CLINE 'PROBABLE' CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR

Hail, Wind And Rain Cause $100,000 Damage To Sections Of Fort Worth

Home Town Talk

By B. D. D.

The sidewalks were filled with people and the streets were jammed with cars in Wichita Falls Saturday night. Traffic jams are inconvenient but its not so unpleasant to be in them when they bring the thought that only a busy place can have them. Business is picking up in Wichita Falls when the police have trouble in keeping traffic clear at the busy hours of the day.

Babson's business chart shows a continued improvement in business and sales opportunities for Wichita Falls, ranking Wichita Falls volume of business above that of Austin, Waco, Abilene, Amarillo, Port Arthur and other cities of that class.

The advertising campaign of the chamber of commerce is having good effect in impressing everybody with the magnitude of Wichita Falls' resources. We who are so near the industry and know something of the oil area around Wichita Falls have failed to realize that everybody don't know that our oil production has been maintained through a long period of years. J. C. Mytinger who has been largely instrumental in getting this campaign going, sent some of the pages of the advertisements and oil news and industrial development news to Mr. W. T. Ravenscroft, vice president of the First National bank of St. Louis, one of the largest financial institutions west of the Mississippi, recently. He received the following letter from Mr. Ravenscroft:

"Dear Mr. Mytinger—I think you very much for sending me the information about building in Wichita Falls. They are certainly going ahead rapidly in your part of the state.

"All of the clippings which you sent regarding your own business and that of the oil situation are very interesting. I was really surprised at the way the oil industry holds up in the Wichita Falls district. I was under the impression, and I know many of our people are, that the zenith was passed long ago.

"Thanking you, and with best regards, I am,

"Yours very truly,

"W. T. Ravenscroft."

Mr. Mytinger, could, and knowing him Talker can say that he is quite likely to write to Mr. Ravenscroft and tell him that oil production in the Wichita Falls area will show a large increase in the coming months and is likely to reach a new peak, and that an increase of 10 cents a barrel in the price paid for it will add $10,000 a day to the wealth of this section.

Fear of the future is being replaced with confidence. There is less talk of hard times. There is less unemployment. Business is on the mend in Wichita Falls and is likely to grow better during the coming months.

W. L. Andrews has set aside 1,500 acres of his West Fork ranch 10 miles southeast of Archer City on the headwaters of the Trinity for a game and bird preserve. He has already shipped in five buffaloes from the Goodnight ranch and expects to add deer, antelope, pheasants, wild turkey and quail, according to the Archer County News.

Mr. Andrews has the land, favorably situated for such a preserve, the money and the inclination to carry out his project. We cannot think of any better use to which his land could be put.

A proposal before the New York legislature to petition the national congress for a referendum on the repeal of the eighteenth amendment died when the legislature adjourned with taking a vote on the proposal. There can be little doubt but that there is widespread dissatisfaction for a variety of reasons to our present dry laws. Even the returns from Wichita Falls in the Literary Digest poll show more votes for modification and repeal than for strict enforcement.

But it will require considerable time and much effort to translate this dissatisfaction into political action just as it required great effort and many years to bring about the eighteenth amendment and a dry law for the nation. It is only when legislators and congressmen are convinced that predominate sentiment is for modification or repeal that there will be political action first in one state and then another.

Talker believes there are very few people who are satisfied with the present status of prohibition. Many want real prohibition, which we can hardly say we have, and many would like to see varying degrees of moisture. All of this agitation is going to get us somewhere and Talker believes that it will be in the direction of more sensible regulation and better enforcement.

Russo-Chinese Railway Meet to Be Held in May

MOSCOW, April 13. (US)—The final conference for the settlement of the Chinese Eastern railway dispute, which precipitated the Russo-Chinese clashes along the Manchurian border last fall, will be held in Moscow early next month, it was announced today.

Chun Shei, Chinese Nationalist foreign secretary for the province of Kirin, located at Harbin, has notified the Soviet government that the Nanking delegate to the conference will arrive in Moscow May 1.

ROOFS BLOWN FROM HOUSES DURING STORM

Tremendous Hail Fall Puts Pelets in Banks Eight Inches Deep

LIVE WIRES SNAPPED

Muny Airport Partially Wrecked as Airmen Keep to Ground

FORT WORTH, April 13. (AP)—A strong wind that unroofed houses inflicted damages of about $100,000 in Fort Worth tonight stopped all street cars and interurbans between here and Dallas and the rain of .24 inch, accompanied by heavy hail beat many leaves off trees and damaged backyard gardens.

The main damage was in the eastern, southeastern and far south portions of Fort Worth. Many roofs were taken off, shingles were knocked off, garages toppled on their sides, and chairs and movable furniture on front galleries taken 30 or 40 feet.

Wires Spout Electricity

Live wires spouting electricity on the pavements were reported in many sections of the city. The main damage appeared to be in Polytechnic, in the southeastern part of the city. On the far south side hail was banked from six to eight inches beside houses. In that section many roofs were taken off or damaged so the hail and rain poured inside the houses.

Doors were ripped off hangars at the Municipal airport by the strong wind and the airplane owned by William H. Dunning Jr., was damaged, and an inbound plane was forced down a Birdville, according to William G. Fuller, field manager.

The field was also thrown into darkness with several planes still scheduled to arrive and it was anticipated they would have difficulty in finding the field.

Lands in Pasture

Jess Bristow was piloting a plane forced down at Birdville by the strong wind. He was returning from Greenville with two passengers when he was forced to land in a cow pasture and tie his plane to the ground.

Jimmy Youngblood, piloting the Southern Air Transport passenger plane from Brownsville arrived over the field during the height of the storm with three passengers and was forced to remain aloft until a lull in the storm. He landed safely and the plane was rushed into a hangar before the wind again reached a high velocity, but he was unable to continue to Dallas.

Mail Planes Halted

Mail planes arrived from the north and from South Texas and although they were able to land safely, they were unable to continue to Dallas.

At 10 p. m. after a pause, the storm renewed as an electrical storm and the city was thrown into darkness.

Byrd's Sailing Vessel Beats Steamer to Port

DUNEDIN, April 13. (AP)—Dispatches from Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd's expedition ships today disclosed that the bark, City of New York, had beaten the steamer, Eleanor Bolling to Papeete, Tahiti.

The bark left here nine days before the steamer, the crew believing it could overtake the sailing ship on the first stage of the homeward journey to New York. The City of New York has hove-to, midway between here and Papeete for three days during a gale, but sustained the faith of her captain, expressed before sailing from Dunedin, that the "old ice ship always gets there." The Eleanor Bolling is due at Papeete Monday.

Lone Bandit Escapes After Robbing 12 Men

DALLAS, April 13. (UP)—Police tonight continued to seek a daring hijacker who put fear into a dozen persons in a single-handed holdup last night and escaped with $150.

W. H. Redman, manager of a chain grocery; M. C. Foster, an employe, and 10 customers held their hands down as they were told to while the unmasked and youthful bandit emptied the contents of the cash register into his pockets, backed out of the store and escaped in the darkness.

Olney Oil District Sets New Drilling Record

State Passes On 24 Well Permits Last Three Days

New Producer in Townsite Pool Stimulates Warm Development

Special to The Record News.

OLNEY, Texas, April 13.—Adding zest to the most rapid oil development in the history of the Olney district, the fifth producer was brought in today in the Olney townsite pool. This completion followed three days of activity which set a record for the district, comprising the south half of Archer county, the north half of Young county and Jack county.

Twenty-four drilling premits were filed with George W. Tilley, deputy supervisor of the oil and gas division, Texas railroad commisison, during the three days ending Saturday. This average of eight new locations per day has never been equally since the commission established the Olney office.

Cato Gets Well

The well brought in today is Cato's No. 1 Minor which is swabbing 300 barrels from the sand topped at 1042 feet and drilled 28 feet. It is 150 feet west of the city limits in section 157, T. E. & L. survey. While five new locations have been made, three tests are drilling and three others are on the sand in the townsite pool, the first dry hole in the area was recorded today. It is T. F. Hunter's No. 2 Benson, located 300 feet west of the Doyle No. 1 producer, and appears to have defined the western edge of the pool.

The district's 24 new locations were not confined to any one locality but spread the play over an even greater area than has enjoyed activity during the last several months. The new locations included none of the new wells reported planned near the Nash and Windfohr gusher at Graham.

Three Counties

Archer county, Jack county and Young county will share in the renewed drilling campaign. One of the more interesting wildcat tests announced is the Charles A. Elliott No. 1 S. R. Jeffrey, southwest of the Orth community. This lease is seven miles northwest of Newcastle and eight miles southwest of Olney.

Aged Man Dies When Flames Leap From Stove

HONEY GROVE, Texas, April 13. (AP)—R. C. Edwards, 65., was burned to death at his home near here today when he attempted to start a fire in the kitchen stove with a can of oil.

He dashed the oil into the stove, accidentally spilling some. The flames flashed out, igniting his clothing.

Edwards ran into the garden but when a neighbor who happened to see him reached the scene, his body was badly charred. He lived only a few minutes.

Eight Kidnapers Of Bristow Executed

MAZATLAN, Sinaloa, April 13. (UP)—Eight of the captors of J. E. Bristow, Texas mining engineer, were reported today to have been killed by federal troops under Gen. Pablo Rodriguez.

Girl 'Chute Jumper Narrowly Misses Trees in 18,000-Foot Drop Here

An unexpected variety of wind strata and a change in the direction of the wind at the surface of the ground almost spelled disaster Sunday afternoon for Miss Faye Lucille Cox, 19-year-old girl aviator, who made an attempt to set a new world's altitude record for women parachute jumpers in connection with the all-day air circus staged at the Municipal airport under the auspices of the Wichita Falls Flying Club, Inc., recently formed by the Junior chamber of commerce.

A crowd of approximately 20,000 persons representing a majority of cities and towns in this part of Texas and Southern Oklahoma witnessed the various events, according to estimates given by officials at the entrance. Cars lined the highway for miles on each side of the airport and every country road in a radius of two miles was crowded with automobiles. Fields surrounding the landing field were dotted with spectators on foot, and a detachment of city police were constantly at work to control the thousands near the runways.

Miss Cox in her attempt to break the existing record of 18,200 feet altitude for parachute jumpers, was forced to dive from the plane at an altitude of slightly less than

Last of 17 Victims of Mine Blast Removed as Inquiry Is Started

Bodies of Men Killed by Explosion Carried to Nearby Towns To Be Placed in Temporary Morgues

TACOMA, Wash., April 13. (AP)—The last of 17 bodies, victims of an explosion in the Carbonado mine of the Pacific Coast Coal company, was taken from the mine early today and placed in temporary morgues.

Wives and families of the miners, who had pressed against a rope barrier about the mine entrance, maintained their vigil until the work was complete. Then they went to their homes, indifferent to the investigation begun immediately to determine the cause of the blast.

Carbonado is a tiny mining village, high in the footholls of the Cascades. Without facilities for caring for the 17 mine victims, the bodies were taken to Buckley and Enumclaw, nearby towns.

The 12 married men among the vitics, leave, besides their wives, 23 children.

A broken air hose on a drill may have saved 60 other miners. The day shift of 60 working on the Douty seam in the second level, where the blast occurred, failed to fire the customary final shot because of a break in their drill hose. The smaller afternoon shift of 21 men which went on at 4 o'clock took a new section of hose into the workings. Mine officials believed the crew repaired the drill, placed charges and then fired them—and that this caused the explosion which killed them outright. Four of this shift were far separated from the other 17 and were uninjured. They did not witness the accident and could suggest no reason for its cause.

CHILD DIES OF INJURIES

Crash Near Bellevue Fatal To Dallas Girl

Francis Adelle Anderson, 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Anderson of Dallas, died in a local hospital at 11:30 o'clock Saturday night from a fractured skull received when she was thrown from an automobile in an accident near Bellevue about 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

The child was hurled from the car into a ditch when the car turned over after a tire had blown out. Charles Ten Eyck and Miss Marilla Ten Eyck, uncle and aunt of the child, and Miss Louise Coffee, all of Fort Worth, were injured slightly. They were taken to Bellevue for first aid treatment.

According to witnesses, the auto turned over twice after leaving the highway. The party was en route to Vernon.

The body of the child was forwarded to Dallas at noon Sunday by the Merkle Undertaking company, accompanied by her parents.

Brady Expected To Seek Transfer

AUSTIN, April 13. (AP)—Attorneys for John W. Brady, charged with the murder of Miss Lehlia Highsmith, were expected to file a motion for a change of venue when the case is called for second trial in district court tomorrow.

Judge J. D. Moore, in whose court the case is pending, said he understood the defense would submit affidavits alleging a jury could not be obtained here because of the wide publicity given the first trial, which was concluded Feb. 8, after the jury could not agree on a verdict.

Committee Favors More Judges for Dry Cases

WASHINGTON, April 13. (US)—Appointment of some 15 additional federal judges to relieve the congestion of cases in the courts due chiefly to prohibition, will be recommended by the house judiciary committee, it was learned tonight.

Having virtually decided to reject the "juryless trials" proposal of the Wickersham law enforcement commission as a solution for the court congestion problem, the committee has turned to the idea of appointing extra judges where congestion is greatest.

Woman's Party Moves For Complete Rights

WASHINGTON, April 13. (US)—Encouraged by the stand of the United States at The Hauge in refusing to sign the nationality convention of the world code discriminating against women, the national woman's party voted today to launch a congressional campaign for full nationality rights for American women, at home and abroad.

Panhandle to Remove Oil For Surface Tanks to Refinery Here

By TOM TRULY
The Record News Staff

GRAHAM, Texas, April 13.—The tide of battle turned definitely toward the forces of man today in the fight to fully control and conserve the production of Nash and Windfohr's No. 1 McCloud, the gusher which has brought leading oil men here from all over the nation.

Reports of scattered storms over Texas today caused grave concern here, although sunshine and floating clouds were in order in Young county. A bolt of lightning could undo everything which has been done on the McCloud lease, the resulting fire devouring surface oil and the escaping gas, while employes on the lease would be at the mercy of the gods.

