Dulles Attempts To Patch Up Differences Over Suez

Kidnaped Infant Found Unharmed

By IRA LURVEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO (UP)— Month-old Ronald Joseph Bucher was found today with the young woman who kidnaped him.

Police found the child and the woman, after a door-to-door search of the neighborhood.

Police Capt. John McCarthy said the child was unharmed.

Police immediately returned the infant to its mother and took the other woman into custody.

She was identified as Gladys Bynum. Detectives said they went to her home on a tip.

Three hundred police were assigned to search the quiet, middle class neighborhood near Midway airport where the kidnaping occurred. They knocked on doors, questioned neighbors and searched trash cans.

Chief of Detectives William Touhy said "there's absolutely no ransom angle involved." The missing woman claimed she was pregnant, but there still was a possibility she was motivated by a psychopathic desire for a child.

The infant's mother, Mrs. Lois Bucher, 21, told police she met a woman who called herself "Gladys" while shopping for a baby hat in a nearby dime store. Mrs. Bucher said the woman, whom she estimated was six and one-half months pregnant, admired Ronald, an only child, and began a conversation.

Mrs. Bucher said the woman disclosed she was "ill" and asked if she could go home with Mrs. Bucher to "rest."

Mrs. Bucher took the woman home with her, but then could not get rid of her. The woman, described by Mrs. Bucher as 5-foot, 4-inches tall, 125 pounds, and with close-cut curly light brown hair, followed the mother to the store once and returned to the Bucher home.

"She told me her husband was running around with other women and she didn't really want her baby," Mr. Bucher said.

Mr. Bucher finally told "Gladys" to leave, explaining that Bucher would soon be home for dinner. The woman then complained of "feeling ill" again and Mrs. Bucher volunteered to go to a nearby drugstore and call "her" a cab. The Buchers do not have a phone in their home.

When Mrs. Bucker returned from phoning, both the woman and the baby had disappeared.

NAACP Suit Hits Legal Difficulties

By O. B. LLOYD JR.
United Press Staff Correspondent

TYLER (UP) —The future of the NAACP in Texas was hanging on a note of mystery today while District Judge Otis T. Dunagan pondered unrevealed legal questions that "could be very serious."

There were indications the NAACP might accept a temporary injunction.

The judge hearing the state's request for a temporary injunction against the Negro organization recessed court abruptly Thursday while State Attorney General John Ben Sheppard and Thurgood Marshall of New York, chief counsel for the NAACP, had a private talk, during which Marshall left once to make a long distance telephone call.

An informed source said a top strategist for the Negro group had privately proposed that the NAACP accept a temporary injunction if it can "save face."

Would End Hearing

Such a course would end the hearing before Judge Dunagan, during which the state has focussed attention on inside operations of the Negro group in Texas and in the nation.

Acceptance of the injunction could lead to setting up of a corporation in Texas divorced from the national NAACP.

The corporation could be set up under Texas laws, which Sheppard has charged the present organization had violated. It could keep its assets in Texas that way.

Judge Dunagan called Thursday's recess without previous warning. Afterward, he called reporters into his chambers and told them the legal questions which prompted his action had been called to his attention by both sides and concerned "the restraining order and temporary injunction."

Letters Revealed

The recess came at 2:11 p.m. when the state was getting ready to delve into the activities of the Houston branch of the NAACP.

Before the recess, the state had introduced a letter, seized from NAACP headquarters and dated Feb. 23, 1956. It was written by Edwin Washington, field secretary of the Texas Conference of the NAACP, to Jerry Holleman, and Fred Schmidt, of the Texas AFL-CIO Council in Austin.

Washington had thanked Holleman and Schmidt for past cooperation and outlined plans for a membership drive. He urged the AFL-CIO to use its "resources to give appropriate stimulation to the campaign."

Houston Mayor Hit

Another letter written by Washington outlined a "plan of action for all education committees."

The plan called for local NAACP representatives to try to get "sympathetic white and Latin-American parents" to enroll their children in Negro schools.

Another Washington letter attacked Mayor Oscar Holcombe of Houston as having had "little interest" in Negroes. It said that when Holcombe was mayor of Houston a Negro who walked into police headquarters to pay a fine was likely to be hit if he didn't take off his hat.

Negroes Allowed To Attend Classes At Lamar College

BEAUMONT (UP)— Pickets trying to keep Negroes out of Lamar College of Technology gave up at least temporarily Thursday night after three of them were arrested, and allowed Negroes to attend classes.

The victory was the second for the Negroes within hours. A group of them in three taxicabs had bulldozed their way into the college through the picket lines for morning classes.

Police dispersed the pickets then, but they returned later. Mrs. A. W. Lightfoot, who ran for mayor of Beaumont last August but came out a close second in a runoff, picked up a picket sign and marched in front of the college while others watched. She was arrested.

Officer also took Durrell Frank and L. T. Shelander to jail. The three were held for about three and one half hours before being released.

Crowd Gathers

Meanwhile, Negroes entered Lamar Tech and attended night classes.

Mrs. Lightfoot, a militant grandmother, refused comment when released from jail. She said only she would "let the people speak" for her.

While the three were being held, about 150 persons gathered around the courthouse, but there was no violence and they disbanded when the three were released. Authorities refused to say wha charges would be made, if any, but Police Chief James Mulligan said he probably would turn Mrs. Lightfoot over to the county to face charges. He said he would book her for unlawful assembly.

Negroes started attending Lamar Tech, which has an enrollment of more than 4,000, after U.S. District Judge Lamar Cecil ordered it desegregated. Pickets have been around the campus off and on since school opened.

Rangers Clear Campus

For a time, they were successful in keeping Negroes from entering. But Thursday morning three taxicabs forced their way through the picket lines almost before the pickets knew what was happening.

One picket, T. W. Sanford, charged that Clarence Mason, a Negro taxicab driver, pointed a pistol in his face and beat him on the hand with it. Mansfield Flanagan, another Negro driver, said a woman picket broke the rear window of his taxicab with a soft drink bottle.

Texas Ranger Johnny Klevenhagen and police took both Sanford and Mason in for questioning.

The police and the two Texas Rangers on duty then cleared the campus of about 50 or 60 pickets on orders from Mayor James Cokinos.

Ike Says

Banning H-Bomb "Foolish"

By JOSEPH L. MYLER
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower said today it would be foolish for the United States to stop H-bomb testing without getting a foolproof agreement with Russia and the rest of the world to do the same.

Mr. Eisenhower set forth his position in a news conference statement replying to Democratic presidential candidate Adlai E. Stevenson's proposal to ban H-bomb tests.

The President also said he has found it necessary to intensify his campaigning to clear away what he called the underbrush of opposition misstatements.

Russia Would Gain

Concerning H-bomb tests the President declared that the American purpose in conducting such experiments is to develop clean bombs which will not create a widespread radioactive hazard.

He said that if this county stopped testing on its own, there would be nothing to prevent Russia from going ahead with laboratory development work and achieving tremendous advantages while the United States stood still.

Any such unilateral action by this country would, he said, be foolish.

Other highlights of the President's news conference:

1. He said on the eve of the United Nations security council debate on the Suez canal that he still is convinced a peaceful settlement of the crisis is possible.

Replies to Stevenson

2. He specifically replied to charges made by Stevenson in New York Thursday night that this administration has been making "Johnny-come-lately claims" in an attempt to "seize partisan credit" for federal civil rights accomplishments. The President said that in World War II he became the first combat commander who ever used Negro troops on the battlefield mixed in with white troops. He agreed that general desegregation in the armed forces ran into opposition in some military quarters and that he believed after the war that general desegregation might cause some trouble.

But when the Republicans came into power in 1953, he said, he decided it was time to eliminate segrepation where the federal government had authority to do so. And that, he said, is what we did.

3. The President, in reply to questions, said he believes the two-term amendment was added. Mr. Eisenhower said he doubts that a second term President would lose power, because any man who hopes to succeed him would want the President's blessing.

Killer Is Given Life Sentence

CANYON, Tex. (UP)— A six-foot, seven-inch Oklahoman, Clarence Edward Young, was found guilty early today of the bayonet slaying of Robert Boyd Chapman last St. Patrick's Day. He was sentenced to a life term in prison.

Young claimed that he killed Chapman, of Holt, Mich., in self defense after Chapman had made improper advances toward him.

The 275-pound Young, from Picher, Okla., displayed no emotion when the verdict was read. He had sat quietly with his mother during most of the one-day trial.

The jury took the case at 5:07 p.m. Thursday and returned the verdict at 12:39 a.m. today. Randall County District Attorney A. W. Lair had asked the death penalty.

Chapman had picked up Young as a hitchhiker somewhere in Arizona. Chapman's body was found in a roadside park near Canyon with 14 stab wounds in the body. Young was arrested at Wichita, Kan., driving Chapman's car.

Identification Made Of Second Victim Of Wreck Near Groom

The second victim of a two-truck collision near Groom Wednesday has been identified as Marshall Gamm Poindexter.

Identification was made last night and this morning after friends of Mr. Poindexter were contacted in Amarillo by officers and his family was contacted by Duenkel - Carmichael Funeral Home.

The effort to learn Mr. Poindexter's identity was directed by Gray County deputy sheriff Buck Haggard who this morning reported that officers in Amarillo told him last night they had contacted friends of the man.

In telling the details of the search to identify Mr. Poindexter, Haggard said that a picture of a woman and three children was found in the man's billfold.

Names on the picture and laundry marks on clothes worn by the dead man led to his identification.

Mr. Poindexter was in Amarillo some time before his death. He left Amarillo and went to Denver, Colo., where he was traced by Haggard. Sometime early this week or late last week, he returned to Amarillo. He was picked up for investigation by Amarillo police and released when he told them he had a place to stay for the night.

He spent Tuesday night with a friend in Amarillo named Troy Burke.

Burke told this story to Amarillo police and Haggard, who was called to Amarillo last night:

Mr. Poindexter spent the night with Burke Tuesday night. Burke arose the next morning and went downtown. He returned about the middle of the morning and Mr. Poindexter said he might have a job waiting for him at the employment office. That was the last time Burke saw the dead man.

When Burke read the story in papers about the accident and the unidentified man he noticed that the name "Troy" was found on a cigaret lighter in the man's pocket. His lighter was missing, he said, and he related this fact to officers.

Haggard said this morning that Burke identified the lighter and said that laundry marks on clothes the dead man wore were those put on Burke's clothes by an Amarillo laundry. He also identified a shaving kit and small duffle bag as his.

This morning, Mr. Poindexter's mother, Mrs. Gladys Poindexter, was contacted in Kansas City, Mo., by the local funeral home.

Mr. Poindexter was born Sept. 19, 1924, in Kansas City.

Survivors include his mother, a sister, two daughters and a son.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Duenkel - Carmichael Funeral Home.

Local Police Continue Investigation

Local police officers today continued their investigation into the theft of a bowling ball, bowling shoes and a bowling bag stolen from V. H. Stieglitz, 1036 Neel Rd., earlier this week.

Chief of Police Jim Conner said this morning that those responsible may not realize it but they could be put in the penitentiary for three years for stealing as much as a candy bar from a car.

The chief quoted the law which reads, "Any person who breaks into or enters a vehicle with the intent of committing a felony or the crime of theft shall be guilty of a felony and upon conviction shall be confined in the state penitentiary for a term of not more than three (3) years."

Two Men Tried On Worthless Checks

Two charges of swindling with a worthless check were tried in County Court this morning.

