Rights Backers Change Signals

WASHINGTON (AP) — An abrupt change in strategy by supporters of the civil rights bill appeared today as the marathon Senate controversy stretched into its 10th week and 52nd session.

The new battle plan is to pound out a compromise package — outside the Senate chamber — and then try to pledge 67 members from both parties — a two-thirds majority — to stand solidly behind this on all votes.

This would be no easy accomplishment, but it would duplicate the strength Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana and Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois massed March 26 to make the bill the pending Senate business.

Senate maneuvers on the measure began March 9 when it arrived in the Senate after House passage. Although the flood of oratory got under way promptly, the bill wasn't officially the pending Senate business until a 67-17 vote to make it such was attained March 26.

NO CHANGES

Initially, Senate sponsors talked about trying to pass the House bill without major changes.

Longer-than-usual daily sessions and Saturday meetings failed to dampen the Southerners' oratorical ardor, but they finally allowed votes last week on the first of more than 100 amendments.

These tests involved attempts to make provisions for jury trials in contempt of court cases that arise from the bill.

A series of daily conferences has been held in Dirksen's office. With all factions except the Dixie opponents represented, this group has been laboriously seeking agreement on all provisions of the legislation.

LEGAL AIDES

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and his top legal aides have been participating. All results are cleared with key House members for expected later action there.

There was no session Saturday.

day but debate on the measure continued elsewhere.

The Dixie chief, Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., told a Georgia audience that opponents lack the votes to prevent eventual passage and that the final outcome is uncertain.

Sens. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., and John Sparkman, D-Ala., in a program taped for radio use, said they would fight to prevent any watering down of the measure—the inference being that such compromises might bring Senate approval.

LIFT PHONE

Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., said President Johnson

should "lift the telephone and do a little talking" with Southern senators in an effort to get the bill passed without crippling amendments.

Johnson told audiences North and South that a civil rights bill will be passed, even if round-the-clock Senate sessions are required.

Two Negro civil rights leaders—James A. Farmer, director of the Congress of Racial Equality and Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference—appealed in radio-telephone interviews against weakening the bill through amendments.

JOHNSON, FOES

Equal Time Yes But Debate Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republican presidential nominee may get equal time, but he is unlikely to get on the same television screen with President Johnson in the campaign.

Congress has ready for action a compromise bill to suspend the provision of the Communications Act which requires broadcasters to make equal time available for all candidates if free time is given to one.

Passage of this legislation presumably would open the way for television-radio debates between the major candidates such as those between Sen. John F. Kennedy and Vice President Richard M. Nixon in 1960.

While there has been no final decision, top Democrats do not expect President Johnson to agree to face-to-face debate with his Republican opponent.

Instead, Johnson may take television time to discuss the issues and state the case for his election. His GOP rival would have the same amount of time for the same purpose, but would appear separately.

The late President Kennedy told a news conference that he would debate his Republican opponent. Republicans already are citing this pledge and suggesting that Johnson is ducking a debate.

Fresh Rail Walkout Ends

CHICAGO (AP) — A shaky peace was restored to the nation's railroads Sunday night as the sixth walkout by railroad workers since Thursday came to an end.

A federal court injunction obtained Sunday in Chicago halted a work stoppage on the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The stoppage, called a wildcat strike by management, began Saturday night when 40 men reported sick. About 120 more called in sick Sunday.

The Pennsylvania walkout followed a 7-hour, 20-minute strike by firemen against the New York Central in Mattoon, Ill. The men returned to work following telegrams from union officials advising them that their walkout was unauthorized.

Four other brief strikes on Thursday—the day the railroads put into effect an arbitration ruling eliminating hundreds of firemen's jobs—followed the same pattern.

The strikes were flareups in the five-year dispute between the rail lines and the operating unions about work rules and what management calls featherbedding.

Jury Finally Chosen For Hoffa's Trial

CHICAGO (AP) — After two weeks of lawyers bickering, a jury of eight men and four women has been empaneled to hear the $20-million fraud and conspiracy trial of James R. Hoffa, Teamsters Union president, and seven codefendants.

Before opening statements can be given in U.S. District Court before Judge Richard B. Austin, however, two more alternate jurors must be chosen. With two alternates chosen Friday, the four will stand by as juror replacements in a trial that some observers say may last for months.

28 COUNTS

Hoffa and his codefendants are charged in a 28-count indictment with conspiring to obtain $20 million in fraudulent loans from the Teamsters Union pension fund and diverting $1 million to their personal use. Hoffa is a trustee of the fund.

The jury consists of eight union members. One man is a Negro. Jurors range in age from 24 to 64.

The jurors were selected from 561 veniremen, many of whom were excused for cause after Judge Austin warned that jurors would be isolated in guarded hotel rooms between court sessions. He further ruled that each juror could receive one telephone call per day. The telephone call and visit would be monitored by U.S. marshals.

QUESTIONING

The battery of defense attorneys issued a series of motions for a mistrial during the questioning of veniremen. They contended that the isolation would not permit a proper cross section of jurors. Judge Austin denied the request.

The defense also asked for a mistrial on the grounds that FBI agents were questioning neighbors of prospective jurors. Judge Austin denied this also, but told the defense that when evidence was presented that FBI or other law enforcement officials were questioning jurors or their friends, "a mistrial would be declared that fast."

FOR MISTRIAL

Judge Austin took under advisement a request for mistrial on grounds that stories concerning the Teamsters Union appearing in Look magazine and two Chicago newspapers were prejudicial to the defense.

In another motion, Judge Austin refused a mistrial request based on remarks made in Chicago by Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Hoffa and three others were convicted in Chattanooga, Tenn., March 4 for trying to fix the Nashville, Tenn., jury which heard Hoffa's conspiracy trial in 1962. Hoffa was sentenced to eight years in prison and fined $10,000.

The stocky labor leader is free pending an appeal of the conviction.

10 Survive Philippines Plane Crash

MANILA (AP)—A U.S. military jet transport plane crashed and burned tonight during a rainstorm at Clark Air Force Base north of Manila. The U.S. Air Force said 73 of 83 persons aboard the plane were killed.

An Air Force spokesman said wreckage was strewn over a wide area of the strategic base, a relay point for supplies to the U.S. forces in South Viet Nam.

The spokesman said the plane, a C130 jet carrying 73 passengers and a crew of 10, broke up and burned less than a half mile from the runway.

The plane left Travis Air Force Base, Calif., Sunday and had stopped at Hickam Field in Hawaii.

The injured were taken to a hospital.

"The present confirmed count is 10 survivors," the spokesman said.

In Japan, a spokesman for the U.S. 5th Air Force said he had been informed by Clark Field that the plane carried "military passengers," and he interpreted this to mean no dependents of military personnel were aboard.

The four-jet transport capable of carrying 126 persons crashed at about 7:15 p.m. Manila time, in a level, unobstructed area of dirt and grass, the spokesman said.

There was no sign of distress before the crash, and the plane "just didn't make the runway," he added.

Most of the 10 survivors were "in pretty bad shape," he said. The spokesman could not say which service most of the passengers were from—Air Force, Army or Navy. He also could not say whether the plane was bound for another destination after landing at Clark.

Clark Field, about 60 miles north of Manila, is the main U.S. base in Southeast Asia. It is headquarters of the 13th Air Force, and serves as a principal shuttlepoint for supplying American forces in South Viet Nam.

The plane was attached to the 44th Air Transport Squadron of Travis Air Force Base. A spokesman there said it left the base at 9 a.m. Pacific time for the Philippines, and stopped at Hickam, in Hawaii.

Earlier in the day two Philippine air force jets crashed at Basa base in central Luzon island. The pilot of one plane was killed but the pilot of the other parachuted to safety.

Hit-Run Death

INGLESIDE, Tex. (AP)—Joseph Frank Baker, Jr., 31, of Aransas Pass was killed early today, apparently by a hit-and-run driver just north of here.

Cotton Waddell, Odessa Philanthropist, Dies At 75

HOUSTON (AP)—Last rites for R. T. (Cotton) Waddell, 75, Odessa millionaire and philanthropist who died of a heart attack at a motel here Saturday night, will be held in Odessa Tuesday.

The funeral service will be held at the Belmont Baptist Church. Burial will be at Midland, where Waddell was born.

The body was returned by plane to Odessa Sunday.

A member of the Texas Commission on Higher Education, Waddell was pronounced dead at 7:40 p.m. Saturday after a heart attack.

Friends said he had worked strenuously all day and had no history of a heart condition.

The West Texas philanthropist was in Houston with the famed Chuck Wagon Gang of Odessa, a group of chamber of commerce boosters for the city. This group had fed several thousand persons attending a Humble Oil & Refining Co. picnic at nearby Baytown.

Waddell had contributed large amounts of money to Baylor University and other institutions of higher learning in Texas. Ralph Chenault, a friend, said Waddell "founded just about everything there was to be founded in Odessa."

On this list were the First National Bank of Odessa, Home Savings & Loan Association, National Bank of Odessa, was a partner in Waddell and Blank real estate, was founder of the Civil Hotel Corp., and builder of the Lincoln Hotel, Odessa's largest.

Waddell was also a member of the board of directors of the first National Bank of Big Spring.

He is survived by the widow, Mary Lee of Odessa, a son, R. C. (Dick) Waddell, and two brothers, Frank Waddell and Jim Waddell, all of Odessa.

AGENT TRIES ESCAPE

McNamara Death Plot Uncovered

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A Communist agent suspected of plotting to kill U.S. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara on his arrival Tuesday leaped from a window at police headquarters today, police said.

The agent, identified as Nguyen Van Troi, leaped from a second-floor window, landed on a jeep, suffered a broken leg and was hospitalized. Police said he was in a coma.

Troi was one of three suspected Communist Viet Cong agents picked up Saturday night as they tried to mine a bridge on the route McNamara will take from Saigon airport into the capital. U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge was expected to be riding with McNamara.

OTHERS JAILED—Several other Viet Cong suspects have been picked up. A quantity of high explosives has been unearthed since the arrest of the three, police sources said.

The Viet Cong agents confessed they planned to blow up the bridge. One of the agents was caught laying a wire under the bridge. He led police to the two other agents and a mine with an explosive charge hidden in an old kerosene can buried in the mudbank of the river. U.S. officials did not say whether alternate plans had been made for McNamara's arrival.

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor,

chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, arrived without incident today to join with McNamara in conferences on the war against the Communist guerrillas.

"I have come here to get a sense of reality about the situation here," Taylor said. "That is the same reason McNamara is coming, too."

Taylor, who accompanied McNamara on previous visits, said officials in Washington were encouraged by the steps under taken by Premier Nguyen Kha but he added it was too early for "comparative statements."

SITUATION

"Don't be surprised if we are back here every couple of months," Taylor said. "We get regular analyses of the Viet Nam situation in Washington but we need to update them."

McNamara, who was winding up a visit to West Germany Sunday, showed no concern about the alleged plot.

"You can say that I have no comment to make, absolutely no comment," he told reporters in Bonn.

Reliable sources said a Vietnamese policeman happened on the plot about 10 p.m. Saturday when he spotted an underwater swimmer near the bridge. The swimmer and two other men in the area were arrested.

One was in a public lavatory near the bridge and about 150 yards of wire trailed out of the structure. Police dug up 50 pounds of explosives in a kerosene can in a mudbank.

CONFESSED

The informants said the three men—two of them Viet Cong agents and the third a "strong suspect"—confessed to the plot during a night of interrogation.

Their leader, who fled, had intended to set off the explosive from the lavatory as the McNamara motorcade passed, they said.

Curious aspects of the incident prompted questions by some Western sources. They questioned why the wire had been laid two days in advance, thereby increasing the risk of discovery.

