Red Regime In Attempt To Appease Hungarians

Kadar Government Will Talk With Non-Communist Leaders

By FRANZ CYRUS
United Press Staff Correspondent

VIENNA —UP— The Hungarian puppet Communist regime hinted it will open preliminary talks with non-Communist political leaders today in an attempt to appease Hungary's still-defiant millions by broadening the cabinet.

Soviet-imposed Premier Janos Kadar frankly admitted the political struggle for the allegiance of Hungarians — who saw the fight for freedom from Moscow's domination crushed by Russian armed might — was an all-important one. In an interview with Communist correspondents in Budapest, Kadar said the armed struggle was still continuing, he said. "It will be the ideological struggle that will be the most important," Kadar said in the interview Wednesday, "and we want to create a situation in which it would be impossible to lead workers any longer with pseudo-revolutionary slogans put forward for counter-revolutionary aims."

Ishibashi Is New Premier Of Japan

By DAY INOSHITA

TOKYO (UP)— Outspoken, 72-year-old economist Tanzan Ishibashi was elected overwhelmingly as Japan's new premier today, succeeding partially-paralyzed Ichiro Hatoyama.

The national legislature elected Ishibashi, the international trade and industry minister, by a margin of 291 to 150.

The retiring premier stepped down with the regret that "my strength was not enough" to achieve world peace and freedom.

Hatoyama resigned with his entire cabinet to permit Ishibashi's election, which was only a formal election. Ishibashi was elected president of the ruling Liberal-Democratic party last Friday, making his selection as premier almost automatic.

Hatoyama served almost exactly two years in office, during which Japan signed World War II reparations agreements with the Philippines and Burma, reached a peace accord with Russia and gained admittance to the United Nations.

Ishibashi has been a sharp critic of U.S. occupation "reforms" but his election as premier was expected to have little effect on Japan's basic policies of siding with U.S. views on most international matters.

Hatoyama, 73, called a morning meeting of his cabinet, collected the resignations of all his ministers and sent them to the speakers of both houses of the diet, the national legislature.

However, the old cabinet will carry on its duties until Ishibashi, the international trade and industry minister, forms his own cabinet.

Art Exhibit Opens In Library

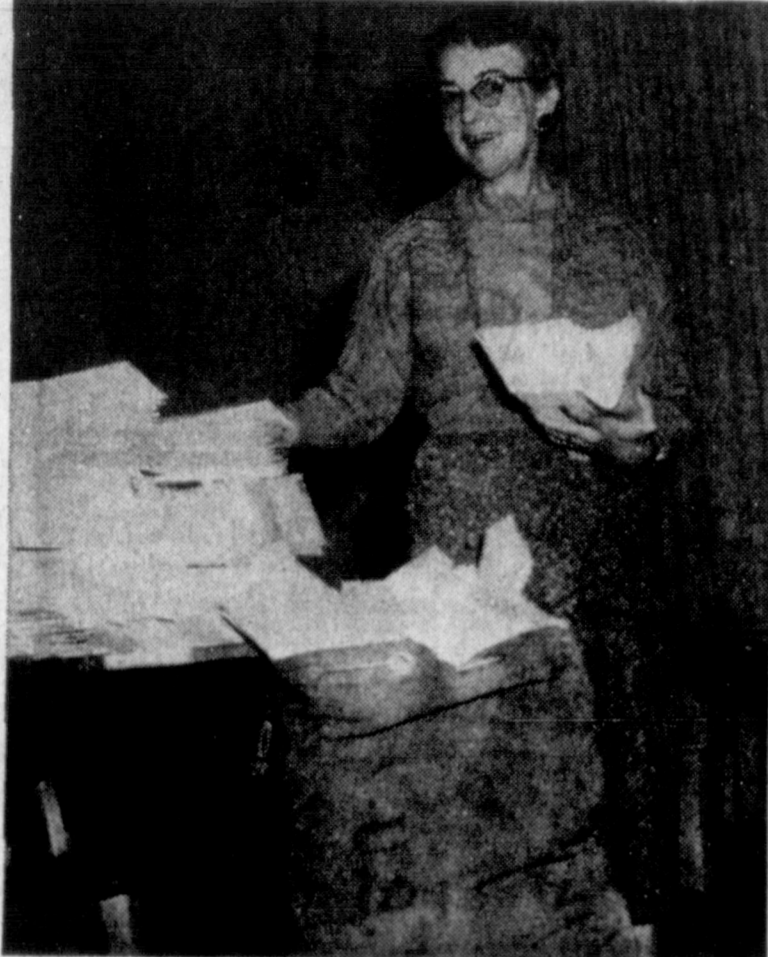

The Pampa Art Club announced today that it is presenting a collection of original N. Currier and Ives prints beginning today for two weeks.

This exhibit was assembled by The Travelers Insurance Companies and arrangements for its display in Pampa were made by Cree Insurance Agency, an agent for The Travelers.

The collection was started 20 years ago and 228 of the prints have been reproduced in calendars and published by the insurance company. These calendars have awakened an interest in those portrayals of "Americans" which present the urban and rural life of the mid-19th century as well as some of its historical events, the announcement states.

The exhibition is one of a series of seven collections of Currier and Ives original prints now touring the country.

Receive Bids For City Improvements

Bids on construction of improvements to the city's water and sewer system authorized under the recent bond issue were opened this morning by the City Commission. From five construction firms and the Brodie-Zink Construction Co. of Amarillo was the apparent low bidder on the two construction projects, according to totals read by Wayland Merriman, City consulting engineer.

The meeting of the commissioners was recessed until 3 o'clock this afternoon to enable the engineers and city officials to check the bids. When the commission reconvened this afternoon the bids were to be awarded.

In other action connected with the improvement of the city's water and sewer departments, the commissioners authorized the city secretary to advertise for bids on the construction of a new pump station. The date set for the opening of the bids is Jan. 15, 1957, at 9:30 a.m.

The bids will stipulate that the remodeling work on the Hobart

Street pump station is to be completed by July 1, 1957, and the construction of the new pump station to be located in the south part of Pampa will be completed by Feb. 1, 1958.

The city secretary was also authorized to advertise for bids for the drilling of six or more test holes in order to determine the availability of additional water reserves. The date set for the opening of the bids is Jan. 8, 1957.

The commissioners approved the signing of an easement by the mayor and city secretary whereby the state would be allowed to drain water from the Hobart Street underpass project through Priest Park.

In other action the commission approved the second reading of Ordinance 465. This ordinance provides for new traffic regulations within the city of Pampa.

A resolution setting up a minimum wage scale for workers on the construction of the water and sewer improvements was also adopted by the commission.

FBI Fails To Link Stolen Oil Maps With Cases Found

HOUSTON (UP)— Twelve map cases were found in the Cadillac car of Emanuel Lester, one of four men charged in New York with transporting stolen oil maps of the Gulf Oil Corp.

But local FBI agents to whom the map cases were given discontinued them as having any link with the theft of $1 million worth of the oil company's exploration maps.

"We can't see any immediate connection," the FBI said. The map cases were found in

Nixon Journeys Near Red Frontier On Refugee Tour

By THOMAS WEYR
United Press Staff Correspondent
VIENNA (UP)— Vice President Richard M. Nixon journeyed today with a massive security escort to a camp for Hungarian refugees only 11 miles from the Communist frontier.

The trip from Vienna to Neustedi, where thousands fled to freedom from the Red terror in Hungary last month, took Nixon and his entourage slightly more than an hour.

Neustedi was Nixon's first stop on a tour of Austrian refugee camps that may lead to a new U.S. open door policy on refugees.

He was shown a map of the border area on which were marked the escape routes used by the refugees from communism. Nixon shook hands with local district officials at Neustedi, who welcomed him to the border town about 5:30 a.m. est.

The vice president carried to Austria a message from President Eisenhower to Chancellor Julius Raab praising Austria for opening its borders to the heavy inflow of refugees.

The message also contained a promise from the President that he will do everything possible to help the refugees.

Informed sources said his inspection visit may affect not only the 14,285 Hungarians who fled to Austria but a forgotten legion of many thousands more who fled Communism even before start of the Hungarian revolt.

Israel Refusal Could Block Negotiations

By DANIEL F. GILMORE

United Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON (UP)— Authoritative quarters in Cairo said today Israel's refusal to give up the Gaza Strip may throw a major block in negotiations for clearing the Suez Canal.

The sources said President Gamal Abdel Nasser would demand Israel evacuate the refugee-crowded coastal strip as well as the entire Sinai Desert before salvage operations begin. Nasser also will insist on the return to Egypt of the two islands seized by the Israelis in the Gulf of Aqaba, the sources said.

Premier David Ben-Gurion's statement to the Knesset (parliament) of Israel's refusal to return the Gaza Strip to Egypt jarred the delicate salvage operation negotiations among the representatives of Egypt, Britain, France and the United Nations, the sources said.

Nasser was said to have been willing to go along with the United Nations and permit the operations to begin immediately after completion of the withdrawal of Anglo-French forces from the Canal Zone.

Now Nasser may be expected to insist Israeli troops pull back to the truce lines set up by the 1948 Palestine armistice agreement before any salvage operations begin.

In Damascus, Syria cabled the France was seriously considering helping Israel construct a 32-inch pipeline from Elhath at the head of the Gulf of Aqaba to Jaffa on the Mediterranean.

In Damascus, Syria cabled the Iraq Petroleum Co., London headquarters inviting it to send a representative to Damascus to discuss repairing three pipelines blown up after Britain and France attacked Egypt.

'No Undelivered' Christmas Mail

WASHINGTON (UP)— The Post Office promises to see that "no Christmas mail remains undelivered in post offices on Christmas Day."

Acting Postmaster General Maurice H. Stans made the pledge Wednesday in telegrams to local Chambers of Commerce across the nation. He asked them to help by reporting on the mail situation in their areas.

UN Disarmament Group In Meeting

By BRUCE W. MUNN

United Press Staff Correspondent

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP)— The U.N. Disarmament Commission called its first meeting in five months today at the request of Soviet Ambassador Arkady A. Sobolev.

Russia is primed to start its drive for approval of the Kremlin's latest arms reduction plan, but Sobolev indicated to newsmen "nothing startling" could be expected from today's session.

The General Assembly was meeting at the same time to debate a proposal by 19 Latin-American countries and Spain to add two non-permanent seats to the 11-member Security Council. The Assembly added Iraq, Colombia and Sweden to the Security Council Wednesday as the latest of the six non-permanent members.

The 20 powers sought to break down Soviet opposition to expansion of the council by proposing a charter guarantee of one non-permanent seat for Eastern Europe.

A Latin-American source said the United States and British delegations supported this and the Soviet Union was expected to go along.

Members on Rotating Basis
The Security Council is now composed of five permanent members and six non-permanent seats, occupied by other countries on a rotating basis.

Under the new proposal, seven non-permanent seats in addition to the one for Eastern Europe would be allocated as follows: Two for Asia-Africa, two for Western and Southern Europe, two for Latin America and one for the British Commonwealth.

Also on today's agenda was an election to fill a vacancy on the International Court of Justice. Shigru Kuriyama of Japan and Wellington Koo of Nationalist China battled to a deadlock Wednesday and the voting was suspended to today.

Low Winter Wheat Crop Expected

WASHINGTON (UP)— The soil bank and persistent drought are expected to knock down production of the 1957 winter wheat crop.

The winter crop estimate is 625 million bushels — a decrease of 110 million bushels, or 15 per cent, from this year's crop. It could cause a slash in the huge all-wheat surplus now overflowing government storage bins.

The Agriculture Department made its first estimate of prospective 1957 winter wheat production Wednesday. The report, based on Dec. 1 conditions, showed winter wheat seedings totaled 36.8 million acres, the smallest acreage since 1913. The acreage is nearly one-third below the 10-year average.

The department said the acreage seeded to winter wheat was influenced considerably by the soil bank act, particularly in the Southern Great Plains.

The Southern Great Plains states of Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Colorado, and New Mexico — the additional dust bowl country — accounted for 8.2 million acres deposited in the soil bank.

Ike, Nehru End Talks In Harmony

By DONALD J. GONZALES

United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)— President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India said today their "full and frank talks" confirmed a "broad area of agreement" about world problems.

In a joint communique issued by the White House as Nehru left for New York at the end of his four-day state visit here, the two leaders predicted that their meeting of minds will speed achievement of "peaceful and friendly relations among all nations of the world."

"The prime minister and the President are convinced that the greater understanding of their respective policies reached at these talks will facilitate the constant efforts of India and the United States towards the achievement of peaceful and friendly intercourse among nations in accordance with the principles of the United Nations," the communique said.

He and Mr. Eisenhower conferred for some 14 hours Monday in the seclusion of the President's farm at Gettysburg, Pa. They talked again at the White House Wednesday and Wednesday night at a formal dinner at the Indian embassy.

Nehru told newsmen who saw him off at Washington National Airport that he is confident his talks with Mr. Eisenhower will lead to "closer bonds of the mind, bonds of understanding and of friendship" between the world's two largest democracies.

The 150-word communique was couched in generalities and did not purport to give details of the Eisenhower-Nehru talks.

It was known, however, that the discussions ranged over East-West relations, Far Eastern policies, including the sticky issue of Red China, the Middle East, disarmament, and other crucial world issues.

"I am happy I came and sad at leaving," Nehru said with a smile.

Nehru, who has long been suspicious of American policies and actions, was in high good spirits as he concluded his Washington visit. An intimate friend of the Indian leader told the United Press: Nehru Pleased

"The Prime Minister is obviously pleased with his visit. He is in good spirits. You know, he is the kind of fellow who shows it when he is unhappy."

In winding up his Washington visit Wednesday, Nehru followed a busy schedule. He held a morning news conference, conferred with the President, then met with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, finally with Harold E. Stassen, presidential disarmament adviser.

No details of his discussion with Dulles and Stassen were disclosed.

