NON-FEDERAL PUBLIC WORK IS RETARDED

Ickes Finds Allotments Insufficient to Cover

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10. (U.P.)—Submission of new non-federal public works projects was halted by order of Secretary of the Interior Ickes today when he revealed that more than $3,500,000,000 of such projects are on file for which no allotments have been made and for which no money will be immediately available, due to exhaustion of the original $3,300,000,000 of the PWA fund.

TEXAS RELIEF BREAK-DOWN IS FORESEEN

AUSTIN, Feb. 10. (U.P.)—A "break-down" in the relief program in Texas was foreseen today by former Governor James E. Ferguson who predicted that the present four million dollar relief bill before the legislature would not reach final stages of enactment until the last week of the current special session.

"As long as discussion continues in the legislature on the bond bill, it will be impossible to sell $2,750,000 worth of bonds authorized but unsold. Consequently it will be practically impossible to prevent a break-down of relief before the funds can be obtained."

185 HEAR SCOUTS GET ASSIGNMENT

One hundred eighty-five, composed of 37 scouts, 14 scouters, 30 prospective scouts and 104 visitors heard broadcast from the Yucca theatre at 11 o'clock Saturday morning the special address of President Franklin Delano Roosevelt, reception of which was made possible through the courtesies of the Radio Sales & Service Co.

The program was part of a general mobilization of scouts over the entire country, where, it is estimated, more than one million scouts gathered in their home cities and listened to the president, honorary president of the Boy Scouts of America, assign to members a task. The nature of the service had been closely guarded and the assignment direct from the cabinet room of the White House to scouts was the first intimation of what the work would be. Scouts were asked to co-operate in a drive to secure old clothes and furniture to be distributed to the needy.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10, (U.P.)—President Roosevelt, in a brief address today, called on boy scouts of the nation to do a good turn for the new deal in helping to alleviate suffering throughout the nation. He urged the scouts to inaugurate a nationwide program of gathering cast off clothing, bedidng, etc., for distribution to needy persons through cooperation of local and federal agencies and called upon the public to respond

Midland scouts were mobilized at 10:30 and for 15 minutes sang scout and patriotic songs led by Scoutmaster C. C. Day. A 15-minute address was given by W. Ily Pratt upon the history and work of scouting. Paul T. Vickers pledged the support of the city and the chamber of commerce to scouts in their attempt to carry out the president's request. As a part of the program, a 1934 charter was presented to Troop 54 of which Buster Howard is scoutmaster. This troop also was presented the Presidential award, a beautiful red, white and blue streamer, given by President Roosevelt for proficiency in scouting through 1933.

Use of the theatre and its sound equipment was made through Manager Hal Grady, the theatre amplifiers being used in a hookup with a radio set provided and installed by Frank Smith and J. L. Carter of the radio concern.

Livestock Warnings Issued on Saturday

Livestock warnings received Saturday morning indicated extreme cold for this general area today. Especially in the north portion of West Texas was the temperature expected to drop to low levels.

Forecast of cloudy weather throughout West Texas today was included.

Good Times Return To Ector Capital

ODESSA, Feb. 10.—It looks like good times in Odessa. The streets are crowded, business is flourishing, the people are happy. It looks as if that elusive "corner," about which prosperity has been hiding for so long, has been turned by Odessa.

New business houses are opening. Old buildings are being repaired, and new construction is expected to start soon. Lumber yards already report the best business they have enjoyed since 1930.

French Statesmen Today As in Past Tremble Before Blood-Thirsty Mob

Stubborn Fighting Disturbs Gay Paree

THE PARIS MOB WRITES PAST AND PRESENT HISTORY

(Above) Enraged civilians battling troops in the streets of the French capital last week, in one of the riotous demonstrations kindled by the Stavisky scandal . . . (At left) An early sketch of the capture of Louis XVI by revolutionists in 1793.

PARIS, Feb. 10.—The Paris mob, a crazy giant impartially capable of wrecking governments or newsstands, careers or cafes, has done all these things the last few weeks and is capable of much more.

The Paris mob has a well-based reputation, going back many centuries. This time it seems to have found its stride again.

"As a result of his debasing the currency, there were riots in Paris." There are the words of the historian, Jacques Bainville, and they refer to a "bagarre" that happened in the year 1308. In those days the barricades were hurdles for fencing cattle, effective to halt men on horseback.

Today the barricades are gratings, newspaper kiosks, iron work, good for stopping police motor busses.

They are still barricades.

And the population of Paris is still prone to go into the streets—"descendre dans les rues"—in true revolutionary style.

Nobody yet has raided an arsenal, this time, as happened in the French Revolution and the Commune of 1870. Nor have they put the torch to more than a few kiosks and motor busses and a building or two. Gutters have not run deeply with blood. Yet the Paris mob has effectively knocked over governments and cabinets.

"Public opinion," Napoleon wrote, "is an invisible, mysterious power which nothing can resist. Nothing is more fickle, more vague—or stronger. And, entirely capricious though it is, it is nevertheless true, reasonable and just much more often than people think."

These words proved accurate in the beginning of the current disorders. The stink of the Stavisky banking affair rose higher over Paris. Ministers didn't need precocious ears to hear the rumble of sound mounting from thousands of throats in the Boulevard des Italiens and the St. Germain quarter, in the riots which preceded the more recent "Battle of the Place de la Concorde." The sound was a monotonous litany like an African tribal voodoo. Three short syllables and two long ones, in sharp rhythm, over and over again, like this:

"Ah-pree-zaw—Show-taw! Ah-pree-zaw—Show-taw!"

Otherwise: "To pri-son—Chautemps!"

The Chautemps government chucked itself out, without waiting for a trial of strength in the Chamber. It had sensed the "invisible, mysterious power" which is public opinion. The Daladier government quit when it tasted the threat of the Place de la Concorde rioting.

At first the Paris police used two techniques for dealing with the mass demonstrations, because the rioters included two different kinds of people—communists and royalists. With the communists, the police let drive, cracking skulls wherever skulls appeared. In royalist demonstrations, they slapped. There was no knowing, in the grand boulevards, when a cop might be pasting the son of a duke who might be a friend of the police chief, or some other influential official or politician.

So long as those reasonably considerate tactics were used, many of the rioters acted almost like revelers. But in the later disturbances a gun appeared, police answered with revolver volleys, and a spirit of horror and mass hysteria spread over the city like a flame. Nothing so stirs the French public to an ugly mood as seeing its own people killed by authorities. And nothing could have been more dramatically exciting to their temper than the sight of the column of war veterans being cut down by the sabers of the Republican Horse Guard near the Elysee Palace. Stoically the veterans reformed their ranks and tried to march ahead. Three times they were charged. A dozen actually reached the palace gate, only to be beaten back.

It was reminiscent of the day 104 years ago, when barricades in the Paris streets were making way for another revolution—a revolution that triumphed against Louis-Philippe. That time it was the 12-year-old boy, Carole, who shouted, "Watch me—I'll show

FUNDS FOR WAR ON PESTS HIKED

Continuation of the warfare against coyotes, prairie dogs and other predatory or wasteful animals is insured by the increased appropriation by congress above the recommendation in the budget estimate.

R. E. Thomason, congressman from this district, Saturday sent the Midland chamber of commerce the following letter in reply to work done by the Midland organization and others seeking the continuation of predatory animal control for benefit of ranchers:

"I am pleased to inform you that we have succeeded in having written into the agricultural appropriation bill the sum of $328,000 for predatory animal control for this year. This is a substantial increase over the amount of $91,000 at first recommended by the budget, but is still, of course, inadequate for the work.

"It gave me a great deal of pleasure as a member of the committee that called on both the secretary of agriculture and the director of the budget to do all that I could to prevail on them to give us a proper allotment for this purpose."

Robertson Rites Held on Saturday

Funeral rites were read at 10:30 Saturday morning in the chapel of the Ellis mortuary over W. L. Robertson, 55, better known to Midland people as Dick Dean. The Rev. Kenneth C. Minter, pastor of the First Methodist church, officiated. Interment was at Fairview cemetery.

Escorts were L. D. Bayless, George Dameron, W. G. Epley, O. V. Kelly, W. E Johnson and Bill Denson

Robertson, foster son of W. A. Dean, at whose home at 406 N. Weatherford he died, was survived otherwise by a step sister, Mrs. Henry Thomas, and by a niece, Mrs. J. O. Currie. Members of the western district of the highway commission, D. C. O. Wilson and Roland Warnek of Fort Stockton and Knox Duckworth of Odessa paid respects to Robertson in a visit to W. A. Dean Saturday, after arriving too late for the funeral.

