Youth Killed As Car Hits Combine Reel

Kenneth Faucett, 21 year-old Darrouzett service station operator died Saturday night a short time after striking a combine reel being hauled on the back of a pickup on Highway 117 east of Perryton. Funeral services were held at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the Darrouzett school auditorium and burial made in the Fairmont Cemetery. Young Faucett was driving west about 9:30 o'clock Saturday night when he met R. D. Stephenson of Booker, who was pulling a combine back of his truck. Mr. Stephenson's hired man, Gene Davis, was driving a pickup truck with a trailer carrying the combine reel directly behind the combine. It was thought that Faucett might have been blinded by the car lights reflecting on the reel.

JUST HERE and THERE

An editor writes "we" instead of "I" and hard-hitting J. H. Kavanaugh of the Round Rock Leader has come forward with an explanation of the "editorial we"—a photo of himself sitting on a bull . . .

This plain statement of fact—dug up somewhere by Roy Hahn, editor of the Briscoe County News, ought to do until somebody with real imagination comes along: The other day a bunch of the fellows were sitting on the sidewalk out in front of the store spitting in the street. The Old Timer was present, sitting in the street and spitting on the sidewalk just to be different.

Greys Meet Top-Notchers

The Perryton Greys will tangle with one of the better Panhandle baseball clubs here at Fairgrounds Park Sunday afternoon, July 28, when they attempt to repel an invasion of the Black Sox of Amarillo. The game has been called for 2:30 o'clock and preparations are being made to handle an expected record crowd. Managers Sam Herget and Bill Cayler said Wednesday.

The Black Sox are said to have what it takes to win a ball game and to match them with the Greys, who have consistently demonstrated their prowess in coping victories, indicates that Perryton fans and those from the surrounding territory are in for a treat of fast ball playing.

Another top-notch game has been matched with the Amarillo Texans Saturday night, July 20. This game has been called at 8:30 o'clock and will provide a draw card that is expected to fill the stands. Admissions for the games are 10 cents for children and 40 cents for adults, including tax.

On Tuesday evening Bill Dryden of College Station, who directs the AAA program in this district, was in Perryton consulting with Mr. Waide. Loans on barley were authorized in Texas just last week.

Any person desiring to obtain a commodity credit loan on barley in Ochiltree County should inquire at the County Agent's office.

Vacation Time

Publinks Stars Will Give United States Its Biggest Golf Tourney

BY ART BRONSON
AMERICA'S biggest golf tournament isn't the National Open, the U. S. Amateur or the P. G. A.
It isn't any of these high and mighty affairs which attract the top names of golfdom. Biggest tourney in the country is the National Public Links frolic, scheduled this year for the Rackham course in Detroit, July 22-27.

This is the tournament for the week-end golfer—for the plumbers, the steel-workers, the bank clerks, the telephone linemen and the rest of the golfing fraternity who can't get out more than once or twice a week.
But the brand of golf played in Publinks tourneys doesn't have to take a back seat to any other. There are plenty of public links players who can shatter par wherever they go, bang out the 275-yard drives like a Jimmy Thomson and come up with a chip shot like a Gene Sarazen.

DISTRICT qualifying rounds were held in more than 30 localities at 36-hole medal play. Approximately 200 became eligible for the finals, including all past champions who automatically qualify.

America's greatest source of player supply are the public links and these trues of all amateurs aren't allowed to enter the National Amateur unless they belong to a club affiliated with the U. S. G. A. A player isn't permitted to participate in both the Amateur and Publinks.

ANDY SZWEDKO, Pittsburgh steel-worker, will attempt defend the title he won a year ago at Baltimore. A fine golfer who qualified for the National Open at Cleveland this year, Szwedko nevertheless has some terrific competition to turn back.
Walter Burkemo, formerly of Detroit and now of Chicago, was a finalist in 1938. Only 20 years old he recently shot a 68, four under par, over one of the toughest courses in the Detroit area.

Al Leach, who as a Cleveland WPA timekeeper won the title in 1938, is another top-rank star who has the shots and the style to win.

But in the Publinks, like most golf tourneys, it's one of the toughest things in the world to repeat.

Pirates Defeat Beaver Sunday

The Perryton Pirates undermined the Beaver nine here at Fairgrounds Park last Sunday afternoon taking a scant victory 6-5 in about as even a match as seen locally for many seasons. The teams were tied on errors of four each, but Louchinbill pitching for the Pirates held the upper hand over Acton, giving up only four hits as compared with eight.

The skunk, "Tommy," is held by its owner, Clara Louise Baker, who doesn't seem a bit afraid.

Greys Lose To Shattuck Sun.

The Perryton Greys were routed by the Shattuck, Oklahoma, invaders Thursday night at Fairgrounds Park after a magnificent battle in which every man on the Perryton team scored a run. Despite all resistance the game was dropped 13-15 with both sides scoring heavily on the number of hits during the course of play.
Gyger and Riley formed a pitching barrage that would have spelled disaster for the Oklahomans except for the spectacular field play encountered when their opportunity came in each inning for action. The Oklahomans matched play for anything offered and emerged victorious even with Ward of Shattuck striking out only two men as compared with Gyger and Riley's eight and three respectively.

While the scoring would seem to indicate that the game was wild and loosely connected the fans thronging the stands spent an enjoyable evening.

SMITH SAYS:

Look for quality first when you buy printing! Because if it's worth printing at all, you ought to have it done by people who know all the tricks. Take Stewart's, for instance. They have a trained staff of printers, most modern equipped shop and they keep abreast with the new developments in the printing field. Don't look for a bargain on printing, because there isn't such a thing. Stewart's prices are LOW for the work they do!

Good Roads For Safety of Nation

AUSTIN, Texas—Effective communications hold the key to successful modern warfare. In these two words lie much of the secret of the success of the Nazi blitzkrieg, points out a staff writer on "Motor Transport and the Army" in the July issue of Texas Parade.

"Effective communications," explains the author, "connotes the quick movement of large bodies of men, the 'striking power' of an army, together with the light and heavy advance units, field artillery, munitions, supply and medical services. It means the speedy delivery of orders by special messenger and the speedy return to headquarters of important messages from commanders in the front of the attack. The present war in Europe has shown the importance not only of organization, training large bodies of troops in many specialized branches, the accumulation of large quantities of munitions and supplies, the procurement of thousands of pieces of mechanized equipment, but it also has shown the important part motorized transportation plays in the modern combat.

