Both Sides Claim Facts In Strike Favor Them

Report Shows Steel Wages Among Highest In Industry

By W. B. DICKERSON JR.
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Industry officials and the United Steelworkers Union both claimed today that the fact finding report of Labor Secretary James Mitchell supported their widely divided positions in the 37 day old steel strike.

The industry said Mitchell's statistics showed high wages, lagging profits and lowering worker productivity.

The Union, contended the report, made public Wednesday night, revealed huge industry earnings and great employee productivity.

Mitchell himself declined to interpret the 18 pages of charts and figures. He proposed that both sides knuckle down to hard bargaining and settle the strike "promptly."

Unless the steel strike is settled by "the latter part of September or the early part of October, very serious shortages of steel may be apparent," he added.

This statement was viewed as an indication the government probably would wait at least another month before Eisenhower considered invoking the emergency provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act. This section permits an injunction to end a strike for 80 days if the President finds the stoppage is a threat to the national health and safety.

In New York Federal Mediator Joseph F. Finnegan arranged to meet privately today with the two top negotiators in the steel strike but said the outlook still was "gloomy."

It was reported from Unity House, Pa., where the AFL-CIO Executive Council is meeting, that the council is considering a plan to raise cash contributions from nearly every union member in the country to aid the steel strikers.

Cooper Cites Wages

R. Conrad Cooper, chief industry negotiator at the stalemated talks in New York City, said the report showed that steelworkers were at the top of the list in wages and that "increases in employment costs have been far in excess of increases in output per man hour, thereby forcing up steel prices."

David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers Union, had a differing view.

Mitchell's booklet of statistics provided this key information:

Wage: The average hourly earnings of steel workers are "higher than those in most other industries." In May the average was $3.10, compared with $2.23 in manufacturing as a whole and $2.68 in the auto industry. On a yearly basis, steelworkers averaged $5,350 in 1957, but this fell to $4,840 in the recession year of 1958.

Profits: Steel profits after taxes as measured by the rate of return on net worth averaged 16.1 per cent for the first half of this year, compared with 14.1 per cent of the composite of the nation's 25 largest industrial firms.

But the amount of profits which must be used for capital investment is about 25 per cent higher

VISITS STRIKERS

David J. McDonald, president of the United Steel Workers, visits striking workers near Pittsburgh. McDonald and other union leaders contend that Labor Secretary Mitchell's fact-finding report on the steel strike, released Wednesday, upholds the union position. Industry leaders, however, believe the facts show the industry is in the right. Mitchell hoped by releasing these facts to shorten the costly strike.

Labor Reform Could Shatter Capitol Calm

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senate-House conferees today approached the controversial issues which could shatter their two days of harmony in compromise labor reform legislation.

Several conferees reported there was a good chance the 14-man committee would plunge into the big controversial issues this afternoon.

So far the conferees have voted general agreement on relatively non-controversial matters in their quest for labor reform legislation that will satisfy both Congress and President Eisenhower.

Accord was reached Wednesday on provisions for reporting by union officials and employers, union trusteeships, and election of union officers. There was no great difference between the House and Senate versions on these provisions.

The section to be acted upon when the conferees reconvened at mid-morning involved bonding and other safeguards against improprieties by union officials.

With this out of the way the committee will move on to the explosive final two sections of the bill. These deal with organizational picketing, secondary boycotts and assignment of jurisdiction in labor disputes to state courts or agencies.

It is in these areas that the House Landrum - Griffin Bill is tougher than the Senate Kennedy-Ervin measure. The Senate measure is regarded as somewhat sterner in many provisions of the first five sections.

Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.), advocate of the House bill's organizational picketing and secondary boycott sections, said that if there is no agreement in sight by Friday or Monday on the disputed sections he would expect Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) to tell the Senate so.

State Tax System Hit By CC Speaker

By WALLACE TRUESDELL
Daily News Staff Writer

"Texans have the responsibility of building a tax system to provide the flexibility needed for the continued growth of the state."