Others suggested opponents of Khanh may have been trying to scare off McNamara rather than assassinate him. One of the defense secretary's objectives is to strengthen the Khanh regime.

Khanh's opponents received a rebuke Sunday from the Buddhist Association of South Viet Nam in a declaration of support for the strongman-premier.

U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk opened a diplomatic drive for Western support for the South Vietnamese government on his arrival in the Hague Sunday for the meeting of foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. The initial response was not encouraging.

Town Saluted For Comeback

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department today cited the South Missouri Ozark mountain town of Ava as a rural community which has refused to die.

Agricultural technology had been driving farmers around Ava off the land, and they migrated to other areas, largely to the cities. As a consequence, business in Ava suffered and it began to lose many of its residents.

But in 1955, Ava leaders decided to see what they could do to keep their community from becoming a ghost town. Acting under guidance of the department's rural areas development program, they organized an industrial development corporation.

The Ava leaders raised $24,000 to buy land for an industrial park and persuaded the state to build a highway through the area. This encouraged a sporting goods manufacturer to locate a plant there. Ava built a building to house the manufacturing unit. Since then the manufacturer has erected a new $270,000 plant.

A wood treatment concern was persuaded to put a plant at Ava. It now plans to double its output.

The community built a new $350,000 school. It constructed permanent concrete bleachers and lighted the town's ball park for recreational use. It expanded the community's water and sewer system.

Nikita Backs Jordan In River Waters Tiff

CAIRO (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev gave his support to the Arab world today in its opposition to diversion of the Jordan River waters by Israel.

Speaking to the United Arab Republic's one-party National Assembly, Khrushchev said Israel planned to "rob the Arab world of its own water."

Khrushchev called on Israel to implement U.N. resolutions on Palestine, which would reduce Israel's present frontiers.

The assembly rose en masse in boisterous cheering at Khrushchev's new declaration of support for the Arabs.

The Israelis have announced that some time this summer they will begin diverting waters of the Jordan to irrigate the Negev Desert. The Arabs have threatened counter action to cut off the headquarters of the Jordan.

The 70-year-old premier also assailed British occupation of military bases in Cyprus and Aden. His government supports the "just and reasonable" demands of local populations for the evacuation of these and all other foreign bases, the Soviet leader said.

"The presence of foreign armies is the source of danger, tension and disputes between countries," Khrushchev added.

He denied that there was any contradiction between the Soviet Union's stated policy of seeking international understanding and its shipments of arms to foreign trouble spots.

"It is true that we give arms for the struggle against imperialism and for the sacred struggle of national liberation," he said. "Our armaments will always be available for peoples seeking self-determination."

The 360 members of the assembly cheered and applauded throughout the speech, which Khrushchev delivered in Russian. It was translated into Arabic by a Soviet interpreter.

Wallace Invades Tense Maryland After Protests

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace carries with a 100-man battalion alerted last week by the Maryland primary campaign to this racially divided city today on the heels of a noisy, stone-throwing Negro demonstration Sunday night.

The Alabama Democrat is scheduled to speak tonight to the Dorchester Business and Citizens Association, the group behind the referendum defeat last Oct. 1 of a Cambridge equal accommodations law.

About 50 youthful Negroes paraded singing through the streets of the Negro section Sunday night, tossing firecrackers and stones in apparent protest to the governor's scheduled appearance.

A brick smashed through the window of the home of Edith Jolley, principal of the Negro high school.

"It was like a Negro spiritual Sunday revival," said the National Guard commander, Maj. Bernard Feingold. "But it was a little late in the evening for it."

Only 10 guardsmen were in town for Sunday night's spontaneous, outburst but plans hours before Wallace was to speak. Mrs. Richardson promised National Guard officials there would be no demonstrations.

A spokesman for Wallace confirmed today that the Alabama governor still planned to speak in Cambridge tonight.

"We have our own security forces to handle these things," he said, "but we certainly don't want to get involved in anything like that. As a matter of fact, we'd run a country mile to avoid it."

Wallace said Sunday on two taped television programs aired in Washington, D.C., that he would count as a victory anything from 5 per cent up, that he gets in the Maryland primary.

His opponent, Sen. Daniel B. Brewster, D-Md., favorite-son stand-in for President Johnson, said on a later television show, however, that he did not believe Maryland voters "will ever turn to the advocates of intolerance and bigotry and bias and all the things that this guy Wallace stands for."

Arias Leads Panama Vote

PANAMA (AP) — Former President Arnulfo Arias took an expected slight lead today in fragmentary returns from Panama's presidential election. The tedious ballot counting may not produce the winner until Wednesday.

Early returns from Panama City precincts gave the 63-year-old American-educated surgeon a steady lead over the government coalition candidate, Marco A. Robles, 58.

The ultimate question is whether Arias will be permitted to take the presidency if he wins. He was elected president in 1940 and 1948. Each time he was ousted by a coup after serving less than three years.

Close Call For Actor Sinatra

LIHUE, Kauai (AP)—Entertainer Frank Sinatra planned to return to work today directing and starring in his new film, apparently suffering no ill-effects from his near drowning on Kauai Island.

Sinatra was rescued Sunday after an undertow swept him seaward. Although exhausted, Sinatra was not harmed, a physician reported.

The movie company's publicist, Harry Friedman, said Sinatra insisted he continue filming today in spite of the incident. Sinatra is making the movie, "None But the Brave"—on Kauai.

Mrs. Howard Koch, the wife of Sinatra's executive producer, also had to be rescued. Sinatra and Mrs. Koch were swimming near Sinatra's rented cottage, close to the Coco Palms Hotel on the east coast of the island, which is about 100 miles from Honolulu on Oahu Island.

A big wave dragged the two out to sea. Sinatra was pulled further out than Mrs. Koch, according to Friedman, who estimated the distance at 200 yards.

Although considered a fairly good swimmer, Sinatra could not return to shore, Friedman said. Someone at the nearby hotel called the Kapaa fire station.

Brad Dexter, an actor, swam out to Sinatra but could not bring him in.

Harold Jim, assistant manager of the Coco Palms, and Louis Gonsalves Jr., a Kauai County official, swam out and took over for Dexter, who returned to shore, police said.

Alfred O. Giles, manager of the Hawaiian Fruit Packing Co. and Sinatra's next door neighbor, hearing a call for help, went into the ocean on his surfboard. Jim and Gonsalves put Sinatra on Giles' board.

The three made several attempts to get Sinatra back through the fast, choppy surf but failed, police said.

Firemen arrived and one of them, Theodore Williams, swam out with a floatline—a rope with a cork—and brought Mrs. Koch to shore.

A rope was thrown to the men and firemen pulled them to shore.

Sees Cubans With A-Bomb

HOUSTON (AP)—Communist China will have the atomic bomb within a year, making the "seemingly endless" disarmament talks increasingly important, an Associated Press executive says.

"Unless we decide what is going to be done, we risk our children and their children's future," Stanley Swinton, director of world services for The AP, said Sunday.

"We are going to have a proliferation of atomic weapons in a short time," he said. "Once the atomic bomb is spread around, our control of the major powers is gone."

Swinton, assistant general manager of The Associated Press, spoke at a seminar sponsored by the Texas Daily Newspaper Publishers Association.

He said China and Russia are in a "fundamental conflict" and Russia's attitude toward the West has changed. "It might be to our advantage to take this opportunity," he said.

Turning to Latin America, he said by the year 2,000 that part of the globe will have a population of 600 million, will be a world problem and will be in the global picture as much as Russia and China are now.

Word 'Shot' Rings Clear In Recording

CONCORD, Calif. (AP) — "Shot," the one clear word from an airliner before it crashed, has top-level investigators probing for clues to the death of 44 aboard, one of them a passenger, informed sources said. Carried a new insurance policy and a gun.

Twenty-five Civil Aeronautics Board officials sought to learn if the diving crash Thursday was caused by any physical incapacity of the crew.

A force of FBI men probed the possibility of crime aboard the plane.

Neither agency would comment while the investigation was under way. There were these developments:

1. The CAB played for newsmen a tape recording of a garbled radio transmission from the pilot's compartment of the Pacific Air Lines Fairchild F27 moments before it plunged nose first into the green hills near here on a flight from Reno to San Francisco.

Some heard the lines as: "I've been shot! I've been shot! Oh my God, help!" Others didn't hear it that way. But all agreed they heard the word "shot."

2. Washington sources said the FBI established that a revolver found in the wreckage had been fired six times. The sources said also the FBI had traced ownership of the .357 Smith & Wesson magnum revolver to Frank Gonzalez, 27, of San Francisco, an expert at crewing a yacht as a pastime, a sometimes waiter, and recently a warehouseman.

Gonzalez, a member of the Philippine yachting team in the 1960 Olympics, had been living in San Francisco.

You'd Better Believe The Sign

An airliner swoops low over the stretch of George Washington Memorial Parkway near Washington National Airport for a landing. Park police erected the sign to warn motorists of the planes after a motorist, in the morning rush hour traffic, was alarmed by the descent of a plane and slowed almost to a stop. A five-car chain reaction accident ensued. The airport's main runway is closed for resurfacing and improvements and planes using a shorter runway near the parkway, have to touch down near the airport boundary. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Space Expert Eyes Using ESP For Communications

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A space psychologist declared today that scientists must explore extra sensory perception—ESP—or other mental processes as a means of communicating with future astronauts who voyage millions of miles from earth.

Everett F. Dagle, chief of data sciences for the Air Force Cambridge Research Laboratories, told the 35th annual meeting of the Aerospace Medical Association that the research may produce nothing.

However, he said: "not only do we have a scientific responsibility for doing this research, we also have a moral responsibility for doing so, even in the face of strong ultraconservative opposition."

Dagle noted that there have been hundreds of examples of extra sensory perception reported, involving mental contact between persons far apart, clairvoyance or precognition of events to come. He conceded none have been explained satisfactorily on a scientific basis.

Dagle said that neither the United States nor the Soviet Union has yet put a man in true space.

"While it is true that impressive orbital flights have been made by American and Soviet astronauts," he said, "it must be realized that as they went spinning around they still had visual reference to mother earth below them and they still were tied to her gravitational apron strings."

Tornadoes, Hail, Rains Bounce Over Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Four confirmed tornadoes, seven other reports of funnels, severe thunderstorms, high winds, hail and heavy rainstorms gave Oklahomans a massive dose of bad weather Sunday.

Three persons were killed in a collision near McAlester in a blinding rainstorm. Another man died when his car skidded on wet pavement and collided with a second car near Bristow.

A tornado near Tahlequah knocked out power briefly, took the top off a store, set a small building down in the middle of a country road and unroofed a church. No injuries were reported.

Other confirmed tornadoes turned up near Stroud and Guymon, but they went back into the clouds without doing any damage.

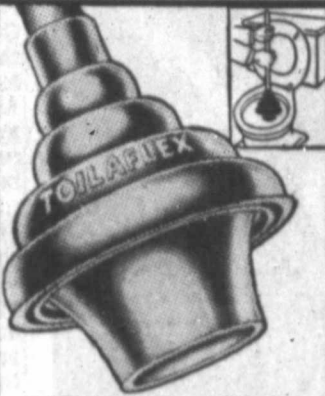

A tornado at Fort Cobb Lake unroofed some cabins, turned over trailer houses and capsized boats.

Four funnels were reported in Southern Oklahoma City, two near Fort Cobb and one in the Okemah area, but none of these was confirmed.

Strong winds lashed Oklahoma City, Del City and Enid. Winds to 71 miles per hour were reported in a rain and hail storm at Will Rogers Airport.