The first charge was brought against Lee Stanton of Pampa on a charge filed against him by The Pampa News Stand on a check for $3 dated Sept. 3, 1956.

The second was that of Virgel K. Smith of Pampa who was tried for swendling with a worthless check of $10 on a complaint filed against him by Friendly Mens Wear. The check was dated Sept. 14, 1956.

Both men pleaded guilty and Stanton was fined $1 plus costs while Smith was sentenced to 90 days in jail.

County Tax Roll Nears Completion

Gray County Tax Collector-Assessor Jack Back reported this morning that approval of the county's tax roll is expected within the next 10 days.

The tax roll is presently in the hands of the Comptroller of Public Accounts in Austin and upon its approval will be returned to Back. The News will publish vital details included in the roll after its return.

Back said that tax valuations would be up "a little" this year.

United Fund Drive Plans Completed

The board of directors of the Pampa - Lefors United Fund yesterday made final plans for the organization's drive this year and appointed division chairmen for the campaign.

The short, hard-hitting campaign planed this year is to be kicked off with a breakfast in the high school cafeteria at 7 a.m., Oct. 30 and efforts will be made to wind up the campaign by Friday, Nov. 2.

Division chairmen appointed by the group include Joe Tooley, retail solicitations; Quentin Williams, services Gene Fatheree, wholesale; J. B. Maguire, professional; George Newberry, industrial; Don Radtke, oil and gas; Kirk Duncan, individual; and J. R. Sparkman, Lefors.

The board made plans to conduct a "business-like campaign" this year and general plans call for one drive in which all will have a chance to contribute.

The organization is trying to line up an outstanding speaker for the kickoff breakfast and announced plans to emphasize speed throughout the entire drive.

Clinton Evans, drive chairman, said, "With the size of budget we have this year, we will need everyone's cooperation. I would like to ask everyone to consider what his fair share would be in supporting these organizations (Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Red Cross, Milk Fund, Heart Fund, U.S.O. and Salvation Army) and give accordingly.

"In order to give more people a chance to participate in the drive, we will have greater emphasis this year on payroll deductions and bank draft authorizations so they can spread their contributions over the entire year.

"These division chairmen are rapidly organizing their teams and we need every worker that we can get. Anyone that can help out in the campaign please call Mrs. Emmett Gee at the United Fund office, 4-9522."

Security Council Begins Debate

By BRUCE W. MUNN
United Press Staff Correspondent

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. —UP— Secretary of State John Foster Dulles tried today in a whirlwind conference with the British and French foreign ministers to patch up Allied differences in time for this afternoon's Security Council debate on the Suez Canal.

Britain and France were ready with a resolution asking the council to endorse the London Suez conference proposals for international operation of the canal, nationalized by Egypt on July 26. The plan, originally proposed in London by Dulles, was approved by 18 of the 22 nations present.

Dulles was reported to approve the plan only "in principle" now, convinced that British and French attempts to press for a quick Security Council acceptance would lead only to a Soviet veto. The American position was reported to be that a "machinery of negotiation" should be set up, and that with seven foreign ministers here there was no time like the present. Dulles said Thursday night the council meeting might be the "most momentous" in history of the body.

Dag Participation Urged

Abdel Khalik Hassouni, secretary general of the Arab League, said in a statement issued in New York that the council could point the way toward a peaceful solution by arranging negotiations in which Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold could play an active part.

He also offered an alternative solution—creation of a negotiating body from among members of the Security Council with Hammarskjold sitting with this group. He said non-members could be invited to join.

Dulles' schedule called for him to meet this morning with British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau. The main topic was understood to be a get-together on council strategy, since neither France nor the United States has publicly outlined its plans.

But relations between the United States and its Franco - British allies have been strained since Dulles new conference remarks on America's traditional dislike of "colonialism" soon after Egypt and the Soviet accused Britain and France of practicing it in the Suez dispute. Newspapers of Britain have strongly criticized Dulles.

Dulles Receives Degree

There also was some criticism in the U.N. itself over Dulles late arrival in New York and his departure Saturday for Williams College to receive an honorary degee. Lloyd is pressed for time—he has to be back in London for the Conservative Party Congress Oct. 11.

Lloyd met Thursday night with Soviet Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov, but so far there has been no direct contact between the British and French and Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi, a veteran diplomat believed to have political powers second only to President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Police Search For Patrolman's Killer

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y. (UP)— More than 200 policemen hunted from door-to-door in a residential area with shoot-to-kill orders Thursday night for the cold-blooded slayer of a young Scarsdale, N.Y., patrolman.

The searchers, in teams of 10, fanned through a four-square-mile area for the driver of a stolen car who mortally wounded officer Charles Ackerly, 32, when he tried to halt the vehicle.

Ackerly was shot in the chest near the border of New Rochelle, located in Westchester County which adjoins New York City.

The killer roared south into nearby Larchmont, wrecked the car in a police chase, stole another and sped into New Rochelle. He abandoned the second car—its glass shattered by police bullets—and eluded police on foot somewhere in the city's Sun Haven residential section.

Trawler Sinks In North Sea

IJMUIDEN, The Netherlands (UP)—A capsized Polish trawler sank in the North Sea late Thursday night with 10 crewmembers trapped inside in a huge air bubble that kept them alive for more than six hours.

A Norwegian rescue tug rushing to the scene with cutting torches to free the men was only 55 miles away when the fishing vessel Cyranka disappeared beneath the storm-whipped waves.

The trapped men were kept alive to the last minute by the big bubble in the hull, witnesses said. They were heard beating frantically on the steel walls of the ship as it sank.

Communists Build New Causeway

QUEMOY (UP)— The Chinese Communists are building a causeway to a small island near Quemoy which would enable them to bombard this Nationalist offshore island outpost incessantly, a military spokesman disclosed today.

The spokesman said the Communists began work last year on a 2,000-yard causeway between the mainland and tiny Tating Tao Island only 6,000 yards from Quemoy but that Nationalist artillery has left gaps in the vital link.

He said if the Reds complete the causeway they can bring in an endless supply of ammunition for guns already in place there. But as long as they must depend on waterborne transportation Quemoy will be spared heavy artillery barrages.

In the past, he said, the Communists have been able to bring in about 200 rounds a week by junk which would be increased to 1,000 rounds a day over the new link.

Tating Tao is a flat island lying directly between Quemoy and the mainland. The Reds have been able to transport enough heavy guns by ship to reach most of the Nationalist island stronghold, but have been unable to knock buemoy out.

School Girl Hacks Aunt To Death

OAKLAND, Calif. (UP)—A slender 12-year-old school girl hacked her aunt to death with an axe and two kitchen knives Thurday rather than explain how she lost her $5 weekly allowance — but she couldn't go through with plans to ambush her uncle.

Police said the girl, Patricia Corcoran, of Mitchell, S.D., came to live with her relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Bunce, several months ago.

Patricia told authorities she attended seventh grade at Bret Harte Junior High School Thursday and went to catechism classes at St. Jarlath's Roman Catholic Church. She then went home, took a short-handle axe and sat on it on the living room couch waiting for her aunt to return from work.

Mrs. Bunce, 55, arrived home from her clerk's job at the Oakland Naval Supply Center and exchanged "Hi" greetings with Patricia. She then asked the girl what she did with the $5 weekly allowance her uncle gave her.

A few minutes later the aunt walked into the living room and the girl swung the axe, hitting Mrs. Bunce on the left side of the head.

"Auntie didn't say a word after the first time I hit her," police quoted the girl as saying. She then stabbed the woman with a butcher knife "until it bent," and then again with a bread knife.

The girl said she then stood on a washingtin machine near the door waiting to ambush her uncle. When the 54-year-old machinist arrived home from work she was unable to go through with the act. She dropped the axe and led him to his wife's lashed body.

Mollet May Become A Real Veteran

By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

Guy Mollet, France's mild-mannered Socialist premier, seems likely to become a veteran in his job.

Mollet leads one of his country's weakest post-war cabinets. His four-party coalition lacks a majority in Parliament.

During his eight months in office France has been beset by constant trouble in North Africa. The Suez Canal dispute has made things worse.

Now Mollet is facing his many critics in a new session of the National Assembly.

Will Survive Attacks

But it is indicated strongly that Mollet will ride out any attacks on him in the immediate future. Has already exceeded the average seven months in office of a post-war premier. It has happened that France's position in world affairs has been strengthened since Mollet took office Feb. 1 as his country's 22nd post-war prime minister. Mollet's own position has been strengthened also.

Oddly, the canal dispute has helped to strengthen France in international councils. France and Britain have been drawn more closely together because of their sharp differences with United States policy in the Suez situation. Britain is turning toward the continent, with France as its partner, in a growing tendency toward unity among the countries of Western Europe.

The prospect also is for closer cooperation between France, Britain and Western Germany in the unity movement.

Reach Agreement

France and Western Germany ended the last of their own disputes last week end when Mollet and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer reached final agreement on the future of the Saar coal area.

Adenauer has called in the strongest terms for stronger Western European cooperation.

As regards France's own problems, Mollet is trying to work out a new program for Algeria, where a costly rebellion is nearing the end of its second year.

The open ambition of President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt to make himself the leader of all Arab countries, and his aid to the Algerian rebels, has made France draw back on its plans to give Algeria a large measure of self-government.

New Plan For Algeria

But Mollet still hopes to crush the rebellion and then to offer Algeria a plan for limited independence which will nevertheless leave it, as it is now, a part of France politically.

Morocco and Tunisia, which have won their independence, were French colonies. Algeria is not. It is regarded as a part of metropolitan France and is represented in the French Parliament.

6. Asked whether he thought the $1 minimum wage should be raised again, Mr. Eisenhower said he first wanted it extended to cover people who haven't got it now. He said whenever the minimum is raised, it becomes harder for the man who is not covered to get coverage, because the difference between his wage and the minimum is getting greater all the time.

Cites Reduction

7. He said it has always been his administration's policy to increase the tactical strength of the armed forces. He said there has never been any announcement of any plans to reduce the strength of the U.S. Army. But he said new weapons may make it possible for the Army to carry out its mission with fewer men. He said that since the Korean War Army strength has, in fact, been reduced by about 700,000 men.

8. Mr. Eisenhower said he has no firm plans for political appearances beyond those already announced. But he made it clear there will be some more campaign trips by him. He said he would like to make about one short trip a week because he likes to go out and see people. Mr. Eisenhower carries his second-term campaign to Pittsburgh next week and immediately follows this up with a swing into Minnesota, Oregon and Washington.

9. Mr. Eisenhower asserted that what he is trying to do in this campaign is to stick to the truth. He said some people have said he does not receive the truth from the men around him. But the President said he has had a lot of experience in running organizations and he thinks he knows pretty well what's going on.

10. He said he wouldn't classify the chances of an immediate tax cut as bright. For logical tax reduction, he said, it is necessary to get rid of a lot of useless things and then see where you stand on tax cuts. He said he would not say cuts were coming right away.

Polio Victim Killed By Best Friend

COLTON, Calif. (UP) — Juvenile authorities today were handed the job of deciding the fate of an 11-year-old boy who confessed drowning his "best friend" in the yellowish waters of a hobo jungle pool.

Lester Stewart Wednesday told police he pushed crippled George Bryant, 8, into the pool in the Santa Ana River wash near railroad yards here and held his head under water until he drowned.

The freckled - faced schoolboy told offices he and Stewart, a former polio poster boy, played hookey from school Tuesday to go swimming. He said Stewart "called my mother a bad name" and the pair began scuffling at the water's edge.