Wednesday night the Prime Minister entertained the President and Mrs. Eisenhower at a formal dinner at the Indian Embassy.

Shoppers Scurry For Cover During Running Gun Battle

NEW YORK (UP)— Hundreds of Christmas shoppers in the Bronx scurried for cover Wednesday night during a running gun battle between police and an ex-convict gunman.

The ex-convict and a cab driver were wounded. More than two dozen shots were fired. One bystander was grazed by a bullet.

The shooting spree began when the gunman and two accomplices tried to stick up the taxi driver, David Suro, 49. Suro got quick attention from two radio patrolmen when he rammed their prow car. Suro was shot twice by the gunman.

The gunman fled the cab with two policemen in pursuit. They exchanged shots in a two-block chase in the crowded shopping area of Tremont and Webster Avenues.

Police felled the bandit with five hits. He was identified as Leroy (Frisco) Keith, 42, on parole from an Ohio killing conviction and wanted in Ohio in connection with two other killings.

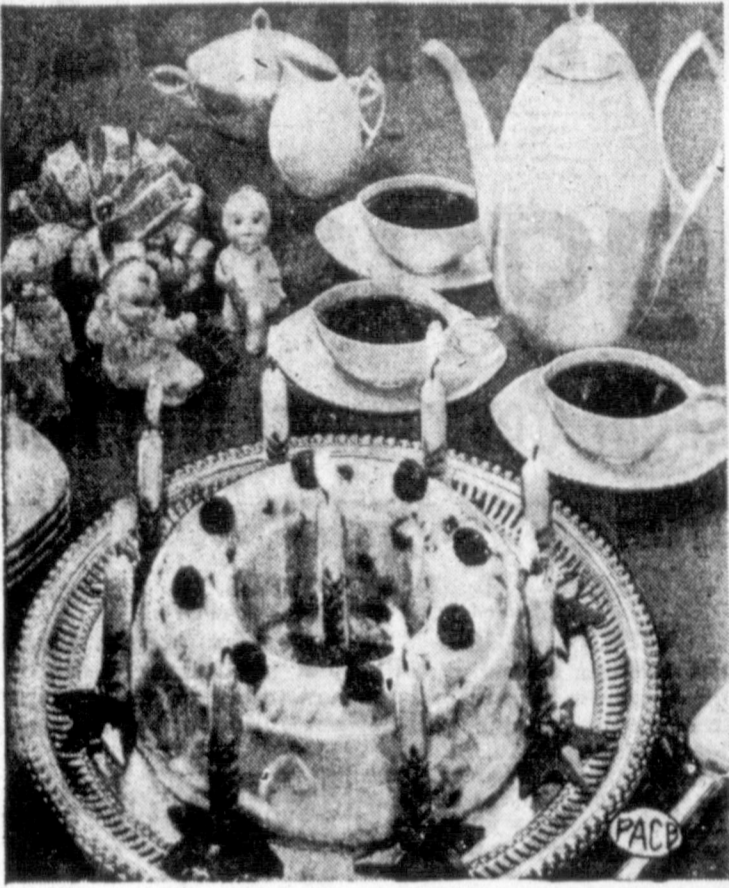

His two accomplices, a man and woman, fled the scene in the opposite direction. Police captured James T. Morris, 22, of Riverhead, N.Y. covering under a parked car. The woman accomplice escaped.

Police said Keith was wanted in Ohio in connection with the killing of two grocery clerks in Uniontown, during a robbery last Nov. 22 and for killing another man in Akron on Nov. 21.

Both Keith and his victim, Suro, were in critical condition from their wounds. Suro was shot twice in the back.

The Best Of Holiday Fare - Christmas Cream and Fragrant Coffee

The holiday season brings forth the best of spirits, the warmest hospitality, and, naturally, the best in food. When it comes to festive fare, the Christmas dessert should be the gayest and best of all. One such dessert is our elegant Christmas Cream, a beautiful white molded ring filled with all sorts of colorful candied fruits.

Christmas Cream, garnished with cherries and surrounded by glowing tapers, is really a centerpiece in itself. But, in addition, the cream should go down in recipe files as a wonderful dessert experience. It combines a number of our favorite Christmas ingredients in a new and delicious gelatine ring which takes a minimum of time and trouble to make.

If you have a busy holiday schedule, but still want to turn out your culinary best, you can easily make this regal Christmas Cream ahead of time. It is a perfect light dessert to go with fragrant coffee after a gala meal. It can also be served at coffee-hour when friends drop in for a holiday visit. Coffee and Christmas Cream, you can be sure, will spell out a truly festive welcome for your guests.

Quick Muffins Big Holiday Brunch Hit

Sundays and holidays are a time to enjoy a brunch that is a brunch! Christmas morning is such a time. Reba Stagg, well known home economist, suggests you have a special but not necessarily a heavy brunch on this day. Here's a menu idea:
 Orange-Grapefruit Cup
 Pork Sausage Links
 Bacon Curls
 Scrambled Eggs
 Quick Orange Muffins
 Coffee

Cook the sausage links slowly in a small amount of water in a covered pan 8 to 10 minutes. Then remove the cover and brown the links thoroughly.

For the delicious muffins, remember to use lard for the delicate and light texture you enjoy in all your baked products.

QUICK ORANGE MUFFINS
 2 cups sifted enriched flour
 1 tablespoon baking powder
 1/2 cup sugar
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 4 to 6 tablespoons lard
 2 tablespoons grated orange rind

1 egg, beaten
 1/2 cup orange juice
 Grease 12 medium-sized muffin cups. Sift together flour, baking powder, sugar and salt. Cut in lard until mixture has a fine even crumb. Add grated orange rind. Combine beaten egg and orange juice and add to dry ingredients, stirring only until flour is moistened. Fill muffin cups 3/4 full. Bake in a moderately hot oven (425 degrees F.), 15 to 20 minutes. Yield: 12 medium-size muffins.

If a toddler wants to swing and climb on things, try to rig him an exercise bar that's good and safe. A removable one in a doorway may work. He develops muscles; this way, also balance and an ability to care for himself.

At least twice a year, take your books from the shelves, dust them thoroughly, wipe the shelves with a damp cloth and give them time to dry. Then replace the books. This will lengthen the life of your books considerably.

Delight Yule Guests With Glamorized Pie

Thinking about a baker's pumpkin pie for dessert for that holiday get-together? Dress it up for the occasion by beating together 1 egg white, 2 tablespoons of brown sugar and a dash of salt until it stands in stiff peaks. Fold a creamed mixture of 1/4 cup orange marmalade, a 3-ounce package of cream cheese and a hint of cinnamon into the meringue. Swirl this over top of pie. For added sparkle fold a tablespoon of orange marmalade into each swirl using your spatula.

If you draw up a general plan now for holiday entertaining, you'll save yourself time and trouble. Fix on dates, extend your invitations now and draw up your menus or party plans. Order ahead whatever you can that will keep for some weeks. And this is the time to get any big household tasks out of the way. They may hamper you later.

New Version Of Old Recipe Is Different

When the old-time English mincemeat pie takes on a New England touch you have something uniquely different in a Christmas dessert. To create this new version of a baker's mincemeat pie, combine 1/4 cup of jellied cranberry sauce, 16 marshmallows and a teaspoon of grated orange rind in a small saucepan. Place over low heat and stir continuously until marshmallows are melted. Cool and fold in a meringue made from one egg white and two tablespoons of sugar. Spread the cranberry-marshmallow meringue over the pie and bake immediately in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until lightly browned - about 15 minutes.

Candy Fruit Balls Are Special Treat

At holiday time one just can't have too much candy on hand. And the more variety, the better. We think this recipe for a candy made from dried fruits and almonds should fill the bill for something special, something different. And it is made in three easy steps:

HOLIDAY CANDY FRUIT BALLS
 1 pound assorted dried fruits (prunes, apricots, citron, pears, etc.)
 1/2 cup almonds
 2 cups sugar

Put fruit and almonds through meat grinder. Place in top of double boiler with sugar. Cook, stirring constantly, until sugar is dissolved (about 15 minutes). Cool. Shape into balls and roll in granulated sugar. Yields 46 balls.

Homemade Sweets Fry Pan 'Scalloped' Potatoes Are Quick Make Personal Gift

This year give a gift you have made yourself - something delicious and gaily wrapped in the most personal way. An assortment of homemade sweets is always appreciated. So stir up your good wishes for happy holidays in this recipe for Spicy Brown Squares, a delicious, chewy-type cookie that keeps well.

SPICY BROWN SQUARES
 1 1/2 cups flour
 1 teaspoon salt
 2 tablespoons cinnamon
 4 eggs
 1 teaspoon vanilla
 1 cup broken pecans
 1 pound Imperial Pure Cane Brown Sugar, salt, cinnamon; mix with Imperial Pure Cane Brown Sugar. Add eggs, vanilla; stir until thoroughly mixed. Add pecans. Spread thinly on well-greased cookie sheet (about 12" x 18" with all 4 sides closed at the corners). Bake at 325 degrees F. 22 to 25 minutes. While still hot, spread lemon glaze thinly over top. Cool and cut in squares.

If you are seeking containers and interesting ways to wrap your sweet gifts, just look about you. Old-fashioned glass or china apothecary jars, small tin trays, mugs, bean pots, little wicker baskets, plastic ice cream containers or plastic refrigerator boxes are just a few of the items that make handsome containers. It's amazing how your imagination, working with bright ribbons, gold stars, colored gummed tape, shiny ornaments and bits of greenery, can produce beautiful, distinctive packages.

Here's a delicious version of scalloped potatoes that fits in nicely with the quick and easy methods that are emphasized so much today. It's called pan-scalloped potatoes and is prepared right on top of the range in a fry pan.

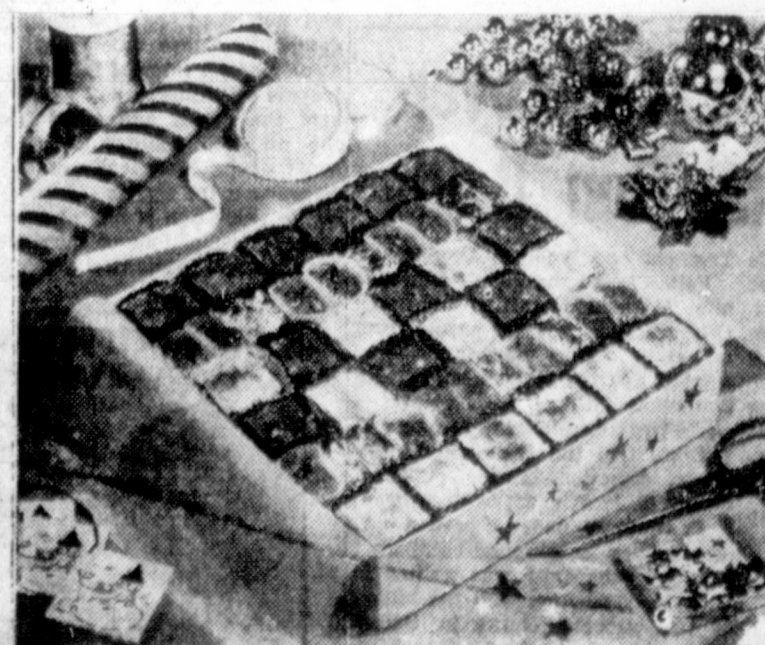

The pared cubed potatoes are cooked gently in melted butter for a short time. Then evaporated milk, boiling water and seasonings are added and everything is simmered for about twenty minutes so that the potatoes are tender and the sauce is thickened.

With the butter and evaporated milk you can imagine what a nice rich sauce this is and, of course, it's wonderfully smooth. When the potatoes are ready to serve, a sprinkling of finely chopped parsley or chives, grated cheese or paprika makes a pretty garnish.

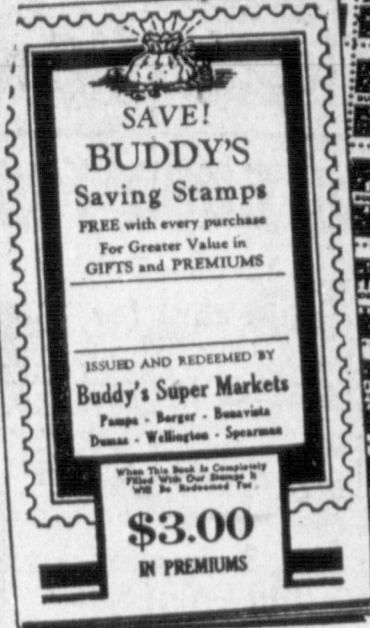

Pan-Scalloped Potatoes
 3 cups cubed raw potatoes
 2 tablespoons butter
 1 cup evaporated milk
 1/2 cup boiling water
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 Few grains pepper
 Finely chopped parsley, chives or grated cheese, if desired.

Pare potatoes and cut in about 1/2-inch cubes. Melt butter in a 10-inch fry pan. Add potatoes. Cook and stir over low heat 3 to 4 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add seasonings. Sprinkle with parsley, chives or grated cheese, if desired. Makes 4 servings.

When you launder a slip cover, hang it over parallel lines to prevent sagging. Put it back on the furniture while it's still slightly damp and smooth into place. This way, you can avoid pressing.

PERSONAL GIFT - Nothing makes a more delightful and personal gift than a box of homemade sweets, attractively boxed and gaily wrapped. With gifts of food, it's a nice idea to send the recipe along. Write it on a card and attach it to the package.

Dynamic Japan About To Reassess Foreign Policy

By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent
Japan, Asia's most dynamic country, is about to start an important reassessment of its foreign policy.

The ancient kingdom whose history goes back 2,600 years was admitted to the United Nations Tuesday.

Probably Thursday, Japan will undergo a radical change in its political leadership.

Tanzan Ishibashi, the incoming premier, will then decide Japanese policy toward the United States, Communist China and the Asian-African bloc of nations.

