MOTORS QUIT; RUSSIANS ON BLEAK TUNDRA

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Aug. 14 (U.P.)—Three planes took off today on search for six Russians overdue on a trans-polar flight from Moscow. Joe Crosson, "mercy flier" of the far north, who brought to civilization the bodies of Will Rogers and Wiley Post, piloted the first ship containing 4 other men.

S. E. Robbins, Pacific-Alaska pilot and Clyde Armistead, who once flew with Sigismund Levanesky, pilot of the missing Russian plane, were in a pontoon-equipped plane.

The planes roared away after the anchorage radio station of the U. S. Army signal corps intercepted the first message from the Soviet plane in 28 hours. It was almost certain that the plane was forced down on bleak arctic tundra, or ice after one of its motors quit while flying through a blinding snow-storm.

Moscow reported that the plane had food for 45 days, sleeping bags, a tent, axes, portable radio and a rubber boat.

Anchorage heard the Russian plane last at 8:44 a. m. CST saying "No Bearings. Have trouble with wave band."

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14 (U.P.)—James Mattin, noted flier, was granted permission by the Commerce department today to make an aerial search for the Russian fliers believed lost in the Arctic.

Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins Return From Trip

Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Jenkins returned Friday from a month's vacation which they spent in Colorado, Yellowstone Park in Wyoming, and visited many places of interest en route among which were Crater Lake in Oregon, and Yosemite National Park in California. They were out of the United States while in Canada, and also while in Old Mexico, on the south. They state, however, they are glad to be back in Cisco.

South Side Stands Are Fully Complete

W. F. Wilson, Cisco stadium contractor, says that the south side grandstand is completed with both construction and painting. Mr. Wilson also said that a crew had been erecting a fence on the west side of the stadium today. The grass is growing steadily, he said, but a good rain would be a great help. He continued saying the work on the stadium had been done as per schedule since the beginning of its construction.

Fast Motor Lines Employes From Various Texas Towns Will Gather Here in Picnic and Dance Aug. 22

FAST MOTOR LINES 3 line 18-Officials and employes of the Merchants Fast Motor Lines will meet here August 22nd for a picnic and dance, W. E. Dean, local agent, and district manager for the company, announced Saturday morning.

This is an annual affair and is held in order that all employes and their families may get together in a friendly atmosphere and become better acquainted. Various employes from as far north as Lubbock, as far east as Dallas, and west as far as Odessa, and south from San Angelo, Cleman and Brownwood, will meet here to enjoy the affair.

On Saturday evening, preceding the picnic, a dance will be given at the Country Club. This will be a free occasion for all employes of the Lines, but guests are asked to pay a small amount in order to help meet the expenses.

The picnickers will gather about ten o'clock Sunday morning, with a delicious barbecue at one, after which speakers will fill the afternoon. Some will be local men, while others will be from the general offices of Fort Worth.

After the speaking, ice cream and watermelon will be served, and those who care to will be given the privilege of a swim, fishing or golfing. Everything is free, furnished by the Motor Lines to its employes and invited guests.

Many guests will be invited from among the customers who use this line as a means of transportation.

As Court Freed 'Duce's Friend

Ordered to pay damages of four cents and a fine of $3.75. Mme. Madeleine Fontages, French actress, writer, and friend of Mussolini, is shown above as the court suspended a one-year prison sentence at the close of her trial for the shooting of Count Charles Pineton de Chambrun, former French ambassador to Rome. Her trial threatened to rock European diplomatic circles, for Mme. Fontages had told police she shot the ambassador because he shattered "unforgettable hours of love" with Il Duce.

WORLD NEWS FLASHES ON WIRES TODAY

AUSTIN, Aug. 14 (U.P.)—Eight per cent of the college students in Texas will be eligible for NYA parttime jobs, J. C. Kellam, Texas NYA director, announced today.

ISLAND PARK, N. Y., Aug. 14 (U.P.)—Michael Horbachevski's love for his three daughters was so great he shot them to death to save them from sex degenerates who have murdered four little girls in New York City so far this year, police believed today. He committed suicide afterwards.

AUSTIN, Aug. 14 (U.P.)—A fingerprint found on a stolen San Antonio automobile abandoned here with $321 in small coins Thursday was found to match the left index finger of Rudolf Smedley, the State Safety department announced today.

Smedley was arrested in Houston for investigation concerning the robbery of the San Antonio Public Service company.

GRANGER, Tex., Aug. 14 (U.P.)—J. O. Salyer, 55, and his son, Ralph, 28, were charged with murder here today following a shooting Friday night in which Mrs. Sue Benad, 31, was killed and Lee Gunn, son of a city marshal, was wounded. A posse searched for Ralph Salyer.

CALLANDER, Ont., Oct. 14—The Dionne quintuplets will probably be together again Sunday when Cecile, slower than the others in recovering from a sore throat was expected to rejoin her sisters in their public appearances.

Driving Careful In 'Trip' Month Plea of Official

Thirty per cent more traffic is on the highways in August and the early part of September which creates an additional hazard to safety, according to Criminal District Attorney Earl Conner, Jr., who Friday urged observance of safety precautions as recommended by Department of Public Safety to reduce accidents.

During July, said the official, 24 accidents happened in the county and the majority were preventable.

"According to the Department of Public Safety," said Conner, "nearly 50 per cent of the drivers involved in fatal accidents had no one to blame but themselves. Figures compiled by the department for the month of June show 142 accidents resulting in 159 deaths.

"Half of these reported deaths were non-collision and fixed object wrecks caused by speeding and reckless driving, losing control of the car and leaving the road.

"Cars crashed into culverts and hit trees and crashed through fences quite often throwing the driver and the occupants through the windshield causing them to be picked up a crushed and mangled mass of flesh.

"The temptation to relax and let the car loose on a good road—and most accidents are on the open road—when there is nothing in sight is to resist. Skid marks by patrolmen tell the story. An unexpected curve when hit traveling at an excessive rate of speed, a wheel off side, a sudden swerve and it is always too late to prevent the crash.

