discovered 44 days later beneath a clay dam on a farm near Philadelphia.

SHARING THE SPOTLIGHT at the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet Friday night were R. C. Patton, who was named Outstanding Citizen of the Year; Preston Smith, Lt. Gov. of Texas and principal speaker at the event; and W. Felix Jones, incoming president of the Chamber of Commerce. More than 375 persons attended the affair.

PATTON HONORED

Jr. College Project Gets A Good Boost

The Snyder Chamber of Commerce honored a former president, R. C. Patton, as the community's outstanding citizen and got some enthusiastic encouragement from the top echelon of state government in efforts to establish a junior college at the annual chamber banquet Friday evening.

Patton, who just completed a two-year term on the chamber's board of directors, was presented the "Outstanding Citizen Award" by Badger Robertson, who received a similar honor at last year's banquet. Patton's service as a chamber officer has included two tenures as president, once to fill an unexpired term and again as president in 1963.

In making the presentation, Robertson cited Patton's work in his church, and in other civic and community organizations such as the United Fund, Boy Scouts, Rotary Club, Scurry County Boys' Club and the Salvation Army. He recently was elected chairman of the board of deacons at the First Baptist Church. Patton is manager of Higginbotham - Bartlett Lumber Co. in Snyder. He is listed in Who's Who in the Southwest in 1964.

The Hon. Preston Smith, Texas Lieutenant Governor, guest speaker at the banquet, urged the local chamber to renew its efforts this year to obtain a junior college.

The lieutenant governor said more junior colleges are going to be established over the state, and he believed that one located here would serve an important area.

Smith, who titled his address, "What's Going On In Austin," explained some of the mechanics of state government, particularly in the field of legislation. He predicted that the 59th legislature, which opened its session last Tuesday, will move efficiently, although the legislative process always appears to be "organized chaos" to the layman.

"Four out of five members of the 59th legislature are experienced legislators," Smith noted.

He said hundreds of bills dealing with every conceivable field will be submitted. However, the only bill sure of passage at the outset is a big appropriation bill. The lieutenant governor said it will require about $130 million more to operate the state education system at the present level during the next two years than it has during the past two years. This is due to tremendous growth in population.

Since Texas is on a pay-as-you-go basis, the legislators will not know whether a tax bill will be required until the Comptroller of Public Accounts submits his estimate of revenue and the estimate is compared to the budget. If the budget figure exceeds that of estimated revenue, new taxes will be required, before the accompanying appropriations may be made.

In addition to the big education package, the lieutenant governor said the state must keep pace in such fields as care for the mentally ill, parks, highways and water use and conservation. Moreover, the big redistricting issue must be faced in response to the U. S. Supreme Court's decree that all legislative districts, both state and national, must be apportioned on a strict population basis.

It all adds up to the fact that "there's plenty going on in Austin," Smith concluded.

Special awards were presented by Bill Seale, new first vice president of the Chamber of Commerce. The awards were received by Jim Hardy, on behalf of Texas Electric Service Company; by Mayor M. L. Bro-

SNYDER AREA OIL

Katz Oil Co. of Abilene has completed No. 1 Billie L. Coffman as the second well and location east extension to the recently opened Rotan, East (Hope lime) pool of Fisher County.

A daily pumping potential of 40 barrels of 40-gravity oil plus five per cent water was filed for perforations between 3,783 and 3,790 feet. Gas-oil ratio was 82-1 and no treatment was reported.

Location is two miles northeast of Rotan, 660 feet from north and west lines of section 173, block 2, H&TC survey.

Three J Oil Co. and C. A. Fischer of Abilene have completed No. 2 M. B. Solomon as the fourth well, a location northwest extension to the Shamrock (Canyon reef) pool of Fisher County.

It potentialed for a daily flowing production of 360.11 barrels of 43-gravity oil through a 16-64 - inch choke from an open hole section between 5,266 and 5,291 feet.

Gas - oil ratio was 1,000-1 and the operation reported no treatment. It is three miles northwest of Royston, 1,667 feet from north and 2,139 feet from west lines of section 8, block 2, H&TC survey.

James P. Dunigan of Abilene has a Swastika oil and gas discovery in prospect in Fisher County, two miles east of Longworth at the No. 1 E. B. Beck. Oil flowed at an unreported rate from perforations in that formation between 3,895 and 3,898 feet. No treatment has been reported in that interval.

It had flowed gas from a Swastika interval which was perforated at 3,885-89 feet. The gas flow was measured for an unreported amount of time at the daily rate of 500,000 cubic feet.

The gas interval has been squeezed off and testing continues for an oil discovery com-3½ miles north of the Newman (Swastika) region

Site spots 467 feet from north and 1,780 feet from west lines of section 11, block 1, H&TC survey.

Lario Oil & Gas Co. of Midland will drill No. 4 Carins as a south outpost, ½ mile distant, to the Vealmoor, East (Pennsylvanian) pool of Howard County.

It is seven miles west of Vincent, and is scheduled to drill to a total depth of 7,700 feet. It spots 467 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 18, block 27, H&TC survey.

Standard Oil Co. of Texas has staked site for No. 5-4 W. R. Bell, a new operation in the Kelly - Snyder (Canyon) region of Scurry County.

It is projected to 7,300 feet and is 11 miles north of Snyder. 1,667 feet from north and 2,334 feet from east lines of section 382, block 97, H&TC survey.

Kern County Land Co. of Midland has plugged the No. 1 Beggs, a Garza County wildcat 23 miles northeast of Post, at total depth of 6,450 feet. It is 467 feet from south and 990 feet from west lines of section 23, block 7, H&GN survey.

Transamerica Oil Co. of Fort Worth No. 1 Anna Hecht, a Stonewall County wildcat two miles northeast of Aspermont, has been plugged at total depth of 4,900 feet. It spots 660 feet from south and east lines of section 96, block D, H&TC survey.

12 Feared Dead In Fiery Crash

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — A KC135 tanker crashed into a residential area today and the Wichita Beacon reporter on the scene said "apparently the death toll would be at least a dozen."

The reporter said an Air Force chaplain told him he had administered last rites to at least eight victims.

The bodies were being assembled at a temporary morgue set up in the area.

Police began patrolling the area with police dogs to prevent looting "and to keep people out so the crash can be investigated."

Apparently at least eight houses burned, set afire by fuel the tanker was carrying.

One eyewitness said "there are charred bodies all around."

Firemen estimated at least 15 homes were afire when they arrived, and they said as many as 75 could be damaged.

Gilbert Roman, a Sedgwick County sheriff's officer who was on patrol near the crash site said another plane with military markings appeared to be following the crashed plane but he saw no indication of a collision.

The Beacon said the plane had just taken off from the Boeing Aircraft plant. There was no indication whether it was on a refueling mission.

One man said he saw the bodies of two children in the wreckage of one house.

A resident of the neighborhood, the Rev. J.E. Mason, said he saw one child literally burn up.

He said a little boy ran out of a house and "curled up in flames."

The tanker was understood to carry a crew of eight, and it was assumed all had perished. The dead children would be additional fatalities.

FEELS NO PAIN

Life Ebbing Away From Sir Winston

By ANTHONY WHITE

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill, 90, feared near death with a blood clot on the brain, was in a deep sleep today, suffering no pain, after a peaceful night under constant medical vigil.

Successive medical bulletins indicated his life was peacefully ebbing away. The latest bulletin, issued at 7 a.m., EST, by Lord Moran, Churchill's physician, said there had been no material change in the statesman's condition.

Anxiety for the fate of Britain's wartime hero stirred the hearts and prayers of millions, from ordinary folk to leaders of nations.

Near Churchill's bedside were Lady Churchill and their daughters, son Randolph and grandson, named Winston Spencer for his famous grandfather.

Daughter Sarah arrived from Rome by plane. Wearing a fur coat and dark glasses, she drove up to the Churchill residence and rushed inside.

Outside, in the frosty streets, a crowd of faithful kept their own vigil. As many as 200 stood there during the day. About 50 bunched in thick coats through the long night waiting for news.

The drama began with no hint of danger. The first word — around midday Friday — said Churchill had a cold.

Some three hours later came the first alarm: a medical bulletin said Churchill had suffered a cerebral thrombosis — a clot on the brain. He had also developed a circulatory weakness.

The old heart was flagging.

At his bedside, two doctors fought for his life. One was Churchill's longtime friend, Lord Moran, 82. As Churchill's personal physician, he had nursed him through dangerous illnesses before, including strokes which felled Churchill in 1951 and 1953.

The other doctor was Lord Brain, one of the world's foremost neurologists.

The doctors Friday night said Churchill was "slipping into deeper sleep and is not conscious of pain or discomfort."

Moran was asked last night about Churchill's chances.

He replied, "All I can say is that he is seriously ill."

Lights burned in the Churchill house through the night, but no word was passed to those waiting outside.

Standing in the middle of a group of newsmen and photographers, today, Lord Moran said: "Sir Winston had a peaceful night. There is no material change in his condition."

Liquor Law Enforcement Is Constant Problem In County

Ever since primitive man first discovered the process of fermentation, the product of fermentation has been much discussed.

Prehistoric carvings show that those ancient peoples made a sort of beer. Later the Greeks worshipped wine as the "Water of Life." And in recent years, probably no other thing has been the subject of so much legislation as have been the products of fermentation and distillation.

The control of the manufacture and sale, and the taxation of spiritus frumenti has occupied many hours in law - making bodies at every level of government.

Scurry County is no different from the rest of the world. Manufacture and sale of alcohol here has played its part since Pete Snyder first set up his store on the banks of Deep Creek, and had whiskey barrels as his major item of stock.

But it was during the "Great Experiment" of prohibition days that enforcement of the liquor laws become important in the county.

Mr. Frank Brownfield, who served as sheriff here for six years, starting on Jan. 1, 1927, has said that the liquor laws were difficult to enforce in those days because the law was not popular with the general public, and also because the law did not provide for anything but a prison sentence upon conviction.

Had the juries been able to assess fines, Mr. Brownfield once said, many more convictions would have been had. But jurors were slow to send "criminals" who were often their friends and neighbors to the penitentiary.

In those days illicit stills were the lawmen's major concern, although transportation of alcohol into the area from Mexico was also a problem.

Times have changed, and while home - made alcohol is still a problem for officers in deep East Texas, the problem here is virtually confined to transportation into the county from legally "wet" areas.

In November (the last month for which the Liquor Control Board has released the figures) Liquor Control Board inspectors reported the seizure of only four illicit stills. Those stills had a capacity of 270 gallons. The inspectors captured 1,300 gallons of mash, made two arrests, and destroyed 16½ gallons of moonshine.

Everybody knows moonshining is against the law. But the Liquor Control Board inspector who is assigned to Scurry County must enforce laws that are sometimes not quite as well understood as the moonshine law.

In Scurry County in November, seven liquor law cases were brought to trial. A total of $1,100 in fines and $184.45 in costs were paid to the county.

Some of these cases were for "transportation" which is probably the least understood aspect of the law.

The law, which was written by the state legislature, provides that a person may bring as much beer or liquor into a dry county as he wants, pro-

See LIQUOR LAW, Page 2

COLLEGE ISSUE COULD STIMULATE POLL TAX SALES

Lieutenant Governor Preston Smith's remarks here Friday night about local efforts to establish a junior college may help stimulate poll tax payments in Scurry County, some observers speculated Saturday.

Speaking at the Snyder Chamber of Commerce banquet, the lieutenant governor advised the local chamber to go after the college again this year. The chamber has kept its junior college effort on its agenda, but has announced nothing new recently, although no more progress has been indicated toward a new proposal.

Poll tax payments have been lagging since 1965, is an "off" election year. However, a junior college proposal would involve an election, and voters would need poll taxes to participate.

Barry Vows He'll Fight

By LES SCHLANGEN

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Barry Goldwater pledges a fight to keep control of the Republican party from those who did not fully support his bid for the presidency last November.

Goldwater yielded to pressure early this week and helped arrange the coming stepdown of Dean Burch as the party's national chairman.

That was a conciliatory move in the interest of party harmony, he told the Arizona Federation of Republican Women in his first major speech since the election.

As for himself, Goldwater said Friday night:

"If I never run for public office again, it's not going to break my heart."

Contract Let For New Post Office

WASHINGTON (AP) — The General Services Administration let an $894,500 contract Friday for construction of a post office and federal office building at Pasadena, Tex. It went to Baxter Construction Co. of Houston.

DILAPIDATED BUILDINGS on the Lubbock Highway were an eyesore for many years before the owner, with the help of the city, decided to tear them down. This picture, taken several weeks ago, shows the start of the salvage work being done before the buildings were stacked and burned.

THE SAME SCENE is pictured here following the complete clearing of the lot. Mayor M. L. Broman, center, visited the lot Friday and is pictured along with Jaycee Clean-up chairmen Junny Ivison and Darrell Rains as he signs a proclamation setting aside the coming week as a time for all citizens to clean and beautify Snyder.

