SANTONE MAYOR AND 12 RAIDED

CHARGE NEGLIGENCE

Driver of Machine Under Bond But Police Say He is Not to Blame.

Run down by a touring car, the left wheel of which is thought to have passed over his chest, Harrold Lovet, 16, 204 Seymour street, was instantly killed early Saturday evening at the corner of Adams and Seventh street. H. H. Britt, truck driver, is under bond of $500 on a charge of negligent homicide in connection with the accident, although officers are of the opinion he was not at fault. He will be given a hearing before Justice of the Peace R. V. Gwinn Monday. His home is at 402 Adams street.

Stories of Eyewitnesses.

Stories told by Britt, W. B. Mangins, 207 Maple street and J. B. Bell, Seventh and Adams, indicate that Lovet was riding a bicycle west on Seventh and that Britt was driving east on the same street. The man turned to the left when he reached the Adams street intersection, and asserts that the boy attempted to swing around him. The left front wheel of the car caught the rear wheel of the bicycle, throwing Lovet to the street and in the path of the machine.

Mr. Britt stopped his car immediately and jumped out to give what assistance he could. Motorcycle Officers Joe Blocker and Clyde Bentley found Lovet dead when they arrived.

Inquest Is Held.

The body was taken to the Merkle funeral parlors and Mr. Britt to the city hall where District Attorney James V. Allred, Assistant County Attorney Wayne Somerville and Chief of Police George H. Hodgins questioned him. An inquest was held over the body at the undertaking rooms and a verdict returned by Justice of the Peace O. L. Gibbs that death came as a result of injuries sustained when Lovet was run down by an automobile driven by H. H. Britt.

An examination of the body revealed that aside from a fracture of the right leg just above the knee, no bones were broken. There were only a few minor abrasions. Internal injuries, or more probably the shock reacting on a weak heart are thought to have produced death.

A Messenger Boy.

Lovet was an employee of the Western Union here and was returning to the business district after delivering a message when he was killed. He was a student at the local Junior college, also, but had been working on holidays and after school hours. His cap, bearing his number, 13, was fished out from the wreckage of his wheel which was practically demolished.

The boy was the only son of Mrs. Fannie Lovet, a widow, who is a cook at the Pollyann cafe. He also leaves four sisters, Gertrude, younger than himself, at home, Mrs. F. B. Weaver, 306 Flood street, Mrs. Grace Wilson, 204 Ohio street, and Mrs. Jack Mauldin of Dodge City, Kansas. No funeral arrangements have as yet been made.

AGE MAKES NO DIFFERENCE.

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—"Age cannot wither nor custom relax" the law's demand for alimony.

William Bottcher found this paraphrase awaiting him in the reply to the plea that a 77-year-old man is too old to pay alimony to his divorced wife.

"Seventy-seven or seventeen—age makes no difference in law," Judge Lewis ruled. "Either you pay your wife $10 a week alimony or go to jail."

Bottcher handed over a check for $40, stating it was all the money he had in the world. He still owes $100 back alimony to his fourth wife who obtained her freedom several months ago.

Mrs. Bottcher No. 4 declared that her former husband was saving his money to marry a fifth time.

By S. RAYMOND BROOKS
Record News Staff

TAYLOR, Tex., Oct. 11.—James E. Ferguson's plea in 1920, to Texas Democrats to abandon their party and follow him into the American party, and his condemnation of the party and its principles, were read to a Democratic audience here tonight by George C. Butte of Austin, republican nominee for governor for Texas as reasons why the same voters should refuse to be bound by a democratic party pledge to support the same Ferguson "who was nominated for governor," Butte declared, "by proxy and by accident."

Over 900 persons heard the candidate tonight. Frank Welch, introducing him declared; "this is a moral issue, and the people will say whether the primary was really a vindication of Ferguson. We say it was their decision on other matters. If Dr. Butte is elected, we will not claim it as a republican victory, or that you have come into the republican column, but that you have followed the only possible course to avoid returning Ferguson to power."

Butte spoke on the city hall lawn here tonight before an audience representing many communities in Williamson county. D. D. Fairchild, republican county chairman, presided and Frank Welch, republican banker, introduced the candidate. Dr. Butte cancelled his engagement to speak at Rockdale this afternoon, because of a severe sore throat.

He bore down heavily tonight upon the obligation imposed on the voter by the party pledge. He read from the Ferguson Forum, over James E. Ferguson's signature in 1919 and 1920, these statements;

"The Texas politicians, all democrats, have not got the pride of a jackass or the decency of the skunk or nothing. While we did not win but a few of the officers, it has done its part (the American party) in wiping the infernal democratic party from the face of the earth. The democratic party is a blowed up concern and everybody knows it. It is dead and it ought to die. Who wants to be a democrat, stay out of the primary."

"George Washington took a pledge to support the English crown," Butte continued; "Robert E. Lee and Stonewall Jackson took a pledge to support and defend the American Union, but they ignored those pledges when the call of a higher obligation to their people was made upon their consciences. Like Washington and Lee and Jackson, the people of Texas are rising in masses to overthrow that small Fergusonian hierarchy that is trying to dominate the democratic party of Texas and foist James E. Ferguson off on the people of this state."

Would Rob Legislature Ma Warns

By The Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 11.—The Ferguson injunction suit, if successfully maintained, will rob the legislature of its duty, and power to pass upon the eligibility of candidates for office in Texas, Attorney W. G. Love, representing Mrs. Ferguson, argued before the supreme court today.

"This suits is an effort to take from the legislature its duty to determine Mrs. Ferguson's eligibility to be governor," Mr. Love declared.

The case, which tests Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson's legal qualifications for governor, was before the supreme court throughout the day, having come up from the third court of civil appeals on certified questions. The plaintiff, Charles M. Dickson of San Antonio, appealed from the decision of District Judge George C. Calhoun who held that Mrs. Ferguson was eligible to be governor.

Judge I. W. Stephens of Fort Worth, argued the case for Mr. Dickson. The plaintiff himself, also, presented arguments, reading from a book by Judge Ocie Speer of Fort Worth, who is of counsel for Mrs. Ferguson. In this book, entitled "Married women's rights," written a number of years ago, Judge Speer maintained that man was a born ruler and had the right to govern, while woman was a dependent in the status of marriage. Mr. Dickson argued that the status of woman as pictured by Judge Speer had not changed and that since James E. Ferguson is ineligible to be governor because of an impeachment decree, his wife also is ineligible.

John C. Wall and L. C. Sutton, assistant attorneys general, also presented arguments for the defense, representing specifically Secretary of State Jeff J. Strickland and county election officials.

The case was taken under advisement. It is understood the court will expedite its decision as much as possible and that the opinion will be given soon.

DATSON WOULD ADD MORALS TO THE THREE R'S

Is Principal Speaker at Saturday Meeting of Welfare Workers.

CHURCH IS LOSING

He Says It Fights to Regain Lost Chance For Service.

An exhaustive discussion of the place the church today holds in the social service of the world was delivered Saturday by Rev. F. T. Datson, pastor of the Church of the Good Shepherd, at the regular monthly meeting of the Social Workers' Club of Wichita Falls. The luncheon was held at noon in the Y. W. C. A. rooms.

Children Not Taught

In commenting on social work, Dr. Datson deplored the absence of spiritual teaching in the public schools of the day. He said in part: "Unfortunately, in founding schools for the intellect, we have eliminated moral and spiritual knowledge from the class room. Five or six hours each week must be given to mathematics for years, because we must count the bananas and measure the goods and compute the gas and coal. Five hours for mathematics for the body, and not one minute for morals of the soul. So that, in this nation we are facing the fact that over 20,000,000 young people under the ages of 17 never pass the threshold of a church, Catholic, Protestant or Hebrew. We teach children that fire burns, in science, but in morals we do not tell the boy who tries to satisfy his hunger for pleasure with sin that he eats red hot coals when he is hungry; we tell the girl that hot water scalds but we do not tell her that there are passions and pleasures through selfishness that blight and do not satisfy."

Is Long Address

The work that the church was doing in the moral and civic development of the community was traced by the speaker, who also declared that it was fighting hard to win back the lost opportunity to deal with delinquency and poverty.

Dr. Datson's paper went into many other angles of welfare work and acclaimed by the hearers as being one which treated the subject exceptionally well.

Included among those at the meeting were Miss Katherine Henricle, Dr. J. W. Cantwell, Judge R. D. Sartin, Frank Creighton, Rev. F. T. Datson, Mrs. Ivy E. Austin, Miss Margaret Gamble, Mrs. Harley Snider, Mrs. O. W. Davidson, Miss Harkins, Miss Ponder and Mrs. E. B. Gorsline, Jr.

The men in the machine later gave their names as William Alexander, pilot and B. Martin, mechanician, both of Wichita Falls, Texas.

Illinois Farmer, 24, Slays His Bride of Thirteen Days.

By The Associated Press

CARLINVILLE, Ill., Oct. 11.—Lester Kahl, 24-year-old farmer who lives on a farm near Shipman, Macoupin county, confessed tonight he killed his second wife, Mrs. Margaret Kahl, September 15, thirteen days after their marriage, Sheriff Russell said tonight.

He shot her twice, he said in his confession, after he had induced her to step on the other side of a hedge to drive out some doves he wanted to shoot.

KIDNEYS NEED LOT OF WATER

Drink Freely and Often. Also Take Salts if Your Back Hurts

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it may mean you have been eating foods which create acids, says a well-know authority. An excess of such acids overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the system, so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink. Drink lots of soft water. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.—Adv.

FORCE IN DIVORCE SUIT

Man Charges "Third Degree" Methods in Getting Evidence

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Marcus Howes, formerly postmaster of Barnstable, Mass., has started police court action here against three private detectives. He alleges they seized him in the hotel suite of Miss Ethel Jackson, formerly musical comedy star of "The Merry Widow," and used "third degree methods" to obtain evidence in support of the divorce suit of Miss Jackson's husband, G. McL. Baynes.

Howes told Magistrate Simpson yesterday that a fourth man, posing as "Maj. Thomas Willis" of the British army, had lured him from Barnstable on the pretext of buying mining stock. It was this man who introduced him to Miss Jackson, Howes said.

The three detectives, pretending they were policemen, entered Miss Jackson's suit on the pretext of arresting him, Howes said. They lodged him in a bathroom, the complainant said. After they had used the "third degree" methods on him he was released, Howes said, on his promise that he would return to Barnstable and make no mention of his "arrest."

On cross-examination by an attorney for the detectives, Howes reluctantly identified a locket bearing his initials and bearing a photograph of Miss Jackson. He said one of the intruders took it from him.

WOULD SELL A TOWN.

Plan Is to Preserve Williamsburg, Va., as Historic Spot.

By The Associated Press

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 11—Henry Ford has been requested to buy Williamsburg, Va. It has been suggested the treasure chests of the world's richest man be the magic wand that will restore the ancient capital of Virginia to the quaint and picturesque beauty it enjoyed in the revolutionary period.

The suggestion now being considered by Mr. Ford was advanced by Dr. W. A. R. Goodwin of William and Mary college, through William Ford, brother of the manufacturer.

The plan calls for the purchase by Mr. Ford of a large part of the city of Williamsburg at an estimated cost of about five million dollars. After the purchase, a colonial holding corporation would be formed to which the city would be turned over. All rents from buildings over and above the amount necessary to develop the scheme might go to the endowment fund of the college of William and Mary itself, a famous and historic educational institution.

BE BEAUTIFUL! DARKEN HAIR

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears; and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.—Adv.

A Home Recipe For Removing Wrinkles

Who will blame the modern woman for trying to look as young and attractive as she reasonably can? Why should she be placed at a disadvantage in numerous ways by wearing wrinkles if she can avoid these hateful marks of advancing age? Few women, however, know what to do to effectually rid themselves of wrinkles or sagginess. Most of the advertised preparations are unsatisfactory and very expensive. But a very simple and harmless home remedy, which any woman can make, will work wonders where all the patent preparations fail.

Buy an ounce of powdered saxolite at any drug store. Dissolve the whole ounce in a half pint of witch hazel and use as a wash lotion. The results are almost instantaneous. Marked improvement is noticed immediately after the very first trial. Wrinkles and sagging are corrected and the face feels so refreshing and snug-like.—Adv.

Clarendon Has Just Pride Over Growing College

Twenty-Seventh Annual Session of School Opened On September 8

HISTORY IS UNIQUE

Special to The Record News.

CLARENDON, Texas, Oct. 11.—Clarendon college opened for its twenty-seventh annual session September 8. Clarendon college, the oldest in the Texas Panhandle, the only institution of its kind in the Panhandle established prior to 1900 that is still in existence, with twenty six years of successful operation to its credit and still growing for long the bulwark of Christian education in the west.

At Clarendon, oldest of Panhandle towns, one finds that the people have clearly demonstrated what a town means to a college. Here is found the very beginning of education in the Panhandle; find evidence of what cooperation between the school and community will do. It was A. M. Beville, Sr., who invested the first dollar in a higher institution of learning in the Panhandle.

With L. H. Carhart, founder of Clarendon, and who established here the first permanent settlement in all the Panhandle in the summer of 1878, there came a northern Methodist minister, the Reverend W. A. Allen. His task was like that of the ministers of the early colonists of the United States, to look after the educational and spiritual welfare of the little flock. To Allen goes the credit for the first educational institution in this section of the west. He conceived the idea of a school of no mean standard. His task was one of no small proportions but Allen was a man of no small determination and in spite of the difficulties confronting him set about carrying out his ambition. From Wichita Falls, more than 200 miles away, lumber was transported by ox-team and the first frame building erected in Old Clarendon, five miles from the present townsite. This building was the first school in all this great country, and was likewise utilized as a church. In honor of its founder the institution was named Allentown Academy, which name it bore until the town was moved to its present location at which time it was dissolved. Here Allen taught his little flock and was greatly responsible for instilling in the breasts of westerners their great love for and loyalty to education. This school had no direct relation or connection with the present college except to show that the school spirit accompanied the first settlers and has perpetuated, until today we view with amazement the buildings and the students that populate the public schools and college of the town.

Moved the Town.

When the track of the Fort Worth and Denver railroad was laid in 1887 it was necessary to move the town over to the line, a distance of five miles, which necessitated the abandonment of Allentown Academy. But the seed had been sown and had germinated in the hearts of the people so that a move was immediately under way for another school. However, not for several years were the citizens to realize success in the undertaking, and for some time were compelled to be satisfied with whatever they could get in the way of short terms in the public schools. Here is where religion and Christianity played a prominent part in the foundation of education.

The town of Clarendon was established by men and women of high Christian principles and so intense was their devotion to the tenets they cherished that the little colony was sarcastically called "Saints Roost" by those of disrespectful and lawless natures. As sentiment developed for a college the handful of citizens realized that outside assistance was essential. Naturally under the circumstances they turned to their church, and the aid of the Methodist Episcopal church south was solicited and needless to say granted. By 1897 the movement was well under way and a subscription list was circulated which met with considerable success. This with other inducements were offered at the regular annual meeting of the Clarendon district conference of 1897 and was accepted by that body as evidence of good intentions and larger support. The first subscription list providing a fund for use in erecting a college in Clarendon is dated April 2, 1898. The names of the contributors and the amounts pledged were as follows:

J. D. Jefferies, $1,000; T. S. Bugbee, $500; H. W. Taylor, $500; L. C. Beverly, $500; W. F. White, $500; W. H. Cook, $200; Morris Rosenfield, $200; F. N. Page, $50; Robert Sawyer, $250; J. D. Stocking, $250; G. H. Eatwell, $150; J. S. Morris, $75; G. C. Ferguson, $100; B. H. White, $100; A. M. Beville, $100; J. M. Clower, $100; G. W. Antrobus, $100; White & Trok, $25; G. W. Baker, $75; M. W. Easum, $50; Sims & Caldwell, $100.

Thus was contributed to education in the west its first material support, and the contributors have ever remained loyal to the institution playing a prominent part in its growth and expansion. Two of those on the above list still reside in Clarendon.

Presented in 1898.

Ten acres of land for a campus was presented to the conference by Clarendonites in April, 1898, and although no buildings were available the school opened immediately and the first eight months of the session was conducted in the old frame, Methodist church building. The administration building was rushed to completion and was finished in time for the first commencement. In this only two dozen students and three teachers participated.

The corner stone of the building was laid by A. M. Beville who invested the first dollar in a higher institution of learning in the Panhandle. When the site was donated to the college and the deed was filed Beville took a dollar from his pocket and laid it on the deed to make the transaction legal. Beville still resides at Clarendon where he has been in the insurance business since 1889.

The school soon outgrew its facilities and in a few years it was necessary to construct a larger administration building. May 5, 1908 the corner stone of the present building was laid.

LA FOLLETTE GETS CHEER

Pink Candidate On Entering Chicago Meets a Reception

CHICAGO, Oct. 11. — Senator Robert M. LaFollette, entering the city housing the headquarters which has directed his campaign as independent candidate for the presidency, today received a colorful and noisy welcome.

Slipping into the railroad station an hour ahead of time the senator took advantage of the respite by conferring with his campaign associates.

In the hour intervening between his arrival and the time he left his car all exits and means of passage from the station were lined dozens deep with followers patiently standing by to acclaim him. Air bombs, fire works and a band intermittently were set off in the grounds adjoining the tracks.

When the senator left his private car the first to cheer him started an ovation which was virtually continued from the time he entered the automobile heading a parade formed in his honor until he had been lifted from it and surrounded by a mass of humanity at the entrance of the hotel.

Ferguson Charges Butte Declaring He'll Sell Out

Declares Republican Candidate Slandering His Character

PLANS A COMEBACK

Resents Alleged Inuendo That He Would Sell State Patronage

AUSTIN, Oct. 11.—A charge that Dr. George C. Butte, republican nominee for governor, had insinuated that James E. Ferguson was planning to sell government patronage in case Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson is elected governor, was made here today by former Governor Ferguson in announcing a stump speaking campaign on behalf of his wife.

"I am going to force him either to come out and make that statement directly or deny it," Mr. Ferguson said.

"Butte by innuendo is insinuating that I will sell state patronage to the highest bidder if my wife is elected governor," continued the former governor. "I'm going to start a speaking campaign next week and I'm going to make him come out in the open with that charge or swallow it whole."

Mr. Ferguson said the date of his first speech had not been determined, but it would probably be about next Wednesday or Thursday. He is preparing an itinerary. The former governor was present in the supreme court at the hearing of the injunction suit to have his wife declared ineligible to hold the office of governor.

GAS IS A MENACE.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Poisonous gases now are a greater menace in peace than in war and more persons die from carbon monoxide poisoning in New York City than anywhere in the world, Prof. Yandell Henderson of Yale university today told the National Association of Police and Fire Surgeons in annual convention.

Vertical exhaust pipes on all motor vehicles would remedy this situation, Professor Henderson said, as this would direct the gases upward and "out of the level of the air we breathe."

Dr. Charles Morris, chief medical examiner of this city, asserted only deaths from vehicular accidents exceeded those from carbon monoxide poisoning, including accidental and suicidal gas asphyxiations. He estimated a motor truck contaminates a volume of air equivalent to its breadth and height and one hundred to two hundred yards in length each minute. He told of taking air samples on Fifth avenue which showed a high percentage of monoxide.

A SHOW OF WEALTH

Japanese "Croesus," Who Plans Big Birthday Fete, Hears Complaint

By The Associated Press.

TOKIO, Oct. 11.—Declaring that Baron Okura, the "Croesus of Japan," should not spend 3-4 million dollars to celebrate his eighty-eighth birthday, October 27, the Taikosha club, which staged a sword dance in the imperial hotel before foreign guests as a protest against the American immigration act, yesterday notified the multi-millionaire that his plans for a great fete, with five thousand friends present, constituted a menace to public morals.

Baron Okura is a part owner of the imperial theatre, which was scheduled to reopen on his birthday with the private appearance of Mei Lan-Fang, the greatest Chinese actor, to be followed by a grand party.

The Taikosha club advised the baron to spend only 10 cents, following the example of John D. Rockefeller, who tipped a caddy 10 cents on his eighty-fifth birthday.

McNAMARA IN TOILS AGAIN.

By The Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 11.—John J. McNamara, who served more than nine years of a 15-year sentence in the California state prison for his alleged connection with the dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times building in 1910, was arrested here today and held under $20,000 bond on four indictments returned by the Marion county grand jury, charging blackmail.

McNamara is business agent of local No. 22 of the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers' union here.

The indictments were the result of a grand jury investigation into recent acts of vandalism at the new Elks' club house and on other buildings being constructed in Indianapolis.

Four indictments were returned, each charging McNamara with using intimidation and threats to obtain employment for union iron workers on four building jobs in the city.

Every business man and every government does business on credit according to their standing.

Every individual, too, has a genuine credit value according to his willingness to meet his responsibilities.

People come here and choose whatever furniture they need to make the rooms modern and attractive. They pay as their incomes permit. Thus they not only enjoy their furniture while they are paying for it but they also establish a financial standing that becomes valuable to them.

An Economical Extravagance

GOOD furniture is not an extravagance; it is an investment in comfort and good taste. It is an expression of a woman's natural pride in the appearance of her home. She instinctively knows that the attractively furnished home exerts a strong influence over all who live in it or visit it. That the furnishing of her home is one of her greatest opportunities for expressing herself.

COTTON

Cotton gamblers in and out of Texas were given a thrill Monday. There was more than unusual interest in the government crop and condition report. It indicated a 55.4 per cent condition and a yield of 12,596,000 bales. On September first the report issued placed the condition at 59.2 per cent and a yield of 12,787,000 bales.

Cotton jumped $10 dollars a bale when the wires dropped the news the country over. There was a wild scramble in New York, a wild scramble in New Orleans, a wild scramble in all the market centers, great and small, by traders to cover their short interests. Texas will produce a crop near the four million bale mark. It may go four million three hundred thousand bales. Those who have been bragging and betting on a bumper crop were given a jolt.

Business conditions are improving in every European land. Business conditions are improving in Oriental lands. Japan cotton buyers are on the ground. They know what they want and how to get it. They watch the market and they buy early. They are after the new cotton. Russia is buying off the new cotton crop.

According to New York advices the Soviet Textile syndicate is one of the largest direct purchasers of American cotton this year. The All-Russian Textile syndicate, incorporated, is the American branch of the Russian organization, representing Russian textile manufacturing cooperatives. This concern has started shipping cotton of the new American crop and if the volume of purchases of old and new crop cotton made already this year is a good indication of future commitments, they will reach a hundred million dollars by next January.

According to the New York agent of the Soviet Textile syndicate not all of this amount is expected to be delivered by next January but about fifty per cent of this estimated total has already been contracted for by the syndicate. A steamship left Galveston recently with 6,000 bales of the new crop and a second Russian steamship is taking another six thousand bales. It is said two more ships with cargoes totaling 23,500 bales will sail from Houston for Russia in the near future.

In addition to this the Russian syndicate has purchased between a hundred thousand and a hundred and fifty thousand bales additional in Europe and Egypt. Actual Russian shipments from American ports have aggregated since February 8 about 190,000 bales of last years crop. Moreover it is said the Russian Textile syndicate plans to extend its operations to include American dyes and possibly other products.

Has Russia come back? Well, a New York trade newspaper says the credit advanced to the Russian syndicate by New York banks have enabled it to guarantee prompt payment for the goods purchased. All the war ridden countries of Europe are coming back. All need raw cotton goods.

Germany is growing stronger and stronger every day and Germany is a large buyer of American cotton. There should be a fancy price for cotton this year for the worlds supply will not be equal to the world's demands unless the ominous signs of the times in Europe and the Orient as well as America, are misleading to the students of trade conditions and the practical economists of the world.

Grand old Texas should be on easy street this year.

What Today Means to You

LIBRA.

Today's planetary aspects are eminently favorable for all exercises and recreations that are usually associated with the Sabbath Day. They are benign and serene: they do not encourage any forceful action, but counsel rest and recreation. They also indicate a degree of contentment and a state of peace, thereby portending felicity and harmony in the family circle, and an entire absence of worry and anxiety.

A child born today will be normally healthy, possessing a character full of energy and "pep", a disposition of the restless variety, and a mentality of no mean degree. It will be very necessary, if peace for other is a desideratum, to curb some of the exuberant energy of this child, and to instill into its mind some benefit of keeping still at times. Fidgeting and like habits of nervousness and restlessness must be checked in early youth, so that in later life its habits do not offend those of a more restful disposition. This child will excel more in a professional, than in a commercial, career.

If today is your birthday, you are too much swayed by your heart and the emotions, and too little by your head. This is a failing very difficult to criticise, as it is a virtue and not a vice. The exercise, however, of such a virtue, often leads to unfortunate and irremediable difficulties, as those whom your heart with all its emotional goodness, favors, are very often of a calculating disposition, and are ruled only by their heads.

It is, of course, neither desirable nor right to suffocate heart impulses, but the head should not be discarded, and only those things should be done that are conceived in the heart, and are also thought out in the head, so that these two organs can function properly in harmony, and as a "duality,"—as was intended by nature.

Heart impulse is dangerous at all times, unless head analysis is its companion. Just as our constitution provides for checks on ill-considered legislation, so nature has designed a very efficient check if properly used—to impulse, no matter whether the motive be good or bad.

The heart may advise you to leap: the head, however, very wisely bids you to look before you leap.

The heart tells you to love all men: the head, however, advises you to trust only a few.

Successful people born on this date are: Lyman Trumbull, senator; George W. Cable, author; Helena Modjeska, Polish-American actress, one of the most cultivated and accomplished of her time; Alvina Valleria, singer in operas and oratorios; Wm. Luther Sibert, general U. S. A.; Alexander T. Stewart, merchant.

Usually those who hate the capitalistic system tried hard and failed to become capitalists.

WHEN PICKINGS WERE RICH

When oil pickings were rich Albert B. Fall was in the swim. Now the government or rather agents of the government have the evidence that the statesman from Three Rivers, New Mexico, picked up $90,000 in an oil dividend—all in Liberty Bonds.

According to the developments made by these agents of the government a Canadian concern made two million dollars in a deal with a Sinclair concern and the Prairie Oil company. Unwilling witnesses were dragged into a Canadian court by the agents of the department of justice of the United States and compelled to tell what they knew of the transaction.

Why should Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the department of the interior, the man who sold the leases to Doheny and Sinclair, take down $90,000 in Liberty Bonds in an oil dividend voted by a Canadian concern which does business with the Sinclair and the Standard organizations?

Now it is alleged by the agents of the department of justice that so far as known at the present time Fall borrowed or received in dividends something like $225,000 from the oil people or oil concerns. Yes, when the pickings were rich the gentleman from Three Rivers, New Mexico, was in the oil swim.

And yet before he plunged into the pool he had been a trusted republican leader, a justice of the supreme court of New Mexico, a United State senator, the personal friend of a republican president who called him to his cabinet.

Where is Fall going from here? Will he go to the penitentiary or ask the republicans of New Mexico for a clean bill of health?

INTELLECTUALS FOR DAVIS.

John W. Davis is an intelectual, perhaps the ablest man the democratic party has named for the presidency since the Civil war. His qualifications are perhaps superior to those of any man elected to the presidency since the Civil war. He is winning intellectuals to his cause.

John Grier Hibben, president of the Princeton university, a life long republican, has authorized the press to publish the statement that he would vote for John W. Davis. Dr. Hibben was one of the thirty-one leading republicans of letters who signed a joint appeal in 1920 urging the people to vote for Warren G. Harding.

Dr. William C. Thompson, president of the Ohio State university, a life long republican, created a sensation in the Buckeye state when he announced that he would support John W. Davis for president.

Dr. Charles W. Elliott, president emeritus of Harvard university has accepted the chairmanship of the John W. Davis college league, an organization which is enrolling thousands of college men under the Davis banner.

Everett Colby, friend of the late Theodore Roosevelt, progressive republican leader of New Jersey, and one of the scholars of America, at least in the political life of the country, is advising the people to vote for the democratic nominee for president.

Miss Ida M. Tarbell, noted for her life of Abraham Lincoln and her history of the Standard Oil company, has decided to support the Davis candidacy, notwithstanding, she said, she was born a republican. Miss Tarbell says the republican tariff is unjust, the Teapot Dome and other naval oil leases an organized raid on the treasury and lastly because John W. Davis always stood with the liberals in congress. Miss Virginia C. Gildersleeve, dean of Barnard college, Columbia university, N. Y., rocked in a republican cradle, has announced that she will vote for John W. Davis because she thinks that the record of the republican administration has been in certain particulars so very bad that the party should be turned out of office.

Perhaps it is to be regretted that a majority of the voters of America are not intellectuals who do their own reading, their own thinking and their own voting.

WONDER CITY OF THE WORLD

New York is the wonder city of the world. Assessed values of the city total $13,145,667,735 this year. Property values on the 1925 tax roll show an increase of $1,584,381,478. In addition to this the announcement is made that $533,000,000 in new dwellings are on the list of exemptions.

John D. Rockefeller heads the list of personal estate assessments and will pay $1,100,000 personal estate. New York has a $2.75 tax rate and the increased assessment will add $42,000,000 to the city funds for expenditure by the office holders next year.

In the first half of 1924 there were 66,280 dwellings of all kinds built in New York City. Greater New York has a population of more than six million. There are economists who say that the Greater City will have a population of eight million before the coming of 1930.

Yes, New York is the wonder city of the world, the richest city, the most progressive city and should be the pride of all the western hemisphere.

ONWARD MARCH OF THE NEGRO

There are ten million negroes under the flag and a noted negro educator says that the period of greatest advance in history for the negro has been since 1919. He says the most liberal appropriations ever made by the southern states have been made since 1919 and at no time since their emancipation have the negroes made greater strides in education, agriculture, religious work and business developments.

There are now 500 normal schools and colleges for negroes in the United States with an enrollment of 100,000. There are forty thousand negro school teachers and two million negro children in the public schools.

Dr. Robert R. Moton, the foremost negro educator in America, passes the flowers to North Carolina. He says the amount raised in North Carolina by taxes alone and spent for negro education increased from $380,000 in 1913 to $4,000,000 in 1923, while the value of school property rose from $500,000 to $5,000,000.

Other southern states he says, are following North Carolina's lead. These facts were brought out when it was made known that the Rockefeller General Education Board had made a gift of one million dollars to the Hampton-Tuskegee endowment fund, which is one of the largest sums ever subscribed to the cause of negro education.

This negro college has more than two thousand students with 250 teachers and a modern plant comprising 1000 acres and more than 130 buildings.

Trouble in China.

Dearest Sir:—

Hon. Kurio Soda, hot minded reporter for the Opinionated Review, great pipe-organ of editorial thought which will be published soonly, if ever, approach up to my valuable kitchen last Wednsdy a. m. while I were bathing the dishes.

"Togo," he say so rapidly with pencil, "you have just surrounded the world with Prince of Wales expression & are back again to here. Quite of recently you were in China. Since then war have bursted out there. This look suspicious. Therefore I wish interview you for short artickle of a few million words. Please to answer me the replies:

"1—What are China fighting for?

"2—What will she do with it?"

"Bunkie Soda," I narrate, "are you at leisure to stay here with Mrs. & Mr. C. W. Quackmire all winter? Are you acquainted with algebra, trigginometry, cross-word puzzles & arithmatick? Can you count the toes on a misquito by looking at it around the corner of a church with a one-eyed opera glass? I ask to know."

"I did not come here to answer questionnaires but to ask them," he report with newspaper eyebrows. "Affairs in China are commencing to look very poisonous. Two (2) angry candidates is attempting to get a hold of Chinese Govt. This look pretty frightful."

Too Many Napoleons.

"Yet three (3) angry candidates is now attempting to get a hold of American Govt.," I deploy, "and hardly anything are printed about it in newspapers. Why you should worry about China, a land which are just across the street from the moon?"

"That is neither hither nor thither," he dib. "Now that the Kaiser and Leopold and Loeb have been spoken to roughly or their bad beginnings it are time for people to stop murdering & go to work. Why have China got so bloody all of a suddenly?"

"The Chinese," I dictate, "are a race of Pacifists. How can they help liking to kill one (1) another? Persons cannot live peaceably together for 3000 yrs without getting pretty mad. Therefore China have flew to arms so rapidly that they have not learned how to shoot straight."

"What China need are a Napoleon," suggest Hon. Kurio Soda.

"Not truthful!" I reject. "She have got 12 Napoleons already, not to count two (2) more who was recently arrested in Hong Kong for setting fire to a opium factory."

"Annie how, China should have more Leadership," he direct.

"Leadership!" I holla. "China have got so much leadership now that she remind me of a gentleman with locomotive ataxia trying to carry a armful of grasshoppers across Broadway, N. Y. She got so much leadership that she dot not know whether she are standing on her ribs or the seat of her stumick. Sometime she set down & attempt to think where she was last. Then long come 13 more leaders and dictate, 'Arise, China! We will lead you in several directions!' So she continue doing &c. &c. like before."

Why Chinese Generals Are Like Golf.

"She have now found two (2) great generals," report Kurio. "One of them are called the Grant of China."

"Rev. Stickney or Ulysses?" I ask to know.

"Ulysses," he renig. "The other one are called the Lee of China. This make things look pretty durnly black & niggero for that peckilly yellowish country. For when a nation got 2 generals of equil magnificence, what can happen? A fight."

"What are those 2 Generals doing now?" I requite.

"Approaching," he define.

"Shux!" I tut. "When I were in China last April First they was approaching. They had been approaching for last 9 yrs. Chinese Generals is like some golf I know. They are better at approach than at drive. Also they resemble Hon. Harry Wills and Sir Jno. Dempsey. They are such famous champeeons that nobody but a genius can bring them together. I thought you come here to tell about war in China. What you are announcing are merely National Guard news."

"Togo," corrode Hon. Kurio Soda, "you know so little about the news that you should make a great journalist. Are you not awear that fighting are going on right now in China? Several or more is nearly being killed day by day."

"Horrus!" I yelling. "When I were over there I told them to stop playing with guns or they would shoot themselves."

Where Is the Government?

