PLO Sees Release Of Some Hostages

By The Associated Press

FROM New York's U.N. skyscraper to the noisy streets of Tehran, world leaders and diplomats worked feverishly Friday for the freedom of about 60 Americans held prisoner in the Iranian capital's U.S. Embassy.

The embassy was invaded Sunday by Iranian militants demanding that the ousted shah, undergoing treatment for cancer in New York City, be returned for trial.

In Ankara, Turkey, a Palestine Liberation Organization source said a three-man PLO team in Tehran expressed hope that some of the American hostages, possibly a dozen, would be released today. The source, who asked not to be identified, also said the embassy invaders told the PLO officials their captives were in good health and were being given food and water.

But he also said representatives of the Red Cross, known in Iran as the Red Lion, were allowed to visit the prisoners and told the PLO delegates some of the Americans were suffering "mental duress."

PLO chief Yasser Arafat in Beirut, Lebanon, sent the delegates to Tehran, but his organization emphasized they were not "mediators" because neither the United States nor Iran had asked the Palestinians to mediate.

The PLO source said the Palestinian delegates were meeting with Iranian authorities and also with the Iranians inside the embassy.

A Tehran Radio broadcast monitored abroad said the embassy invaders issued a statement saying they would invite the ambassadors of Syria, Algeria, Sweden and France "to visit our hostages and to tell all the nations of the world, and especially the American nation, that it is only the executioner and plunderer (Shah) Mohammad Reza (Pahlavi) and oppressive and cannibalistic rulers like (President) Carter who only aim to colonialize the people of the world and follow policies of threat, torture, annihilation and murder."

In New York, the 15-nation U.N. Security Council issued a statement calling on the militants to release their hostages "without delay."

Worldwide Censure

But U.S. officials feared that even such worldwide censure would not budge the Iranian.

"I am not able to offer you some new hope about a speedy release," State Department spokesman Hodding Carter said in Washington.

Pope John Paul II, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and even former heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali offered their help.

But the Iranians remained defiant.

Embassy militants reached by telephone told reporters they were sticking to their refusal to negotiate unless the Carter administration agrees to surrender the exiled Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi to Iran for trial and likely execution.

"Don't Need America"

Witnesses reported that thousands of Iranians, led by Moslem priests, marched on the occupied embassy and milled around outside chanting, "We don't need America, America needs Iran!"

Tehran Radio, monitored in Kuwait, reported that the students rejected mediation offers made by the Syrian and Pakistani ambassadors in Tehran.

Anti-Iranian Clashes Spread; Americans Hurl Rocks, Eggs

By The Associated Press

AMERICANS squared off against Iranians on Friday in jeering and sometimes violent demonstrations on college campuses and city streets. More than 140 persons — most of them Iranians — were arrested.

The Americans, frustrated by the stalemate over the takeover of the U.S. embassy in Tehran, hurled curses, rocks, eggs — and in one case snowballs — at Iranians who marched in support of their countrymen.

There were clashes in Washington, D.C., Springfield, Mass., and Beverly Hills, Calif. Cries of "Go home where you belong," "USA all the way!" and "We want hostages" rang out as American counter-demonstrators challenged the outnumbered Iranian protesters.

Iranians seized the U.S. embassy in Tehran on Sunday. They are holding some 60 U.S. hostages, demanding that the deposed Shah of Iran — now in New York City for medical treatment — be sent back to his homeland where he is under a sentence of death.

Route Switched

The Iranians in Washington had planned their demonstration since Monday, but the route was switched at the last minute because of concern over possible trouble. The new route kept the 900 marchers at least a block from the White House, but the lunch-hour timing ensured large crowds.

Three counter-demonstrators were arrested — two for breaking through police lines and one for hurling an egg, one of at least half a dozen thrown at the marchers.

About 30 Iranians who marched through Springfield, Mass., were quickly outnumbered by a crowd of Americans that grew to 1,000. Two Americans rushed the Iranians and were taken into custody by police.

Escorted To Safety

The police finally escorted the Iranians to safety — into a store, out a back door and into a bus, which drove off as the crowd threw rocks, bottles and eggs. "We want hostages," some of the Americans yelled. "America — Love it or leave it."

In Beverly Hills, Calif., scene of riots by Iranians last January at the home of the shah's sister, Iranians defied a police ban against their demonstrations. The Iranians were outnumbered by counter-demonstrators who shouted, cursed and spit.

Police used nightsticks to break up the battling factions at one intersection and sheriff's deputies later arrested about 140 people — most of them Iranian. One of the Iranians had a bloody forehead, apparently the result of a struggle with police who handcuffed him.

A crowd estimated by campus police at 1,500 marched at Iowa State University to protest the Iranian seizure of

Iranians Held In Kidnap Try

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Four Iranians and one Sudanese, all students at Mankato State University, were arrested Friday on charges of trying to kidnap Gov. Al Quie, police said.

Police Chief Richard Rowan identified the five men as Hormoz Asadi, Feraidonoon Ghodoosi, Mohamaad Noori and Hady Heidary — all Iranians — and Antoun Stamboulish of Sudan.

Rowan said they were booked by St. Paul police on charges of conspiracy to commit kidnapping, conspiracy to commit assault and possession of a pistol without a permit.

Under Minnesota law, they can be held for 36 hours excluding Sundays and holidays before making a court appearance.

The county attorney's office was considering formal charges Friday night.

Jack Musey, an aide to Quie, said the governor has not, to his knowledge, made any comment about the takeover of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran by Iranian students. Musey said he had no idea what would have sparked a kidnap attempt.

FLAYS KHOMEINI — President Anwar Sadat, speaking from his car at his home near Cairo, displays anger at Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, whom he called "a lunatic." Renewing his offer of asylum to Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, Sadat said the Iranian religious leader's actions were an exploitation of the Islamic faith. (AP Laserphoto)

City's Food Sanitation Procedures Under Fire

By NANCY ALLEN
Avalanche-Journal Staff

LUBBOCK'S Health Department received an "inadequate" rating in a recent evaluation of the city's food sanitation inspection procedures by the Texas Department of Health, Dr. Marjorie Orr told the Board of Health Friday.

"The report doesn't look very good," the city health department head commented while passing copies of the 18-page evaluation to the four board members present.

Specific deficiencies pinpointed by the state inspectors include an insufficient sanitarian staff, unsatisfactory administration of sanitarians and lack of a food ordinance consistent with the state's.

The Texas Department of Health recommends that one sanitarian be added to the staff for every 15,000 persons in the city's population. For Lubbock, that would mean 12 to 13 sanitarians. Lubbock has eight sanitarian positions and all are filled, Dr. Orr reported.

She told the board her department has been making progress on the department recommendations since the voluntary evaluation in September.

"We've pretty much implemented everything except the food ordinance," she said.

Lubbock sanitarians are being "standardized to make sure they grade at a uniform level," Dr. Orr said.

She estimated "it probably will take six months to get them all standardized." Three of the eight inspectors are new to the staff.

Restaurant inspections also have been stepped up, according to Dr. Orr. Food service establishments graded at 90 (of 100) points or above will be inspected quarterly, while those receiving 80 to 90 points will be inspected every 60 days and establishments rated under 80 will be visited by health inspectors every month.

The state report concluded, however, that a food service inspection rating of 92.6 by Lubbock's Health Department compares, on the average, to a rating of 72.5 by state inspectors.

Until recently all Lubbock food service establishments were inspected "twice a year and otherwise irregularly," Dr. Orr said.

The state's evaluation indicated Lubbock sanitarians "thoroughly discuss deficiencies and methods of compliance (with regulations) with the person in charge (of a food service establishment) after each inspection."

"We've been accused of not doing this," Dr. Orr said, referring to recent criticism by members of the local restaurant association. She said Lubbock health inspectors "spend whatever time is necessary to help people comply with health regulations."

Director of City Services Denzel Percifull reported no progress in Lubbock's conflict with the state health department over a new city health ordinance.

Dr. Ray Santos, board chairman, instructed members to "look over" a model health ordinance prepared by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare "so we can make a recommendation to the city council and city manager by next month.

"I think we owe the city of Lubbock a food ordinance," Santos said.

In other business, Dr. Orr told the board that state funding for a child and maternal health grant has been approved.

Some seven state-funded employees will be added to the health department staff with the $100,000 provided by the grant.

They will be used to expand already operating maternal and post-natal clinics.

Dr. Orr also reported nearly 670 persons have received food handler training by the health department since August.

Freak Van Mishap Kills Woman Here

By KIMBERLY PALMER
Avalanche-Journal Staff

A FREAK ACCIDENT Friday night killed a 19-year-old Lubbock woman when the mechanized sliding door on her husband's van closed on her neck, suffocating her.

Mary Ann Webb of 708 Sunset Lane died after she was trapped for about 20 minutes by the sliding panel door on a van specially designed for her wheelchair-bound husband.

The young woman, who turned 19 last month, was on a shopping trip with her husband, Jimmy, at the South Plains Mall when she apparently returned to the van, parked in a handicapped zone close to the mall's north entrance, to get some money, police said.

The couple's two dogs were inside the van and officials speculate the woman may have been trying to push the animals away from the door when it closed on her neck.

When Mrs. Webb did not return to her husband, who was inside the mall looking at a car display, a woman went to look for her and discovered Mrs. Webb trapped by the vehicle's door.

Although the fire department's "Jaws of Life" unit was called to the scene, an EMS paramedic and two off-duty police officers working as security guards managed to use a pocket knife to sever nylon cords attached to a pulley holding the door closed. As the cord was cut, it snapped back with enough force to break the hand of the paramedic.

Authorities said the door could not be normally activated because the electric motor controlling the sliding panel had burned out.

As paramedics checked the woman, police at the scene radioed for assistance in handling the crowd of about 50 who stood around the van in the chilly 45-degree autumn air.

After the woman's body was draped with a sheet and police began dispersing the crowd, her husband, sitting in his wheelchair about 15 feet from the van, began sobbing.

A friend draped a heavy coat over the grieving man's shoulders.

Justice of the Peace L.J. Blalack, who pronounced the woman dead at 7:40 p.m., ruled her death accidental.

Services for Mrs. Webb are pending with Rix Funeral Directors.

Bell Awarded Across-Board Rate Increase

AUSTIN (AP) — Ma Bell will get $1.15 per month more from her one-party residential customers in Texas, thanks to the Public Utility Commission.

Pay telephone users will drop in a quarter instead of 20 cents.

Business customers will pay $3.45 per month more for basic service.

The commission voted 2-1 Friday, with Garrett Morris dissenting, for a rate increase package raising Southwestern Bell Telephone's yearly income by $138.7 million. Bell wanted increases totaling $145.2 million, including a $1.55 per month increase in single-party residential rates.

New rates probably will take effect in about two weeks, said Carlton Baker, the telephone company's vice president in charge of Texas revenue.

The rate increases approved by the commission also include higher charges for service connections and for such business "vertical services" as key telephones, PBX, Centrex and Touch-tone service.

One-party residential rates will rise to $7.15 in Lubbock.

Parade To Kick Off Day Of Festivities

By RUTHANNE BROCKWAY
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Spectators at this morning's annual Texas Tech University Homecoming Parade will see a woman in her own 1979 Cadillac Coup de Ville, wearing a long blue dress, ringing a bell and throwing candy to the crowd.

Her name is Alzora Smith and she has become a part of the tradition associated with the parade.

Mrs. Smith, who has worked in Tech cafeterias for 17 years, began riding in the parade 10 years ago to celebrate "my new 1969 Buick."

An ardent Tech supporter, Mrs. Smith buys candy each year and carefully selects a different dress to wear in the parade. Some years she rides in her own car and sometimes a local car dealership loans her a convertible.

"I hoot and holler and cheer for Tech," she said in explaining her motivation for joining the parade line-up each year.

The parade begins at 9 this morning at Broadway and Avenue G. Floats from dormitory groups, sororities and fraternities and other Tech organizations will compete for trophies for the grand sweepstakes, first and second place winners. The march down Broadway will end at the campus at 10 a.m. and disperse at the Science Quadrangle.

Donny Anderson, former Tech All-American, will lead the parade and serve as this year's marshal. Other All-Americans in the parade will be Dan Irons and Phil Tucker, both Tech exes.

The College of Agricultural Sciences will host a breakfast at 8 a.m. today at the new Livestock Arena at Indiana Avenue and Tech Freeway.

Two coffees honoring ex-students are scheduled today, with the first scheduled to begin at 8:30 a.m. in the University Center courtyard. The second, in recognition of the Class of 1954, will be at 9:30 a.m. at the Ex-Students Association building.

At 11 a.m., ex-students will have a luncheon at the Lubbock Coliseum. Tickets are $3 per person and may be purchased at the door.

Five candidates are vying for Homecoming Queen which will be announced at the 1:45 p.m. pre-game homecoming show in Jones Stadium. The first runner-up also will be honored.

Finalists are Jo Mims of Stanton, senior in the College of Home Economics; Wendy Motlong of Slaton, freshman from the College of Arts and Sciences; Jeanye Hunter of Shallowater, freshman from the College of Arts and Sciences; Kathleen Sweazy of Ulysses, Kans., a senior in the College of Engineering; and Camille Rice, of Wilson, a senior advertising major.

Before the 2 p.m. game between the Red Raiders and the Texas Christian University Horned Frogs, the queen and her court will ride in decorated cars in the stadium. Prize-winning floats from the morning parade will be displayed in the stadium at halftime.

Culminating homecoming events will be a reunion for the Class of 1959 after the game, at the Ex-Students Association Building.

Rape Considered Motive In Murders

CONGLETON, England (AP) — Detectives investigating the shotgun slaying of two wealthy women who were bound, gagged and shot to death said Thursday one of the women had been sexually assaulted, probably at gunpoint.

"We are treating the motive as one of rape," detective Tom Brooks told reporters, reversing an earlier police statement discounting sex as a motive.

Brooks said laboratory tests showed Mrs. Ann Carryer, a 39-year-old mother of two, had been raped. He said there was no evidence the other victim, Mrs. Elizabeth Blood, also 39, had been sexually assualted, "although further tests are being carried out and we still cannot definitely rule it ut."

The bodies of the two women were found by a friend Monday night. They were stripped, gagged, bound and lying face down on beds in separate bedrooms in an unoccupied 400-year-old country mansion near this Cheshire County town in Northern England.

Investigators said they were looking for two men, one aged 25-30, the other about 30, seen leaving Mrs. Blood's car 10 miles from the mansion Monday night.

Police believe Mrs. Blood, the mother of three children, and her friend probably died within seconds of each other on Monday afternoon. Both were shot in the head with a shotgun.

Brooks said there were none of the usual signs of violent assault associated with rape cases, "which is why we could not say initially there had been sexual intercourse."

He said it was possible that the man or men who committed the rape had gone to the mansion to steal and then carried out an "opportunistic offense."

Investigators said they have no evidence of theft from the mansion, which was full of valuable antiques. The victims, both described as "very attractive," had gone there to sort through possessions left by Mrs. Carryer's mother who died last month.

Mrs. Carryer's husband is a business executive. Mrs. Blood was married to a partner in a real estate firm.

AN EDITORIAL:

Soviets Bypass Us In Plight

THERE IS little reason to believe American policy-makers will heed what's being said in Britain since similar warnings from our own shores have been largely ignored for years.

Yet the voice of Lord Peter Hill-Norton, Admiral of the Fleet, expressing alarm over the build-up and deployment by the Soviets of the largest, most modern naval fleet in the world, demands our attention.

Lord Hill-Norton, a former British Chief of Defense Staff, feels that the U.S. and even NATO are no longer capable or willing to meet the threat posed by the Soviet's global navy.

The admiral notes in a study published by the respected London Institute for the Study of Conflict that the Soviet Union has taken "de facto command" of the seas in just a short period of time, i.e., about 15 years.

TEN YEARS from now the Soviet command will be that much more pronounced if the West's fleet is allowed to continue to age and nothing is done to reverse what Lord Hill-Norton characterizes as "this dangerous trend."

The admiral's observations coincide with those of experts on our own side of the Atlantic. John Spittler, president of the Navy League and others see present administration maritime policies as so feeble that we run the risk of "decimating U.S. maritime power."

Spittler notes that Carter's 1981 defense budget calls for drastic cuts in the Navy's shipbuilding program, and in aircraft and weapons procurement.

"The naval aircraft program," he says, is cut back "to a level well below the current rate at which the Navy expends aircraft during peacetime operations."

LORD HILL-NORTON's suggestion that the United Kingdom "take the lead" in building this new sea alliance could be interpreted as another sign that the West is losing confidence in American's ability to do so.

"What is needed for the job," the admiral says, "is a global 'grand design' binding together the NATO countries, Japan, Australia, New Zealand, some of the oil-producers, and some South American nations."

The military elements would be neither out of financial nor technical reach and that such political difficulties as arise certainly could be equally overcome, he says, "if the determination to do so were there."

There seems to be little determination on this side of the Atlantic to meet the challenge. But perhaps an eminent authority like Lord-Hill Norton can convince us to proceed full speed ahead.

AN EDITORIAL:

Free Enterprise Worth A Try

ESTABLISHMENT of Enterprise Zones is a concept being promoted by conservatives who argue with considerable justification that since the liberals' strategy for combatting urban blight has been a failure another approach deserves a chance to be tested.

Decay continues unabated in many Northeast and Midwest cities despite billions of dollars in federal, state and local aid pumped into depressed areas throughout the 1960s and 1970s.

Robert C. Embry Jr., an assistant HUD secretary, told news service interviewers this week that cities which were well off in 1960 have stayed that way, while cities with problems in 1960 continue to have them.

EMBRY ADDS: "Indeed, cities which in 1960 were experiencing severe distress conditions have even more severe problems now."

Embry is of course suggesting that continued infusions of government financing may involve only throwing good money after bad. Hence, the introduction of Enterprise Zones.

The most depressed urban sectors would be so designated, paving the way for suspension not only of governmental restrictions but federal financial aid for the duration of a multi-year test.

According to Heritage Foundation, the experiments could involve various combinations of the following elements:

* All goods could be imported, exported and sold duty-free;

* Individuals who chose to live in the zone would pay little or no taxes—but would be ineligible for unemployment compensation, welfare or other social benefits;

* Neither wage and price restrictions, nor zoning laws would apply. On the other hand, companies there would be ineligible to receive all forms of government assistance;

* MINIMUM WAGE laws might be suspended. Unions could organize, but closed shops would be prohibited; and

* Businesses would receive a reduction of, if not an exemption from, property taxes.

The idea already has generated support in Great Britain, where Sir Geoffrey Howe, chancellor of the exchequer and the Conservative Party's leading spokesman on economics, says: "Successive governments have introduced bill after bill and shuffled the same amount of money from one new fashionably named program to another. But all attempts seem only to multiply the bureaucracy."

British Reading University Prof. Peter Hall, a socialist, says the concept is "based on fairly shameless free enterprise." But he supports it.

Any concept whose success or failure places a premium on inspiration and perspiration instead of federal regulation and restriction is worth exploring.

ART BUCHWALD:

Little Oil Management Hits Publicity Gusher

WASHINGTON—They had a big celebration at Ashland Oil Co. last week. While other companies were forced to report windfall profits, Ashland had to announce a downturn for the third quarter from the previous year.

When a top Ashland executive told the directors that profits had declined by 14.5 percent everyone in the room applauded.

"How on earth did we do it?" a board member wanted to know.

"I guess we're just lucky," the executive replied. "We have no overseas operations and that's where the big money came from for the other oil companies."

"Exxon must be burning up," another director said. "By being down 14 percent we now have the best public image in the country. No one can call us obscene. We're very proud of management for our lousy showing."

"WE CAN'T take all the credit, sir," the executive replied. "You see we had two hurricanes and this really hurt our construction division. Then our coal operation has gone to the dogs.

"Also, since we don't produce crude, we've had to replenish our inventories. Compared to the other oil companies I would say we've had a miserable year."

"You're being too modest," another board member said. "It takes ingenuity for an oil company not to show any windfall during this period. I got a call from the White House yesterday congratulating us.

"The President said if everyone did as badly as we did, he wouldn't have any problems decontrolling oil."

THE EXECUTIVE said, "I'm being bombarded with calls from the other oil companies accusing us of publicizing our losses just to make them look greedy. They're boiling mad."

"That's just too bad," someone said. "They should have thought of that before they started raking in all that money. Exxon, Texaco and Gulf are being portrayed in the press as the highway robbers of America."

"At least everyone from Ashland can look at himself in the mirror when he shaves."

"I'll second that," another board member said. "The Seven Sisters oil companies are jealous of us because we refused to make windfall profits. They would like to be in our spot, but they don't have the know-how."

THE ASHLAND executive said, "The only people who seem to be questioning our relatively poor showing are our stockholders."

"I don't think that's a big problem. You can't put a price on the goodwill that we engendered last week. When someone sees an Ashland logo in front of a station, they know that we're not ripping them off."

"I understand about hurricanes and the coal mines," a board member said. "But surely there must be other reasons we're not rolling in petro dollars."

The executive said, "The real big money in oil comes from production. The companies that have their own oil wells can fiddle and faddle and get $30 or $40 for a barrel on the spot market in Europe. Those of us without our own crude have to count our profits in pennies."

"WELL, LET'S keep it that way," a board member said.

"I propose the board give our management team a vote of confidence for what they have done in the last quarter, and urge them to keep the profit picture as bleak as possible for the coming fiscal year."

The board voted unanimously to pass the resolution.

The Ashland executive was so moved that all he could say was "You won't be sorry for your trust. The day this company makes a windfall is the day that I resign."

ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK:

Ring Around Carter

EVANS

WASHINGTON—Despite public claims by his lieutenants that they expect a prolonged war of attrition for the Democratic presidential nomination, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy privately plans a quick knockout of President Carter by the end of March.

Kennedy spelled this out in a telephone call to Gov. Hugh Carey of New York when he asked Carey to go along with state Republican leaders in pushing for a March 25 presidential primary rather than a later date.

Besides wanting to quickly compensate for any Carter primary wins in the South, the senator explained, an early win in New York fits his strategy of delivering a spring knockout punch to the President.

Carey went along with Kennedy, without argument. Although some key figures in the Kennedy apparatus still suspect the governor harbors dreams of being Jimmy Carter's eastern Catholic vice presidential running mate in 1980, Carey surely will endorse Kennedy.

In fact, he has proposed putting some of his key operatives in Kennedy's Washington campaign headquarters.

★

PRESIDENT CARTER'S budget officials are warning him that if he goes along with defense-oriented senators for increases in military spending, he will immediately be squeezed by other departments for similar budget increases.

But Carter has little choice in the matter. He is willing to go far to satisfy demands for higher military spending as the only conceivable way to gain Senate approval of the arms control treaty (SALT II).

That will automatically rule out fulfilling Carter's pledge of dramatically reduced budget deficits.

With the principle of a balanced budget down the drain, the President's other big-spending constituencies—particularly the Department of Health and Social Services (formerly HEW)—will feel free to demand equal treatment.

★

SHORTLY AFTER President Carter backed away from his demand that the Soviet combat brigade be taken out of Cuba, one of his closest aides told Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin:

"Now don't you go sending any Soviet naval task force into the Caribbean if you want the (SALT) treaty ratified."

Dobrynin just smiled. The point the White House aide was trying to make was that if Moscow tweaks Uncle Sam's nose again this soon after the combat brigade crisis, the Senate would refuse to ratify SALT.

★

BACKSTAGE PROBLEMS in the Reagan campaign were hinted at with the easing out as Ronald Reagan's Florida campaign chief old pro Patrick Hillings of California.

Hillings, a former congressman from California and one-time political intimate of Richard M. Nixon, worked closely on the 1968 Nixon campaign with Reagan campaign manager John Sears.

It was Sears who brought Hillings into the Reagan operation to run the campaign for the critically important March 11 primary in Florida.

It was also Sears who recently informed Hillings that Charles Black, Reagan's director of field operations, wanted a home-grown Florida Republican in charge.

Sears hinted he would have been happy to keep Hillings but that Black insisted on the shift.

★

THE CONSTANT quest by Ronald Reagan's campaign for big-name moderates has been concentrating on a key politician in a state that has become central to campaign manager John Sears' strategy.

Republican State Chairman Frederick K. Biebel of Connecticut.

Although Biebel told us he has not decided to back Reagan and may not endorse anybody, senior Reagan officials believe negotiations to bring him aboard are near fruition.

Sears has made Connecticut a symbol of Reagan's ability to show that he can win in a northeastern industrialized state with a non-conservative tradition.

★

EYES BOGGLED in the senior White House staff meeting one recent morning when Hamilton Jordan, the White House chief of staff, warned against continuing the talk about presidential politics that had dominated the session.

"No more politics, please," said a straight-faced Jordan. "We're on the taxpayers' business in this house, not campaign politics."

Discussion of political problems dealing with the 1980 election, Jordan went on, should take place in the Carter-Mondale 1980 campaign headquarters, not the White House.

The talk quickly shifted to the people's business. Just five minutes later, it went back to Topic A: How could Carter beat Teddy Kennedy?

ANDREW TULLY:

Savings In Bag

WASHINGTON—I enter my friendly neighborhood Safeway Store only during that summertime period when the rest of the family is living it up at a seaside pleasure dome, but I have always been reluctantly impressed with its elegance.

I say reluctantly because of the nagging knowledge that I am paying for that elegance, the fancy new computerized cash registers, and the little wagons that make it easier to get my purchases to the check-out counter.

Thus, I was excited to learn that in some Washington neighborhoods a body can save money by patronizing something called "box stores".

They display their wares in rows of stacked cardboard boxes instead of on mouth-watering shelves, carry few different brands of the same item, and by making customers bring their own bags in which to pack their purchases.

THE NEW outlets, called Plus Discount Food Stores, sell almost no perishables such as fresh meat and produce, dairy or frozen foods. They don't take checks. They stamp prices only on the boxes, not on individual items.

In short, they sell merchandise, not glamor. These box stores sell a 22-ounce loaf of bread for 29 cents.

They can do this partly because the bread is not gourmet stuff but also because it is sold with only one wrapper instead of a second cellophane job.

Predictably, the big chains have met this challenge by wholesale price cuts on certain items.

Giant, for example, reduced the price of its catsup by 37 percent, but it was still selling at 79 cents a bottle, compared to the box stores' 69 cents.

AS THIS is written, Giant and the no-frills outlets both were selling a 12-ounce can of corned beef for $1.19—but that was down 31 percent from Giant's regular price.

And, wonder of wonders, Giant actually undercut its new competitors on Cheerios cereal by cutting its price for a 15-ounce box by 23 percent to 99 cents, compared to $1.09 at the box stores.

The message in all this frantic maneuvering is plain, to wit, when competition raises its lovely head the big food chains somehow manage to meet the challenge.

I don't know how successful the box stores will be. We Americans have become accustomed to outlandish convenience and luxurious surroundings even in pursuit of the family fodder.

PERHAPS WE'RE too proud to bag our own purchases, too physically weak to carry a bag from box to box.

But I hope the no-frills outfits prosper. After all, food shopping is supposed to be a necessity, not a means of displaying one's social status.

It may be cute, but it is also expensive to boast that you picked up a pound of hot dogs at that chic little French shop with a flower-choked atrium.

Besides, how much interest are you paying that loan shark for the wherewithal to buy this week's vittles?

VIRGINIA PAYETTE:

No Place For Kids

DALLAS—Everybody knows communism is no laughing matter, but if you couldn't find something funny about it lately, you haven't been reading the fine print.

When you get right down to it, past all the bomb rattlings, the cloak-and-dagger stuff and the talk of world conquest, the Reds are having a tough time getting their act together on the home front.

They may sneer at capitalism, but communism isn't working as well as they'd like the world to think. Not in Russia, and not in China, either. The truth is they're not even sure they've got the "comrades" convinced.

Why else would the Soviet Union go to such elaborate lengths to squirrel the children out of Moscow during the Olympic games.

It's not American bombs they're afraid of; it's American blue jeans and bubble gum. And even folks who see a Red under every bed are permitting themselves a few small smiles over the latest display of Russian insecurity.

THIS IS not a small operation, folks. Playing the Pied Piper of the Kremlin involves hundreds of thousands of children between the ages of 7 and 15. The government actually sent notes home with the kids, ordering parents to get them out of the city during July and August.

If they can't board them out in the country, or if Granny's too busy sweeping streets to baby-sit, the state will put them up in its "international Olympic youth camp." (How's that for a Madison Avenue hard-sell?)

Somehow it's reassuring to discover the Kremlin is willing to part with rubles it could spend on nuclear missiles to "protect" its kids.

Protect them, that is, from any contact with young tourists who might contaminate them with talk of freedom and rock stars and cheap blue jeans. (The going rate for a pair in Russia is now $200.)

THE SOVIET Union is short of other goodies too. Its oil production is going down...crime and alcoholism are going up...only one in every 46 citizens has a car...and the housing situation is the worst in the industrialized world. (They're throwing up apartments at a frantic pace, but the trick is to keep the buildings from falling apart before the new residents can move in.)

Worker dedication is not what you could call enthusiastic. One laborer, when asked when a bridge that was years behind schedule would be completed, whispered, "after communism."

Russian farmers are more interested in tending their own small plots than they are in working the state-owned land (corn-fed capitalism?), and that, coupled with disastrous weather, is forcing the Kremlin to import a record 25 million metric tons of grain from American farmers this year.

HOUSEWIVES STILL stand in line for hours to buy shoddy goods; meat and fresh produce are scarcer than civil rights; and Russian women burst into tears when they get a look at American supermarkets.

There's a labor shortage, too. A few years ago, the government could count on 2.5 million new workers every year; now it's only 500,000. Things are so rough the dictators are trying to lure pensioners back to work with the promise of more rubles.

And (always looking ahead) the Kremlin has ordered the women to get in there and produce more babies for future labor pools.

It's just the other way around in China, where babies are all over the place. The nearest anybody can guess, the population growth is up to around 21 per 1,000. In a country with a billion people, 20 million are out of work (the Chinese call it "waiting for jobs"), and this is bad news.

SO WHAT DID the Red Chinese dictators do? They passed a law against having children. The new goal is to get the birthrate down in a hurry, to five per 1,000 by 1985, and they're not kidding around.

From now on, families will be limited to two children, and anybody who gets carried away and produces a third will get a 10-percent cut in pay until the child reaches 14. Not only that, No. 3 kid will also be denied free education and medical care.

On the other hand, couples who behave themselves and stop at one will get a salary bonus, a larger garden plot, better housing and juicier jobs.

There is, understandably, a big boom in abortions in China.

And the products boosted most of late on TV and radio commercials, in newspapers and public reading rooms and concerts, are contraceptives.

THEY'VE GOT the men gulping a pill made from cottonseed oil (it's called "gossypol" and it's supposed to work wonders)...the women are chewing "paper pills" that come in colorful perforated sheets like postage stamps...there's a "vacation" pill for couples who don't get together too often...and a "morning-after" pill is ready for clinical trials.

China has committed itself to zero population growth by 2000, a goal that stands about as much chance as the government's scramble to drag the country into the industrial age in the next 20 years.

And isn't it comforting to know that, while the communists can take over the Third World, bluff Jimmy Carter out of Cuba, and force us to spend billions on nuclear weapons, they still can't stamp out the blue-jean craze or beat Mother Nature at the old chemistry game?

Or produce Olympic winners without cheating.