Three persons were injured when a two-by-four blew off the roof of a house in Oklahoma City and went through a car windshield. A Del City girl was

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:

♠ A Q 9 4 CA 10 6 5 3 2 AJ 10 9 5

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1♠ Pass 1♥ Pass

1♠ Pass 2♥ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Five hearts. A mere raise to four hearts would not be adequate. Up to this point you have not indicated that you have a hand of ever minimum values. The sequence, one club, one heart, one spade, may be made on a rock bottom minimum. When partner jumps, you should do more than make a forced raise. With two hearts and two diamonds, four hearts would be the proper call. The recommended sequence describes a singleton in the fourth suit.

Q. 2—As South you hold:

♠ A Q 6 5 AQJ 4 3 KQJ 10 7 6 5

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1♠ 3♠ Pass Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Double. The appropriate way to show the strength of this hand is not by a reverse bid of three hearts or a jump bid in diamonds, either of which shows a strong hand, but neither of which allows for the possibility of your partner having a spade suit.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

♠ A Q J 6 4 3 K 9 2 4 A K 4 3 K 5

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

Pass Pass 1♠ Pass

3♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Despite partner's previous pass, the prospects for a slam are extremely bright. It is almost inconceivable that partner is aceless, but if you have any queens you may try it out with Blackwood, or at least bid four diamonds to observe partner's reactions. For a mere bid of four spades, a glaring demerit is in order.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

♠ J 10 9 7 4 2 10 8 3 4 A 4 4 6

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1♠ 3♠ Pass Pass

Double Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Four spades. Your hand has assumed great proportions now that partner has made a take-out double at the level of three. A bid of only three spades would indicate a game.

forced response and would almost surely be passed by partner.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

♠ K Q J 5 4 A Q 10 9 8 7 4 3 2

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1♠ Pass 1♥ 2♠

What do you bid now?

A.—Two spades. This hand is, perhaps, a shade light for a reverse bid but we consider it proper procedure in order to guard against being shut out of the spade suit. Partner should realize that you opened with one diamond in anticipation of rebidding one spade over a possible heart response and developments have put you in position where you must make a slightly aggressive bid.

Q. 6—With 60 part score your partner opens one club. You hold:

♠ K 6 4 3 K Q J 10 5 4 A 6 3 2 7

What is your response?

A.—One heart. A jump shift is not recommended at this point. It is better to get in one free round of bidding which may permit a better basis for the decision on the next round. True enough, a jump shift would be forcing the it completes the game. Nevertheless, with a partner of uncertain quality, the safe procedure is to bid one heart which even the most timid player will not pass.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

♠ K J 6 5 3 2 8 7 4 3 2 K Q 6 5

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

What do you bid now?

A.—One spade. The jump shift is not indicated if you passed an optional opening. If partner has some shaded third hand opening with nothing in spades, you do not wish to apply the pressure if he has a sound hand he will bid again and then will come your try for game.

Q. 8—As South you hold:

♠ 9 5 4 3 2 4 A J 4 A K 9 7 6

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1♠ Pass 2♠ Pass

2♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three diamonds. This is not intended as an ace showing bid. Actually we are deliberately deceiving partner into believing we have a diamond suit so that he might contract for game in no trump if he holds the protection in hearts. Since we have the equivalent of an opening bid and partner has opened, there should be a game.

Booster Rockets Jet Apart

Small clusters of solid-propellant retrorockets are expected to separate 250-ton booster units from the Air Force Titan III-C space vehicle when the additional thrust has been spent. Artist's drawing, released by United Technology Center of Sunnyvale, Calif., producer of the retrorockets, shows how the separation should take place, far above the earth's surface. UTC is already making the massive booster rockets which, used in pairs, will give the Titan III-C a lift-off thrust of more than two million pounds. (AP WIRE-PHOTO)

Family Found Murdered; Suspect Believed Drowned

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — Five persons, including three children, were found murdered Sunday and police said a 54-year-old Boise man wanted for questioning in the slayings was presumed drowned. A patrolman spotted a motorist officers believe to be Raymond A. Reasons acting suspiciously and chased his car until it plunged into a canal. The man escaped the vehicle, but police said he apparently was pulled under water in the canal.

Three of the victims were his children, one was a stepdaughter, and the fifth was his former wife whose body was found in the car.

The search for the bodies began when Mrs. Edna Reasons, the estranged wife of Reasons, told police her husband had called and told her he had killed the children — Eddie Ray Reasons, 13, Pamela, 11, and Patty, 10, and Reasons' stepdaughter, Sally Gohman, about 20. They were found in Reasons' house.

Porter Cancels Civil Docket

A civil jury docket scheduled for Howard County court this week has been cancelled, Judge Lee Porter announced.

Three civil cases had been scheduled for trial he said. Two of these could not be tried this week. He decided it was not wise to summon a jury panel for one case so he cancelled the docket.

The cases, he said, will be reset later.

Cotton Plan Discussion Set

An educational meeting, at which the 1964 cotton plan will be explained, is to be held in the Science Building of Howard County Junior College at 5 p.m. Thursday. The entire cotton program will be discussed. A period in which questions will be answered is also planned.

Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee secretary, Gabe Hammack, and the district farmer field man, Roy Dycus, Lamesa, with Herb Helbig, county agent, will conduct the meeting.

Hammack recommended that all farmers who plan appeals to the county committee on production for 1961, 1962 and 1963 take action immediately. Deadline for formally entering notice of such appeals is 5 p.m. Thursday.

Hammack said there are 755 cotton farms in the county.

Kermit Student Wins Honors

BALTIMORE, Md. — Donald Lee Jones, who is a senior high school student at Kermit High School, Kermit, Texas, has won high national honors at the National Science Fair — International now being held at Baltimore, Md.

He received the Meritorious Achievement Award of the American Veterinary Medical Association for his exhibit "Sequential Replication of Chromosomes" at a Health Awards banquet sponsored jointly by the AVMA, the American Medical Association, the American Dental Association, and the American Pharmaceutical Association.

More than 1,400 science fair finalists and science teachers attended the Banquet in the Civic Center in Baltimore.

Vigorous Hoover In Fifth Decade

WASHINGTON (AP) — With much of the vigor and enthusiasm of a rookie policeman, J. Edgar Hoover set out today on his fifth decade as chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Characteristically, he warned Americans in plain language that their morals are sagging, issued once more his stern caveat against Communist infiltration, and staunchly defended his FBI's performance in the civil rights field.

Hoover, 69, said he hasn't even considered retiring. "My desire is to continue to serve the American people to the best of my ability as long as I am needed," he said. President Johnson has waived for his old friend a requirement that he retire at 70.

IN WRITING
The chief of the nation's 6,000 G-men offered his views on these and other matters in written replies to questions by The Associated Press. He has shied away from direct interviews in recent years and sharply curtailed his public appearances.

But a social visit of more than an hour with Hoover last week showed him to be in fine fettle — vigorous, candid, amiable and apparently in good health. His associates report that he is still very much in direct charge of the FBI.

Asked to describe a typical day, Hoover replied, "There is no typical day in the FBI — the nature of our duties does not lend itself to routine. If there is anything that could be called typical about every day in the FBI, it is my practice of closely following every important matter being handled by this bureau to insure that each is receiving the proper attention."

CRIME RATE
Here are some of Hoover's thoughts as he begins his 41st year as FBI director:

—Rising crime rate: The causes are "parental neglect, a growing insensitivity to the difference between right and wrong, the coddling of criminals and public indifference," he said.

"We seem to be witnessing a moral deterioration in our population," Hoover said. "It is apparent in the actions of those who are willing to compromise their ideals if an easy dollar can be made, and it can be seen in everyday life where a citizen will obey the law himself, but will also passively tolerate immorality and disrespect for authority within his own community."

LIVE WITH IT
Crime will continue to flourish, he added, "as long as people believe it cannot be eliminated and that we should seek ways to live with it."

—Communism in the United States: Hoover restated the warning he gave Congress last winter that Communists are attempting to subvert the civil rights movement and "enjoying a measure of success."

Their goal, he said, is "to manipulate it and control it for the sole benefit of Communist objectives. No one will win if the Communists are successful in turning the legitimate grievances of our Negro citizens into a debilitating class struggle."

Hoover said the party continues to enjoy success with American youth. He reported that next month, U.S. Communists hope to launch "a new Marxist-oriented youth organization — not publicly identified as a party group but (which) will operate as a front."

RESPONSIBLE
—Presidential security: He said it would be presumptuous to offer suggestions in this field since the Secret Service is responsible for guarding the President.

—Organized crime: "People have got to realize that if they deal with illegal gamblers, smut peddlers and other merchants of the underworld, they are helping to support the crime complex," Hoover said.

—Civil rights investigation: Asked about some complaints that the FBI has been dragging its feet in probing racial matters such as bombing, Hoover said such complaints frequently stem from a lack of knowledge of the FBI's jurisdiction in the civil rights field. "This bureau neither exceeds its authority nor does it shirk its responsibilities."

"The FBI's investigations in civil rights matters, and in all other investigations are conducted promptly, thoroughly and objectively. We do it with com-

Dear Abby

The Expert
Outdoor Chef

DEAR ABBY: Summer is just around the corner and with it will come a problem that I have battled for the last four summers. My husband fancies himself an expert barbecue cook. He thinks he knows all there is to know about barbecuing and the results are disastrous! He never asks anyone how they like their steaks or hamburgers done, but proceeds to burn everything until it's dry and tough because that's the way HE likes his. He gets so mean and stubborn when he puts that apron on that nobody can tell him anything. I love the delicious taste of outdoor barbecued meats that cannot be duplicated in the kitchen. Any helpful ideas to solve my problem would be appreciated.

RAGGED EDGE
DEAR ABBY: Sorry, but you are fighting a losing battle. There is nothing as impossible as a man who thinks he can barbecue. Pray for a short and rainy summer. And forget the "delicious taste of outdoor barbecued meats." It's not worth it.

DEAR ABBY: I understand that the bride has the say when it comes to the wedding, but what is the proper procedure when the groom's father is a minister (of the same faith) but lives in a distant town? If the bride asks her future father-in-law to perform the ceremony, what about her local minister? If she asks her own minister to officiate, what about the groom's father? Weddings can be difficult. Thank goodness I am the mother of only—

ONE DAUGHTER
DEAR ABBY: Let the bride have her say. A minister who would resent it is a poor minister.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I haven't been getting along too well for quite some time. When he goes to work, he calls me all day to make sure I'm home. He's so jealous it's sickening. I get one hour a week for shopping. (At night.) He says there's too much cheating going on in the world and he doesn't want it to happen to us. Abby, I've been so bored and lonely for so long that when this young man spoke to me (on my hour out) I couldn't help myself. He's been coming to my house while my husband works, and I've never been happier. This other man is not married and he loves kids. (I have one). He wants to marry me. I am under 25 and have my whole life ahead of me. I can't get a personal reply as my husband picks up the mail, so answer this in the paper. I can always deny it's me. What should I do?

WANTS A CHANGE
DEAR WANTS: Stick with the man you're married to. He has his faults, but at least you know what they are. The new Romeo may provide a new thrill, but that will wear off, too, eventually. The one thing you can be sure of insofar as the new flame is concerned is that he sneeds his afternoons with married women while their husbands work. Is THAT the kind of husband you want? Think it over.

Get it off your chest. For a personal, unpublished reply, write to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

A Devotional For The Day

Truly the light is sweet, and a pleasant thing it is for the eyes to behold the sun. (Ecclesiastes 11:7.)

PRAYER: Dear Lord and Father of us all, we ask that Thou wilt cleanse from our hearts and lives every trace of sin that might dim or shadow the pure light of Thy love. Shine through us and be a blessing to those about us who are seeking Thee. For the Master's sake. Amen.

(From the "Upper Room")

Agricultural Outlook Better

Our agricultural outlook, and thus our general outlook, has been immeasurably improved by the show-ers of last week. Perhaps 50,000 or more acres will be planted as a result of them. And perhaps in the good providence of God, there will be other showers to follow.