The "ponds" built to retain the oil which cannot be accommodated by available tank connections have proved successful and although the loss through lowering of gravity, evaporation and seepage will be stupendous, the amount of oil to be saved will more than justify the relentless fight waged by the combined forces of Nash and Windfohr, Prairie Pipe Line company, Texas Pipe Line company and officials of the oil and gas commission.

Brush Removed

Work was started today on clearing the land around the well of every bush, tree and other form of vegetation to reduce the fire hazard. Carrying the safety measures to the last degree the huge task was undertaken with saws instead of axes to prevent the possibility of sparks. One tiny spark near the well would be enough to cause a loss of thousands of dollars and possibly death and injury to employes.

Panhandle Refining company of Wichita Falls today rushed preparations to remove the oil on the surface and transport it to the company's refinery in Wichita Falls. The Panhandle will remove approximately 40 tank cars of oil daily until the pumps have lifted every available drop of crude from creeks, ditches and pits.

'Buried Alive' Theory In Death Case Probed

GRAYSON, Ky., April 13. (AP)—A story that Mrs. Susie Vickers, 63, may have been buried alive two weeks ago, without the services of an undertaker, is to be investigated by a grand jury here tomorrow.

On the assertions of two women, who said they formerly employed her, that Mrs. Vickers was subject to fainting spells and would remain in a state of coma for hours, Circuit Judge G. W. Wolfford of Carter county announced he would convene the grand jury.

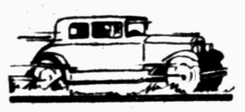

Chinese Mourns When He Escapes Punishment

EVANSTON, Ill., April 13. (UP)—I. K. Chiang, 19-year-old Chinese, sought tonight the punishment he felt he deserved, but which a kind hearted judge refused to inflict upon him.

Chaing was thoroughly depressed because Justice Samuel Harrison refused to impose any penalty upon him for passing a bad check in the shore store of David Kotz.

"In China when a member of a venerable and honorable family transgresses he takes his punishment gladly," said Chiang. "I demand that you punish me for the wrong that I have done."

The justice explained no punishment was necessary inasmuch as Kotz had refused to prosecute after Chiang had made restitution.

Pastor 15 Years

Dr. N. F. Grafton, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will end his service with that organization after 15 years, following his resignation Sunday. Dr. Grafton asked for a smaller church, declaring his health would not permit him longer to lead a congregation so large as the First Presbyterian.

DR. GRAFTON RESIGNS POST

First Presbyterian Pastor Asks Smaller Church

The resignation of Dr. Nat F. Grafton, for nearly 15 years pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Wichita Falls, was accepted at a congregational meeting of that church Sunday morning.

Rev. Mr. Grafton's resignation is to take effect on or before July 1, and in accordance with plans announced by him some months ago he will become pastor of the Floral Heights Presbyterian church and will assume charge of the Presbyterian mission and Sunday school in the Ray-Massie addition.

His resignation was in the form of a petition to the Amarillo Presbytery asking that the relations of pastor and church be brought to an end. Before the petition was voted upon Rev. Mr. Grafton repeated a statement he had made some time ago to his congregation saying that he did not feel the condition of his health would permit his continuance of his duties as pastor of so large a church. He requested that the petition to the presbytery be adopted by an unanimous vote and in compliance with his request the vote was unanimous. Storage Barn Swept By Flames at Jean

JEAN, Texas, April 13.—Fire of undetermined origin Sunday evening destroyed a feed-stocked barn belonging to J. T. Sims, prominent Jean farmer and vice president of the Jean State bank. The flames from the burning storage house endangered a number of adjoining structures and was brought under control with difficulty. Stanley Sims was overcome by smoke in his efforts to fight the fire. Loss, partially covered by insurance, was estimated at $2,500.

Bromley to Try Another Transpacific Flight

MEXICO CITY, April 13. (AP)—Harold Bromley, American aviator who failed in an attempted non-stop flight last July for Tacoma, Wash., to Tokyo, has announced he is returning to Tacoma to make another try at the transpacific flight.

He has resigned his job as commercial pilot on the El Paso-Mexico City mail and passenger air line, and will go to Tacoma immediately.

Plane Bears Invalid To Husband's Bedside

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 13. (UP)—After having winged its way from the Pacific coast, the hospital plane bearing Mrs. W. A. Pickering, invalid wife of a prominent lumberman, landed here at 1:30 p. m. today.

Mrs. Pickering was taken directly from the airport to research hospital here where her husband is confined, critically ill.

Jury to Complete Oil Swindle Probe Soon

LOS ANGELES, April 13. (US)—Whether more indictments are to be voted in the $100,000,000 Julian Petroleum corporation over-issue stock swindle will in all probability be decided this week, it became known today through the reported decision of the county grand jury to complete its investigation of the debacle as speedily as possible.

EVENTFUL WEEK SEEN

Young and Miller to Invade West Texas; Ouster Suits Up April 16

By B. D. DONNELL
The Record News Staff

This will be a week of important developments in Texas, and more especially in West Texas.

A West Texas man will announce during the next few days as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Two candidates, Barry Miller of Dallas and James Young of Kaufman will make extensive speaking tours in West Texas.

The state supreme court will hear arguments Wednesday at Austin on the petition of Thomas B. Love, Hoovercrat leader, to force the state Democratic executive committee to certify his name for a place on the ticket as a candidate for the nomination of governor.

Supreme Court Suits

On the same day the supreme court will hear arguments in the appeal of J. W. Nicholson vs. the Wichita county Democratic executive committee to restore Nicholson and others to place on the executive committee from which they were ousted in 1928 for refusal to support the Democratic nominee for president.

The three West Texas men, one of whom will announce as a gubernatorial candidate during the week, are Walter D. Cline of Wichita Falls, Senator Pink Parrish of Lubbock and Senator Clint Small of Wellington. The probability is that it will be our own Walter Cline, Mr. Cline, himself, Sunday night authorized The Record News to say that an announcement would be made within the next three or four days.

Only one of the three will become a candidate and the question has been left up to Mr. Cline's decision. A decision will probably be reached during the day.

Senator Small was here last Friday to confer with Mr. Cline and other friends, and at that time told Mr. Cline that he would not himself be a candidate if Mr. Cline would make the race.

Mr. Cline's name has been mentioned many times in connection with the nomination. Friends here some months ago petitioned him to become a candidate pledging him their support. At the time Mr. Cline said that he would give his answer later. Since that time there have been developments, which his friends believe, have made it more probable he would be a candidate.

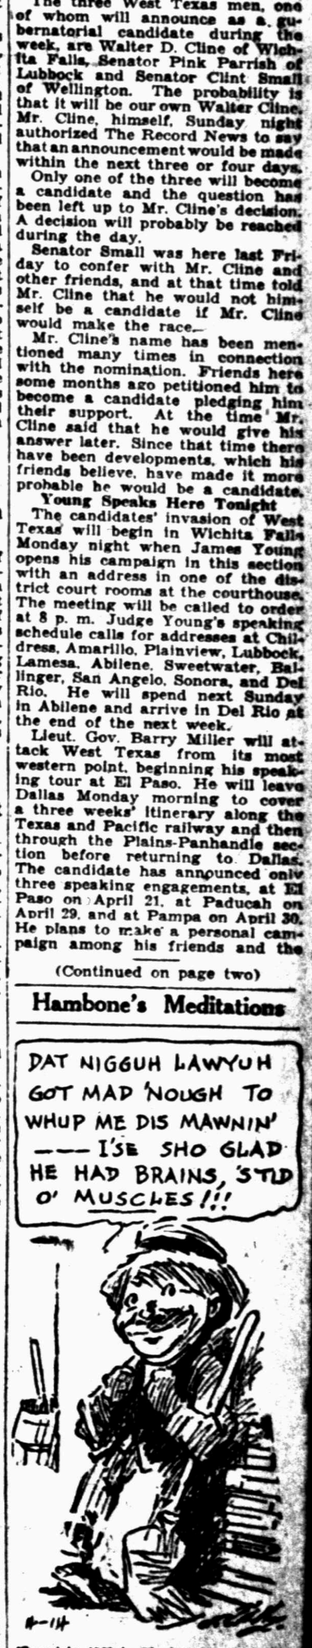

Young Speaks Here Tonight

The candidates' invasion of West Texas will begin in Wichita Falls Monday night when James Young opens his campaign in this section with an address in one of the district court rooms at the courthouse. The meeting will be called to order at 8 p. m. Judge Young's speaking schedule calls for addresses at Childress, Amarillo, Plainview, Lubbock, Lamesa, Abilene, Sweetwater, Ballinger, San Angelo, Sonora, and Del Rio. He will spend next Sunday in Abilene and arrive in Del Rio at the end of the next week.

Lieut. Gov. Barry Miller will attack West Texas from its most western point, beginning his speaking tour at El Paso. He will leave Dallas Monday morning to cover a three weeks' itinerary along the Texas and Pacific railway and then through the Plains-Panhandle section before returning to Dallas. The candidate has announced only three speaking engagements, at El Paso on April 21, at Paducah on April 29, and at Pampa on April 30. He plans to make a personal campaign among his friends and the Society Girl Sweetheart of Missing 'Artist-Airman Takes Air in Search

CHICAGO, April 13. (UP)—Miss Betty Cook, society girl sweetheart of Ralph Skelton, artist-aviator missing for two days, returned here late today from a four and a half hour flight over Lake Michigan without having located a trace of Skelton.

Skelton, famed locally for his portraits and exploits as a sportsman, took off from Ann Arbor, Mich., late Thursday for Chicago. He has not been seen since. Associates said they feared he attempted to fly straight across the lake as a practice jump for his projected flight to Europe this summer.

Miss Cook, pretty blonde girl in her early twenties, flew in a six-passenger plane with Pilot Clifford Condit and Melvin Swanson, friend of Skelton. They skimmed over the sand dunes along the lake shore and paid particular attention to an area about 20 miles square between Kalamazoo and Holland, Mich.

"We didn't see a thing," said Miss Cook tearfully upon her return, "but I still have hope. It just doesn't seem possible Ralph could be lost."

Duncan Hodges, manager of the Pal-Waukee airport, was not so optimistic.

"Skelton hasn't a chance of being found," he said. "It is almost certain he crashed in Lake Michigan.

than 18,000 feet, the load in the three-place cabin ship having reduced the plane's ability to climb in the rarified air. The plane was a Curtiss-Robin cabin monoplane owned by Pink Hammond and the pilot in the attempt was Burton L. Walker, well-known Wichita Falls aviator. M. C. Cox, veteran parachute jumper and a representative of the National Aeronautical association, accompanied them on the attempt.

It was calculated on taking off that Miss Cox would drift toward the port if she jumped from the plane when several miles in a southwesterly direction from the field. The climb required about 45 minutes, however, and the wind changed meanwhile, so that Miss Cox drifted first to the left and then to the right of the spot over which she jumped. She landed near a bend on the Wichita river, narrowly missing a clump of trees by pulling the ropes of her 'chute to slide her over into a ploughed field. The drop required about 30 minutes. Several planes circled about the spot where she landed until cars from the airport reached Miss Cox and found her unhurt.

The day's program also included a number of other parachute leaps, five of which were initial jumps for persons living in this vicinity. The spot landing contest for jumpers was won by Dannie Atkinson of Denver, Colo. Other jumpers were Ray Bridges of Archer City, John Gisi, Dick Farthing of Vernon, S. C. Marchand of the Burkburnett post of the American Legion, Miss Clara Skipworth of Vernon, Herman Ridgeway of Vernon and Leroy Lane of Wichita Falls. The last five named made their first jumps.

Fred Ridenour, young Wichita Falls pilot, won first place in both the spot landing contest and the balloon strafing contest for airplanes.

Miss Fay Rhyne won the honor of being crowned "Queen of the Air" by Mayor Walter Nelson Jr. high in the air in the Ford tri-motored ship, "Wamblee-Ohanko," piloted by Clyde W. Ice. Her "crown" was a leather flying helmet and a pair of goggles which she will wear on her trip to Dallas, given as part of the prize for the largest sale of tickets for the circus. Judges in all the contests were members of the Junior chamber of commerce.

Wales Hunting Party Lands at Khartoum

KHARTOUM, Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, April 13. (UP)—The Prince of Wales and his hunting entourage arrived here by airplane from Malakal at 12:05 p. m., today, having refueled at Kosti en route.

The prince was in fine spirits when he stepped onto the landing field. He immediately asked for a cigaret, which an official supplied. He then motored to the residence of Gov.-Gen. Sir John Maffey, where he bathed, had lunch and later played squash racquets.

He was somewhat thinner than when he first entered the African wilds to hunt big game. He had a healthy brown tan and wore tinted, horn-rimmed spectacles, khaki shorts and jacket and gray woolen stockings.

Gainesville-Wichita Bus Schedule Changed

Announcement of a new schedule for the Gainesville-Wichita bus line, effective April 15, was made Sunday by officials of the company. Under the new schedule cars will leave Wichita Falls at 8 a. m., 12:30 p. m., and 6:45 p. m., for Gainesville, arriving there at 11:30 a. m., 4:15 p. m., and 10:30 p. m. Busses for Wichita Falls will leave Gainesville at 9:30 a. m., 1:45 p. m., and 7 p. m., and arrive here at 1:15 p. m., 5:30 p. m., and 10:40 p. m.

Wichitans to Attend Master Plumbers' Meet

The convention opens Monday morning, and will continue through Wednesday, it was said.

GUESTS MARVEL AT FLAVOR OF GREEN PEAS

Hostess Tells the Secret and Creates Surprise

At a dinner recently, compliments were made about the unusual flavor of the peas which were served. One lady asked where they were bought. Upon being told that they came from the same market that she patronized, she stated that never in her dealings there had she been sold such delicious peas.

Finally the hostess told her guests that she had added sugar to the peas as they cooked. Her rule was a dash of sugar to a pinch of salt. She then went on to say that this combination of sugar and salt produced equally delicious results in the cooking of all vegetables whether canned or fresh.

