Woman Still Rocks—But Not the Crade—Now Its Politics—

By H. N. F.

WOMEN PUT REVERIDGE over in Indiana. Women fought for Pinchot in Pennsylvania. They were led by Mrs. Barclay Warburton and Mrs. Mary Flinn Lawrence, the former the daughter of John Wanmaker and the latter the daughter of the famous Billy Flinn. Speaking for the republican women of Pennsylvania these feminine leaders told the old guard bosses that the women must be given a voice in the nomination for governor in the making of a slate. And the bosses first sneered at the proposition and then laughed it down. What did the feminine leaders do?

THEY ORGANIZED THEIR forces. They lined up women workers everywhere for Gifford Pinchot. They appealed to the farmers. They appealed to laborers. They had against them the federal office-holders. They had against them the Mellons and the Mellons are all powerful in Pennsylvania. There are sixty-seven counties in the state. They carried sixty-three of the counties for Pinchot and outside of the cities of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh they rolled up the majority that overcame the lead given the machine candidate in the two great cities of the commonwealth. Now the verdict of Washington correspondents is "that the political clock has swung forward another hour from the zero of standpatism toward a moderate liberalism."

CALIFORNIA WOMEN RE-elected Woodrow Wilson in 1916. Women the country over aided in the election of Warren G. Harding in 1920. In Texas women smashed James E. Ferguson and made William P. Hobby governor. They smashed Joseph Weldon Bailey and made Pat Morris Neff governor. Less than a year ago they smashed Mayor "Big Bill" Thompson of Chicago when he attempted to put over a hand-picked judicial slate. This year they have smashed Harry S. New in Indiana. They have smashed the old guard and the standpatters in Pennsylvania. They are organizing everywhere and they may smash a hundred republican congressmen this year, not because they are republicans, but because the pledges given to the people by the old guard leaders have not been redeemed by the administration.

Woman has been given the ballot. Old guard politicians, and this applies to the old guardsman in the democratic as well as the republican camps, should take their lessons from the defeat of New and the triumph of Pinchot.

Machine politicians must recognize women as living atoms, stern realities or actualities rather than fancy decorations to political organizations. If the old guard politicians in all the American states fail to make this recognition without delay they are going to that political graveyard where Harry S. New weeps and the little bosses who fought for the mantle of Boies Penrose are awaiting interment. Woman has ceased to be a cradle rocker exclusively. She is rocking old guard politicians into the cemetery and wrecking the political machines created for sordid and selfish purposes by the outer guards who serve as the shrine of the great god Mammon.

GONE ARE THE GOOD OLD days when woman rocked the cradle and tatted. Now she rocks the politicians, wrecks political machines and turns old guard pictures to the wall. For countless centuries her place was within the walls of her habitat and "mind your own business" was the admonition of her

Plebiscite Favored By Chile In Row

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—The Chilean and Peruvian delegations to the Washington conference again exchanged opinions at a joint meeting today but adjourned until Monday without having fully joined the issue on any of the major problems confronting them.

Chile's tendeny is said to have been from the start to direct the conversations along the line of fulfillment of article three of the treaty of Ancon, which provided for a plebiscite to decide whether Tacna-Arica is to remain permanently under Chilean or Peruvian sovereignty.

The Peruvians are said to have placed considerable stress on their government's charges that Chile has violated the treaty in various ways.

NEGRO BURNED AFTER KILLING OFFICER

Judge Refuses to Free Archer City Man

FLETCHER LEFT CAR TO CATCH DOG, ONE SAYS

Defendant Burned by Explosion Witness Testifies

Special to The Record News.

ARCHER CITY, Texas, May 19.—Robert Fletcher was remanded to jail here this afternoon without bond, following his preliminary hearing before County Judge Alexander, sitting as magistrate in the county court.

Fletcher is charged with murder following the burning to death of William Saylor, his father-in-law, and Suna Saylor, 16-year-old daughter of Saylor.

Following the closing of the hearing, which lasted from 1 to 6:30 o'clock, a number of the spectators at the trial walked up to Fletcher and shook his hand.

During the hearing the district court room was packed. The testimony was of such a nature that not a one of those present left the room at any time during the proceedings.

Fletcher's attorneys have applied for a writ of habeas corpus in the 30th district court before Judge H. R. Wilson.

Fletcher is represented by Bernard Martin and J. V. Allred, of Wichita Falls and Judge W. E. Forgy, of Archer City. The state is represented by Judge H. F. Weldon, C. C. McDonald and County Attorney Morrison.

Saylor and his daughter were burned to death on the night of May 5, when his car overturned on the Windthorst road over a gulley bridge.

Tells of Accident

According to testimony by Henry Harrison, witness for the state, at the hearing yesterday, on the night following the tragedy, the defendant was severely burned about the face and hands and was under the care of a physician.

He said Fletcher had told him that Saylor, the girl and himself were returning from Wichita Falls between 9:30 and 10 o'clock. Fletcher, according to the witness, said he was sitting on the rear seat, the other two occupants sitting on the front seat, the girl driving.

Goes for Pup

A puppy bird dog on the back seat with Fletcher, jumped out of the machine according to the story Fletcher told Harrison. Fletcher jumped out to get the dog. He looked back after he had gotten out of the machine and saw the car plunge off the bridge into the water, a six-foot drop. He then ran through the water to the car, according to Harrison, and attempted to pull the girl out of the car, but could not, for some reason.

Throngs Buying Reserve Seats For Probable Return of "Babe"

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 19.—Baseball fans all over the city—perhaps all over the country—were talking about the scheduled return of "Babe" Ruth from exile to the Polo grounds tomorrow afternoon.

Reserved seats for the game have been sold. Some of the bleacher bugs are likely to line up outside the gates before dawn, as they do for the world series.

There's one little formality that must be carried out overnight since the Babe's suspension is not automatically lifted tomorrow. His bosses must send a polite telegram to Commissioner Landis, inquiring if it will be all right for their favorite employe to go back to work. A reply must come from the commissioner before Babe can take his place in the lineup.

The sight of him swinging the devastating bat that clouted 59 home runs last year, is just one of three extraordinary attractions that tomorrow's battle between the Yankees and the St. Louis Browns has to offer. Two other home run swatters will make their 1922 bow to New York fans at the same time as the Babe.

One of them is Kenneth Williams, a fellow who is doing just about as well in the four-base hit production line as the Babe was a year ago. Already he's got 11 of them to his credit and that's a good start on anybody, Babe Ruth included. This time last season Babe had only 12 home runs on the slate.

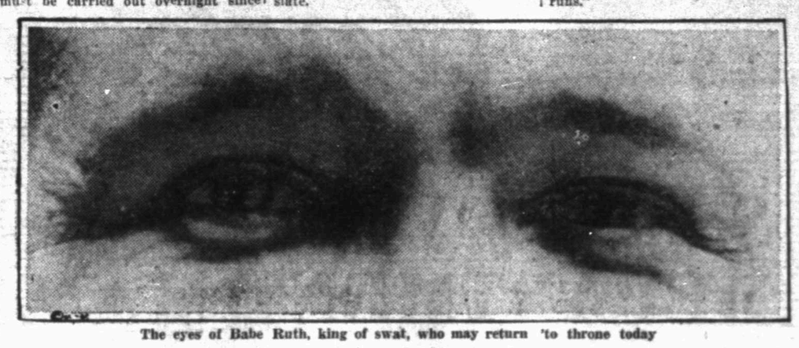

But the Babe pretends a cool indifference to the walloping by Williams.

"Oh, he'll quit," is the Yankee maulers' comment when you ask him what he thinks about the way this St. Louis chap is knocking 'em out, "he just hits homers in St. Louis," the Babe adds.

Williams is reported to have said that he is not straining to top the Bambino's record and that he'd just as soon place a short drive where there's nobody to catch it, as always swinging for a home run or nothing.

But his manager, Lee Fohl, takes a crack at what the Babe says about Kenneth.

"I don't want to take credit away from Ruth," Mr. Fohl cautiously begins, "But— but it is my honest opinion that if Williams could play 77 games at the Polo grounds this year with that short right field stand as a target, he would make 75 home runs."

The eyes of Babe Ruth, king of swat, who may return 'to throne today

The third debut tomorrow will be that of Bob Meusel, banished from the game with Ruth for the first 38 days of the season because they went barnstorming last fall after Commissioner Landis told them not to. Meusel knows a thing or two about hitting homers. Last year he got 24 home runs.

"Fair," said the weather man when asked what he thought about tomorrow's prospects.

Dope Smuggler Sneaks Into Home of Bebe Daniels at Midnight to Murder Actress

Narcotic Peddler Is Linked In Plot To Slay Brunette Star of the Silver Sheet.

By Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 19.—Deputy sheriffs who answering a midnight call that there was a man in the residence of Bebe Daniels, motion picture actress, intent upon murdering her, found Charles Caprice.

They arranged to take him today to the psychologic ward to determine his mental condition.

Caprice, who surrendered without resistance, said he came from San Francisco for the "express purpose" of slaying the motion picture actress under threats and pay of "Pete" McNamara, a peddler of narcotics at San Francisco.

He said that McNamara obtained "something on him" nine years ago, in a smuggling plot and that he had been forced into "the life of slave" ever since then.

He was found in the living room of the Daniels' residence.

Baptists Discuss Southern School

By Associated Press.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., May 19.—Proposals for establishing a great Baptist university for the southeast and founding an additional theological seminary were referred by the southern Baptist convention here late today to committees who will make recommendations to the next annual convention.

Home missions and Sunday school work with the reports of the boards in charge took up the greater part of the day and night sessions, and it was announced a conference of Baptist leaders will meet in Nashville June 20-21 to launch a campaign to complete the $75,000,000 fund by 1924 for enlarging Baptist activities.