"It is no longer smart to be able to brag how short a time one took in going from here to there. The smart driver is the careful driver."

'TEXAS TRUCK WEEK' BEGINS ON AUGUST 16

A gigantic truck parade in the afternoon, augmented by bands from surrounding towns, and a banquet Wednesday night, will be highlights of the "Texas Truck Week" celebration August 16 to 21 in Amarillo.

"Serving American Progress" is the theme of this celebration sponsored by the motor carriers of the Panhandle. The "week" is set aside for the purpose of informing the public of the benefits brought by the motor transportation industry to the State of Texas.

Guests of the celebration banquet will be Hon. Mark Marshall, director of the Motor Transportation Division of the Railroad Commission of Texas, Hon. Tilden Childs, District Director of the Interstate Commerce Commerce, Henry English, president of the Texas Motor Transportation Association, and many others.

Through the streets of Amarillo Wednesday afternoon trucks furnished by operators of the district will carry banners telling facts and figures of the motor transportation industry in Texas, such as the Texas annual registration of 285,977 trucks, second in the nation only to New York; State license fees of $6,236,244; gasoline tax, $17,158,630; 348,176 truck and bus drivers employed by Texas operators.

The annual celebration of "Texas Truck Week" serves to show the benefits that are passed on to the consumer by the business man who uses the services of motor carrier lines.

Former Ciscoans Take Ocean Trip

Mmes. G. E. Berry of San Angelo, and Sam Hines of Dallas are enjoying a vacation trip to the Catalina Islands. These ladies are former Ciscoans. Mrs. Berry being the daughter of Mrs. W. L. Harrell, and Mrs. Hines a daughter of Judge and Mrs. D. K. Scott.

MARRIAGE FEES MAY BE CUT

HCNCLULU (U.P.)—To bring marriage within the reach of all, a bill has been introduced in the territorial legislature reducing the fee for marriage licenses from $5 to $2. The old rate is believed to be the highest in the United States.

SHANGHAI IS BEING BOMBED BY CHINESE

SHANGHAI, China, (Sunday), August 15 (U.P.)—China today threatened a new down-pour of deadly incendiary bombs on Shanghai in a renewed desperate attempt to force withdrawal of Japanese warships from the Whangpoo river.

The international settlement was thrown into an uproar at this threat of the bombing that plunged this great far eastern city in chaos, with casualties mounting into the thousands, including at least three Americans killed.

A dozen other Americans were wounded by bomb fragments, shrapnel splinters and machine gun bullets. Scores of fires raged throughout the city.

American known to have perished were: E. Rawlinson, 66, noted missionary.

Dr. Robert Reischauer, of Boston; H. S. Honigsberg, an insurance and automobile dealer of Shanghai and two Americans in his automobile. The latter three were victims of a bomb.

Chinese armies surrounding Shanghai appeared determined to destroy the foreign area unless Japan yields to China's demand that all Japanese armed forces and warships be withdrawn immediately. Chinese authorities contended that if Japanese were permitted to use the international settlement as a military base China will take the same right.

Chinese airplanes reportedly were planning resuming Japanese craft in the Whangpoo.

A crisis between the two fighting nations and neutral powers was threatened when the government of the French concession officially notified both the Chinese and Japanese it would not tolerate further flights of their aircraft over French territory.

French anti-aircraft batteries were mobilized. The Cathay and Palace hotels in

FUNERAL FOR MRS. BARNES ON SATURDAY

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock for Mrs. W. M. Barnes, victim of the same car accident that took the lives of Mrs. Charles Kleiner and Charles, Jr., near Tucson, Arizona, late Tuesday afternoon.

Services were held at the First Baptist Church in Cisco, and in the absence of a Baptist pastor Rev. Joe I. Patterson, pastor of the First Methodist Church officiated. The church was decorated with many beautiful floral offerings.

Mrs. Barnes was born near Brownwood, September 4, 1887, and later moved to Bangs, where she spent most of her life until seven years ago she moved to Cisco, where she continued to reside until her death.

CISCO DEACONS WILL PLAY AT ATWELL TODAY

The Cisco Deacons, Sunday afternoon baseball players, will go to Atwell today to play that team in a game at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Although the Deacons lost the game last Sunday, they have expressed themselves as being fully capable of cleaning the Atwell team, and of going there with the intention of doing it.

The only reason they lost the game last Sunday to Maytown was because all had been playing soft ball and accustomed to handling a large ball. The size of the hardball made it difficult for them to do masterful playing; but the boys have been doing some practice all this week, Mr. Bennie said, and have expressed themselves as fully confident of a victory at Atwell.

The team will leave here about one o'clock today, with a splendid lineup as follows:

Greer or Coats, c; Sublett, 1b; Wilkins, ss; White, 3b; Elliott, lf; Bennie, cf; Dick, rf; Rylie, 2b; Sublett, White or Rylie as pitcher; Bucky Harris, outfield.

Catcher and pitcher have not been fully determined but one of those named will be selected. Mr. Bennie says he will switch them all around in order to get the most harmony.

MISS LINDER IN VOCALIST FINALS MON.

Miss Margie Linder has been selected a one of the 15 chosen for a final audition before Paul Whitman for the selection of feminine vocalist with his orchestra.

An audition will be given over WBAP Monday afternoon at 2:15. Miss Linder and the other fourteen were chosen from about 400 girls who appeared before Ed Lally, Judge, more than four weeks ago for the first selection.

These girls have been considered very carefully, and only the very

Human Security Week Gave Better Understanding to People of Two Amendments for Blind and Needy

H. Miller Ainsworth, State Chairman for Human Security, commenting from State Headquarters in Austin on the success of Human Security Week August 9-16, said that the educational campaign in behalf of the two amendments for the needy blind and for dependent and destitute children had been most heartily cooperated in by both the press and the public. "Great impetus was given to the movement," Mr. Ainsworth said, "and a much better understanding of the provisions of the amendment is now had by the public."