Young Stewart said he shoved his playmate into the pool and held his head under water until he stopped struggling. Bryant was partially crippled because of a withered right arm from a polio attack several years ago.

The youth's body was found Wednesday following a night-long search. It was at first believed that Stewart had been a victim of a sex deviate and many hobos were rounded up for questioning.

Stewart's confession came after a railroad employe noticed the youth standing by the edge of the pool the morning after the drowning. Officers said the youth was questioned and admitted killing his companion.

New Trouble In Israel

JERUSALEM (Israeli Sector) (UP)—The Middle East feared today Israelis will organize a new punitive expedition to avenge the Arab slaying of five Israeli civilians in an ambush near the Jordan border.

An American engineer escaped death in the attacks.

In recent weeks Israel has retaliated against such alleged Arab attacks with savage military sorties that have taken the lives of at least 48 Jordanians.

And just three days ago Israel withdrew from the United Nations Mixed Armistice Commission which investigates such border incidents, charging that the investigators placed too much of the blame on Israel.

Israeli officials said Arab invaders opened machinegun fire Thursday on two vehicles near Sodom, at the southern end of the Dead Sea, and nine miles from Jordan. All four occupants of a truck were killed and one passenger in an automobile was cut down when he tried to flee.

'Operation Bootstrap' Is Real Success For U. S. Communities

By PAUL DIX

CARBONDALE, Ill. (UP) — A big area of 31 counties south and east of St. Louis has been suffering for years from a chronic depression in the midst of national prosperity.

It was marked by severe layoffs in the coal mines, dropping farm income, industries moving away and no new ones coming in, slumping population, deterioration of shopping areas, schools and homes.

Then three years ago southern Illinois University came right out and told civic leaders that no one was going to end their troubles but themselves. It offered them an economic blueprint which it called "operation bootstrap."

It proved so effective it is now the basis for intensive do-it-yourself programs in 12 communities, ranging from the grimy railroad and industrial city of East St. Louis to Elizabethtown, an Ohio River settlement of 600.

Here's What Happened

Eldorado, population 4,300, was the first Illinois town to seek the university's aid. It has come a long way since 1953. Here is what happened:

Citizens banded together and agreed how to approach their problems. Hundreds of volunteer workers themselves rebuilt the city hall, tore down unsightly buildings and turned a weed lot into a park. Merchants remodeled store fronts on the main street.

Committees brought pressure which got funds for a new bridge, a new high school and new factory sites. Two new industries were started by local men and several outside firms now have Eldorado under consideration for plants.

Others Progress

Other towns have made similar progress. Citizens of Mounds financed a factory building which enabled a garment manufacturer to triple his working force. Duquoin, depressed by mine layoffs, brought in one new industry expected to absorb almost all the unemployed.

The "bootstrap" program is directed by Richard W. Poston, head of the university's department of community development. The program is aimed at reviving towns physically and spiritually to make them better places to live and work.

"Any community can have these things if people want to get off their tails and work," Poston said. "We are helping people recognize their problems and face them realistically."

Tito In Driver's Seat In Red Talks

By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

President Tito of Yugoslavia seems to be in the driver's seat in his talks with Russian Communist leaders.

Just what is going on in the talks, now at the end of their second week, is still something of a mystery. But two things appear to be certain.

One is that the talks have nothing to do with relations between the Communist-ruled countries and the Western democracies. They concern Communist Party policies.

The other is that Tito, the one-time rebel against Stalin's dictatorship, is being consulted as an independent Communist leader fully equal with the highest men in the Kremlin.

May Strengthen Prestige

It seems likely that Tito's prestige will be strengthened as the result of the talks.

Especially, his prestige is likely to be strengthened in the Communist satellite countries.

It is no secret that Tito hopes to make himself, some day, the leader of a Balkan block of Communist countries which would include Bulgaria and Albania. His independence, and his part in the present talks, are likely to increase his prestige in other Soviet satellite countries.

Apparently Tito himself was surprised — and not too pleased— when Nikita S. Khrushchev, the Russian Communist chieftain, decided to visit him.

Khrushchev arrived in Yugoslavia on Sept. 19, on what was called in Moscow a vacation. That obvious fiction was soon exposed.

Wanted To Talk

Then it was suggested the Suez Canal dispute and Tito's relations with the United States and other Allied countries caused the visit.

But it was soon made plain that Khrushchev wanted to talk to Tito about developments in the Communist countries.

It was disclosed the Russian Communist Party of which Khrushchev is first secretary, had sent out a circular letter to Red leaders in the satellite countries criticising Tito.

The complaint apparently was that Tito, because of his rebellion against Stalin, is no longer a truly orthodox Communist. The implication was that Communist leaders in the satellite countries must not follow his independent line.

Split Reported In Kremlin

Then came reports that there had been a split in the Kremlin over the attitude to be taken toward Tito — and toward the loosening up of Kremlin dictatorship in some of the satellites, notably Poland.

Khrushchev and Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin were supposed to lead one faction, which favors good relations with Tito on a basis of equality and the loosening up of the grip on the satellites.

Former Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov, the chief survivor of the Kremlin's old Bolsheviks, was said to head the other faction, which doesn't like Tito and thinks Khrushchev has gone too far in his satellite policy.

In any event, Tito flew to Yalta, on the Russian Black Sea coast, with Khrushchev on Sept. 27 after eight days of conference in Yugoslavia.

Now Bulganin has joined the conference and Ernoe Geroe, No. 1 Hungarian Communist, has been called in.

Discouraged? Try Eating Roast Beetles!

WASHINGTON (UP)—Feel depressed? Discouraged? Unhappy? You might try eating roast beetles.

That's apparently the secret to peace of mind among some happy, happy pygmies living in the New Guinea interior.

The Rev. Dr. Martin Gusinde, professor of anthropology at Catholic University and an expert on pygmies, spilled the beans about the joy-producing beetles Monday.

Father Gusinde, just back from an expedition to New Guinea, said the pygmies whom he visited live in a miserable environment. But he said they are happy all the time anyway.

The 70-year-old anthropologist said it's apparently eating the beetles that keep them that way. The pygmies eat them roasted.

Cartoons Helping To Sell U.S. Series 'E' And 'H' Bonds

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)— During a campaign year, political cartoonists get away with a lot.

As Rube Goldberg, the old time inventor of steam pipes and gadgets that used to run water uphill was saying at the kickoff of the Freedom Fair in nearby Arlington, Va.:

"A cartoonist can picture a candidate standing at a bar or fist-fighting on the corner. The candidate's press agent calls you in the morning and says a libel suit is ready to be filed. And then the same afternoon, the candidate will call and say, 'I don't know why you did this to me, but can I please have the original'."

They Sell Bonds

About 45 of these cartoonists came to our town to open the "Fair," whose main idea is to sell "E" and "H" defense bonds. They fetched along their props, black chalk and drawing boards, and they paid their own way.

Al Capp, who some couple of decades ago created a character known as "L'il Abner," was appointed by President Eisenhower as chairman of the cartoon committee.

Fellows like Capp, Gus Edson, Goldberg and the likes of them did a lot to promote the sale of war bonds during the thing known as W.W. II.

Many Are Bond Holders

According to the Treasury Department, holding of "E" and "H" bonds at the moment add up to 39-billion dollars, owned by 40-million folks, who want to save and get a decent come-back from their investments.

This Freedom Fair thing, with all sorts of military exhibits and hoopla calculated to sell bonds, will run here until Monday.

On the bill are such popular entertainers as Jeanne Crain, Julia Meade, Lou Costello and Bud Abbott and others.

Same

The words "book" and beech" in Anglo - Saxon were the same, presumably because ancient Runic tablets were made of beechwood, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Male "Mother"

The male seahorse carries the eggs of its young and supplies them with oxygen through his blood steam. At the end of the incubation period (40 to 50 days), he expels the eggs as seacolts.

Yeasts reproduced by budding, while bacteria reproduce by fission.

Important Insects

Honey bees' great contribution to agriculture is the pollination of 50 or more important crops that are almost entirely dependent on them for seed production.

William Jennings Bryan was Democratic nominee for the presidency three times and was defeated each time.

Parasite Of The Poor

Most of us, surely, have a feeling of love and admiration for the philanthropist, who from his own generous storehouse of this world's goods gives of his substance to relieve the distress of others. The human race, fortunately, produces such people in abundance.

There is, in fact, scarcely a man of means who does not from time to time employ his resources in various acts of charity. And even when he does not give outright to others, the very nature of the free enterprise system causes him to help others by investing his surplus in productive means of enterprise, thereby assuring jobs for thousands and a constantly rising standard of living for millions.

Thus, even though he may not be charitable in a direct sense, he is benevolent inadvertently, since he cannot amass profit for himself without making it possible for others, too, to profit.

So long as freedom of enterprise remains it will be a moot point as to whether the donation of funds directly to the poor, or the investment of funds in production, is the more worthy deed. Each act has its place. And satisfaction accrues to the man who does either.

But the individual who becomes a professional do-gooder to alleviate the distress of those temporarily embarrassed or permanently unable, causes us endless problems and should cause a nearly universal distaste. For the professional do-gooder helps no one but himself. And the few who seem to benefit by his actions are greatly outweighed by the multitude who suffer because of his manipulations.

Let us recite a hypothetical illustration.

Here is a small tot who has fallen into a well. He is unable to get out by his own energies. Obviously he needs help. The true philanthropist who discovers his plight will get a ladder and rescue the lad. But the professional do-gooder is not of this stripe. Having discovered the small boy in a predicament, instead of expending his own energies as an agent of mercy, the do-gooder hurries to the government.

Rather than rescuing the lad, the do-gooder is dependent upon the lad's misfortune. He importunes the government to pass a law making open wells illegal. He illustrates the need for such legislation by pointing out the plight of the unfortunate boy, who must of course, remain in the well to emphasize the urgency. He also urges legislation which will make it mandatory for all parents to keep their small sons behind fences, provide ladders at all wells or other openings, and fine or imprison all persons who disregard such legislation.

A whole series of laws may result from the agitation of the do-gooder. But the lad remains in the well and all those persons conceivably connected in any way with the accident are fined or otherwise punished.

If the do-gooder is completely successful, he will cause a bureau of government to be created whose function is to prevent such occurrences in the future. Thus a whole family of bureaucrats will come into existence, all of them supported by tax money collected violently and aggresively from all the taxpayers. The do-gooder will smile benignly and sleep peacefully, feeling that he has now done a thorough job. But, in truth, he and his co-workers have done little if any actual good. They have become parasites of the poor, who must in large measure be plundered by the tax collector so jobs for the do-gooders will continue.

Now, after all this lenislative effort has been concluded, a professional ladder climber will be hired to go to the well and rescue the unfortunate youth.

We are reminded of the wise words of Richard Cobden, who in 1836 gave us this thought: "I know it has been found easier to please the people by holding out flattering and delusive prospects of cheap benefits to be derived from Parliament rather than by urging them to a course of self-reliance, but while I will not be a sycophant of the great, I cannot become the parasite of the poor."

If any of us would practice true charity, let us give of our energies or our substance directly to those who are afflicted. Let us avoid with all diligence the posturing of the do-gooder, who in fact is nothing but a "parasite of the poor."

The Doctor Says

By EDGAR P. JORDAN, M. D.

An important question which cannot yet be answered is presented by today's first correspondent.

Q — I have read that several scientists have stated that coal tar dyes used to color foods, drugs and cosmetics constitute a danger to the public. Several of us are particularly interested in coal tar dyes used in beauty parlor salons for hair coloring. Can you tell us anything about this? — Mrs. A. C.