The women's missionary union auxiliary to the convention re-elected Mrs. W. C. James, Birmingham, president.

The question of a new theological seminary and a Baptist university was raised in a proposal made by trustees of Mercier university, a Baptist institution, with the approval of the Baptist state convention of Georgia, that Mercier be made the nucleus for both institutions.

EDISON OFFERS CREDIT SCHEME

He'd Issue Series of Farm Currency

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Proposal by Thomas A. Edison, the inventor, of a new plan for extension of long term credits to farmers was taken under consideration today by a committee of the senate agricultural bloc.

The Edison plan, as outlined by Senator Capper, republican, Kansas, chairman of the bloc, and member of a special committee considering the matter of farm credits, contemplates issuance of a series of farm currency through a central federal farm bank.

The currency would be loaned to farmers for one year, repayable at the rate of one per cent a month, with a lien on 50 per cent of farmers crops as security. Mr. Edison proposed a 20 or 25 year average of prices of agricultural products as the basis for the 50 per cent value loans.

The committee was told by Mr. Edison that he had been studying the subject of farm credits at the request of Henry Ford, the Detroit manufacturer. Some members of the committee said Mr. Edison's suggestions were worthy of study while others declared them impracticable.

DARING POSTAL ROBBERY NIPPED BY BEARDED MAN

Inspector Plots With Postal Workers In Hold-Up Scheme

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 19.—A postoffice holdup, surpassing in daring any of the recent registered mail thefts would have been perpetrated at the city hall postoffice tomorrow, but for the work of a postoffice inspector who grew a beard, consorted with the plotters and uncovered their scheme.

This was the statement today of Postoffice Inspector Doran in making public the details of the arrest of seven men—six of them present or past postoffice employes.

He asserted that their capture would clear up the registered mail theft of July 18, when $1,477,000 in Liberty bonds were stolen from the mails.

It would also aid in solving a heretofore undisclosed theft of $40,000 in securities and might go far toward clearing up the $2,000,000 mail truck holdup in lower Broadway last October.

Plans had been laid and were to have been carried out in day light, for the holdup and robbing of an entire registered mail section of the city hall station, through which millions in securities flow daily from the Wall street financial zone, Inspector Doran said.

The plotters had made a careful survey of the "layout" and planned their raid in great detail, Inspector Doran said.

The name of the inspector who uncovered the plot with his "bad man" beard and his plausible manner, was withheld.

It was said he succeeded in getting himself "counted in" on the proposed city hall station holdup.

The seven captives taken last night were confronted with transcripts of a telephonic record early today in the presence of the bearded inspector, and some of them alleged to have confessed.

So completely were the mail robbers taken in by their new found pal that Inspector Doran said today he could recount almost every step taken in the July 18 liberty bond theft.

The chief actor in this theft, he said, was Morris Sternberg, a 19-

MAYFIELD WILL GET KLAN VOTE IN AUSTIN AREA

Houston, Waco and Beaumont Also Favor Him

BY H. N. F.

AUSTIN, Texas, May 19.—A political observer from Oklahoma in Austin yesterday said that the klan seemed to him to be a considerable political issue about the time he hit Dallas on his journey from Oklahoma to the state capital and that the klan strength or militancy was in the direct ratio of his progress south.

This caused him to reflect that the organiation work, proceeding from Atlanta westward, entered into southeast Texas first and into Houston, first of the largest cities of Texas, and had thoroughly organized in south Texas. Furthermore that the violent opposition to the ku klux was simultaneous with the beginning of organization work in the city and county of Dallas. He also ventured the statement that the thin spread population of the western part of Texas had made it unprofitable for the organizers of the invisible empire to work with any degree of satisfaction in the territory west of Fort Worth.

Mayfield Gets K. K. Vote

Because of his positive refusal to attack the klan, it was stated by a close observer of the Mayfield campaign and the strength of the railroad commissioner as a senatorial contender that the local klan vote would go to Mayfield in the following order, Houston, Waco, Beaumont, Austin and Dallas. In other words the strength of the klan in the cities, ranks in proportion to the population in a political sense.

A state senator who is hostile to the klan and to Mayfield as a klan candidate, or as one whom he terms a klan candidate, admitted Mayfield's strength to the extent that he said it worried him.

But he insists that when the Texas voter actually goes to the voting

MINERS' LEADER FIGHTING BACK

Wilkinson Attacks His Enemies

By Associated Press.

MUSKOGEE, Okla., May 19.—The special convention of district 21, United Mine Workers of America, ended its fifth session here today with a heated speech by John Wilkinson, president of the district in which he defended himself against attacks made on him by speakers and delegates in the convention.

Wilkinson declared that he was willing for a committee of Illinois miners and a committee of Texas miners to go to Bridgeport, Texas, and investigate a separate contract negotiated there by district union officials and operators.

"Oscar Ameringer says I have a streak of yellow a yard wide," the district president shouted, "but he can't prove it physically or otherwise."

Ameringer is the editor of the Oklahoma Leader, a socialist newspaper published in Oklahoma City.

JACK DEMPSEY TO WED SOON

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 19.—Jack Dempsey tonight authorized the announcement of his impending marriage to Miss Edith Rockwell of Boulder, Colorado.

The champion appeared rather haughty with a monocle screwed into his right eye and a checked cap pulled cockily to one side of his head when he returned from Europe today and he did not have much to say.

Then tonight bashfully he told his friends that his secretary, Teddie Hayes, had something to tell them.

"He's to be married," announced Haynes.

Jack grinned and confirmed the statement.

The wedding date has not been set. "Some time before Christmas," Jack said.

ARDMORE MAN TO PROBE DEATH OF BUD BALLEW

Mathers Says He'll Come Here in Few Days

Special to The Record News.

ARDMORE, Okla., May 19.—Former County Attorney James H. Mathers said today he probably will go to Wichita Falls in a few days to inquire into matters in connection with the shooting of "Bud" Ballew in that city.

Mathers said Prince Freeling, former attorney general of Oklahoma, also would assist in the prosecution of J. W. McCormick, chief of police of Wichita Falls, who is charged with shooting Ballew.

"If any formal investigation is made from this state, Freeling probably will make it," Mathers said.

RUMORS HAD AGENTS ALREADY IN TOWN

Information that an investigation was already being conducted in this city into the circumstances of the shooting was received in Wichita Falls late Thursday night. Rumors had been current during the earlier part of the evening to the effect that Mathers was already here under an assumed name.

An investigation of the hotel registers failed to locate the man, but it was believed that agents representing Mrs. Ballew were operating here secretly.

It was announced several days ago that Attorneys Freeling and Mathers had been retained by Mrs. Ballew and "Buck" Garrett to conduct a probe in this city, and to aid in the prosecution of Chief McCormick.

BLACK DRAGGED TO DEATH THRU CITY STREETS

Body Cremated After Parade Over Texarkana

By Associated Press.

TEXARKANA, Ark., May 19.—Battering down the jail door with an iron beam, members of a mob here tonight took from the county jail, Arkansas, the negro Hulen Owens, who this afternoon shot and fatally wounded R. C. Choate, Arkansas side, dragged him at the end of a rope until he was dead and afterward burned the body at the corner of Front and Vine streets, in the downtown section of the city.

Thousands Surround Jail.

Thousands of persons surrounded the jail during the attack of the mob but only a comparatively small number actually participated in the lynching.

H. M. Barney, judge of the Arkansas municipal court made an ineffectual plea to the mob to let the law take its course.

The negro was dragged eight blocks, death resulting from strangulation en route.

Twice the mob attempted to hoist the body to telephone poles but each time the mob cried "let's burn him," and the body was lowered.

Choate died on an operating table within a few minutes after the shooting.

Owens was shot in the mouth by A. J. Lummus, Arkansas chief of police, but managed to escape in a stolen automobile, which he abandoned about a mile from the city, fleeing through the woods.

Fearing capture by officers in close pursuit, the negro attempted to drown himself in a pool of water.

He was dragged out of the pool by John Strange, sheriff of Miller county Arkansas.

Owens had been arrested last night charged with theft of automobile accessories, and at the time of the shooting this afternoon was being taken to a place where he said he had hidden some of the stolen articles.

Pulls Gun From Barrel.

Taking the officers into an alley he reached into a trash barrel saying he would produce a battery, but instead of the battery he pulled a gun from the barrel, turned on Chief of Police Lummus and ordered the officers to stand back.

Chief Lummus pulled his gun and shot Owens in the mouth, Owens returning the fire but missing. Owens then fled three blocks and commandeered an automobile.

Officer Choate was shot while attempting to prevent Owens from getting away with the car.

Owens had been transferred from the hospital where his wound was treated to the county jail only a short time before the mob stormed the jail.

CHOATE CONSIDERED BRAVEST OFFICER IN TOWN

R. C. ("Dick") Choate was considered the bravest officer on the Texarkana, Ark., police force.

Choate was called "Dick" by all of his friends, and he was known by practically every man in Texarkana. His name to the lawless elements of the city usually spread terror.

The officer had been on the police force for a number of years, and had also served several years as a deputy sheriff in Miller county, Arkansas.

Of all classes of criminals that the officer had dealt with during his life in Texarkana, he had often expressed hatred and contempt for the negro race.

It was often said of Choate that he did not know the meaning of fear, and he often placed himself in positions and circumstances that endangered his life.

Blacks Jail Delivery

It was through "Dick" Choate that the boldest wholesale jail delivery ever plotted in Miller county was thwarted. The Miller county jail, a large affair which sits at the corner of Pecan street and Broad, in Texarkana, had just received nearly 100 prisoners as a result of Miller county court convictions.