Fred Husbands, executive vice president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, made this statement to a group of 50 WTCC directors and Pampa Chamber members at a luncheon Wednesday.

Husbands, who knows his way around Austin and Washington, D.C., told Chamber men that as citizens they are responsible for the actions of their elected representatives.

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce, which is 41 years old, is working for the "fullest development of the economy of West Texas." What happens in Austin will determine what happens in Pampa, since tax measures adopted by the State Legislature will create an atmosphere favorable or unfavorable to the growth of industry.

"We have to consider what kind of tax system we need to grow and to maintain a climate attractive to the investment of capital by industry," he said.

The last tax bill was passed "with the avowed purpose of being paid for by residents of other states." It puts special taxes on companies doing business in Texas for consumption outside the state. This tends to discourage industrialists who have been looking at Texas as a site for branch plants.

Texas does not have a corporate income tax. Yet corporations operating in Texas pay more taxes than they would in other states.

Turning to national affairs, Husbands said that all but one Texas Congressman voted for passage of the Landrum-Griffin labor reform bill. He hopes that persons will urge their senators to take similar action.

IN EARTHQUAKE

Officials Fear Toll Will Rise

WEST YELLOWSTONE, Mont. (UPI) — Authorities expressed fears today that occupants of an estimated 30 cars and trailers may be buried under mammoth earthquake - triggered slides near Yellowstone National Park.

Rescue workers dug wheels and pieces of bent metal out of debris in Madison Canyon where an 8,000-foot high mountain collapsed, sending 50 million tons of earth plunging into a campsite below.

Campers in nearby areas said the site was filled to capacity Monday night when the powerful earthquake shook the entire Pacific Northwest. Capacity at the camp was approximately 30 persons.

"There might be 100 people under that slide — or there might be only a few," said Madison County Sheriff V. H. Brown. "Probably we'll never know."

Skin divers were scheduled to enter an earthquake-formed lake with acetylene torches. While searching for bodies Wednesday, they saw a metal house trailer, its doors locked, in the murky water.

They will also check a report that a car carrying a man, a woman and a crippled child was swept downstream. They were un-

ACID THROWN AT LEADER IN LABOR REFORM FIGHT

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An FBI laboratory check showed today that sulfuric acid was used in an attack on Rep. Frank Thompson (D-N.J.).

Thompson was squirted with the acid from a passing truck while driving to work Tuesday. No arrests have been made and police were at a loss today to explain the incident.

Thompson said a passenger in the truck shot the fluid at him from a syringe. A drop or so struck his arm and some landed on the side of his automobile. At the request of police, the FBI late Wednesday ran a laboratory check on the congressman's shirt and scraping from the car.

Thompson threw his arm up to protect his face. He noted later that the fluid had burned a hole in his shirt and left red marks on his arm.

The test showed the liquid was sulfuric acid of about the concentration used in auto batteries, according to Lt. J. Y. Chennault of the Washington police.

Thompson was a key figure in the House fight over labor reform legislation. He said he had received several threatening telephone calls in recent weeks in connection with the legislation.

But Thompson doubted that the attack had any connection with his role as an architect of the Democratic - sponsored "moderate" labor reform bill. He shrugged off the incident as the work of a "crank."

shrugged off the incident as the work of a "crank."

Later his office raised the possibility it might have stemmed from a traffic mixup. An aide said one of the possibilities mentioned was that Thompson might have cut in front of the truck and antagonized the driver earlier.

The spokesman said Thompson was not aware that he actually did this, but it was a possibility.

Myatt Says Local Taxes Well Spent

"The taxpayer gets more for his dollar at the local level than at any other level," Mayor E. A. Myatt said at the weekly meeting of the Pampa Rotary Club Wednesday.

Mayor Myatt has made a similar speech at the Optimist and Kiwanis Clubs.

He would like to make a report on local affairs at least twice a year, he said.

In regard to the City's indebtedness, he noted that property valuations were raised a year ago. The main reason for this was that the City had reached the limit of the money it can borrow. The limit is ten per cent.