"Magnificent battles are ceraging side by side. Gen. Wu Pei Fu and Gen. Chang Tso-lin are jumping at each other with angry faces. Slaps, shoots, discharges. Very excited. Then when Gen. Wu & Gen. Chang stop slightly to change uniforms, upcome Gen. Whang with 600,000 traffick policemen from Canton. 'Which side you fighting on, if any?' require Gen. Chang & Gen Wu together like chorus girls. 'So sorry,' report Gen. Whang. 'I have so much on my mind that I forgot. Which side are paying the best wages today?' And so goes that battle, sometimes bad, sometimes worse."

"What are Japan doing in all this meantime?" are nekt questions from me.

"Doing nothing with great enerjy," negotiate Kurio.

Chinese Set Fashion for Prince of Wales.

"She are a great friend in trouble," I say for slight sentiment.

"She are indeedly,' snatch out he. "She adore to see China in trouble."

"This are quite Christian and cheap to save ammunition in Tokyo," I sally.

"Then from your lifelong experience of one week in China," require Kurio, "should you say that China will be broken off, knocked out & dissolved up into chunks because of this uncivil war that has bursted out in her amidst?"

"Not & 1000 times no!!!" I heap. "I have observed so much of that great nation that I know she shall last forever without stopping. They are a people with dreadfully great minds. 3000 yrs before Ramsey MacDonald get his free ottomobile a Chinese inventor invented a Ford and got his head chopped off for that crime. 2000 yrs before the Prince of Wales ever saw a prize fight all Chinese schoolboys learned how to turn their hats down like a roof. What you think, then? You think such brite folks like that could go suicide by civil war? No! 2000 yrs before Bryan was ever defeated Chinese thought up inventions which would made warfare safe as carfare."

"Togo," require Kurio Soda, "what in your estimation are the greatest inventions of those Chinese?"

"Firecrackers," I notate.

Therefore he elope away doggishly thankful for such a intellectual interview.

Hoping you are the same

Yours truly,
HASHIMURA TOGO.

The Fable of the All-Night Seance

Four reputable Business Men sat down at the Green Baize to flirt with the Goddess of Fortune for one Hour, no more, no less. The Married Men did not want to go Home too early for fear that it would be too much of a Shock to their Wives.

These four Good Fellows may be designated as Adams, Brown, Collins and Davis, for fear the Children get hold of the Book. They were up in Adams' Room. Some one remarked that it was the mere Shank of the Evening—just the Fringe of the Night, as it were—and it seemed a Shame to pull for Home while so many other and more attractive Resorts were still open. So Adams brought out the necessary Tools and four Comrades squared away.

It was to be a Gentleman's Game. No one at the Table wanted to take Money out of a Friend's Pocket. They put on an easy Limit of 10 cents so that no one could win or lose enough to Hurt. They had to make it an Object in order to keep their Blood in Circulation, but it was agreed that one fleeting Hour of 10-Cent Limit would not make or break any one. And it was positively understood and agreed that when the Cuckoo Clock hooted for Eleven o'clock, that was to be the Signal.

Adams had been out the Night before with a Bad Man from Council Bluffs and he wanted to make up a few Hours of Slumber. Brown had to figure on a Contract next Day, and he needed Eight Hours so as to show up snappy and with a Clear Head. Collins said he had a couple of Black Marks standing against him and if he didn't ring the Time-Clock by Midnight, he might lose his Latch-Key. Davis said he was glad they were going to make it a Brief Session as the Electric Light hurt his Eyes. It seemed that not one had more than an Hour to spare.

Just a Child's Game

It was a beautiful Getaway. All the Stacks were the same size, neatly built up into Liberty Poles of Red, White and Blue. The Cards riffled smoothly and the Dove of Peace seemed to hover over the Round Table. Each Man lighted an eight-inch Perfecto and got it slanted up so as to keep the Smoke out of his Eyes. He was feeling Immense because he counted on pulling out about Eight Bones and buying a Hat with it.

Inasmuch as they were playing in Adams' Room and he was providing all the wet and dry Provisions, they felt at liberty to jounce him. A Host is not supposed to act peevish, no matter what they do to him. So what they did to Adam was a Plenty and then some. It was only a measley little Child's Game with a Come-In of Two call five and a Blue Seed for the Outside Bet, but when two of them got Adams in between them and started the WhipSaw, they left him with nothing but Whites. He died like an Outcast with three Type-Writers clutched in his Salary Hook.

He touched up the Bone Yard in a low, injured Tone of Voice and they could notice the Gloom curdling on his side of the Table. In a few Moments he tried to Get Back by making it expensive to Draw. Davis picked up two Cards and filled a Straight and he lit on Mr. Bluffer all spraddled out. It was about this time that Adams began to get Red around the Ears. He told them to be careful where they dropped their Ashes, as the Rug they were sitting on was a genuine Bokhara and had stood him more than Two Hundred. They asked him if he was Sore, and he said he was not, but he hated to sit in with a Farmer who would hold up Three, open in the Middle, and then Fill. Any one who would do that ought to be arrested. Davis remarked that their Host was an Imitation Sport who ought to be out playing Mumblety-Peg or Croquet. Davis had a long Breast-Work or Plush in front of him and he was full of Conversation. He told Adams that if they injured the Rug he would buy another.

Ready For Rough Work

In the meantime the Short Hand had crept up toward XI. Davis kept calling attention to the Fact that the Time was just about up. He wanted to get his Velvet and dig. The Electric Light was hurting his Eyes worse than ever.

But when the Hour struck, Adams was just beginning to be mussy. He told them to forget the Clock. He threw the Jonah Deck into the Grate, broke a fresh Pack, walked around his Chair three times, took off his Coat and gave Fair Warning that all Boys and Cripples must get back of the Ropes. He rung in a new Rule that any one who bet less than 50 Cents would be considered a Short Sport. He put in a Patent Cork-screw for a Buck and said it called for a Jack Pot every time it came out with the Ante. He hoped that all of the Old Ladies and the Safe Players would dust the Cracked Ice out of their Laps and get Busy. He said if they tried hard they could get Action for their money on something less than Threes.

Of course, they had agreed to chop off at Eleven, but they could not play Quitter on their Host while he was so deep in the Sand so they all came down to their shortsleeved Gauze Effects and got ready for Rough Work.

They began to Edge with the Colored Beans and Friendship ceased. Adams had a Run of Luck and he crowded it. Every time he skun his First Set and found it promising he whopped them out of their Chairs. It was a Half Dollar per Throw and somebody was thrown every Deal. Before long he had them Buying, and Brown had opened a Tab with the Bank.

The Genial Host

Adams began to hum a Popular Air, just to show that he could Gamble without losing his Temper. He had all Kinds corded up in front of him and he was exceeding Blithe. He said he was going to buy some nice Etchings for his Room and put in an Ice-Box and have everything Right in case a few friends dropped in like this. Then he glanced up at the Clock and said that probably they had better make it Midnight. At this the other three let out a Roar that would have been a Credit to Niagara. They said they were going to Hang on until they got Revenge. He explained that somebody had to quit Loser and besides, they couldn't sit up all Night. The Doctor had told him to get plenty of Sleep. They scoffed at him and told him to get a Hot Brick and put his Feet on it.

Brown arose and removed his flowered Waistcoat, rolled up his Sleeves and said they would let up on Fooling and begin in Earnest. They would play nothing but Jacks and it would cost One Dollar to Associate. With that they closed in and every Man was playing so near to his Shirt Bosom that he had to back off to read his Hand.

The Light conversation had died away. It was now a Case of getting the Heart's Blood. They talked in low, sick-room Whispers and eyed one another stealthily. Each of the four wondered if the Game was absolutely on the Square.

Along about 2 o'clock A. M., after the Luck had been see-sawing, Brown had four Treys and refused to take Cards. Two Full Hands came out against him and that was what led up to the Slaughter. When a Person stands Pat it is the crafty Supposition that he has a Flush or a Straight. To hold the Extra Card as a Blind for Fours is justly regarded as an Act of Low Cunning. When the Smoke and Dust cleared away, Brown had everything in sight and was beginning to Yawn slightly and look at his watch. The others were drawing on the Bank and telling what they might have done if the Cards hadn't fallen just as they did.

Never Again

Adams had been cleaned properly, and he was so Mad he was breathing through his Nose. He produced his Bank-Book to show that he was Good for any Amount, and then he abolished the Limit and announced that he was out for Gore and would show no Quarter.

Then the Game settled down to the Kind in which somebody lays $14 on a Pair of Sevens and gets whooped $9 by some other Desperado holding Nines, and nobody bats an Eye-Lash.

At 4 o'clock Brown, who was still intrenched behind his Earnings, suggested that they play one Round of Roodles for Five Bucks and then settle up. This was reluctantly agreed to. In this Grand Finale some tall Hands were dealt and they didn't do a Thing to Brown. So he called for just one more Round and everybody locked Horns and began all over again.

At 6 o'clock when the Hot Sunlight fell athwart the Table the Room resembled a Dug-Out shattered by a Shell. Four haggard Beings, scantily clad, sat at the Table and weakly endeavored to punish one another. Adams was out a Month's Salary and was Dead on his Feet. Brown had worked like a Dog all night and had nothing to show for it except a Head and a Debit of $43.50. Collins had most of the Chips, but he would have given a Thousand to get out of going Home and facing Pet. Davis had been running the Bank, and he never will know how he came out. He had two Envelopes covered with Marks, and after the other cashed in, he did not have any Money with which to redeem his own Checks. He asked what he had better do, and no one chirped. They had Worries of their own.

After they left and Adams put his Head under the Faucet, he said he was going to swear off on making his room a Hang-Out for Sharks. And when they were safely outside, they agreed that Men with Homes ought to keep away from the Rounder Element. And everybody said "Never Again."

MORAL: Play Checkers, and then you will be glad to Quit any time.

WON'T DROP CHARGE.

One Alleged Confession, However, Eliminated by Court.

By The Associated Press

TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 11.—Judge F. E. Cushman, in federal district court today, refused to dismiss the murder charge against Roland Pothier, accused of slaying Maj. Alexander Cronkhite.

Judge Cushman upheld the motion of the defense for the elimination of one of the alleged confessions of Pothier, implicating Robert Rosenbluth, but refused to ruel out three other confessions. One of the remaining statements of Pothier charged Rosenbluth induced him to slay Major Cronkhite, and this was left for the consideration of the jury.

England May Bring In Winston Churchill To Fill New Premiership

"Stormy Petrel" of Britain May Find Himself in No. 10 Downing St. Yet.

LIFELONG AMBITION

Political Leader of Country Now Well Fitted to Assume Head of Government

LONDON, Oct. 11.—With the days of the labor government numbered, there naturally is much talk concerning a successor to Ramsay MacDonald as premier. In the political clubs it is agreed that Winston Spencer Churchill stands a strong chance of realizing his life long ambition to be the tenant at 10 Downing street, official home of Britain's prime ministers.

Churchill is an exception to virtually all political rules. There is a tradition in this country that there is no future for any politician who changes his party allegiance twice over. It was as a conservative that he entered parliament about a quarter of a century ago, but his reputation was made after he switched over to the liberals.

Politics His Profession

It was as a liberal that he entered upon his experience in the cabinet which lasted without break from 1906 until the fall of Lloyd George's coalition government two years ago. Now, after a brief stay in the wilderness, enlivened by his near win of the London by-election last spring, he finally severed himself from the liberals and is reborn as a conservative.

He has been registered officially and has been adopted as conservative candidate for the Epping division in West Essex at the next general election.

The fact that he was chosen for what is regarded as one of the safest conservative seats in England emphasizes the party's satisfaction at his return.

Churchill's return to the front rank in British politics was the result of brains, originality and hard work. Politics is his profession. His reappearance in the political field this time, in the conservative camp, has created enormous interest throughout the nation.

Genius for Making Enemies.

Churchill has a genius for getting into the political limelight and making himself a storm center of heated controversy. He makes enemies all of the time and in all directions, and the more he makes the better pleased this stormy petrel of British politics appears to be.

Ever since the Lloyd George administration went down to defeat Churchill has upheld the viewpoint that socialism and constitutionalism are the only real opposing forces in present day politics. He fought hard to line up the liberals and conservatives in combination against the laborites, and restore the two party balance in England. Whether he can do this no one knows.

But there can be no question, it is agreed, that Churchill, as soon as he returns to parliament, will get a seat in the conservative front bench. Then it will be surprising if he does not capture leadership of the party and profit by the fall of the labor party, which now appears inevitable.

MILLION FOR G. O. P.

Total of Campaign Funds Not Yet Enough, Officials Say

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—Contributions to the republican national committee's campaign funds to October 1 totaled $1,095,000, Chairman William M. Butler told newspaper men today.

He said the committee needed more money, but that the committee had been operating on a strictly business basis, auditing its accounts daily, and proceeding on the budget plan he announced early in the campaign.

All reports would be ready for the Borah senatorial committee campaign contributions when it convenes in Chicago, possibly Wednesday or Thursday, the chairman said.

He said he had letters indicating that labor organizations supporting Robert M. LaFollette were making assessments on their members for contributions. He said one letter showed that the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America was requiring its members to contribute $1 each to the LaFollette campaign fund under threat of being called before the executive board if they failed to donate.

Addressing a crowd from a truck placed next to his train, Governor Bryan began the gamut of outstanding political discussions and touched particularly on agriculture and labor. Attacking the republican proposal to abandon reclamation the nominee characterized such a recommendation by Charles G. Dawes, his republican opponent for the vice presidency, as "similar to his policies followed when he ran a big financial house."

She named an abandoned automobile and a deserted school house as land marks of the route.

Forces Death On Friend in Whose Will He Shares

FRIENDS TO LAST

One Signs Other's Death Warrant; Is Named As Beneficiary

LONDON, Oct. 11.—It has just become known that Kevin O'Higgins is the chief beneficiary of the will of Rory O'Connor, whose death warrants he signed.

All through the days of Sinn Fein war with England and the weeks of negotiating the Irish Treaty there were no closer friends than Kevin O'Higgins and Rory O'Connor.

Becomes Minister

The treaty was accepted and Sinn Fein split. O'Higgins became home minister in the Free State cabinet; O'Connor elected to fight that cabinet, but still the two remained friends. O'Connor led those who held the Four Courts in Dublin against the Free State besiegers, but the friendship continued.

Finally O'Connor was captured. He was sentenced to death. The warrant for his execution came to the desk of the best friend he had in the world. All manner of pressure was brought to bear on O'Higgins but he replied: "He must die tomorrow," and closed his lips tight as he signed.

Alone All Night

O'Higgins remained seated at that same desk all night, alone. At 8 a. m. messengers brought him word his friend was dead. The home minister collapsed.

Sometime later he learned that the dead rebel's will left his entire estate to the friend who had signed his death warrant.

College Men Know Much More Of Civics Than Do Girls.

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—College girls give little thought to the question of present day politics and are uninformed on the general subject of civics, according to Prof. R. L. Mott of the political science department of the University of Chicago.

He bases his conclusion on the results of a questionnaire answered by freshmen of the university. The average grade for both men and women was 31, the men reaching a score of 65 and co-eds a mark of 12. Men with relatives in government service went above the average and women related to government workers averaged 15 points.

Bandits Slay One, Wound Another In $40,000 Robbery

By The Associated Press

EBENSBURG, Pa., Oct. 11.—Five armed bandits today shot and killed James Gorman, an American Railway Express messenger, seriously wounded Joseph Davis, a bank messenger, and escaped with a $40,000 payroll at a remote spot on the Cambria and Indiana railway near here today.

Sheriff L. M. Keller of Cambrai county organized a posse here and went in pursuit.

The bandits boarded a gasoline propelled combination coach of the railway, a subsidiary of the New York Central, at Rexis. They took seats immediately behind the messengers. As the car made its way toward a pass in the mountains the bandits went into action. The motorman was ordered to stop the car and as he applied the brakes the bandits opened fire on the messengers, killing Gorman and wounding Davis. They then gathered up two satchels containing the money and escaped in an automobile awaiting nearby.

Aviator, Lost in the Air, Picked Up By Amateur

NEW YORK, Oct. 11—L. B. Joyce, a Bronxville radio fan, was responsible for the rescue of Captain H. M. McClelland and three fellow aviators who lost themselves last night while flying with a squadron of nine bombers from Langley Field, Virginia, to Mitchell Field, Long Island, according to officers at Mitchell Field.

Joyce was listening in on a concert when he heard out of the air the words "Please tell Mitchell Field that Captain McClelland, flying with bombers from Langley Field, is lost somewhere between Barnegat Bay and Atlantic City."

Joyce immediately notified Mitchell Field authorities by telephone. They were able to flash landing signals which later enabled Captain McClelland and his companions to land safely.

PEIRCE CITY, Mo., Oct. 11.—Three directors and a former cashier of the Lawrence County bank, which closed its doors May 8, last, are under arrest in connection with the failure of the institution. The directors are charged with assenting to the reception of deposits in an insolvent bank, and William A. Rhea, formerly cashier, is charged with embezzlement of $500 in liberty bonds and $500 in money. A warrant has been issued for the arrest of J. R. Pearson, president of the defunct bank. He is said to be in Auburn, Neb.

The three directors, all Peirce City residents, are F. B. Buckner, John Smeeton and Will Roberts. They gave bond after their arrest to appear for preliminary examinations October 15. Rhea, who lives in Springfield, is under bond awaiting trial at the January term of circuit court here.

The arrests followed an investigation into the affairs of the bank, which is now in the hands of the state finance department. Rhea was not cashier of the bank at the time it closed, but held that position at the time the bank was sold last March to Pearson, who came here from Nebraska.

HOOSIER CLUB TO MEET.

Indiana Natives to Gather at Fries Grove on Iowa Park Road.

The Wichita Falls Hoosier club will meet at Fries Grove on Iowa Park road, just south of Iowa Park tomorrow night, October 13, at 7 p. m.

The committee in charge is preparing for a weinie roast, and entertainment, and a general good time is expected.

As this is the last meeing for the year, and it is necessary to come in by application after this meeting, and the secretary expects to supply each member with a list of the membership and the point in Indiana they are from following this meeting, it is expected that a great number known to be from Indiana will come in at this meeting and be present, likewise a large number of the ones that are already members, and that this will be one of the best attended meetings.

The membership already exceeds 100, and as it is the aim to furnish a number of newspapers in Indiana with a list of the membership, it is felt that all entitled to become members will want to be included, and will not want their friends in Indiana to wonder why they were excluded.

All members having cars are expected to call at the Grace Methodist church, corner Seventh and Lamar, and pick up those having no way to go at 6:30 p. m., and likewise those having no way are urged to be there for that purpose.

Peace Now Finds Europe's Rulers On Flimsy Seats

FRANCE WORST OFF

Financial Troubles May Bring Crisis There At Any Moment

By WILLIAM BIRD
Special European Correspondent.
Copyright 1924 by the Consolidated Press Association.

PARIS, Oct. 11.—At a time when international relations throughout western Europe, thanks largely to the Dawes report and the assurance it implies of American participation are better than ever, progress is checked by the weakness of individual governments in their own countries.

MacDonald has fallen, Marx is tottering and Herriot stands on the shifting sands of the unstable franc. Consequently, Europe must mark time yet awhile until its internal difficulties are solved.

Herriot's troubles, though not yet acute, are the most profound of all and may bring a sudden ministerial crisis at any moment. The budget question which of course is the most important in every country, but particularly in France now comes before the chamber at the very moment when the franc, after several months of stabilization, appears to be slipping dangerously. It is known that the government is intervening vigorously to save it, but such operations are costly and cannot be continued indefinitely.

Nobody Satisfied.

The French budget this year satisfies nobody, and least of all Herriot's own backers. Finance minister Clementel has ignored his election promises to reduce taxes, which Premier Poincare increased against the opposition of M. Herriot last year and has actually increased them further. Moreover he has failed to provide increased pay for the government employes which was one of the principal planks of the bloc des gauches' campaign. Therefore it will not be surprising to see a large part of the bloc desert him when the vote comes.

On the other hand the burget's great merit and talking point is that unlike preceding post war budgets it balances.

Decline Would Hurt.

But as the budget is necessarily calculated in paper francs, it is obvious that decline in the purchasing power of the franc would quickly unbalance it and thus this merit would be lost.

For these reasons Bryand and Loucheur are already warming up behind the grandstand getting ready for the time when Herriot is knocked out of the box. Between them they already control enough votes to upset him.

One issue, however, affecting both the English and French situations, may operate to keep Herriot in. Although he was over thrown on the question of Campbell the communist editor whom MacDonald refused to prosecute for preaching army disobedience, the real reason for labors fall was the soviet treaty. But Herriot and his followers are also pledged to resumption of relations with the soviets and have begun negotiations. It is an open secret that many conservatives in France believe that France should now seize the opportunity to steal a march on England by making a treaty with Russia thus tying up Russia's interests with France's instead of England's. Consequently Herriot may be granted time to accomplish this rather ungrateful task which hardly could be managed so well by anybody else.

In Germany it is evident that Marx's troubles come chiefly from his too great complacency in his past dealings with the nationalists. Although they plainly revealed the emptiness of their bluff by swallowing the Dawes plan, he has continued treating them with respect. There is no doubt in the mind of anybody to whom the writer has talked that if the nationalists were told plainly either to take power in their own hands or be still, they would subside quickly. The last thing they want is execution of their own principles.

Week's Wildcatting Adds Unusual Number of Dry Holes to Territory

PARRISH-WHITE AREA SHOWING INCREASING ACTIVITY TO WEST PEASE DISTRICT SLUMPS OFF

Dill Farm Well in Section 84, Wilbarger County, Disappoints South Vernon Operators With Salt Water

By A. HALLMAN,
Record-News Oil Editor.

The new South Vernon area in Wilbarger county, the Parrish-White district in north Archer county, and the Olney area of south Archer and north Young counties are the only three sections of the Wichita Falls district that are showing any unusual activity, and the only three in which interest is pronounced at the present time. South Vernon added a producer and a salt water well in the week just past, the Parrish-White district received an extension of some 900 feet to the northwest and is showing redoubled activity there, while four dry holes have seemingly bounded the Panhandle-Knight-Hines pool in south Archer county in at least three directions. On the whole the results of practically every operation that had even a tinge of wildcat blood about it during the week just past was disappointing.

The Magnolia made the only change in crude prices during the week, naming 33 degrees gravity and above at $1.25, fifteen cents higher than other major purchasers on that grade. The Magnolia is also taking all of the oil and paying for it, this making their situation greatly different from a few weeks ago when they bore the brunt of much criticism because of their low crude prices and policy of setting the pace in making cuts.

The Humble is nearing completion on their pipeline from Stephens county through Archer county, and are making connections with certain Archer county producers.

Tank wagon and retail gasoline both received a cut of three cents during the week, Gulf Refining company leading and the other companies following.

Drill permit issuance by the oil and gas section of the railroad commission showed 36 for the district, twenty-four for Archer county, eight for Wichita county, one for Clay county, two for Wilbarger county, and one for Gray county. This was an increase of four over the week before.

WILBARGER COUNTY

Attention for the past week in Wilbarger county has been divided between the Winnipeg Drilling company's No. 1, Bond et al, and the Kemp and Birdsong, Clark and Harbin No. 1, Dill, a little over a half mile east of the producing group. Winnipeg completed their well last Sunday, and since that time it has flowed in less than four days enough to fill 1,750 barrels of storage, and then bridged. The well has been standardized and will be entered with cable tools today. Six-thousand barrel tanks are being erected on the lease to care for production from the well. Sand in the well is given as from 1,991-2,013 feet.

Winnipeg has spudded on No. 2, 300 feet south, and has a derrick up for No. 3, 300 feet to the west. Ray and Massie are rigging up for a south offset to the No. 2.

In section 99, Wharton land, Wells-Gulberson is flowing about 975 barrels a day, a drop over last week when the well gauged 1,250 for the first three days. Derrick is going up for No. 2, Wharton, a location to the west, while Kolp of Electra is offsetting this test to the west.

In sectoin 84, east of section 99, southeast corner of the north half of the southwest quarter, Kemp and Birdsong, Clark and Harbin, are standing at 2,037 feet in a blue shale, with various water sands since 1,991 feet, the sand showing little oil, and lots of salt water. If it had made a producer it would have extended the producing area to the east by more than half a mile. As it is it will probably put a damper on prospective tests to the north and east. In the southwest corner of this section the Bridwell-Heydrick No. 1, Dill, is holding to a 350 barrel a day output, sand at 2,012-20 feet. Ray and Massie are spudding a quarter mile north of this test. Prince Brothers are spudding about half a mile west of Bridwell-Heydrick, Zipperle farm.

In section 83, south of 84, northwest corner of Bridwell and Heydrick are drilling at about 1,600 feet on their No. 1, Stephens. No. 2 is rigging up to drill another gas well, offsetting the Church gasser in section 84 to the south. Sheerin and McCamey are rigging up with cable tools, standard rig, to continue the old South Vernon No. 1, E. T. Richardson.

Burton and Ruff have made a location about three miles east of the pool for a well, Waggoner ranch, section 49, southeast quarter.

ARCHER COUNTY

An extension of 900 feet to the Parrish-White district proved the most important development during the week in north Archer county. Ross Robertson's No. 1, White, northeast corner of block 35, was completed and swabbed for 300 barrels a day from the sand at about 1,600-1,604 feet. The completion immediately brought about five offsets, Robertson offsetting for No. 2 and 3, White, south and west, Lano Drilling company for No. 1, White, northwest and Carter et al for No.'s 6 and 7, White, east and north.

In the southern part of this pool Simms Oil company is drilling in on No.'s 1 and 2, Parrish, 1,600-foot sand. Muse has completed his No. 2, Parrish, and is preparing to abandon as a salt water well. Kentucky completed both C-2, and C-4, Parrish, during the week, both for 125 barrel wells, 1,600-foot sand, and is now drilling on No.'s C-5 and C-6. Magnolia is still rigging and about r ydiacotshrdlunupp ging up and about ready to spud on No. 4, Parrish, offsetting Muse 1 to the northwest. North of the pool Dee Brothers are setting casing on their No. 1, White, southwest corner of lot 11, block 34.

In the Nichols area Ray and Featherstone have completed their No. 8, Nichols, lot 6, section 30, depth given as 1,607-12 feet, for a small well. Further to the west lot 6, section 28, Murchison and Fain should be on the sand in their No. 2, Wilson.

Waite Phillips

Another dry hole was added to the string around Waite Phillips No. 1, Wilson, during the week, Carter-Balyeat bailing salt water at 1,326-28 feet about three-quarters mile south of the producer. Waite Phillips is setting casing on his No. 2, Wilson, south of the producer, depth about 1,533 feet, while No. 3, north and east of the producer is drilling at just about the sand depth.

The Pease-Andrews district was hit hard during the week, Griswold abandoning his No. 1, Andrews, north of the Texas company's well at about 1,457 feet, salt water, and P. J. White and Sessums drilling out a contract on their No. 1, Andrews, block 138, Robert Carson survey, south of the producer.

Northwest of the Comac producers Daniels and Rutis have bailed salt water in a second sand, No. 1, Parkey, depth 1,515-19 feet, and are drilling deeper.

Southeast of Green-Flowers pool, Carey, et al are drilling deeper after failing to make a well in the 1,260-foot sand. Ray-Featherstone is drilling on No. 1, Farmer, here at about 1,100 feet. Texhoma made pipeline connections here during the week.

Superior Oil Producing company failed to make a well from broken sand topped at 1,057 feet in their No. 1, Cowan, south of the Major-Clark holdings, block 39, Jefferson county school lands, abstract 240, and is drilling to 1,120 feet.

Swastika Expansion Tests

Northeast of Swastika the Shamrock Oil company's No. 1, Anderson, is nearing the sand and is regarded as likely to extend the field there about half-mile in that direction. Southwest of the field about a quarter of a mile Clark and Harbin are drilling past 1,355 feet in their No. 1, Jenkins, without picking up a sand as yet; the test is regarded as dry.

WICHITA COUNTY

Wichita county has been unusually quiet for the past few weeks, and last week saw little if anything of importance happen. United Central completed their No. 1, McCarty, Beaver Creek district, for a 100-barrel well, 1,600-foot sand. Hammon et al are drilling on No. 1, east McCarty lease (east of Muse and Robertson) at about 1,000 feet after passing up fifty feet of likely looking sand at about 455-505 feet.

In the Burnett pasture south of Fowlkes station the Texhoma is drilling on No. 6, Burnett, while the Section Two Oil company completed their No. 4, Burns, for about a 200 barrel well, 1,500-foot sand.

Kunk'l Well Sets Casing

Shaw and Rathke, Harvey and Taylor et al have cored eight inches into a sand showing oil in their No. 1, Kunkel, Hardaway survey, east of the Carey-Texhoma well, and late yesterday afternoon were reaming down to set casing. There has been some misunderstanding in regard to the depths in this test, and as no steel line has been run no accurate statement can be made, except that is somewhere below 1,100 feet.

Casing should be run some time this morning, and the well drilled in and tested.

This well is carried elsewhere on this page as dry, the misunderstanding as regards its depth giving this report credence.

Five Tests Do Much To Define Panhandle And Knight-Hines District

Special to the Record News.

OLNEY, Oct. 11.—Five disappointing tests in the past week have done more than any development of the last sixty days to give operators in this section of north Young county and south Archer a definite idea as to the exact nature of the area opened up last summer by the Ragle No. 1, of the Panhandle Refining company and Consolidated Oil company. For the first few weeks after active operations were started in this field every completion seemed to extend rather than define, and the area took on the aspect of Archer county's most extensive producing area. This past week four dry holes and another well that has been anything but satisfactory have seemingly defined the Knight-Hines pool proper in three directions—south, west, southwest and north—although the bounds of the Carey extension have as yet by no means been determined.

The most important development of the week was the failure of the Shamrock Oil company to find the sand in their No. 2, Boren, R. Newman survey, abstract 330, 528 feet south of the No. 1, last reported depth being 1,145 feet—no sand yet. This well is about 528 feet south of any production in the field. It is not considered likely that this failure will hold up development still further to the south, it being generally held now that any number of smaller pools may exist in more or less parallel formations to the south. Two tests are drilling on this theory. Litchfiel shut down for water at 475 feet in block 236, Campbell land, and Brown, McCalister and Lickey drilling 1,000 feet each way from the northwest corner of block 234, TE&LCO survey, W. J. Logan land.

Just outside of Olney and southeast of the old Creighton well, on the C. West land, northwest corner of the block 239, Jeffers and Newby have shut down dry at 1,208 feet, thus seemingly bounding the productive area in that direction. West of Olney on the Taeck land, block 158, Ross, Jones, et al., are drilling out a contract, after testing dry in a sand at 1,168 feet (reported.)

Directly west of production, E. A. Hausler land, Shaw-Rathke have completed their No. 1 (old Jeffers-Newby No. 2) for anything but a satisfactory well, the well making about 25 barrels of oil and 40 barrels of water from oil sand 1,120-28 feet, a slight break, and a foot of water sand. North of the pool Harvey and Taylor are reported around 1,168 feet, and believed to be dry, with exact information unavailable.

Inside these bounds and those set on the east and southeast by the original well on the Ragle land, northeast corner of the R. Newman survey, and the Eagle Creek No. 1, Cheeves, a half-mile southeast of the pool, there has been no let-up in activity and several good wells have been added to the pool.

Swastika Oil Syndicate has what looks like a 200-barrel well on the pump at 1,082-1,104 feet in their No. 1, Neale, southwest corner of the D. White survey. This is the furthest to the northeast that production has yet attained, although a quarter-mile further, southwest corner of the northwest quarter, Neale land, Burns and Maxson are about due on the sand and will tell much of that area. Panhandle-Consolidated have offset the Swastika well in two directions, west, Davis No. A-3, and south with Ragle B-4, drilling on the Davis well, and on the sand at 1,072 feet in No. B-4. The sand was found here higher even than in the Davis wells, just west.

Both of the Davis wells have been offset on the Ragle land to the south, Ragle D-4, and D-5.

Sun Oil company and Grisham-Parks-Shaw-Rathke should both be on the sand between the Ragle wells and the Carey extension, Sun on the Greene land, and Grisham et al offsetting to the east on the Davis land, southwest corner. Still north of these tests, E. Beardon land, Eagle Creek has spudded and is drilling, southeast corner.

Mitchell and Jones have offset the Hausler wells to the east on the Beardon and are drilling in the northwest corner of the John Hopkins survey. Panhandle-Consolidated are placing their No. 1, Beardon heirs, northeast corner of their tract on the pump for a 75-barrel well, sand at 1,073-1,083 feet. Offsetting the Beardon 2 to the north, the Ragle C-3, Panhandle-Consolidated, has been completed and is being placed on the pump for an estimated 275 barrel well, sand at 1,066-78 feet. Trouble has been experienced in completing this well but it is now expected to make on of the best producers on the lease.

Lee Wilson's No. 1 and 2, Beardon, are being placed on the pump for 100 and 200 barrel wells, respectively, No. 1 sand at 1,066-84 feet, and No. 2 sand at 1,057-76 feet.

Two new tests are underway to the east of production, the Humble Oil and Refining company having a derrick up for No. 1, Ragle, 930 feet south and 150 feet east of northwest corner of the center 40 acres of the north half of the R. Newman survey, while Panhandle-Consolidated have offset them to the west with Ragle B-5.

Carey Extension

Around the Carey well, just to the west Texhoma Oil and Refining company is expected on the sand in their No. 1, Jeske; Texas company is drilling on No. 1, Jeske, while Carey has spudded and is drilling on No. 1, Pollei. The Carey (now Texhoma) well has been placed on the pump for a hundred barrel well by actual gauge.

Harmel Area

Maer and Stamforth have completed and are placing on the pump their No. 1, Griffin, southwest of the two Marland, Murchison and Fain producers, and have what looks like a 100-150 barrel well from sand at a reported depth of 1,293-95 feet. Marland-Murchison-Fain-Golding have offset this well and have derricks up to the north and east, No's. 2, Griffin, and Harrel. No. 1, Griffin, west offset to the Harmel well is spudded and drilling. P. F. Gwynn has spudded and is drilling on the Woods land, north of the producers, while Underwood is drilling on the north line of the Rogers land to the south.