In looking toward the election, Monday, August 23, Mr. Ainsworth said: "There must be no let-up in our campaign of information. Human Security Week was the opening of the educational campaign rather than the close of it. Now

The People's Interest in Coming Elections

Despite other evidence to the contrary, the "next election" campaign is on. And it is gathering momentum so fast that from now until 1940, the electorate is going to have to be the best read, the best informed and the keenest in the nation's history if the vote follows the real issues.

This is assuming, of course, that campaigns generally will follow the course indicated in Pennsylvania and New York City. Political quarrels which already have attained robust proportions in those places provide cues for what may be coming in other localities.

Just what the issues will be is as much a problem to the politicians as to the voters. Maybe they will all develop as nicely as the issue in Pennsylvania, which was handed to Mayor S. Davis Wilson on a silver platter when a state policeman was arrested for tapping phone wires leading to the home of the mayor's secretary.

In reprisal for this attempt to "ruin him politically," and to meet the "challenge" from the New Deal governor, George H. Earle, Mayor Wilson announced that he would reverse a previous decision and run for governor. So, although the election is about 15 months off, Mayor Wilson immediately opened his campaign in the coal area. That's how simple that was.

In New York City, the mayoralty race is more confusing. Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia, elected in 1933 by a Democrat-Republican coalition, is running again, this time under the banners of the American Labor party, Socialists, Communists, and orphaned Democrats and Republicans.

On the other side are Judge J. T. Mahoney and Senator Royal S. Copeland, fighting for Democratic Tammany Hall's support. But Senator Copeland has announced that he will enter the Republican primary. And adding to the confusion, Al Smith, a "Landon" Democrat, re-enters the scene as master wielder of the strings by which Tammany is trying to control its wayward members.

Rather than believe that invasion of a private telephone line—no matter whose—qualifies as a legitimate basis for a campaign, people would rather have an out and out fairy story with a happier ending. And rather than wade through a slough of synthetic issues and personal grudges, they would much prefer to return to voting simply for the best man.

Nevertheless, when the elections roll around, politicians will expect people to knuckle down unquestioningly again and pull the right levers or mark the X in the proper places. The campaign is on. The politicians know it and are making the most of it. And if the people will expect to do better than second best in the results they will have to get organized too—starting now.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

BY PODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The procedural court bill reported out by the Senate Judiciary Committee is such a puny remnant of the original court bill that no one pays it any heed.

But although it represents a bad defeat for Roosevelt, a year ago it would have been considered hot stuff. At any rate it appears to represent the committee's unshakable belief that there has been sand in the wheels of justice.

THREE are four important points:

The first permits the attorney general to intervene in suits involving constitutionality of federal laws. This provision would prevent framed-up "test cases" in which supposed but not necessarily real adversaries would fight a case of constitutionality through the courts, with the possibility that the side defending constitutionality would build up a poor record or a weak case upon which the Supreme Court would have to act.

Theoretically the Supreme Court decides cases between the government and persons (the court has held corporations to be "persons.")

But in the Burco case in Baltimore, involving the holding company act, trustees of a defunct utility company questioned constitutionality of the holding company act—with John W. Davis appearing for an "intervening security holder"—and the act was defended by another group of security holders whom the government alleged had no interest in defending it. The rice cases, at least in early stages, found the federal statute defended by railroads which had refused to pay over-quota rice. The new "little court bill" allows the government to defend its own laws from the beginning.

SECOND, there's provision for direct appeal of cases involving constitutionality of federal laws from district courts to the Supreme Court. This procedure skips the Circuit Courts of Appeals. Lawyers say it usually takes about a year to get a case through the appeals courts. The Supreme Court now has discretionary power to skip the appeals courts.

Third, when injunctions are sought to bar enforcement of a federal law, suit must be brought before a court of three federal judges, one of whom must be a circuit judge. This would mean a severe crimp in the old game of tying up federal laws by seeking injunctions in districts where a judge is notoriously or obviously prejudiced.

Fourth, appeals by private litigants from lower courts would have to be filed in 30 days and appeals to the Supreme Court within 60 days. This speeds up justice and prevents "stalling."

C. I. O. has pulled in its horns and concentrated its "little steel" strike on Tom Girdler's Republic Steel Co. because its membership is proportionately stronger among Girdler employees, because feeling among union men is stronger against Girdler than against officials of the other three steel companies involved and because it believes Republic, which was reorganized in 1929 and only came out of the red two or three years ago, has been taking a financial beating.

C. I. O. lawyers, who watch such things, believe it's significant that while U. S. Steel stock went from 108 1/2 to 118 1/2 in the most recent two-week period, Republic Steel stock only moved from 39 to 38 1/2.

GASOLINE GAGE FOR U. S. READ 40 DAYS AHEAD

By JAMES J. DOWNING

United Press Staff Correspondent
TULSA, August 14 (AP)—Mr. Average Motorist, who drives into a corner filling station and says "fill 'er up," is a small but very important cog in the machinery of one of today's largest industries—the manufacture and sale of gasoline.

Without the average motorist and his average daily driving in an average car on average roads in average weather, the gasoline industry conceivably might go to pot at an astonishing rate of speed.

Checking on daily average consumption of gasoline as a Federal department known as the U. S. Bureau of Mines. Today the mines bureau and its monthly reports constitute the industry's watchdog, preventing wasteful overproduction of fuel, or even worse, underproduction.

Monthly Consumption Estimated
How much gasoline will be used in the United States in August? The answer to what question is important to the oil industry and its million employees to State and Federal governments which collect taxes totaling $1,000,000,000 annually on gasoline and other petroleum products, to road builders who depend on gasoline taxes to pay for the work to the steel and other industries which sell supplies to the oil industry.

The answer is known approximately 40 days in advance. More than a month ago the bureau of mines completed its calculations for August and made them known to the industry.

In August, the bureau said, the average motorist, including truck and bus drivers, motorcyclists and airplane pilots, will drive about 348 miles a day and consume 2.52 gallons of gasoline a day.

