France And Algerian Rebels Reach Cease-Fire Agreement

Both Sides Reported To Have Reached Full Accord On Conditions

BULLETIN

PARIS (UPI)—France announced a cease-fire agreement with the Algeiran rebels today. But the rebels said the peace talks have not completely ended.

PARIS (UPI) — France and Algerian rebel leaders have reached full agreement on a cease-fire to end more than seven years of war in North Africa, authoritative government sources reported today.

Algerian Affairs Minister Louis Joxe who headed the French delegation at secret peace talks all last week, flew back to Paris this morning to report to President Charles de Gaulle.

The rebel delegation was flying back to Tunis this afternoon to report to the Algerian government-in-exile there.

The agreement was reached late Sunday night after exactly one week of final negotiations at a secret hideout on French territory somewhere near the Swiss border.

—France and Algeria will cooperate in exploiting Sahara oil.

—There will be firm guarantees for the future of the 1.1 million Europeans in Algeria after independence.

If, as officials here believe, the agreement is approved by both sides, the cease-fire will be signed at a formal session somewhere in France in about eight to 10 days.

Mohammed Ben Bella, held by the French with four other rebel government members at a chateau southeast of Paris, was expected to be released in time to attend the ceremony himself.

De Gaulle may assume again near-dictatorial supreme powers as he did at the time of the "generals' revolt" in Algeria last April.

This would enable him to take vigorous action to crush any attempt to seize power by the terrorist Secret Army Organization (OAS), the European right-wing group which is fighting to keep Algeria under French rule.

Strong forces of French troops are poised on the outskirts of Algiers, Oran and other big Algerian cities ready to intervene in case of an OAS-led revolt.

Midwest Whipped By Worst Snowstorm In Years; Many Stranded

By United Press International

Winter's worst storm choked the upper Midwest with 4-foot snow drifts today, paralyzing transportation and stranding hundreds of persons.

Blizzard-like winds up to 35 miles an hour cut visibility to zero in many sections from South Dakota to the Ohio border.

Minnesota had up to 27 inches of snow. Some Iowa communities measured 20 inches. Sioux Falls, S.D., reported 31 inches on the ground. Wisconsin had up to a foot of new snow. Dubuque, Iowa, reported its heaviest February snowfall in half a century. Sioux City, Iowa, residents said it was the worst storm in a decade. Michigan had 6 inches of snow. Nebraska had up to 14 inches of snow. Northern Illinois had a 6-inch snowfall.

South of the snow belt freezing rain glazed sidewalks and highways. Freak winter thunderstorms were reported at Milwaukee, Wis., and Mount Carmel, Ill.

Thundersforms rumbled across Dixie, dropping 2.59 inches of rain at Dothan, Ala., and 2.50 inches at Ozark, Ala., Mobile, Ala., had 2 inches. The heavy rains touched off flash flooding in some areas and downtown streets were awash at Flomation, Ala.

Temperatures dipped below zero in northern New England and North Dakota.

Northern Europe Raked By 3-Day Raging Storm

HAMBURG, Germany (UPI) — Thousands of rescue workers toiled through mile upon mile of sodden wreckage today in search for more victims of one of the worst storms ever to hit northern Europe.

An incomplete count showed that at least 177 persons, 147 of them in West Germany, were killed by a raging storm that started Friday and raked northern Europe for nearly three days. More than 100,000 persons were left homeless.

This port of 2.8 million persons, which was hardest hit by the pounding seas and howling winds, was left a city of shocked silence, watery death and devastation.

Receding waters were expected to reveal more victims. Hardest hit areas besides Hamburg were lower Saxony and Schleswig-Holstein.

Fresh water was supplied in barrels and jars as city authorities prepared a mass immunization program against typhus.

When the fury subsided, Hamburg was permeated by an eerie stillness. After 48 hours of raging waters and crashing dikes, the only sounds were occasional cries for help from stranded persons and the clatter of rescue helicopters hovering over inundated areas.

Hurricane-force winds and driving rain forced the mighty Elbe River to cascade over its banks Friday and surge into the homes of Hamburg's inhabitants.

Today Hamburg was without radio, television or newspapers. Few homes had gas or electricity, and the telephone system was near a breakdown. Streets were littered with debris—upturned and abandoned cars and buses, uprooted telephone poles and trees, and smashed houses.

The homeless, clutching a few precious belongings, were huddled in schools, municipal halls and camping grounds on high land.

Thousands of West German, British and American rescue workers, most of them servicemen, scoured North Germany's low-lying North Sea communities for victims.

The storm triggered at least three avalanches in the Alps, and thousands of tourists were reported snowbound at ski resorts. Dozens of Austrian villages were isolated.

Officials in Switzerland said at least eight persons had been killed by landslides since last Friday.

The storm left at least three dead in East Germany.

Sunny skies and dwindling winds Sunday afternoon permitted rescue workers to swarm over northern Germany in helicopters, boats and rubber rafts, plucking bodies from the water, evacuating stranded families, and delivering food and medical supplies.

Pampa National Guardsmen Join Alert On Sunday

Pampa National Guardsmen were on the job Sunday. They worked with the 9,000 other members of the 36th (Texas) Infantry Division in a state-wide alert called "Operation Muster Day."

The vast military exercise was ordered by division headquarters in Austin at 6 a.m. Minutes later Pampa Guardsmen were pouring into their armory on the Miami Hwy.

Lt. Leon Howell, commander of the Pampa unit, said that 90 per cent of the unit had reported for duty by 8:45 a.m. This included guardsmen from nearby towns. He was extremely proud of the spirit and morale exhibited in the exercise, Lt. Howell stated.

Purpose of the alert was threefold, according to Lt. Howell. It tested the unit's alert capability, offered training in readiness status of their National Guardsmen, he said.

Nerve center of the 9,000 man operation was 36th Division Headquarters in Austin. It received attendance reports from units in 67 Texas cities. The exercise involved 36th Division personnel only. Other National Guard elements were not effected.

Pampa Guardsmen form Company B of the 36th Division's 1st Battle Group, 142D infantry.

Mayor E. C. Sidwell has issued a proclamation declaring today through next Sunday as Operation Muster Week in Pampa "in honor of our modern Minute Men, the Texas National Guard."

THE BIG QUESTION — Boiling cloud of a nuclear explosion seems to form a question mark in the sky as the United States ponders whether to resume atmospheric testing to counter Soviet advances made in their recent series of tests. No above-ground explosions have been carried out by this country since 1958, when this photograph was made. Soldiers in foreground took part in Operation Hardtack.

Commandos Move Into Georgetown

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (UPI) — Britain rushed more tough commandos into this paralyzed, fire - blackened capital today to prevent fresh outbreaks of violence and looting.

A 77 - man unit equipped with automatic weapons was flying in from England to reinforce British soldiers already patrolling the streets. Some of the troops are veterans of the Mau Mau campaign in Kenya or have seen service in Cyprus and Egypt.

Business was at a standstill because of a general strike.

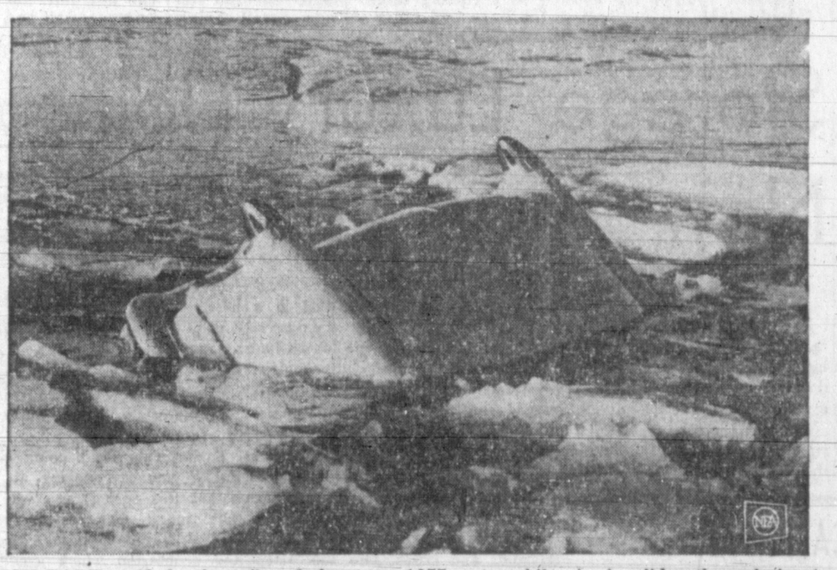

More than 700 persons were under arrest for looting, and an estimated 2,000 more were out of work as a result of six days of rioting, burning and pillaging caused by demonstrations against Premier Cheddi Jagan's left-wing government.

A general strike, which threatened to topple Jagan from power, continued following the failure of the trades union council to come to any agreement about resumption of work.

Authorities called on shop owners to reopen, but many owners were reluctant to do so because of the threat of looting. There were indications that food rationing may be ordered until sufficient quantities of supplies can be brought in from Trinidad and other places.

Another contingent of troops arrived from Britain Sunday to join the nearly 2,000 rushed in by plane and warship during the past week. They patrolled the streets of the capital in battle dress.

The demonstrations were sparked by Jagan's austerity program of new taxes to pay for forced development of this British colony which recently was granted home rule as a step to full independence. The territory on South America's northern coast has been plagued by economic difficulties.