Many cooks who know the value of sugar in cooking, keep a mixture of sugar and salt within reach. Some use two parts sugar to one part salt—some, equal parts. Either combination is splendid for seasoning meats and stews and also in the making of salad dressings. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

Martin Points Out Injustices Suffered by Childhood Today

"Christianity recognizes the sacred rights of childhood and much progress has been made in protecting these rights, but there is much room for further improvement," Judge P. A. Martin told a large audience Sunday at the meeting of the Men's Bible class at the Fidral Heights Methodist church in a talk on "Childhood's Kingdom."

"In the first place every child has a right to be wellborn," Judge Martin said. "No man afflicted with hereditary disease of mind or body or any character of moral degeneracy should have the right to reproduce his species. Texas has taken an initial step in this direction by providing for a health certificate to the groom as a pre-requisite to the issuance of a marriage license, but this is only a very short and unimportant step.

"The child has a right to be well raised. It is important that he be educated but it is far more important that he be taught to be a good man. It is far more important that a girl be taught to be a Christian wife and mother than to be taught the fine arts and social graces, although these are desirable. I think the American people are 'offending these little ones' by placing before them an avalanche of poisonous teaching through the popular cheap magazines, the crime movies and the sordid details of sensational sins as published in many of our newspapers.

"The child is entitled to a loyal parentage; it is the pity of disgrace of the age that they are so often deprived of one or both parents by desertion or divorce. Every penitentiary in the United States is full to overflowing. In our own state the gates are closed and no more can be received. I am convinced from wide experience and study that three-fourths of them are there on account of an underprivileged childhood and most of the others are there because of an over-indulged childhood."

League Dramatists Give Play Sunday

The Dramatic club of the Annie Laurie Long league gave an interesting and colorful missionary play at the regular meeting Sunday evening at the First Methodist church. The play was sponsored by Miss Lucille Ballard.

Those in the cast were Florence Birdsong, Bible woman; Chloe McDonald, missionary; Phillip Miller and Donald Morrison, two Hindu boys; Georgia Johnston, Sugunamma; Preston Thompson, Pitchava, her husband; Clifton Jones, old white-haired convert; Katherine Hart, little widow; and Minnie Lee Springston, Virgie Mae Stearman, Elvis Goodman and Mamie Remington as a group of Hindus.

Graham's Flood Of Oil Is Saved

tically all trading activity and hotel lobbies and streets were not nearly so crowded as they have been for almost a week, the tension brought on by impending boom-like developments was still noticeable. A great drilling campaign is certain to follow the gusher, even should other tests fail to uncover production approaching that of Nash and Windfohr's "pet" which today continued to put out between 20,000 and 25,000 barrels of crude. There was no discernible decline in the production today. The owners were cheered when the trace of water which had been shown almost from the first began to become less late Saturday.

Outstanding among the many trades made before Graham quieted down after the most hectic weekend it has experienced in history, was the purchase of a lease comparatively close in the gusher by Tom B. Slick of Oklahoma City, known everywhere as the "king of the wildcatters." Slick's tract is west of the big well and contains between 100 and 200 acres. That the area "looks good" to Tom Slick was one of the most welcome bits of news emanating here since the gusher blew in.

A group of five Loe Angeles operators are here to look after interests they already owned. Several oil men from eastern states also are in Graham.

Gas Shows Rich

The gas blowing from the well has been tested and shows a reported gasoline content of 37,000 gallons daily. So far this flow has been allowed to run into the air as no lines were available to carry it to a gasoline plant. The extension of one gas trap to take the fumes high above the surface served to reduce the din which drowns all other sound on the lease.

The Rock Island railroad is still re-routing its trains, as no locomotives have been allowed over the tracks here since the well came in.

Shocks Kill Three Persons

Pilot of Plane Escapes With Minor Hurts

YPSILANTI, Mich., April 13. (AP)—Three persons died as the result of an airplane accident at Ypsilanti airport this afternoon. Only one of the dead was in the plane.

Levi Keppler, 24, Ann Arbor bank employe, was killed as the plane in which he and Leon Hanselmann, pilot, also of Ann Arbor, were riding struck a pole in landing.

The plane became entangled in a high tension cable. It burst into flames as it struck the ground.

Harry Walters, a small boy, ran to the plane with a fire extinguisher and turned a stream of a chemical mixture on the fire, according to witnesses. An electric current followed the stream of liquid and killed the boy.

An unidentified man attempted to lift the boy away from the wreck and also was killed.

Hanselmann was only slightly injured.

DOCTOR FLIES TO PATIENT

Cisco Woman Helped by Oxygen Treatment

While every other airship in the vicinity of Wichita Falls was taking part in the air circus at the Municipal airport Sunday afternoon, one lone plane was winging its way from this city to Cisco bearing a physician and containers of oxygen on a mission of mercy.

The plane was an Eaglerock from Staley field on the Henrietta highway. The pilot was Fulcher Armstrong of the Wichita Falls Air Transport company, who volunteered to fly on the humanitarian mission to Cisco. The physician was Dr. L. Mackenchney, who had received an urgent call to the bedside of a Mrs. Kimmell, near death in a Cisco hospital suffering from double-pneumonia. The doctor and pilot returned Sunday evening to report the patient in considerably better condition as a result of the quick treatment made possible by the airship.

Survey Shows Smaller Texas Cattle Shipment

AUSTIN, April 13. (AP)—The prospective spring movement of cattle from Texas this year is expected to be smaller than it has been in the past seven years, according to an estimate made by Carl H. Robinson and F. E. Finley, statisticians with the United States department of agriculture.

The movement was estimated at 736,000 head, compared with 783,000 head last year and 921,000 head, the average for the past five years.

Range conditions in Texas are below the average, and there will be fewer cattle in shape to go direct to market, they said.

Three Die as Blazing Car Dives Off Road

FISHER, Ill., April 13. (UP)—Three persons were killed in an automobile collision near here today in which one car sailed off the road like an airplane and crashed in flames at the bottom of a deep ravine.

Mrs. Ora Knox, Mahomet, Ill., was burned to death. Her husband and Harold Davis died of their injuries, while a 3-year-old daughter of Knox was critically hurt. Another daughter was less seriously injured.

Edwin Sale, driver of the other automobile, said a cloud of dust obscured his vision.

Fliers Plan Review For High Officials

MATHER FIELD, SACRAMENto, Calif., April 13. (AP)—An aerial review for San Francisco and entertainment of Assistant Secretary of War F. Trubee Davison and Maj. Gen. James E. Fechet, chief of the army air corps, are on the program of the army's first provisional wing the coming week.

Secretary Davison and General Fechet are expected to arrive Friday and will be the guests of Brig. Gen. William E. Gillmore, commanding the provisional wing.

Hoover to Stand By Parker Appointment

WASHINGTON, April 13. (US)—President Hoover will stand firm on his nomination of Judge John J. Parker to be a member of the United States supreme court.

This was clearly indicated tonight when the White House made public a review by the department of justice stating that Judge Parker's decision in the famous "Red Jacket" case was dictated by supreme court opinions.

Young Speaks Here Tonight

voters of the section. T. L. Wheeler, his legislative secretary, will accompany him.

Apart from the address of Mr. Young here Monday night, interest in the week's political events centers here in the hearing Wednesday before the supreme court in which the power of the Democratic executive committee to oust 13 bolting members in 1928 will be determined. The suit originated when J. W. Nicholson sought and obtained an injunction to prevent Judge Edgar Scurry, chairman of the Wichita county committee, from naming his successor after he, with 12 others, had been ousted from the committee for their support of Hoover.

Arguments Wednesday

Judge Scurry appealed from the injunction, granted by Judge P. A. Martin in the 89th district court, and the court of civil appeals in Fort Worth dissolved the order. Nicholson's appeal to the commission of appeals resulted in a writ of error which reopened the case and left it in the hands of the supreme court.

An opinion prepared by the commission of appeals met with the dissatisfaction of the supreme court, which a few weeks ago withdrew the case from the commission and itself assumed jurisdiction. The arguments were set for hearing first on April 6, the first date set for the Tom Love case, but both hearings were simultaneously postponed until April 16. F. W. Fischer, attorney for the county executive committee, will go to Austin early this week to argue the case.

Mangum Ginner Dies at St. Louis

MANGUM, Okla., April 13.—The body of Ralph Heatly, 38, prominent Greer county ginner, arrived today from St. Louis where he died Saturday at a hospital following an operation for tumor of the brain.

Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon from the First Methodist church. Mr. Heatly was a native of Graham county, Texas, but had lived in Mangum 30 years. He held a partnership with J. M. Walker in the Heatly-Walker cotton gin of Mangum. At the time of his death his wife and brother, Homer U. Heatly, were at his bedside.

Survivors are his wife and two sons, R. O. Jr., 11, and Richard, 1; three brothers, Lee and Homer Heatly of Mangum; Travis Heatly of Wellington, Texas, and three sisters, Mrs. H. M. Deahl of Dodsonville, Texas; Mrs. R. D. Hiller, of El Paso, Texas, and Mrs. Fred Marvin of Mangum.

Swiftest, Easiest Way to End Bilious Spell

When you neglect those first symptoms of constipation—bad breath, coated tongue, listlessness, the whole system soon suffers. Appetite lags. Digestion slows up. You become headachy, dizzy, bilious.

It's easy to correct sluggish bowel action! Take a candy Cascaret tonight. See how quickly—and pleasantly—the bowels are activated. All the souring waste is gently propelled from the system. Regular and complete bowel action is restored.

Cascarets are made from pure cascara, a substance which doctors agree actually strengthens bowel muscles. All drug stores have Cascarets. 10c.—Adv.

ERA OF YOUTH HAS ITS LIMIT

Psychologist Say Old Man's Day Is Coming

NEW YORK, April 13. (US)—In another generation it will be an old man's world, says Dr. Lorine Pruette, prominent New York psychologist, who addressed a meeting of the New York state association of consulting psychologists at New York university.

The sharply decreasing birthrate in America will put youth at a premium in another 25 years, according to Doctor Pruette, who predicts one of the gravest employment crisis in history as a result of this state.

Youth, the force that makes the world go round, is daily becoming more scarce. Fewer children are being born, and the present population has a disturbing habit of growing old. So that employers who insist on young workers are going to be forced to pay high for them in another decade or so.

"Every woman fixes her static age limit at 38," says Doctor Pruette, "in the existing industrial order, she can't afford to be any older. And according to the same standard, no man who wishes to secure a big job can afford to be more than 38."

Psychological adjustment to the job in hand will do much to rectify the present prejudice against the older worker, in Doctor Pruette's opinion.

Suspect Released In Mary Baker Slaying

WASHINGTON, April 13. (UP)—Theories that Mary Baker, pretty navy department employe, was throttled in her car a few steps from the White House and later shot to death in famed Arlington cemetery when she revived and tried to escape her attacker were followed by police today.

Police questioned a young married man employe of the navy department concerning his relations with Miss Baker, but released him after he proved an alibi.

The windsor chair often used by George Washington when he visited in 1775 at the Col. Moses Woodward home, Portsmouth, N. H., has been presented to the Wisconsin State Historical museum at Madison.

Henrietta Woman Named First District Secretary

At the luncheon given at the Twentieth Century club rooms in Stephenville Monday at 1 o'clock, honoring Mrs. Ben G. Oneal, president, and the executive board of the first district Texas Federation of Women's clubs, announcement will be made of the sincerely regretted resignation of Mrs. G. B. Smedley as first district secretary several weeks ago and the appointment of her successor.

Mrs. St. Andrew Myers of Henrietta, a woman well known in the first district for her sincerity and charm, will fill the unexpired term of Mrs. Smedley. A native of Virginia, Mrs. Myers has lived in Henrietta for the last 18 years and is identified with every movement for the betterment of that city and adjacent territory.

She was a member of the school board in Henrietta for two terms, but retired on account of her family duties. She has acted as president of the Civic league of which she is still an active member and officer, and is chairman at the present time of a committee to beautify the courthouse and school lawns. She has served as president of the Henrietta P.-T. A. and is now a life member.

Has Done Much Health Work

Mrs. Myers has been an active worker in the promotion of health in the community. She is chairman of health in the Henrietta P.-T. A. and also in the Clay county federation and the Clay county council, P.T. A. She has served for more than a year as district chairman of health, first district Texas Federation of Women's clubs and has been an energetic worker.

As district chairman of health in the 13th district P.-T. A., she has done effective work and also as chairman of nutrition for the American Red Cross.

Member of Woman's Forum

Mrs. Myers is a member of the Wichita Falls Woman's Forum and presided with rare charm at the recent luncheon given to honor out-of-town members.

Many women from Wichita Falls and this vicinity left Sunday and early Monday for Stephenville, where the 29th annual convention, first district, Texas Federation of Women's clubs, will be in conference April 14, 15 and 16, at the invitation of the Twentieth Century, West Side Civic and the Tarleton Campus clubs and the John Tarleton Agricultural college.

A meeting of the executive board will follow at 2:30 o'clock Monday and at 4:30 o'clock a tea will be given through the courtesy of the college.

President's evening will be observed in the auditorium of the John Tarleton Agricultural college.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

Bluebonnet Hill! What a name for a spacious home set on the crest of slopes of celestial blue!

There are fragrant shrubs of lilac still blooming on the Boone grounds; the patches of green clover tempt one to stop and look for four leaf clovers.

We know the presiding genius of the home well enough to realize she is "good luck" to her family; they need not hunt clover leaves. And it is surely good luck to a city to be able to feel the spiritual uplift those blue slopes give.

Down the sides of the hill, mesquite in its first tender green waves the banner of spring in the air. The songs of meadow larks and of mocking birds come from the rich pastures with borders of green trees that fringe the river side.

Blue, in nature, is a heavenly color. It appeals to the spirit in us. Ageratum seems such a lovely timid blue; cornflowers are bold and beautiful; a blue lily that grows in the Campbell fish pool is the most exquisite thing that ever gazed upon its reflected beauty.

But Texas drew a special gift from heaven in her fields of bluebonnets and seeing them spread in so lovely a carpet, we do not wonder at the district federation cry, "A bluebonnet by every Texas doorstep!"

But Saturday, when we saw the bluebonnets, we saw also, other beautiful things. We wondered if it were the Garden club that put it into the minds of Wichita homelovers, to plant tulips this spring.