Cooperation Urged In Clean Up Drive

Paint-up, Fix-up, Clean - up Week will begin in Snyder tomorrow, and the Jaycees, who are leading the campaign, are urging cooperation of Snyder residents in making the annual drive successful

"The success of the drive depends almost entirely upon property owners," Darrell Rains and Junny Ivison, co - chairmen of the campaign said.

The majority of the actual work in this year's campaign will be done by city employes and equipment, the Jaycees said, but they will make the arrangements in advance. Property owners will be contacted for permission and their cooperation in improving their property.

The major part of the effort will be directed at property which is visible from the highways which go through the city. However, the committee chairmen said they hoped that each and every citizen would take it upon himself to look critically at his own property and see if it can't be improved.

On Wednesday a special pick-up of large items such as old furniture or large tree limbs will be made. Persons with these large items should contact the city sanitation department before Wednesday so that the pickup can be arranged.

Other trash should be put in disposable containers to speed the regular collections this week.

Mayor M. L. Broman has issued a proclamation setting aside the coming week as a week in which every citizen should make a special effort in cleaning up the city.

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, with the passage of time, a city, like a house, may become cluttered and may fall into disrepair, and;

WHEREAS, it is the desire of the people of Snyder to avoid the burdensome attendance to maintaining cluttered and dilapidated premises by means of a concerted annual effort to maintain our city in a state of gleaming repair,

NOW, THEREFORE, by the authority vested in me as Mayor of the City of Snyder, I, M. L. Broman, proclaim the period beginning with the sunrise on January 18th and continuing through noon of January 23rd as "PAINT - UP, FIX - UP, CLEAN - UP WEEK", during which period the residents of Snyder shall abandon all trifling pastimes and dedicate themselves and direct their energies to removing trash, rubbish, and dirt from their city and to repairing and restoring whatever has fallen into a state of dilapidation or disrepair.

man, on behalf of the City of Snyder; by Jack Farren, on behalf of the Scurry County Park Department, and by Dean Floyd, on behalf of Snyder Junior Chamber of Commerce, which he serves as president.

John Boren, 1964 Chamber President, said that the chamber did not accomplish all that it desired during the past year, but took pride in the fact that "things were not left standing still."

W. Felix Jones, 1965 president, said that an increased budget would get attention this year so that the chamber can "work on more projects."

The Rev. Miller Robinson, pastor of Colonial Hill Baptist Church, was master of ceremonies. The Rev. James Tidwell, pastor of First Methodist Church, led the invocation.

Special entertainment was presented by the "Slumtown Symfunny" of Lamesa.

The lieutenant governor was introduced by Harold Lacik, former president of the Chamber of Commerce and a former employe of Smith.

Out-of-town guests were present from Abilene Sweetwater, Colorado City, Big Spring, Andrews, Lubbock and Odessa.

Heart Fund Campaign Plans Made

Plans for the annual Heart Fund drive during the month of February are virtually complete, the Scurry County Heart Association has announced. The month - long campaign will be culminated in the house-to-house canvass during the week-end of "Heart Sunday," Feb. 21.

Events and committees were announced as follows: Bowling Tournament, Doug McGlaun and Dean Floyd; Golf Tournament, Charles Bruce and J. D. Hinton; Heart Coffee Day, Mrs. Dean Floyd, chairman Frank Taylor, and Pat Falls; Rural Areas, Pat Falls, chairman, Rev. G. M. Rogers, Raymond House, Joe Carroll, Thayne Mebane, and Mrs. Eldon Perry; Posters, Frank Taylor, chairman, Doug McGlaun, Thyane Mebane and Raymond House.

Rather than a single "Heart Sunday" chairman, there will be six division chairmen as follows: Mrs. L. A. Patterson, Mrs. Richard Stoker, Mrs. Elmo Weyel, Rev. G. M. Rogers, Doug Flynn, and Mrs. Ed Bolger. Badger Robertson is general chairman of this year's Scurry County Heart Fund.

Tentatively scheduled for Thursday, Feb. 18, is the fourth annual Heart Research Day. Negotiations are underway to secure a recognized heart researcher to speak to students, lay, and medical audiences.

Bootlegging Suspect Is Being Sought

An early - morning chase Saturday morning at speeds over 100 miles an hour resulted in one car being wrecked and possible injury to the driver.

Texas Highway Patrolman Pat King and deputy sheriff Leon Ward were patrolling in their separate cars near the Howard County line in Scurry County at about 5 o'clock Saturday morning when they saw two cars coming down the long hill there.

Ward stopped one car for a routine check, but before he could inspect the car, the driver, whom Ward identified as James Taylor of Snyder, sped off. The deputy called for help from the Highway Patrol, and together both officers went in pursuit.

The chase continued over the Block Line Road, through Cuthbert, and over dirt roads for about 20 miles to a spot about five miles east of the Colorado City Highway. There the driver of the 1956 Oldsmobile which the officers were chasing, failed to make a curve, and struck an embankment. The driver ran from the scene on foot, and had not been apprehended at noon Saturday.

In the car were 13 cases of beer in quarts, 28 half - pints of whiskey, and 15 half - pints of vodka.

The steering wheel in the car was badly bent, leading officers to believe that the driver had sustained at least minor injuries.

Woman Is Safe After Abduction

DALLAS (AP)—The wife of a Dallas car dealer told police she was abducted Friday by a man who forced her at gunpoint to drive to Fort Worth, where he released her unharmed.

Mrs. Ralph Knight, 41, telephoned her husband from a Fort Worth liquor store to report she was safe.

"She was pretty shaken up," Knight said.

Police broadcast a pickup for a man described by Mrs. Knight as slender, about 25 to 30, and clad in dark clothing.

The gunman made no attempt to take $300 in her purse or her late model car, Mrs. Knight told police.

Knight said he went to Arlington to bring back an automobile purchased there and his wife followed back to Dallas in their car.

"I beat her back by a few minutes and was still in the car when I saw the fellow walk past me," Knight related. He noticed that the man wore a black top coat with the collar turned up around his ears.

Mrs. Knight said the man entered the car and pulled a pistol. She screamed but her husband did not hear the outcry.

Knight saw his wife drive away with the man and mistook the gunman for one of the couple's sons.

She said the man remarked he was "running away from hell."

Poteet Man Killed

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Julian Trevino of Poteet was killed Friday night when his car ran off FM 476 and plunged into a ditch. The accident happened 20 miles south of here.

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a preacher's wife with small children. I want to know if, when people invite my husband to their homes for social events and exclude me, he should go. This has happened quite often, but instead of getting used to it, it is getting harder for me to take. I can understand why some people wouldn't want the children, but why shouldn't they want a clergyman's wife? He must go many places in the line of duty where he can't take me, so I am left alone with the children much of the time. This I accept. But when he is invited to a strictly social gathering, shouldn't he remind the hostess that he has a wife? Or are preachers supposed to go to social gatherings alone? My husband says he can't decline their invitations if they just ask him alone because he might hurt their feelings. How about MY feelings?

PREACHER'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: A Catholic priest is the only clergyman who, with impunity, can go to social gatherings without his wife. And any man, clergyman or layman, who evidences a lack of respect for his wife's feelings shall win no respect for himself.

DEAR ABBY: Please pass this on to "Wants To Learn," whose husband laughed at her because, at age 32, she wanted to go back to school and complete her education.

I am a dentist, 48 years old. My children are just beginning to take Algebra in school. Algebra was never one of my best subjects, and besides, I had forgotten almost everything I knew about it, so I found myself unable to help my children. I solved the problem by enrolling in a night adult education class. I intend to learn enough Algebra to stay a litfle ahead of my children. I hope this is an incentive to "Wants To Learn."

Sincerely,

A DENTIST IN LINCOLN

DEAR DENTIST: You are to be admired. It's a rare man who voluntarily goes back to the same old grind.

DEAR ABBY: This is for that 32-year-old woman who wants to go back to school because she felt "dumb" when her 8th grade son asked her to help him with his homework: I have had six years of college, hold a bachelor's degree and a master's degree, have taught elementary grades, served as elementary principal and as superintendent of schools, and I can't help my children who are in the second, fourth, sixth and seventh grades with their homework, either. Neither can my wife help them, and she graduated from college magna cum laude.

Tell WANTS TO LEARN not to feel "dumb" just because she got only as far as the sixth grade. I know people who have had much more formal education but they don't have enough sense to know how "dumb" they are.

A VOICE FROM THE NORTH

DEAR ABBY: I would like to have my say about the cat controversy. Maybe that woman's home did smell to the high heavens, but it couldn't have been because of the cats because cats are usually very clean in their habits.

If there was cat hair all over the furniture, why didn't the neighbor buy a good clothes brush and go to visit the lonely old lady anyway? I love cats, but I dislike the two - legged kind intensely. The complaining neighbor should read PROVERBS 26:17. It says, "HE THAT PASSETH BY, AND MEDDLETH WITH STRIFE BELONGING NOT TO HIM, IS LIKE ONE THAT TAKETH A DOG BY THE EARS."

SCRATCHING BACK FROM OREGON

DEAR SCRATCHING: Your letter is wonderful. But I'd rather not discuss politics in this column.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "K" AND "B": You can live on love — until it's time for breakfast.

Funeral Held For Noted Evangelist

DALLAS (AP) — Funeral services were held today for Len Rogers, 44, at the first baptist church of Dallas.

Rogers, a native of Colorado City and a resident of suburb Duncanville for 12 years, was killed in a plane crash Tuesday near Woodville. He was a nationally known evangelist.

Dr. Theron Farris of Duncanville, also an evangelist, was injured as the plane cracked up.

Liquor Law

vided he brings it from a place where it's legally sold, and also provided he takes it directly to a place where it is legal to possess it (for example, his home), and further that it's for his own use and not for resale.

In order to give a guide-line to officers, the law also states that if a person is transporting more than one quart of whiskey and one case of 12-ounce containers for beer, it is prima facie evidence that the alcohol is for resale.

In other words, the burden of proof is on the officer to show that the merchandise is for resale if the person has only the one quart — one case limit. If he has more, the burden of proof is on the person to prove that it's not for resale.

But whether or not it's for resale, the transportation of alcohol must also conform to the other two requirements to be legal. If it is bought from an illegal source, or if it's not being taken directly to where it will be consumed, the law is being broken. For example, if a person buys from a person in a dry area, the point of sale is illegal. Or, if he moves alcohol within the county, it's illegal. An example of that would be moving a case of beer from his home to his lake cabin.

Sometimes folks who are arrested for violating these phases of the law are quite unhappy, the Liquor Control Board agent said.

But the chances of getting the law changed, he said, are pretty slim. The reason he gave is that since only 72 of the 254 Texas counties are "wet" for the sale of all types of liquor, the legislators from these counties are well outnumbered in the legislature, even though they actually represent about half of the people of Texas.

No legislator from a "dry" county could ever afford to vote for liberalizing of the liquor laws and expect re - election.

Of course, no federal law is violated in most of the liquor law cases in Texas since they are strictly state laws. The only federal law that could be violated in the state is the one prohibiting manufacture of untaxed alcohol.

And bootleggers have found a way of getting around that. They buy a perfume manufacturer's license, which permits them to have alcohol on hand.

In November, revenue to the state from excise taxes on distilled spirits, malt liquor, wine and beer totalled $3,395,686.66, and permits, miscellaneous, and sale of confiscated merchandise during the month brought the total income to $3,474,239.66.

The sales of confiscated alcohol brought in $5,575.56, of which 35 per cent goes to pay for the operation of the Liquor Control Board, and the other 65 per cent is allocated to the Available School Fund, blind assistance, old age assistance, farm - to - market roads, foundation school fund, general revenue, children assistance, teacher retirement and miscellaneous state fund.

Confiscated liquor is resold to licensed dealers.

The monies collected in county court are kept in the county and are placed in the county's general fund.

But one thing is certain. As long as the chemical process of fermentation exists, lawmakers and law enforcement officials will remain concerned with alcohol.

Turbulent Initiation To Flying Builds Confidence

(EDIOTR'S NOTE — Mrs. Raymond Schaeffer, 702 Twenty-eighth Street, took her first airplane ride recently, and it (the plane) was involved in a collision with a winter storm on the South Plains. While the memory of the occasion was still vivid, Mrs. Schaeffer set down her reaction to the experience while it was occurring. Her impression of her first flight is presented herewith.)

* * *

BY SUE SCHAEFFER

It took a breath-taking, hair-raising, first flight experience in the grey land of stormy Nowhere to make me appreciate the firmness under my feet today. Our fair city looks great. . . majestic, colorful, and more important, tangible.

My most unforgettable scare is still vivid in my mind. I have thought it must be beginner's luck or we're jinxed. The elements have not been too hospitable on either of our first voyages to sea or air.

It started with the pause that depresses. Everyone I talked to was more elated than I about the new $30,000 private plane that was to glide down our lovely air-strip and pluck me away to mid-air. One woman answered my misgivings with "Why, honey, it is no more than backing out your driveway." Well since I'm home — safe, sound and solid — I intended to have a look at her driveway. I have yet to see one that makes a car buck like a wild stallion with a scared rider on his back.

