Grand opening slated

The First National Bank of Sonora will be hosting an old fashion celebration and open house of all banking facilities on Saturday, June 30, 1984, beginning at 9 a.m.

With the completion of construction of the new office complex, the bank has reached its goal of providing modern facilities for our growing community.

KVRN radio will broadcast live at the Open House, with tours available of the facilities as well as refreshments ans balloons to be given away to the youngsters.

Persons over the age of 18 will be eligible to win various sums of money through the Automatic Teller Machine, just by trying out the machine. According to bank vice-president Harold McEwen, bogus money as well as real money will be interspersed in the teller machine. Bank employees will be expanding the operation of the machines to the public by using the machine.

Registration for door prizes at the Open House celebration has already begun, and will continue until 3:00 p.m. Friday in the main offices of the bank. On Saturday persons still wishing to register for the $300 grand prize, $150 second prize or $100 third prize may do so at the walk up window in the new drive in facility. Drawing for winners of the door prizes will be held between 11:45 and 12 noon Saturday. It is not necessary to be present to win.

First National Bank has long been a guiding influence in our community. They invite all of the citizens of Sonora and surrounding communities to come on out and see the new facilities and share in the celebration of the opening of the office complex.

Longer lease rejected

The Sonora City Council met in their regular monthly business session Tuesday, June 19, to discuss several items on their agendas.

Approval of minutes of the May 15 regular meeting and the June 13 special meeting was the first item on the agenda.

Superintendent of schools James C. Bible, along with school board members Kenneth Cayce and Rosemary Mathews were present at the meeting to request annexation of the property on which the new high school complex will be built. The Council approved the petition for annexation and set an on-site hearing to review the property and begin procedures for annexation of the property.

The Sonora Independent School District also petitioned the Council concerning the lease of lots 10, 11, and 12 of Block 21 for a period of 99 years.

According to SISD superintendent Bible, the school board and the city council negotiated with the railroad five years ago concerning the property. In October of 1982, the railroad released the property to the City of Sonora. The school district then leased the property from the City for a period of five years with the intention of using the property as a band marching area. With the construction of the new high school complex and the added area for practicing that the band will acquire, the school district realized that the land was not necessary for that purpose.

In March, the Yellow Rose partnership, a private business, requested from the board the release of that property for the location of a proposed roller skating rink. The board agreed to release their hold on the property, pending city council approval. The Sonora City Council on June 13 denied the request of the Yellow Rose partnership for lease of the property.

The school district still retains three years on the five-year lease of the property in question. According to Superintendent Bible, the school district would like to extend the lease for the requested 99 year period in order to build permanent housing for school district employees. In presenting the district's proposal, Bible stated, "The school district feels that the permanent facilities will not only benefit the neighborhood, but the community as a whole."

The Council expressed concern over the length of the proposed lease as well as the possibility that the city may lose tax exemption on the property if the land is not used exclusively for public purposes.

A motion was made by Matt Davenport to deny the request of the school board until the Council completes study of the future possibilities of use of the land. Seconded by James Trainer, the motion died for lack of majority approval.

The Council decided to table further discussion and action on the proposed lease. Mayor Gosney noted after the item was tabled, "before we jump, let's find out where we're gonna land".

The City Council approved a request to make Water Street a through-street from the intersection of Water and East Second to the intersection of Water and Oak in front of the local post office. The designation of Water Street as a through street will coincide with Crockett and Concho streets which also run in the same direction, and will hopefully assist in alleviating the traffic congestion around the school campus.

Earl Johnson with West Texas Utilities appeared before the Council to present the proposed rate hike submitted by WTU to the Public Utility Commission on June 8. WTU has requested a 12.4 percent increase in utility rates from consumers for the construction of future energy lines and facilities.

The Council unanimously denied the request on a motion by Hershel Davenport, seconded by Margaret Cascadden.

City Attorney David Wallace presented to the Council a memorandum outlining the legal regulations of peddlers and solicitors inside the city limits.

According to the memorandum, the courts are not at

DRN deadline changes told

According to Carol Jones, publisher of the DEVIL'S RIVER NEWS, deadlines for the July 4 issue of the paper have been moved up so that employees of the DRN may observe the Independence Day holiday.

The advertising deadline will be Friday, June 29 at 5 p.m. for that issue, and the editorial deadlines will be at 3 p.m. Friday, June 29. This will enable the staff to complete the production of the newspaper that week earlier in order to get all papers mailed by Tuesday afternoon.

The office of the Devil's River News will be closed all day Wednesday, July 4 but will reopen at 8 a.m. Thursday, July 5 for regular business.

Your cooperation in this early deadline situation will be greatly appreciated.

Construction plans finalized

The Board of Trustees of the Sonora Independent School District met twice last week in called meetings to select a high school principal on June 18, and also to approve construction documents for the new high school complex on June 19.