Grant Gets Sand

One of the features of the week was the finding of a good sand on the A. C. Casey land, survey 1306, northeast of Jean where G. T. Grant is drilling with a Star machine. Three oil sands have been encountered in this last, one at 411 feet, one at 535 feet and the third picked up at 938 feet. This latter sand promises to make a commercial well, although its full possibilities have not as yet been tested out owing to the fact that the sand was entered unexpectedly with considerable water in the hole. In spite of this fact the well made an unusually good showing. Casing will be set, the hole bailed dry and the sand given a thorough test.

Knight and Hines are rigging up for a rotary test in the southeast corner of the H. E. Neeley land, survey 176. This is three miles southwest of Olney, half way between town and the Peter-Kemp shallow field.

About a mile due west of this test Barton-Texhoma have made a location for rotary test 150 feet each way from the southeast corner of survey 187, H. N. Lewis land.

Peter-Kemp

The Olney Production company's No. 1 Kemp was drilled a short distance into the sand on Wednesday and oil rose 400 feet in the hole. It is the intention of operators to enter the sand deeper. The well promises to be one of the best in the field and extends production 800 feet north.

In the same area, in survey 195, Harvey et al on the Hill land have succeeded in drilling by a lost string of tools and are drilling around 500 feet.

The Union Oil company's deep test on the Keathley land, survey 153, three miles south of town, is drilling at 3,180 feet, having been delayed by collapsed casing.

Two miles east of town Brown, McCalister, and Lickay, derrick up for a rotary test on the W. J. Logan land, survey 234, location being 1,000 feet each way from northwest corner of survey.

North of this, in survey 1810, N. D. Goldsmith et al have made a location on the R. Campbell land.

Rig timbers and supplies continue to move steadily to the fields and a number of new wildcat locations will be ready for announcement next week.

TEXHOMA WILDCATTING

Company That Has Religiously Refrained from Wildcatting, Up Again.

A noticeable indication of improving conditions in this district is the renewed wildcat activity of the Texhoma Oil and Refining company in this district. During the depression and industrial slack of the summer months this company did hardly any wildcatting at all, sticking to a policy of drilling only offsets and necessary wells.

The last 30 days though have seen a radical departure from this policy and the company is now interested in about five wildcat wells, one east of Archer City on the S. Wilson ranch, the Carey group, with C. P. Burton on the Lewis farm west of Olney, and in a Montague county. There is also a prospective test for the Britt Cranfill Magnolia Baylor county locality soon.

PERMIT ISSUANCE STILL

Drill permit issuance stood almost still this past week in this district, a total of 36 being issued for operations against 32 the week before. The thirty-six were divided among the counties of the district as follows: Wichita 8, Archer 23, Gray 1, Wilbarger 2, Young 1, Clay 1. The week before the division was as follows: Wichita 8, Archer 20, Hutchison 1, Montague 1, Clay 2.

Of the 23 issued for Archer county ten were for practically proven territory in the Panhandle-Knight-Hines pool in south Archer county.

NEW TONKAWA SAND

Old Faulting Now Believed to Show Still Lower Sand for Production.

TONKAWA, Oct. 11.—Oil men are pretty well decided that T. B. Slick found a new deep sand in his No. 3E, Endicott, in 35-25-1w, at Tonkawa, when it made 1,225 barrels from a deeper level than other producing wells in that locality. The well was brought in September 14.

As a result, Gypsy Oil company is planning to deepen No's. 81 and 84 on the Clark farm, in the northwest of 2-24-1w, and Comar Oil company plans the deepening of several on the C. C. and L. Endicott farms.

At first, it was thought the sand was found deeper due to a faulted condition, but this opinion seems to have changed of late.

Home Building

in this city is continuing at a very satisfactory rate. Since September 5th, about a month, this institution has made loans to home owners here of $114,164.20. This evidences THREE important things. First, that Wichita Falls is growing; second, that its citizens depend on this institution for home financing; and, THIRD, that this institution has money, not promises for the future, to lend on real estate. Come in to see us about your real estate loan and you will be surprised how easy it is to own a home through this company.

HUMBLE PIPELINE COMPANY COMPLETES 100-MILE LINE WICHITA TO BRECKENRIDGE

Oil Will be Run Through First Archer County Coastal Carrier as Soon As Gathering Stations Completed.

The Humble Pipeline company completed Friday, the actual laying of pipe on its new pipeline through Archer county, Breckenridge to Iowa Park, and upon finishing work at gathering stations will be ready to run oil through it for the first time.

The new line connects on the north with the Humble Pipeline company's lines though the Electra and Iowa Park district, and on the south with the field lines of the Breckenridge district at Fambro station, Stephens county. The carrier goes almost straight away across Young and Archer counties, passing west of Olney and east of Swastika, through the Wilmot pool to south Wichita county.

Swastika-Wilmot

Gathering stations are now being installed at Swastika, short field lines running to Swastika and seven miles east to the Knight-Hines Ragle district, and south of Holliday where lines will reach out into the Wilmot field, both to the east and to the west. It is known that connections for the lines are in prospect to leases but just with whom and on what leases is not known, although it is probable that the new line will have no trouble making such connections.

The line is an even 100 miles long, 60 miles being laid with six-inch pipe, and the north 40 miles with four-inch. The Swastika station will be located at the end of the six-inch pipe. Construction of the line has taken something over 60 days.

Wichita to Gulf

The completion of this line means a clear way to the Gulf for Archer-Wichita and north Young county crude, it having been necessary formerly to divert such oil to Wichita county, and thence through Texas company and Magnolia or Prairie pipelines to coastal refineries. It is the first main line of any pipeline company to enter north Young county, and the third to reach south Archer county, Texhoma and Wichita Pipeline companies having both recently completed lines to Swastika and the Wichita Pipeline company to the Knight-Hines.

The completion of this line will probably establish the Humble in this district as a major purchaser of crude oil and make its quotations much more a market factor than formerly. In the past they have purchased around 1,600 barrels of crude daily for use in their Burkburnett refinery. The new outlet means that they can handle more Wichita crude and Archer crude, too. The line with its present pumping stations can handle approximately 8,000 barrels of oil a day.

Operations In Oklahoma Show Sharp Decline

The state of Oklahoma showed a sharp decline in the number of total operations during the past week, according to the current issue of the Oil Weekly. The difference in the two weeks amounting to a total of 61 operations. At the same time the state showed a decrease in the number of completions by reporting 10 less than the previous week.

Wewoka-Cromwell district garnered further honors when it led the fields with 251 drilling wells as compared to Tonkawa with 123 drilling wells. Wewoka-Cromwell fields also ranked first in the completions list with 22 to their credit. Osage county ranked second with 17 completions.

Wewoka-Cromwell district led in the total operations among the fields. Ranking first with a total of 385 compared to Ponca City with 203 operations in second place. Tulsa-Okmulgee district followed closely with 202 for its total. This district also led in the number of rigs with 43.

Tulsa-Okmulgee district showed the largest number of shut down wells with 66 on their card.

TULSA, Oct. 11.—Production in the Cromwell pool for the week ending Friday was 40,772 barrels from 112 wells. This is an increase of 123 barrels and nine wells. Wewoka production for the week was 7,962 barrels from 78 wells, which is an increase over previous week of 1,200 barrels and two wells. Gilcrease and Papoose oil production was 14,731 barrels from 52 wells. This was a decrease under previous week of 787 barrels from the same number of wells.

Production of Burbank for the week ending Friday was 75,387 barrels from 1,616 wells, which is a decrease under previous week of 794 barrels from 1,431 wells. The Kay county extension produced 14,585 barrels from 195 wells.

JEFFERS AND NEWBY, WEST

Will Start Up Again and Drill to 1,300 Feet on Test Just East of Olney

Jeffers and Newby yesterday started up again at about 1,208 feet on their No. 1, West, northwest corner of block 233, TE&LCO survey, just to the east of Olney, and will drill the test to 1,300 feet in the hope of getting a deeper pay sand. This test it was hoped at first would extend the Knight-Hines area to the southwest.

Tale of Indian Oil Told Tulsa By Tribe Chief

Shade Wallen shows "Rainbow's End" to Fair Visitors

By The Associated Press

TULSA, Oct. 11.—A modern version of the "pot of gold at the end of the rainbow," was replated at the oil congress, held in connection with the international petroleum exposition, when Shade Wallen of Muskogee, superintendent of the Five Civilized Tribes, told of the finding of oil on Indian lands in Oklahoma and the millions of dollars that tribesmen received as a result of the discovery.

"Since leasing the lands of members of the Five Civilized Tribes (Choctaws, Chickasaws, Cherokees, Creeks and Seminoles) for oil and gas mining purposes first began in the Indian territory, the Indian office at Muskogee has collected for individual restricted Indians more than $52,000,000 in oil royalties," Wallen declared.

Restricted lands comprise but 15 per cent of the lands originally alloted to the five tribes. On this basis oil and gas to the value of $2,800,000,000 have been produced from the entire holdings of the tribesmen.

The federal government in 1898 began preparations for the enrollment of the five tribes and the rolls finally were closed March 4, 1907, Warren said.

Five Tribes

There were 101,406 allotments, covering an area of 19,535,966 acres in the 40 counties now comprising the territory of the Five Civilized Tribes. The average allotment of the Choctaws was 320 acres; Chickasaws, 320 acres; Cherokees, 110 acres; Creeks 160 acres and Seminoles, 120 acres.

Discovery of oil on the Indian lands was made by Edward Bird, living at Chelsea, Rogers county. "While standing one day on the broad prairie about five miles northeast of Chelsea, Mr. Bird had an inspiration that there was something beneath the earth's surface of this vast domain that would mean much to the development of this land, and to humanity," Wallen said.

Obtaining a contract with the Cherokee nation, Bird drilled six wells to the depth of 165 feet, developing about a barrel of oil a day in each well.

"This was the extent of the oil development until 1901 when the first discovery well in paying quantities was drilled in at Red Fork, in the Creek nation," the superintendent continued.

Bartlesville

Then came the discovery of oil around Bartlesville and the extensive development of the Indian lands followed.

Royalties jumped from $1,931.38 on 4,099 leases in 1905 to $5,078,000 in 1920, the oil men were told. The average monthly receipts for oil and gas royalty paid to the Indian office at Muskogee covering lands of the five tribes is $368,000 or $4,276,000 annually, Warren said.

Considering the great development in the Osage, Ponca and other Indian nations in Oklahoma, "including all the surface machinery for development, the railroads and pipe lines, and salaries paid in producing the oil, we have reached a business proposition amounting to virtually $10,000,000,000," Wallen declared.

"The development of oil in this vast territory is yet in its infancy and it is believed the future will see untold discoveries of even greater fields," Wallen concluded.

PROSPERITY WAVE

Robert Watchorn Believes Prosperity As Intensive As Depression

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 11.—"I have observed that when we have had serious depressions in the oil industry they always were followed by higher crests of prosperity than formerly and I believe that history will repeat itself when we recover from the present situation," said Robert Watchorn of New York, president of the Watchorn Oil and Gas company, who was in Oklahoma City recently.

"We should not overlook the fact that while we are being affected by the rises and declines in production of crude oil that on the other side is that steadily growing demand for the products of oil. Our production ills are temporary. That great amount of consumption always continues.

"I believe," continued Watchorn, "that the days of electric traction cars are numbered. Gasoline cars are robbing them of income and profit. There are more people traveling by motor bus on Fifth Avenue, New York City, than are riding in electric street cars on both Fourth and Sixth avenues. But I don't think the public should be unfair toward the street railway companies by forgetting that their stockholders have great investments in great enterprises. With the building of hard-surfaced roads in this territory it won't be long until your Oklahoma City man will drive his car to Kansas City rather than go by rail."

Watchorn, while making no prediction as to recovery of the oil business, pointed out that export demands are growing rapidly and that after December 1, when contracts expire, little or no more oil will come east from California.

STORE TONKAWA CRUDE

Deep Sand Producers Elect to Hold Oil Until Prices Rise Higher

Special to The Record News.

TONKAWA, Oct. 11.—Lessees in the Tonkawa field, who have a large oil production, are preparing to store all, or at least the larger part of their output because they figure the price crude cannot go materially lower.

Among these are T. B. Slick Wentz Oil corporation, and the Healdton Oil and Gas company. The latter company's production is being stored by Bolen Refining company, an affiliated concern.

Bolen is building a 55,000 barrel tank in section 3-22-6w, west of Garber, near Enid, into which Healdton's Rence farm production in 11-4-1w at Tonkawa, will be run. Wentz it is said plans the building of one or more 55,000 barrel tanks, while Slick has already built one and plans the building of more after he completes two that are under construction.

Panhandle Oil Map Is Encyclopaedia Of Activity There

A contour map showing the hypothetical Amarillo fold and the relations that the various oil and gas wells and dry holes which have been drilled in the Panhandle have to this folding has recently been completed by John W. McGee, geologist, Staley building, Wichita Falls.

Certain factors of Panhandle operations are presented in this map more forcibly than other smaller and less detailed mapping produces, and it is probably the most complete working up of the Pannandle sector that has ever been attempted outside the laboratory of one of the big companies.

Operations in the Panhandle during the past have probably extended over a larger potential area than has been found in any other like formation in the midcontinent field. Seemingly a large portion of seven counties, extending over a line east and west approximately 110 miles long, is proven for gas, 50 million to 100 million cubic foot gassers having been completed almost promiscuously in this area at any point near the crest of the fold.

Several facts are noticeable in regard to Panhandle drilling: first, no well has ever been completed for a producer (oil) when the "big lime" was encountered below 800 feet above sea level contour; second, the south side of the fold has to date proven unproductive.

According to the McGee map this 800-foot contour on the north runs about six miles north of Dumas in Moore county, dips to the south until it strikes the Hutchinson county line where it goes back to the north again, almost striking Plemons, to the south again, passing near Pampa in Gray county, and following Red river generally through Wheeler county to Shamrock where it turns back to the west again for its return trip.

All wells, drilling and completed and locations are shown on the map, data appended to each giving total depth, results and at what level the big lime was reached. The map is almost an encyclopedia for Panhandle past operations, and the contours are founded on enough sub-surface actual information that they may be regarded as more than ordinarily accurate.

The eastern side of the map shows many of the oil and gas fields of western Oklhoma and their probable relation to the Panhandle formations.

JEFFERS-JEFFERS, WILSON

Jeffers and Jeffers Set and Cement Casing on No. 1, Wilson, Depth 1,640 Feet

Jeffers and Jeffers have encountered and drilled into a good looking sand about eight inches in their No. 1, Wilson, section 12, H&TCRR survey, northeast of the Texhoma Lyles producer. Casing has been set and cemented and the well will be drilled in Wednesday or Thursday.

Producers Expect Improvement Soon In Posted Prices

Market Generally About Thirty Days Ahead Of 1923 Situation

LITTLE PRORATION

Prairie Clings to Old Schedule, and "Pay-Half, Store-Half" Policy

Producers in Wichita Falls generally have passed over the possibility of one-dollar oil for this district this year, and are confining themselves chiefly to speculation as to when the market will improve sufficiently to enable them to get a better price for their product. Premiums offered by certain crude buyers—independents—this past week on purchased crude has a remarkable stiffening effect on the market, and there is a general expectation that a few weeks at most will see the first advance in posted prices.

With last year's postings and their variation as a cue, and different circumstances of this year's progress as a foundation for such deductions such expectation seems logical enough.

30 Days Ahead of 1923.

The events of the past year that have gone to make for lower prices and a poorer market have as a whole happened much earlier than in 1923. The first pro-ration order was mailed this year on May 19, by the Texas company—it stated that the Texas company would not purchase production of wells stared after that date. In 1923 such an order as this did not come until much later.

Prices did not reach their low mark in 1923 until later in the summer than they did this year; they were well on their upward path by the middle of December. Since this year's events have in the main been at least thirty days ahead of the happenings of 1923, and there seems to be little reason now for holding back improvement, it cannot be regarded as preposterous to suggest that the coming thirty days at most will see a marked improvement in the crude market.

Prairie Pro-Ration.

The Texas companys discontinuation of pro-ration, and their seeming willingness to take on new connections, cannot but be regarded as favorable indications, even though the Prairie Oil and Gas company is clinging to pro-ration and low schedule.

The entrance of the Humble Pipeline into this area will also be an improving factor. This company is certain to get some very desirable connections and the one-man rule of the Texas company will be threatened.

Since the first of January, 1924, crude oil prices in Wichita Falls have seen a variance of approximately a maximum of one dollar, rising from $1.00 for 36-39 grav. on that date (Prairie schedule) to $2.00 for 36-39 grav. and $2.25 for 39 and above on March 8 of this year, a space of two months and eight days. This maximum price held over a period of two months until the Magnolia and Humble made twenty-five cent reductions in top gravities on their schedules on May 8 of this year, and held for the Texas company and Prairie until late in July when gravity schedules were lowered to 33 degrees gravity and above and the price named at $1.75 a barrel, in effect a fifty-cent reduction on Wichita-Archer high gravity crude oil.

Magnolia.

On June 6 the Magnolia cut its own low prices and reduced 36 and above to $1.50, still later naming a reduction in the gravity scale to make 33 degrees gravity and above $1.25.

The latest cut of any of the companies is hardly a cut for the Wichita Falls district; 33 degrees gravity and above for $1.25 was raised to "36 and above," the new graduation affecting practically none of this district's high gravity crude oil.

The Magnolia Petroleum company now occupies an interesting situation with their high price for 33 degrees gravity and above posted Saturday a week ago. Their schedule names that grade at $1.25, fifteen cents higher than the Prairie or Texas company. This is a variation from the Magnolia's policy over the rest of the year of cutting first and lower than competitors.

HAMMON-M'CARTY

Furthest East of McCarty Test Sets Casing on 1,200-Foot Sand

W. H. Hammon et al have set casing above a sand encountered at 1,210 feet in their No. 1, McCarty, east of Muse and Robertson, and will make a well at that depth. Sand has been penetrated to 1,219 feet and is showing well.

This test was originally started as a 1,600-foot test, but has shown so well in the lower sand that it will be completed here and the rig moved north or east for another test to the deeper sand.

A sand 50 feet thick was encountered in this test between 455 and 505 feet, and it is believed a good small well could have been made there.

Dee-Jessee Get Good White Well

Dee Brothers-Jessee et al No. 1, White, southwest corner of lot 11, block 34, ATNCL, after being drilled one foot in a sand encountered at 1,603 feet last night was showing for as good or better well as has been completed in the Parrish-White district, north Archer county. The well was bailed only half way down when oil broke through and further bailing late yesterday afternoon was unable to lower the fluid in the hole.

The well will extend the Parrish-White district by almost a quarter mile to the north.

Dee Brothers and Jesse own 80 acres here, the 40 to the west and the 40 on which the well is located.

OIL BARBECUE

Big Banquet Given As Incentive To Oil Men to Start Operations

Special to the Record News.

HUNTSVILLE, Texas, Oct. 11.—Monday night Mr. and Mrs. Luther Eastham entertained with a chicken barbecue and get-together meeting in honor of their guests, Governor and Mrs. C. L. Haskell of Oklahoma and New York, who were in Huntsville in conference with prominent oil men and representative citizens here to close up the deal for five wildcat wells in Walker county.

The barbecue grounds were lit with ropes of Japanese lanterns and old-time southern music was played by a "darky" orchestra. The out of town oil financiers were H. A. Pitts, New York; E. R. Bernstein, Shreveport; L. E. Cooper, Tulsa; Mr. Story, Buick company, and B. H. Lyne, Houston.

Fifty men and women, representative citizens of Huntsville, completed the personnel of guests.

Mr. Eastham introduced the speakers, who were Governor and Mrs. Haskell, Messrs. Bernstein, Lyne, Cooper, Judge T. E. Humphrey and Dr. H. F. Estill. The party returned to Houston Tuesday except H. A. Pitts, who remains in charge of developments. Miss Campbell of New York accompanied Mrs. Haskell to Texas.

Mr. Eastham, who is heavily interested in oil lands in Walker county, was instrumental in putting through the deal. The barbecue wore the social charm of old time Texas and Virginia hospitality and was notable from a business viewpoint.

Why Pretty Wilda Wouldn't Pay the Rent

"She was so afraid . . that she kept a nightly vigil with her revolver and her police dog lest her home be entered by desperadoes."

"Who Would?"—She Protested—"When Six Unknown Men, Who Might Be Anything From Broadway Beaux to Burglars, Have Keys to Your Flat?"

A GREAT many people, including millionaires, don't pay their rent. So nobody was much surprised when Wilda Bennett, the beautiful musical comedy star, refused to pay hers.

Various excuses are offered for arrears. Usually they range all the way from defective plumbing and sudden dislike for the wall paper to no funds. But when Wilda Bennett was called into court to tell why she owed $1,633 for the house she occupied just around the corner from Fifth Avenue in the fashionable neighborhood of East Ninetieth street, New York City, she gave the prize excuse of all.

When she moved in, she said, she found that six men had keys to her home!

Who were the men? Of course she didn't know. They might have been workmen, Broadway Beaux, gentlemen Raffles, gunmen—anybody. The terrible uncertainty so affected her that she spent her life sitting up nights, waiting for a stealthy step on the stairs and the rattle of a key—one of the mysterious six—in the lock.

Not only this, but she put iron gratings across all her windows and fitted out each door with a set of heavy steel bars. She hired a pair of detectives to guard the premises from dusk to dawn. At enormous expense she purchased a pair of business-like police dogs and gave them the run of the house and they further added to her lack of repose by sniffing about and growling throughout the hours of darkness.

At least this is what the charming actress said she did, and she thought it a very good reason for not paying her rent.

Now, the owner of the house was Mrs. Charlotte King Palmer, who moved out of her home just after she had lost $800,000 worth of jewels, furs and other valuables in the most sensational robbery that ever puzzled the New York police department.

It was early one November morning, three or four years ago, that the police arrived in East Ninetieth street in answer to a telephone call. They found the wealthy young matron writhing in agony with both ankles broken, wrists and arms lacerated where they had been tightly bound with ropes, and face swollen and discolored from gags and bandages.

Every room had been turned inside out and practically every article of salable value taken away. Mrs. Palmer's story of the robbery started a two-year search throughout America and Europe for a trio of clever and discriminating burglars, but the search finally was given up as vain.

While Mrs. Palmer was out at a dancing and supper party, the men forced their way in, seized, bound and gagged the butler and maid, and hid them away in closets. They then sat down patiently to await the return of the mistress of the house.

"When I saw the condition of my rooms," Mrs. Palmer explained, "I knew that something strange and sinister had happened. I turned slowly from my bedroom, nearly frozen with terror. Right at my elbow stood three men. They had been waiting in my sitting room, beyond the bedroom. They were dark, with hard, impassive faces.

"I reeled backward and deliberately sprang down the stairs. I struck the landing with such force that both the heels of my dancing pumps came off. They dashed down the stairs after me. I snatched off my pearl necklace and some rings and thrust them into my corsage.

"One man seized me by the shoulders. Another laid his hand, big and heavy, like a gorilla's, over my mouth. Another seized my crushed feet by the ankles. They demanded my jewelry and I gave it to them.

"They carried me to a bathroom that was like a closed well in the middle of the house. One of the men drew some window cord from his pocket and tied my hands and feet. A heavy handkerchief was bound around my mouth. A coarse piece of cloth was tied over my eyes. Thus I lay on the bathroom floor five and a half terrible hours while one of them stood guard over me, and the others ransacked the rooms. Occasionally my guard gave me a drink of water; once he leaned over and kissed the tip of my nose.

"The thieves worked all night. When my butler broke his bonds next morning it was eight o'clock. I had lost nearly $800,000 of furs, gowns and jewels. My feet were broken by my fall. I was shocked and ill and I am sure I never will be the same as I was before that night!"

Mrs. Palmer declared that she was going to Smyrna and thence to Egypt to recuperate from her frightful experience. Shortly after she moved out, Miss Bennett moved in.

Mrs. Charlotte King Palmer, Who Leased Her House to Miss Bennett Just After She Had Been Robbed of $800,000 Worth of Jewels.

Wilda Bennett, the Musical Comedy Star, Whose Reason for Not Paying Her Rent Was Declared the Most Original New York Ever Heard.

(Below) Facsimile Reproduction of Part of Miss Bennett's Answer to Mrs. Palmer's Suit for Back Rent. Note the References to Locks, Dogs and Detectives.

Then, not long ago, Mrs. Palmer filed suit against her tenant for $1,633, which she claimed was due her as back rent.

"But when I signed the lease," explained the prima donna of a spectacular Broadway production, "it was understood that I would have quiet enjoyment of the premises. Mrs. Palmer warranted that her house was free from any disturbing elements and that no one excepting myself had a right to enter the house, or keys to enter with. I expected to be very happy there."

Wilda asked everybody to imagine her surprise when she discovered that there were six keys to the front door, held by six men!

"These men had access to the premises at all times," she declared in the legal terms of her answer to the suit.

But what alarmed her most of all were certain threatening messages she received from time to time. Once, late at night, a hoarse voice told her over the telephone that what had happened to Mrs. Palmer would happen to her if she continued to occupy the house. Then two letters were pushed under her door demanding that she place a large sum of money in a corner of the little veranda over the entrance. Her failure to do this, the letters warned, would lead to severe bodily injury or even death.

ELEVENTH:- That after the defendant took possession of the said premises, defendant received two threatening letters requiring that defendant place a large quantity of money on the front stoop under pain of death or severe bodily injury.

TWELFTH:- That defendant in order to protect herself was compelled to and did change all the locks on the front door of the said premises and did hire a number of detectives to guard the said premises for a period of about three months and did cause to be placed on the first floor window iron gratings locked by a padlock, and did purchase at a large expense a police dog, and that these expenses became ne false and fraudulent represen

And, remembering the story of her landlady's experience, when she was bound and gagged and robbed and left with her ankles broken, possibly by the very men who now held the six extra keys, Wilda asked plaintively, who wouldn't be afraid to live in the luxurious though ungracious home.

She was, at any rate. She was so afraid, she said, that she kept a nightly vigil with her revolver and her police dog lest her home be entered by desperadoes.

"Bunk," replied Mrs. Palmer's lawyers. "Miss Bennett is inventing all these fears as an excuse for not paying her rent."

"But I have paid out more than double the amount claimed for back rent in making the place comparatively safe to live in," objected Wilda. "The window gratings, all fastening with padlocks; the bars and bolts, detective hire and police dogs cost just $4,500."

There was a further matter of $2,500 which she considered due her for "false and fraudulent representations" on the part of Mrs. Palmer. So, when she had added the two amounts and filed suit against her landlady for $7,000, she packed up her trunks and moved to a nearby hotel.

"The strained atmosphere was more than I could endure," she told her friends. "Looking through the barred windows at the detectives pacing back and forth, listening to the dogs sniff and growl and—above all—waiting for one of those mysterious keys to rattle in the lock, got on my nerves.

"I began to jump at the slightest sound, no matter where I was. My performances suffered. Danger seemed always to hang over me. I just had to get out!"

"A tenant's 'nerves,'" answered the lawyers, "have nothing whatever to do with a contract executed between tenant and landlord. We are interested only in collecting Miss Bennett's rent which we now will proceed to do in court."

But when the suit came to trial the harassed actress was ready with an answer and a counter claim which, in colorless legal language, sketched the story of her residence in the "House of Horrors" as she, herself, named the mansion.

Under the heading, "For a Second Counterclaim Defendant Alleges" some of the articles brought into court were these:

"NINTH—That  as a condition of defendant's entering into said lease plaintiff warranted to the defendant that she would have quiet enjoyment of the said premises, free from any disturbing elements, and that no one beside defendant had a right to enter the said premises or had keys by which to enter the said premises.

TENTH—That, on information and belief, the said statements were false and fradulent  and that there were certain male persons who had keys to enter the said premises provided by the plaintiff and had access to the said premises at all times, and prior to the entering into of said lease the plaintiff had been painfully injured and a large quantity of jewelry belonging to plaintiff had been alleged to have been stolen and the servants of the plaintiff bound and gagged by certain persons entering the said premises without breaking in.

ELEVENTH—That after the defendant took possession of the said premises, defendant received two threatening letters requiring that defendant place a large quantity of money on the front stoop under pain of death or severe bodily injury.

TWELFTH—That defendant in order to protect herself was compelled to and did change all the locks on the front door of the said premises and did hire a number of detectives to guard the said premises for a period of about three months and did cause to be placed on the first floor window iron gratings, locked by a padlock, and did purchase at a large expense a police dog, and that these expenses became necessary by reason of the false and fraudulent representations on the part of the plaintiff, to the damage of the defendant in the sum of Forty-five Hundred ($45,000) Dollars."

Strangely enough, however, the judge failed to be vividly impressed by the six unknown males who might walk into the apartment at any time.

He decided that no matter how many sleepless nights Miss Bennett had put in there, no matter how many bars and bolts she had used on doors and windows, nor how ferocious were the dogs or vigilant and high-priced the detectives, she must pay $1,633 back rent just the same!

"Fancy paying rent for a house you can't live in!" mourned Wilda.

"Fancy," retorted Mrs. Palmer's attorneys, "dodging your landlord with a musical comedy plot! Miss Bennett knows Broadway better than she does the law. That's why she didn't pay her rent!"

Texas Aggies Nose Sewanee By Lone Touchdown

Neat Forward Pass Leads To 7 to 0 Victory

Berry Tosses 25 Yards To Allison for Scoring Position

WILSON PLUNGES OVER

Tigers Outplay Farmers Greater Portion Of Way

DALLAS, Texas, Oct. 11.—Flashing a brand of football that completely upset all of the preliminary dope the Sewanee Tigers held the Texas Aggies to a lone touchdown in an hour of brilliant play here today.

The game opened the athletic schedule of the state fair of Texas which began its thirty-eighth exposition this morning. The advance information and comparative scores indicated a larger score by the Aggies, the representatives of the southwestern conference, but the southern conference team met their opponents play for play and pass for pass and barring the early rush which netted the lone touchdown of the game the game was an evenly fought affair.

The Aggie backs were stronger on the offense than the southerners, but the Sewanee team opened such a flashing brand of aerial work that the Aggie line was threatened several times.

In the opening period after an exchange of two punts each it was the Aggies' ball on the 40-yard line. A beautiful 25-yard pass from Berry to Allison was completed and Fay Wilson bucked the line for four more. On a freak double pass which Allison received the Aggies made first down on the one-yard line and Fay Wilson in one rush carried the ball over for the Texas team's winning score. Kishi kicked goal. The touchdown was made after eight minutes of play.

For the rest of the game it was just a series of completed passes and attempts with the Sewanee team taking the edge away from the Texans.

PLAY BY PERIODS

First period: After a punting duel in which the Texas Aggies made large gains, the Texans opened up a passing game and Wilson carried the ball over Sewanee's goal line for the first touchdown of the game. Sewanee, after receiving the ball in a punt exchange, resorted to the forward passing game and after completing several pretty ones was stopped by the Aggies.

Second period: Neither side could push the ball over for a score during the second period, though both sides resorted to the passing game. The period opened with the ball in Sewanee's possession on its own 49 yard line. Both sides punted to open the period, but no material gains were made. The Tigers, in a pretty double pass, made a gain of six yards.

Third period: The third period was featured by brilliant offensive playing by Sewanee, but failed as it approached the goal line. After an exchange of punts, the Tigers brought the ball from their 10 yard line to the Aggies' 22 yard line in two plays. It was Sewanee's ball most of the time.

Fourth period: The feature of the fourth period was a run by Berry, Aggies' quarterback, when he came from under a scrimmage from his own 25 yard line, raced down an open field. He was downed on Sewanee's Sewanee 25 yard line. The play came in the last three minutes of play.

Cantrell Stars in Surprising 17 to 10 Conference Upset

FORT WORTH, Oct. 11.—Texas Christian university upset the dope by defeating Oklahoma A. & M. in the opening game of the southwestern conference here today, 17 to 10. The game marked the formal opening of the beautiful stadium recently built at T. C. U.

In the third quarter, Esslinger, a substitute halfback, drop kicked 20 yards for the Aggies' other three points.

T. C. U. students went wild over the victory, running over the city in shirt tails, led by torch bearers.

Sarazen Outruns Epinard in Third International Race

Great French Thoroughbred Beaten by Length and Half.

LATONIA, Ky., Oct. 11.—Smashing all existing Kentucky track records for mile and a quarter to pieces, Sarazen, three year old chestnut gelding, owned by Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt II, today vanquished Epinard, pride of the French turf, in the final race of the international series before a record breaking crowd of 50,000 to 60,000 spectators.

Sarazen, ineligible for the previous two international races because he was a gelding, flashed across the wire a length and a half ahead of the gallant French horse in 2:00 4-5. This was within 4-5 of a second of the world's record established by the great Whiskbroom, II, ten years ago. Whiskbroom at that time carried 135 pounds while Sarazen was burdened with 10 today. Sarazen stepped the fastest mile and a quarter ever run on the Latonia track. He was clocked at the mile in 1:35 4-5, clipping a fraction of a second off the track record.

Epinard, strangely enough, finished today as he did in his two previous American starts, when he finished second to Wise Counsellor and later to Ladkin. While Sarazen's victory was convincing, Epinard was just as wonderful in defeat. Working his way through interference, when Altawood and Mad Play bumped in the final sixteenth of the race, Epinard came up from the fourth place, shot quickly to the outside, flashed ahead of Mad Play and was gaining rapidly on the Vanderbilt gelding in the closing strides.

Mad Play, the entry of Harry F. Sinclair, probably ran the greatest race of his career, finishing on top of Epinard for third place. Altawood, owned by C. Bruce Head of Lexington, made a desperate effort and was barely beaten for third place. Altawood finished fourt, six lengths ahead of Princess Doreen, the heavily played filly, which landed fifth place, while Little Chief finished sixth, My Play seventh and Chilhowee last.

The victory was worth $53,600 to Mrs. Vanderbilt, in addition to a $5,000 gold cup. Epinard pulled down $6,000 as second prize, while $3,000 went to Mad Play and $1,000 to Altawood.

Electra Gridmen Drub Seymour

ELECTRA, Oct. 11.—Coach Bully Gilstrap's hard-fighting Electra grid machine trampled over Seymour here this afternoon, 40 to 0. Electra made a dozen first downs while Seymour got off for five.

The brilliant playing of Thomas, Hammond, Trammel, and Bob Moore was the feature of the victors' attack. Captain Siddens at quarterback for the losing team fought valiantly. Straight football was resorted to.