Seeks Trade Increase
No sensational decisions are expected.

But it is fairly certain Japan will adopt a more independent attitude toward the United States and will move promptly to increase its trade materially with Red China.

When he gets around to it, Ishibashi is expected to ask the United States to set a final date for the withdrawal of the troops it now has stationed in Japan.

Since the end of World War II, Japan has been led by a succession of premiers who have based their policy on close cooperation with the United States.

Ishibashi, however, takes a more critical attitude toward the United States. As soon as he entered politics after the war, and was made finance minister, he started fighting Gen. Douglas MacArthur's occupation policies.

A change in the Japanese prime ministry has been long pending. Outgoing Premier Ichiro Hatoyama is 73 and semi-paralyzed. Members of his dominant liberal-Democratic Party have felt that he could not give Japan the forceful leadership they wanted.

Ishibashi is likely to provide that kind of leadership. At 72, he is only one year younger than Hatoyama. But he is in good health, looks much younger and has decided ideas on a lot of things.

Son Of Buddhist Priest
Round-faced and serious-looking, Ishibashi is the son of a Buddhist priest. He started out as a newspaper man and became a leading publisher, specializing in economics. He took no part in politics before the war.

When he tangled with American occupation authorities, MacArthur purged him from politics. He came back only to clash repeatedly with fellow-members of the Liberal Party. He was thrown out of the party twice. When Hatoyama formed the New Japan Democratic Party, in a revolt against former Premier Shigeru Yoshida, Ishibashi joined him. He re-entered the cabinet under Hatoyama as minister of international trade and industry.

When Hatoyama finally decided to retire, Ishibashi was elected his successor as president of the Liberal-Democratic Party last Friday. That put him in line for the prime ministry.

Seaton Studying Proposal To Develop Indian Lands

By RICHARD C. SIZEMORE, United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton is studying a new proposal for development of oil and other resources on Indian lands.

It would enable the Indians to gamble for more profits for their resources. It also would provide the Indians with a way to initiate oil development on their land without waiting for oil companies to become interested enough to offer competitive bids.

Seaton was asked to study the new proposal as a result of a contract for oil development which he recently rejected.

The contract was between the Delhi-Taylor Oil Corp., Dallas, Texas, and the Navajo Indians for oil exploration on five million acres of land on the Navajo reservation.

Bitter Protest

The Navajos protested bitterly when Seaton, representing the government in its role of protecting its Indian "wards," stepped in to reject the contract. Seaton acted after Oliver LaFarge, president of the Association on American Indian Affairs, and others questioned whether the Indians were getting a fair deal.

Paul Jones, chairman of the Navajo Tribal Council, and Norman M. Littell, general counsel for the tribe, urged Seaton to take a new look at the development program and the possibility of letting the Indians negotiate deals such as the Delhi-Taylor contract.

Seaton agreed to study the proposal, Littell said.

In rejecting the Delhi-Taylor contract Seaton questioned its legality and said it was in effect a lease agreement. The law precludes the leasing of any Indian reservation lands for oil and gas development without advertising for competitive bids.

'Contract Not Lease'

The Navajos contended that the contract was not a lease and was authorized "by the inherent power of the Navajo tribe as owner of its own lands."

Under the rejected contract Delhi-Taylor would have explored for oil on the Navajo land and split the profits 50-50 with the tribe. Under the leasing laws the oil companies bid bonuses for the right to explore on Indian lands. After the Indians receive the bonuses all they get thereafter is one-eighth of the royalties, or 12.5 per cent of the profits, and land rentals.

Lancaster Has Problems As A Movie Producer

By ALINE MOSBY, United Press Hollywood Writer
HOLLYWOOD UP — Burt Lancaster, actor, has another set of problems when he turns his hat around and becomes a producer: Being sued by Oscar-winner Ernest Borgnine, which, Lancaster says, is Borgnine's "mistake."

Lancaster is the only star who also is a successful big-time producer. His company, with partners James Hill and Harold Hecht, has turned out such hits as "Marty" and "Trapeze" and now ranks with the Samuel Goldwyn Studio as a big independent movie-making company.

But the job is not without headaches, such as when Lancaster, who himself fought his bosses years ago for better working conditions, finds himself being sued by an actor making the same beef. Awaiting a court hearing is Borgnine's complicated suit in which he asks changes in the contract he signed with Hecht-Hill-Lancaster before "Marty" made him a star.

"Our position is a very normal one," Lancaster, the producer, said as he sat in his plush office furnished with oriental antiques.

"We've been extremely nice to this boy. I remember how I was treated under my contract with Hal Wallis so when we started this company I said, let's not treat the actors as they usually are treated. Let's be fair."

"Any actor has the right to make demands — until he gets to the point of no return. No, I wasn't surprised when Borgnine sued. You never know what people are like until they're in an emergency or crisis."

"Punny thing," the intense, fast-talking Lancaster added, "I was the one who fought for Borgnine to be given the lead in 'Marty.'"

The Borgnine battle is only one of Lancaster's chores as a producer. He now is starring in his company's "Sweet Smell of Success." Although Hill is credited as producer, Lancaster sits in on casting and script conferences.

Rain Produces Fine Christmas Present

By UNITED PRESS
Heavy general rains that started creeks running for the first time in months slacked off today after producing "the finest Christmas present in years."

Farmers and water-short cities were particularly happy over the two days of soaking rains which fell over all of Texas except in the Panhandle.

Texas Agricultural Commissioner John White called the rains the best Christmas present for the state in years. But he cautioned that they could not be called "drought breaking."

Occasional rain and drizzle continued over much of the state, except in West Texas, early today. But forecasters said it would begin clearing during the day and that the rains appeared over.

Heavy Rains on Watersheds
The rainfall was particularly heavy in watersheds of the north and central parts of the state. Some creeks in the Fort Worth watershed were running for the first time in six months.

Springtown received the heaviest amount in the Fort Worth watershed, with a total of 4.50 inches. Numerous other points got two, three and four inches.

Officials at Bowie in Montague county, which received nearly four inches during two days, said it was the most rainfall in five or six years. They estimated it meant nearly a year's supply of water.

Agricultural agents said the rain in North Texas was specially good for winter grain crops, which had become so dry that many were beginning to turn brown.

Over 4 inches at Fort Worth
Downtown Fort Worth rain gauges showed as much as 4.15 inches for the two days, and wiped out fears that this year might be the driest on record for the city. The Fort Worth rains brought the year's total to 13.51 inches. The driest previous year was in 1921 when 17.91 inches fell. Normal annual rainfall for Fort Worth is 32.82 inches.

In Mineral Wells, where 3.31 inches were recorded in two days, officials reported a four-foot rise in Lake Mineral Wells, the city's chief source of water. Earlier, the city had been talking about plans for taking badly needed water from the Brazos River.

Good rains fell Wednesday in a 30-mile radius of the sheep country around San Angelo, but tapered off by late afternoon. General rains also fell in Erath county with Stephenville getting three inches. Other parts of the county got as much as 3.5 inches.

Runoff also was reported in Dallas water supply lakes. Army District Engineers said, however, that the runoff likely would be slight because the rain fell slowly and the ground was so dry.

Rise on Lake
But a veteran boat pier operator on Lake Dallas said there was a four-inch rise on the lake by late Wednesday.

Skies were cloudy early today with occasional light drizzle and considerable fog over east and most of Central Texas. It was generally fair in West Texas.

Forecasters said the drizzle would be ending and clouds clearing gradually from the west during the day.

Official rain measurements the past 24 hours around the state included Sherman 2.70 inches, Anna 2.10, Boyd 1.76, Galveston 1.58, Rosser 1.32, Decatur 1.49, Newport 1.25, Gainesville 1.17, Denton 1.16, Ennis 1.01, Dallas .99, Mineral Wells .86, Wichita Falls .74, Houston .66, Fort Worth .62, Austin .46, Abilene .41, Lubbock .30, Marfa .13, San Angelo .11, and Brownsville and Del Rio .01.

No important temperature changes were indicated. Low readings over the state early today ranged from 22 at Dalhart in the Panhandle to 64 at Beaumont along the upper Texas coast.

Police Fire On Crowds At Trial

JOHANNESBURG (UP)—South African police opened fire today on crowds demonstrating outside the hall where preliminary hearings were held in a mass treason trial.

First reports said an African and an elderly white person were wounded.

The government rushed riot police into action Wednesday night to control a crowd of 5,000 shouting Africans demonstrating at opening of the trial.

A huge crowd gathered outside the Johannesburg drill hall today for the second day of the hearings in the cases of 151 persons accused of treason and violations of anti-Communist laws.

Runaway Train Slams Diesel
SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UP)—A runaway freight train slammed into a standing diesel engine near the Syracuse station Wednesday night, killing its fireman and tumbling with the engine and four cars down an embankment onto several parked automobiles.

Two other crewmen were injured when they were pinned in the wreckage.

In all, nine cars were derailed. Schedules were not disrupted, however, since the accident happened after the last train had cleared the area. Cause of the mishap was not immediately determined.

GUESS WHO?—That clown in the center is none other than tough guy Jimmy Cagney, made up for his role of Lon Chaney, Jr. in "The Man of a Thousand Faces." Visiting him on the set in Hollywood are actors Jimmy Stewart, left, in costume for "Night Passage" and Orson Welles, complete with plastic nose for his ranch-baron role in "Pay the Devil."

Ike To Light Christmas Tree

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower today lights the national Christmas tree.

The President planned to push a button at 5:24 p.m. EST lighting the 67-foot spruce set up in the ellipse south of the White House.

Before pressing the button, he planned to deliver his annual Christmas message.

The ceremonies — scheduled to be televised and broadcast nationally — open the third annual Christmas pageant of peace in the nation's capital.

Two Collisions Reported Here

Two collisions within the city limits were investigated by the police department yesterday afternoon.

The first of the collisions occurred at 3:40 p.m. at the intersection of Foster and Somerville. Mrs. Alice S. Barton, Pampa, driving a '57 Oldsmobile, was in collision with Frederick B. Collett, 518 N. Somerville, driving a '51 Cadillac. Damages to the Oldsmobile were estimated at $325 and the Cadillac encountered damages estimated at $275.

At 6:30 p.m. at the intersection of Francis and Somerville, Betty Lonphier, 621 S. Russell, driving a '57 Ford, was in collision with Clayton C. Kelley, Borger, driving a '50 Studebaker. The Ford encountered damages estimated at $525 and the Studebaker met with damages estimated at $300.

BATON ROUGE, La., Dec. 15 (UP)—Tom Collins was charged Saturday with clouting his drinking partner, Arthur Matthews, on the head with a half-filled wine jug "because Matthews hit me six months ago."

A DOG'S BEST FRIEND—Spots, left, looks up wearily as he keeps stubborn vigil with his friend Blackie, killed by an automobile on a Washington, D.C., street. Spots remained beside Blackie's body all through the night. He wouldn't respond to his 13-year-old master's pleading to return home and finally had to be pulled, whimpering, away from the death scene.

Don't Forget The Hungarians In US, UP Correspondent Says

EDITOR'S NOTE: Russell Jones of the United Press, who covered the Hungarian revolt until he was expelled, is back in the United States. This is his first dispatch since his return.

By RUSSELL JONES
United Press Staff Correspondent
I flew back to the United States last Friday. My wife and I were on a plane with 50 refugees from Hungary.

One of them was a 9-year-old boy named Georgie Meszaro. He is a lad with a grin, big ears, tousled hair, eyelashes long enough for a girl. But he is like no nine year old I ever met.

Georgie just can't stop talking about the things he saw in a revolution that took place right under his living room window. He was pulled out of his bedroom by freedom fighters who set up a machine gun there.

He saw men killed yards away. He saw bodies lying in the streets. He rode out of Budapest in a truck with a corpse alongside him. He has come here with his father, his mother, his grandmother and his aunt.

People have asked me all sorts of questions since I got here. I'll tell you what some of my answers were. First I'd like to answer one which applies very definitely to Georgie Meszaro.

Adjustment Difficult
Q. Won't many of the Hungarian refugees have a most difficult time making a new life in the United States?

A. Very definitely. The worst thing we could do would be to let these people get lost here and want to go home again. It is one thing to feed them, to give them clothing and fly them to America. It is another to see that they overcome the tremendous barrier of not speaking English, to see that the man of the family gets a decent job to insure that they have social life and feel at home in the community.

Not Hungry After Contest
PRINCETON, N.J. (UP)—Albert Soli, Princeton University freshman from Philadelphia, downed 11 hamburgers in 10 minutes Tuesday to win a contest. "I don't feel hungry anymore," he said.

Hollywood Stars Fill Expensive Stockings

By ALINE MOSSBY
United Press Hollywood Writer
HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Santa's stocking day is just around the corner, and in Hollywood the stars have a way of filling them expensively.

Most of them have everything they need. But Santa Claus thinks there are a few other things the celebrities should get:

Steve Cochran and Tony Curtis — haircuts.
John Wayne — another expression.

Red Skelton — Material.
George Gobel — writers.
Walter Winchell — a sponsor.

Garbo — a comeback, gift-wrapped.
L. Ewing Scott — an appointment with Judge Crater.

Steve Allen — Ed Sullivan, on a flaming skewer.
Ed Sullivan — Steve Allen, ditto.

Diana Dors — A bathing suit.
Marilyn Monroe — a sleeping prince, preferably in a crib.
Sid Caesar — a used-wife lot.

Q. What can Americans do?
A. I have heard that in some places each church is making itself responsible for one refugee family. It will stick with them, for a year or more, if necessary, to see that they really fit in. That's one of the best bits of news I've heard.

Here are some more of the questions asked:
Q. Did the Communists plant agents among the refugees to slip into this country?
A. I doubt it very much. The situation was so chaotic they didn't have a system for that. We may have got some bad apples, but certainly no great number.