A — I am reasonably certain that this refers to the report of a distinguished committee appointed to review the Food and Drug Administration's program on coal tar dyes.

This report, which sits in front of me, is dated June, 1956. Rather than presenting conclusions, the committee recommends an enlarged research program to test substances containing coal tar dyes in foods, drugs and cosmetics as to their possibility of producing harm.

Many of these substances have been used for years and this project does not necessarily mean that one must fear them. It does mean, however, that in time we shall know more about whether there are harmful effects or not.

So far as cosmetic preparations are concerned, there appears to be a good deal of difference between people. Many are not harmed, but some people can get skin irritations from almost any preparation, including those containing the coal tar dyes.

When there is more information available on the results of research in this field I shall endeavor to bring it to the attention of readers of this column.

Q — What causes belching, which may be so bad that it keeps people awake at night? — Mrs. M. A.

A— As a general rule, belching is believed to be the result of unconscious swallowing of air into the stomach which is later expelled. This is most likely to occur in emotional states and after meals. Unless associated with other symptoms it is of itself unlikely to be a sign of serious disease in the digestive tract.

Q — Can you give any information concerning a condition known as trichomoniasis? — Mrs. J. B.

A — This is an infestation of the genital tract, principally in women, caused by an animal parasite known as trichomonas. It is common, transmissible and often hard to cure, although there are many treatments for it which eventually bring success in most cases.

Q — Could a dermoid cyst cause one to have heart trouble? — Mrs. P.

A — A cyst is any sac which contains a liquid or semi-solid. A dermoid cyst is a particular variety in which the wall of the cyst contains skinlike tissue, hair follicles and oil glands. It is unlikely to be in or near the heart or to affect the heart directly.

The Church And The United Nations

In Edmund A. Optiz' book, "Case Studies of the Churches in Politics," he has a chapter under the heading "The Churches and the United Nations." He shows how the heads of the National Council of Churches have been promoting United Nations. This is the way he puts it:

"The American people are practically unanimous in rejecting the idea of a state church. They would also reject the idea of a State Department church, if that propostion were put to them. It is not put to them in so many words, but now that John Foster Dulles has become, in effect, the spiritual adviser on foreign policy to the National Council of Churches, a number of churchmen in the ecclesiastical bureaucracy are working at the job of providing the State Department with a religious arm, even though this may be far from their intentions. They seek to throw the prestige of religion and the weight of America's church members behind the current brand of internationalism; and they propagandize without ceasing for the United Nations. In the minds of the more expansive members of the official cloth, the church and the UN stand or fall together. A denominational official, writing in an official publication, he said: 'These attacks on the UN — as distinguished from friendly suggestions for improving it — are attacks on the Christian faith itself.' Pronouncements of the National Council of Churches are usually couched in more cautious terms, but they boil down to about the same conclusion.

"Churchmen individually are well within their rights in supporting the UN, and there is no questioning the sincerity of those who try to find religious sanctions for that organization. The logic of their position is quite clear, and may be framed as a syllogism: The UN is the only way to peace; the Church is for peace; therefore, the Church must give the UN its all-out support. To those who are knocked off their feet by this logic, there is nothing more to be said. If the only alternative to the UN is total war, then it is insanity to criticize or oppose it. But is this the case? Many thoughtful persons think otherwise. Some persons who sincerely long for peace are critical of the UN because they fear that—despite the noble aspirations of many of its votaries —the United Nations' concept contains the ingredients for bigger and holier wars. The mentality behind the UN pumps messianic pressure into the old dream of world empire which seeks to establish one world of (our) law. This means eventual collision with a coalition of powers who want to be outside our law because they too are gripped by the delusion of one world of (their) law. These are the ingredients of religious wars, and they are of satanic inspiration.

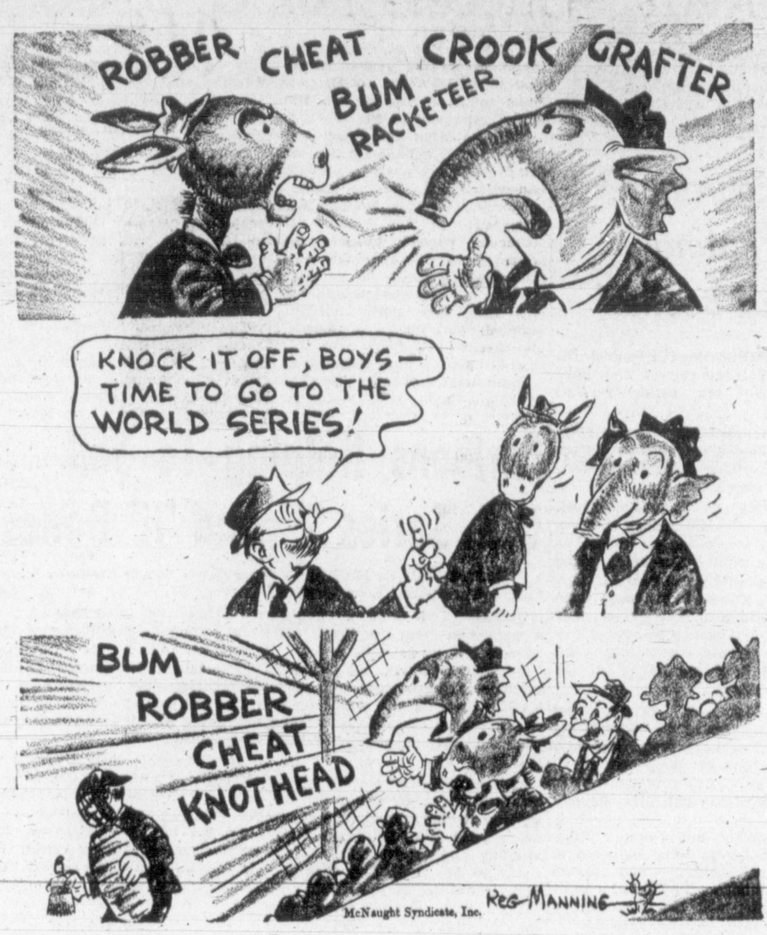

"The church has yielded periodically to the temptation of wedding itself to a political organization, so that when the organization is discredited the church suffers. Ever since Constantine the Church has been linked in shotgun unions with the state; it has made its accommodation to secular authority, and has sometimes usurped that authority. For the first several centuries of its existence the Christian church was a fellowship of love among those united in God, a new kind of life cherished within the decaying Roman Empire. But in the fourth century an alliance was effected between church and state, and many features of the old Roman Empire survived their graft onto a stock radically different from the original. Burckhart writes that Constantine 'gave the clergy every possible guarantee of favor, even so far as a sort of participation in rule, and in return the clergy were the most devoted agents for spreading his power.' The Dutch theologian, Heering, dates what he calls the fall of Christianity from this period. Such a church-state relationship may be political realism in the Machiavellian sense; it is not religious realism.

"Rulership has never been entirely secular. Every state has had to invoke some kind of religious sanction for its operations. Political power is strengthened if the state has only one spiritual authority to deal with. Conversely, for a church that wants to gain the whole world there is a clear advantage in gaining access to the levers by which that world appears to be moved. The disadvantages of a church-state arrangement are not so obvious. But it always sets in motion a kind of Gresham's Law of the bad driving out the good. In the long run, instead of the state becoming Christian, religion becomes politicalized. That is to say, it ceases to be religious!

"Thus it is to be expected that proponents of a world political order along the lines of the United Nations should seek to enlist the church's support. They meet with little resistance because among churchmen there is a vague 'world-mindedness' which is labelled 'internationalism.' The secular idea of a world political organization is also labelled 'internationalism,' and the two radically different concepts are mingled in a confused combination. There is true internationalism in a religion with a world missionary outreach but it has nothing to do with politics. It is similar to the internationalism of free trade, free travel, and the free exchange of ideas. But this brand of internationalism is confused with the other variety which embraces a world political organization like the UN or world federal government."

Anti-Anti-Communists, Yes
Anti-Communists, No

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

George Sokolsky writes that "this country is tired of Communists, Fellow - Travelers, Anti-Anti-Communists and, I fear, even Anti-Communists," meaning Red-Baiters.

George takes in more territory than he was authority to speak for when he says "this country." I think he does put into a few words the "policy" of the Eisenhower Administration and its political party. He assays the weakling, brainwashed mass-mind which enabled the campaign against "McCarthyism" to succeed even though it substituted a smear for a bill of particulars.

But, speaking for myself and, I am sure, for others, I declare that this country is as much "ours" as "theirs" and that we are not tired of Anti-Communists because that is what we are. Of Communists, Fellow-Travelers and Anti-Anti-communists, yes, we are sick and tired. But no traitor, no accomplice of traitors nor anyone who persecuted patriots for hounding traitors, can command our lenity. We deeply believe that if just out of weariness, we should forget their treacheries and their personal persecutions of good Americans, in Hollywood, for example, we then would be traitors to our flag, our cause and our comrades in a bitter fight ever since 1933.

We do not know how many of us there are but we are more faithful to the constitution than most of those who have solemnly sworn to defend it in taking the oath of office.

We have special contempt for northern urban machine Democrats. In spite of Hiss, Frankfurter, Harry Dexter White and debauchery of public office for private graft by members of the Roosevelt family and the Truman political household, they are doggedly Democratic still.

The fact that we have no real party just now is thrown in our faces as though that were proof that we are an incoherent rabble of petty malcontents. But we may have unity and a party of our own by next Presidential election and right now we have principles and the honor to proclaim them, knowing that we are a minority without a press, patronage or, as yet, a famous leader.

We take more honest pride in association with Senator Bricker, Clarence Manion and Tom Werdell, of California, than any Democrat can in Stevenson, Kefauver and Harriman. We are the heirs of the faith of Senator Taft and the defenders of that faith.

We remember that Roosevelt betrayed us in 1933 when he permitted the traitors to move into our government so soon after we put our faith in his melodious campaign orations, largely abusing Herbert Hoover for extravagance. Roosevelt double-crossed us then. Eisenhower whip - sawed us after 1952.

Eisenhower gave us the sunshine of his smile but I may say that was not deceived because I knew the character of the men who suddenly swarmed to the intimate councils of this sudden Republican. But others of my political faith were taken in and that is why they are so fiercely determined not to vote for him.

Now in Look magazine and in a book right out of the White House councils we learn that Ike never had any intention to keep faith with us but was determined to make up his own concept and bull it through even if he had to destroy the party and make a new one.

Many of us think we can jiggle the returns and throw the election into the House of Representatives but they are talking nonsense. We might, however, by failing to vote or by writing in the names of Coleman Andrews and Werdell, become the actual cause of Ike's defeat and that we do not fear at all. As Mr. Hoover said in his speech at San Francisco, many Americans are no longer at home in either party. Stevenson is no worse than Ike to us. At least he did not double-cross us, if only because we did not give him a chance to.

We saw Ike's party licked in rock-ribbed Maine and that gave us grim satisfaction because Senator Smith, the woman who started the campaign against "McCarthyism," stayed home from San Francisco to make the fight and could not deliver. Now we shall see whether "McCarthyism" gets repudiated in McCarthy's home state where the election of a Democratic Senator would be another rebuke for Ike's palace guard.