We circled the runway, waved good-bye and slowly lifted higher and higher. I had time to spot the courthouse, a few shoppers at Penney's and glimpse the dozens of neat squares and new winding highway that has put Snyder on the map.

The '65 Piper Comanche was a four place ship. We only cruised about one hundred and eighty five miles an hour at a low 4,700 ft. for the benefit of the novice on board, namely me. Pilot Kitchens, a serious, mild mannered man of middle age pointed out land marks here and there. The unofficial co-pilot (my husband) watched the chart and kept up a heavy chatter of irrelevant facts and queries.

I didn't notice my hands were clenched until they began to ache. Taking a deep breath I adjusted the air vent and resolutely looked out below. There was more color than is normal for the bleak month of the white sales. Spreading beneath, the straight lines of the green patches, mingled with shades of brown, looked more like a picture than reality. The sky was a brilliant hue, illustrious and piercing. Our seven year old had gathered enough courage to let her doll look out the window now, but not quite enough for herself.

The first hint I caught of anything being wrong, I overheard the pilot asking the weather conditions from Lubbock to Dimmitt over the two way radio up front. Explicitly the report came. There was a front 40 miles out of Lubbock but a plane had made it through at 6,000 ft. Suddenly there was more concern about my welfare. "Are you feeling sick?" "Would you like to land in Lubbock and have a car come for us." "Are you sure you aren't upset?" All this from my husband, who admitted later he was looking for an excuse — just any excuse — to keep from going through the storm he knew was inevitable.

Astucious as he was, I stood like the Rock of Gibraltar. I had come too far now to be called "chicken". And to be sure this was no time to espouse my fears. Besides, my motion pill was taking effect and I felt reasonably secure.

Through the distance we saw what the men informed me was Lubbock, but not clearly at all. A West Texas sand storm, it appeared, was about to engulf the entire city.

Without further warning the sky turned grey — a dark, dismal, rainy grey. No other color could be seen. I didn't know what to expect next, but I soon found out. Quite abruptly we started bumping. At first it was like going over a rough railroad track. Then jolted, I realized we were still in the air. Not on the solid surface of the earth or in heaven, the great Providence of God. . . but suspended between heaven and earth, in the turbulent land of Nowhere.

I felt a little guilt for taking this chance. It was the same feeling I encountered in Chicago last summer when I took our teenage son to colored town the day after the rioting. "A great big, uncalled for gamble" I thought.

All at once the buzzer sounded off and quickly brought me out of my emotional conflict. It was the loudest buzzer I had ever heard. It seemed to vibrate the interior of the plane. Alarmed and praying silently I discovered we were in a stall, after dropping I don't know how far. For the second time I found my hands clenched and this time wet with perspiration. Rain beat against the windshield and the pilot constantly worked the controls. The next few minutes we bounced and swayed and jerked against our seat belts. Time stretched out interminably. I couldn't think of anything bad I had done. An inner strength flooded me and I felt a much needed calmness.

Through the distance I saw a light that resembled a huge spotlight reaching from the clouds to the ground. The pilot had a free hand now and was conveying the report of turbulent and severe weather, which we had just passed through.

Still bumping and breathless I realized we were out of danger. Instantly the sun beamed in on us and we left the boisterous clouds behind. Quietness covered in the cab. There wasn't anything to say.

About twenty minutes later we came in low for the landing and the persistent gusty winds caught up with us again, marring an otherwise smooth landing. The first words uttered after we landed confirmed my own feelings close enough. As I stepped out on the wing the pilot took my arm and simply said, "You couldn't have had it rougher."

I have been asked if I will ever fly again. My answer is yes. How soon I don't know, but I have gained new confidence already. I remember a French pilot who showed us through the big AIR FRANCE Jet at O'Hare International airport. He expressed that he would like to see us in flight sometime. Perhaps I'll get to fulfill a lifetime ambition to fly to Paris, via AIR FRANCE. I wouldn't miss the opportunity and would have only one request. . . that we fly above the clouds.

Already selected as members of the All-State Band are (front row) Mark Clark, trombone; Connie Reynolds, clarinet; and Robert Clinton, French horn. In the second row are students who are members of the All-Area Band and will compete in Brownwood Jan. 23 for spots on the All-State Band. They are Denise Welch, flute; Virginia Jackson, bassoon; and Janie McBeth, saxophone. All - Region Band members in the back row are Jodi Snyder, clarinet; Jimmy Way, drums; Kathy Keller, clarinet; and John Burton, French horn. Terry Looney, All-Area drummer, is not pictured.

Heart Films Are Available Here

Three films pertaining to cardiovascular disease, "Your Heart," "Mr. Pump Takes Heart," and "Coronary Heart Disease" are now available for local showings through the Scurry County Heart Association. Interested groups should call Pat Falls, at HI-3-5401, or at HI-3-4946.

Viewing time for the three films is approximately fifteen minutes. The local heart association noted that the three films have received little, if any, previous showing here.

Car-Dealers Las Vegas Meet Won't Be All Fun And Frolic

By CHARLES C. CAIN
AP Business Writer

DETROIT, Mich. (AP) — The nation's auto dealers will have more than just socializing and relaxing on their minds when they meet in Las Vegas this month at the annual convention of the National Auto Dealers Assn.

Certain to be high among discussion topics in the Jan. 3-Feb. 3 meeting is NADA's report which shows that dealers sold lots of cars in the first three-quarters of 1964 but made less profit per car.

NADA's report for all of 1964 has not been completed, but the three-quarter figures shows dealers averaged $107 profit per new unit sold. The comparable 1963 and 1962 figures were $117 and $128. Rising expenses were blamed for the drop.

Detroit's auto factories are turning out cars at top speed now to make up units lost because of recent strikes and parts shortages. This puts more pressure on dealers to increase their sales volume.

Some dealers reportedly feel the NADA convention will be an ideal time to ask the auto industry to come up with some financial solutions which mean more dealer profits.

Other topics on the NADA agenda include car leasing, extended warranties, car financing, service and sales facilities.

NADA recently surveyed 1,000 Dodge dealers to find out how they feel about Chrysler's plan to establish truck branches in some large Metropolitan areas. Under the proposal, dealers would still handle trucks under 10,000 pounds, and the factory centers would handle medium and heavy trucks.

Results of the survey of Dodge dealers and other surveys made by NADA's research department will be announced at the convention and are expected to touch off floor discussions. NADA sources indicate they will rely increasingly this year on surveys to find out the grass-roots thinking on dealer problems.

Extended warranties now advertised by automakers will be a priority item among convention discussion topics.

The Warranty question came up at the recent meeting of North Carolina's NADA group at which Kenneth Brown, a Detroit Chrysler-Plymouth dealer, spoke.

Brown told the North Carolina unit that the warranty program has many good points, but he added: "I think many of the time studies — that is, time used to make certain adjustments and repairs under the warranty — were made on a brand new car with no rust problems. The mechanic must have had a helper, and he must have had power tools we never heard about."

Brown said the warranty idea has done wonders for dealers in meeting the competition of service stations, independent garages and chair stores.

"There is no one factor," he said, "that will channel more owners back to their dealers for service then this warranty service."

Tiger Cagers Take Victory Over Cubs

BROWNFIELD — The Snyder Tigers kept their championship hopes alive here Friday night by taking a 74-63 victory over the Brownfield Cubs. It was the 4th district 3-AAA win for the Tigers against only one defeat. Meanwhile the Cubs were absorbing their third loss in conference warfare while having won one.

In other district action Friday night the Levelland Lobos remained undefeated with a 79-58 win over Lake View, and Lamesa was staying in contention with a 71-51 victory over Littlefield. Sweetwater was enjoying an open date.

The Cubs managed to stay in contention with the Tigers throughout most of the contest, although they never were in the lead. They did manage to tie the score at 51 all late in the third period. The Tigers then outscored them in the final quarter 16 to 11.

Leslie Anderson, the leading scorer for Snyder, led the point-getters as he hit the nets for 30 points. These came on 13 field-goals and 4 free throws. Two other Tigers hit in the double figures, with Brown getting 13 on 5 from the field and 3 from the free throw line, and Bullard hitting for 11. He got his points on one fieldgoal and 9 free throws.

Buzz Timmons, who has consistently led Brownfield, was again high point man for the Cubs with 26 points. He was followed by Greg Collier with 11.

The Tigers hit real well during the first half, connecting on 15 of 27 for 56 per cent. They cooled off somewhat in the last half, hitting on 8 of 20 for 40 per cent. This gave them 23 of 47 for 49 per cent during the game.

The Tigers edged the Cubs in the rebounding department, taking 37 off the boards to 34 for Brownfield. Leading the Tigers was Phillip Floyd with 9, followed by Anderson and Brown who had 8 each.

Snyder was edged out in the B Team contest 57-41. The Cubs jumped out to a 20-15 first quarter lead, and held on for the victory. Sandy Wellborn was the only member of the Snyder team to hit in the double figures, getting 13 points. Timmons led Brownfield with 24 points.

The Tigers, who now have a season record of 18 wins and two losses, will wind up the first round of district action here next Tuesday against the Sweetwater Mustangs. After an open date Snyder will begin second round play here Jan. 26 against Lamesa.

Colleges Will Have Two-Platoon System

By BEN FUNK

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—College coaches almost certainly will be able to play honest, two-platoon football next season.

They probably will not get the blank check for free and unlimited substitution they have demanded for a dozen years. But the wierd spectacle of a team deliberately jumping offsides or delaying the game to beat the rule apparently will be seen no more.

This seemed a sure bet today as the Football Rules Committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association began its second day of secret sessions.

After about eigh hours of debate Friday, the committee threw out all except two proposals for changes in the substitution rule.

One would bring back the unrestricted rule in effect prior to 1953. This one is backed by 90 per cent of the nation's coaches.

The other would allow substitution of full platoons whenever the ball changes hands and the replacement of two players at any time.

The committee members have been told not to express their opinions outside the meeting room. But an off-the-record sampling of sentiment indicated that the second rule is the one likely to pass.

Many administrators and athletic directors feel that what the coaches want is not necessarily best for the game. Some, like committee Chairman Ivan Williamson, believe that a player is best served if he is taught to play the game both ways.

But the demands for two-platoon football is so great the committee will go along with it.

The rule expected to pass would kill the gimmick coaches used last year to get in their defensive units on fourth down.

Platoon substitution was allowed only between quarters and while the clock was stopped. Rather than waste a time out, coaches ordered a deliberate rule violation and took a five-yard penalty to stop the clock and switch units before punting.

The proposed rule, Williamson said, will require more coaching of offensive teams on punt coverage but will eliminate the need for cheating on the rule.

Williamson, while doubting that the committee would make the coaches "really happy," said he thought this rule would be well received.

The committee defeated by a 13-8 vote a proposal that coaches be allowed to confer with one of their players on the sidelines during a charged time out.

"Nightmare-of-the-month" so far as District 3-AAA basketball coaches are concerned might be labeled, "How to stop Levelland's Henry Willis."

The jumping jack from the South Plains, who calmly chews gum and pours field goals through the hoop, will get plenty of attention henceforth whenever the Levelland team shows up for a ball game. Coach Ned Underwood's Tigers tried several systems on the young Negro, but he scored 43 points.

It was generally thought (or hoped, at least) that Lamesa's astute coach, O. W. Follis, would figure out a way to slow Willis, especially since Lamesa has more height to battle with than the Tigers. But Henry made a shambles of the Tornadoes in their own gym, scoring 29 points as the Lobos rolled up a 21-point margin over the Tors.

This is Henry's first year with the Lobos, although he already was established as a star before this year. He attended a Negro school last year and was selected on the all-state team.

It appears safe to assume that his presence in the Levelland lineup will help attract a gigantic crowd to Tiger Gym when the Lobos play here Feb. 2.

Dr. Rhea H. Williams, director of athletics for the University Interscholastic League, has an interesting article in the latest issue of "Interschclastic Leaguer," the league's monthly news organ.

He describes in detail the chain of command in the UIL, dealing at length on the authority and duties of district committees.

We quote: "The district executive committees have the duty and the authority to enforce all rules and regulations and to settle all disputes and questions of eligibility arising inside the district. There shall be no appeal from any decision rendered by this committee. It has the authority to certify a district champion, to arrange district schedules, to select officials, to set admission prices, to interpret eligibility rules and to administer all phases of the district's athletic program.

"It has the responsibility to settle all disputes as prescribed in the rules and regulations of the League, but if the matter is not covered in the Constitution and Contest Rules, then the district executive committee has the authority to interpret the matter in any way which they deem proper."

Further along in the article, Dr. Williams notes: ". . . first, the State Executive Committee has the authority to reject a district champion when its district executive committee has set aside any rules of the League."

• • •

This procedure — calling for the district committees to handle their own affairs until competition advances beyond the district level — has long been accepted, and Dr. Williams' reminder of the procedure is something that should be reiterated from time to time.

It is recalled that at about this time last year, an entirely different procedure was followed when a question arose concerning Snyder High School's compliance with the awards rule in basketball and track.

In the first place, the issue was never referred to the district committee, as Dr. Williams points out is proper procedure.

Moreover, action was taken in Austin long before the district ever certified a district champion, which, according to Dr. Williams' article, put the cart before the horse.