Cancel Deportations
Q. What about deportation of Hungarians to Russia?
A. As nearly as I could tell there was one train, maybe two or three, carrying 1,500 people to Uzhorod across the border in Russia. They were held for some time but I believe that virtually all were returned. It appears the Russians started a master plan of deportation and called it off because of the great public outcry.

Q. Did the Russian and Communist Hungarians really try to halt the flow of refugees to the West?
A. Perhaps not at first. Then they began to feel the world effect of these people going out and telling their stories. That's when they clamped down, even began laying mines.

Q. What about reports of Russians sending in Mongolian troops?
A. Very much exaggerated. Perhaps there were 10 per cent Mongolians, something like the proportion of Negroes in our army. I occasionally saw one or two in a squad car.

A Tiny Tot Called Timmy Writes Santa

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP) — A tiny tot called Timmy wrote to Santa and said all he wanted for Christmas was some cheek whiskers and a "geetar" so he could look like Elvis Presley.

The lad added a postscript: "My mommy told me I ought to know better."

That letter wound up like a great many others in the dead letter office, no discredit to Timmy. It happens all the time.

Most of the memos addressed to the man with the white underchin stubble and the fat round belly get the same treatment.

The dead letter office gets letters to Mr. C. in large bundles every day, most of them addressed to the North Pole, where we have hardly any post offices.

Incidentally, the wiggle of the Presley isn't packing the wallop you'd expect among the very young.

One youngster named Tony told Santa that a string on his Presley guitar had run aground. "Can't I," he asked, "trade her in for a mouth harp, or a frog, or something?"

Many of the letters, some in childish hand lettering and others dictated by their elders, are pathetic. Others are on the humorous side.

A little girl named Diana wrote: "Will you please bring mama a bathrobe and some slippers and if you have time you could add me a pair of ridding boots."

A girl named Pearl wants some "soup and some dishes to cook 'em in. And mommy says I need some underwear cause all of my pants have holes."

Santa gets his loot, too. A lot of letters contain cookies, some even money.

One child enclosed a dime for the relief of the refugees from Hungary. "which I have been saving up for." Another put in a dollar for "Santa's helpers, who deserves it." Neither of these two fine kids asked for anything for themselves.

Jacoby On Bridge

South was in a hurry to discard a loser in today's hand, and his haste cost him the contract.

West opened the jack of diamonds, and South won with his singleton ace. He gleefully led a trump to dummy's king and cashed the king of diamonds in order to get rid of the losing spade. He then discarded a club on the queen of diamonds and led a club in order to prepare for a cross-ruff.

East stepped up with the king of clubs and led a second trump. This limited declarer to one club ruff in the dummy, and he wound up losing two more club tricks and a trump.

South's correct line of play is to lead a club at the second trick. This permits the defenders to take a spade and then shift to trumps. Dummy wins with the king of hearts, and declarer discards two losing clubs on dummy's high diamonds.

South is now in position to cross-ruff the rest of the hand, disposing of the rest of his losing clubs in this way. He loses only one club, one spade, and one trump, fulfilling the game contract.

Sam Hair, Coats And Cars HOPEWELL, N.J. (UP) — Two woman drivers were given summons Tuesday for trying to enter the approach to a one-way bridge at the same time. After their collision they stared at each other. Both were red-haired, wearing identical coats and driving red-and-beige two-toned cars.

Professional Martyr

Under the heading of recommended reading are a pair of tiny volumes, one little more than a pamphlet, dealing with Karl Marx.

The famous and infamous German fanatic who founded modern communism is altogether too little known. Here are a pair of items which furnish excellent source material in capsule form with which the aspiring student can learn more with ease about Marx and his amazing career.

Karl was born in Treves, Prussia, in 1818. His ancestors were a long line of distinguished rabbis. However, Karl's father became a Christian and broke the tradition. And Marx senior became a lawyer and decided that young Karl should be a lawyer, too.

Right from the outset, it appears that Marx was a misfit. He was aggressive, quarrelsome and stubborn. He had bursts of ambition in which, in his imagination, he vaulted overnight to some position of acclaim and adulation. But he failed miserably because he never seemed to be able to settle down to any work.

He passed through his early youth with desires, to be, in turn, a lawyer, a poet, a great thinker, a political figure. In each aim, in turn, he was a dismal flop.

He ran through the family fortune and impoverished his both his parents.

He married a lovely girl and impoverished her family. He existed principally on the gifts and largess of his acquaintances and followers. For a time he earned a regular, though small stipend as a writer for several papers and as a correspondent for the New York Tribune. This money constituted, in the main, all the money he ever earned.

It can truly be said that he had no friends. He used people. And people used him. Even his ideological companion, Frederick Engels, was not a friend in any true sense. Engels agreed with Marx's ideas and they collaborated in producing both "Das Capital" and "The Communist Manifesto," the two most important documents of the communist theory.

Professionally, Marx was a martyr. His constant aim was to provoke a quarrel, suffer the consequences and then live on the sympathy evoked. As a sort of mental sadist he expounded a doctrine of hate and destruction which for sheer viciousness and contradictory posturing has never been equaled. Hitler's "Mein Kampf" is pleasant and enjoyable reading compared to "Das Capital" and "The Manifesto." During his life there were few tastes of victory for Marx. He died a failure in every department of his endeavor.

Yet his writings, because they appeal to the mean, the greedy, the cruel, lived after him. And a century after his birth, communism began to gain ascendancy over men's minds in many quarters of the globe.

Socially, spiritually, economically, politically, historically and scientifically Marx's doctrines are the acme of idiocy. Yet they have now split the world in two.

It would pay you to know and understand this man, who even now remains something of an enigma. To cut the Gordian knot of that enigma, read these two booklets, "The Dixyland Propher" by L. Roy Carroll. Copies can be procured from the author at 2004 Elm Street, Billings, Mont. "The Man Who Split the World" by Fred G. Clark and R. S. Rimanoczy. This second volume can be procured from T. K. Ford, The National Research Bureau, Inc., Burlington, Ia. One copy of this second booklet, the smaller of the two, can be obtained free of charge, merely by writing.

THE NATION'S PRESS

POWER SEEKING U.N.

(Christian Economics)

Gunnar Myrdal, socialist, and former member of the Senate and Secretary of Commerce in the socialist government of Sweden, 1945-47 and is an exponent of welfare-statism.

He has spent some time in America and among other things studied the Negro problem for the Carnegie Corporation, 1938-42. With the help of "social experts," whose names appear in the Fourth (1953) Report on un-American Activities in California and the Sixth (1951) Report on Communist front organizations by the Joint Fact Finding Committee of the California Legislature, he wrote an American Dilemma: The Negro Problem and Modern Democracy, (New York, Harper, 1954).

This book refers to the Constitution of the United States as "impractical and unsuited to modern conditions" and declares that its adoption was "nearly a plot against the common people." And yet this is the author of which the Constitution was cited by the Supreme Court as a principal authority for its important constitutional decision in the segregation issue.

"Dr. Myrdal is now Secretary of the United Nations Economic Commission for Europe and he is pushing the welfare-state philosophy on an international scale. He has just written a new book An International Economy, (New York, Harper). He would have UN tax the wealthy nations and use the proceeds, coming mainly from the United States, as that organization saw fit. When we become 'loyal world citizens' the 'banks' would be ready for this 'drain sharing' which he believes is the way to world relief."

His voices are being raised in UN, proposing that this organization be given the right to tax the nations of member nations. A majority of the UN nations would no doubt approve and our protection might lie solely in the veto. This is far too slender a margin for safety. This is one of the many ways in which UN is seeking the power to enforce its will upon the nations of the world. If that power is ever gained, organized Christian religion and the institution of private property will find it increasingly difficult to survive.

...with JAMES C. INGEBRETSEN President, Spiritual Mobilization

Dr. William S. Carlson, president of the State University of New York, reportedly said not long ago that "the very atmosphere of the university tends to corrode the average student's traditional moral and religious beliefs."

To the extent that this is true, the universities, instead of undergirding American culture, are tearing out its very foundation.

Lewis Cass, early American statesman, declared: "... the fate of republican government is indissolubly bound up with the fate of the Christian religion, and a people who reject its holy faith will find themselves the slaves of their own evil passions and of arbitrary power."

And R. S. Storrs, nineteenth century American clergyman, asserted: "Christianity is the basis of republican government, its bond of cohesion, and its life-giving law. More than the Magna Charta itself the Gospels are the roots of English liberty. That Magna Charta and the Petition of Right, with our completing Declaration, was possible only because the Gospels had been before them."

Most of our universities were founded as Christian institutions. That they are now pagan is admitted by Dr. Carlson. How can we much longer exist as a Christian nation under such circumstances? When the foundation is gone, the walls and the floors quickly destroy the house.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

Unearned Riches

Here's the summary of Leonard Read's article on Unearned Riches in the December issue of "The Freeman" magazine under the sub-head of "Ideals of Freedom." Read writes:

"If we as individuals would save our own skins and our own souls, we would use all the moral suasion at our command to see that all men are free—to pursue their ambition to the full extent of their abilities;—to associate with whom they please for any reason they please;—to worship God in their own way;—to choose their own trade;—to go into business for themselves, be their own bosses, and set their own hours of work;—to use their honestly acquired property or savings in their own way;—to offer their services or products for sale on their own terms;—to buy or not to buy any service or produce offered for sale;—to agree or to disagree with any other person;—to study and learn whatever strikes their fancy;—to do as they please in general, as long as they do not infringe the equal right and opportunity of every other person to do as he pleases.

"According to these observations, here is a way of life harmonious with the interests of others. The envy of others for accomplishments or rewards can be made naturally and easily to give way to appreciation and pleasure. Inequality, being but the teammate of variation without which survival is impossible, would therefore be favored rather than disparaged.

"The riches received in a free society unearned? Only in the sense that all producers reap fantastically more than they could earn in isolation. The benefits flowing from one division of labor are available to all of us in willing exchange if freedom prevails. Such are the thoughts of one who believes himself a beneficiary and who believes that all others who are not creatively are his benefactors. I owe my life to them; hence if I would live and prosper, I shall work as diligently for their freedom as for my own."

Modern Republicanism

The voters are entitled to know what Eisenhower means by his coined words, "Modern Republicanism." In his press conference Nov. 14 Eisenhower said:

"Now I think I can tell you in a word what I believe about the modern—or in a few sentences what I think about modern Republicanism. It is a type of political philosophy that recognizes clearly the responsibility of the Federal Government to take the lead in making certain that the productivity of our great economic machine is distributed so that no one will suffer destitution, privation through no fault of his own.

"Now, this covers the wide field of education and health, and so on, but we believe likewise in the free enterprise system. We believe that it is free enterprise that has brought these blessings to America. "Therefore, we are going to try to preserve that free enterprise system and not all of these problems in the hands of localities and the private enterprise of states wherever we can, because it happens that the great difference, as I see it, between myself and people of a philosophy that believes in centralized government is that I believe to have this free enterprise health, you must have, first, integrity in your fiscal operations of the Government; second, you must preserve a sound dollar or all of our plans for Social Security and pensions for the aged fall to the wayside; third, in this distribution of power.

"Now, that, at home, as I see it, represents modern Republicanism."

That certainly is a far cry from the ideologies on which this government was formed as set down in the Declaration of Independence, that all men are endowed by the Creator with certain inalienable rights, among these life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, that governments derive their just power from the consent of the governed. Now, Eisenhower proposes to change this entirely.

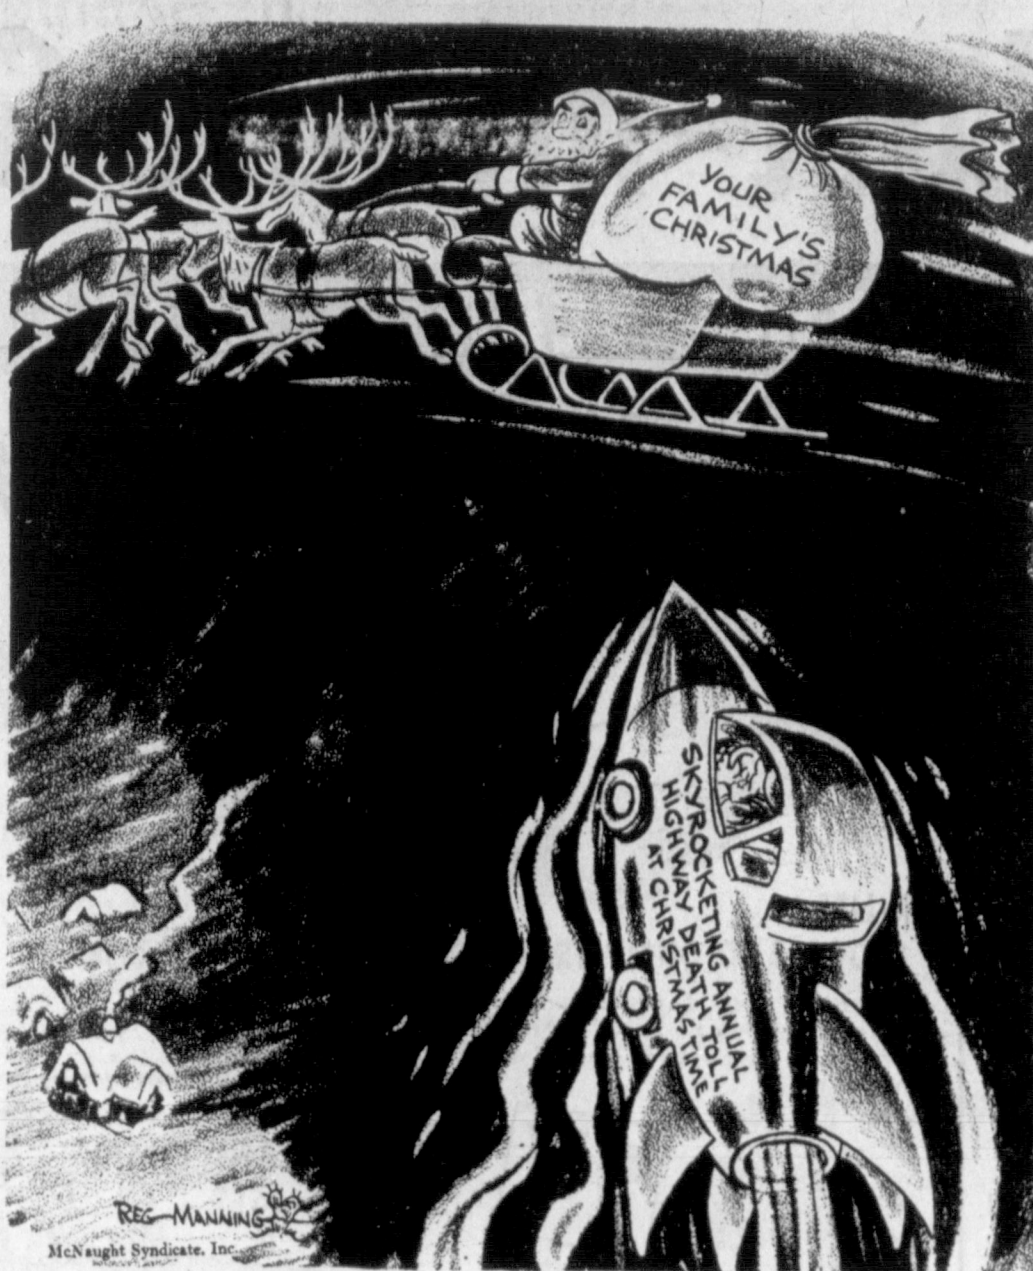

The elected officers under "Modern Republicanism" are to be the judge as to how men can use the fruits of their labor. He is denying the moral principles on which this government was formed, that all men are endowed by the Creator with certain rights.