The Pampa Club was host to three visiting Rotarians and two non-Rotarians. The Rotarians were L. E. Solomon of Shawnee, Okla., Mills Roberts of Memphis and Ed Morris of Amarillo. Newt Secrest of Pampa and Joe McGuire of Wichita, Kan., were the other guests.

Capsule Recovery To Be Attempted

VANDENBERG AFB, Calif. — The Air Force will attempt today to recover a capsule from an earth-circling artificial satellite.

The latest attempt to return a 400-pound capsule from a satellite whirling several hundred miles above earth was set for around 6:25 p.m. e.d.t. today.

Success would prove out the basic technique developed to bring life-carrying satellites back to earth.

The 1,700-pound satellite carried no life, but success in today's hoped-for recovery probably would mark the scheduling soon of sending a monkey aloft in a recoverable capsule.

Following Wednesday's successful orbiting of the second Discoverer satellite in less than a week, Maj. Gen. O. J. Ritland, commander of the Air Force Ballistic Division, and Herschel J. Brown, vice president of Lockheed Missile and Space Division, declared in a joint statement:

"Through the information and experience gained in the Discoverer series, the Advanced Research Projects Agency, the Air Force and Lockheed rapidly are preparing the way for launching of the first man in space."

Recovery area for Discoverer VI's package was a 200 by 50-mile section in the Pacific Ocean south of the Hawaiian Islands.

Success depended on split-second timing.

The capsule will be traveling 300 miles a minute when it is ejected from the satellite and will cover a distance of about 5,000 to 6,000 miles before it comes parachuting down to earth in the selected area.

Charges Filed In Collision

Eugene Snodgrass, 1824 N. Banks, this morning entered a plea of not guilty to charges of aggravated assault arising out of a violent two-car collision last March on the Lefors highway.

Snodgrass and two other men, R. E. Kirkpatrick, 1037 S. Clark, and Tom King of Shamrock, were seriously injured in the collision. Snodgrass had recently been released from Worley Hospital.

Two damage suits have been filed to date in connection with the collision. King has instituted a suit against Snodgrass, and in District Court Wednesday, Kirkpatrick filed a $10,000 suit against King.

Snodgrass and King were the drivers of cars in a crash which occurred March 21 during a snow and wind storm nine miles southeast off Pampa. Kirkpatrick was a passenger in the Snodgrass car.

AFL-CIO May Contribute To Steel Strikers

UNITY HOUSE, Pa. (UPI) — The AFL-CIO Executive Council today considered a plan to seek cash contributions from nearly every member in the United States to aid 500,000 striking steelworkers.

The 29-man council was expected to approve unprecedented support for the five-week-old walkout to dramatize labor's charges that all unions are endangered if the steel industry successfully resists wage demands.

Under one proposal being studied at the big council's summer session, each of the 12,500,000 workers in federation affiliates would be asked to give a penny a day to back the strike. If they all contributed, it would amount to almost four million dollars a month.

The International Union of Electrical Workers (IUE) Wednesday donated $100,000 to support the steel walkout. In doing so, IUE President James B. Carey said it was a strike "against all union-busting employers in all industrys who are seeking to wreck the hard-won gains of the workers. We feel the entire labor movement is under attack."

Meantime, a Sept. 1 strike was threatened in the meatpacking plants across the nation. Union officials accused management of following the pattern set up by major steel producers in propos-

"COME AND GET ME"

Three young bobcats caused some excitement this morning southeast of Pampa when they were treed by nothing less than a Siamese cat near the Earl Casey residence. Shortly after this photo was snapped the three cats were captured by rope and penned.

CATS BARK UP WRONG TREE; ARE CAPTURED BY PAMPANS

Three young bobcats, treed near Casey's Boat Shop southeast of Pampa this morning, lounged in the limbs of two trees while a gathering of neighbors planned their capture.

The cats, estimated at about three months old, yawned and sunned themselves while the men gathered together ropes, a cage, a ladder, burlap sacks and a fishing net.

At about 9 a.m., three hours after the cats had been treed, D. M. "Denver" Moose, 225 Miami St., ascended after the first of the cats, high in the limbs of a young cottonwood.