...Pass It On

AM ASKED which tends to be the happier generally, married men or married women. That, too, has been researched. Our Love and War man says husbands all in all report greater contentment than do their wives. Oddly, the happiness quotient, if you want to call it that, is about equal for married men and single women, and about equal also, for married women and single men.

Q. Try it again, Louie. How much bigger is the Pacific Ocean than the Atlantic Ocean?

A. Okay, okay. About 92 percent bigger, contrary to what previously was reported here. Let's bring this math class to order, what?

Remarkable how many citizens enjoy that game of matching up famous people's name. Such as: If Ida Lupino married Don Ho, she'd become Ida Ho. Any others?

GE Turbofan Jet Engine Certified By Authorities

PARIS (AP) — SNECMA, the French state-run airplane engine builder, said Friday the CFM-56 turbofan jet engine, developed with General Electric Co., has been officially certified by both French and U.S. aviation authorities.

SNECMA and General Electric have a joint French-based cmpany, CFM International, to develop and market the engine.

The CFM-56 has been selected by a number of airlines to replace existing engines on their McDonnell Douglas Corp. DC-8 aircraft and Boeing Co. will begin testing four units later this month on a new 707 aircraft at Seattle, Wash., SNECMA said.

U.S. Judge Rules Archdiocese Should Pay For Papal Platform

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A federal judge ruled Friday that the Roman Catholic Archdiocese should pay for the platform built for Pope John Paul II's visit here.

U.S. District Judge Raymond Broderick ordered the city to seek reimbursement of $204,569 from the archdiocese.

He found the expenditure by the city to a violation of the First Amendment's guarantee of separation of church and state.

The controversy over the platform erupted when the American Civil Liberties Union went to court to stop Mayor Frank L. Rizzo, a Catholic, from using city money for its construction.

The pope celebrated Mass from the 41-foot high, 144-foot wide platform on Oct. 3 in the third stop of his six-city, week-long U.S. tour.

Before the pontiff arrived, the ACLU agreed to put off resolution of the issue until after his visit. And the archdiocese agreed to pay for construction costs if ordered to do so by the judge.

Cardinal John Krol, archbishop of the area's million Catholics, said at the time, "if the city wants to send me a bill for anything they think I should pay, I will pay it."

Neither archdiocesan nor city officials were immediately available for comment on the judge's ruling.

Earlier, the ACLU argued the city "illegally built a church" in violation of the First Amendement. "The purpose was exclusively religious," attorney Henry Sawyer told Broderick.

Rizzo said the construction cost was a legitimate expense of the city in welcoming the pope as a head of state.

In defending the platform, City Solicitor Sheldon Albert has said it was constructed for "safety, for security and for visibility by a million persons."

Chairman Suggests Cooperation Between Government, Business

NEW YORK (AP) — At a time when many corporate chief executives are lambasting government for interfering with business, Union Carbide Chairman William Sneath is taking a different tack. He's suggesting that business and government try cooperating more.

"Taking up sides doesn't solve anything," Sneath said. "You have to work with people in Washington on a constructive basis."

As an example, Sneath cited the recently concluded negotiations on trade agreements, in which businessmen were key participants with government negotiators in setting the agreements with other nations over tariffs, volume and other matters.

"Instead of saying, 'Have them go away,' which you can say, let's go in there and try to cooperate," Sneath said.

That's not to say that Sneath is any more of a fan of government regulation than any other chief executive. "If you just look at your organization, where you have a government regulation and a problem, you can get very frustrated," he said. "You are tesed all the time."

The key to effective regulation, he said, is to "recognize what the concern is and what the government role should be."

Sneath thinks cooperation between business and government is a two-way street, and both sides must be able to take the initiative to work together. "Getting involved, in the simplest terms, is the way to do it," he said.

Like other executives, he resents the government's tendency to set down hard-and-fast rules, often without asking those who will be subject to the rules about possible alternatives.

One example, he said, is the government's requirement that building temperatures this winter be reduced to 65 degrees as an energy-saving measure. This, he said, has produced intricately detailed regulations on how to achieve the 65-degree goal.

"If someone had said, 'Please save 15 percent energy in your building,' I think we would have done a much better job than worrying about the details of what the government wanted us to do," he said. "People in this country, I think, do want to do the right thing."

Sneath says the nation's corporate leadership seeMs to be gradually swinging to his way of thinking. And, he says, government officials seem to be trying harder to make regulations workable.

"There's a more concerted effort in government to get a balance in regulation," he said. "But you know, meanwhile, they're till pouring out."

Sneath, 53, has been chairman of Union Carbide since 1977, after six years as the company's president.

Although Union Carbide, with $7.9 billion in sales last year, is ranked 21st on Fortune magazine's list of the nation's largest industrial companies, most consumers would be hard-pressed to name any of the firm's products.

But those same consumers might have their food wrapped in Glad bags, Eveready batteries in their flashlights and Prestone antifreeze in their cars — all Union Carbide products. The company also produces a wide variety of industrial products, mines uranium and produces chemicals.

The diversification is not recent — Union Carbide has always been involved in a wide range of businesses, and Sneath said the experience enabled the company to steer clear of problems other conglomerates have had.

"Being diversified to start with, we've had to be careful not to become too diversified," he said. "Most of our growth was from one group developing something that became another group. They may seem far apart today, but our chemical group grew out of our industrial gas group."

Union Carbide's varied interests bring it under a wide range of regulations, so Sneath spaks from much experience when talking about government's role in business.

"The pendulum is swinging back from overreguation, but you do not change these things quickly," he said. "There's a lot of constructive interchange that can take place."

Guerrillas Gaining Support In Angola

WASHINGTON (AP) — The leader of the pro-Western guerrilla forces in Angola says his group is steadily gaining support in that African country.

Jonas Savimbi, head of the National Union for the Total Independence of Angola (UNITA), told a news conference this week that his forces have killed about 3,000 Cubans since Cuba began sending troops to support Angola's Marxist government four years ago. Savimbi said there are 34,000 Cuban soldiers in Angola, about 11,000 more than the State Department estimates. UNITA hopes for the eventual formation of a coalition government, representing Angola's major political factions.

Defendant Handed Probated Term In Manslaughter Case

By KAY BELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Eustacio R. Hernandez was handed a four-year probated prison term Friday afternoon by the 140th District Court jury that earlier in the day found him guilty of involuntary manslaughter in connection with a Lubbock teen-ager's death July 22.

The seven-man, five-woman panel deliberated 37 minutes before returning with the punishment verdict, which also included the assessment of a $1,000 fine. However, Hernandez will not have to pay the fine unless he violates any of his probation conditions.

Assistant Criminal District Attorney Hollis Browning had asked the jury to sentence the 45-year-old defendant to a prison term, after the panel took 40 minutes Friday morning to determine that Hernandez was driving while intoxicated the night his car was involved in a collision with Ricky Peppers' motorcycle.

Peppers, 19, died several hours after the North Quirt Avenue and East Auburn Street collision from massive head injuries he suffered when he was thrown about 103 feet from the impact point.

Although evidence revealed that Peppers' motorcycle struck Hernandez's car, the jury's guilty verdict indicated they believed that Hernandez's intoxication that night was a contributing factor to the collision.

Police officers who arrested Hernandez, of 2005 Ave. K, at the scene and administered a breathalyzer test to the defendant said a .25 percent blood-alcohol reading was registered on the breathalyzer instrument. A Department of Public Safety breathalyzer specialist said in his opinion a person who registered that high a reading and was still able to function was "an experienced drinker."

Browning emphasized the DPS specialist's testimony during punishment arguments.

"The defendant is an experienced drinker and even as an experienced drinker, he didn't have the good sense to stay off our streets," Browning told the panel. "As a result, Ricky Peppers isn't with us anymore."

Before the jury began deliberations on Hernandez's guilt, Alexander attempted to place blame for the collision on Peppers and told the panel, "Citizens of this state and county also need to be protected against charges that cannot be proved beyond a reasonable doubt."

Alexander emphasized testimony from a Texas Tech University physics professor that the motorcycle was exceeding the speed limit the night of the fatal collision. Because of the excessive speed, Alexander argued, Peppers' stopping time and distance was lengthened and the collision was unavoidable.

State District Judge William R. Shaver instructed the jury to acquit Hernandez if they believed the motorcycle was traveling at such a speed that Hernandez' intoxication was not relevant to the collision.

Alexander also pointed out to the jury Peppers was not wearing a protective helmet, and that could have contributed to his fatal head injury.

Browning, however, made an emotional plea to the jury asking for a guilty verdict.

"All the evidence indicates a person who was not intoxicated would not have pulled out in front of that car," Browning said. Testimony Thursday indicated a car traveling just in front of Peppers' motorcycle narrowly avoided a collision with Hernandez' car when the defendant made a left turn off North Quirt Avenue onto East Auburn Street.

"I guess because Ricky Peppers was not driving a Sherman tank, he's at fault for dying," Browning told the panel.

"There's one witness you didn't hear from today," Browning continued. "There's a witness nobody will ever hear from again."

Monterey, Coronado Bands Capture Honors

Monterey and Coronado High Schools captured first place honors in the recent Texas Tech University Marching Festival and the Southwest Auxiliary Championships.

The Monterey marching band won first place at the marching festival in Class AAAA, while the Coronado flag corps won first place at the auxiliary championship.

Coronado twirlers received a second place standing and the percussion line was awarded the third place spot.

A Coronado flag ensemble, composed of Susan Gilliam, Deanna Bowers and Patty Howard, won the outstanding flag ensemble award.

Coronado placed second in overall points.

Also at the auxiliary championships, the Monterey drum line placed first and the color guard took third place.

The Monterey students rated as outstanding were Lisa Ramsey in flag solo, Greg Hatchett in drum solo and Bethaney Evans in twirling solo.

First division medals were won by Monterey students Christy Greer, Stacia Hill and Marsha Hensley.

Monterey placed third in overall points.

Hearing To Continue For City Policeman

A Civil Service Commission hearing will continue today for a 22-year-veteran of the Lubbock Police Department who received an "indefinite suspension" for allegedly being intoxicated while off duty Oct. 4.

If upheld by the three-man commission, the suspension would result in the dismissal of Earl G. Eubanks four years before the 46-year-old sergeant becomes eligible for retirement.

Testimony will resume at 8 a.m. in the training room at City Hall. The case could have an impact on the police department's internal affairs. Police Chief J.T. Alley said the outcome "could possibly" have a strong effect on the department. "It depends on how the other (officers) take it," Alley said.

Alley told the commission he gave Eubanks the option of resigning rather than facing the indefinite suspension which could lead to his dismissal. Alley said in his 22 years as police chief, four other police officers charged with off-duty intoxication chose to resign.

School Officials Not Alarmed By Lower Test Score Average

By LISA PAIKOWSKI
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Scholastic Aptitude Test scores for Lubbock high school graduates in 1979 showed a sharp drop on the mathematics portion of the test, according to figures released by the district, but some school officials believe an increase in testing participants contributed to the lower scores.

SAT averages for local students who took the test during the 1978-79 school year show a 19-point drop for men and women combined on the math portion of the standardized exam and a six-point drop on the verbal portion.

The math median scorewas 454 compared to 473 in 1977-78 and the verbal median score was 432 compared to the 438 average of the preceding year.

National averages dropped this year from 429 to 427 in the verbal section and from 468 to 467 in the math section.

But local school officials are not alarmed by the lowered scores, saying that the significant increase in the number of students who took the exam probably account for the lion's share of the downward averages.

Jack Rister, guidance coordinator for Lubbock public schools, estimated an 18 percent increase in the number of students who took the exam in 1978-79 over the number of testing participants the previous year.

Rister noted that the increase probably included students with lower aptitudes, who in the past were not college-bound students, so that the average scores tend to be lower.

Rister said the increase in participants is significant, since "colleges are projecting that their enrollments will decrease."

Wayne Dickey, language arts consultant for secondary schools, echoed Rister's reasoning behind the lower scores, adding that universities are actively recruiting economically and educationally disadvantaged students who normally would not pursue a college education.

He said that the prospect of advanced placement in college courses and financial aid that was not available 10 or 15 years ago has drawn more students to a college education.

Dickey added, "Anytime a district or students in a district take standardized tests — the more students who take it — the national trend is toward a lower median."

Harlan Smith, math consultant for secondary levels, said he does not know that Rister's reasoning is a "valid assumption" contributing to lower local scores because he estimated a 20.5 percent increase in the students taking the test, but a larger 50.3 percent increase in those who scored below 400 and an 8.9 percent increase in those who scored above 400 on the math portion.

But he believes the increase in testing participants has definitely contributed to lower scores on the national level, and added he is not concerned about the local averages.

"I think we've done so well on the math part for the past five years — we were bound to come to a decline somewhere," said Smith. "I wouldn't express any real concern over it."

He said another contributing factor to declining test scores in math is that textbook materials have been "softened" in response to the back-to-basics movement.

"Books generally speaking, are not quite as difficult as they were 10 to 15 years ago," Smith said.

Dickey is likewise not alarmed by the slight drop in local verbal scores, but added he is not "comfortable" with the averages either, despite their five-point increase over national verbal averages.

He noted that aside from an unusual increase in verbal scores in 1977-78, the verbal scores for 1978-79 actually are more in keeping with the pattern of previous years.

He also cast some doubt on the validity of comparing scores from year to year, because tests are renormed or restructured every five to seven years and scores reflect that change.

Area Ceremonies Planned To Honor War Veterans

By JEFF McCASLIN
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Veterans who served in America's wars will be honored in area ceremonies today while federal and county employees get Monday off in observance of Veteran's Day.

The major activity in the county is Slaton's 12th annual Veteran's Day Parade, scheduled to kick off at 10 a.m. today to observe the Nov. 11 holiday, which falls on Sunday this year.

Thirty-six units, including the Slaton Rough Riders, a Air Force color guard from Reese Air Force Base, 120 members from the Estacado High School ROTC program and State Sen. E.L. Short of Tahoka will highlight this year's parade, according to Cleo Green of the Slaton Chamber of Commerce, which is jointly sponsoring the parade with the Luther Powers Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 438 of Slaton.

Following the parade, Lubbock County Criminal District Attorney John T. Montford will be the guest speaker at patriotic services which will be held immediately following flag-retiring ceremonies at the bandstand in the Slaton city square.

In Lubbock, the George S. Berry American Legion Post No. 575 will have a 7 a.m. breakfast today for veterans at the post located at 66th Street and Brownfield Highway, according to Post commander Tom Bourland.

The Rev. Homer Duncan, author of a book titled "Secular Humanism," will be the guest speaker at an Armistice Day observance which begins at 3:30 p.m. Sunday at the Allen Brothers American Legion Post No. 148 at 2412 Ave. Q.

Refreshments will be served and the public is invited to attend.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 2466 in Lubbock will host a breakfast from 7:30 a.m. to 9 a.m. today at the 1505 34th St. post, according to Post Commander John Yugovich.

The Lubbock High School ROTC Color Guard will present flag raising ceremonies at 9:30 a.m. at the post, which will be followed by a speech from a representative of the criminal district attorney's office, Yugovich said.

While all county and federal government offices will be closed Monday, city offices will be open for business as usual.

Banks and savings and loan institutions also will be closed Monday.

The post office will operate on a normal holiday schedule Monday, meaning no residential, business or rural delivery.

Closing Of Boarding Houses Called For

AUSTIN (AP) — President Bob Pugh of the Texas Senior Citizens Association said Friday every "boarding house" for the elderly ought to be closed.

Pugh, 73, said state policy allows the placement of elderly in the houses, rather than nursing homes or mental hospitals.

The houses are supposedly limited to 14 residents, he said, and the Texas Department of Human Resources pays for the care.

"This is the dumping of people in something worse than a warehouse," Pugh told the Senate Subcommittee on Consumer Affairs.

The subcommittee is gathering information on ways to protect the rights of the elderly and disabled.

Chairman Ron Clower, D-Garland, said the subcommittee's "primary focus would be on determining if adequate protection of the rights of the elderly and disabled persons exists in such areas as competency hearings, assignment of property, powers of attorney, guardianship and commitment proceedings."

The subcommittee will report to the 1981 Legislature.

Pugh, chief of mental health for Bexar County, said the plight of the elderly in boarding houses "is stench in the nostrils of every Texas citizen."

He said the houses provide no medical care and often do not even have an attendant. "I have to take many out of boarding houses and put them back in mental hospitals," he said.

"Every boarding house I know about in the state of Texas ought to be closed," Pugh said.

FAA To Crack Down On Unsafe Fliers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Aviation Administration said Friday it is going to crack down on "unscrupulous operators" who fly unsafe aircraft out of "cockroach corners" at airports in Florida and Texas.

To do this, FAA administrator Langhorne Bond said his agency is proposing tighter safety standards for any airplane that can carry 20 or more passengers or a maximum cargo of 5,000 pounds.

About 1,200 aircraft not operated by commercial airliners fall under this category, including older DC-6 and DC-7 propeller planes and Boeing 727-100, 720 and 707 jets now being phased out by the big airlines.

But Bond made it clear his agency is aiming the new rules primarily at 635 large planes operated by 275 leasing and service firms.

"One area that cries out for early attention are the cockroach corners ... where unsafe and uncertified aircraft operations thrive," Bond told reporters.

"These non-scheduled operators buy old aircraft retired by the airlines ... to haul passengers and cargo mainly between the U.S. and the Caribbean and Latin America.

"Often the planes are improperly maintained and the pilots are unqualified," he said.

Bond said the worst example of a cockroach corner is at Miami International Airport. He said others exist at Fort Lauderdale and Opalocka, Fla., and at Houston's Hobby Airport.

He said many of those flying out of these corners are "unscrupulous operators who use legal subterfuges to scurry around through shell companies to carry out commercial operations" without meeting the stiff safety standards required for such operations.

This is possible, he said, because it is hard to establish whether an aircraft is being operated for "compensation or hire" or as a private plane, with less demanding rules.

"With our new proposal, we're doing away with that test and are going after the planes themselves," Bond said. "The proposal would demand a level of safety comparable to that of the air carriers but without the cumbersome administrative and financial requirements applied to commercial airline operators.

"If operators can't live up to this, they should go out of business," he said.

The rules, for example, would set requirements for flight crews, maintenance and inspection, and instruments and equipment. It would apply to the growing fleet of large planes operated by U.S. corporations. But Bond said these aircraft generally are well maintained and comply with more stringent safety standards than those required.

He estimated it would cost the operators of the 1,200 aircraft a total of $82.7 million in the first year to improve their standards. About one-third are corporate craft, but their costs would represent only one-eighth the total, he said.

The proposal will be published in the Federal Register on Nov. 19 and interested parties will have until Feb. 19 to comment before final rules are issued.

VENUS CLOUDY

Venus is covered with a dense, white, cloudy atmosphere that conceals whatever is below it. This same cloud reflects sunlight efficiently so that when Venus is favorably situated, it is the third brightest object in the sky, exceeded only by the sun and the moon.

Russia's White Sea was named for the glistening ice that covers it most of the year.

Byrne Cements Support For Kennedy

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Chicago Mayor Jane Byrne denounced President Carter as an ineffective leader who can't win re-election in 1980 during a Kennedy campaign speech Friday to a Democratic National Committee rapidly dividing over a Kennedy-Carter clash.

The committee heard campaign speeches on behalf of President Carter and his two intra-party challengers, Sen. Edward Kennedy and California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., after the 1980 Democratic campaign heated up this week.

"Jimmy Carter can't win in 1980 if we choose him as our party's standard bearer," Mrs. Byrne told the DNC from a podium flanked by large photos of Carter and Vice President Mondale.

"We need a new face to face the 80s with new initiatives. We need a new dynamism. We cannot march into the 80s flying the tired and tattered banners of the 70s. Senator Kennedy can win.

"I must withhold my support from Jimmy Carter with a touch of sadness, a touch of deep regret and with a sense of disenchantment," she said. "Despite the president's most frantic efforts, he has sunk deeper and deeer in the polls.

"Instead of cool confidece, leadership and assurance, which the American people desperately need and want, we are presented with the spectacle of a man groping, haltingly, for solutions," she added.

Robert Strauss, a special Middle East ambassador who has been chosen as Carter campaign chairman, countered that it was "debilitating" for Mrs. Byrne and other Kennedy supporters to challenge an incumbent Democratic president's ability to lead the nation.

"The mayor spoke well, but she didn't say one positive thing about her candidate," said Strauss. "We're not voting for an image."

Strauss said the Carter administration had compiled a solid record on which the president could run — and win.

"This president is the one who found peace between Egypt and Israel. You tell me Jimmy Carter isn't a leader?" said Strauss.

DNC member Irene Tovar of California, speaking on behalf of Brown, did not attack directly Carter, but defended her own candidate against charges of being "flaky."

"It has been said that my candidate is flaky. He has appointed more than 1,000 women to jobs from chief justice to cabinet positions. Is this flaky? If that constitutes flakiness, I support it," she said, adding that Brown had also appointed more than 300 Hispanics to top jobs.

Miss Tovar also maintained that Brown's record of accomplishments on the important issues of inflation and energy was the most solid of the three Democratic candidates.

About 200 of the 363 DNC members attended the two-day meeting that ended Friday. More than half of those in attendance gave Strauss a standing ovation after he defended Carter.

But numerous DNC members sported Kennedy buttons throughout the two-day meeting.

Democratic National Chairman John White, a Carter supporter, said he figured the off-year meeting would be a routine one.

Defendent Maintains Shooting Accidental

By DON CUNNINGHAM
A-J Correspondent

KERRVILLE — Kenneth Hearndon, one of the men convicted for the 1977 Christmas Eve slaying of William Drew "W.D." Young, maintained Friday afternoon that he accidentally shot Young when Jim Gordon grabbed his arm.

The 37-year-old former truck driver's testimony was presented before the defense rested its case in the Gordon murder trial's fifth day in 216th District Court here.

Presiding judge Thomas L. Clinton, of the 99th District, set 8 a.m. today for the attorney's summation to the jury.

Gordon, 43, a former Lubbock nightclub owner, is accused of participating in Young's murder. The trial was moved from Lubbock to Kerrville on a change of venue.

Under questioning by defense attorney Gerald Anderson, Hearndon said he was working with Gordon the afternoon of Dec. 24, 1977 when Gordon received a call about possible trouble at one of his clubs.

He said Gordon and Kenneth Owen Jaycon left for the club, and he followed shortly afterwards in his own car.

Hearndon refuted several previous witnesses when he told the court Young said, "I'm going to get my brothers and come back to kill every one of you tonight," while Gordon questioned him about money missing from the cash register.

He said he had been told Young was a member of the motorcycle gang, and he had seen a gun in Young's boot earlier that evening.

"He was shuffling his feet, and I was afriad he was going to pull that pistol out of his boot," Hearndon said. "I stood up and drew my gun out of my belt, cocking it as I pulled it out."

Hearndon said he pointed the gun at Young, and, demonstrating for the jury, showed where Gordon grabbed his arm, causing the gun to discharge.

"I just stood there," he said, describing his actions in the office moments after Young was shot. "I couldn't believe it. I just froze."

Hearndon admitted he helped carry the body to Young's car which Jaycon had brought behind the club. He said he then left for his trailer south of Lubbock, where he bathed and waited for an hour before Jaycon showed up.

Jaycon told him he had destroyed the evidence by setting fire to Young's car, Hearndon said. Jaycon put their blood-stained clothes in a cardboard box, and the two men left in Hearndon's car. As they were driving back to Lubbock, Hearndon said, Jaycon suddenly set the box on fire. The two men threw the box in a bar ditch when an approaching highway patrol car pursued them.

Both men were held overnight in jail on intoxication charges and for questioning about a dead man in a smoldering car, that had been discovered earlier in the same area.

Prosecuting attorney Jim Darnell questioned Hearndon closely about details and inconsistencies between his testimony and that of others present in the office.

Hearndon replied he believed the others were "covering for themselves."

Anderson began the defense part of the trial by calling a former Lubbock police officer, now a Department of Public Safety officer in Amarillo, to testify he stopped Young earlier in the evening and found him not to be intoxicated or acting strangely.

Several of the prosecution witnesses said Young seemed "drunk" or under the influence of drugs when he entered the bar with Hearndon and Jaycon. A DPS chemist testified a blood test from the body showed almost three times the legal standard of intoxication.

Anderson concluded his defense with a Del Rio gunsmith, who said a 44 magnum single-action revolver, the same type Hearndon said he used, could discharge accidentally if it was dropped or struck on the hammer.

Six persons were indicted for the murder by a Lubbock grand jury in March 1978. Hearndon was convicted of the murder last February during his second trial and was given a life term.

Jaycon, 32, the first to go to trial, was convicted in April 1978 of participating in the murder and was sentenced to 25 years in prison.

Three others in the bar that night agreed to 10 years probation in return for guilty pleas and their testimony.

Man Reports Case Of Indecent Exposure

An auditor for a Lubbock bank told police that a man exposed himself to two female co-workers Friday afternoon.

The bank employee reported that one woman was walking to her car that was parked in a lot east of the bank building baout 12:30 p.m. when a Mexican male, wearing a blue and gray plaid shirt and blue denim pants exposed himself to her.

Reports indicate that the alarmed woman got in her vehicle and drove away.

A few minutes later, another female employee, unaware of the previous incident, walked across the parking lot and reportedly was approached by the same suspect.

Reports indicate the man exposed himself to the woman, who then fled to her car and attempted to drive away but the man stepped in front of the vehicle. Police said the woman then left her car and ran inside the bank.

Turbulent feelings spawned by Moslem students in Iran holding 60 Americans hostage in that country's capital were felt closer to home Thursday night when an Iranian living in Lubbock received a threatening phone call.

The 42-year-old man told city police he had just watched a television special on the takeover of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran when he received the threat about 11 p.m.

The caller said, "If you are Iranian, you are in trouble, buddy," according to the foreigner, who wished not to be identified.

The caller sounded like a man in his 50s with a Texas accent, according to the complainant. The victim said he felt the caller had looked at random in the phone book and picked him because his name identified him as an Iranian.

In other activity, the Lubbock Police Department said an officer was assaulted about 7:30 p.m. Thursday and kicked in the head by a 22-year-old man who was being placed in a patrol car at 26th Street and Avenue X.

Officer Troy Lee Coon, 49, complained of blurry vision and dizziness after taking the man to the county jail, but reports indicate he did not require hospital treatment.

Coon and Cpl. Ronnie Sowell said they were dispatched on an assault in progress report at a park near the intersection and found the man beating a woman.

The officers, in their report, stated they apprehended the Lubbock suspect and were attempting to place him in the back of Coon's patrol car, but that the man was uncooperative and refused to put his feet in the back of the car.

Coon said he was attempting to pick up the suspect's feet up when the man kicked him once in the head, causing the officer to slam against the car door.

However, the handcuffed man eventually was loaded into the patrol car and taken to the county jail where he was booked on suspicion of assault on a police officer, disorderly conduct and public intoxication.

Reports indicate the woman who earlier had been attacked by the man said she did not want to file charges against the suspect because she was scared of him.

An apparent gun battle about 10:30 p.m. Thursday in the 1500-block of Avenue U left a 33-year-old Lubbock man wounded in the leg.

Robert Flores, 33, of 1507 Ave. U suffered a single .22-caliber bullet wound in the leg, according to reports. Police said the victim was instructed to go to Health Sciences Center Hospital by private vehicle after the man refused the service of an EMS ambulance.

However, a HSCH spokesman said the man never arrived at the hospital. "I don't know what happened to him," the spokesman said. Reports indicate the victim was not seriously injured in the altercation.

Flores and about a half dozen witnesses said they were shot at by two Mexican-American men who drove by Flores' house in a blue Chevrolet.

First Lady Arrives In Refugee Camp

SA KAEW, Thailand (AP) — First lady Rosalynn Carter flew from Bangkok to this border area refugee camp early Friday after pledging America's full support to alleviate what she called the "staggering human misery" of hundreds of thousands Cambodian and Laotian refugees.

While touring the 18-day-old tent city, 30 miles from the Thai-Cambodian frontier, she visited the sick, holding their hands, kissing them on the forehead and asking doctors about their afflictions.

"I can only say I want to go home as fast as I cn and moblize people and do all we can to help the people here" and "go home and tell my husband about it. It's been very difficult for me as a wife and a mother and a human being."

Sa Kaew houses 31,000 Cambodians, many suffering from malnutrition and a variety of diseases. Some are beyond hope and more than 300, by one count, have died since the camp opened.

Nearly 100 refugees were reported killed in a bloody clash Thursday less than 30 miles from where Mrs. Carter's aircraft landed, but she will not be traveling to the border.

Military authorities said the fighting broke out between Thai army units and anti-Communist Cambodian guerrillas operating along the border, but reported the area was quiet Friday. The Cambodians said six guerrillas and 93 civilians died in the clash.

Mrs. Carter arrived Thursday and told Thai dignitaries who met her at the airport in Bangkok, "We are filled with alarm when we contemplate the possibility that the Cambodian people are facing extinction as a result of war and famine."

"We owe Thailand not only our admiration but also our full support," she added. "I pledge that to you here tonight."

Thai Crown Prince Vajiralongkorn, Prime Minister Kriangsak Chomanan, Defense Minister Prem Tinsulanond and other Cabinet ministers and diplomats welcomed Mrs. Carter, who arrived for a three-day visit officially labeled a "fact-finding tour."

The government mobilized thousands of troops and police to protect Mrs. Carter and her party, which includes Assistant Secretary of State Richard Holbrooke, Surgeon-General Julius B. Richmond, former U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young's wife Jean, and former Sen. Harold Hughes of Ioa.

Prime Minister Kriangsak, in an emotion charged welcoming statement, said the world "must act with determination, compassion and perseverance to avert the (Cambodian) holocaust," and said Mrs. Carter's visit "testifies to the deep concern President Carter and the American people share with us for the tragic plight of the (Cambodian) people along our eastern border areas."

Maximilian Robespierre, the French revolutionary, was guillotined in 1794.

Davis Decision Tough For Some Jurors

FORT WORTH (AP) — After agonizing 16½ hours over testimony and evidence, 11 jurors took only one vote on the guilt or innocence of millionaire Cullen Davis.

Moments later, it was official.

They had found Davis innocent of conspiring to kill his divorce judge.

"We discussed each and every (bit of) evidence in detail," said juror Darryl Cremer. "Once we had gone over every (bit of) evidence, people had their questions answered, we took a vote and it was unanimous."

That vote came at 11:15 a.m. Friday.

Questioned as they left the hotel where they had been sequestered since Tuesday, jurors said there was enough reasonable doubt to set Davis free.

"Both sides were shaky. It wasn't 100 percent one way or the other," said juror Jake Grable.

"In a deal like this, I think everyone has reasonable doubt of one sort or another. It just looks more in favor of the defense than the state."

The panel appeared drained and exhausted when the verdict was returned.

Several had been crying.

"You want to ask your Almighty Being for reason," said Rita Yorek, whose tear-stained face misled many into thinking jurors had convicted Davis.

"You reach the peak of the mountain, then slide down the hill, and it happened so fast ... it's a burden after all these months.

"I hope he's (Davis) learned not to say the wrong things at the wrong time, or say something he really doesn't mean that could incriminate him."

It was, by several accounts, an unusual jury. When seated in mid-August, there were eight men — two blacks, one Hispanic — and three women.

But midway through the trial, the panel was reduced to 11 when Kathryn Holman broke her leg.