"Germany spent years recruiting and training her manpower; keying her industries to the production of the machinery of war, the tanks, the airplanes, the munitions and the motorized equipment necessary to transport her army speedily. But even before she inaugurated this vast armament program, she provided herself with the finest system of highways ever built, complete in every detail and built to withstand the rigors of a military movement. Germany recognized the necessity of having more than just guns, men, munitions and huge arrays of motorized equipment. The German general staff made certain that it had the means to mobilize an assault with a minimum of delay and to deliver tremendous blows by using highways to concentrate the 'striking power' where it would be most devastating and effective.

"That highways and motor transportation mean much to the effectiveness of this nation's armed forces is shown by the recent maneuvers in East Texas, the largest war game ever staged by the United States Army. In those maneuvers, the Army depended for transportation on the huge supply stores on commercial motor trucks furnished by the Red Ball Motor Freight Lines. Their use, apparently, was most successful except for the limitations imposed by physical deficiencies in the highway system.

"The highway system, be it remembered, such as it is and inadequate though it may be, has been financed by the users of the highways. As a result of the highway users' investment of tax money in a highway system, there has sprung up in the United States the most extensive system of mass transportation known to the world. Multiplied thousands of large commercial transports travel back and forth over the highways daily, carrying the peace time commodities of a nation of 130,000,000 people. This vast commercial highway transport system would be of inestimable value to the nation in the event it was necessary to convert it into service of the military. The results of the experiment in East Texas during the Army maneuvers show it could be converted within a short space of time into a vital place in the service of supplies for the Army. But here, again, we run into the physical deficiencies of the highway system and the Army maneuvers in East Texas showed that we must have highways of much heavier construction to withstand the heavy strain imposed by the movement of large bodies of men, artillery and the huge supply vans necessary to maintain them in the field.

"Some idea of the manner in which the commercial trucks served as Army transports and of the huge amounts of supplies hauled in the maneuver may be gained from reports on the maneuvers.

"Between April 16 and 23 more than 30 carloads of non-perishable goods were unloaded at the supply base each day by Red Ball trucks, with an estimated 25 to 30 each day from then to completion of the maneuvers. These supplies, in turn, were transferred to various distribution points by commercial truck caravan. The drivers were subjected to rigid Army discipline.

"Few laymen can grasp the prodigious task of keeping an army supplied with commodities. The food alone is a healthy portion of 500,000 pounds of supplies which left the depot each day. For example, it required 14 regular Army bakers and six civilian bakers on a 16-hour

The Wells Family—The Way Their Neighbors Know Them

The entire family is campaigning for Deskins Wells as he seeks the place of Congressman from the 18th Texas District. shift to supply 24,000 pounds of bread. Two thousand loaves were sent to the field daily, with six loaves to the box. Other items included 100,000 pounds of ice daily, and for the entire maneuvers; 330,000 pounds of fresh meat; 816,000 eggs; 38,000 pounds of bacon; 9,000 pounds of cheese; 70,000 pounds of onions; 28,000 pounds of lard substitute; 25,000 cans of evaporated milk; 100,000 pounds of sugar; 16,000 pounds of salt; 9,000 pounds of crackers; 5,000 cans of salmon; 330,000 pounds of flour; 3,400 pounds of rice and 2,800 quarts of vinegar. Military roads galley TWO.

"In addition to the rations, there were 900 tons of hay; 1,300,000 pounds of oats; 61,000 pounds of bran; 200 cords of wood; 500,000 gallons of gasoline, plus innumerable other items, such as oil greases, gas masks, smoke pots, war chemicals, ammunition, hospital equipment for the 500-bed hospital at Lufkin and Red Cross medical units in the field, beds, radios, telephones, clothing, motor parts, veterinary supplies and candy.

"Wiring for the communication system, which covered 1,200 miles and weighed 130 pounds to the mile, also had to be handled by truck to the field.

"The experiment showed that the Army can be supplied with adequate commercial truck service at any time. All branches, the Air Corps, Engineers, Infantry, and even the Coast Guard, also represented in the Sabine River Maneuvers, would be served.

"Thus, the highways furnished by the public and equipment furnished by private industry will be of inestimable value to the Army in its work. It is to the discredit of those charged with formulating national defense policies that more attention has not been given to returning to highway construction at least those amounts taken from the highway in taxes. If this were done, the nation would have an unparalleled system of roads, adequate for any purpose. The highway users are paying for it and are entitled to it regardless of any prospective emergency. The exigencies of the world situation demand that we have a system of roads capable of sustaining any military movement, regardless of its size."

Goodrich On Air Next Week

SHAMROCK, Texas, July 16—"Goodrich is gaining consistently," is the expression of disinterested men who have been over the district this week and it is welcome, but not surprising news to friends of the Wheeler county man all over the district.

The many supporters in all of the 28 counties of the district have felt that when folks had time to view the field of candidates and compare them, that Lewis M. Goodrich of Wheeler county would swing into the lead in the race for Congress.

And it is widely predicted that Goodrich's supporters will continue to increase right on through the July 27 primary and will bring a smashing victory in the run-off in August.

Most of the 450 men who served on grand juries with Goodrich when he was district attorney of the 31st district, many of whom are now in other counties, are getting things done for Goodrich in a big way.

Good Roads For Safety of Nation

AUSTIN, Texas—Effective communications hold the key to successful modern warfare. In these two words lie much of the secret of the success of the Nazi blitzkrieg, points out a staff writer on "Motor Transport and the Army" in the July issue of Texas Parade.

"Effective communications," explains the author, "connotes the quick movement of large bodies of men, the striking power of an army, together with the light and heavy advance units, field artillery, munitions, supply and medical services. It means the speedy delivery of orders by special messenger and the speedy return to headquarters of important messages from commanders in the front of the attack. The present war in Europe has shown the importance not only of organization, training large bodies of troops in many specialized branches, the accumulation of large quantities of munitions and supplies, the procurement of thousands of pieces of mechanized equipment, but it also has shown the important part motorized transportation plays in the modern combat."

"Germany spent years recruiting and training her manpower; keying her industries to the production of the machinery of war, the tanks, the airplanes, the munitions and the motorized equipment necessary to transport her army speedily. But even before she inaugurated this vast armament program, she provided herself with the finest system of highways ever built, complete in every detail and built to withstand the rigors of a military movement. Germany recognized the necessity of having more than just guns, men, munitions and huge arrays of motorized equipment. The German general staff made certain that it had the means to mobilize an assault with a minimum of delay and to deliver tremendous blows by using highways to concentrate the striking power where it would be most devastating and effective."