Odessa Chamber Secretary Is Busy

ODESSA, Feb. 10.—Grady Bell, secretary of the Odessa chamber of commerce, is one of the buriest men in the city these days. The big gain in chamber of commerce membership has stimulated the organization to renewed activity to build Odessa into a leading Permian basin oil town, and the consequent new work has kept Bell close on the job. The secretary is specially active in assisting newcomers to get located, and has done much work on the cattle show to open Feb. 22.

CHILD IS BORN

A 5½-pound baby boy was born Friday night to Mrs. B. S. Cox of Big Spring, formerly Miss Evelyn McCall, daughter of Mrs. W. A. McCall of Midland.

To Present "Sermon in Song"

Famous Simmons Cowboy Quartet To Sing Tonight

A sacred concert to be given this evening at the First Baptist church, beginning at 7:30, by the men's quartet of Simmons university, will mark the third appearance of the singers today.

The quartet appears at the First Baptist church of Big Spring this morning, and at Forsan this afternoon.

Personnel of the quartet is Paul Davis, first tenor, Bernard Richards, second tenor, Woodrow Shaw, baritone, and Tyler Cagle, bass. The singers will have charge of the entire service. The offertory will be the first movement of the E-flat Concerto by Liszt, played by Wallace Wimberly, former Simmons band and conservatory student, with orchestral accompaniment played at the second piano by Miss Edna Marie Jones, Midland teacher.

The quartet has been in exceptional demand this season, and has made a series of concert engagements and tours.

The Rev. Winston F. Borum, pastor of the Midland church, is concluding a revival service at an El Paso Baptist church this week, and will direct both services at his church next Sunday.

Coyotes Pock-Mark Monahans Hills in Digging for Water

Those pock-marked depressions between the hills in the Monahans sand area are mute eviednce of the well-digging activities of coyotes, the casual visitor is informed.

Jim Waddell and Aldredge Estes, who owned land near Monahans, explain the water supply is so shallow one may scoop out a handful of sand and find clear water. Water is reached at some places from as shallow a depth as four inches, and seldom does one dig more than 50 feet for water in that area.

Cowpunchers while resting on roundups have often been known to merely turn over in the sand and scoop out a six-inch hole, rather than rise and walk to the water barrel for a drink.

Supt. Limmer Says Youth Not to Blame

Endorsement and appreciation of an editorial, "Looseness of Youth Indicts Parents," published in the Feb. 4 issue of The Reporter-Telegram, has been written the editor by Supt. A. L. Limmer of the Stanton public schools.

The editorial explains that, in spite of the sympathetic audience that always gathers when a spokesman relates how the younger generation is "going to the dogs," parents are to blame for their "verboten" philosophy; that they should have set up a home environment of positive, rather than negative, suggestion; that parents should have more understanding; that, because high school authorities have to make to parents' faults, the school rules in reality are "leveling indictments at parents."

Glad-Handing Cat In Rankin Hotel Receives Guests

RANKIN, Feb. 10, (AP)—The task of greeting guests of the Yates hotel here has fallen to Junior, a pure white Angora cat.

The 17-pound cat evidently with studied dignity approaches whoever registers at the desk and, sitting back on his haunches, extends his right paw in the most approved hand-shaking manner. He is accommodating in other ways, too, purring or showing his teeth when asked.

Jupnior is not "catty," in fact, he prefers the association of Bob, a dog that is much in eviednce in the Yates lobby. The cat belongs to Mrs. Jack Hignett, San Angelo daughter of the Yates hotel proprietor, and is especially friendly with Jewell F. Gatlin, house guest, a reporter noticed.

DOZEN INVITED TO ODESSA FEED

More than dozen Midland people have been invited to the Odessa chamber of commerce stag dinner Monday night at the Odessa high school building. The banquet is strictly an invitation affair, and is designed to be a pep meeting.

"He man's" grub is on the menu. John M. Gist, president of the chamber, slaughtered one his fat beeves to provide sizzling steaks, others are furnishing beans, potatoes and other ranch condiments to complete the meal. Midland people who received invitations are looking forward to the affair with unusual anticipation.

As four or five directors and officials of the Midland chamber are among those invited and Odessa leaders insisted they attend, the regular meeting of the Midland chamber was postponed to 10 a. m. Tuesday to permit attendance of those asked.

Chamber Meeting Date Is Set up

Meeting of the Midland chamber of commerce has been changed from Tuesday night to Tuesday moring at 10 o'clock.

The time was changed by the president because four or five directors of the Midland chamber are planning to attend a special Lions club program at Big Spring Tuesday night.

The meeting is expected to adjourn by 10:30. Every director is expected to make a final report on his membership work. Young men working on membership who have aditional names to submit are also asked to attend.

Registration Fee Bill Becomes Law

AUSTIN, Feb. 10. (U.P.)—Governor Ferguson today signed the act extending payment of auto registration fees until March 31 of any calendar year, making it effective immediately. It was the third bill enacted at the special session.

The bill also provides for refunding 20 per cent penalties paid by those who registered cars after Feb. 1.

Housing Problem Disturbs Odessa

ODESSA, Feb. 10.—New houses, new apartments, new duplexes are needed in Odessa. Oil field workers have almost filled every vacant place in town. Three weeks ago, practically all furnished places were taken, and unfurnished places were fast filling. The tourist camps were used by permanent dwellers. The Oedssa chamber of commerce is inviting local, and outside capital to immediately start construction of new residences.

WEATHER FORECAST

WEST TEXAS: Sunday partly cloudy, livestock warnings in north portion.

SERVICE FLYERS TO CARRY MAIL, STARTING 19TH

Abrogation of Mail Contracts Is Cause

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10. (U.P.)—Army air forces mobilized today to carry the country's air mail after President Roosevelt cancelled contracts of private companies.

It was expected that 1,600 planes would be ready for service February 19. Routes, ports and personnel were in the process of making.

Contract operators indicated that they would "fight to the finish" against the cancellation orders which were based on suspicion of fraud during the Hoover administration.

MISSING WITNESS STILL "OUT OF POCKET" SAT.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10, (U.P.)—The whereabouts of William P. McCracken Jr., who had been hunted on a senate warrant for more than 24 hours, were not reported at noon today.

Schools at Odessa Started Cow Show

ODESSA, Feb. 10.—The cattle show of Odessa is credited to the public schools of this city. Without a vocational agriculture teacher, Odessa would not have had a fat stock show. Tylor White, the teacher, organized, with the assistance of cooperating cattlemen, the first stock show, which made such a success that it was decided to make the cattle show a permanent institution.

The club boys, who receive constant support and encouragement from Superintendent Murray H. Fly of the schools, as well as the training from White, formed the nucelus about which the Odessa cattle show was organized.

Riddle to Urge Rotary Attendance

An "On to Detroit" talk will be made at Big Spring's Rotary club luncheon Tuesday by a Midland Rotarian. W. G. Riddle will "do it or have it done." Riddle is the committeeman for this entire area to urge Rotarians to attend the international convention in Detroit June 25 to 29. The Midland man will have the matter presented to the Big Spring club this week.

Dr. Orson Is with State Department

Wilton Orson, veterinary surgeon of Midland, is now working out of Fort Worth with the State Livestock and Sanitary commission and with the Tubercular Eradication commission.

He formerly was associated with federal inspection of meat at Houston and Corpus Christi.

Odessa and Andrews To War on Coyotes

ODESSA, Feb. 10.—H. L. Atkins, county farm agent at Odessa, is planning a coyote poisoning campaign for Ector and Andrews counties. Atkins hopes to secure unanimous cooperation of ranchers so that the Odessa and Andrews country may be wiped clean of coyotes.

CONSIDERS CANDIDACY

AUSTIN, Feb. 10, (U.P.)—F. O. McKenzie of Weatherford, assistant attorney general, said today he is considering candidacy to the state supreme court to succeed Judge Thomas B. Greenwood who will retire at the end of his present term.

Odessa Chamber Presents Bull to Midland Chamber

The president of the Odessa chamber of commerce recently gave a registered bull to the Midland chamber.

And, to further illustrate the friendship between these two cattle towns, John M. Gist, donor of the bull, will have it auctioned at the Odessa Cattle show, Feb. 23 and 24.

U. S. TO BORRO WBILLION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10, (U.P.)—The government planned today to borrow another billion dollars next week to finance the recovery program, it was learned from highest authority.