Bill Bradley Stops Game With Shot

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Bradley, the star of the Princeton basketball team, flipped in a jump shot against Columbia Friday night that brought the game to a sudden halt and threw just about everybody on the court into a state of confusion.

As soon as the 25-footer went in, the horn sounded. Everyone stopped. They stood around for a few seconds with the referees and coaches appearing the most puzzled.

Finally, someone at the scorer's table let Referee Lou Eisenstein in on the secret. The basket had made Bradley the first Ivy Leaguer in history to score 2,000 points in a career.

Eisenstein, taking command of the situation, marched to the center of the floor, signaled for silence and — in place of the public address system, which wasn't working — announced Bradley's achievement to the 3,023 persons crowded into the small Columbia gym and to the local television audience.

Bradley, the nation's fourth highest scorer, poured in 41 points altogether in the 78-68 victory, giving him a career total of 2,022 and making him the 16th major college player to reach that plateau in three years.

International Tennis Tournament Begins

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The fourth International Junior Tennis Tournament opens here Sunday with players from 10 countries participating.

Mexico's Marcelo Lara and Ecuador's Francisco Guzman have been named the No. 1 seeds. Lara was given the top spot among Mexican players and Guzman among foreigners.

The second seed among foreigners was tentatively assigned to the United States' Armsted Neely.

Wayland College Loses Top Scorer

PLAINVIEW, Tex. (AP) — Wayland College's top basketball scorer, Lou Balenton, has resigned from the team.

Wayland Athletic Director Ed Billings said that Balenton resigned for personal reasons.

Balenton, a 6-5 from Conway, Ark., who came to Wayland from Howard County Junior College, has averaged 19.9 points per game this season.

Cats Feel Everything's Purrfect

NEW YORK (AP) — Manhattan has plenty of noisy apartments, but two calm cats are making out just purr-fect on Track 3 of the 42nd St. subway shuttle.

The feline couple moved into their "flat" about a year ago — their abode being a spot between the rails about five yards from where the shuttle train grinds to a halt on the return trip from Grand Central Terminal.

The cats have a "raised" dining room — a narrow, wooden platform within easy leaping distance. They have attracted the attention of friendly shuttle riders and, as a result, often dine on tidbits supplied by them.

It isn't all underground living for the pair. They take their daily constitutional around comparatively quiet Times Square, then it's back to Track 3.

A couple of months ago a litter of two arrived. A lady commuter took the little ones out of the inferno and got them homes on Long Island.

James Pollock, the Track 3 conductor, says: "They just lie there, sleeping through it all. They don't even perk up their ears. They seem to know the train comes just so far and that's it."

UCLA Can Place Blame On Illinois

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

More and more it is beginning to appear that Illinois may have cost UCLA a second straight 30-0 unbeaten season in college basketball, a feat that would have equalled San Francisco's 60-game all-time winning streak.

Illinois beat the national champions 110-83 in the opening game of the season early in December at Champaign. Since then the top-ranked Bruins have bowled over 12 straight opponents including Marquette, Boston College, Southern California, Arizona, Minnesota, Utah, and California.

Their victory over California came Friday night, 76-54, and highlighted a thin national program on the college hardwoods. No other team in The Associated Press top ten saw action.

Once again it was UCLA's fast break and Gail Goodrich's all-round play that produced a 17-3 outburst in the second half and broke the game wide open.

Goodrich was effective both on defense and offense in leading the Bruins to their 22nd straight victory in Pacific Athletic Conference play. He was high scorer with 23 points and three of his baskets came after he had stolen California passes.

The game was the first of a doubleheader at Los Angeles. Southern California beat Stanford 75-59 in the second game behind Allen Young's 26 points.

Arizona, Washington and East Carolina scored upsets. Arizona surprised Brigham Young 75-73 at Tucson behind Warren Rustand's 27 points. The Huskies upset Oregon State 79-70 at Seattle led by Steve Olsen's 22 points and East Carolina whipped the Citadel 75-69 at Wilmington, N.C. behind Jerry Woodside's 23 points.

Princeton's All-America Bill Bradley became the first Ivy Leaguer ever to score 2,000 career points as he flipped 41 against Columbia, leading the Tigers to a 78-68 victory over Columbia in New York. Cornell stayed on top of the Ivy loop, however, by defeating Penn at Ithaca 76-65. The Big Red is 4-0 in league play, Princeton is 3-0. They play tonight at Ithaca to decide first place.

Two free throws by George Fisher in the last 34 seconds gave Utah a 97-90 triumph over Arizona State to snap a 22-game home winning streak for the Sun Devils at Tempe. Fisher scored 29 points to lead the Utes.

Two foul shots by Bill Gillespie with just four seconds on the clock gave Montana State an 82-79 triumph over Idaho. Colorado State U. beat Idaho State 64-57 at Pocatello and Weber upped its record to 12-1 by defeating Portland State 100-54 at Ogden.

Holy Cross beat Dartmouth 93-74, Boston College took Colby 89-54, Centenary downed Oglethorpe 61-49, Rutgers edged Bucknell 70-66 and Seattle crushed West Texas 103-57 in other games.

Ira Girls Win Over Westbrook

WESTBROOK — The Ira girls basketball team made an impressive record even better here Friday night by defeating Westbrook 59-45. The host team did win in the boys contest by beating Ira 63-46.

The victory for the Ira girls was the third straight in district competition against no losses, and gives them an outstanding season record of 20 wins against 3 setbacks.

Westbrook's Elmer McMahan led all scorers in the boys contest with 29 points. Ira was led by Melvin Crawford with 12 and Jack Payne with 11. Other Bulldogs who hit the scoring column were Larry Wiggins, 9; Johnny Lindsey, 8; Dennis Grizzle, 4; and Bill Alexander, 2.

In the girls encounter Renoka Hooker of Ira led all scorers with 22 points, followed closely by teammaates Pat Jones and Janice Bishop who had 18 and 17 respectively. Jan Williams added two points for Ira. Darlene Lankford had 15 points for Westbrook.

Roy Sallee, who coaches the Ira girls team, had praise for the entire team, and especially for the guards who played outstanding on defense. The Ira guards are Jean Byars, Dinkie Moore, Gelda Autry, Oneida Rogers and Jo Bryant.

Ira will host Hermleigh next Tuesday night. The girls contest is scheduled for 7 o'clock, followed by the game between the two boys teams.

SMU Player Is Scholastic Casualty

DALLAS (AP)—The Southern Methodist Mustangs will be without the services of Jimmy Taylor, a split end and tailback, on the gridiron next fall.

Taylor has been declared ineligible because he failed to pass the required number of courses at the university. A 9.7 sprinter, he will also be ineligible for track this spring.

Big Names To Attend Sports Event

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Capital puts on a big show tonight for the big names in football.

It is the 30th annual awards banquet of the Washington Touchdown Club and the guest list reads like Who's Who in the fields of government and sports.

Vice President-elect Hubert H. Humphrey, who used to attend as a Minnesota senator, heads the guest list. He takes on a chore performed in the past by President Johnson, as vice president, and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Some 2,000 will attend the black tie affair.

The universities of Alabama and Wittenburg will be honored as the top major and small college football teams.

Individual college awards will go to Jerry Rhome of Tulsa, Dick Butkus of Illinois, Roger Staubach of Navy, Mike Curtis of Duke and Coach Ara Parsegian of Notre Dame.

The top professional football honors will go to halfback Lenny Moore and Coach Don Shula of the Baltimore Colts.

There will be special awards for Supreme Court Justice Tom C. Clark and for Robert W. Sarnoff, board chairman of the National Broadcasting Co.

Brooks Robinson of the Baltimore Orioles will receive the Clark C. Griffith memorial trophy as the top figure in baseball last year. Lt. Billy Mills of the Marine Corps will be honored for winning his Olympic gold medal in the 10,000-meter run.

US Women's Tennis Team Defeats Italy

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — The United States advanced to the semifinals of the Women's International Federation Cup tennis matches by defeating Italy today.

Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach, Calif. beat Lea Pericoli 6-3, 6-1 and Carole Graebner of Cleveland, Ohio, downed Francesca Gordigiani 6-1, 6-0.

Fluvanna Splits With Hermleigh

FLUVANNA — The Fluvanna girls team lost a narrow 46-47 contest to Hermleigh here Friday night, while the Fluvanna boys continued their winning ways with an easy 67-24 victory.

It was the third straight win in District 86-B play for the Buffaloes, and the eighth win in a row. Hermleigh is now tied with Westbrook for the loop lead, and if both win their contests next Tuesday, the lead will be decided next Friday when the two teams get together at Westbrook.

In the girls game Marilyn Darden of the Cardinals hit a free throw with two seconds left for the victory. The contest had been tied with about 6 seconds left when Rinda Bruner of Fluvanna had connected ln a free throw.

Miss Darden was high scorer for the Cardinals with 22 points, while Oralia Ynguanzo led the Buffaloes with 29.

The boys tilt was strictly no contest. The Buffaloes jumped out to a 19-4 first quarter lead and stretched it to 39-9 at halftime. Coach Mackie Greene substituted throughout, Bobby Hall was the top point - getter for Fluvanna with 17, while Mike Peterson led Hermleigh with 10 points.

FLUVANNA BOYS — R. Contreras 3-1-7; Hall 8-1-17; J. Beaver 6-1-13; H. Contreras 5-5-15; Belew 4-2-10; Landrum 0-1-1; D. Beaver 1-0-2; Ball 1-0-2; Totals 28-11-67.

Grass Is Growing In Domed Stadium

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

HOUSTON AP) — You ain't seen nothing, bud, until you've seen the new domed stadium in Houston. The grass is growing, the seats are in, the dome is set, ready for Mickey Mantle and the New York Yankee bombers to meet the Houston Astros April 9 in an exhibition game.

This enclosed arena is the one place Mantle never will hit a ball out of.

It is 340 feet to left, 340 feet to right, 404 feet to center and 202 feet straight up. Eddie Roebuck, the Philadelphia relief pitcher, did hit a ball off the edge of dome last summer with a fungo stick. But they are sure nobody is going to do it in regular play.

The $22 million stadium is such a tourist attraction that it has been closed to the general public. Bob Lillis, Dick Farrell and Rusty Staub of the Houston ball club take groups of VIPs on special tours.

Farrell, a veteran pitcher, is a little concerned that long drives may skim through the still air like rockets. He is trying to arrange for a testing period in late February before spring training. They said pitchers will have no trouble throwing a curve, slider, knuckler — or even a spitter if they don't get caught.

Of course, if somebody hits three home runs opening day, there will be a pilgrimage of purists to Commissioner Ford Frick demanding that all records set in the astrodome be marked by asterisk.

It is a breathtaking sight with its six levels of brightly colored red, coral, black, purple, blue and gold seats. At the top level there are a series of private sky boxes accommodating either 24 or 30 fans. It is said they will rent for $15,000 or $18,000 a season, depending on the size, with an irrevokable lease for five years.

As a special treat, the sky box customer can watch closed circuit television an hour before the game and raid the ice box. A cozy group might dig in for the homestand.

Even in daytime, the sky looks gray through the roof. It remains to be seen whether it will be necessary to turn on the 1,906 light bulbs for day games. However, most of the games will be played at night.

Air conditioning will keep the humidity at a 50 per cent level although there might be a drop or two of condensed moisture now and then.

One problem the engineers overlooked was bird life. Some daring feathered friends managed to sneak in before they put the roof on. They still are there. Among the suggestions from well-wishers was that the management scatter popcorn soaked with bourbon and then gather the stoned birds in a basket.

Mosquitoes are not exactly foreign to the locale, as visitors to the club's old park can attest. However, our guide assured us there was no more chance of mosquitoes crashing the gate than of them getting into your own home.

The grass looks lovely in the infield where it has been growing for some time. The outfield appears to need a little water judiciously applied but they have almost three months to go. Just to be on the safe side the Astros have an auxiliary plot of extra grass outside, snuggled in the 30,000-car parking area, for use if spikes of football cleats mar the turf.

Oh, yes, you can eat at all levels in any one of seven restaurants and countless refreshment stands. A beer garden is planned for the center field area.

The guide assured visitors the air conditioning will be able to clear the fog even if 30,000 people all start puffing big black cigars at the same time — a sight that should be worth the price of admission.

In case Walter O'Malley is listening, they have plenty of water fountains even though the radio-television sponsor is a brewery.

Life will be beautiful in the astrodome if the Astros just win a few ball games.

AFL Pension Fund To Be Big Loser

By JACK HAND

HOUSTON (AP) — The player pension fund figures to be the big loser in Saturday's American Football League all-star game shifted from New Orleans to Houston because 21 Negro players complained of racial discrimination.

The winning players still get $700 each and each loser $500. Those figures would have been the same in the huge Sugar Bowl where 65,000 had been expected or at Jeppesen Stadium with its smaller capacity of 35,000.

A television payment of $75,000 from the American Broadcasting Co. was enough to take care of the major expenses but the gate receipts naturally had to be much lower.

The game was to be televised nationally at 1 p.m. (CST) with the Houston area blacked out.