A noose was lowered over the unconcerned bobcat's head and then the battle began. The cat, clawing at air and hissing, scrambled out on the limbs with a noose about it's neck.

Two men gathered the lionish cat into a burlap sack and gently pushed him into a cage. The next two bobcats, after short battles, joined the first cat.

The three cats had been treed about 6 a.m. by nothing less than a brave Siamese cat. E. C. (Earl) Casey, operator of Casey's Boat Shop, heard the racket and discovered the cats nestled in two nearby trees, with the Siamese on a lower limb.

Casey said the Siamese "dared the bobcats to come and get him."

Casey said he wasn't sure what he would do with the animals. He said a neighbor wanted one and he imagined some other local people might want the other two.

Car Falls on Boy; Injuries Unknown

Sebern Groves, 14, of Amarillo, suffered undetermined injuries to his left leg this morning when a car slid off a jack and fell on Groves' leg.

Police said the mishap occurred at 10:15 a.m. in front of the boy's grandparent's home at 305 Jean. Groves was taken by ambulance to Highland General Hospital.

in the steel industry than in manufacturing as a whole, the booklet said. It also noted that net profits as a rate of return on stockholders' equity have been lower in the steel industry than in all manufacturing during most of the post-war years.

Prices: Prices of basic steel products are at peak levels. During the first half of this year, they averaged 138 per cent above 1940. They have climbed in every year since World War II, including periods of economic recession. They have risen faster and higher than wholesale prices in general and "much more" than retail prices.

Productivity: The amount of steel produced per man-hour has risen as the result of improved worker performance, more and better equipment, improved management, etc. Output per wage employee man-hour increased by about 74 per cent from 1940 to June, 1959. During 1947-57 this output measurement increased by an average of 3 per cent a year, compared with 3.7 per cent for the economy as a whole.

Couple To Be Returned To Amarillo

SHREVEPORT, La. (UPI) — Shreveport police said today they will return Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gene Thomas to Amarillo for trial. The couple is accused of bilking banks in a cross-country swindling spree.

Officers said the pair admitted using the old swindling game of "check kiting" to take 66 banks across the nation of "thousands and thousands of dollars."

Both Thomas and his wife, Mary Louise, are 33 years old. Both are from Arlington, Va.

Although the couple said they started their crime spree more than a year ago, they moved into Amarillo only last week. Still, that was enough time to make a profit of more than $2,500 from five banks before they left and went to Shreveport.

The began setting up operations here, but an alert bank clerk investigated a check drawn on a Memphis, Tenn., bank and discovered it was hot. The bank informed the Shreveport police and arrests followed.

Batista Now In Portugal

LISBON, Portugal (UPI) — Former Cuban dictator Fulgencio Batista arrived here today by chartered plane from the Dominican Republic for a new home-in-exile. He was promptly whisked away by police.

He left Ciudad Trujillo Wednesday night and his plane landed here this morning after a trans-Atlantic flight that put an additional 3,000 miles between him and Cuban Premier Fidel Castro, who overthrew his regime last Jan. 1.

No one was allowed within hailing distance of Batista's plane when it landed at the far end of the airport. Newsmen, photographers and television men were held off by police.

Video Theatres Sued For $2,355

Ruth Gilliland of Pampa, owner of the LaNora Theatre building and lot, this morning filed suit to collect $2,355 from Video Independent Theatres Inc.

Mrs. Gilliland in her suit claimed Video Theatres owed her that amount as reimbursement on insurance premiums the past five years. The LaNora last spring was completely destroyed in an early morning fire.

The suit showed that the LaNora had been leased by Mrs. Gilliland for 20 years at the rate of $900 per month. Seventy-five percent of the building had been covered by insurance, and the building was valued at $106,667.

Planning Stepped Up For First CD Underground Center

DENTON (UPI) — Planning for the nation's first civil defense underground center designed to operate under atomic attack conditions gained momentum today on the heels of Congressional approval.