"Have you noticed how they never sit in the same seats twice?" Dallas defense attorney Mike Gibson commented Thursday while still predicting a mistrial. "I've never seen a jury do that. That indicates they're not together."

Juror Mary Jeanne Gross, who broke down in the jury box as the verdict was read, said all jurors had doubts until they listened to the tapes Thursday morning. Several were convinced then, she said, that the tapes corroborated Davis' contentions that star prosecution witness David McCrory was part of a conspiracy to frame the defendant.

"We listened and relistened and relistened to the tapes," she said. "We searched our hearts very thoroughly. There are those of us who prayed about it to ourselves."

But for juror Palmer Procter, the decision was clear.

"I just don't think he's guilty. That's all. I have no right to feel I made the wrong decision."

LEG REATTACHED

DETROIT (AP) — Doctors at Harper Hospital say it will be 10 to 14 days before they know if an operation to reattach the severed leg of a Coloma man succeeded. The 12-hour operation began Thursday morning on Michael Huff, 23, whose leg was severed at mid-calf when his motorcycle collided with a tractor. "The leg became a good color after the artery and veins were put together," said Dr. Joseph Posch, chief of hand surgery.

Sister Of Hit Man Gives Testimony

BROWNSVILLE (AP) — The sister of a convicted hit man testified Friday she legally purchased a car from Dr. Archie Burkhalter's hospital — the same car the state alleges the doctor used as a payoff in an unsuccessful murder-for-hire plot.

Maurine Minnick said under cross-examination from Burkhalter's lawyer she bought a 1977 Cadillac for $7,000 from Pasadena Memorial Hospital.

Burkhalter faces attempted capital murder charges in the Feb. 15 shooting of John Hensley, a witness against him in a kidnapping case and husband of the doctor's ex-wife.

The physician is accused of hiring S.J. Wilburn and Scott David Minnick to kill Hensley, who survived the attack outside his South Padre Island condominium but was blinded.

Wilburn was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment in the case. The state contends Burkhalter offered Wilburn $15,000 and the 1977 Cadillac for the shooting.

"Mr. Koontz, the hospital administrator told me they had a Cadillac for $7,000," said Mrs. Minnick, Wilburn's sister and mother of Scott Minnick. "They (the hospital) sell cars every year. I knew that."

She said she bought the car with a loan from her credit union. However, she said papers for the car transaction at first were filled out incorrectly, indicating she owned the car without a lien.

After the Hensley shooting, Minnick was arrested in Refugio driving the 1977 Cadillac. Mrs. Minnick recovered the car in Cameron County, where it had been brought following her son's arrest. She said the paperwork was later corrected.

Assistant District Attorney Joe K. Henley offered as evidence copies of tax, title and license papers involved in the purchase.

Mrs. Minnick testified that although Wilburn lived at her house in late 1978 until Feb. 15, she had never seen any of the typed papers or a black vinyl case identified by another witness as belonging to Wilburn.

"Whose printing is that?" Hendley asked her about one exhibit.

"I couldn't swear to it," she said.

"You couldn't or you won't?" Henley asked. "You know whose it is, don't you?"

"I think it's Jay's but I don't know," she answered.

The typed paper documents Wilburn's stalking of someone for a chance to shoot them. The black vinyl case mysteriously appeared in a television reporter's car and contained the diary plus letters Wilburn had written to his girlfriend.

The trial ended its first week Friday and will resume Tuesday following Veterans Day Monday.

Death Penalty Given Convicted Killer

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Steven Roy Harper, convicted of murder in what the judge called the "slow, agonizing deaths" of his infant nephew and a truck driver, has been sentenced to die in the electric chair.

Judge James M. Murphy set the sentence Wednesday for the 26-year-old Harper, who was convicted of putting a poison in the beverages the two victims drank. The rocket fuel additive has been found to cause cancer in laboratory rats.

Duane Johnson, who had married Harper's former girlfiend, and 11-month-old Chad Shelton suffered internal bleeding and vomiting before they died last year.

Jury's Verdict Nightmarish Melody For Country Singer

DALLAS (AP) — Country-western singer Dewey Groom was a courtroom spectator watching a story as sad and sordid as one of his ballads unfold before a state jury.

But it wasn't a song on a jukebox — it was the true story about the death of his wife, Helen, and the acquittal of Cloyd Cook, the man accused of killing her.

"Don't write that nothing is going to happen to him. If the justice system didn't get him, then the Good Lord will punish him. There's no doubt about it. The Bible says so," Groom said.

Nine years ago, Groom got a divorce so he could marry Helen. Since then, he and Helen had divorced and remarried. She died in Cook's home Nov. 3, 1978, from a shotgun blast to the chest.

Cook, 57, told the jury Helen's death was an accident, that she was shot as the pair wrestled for possession of the gun.

Groom, owner of the Longhorn Ballroom for 30 years and friend of such diverse characters as Bob Wills and Jack Ruby, said shortly after the shooting, "I've been crying buckets of tears all day, and I've got buckets more to cry before I'm through.

"I loved her, I hated her. I loved her again, and now she's gone."

During final arguments prosecutors said Helen was "an alcoholic" who "jumped from bed to bed with other men."

Cook told the jury he awoke in the early morning hours to find Helen "biting, clawing and kicking" him.

He said as he tried to escape, she fired a shotgun at him, and as he struggled to take it away from her it went off again, striking her in the chest.

State's attorneys presented evidence showing there were two different kinds of shells at the scene, though, and claimed Cook shot Helen, then reloaded the gun and fired it into the wall to make the incident look like an accident.

Prosecutors also recounted earlier testimony from two state witnesses who said Cook admitted killing Mrs. Groom because she was going to leave him.

One witness said Cook told him, "If I can't have her, no one can. I killed her because I loved her."

The jury returned to consider its verdict. Halfway through deliberations, jurors asked if 11 votes for acquittal would be enough. The judge said no.

About an hour later, all 12 jurors agreed — Cook was innocent.

Groom was disappointed.

"I've had to pick up the pieces and go back to my first wife," he said.

Congress Votes Final Approval Of Fuel Bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House passed compromise legislation Friday to spend $19 billion for development of a domestic synthetic fuels industry and $1.35 billion in emergency assistance to help poor people heat their homes this winter.

The vote was 271-46 to adopt the $30.3 billion appopriation bill, which also provides $1 billio for sola and conservaion progams and about$10 billin for the current fiscal year for Interior Department operations.

Both houses of Congress approved different versions of the same bill earlier this year. House passage sent the compromise measure to the Senate, where approval would send it onto the White House for President Carter's signature.

The legislation provides funding for a major portion of Carter's energy program, and was the second major victory the administration has had on energy legislation in as many days.

The Senate voted its approval of a $34 billion energy measure Thursday night authorizing the synthetic fuels effort, as well as programs to produce gasohol and increase conservation efforts.

Under the compromise money bill, a special $19 billion Energy Security Reserve would be established in the Treasury, with the money set aside for the major synthetic fuels program Carter and the Congress favor. Only $2.2 billion could be spent this year.

A second fund, a $1 billion Solar and Conservation Reserve, would hold the money for development of solar energy and conservation programs.

The $1.35 billion for emergency fuel assistance would be in addition to $250 million both houses already have approved this year.

The $1.6 billion total would be distributed this way:

•$400 million would go directly to current recipients of Supplemental Security Income, the government's welfare program for the low-income handicapped, blind and elderly. The maximum any recipient could receive would be $250.

•About $800 million would be set aside for the states to operate their own programs of energy assistance for people with incomes below 125 percent of the poverty lwevel, a figure that translates to about $8,300 for a non-farm family of four.

Any state not wanting to operate such a program could have its share of the money mailed directly to recipients of the government's largest welfare program, Aid to Families with Dependent Children.

•The remaining $400 million would be for an existing program of "crisis intervention" operated by the Community Services Administration.

Oil Company Agrees To Low Fuel Cost

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Energy Department and Phillips Petroleum Co. reached a $200 million consent agreement Friday in which the oil company said it would purchase, refine and sell heating oil at lower than market prices.

As part of the settlement, Phillips agreed to spend $100 million for new oil exploration and energy projects in which it would otherwise not have invested.

The agreement came after an Energy Department investigation into allegations of overcharges and other violations of the department's oil and natural gas pricing and allocation rules. The investigation covered the period between March 6, 1973, and October 31, 1979.

William F. Martin, chief executive officer at Phillips Petroleum, said the settlement avoids what could have been costly litigation.

Mart Tallies Broad Gain

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market recorded a broad gain Friday, aided by hopes for an early peak in interest rates.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials climbed 8.87 to 806.48, trimming its loss for the week to 12.46 points.

Volume on the New York Stock Exchange stepped up to 30.06 million shares from 26.27 million Thursday.

Late Thursday the Federal Reserve reported a $400 million decline in the basic measure of the money supply, surprising many analysts who had been expecting a substantial increase.

That added to recent tentative evidence of a slowing in monetary growth — a trend which the Fed has been trying to encourage in an effort to restrain inflation.

As a result, hopes rose that the Fed could now pursue that goal without clamping down further on credit, and that interest rates might peak out soon.

New York's Citibank raised its prime lending rate Friday from 15¼ to 15½ percent, with most major banks joining in the increase. But by Citibank's formula for computing the basic rate on blue-chip loans, it could have posted an even larger increase.

With such influences working in its favor, the market showed few ill effects from the tense Iranian situation.

Council Rules On Appointments

WASHINGTON (Special) — Every United Methodist minister "in good standing and in the effective relation" with an annual conference is eligible for appointment, the United Methodist Church's Judicial Council ruled recently. The issue, brought to the council by the New York Annual Conference, related to the appointment of an avowed "practicing homosexual" pastor, the Rev. Paul Abels, to a local church in New York City.

The denomination's "supreme court" noted that its response on the questions "must be limited to the question of law," and said any change in the status of a minister relative to full conference connection, good standing or effective relationship "is entrusted by the 'Discipline' to the annual conference."

In 1978 the annual conference declined to change the status of Abels and since no charges were filed against the minister, he was reappointed to Washington Square Church. The conference did not ask for a judicial ruling until June of 1979 when Abels was reappointed to the church again.

LOUD

Loud has been a minister for 47 years and has served his present pastorate for 32 years. He is a native Texan and was graduated from Prairie View College.

Loud has been a leader and organizer in building several new churches. He has been a district superintendent and has served on numerous general boards and committees.

Loud was a pastor in Dallas when Perkins School of Theology opened its doors for the first time to black students and has maintained a special interest in those first black students.

Brazilian Missionary To Speak

Boyd O'Neal, a missionary on furlough from Brazil, will speak at the Baptist Fellowship meeting Monday at the Pilgrim Baptist Church, W. 19th Street outside Loop 289.

O'NEAL

The program begins at 7 p.m. and the monthly meeting of the executive board will follow the main meeting.

Gene Anglin, pastor of Memorial Baptist Church, will give the doctrinal message. Marlin Hawthorne, a deacon in the First Baptist Church of Tahoka, will direct the music. Mrs. Annie White of St. Matthews will be the soloist.

O'Neal was graduated from Howard Payne University and Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary. He is serving as a consultant for the State Stewardship Department during his furlough.

Stewardship Campaigns In Progress

Two United Methodist Churches in Lubbock are engaged in special stewardship emphasis campaigns which use a program recalling the denomination's circuit rider history.

St. Matthew UMC is concluding their campaign while Forrest Heights UMC will begin theirs in the next week.

A feature of the programs is that "saddlebags" are passed from family to family collecting commitments to church giving. Entire families are involved in this effort.

The Rev. Buff Hearn of St. Matthew said the church's members estimated during the stewardship campaign that they would give a total of $70,756 in the next year.

The Rev. Al Lindley of Forrest Heights said the "circuit gatherings" will be held in 30 homes and then members of the church will become "circuit riders" Nov. 18 and contact other member families.

Baptist Church To Hold Revival

Dr. Rick Ingle of Philadelphia will lead revival services at the Monterey Baptist Church, 3601 50th St., Sunday through Nov. 18. Services will begin at 7:30 each evening.

INGLE

Now a full-time Southern Baptist evangelist, Ingle was once a teen-age gang leader in the ghettos of Philadelphia. He has conducted more than 400 revival campaigns across the country.

SWIMMER

Ingle was graduated from Eastern Baptist College and Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary. He was honored with a doctor of divinity degree by Immanuel Baptist College of Georgia.

Jerry Swimmer of Ripley, Miss., will be the musical director for the revival.

The Rev. Bill Hindman is pastor of Monterey Baptist Church.

Forrest Heights Youth Group Honored

Church News

The Board of Discipleship of the United Methodist Church has announced that the youth group of the Forrest Heights UMC of Lubbock is one of 12 local church youth groups cited for excellence.

The youth unit of the board's Section on Age Level and Family Ministries conducted the search for a dozen "excellent UMYF's" by asking for nominations from annual conference coordinators of youth ministry and councils on youth ministry.

"The purpose of the project is to cite examples and to give illustrations to show that youth ministry is alive and well in churches of all sizes, geographic locations and cultural backgrounds," said Susan Hay, staff member of the unit. "It was not our intent to identify the 'most' excellent but simply 12 examples of excellence."

Nearly 70 youth groups were nominated and 32 submitted the necessary forms and descriptions. The Board of Discipleship staff and a team of reviewers from across the nation made the final selections. Names of the groups selected were announced during the annual meeting of the Board of Discipleship at Nashville in October.

According to Mrs. Hay, the 12 examples may be included in resources which can assist other churches as they seek to organize or revitalize their own UMYF.

The Forrest Heights Church UMYF is a group of 55 in a church of 880. Divided into junior and senior high, the UMYF functions with extensive organizational by-laws. They are currently the leader in the YSF support in the Northwest Texas Conference, and they provide numerous other forms of support to conference programs. About 90 percent of their funds are raised by the members.

The other churches selected are: Cherryvale UMC, Staunton, Va.; First Spanish UMC, New York City; Lima UMC, Howe, Ind.; Riverside Park UMC, Indianapolis, Ind.; Elderslie-St. Andrew, Baltimore, Md.; Providence UMC, Charlotte, N.C.; Chinese UMC, Tustin, Calif.; Union Memorial UMC, Greensboro, N.C.; First UMC, Chambell, Calif.; Southside UMC, Jacksonville, Fla., and Vamo UMC, Sarasota, Fla.

Evangelistic Services Set For Church

The Rev. Jerry D. Moore will lead evangelistic services at Southcrest Baptist Church, 4810 Ave. P, Sunday through Wednesday. Services will begin at 7:30 p.m. each evening.

Moore has had sixteen years of experience as a pastor and in music ministries and is now beginning his tenth year as an evangelist.

Cody Voss, music evangelist from Houston, will be directing the choir for the revival.

Noon services will be held each day of the revival in addition to the evening services. A nursery will be provided for children age 3 and younger.

Texas, Russian Flus In Circulation

ATLANTA (AP) — Several strains of influenza — including Russian flu, Texas flu, which are types of Influenza A and Influenza B, are circulating this year, according to worldwide suveillance by the Center for Disease Control.

But which strain will be prevalent this winter in the United States is difficult to predict, the center said.

Usually only one type of influenza is involved in an outbreak, and the circulation of three strains since 1977 complicates predictions.

Vaccines in use this season are aimed at all three viruses, the center reported.

The flu season in this country generally begins in late November or early December. No flu has been reported so far this season in the continental United States.

Sporadic outbreaks of Influenza B have been reported in Hawaii and in Taiwan, the center said.

Russian flu and Texas flu were also identified in Taiwan.

Texas flu was isolated in Thailand, and Russian flu has been found in Chile and Japan, the center reported.

AIR CRASH SETTLEMENTS

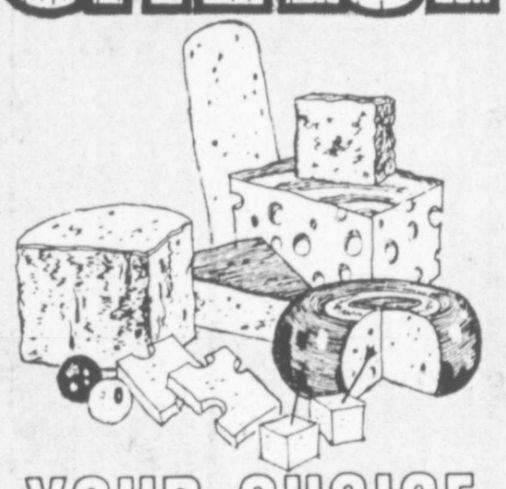

CHICAGO (AP) — American Airlines and McDonnell-Douglas Corp. have made more than 200 settlement offers to the families of 273 people killed in a May 25 plane crash, attorneys say. One settlement will be "close to $1 million," said attorney John J. Kennelly. He declined to identify the family. The victims were killed near O'Hare International Airport when the DC-10 jetliner, built by McDonnell-Douglas, crashed seconds after takeoff. The airline has not said how many offers had been accepted.

What does the Bible really mean to you? Is it an old leather volume gathering dust on the shelf, or a beloved, faithful companion?

The answer depends partly on your childhood. If your family read the Bible daily, then its Books have long since become part of your way of life.

But to many of us, the Bible remains a mystery and even the "modern" versions seem complicated. We may want, almost desperately, to understand, but it isn't that easy.

Help is as near as your closest church. For centuries the Church has made a business of studying and interpreting the Bible. Despite the passing of time, they proclaim its message with remarkable clarity. Try it and see.

PLEASED AT ACQUITTAL — J. Cullen Davis and his wife, Karen, express their pleasure at Davis's acquittal in Fort Worth on charges he sought to have his divorce case judge killed. U.N. Calls On Iran To Free Hostages

Hussein Ali Montazeri, ridiculed official American reaction to the situation, saying President Carter "does not know whether he's coming or going." Montazeri is viewed by some as a possible successor to Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, the Moslem leader who organized the revolt that forced the shah to flee Iran in January. Tehran Radio said he made his remarks in a sermon at Tehran University.

Americans escaping from Iran said some of their countrymen remained behind in virtual hiding.

"The policy of American citizens in the capital at the moment is just to keep a low profile — and more importantly — to keep away from the embassy itself," a 49-year-old computer engineer told a reporter after arriving in London. He asked that his name not be used. It is believed there are still some 300-400 Americans in Iran, many employed by private firms and located oustide the capital of Tehran.

Despite appeals for calm from American political leaders, public anger mounted in the United States.

Hundreds of anti-shah Iranians marched near the White House in Washington to jeers of, "Get the hell out of America!" and a shower of eggs from incensed onlookers. Iranians and Americans traded insults and scuffled in other demonstrations across the country. About 50 persons were arrested.

Compromise Suggested

Some sources, meanwhile, suggested what they said could be a compromise solution to the crisis — handing the shah's massive U.S. assets over to the Iranian regime and evicting him from the United States, in exchange for the hostages' release.

An Austrian legislator, Josef Hoechtl, told The Associated Press that Iran's chief diplomat in Vienna, Mohammed Abed Navandi, informed him that U.S. and Iranian authorities had discussed such an idea. This could not be otherwise confirmed.

Former American U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young said in a Miami News interview that this money-for-hostages deal could be a bargaining tool.

Young, who is involved in the worldwide diplomatic effort to save the embassy hostages, said the shah's opponents believe he took $5 billion or $6 billion with him when he fled Iran. From the Iranian point of view, he said, the United States is "protecting a thief and a butcher."

Shah Accused

The Iranian arrest warrant for the shah accuses him of ordering the killing of demonstrators during last year's anti-government disturbances.

But it was not known whether the student militants, Khomeini or the Carter administration was prepared to accept this or any compromise.

President Carter's special envoy, former Attorney General Ramsey Clark, was in Istanbul receiving reports from PLO officials on developments in Tehrn, PLO sorces said. Khomeini had barred Clark from Iran earlier this week.

The PLO, in a dispatch of its WAFA news agency, officially insisted that its envoys were not engaged in mediation. Its envoys were consulting with the Iranian leadership "in light of the common destiny that connects the Iranian and Palestinian revolutions," it said.

Other would-be mediators included:

—Pope John Paul, who sent Archbishop Annibale Bugnini, the papal ambassador to Iran, on a mission to try to meet with Khomeini.

—Egyptian President Sadat, who offered asylum to the shah, saying he would send his personal jet to fly the shah from New York to Cairo. But doctors have told the shah, who spent time in Egypt after fleeing Iran last January, that leaving New York at this time would be inadvisable. At a news conference, Sadat denounced the embassy takeover as anti-Islamic and Khomeini as a "lunatic."

—Muhammad Ali, a Moslem, said he would do anything to help, including exchange himself for the hostages. But one of the embassy militants, reached by telephone from the United States, told a radio reporter, "No substitutions. No negotiations."

The Security Council statement, in which the Soviet Union, China and other powers concurred, expressed "profound concern" over the embassy takeover, which has been condoned by the Khomeini regime in Iran in violation of standards of behavior set out by international law.

American Protests On Iran Spreading

Americans: "Free our brothers," they chanted.

About 35 members of the Moslem Student Association who paraded at the University of Minnesota, denouncing the shah, were trailed by about 200 Americans who chanted "Go home" and pelted the protesters with snowballs.

"Take Your Oil"

Office workers and men in hard hats carrying lunch boxes demonstrated outside the building housing the Iranian consulate in Houston, carrying signs reading: "Free Americans in Tehran," "Release American Hostages" and "Go to hell and take your oil." It was the second straight day of protests in the Texas city.

Other anti-Iranian marches were held, meanwhile, at the University of Central Florida in Orlando, at the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia, at the University of Colorado at Boulder, at Bangor Community College in Bangor, Maine, and at Westchester Community College in Valahalla, N.Y.

More than 1,000 students, chanting "Deport ... deport ... deport," massed at the University of Washington in Seattle; there were a few shoving matches, but no serious problems.

Politicians Urged Calm

Political leaders generally urged calm. George Bush, who is seeking the 1980 Republican presidential nomination, said he supports President Carter's "quiet diplomacy." He said now is not the time for "threatening or bullying," but added that he viewed the overall administration policy toward Iran as "vacillating and weak."

A plea for peace also came from Ohio State University President Harold Enarson who urged students to "act responsibly in this time of national crisis."

In other developments:

—Union members continued to refuse to load Iranian ships or service Iranian airplanes.

—Three Michigan State University students were arrested for painting anti-Iranian slogans on a pedestrian bridge, campus police said.

—The Young Men's Business Club of Greater New Orleans sent a telegram to the White House saying: "We demand the president deport Iranian students, expel the Iranian embassy, sever all trade ties with Iran and take whatever military action necessary to free the hostages."

—A group calling itself "Students Against Terrorism" rallied Thursday on the Las Cruces campus of New Mexico State University and distributed handbills urging the government to revoke the visas of all Iranian students in the United States.

—A St. Louis man, Charles Regna, 29, was charged Friday with two counts of flourishing a deadly weapon after police said he pointed a loaded shotgun at a telephone operator at St. Louis University and demanded the names of Iranian students.

—Increased security was ordered on the Reno campus of the University of Nevada after a group of about 80 Americans — some waving flags, others brandishing beer bottles and golf clubs — confronted about 20 Iranian students Thursday night.

Other Charges Dropped After Davis Acquittal

FORT WORTH (AP) — A tearful Texas jury acquitted multimillionaire CullenDavis of murder conspiracy charges Friday afer a long, bitter and brutal trial.

Within an hour of the verdict, a state judge dismissed murder and attempted murder charges pending against Davis since a 1976 shooting spree at his hilltop mansion.

The jury deliberated 15½ hours without taking a vote and was uanimous for acquittal on the first ballot.

The verdict came during the third day of deliberations after prosecutors and defense lawyers alike all but conceded that the 11-member panel was hopelessly deadlocked.

"We'll never get a verdict in this case," defense lawyer Mike Gibson said on the eve of the decision.

"I'll eat every word and choke on it," a joyful Gibson declared Friday.

The jury's ruling triggered an emotional outburst in the tiny courtroom as friends, family and lawyers converged on the stunned but smiling defendant.

"I hardly know what to say," he grinned. "I'm gratified and I'm speechless."

His honey-blonde wife, Karen, a major witness in the 15-week-long trial, stood at his side, tears cascading down her cheeks.

Davis, 46, denied from the outset he plotted the summertime 1978 murder of his divorce judge and contended he was framed by his ex-wife, Priscilla.

The jury, which lost a member to a broken leg weeks ago, reported about 11:15 a.m. it had reached a verdict.

The three women on the panel were crying as they took their seats in the jury box for the final time.

"This will be a great day for Texas justice," said an assistant district attorney seconds before the verdict.

"Not guilty," Judge Gordon Gray announced to a courtroom jammed with newsman and spectators and a dozen or more representatives of the district attorney's office.

"I'll be goddamned," the assistant prosecutor said.

"I don't know what happened," said chief prosecutor Jack Strickland. "A trial of this length, it would be surprising if any one factor did it...

"If that's the kind of conduct people want to approve in this county...I don't know.

"That doesn't seem reasonable, but neither does this verdict."

The verdict was a smashing triumph for a crack defense team headed by renowned Houston attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes and Dallas lawyer Phil Burleson.

"Super!" cried Haynes, who contends he'd rather be horsewhipped than sit out a jury's deliberations.

Haynes and Burleson, along with Dallas attorneys Steve Sumner and Gibson, successfully defended Davis on a 1976 murder charge.

An earlier attempt to try Davis in Houston on the murder solicitation charge ended with the jury deadlocked 8-4 for conviction.

"It's been a long ordeal, and I'm relieved that Cullen and his family are out of the agony and anguish of the past 15 weeks," said Haynes.

He said the defense succeeded here because it more clearly defined the issues before the jury and because the jurors "were intelligent enough to see through the prosecutorial rhetoric."

He added, "One thing about a hometown jury, they know the people and have some feeling for the people for whom they sit in judgment."

Actually, the state built its case around two tape-recorded conversations last year between Davis and his friend-turned-informant, David McCrory. "The tapes are no better than the witness who made them — Mr. McCrory," said Haynes.

"No reasonable person would ever believe David McCrory," added Burleson.

McCrory went to the FBI last year with a bizarre tale. He said Davis had ordered him to arrange the contract murders of divorce Judge Joe Eidson and 14 others on a purported "hit list."

Authorities corroborated McCrory's story in part with the secretly recorded conversations and bolstered their case with $25,000 they said was earmarked for a phantom killer.

Davis was embroiled at the time in a multimillion-dollar divorce battle and contended he was framed by Priscilla to enhance her legal position and ultimate settlement.

He maintained she was assisted in the conspiracy by McCrory and Fort Worth karate instructor Pat Burleson.

The defendant conceded that he discussed mass murder, but said he was only "playing along" with McCrory to expose an extortion scheme.

Davis had words concerning McCrory in the moments after his acquittal: "McCrory can go stew in his own juices as far as I'm concerned. I've always had faith in the jury system and I'm innocent of all charges."

His statement proved correct as Tarrant County dropped all other pending criminal charges. They concerned the death of Stan Farr and the woundings of Priscilla and Gus Gavrel Jr. during the mansion shooting spree. Davis was acquitted in the killing of Andrea Wilborn, Priscilla's 12-year-old daughter, who died in the gunfire.

A lesser charge in this case of possessing a prohibited weapon — a pistol with a silencer — also was dropped.

Davis turned his attention to more pleasant things. "I've got to go make some money so I can pay my attorneys," he smiled.

"I feel harassed by the state. I've been put through the mill."

Foiled Suicide Files Civil Rights Suit

By KAY BELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

A Lubbock County Jail prisoner who says he was threatened and struck by a jail official after making two attempts at suicide in September has filed a Civil Richts Act violation complaint against the jailer.

Inmate Walter Lee Buchanan Jr. has named jail Capt. Bo Leary as defendant in the complaint, filed Friday in U.S. District Court, and states in his complaint, "I would like to file assault charges and a personal damage suit against the captain and or jail."

Buchanan, who was charged with forgery in August, contends that Leary threatened to "punch me out" and did strike the prisoner in the head after two aborted suicide attempts on Sept. 25.

The 25-year-old inmate says after receiving an upsetting letter from his wife that day, he tried to commit suicide but was stopped by jailers and Leary brought the prisoner to a downstairs cell to be searched.

After being returned to the upstairs facility, Buchanan says, Leary "told me I better not try anything else or he would punch me out."

"I said we would see about that and he then threw me on some mattressess (sic) and held my chin and said if I did anything he would punch me out," according to the complaint. Buchanan adds that Leary then told the prisoner he was on restriction and left.

But immediately after Leary's departure, according to the complaint, Buchanan cut his wrist and Leary returned to the cell and again took him downstairs for another search and called the jail nurse.

"When he (Leary) came back (from calling the nurse) he closed the door and came in and said he should punch me out," Buchanan says. "He made me get up and go in the nurses (sic) office.

"On the way in (to the nurse's office) he slugged me in the back of my head," according to the complaint.

Buchanan, of Route 9, Box 402, Lubbock, says he decided to file the complaint in federal court under the Civil Rights Act after receiving no reply to a letter concerning the incident that he sent to the Texas Commission on Jail Standards.

Deportation List Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department has asked U.S. attorneys nationwide to compile information on outstanding grand jury and felony prosecutions involving Iranians as part of a review of federal deportation policy, government sources said Friday.

Attorney General Benjamin R. Civiletti has been in steady contact with the White House during the current effort to gain the release of hostages being held by Iranian students at the U.S. embassy in Tehran.

Officials have declined to provide specifics on what steps are being considered regarding deportation of students and others from Iran who are in the United States.

A source who requested anonymity said no decision had been made on what might be done with the information being sought from U.S. attorneys. The source said the Justice Department had ruled out any mass deportation of Iranians, but was studying a more selective process in the event drastic action is warranted.

Hance Cosponsors Deportation Bill

U.S. Rep. Kent Hance said Friday he is cosponsoring a bill that calls for deportation of Iranian students who participate in activities that "abuse American hospitality."

The bill, H.R. 5813, authored by U.S. Rep. Jack Hightower, calls for the immediate deportation of foreign students who participate in "activities which are inconsistent with their primary purpos of being in the United States," Hance said.

"We allow foreign students to come to the United States for a formal education," Hance said Friday, "but when they become involved in any activities such as we have seen lately, then our hospitality should end and they should be sent home.