Milton T. Asbill was selected by the board as the new high school principal for the 1984-85 school year. Mr. Asbill has been employed as the Garden City high school principal for the past two years, and was the principal in Bronte for a number of years prior to that. Asbill's wife Dorothy is also a teacher, but will not be teaching this year in the Sonora schools system. The Asbills have two children, a daughter in the sixth grade and a son who will be entering the first grade when school resumes.

At 7 p.m., June 19, the board once again convened in a special session, the sole purpose of which was to approve 100 percent plans and construction documents for the new high school complex.

Before the board granted approval on construction documents they reviewed minor changes in the construction plans with Ed Sevcik of SHWC, Inc., the architectural firm which designed the complex.

Sevcik related to the board the changes in floor coverings, connections for computers, additional chalkboards, cabinets and electrical outlets.

Following a brief discussion of the restroom exhaust systems, the Board agreed that a keyed-control type switch would most benefit the building and prevent against vandalism and the accidental turning off of the system.

SISD maintenance supervisor Max Hardegree expressed to the board his concern that the heating system for the high school called for only one water pump to be installed. The board agreed with his contention that in case of that pump's failure, the building would be without heat, possibly for days, considering Sonora's isolated location and the difficulty in obtaining parts, and ordered an additional override pump for the system.

On a motion by Jimmy Condra, seconded by Kenneth Cayce the board unanimously approved 100 percent of the plans and construction documents for the new high school.

SHWC, Inc., the district's architects were unanimously authorized to issue plans and specifications to prime contractors for bidding purposes on construction of the new high school. The motion was made by Scott Shurley and seconded by Rosemary Mathews.

County raises salaries

In a special meeting Monday, the Sutton County Commissioners Court approved a motion to raise all County employees salaries 10 percent. The move came after much debate on the size of the pay increase and in reference as to who all would be allowed a raise.

The motion approved by the Commissioners would allow all elected officials excluding the Commissioners and County Judge a raise in pay. The Commissioners will have a decrease in salary. They will be paid only $100 monthly, but will retain all health benefits and travel allowances. The pay raise will go into effect on October 1.

Also during the meeting, the Commissioners approved the purchase of 36.676 acres of land from the Cahill heirs for the relocation of the Sutton County Road Department yard. The cost of the land is $5,000 per acre, bringing the total purchase price of the tract to $180,000.

The Commissioners once again sent Sheriff Bill Webster back to his department empty handed as they decided to postpone any decision on the use of money collected by the Sheriff's department through a contract with the Federal Bureau of Prisons. Webster requested that the money be used in replacement of the payment of utility bills by the County.

In his remarks to the Court, Webster noted that the department agreed to take on the additional work of the Federal contract for the purpose of collecting more revenue to put back into the Sheriff's department.

He noted that if the money was not spent in his department, the contract would be void. The Commissioners have agreed to allow the Sheriff's department to proceed as it has until October 1. At that time, they will review the matter and the use of the money collected under the contract.

all concerned with protecting local merchants from outside competition. The memorandum outlined the present methods of licensing, regulations governing interstate commerce, and the "Green River Ordinances" and Sherman Antitrust Act.

According to Wallace, the question of the validity of the present ordinance is a question of reasonableness. He commented that there is no doubt that the City of Sonora could go little beyond its present fee structure. He also suggested that in the licensing procedure, there should be some mention as to health, welfare and safety so as to avoid the possibility of someone raising an antitrust claim.

Wallace suggested that there are two commonly recognized methods of a city regulating peddlers and solicitors within the bounds of the law. The first is regulation of vehicles selling from the roadside and the creation of traffic hazards. Such vehicles may be regulated from that standpoint. He also maintains that most vendors are subject to sales tax. If a vendor is operating in a community without a sales tax permit, the State Comptroller's office should be contacted to investigate. A call should be made to the sales tax division at (512) 475-1931.

First National Bank history recapped

(Editor's Note: The story of the founding of the First National Bank of Sonora was told by W.L. Aldwell and appeared in the San Angelo Standard Times in January of 1929 and also in the Diamond Jubilee Edition of the Devil's River News, August 19, 1965. Here is the story of E.R. Jackson, the father of the First National Bank of Sonora.)

E.R. Jackson was born in Kentucky in 1869 and came to Texas about the year 1875 and located at Austin. He worked at several jobs there.

He first left Austin in 1878, or it might have been 1879, with a freighting outfit, heading for El Paso. He was robbed of $100 near the Old Fort Concho, and he got off there. He put in his time in painting the old John Arden ranch house on Middle Concho.

He then got employment with Captain Culberson on what is known as the Keystone ranch on Spring creek where he hearded sheep six months for $100.

He returned to Austin and in some way met up with Captain Culberson again. Culberson formed a partnership with Stillson and Caso and purchased a bunch of sheep near Sabinal.

Captain Culberson employed Mr. Jackson to assist him in driving these sheep to Tom Green County to the head of Dove Creek. This must have been about 1879.

Shortly thereafter Captain Culberson and Eli Stillson employed Jackson to take charge of these 6,000 head of sheep, at $30 a month. Afterwards, he raised the wages to $35.