It is natural to grow uneasy at this season of the year when planting season is lacking. Yet it is not uncommon for us to face this situation, and we should be reminded that after all the ideal time for planting in this country is between May 15 and June 1.

Even then, there are two or three weeks of grace before time grows extremely marginal. So we have another month in which we can still plant under more or less optimum conditions.

Meanwhile, the crops in the ground as a result of last week's rains represent a good start. They represent hope, for in this country our annual crop adventure can't even start until we get those planting rains. From that moment on we have a fighting chance, and this is about all West Texans ask.

One Of Greatest Assets

Soil Stewardship Week calls to mind the incalculably rich asset we have in the soils of this area. Because our agricultural fortunes so often are geared to the supply of moisture, we are prone to forget that the basic resource is soil.

Our region has been abundantly blessed, but its soils are not beyond harm or dissipation. This wonderfully productive land has been millions — and perhaps billions — of years in the making, and to permit it to be abused and depleted is to violate an almost sacred trust. Next to human life and rights, the protection of our land should rank close to the top of our concerns.

Many things will come and go — including moisture which enables the land to give up its riches — but so long as we mother the soil itself, shield it from wind and water erosion and from rank misuse and abuse, we may count on reasonable stability and prosperity.

Constitutional Amendment On Prayer

WASHINGTON—A unique idea has come from the chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, Rep. Emanuel Celler of New York, Democrat. He has suggested that maybe the House and Senate should pass a joint resolution "advising" the Supreme Court of the United States that Congress is in favor of voluntary worship in public schools, and calling for an affirmation of that principle by the Court.

Lots of people for years have tried to "advise" the Supreme Court, but to no avail. The members of the Court, who are appointed for life, can make any rulings they please, and the only recourse is to adopt a constitutional amendment to reverse any decision of which the people disapprove.

ACTUALLY, there have been many drafts of a new amendment to the Constitution on the question of prayer in the schools, but there are some people in Congress who feel that maybe the problem can be solved another way. Rep. Celler, for example, points to a case in the federal court in New York which upheld voluntary worship, and he says maybe the Supreme Court will uphold this concept before long.

Meanwhile, those who favor a constitutional amendment are convinced that nothing is going to be done by the Supreme Court, and that the only way out is to adopt a new amendment.

THE SITUATION has been pointedly summed up by Dr. Charles Wesley Lowry, an Episcopal minister who now is president of the Foundation for Religious Action in the Social and Civil Order. It was in questioning Dr. Lowry that Chairman Celler of the House Judiciary Committee suggested a joint resolution to "advise" the Supreme Court. Dr. Lowry nevertheless stood by his testimony, as follows:

"The years 1962 and 1963 will appear to posterity as years of revolution in the relations of church and state, religion and government in the United States. . . .

"THE FIRST STAGE was the decision which struck down the nonsectarian New York school prayer. As this prayer had been uniquely an interfaith effort, developed by and under Catholic, Protestant and Jewish leaders, its demolition created a furor. There was a tremendous outburst of indignation throughout the country. The great power elites of our society were aroused nearly as much as the plain people. For example, his eminence Francis Cardinal Spellman denounced the decision in no uncertain terms. The eminent Protestant theologian, Dr. Reinhold Niebuhr, criticized it in the pages of 'The New Leader.' . . .

"THE ATMOSPHERE also in both houses of Congress was very heated. The most outspoken alarm and anger were voiced. The Senate Committee on the Judiciary proceeded almost immediately to hold hearings, which were published in a voluminous and informative volume. . . .

"Then it was, Mr. Chairman, the something quite singular occurred. A combination educational and public relations campaign was initiated, aimed at explaining the Court, smoothing down the ruffled feathers of the Congress, quieting the fears of the people, developing support for an extreme liberal outlook on issues of religion in the public schools, and generally preparing Americans for a further and more decisive action by the highest court.

"MEMBERS OF the Supreme Court themselves got into action to explain their decision—in itself an unusual act. They were joined by various eminent Protestant clergymen, some as individual voices, others in concert. Many leaders, civic leaders, publicists, and academicians as well as clergy of the major faiths, were drawn into the picture. By the early spring of 1963, when the Supreme Court heard new cases involving the Lord's Prayer and Bible-reading in public schools it was evident that a far-ranging and concerted movement, involving influential elements of key power structures in the country, was in full swing and that its weight was being directed to prepare and condition the American people for still more definitive and sweeping development.

"THE SEQUEL, we all know. In June 1963, the highest court again struck and struck hard. This time there was no technicality available about state officials having composed a prayer or usurping the role of a church. But this lack did not stay the reformatory broom of the justices. They again invoked the no-establishment clause and forbade as prohibited religious exercises saying the Lord's Prayer and reading from the Bible. . . .

"SO WE CAME BACK to the remedy of a constitutional amendment. I was originally reluctant to resort to it, because I am such a believer in the Constitution as we have known it. . . . I am, however, now persuaded that an amendment is the only sure, clear, and definite answer. Without such an antidote, the present confusion and cross purposes among our people will increase. Ahead on this course lie treacherous morasses and beyond this an unfathomable abyss. In addition, I am persuaded that intolerance in our country is on the upgrade and I would like to see this quieted by the application of proper remedies rather than allowed to fester and become more inflamed."

Billy Graham

I joined the church a few weeks ago, but I don't see any difference in my disposition or character. I am very much the same person. I have heard you say that Christ gives a new joy, a new spring in your step. I must admit that I have not experienced such things. What is wrong?

II. Charles F. Kettering once said: "You can't buy a fiddle today, and expect to give a concert in Carnegie Hall tomorrow." You must make sure that you, not only joined the church, but that you accepted Christ for all that He said He would be. He talked of the New Birth, and when He comes into our hearts, He brings a new life. An infant has life; as much life as an older person. But that doesn't mean that an infant can pour concrete or run the mile in the Olympic games. He may do those things someday, but though he has life, he doesn't have adult life yet.

So it is with you. It takes a lot of prayers to make a devout Christian; and a lot of self-discipline, a lot of absorbing the Word of God, and a lot of sharing your love with others. An acorn doesn't become a mighty oak overnight. If you have taken Christ into your heart, you have begun to be what He wants you to be. But don't become impatient with the Divine process. Say with the song:

"Have thine own way, Lord, Have thine own way, Thou art the Potter, I am the clay."

Integration Door Opens Only Very Slowly

WASHINGTON (AP)—For three centuries American Negroes had been waiting at the gate that kept them in the Jim Crow cellar of American life. Then on May 17, 1954 the Supreme Court unlocked it for them.

That was 10 years ago but Negroes have been able to push it open only very slowly.

On that far-reaching day in May the court said public school segregation because of a child's race was wrong, that it meant unequal treatment and was therefore unconstitutional. But the ruling really went far beyond schools.

FOR IN EFFECT the court said the very principle of segregation is wrong, which meant from then on Negroes could fight with confidence against all forms of segregation and discrimination in public places.

They have been fighting since. And many white people — including the clergy — who had no racial prejudice but had sat idly by through the decades until 1954 have joined them in the struggle.

But prejudiced whites are an obstinate army who never really believed the Declaration of Independence which said all men are created equal and have tried to ignore or defy the court in preserving segregation and discrimination.

EVEN SOME white Christian churches still refuse to let Negroes in. And Negroes are discovering, if they doubted it, that the South has no monopoly on prejudice. They have found it intensely against them in the North, too.

Negroes, with increasing confidence and swelling numbers, have sought to batter down the barriers in a thousand places, a hundred ways. North and South through sit-ins, lie-downs, marches, freedom rides, demonstrations and court fights against discrimination in voting, restaurants, schools, housing, unions.

AS THE struggle grows, so does violence, which causes national concern.

Thomas Jefferson, who wrote the Declaration of Independence in 1776 and had slaves but sought to end slavery, also had concerns about the future when he thought about the condition of the Negro in America.

He said: "I tremble for my country when I reflect that God is just."

If it had not been for that court decision of 10 years ago the American Negro might still be suffering discrimination in comparative silence for the law — or the court's interpretation of the law — was against him.

The real march began in the 1930s when the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People decided on a strategy which was crowned with the final triumph of 1954.

THIS WAS the strategy: Bit by bit, case by case, fight all the way up to the Supreme Court specific cases of discrimination, like segregation of Negroes on buses, trains, in graduate schools. They won case after case but never total victory.

In each specific case the court might say the segregation practiced was wrong without ruling out the principle of segregation. That finally came 10 years ago, thus wiping out completely the decision of 1896.

Negro agitation will increase this summer and even if Congress approves the kind of civil rights bill the Negroes want it will still be, as their leadership has said, only a part of what they feel is their due.

Outsiders Hold Top Jobs

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Of interest to World's Fair visitors: Only 19 per cent of the 1½ million people who work in mid-Manhattan live outside the city, but they hold 36 per cent of the top executive, administrative and professional jobs.

ALICE RAMSEY, credited with being the first woman to drive across the United States, steered her way from here to San Francisco with three women companions in 1909 in a Maxwell. It took them 35 days.

Humane society officials estimate that more than 100,000 homeless cats and 75,000 dogs die each year of exposure or starvation in New York City.

Quotable notables: "Nothing is a waste of time if you use the experience wisely" — Augustine Rodin.

JOURNALISM is a risky occupation in China. Its oldest newspaper is over a thousand years old, and it is reported that during that time 800 of its editors lost their heads for criticizing authorities.

The word blackmail literally means "black rent." Along the Scottish border in olden times, farmers paid cattle in tribute to outlaws to be left safe from pillage. If they paid in silver rather than in cattle, this was known as "whitemail."

Quips from our contemporaries: "Too often a man keeps his nose to the grindstone just so his wife can turn her up at the neighbors" — Kiwanis magazine.

DESPITE THE tremendous increase in automobile traffic, pedestrian deaths have been cut nearly in half during the last quarter of a century. They dropped from a record 15,500 fatalities in 1937 to 8,200 last year.

Folklore: The two best good luck coins are a $5 gold piece or a bright new penny. If a squirrel crosses your path, you will have good luck if he ran to the right, bad luck if he ran to the left. When a friend leaves, never turn and watch him go out of sight, for if you do you will never see him again.

WORTH remembering: "Cheer up! These may be the old days you'll be sighing for 20 years hence" — Arnold Glasgow.

Twice as many Americans attend concerts or recitals as go to major league baseball games. And we have at least as many amateur painters as we do people who take out hunting licenses.

To Your Good Health

Forgetfulness Not Necessarily Due To Old Age

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D., Dear Doctor: What can be done about my mother who lives with us? She is 74 and doesn't seem to remember anything we tell her, although she recalls all sorts of details about things that happened when she was a little girl. —B.C.

There, isn't too much I can suggest except that you be watchful of her general health and that you be patient. An older person doesn't forget on purpose.

There isn't any medicine to restore the memory. There isn't any diet that will bring it back. I am pleased to read now that Irene Hulicka, a psychologist at the State University of New York in Buffalo, is making a study of old people's memories.

Already Dr. Hulicka has doubts that age itself means that the memory is bound to fail. She has done experiments with people as old as 80 which indicates that they can remember as well as young ones.

Falling general health, however, and certainly brain damage, can cause lapses of memory, and by and large this loss is noticed more among invalids. It could be, she suggests (and it sounds most logical), that damage to the brain may be somewhat more likely in advanced age. This is true of health problems in general.

Old people may not see or hear very well. They may not be interested in some things which no longer seem important to them. So before you jump to the conclusion that someone "forgets" just because of advancing years, make sure that the person sees, hears, and pays attention to whatever ought to be remembered.

Where actual brain damage has occurred, be understanding.