ICY TALE — Only the tail end shows as 1955 automobile slowly slides through ice to bottom of Lake Minatare near Scottsbluff, Neb. Its youthful owner tried to cross lake on ice 18 inches thick, but a thin spot ended his journey abruptly. Luckily, he escaped with only an icy dunking. Automobile was recovered a week later with the aid of a winch.

Senate Committee Studies Plan For U.S. Purchase Of UN Bonds

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee directed its attention today to the administration's proposal to buy half of a special U.N. bond issue.

It did so as Congress returned to a full schedule following its traditional lull during the week of Lincoln's birthday.

As the committee prepared to resume hearings on the bond plan today, its chairman indicated he might accept a proposed amendment to the administration request to buy $100 million of the bonds.

Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., described as "reasonable" a proposed amendment by Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, that would insure this country repayment on the bonds it purchased.

Under the Church plan, the President would have the authority to withhold from the annual U.S. payment to the regular U.N. budget the amount due this country as its repayment on the bonds.

Fulbright told reporters he was not ready to endorse any of the various proposals for dealing with the bond purchases but that the Church plan might be acceptable.

Other congressional news:

Civil Defense: The House Military Operations subcommittee opened hearings into President Kennedy's $695 million civil defense program. The subcommittee — headed by Rep. Chet Holifield, D-Calif.—wants to know whether the program is adequate to meet the threat of nuclear war. The first scheduled witness is Stuart L. Pittman, assistant secretary of defense for civil defense.

Highways: A staff member of the House Highway subcommittee said today that investigators at today's hearings would show that there were "atrocious" and "phantom" appraisals of property in the $65 million federal highway program in Massechusetts.

Censorship: A Senate Armed Services subcommittee studying alleged "muzzling" of the military will resume its hearings today by calling two Pentagon specialists as witnesses.

Farm: The Senate Agriculture Committee opens hearings on the President's farm program. Industry witnesses will be heard today.

NEED MORE ENGINEERS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson called on high school students to help meet the challenge of Russia in turning out engineers.

Johnson urged the students Sunday to consider engineering as a profession. He said Soviet educational institutions are "turning out twice our production of technically trained people. We must meet the challenge before the scales swing in their favor."

Soviets Demand Exclusive Use Of Berlin Air Corridor Space

BERLIN (UPI) — The Soviet Union sought to impose a claim on a block of Berlin air corridor space again today and received another firm rebuff from the Western Allies.

The Russians announced Sunday night they would be using the space below 7,500 feet in the Berlin-Hamburg corridor, northernmost of three between West Berlin and West Germany, for three hours today.

It was the 7th time in 11 days the Russians had laid claim to part of the air space allocated for Allied flights across 110 miles of East German territory.

Allied officials said there was no change in the policy expressed last week when extra Western military transports were sent through the airlanes to show determination to keep them free from obstruction.

The United States, France and Britain delivered protests about the air corridor action to the Soviet Foreign Ministry in Moscow last Thursday, warning the Russians they were running "the gravest risks."

Saturday night the Soviet Union sent notes to the three embassies in Moscow rejecting the protests.

On several occasions in the past week Soviet jet fighters have shadowed Western transports, in some cases engaging in dangerous acrobatics.

The Western powers told the Soviet Union they would take whatever steps were necessary to insure safe passage of the Allied planes.

Such steps have not been spelled out but it could mean armed jet fighters would escort the transports.

Oil Rig Toppled By High Winds

GREENWOOD, La. (UPI) — Winds of almost hurricane force toppled a $300,000 oil rig and caused other damage in this north Louisiana area along the Texas boundary Sunday.

The whole state of Louisiana experienced turbulent weather that included blinding rain, large hail and a funnel cloud that never did touch the earth.

A four-man crew working on the oil rig escaped injury. The well was near completion and company officials said a new rig will be erected.

Florida Editor's Home Rocked By Bomb Blast

MIAMI (UPI) —Police today pressed an investigation of an explosion that rocked the home of Miami Herald Editor Don Shoemaker, but reported they had no immediate clues.

The blast at about 2 a.m. Sunday blew out three windows in the bedroom of Shoemaker's 10-year-old daughter Elizabeth and showered her bed with splintered glass. The explosion smashed every downstairs window and one upstairs at the home of a neighbor, Earl Clawson.

A window in the dining room of another neighbor, Don Smith, also was broken.

No one was hurt. Shoemaker said he had no idea who was responsible for the bombing.

Herald Publisher John S. Knight, calling the bombing "a cowardly act," offered a $5,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the bombers.

The Herald has criticized editorially the strike of Dade County bus drivers which today began its fourth week, and has supported the takeover of four bus lines by the county.

The bus drivers' union quickly disclaimed any connection with the blast. "This union doesn't stoop to such tactics," said local president W. O. Frazier.

Mrs. Khrushchev Gets Into Act; Appeals To U.S. Women

MOSCOW (UPI)—Mrs. Nikita S. Khrushchev appealed to the women of the United States Sunday night for "friendly understanding" and support for her husband's proposal for a summit conference on disarmament.

In a nine-minute short-wave broadcast beamed to North America, the wife of the Soviet premier said the Soviet Union "will never be the first to start a war." The appeal was broadcast four times over Moscow Radio.

"Let us sink atom bombs along with the other weapons in the deepest part of the ocean and live without weapons, as good neighbors, going about our peaceful affairs," she said in accented but fluent English.

Mrs. Khrushchev, whose first name is Nina, said she was responding to letters and cables from American women who are greatly concerned about "the main problem of the day, which is how to prevent war and build up world peace, how to prevent a nuclear age slaughter."

She said peace is the most ardent desire of every Soviet man, woman and child. She said the Soviet Union would like to return to the "friendly understanding" it had with the United States when Franklin D. Roosevelt was president.

"Unfortunately, the danger of war has today again become a reality," she said. "We may have different views on the source of the danger, but it is clear that more and more people, and among them thousands of American women, are coming to realize that the danger does exist."

She said a new war could bring death and destruction into every home and every family in the United States as well as in other countries.

College Students Back On Campus

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Several thousand college students were back on their campuses today following two days of peace demonstrations that they believe accomplished their major purpose.

A leader of the "Turn Toward Peace" movement said Sunday that the 4,700 students were not so "unrealistic as to expect to see a radical change in our cold war policy overnight."

The students picketed the White House and the Soviet embassy in an effort to stop nuclear testing in the atmosphere and to spread their formula for peace.

Battle Over Texas School Books And Censorship Coming To Head

EDITORS — Are some public school books subversive? A battle of words is raging in Texas over school books and censorship and it has come to ahead before a legislative investigating committee. Here is a report on the dispute.

By PATRICK CONWAY
United Press International

AUSTIN (UPI) — "Preacher, that's enough!" a man shouted. "I'm a Baptist preacher myself and I can't stand it."

The outburst by the Rev. Amel Garner of Amarillo stopped the Rev. Ralph Wright of Midland from reading aloud to an audience some four- letter- word excerpts from McKinley Kantor's Pulitzer prizewinning novel, "Andersonville."

It was one of many interruptions at frequently emotional hearings before a House committee investigating charges of subversion in public school textbooks and in books recommended for student reading.

Works by John Gunther, Dr. Albert Schweitzer, Carl Sandburg, Jack London, Ernest Hemingway and others have come under fire. The "Abominable Snowman" of the high Himalayas has come under discussion. So has the exact site of the place of Christ's birth in Bethlehem.

Censorship has been damned and praised. Audiences have booed, hissed, cheered and applauded witnesses and speakers.

The hearings started Jan. 10 and have continued on a once-weekly basis before audiences of as many as 150 persons to look

There's Old Angle To New Twist

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband refuses to Twist with me. He says if I want to make a fool of myself in public, he isn't going to help me. I have seen many women older and fatter than myself twisting in public and I admit it looks terrible, but I am only 42 and have a nice figure. Please say something in your column to convince my husband that the Twist is just another modern dance and he should learn it as he learned the rhumba and cha cha.

LOVES TO TWIST

DEAR LOVES: If your husband is over 45 and overweight, maybe his insurance policy doesn't cover the Twist. His thinking is straight. Don't try to twist it.

DEAR ABBY: The lady next door is pulling some funny business on her husband and I am quite certain a man is involved. She gets all dolled up and pulls out of her driveway a little before noon. And she doesn't get home until 6 p.m. She tells her husband she has been to a "PTA meeting." She does this three and four times a week, and he is so dumb he believes her. Don't you think somebody should tell her husband?

WIDE AWAKE NEIGHBOR

DEAR WIDE AWAKE: Perhaps your neighbor's definition of PTA is "Pretty Terrific Afternoon." Don't tell anybody. You could be mistaken.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I decided to quit smoking several weeks ago. I have always said that if you make up your mind, that's all there is to it. Within a week we were both smoking again. I had no idea of the mental and physical discomfort involved. I thought some of your readers who have licked the problem might have some helpful suggestions.

HEAVY SMOKER

DEAR SMOKING: If they have, you can be sure I'll print them.

CONFIDENTIAL TO G.I. IN KOREA: Your buddy has made his "bunk". . .tell him not to lie out of it.

Base cabinets complement kitchen's wall cabinets. Sewing machine is on swing-up base; plastic counter top doubles as a cutting table. Maple-veneered steel cab net, left, has adjustable, sliding shelves for linen and other storage. Small cabinets between wall and base units have sliding, translucent doors.

Storage Luxury Joins New Area For Living

By KAY SHERWOOD
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The orderly storage facilities of modern kitchen cabinets are inching into other areas, bringing with them their clean, functional everything-in-its-place usefulness.