The outcome of this game aroused new hopes in the breasts of Electra supporters and they now believe that both Vernon and Wichita Falls will fall before the onslaughts of Gilstrap's charges.

All body movement must be controlled by the knee movement. Move the body as much as you wish if it is moved by the knee. The majority of golfers turn at the trunk, not at the knee. They pull the legs instead of moving easily at the knee. The body should move so that it is at right angles to the line of flight on the upswing.

CRUIKSHANK ANOTHER TITLE

Diminutive Star Beats Hagen For Mid-Continent Crown.

WICHITA, Kan., Oct. 11.—Bobby Cruikshank, golfer extraordinary, tonight is mid-continent open golf open champion. Playing an unbeatable game today, the New Jersey professional turned in a score of 275 for the 72 holes of the tournament which ended today, lowering the course record by two strokes.

Cruikshank started the day even-up with Walter Hagen, British open championship. In the morning round, however, Bobby gained a stroke for the 18 afternoon holes, paired with Hagen, the diminutive star registered a score of 64 to Hagen's 80. Hagen's total was 28[illegible]

PICKING UP THE "LOOSE ENDS"

That's Job Dave Campbell Has With Harvard Gridders

OH!
HE WILL TEACH THE ENDS THE FUNDAMENTALS OF THE GAME
DAVE CAMPBELL
HE STARRED AGAINST YALE AND PRINCETON IN 1901
HE WAS A WIZARD IN PUTTING OPPOSING PLAYERS OUT OF PLAY

In its efforts to wipe out the sting of that crushing 13 to 0 defeat of last year at the hands of Yale, Harvard is going back to "basic principles" in football. To this end coach Bob Fisher has added to his coaching staff no less an old timer than Dave Campbell.

Campbell played on and captained the Crimson team that trounced Yale and Princeton in 1901. His terrific tackling and general aggressiveness was the highest spot of those games.

His one duty with the Cambridge team this fall is to put more "fire" into the work of the ends. The constant cry for more speed and the revisions caused by the opening up of the game, have drawn attention away from many of the basic teachings instilled in the ends in those days, Campbell has pointed out often in talks on the game.

He showed the value of these first principles when he returned to the Harvard field to aid Percy Haughton several years ago.

In engaging Campbell Fisher violated a precedent with himself. Heretofore the Harvard mentor has had no one on his coaching staff who played with the Crimson teams prior to 1911. That was the year Fisher captained the eleven.

"Stop Grange!" Is Roar Of West Conference Clubs As They Rip Into Action

"Stop Grandge!"
"Stop Grange!"
"STOP GRANGE!"

That cry is already reverberating about the stadium walls of the big ten colleges as the western conference grid teams rip into action.

"Red" Grange is the man whose brilliant open field running, plunging and work in the forward pass play carried Illinois through the season without a defeat.

In the seven games that Illinois played Grange gained an average of practically five yards a minute. He scored 12 touchdowns, more than any other halfback in the big ten. He scored at least one touchdown against every team played. Against the always powerful Nebraska eleven he registered three.

Min.	Team	Yds.	Touchdowns
39	Nebraska	208	3
60	Iowa	175	1
28	Butler	142	2
19	Northwestern	251	3
59	Chicago	160	1
39	Wisconsin	140	1
60	Ohio State	184	1

As a result of his wonderful playing Illinois hung up this record for 1923 in the big ten battles.

Beat Iowa 9 to 6.
Annihilated Northwestern 29 to 0.
Beat Chicago 7 to 0.
Licked Wisconsin 10 to 0.
Defeated Ohio State 9 to 0.

Only one big ten team scored against the Illinois machine, Iowa.

In its other three games Illinois defeated Nebraska 24 to 7, picked Butler 21 to 7, and snowed under the Mississippi Aggies 28 to 0.

But this year may tell another story.

For the simple reason that the coaches of every team on Illinois' list this fall are building their defenses with the idea of stopping Grange.

They spent a season studying the fleet-footed redhead. They sought his weaknesses—or possible ones. They watched the defenses tried against him and noted the weaknesses in those methods.

Now they'll use that knowledge for one thing—TO STOP GRANGE!

Grange has his weak points, rival critics say. One is that he is a one-way runner. He is at his best only when moving to his right in an open field. So one cry will be to "turn" him.

His friends admit he is a "one-way" runner. That way is toward the other fellow's goal and he cares little which side of the field he "works" in getting there.

They point out that one doesn't pay Coach Zuppke a very pretty compliment in suggesting that he hasn't corrected such a weakness, if one did exist.

Whatever the situation may be Grange will be the big drawing card with the Illini again—and his playing will be watched with critical eyes. The earnest efforts of the other big ten teams to stop him will make his work the more interesting, whatever the result of the cry "Stop Grange."

OWLS BEAT PIRATES, 20-6

End Runs by Wilford and Rice Aerial Game Dazzles Pirates

HOUSTON, Texas, Oct. 11.—Rice Institute Owls, Houston, defeated Southwestern university Pirates of Georgetown here today, 20 to 6. Inability of the Pirates to cope with long forward passes of the Rice backs in the last three periods caused their downfall.

Southwestern scored first in the first period after a steady march down the field on a short forward pass to Beard. Rice's passes and dazzling end runs by Wilford in the second period put the ball in striking distance and Captain Smith of the Owls plunged and tied the score.

A lapse in memory by a Southwestern substitute cost them a 10-yard penalty and paved the way for a second Rice touchdown. Madden shoved the ball across and Wilford kicked goal.

In the final period Comstock intercepted a Pirate pass and ran 65 to the five-yard line before he was downed. Wilford bucked over and kicked goal.

CENTENNARY GETS SCARE

Trinity Tigers Fight McMillan's to 7 to 6 Loss.

SHREVEPORT, La., Oct. 11.—Bo McMillan's Centennary gentlemen were given the biggest scare on the home lot since they lost to the Tennessee Doctors two years ago, when the Trinity Tigers of Waxahachie, Texas, led them by a score of 7 to 6 in the final quarter of the game here Saturday noon. In the last period the Gentlemen threw all their power into their attack and managed to squeeze over their second touchdown and Captain Jim Weaver kicked goal, saving the game for Centennary, 13 to 7. Centennary has lost but one game on its home grounds since McMillan has been in charge of the team and that defeat was administered by the Tennessee Doctors.

Trinity's score was made by Nelson who intercepted a pass and ran 52 yards, through a clean field for a touchdown.

Morrison, who starred for Trinity on the defense and offense, kicked goal. Centennary was the first to score when Weekly crossed the line, but Weaver missed goal. Shortly after the start of the fourth quarter Ferrall put the ball on the one-yard line with a 20-yard gain on a criss-cross play and then White carried the pig skin around the end for a score and Weaver kicked goal.

YALE SHADES GEORGIA

Bulldogs Finds Southerners Hard to Beat, 7 to 6.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 11.—Yale ran into tough opposition this afternoon and had to fight hard to beat Georgia University's flashy backs and heavy line, the final score being Yale 7, Georgia 6.

Both teams scored touchdowns, Georgia in the first period, and Yale in the third. Moore of the visitors failing to kick goal while Cottle of Yale made his chance good. Roosevelt Day, Georgia center; Bass and Joslin also of Georgia, were hurt

Trammel Scraps Eddie Lewis On Next Fight Card

Duke Trammel, Fort Worth schoolboy and an old Wichita Falls fistic favorite, will return Thursday eve on the next Legion fight card for a 12-round match with Eddie Lewis, also of Fort Worth. The boys are welters.

The youthful Trammel because more or less of his admitted potent right hand sock is expected to win. However, Lewis is a veteran at the ring game, and by far more experienced than Trammel. Six years Lewis was Champion Benny Leonard's stable mate and sparring partner. His work with the lightweight title holder taught Lewis many of the finer points of the game. Later in Fort Worth Eddie became friends with Dandy Dick Griffin, one of the nation's leading bantamweights today but then merely a good preliminary boy. Lewis took Griffin under his wing, coached him and boxed with him daily. Griffin's success over the past several years has all been attributed to the tutoring and drilling by Lewis.

Whether or not the veteran can stand up to the slugging tactics of his younger opponent Thursday is a question. Close followers of the game expect Lewis through his ring generalship to outpoint Trammel, but many disagree.

Jimmie Carroll of Fort Worth, and Moco Carpenter, China Springs light heavyweight have been billed for an eight-round semi-windup.

Yellow Jackets Flash Attack Which Nearly Upsets Varsity.

By The Associated Press

AUSTIN, Oct. 11.—Forced to desperate defensive tactics in the last three quarters, Texas university was lucky to win Saturday, 6 to 0, over the Howard Payne Yellow Jackets who fought as if inspired. The Longhorns scored in the first five minutes of play. A 22-yard run by Foster, a 10-yard smash through the line by Captain Marley and a 23-yard pass from Marley to Allen were the features of the Longhorns' advance. Captain Marley scored the touchdown, requiring three stabs at the line to negotiate the final five yards.

The Howard Payne goal was never endangered thereafter. Texas running attack was stopped dead by the aggressive Yellow Jackets forwards who swarmed through the heavy Longhorn forward.

In the third quarter Howard Payne got under way a spectacular forward passing attack. A pass from McAllister to Cook netted 25 yards, while a heave from Chaney to McAllister gained 15 yards. The ball was on the Longhorns' 10-yard line. Here the march stopped, four passes failed to be completed by inches.

E. B. McGrady went in for McAllister in the fourth quarter and was on the receiving end of four passes that netted Howard Payne 75 yards. Shortly before the end of the game Smalley intercepted a Howard Payne pass with the ball inside Texas', 20-yard line.

Coyotes Scamper Over Hastings In Practice, 85 to 7

SPARKY SCORES ONE

Final Practice Game Before Vernon Contest Saturday

Wichita Falls high school gridsters romped through probably their last match practice game Saturday at Spudder park in preparation for the initial contest of the Texas high school grid race with Vernon next week-end on the Coyote field.

McCallum's youngsters found the going easy with the Hastings American Legion team and ran up the overwhelming score of 85 to 7. The contest hardly was a good workout for the Crimson and Black other than the running exercises realized. The visiting club, a pick-up aggregation of players gathered here and there between Wichita Falls and Hastings, failed to show the first rudiments of football.

As usual the offensive work of Buck Steed, the Coyote halfback, stood out. This youth ran rampant, and knocked off a number of flashy dashes up and down the gridiron. But offensively speaking, the Coyotes were on the defense rarely, the whole Wichita Falls backfield ran pelmell over their green opponents, and touchdowns were scored in momotonous manner.

The feature of the affair was the scoring of Hastings' lone touchdown when Lewis, Hastings right end, grabbed up a bad pass by the Coyote center on the 15-yard line and raced 85 yards to the goal. Sparkplug Copeland, saffron-topped Coyote captain and right guard, late in the game tabulated the first touchdown of his career. On a kickoff, Copeland raced down and when a Hastings back fumbled, grabbed up the oval and ran the remaining few yards across the goal line.

Although Vernon Coach Baggett was on the sidelines the Coyotes opened up with a number of forward passes and delayed back passes. Few of the plays failed to gain.

Coyotes Rated Underdogs In Vernon Tilt Saturday

Lions Rate On Paper As Far Superior Club

BUD'S ENDS STRONGER

Vernon Backfield Stronger On Whole Than Locals

McCallum's Wichita Falls Coyotes and Baggett's Vernon Lions are scheduled to clash Saturday at Spudder Park in the initial tilt of the Texas high school football race in the north Texas section. For the first time in history instead of being the vaunted Coyotes doped to win by a neat margin, the tables are turned and the crimson and black eleven will trot out onto the field rated clearly as the underdog. Statistically speaking the Lions are at least a two-touchdown better team; nobody knows just how much larger the score may be.

In test contests played over a span of the past several weeks Wichita Falls' own has produced little to recall the smashing, all-conquering Coyote machines of yesteryear. While the team from the little city to the north has surprised even its most ardent supporters by sweeping all competition before it with charging, machine-like precision. On a point basis, comparative scores, Vernon has the edge by a goodly margin over the McCallum squad. Gone is the mighty Baldwin, and gone are the fighting tackles of 1923, who with Baldwin in the backfield almost solely carried the Coyotes to the semi-finals in the state race. And at that the triumphant crimson and black found the pickin's hard and the going rough when it locked with the Lions of '23. Wichita Falls fought hard, was pitted against a worthy opponent, and managed finally to struggle through the four quarters victors by a close margin.

Vernon Stronger This Year.

But the Wichita Falls of today is not as powerful as the Wichita Falls of 1923, whereas the Vernon eleven of the present undoubtedly is a better club than the Vernon of last year's scramble.

But two points favor the Coyotes in this titanic contest-to-be, and there is an element of doubt attached to them. Over-confidence has cut down many a great machine in the face of victory. The underdog, battling desperately for a finger-grip on the ledge of success, many times in the past, say annals of the grid game, have managed to pull through and surmount the obstacle of a chesty opponent by sheer fight abetted by the insidious weakening and undermining caused by the bane of winning football combinations, over-confidence. The other feature which leans toward a possible Coyote success is the chance of the visiting youths failing to put up their best brand of ball away from home, and playing on a foreign field. Often where two teams are nearly evenly matched, or where there is but a slight margin of strength between them, the club playing in strange territory tends to slump.

Comparative Scores?

The fact that Vernon defeated Altus high several weeks back, 27 to 0, may or may not mean anything. The Coyotes one week later played Altus to a scoreless tie at Altus. But the overwhelming defeat registered Friday in Vernon by the Lions over the Junior college Indians may auger a great deal. For undoubtedly Coach Baggett's young athletes were playing under cover, not showing all they had. Walker, fullback and the Lions' best offensive bet, rarely was called on to tote the shoatskin. It wasn't necessary. The other backs attended to that, and they romped gaily around, through and over the Junior collegians, winning 46 to 0. And the score would have been greater had not a swarm of substitutes been run in by the Vernon mentor at the beginning of the fourth period.

The Lions resorted to straight football, and ploughed through the Indians in relentless manner. Few end runs were attempted, but when this style of play was used the Vernon backs, behind a flailing interference, gained practically at will. These runs possibly will be stopped by the Coyote ends, Shaw and Howle, for there is no doubt but that McCallum's terminals are stronger than the Indian wingmen.

Line Must Get Jump.

The Coyote forward defense on the whole, unless it be at center, is stronger than the Junior college line, but it is doubtful if it is powerful enough to cope with the Vernon line. Baggett has taken a group of rangy, raw-boned youths and instilled into them the spirit to charge and charge furiously a half a jump ahead of the opposing forwards. And at times Friday that forward wall developed into well nigh a ten-man interference aided by the backfield when the play went to one side or the other. If McCallum's linemen can get the jump on the Vernon linemen, something which seems unlikely, there is a possibility of a Wichita Falls victory. But if McCallum's forwards don't get the jump and nail the back carrying the ball before he can get started good, the game will be lost and by a decisive tabulation, for once given a start there are three possibly four Vernon backs who can show a neat sidestep and stiff-arm to any would-be tackler in a broken field.

Usually in high school circles there is one star back, and if the opposing club can stop him the game is as good as already salted away. But the Vernon after guard boasts several who must be stopped. Walker, easily the leader, is a terrific line plunger and broken field runner. Gilhausen will be hard to catch in a broken field. Bourland probably was the offensive star of the game with the Junior college team. He tore of long runs and short, went through the line, and around its ends in reckless fashion. Then there is Ryan who may cause trouble, and Williams, too. Withers looks so much like Walker that he hardly can be pointed out from the sidelines when the two are lined up together. Withers performed more than creditably Friday, and Withers was one who got off for several pretty broken field dashes.

Always a Chance.

At ends, Wichita Falls has the edge. But the husky Crouch at the Vernon port wing may cause much trouble. In the backfield there is little need for comparison. With the exception possibly of Buck Steed, hustling little Coyote halfback, the Lions are superior. Steed's broken field running if he is given a chance to get loose may turn the tide, but the chances are slim. Unless the Coyotes improve greatly in the meantime their efforts at interference-running will not be sufficient. In the kicking department Vernon rates head and shoulders over the home crew. Walker possibly will punt as good if not better than any high school kicker in the conference. This athlete gets a wonderful loft under the ball, good distance and can direct his punts quite accurately.

The Coyotes have a chance. There is hope always. But the odds are against. Should Wichita Falls win, however, it will not be the first time the bucket has been kicked over. The greatest example of the underdog, fighting, snarling and scrapping its way from under a highly touted opponent is the case of Texas A. & M. and Texas university of the past 10 or 12 years. Rarely have the "Fighting Farmers" been doped as a match for the vaunted varsity elevens, yet A. & M. holds an edge in the percentage of wins over this number of years. Three seasons ago the Aggies were picked to be trampled on something like 50 to 0 in the great Thanksgiving classic by the Longhorns. That game resulted in a 0-0 tie. Year before last Texas had a three-touchdown better eleven, but Texas lost, 13 to 7. Last season Texas won on a fluke, 6 to 0. Yet before this game the Longhorns were doped as by far the better club. So it isn't the underdog who always loses, after all. The Coyotes may produce a similar slip-up on the old statistic sheet, who knows?

WELTER KING SUSPENDED

Refusal to Fight Shade Cause Mickey to Be Banned

Mickey Walker, welterweight champion, stands suspended by the New York state boxing commission because of his refusal to recognize the legitimate challenge of Dave Shade for a crack at Walker's title.

The New York commission has pulled some funny things in its day, such as the creation of the junior lightweight division and the crowning of Johnny Dundee champion of that division. But the commish is to be commended for its latest action. Barring Walker from New York state rings will cut down his future activities and will hit in a fighter's weakest spot, his manager's pocket. Walker's manager cannot collect the purses in any other state for Walker's appearance that he can in New York. Sooner or later the cry of the dollar will force him and Walker to agree to a battle with Shade.

Yankees Slated To Clean House During Winter

Failure to Win Flag This Season Presages Changes

PIRATES STAY INTACT

Other Teams Scheduled To Make General Shakeup

By NORMAN BROWN.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 11.—Failure of the New York Yankees to win their fourth consecutive flag in 1924, presages a general house cleaning in the camp of the Hugmen by the time another season rolls around, it is believed in baseball circles.

The disappointing record of the Cleveland Indians convinced Manager Speaker and President Barnard that some changes will have to be made in that club—and better pitching developed—if the team expects to retrieve its popularity with the fans next season.

Dave Bancroft, after a brilliant start last spring, saw his Braves slip into oblivion and realizes that he must rebuild the team to make it a winner.

Other clubs will be shaken up to a lesser or greater degree between now and next April.

But one team at least, in the big show, will take the field next spring just as it stepped off this fall.

That club is the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Barney Dreyfus has the best looking club—for 1925—in the game today. He needs one or possibly two good pitchers to help Yde, Kremer. That is all.

If he finds two pitchers to take their turns with the Western youngster and the oft-tried gent from the Pacific Coast, you can tie the National League flag on Barney's front door.

What a sweet looking ball club he had at the close of the last campaign. Yde and Kremer going great guns in the box. Glenn Wright a beauty at short. Hazen Cuyler in left field and Eddie Moore in right were two of the sweetest outfielders in the league when they are going. Both hit well, too—a necessary attribute for outfielders. Max Carey, despite his age, led the base stealers of the league while carrying the centerfield load.

Pie Traynor at third, Maranville at Second and Grimm at first and Schmitt and Gooch behind the plate completed the lineup.

Four pitchers were recalled at the close of their minor league season. They were given a chance in the closing days to show their stuff and will be given the acid test in the spring in the hope that from them two will step out, ready for regular duty.

The four are Carl Demarest, Robert Burns, Fred Sale and Dud Foulk. Demarest and Burns worked in the new York-Pennsylvania league and showed great promise. Sale, a college lad, pitched good ball for Wilson in the Virginia League. Foulk was in the American Associatino.

Football teams always reflect the ability of the coach. That's one reason for the success of teams coached by Glenn Warner, now with Leland Stanford Jr., university, Knute Rockne of Notre Dame, Perry Haughton, formerly of Harvard and now with Columbia, Alonzo Stagg of Chicago and Andy Smith of California.

Even in the big colleges there are off years in football material, but no matter what the material, these coaches reach the middle of the season with first class teams.

Glenn Warner made a wonderful record at Carlisle Indian school years ago. The great teams he turned out, and the subtlety of their trick plays against Harvard and other colleges, are part of our football tradition. All college coaches give him credit, for having originated more football plays than any other coach. He is a wizard at finding the weak points in other teams.

There is a story about Warner and Chick Meehan, coach at Syracuse. Two years ago, the night before the Pittsburgh-Syracuse game, Warner and Meehan met.

Pop Tells 'Em

Meehan said: "Pop, we had you well scouted this year, and you're not going to spring anything new on us."

"Why Chick," said Warner, "you didn't need to go to all that trouble. Here are the five plays we are going to use against you tomorrow."

And on the tablecloth Warner drew plans of five plays, explaining as he went along, very much to Meehan's amazement.

Those were exactly the plays Pittsburgh used, and Pittsburgh won. Warner had an exact estimate of the ability of each team, and knew he could win even without the element of surprise.

Another time the scouts from the University of Pennsylvania visited Pittsburgh and watched Warner's team in action. Warner saw and recognized them as they left the grounds, and followed until he was outside the fence. Then he buttonholed the leader and asked "Well, young man, have you got everything you want?"

Very much embarrassed, because football scouts are not supposed to be caught in the act, the scout thought he'd "kid out of it." "Almost, Mr. Warner," he said, "but there's one thing that worries us. We'd like to know how many plays you're going to use against our team?"

"I guess I can help you out," said Warner. "We're going to use just seven plays. Come in and sit down with me a few minutes and I'll diagram them for you." This Mr. Warner did, describing the plays in detail. The scouts went home, sure that Warner had amused himself by kidding them, and they failed to mention what he had told them in their report. After Pittsburgh won the game the scouts checked up and found that Warner's team had only used those seven plays.

Knute Rockne is one of the most successful coaches in the country. Rockne is an enthusiast. He loves all athletic sports. "If boxing and football were made compulsory in all our schools," he says, "we'd never need to worry over preparedness." Rockne's teams for the past five years have been the sensation of football. He played end himself at Notre Dame and has been coaching there since 1915, staying with his old college in spite of many offers of larger salaries in other places. He is also track and basketball coach, and professor of chemistry in the university.

Rockne Has Unique System.

Unlike other coaches, Rockne does most of his coaching in the spring. He has an entirely unique notion of football practice, and his theories have proved out in practice.

Early in the year he gets a squad of several hundred out to run on a field and quickly separates those that have sprinting ability from those that have none. Rockne doesn't care about size, weight or strength. The only matter of size that interests him is this: He likes players that have big hands. They can handle the ball well. Notre Dame's backfield last year didn't average 150 pounds per man. The line was in proportion. But this light team defeated the powerful West Point eleven on a Saturday, and smothered Princeton the Saturday following.

When Rockne brings his football men out in the fall it is only for what he calls "skull practice,' in other words, mental training in football strategy and action, the perfection of formations.

He does not believe in the old system of sending first and second elevens in to batter each other to pieces day after day.

Rockne says: "All our boys take good care of themselves, and all that battering is unnecessary."

Notre Dame never has a "hospital list." All of her players are ready at any time to jump into a game, except for occasional accidental injuries received in actual competition. And her substitutes play exactly like the men they have gone in for.

Yale, for instance, always has gone in with the idea of letting three or four men fight it out for positions on the team, and for hardening the team through a month of gruelling practice to bring it to its greatest efficiency for Princeton and Harvard. Yale always has a big hospital list. Rockne's teams are in top form when the season starts, and keep their form through the season. They hardly ever go through a scrimmage on the practice field.

Another unusual idea of Rockne's is that he prefers to bring out players who never played football in the prep schools. A novice, he says, is quick to learn his system of playing, but school veteran players "take a year to unlearn some other playing system"—Rockne has no use for prep school stars. Some of his greatest players, men like George Gipp and Paul Sastner hardly touched a football before going to Notre Dame.

Perry and Sam.

Percy Haughton made his reputation from the years 1909 to 1914 at Harvard, when through wonderful organization he developed Harvard was supreme on the gridiron, Mr. Haughton organized dozens of class teams, each with its own coach. As soon as a man showed ability he was shoved along in the machine and given a chance on one squad or another until he made the varsity if it was in him. In this way no player of ability was overlooked. This was a big change from the older days when only Back Bay and colonial ancestry counted. Haughton cared nothing for society claims. A banker's son could play if he had the stuff, otherwise he went out. There were no more fraternity pulls in use. On the playing field Haughton handled all details. He was the absolute boss, a stickler for discipline, and careless of popularity. No player ever received any special privileges or was permitted to go against instructions.

Sam Felton, the great old time Harvard kicker, tells a story on himself. Sam was a great kicker, but had a hard time making the team, as there were many good punters. At last Felton got his chance. In his first game Haughton instructed him. "Young man," said Haughton, "I don't want you to punt over 35 yards."

In the excitement of the play Felton couldn't resist the temptation to use his own judgment on one kick and boot the ball as hard as he could—a 70-yard punt. Five minutes later he did it again. On looking around he was surprised to see his substitute come on the field. Reaching the bench he said to Haughton: "Mr. Coach, what's the matter? I never kicked better in my life."

"Go to the locker room and take off your suit, and keep it off until I tell you to use it again," said Haughton, turning away.

Two weeks later, Haughton told Felton to come out for practice. Taking him to the corner of the field he asked if Felton knew what 35 yards measured. Felton said he did.

"You didn't know it in the last game," said Haughton. "If you know it now you can take your place in the squad. Next time you disobey instructions will be your last in a football suit."

"And after that if Haughton had told me to punt four yards I would have punted four, and not a yard more," said Felton years afterwards.

Smith a Clean Coach.

Percy Haughton is at Columbia because Columbia is anxious to get back the football position she held twenty-two years ago, in the days of Bill Morley and Tom Thorpe.

Alonzo Stagg of Chicago was a great football player at Yale in the early days of the game. He is now the oldest college football coach in point of service, having coached for 36 years. At Yale he was end on the football team, pitcher on the baseball nine and a track athlete. He is still active, but prefers golf for his own exercise. He is a member of the Chicago faculty. Stagg's players have a great affection for "The Old Man," which is the real secret of the way they battle through the season. They wouldn't disappoint him for the world. The human side is everything to Stagg. He never drives his men like cattle, never uses sarcasm or abuse. Before a game he sometimes talks to the team and says he is getting old and can't stand disappointments and he knows they can win for Chicago anyway, and then concentrates on the few for the season.

Gehrke's Return To Harvard Grid Causes Rejoicing

Crimson Followers Expect Halcyon Days Once More

JACK HAMMOND BACK

Star Goal Kicker and Good Punter May Turn Tide

The return to Harvard's grid squad, after an absence of a year, of Howard Gehrke, and the punting of Jack Hammond has given rise in the hearts of Harvard folk to the hope that the Crimson is about to return to the halcyon days again.

By the halcyon days are meant those glorious fall afternoons when Charley Brickley was booting Yale into submission or when Eddie Mahan was humbling Princeton with his powerful toe.

And to the grayhaired men of today they may also mean the falls of 1889 and 1890 when Trafford was humbling the Tiger and Cornell with his trusty toe.

Gehrke gave every indication of becoming a grid great two years ago only to find himself ineligible for football a year ago, when Harvard needed him. He had already won a name for himself as a kicker. His toe was counted on to keep the Crimson line guarded and turn defeat into victory as other men of the boot have done for Harvard.

his kicking doesn't seem to have suffered in the year's lay-off. His punting and drop-kicking so far this season have come up to expectation. He will devote his efforts mainly to drop and placement kicking, however.

Jack Hammond is destined to do most of the punting. Hammond, the only man in Harvard now who boasts of varsity letters in three major sports is getting distance in his kicking that brings joy to Harvard fans.

Kickers Have Made History

Harvard's grid history is sprinkled with great kickers. The greatest kicking exhibition in the career of the Crimson on the grid was that of Charley Brickley against Yale in 1913.

Harvard defeated Yale 15 to 5 that year, due to Charley's educated toe.

Princeton felt the wrath of Brickley's toe two years. In the game of 1912 Charley booted a placement from the 47-yard line and the following year kicked a 23-yard placement and two drop kicks.

But long before Brickley's time Trafford had given Harvard some brilliant kicking. In 1889 Trafford drop kicked a goal against Princeton from the 45-yard line. That same year he dropped one over the bar against the University of Pennsylvania at 40 yards. The following year against Cornell Trafford made a record that Eckersall of Chicago and Brickley barely equalled. The old Crimson star kicked two goals from the 35-yard line and three from the 30-yard line. That year he dropped another one over the bar from the 30-yard line against Penn.

The younger element of college grid followers still recall Horween's 35-yard drop kick that beat Princeton in 1916, and Eddie Mahan's 41-yard placement kick against the Tiger eleven in 1915.

And the List Continues

Some of the other great booters who have won the Crimson and their feats are herewith recorded also.

Burnett, playing against the University of Pennsylvania in 1898, booted a placement from the 48-yard marker.

Marshall's 45-yard drop against Yale in 1901 is among the long kicks in the game's history.

Brewers' two goals from the 35-yard line against Cornell in 1895-1896 were the high spots of those clashes.

Cochran's boot against Dartmouth, Brown's against Cornell in '96, Kennard's 30-yard boot that beat Yale in 1908, Daly's against Dartmouth in 1890, Lewis' against Dartmouth in 1910, are other kicking feats that have made Harvard's halls, stands and campus agog in by-gone years.

RESOLUTE TO RACE AGAIN

If Lipton Tries Comeback Ten-Year-Old Vessel to Defend Cup

If Sir Thomas Lipton does seek again in 1925 to wrest the yachting cup America has held for over 50 years the schooner Resolute, victor over Sir Thomas's challenger, Shamrock IV, four years ago, will defend the cup. This despite the fact that the Resolute is now ten years old and Sir Thomas' challenging craft will be a new one—Shamrock V.

Members of the New York Yacht club, and men interested in the building of the Resolute, believe that the sailing yacht is still in perfect shape. She has not been allowed to deteriorate while laying at the Herreshoff yards at Bristol, R. I., where she has remained since successfully defending the cup four years ago.

The Resolute won the right to defend the cup four years ago in a series of elimination races with the Vanitie. You'll recall that three yachts—the Defiance being the other one—were built, from which the defending boat was to be selected. The Defiance was not a success. The Resolute and Vanitie were pitted against each other in a series of races and each won an equal number. The skill with which the crew of the Resolute handled her caused the committee to select her in preference to the other. The Vanitie has been kept ship-shape also, however, and another series of contests may be staged between the two before the next cup races, should Sir Tom deliver his challenge.

All-Wichita Falls Golf Tournament Starts Saturday

Attention of Wichita Falls golfdom tourns this week to preparations for the first annual all-city tournament the first of a two-day qualifying period starting next Saturday on the Country club course.

Nearly 150 golfers are expected to enter the tourney, all shooting from scratch for places in the championship clashes which will be divided into four flights, 16 players to a flight.

Entrance fee of one dollar will be charged each, and with this money prizes for the victors and runner-ups are to be purchased. No entries will be received until Saturday.

The Kruger cup tourney at the Country club has been wound up, and the course is ready for action. Morris Norton with a handicap of four defeated T. P. Duncan, Jr., handicap 14, in the final round over 18 holes, one up. Norton had defeated Roscoe Davis in the semi-finals, the latter having a handicap of 12, 2 and 1. Duncan won over L. T. Burns, four handicap, 2 and 1.

The big tournament officials consist of George Repny and T. P. Adams of the Country club, and George Mobley and Jack Hale of the Municipal club. Any details in regard to the competition which may be desired by golfers can be obtained from these men.

BELMONT KEEPS KUMMER

Winning Jockey Offered Contract Around $15,000

The turf followers are interested in the recent announcement that Clarance Kummer, the intrepid jockey who rode August Belmont's Ladkin to victory in the second international race a while ago, will ride all Major Belmont's important mounts next season.

Belmont offered the rider a fat contract for a year soon after the little fellow's winning race. The price stipulated in the contract is said to be enough to make Krummer the second highest paid jockey on the American turf. It is in the neighborhood of $15,000 for the season.

Kummer's best work, perhaps, was on Man O' War. Close students of racing are still discussing the skill with which he handled the great thoroughbred.

Clarence has been riding since 1916. He is now 24.

WORLD SERIES A SUCCESS?

Life on One Young Baseball Player Ruined.

The world's series of 1924 can be called a success. The jolly magnates got their pile out of it and the life of a promising young ball player has been ruined. We don't know who furnished the most pathetic figure, the youth, who fell a victim to the lure of a few dollars, or the men who calling themselves sportsmen and business men, permitted greed, commercialism and personal desire to create the present situation.

Mother Knows What Gas Service Saves

Have you ever given a minute or two to thinking of natural gas as a time-saver?

When mother built the fire in the coal range, it took from fifteen minutes to half an hour to get a fire hot enough to cook with, and many a time the fire got stubborn and belched most of the smoke into the kitchen. Remember it?

When Dad Failed

Sometimes dad failed to have the kindling ready. Then he went out and chopped it before he could get the fire going. Most of you women know how agreeable a man is who has to work before he gets a cup of coffee, too.

Maybe once a week mother had to clean up that range. Nice job too. Soot and ashes over the kitchen, and dirty hands and dirty face. Pots and pans too. My, how dirty a skillit can get over a coal fire!

Yes, natural gas has been a great time saver as well as money saver for the woman of the house. She is sure to appreciate what good gas service means!

DALLAS, TEXAS

Washington Attributes Victory To Breaks of Game

World's Champs Disintegrate For Winter Months

ALL GLAD WALT WON

Johnson, Judge, Mogridge, Schacht, and Altrock Barnstorm.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11. — The world's champions of 1924, as a baseball team, disbanded today, leaving their record engraved in the permanent history of the sport and in the memories of its followers.

Ceremonies marking the disintegration which brought Washington her first league and series pennant, were informally staged today in the local club house. They consisted in the simple handshakes, a slap on the shoulder and "see you next spring," as most members departed by train and automobile for their serveral homes, for the scenes of winter activities.