AN HONEST DEMOCRAT TAKES A WALK

(Chicago Tribune)

Mayor Ploetz of Sheboygan, Wis., won the 6th district Democratic nomination for Congress in last week's primary. The race was fairly close. Chairmen of all six of the Democratic county organizations in the district supported his opponent. Outside the city of Sheboygan, Ploetz ran second. There, where he had condoned and protected the riots of CIO goons in the two year surike against the Kohler company, he received a large enough majority to carry the district.

After the votes were counted, Dr. M. L. Richdorf, Democratic chairman of Sheboygan county, announced his resignation because he could not support Ploetz in good faith. The vice chairman of the county organization said he was going to resign, too.

"I opposed Ploetz vigorously because I thought he was the choice of only a segment of the district's population and because I don't think he has the qualifications for the job," said Dr. Richdorf. "If he's not qualified to be mayor — and I don't think he is — he certainly is not qualified for Congress."

Dr. Richdorf's analysis was honest and accurate. Ploetz owed his nomination to one group — the CIO goons of the Sheboygan area. Other Democrats in the district were probably revolted by his tactics, but the district is heavily Republican and their numbers were not sufficient to overcome the militant group within their party. They should take comfort in the fact that only a Democratic landslide could send Ploetz to Washington.

Dr. Richdorf, we will hazard, merely intends to sit this campaign out. But he is unlikely to find Democratic candidates in future campaigns whom he can support in good conscience any more than he found one in this. His party, thruout the north, has become the property of union bosses like Walter Reuther and his fellow socialists. They own its candidates and dictate their platforms.

Broad Atomic Problem Will Not Be An Election Issue

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Although the atom is not a partisan particle, the future and the pioneering development of this unparalleled force for industrial, commercial and agricultural uses, here and abroad, will be determined by the outcome of the November Presidential election.

Ironically, the broad atomic problem, including the ownership, management and application of this great new source of energy, which might pacify Colonel Gamal Abdel Nasser and other bargain - basement dictators by irrigating and cultivating their unproductive desert acres and jungles, will not be a major or emotional issue in the Eisenhower-Stevenson contest.

Still moe ironically, although understandable, few voters will realize that, in choosing between President Eisenhower and his Democratic opponent, they will be declaring whether Uncle Sam or private utility interests and their associates should build, own and operate atomic plants.

This controversy, although far more important from a long-range viewpoint, revives the 50-year-old duel over the desirability of Federal or private development of conventional water-power resources, such as the Tennessee Valley Authority, Grand Coulee, Bonneville, Hoover Dam, Hell's Canyon, the Niagara River and the St. Lawrence River project.

It envisages a new and fiercer battle between the Roosevelt-Truman believers in a Federal power empire, and President Eisehnower's idea of a "partnership venture," embracing the Federal Government, the states and private companies.

Capitol Hill Democrats have tagged this program as a "give-away" of natural resources, and it has been accepted as campaign dogma by candidates Stevenson and Kefauver, especially by the latter, whose state of Tennesse has benefitted so richly from TVA.

The Democrats frankly advocate the application of Roosevelt-Truman concepts on water-power development to atomic enery. Their viewpoint was embodied in Sen. Gore's bill at the recent session of Congress, which would put the Government in the atomic energy business, and bar private firms from participation except by Federal permission. Senator Gore is the more able of the two Tennessee representatives in the upper chamber.

The Gore measure did not become law, but the public atomic bloc was able to hold up the bill, which would have justified private interests in building atomic reactors and plants on a large scale. They blocked enactment of a proposal for partial Federal reinsurance for damage to life and property caused by atomic explosions and radiation.

These possible disastrous effects have been offset by the Government in construction of the atomic submarine Nautilus because the huge cost of protective shields was no obstacle in creating this amazing underwater weapon. But private atomic firms and private insurance companies cannot afford to underwrite heavy atomic risks.

The atomic problem will be settled by the next Congress and Administration, even though, curiously, it may not figure as an issue in the campaign. The United States will probably not turn to nuclear energy on a large industrial, transportation or agriculatural scale for 10 or 15 years, because it is so much more expensive than conventional and available fuels — oil, gas, electricity, water-power.

Nasser, of course, might help to deplete the Western Hemisphere of oil, and at least boost the domestic price of that product and of gasoline. He would then aid atomic advancement.

England and Russia, however, must depend largely on atomic plants within a few years for lack of coal, oil, gas and water-power. Unless the United States keeps pace with them, they will gobble up foreign markets for atomic reactors and atomic accessories.

Russia, and not the United States, may earn the eternal gratitude and support of undeveloped countries — Egypt, India, China, South America, for example — by atomic application to their industries, to their agriculture and to their current transportation difficulties.

In short, despite the voters' preoccupation with far less important issues, the atom is deep in politics.

Medal Of Honor Man Was Not Let Down

By HENRY McLEMORE

STUTTGART, GERMANY — If I were asked to say what kind of man commands our Seventh Army in Germany, I'd be content to tell this story about Lieutenant General Bruce Clarke and let it go at that.

A few years back, when the General was commanding Fort Hood in Texas his Adjutant General called and said the General might be interested to know that a Medal of Honor winner in World War II, a sergeant, was among some new arrivals.

General Clarke said he certainly was interested, and asked that the Sergeant pay him a visit.

The Sergeant reported to the General the next day, and after talking about their experinces in the war, General Clarke said that he would like very much to have the Sergeant teach in Non - Commissioned Officers' School at Hood. He explained that the presence of a Medal of Honor winner on the faculty would add great prestige, and serve as an inspiration to the men.

The Sergeant did his best to beg off. He said he didn't know a thing about teaching, couldn't possibly stand up before a group of men and talk to them, and that he would be very much obliged if the General didn't insist.

But General Clarke did insist, and — when three stars insists against three chevrons, you know who wins. The General told him to report to the N.C.O. school the next day, and not to worry — that any man who could win the Medal of Honor by fighting his way single - handedly through tanks, bunkers, artillery and machine - gun fire, wouldn't have any trouble talking to a group of soldiers.

The following day the colonel commanding the Non-Commissioned Officers' School called General Clarke. He seemed a bit upset.

"Sergeant Jones (Ed. Note: not his right name) is here, sir, and still insisting he shouldn't try to teach. And I agree with him sir."

"You agree with him? Just why, Colonel?"

"Sir, Sergeant Jones doesn't read or write."

"Well, that does make your job a little tougher, doesn't it, Colonel," General Clarke said.

"I don't understand, sir."

"Why you've got to teach him to read and write in thirty days, that's all. I want Sergeant Jones to graduate with his class. He'll get his diploma, and he'll earn it."

"But, General, I. . ."

"That's enough, Colonel. He is going to read and write a month from now if you and your whole faculty have to stay up all night, every night. We are not going to let a Medal of Honor winner down. He didn't let any of us down. Now get to work."

"Yes, sir, General."

Three weeks later General Clarke paid a visit to the school. He was visiting classrooms, and at one he pulled up short — in disbelief.

There in front of a class, talking confidently, and jabbing the blackboard now and then to emphasize his point, was Sergeant Jones, teaching squad tactics.

More important, he occasionally glanced at notes on his desk to refresh his memory.

The Sergeant graduated with his class.

General Clarke will tell you that just about the happiest moment in his life came when the Sergeant visited him, carrying his diploma. He read the morning paper to the General, and showed how he could not only write his name, but many other things.

THE TIME TO USE COLOR like a spotlight—to illuminate what you want seen, to shadow out what you don't—is when you're a lady-in-waiting. So says Max Factor, Jr., addressing the fall bumper crop of expectant mothers.

NOBODY, says this Hollywood expert, has better command of this spotlight technique than an actress. And lately, no actress has better shown her mastery of it than the one turned princess-Grace (Kelly) Grimaldi of Monaco, back home for a visit with her Prince.

On her arrival, reported wearing a chic pink hat and a matching lipstick as color-decoys for a quiet grey-and-white checked maternity suit, the Princess demonstrated her mastery of the technique Factor mentions. As a luncheon guest of honor, on one public appearance, experts observed another example of it. She wore a vivid red ascot, tied aslant of the collar of a boxy black suit. Working like a team to flag eyes to the Princess' pretty blonde face were red scarf and a matching red lipstick as arresting as bright red letters on a poster.

An actress' platform during this period — looking as fashionable as she ever looked in her life — is one any expectant mother can mount. Factor says it can be done with little pinch to her purse if she'll invest in inexpensive color gimmicks; will use to capitalize on her face value.

Take multi-hued flowers. Fashion offers as many — from velvet forget-me-knots to lush Edwardian silk roses — as a cart - loaded vendor, says Factor. How to use?

Lace flowers through a topknot. Ring a chignon with flowers, or encircle your head with a bandeau. Knot a flower into a neckerchief. Pile flowers on a hat or thread them into a snood. For evening, tuck an extravagant bouquet into the bosom line of your dress.

There are more Edwardian offerings to the mother-to-be in layered colors of chiffon, in colored lace, lit with sequins. For wide-necked maternity jackets and smocks, nothing is prettier, says Factor, than fill-ins of multi-color chiffon or lighted up lace, jeweled lace or color-layered-chiffon to swathe your evening-bared shoulders, like a Sargent beauty.

The lush portrait colors — Vermeer green, Holbein blue, Marie Laurencin pink — can be used to make your admirers murmur, "How like a painting she looks!" Use one of these pretty pastels, suggests Factor, as "arms of color" — as a blouse worn with a dark jumper - type smock, as sleeves of a somber maternity jacket — and cue your make-up to this spotlighted color area.

Here are his make-up tips for flagging eyes where you want them to go: If you're pink-and-white, as, for example, Princess Grace is, wear a strong pink or an outright rosy make-up foundation. A fluid foundation and rouge will help to refine the texture of your skin, enhance its silky look.

If you're tawny or dark-skinned, dare to deepen rich tones with make-up. Wear on your lips the most arresting pinks and reds you can find in lipstick, in high-fidelity shades that intensify color. When making up lips, round out their fullsome curves. Make more of your eyes by enhancing color with green or blue shadow, and strengthen shadow with green or blue markings from an automatic eye pencil. Accentuate, sweep of lashes, curves of brows.

MATURE PARENT

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Last night Andy's father gave him a fine punishment.

The boy "forgot" to telephone home from a friend's house, arriving nearly two hours later for dinner. His father waited until he had eaten. Then he told Andy that he could neither visit friends nor have them visit him for a period of two weeks.

Angry, Andy complained of his punishment to his mother. After he'd expressed himself fully, his father called him and asked: "Why are you angry at me? I didn't get you into this trouble. Forgetting did. Why aren't you angry at this forgetting habit that loses you fun all the time instead of at me?"

Then inviting the boy to sit down he went on, "Just let's count some of the fun that forgetting has cost you lately. First, there was the carnival you wanted to go to, remember? You didn't get to go to it because when Uncle Ted came by to pick you up, Mother didn't know where you were.

"Now you've let forgetting do you out of your pals for two weeks.

It's punished me, too. Twice because you've forgotten to telephone home where you were, I've had to leave on trips without saying goodby to you. Once if I'd known where to reach you, I could have taken you with me."

By the time Andy's father had finished, the boy's resentment had been switched from his father as his punisher to his own forgetfulness.

To help a punished child re-direct his anger from us to the inward fault which has got him into trouble is always the first object of punishment.

The second objective is to open his eyes to the fact that his current punishment is just another of many deprivations inflicted on him by the fault.

Punishment that ends in a child's resentment of us, in his fear or guilt is just a waste of everybody's strength.

For each of these destructive feelings blocks moral energy, inducing a great sense of helplessness. This passive condition continues just so long as the child sees us as the cause of his punishment.