Kitchens themselves are less rigidly confined and kitchen-family room combinations or kitchen-laundry areas share space. All three are sometimes allied in a grand work-and-hobby center. This cozy setup is ripe for an impressive amount of clutter unless storage is reasonably well-planned and available.

When I was a bride, I used to think the extra cost of specialized storage cabinets was a lot of nonsense. My naive theory was that any old cabinet with doors would do. Having burrowed my way, on hands and knees, into the deep recesses of a cabinet in search of a bulky kettle or missing lid I hoped was there, I'm the first to appreciate the convenience of sliding, adjustable shelves.

Some of the new cabinets that make my eyes light up with envy include those for the special storage of a sewing machine or a typewriter, of linens and flat trays, of hampers on casters which neatly hide the waiting laundry. Such cabinets are matched in size and finish to equally individual kitchen storage cabinets.

It is possible to plan a kitchen-hobby-laundry area with a continuity of storage, countertops and finishes which would add visualy and materialy to the impression of order.

Such treats don't come cheap. But if you are looking at new homes this spring, you will note that many builders icorporate special storage sections. Cabinet and countertop which could be used for a newing or typig, for example. The cabinet, with its swinging platform, is similar to the type used for permanent storage of a mixer.

Rugged finishes also distinguish many of the new cabinets. For example, one textured finish on steel cabinets has a leathery look but is said to be extra durable and resistant to the chips, scratches and wear along the edges that used to be a problem with metal finishes.

Fascinating History Of Gray County Recounted

Some of the rich tradition of Gray County was humourously and informatively recalled by Mrs. Doyle Osborne at the Twentieth Century Culture Club's meeting held last Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. R. E. Dobbin.

In recounting the "History of Gray County", Mrs. Osborne described events in the lives of many of Pampa's first families, including her own family, the W. Berl Jacksons.

The speaker vividly described the country at the time it was first settled; telling about the Indians, blizzards, lobo wolves, tumble weeds, lack of fuel and lumber, and scarcity of water, which the early settlers had to endure.

Mrs. Osborne pointed out that "the town of Pampa was laid out by George Tyng and was named for the Pampas of South America."

She described the beginning of the White Deer Land Co. and its effect on the growth of Pampa mentioning the names of T. D. Hobart, M. K. Brown and others, who worked for the settlement of the Panhandle at this time.

She told the story of the Henry Lovetts, who made possible the city library; and mentioned the arrival of the McAfee, Jackson, Vincent families and others who first settled Pampa. She told of the harrowing experience Mrs. Katie Vincent had during a prairie fire; about her grandmother, Mrs. Jackson hanging a lantern on the windmill to guide travelers over dark, roadless prairie at night; of Alex Schneider Sr's orchestra and hotel; of the interesting Thut family of Lefors.

Some of the important dates in the history of Gray County area, according to Mrs. Osborne's research; 1852, Marcy's Expedition (believed to be the first time white man was in this county; 1874, German sisters captured by Indians; 1876, Gray County (along with 54 other countries) surveyed and named; 1879, Gray County placed under jurisdiction of Wheeler County with Mobeetie the seat of government for all the Panhandle; 1881, Barb-waire invented and first used in the Panhandle; 1883, Francklyn Land and Cattle Co. formed, (covered part of three counties, including a large part of Gray County and where Pampa is located;) 1887, Francklyn Land and Cattle Co. became White Deer Land Co.; 1888 First public school in Gray County, Highwindy, in northeast side of county; 1888, Santa Fe Railway built across county; Pampa a section - house dot on the map 1889, Lefors has first post office in the county; 1889, Roberts County organized and Gray County chose to be attached to it instead of to Wheeler County.

1892, Construction of the first building in Pampa; 1902, Alanreed and McLean sprang up on the Choctaw Railway (Rock Island); 1902, Gray County organized with Lefors County seat; 1920, First oil and gas in Gray County; 1926, Oil Boom; 1928, Pampa made county seat of Gray County; 1928, Cabot Company established in Gray County; 1951, Celanese Corp. of America plant in Gray County.

Preceding the program, luncheon was served from a table appointed in a Valentine motif. The menu consisted of dishes appropriate to some section of the United States in keeping with the club's course of study "In Quest of America."

"Southern South America" Described By Xi Beta Chi Exemplar Speaker

Xi Beta Chi Exemplar Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority met recently in the home of Mrs. Buster Grayson, 1717 Charles.

It was announced during the business meeting, conducted by Mrs. Ralph Esson, president, that the Woman of the Year Tea will be held April 8.

Plans for the chapter's Guest Night was also discussed and is planned for Feb. 26 in the home of Mrs. Lemond Hall.

"Southern South America" was presented by Mrs. Murry Sealey, who gave interesting data on Argentina, Chile and Uruguay. History and geography were emphaized with influential discussions on climate, topography, government, religion, art, language and natural resources outlined in detail.

As quoted from John Gunther, Mrs. Sealey said, "Argentina is the richest state in Latin America; the most powerful, the most progressive from a material point of view. It is the least "American" country in the hemisphere because its roots, its markets have been largely European."

"Archibald MacLeish wrote this of Argentina," Mrs. Sealy continued, "Argentina of the Pampas, Argentina of the enormous plains, Argentina flowing out into the morning beyond the hills like a sea beyond ropes."

"In speaking of Chile," Mrs. Sealey said, "Sydney Greenbie wrote "Chile has long coast lines and not much else. It lies like a long, green lizard for 3,000 miles along the Western coast of South America with its head in the nitrate desert to the North, and its tail in the South Polar seas."

"Uruguay is a buffer state between Argentina and Brazil but differs from both profoundly. Uruguay was cited as the most progressive in the educational field of its people, both in public schools and colleges than any other South American country."

Mrs. Ray Jordan, president of the Rho Ed Eta Chapter, was introduced as a special guest.

Members attending were Mmes. James Poole, Melvin Keiffer, James Meredith, Barney McMullen, Howard Buckingham, Joe Fischer, ward Buckingham, Joe Fischer, Jack Vaughn, Byron Hilbun, Ted Knox, Lemond Hall, John Plaster, Dot Francis, James Scholl and Miss Virginia Vaughn.

Thieves, Vandals Keep Police Busy During Weekend

Police today were investigating several reports of burglary and vandalism over the week-end, one of which a 1952 automobile was heavily damaged.

Police said they received a report late Saturday night from Mary Hankhouse, 1300 Mary Ellen, a student at Pampa High School, that while his car was parked in the driveway of his home between 7 and 8 p.m. Saturday, someone cracked all the windows, broke out the rear window, slashed the upholstery, cut the radiator hose, cut the gas line hose, motor wires and stole the distributor cap.

Mrs. R. C. Hollis, 205 W. 41st St., Amarillo, reported to police Sunday afternoon, that while her automobile was parked at the Minit Mart, Barnes and Frederic, someone stole a white plastic billfold which was lying on the front seat. She told officers the billfold contained between $70 and $80 in cash.

Officers received a report from Eddie Polnac, 1337 Starkweather, at 12:20 p.m. Saturday, that the front and rear floor mats of his automobile were stolen while the car was parked in his driveway.

Police said Mrs. Jack Ironmonger, 1018 S. Snyder, reported Saturday afternoon that nine windows had been broken out of a house owned by her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Thompson, 211 N. Nelson. Mrs. Ironmonger told police the Thompsons' are now residing in New Mexico.

Police said they questioned two youngsters, age 5 and 9, about the vandalism and they admitted they had thrown bricks at the house. Officers said the youths are also connected with a report received from Mrs. Roscoe Pirtle, 205 N. Nelson, that several windows in two vacant rent houses she owns were broken out sometime Saturday.

Boy, 5, Struck By Automobile

A five-year old Pampa boy was hospitalized as the result of injuries received when he was struck by a car near the intersection of N. Hobart and Frost Streets at 2:58 Sunday afternoon.

In Highland General Hospital is Malcolm Raye Horton, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Horton, 858 W. Foster. Hospital officials reported late this morning that his condition was good but that the full extent of his injuries had not been determined.

The Horton boy was struck by an automobile driven by Mrs. J. E. Young, 2019 Coffee, when he ran into the street near the intersection, according to investigating officers.

Mrs. Young told officers she did not see the boy until he was in front of the auto. He was struck with the left front fender of the auto.

Officers said Mrs. Young was cited for driving without an operator's license.

Negroes Lose Billion A Year, NAACP Declares

DALLAS (UPI)—Economic discrimination is costing Negroes in Texas more than a billion dollars a year, the national Association for the Advancement of Colored People said.

"Skin color in Texas, as elsewhere in the South, is exceedingly expensive. It is costing 1,200,000 Negroes in the state more than a billion dollars annually," NAACP Southwest Regional Secretary Clarence A. Laws said.

He based his statement on a U. S. Department of Commerce report on general social and economic characteristics of Texas taken from the 1960 census.

"The ill effects, of the economic strangulation which continue to beset Negroes are numerous and well known," Laws said.

He said the median income for non-white workers in Texas in 1959 was $1,917 compared to $3,394 for white workers. Laws said the average income for Negro female workers was $750 compared to $1,039 for all female employes.

Big Dreamer

Weather Odds Tilt In Favor Of Orbit Try

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — The weather odds tilted in astronaut John H. Glenn Jr.'s favor today and the countdown proceeeded for his planned orbital flight Tuesday.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration issued a weather forecast which it called cautiously optimistic. Lt. Col. John A. Powers, spokesman for NASA's Mercury man-in-orbit project, said the odds appeared to be "60-40 in our favor."