Every spring that comes, Wichita Falls has some new show of flowers. This spring, it is the tulips. Around trees in Morningside Heights, down the sides of walks, bordering the turf, they stood, brilliant sentinels of scarlet and pink.

Climbing roses are in flower and in one yard we pass, the most exquisite little silver leaf maple makes one think of the "silver lining."

These brilliant lovely things of spring come just as school contests are at hand. And the blossoms make us think of the junior declaimers who put all their sweet young earnestness and color into the beautiful thoughts they express.

Little Patsy McGregor, made her soul's colors gleam when she spoke Friday night at Junior college and won first place among the junior girl declaimers.

Youth and spring and flowers! They are all one.

If You Haven't 'It' Cultivate Charm, Says Dorothy Dix

How to Achieve "It"—Is Judy O'Grady Happier Than the Colonel's Lady?—Will a Wild Life Help This Girl to Forget Her Hopeless Love?

Dear Miss Dix—Will you please tell me if a person is born with "it," or if it can be cultivated? If so, how? —ALLIE.

Answer—I suppose what we really mean by "it" is sex appeal, that mysterious, alluring charm that some women have for all men, and that some men have for all women, and in its highest estate this is a gift that their fairy godfathers bestow upon a few lucky individuals at birth.

Nobody can explain it. Nobody can define it. Nobody knows of just what it consists. But there are those who have an irresistible fascination for those of the opposite sex. We all know women who, from the cradle to the grave, are always surrounded by a horde of men. Little boys fight for the privilege of carrying their books when they are schoolgirls, and spend their pennies buying them chewing gum. When they are older they have dates to burn. They could marry any one of a dozen suitors, and if they are left windows new husbands turn up as often as the occasion demands. They can go to Adamless villages where no girl has had a beau in years and men rise up from the earth to give them good times, and even when they are 80 doddering old gentlemen still remember their birthdays and send them flowers and pay them stilted compliments.

And when you try to analyze these women's magic you turn away baffled and defeated. For they are not always beautiful, nor clever, nor amiable, nor interesting. Often as not they have no pretentions to good looks. Frequently they are Dum Doras. Very often they are selfish and hard to get along with. Yet men pass over women who are their superiors in every way for them.

And the same thing holds good with men. There are men who are positively ugly, who are egotists, who are dissipated, who have no virtue to recommend them, but there is something about them that women fall for. They may marry whom they choose and their wives will stick to them, no matter how they abuse them and mistreat them.

This irresistible allure that we call "it" comes by nature, and if it was denied us at birth that is our misfortune and there is nothing we can do about it, but "it" has a little sister named Personality, whose graces we may all cultivate.

And the first thing to do in developing your personality is simply to be yourself. Don't try to copy-cat others. Develop your own line of attractions. Study your own type and play that up for all it is worth.

If, for instance, you are a quiet girl and find it difficult to talk, don't try to be vivacious and a Babbling Sue. Don't giggle and jump around and chatter like a magpie.

Emphasize your own qualities. Be quiet and dignified. You have no idea how soothing and restful those traits are in a world full of girls who are never still. Don't try to be a glib conversationalist. Instead, be a gifted listener. So shall you win the gratitude of thousands who desire nothing else on earth so much as some one who will lend them an ear while they talk about themselves.

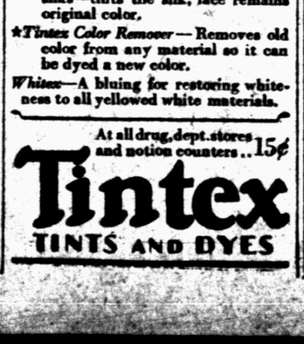

If you are domestic advertise the fact. Be known by your pies and cakes. Feed boys on your fudge and they will eat out of your hand. If you are athletic, learn to play a good enough game of tennis, or golf, or what have you, to make you notable. If you are a business girl be such a crackerjack that your employer will always be bragging about "our Miss Smith."

What I am trying to say is make the most of whatever talents you possess, so that you will stand out from the others in the also-ran list.

And dress your part, that is another first aid to personality. If you are quiet and demure in character get quiet and demure clothes that will make you look like a lady. If you are sporty, go in for sports clothes, and if you are a darling little feminine thing, dike yourself out in ruffles that will make you look still more like a clinging vine.

Once upon a time I knew an ordinary, commonplace sort of a woman who achieved personality by the simple experient of always wearing violet-colored clothes and carrying a bunch of violets, and using violet stationery, and for all I know drinking purple ink. At any rate nobody had ever noticed her until suddenly we began calling her the "Violet Lady."

So study yourself, Allie. Put the loud pedal on your good points, and so shall you achieve at least a synthetic "it." —DOROTHY DIX.

Olsen to Speak At Ad Club Luncheon

Harry Olsen, manager of the Southwestern Engraving company of this city, will be the principal speaker on the program to be heard by members of the Ad club at the weekly meeting Tuesday noon at the Kemp hotel, it was announced Sunday.

Mr. Olsen will speak on "The Technical Side of Making Line and Half-Tone Cuts."

Dr. L. J. Moorman of Oklahoma City, chairman of the clinical section of the National Tuberculosis association, also will be present at the meeting, and will discuss briefly the work of his organization.

Kiwanis to Hear Talk On Vocational Training

Vocational training and guidance will be the subject of a program to be given before the weekly meeting of the Kiwanis club at the Kemp hotel Monday noon under the direction of Dr. Austin F. Leach, according to officials of the club.

Speakers will include Patrick Henry Jr., L. D. Herbert and Doctor Leach. Musical entertainment will be provided for the meeting by Mrs. Hermione S. Vaughan, director of music in the high school and Junior college here.

LEAGUE COSTLY

LONDON, April 13. (US)—The League of Nations will cost Great Britain $395,000 in 1930, as against $357,000 in 1929. This increase represents England's share of the total increase in the league's budget, and is 10.65 per cent of that total.

"Sick!"

Again the disappointment of a date that can't be kept. It's always the day one would like most to go. Midol means freedom from these days of inactivity—days of suffering.

You have probably tried other things for periodic pains, but so had thousands of women who today bless Midol. Try these wonderful tablets and be convinced that the normal monthly process need not be one bit painful. Midol is non-narcotic and harmless, but it does bring complete ease in five to seven minutes. Or prevents the pain even starting when taken in time. Every drug store has the little metal case to tuck in your purse, and Midol costs only 50c. Many have found Midol the quickest relief for headaches, neuralgia, neuritis, and other pain.—Adv.

Health Better Than Riches

"Before I was married, my mother and sister and I did all the farming work on a 64-acre farm for eleven years. I married a farmer and now in addition to my housework and the care of my children I help him with the outside work on our farm. After my last child was born, I began to suffer as many women do. Our family doctor gave me medicine but no results. One day he told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did and now I am a new woman and I know that good health is better than riches."—Mrs. Clyde I. Sherman, R. #1, Lickdale, Pennsylvania.

Bridal Breakfast Precedes Hodges-Morrison Nuptials

A breakfast at dawn was the pretty honor given Miss Calista Morrison at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Morrison, 1804 Huff street, before she left with a party of happy young people to become the bride of Louis Hodges, of Wichita Falls, the ceremony taking place at high noon in Waurika, Okla., Saturday. A color motif of pink and green was observed, masses of dainty pink sweet peas filling the center of the lovely table, flanked by tall pink tapers in green crystal holders adorned with fluffy bows of pink tulle.

A delicious breakfast menu was served to the bride-elect and Mr. Hodges, Misses Margaret Hines, Edna Ladd of Vernon and Zaidee McKinney and Messrs. Harold C. Naylor, Edd Gowan and Joe A. Collins of Vernon, with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Morrison.

Miss Morrison, wearing a lovely rose beige ensemble with accessories to harmonize and a corsage of bride's roses, violets and pink sweet peas, left with Mr. Hodges and the group of young people for Waurika, where at high noon, the pretty ring ceremony was read in the parsonage of the Baptist church by Rev. W. D. Bolton, pastor.

Mrs. Hodges, who is a graduate of the local high school and a former student of T. C. U. in Fort Worth, is one of the popular members of the younger society set of Wichita Falls. Mr. Hodges, the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Hodges of Iowa Park, is a prominent young business man of Wichita Falls.

Directly after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Hodges left for Galveston and San Antonio for their honeymoon trip. They will be at home to their friends in about 10 days at 1654 McGregor street.

Program Given By Young People Is Full of Interest

Helen Ruth Connelly was leader Sunday afternoon in the meeting of the the Floral Heights Epworth young people at Floral Heights Methodist church and gave the Bible lesson which was followed by sentence prayers led by Helen Simpson and closed by Mrs. S. E. Trevathan.

The life of Frank Higgins, who was called "The Sky Pilot to Lumberjacks," was very interesting as given by Mary C. Boone. Mr. Higgins gave up his ambition to become a successful preacher in a big city church, to serve the men who were working in lumber camps. After a continued work with these men, he so interested the evangelistic committee of the Presbyterian church, to which denomination he belonged, that they appointed him missionary to lumberjacks, with a regular salary. Due to Mr. Higgin's influence, missionaries were later sent to lumber camps in many different states. His death in 1915 ended 15 years of service in this field.

Ray Wilson read a letter of appreciation from Mr. Stewart, president of Hiroshima Girls' school, Hiroshima, Japan, for the love gift of $2,729.70 sent to that school last year by the young people of Southern Methodism.

Jonnie Green Hawkins gave a lovely violin number, accompanied by Marie Beatty.

The most important parts of the Young People's Bulletin for April were reviewed by Mrs. George Truitt.

Thomas C. Scott, president, presided during the business meeting. The 22nd verse of the first chapter of James was chosen as the Bible verse for April.

Approximately 30 members were present and the following guests:

A RUTH AMONG THE PENELOPES

Daily Editorial

WILLIAM T. STEAD who had the unique gift of blurting blunt truths to high personages—and making 'em like it—once urged the late czar of Russia to take a course in promptness on an American evening newspaper, and learn how to "go to press on time."

The same suggestion is passed, for what it's worth, to the Penelopes of congress wasting precious time and opportunities in scandal mongering, spelling bees and spitting matches, while pressingly required measures remain uncompleted upon legislative looms.

The country doesn't give a hoot how many law-makers can spell "tranquility" and "kimono," but it seriously advises its representatives that the only word they need to know is "action."

Ruth Hanna McCormick's probable election to a senate seat promises the chance for which her sex has long waited, to show up the collection of mental grannies and old women whom most of the states have lately voted into that body.

Mr. Deneen will tell you that there were no hobble skirts on that lady's searching mind when she seized a political broom and set out to sweep him into retirement.

Nor any cobwebs on it either, as her elucidations on the League of Nations and general economics brilliantly attest.

WE MAY BE entering an era of petticoat rule, but the able governorship of Nellie Ross, the congressional records of Florence Kahn and Edith Nourse Rogers, and New York's Mrs. Pratt tend to lend enchantment to the view.

Mrs. Charles Sabin's presence in the capitol would also enliven the scene. And Ohio can't much longer overlook its duty, to place Alice Longworth's shrew wit and Rooseveltian capacities at public service.

Egypt was never so efficient as when women managed the state household. Nor Great Britain ever more potent than under Victoria's alert rule.

The reign of Peter the Great is obscured by the far more illustrious regime of the greater Catherine.

And a male successor has yet to fill the shoes in which Elizabeth trod world-wide paths for English glory.

DAVID BRANCH'S DAILY FILOSOFY

"He who changes his mind and acts accordingly may be called a traitor or a hero."

It all depends on whether he wins or loses by his change of opinion.

Asiatic Expedition To Explore Gobi Desert

NEW YORK, April 13. (US)—The central asiatic expedition of the American museum of natural history will make its fifth and final trip into the Gobi desert next summer, it was announced at the museum here today.

Walter Granger, paleontologist and second in command of the expedition, will sail for Peiping next Saturday with Albert Thompson, assistant paleontologist.

Scarface Al Capone must be an atheist. He says he don't know where he'll go from Chicago. Lemmie Peters went to work in the Little Gem resturint today an'll learn the drug business from the ground up.

While in Mexico recently, Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr., millionaire, tapped a taxi driver over the head with a blackjack to make him follow out directions. This simply demonstrates what a little jack will do for one.

An automobile racer in England admitted he often fell asleep with the steering wheel at his hands. This illustrates the power of mind over motor.

A Light in the Dark

THE scientist is generally supposed to be a skeptic.

Solving riddles that have puzzled humanity for ages, he often reaches the point where he believes there are no more riddles to solve. He has small patience with mysteries. Things that the eye cannot see and the hand cannot touch are apt to be dismissed as empty fancies and futile dreams.

Furthermore, since this age has science as its great guiding star, this skeptical turn of mind is becoming popular. Looking ahead, it is quite possible to foresee a generation that scoffs at all mysteries and pitches the spirit out of the window.

But there are scientists and scientists. Some of them look into the darkness and see no end to it, forever; others can find, glimmering far off but steadily, a light that makes darkness dissolve.

There is, for instance, Dr. William J. Mayo of Rochester, Minn., one of the most famous surgeons in all the world.

The other day Dr. Mayo took occasion to mention his religious beliefs. To a newspaper reporter he made this remark:

"I know there are many to whom I cannot demonstrate the existence of God and the human soul as I can demonstrate some point in surgery to a class. But in my own heart I know there is a God and I know there is a human soul. Call it by any name you want, there is something in humanity that is above and beyond any material calculations of science."

It might be a good thing for us to tack that little remark up somewhere, so that we should not forget it. As the years go on, and science comes to take an ever-larger position in our lives, we shall need it more and more.

For there is no use blinking this fact: if the net result of this age of enlightenment is to make skeptics out of us all, the race faces a very dismal and unhappy future.

We may talk all we like about happiness and the purpose of life. For most of us, all existence finally comes down to the old, old question—"If a man die shall he live again?"

If science ever succeeds in convincing us that the only answer is "no," science will have proved itself a curse to the race and not a blessing.

But it may be that science will tell us nothing of the kind.

Dr. Mayo is as truly great a scientist probably as any man living. He has spent a lifetime studying the tremendous problems of life and death. And now he is able to reassure us:

"There is something in humanity that is above and beyond any material calculation of science."