We don't become impatient with an older person with a broken hip because he doesn't walk. We shouldn't become impatient if the injury has been to the brain instead, and the older person is genuinely unable to remember.

Diverticulosis is a bulge in the digestive tract. To become more familiar with the subject, write in care of the Herald for my booklet, "Don't Let Diverticulosis Throw You," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim

Moonshining Has Its Troubles

Time was when a little bathtub home brew was turned out in this area from time to time but outdoor stills for making the potable mountain dew were always rare — mainly because we have few mountains and fewer trees.

It's getting tougher and tougher to make a dishonest dollar at bootlegging all over the country, I'm told. The government boys are getting smarter about seeking out such industries and the high cost of equipment is sending a lot of the moonshiners into retirement.

IT'S COME to the point where the little bootlegger has got to think big in order to stay in business. That means he's got to ferment his ingredients faster, accelerate his selling rate and spread out. When that happens, he's asking for a visit from John Law.

There'll always be illegal booze to be had — some customers prefer to drink the white lightning rather than the proven spirits one can buy at any package store.

BUT THE moonshiner with any sort of market at all has to have help to turn out his goods and the hired hands don't work for peanuts anymore, although they don't demand the fringe benefits the auto workers might expect. The bootlegger used to pick up experienced help for as little as $1 a day. Now he finds he has to pay at least $1 an hour for the most slovenly of help.

The federal government takes a tax loss of about $10.50 on every gallon of illegal liquor turned out and foisted upon the public, so you can see why the revenuers take a dim view of the craftsmen who try to operate stills without legal sanction.

QUITE PROBABLY more moonshine liquor is turned out in the states of Georgia and the Carolinas than any other section of the nation. In those areas a gallon of moonshine whiskey sells for about $7.50, unless the heat is on. The price then understandably goes up, if only to buy a little protection from some of the more unscrupulous legal beagles.

Shipping costs and shipping dangers make the price shoot up. Very little of the illegal refreshment can be turned out in the city, where the law comes snooping. Mountains and thick underbrush, where the pace is unbridled, just naturally appeal more to the manufacturer.

Some of the methods the modern moonshiner uses to speed up production probably would make the consumer blanch, if he weren't so thirsty. Among items found in stills to hasten fermentation were, yep, corn middlings, chicken droppings, slightly dead dogs, snakes, fertilizer and dead rats.

What a way to go! —TOMMY HART

A Career In The Crucible

WASHINGTON — Maryland Democratic Sen. Daniel Baugh Brewster is proof to me of manhood in flower. The John Adams aphorism about our being a nation of laws and not men stops somewhere short of verity because it was men, not legislation, that won the wars, established the liberties, propagated the American race and kept the country.

It turns out that Dan Brewster has a date with political destiny on May 19th in the Maryland presidential primary, where his opponents are more formidable than is commonly known — and where his future as a national figure hangs in the balance.

BREWSTER HAS against him a "gutsy" little man whom he despises, Governor George Wallace of Alabama, the segregationist candidate for President. He also has against him, I believe, the slumbering spirit of personal liberties which got Maryland its name of the Free State. I can see more good in Wallace and his candidacy than Brewster can, and a lot of good in the Free State spirit. But I would vote for Brewster on the principle that sometimes the economics of upgrading good men in public life is the paramount issue in an election. If Brewster acquiesces himself well against Wallace, he moves up several notches in the prestige ratings of the Senate, and the public economy will be enriched as it always is when a good man scores a success.

DAN BREWSTER at 40 is a ruddy, handsome, six-footer, wealthy, blue-blooded and valiant in battles of the South Pacific. He is a little too shy as yet to be a commanding speaker, but he's loaded with the sterling qualities of idealism, noblesse oblige and he-man loyalty to causes and persons that speak to his heart.

But what he's up against in the Maryland primary, though he doesn't seem to know it, is an opponent whose convictions are as strong as his own in the opposite direction, and a regional philosophy that is subtle and stubborn. The Free State tradition in Maryland means freedom from governmental meddling in private affairs.

MARYLAND'S DISTRUST of intrusion is much less likely to assert itself against Wallace, since a presidential primary is an open invitation to outsiders, but I look for Maryland to resent the flock of fellow senators whom Brewster has imported to help him campaign: Church, Muskie, Ted Kennedy, Ribicoff, Bayh, McCarty, Inouye, Nelson, Pell and Mrs. Neuberger. Back in 1938 President Roosevelt, at the height of his popularity, campaigned in Maryland against Millard Tydings, and the state re-elected Tydings almost to spite FDR.

WITH BREWSTER, however, it is a call of conscience. Some of us would rather see him testing his career on other issues, but the career and the courage of convictions are what's important here.

"I would make this fight," he tells me, "even if I were sure to lose it." You can't find fault with a man who lays it on the line as squarely as that.

Putting Curb On The CIA

WASHINGTON — In the quiet way Washington has of reaching decisions, a major change is slowly taking place. It probably will not be affirmed until the 89th Congress is seated next January, but it is likely then.

The change will be in the organic structure of the Central Intelligence Agency.

CHANGES of emphasis in the power structure of government come slowly. They do not happen at all unless events create a climate suitable for change. Until the Bay of Pigs disaster, the CIA flourished in darkness, much like racks of runaway mushrooms in a dim basement. But beginning with the humiliating defeat the United States suffered on Cuba's coast, the climate in which the CIA had enjoyed a record-breaking proliferation began subtly to change. Criticism of the excesses of the giant espionage apparatus became more insistent — and better informed.

THE CIA's role at the Bay of Pigs is now amply documented, principally through Haynes Johnson's excellent new book. Its part in the gathering disaster in South Viet Nam is less well known, but even here the general outlines have thrust themselves uneasily into the consciousness of official Washington.

Mr. Johnson's book ("The Bay of Pigs") imputes not only ragged incompetence to the CIA, but contains charges that CIA personnel conspired in planning near-reason if President Kennedy had had the temerity to call off the invasion.

The CIA has not yet answered these shocking allegations, but again one has learned to expect a characteristic response. Among all the fictions surrounding the CIA, none is more durable or more unfounded than the one that claims the agency does not — aye, cannot — reply to criticism. That is a sick joke in Washington, as numerous bemused observers can attest. The CIA perhaps does not react forthrightly or skillfully, but it reacts sharply.

TO COUNTER charges of its headlong irresponsibility in Viet Nam, for example, the CIA hand-crafted two speeches and beseeched a brace of Senators to deliver them.

Criticism of the CIA is not a quixotic exercise of a handful of journalists. Former President Truman wrote a sternly worded polemic cautioning that the agency had strayed dangerously far afield into operational and policy-making functions, and would have to be taken in rein. Sen. Eugene McCarthy (D., Minn.), an able and respected senator with World War II intelligence experience, sounded the same warning. He urged that the agency be placed under control of a joint Congressional committee similar to the Joint Atomic Energy Committee.

SENATOR MCCARTHY is author of a resolution to create such a committee, and has also offered a resolution to establish a select committee of the Senate to investigate the need for Congressional control of the CIA.

Twelve months ago the resolutions would have been given small chance of even being enacted. But in the space of a year the capital's slow and imperfect sensory system has begun to feel growing disquiet at the heedless, powerful, intractable and unaccountable speak bureaucracy.

Ashley Sanity Trial Begins

WHARTON (AP)—Selection of a jury begins today for the sanity trial of Leslie Ashley, 26, a female impersonator whose conviction in a Houston torch murder was set aside.

Defense lawyer Lloyd Lunsford said Caroline Ann Lima, serving a prison sentence in the same case, will be among witnesses called. Counsel for Ashley contends he was insane at the time of the 1961 sex party slaying of Fred Tones, 44, and is insane now.

Dist. Atty. Frank Briscoe of Houston contends Ashley is sane and should be tried again on a murder charge. Both sides have said they will call several psychiatrists.

Ashley and Miss Lima, an admitted prostitute, drew the death sentence after a joint trial in Houston, but a federal court ordered new trials for both in 1963. It held that Briscoe should have made findings of a psychologist available to the defense.

'Where's MY NEWSPAPER'

When a newspaper is missing, more often than not, a man will say, "Where's my newspaper?" "My," not "the!" You've heard him say many times: "Now, my newspaper said . . ." "I read in my paper . . ."

A man's possessive about his newspaper. He takes pride in it. He gloats when his newspaper praises his favorite political candidate or sports team. Or, he groans when his newspaper differs with his choice of personalities or issues. He'll even write the editor when he feels strongly about a difference of opinion.

And, his wife feels just about the same. She looks forward to reading her pet features. Missing out on some ad or choice item of local news could "ruin" her shopping trip or leave her feeling left out during the chitchat over the bridge table.

Both men and women want their newspaper. In fact, they insist on it. They are sorely disappointed and disturbed when their newspaper isn't on the front step when they want it. Ask any carrier boy. He can tell you, because he hears about it if a delivery is late or missed.

This loyalty to a favorite newspaper didn't just happen. It came about because the newspaper is localized to meet a particular want and fill a definite need.

And, because the newspaper is viewed as a necessary companion and source of information, it makes a big difference in the lives of people of all ages, of all faiths and political preferences, of all levels of income and education.

Style Show Program To Mark Cotton Week

Merchandise certificates valued at more than $1,000, will be given away Thursday night in the city auditorium during a National Cotton Week style show program. Sixty-eight merchants have slips in their stores where customers may register this week.

When They Appear Work Stops

These four men, having coffee on the New York City construction site of a $25 million project, have reported for work for seven days and 41 white union plumbers on project have refused to pick up their tools. Bernard Allman, 44, second from left is a Negro, and the other three men are Puerto

Work Order Issued For Giant Toledo Bend Dam

DALLAS (AP)—A work order was issued at the Chase Manhattan Bank. The $30 million from the sale will pay half the cost of the reservoir, a joint undertaking of the two states. The rest will be financed with a $15 million grant from the state government of Louisiana and the purchase, for an identical amount, of reservoir storage space by the State of Texas. Massman & Johnson has said earthmoving for the dam will begin within a few days. The first of a million cubic yards of earth to be shifted for the 11,552 feet of the earthen embankment and saddle dike will come out of a big hole to be excavated for the power-

Oregon Vote In Spotlight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Oregon's Republican presidential primary election Friday holds the week's top political billing as a six-sided donkeybrook.

The big West Coast scrap comes after Sen. Barry Goldwater and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller cruise through a pair of uncontested GOP presidential primaries Tuesday — the Arizona senator in Nebraska, the New York governor in West Virginia.

With the Republican National Convention opening two months from Wednesday in San Francisco, an Associated Press survey now shows this lineup of first-ballot votes:

Goldwater 266
Gov. William W. Scranton 63
Henry Cabot Lodge 43
Margaret Chase Smith 14
Richard M. Nixon 7
Rockefeller 4

As favorite sons, Gov. James A. Rhodes of Ohio has 58, Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin has 30 and former Rep. Walter H. Judd of Minnesota has 6. In the uncommitted column are 210.

LESS THAN HALF
With 701 of the 1,308 delegates chosen, Goldwater now has less than half of the 653 needed for nomination.

Goldwater is the only entry in the Republican presidential preference primary in Nebraska but efforts have been made to secure write-in votes for Lodge, U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam. And a last-minute campaign for write-ins for former Vice President Nixon was announced Friday.

Rockefeller is the only candidate on the GOP preference ballot in West Virginia. There is no provision for counting write-in votes in that state.

Voters in both states also will choose delegates to the party conventions—who are not bound by the outcome of the primaries—and nominees for Senate and governor.

Also on tap Tuesday is the Rhode Island Republican convention. A nominally uncommitted slate which includes supporters of Goldwater, Rockefeller and Lodge is being pushed by Gov. John H. Chafee but there are indications Goldwater supporters will seek a delegation more strongly committed to the senator.