The first half of the two-day countdown began at 2:30 a.m. Both the Atlas booster rocket and the Mercury space capsule were ready for the first U. S. attempt to put a man in orbit around the earth.

Powers quoted NASA weatherman Ernest Amman as saying he was "a little bit more optimistic than Sunday."

"He is usually pretty cautious," Powers added. "When Ernie is optimistic, it can't help but tilt the scales in our favor."

Glenn was spending a quiet day on the cape and checking on the countdown status of his spacecraft which is slated to take him on one, two, or three trips around the earth sometime after 7:30 a.m.

Powers said the Marine space pilot probably will turn in at about 7 or 8 p.m. and "be ready to go in the morning."

Project officials planned to monitor weather throughtout the day, make a complete review of the situation tonight to include on-scene reports from Navy ships in the recovery areas and make a preliminary go or no-go decision at about midnight.

into charges that many books are "un-American," and unfit for public school use. Originally called to consider history textbooks and commentaries, it has branched into works recommended for supplementary reading by students and into books mentioned in bibliographies.

A group called "Texans for America," headed by rancher - educator Evetts Haley Sr., of Canyon, sparked the investigation, and much of its fire has been aimed at a history, "This is Our Nation," co-authored by Prof. Paul F. Boller of Southern Methodist University in Dallas.

Haley taught history at the University of Texas for six years and is the author of 12 history books. He is on the board of regents of Texas Tech in Lubbock.

He stated the reasons for his organization's attacks on certain textbooks in this statement before the invesigating committee:

"The primary interest of Texans for America lies in the field of better textbooks for children of this state—textbooks that will discipline their minds, challenge their interest, inspire their spirits and inform their minds."

A series of witnesses both attacked and supported the investigation.

Opposing have been J. Frank Dobie, a nationally -known Texas folklore writer, the American Civil Liberties Union and the Texas Institute of Letters which cultivates Texas authors.

Next session of the investigating committee will be held Feb. 26 in Amarillo, where 10 books have been ordered removed from shelves of a junior college library as suspect.

Elizabeth Taylor Recovering From Food Poisoning

ROME (UPI)—Elizabeth Taylor was reported recovering rapidly today from a case of food poisoning that brought her husband and leading man rushing back to Rome.

A nurse at Salvator Mundi International Hospital reported this morning that the ravishing movie actress "had a very good night" and might return home today or Tuesday.

"She is feeling fine and eating breakfast," the nurse said.

Miss Taylor was sped to the hospital by ambulance Saturday night from her $3,000 a month rented villa on the Appian Way.

Although persons close to her said she was suffering from "exhaustion" as the result of her work in the movie "Cleopatra," Dr. Richard Pennington said she had been afflicted with food poisoning.

Miss Taylor's husband, Eddie Fisher, hurried back from Portugal where he had been on a business trip and was allowed to spend an hour with her in the hospital Sunday night. The doctors kept him from her bedside for six hours to give her complete rest.

Her leading man, Welsh-born Richard Burton, 36, flew back from Paris and said he wanted to see Miss Taylor "as soon as possible" but he did not get into the hospital Sunday.

The husky Burton plays Marc Antony in the multi-million dollar film being made here.

A spokesman for Burton told newsmen Sunday night that the actor has a "deep professional and personal regard" for Miss Taylor.

During the filming Burton and his wife, Sybil, a Welsh-born actress, have been living with their two children in a rented villa near the Fishers.

Man Hunted For Quiz In Slaying

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—Congolese police reported today they had been unable to find a man wanted for questioning in the slaying last week of Lt. Col. Hulen D. Stogner, U. S. embassy assistant military attache.

Asst. Police Chief Joseph Matuba declined to give further details on the man's identity except to say "he may possibly be a white man."

While the search continued, Elizabeth Thring entered her third day of confinement at Malaka prison on an arrest warrant charging suspicion in the case.

Deduct Local Taxes From Federal Return

Richard V. White, administrative officer for the Internal Revenue Service in Pampa, explained Saturday what state and local taxes may be deducted on federal income tax returns.

"You CAN deduct personal property taxes, state income taxes and real estate taxes, which are imposed on you. You can also deduct state or local sales taxes, and state gasoline taxes if the tax is imposed upon you, the consumer. Auto license fees, and state capitation or poll taxes also are deductible.

"Cigarette taxes are deductible by the consumer in only a few of the states."

The IRS representative said that cigarette taxes paid after August 28, 1961, are deductible in Texas this year, for the first time, and that Texas state sales paid on and after September 1, 1961, are also deductible.

He added:

"If you had State income taxes withheld from your salary, or if you made estimated State income tax payments, under a pay as you go plan, you can deduct such amounts only for the year in which withheld or paid.

"If you are a tenant-stockholder in a cooperative housing or apartment corporation you can deduct your proportionate share of the real estate taxes paid by the cooperative.

"In most cases, you cannot deduct special assessments for pavements or other local improvements, including front-foot benefits, which tend to increase the value of your property. Nor can you deduct Social Security taxes paid on the wages of your maid or other domestic help."

The IRS representative said you may not deduct customs duties or federal excise taxes on articles acquired by, or on services rendered to you, for personal or family use, such as automobiles, jewelry, cosmetics, telephone, air, rail or bus tickets, etc.

Elimination Of Red Voice Is U.S. Goal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Government officials are hopeful a federal grand jury investigation now underway here will lead to elimination of the Communist Party of the United States as a major propaganda voice of Moscow.

The grand jury is considering the failure of party officials o register with the Jusice Department as agents of Russia as ordered by the Subversive Activities Control Board (SACB) and the party's failure to label its literature.

It also has broadened its inquiry to cover certain New York city groups ostensibly operating as non-partisan political organizations. The investigation began Jan. 24 and is expected to run for some time with a long list of witnesses from both within and outside the party.

The party as an organization already has been indicted for defying the registration order. The party, its leaders and individual members—if tried and convicted—are subject to a $10,000 fine for each day they fail to register. Individuals also may be imprisoned for five years for each day of violation.

The Justice Department refused all comment on the situation. But officials are known to feel, privately that the facet of the inquiry dealing with Communist publications could have an important bearing on the party's future in this country.

In addition to its registration provisions, the 1950 Internal Security Act requires an organization determined to be an agent of Moscow to label all publications and broadcasts as being of Communist origin. It also requires disclosure of the party's financial sources.

Accident Chart Shows Increase In The Panhandle

The Highway Patrol investigated 13 rural accidents in Gray County during January according to Sgt. J. W. Wilson, area patrol supervisor.

These wrecks accounted for one person killed, five persons injured and an estimated property damage of $5,875.00.

Sgt. Wilson pointed out that rural motor vehicle traffic deaths, injuries and accidents increased in the 31 county Panhandle district during January, 1962, as compared with the same month last year.

Fourteen deaths were chalked up last month as compared to six that were recorded in January, 1961, 81 injuries were reported this January with 51 for last year. A total of 162 rural traffic accidents were investigated as compared to 127 for January, 1961.

"This trend can get us off to a bad start, unless motorists assist every way they can in helping to keep these grim statistics to a minimum," Wilson said.

The Highway Patrol sergeant reminded motorists that Texas law requires all registered motor vehicles to have valid inspection stickers displayed by midnight April 15 and the best way to avoid the long line expected in the last minute rush is to have your vehicle inspected now.

West Texas And Texas Western Vie For Second

By United Press International

A battle for second place between West Texas State and Texas Western is the only factor left to enliven what looms as the last basketball race in Border Conference history.

Arizona State tied up a neat 8-0 championship package last week by defeating Hardin-Simmons 95-67 and takes on only outside foes the rest of the way as the Sun Devils prep for the NCAA playoffs.

Texas Western visits West Texas tonight needing to close a 1½-game gap. The Buffs sport a 3-2 league record to 1-3 for the Miners who were upset 68-66 by Hardin-Simmons last week while West Texas downed New Mexico State 83-82. New Mexico State is at Hardin-Simmons tonight.

Saturday night, West Texas moves into Las Cruces to face New Mexico State and Texas Western hosts Hardin-Simmons at El Paso. Texas Western needs to sweep both games and hopes the Aggies can knock off the Buffs if it gains second place.

With Arizona State and New Mexico State abandoning the conference after this season, the three remaining Texas members are expected to let the league die a natural death.

While the other teams struggle among themselves, Arizona State will warm up for the NCAA tests by entertaining Flagstaff State tonight and the Air Force Academy Saturday night.

Bradley And Cincy Clash

United Press International

Can Bradley break the Cincinnati jinx?

That's the question facing the fifth-ranked Braves from Peoria, who can clinch the Missouri Valley Conference title and an NCAA bid by beating the second-ranked Bearcats Monday night.

Cincinnati, defending NCAA champion, has won four straight conference titles and each time Bradley has finished in the runnerup spot. So far this season, the Braves have held the upper hand, holding first place all along and having defeated Cincinnati, 70-68, in their first meeting.

A Cincinnati victory would give the Bearcats a first place tie with Bradley. Cincinnati is 8-2 in conference play while Bradley is a full game ahead with a 9-1 mark.

After their meeting, each team has one league game remaining, Bradley playing St. Louis on the road March 3 and Cincinnati taking on Wichita, one of its conquerors this season, at home next Saturday. If the MVC frontrunners wind up in a tie, a playoff would determine the NCAA representative with the loser probably going to the National Invitational Tournament at Madison Square Garden.