Prior to leave-taking, Manager "Bucky" Harris appeared with a fistfull of checks marking the winners' split of the world series "take." There was 24 checks, each for $5,959.64, drawn to the 22 active members of the Senators, with two additional checks made out to Nick Altrock and Mike Martin, the club trainers, and commanders of what in the army would be the morale section.

The players themselves chipped in for Wade Lefler, for Frank Baxter, the lame bat boy, and the ground keeping squad, and the Washington club wired a bonus of $1,000 to Wid Matthews, who was sent to Sacramento in mid-season as part of the $50,000 deal which brought McNeely here. President Clark Griffith declared as he signed the check that the "dividends on that investment were fat enough to justify a generous view of the situation."

Uncle Sam, as a silent partner in the enterprise, will receive $109,310.40 through the internal revenue imposts. An official statement from the treasury today placed the total admissions at $1,093,104, upon which a tax of 10 per cent will be levied.

All of 'Em Modest

There was little to suggest the triumphant contestants of a season's battle in the little group at American League park today.

Weary to the final degree, and sapped by the strain of yesterday's 12-baseball and any remotely related topic from subjects fit to be discussed.

For the most part they stood silent waiting while attendants cleaned their lockers and packed the uniforms and other personal belongings in waiting trunks. Then a trip to the treasurers' office for a final "o k" on the accounts and one-by-one the group departed.

Reticent as they were to discuss the series, each player denied having any particular part in the victory, ascribing it generally to "the bunch," or Harris' leadership, and in some cases to "the breaks" of the game. McNeely, to whom is attributed the decisive hit of the final game, dismissed queries today with the assertion that "it was a lucky bounce" that did it. The only unanimity was in expressions of satisfaction that Johnson had come through to victory.

"Fed Up" on Baseball

Piles of telegrams on the clubhouse desks testified to the intense interest held throughout the country. Scores of messages were addressed to individual players by persons, clubs, chambers of commerce and other organizations, most of whom were utterly unknown to the recipients. But hundreds came to the Washington club, attesting the writers' joy over the outcome. Similar messages deluged the White House, some suggesting that the team be invited to dinner there. Although most of the team insisted they were "fed up" on baseball for months to come, several already have started on exhibitions tours of varying length. Manager Harris left tonight for New Haven, where he and "Goose" Goslin are to participate in a game. Harris will return to Washington for the winter while Goslin will proceed to Salem, N. J., his home town.

Walter Johnson, Joe Judge, George Mogridge, Al Schacht, and Nick Altrock left Friday night to join a team of professionals for an authorized barnstorming trip, while Sam Rice also hiked off right after the title had been won for Canada, where he will join an European tour with the members of the Giants and White Sox. Muddy Ruel will also make this trip.

Marberry to Texas

Among those who left tonight were Tom Taylor, Fred Marberry, Wade Lefler, Bennie Tate, Joe Martina, Mule Shirley and Harry Leibold. Taylor was headed for Memphis, where he says he will give his injured hand time to heal before looking around for a winter job. Marberry is now on his way to Streetman, Texas, which proudly claims him. He says he is going to try to improve his curve ball before rejoining the Nats next year.

Lefler, a member of the North Carolina bar, expects to hang out his shingle at Winston-Salem; Martina will again become an oyster merchant at his home in New Orleans; Leibold will again "wrack 'em up" in his billiard parlor in Detroit, while Tate has nothing in mind at present to occupy his spare time at Westfrankfort, Ills. Shirley, the other Nats who deserted the capital yesterday, was bound for Snowhill, N. C., and he expects to kill time, at least until the snow flies, watching the college football games in the sunny south.

Paul Zaniser, Curley Ogden, Earl Earl McNeely, and Tom Zachary will stick around the capital for a few days longer.

PLAN CHARITIES DRIVE

Welfare Workers Committee to Have Meeting Monday

Dates and details of the 1924 united charities drive of this city may be decided on at a meeting of the directors scheduled to be held today. At a meeting last week it was decided that another should be held Monday and it is expected that the drive for funds for the coming year will be definitely settled on.

PERSPIRE GAL. AND 1-2

Landis "Worked" While He Watched Senators Win the Series.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Tribute was paid to Walter Johnson today by Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, czar of organized baseball, during a flying visit to the supreme court this morning enroute to the railroad station.

"Walter Johnson never had a faster ball in years gone by," Judge Landis said. "He had perfect control and could put it over the plate within an inch of where he wanted it to go.

"I want to go on record as saying that yesterday's struggle was a perfect game not only from the viewpoint of the spectators in the stands, but also from an artistic point of view. I never had seen anything like it before and probably never will again. I regard it as the greatest game ever played.

"When I got back to my room in the hotel after the tense excitement of the three-hours play was over I had a gallon and a half of water wrung out of my undershirt."

BEARCATS TIE HILL BILLIES

Lines Offer Strong Resistance in Scoreless Contest.

HUNTSVILLE, Texas, Oct. 11. — Sam Houston Normal School Bearcats, Huntsville, and Daniel Baker's Hill Billies, Brownwood, today fought to a scoreless tie in the first appearance of the Hill Billies on Pritchett field.

Both lines offered stout resistance. Few passes were attempted and only one was completed by either team. During the third period with the ball on Sam Houston's 18-yard line Daniel Baker attempted a pass which Tidmore intercepted. It was the Hill Billies' best chance of scoring. A Sam Houston pass on the Hill Billies' 18-yard line failed in the fourth period and the Bearcats' last chance of scoring was lost.

The Bearcats were weakened by the absence of Wood, Mayfield and Sandlin who were injured in the Rice Institute game. The Hill Billies were slowed down by their long journey.

MAY GET NEW JAIL

Commissioner May Consider County's Lock-up Monday

Plans for the erection of a new or at least enlargement of the present county jail may be taken up tomorrow when the county commissioners court meets for its regualr weekly session. The matter has been under discussion for some time, but recently sentiment has developed to the point where it is expected action will be taken to improve the jail facilities here.

The present jail, badly overcrowded and none too substantial has been in constant need of repairs for several years. Furthermore, wholesale escape of prisoners has been prevented more than once only by the constant vigilance of the jailers.

A new and modern addition to the existing structure in the rear of the court house is regarded as the most likely solution of the problem, and the commissioners, it is understood, will consider such an enlargement today.

ADVENTISTS CELEBRATE HERE

Golden Jubilee of Church is Observed by Local Congregation.

To celebrate their jubilee of foreign missions, which started 50 years ago with the start for Europe of Rev. J. N. Andrews, Seventh-Day Adventists of this city met Saturday at the labor temple to listen to a discourse by their pastor, Rev. C. U. Taylor. Last night a business meeting was called and trustees appointed to look into the matter of securing quarters for a regular church.

In his address yesterday the pastor went into some detail on the remarkable growth the religion had enjoyed in the last 50 years. He related that from its origin in 1831 the advent message has been accepted by 230,000 persons; that the faith has 14,389 workers in 115 countries and that it operates 51 publishing houses which are spreading the message in 154 periodicals in 114 different languages.

GAS BUSINESS RUSHING

New Gulf Station Swamped as it Opens Saturday

Three traffic cops and 50 station men were required yesterday to handle the crowds which swarmed to the new Gulf filling station opened at Brook and Eighth streets. A call for help was sent to the police station early in the day, and from then on to the close at least one officer was on the grounds. Three were there during the heaviest rush hours.

At 5 o'clock yesterday Gulf officials here stated that they had already sold approximately 10,000 gallons and that they expected to dispose of 12,000 more before the station closed for the night. A one-gallon can of motor oil was given free with each five gallon purchase of gasoline.

Several experts in the handling of such crowds were brought here from out of town especially for the opening day.

HOLD IT! WHEN WORLD'S SERIES WILD HEAVE ALMOST MEANT RUN

Plenty of action in this photo from the fourth game of the world's series. Before the play shown McNeely, Washington outfielder, was on second by virtue of his own double. Then Manager Harris flied to Wilson, Giant centerfielder. McNeely waited for the catch, then lit out for third base. Wilson's throw was wild and but for the backing up of Shortstop Jackson (at left) McNeely might have made home on the peg. In the photo McNeely has slid into the bag. Third baseman Lindstrom is holding one foot on the base and turning to take Jackson's throw. The umpire is Bill Dineen. The player in the center is coaching.

Lindtsrom Made Star By World's Series Playing

NATS MUST REBUILD

BY GEORGE CHADWICK

Special Correspondent of the Record News.

Copyright 1924 by the Consolidated Press Association.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—A world series makes some ball players and helps to send some to obscurity. In this year's series no young player so effectually dotted his name on the map as the Chicago school boy, Fred Lindstrom, who took the place of Heine Groh at third base for the Giants and eliminated Groh from further consideration as a Giant regular.

If Washington had had an infielder of Lindstrom's caliber to throw into the breach when Peckinpaugh was hurt the first time, the series never would have gone seven games. Miller essayed to fill third base when Bluege was moved to short and his showing was so indifferent that he came near losing the series for the Senators. Miller will never make a third baseman for a major league club. He is too slow, too tied up, too much in his own way to handle things at the hot corner.

Nats Infield Lacks Speed

With Peckinpaugh in the game Washington had the reputation of having the fastest infield in baseball. But it will have to get some speed and hitting into the infield if it is to come back and fight the American league to a stand still. Bluege did not convince anyone that he ever would be much better than he was in the series this year. Peck is aging. Harris is still good—very, very good, but Judge will not last forever and is nearing the slowing up time.

Goslin to Front

In the Washington outfield, Goslin was superior to Rice and McNeely, in fact superior to all of the outfielders. McNeely probably will stick along with the Senators because of the occasional good things which he showed, including that hit that brought in the winning run in the deciding game of the series. But McNeely is not the heavy hitting outfielder that Washington really needs. Goslin carried himself into the front row of outfielders of all time. He not only is a batter who is immeasurably better than he was, but he is so much better an outfilder than when he first began that he is one of the finest assets of the club. Rice failed to come up to the mark expected of him in the series. Perhaps it was only a temporary lapse such as Jack Murray once had in a world series, playing for the Giants. Certainly Rice was not the sensation many believed he would be.

Ruel Ran Team

Behind the bat, Ruel was a wonderfully excellent catcher who would have shown immeasurably better if he had been able to hit any in the first six games. True in the final inning it was his two-bagger that started the fire works after Gowdy, his rival, had had a chance to retire him on his high foul. But on the series as a whole Gowdy did not put it over on him in fielding. Moreover, Gowdy took a lot of coaching from his boss, while Ruel was showing his ingenuity in running the Washington game.

Walter Johnson is not through as a pitcher unless he wants to be and it did not take his great work in the deciding game of the series to prove it. He is through however, as one of the unbeatables of a major league. He will be able to pitch as well another year as he did this year in a regular major league season, but he will never be successful in starting world series games unless he is able to rectify his style so as not to waste so many valuable pitching motions. He threw twice the number of balls that were needed in the two games he lost. No pitcher can be prodigal with his arm in a world series with any rational hope of success.

Zachary Best Pitcher

George Mogridge gave the grittiest exhibition of the series but Mogridge is beyond the limit where he can be depended upon to do much except under certain conditions. Zachary was the best pitcher that Washington produced. And Marberry may amount to something but the Senators will have to go far and reach out on both sides to find pitchers to carry them through another year.

The Giants have their infield problem solved for next season since Lindstrom has come to the front so strongly but they will have to patch their outfield again. The world series did not impress any one with the fact that Wilson will ever be any better than he was in the series. Meusel seems to have almost slipped his major league cable and when the next season begins, the Giants will need two high class men for their positions.

Nehf pitched a fine first game for the Giants and a fine one on his second start, with an injured hand, although he was beaten. Bentley was as uncertain in the series as he has been since he came to the Giants. Both pitchers probably will be kept but neither will be able to stand much every day work. Of the New York rights and errors, not one looks like a fine, stable, every-day winning pitcher. Yet McGraw may worry along with them for another year with that magnificent young infield to help him out.

BIG DIRIGIBLE TO SAIL

ZR-3 Off Tomorrow Over The Atlantic For America.

By The Associated Press

FREDERICHSHAFEN, Germany, Oct. 11.—Dr. Hugo Eckener, Zepplin director in charge of the dirigible ZR-3, upon the receipt of weather reports which indicated that the North Atlantic was clearing, announced that the start of the flight from Friederichshafen to Lake Hurt, N. J., would be made tomorrow morning at 6 o'clock, and that the northern route as originally planned, would be followed.

WORLD'S SERIES ACTION—SAFE AT HOME!

WHEN RYAN HIT SECOND PITCHER-HOMER IN HISTORY

When "Rosy" Ryan, Giant pitcher, slammed out his home run in the fourth inning of the third game of the world's series he made history. For his was the first circuit clout ever made by a National league pitcher in the annual classic and the second by any hurler. Jim Bagby made the first one while pitching for Cleveland in the 1920 series against Brooklyn.

Man With Rifle Loitering at ZR-3 Held For Threat

FRIEDERICHSHAFEN, Germany, Oct. 11.—The police this afternoon detained an unidentified man dressed in hunting clothes and carrying a rifle, who was found loitering around the ZR-3's hangar. He had announced his determination to get to the United States aboard the dirigible or, failing this, to shoot Dr. Hugo Eckener, director of the Zepplin company in charge of the airship. The police declined to reveal the man's name but they said he is a German.

SAILSBURY TRIAL MONDAY

Charged With Murder of H. D. Jobe, City Fireman Here.

Faced with a formal charge of murder, the result of a flailing blow at the head of his victim, L. C. Salisbury of Clay county goes to trial Monday for the death of H. D. Jobe. The case will be called before Judge Paul Donald in Henrietta and prospects are that no delay will be encountered in carrying it to a finish.

Jobe, who was a city fireman stationed at the central station, was shot and fatally wounded on the night of Oct 1. He and a girl companion had been accosted by Salisbury as they sat in their car on a country road near the latter's home in Clay county. Salisbury, claiming to carry a deputy sheriff's commission, sought to put them under arrest and when resistance was offered struck Jobe in the head with his gun. The weapon was accidentally discharged, inflicting a head wound from which Jobe died in the general hospital two days later.

Salisbury has been under bond since his indictment about 10 days ago,

A large number of Wichitans will go to Henrietta tomorrow to attend the hearing.

JOIN NATIONAL BOARD

Local Realtors Affiliate With Real Estate Association

A unanimous decision to affiliate itself with the National Real Estate Association was reached Saturday at the regular bi-monthly meeting, held at the Kemp by the Wichita Falls Realty Board. The local organization will subscribe to the code of ethics submitted by the national association and will thus be entitled to the benefits accruing from its connection with the nation-wide board.

Subscribing to the national code of ethics, entitles Wichita Falls real estate men to make use of the term "realtor," which is copyrighted and can be used only by accredited members of the organization. As explained yesterday, the term identifies a realtor as one whose business methods are conducted in accordance with the accepted standards of fairness and service. Violations of any provision of the code subjects a member to prompt expulsion from both the local and national boards.

Several other meetings relating to the local association were brought up for discussion at the meeting.

Reo Busses Bring Ft. Worth Men Up For Short Visit

Business Leaders of Tarrant County at Local Banquet.

DINNER AT THE KEMP

A group of about 40 Fort Worth business men, members of the chamber of commerce and water irrigation board there visited Wichita Falls yesterday and were entertained with a banquet at the Kemp hotel dining room last night by the chamber of commerce here and D. L. Fritz of this city.

The recent vote of Fort Worth to back the water project there, similar in most respects to that which has been put across here was the principal topic discussed at the meeting, and the Fort Worth men were frank in their admiration of the results of irrigation as shown them on their short trip here.

Cline Presides

Walter Cline served as toastmaster and called on several of the visitors to make short talks, among them being W. E. Austin, and Ireland Hampton of Fort Worth. Both paid a tribute to Wichita Falls and its leaders, and Mr. Austin called especial attention to J. A. Kemp, stating that "he had put a dream into a reality." Mr. Hampton, secretary of the Fort Worth chamber of commerce declared that since his last visit to Wichita Falls, some years back, "Faith has worked wonders here. Wichita Falls is a real son of the west. You have built for stability and you have built with a vision for the future. Through it all there is evidence of hard work and capable and efficient leadership. Without that and the faith that is everywhere manifested it would have been impossible for you to build the fair city that we have the honor to have visited tonight."

Mr. Cline, after calling on Austin and Mr. Hampton, requested Mr. Kemp to stand, introducing him to those present as the "dad of all irrigation in the southwest." A remarkable ovation was paid Mr. Kemp when the entire assembly rose and applauded his introduction.

In speaking, Mr. Kemp with characteristic modesty disclaimed credit for the irrigation project here, declaring that it would never have been possible if it had not been for the splendid cooperation he has received here from the citizenship of Wichita Falls. He declared "I think it behooves the citizenship of Fort Worth to impound every drop of water that flows down the Trinity. A city is built with water; water does it all, beautifies, enriches and makes it liveable."

Come in Busses

The trip to Wichita Falls was made in three large Reo busses, to be operated by the Northwest Texas Transportation company. These busses will be put into regular service between Fort Worth and Bellevue, Clay county, where transfer will be made to smaller cars capable of better negotiating Clay county roads.

The busses on the streets of Wichita Falls last night attracted a great deal of attention, their large yellow bodies making them very conspicuous.

Those present at the banquet were: Ireland Hampton, W. T. Ladd, Lon Abbott, W. A. Grimes, R. A. Clapper, Grover Moore, W. N. Hickley, W. H. Beck, Park Weaver, W. C. Forbess, Claude H. Rogers, Emmet Moore, C. C. Musick, Thomas E. Henderson, Ernest Neeland, Stuart Shirley; Francis Bluerudge; Frank Boggeman, Kenneth Sanders, H. Robey, B. M. Hightower, J. C. Griffith, H. L. Hunter, Y. H. Young, O. B. McDonald, C. G. Green, R. C. Horner, R. E. Wagner, W. C. Wylie, D. A. Vis, all of Fort Worth.

W. D. Cline, J. H. Allison, Ray Nelson, D. L. Fritz, J. T. Gant, J. S. Bridwell, E. S. Goodner, Jerry Moffett, J. E. H. Railey, all of Wichita Falls.

TECH CLUBS MEETS TUESDAY

Will Resume Sessions at Glass Factory; Lunch to Be Served

Resuming its regular meetings after a period of summer inactivity, the Wichita Falls Technical club will meet Tuesday night at the Wichita Falls Window Glass factory for its first fall session. The meeting starts at 6 o'clock.

A trip through the plant under the guidance of Manager Fox will be one of the principal features of the evening. All the steps in the manufacture of glass will be explained and other information provided as to the different kinds of glass, its uses and its peculiarities. The factory is now running full time, is some six months behind on orders and is making shipments as far east as New York and as far west as San Francisco.

Following the inspection, a picnic luncheon will be served at the factory by the Altar Guild of the Episcopal church.

TENTH'S FUTURE BRIGHT

That Street Probably Will Be One of Business Activity.

Tenth Street, which not very long ago was only a residential street, has now become one of the business streets of Wichita Falls. Commencing at the railroad tracks, business establishments extend as far as Travis. Almost every kind of business is represented on this street. It is still out of the high rent district, but the business section is growing in this direction and in the future, Tenth may be one of the best business sections in the city.

UNMASK KLAN IN TEXAS, AIM OF LATEST BILL

Luke Mankin Drafts a Measure to Reveal Their Identity

SAYS IT IS NEEDED

Would Force All Lodge Lists to be Made Public Records

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 11.—The platform demand of the republican party for the passage of a law requiring the registration of all secret organizations is receiving consideration even at this time from men who will be lawmakers in the next session of the state legislature. This fact became known at the capitol today, when Hon. Luke Mankin of Georgetown made public a bill which he will introduce in the next session of the state legislature.

Must Destroy Secrecy.

He said, "The party platform demands the enactment of legislation which will destroy the secrecy of the klan and as a means of making public the fact of membership in this order it contemplates the passage of legislation which would require the secretary or like officer of all secret societies to file with the county clerk, under oath, a statement of the membership in the order. Like legislation has been passed in other states, and general information is that efforts have been made in some places to avoid compliance with the statute by disposing of local officers who could be required to file the list of members and by conducting the affairs of the order from a general headquarters in some other state. The bill which has been prepared and which I will introduce will successfully carry out the purpose of the platform and its terms cannot be evaded in the manner that statutes in other states on this matter have been rendered futile."

Will Serve the Purpose.

Mr. Mankin, who has been nominated to represent the 86th district, composed of Williamson and Burnet counties, in the next legislature, said further: "My proposed bill is not in what was contemplated by the platform, but it is believed by parties interested and those to whom the bill has been submitted to accomplish the purpose of the legislation demanded in the platform on this subject, and at the same time it is believed that it will not be subject to the same attempted evasions as the statute suggested in the platform."

The bill will require that a statement be made under oath by each voter at the time of paying his poll tax or securing his exemption certificate as to what orders and lodges he is a member, and will also require a statement as to his party affiliations and the ticket which he supported in the last preceding general election. This last feature has been added to the bill with the object of making party voting a matter of record and placing it upon a plane which will enable the party to confer proper party discipline, it was pointed out.

Mr. Mankin is a lawyer, and his home is in Georgetown, the scene of the trial of the flogging cases which perhaps had as much to do with the shaping of political thought in Texas this year as anything which has occurred in this state in the past quarter of a century.

Old World Keeps Wary Eye on U.S. As Nov. 4 Looms

What is Attitude of Candidates on All Foreign Issues?

SPEECHES ARE READ

England, Germany And France Interested In The Outcome

By MAXIMILAN HARDEN
Germany's Foremost Publicist
Special Radio Dispatch, Copyright, 1924, by the Consolidated Press Association

(Interest in the presidential election is seemingly as keen in Europe as it is up to the present in the United States. Public men of the old world scan the speeches of the candidates for crumbs of comfort for the hungry old world. Will America stay aloof from Europe? Maximilian Harden says a new world order is coming and America cannot prevent it by staying away, although it can add to its success by joining in it).

BERLIN, Oct. 11.—Generally Europe hears from the speeches of candidates for the presidency of the United States only what concerns Europe. Consequently the old continent easily overestimates the importance of its affairs in the election. Nevertheless it has the right to put to the politicians certain questions on the answers to which it has no influence, though its fate be partly dependent thereon.

Is the alternative before the United States, as John W. Davis is supposed to have said at Albany, of ensuring world peace by conference or by arming on land and sea and in the air so tremendous that she would have nothing to fear from any possible coalition?

Conference No Good

In this case the United States would have the choice between two unattainable aims. Conferences can be as uneventful, despite good will and beautiful words, as the recent meeting in Berlin called by the proud name of "peace conference" or as fruitful as that at Washington. Conferences and the most fireproof league of nations protocol can just as little ensure permanent peace as the greatest armaments and the greatest power can protect it from possible future coalitions and from chemico-technical deviltries.

Despite the Geneva protocol, a Russo-German-Italian, or perhaps east Asiatic coalition might threaten France and its dependents, Poland and Roumania. This is just as possible as an air attack on the Pacific coast of America which might have conscription and a hurriedly built navy after Wilhem's example.

Such an America is scarcely safer today than the America whose efficiency in the last war was revealed even to those who were blind, previously.

Is the question asked from the republican camp more correct? It was said in Ohio that the November elections would decide whether the American people would preserve unhindered its self determination or whether foreign influence would open the flood gates. Albany appeals to profit; Ohio to ethics.

No Power a Success

It is not known what great power or Molochor Leviathan league is capable of governing tyranically the United States, her liberty, religion, education, administration, trade, customs, tariff, immigration laws, etc. But everybody knows that from Eden to The Hague disarmament conference, from Socrates to Ghandi, every attempt to ennoble humanity has stranded on the fear of deteriorating individual or national determination.

Insulted and robbed persons, who, instead of knocking down their assailants must eppeal to a judge, village, town or federal state which must no longer resort to arms and may find compensation only through the law, all declare their liberty curtailed and exposed to foreign influence. And, not without reason, for the very feeling of human solidarity is a chain curtailing liberty which everybody depending upon himself alone knows as the greatest joy. But is not individuality in solidarity the noble purport of all human history?

Now at last, thousands of years after Budha's and Christ's teachings, their recent terrible experiences have caused even the big powers to decide their readiness to adjust international actions, not according to the relatively narrow compass of their own interests but rather to accept the verdict of the power set up by the community of nations, in reality a super nation standing above party strife and watching the real values of human culture. This power, like others, may be misused, but not so easily as a power of similar functions set up by popes. Those rejecting it because of the possibilities of misuse would have to fight democracy because it encourages demagogics; against prohibition because it encourages alcohol speculation.

New ideals are arising in civilization. The question is whether America and the new world will remain apart in frosty mistrust from the attempt at a new world order, or whether her material power and youthful ideas shall add to its success. It seems to the writer that the question is only to be put this way. Then it would be plain that already the first ship which brought American warriors over the Atlantic was even then giving the answer.

Mrs. Cal Still Young; Fall Weddings Roll In; Sports Short of Cash

That's Resume This Week of Society Life In Nation's Capital.

By JEAN JARVIS
Special Correspondent Record-News
Copyright 1924 by The Consolidated Press Association

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11. — Looking at the first lady, smartly dressed in a white one-piece sports model in georgette topped by an attractive white hat, carrying a swathed veil which surrounded the crown and then dropped off the narrow brim only to be carried around the throat and left to float over the shoulder in a sash end, you'd never in all the world guess that 19 years had passed since she took her bridal vows.

Both the president and Mrs. Coolidge looked extraordinarily well and happy when they boarded the Mayflower with the little group of friends and set off for the short week-end cruise which was the only recognition they accorded their 19th marriage anniversary. It was much their way of doing things — just having a few friends they liked. No fuss and feathers; no publicity; no prearrangements.

Miss Randolph Leaves

The only thing that surprises me is that Miss Randolph, Mrs. Coolidge's great friend and "confidential secretary" did not stay over for the little celebration. Miss Randolph is off on her holiday, a trip deferred until Mrs. Stearns got back from her prolonged stay in Boston.

Just now, Washington is all taken up with the fall weddings and the gossip incident thereto. From a general survey of the situation I should say it is rather fashionable nowadays to profess lack of cash. Take the case of the wedding of Louise Todd and S. Parker Gilbert at Louisville, Kentucky. Every other person you met would begin explaining why he did not make the trip. It was a wonderful wedding. The smartest, most influential set of men and women from all sections of the country were personally interested in the bride and bridegroom. The reassembling of a company including Mr. and Mrs. J. F. A. Cecil (Cornelia Vanderbilt) Mr. and Mrs. Richard Porter Davidson (Elizabeth Hanna) Garrard Winston, under secretary of state, Princess Bertha Cantacuzene, Captain Lew Wallace, Jr., and I don't know who else would be attraction sufficient to make any expenditure excusable. However it did not work out that way. One man who is going to get married soon just came down to brasstacks without a quibble.

Had To Miss It

"Simply couldn't be done. The trip would cost not a penny under $800," he said. "Simply did not have that much to spend. Sorry to miss the 'party' but there was nothing else to do."

Always very individual in her attire, Louise Todd's wedding toggery, I hear, was simply marvelous from start to finish. I'd not be a bit surprised to discover that the very unusual type of head dress she wore would "start a fashion."

After the manner of Mistress Dolly Madison, whose turban head dresses created a furore in her day, Louise Todd's wedding head gear showed a turban roll of white satin twisted in ropes of seed pearls. Behind the ears and across the nape of the neck, ran a line of gardenias. This mightily becoming creation held the lovely veil of rose point lace which the bride's widowed aunt, Madame Christian Hague wore some 20 odd years ago when she married the Swedish diplomat. I hear Mr. Gilbert got among his wedding trophies a lovely miniature of his bride.

Elsa Comes Back

Elsa Mellon is on the way home. She is due here by October 25, at any rate, for the dashing young Pittsburgh heiress is going to be in the wedding party when Beatrice Beck and Pinkey Tuck take their vows.

I hear wonderful tales of the portrait picture of the secretary of the treasury and his son and daughter, painted this summer by Sir William Orphen. It seems that Sir William has done his best work one better in the matter of composition. The canvas shows a charmingly conceived picture portrait, en famille. The secretary, who is regarded as a connoisseur, is said to be delighted with the work.

M'Donald Demise Acclaimed With Glee in France

FRIEND OF GERMANY

His Activities in that Respect Cost France Dearly After War

By ANDRE TARDIEU
Former French High Commissioner of the United States
Special Radio Dispatch, Copyright, 1924, by the Consolidated Press Association

(No tears were shed in France over the defeat in parliament of the British prime minister. On the contrary, French opinion fears that Mr. MacDonald, triumphant in the coming elections, will remain in power. Andre Tardieu in his dispatch today explains Mr. MacDonald's unpopularity in France as due mainly to over-friendliness for Germany. England, too, he surmises, is becoming "fed up" with the laborite head).

PARIS, Oct. 11.—England is now plunged into an election which nobody wanted.

Why did the Liberals abandon the role of patient oxen which they endured for so many months? And especially since their party runs the heaviest risk in the new balloting? It is a mystery. Apparently Prime Minister MacDonald, after long difficulties with the soviet treaty, gave the impression in the Campbell affair of not acting like a gentleman. That is he did not deal with entire frankness and veracity. Also his motor car and the upkeep fund, given by a friend to whom he had granted a baronetcy, produced a bad effect.

In simple language, England began to be "fed up" with Mr. MacDonald. Perhaps certain naive people believed the king would not authorize dissolution of parliament. Anyhow the result is new elections, ordered in circumstances which appear to favor the laborites more than anybody.

Always An Enemy.

But that is England's affair. As for the French view, Mr. MacDonald has always been in a paradoxical position here. All during his career Mr. MacDonald has been the enemy of France. Before the war he combatted Edward VII's entente cordiale. He repeatedly arose in the house of commons to demand whether the government had made any military agreement even defensive, with France.

When in 1914 Germany invaded Belgium he did not accept this as proof of aggression and refused to vote for war. Throughout the war he continually put spokes in the wheels of ministers who were striving for victory. Once the British even prevented his sailing from England on account of his notorious defeatism. That was when his close friend, Edmond Morel, now an influential labor member of the house of commons was condemned to 18 months in prison for communicating with the enemy.

And when peace came Mr. MacDonald conducted a tireless campaign for revising the treaty of Versailles in Germany's favor. Nothing in his past warranted a cordial welcome from French opinion when he became premier of Great Britain.

Clemenceau Reproached

But what happened. Premier Poincaire barely waited for him to install himself in Downing street before he began showering him with letters never before equalled for platitude and humility. The writer remembers well the day when M. Poincare reproached Georges Clemenceau for not being firm enough with England although M. Clemenceau was making England accept clauses which M. Poincare substantially failed to execute.

Certainly neither M. Clemenceau nor any other French minister ever wrote to England in the tone adopted by M. Poincare toward Mr. MacDonald and then M. Poincare just before leaving power accepted without reservations the experts' report concerning France's credit against Germany to the lowest figure ever dreamed of and tied the hands of his successor.

Subsequently at Chequers and elsewhere, Premier Herriot multiplied his most lyrical demonstrations of enthusiasm toward MacDonald. Regardless of Mr. MacDonald's past, he proclaimed that France had found in the labor premier the staunchest of friends and this friendship was offered to the French public as the reason for not being alarmed at the enormous concessions France was forced to make at London, for which Poincare was responsible for the principle and Herriot for the execution.

In less than a year France will have evacuated the Ruhr. She has already cut her credit against Germany 75 per cent, making it less than the amount she herself owes abroad. France has agreed to complete separation of the two problems of reparations and war debts. She has agreed to Germany's admission to the league without having fulfilled international obligations as the covenant stipulates. Perhaps promises have been given that the same indulgence will be shown regarding the left bank of the Rhine.

A clear Complexion

comes with Rich Red Blood cells

DOES YOUR MIRROR reveal a soft, clear, ruddy skin, free from imperfections, that is such a joy to every woman? Or are you embarrassed with blemishes, pimples, little eruptions, acne, blackheads and other unsightly and disfiguring handicaps?

Your skin is in reality your passport, and if your mirror reveals a blemished, unsightly complexion, it is time to begin at once to correct this annoying condition. When the blood becomes infected with humors or impurities, the circulation cannot supply rich nutrition to the skin, but instead it deposits the acrid impurities with which it is contaminated into the sensitive fibres and tissues. This causes irritation or inflammation which splits or breaks the outer cuticle, while the tissues beneath ulcerate, become inflamed, break out into pimples, and cause other unsightly irritations.

Just as long as the blood remains pure, the skin will be free from eruptions; but when the blood becomes affected with humors, its nourishing and healthful properties are lost, and its humor-laden condition causes inflammation of the delicate tissues and fibres of the pores and glands. You have but to realize the importance of pure, rich blood in preserving the health, and that the source of all skin disorders is in the blood. Remove the cause, which is not in the skin itself, and therefore cannot be reached by a treatment that is strictly local, but is deep down in the blood supply.

Because S.S.S. does build red-blood-cells, it clears the system and makes those so-called skin disorders impossible to exist. S.S.S. contains only pure vegetable medicinal ingredients. It is also a remarkable builder of firm flesh which is also important to beauty. It will fill out your hollow cheeks, put the "ruby" of health in your cheeks and the sparkle in your eyes. Since 1826 S.S.S. has been beautifying complexions and giving women physical charm. That is why S.S.S. is accepted as the greatest of all blood cleansers and body builders. S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores. The larger size bottle is more economical. Start taking S.S.S. today. Its marvelous results will amaze you!

Nation's Present Political Unrest Reflected In Sluggish Market

Stock Prices On Downgrade Again For Third Week

NOT DANGEROUS YET

Favorable Trade Should Show in More Active Stocks in N. Y.

By STUART P. WEST.
By Special Leased Wire.
(Copyright, 1924, by the Consolidated Press Association).

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—The past week on the stock exchange has been the third week in succession where prices on the whole have dragged downward in face of business news of a favorable character. This, from the viewpoint of the experienced Wall street observer, is not a good sign. It suggests causes at work under the surface which have impelled, not investment holders, but speculative holders of stocks, to sell where they got the chance.

Election Causes More Caution.

