Congress authorized the stabilization project on the Red River between Index,

Court Has

Brief Agenda

The Red River County Commissioners Court, hopeful that the calm after the storm of tax revaluation had arrived, breezed through a brief and non-controversial agenda in the regular August meeting Monday morning, August 11, at the Courthouse.

The members heard a report from County Treasurer Becky Varley, discussed the County audit with County Auditor Jack Crawford, approved claims, and issued Time Warrants of $6,000 each for the General Fund and the Salary Fund to cover expenditures.

The Court also voted to authorize Constable Olin Humphrey an additional $50 monthly car expense allowance, but directed that all fees collected for the service of official papers be turned in to the County Treasurer.

Arkansas and Denison Dam in 1968, however, the project was never started. Robert Brown, planning chief for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers in Tulsa, stated that the Corps had not received any expression of intent of repayment from local interests. The project would involve improving the route of the Red River from Shreveport to Denison, providing stabilization of the banks and making river navigation possible. The total stabilization project cost is estimated at $202 million and of that figure, $49.9 million would come through non-federal funding. "Detailed investigation of the project's economics shows that the benefits would far exceed the $1 return for every dollar invested required by Congress," Brown stated.

The non-federal share of cost in the project would be about $24 million for Texas; $21 million for Oklahoma; and $4 million for Arkansas.

Brown said his office will be able to begin a feasibility study for the project once he receives a letter from the Red River Authority stating an intent to repay the costs. Funding for the study will have to come through an appropriation from Congress.

State Senator Ed Howard of Texarkana who attended the meeting, said he hoped the legislature could approve the addition of the three counties to the water authority early next year. State legislature approval is necessary for any new counties wishing to join the authority which was created by the legislature in 1960. Senator Howard also said he had asked the legislative council to include in its draft a request that authority's board of directors be extended to include representation from the three new member counties.

The authority's attorney, Frank Gibson said that the Red River Authority has no taxing power and derives monies from project revenues. Projects of the authority had included development of water systems to rural areas and sewage work.

According to one member of the authority, the cities of Dallas, Fort Worth and Oklahoma City are very interested in seeing the project completed as it has the potential for industrial development along the river. Robert Brown said employment opportunities in communities along the project would increase like the Arkansas River Project has increased during the last decade as industries moved into the area.

Attending the luncheon for the association was RRVA Executive Director Champ L. Baker; Association Vice President for Oklahoma Troyce McGovern; and President of the Red River Authority Al Barnes.

Also attending the luncheon meeting was State Representative Pete Patterson. Red River County Judge Connie Sullivan and Pat Bassano, representing the Paris-Lamar County Chamber of Commerce, both presented proclamations from the commissioners courts, county seat city councils and chamber of commerce organizations from Red River and Lamar counties requesting the two counties be admitted into the Red River Association.

B.A. Lemser, representing Bowie County Judge Ed Miller, said that his county was also interested in joining the association.

Austin Guest, Chairman of the Steering Committee and a prominent Red River County attorney, stated that as this was the third such meeting to try and seek State Legislature approval to join the Red River Authority of Texas, it was too late to turn back now.

A Committee was formed with a representative from each of the three counties representing the Chamber of Commerce, City Council, Commissioners' Court, Soil Conservation and the RC&D to act as liaison between the corps of Engineers and the Authority to represent the local counties.

Red River, Bowie and Lamar counties are the last three counties bordering the Red River from New Mexico to Texarkana that are not members of the association.

Roy Marris presented the needs of the communities at the meeting.

Among other persons who spoke on the matter were County Judge Connie Sullivan; a representative from the Council of Governments from Texarkana, Margaret Hoak-Muse; the pumper for the water district; the president of the water board and County Commissioner Earl Humphries.

Rosemary Caviness Submits Resignation

Rosemary Caviness, Clarksville City Clerk for the past two years and Acting City Manager since May, submitted her resignation to the City Council at the regular August monthly meeting Monday night, August 11.

Mrs. Caviness said she was leaving the City employment in order to accept a position of Director of Finances with the Red River General Hospital beginning September 1. Prior to becoming City Clerk in October, 1978, Mrs. Caviness was with the First National Bank of Clarksville for 31 years, rising to the position of vice-president.

Johathan Godfrey, Executive Director of Red River General, said Mrs. Caviness in her new position would be in charge of the operation of the business office with general supervision over all financial affairs.