ON BALLOT

On Oregon's ballot Friday are Goldwater, Lodge, Rockefeller, Nixon, Gov. Scranton of Pennsylvania and Sen. Smith of Maine.

Lodge, Nixon and Scranton all have said they are not candidates for the nomination but would accept it.

The same team that helped Lodge spring a surprise victory in New Hampshire's primary two months ago has been working hard in Oregon for several weeks.

A victory by Lodge would be no surprise this time; polls have shown him leading the field for several weeks. Rockefeller and Goldwater waged strong early campaigns in Oregon but Goldwater cut back his campaigning recently.

FOR WINNER

The 18 Republican delegates chosen Friday will be bound by law to vote for the winner of the Oregon primary. President Johnson is unopposed for the 24 Democratic votes.

CONGREGATION BREAKS GROUND FOR COLLEGE BAPTIST SANCTUARY
Rev. Byron Orand and Ernest Rainey (with hard hats) turn first spades

College Baptist Members Break Ground For Addition

College Baptist Church members Sunday broke ground for their new $100,000 sanctuary. The project will result in sanctuary seating 715 people, including 126 in the balcony. It will be equipped with the latest in lighting effects and sound equipment, and there will be a new organ. The sanctuary will be furnished with carpet and cushioned pews, plus specially designed pulpit furniture. Work on the new building, facing north toward Howard County Junior College, will begin in about 20 days, the pastor, the Rev. Byron Orand, indicated. Gary and Hohertz are architects for the sanctuary, and financing of the new building is with the Big Spring Savings and Loan Association. A contract for the building is in the process of being executed.

The Rev. Orand spoke briefly on "The Challenge of Today," noting that "the beginning of the church was over 1,900 years ago with the One who said 'I will build my church.'"

The church, he added, was founded to fulfill the mission set forth by Jesus Christ to proclaim the Gospel of His kingdom in the world. Only as it is true to that holy purpose does the church have a right to exist. In keeping with the slogan, "Here We Grow Again," adopted several months ago, the pastor said that "growth is the evidence of life, and expansion the springboard of progress."

During the ceremonies, the men who serve on the building committee spoke concerning the purpose of the new building and the part it would play in the life of the church.

BROADWAY STAR DIES UNEXPECTEDLY
Singer-dancer Carol Haney of 'Pajama Game'

Carol Haney Dies At 39

NEW YORK (AP) — Carol Haney, 39, the husky-voiced singer and dancer who hit Broadway stardom in "the Pajama Game," died in a hospital here Sunday night.

Miss Haney won a place in theatrical memory with her "Steam Heat" dance number in the show which was cited as the best musical comedy of the 1953 season. Miss Haney won an award as best supporting actress in a musical.

Afterward, she concentrated primarily on choreography, although in 1959 she appeared in her first straight acting role in William Inge's "A Loss of Roses" and won good reviews.

She did the choreography for the Broadway hit "Funny Girl" which stars Barbara Streisand in a musical version of the life of Fanny Brice. Miss Haney also was choreographer for other shows, including "She Loves Me" and "The Flower Drum Song."

A spokesman at the chief medical examiner's office, in Manhattan said an autopsy was being performed to determine the cause of death.

Neither the hospital here where she died, nor the hospital in New Jersey to which she was first taken on Thursday would disclose the nature of her illness.

However, a professional associate said she had returned May 1 from working on the London version of "She Loves Me."

Host Couples

Dance Club Spring Formal Held Friday

The George Atwood Quartet furnished music for dancing Friday evening at Big Spring Country Club when the Wednesday Night Dance Club's annual spring formal was held from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m. Breakfast was served afterward.

Host couples were Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Hutto, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bloomfield, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gunning, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Currie, Mr. and Mrs. George McAllister, Mr. and Mrs. Wes Shouse, and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Saunders.

Also, Mr. and Mrs. Worth Peeler, Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Atkins, Mr. and Mrs. Kent Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bruce, Mr. and Mrs. Al Milch, Mr. and Mrs. Gil Gindgold, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Eysen, and Mr. and Mrs. John Hogg. Chairmen for the group were Dr. and Mrs. Carl Marcum.

DECORATIONS

Pastel colors were used in decorations to accent the spring theme. The focal point was the wall at the back of the bandstand which featured a large picture hat fashioned in tiers of yellow ruffled net. It was banded and bowed in orchid satin and bedecked with asters and daisies. The hors d'oeuvre table held a silver candelabrum arranged with yellow irises and pompon mums and tied with orchid streamers. Candle-lit tables were centered with pastel runners dotted with miniature hats.

In evening wear, cocktail dresses remained the favorite but dinner gowns seemed to be gaining in popularity. The chic, slender sheaths were chosen by Mrs. Horace Garrett and Mrs. E. V. Swift. Mrs. Swift wore white crepe with a draped neckline and deeply slit skirt, formal white gloves and pearls.

Mrs. Garrett, who was surprised with a birthday cake aglow with candles, was pretty in an aqua crepe with beaded band encircling the waist. Helping her blow out the candles was Mrs. Adolph Swartz, striking in a sleeveless white dress with fringed overskirt.

At the same table, Mrs. E. L. Powell shimmered in a white metallic sheath and Mrs. Harold Davis had a Latin look with her black and silver brocade worn with black lace stole and silver necklace. She chatted with Mrs. George McAllister, gowned in white, and Mrs. John Taylor whose light blue sheath was styled of tiny tufts.

DANCERS

Seen dancing with her friend, Don Kennedy, was Mrs. Modesta Simpson. Her strapless black silk was accented with a sparkling clip. Mrs. Bill Currie chose rhinestone earrings to blend with her blue and pink floral print, and Mrs. Tommy Hutto's aqua chiffon was matched by her slippers.

Greeting old friends was Mrs. Champ Rainwater in a cocktail dress of deep aqua featuring a rounded neckline and sequins embroidered over the bodice. Mrs. Roy Bruce was a contrast in black and white as was Mrs. Joe Moss, whose skirt of black and white print was topped with a black bodice.

Kids Like Separation

CULPEPER, Va. (AP) — Segregation by sex of students in 10 Culpeper County classrooms is proving popular with both teachers and pupils.

Teachers of five all-girl classes and five all-boy groups of grades one through five agree almost unanimously that the first six-week period of the current school year has been marked by above-average group enthusiasm and participation. They also agree that discipline problems are fewer.

This is the first year the sex-grouping experiment has been tried in Culpeper County Schools.

RECEIVE LEGAL SECRETARIES AWARDS

Three Get Awards At Banquet

"The Boss Is King" was the theme for the annual banquet of the Howard County Legal Secretaries Association, held Saturday evening at the Cosden Country Club. A hospitality hour in the Blue Room preceded the banquet.

Legal secretaries and their guests were greeted by the outgoing officers of the association at the serving table, where punch and hors d'oeuvres were featured. The 1963-64 scrapbook, highlighting the events of the past year, was displayed, flanked by a royal knight, carrying out the evening's theme. Hostesses for the hospitality hour were 1963 officers, Mrs. Don Sawyer, president; Mrs. Bill Flynn, secretary; Mrs. Joe Sharpnack, treasurer; and Mrs. Bob Stewart, governor.

CORONATION

The dinner and coronation followed, beginning with a welcome and introduction of guests by Mrs. Don Sawyer. Out-of-town guests included groups from Midland and Lubbock. Roger Brown, a local attorney, presided as master of ceremonies, and introduced Mrs. Bill Pharr, elections chairman. Mrs. Pharr explained that the annual election of Boss of the Year is conducted by nomination, and local judges select the winners from these entries.

Since that this year's contest resulted in a tie for Boss of the Year, Mrs. Pharr announced that George T. Thomas and W. H. Eysen Jr., had been selected to receive the title of 1964 Boss of the Year. The two were escorted to their thrones of gold by the Jesters, Ricky Homfield, David Owen and Bruce Owen, who wore costumes of blue and gold. Thomas was crowned by Mrs. Sharpnack, his secretary, who had nominated him for the honor; Eysen received his symbol of royalty from Mrs. Sawyer, his secretary.

Legal Secretary of the Year is Mrs. Billy Owen, who is secretary to Wayne Burns, County Attorney, and was nominated by him. Dee Jon Davis escorted Mrs. Owen to her throne and placed her crown on her head. All three were presented with gifts from the association, and the two attorneys were declared permanent members of Howard County Legal Secretaries Association.

Entertainment on the evening's agenda consisted of a number of songs by the Swift-Annettes, a trio of local girls who sang popular and jazz songs.

INSTALLATION

Climaxing the evening's events was the installation of new officers. Mr. Brown introduced Mrs. David Wyatt of Midland, and Mrs. Dale Dye of Lubbock, installing officers. Mrs. Wyatt called the name and position of each new officer, and Mrs. Dye, installing marshal, escorted each to the front. Harlan Thornton, Howard County Junior College instructor, provided piano accompaniment with appropriate songs for each office. Mrs. Wyatt instructed each new officer in her duties, and led them in a pledge.

The new officers are Mrs. Flynn, president; Mrs. Sharpnack, vice president; Mrs. Pharr, secretary; Mrs. Stewart, treasurer; and Mrs. Betty Homfield, NALS representative and governor.

The local association is affiliated with the Texas Association of Legal Secretaries and the National Association of Legal Secretaries Week in Big Spring May 3-9, during which members met their employer's wives at a Boss-Ladies Tea, toured the city, county and district offices and courthouses, held a spaghetti supper and heard various speakers.

My precept to all who build, is, that the owner should be an ornament to the house, and not the house to the owner.

'Enchanted Evening' Is Theme For Banquet

"Some Enchanted Evening" was the theme for the Baptist Temple Junior-Senior banquet held in Fellowship Hall Friday evening under the sponsorship of the Woman's Missionary Union.

As the formally attired guests entered the pink decked hall, music from "Oklahoma" was played. A pink backdrop behind the speaker's table glittered with net butterflies and revolving colored lights added an enchanted note. On a raised stand covered with pink satin was a carriage filled with pink flowers. Glittered butterfly candles centered the tables.

The speaker's table held an arrangement of pink roses flanked with silver candelabra. The programs were carriages covered with silver glitter. Mrs. H. M. Jarratt, president of the WMU, was a general chairman and Mrs. W. L. Sandridge served as social chairman.

Doyle Grice was master of ceremonies and introduced Melvin Lindsey who gave the invocation. Mrs. Jarratt welcomed the guests, and Carl Reynolds gave the response. Reynolds and Roy Black Jr. presented musical selections and the Rev. James Puckett was speaker. Charles Modisette worded the benediction for fifty-six guests.

PINK AIR COMING TO BIG SPRING
Pat Boatler, Cosden-Fina jobber, bringing air freshener here

Pat Boatler, Cosden-Fina Jobber, Has Whole Area

A new air freshener, "Pink Air," produced and to be placed in the hands of distributors by Neiman-Marcus will be in Big Spring soon. Pat Boatler, wholesale gas and oil, and Fina jobber, will be the man to get the new product from here.

If you haven't taken a good whiff of the air in a room after a little of the "Pink Air" is sprayed around, you don't know what you are missing. You can see the big announcement on one of Boatler's delivery trucks.

Pat Boatler is located at 513 E. 1st and is the jobber for Cosden and Fina gas and oils. These fuels include lubricating oil, all grades of gasoline, and diesel fuels. His territory includes all of Howard County and he serves more than a dozen service stations. Two big tank trucks and two pickups are ready to make deliveries day or night.

Boatler purchased the dealership for Cosden products formerly owned by W. B. Douglas. He later purchased the dealership owned by J. L. LeBlanc, at 800 E. 3rd, when LeBlanc retired. All facilities are now at one location. Pat Boatler is a native of Howard County. His grandfather lived in the county for many years. Mr. and Mrs. Boatler, who live in the Silver Hills Addition, have twin daughters, both married, and four grandchildren.