LIONS OF RANKIN IN BIG PROGRAM

One of the most outstanding examples of a service club's motivation of civic and social welfare of a Permian basin town is found in the Lions club of Rankin. Organized while the town was in its earliest formative stages, it has taken unusual initiative in a program which includes the following major projects:

1. Organization of a boy scout unit and obtaining for it an ideal meeting place.
2. Sponsoring of a Goodfellow fund each year and supulying alias Santas to those too poor to provide for themselves.
3. Sponsoring a good road movement which directly resulted in paving of Highway 99 across Upton county.
4. Endorsement and recommenda-

LIONS CLUB ENGAGES RADIO BAND FOR WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY DANCE

What probably will be the finest orchestra ever engaged for a Midland dance will play an engagement in the Crystal ballroom of Hotel Scharbauer, when the Lions club swings a colorful Washington birthday ball on the night of Feb. 22.

Kerry King and his crack 14-piece radio orchestra and a six-act floor show have been contracted by James S. Noland, dance chairman who was in charge of the recent President's Birthday ball and, several months ago, the first Lions club dance here.

"We staged a ball in honor of President Roosevelt, the thirty-second president, why not one for the first?" Noland said. "Proceeds will go to defray expenses of the Lions club in putting forward Marion F. Peters for governor of District 2-T, an honor he narrowly missed being elected to last year at the Amarillo convention."

Noland outlined the floor show acts and personnel as:

Miss Patsy Lee, winner of the 1933 Paul Whiteman audition;

Kirby Malone and Wanda Walker, dance team from the Akdar theatre of Tulsa;

Danny Clogwell from the Palace theatre, Dallas, a tap dancer who recently completed a 10-weeks engagement there;

Evelyn Nations and her famous accordion trio; Honey Payne, "The Stuttering Fool";

The "Three Jumping Jacks," a male dance trio.

The dance begins at 9:30 and lasts until 1 a. m. Script is $1.50.

Kerry King, orchestra director, says the girls are beautiful and the songs are the latest thing in itchy syncopation. He has been playing on Radio Stations WKY, WMAQ, KMOX, WBAP, KPRC, KTRH and numerous others.

NORTHERN ECTOR OIL ACTIVITY IS ENHANCED BY LOCATIONS PAST WEEK

Northern Ector county oil activity, the center of interest in this section at present, continued busily during the past week, enhanced by new locations and by progress on drilling operations.

Location was made by C. J. Davidson et al for their No. 1 H. E. Cummins in section 10, block 45, township 1-north, T. & P. Railway company survey, 660 feet from the north and west lines of the section.

A location by E. J. McCurdy Jr. was reported for the Addis pool, 330 feet each from the south and west lines of section 36, block 43, township 2-south, T. & P. Railway company survey. This location is a direct offset to the Fred Turner Jr. No. 2-A Addis and a diagonal offset to the Humble Oil & Refining company No. 1, T. J. Martin operation.

Location had been made by the Atlantic Oil Producing company for its No. 2 O. B. Holt Jr., section 19, block A, public school lands, 660 feet from the north and 1980 feet from the east lines of the section.

Rig was being built by the Stanolind Oil & Gas company for its No. 3 Elliott F. Cowden in section 26, block 43, township 2-south, T. & P. Railway company survey, 660 feet from the south line and 2,255 feet from the east line of the section.

Landreth Production corporation and Llano Oil company were spudding their No. 2 O. B. Holt Jr., 1980 feet from the north and west lines of section 20, block A, public school lands.

FATAL RELICS OF WAR

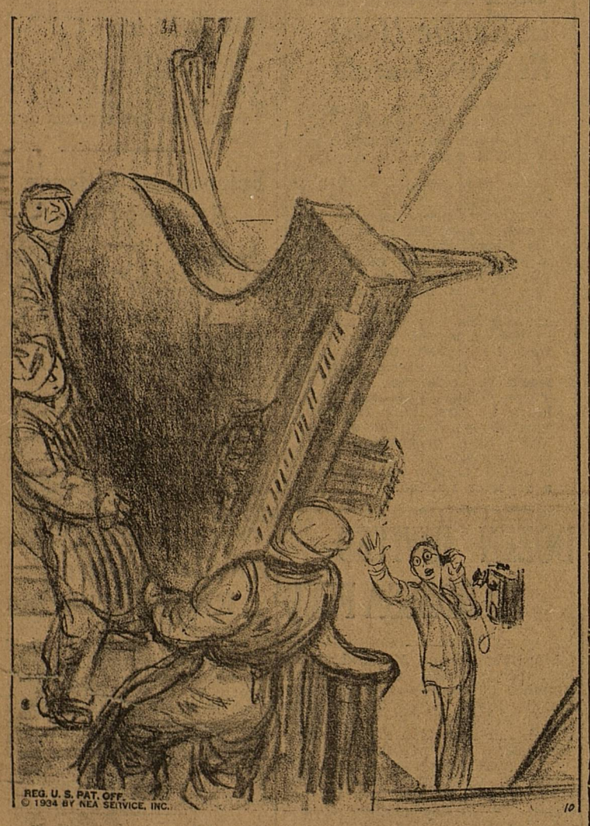

Mines put into the sea during the World War still are afloat. A Finnish steamer recently found one in the Baltic Sea and had it destroyed. Since the war one Swedish naval officer has found and destroyed more than 350 drifting mines—hideous engines of death, waiting to slip into the paths of unsuspecting ship captains.

That such hazards still exist on the high seas is rather shocking to one's sense of security. But when you stop to think about it, the wonder is that there are not more of them around to cause tragedies.

Mines were tossed into the water in an indescribably prodigal manner during the war. When the armistice arrived, the allied navies spent months picking them up; but in the very nature of things it was inevitable that they should miss a great many.

The world really is very lucky that these derelict mines have not proved a far greater hazard to post-war ocean traffic.

Gorgeous Scenery Superlative Work Of Cast at Ritz

Another bull's eye in entertainment is scored by Cecil B. De Mille in his latest Paramount picture, "Four Frightened People" showing today and Monday at the Ritz theatre, and features Claudette Colbert, Herbert Marshall, Mary Boland and William Gargan.

It is one of the most eye-filling pictures that has come to the screen in a long time, containing every ingredient of first clas sentertainment. DeMille still upholds his reputation for breath-taking settings, but this time he went to Nature for them. The various jungle backgrounds used in the picture are more startling than anything that Hollywood has ever built.

Through these settings, five characters weave a story of adventure that never lets up in intense interest for one moment. The story deals with four highly-cultured people who are forced to abandon a Dutch steamer. One is a young, prudish school teacher, another a woman's club lecturer, another a blatant newspaper correspondent, and the fourth a rubber chemist. When they discover bubonic plague on board, they manage to escape ashore into a wild section of the Malay Peninsula. In order to reach the nearest seaport, they hire a half caste guide.

Instead of the three day journey through the jungle which they had expected, they become lost for months. As they are forced more an dmore to primitive wodes of living, the veneer of civilization slips from them and they revert to prehistoric ancestry. The school teacher, heretaofore considered merely a nuisance by the men, blossoms into a glorious jungle creature whose word is law, and her beauty causes the men to fight over her, thereby providing substance for developments which make this story one of great audience appeal.

Claudette Colbert in the role of the school teacher demonstrates the wisdom of DeMille's choosing her as a star to be reckoned with. Her performance is one of the outstanding events of the screen year.

The comedy provided by Mary Boland makes her part outstanding beyond the limits of the original purpose of the script. This supjerb actress is edstined to win a large audience as a result of her work in this picture.

Herbert Marshall and William Gargan are the two men who vie for Miss Colbert's favors, and the contrast of their roles adds still further color to the intense situations of the story. A novel characterization is provided by Leo Carrillo in the role of the guide. The deft manner in which he plays it stamps him as an actor of great versatility.

Demonstrating devices in car sections of the 1934 National Automobile Shows are limited to a height of eight feet.

Odd Assortment of Gifts Received by University of Tex.

AUSTIN. (U.P.)—If all the gifts received by the University of Texas since 1883 were piled in one spot, there would be an odd assortment of scholarships, kettles, buildings, spearheads, bird eggs, meteorites, football sweaters, and iron benches.

Those objects do not nearly exhaust the list of gifts, according to a compilation by Helen Hargrave, a graduate of the university, made after extensive research. The list required nearly 100 pages.

The list may soon include the Codex Sinaiticus from Russia if the efforts of former State Senator H. L. Darwin are successful, although a cash outlay is needed.

The Codex Sinaiticus is one of two existing fourth century manuscripts of the Bible. It belonged to the late Czar Nicholas. The Soviet government, which holds scant reverence for religious documents, sold it to England. The English have objected.