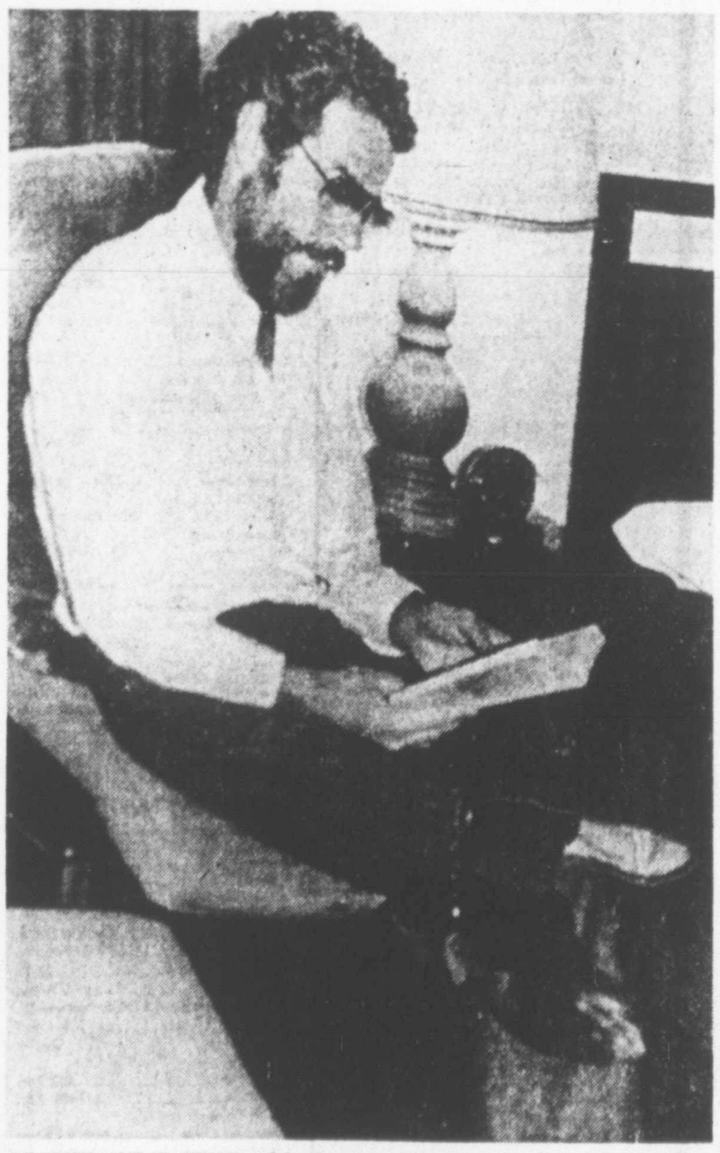

"We are dealing with an extremely sensitive international situation," the Texas congressman said. "It requires delicate handling and wise decisions. The Iranian authorities have made a joke of traditional international law and human decency."

Fall's Coldest Readings Due

Texas Tech homecoming parade fans and participants may find they need an extra layer of clothing this morning, as the mercury slowly climbs from an overnight low in the upper 20s, lowest recorded so far this fall.

Temperatures should still be brisk but warmer by the time the Red Raiders meet TCU at 2 p.m., with the weather service forecasting clear skies, light winds and readings in the upper 40s.

A cold front which pushed into northwestern Texas Friday should bring a chance for light snow to the Panhandle today, but there is no precipitation in the forecast for the South Plains.

U.S. Seeks Soviet Aid On Iran

MOSCOW (AP) — U.S. diplomats have been in contact with the Soviet government in hope it might use its "good offices" to seek the release of some 60 hostages held by Iranians at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran, diplomatic sources said Friday.

It was not known when the contact was made in Moscow or what the Soviet response was.

The Soviet Union is currently in the midst of a four-day holiday to mark the 62nd anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution. Many Soviet officials are unreachable during the holidays, and it was not known if this had slowed down the contacts.

The U.S. Embassy had no official comment on the reported contacts. A spokesman said all comment would have to come from the State Department in Washington.

Delicate Relations

The Soviet Union has delicate relations with the regime of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, some of whose supporters are wary of "atheistic communism" and critical of the Soviet role in neighboring Afghanistan. But the Soviet Union maintains a large embassy in Tehran and has exchanged ministerial-level visits with the Iranian Islamic regime since the February revolution.

In its press, the Soviet Union is taking a highly cautious view of the occupation of the embassy, publicly condemning neither the occupation nor American efforts to end it.

Soviet news coverage of the occupation has included assertions by the occupiers that the embassy was a center for espionage. But Moscow, traditionally highly respectful of diplomatic protocol and immunity, has given the occupiers no public encouragement.

Documents Cited

The official Tass news agency reported from Tehran that the student occupiers had "made public a number of documents accusing the U.S. Embassy staff of espionage and subversive activity against the Iranian revolution."

Yet the Soviet news media have also reported fully on U.S. efforts to send negotiators to Tehran and Khomeini's refusal to deal with them.

Earlier this year demonstrators marched outside the Soviet Embassy in Tehran, although the Russian building was not occupied.

In Moscow, Soviet authorities give heavy attention to guarding foreign embassies. Although some Western diplomats claim police guards restrict their contact with ordinary Russians, others are grateful for the protection.

Increased Protection

The U.S. Embassy has been negotiating for increased Soviet protection following an incident March 28 in which a young Soviet man blew himself up with a bomb in the embassy's consular section. Soviet authorities said their guards were suspicious of the man, but U.S. officials permitted him to enter.

Occasional demonstrations have broken out in front of foreign embassies in Moscow, usually believed by diplomats to have been arranged with the connivance of Soviet authorities. But Soviet police have controlled these demonstrations extremely carefully.

Soviet authorities used club-swinging mounted police to break up a 1965 demonstration by Chinese students who smashed the windows of the American Embassy.

When Arab students demonstrated outside the U.S. Embassy two years later, the Soviets fielded 1,000 police and Red Army troops to troops to preserve order.

There was no damage. In 1977, security troops with flak jackets rushed to the Ethiopian embassy when an occupation by Ethiopian students here seemed likely.

Panel Recommends Treaty With Soviets

WASHINGTON (AP) — A sharply divided Senate Foreign Relations Committee recommended approval Friday of a treaty with the Soviet Union limiting strategic weapons and sent the pact to an uncertain fate on the Senate floor.

The Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty, the product of seven years of negotiations under three administrations, was brought to a committee vote after four months of intense examination and debate. Approval was on a 9-6 vote.

In final argument, Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, the committee's chairman, said defeating SALT II would "move us closer to the edge of the nuclear abyss."

He said Senate Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd plans to bring the treaty to the Senate floor "when prospects for ratification are bright."

Senate Republican Leader Howard H. Baker, a GOP presidential contender, voted against the treaty and said later the margin by which it was passed indicates the Senate "probably will insist on amendments" and in their absence "will defeat it."

In a statement issued by the White House, President Carter said he was "deeply gratified" by the vote.

The statement said Carter hopes "that all senators will explore the SALT II treaty and related issues with the same intensity as the members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. We believe after such study senators will reach the conclusion that SALT II is in the best interests of the United States and will vote to ratify the treaty."

To win ratification, the treaty needs 67 votes on the Senate floor, two-thirds of the 100 senators.

With the climactic vote past, the committee must now produce a final report to accompany the treaty, complete with minority and individual views. That process likely means SALT II will not reach the Senate calendar until after Thanksgiving.

Two Democratic senators who took differing positions on the treaty — John Glenn of Ohio and Edward Zorinsky of Nebraska — did so for reasons that may lead them to switch sides when SALT II is brought to a final Senate vote.

Glenn, who voted against the pact, said he has no problems with the treaty's terms but cannot vote for it until he is convinced the United States can make sure the Soviets don't cheat.

Glenn said he hopes understandings that he successfully offered in committee will "hold the administration's feet to the fire" and compel it to make certain the Soviets don't exploit treaty loopholes.

"I think the Foreign Relations Committee has made the treaty better, and I can vote for it if and when we get the technical capability to monitor Sovet compliance," Glenn said.

Zorinsky voted for the treaty in committee even though he said it is not fair or equal and should be radically changed.

He said he will work for such changes, noting that if he doesn't succeed, it is "entirely possible to vote 'yes' in committee and 'no' on the floor."

Editorials Say U.S. Has Lost Prestige

By The Associated Press

Editorial writers around the world Friday saw the Iran crisis as both a blow to the prestige of the United States and a symptom of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's political woes.

One appeal seemed universal — that both sides refrain from rash actions.

"American influence has waned to the point where lesser nations thumb their noses and defy the U.S. to hit back," commented South Africa's Johannesburg Star.

"Not so long ago, U.S. Marines would have landed to protect American lives," said the Straits Times of Singapore. Now, it noted, a special U.S. mission to Iran has been turned back and "the best hopes of a solution appear to lie with the Palestine Liberation Organization," a group with which the United States refuses to deal officially.

The seizure of the U.S. Embassy and some 60 American hostages in Tehran has President Carter "cornered," wrote commentator Sami Kohen in the respected Turkish newspaper Milliyet. But he said the position of Iranian leader Khomeini may not be much more comfortable.

With the embassy takeover, Khomeini has "created a national excitement in view of his waning support and mounting serious political and economic problems," Kohen aid.

".... What is most distressing ... is that the ayatollah has transferred the administration to 'people on the streets' and he faces a virtual loss of control" over the Iranian people, he wrote.

Since toppling Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi's government last February after a popular revolution, Khomeini and his religious-oriented regime have gradually lost much support among the Iranian middle class, the educated bureaucracy and the left. The economy is still reeling from the year-long national uprising.

Khomeini's decision to side with the students occupying the embassy may have been aimed at keeping himself in control "for there is no telling how the students would have reacted is the ayatollah had opposed them," wrote editorialist Apolonio Battala in Bulletin Today of Manila, the Philippines.

The resulting near-anarchy in Tehran may threaten Khomeini, said the daily O Globo of Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

"No regime ... can survive for a long time in a state of internal unrest, and challenging the basic rules of international life," it said.

"Iran these days takes the 20th century back to the darkest days of the Middle Ages," said another Rio newspaper, Jornal do Brasil.

The newspaper Berita Buana in heavily Moslem Indonesia said the Iranians' obstinacy in demanding the return of the exiled shah from the United States in return for the hostages "might cause the American public to lose patience and insist their government take action, by any means to release the hostages."

"The situation will be unimaginably worse if such actions are taken by any sides," it said.

The Soviet news agency Tass said the angry protests already taking place in the United States were inspired by "right-wing circles" that "are stirring up a veritable anti-Iranian hysteria."

The Czechoslovak Communist Party newspaper Rude Pravo accused the United States of having allowed frequent violations of diplomatic immunity on its soil — it cited "cases of attack" on the property of Soviet-bloc nations in the United States.

"These events in no way excited American authorities," Rude Pravo charged. But the paper added that Czechoslovakia does not regard the Tehran embassy takeover as "a suitable tool for dealing with conflcits with another country."

Deposed Shah Must Reapply For Visa

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The deposed shah of Iran, undergoing treatment for cancer in New York, will have to reapply for a Mexican visa if he wants to return to his residence in Cuernavaca, Mexico, Foreign Minister Jorge Castaneda said Friday.

Castaneda said Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi was granted a tourist visa when he arrived in Mexico June 10, which permits only one entry, with the holder required to reapply if he leaves the country and then wants to return.

If the shah should apply for another visa, a decision would be up to the Interior Ministry, Castaneda said.

Clements Says Public Should Remain Calm

AUSTIN (UPI) — A restrained Gov. Bill Clements said Friday the American people and Iranian students in the U.S. should end public demonstrations and allow the Carter administration to attempt to obtain the release of American hostages in Iran through dipmaannels.

Clements, a frequent critic of Carter who has suggested changes in the president's policies on energy and the economy in the past, declined to offer any suggestions for dealing with the Iranian situation.

"I have sense enough to be quiet," Clements told reporters at a news conference. He suggested others do the same.

"I think I understand the people of Texas very well, and they are irate at the situation in Iran and this (demonstrations in Houston Thursday) was a manifestation of it," he said.

He said Texans are upset at what he called the misbehavior of Iranians.

"I'm talking about not only the misbehavior of people in Iran and our embassy there, but also the Iranian people in the United States."

Clements, who was deputy secretary of defense before running for office in Texas, said other governments recognize the seriousness of the Iranian situation, but said he does not think the American people have yet realized what impact the situation could have.

"There is no more sensitive area in the world today than this general middle east area. It is a delicate situation, and has all kinds of overtones.

"The administration is in a crisis. Whether or not Mr. Carter realizes this, he is," Clements said.

Clements said the American people are fed up with a lack of direction and leadership from the administration, but added, "This is no time to be beating our breats. The best thing we can do is leave this in the hands of the man we elected president of the United States and allow it to move forward in a quiet and dignified manner."

Asked his sentiments about Iranian students in the U.S. protesting against the governments policies, Clements replied, "I have a strong conviction that they should also be quiet. They should have sense enough to recognize this is a crisis situation, and they can best serve by being out of sight and out of mind."

Citizens Demonstrate Against Iranians

HOUSTON (AP) — Office workers and men in business suits and hard hats joined in the chanting and marching Friday as several hundred persons demonstrated American backlash to Iran's seizing hostages and the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

It was the second straight day for such a protest at the Dresser Tower housing the Iranian consulate. The crowd was smaller but, aided by hundreds of honking motorists, there was much more noise than on Thursday.

There were no incidents in what appeared to be a spontaneous outpouring of men, women and children, white, black and brown.

None of the organizers of the Thursday protest were in evidence.

Lunchboxes were nearly as common as the hard hats as numerous construction workers joined in the chanting of "Take your oil and shove it," "God Bless America," "Free Our People," and "Kick 'em back, kick 'em back, waaay back."

Many placards were made from box tops, office file folders, and architectural blueprints.

"Free Americans in Tehran," "Release American Hostages," "Go to Hell and Take Your Oil," "Punch Persian Punks," "Free Our Guys and Dolls," and "American Cars Run Better on American Oil."

The Houston demonstration was just one of several outpourings by citizens and politicans across Texas Friday.

About 450 persons gathered on the east mall at the University of Texas in Austin at noon for a rally sponsored by the Students for Safety of Americans Abroad. Lee Woods, a 23-year-old UT student, said he got funds from "right-wing conservatives" to print pamphlets. Members of the Austin Air Force Association, made up of retired airmen, also spoke.

Retired Col. Henry Kline said, "Every time you (Iranians) burn an American flag on TV, by God, we're going to wake up."

Earlier in Austin, Gov. Bill Clements suggested at his weekly news conference that Iranins in Texas stay "out of sight and out of mind" while U.S. officials are held hostage in Tehran.

"The best thing all of us can do is let President Carter handle the situation," the governor said. He said Thursday's Houston rally was "a clear manifestation of that gut feeling."

About 30 students turned out at North Texas State University Friday and several paraded around the library with posters. They sang "God Bless America" and later dispersed. NTSU has 386 Iranians on campus, mostly undergraduates.

The Houston rally began shortly before noon with a small group headed by a placard reading "John Wayne, Apple Pie, and the Shah" and by a big American flag carried by Don Satterfield, 17, of Katy, Texas, who said he should have been in school but "just wanted to take part."

"I might have to fight for my rights later, so I might as well exercise them now," he said.

The small group grew quickly, however, as office buildings began to empty for the noon hour.

Don Etheridge, a union pipefitter in a hard hat, walked over from a nearby hotel construction project, climbed a light pole barehandedly and carefully tied a large American flag to the pole so it would wave sharply in the strong south breeze.

"I'm just proud to be an American," Etheridge said after scrambling back to the ground. He then joined the marching and chanting and continued until time to return to work.

Dan Lee, with a flag pole anchored in the hip pocket of his business suit, said he joined the protest because he missed Thursday's demonstration.

"I got here just as they were breaking up and I decided to come back today," Lee said.

Iranian Students Here Praise Freedoms Of United States

By BOB CAMPBELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Not all Iranian students dislike the United States, two of them said Friday in Lubbock, and many of them prefer to stay here because they enjoy more freedom in the U.S. than they would in Iran.

"Iranian students here have different ideas," an Iranian woman said. "I really love American people. They are very nice to me.

"I have told most of them (other Iranian students), 'If you don't like it here, why don't you go back?'

"None of them wants to go back to Iran. Here, they can go to discotheques and do many things they want to do. They are very free. They know, if they go back to Iran, Khomeini has closed everything.

"In the United States, they can do anything they want."

The woman said students and professors at Texas Tech University have been hostile toward her because Iranian students have used slogans like "Down with America" in their protests of American protection of the deposed Shah of Iran and of other issues.

"I wish I could say to all these American people that we really appreciate them to accept us over here to study and everything," she said.

Another said Iranian students here know as little about the seizure of the American embassy in Tehran as the typical American and that most wish Iran would return to normality.

"Of course, I cannot do anything for them," she said of the embassy hostages being held by Moslem students there. "They are over there.

"I am hoping that one day the situation will be okay in Iran."

She said Iranian students encounter some Americans who are disdainful toward all foreigners, but that generally they have been treated well here.

"I like America," she said. "That's why I'm here. I don't see any reason for protesting in the U.S.

"Actually, I appreciate Americans because they accept me. They are so kind and nice.

"We can see nice people everywhere and bad people everywhere, but that's not my fault. I just came here to study."

A third Iranian student said he knew nothing about the situation in Tehran and declined further comment.

None of the Iranian students wanted to be identified.

Tired Of Cigarettes? Join 'Smokeout'

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Quit puffing!

That's the message the American Cancer Society is trying to get across in advance of the third annual "Great American Smokeout" on Nov. 15.

Health experts concede that it isn't always easy to give up cigarettes. "We don't know what works," said the Surgeon General's Report on Smoking and Health, issued last January.

The "smokeouts" are designed to get people to give up cigarettes for 24 hours; sponsors then urge those who quit for a day to try to break the habit for good.

The cancer society says that a survey by the Gallup organization indicates that 14 million people — a little more than one-fourth of the smokers in the nation — participated in last year's smokeout. Twenty-six percent of the would-be quitters or 3.6 million people managed to stop for a day; 2.4 million of them were still smokeless 10 days later.

A week before the new smokeout, the cancer society said smoking was "the most preventable cause of disease" and urged the government to take stronger steps to see that Americans give up cigarettes.

The National Cancer Institute of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has a booklet for people who want to give up cigarettes. "Clearing the Air: A Guide to Quitting Smoking," is available, at no charge, from Dept. 650G, Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colo., 81009.

Another pamphlet, "Unless You Decide to Quit, Your Problem Isn't Going to Be Smoking; Your Problem's Going to Be Staying Alive," includes suggestions for cutting down as well as stopping. It costs 80 cents and is also available from the Consumer Information Center in Pueblo. Write to Dept. 034G.

For smokers who can't go it alone, there are a growing number of formal anti-cigarette programs featuring group therapy and counseling. Costs range from nothing to $500 or more, depending on complexity and sponsorship. The National Cancer Institute says that success rates vary, but adds that, in general, anywhere from 20 percent to 40 percent of the participants in formal no-smoking programs say they are effective.

The cancer institute also has suggestions for individuals who want to organize their own programs to give up smoking. Here's an outline of one four-week plan.

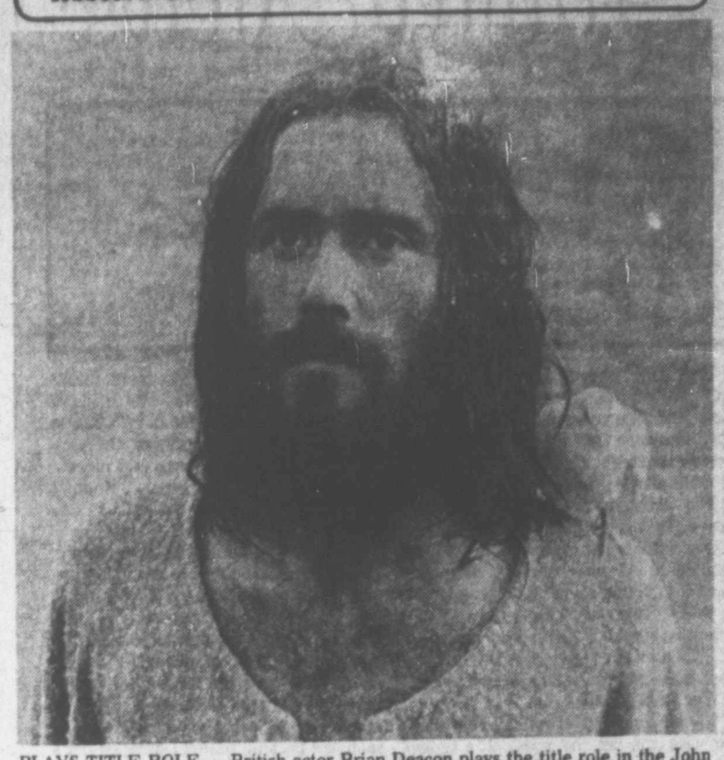

Week One: Make a list of the reasons why you want to quit smoking and go over it every day. Think positive. Try to avoid dwelling on how difficult it will be to quit. Wrap your cigarette pack with paper and rubber bands. Each time you light up, write down the time of day, what you are doing, how you are feeling and how important the cigarette is to you on a scale of one to five. This helps make you aware of each cigarette; it also makes smoking a nuisance.

Week Two: Try to expand your list of reasons for not smoking. Keep referring to it frequently. Don't carry matches or a lighter. Stash your cigarettes some place away from you — in a desk drawer or coat pocket. Each day, try to smoke fewer and fewer cigarettes.

Week Three: Continue to cut down, a cigarette at a time. Don't buy a new pack of cigarettes until you finish the one you're smoking. Never buy a carton. Change brands twice during the week, each time choosing a brand that is lower in tar and nicotine. Set a time limit; say to yourself, "I won't have a cigarette until ..." Try a brand you don't like. Try to stop smoking for an entire 48-hour period sometime during the week.

Week Four: Step up physical activity. Avoid situations you associate with smoking. Try to spend time where smoking is banned or doing things that keep your hands busy so you can't smoke. Carry a supply of cigarette substitutes — celery or carrot sticks, for example, or some other low-calorie snack. Whenever you get the urge for a cigarette, take a deep breath instead.

Once you've quit, keep track of your progress. Make a note of the exact date you had your last cigarette and plan monthly celebrations. Make up a large calendar and cross off each day you go without a cigarette. Note the amount of money you've saved; after a month or so, you should have enough for a special treat.

PLAYS TITLE ROLE — British actor Brian Deacon plays the title role in the John Heyman produced film "Jesus." Deacon was chosen after 263 tests of other actors because Heyman wanted a man with "muscle," someone who had worked in a carpenter's shop; and no namby-pamby. (AP Laserphoto)

Monty Python Film Irks Producer Of 'Jesus'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — At the mention of "Monty Python's Life of Brian," producer John Heyman lost his customary British cool.

Heyman is the producer of "Jesus," a new $6 million film which takes its script directly from the Book of Luke. It is being released by Warner Brothers. So is "Brian," which was being assailed as sacriligious by Catholic, Protestant and Jewish clergy.

"I made my deal with Warners six months before they acquired the Monty Python film," said Heyman. "I question the business methods of a company that will self-evidently invite horrendous comparisons.

"The horrible part is to see in Houston, 'Brian' playing in the Galleria theaters 1 and 2 and 'Jesus' in Galleria 3 and 4."

Heyman said he had not seen "Brian" — "but I read the script long ago and I can see how it would be offensive. It is dangerous to play with people's beliefs."

The Oxford-educated Heyman is no babe in the woods of film corporations. He came up through English television, became personal manager for Elizabeth Taylor, Richard Burton, Laurence Harvey and others, and in 1959 formed World Film Services, which financed and produced prestigious films. Among them: "The Hireling," "The Go-Between" and "Privilege."

"Between 1967 and 1973, I participated in 43 films; it was like a sausage factory," he recalled. "Although I was not ashamed of what I had accomplished, I still wanted to do something I was going to be proud of."

The result: The Genesis Project.

Heyman started the massive undrtaking in 1974 with the aim of converting the Bible to film. Called The New Media Bible, the project would be accompa-

Ozone Layer Depleting Faster Than Predicted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Earth's protective ozone layer is being depleted by chemicals at twice the rate previously predicted, raising concerns about possible climate changes and increases in skin cancer, the National Academy of Sciences reported Thursday.

The academy's National Research Council said new calculations indicate atmospheric ozone could be reduced 16.5 percent because of worldwide use of fluorocarbon chemicals. Half of this depletion will occur in the next 30 years, it added.

In 1976, the council predicted an eventual 7.5 percent ozone reduction. But new atmospheric measurements and improved mathematical models revised the estimate upward, it said in a study done for the Environmental Protection Agency.

Ozone is a form of oxygen formed in the stratosphere and concentrated in a layer about 20 miles above the Earth. It is the planet's chief protection against deadly ultraviolet light from the sun.

If more ultraviolet light reaches the Earth, some scientists fear widespread increases in skin cancer, possible unpredictable effects on plant life and changes in climate which could have many repercussions.

The principal culprits in ozone depletion appear to be fluorocarbons, sometimes referred to as halocarbons, chlorofluoromethanes or chlorofluorocarbons.

Fluorocarbons gases rise and accumulate in the upper atmosphere. Once there, sunlight breaks them down and releases chlorine or chlorine compounds that destroy ozone, scientists say.

Fluorocarbons are used principally as refrigerants in cooling systems, in industrial solvents and as propellants in aerosol spray cans.

Last April, the United States banned almost all fluorocarbon use in aerosols, which previously accounted for more than half the fluorocarbons produced in this country.

However, worldwide use of fluorocarbons has been increasing steadily, despite warnings of possible ozone damage.

Since the concentration of the ozone layer fluctuates naturally and changes are difficult to measure, scientists have relied chiefly upon computerized mathematical models of the atmosphere for their predictions.

The new study says improved techniques have decreased the range of uncertainty in the calculations to 19 chances out of 20 that the total ozone depletion will be between 5 percent and 28 percent if fluorocarbon release continues at the present rate.

Within this range, 16.5 percent is the "best estimate," it said.

The report said there still is a possibility that a chemical drain, or "sink," exists that reduces the amount of fluorocarbons that reach the stratosphere. Preliminary evidence for such a "sink" is not strong enough to significantly alter the calculations at the present time, the report said.

The report expressed concern about increasing use of two hydrogen-bearing halocarbons not used in aerosols.

Use of a chemical called F-22, largely in refrigeration, has increased 25 percent in two years. Production of methyl chloroform, an industrial solvent, is doubling every five years.

The council said it did not attempt to evaluate possible ozone depletion due to these chlorine-containing compounds because of limited knowledge of how they react in the atmosphere.

But the report said these chemicals "require careful attention" in the future.

Husband Sues Wife's Lover

WARWICK, R.I. (UPI) — Builder Gerald P. Zarrella says he won't abandon his fight for compensation resulting from his wife's affair with his best friend, even though a judge slashed his $80,000 jury award to $5,000.

"This just fuels the fire," Zarrella said this week of Superior Court Judge Ronald R. Lageux's ruling. The judge said jurors either misunderstood or ignored his instructions in deliberating the case.

The jury last month ordered Sidney Robinson to pay Zarrella $5,000 in compensatory damages and $75,000 in punitive damages because of "criminal conversations" — extramarital sex — with Zarrella's wife, Lila. After a divorce, she later married Robinson.

Bilingual, Singing Parrot No Ordinary Bird

COMMERCE (AP) — Polly want a galleta?

Galleta is the Spanish word for cracker, and while that might be news to you, it's not to Paco the bilingual parrot.

He also sings opera and has delusions of grandeur.

"I got Paco from a friend when I was living in Panama," says Wynter McFatridge, a senior at East Texas State University here.

"I started teaching him words in both English and Spanish, and he developed quite a vocabulary."

McFatridge and Paco go everywhere together, including to classes.

In fact, Paco is kind of an unofficial instructor in Dr. Margaret McClear's Spanish class.

Turns out Paco is a master of the trilled "R."

"This is usually the hardest thing an American has to learn about Spanish," McFatridge said. "Most of the class had not mastered it. Paco was doing it perfectly. Dr. McClear realized this, too. She let Paco keep talking."

Now Paco has his own seat in the class, and sometimes helps Dr. McClear make a point.

Miss Wynter likes to listen to opera, and that's fine with Paco.

"When we ride in the car on long trips, we both sing arias the whole way," Wynter said. "It certainly helps pass the time."

Paco's 40-word vocabulary includes a phrase that reeks of high aspirations: "Stand Back! I'm an eagle!"

And reporters have no trouble in getting material from the cooperative bird.

"Que Pasa?" Paco begins, using the slang phrase for "What's going on?"

"This is not going to be a bilingual interview," the reporter said. "Could you please speak English?"

"Whatever turns you on," said the bird.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I am living with a guy (no lectures, please) and we get along fine. We've each been through a lousy marriage and are going to make sure we are right for each other before we middle-aisle it again.

The problem is Bill's bulldog. He snores. This is no joke. You would not believe a dog could make so much noise. I called a veterinarian last week and asked if anything could be done about it. He said, "Sorry, no. This is the way the bulldog's nasal passages are constructed." Then he gave me worse news. "The older they get the louder they snore." He suggested earplugs.

When I told Bill about my conversation with the vet, he said, "It's funny that I don't hear a thing. If you force me to make a choice between you and the dog, I'd have to choose the dog." What do you think of this, Ann? — Black Circles From A Crazy Triangle

Dear B.C.: Buy earplugs. Or, get rid of Bill.

Dear Ann Landers: God bless you for your answer to "Drained Dry," the woman who was being driven half crazy by her depressed neighbor. Your advice was, "It's OK to ring off and remove yourself from the situation if a depressed person leans so heavily that he or she begins to threaten your mental health."

Of course your advice was right, but surely you must be aware that anyone who has been leaned on by a depressed relative or friend feels guilty if he doesn't continue to listen, or if he must disassociate, even for the sake of his own sanity.

I once shared an apartment with a young woman who had no self-esteem, very little confidence and became involved in some unfortunate relationships with men. She would sink into spells of depression that lasted for days. I had to force her to eat. There was always a threat of suicide. She once told me she was all set to slash her wrists but didn't have enough strength to walk to the bathroom.

Finally, I couldn't take it any more. The girl was keeping me up nights and making a wreck out of me. I gave her 60 days' notice that I was moving to a different city. She was very hostile at first and accused me of abandoning her. (She really knew how to lay on the guilt). When we parted I wished her luck and urged her to get psychiatric help. As soon as I became settled I dropped her a note saying I wanted to hear some GOOD NEWS when she had some. Six months later she telephoned — "greatly improved and enjoying life." Four years after that I attended her wedding. She was a totally different person.

My only advice to others who are being leaned on too much is this: Don't be cruel. Give your depressed friend some warning. Don't cut him or her off without a word of explanation. Let it be known that you will always be a friend but you can no longer serve as a crutch. — Been Through It

Dear B.T.I.: Thank you for the evidence to support the theory that sometimes we have to be "cruel" to be kind.

West's two-diamond call was one of those Michales cue bids designed to show a lot of cards in the major suits and not too many high cards. North's double showed general strength and the bidding proceeded until North finally elected to bid six diamonds on the theory that South wanted him to make that bid.

South ruffed the second spade, drew trumps and led the queen of hearts.

West covered with the king. South took dummy's ace and went into an elaborate study of his chances.

His first decision was to play West for the king of clubs but to take some precautions. Hence he led dummy's queen of that suit. East played low. Now South was sure that West held his majesty so he rose with his ace and ran off all his trumps to produce a three-card ending.

South's last three cards were the four of hearts and jack-four of clubs while dummy's were the jack-nine-two of hearts.

West was hopelessly squeezed on the last trump and was forced to make the desperation discard of the king of clubs.

South then cashed his jack of clubs and wound up by finessing against West's 10 of hearts.

Hints From Heloise

HI THERE:

Today, we're gonna talk about mildew, so listen well and remember it. You may not need it now but when you do this tidbit of information will come to the rescue.

If mildew appears on clothing or household fabrics, remove the spots as soon as you notice them. They can do irreparable damage to the material.

Begin by taking the garment or fabric outside. Brush off the mold so the mildew spores do not scatter all over the house.

Fabrics that are washable can be pretreated by rubbng laundry detergent into the dampened stain. Then launder the fabrics in hot water and chlorine bleach (if safe for the fabric) and detergent or soap.