"That highways and motor transportation mean much to the effectiveness of this nation's armed forces is shown by the recent maneuvers in East Texas, the largest war game ever staged by the United States Army. In those maneuvers, the Army depended for transportation on the huge supply stores on commercial motor trucks furnished by the Red Ball Motor Freight Lines. Their use, apparently, was most successful except for the limitations imposed by physical deficiencies in the highway system."

"The highway system, be it remembered, such as it is and inadequate though it may be, has been financed by the users of the highways. As a result of the highway users' investment of tax money in a highway system, there has sprung up in the United States the most extensive system of mass transportation known to the world. Multiplied thousands of large commercial transports travel back and forth over the highways daily, carrying the peace time commodities of a nation of 130,000,000 people. This vast commercial highway transport system would be of inestimable value to the nation in the event it was necessary to convert it into service of the military. The results of the experiment in East Texas during the Army maneuvers show it could be converted within a short space of time into a vital place in the service of supplies for the Army. But here, again, we run into the physical deficiencies of the highway system and the Army maneuvers in East Texas showed that we must have highways of much heavier construction to withstand the heavy strain imposed by the movement of large bodies of men, artillery and the huge supply vans necessary to maintain them in the field."

"Some idea of the manner in which the commercial trucks served as Army transports and of the huge amounts of supplies hauled in the maneuver may be gained from reports on the maneuvers."

"Between April 16 and 23 more than 30 carloads of non-perishable goods were unloaded at the supply base each day by Red Ball trucks, with an estimated 25 to 30 each day from then to completion of the maneuvers. These supplies, in turn, were transferred to various distribution points by commercial truck caravan. The drivers were subjected to rigid Army discipline."

"Few laymen can grasp the prodigious task of keeping an army supplied with commodities. The food alone is a healthy portion of 500,000 pounds of supplies which left the depot each day. For example, it required 14 regular Army bakers and six civilian bakers on a 16-hour shift to supply 24,000 pounds of bread. Two thousand boxes were sent to the field daily, with six loaves to the box. Other items included 100,000 pounds of ice daily, and for the entire maneuver; 350,000 pounds of fresh meat; 816,000 eggs; 38,000 pounds of bacon; 8,000 pounds of cheese; 70,000 pounds of onions; 25,000 cans of evaporated milk; 100,000 pounds of sugar; 16,000 pounds of salt; 9,000 pounds of crackers; 5,000 cans of salmon; 350,000 pounds of flour; 5,400 pounds of rice and 2,000 quarts of vinegar. Flag of Our Country

A few weeks ago, Americans celebrated Flag Day. It is an occasion that has been duly observed ever since 1895, but we doubt whether, in the 45 years of its existence, the day has taken on a deeper meaning than it did this time. Events in Europe have brought about a new awakening of our national consciousness. Inevitably, therefore, the flag has again attained its true proportions as a symbol of America—America, something more than a mere name on the face of the globe; America, a single word that embraces the concepts of material welfare, spiritual dignity, and human freedom, ideals nearly extinct in so many other lands and in so many other human souls. It is only natural in these troubled times that the average citizen of this country should pay particular reverence to the nation's flag. But it would be wise, too, if we remembered during all the other days of the year that this emblem of our security and our welfare is just as important. Flag Day, 1940, will have attained its fullest meaning if we retain the spirit we display at that time in our every waking moment, every day of the year.

Our High Command

From a material standpoint, the defense program in this country is apparently being rushed with all speed possible in face of the fact that our armed services—particularly the navy—have undergone little modernization in the years since the World War.

Congress has voted almost uncounted billions for defense, has indicated a willingness to vote more if needed. Production of planes and other implements of war is being stepped up. Rapid expansion of the army, navy, and civilian pilot training programs has already started. Plans are formulated for a compulsory government service plan—the first in the peacetime history of the country.

But little has been done to ensure the United States against the blunder which as much as anything else contributed to the downfall of the allied cause on the continent—the lack of an adequate command. One of the most pathetic sights in the blitzkrieg against France was that country's frantic efforts to replace officers who apparently couldn't realize that no two wars are the same.

Many critics argue that the same condition obtains in the U. S. armed forces, that the army and navy are burdened down with an aging and unoriginal command.

One theory advanced to explain the effectiveness of the Germans' military tactics is that when the Reich secretly reorganized its army following the Versailles demilitarization order, new officers were chosen more on the basis of merit than for seniority and military traditionalism.

The United States must be assured that merit has some place in its high command, that conservatism and traditionalism are not the ruling factors. At all costs we must avoid future blunders similar to the court-martial more than a decade ago of Brig.-Gen. William Mitchell for annoying the high command with his insistence on the power of the airplane.

King Tut Rests Again

An injustice of long standing has been righted as the indirect result of the war in Europe.

Fearful of what might become of him in a world of dive bombers and panzer divisions and blitzkriegs and corporative states, the Egyptian government has reburied King Tut in the sandy soil that lines the banks of the Nile.

Without so much as "by your leave," archeologists some years ago dug the old boy up from the comfortable sarcophagus where he had rested for long quiet centuries.

They also disinterred the food and kitchen utensils which his contemporaries had placed in the grave in the hope that they would make his after-life more comfortable.

Then a so-called civilized world put Tut-Ankh-Amen—to give him his full name—on display in a public museum, for all to gaze and jibe at.

Now, it seems the Egyptian government has reburied him in his three comfortable coffins—the inner one of pure gold—to shield him from the perils of modern warfare.

An American tourist recently returned from the land of the Pharaohs reports no one knows where the body has been taken. It is gone from the museum at Cairo—that much is definite. And the museum is closed, reportedly for repairs.

So King Tut rests again in his cool grave. No doubt he is puzzled and a little sadder than during his first long sleep. After all those years of staring back at the people who filed past his cabinet in the Cairo museum, he could not very well retain that Sphinx-like composure he had when first disturbed.

British 'Lunch-Hour Brigade' Trains

Britain's determination to defend to the end the "right little isle" following French capitulation is shown in the grim faces of these factory workers at Maidenhead, training during their lunch hour under military officers. Many of them wear their work-aprons and overalls as they march.

When Big Shots Learn to Be Good Shots

By CHARLES MICHELSON
Director of Publicity, Democratic National Committee

There was something pathetic about the statement of Senator McNary, when he was informed that he had been selected for second place on the Republican National ticket.

"I will be a good soldier and do the best I can," said the Oregon Senator. This sad utterance must be read in connection with the statement he made two days before he was drafted as the tall to Wendell Wilkie's kite. Then he said, "The West which the Republicans must carry, will go against us if Mr. Wilkie heads the ticket."