The game gave Sid Gillman and his San Diego Chargers a chance to get even for some of the indignities suffered in Buffalo Dec. 26 when the Bills beat the Chargers 20-7 for the league championship.

The East team had 10 Buffalo players. Coach Lou Saban of the Bills also had nine members of the Boston Patriots who carried him right down to the wire before losing the Eastern Division championship. Houston had six All-Stars and New York four.

The Western team was made up of the 11 members of the Chargers, 10 from Kansas City, and four each from Oakland and Denver.

NBC Pours More Money Into AFL

By JACK HAND

HOUSTON (AP) —The National Broadcasting Co. has increased its investment in the American Football League to more than $43 million with a contract giving the NBC the television rights to AFL champion ship and All-Star games for the next five years.

The network acquired the five-year rights to the league's title game and all-star attraction for more than $7 million Friday night. NBC previously concluded a five-year, $36 million investment in regular season AFL games.

The all star contract was negotiated during the AFL's winter meetings and announced by Carl Lindemann Jr., vice president of NBC Sports. The new contract calls for a sliding scale, with $850,000 reportedly allotted to the 1965 title game and the figure increasing to an estimated $2.2 million in the fifth year.

Proceeds of the playoff and all-star games will go toward the player pension plan, making payments comparable to those in the National Football League.

The NFL has one year to go on a two-year, $3.6 million television pact with the Columbia Broadcasting System for its championship playoff. CBS also televises regular - season NFL games at $14.1 million per-year.

NBC held the video rights to the NFL's All-Star game until this year, when its contract with the Los Angeles Newspaper Publishers Association, sponsors of the game, expired.

In another development Friday, the AFL players came up with an idea that could stabilize the winning and losing shares of all major sports events, including football title games and the World Series.

Under the suggestion, a definite amount of television money and gate receipts would be earmarked for the players involved in championships, regardless of the size of the stadium.

The players asked the owners to set aside $625,000 for the players involved. That would provide $375,000 for the winners and $250,000 for the losers, and standardized winning shares of about $9,000 and losing shares of approximately $6,000 each year.

This manner of distribution of cash would make it unimportant to the players whether the game was played in a big stadium, like Shea in New York, or in a smaller park like Boston's.

The AFL club owners deferred action on recommendations by the pro-college relations committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association on premature signings of college players. Commissioner Joe Foss said he and the league's executive committee preferred to wait until all interested parties, including the NFL, could hold a joint meeting.

Racing Scene Shifts To Hialeah Park

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Florida's thoroughbred racing scene moved today to Hialeah Park for a 40-day run after a banner betting season at Tropical Park.

The $25,000-added Royal Poinciana handicap at six furlongs was the main attraction with a dozen of the best sprinters in the country competing.

High weights were Black Mountain and H's A Gem, under 121 pounds each, with 119 on Dark King and 118 on Sunstruck. Rainy Lake and Trader carried 117 each, while Pack Trip carried 116.

Completing the field were Big End, Ocean Motion and Riot Squad at 114 and Glass House carrying 112 pounds.

Tropical Park wound up a 43-day meeting Friday with a crowd of 11,690 wagering $1,283,132 — well below closing day last January.

Celtics Win 13th Straight In NBA

By The Associated Press

Seven is becoming an unlucky number for the Philadelphia 76ers while the Boston Celtics are quite satisfied with No. 13 today.

The sizzling Celtics won their 13th straight National Basketball Association game Friday night, trimming a Philadelphia club reduced temporarily to seven men by the Wilt Chamberlain trade, 104-95.

The 76ers have dropped two in a row since the All-Star break, when they swapped three players to San Francisco for Chamberlain, who is on a week's leave of absence before reporting to Philadelphia.

The Cincinnati Royals, gamely chasing Boston in the Eastern Division derby, topped the Jerry West-less Los Angeles Lakers 124-106. San Francisco, making its first start since the departure of Chamberlain, bowed to the New York Knickerbockers 89-87 in Friday's other games.

John Havlicek led Boston's third period comeback that wiped out a 10-point Philadelphia lead and carried the Celtics to their 20th triumph in 21 starts. Havlicek hit eight of his 18 points late in the quarter, in which Boston outscored the 76ers 35-18 after trailing 51-41 at halftime.

Sam Jones was high man for the Celtics with 29 points, one less than Philadelphia's Chet Walker.

Without West, who injured his nose Thursday night at Detroit, the Lakers couldn't hold an early lead, falling behind to stay 39-38 when Jerry Lucas completed a three-point play midway in the second period.

Lucas paced the Royals with 29 points and Oscar Robertson added 27. Elgin Baylor's 34 points led the Lakers, coached in the final five minutes by Rudy LaRusso after Fred Schaus was ejected.

West will be back in the Lakers' line-up for Sunday's game at St. Louis.

A goal-tending call against San Francisco at the final buzzer doomed the Warriors to their 12th straight setback. Bob Boozer was awarded the game-winning basket on the infraction.

Nate Thurmond, Chamberlain's 6-foot-11 replacement, scored 21 points for the Western Division tailenders, one less than teammate Guy Rodgers. The Knicks, who blew a 14-point lead in the last seven minutes, were paced by Boozer and Willis Reed, with 15 points apiece.

Four SWC Teams Try For Wins

Four Southwest Conference basketball teams that have suffered derailments in this year's loop race hope to get back of the tracks Saturday in an effort to stay in the running for the championships.

The Texas Aggies, the defending champions who have managed to garner only one victory against two losses in conference play, move to Houston for a gafe with Rice. The Owls, also 1-2 in league competition, lost ten straight before they upset highly regarded Baylor in their opening loop game.

Baylor will be host to second place Arkansas in a televised afternoon game at Waco Saturday.

The Texas Tech Red Raiders, who share the league's lead with Southern Methodist, will be host to the Phillips Oilers in a non-conference game Saturday.

Both Tech and SMU have perfect 2-0 conference records. The tie for first place will remain until Jan. 26 when the two squads meet at Lubbock in a crucial conference game.

Southern Methodist, Texas and Texas Christian are idle this weekend. That TCU Horned Frogs have the only scheduled game next week—a non-conference affair against the University of Houston Monday.

The 1963 Baylor team fumbled only 10 times, lowest season total in Southern Conference history.

KC Games Face Third Big Hurdle

BOSTON (AP) — The 39th Knights of Columbus Games, advertising Olympic gold medal winners Lt. Billy Mills and Mieke Larrabee, faces its third and most severe hurdle tonight —Mother Nature.

First, the meet, which launches the Eastern indoor track season, avoided a clash between the warring Amateur Athletic Union and National Collegiate Athletic Association when an uneasy truce was arranged until March 1.

Then longtime local favorite Bill Crothers of Toronto, almost dropped out of the competition. But the three-time winner of the 1,020 re-entered the meet after a financial misunderstanding was settled. He'll run in the 600.

Now a severe snowstorm threatens to dump well over six inches on the Boston area, the weather bureau said driving conditions would be nearly impossible by late afternoon, meaning that athletes who didn't arrive early, might not get here at all.

Lt. Mills is scheduled to attend a dinner in Washington, D.C., earlier in the evening and attempt a jet flight to make the 10 p.m. mile starting time at Boston Garden.

The 26-year-old Marine feels he can run a mile in less than four minutes before the year is over. He won the mile in Los Angeles in 4:08.2 and has done it in 4:05.

If he can beat the storm and the clock, Mills will face 1963 winner Bill Dotson of Kansas, British Olympian Mike Wigg, former Oregon four-minute miler Keith Forman, 1963 runner-up Jim Irons of Toronto and New England champion Dave Farley.

Larrabee, who captured the 400 meters in Tokyo, is entered in a special 500-yard run.

Andy Says Again That He Will Quit

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP) — Andy Robustelli, who has said it before, has said it again — he's quitting as a professional football player.

The New York Giants' defensive end told the Stamford Advocate Friday he wants to devote his time to his sports promotion business.

Robustelli, a veteran of 13 National Football League seasons, retired as a player before the 1964 campaign but then returned.

Just What Does It Take To Win?

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Any golfer knows golf can be a fiendish thing.

There's the case of Gene Littler. He shoots a 62, nine big strokes under par. Then he has 70, one under par.

So is Littler leading the field to begin the third round of the $34,500 San Diego Open tournament Saturday?

No. Second place.

In the front position was Wes Ellis Jr., of West Caldwell, N.J., with rounds of 66-65—131, as play resumed at the par 35-36—71 Stardust Country Club. Littler trailed with 68-70—132.

The third round promised a struggle between the well-known and the less-known pros.

Tied at 133 were Tony Lema, California's British Open ruler, and Doug Wysong, from McKinney, Tex., 30 miles north of Dallas.

In the 134 group were seasoned Doug Ford, Charley Sifford, Bud Holscher and Jay Dolan of Leicester, Mass.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this means to express our sincere thanks to our many friends who were so kind to us in our darkest hour of sorrow (when our loved one was called away). We deeply appreciate the kind words and beautiful flowers that were sent; also the food that was prepared. May you have just such friends if such sorrow ever visits your home. May Heaven's richest blessing fall on each of you.

Court Won't Stop Roma Election

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The 5th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals has refused to stop the contest of a city bond election at Roma, Tex.

The federal district court in South Texas had held it lacked jurisdiction to enjoin the election contest in state court, and this ruling was upheld by the appeals court Friday.

Roma's mayor, city commissioners and 13 other residents of the Lower Rio Grande Valley town sought the injunction to stop three other Roma citizens from contesting the election.

Their injunction suit charged that the contest of the election was frivolous.

Austrian Import Wants Good Play

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Romy Schneider is Austria's prettiest export since the Viennese Waltz and at the height of her movie fame.

But she would chuck it all, she vows, for a good play — even if it meant two years away from the screen.

"I've had little experience, virtually none, on the stage," says Romy. "I feel that I love my business so much that I must do this."

It's obvious that she will, though she is making an international name for herself in American-made movies. First there was "The Cardinal," then "Good Neighbor Sam."

Now she's making "What's New, Pussycat?" with Peter O'Toole, Peter Sellers, Capucine and Paula Prentiss.

As the romantic interest opposite O'Toole, she probably has the best role yet. So why a play?

"I have been in the movies since I was a child. I love acting but I don't feel one can fulfill oneself as an actress without the stage — and the live audience."

Part of Romy's stage desire can be traced to heredity. She is the daughter of Magda Schneider and Wolf Albach-Retty, popular stage and screen stars of pre-war Austria.

LIGHTEST MEXICO

BY JOHN ABNEY

MEXICO CITY — Take a drive out one of the mountain roads from here and study the big fields of maguey cactus. You will see gentlemen walking along with a bulging pigskin and a three foot long gourd.

This is not a bagpipe he is playing, Chester. It is an antique contraption for gathering the juice with which they manufacture pulque. A primitive version of beer.

Pulque is the fermented juice of the maguey. In the spectacular days of the Toltec civilization here, it became an important item.

Legend has it a Toltec king was walking along on a hot and dusty trail one day when he spied a well constructed maiden sipping from a jug. So he said what with the heat and dust and such, would she be kind enough to offer him a bit of water.

And she said, "It ain't water, your Majesty. This is pulque."

Apparently it struck him just right. For he inquired the maiden's name, which was Xochitl, and said to her, "Now that's a name fit for a queen. How about bundling up your still, Queen Xochitl, and let us get home to the palace?"

Toltec royalty acquired a taste for pulque in short order and took to lying around in hammocks, with a jug handy, thinking about the deplorable world situation.

And historians claim they were in this condition when they got belted into history and a new tribe took over the palace.

The custom has continued, however, and pulque still reigns as a sort of national anthem in the booze field.

It starts off with a fellow growing himself a field of maguey cactus on a hillside. And the bagpipe gentlemen make the rounds when the cactus is ripe. Cut a small hole right in the midst of the plant.

The juice, called "agua miel", collects here and everytime a collector finds a plant full he inserts the gourd and sucks up what's on hand. Then deposits it in the pigskin on his back.

When he has a skinfull he plods down the highway to a pulque factory and deposits the juice in a huge vat.

The manufacture of pulque is a highly delicate and secret operation. You can't just walk in and say, "Hi fellers, I notice you're brewing up some kikapoo juice here."

I am informed by reliable bartenders that outsiders are not permitted on the premises. Especially ladies. Ladies are terribly bad luck and their presence might ruin a vat of pulque.

The secret is handed down from father to son and the master brewer chases out all but a select few and drops some fermenting seed (whatever it is) into the vat. Like yeast in beer.

When everything is ready, the brewer summons a fleet of trucks and the cactus juice is barreled and delivered. Pulque is said to be brimming with Vitamin C and (in reasonable quantities) good for health. It tastes slick, sort of like okra juice.

From the peasant maiden who became a queen, the industry has grown into a huge operation. And apparently everyone learned a lesson from the unfortunate Toltecs.

No civilization has fallen because of pulque since their time.

Mrs. Maclin Quotes Poet In Answers

FORT WORTH (AP) — Red-haired Mrs. Shirley Maclin quoted Shakespeare in response Friday to what she called the "muck - raking of my reputation."