Meanwhile, the drive for postseasons berths in the NCAA and NIT continues. The leading conference winners and 10 at-large members compete in the NCAA while 12 berths are open in the NIT.

Top-ranked Ohio State boosted its unbeaten record to 20-0 overall and 10-0 in Big Ten play by downing Michigan State, 80-72, Saturday night at East Lansing. The Buckeyes got an unexpected 24 points from junior guard Doug McDonald, who was averaging six points a game.

In other games involving the top 10 teams, fourth-ranked Kansas State kept in the Big Eight picture behind Colorado by belting Oklahoma, 71-63; Bradley swept past Chicago, 69-39; sixth-ranked Oregon State suffered its second straight loss during the weekend, losing to Washington, 73-61.

Seventh-ranked Duke, led by Art Heyman's 26 points, humbled Navy, 91-72; eighth-ranked Mississippi State beat Florida, 67-45, to remain a half-game in front of Kentucky, ranked No. 3, in the Southeastern Conference battle, and Dayton enhanced its bid for an NIT berth by halting ninth-ranked Duquesne, 71-48.

Tenth-ranked Southern California, which snapped UCLA's seven game winning streak Friday night, all but ruled itself out of the Big Five championship by losing to the Bruins, 68-62.

BRINGING THEM TOGETHER

Uelses Training Hard For Weekend AAU Meet

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — The world's only 16-foot pole vaulter, John Uelses, faced a tough week of training today to get back in shape for the National AAU games after failing to get over the bar at 14 feet in Saturday night's Mason-Dixon games.

The leaping Leatherneck, who had been released from the Marine Corps hospital at Quantico, Va., Friday after being bedfast with flu for a week, tried to jump himself back to shape in the early rounds of the vaulting here, but didn't even come close.

The long layoff clearly had destroyed his timing, and although Uelses was getting plenty of height, he came down on the bar on his three tries at high-schoolish 14 feet and was out of the running.

Along about midnight, after John Rose and George Davies had won the event at 15'4", Uelses peeled off his warm-up suit and tried an exhibition vault at 15'8".

The muscular Marine insisted he'll be ready for another assault on his record of 16'¾" at New York Saturday night.

"I'll be up for the AAU meet," he snapped.

The misfortunes of Uelses were offset by an afternoon and evening in which five world indoor records were smashed, one board track mark broken, and another indoor mark established.

Hurdler Hayes Jones breezed over the 70-yard hurdles in eight seconds flat, chipping two-tenths of a second off the world indoor mark set by Lee Calhoun in 1957 and equalled by Jones last year. The Detroit school teacher now has 27 consecutive victories. Dave Styron of Northeast Louisiana State, who had pushed Jones to the hurdle record, came back to take the 70-yard dash in seven seconds flat, equalling a 36-year-old record shared by four other sprinters.

It was the girls competing in the National AAU women's indoor meet held as part of the games who really assaulted the record-book.

New world indoor marks included a :58.2 by 17-year-old Suzanne Knott of the Ohio Track Club in the 440-yard run; a :09.2 by Joann Terry of Tennessee A&I in the 70-yard low hurdles; a 2:17.5 by University of Hawaii coed Leah Bennett in the 880; and a :48.6 clocking by the Tennessee A&I 440 relay team.

The individual star, however, was fleet Willye White of Chicago's Mayor Daley Youth Foundation, a triple winner with victories in the broad jump, the 50-yard dash and the 100-yard dash. Her broad jump of 19'6½" automatically became a new women's indoor standard, since it was included in the AAU meet for the first time.

Louise Suggs Is 4-Stroke Winner

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) —Louise Suggs of Atlanta, protecting a sizable lead, eased home with a steady 71 Sunday to win the $7,500 St. Petersburg Women's Open golf tournament with a 72-hole total of 280.

Miss Suggs shot 70-70-69-71—280 to win a first prize check of $1,200. Patty Berg of St. Andrews, Ill., was second with 71-75-70-68—284, winning $950.

Mary Lena Faulk of Sea Island, Ga., and Mickey Wright of Dallas tied for third with 285, winning $675 each. Miss Faulk closed with a 70 and Miss Wright with 69.

Conley, Muffett Sign With Sox

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Red Sox today announced the 1962 contract signings of pitchers Gene Conley and Bill Muffett and outfielder Gary Geiger.

The announcement by Red Sox Vice President Dick O'Connell reduced to seven the number of Boston players not yet announced as having signed for 1962. The group includes pitchers Bill Monbouquette, Ike Delock, Tom Borland and Earl Wilson; infielders Pumpsie Green and Pete Runnels and outfielder Peter Jernigan.

Rodgers' Trap-Shot Eagle Gives Real Drama To Tucson Open

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Phil Rodgers and his trap-shot eagle on the last hole that won the Tucson Open may be added today to the list of golfdom's spectacular closing performances.

There was Gene Sarazen's double-eagle that set up his win in the Masters back in 1935; and Lew Worsham's eagle on the last hole to win the World Open in Chicago in 1953.

But for sheer drama, it's pretty hard to beat Rodgers' shot here Sunday.

He came to the 18th hole needing a par to win by one stroke. The final hole is a par five, 510-yarder. But Phil's second shot was pulled into a trap.

With a good explosion he could expect to get down for an easy par. With a bad one, he might have got a bogey which would have tied him with veteran Jim Ferrier, who had finished with a torrid 62 to come from far off the pace for 266 total—and was sitting in the club house sweating it out.

With a big gallery of 7,000 pressing in on him around the green, Phil strode confidently into the trap, took one mighty swing and the little white ball came flying out. It landed about 15 feet short of the hole, then trickled on up and nestled against the flag and dropped into the cup.

It was a 65-foot trip and the crowd let loose an ovation that lasted for minutes. Phil responded first by throwing his arms in the air with a whoop, then rushing up and picking out the ball and tossing it to the crowd.

Instead of trouble he had won the tournament by three strokes and ruined the Ferrier performance.

The victory was worth $2,800 to Rodgers. The eagle gave him a four-under par 66 and a 72-hole score of 263—17 shots under par for this distance.

Ferrier finished second and pictked up $1,900.

Tied with Gene Littler in third place were Charley Sifford, the Negro champion from Los Angeles; Paul Harney of Worcester, Mass., and Buddy Sullivan, Yuba City, Calif., all with 267s.

There was a four-way tie for sixth place, with each of the pros collecting $850. Dr. Ed Updegraff, Tucson amateur; Bob Duden, Portland, Ore.; Art Wall, Pocono Manor, Pa., and Fred Hawkins, El Paso, Tex., were in this group with 268s.

Moyer May Get Chance At Middleweight Title

NEW YORK (UPI)—Baby-faced Denny Moyer, whose winning fists gave Sugar Ray Robinson thoughts of retirement, may fight Gene Fullmer for the NBA middleweight crown in early May.

Norman Rothschild, Fullmer's favorite promoter, is working hard on the match in which five Western cities are interested: Las Vegas, Nev.; Denver, Colo., and Bozeman, Billings and Missoula, Mont.

Rothschild, who promoted several of Fullmer's important bouts, is trying to wean champion Gene away from the temptation of a shot at what's left of Archie Moore's middleweight crown.

Meanwhile, 41-year-old Robinson is trying to decide whether to retire or continue fighting. He appeared pretty well washed up Saturday night while losing a lopsided decision to underdog Moyer in their return TV fight at Madison Square Garden.

"I'll talk to my physician, Dr. John Holloman," Robinson explained. "And of course to my advisor George Gainford."

Twenty-two-year-old Moyer of Portland, Ore., who had lost a unanimous decision to Robinson in the same Garden ring last Oct. 21, put the pressure on Sugar Ray, the 2-1 favorite, in the first round and kept it on him in every session.

SET RECORD

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (UPI) — Larry McKilup's four-man bobsled crew, representing the Saranac Lake Club, set a new one-heat record of 1:08.86 for a mile Sunday while winning an international invitation race. A Stan Benham driven sled had set the old standard in 1957.

Bucks Face McLean In Bi-District

White Deer's Bucks tangle with McLean tonight at 7:30 in the Harvester fieldhouse to determine the bi-district champion in their class A battle.

The Bucks, who won the 1-A title with a 10-0 mark, will be led by big Carl McAdams and Gerald Bichsel.

McLean is the 2-A champion.

5 Amarillo Boxers Left In Tourney

FORT WORTH — The quarter and semi finals of the state Golden Gloves Tournament swings into action tonight with five Amarillo boxers ticked for action.

In the quarter finals Eddie Gonzales, Amarillo meets Charles Mata of San Antonio and Leandro Martinez, Amarillo, tackles Gilbert Martinez, Houston.

In the semi final round, Ronnie Morgan, Amarillo, battles David Stice, Odessa; Manny Perez, Amarillo clashes with Rudy Ortiz, Ft. Worth; and Carson Watt, Amarillo, takes on Ronnie Williams, Brownwood.

The only Pampa boxer in the state tournament was Glen Ward who was decisioned by Richard Hill, Beaumont, Saturday night.

Fireball Sets New World Stock Car Mark

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) —Glenn Roberts, proud at last of being known as Fireball, figured today that he had beaten a kiss of death twice.

Fireball won the Daytona 500-mile race for late model stock cars in Sunday's sunshine with a world record average of 152.529 miles per hour.

"But I sweated it out all the way," he grinned. "Particularly those last 30 miles."