Senator McNary was one of half a hundred G. O. P. national legislators who announced that the choice of the utility magnate for the Presidential nomination spelled destruction to any chance for their party in the coming election. Another conspicuous prophet of disaster was Senator Thomas, Borah's successor in the upper House of Congress, who was quoted as saying that the naming of Wilkie would not be a candidate for election. The Senator later backtracked a little but there was no doubt of his distaste for the Wilkie nomination.

Senator McNary had no reason to make a declaration along the Thomas line because his term as senator does not expire until 1943—and he is under no obligation to resign his post in order to "be a good soldier and do the best he can."

The Public Be Damned
The reason advanced by the half hundred Republican legislators for their pessimism varied. Some of them thought it bad policy to name as their standard bearer a man who had held his allegiance in the Democratic party up to a few months ago. Others questioned the wisdom of nominating the head of a utility corporation at this time; others based their opposition on the candidate's total lack of experience in Government, and their doubts were not resolved when Mr. Wilkie in his speech at St. Louis, reported in the New York Times, uttered these words: "The curse of democracy today in the United States as well as in Europe, is that every one has been trying to please the public."

A long time ago another head of a big corporation gained one sort of fame by putting the same thought into still briefer compass. That one said: "The public be damned."

Mr. Wilkie has made no secret of his idea of a government's functions or the processes required for a successful administration. Most people have the idea that the welfare of the country includes such things, for example, as stepping in when starvation threatens a considerable number of the people, and curbing the exploitation of the many for the benefit of the few. But the Republican candidate very neatly defined his view of an administration in a newspaper interview reported by Merwin H. Brown in that all time Republican paper, the Buffalo News. He told the public then that "Government is nothing but big business and, if I am elected President, I will put the Government on a big business basis."

Remember Elmer?
In view of these frank declarations it is not surprising that Big Business put over at the Republican convention the head of a Morgan merger the shares of which were unloaded on the public, at the height of the boom period at $27 a share and which have had a market value for some time of from seventy-five cents to a dollar and a half.

It will be remembered that it was disclosed at a Congressional hearing that the Utility Companies originated the practice of flooding Congress with propaganda telegrams. Among others they had a freckled youth who testified that he was paid three cents for every telegram he sent. Elmer became famous in the headlines of that period. At Philadelphia Elmer was missing but evidently his soul went marching on for the delegates got identical telegrams by the bushel-basketful pleading with them to vote for Wilkie at the same time the galleries were filled by Wilkie shouters admitted on privately-printed tickets that none, except those in the know, were aware had been issued.

That was the "popular uprising" which defeated the candidates for whom the people of the various States voted in the primaries. Naturally the G. O. P. newspapers and orators are striving to put before the country a plain, rough man, another Lincoln, whose heart beats for the common people, and whose rise from humble beginnings is a Horatio Alger story. He became a corporation lawyer at the first opportunity and was such a success at it that they took him into the business and he has been a conspicuous Utility man ever since.

Answering the "Call"
Nobody can find fault with that. He was picked for the new job by the same people who picked him for his other remunerative jobs. It would have been an honest thing had they proclaimed boldly that he was their man, chosen for the place because of his peculiar qualifications, instead of pretending that there was a nation-wide call. When they needed a deft, highly vocal resourceful president for a utility holding company they chose Wilkie. When they needed a President of the United States they bushwhacked a Republican National Convention into nominating Wilkie.

There is one thing that must be said for the corporate hierarchy; they know what they want and will spare neither money nor pains to get it. The regular campaign promises to be a repitition to the pre-convention campaign. The Liberty Leagues past, present and prospective, will permit their candidate to shout his pieces in any tone he chooses, and they will take care of the finances without regard to the pious declaration against large campaign contributions.

A million dollars is still a million dollars, whether it comes with a million names or figures in a single bank book.

Bartell, Legs Okay Again, Sparks Tigers' Flag Bid

BY ART BRONSON

DICK BARTELL is a very evident case in point that you can't give up on a ball player with plenty of heart.

When Detroit traded Billy Rogell to the Cubs for Bartell, Rowdy Richard was supposedly on his last legs.

Most critics thought he'd fold up like an accordion as soon as the pressure began to tell on him.

But today the Tigers are very much in the pennant race and Shortstop Bartell is the big reason. He is the hotter guy of the infield and has put more life into the "Bengals" inner works than any Detroit club has had in years, or since Mickey Cochrane was whipping 'em to pennants.

BARTELL was hampered by sore legs and sciatic trouble while with the Giants in '38, and again with the Cubs last year. But Bartell knew he was a long way from being through. During the winter he took up skiing, went on hunting and fishing trips and walked mile in heavy boots to strengthen his legs.

The self-prescribed treatment did for him what doctors couldn't seem to do. He reported to spring training in tip-top shape.

Perhaps a little more spark was all the Tigers needed. The switch which sent Hank Greenberg to the outfield to make room for Rudy York at first base, appears to have been a good one.

YORK has held up fairly well on the fielding end and his big bat means a lot. With Greenberg, York, Barney McCoskey and Charley Gehringer hitting, there's no lack of punch.

Buck Newsum is pitching the finest ball of his career. Schoolboy Rowe appears to be making something of a comeback and Del Baker has snappy looking newcomers in Jack Gorsica and the 19-year-old southpaw Harold Newhouser, a local sandlot product.

The Tiger really is wearing his old-time snarl.

The Horses Are Here to Stay; New York City Still Has 18,000

Despite heavy inroads of automobiles and trucks, horses still play an important role in New York City life.

NEW YORK.—This is not a horse on New York. It's about the city's horses—18,000 of them, the equal of the equine population of either Florida or New Hampshire. New York has more horses than any city in the world, with the possible exception of London.

At that, the horse population has steadily declined with the rise of the motor car and the taxi. A quick glance at the telephone directory of today shows just about 40 per cent as many stables as in 1923.

In 1929 the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals examined 109,438 cases of lameness, harness sores, bad shoes, and other horse ills. Many of these examinations, of course, were "repeats." Last year only 5012 such cases were investigated.

One of the big surprises about New York's horses is that they're not employed chiefly in dragging wagons around. Estimates say 12,000 of the city's steeds are the aristocrats of the equine world, saddle horses.

"This includes horses owned by their riders and also those rented out by livery stables to people of modest means for riding in Central Park, Prospect Park, and other open spaces. Back in 1912, New York had 75,000 horses. They have been driven from the streets not only

Strictly Fresh

A TEXAS candidate is giving out war maps to voters. By the time the election is over, they should be just about as valuable as the usual campaign promises.