A man does not have a right to the use of his faculties when the government can take any fraction it wants to from the producer and give it to the non-producer. That is nothing but socialism, sweetened down by false names, like the Welfare State and Modern Republicanism.

Eisenhower More Dangerous Than Truman

Eisenhower is really more dangerous than Truman because people have confidence in him. They think he means well, as undoubtedly he does, but he is going back thousands of years to the divine right of the government, whether it be a king or the representative of the majority. He is going back to the belief that the government has a right to use aggressive force to level things off. He is taking a shortcut to the Communist Manifesto.

Fair Enough

Some Journalists Have Started As Trained Seals

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK — A student of journalism has asked me for advice. He gets his diploma next spring and is willing to work hard covering local assignments almost anywhere for a small salary. This humility may not be helpful. Some successful journalists have started as trained seals in phases of the new journalism which require little literary merit or ingenuity in getting facts. On the other hand, great stars have come up from the bench where the copy boys used to sit.

Rudyard Kipling was one of the best reporters in modern newspaper journalism, a great poet and a better writer than George Shaw, an effeminate phony with a flaming personality. Kipling hated Americans but we should not hate him for that because most Americans hate many other Americans and for good reasons. In his later years, Kipling got 97 rejection slips from George Horace Lorimer, the editor who made the Saturday Evening Post. Lorimer accepted only three Kipling pieces out of 100. These hundred may have been the work of a weary mind for Kipling's quality deteriorated in his old age as we can observe in "The Hun Is At The Gate" and "The Female Of The Species." But whenever he wrote them, they certainly represented an enormous effort because Kipling was not a scribbler.

The rejections show that although the rewards may be high, writing is a speculative line of work because fine stories may be turned down for whimsical reasons, including personal malice. Hemingway's masterpiece, "Fifty Grand," bounced right back from Cosmopolitan when Ray Long was editor. However, Long's judgment was clear. He just did not like "Fifty Grand" and he admitted the worst mistake in judgment that he ever made.

Irvin Cobb was getting $3,000 for his short stories when he left Lorimer to write for Long in the Red Book. Cobb had been sick and had fallen in debt for about $100,000. Idle bums were using his home for a roadhouse and wasting his time and he had accumulated 37 rejections, so when Long offered him $4,000 and promised to buy everything he offered, Cobb snapped him up and began to unload. When Long went to Cosmopolitan he took Cobb with him raising his rate to $5,000. Cobb wrote some turkeys at that price which were still in the inventory of Cosmopolitan after Ray had quit to become a publisher of books and were just written off.

However, that is not a nasty criticism of Cobb because that inventory, amounting to almost $800,000, included pieces by Winston Churchill, which were still dead stock even when Churchill was Prime Minister during the war. He was a real pot-bowler during intervals in his political career. Other stars of 25 years ago were represented when Cosmopolitan turned over a ton of junk to professional peddlers called literary agents who sold a few pieces down the line to lesser magazines for a little salvage. But most of it was useless.

Shaw was money-hungry for all that. He was about Communism and used to equal piercingly about his

MOPSY

IT'S ONLY FAIR, HIS SHOE BROUGHT ME LUCK!

Long was a funny little man, conceited and given to gaudy effects, but a genius nevertheless. Ray went to Russia to learn all about the revolution in the bar of some hotel in Moscow. As a promotion gag Joe Moore, the Hearst executive, gave a big party at the Metropolitan Club and invited a lot of names.

They splashed around in the martini quite a while and when Ray got up to speak he led off with his version of the interview when Moore hired him for Hearst. Moore said, "No, Ray, you have got it wrong. I said to you—"

"Well, you are just nuts," Ray said. "I said to you—"

This went into extra innings and finally Ray forgot what he was supposed to talk about and went to sleep. Then Theodore Dreiser and Sinclair Lewis got into a fight about Communism and the board of governors formally censured Joe and Ray. It was a horrible fight. The bums closed their eyes and scratched and slapped and screamed like two little girls in a schoolyard.

I trust that this will help my young friend up the ladder of success.

Virginia Democrats Eager To Escape Political Fort Sumter

By RAY TUCKER

The South's alarm over Yankee Republicans' recent victories is illustrated most dramatically in Virginia Democrats' preparation to escape a political Fort Sumter. Although the Confederates who that skirmish off Charleston Harbor, it heralded a losing conflict and years of economic and political subjugation by the North.

As in 1861-65, the Old Dominion enjoys vast prestige below the Mason and Dixon Line in many respects. Should the Confederacy's most honored state keep on voting Republican, especially in local and Congressional contests, it would set an extremely unhappy example for Southern voters everywhere.

Alfred E. Smith's 1928 loss of Virginia may be dismissed as one of those things which Americans like to forget. But President Eisenhower's 1952 and 1956 majorities have frightened the Democratic organization; including its distinguished leader, Senator Harry F. Byrd of Winchester.

Quite as significant as Ike's successes is the fact that Ted Dalton, Republican, narrowly missed out on the Governorship in 1953. He rolled up 45 per cent of the total turnout, an amazing figure. Finally, the GOP has two members of the 10-man delegation in the House.

This changing politico-economic pattern in Virginia applies to almost every Southern state except possibly South Carolina (site of Fort Sumter), Georgia, Arkansas and Mississippi.

Industrial growth and diversification have upset ancient economies and broken down old prejudices. Labor unions are making inroads. Negroes are obtaining the vote, and on November 6 they shifted back in large numbers to the Party of "Uncle Abe" and Ike, or vice versa.

The Republican National and Congressional Committees aim to capitalize on this evolutionary development. They have combined in a joint grassroots effort to follow up and make permanent these gains. Recognizing that their basic weakness lies in shoddy and politics-for-money-only local organizations, they are canvassing thieftions, they are canvassing the South for solid, substantial and respectable men to head city, county and state groups, and to run for office. In the past, the GOP has used the South only for trading or shanghaiing delegates to the national convention.

Although Senator Byrd indirectly helped Eisenhower in 1952 and 1956 by refusing to support Adlai E. Stevenson, he wants no permanent Republican occupation of his terrain. He is only waiting and working for the day when his Party will be cleansed of those whom he regards as wild-eyed radicals, reformers and experimenters.

So, the strategist of the lovely Shenandoah Valley has assumed command of his troops openly and effectively, contrary to his usual quiet and unassuming leadership technique. He has given orders, eight months in advance, that there must be no bitter primary battle—in fact, no battle at all—over the nomination for Governor in 1957.

Such is his influence, and so worried are the Democrats, that even anti-Byrd candidates complied. They closed ranks against the Yankees when he publicly endorsed Attorney General J. Lindsay Almond, Jr., as the gubernatorial candidate. With his other selections for state offices, he will confront the Republicans with the strongest Democratic ticket in years.

Similar difficulties face squabbling Democratic factions in many other Southern and border states, especially Florida, Louisiana, Texas, Kentucky and Tennessee. Ike carried all of them last month. They, too, need to close ranks. For Dixie Democrats discover that they cannot tolerate Republican victories on a national level without endangering their local dynasties and personal organizations.

Army Has Made An Excellent Effort For Comfortable War

By HENRY McLEMORE

IN THE FIELD WITH THE SIXTH — No one is ever going to make war comfortable, but one has to give the U. S. Army an A for effort.

An observer has only to do two things to realize that Uncle Sam is deserving of his A for Effort. One of these is to have a look at the troops of other nations, and the other is to go into the field with our own forces.

The American soldier's life is no breeze, not by a long shot, but his is the life of the whole Riley family when compared with that of the fighting man of any other country you care to name.

I am writing this from somewhere near the old German wall of a city of Nordlingen, where I am on a war exercise with the Sixth Army Cavalry Regiment. The Sixth is "attacking" on a wide front and is being stubbornly opposed by troops of the Second Armored and Eleventh Airborne Divisions.

It's mean out here. It's freezing cold, there is a biting wind, and, as always, there is mud, slush and slop. The hours are long, the work is exhausting, and there is apparently no end to it. But it isn't half as miserable as it would be for any but American soldiers, thanks to the time, money, effort and ingenuity that has gone into the task of giving our GIs the best of everything.

No Parisian dressmaker has ever worked as hard to turn out a superbly gowned woman as the Army has to outfit the GI to perfection. His cold weather clothing—and there is almost no end to it—has been tested, retested, and then tested again, for warmth, comfort, lightness and durability.

He has thermal (Mickey Mouse) boots, trousers and trouser linings, woolen mittens and leather shells to cover them, a variety of sweaters and scarves, several types of jackets and overcoats, more undergarments than are in a trousseau, and more hats than Hedda Hopper.

When the men of the Sixth hit the sack at night, they hit it in a sleeping bag that must be the last work in sleeping bags. It has been tested in just about every cold place possible, except the top of Mt. Everest, and not been found wanting.