The prisoners grew unruly, and a special guard was placed inside the dungeon to watch them. For several days two characters noted in Texarkana as criminals, had been sawing their way to freedom with an antiquated steel saw. Accomplishing their task, they called for the jailer, overpowered him when he approached, took his guns and his keys and started

"GALVESTING BATHING BEAUTIES AREN'T NICE"

Texas W. C. T. U. Mobilizes to War on Beach Promenade

Special to the Record News.

AUSTIN, May 19.—W. C. T. U. vs. Galveston Bathing Beauties is the title under which a state-wide scrap will be fought next year according to a resolution adopted by the W. C. T. U. in its closing session today protesting against the immodest exhibition of the girlhood and womanhood of the state to the gaze of an equally, immodest public, such as was staged in Galveston Sunday, May 14.

"We protest in the name of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, in the name of the homes and parenthood of the state and in the name of the coming generation of whose moral welfare and uplift the country is now being organized," said the resolution.

"We protest the continuation of same, and pledge our influence as an organization and our power and prayer to make such an event unsuccessful if attempted next year."

Fort Worth was selected for the fall meeting place.

"We desire further," resolved the Temperance Assembly, "to point out the inconsistencies of business men's clubs asking the women of a city to organize to uplift the moral tone of the youth and then to lend their efforts to make the parades of the bathing beauties a success."

The W. C. T. U. also unanimously adopted the resolution previously offered favoring a law authorizing the attorney general to have the venue of liquid prosecutions changed at will. Mrs. Van De Watts of Austin, the new president, was elected delegate to the World Temperance conference to be held this year in Boston.

The nations represented were: India, Egypt, Turkey, Afghanistan, Georgia, Armenia, Syria.

"The rivers of our venerable history, the sacred history of all civilized nations are overflowing with blood.

booth, he is very apt to have a renewal of sentiment or change of mind and that the Thomas and Culberson columns will be the gainers thereby. He gives as a reason that there is something basically virtuous about the ballot and that the klan, having been surrounded by law violations, is not apt to poll its full strength and that its political voting power will wane within a few days before primary election day or the run-off when actual voting is to be done.

A Change Has Come

It goes without saying that when ever a political dope sheet is upset the dopesters are apt to go as well. If the primary had been held 90 days previous to the July date, it is practically certain that Thomas would have been in the run-off and he had more than an even chance on being first choice. It is hard to analyze just where the change came.

Reasons Why

These may be some of the factors: First, the family relationship between Thomas and Sheppard. Second, Thomas' feeling that he would be in the run-off and the softening of his speeches almost to the point of weakness. Third, the deflection of the normal voting habit of the people by the entrance of the ku klan influence. Had there been no new influence the habit forming vote would have split roughly between the liberals and the so called church going and prohibition vote—that is along the lines of the vote as it was distributed between President Brooks of Baylor and Culberson in the senatorial primary six years ago. In this case Thomas would have inherited the large part of the strength that would normally go to a Sheppard or a Neff, but the injection of the klan issue split this. Normally, Mayfield would not have gotten this vote as against Thomas, but about half of this vote at least in southeast Texas is now militantly ku klux. Fourth, or the fact that Thomas has recognized that he has been under the weight of a declining strength and owing to this handicap, has not made an aggressive vote getting campaign while Mayfield, buoyed up by the fact of daily gaining strength has made a campaign solicited but for the votes of the klan. In addition, Thomas is making a campaign which is negative and non committal to a great extent while Mayfield is making positive statements of his principles and platform. Mayfield is ... rates, knowing the discontent ... ranks of the shippers of freight.

The plan, when completed, will be submitted to a referendum vote to the membership of both organizations.

liege lord and master. Yes, gone are the good old days. "Woman is playing hell at the polls," remarked a veteran campaigner to the writer after the Hoosiers had turned the face of Harry S. New to the wall. She is.

IN CLOSING HIS MARVELOUS campaign in Pennsylvania on the night of Monday, May 15, Gifford Pinchot said to an audience numbering thousands: "Not in years has the primary election in any state so focused the attention of the whole nation as the primary in Pennsylvania this year. The nation is turning to Pennsylvania for leadership. Let us not disappoint it. LAST WEEK INDIANA MADE GOOD—THIS WEEK PENNSYLVANIA WILL DO THE SAME."

ON THE EVE OF ELECTION Gifford Pinchot must have had the gift of propheecy. Pennsylvania repudiated the old guard, cast out the old guard politicians, smashed political machines created by old guardsmen and acclaimed Gifford Pinchot the leader of the Republicans of a state that had been bossed by Cameron, Quay and Penrose. Pennsylvania thrust aside the machine Republicans and placed the standard of leadership in the hands of a former Bull Mooser who had been Theodore Roosevelt's first lieutenant. Two weeks earlier Indiana republicans had thrust aside an old guard chieftain and placed the standard of leadership in the hands of another Bull Mooser who had served as second lieutenant in the army commanded by Theodore Roosevelt.

PENROSE, KNOX, NEW, WATSON and SMOOT were the senatorial old guarders who put Warren G. Harding over at Chicago in the month of June, 1920. Penrose is dead. Knox is dead. Harry S. New has been retired. James A. Watson is the fourth of the quintet and when his time comes the Hoosier republicans may put him away. These words of Pinchot on the eve of his nomination are significant, "The nation is turning to Pennsylvania for leadership. Let us not disappoint it. Last week Indiana made good. This week Pennsylvania will do the same."

GIFFORD PINCHOT IS A MAN of vision as well as a man of ambition. As governor of Pennsylvania he will be all powerful. Has he presidential ambitions? Progressive republicans everywhere are for him. Reactionary republicans everywhere are against him. There may be another battle royal fought in 1924 between the republicans who are reactionary and the republicans who followed the flag of Roosevelt and Pinchot and Beveridge.

Mrs. John Strange, wife of the sheriff of Miller county, who lived in the front part of the prison, heard the noise of the scuffling and the jailer's moans. She phoned at once to the city jail and to her husband's office at the courthouse.

"Dick" Choate answered the phone at the police station, made a hurried exit and was soon at the jail.

He stood at the main cell door, and as it opened, he struck three of the would-be escapes to the floor and disarmed them.

Choate sustained an injured hand from the battle he had with the prisoners and broke his pistol into two parts from using it as a bludgeon. Six stitches were made in a negro's head whom Choate had floored during the melee.

When the leaders had been overpowered and disarmed, Choate led two policemen, a Salvation Army officer and a newspaper man into the main part of the prison to re-jail 25 prisoners whose cell doors had been opened.

FUNGERBURG TO RUN SCOUT MESS

R. C. Funderburg, local legionnaire who was a mess sergeant and who ran a bang up army mess during his service in the A. E. F., will have charge of the "eats" department at the Boy Scouts summer camp at Cache, Oklahoma, according to an announcement.

DARING—

year-old clerk in the registry department. Sternberg, according to the inspector had some means—as yet undiscovered—of ascertaining when valuable packages were to come to the postoffice from the federal reserve bank.

He knew in advance of the big shipment of liberty bonds which was made on July 18 and laid the pouch aside when it was delivered.

A few minutes later, it is alleged, he took the pouch to a small closet on the third floor where Edward Fogel, a confederate, had been hiding for several hours. Tossing the pouch into the closet, he strolled nonchalantly back to his post, leaving Fogel to rip it open, extract the package of bonds and slip quietly out of the building.

Sternberg was suspected at the time, but care was taken to make him think he was not, and a short time later occasion was found to drop him from the service for a minor infraction of the rules.

The inspectors continued to watch him and four months ago the "bearded gent" managed to scrape an acquaintance with the confectionery store he and Fogel had opened.

"Taking a room in the lower east side as his "hang out" the inspector installed a speech recording instrument and invited them to visit him. It was not long until he had met the other five men alleged to be members of the gang and was swapping stories with them about their mail robbing exploits—while fellow inspectors recorder the conversations in an adjoining room.

Finally the gangsters let the "bearded gent" in on the city hall station plot—and the swoop came.

Arraigned before United States Commissioner Hitchcock this afternoon the seven prisoners were held in bail ranging from $5,000 to $25,000 each.

Sternberg, Fogel, Abraham, Goldsmith and Gustav Galles were held in $25,000; Irving Weinstein in $15,000 and Gustav Feldman and Harry Shapiro in $5,000 each.

FLETCHER—

He then struck a match to see why he could not free the girl. The machine then caught fire. The water was only a foot deep, according to Fletcher's statement to Harrison. It seems that a three-gallon can of gasoline ignited the car, according to Hamilton's explanation of Fletcher's story.

J. A. Morbitzer, another state witness, who lives half a mile from the scene of the tragedy, testified that about the time the car is believed to have plunged into the water, he heard a "crack"; that he heard the "buzzing" of a car about that time and then heard "a kind of screaming," which he thought at the time was made by "lynx cats." On cross examination, he testified that "the crack" did not sound like "the report of a gun."

Sheriff Joe McDonald said that he went to the spot early in the morning and found the bodies there.

Moore Heard "Cries"

Joe Moore, called by the state, testified that he lived about a mile and a half south of the bridge, and that on the night of the accident, while at home with his wife, he was attracted by a commotion and "cries" outside. Upon going out of th. yard, he said, he saw Fletcher "running across the field toward" his (the witness') house and that Fletcher was "crying" and "yelling."

Moore said that he thought at the time that Fletcher "was a crazy man." Moore said that he then went inside his house and closed and locked his doors. He explained that the defendant rushed upon his porch, beat with his fists upon the door and cried out:

"Come! Help me! Let me in! Mr. Saylor's little girl is burning up."

The witness said that these were his words or about what he said.