Many Factors Studied
The bureau arrived at that answer after considering a vast accumulation of data concerning the general business index, automobile registrations, tourist travel, airplane consumption, agricultural conditions, seasonal trends and improvements in automotive engines. National Park registrations and reports from the few remaining toll bridges added their bit to tourist travel.

The bureau took into consideration current trends in railroad passenger travel. Mounting ticket sales mean less motoring.

After considering all those factors and conferring with the long-range weather forecaster, the bureau announced its estimate of consumption, a figure which in the past has proven to be 97 per cent accurate.

Percentage Error Small
The Western Petroleum Refiners Association checking on the mines bureau predictions, found the bureau from September, 1935 to today. For the first five months of this year the bureau was 99.85 per cent correct in its monthly forecasts.

In addition to revealing the probable use of gasoline motors next month the bureau of mines goes farther and tells refiners how much gasoline should be produced to meet the demand, considering stocks on hand, imports and also exports.

It estimates how much crude oil should be run through the stills to produce required gasoline. It estimates how much crude oil should be produced by the nation's oil field to supply refiners and replenish stocks.

A recent move to curtail the bureau of mines' operations brought a resounding protest from the petroleum industry.

Coin Collector Sleeps With Prize

RACINE, Wis. (AP)—So cherished is Edward Yanny's coin collection that he keeps the coins tucked between the covers of a second bed in his room.

Yanny has twin beds. He sleeps in one and stows his coins in the other. Between the beds stands a safe where he keeps his most valuable pieces.

Included in Yanny's collection is a complete set of all American pennies issued since 1793. Among unusual coins there are early 1-2 and 2-cent pieces, a 3-cent coin and 20-cent pieces.

Two Persian coins are dated 1320 and 1321. Yanny believes that oldest of all his collection is a set of African money carved from solid bone.

CHAPTER III
LIFTING the dog in his arms, Pat rapped at Kathleen's door. When she opened it, he managed a worried expression. "Look, Miss Kathy, would you be so kind as to keep him till his master gets back. He belongs to the new man upstairs, Mr. Bob McTavish. He's a writer or something. Quite a likely young feller I'd say."

The girl held out her arms delightedly. "Of course I'll keep him. Be glad to. I saw him on the stairs when they were moving in up there. Isn't he cute? His master's away you say?"

"Well Schmatz couldn't get in. That's the dog's name. Pat answered evasively. "I'll tell him where the terrier is directly. Rhymes goin' all right?"

"I guess so." She sighed a little. "I've got down to green, queen, sheen. Maybe the dog can help. His eyes look bright enough to think up something."

She shut the door and Pat shook his head and went back to his sweeping. After he finished, he trudged heavily up the stairs and knocked on Bob's door. The young man stuck his head out.

"Oh, hello," he said. "Say, seen anything of my dog? I let him out quite a while ago."

"I see the girl downstairs talkin' 'im in, I think," Pat answered gravely. "She's got studio number one. Thought I'd jet tell ye."

"Thanks. I'll run right down and get 'im." Bob started for the stairs. Pat grinned. "It's a grand little girl she is now. Had that studio quite a while. Writes rhymes or something."

"Oh a poet?"

"Well if green rhymes with queen, she is," answered the Irishman sagely and picked up his dustpan. He watched Bob knock at Kathleen's door.

INSIDE studio one, Schmatz hunched himself delightedly at his master, while Kathleen looked on with a smile.

"Positive proof that you're Mr. McTavish," she said. Then went on to explain how she happened to have the dog, adding, "And I'm Kathleen O'Shan, in case you want to prosecute me for stealing 'im."

Bob picked up the dog and leaned back, smiling at Kathleen. "Yes, do come tonight and bring Schmatz. Maybe he could find a rhyme for bone," she said.

to you?" he asked. When she nodded, "I see. Pat seems to have the welfare of his tenants very much at heart. He said you were a poet."

"Oh, no," Kathleen hastened to correct him. "Nothing so arty as that. Besides I've got to support myself. I do greeting cards for a living. You know, valentines, birthdays, mother's day cards, friendship cards and all that. Sometimes it's fun and sometimes it's an awful headache, especially about now when it gets near bill time. I get to worrying, then I can't rhyme anything but due and blue."

"You mean to say you actually make a business of selling those cards? I always supposed they just printed them. Never thought about the people who must write them."

"Well, you can think about me doing it now." Kathleen's tone held an edge. "Pat said you were a writer, too. I suppose you do fish for, or these stories that're all dressed up with pictures in the big magazines."

BOB picked up the dog and leaned back against the kitchen wall, smiling up at her. "Pat's a regular information bureau, isn't he? And of course I did ask for that last remark, after what I said about greeting cards. But you're wrong, lady, dead wrong. I've got to eat, too, you know. That's why I write for the pulps."

Kathleen looked mystified.

"You know the kill-'em-once-a-week kind. Sheriff's posse, master detectives, deadly crooks rampant in every paragraph. It's a great life. My menu's governed solely by the number of words I sell in a month. Ten thousand words, bean soup. Twenty thousand, maybe a pork chop, and once when I caught one editor just after he had come out of an anesthetic or something, and he paid me a prize of $500. I ate a whole turkey dinner all at one time."

A dimple showed at the corner of Kathleen's mouth, and she fished a pencil out of the pocket of her apron and inspected it closely. "I can make good bean soup," she remarked irreverently. Bob leaned forward eagerly. "So what?" he asked.

"Yes, do come tonight and bring Schmatz. Maybe he could find a rhyme for bone."

"And if he did of course that would be doggerel, wouldn't it?" laughed Bob, and made for the door.

As he ran up the steps, the janitor was still working in the upper hall. Bob reached in his pocket. "Here, buy yourself some tobacco. Pat. You're a discriminating person."

The old man grinned. "How many rhymes do you think it takes to pay her rent? Too bad that agent don't have to try thinkin' 'im up himself."