Until last week she was the top woman assistant in the office of Dist. Atty. Doug Crouch. She is the former wife of Robert Maclin of Wichita Falls who has been charged with wounding a guard in a gun battle at Crouche's home.

Mrs. Maclin declined to answer reporters' questions but made a statement from hand written notes in meeting them at the district attorney's office.

"My good name is the immediate jewel of my soul," she quoted from Shakespeare. "He who steals my purse steals trash, but he who takes my name robs me and makes me poor indeed."

Defense lawyer Al Clyde said earlier that Maclin's difficulty with the district attorney stemmed from a "domestic situation."

"To my friends, no statement is necessary," Mrs. Maclin told newsmen, "but to those who do not know me, I say this: Should I mourn a mischief that is passed?"

She spoke with reluctance but people expected her to take a stand, she said, "and so I will."

Her immediate concern, she said, was to find another job to support her two children. She is a licensed attorney, as is her ex-husband. It was Maclin who wanted the divorce granted last March, she said.

The Mariner 4 spacecraft now speeding toward Mars will help answer a question that has tantalized men for centuries: Is there life on the red planet?

Addams Identity Still Prominent

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The idea of adapting a popular cartoon or comic strip character to television is an almost routine device.

One of television's long-playing series is NBC's "Hazel," the indomitable housekeeper who arrived on the small screen after years as a weekly cartoon in a magazine.

There was "Dennis the Menace," still a newspaper comic strip, which disappeared from CBS only after the little boy who played the title role became too big for the part. There have been many others, including "Dick Tracy," that didn't last long.

But none of these creations of a cartoonist's mind has retained its close relationship with its progenitor in the way the bizarre "Addams Family" has. It is one of ABC's comedy hits this season, and remains tied to Charles Addams, even to bearing his name.

Addams, for almost three decades, has been drawing cartoons of such macabre drollery that they rarely needed captions. One of his most famous — published years ago — consisted of a snow-covered hillside, in the center of which was a tree with a single ski track passing on either side.

He dreamed up the Addams family many years ago, and the cartoons about the family life of these weird creatures have been one of the most popular features of the New Yorker magazine.

"Like every one else, I suppose, I had some perfectly outrageous and evil ideas and I fooled around for a long time trying to figure out a way to transform them into humor," Addams explained. "The first one, I think, had Morticia, the wife, and Lurch, the butler, watching a sales demonstration by a nervous vacuum-cleaner salesman."

The family came gradually into being. There was the wide-faced, scary-looking husband and his vampire-type wife. There was the mischievous fat-boy child and the wan, ghostly daughter. And, of course, a great hulking Frankenstein creature who was the butler.

One of the ironies about the television Addams family is that it is especially popular with children, who find the goings-on hilariously funny and not the least bit scary.

Addams says he thinks Gomez, the father, perhaps embodies more of his own personal spirit and sense of humor than the others, but he thinks that Uncle Fester is the one who bears the most physical resemblance to his creator.

In television, evil-eyed Uncle Fester is played by Jackie Coogan, who liked the part so well he agreed to shave not only his head but his eyebrows daily for the part. Actually, there is a faint resemblance, although Addams in person is a kindly, almost shy man with a magnificent head of hair.

The family acquired names several years ago when someone wanted to make rag dolls in the shape of the family.

"Gomez was a name that just came to me and seemed right," Addams said. "But I was having trouble with the wife's name. Finally, I started looking in the telephone book — and I ran across 'morticians' in the yellow pages. All I had to drop were the last two letters and there it was. I found Pugsley — the son — one day when I was looking at an old map of the Bronx. It is, or was, a creek. And Lurch just seemed right for the enormous butler."

Addams, a native of the Midwest but an adopted New Yorker since he was 19, is as much of a non-conformist as his cartoon children. He lives in a two-room tower apartment in mid-Manhattan—his studio room above his all-purpose living room. His summer and weekend residence also is a two-room, two-floor structure on Long Island.

"It is very interesting to see people you invented come to life on the screen," he said. "It has almost made a TV fan out of me."

Movies Get Chance For New Lease

By ROBERT HEARD

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The U.S. movie industry — a jolly greenback giant before a series of body blows floored it in the 1950s — is getting another whiff of smelling salts.

Television, foreign film competition and "run-away" producers who capitalized on cheaper labor overseas, hurt most, but Uncle Sam got in a sharp lick too.

It's the sting from that last punch that now has been removed.

It was an anti-trust jab that separated exhibitors from producers and a lot of people from a lot of money.

For the first time in 14 years, a motion picture exhibiting company hooked up with a producer-distributor.

National General Corp. and Columbia Pictures Corp. announced a joint venture to produce a minimum of three pictures at a probable cost of more than $10 million.

How can they do that and not violate the 1951 antitrust ruling by the 2nd Circuit Court of Appeals?

Simple. The U.S. District Court for the Southern District of New York decided in June 1963 that National General could contract with a studio to produce films for three years on condition that any other exhibitor who wanted to could bid for the finished product.

The first picture to be produced under the new agreement will be "Divorce, American Style," a satire written by Yorkin Lear.

TOPS MEET BOTTOMS — That's another way of saying that Annette Funicello gets together with Tommy Kirk in American International's comedy, "Pajama Party," which opens on Wednesday, Jan. 20, at the Canyon Drive In Theater.

Europeans Preferred

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Donn Arden, the international showman who stages the Lido shows in Paris, "Hello America" in Las Vegas' Desert Inn and also the Lido show at Las Vegas, says English girls make the best dancers and European girls the best showgirls.

"I hate to downrap my own country but most of my headaches are caused by American girls," says Arden. "They're the ones who miss rehearsals — never the European girls.

"The French or the German girl hasn't had it as easy in life as the American girls; maybe that's why. Bread and butter is harder to come by in those countries."

Even in Paris, most of the Lido dancers are English.

Why?

"They have longer legs, are better disciplined and, most important, they are healthier and have greater stamina."

Junior Riding Club Plans 'Play Day'

The Scurry County Junior Riding Club will hold its monthly "play day" this Sunday at 2 p.m.

All members and prospective members are urged to attend since in addition to the regular events, a business session will be held.

The play day activities will be held at the rodeo grounds on west Thirtieth Street.

TRAVEL TALK

By Hulin Fowler

EDITOR'S NOTE: Write to Mr. Fowler in care of this newspaper for answers to your travel questions.

• • •

The very name Africa is forbidding; it conjures images of a dangerous lion hunt, "rogue" elephants, dense jungle, native bearers, and the mystic sound of tom-toms.

South Africa, southernmost African nation, fits this image but the traveler who expects to find jungle life in Johannesburg will have to go to the zoo.

Johannesburg, modern city of over 1 million people, is about as remote from the United States as a city can be, 22½ hours from New York, over 2,000 miles below the equator.

Yet, Johannesburg has one of the highest standards of living of any city in the world. It is a busy, booming city, cosmopolitan and gay. It has an almost perfect year-round climate, dry and cool, doubtless due to its altitude — 6,000 feet above sea level. At this time of year, the temperature ranges from about 60 degrees at night to 80 degrees in the day.

Johannesburg is quite naturally called the Golden City for it is literally sitting atop billions of dollars in gold ore, site of some of the continent's most famous mines. The tourist, if he is lucky enough to get a permit, can go down 6,000 feet into the mines which honeycomb the area under the city.

The fabulous European-style city, as might be suspected, is highly influenced by the mines. On Sunday mornings, at the mine compounds, a favorite tourist attraction is the dances performed in costume by the native mine workers, a genuine example of African talent.

South Africa is also famous for its diamonds and another tour of interest is a trip through a diamond -cutting factory where, it is well known, a big diamond may be studied for months by the cutter before the first blow is struck. A mistake could reduce the value of the diamond by thousands of dollars.

The visitor to Johannesburg will find luxury, but not expensive, hotels and will have no fear concerning food or drinking water since all facilities are equal — or better — than in some American cities. South Africa has a wide variety of exotic fruits which are excellent, and it is inconceivable that any visitor would miss the famous, tasty South African lobster tails. They are served in many ways, in butter, simmered, and served with noodles and brown rice being one of the most popular. Young fresh "mealies" (corn on the cob) is a delicacy, as well as "boerewors" (fresh farm sausage prepared in the Dutch manner).

The country carefully protects its wildlife, which can be seen, along with tropical birds and exotic flowers, in the many parks, gardens and reserves in and around Johannesburg.

South Africa is a big country — almost twice the size of Texas — and there is much to see. About 820 miles from Johannesburg is the famed Victoria Falls, discovered by Dr. Livingstone in 1855. Twice as high as Niagra, the falls are a mile wide and one of the great natural wonders of the world. A fascinating side trip here is one to Kandahar Island, campsite of Dr. Livingstone, where many hippopotami and crocodiles abound.

On the Northern Cape about 300 miles from Johannesburg is the famous Kimberly diamond mining center, accessible by plane or rail. A special attraction is the "Big Hole," a 3,601-foot abandoned shaft which tourists can view from observation posts.

Despite its fame as a hunter's paradise, Africa is famed also for its excellent fishing and South Africa offers some of the best. There is excellent trout and bass fishing around Johannesburg and superb deep - sea fishing at Saldanha Bay.

Snyder Sailor On USS Hector

Engineman Third Class Herman B. Farmer, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce W. Farmer of Snyder is serving aboard the repair ship USS Hector, operating out of Long Beach, Calif.

A pilot film for a new television series called "Convoy" was recently filmed aboard the Hector while she was in the port of Long Beach.

The series deals with merchant vessels of World War II that had to make the Atlantic crossing under the threat of being sunk by German submarines. In one episode, the Hector suffers a simulated torpedo hit and in spite of the smoke, fire and gashes in her deck, survives the attack.

Stars of the series are to be Miss Gia Scala, John Gavin and John Larch.

Nine "Candy Stripers" Receive Caps Wednesday
"Volunteer Junior Hospital Workers Doing Fine Job"

At a meeting held Wednesday afternoon in the Cogdell Memorial Hospital dining room, members of the "Candy Stripers", who have served 25 hours of service received caps.

The organization was started in February of 1959 as a Junior Auxiliary of the Ladies Auxiliary of Cogdell Hospital, and was first known as "Pink Angels", but later took the name of "Candy Stripers".

Any girl from 14 years of age through high school is eligible to become a member. Although the girls desire to join the organization they still must have consent of their parents. They are a complete organization within themselves with their own officers, rules and responsibilities, and under the direction of the hospital administration and Director of Nursing.

The members go through an orientation program which plays a most important part in their training. New volunteers are shown the physical layout of the hospital, told of the inter-relation of its departments, and the relationship between the hospital and auxiliary is explained, thus making possible this working together harmoniously.

Volunteers occupy an unused place in the hospital. They receive no salary, they are bound by no contract, they are subject to no discipline except their own. It is for this reason volunteers should set up their own strict standards and live up to them. Ethics play an important part.

Such tasks as delivering mail, being an escort, doing small errands for the patients and nurses, reading mail to patients, mailing letters, writing birth announcements for new mothers, and so on, are performed by these young ladies who give their time on a voluntary basis.

These activities encourage self development, job satisfaction, good health and a reputable character and a willingness to help. The members say it makes them happy to be a member because they feel, and rightly so, that they are making a worth while contribution to the patient's welfare, and too, are increasing the efficiency of the nursing staff.

Dr. Pierce Speaks To Artists

The Palette Club met Thursday at 2:30 p.m. at Martha Ann Woman's Club for a regular meeting with Charlotte Etgen as hostess. Fifteen members and two visitors were present.

Dr. Robert B. Pierce, guest speaker, gave an interesting program on art's place in modern psychology. He told the history of art from the beginning to the present time, including modern art. Dr. Pierce discussed the mixing of colors, saying, "there were 1000 different colors, but more than 40 are seldom ever used. Blue is the most used color in America. It is used in most hospitals because it is restful to the eyes." He also told that colors and dyes are widely used in the medical field.

Dr. Pierce told of the life of the famous artist, Van Gogh and showed some of his paintings. Being an artist himself, the doctor enjoys art, but his medical profession comes first.

The club held a short business meeting and one painting was brought for criticism. Members are urged to bring paintings for criticism, which will enable them to become better artists.

Unusual Tasty Salad

Lobster salad is greatly improved by the addition of pieces of ripe melon or some white grapes. The combination of flavors is interesting and delicious. This tempting main dish salad is served along with golden twist brown and serve rolls, and sliced lemon or lime wedges.

LOBSTER SALAD

(Serves 4)

1 pound cooked lobster, cut in pieces

1 cup diced ripe melon (cantaloupe or honeydew) or 1 cup white seedless grapes

1 cup mayonnaise

1 cup sour cream

Mix together the mayonnaise and sour cream.

Toss together the lobster and fruit and mix with the mayonnaise and cream.

Chill well before serving.

Library Notes

Biology and medicine have come a long way in the 20th-century toward understanding disease and conquering many of man's afflictions. Scurry County Library has a number of books published in recent years explaining current medical progress and many books to aid an individual or family to better health habits.