Should the stain not come out, sponge with hydrogen peroxide, rinse and launder.

If not chlorine bleach-safe, soak items in an oxygen bleach according to directions on package, then wash.

Take non-washables to the cleaners; tell them what the stain is.

To Your Good Health

By PAUL DONOHUE, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am 21 years old and am starting to get small veins on my legs. I know they must be varicose veins but cannot understand getting them so young. I thought they might be caused by my being overweight. I am 5 feet, 4 inches and weigh 140 pounds. Help. — Miss K.R.L.

Varicose veins are enlarged veins. Blood flows in veins back to the heart. So, to keep blood moving upward, the veins have special "one-way" valves to prevent blood from flowing back. As veins enlarge, their valves become less efficient because they weren't constructed to handle such large vessels. This fact leads to further enlargement of the veins.

Prolonged standing can cause this (a matter I discussed recently in connection with edema — fluid accumulation). Some children may be born with varicose veins, and the problem may run in families.

A young person like yourself, with a budding varicose vein problem, can do much to help. Maintaining normal body weight is important. Snugly-fitting stockings that reach to the groin are helpful. Elevating legs on a stool when sitting is good practice. When forced to stand in one place for long periods you can do a simple exercise — tightening and relaxing the muscles of your legs. This "muscle-pumping" helps propel blood ward in its return to the heart via the leg veins.

• • •

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am a woman of 71. For a month I have been really been up all night due to leg cramps. The muscles in both legs seem to tie up in knots and this continues one right after the other. What causes these muscles to knot so? Is something lacking in my system? The only medicine I take is Dyazide for high blood pressure. Could it be a lack of potassium? — F.B.S.

Dyazide is a combination of hydrochlorothiazide, which can lower potassium, and triamterene, which helps prevent potassium loss. Therefore low potassium is not common with this medicine. However, for other reasons muscle cramps can be a side effect of Dyazide. We don't know why it happens.

You should report the cramps and see if some other high blood pressure medicine can be tried. The booklet, "How to Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pain" may offer other hints. For a copy send 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Donohue, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My son has had von Recklinghausen's disease for 22 years. Is there a cure for it? — W.S.

Von Recklinghausen's disease sounds like it should be limited to the Prussian nobility. It isn't. It occurs in one out of every 3,000 births, and is inherited.

Large brown spots appear on the skin, and growths appear on nerves. Lest everyone with brown spots on the skin think they have von Recklinghausen's disease, it should be noted that the spots are usually over three-fourths of an inch in diameter, and there must be at least five of them to make the diagnosis.

The covering of the nerves grows, and these growths appear as violet-hued warts on the skin. They may occur internally, as well.

The growths are non-cancerous (almost always). Rarely, they cause severe complications. The only treatment is surgical — removal of the wart-like growths.

The spots referred to tend to be more prominent with age, but they should not be confused with the spots elderly people may develop.

• • •

Dear Dr. Donohue: Can castor oil help a woman speed her labor? — S.E.

Not of itself. But enemas or laxatives are given to women in labor to empty the rectum. This may be what you mean. A full rectum might exert pressure on the birth canal and slow delivery.

• • •

Dear Dr. Donohue: Perhaps my question is of general interest. Is numbness in the heels and toes a sign of diabetes? — S.M.

Numbness is a sign of impairment of the nerves or of the blood vessels. There are many causes for both problems, diabetes being one of them.

Troubled with varicose veins? To make sure you are doing all you can, write to Dr. Donohue, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611, for a copy of his booklet, "How to Deal with Varicose Veins." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Rising Cost Of New Homes Forces Families To Remodel Old Houses

By SIDNEY MARGOLIUS

NEW YORK (WNS) — With most young families priced out of the new-homes market by tags of $60,000 or more in most regions, a nationwide boom in modernizing and enlarging is under way as people fight for more space in their present homes.

More first-home buyers also are turning to older houses because of their lower prices, and these too often require renovation and retrofitting for energy conservation.

But costs of improvements, repairs and expansion have gone up sharply, too. Perhaps the most hectic increases recently have been in asphalt roofing. It has tripled since 1967 and in recent months has been rising even faster — at an annual rate of 30 percent.

Lumber prices also have approximately tripled in 12 years and tags on insulating materials have gone up almost as much. Increases on plumbing fixtures and heating equipment have been substantial but less drastic; they've about doubled.

The result of the hikes on materials shows up in the new high costs of the most frequent repairs. Homeowners seeking to re-roof after a hard winter will find they must pay $45 to $55 and even more per "square" even for a "walkable" roof on a one-story house, advises Paul Smolinski, qualifying officer for Ferndale (Mich.) Cooperative. The cooperative is a Michigan-based modernization service which also serves as a consultant to similar services in other regions.

A "square" is 10-by-10 feet and consists of 81 shingles. Steeper roofs on two- and three-story houses would cost on the higher end of these estimates.

In getting quotes, determine the weight of the roofing you're getting. Usually the lower prices are for the 240-pound grade, which is warranted for 15 to 20 years. This is the most widely used grade, especially for two-story houses which shed snow and water faster than the lower-pitch one-story homes and so aren't subject to as much deterioration, Smolinski says.

The 280-pound grade, used less often, generally is warranted for 25 to 30 years.

Another frequent modernization job is aluminum trim over the old wood trim on absestos-shingled or brick homes. Typically this renovation costs $2,000 to $3,000, Smolinski estimates, for covering the soffets, facia, gutters, downspouts and window trim.

Two other popular projects are kitchen and bathroom renovations. The kitchen is the most expensive room in the house to re-do professionally, with the complete cost often running about $4,-500. A new bathroom frequently costs about $3,000 for new fixtures and accessories, Smolinski reports.

Once you've decided to stay put, the effort to find space for a growing family becomes a complex and often costly but not insuperable task. The most expensive way is to build out, which can cost typically from $40 to $50 a square foot. The cheapest expansion move is to make a family room in the basement. This often can be done for about $6,000 even if you have it all done professionally.

If you have an expansion attic, adding dormers is a cheaper way to expand horizontally than is adding a wing. Full shed dormers on front and back of a Cape Cod-style house can add 1,000 feet or more of space. Shed dormers add more space than gable dormers as well as light and air.

Some people with ranch-style houses even have the roof ridge itself raised 5 or 6 feet o provide a new second floor. But the contractor must be very knowledgeable and experienced in this kind of conversion, experts warn.

Other ways families add space is by converting garages and carports and enclosing porches. Any of these, as well as dormers, is cheaper than extending the house itself because you save the foundation and also have less heat loss.

In fact, experts warn not to take for granted that you can merely add to your present heating system when enlarging a home. You really need to ask your local utility office or a serviceman whether your furnace or boiler has enough BTU capacity for the expansion. If not, you may find it simpler to use an electric space heater with its own thermostat for the new area.

While many larger expansion and improvement jobs are beyond "do it yourself" capacity — especially dormers, which need to be enclosed quickly gainst the weather — you often can save by doing the "finishing" yourself. This includes staining, painting, putting down molding and tiling ceilings or floors. This work is expensive to have done professionally because of the time rather than any high skill involved.

Student Truancy Becoming Major Problem

WASHINGTON (AP) — School superintendents say student truancy is getting worse, and the biggest problem is casual class-cutting, not chronic absenteeism.

"More students are deliberately playing truant, skipping classes they don't like and missing the whole day as it suits them," said a report released recently by the American Association of School Administrators.

The National Center for Education Statistics estimates that the daily absentee rate is 6.4 percent, while normally sickness would cause an absence rate of only 4 to 5 percent.

A majority of the 1,414 school superintendents surveyed for the report said that 6 percent or more of their students were missing on the average day. Five percent said the absentee rate was 11 percent or higher.

Paul B. Salmon, executive director of the association, said absenteeism is "one of the biggest headaches for school superintendents. We found that many school districts are reacting by tightening their attendence policies."

The report, entitled "Keeping Students In School," said more schools are docking students' grades for unexcused absences, and some are demanding phone calls, not just notes, from parents to explain absences.

The report said absentee rates were highest in big city school districts, and in some urban high schools one in every four students is absent daily.

The study said truancy leads to lower student achievement and higher vandalism and crime rates. It also costs schools money because many states base their education aid on attendence rates.

The report also said the dropout rate, which reached all-time lows in the early 1970s, is starting to move up again, and it predicted dropout rates will continue to rise.

The study noted that last fall, California inspectors did a random check and estimated school attendence at 84 percent, far below the 96 percent that local school officials were reporting.

The report said some schools have a novel approach to thwart tardiness. Volunteers, parents and some school officials make warning wake-up telephone calls to chronically late or truant students.

'Project Reform' Seeks Reformation Of Student Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — Foes of standardized scholastic testing predicted recently that New York's test disclosure law will ignite a new national debate over the questions asked on the Scholastic Aptitude Test and similar exams.

Critics of standardized tests met at National Education Association headquarters to discuss strategy for what they regard as testing reform. Participants included representatives of the NEA, the National PTA and the NAACP.

"Now the debate is over truth in testing. As soon as the tests are made public, the debate will be over the questions they are asking," said John Weiss, direct of "Project De-Test" and organizer of the conference.

Starting Jan. 1, test companies will have to make public within 30 days copies of the standardized exams given in New York state.

The College Board and the American College Testing program have said they will cut back on the number of times the SAT and the ACT tests are given to high school students in New York.

Some sponsors of admissions test for medical and other professional schools have threatened not to give the exams in New York state.

A test disclosure bill has been introduced in Congress, but no immediate action is planned.

Allan Nairn, who has worked on a long-delayed and still unpublisheed Ralph Nader study of the Educational Testing Service, agreed with Weiss that the New York disclosure law will escalate the debate.

"There will be no turning back," Nairn said, because both the public and researchers will be able to scrutinize the tests.

Ann Kahn, secretary of the National PTA, told a news conference that "an informed public debate about testing is not now possible," because most parents are unfamiliar with the content of the tests and their reliability. The SAT's standard margin of error is 30 points in either direction, she noted.

One unidentified man at the news conference challenged the test critics. He said the test makers are genuinely concerned about how the tests are used and the validity of the questions asked.

Report Shows Women More Career Minded

WASHINGTON (AP) — American women are waiting longer to have children and large numbers are returning to work after childbirth, the Census Bureau reported recently.

In a study of the fertility of American women, conducted last year, the department also found that more than one woman out of 10 aged 18 to 34 does not plan to have any children at all.

The study said the median interval from marriage to first childbirth for American woman is two years.

This is six months longer that was the case in the early 1970s and 10 months more than in the 1960s, officials said.

"This represents a substantial change in patterns of family formation and confirms other indications that couples are delaying childbearing within marriage," the study reported. The trend was similar for both black and white women, the bureau said.

The bureau also noted a slight increase in births among white women within six months of marriage.

The survey disclosed that nearly one-third of married women 18 to 34 returned to the labor market within a year after having a child, and 41 percent were working or looking for jobs by the time the child was 2 years old.

"These are very high percentages considering the fact that few licensed child care facilities will accept very young children," the report said.

The bureau said that because of this, "many working wives with young children are still heavily dependent on the traditional services of relatives and strangers."

As the children grow older, more and more mothers re-enter the labor market, the study said, reaching 57 percent among mothers whose youngest child was 6 or older.

Married mothers, the report said, have more problems finding jobs, however, than do childless wives. The unemployment rate for married women with children was 8.5 percent compared to 5.8 percent for childless wives.

The report also said that as women's educational level increases, their childbearing expectations decline.

"It is likely that women of higher educational attainment are more career-oriented, and therefore expect to remain childless or to have relatively small families," the bureau reported.

However, it added, "many women with less education may have been forced to curtail their education due to early pregnancy and motherhood."

Governor Advocates 'Garbage Energy'

WASHINGTON (AP) — New Jersey Gov. Brendan T. Byrne advocated "turning off the imported oil and turning on the garbage" Friday as a means of dealing with energy shortages.

He told a news conference his state is making major strides in seeking ways to convert New Jersey's annual 15 million tons of solid waste into energy.

Byrne spoke in support of legislation introduced by Rep. James J. Florio, D-N.J., that would provide federal money and technical advice for states and municipalities that embark on such programs.

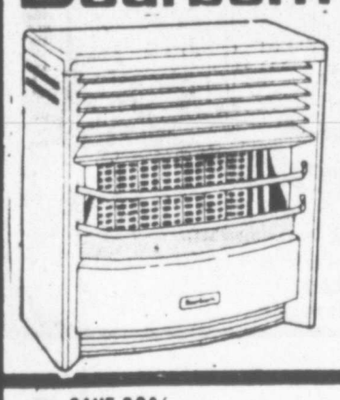

The bill would provide $12 million in federal grants over a five-year period.

"We use far too much imported oil and have largely ignored our own resources, natural or otherwise, which are waiting to be used as major domestic energy sources," the New Jersey governor said.

Florio told the same news conference that some 140 million tons per year of solid waste are generated nationally.

Study Calls Suburban Movement 'Resegregation'

By the Editors of Psychology Today

Journalists and scholars have hailed the growing movement of blacks to the suburbs as a sign not only of black progress but of increasing integration.

But Phillip L. Clay, an urban planner at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, has examined census records and found something quite different.

Between 1960 and 1974, he found, black emigration from the cities primarily produced "resegregation" or sometimes "reghettoization" in particular sectors of suburbia.

In the 15-year period analyzed by Clay, the black suburban population increased by one-third, reaching 3.5 million. Many suburban areas now have concentrations of blacks as high as 50 percent.

Most of the 1 million new black suburbanites, Clay discovered, settled in formerly-white neighborhoods where housing had deteriorated in physical condition and market value.

Sectors with large numbers of blacks, Clay found, are characterized by lower income, poorer education and higher unemployment than neighborhoods with smaller black concentrations.

Only one-fifth of the new black suburbanites entered neighborhoods with significant amounts of new housing. Fewer than one-tenth settled in communities where the median price of a house occupied by its owner was $25,000 or more.

Clay says fewer than 15 percent of the black households that had incomes of $15,000 or more in 1970 fit the popular image of suburban living amid "good housing and professional or middle-class ambiance." And the general picture has changed little since.

Some social scientists have suggested that black migration to the suburbs has followed a "spillover" pattern, moving from one adjacent neighborhood to another. In fact, Clay found blacks usually move to particular sectors and communities.

Discrimination determines some of their choices of where to live, but Clay found other forces at work as well.

"Ethnic communities, especially cohesive ones, are the most difficult (for blacks) to penetrate since young, white ethnic families tend to stay put. Communities with no particular ethnic identity and . . . significant turnover are the prime targets since there is no dominant group to inhibit immigration or to keep demand high and vacancies low."

Looking to the future, Clay ominously cites the Census Bureau's 1973 Annual Housing Survey, which found that blacks seriously criticize their suburban environments.

Ex-Convict Now Prison Lobby President

AUSTIN (AP) — It was a weird sort of poker the kids played in the National Training School in Washington, D.C., back in 1952. Boys 13 to 17 kept score not with chips but with razor slashes on their forearms.

Don Taylor, who was 13 then, watched the the bloody exercise in teenage bravado with horror and says now it merely underscores the brutality of prison.

He served three more prison sentences before resolving, at age 30, to give up the drugs — chiefly dilaudid — that had put him behind bars while other bright young people went to college and established careers.

"I've been out of prison 10 years and I still have nightmares about the experience that leave me with a gut-level sick feeling for days," says Taylor, 40.

Now a "materials expediter" at Tracor, Inc., a scientific research and instrument manufacturing company, Taylor is the first ex-convict to be elected president of Texas' prison lobby.

Taylor heads Citizens United for Rehabilitation of Errants (CURE), whose 3,000 members — including 1,000 prison inmates — are dedicated to pushing the idea that penitentiaries aren't the best way to deal with most criminals.

Taylor also serves on a local criminal justice task force and is a director of the Texas Council on Crime and Delinquency.

A slender, six-footer whose close-cropped beard is flecked with gray, he rubs shoulders with the city's power people and gave the late Lyndon Johnson's lawyer as a reference when he applied for his job at Tracor this year.

Taylor got acquainted with LBJ's attorney, Donald S. Thomas, and Tracor president Frank McBee when he served with them last year on a committee that planned and successfully promoted an $8 million bond issue to build a new jail.

Paradoxically, he couldn't vote for the bond issue because convicted felons lose their right to vote. The Board of Pardons and Paroles rejected his application for a pardon last year, but Taylor filed a new one Oct. 23.

Taylor says he is not one of the Texas Department of Corrections' success stories. He says prison left him with a residue of anger that he still sublimates by playing one-on-one basketball and working to better the lot of prisoners.

"I internalized a lot of anger and bitterness and cynicism. That's what prison does for you. I saw I was letting the system destroy me. I began to learn how to deal with anger. You can turn it inward and become suicidal — that's what drug addiction is. I sought socially acceptable outlets. It was a gradual growth process," he said in an interview.

Taylor grew up in East Dallas and was the youngest of five children. He said he went to the Baptist Church and was a Boy Scout.

But he also was a petty criminal. He escaped from a county-operated reform school on Christmas night 1952, stole a car and drove it to Arkansas. At 13, Taylor was sentenced to the National Training School, a federal reform school that since has closed.

Released 18 months later, he began using uppers, downers and paregoric, which contains an opiate, and was expelled from the ninth grade at age 16.

At 18, Taylor drew his first prison sentence, three years for possessing a hypodermic.

Within months after his release, he was arrested for marijuana possession and went back to prison.

Three years later, at 24, he was a free man again. Arlington State College accepted him without a high school diploma on the basis of test scores. He completed a semester, made the "B" honor roll and got married.

But he also got caught forging dilaudid prescriptions and returned to Huntsville.

When he got out at age 30, he had spent 11 years of his life in prison, but within months he was arrested for forging prescriptions in Austin.

Taylor said he made a deal with the judge, paid a $1 fine and accepted counseling at the Travis County Mental Health and Mental Retardation Center.

He got a job in a printing shop and enrolled in the University of Texas as a psychology major. He says he has 90 semester hours, about three-fourths of the way to a degree. He also worked two years as a full-time counselor of ex-convicts.

What turned him around?

Taylor says there are no easy answers but it certainly wasn't prison. Getting away from his old haunts in Dallas and coming to Austin, where he at first lived with a brother, was part of it, he said.

Knoxville Firemen Charged In Incident

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Eight Knoxville firemen absolved of criminal rape charges have been named in civil service charges that accuse them of neglect of duty, conduct unbecoming a city employee and failing to obey orders.

Criminal charges were dropped after six days of a preliminary hearing when a judge ruled there was no probable cause. A 22-year-old woman had accused the firemen of repeatedly raping her in a fire station. The civil service charges filed by the city Wednesday also named a ninth fireman who was not charged criminally.

What's up in sex symbols?

What's up in justice?

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Kansas Gov. John Carlin ran into a little trouble after giving a speech at a downtown hotel — his state car was missing from the parking lot.

The governor returned to his hotel room, and his driver, a Kansas state trooper, set out to search for the unmarked 1979 highway patrol vehicle.

He found it about six blocks away, in a tow lot adjacent to the Kansas City Police Department.

It seems the governor's car had been left in a no-parking zone while he was making the speech Thursday.

Bill Hoch, an aide to Carlin, said the governor and his party drew two conclusions from the experience.

"One, when you go to Kansas City, read the traffic signs; and two, justice is administered even-handedly by the Kansas City, Mo., Police Department."

A footnote: Police waived the $15 fine and the $16 tow charge, a courtesy usually afforded women with children, people stranded without money and out-of-staters — including governors — who may be unfamiliar with the rules, said a police spokesman.

What's up in advertising?

NEW YORK (AP) — The Advertising Council on Friday announced an anti-crime campaign featuring a Humphrey Bogart impersonator named Smoky.

The long-eared hound with a world-weary, seen-it-all air, will offer advice on how to "take a bite out of crime," said council president Robert P. Keim.

He said the ad campaign, co-sponsored by the National Council on Crime and Delinquency, will be the most ambitious nationwide crime-prevention information program to date. Anti-crime messages will appear on television and radio, in magazines, the business press and transit and outdoor advertising.

What's up in loopholes?

KAMLOOPS, British Columbia (AP) — Wally Wozniak, a lawyer, found a legal loophole big enough to park in.

Wozniak got so fed up with parking tickets that he challenged two of them in county court. He argued that a parking bylaw had to be supported by a City Council resolution outlining meter zones. He won last week.

The council had closed the loophole effective July 25. But a justice of the peace heard this week of Wozniak's victory and canceled all meter tickets issued before that date.

Wozniak said Thursday the city is morally obligated to return all the nickels, dimes and fines collected since the early 1950s, when the City Council failed to pass a resolution authorizing the meter zones.

City officials won't discuss the subject.

Bussinessmen Vulnerable

CHICAGO (AP) — William F. Niehous says his ordeal of being kidnapped and held in Venezuelan jungles for more than three years leads him to believe there is little a businessman can do to avoid being kidnapped.

Niehous, who was vice president and general manager of Owens-Illinois Co.'s operations in Venezuela, said, "If they want you, they'll find a place and a time of their choosing to get you."

He told the International Trade Club of Chicago on Thursday he is still puzzled about why he was abducted from his suburban Caracas home Feb. 17, 1976.

"They said I was a symbol. I represented capitalism and multinational corporations. They said I exploited our Venezuelan employees. They never accused me of a specific crime," he said.

He was rescued last June 29 when police and farmers seeking cattle rustlers came on the shack where he was being held.

He returned to work in September as vice president of the corporate staff and director of administration for corporate technology.

Service Winners Named

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Seven Americans who believed they could make a difference were named winners of the 1979 Rockefeller public service awards Friday.

The justice award went to Richard Gerstein of Miami, a former Florida district attorney.

Gale Cincotta of Chicago, a homemaker and mother of six, and Macler Shepard of St. Louis, a black upholsterer, were awarded the prize for revitalizing communities.

The health award was given to Dr. Abraham Bergman of Seattle and Dr. Emery Johnson of Rockville, Md.

George Palmiter of Montpelier, Ohio, won the conservation award.

The award for outstanding public service went to Raul Yzaguirre, a civil rights leader.

The awards were sponsored by John D. Rockefeller 3rd and administered by the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs at Princeton University.

What's up in doctors?

Who says you can't find a GP anymore?

Some 55,159 U.S. doctors call themselves general practitioners, according to a recent survey by the American Medical Association. The study found these to be the leading fields of specialization of the country's 421,178 physicians:

Specialty	Number of Doctors
Internal medicine	61,830
General practice	55,159
General surgery	32,340
Psychiatry	24,894
Pediatrics	23,959
Obstetrics-gynecology	23,376
Anesthesiology	13,918
Pathology	12,358
Orthopedic surgery	12,323
Radiology	12,146

New York reported 252 doctors per 100,000 residents, the highest ratio of any state; South Dakota had the lowest percentage of doctors in its population with 100 per 100,000 residents.

The truth about River Kwai

In the 1957 film "The Bridge on the River Kwai," an Allied commando team blows up the Japanese-held bridge built in Thailand by Australian, American and English POWs. The ending was ambiguous, but the implication was that all the prisoners were liberated and lived happily ever after.

The fact is sadder. Instead of being freed, some 2,000 soldiers were put aboard Japanese ships, headed for Japan where the POWs would labor in factories. The two ships were torpedoed by Allied submarines in the South China Sea. This ordeal was the greatest sea disaster of World War II, say authors Joan and Clay Blair, Jrs., in "Return from the River Kwai" (Simon and Schuster, $12.95).

The story has been long known but the details vague. The survivors of that disaster — American ships were able to pick up almost half of the victims — were among the first to be returned to their countries and fell immediately into the hands of intelligence organizations, which hushed up details. Only recently has much of the material been declassified.

Blair traveled to England and Australia where he appeared on television, asking for survivors to contact him. In the United States, his wife located American submarine veterans who talked about the rescue operations.

"I found suvivors curiously laid back about the whole things," relates Blair. "You have to understand that the Japanese, with a philosophy based on Shintoism, could not comprehend surrender. So they treated POWs like animals. Survivors seem to now understand that atitude. They were eager to talk to me, because the story hadn't been told before and they wanted it told."

In all, the couple interviewed more than 200 survivors, each for four to six hours. After completing the book they compiled a directory of all the survivors and addresses and mailed a copy to each. Reunions have already begun taking place among long-lost friends.

Blair, who's written 11 books with his wife since 1968, has plans for an authorized biography of Gen. Omar Bradley, followed by several more histories on the World War II in Europe.

"I'm just a World War II freak, I guess," he says.

Muppeteer receives award

Jim Henson

Jim Henson, creator of the Muppets and a University of Maryland graduate, recently received his alma mater's Distinguished Alumnus Award.

Accompanied by Kermit the Frog and Sweetums, he was appointed grand marshall of the homecoming parade and half-time activities of the Maryland-North Carolina football game.

The award was the second honor bestowed on Henson by the school in as many years. In May 1978 he was awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Fine Arts.

Henson, who was graduated from the university in 1960, credits much of his original interest in puppeteering to the puppetry class in which he was enrolled as an undergraduate. His aptitude resulted in his being hired by a local television station in nearby Washington, D.C. That, in turn, eventually led to exposure for Henson and the Muppets on "Sesame Street" and "The Muppet Show."

This summer the Muppets' first feature-length film, "The Muppet Movie," was released. Appropriately, a screening of the movie was chosen as the valedictory event of the university's homecoming weekend.

Vatican Discloses Financial Deficit Up To $20 Million

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican lifted the veil of secrecy from its finances for the first time Friday, disclosing it expects to run $20 million in the red this year. It said something must be done or the Holy See soon will be "hard pressed" to exercise its mission fully.

The historic disclosure of the Vatican's finances came after an extraordinary meeting of 121 Roman Catholic cardinals summoned by Pope John Paul II to examine the state of the church.

A statement to the press painted a gloomy picture of the Vatican's finances, despite persistent reports of the church's immense wealth that the pope dismissed as damaging fables and myths in a morning address closing the of the five-day meeting.

"From the analysis carried out — of the total resources on the one hand and expenditure on the other — it became clear that in fact the income of the Holy See's patrimony in property and investments and of its other institutional sources of possible income are absolutely insufficient for covering the costs of the central government of the church and of the pope's universal mission of charity," the statement said.

The only figure cited in the statement was the deficit forecast for 1979, but even this was considered an extraordinary disclosure since until now all financial information has been kept secret. Also, no pope has ever spoken so openly on the Vatican's finances.

The statement described the Vatican's deficit as "ever increasing" and said it likely would rise in 1980.

It warned that if income does not keep pace with inflation-fueled expenses, "within a few years the Holy See will find itself hard-pressed to be able to provide adequately for the central government of the church and for the exercise of her mission of evangelization and charity."

Until now, it said, deficits have been covered by donations from the Catholic world, particularly through "Peter's Pence," money collected by parishes and dioceses around the world and sent to the pope.

The amount of these donations was not mentioned, but the statement said the cardinals were given an account of the last few years.

There was no indication of the size of the budget or type of investments, or any mention of the Vatican bank, officially known as the Institute for Religious Works.

The statement said the cardinals emphasized the need to hold down expenditures.

Tax Notice Valid Despite Address

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government notice that you owe more taxes doesn't beome invalid just because it was sent to your home instead of your jail cell, the U.S. Tax Court says.

The court came to that conclusion in rejecting the plea of Jacque Tirado, a New Yorker who was in jail awaiting trial when the Internal Revenue Service sent a notice of tax deficiency to his apartment.

Tirado claimed that the police and an IRS agent had discussed his arrest — on drug charges — and thus the tax agency knew where he was and should have sent their notice to him in jail.

He petitioned the court to dismiss the tax claim because it wasn't sent to his "last known address" as required by law.

The tax court disagreed, however, with Judge Theodore Tannenwald Jr. writing that the IRS "may learn that a taxpayer is temporarily sojourning at a place other than his permanent address, e.g. jail, without being required to treat the address of temporary sojourn as the last known address."

'Justice' Film Judged 'Superb' By Critic

NEW RELEASE

AVALANCHE EXPRESS (PG) — Lee Marvin, Robert Shaw, Linda Evans. (Spy thriller) A confusing mess, about (perhaps) a defecting Russian leader who is placed on a train (why?) and the attempts of the bad guys to stop the train. Some exciting moments, but mostly a lot of shooting and dreadful acting and lines that are silly. GRADE: C-minus

AND JUSTICE FOR ALL (R) — Al Pacino, Jack Warden, John Forsythe. (Drama with comedy) A hard, funny, frightening look at our judicial system, with perverted judges and innocent victims and laughs and tears — the only real flaw often and too quickly. But every one of the countless bit parts is acted superbly, along with the leads, of course. GRADE: A-minus

GENERAL RELEASE

APOCALYPSE NOW (R) — Martin Sheen, Marlon Brando, Robert Duvall. (Drama) This is Francis Coppola's long-awaited and very expensive epic — and worth the wait and the cost. It is a study of the madness of war, and Coppola has created a procession of insane images of Vietnam and that terrible war to make his point. It is long and flawed, but must be rated an American classic. GRADE: A-plus

BREAKING AWAY (PG) — Dennis Christopher, Dennis Quaid, Daniel Stern, Jackie Earle Haley. (Romantic comedy) This American film is the kind of thing the French do so well: warm, funny, a little romantic, tied up just right. It's set in Bloomington, Ind., a college tow, the summer the local boys finally realize they don't mind being "townies." Briefly, it's the "Rocky" of bicycle racing — but so much better. A fine job by these four young actors. GRADE: A

LUNA (R) — Jill Clayburgh, Matthew Barry. (Drama) This is the story of a sensuous widow, an opera star, who becomes physically involved with her adolescent son. The acting is excellent — Clayburgh shatters her "nice girl" mold — but the film moves fitfully and is too long. Ads discreetly warn that parts of the film may be too intense for some viewers. It's true, incest is uncomfortable viewing. GRADE: B-minus

METEOR (PG) — Sean Connery, Natalie Wood, Brian Keith. (Adventure) This is the latest disaster movie, and the problem now is a huge chunk of meteor, zooming towards us and there's no way to stop it. But wait! Maybe the Russian and American scientists, working together, can blast it out of the sky. Good special effects and some exciting moments — as well as some pretty dumb ones. GRADE: B

ROSE, THE (R) — Bette Midler, Alan Bates, Frederic Forrest. (Drama with music) This story of the tragic decline of a Janis Joplin-like singer is ugly and unpleasant, but tremendously effective and moving. Midler's performance is truly outstanding, and you'll find yourself aching with her, as booze, drugs and men destroy her. Caution: Gutter language. GRADE: A

RUNNER STUMBLES, THE (PG) — Dick Van Dyke, Kathleen Quinlan, Maureen Stapleton. (Drama) Producer-director Stanley Kramer always aims high, and does so again with this film version of a play about a priest, a nun, a romance (after a fashion) and a murder. The trouble is it sounds more exciting than it is, and the film is very slow going. The runner may stumble, but the film falls down. GRADE: B-minus

SEDUCTION OF JOE TYNAN, THE (R) — Alan Alda, Barbara Harris, Meryl Streep, Melvin Douglas, Rip Torn. (Drama) A liberal senator whose star is rising must weigh career and family commitments. Good-hearted but painfully predictable and trite outing. Ada, who wrote as well as played title role, should avoid the typewriter in the future. GRADE: C

10 (R) Julie Andrews, Dudley Moore, Bo Derek. (Romantic comedy) You've heard about guys who rate girls on a scale of one to 10? Well, this is about a girl who is a 10, and how that assessment mightily affects a songwriter, as well as the girl and her new bridegroom. Nothing weighty here, just good clean fun — and some of it isn't so clean. GRADE: B-plus

TIME AFTER TIME (PG) — Malcom McDowell, Mary Steenburgen, David Warner. (Fantasy) H.G. Wells pursues Jack the Ripper in present-day San Francisco, thanks to Wells' time machine. Silly and not particularly entertaining. Potentially fun idea but it never seems to get there. GRADE: C-minus

YANKS (R) — Richard Gere, Vanessa Redgrave, William Devane, Lisa Eichorn. (Drama) Story of American GIs stationed in a small English village in 1942 and of the local women they become involved with. Slow, richly textured and splendid to look at, but the romances ultimately sink into a state of fuzzy dispassion. So does the movie. Caution: Some strong subject matter, language. GRADE: B

Tribal Contact, Play's Opening Coincide

LONDON (UPI) — Sometimes coincidence, like truth, can be stranger than fiction, and London's theater has just had an odd instance of the stage echoing reality.