Bob waved his arm dramatically. "If he did he'd probably end by sending her a note saying, 'It's Patrick's idea now indead, Dear loidy, that yer rint is paid. Maybe we can suggest it to him.' His door banged shut."

BUT although he resolutely sat down to his typewriter, it was not so easy to close the door of his mind. Certain black-lashed eyes of Irish blue kept coming between him and the villain. His own eyes strayed frequently to his clock without his being able to do much about it, and in the back of his mind lay the warning thought that he was going to see her again soon.

Studio one was feeling the effects of his visit, too. Kathleen tried desperately to think of her verse. But it was no use. In spite of the impending rent bill, a happy song kept bubbling from her lips, and the flavor of bean soup became much more important than how many rhythmic beats a line might have. She kept jumping up and rearranging the gay dishes she had put on a table in one corner of the room, muttering:

"Hair—hair— Reading her rhymes out loud had got Kathleen into the habit of talking to herself. "What nice blond hair he had—the way it waved back from his forehead—oh, dear, this hasn't a thing Irish about it! Bob McTavish—that's Scotch. Almost Irish, but—well, if I don't get in some checks soon, I'll not be here long anyway, so what the dickens!" She flopped down into her chair once more and firmly reached for a sheet of paper.

But if Kathleen was finding it distracting that Bob had taken the studio upstairs, the Duchess too was very much aware that the room across from her had been rented. Now she languidly knocked the ashes from her cigarette and remarked to a tall dark man with exaggerated sideburns, who was leaning over her easel:

"Rather a good-looking new tenant has just moved in. I must certainly get acquainted with him."

WELLS STUDIED IN DUST BOWL FOR IRRIGATION

Reclamation of the wind-swept lands in the Oklahoma Panhandle, heart of the nation's dust bowl, are being studied by Stuart L. Schoff, geologist assigned by the government to spend a year in this area in an effort to discover a feasible plan for defeating dust and drought.

Panhandle residents and government experts long have been aware that vast water resources underlie the parched lands of many parts of the five-state dust bowl. The chief problem has been to determine a practical method for taking advantage of the water resources.

The possibilities of reclaiming the waste lands has become more promising recently with the result that the U. S. Geological Survey sent Schoff here to complete a study, already started by the Oklahoma Geological Survey, of underground water supplies.

Water 100 Feet Down
 Robert H. Dott, director of the Oklahoma Survey, said that he believed enough water rested 100 to 150 feet below the surface in this area to furnish an adequate supply for subsistence farms, if not for extensive crops.

Two other geologists, it was disclosed, have been assigned to make similar studies in southern Kansas and northern Texas for a proposed gigantic irrigation project covering the sections of the three states where the greatest damage has been done by wind and dust.

"We already know there are tremendous amounts of water seeping westward under the Panhandle," Dott said. "The question which the government is eager to learn is whether the supply is adequate to irrigate the entire dust bowl sections of Oklahoma, Kansas and Texas."

Source Not Known
 The source of the water has not been determined by the Oklahoma survey. Dott believed it originated somewhere in the mountains, probably in New Mexico or Colorado.

The Panhandle A. & M. College at Goodwell is in the midst of a series of irrigational experiments which may prove valuable. A month ago a new campus well, 30 inches in diameter, was completed to a depth of 260 feet, and a turbine pump put into operation that sent 300 gallons of water per minute flowing over the 80-acre plot.

The plot now is a mass of green-sward grass, Indian corn and maize, all in excellent condition.

By way of contrast, the small spots that the water failed to reach were ruined by the blazing sun. The college garden was described by Ed Morrison, president of the college, as one of the finest seen in this area since the dust and drought began laying the land waste more than six years ago.

Some farmers in the Kansas-Oklahoma-Texas area have tried irrigation. Others have indicated they may soon follow suit.

Movies' Banker on Tour Abroad

Chairman of the general executive committee of the Bank of America and authority on world financial conditions, A. H. Giannini of Los Angeles is shown above as he embarked on a tour of Europe. Giannini has long been active in financing Hollywood film productions and in 1936 was elected president of United Artists corporation.

Wisconsin still is the only state in the nation now paying unemployment benefits. Payments will begin, however, in many other states next year. Every state, including Alaska and Hawaii, has been provided with an unemployment compensation law as a result of the Federal social security program. Approximately 21,000,000 workers in every state and territory are enrolled under the program.

Under this state's job insurance law weekly benefits for total unemployment are paid to eligible workers only after they have registered for work and benefits at a public employment office and have served the three-week waiting period prescribed by law. The minimum weekly benefit an employe can receive is $5, the maximum $15. Longest period during which an employe may draw consecutive benefits is 26 weeks or approximately six months.

BENEFIT FUNDS
 The underlying principle of the Wisconsin law is the individual employer reserve. Employers' contributions under the mandatory payroll tax are entered in a fund earmarked for benefit payments to his employes only. In many other states contributions of all employers go into a common fund from which benefit payments are made to any worker who comes under the law.

The administrator of the Wisconsin law is Paul A. Raushenbush, son-in-law of Associate Justice Louis D. Brandeis of the U. S. Supreme Court. Raushenbush believes firmly in the individual reserve situation over the so-called "pooling" plans of other states. He contends the chief objective of unemployment compensation should be to regularize employment and to soften the effects of fluctuation in employment on the workers.

Raushenbush further contends that "no economic system can afford to accent wide fluctuations of employment as permanently necessary and unavoidable."

Full Load on Employers
 "On the contrary," he explains,
 "every effort must be made to reduce and prevent irregularity. The great bulk of hiring and firing in this country is done by private industry. If employment is to be stabilized, each management must tackle the job and be given incentive to smooth out the peaks and valleys. Hence the Wisconsin law requires employers alone to pay for unemployment compensation, in such a way that they will definitely gain by providing steadier work."