Although there is no magic formula for warding off illness, there are many practical measures that can be taken to safeguard one's own health and that of their family. Common sense prevention is primarily an individual's responsibility. Diagnosis should be left up to the family physician.

Medical scientists are approaching major breakthroughs in control and cure of the three more costly diseases — heart ailments, cancer and mental illness. No Scurry Countian need be uninformed concerning this medical advance, or be unaware of things they can do to prevent illness and accidents.

Today more is known about the heart and the prevention and treatment of heart trouble than ever before. In a book, "Your Heart and Common Sense," Dr. Robert J. Needles gives practical and helpful information concerning the heart. The author is recognized as one of the nation's pre - eminent heart specialists. In this book the scientific answers to many questions can be found about the heart, strongest, toughest muscle in the human body. The heart is an organ more efficient than any machine yet made by man. Dr. Needles gives the best methods to help prevent heart trouble, and how to continue a happy and productive life if it occurs. The book is so clearly written that any intelligent layman can understand it, and it is so expertly done that it contains virtually all that is known about this important organ. If a family is troubled by fears about the heart of one of its members, this book will help to put needless fears away so that the future may be faced with courage based on sound advice. The heart is the heart of life itself, but today many know less about it than of the latest achievements in outer space.

In his book, "The Human Brain," Isaac Asimov describes in detail the central nervous system, consisting of the spinal cord and the brain. He discusses the hormones, or chemical messengers, then turns to the nerves, those living threads that wire the body for action and carry their delicate split - second electrical messages toward and from the central nervous system. The sense organs, too, are considered. Asimov obtained his PH. D. in chemistry at Columbia University and is Associate Professor of biochemistry at Boston University School of Medicine. He is fascinated by all branches of science. This well - known author has written nearly 50 books, including science fiction.

"In one or more ways, each of us carries within him a treacherous ally of the major killing diseases — his own urge to self - destruction," says Dr. Peter J. Steincrohn, author of "How to Stop Killing Yourself." The major killers — heart disease, high blood pressure, cancer and accidents, can often be conquered if the self - preservation urge is brought into play, the author asserts. Dr. Steincrohn points out that the manifestations of the self - destructive instinct are self - treatment, procrastination, overwork, overeating, worry and carelessness. This is a thought-provoking book. The author alerts the reader against the subconscious tendency to aid those mortal enemies. If one is aware of the conflict within between self - destruction and self - preservation instincts, half the battle has been won.

"Life and Disease," a book on new perspectives in biology and medicine, is edited by Dwight J. Ingle. This volume explains medical advances and offers a look into the prospects for future progress. This book deals with the problems of the great killing diseases — cancer, infection, disorders of metabolism, diseases of the circulatory system, and of the nervous system. Focus is placed on the exciting current fields of investigation. The editor, an eminent medical researcher, gives a fascinating view of man's imaginative warfare against disease.

A specialist in internal and preventive medicine, Edward R. Pinckney, M. D., tells how to travel safely, avoid accidents at home and at work, and what vaccines are advisable and when in the book, "You Can Prevent Illness." Dr. Pinckney also discusses preventive dentistry and eye care, mental distress and its prevention, and the relation of emotional upsets to cholesterol levels and coronary disease. Any individual or family can profit from the common - sense, expert advice given in this book.

"Margin of Safety" by John Rowan Wilson is the story of the rise and fall of poliomyelitis, and particularly of the development of the polio vaccines. This book contains a brief and clear explanation of why polio appeared to flourish in the United States, and why it seemed to attack the wealthy and middle classes; why at first children were most frequent victims, and why later no age group was immune. The author focuses his story on the doctors who worked to perfect the vaccine, their backgrounds, problems, triumphs, and disappointments. Wilson brings to this story not only his own scientific knowledge and background but gives thumbnail biographies of other scientists who worked under various pressures which were unavoidably associated with the polio vaccine project from its beginnings.

A step-by-step approach to fitness after 30 is given in "How to Keep Fit and Enjoy It," written by Warren R. Guild, M.D. Everyone over 20 years of age should read this book. It is a practical approach to the problem of passing years and shows how to get in good condition and stay that way during the middle years — and have fun doing it. Guild, a well-known doctor at Harvard Medical School is a specialist in physical fitness. He gives the latest information on diet, exercise, nutrition, sports, blood pressure — all based on scientific research. The author describes tests for fitness among special groups, such as those afflicted by heart ailments or victims of any of the crippling diseases, and explodes many popular misconceptions about fitness.

This book gives sample diets for reducing, and an enlightening discussion of various weight-reducing systems and current dietary fads. It stresses the fact that a fitness program should be undertaken for fun to be successful. Dr. Guild shows how to make fitness an enjoyable experience that will pay big dividends in general health, daily outlook, self - confidence and appearance.

Many common fallacies about food and digestion are exposed by Richard Carter in his book, "Your Food and Your Health." Carter is an eminent doctor and researcher. This book helps the reader to bridge the gap between what most people believe about diet and digestion and what medical science has proved. This book explains the "disease of emotional origin" in an entirely new way; offers proof that people who attribute digestive troubles solely to foods are mistaken; discloses that food allergies are far less common than supposed; criticizes the "regularity" fad and the use of laxatives; presents new facts about overweight; tells how to reduce and who should not try; examines "the big cholesterol scare," and offers an amazing new insight into dietary treatment of heart trouble. Carter separates conventional notions of diet and digestion from scientific fact, and clears away misconceptions, myths, and double talk surrounding diet and digestion, and gives the general reader sound, fresh, and an encouraging view of the subject.

Centuries before the discovery of penicillin, man experimented with antibiotic substances. Helmuth Boettcher, in his book, "Wonder Drugs," tells the story of miracle drugs from the earliest times to the latest developments of modern medical science. It is an amazing story, of the trials and errors that led to the big breakthrough, and of what happened afterward. In this clear and entertaining history of the "wonder drugs," Boettcher describes many sources of healing used in primitive societies, some still used today. The greater part of the book, however, is devoted to the revolutionary discoveries of the last century; the work of Pasteur and Lister, the discovery of penicillin, the development of streptomycin, Terramycin, and Aureomycin, and the rediscovery of the efficiency of some of the medicinal plants that were used in the Middle Ages.

Beside books on more recent medical discoveries, and treatises on how to keep fit, the library has many books on the history of medicine and surgery, as well as biographies of many renowned doctors, surgeons and medical scientists from the time the first oath of Hippocrates was taken.

Altrurian Club Has Law Study

Sixteen members of the Altrurian Club responded to roll call after Mrs. Giles Bowers, vice chairman, called the meeting to order Friday.

To start the New Year with a thought toward the mechanics of procedure a discourse upon the uses of parliamentary law was given by Mrs. Arthur Blanchard, parliamentarian.

A quotation "A thousand years scarce serve to form a state; an hour may lay it in the dust," headed the lesson titles, "Americanism in Other Lands," and "Communism versus Christianity."

Mrs. Dave Harlin's discourse on the former title included political or international relations of America with foreign countries, as well as individual images created by our countrymen. Religion also enters into the picture, as we are represented by missionaries in several nations. The Civil Defense operates as a governmental project, giving physical and educational impetus to efforts toward advancement, she said.

Individually, Mrs. Harlin suggested that Americans, accused of leaving impressions of superiority, should strive to erase that image with a liking for people, by understanding, by appreciation of each culture.

Mrs. Hugh Taylor began the comparison of christianity and communism, two opposing ideologies, or religions, by referring to "The impenetrable iron curtain. Winston Churchill coined that phrase, and for many years no peep holes existed. The question, if it is a good condition for a nation, why the secrecy?

An occasional defection from the tightly guarded country gives a refutation of many of their claims. Their attitude toward the small nations which the Soviet Union has enslaved, also speaks volumes against their beliefs, to liberty loving Americans and other free nations.

America, founded by people seeking religious freedom has a great heritage to uphold, a great source of inspiration for spiritual strength. The leaders of such a nation, have many perplexing decisions to make, in the intimate relations of a world of nations today."

Mrs. Taylor gave an amusing story relating to inner weakness and ended her discussion with a prayer for strength and courage.

The interviews will be conducted by Mrs. Beulah W. Bean at the Texas Employment Commission, Commercial and Professional Office, Fidelity Union Tower Building, 8th floor, 1507 Pacific, Dallas. Interviews daily from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Appointment for interview may be made by calling Mrs. Bean on RIverside 7-2071. A group interview will be held at 6 p.m. on the two Wednesday evenings, February 3 and 10.

Overseas assignments are open to young women with secretarial experience and good shorthand and typing skills. The applicant must be single, at least 21 years of age, an American citizen, without dependents, and possess excellent health and character.

The majority of secretaries are assigned to headquarters in the capital cities of such interesting countries as Laos, Viet-Nam, Iran, Pakistan, Turkey, Ethiopia, Nigeria, Ghana, and elsewhere in the Far East, Near East, and Africa. Positions are also available at headquarters in Washington, D. C.

A. I. D. administers the economic and technical portion of the Foreign Aid Program in more than eighty missions in the Far East, Near East, Africa, and Latin America. Through programs of agriculture, engineering, public health, education, and other fields, A.I.D. helps in the development of better standards of health, well-being, and opportunity for people in under - developed countries, in order that they might play a more affirmative and responsible role in the modern world. It is an agency of the Department of State.

The secretarial recruitment brochure, "How To Go Abroad As A Secretary" will be sent upon telephone request to Mrs. Bean.

Cadette Troop 325 met Wednesday afternoon with 12 girls present.

Mrs. W. R. Everett gave a very interesting program on parliamentary Rules and Procedure. She has promised to come again next Wednesday and show us how a meeting should be conducted correctly. We appreciate Mrs. Everett's giving us this instruction.

Troop 325 gave a donation to Goodfellows and also contributed 12 hours of work at headquarters, filling orders. They took the old - fashioned Christmas tree that they had decorated with candy, popcorn, and cranberries, to Snyder Hospital. The girls also made Christmas cookies for some special orders. All members have finished "Good Grooming" badges and completed their "Challenge of Social Dependability." The girls are also working on stuffed toys for small patients at Cogdell Hospital.

Cadette Troop 266 meets Monday afternoons at the Girl Scout House. Mrs. Mildred Byers, their leader, worked during the fall in the United Fund office and troop activities were directed by Mrs. Cleo Keller, assistant leader. Attendance has averaged about 20 girls and Mrs. Keller has stressed working on badges.

During the early fall Gene McWhorter, of the Snyder Police Dept., came to the Scout House and talked to the girls on bicycle safety, a requirement on their Cyclist Badge.

During Fire Prevention Week in October the Troop visited the Snyder Fire Department for a tour through the facilities and heard a lecture by the Fire Chief on "Fire Safety in the Home."

Another special project was undertaken through the cooperation of Texas Electric Service Co. and the Company's Home Service Representative, Mrs. Joyce Williamson. The troop was divided into two groups and each group took a series of five cooking lessons using the "Junior Miss" cookbook. At the end of this course, Mrs. Williamson awarded eighteen certificates of Achievement to the junior cooks. We appreciate Mrs. Williamson's help with this interesting project!

Troop 266 did not have a gift exchange at their Christmas party but each girl brought an item for Goodfellows and also contributed $5.00 from their treasury to Goodfellows.

To help with their expenses the girls sold Girl Scout Calendars during the fall. They are now looking forward to Cookie Sales, starting Jan. 29th, and to many spring activities, climaxed by camp this summer at beautiful Boothe Oaks!

Kitchen Islands

The popular trend to "open" kitchen design has brought a new idea to kitchen planning — the free - standing unit, or "island." Use of the free - standing unit often adds new countertop and storage space. Countertops, of course, should be surfaced with a waterproof and stainproof material such as ceramic tile. Use of ceramic tile in conjunction with countertop ranges is particularly important, since real tile is impervious to hot pots and pans.

STRETCH is the big word in adult wear, but now it comes to children's outdoor apparel in this handsome, practical jump suit of stretch nylon. The one-piece suit has zippered front, draw string hood, stirrups below tapered pants with zippered bottom. The shell is stretch nylon and rayon, with nylon fleece lining. The attractive styling combines blue or red center panel with black sides. It's lightweight, very warm, long wearing, and can take the rough and tumble wear that youngsters will give it.

THIS EASY swing coiffure is designed on a wig as one of the new Spring and Summer "Swingheart" hair fashions for Spring and Summer 1965. It features the important role that wigs play in today's hair fashion picture. Ideal for the wig that can travel, for the wig after that last dip in the pool on a hot summer eve . . . an easy swing from carefree play into a quick and glamorous change for dinner. Of course it can also be designed on your own hair. The silhouette features the little head look with a gentle rise at the crown. Soft curls at the crown enhance its light and airy feeling, as do the curls at the sides, which move forward as if in play with a gentle breeze.

Journey Into Minds Of Fear

THE BLUE ROOM. THE ACCOMPLICES. By Georges Simenon.

In the case of Simenon, the term "psychological novel" means much more than a mental minuet among brooding introverts. He is a master of a far tauter, more shaking narrative which exposes minds under extreme tension.