That is what we need. It is not too much to suppose that that is the answer that all scientists will one day give; admitting that the greatest of mysteries is still a mystery—but a mystery that is touched with a bright glow of undying hope.

Obeying an Impulse

WE don't know much about T. J. Jeffries, who is a retired Philadelphia broker; but we have a fellow-feeling for him, for he seems to have yielded to a very widespread human impulse.

Mr. Jeffries set out last fall to go to Scotland. But when his ship got there he decided that just riding around on a boat was more fun than anything else he could think of; so, instead of getting off to visit Scotland, he stayed on the boat—and he's been on it ever since. He has crossed and recrossed the Atlantic and has gone on a trip to the West Indies, and he says that he's having such a good time that he'll just stay aboard a while longer.

Probably all of us have felt that way at times. To be traveling just for the sake of traveling is a lot of fun. There's something luxurious, lazy and satisfying about a steamer trip; who hasn't felt the impulse to stay on and indulge in it for weeks at a time?

Mr. Ford as a Dietitian

HENRY FORD is a great man, and we're for him; but we cannot, hard as we try, see eye to eye with him on this business of diet.

Ford wants simple meals—fruit for breakfast, proteins for lunch and starch for dinner. He seems to come close to the position of those scientists who urge human beings to live solely on concentrated food pellets.

Maybe, as he says, this would bring longer life. But what of that? Why seek to live to be 90 if you can never sit down to a breakfast of hut muffins, marmalade, griddle cakes, maple syrup and coffee? What price longevity if things like chicken a la Maryland, hot biscuits, baked Virginia ham, New England clam chowder and hot mince pie must be left out?

Forget it, Mr. Ford! Stick to your flivvers and leave our diet alone.

A Rather Nice Outlook

A WRITER in the current Magazine of Wall Street reviews the recent federal trade investigation of the "power trust" and comes to some dreadful conclusions.

"Public opinion," he says, "which was mainly with the utilities when the investigation began, is becoming somewhat inimical, and there is now little doubt that out of the investigation and the march of consolidation and holding companies a nasty political situation is being crystallized.

"It will not only look toward federal supervision of interstate power matters, but will have its repercussions in legislative and municipal drives for lower rates and more rigid control."

Rather terrible, isn't it—from the utilities' viewpoint? Not so bad, though, when you take the viewpoint of the consuming public.

Not Too Fast

THE New York Chamber of Commerce proposes that all alien Communists be deported from the United States; and while the proposal has its good points, it would be a mighty good thing to take up slowly.

There is no question that certain foreign-born agitators are doing their best to foment mischief here, and we could probably get along very well if some of them were given one-way tickets to Moscow. But nothing on earth is so open to abuse as a general "red hunt."

You might dig out the documents on some of the things that happened in the round-ups of 1919 and 1920 if you doubt it. Some terrible injustices marked those years. Let's think things over before we get all excited and take a chance on repeating them.

The Girl With The Red Hair by Rob Eden

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Gay Terris has agreed to marry her wealthy employer, Frank Patterson, whom she does not love, in payment for a loan of $5,000 to send her sick mother to Arizona. Since making her contract, she has fallen in love with Patterson's nephew, Mark Loring. Loring asks Patterson for her release, but he definitely refuses. Fania Crandall, an unscrupulous society woman, induces Gay to represent her at the Van Schyler ball. Gay consents so that she may send her mother the money she will receive. A valuable necklace is stolen at the ball and Gay learns that Fania is the thief. Fania discovers Gay knows the truth and tricks her into wetweving her mother is seriously ill and wants her to come at once. Paul Ladishaw, Fania's accomplice prevents Gay's leaving by telling her Fania's plan. Gay tries to get in touch with Loring at his hotel but she discovers he has not been in for a number of days. She tells Patterson she will not marry him. Fania appears at a cafe where Gay has obtained temporary work. Gay is certain Fania knows where Mark is and tells her she will report her to the police unless she tells her his whereabouts.

CHAPTER XXXIV

Under the crumpled napkin, she found a dollar bill. A tip. Fania to leave her a tip. The insolence. She tore the bill in pieces and placed it in the tea leaves in the pot.

To leave her a tip!

She hated this table in the corner now, because Mrs. Crandall had sat there. All the time she was serving dinner, she watched it with anxiety, afraid somehow that Fania was still there, sipping her tea, and smoking her cigaret.

Why had Fania come in at all? How did she know Gay was there? The girl couldn't answer her own questions. However, in some way Fania knew where she was, and what she was doing. Perhaps she had come in out of curiosity. It was like Fania.

Vaguely she wondered whether Fania had been frightened by her threat. Her laughter didn't quite convince Gay.

"Andy Grant, please," Gay's voice was not at all like her own. She gave her name to the haughty boy who sat at the desk marked "Information." She had had an idea that she would see Andy's familiar face right away. But this desk—the trip up in the elevator—no sign of anyone but the boy. People rushing in and out the door behind him. Men, their hats on, nervously smoking cigarets, girls hurrying down the hall to the elevator. No one looked at her. No one noticed that she was there.

The boy was finishing something he was typing, an envelope. He made no attempt to announce her to Andy. Her heart sank, as she looked at the big clock over his head. 9:30.

At 9 sharp, she had phoned the Knickerbocker, only to receive the same answer. A few minutes after 9, she was hurrying up here to Andy, because she knew he would help her. He would be interested. She was carrying out her threat to Mrs. Crandall.

Her nerves were on edge, as she waited beside the desk. Finally the boy got up, and sauntered through the door. He must be going after Andy. He came back presently and announced that Andy would be right out. She could sit down and wait if she wanted. She sat down on the oak bench by the elevator, twisting her handkerchief between her fingers, hoping that Andy would hurry, because she didn't have any too much time. She had to be away uptown by 11:30, at the tea shop.

Quarter to 10. Why didn't he come?

Finally he burst through the door back of the desk, and came up to her. "Sorry, but I was busy?" he said. "What do you want?" He threw himself down on the bench beside her, and lighted a cigaret.

In a moment, she was telling him, starting at the beginning, her meeting with Fania Crandall, the masquerade, Paul's story, all the things she had kept in her heart so long.

Andy was looking at her incredulously, as he puffed on his cigaret.

Why had she kept it back all this time? Her fear that her mother would know, and the knowledge would harm her. Her fear of Fania. And now, Mark's strange disappearance and the thought, growing all the time, that Mrs. Crandall knew where he was.

When she finished, and sat there, dabbing the tears in her eyes, ashamed of herself for crying, not knowing why she did, a load was off her shoulders. She could breathe again, somehow. Her mother needn't know—if anything happened. She could wire and Doctor North would keep all the newspapers from her.

"This is the right dope?" Andy asked, very seriously. He was studying her face with parrowed eyes.

"You know I wouldn't lie to you."

"It's damned serious, Gay. You ought to know that. You're accusing a woman who is thought well of, who has loads of friends, everything. Social position. When I was in the story of the robbery, I looked up all the guests carefully, spent days on their histories. For we wanted a scoop, you understand, and I had been at the ball covering it. Gosh! You were there, you said. Did you see me?"

Gay nodded. She had seen him. Andy went on. "Mrs. Crandall has money, position, friends. But if you have the right dope, we can fight it out." He took a piece of paper from his pocket, and began scribbling on it, firing one question after another at Gay.

"I'm going to take you down to the detective bureau now. You'll have to tell the same story there, before we can begin. Ready?"

"But Andy, I have to get to work." Already it was 10:30.

Andy frowned. "Can't you take a day off? There'll be a lot to do, and we can't do it without you. The detectives may question you all afternoon. You can't tell, an accusation like this—"

Gay hesitated a moment, and then went to the telephone. Mrs. Ross was disappointed when she said she couldn't come that day.

Mrs. Ross liked the girl, she was so willing, so excellent with the patrons of the Blue Moon tea room. If she promised to come tomorrow her job would still be waiting for her. They would manage without her.

While Andy went to get his hat, Gay waited impatiently. She wanted to get it all over. This questioning which Andy had said she would have to undergo. True, all she had to tell was the truth, but the idea of going over and over her story bothered her. Already she had told it twice to Andy. That should be enough.

Andy was silent in the taxi going to central. He was worried, although he hated to admit it. Gay Terris mixed up in an affair like this? A different matter telling him, a friend, sympathetic, than telling a hard boiled detective. They would grill her plenty he decided, but he'd try to make it as easy for her as he could. Now and then, he shook his head doubtfully—she didn't know what she was in for—this kid.

"No one knew you went to the masquerade," he asked again when he piloted her up the steps of the detective bureau.

"No, I was asked not to tell, and I didn't."

"Do you think this Paul Ladishaw will back up what you've told me?"

"I—don't know. He was the one who told me about Mrs. Crandall. He knows all about her."

In a few minutes, he was introducing her to Capt. Angus Bennett of detective detail, and she was sitting down in the bare office that was his. The captain was in a chair, before his open roll top desk. Andy and Gay in front of him.

Gay was spared telling her story again, for Andy started right in and explained her tale to the captain in detail.

Bennett, middle aged, his hair just starting to gray, looked from Andy to Gay all through the story. His eyes were brown, and rather protuberant. His face florid, and fat. Two double chins rested on his collar.

A giant of a man, nearly six feet three, Gay felt like a dwarf before him. He made Andy's lankness, his thin frame, seem frail beside him.

After Andy had given him the details, Bennett started on Gay. He went over the whole story again from the beginning to end. It was after one when he looked at his watch and announced that he was going to lunch. That Miss Terris might go now, if she chose, but that she must be back in his office at three.

Gay was weary, her head ached and she had answered so many questions. She couldn't understand why Bennett just didn't believe her and have it done with.

She waited in the hall, while Andy spoke to Bennett. The captain had asked to talk to him alone for a few minutes. The few minutes stretched to five, 10, 15, and when Grant came out his face was very grave.

"Bennett is calling Mrs. Crandall and Paul Ladishaw in at three. He's going to talk to them with you present. I'm afraid—I'm horribly sorry about it—that there's going to be trouble," he said as he hurried Gay out into the street.

"Why?"

"Oh, I just wanted you to be prepared in case anything happens. Bennett doesn't like the idea of arresting Mrs. Crandall on your evidence alone, he's going through with it."

"But, it's true, Andy! It's true."

"I know. I believe you. You say Ladishaw told you Mrs. Crandall is a jewel thief. Deals in big jobs. The police ought to know about her, then. They know her only as a society woman. It's serious, I tell you."

"I'm positive Paul was telling me the truth."

"Maybe so. You don't mind facing Mrs. Crandall?"

He didn't tell Gay that Bennett frankly didn't believe her story.

"Not at all."

It was so preposterous, the captain had said. However, for Andy's stake, he suggested. It wasn't easy—he would give the girl the benefit of the doubt. There was a lot at stake, he suggested. tI wasn't easy to accuse a woman of position, wealth, of being a jewel thief. He would look like a fool, if the story fell through. Besides, if it fell through, Mrs. Crandall could make it very hot for him. He wouldn't be in a pleasant position.

Mrs. Crandall was absolutely unknown to the police. She had been questioned of course when the Manners diamonds were stolen, as all the other guests were. Purely to find out if she had any theories. It was a different matter arresting her, accusing her of stealing them on the word of a mere girl. The circumstances were peculiar—the story the girl told sounded fishy, that was all.

Jewel thieves didn't operate that way. It was too bold, too dangerous.

So Bennett was prejudiced at the start.

Andy hoped the story would break. Marvelous for him, if it did. A great scoop. He hadn't told his city editor much about it in the morning, as he had left the city room to take Gay to the detective bureau. Enough that he was on the verge of a good yarn. The city editor trusted him. It would be his, when it came.

In the meantime, Gay was worrying about Fania and their meeting at three o'clock. Andy had asked her if she minded facing Mrs. Crandall. She had said she didn't. But she did. Fania had a faculty of always getting the best of an argument.

Only yesterday in the tea room, she had laughed, when Gay had mentioned the police.

And Mark—he wasn't back yet.

Tomorrow — Bennett proclaims Gay insane.

Q.—How much do business men lose by bad checks?—R. S.

A.—The secretary of the National Retail Credit association says that bad checks cost American business men $300,000,000 in 1929.

Q.—When will the Kentucky Derby be run this year?—U. M. P.

A.—It is scheduled for May 17.

Q.—Why do crackers get soft while bread gets hard when stale? —R. C.

A.—The reason for the hardening of bread and the softening of crackers when stale is a difference in composition. In bread there is a great deal of water in the starch which is an important ingredient of bread. As the bread stands the water gradually leaves the starch and the bread becomes hard and dry. In crackers, on the other hand, there is a special drying process used in the baking which takes the water out of the starch, hence there takes place in the cells of crackers an absorption of the moisture from the air.

Q.—When was the first important boat race held?—F. S. P.

A.—In 1715 an Englishman named Thomas Doggett instituted boat races among the fishermen on the Thames. The first English regatta of which we have evidence took place on the Thames off Ranelagh Gardens in 1775. This was modeled on the Venetian regatta. The first race in the United States occurred in 1811 between two barges—the Knickerbocker of New York and the Invincible of Long Island, the former being the winner.

Q.—Has Arkansas a poet laureate?—M. C.

A.—C. T. Davis, on editorial staff of Arkansas Gazette, was made poet laureate by act of legislature in 1923.

Q.—Of the Chinese in the United States how many are native born? —S. P. D.

A.—The census bureau says that the latest statistics it has of the Chinese population in the United States are for 1920. At that time there was a total Chinese population of 61,639. Of this number, 18,532 were native born, and 43,107 were foreign born.

Q.—At the time of the Crucifixion was Christ nailed to the Cross as it lay on the ground?—G. R.

A.—In accordance with Roman custom, Christ probably mounted His Cross by climbing a ladder placed against it.

Q.—When were nails first made by machine in this country?—J. A. S.

A.—The first machine cut nails were made in America in 1786. Before that time nails were made by hand with a hammer. Wire nails were made for the first time in America by William Hensell of New York in 1851.

Q.—When did Rob Roy live? —K. F.