Moore said that both he and his wife were frightened and told Fletcher to go to the back door, and when he did so, they slipped out the front door and ran to the home of Moore's father.

He said that upon returning to his home later, he found the back door wide open and glass in the front door broken out as though Fletcher in his distress, had smashed it with his bare fists.

Frank Huffman, deputy sheriff, also testified. He told of the position of the car and the bodies of the deceased. He said he sat up with the bodies at the scene of the accident throughout the night and that in his opinion it was "an accident, pure and simple." Part of this was brought out on cross-examination.

CROPS IN PART OF STATE GOOD

69 Per Cent of Plowing Done

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, Texas, May 19.—Crops in Texas are further advanced for this time of the year, in all parts of the state not affected by the devastating floods and rains, than last year, or any recent year, according to a resume of the condition of work, up to early in May, just received by the statistics bureau of the state department of agriculture.

Of total plowing necessary for spring planting, it was reported 69 per cent was finished on May 1, and that at the present time there is about a 3 per cent lead over the condition at the same time last year.

The Texas rye acreage to be harvested this year is 12,740, with a crop condition of 85 per cent normal. Prospects are for a total production of 184,003 bushels.

PROHIBITION AS AN ISSUE

PROHIBITION, after thirty months of existence in the United States, still is a poltical issue.

It is not conceded to be a major issue, nor is it a party issue, but it is conceded even by the champions of prohibition enforcement to be an issue.

That they are apprehensive about it is demonstrated by the recent appeal sent out by the legislative committee of the Anti-Saloon League to all friends of prohibition enforcement to be on the alert in the coming political primaries and to see to it that men are not nominated for congress who could by an possible influence he induced to vote for a modification of the Volstead enforcement act.

No serious thinking "wets" have any hope of ever overturning the eighteenth amendment. They know it is not necessary, because the eighteenth amendment does not prohibit. It merely declares for prohibition and congress must pass the law enforcing this condition.

But the "wet" leaders to have an abiding hope that the Volstead act may be modified by "boosting" the alcoholic content of permissible beverages.

The late Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania remarked at a social occasion shortly after the ratification of the eighteenth amendment:

"Congress hereafter will be wet or dry. For some years it will be dry. Then along will come a wet wave and up will go the permissible alcoholic content."

That is just what the prohibiton leaders are trying to prevent, and this is the first year since the establishment of prohibition that the signs on the horizon point to real serious political assaults on the John Barleycorn lockbox.

In many states and in more congressional districts the wets and drys are arrayed against each other this year about as they were before the amendment was ratified, or before it had ever been submitted to the states. And in most of the campaigns where prohibition figures the success or the breakdown in enforcement is the proposition around which the debate centers.

On one side it is contended that conditions have improved enormously; that intoxication has diminished and that by slow but sure processes enforcement is being made effective. On the other side it is asserted that enforcement is impossible; that a great majority of the people scoff at the law and violate it without compunction and that worse evils have grown up under prohibition than existed before.

There are two viewpoints of enforcement—one from the government side and the other from the Association Against Prohibiton. Prohibiton Commissoner Haynes says about enforcement:

"With the utmost emphasis it can be stated, and convincing evidence is to be seen on every hand, that the eighteenth amendment is being enforced with greater success than was ever conceived possible in less than thirty months by its closest friends.

"The truth is it is being enforced to such an extent its enemies are increasing their false country-wide propaganda, and this fact alone is sufficient evidence that the shoe is pinching."

The other point of view, presented by the Association Opposed to Prohibition, may be summed up in the following:

"Crimes have increased; the courts are congested, and justice sadly suffers. Swarms of officers have been sent to harrass the people. The crimes and crookedness of these officers have been a disgrace to the nation and have brought law and justice into comtempt. In the state of New York court records show that crime convictions have increased from 40,691 in 1920, to 56,516 in 1921. Convictions for intoxication in courts of special sessions virtually doubled."

The reason paragraphers don't strike is because they know it would be too darned easy to fill their places.

Unionism has its little faults, but while man is full of greed the world must choose between organized labor and agonized labor.

DR. CRANE'S EDITORIAL

THE MODERNIZATION OF CHINA.

THOSE who imagine that China is everlastingly fixed in her old forms are mistaken. This strange country, most antique of all, has in it the capacity of becoming the most modern. That she has in herself certain faculties that prepare her for rapid transformation may be seen from the following facts:

First of all, China does not, as in the case of Japan, have to get rid of that heavy heritage of feudalism which has so impeded the progress of Europe.

She is not loaded down with autocratic ideas such as dominate the institutions of the West, both ecclesiastical and economic.

She has been singularly free from those great impeding forces which almost everywhere else in the world have dominated nations, such as theocracy, aristocracy and feudality.

For 2,000 years neither priest, nor noble, nor feudal ruler has played any considerable role.

China, the oldest nation, and America the youngest nation, are the only two states that have always been democratic.

In China the ruler has always come to his position, not from birth, nor favor, nor election, but solely by merit. If the purely literary system of examination which determines that merit is ridiculous, nevertheless the system was impartial and just in its operation.

In no other country of the world has the maxim of Napoleon been so faithfully followed, "Let place be the reward of talent."

China is free from the conservative snobbism of Europe as it is free from the worship of material wealth which prevails in America.

China does not have to wrestle with the problems of religious hate and those fanaticisms and outbreaks of intolerance which have stained the page of European history from the beginning until now.

China does not even have the narrow fanaticism of the infidel. Its attitude toward religion has always been that of the rationalist—that is to say, it has always possessed that state of mind toward which Western civilization is struggling, the state of mind of being entirely open and tolerant.

China has as much democracy as the United States, and its democracy is marked by culture and courtesy, and not by grossness.

The art of China long ago reached that perfect state of expression toward which the art of Europe still struggles.

As for Chinese letters, one can find there a beauty, a simplicity and an idealism which Mr. Lowes Dickinson compares particularly with the works of Wordsworth.

The example of Japan proves to us that an Asiatic race can quickly superimpose upon its profound life the material acquisition and practical science of the West, without abandoning its original nature. For the excellency of the West is not one of culture but merely one of surface acquisition, and it would be very easy for China to take that on.

We should not forget that 100 years ago Europe had no railroads, no electricity, and none of those characteristics which dominate our modern civilization.

The Chinese with their strange plasticity could easily adopt these things without the slightest change of mind, and they will probably do so as soon as they get ready.

The awakening of China may come overnight.

Europe must borrow from Peter to pay Paul until she outgrows the habit of borrowing from Peter to lick Paul.

There's a brighter side. If scandals in high life were a common occurrence, they would have little news value.

A college professor says we are losing the imaginative faculty. He need not despair, however. Long skirts are coming back.

The easiest way to understand the psychology of the American people is to study the material it sends to Congress.

Bryan insists our ancestors were dirt. At any rate the old boys a few thousand years back were incrusted with it.

The reason freedom doesn't last long is because mental laziness soon persuades citizens to speak of government as "they."

If she doesn't get photographed, it isn't modesty. It is but frank acceptance of conditions over which she has no control.

The objection to the classical music you hear on the radio is that it doesn't always harmonize with the neighbor's phonograph.

In Egypt the pedestrian is greeted with the saying: 'God be with you." In America he is greeted with the saying: "Stick 'em up."

DOGHILL PARAGRAFS
By GEORGE BINGHAM

Clab Hancock's mule balked on him early today and he had to get out and push him up the hill.

Sim Flinders says he notices lots of people are in a big hurry to get somewhere, and after they arrive they haven't anything to do.

Ras Barlow says he notices that the smaller and cheaper the phonograph the longer hours it has to work.

HUMAN PROGRESS
By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE.

One of the best antidotes I can recommend against a pessimistic view of the progress of mankind is a thoughtful reading of the first hundred and fifty pages of H. G. Wells's "Outline of History." In those pages Mr. Wells surveys the prehistoric state of the world, as reconstructed by scientific research and theory. It is indeed an ancient world that he depicts, a world so old that to comprehend its age imposes a real tax on the mind.

"For ages that stagger the imagination this earth spun hot and lifeless, and again for ages of equal vastness it held no life above the level of the animalculae in a drop of ditch water."

By some authorities, as Mr. Wells recalls, the geological age of the world is put at 1,600,000,000 years. The lowest scientific estimate is 25,000,000. Compare this with the length of the Christian era. Compare it with the time that has elapsed since first we have authentic record of the presence and doings of man.

Proof, we have, to be sure, that men truly like unto ourselves wandered about the world 25,000 to 40,000 years ago. But the dawn of history is definitely and rightly put by Mr. Wells at not more than 4,000 years ago. Could anything be more impressive than the progress of mankind during these 4,000 years?

Concerning even the status of the Greeks of the Iliad, Mr. Wells can write:

"The Greeks, as the Iliad presents them, are neither simple neolithic nomads, innocent of civilization, nor are they civilized men. . . . The Greek epics reveal the early Greeks with no knowledge of iron, and without writing. They are sturdy fighters, but without discipline—their battles are a confusion of single combats."

Yet how rapidly the Greeks developed, once a written means of interchanging ideas became theirs!

And how amazingly all mankind have developed since the times of the Greeks, the Egyptians, the Babylonians, the Sumerians, and the vanished empires described, of necessity fragmentarily, yet vividly, by Mr. Wells.

Remembering, then, how old the world is and how young man, contrasting the social life and sentiments of the most civilized societies of 4,000 years ago with the social life and sentiments dominant in the civilization of today, optimism must prevail, not pessimism.

If man has been able to grow intellectually and morally as we know he has in those scant forty centuries—if in them he has been able, and at a steadily increasing rate, to master profound secrets of nature and to turn more and more to his advantage the forces of nature—what may we not expect of him during the next 4,000 years?