The selling has not reached any such volume as to indicate serious concern. But politics have unquestionably played more of a part than at any stage of the presidential campaign so far. More thought has been taken of the possibility of the election being thrown into congress and the financial community has been sufficiently impressed with the possibility to become more cautious. As yet there has been no approach to an old time "political scare." The predominant feeling is simply that the outcome of the November voting is by no means as assured as it seemed to be up to a month ago. Hence active buying operations have been suspended, and in their stead, the inclination among traders has been to clear up commitments and to go very slow about making any more.

Adjusting to German Loan.

Terms of the $200,000,000 German loan have been well understood unofficially in financial circles for the last week. They have been given enough credence for the rest of the European bond market to adjust itself accordingly. Persistent selling of French and Austrian issues has been due to the fact that, without any better security, these bonds have been quoted too high as compared with the accredited offering price of the new German bonds.

The main considerations for the prospective investor in this German loan are political. If he is confident that the present regime is going to last, that there is to be no upheaval in the government, then this security is as good as any offered on a like basis in the markets. As a financial proposition alone, the safety of the bonds is undoubted. For a Germany at work under a stable political system, a $200,000,000 obligation is a drop in the bucket. The risk lies wholly on political grounds.

Must Get Private Credits.

The $200,000,000 will provide the funds for a new central bank; it will allow the re-establishment of the paper currency upon a gold basis; it is expected to form the nucleus for the guarantee of uninterrupted reparations payments. But it is absurd to suppose that a loan of such small proportions will do any more than this. Ultimate dependence must be placed upon the grant of private credits from the United States, from England and from other countries with which Germany is to do business. The idea which has prevailed at times in the New York stock market of the last week that the German loan would mean an immediate big increase in purchases of American copper and cotton is not at all well based.

Agricultural Products Higher.

The week has been chiefly distinguished by new high prices for wheat, for rye and for hogs. This has still further emphasized the improvement in the agricultural outlook. Wheat is selling some 40 cents a bushel higher than it was a year ago. Corn is up a similar amount from the low of the present year. The livestock industry which, two years ago, seemed almost incurably afflicted with over production, has been completely transformed. It has become a profitable business, where for a long stretch it was unprofitable.

The full force of the increased farmer's buying power promised by this great rise in prices, will not be felt until the late winter and spring when the crops have been sold and the agriculturists know just where they stand. In the meantime, however, the preliminary effects are seen in the extraordinary movement of freight over the railroads. The figures show that the traffic in merchandise and in miscellaneous goods is surpassing all previous totals.

Sterling Up on McDonald's Defeat.

The only possible conclusion is that this favorable business record would show more in the markets were it not for the uncertainty regarding politics. Two interesting things occurred in the situation abroad. One was the rise in sterling exchange in response to the defeat of the labor ministry. The other was the decline in French francs to the lowest in two months, following the increase in the paper currency issue to the highest ever recorded. All efforts at deflation in francs have so far failed, despite the raising of discount rates on security loans and despite the resumption of German reparation payments.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—More favorable reports than expected from the south and prospects for continued increase of cotton to market seemed to be chiefly responsible for a further decline in prices here today. December sold off to 23.28, making new low ground for the movement and a decline of 40 points from yesterday's closing quotation. The close was at that figure, the general market closing weak at net declines of 32 to 40 points.

The market opened easy at a decline of 14 to 18 points owing to the good weather map and relatively easy Liverpool cables. There was no sign of the predicted showers in the south, which was a disappointment to some of Friday's buyers and accounted for part of the early selling. The early action of the stock market was regarded as indicating that the signing of the German loan contract might have been discounted in a speculative sense and this may have been another factor on the decline. After showing net losses of about 20 to 30 points prices rallied partially on covering, but weakened again in the day under renewed liquidation hedge selling and selling by houses with Liverpool connections. October broke to 24.20 and January to 23.35, making net declines of 30 to 40 points on the active positions and a decline of about 2¼ to 2½ cents per pound from the higher prices of last Wednesday morning. Local brokers seemed uncertain whether the selling on the better weather of over-holiday evening up.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 11.—The cotton market today sought lower levels due mainly to liquidation in advance of the double holiday, as both American exchanges will be closed Monday in celebration of Columbus day.

The market started off lower on account of unfavorable Liverpool cables and a favorable weather map. First trades showed losses of 18 to 23 points and December traded down to 23.30 and January to 23.36, or 27 points below the previous close on both positions before a resting place was reached.

Grains Sag

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—With a holiday here Monday and the exporters apparently inclined to pause, liquidating sales on the part of the uneasy holders became too much of a burden for the wheat market today and caused prices to break to more than 10 cents under the week's top figures. Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled at 2⅜ to 2⅝ cents net decline, December 142⅝ to 142¾ and May 147⅛ to 147¼. Corn finished unchanged at 1⅛ cent off, oats 1⅛ to 1⅜ cents down, and provisions unchanged to 22 cents up.

Corn and oats were influenced by wheat weakness and by auspicious weather for the corn crop. Bullish views which certain big traders expressed regarding corn, however, tended to steady the corn market.

No Trouble To Be Met in Disposing Of German Bonds

OTHER BONDS DROWSY

Foreign Issues Finding Little Market With New Ones Coming

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—The outlook for the German loan has been the absorbing topic of discussion in investment circles all this week. The formal offering of the bonds is to be made on Tuesday next, and the present indications are that there will be an extraordinary oversubscription. There never was any doubt that the security from a financial standpoint will be entirely adequate. The sum required for the service of a $200,000,000 loan is so small compared with German resources as to be almost negligible. It was never certain, however, what would be the reaction of the American investor to a German bond issue. Of course nothing definite can be said until the subscriptions are in but the inquiries which have been pouring in on dealers and bankers for the last few days have proved very reassuring.

Other Stocks Sell.

Curiously enough, confident predictions of success for the German offering were accompanied by selling of other foreign bonds on the stock exchange. All the high yielding European issues, such as the French and the Austrian, were noticeably weak. The only explanation to be had was the intending investors in the German loan were selling other foreign securities in order to switch into the new bonds. It seemed to be the market opinion that seasoned foreign issues, or at least French obligations, ought to sell on about the same yield basis as the German bonds. This was a rather unexpected development. Most dealers had anticipated that the successful placing of the German loan would stimulate the market for all foreign securities on the ground that the putting into effect of the Dawes plan would be a long step toward the restoration of normal conditions in Europe. That still may be the ultimate effect. It has been a characteristic of the bond market for the past month or more that anything new was in brisk demand while the same grade of security in an old issue was neglected.

There has been remarkably good absorption of all new offerings this week, not only the high grade investment issues but those with a semi-speculative feature. Next week efforts will be concentrated on placing the German bonds but the sum involved is not large enough to make any great impression on the total of investment funds now available. There will still be plenty of money to take up anything attractive, either domestic or foreign. The most experienced bankers are still of the opinion that the ease in money will continue for a long time to come. There has been some slight tendency toward higher rates this week but it was unimportant from the long range standpoint. There is still a good deal of talk about gold going abroad but that seems to be also a matter of the distant future.

Gold Stock Gains.

At any rate the circulation statement of the treasury department made public the other day shows a gain during September of more than $15,000,000 in the total stock of gold coin and bullion in the United States. The total is $4,547,785,214 compared with $4,135,446,456 a year ago. It is estimated that the world's supply of gold now amounts to a little more than $9,000,000,000 so that the United States holds about half the total.

There have been no important changes in the business outlook this week, such as would affect the investment market.

Silver has made another new high above anything quoted since 1922. Whether this indicates a general rise in commodities such as has often followed an advance in silver remains to be seen. Steel ingot production increased about 30 per cent during August and September. Copper continues depressed, the expectation that German buying would be begun on a large scale, not yet having been fulfilled. Rubber is around the year's high. Car loadings have made more new high records.

Illinois Central to Sell.

In general, business seems to be going along steadily notwithstanding the political uncertainties. Politics are really minor influences in the investment situation, no matter how important in speculative circles.

In railroad developments the important announcement this week has been the decision of the Illinois Central directors to raise $11,000,000 of new capital by the sale of common stocks. The only comparable operation by a railroad in recent years was by the New York Central. The railroad security market since the war has been in no condition to absorb common stocks. Not alone was the earning outlook dubious, but there was always the fear of adverse regulation. When the carriers needed new funds they were compelled to sell bonds, or in a few instances, preferred stock. The action of the Illinois Central, therefore, marks a change in attitude which may have far reaching results. It certainly indicates confidence on the part of that road's board in a more favorable feeling on the part of investors toward railroad securities. Probably the Illinois Central is in as good a position as any other American road to make the experiment. If it succeeds, other roads will doubtless follow the example. Nothing would be more salutary than a demonstration that the time has come when it is possible to enlist new partners in railroad enterprises instead of meeting all financial needs by borrowing funds.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Stock prices again yielded to selling pressure in today's brief session of the market. While better support was offered for the standard industrials, some sharp breaks took place in the specialties for which there is a thin market. Friday's reaction having carried the general average of prices below its previous resistance point several commission houses urged their customers to take profits which accounted for the heavy selling in the first hour.

Recent selling in the face of favorable trade news has been somewhat of a mystery to Wall street traders who were inclined to attribute it to political uncertainty. This seems to be borne out by the apparent unwillingness of many investors and speculators to enter the market until the election results can be definitely forecast.

United States Steel common closed unchanged at 107 after having dipped to 106⅝. Baldwin closed fractionally lower at 119⅝ and American Can and Studebaker showed small fractional gains. Motors were in fairly good demand at the close, Willys-Overland preferred advancing 1⅛ points, Maxwell A moving up a point and several others rallying briskly from their previous low prices.

Sinclair Consolidated Oil preferred turned weak in the last hour, dropping four points to a new low record at 76.

General Electric, which has dropped about 40 points in the last two months, developed better support in today's session, rallying from its low of 243⅜ to 246⅝ and then easing to 245⅜, where it was up 2⅞ on the day.

Trading in rails was rather sluggish, but the net changes were largely of a fractional character.

Foreign exchange eased slightly with trading quiet. Profit taking in Sterling sent demand bills down nearly ⅛ a cent to below $4.49 while French francs again yielded below 5.20 cents. Japanese yen which has been heavy most of the week developed a firmer tone.

Market Letter

R. E. FLOWERREE AND COMPANY

New Orleans Cotton

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 11.—Better weather overnight than expected encouraged bearish operators and the market was called upon to absorb a considerable amount of selling from that element. There appeared to be a good deal of trade and speculative buying on the dips and the market showed good absorbing and resisting powers in the face of steady pressure from the bearish element. The lowest prices were made just before the close as a result of what appeared to be a hard drive from sellers. At this time active positions sold 40 points net lower.

The recent rather favorable weather appears to have revived large crop ideas and those who hold such views are becoming more aggressive. In their efforts to bring about lower prices, uncertainty over the elections in this country and hand-to-mouth policy by domestic spinners is aiding the bears temporarily by restricting buying.

Exports to Europe are limited only by lack of vessels to move cotton there.

The map also gives evidence of a disturbance in the gulf which may bring on another spell of weather over the holidays and change the outlook.

FENNER AND BEANE (By Shannon)

New York Cotton

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Continued favorable weather overnight and lower English cables brought about an easier market in which the trade were the principal buyers. As far as can be learned the trade seems disposed to buy on a scale down while the selling comes from the south's hedges together with short sellers who are now veering to ideas of a rather full crop and lower prices under the weight of the actual bales.

Some very close students, on the other hand are prepared to see the government revise the figures of estimated production in the Atlantic states and with this in view and in considering the value of the New York contract in a low grade are picking cotton on dips.

Small Receipts

By The Associated Press

FORT WORTH, Oct. 11.—Small receipts of Livestock were booked at the stock yards today, the estimate being placed at 500 head of cattle, 250 calves, 300 hogs and 100 sheep.

Cattle trading progressed in a very satisfactory manner, all classes being disposed of at prices that were in line with Friday's close. Nothing of very good quality was offered. Calves were bought early, the trade supporting a steady trend. The best here went at prices in line with the week's average.

Nothing choice was offered and something strictly desirable was quotable at 11.50. Most sales ranged from 11.00 to 11.35 on hogs.

Pigs receipts were too small to make a market quotable. Trading was brisk.

Man Arrested in St. Louis Accused of $34,000 Embezzlement

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 11.—William E. The prisoner waived extradition and will be taken back today by Sheriff N. F. Collins of Union county, Iowa.

Pierson told police he had come here last March and had been working as a sign painter. He declined to make any comment on the embezzlement charge. He had assumed the name Harry Berry, police reported, but admitted his identity and connection with the bank.

Auto World Safe Despite Failure To Set a Record

Slackened Demand for Machines This Year Readily Absorbed

3,650,000 FOR 1924

Production Will Fall Short Of Figures Set In 1923

By HARDEN COLFAX
Special Correspondent Record News
Copyright 1924 by the Consolidated Press Association.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Ten thousand automobiles a day were turned out by the American factories last month but last year's record of 4,013,000 cars will stand. The spurt to pass the banner year's production definitely has failed.

No matter how busy salesmen and production managers find themselves during the rest of 1924, last year's great outpouring of motors cannot be equalled.

There would have been a chance had the manufacturers been able to interest the public in buying 12,500 new cars daily in September instead of about 10,000. In that event, the industry would have entered the last quarter above 115,000 cars behind the 1923 figures. It might have been able to close the gap in the home stretch. As it is now, however, the beginning of the fourth quarter of 1924 finds the industry 177,000 cars behind last year's production figures. The handicap is too great to overcome.

3,650,000 for Year.

This year's crop of automobiles will number more than 3,650,000 on the basis of past performances compiled and tabulated by the national automobile chamber of commerce. It may swing high and touch 3,900,000. Leaving 1923 out of consideration it will easily pass all records, the next best being 1922, when production totalled 2,659,000 vehicles.

A sudden change in the buying power of the automobile purchasing public is regarded as responsible for the decrease. That change has come within the past seven months, synchronizing with the secondary period of business readjustment through which the country is passing. The automobile has skillfully and completely reversed its policy during that time.

It started off this year, fresh from its great record, with a flush of enthusiasm and a new high goal in mind. That goal was fixed at 5,000,000 cars for 1924. Production programs were planned in the light of that figure. Dealers were keyed up to carry the industry forward to the mark. Salesmen were urged to sweep into new fields of achievement.

Hard Times Arrive

In the month of March, however, the rainbow was forgotten, manufacturers levelled their eyes to the earth and the industry scratched gravel to sell what cars it could. For several months there were hard times in the industry. Then it began to come back and now it is climbing again. In the meantime, manufacturers, remembering lessons of other years, decided not to be caught with high priced and extensive stocks on hand. They curtailed production to meet current needs and as a result the industry today is in as sound a position as it was in the hectic era of prosperity a short time ago.

More than 16,000,000 motor cars and trucks have been licensed throughout the United States to date. The average life of these cars is estimated at from five to six years. To replace them as they are worn out entails an annual production of about 3,000,000 cars. That comes first. It means replacement alone and any cars produced in addition to the 3,000,000 may be classed as cars in the hands of new owners or more cars in the hands of present owners.

Fewer New Owners.

In the light of those figures, it will be seen that the automobile manufacturers this year in reality will have produced less than 1,000,000 cars over and above the number required to replace those worn out in service. Fewer new owners are in the market, apparently, than there were in 1919. If the year shows a production of 1,000,000 cars above replacements, the chances are that from 500,000 to 750,000 men and women throughout the United States have bought their first automobile this year. The other 250,000 to 500,000 will have been sold to present owners, increasing the number of their holdings.

Production during the first nine months of 1924 is estimated by the chamber at 2,814,487 cars and trucks as compared with 2,991,969 in the same period last year. The retail selling price of this year's output probably will run to $2,500,000,000 or about the 1919 level. Last year the figure was $2,685,000,000.

The figures tell also the story of the decline in average prices. In 1918 total output of cars and trucks was 1,974,000 and their selling price, at retail, $2,500,000,000. The average was about $1,300 per vehicle. In 1924, with an output running almost to double the number of vehicles the retail selling price will aggregate about the same as that of 1919. The average per vehicle this year will be only about $700.

Reasons for this will be found in two factors: First, that the Ford output this year constituted a larger proportion of the whole than in 1919 and, second, the sensational slashing of automobile prices that occurred since the war.

It appears however, that, for the moment, price cutting has ended. Within a recent period of five weeks, eleven manufacturers announced increases in prices.

"These boys are both poor; their fathers, mothers and relatives are poor, too," the attorney declared.

"There is no one to aid them or provide famous alienists to defend them."

M'Donald Is "Out" But He May Smash Ones Who Hit Him

British Premier Cannot Regain Power but He Can Wreck Liberals

IT MAY BE BALDWIN

Three Routes Now Open For England's Ship Of State to Sail

By A. G. GARDINER
England's Greatest Liberal Editor Special Radio Dispatch Copyright 1924 by The Consolidated Press Association.

(October will witness the passing of Great Britain's first labor government. The king has dissolved parliament and has called an election to choose a new one for October 29. A. G. Gardiner says in his dispatch today that Ramsay MacDonald will not return to power but that he probably will achieve his aim to smash the liberal party which smashed him.)

LONDON, Oct. 11.—The crash has come with sensational suddenness, and the country is plunged into the rapids of an instant election. When parliament reassembled last week, it was evident that the situation of the government was in imminent danger. The liberals returned from the country in no amiable mood. They had found their position in the constituencies undermined by the labor attack, and their supporters alarmed at their increasing loss of prestige.

What, they asked, kept labor in power at Westminster while labor was sapping and mining the liberal strongholds in this country?

Lloyd George in Action

Coupled with this disquiet was the opposition aroused by the proposed Russian guaranteed loan. The more the proposal was discussed the more grave and widespread became the antagonism. David Lloyd George took the lead in the fury of his attack. He has been smarting for a long time under the regime of Prime Minister MacDonald and it was notorious that he desired to bring him down.

H. H. Asquith did not share this impatience and was indisposed to force a breach, but indicated he could not agree to the Russian loan, and his adhession to Lloyd George sealed the fate of the proposal.

But the final rupture came on the relatively trivial issue of whether withdrawal of the prosecution against a communist newspaper for alleged sedition was due to pressure from the communists in the government. The allegation was made by the communist newspaper itself.

The liberals refused to support the conservatives in a vote of censure but asked for a committee of inquiry. Mr. MacDonald refused, and resolved to accept defeat and appeal to the country.

MacDonald Obdurate

The writer understands that his colleagues, especially Philip Snowden and J. H. Thomas were eager to accept a compromise but Mr. MacDonald was obdurate and insisted on war to the knife. He preferred to fall on the charge of misconduct rather than risk a fall on Russia.

But the real cause of the collapse was the failure to preserve relations between the liberals and labor. The liberals put labor in office but Mr. MacDonald showed an indisposition to recognize any obligation hardly even the obligation of civility. His colleagues, especially Snowden and Thomas, were much more friendly and had their counsels prevailed peace might have been preserved.

On the other hand Lloyd George's impatience with subbordination to MacDonald was an important factor in creating a combustible atmosphere and public hostility to the Russian loan gave him the choice of stampeding the party and forcing a crisis.

Mr. MacDonald will not return to power as the result of the election but his strategy has other aims in which success is probable. His main idea is to smash the liberal party and drive one fragment to the conservatives and the other into the labor camp. While the liberal organization remained the balancing factor in the house of commons it was impossible for the labor party to hold office independent of them. He writhed under a sense of obligation and has seized the opportunity of driving the liberals into the conservative lobby. It now says to the country: "We have always insisted that there was no difference between liberals and conservatives and now the fact is made clear by their common attack on labor."

Liberals Must Lose

Undoubtedly the liberals are in an unenviable position between the hammer of labor and the anvil of the tories. It is a general expectation that they will lose heavily in the election and that the conservatives will be the chief beneficiaries while labor probably will remain unchanged.

It is not improbable that the conservatives will secure a majority in the house in which case Stanley Baldwin will return to power. If, however, the liberals still hold the balance, a perplexing situation will be created. It is certain, however, after what has passed, that they cannot again put labor in power.

Three courses are open. One to put the conservatives in power, two, to accept office as caretakers for the conservatives, and three, to restore the coalition.

The last expedient would suit Lloyd George's plans. He has never surrendered the coalition idea and has maintained relations with Winston Churchhill, Lord Birkenhead and Austen Chamberlain. If this is the result of the election, the independent existance of the liberal party can hardly be maintained. The party will follow Lloyd George into the coalition and part will go to labor. The two party systems will be practically restored with the die hard Tory wing on one side and the communist wing on the other.

PLAN AUSTRALIAN CRUISE

United States Fleet to Cement the Bonds of Friendship.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Secretary Wilbur today characterized the projected Australian cruise of the American navy as another step "cementing the bonds of friendship between the two countries."

"Officers and men of the fleet are looking forward with great pleasure to the anticipated trip to Australia," he said. "The department shares in that pleasure and rejoices at the prospects of further cementing the bonds of friendship between these two countries by personal contact and friendly intercourse incident to the trip."

C. of C. Seeking Farm Pictures For Publication

Will Give Prizes for Best Kodak Views in Valley and Territory.

PLANS NEW BOOKLET

Contestants Asked to Submit Pictures Immediately.

Do you have a kodak picture of your garden, your chickens, your prize-winning hog or a beautiful scene in Wichita Falls or Wichita county?

The chamber of commerce offers $10 for the best agricultural scene and $10 for the best scenic view, taken by an amateur photographer and $1 each for all other pictures accepted for the purchase by the publicity committee. The contest will close November 1.

The public department is gathering material for an illustrated booklet setting forth the rural advantages of this county believing that there may be a number of excellent pictures taken during the past year or two by amateurs, taking this means of securing some of them.

Irrigation Scene Preferred

The agricultural pictures should be in the irrigated section of the county preferably, although some dry land farming pictures will be used. The committee is interested in pictures of truck, cotton, corn, alfalfa, feed stuff, or any other crop grown here; views of fruit, melons and berries are desired, either close-ups of individual specimens or pictures of entire crops.

Pictures of live stock, including dairy herds or individuals, any other well bred cattle, hogs and poultry sheep and goats are also needed.

Country schools, churches and homes can be used provided they are in Wichita county or near enough to Wichita Falls to be in the immediate territory.

Contestants are asked to mail or bring pictures to the chamber of commerce offices in the Kahn building at Eighth and Indiana avenue. Those who desire the return of pictures can get them by calling at the office after the close of the contest. No pictures will be returned by mail unless sufficient postage is enclosed for this purpose.

A surprising number of changes in ownership of lands under the Wichita Valley irrigation project are shown in a comparison of a recently compiled list with the list in use at this time last year, according to the officials of the Wichita Valley Landowners association and of the chamber of commerce.

Sending Out Questionnaire

The Landowners association with the assistance of the chamber of commerce staff is sending out a letter and questionnaire to all landowners under the project for the purpose of securing necessary information for use in the development of the valley.

It is stated that people are arriving in the city every day to look over the project with the intention of moving here. So far the chamber of commerge has been taking care of this phase of development but it is believed that it will soon be necessary to maintain a special office for this purpose.

BAN JAZZY MUSIC

Lutherans Caution Organists Having "Movie" House Technique.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—The national Lutheran council put a ban today on jazz in church music. The council issued a statement directed particularly against organists whose technique has been affected by weekday playing in "movie" houses and against organs built with a multitude of solo stops that make them more adaptable for profane music.

BORAH WILL ACT

Wednesday or Thursday Is Set as Tentative Date To be Meeting

By The Associated Press

BOISE, Idaho, Oct. 11.—The special senate committee to investigate political campaign expenditures will meet in Chicago, Wednesday or Thursday of next week, according to Senator William E. Borah, chairman of the committee who wired the three chairmen of the national committees yesterday requesting "that all facts touching campaign contributions, both as to contributors and amounts, be available to the committee."

The messages were directed to Clem L. Shaver, Democratic national committeeman; John M. Nelson, national manager La Follette-Wheeler progressive headquarters, Chicago, and William M. Butler, republican national committeeman. Information from Senator Shipstead that he can not meet with the committee before Oct. 20 caused Senator Borah to send the following telegram to Senator LaFollette today:

"Shipstead advises me he cannot meet with committee before October 20. Wish you could prevail upon him to meet with us not later than Oct. 15 or 16 at Chicago. Think he ought to be there."

Capri Would Be Fine for "Intellectuals." Italian Premier Believes.

By The Associated Press

PARIS, Oct. 11.—The Paris Midi reports that Premier Mussolini of Italy intends to offer the Island of Capri to the league of nations as a center of repose for "intellectuals" of the world.

Capri, at the southern entrance of the bay of Naples, is four and a half miles lang and three miles wide. It was the favorite place of residence of the Roman emperors. Augustus and Tiberius, the ruins of whose palace still are visible. It is noted also for its "blue grotto," a cavern entered from the water and which receives its name from the beautiful tints of blue reflected from all its parts.

WHY SUFFER FROM PAIN and DISEASE

CHIROPRACTIC
The Foremost Drugless System of Health

Did you ever try to study out the reason why you have a certain disease or trouble, why all the organs in your body will function but one. You may have stomach trouble or liver, kidney and heart trouble, headache, pains in your side or elsewhere that keeps you in bad health, but if you were rid of that one trouble you would be healthy.

Condition of Abnormal Spine—Nerve Windows Partly Closed.

Normal Spine — Nerve Windows Open

Study This Explanation

There is a power in your body which governs the action and function of every organ and tissue cell and keeps your body alive, all without your knowledge of how it does it. You cannot control your heart, stomach, liver or any of these vital organs, but this power does. Cut the power off and you are dead; diminish the power and you are sick. This power, which we will call nerve force, is generated in the brain and is transmitted to the body through the spinal cord and nerves to every single tissue cell in the body. It is estimated that there are about 11,000,000,000 nerve fibers in the body, carrying the life to the body. These nerves are like the brain, the softest tissue in the body, and pressure upon a nerve will stop this great life power. Did you ever hurt your finger? You grab it and squeeze above the hurt, what for? To stop the nerve power so your brain cannot feel the pain.

The Cause of Disease

Through the science of Chiropractic it was discovered that disease was caused by pressure on the large spinal nerves, as they are given off from the spine. Between each joint in the backbone is a little window. Half of each window is in each joint. The large spinal nerves come through these windows to reach the body. As long as these joints fit exactly together the windows are open. But when one joint slips out of line with the one above and below it, the window is partly or entirely closed. This pinches the nerve as it comes through and cuts off the life or nerve power from some organ or tissue in the body. The organ becomes weak and eventually stops functioning. Sickness or death are the results. I have thousands of X-ray pictures of the spine showing the joints turned and twisted out of position, causing every form of disease. If you are skeptical come and see for yourself. I have hundreds of patients in this city who have regained their health after years of sickness by having their spines corrected. The joints of the spine are movable and the Chiropractor adjusts these misaligned joints back to normal position which opens he windows, taking the pressure off the nerves; that great life power again can pass to the organs and health is restored.

Chiropractic has proven that 95 per cent of diseases are caused by misaligned joints of the spine, brought about by slips, falls, strains and sometimes working in a certain position, bending the spine one way all the time.

If you are sick it will pay you to investigate Chiropractic. Examination and consultation cost you nothing. If you are skeptical, an X-ray picture of the spine will show you the cause of your trouble.

Right: Mrs. Hermione Stewart Vaughn is teaching community singing to 1,000 boys and girls in the Junior High school, a course that has never been given in the Junior High school here before. Five classes with 200 in each group are taught on alternate days in 20-minute periods each.

Peterson Home Opened to Floral Methodist Class

Mrs. Ed Peterson opened the doors of her magnificent home in Indian Heights Friday afternoon when she entertained with a silver tea for the Floral Heights Wesley Girl's Class, the first social function given in her home since its completion four months ago. Proceeds will go toward sending the orphan which the class adopted, to a missionary training school.

More than 350 guests attended the party during the afternoon, which was a marked success, and one of the most charming of recent social functions. A delightful "tour of inspection" over the spacious house and grounds was a feature of the afternoon. Lovely baskets of roses cut from the Peterson gardens decorated the home, which is one of the largest and most beautiful in Wichita Falls.

The House Party.

Mrs. Peterson graciously greeted the guests in the great living room which has been furnished with a Georgian note, and introduced them in turn to the following members of the receiving line who are class members: Mesdames Sam Boone, S. A. Barnes, Rhea Howard, O. W. Harvey, Dillard, L. L. Albritton, Stanley Hill, R. E. Ducker, Harvey McCarty, R. H. Corbin, Will Ellis, S. E. Trevathin, A. J. Lester, Claude Williams, Preston Lea, Rhea Hanks, Milo Connelly, J. Alex Fisher, Frank Elkins, J. A. McCarty, Claude Gilchrist, Wade Gaskin, A. L. Lane and H. McMillan.

Mesdames J. Preston Lea and Ray Hanks poured tea. The table, covered with Italian cut work, on which the tall silver service was arranged, was a bower of flowers in yellow and lavendar. Iced angel food squares and dainty mints also carried out the color scheme. In the dining room were also Mesdames Loran Taylor, H. A. McCarty, Fred Sehmann, Mack Taylor and Lloyd Weaver.

At the punch bowl in the rose garden were Mesdames Lester Jones, McDowell and Leon Deaton.

Class members formed the remainder of the house party who greeted the guests and showed them through the various rooms and halls of the great house. A cozy den contained a huge mounted buffalo head opposite a fireplace flanked by easy chairs, lighted by a tall beaten metal lamp of Chinese workmanship. The hall and staircases are hung with Japanese tapestries and lacquer in mahogany and leads into the two beautifully fitted bedchamber on the west side of the house. Directly opposite is a living room using again the charming Oriental influence of teakwood, and lacquer.

Four bedrooms are tastefully and beautifully fitted in color schemes of rose and mahogany for the guest, green and rose for the son, dainty pink and ivory for the little daughter, while the remaining room features purple and lavender tints. Cedar lined closets and private dressing rooms complete the conveniences with a rose tile bath on the north wing and it's replica in blue tile on the south.

The third floor has been laid with a finely polished hard wood floor and is one large room with many windows.

A quaintly tiled sun parlor gay with cushioned chairs and growing ferns opens from the living room while a music room at the opposite end forms a setting for an electric grand piano which entertains guests at intervals. Hand played selections were given by Miss Josephine Tucker and Mrs. D. L. Fritz.

Paintings, Oriental rugs, sculpture and other works of art have been selected with a charm and taste that makes the Peterson home distinctive among other pretentious homes of the city.

Extensive and beautifully parked grounds form a setting for the home. Winding concrete walks lead past an orchard and kitchen garden through the lawns and flower beds to a walled in rose garden and a pergola where iced fruit punch was served.

A swimming pool is approached by a gentle slope and is complete in every respect, with a spacious pergola sheltering it. The largest pergola on the grounds border the wide lawns on the north and adds greatly to the exterior beauty of the house and grounds.

MISSIONARIES WOUNDED

By The Associated Press

RAGOON, Burma, Oct. 11.—Prof. and Mrs. Gleason, American missionaries attached to Judson college here, were mobbed by Buddhist monks Thursday night. Both were badly beaten and removed to a hospital.

Church of Christ Evangelistic Services are Drawing Much Interest.

The revival in progress at the Church of Christ continues with growing interest and attendance. Evangelist White is proving popular. The meeting will continue until the 19th, with two services daily, at 10 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Friday evening Evangelist White took for his theme Acts 16-30, "What Must I Do to be Saved?" and spoke in part as follows: "This question is the most important ever asked by man and is specifically answered in the Bible. There are five characters in the world who are subjects of Gospel address—they are unbelievers, believers, penitent believers, Christians and erring Christians. Each of these characters may properly ask this great question and receive an answer from the Book of God. To the unbeliever the scriptures say, 'Believe on the Lord Jesus and thou shalt be saved'. To the believer it is commanded, 'Repent and be baptised for the remission of your sins'. To the penitent believer it is said, 'Be baptised and wash away thy sins, calling on the name of the Lord'. The Christian is told in answer to this question, 'Add to your faith, virtue, knowledge, temperance, patience, godliness, kindness, and brotherly love, for if these things be in you and abound they make you that ye shall be neither barren nor unfruitful in the knowledge of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ'. The command to the erring Christian is, "Repent and pray God if perhaps the thought of thy heart may be forgiven thee.""

For the girl who likes tailored simplicity, yet something a bit unique and demure, is a frock of midnight blue Charmeen. The chic button-on side panels are boyish and different. The long swagger sash tie and dainty Georgette frill give this winsome frock its becoming feminine touch.

For a Coat very charming for afternoon wear, and yet with enough of simplicity in its line and treatment to make it admirable for any day-time occasion, select this model of Veloriana in a deep hollyberry shade. The coat is collared and banded down front and on sleeves with rich, lustrous seal—while artful embroidery is introduced above the jaunty double pocket laps.

"Youth Is the Best Gift of Life"

And the purpose of the House of Youth is to help every woman to express that fresh and buoyant sense of youth which is the dominant spirit of the garments—also the keynote of the times—and the hidden mystery of happiness and success.

THE FABRICS

Of what shall my frock or my coat be made? Is the very natural and important question. Dame Fashion says that the smart young woman's fall coat must be of Fawnskin, a fabric soft and resilient as the name it bears; of Jamunna, rich and warm with its close, downy pile; Kashmana, of fine silky surface; Veloriana, a lustrous coating of dressy aspect; Velnewvo, a lovely material which tailors beautifully; Jamunette, of velvety suppleness. These are but a few of the foremost coatings endorsed by leading couturieres and depicted in House of Youth creations.

"Feeling Fine"

The lady whose picture is printed above is Mrs. Garold V. Payne, who lives on State Street in Lexington, North Carolina. Mrs. Payne has taken CARDUI, the woman's tonic, of which she says:—

"Cardui is a perfectly splendid medicine. I never did have anything to help me so quickly. Some time ago I had an operation. I had been in bad health for years and was frightfully run-down. I had no appetite. I dragged around. Was irregular and at times had a sinking, dragging-down feeling which was very disturbing.

"A friend of mine suggested my trying Cardui. She said she took Cardui as a tonic every so often to keep her in health, so my husband decided I must try it. He brought me home a bottle and I began to take it. After taking half a bottle I noticed I was eating more and feeling much better. I took three bottles and at the end of that time was feeling fine. My appetite was good. I was strengthened to do my work and had become perfectly regular.