A.—Rob Roy (Robert McGregor or Campbell), was born in Buchanan parish, Scotland, 1671; died at Balquhidder, Dec. 28, 1734. He was the younger son of Donald McGregor, a lieutenant colonel in the army of James II. He got his name Roy from his red hair, and adopted Campbell as his surname. After the accession of William III he obtained a commission from James II, and in 1691 made a descent on Stirlingshire. In 1712 he was evicted and outlawed on a charge of embezzlement. He became a Highland freebooter, and was included in the Act of Attainder. Under the protection of the Duke of Argyll, he continued to levy blackmail on the Scottish gentry. He is the subject of a novel by Sir Walter Scott, published in 1818, of an opera by Flotow (1832), and of several plays.

Q.—How much water can be diverted for power at Niagara Falls? —M. F.

A.—By treaty the amount of water that may be diverted from Niagara for power purposes has been limited to 36,000 cubic feet per second on the Canadian side and 20,000 cubic feet per second on the United States side.

Q.—When did the New York blizzard occur?—H. M. K.

A.—The storm of March, 1888, is generally known as the New York blizzard and was one of the most severe ever experienced on the Atlantic coast. It was characterized by the rapidity with which its energy developed and by the extreme precipitation, principally snow, which fell. The storm extended from Cape Hatteras to southern Massachusetts, obtaining its greatest violence in New Jersey, southwestern New York, Block Island, southern New England. The snow which fell was estimated at about 40 inches. Railroads were blockaded and telegraph and telephone communication stopped. New York was entirely cut off from all communication with the exception of the Atlantic cable.

How to Use Cheese

In Europe, Asia, and even in South America, cheese is eaten very largely, in place of meat, while in America it is used somewhat as a condiment, being used for forming dishes or eaten in small quantities with crackers or bread near the end of a meal. Various cooked cheese dishes are served at after-the-theater suppers.

It is such a well known fact that these cooked cheese dishes produce nightmares that one of our first weekly comic pictures published in America was about the adventures met with in "Rarebit Dreams." It is unquestionably true that cooked cheese does not digest as readily as that which is not cooked, but part of the trouble is caused by the improperly cooked toast and other starchy foods which are used at these late supper meals. The diner has perhaps eaten a hearty dinner three or four hours before, and the stomach is still laboring with the evening meal.

Many people who have had unpleasant experiences with these cooked cheese meals get to believing that cheese is bad for them and that it is an unhealthful food.

Cheese makes an excellent substitute for meat, but should not be used in addition to meat. It is best to use plenty of leafy green vegetables with the cheese, and not use any other protein or any kind of highly starchy food at the same time.

The making of cheese in Europe must be considered an art, and requires great skill in order to produce and repeat a certain required flavor. In America cheese making has developed into a science, and there is little of domestic art about it. We now produce more cheese than any other country, but there is doubtless something lost which is found in the virtually homemade cheeses of the Old World. Those who can afford to buy so much of the imported cheese, and continue using a certain kind that has a certain peculiar flavor they like, will find that the cheese made in America is equally as wholesome and much cheaper in price.

The Cheddar cheese, named after the village of Cheddar, England, is much like our American York State or Canadian cheese. It is made from sweet milk, but the milk may be either whole, partly skimmed, or skimmed, and the cheeses may be white or colored yellow, and marketed either fresh or thoroughly ripened. The Camembert is a soft, rich cheese, which originated in Normandy, but is now also made in America. Cottage cheese, or "Schmier-kase," as it is called in Germany, is a sour, skim milk cheese which is usually eaten quite fresh, but may be packed away in tubs to prevent further ripening. An excellent cheese may be made at home as follows: Allow whole milk to stand in the icebox for about 10 days. Pour both curd and whey which have formed into a bowl, beat with an egg-beater, pour into a sack-shaped cheese cloth, tie the ends with a string, and hang in the sun until all the whey drips away. This is something like the cottage cheese, but being made with the whole milk has a richer flavor and is smooth, due to the fact that the normal amount of butter fat remains. Cheese made in this way is more easily digested than when the milk is partially cooked over the fire.

There is never any excuse for throwing away either skimmed or whole milk, for cheese can always be made from left-over milk. It is better to keep the milk on ice so the bacterial changes take place slowly. Try using cheese in place of meat part of the time, but use it with the green vegetables and not with the starches.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Loose Cough

Question—Mrs. A. W. writes: "My little girl has had a kind of loose cough for about four years. The doctors say it is not her lungs. I would like to know what causes it, and what would cure it."

Answer—Your child is probably suffering from some kind of catarrhal disorder of the upper throat or nose. Try having her eliminate all highly starchy foods, sugars and fats for a few weeks and see if she does not improve.

Hyosyamine

Question—K. G. D. writes: "When I eat a large amount of lettuce I notice I get sleepy. Why is this? It would seem that lettuce would be good for one suffering from insomnia."

Answer—Lettuce contains a substance called hyosyamine which induces sleep something like a mild hypnotic. Some people drink the water from cooked lettuce just before going to bed and find that it helps them to sleep more deeply, but I do not recommend this method, as one who is troubled with insomnia should find out the real cause which is producing the sleeplessness, and cure that, so that narcotics and sleep remedies are not necessary.

Causes of Death

Question—J. F. writes: "I have read that certain diseases, such as pneumonia, cancer and heart diseases are the most fatal to the human race, that is, that they kill more people than any other disease. Is this true?"

Answer—Heart disease kills most. In 1926 it led with 209,370; cancer next, with 99,833; pneumonia next with 61,649.

Officers Seize Mystery Infant

PORTLAND, Ore., April 13. (AP)—Armed with a court order to produce Portland's mystery baby in court where a hearing will be held on conflicting claims, authorities today battered down the door at the home of Mrs. George Schaefer to recover Georgianna Schaefer, 4 months old, claimed by Mrs. Schaefer and Miss Geraldine Watson of Los Angeles.

Police said Mrs. Schaefer, who claimed the baby had been born to her in a hospital here, refused to open a barred door. The child became a ward of juvenile court when police returned it to the courtroom.

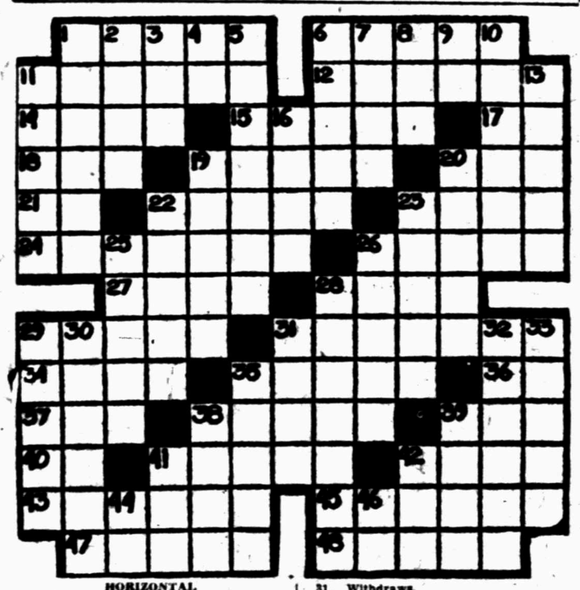

A police woman filed a petition in juvenile court for city authorities to take custody of the infant which Miss Watson claims was born to her in Los Angeles and police claim was abandoned by her in a Los Angeles hotel.

METHODIST STIR

WASHINGTON, Ga., April 13. (AP)—The Rev. Rembert G. Smith, pastor of the First Methodist church here, issued a statement today announcing he expects to prefer charges at the Dallas general conference next month against four leading bishops of the church for "political activities in 1928."

My Day Off

Did call on some dear friends, and as we sat munching heard sweet musik, and tiring of this talked of literature and men of massive brains, my soul soaring aloft, and when the nighte grew olde pangs smote my heart that I should depart and time should sever friends and I was reminded of an April nighte in my youth when taking leave of a lass in the grey dawn I did singe:

Goodbye, little girle, my light,
Close thine eyes so, sleep tight,
It hath only begun, this search for the sun
In a realm of endless nighte.

No matter what the news stories said, or what they may say about what J. C. McCloud, the Graham grocer, said and did when he was told a great gusher had blown in on his land, here's the true dope. The grocer was in his humble store slicing cheese, or counting pickles, or something, when someone dashed in with the news. "My God!" exclaimed the counter of pickles, beaming broadly. "Now all the piggly wiggly stores can go wiggle!"

Our Spudders are in cow town today clawing the Cats, and the Sunday game has not started as this is being scrawled, and our alleged mind wanders to other themes, and times, and climes. All of which we are supposed to do, inasmuch as we were brought up to keep promises. In our last Saturday's column we promised to tell the story of a Wichita Falls woman who attended the premiere of one of the world's greatest operas as the guest of a king—provided we were treated to a meal. The meal was forthcoming, and here goes:

Forget the oil biz long enough to imagine you are in one of old Europe's most colorful and romantic gathering places, the resort of kings, where love is always young and the brilliantly uniformed royal princes and attendants are courteous and mannerly and most attentive swains. The scene is Marienbad, in old Bohemia. The year is 1905. Mrs. Frieda van Emden, of 1603 Garfield street, was a young girl in her early teens then. Each summer her family, one of the oldest in Holland, came to Marienbad, the famous resort.

It so happened that King Edward VII of England was resorting in Marienbad these summer months of 1905, at the same time the Van Emden family was there. Though supposed to be there incognito, everyone knew who the old boy was. His beard, for one thing, gave him away, and then he always wore a green carnation in the lapel buttonhole.

One morning Mrs. Van Emden and chum were returning from the tennis courts on the outskirts of the city. As they walked along the highway an automobile approached One of these 1905 model Z's. Automobiles were a rarity then, and Mrs. Van Emden and her chum, not knowing who the occupants of the strange craft were, decided to have some fun.

When the chugging crate got near enough they shouted, "Stop! Stop!" The driver, not being a 1930 product, didn't try to run over the girls, but did stop.

In the back seat were two men. One of them smiled and the other scowled. The scowler was the king's secretary, Sir Francis Knowles. The other was King Edward. When asked why they had stopped the car the girls replied, "O there's a straw in the road and you mustn't run over it!"

Sir Francis scowled anew, but the king thought it was a great joke and said, "Well, that's a new one on me." And the king insisted on giving the girls a lift to town.

It was probably Europe's first instance of hitch-hiking.

The next day Mrs. Van Emden, then little Frieda, was taken to Marienbad's marts by her mother to fit a new hat. Her mother picked one out, but Frieda didn't like it and said so, and raised an awful fuss for such a little girl. She had her mind set on a larger hat. In the midst of her temper she looked up and saw the gentleman of the green carnation. The king smiled, recalled the incident of the day before, introduced himself to Frieda's mother, and told Frieda that the big hat would be good enough for her when she grew up. And then His Majesty brought up the question of shows, even as you and I. There was a new one in town, and it was to open the next night. The king insisted that Frieda and her mother attend as his guests, and forthwith provided the tickets. The next night mother and child saw the world's premiere of the opera "The Merry Widow," with the composer of the immortal Merry Widow music, Franz Lehar, wielding the baton.

INDIANS FLAY CUBS

WACO, Texas, April 13. (AP)—The Joplin twins, Becker and House, made their debuts in the box for the Cubs Sunday, and both were roundly outpitched by Tom Estell, San Antonio winning the last game of the series, 10 to 3. Becker did very well for a few innings but home runs proved his undoing. House twirled an inning and a third and was in hot water all the time. Dondero starred with two home runs. Score:

SPUDDERS WIN FRACAS, 4 TO 0

Victory Evens Series With Panthers

Special to The Record News.

FORT WORTH, April 13.—Hal Wiltse pitched the first shut-out game of the Texas league season here today to lead the Wichita Falls Spudders to a 4 to 0 victory over the Fort Worth Cats. The Spudder victory evened the three-game series, the Cats having won the first encounter Saturday.

Wiltse, in addition to his great pitching, was a factor in the offensive, slamming out a two-bagger. The Spudders outhit the Cats, 12 to 9.

Bill Clarkson did the twirling for the Panthers and was touched for hits by the Spudders at timely moments.

Fort Worth made a gesture toward scoring in the first inning. Moore drew a free ticket to first to start the inning and moved to second on Cox's single. However, Bettencourt made a nice catch of Bonowitz's liner to right center and Kelly went out to end the threat.

Brilliant Fielding

Brilliant fielding aided Clarkson in the second inning. Burns doubled to right and Bettencourt followed with a single to the same section, but Cox's throw caught Burns at the plate. Later Eddie Moore backed against the fence to take a long smash in left center field. Fowler opened for Fort Worth in the same inning with a double but was left stranded when none of his mates was able to touch Wiltse for a hit.

The Spudders got to Clarkson for a run in the third inning. Wiltse, first up, was safe at first on Fowler's error. He was forced at second by Levey, who went to third when Storti singled through second. Fitzgerald dumped a Texas leaguer in short left scoring Levey. Kloza hit into a double play, Urban to Tavener to Kelly.

Spudders Score

Wichita Falls added its second run in the fourth inning. Burns walked, stole second and scored on Bettencourt's single to left. Two more hits were made by the Spudders, including a double by Crouch, but a smart play by the Cats kept them away from the plate. On an attempted sacrifice, O'Connell called a pitch out and caught Bettencourt off second. Fort Worth got two hits in its half of the inning but a spectacular catch by Fitzgerald, which he turned into a double play, held the Panthers scoreless. He came in back of second and took Tavener's apparent Texas leaguer and doubled Fowler off second.

A third Wichita Falls run was made in the sixth inning. Crouch was hit by a pticked ball and scored on Wiltse's double to left. Wiltse's blow was a short hit, but Bonowitz, coming in fast for a shoestring catch, let the ball get through him and it went for a double.

Fill Bases

After two were out in the eighth inning, Wichita Falls filled the bases but were unable to push any tallies across the plate. Wichita Falls' final score came in the ninth inning when Bettencourt reached first on Tavener's error, stole second and scored on Crouch's single to center. Euller was put on base by a free pass previous to Crouch's hit. With one away, Tavener tripled to left in Fort Worth's half of the inning, but was left stranded.