Office of Civil Defense Mobilization Region Five director Welcome Williams said Wednesday he received word from Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson that both the House and Senate in Washington approved the construction.

It will take about two years to complete the center on one of five proposed sites. Each site is within a five mile radius of this North Central Texas town — a community founded on collegiate and agricultural economy only about 30 miles from the vast Fort Worth-Dallas industrial complex.

The selected site will be donated to OCDM by the Denton Chamber of Commerce.

In case of atomic attack or other national emergency, Wilson said, the center would house federal government offices from a five-state area—Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana and New Mexico.

Wilson said the three-level underground structure will house the offices and 500 personnel for at least 30 days. Equipment, food and other provisions will be placed in the center as soon as it is completed.

The director hailed the $2,400,000 appropriation as a major victory for the OCDM and for Senator Johnson even though it was cut from its original $2,700,000 as requested by President Eisenhower.

Eisenhower's ultimate hope is for underground centers in each of the five regional areas, but his requests for other installations will hinge on what is learned at Denton, Wilson said.

Wilson said the President will certainly sign the measure as passed by both legislative chambers since he originally requested funds for construction of the center.

Negroes Bid For Political Power In Tennessee Election

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — A record 100,000 or more voters were expected to go to the polls today in the Memphis city election highlighted by a bid of Negroes to be the first of their race since Reconstruction to win office.

There are five Negroes among the 42 candidates for 14 offices. There are 187,541 registered voters, including 57,109 Negroes.

Officials say Negroes have a good chance to put one of their own in office if the white vote is split. Only a plurality is necessary to win. Some 100,000 voters are expected to turn out, a record for a local election.

Russell Sugarmon Jr. was the Negro given the best chance of victory. Sugarmon faces four white men in the public works commissioner race. A fifth white candidate quit the race to cut down Sugarmon's chances of election.

Negroes are believed to have last held elected office as late as 1888 at the end of Reconstruction.

City officials and both Memphis newspapers had urged the white public works candidates to "thin your ranks" and thus avert the possibility of a "minority candidate" winning.

The drive led city engineer Will Fowler to quit the race "for the good of my city." He was the only one of the original five white candidates to withdraw. However, his withdrawal came too late to remove his name from the ballot.

In the race for juvenile court judge, the Rev. B. L. Hooks had three white opponents, including the incumbent, Elizabeth McCain.

Other Negroes qualified in the city school board and tax assessor races.

The white-Negro contests overshadowed the all-white mayor's race, where outgoing Public Works Commissioner Henry Loeb was heavily favored to win. Incumbent Mayor Edmund Orgill dropped his bid for re-election because of ill heath.

Negroes held all-night prayer sessions Wednesday night. Negro ministers told them it would be "nothing short of criminal if you failed to vote in this city where you can do so without any fear or threat of intimidation."

Youngsters need well-planned, nutritious meals for mental and physical alertness. For a lunch high in nutrition and flavor, treat your scholars to a Junior High Jim Dandy.

Fall's Number One Lunchbox Idea Is Junior High School Jim Dandy

Can you pass the lunchbox nutrition-flavor test?

If your youngsters have reached the junior high level, you might say that you've run out of new and nutritious food ideas for lunch.

Packing lunches can be a happy experience though, when the process becomes a test of ingenuity. It can be fun, or a complete bore. It all depends on the approach. To get a head start and make it fun for both you and the youngsters, pack this Junior High Jim Dandy suggestion away in your recipe plans for fall lunchbo surprises.

Picture fresh slices of buttered rye bread, chock full of a delicious energy building filling and you have Junior High Jim Dandy. The filling is a "stick-to-the-ribs" combination of chopped hard cooked eggs, shredded cabbage, Swiss cheese strips and chopped ripe olives, well blended with one third cup of dairy sour cream and a measure of salt.

For "quicker" preparation, cook the eggs ahead to allow time for cooling and easier chopping. Cut the Swiss cheese strips and chop the olives, wrapping in waxed paper or aluminum foil until ready to use.