"I have great faith in Cardui as a tonic, for in my own case I have seen what it will do."

Thousands of other women have written to tell of the great benefits that they have obtained from the use of Cardui in many common forms of womanly ills.

Cardui is a purely vegetable, mild remedy for women's ills. Contains no harmful or habit-forming drugs. One of the chief ingredients of Cardui has been tested by use and recommended by scientific medical authorities in the treatment of female troubles for over 600 years!

Most druggists carry Cardui in stock, in $1 bottles with full directions for use, and every woman who suffers from female ailments should try this well-known remedy.

TEA HONORS TWO AT WICHITA CLUB.

Mrs. Everett Jones, one of the most attractive of Wichita Falls young matrons, entertained with one of the prettiest parties of the season Wednesday at the Wichita club honoring her sister-in-law, Mrs. Harry Jones, who has recently moved to the city, and Mrs. Q. B. Lee, a recent bride.

Japanese plume chrysanthemums sounded the fall color note in the profusion of flowers which transformed the club into a dainty bower for the affair.

Attractive Gowns.

Beautiful gowns lent charm to the members of the house party, vivid fall colors appearing, with here and there the soft touch of plume tips and chiffon or the shimmer of beads and brilliants.

Mesdames Orville Bullington, Homer Lee, Billy Staniforth, Sanders, Walker, C. Y. Tully, O. T. Goraline, C. N. Alexander, J. L. McMahan, Carter McGregor, Fred Weeks, Merril Blair, M. R. Garrison formed the receiving line.

Noted Woman Lecturer Will Make Address Here

Mrs. M. H. DeVault, one of the noted woman speakers of the United States, will speak in Wichita Falls at the junior college Friday evening October 17, at 7:45 o'clock. Mrs DeVault is brought here by the Citizens' Junior College club. Her subject will be "The Changing World."

Mrs. DeVault has recently returned from a trip to Europe, where she was sent by the club women of her home town, Kansas City, to gain first hand information of European conditions. Her lectures are accorded all over the country as unusually informative and instructive as well as interesting. So popular is she in her own state, that last spring when the local club asked her to come here she had only this one night left for speaking.

It is said that the lecturer is as interesting to an audience of men as to women, and that men need not feel that she is not a clever speaker because she is a woman.

The public is invited to attend the lecture of Mrs. DeVault.

How to "Scratch" Ticket Is Told By 'Attorney General

Law Would Not be Violated, The Opinion Declares

CAN PUBLISH IT

Not Illegal to Print List In Newspapers Showing Method

By The Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Oct. 11.—In an opinion requested by John Marshall of Sherman, the attorney general's department today outlining how a "scratched" ticket may be voted at the November election said:

"The law would not be violated if a voter marks out all the tickets on the official ballot except the Democratic and Republican tickets and then marks out all the names on the republican ticket except the one such voters desires to vote for and also scratches out the name of the person on the democratic ticket for whom he does not desire to vote. Such a vote should be counted for all the Democrats so voted for and for the republicans so voted for.

"Where no agreement or proposal to vote for the person on the second marked ticket has been entered into or made, and no request has been made to the person receiving or securing such marked ticket to vote for the person on the marked ticket, the law would not be violated by the preparation of a sample marked ballot for distribution among the voters as circulars or for publication in newspapers showing the voters how they may lawfully vote for the democratic presidential electors and other nominees except for governor and also the republican candidate for governor."

THE CREW SMOKES UP

Everybody Wanted a Cigarette When The Shenandoah Landed.

By The Associated Press

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Oct. 11.—Due to the straining of two girders in the aft part of the Shenandoah when the big dirigible landed at the North Island naval air station here last night departure of the airship for the flight to Camp Lewis, Washn., has been delayed until tomorrow or Monday morning according to an official statement.

Smoke hungry after their deprivation on the trip from Fort Worth, the maxines of the air eagerly accepted tobacco and soon a regular smoke fest was in session. The 3000-mile jaunt across the country was forgotten as the men puffed away at their pipes, cigars or cigarettes.

C. F. Burlingame of Bartlesville was named president. W. R. Stubbs of Lawton, ex-governor of Kansas, and S. M. Porter of Caney, Kan., are among those interested in the project. Organization of the company will be perfected at a meeting here October 14.

RINGLING BROS. O. K'D.

By The Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 11.—A further modification of the quarantine against the shipment of cattle and packing products into Oklahoma from Texas as a result of the foot and mouth disease was announced today by John A. Whitehurst, president of the Oklahoma state board of agriculture.

At the same time Mr. Whitehurst announced that he had lifted the ban against the Ringling and Barnum and Bailey circus which has been quarantined out of the state because of the epidemic, and would allow it to enter Oklahoma October 20, provided it complied with his conditions.

Legitt, Felix Handley, Price Dukeminier, M. C. Brooks, M. C. Gausnell, Bill White and Earl Henry.

Special to The Record News.

WELLINGTON, Oct. 11.—The Wellington volunteer fire department is composed of 20 members, most of whom have been with the department since its organization in 1917. The equipment is composed of one Reo pumper and hose truck and one chemical truck. Through the untiring efforts of Bura Handley, chief, the efficiency of the department has continually increased and through their efforts and efficiency the key rate of the town has been lowered. They are also largely responsible for Wellington securing the maximum "Good Fire Record Credit." The department as a whole is interested in their work and the discipline and spirit of cooperation is always at the highest point. The fires of the past few years have involved a large sum of money and the damage sustained is comparatively small. Bura Handley, chief, Wm. E. McDonald captain hose No. 2 and M. W. Stockton captain hose No. 1 attended the state firemen's convention at McKinney last year and they state that they were benefited by their attendance. This enabled them to put into execution ideas, which materially increased the efficiency of the department. Wellington has one of the best fire departments in the state and much credit is due them.

WHERE'S LINE ON ART?

Experts Must Decide Whether New York Posters Are Indecent.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—The license commissioner and the district attorney's office will be called upon to furnish expert testimony to determine where art begins and licentiousness ends when the hearing in the case of Earl Carroll, producer of "Vanities of 1924," is resumed Thursday.

Magistrate James M. Barrett, after studying three large advertising posters, which were the cause of Carroll's arrest on a charge of displaying indecent pictures, last night said he was unable to decide, without expert testimony, whether or not the pictures were indecent. Carroll, through his attorney, entered a plea of not guilty. The magistrate paroled him after exacting a promise that he return to court Thursday for further examination.

Before going to night court Carroll spent six hours in a cell in company with six negroes and a beggar.

About dinner time he asked permission to send out for food. Soon afterward a taxicab arrived at the police station with a dinner from a fashionable hotel. There was a bill for $17, too, which Carroll paid. He shared his dinner with his cell mates.

While in the cell he was visited by a bevy of show girls who were the subjects of the posters which caused his arrest. The girls offered to give bail for him, but he refused.

ALL UP TO THE WOMEN.

Must Meet Duties of Citizenship—Suffrage Squarely, She Says.

BISMARK, N. D., Oct. 11.—American women must squarely, efficiently and promptly meet the responsibility of upholding the ideals of American institutions and citizenship if their trust in full participation in suffrage is to be kept inviolate, declared Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook of Washington, national president of the Daughters of the American Revolution, in an address today before the state society convention.

"Let there be infused into the heart of each one of us the belief in the destiny of the greater America," she said, "so that each Daughter of the American Revolution shall constitute herself a potent force in the service of God, country and the well being of her fellow citizens."

They have prospered as grain farmers.

TO DISARM DENMARK.

Socialist Government Offers Bill Abolishing Army and Navy.

By The Associated Press.

COPENHAGEN, Oct., 11.—The socialist government yesterday presented to the folketing (house of commons) its disarmament bill, virtually abolishing the Danish army and navy and doing away with the military service law.

For the army would be substituted a corps of guards to assist the frontier and customs gendarmerie and police in guarding the boundaries of the country and in maintaining order. The corps would consist of only 7,240 men, officered from the ranks, and would not be organized as an army against an enemy. The present navy would be replaced by coast guard ships for the protection of national interests within Danish territorial waters.

High Court Bends Low Ear to Hear Ferguson Suit

DEEPLY INTERESTED

Ferguson There Throughout Hearing but "Ma" Does Not Appear

By The Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Oct. 11.—Deep interest was manifest by the supreme court today in the question of its own jurisdiction to hear the Ferguson injunction suit and the right of Charles M. Dickson of San Antonio to bring the suit as a private individual.

The case in which District Judge George C. Calhoun held Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson eligible to be governor came before the court of last resort on certified questions from the third court of civil appeals and was argued during four hours by counsel.

Mentions Maddox Case

Judge I. W. Stephens of Fort Worth in arguing for the plaintiff mentioned the Maddox case in which the court held last June that the name of James E. Ferguson could not go on the ballot because of the impeachment decree denying him the right ever to hold public office in Texas. This case was brought by Maddox, a private citizen, from which Judge Stephens argued that the supreme court, either expresely or by implication, must have held that a private citizen may maintain such a suit.

"But that was a case involving the right to place a name on the primary ballot," said Chief Justice C. M. Cureton. "The case before us involves the right to place a name on the election ballot and it would seem to be different."

Judge Stephens explained it was his understanding that the statute under discussion applied both to the primary and the general election.

Pierson Asks Question

"Does not the constitution give the legislature power to pass on the eligibility of candidates?" he asked.

Judge Stephens drew the distinction that this power is to be exercised after the election and not before.

The questions were said by lawyers to indicate a deep interest of the court in every phase of the case. Chief Justice Cureton said the court desired to hear arguments on the constitutionality of the law under which the case was brought as well as on the other points.

The plaintiff's argument followed the lines pursued before the district court. Judge Stephens contended that when the present constitution was written women were ineligible to office in Texas, that she was also ineligible at common law, that no enabling act has been passed making her eligible, that the suffrage amendments to federal and state constitutions did not make her eligible to hold office.

John C. Wall, first assistant attorney general, took up the argument for the defense. Each side was allowed two hours to present its case.

FLORIDA RAIN CONTINUES.

ORLANDO, Fla., Oct. 11.—Rain which has been falling constantly here for several days continued this morning. Roads north of Sanford are reported out of commission and telephone communication to Daytona is interrupted.

Daytona appears to be bearing the brunt of the rainstorm, according to reports here, which said that high tides there were backing more water into the business district.

The highway between Deland and Sanford is reported blocked by trees and logs. The Florida Automobile association announced that the road north of Deland to Green Cover Springs had been washed out.

Local weather men say 14 inches of rain had fallen up to last night in the Kissimmee and St. John river valleys.

VOTE UPON CONVENTION.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 11.—Tennessee will vote on the question of holding a convention to prepare a new state constitution on November 4, but the election of deleates to such a convention must be postponed until some other date. This, in effect, was the ruling today of the state supreme court sitting here.

DEMOCRATIC MASS MEETING

In response to the request of the State Democratic Executive Committee, a sincere and most earnest invitation is extended all loyal Democrats of Wichita and adjoining counties to assemble in mass meeting at the Palace Theatre on Thursday night, October 16th at 7:30 o'clock sharp. The ladies are especially invited.

Real genuine Democratic speeches will be delivered by the Hon. Walter Cline, Hon. A. H. Carrigan and Hon. C. C. McDonald. Hon. A. H. Britain will preside.

"Now is the time for all good Democrats to come to the aid of the party." Come and hear a discussion of fundamental Democratic principles, both state and national, the binding moral obligation of a primary pledge; our noblest deeds rest upon moral obligations. The importance and sacredness of a party platform, and an exposure of the unholy political alliances now in effect between the republican party bosses and the wizards, dragons, kleagles and cyclops of the ku klux klan in a secret, clandestine attempt to get control of our government.

Let the people's answer be an overwhelming majority for all Democratic nominees from president to constable in November.

Everybody come. Palace Theatre, Wichita Falls, Thursday night, October 16th, 7:30 o'clock. By authority Wichita County Democratic Executive Committee.

WALES IN CHICAGO MONDAY

Visit to Stockyards Will Be Feature of 1-Day Stay.

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—The Prince of Wales will arrive here at 8 o'clock Monday, over the Chicago & Northwestern railroad, for his visit of a day, in which he will view Chicago's stockyards and points of civic pride, according to Louis F. Swift, his host here.

He will be met by Mr. Swift and one or two personal friends and immediately will be taken to the stockyards and packing plants, in which he has expressed great interest. Later he will be shown the University of Chicago, the new stadium in Grant Park, the boulevards and the traffic of the business section.

The prince probably will take lunch at the Chicago club, although arrangements are not completed inasmuch as he has not accepted formally any of the half dozen invitations sent him.

An invitation sent him to attend the steeplechase at Onwentsia Saturday and remain over Sunday was declined by the prince, who telegraphed his schedule would not permit his leaving for Chicago in [illegible]

LaFollette Sets a Fashion

Dorothy Mackaill displaying heer "La Follette Pompadour."

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 11.—Robert M. LaFollette, presidential candidate, has set a new fashion in coiffures in the film colony.

It's not a "Bob" but a pompadour.

Then other film actresses took it up.

Now it threatens to become the rage.

TO MOVE POPE'S BODY

Sometime in Night Between October 13-31 to Transfer It.

By The Associated Press.

ROME, Oct. 11. — Since shortly after the death of Leo XIII in 1903 reports have periodically appeared that his body would be transported from St. Peters where it was left temporarily to the tomb provided for it in the basilica of St. John later on. The Messaggero now states that body will be moved during the night between October 13 and 31.

The delay in carrying out the will of Pope Leo was due to the grave incidents which occurred on July 13, 1881, upon the occasion of the moving of the body of Pius IX from St. Peters to St. Lawrence. At that time an anti-clerical mob had planned to seize the body and throw it into the Tiber. Now, however, no incident of the kind would be anticipated as the feeling of the people and the government toward the vatican has entirely changed.

Despite the present attitude toward the vatican the Messaggero says that the moving of Leo's body will occur without solemnity and will be virtually private. The present pontiff wishes the remains of Leo to be in the tomb at St. John for the occasion of the celebration of the 16th centennary dedication of the great basilica next November.

PROBE TC-2 EXPLOSION

Why Bomb Went Off Prematurely Subject of Investigation

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Oct. 11.—An army board of injury was in session at Langley Field to ascertain the cause of the premature explosion of a bomb aboard the blimp TC-2 yesterday which caused the death of Lieutenant Bruce N. Martin and injury to Lieutenant Alfred Puryear and three non-commissioned officers. Lieutenant Martin died at midnight at the post hospital.

The board of investigation is attempting to determine just what caused the bomb to explode as it was being made ready to be hurled at a target in Black River. The blimp came here Thursday from the army proving grounds at Aberdeen, Md., to participate in bombing maneuvers and was on her first flight here when the explosion ripped it wide open and sent it and the crew hurtling the 150 feet to earth.

SLEW HUSBAND ASLEEP

Following Apparent Suicide, Springfield Wife Confesses

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Oct. 11. — Mrs. Leo Sypolt was arrested last night by detectives attached to the homicide bureau, charged with the murder of her husband, who was believed to have committed suicide Tuesday morning. Within thirty minutes after her arrest she signed a statement confessing the murder.

"I asked God if it was right for me to kill him and I believe God caused him to sleep soundly so I could commit the act," was her explanation of the murder.

Sypolt, an electrical engineer, was found dead in bed shortly after midnight Tuesday. His wife told the police she heard the shot and presumed he had killed himself, although she was not interested and did not go into the room before the coroner and four detectives arrived.

Mrs. Sypolt said her married life was unhappy

POUND SCORES A VICTORY.

German Loan Will Be Reckoned in British Money.

By The Associated Press.

PARIS, Oct. 11.—Great Britain won a financial victory against the United States, and everywhere, except in America, participation in the 200 million Dawes plan loan to Germany will be reckoned in pounds sterling instead of dollars.

The fight between the pound sterling and the dollar sign began when the Dawes report was compiled, the Americans seeking to have the dollar established as the unit because it was at par. The British, however, demanded the pound sterling be used, realizing this would be a powerful factor in maintaining the prestige of England's finance throughout the world.

The reparations commission yesterday issued the official quotas of the loan to be taken up in European countries and all the European figures were on a sterling basis. The United States will subscribe 100 million dollars; Great Britain, 12 million pounds; Switzerland, 3 million pounds and Germany that part not raised by the others.

If the dollar had been selected as the standard unit it would have been a help to American finance and banking operations in South America, the far east and throughout the world in general in the opinion of leading American bankers here who regret the British victory in having the depreciated pound sterling chosen as a unit.

> Plain facts for Home Consumption.
> Paris is GREEDY.
> A beautiful woman who has let her FINGER-NAILS grow into CLAWS.
> We love her. Some of us love to have a BEAUTIFUL WOMAN fleece us.
> But you, American traveler, STAY at HOME if you don't like CLAWS.

Relating them is sure to be a THANKLESS TASK. The raconteur becomes a purveyor of unsavory wares.

We love to have our sense delighted. Who wants to know that a beautiful woman's front-bangs are FALSE!

Paris is just that. A beautiful woman; and America, with a sentiment that is characteristic, worships the lovely creature.

That is as it should be. Between France and America there exists an ENTENTE CORDIALE of long standing. Temperamentally, as nations, we are congenial. The history of our relations is pleasant. We feel warmly toward France and have good reason to feel so. The part she has played in the history of our country entitles her to our DEEP REGARD and GRATITUDE. We have good reason to believe that France reciprocates that deep regard. It cannot be said of us that in her recent time of stress we forgot our obligations.

So, fundamentally, FRANCE AND AMERICA ARE FRIENDS.

Now, how does all this tie up with Paris?

Well, the fact is—and the average traveller abroad, if he has the courage, will bear this out—that Paris, lovely painted creature that she is, does not, in her treatment of the thousands of Americans who are her guests annually, live up to the cordial diplomatic relations between our two countries.

Paris permits her petty trades people, the day-by-day people with whom the American tourist must day by day deal, to fleece us.

Paris, that is to say France, permits her bourgeoisie to misbehave, and their deportment rebounds, pity 'tis, upon the nation.

The petty trades people of Paris fleece us and the unfortunate fact is that we say to one another: "Paris fleeces us." Indeed, we go further and say: "France fleeces us!"

It is the old story of BLAMING THE MISBEHAVIOR of a naughty CHILD upon the PARENT.

To what extent is France responsible for the misbehavior of her petty trades people? Probably not to a great extent, but at least to the extent that she permits the condition without reprimanding.

PARIS FLEECES US!

Paris, whom we love for the gay, painted, irresistible lady that she is, has trained her rouged fingernails into claws that are out for us.

The manner in which the petty trades people, and for that matter the not-so-petty, treat her guests should be a WARNING to us here at home. It should be a lesson to convention cities, exposition cities, and to all communities about to attract for one reason or another a large number of visitors.

The taxicab drivers, the hotel keepers, the shop keepers, the civic servants, often hold the destiny of their community in their hands. They can MAKE OR BREAK public opinion.

Paris, because of the advantage she allows her small people to take of her guests, has slowly and insidiously become to Americans the VULTURE CITY.

Actually of course we know that Paris is not that—just the opposite, in fact. But that is how insidiously and cunningly the deportment of the petty people can brand a city.

When Paris sees the American coming, she premits her hotel-keepers to raise their rates beyond reason.

Time and time again pressure has been brought to bear against that identical condition in our own convention cities.

The American guest in Paris, whose average tip to a chauffeur or to a waiter is five or six times the tip of the Frenchman, is open to insult at every turn, because, however bountiful his tip, it is sure not to measure up to the French idea of what the American tip should be.

The Frenchman who with a native frugality will sell a kilo of grapes measuring down to the last grape, cutting one off, measuring, and then finally cutting the controversial grape in two, will growl at an American who resents being charged thirty cents for a peach off a fruit stand.

These naughty petty merchants will haggle over a centime and their eyes are not nice and their lips are greedy when they scent American money. There are those to whom being fleeced by a GORGEOUSLY BEAUTIFUL WOMAN, and Paris is that, is a privilege.

Bless your hearts, then, go to it. But to the average genus American, who loves France for her rich endowment of culture and gayety, who cherishes and respects her, and who has always regarded Paris as A FAY AND NOT A VAMPIRE, there is something degrading and humiliating about this greedy aspect of the petty people of a glorious city.

And this is the aspect which is most outstanding to the American tourist. The social aloofnees of the Frenchman is such that, generally speaking, his home is not thrown open to the foreign visitor.

A reserve which is accepted and respected.

But then, it is from the Paris of hotel keeper, concierge, shop keeper, and only the most casual acquaintance with the cultivated Frenchman, that the average tourist is obliged to get his impressions.

And so, until France somehow disciplines these naughty civilians of hers, it is from their shortcomings that FRANCE IS BEING JUDGED.

Not fair to France, you say. True. But "pity 'tis, 'tis true."

The avarice of shop keepers, the greed of taxi drivers, the sky-rocketing of prices wherever you see the sign, "English-Spoken," the penny bickerings! What will happen, of course, is that gradually even the far-famed endurance of the American public will break under the strain.

And, as always, the WELL-INTENTIONED SUFFER FOR THE MISCREANTS.

There are splendid hotels in Paris that never vary their prices from season to season, whether for Frenchman, Patagonian or American, but there are more that do.

Even the ex-patriate is beginning to complain bitterly of these new conditions.

PARIS IS GREEDY.

After all, the misfortune is hers, not ours. We have always the not unpleasant alternative of remaining at home. If Paris continues her tactics, Americans, who love her, will learn, nonetheless, not to go there.

But we at home here must profit by the example. It is from the superficial characteristics that visitors draw their conclusions. The impressions that France and America gain of each other, via that kilo of grapes and that impudent taxi-driver, are far more poignant, so far as public opinion is concerned, than the week's exchange of diplomatic notes between the two countries.

The foreign visitor to America, because he comes in such vastly smaller numbers, sees us au natural, so to speak.

We are ENTITLED TO THE SAME TREATMENT ABROAD.

Paris is a gay, a lovely lady and we pay her deference and ask no questions about her front bangs.

But when she permits her naughty petty-business people to become greedy and her rosy fingernails to become claws, hear ye—all good Americans—our not unpleasant alternative is of remaining at home!

Willys Hopeful As Orders Gain Late in Year

Motor Company Head Sees Normal Condition In Industry Again

STOCKS ARE REDUCED

Failure of Spring Market To Develop Has Been Met Successfully

With retail sales in excess of 18,000 cars for the month of July, Willys-Overland dealer stocks are down to a normal basis and factory orders are again increasing, according to a statement issued by John . Willys, president of the Willys-Overland company.

"Willys-Overland has been very successful in reducing both dealer stocks and inventory in the past 90 days. Dealer sotcks have been reduced more than 30,000 cars and factory inventory has been reduced $11,000,000. Factory current liabilities were reduced $15,000,000 in the second quarter. July sales by dealers were equal to last July, and June sales eclipsed any previous month," he said.

Curtail Manufacturing

"As soon as we saw in March that conditions were not ging to develop into the abnormal spring sales that the early months gave evidence of developing, we curtailed our manufacturing program and started in immediately to get our dealer and factory organization in a healthy conditions to go forward when the retired period was at an end. We are most gratified with the successful way these plans have worked out," his statement continues.

"We have invested a great deal of money in our sales and engineering departments during the past year and have incurred large costs as have most manufacturers, in assisting to carry cars for the dealers during the winter months in anticipation of an excess demand that did not develop in the spring. But all of this is now behind and orders are increasing daily. We have reduced our funded debt $1,000,000 and have no bank indebtedness.

"The improvement in farm conditions is already felt in agricultural sections. In our Kansas City branch, which covers a large farming territory July sales brought stock below normal. Chicago branch deliveries were also greatly increased in July."

NEW FLINT COUPE OUT

Latest Model Has Many New Improvements

Continuation of the popular Flint six "55" coupe with the addition of a number of improvements and refinements is announced by the Flint Motor company of Flint, Michigan. The chasis remains the same, and in keeping with the established policy of this company the basic design and distinguishing features are unchanged. The optional color choice of blue, maroon or gray is retained.

A graceful curve has been accomplished in redesigning the rear corners of the top and the length of body has been increased five and one-half inches. The seating arrangement has been made more comfortable because of five inches increased width of the body. The rear deck has been moulded to a graceful slope.

Mention of this latter feature brings to notice that the Flint Motor company recognizes what a strong hold golf has taken on the motoring public, for in addition to generous baggage space beneath the rear deck, there is also a large, long compartment designed to hold a golf bag, clubs and other equipment of the devotees of this game. This unusual compartment is also adapted to many other uses.

Mr. Glancy's appointment is in line with General Motors' expansion policy for the Oakland Motor Car company. With other important appointments already announced, Oakland is adding to its personnel men who have made notable achievements in sales and production.

Mr. Glancy is a seasoned executive and manufacturer. He comes to Oakland from another General Motors division, the Waukesha Malleable Iron company of Janesville, Wis., of which organization he was president and general manager. During the last five years he has handled a number of important assignments for General Motors and for the previous five years was identified in executive positions with the Du Pont interests.

CHRYSLER BREAKS RECORD

Stock Car Beats 20th Century Limited's Time On Fresno Track

Shattering all previous distance endurance records, a stock Chrysler six phaeton covered 100 miles in 1007 minutes elapsed time at Fresno, Calif., September 17.

Deducting the time consumed for necessary stops, such as for gasoline, oil, tire changes and food for the driver, the net running time was 878 minutes, 10.8 seconds, an average speed of 68.331 miles an hour.

The distance, 22 miles longer than the New York Central railroad's route from New York to Chicago, was made in 5 hours and 21 minutes less running time than the famous Twentieth Century Limited's scheduled time between America's two largest cities. It was made in an hour and 29 minutes less than the famous train has ever completed its shorter run.

GRAIN VS. CHEVROLET

Table Shows Changes In Price of Two Commodities

What motor cars cost in 1913 as contrasted with their cost today, demonstrates a striking proof of the economies wrought in automobile manufacture and distribution. Nearly every make of car that was sold in 1913 and is sold today cost considerably more in the prewar period.

Statisticians of the Chevrolet Motor company have shown that taking a group of cars in the $1,500 class and a representative group of cars in the less than $1,000 class, the price decrease since 1913 has been almost 30 per cent, while the price differential from all commodities as shown by government figures is a 45 per cent increase over 1913.

Better Cars Today

In spite of the fact that the price of automobiles is less today, the product itself has been vastly improved. Today cars are more beautiful, more comfortable, more mechanically perfect and more dependable.

The Chevrolet statistical department has worked out an interesting comparison between the quantity of basic food products that were required to purchase a Chevrolet touring car in 1913 and that required to purchase the corresponding model today. It must be borne in mind that the 1913 Chevrolet factory price for the touring car was $1,000, while the touring car that has succeeded this model lists today for $510.

The cotton grower in 1913 would have to pick and prepare 16 bales of cotton for a Chevrolet, while today he would need to exchange but four bales. Eleven years ago a tobacco grower would have to raise and cure 7,460 pounds of tobacco while today he would have to exchange but 1,530 pounds for this car.

Sheep raisers would today receive a Chevrolet for 4,600 pounds of sheep, for which in 1913 they would have to give 21,015 pounds of their live product.

More Corn Needed

Against 1,065 bushels of wheat in 1913, only 395 bushels would be required today to purchase a Chevrolet.

Six hundred seventy-six bushels of potatoes today would purchase this car as contrasted with 1,601 bushels 11 years ago; while 1,416 pounds of butter today could be exchanged for the present model that required 3,177 pounds of butter a decade ago in a trade.

The pounds of cattle, hogs or wool that were required in exchange for a Chevrolet in 1913 were practically two and a quarter times greater than would be required today for a greatly improved product.

TROPHY IS FINISHED

Award for Air Flight to be Made by Rickenbacker

DETROIT, Oct. 11.—A trophy for light airplane contests to be known as the Rickenbacker trophy and to be awarded by the American ace of aces, has been finished by Miss Josephine Kern, famous young American sculptor. It is a bronze figure, 31 inches in height.

Instead of flights around a set course, Rickenbacker stipulates that flights must be cross-country from city to city, nonstop.

The purpose of the trophy is to develop small, low-powered, low-priced, one-man planes, as one of the types best suited to general commercial use.

The first contest for the Rickenbacker trophy will start at the close of the international meet at Dayton and end at Detroit— a 225-mile trip, which must be made without stop, or refueling.

Pierce-Arrow Head Expects Commercial World to Increase

Unmistakable signs of an increasing upcurve in business are reported by President Myron E. Forbes of the Pierce-Arrow Motor Car company in a communication just received here by Thomas Duke, Pierce-Arrow distributors.

"Because of their widespread distributing organizations, motor car manufacturers are able to keep an unusually close contact with the business world," says Forbes.

"In this respect the management of the Pierce-Arrow company is singularly fortunate. Our truck representatives are in almost daily touch with more than 200 lines of industry. In handling the distribution of our motor busses, Pierce-Arrow men are constantly gaining first-hand knowledge of day-to-day conditions in the field of passenger transportation, which is an important index of commercial activity. And in their contact with owners of Pierce-Arrow cars, both the higher priced and more moderately priced model, our distributors and dealers have a most favorable opportunity to discuss the trend of business affairs with men who are leaders in commercial life."

Big Buss Sets Economy Record in Traveling Over Bad Roads

HAS NO TROUBLE

Mechanical Features Of Machine Act Perfectly On Entire Tour

Already hailed as the forerunner of a new type of transcontinental travel after its record-breaking journey from New York to the Pacific coast without experiencing mechanical difficulties of any kind, the Reo sedan touring bus completed the return trip to Lansing, Mich., on September 19 and there established a time schedule for such a journey well worthy of a fast touring car. The big bus, which arrived in Los Angeles after more than 5,000 miles of cross-country travel, left on September 4 on its return trip.

Routed by way of Phoenix, Douglas, Dallas, Fort Worth, Oklahoma City, Wichita, Kansas City, St. Louis and Indianapolis the big vehicle made the distance in fifteen days elapsed time, including brief stops at the Reo branches in Phoenix and Dallas, besides stops overnight after each day of motoring. The average day's travel for the trip amounted to more than 215 miles and this included travel over some of the worst roads between California and the east.

Leaving the Reo factory at Lansing on July 14, the bus was driven to New York city where the official start for the Pacific coast was made. The bus followed the Yellowstone Trail to Yellowstone park, and thence to the Pacific coast at Seattle. From Seattle the trip down the coast was made with stops at Portland, Sacramento, Stockton, Oakland, San Francisco and Fersno, reaching Los Angeles at noon Friday August 29.

The first day's run on the return trip is typical of the eastbound schedule. Leaving Los Angeles, Santa Ana was visited and then, by way of Santa Ana Canyon, Corona, Riverside, Beaumont, Banning, Indio, Mecca, Blythe was reached that night after approximately 280 miles of travel, the last ninety miles between Mecca and Blythe being through rough desert and mountain country that is a severe test on a touring car, while the big six-cylinder bus weighed 7,400 pounds equipped for travel.

The same three men who left Lansing with the big bus in July accompanied it throughout the trip. Dave F. Fassett and C. E. Griffith of the engineering division of the Reo factory, acting as regular and relief drivers respectively, while J. C. Brandimore of the factory sales department accompanied the bus as a special representative of the company.

The Married Life Of Helen and Warren

By Mabel Herbert Urner

"We'll want some more chairs! Bring one from the bedroom and one from my room," Helen was in a "getting-ready-for-company" flutter.

"How many'd she say?" Warren swung in with the two chairs.

"She's having 12 for dinner—but they may not all come up. Look how she sheds!" brushing Pussy Purr-Mew's fur from the couch.

"Twelve? Got her nerve to ring in that mob on us. Why didn't she take 'em to the theatre? Cheaper to bring 'em up here, eh?"

"If I'd only known this afternoon—but to phone the last minute!" hastily fluffing the cushions. "And Dora's out—she always is when we need her."

"Where d'you want this one? Pretty rickety."

"Put that in the corner," Helen viewed the frail Chippendale chair from her room. "We won't use it unless we have to. Now, come help me with the drinks."

"No, no, not for the Reynolds! She's always inviting me to something and this's the first chance we've had to do anything for her. Now, dear, don't be horrid! I thought some of that cognac—"

"What?" Warren exploded. "That five-star cognac for a crowd we don't know?"

"They don't expect a thing! She's just bringing them up to see our old furniture—she's always talking about our apartment. She's crazy about antiques."

"Huh, that's just a stall to unload the bunch on us. Bet she—"

"Why, I had nine of these cordial glasses! Has she broken one? Hold this."

While he steadied the step-ladder chair, Helen climbed up to the pantry shelves.

"Just look at that dust!" running her finger over the oil-cloth. "She hasn't touched these shelves for weeks. What's this?" unwrapping some tissue paper. "One of the good cups—cracked!"

"Now don't start lookin' for trouble," pinching her ankles. "Get that glass, if it's up there—and come down."

"It isn't here. She's broken it and thrown it out. We'll have to use four of these larger ones," climbing down. "Now, get that tray from the sideboard."

When Warren stumped back with the Sheffield tray Helen was dragging out the big stone jar in which she kept her treasured fruit-cake.

"Hold on, not going to feed 'em that?" as she unwrapped its many swathings.

"I'll have to. We're all out of those wafers. But it won't take much—I'll cut it thin," examining the rich fruit-cake she made once a year.

"No, not from the side! Let me cut it."

"Don't be so blamed stingy," scowling at the meager sliver. "If you can hand it out to that bunch, guess I can have some."

"Dear, we've got to hurry! She said they'd be down in 20 minutes."

"Not if I'd talked to her. Wish I'd answered that phone—I'd have squelched that little plan. Bringin' down that crew to camp on us!"

"They're all right," blowing off the dust.

"Warren, I asked you to WASH them! If you don't—I'll have to!" with a grimace at his masculine disregard of cleanliness that she could never overcome.

She was cutting the cake now. The [illegible] fruit made the water-thin slices hold, together. And each slice she economically cut in half.

"What ARE you wiping those glasses on? Where did you get that dust-cloth?" snatching it from him. "Now, wash those ALL over. That's a tea-towel right before you."

"Here, get out of my way," Warren elbowed Pussy Purr-Mew. "If you're so all-fired clean, wonder you'd let that cat sit on the kitchen table."