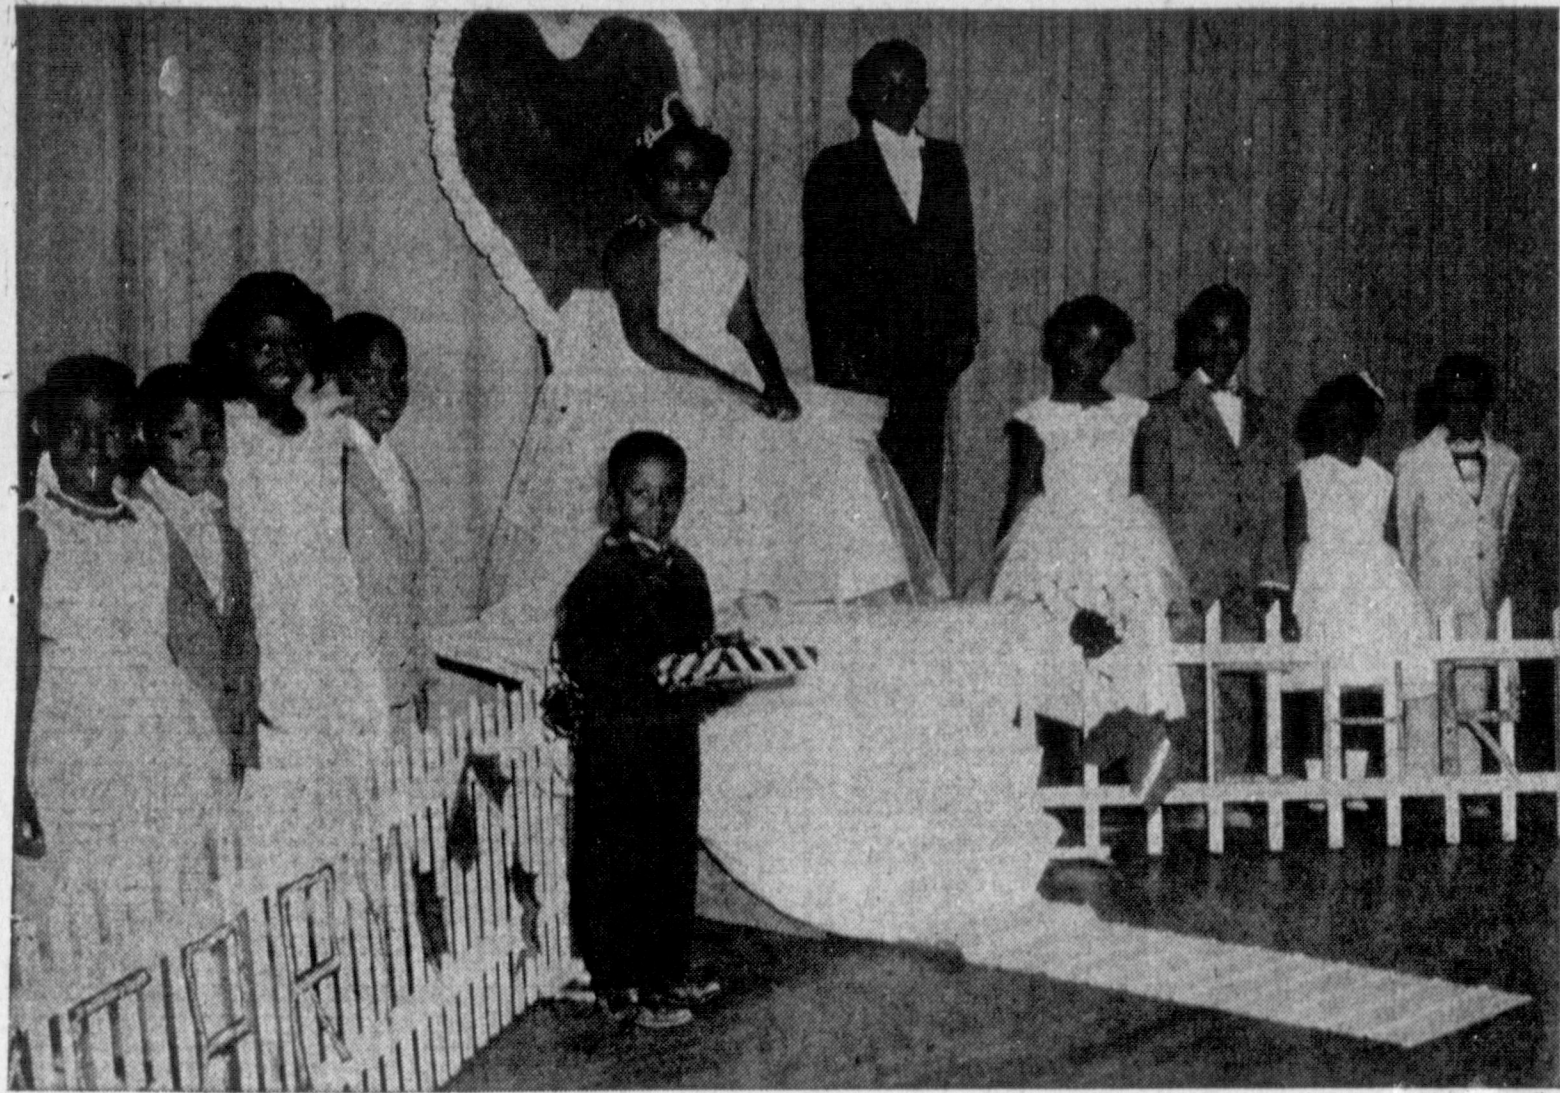

Let me point out again that despite all this effort, the soldier still isn't as comfortable as he would be at home. He still gets cold and numb and miserable, but when one looks at the equipment of the soldiers of other countries, one realizes that the place to be a soldier is with Uncle Sam.

Field rations weren't too bad in World War II when I was eating them, but they are a lot better now. In fact, they are real good eating, but naturally they become a source for griping after a man has eaten them day in and day out for weeks on end. But the GI knows, even when he is griping about his food, that he is pretty lucky to be able to develop a jaded appetite on such items as chicken a la king, meat balls and spaghetti, beans, and frankfurters, roast beef, and fruit cocktail.

Let an observer eat a while with the British, the French, the Turks, the Greeks, or any of our other allies and he'll run, not walk, to the nearest American field kitchen or mess. And let him observe the way the Army frets over the GI's mail, money, recreation, health, and morale, and he'll do just as I have since I started observing the Army in Europe—he'll marvel.

Soldiering never will be a picnic, but the U. S. Army surely does try to kill as many ants as possible.

Women's Activities

Cook's Week

By GAYNOR MADDOX NEA Food and Markets Editor

To Italians, Christmas is the most important day of the year. On Christmas Eve, parents and many children and many, many relatives gather to decorate the tree. Then, in a group, they go off to midnight Mass.

After the long Mass, they all return home to eat panettone (a sweet dough bread with candied citron peel, raisins and almonds) and sip Asti-Spumanti wine. Then they go to bed to gather strength for the massive Christmas feast.

That's what our warm and elegant Padua-born friend, Nino Schiavin tells us. He is executive maitre d'hotel of the Drake Room in New York, one of this country's most exclusive restaurants.

Sartorially distinguished in white tie and tails, Nino, still in love with his native land, dreamily recalled those family Christmas dinners of his boyhood.

First there would be broad trays of antipasto — anchovies in garlic oil, lean prosciutto ham, pimiento, hearts of artichoke, eggplant in oil and tomato, wonderful Mediterranean tuna, olives, fennel, sardines — on and on, he said.

After this lesser course — the antipasto he pointed out is just to "wake up the appetite" — came gnocchi Piedmontese, made with potato flour.

Next there would be roasted capons, geese and duck with many vegetables, such as tender Savoy cabbage cooked in wine. Usually included, he remembers, was Fegato Dolce a Agro (liver in sweet and sour sauce).

A salad, or course — chicory or endive, olive oil and wine vinegar. Dessert — a great tray of cheeses, dried fruits, nuts and clusters of Italian grapes, plus bars of hard candies and little almond sweets.

He said wistfully, "Our Christmas dinners always lasted 3 or 4 hours."

ITALIAN STYLE CHRISTMAS DINNER: Assorted Antipasto, crisp Italian bread, gnocchi, roast capon or duck, risotto, Italian salad (chicory or endive with olive oil and wine vinegar), assorted cheese, dried fruits, fresh grapes, Cafe Espresso (strong Italian coffee).

Christmas center-piece. Students attending were: Leslie Millren, Joyce, Jean and Janie Prock, Larry Cox, Sara Nan Delashaw, Larry Franklin, Jimmy Flynt, Linda and Cindy Key, Russell Maddox, Becky Walsh, Susie Fillman and Jane Webb.

Mothers present, besides the hostesses, were Meses. E. C. Cox, Adams, Joe Franklin, J. E. Flynt, Ralph Delashaw, Fay Dellis Adams, Joe Franklin, J. E. Flynt, Wayne Maddox, R. D. Fillman, J. T. Webb.

Dorcas Class Party With Mrs. Salsman

The Dorcas Class of the Central Baptist Church met in the home of Mrs. James Salsman, 2222 Williston, for its Christmas party.

Business was directed by Mrs. E. B. Davis. Mrs. Helen Lunsford gave the devotional and the opening prayer was led by Mrs. G. C. Stark. Carols and games were under the direction of Mrs. R. F. McCallip.

Gifts were exchanged from a lighted Christmas tree and refreshments of fruit cake and coffee were served.

In addition to those already mentioned, others present were Meses. Dayton White, E. A. Baldwin, Charles Hunter, C. G. Miller, E. C. Burba, Kate Thomas, Dewey Lunsford and a guest, Mrs. N. O. Padgett, Durant, Okla., mother of Mrs. Davis.

AROUND THE WORLD

GRIM "FLYING FISH"—Like a school of flying fish, six British Hawker Hunter jet fighters pierce the solid blanket of clouds below, and zoom straight up at a 90-degree angle during a flight somewhere over England. The sextet comprises the first Hunter acrobatic team of the Royal Air Force.

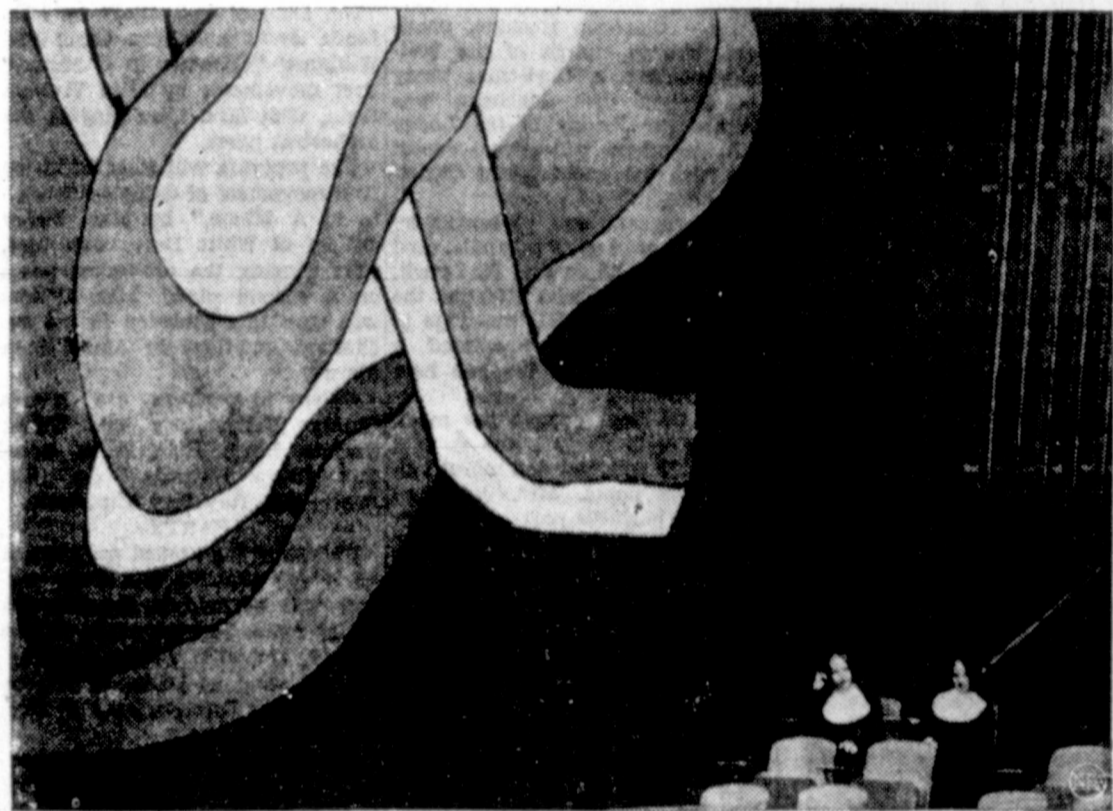

FALLEN ANGEL—An alert photographer caught this whimsical portrait of the end of an era in Detroit. Sleeping peacefully amid the rubble, the sea-going plaster cherub symbolizes the end of the "Steamboat Gothic" school of interior decoration. In happier times, she adorned one of the elegant public rooms of the D & C passenger steamer City of Detroit II, which used to ply Lake Erie and is now under the wreckers' hammers. Today's ship designers work with aluminum, stainless steel, plastics and new fabrics.

POLAR SANTA—Marjorie Upham, of Scandinavian Airlines, makes a very charming "Santa" as she helps Air Express International kick off the first air freight flight from the U.S. to Europe via the North Pole. Shipment went to Los Angeles, where it was transhipped to SAS plane headed for Copenhagen, Denmark.

NUN BUT THE LONELY ART—Two nuns create a tranquil contrast to the nightmarish abstract design on the wall of the United Nations General Assembly room in New York City. The nuns had chosen a secluded corner in a far balcony as they watched and listened to the proceedings.

SHE HANDS HIM A LAUGH—Ever wonder how to make an elephant laugh? Joan Kruse, of Liverpool, England, seems to have the secret. She's tickling the tongue of "Hakkinna," a baby elephant of the Bertram Mills Circus. Hakky is laughing it up with her during rehearsals in Ascot.

UNLIKELIEST SANTA OF THE YEAR—There's something yuletidely wrong with the picture at left above. Kindly old Kris Kringle seems to be delivering a strange collection of gifts—human skulls, witchcraft and voodoo masks, pistols, bolos, machetes and other assorted knives. Of course there is nothing really wrong. Everything is as it should be—when you know that "Santa" is really famed "horror" actor Boris Karloff, who unmasks at right.

LITTLE CHURCH AROUND THE POLE—This tiny quonset hut chapel at Hut Point, McMurdo Sound, Antarctica, will be crowded at Christmas. Erected for personnel of the Navy's "Operation Deep Freeze" around the South Pole, it has had religious services every Sunday.

HONOR AIR FORCE—This design, by Joseph Henninger, of Los Angeles, was a regional winner in a contest sponsored by the U.S. Air Force for a postage stamp to commemorate its 50th anniversary. This, with other winners, will be entered in a national contest to choose a design that the Post Office will issue in 1957.

RED HOT—A technician prepares to let go a hot blast from the new E 30 R-1 "one-shot" flame thrower at the Army technical center, Edgewood, Md. The unit weighs 26½ pounds, loaded, contrasted to the 72 pounds of the conventional flame thrower. It can be "jumped" as part of a paratrooper's equipment.

TRAFFIC SAFETY DANCE—Some decked out in paint and traditional costumes, Apache Devil Dancers from the San Carlos Reservation do a ceremonial dance to ward off evil spirits on a new stretch of U.S. Highway 70 in Globe, Ariz., hoping to reduce traffic accidents. The new road, opened recently, eliminates 11 miles of hazardous driving.

FAMILY AFFAIR—The sea-going Perez family of Bridgeport, Conn., had a happy reunion in Naples, Italy, recently. Chief Electronics Technician Manuel Perez, right, and his younger son, Charles, left, rode into port aboard the USS Boston, world's first guided missile ship. There they met the chief's older son, Radioman 2/c Manuel, Jr., stationed in Naples.

DIRTY WORK AFOOT—Mothers and teachers normally frown on kids who play in mud, but these Liberian schoolboys have full approval for their dirty work. In rhythm to a song they're singing, the boys are tromping out mud to make mud blocks for the construction of a new village school at Dingama.

OH SHOE, SHOE!—Actress Marie Windsor isn't just horsing around for a publicity picture—she really knows how to shoe a horse. And she can tune up a car like a garage mechanic. She picked up the skills when she lived on her parents' ranch at Marysville, Utah.

"WHO'S AFRAID OF THE BIG, BAD . . . ?"—The Big, Bad Wolf doesn't frighten this little Italian girl, who probably wonders how Little Red Riding Hood could have been fooled by such a pony. Wolf was part of an exhibit in a Roman shop window, advertising a children's book that contains the story of "Capucetto Rosso"—"Little Red Riding Hood" to you.