The incentive for employers to stabilize production and employment is provided in the rate of contributions. All employers will pay 2 per cent of payrolls until Jan. 1, 1938, but thereafter rates vary from zero to 4 per cent, depending upon the individual employer's capacity to maintain his reserve by stabilizing employment.

Raushenbush explained that although 4,500 employer accounts now are potentially liable for benefits, fewer than 2,600 of these reserve accounts have paid benefits to date. He said that about 1,700 employers, or about 40 per cent apparently have given their employees sufficiently steady work so that they have had no benefits to pay.

The state federation of labor and the Wisconsin Manufacturers Association have collaborated in helping the law to function properly. The state federation has supported the Wisconsin measure despite the fact that the American Federation of Labor has condemned the individual employer reserve principle of the law.

City Rat Killers Irked by Pied Piper AUSTIN, (U.P.)—Mayor Tom Miller has his own "weight" of figuring the city's rapid population increase.

"Yes," Mayor Miller said, "the city is certainly growing. I weighed the new city directory. It weighs five pounds, one ounce he last one, issued two years ago, weighs only three pounds, 14 ounces. That's an increase since 1935 of one pound three ounces, or 35 per cent."

FINES DOT CAMPUS
 TOLEDO (U.P.)—The campus of the University of Toledo has been landscaped with 150 small pine trees. Members of the class of 1937 are looking forward to their 50th reunion to see what progress the trees will have made.

Machine Can Skate, Float, Jump Fences
 LISBON, N. D. (U.P.)—A vehicle perfected after 20 years of work by Ed Heacher, farmer living near here, is designed to skate on ice slide on snow, float on water and jump fences as it travels at speeds varying up to 115 miles an hour.

The body of the machine is similar to a cabin airplane fuselage. In the nose of the fuselage is mounted a 100-horsepower motor, turning a three-blade propeller.

Short wings give potential lifting power enabling the craft to jump fences. Runners on the machine may be converted to wheels while in motion, by means of cams and levers. Pontoons which can be attached in about 15 minutes are carried in the fuselage.

"My machine," Heacher said "will carry three passengers comfortably and weighs about 600 pounds."

CLUB TO GIVE PROGRAM OF ART AND MUSIC

The Junior 20th Century Study Club of Breckenridge has arranged to present a series of programs that are cultural and artistic. For the first time in a number of years a group of outstanding artists will appear in Breckenridge.

They are contacting the managers of the following attractions with tentative dates:

Sarita & Co. will be presented in Spanish and Latin-American dances in the third week of October.

Richard Halliburton, author, lecturer and journalist, will review the fifth of his great sagas "Seven League Boots" in January.

Vandy Cape, soprano and satire singer, the famous star of Metropolitan Opera House Concerts, and "Show Boat," will appear in April with Edward Kane, winner of the National Federation of Music Clubs 1933 Contest, who has since become one of our best known and admired tenors.

The programs will be given in the auditorium of Breckenridge High School and the dates will be announced later. Season tickets for the four performances will be on sale from August 17th at the Breckenridge Chamber of Commerce.

Young People Meet At Eastland Thur.

The Methodist Young People of the Cisco District met at Eastland Thursday night in their regular Union Meeting. This meeting was devoted in its entirety to the election of new officers to serve during the 1937-38 term of office.

The retiring officers of the Union are as follows: President, Maxine Hampton; Vice President, A. C. Donica, and Secretary-Treasurer, Ruby Broxton, all of Cisco. The new-elected officers will take office at the next meeting which is to be held the second Thursday in September at a place not yet designated. The new officers follow: President, Cyrus Frost, of Eastland; Vice President, Jack Brown, of Eastland and Secretary-Treasurer, Lottie Proctor, Cisco.

The first Thursday in each month is the date set for the Cisco District Council meeting. The second Thursday of the month will be the date of the regular union meeting.

The local council meeting will be held on the second Tuesday of each month. This meeting is to be held in the local church.

Miss Marie Pearce Compliments Friend

Miss Marie Pearce entertained a number of young friends at her home, 709 W. Ninth St., complimenting Miss Eleanor Gleason, who has been visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Waddell in East Cisco the past month, and who leaves soon for her home in Oklahoma City.

Games and contests kept the young people interested until a late hour, when refreshments of cake and punch were served to Misses Sue Witten, Pauline Turner, Evelyn Blizzard, Hollis Akure, J. V. Fischer, Dewey Barker, Bill Hayes and the hostess Marie Pearce.

Mrs. Cox Honors Sister With Party

Honoring her sister, Miss Evelyn Kennemur of San Benito, Mrs. W. A. Cox entertained a number of the younger set at her home, 304 W. 6th street, Friday evening with a lawn party.

Outdoor games were played and a lively interest maintained by the younger people as they enjoyed these recreations.

The games were directed by Misses Laura Fay Wilson and Lela Latch. A side attraction was views of the moon, Mars and Jupiter through a telescope operated by P. D. Kimmimar, father of the honoree, and also Mrs. W. A. Cox.

The hostess served delicious punch and cake to the guests.

Present were Misses Joy Miller, Lottie Proctor, Mary Ruth Proctor, Mary Louise Poe, Velvie Wood, Talma Rice, Mary Rice, Marian Jacobs, Messrs. Edwin Curry, A. C. Donica, Jack Lauderdale, Dennis King, Cullen Harrison, Cecil Edwards, James Johnson, Richard Schaefer, Ralph McCanlie, Glenn Boyd and guest, Lee Brown of Colorado City.

Boating Enjoyed Friday at Lake

A boating party followed by a breakfast was enjoyed Friday morning at Lake Cisco by a number of the young folk, when J. C. Paschall and Jack Lauderdale christened their new "Kayak."

The guest list included, Misses Mary Louise Poe, Marian Jacobs, Mary Louise Sherman, Dick Starr, Ahlene, Jack Lauderdale, J. C. Paschall, Mmes. Leon Maner, J. D. Lauderdale and Crigler Paschall.