And even then, as compared with the age of the world he inhabits, man still will be splendidly young, with undreamed possibilities before him.

Mayfield Addresses Breckenridge Crowd

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas, May 19.—An audience which taxed the capacity of the district courtroom heard Hon. Earle B. Mayfield, candidate for the United States senate, speak here tonight in the interest of his candidacy. The candidate reiterated his demand for lower freight rates, stating that the rapidity of development of the oil resources of this section depended largely upon the producers' securing fair and equitable freight rates while would enable them to compete with other producing fields nearer to the central markets.

Rippling Rhymes

IMAGINARY ILLS

I often weep for Pink McGill who lives next door but two; he thinks he is extremely ill, that shortly he'll be through, and sleeping idly on the hill beneath the sod and dew. He talks for hours about his aches, in wearisome despair; and yet I think his pains are fakes, a pipe dream and a snare, and he could whip his weight in snakes and never sweat a hair. If he would cease to grieve and whine about imagined pains, and say, "Today I'm feeling fine, from bootheels up to brains," his face with ruddy health would shine, brisk blood would warm his veins. Old Pink McGill would be a peach if he'd forget his ills, and cease to murmur and to reach for Dr. Fantod's pills, and fire the druggist and the leech who fill him up with squills. For he's a man of many gifts, well versed in ancient lore, and wise to all the noble shifts of bards and seers of yore; but as he is he merely lifts a bottle from the floor. Oh, he could tell us splendid tales of lonely ships and seas, of pawing steeds and armored males whose banners rode the breeze, but as he is he only wails of spasms in his knees. He shows a most indecent haste when there's new dope to try; and he is taking pills that taste like hens' nests in July; and so a good man goes to waste—and this is why I cry.

THE DAILY STORY

That Rose Geranium

"Ned, I had to get my shoes half-soled this week; can you——"

Ned Johnson rattled his newspaper a moment before replying. He had been looking over the stock market and had about decided to take a flier in some Gold Mountain securities. "Lucy, you are not a good manager. I give you a fixed allowance for housekeeping, and every month or so you come to me with some excuses and demands for money. I'm not made of money, my dear. This is our time to save," he paused to flick off a crumb from his extremely well-tailored suit and held out his cup for more coffee. "Put more cream in this cup. Now where was I? Oh yes, about saving. Many women earn money these days, but you are an adept at spending."

Lucy stared at her untouched breakfast. Ned was a splendid man in many ways. No one realized this more than his wife, but he always seemed to think that household expenditures were unnecessary luxuries. He would spend $12 for a theater trip and then insist upon treating to a supper afterward if they happened to be with congenial people, but a request for $2 or $3 for the household budget invariably brought a homily on the beauty of saving. "I have a fixed sum ,but it is not large enough to cover the unexpected demands," she replied. "There is no provision for cleaning or repairs or clothing——"

"Well, well, my dear, don't feel badly over it. You'll learn some day. Here's a dollar extra." He tossed down a silver dollar and put on his handsome overcoat and went off beaming at his generosity.

"And," thought his wife, picking up the dishes, "my shoes cost $2.50 to repair, and I counted on that toward the milk bill. Well, I'll just have to try and skimp on the table, I almost wish I had charged the repairs on my bill at the department store. I thought of it, but I would have had to pay carfare to take them down and waste an afternoon. Ned never cares about the monthly bills for clothes. It is only the currency that seems extravagant to him."

When she had set her house in its usual immaculate order she sat down and looked over the newspaper from the evening before. She had been a stenographer before her marriage, and she began to think of going to work again for awhile. She marked two advertisements, and then went to work on her ironing, planning to go downtown after luncheon.

By 12 o'clock the clothes horse was hung with beautifully ironed clothes. Ned's soft shirts and collars filled a good share of the space, for as she did them herself without cost he felt at liberty to use them freely. She made some strong tea and warming up a saucedish of cereal that had been left from breakfast, she sat down to her luncheon. The cold toast was not greatly relished by her, for she was tired from a long morning on her feet, and the money discussion had depressed her. "I would lots rather work and feel I had a right to squander a little money," she thought, "not really squander it, but I'd like to have a dollar in my pocket that I could use without knowing that I'd have to stint on my lunches. Ned saved over half his salary last year, even with his losses on that old copper mine. If he wasn't so sure he could win at stocks we'd be really well off. Still, he never drinks, and he's so kind about always wanting me to go everywhere with him—" The familiar click of her husband's latch key aroused her, and she jumped up.

Ned entered breezily, accompanied by Edgar, Lucy's brother from the west. "Here's a dandy surprise for you, Luce," laughed Ned. "Edgar is going on to New York, and couldn't spare the time to stay all night, so we've come home to lunch with you. I wanted to blow him to a good feed at the Altmore, but he wanted to see you, naturally."

Ned hung up his overcoat and returned to the dining room, where the brother and sister were talking excitedly, interrupting each other with questions about home and other near relatives. "What—" he began, then checked himself and stood looking down at the scanty meal in silence. The others did not hear him as they chatted.

The dainty blue and white china on the well-ironed damask made a pretty picture in the sunshiny room. The rose geranium in its paper-frilled flower pot sent out a wave of fragrance that reminded the man of his mother's home. She had loved the homely plant, and Lucy, learning this, had brought the plant herself from her house money. The tea, without cream, the half-eaten cereal and two half slices of toast, without butter, comprised the meal. Then his eye fell upon the two advertisements that she had neatly pasted on a card—"for stenographers," he thought. "Lucy, I'm going to the store, be back in a moment," said Ned.

He returned with a big beefsteak and some oysters and a loaf of bread. "I want to know," he said after Edgar had gone to wash and tidy up, "what do you mean by sitting down to such a meal? I get a substantial lunch every day at a good place. I always smoke a 15-cent cigar afterward, and frequently two of them. I was absolutely ashamed to have your brother see that table. Don't I make enough to keep you comfortably?"

Lucy, her cheeks an unaccustomed pink from excitement at her brother's unexpected visit, smiled. "Yes, you make a splendid salary, but"—she glanced over at the silver dollar lying on the milk bill in her desk—"I've been thinking of going downtown again."

Ned took the card and crushed it in his hand. "There, I've spoiled your clippings. Think I'm going to have my wife downtown every day? Not much. Look at this beautifully kept house." Again he looked at the rose geranium that she had stinted herself to buy. "I forgot that you might need a little extra money just for yourself. From now on the house allowance is going to be paid at the end month, which means that you'll have just what you need. But everything that is required for three good meals and you are going to have $5 a week for yourself. Why didn't you give me the milkman's bill instead of using that dollar for it?"

"I wanted to keep the table bills within the sum we set. You see, our budget—"

"Fine idea, but never"—he regarded her sternly—"try to run up a doctor bill by eating such a lunch as that."

"No, Ned," she assented, a smile playing about her lips as she thought of a crisp $5 bill lying in her purse beside the dime that she always aimed to keep for a lucky piece.

Keep the Liver Prepared to Do Its Duty in Cleansing The System. Black-Draught Will Help

KERNERVILLE, N. C.—Mrs. Wesley Mabe, who resides near here, says Thedford's Black-Draught is kept in her home all the time since it has proved very valuable when used to correct derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels, and to help prevent sickness from developing from such conditions.

"For dizziness, headaches, colds, and similar troubles, Black-Draught is a wonder," according to Mrs. Mabe.

"It helps carry away bile and cold the easiest of any medicine I ever saw.

"I have used Black-Draught with my whole family, and will continue to do so, as it has proven its worth. We are glad to recommend Black-Draught. My health is just fine."

Black-Draught has been found a useful adjuvant in breaking up colds, when the use of a laxative or cathartic medicine is indicated. It acts upon the liver as a tonic, helping it to drive poisons and unhealthful matters from the system.

Biliousness, dizziness, coated tongue bitter taste in the mouth, often warn you that your liver is out of fix. Don't neglect it. Prevention of illness is better than cure. Take Black-Draught, for your liver. Be sure you get Thedford's.

BEAUTY SPOTS

No. 4 of Series

Beautiful and stately is the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. Clint Wood, which occupies a conspicuous corner at Tenth and Brook streets. The house, one of the largest and finest in the city, is built of red fire-proof brick and the completeness of the basement is one of the special features of the architecture. A den with a large, old-fashioned fireplace with real "dog irons," where real logs are burned on cold winter evenings, furnishes a cosy nook for friends to gather. At Christmas time, a tree placed in a corner by the fireplace is kept decorated and lighted during the Yuletide and in this setting the Christmas spirit is indeed emphasized. Another feature of this complete basement is the spacious ballroom, which is a rendezvous for the young people. The entire house seems to have been arranged with the idea of extending hospitality.

The grounds like the house, are spacious and attractive. The lawn, kept mowed until it has the appearance of a green carpet is broken in places and large rosebeds arranged lending color and fragrance to the out of doors. Stately cedars, trimmed to a point stand like sentinels in the front yard and on the Tenth street side, while at the back southern pines and other greenery line the fence.

A latticed arch covered with trailing rose vines abloom with roses of various colors separate the house from the garage and servants' quarters, which is built along the same elaborate lines as the house. This home is just one of many beauty spots in Wichita Falls.

Tomorrow, W. E. Norton's home on the corner of Eleventh and Brook will be described.

POEM OF DAY

HYMN OF TRUST

O Love Divine, that stooped to share
Our sharpest pang, our bitterest tear,
On Thee we cast each earth-born care,
We smile at pain while Thou art near!

Though long the weary way we tread,
And sorrow crowns each lingering year,
No path we shun, or darkness dread,
Our hearts still whispering, Thou are near!

When drooping pleasure turns to grief,
And trembling faith changed to fear,
The murmuring wind, the quivering leaf,
Shall softly tell us, Thou are near!