Even to the Daily Texan, university campus daily paper, "to talk of paying $500,000 for any single written document, however important in the history of religion, verges on the ridiculous."

The university now has a different codex. The Codicis Justiniani, two volumes, were donated by R. L. Batts, a learned Austin attorney.

The first gift to the university was by Elizabet Ney, noted sculpturess who lived here. Her gift was a plaster bust of Governor O. M. Roberts, virtual founder of the university.

Since that first gift Sept. 14, 1883, thousands have followed. Pictures were given by Miss Jessie Andrews, the first woman to enter the university, to receive a degree, and to become a tutor, according to Miss Hargrave.

William Jennings Bryan contributed $250, proceeds of a lecture given here in 1897, as a prize fund for the best annual essay on the science of government.

The royal headquarters guidon of Maximilian, Emperor of Mexico, was given by Mrs. Mary Iglehart Crosby, Austin. It was secured from an old soldier who bore it on the Emperor's campaigns.

Another gift was a tiny figure commonly buried with the dead in Egypt as a substitute for slaves killed in an earlier period. Frank Hamilton, Austin, donated sweaters for the football squad in 1893, Miss Hargrave pointed out, while Lewis Maverick, San Antonio, gave one of five old Spanish guns found buried outside the walls of the old Alamo enclosure.

Dr. H. Y. Benedict, president of the university, a mathematician, astronomer, poet and naturalist, himself contributed a collection of Texas bird eggs valued at $1,000.

Perhaps the most important recent gift was the estate of W. J. McDonald, Paris, bequeathed to the university regents to aid "in erecting and equipping an astronomical observatory." The estate amounted to approximately $800,000. The observatory now is under construction.

Some of the gifts to the university cannot be located. An example is the 38,000 volumes and manuscripts of Chinese lore supposedly given by Tank Kee, a Chinese lecturer. Apparently the gift never has been received.

Man Builds a Unique Miniature Farmyard

MORRIS PLAINS, N. J. (U.P.)—Sixty-year-old Richard Watkins' hobby is to build miniature objects. Recently he completed a miniature farm which included the house, barn and yard, a grist mill, a running brook with a water wheel at the mill, a duck pond and other details.

The display is two feet high, built in Watkins' living room. A landscape in the background gives it an added realistic touch. The scene was copied from a Lancaster, Pa., farm.

Except for the animals and small figures which were purchased at a local five and ten cent store, Watkins said the miniature was made from a packing box.

More than a thousand tiny shingles cover the roof of the house and barn. Other tiny squares of wood were polished for the living room floor in the miniature house which is less than a foot square. A carpet is on the floor and a winding staircase in the hall leads to the second floor.

The loft in the barn holds real hay. Beneath are wagons, and implements; rakes, hoes, forks and scythes, and on the ground floor are the cow and horse stalls.

The woodshed is fitted with a chopping block and tiny buck-saw.

Beside the creek is a milk house in which cans have been placed. A rose garden surrounded by a white fence is behind the house. There is a well with an "old oaken bucket," a pig sty and an outdoor bake oven.

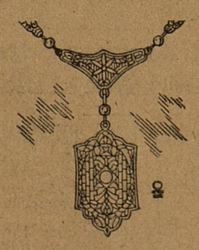

The barnyard is divided into sections, each one being surrounded by a rail fence attached with hinges. The mill is complete with grinding stones, bags of flour and grain bins. A musical attachment concealed below the scene plays old fashioned tunes.

Benediction, The Rev. Winston F. Borum.

BIRTHDAY OF ORGANIZATION 17th

The national congress organized Feb. 17, 1897, in Washington, D. C. celebrates this month the birthday of the organization dedicated to the welfare of childhood. When the congress began, then known as the Congress of Mothers, there were few parents studying parenthood as a profession. Today a wealth of material on child care and guidance is availble to meet the conditions unthought of nearly forty years ago.

The meaning of Founders' day, as set forth by Mrs. B. F. Langworthy, first vice president of the national congress for the anniversary follows:

"In celebrating the birthday of our congress, we not only honor the women who conceived the plan of our organization, but the ideals on which they built their lives which blossomed into rich fruit for child welfare. Let us at ths time rejoice that we have lived to see the congress beautiful in spirit, strong in purpose, courageous in action; let us again honor those rare spirits who could forsee that in the troubulous times, now upon us, we should need as never before knowledge and training for our tasks as parents and teachers."

February Is One of Best Party Months

February is a good party month so a few suggestions for menus will be welcomed.

For St. Valentine's day, a bridge luncheon menu. Many of the dishes can be prepared early in the day and kept in the refrigerator until wanted. Some must be made the day before. So if you are a maidless hostess with plain "help" in the kitchen for the last minute serving and the aftermath of dishwashing you will be glad to have oly a few tasks necessary to do just at the lunch hour.

Valentine Bridge Luncheon

Grape juice and canned grapefruit juice cocktail
Shrimp Wiggle Assorted Breads
Heart Salad
Strawberry Mousse Sandwiches
Coffee

You can add olives and preserves to the menu if wanted but they are not necessary. Arrange a variety of breads and tiny rolls an an attractive tray or platter, being sure that the bread is in small and thin slices and the rolls very tiny in order to invite your guests to enjoy the wide choice of breadstuffs. The heart salad is jellied ginger ale and fruit molded in individual heart shaped molds. This must be maed the day before and the lettuce can be cleaned and stored in the ice-box to chill and crisp at the same time. This insures the salad being finally prepared in the twinkling of an eye. The strawberry mousse and sponge cake can be made at home or purchased. The sponge cake should be made the day before and the mousse frozen and packed early in the morning. The shrimps can be cleaned ready to combine in the sauce which can be made and kept hot over hot water until ready to serve. This leaves the serving of the plates and the marking of the coffee after the guests arrive.

Washington's Birthday Supper

After all, it's the spirit rather than the form of the party that counts most. Simple foods attractively served are as acceptable as elaborate ones. A buffet supper relieves the hostess of serving her guests and promotes informality.

Buffet Supper

Ham Loaf with Garnish of Glazed Apricots
Horseradish and Beet Relish
Olives Celery
Cherry Tarts Whipped Cream
Coffee

For this supper the loaf is made and put into the oven two hours before the supper hour. The apricots will take a few minutes time when wanted for serving. The relish is made and the celery cleaned early in the day; the tarts are made an dout of the oven before the guests arrive and the sandwiches made and wrapped in waxed paper an hour before needed. If you add 1 teaspoon granulated gelatine which has been softened in 1 tablespoon cold water for five minutes and dissolved over hot water to each cup of whipped cream the whipped cream will not separate but can be made and chilled in the ice-box for several hours. The table is arranged to look as attractive as possible and small tables can be placed through the house for the convenience of the guests.

Annual Treasure Hunt for Latin Dept. Of High School Was Held Friday Night

The Latin department of Midland high school held its annual treasure hunt Friday night, students leaving the home of Mrs. L. K. Barry, sponsor, at 7:15 with directions written in Latin and with a time limit set at 9:30.

After the hunt, students attended the Yucca theatre, where they saw "After Tonight," starring Constance Bennett and Gilbert Roland.

Mrs. Aldredge Estes Honored on Birthday With Bridge-Shower

Honoring Mrs. Aldredge Estes with a surprise birthday party Friday night, Mrs. Addison Wadley and Mrs. E. E. Logan of Dallas entertained at the home of Mrs. Alf Reese, 214 South L.

Suggestions of St. Valentine's day were featured in the appointments and decorations for the occasion.

Games of bridge were played with Mrs. A. C. Francis winning high score and Mmes. Bud Estes, the honoree and Miss Jerra Edwards receiving table cuts. The honoree was also presented a guest gift.

At the conclusion of the games, a large birthday cake adorned with 16 candles was brought in, cut and served with red ice cream hearts and coffee. Mrs. Logan presided at the coffee table, laid in maderia and centered with red rosebuds flanked by red tapers. Favors of heart flowers were given the guests.

The honoree received many humorous and useful gifts from guests attending.

The guest list included Misses Lotta Williams, Juliette Wolcott, Jerra Edwards, Cordelia Taylor and Theresa Klapproth, Mmes. Jim Tuttle, N. W. Bigham, Bud Estes, Reese, Francis and the honoree.

"Sailor, Beware" Read Before Club

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following review was written by Mrs. Jack Hakwins who read the play at a meeting of the Play Readers club Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. De Lo Douglas.