The other day British newspapers reported the first contact by white men with a Stone Age tribe in central New Guinea.

That same night came the premiere of a play set in New Guinea among tribesmen whose Stone Age logic gave birth to that eerie religion called the "Cargo Cult."

When the expedition finished exchanging gifts and chat with the nameless, totally primitive tribe, a helicopter whisked the white men away.

"We must have seemed like men from Mars to them," said the expedition leader.

That same attitude lies behind "Sergeant Ola and His Followers," an audacious play by David Lan at the Royal Court theater. It makes an unsettling evening for smugly sophisticated Westerners.

Sgt. Ola and his tribesmen are among the New Guinea people who witnessed a World War II miracle and tried to reason it out.

They saw white men bustling about but doing no real work, yet from nowhere came ships and planes, loaded with food and guns and kettles and cars. All this marvelous cargo, everything a man could desire, was simply given to the whites.

> 'We must have seemed like men from Mars to them.'

Lan's play sketches the result of tribesmen applying their logic to this miracle just after the war. They assumed that wondrous cargo had to have come from the white man's ancestors. Thus if the tribesmen could just find the white man's secret, his 4ancestors would send "cargo" to them.

Sgt. Ola, as Lan paints him and Norman Beaton skillfully plays him, has a veneer of sophistication. He has fought the Japanese and now works for the white administration. "Cargo," he tells his people, will not come.

Instead they will have "progress" and "reward" if they do everything the white man's way — "Build your huts in straight lines, make roads between them, build new pigstyes, dig latrines."

They do all this, but nothing happens. Not even when a girl sits at a drum miming typing while her husband dictates, hoping this strange ritual is the way whites call "cargo" down.

Sgt. Ola builds huge runways for celestial planes to descend with holy goodies. The whites promptly throw him in jail.

Playwright Lan interjects a scene showing what would happen if 'cargo" really did come — and it is the New Guinea of today, shining hotels on the beaches and tribesmen corrupted to scrounge the tourist buck.

When Australian overseers have to set Sgt. Ola free — he has won experimental local elections while in jail — they preach about "a thing called democracy."

But Ola clearly believes the local council is, at last, the real secret of how to get "cargo" from England's queen.

Director Max Stafford-Ckark conjures a whole primitive community out of simple sets and a small cast mixing black and white actors. Lan's play, though over-ambitious and with a muddled narrative, is about the collision of cultures and the unshakable nature of rooted beliefs.

It is honest, sympathetic and disquieting. It conveys above all the hopeless pathos of a people — New Guinea's or our own — who waste their lives waiting for their ship to come in or for "cargo" to turn up.

Artists Jump At Chance To Perform In China

PEKING (AP) — It was a historic pair of firsts for the Berlin Symphony and its eminent conductor, Herbert von Karajan — the first tour of China and the first joint performance with Chinese musicians.

Wearing a tailored black Mao jacket and matching black trousers, the maestro acknowledged the rolling applause with a graceful bow as the last, vibrant notes of Beetoven's 7th Symphony died out in the vast hall one recent night.

Three years after the beginning of a new era of freedom in the arts, China continues to be a magnet which draws the world's greatest performers — chiefly from the Western world — to its doors.

Cultural exchanges between China and the Soviet bloc have dwindled in the years following the break in Sino-Soviet relations.

Since the first of January, China has welcomed a varied assortment of performers — the Boston Synphony under the baton of its Japanese conductor, Seiji Ozawa; the London Festival Ballet, the violinist Isaac Stern; Japan' NHK Symphony and an opera troupe; members of the Danish Ballet; folk dancers, and art exhibitions from a dozen countries.

The night the Berlin gave its rousing farewell, the Old Vic Company of London staged a much applauded performance of Hamlet in Shanghai. The audience was well prepared for what it saw: Laurence Olivier's film of the Shakespeare masterpiece has been a national hit since the beginning of the year.

The night before, in Peking, the Greek classical theater wound up its own much acclaimed tour of China.

What was extraordinary was that where other countries pay big fees for such talent, the Chinese got it for next to nothing. For dozens of companies in as many countries, the lure of a China visit is seemingly overpowering. They know that to get here they will have to put up with long and often frustrating negotiations, unanswered letters, grim hotel accommodations, chaotic travel arrangements, barn-like halls and the prospect of a couple of weeks of hard work.

Once here, there are grumbles when things go wrong. But at the end, after a dinner of Peking duck washed down with fiery Chinese alcoholic drink maotai, tearful farewells and expressions of Chinese affection, they leave with a vow to come back.

What wins them over is the Chinesethemselves. Or, more precisely, the men and women representing the Culture Ministry which sponsors the visits.

Quick-witted, good humored and fluent in the language of the visitor, they take over from airport arrival to airport departure. They live in the same hotels — but don't share the same meals — Take the same planes and trains and quickly become familiar with individual members of the invading force.

The Chinese pick up the tab for food, lodging and transportation as well as supplying the theater.

With tickets selling at a top of 65 cents, profits are out of the question.

Visiting troupes don't just come to play. They are imbued with a missionary spirit which pours out in "master classes" during which they pass on their skills to Chinese students. On the final night, as with the Berlin, they sit side by side with the Chinese performers to give a loud, if not always technically perfect, joint farewell.

Soviets Send Actresses To America For Tour

NEW YORK (UPI) — Undetered by the recent defections of ballet dancers and champion ice skaters, the Soviet Union has sent a pair of its top actresses on an American tour with a film festival celebrating 60 years of Soviet filmmaking.

Ludmilla Gurchenko, looking a bit like Cyd Charisse in "Silk Stockings," is the 44-year-old singing-dancing star of Soviet musicals dating back to a 1956 color spectacle called "Carnival."

Natalia Gundareva, 31, is a star of Moscow's Mayakovsky Theater who does movies on the side.

Having launched the festival in New York, they will accompany it to Los Angeles and Chicago with what their American publicity agent calls a "fun" stop in San Francisco along the way.

The festival consists of six new Soviet films plus a reconstruction of the late Sergei Eisenstein's unfinished 1932 epic, "Que Viva Mexico."

The two actresses, on their first visit to the United States, expressed tolerance for artistic compatriots who recently sought asylum in this country.

"Maybe they were seeking better opportunities," said Miss Gundareva. "If they feel better here, that's up to them."

Miss Gurchenko, who also spoke through an interpreter, said, "It's very difficult to live when you're not master of your life. At home I am the master of mine. And I can't live without my family. I must breathe with Russian air.

"I feel pity for those who left. When I hear 'bravo' from an audience outside Russia it is wonderful, but it is not the same thing as hearing it at home. I can cry on the stage and Russian people will know exactly why."

Miss Gurchenko recently wrote a book about her father, who began life as a serf under the czar. Later he worked as a miner, learned to play the accordion and slipped off to Moscow to become a musician and marry a woman 20 years his junior — although he already had a wife. The woman, then 17, became Miss Gurchenko's mother.

"My poor semi-educated father — women adored him," sighed Miss Gurchenko fondly. She herself is married to a jazz pianist and has a daughter.

Miss Gundereva's husband also is an actor with the Mayakovsky Theater. Only last week she was in Paris for scenes of a new Soviet film.

Both actreses have been promised a tour of Hollywood movie studios.

Hallmark Classic Close Enough To War For Ernest Borgnine

LOS ANGELES (AP) — To Ernest Borgnine, making "All Quiet on the Western Front" was as close as he ever wants to come again to war.

"It was so realistic it got to us," said Borgnine, who stars in the three-hour CBS film with Richard Thomas.

"The smoke and rain and mud up to your ears. As you looked out of the trench and were ready to make a charge, waiting for the whistle, I said to myself many times, 'What the hell drives people to jump and run toward another trench and knowing they're actually shooting at you? This is crazy.'"

BORGNINE, "ALL QUIET" — Actor Ernest Borgnine, shown on the set in his co-starring role as Private Katczinsky in Hallmark Hall of Fame's presentation of the classic "All Quiet on the Western Front," says that the making of thethree-hour CBS television film is as close as he ever wants to come again to war. "What the hell drives people to run toward another trench, knowing they're actually shooting at you?" The cast, starring Richard Thomas, experienced such realistic war scenes during filming. "...It got to us," says Borgnine. (AP Laserphoto)

The actors endured smoke and exploding shells and shared the muddy trenches with rats.

"Believe me, it wasn't funny," the actor said. "We kind of laughed it up and kept our morale up. But there was that tightness every time you got down in there and realized you'd have to come out charging. You ask yourself, 'How did they do it?'"

"All Quiet on the Western Front," adapted by Paul Monash from the book by Erich Maria Remarque, and directed by Delbert Mann, is a brilliant film. It is a case in which a remake, of a 1931 classic, succeeds. The "Hallmark Hall of Fame" Rosemont production airs Wednesday night, 7-10 p.m., on CBS.

It follows a company of German soldiers in World War I as, one by one, they are killed or wounded. The story deals with the futility of war, death and destruction.

Borgnine is Katczinsky, an aging private who is like a weary old bull. "It's not a bad little war ... if you could get enough sleep," he says.

Thomas is Paul Baumer, an artistic student sent off to war with stirring words of patriotism ringing in his ears. He sees so much carnage that his mind becomes numbed. He spends a horrible night pinned in a crater listening to the moans of a French soldier he has wounded, until he can stand it no longer and tries to comfort the dying man.

"All Quiet on the Western Front" was filmed entirely in Czechoslovakia, where the city of Most was shelled and set afire for the production. The city had been abandoned and was due for destruction anyway, to enable miners to reach the seams of coal beneath it.

Borgnine, interviewed shortly after his return from Czechoslovakia, said, "I really feel it tells one hell of a message and I'm proud of the fact that I was able to work on it.

"Ever since I saw the original, boy, I never had any idea I would ever work in films. But after I got into films and they asked me what would I like to do, I think two things I wanted to do was play the Louis Wolheim role in 'All Quiet on the Western Front' and really do the life of Pancho Villa."

He said as soon as he heard about "All Quiet," he got his agent and all of his friends on it. "Sure enough, my name was brought up and they said, who else, and I was in the role. I didn't care that it wasn't the major role. I just wanted to play that character."

Ian Holm plays Himmelstoss, a strutting training corporal who finally has to go into battle. Donald Pleasence is Kantorek, Paul's teacher, who views war almost as a spiritual experience. Patricia Neal plays Paul's mother.

In December, Borgnine will be seen in Walt Disny Productons' "The Black Hole," its most expensive picture to date and its first space movie.

"What they've actually done, between you and me, is they've taken the Nautilus from '20,000 Leagues Beneath the Sea' and put it in space," Borgnine said. "But with a fascinating twist. It has a Capt. Nemo, played by Maximilian Schell. I play a writer who's gone along for the fun of it and sends back reports."

Borgnine also will appear in Irwin Allen's new disaster epic, "The Day the World Ended," which also stars Paul Newman and Jacquelin Bisset.

He's now in Florida working with Terence Hill on a comedy tentatively called "Super Snooper." Before leaving, he said, "I think it's going to be a spoof on 'Superman.'

Play, Musical Deal With Same Subject Matter

NEW YORK (AP) — Hmm. One show has a schoolteacher collaboratng on plays with a top writer. The other, a musical, has a lady lyricist teaming in love and work with a successful pop composer.

Neil Simon wrote the latter, "They're Playing Our Song." Bernard Slade did the former, "Romantic Comedy," which bowed Thursday on Broadway. Love and collaboration, same ideas by different writers.

But Slade says the shows differ, his play being, among other things, "a whole valentine to all those comedies Philip Barry, John Van Druten and even Jean Kerr used to write, the kind of romantic comedies that really died out, I suppose, when The Pill came in.

"Because the whole idea back then was, you take three acts to get two people in bed together."

Slade, 49, a trim, fit-looking man who favors corduroy coats, Levis and dark brown desert boots, says he's toyed with the idea of doing a play about artistic collaborators for the past 20 years.

His work on "Romantic Comedy" began a few years ago after he sent actor Jack Lemmon a copy of "Tribute" — Slade's second Broadway play after his long-running hit, "Same Time Next Year."

He says he knew he'd have to wait a year before Lemmon could do "Tribute" (which opened in 1978 and ran six months), and "I got nervous. I said, 'If you don't like that, wait a minute.'

"And I wrote the first draft of 'Romantic Comedy.'"

He first learned of Simon's musical about two tune collaborators one day "when I opened a paper and saw an ad for 'They're Playing Our Song,' a capsule description. I went into absolute total panic.

"I phoned him — we knew each other slightly — and I said, 'Look, I've got a problem, tell me what your show is about.' We came to the conclusion the shows weren't really the same."

Slade, born in Canada, raised in England and now living in Los Angeles, started his career as an actor. He did that 10 years, then took up playwriting and TV writing.

He went to Hollywood in 1964, under contract to Columbia, and wrote eight comedy pilots for TV — "The Flying Nun" and "Love on a Rooftop" among them — as well as episodes for other shows.

"It was fun, lots of money, but it wasn't why I started to write," he says. Borrowing a line from his new comedy, he vowed then and there never to return to TV work "unless my kids get rickets."

The kids are Chris, 20, a college student, and Laurel, 23, a budding writer at the Mary Tyler Moore TV works in Studio City, Calif.

Slade, interviewed three days befor the opening of his play, which stars Anthony Perkins and Mia Farrow, says he never attends opening nights of his plays. The strain is too much.

And he never reads bad reviews, if any, until six months later.

He grinned. "Generally, by the time I do read them, I've imagined such a vicious review in my mind that actually the bad review doesn't look too bad.

"And look, nobody asked me to do this for a living. I do it because I enjoy it. That" — he referred to any and all boos from the critics' asylum — "goes with the territory."

71-Year-Old Hobbyist Adding Pencils To 1,800 In Collection

By TOM VARTABEDIAN

HAVERHILL, Mass. (NEA) — You'll never catch Donald J. St. Onge without a pencil.

He has 1,800 of them. And the 71-year-old hobbyist is still collecting.

St. Onge started his collection more than 30 years ago while bedridden in a hospital. He was looking for a pencil to do a crossword puzzle, and nobody had one.

"Right then and there I told myself I'd never be without a pencil again," he recalls.

St. Onge's pencils come in all shapes and sizes — long ones and short ones, round and square. All are mounted neatly on boards and hung systematically at his home.

He has one pencil from Chloride Emergency Lighting with a tiny light bulb at the end instead of the usual eraser. A bottle opener is attached to the end of another.

One, called the "headache pencil," contains aspirins.

From the Hawaiian Isle Restaurant comes a pencil bearing a Chinese inscription. And there's a Boston Red Sox pencil shaped like a baseball bat.

A pencil from the Kiwanis Club waxes philosophic. It bears the organization's pledge: "I pledge my head to clearer thinking. My heart to greater loyalty. My hands to larger service. And my health to better living."

Among the recent additions to the collection are pencils to which are attached a miniature golf club and a miniature egg.

About the only type of pencil not represented in St. Onge's collection is one with erasers on both ends.

"But you'll never know what tomorrow will bring," he smiles.

St. Onge purchased only one of his 1,8000 pencils. The rest were sent to him through the mail or picked up at restaurants and other businesses. His daughter recently sent him a pencil all the way from Anchorage, Alaska.

"Whenever I go anywhere, I always ask for a pencil," he says. "People are always obliging."

St. Onge declines to place a value on his collection. He simply calls it "priceless." Some of his pencils have sentimental value because they carry the names of local business that went defunct decades ago.

Historians may find his special set of more than 100 Civil War pencils unique. They feature painted scenes of significant events such as Appomattox, the Battle of Fort Sumter and the Battle of Gettysburg.

"I can't recall where I obtained them," says St. Onge. "And I don't know what value they have, if any. But they're unusual, and that's what makes a hobby interesting."

Is his the world's largest pencil collection?

St. Onge says he heard on the radio of a Texas woman who has 73,000 pencils. But he is quick to add: "Mine are all new and unsharpened. I wonder how many of her pencils are like that."

He recalls the days when pencils sold for 2 cents each.

"Twenty years from now, you're apt to be paying a quarter apiece," he predicts.

If all those pencils don't suffice, St. Onge also collects ballpoints pens. He has 5,000 of them and few are dry.

He doesn't display the pens, though. They are kept in cigar boxes.

St. Onge is constantly in demand to display his pencils at craft fairs and hobby shows.

"Some people think I'm crazy," he says, "but they're entitled to their beliefs. It has kept me out of mischief.

"I've tried to give them away to museums and libraries, and nobody seems interested. So, I'll just hang onto them and maybe my grandchildren will benefit by them.

"Beside, I could always sell them on some street corner."

Producer Vows To Film Entire Bible

nied by an encyclopedia, dictionary and atlas for a complete audio-visual package.

The market: 45 percent churches, 25 percent schools, 20 percent military intallations, and 10 percent private buers. Heymn said he envisions the time when people can watch the Bible unfold on their television screens by inserting video-cassettes into home players.

The producer collected 250 scholars in every discipline and admitted there was a lot of "tip-toeing through the detminational tulips." The bottom line was the Bible itself, and the dialogue was prepared in the original language: Hebrew, Aramaic and Greek. Translations are provided in various languages.

Appropriately enough, filming began with Genesis, then moved to Luke, followed by Acts of the Apostles and Exodus. So far, 33 films have been shot, all in the Holy Land, whenever possible in the areas where the events took place.

Other biblical films have been made in Egypt ("The Ten Commandments"), Tunisia ("Jesus of Nazareth"), Utah ("The Greatest Story Ever Told") and elsewhere, Heyman pointed out; only "Jesus Christ Superstar" was shot in Israel.

"When we came to film Luke," the producer added, "it seemed silly not to shoot an English language version, too." Again he recruited his cast among Israeli actors but after 23 tests he hadn't located Jesus.

"I wanted a Jesus that would not float through the picture," said Heyman. "I wanted him to be accessible, to have muscle, as would someone who had worked 18 years in a carpenter's shop. I Wanted no namby-pamby, no one with a halo on his head In fact, they didn't walk around with halos then; that was added by Renaissance painters."

The choice for Jesus: British actor Brian Deacon.

Heyman predicted "Jesus" would prove successful despite "Brian" and even though the Christ story has been filmed many times before. "Other film makers have felt the story needed xbolstering up with subplots," he reasoned. "We felt it was good enough exactly as it was written."

After lauching "Jesus' in the United States, Heyman returns to England and The New Media Bible. He plans a total of 300 films comprising 80 hours with double that amount in lectures and a 60,000-entry visual dictionary of 90 hours. Target date: 1992.

Book About GM Describes Company As 'Stifling'

DETROIT (AP) — A book reportedly co-written by a former General Motors Corp. executive describes GM as a "stifling" bureaucracy and outlines corporate tactics for boosting profits and prying political contributions from its executives, its author says.

Free-lancer J. Patrick Wright said former GM vice president John Z. DeLorean helped him write "On A Clear Day You Can See General Motors." But DeLorean pulled out of the project, insisting the book not be published for fear of reprisals from GM, Wright said.

Wright said he spent $50,000 to have about 20,000 copies printed.

The book is based on interviews with DeLorean in 1975, GM memos and rough drafts of some chapters DeLorean wrote himself, Wright said.

DeLorean, 54, left GM in April 1973 and now runs his own auto company, DeLorean Motor Co., based in Northern Ireland. His company plans to manufacture a limited number of expensive sports cars.

A DeLorean company spokesman in New York said that DeLorean had been informed of the publication of the book.

"He didn't know what had happened," she said. "We cannot comment on it at all until we have seen the book."

The book says GM told DeLorean and other executives to hand over money for campaign contributions and GM executives never knew whose campaign their contributions helped finance.

It says GM's Corvair was produced despite doubts about its safety because of desire for increased profits.

The book also says GM divisional sales representatives pressured dealers to buy components from the GM Parts Division.

Weather Halts Efforts To Stop Tanker Fire, Spilling Oil

GALVESTON (AP) — Things went from bad to worse Friday in the battle to put out a raging fire aboard the tanker, Burmah Agate, and control oil spilling from the ship as deteriorating weather forced a halt to both efforts.

"We've got big trouble," said Coast Guard spokesman Ray Baker.

Despite Coast Guard efforts to guard the entrance to Galveston Bay, a slick of heavy oil sheen five miles long and a quarter-mile wide slipped inside the environmentally sensitive area, Baker said.

It was reported running north to south just below Smith Point, which is on the extreme east side of the bay about 20 miles from where the tanker and the freighter, Mimosa, collided 10 days ago.

"A Navy skimmer was dispatched to attempt to pick up the oil before it hits land," Baker said. "But the present weather conditions make it very difficult."

He said winds blowing out of the southwest were gusting to about 20 miles per hour, and seas were six to eight feet.

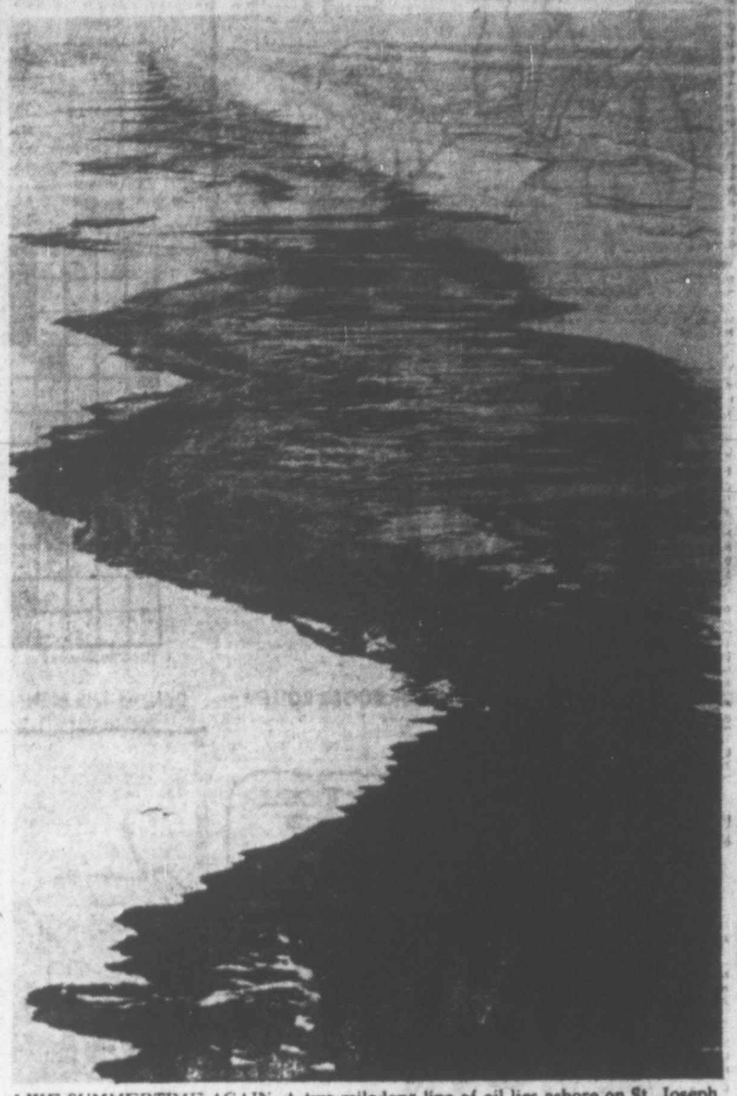

"Firefighting efforts were suspended this afternoon as sea conditions continued to worsen, and we don't know when they will be able to resume," Baker said.

He said another slick of heavy oil 6½ miles long and 15-20 feet wide had moved ashore just south of Cedar Bayou, about 150 miles down the coast, and a giant patch 6½ miles long and 8½ miles wide floated just off San Jose Island.

Baker said officials of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, which is monitoring the oil spill, said it this large slick probably was the mass of oil released by the tanker just after the collision.

"Contractors have attempted to reach the area, but they say it is very isolated and very difficult to reach," Baker said. "They are trying to formulate a plan on how to get equipment in there and how to get the oil that is cleaned up out to disposal sites."

More oil was reporting floating up on Galveston's east and west beaches, where crews have labored since Monday to clean up the gooey mess with shovels and rakes.

LIKE SUMMERTIME AGAIN -A two-mile-long line of oil lies ashore on St. Joseph Island in a secluded area just north of Port Aransas. The black goo apparently came south as part of the spill which escaped the burning tanker Burmah Agate. Other slicks remain offshore in the area.(AP Laserphoto)

Baker said oil now pouring out of the tanker, which carried 390,000 barrels, is moving to the northwest, directly out to sea. Officials have estimated that approximately 20,000 barrels have flowed into the water.

The Coast Guard spokesman said a shrimper picked up part of a body Friday afternoon. Fifteen bodies already had been recovered and another 17 remained missing and presumed dead.

CAB Reports More Fly, Less Bumped

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bumping of airline passengers declined in August, even though there were more people flying than in the same month a year before, the Civil Aeronautics Board reports.

Bumping occurs when an airline denies a seat to a passenger even though the passenger may hold a reservation. Usually this is caused by overbooking of flights, a practice the airlines say is necessary to compensate for passengers who make reservations and then don't show up for their flights.

When more people show up than there are seats available, the airlines first have to ask for volunteers to relinquish their seats for negotiated compensation. If there aren't enough volunteers, the airline can bump people, although compensation must be paid.

The CAB reports that 13,453 people were bumped from domestic airlines in August, down from 19,436 a year earlier.

On domestic flights, Altair had the highest bumping rate at 31.75 per 10,000 passengers. Following it among airlines with rates above 10 were Aloha, 15.35; Air Florida, 12.05; Air Midwest, 11.81; Republic, 11.34; and Air New England, 10.89.

Reporting no bumping during the month on domestic flights were Wright, Trans International, Skywest, Reeve, New Haven, Cochise and Air Wisconsin.

Turning to international operations, the highest bumping rate was posted by Capitol Airways at 50.38 per 10,000 passengers. Others with rates more than 10 were Trans International, 26.11; Braniff, 22.05; United, 18.89; Western, 18.47; and Texas International, 13.87.

Reporting no bumping during the month on international flights were National and Continental.

Board Releases Service Findings

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board Friday released its findings on the minimum air passenger service the government will guarantee through 1988 for four communities in Utah and Nevada.

The action was part of a continuing effort to determine what constitutes ssential ir service fo small an medium-size communities.

The requirements listed Friday include: Cedar City, Utah, two daily roundtrips and two weekend roundtrips to both Salt Lake City and Las Vegas, Nev; Vernal, Utah, two roundtrips daily and two each weekend to Salt Lake City and to either Denver or Grand Junction, Colo; Elko, Nev., one roundtrip daily with large jet aircraft to both Reno and Salt Lake City, or two roundtrips daily using smaller aircraft; and Ely, Nev., one roundtrip daily with large jet aircraft to both Reno and Salt Lake City, or two daily roundtrips using smaller aircraft.

Report Shows Cost Of Transit Access

WASHINGTON (AP) — A report issued Friday by the Congressional Budget Office says federal rules requiring that handicapped persons have access to mass transit could cost the government $38 per ride for wheelchair users.

The report also said two other options that would use specially equipped vans to pick up wheelchair users at their homes would cost the government less and serve more people.

New Transportation Department rules require transit systems to equip buses with lifts for wheelchairs, to modify rail cars for wheelchair users and to install elevators in many rail stations. The budget office analysis said the department's program would cost $6.8 billion over the next 30 years, yet would benefit relatively few handicapped persons.

Khomeini Branded 'Bloody Old Man'

LONDON (AP) — Former Premier Shahpour Bakhtiar of Iran was quoted Friday as saying Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini is a "bloody old man" and more than 7,000 persons have been slain since the militant Moslem leader gained power in February.

He also predicted that "the people who placed him (Khomeini) in power will soon overturn him. This is the fate of dictators."

His comments were reported in an interview with the British news weekly Now. It said the interview was conducted in Paris, where Bakhtiar is now living, and the ex-premier fears he is on Khomeini's death list. "If I fall into his hands, I believe my death sentence would be sealed," he was quoted as saying.

Iranian extremists seized the British Embassy in Tehran Monday, the day after their comrades invaded the U.S. Embassy, and demanded Bakhtiar be extradited to stand trial. They vacated the British Embassy after finding out Bakhtiar was in Paris — the same city where the exiled Khomeini organized the revolt that ousted Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi in January.

Bakhtiar was quoted as saying, "These people are power hungry and want to see blood. The figure given of hundreds of people assassinated is wrong. Since the arrival of the bloody old man there have been more than 7,000 murders. Once the true statistics are revealed, we can understand the scope of the disaster. I hope it won't be too late then."

Inflation Adviser Pushes Gas Tax

WASHINGTON (AP) — Slapping a 25-or 50-cent per gallon tax on gasoline might force U.S. conservation and fight the effects of huge foreign crude oil price increases, President Carter's inflation adviser said Friday.

"I'm insisting we look at it" within the administration, Alfred Kahn told a House Interstate and Foreign Commerce subcommittee. But he added that he is not yet recommending such a proposal.

It would be very useful if the United States "could tell Iran to keep its oil," he said. "We're never going to do it unless we do something dramatic like that."

The "notion of a high gasoline tax" as a conservation measure was mentioned by Carter as long ago as April 1977, Kahn said. He himself has mentioned the possibility a number of times in the past year.

Earlier in Friday's hearing on oil prices, Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., told Kahn that oil companies have used the tight heating-oil market over the past nine months to gouge consumers. And another congressman added, "The energy industry is mocking your inflation program."

Kahn replied that his Council on Wage and Price Stability is checking new oil profit-margin figures but that soaring gasoline and heating-oil prices are largely due to foreign actions. He said America should fight back through conservation.

He said a return to full federal price controls on oil, now being phased out by the administration, would be the wrong approach in an increasingly energy-poor world, comparing such an effort to "pushing water uphill."

Rep. Albert Gore Jr., D-Tenn., made the comment about mocking and also suggested Kahn's agency was powerless, its leader merely "in charge of blushing" for an administration unwilling or unable to fight inflated energy prices.

Dingell said the council's voluntary price guidelines "appear to be totally ineffective in restraining price increases in the oil industry." He cited recent big increases in oil company profits and said "there appears to be price gouging."

Dingell furnished no specifics, and Kahn said it would be several weeks before his agency completes analysis of new cost and price information it required from 27 oil companies late last month.