On Thee we fling our burdening woe,
O Love Divine, forever dear,
Content to suffer while we know,
Living and dying, Thou art near!

—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

FOR BRIDE

BY ELOISE

It is a neck and neck race this month between the graduation dress and the wedding gown. White, of course, is the most wanted color no matter which occasion the gown is chosen for. The fabrics are so numerous that one can practically choose one's favorite. Silks, satins, brocades and other fabrics may have their brief reigns of popularity, but for the wedding dress lace is always correct and has been through the ages.

This gown pictured here is a simple model suitable for the home or church wedding. It is made of lace wide enough to make the skirt length. A large rose pattern forms the border. The full skirt and tight bodice are draped over a white satin slip. The sleeve seams and neckline are outlined in pearls.

The veil is arranged in an attractive style. It is made of silk tulle and although very full it is only skirt length. The cap effect is held in place by the customary orange blossoms. Mildred June, a pretty screen actress, is posing in this frock.

Little Stories for Bedtime

FOURTH ADVENTURE OF LITTLE MITE

Little Mite, the smallest and smartest of the four babies of Danny Meadow Mouse, who had run away to see the Great World, wished with all his might that he never had thought of leaving his dear, safe home. He had been so sure that he was smart enough to take care of himself, and now already he had had three dreadful adventures, and the fact that he was still alive was not because of his own smartness, but because of good fortune. He had been lucky; that was all. The Great World, which, as he had peeped out at it from the safety of his home, had seemed such a wonderful place, nowesemed a very dreadful place.

First he had had all his breath knocked out of him by Bossy the Cow. It was an accident, but he didn't know this. Then he had been caught by Black Pussy, and had escaped only because the Merry Little Breezes had helped him. He didn't know this, either. Then Miner the Mole had almost caught him when he had taken a nap in Miner's underground house. Now he wondered what would happen next. He had begun to think that there wasn't any safe place anywhere for a little meadow mouse. He wasn't doing any harm to anybody or anything, and yet it seemed as if the whole Great World had turned against him. He shivered with fright as he wondered what he should do next and what would happen to him next.

"The first thing to do is to find a safe hiding place," thought he, "and I believe I'll do it at once." This was the very wisest thing that Little Mite could possibly do, and it showed that at last he really had begun to learn. He was just about to start out to look for a hiding place when he heard footsteps. He pricked up his little ears and listened with all his might. He wondered if it might be a friend who would help him. The trouble was he didn't know who were friends and who were enemmies. Nearer and nearer came those footsteps. Somehow they didn't sound like the footsteps of a friend, because—well, because they had a stealthy sound as if whoever was making them was trying to make no sound at all.

Nearer and nearer they came. Little Mite didn't know what to do, so he did nothing. He just sat still, his heart going thumpity-thump-thump, thumpity-thum-thump. Now, it happens that sitting still was just the wisest thing to do. Nearer and nearer came the soft, stealthy footsteps. Then quite suddenly something big an dred loomed up right in front of Little Mite. He didn't know for sure whoit was, but he guessed. You see, the handsome red coat was enough to make Mite quite certain. And then there was a smell that somehow made him quite sick with fear.

"It's Reddy Fox," thought poor Little Mite.

He was quite right. It was Reddy Fox. Reddy had seated himself, his back to wee, frightened, Little Mite and was watching something which Mite, down among the grasses, couldn't see. But he could see Reddy's sides go in and out, in and out, as he breathed, and he could hear Reddy lick his chops every few minutes. It was a perfectly dreadful situation! There he was so close to one of those he most feared, the very one about whom his father, Danny Meadow Mouse, had warned him against most, that he could touch the long hairs of his tail. He couldn't run, because there was no place to run to. All he could do was to sit perfectly still and try to hold his breath. He wished his heart wouldn't thump so. He was afraid that Reddy would hear it.

What is Reddy should happen to turn around and look behind him? Mite made himself flatter than ever at the thought. He hoped that Reddy would keep interested in whatever it was that he was watching so intently. How he did wish for something to cover him up—something to hide under. And almost with the thought something did cover him up. What do you think it was? Why, it was the great, plumey tail of Reddy Fox himself! He had swung it around so that it lay right over Little Mite Meadow Mouse and Reddy knew nothing about it. Little Mite held his breath and wondered if he ever would see home again.

Adams' triple sent him safely to the close corner, and Miller reached the same notch after a bit of inside baseball. McDonald's double in the seventh took him half the distance around, but he was never advanced as Miller and Beck both sent long flies to center.

Hiller turned in a robbery as his contribution to the great defensive play of the game. He reached his limit toward the bag and with a backhanded stab, handled Fincher's drive in the third. The blow would have probably gone for two bases.

Fuller had a hand in five of the first six put-outs. Three hitters grounded to him in the first, one in the second and the other popped up a fly which he took in. White made an impossible stop of a grounder by Lee in the fifth, but was off position and could not recover in time to make his throw.

OLD JESS

Jess Willard as He Is Today

By NORMAN E. BROWN.

Every once in a while the report bobs up again that Jess Willard will return to the ring to seek to wrest the heavyweight crown from Jack Dempsey's head. His belief that he can regain the title he lost to the Giant Killer at Toledo three years ago is said to be Willard's reason.

Why make us laugh?

We believed at the time we saw Willard go down in a fat, sloppy pile before Dempsey's sledge-hammer blows in that wooden bowl in Toledo that had Jess been trained to the minute, he could have kept his title then. We were not alone in the belief. Had Willard sought and obtained a match within a few months we would have backed him to the limit to turn the tables.

But we can't see any chance for him now.

FRENCHMAN WINS FROM SPANIARD

BRUSSELS, May 19.—Young Cochet of France, world's covered court tennis champion furnished a surprise in the sixth day's playing in the international hard court tournament today by defeating Manuel Alonso, the Spanish star, 6-3, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4.

Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen and Miss Elizabeth Ryan of California, reached the semi-finals in the doubles today by winning from Mrs. Peacock and Mrs. Satter, 6-1, 6-3.

HE'S A HERO

Jess Barnes.

Last winter John McGraw decided that he had no place in his championship lineup. Jawn offered Barnes to the highest bidder—and no high bids were forthcoming. The other day Jess took a fling at the Phillies and let them down without a hit. One pass spoiled his chances of joining the six no-man-reach-first heroes. It was the plodding Cy Williams who drew that pass. Giants won, 6 to 0.

COYOTES TAKE SECOND GAME AT AMARILLO

Glidwell, Bashara and Kizziar Take Lead

Special to The Record News.

AMARILLO, Texas, May 19.—The Wichita Falls Coyotes came back strong today and took the second game of the series 8-5. The victory was largely due to the excellent mound work of Glidwell, pitching his first game of the season. Glidwell and Kizziar both registered three hits and Bashara had a double and triple.

The first Coyote runs came in the third when Ross cleaned the bases, but was called out himself for not touching first.

Amarillo tied the count in the fifth, but Glidwell tightened up and behind wonderful support, held the home team runless throughout the remainder of the game.

Nicklaus was hit freely in the opening innings and was relieved by Anderson, a left-hander. The latter fared little better and five runs were registered off his delivery. Six errors helped the Wichita team with their scoring.

The game was called at the end of the end of the eighth inning to permit play of teams in the West Texas league. Score:

Wichita Falls	003 110 21—8
Amarillo	200 120 00—5

DEMPSEY NOT TO MEET WILLS

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 19.—Jack Dempsey will not meet Harry Wills, negro aspirant for the heavyweight title at Montreal on July 1, his manager, Jack Kearns said today upon their arrival from Europe on the Aquitania. Dempsey could not get in condition by that time, Kearns said.

Kearns added that Dempsey probably would meet a challenger for the title on Labor day. It has not been decided, however, whether he will fight in this country or return to London to meet Georges Carpenter on that date.

Wichita Falls first unit in the new national guard, Battery D., 131st field artillery, 36th division, declared by Major W. L. Culberson, U. S. A., the federal mustering officer to have the highest percentage of former service men of any organization he had inspected, was accepted into the federal and state service Friday night.

The new battery, which starts with a strength of 55 men, is commanded by Dr. John H. Fletcher who commended a battery of the 36th division during their overseas service. Charles Nolen, former 36th division officer, and William J. Platka, a former officer of the Philippine constabulary, and an officer in the New York national guard division during the war, are the first lieutenants, and George W. Lee, who served in the air corps during the war, is second lieutenant.

In addition to Major Culberson, the regular army officer present, the state was represented by Capt. S. M. Hankins of Quanah.

The local organization was practically formed in two months and a half—the record for any battery in the Texas National Guard. Major H. J. Weiler, who will command the battalion of which it is a part, directed the formation of the battery.

It will hold regular drills on Wednesday nights of each week, the American Legion hall on Ohio avenue being the downtown assembly point, and the place for all downtown drills, schools and night assemblies.

A hangar and drill ground at Call Field have been leased for the mounted drill, and for the storage of the field pieces and other equipments. It is expected that horses and equipment will be obtained in about 30 days.

Adjutant General Barton has agreed to come to Wichita Falls and proceed with officers from here to Fort Sill to draw the equipment for the battery as soon as the papers have been formally approved by the federal authorities.

Mounted drills will be initiated as soon as the horses are obtained, as will mounted athletics, including polo, which will be featured. Six or seven of the members of the local organization will be sent to the summer training camp at Fort Sill for a month's instruction this summer.

Recruiting of the second organization here, the headquarters battery, which will feature radio work, will start at once, according to Major Weiler.

Miss Jean Hudson, unofficially a sergeant-major, now stationed at the Presidio, San Francisco, is the only woman field clerk in the United States army.