Two examples of this skill are contained in this volume. Each is about half the size of the usual novel, a terse medium in which the author is at his best.

They are quite different, yet each of them has a central figure whose obsession with sex is part of his weakness.

In the first, "The Blue Room," a man named Tony has been snared into a lusty affair with Andree, a devouring vampire of a woman. Tony dries to break off, with disastrous results.

The story builds to its climax while Tony keeps reconstructing the events of his last assignation with Andree. The reader gradually learns that Tony is on trial, that his life is at stake, and finally becomes aware of what tragedy has been. It is an edge-of-the-chair study in horror.

In "The Accomplices," Joseph Lambert, a contractor, has been having a sordid physical alliance with his secretary, Edmonde. Joseph causes a road accident in which a school bus is wrecked and burned, but flees from the scene. The rest of the story is a nightmarish account in which the fear of discovery is paramount.

This is strong medicine. Simenon has an uncanny virtuosity about taking his reader right into the quivering minds of his characters, and — with a stark economy of words — creaging the tensions that they feel. He is a narrator who seizes, holds and shakes his audience.

Setting The Mood

Color creates the mood or atmosphere in a room — it can make a room seem gay, restful, warm or cool. That is one reason why ceramic tile is an ideal decorating material. Ceramic tile is available in more than 150 colors and an infinite number of designs. For the most successful use of color in a room, says the Tile Council of America, balance the various intensities and values.

If you've never done it, painting a ceiling while standing on the floor sounds a little ridiculous. But it is being done every day quite successfully.

I had heard about it for several years, but not until recently did I get a chance to try it out. Aside from the fact that my neck ached a little after I was through, everything worked out pretty much as everyone said it would. It took about one-fourth less time than ordinarily, due to the fact that climbing up and down a ladder was eliminated, except for the painting of the strips of ceiling next to the walls.

To paint the ceiling in this way, you need a roller, plus a long extension handle. It takes a few minutes to get used to wielding this contraption, but after a while you have no trouble. The trick, if there is one, is to paint an area of the ceiling slightly ahead of where you're standing rather than painting the section directly above you.

The principles of painting a ceiling with a roller are the same whether you are standing of the floor or on a ladder or work platform. (You can get Andy Lang's detailed booklet, "Paint Your House Inside and Out," by sending 25 cents and a long, stamped, self - addressed envelope to Know - How, PO Box 954, Jamaica, N.Y., 11431. )You must put enough paint on the roller so that it will spread easily, but not so much that it will drip while you are painting. Roll firmly and smoothly, but pressing too hard also will cause dripping and spattering. Work across the width of the room, rolling from a dry area into a wet one, blending in the laps. Don't spin the roller at the end of a stroke.

You'll need a ladder and a brush to paint a narrow strip next to the walls. Paint this strip as you go along, although if you are using latex paint, the stripping can be done all at one time, since this type of paint is less likely to show lap marks. Edging rollers are available to handle this strip painting if you wish. Some persons swear by an edging roller, others prefer a brush.

Each dip of the roller into the paint tray should enable you to cover an area about two feet long and four feet wide, using back and forth strokes. If you do not already have a roller and go out to buy one before tackling the ceiling, this information may help you: rollers made of lamoswool are excellent for most oil paints, but not for enamels or latex paints. Synthetics are good for all types of paints. Mohair is especially good for enamels. Shortnapped rollers work better on smooth surfaces, longnapped on rough surfaces.

QUESTION: I recently put a new washer in one of our kitchen faucets. It stopped the very bad leak we had, but there is now a tiny, infrequent but steady drip. I looked up a do-it-yourself magazine I happened to have in the house and it said that any dripping which continues after a new washer has been installed can be stopped by using a faucet dresser, but I don't know what a faucet dresser is and can't find a definition for it. Can you tell me something about it and whether you think it will help in this situation?

ANSWER: A faucet dresser, or seat dresser, or any one of several other names, is a small tool used for smoothing the seat on which the faucet washer goes up and down. If this seat has become corroded or irregular or otherwise marred, the washer doesn't sit on it properly and some water gets by even when the faucet is turned off.

A faucet dresser is a kind of a combination filer - sandpaper which smooths the seat. Because of the difficulty of smoothing anything in such an inconvenient place, manufacturers had to come up with an odd-shaped gadget that fits down into the faucet and is turned by means of a handle. There are various types, manufactured by different companies. Your hardward dealer will know what to give you if you explain what it is to be used for.

Most dressers include directions for proper use. If the one you buy does not have such instructions, ask the dealer to show you how it is used. In nearly all cases, smoothing the faucet seat will eliminate the dripping. If it doesn't you may have to purchase a new faucet assembly.

(Fixing leaky faucets is one of many subjects included in Andy Lang's booklet, "Make Simple Plumbing Repairs," which can be obtained by sending 25 cents and a long, stamped, self - addressed envelope to Know - How, PO Box 954, Jamaica, N.Y., 11431. Thirty - five other home repair jobs are discussed in question - and - answer form in "Here's The Answer," available at the same price. Be sure to specify which booklet you want.)

Toperettes Install New Officers

Snyder Toperettes met Tuesday night in the Stanfield cafeteria. Approximately 30 members were present, with four new members and a transfer from the Abilene Tops Club.

President Edna Lieb opened the meeting with prayer. Zula Miller called roll and read the minutes. New officers for 1965 took office. They are Edna Lieb, president; Zula Miller, secretary; Eleanor Burns, treasurer; Dell Smith, vice leader; and Betty Woolridge, weight recorder.

Mrs. Lieb read a letter received from Doris Horton, Tops Area Supervisor, congratulating the Snyder Toperettes on their accomplishment in "Taking Off Pounds Sensibly" in 1964. Several members received merit awards from Mrs. Horton for their weight loss in '64, and hopes are high for a Toperette to win in the state convention of TOPS.

Group points were given, with group one remaining high with 65, group two 55, group three, 63 and group 4, 63. Points are given for each group, pertaining to weight loss and attendance.

Raisin Compote

2 cups white raisins
1 cup water
1 cup honey
Grated rind of 1 lemon
½ cup pine nuts

Soak raisins in water to cover for 1 hour; drain. Boil together water and honey for 2 to 3 minutes. Add raisins and lemon rind; simmer for 10 minutes over low heat. Skim with slotted spoon as needed. Add pine nuts to raisins. Chill thoroughly before serving.

On an average day there are more than 1,300,000 persons in hospital beds in the United States.

West P-TA To Meet Monday Night

The West Elementary Parent Teachers Association reminds members and those interested that they will hold their panel discussion Monday night at 7:30 p.m. in the speech - arts room. This meeting was previously scheduled for last Monday.

The panel discussion will be on the subject of "Cooperation of school and P-TA," and will consist of Mr. J. L. Browning, Dr. Robert Clinton, Mrs. Robert Sims and Mr. Bob Womack.

There will be a problem and solution period, so members are asked to come with questions in mind.

Refreshments will follow.

DRUG FACT 1

Although some prescriptions cost more, and some less, the average price is only $3.25 — less than the cost of a good dinner. But regardless of cost, modern prescription drugs are your best health value today, because they do so much for you. In almost every case, they help reduce your total cost of illness. Prices at our Prescription department are always uniformly fair.

Red Policies Have Altered But Little

By HENRY S. BRADSHER

MOSCOW (AP) — The first 100 days after Nikita Khrushchev, now ending have brought a change more of style than substance.

Policies are basically the same as they were. Peaceful coexistence seems still the byword of Soviet foreign policy. There is no reconciliation with China. Domestic policy has so far been punctuated only by minor efforts to win popular favor.

But the style of leadership has changed strikingly.

Khrushchev his personality on government with a flair that made him an engaging character, whatever his faults. Now government and party are an almost uniformly gray color of anonymity. Their New Year's message to the Soviet people lacked any individual name. Pictures of public meetings show the general scene rather than closeups.

The men who took over Khrushchev's jobs, Leonid Brezhnev and Alexei Kosygin, shun the personal approach.

Devotion to collective leadership is being advertised as the correct policy according to Marx and Lenin. It could hide a struggle for power, a disagreement over who should get the spotlight.

"You can pick any one of half a dozen names for the man who will be on top in the next few years," says a diplomat long experienced in Soviet affairs, "and it might be right — but it would be a lucky guess."

Brezhnev and Kosygin head the list. The earlier "B and K" team of Nikolai Bulganin and Khrushchev was only transitional. It took Khrushchev five years from Stalin's death to attain top jobs in both party and government.

Europe Feels US Holds Impossible Viet Nam Stand

By GODFREY ANDERSON

LONDON (AP) — Editorial comments in Europe about Viet Nam reflect a feeling that the American position is becoming untenable, that military victory is more distant than ever, and that President Johnson faces an almost impossible dilemma.

"In Viet Nam the President has got himself more firmly on the hook than ever," says the London Times. "More is required than a blank commitment to stay. The trouble is that a new approach to Asia requires a new approach to China, and that requires an effort to re-educate public opinion in America."

Generally, the British press shows more concern about Britain's own commitment in Malaysia.

Most French comment follows the government line that the Americans are fighting a losing battle and should adopt President Charles de Gaulle's plan to neutralize South Viet Nam through an international conference. The papers take the view that the Vietnamese are weary of continual warfare and that continued bickering among the Buddhists, Saigon politicians and the army is almost inevitable.

West German articles emphasize the difficulties of any settlement. Some papers have accused President Johnson of indecision. Others alleged rough tactics. One illustrated magazine compared the interrogation techniques of U.S. advisers in Viet Nam with Nazi brutality in World War II.

The General Anzeiger of Bonn said of Johnson's State of the Union message:

"The storm signals are set in Viet Nam. What causes concern is the hesitation of the President to take the matter resolutely in hand, to be unpopular if necessary, and to end the confusion and disunity within his government."

Amsterdam's Socialist Het Parool suggested a defensive attitude by Americans stems from the French press. But, said the paper: "De Gaulle would be the first to appreciate ... positive attitude from the American Government."

... Milan's Corriere Della Sera said Johnson had failed to clarify his intentions in the State of the Union message. It commented: "Even if the South Vietnamese miraculously were united and gave themselves a stable government, they could not win. Everybody knows it. And Secretary of State Den Rusk says the contrary because he does not want to say that the President is preparing to accept defeat."

Denmark's Politiken said Washington could have no illusions about the price of moving toward cease-fire negotiations.

Ironically, it observed, Gen. Nguyen Khanh was "a product of U.S. efforts in South Viet Nam in recent years, of the military buildup, of his U.S. masters' attitude to Far East problems, and of the work of U.S. intelligence."

It continued: "One nods in recognition at everything said by Khanh, because one has heard it before — from disappointed generals in South Korea, from their colleagues in Formosa and Laos."

Said Borba in Communist Yugoslavia: "If the war cannot be won, wisdom suggests to try to achieve the utmost from peace and negotiations. The Geneva agreements on neutralization of Indochina represent a good field in that direction."

Moscow's Red Star said the Pentagon and its generals seek to escalate the war. It promised aid for North Viet Nam if attacked. Several Soviet commentators predicted an ultimate Communist victory. Polish, Bulgarian and Czech comment followed the same line.

TOKYO (AP) — The Japanese press generally takes the view that the strength of the Viet Cong stems from Vietnamese nationalism which can not be subdued by military force alone.

While editorials have been urging the United States to reappraise its policies, none has advocated a pullout of U.S. forces from South Viet Nam.

The usually pro-American Daily Sankei said in an editorial:

"If it is impossible to annihilate, by military force alone, those transformed nationalists, the Viet Cong — who have an enormous supply source in North Viet Nam and Communist China — then would it not be worth giving consideration to setting up a neutralist regime of the Laotian type?"

Asahi, one of the most respected dailies in the country, commented: "The nucleus of the antigovernment movement may be composed of small segments of Communists. However, this movement is supported by nearly two-thirds of the entire population. Is this not because these people regard it as a national liberation movement?"

The paper opposed a sweeping U.S. withdrawal from the scene.

Junior Editors Quiz on VOLCANOS

QUESTION: Can a volcano erupt underwater?

• • •

ANSWER: Yes. Deep inside the earth lie masses of rock so hot as to be in the form of a fiery liquid called magma. Magma contains explosive gases which press upward. When there are cracks or openings in the earth's surface, molten magma pours up as a volcano and shoots out. Its cooling stage is known as lava, which piles up around the volcano and can build into a tall, cone-shaped mountain. In the case of a crack or weakness in the earth's crust covered by ocean water, the same thing can happen. With tons of sea water above, the volcano can not shoot its lava so high. Yet a sub-sea eruption can pile lava up into a mountain form (upper right), and if this builds above the surface, a new island will appear in the ocean. A great many oceanic islands, especially in the Pacific, have been formed in this way. In warm waters, after an island appears, coral reefs begin to grow around its edges. Through changes below, many such islands have sunken slightly. But the fringe of coral reef will continue to grow up to the water's edge. Debris and wave action will build it up and make enough soil for palms to grow and there will be a beautiful South Seas "atoll" with an inner lagoon of quiet water, and natives singing and dancing on the beach.

• • •