Not because of the fantastic speed he was making with his 1962 Pontiac, which brought him home a half lap ahead of 24-year-old Richard Petty's Plymouth.

Roberts was up in the air all through the three hours, 10 minutes and 41 seconds of his blazing ride because he was afraid history might repeat itself—and because he had been kissed by a former Miss America.

"I had the cold chills," he said after it was over. "Back when I first started racing, one of those racing beauty queens gave me a 'good luck' kiss and I had an accident. The next race, another beauty queen gave me a 'good luck' kiss and I had another accident.

"The third time," he recalled, "another beauty queen said she knew how to break that jinx. She kissed me three times—and I flipped my car end over end seven times."

As a result of such "good luck" smooching, Roberts ever since hasn't even permitted his wife to kiss him before a race.

So there he was, getting set to go in the Daytona 500, when Mary Ann Mobley, Miss America of 1959, leaned over unexpectedly and gave him a 'good luck' smack on the cheek. Fireball did not know whether to be mad or worried, so he rode with a mixture of both.

Going into the final 30 miles he was involved in a desperate driving race with young Petty and all he could think of was that "good luck" kiss and the happenings of a year ago.

Because in the 1961 race, Fireball was blasting along on the head end with 30 miles to go when his crankshaft broke and he was forced out of the race.

"So all through those last 30 miles, I kept waiting for something to happen," he explained. "Man, I really gave it a careful, Sunday drive through the last few laps."

Roberts rid himself of another mental block with his winning performance.

Back when he was in high school he was a fast ball pitcher whose mates tagged him with the nickname Fireball. But while he hated the name, it stuck to him during three years at the University of Florida while he studied mechanical engineering. It became a fixture when he started racing while in college and finally left his classes behind to make a career of racing.

"Every time I heard that name it made me mad," Roberts chuckled after his victory. "But somehow, now that I've won this race, I figure maybe that name fits, after all."

Roberts admitted to a lot of "luck" — particularly after that good luck kiss—because he ran out of gas on his first two pit stops but had enough speed to coast all the way in to where his pit crew was waiting.

"So I guess kissing's okay," he laughed. "And being called Fireball, too."

The other drivers admitted that, as far as they were concerned, they figured the name was deserved all the time.

Both Will Try Hard This Week

By ED FITE
United Press International

The Texas Longhorns haven't lost a home conference basketball game in their last 19 starts and that jinx looms large in the Southwest Conference title hopes of Southern Methodist and Texas Tech this week.

Both the defending champion Raiders and upstart Methodists must visit Gregory Gym in Austin, where the Longhorns haven't lost a loop game since Texas A&M turned the trick 71-61 in the tag end of a 4-20 losing season in 1959.

Officials said three principal documents have resulted from the secret negotiations which have been going on intermittently since last October.

The first is a purely military cease-fire agreement, calling for an end to the righting in which more than 250,000 Moslems and Europeans have died in the past seven years, including some 18,000 French soldiers.

It still was not known who would sign this document, although the French want the military on both sides to sign.

The political terms of the agreement will be laid down in two "declarations of intention" which will be made public simultaneously by the Franch government in Paris and the rebel government-in-exile in Tunis.

The main terms of these were expected to be:

—France agrees the Algerians shall have the right of self-determination.

of Moslems and Europeans with a Moslem chairman will be set up soon at government headquarters at Rocher Noir, east of Algiers, to run the territory during an interim period of six to nine months.

—A mixed security force of 30,000 to 40,000 men, probably under a Moslem commander, will ba responsible for internal security during the interim period, although the bulk of France's 40,000-man army will remain for a time.

—A referendum will be held throughout Algeria after about six months in which the entire population will vote whether it wants full independence or to remain under French rule.

—If, as expected, the vote is overwhelmingly in favor of independence, a sovereign Algerian republic will be set up.

—France will retain garrisons and bases in Algeria for a number of years.

Tech and SMU go into the final four games of the season tied with the Aggies for the league lead with 7-3 records. Texas is the only other club figured to have much chance of making a run at the crown. Texas has a 5-4 mark with one makeup game hanging fire.

While SMU is at Texas and Tech is at Texas Christian in Fort Worth tomorrow night, the Aggies will be at Houston against Rice, which has lost only one of nine home contests this season.

If the three leaders can get by that road trouble tomorrow night, then things will brighten up a bit for A&M and SMU by the week end when they both are at home—A&M to Arkansas on Friday night and SMU to TCU on Saturday night. Tech stays on the road—at Austin.

Actually, A&M and SMU have even 2-2 home and road breaks for their remaining games while Tech must face three out of four foes away from home. Texas has three out of four at home.

After this week, A&M plays Tech at Lubbock and Baylor at College Station; SMU plays Baylor at College Station; SMU plays Baylor at Waco and Arkansas at Dallas; Tech has A&M at home and Rice at Houston, and Texas plays Arkansas away and TCU at Austin.

The title chase is still a wide open affair and it would surprise no one for the winner to be satisfied with a 10-4 record possibly even a 9-5 which earned a co-championship for SMU and Arkansas no longer ago than 1959.

A three-way title tie is a distinct possibility although the conference hasn't had one since 1951 when A&M, Texas and TCU deadlocked at 8-4. There have been only three triple ties in the history of the league—Arkansas, Baylor and Rice in 1949 and Arkansas, Rice and SMU in 1934.

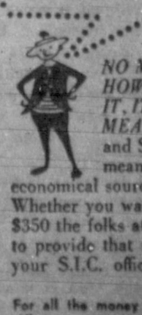

SMU made the biggest news last week by whipping Tech 68-66 on the Raiders' own floor, thus bumping off Rice by the same score at Dallas to set up the current deadlock. A&M kept pace by beating Texas 54-48 and TCU 87-65; Tech salvaged a 76-71 victory over Arkansas; Texas beat off Baylor 81-66; TCU downed Baylor 80-66 and Rice stopped Arkansas 63-55.

How To Help Business

Two of the nation's leading airlines - American and Eastern — have proposed to their stockholders a merger. Eastern is a north-south carrier and American's routes are east-west. The merger would create the nation's largest operation.

Merger has become a dirty word, politically. It conjures up phantoms of unearned monopoly, gouging of the public and planned unemployment.

In the matter of air transportation you have a near-classic example of federal control as it happens, as it operates and as it brings an industry to grief.

The example of the airlines is parallel to that of the radio-TV industry, also in big trouble.

Air transportation and radio transmission of sound and picture are under the control of the government. Bureaus decide who shall use which air routes and which wavelengths. The owner of a radio or TV station must be licensed by the government, he must certify to so much "public service" broadcasting, he must remain officially honest, upright, moral and it doesn't hurt to be friendly with someone close to the White House, either.

The broadcaster is urged to "editorialize" as, indeed, many of them do. The position of an editorialist, who depends upon the government for a license to do business is, to put it mildly, delicate. It's like the wife who says to her husband, "Dear, I want you to give me an honest criticism of my new hair-do." It is a daft husband who falls for that one!

The licensed TV industry now is accused of bringing the wrong kind of programs into the home. There seems to be official anger at westerns, and TV stations are indicted for running too many of them. As we understand it, the FCC wants lectures on art, music, world history, and even more-elevated topics at the expense of westerns. The TV people say, first, it ain't so; second, it is so, but people want westerns; third, it doesn't make any difference what people want; fourth, the advertiser controls programs; and fifth, the advertiser doesn't control programming.

If the FCC can't understand simple answers like these, how can it be smart enough to regulate the industry?

The airlines, also under government control, have troubles of another sort, but for the same reason: They too are licensed. Even their rates are controlled because they are given unearned monopolies, like the local gas, electric and phone companies. And the Post Office.

Some airlines want to go up in price; some want to go down. Pan American wants to get out of Brownsville. Trans Texas would like to get in. Braniff wouldn't mind getting out. Nobody's happy.

Everyone would like the profitable hauls, nobody wants the losers. The government, unfortunately, isn't able to iron out the trouble. You can't make enough people want to fly from, say, Lubbock to San Angelo to make it profitable.

So the government subsidizes airlines, gives them good and bad hauls, pays them for work they don't do, awards them exclusive franchises; and now it may chase out the non-schedules lines.

And still the industry looks sick. Two major carriers want to merge, out of economic necessity. Government control doesn't mean more service, it means fewer services, fewer competitors and, ventually, higher prices.

This is the lesson to be learned from the airlines and the broadcast industry: Nothing, but nothing, is quite so good for getting an industry in trouble as the helping hand of the government!

Source Of Happiness

Many people spend a great deal of money trying to have happiness. Sooner or later they are apt to discover that they have been seeking to find happiness by purchasing the happiness other people evince. But most of the happiness other people evince came thru their own disciplines and not from money.

The Sacrificial Lambs

There's a word coming into wider and wider usage these days which may be emblematic of our times. The word is "sacrifice."

Early in his term of office Mr. Kennedy let us know that he was going to call on all of us to tighten the belt, hitch up the suspenders, put the shoulder to the wheel, stick out our chins and otherwise lay ourselves upon the sacrificial altar of "duty" to mankind.

Now, the idea of human sacrifice was supposedly made obsolete along about the time Augustus Caesar was calling for a world tax and old King Herod got into a pet over small boys at the age of two.

It was in those years that we ominally adopted a more humane kind of religion in which we often rejected the concept of killing good beef cattle or goats to propitiate the Olympus deities, and decided that sacrificing other people for our own good was somewhat barbaric, and no end goody.