LAWTON BANK WILL REOPEN

Reopening of the First National bank of Lawton, with capital of $200,000 intact, and with a surplus of $20,000, is scheduled for some time during the coming week, according to advices received by Wichita Falls bankers Friday. The exact date of reopening will be fixed by the board of directors of the organization which meets Tuesday. The bank suspended last December.

MANY WANT TO ATTEND CAMP

Numerous applications from Wichita Falls' youths for attendance at the summer citizens' military training camp at Fort Sill have been received by Lieut. Charles R. Mize, a regular army officer here to receive applications. Additional applications will be received today, his last here, he said. While here the party is officing at the office of Major Culberson, regular army instructor-inspector, on the fourth floor, Morgan building.

Charges Filed for Oil Field Shooting

Charges against a man whose name could not be confirmed have been filed by J. M. Holcomb, production superintendent of the Kansas & Gulf company, in connection with the shooting of William O. Quinn near the company's lease in the Burkburnett district last Sunday.

Holcomb has assisted in the investigation of the affair, and was not held in connection with the investigation as has been the impression of some following the shooting.

Quinn is in a Burkburnett hospital in a serious condition.

BANKS IMPROVE OVER DISTRICT

Federal Reserve Head Gives Figures

Loans of the 11th district federal reserve bank in its territory, a year ago some $68,000,000, are now down to $30,000,000 and banks in the larger towns of Texas have a surplus of $35,000,000 which they can not loan to advantage in their districts and which are placed on called loans in the financial centers of the country, Judge W. F. Ramsey, federal reserve agent at Dallas, told local bankers Friday. Judge Ramsey gave these statistics as illustrative of the wonderful financial improvement of this district.

The district bank has not a single loan to a Wichita Falls bank at this time, and have only one loan each, practically all small, in each of the other large points in the district, including Dallas, Fort Worth, Waco, Beaumont, Shreveport and San Antonio.

Judge Ramsey was in Wichita Falls for the purpose of delivering the commencement address to the local high school.

CRITICISM OF TRAFFIC RULES

Business Council To Ask Change

With several members expressing indignation at the manner in which traffic is being handled in the business sections of Wichita Falls, H. N. Marion, E. P. Timberlake and E. A. Lesley, Jr. were appointed to the chamber of commerce council to act as a committee on investigation and to appear before the city commission at its next regular meeting for the purpose of effecting adjustment.

After several members of the council had declared that the traffic department is becoming a joke, that the laws that it was supposed to enforce were being violated by truck drivers without being fined, J. C. Hamilton dressed the members of the council on traffic regulations.

Mr. Hamilton said that he had been arrested for parking on a street that was said to be a no parking street, that ordinance should be changed to permit either double parking or double parking of trucks in certain sections.

It was the opinion of Ben Bolt that the truck drivers were not afraid of being arrested for getting on the streets of the business section of town.

Several members expressed the opinion that the ordinance regulating vehicles necessitated too much time and space for turning around, thereby causing the traffic to be congested during the morning hours when the streets are filled with trucks.

The committee appointed to investigate the matter will confer with truck drivers at the present time.

Girl Gets Goods Cheaply, Federal Charges Set Out

Margaret Abbott, 16 year-old white girl of Burkburnett, who was arrested recently on charges of using the mails to defraud, was granted bail in the sum of $250 by United States Commissioner J. A. Lantz Friday afternoon.

According to postal officials, the youthful girl confessed to attempting to defraud mail order houses of their articles.

Commissioner Lantz said that the Abbott girl had been sending orders to eastern houses and obtaining from $20 to $50 worth of goods at a time. She would then send a check to which she had attached an assumed name, the commissioner said. The checks, of course, were later returned to the mail order houses, with the result of the girl's arrest.

NEGROES GET BONDS

Luther McCutcheon and Wilbur Wheeler, negroes charged with the theft of a trunk and clothing valued over $150, were given a preliminary hearing before Justice R. A. Gunn Friday afternoon and bound over to the grand jury.

The bonds of each defendant were set at $1,000.

McCutcheon and Wheeler were arrested just as they were delivering the trunk to a servant's house on Richards street. It had previously been taken from a servant cottage on Hoff avenue, in the 2000 block.

The negress who reported the theft of the trunk before it was recovered by officers of the sheriff's department identified it later at the sheriff's office.

GRADS PRESENT TEACHER GIFT

Miss Splawn Is Given Bracelet

Miss Jennie Splawn, "home" teacher of the 1922 senior class, was presented with a handsome watch bracelet by the graduates, at the conclusion of the commencement exercises Friday night. The presentation was made by Edward Kadane, the class president, who voiced the class appreciation of the efforts and cooperation of Miss Splawn, through the numerous terms she had been with them.

Presentation of the Wilkie Talbert medal for extemporaneous speaking was also made at this time, Mr. Talbert himself making the award. Joe Basharu, the winner in the contest, was represented by proxy, his brother, Sam, appearing to receive the medal in the place of Joe, who was with the baseball team, now playing in Amarillo.

Presentation of three certificates of recognition from the state interscholastic league was made to the winners in the girls debating and declamation contests in the district. S. H. Rider, principal of the high school made the presentation to Louise Scott, winner of the first place in declamation, and Stella Winters and Frances Jones, debating team winners.

Some 250 years ago children in England were sent to school with pipes in their satchels, and the schoolmaster called a halt in their duties while they all smoked.

PLAINTIFF WINS SUIT

Judgment for the plaintiff was the outcome of a suit instituted Friday in the county court at law before Judge Guy Rogers by the Nolen-Stringer Automobile company vs. W. L. Mabry.

The plaintiff alleged that Mabry had purchased a car from the company and had neglected to fulfill his note payments when the notes came due.

Judge Ramsey Makes Address

"Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it."

With this as his subject, Judge W. F. Ramsay, federal reserve commissioner, eminent lawyer, and prominent Texan, addressed the graduating class of the Wichita Falls high school of 1922 Friday night at the Wichita theater. The theater was packed, to the gallery, with all who could find places standing at the rear.

Speaking as a native Texan, and as a southerner, but above all, as an American, Judge Ramsey made an ardent appeal for the complete and total Americanization of the country through the Americanization of the schools.

He opened his address with his tribute to Wichita Falls citizens, to mention with commendation the voting of the big bond issue on last Saturday, which will make possible the finest high school in the state of Texas for Wichita Falls.

"I have always admired Wichita Falls and it's citizens, it's courage and it's accomplishments" he said, "and in delivering this address to this magnificent class of 112, made possible through the interested efforts of citizens, taxpayers, and school system of previous years, I wish to forecast even more wonderful accomplishments for the boys and girls who follow these.

"A city or community that makes heavy investments in schools is indeed wise. There could be no investment made that will bring greater and more lasting returns than in the public schools."

He sketched briefly the beginnings of the public school system of Texas, from the days when Mirabeau Lamar, second president of the Republic of Texas, fostered an endowment of lands for the public schools.

Judge Ramsey was introduced by Judge A. H. Carrigan, president of the school board.

Judge Carrigan also presented the diplomas of graduation to the graduates. He prefaced the presentation with an expression of appreciation for Superintendent Lee Clark, and the members of the high school faculty.

Honor Graduations

Louis Wick and Frank Carter were announced as the honor graduates, with averages of 94.78 and 92.75 respectively. Scholarships to the various universities and colleges in the state were presented to these honor graduates.

KLAN HEARING NOW CONTINUED

Judge Puts Motion at Beaumont

By Associated Press.

BEAUMONT, Texas, May 19.—The impeachment case against Sheriff T. H. Garner of this county on the grounds that it is believed he is a member of the Ku Klux Klan, was today postponed on the courts own motion until June 5.

In the meantime, District Judge E. A. McDowell announced he would attempt to find some other judge who is willing to exchange benches with him during this trial.

It looked like the trial would proceed at 2 o'clock this afternoon after 4 1-2 days had been consumed in hearing motions. When the hour arrived, attorneys for the respondent filed an amendment answer and a batch of new special exceptions.

Judge McDowell then saw that the court term would end before the case could be completed and on his own motion continued the case until June 5th.

Newspaper Attacks On Tariff Stirs Senate to Debate

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Newspaper editorials attacking the administration tariff bill caused another flare-up today in the senate during the consideration of that measure. The editorials were read by Senator Simmons of North Carolina, a democratic leader, in the course of an address in which he attacked the bill generally and asserted there was a growing revolt against it.

In reply Senator McCumber, republican, North Dakota, in charge of the measure renewed his charge that the newspapers attacking the bill influenced by advertisements of importers and asserted that, any professions to the contrary notwithstanding the reading of editorials was of the purpose of delay. He was joined in his attack on the publications by Senator Gooding of Idaho, chairman of the republican agricultural tariff bloc, who said the New York dailies were not going to permit tariff on farm products if they could help it.

WEAKNESS IN WHEAT MARKET

Heavy Selling of July Is Felt

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 19.—Pronounced weakness developed in the wheat market today owing more or less to announcement that the Kansas state crop report indicated a larger yield than of late had been looked for. Prices closed unsettled, 7-8 to 1 1-4 cents net lower, with May 1.20 7-8 to 1.21 and July 1.24 3-8 to 1.24 1-2. Corn finished unchanged to 1-8 down, oats at 1-4 decline to 1-2 advance and provisions varying from unchanged figures to 10 cents off.

Heavy selling of the July delivery of wheat came from the principal long interest in May. Today's arrival here totaled 312 carloads and there were advices that 81 cars were loading 75 cars with wheat for Chicago. A year ago, the days total receipts of wheat in Chicago were 101 cars. Tomorrow's receipts at Kansas City were estimated at 300 cars and Monday's at 300.