"We feel very fortunate in being able to obtain someone with Mrs. Caviness' experience and qualifications," Godfrey commented, "and we are looking forward to her joining our administrative staff," he added.

Mrs. Caviness said she had enjoyed her work at the City and was leaving with some regrets.

Mrs. Caviness stated that her previous experience is more compatible with financial operations and she feels it best to make this change.

The resignation of Mrs. Caviness further complicates the problems of the City Council in that the City Hall will be without both a City Manager and a City Clerk the first of the month, unless one or both positions are filled in the meantime.

Mayor L.D. Williamson said that the City will immediately begin accepting applications for the post of City Clerk.

The employment of a new City Manager is presently under consideration.

NOTICE

IF YOU SMELL NATURAL GAS, FOLLOW THESE 3 STEPS TO SAFETY.

The natural gas industry has an excellent safety record.

The fact that you can smell natural gas is because we add a harmless chemical to it as an extra safety feature. Otherwise, it would be completely odorless. If you detect faint whiffs of what you think may be gas, investigate. It may be something that is as easily and safely corrected as a pilot light that has gone out, or a burner valve that's partially open.

If your equipment seems to be working properly and the odor intensifies and seems to be everywhere, please follow these precautions:

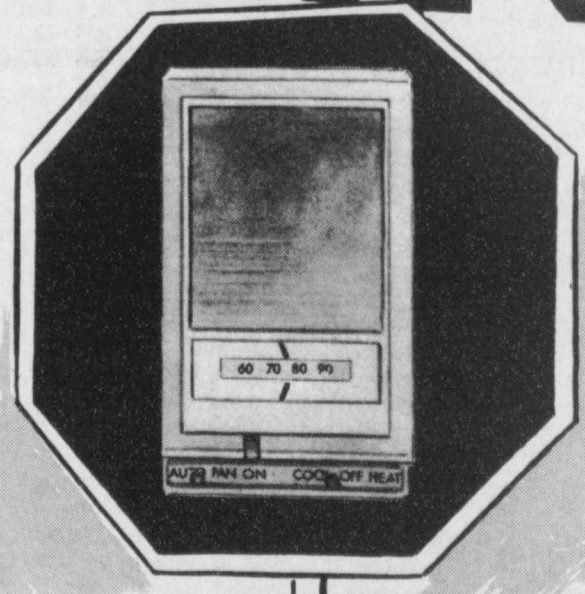

1. Do not switch anything electrical on or off. Do not use the telephone in your own home. Do not strike a match. Do not do anything that might cause a spark.
2. Have everyone leave the house immediately, leaving doors open to help ventilate.
3. Go to a nearby telephone and call Lone Star Gas Company. Wait until we have found the source of the odor to determine whether it's safe for you to return to the house.

You may never have a natural gas leak, but we want you to be informed in case one does occur. Please make sure your family is aware of these precautionary steps. And we suggest that you keep this message for future reference.

The Youth of the Talco Church of Christ plan a skating party for Sunday night, August 24, after the evening worship services.

The Missionets of the Talco Assembly of God Church will bring a program at the Red River Haven Nursing Home in Bogata on Tuesday, August 26.

Approximately 15 young people from the Talco Church of Christ attended Youth meetings in Dallas on August 5 and 12, where some 1100 other young people were in attendance. On August 4 they traveled to Commerce to attend a Youth meeting where 500 were in attendance.

The Rev. Grady Homer from the South Jefferson Baptist Church in Mount Pleasant, was guest speaker at the First Baptist Church Sunday while their pastor was on vacation.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE SCRIBE WHO WAS A BUILDER

August 24, 1980

Background Scripture:
Ezra 7 through 10.
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 133.

I have often noticed that many people identify themselves to others by means of their vocation. Sometimes in working with discussion groups, I like to begin by asking each person who he or she is. Of course, they always respond with their name, but many people go on to say, "I'm a carpenter."

Rev. Althouse

"I'm a housewife," or . . . "I work for the insurance company." There is nothing necessarily wrong in identifying ourselves in this manner, so long as our vocation does not presume all or even most of what we are. You are a salesperson, but there is much more to say about you beyond that. Too often our vocational image tends to have the effect of locking us into a confining role that falls far short of that for which God created us.