New Plan Approved For Church

At their Church Council the Church of the Brethren last Friday night voted to adopt a temporary new organization plan. This plan is to be in effect for one year while the Constitution Committee works out details for a permanent organization to be put into effect by October of 1957. The Constitution Committee with Ralph Byrum of Miami, as chairman is working under the leadership of the new pastor, James L. Minnich, who came here Sept. 1 from Freeport, Ill.

The temporary plan calls for a Church Board which is authorized by the Church Council to work with the pastor and to make interim decisions between quarterly council meetings.

The new Church Board had its first meeting Tuesday, Oct. 9. At their Sept. 28 Council Meeting the church elected these persons as officers of the church to serve on the Church Board: Rev. Clyde Fry, of Waka, oderator; Amos Harris, Kingsmill, church board chairman; Mrs. Ralph Byrum, Miami director of children's work; Don. Elledge, adult church school; Ralph Byrum, Pastoral Committee chairman; Mrs. Ernest Rose, Christian Education Committee chairman; rs. Wayne Irwin, Evangelism & Fellowship Committee chairman; Mrs. Charles Beard, Music & Worship Committee chairman; George Maul, Stewardship & Finance Committee chairman; Bryce Hubbard, Personnel & Nominating Committee chairman. Other members of the Church Board are Harry Miller, treasurer; Mrs. Nadine Godfrey, church clerk; Wayne Irwin and Mrs. Dean Burger, presidents of men's and women's work, respectively.

Also at this Council Cecil Hubbard of Claude was elected to serve as Assistant Moderator. Ray Burger and Cecil Hubbard were elected as delegates to the Oklahoma and Texas District eeting to be held next August; and Ralph Byrum and Mrs. Wayne Irwin were asked to serve as alternate delegates. Wayne Jones was elected as assistant adult Church school superintendent.

Methodist Men Meet

More than thirty laymen attended the organizational meeting of the Methodist men, held in the Fellowship Hall of the Metnodist Church here.

Rev. Edwin Hall, minister of St. Paul's Methodist Church, Pampa, was speaker of the evening, presenting the aims, purposes, and values of such a group. The Rev. Mr. Hall was presented by Bazel Pettit, who was elected during the busines session to serve as president of the charter group.

Other officers elected to serve with Pettit are: Russ Howard, vice president; and Ox Fleming, secretary-treasurer.

The program and business session followed a steak dinner, served by members of the entertainment committee of which, H. T. Dickens, was chairman.

Russ Howard was in charge of arrangements for the affair.

Women In The Church

By MARY FOWLER

"At a recent Bible Institute in Nyamaropa, an African mother testified to the great changes Christianity had made in her life," reports Mrs. Ellabeth Griffin, Methodist missionary in Southern Rhodesia. "She recalled, with tears, the fact that years ago she had — according to tribal custom — destroyed her own children, who having been born twins were regarded as evil and disastrous to the well-being of the group. It was with a face uplifted in joy that she praised God for the gift of light to Africa. It is a later son of this very same woman, who as a government health demonstrator is teaching his people new ways of cleanliness and combating superstition with knowledge of disease. The old and the new are ever present. When the temptation comes to us to be impatient and discouraged at the pace with which we progress, we are reminded of so much change which has taken place, so much of good which is replacing evil."

When 10,000,000 American Protestant church women observe "World Community Day" on Friday, November 2, the subject of their discussion iwll be on the UN Declaration of Human Rights, and its pronouncement to the world that "all human beings are born free and equal in dignity and rights." The Day is to be observed under plans made by the United Church Women, an interdenominational organization of Protestant women of the larger churches of the nation, and affiliated with the National Council of Churches. Mrs. J. Birdsall Calkings, of Alexandria, Va., is chairman of the observance for the year 1956. Implementing the Declaration paragraph that "All human beings. . . should act toward one another in the spirit of brotherhood," the women will make practical offerings for the relief of suffering peoples in all parts of the World. Among other things, the World Community Day offerings will provide: seeds and plows for Greek and Austrian refugees; anti-tuberculosis drugs to battle this disease in India, Pakistan, and Korea; a million vitamin tablets for Kikuyu children in Kenya, Africa — orphaned by the Mau Mau terrorists; clothing, drugs and blankets to flood sufferers in Asia and in America.

The Kiwanis Support of Churches committee presented a program at the High School assembly Wednesday morning. Jimmy Hopkins, Junior Kiwanian for the month of September, introduced Melvin Clark, Chairman of the Support of Churches committee, who was in charge of the program. Coach Clifton McNeely was introduced as a member of the local Kiwanis Club. The club president, Ralph McKinney, spoke of the importance of attending church, and explained why the Kiwanis Club backs this movement each year. They have set a goal of 50,000 people in Pampa attending church during a period of five Sundays from Oct. 7 to Nov. 4. The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

ROY JOHNSON, Director of Education
First Methodist Church
Pampa, Texas

A BALANCED SPIRITUAL DIET

A mother once asked her little son: "Tommy, had you rather go shopping with me or visit your Aunt Mary?" The lad replied, "Well, if I had my rathers, I'd rather go fishing!"

A minister was once asked by a member of his congregation: "Had you rather a person attended Sunday school or the worship service of the church?" The minister replied, "Well, if I had my rathers, I'd rather he would attend both!"

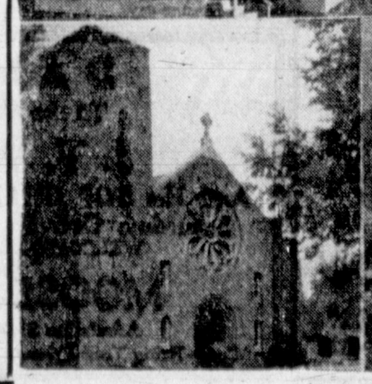

This question reveals a very common misunderstanding as to the purposes of both the Sunday school and the worship service. Actually the question is much like asking a parent if he had rather see his child eat all vegetables or all meats. The wise parent wants to see his child eat both. One without the other will not provide a growing child with a wholesome, adequate diet.

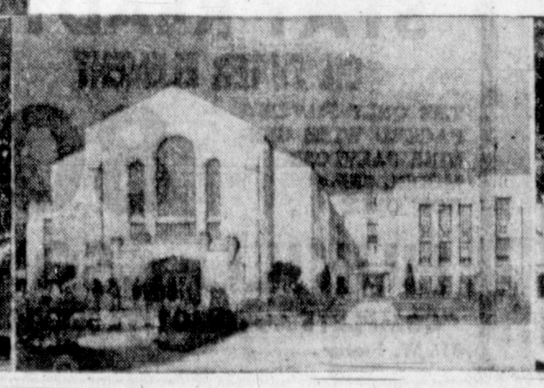

The Sunday school is intended to provide religious instruction geared to individual levels of development and need. It also provides a group discussion and intimate fellowship. It is in the friendly give and take of a small group that important spiritual growth takes place.

The worship service makes a unique contribution to development of our Christian lives. It is the purpose of the church to provide a place for the meeting of God and man as well as man and man. No man's life is complete without this intimate, first-hand communion with God. Now it is the purpose of the worship service to create and sustain those conditions and moods which make possible such a fellowship with our Heavenly Father.

A wise Christian is one who gives both the Sunday school and the worship services of his church first place in his time and loyalty. How is it with you? Are you providing your soul with a balanced spiritual diet?

Frick Plays It Cool; Avoids Big Nightmare

By FRED DOWN
United Press Sports Writer

BROOKLYN (UP) — Ford Frick said today he postponed the second game of the World Series "to avoid the nightmare that's haunted me since I became commissioner."

"No World Series game has ever been stopped short of nine innings," Frick pointed out. "And I believe it's part of my job to see that every series game goes the full distance—so that no team can ever feel that it was beaten by the weather."

Frick called off Thursday's scheduled second game at 11:07 a.m. EDT after a 10-minute conference with the six umpires and rival Managers Walt Alston and Casey Stengel. Only the commissioner has the authority to delay the start of a Series game or postpone it.

Frick arrived at Ebbets Field at 10:30 a.m. Thursday and indicated from the start he leaned toward postponing the game. He quickly won agreement from Alston and the umpires but had to wait a half hour before Stengel arrived at the park. Stengel, who the quipsters said was delayed because he was making the rounds looking for pitcher Don Larsen, also agreed without argument.

"We were all in 100 per cent agreement," Frick disclosed after the conference. "In view of the adverse weather report for later in the day both managers agreed it wouldn't be fair to either team to play a game that could be terminated at any point."

A former newspaperman and National League president, Frick recalled the opening game of the 1936 World Series between the Yankees and Giants.

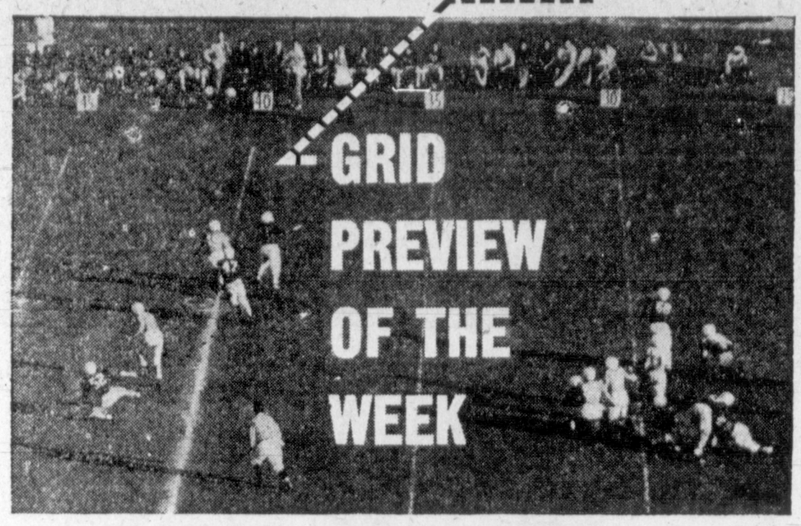

"That one was played under frightful conditions," he said. "It started to rain early and it just kept coming down harder and harder. I've always remembered that game and hoped to avoid it—or worse still, have a Series game end before the regulation nine innings are played."

Big College Grid Card; TCU Game Top Texas Tilt

By TIM MORIARTY
United Press Sports Writer

College football will offer a host of intersectional battles this weekend as the rah-rah boys vie with the World Series for national interest.

The first of the major intersectionals will be played tonight at Miami's Orange Bowl when the University of Miami hosts Boston College. In addition, Oregon travels to Los Angeles for a Pacific coast Conference game with UCLA, while Utah will be at Brigham Young in a Skyline Conference meeting.

Miami is a 14-point choice over Boston College, but the invading Eagles from New England could spring an upset. Mike Holovak's young men were greater underdogs against Miami last season when they dropped a close 14-7 verdict, and they've been looking ahead to this return meeting.

Oregon also will be hunting revenge in its tussle with UCLA. The Webfoots have been clobbered six straight times by the Uclans in recent years and have scored only one touchdown in their last five meetings.

The "big" game on Saturday's schedule will find second-ranked Michigan State baiting the fourth-ranked Michigan Wolverines in their own lair, The Spartans, led by ther flashy left halfback, Clarence (Hi) Peaks, are three-point favorites.

Fifth-ranked Ohio State will entertain Stanford and seventh-ranked Pittsburgh visits California, while other major intersectionals include Mississippi - Houston, Southern California - Wisconsin, Southern Methodist-Missouri, Baylor-Maryland, Tulane - Northwestern, Iowa - Oregon State, Illinois-Washington, LSU - Rice and Texas-West Virginia.