WHAT IS MALT?..

and how is it used in making beer and ale?

BARLEY

Answer: Brewers' malt is barley that has had its starches modified. The barley is first permitted to "sprout" by the addition of moisture. At the right instant, the growth is checked by heat and the sprouts are removed.

What remains is malt... the essential base of all good beer and ale.

Every step in the brewing of good beer and ale has been taught by centuries of experience. Today, amazingly expert brewers—using only the purest ingredients—make beer and ale the mild, tasty, wholesome beverages that they are.

Now the brewing industry is taking action to keep the retailing of beer as wholesome as beer itself. A plan to eliminate abuses is already in effect in a number of states. It is being extended. Ask us for an interesting free booklet.

Paralysis Is Summer Disease

Austin, Texas. — Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, states that infantile paralysis, like typhoid fever, is largely a summer disease. Although cases may occur during any month of the year, over half the total cases occur during July, August, September and October. Through June 30, fifty-three cases of poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis) had been reported to the State Health Department.

Direct contact between persons is the chief factor in the spread of infantile paralysis. Because of the seasonal prevalence of the disease, flies and other insects have been suspected of conveying the virus or germ. Insect transmission has not, however, been demonstrated. Although animals are subject to paralysis, they are seemingly not susceptible to the human type of this paralytic disease. Carriers are difficult to determine; this fact makes advisable the reduction to a minimum of human contact during any outbreak of the disease.

Early symptoms of infantile paralysis comprise headache, fever, vomiting, bowel disorder, drowsiness and irritability, followed by neck or back stiffness. Prompt medical care, early recognition and reporting of cases make possible the use of valuable preventive and control measures.

After the acute stage of the disease has passed and walking is permitted the patient, under no circumstances must the affected part of the body be fatigued. It is thus observed that the secret of successful rehabilitation lies in continuous professional guidance and large doses of patience.

Children under five are more susceptible to the disease, and all children under twelve should be watched for suspicious symptoms. Your family physician should be called at once and physicians should report all cases to local and state health authorities immediately. When the disease occurs, all cases should be isolated for twenty-one days. All milk should be boiled unless it is pasteurized.

Children should not visit homes where the disease, or symptoms of the disease, exist. Promptness in diagnosis of poliomyelitis is a most important factor in control measures.

"Television-Telephone" Demonstrated by G-M

Will This Be Tomorrow's Telephone?

Novel Device Shown at Previews of Progress Science Show at World's Fair

Time: 1960. Scene: Typical suburban living room. Housewife (seated in front of queer, boxlike contraption): "... oh yes, let me see—some strawberries... No, those look over-ripe. Aren't those blackberries behind you?... Send me over two quarts this afternoon."

Fantastic? Impossible? Well, perhaps. But just such a "telephone" conversation may well be commonplace 20 years hence. Just such a contraption, combining elements of the telephone and of television transmission as we know it today, is demonstrated at the New York World's Fair. General Motors, in its Previews of Progress stage show, which lifts the veil on what industrial research may accomplish within the next generation, shows this amazing device along with many other new or potential processes and products.

Set up by RCA television and GM Research Laboratories engineers, the equipment consists of a standard portable television transmitter or "jeep" connected by co-axial cable with a 12-inch screen television receiver. A push-button telephone is coordinated with the television circuit so that when the telephone instrument is lifted at the receiving end the image of the person answering the call flashes on the screen. This seeing phone is only one of the previews of progress shown by General Motors in its stage show. New products fresh from research laboratories are presented—a 100 per cent synthetic tire, plastic tubes that shoot light around corners, glass cloth and a still unexplored plastic produced from lignin, a waste wood derivative. New devices that may some day be commonplace appliances are shown—the Frig-O-Therm, a "cooking icebox" or "freezing

Hall County Staging Fete Celebration

MEMPHIS, Texas—Plans galore for Hall County's Golden Jubilee three-day celebration, to be held here July 24, 25, and 26, were revealed this week as the time for this county's biggest and most colorful old settlers' reunion and rodeo drew nearer.

Topping the features for the three days will be the Pony Express race, to be run from Turkey to Memphis, a distance of about 35 miles. The course for the race, to be held July 24, will be marked with a pot of $50 waiting for the first rider. Awards of $30 and $20 will be given to second and third place winners. Only one change of mounts, to be made at Oxbow bridge, about halfway between the two cities, will be made.

But the Pony Express race is only one phase of the celebration. There will be speeches by top-notchers in that field, six rodeo performances, a barbecue for pioneers, three cowboy dances to a well-known string orchestra, and two ballroom dances, one of which will honor visiting sponsors. The program will officially open Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock when registration of old-timers (those who have lived in Hall County since 1911 or before) is held. The old-timers will be welcomed and speeches made to them each of the three mornings.

Rodeo performances, to be held at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon and 8:30 o'clock at night, will be the action part of the three-day affair. Open strictly to amateurs, the rodeo is expected to draw the best of the cowboys from ranches in the Panhandle.

Four $125 saddles will be awarded to rodeo entrants, two to cowboys, and two to sponsor entrants. "Hitler," a bucking horse that has never been ridden is to be saved until the last night for a special feature, and an extra award will be given to the cowboy who stays on him.

Old-time fiddlers will also come in for their share of the fun—and prize money. The old fiddling contest will be held Wednesday afternoon, July 24, at 5 o'clock, and the winning fiddler will receive $10 and $5 prizes, respectively.

In addition, an old-time square dance contest will be held Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock, and the winning team will receive $25. Second and third place teams will receive $15 and $10, respectively.

Thursday has been set aside as the official day for pioneers. The tabernacle will be open in the afternoon for visiting and for discussions. The barbecue will be held on that day at 1 o'clock.

Cowboy dances are to be held each of the three nights. The sponsors' dance will be held Thursday night, and the other ballroom dance will be held Wednesday night.

Climaxing the old settlers' portion of the program will be the unveiling of the pioneer monument. Memorial coins were sold this spring to raise money for the erection of the monument, and the coins will be on sale during the celebration.

A pioneer parade will be held at 1 o'clock each of the three days, with Chas. R. Simmons post of the American Legion in charge. All civic and social organizations will have floats in the parade, and a number of merchants are making plans to enter floats.

DETROIT, July 8 — Chevrolet dealers' combined new and used car and truck sales set a new high during the month of June. W. E. Holler, general sales manager, announced here today. Records show that the selling organization delivered an average of 12,696 units each of the 25 working days in the month, for the tremendous total of 317,400.