The story of Ezra is a good illustration of how a man was much more than his chosen vocation. When he is introduced to the narrative in the book that bears his name, he is described in these simple terms: "He was a scribe skilled in the law of Moses . . ." (7:6). So he was a scribe, nothing exceptional about that for there must have been many scribes. Yet the King of Persia, Artaxerxes, apparently saw that Ezra was something more than just a scribe, for when he came to the king asking for permission to return to his homeland to rebuild the temple, "the king granted him all that he asked, for the hand of the Lord was upon him." (7:6).

Yet, even as Ezra returned to Jerusalem, he still thought of himself as a scribe and little more. "For Ezra had set his heart to study the law of the Lord, and to do it, and to teach his statutes and ordinances in Israel" (7:10). Perhaps that is the key to what happened to Ezra: he not only was determined to study the law, but he was equally determined "to do it"—and when a person is determined to go beyond studying about God's will and attempts to do it, there is no way his or her life can be contained in a nice, neat little package.

Appoint Magistrates and Judges

So Ezra set off for Jerusalem a scribe, but in years to come people would remember him as a prophet, priest, teacher, administrator, governor and, in the broad sense of the word, a builder! Because of this man and his many talents, the Temple of Jerusalem was raised up once again from the ashes of Babylonian destruction. But Ezra built more than a Temple, he built a renewed community of God's people. The foundation he laid was more than mortar and stone, but faith, courage, leadership and wisdom. He was much more than just a scribe, he was a servant of the Lord.

Lurking in the shadows of his scribal vocation and image there lurked a builder, waiting to be freed to serve God in whatever manner the Lord might direct. So look within yourself to see what may be waiting there to be set free and thus serve your Lord.

THOUGHT FOR FOOD

By GOULD CROOK

FRESH STRAWBERRY PIE
1 cup bisquick
¼ cup soft butter or margarine
3 tablespoons boiling water
1 quart of fresh strawberries, washed and stemmed
1 cup sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
½ cup water
red food coloring
whipped cream

Heat oven to 450°. Combine the bisquick and butter or margarine. Add the boiling water. Stir with a fork until the dough forms into a ball. Pat the dough evenly into a 9-inch pie pan and flute the edges. Bake 8 to 10 minutes. Cool.

Mash enough strawberries to measure 1 cup. Blend sugar and cornstarch. Stir in water, food coloring and mashed berries. Cook until the mixture boils, stirring constantly. Boil about 1 minute or until thickened. Cool.

Arrange the remaining berries in the baked pie shell. Pour the cooked mixture over the berries and refrigerate for several hours. Serve with whipped cream.

Quarter's Worth

Israel is converting to the shekel to establish the true value of its money. Fortunately, we already have something that establishes the true value of the dollar . . . the quarter.

DRIVELINE

Asphalt Acne? Potholes blemish the roads of America. During the winter and spring 354 potholes are born every minute. This figure comes from an enterprising public relations report for the highway construction industry. The average pothole is five inches deep and 16 inches in diameter, the pothole experts say. Texas, with an estimated 8.2 million potholes, leads the country in this department.

The most mileage ever gotten out of a gallon of gas is 379.59 miles, by Ben Visser. He was driving a specially modified 1959 Opel Caravan station wagon on October 2, 1973, in Woods River, Illinois. Ben averaged a speed of 12 mph. The car's tire pressure was 200 pounds per square inch.

Notable quotes from actual insurance company accident reports:

"I was sure the old fellow would never make it to the other side of the street when I struck him."
"A pedestrian hit me and went under my car; the other car collided with mine without giving warning of its intentions."

Ever wondered what happens to fuel taxes we Texans pay at gas pumps? Over 50 percent goes to maintaining highways. Nearly 25 percent is used in public schools.

Hard to believe, but it happened. The only day in recent years that a person was not killed in a traffic accident in Texas was Wednesday, January 5, 1977.

Over 300,000 pedestrian accidents occur nationally each year and 8,000 of them result in fatalities. Over 25 percent of the victims are under the age of 15; half are over 40.

The originator of the dune buggy was Studebaker, who built one in 1949. Actually it was a combination of a sedan and ½-ton pickup, and was intended for use in oil exploration in Saudi Arabia. They have a lot of sand there. Oh, also, they found the oil!

To get maximum mileage out of a gallon of gas, keep your engine tuned. An untuned engine can rob you of up to 15 percent of your car's gas mileage. In the long run it can be very costly.

Share your questions, anecdotes and observations with us. Write to: Texas Office of Traffic Safety, State Department of Highways and Public Transportation, Austin, Texas 78701.