"We have been in the jobbing business in Big Spring for many years," Boatler said. "In addition to the fuels and oils we handle Firestone and Mansfield tires, and AC accessories, including filters, batteries, and a wide assortment of other items. We were in the same business seven years in Sterling City."

When you drive into a Cosden or Fina service station in the area you can get full service from products made available through Boatler. Keep informed about the coming of "Pink Air," the air freshener which is destined to keep homes, business buildings, and offices freshened up with a delightful scent.

Some older buildings may have been constructed before the day of modern appliances and lighting systems. These may need rewiring to handle the loads, and the proper number of circuits to prevent overloading.

Haston also carries a good stock of fixtures and supplies in the present location. Call AM 4-5103 for consultation before starting a new job, or remodeling to handle additional loads and for modernizing.

Haston can give an estimate on the cost and can advise what is needed to take care of the electrical load required.

Haston Electric, 1606-B Gregg, owned by Gene Haston, has been in Big Spring many years, and the owner and employees know what is needed in installing electrical fixtures and outlets to handle the load properly. The firm is equipped to handle residential and commercial electrical jobs, whether new or renewing.

A new building in the planning stage may be designed to carry light or heavy electrical loads, and Haston is capable of advising with the planners for the best designed circuits and fixtures.

Old Tires Can Be Retreaded

How is your tire carcass?

You may be worrying about the tread on your present tires because they look too far gone for that vacation. Yet those tire carcasses may be sound enough to take a retread job to give you as many more miles as they have on them now—at much less cost than new tires.

Firestone Stores, "Where Your Dollar Buys Miles More," at 507 E. 3rd, can put retreads on sound tires for a big saving. If you want them now you can trade in your present tires for good retreads on sound carcasses.

Try Firestone for many other lines beside tires. They have a store full of quality merchandise for the home and yard.

Better To Slide And Score

Los Angeles' Tommy Davis didn't take a chance as he slid for the plate in the eighth inning Sunday to score. No play was made on Davis, though, although San Francisco Giants' catcher Tom Haller was ready. The Dodgers won the contest, 9-1. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Triandos, Torre Are Causes Of Defeats

By The Associated Press

When graduation time rolls around at Mickey Owen's baseball school, Gus Triandos and Joe Torre should stand at the head of the class.

The two catchers earned their diplomas with high honors Sunday in a way that would have made Owen proud.

Triandos missed a third strike that led to the deciding run in Cincinnati's 2-0 victory over Philadelphia while Torre's passed ball on the third strike paved the way for Pittsburgh's 6-5 come-from-behind triumph over Milwaukee in the second game of their doubleheader.

Owen, of course, holds the notorious distinction of missing the third strike with two out in the ninth inning of a 1941 World Series game. He now operates a baseball school for boys through 18.

The Triandos passed ball put Deron Johnson on first base in the fourth inning of a scoreless pitching duel between Philadelphia's Chris Short and the Reds' Joe Nuxhall.

Short struck out Frank Robinson for what should have been the third out, then walked Tom Harper and gave up a run-scoring single to Chico Cardenas.

The Pirates trailed 5-3 when Bill Mazeroski opened the ninth by striking out. The ball, however, got by Torre, and Mazeroski went to first. The Pirates proceeded to win the game on three singles mixed with a sacrifice bunt.

The victory gave the Pirates a split for the day. Milwaukee won the first game 11-5. In other National League games, Los Angeles drubbed San Francisco 9-1, Chicago nipped Houston 4-3 before bowing 4-1 in 11 innings and New York downed St. Louis 4-1, then lost 10-1.

Jim Gilliam and Maury Wills each drove in two runs while Frank Howard smashed his 10th home run for the Dodgers. John Roseboro also homered. Their support made it easy for Don Drysdale to win his fourth game in five decisions on a six-hitter.

Willie Mays had two of the hits, both doubles, and drove in the Giants' only run in the sixth. Mays, hitting .481, has hit safely in 17 straight games.

Walt Bond was the batting star for Houston against the Cubs. The mammoth outfielder doubled home the Colts' first run in the fourth inning of the second game, then singled to score the tie-breaking tally in the 11th. Jim Wynn added a two-run double in the 11th.

J. D. Salinger wrote Catcher in the Rye and it was a best-seller. Charlie Dressen's book on his catchers won't sell as many copies but it's sure to make interesting reading.

It wasn't exactly a good day for American League receivers Sunday, and for Dressen's Detroit Tiger catching staff, it wasn't even a reasonable day. The Tigers lost twice to Baltimore and that matches that number of times Dressen probably blew his top in the Tiger dugout watching catchers Bill Freehan and Mike Roark heave throws with reckless abandon.

Norm Siebern was on first base with a leadoff walk in the fourth inning of the opener when Brooks Robinson laid down a bunt. Freehan pounced on the ball and uncorked a picture throw which landed in the Baltimore bullpen in right field.

Siebern scored and Robinson dashed all the way to third on the error. He later scored on an infield out. Milt Pappas, with ninth inning help from Dick Hall, made the runs stand up for a 2-1 victory.

Dressen sat Freehan down in the nightcap and started Mike Roark behind the plate. Things didn't get worse, but then, they didn't get better either.

Baltimore had a 2-0 lead and the bases were loaded with two out in the fourth when Roark tried for a pickoff at third base. His throw sailed into left field leaving Dressen with a 4-0 deficit and no other catchers to turn to. The Orioles added three more runs and completed the sweep, with a 7-1 victory.

In other American League games, Minnesota got a three-run homer from Don Mincher and dropped Kansas City 6-3; Chicago bested Los Angeles 5-3 with Ron Hansen and J. C. Martin homering; New York swept two from Cleveland, 12-5 and 9-2 in 10 innings and Washington split a pair with Boston, winning 13-4 and losing 9-4.

PAT WASHBURN'S The Roundtable

A school bond election recently came up in Sweetwater with some of the money, if the bond passed, slated to be used for a swimming pool at the local high school. It was figured by many that swimming was just the sport the athletic program needed for those who desired to be in sports, but didn't particularly like basketball, football, or baseball. . . . It's past history now, and most people know that the election was a failure, with the bond being turned down. It was originally considered almost a cinch to pass, but the opposition brought in a public relations man from Dallas, and he supposedly proved just enough to defeat the monetary appropriation.

Sweetwater people for the bond figured that swimming was a coming sport that is going to get more popular in the future, and a good way to get some extra scholarships for some of their athletes. It's possible that they might have forgotten that the school wouldn't do any good in the sport unless they brought in an experienced coach.

One of the local school's finest athletes to come along in a long time (he's lettered in football, baseball, track, and was District 3-AAA's top scorer in basketball), has not made any evidence yet which school he may attend. It's a sure bet he'll have a rather large choice. . . . Besides being a top athlete, he's also a top student.

TURK FARRELL, Houston Colt pitcher: "In 1962, I had a three-hitter going against the Cardinals when STAN MUSIAL came up in the ninth. Since Musial had two of those three hits, I figured he needed something special so, after getting two strikes on him, I loaded up and threw a splitter, which dropped a full foot. He lined it into right field for a single. Right then and there I told him he had to be the greatest hitter I ever saw to hit such a pitch.

"After the game, HARRY CARAY, the Cardinal sportscaster, had me on the air and I repeated the statement to him and told him Musial hit a splitter for a single. The next day the St. Louis papers headlined the story, 'Farrell Beats Cardinals With Splitter,' and I got a little note from WARREN GILES, president of the National League, asking me not to throw splitters, and if I did, not to admit it.

"The next night I was requested to go on TV, which I did. I said what I actually said on Caray's program was a 'slipper' and not a splitter. The moral of that story, I guess, is there's money in a splitter. I got $125 for being on Caray's program."

KEN JOHNSON, Houston Colt pitcher, recently received a $1,000 raise after pitching a no-hitter against the Cincinnati Reds only to lose 1-4. . . . The Woman's International Bowling Congress has 2,536,795 members. Of that number, 95,099 come from Texas. . . . In the recent Masters tournament, the pros found the par-5, 15th hole the easiest to eagle. Seven men—BRUCE DEVLIN, LIONEL HEBERT, BOB COALBY, BILLY PATTON, DAVE RAGAN, RICHARD DAVIES and DOWNING GRAY—had a three on the hole. . . . Thoroughbred racing's Hall of Fame is in the National Museum of Racing at Saratoga, N.Y. . . . Who might qualify for the hardest hit pitcher in baseball? FRED NORMAN, Chicago Cubs rookie, could come close. In his first three starts, he allowed seven home runs. . . .

Duel Expected In Preakness

BALTIMORE (AP)—The field for the 88th running of the $150,000-added Preakness at Pimlico Saturday shaped up as a six and possibly seven-horse affair today with another duel in the offing between Kentucky Derby winner Northern Dancer and runner-up Hill Rise.

Nothing occurred in the one-mile of the $61,000 Withers at Aqueduct or the 1 1/16 miles of the Preakness Prep at Pimlico last Saturday to alter the original field for the second race of the Triple Crown for 3-year-olds.

In addition to Northern Dancer and Hill Rise, the starting lineup is expected to consist of the next three finishers in the Derby — The Scoundrel, Roman Brother and Quadrangle — Knightly Manner and perhaps Big Pete.

Mr. Brick, sixth in the Kentucky Derby after setting the early pace, romped to a four-length victory in the Withers with a respectable 1:35 3/5 clocking and is eligible for the Preakness.

But after the Withers, Trainer Jimmy Picou said, "I doubt it," when asked if the heavily campaigned son of John's Joy would make the trip to Baltimore. Mr. Brick has raced nine times this year and has a record of three victories, three seconds and one third for earnings of $107,710 and a total bankroll of $196,523.

The size of the Preakness field should benefit Hill Rise, who was unable to match Northern Dancer's quick start at the five-eighths pole in the Derby. Pimlico's sharp turns favor Northern Dancer's shorter strides but the small field figures to give Hill Rise ample room to stretch his long, ground eating strides. The $24,000 Black Eyed Susan for 3-year-old fillies at Pimlico last Saturday lost some of its luster when Blue Norther, unbeaten in five races this year, came up with sore legs and was scratched.

COMPETITION FOR HAYES

Californian Blazes Fast 9.2 To Match Century Record

FRESNO, Calif. (AP)—Take a short, brittle-legged balding fellow and match him with a brawny Bob Hayes, the world's fastest human and a football player when he isn't sprinting. It sounds like the other man might win the race — if Hayes ran backwards.

But incongruous as it seems, Darel Newman, Fresno State College, is the one man in the world who apparently can give Hayes his closest race at 100 yards—and he fits the bookish description.

Newman blazed a 100 in 9.2 seconds Saturday at the West Coast Relays as he equaled the listed world's record and became history's fastest Caucasian at the distance.

He shared the spotlight with veteran shotputter Dallas Long who upped his world record to 66-7/8, despite a foot injury. Newman accomplished his 9.2 despite a start that did not satisfy him and a misjudgment of the finish line. Yet one of three official watches caught him in 9.1 and one of the 9.2 official clockings was only a hair over.

Site Is Selected For PGA Tourney

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP)—Laurel Valley Golf Club, Ligonier, Pa., will be the site of the 1965 National Professional Golf Association Championship.

Warren Cantrell, PGA president, said today the four-day 72-hole tournament will be Aug. 12-15 with Laurel Valley open for practice Aug. 9. It will be the first time since 1951 that the PGA championship has been held in metropolitan Pittsburgh.

9.1. Hayes, history's only 9.1 sprinter, still hasn't had the mark accepted as a world's record because he ran on an asphalt track.