Of the first checks given the first 10, he said, "we found three that raised questions in our minds, that seemed out of compliance" with the guidelines. But those checks were not conclusive, he said, and talks with the companies continue.

He did not name them.

The federal price guidelines — which Kahn emphasized are voluntary — call for simple limits on increases. But they are based on complex comparisons among companies' costs, prices and profits. And the companies supply the figures.

Dingell said the big companies "have no trouble finessing" such guidelines, sometimes by disguising figures in other parts of corporations that own hotels, stores and other investments besides oil firms.

Clements Warns Mortgage Rates May Hit 20 Percent

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements Friday said "experts" have told him mortgage interest rates could reach 20 percent nationwide by the end of the year.

He indicated he believed this would dry up the supply of home finance money in Texas, where rates legally can rise no higher than 12 percent.

Clements said answers to the rising rates have to come from Washington — not Austin.

"I don't know of anything we in Texas can do to alleviate this situation," Clements said when asked if he would submit the matter to a special legislative session next year.

"It's a situation I don't think anyone has an answer for. Everyone is amazed and surprised and disappointed that interest rates have climbed to where they are today," he said.

Texas legislators recently raised the interest ceilng from 10 percent to a floating cap that cannot exceed 12 percent.

The governor said "experts" in state government and private business have told him of the possibility of 20 percent rates by January.

"If that is true ... it is horrible. It's not good for our state and not good for our nation," he said.

Clements called it a "national issue" and said the rising rates are a "direct product of fiscal policies of the present administration."

Clements also announced the start of "Texas 2000" — a long-term study of the state's future.

"One of the things I've noticed since taking office is that lack of any future, long-range data base that would permit us to address critical issues at an early time and thus help us control our own destiny," he said.

The study will include looks at population, shifts in demographics, future numbers of undocumented workers, changes in education and a variety of other topics, Clements said.

Texas 2000 will also look at where the tax dollars will come from in the future. Clements said the "declining energy level" in the state will force changes in the tax base.

Dr. Victor Arnold of the LBJ School of Public Affairs at the University of Texas will be in charge of the project. Clements said Arnold conducted a similar study in Minnesota.

Former Reese Commander Named To Post

Maj. Gen. Walter H. "Buzz" Baxter III, former commander of Reese Air Force Base, has been named the senior American officer in the allied military command which defends NATO's northern flank.

The native Texan is Deputy for Air, Allied Forces North, stationed in Oslo, Norway.

While at Reese, from Sept. 7, 1971, to Aug. 15, 1974, Col. and Mrs. Baxter were awarded the "Good Neighbor" citation by the Project Good Neighbors' Organization of Lubbock.

His foreign service previously has been with the 20th Fighter Bomber Wing in England flying F-84Fs and F-100s, with the 36th Tactical Fighter Wing in Germany, with the 8th Tactical Fighter Wing at Ubon Royal Thai Air Force Base in Thailand flying F-4s, with the 17th Air Division as commander in Thailand, with the 13th Air Force in Thailand as vice commander, and with the 313th Air Division and 18th Tactical Fighter Wing as commander at Okinawa.

He went to Norway from Malmstrom AFB, Mont., where he was commander of the North American Air Defense Command's 24th Region, responsible for continental air defense of a million square miles including parts of nine states and three Canadian provinces.

While at Malmstrom, the 24th NORAD Region won the Gen. Frederick H. Smith Trophy, symbolic of the best air defense control center in the nation.

From Reese, Baxter went to Keesler AFB, Miss., as vice commander of the U.S. Air Force's Technical Training Center.

The Baxters, well-known to the South Plains community, have two sons and two daughters — Scott, a senior at Texas Tech and Rosemary, a freshman; Bud, a recent graduate of Vanderbilt University, and Maurie, now completing graduate studies at an Oklahoma university.

New Leading Man To Direct Raiders

By NORVAL POLLARD
Executive Sports Editor

Texas Tech's offensive troupe will have a new leading man among its cast of 11 today when the Red Raiders host Texas Christian University in the 1979 Tech homecoming contest, the final home appearance for the Red and Black this football season.

A Jones Stadium crowd of more than 40,000 is expected to be on hand for the Southwest Conference encounter with the Horned Frogs to watch freshman quarterback Jim Hart direct the Red Raiders' offense.

Hart will replace sophomore signal-caller Ron Reeves, who was lost for the remainder of the season midway through last weekend's game with Texas because of a separated right shoulder. It will mark the first time in 18 straight games that Reeves hasn't started at quarterback for Tech.

The weatherman is calling for fair skies and cool conditions for today's 2 p.m. kickoff. Temperatures are expected in the upper 50s and winds will be from the southeast at 10 to 15 mph.

The Red Raiders, currently 3-4-1 overall and 2-3 in conference action, will be looking today to even their series record with TCU at 18-18. The Horned Frogs, 1-4 in the SWC and 2-6 in 1979, presently hold an 18-17 edge over the Raiders, but Tech has won the last six meetings between the two schools.

The Horned Frogs have been somewhat of a surprise this season. TCU owns victories over Rice and Tulsa and has played well in defeat. The Frogs have lost close games to Arkansas, Baylor and Houston — three of the conference's top four teams.

TCU head coach F.A. Dry credits maturity as being the number one factor in his squad's attempt at football respectability.

"More than anything else we've started to mature," Dry admitted. "And we've had quite a change in attitude.

(Tech, TCU Lineups

Our players are playing hard and playing to win."

Tech mentor Rex Dockery has a great deal of respect for Dry and the TCU football program and expects a very physical football contest.

"I am very impressed with TCU," Dockery said. "TCU has really improved the last month. They are a much better team than they were last season and we had a tough time last year in Fort Worth. I think Coach Dry has done an excellent job.

"The strong point of their team right now has to be the defense. The defense did not give up a touchdown to either Baylor or Arkansas and held Houston down pretty well last week. They are a physical football team. They come at you," Dockery said.

"I feel like we had a good week of practice. Thursday was exceptionally good. We knew what we were doing out here and accomplished what we needed to get done. I think we're ready to play. We'll just have to wait for Saturday to be sure," he said.

Hart will be making his first start as a Red Raider, but he will be among a group of battle-tested veterans. That group includes senior fullback James Hadnot, the SWC's first 1000-yard rusher in 1979.

Hadnot cracked the 1,000-yard barrier for the second consecutive season last Saturday with his 111 yards rushing against Texas. Hadnot, who is an almost-certain first-round draft choice in the professional football draft in May, now has 1,039 yards in eight games this season and needs only 172 more to become Texas Tech's most productive rusher.

The Red Raider offensive line features senior guards Joe Walstad and Larry Martin, two of the finest blockers in the conference, and senior tackle Ken Walter.

Hart will not be the only newcomer in Tech's starting offensive lineup. Junior tight end L.M. Cummings replaces sophomore Kevin Kolbye, who was felled by knee injury against Texas.

The TCU offensive attack features two capable quarterbacks — sophomores Kevin Haney and Steve Stamp.

Haney has rushed for nearly 400 yards this season and has been a pleasant surprise for the TCU coaching staff. When Haney is not directing the Frog attack, Stamp assumes command. Stamp is the better passer of the two.

Defense is the strong point for both Tech and TCU. The Red Raiders are solid in every area of the defensive alignment.

Tech's line is anchored by senior tackles Jim Verden and David Hill. The linebacking corps is sparked by seniors Jeff Copeland and Johnny Quinney and junior Jeff McKinney. The secondary is led by safety Ted Watts and cornerback Willie Stephens.

TCU's not-often-used eight-man defensive front has given most opponents trouble this season. Dockery expressed concern earlier in the week about the defensive scheme.

"It's not like anything we've seen this season," Dockery said. "It's a completely different scheme and it can cause problems with blocking assignment."

The Frogs are paced defensively by senior free safety Chris Judge, defensive ends Kevin Moody and Mike Dry and tackle Wesley Roberts.

Westerners' Comeback Falls Short; 'Dogs Win

By JIM FERGUSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Army's Army hit the beach for the final time Friday night.

And for the sixth time, the small band of commandoes was pushed back into the choppy sea.

VP (Victory over Plainview) Day will have to wait another year.

As was the case for most of the season, Lubbock High fell just a few feet short of victory. This time it was Plainview that broke LHS' heart with a narrow 14-12 win.

The loss ends Lubbock's season with a 3-7 won-loss mark. Now, Westerner coach Army Salinas will head back to the drawing board and start mapping out next year's battle plans.

"I don't want to sound like I am making any alibies," said Salinas. "But I think the one thing that gave us problems was that we haven't been together long enough to react with impulse. We still had to think about things instead of just reacting."

After falling behind 14-6 — thanks to a pair of one-yard TD runs by Ervin Davis in the first half — the Army staged its final assault on victory.

Starting from its own 35, the Westerners used 11 plays before quarterback Gilbert Cuevas scored from 1 yard out to cut PHS' lead to two points, 14-12.

On the try for two, which would have tied the game, Cuevas wanted to throw to end Larry Walker in the back corner of the end zone. But Walker was covered, so Cuevas tried to score on the keeper around right end. However, Plainview's Gilbert Vera and Benito Hevra teammed up to knock Cuevas out of bounds at the 2.

Cuevas got a Purple Heart for the try, but not the two points.

Plainview then ran the final 54 seconds off the clock and thus copped its fifth win of the year against four set-

Matadors Crush Levelland 34-6

By CHUCK McDONALD
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

LEVELLAND — It was just a tad chilly in the stands here Friday night — but nobody was cooler than the Estacado Matadors. The Mats weren't just cold they were down right cool.

It wasn't just the temperature that was cold, the Mats stayed cool even when the heat was on and were able to leave town with a 34-6 victory over Levelland Lobos.

Levelland played the Mats awfully tough in the early going, but the visitors cooly converted on a couple of crucial fourth downs to bust the game wide open. Facing a fourth-and-six at the LHS 20, quarterback Jerry Gray went back to pass and found tight end James Rose open at the goal line.

Bam, from a fourth-and-six, suddenly it was 6-0.

Then, on its next possesion, the Matadors found themselves facing a fourth-and-nine at the LHS 27. Again Gray went back to pass, and throwing on the run, fired another shot at a well-covered Rose.

Broncos Defeat New Home

NEW HOME (Special) — Howard Wren garnered three touchdowns, two on passes and another on an interception return, to lead the Meadow Broncos to a 34-13 win over the Leopards in District 3-B West action here Friday.

Wren grabbed his first TD pass in the second quarter when Lance Bingham hit him from 12 yards out. The pair then connected on the two-point conversion, and got together on a 20-yard TD aerial in the fourth period.

Kangaroos Win Playoff Berth

KRESS (Special) — Kress won the right to represent District 3-A in the playoffs here Friday night with a 17-0 homecoming win over Farwell's Steers, with halfback Eddy "Magic" Johnson rambling for 148 yards on 28 carries and a pair of TDs.

Kress now stands 7-2 for the year, 4-0 in district play, while Farwell stands 3-5-1 and 3-1.

Johnson's TD runs were from 1-yard out in the second quarter and from 8-yards out in the third. Henry Amador booted a 37-yard first-quarter field goal and a pair of PATs to round out the winners' scoring.

Johnson Dominates Bulldog Victory

AMHERST (Special) — Amherst tailback Ronald Johnson scored five touchdowns, rushed for 369 yards and kicked four extra points as he led his Bulldog team to a 46-6 thumping of the Whiteface Antelopes in District 2-B South action.

Johnson's performance also upped his season rushing yardage to 2,020 yards.

Amherst is 9-1 for the season, while Whiteface is 0-9.

Johnson scored three touchdowns in the first quarter, on runs of 25, 45 and 45 yards.

Ropes' Rushing Show Upends Anton 14-0

ROPES (Special) — Led by senior fullback Junior Ybarbo's 171-yard rushing show, the Ropes Eagles poured on 286 yards of infantry to upend Anton 14-0 here Friday night in District 5-A action.

Ybarbo scored on a 54-yard run in the second quarter. His score was all Ropes needed for the night as the Eagle defense held Anton to only 146 yards of total offense.

Hereford Surprises Mustangs 6-0

By ERIC GALE
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

HEREFORD — There just weren't enough hours in the day for the Coronado High School offense here Friday night.

The Mustangs groped for 48 minutes against the super-charged Whiteface defense and lost 6-0 in a District 4-AAAA game.

Coronado, now 1-2 in the district and 5-4 overall, had one major and unfulfilled scoring opportunity, that coming on their final possession of the game.

The Mustangs began a drive from their own 20-yard line with slightly more than 10 minutes remaining in the game and seven minutes later found themselves with a first-and-goal at the Hereford 7 yard line.

On second down, fullback Dane Boyles carried two yards to the one, at which point the Herd defense began to thunder. One more offensive play lapsed and the Mustangs were faced with fourth down at Hereford's impregnable one.

Coronado quarterback Alan Harp took the snap, and cut towards left end where the Hereford end zone seemingly awaited him. However, Whiteface linebacker David Gonzales speedily popped through a missed blocking assignment and tackled Harp for a four-yard loss.

That snuffed Coronado's only real scoring threat of the game and preserved Hereford's first district victory in three attempts. The Herd's overall mark is 5-4.

"A victory is good," said Hereford coach Don Cumpton afterward. "This was our best defensive effort of the season. We expected Coronado would try to ball-control us to death because they're so much bigger than we are, but our kids wouldn't let them do it."

The Coronado offense did not achieve a first down until Harp's one-yard sneak with 2:22 remaining in the first half.

The Mustangs attempted 16 first half running plays and showed only 28 yards for their trouble.

The Herd had its touchdown set up following cornerback Jamie Valdez' interception of a Harp pass midway in the second quarter. He returned the ball inside the 10-yard line but a clipping penalty pushed the line of scrimmage back to the Coronado 34.

Eight plays later Hereford quarterback Alan Wartes punched the ball over from the one-yard line. The extra point attempt was missed by kicker Scott Daniels but the Herd, with 3:59 left in the second quarter, had all the points it needed.

"We just didn't take advantage and we had plenty of chances to win," said Coronado coach Jack Quarles. "I think we moved well enough to score but we dropped passes that we shouldn't have dropped, missed blocks that we shouldn't have missed, and made other mistakes that cost us."

Perhaps the most costly of those Coronado miscues was a clipping penalty that nullified a 79-yard punt return and touchdown by Ricky Melvin early in the first quarter.

The Mustang offense was unable to cross midfield under its own power until Harp hit end John Lord with a 31-yard safety-valve pass on the team's only potential scoring march of the game. That play gave the Mustangs possession at the Hereford 24-yard line, their only legitimately good field position of the night.

"When you have the chance to score, you need to put it in the end zone," Quarles said. "Harp had all the room in the world to score on that fourth down play but someone missed the block and he got hit. Those are the sort of things that hurt us tonight."

The Coronado defense, however, played good football throughout. The Herd completed only three passes in 14 attempts, rushed for a total of 122 yards, and did not approach midfield in the entire second half.

But it was the Hereford defense whose overall dominance was the key to the outcome.

Estacado Tramples Levelland

The pass looked like it was way overthrown, but Rose leaped in the air and stuck out a long arm. Miraculously the ball stuck to Rose's hand and he rumbled down to the 10 where it was first and goal.

From there, it took one play as fullback Alvin Davis blasted 10 yards up the middle for the Mats second TD. Gray again connected with Rose for the two point conversion and with 1:09 left in the first quarter it was 14-0 Estacado.

From there on out, the Mats were never challenged.

Estacado is now 8-1 on the year and 4-0 in District 1-AAA play. Levelland is 3-6 and 1-4 in loop action.

"Lousy," said Estacado coach Louis Kelley, "lousy — that's the way we played. But we got some early turnovers and were fortunate to win.

"But Levelland brought it right to us, they beat us on the option. So it's good to get a win out of this. It'll help us going into the big game next week."

The big game next week is the Estacado-Canyon shootout slated at Lowrey Field. Both teams will bring unblemished district records into the contest as Canyon crushed Dumas 35-0 Friday night.

And while Kelley said it wasn't intentional — it was just possible that his Mats might've been looking forward to Canyon.

"We were trying not to think about Canyon," said the coach, "but deep down inside, in the back of their minds' I think the kids were thinking about it."

But Levelland gave the Mats plenty to think about last night. Only a couple of early turnovers, that Estacado capitalized on, turned the tide.

The first EHS touchdown was set up when the Lobos fumbled the opening kickoff and Kenneth Cade recovered for the Mats. The second drive was set up by another fumble recovery — this one by Preston Davis.

The third TD came on a 55-yard drive — the Mats longest of the night — that was fueled by a series of Kelvin White bursts. Fittingly White ran the final five yards for the TD.

The Mats were able to grind out 340 yards of total offense but the Lobos managed 212 against the EHS defense that had been averaging only 111 a game. Levelland's Lupe Reyes led all rushers as he picked up 128 yards on 19 carries.

That's the most yardage any runner has been able to gain against the Matadors in nine games. But the lone LHS tally came after Keith Wade galloped 61 yards with the second half kickoff.

Wade's run left the ball on the EHS 28 and five plays later Reyes plowed over from the two-yard line.

But that was the only points the Lobos would score all night.

Estacado got two more TD's in the final period to put the icing on the cake. The Mats drove 56 yards in 10 plays before Gray snuck over from the one. Then with only 59 seconds showing on the clock — Gray again ran the quarterback sneak.

Only this time, Gray was back on his own 36. But once he popped the line of scrimmage, Gray looked up to see nothing but daylight and galloped 64 yards for the score.

White led the Matador rushing attack, piling up 109 yards on 25 carries and Alvin Davis had 67 yards on 13 carries.

"It was a good win," summed up Kelley. "But the big one's next week."

Lubbock High Falls In Season Finale

backs. The Bulldogs end their season Friday night against Coronado.

The key plays for Lubbock turned out to be a 3-yard run by Thomas Romero on a fourth-and-one try at the PHS 28. It also got a 13-yard pass from Cuevas to back Tino Chapa that moved the ball down to the one. Chapa appeared to have scored on the play, but the official marked the ball on the 1-yard line. On the next play, Cuevas scored.

"I couldn't be anymore proud of these kids," said Salinas after ending his first year as the LHS head coach. "I'll say it over and over again: I'm proud, proud, proud of these kids. They did a super job for me all year."

Next year, however, only five of those "kids" will be back for boot camp.

Plainview appeared ready to come out and push the Westerners out onto Loop 289 early in the game. The Bulldogs took the opening kickoff and marched 63 yards for a score. On a second-and-goal from the 1, Davis, who had already carried the ball six times for 52 yards, got the call and bounced into the end zone over right guard. Stan Sherwood booted the extra point, giving PHS a 7-0 lead.

Then things went crazy for a minute.

First, Lubbock High's Russell Harkins recovered a punt on the PHS 3-yard line. The recovery came after Plainview's Jeff Gould tried to field the ball after it apparently was going to roll to a stop on the 10. Seeing the attempt, Hector Flores leaped and belly slid into Gould and knocked him free of the ball.

Then, on Lubbock's first play after the recovery, Cuevas hit tight end Paul Mendoza with a quickie over the middle from 3-yards out. Cuevas's PAT kick failed, leaving LHS trailing by one point, 7-6.

Five plays later history repeated itself.

This time, Raul Romero fumbled a Davis punt on the 3-yard line and Jamie Rivera recovered it for the 'Dogs.

First, Davis tried right guard for two yards. On his second try at the same spot, Davis bulled into the end zone for his second TD of the night. Again, Sherwood kicked the extra point, sending PHS into the halftime locker room with a 14-6 lead.

Lubbock saw a golden opportunity to score late in the second period slip through its hands. M.R. Garcia hopped on a Oscar Mosley-fumble on the PHS 18. But LHS could get no closer than the 15, following a short run by Chapa and a pair of incomplete passes intended for Walker.

With a good wind to his back, Cuevas attempted a 31-yard field goal. The try was far enough, but wide to the right.

Besides the last-minute heroics, that was as close as Lubbock would come to the goal line for the rest of the frost-bitten night.

Davis, the highly-touted running back, had his second best night of running the football. He gained 150 yards on 29 carries. Prior to Friday, Davis' best performance had been 214 yards against Clovis.

Chapa paced Lubbock with 57 yards on 14 tries.

Slaton Slaps Down Seminole In 5-AA Clash 17-7

By RUSS PARSONS
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

SLATON — In the stands the celebration continued. Behind them, in the Slaton Tiger team bus, the atmosphere was different.

The Tigers, off the biggest win of this football season, jammed into the bus to console lineman Fred Stolle. His father had suffered a heart attack before the game, but his mother had requested that nobody tell him until afterwards. She wanted his mind on the the Seminole Indians.

Evidently that's where his and the rest of the Tigers' minds were Friday night as they stopped No.1-ranked Seminole 17-7 to keep their District 5-AA title hopes alive.

In the end, the difference was the legs of Jesse Titus and the strength of the Slaton defense. Titus ran for a touchdown and kicked a field goal and two extra points. The defense stifled Seminole's normally explosive offense to under 200 yards.

After the game, Slaton coach Ed Cook was at a loss for words. "Well, Godamighty, I don't know," he said when asked what the key to his team's victory was.

In between slaps on the back and hugs, he managed to gather his wits. "We sort of found a soft spot there in their offense at the end.

"I thought our defense could hold in there," he continued. "There's no way anybody can stop a team like that completely.

"I thought we had the best effort of any team I've ever coached."

Seminole, famous all year as an opportunistic team, had the tables turned early Friday night. The first time the Tigers got the ball with decent field position (at their own 39 yard line on the second drive of the game), Titus ripped 61 yards for a touchdown.

The Indians came right back though, driving 80 yards in 16 plays to tie the game up on a 1-yard quarterback sneak by Mike Grass. Seminole converted four third downs on the drive as the Indians found easy running between the Tiger tackles.

It didn't take long for Slaton to adjust though, and once they did it didn't take the Tigers long to go ahead for good.

With 5:02 left in the half, Slaton's Glen Culver recovered a bad Seminole pitch at the 29. It was only one of five Indian turnovers on the night.

Titus and Lance Bownds ran the ball to the 18 for a first, but a running play lost a couple and then a second-down pass fell incomplete. On third down, another pass apparently went awry, but the officials had detected a personal foul against Seminole.

That penalty moved the ball to the 10 for a first down. Still, Seminole hung tough, driving the Tigers back to the 20, but that was close enough for Titus, who booted a 37-yard field goal.

Any hopes the Indians had of getting back in the game with a big third period were stifled by two fumbles that ended both possessions in that quarter.

Slaton, meanwhile, drove the ball 65 yards and 10 plays, only to be stopped cold within inches of the goal line by an inspired Seminole defense.

The Indian offense did the old 1-2-3-punt and, almost that quick, Slaton scored again. On a third and three from the Indian 33, Bownds popped up the middle for 23 yards. He gained one on the next play and then Michael Whaley turned the corner behind great blocking to put the Tigers up 17-7 with 8:03 left in the game.

Seminole still had some shots unfired, as the Indians blocked a punt with 3:01 left, but two running plays lost 17 yards, forcing a punt with 1:35 left. Slaton ran out the clock from there.

The district race is still far from over. Slaton must now travel to Tahoka to take on the once-beaten Bulldogs while Seminole plays winless Cooper. A combination of Tahoka and Seminole wins would throw the district into a three-way tie.

"Boy, I hope that doesn't happen," said Cook, who has seen the loop season end that way in each of his five years at Slaton. "We're due."

Trio Gets Into Scoring Act As Tahoka Whips Antelopes

POST (Special) — Fullback Clifford Oages went 37 yards for one touchdown and quarterback Todd Brown and tailback Tracy White scored on runs of 1-yard each Friday night to lead the Tahoka Bulldogs to a 20-8 District 5-AA football victory over the Post Antelopes.

Brown put the Bulldogs ahead with 5:15 to play in the first period when he sneaked over from one yard out. Kevin Elmore added the point after conversion to make it 7-0.

The score remained 7-0 in favor of Tahoka until late in the third quarter. With only 32 second remaining in the period, White capped a 63-yard, 12-play drive with his 1-yard TD burst. Elmore again booted the PAT to increase the Bulldogs' lead to 14-0.

Tailback Alonzo Luna lit up the scoreboard for the Antelopes with a 3-yard dive for six points and Drew Kirkpatrick hit Mike Macy with the two-point conversion pass to cut the Tahoka lead to six points, 14-8, with 6:18 left to play.

Win Gives Abernathy Chance At Playoffs

FLOYDADA (Special) — In a last ditch effort to gain a chance at the playoffs, the Abernathy Antelopes beat Floydada for the first time since 1967, taking a decisive 36-0 victory in District 4-AA action here Friday.

Sylvester Dunn led the Antelopes with 218 yards rushing including a 47-yard TD dash, while Tony Heath scored two more touchdowns and threw a 23-yard scoring pass to Willie Betts. Betts added a 25 yard field goal and three extra point kicks during the night.

The Antelopes had no trouble at all with the Floydada defense, rambling for 457 yards on the ground and another 118 yards through the air.

Jeff Raney garnered 50 yards on 10 carries for Floydada, which is now 5-4 for the year. The win leaves Abernathy with a 7-1-2 season record and 3-1 in the loop. Should Idalou lose to Lockney next week, the Antelopes would finish in a three-way tie for the district.

Amarillo Drills Tascosa 28-0

AMARILLO (Special) — Quarterback Jeff Lamb threw three touchdown passes to lead the Amarillo Sandies to a 28-0 whitewashing of Tascosa in a District 3-AAAA game here Friday night.

Lamb had touchdown passes of 65 yards to halfback Ty Richmond, 37 yards to wingback Shane LaDuke and 7 yards to split end Jimmy Rifenburge.

The Sandies are 8-1 for the year.

MILLS LANDS ACE

Gordon Mills used a four-iron to sink a hole-in-one Tuesday at the Treasure Island Golf Course. Mills made the ace on the 120-yard fifth hole. Witnessing was Jay Carson.

Mustangs Stop Frenship 27-17

WOLFFORTH (Special) — The Denver City Mustangs galloped a head of the Frenship Tigers 27-17 in a District 5-AA contest, scoring 14 points to zero for the Tigers in the third period.

The outcome leaves the Mustangs 3-6 for the season and the Tigers have a 2-7 slate.

Frenship scored first in the opening period on a 37-yard field goal by Steve Bradford. Still in the same period, the Mustangs' quarterback, J.D. Milligan, passed 10 yards to halfback Bruce Speights to score. The kick failed.

Cotton Center Nabs District Crown

WELLMAN (Special) — The visiting Cotton Center Elks outlasted the Wellman Wildcats, scoring 12 points in the final period, to end the District 3B six-man contest contest with a 28-18 win.

The win gives the Elks the 3B District championship with a undefeateo record, compared to only one loss and the rest wins for Wellman.

Andrews Dampens Lobo Playoff Hopes

MONAHANS (Special) — Andrews and Monahans swapped big plays but the Mustangs rang up one extra score to hand the home team a 14-7 District 2-AAA loss and all but derail its playoff hopes here Friday.

Monahans opened the spectacular plays in the second quarter on a 79-yard touchdown pass from Benny Hernandez to Rusty Roark, after linebacker Timmy Macon had picked off an Andrews aerial. Marvin Hogan added the extra point.

Andrews tailback Van Pearcy, who made more than 200 yards rushing on the night, cracked back in the third period with a 73-yard dash. Van Eisenbach added the conversion.

But Andrews won the game when wingback Kevin Bartley tallied on a 1-yard run in the first quarter, before the big plays cracked open the otherwise tight contest.

Andrews racked up 331 total yards in running its record to 7-2 and 1-2. The loss dropped Monahans from the unbeaten ranks in the district and leaves the Loboes with a 6-3 overall mark and a 2-1 in the loop. The Loboes must beat Ector next week to have a chance for the playoffs.

Eagles Beat Jayton 14-0 For Title

JAYTON (Special) — Sterling City's Eagles marched to the District 3-B East Zone title here Friday night with a hard-fought but convincing victory over Jayton, 14-0.

Both teams held 4-0 zone records as the game began, but Sterling City's backfield of quarterback Dusty Demere, running backs Ray Rodriquez and Alan Phillips and fullback Bruce Myrick piled up 246 yards and 19 first downs to control the game throughout.

Myrick ran for 66 yards, Demere for 58, Phillips for 53 and Rodriquez for 47 in the winners' well-balanced attack.

Sterling City now stands 7-3 for the year, 5-0 in Zone Play, while Jayton drops to 6-2-2 and 4-1.

The first TD of the game came after a 45-yard drive, with Demere running the last 2 yards with 9:35 left in the first half. Phillips converted the PAT for a 7-0 lead.

Sterling City took the ball on the Jayton 33 after a short punt in the third quarter and drove in for the score with Phillips running the final 4 yards and then converting the PAT for the final 14-0 count.

Owls Blister Lorenzo 35-12

HALE CENTER (Special) — Owl running back Gordon Compton scampered for 201 yards and a touchdown to lead his team to a 35-12 District 4-A win over Lorenzo.

Hale Center ran up a 14-6 halftime bulge on Compton's 1-yard run and a 19-yard TD pass from quarterback Freddie Palacios to Terry James, and two kicks by Trinidad Pardo, while Lorenzo tallied when Raymond Tadilla recovered an Owl fumble in the end zone.

Despite the win, the Owls fell from playoff contention because New Deal whipped Spur to clinch the title.

Cubs Cut Down Lamesa 14-12

BROWNFIELD (Special) — Charles Burse scored on runs of 3 and 30 yards to help lead Brownfield to a 14-12 come-from-behind victory over Lamesa in a District 3-AAA matchup Friday night.

Both of Burse's TDs came in the final period and helped the Cubs bounce back from a 12-0 deficit. Burse's first score came with 3:30 left in the game, the second TD with 30 seconds remaining.

The win upped BHS' season record to 3-6. The Cubs stand 2-1 in loop play. Meanwhile, Lamesa is 1-8 and 1-2, respectively.

The Tors took a 12-0 lead on a pair of long pass completions.

MATADOR (Special) — The Motley County Matadors closed their season on a winning note here Friday by sneaking by Silverton on a last-second field goal to claim a 15-12 District 2-B win.

The Matadors jumped out quick, scoring two TDs in the first period. The scores came on runs of 10 yards by Harvey Lee and 20 yards by Charlie Campbell.

Silverton finally cranked up its offense in the third quarter, and tied the score at 12 with TDs on a 10-yard run by Mark Brown and a 20-yard pass from quarterback Paul Brannon to split end Russell Couch.

Lee had 170 yards on 32 carries for the Matadors, who finish the year at 2-6-2. Silverton concludes its season at 6-4.

Canyon Eagles Ram Dumas Demons 35-0

Canyon's two touchdowns in the first quarter came on a 15-yard run by halfback Barry Watson and a 4-yard run by halfback Greg Bybee.

The leading rusher in the game was Canyon's Robert Johnson, who picked up 101 yards on nine carries.

Maldonado Guides Mustangs To Win

SHALLOWATER (Special) — Shallowater tailback Rufino Maldonado set a school rushing record of 211 yards as he led his Mustangs to a 20-7 win over the Plains Cowboys in District 5-A action.

Shallowater's season record is 5-2-1, while Plains has a 5-4 record.

The Mustangs scored first midway through the first quarter on a 31-yard run by Maldonado. Later in the quarter, Maldonado scored again on a 78-yard run.