Former Residents Leave For Houston

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Shepard, who have been visiting Mr. Shepard's parents Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Shepard, and other relatives in Cisco, and Mr. and Mrs. Hartman McCall, who have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. McCall and Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Nance, will leave Monday morning for their homes in Houston.

MEERSCHAUM PIPES BACK MILWAUKEE — William J. Kuntler, meerschaum pipe maker, is certain prosperity has returned in his little tobacco shop; he is making meerschaums again after seven years during which he sold hardly a one.

B-r-r-r-noose! . . .

The Arabs wear a burnoose as protection from the sun, but American women will wear Elizabeth Hawes' gray squirrel version of the voluminous garment for elegance and protection against the cold. Floor length, like the Arabian original, it has a hood, which is lined with crimson and edged with silver. Worn pendant fashion at the back is a silver cord used to close the neck.

MASSSES IN MEXICO FACE WANT; FOODSTUFF MUST BE IMPORTED; DIVISION OF FARM LAND BLAMED

By WILLIAM H. LANDER
United Press Staff Correspondent
MEXICO, D. F., August 14 (U.P.)—Hard times have set in throughout Mexico.

Millions of people are finding it hard to make ends meet. Agricultural production, under new agrarian policies, has declined in the face of an increase in population.

Today, Mexico — the original source of cocoa and corn (maize) — to import both these commodities from Venezuela and Argentina. Price of wheat is so high that importation may be necessary. In getting foodstuff abroad, however, the consumer finds the exchange ratio working against him. The Mexican peso was devalued in 1932, from 2 to the United States dollar to 3.60. This was done to stimulate exports. The ratio works right for the mining and oil companies, which export, but it is a further hardship on those who have to eat food imported from abroad.

Everybody realizes that the situation is grave. The Department of Agriculture has ordered all teachers throughout the land to lecture on the people's struggle against the high cost of living.

Called "Hunger Crisis" by Vicente Lombardo Toledano, the general leader of the CTM (Confederacion de Trabajadores de Mexico) Confederation of Mexican workers who has been nicknamed the "John L. Lewis of Mexico," describes the situation as a nationwide hunger crisis.

Lombardo has publicly warned the government that unless something is done soon, "nobody can hold back the masses in their demands for food. It is necessary that the government listen, think and put through an efficient program to remedy the problem. Never before has the specter of hunger hovered over the nation as it does today."

The scarcity of charcoal has further complicated the situation. The average Mexican woman cooks her tortillas on little charcoal burners. This year the rainy season has been so intense that a shortage of charcoal has developed. To get this fuel, it is necessary to stay in a queue for hours. Many humble families are eating only two hot meals a day instead of three as a result—and the price they pay for their charcoal is much higher than usual.

Beyond 1929 Level
The official index price of basic commodities on July 9, 1937, was of 123.09 (with the 1929 level as 100). The week ending June 11 it was at 120.36; the preceding week it had been at 118.55. A month before it had been at 115.34, and in March, 1935, it was at 94.6.

The Board of Experts which recently investigated the financial conditions of petroleum companies and their employees said the following about the high cost of living:

"The prices of the articles which go into the food basket of a laborer's family of five members in the oil fields have increased by 88.96 per cent between June, 1937, and the middle of 1934."

Wages Behind Price Rise
Under President Lazaro Cardenas, laborers' wages "have risen steadily, but the cost of living has gone up even faster, nullifying their increases. Various labor unions have announced that unless the prices of commodities drop to the levels existing before Dec. 31, 1935, they will demand 50 per cent wage increases. If these are not given, they say they are ready to strike.

The situation is such that it overwhelms talk of everything else—even of the weather and the Spanish civil war. Not only are the people complaining; some diplomats say that it is now more expensive to live in Mexico City than in Washington, D. C. Tourists are not finding the bargain they expected.

Cardenas Not Attacked

Nobody so far has attacked President Cardenas directly for this situation. Many people do accuse his subordinates. Others lay their blame on adverse weather conditions, while others blandly say that it will take several years for the new agricultural communities to begin operating efficiently. Labor leaders are also careful to avoid antagonizing the army. This is very significant. Two years ago they used to insult the army with impunity. Ever since the Spanish civil war, however, they have catered to the army.

The main persons attacked in connection with the high cost of living are the bankers, the Spanish middlemen (most of them pro-Franco), and government officials.

Big Estates Geared
Impartial economists, however, blame the situation primarily on the decline of agriculture in Mexico. Before the revolution, Mexico was primarily an agricultural country, and being a thinly populated nation, it naturally had big-scale farming. Nowadays, however, the big estates have been cut up and often a family has only one or two little rows of corn as its share of an agrarian community.

Thus it is that with the population having gone up from 16,552,722 in 1930 to an estimated 18,- 600,000, agricultural production has declined to such an extent that it now ranks second to the mining industry. This scarcity naturally produces a rise in prices.

Dog Goes Places And Meets People

CLEVELAND (U.P.)—Hans, 14-month-old German Schauzer, likes to go places and meet people.

Since his pup days, Hans has made it a habit to stroll the streets each morning saying, in his own fashion, "good morning" to everybody he passes. Hans goes to the courthouse and calls on county commissioners, several of the common pleas judges and other officials. Then he drops in at the Great Lakes exposition walks a few more main streets, and then heads for home.

His master is listed as Jerry Wold, restaurateur.

RESTRAINING ORDER ISSUED IN TAX FIGHT

DALLAS, August 14 (U.P.)—Litigation among members of the State Board of Education over Texas $22 per capita school apportionment moved to Dallas today as Judge Claude McCallum of the 101 District Court, issued an order restraining State Comptroller George Sheppard from certifying any apportionment made by the State Board until the Board has reconsidered its action.

The restraining order was granted on motion of Ben Thiesing of Dallas and R. S. Bowers of Caldwell, board member.

Hearing on the injunction has been set for next Saturday in Judge McCallum's court.

FIVE MURDER AND KIDNAP CHARGES FILED

AUSTIN, Aug. (U.P.)—Five charges including murder and kidnaping were filed today against Lawrence Rea, ex-convict here today in connection with the killing of B. N. Payton, wounding of Mrs. Payton and one son, Norman, and the kidnaping of another son, Leon.