Retail sales figures for the last 10 days of June and also for the month as a whole, showed substantial increases over the same periods last year, and the final 10-day figure was 14.9% higher than that for the previous period.

New car sales for the month totaled 102,615 passenger cars and trucks. Mr. Holler said, a gain of 35.6 per cent over June, 1939. In the final 10-day period, Chevrolet dealers retailed 40,435 new cars and trucks, a 36.6 per cent increase over the same period last year.

Increases were also registered in used car sales, he said, a total of 214,970 units being sold during the month. This represents a 40.1 per cent gain over June, 1939. In the final 10-day period, 94,696 used cars were sold at retail, a figure 45 per cent greater than the same period last year.

Of special significance, Mr. Holler said, is the fact that used car stocks were reduced by 42,249 units during the month of June. This large volume reduction, he said, means that Chevrolet dealers are in position to offer new cars and trucks on terms especially advantageous to the buyer in July.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. McMillen and Mr. and Mrs. Jas. E. Barbour visited Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Seitz in the Notla community.

Mrs. Horace Lackey and daughters, Sibyl and Janet, left this morning, Thursday, for Waxahachie to visit in the home of Mrs. Lackey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Kile.

Service Club Salary Reaches $75

The salary to be paid on Saturday, July 20, amounts to $75.00 and all members are urged to pay dues before the election to qualify for that amount in the event their name is selected for the week. The Community Service Club is sponsored by the American Legion and all profits are used for local charity purposes.

Hold All-Panhandle Rally on July 23

AMARILLO, July 17—Several congressional and senatorial candidates are planning big delegations to the All-Panhandle political holiday in Butler Field at Amarillo the evening of July 23. The rally will start at 8 o'clock.

More than 200 residents of Dalhart and the XT Band will attend the rally and get in some good words for the XT Reunion there August 3-6.

Deskina Wells of Wellington, congressional candidate, said a large delegation would accompany him to the rally and make stops at Childress, Estelline, Turkey, Quitaque, Silvertown, Tulla, Dimmitt, Hereford and Canyon.

The Mr. Worley Goes to Washington Club at Pampa promised to send 600 members, a band and several entertainers.

An effort is being made to bring Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel to the rally. Ernest O. Thompson, gubernatorial candidate, will attend, and Jerry Sadler is attempting to arrange his schedule so he can be at the rally.

All candidates and voters of the 28 counties in the 18th congressional district have a public invitation to attend the free rally—nothing to sell, nothing to buy; just politics—which is being sponsored by the Amarillo Globe-News.

The various delegations and bands will stage parades downtown during the day. There will be plenty of comfortable seats at Butler field.

Raymond Overby and J. W. Payne Jr. spent the week-end in Childress. Mr. Overby was visiting in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Overby.

Mrs. W. L. Philpaw and son, Bill, spent the week-end in Kingfisher, Okla., with relatives. They enjoyed a visit with cousins of Mrs. Philpaw's who were there from Pittsburg, Kans., Joplin, Mo., and Oklahoma City.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Job Trusts in Strength of Faith

The International Sunday School Lesson for July 21
Text: Job 42:1-13

JOB emerges in this lesson from the depth of doubt into the strength of faith. After being distressed by the intensity of his disasters and sufferings, more distressed than helmed by the complacent and futile counsel of his friends and tempted by the whole situation to "curse God and die," he finds that he can trust God even though He should slay him.

It should be noted that it was faith that Job attained. He did not find a solution of the problem of suffering, and no one has found a solution. It is a great mystery that still goes unsolved. Jesus went to Calvary, praying earnestly that He might be spared the Cross, but He also found in the hour of Gethsemane the faith that sustained Him and that enabled Him to believe that in His sufferings and death He was fulfilling the will of an all-wise Father and His purposes of redemption.

ALL this is greatly at variance with the popular idea of doubt. The common notion is that we should suppress it, that we should not allow any questioning to enter our minds concerning God and His Providence. But the book of Job and many other parts of the Bible speak differently. They suggest that we should face the problems of life earnestly, and sincerely, and that if we do thus face them we shall come not to a conventional belief that has little reality, but that we shall come to real faith.

All this has never been more finely expressed in modern times than in Tennyson's great poem, "In Memoriam," which has sometimes been called "A Modern Book of Job." Tennyson wrote this poem, deeply moved by the death of his friend Arthur Henry Hallam. In one section he is replying to someone who has expressed the conventional idea that "doubt is Devil-born." In this he says:

I know not; one indeed I knew
In many a subtle question versed,
Who touch'd a jarring lyre at first,
But ever strove to make it true;
Perplex'd in faith, but pure in deeds,
At last he beat his music out
There lives more faith in honest doubt,
Believe me, than in half the creeds.

He fought his doubts and gather'd strength,
He would not make his judgment blind,
He faced the spectres of the night,
And laid them; thus he came at length
To find a stronger faith his own,
And Power was with him in the night,
Which makes the darkness and the light,
And dwells not in the light alone.

AS Job comes to faith and finds the approval of Jehovah, his triumph is in contrast with the discomfort of his plausible friends who had tried to cheer him with weak and superficial words and who in their shallow pretense of faith had rebuked him for his doubts. The wrath of Jehovah is kindled against them because they had not spoken of Him the thing that was right.

We may well pray for a sustaining faith like Job's and seek it instead of being satisfied with the plausible platitudes of those who have never cried to God out of the depths or found His answer.

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Undistributed amid the jarring testimony of the material senses, science, still enthroned, is unfolding to mortals the immutable, harmonious, divine Principle,—is unfolding Life and the universe, ever present and eternal" (page 306).

Miller Seeks Voters' Help

AMARILLO, Tex.—E. T. "Dusty" Miller, admitted by opponents in the race for Congress from the 18th Congressional district to be the man to beat in the run-off, carried his ideas of democratic government to the voters over a wide section of the Panhandle during the remaining days of the campaign, according to information received from his friends and supporters.

Crowds ranging from several hundred to more than two thousand persons have listened to his platform ideas. "Sound and entirely workable," is a common expression heard in reference to every plank in his platform.

Mr. Miller realizing the impossibility of reaching all the voters through personal contact, will take to the air waves during the remaining days of the campaign in order to present his views on government to as many people as is possible.

"I have been paid a great honor by my opponents in this race by their virtual unanimous endorsement of my platform. I feel greatly honored to know that such a fine group of men should so heartily approve my statements concerning legislation for this section of our great country. I am now thoroughly convinced that I have something worthwhile to fight for when the people of this district send me to Congress to obtain the things they need most," he stated.