Roosevelt Holds On To Tip Cooper 14-6

WOODROW (Special) — Roosevelt took a 14-0 halftime lead here Friday night on a 2-yard TD run by halfback Sid Roberts and a 5-yard TD run by quarterback Rex Beck, then held on for a 14-6 win over the Cooper Pirates in a District 5-AA game.

With 7:36 left on the clock, Cooper quarterback Lynn Smith hit wingback Glenn Buxkempter for 15 yards and a TD to close the gap. But a try for a two-point PAT failed and the Eagles held on for the win.

Roosevelt led in first downs, 14-13, yards rushing, 198-155, while trailing in passing yardage, 64-43 and passes completed, 8-3.

Trojans Bombard Greenwood 33-26

Running back Steve David rang up three touchdowns and quarterback Darrell Kitten passed for two more scores as the Christ the King Trojans took an exciting 33-26 victory over Greenwood in TCIL action here Friday.

CTK scored first when David galloped in from 15-yards out and Kitten hit Matt Washburn for the two-pointer.

Coach Says Injuries Taking Toll On Panthers

By CHUCK McDONALD
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

It's not like the Dunbar Panthers have been hit hard by injuries this year but consider this stat: since the season began the Panthers have lost seven tackles, five linebackers and three backs.

And as DHS coach Van Jefferson explained at the Wednesday coaches' news conference at the 50 Yard Line, the injuries are taking their toll.

"With youngsters coming up from the junior varsity every week," said Jefferson, "it just takes time."

Unfortunately for Jefferson, he's just about out of time. The Panthers will meet the Borger Bulldogs tonight at 7:30 p.m. at Lowrey Field in a game that actually means very little.

The Panthers are 1-7 on the year and 0-3 in District 1-AAA play while the Bulldogs are 3-5 and 1-2 in loop play.

But the Bulldogs showed a little life last week as they crushed the Dumas Demons 39-7 in their most convincing win of the year. The Bulldogs' biggest problem has been inconsistency. After opening the year by crushing Lubbock High, Borger went into a tailspin that didn't end util last week's victory over Dumas.

Quarterback Shawn Herrington is the main cog in the Bulldog attack. At 6-foot-6, he's easily the biggest quarterback that the Panthers have faced all year. In fact, Jefferson is already convinced that Herrington is taller than 6-foot-6.

"Borger's got an excellent throwing quarterback," said Jefferson. "I think he's about 6-9...

"But whenever you face a Borger team you know what to expect," added Jefferson. "They run the sweep and trap stuff very well. They'll run that stuff 90 percent of the time — then hurt you with a quick pass over the middle."

And the Panthers have been hurt by the pass before this year — last week the Estacado Matadors exploited the DHS defense with an aerial attack and two weeks ago Canyon literally picked apart Dunbar.

In three district contests, the Panthers have allowed 110 points. That's an average of 37 points an outing.

"Our kids haven't given up though," said Kelley. "We're still working hard — we're just awfully young."

Idalou Clinches District Championship

IDALOU (Special) — The Idalou Wildcats clinched the District 4-AA championship Friday night, downing the Tulia Hornets, 36-14.

Idalou now holds an 8-1 recor for the season and is 3-0 in district play. Tulia stands 3-6 and 1-2.

Idalou scored twice in the first quarter on a 13-yard run by tailback Alan Emery and a 15-yard run by quarterback Brad Debusk.

Tulia scored twice in the second quarter on a 2-yard plunge by quarterback Barry Cowan, and a 1-yard run by halfback Kevin Crooks. Idalou's Debusk scored again on an 8-yard run to put the Wildcats ahead at halftime, 20-14.

Idalou scored three times in the third quarter. Emery scored from 13 yards out and 10 yards out, and quarterback Tim Debusk threw a touchdown pass to tight end Dennis Green.

Klondike Takes Title With 40-12 Win

KLONDIKE (Special) — Klondike's Cougars kicked the Sands Mustangs here Friday night to put the cap on a perfect season and take the District 3-B West Zone title, 40-12.

Tailback Lonnie Ferguson ran for 98 yards on 21 carries and scored on TD runs of 1 and 4 yards to lead the winners' offensive effort. Raul Arismendez recovered a Klondike fumble in the end zone and also picked up a blocked punt for another TD to share the spotlight with Ferguson.

Klondike also scored on a 7-yard run by halfback Blaine Todd, a 14-yard pass from Todd Airhart to James Martin, a two-point conversion by Ferguson and a pair of PAT kicks by Martin.

Sands hit the scoreboard on a 12-yard run by fullback David Long and a 2-yard run by Shayne Wiggington.

Klondike now stands 10-0 for the year, 5-0 for District 3-B West play. Sands drops to 1-9 for the year.

Klondike led in all departments: first downs, 22-15; yards rushing, 209-165; yards passing, 107-34; and pass completions, 7-5.

Chiefs Tumble Petersburg 6-0

PETERSBURG (Special) — The Petersburg Buffaloes were almost twice as strong in the statistics but lost on the scoreboard 6-0 to the Crosbyton Chiefs in District 4-A play.

Crosbyton proved the better group Friday night scoring the only six points of the game in the second quarter.

But their five first downs, 114 yards on the ground and 25 yards in the air did not compare with the Buffaloes' 18 first downs, 243 yards rushing and 42 yards passing.

The Chiefs bested the opponents early in the second period when quarterback Allen Adams rifled a 25-yard scoring pass to wingback Abel Arriga. The extra point failed.

Olton Crushes Friona 29-10

OLTON (Special) — Olton tailback Danny Garcia scored three touchdowns as he led the Mustangs to a 29-10 victory over the Friona Chieftans.

Garcia's first score came midway through the first quarter when he ran the ball in from three yards out.

Friona came back to score early in the second quarter when fullback Chuck Nichols ran 18 yards for a touchdown. Olton scored twice in the second quarter — on a 90-yard kickoff return by Garcia and on a 15-yard pass play from quarterback Vance Stoebel to wingback Roy Luera.

Garcia's third touchdown came in the third quarter when he scored from three yards out. Friona got two points in the third quarter when the Olton quarterback was trapped in the end zone for a safety.

Hart Longhorns Trample Vega

HART (Special) — Two teams of Longhorns squared off in District 3-A action Friday, with the Hart Longhorns emerging the winners over Vega, 20-12.

Hart finished its season with a 3-6 record, while Vega finished at 5-3-1.

After a scoreless first quarter, Hart scored early in the second when quarterback Derek Rich scored from 2 yards out.

Vega came back to score when running back Rob Groves ran nine yards for a touchdown. Hart scored with 18 seconds left in the half when Rich threw a 9-yard scoring strike to tight end Chad Black.

Record Corn Crop Ready To Meet Heavy Foreign Demands

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers are harvesting a record corn crop of 7.59 billion bushels this fall, the basic U.S. grain for producing meat, poultry and milk in the coming year, the Agriculture Department said Friday.

The huge harvest, 7 percent larger than last year's, also will serve as a reserve for what officials expect will be a record foreign demand for U.S. corn, wheat and other commodities.

Based on field surveys as of Nov. 1, the new estimate was up by 195 million bushels — 3 percent — from the forecast a month ago. Last year's harvest, also a record, was 7.08 billion bushels.

In a related report, officials said the Soviet Union's grain harvest this year is estimated at 175 million metric tons, unchanged from prospects a month ago.

The department's Crop Reporting Board also estimated a 1979 U.S. soybean crop of 2.24 billion bushels, up 20 percent from the 1978 harvest of 1.84 billion bushels, and 1 percent more than last month's forecast of 2.21 billion bushels.

Corn is the largest U.S. grain crop by far and is most important as livestock feed and for export to other countries. Soybeans, when crushed, yield high-protein meal for livestock feed plus vegetable oil for cooking, margarine and other purposes.

In the report on Soviet grain production, the USDA's estimate of the 1979 grain harvest at 175 million metric tons is down 26.2 percent from last year's record 237.2 million.

By comparison, the U.S. corn harvest alone this year equals 192.7 million metric tons, according to the new estimate.

A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds and, for example, is equal to 39.4 bushels of corn or 36.7 bushels of wheat.

The department's Foreign Agricultural Service said the the Soviet Union has not indicated the size of its grain harvest this year "except to report that the results were greatly influenced by bad weather conditions."

Officials said their estimate of Soviet production includes 83 million metric tons of wheat, 82 million of coarse grains such as corn and barley, and 10 million of miscellaneous grains which include beans and rice.

The United States has given the Soviet Union permission to buy up to 25 million metric tons of corn and wheat in the year that began on on Oct. 1, an increase of about 10 million tons from their purchases last year.

No new 1979 production estimates of U.S. wheat and some other crops harvested earlier this year were provided in the latest report.

However, last month the department pegged the wheat crop at 211 billin bushels, up 18 percent from the 1978 harvest of less than .8 billion buhels, the smallest since 1974.

Despite the huge crops, grain prices are up significantly from a year ago, due mostly to heavy export demand and large quantities of corn and wheat farmers stored in the government's three-year grain reserve program.

The estimated 1979 yields per acre and production of leading crops in major producing states based on Nov. 1 indications included:

PLAINS AGRICULTURE

By DUANE HOWELL

STATE SEN. E. L. SHORT OF TAHOKA says a bill setting up a procedure for creation of the Ogallala Water Import Authority of Texas "was one of the most significant pieces of legislation to pass the recent 66th Legislature."

The bill, signed into law by Gov. Bill Clements last summer, provides for establishment of the legal entity necessary to contract for and distribute imported water throughout the High Plains region.

This doesn't mean such a water district will be created immediately, Short pointed out in an address at the West Texas Regional Water Utilities Short School here this week.

Under provisions of the law, he explained, an import authority can be created with approval of area voters only when a source of water for import is "contracturally available."

Citing agricultural statistics for 1977, Short said 51 percent of the land planted in cotton, grain sorghum, corn and wheat — the area's four major crops — was irrigated.

"HOWEVER, THAT IRRIGATED ACREAGE produced 69 percent of the value of these four crops," the senator pointed out. "Historically, the value of agricultural production is about 2.5 times greater with irrigation than without in this region."

Short said total employment in the High Plains is estimated at 466,800 and added that agriculture is the third largest employer, although the number of agricultural employes decreased from 1950 to 1970.

He said it is estimated that 25 percent of the labor force is in irrigated agriculture industries, 20 percent in petroleum industries, 10 percent in dryland agriculture, and 45 percent in other industries.

The High Plains has 34 percent of the total cropland in Texas, he pointed out, and approximately 70 percent of the total irrigated cropland in the state.

"In addition to the impact on the local area economy, irrigated agriculture on the High Plains makes significant contributions to the national and world food markets," Short emphasized. "Without supplemental water to augment the declining Ogallala aquifer over the long run, those local, state, national and international contributions are threatened."

THE TEXAS DEPARTMENT OF WATER Resources projects that by the year 2000 only 55 percent of the area's current irrigated acreage can be sustained by pumpage from the Ogallala, Short said.

By the year 2030, he added, only 35 percent of the current acreage can be sustained by this famed underground formation.

"Therefore, instead of about 6.1 million acres of irrigated land, the Texas High Plains will be reduced to about 2.1 million acres of irrigation by 2030 if current trends of water use continue," the senator said.

Short said the primary importance of the import authority is that "it may contract with the United States or agencies, state of Texas, other states, other entities or individuals for the import of water — and provide the necessary assurances for such service to be initiated, and yet maintain local control of the authority operations."

The authority, in turn, may contract with districts or others for the purchase of water from it, he added. He said the authority cannot interfere with the rights and powers of water districts existing at the time of its creation and cannot interfere with the landowners' rights of groundwater ownership.

Short stressed that "we must continue to investigate sources of surplus water, convince the national and state governments of the national and international importance of supplemental water for the High Plains, plan and design for the operation of the authority, and of course continue to strive for conservation — coupled with a national storage program — of our own available water resource."

COTTON PRODUCTION IN THE HIGH PLAINS crop reporting districts of 1-North and 1-South was estimated at 3.2 million bales Friday by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

This is up from 3,175,000 bales a month ago. Acres for harvest were estimated at 3,930,000, up 10,000 from a month earlier, and the average yield at 391 pounds per acre, up from 389 last month.

Adjusted for geographical variations on the basis of historical differences, the 1-N and 1-S estimate would translate into a crop of about 3,279,000 bales for the 25-county Lubbock area.

This compares with a private estimate compiled Thursday of 3,092,700 bales. The difference is due primarily to a wide difference in the acreage estimates, with only about six pounds separating the yield projections.

Both production estimates are based on conditions as of around Nov. 1. Cotton experts here remain highly uncertain about the ultimate size of the crop, especially in vew of the predominance of low micronaire and low turnouts in the early ginnings.

Only about 66,000 bales had been classed by Nov. 1, hardly enough to form a solid basis for projections for the season. There have been, however, some high yields of low mike cotton, although there also have been reports of disappointing turnouts.

Sources said this week turnouts for the season have been averaging only about 20-21 percent.

COMMISSION HOUSE ANALYSTS AND FLOOR brokers called the national estimate of 14.544 million bales, up from 14.356 million a month ago, neutral to slightly bearish.

Their initial reaction generally was that the market opening Monday would be only slightly lower. Expectations had ranged generally from 13.9 million to 14.5 million bales, with a cluster of opinion at the upper end of the range.

The Texas estimate at 5.7 million bales, up from 5.6 million in October, was precisely in line with pre-report projections.

The USDA also estimated the Chinese crop at 9.8 million bales, unchanged from a month ago, and projected the Soviet Union's output at 12.6 million bales, down from 12.8 million in October. China produced 10 million bales last year and the Soviet Union turned out 12.3 million.

Some analysts had speculated the Chinese estimate might be reduced. They had based this partly on the large recent purchases of U. S. cotton by China, but others had said the Chinese buying spree also might indicate a desire to export more textile products in the coming year.

World cotton production was estimated at 63.8 million bales, unchanged from last month.

MEANWHILE, THE INITIAL REACTION of traders at the Chicago Board of Trade to the USDA's crop report was neutral to slightly bearish for both soybeans and corn.

A panel of grain analysts agreed that the corn and soybean crop estimates were about as expected and said the projections probably will have little sharp near-term impact.

But the panelists, at a news conference sponsored by the Board of Trade, said it is likely the size of the crops will keep prices on the defensive in the long-term.

"It is negative in terms that we will have very significant carryouts," said Jay Meehan, a commodity consultant for Lincoln-Staley Commodities, Inc. "But I don't think we can look forward to coming in Monday and having the market sharply lower."

COTTON FUTURES CONTINUED A DOWNWARD movement in moderate afternoon trading Friday to close off 38 points to up six points in nearbys.

Floor brokers said trade rolling out of December positions accounted for December losses of 38 points on a closing at 67.37 cents while March closed off 15 points at 68.72. Commission house liquidation ahead of the USDA crop report also was noted.

Estimated volume was 11,050 lots.

The Census Bureau reported U. S. cotton ginnings totaled 4,796,019 running bales prior to Nov. 1, up from 4,658,643 a year earlier but down from 7,493,396 two years ago.

Texas ginnings were 1,404,463 running bales, against 1,025,017 through the corresponding period last year and 2,511,212 two years ago.

Grain Futures

CHICAGO (AP) — Grain and soybean futures were mixed in a narrow range Friday as traders awaited the release after the close of a major government crop report.

The main feature of trading was liquidation by traders who held selling positions in nearby contracts and buying contracts in more distant deliveries. The result was higher prices for nearby deliveries an$! declines in distant months. That pattern was supported by slow country cash sales of grain by farmers.

Domestic and European cash markets were quiet awaiting the crop report, which was expected after the close. The Agriculture Department is expected to raise its October corn crop estimate of 7.39 billion bushels by about 2 percent and to expand slightly its soybean crop estimate of 2.21 billion bushels.

At the close, soybeans were 2¾ cents lower to 1¾ cents higher, November $6.51; wheat was 1¼ cents lower to 2 cents higher, December $4.22¾; corn was ½ cent lower to ¾ cent higher, December $2.62; and oats were ¼ to 1½ cents higher, December $1.43¾.

Seagraves Thumps Stanton To Capture 5-A Crown

STANTON (Special) — The powerhouse Seagraves Eagles, ranked No. 1 in The Avalanche-Journal South Plains poll and No. 5 statewide, rolled over the Stanton Buffaloes by a 35-19 count to clinch the District 5-A championship here Friday night.

The Eagles snagged four interceptions and fell on three Stanton fumbles, while running backs Davis Morgan and Johnny Castro each nailed down two touchdowns to lead the Seagraves charge.

Morgan got the first two scores of the game, the first coming with 4:07 left in the first quarter on a 15-yard run and the second coming with 10:29 left in the half on a 12-yard scamper. Morgan booted both PATs.

Stanton cut the lead to 14-7 at the half when wingback Curtis Williams went 49 yards with a Craig Eiland aerial with 49 seconds left in the period. The TD was setup by a 55-yard pass from Eiland to Freddie Silva.

Tailback Johnny Castro scored with 10:02 left in the third quarter for the Eagles on a 17-yard run, and Ronnie Griffin went 42 yards for a score with 9:30 remaining in the fourth stanza to break the game open.

Derrick Looney went in for a score for Stanton with 6:12 left in the game on a 2-yard run, but Seagraves came back to score again with 45 seconds left on a 20-yard run by Castro.

The scoring was not over, however, as Stanton tallied with 20 seconds remaining on a 15-yard pass from Eiland to Norberto Arguello. A 45-yard pass from Eiland to Lewis Henry set up the last-second TD.

Seagraves saw the win run its season record to 9-0, while Stanton is now 5½-2.

Littlefield Ruins Morton's Title Chances

MORTON (Special) — Morton's slim hopes of winning District 3-AA fell by the wayside here Friday as the fired-up Littlefield Wildcats romped to a 56-0 win here Friday.

Littlefield ravaged the Indians, intercepting seven passes and recovering three fumbles en route to the lopsided win that boosted them to 7-1-1 for the year.

Joe McCanick opened the game with two TDs, on runs of 25 and 6 yards, and was matched by Ruben Torres, who also tallied twice.

Other Wildcat scores came on a 45-yard interception by Will Williams and runs by Brady Bradley, Jimmy Clayton and Johnny Sierra. And David Smith converted six of seven extra point attempts.

Even with the loss, Morton is now 5-3-1 for the year, their best record at this juncture in many years.

Lazbuddie Rallies To Defeat Smyer

SMYER (Special) — District 2-B South zone champ Lazbuddie spotted the Smyer Bobcats an early lead before coming on to win 27-14 and end the district season undefeated.

Dennis Scott and David Bouston scored the Bobcats' first half touchdowns to offset a Lazbuddie field goal and touchdown by Andy Rogers.

But that was all the scoring for Smyer as Lazbuddie scored after blocking a punt, recovering a fumble and picking off a pass.

Lazbuddie ended the season 7-2 and 5-0 in district. The Longhorns will face North Zone champion Valley at a site and date as yet undetermined for the district championship.

Smyer finished the year at 3-7 and 2-3.

Melvin James romped 19 yards on a reverse for a TD and Ricky Smith's 3-yard run for another TD closed out the scoring.

A blocked punt by Ricky Smith and an intercepted pass by Kenny Wright, one of two for Wright for the night, set up two of the winners' TDs.

Roby Pummels Borden County

BORDEN COUNTY (Special) — The Roby Lions snarled past the hometown Coyotes 33-28 in District 3-B East play, leaving both teams with a 4-6 slate for the season.

Texas, Houston Highlight SWC Slate

By The Associated Press

The Houston Cougars have finally got the Texas Longhorns where they've wanted them — the Astrodome.

If the talented Cougars of Coach Bill Yeoman can put the Longhorns away today in Texas' second try at indoor football Houston is all but in the Cotton Bowl for the third time in four years.

Texas has only played once in the Astrodome, beating Colorado 38-21 in the 1975 Bluebonnet Bowl.

Two years ago the Longhorns beat the Cougars in Houston. However, the game was played in Rice Stadium. Finally, Houston had made all the concessions it had to make when it got in the Southwest Conference.

It's 1979. You've got to play the Cougars in the Astrodome, baby.

Texas coach Fred Akers says the game ought to be played in Rice Stadium because it holds more people.

Yeoman says they can move it back to 70,000-seat Rice Stadium the day he's not coaching at Houston.

Texas fans have snapped up 18,500 tickets for the game in the Astrodome, which seats 51,500. Some 5,000 fans will be standing. Another 9,000 Texas fans will be watching back in Austin on closed circuit television.

Yeoman says Texas didn't even get permission for the closed circuit deal and that the Cougars should get half the money. The stadium controversy has added some spark to what already amounts to a towering inferno.

But like Yeoman said once before when the Cougars had to play in Memorial Stadium in Austin, nobody should worry because stadium seats can't tackle.

Unbeaten and fifth-ranked Houston is a one-point pick over the No. 8-ranked Longhorns, who have lost to Arkansas.

Texas Tech is a 10-point favorite over Texas Christian in Lubbock and Southern Methodist is a touchdown choice over Wichita State in other games on the card.

"We will have play our best game of the year to beat Houston," said Akers.

Trojans, Alabama Put Streaks On Line

By The Associated Press

Alabama and Southern California put 17-game streaks on the line in crucial road contests today ... with one slight difference.

Top-ranked Alabama takes the nation's longest winning streak of 17 games into a crucial Southeastern Conference clash under the lights at Louisiana State. Meanwhile, fourth-ranked Southern Cal visits No.15 Washington, with the winner moving into the driver's seat to represent the Pacific-10 Conference in the Rose Bowl.

Southern Cal hasn't been beaten in 17 games, either, but the Trojans made the mistake of getting tied by Stanford last month and that's why they're no longer No.1 in the Associated Press rankings.

One of the major weekends of the college football season is on tap, with four other games pairing members of The AP Top Twenty and bowl scouts looking at all of them. Eighth-ranked Texas visits No. 5 Houston for a key Southwest Conference night game while No. 17 Baylor travels to No. 9 Arkansas for another SWC contest in which the winner will remain alive for the Cotton Bowl.

Meanwhile, No. 14 Purdue entertains No. 10 Michigan, which hopes to remain tied with Ohio State — the third-ranked Buckeyes host Iowa — atop the Big Ten. Purdue is one game back. Finally, a battle of major Southern independents finds No. 19 South Carolina at seventh-ranked Florida State for a night game.

Elsewhere, runner-up Nebraska visits Kansas State, sixth-ranked Oklahoma entertains Kansas, No. 11 Brigham Young is at Long Beach State for a night game, No. 12 Pitt is at West Virginia, No. 13 Notre Dame at Tennessee,Mississipi State at No. 16 Auburn, No. 18 Clemson at North Carolina and Duke at No. 20 Wake Forest.

A victory by Alabama over LSU — and the Crimson Tide has taken eight in a row from the Tigers — would make Bear Bryant the first coach in NCAA history to win 100 games in a decade. The Bear stands 99-16-1 during the 1970s.

LSU's Tiger Stadium will be jumping tonight with more than 76,000 wildcats, plus the school's Bengal Tiger. Alabama, however, has won its last four games there and the Bear & Co. don't figure to be psyched out. In fact, he's more worried about the injury situation.

"About three weeks ago, we were on the verge of being a great team," Bryant says, "but injuries have really created problems. We aren't playing together. We've still got some hurt, but we went back to fundamentals this week in practice to try to get back where we were earlier."

'The Bear' also is 34-5 against folks who either played or coached under him and LSU's Charlie McClendon is one of them. In fact, Cholly Mac is the last pupil to beat the old master, but that was nine years ago and Bryant has won 24 in a row since then.

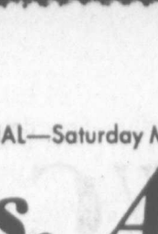

"Coach Bryant talks about all his boys and assistant coaches who have gone on to head jobs," says Mac, who played for the 'Bear' at Kentucky, "but he owns another record — how many has he put in the unemployment line?"

And Mac is one of them. Although the winningest coach in LSU history, he is only 2-13 against Alabama, and that's one big reason why his 18th season in Tigertown also is his last. "Probably so," he says.

Southern Cal also has a rugged road test at Washington — "our ultimate test," Coach John Robinson calls it — and the Trojans are expecting inclement weather as well as a hostile crowd in Seattle.

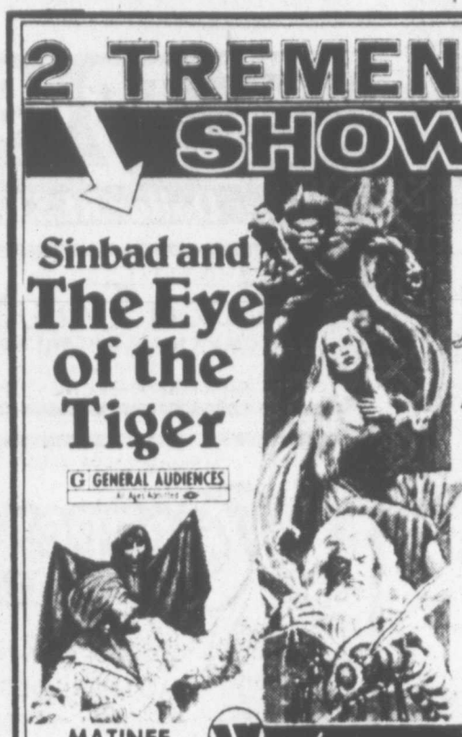

"We've had to be a good road team all year," Robinson notes. "The fact we've already had to go on the road five times and won all five should help us."

If the Trojans win, they'll clinch their 10th Rose Bowl berth in 14 years. If Washington wins, the Huskies probably will have to either beat of tie Washington State in their regular-season finale.

Tech Whites Drop Reds 85-81 In First Scrimmage

With just over nine minutes left in the scrimmage, Texas Tech sophomore Jeff Taylor got loose on a fast break and smashed home a 360-degree reverse dunk and the small crowd gathered at the Municipal Coliseum went crazy.

After all — that's why they had come to the Texas Tech intrasquad scrimmage Friday afternoon at the Coliseum — for a little excitement. But besides giving the crowd something to yell about, Taylor's acrobatics also put the White squad ahead 63-62 and the White team went on to take a 85-81 victory.

But head coach Gerald Myers wasn't overwhelmed by what he saw in the scrimmage.

"We need a lot of work," said Myers, "there's no question about that. We've still got a lot to improve on.

"But we want to peak in January — not now."

Sophomore Larry Washington was the difference between the two teams as he uncorked a deadly shooting eye to power the White team victory.

Washington was 11 of 14 from the field and finished the game with 23 points to lead all scorers. Taylor was right behind him with 22 points for the winners.

Leslie Nichols and Steve Smith led the White team in rebounding with seven karooms apiece.

For the Red team, Ralph Brewster and Ben Hill provided a one-two scoring punch. Brewster finished the game with 22 points, although he was only 10 of 22 from the field, and Hill added 21. Thad Sanders was next with 15 and led all rebounders with nine.

"I don't really think that any one player was just outstanding," said Myers. "But I did see some positive things."

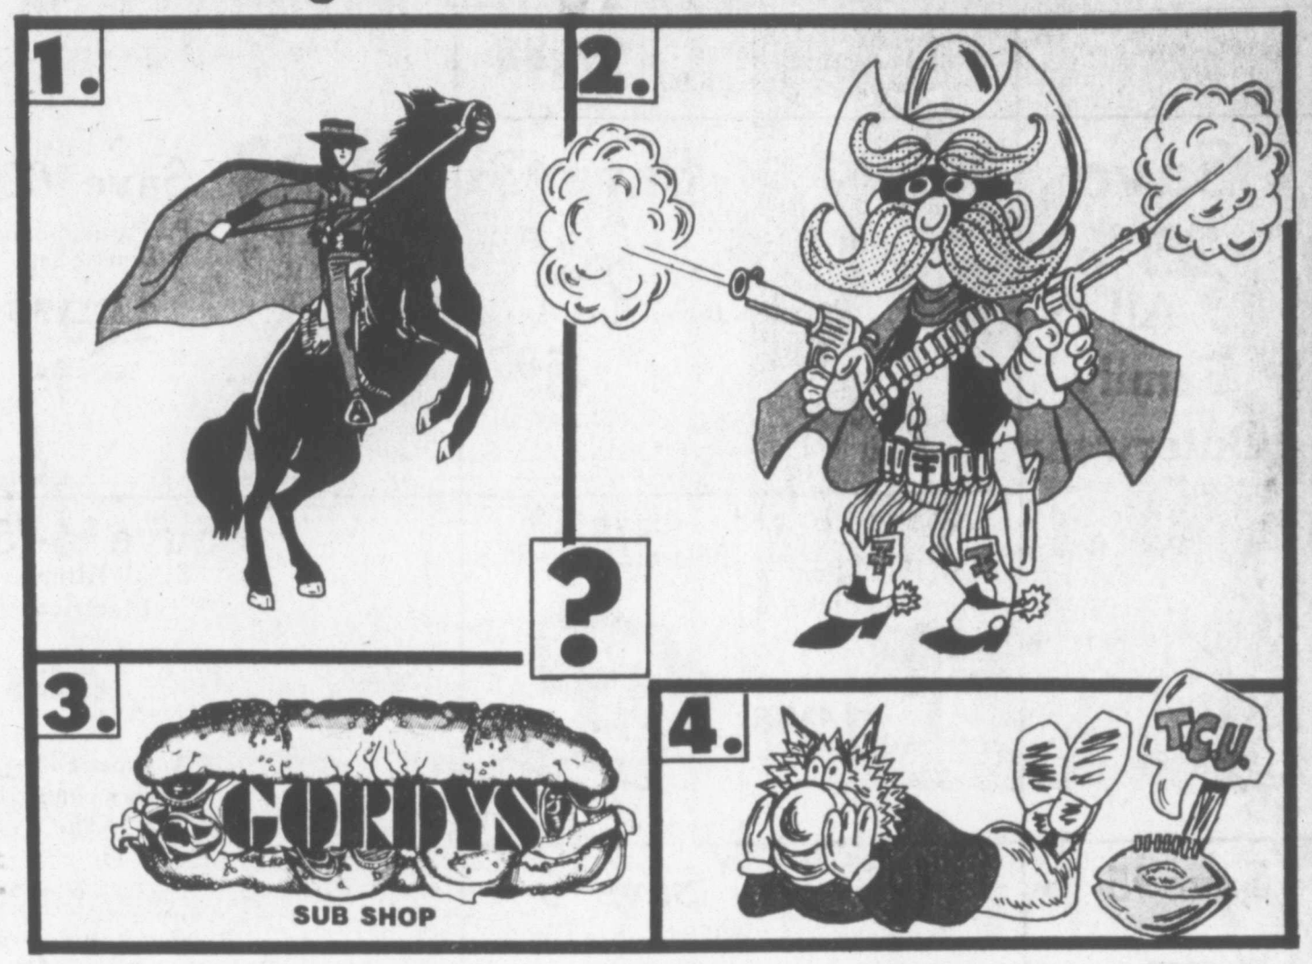

Myers praised the play of Washington, Taylor, Brewster and Nichols.

"I'll tell you a guy that is really improving," said Myers, "and that's Leslie (Nichols). He did some things in the scrimmage that he hasn't been doing before."

The Red team, with veterans Kent Williams, Brewster and Hill, took a 39-32 lead at the half but were overtaken by the younger White squad in the final half.

The Raiders first game of the season is Nov. 15 when Tech hosts the Polish National Team.