Top-ranked Oklahoma open its bid for another Big Seven championship against Kansas State. The Sooners are such a heavy choice to score their 32nd straight victory that no odds were quoted on the game.

In Saturday's nationally - televised game, sixth - ranked Texas Christian will meet Arkansas in a Southwest Conference battle at Ft. Worth. The NBC telecast is scheduled to begin after the World Series game at approximately 4:15 p.m. EDT.

By ED FITE
United Press Sports Writer

Talent-packed Texas Christian, an easy winner in its only outing to date, launches the always-formidable task of defending a Southwest Conference championship Saturday as a two-touchdown favorite in a nationally-televised contest against defense - minded Arkansas.

The opening title clash of the season takes the edge off another fine intersectional layout involving four of the five other league members who will be attempting to uphold the excellent non-conference record posted in the opening two weeks.

Baylor, Southern Methodist and Texas are all one-touchdown favorites to turn back their out-of-state rivals—Baylor and Texas by six points over Maryland and West Virginia, respectively, and SMU by seven over twice-beaten Missouri. Rice, on the other hand, is picked to lose by six to Louisiana State.

Raiders Underdogs

The other game brings member-elect Texas Tech into contact with its second straight league rival—Texas A&M, and the Red Raiders will go into that game at neutral Dallas as 19-point underdogs.

Despite the fine potential offered by the fabulous Frogs, the initial home showing of All-America Jim Swink and seven other regulars from last year's championship team isn't expected to lure more than 25,000 fans into the newly-enlarged stadium.

Arkansas' chances of turning in an upset were chilled considerably by the loss of the two main offensive cogs — quarterback George Walker and halfback Don Horton—due to injuries.

Steers, Bears Favored

But, the fact it is a conference game will offer a big clue as to whether TCU i to share the fate of most other defending champions—a disappointing follow-up season.

Despite the fact the odds-makers have them favored, both Baylor and Texas appear headed for tough sledding in upholding that honor.

Baylor will be appearing on Maryland's home field against a touted team that has started slowly with a loss and a narrow win after having to reorgnize its offense becuse of the loss of two key backs. The Terps should be in a prime mood to do a bit of upsetting. But, they'll have to contend with a passing barrage that as yet hasn't really been tested in Baylor's two victories over California and Texas Tech.

Comparisons Due

Texas, on the other hand, is crippled with four regulars very doubtful starters against an up-and-coming eastern power that outplayed powerful Pittsburgh only to lose by a point. West Virginia is loaded with good backs on the same order as the Southern California team that ripped the Longhorns 44-20.

SMU must fight off physical and mental letdown after being up for two weeks against Notre Dame and Georgia Tech, but still appears to have the vim, vigor and physical attributes needed to trim Missouri.

The Aggies' long odds over Texas Tech will be pared considerably if a siege of virus which has swept through the Aggie squad all week doesn't let up.

The A&M-Tech game and the Rice-LSU contest should provide adquate comparisons between the Aggies and Rice and the Aggies and Baylor. A&M beat LSU, 9-6, while Baylor blanked Tech 27-0.

Full Area Card Tonight

Around the area, all teams swing into action tonight with the McLean - White Deer game the News Game of The Week. Lefors, after a loss to Wellington last week, journeys to Panhandle to play a very strong team there. Groom, ranked number six in Class B schools, engages Claude, who is ranked number three. This should be a close ball game. Wheeler, ranked fifth, plays ninth-ranked Quitaque in another ball game pitting some of the top ten against each other. Canadian and Gruver hook up in a duel and Perryton goes to Phillips. Of course, the Pampa Harvesters take on the strong Wichita Coyotes, who are ranked third in the Class AAAA conference, down at Wichita Falls.

It's a full high school card an you can get the complete results by consulting your Sunday Pampa News.

34,000 At Ebbets Field:

Newcombe And Larsen Will Try Again This Afternoon

By LEO H. PETERSEN
United Press Sport; Editor

BROOKLYN—(UP)—The weatherman's promise of sunny skies set the stage today for right-handers Don Newcombe of the Brooklyn Dodgers and Don Larsen of the New York Yankees to put on their rain-delayed clash in the second game of the World Series.

Newcombe, the major league's top winning pitcher this year with 27 victories, was out to crack a personal Series jinx and thus give the Dodgers a commanding two-game lead in the classic.

Larsen, who won only 11 games but was the Yankees' best pitcher in the last days of the regular season, hoped to even the Series for the Yankees before the scene switches to Yankee Stadium Saturday. Both hurlers were the original pitching choices before rain postponed the second game Thursday.

The rain halted early last evening, although the stars remained hidden. The Weather Bureau, which had predicted the rain would last until this morning and then clear, switched in a midnight forecast and predicted a "sunny, pleasant" day with temperatures near 70.

Frick Approved Routine

If that turned out to be correct, it would make it a routine matter for Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick to approve the resumption of play today.

The rainout was viewed as favorable to the Dodgers, inasmuch as it gave 39-year-old Sal Maglie, the dramatic 6-3 victor over the Yankees in Wednesday's opener, an extra day of rest but the odds-makers still are sticking with the Yankees. They've made today's game a pick 'em affair but made the Yankees 11-10 favorites to take the Series.

The Dodger ticket office said the rainout presented few problems from its point of view and that 34,000 fans could be expected. The office, however, made hasty arrangements to accommodate Adlai Stevenson, Democratic presidential candidate, who originally planned to visit Yankee Stadium today. Stevenson will be given the same accommodations as President Eisenhower had at Wednesday's opener.

Managers Walt Alston and Casey Stengel both shrugged off the rainout as "neither good nor bad for us" but indicated there would be several lineup changes for the second game.

Yank Infield Juggled

Stengel, who failed with his gamble in starting southpaw Whitey Ford in the Ebbets Field bandbox Wednesday, indicated that third baseman Andy Carey and first baseman Bill Skowron would be dropped from the lineup. Billy Martin, who homered in the opener, probably would shift to third, with Gerry Coleman taking over at second and Joe Collins replacing Skowron at first.

Alston, who remains unruffled regardless of the situation the Dodgers find themselves in, stated quietly that first baseman Gil Hodges probably will bat fifth against the right-handed Larsen and that Sandy Amoros may hit sixth. That would drop Carl Furillo to seventh and Roy Campanella to eighth.

Both said the moves were planned for Thursday's rained out contest.

Newcombe, the 240-pound right-hander who deeply resents the oft-head criticism that he "doesn't win the big ones," Will be out for his first World Series victory. Beginning with a 1-0 loss in the 1949 opener, Newcombe has lost three times to the Yankees in Series competition.

It was assumed that the extra day of rest would help Newcombe, who last pitched on Sunday, but the big pitcher and Alston weren't too sure that would be the case. Both pointed out that Newcombe is a pin-point control pitcher who is sometimes affected by too much rest.

How Rain Helped

Except for the possibility of Newcombe's control going awry, Alston agreed that the rainout helped the Dodgers. He pointed out that Maglie now might be able to start Sunday's scheduled fourth game and could even make a third start if the Series goes seven games. He also indicated he was toying with the idea of starting Clem Labine, Brooklyn's regular-season relief specialist, in Saturday's third game if he is not needed in relief today. Labine started two games in the late stages of the hectic National League pennant race.

For Larsen, today's assignment is an opportunity to repay Stengel's confidence of last spring when the six-foot-four, 225-pound hurler tried to drive his car up a telegraph pole at 5 a.m. Larsen seemed in line for a heavy fine but got off with only a few bruises when Stengel backed him.

A pitcher with all the basic equipment of a star, the 27-year-old Larsen was beaten by the Dodgers, 8-5, in the fourth game of the 1955 Series. But he closed the 1956 campaign in brilliant style and wound up with a respectable 11-5 won-lost percentage.

"Don't worry about my man," barked Stengel Thursday and the big pitcher chimed in with, "I'll get by with no fuss and no sweat even if you newspapermen do call it a game we just gotta win."

Clubhouse Beat:

Old Pro Slaughter May Get Full Series Share

BROOKLYN (UP)—Enos (Country) Slaughter, already voted a half-share by his Yankee teammates, can make it a full one with a "good series," and if he does, he'll have Casey Stengel to thank.

Generous as usual in their splitting up of the World Series melon, the Yankee players decided to give Slaughter half a share even though he joined them from Kansas City on Aug. 26 and appeared in only 23 games for the Yanks.

Stengel, long an admirer of Slaughter's hustle and his 100 per cent effort for any club he has played with, felt Enos deserved a full share and told the players so. It was finally decided to wait and see how the 40-year-old ex-Cardinal performed against the Dodgers in the Series.

Slaughter, unaware of Casey's intercession for him because he wasn't present when the shares were being voted, got off to a fine start against Brooklyn in the opener Wednesday, rapping out three hits even though the Yankees lost.

In order to change their original vote and award Slaughter a full share, the Yankees would have to call another meeting among themselves following the Series. Although the procedure would be unusual, there is no rule forbidding it.

During 1956, when he tarted games with four days or more rest—as he will be doing today, Newcombe won 14 and lost three for an .824 percentage.

When he pitched with three days rest or less, he won 11 and lost three for a .786 percentage. He also had two wins in relief and a loss on opening day.

Phone Calls Die Down

BROOKLYN (UP) — The New York Telephone Company today reported that phone calls from folks wanting to know the World Series score are slightly less in number than last year.

The company has a special number you can call for the correct time and added on three times a minute the operator also gives the score of the game. For this year's opening game, 154,803 calls were made compared to 184,564 for opening game last year and the all-time record of 247,129 in one day during the 1951 Series.

Sal To Go On Sunday

BROKYN (UP) — Dodger Manager Walter Alston still is planning on starting Sal Maglie in Sunday's game in the World Series "if he's ready"—only now it will be the fourth game of the Series instead of the fifth. That means Sal could be ready for a possible seventh game with two days rest.

Carl Has Aches

BROOKLYN (UP)—Dodger outfielder Carl Furillo spent Thursday's "day off" from the World Series with a heating pad on his back. Furillo complained of a stiff muscle in his right side "like something that won't stretch when it's supposed to."

Odds Don't Change

BROOKLYN (UP) — The World Series betting odds remained unchanged after Thursday's postponement.

Today's rain - delayed second game, with the Dodgers' Don Newcombe opposing the Yankees' Don Larsen, still was rated a "pick 'em" affair. Despite their opening game defeat, the Yankees remained slight 11-10 favorite to win the Series.

Heard Through The Barryl

By BARRY A. LITTMANN
Pampa News Sports Editor

After a guick gaze in to the crystal Ball, the following results were observed.

High School Selections:
White Deer over McLean
Panhandle over Lefors
Groom over Claude
Wheeler over Quitaque
Canadian over Gruver
Phillips over Perryton
Wichita Falls over Pampa.

COLLEGE SELECTION

UCLA 13, Oregon 7; Just a case of a better ball club with some more experience — if the seniors play. They should though.

Pitt 20, California; The rock 'em, sock 'em Panthers should have this ball game wrapped up. The Cal boys are merely playing the best in the East.

Baylor 20, Maryland 12; Traylor and Shofner should be too much for the halfback troubled Terps. Tommy Mont isn't happy at all with a lot of things, especially the Maryland draft board.

Ohio State 27, Stanford 13; Another case of the Big Ten over the Pacific Coast. OSU is more powerful than they were with Hopalong Cassidy. Stanford just a good PCC team which won't be enough.