Mr. Miller stands for a uniform pension for people over 60 or 65 years of age. He cannot understand why the older people in our state should be penalized just because they chose Texas to be their home.

"We tax payers pay as much taxes in Texas as those who live in other States, so why should the money we pay into the Federal government go toward aiding old people in other states to obtain a larger pension than our own mothers and fathers receive."

Taking a firm stand against admitting foreigners into our country, Mr. Miller stands for closing our doors to immigrants and then "giving America a good dose of perogative to rid her of all the isms except Americanism." A strong national defense is necessary to protect our rights as free citizens, but he emphatically states that he will never vote to send an American boy to foreign battlefields.

A known friend of labor and the working man throughout his career as an attorney, Mr. Miller has received much support and encouragement from the various unions and lodges. W. R. (Bill) Loggren, a brakeman for the Rock Island Railway, reiterated this statement in a talk over radio station KPDA in Amarillo last Monday night.

Mr. Miller believes in collective bargaining in order that labor and Capital may come closer together and work in more perfect harmony.

Jesse Bell harvests wheat on one of the farms near Rushville, Ind., owned by Republican Presidential Nominee Wendell Willkie. Not a "gentleman farmer," Willkie operates his lands on a profit-making basis.

throughout the territory, Mr. Miller has urged the people to place a man of experience in the halls of Congress. During this trying time it is the duty of every voter to investigate the candidates asking to serve in the halls of government, according to Mr. Miller's views.

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Campbell of Madison, Kans., were visiting the past week with relatives and friends here and attending to harvest interests near Spearman.

Fields In Congress Race

Lewis P. Fields, candidate for Congress, has spent his 44 years in Texas, 35 of them in the Panhandle; having lived on farms and ranches in Hemphill, Donley, and Carson Counties; and has lived in Amarillo since 1920, being engaged in the General Insurance business. He makes the following statement:

"I feel that I know the needs of our district and will draw upon the experience I have had as a farmer, stockman, and business man, and upon information gained as a civic worker, in advancing legislation favorable to this district and nation.

LEWIS P. FIELDS

"As a lifelong Democrat, I do not believe in making promises I cannot fulfill; but I do pledge myself to support the principles of good and economical government, and at all times to put foremost the interests of my constituents and the nation. As a veteran of the A. E. F., during the World War, I know what war means, and will not be panicky over the war situation; but I do advocate immediate national defense, and deportation of undesirable aliens, who comprise much of the "Fifth Column" in our country, and I shall always strive to eliminate the profits from war and national defense programs. "I have always studied the farm problem, and it is my firm belief that the best farm program is one which will permit the man who tills the soil to own the land, and discourage the operation of large farm units by interests who completely mechanize and use a minimum of hired labor.

"I have at all times been interested in our schools and churches, civic and charitable organizations; and I will continue that interest. I have for more than twenty years been active in behalf of our disabled service men, their widows, and orphans; and I will continue to fight for them.

"I am advocating a common horse-sense administration, and say that I will do the job if elected like I think the people would have me do it."

The Texas petroleum industry pays one-fourth of all the school taxes in the state.

Nearly 400,000 Texas school children each year have their entire schooling paid for by the Texas oil and gas industry.

Texas-made oil tools and equipment are shipped to every oil-producing country in the world.

of candidates gang up on the tall-end man in the race? he asked. "Of course not. They invariably gang up on the leading candidate and by so doing they enable him to run all the faster.

"The heavy artillery of the opposition is being out of loose. These are not the candidates themselves, but the old-time smooth, experienced and tricky politicians, who for reasons of their own want to see candidates other than Deskins Wells elected. From their heavy carpeted offices and behind their glass-topped desks—they are screaming: 'Stop Deskins Wells!'

"You may depend on it that no stone will be left unturned to be little me and out down my lead in the closing days of the campaign. They are doing it because they know that Deskins Wells will not take orders from them. They know that when elected, Deskins Wells will represent all the people in the 12th Congressional District and not just a select clique. They know that the door of my office will be open to the humblest man or woman, boy or girl and that there will be no closed chamber conferences in smoke-filled rooms where only the high and mighty meet."

Wells reiterated his support of pensions equal to those in other states, and equal wages for WPA workers, continuation of CCC program related where possible, to emergency defense programs, support of right of collective bargaining, opposition to Federal control of railroads, continuation of farm program with steps to place small farmers back on land and support of sound preparedness program.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Prestwit of the Gray Booster Station left Saturday on a honeymoon trip into Georgia and Florida. His aunt, Mrs. Nora Holland, and her daughter, Miss DeVer's accompanied them.

The number of farms served by electricity in the United States jumped from about 719,000 in 1932 to more than 1,400,000 in 1938. This is a 98 percent increase.

EVEN SOWING means EVEN GROWING

There is a lot of truth in the old saying, "even sowing means even growing." You can be sure of even, accurate work when you use a new McCormick-Deering Grain Drill for your sowing. 2:30 o'clock. And he will be followed by Carl Hinton, Secretary-Manager of the Panhandle Water Conservation Authority in the principal address of the afternoon. John McCarty, President of the Authority and editor of the Amarillo News, will also speak to the visitors and introduce authorities and members and other dignitaries in attendance.

Immediately after the dedication ceremony, the fast hell-divers of the Southwest will compete for cash prizes in the fast division of the boat racing, class A hydroplane, class B hydro, two heats of class C hydro and two heats of class C hydro, and two heats of Class C Runabouts will close the thrill events of the water. The McClellan Boat Club of Pampa will participate in the races. Lance announced. All boat drivers are invited to enter any or all of the events and no entrance fee is required. All drivers are requested to be registered at the pit by 12 o'clock noon Sunday. Four cash prizes in each event will be paid.

Water skiers, surf board riders, a sail boat exhibition by Mrs. Jim Gidding of Amarillo and possibly other events will be mixed in with the regular racing program to prevent any delays and secure a fast moving program. Special boats will be on the lake, Lance said, to afford passenger rides to the visitors, although no such rides will be allowed during the races due to safety precautions. The bathing beauty revue, a sport that has been of major importance on the other plans events, will be presented at 7:30 o'clock in the evening with handsome allowances to the winners. More than a score of beautiful girls have entered the contest, directed by Miss Betty Bryan of Perryton. Any girl can enter the contest, Miss Bryan said. Beginning at 9 o'clock the Dedication Ball will be staged in the recreational building with music by Red Malin and His Nautical Band. Floor shows will be presented throughout the evening and petite Georgia Haskenship, the "Nightingale" of the Panhandle, will supply the vocals with the band.