Rea has been the object of an extensive hunt since early Thursday when he eluded officers at the suspected hideout of the robbers of the San Antonio Public Service company.

A $500 reward for information leading to Rea's arrest was announced by Acting Governor Walter Woodul.

ATTEMPT MADE TO INFLUENCE HOUSE COMMITTEE

AUSTIN, August 14 (U.P.)—Representative Bowen Bond of Fairfield today charged there had been an attempt to influence a house committee investigation into distribution of rural school aid. Bond is committee chairman.

"We have found," said Bond, "that appropriations made by the legislature for specific purposes have been grossly misused."

the heart of the famous international settlement were bombed and partly wrecked by Chinese planes.

More than 4,000 American civilians and 2,000 U. S. sailors and marines were menaced by the fighting. Japanese asserted that Chinese bombs had exploded near the American cruiser Augusta, flagship of the U. S. Asiatic squadron.

Chinese and Japanese forces were in desperate combat on three other fronts. Northwest of Peiping, south of Peiping and south of Tientsin.

In Tokyo the Imperial Cabinet was in constant session.

WASHINGTON, August 14 (U.P.)—American diplomatic officials, alarmed for the safety of American nationals in war-torn Shanghai, today made repeated and urgent representations to the Chinese and Japanese governments, to refrain from hostilities which endanger lives of foreigners.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull personally deplored the reported injury and death to Americans. He pointed out at the same time, however, that so long as Americans go abroad to live they are bound to be endangered when hostilities break out.

This government, Hull said, can only warn its nationals when danger develops and furnish transportation to evacuate them.

Hull said preparations had been made to evacuate Americans from danger zones "at a moment's notice." Approximately 4,000 Americans are in the Shanghai vicinity.

Decisions as to the necessity of such evacuation, he said, rests with American diplomats at the scene.

Anti-Nazi Flareup in Wisconsin

With "Hitler Shall Not Pass" as their marching cry, anti-Nazi pickets are shown above as they jeered members of the German-American Volksbund meeting in their clubrooms at Kenosha, Wis. Volksbund members barred by the town council from holding their annual picnic held possession of the sidewalk, pickets heckling them from the street. Sam Brown belts, military caps, puttees, dark trousers and white shirts mark the Volksbund members who responded to the call expressed on the sign in German above the hall. Its literal translation is "German groups in America, awake. It is in recognition of your German heritage that you must take part in the gatherings in this hall."

Human Security—

Mr. Ainsworth. "This exception is Federal Old-Age Benefits—the insurance plan for the aged who have arrived at the age of 65 years; who have been making contributions from their wages during a period of years; and who have retired from work."

The two services now being offered through the two Constitutional amendments will complete the Social Security program in Texas if the people ratify the amendments. I believe that the state has profited enough under the partial Federal Social Security program during the two-year period of its operation that the people will want to see the full program in force and effect."

Ainsworth said that there may be those who will argue that the program is expensive. "I would say," he stated, "that the present program of taking care of the needy is expensive, and that the burden is borne largely by the counties and local communities less able to bear it. The advantage of these services under the Security Act is that if they are in effect in one subdivision of the state, they must be in effect in all subdivisions and mandatory upon each, and the state itself must participate financially in the service. This being the case, the burden on any one subdivision is far less, and the plan much easier to operate than the old plan of county administration and county aid."

"The State Committee for Human Security," Ainsworth said, "is a non-profit organization with no ulterior purpose whatever; its sole object being to do whatever good it can to the unfortunate of this state. The blind and the widows and orphans will at last come into their own if these two amendments are adopted. No matter how large or small the community, the most tragic figure in it is the orphan. The community, through an orphanage, can never hope to give the orphan those things which are the right of every child, but it can, through mothers' aid in the home, give to the child the best that human kindness and the human heart have been able to provide."

The State Chairman declared that the State Committee for Human Security has received fine cooperation from the County Committees throughout the state. He urges, however, that there be no cessation of their efforts until the polls close, Monday, August 23.

The broadcast of Frank Bane, executive director of the Social Security Board, Washington, D. C., in Dallas at the opening of Human Security Week, was of great educational value, Mr. Ainsworth said.

CONVENTION OF LEGIONNAIRES IS POSTPONED

AUSTIN, August. (U.P.)—Drury Phillips, department commander of the American Legion announced today postponement of the Legion convention scheduled for August 21 at San Angelo.

He said he was told by Dr. George Cox, state health officer, that it would not be advisable to "crowd some 450 junior legionnaires together" in view of recent infantile paralysis cases.

School Has New Sound Blotters

PHILADELPHIA (U.P.)—Their parents had only ink blotters but Philadelphia school children now have classrooms equipped with "sound blotters."

The walls of the new school buildings here are insulated with sound absorbing material that prevents reflection of sound back and forth across the rooms, according to Irwin C. Catherine, superintendent of public schools.

Overpass Project is Approved; Bids Open

AUSTIN, August 14 (U.P.)—The State Highway Department today called for bids to be opened August 27th on an estimated $1,410,000 work of road and bridge work following approval of the projects by the U. S. Bureau of public roads.

Included was an overpass at the intersection of Highway 1 and the Katy railroad in Cisco.

150 Dead in 142 Texas Accidents

AUSTIN, August 14 (U.P.)—The speed demon again held high cards in traffic deaths last month in Texas. Figures compiled by the department of public safety show 142 fatal accidents resulting in 150 deaths in Texas.

Half of these deaths were non-collision and fixed object wrecks, caused by speeding and reckless driving, losing control of a car and plunging off the road. Nearly 50 per cent of the drivers involved in fatal accidents have no one to blame but themselves, the department officials reported.

Cars crashed into culverts and fences and draped themselves around trees, hurtling occupants through the windshields. In several cases, hours elapsed before the tragedy was discovered.