For additional flavor and variety, add tasty tidbits on wooden picks. Combine a Cheddar cheese cube with a pickle coin and olive. OR make a miniature fruit kebob by centering a Cheddar cheese stuffed prune on a "pick" and framing with candied cherries. Easy and delicious eating.

Then add a pint of cold milk and freshly baked brownie chews to complete this luscious lunch. Who knows? Maybe this Jim Dandy lunchbox will be instrumental in getting that straight "A" report card.

JUNIOR HIGH JIM DANDY

4 eggs, hard cooked
½ cup shredded cabbage
½ cup Swiss cheese strips
2 tablespoons chopped ripe olives
1-3 cup dairy sour cream
1 teaspoon salt
8 slices rye or oatmeal bread, buttered

Chop eggs and combine with cabbage, Swiss cheese, olives, dairy sour cream and salt. Divide into 4 parts and spread on 4 slices of buttered bread. Top with other 4 slices.

Bran And Rice Cereals Taste Treat In Baking

Try these two good what cereals in preparing the quick yeast rolls, Easy Buns, and tempting bar cookies, Chewy Coconut Squares.

EASY BUNS

1 cake compressed yeast, or
1 package dry granular yeast
¾ cup lukewarm water
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 egg
¼ cup butter or margarine, melted
2 cups sifted flour
1 cup whole bran cereal

Soften yeast in lukewarm water in mixing bowl. Let stand 5 minutes. Add sugar, salt, egg, butter, ½ cup of the flour and whole bran cereal; beat until well blended. Add remaining flour gradually, mixing well after each addition. Fill greased muffin pans ½ full. Cover and let rise in warm place (80 - 85 degrees F.) until double in bulk, about 1 to 1 ½ hours. Brush tops with melted butter; serve immediately.

Yield: about 15 buns, 2 ½ inches in diameter.

Variation: EAST CHEESE BUNS

Decrease butter to 2 tableapoons; add 2-3 cup grated processed cheese with sugar.

CHEWY COCONUT SQUARES

1 cup sifted cake flour
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons butter
½ cup sugar
¼ cup molasses
¼ teaspoon vanilla flavoring
2 egg whites
1 cup flaked coconut
1 cup bran flakes

Sift together flour, soda and salt. Melt butter in saucepan. Remove from heat, and add sugar, molasses and vanilla; blend well. Add unbeaten egg whites, stirring only until combined. Add flour mixture and mix well. Fold in coconut and bran flakes. Pour into waxed paper lined and greased 8 x 8-inch pan. Cake in moderate oven (350 degree F.) 30 minutes. Remove from pan. Cool. Cut in squares.

Yield: 16 squares, 2 x 2 inches.

The cereal that's no tempting at breakfast also has many uses in cooking, from cookies and other desserts to favorite entrees.

FESTIVAL COOKIES

2 cups sifted flour
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup soft butter or margarine
1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1 cup granulated sugar
2 eggs, well-beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla flavoring
1 cup oven-toasted rice cereal

Sift together flour, baking soda and salt. Blend butter and sugars thoroughly. Add eggs and vanilla; mix well. Stir in sifted dry ingredients together with oven-toasted rice cereal. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto greased baking sheets. Bake in moderate oven (350 degree F.) about 8 minutes.

Yield: 6 ½ dozen cookies, 2¾ inches in diameter

OVEN-FRIED CHICKEN, PAPRIKA

1 2-2½ pound frying chicken, cut up
¼ cups oven-toasted rice cereal
2 eggs
1½ teaspoons salt
3 teaspoon paprika
½ teaspoon onion salt
2 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ cup flour
¼ cup butter or margarine, melted

Wash chicken pieces and dry thoroughly. Crush oven - toasted rice cereal into medium - fine crumbs. Beat eggs with salt, paprika, onion salt and lemon juice. Roll chicken pieces in flour, dip in egg mixture; roll in oven-toasted rice cereal crumbs. Pour melted butter into 13 x 9-inch pan. Place chicken skin side down in butter; do not crowd pieces. Bake in moderate oven (250 degree F.) about 45 minutes or until tender, turning once.