A friend of ours has written rather well on this point and we quote his recent letter:

"Nightly one reads where another representative, from President down to the man in charge of urban renewal bus service, calls on us for more sacrifice. Daily we read where Nancy Williams, Mrs. Roosevelt, Adlai, or other luminaries diving on causes' incomes, have just returned from inner-outer Mongolia and inform us that we have a moral duty to exchange our wealth for their dried Yak milk, or better yet, just ship them a few boatloads of our money. Duty manufacturing is the principal activity of our terrifically expensive overhead organization called 'government.' It's caught on like 'Charades.' No self-respecting politician or bureaucrat can let a day go by without thinking up some new, absolutely unavoidable 'moral' duty that the producers have to fulfill.

"This writer has reached the point where he feels guilty when he allows his children a morsel above sustenance diet. I have been ruminating over the exciting guilt-free moments we could enjoy if we could manage to keep our politicians and their sycophants from globe - girdling junkets that only result in hundreds of added 'moral' obligations for us to fulfill. It would seem that we've just about shouldered all the obligations we can stand for blasting Nygasaland, Mauritania, Nigeria, India, Yugoslavia and a hundred other emerging states into material Nirvana by 10 a.m. November 7, 1962.

"But we don't want to be accused of being churlish. We will plod along making the sacrifices called for by those who know so much more about production precisely because they never produced anything, if they'll just throw us one little bone.

"Give us a little reciprocity, oh Wise Ones! We'll make sacrifices if you will just make one tiny one for us! Please, Mr. Heller and company, offer up as your sacrifice your economic illusions."

We don't know how this could be said any better than that.

The Doctor Says:

By Dr. HAROLD T. HYMAN

PRECAUTIONS TO CURB ACCIDENTAL POISONINGS

Children under 10 were involved in almost all of the 2,500 accidental poisonings and the 20 fatalities reported to the 364 centers of the National Clearinghouse for Poison Control (Washington 25, D.C.).

Alarming as these figures may be, they do not begin to reflect the extent of the problem since vastly more poisonings and fatalities must have been unrecognized, unreported or actually concealed.

In most instances, the swallowed poisons were candy medications, cleaning agents and insect killers. The list also included kerosene, bleaches, disinfectants, agricultural chemicals, dry cleaner, fire extinguisher and lighter fluids and lye.

Here are some suggestions that may help prevent an accidental poisoning in your home:

If you are dependent on candy medication (aspirin, laxatives, etc.), store supplies on a high shelf in a locked bathroom cabinet.

Do not keep a ready supply of kerosene or other household liquids in beverage bottles that have been emptied of a child's favorite drink.

Store household and garden chemicals in locked kitchen closets and hang the key beyond reach of a child standing on the highest chair.

On slightest suspicion of a poisioning, induce vomiting by tickling the child's throat. If unsuccessful, give a cupful of warm water containing 1 teaspoonful of mustard. If your efforts fail, fill the stomach with milk, warm tea or olive oil.

Place a call to your doctor. If he cannot be reached or cannot come to your home, take the child to his office or clinic or to the nearest hospital. If you know the location of a neighboring Poison Control Center, phone for instructions.

If you are at a loss to know what to do, call the police who will provide immediate assistance.

Be sure to retain the container from which the suspected poison was taken. This will help identify the substance and may give some rough estimate of the amount of the dose swallowed.

Since some poisons like bichloride of mercury do not produce toxic symptoms for some hours, do not be lulled into a state of false security by the apparent well - being of the poisoned individual.

Because a fair number of poisoned children are "repeaters," redouble safety precautions after the first experience. If the incident appears to be but a single manifestation of some more basic personality problem, seek immediate help from a psychiatrist or a child psychologist.

It is obvious that we are living in a time when those in government imagine they have both the power and the right to lay us taxpayers on the altar of every expedience they can contrive, - there to bleed us in propitiation of the god of battle and the god of international world government.

The pagans were kind and gentle compared to the present nest of looters on capitol hill. At least the pagans had the grace to try to convince the unknowing that there was a spate of INVISIBLE men and women on Olympus who had to be placated. They erected and maintained the fiction that it wasn't the high priests of sacrifice that mattered, it was the invisible boys and girls in the hills.

But today, the illusions respecting those scantily clad deites have gone with the winds. Nowadays, when a sacrifice is called for, we note with unpleasant perceptivity that the boys that call for the sacrifices want it for THEMSELVES. We taxpayers are going to be knifed and drained, not for a mystical crew but for a gang of political cutthroats who are living already on a diet of pure hemoglobin, and who can't imagine how they will survive unless sacrifice is made into a national policy.

Let's face it. Our government's taxing program is monstrous. The high priests of misrule are in their temples and the victims are being prepared for final economic death.

Another Move To Washington

Allen - Scott Report

ROBERT ALLEN

PAUL SCOTT

Bailey To Stick as Democratic Chairman 'As Long As He Wants To' — Kennedy

WASHINGTON — There is absolutely no substance to those persistent stories and rumors that John Bailey is going to step out soon as Democratic National Chairman.

The hard truth is just the opposite.

President Kennedy has given Chairman Bailey unequivocal assurances that he wants him to stay as party leader as long as he wants the job.

And Bailey is making it very clear that he has no intention of leaving — at least until after the congressional elections in November.

The authority for this is President Kennedy.

At a recent political strategy meeting at the White House, the President left no doubt with his congressional leaders that Bailey had his full support, saying:

"There is absolutely no basis of fact for those stories that John Bailey is leaving. He is one of the best leaders the Democratic party has ever had. I told him that I want him to stay as chairman as long as he wants to. He is going to help us increase the party's membership in both houses this year."

According to National Committee aides, the rumors about Bailey's short tenure in office stem partly from his decision to take a vigorous role in Secretary of Healh, Education, & Welfare Abraham Ribicoff's bid for the Senate seat now held by GOP Senator Prescott Bush.

Bailey, who doubles as his party's state chairman, is letting Connecticut Democratic leaders know that he is going to handle Ribicoff's campaign from start to finish.

Since the Kennedy Cabinet member faces a stiff primary battle against Representative Frank Kowalski, the popular congressman-at-large, many national political writers are misinterpreting this to mean that Bailey will give up his national post because of the partisan inter-party stand he is taking.

STICKING AROUND — Some of Bailey's closest friends are flatly predicting that the National Chairman will still be around in 1964 when President Kennedy seeks a second term.

To support this assertion, they point out that Bailey likes being the party's top political leader. Also, that he is quietly building an empire at the party's plush headquarters now located at 1730 "K" Street — just three blocks from the White House.

Under his leadership, the staff of the Democratic National Committee has mushroomed to more than 100 — a record size for a year when there is no presidential election.

Bailey has also found his position helpful in taking care of his friends.

For instance, he recently appointed his chauffeur and handyman, Michael Keane, as head of the Committee's Speaker's Bureau, at a salary of $18,000.

Bailey is also using his National Committee vantage point for another purpose.

He called Democratic members of the House Appropriations Committee recently to plead with them to stop their slam - bang questioning of Secretary Ribicoff about his short-lived economy drive last year.

In private hearings on the HEW's fiscal 1963 budget, the Democratic legislators let Ribicoff know that they weren't happy about his freeze of $100 million they had voted his Department last year.

When Bailey lectured one member, contending that his questioning would give the Republicans ammunition against the Secretary, the congressman retorted:

"Ribicoff should have thought of that when he volunteered to cut his own budget. You didn't see Secretary Goldberg make any foolish announcement like that. He fought the reduction all the way."

POLITICAL FALLOUT — President Kennedy will confer Friday, Februry 16, with leaders of the American - Lithuanian League. They are going to the White House to seek the President's support for independence for that small Baltic nation which the Russians swallowed up during World War II. . .Admiral Ben Moreell, ret., former steel industry official, is reporting to Washington friends that he was not successful in trying to talk Salt Lake City Major J. Bracken Lee out of entering the Utah Senate race. Republicans are afraid that Lee's entry in the contest will split the vote and the Democrats will be able to capture the seat from GOP Senator Wallace Bennett. . .The latest reports show the Democratic National Committee's debt is $900,000. Chairman Bailey isn't planning to try to cut this down until after the congressional elections. Already, he has promised congressional leaders that he will see that their campaign committees receive $500,000 for the coming campaigns . . .In Alabama, where the nine incumbent House members are running for renomination in a one-man-out Democratic primary in May, the voters need a score card to determine whom to vote for. This is indicated by a letter Representative Robert E. Jones, D, received recently that stated: "I'm going to vote for you and—and—and—(naming three other Alabama congressmen) and Representatives William Jennings Bryan Dorn and John Bell Williams." Dorn and Williams come from South Carolina and Mississippi, respectively. . .The first book on the U-2 plane incident will be off the press next week. It is being written by two Washington reporters.

WRONG APPROACH

(Christian Economics)

The $20 billion program which President Kennedy has set up for Latin America, over half of which is to come from the U.S., will accomplish but little toward relieving poverty in that area. The National Review estimates that it would buy only one good pair of shoes per year per person for the people living in Latin America.

If the governments of these countries were willing to establish policies encouraging thrift, respecting private property and allowing each man to enjoy the fruits of his effort, the needed capital would not only be generated internally but foreign loans would back competent men in the establishment of free enterprises.

If our country would export the system which made possible the vast accumulation of wealth in North America, we would really be helping the people of other countries. To tax ourselves poor to maintain Socialistic rulers in these so-called "underdeveloped lands" will not only destroy our capacity to help the rest of the world, but will retard indigenous progress in the very lands we seek to help.