Dear Santa:
I have tried as hard as I know how to be good because I know you like children that are obedient and kind.

I know that you and your workers up at the North Pole are very busy trying to make all the things that the children are asking for. I sure hope you will find the time to make the things I want most to find under my tree on Christmas morning. Here's my list, Santa—stove, tiny tears (with play pen, high chair) two telephones to talk to my brother with, ironing board.

SAN ANTONIO (UP) — Johnny Davila, a notorious 33-year-old criminal, pleaded guilty Monday to a murder, an attempted hijacking and an armed robbery and received two life sentences and a 10-year sentence, all to run concurrently.

UNITED NATIONS—French delegate Valery D'Estaing on Monday demanded that the U.N. General Assembly condemn Egypt for alleged deportations and maltreatment of French and British nationals.

Car Improves After Wreck

DETROIT (UP)—Walter H. Hobbs was fined $10 Tuesday for ramming Charles Shepherd's car in the rear despite a plea from Shepherd in his defense. Shepherd said his car had been running better than it ever did since Hobbs rammed it.

Santa Gets Free Shine

SHERMAN OAKS, Calif. (UP)—A seven-foot Santa Claus which disappeared from a front lawn here last weekend mysteriously returned Tuesday. The only change in the dummy Santa was a high polish on his boots.

BOULDER, Colo. (UP) —

Colorado University, if its luck holds, will meet Clemson in the Orange Bowl in full physical strength. The Buffs worked out for 90 minutes Monday after a week-end layoff. Only guard Dave Jones among coach Del Ward's 53 players was unable to run at full speed. But Jones' knee injury is expected to be completely healed within a few days.

Ward began plotting defenses after receiving a scouting report on the Clemson-Furman game. Colorado flies to Miami on Sunday.

Contest Winner Won't Pose For Screen Test

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON UP — I've met a lot of beauty contest winners — from "Miss Honey Bee" to "Miss Blow, Wind Blow" out in the desert, but never did I meet one who would turn down a screen test. Until the other day.
And there I was knocking on the gate of Suite W-824 in the Statler hotel; and there was Phyllis McMeen, a 19-year-old blonde who had suddenly become "Miss Strike It Lovely."
She said she'd like to become a press agent, and was practicing what she preached by trying to promote a thing called "Written on the Wind," starring a friend of mine, Rock Hudson.
"I think that meeting people on this tour will give me what I need," she allowed. "Experience."
Doesn't Need Much
Phyllis doesn't need much but experience. She is the perfect young lady with green eyes, 35 bust, 23 around the center, and 35-hips. And five-foot, six.
"Girl," I said, "you're out of your pretty head. Why do you want to pitch gold and glory out of the window?"
The pretty kid said simply: "I love people."

PICTURE NEWS

GRIM "FLYING FISH"—Like a school of flying fish, six British Hawker Hunter jet fighters pierce the solid blanket of clouds below and zoom straight up at a 90-degree angle during a flight somewhere over England. The sextet comprises the first Hunter acrobatic team of the Royal Air Force.

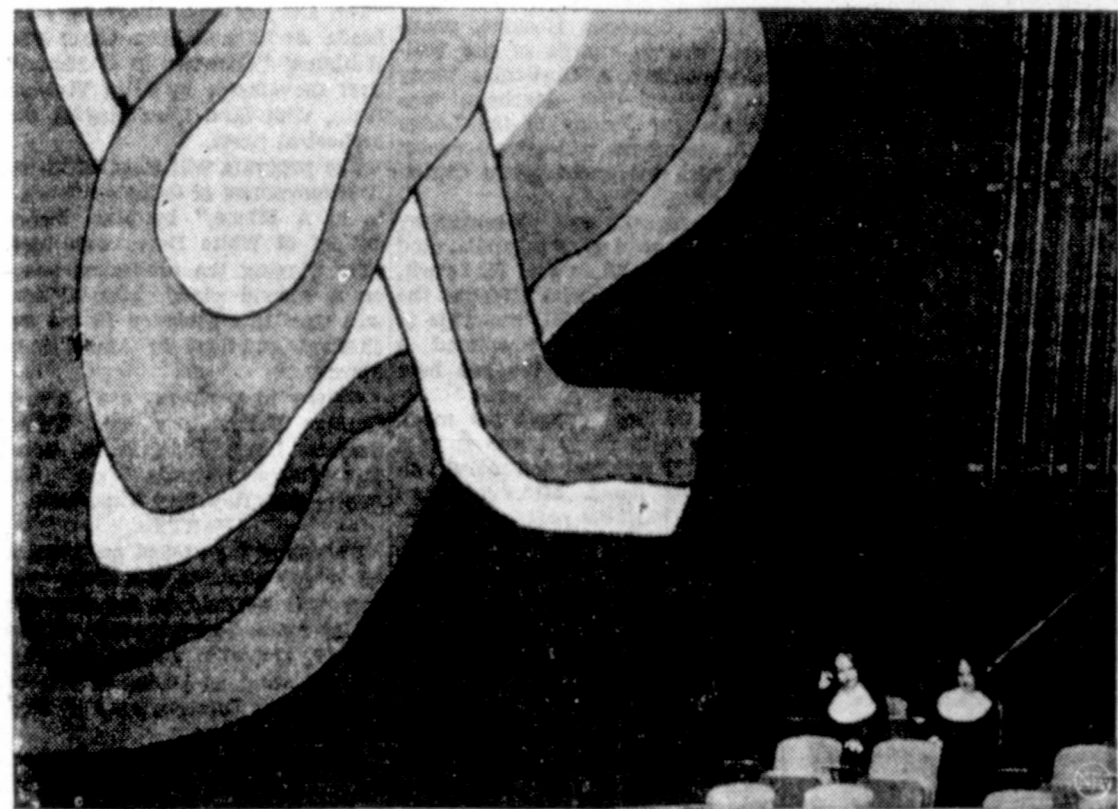

FALLEN ANGEL—An alert photographer caught this whimsical portrait of the end of an era in Detroit. Sleeping peacefully amid the rubble, the sea-going plaster cherub symbolizes the end of the "Steamboat Gothic" school of interior decoration. In happier times, she adorned one of the elegant public rooms of the D & C passenger steamer City of Detroit II, which used to ply Lake Erie and is now under the wreckers' hammers. Today's ship designers work with aluminum, stainless steel, plastics and new fabrics.

POLAR SANTA—Marjorie Upham, of Scandinavian Airlines, makes a very charming "Santa" as she helps Air Express International kick off the first air freight flight from the U.S. to Europe via the North Pole. Shipment went to Los Angeles, where it was transhipped to SAS plane headed for Copenhagen, Denmark.

NUN BUT THE LONELY ART—Two nuns create a tranquil contrast to the nightmarish abstract design on the wall of the United Nations General Assembly room in New York City. The nuns had chosen a secluded corner in a far balcony as they watched and listened to the proceedings.

SHE HANDS HIM A LAUGH—Ever wonder how to make an elephant laugh? Joan Kruse, of Liverpool, England, seems to have the secret. She's tickling the tongue of "Hakkina," a baby elephant of the Bertram Mills Circus. Hakkie is laughing it up with her during rehearsals in Ascot.

UNLIKELIEST SANTA OF THE YEAR—There's something yuletidely wrong with the picture at left above. Kindly old Kris Kringle seems to be delivering a strange collection of gifts—human skulls, witchcraft and voodoo masks, pistols, bolos, machetes and other assorted knives. Of course there is nothing really wrong. Everything is as it should be—when you know that "Santa" is really famed "horror" actor Boris Karloff, who unmasks at right.

LITTLE CHURCH AROUND THE POLE—This tiny quonset hut chapel at Hut Point, McMurdo Sound, Antarctica, will be crowded at Christmas. Erected for personnel of the Navy's "Operation Deep Freeze" around the South Pole, it has had religious services every Sunday.

HONOR AIR FORCE—This design, by Joseph Henninger, of Los Angeles, was a regional winner in a contest sponsored by the U.S. Air Force for a postage stamp to commemorate its 50th anniversary. This, with other winners, will be entered in a national contest to choose a design that the Post Office will issue in 1957.

RED HOT—A technician prepares to let go a hot blast from the new E 30 R-1 "one-shot" flame thrower at the Army technical center, Edgewood, Md. The unit weighs 26 1/4 pounds, loaded, contrasted to the 72 pounds of the conventional flame thrower. It can be "jumped" as part of a paratrooper's equipment.

TRAFFIC SAFETY DANCE—Some decked out in paint and traditional costumes, Apache Devil Dancers from the San Carlos Reservation do a ceremonial dance to ward off evil spirits on a new stretch of U.S. Highway 70 in Globe, Ariz., hoping to reduce traffic accidents. The new road, opened recently, eliminates 11 miles of hazardous driving.

FAMILY AFFAIR—The sea-going Perez family of Bridgeport, Conn., had a happy reunion in Naples, Italy, recently. Chief Electronics Technician Manuel Perez, right, and his younger son, Charles, left, rode into port aboard the USS Boston, world's first guided missile ship. There they met the chief's older son, Radioman 2/c Manuel, Jr., stationed in Naples.

DIRTY WORK AFOOT—Mothers and teachers normally frown on kids who play in mud, but these Liberian schoolboys have full approval for their dirty work. In rhythm to a song they're singing, the boys are tramping out mud to make mud blocks for the construction of a new village school at Dingama.

OH, SHOE, SHOE!—Actress Marie Windsor isn't just horsing around for a publicity picture—she really knows how to shoe a horse. And she can tune up a car like a garage mechanic. She picked up the skills when she lived on her parents' ranch at Marysville, Utah.

"WHO'S AFRAID OF THE BIG, BAD...?"—The Big, Bad Wolf doesn't frighten this little Italian girl, who probably wonders how Little Red Riding Hood could have been fooled by such a phony. Wolf was part of an exhibit in a Roman shop window, advertising a children's book that contains the story of "Capucetto Rosso"—"Little Red Riding Hood" to you.

Dear Santa:
 I have tried as hard as I know how to be good because I know you like children that are obedient and kind.

I know that you and your workers up at the North Pole are very busy trying to make all the things that the children are asking for. I sure hope you will find the time to make the things I want most to find under my tree on Christmas morning. Here's my list: Santa—stove, tiny tears (with play pen, high chair) two telephones to talk to my brother with, ironing board.

relations or otherwise. And if she can't find a husband, which shouldn't be too difficult, she would maybe take that screen test.

"And if I happen to wind up as a public relations person and marry, I would not be happy as a wife if I worked. Unless I should by chance marry another press agent."

SAN ANTONIO (UP) — Johnny Davila, a notorious 33-year-old criminal, pleaded guilty Monday to a murder, an attempted hijacking and an armed robbery and received two life sentences concurrently.

Contest Winner Won't Pose For Screen Test

 "Girl," I said, "you're out of your pretty head. Why do you want to pitch gold and glory out of the window?"
 The pretty kid said simply:
 "I love people."

Well, to get down to cases, Phyllis is on a dry run, you might say, honking a horn for this new picture. But she is not learning much about picture-making. Dressed in skin-tight costume all she is doing is getting her own ample form filmed. When the picture men and the reporters run away, they show the pictures and write little pieces for the paper. About the girl, not the picture.

The kid will have to hid in business clothes, wipe the rouge and lipstick off, and get down to the business of promoting things like pictures, if she becomes a press agent.

Phyllis is on leave from the University of California at Los Angeles. She is majoring in education and would like someday to come up with a teacher's license.

"That," she told me over lunch, "can keep a girl going — you can't tell when you may have to fall back on it."

But first she would like to finish school. And she would like then to have a filing at a career, public

THE UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS latched onto a proven football great as its new football coach but he isn't a proven instructor. I believe he will be good if he stays around the Austin school long enough. He's Darrell Royal, All-American quarterback for Oklahoma in 1949.

The move by the university regents was really a surprise to most people, even to the University of Washington coaches. Royal asked permission from Washington school officials to go to Austin and talk over the situation. His coaching staff believed that he was only going home to Hollis, Okla., for the holidays. The announcement was made at Washington shortly after he left.

Another surprise move was the naming of Royal as head coach and Ed Olle, former business manager, as athletic director to replace Dana Bible. The school had said earlier that it wanted one man to take over both jobs. Wilbur Evans, Texas sports publicity director, was being discussed as a possible athletic director should officials decide to choose two.

Royal was one of the finest quarterbacks in Oklahoma history. He graduated in 1950 and in the past six years has held coaching jobs at Tulsa, Mississippi State, North Carolina State, a Canadian province and Washington, just barely a year at each job. He had a $17,000 a year job at Washington. Maybe he's finally quit his roving and will settle down to make Texas a good coach.

One of the first orders he was handed was to beat Oklahoma. Royal was given a five-year contract and told to produce some winning teams in that time. Perhaps he will. I was personally pulling for Johnny Vaught.

In other football news, Woody Woodard is still talking with Wichita officials about the job there and Bill Meek of the University of Houston is being interviewed by SMU. Midwestern University at Wichita Falls has dropped football and Dick Todd, former Crowell High School and Texas A&M stand-out, is without a football job. He's likely to get one of the jobs if he wants it. Midwestern had to talk several years ago to lure him away from his ranching business in Crockett and Washington, just barely a year at each job. He had a $17,000

Pampa In Vernon Holiday Tournament This Week End

The Pampa Harvesters go on the road for their 10th and 11th victories of the season when they enter the Vernon Holiday Double-Headers Friday and Saturday.

Vernon's Lions, the Altus, Okla., Bulldogs and Plainview's Bulldogs will compete with the Harvesters in the two-day event in conjunction with the eight-year Vernon Invitational basketball tournament.

Entered in the tournament, which will be played during daytime, are Oklaunion, Chillicothe, Cooper, Henrietta, Northside, Harold, Midway and the Vernon B team.