Was a Ranch Foreman

During his foremanship of this ranch, W.L. Aldwell met Jackson. Along in April they decided to leave and, as Aldwell had come down there to invest in sheep, they left for Mexico by the way of El Paso, there being no railroad at Chihuahua at that time further south than Laguna.They eventually arrived at Sonora, Mexico, where they spent a couple of months, and then in behalf of the firm of Jackson and Aldwell, Aldwell purchased 3,000 ewes from Manuel Pena in the town of Santa Casa, which they drove to somewhere about five miles north of where Sherwood is now located.

During their absence, the Ben Ficklin flood had taken place. The people had moved over to San Angelo, and Ed Jackson took several jobs painting while Aldwell looked after the sheep. That was the foundation of the magnificent fortune that E.R. Jackson had accumulated when he died.

In 1896, Mr. Jackson purchased the Natural Well Ranch, which was afterward known as the 09 ranch. Then Aldwell and Jackson dissolved the partnership for two or three years. In 1900, Aldwell and Jackson again formed a partnership in the cattle business. The principal part Aldwell played was looking after the cattle that they shipped into Indian territory and those they shipped to feed lots.

Sold 09 Ranch

In 1899 Mr. Jackson sold out the 09 ranch to Montegue, and in 1900 he organized the First National Bank of Sonora. In 1903 he organized the Landon Bank of San Angelo. This was after the terrible fire which destroyed the biggest part of Sonora. There was a question whether the town would remain stable enough to continue the banking business. If not, we could move to the Landon National Bank of San Angelo. The results of the organization of the bank of Sonora, however, are shown today.

Mr. Jackson died on the 23rd day of December, 1911. He was a keen business man of good judgement. A loss never shocked him. This was proven by the big loss of the Bachelor and Company of 1900 in New Orleans and also the loss of over 165,000 during the Scully corner on cotton. He never quit dealing in cotton until he died. He was a great believer in buying cheap and selling at high prices, and just before he died he was contemplating selling all of his livestock interests that he had accumulated after coming to Sonora and leasing his ranches.

At that time he had about 21,000 head of goats on his ranches. Economy was the watchword. Many a time he criticized Aldwell for stopping at a high priced hotel, and also any man that rode in a sleeper when he had spent many a night on the open range with only a blanket. Many have known him to have a good pair of gloves, take them off his hands and sell them at a profit of 25 cents, while he suffered from the cold. He was the last person of whom he thought of taking care of.

W.L. Aldwell, first Mayor of Sonora, and second president of the First National Bank, had much to do with building the financial condition of Sutton County, as well as being the one who may be credited for the bank's moving into its new home and office building in 1929. He became president of the bank after the death of E.R. Jackson, his brother-in-law.

He was at the bank during the early days; he led patrons of the bank through the stormy panic of 1907; and he cared for his customers during the deflation period following World War I.

However, Mr. Aldwell always maintained that growth and progress experienced by the bank was due to the patriotic spirit of the citizens of Sutton County, and that the success of the institution was but a reflection of the splendid type of patrons.

Native of Canada

A native of Canada, born in Ontario of February 17, 1859, Mr. Aldwell grew up as a subject of the king of England. He attended the public schools, but cut short his education when he was 13 years old. At this age he started into a financial venture for himself.

He worked for three years, saving enough from his salary to get a start in a small country store. He made a paying proposition of the store and invested his capital on a large scale, buying loads of livestock across the waters. Mr. Aldwell, in 1881, came to Texas to go into the sheep business.

His first stop was in Eden, Texas. He constructed the first house there, in the spring of 1881. After selling out his interests in what is now Concho County Mr. Aldwell was employed as "wagon boss" by E.R. Jackson for Captain Culberson.

Mr. Aldwell and Mr. Jackson necame interested in making a joint purchase of sheep and in April 1881, left for Mexico, and spent two months across the Rio Grande. They failed to make a trade with Governor Terranza to purchase 15,000 head of sheep on the shares.

Deciding to go to El Paso and on to New Mexico, they stopped while en route in Sonora, Mexico, and made their first joint purchase of sheep. They bought 2,000 ewes from Manuel Pena of Santa Casa and trailed them through the country to a place about five miles north of Sherwood.

Start Handling Cattle

While the sheep business was proving highly profitable, Mr. Aldwell and Mr. Jackson began handling cattle.

They fed cows for several years, always making headquarters at San Angelo, shipping them to Denton, Fort Worth, and Little Rock.

Mr. Aldwell was married to Miss Winnie R. Harris, a half-sister of Mr. Jackson of December 5, 1884. They had four children, Marjorie, Roy E., George Lea, and Ida.

Desiring to invest money Mr. Jackson decided to organize a bank at Sonora, then but a small ranch headquarters town, and with Mr. Aldwell's help, the organizational meeting was held on May 3, 1900. Mr. Jackson was elected president and Mr. Aldwell was made cashier.