CONSUMER CHECKLIST

A good investment for the working family is an automatic timer which will turn the air conditioner off in the morning and back on late in the afternoon so the house will be comfortable when the family returns from work.

However, not all appliance timers will work with all room air conditioners. Be sure the timer you buy will handle the electrical requirements of your air conditioner.

SENIOR CITIZEN'S CORNER

HELPFUL IDEAS FOR SUCCESSFUL RETIREMENT

Many Americans nearing the age of mandatory retirement are faced with the necessity of finding another job or new source of income—not because they don't want to retire, but instead because it is a leisure they cannot afford.

Jobs are not easy to find, particularly for older Americans, unless they have a particular trade or skill. The alternative is self-employment or a business venture. If you have a hobby that enables you to make something people will buy, consider yourself fortunate. If you plan to go into some kind of retail business, consider the matter carefully, for these are the days of recession.

The important thing is to decide what you are going to do before retirement. Don't wait for that day thinking you will have more time to look around and investigate opportunities. Begin now, and proceed slowly.

For best chances of success, select a business about which you have some knowledge. Once the decision is made, find out everything you can about the business of your choice, the need for it in the community, the competition, the operating capital you will need and the profits you can reasonably expect. Check the nearest college or business administration school to see if classes related to the business are offered. If not, consider a course in accounting, bookkeeping or marketing if you are not skilled in these areas.

Effective planning, even in recessionary times, gives you a fair shot of success. A business will succeed if it meets a need and is adequately financed. Only careful planning can give assurance in these areas.

Dear Colleen

Dear Colleen:

I've read some articles about older men and younger women, but I have not seen anything about older women and younger men.

I am 44 and I have been dating a man of 35. He has asked me to marry him and I really want to, but I am worried about what my friends will say. They know we have been dating and have made a number of comments about it. The most often thing that has been said to me is "you should know better." Can you tell me, should I know better?

Forty-Four

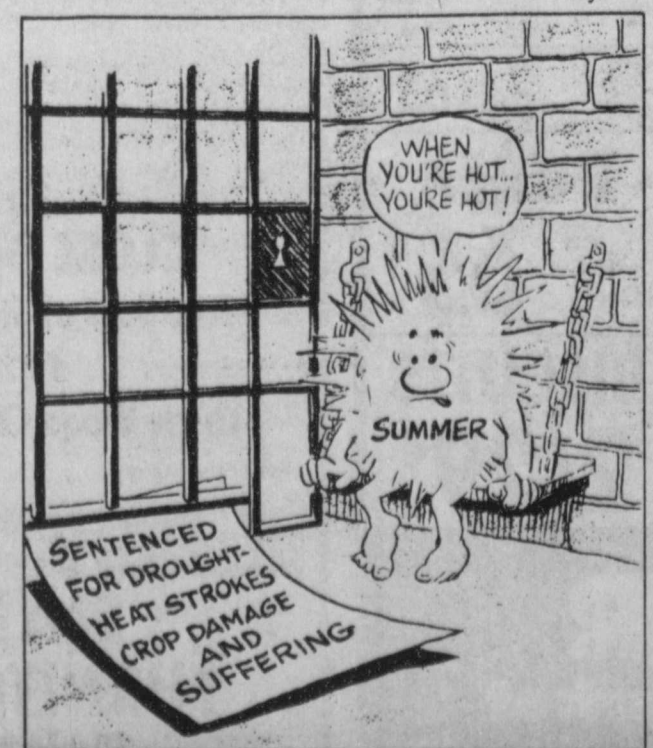

Dear Forty-Four:

If you love each other what difference does your age make. Being close in age does not make people get along and enjoy being together.

As you have already found out in your dating, there will be talk if you marry.

There will be the risk of more gossip and criticism but there are risks in any marriage. If you truly love each other this will bond you closer together and you will have a beautiful marriage.

You will have to answer for yourself: Do you love him more than you are afraid of what someone will say?

you and the LAW

PRESENTED BY THE STATE BAR OF TEXAS

Q: If my ex-wife has our child's name changed to that of her present husband, do I still have to pay child support?

A: Yes, you do, and remember that only the Court has the authority to give you permission to stop child support payments and this happens very rarely.

Q: Well, one more thing, since both she and her husband work, can I have my child support payments reduced?

A: Child support payments can be reduced by the Court after a hearing. But whether the Court will do so depends on whether you can show such a change in circumstances as to require a reduction.