Seven Stars Back On Mangum Nine

Special to The Record News.

MANGUM, Okla., April 13.—Prospects for one of the best baseball seasons in recent years are in store for Mangum high school's diamond squad with seven lettermen back in uniform this spring from the 1929 team. With two full teams reporting every day for workout, the boys are gradually rounding into shape. The Tigers from Mangum were Greer county champions last year.

'SHIPPERS BEAT BUFFS'

HOUSTON, April 13. (AP)—Charlie Wade, a gawky, country looking outfielder; and Denny Burns, stocky right-hander with a nice assortment of pitching stuff, and lots of mound sense, were the heroes here Sunday of the Beaumont Exporters 7 to 4 victory over Houston. Wade hit two homers, a double, and a single; while Burns, though giving up 12 bingles, was miserly in the pinches. Score:

OTHER CLUBS PLAY TUESDAY

New Attendance Records Expected This Year

By JOSEPH S. ROGERS

NEW YORK, April 13. (US)—With half of the major league baseball teams having new managers, the season gets under way tomorrow in Washington with the Boston Red Sox clashing with the Senators. The other teams will not make their official opening until Tuesday.

On that day, in the National league, Boston will play at New York, Philadelphia at Brooklyn, Pittsburgh at Cincinnati and Chicago at St. Louis.

In the American league Washington will play in Boston, New York at Philadelphia, Cleveland at Chicago and St. Louis at Detroit.

Cubs, A.'s Favorites

The Cubs and the Athletics are hot favorites to repeat their successes of last year, with the probabilities being that the National league race will be much closer than the American.

Form students insist that in the junior circuit it will be a battle between Philadelphia and the Yankees, with Cleveland being a bare possibility to cop the gonfalon.

In the National league, a much closer race is in prospect with only the Cincinnati Reds and Boston Braves having no serious first division possibilities. Brooklyn and Philadelphia figure to finish much higher than last year and are even being considered as pennant possibilities.

The eight new managers will be closely watched by fans and magnates alike for on their ability to make good rests much of the success of their clubs.

New Managers

In the National league Jacob Ens, although he took up the task late last season, will begin his first season as manager of the Pirates. Bill McKechnie, who won pennants for the Cardinals and the Pirates, takes over the reins of the Braves. Dan Howley will try to uplift Cincinnati while Gabby Street will be the fifth manager in as many years of the Cardinals.

In the American league Bob Shawkey will fill the shoes of the late Miller Huggins. Heinie Wagner has succeeded Bill Carrigan in Boston, Bill Killifer is the new pilot of the Browns and Donie Bush is now bossing the White Sox.

With favorable weather this spring, it is predicted that new attendance records will be established because many of the parks have increased their seating capacity.

Grid Stars Chosen To Play Before Camera

HOLLYWOOD, April 13. (UP)—Eleven men who were chosen on all American football teams in 1928-29 were selected by the Warner Brothers studio today to play football before the camera in a college film. Those in the East will leave Chicago in a special car on April 14.

The players: Schoonover, Arkansas and Hayecroft, Minnesota, ends; Sleight, Purdue, and Pommerening, Michigan, tackles; Montgomery, Pittsburgh, and Gibson, Minnesota, guards; Moynihan, Notre Dame, center; Harpster, Carnegie Tech, quarterback; Scull, Pennsylvania, and Banker, Tulane, halves; Saunders, Southern California, fullback.

Jean Pirates Defeat Loving Steers, 19-10

Special to The Record News.

JEAN, Texas, April 13.—Jean high school Pirates won their fourth straight game in the Young county baseball league by defeating the Loving Steers 19 to 10 in a very ragged game. Jean's next game is with the Ellasville nine on their diamond next Friday.

Wichita Falls Poloists Defeat Fort Reno, Okla., Army Team, 14-4

Special to The Record News.

EL RENO, Okla., April 13.—By overcoming the disadvantage of riding strange ponies early in the game, Wichita Falls poloists defeated the Fort Reno, Okla., army quartet 14 to 4 Sunday afternoon on the Fort Reno field. Charles Featherston, playing back for the winners, kept the army players from scoring more goals by his brilliant guarding.

With two goals spotted them at the start, the Wichita players added to their lead early in the game and steadily garnered more. Horrace Robbins, at No. 2 berth, outwitted the guard on the opposing team to score the greatest number of goals during the game.

The field was in perfect condition and the ponies were all well conditioned for a fast game. Capt. C. A. Wilkinson, veteran No. 1 for the army team was unable to play in the game. His place was filled by Lieutenant Williamson. Lieutenant Mills played at No. 2 and Major Weeks moved up to the No. 3 position to allow Captain Gay to take the back berth in an attempt to ward the Wichita riders away from their goal.

Wichita Falls lined up with Hubert Stringer at No. 1, Horrace Robbins at No. 2, John Fastnow and Cecil Wilfong at No. 3 and Charles Featherston, back. They were offered the use of the best ponies that the army post had to give.

Most of the Reno players were riding private strings of ponies, but they were unable to hold the Wichita players, most of whom are old range-riders and accustomed to getting the most out of any kind of pony. Major Weeks was of the opinion that a perfect form of teamwork that existed between the Texas players, coupled with an uncanny horsemanship, netted them the victory.

On Sunday afternoon, April 27, the army quartet will go to Wichita Falls to match mallets with the victors in today's game.

Welterweight Champ Meets Negro May 16

DETROIT, April 11. (INS)—Jackie Fields, welterweight champion will defend his title against young Jack Thompson, negro contender in Olympia arena here May 16.

Fields has already signed a contract with the Olympia management. Thompson has accepted terms but has not actually signed the contract. The bout is scheduled for 15 rounds.

SPORTS TROUNCE STEERS

DALLAS, April 13. (AP)—Scoring three of its four runs through home runs by Holman and Starr, the Shreveport Sports walloped the Dallas Steers, 4 to 3. The fourth run for the Sports was the result of a walk and two wild pitches by Wachtel, followed by a sacrifice fly by Whelan. Dallas outhit the Sports, 10 to 4.

DR. SIMPSON OPENS REVIVAL

Rainbow Girls Hear First Sermon of Series

The usual morning congregation of the Floral Heights Methodist church, augmented by a large number of the Rainbow Girls seated in a body, heard the opening sermon of an eight-day revival, which began at that church Sunday morning. The pastor, Dr. Claude M. Simpson, spoke on "Jesus the Alphabet of Life." All cooperating committees reported fine progress in the work of the pre-Easter campaign, which climaxes with Easter Sunday. Services will be held each night this week. The pastor's message was as follows:

Jesus the Alphabet of Life

(Rev. 1:8)

"This passage is rich with suggestions and comprehensive in its scope. We use it for what it suggests rather than for what it contains. This was the Master's usual way of teaching. He took the fig tree, the vine, the rock, the flower, and from their suggestions taught the way of eternal life. Sixty years after His ascension, there came a voice to John, the beloved disciple, on the isle of Patmus. 'I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the ending, saith the Lord, which is, and which was, and which is to come, the Almighty.' Alpha is the first letter in the Greek alphabet, and Omega is the last. Jesus is the first and the last of the truth relating to man. He is the interpreter, the revealer of what is best for man. Jesus is the alphabet of life. This is our theme today.

"The alphabet is the foundation of all that we know. Children begin to learn the mysteries of the world by building block-letters into words, and later words into intricate sentences and sentiments. From the builders of block-letters they grow to be the scholars of the world. While the alphabet is simple and seemingly insignificant, yet it is the first essential of all we know. So Jesus would have us know that He is the simple truth, and at the same time baffles the most profound mind. A knowledge of these little letters unlocks the mysteries of the world. In the British museum there is an ancient tablet, the Rosetta Stone, with an inscription written in a number of dead and forgotten languages. After much labor scholars discovered that one of the languages was a form of ancient Greek. A mastery of this led them to see that the other inscriptions were so related to the Greek as to enable them to read all the mystery on the tablet. Now, a knowledge of these inscriptions enables archeologists to read the scrolls that are being dug from buried cities in the East today. In this way the treasures of the cities of 6,000 years ago are being revealed to us as a source of historical information. All this illustrates what a knowledge of the alphabet means. Now Jesus says 'I am the Alpha and Omega that will help you unravel the mysteries of life.

"The first mystery is the mystery of God. There is something in the human heart that hungers after God. Men have always tried to find out the secrets concerning Him. Their effort to unravel this mystery is seen in the various kinds of deities that men have put forth and worshiped. These gods run in varied from snake shells, or sheep horns filled with ointment, stones of various shapes, men, and on up to Jehovah himself, changing according to the stage of their civilization. At the beginning of our religious history, Jehovah was the God of but one nation, the offspring of Abraham, who later became the Jews. In theory Jehovah was the God of the whole earth, but in fact He was the God of the Jews only, and to share His grace and covenant, it was not enough that they should be men, they must become Jews. While the Jews forsook idols and worshiped Jehovah, yet they had a vague conception of His nature and attributes. They thought of Him as a great general who occasionally appeared among His people to lead them through a hard fought battle. To them He was the God of the whole earth; but He was the God of hosts. Again, they thought of Him as a stern judge, who sat yonder on His throne and dealt out rigid justice to His people. Hear them as they ask: "Shall not the Judge of all the earth do right?"

"When Jesus came, this mystery was unlocked. God became flesh and dwelt among men. Jesus said 'He that hath seen me, hath seen the Father.' With the coming of Jesus Christ, God ceased to be the property of a people, and became the possession of mankind. Instead of remaining an ethnic God, the God of but one nation, their general or their judge, He became the universal father, possessing leadership, justice and infinite love. Instead of sitting yonder at a distance, or visiting His people at intervals, Jesus taught that God is a spirit, possessing the attributes of omniscience, omnipotence, and omnipresence.

"'Speak to Him, thou, for He hears, and spirit with spirit meet—Closer is He than breathing, and nearer than hands and feet.'

"Jesus brought us our first conception of God's universal fatherhood, and gave us a living expression of his divine love. He made God the 'Somewhat not ourselves that makes for righteousness.' Do we know that alphabet that unlocks the mystery of God, and makes Him our father today?

"The next mystery is the mystery of man. Men have studied theology and anthropology since the time of man's innocence. God is no more mysterious than yourself or myself. We are a puzzle to ourselves. Our nature, our habits, our inclinations and dispositions are sources of ceaseless wonder. Man's nature for a long time was a deep secret. Plato and Aristotle did not know of man's personality. They did not understand man's real nature. But when Jesus came He revealed this. He reveals to us our individuality and personality. Previous to the christian age, the individual was lost sight of, in an effort to preserve the clan, the tribe or the nation. But with the coming of Christ, the value of the individual was reversed and enhanced. With Him there is no little life. He dignified life by giving value to the individual. He extended man's power by uniting all men under a common bond. Jesus brought Peter to a realization of himself when He said: 'Thou art a rock.' He taught all men a new sense of their oneness when He taught us all to say, 'Our Father who art in heaven.' The Psalmist had raised the question, 'What is man?' Jesus brought the answer. He is the very offspring of God. This idea of sonship substituted for that of a slave, has wrought marvelous progress in the history of the world. It has brought men to a sense of their dignity, and to a consciousness of their responsibility. It was the power of this new conception that drew Paul from a wicked life and sent Him as an apostle to the Gentile world. It is this same power that is redeeming life in heathen lands, changing the geography of nations, and revolutionizing the world. What is the difference between degraded Russia and our own fair America today? They disown the value of the individual and disregard the unity of the race, we magnify and cherish both. But, after all, the new revelation made by Jesus, means little to us, unless our life is lined up according to the principles which He taught, and our contribution to the history of this city and to the world, is that of a Christian life. He who knows himself at his best must first know Jesus Christ.

"The third secret is the mystery of pain. It is blessedness and peace, Jesus taught that the greatest suffered is often the best man. The greatest suffered in the universe is God. This is illustrated by the sorrow of a father and mother over their prodigal son. Their boy has grown up as a reckless character. He comes to think that to be manly, he must leave home, indulge in an evil life, and forget God and the council of his mother's affection. He forsakes home and resorts to a life of degradation and shame. He has now lost his sense of honor, his sense of self-respect, and on he goes. Now see that father and mother as they think of their wandering boy. He is dissipated and his life is wrecked, but they love him still. When the night grows late and all the others are in slumber, that anxious father and heartbroken mother sit in council concerning their boy—how they may be able to save him from a life of shame, and bring him home again. Who suffers more, the boy or his parents? This is but a type of the sorrow in the heavenly home, when the spirit, the Son and the Father, sit, as it were, in council over lost men.

"So Jesus has unraveled the mystery of pain. Suffering and sorrow do not always come because of evil in the life of the sufferer, as was thought in the days of Job. Sufferings are often used to sweeten a life, and to make mellow the hardhearted. But the best of men do not escape their scars. Even Jesus must first pass through Gethsemane and over Calvary, before he reaches Olivett in victorious ascention. It is the man of sorrows, who becomes the prince of peace. He could say 'My peace I give unto you,' only after He had passed Gethsemane. It is the bleeding heart that blesses most the broken hearted.

"We spell out the next mystery, the mystery of sin. The old law said that the soul that sinneth, it shall die. The world under this law groped in darkness. Men continued to sin, and hope was lost. For centuries the chosen people struggled through victories and defeats, and now they stand with their faces turned towards gloom and despair. They no longer existed as an independent nation, whose God led them to victory over their enemies, but had become a subject nation, paying homage and tribute to Rome. Selfishness reigned in the land, and sin obtained the mastery of the world. All God was but forgotten, and evil was everywhere condoned. In the midst of that age of licenciousness, gloom and despair, appeared Jesus, the white light of purity and truth. The dark cloud looks blackest when the brightness of the noonday sun is turned upon it. So the blackness of the world was revealed, and men became conscious of the sinfulness of sin, when Jesus the son of righteousness appeared among men. The power of sin was measured by the sacrifice on Calvary. It was this that revealed the blackness of sin, measured the Father's love for needy men, and made a way of escape. Jesus reveals the sinfulness of sin, and becomes the wooing power that draws men from a life of wrong. Has He revealed this mystery unto you?