Hankerings

By HENRY McLEMORE

I may be wrong, but to me it seems that the guys have it better than the dolls.

If it weren't for the wear and tear involved on my few suits, I'd drop to my knees every day and thank my lucky stars that I wasn't born a chick.

All one has to do to realize that we guys have it easier than the dolls is to read the newspapers and magazines, all of which have at least one column or article devoted to what a woman must do to retain or improve her beauty.

Women, it appears, aren't ever supposed to be homely or dowdy. Age must not put wrinkles in their faces or fat around their middles.

Their hands must be as youthful in appearance as when they skipped rope, even if they are fifty and tearing toward fifty-one.

They must be willing to break their necks to keep their necks from having a sag.

If they are beautiful, women must strive to be even more beautiful. If they are just half-pretty, they must undergo the torures of the damned to achieve real prettiness. And if they are homely, they must go all out to improve face, figure, and posture.

What's all this for?

You guessed it. To appeal to men, most of whom are born homely, grow homelier with the passing of each minute, and do practically nothing about it.

Can you imagine the average man plucking his eyebrows in order to cause a more rapid beating of some babe's heart. There are men who do this sort of thing, I suppose, but they are as scarce as a hoarse voice at a hog-calling contest.

Women believe — from reading the women's pages, I suppose—that to hold their husbands they should spend twelve hours a day trying to look just as they did when they walked down the aisle and Mama cried.

Men accept marriage as a much more comfortable thing than women do. No suitor ever kicked off his shoes when courting, but let a man be married a few years and he can't wait to kick off his shoes, loosen his tie, let his belt out a few notches, and make his home a haven of rest and comfort.

When a man is courting, he gets his hair cut every week or so, sees to it that his shoes are shined, can't wait to run clean around a car to open the door for his intended, and sends flowers and candy even on such occasions as Arbor Day and Lincoln's Birthday.

But once the "I do" is finished with, he eases up. He says to himself, "I have waged a long and wearisome campaign to gain my objective, and like every combat warrior I deserve a little rest—maybe fifty years of it."

But not a woman. She carries on just as if Jim or Joe or Frank were a stranger to her, and must be held at all costs — even such costly costs as wilting under a dryer, starving on black coffee and dehydrated crackers, rubbing more oil into her skin than Texas produces in a year, and binding herself with outfits which would have been considered cruel even in medieval days.

It tires me just to think of what women endure in the name of beauty and love.

I think I'll quit thinking of it.

The Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Monday, Feb. 19, the 50th day of the year with 315 to follow in 1962.

The moon is full.

There are no morning or evening stars.

On this day in history:

In 1878, Thomas Edison received a patent for his invention of the phonograph.

In 1922, Ed Wynn became the first big name in show business to sign up for a regular radio program featuring him as the star performer.

In 1941, Radio Berlin's propaganda division short-waved an appeal to the U.S. to send messages collect to Germany. More than 1,000 Americans responded, most of whom were highly critical of the Nazi regime.

In 1945, U.S. Marines landed on Iow Jima, beginning the bloody battel for hte Japanese-held island.

Pegler Says:

Ever Figure The Cost Of Upkeep For Our Royalty?

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

By coincidence a rude though harmless rebellion against royalty and its prerogatives and gauds is disturbing the peace in England. At the same time, our own people openly display more and more desire for a system which our ancestors rejected by force and heroic hunger at Valley Forge. Noisy individuals recently kicked up a bloodless row at Oxford to repudiate The Crown as a symbol of their nationality. And a handful of muckers in the London press have enhanced themselves financially by writing nasty things about the Gracious Queen.

Although the British Press has given us some classical satirists and reformers and some fine reporters of events, it has in the last forty years been imitating the worst of our own journalism. The public delight in such clumsy rubbish has astonished Americans and quite upset the better classes of Britain.

It was Lord Northcliffe who introduced this.

He was a vain and, latterly, maniacal showman who played upon The People as Hitler was to do in Germany not much later as time flies. Northcliffe destroyed a precious beauty in public expression which he could not repair. The nasty hacks who have blown raspberries at the Queen are whelps of the Northcliffe pack. They probably are achieving some injury to The Crown and it is not unthinkable that in a few years Great Britain will become an ugly imitation of our own worst features.

Meanwhile, starting with President Wilson, the strayed descendants of our Revolution have unmistakably indulged a yearning for that which our Founding Fathers renounced. President Harding was only a goat - rider as the bellhops in the big hotels call the grand exalted nabobs of the fraternities which commit hubbub in baggy pants and fezzes at their national conventions. He liked badges and epaulets. Oddly, his two successors in the Last Days of the American Republic were offensively sedate. But our Democrats always were climbers and snobs even when their immigrant ancestors lived on the wrong side of the tracks. They have grovelled like English navvies and Scotch shepherds as our royal system has sprouted and flowered.

The principal complaint against royalty in England now is that it costs too much. This may be a deception. Actually, the original investment in Buckingham, St. James', Balmoral, Windsor and other such hutments was depleted long ago. The original cost of the labor was a trifle, the land was stolen and title remains with the Crown. The inventory of silver and linen is static. Thus the occupants get only the value of a reasonable rent, subject to discounts for various considerations. If a family is required to live in certain premises to hold a job, that should reduce the cash value of the rent. When Mr. Truman was our Ruler, I had an angry scrap with Mr. Oliphant of the Internal Revenue about the principle of that. I contended that Truman ought to pay rent for the vacation house which he occupied on the Naval Staion at Key West. Mr. Oliphant said the President's job went wherever he went and we had to provide him quarters wherever.

Mr. Oliphant then called in one of those lawyers who got in Dutch in the Treasury scandals and this expert explained that the President as Commander - in - Chief had a right to free Government quarters on the Naval Base.

You can't lick them when they get that royal savor on their lips.

Similarly, Harold Ickes, as Secretary of the Interior, got rent free at a funished jigsaw mansion on the Island of Bar Harbor which belonged to the Department of the Inerior. Similarly, Henry Morgenthau got a Coast Guard plane with fuel and two pilot officers to fly him home to Hyde Park for week - ends and a ground escort of relays of Internal Revenue agents to follow him on the roads just in case —. The expenditure was lavish, but we are sampling royalty and like it.

When Our Leader went to the Aleutians we turned out a cruiser and made alterations to provide a special elevator for him. When Eleanor went calling on Joe Lash in the Pacific she got a four-engine bomber with five officers at our expense. All we were told was that she gave the income from her column, for the elapsed time to the Red Cross, which refused to tell us how much. That seemed a great bargain.

Did we object to the expense? Nobody but Pegler, the cad!

President Kennedy is reeking rich but he flies so many places in so many kinds of aircraft that, with a reverent tug at my forelock, I wonder how they keep their accounts. Does he have to go to Cape Cod for week - ends? And down to Virginia and Palm Beach? Those are not public scheduled flights and the cost might mount up even for an endowed young millionaire.

This is not a complaint. I am a Tory and Royalist, myself.

My motto now is "Shoot the works!" But I wonder if it costs the British as much to support their small royal coterie, considering the Queen's hard work and long hours and her yellow - dog contract, which precludes side - money for teevy, testimonials and personal appearances.

matter of Fact

Many early mine explosions were caused by the flame of a candle near methane gas or fine coal dust. Explosions were greatly cut down with the invention of a safety lamp. These lamps were based on the principle that metal gauze placed between a flame and an explosive mixture absorbs the heat of the flame and conducts it away from the gas, thus preventing explosion.

Uncle Sam Looking Over Stock Trader's Shoulder

NEW YORK (UPI) — A man who makes a living in the marketing of securities issues or in the actual trading of stocks on the nation's exchanges could not be blamed for feeling that someone was looking over his shoulder when he went to work today.

Like the man with the whiskers, Uncle Sam.

There was no particular atmosphere of gumshoeing. What a couple of branches of the federal government were doing was advertised widely and loudly last Friday. The announcements were separate, but together they hardened the image created over the past several months of heightened government interest in the conduct of trading in securities, both off and on the exchanges and in the money which is made from investment in securities and in trading in them.

In Dallas, Internal Revenue Commissioner Mortimer S. Caplin told a legal group that his tax agents are looking over the records of stock offerings—the placing of stocks on the market — by underwriters. This, he said, was to make sure that proper taxes are paid if the underwriter profits from a stock option.

In New York, just as trading was closing on the New York Stock Exchange, all 357 specialists on the Big Board got a questionnaire from the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Engineers Slate Meeting In Borger For Tuesday

The Texas Panhandle Chapter of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers will meet at 8 p. m., Tuesday, at the Central Grade school located at 800 N. McGee in Borger.

The Speaker for the evening will be Dr. Tom W. Duke, M. D., from Amarillo. Dr. Duke will speak on "Socio - Economic Problems of Medicine — 1962." The talk will cover the position of the American Medical Association (AMA) on proposed federal legislation touching the medical profession. One topic will be medical care of the aged.

Dr. Duke is a member of the Speaker's Bureau of the AMA and Chairman of the Legislature Affairs Committee of the Potter-Randall County Medical Society. He is a native of Cochran, Georgia.

"All member engineers are invited to hear Dr. Duke's informative discussion. All visitors are welcome. Light refreshments are to be served following the meeting," said R. J. Penny, chapter publicity chairman.

"Bedlam"

The word "bedlam" long has been used to decribe all lunatic ansylums, but it orginally was the popular name of Bethlehem hospital, the first English mental institution, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.