"Sailor, Beware!" is described by its authors, Kenyon Nicholson and Charles Robinson, as "Variations on a Familiar Theme," the familiar theme being the way of a man with a maid. It is the story of Chester "Dynamite" Jones, gob on the U. S. S. Dakota, and Billie "Stonewall" Jackson, hostess in the "Idle Hour Cafe" in Panama City.

"Dynamite" Jones, with his successful hobby of collecting garters, is the pride of his pal, Barney Waters.

Jake Edwards bets $20 against Barney's watch—which has been in the family for three generations—that "Dynamite" can add Billie's garter to the already overflowing collection. The entire navy and hostesses of the cafe stake money on either "Dynamite" or Billie.

The unexpected happens as "Dynamite" and Billie succumb to the love germ, but due to the unscrupulous actions of Jake Edwards, Lieutenant Loomis cancels all bets and Barney is ecstatic over the return of his watch.

Lost Radium Deposit In Hill Near Alpine

ALPINE, (AP)—Otis L. Turner, Alpine business man, points to a flat top hill four miles to the west and tells of the lost radium deposit.

"Radium has been found on that mountain and a fortune still is there for the man who discovers it," Turner said. The mountain is owned by the A. S. Gage estate. Turner got his information from practical mining men but he said only three pieces of the ore had been found.

Ed Kneezel, later an architect in El Paso, helped survey the Southern Pacific railroad line through the county about 50 years ago and while here camped at Toronto switch. One afternoon he and a party of workers climbed the mountain. On the trip he picked up an unusual rock. When the job was over he moved to El Paso, putting the rocks in cases in his office.

In 1909 when rich radium deposits were discovered in Arizona someone showed him a piece of the ore. It was like the rock he had picked up on the hill here. An assayer tested his rock and found it contained radium though not in very rich percentage, yet enough to be extremely profitable if worked.

Next morning Kneezel hurried to Alpine and took Turner with him in a search over the hill. Later Kneezel came back with two miners but never was able to find any more of the ore.

A short time later a professor from the school of mines in Colorado spent more than a month working over the hill and found two small pieces of the radium sandstone. The engineer told Turner that he was convinced there was a mother lode of radium somewhere in that vicinity.

Turner has a small sample of radium ore in his office here. However, this sample, which resembles cottonseed cake, came from Arizona.

Rice should not be threshed until it has been in the shock at least two weeks.

ESPECIALLY GOOD AT 55 AND 60

BECAUSE IT CAN DO OVER 80

ELEVEN BODY TYPES
$515 up
(F. O. B. Detroit, plus freight, delivery and tax. Bumpers and spare tire extra. Convenient terms through Authorized Ford Finance Plans of Universal Credit Company.)

THE New Ford V-8 will do—easily and accurately—over 80 miles an hour. But it is not likely that you will ever need to go that fast. This top speed means that in ordinary, every-day driving you get the ease and safety of great reserve power. It means that your car is not straining itself at 50, 55 or 60.

The New Ford V-8 is mighty smooth in that range because it has the reserve power to go a lot faster. That means efficient, economical running without strain or vibration.

The advantages of a high-speed car are not in the speed.

P. S.—Ford speed is honest speed. The speedometer is not "fixed" to mislead you. The limit of variation, for speedometers, a limit that cannot be avoided in manufacture, is 2¾ at 70 miles an hour.... No car is so easy to handle. New 15-to-1 steering gear ratio makes steering easier.

A car designed to do 80 miles an hour easily must be extra strongly built. It must have a better and stronger steering gear. It must be correctly poised and balanced. Body, wheels, springs, axles, frame, brakes—all must be of the best design and greatest strength. Everything must be up to the 80-mile-an-hour standard to give you superlative performance at lower speeds.

Drive the comfortable New Ford V-8 for 1934 and see how this extra power gives you extra pleasure and motoring satisfaction. And extra economy too.

High School News

CHAPEL NEWS

The high school had two distinguished visitors Friday morning in chapel, Mrs. Payne from Ward-Belmont, a girls school in Memphis, Tennessee. Chauncey Garison from our Midland post office made an interesting talk on stamps and stamp collecting.

Lately in the chapel periods Supt. W. W. Lackey has introduced an interesting way of getting students acquainted by reading their names out and having them come to the stage in front of the student body.

TYPISTS GET MEDALS

Principal D. D. Shiflett presented Audrey Ticknor and Janie McMullan sterling silver typing pins in chapel Wednesday morning. They have met the requirements of 40 or more net words per minute on new material for a period of 15 minutes with not over five errors.

Alma Lee Hankins is the only other student who has received a pin for these same requirements this year; however, several other students are endeavoring to get a pin of this kind before the date closes, which will be soon.

The pins are sterling silver with the words "Expert Typist" in blue enamel.

SWEATERS ARRIVE

After weeks of suspense the football boys were immensely relieved when the sweaters arrived Friday morning and were distributed in chapel to the boys who had played 12 quarters or more in a game.

The sweaters are an old gold color with an "M" outlined in purple and with purple stripes below the elbow.

The boys who got sweaters were Gordon Jones, two stripes; Jack Prothro, Roy Jones, Hunter Midkiff, Delbert Booth, Orville Gee, Robert Howe, Dub Stanley, Elwood McWilliams, John Nobles, Robert Rankin, Murray Faskin, F. H. Lanham, Maurice Kerby, and Jake Parker, one stripe each.

SENIOR CLASS MEETING

A senior class meeting was held with senior sponsors for the purpose of deciding on the motto, flower and colors of this years senior class. A vote was taken with this result:

Motto: Honor lies in honest toil.
Flower: Larkspur.
Colors: Blue and white.

DEBATE

Monday night at 7:30 the members of debate in the Midland high school met to work on the first affirmative speech of the question.

TO RUSSELL DAY

You should have been here of late,
For Willie Merle has learned to skate;
There's a crack in the sidewalk three feet wide
Where Willie Merle did slip and slide.
She skinned her wrist, her hand, her knee;
She hopped along just like a flea;
She burned her sweet little baby arm.
Since you left she's come to harm.
She needs the protection of her noble knight
Who her eyes with love did light.

—By Helen Dunagan.

IDENTITY SOUGHT

Every one in 10A is wondering if Orvil Gee is the writer of this poem and if he dedicated it to Peggy Jo? It was found near his seat in home room and you know that they sit by each other. They have also been seen together several times—We Wonder.—Read it over see if you won't agree:

"My Peggy's Charms"

My Peggy's face, my Peggy's form
The frost of hermit age might warm,
My Peggy's worth, My Peggy's mind,
Might charm the first of human kind.

I love my Peggy's angel air,
Her face so truly heavenly fair,
Her native grace, so void of art,
But I adore my Peggy's heart.

The lily's hue, the roses dye,
The kindling lustre of an eye;
Who but owns their magic sway?
Who but knows they all decay?

The tender thrill, the pitying tear
The generous purpose nobly dear,
The gentle look that rage disarms—
These are all immortal charms.

ODORS

School days, school days. What memories we have of our school days! But rarest of all are the odors of our school. As you come down the walk in the mornings there is the smell of the freshly watered lawns. What a pleasant way to start a busy day.

Upon entering, you pass Mr. Lackey's office. It sends forth an atmosphere laden with rich leather, new paper, typewriter ribbon, but best of all, the perfume his secretary uses.

Up the stairs to second floor and you are stifled with the smell of fresh paint and varnish and floor cleaners. But quick relief from all that comes upon passing Mr. Shiflett's office. The Christmas perfume for the office girls delights us all.

Third floor-paradise of delight at one end, usually, and puzzles and "phews" at the other. A kitchen and a laboratory combine to make third floor a very interesting place. Our cooks sometimes make "Ahs! and Ohs!" float down the hall of the odors of delightful foods though sometimes one's forced to say, "Burnt biscuits!" Mr. Shrader's laboratory is a curious and wonderful place filled with attar of roses on one hand—well, we will leave it to your imagination for the rest.

School days, how drab they would be without the odors!

THE SNEAKER

Duck low you! Here comes the Sneaker. Things have really happened this week and here's some newsy-news.

Louella Cobb has herself in a jam. Did you ever hear "Dead men carry no tales?" You would better do something to apease the wrath of Leola Kerby and members of the other "bunch."

C. A. Goldsmith is always successful as a campaign manager of a queen, and he is usually successful in his love affairs although he had to chase Marcelle Scharborough all over town to give her a box of candy for her birthday.

Which reminds the Sneaker that Marcelle has turned out to be a vamp at the dismay of her friends. It's to the treasure hunt with Murray—Betty is losing Frank to her—and Sam has the honor of cutting her birthday cake.