During the last hour of the board of trade session, prices crumbled rapidly in the wheat pit. From the low spot point reached, May recovered about 2 1-2, but there was little rallying power displayed by the later months.

Corn and oats prices sympathized a little with the weakness of wheat although the greater part of the day attention was chiefly given to reports of wet weather hindering the corn planting.

Provisions prices were influenced to sag as a result of lower quotations on hogs. A good cash demand for meats, however, was reported.

LINES THAT LAGGED ARE NOW REVIVED

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 19.—Duns tomorrow will say:

"Phases which usually mark periods of business expansion now stand out more clearly. Recovery from previous depression, proceeding slowly and irregularly for many months, is steadily gathering momentum and sentiment reflects the changed conditions. Different lines that had lagged while buyers waited, are beginning to display renewed activity as revival of demand develops and a reversal of the price trend has been witnessed. Without exception each week this month has disclosed an excess of advances in Duns' comprehensive list of wholesale quotations, and premiums on prompt shipments of certain commodities demonstrate that some needs are becoming urgent. Conspicuous among the favorable features is the decisive turn for the better in the automobile industry where sales and output have increased substantially and building operations of magnitude have continued. With improvement also occurring in other leading branches of business despite labor troubles, the general outlook is distinctly of brighter promise, although not without element of uncertainty. The weekly bank clearings $6,093,000."

COTTON DROPS 11-21 POINTS

Prices Ease Off at Late Hours

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 19.—Improving weather news led to more or less liquidation in the cotton market here today with October contracts selling off from 20.28 to 19.94 and closing at 19.96. The general market closed steady at a net decline of 11 to 21 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of one to five points with active positions selling about 5 to 7 points net higher right after the call. Prices quickly eased off some 15 or 20 points from the best but rallied during the middle of the morning on private reports of rain at some points in the southwest. New Orleans was a buyer on this advance and there was covering by early sellers who seemed to be nervous over the weather outlook but the advance was checked at 20.46 for July and 20.14 for December by the western belt, forecast for generally clear weather.

July sold off to 20.20 and December to 19.91 with the general list showing net declines of about 15 to 20 points. Last prices were about the lowest of the day.

Week end figures showing a decrease of 86,611 bales in the world's visible supply of American attracted bullish comment but were without apparent effect on the market.

Exports today 5,948, making 5,047,174 so far this season. Port receipts 14,946. United States port stock 893,014.

BUSINESS NEWS

NEW YORK, May 19.—Withdrawal of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company from the proposed six company steel merger was announced late today by Thomas L. Chadburne, counsel for the interested companies. Conferences of the other five companies are being continued to determine whether it would be advisable to consider the consolidation of some or all of them.

MANCHESTER, Eng., May 19.—The threatened lockout of operators in the cotton spinning trade to the number of 140,000 has been averted, it was announced today. The dispute was over the workers at Royton and Middleton in the Oldham district, who were on strike against new wage cut, the master cotton spinners federation deciding to lockout the other workers unless the strikers returned. Today announcement was made that the strike had been settled and the men would resume work Monday.

EASIER MONEY REVIVES STOCKS

Oils and Steels In Forefront

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK May 19.—Speculative activity in the stock market was revived on a comprehensive scale today, mainly as a result of easier money, virtually all forms of accommodation falling to lowest levels in almost five years.

Aside from call loans which were freely obtainable at 3 1-2 down to 3 per cent, thirty day money eased to 3 3-4 per cent, sixty day money was offered at 4 per cent and loans extending almost to the year's end were negotiated on a 4 1-2 per cent basis.

A very large proportion of the day's funds came from interior sources, especially New England and the middle west, but the higher ratio of reserves reported in the weekly statement of the local federal reserve bank bespoke relaxed conditions at this time.

Steels, oils, sugars, coppers and motors were in the forefront of the day's broad operations at gross advances of 1 to almost 5 points, outstanding individual issues embraced U. S. Steel and New Haven, both at record quotations for two or more years and closing at net gains of 1 7-8 and 2 1-4 points respectively.

Other leaders to show advances of one to over four points included Mexican Petroleum, Bethlehem, Crucible and Republic steels, General Motors in which the turn over assumed proportions; Sinclair, Producers and Refiners, Kelly-Springfield Tire, Cuban American Sugar, Industrial alcohol and United States stores.

Reading made a net gain of 1 3-8 and concurrent strength of other coalers gave color to rumors that the federal administration as represented by the departments of commerce and labor, had formulated tentative plans for a settlement of the coal strike. Pacific, Grangers, Trunk Lines and Cotton carriers also made more or less substantial gains. Sales of stocks amounted to 1,735,000 shares.

Movements of foreign exchanges were irregular on small dealings. The London rate eased slightly from yesterday's higher level and French, Belgian and Italian bills were 2 to 8 points lower, Lire again showing acute weakness. Scandinavian quotations were inclined to react and Swiss francs added to their recent steady decline.

CASES THIN IN POLICE COURT

Officers Believe in Results of Drive

That the concerted efforts which have been put forth by the police department and the new corporate court officials since the appointment of Judge Chauncey is responsible for a decided decrease in the number of cases brought before the court was indicated Friday morning when the docket was called.

For the first time in over a year, there were less than ten cases brought before the bar. Court had completed its business and had adjourned by 9:00 o'clock.

A striking peculiarity of the court room yesterday was the fact that there were not more than 25 pectators present; seats were available for all those present. This is the first time in over a year that the corporate court room has not been crowded with spectators interested in the proceedures.

The fact that court had completed its day's work in an hour after being called to order, whereas it has been confined to long sessions for the past two weeks, indicates that crime has been suppressed to a great extent in Wichita Falls in the last month.

Only one case of vagrancy was called on the docket Friday, the remainder of the cases being charges of traffic violation and minor offenses.

City officials believe the plan to make a strong drive against lawlessness and the idea of invoking the aid of an employment bureau to put vagrant men and women to work, has been largely responsible for the apparent change.

BIG PRINTING DONE OUTSIDE

Printer Protests At Council Meeting

Ninety per cent of the printing of the two biggest printing sources in Wichita Falls goes to outside trade.

None of the counts praising which amounts to around $12,000 per year and none of the banks printing which aggregates between $20,000 and $25,000 a year is done in Wichita Falls.

Those were the statements of R. B. McDonald of the Midwest Printing company who addressed the chamber of commerce council Friday noon at the Kemp in a round table discussion of "Trade at Home."

Mr. McDonald said that Wichita Falls printing and printing house represent a capital of around $200,000 on equipment for their plants and that they have an average yearly payroll of about $175,000 per month, all of the last sum being expended in Wichita Falls through the year by the men employed in the industries.

Wichita Falls printing houses, he declared, are equipped to handle the biggest printing job in Northwest Texas and offer their services for the asking. He urged that those who have printing to do, give the local printers a chance to figure on it before sending it out of the city, declaring that the local printers would meet any competition in prices.

Evidence in Booze Case Smells of Glue

Clarence McGowan, a negro charged with the possession of a whisky still for the purpose of manufacturing liquor, was bound over to the federal grand jury on bail in the sum of $500 Friday.

His preliminary hearing, at which he entered a plea of guilty, was held before United States Commissioner J. A. Lantz.

McGowan was arrested by City Detective Belcher. A quantity of whisky which resembled a color between a cider jet black and a dark brown, and which gave vent to an aroma resembling glue, was captured by the officers as evidence when McGowan was found.

"Citizenship" Is Main Object for Training Camps

The object of the citizens training camp which will be held this summer under the auspices of the government at Fort Sill, is primarilly to promote citizenship.

That, Sergeant B. T. Jackson, 15th field artillery, second division, said is the principal object of the camp. Sergeant Jackson, who accompanied Lt. Mize of Camp Travis to Wichita Falls in the interest of the summer camp, is stopping at the Marion hotel, and is signing up applicants for the four-week course.

The summer training, he said, is highly instructive, and affords a means of bringing the best type of American citizen together for a short period. It also tends to develop the summer vacationist, he said.

The courses consist of three types, the red, white and blue. Persons between the ages of 17 and 25 are limited to the red class; the white curse 18 to 26, and the blue course 19 to 27. Maximum age limit for persons who have had previous military training, he indicated, is 35 years.

Lieut. Mize and Sergeant Jackson will tour parts of Texas in the interest of the camp, he said. They leave Wichita Falls Sunday for Decatur, and will include Fort Worth, Cleburne, Waco, Temple and Georgetown in their itinerary before returning to headquarters at San Antonio.

Can't Get Hearing From Commissioners Bert Bean Declares

"In the 30 years I've been here, I've never been able to get an audience with the county commissioners," declared Bert Bean in speaking before the chamber of commerce council Friday relative to trade at home issues.

Mr. Bean declared that the county commissioners would permit outside organizations to come here and bid on roads, bridges and anything else that the county had to construct or buy, but that local men were never given an opportunity to name a price for their work.

"The commissioners' court is a good place to get insulted," Bean declared in the course of his talk.

Mr. Bean scored other county organizations and said that local business men and local enterprises should be given an opportunity to "bid for their own money, anyway."

Eagle Scouts Are Given Scholarships

Awarding the scholarships, to any university or college in the state of Texas, to the two eagle scouts of Wichita Falls, Harold Naylor and Will McClure, was one of the features of the 1922 commencement exercises held Friday night at the Wichita theater. Major W. L. Culberson, of the regular army, made the presentation.

Major Culberson spoke in brief of the unusual honor attached to being an eagle scout, an honor attained by only a very few so far in the state of Texas. Recognizing the merit of this honor, the universities and colleges of the state of Texas, the major said, have given scholarships to all boys attaining the rank of eagle scout. The two graduates who have this rank may have their choice of universities, it was announced.