Goes To Eldorado

Mr. Aldwell, assisted by Mr. Jackson and others, organized the Eldorado State Bank in 1907, operating the institution until it was merged with the First National Bank. The consolidation of the banks would be a good thing for the country. He was vice-president of the state bank.

It had long been a dream of Mr. Aldwell to provide Sonora with railroad facilities, and his efforts to have the Orient build here were untiring, but successful. He made several trips to Washington to confer with the Interstate Commerce Commision concerning the matter.

Mr. Aldwell was quite active during the war, heading the Liberty Loan drives, being on the board of the Red Cross, and lending his assistance in any manner possible.

He served as Sonora's first Mayor and later as Alderman. Whereas he was an independent Democrat, Mr. Aldwell never took much part in politics. He was named vice-president of the sixth district, Texas Bankers Association in 1910.

Roy E. Aldwell, who served as the second vice-president of the First National Bank, was another director of the institution whose time was divided between the banking and ranching industries. Aldwell Brothers, Roy E. and George L. owned extensive ranching interests in Sutton County.

Aldwell was born in San Angelo in October of 1887, moving with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W.L. Aldwell to Sonora in 1900. He attended the public school in Sonora, beginning his banking career after school hours and on Saturday. He was graduated from Sonora High School with the first class of boys ever to leave the school and entered Texas A&M University. He graduated from there with a bachelor of science degree, having specialized in electrical engineering.

Aldwell entered the bank immediately upon graduation from college and rose to the rank of assistant cashier by January, 1912.

Aldwell resigned from the bank and enlisted in the army on August 17, 1917, being stationed at Camp Stanley, Leon Springs, officer's training school. He was commissioned as a first lieutenant on November 30, 1917, and assigned with the 64th Infantry. From there, he was sent to headquarters of the 7th Division at Waco, and sailed for France on August 11, 1918, less than a year after he had enlisted.

Aldwell was assigned to the 7th Division staff throughout the war and was just back of the front lines from that time he reached there until October 17, when he went to the front lines and remained a month until the armistice was signed on November 11.

He returned to the U.S. in May of 1919, and to his position as cashier of the First National Bank on June 10 of that year.

Because of business matters, he resigned from the institution on August 23, 1919. The firm of Aldwell Brothers was started at that time on the 40-section ranch about 15 miles southwest of Sonora. They ran cattle and sheep.

Aldwell was out of the banking business from the time he entered the ranching business until July 14, 1925, when he again became an official member of the board of directors. He was elected to the position of second vice-president on January 10, 1928.

In 1931, Aldwell became the president of the bank, succeeding his father, W. L. Aldwell.

He had married Mrs. Alla Hastings, a daughter of Don Rogers of Hillsboro on June 12, 1912. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Aldwell had one child, the Rev. Lea Roy Aldwell, who now serves as the president of the First National Bank.

Headlines for Homemakers

Almost 200,000 Texans will say "yes" to the insitution of marriage this year. Yet according to family educators, only 2,000 of those commitments will naturally result in highly sucessful marriages. The rest will require a conscious effort to produce a strong relationship. And if current rates continue, some 80,000 marriages will end in divorce.

Most couples recognize that solid marriages require developing the skills necessary to create a rewarding relationship. The wedding is just the beginning of a growth process that sould last the lifetime of a marriage.

An essential skill is the ability to make a commitment to the marriage relationship and make a conscious effort to enrich it.

Communication skills are also important to a strong marriage. What frequently appear as difficulties in a marriage -- money, in-law relation, sex, parenting difficulties -- are often signals that the couple does not communicate well.

Honesty is a skill that many people feel they have, only to discover that in the closeness of marriage they retreat to "coverups" and "hidden feelings." The game of make-believe can weaken a relationship while honesty and confrontation can result in negotiation and problem-solving.

Sensitivity to habits that annoy your spouse can bring personal as well as marital benefits. People bring many habits they have acquired through the years into a marriage relationship. Not all of those habits may be worth keeping. Putting the top back on the toothpaste tube, for example, is a small price to pay for harmony.

Self-confidence is necessary to let a marriage breathe. To much togetherness can be as damaging as too much separation. A good marriage seems to have two individuals who sucessfully interact. Times of togetherness and separation to pursue individual interests need to be balanced.

Romantic skills are also needed in marriage. In a healthy marriage, the initial flames of romantic excitement mellow into an expanding glow of gratified love. Yet the couple does not take the relationship for granted, and they continue to enhance it through expressions of tenderness and affection.

A happy marriage is one of the most rewarding human experiences and a foundation for strong family relationships. Saying "yes" doesn't guarantee a successful marriage, but developing your marriage skills is at least a "good bet."

SISD hires business manager

Warren McCarson of Talpa has been officially named the Sonora Independent School District Business Manager with his duties to begin July 2. He is replacing Vivian Miaers who resigned that position earlier this month.

McCarson and his wife, Mary Ella, will be moving from Talpa this month.

Mrs. McCarson has been hired by the school district as the junior high language arts teacher.