And, friends, here is one of the amazin' upsets of the year. Joanna went to the hunt with her old flame Bill Pratt after promising J. W. she would never go with Bill again. Joanna's songs have been "Night and Day," "When You're Away," "I Dream of You," "At Dawning," "I Wake up Smiling Because You're You" and I know "You'll Come Back to Me." Since the hunt she sings I have "Sweet Memories' of you "Holding My Hand," "When the Shadows Fall" and "We Were Alone Together."

Extra! Extra! Marcelline Wyatt's fair neck is adorned by the gold football presented to Roy Jones for team work! The Sneaker really calls that "team work," Marcelline. Why didn't team vote for the girl to wear the football instead of the boy who won it. Murray would have voted for his Kathleen "worth a dollar."

The Sneaker heard that Murray and Bill were quite confident they would win the treasure at the hunt. Murray had won it twice before and Bill once. Looks like a cinch with both of them in the same car.

Do you think Eddie was not popular after the queen's race? Congratulations on every side, a telegram from Dan Green, and a box of candy from Bill Hogsett! I warn you, Dalton.

It is not a fact that "Lizie" Payne enjoyed the hunt, being separated from Malcolm that night. Ya! Ya! Malcomb, I know you are sorry you take Spanish.

Norman says he has a weak heart —a hint to Miss Cartwright not to scare him so.

It is always the Sneaker's "politic" to do good. So Kenneth, old pal, I'm giving you assistance and maybe courage. Now don't get it she wanted this told, for it was said confidentially. Annice's ambition at the present is to go to the junior-senior banquet with you.

Oh say, Felix, old dean: What did you say was the name of the dimpled cheeked girl in Abilene? Theo, watch the boy.

Now, Maxine, maybe you can tell the Sneaker something. If you don't the Sneaker will tell you something. Just which one are you going with? We thought it was Bill but it seems to be Dub.

And have you heard anything so rich as Woodrow McClurg's courting Mary Elizabeth Newman, a freshman?

And just take a sneak at James Walker. Gosh! How that boy can court. He had a different girl each night last week.

We couldn't understand Pauline's sad look Thursday until we heard of the departure of Oland Scott. She shouldn't take it so hard since she received letters from Odessa so often.

I esk ye, Edna Mae, what happened to you and Chevers. You better "lay off." Olivia's old flame from Odessa, for Olivia has returned.

Mr. Barry said if Virginia Boone were a boy he would call her "Bab.' Do you catch?

Hendy shall we mention the fact you met Miss Miley at 4:30 Wednesday? Oh that's O. K. We understand now. It was about some place cards for the banquet.

We know Melba. She believes in killing two birds with one stone. She interviewed the new boys for the paper.

DID YOU KNOW THAT

Dot Dunagan likes to cut out paper dolls?

All of Melba Nixon's crow dcan't harm her love-affair?

Melba Lee and her "ward" seem to be getting on?

One of our "Senior Dorothy's" gave her ring to a sophomore?

Dorothy Hines must have lost her junior high boy friend?

Eddie seems to like "postal telegrams?"

The junior girls have planned most of their campaign for the Junior-Senior fight?

Graham has a date with Isabelle for the banquet?

J. W. and Joanna seem to make the most of Frank Cowden's car having seven shades on the windows?

J. W. and Frank seemed to have trouble with 'flats" recently. Could it have been that Betty and Joanna were along?

We have a Miss Frit-Crysler in school?

Maxine has two dates for the banquet and neither one wants to give up?

"Spooks" is going to break her date with Dub for the banquet?

John Ed and Darleen in James Walker's car for the Latin treasure hunt?

Teachers' policy is "Better weep for a husband than weep because of one?"

WE WONDER

1. What the results will be of the reconciliations at Jack's dinner party.
2. If it's true that Hunter walks to school every day with Maxine.
3. Why Kathleen dosen't hint to Bill that she wants a date with him for the banquet.
4. Why things affect Melba so easily these days. Could it be G. I.'s edparture.
5. If Helen is thrilled because Scrutie is back.
6. Whom Audrey and Janie will let wear their typing pins.
7. If they will ever put stools in chapel for Dorothy and Pat.
8. Why the farmers in Odessa keep some of our brides so worried.
9. How Doris likes to double date with Jack and Harriett.
10. If Melba's dream will come true.

"MADAM BOLOGNA"

Q. Why did my boy friend and I break up, and will he go with a certain girl? D. H.

A: I a msorry but I can not answer these questions through the paper. If you will come to my private office some afternoon I will give you explanation. However, I can assure you that he will not go steady with her.

Q: Will I ever become a movie star and be able to play opposite Clara Bow? R. S.

A: Play up to your looks, R. S., and watch Clark Gables technique; maybe some day you'll play Clara.

Q: Will I ever get over my dislike of tall, red headed boys? M. B. S.

A: Yes, you will if you try for even red hair can be nice.

Q: Can I ever have all I want? M. J. B.

A: No, because one thing will always lead to another and you'll never be satisfied.

Q: Will M. B. ever get tired of me—Will I repeat my experiences of last summer? E. P.

A: As it appears to me, E. P., M. B. is very constant and will remain so throughout 1934. Yes.

Q: Will I regret going with G. B. to the Junior-Senior banquet? I. M.

A: See me personally.

Q: Will my play be a success? A. M. B.

A: Yes, your plays have a well earned reputation and I can not forsee a failure in 1934.

Another Story Told of Fertile Rio Grande Soil

MERCEDES. (U.P.)—Another "true story" concerning the amazing fertility of the lower Rio Grande valley's alluvial soil came to light here on a 20-acre vegetable farm of J. R. Paxton, Mercedes shipper.

Paxton planted a bean "patch" last fall on the acreage near Donna. When the beans were ready for harvesting, market prices had dropped to such a low level that there was no profit in picking the crop. Paxton plowed the beans under and replanted the acreage to carrots late in December.

The carrots were in perfect condition when inspected recently by Paxton, but much to his amazement, he found the beans will be ready for picking early this month.

New High Record Lamb Price Paid

SAN ANGELO. (AP)—A new record high of 7 cents a pound for lambs was paid by T. L. Benson, San Angelo dealer, for 1,530 mutton lambs from J. B. Stephens of Eden last week. The previous top of the season was 6 1-2 cents. The lambs had been on feed for 70 days.

Benson paid from 6 1-2 to 6 3-4 cents for 810 range lambs purchased from Ballinger feeders.

Lamb trading continues active and light lambs which the buyers turned down last fall are going at 6 to 6 1-2 cents a pound.

Roy Chapman Andrews Is Speaker On Ford Dealer Radio Program

Roy Chapman Andrews with a baby camel in Mongolia

ROY CHAPMAN ANDREWS, explorer, archeologist and authority on primitive human life, will be guest speaker on the Ford dealers' radio program Sunday evening, February 11, being featured with Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians. The broadcast is from 8:30 to 9:00, Eastern Standard Time, over the entire Columbia network in the United States and Canada.

Dr. Andrews is famous principally for his explorations in the Gobi Desert of Central Asia, where he unearthed treasures of dinosaur eggs, the skeletons of pre-historic monsters such as the baluchiterium, and the remains of primitive human inhabitants of the Mongolian plains.

As president of the Explorers' Club and chief of the Division of Asiatic Exploration for the American Museum of Natural History, Dr. Andrews is the foremost living student of Far Eastern archeology. In the Ford broadcast, he will tell of some of his experiences in the wastes of Asia and will reveal his creed—the creed of all explorers—a wanderlust which has kept him in distant lands almost constantly since his first expedition into Alaska two years after he graduated from college in 1906. The program has unusual interest because of Dr. Andrews' extremely infrequent broadcasts and, indeed, his infrequent visits to America.

On the February 11th program Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians will present another of their characteristic musical offerings, which are now being sent from coast to coast twice a week, on Sunday and Thursday evenings. With the orchestra and glee club in the novelty numbers will be the Waring feature artists—Poley McClintock, Johnny Davis, Babs Ryan, Stuart Churchill and the Lane sisters.

Expect Demand for Range, Herd Bulls

AMARILLO. (AP)—The demand for good range bulls and herd bulls is expected to make the annual auction of registered Herefords at the Amarillo Fat Stock show, March 5 to 8, one of the most interesting features of the spring exposition according to W. M. Gouldy, the superintendent.

Several carloads of range bulls have been consigned to the sale by Panhandle breeders and there will be 40 or more outstanding animals consigned for individual sale, Gouldy said.

"Judging from the number of inquiries we have had there will be more buyers than bulls," Gouldy said.

Youthful breeders in the territory will have more than 200 baby beeves and 175 or more pigs on competition at the spring show.