Yield: 4-5 servings.

Salmon Loaf Has Zesty Flavor

If your meals have had that "tired feeling" lately they may lack imagination in seasoning. The use of packaged prepared herb-seasoned stuffing can add a tang to many a hot weather dish and buoy up those jaded summer appetities.

This salmon loaf made with prepared stuffing is a well-balanced and appealing dish for the "dog days" ahead. It can be made ahead of time and served either hot or cold.

SALMON LOAF

1 1-lb. can salmon (or 2 cups canned shrimp, crabmeat, tuna; or any flaked cooked white fish)
1 package prepared herb-seasoned stuffing
1 cup milk
½ cup salmon liquor
4 tablespoons butter, melted
2 eggs, well beaten
2 tablespoons minced parsley
1 tablespoon minced onion
1 tablespoon minced green pepper

Drain salmon, saving liquor. Flake the fish, discarding bones and skin. In large bowl, combine fish and all other ingredients. If you haven't ½ cup fish liquor, add milk to make up ½ cup. Blend mixture; pack onto greased loaf pan. Bake in moderately hot oven (375 degree F.) 30-40 minutes, or until firm in center. Serve with white sauce, to which you have added two or three sliced hard-cooked eggs.

Delicious Menu "For A Song"

Ham is such a particularly good buy right now, you're probably featuring it in menus regularly. This spicy skillet dish with canned cherries, ham and rice costs a song, and your praises will be sung when you serve it.

SPICY CHERRY HAM 'N RICE

3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 cup diced cooked celery
1 can (1 pound) red tart pitted cherries (water pack)
Water
2 bouillon cubes
¼ teaspoon salt
1-16 teaspoon ground cloves
1 cup uncooked rice
2 cups diced cooked ham

Melt butter in skillet. Add celery and cook until tender. Drain cherries; add enough water to cherry liquid to make 2¼ cups. Add to celery with bouillon cubes, salt and ground cloves. Bring to a boil. Add rice slowly. Cover; reduce and simmer 20 to 25 minutes. Add cherries and ham last 10 minutes cooking time.

YIELD: 4 servings.

French Fries With Pizza Sauce Twin Delights For Teen Party

If there's anything more popular eating with teen-agers than pizza, it's crisp, hot French fried potatoes. So if you're planning to feed a young crowd — at a back-to-school gathering, or for a party after a big game — give 'em their two favorites in individual bowls of quickly heated frozen French fries served with hot pizza sauce.

Snackers of all ages will go for this easy combination, and you can fix it in minutes with convenient frozen French fries and new canned pizza sauce. Just crisp the pale golden strips of perfectly cooked frozen potatoes as they come from the package, in a small amount of hot oil or shortening in a skillet. Salt them well and turn til they're an even golden brown all over.

The pizza sauce will heat as the French fries crisp. Add a variety of favorite cola beverages and soft drinks, well chilled, and you're all ready to serve. Even a junior hostess can call "Come and get it" inside ten minutes.

Arrange the French fries in individual bowls and spoon the hot pizza sauce over them. Pass grated cheese, if you wish, and an extra bowl of French fried so guests can mop up every drop of spicy sauce.

You can turn these favorite snack foods into a well-rounded supper, too. Add a huge bowl of mixed green salad, or a vegetable relish tray of celery, carrot sticks, radishes and pickles. For dessert, chocolate brownies come all iced and ready to serve. Pistachio ice cream or lemon sherbet makes a cool accompaniment after the hot pizza sauce.

FRENCH FRIES AND PIZZA SAUCE

1 1 pound package frozen French fries
2-3 tablespoons cooking fat or oil
Salt as desired
2 303 cans pizza sauce, heated

Crisp unthawed frozen French fries in hot fat over moderate heat, turning potatoes carefully to brown them evenly. Drain, and salt well. Arrange in bowls, and fill centers with hot pizza sauce. Yield, 4 servings.