Camera addicts will have a holiday at Lake Fryer Sunday and will be paid for the energy. The committee has set aside $15.00 in cash prizes for the best picture made of the lake on the opening day. The prints may be made from any camera, but must be 5x7 inches in size. The negatives and all prints will officially become the property of the committee.

The Mathes Company of Amarillo, Philco Distributors, will furnish the sound equipment for the opening day. Reservations are already coming in for hotel accommodations in Perryton indicating a general out-door crowd for the gala celebration.

There is no admission charge to Ochiltree Park and all events, except the dances, will be free!

The library will accommodate 1,000 books at the present time, and more shelving can be added as the need arises. The library board is composed of Mayor C. E. Forbes, Mrs. A. J. Kelly, Mrs. C. B. Rogers, Mrs. A. P. Spicer, Mrs. Jack Allen, Mrs. W. H. LaMaster, Mrs. Hazel Martin, F. B. Bumpster, Mrs. Freeman Garrett, Mrs. Otis Burk, Virgil Castle, Mrs. David Shanks and A. P. Spicer. Mrs. Mary Dillingham has been retained as librarian and will begin duties following the dedication. A book shower will be held in connection with the opening and anyone desiring to bring a book may do so, however it is not a requisite for attendance. Also anyone having used office equipment, such as filing cabinets or boxes which are not in use, are asked to get in touch with any member of the library board.

casting their ballot for any candidate for public office. There are many rights that we are supposed to possess that are sometimes taken from us, but the one sure thing that we have in a democracy is our vote. "This is something that no one can deprive us of. When Max Boyer made his decision to be a candidate for State Senator of the thirty-first senatorial district, I did so after thorough deliberation and without urgings on the part of any group at all. That is the way that I have always determined my political actions, and I believe that any candidate for State Senator ought to know full well that if he is elected his duties will be such that they will not conflict with the interests of the average citizens of the district he represents. As stated to you heretofore, I present my candidacy for State Senator to the people of the Panhandle on the basis of my own record and experience with no criticism or attempt to credit any rumored defects which might be possessed by either of my opponents. As far as my part of this campaign is concerned, I want to convey to the people of the Panhandle such information as possible to show them affirmatively the reasons they should support me. If I were to discredit either of my opponents, you would then only learn of purported shortcomings of theirs and would not know anything concerning what I have done in the past or what Max Boyer hopes to do for you if elected State Senator. I am happy in the thought that the people of the Panhandle do not have to blindly cast their vote for me for State Senator because the people have the opportunity to examine the written record as it has been made during the four years that I have represented ten Panhandle counties in the Texas House of Representatives. It is, therefore, my suggestion to the people of the Panhandle that when they hear an opponent of mine promise that he will support a certain type of legislation to investigate and determine whether or not Max Boyer has already supported that particular type of legislation. If you hear Max Boyer talk over the radio the day before the campaign ends, you will find he has not changed from his original appeal to solicit your vote on the basis that he has earned the promotion by working for the average citizen of these counties of the Panhandle.

out in the oil field," said Jack Davis. "His company finished a well the other day that is producing 8,000 barrels of castor oil a day." The Old Timer squinted up at Jack and shifted around a little. "I found a castor oil spring one time," he stated. "I was the sole survivor of a wreck in the South Seas and landed on a desert island. Didn't have no food or water so as soon as I landed on this place I went hunting and the first thing I found was a castor oil spring.

"That was just one of the remarkable things I found on this here island. About two hundred yards from the castor oil spring was a jelly roll mine. There was raspberry, apple, strawberry and cinnamon rolls in this mine and I lived on them for months while the war. The first new discovery I made was a greaser that spotted 3.2 beer every 22 minutes. I timed it by a sundial I made so the time may not have been exactly 22 minutes, as my sundial was not so very accurate. It would lose ten or fifteen minutes a day, generally. On the north end of this here island I found a hammer tree and plucked me a good stout claw-hammer. With this and a sawfish and a square from a squareheaded shark I was able to build me a 16-room cabin with two baths and servants quarters.

"All this time I didn't have no clothes and was all the time embarrassed by my own presence. But shortly after I finished my house I found a thrifty bloomer bush in full fruit and picked me a pair of pants. This plant only bloomed once every seven years but that didn't bother me much as I was a married man and one new pair of pants every seven years was just about right. I stayed there 27 years; but my most important discovery that I made while I was there was a vibrating saw which gave vanilla milk shake."

The Tulla Herald issued a 56 page edition last week commemorating the Swisher County Golden Jubilee celebration on July 17-18. Mrs. F. P. Engleman, publisher; R. V. Miller, business manager; and Jack Stamper, news editor, are due much credit for this most excellent issue.

Beautiful Lake Fryer, 100 acres of clear sparkling fresh spring water, nestled between the tree lined banks of historic Wolf Creek, will be dedicated Sunday as a recreational area.

The opening of this wonderful park, said to be the best of all Panhandle parks, came out of the dreams and work of a small group of Ochiltree county folks. Back in 1934, a movement was started to establish a State Park on the present site of the Ochiltree Park.

In considering a park site, it was natural that the old headquarters section of the Shady Nook Ranch be given first consideration. This wooded area, through which Wolf Creek meanders, has been the picnic and recreation spot of the North Panhandle since the days of the First white settler, and before then, it was a favorite camping place for Indians.

Settled by D. C. Kettell, first sheriff of Ochiltree county, it was the community center for horse races, baseball games, dances and get-togethers of every nature. It was even more of a playground when owned and operated by J. T. Fryer. So it was just the natural thing to select it as a site for a Texas State Park.

The land was purchased by Ochiltree county who turned it to the Texas State Parks Board who designated it as the Ochiltree State Park and started plans for development of the area by a CCC Camp under the supervision of the National Parks Service.

Then came retrenchment and the cutting down of CCC camps allotted in Texas for park work. It looked as though it would be years before it would be improved. Through the work of the Panhandle Water Conservation Authority and the powerful influence of Congressman Marvin Jones, a lake building program was started in the Texas Panhandle.

Among the first areas to be designated for improvement by the Department of Agriculture under the lake program was the Wolf Creek project, so the land county, who in turn sold it to the Federal government. Then came development by the Soil Conservation Service and the Works Progress Administration. People of Ochiltree, Lipscomb, Hemphill and Hansford counties in Texas and Beaver and Texas counties in Oklahoma are fortunate in having this great recreational park and lake only a few miles drive away. It is now open for picnicking, swimming, boating and many other amusements. The lake has been stocked but it will not be open for fishing for at least another year.