Fire Hydrants Are Painted All Colors

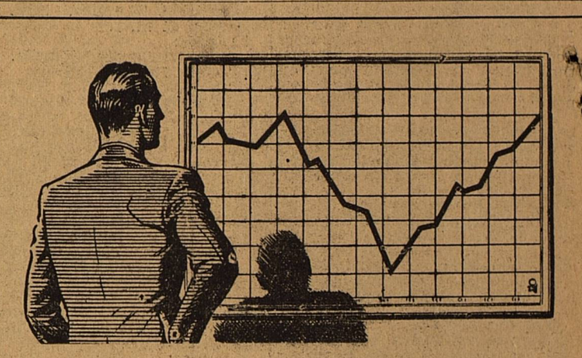

EL PASO. (U.P.)—The city's fire plugs will be gaudier than a barber pole under a new system of painting fire hydrants adopted by the city water department.

Eight different colors will be used to designate the water carrying capacity of the hydrants according to the size of mains to which they are connected. The marking system will enable city firemen to tell at a glance how much water they can get for fighting fires.

STATE BUYS RABBITS

HARRISBURG, Pa. (U.P.)—Fifty thousand rabbits, most of them purchased in Missouri, are being released throughout Pennsylvania by the game commission. Farmers are being asked to cooperate in feeding them in order to assure good hunting this fall.

Fred Brown
(The Grocer)
Says . . .

'The Same Principles Apply to Both Groceries and Gas!'

FRED BROWN, the grocer, heard the other day that the average family spends 10 times as much for groceries as for gas. It brought to his mind another comparison—that both businesses must operate on the same fundamental principles. In selling a dozen oranges, Fred's retail price covers their cost, his expenses in handling them and a small profit. If his customers demanded oranges at a price each thought he should pay, the grocer often would lose money, because many would not appreciate all the costs involved in selling oranges, or other food items. As it is, people buy oranges on their value to the customer and both buyer and seller benefit. Fred favors gas rates being controlled by law, but believes all factors of expense to The Gas Company should be considered in arriving at these rates, and some thought should be given to the value of gas.

The Browns are typical of families in your neighborhood who operate their own businesses. They are familiar with the many costs involved in selling the products in which they are interested, and appreciate the fact that their customers buy goods for their value rather than on price alone.

Considering the value of gas, the small place it holds in the family budget, and the fact that good service depends upon sound business principles—you will appreciate gas for the bargain it is.

CHANGED HOURS FOR GROCERIES

Grocers of Midland must close at 6 p. m. and may not open before 7 a. m., except on Saturdays, when they may close as late as 9:30 p. m.

These are orders of the president to all food dealers who adopt a legal code coming within the provisions of NRA.

Midland grocers met at the chamber of commerce office last week and adopted a code of fair competition. The NRA regulations are that when 75 per cent of the grocers of any city adopt a code, other grocers must abide by this code when they come under NRA provisions.

Downtown grocers unanimously agreed to open at 7 in the morning and close at 6 i nthe evenings, except on Saturadys, when they will close at 9:30 in the evenings. This agreement now becomes law under the code, and Midland housewives who ask a grocer to sell her goods after 6 p. m. or on Saturday's after 9:30 p. m. are asking these grocers not only to violate their word with their fellow grocers, but the NRA orders of the president, it was pointed out.

Under the code grocery stores will be open 69 1-2 hours per week, which is 6 1-2 hours more than the minimum required under NRA. Housewives are asked to cooperate with the grocers in their plan to cooperate with NRA officials by shopping early, and trading must be done prior to 6 p. m. to thus enable grocers to obey the law. These hours allow clerks time to "call their souls their own," time for recreation and being with their families. Grocers who signed were Piggly Wiggly, M. System, Midland Mercantile, Stevens & Son, Clarence Saunders, Hokus Pokus, A. W. Stanley and Wade Heath.

On June 30, 1926, there were 2107 county agents and 114 assistants in the United States.

Octogenarian Recalls Life In Days of '60

CRANFILLS GAP (AP)—Hardships of pioneering in Texas in the '60's when wild Comanche and Kiowa Indians roame dthe country and oxen were the motive power of transportation, are still a vivid recollection to B. B. Swenson, an octogenarian of Cranfills Gap, one of the few old timers still living.

Swenson was brought to America from Norway by his parents on a sailing vessel at the age of 18 months. The trip took 11 weeks. Three weeks were spent on the island of Santo Domingo because of calm and there the sun was so hot th epitch on the ship melted and ran down the sides.

On Dec. 25, 1851, the family landed at New Orleans and, after much delay made their way by ox wagon to Brownsboro, Henderson county, where the father split rails at 50 cents a hundred. When he was 7, his parents moved to a farm near Neill's Creek, Bosque county, 50 miles east of Cranfills Gap where Mr. Swenson lived 65 years.

While living here in 1867, the Indians captured Ole T. Nystel, then a boy of 14, who had gone with Carl Quested, a neighbor, to gather cedar poles. Nystel was captured after he had been wounded in the leg with an arrow when he tried to run. Quested narrowly escaped by jumping off a 20-foot ledge, luckily landing on a pile of cedar left by wood cutters, and then springing four miles to the nearest farmhouse.

When the people at home learned of young Nystel's capture, Swenson joined a group of men in search for the boy, but they were unsuccessful and three months later he was sold at a trading post in Kansas for $250 worth of merchandise.

Nystel, now deceased, often told of the cruel treatment he received from the Indians, said Swenson, and of how at any moment he expected to be scalped. It was believed his life was spared because of his youth. Quested probably would not have escaped had the Indians not been chasing the boy.

Swenson also recalls early experiences in breaking land and traveling long distances with oxen.

"One fall one of my brothers and I broke 50 acres of land with oxen hitched to walking plows and sowed it in wheat.

"We had to travel long distances for building material. Once a neighbor and I with an ox wagon went to East Texas to get 3,000 feet of lumber. The trip took a month and not a drop of rain fell on us. In returning, we stopped at Corsicana to water the oxen in a mud tank. Some of them mired and we had to throw a rope around their necks and hitch to the other oxen to pull thew out. Sometimes as many as five yoke of oxen were used to a wagon."

Notice of Changed Grocery Hours

ATTENTION OF THE PUBLIC IS CALLED TO CHANGES IN THE OPENING AND CLOSING OF THE GROCERY STORES LISTED BELOW, AN AGREEMENT HAVING BEEN REACHED IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE PRESIDENT'S REQUEST.

CO-OPERATION OF THE PUBLIC IS REQUESTED IN MAKING POSSIBLE THE MOST RIGID OBSERVANCE OF THESE HOURS, AS ANY DEVIATION COMPRISES A VIOLATION OF BOTH THE SPIRIT AND LETTER OF THE NRA CODE AND CALLS FOR SURRENDER OF THE BLUE EAGLE AND CRIMINAL PENALTY.

GROCERS' AGREEMENT UNDER CODE OF NRA GOVERNMENT REGULATIONS

Grocers meeting February 9, 1934 reached an agreement for uniform closing and opening hours. Under the code, it is obligatory that when 75 percent of the grocers in any city over 2,500 people sign an agreement on hours, the Government code authorities require all grocers, whether or not they agree to the code, to abide by the agreement reached by the 75 percent.

The grocers whose names appear below agree to 69½ hours of operation per week. The signatures of 75 percent of Midland grocers to this document render it necessary for all grocers whether or not they sign to keep their stores open not to exceed 69½ hours.

Grocers whose signatures appear below enter an agreement to open at 7 a. m. and to close their doors on the minute at 6 p. m., except on Saturdays to open at 7 a. m. and close at 9:30 p. m. According to the U. S. code, any grocer who deviates from these hours, must, under the law, NOT change his hours to exceed 69½ per week, in other words, if he opens before 7 a. m. he must close earlier, or if he remains open after 6 p. m., the law compels him to open that much later.

Asks Improvements Army Flying Fields

SAN ANTONIO. (AP).—Expenditure of $17,276,715 on army flying fields in the Southwest has been recommended by Maj. Gen. Benjamin D. Foulois, chief of the air corps, according to word reaching Fort Sam Houston.

Chief among the projects he recommended are improvements at Kelly field and Brooks field, two of the army's most important training fields during the World war. Both are still using hangars and quarters built during the war and designed only for temporary use. General Foulois has asked that Kelly field be made into a permanent station at an outlay of $6,417,921 and Brooks field be rebuilt at a cost of $4,328,550.