"The last mystery that Jesus unlocks is the mystery of death. Death is a mystery. A few weeks ago I was called to perform the last sad rites of a little child, whom death had claimed. As we witness such scenes, a little child just becoming conscious of itself, taken from our midst, our hearts yearn for an explanation. To men of the Old Testament times, this would be the last of the child. To them there was no clear conception of immortality. The people, as a nation, were to last for all time. But, as individuals, they lost their identity, and sank into the realm of Sheol. Death was a semi-conscious existence that never changed. Jesus came and revealed the mystery of death. He said it is a sleep. At the grave of Lazarus he said: 'He is not dead, but sleepeth.' Death is like the work of a skilled surgeon, that should lead to a larger and more perfect life. Jesus by His own death and resurrection, led captivity captive, minimized the horrows of death, and gave immortal life to every individual soul. The shadows may be deep and the pains severe, but they bring a great glory.

"So, my friends, I have given you the A B C's of life, with which you may spell out the mysteries of God, and of man, of pain, of sin, and of death. Do we know this alphabet today? With Jesus we may spell out all the mysteries of human experience.

"How sweet the name of Jesus sounds
In a believer's ear!
It soothe his sorrows, heals his wounds,
And drives away his fears."

Dr. N. F. Grafton Resigns Post

for Rev. Mr. Grafton and of regret at his resignation were read.

The resolution of the elders and trustees of the church follows:

Whereas at a joint meeting of the elders and trustees on March 4 our beloved pastor Dr. Nat Grafton stated in a written communication that his resignation would be handed to the session at the next regular meeting in April, and giving reasons for such action, therefore be it resolved:

That the elders and trustees assure Doctor Grafton of their deep love and admiration of him as a man and as a minister of the gospel, and that they are especially appreciative of the many things that he has accomplished as pastor of our church.

That as our pastor he has won a place in our hearts which we realize will be hard to fill by another man. Warm-hearted, generous, broad minded and forgiving as he is, we desire to convey to him as much as it is possible to do so in this manner, our deep regret for the necessity of the course that he has taken and of our full confidence in his wisdom and sincerity.

That we realize that his physical condition is a deterrent to his active and progressive nature, and that with the great tasks and responsibilities and the infinite details required of a pastor who successfully leads a church such as ours, we feel that out of his love for his work as pastor he has placed for himself a great burden upon his health, and that his wisdom in seeking lighter tasks can not be gainsaid, for by so doing he will find renewed health and strength for the Lord's work which we know is paramount with him.

That in concurring in Doctor Grafton's wishes we do so with deep grief and sorrow for our loss of a pastor who has been so faithful and true hearted; and that our deepest love and best wishes go with him and Mrs. Grafton; and that God's richest blessings forever be theirs.

Julian Montgomery, O. R. Hartt, elders; R. O. Harvey, Raymond M. Myers, trustees.

Bible Classes Gain 122 in Attendance

Numerous small gains off-set numerous smaller losses in attendance at Sunday schools in Wichita Falls Sunday, with the result that total attendance gained 122 over that of April 6. There were 7,903 pupils present on April 13.

Conspicuous among the reports was that of the Fannin Community Sunday school, which reached a new record of 113 present. The mark of 105 on April 6 was that school's first attendance of more than 100, and the rate of increase was more than maintained Sunday. The Adams Street Methodist church also was prominent in the scale of increased attendance, going from its high mark of 127 on April 6 to a new record of 135 present.

DEATHS

MRS. W. M. BASS

Mrs. W. M. Bass of Bruceville died in a local hospital at 8 o'clock Sunday morning. The body was forwarded to Bruceville by the Hines mortuary at noon Sunday. Funeral services and interment will be held at the home there.

MRS. C. W. HURD

Funeral services for Mrs. C. W. Hurd, 51, 2003 Lucille street, who died in a local hospital late Friday night, were held from the home at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, with Rev. C. M. Simpson, pastor of the Floral Heights Methodist church, officiating. Interment was in Riverside cemetery under the direction of the Dalton-Powell Funeral home.

Besides her husband, survivors are her mother, Mrs. J. C. Watson of Vincennes, Ind.; a brother, John Custard, Indianapolis, Ind.; four daughters, Nellie, Edith, Kathryn and Jeane; and one son, Charles W. Hurd Jr.

J. T. TAYLOR

Funeral services for J. T. Taylor, 64, 311 Lee street, who died in a local hospital at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, will be held from the chapel of the Hines mortuary at 3:30 o'clock Monday afternoon, with Rev. John E. Wade, pastor of the Adams Street Methodist church, officiating. Interment will be in the Rosemont Burial park.

Mr. Taylor has been a resident of Wichita Falls for the past 15 years. Survivors include his wife and five daughters, Mrs. F. M. Jones of Electra, Mrs. Pearl Herndon of Dallas, Mrs. Evelyn Robertson and Mrs. Vera Fritz of Tulsa, Okla., and Mrs. L. Wright of Littlefield.

MRS. W. I. SHERMAN

Mrs. W. I. Sherman, 72, of Cleburne, Texas, died in a local hospital about noon Sunday. The aged woman had been in the hospital here for some time, having been forced to stop here while en route to Borger, Texas, when she became ill.

A brother, J. H. Underwood, also of Cleburne, was at the bedside at the time of her death. He accompanied the body at 2 a. m. Monday to Alvarado, Texas, where interment will be held at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon. The body was held here by the Hines mortuary.

BARRON TALKS ON CRUCIFIXION

181 Hear Kay Bible Class Address Sunday

"The Crucifixion of Jesus" was the subject of the address by Rev. Daniel Barron to members of the Kay Bible class Sunday morning in the auditorium of the old First Methodist church. There were 181 present for the services. The address follows:

"It is a fact surpassingly shocking that Jesus, the world's most perfect man, was crucified. The more we look at Him the more we marvel at the transcendant richness, beauty, goodness, and truth of His ideal life. The impartial historian records that He influenced the world for good far more than any other man. He has been the inspiration and ideal of millions who have passed this way for 19 centuries, and bids fair to grip the reins of the world more firmly in the future. But in the days of His flesh His fellowmen crucified Him! I want to seek with you the reasons for their act. We find that a combination of concurring factors led to the crucifixion of Jesus.

Ignorance First Reason

"And the first of these was ignorance. Those who crucified Jesus did not understand Him. They had not the faintest conception of His life and teaching. Indeed, His most intimate disciples never fully understood Him. His message did not register with completeness in their minds and hearts. They were still earthly minded till the tragic end. Though they had walked with Him and heard His gracious words of life eternal, they slept while He agonized in Gethsemane. If they were ignorant of His real meaning, how much more so were those who knew Him not at all. To them He was no more than another fanatic. They had no insight into His life and message because they had no sympathy. To them He was not a prophet but a hard problem. There is only one way that ignorance knows how to deal with problems and that is by force. So through ignorance His fellowmen crucified Jesus. He knew this; so He prayed the touching, charitable prayer, which was full of pathos and love, 'forgive them, for they know not what they do.' Ignorance is still driving nails at Golgotha too!

"I have observed that ignorance creates an atmosphere in which narrow-mindedness, bigotry and intolerance thrive. It intensifies bigotry. These men who put Jesus to death were acute bigots. They fancied themselves as the sole possessors of religious truth. Any fresh interpretation of religious truth which did not exactly tally with what was contained in their deadly rigid system was resisted unto death. So when the young prophet, Jesus, came with a burning message that carried with it inherent authority the bigots became suspicious. He was not mumbling the words that they mumbled; He was not making the prescribed gestures that they made; He was not following the traditions. Here was a young upstart who was running counter to the old order of things. They listened, and when He said something that they did not understand or believe they cried, 'Blasphemer!' His strength of character soon lifted Jesus from the position of a wandering teacher to a giant menace to the status quo. 'He must die,' was the holy resolve of the pious orthodox. They thought to put an end to His teaching they would have to do no more than kill him. Bigotry always uses clubs.

"Then, those who crucified Jesus were afraid of Him. Bigots are usually cowards under the skin. They reasoned that if Jesus were allowed to continue His teaching uninterrupted He would lead the people astray! They saw in Him a dangerous revolutionist. And they saw right, too, for Jesus was in one sense the world's greatest revolutionist. He placed men of all colors and classes on an equality before God, their common Father. That is something we do not do. That was revolutionary. He not only preached the equality of all men and classes, but he practiced it. And that was revolutionary, too. He received for it scorn and a cross.

"They feared Jesus because His way led straight to the dismantling of the whole ecclesastical organization of His time. It was thought that salvation came only through this organization, therefore, Jesus was viewed with alarm as a dangerous enemy to society. His position struck terror to the hearts of the priests and they retaliated with nails and a cross.

"Jesus' message cut across the current conception of patriotism. It does that today! He advocated love towards the Romans. How absurd! You might as well have asked us to love the German people in 1918! In their eyes Jesus was a traitor to His country, and the only way to handle traitors is to kill them. So to the cross with this one.

Personal Interests

"Still another factor that entered into the crucifixion of Jesus was the personal interests of the Jewish leaders. He was about to take money from their purses by destroying the whole sacrificial scheme of religion. They got their living as well as their religion through this organization, and when you strike at a man's living you get a sword in return. Then, too, their official positions were at stake. They were there to keep peace, and this radical might start a riot any time and the Roman government would withdraw their pay checks. Pilate and Herod shared in this position. If Jesus started a revolution they might lose their jobs. So for all parties concerned it was safer and easier to kill Jesus and be through with their trouble. They had rather see Jesus killed, though an innocent man, than to have their personal interests hampered. It is still so today.

"In addition to ignorance, intolerance, fear and personal interests, I mention indifference as a major factor which led Jesus to be crucified. Pilate could have saved Jesus from the cross for at least the time being, if he had not been so indifferent. The same applies to Herod. The multitudes could have postponed, if not averted. His crucifixion, if they had not been so indifferent. The most powerful groups of His day took up arms against Jesus, and the fickle crowds that followed Him in the heyday of his ministry melted like snow before scorching blasts of wind. They were indifferent. When He marched out to Golgotha it was not to martial music of friends but to thuds of enemy feet. He had been deserted by all but a few of His friends. The great multitude then, as now, was simply indifferent to what happened to Jesus."

When Jesus came to Golgotha they hanged
Him on a tree
They drove great nails through hands and feet, and made a Calvary;
They crowned Him with thorns, red were
His wounds and deep,
For those were crude and cruel days, and human flesh was cheap.

When Jesus came to Birmingham they simply passed Him by,
They never hurt a hair of Him, they only
let Him die;
For men had grown more tender, and they would not give Him pain,
They only just passed down the street, and left Him in the rain.

Still Jesus cried, "Forgive them, for they know not what they do,"
And still it rained the winter rain that drenched Him through and through;
The crowds went home and left the streets
without a soul to see,
And Jesus crouched against a wall and cried for Calvary.

Newspapermen to Gather in Memphis For Panhandle Convention This Week

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, April 13.—According to Lyman E. Robbins, secretary of the Panhandle Press association, everything has been made ready for the 23rd annual convention which is to be held in Memphis on Friday and Saturday, April 18 and 19.

Plans for amusement during the convention have been made as well as an interesting program prepared.

The Memphis Chamber of Commerce has arranged to give a banquet in honor of the newspapermen and women from over the state. The Rotary and Lions clubs have made plans for a banquet and the Memphis Country club will also stage a banquet.

In addition to banquets to be given to the newspapermen and women other entertainments have been very carefully planned. A golf tournament will be held at the Memphis Country club and a Friday afternoon bridge party will be given for the women members.

Program Announced

Following is the program for the 23rd annual convention of the Panhandle Press association: Gene A. Howe, "Kernel Tack," of the Amarillo News-Globe has been given a part on the program; J. J. Taylor, "state press" of the Dallas News, will speak; H. S. Hilburn of the Plainview Herald will speak on "Newspaper Policy in Dealing With Chain Store Sentiment," and the subject will be discussed by Alger Jones of the Childress Daily Index; Joe Dawson of Tracy-Locke-Dawson, Dallas advertising agency, will speak on "Free Publicity;" Deskins Wells of the Wellington Leader will speak; "How a Weekly Newspaper Can Best Serve Its Community," will be discussed by Willis Walker, Turkey Enterprise.

Policy Talks

There will be a discussion by John L. McCarty, Dalhart Texan; "Editorial Expressions in News Stories," Carl Gallagher of the Quanah Tribune-Chief; discussion by J. S. Englemann of the Tulia Herald. Miss Dess Key, society editor of the Amarillo News will give a discussion on "Among Those Present."

Among those participating in the program will be found Miss Mary Helen Hardin, who is to give several vocal numbers. Miss Hardin sang two years ago at Childress during the convention and her singing was liked so well that she has been unanimously elected official nightingale of the convention.

Felt Better Before First Bottle Finished

'It Proved Just the Thing for Me,' Says Plainview Man

"Argotane Is All and More Tan Is Claimed for It. Has Been a Benefit, Too," Says Thomas

"Honestly, before I had finished my first bottle of Argotane, I felt better than I have in quite a long time," said Mr. J. M. Thomas of 811 Denver street, Plainview, Texas, who is a very well known retired farmer of this section, and made this statement while discussing Argotane with the local representative.

"I suffered from a very weak rundown condition," he continued, "and although I took a great deal of medicine, my condition just seemed to get worse. My stomach was in a very weak condition and I could not eat what I wanted and suffered from indigestion. I was so weak and nervous I got to where I could not do anything at all, and had severe, intense pains up and down my back. After I had the flu nothing I ate agreed with me, and I felt sluggish and tired out most of the time. These troubles kept robbing me of my strength and vitality, and my health was just going down hill.

"A friend of mine recommended Argotane to me, and I began taking it, and have derived great benefits from its use. I feel much better than I have for several months, and eat anything I want, and it does not bother me in the least. I'm not in that rundown worn out condition but seem to be improved in every way. I have more energy and vitality than I did and one bottle of Argotane has made me feel better than when I had the flu. Argotane is the best medicine I have ever taken, and I am glad to give this statement and recommend it to my friends."

Genuine Argotane may be bought in Wichita Falls at the Allison Drug Store, 716 Indiana Ave.—Adv.