Pampa takes on Vernon Friday night at 8:30 in the nightcap and the Harvesters test Altus Saturday night at 7:15 p.m. Altus meets Plainview at 7:15 p.m. in the first game Friday and Plainview and Vernon battle at 8:30 Saturday night.

Pampa already holds two victories over the host Lions, winning 85-44 at Vernon early in the season and beating them 73-62 last Tuesday night.

Two District 3-AAAA schools are in the doubleheader attraction. Vernon is in Class AAA and the Altus team is in the Southern Six conference. The Harvesters are favored to go through the event unbeaten.

Two more games have been lined up for the Harvesters during the Christmas holidays. It was announced, Wichita Falls' Coyotes, who had earlier been expected here for the annual Top o' Texas tournament, will make their appearance anyway. The Coyotes and Harvesters will play in Harvester Fieldhouse on Dec. 28-29, Friday and Saturday nights.

The Top o' Texas meet was cancelled earlier in the season.

The Shockers, who have won 10 in a row without a loss, will not make the Vernon trip but they will probably see action during the holidays. They may play against the Wichita Falls B team here next week. After that they are entered in the Shamrock tournament on Dec. 31 and the Perry-ton tourney on Jan. 3-4-5.

Fifteen fights have been arranged for an outstanding card scheduled by the Pampa Optimist Club at the Gray County community building Friday night.

Pampa boxers will host teams from Borger and Amarillo in what should be one of the featured pre-Golden Gloves matches of the season at the local gym.

Borger's team, coached by Lee Palmer and T. J. Watt, will bring several fighters as will the D&D Boxing Club of Amarillo which is coached by Willie Roach and Houston DeFord. Pampa will have up to 20 boys ready to fight in all weight divisions from peewees to heavyweights.

The matches will begin at 7:30 p.m. Admission is $1.00 for adults and 50 cents for students. Proceeds go to help pay for training equipment. Plenty of seating is available at the community building.

The Friday card is one of several being held this year in preparation for the Golden Gloves tournaments. Pampa's district meet starts Jan. 17 and runs for three days. Borger's district meet dates have not been set as yet. The regional tournament in Amarillo will be held on Jan. 22-23-25-26 in Fair Park Coliseum.

Among the local fighters who will probably be available for matches are Larry and Kenny Powell, James Tucker, Bill Martin, Donnie Ship, Dickie Wills, Dickie James, Lucky Dunham, Gary Wills, Gary Wilhelm, Charles Snider, Doug Simmons, Dory Hutchins, Delbert Simmons, Gary Heiskell, Norman Rexroat, and many others.

Several fighters who once were outstanding for Pampa and Borger and who have planned to return for bouts will be on hand to spark the lineup of matches. Borger will probably furnish Scooter Darden, Wayne Tedder, Jerry Argovitz among others while Tommy Lambert, Kenneth Wood and Jimmy Bennett will probably fight for Pampa. Sammy Gafney, boxer and a real crowd-pleaser, will represent D&D club of Amarillo. Bennett fought here several years ago and always drew good crowds because of his exciting style of fighting. He called himself "The Bandit."

Golden Boy Aragon In Texas Fight Bribe Case

SANTONIO (UP)—A San Antonio police lieutenant said today that a lie detector test given two California welterweight boxers over a bribe accusation showed "important variations in the results."

However, Lt. Ike Garza declined to reveal the exact results of the tests given Dick Goldstein and Art Aragon. He said the findings had been turned over to District Attorney Hubert W. Green Jr., for whatever action he may want to take.

Garza said both fighters were released to return to the West Coast.

Goldstein accused Aragon Wednesday of offering him $500 to fake a knockout in the fourth round of their 10-round feature bout scheduled in San Antonio Tuesday night. He said Aragon threatened to kill him if he didn't do it.

Both boxers, from Los Angeles, appeared before a State Boxing Commission hearing late Wednesday and both agreed to take lie detector tests. Results of the hearing were not expected to be released for about a week.

The Goldstein-Aragon fight, scheduled as a 10-round feature at Municipal Auditorium Tuesday night, never came off. Aragon pleaded a sore throat and Danny Cardenas of San Antonio was thrown in as a substitute. Goldstein outpointed him in eight rounds.

Goldstein told a hearing before Alton Erickson, state supervisor for the boxing commission, and Commissioner M. B. Morgan that he agreed to take a dive because Aragon told him that was the only way he could get a fight.

He said "in actuality" he never planned to "throw" the fight. He said he met in Los Angeles with Aragon on Dec. 7 and Aragon promised him $200 before the fight to take a knockout in the fourth round and an additional $300 after the fight. He said Aragon told him that if he didn't go through with it, his life "wouldn't be worth two cents."

Aragon testified that he loaned Goldstein money on numerous occasions and said "we were close friends until Tuesday." He accused Goldstein of being "publicly conscious."

Earlier, Aragon, rated as the No. 3 contender by Ring Magazine, said "I wouldn't honor this idiot's statement by denying anything he says." As to the threat, he said: "I could probably kill him in the ring, but that's all."

The boxing commission probably will take at least a week before it issues a formal statement on the incident. The Bexar county grand jury, which questioned both men Wednesday, presumably will await a report from the commission before it takes any action.

Aragon said that he had supposed Goldstein, a Polish refugee, to be his friend and that he had loaned him $175 to make the trip to San Antonio. He said Mrs. Aragon wrote Goldstein a check before they left Los Angeles.

All told, Aragon said, Goldstein owned him about $500. Aragon had been guaranteed $3,000 for the fight and Goldstein $800.

Chet Forte Convinces Cage Experts There's Still Room For Little Guys back to private business once more.

JACK CURTICE, a former coach in the Lone Star State and now head mentor at Utah, is helping coach one of the teams in the annual East-West Shrine game in San Francisco. Oscar Fraley of the United Press says that Curtice keeps other coaches like Terry Brennan, Buck Shaw, Rip Engle and Blanton Collier in stitches with his joking.

Curtice told the coaches that he was from Kentucky and had been born in a log cabin which was slightly on the shabby side. "We were too poor to paint and too proud to whitewash," quipped Curtice. He also tells the story of the fastest starting back in Texas. The back was always drawing penalties for being in motion so Curtice complained to the official in one game and told him to keep his eye on the boy. "He starts so fast you just think he's in motion," said Curtice.

On the next play, the penalty whistle blew again. "He wasn't in motion," Curtice screamed. "No, it wasn't for that," the official said. "This penalty is against the rest of the team for delaying the game."

NOTES FROM THE CORNER FILE: Ray Stephenson, who works for Phillips Petroleum Co. of Pampa, played for the National AAU basketball champion Phillips Oilers until 1938. One of his sons, also named Ray, is on the Harvester team this year and is one of the top scorers. Game Warden Jack Woodford of Miami says that drought has caused a drop in bobwhite quail population in the Panhandle. He estimates that quail are dwindling at a rate of almost one bird per day. The birds have been forced to feed in bare areas with little or no cover, making them easy prey for predators.

even a trio of skeptical NBA scouts convinced today that there's still room for a good little man in basketball.

A full 15 inches shorter than Kansas' amazing Wilt Chamberlain, the 145-pound Forte showed he can be just as upsetting an influence on a game Wednesday night when he led unbeaten Columbia to a 78-68 victory over Dartmouth. The pro scouts, who included Fuzzy Levane of the New York Knickerbockers, saw Forte hit on six of 11 field goals and seven of eight free throws for 19 points in addition to being credited with seven assists.

Dartmouth's taller Indiana "ganged up" on the little guy, but he then acted as a decoy and helped pass off to Rudy Milkey, who tallied 24 points. It was the sixth straight victory for Columbia.

Forte's performance raised his season point total to 171, an average of 28.5 per game which ranks second only to Chamberlain's 3.62 average.

The mere appearance of the pro scouts was a personal triumph for Forte. If he is signed at the completion of his college career, Forte would become the smallest National

Noblitt-Coffey Wins Over Berger Quintet

Noblitt-Coffey, after riding on a five-game winning streak, dropped a narrow 88-87 basketball contest to Red-Mix Cementers of Berger here last night.

The Pampa team's record now stands at 5-4 for the season. Both teams are in the Industrial League which opens play Jan. 7.

Jack Motley made 23 points to pace Noblitt-Coffey. Teammates Bill Phillips had 22 and Ray Poole 15. Horton had 26 for Red-Mix.

Noblitt-Coffey beat Phillex of Berger, 79-50, Tuesday night with Poole pacing the winners with 20 points.

al Basketball Association player in history.

Western Kentucky, meanwhile, demonstrated that the honeymoon is really over for San Francisco when it rallied to beat the Dons, 61-57, at Louisville, Ky. The 17th-ranked Hilltoppers were outscored from the field, 24-23, but had the edge at the foul line, 15-9. It was the second straight "official loss" for the Dons, who less than a week ago were riding high with their record 60-game winning streak.

Guard Eric Back tallied 17 points for Western Kentucky but San Francisco's Art Day was the game's outstanding player with 23 tallies.

Wake Forest beat Auburn, 55-45, to win the Carrousel Tournament at Charlotte, N.C., for the second straight year. Wake Forest trailed, 28-22, at halftime but took the lead when Auburn went 12½ minutes without a field goal in the second half. Bob Emrick's 30 points enabled Florida to beat St. Joseph's, 66-72, and take third place in the tournament.

CHICAGO, (UP)—Spider Webb drew a bead on every top ranking middleweight today after his 18th straight triumph, a second round technical knockout win over the British Empire title-holder, Pat McAteer.

"I think I ought to be champion," he said, "and I'll be glad to fight any middleweight ranked above me until I get to be the champion."

BOWL ROUNDUP Tennessee Hopeful Of Sugar Bowl Win

EDITORS: This is the fourth of a series on the teams in the major football bowl games.

By JIM WATERS
United Press Sports Writer

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UP)—Bowden Wyatt hopes to wind up his second year as Tennessee coach with a Sugar Bowl win over Baylor and a record unequalled since 1938 when Wyatt himself captained the Volunteers.

That was the season the Vols overwhelmed 10 straight opponents and topped it off with a resounding 17-0 win over Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl. No other Tennessee team has won all its regular season games and a bowl contest to boot.

But "Tank," as his teammates once called him, refused to compare that 1938 team with this year's squad which won its first undisputed Southeastern Conference championship in 16 years.

"It's impossible to compare these teams now," Wyatt said. "It's just like trying to compare this year's car with the model 20 years ago. There are too many factors involved."

Majors Key Man
As was the 1938 team, this year's group consists of a dazzling array of star performers, led by All-America Johnny Majors. The 162-lb halfback also was named to the United Press Back of the Year in a nationwide poll of 232 sports writers and radio and television broadcasters.

Majors specializes in the pass-run option. If his field isn't clear enough for a sizeable gain, he throws for a damaging yardage to his favorite target, All-Conference end Kyle (Buddy) Cruise.

The pint-size tailback led the conference in total yardage and ranked third in the nation in punting with a 43-yard average in 26 kicks.

But the Vols' defense isn't to be regarded lightly, as was manifest in the Georgia Tech game when Tennessee scored a third-quarter touchdown and held off the Yellow Jackets' running and passing attack until the game ended with the Vols' out front 6-0.

Wyatt also refused to comment on Tennessee's past bowl record. "Let's not talk about that, I don't want to even think about any sort of jinx," snapped the dark-haired coach.

In nine post-season engagements, starting with the 1939 Tulsa triumph, Tennessee has won only three while losing six. Athletic Director Robert Neyland admits Tennessee has probably the worst bowl record of any team in the nation.

Wyatt Rates Baylor High
Wyatt's major concern is with Baylor itself. He said the Bears have "a real fine football team. They're coming late. They have a strong line and excellent backs." And Wyatt added: "We have information that at the end of the season, Baylor had the best team in the Southwest Conference."

"We hope to be back in the same condition as we were for

Gift Of The Wing
COLUMBUS, Ohio (UP)—A cock pheasant swooped down on a decorated Christmas tree on a busy downtown intersection Tuesday and settled for a rest. It was like a Christmas present for one spectator, probably a frustrated hunter, who grabbed him and walked off.

Irrigated Kansas Farmers Are Organizing 'Rabbit Roundups'

By HALE MONTGOMERY
United Press Staff Correspondent

TOPEKA, Kan. (UP)—The next Kansas jackrabbit which pokes his head above the prairie will wish he hadn't.

Irrigated farmers are organizing "rabbit roundups" against the fast-multiplying creatures who are nibbling at a precious wheat crop already decimated by the great drought.

Don Christi, a Scott City farmer and veteran of the old "dust bowl" days, reports that the Dodge Gun Club in western Kansas recently deployed 200 members with clubs across the fields and killed 500 rabbits.

Killed 35,000 in One Day

On a lesser scale, it was a reminder of the "dirty thirties," when farmers with clubs, forming circles up to 10 miles across killed 35,000 rabbits in a day.

In those dreary depression days, farmers loaded the carcasses on freight trains and shipped them east for relief. The long-legged jackrabbit is very edible—not as strong as duck. It weighs about six pounds and dresses about half that.

Today's problem is that the jackrabbits have concentrated in the few green areas, mostly irrigated farms, which have escaped the five-year dry grip.

Drives Are Reported

Rabbit drives have been reported in Finney, Meade and Scott counties. They are expected to increase in the farmer's desperate battle to hold the line until the rains come. The rabbits seem to multiply faster in dry years. In wet years many of the young drown.

The jackrabbits are only a side effect of the drought which followed the big flood of 1951. Four major rivers and streams halted their flows last summer to the point where members of the Wichita Motorcycle Club bounced 25 miles up the dry bed of the once-beautiful Arkansas River.

Many towns have run out of water. Residents pay to have water hauled in by truck.

Bad blows send precious topsoil thousands of feet into the air, cut visibility to zero and turn a bright day into night.

And back on the ranch, the jackrabbits are nibbling away at the last bit of green in a parched land.