McCarson resigned his position of superintendent of Talpa-Centennial schools last week to accept this position. He had held that post for the past six years. Before moving to Talpa, McCarson was the superintendent at Comstock for five years. Other posts held by McCarson include high school principal at Freer, junior high school principal at McAllen, and he coached in Premont, Marathon, and Odessa.

He received his masters and bachelor degrees from Sul Ross University and graduated high school in Del Rio.

Mrs. McCarson will be leaving her position of counselor for Coleman County Schools to take the language arts position here.

She earned her bachelor degree from Pan-American University in Edinburg and her masters degree from Angelo State University. She is a graduate of Alpine High School.

The McCarsons are members of the Immanuel Baptist Church of Talpa where McCarson was the music director.

The couple has three sons including Mack who will graduate from Southwestern Baptist Seminary in July, Michael who graduated from Angelo State University in May, and Andy who will be a sophomore this fall at Angelo State University.

Fuchsia plants are named for botanist Leonhard Fuchs.

Walk by faith, not by sight...

BY CHARLES HUFFMAN

"So we are always of good courage; we know that while we are at home in the body we are away from the Lord, for we walk by faith, not by sight." 2 Corinthians 5:6-7

Among thinking people the dominant philosophy today seems to be a deep, dark pessimism.

In the beginning of the 20th century the world thought that a great world war was impossible; surely people were too well educated, too 'enlightened' for that. Then the most tragic war in history blazed out. We said that if we must bear this fearful affliction, we will make it yeild a blessing; we will wage war to end war.

But another world war resulted, and now what do we have? People fainting as they fearfully wait for what will happen to the world (Luke 21:26). Millions of men in arms, standing ready to strike; nations striving to beat all others in developing defensive and offensive weapons; everyone on tiptoe waiting for whoever will strike first; crushing taxes, and pools of nuclear arms.

Can we follow the Apostle Paul's admonition to be thankful to God in spite of all this? (Esp. 5:20)

Yes, because we are Christians, and Christians hold the true philosophy of history. The world by sight, and so the world usually moves pendulum fashion, in extremes. The idealists have been telling us for the last 100 plus years that the world was getting better and better every day in every way because of the goodness of human nature. This is false optimism and cannot be equated with the cold facts of life. People listened to the melodies of this 'Pied Piper' idealism and dreamed of universal brotherhood.

The rude awakening is that we still live in a fact world full of hatred and jealousy, of death and destruction; and for those who believed the fairy tale the shadows of pessimism have become deeper and darker than before.

We Christians are free from both, from false optimism and from an exaggerated pessimism. We know that the devil is still the god of this world, and so it does not surprise us that the whole world is in the power of the evil one (1 John 5:19).

Unless we go thru life blindfolded or wear rose-colored glasses so that we see everything in a false light, we must see that sin and its consequences are a dreadful reality, and that the idea of the world getting better with each succeeding generation is a great deception.

As long as man remains what he is, conditions will remain what they are, varying a bit one way or the other, but essentially the same.

As long as man is corrupt and an enemy of the Cross of Jesus Christ - essentially he will remain that to the end of days - we must not expect to see a millennium.

Christians have no false optimism, so the present conditions cannot disillusion us and drive us into rank pessimism. The world is not getting any better, but it's not getting any worse either, basically. The outbursts of sin grow worse at times, and these outbursts we as good citizens try to curb. But basically the world is now as it has always been, corrupt in sin. And we know that there is only one help for that - the Gospel of Christ Jesus, and we help to spread that.

The world walks by sight, and so all the world's joy and confidence and thankfulness is for the days of sunshine, and never for the cloudy days. When the weather changes, the gloom of pessimism descends on the world, and pessimism is a sworn enemy of gratitude.

Christians walk by faith, not by sight. We see things that are not good, but we can look across all of them and be thankful because we know the end of the story - a blessed end.

When Joseph brought his two sons, Manessah and Ephriam, to his father Jacob for the blessing (Gen.48), the tradition of placing the right hand on the eldest was broken. Joseph placed his sons so that Manessah, the firstborn, was at Jocob's right but he crossed his hands and gave the blessing in spite of the protest.

God sometimes bestows His blessings with crossed hands. When men ask Him for His blessing they usually, and I suppose naturally, have in their mind a preconcieved and prearranged schedule - that's the way they want their blessings to come, and that's the way they expect them. It's like filling out a blank form and asking God, 'Please sign on the dotted line.' They want to dictate to God the way in which He should bless them.

The world that walks by sight sees only the crossed hands, and it cries out, "All wrong," and sinks into pessimism. A Christian walks by faith, and faith sees the blessing despite the crossed hands. We know that even when God has crossed hands they are still the hands of blessing. If the blessing does not come our way, it is because ours was not the best way.

That is why we are grateful we are Christians; we know that God's hands are the hands of blessing even when they are crossed. Pessimism reigns in the hearts of those who do not believe the Gospel of our great Savior. But as Christians we rejoice in His love and mercy that never fails.