Q: Within the city limits of an incorporated town in the State of Texas is it standard procedure and legal for a city policeman to escort a motorist with out-of-state plates to a police station and hold him until he pays the fine for running a stop sign?

A: Texas has adopted the Uniform Act regulating the traffic on highways and this Act is applicable to all public roads. This includes traffic control devices. No local authority may pass or enforce any rules or regulations in conflict with the Act; but local authorities may pass rules which are not in conflict with the Act if local authorities make provisions for immediate hearings for an out-of-state motorist who wishes to contest a ticket.

Q: Several years ago, we bought some country acreage. The county engineer said that if we had the survey done, he would see to it that a county road was built giving our neighbor and us access to the property. Now that we've spent money on the survey, he refuses to do anything about it. Is there anything we can do to either get the road built or get our money back from the county?

A: The only governing body authorized to build a road to your property would be the county commissioners. The county engineer has no such authority. We suggest that you take the matter before the Commissioners Court.

Q: Before my marriage, I bought a home with funds I inherited from my grandfather. We're moving to another city now and I'm interested in having the proceeds from the sale of the house kept separate because my wife and I are experiencing some personal problems. How can this be done and how can my original equity be kept from becoming community property if it's used to buy a new home?

A: A spouse's separate funds used to purchase a home may be kept separate from the couple's community funds when the home is sold by having the sale proceeds paid directly to the spouse and then depositing them in a separate account. The separate identity of these funds can be maintained if used to purchase a new home by a provision in the deed.

Q: My wife and I are planning on buying a new house that is presently under construction. The builder promised us he'll complete the house in 90 days if we'll sign the purchase contract. How can we protect ourselves and make sure he keeps his promise?

A: A promise for a particular completion date should be included in the written purchase contract. Further protection can be achieved by insisting that a damage clause be included in the contract, to provide for alternatives in the event he failed to meet the completion deadline. Your lawyer could draft a damage clause to either give you the option of rescinding the contract or collecting damages for the contractor's breach of promise.

Send your questions to "You and the Law," State Bar of Texas, P. O. Box 12467, Austin, 78711. Answers may appear in columns in hypothetical terms; personal answers not possible.

GARDEN

Shrimp Plant—Favored For Its Long Flowering Period

Shrimp plants (Beloperone guttata) originated in Mexico and are part of the Acanthaceae family. Its unusual flower structure is attractive and draws attention. The flowers, about six inch long pendulous spikes, resemble a creamy colored shrimp with noticeable pinkish brown bracts. Another variety has white flowers on green bracts.

If not properly cared for, the stems will become weak and between waterings. In spindly causing the leaves to drop. To avoid this, pinch the new growth back several times in the growing period. This will ensure a bushier plant with larger leaves. Cuttings can be rooted in water and potted for additional plants.

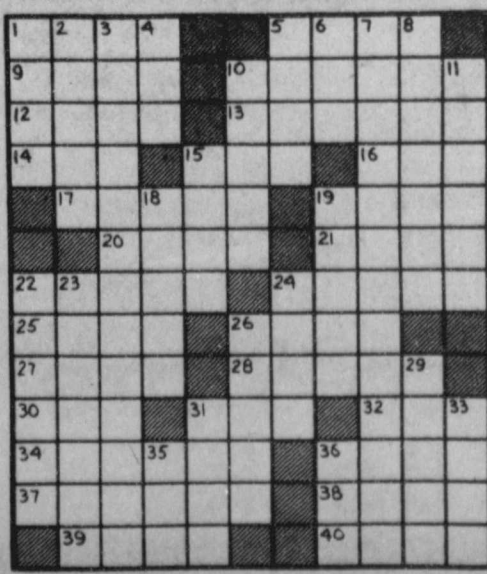

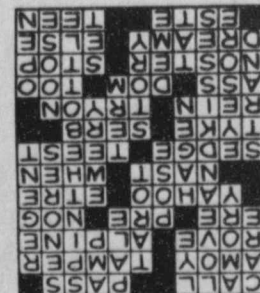

Pot in a mixture of garden soil, leaf mold and manure and place in a well lit location with good air circulation. Water regularly and allow the soil to partially dry between waterings. In the hot summer months, the shrimp plant requires more water. Avoid wetting the flower bearing stem axis. If the plant gets too wet, the color of the foliage will change. After flowering, pinch the plant back and feed regularly during the growing period. Since the flowering period is extended throughout the year, the shrimp plant is welcome in most indoor gardens.