He also has asked for $3,144,873 to complete Barksdale field at Shreveport; $1,756,420 for Randolph field, headquarters of the Air Corps training center 17 miles east of this city; and $1,099,140 for Duncan field, home of the San Antonio air depot adjoining Kelly field.

Improvements for Hensley field near Dallas would be added at a cost of $42,398 and Post field at Fort Sill, Okla., would receive improvements to cost $497,408.

HOBO HABITS CHANGE

DALHART. (AP).—The old type hobo has passed if an inspection of the "traveling kits" of hitch-hikers and train riders passing through Dalhart today is a criterion. A large number carry tooth brushes, nearly all have razors and many carry their own soap.

MAYOR CUTS SALARY

OLEAN, N. Y. (U.P.)—Mayor Fred W. Forness of Olean has cut his own salary $200 because "this job is so soft it shouldn't pay anything." He notified the city auditor that his salary henceforth will be $1,000 instead of $1,200 annually.

HOLDS THREE RECORDS

ALL MIDLAND CATTLEMEN MAY ATTEND ODESSA'S FAT STOCK SHOW AUCTION

The Midland chamber of commerce will make a special effort to induce large numbers of Midland people to visit Odessa Feb. 22, 23 and 24 to attend the Ector county Fat Stock show.

The Odessa show last year drew more than 100 Midland people and it is hoped to send at least 500 from Midland this year; that the three-day exhibit and entertainment programs may draw a total attendance of around 1000 from here.

On the last day of the show, Feb. 24, a bull donated by John M. Gist to the Midland chamber of commerce will be auctioned, and all proceeds will go into the regular budget of the Midland chamber. This bull is a registered Hereford, a late two-year old and one of the best young bulls from the Gist herd.

Gist gave the bull to the Midland chamber nearly a year ago, but as no good opportunity was afforded to sell him, the veteran Odessa-Midland breeder kept the animal on feed without any cost to th Midland chamber. This auction sale, in which are included a herd of fine bulls and cows, is expected to draw practically every cattleman of Midland.

Attorney Innocent Of Stealing, Says

GEORGETOWN, Feb. 10, (U.P.)—C. E. Heidingsfelder took the stand today and denied that he stole $34,500 from a client, Mrs. Adele Pipkin of New York.

"As God is my judge, I am as innocent of this as any man on earth," he said.

CLUB SUPPLIES MAGAZINE

Principal Oswald Raggett of the Prairie Lee school and School Trustee Mills took a big supply of the Lions club magazines Saturday to the school. The Lions club was able to furnish these magazines to the rural school children from its magazine depot in the chamber of commerce office through the recent generous donations of old periodicals by Midland people.

company survey, had drilled to about 1,100 feet after 12½-inch casing had been set at 93 feet. The test was spudded January 29, and is 1650 feet from the north line and 2200 from the west line of the section.

L. C. Harrison No. 2 F. V. Addis was reported fishing for tools at 3,836 feet. The hole is 990 feet from the north line and 2200 from the west of section 35, block 43, township 2-south.

Broderick & Calvert's No. K-1 Elliott F. Cowden was drilling at about 3,910 feet in hard lime and was being watched for picking up the gray lime. It is 1980 feet from the south and west lines of section 16, block 43, township 2-south, T. & P. Railway company survey, two miles northwest of the Stanolind No. 2 E. F. Cowden, the nearest producer.

The Humble Oil & Refining Co. No. 1 T. J. Martin, in section 38, block 43, township 2-south, was down to 3,930 feet and oil men were awaiting news of acid testing after 1,000 gallons had been unloaded Friday. The well had a gas showing at 3733-36 feet, a show of oil at 3739, another oil show at 3,850-58, and at 3875-90 and again at 3910-30 feet.

Shooting of the Frank Gilpin et al No. 1 B. H. Blakeney, section 32, block 43, township 1-north, also was expected at any time. Drilling to a total depth of 4,405, the hole had been plugged back to 4,390 in preparation for a shot. It is 330 feet each from the east and south lines of the section.

Continental Oil company No. 1 O. B. Holt Jr., section 20, block A, public school land, had pulled in the rig while attempting to pull the big pipe at a total depth of 3,950 feet, and the rig was being rebuilt late in the week. The test is 1980 feet from the south line and 660 feet from the west of the section.

Atlantic Oil Producing company No. 1 O. B. Holt Jr. was swabbing and cleaning out after pay had been struck. Drilled to a total depth of 4,320 feet, the hole was plugged back to 4,290 and shot with 350 quarts from 4,090 to 4,290. On February 6 the hole swabbed and flowed 165 barrels in thirteen hours.

Stanolind Oil & Gas company No. 4 J. M. Cowden & Co., section 27, block 43, township 1-north, T. & P. Railway company, was drilling at the middle of the week at 2,932 feet in anhydrite. It is 660 feet from the north and 1980 feet from the east line of the section.

Stanolind No. 5 J. M. Cowden & Co. was drilling at 2,105 feet. It is in section 34, block 43, township 1-north, T. & P. Railway company survey, 660 feet from the north line and 1980 feet from the east line of the section.

Paris Mobs

you how to be brave!" to his prudent elders behind their breastworks. He flung himself into the range of fire of the Royal Guards, who killed him. Paris still remembers that boy, by a bridge across the Seine named after him on the scene of his foolhardy exploit.

The bitterest of Paris street fighting came in the years following 1870, when Georges Clemenceau had his baptism of fire. The "Tiger" was mayor of Montmartre then, and Montmartre was the hotbed of the Commune. France, broken and disheartened by the Prussian victory, was trifling with the thought of restoring a king. Clemenceau wanted no king, nor did he wish bloodshed. He promised that no massacre would be attempted with the cannon which his followers had dragged to the top of the hill. But the National Guard broke the bargain. In the fight that followed the regular troops quit and joined the rebels. Two generals were caught and executed. Clemenceau was hunted, but escaped. As Paris, or what was left of it by the incendiaries, was recaptured quarter by quarter, street by street, barricade by barricade, at least 25,000 persons were slain in the savage fighting.

In each of the shifts from monarchy to empire to republic, and in many a civil scandal such as the recent banking affair, there always has been one vital, terrible factor—the Paris mob. The Panama scandal, Boulangerism, the Dreyfus case, the closing of the monasteries—all these brought their train of rioting, with slaughter and property destruction.

Gay Paris, when aroused, descends ferociously into the streets.

Legion in Odessa Programs Sponsor

ODESSA, Feb. 10.—The American legion post in Odessa has in the past been responsible for some of the best entertainment programs in this city. The legion post has sponsored several rodeos and numerous dances. The Odessa post was also host to a ditrict convention which brought many visitors here.

Odessa Cattlemen Support Their CC

ODESSA, Feb. 10.—People of Odessa think enough of their town to join their chamber of commerce. In the past three weeks, the membership has increased by 40 per cent. Cattlemen, especially, are supporting the organization nearly 100 per cent of the town's cowmen having joined. The chamber is determined to go after business in an aggressive way.

Odessa expects to be intensively active in locating new oil familics here.

Sugar Legislation At Capital Upset

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10, (U.P.)—President Rosevelt's request for legislation to regulate sugar quota an dstock markets, meaning that he planned to adjourn congress by May 1, were upset, Speaker Rainey said today.

"It looks like we will be here indefinitely," he said.

PELT A DAY SAVES HIM

SAN SABA, (AP).—Lee Stewart has paraphrased the "apple a day" adage to keep the wolf away from his door with a pelt a day, accomplishing the feat with the aid of his hunting dog Queen and an assortment of animal traps.

One of the most successful trappers of the San Saba section, Stewart satisfies a hunting urge and at the same time makes a living during the winter months selling the animal skins.

During the past 60 days he has brought home 27 foxes, 18 o'possums, 11 skunks, 6 ringtails, and 3 raccoons.

Fur selling is practiced by many trappers in this part of the state. R. R. Bagley, fur buyer, has handled 50,000 pelts this season at his stations in San Saba, Austin, Marble Falls, Burnet, Llano, Menard, Ozona and Cherfield.

COWS HAVE HEADACHES

PHILADELPHIA. (U.P.) — Discontented cows are that way because they have headaches, according to Dr. M. A. Emmerson, assistant professor at the University of Pennsylvania Veterinary school, and headaches are the result of colds usually caused by de-horning cows in cold weather.

For years it was impossible to make a really sheer stocking that wouldn't show "rings." It wasn't a question of expense . . . even the most costly hosiery had this definite, if almost indiscernible flaw. It was a matter of the varying weight of the silk. This has now been overcome through Mojud's ingenuity, and we have a sheer stocking that's absolutely free from even the suggestion of a ring or shadow—clear as glass!