Let us open our eyes to see that the Lord is good and sign our songs of praise and adoration to Him who has loved us and gave Himself for us, even Jesus Christ the risen and reigning King of Kings and Lord of Lords.

LCRA report given

A high-level planning and policy committee has recommended that the Lower Colorado River Authority take the initiative in regional planning and participating in water and wastewater-treatment projects in the lower Colorado River basin.

The unanimous recommendation comes from the LCRA Planning and Public Policy Committee, comprised of 7 LCRA directors. The committee made its recommendation at May 25 meeting in Austin and will place it for consideration by full 15-member LCRA board of directors at its June 19 meeting.

The recommendation states that LCRA shall demonstrate "initiative in regional planning within the Lower Colorado River Authority's watershed, and shall encourage and may participate in financing, building and operation of interjurisdictional water and wastewater supply and treatment facilities within the Lower Colorado River Authority's 10-county district, and in addition shall take a leadership role in anticipating and responding to public service needs as they relate to water resources."

LCRA's 10-county statutory district includes San Saba, Llano, Burnet, Blanco, Travis, Bastrop, Fayette, Colorado, Wharton and Matagorda Counties.

While the recommendation covers a broad range of responsibilities, no specifics are mentioned as yet, said committee chairman John Jones of Brady. "That will come later, if the full LCRA board adopts the recommendation." Jones also serves as vice chairman of LCRA's board of directors.

Jones noted that LCRA's Enabling Act enpowers the Authority to carry out the recommendation.

"The Act charges us with controlling, storing and distributing the waters within the boundaries of our 10-county statutory district," he said, "and provides the means to carry out these responsibilities."

In carrying out its mandate, LCRA has built the chain of Highland Lakes dams, provided flood control, and established a water-quality monitoring program in the Lower Colorado River watershed, Jones noted. The Authority has also worked with city, county, state and federal agencies in planning and protecting the area's water quantity and quality.

"It is now a question as to how much further LCRA wishes to go in carrving out its mandate," Jones said. "The options are many, but one thing is clear: with the rapid population growth and the increased demands and pressures on the watershed's limited water resources, regional cooperation is needed to emphasize the proper control and protection of the water. And we feel LCRA is the appropriate agency for that purpose."

ORDINANCE NO. 266

Denying the rate increase sought in the filing of June 8, 1984, and establishing as current rates for electricity and the furnishing of electric service those rates of West Texas Utilities Company previously in effect; providing severability; and providing an effective date.

WHEREAS, in accordance with Article 1446c, Section 43, V.A.C.S. on the 8th day of June, 1984, West Texas Utilities Company filed its Statement of Intent to change rates effective July 13, 1984; and

WHEREAS, the City Council, after hearing all evidence and arguments regarding such new rates, and carefully considering the same, finds that such new rates as requested in the Statement of Intent filed June 8, 1984, are not reasonable and that the rates presently charged by West Texas Utilities Company are just and reasonable and sufficient to enable such Company to earn a reasonable return in the City of Sonora in respect to the Company's fair value rate base and fair rate of return, using the test year ending March 31, 1984;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF SONORA:

SECTION 1 That the request for change in rates, as specified in the Statement of Intent filed with the City June 8, 1984, is denied in its entirety.

SECTION 2 That the charges for electricity and electric service within said City shall be those set forth in the Electric Rate Schedules, Riders, Policies and Service Rules and Regulations previously filed with the City and authorized to be charged by such City pursuant to proceedings before the City Council.

SECTION 3 If for any reason any section, paragraph, subdivision, clause, phrase, word, or provision of this Ordinance shall be held invalid or unconstitutional by final judgment of a court of competent jurisdiction, it shall not affect any other section, paragraph, subdivision, clause, phrase, word or provision of this Ordinance for it is the definite intent of this City that each of such be given full force and intent for its purpose.

SECTION 4 This Ordinance and the terms herein shall be and become effective from and after the 13 day of July, 1984, and concurrent with the service of the same on West Texas Utilities Company as the Order of this City Council as required by Article 1446c, Section 43(f), V.A.C.S.

SECTION 5 That all Ordinances, Resolutions or parts of Ordinances or Resolutions in conflict herewith are repealed to the extent of such conflict.

A Salute to First National Bank of Sonora

The Devil's River News

Published Weekly in Sonora, Texas— "The Capital of the Stockman's Paradise"

94th Year | Sonora, Texas 76950 | Wednesday, June 27, 1984 | Phone 387-2507 | 1B

Serving Sonora and Sutton County for nearly one hundred years, the First National Bank has set an old fashioned Open House and Grand Opening in celebration of the completion of the new office complex.

The complex which may accomodate four private offices also houses a meeting room for the use of our community. The entire community is invited to help First National in celebrating the completion of this project.

First National is still growing

First National Bank of Sonora has experienced a surge of growth in the past ten years as evidence by the newly completed banking facilities.

First National moved into their present office building on January 30,1978. At the time, the building occupying an entire block of Main Street was sufficient to adequately house all of the bank's offices and facilities.