Texas 13, West Virginia 7; Although this one can go the other way, we have to stick with the home-staters. The Mountaineers won't take the Texas weather too readily, always a deciding factor in a ball game. Anyhow, Texas might be the better ball club.

Southern Cal 28 Wisconsin 7; Too much, too long, and too strong is the word for the Badgers. Southern Cal's got a freight train by the name of Roberts in their backfield plus a hundred other horses.

Illinois 20, Washington 7; No reason why the Fightin' Illini shouldn't continue Big Ten mastery over the Coast.

Army 23, Penn State 7; Gone are the days of Lenny Moore for the Staters and Army has a fine ball club loaded with talent. Watch 'em next year.

Michigan 14 Michigan State 13; A one-point affair either way with the edge to Michigan because Kowalsck is supposed to be on the injured list.

Purdue 20, Minnesota 18; This should be the other way around, but the Boilermakers, with their great Glen Dawson, should be able to upset the form here.

Nebraska 18, Iowa State 7; The Cornhuskers should bounce back from the OSU debacle last week to beat a not-so-strong Cyclone.

Notre Dame 35, Indiana 7; This is the week for the Irish to get untracked. Hornung and Lewis should have a field day against the weak Hoosiers.

Oklahoma 49 Kansas State; Another rough game for Sooners who have that usual rough, rough schedule against those run-in-the-mill clubs.

Oklahoma A & M 13 Wichita 7; This is one of those "well, I don't know" games. Now, now, lad, no excuses, pick 'Em one way or the other, OK, the Aggies as above.

Vanderbilt 28, Alabama 12; The Commodores are power packed this year while the Crimson Tide is still a little on the anemic side.

Tennessee 21, Duke 19; The Vols head for troubled territory when they journey up tobacco road, but with Johnny Major running Bowden Wyatt's single wing - T - split - T, they should have enough to withstand Jurgensen's passes. The rocking and socking in this game will be heard all over the plantations for weeks to come.

Florida 19 Kentucky 13; Bob Woodruff is building up his Gators for bigger and better things. For Kaintuck, gone are the days of Vito Parelli et al.

Clemson 28 North Carolina State 13, Two powerful balls clubs here. The Tigers have a host of experienced men and some fine ball players. The Wolfpack is good too, but not good enough for the Men of Clemson.

Mississippi 27 Houston 14; The Cotton Bowl winners should not have too much trouble from the Cougars. Miss is loaded again this year.

South Carolina 21, North Carolina 13; It's the boss against his assistant, and his assistant is going to win. Jim Tatum has his protege Warren Giese at South Carolina and Geise has his Mackie Prickett Alex Hawkins and King Dixon, That's why we have SC.

Wake Forest 32, Virginia 7; The Deacs show signs of a ball club this year. Virginia shows signs of nothing.

Texas A & M 28 Texas Tech 7; The Aggies have hurts, but not enough to put Tech into the upset catagory.

TCU 28 Arkansas 12; Swink and Co. will hop all over the Razorbacks.

Reapers Tie With Dumas

The Pampa Reapers took on the Dumas Bees yesterday afternoon and got a 26-26 tie for their second tie of the year.

The Pampa scoring was done like this: Buddy Rawls capped a drive for a touchdown by plunging four yards. He followed that one up in the second half with a short plunge for another score. Later on Jackie Collum moved for 40 yards and the td. Finally Marvin Cooper moved the ball over from twelve yards out.

The Reapers looked especially sharp on the offense with their ground game the best part of it. They definitely played some of their best ball of the year in the second half when they scored three touchdowns.

Next week they play the Clarendon Bees at Clarendon. Their record stands at 1-1-2 now.

Houston Beats A & M Fresh

COLLEGE STATION (UP) — Controversial Claude King, whose enrollment at University of Houston made University of Mississippi indignant, led his freshmen teammates to a 20-6 victory Thursday night.

The Vicksburg, Miss., speedster galloped for three touchdowns to give Houston its first win over a Texas A&M frosh team since 1932 at Kyle Field. His touchdown scampers measured eight, one and 16 yards as he gained 104 yards in 15 carries.

HE GREW RIGHT INTO IT

Along The Sports Trail:

NEW YORK (UP) — Joesph W. Haynes, vice president of the Washington Senators, today branded a report that the American League team might shift its franchise to the West Coast next season as "absolute nonsense and pure conjecture."

The Washington Post and Times Herald, in a story datelined from New York, said that club President Calvin Griffith is considering the move, probably to Los Angeles. It added that it was also understood that San Francisco was bidding for the franchise.

Griffith was not available for comment but Haynes, a former pitcher for the Senators, said the story "is just newspaper talk."

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UP) — Harvard University has cancelled plans for a Southern tour by its varsity basketball team because of segregation practices in the South.

Athletic Director Thomas D. Boiles announced the action Thursday despite the fact that there are no Negro players on the Crimson squad.

NEW YORK (UP)—Gabe Paul, vice president and general manager of the Cincinnati Redlegs, today declined to comment on a report that first baseman Ted Kluszewski of the Redlegs has been offered as trade bait to other National League teams.

BROOKLYN (UP) — The weatherman promised mostly sunny skies for today's once - postponed second game of the World Series.

The temperature is expected to be in the upper 60s and the winds will be moderate from the northwest.

The steady rain which forced Thursday's postponement finally ceased in the New York metropolitan area early Thursday night and the temperature remained in the 60s.

Big Newk Set To Beat Yanks

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

BROOKLYN, N.Y. (UP) — Rain fell, softly and steadily, in empty Ebbets Field and even the pigeons nestled snugly high up under the eaves.

But far in the outfield, outlined against the blank face of the scoreboard, a lone figure plodded through the rain. First it loped slowly. Then it stopped, bent low in a sprinter's crouch and suddenly raced through the downpour.

Big Don Newcombe was getting ready to confront his doubts and his doubters.

A short while previously the second game of the World Series had been postponed. The early spectators had vanished. Other ball players ignored their uniforms and hurried their various ways. Only Newcombe went out there in the rain and the hollow emptiness of the ball park.

What Was He Thinking?

Nobody but Newk knows the thoughts that drifted through his head as he worked out in the lonely isolation of the outfield, glancing up occasionally at the yawning emptiness of the stands which would be jammed when he makes his delayed second game start against the Yankees.

But a half-hour later, soaked by rain and sweat, he sat in front of his locker and admitted that—until he wins—he will think of little except trying to prove that he isn't a "coke up" pitcher who can't win the big ones.

"They never consider the ones I do win as 'big' ones," Newcombe growled. "Only the ones I lose. But this game against the Yankees has to qualify as a big one for everybody — and I've got to win it to prove myself."

The 30-year-old Newcombe has a point.

He won 27 games for the Dodgers this season and went the distance in 14 of them. They don't remember that he beat the battling Braves twice with a four hitter and a five hitter, that he downed he mauling Redlegs twice, one of them a five-hitter; that he beat the Cardinals with five hits, and stopped the Phillies with a mere two blows while pitching another trio of three-hitters.

Only Defects Remembered

They do remember that, coming down that red-hot National League stretch, he needed help three times and was beaten by the Phillies. They also remember that three times he has been flattened in the Series without ever once winning a game.

The Yanks beat him twice in 1949, once by a slim 1-0 on Tommy Henrich's ninth-inning homer. The second time he lasted less than four innings. Then, last year, he was cuffed for eight hits in 5 2-3 innings by these same Yankees and came down with a sore elbow that denied him another chance.

Ballplayers are brutally frank and outspoken. In many a dugout you can hear that Newcombe lacks guts. There is an uncomplimentary nickname which is better left unsaid.

Which puts big Newk on a terrific spot today. Losing would deepen the disdain. Only by winning can he wipe out the "choke up" label. It may be the biggest game he'll ever pitch.

Gulf Coast Report: The Fish Are Biting All Over

By JOHN COLTON
United Press Sports Writer

There's an old line about the vagaries of Gulf Coast weather that goes something like "if you don't like our weather, wait a minute."

That's about the fishing story for the Texas Gulf Coast this weekend. The weather could behave and anglers will have it made, judging from catch reports.

On the other hand, more squally weather could mess it up.

The Houston weather bureau says the low pressure trough aloft that produced all that blowing rain this week is moving off into Louisiana and Mississippi and the Texas coast should be clear by Saturday.

That means, favorable 12-to-18-mile-an-hour southeasterly winds, partly cloudy and little change in temperatures Saturday and Sunday.

Bill Ellis at Port Aransas reports the Gulf calm and clear down his way and the fishing very good with lots of kingfish, mackerel and king, and plenty of bait available.

Rat reds, trout, sheepshead, flounder, snapper and drum are hitting around the Port Aransas jetties, dolphin and king around Fisherman's Wharf.

Bill says pier and jetty fishing is improving with lots of pompano, whiting and red close in and nice kings offshore—some of them up to 30 pounds.

Snapper fishing is still holding good offshore from Freeport and the bait is plentiful in the area. Palacios scouts report bait somewhat scarce but red and flounders are hitting off Matagorda peninsula.

Trout are biting in the Tres Palacios River.

Surf is reported good at Matagorda, with school trout plentiful in both the Colorado River and the intracoastal canal. Few reds are hitting in the surf.

Reefs in Galveston Bay continue to be favored spots.

Mrs. Bub Pelata at Seabrook reports big trout at Scott's reef and Red Bluff reef. San Leon camps report trout also hitting at Smith's point, a productive spot last week.

Bait's plentiful at Seabrook but a little shy at San Leon.

Nice catches of speckled trout reported in Trinity Bay at a spot roughly between Smith's point and Double bayou.

Bayer Tops Coast Golf

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UP)—Rugged George Bayer, of Grossinger's, N.Y., was under pressure today to protect his slim one-stroke lead in the second round of the $15,000 San Diego Open golf tournament.

Bayer, a former professional football player, fired a seven-under par 65 Thursday to take the lead in the opening round. But pressuring the long - ball hitter were Jay Hebert, of Sanford, Fla., Paul Harney, of Boston, and Ed Furgol, of St. Louis, each with 66.

At 67 were Tommy Bolt, defending champion, Gene Littler, of San Diego; Dick Mayer, of St. Petersburg, Fla.; Jerry Barber, of Los Angeles; Ernie Vossler, of Midland, Tex., and Mike Souchak, of Grossinger's, N.Y.

Sports Briefs:

MEXICO CITY (UP)—The International Boxing Club has proposed a match between Mario D'Agata of Italy and Raul Macias of Mexico, both claimants to the world bantamweight title, in Los Angeles in the second week of February, according to Luis Andrade, manager of Macias. Andrade said he would accept "any terms" to make the match.

WASHINGTON (UP)—Halfback Joe Scudero, of the Washington Redskins, one of the fastest safety men in the National Football League, will be out of action against the Philadelphia Eagles this Saturday night because of an injury suffered against Pittsburgh last week. Also a doubtful player is offensive halfback Tommy Runnels.

CAMDEN, N.J. (UP) — Felix Bocchicchio, who was manager of former heavyweight champion Jersey Joe Walcott, said today his attorneys are studying a recent magazine article under the byline of Rocky Marciano in which Marciano said he was partially blinded for three rounds by Capsicum Vaseline smeared on Walcott's gloves and shoulder. Bocchicchio called the allegation "an out and out lie."

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UP) —Assistant football Coach Edward J. Cody has been promoted to head coach of the University of California, at Santa Barbara, succeeding Tom Hughes, who resigned because of poor health.