"Shes not supposed to—Dora spoils her. Now, doesnt that look nice?" arranging the fruit-cake and glasses on the silver tray. "Now I must do my hair. You go in and get out your cigars. Fix that smoking stand."

"Well, they don't get my best cigars, that's certain! Those three-for-a-quarter'll do for this delegation."

"You know you wouldn't give them those! And turn on all the lights—and see that everything's all right," as she flew to her room.

Of course they would be in evening dress, but since Warren had obstinately refused to put on a dinner coat, she would just slip into her chameleon taffeta.

Twenty-five after nine by the ivory clock on her dressing table! Only five minutes more, for Mrs. Reynolds had said they would come up at half-past.

That cauliflower they had for dinner! She must burn some incense.

"Dear, I'm not quite ready," she called. "Can't you light some incense? Right there in the drawer of that Sheraton table."

"Where 'bouts?" he yelled back. "What's it look like?"

"In a green box—and there's a thing to burn it in. Just LOOK, dear!"

The faint cathedral fragrance proved he had found it without further instructions—an unusual achievement for him.

The bell!

"You'll have to go," in a stage whisper as she ran to the library. "Have them take off their wraps in your room. Oh, no, they won't have any wraps. I'll be in in a minute. Now, dear, DO be nice! Don't look grouchy and—"

A chorus of voices! Feminine shrills and masculine rumbles.

A moment later, with the shrinking dread of meeting so many strangers, Helen entered the library. Standing around in groups, they were chattering with the artificial animation of such parties.

"Oh, Mrs. Curtis, it was SO good of you to let us come up," Mrs. Reynolds drew her forward. "I've been raving about your lovely old things! My cousin, Mr. Lester, Mr. and Mrs. Perry, Mme. Fatima, the opera singer, and Miss—"

Through the murmurous buzz of the other names Helen kept her fixed company smile, always assumed for the ordeal of wholesale introductions.

Awkwardly self-conscious Helen stood glancing around. Everyone else seemed more at home.

With a murmured excuse, she hurried out to the dining-room. It was too soon to serve refreshments, but it was an escape from the awkwardness of standing about.

That they were not interested in her or her antiques, she knew. Warren had been right. Merely some place to go—an outlet for a restless party.

"Oh, how wonderful that looks! We didn't expect anything like this!"

Helen had hoped for a few prohibitionists, but there were none in that crowd. And she had counted on some not taking cake—but they all did. The stout opera singer appropriating two slices, stuck together.

"Such rich, delicious fruit-cake," gushed one of the women. "I'm sure it's home-made. I don't know when I've enoyed anything so much."

"Would you like another piece?"

Helen had said it nervously, furious the moment it escaped her. But now she had no choice but to replenish the plate.

Out in the kitchen, unwrapping her precious fruit-cake, grudgingly she cut 12 more slices. She could not offer to one, without passing it all around.

"Get DOWN!" venting her resentment on Pussy Purr-Mew.

The refilled cake plate was enthusiastically greeted. With varied eulogistic coments they all accepted a second slice.

Pandemonium for the next few moments.

Mme. Fatima, dragged to her feet by two of the men, was scarlet and furious.

Everyone gathered about, anxiously inquiring if she were hurt.

After this awkward and constraining incident, the party soon broke up.

"I'm so sorry about the chair," apologized Mrs. Reynolds when she said good night. "But a cabinet-maker can mend it so you'd never know."

They were all pressing around Helen now with duty leave-taking remarks.

"We've enjoyed seeing your lovely things!" "It was so nice of you to let us come up." "I adore your apartment!" "Such enchanting old-world things!" were the various tributes.

The last good night said, the door closed after them.

"Well, that was a nice wrecking party!" Warren switched off the hall lights. "That musical hippo makin' kindlin' wood of your chair!"

"It's ruined! They're never strong after they're mended. Did she break the leg, too?" rushing into the bedroom where Warren had thrust the remains.

"Smashed to smithereens," he shrugged, as she examined the wreck. "Had her nerve to park her hulk in that chair. Tryin' to vamp that young Johnnie, wasn't she?"

"She was so absorbed in him—she didn't look where she sat," tearfully.

"Huh, weighs a ton! When that triple-chin warbler flops down it's good night Mr. Chippendale!"

"I told you to put this chair way back so they wouldn't sit in it," fitting the pieces together. "And you didn't—you left it right there!"

"That's right, make me the goat! You let that house-wrecking crew guzzle our good pre-war stuff, break up the furniture—then blame it on me. And your prize fruit-cake—they sunk that, all right. Tryin' to pull off the 'gracious hostess' stunt, eh? If you had to give 'em a hand-out—that was the time to do it on the cheap. Might've worked off that sour home-brew with a quarter's worth of pretzels! Good enough for those sponge-eaters!"

"A MIDNIGHT INTRUDER"

RAID A CHURCH, TWO SLAIN

Another Injured When Officers Interrupt Card and Booze Party.

By The Associated Press.

TOMPKINSVILLE, Ky., Oct. 11.—A double murder at Butler's Landing, Cumberland county, five miles south of Celina, Tenn., and twenty-five miles south of Tompkinsville, occurred when Vaneus Spears, 45, deputy sheriff and Jay Mayberry, ferryman at Butler's Landing, were shot to death, and a deputy sheriff struck over the head with a lamp.

Twelve men were playing cards and drinking moonshine liquor in a church at Butler's Landing when the officers made the raid. Spears knocked on the door and said, "open it." Someone inside remarked, "if you want it opened, open it yourself."

The officer opened the door and started into the church; a shot was fired, and the light blown out. The deputy sheriff, who climbed through the window, was struck with the lamp. In the firing, Mayberry, the ferryman, was killed. Others in the party were injured

DEFRAUDS FOR OTHER WOMAN

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—The familiar triangle has appeared in the background of the George R. Christian 1½-million-dollar defalcation case.

"Another woman," the police said they had learned, figured in the sensational looting of the securities of the old brokerage firm of Day & Heaton., of which Christian was a partner after 28 years' service that began as an office boy and messenger.

Christian, according to the authorities, made expensive jewelry purchasses for the "other woman" last winter. The broker frequently was seen in the company of the stranger, a young, fashionably dressed woman, detectives reported. Last Christmas he bought $3,000 in diamonds from an uptown jeweler, the police said, adding they ascertained from Mrs. Christian she did not get the gems.

Dry Agents Who Sold Chicago Withdrawal Permits Are Known.

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—Names of prohibition agents who sold permits for sacrametal wine withdrawals have been revealed, special federal agents said here after an all-night questioning of wine dealers. Investigation was begun after it was found thousands of gallons more of wine had been sold in the last year than in the previous year.

One dealer was said by operatives to have told of paying $400 for a permit for two thousand gallons and $300 more before the shipment was delivered. Officers estimated $100,000 a month had been obtained from the sale of permits.

Nash's Condition Never Better, Is President's View

He Tells Directors That Company is in Good Financial Shape

DIVIDEND DECLARED

Heavy Demand Experienced For New Advanced Six Models, He Says

At a meeting of the directors of the Nash Motors company in New York, President Nash reported net income of $1,205,766.09 for the three months period ending August 31, after deducting manufacturing expenses including depreciation, selling and administrative expenses and after a further deduction for local, state and federal taxes. Dividend action was taken in the form of a quarterly divident of $1.75 per share on the outstanding preferred stock, payable November 1, 1924 to holders of preferred stock of record at 3 o'clock p. m., October 20, 1924.

Up to Expectation.

In commenting upon business done during this third quarter, President Nash stated that both valume and revenue were fully up to expectations in view of the fact that during this period production and sales naturally tapered off on current models to permit the proper introduction of new models August 1. With respect to future prospects, he said that every indication pointed to most successful continuance of prosperous conditions for the company. At the time the new models were presented to the public, the company's dealers had satisfactorily disposed of former models and were in excellent position to launch the new models.

New Models Popular.

At no period in the history of the company, has such widespread interest attended the disclosure of new models as greeted the advanced six series and special six series and since August 1 the demand for cars has progressed so vigorously that despite the greatest production ever attained, the company is oversold by a large number of cars. A healthy aspect of the situation is the evenness of the demand all over the country. Even in district where general business is below normal and in agricultural regions that have been experiencing difficulties for several years, the dealers of this company are receiving a large volume of orders. It is safe to say that the character of these models has served to place the company and its product in a more highly favorable light with purchasers than ever before.

DOLES FOR HOHENZOLLERNS?

SIX WHEEL CAR POPULAR

Demand For Product Means Expansion for Western Factory.

The demand for the Maxi-Six wheel unit has been so great that a new plant is now planned by the Six Wheel corporation of Los Angeles, according to report from the board of directors at a special meeting held Wednesday.

A regular factory building of the saw-tooth construction will be used for the production of the six-wheel equipment for trucks to supply the Pacific coast demand, distributors are now being appointed on the coast to take care of this rapidly growing business.

Distributors will not be appointed in the east until after the Chicago and New York shows, where this California six-wheeler will make its bow to the eastern market.

CONTINUE BUILDING "SIXES"

Rickenbacker Denies Reports It Will Drop Models.

"It has been brought to my attention from several different sources that some of our distributors selling cars in about our price class have been giving out information, since we brought out our vertical eight, that the Rickenbacker Motor company intends to discontinue the manufacture of the six-cylinder car and I wish at this time to correct any such impression," states B. F. Everitt, president and general manager of the Rickenbacker Motor company, Detroit, Mich.

"The Rickenbacker Motor company will build and continue to build the six-cylinder models the same as they are today, with such changes and improvements as we deem necessary from time to time for the betterment of the product, as we have in the past. We expect to build three six-cylinder cars for every eight-cylinder we build for we believe that the public will always buy six-cylinder cars and we believe that this model will be by far the most popular model in our line."

DEALER DEVISED DUPLEX

Studebaker Suggests Two-Way Top For Pleasure Cars

The introduction of the duplex style of bodies for open cars marks an innovation in body styles which have not shown any distinct innovation for a number of years.

Studebaker is given credit for the idea, as they are first to put such a car on the market, a style they call the duplex phaeton, which is readily convertible from an open to a closed-car type in five seconds. The production of the new type came in answer to a demand from the motoring public for more protection against inclement weather, but at a cost that would not be so high as that necessary to produce the standard types of closed cars, such as sedans and coupes.

According to Frank Keim of Keim Motor Co., local Studebaker dealer, the factory engineers tried many structural designs in an endeavor to produce a closed car body and lower the cost, but in every case they had to either sacrifice quality of materials and workmanship or leave off the many desirable features that have become fixed in the mind of the public as standard on closed cars.

It was a suggestion from a Studebaker dealer that led to the development of the body type known as the duplex phaeton.

4,000 MILES ON TOUR

Ohio Man Praises Nash For Extraordinary Run.

Arriving at Los Angeles last week after more than 4,000 miles of cross-country travel under all kinds of climatic conditions and over roads that were variously described as good, bad and indifferent, J. E. Sharp and his wife had only words of highest praise for the new 1925 Nash advanced six touring car which they piloted on the long trip.

Sharp hails from Akron, O., and in the past few weeks has traveled exactly 4,029 miles, using a total of 246 gallons of gas for the distance, an average of 16-925 miles per gallon. Less than a gallon of water was added during the long journey and at times the motorist found the thermometer soaring up around the 120-degree mark.

Norvell declined to reveal the name of his client, but stated that before her marriage to a Tulsa man she was known as Ida Crabtree. He said he planned to attack the will on the grounds that the actress at the time she drew the will was not capable of disposing of her estate.

Your 1934 PACKARD

unless Packard is successful in doing that which others have been unable to do—improve on Packard lines.

If the industry, competing within itself, has been unable to improve on Packard Six lines but rather, has appropriated them,

then, Packard has set an enduring style.

And, in an enduring style your motor car investment is best protected.

"MRS. O'LEARY'S COW."

Chicago Observes Fifty-Third Anniversary of Its Fire.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—Chicago today observed the fifty-third anniversary of its destruction by fire by dedicating the five million dollar Grant park stadium and joining with 35 other Illinois cities in celebrating the industrial progress of the state at the opening of the Illinois Products exposition.

In addition to drills and a pole game in connection with the dedication ceremonies, the program called for a miniature reproduction of the legendary origin of the fire of 1871. An alleged descendant of Mrs. O'Leary's cow, failed starter of the blaze, was trained to kick over a lantern in a barn on the stadium field while eight veterans of the 1871 fire department, using a hand pump engine of the period, demonstrated how they fought the flames that swept the city.

POWER IN NEW PEERLESS.

Motor Has Strength Without High Operating Cost.

The ability of the new Peerless six motor to develop phenomenal power, owing to advanced engineering features in its design, without sacrifice of economy, is the outstanding feature of this newest product of Peerless engineers, according to W. E. Shipley, local Peerless distributor.

"The motor has been so designed that tremendous power is assured, and yet Peerless engineers in building this power into the motor have not resorted to a high-speed engine or to high cubic inch piston displacement," explained Mr. Shipley yesterday. "Many manufacturers attain power by the use of an exceptionally high speed motor, but in doing so substantially lower the efficiency of the power unit. Others attain power by the use of a large motor, but such procedure spells high gasoline consumption.

"The Peerless six motor reaches its power peak, seventy brake horse power, at a speed of but a 2500 r.p.m., a turn over much lower than most motors of anywhere near like power. Its piston displacement is but 288.6 cubic inches. This design assures low gasoline consumption."

RICKENBACKER HONORED.

World Fliers Select it as Official Car For Their Use.

It will be recalled that before starting from Clover Field on their world-encircling flight, the group of American aviators nominated the Rickenbacker as official car of the expedition.

At every landing field on this great journey, the first thing the flyers looked for on stepping out of their planes was a car with the insignia Uncle Sam's Hat in the Ring on the radiator.

Even in England, when they glided to the ground at Croydon just outside London, they found the faithful Rickenbacker Six ready to take them to their hotel.

Just before the recent gold cup boat race, Commodore H. B. Greening of Hamilton, Ont., procured a Willard battery for his "Rainbow IV" especially for the race. That he won, and in winning created a Willard battery [illegible] [illegible] where history repeats itself.

WALTER P. CHRYSLER'S TRAFFIC TALKS

HINTS FOR GOOD DRIVING

Obey the signal of any person leading, riding or driving one or more horses or other animals.

When coming out of a garage drive with more than ordinary care. Usually in coming out of a garage you have to cross a sidewalk and that is where people walk.

When you crank your car in the street make sure that your brakes are set.

Don't neglect the emergency or handbrake. Learn to use it.

If there is danger from skidding use chains.

WHERE AND HOW TO TURN

Never unexpectedly change your course.

To do any of these things while driving a motor car may result in an accident.

Learn to drive in a straight line always. If you must change your course make clear with hand signals what you intend to do.

In turning a corner watch for both pedestrians and motorists. In turning a corner you may be running through a stream of pedestrians who have just been given the signal by the traffic officer to cross.

Pedestrians should be allowed to cross before motor travel is permitted to run through the line of walking.

PARIS THE BUSIEST CITY

The Automobile club of Southern California, the largest organization of its kind in the world, has just inaugurated a highway patrol service to give first aid injuries, furnish road information and help in the case of breakdown.

Southern California is the greatest motor car market in the world. Los Angeles has some of the most troublesome traffic problems of any city because of its amazing growth and because of the large number of visitors in the city every day.

Paris, not New York, probably has the biggest traffic problem in the world. According to a tally kept by the police in Paris recently it was found that between the hours of 3 and 7 p. m. more than 104,000 vehicles passed the crossroads at the Place de la Concorde.

WATCH YOUR HEADLIGHTS

There are anti-glare laws to prevent this. Make sure you are obeying the law.

The number of accidents due to glaring lights has become so frequent that most communities today have adequate laws regulating the use of lights. It must not be forgotten that the purpose of a light is to see where you are going, not to confuse the motorist approaching you.

FUGITIVE, IN PLEA

Man, Convicted of Slaying Two in 1894 Writes to Hyde.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 11.—Governor Hyde several days ago received a letter from Noble Shepard, convicted of killing a man and woman in St. Louis in 1894 and sentenced to death. He escaped from the St. Louis jail in 1896. Shepard offered to give himself up on the governor's promise that his sentence would be commuted to life imprisonment.

"I am now old and feeble and will give myself up if you promise not to hang me," he wrote the governor. Should the governor see fit to grant his appeal, he asked that a notice be published in a St. Louis afternoon paper.

Governor Hyde telephone Martin O'Brien, chief of police at St. Louis for details. After the conversation he announced he could make no promise, but if Shepard gave himself up would investigate the case personally.

Human Elements In Business Are Still Dominant

Babson Finds That Stock Values Depend Upon Their Leaders

CITES PRESTON DEATH

Passing of United Fruit President May Affect Company's Value

By ROGER W. BABSON.

The recent death of Andrew W. Preston, president of the United Fruit company, has again brought up the much discussed question of the human element in investment values. The business world has lost another leader. I, for one, believe that the investment world is poorer, in spite of the fact that book assets remain the same.

The business of the United Fruit company with all probability will continue to go on successfully. We should, however, consider the possible effect of the death of its president in the light of previous financial history. The company has suffered a severe loss, a loss impossible to estimate at this time. Mr. Preston not only knew the fruit business thoroughly, but had the confidence of both employees and stockholders. He was a real captain of industry, a man of great vision, power and judgment. Although the company may continue to increase its fruit business and its stock may yet sell at record high figures, it would be surprising indeed if it does not ultimately suffer marketwise from Mr. Preston's death. A vessel is always a vessel, and a crew is always a crew but the profit of both vessel and crew depend to a large extent upon the skill and ability of the captain in charge. Wage workers and stockholders are entitled to their fair share of the profits of every business, but in the last analysis it must be admitted that these profits are largely due to the character, judgment, vision and energy of some one individual.

Cites Railway Examples.

In discussing the possible effect of Mr. Preston's death several bankers and investment experts have recalled the effect of similar previous losses. They have cited the fact that the Great Northern and Northern Pacific reached their highest point under the personal management of James J. Hill and that since his death a decline in the prices of these stocks has been almost continuous. They have reminisced concerning Harriman and what happened to the market price of Union Pacific and other Harriman stocks after his death. Other instances in our business and financial history substantiate the general rule that industrial securities reach their peak previous to the death or retirement of the founder of the company. These men still have confidence in the United Fruit company knowing that it is a sound business and is well entrenched both as to the production and distribution of fruits. Most of them are optimistic on the market as a whole and believe that United Fruit will continue to go up with the others, but the situation does bring to mind the fundamental fact that the value of securities lies not in the real estate or buildings owned, nor in the temporary earnings of the corporation, but in the character, judgment vision and energy of the men in control. Moreover, this fundamental principal applies to all businesses, large and small.

This same idea has been brought out recently by Edna Ferber in her book "So Big." In her "Aug Hemple" she draws a picture of the founder of the packing industry as it exists today in America. It shows how that great industry reached its peak before his death and that no son or relative has since been able to put into it the vision and energy that this founder possessed. Quite by coincidence you can get a detailed picture of this same "Aug Hempel" in George Horace Lorimer's book "Letters of a Self-Made Merchant to His Son." The present editor of the Saturday Evening Post was once his private secretary.

Owes It To Men.

We see this principle again as it works itself out in a communty. American development is not dependent upon national resources, location, nor inherent wealth. Every city worth while today owes its growth to some one or more men of character, vision and courage who threw their energy into the building up of a town. The great danger threatening most of our cities today is that after the community has secured a certain momentum of growth it is apt to think that it can run along without further leadership. This is a great mistake and the best thing that a chamber of commerce can do is to clearly recognize this fact. The men who are giving their lives to the building up of your city should be helped and encouraged.

Business is still dull. I have just returned from a trip to some of the leading cities in the eastern section of the United States and of Canada. The bankers, manufacturers and merchants with whom I talked seemed puzzled. They say that there is no surplus of goods on the shelves of the merchants, that the corporations are not overexpanded financially, and that fundamentally things are in pretty good shape. The most common expression I heard was that business seems to lack 'pep' or seems to be 'drifting.' The actual situation is pictured on the Babsonchart which continues to show general activity at 7 per cent below normal.

May Be Losing Interest.

I wonder if it is possible that our business men, owing to burdensome taxation, government interference or some other cause apparently beyond their control are losing interest in their business? If this is true it presents an exceptionally serious problem, a problem more vital than that of business depression or even a business panic. If statistics teach anything, they teach that men make values—and that souls make men.

Certain political leaders are preaching today that there should be a redivision of things. Perhaps there should be if such a redivision could come about in a natural way; but in attempting to divide things up we must be very careful that we do not sever the artery upon which business depends for its very life. It is possible that the uncertainty of the political situation is a contributing cause, but I return from this trip convinced that the country's business men are sorly in need of courage and confidence today. They need this confidence much worse than they need any more legislation or new rules. It may be good drama for certain politicians to berate and belittle men like Harriman, Hill, Armour and Preston. it may win them a few votes with the unthinking but before we discount these men—before we lend our support to 'the under dog' just because, as a sporting proposition, it appeals to us—let us appraise these captains of industry. Let's figure what their initiative and vision meant in the development of America and just how much of the comforts, conveniences and living that we enjoy today is directly due or indirectly due to them. Then let us come out into the open and back the people we believe in, that confidence may again be restored and that we may go forward toward better times for everyone.

Connally Assails Literary Digest Straw Vote Polls

ARE NOT ACCURATE

Results of Attempts in Past Prove Fallacy Of Trying Them

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD
Record News Staff

Tom Connally of Texas has denounced the straw vote being taken by the Literary Digest on the presidential nominee as bunk. "When such a vote is honestly conducted and honestly tabulated it is as much of a gamble as betting on the flip of a coin," remarked Tom Connally of Texas. "When dishonestly conducted or manipulated it partakes of the nature of a shell-game at a county fair. Some recent notable national polls have turned out as incorrect as Mother Shippen's phophecy of the end of the world."

Andrew W. Mellon, it will be recalled, evolved a taxation plan. This plan had the backing of Wall street, the backing of big business, the backing of President Coolidge but it was defeated by a combination of democrats and progressive republicans. Speaking of straw votes Tom Connally of Texas again remarks:

Raps Mellon Poll

"Take for instance the Literary Digest's straw vote on the Mellon plan. That poll cost a great deal of money and accounted for more than two million votes. It was denounced on the floor of the house as part of big business propaganda to stampede congress into passing the Mellon tax bill. This Literary Digest poll indicated that the country was more than two to one in favor of the Mellon plan, whereas, it is now plain that the country is overwhelmingly against it and so great is the fear that the plan will be put forth again should the republicans remain in office, that it has become a live campaign issue."

Tom Connally of Texas should go back to the files of the literary Digest of 1912. In that year Theodore Roosevelt split the republican party wide open and his bolt made possible the election of Woodrow Wilson William Howard Taft was the republican nominee running for reelection. In that year the Literary Digest was taking straw votes and printing forecasts. This from the Digest of October 5, 1912 is very interesting:

"Mr. Taft's managers are pointing to the recent crop and other evidences of growing prosperity and declaring that the country will not risk a change when everything is going so well with it. Prosperity, admits the New York Evening Post, has always fought on the side of the party in power and the republican papers while not actually predicting victory, speak hopefully of the improved outlook. Thus the Boston Advertiser, republican, believes that Mr. Taft's prospects are already brightening under its influence. The great majority of the business men in the middle west are coming over to the support of the republican ticket, reports the St. Louis Globe Democrat, republican. The country is prosperous and there is no reason for a change, declares the Baltimore American, republican."

Well, the election took place in November. Mr. Taft's republican party carried two states, Utah and Vermont and the democratic party went into power under Woodrow Wilson. Wilson got 435 electorial votes. Roosevelt 88 and taft 8.

Hillis Guessed Wrong.

National Committeeman Hillis of New York managed the Taft campaign. The day before the election he claimed 290 votes in the electorial college or twenty-four more than necessary to elect. All this reminds a Kansas democrat that Taft had his Ballinger, Harding had his Fall and Coolidge has his Denby and Daugherty who turned the oil reserve over to Doheny and Sinclair.

Likewise, William Howard Taft now chief justice of the supreme court had his Theodore Roosevelt and Calvin Coolidge his Robert M. La-Follette. Tom Connally of Texas is reminded that the publisher of the Literary Digest is a wise man and casts an anchor to the wind. A late number of the Digest made this announcement:

"The Digest's famous straw votes represent the opinion of the so-called 'high classes' of the population and do not reach down to the mudsills of society—the manual worker, the clerical workers and the agricultural workers."

And the higher classes are said to represent about twenty per cent of the voters of America so they alone are included in the presidential straw vote.

Almost one-half of the population of the United States live in what is known as the country. Only a very small percentage of this number, "the higher classes" break into the voting contest of the Digest.

There are millions and millions of wage earners, both men and women, who are qualified voters. They are of and for the mudsills of society and voiceless in the straw vote taken by the famous New York publication.

Tom Connally of Texas represents a district which has a voting population 98 percent mudsill and two per cent higher class. Most of the Texas districts are mudsill districts.

Most of the congressional districts in all the forty-eights states are mudsill districts. The do not live in the higher class, hence it is impossible for them to break into the Literary Digest referendum of and for the higher classes.

Potash and Perlmutter

Discuss College Football

"Well, Mawruss, my wife's cousin Nathan Krutnik was up to the house last night, and he says that this coming football season would probably be the biggest on record," Abe Potash observed the other day.

'And since when was Nathan Krutnik such a football fan?" Morris Perlumtter asked.

"Since last year already, when him and a feller by the name Schine went into the coonskin overcoat business," Abe said, "which judging by the number of coonskin overcoats him and Schine sold to retailers since July, Mawruss, they would got to build an annex to the Yale Bowl at New Haven. He estimates that there would be an attendance of anyhow 10,000 coonskin overcoats at the big game on Thanksgiving day, and he thinks that there would even be more, but the manufacturers run out of coon skins."

"If football fashions dont change, Abe, all the raccoons would be killed off in this country," Morris remarked.

Trying to Fool the Waiters

"Not while there's cats, dogs, sheep and other animals, Mawruss," said, "which Krutnik says it's astonishing what you can make a coonskin overcoat out of besides coons, and anyhow, Mawruss, if football fashions do change y'understand, the football season has got to be such a permanent affair, understand me, that Krutnik figured him and Schine could always go into some other branch of manufacturing supplies for football fans, like banners, ribbons, tin horns, megaphones or paper spaghetti for wearing in button holes."

"Football has got to be one of the big key industries of the country," Mawruss remarked.

"It ain't so much an industry as an epidemic," Abe corrected, "but whatever you call it, Mawruss, it certainly stimulates a whole lot of businesses which would be otherwise quite dead between the end of summer and the beginning of Christmas shopping. Take for instance the restaurant business, and so far as I know, Mawruss, a man could be a baseball fan to the point of insanity, y'understand, and yet he never gave a dinner at a swell hotel to celebrate a big victory by the White Sox over the Giants, understand me. But on the other hand, Mawruss, men who ain't got no further connection with Yale than merely having a Yale lock on their liquor supply, will entertain a large party at a big restaurant to celebrate the victory of Yale over Hardvard, and if such a feller actually has a sister whose daughter is married to a man that once got dropped from his freshman year in Yale, y'understand, he's liable to hire a special train to go to the Yale-Harvard game and keep open house in the Spritz-Carlton Hotel afterward."

"At that, Abe, there's no more reason for a man to be a college gradgawate in order to take an interest in the score of a football game, than that he should once have keep a livery stable in order to enjoy a horse race," Morris said.

"But the man who is interested in horse racing don't try to give outsiders the impression that he once owned anyhow Epinard, y'understand," Abe retorted, "whereas these here foolish football fans who for the most part went straight from the sixth grade into business, y'understand, ain't got no excuse for acting the way they do when a big college game happens, unless they would be at least president of the Class of Ninety-eight. In fact, Mawruss, I wouldn't be a bit surprised that a football fan like Charles Lickman gives dinners to celebrate Yale victories in the hopes that the waiters if not the other diners would believe he was a Yale gradgawate."

Why Not Croquet

"Nevertheless, Abe, you've got to give Lickman credit that he would just as lieve give a dinner to celebrate a Harvard victory in the hopes that people are going to take him for a Harvard gradgawate," Morris said, "and so long as he pays the check and hands out the usual tips, the result is just as good for the hotel and restaurant business as if Lickman would be a Ph.D. of Yale and an L. L. D. of Harvard. So therefore, Abe I am in favor of this here college spirit which makes people celebrate college victories, and I don't give a nickel whether it's the genwine old vatted, bottled-in-bond college spirit of a college gradgawate or the phony, bootleg near-college spirit of four flushers like Charles Lickman."

"In fact, Abe," Morris continued, "I would like to see it that the colleges of the country should work up this phony college spirit with resect to other games besides football. Why should the railroad companies, the coonskin overcoat manufacturers and the restaurant keepers of the country benefit from college football only? Aain't there also croqet, snooker pool, checkers and duck on a rock? Which practically every big college has had presented to it by somebody with limited ideas as to how to spend his money—a bowl or stadum seating from fifty to sixty thousand people; and ten or eleven times a year, this bowl is pretty near filled with people in the height of the pneumonia season, watching a football game."

"Now, my idea is, Abe, that such a bowl could be filled with people in warmer weather than November, watching we would say, the Yale croquet team playing the Harvard croquet team, because I feel pretty certain that it's absolutely immaterial to the New Haven Railroad whether they run special trains from New York to either croquet games or football games. All it needs is the right publicity. For years now, Abe, colleges has paid big salaries to football trainers, and have had football training tables, football cheer leaders and even have had their professors of music write football songs."

Patrons Might Get Sore

"Naturally with all this publicity, football has become you might say the decanter for the college spirit of people like Lickman, y'understand, and the only form of college game they will buy coonskin overcoats, railroad transportation and restaurant meals for is football," Morris continued, "but on the other hand, Abe, if the colleges would get together on croquet and checkers, understand me, who can say what the result would be to the business of the country. For every non-college football player in the United States, Abe, there must be at least a thousand checker players, so that to my mind, Abe, all that the colleges would have to do would be to hire croquet trainers and checker trainers, and have cheer leaders appointed and get croquet and checker songs written and composed by their music professors, and them idle bowls and stadiums would be crowded throughout the entire college year."

"But as I understand it, Mawruss," Abe said, "them college bowls and stadiums are built expresly for football, and if the colleges used them for other games, the people who presented them to the colleges might get sore and sue to get back their stadiums. At any rate, they might insist that them million dollar bowls and stadiums be altered and changed over into buildings where instead of fooling away their time with football, them college students would have to attend lectures and recite lessons."

"Well, would that be such a misfortune for the colleges?" Morris asked.

"Sure it would!" Abe said. "The colleges would lose all of their college spirit. There would be nothing to distinguish the American college from the Europeans college, and Yale and Harvard would become just like Heidelberg and Jena. Young fellers would go there merely to study and learn things, and what for a college life is that. Am I right or wrong?

Ring Suggests Play For Championship By Cable

By RING LARDNER.

To the editor:

Here is a idea that was suggested by my 2nd son Jimmie as we was setting at some meal the day after the tennis boys played for the east and west championship. I made the remark that Vincent Richards had beat Bill Johnston in straight sets and he says where was the matches played and I says right here on Long Island and he says well was he here on Long Island yesterday.

So I give him a sarcastic answer, namely Oh no, he was out in San Francisco and they played by telegraph like they play the international chess matches sometimes. So then I had to exclaim to him about the international chess matches that is sometimes played by cable and he says why don't they play the international golf matches and tennis matches and etc. by cable instead of them all talking the trouble to make the trips back and forth.

Tilden as Patterson.

So I thought it over a long wile and come to the conclusion that maybe after all he was right and why should people cross the ocean just for a friendly game that they don't get no money out of it and we will take for inst. the Australian tennis team who I have nicknamed the anzacs and it must cost them a mint of money to come here from clear over there and what does it get them outside of the exercise which they could just as well of had over there and not take no chances of being seasick and I don't know how much it costs to get there from Australia but it certainly would not cost nowheres near as much if they played by cable.

For example, suppose Tilden was playing Gerald Patterson and it happened to be Tilden's first serve, why he would cable to Patterson that he had got his first service over and it was a terrific hard hit ball and what are you going to do about it, why Patterson would cable back, it did not look so hard hit to me. I returned it away into the upper corner of the court on your back-hand where it was pretty near impossible for you to get it. Then Tilden would reply, well I did get it on my back-hand and as you was up close to the net, I made a passing shot which you couldn't possibly get. Then Patterson would cable, it may of seemed to you like I couldn't possibly get it, but as a matter of fact I did get it by a phenomenal stab and I returned it where you couldn't get it in a week.

Then Tilden would wait a while and send back the following answer: It ain't only five days since your last shot come back and I managed to get a hold of it and lob it over your head to pretty close to the base line where I doubt if you could get your racket on it unless you used a airship.

Electrical Bridge.

Patterson's reply would be, I bought a airship as soon as I received your cable and managed to get back and hit that ball and I hit it with such force that even if you do get your racket on it, it will probably break your racket. Tilden would answer: Well, I seen that ball was going to break my racket as the last named is a old racket that has stood lots of wear and tear, so I bought myself a new racket and returned your shot to one inch from the base line where no living being could get their racket on it.

In this way the game could be carried on indefinitely and would probably be the closest tennis game ever played and still not cost near as much as if Mr. Patterson had come over here to play it and further and more we would not half to set out in a boiling sun on hot seats to watch it. To say nothing about how much more chance Patterson would have to win.

The Olympic games could be pulled off in the same way. Like for inst. Hubbard of Michigan was broad jumping vs. who ever broad jumps for France who we will call Lafayette and Hubbard makes the first jump and cables I just jumped 26 fet., try and laugh that off. So Lafayette wires back, you look silly to me, I just took my first leap and done 27 ft. They could keep this up till all records was broke and themselfs too.

But the best game that could be played by cable would be a bridge game because a person could bid pretty near as high as they wanted to and for inst. say they was bidding 6 spades. why when they come to play the hand the declarer could say I have got 12 spades in my hand and the ace of diamonds and the dummy has got the other spade and no diamonds and of course the oppts. could not see what was in either hand and it is bound to be a grand slam