With the addition of new services and with the influx of business, the bank needed more space.

On January 28, 1983, some four years after moving into the new building, groundbreaking ceremonies were held for the expansion of facilities of the First National Bank. Today, the completed structure fea-

see GROWING p. 2B

First National Bank has long and colorful history

The First National Bank of Sonora was organized in 1900 by E.R. Jackson with the use of the capital he had obtained from selling his holdings in the "09" Ranch.

He consulted many of the townspeople before undertaking the task of organizing the bank. Among the early organizers of the bank was E.F. Vanderstucken. The citizens of Sutton County were of the opinion that our county offered many good opportuinties and our county needed a bank. They felt this in spite of the fact that two banking institutions, the Sutton County Bank, and the Bank of Sonora had failed.

Mr. Jackson was undaunted by the previous bank failures, however, and with the help of W.L. Aldwell he held an organizational meeting in Sonora.

Officers of the newly organized bank which was to open in August included Mr. Jackson as president, Mr. Aldwell as cashier, and Mr. VanderStucken as vice-president.

Those who were present at that first meeting were VanderStucken, Aldwell, D.A. Cauthorn, J. Lewenthal, S.G. Tayloe, Geo. S. Allison, R.F. Halbert, and Walter Whitehead.

The first directors of the bank were Jackson, Aldwell, VanderStucken, Allison, Halbert, Cauthorn, and Whitehead.

The building committee was to supervise construction of a building to provide office space for the institution. But because of the slight delay in completing the construction of the building, the bank opened for business in the office of VanderStucken's general store, staying there a few days and then going to the Bank of Sonora located in Hagerlund Brother's store. The new bank used these quarters for two or three weeks until the new building was completed. The $2,500 bank structure now houses the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Deposits were light, the bank at first operating on Jackson's capital, as well as with amounts borrowed from correspondent banks. Customers, from the start, became either heavy borrowers or heavy depositors.

Though he was consulted on all matters of importance, Jackson spent little time inside the bank, devoting most of his time to ranching interests. His judgement, however, was always considered in banking problems.

Fire Causes First Loss

A loss of approximately $3,000 was suffered by the bank shortly after it passed its second anniversary. Sonora's most disastrous fire, which destroyed a large portion of the business district and burned several residences, damaged the building and its contents. The records in the vault were not harmed.

The institution's first noticeable growth came on October 4, 1910, when the board voted to double the capital stock to $100,000 and surplus to $20,000. The change was made on October 8 and brought a steady flow of criticism from bankers throughout the state. It generally was considered folly for an institution to have less deposits than capital stock. On October 8, the day the change was made, deposits amounted to $84,347.80. On September 5, 1910, shortly before the stock was increased, the financial statement of the bank showed resources to total $273,754.35.

When Jackson, founder of the bank died on December 23, 1911, Aldwell was elected president, Vander Stucken retained the position of vice-president, and Roy E. Aldwell, son of the president was elected assistant cashier.

After World War I, George H. Neill, who was then assistant cashier, took over Roy E. Aldwell's position. Aldwell left the bank because of other business matters.

The First National Bank of Sonora became a member of the Federal Reserve Bank System on January 13, 1914. This membership has been retained since that time. Resources of the institution doubled between 1915 and 1920, as it is shown in the statement issued at the close of business September 8, 1920. Resources were shown to aggregate $868,501.93.

Realizing the need of a loan company, in addition to the bank to provide adequate service to the livestock industry served by the bank, the First Loan tures 7300 square feet of space with a large meeting room which may be divided into three sections, and four spaces for private offices in sizes ranging from 200 to 1400 feet of floor space.

Also added through the expansion was an eight-lane drive-up banking facility, a commercial window, a walk-in teller.

The move of all the drive-up facilities has somewhat relaxed the space crunch at the main Remodling of the existing building has been completed with a coffee room, computer room and store room added on.

First National has also added the convenience of a an Automatic Teller Machine. The machine, just now being implemented will be functional on July 2,1984, to aid First National customers in their after hours banking business.

Also added to facilities at First National is the time and temperature sign, a real asset to our community.

The officers and directors of the First National Bank are proud to announce the grand opening of their new facilities, and invite all of the public to attend on Saturday, June 30 from 9 a.m. until 12 noon.

HISTORY

Company was organized on June 1, 1926. The company had a capital stock of $25,000, and its officers were made up of members of the board of the bank.

Bank Needs New Building

The building of the First National Bank's next home in 1928 was evidence of belief in Sonora by bank executives. This faith in the progressiveness of Sonora was not in vain, for the building served as the bank's home for fifty years.

Now housing Sonora City Hall, the building at that time was a marvel. Located on one of the main corners of the town, the building was built directly on the Old Spanish Trail, facing Main Street and siding on Concho Avenue. It is said that hundreds of tourists, driving over the Old Spanish trail, stopped to inspect and compliment the building.

The new structure was 35 feet wide and 90 feet long and consisted of a basement, first floor, mezzanine floor, and the top floor, which is devoted to office space. While the structure really was a four-story building, it appeared to be but two stories.