Newman, only a 20-year-old junior, despite his deceiving hairline, ran on the Ratcliff Stadium track that officials call "just plain old, San Joaquin Valley clay."

The record came in a heat when, said Newman, he eased up too soon because he thought another cross stride was the finish. He won the final in 9.3 and had slight, but allowable, aiding winds each time.

Newman, 5-9 and 155 pounds, said he had "built myself up all week long" in anticipation of the race before 12,000 hometown fans.

Long almost did not compete because he dropped a weight on his left foot the week before the meet.

The Fist Of Victory

Billy Casper of Conora, Calif., winner of the Colonial National Invitation Golf tournament in Fort Worth Sunday, clenches his fist and raises his arm to acknowledge the applause from spectators moments before he received his trophy and check. The Californian grasped the lead on the first hole of the final round and never relinquished the upper hand. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Casper Conquers Colonial Course

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Give round man Billy Casper a tough golf course and chances are about three to one that he'll win on it.

He says himself that "I like a long, tough course where I seem to play best." And he proceeded to demonstrate the point Sunday when he swept up $14,000 first money over the 7,122-yard Colonial Country Club course.

Such astute observer as Gary

Player rates Colonial among the top three courses in the world.

Casper, the 32-year-old, 215-pound portly citizen of Bonita, Calif., had a closing par 70 for 279—one under par—to win the Colonial National Invitation by four strokes over struggling Tommy Jacobs of Bermuda Dunes, Calif.

He commented afterward that Colonial was a mile tougher than even Winged Foot at Mamaroneck, N.Y., where he won the National Open in 1959.

"This is a tougher driving course," he explained. "That he is at his best on a tough layout is shown by the fact that he won the Buick Open at Warwick Hills, Flint, Mich., in 1960, and twice has taken the Bing Crosby at Pebble Beach, Calif. Those courses are frightening. Casper now has won 23 tournaments in 10 years on the tour and his triumph Sunday vaulted him into fourth place among the all-time money winners.

He has run his total to $312,305 and that puts him ahead of Sam Snead, who has gobbled up $311,790.54 in a much longer career than the chubby man from California.

Jacobs wound up in second place and won $7,000 as he limped in with a 74 for 283.

Grid Owner Dies

SAN FRANCISCO—Vic Morabito, 45, owner of the San Francisco 49ers of the National Football League, died after suffering a coronary seizure.

Gene Littler, former National Open champion from LaJolla, Calif., was third with 285 and took down $4,000.

Title Stripped From Ramos

ACCRA, Ghana (AP) — The Ghana Boxing Authority reversed the decision in Saturday night's world title fight between Cuban featherweight champion Sugar Ramos and Ghana's Floyd Robertson.

The decision had gone to Ramos. However, the authority declared Robertson "the new featherweight champion of the world."

The two judges, Ed Lassman of Miami Beach, Fla., president of the World Boxing Association, and Ramon Valazquez, chairman of the Mexico Boxing Commission, declared Ramos the winner while the referee, Jack Hart of Britain, favored Robertson.

The Associated Press scorecard gave Ramos five rounds and Robertson four with six even. It scored the fight 70-70 under the five-point must system.

An hour after the bout ended, the Ghana Boxing Authority declared the fight "no contest." Then it called a special meeting for further consideration of the hotly disputed decision.

A&M Awaits Big Decision

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Texas A&M awaited action by the Dist. 6 selection committee of the NCAA today, hopeful it would advance to the national college baseball tournament without a playoff.

The Aggies won the Southwest Conference championship last week with a 12-3 record and a 19-6 season mark.

But if there are worthy independent teams in the district, they are to be given a chance at beating A&M for the NCAA spot at Omaha.

Local Teams Lose 4 League Games

LUBBOCK — It was a long night for E. C. Smith Construction Co.

The Big Spring nine journeyed to Lubbock Saturday and dropped two games in the West Texas Traveling Softball League, 2-1 and 5-4, as the Cecilis scored one run in the last inning of each game to win.

In the opening game, N. E. Stephens handcuffed the Big Springers with a four-hitter as only one E. C. Smith player could manage an extra-base hit, Jerold Cox with a double. Troy Wetzel was charged with the loss, his first of the season, as he twirled only a three-hitter but gave two extra-base knocks, as Don Barton had a double and John White a triple for Lubbock.

Stephens struck out 17 Big Springers enroute to his victory. In the second contest, the game was deadlocked at the end of the regulation seven innings but only needed one extra frame as the Cecilis scored on their first opportunity to win the game.

Randy Reagan turned in a fine performance for the Cecilis as he struck out 15 in a winning cause, that saw him give the distance pitching a six-hitter. Troy Wetzel started the game but was replaced shortly by Floyd Davenport who absorbed the loss going the last 6-2-3 innings. Jerold Cox continued his good hitting, rapping a triple this time, but it wasn't enough to get a win. Fitz went two-for-three for the Big Springers. There was only one extra-base hit by Lubbock, Dave Hutson's double. Utley had two hits for the Cecilis.

Treasure Hunter

Bill Mahan, Dallas treasure hunter—who refers to it as "adventure exploring"—displays some of his articles, including coins, he has uncovered. Mahan was a mining operator until he got the bug to hunt for treasure and historical sites. (AP WIREPHOTO)

LETTER TO EDITOR

Challenging Times Mean Our School Must Be Best

To the Editor:

A school bond issue or any expenditure of local tax money is always a controversial issue in any community. It is unfortunate that all matters concerning people cannot be worked out—always, in complete and total equity. One should remember that of the 65 billion people born on earth, no two fingerprints have ever been the same. How can laws apply equally to all peoples of this world?

It made me feel basically good last week to see Dr. Hogan, Mr. Tollett, Mr. Joe Moss, Dr. Rogers, Mr. Whipkey, Mr. Dabney, Mr. Brazel and others speak forward for a bond issue and campaign that is so essential and important for the present community and for the future leaders of this community—our youth.

These are great and challenging times for young people. Great strides forward are being made in the world of medicine. Seldom has man in one generation witnessed the birth and development of a new science; yet, radio astronomy continues to unravel mysteries of the universe.

The radio sky was first glimpsed by Jansky in 1932; within 15 years discovery after discovery gave us an entirely new concept of the heavens. Just last March the incredible quasi-stellars were first seen through the Mt. Palomar 200-inch telescope. They were thought to be part of our own galaxy, but after Australian radio astronomers pinpointed the exact location of one of these bizarre and beautiful phenomena, Maarten Schmidt of Caltech located it optically and identified it as not being a star in our own Milky Way, but one one billion light years away. A star larger than our own sun cannot be seen at that distance. The most eminent and respected scientists of the Western World recently met in Dallas in an attempt to unravel this great mystery! I venture that all of these scientists came from the most excellent grade school, high school, and college backgrounds.

The New Genetics is explaining away mystery after mystery in the threads of life. The mystery of life is being solved at a very rapidly accelerating pace.

IMPROVED WORLD
I envision a vastly improved world in which to live, a world of smart young and old in an association of science and God never before dreamed possible by the mind of man.

Species of living organisms number about 1,500,000. The number of unique individuals can scarcely be estimated—about 3 billion in man alone! The number of genetic combinations in living organisms that have occurred in earth's history is vast indeed! Think! and whatever this number is—just think! of the myriad, the absolute fantastic amount of combinations that might have occurred. The number of combinations and sequences possible in the DNA molecule the size of the smallest known virus is much greater than all of the elementary physical particles in the universe.

The chance that man exists elsewhere in his God-like form is remote; this is assuming millions of planets favorable for evolution. The probability that another direction of organic evolution has taken place in the universe is very high.

Physics, mathematics, chemistry, astro-physics, astronomy, physiology, biology, nuclear physics, geology, zoology, botany, where are our young people of this community going to fit into this great new world of science? I can tell you one thing—they are not going to fit very high in it if the standards of education are not maintained at as high or a higher level than at present.

EXPENDITURES
Mr. Moss presented some interesting figures on the per student yearly expenditures for the 1962-63 fiscal school terms. Howard County per student expenditures were less than any of our neighboring counties, and it is not felt that this reflects good management; rather, it reflects neglect. We desire new industrial firms. Possibly one reason for not getting new industry is our crowded school system. In the 1962-63 school term, Howard County spent $356.44 per student; whereas, Ector County (Odessa) spent $451.37 per student.

We have a local business firm which has proven itself in the field of high school mathematics labs and yet our high school has not purchased these facilities for our young folks. If Annapolis and West Point plus high schools in San Angelo, Apple Springs, Bridge City, Brownfield, Del Rio, and many in Ohio, Mississippi, California, Florida, Oklahoma and other states have approved and bought these facilities, they must be good.

Believe me, I remember when things were done financially in the football category—what about the minds of our youngsters? From the generation here in this community must come ranchers, educators, business leaders, railroad engineers, scientists, farmers, astronauts, religious leaders, doctors, dentists, agronomists, veterinarians, soldiers, statesmen, professors, senators, medical researchers, teachers and many others.

TEACHER PAY
No business is better than its managers and no college or school system is any better than its professors and teachers. These teachers must be adequately paid and the writer feels that to maintain the proper educational instructors, they should be paid more than the present pay scale; but, they should stay abreast of the times, as people in industry must do, and if they refuse to take additional instruction from the collegiate level then they should be dismissed.

The citizens of this county have a grave responsibility toward all young people. You have asked them twice in two great World Wars to go away from their homes and risk their lives in the defense of their country; they fought for themselves and they also fought for every member of every single community from which they departed.

Nothing in the future is possible without youth; wisdom is necessary to guide and to teach, but the future is theirs. Let us make it as bright and full of opportunity as is humanly possible; the future is theirs and they are part of you. Wouldn't this present bond issue be a vote of confidence in this direction?

Very truly yours,
DAVID H. HOPKINS

New Frontier In Treasure

By The Associated Press

A Dallas man and several hundred of his followers are proving that Texas still has a great frontier of adventure and exploration.

Bill Mahan has combined a modern electronic gadget with the history books and legends of Texas, coming up with a combination that is attracting many Texans to a new sport.

"Of course, buried treasure is the main object anytime I go out looking," Mahan explains. "But that's only half the fun—finding relics and uncovering long lost sites of historical interest are the great by-products."

"Besides, 99 times out of 100 trips, you don't find any buried treasure anyway."

Mahan recently returned from Birmingham, Ala., where he spent two weeks aiding a group of businessmen in their search for the lost Indian city of Ma- villa.

It was an unusual twist for a professional treasure hunter, because no treasure was involved—only relics and the possibility of finding the site of a lost city.

The group, led by Frank Jones a Birmingham insurance broker, took up the search for Ma- villa, the site of a great battle between DeSoto and the Indians, as a hobby.

Although they haven't yet found the actual site, the group plans to turn over its information to the Alabama Historical Society and the University of Alabama.

The group asked for Mahan to join them as their "metal detector operator," a method they hope to use in pinning down the site. They know DeSoto lost all his equipment in the battle and figure metal detectors can locate it.

When he came to Dallas two years ago, after abandoning several mining operations in Colorado, Mahan wanted to actively hunt for treasure and historical sites.

He built and used several metal detectors. They worked all right, but no better than any others that could be made or bought.

Rains Ease Over Texas

By The Associated Press

Texas' April showers continued to lap over into May but appeared to be tapering off today.

Maintaining a record of non-stop moisture somewhere in the state, the latest shower activity developed in the Del Rio-Eagle Pass area during the night and moved east into the Austin and San Antonio vicinity by morning.

A severe thunderstorm forecast for Grayson County and the north part of Fannin County in North Texas expired at 7 a.m.

Special tornado forecasts were in force part of Sunday evening for much of the Panhandle-Plains sector in West Texas and along the Red River Valley but no damaging weather was reported.