"Convenience and service" were the keynotes of the new building's plan. The main banking room was spacious, being 35 feet wide by 50 feet long with a ceiling height of 21 feet.

In 1959, the bank was remodeled, enlarged, and modernized. The Hamilton Grocery store next door to the bank had been purchased and was used to enlarge the bank's office space. The ceiling was lowered and the mezzanine floor, used for directors and stockholders meetings was enlarged. A new lighting system was installed as well as carpeting, drapes, and central heating and cooling. The bank's interior was repainted and another tellers cage was added.

Thank you First National Bank for helping Sonora grow.

Tee Ball Astros

Astros, Astros, & Astros take Little League honors

The Sonora Little League Baseball Association held its end-of-season hamburger supper and awards presentation on Thursday, June 21 at the community park.

This year, the Astros in each of the League's three divisions ran away with the first place trophies.

According to statistics prepared by major league Cardinal coach John Gibson, the best batting average in the entire major league belongs to Sammy Sentena of the Astros with George Garcia, also an Astro team member, taking second place and Todd Keller of the Indians placing third.

Papo Sanchez had the best on-base record of the season in the major league with Albert Gremmel of the Yankees placing second and Sammy Sentena of the Astros taking third place in the stats.

Edward San Miguel fo the Astros scored the most runs in the major league this season, with Astros Sammy Sentena and Juan Ramirez placing in the second and third positions in a score run average.

Albert Grammel of the Yankees led the league in his average of bases on balls with Jason Donaldson of the Rangers taking second place and Papo Sanchez of the Cardinals taking third place.

Sammy Sentena of the Astros was the most consistent batter in the majors with 16 hits, followed by George Garcia of the Astros with 15 hits and Todd Keller of the Indians with 12 hits.

The minor league Astros had a very competitive year, facing tough opponents and winning the league title. The Tee ball Astros also placed first in their division. Upon presentation of the awards, coach Debbie Bounds remarked on how far the team had come from the day that baseball season opened. They remembered too. The three teams were presented with trophies for their outstanding performance in this year's season play. The Devil's River News congratulates all of the fine participants and coaches who make each year's Little League season such an exciting experience.

Jimco Lions

In Closing...

by Becky Collins

In closing I would like to thank the many coaches who were so ready to help with the production of this special tribute to our local baseball program. While waiting to take team pictures, I was allowed a glimpse of the determination and competitiveness of our local athletes, and was thrilled to see so many youngsters allowed the opportunity to participate in the Little League program.

I was also thrilled by the almost professional qualities of the mens' and womens' teams. Win or lose, the games were always exciting.

I enjoyed seeing you play.

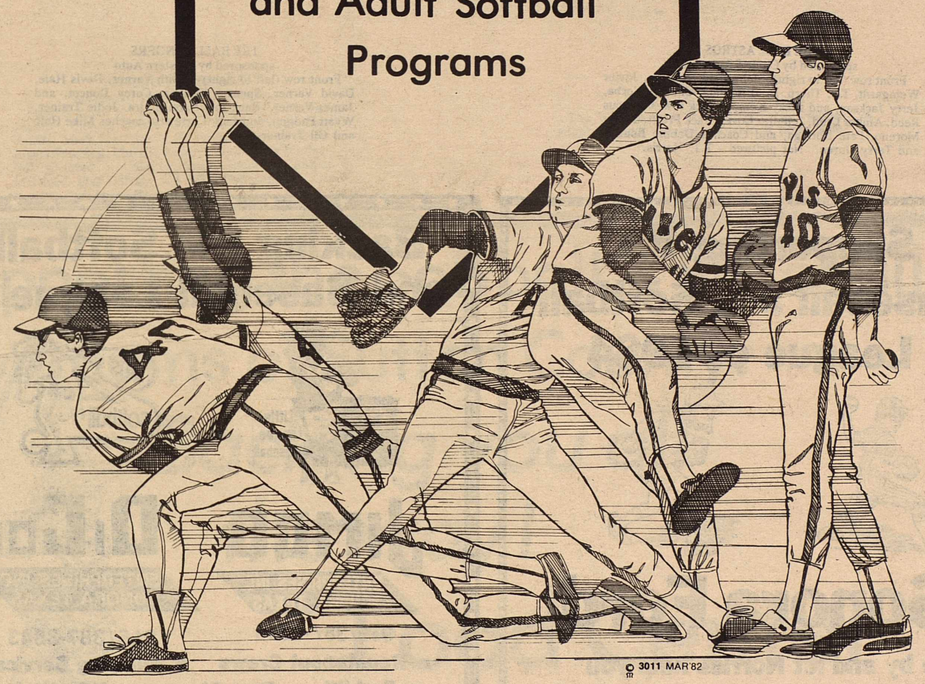

Rosters of some of the teams were not available at press time, but we felt that rather than leave one of the teams out, we should run the team pictures we had.

Once again, thanks for a very exciting season, and good luck to all of you next year.