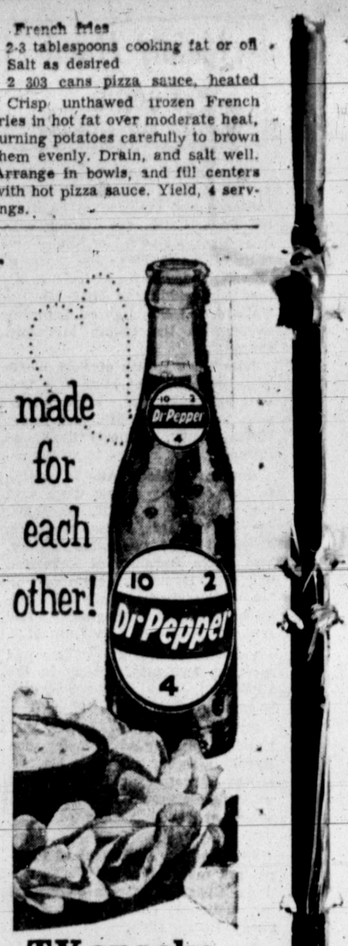

Gum A Handy Treat

Want your carefully planned picnic to be appreciated more? Simply remember to have a supply of chewing gum handy. Pass some out in the car on your way to the picnic spot. Everyone will begin to ease up and get in a carefree holiday mood, ready for fun.

Chewing gum will keep the children contented during the long ride and during their romping before the food is ready. It will satisfy and refresh the whole family until mealtime. Enjoying this favorite fun time treat keeps the family from filling up on snacks and spoiling their appetites before mealtime.

After the meal, chewing gum will help everyone feel more comfortable and relaxed, while it cleans the teeth. This helpful treat also keeps the mouth cool and moist during picnic games, yet leaves the hands completely free for action. So, remember to let your recipe for picnic fun include chewing gum. Just put a supply of chewing gum on your picnic shopping list and win extra thanks for being a smart picnic planner.

THE COST AIN'T HAY—Pickets at a Newport, Ky., steel plant arrive on horseback for a sit-down tour of duty. Cost of the nation's steel strike is, however, far from "hay." It is estimated that strikers and industry are losing a total of some 29 million dollars each day.

Reds Don't Like Iraq's No. Two Man

By DAVID DUGAS
United Press International

BEIRUT (UPI) — An affable, hard-working general named Ahmad Saleh Al-Abdi, reviled in a recent Communist press attack as "big-bellied and empty-headed," is emerging as the number two man in the one-man government of Iraqi Premier Abdul Karim Kassem.

Whether Abdi would take control in the event of Kassem's death, Western observers in Baghdad are not yet ready to guess. But it is apparent that he is the strongest man in the army—and Iraq, despite a predominantly civilian cabinet is a military state.

Politically, Abdi is an unkown quantity. His only apparent creed is his obviously staunch support of Kassem.

Has Held Two Jobs

So far as outsiders know, the 46-year-old general played no active role in the coup that destroyed Iraq's monarchy and brought Kassem to power last summer. On the day of the revolt however, Kassem named Abdi army chief of staff and military governor general. He has kept both jobs despite the heavy load and internal strains that have knocked out many another post-revolutionary official.

On the revolution's first anniversary July 14, Kassem raised Abdi to his own rank of major general. Since then, Abdi has appeared increasingly as a public figure where previously he was seldom seen or heard.

Following the recent, bloody events in Iraq's oil capital of Kirkuk, it was Abdi who appealed to fleeing residents to "return home in security." The following day, as military governor general he warned of "severe penalties" against anyone caught carrying arms of any description.

Pearson Talks Two Hours; Nobody Calls Him A Liar

The Lighter Side
By FRANK ELEAZER
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Drew Pearson testified for two hours before a House Armed Services subcommittee, and nobody even called him a liar.

As far as I could tell, the initials "S.O.B." never were used, why, they didn't even call Drew by his first name. It was "Mr. Pearson" throughout.

The subcommittee is investigating why so many defense contractors hire so many retired military officers. It also has expressed interest in parties and week ends in the Bahamas where big contracts might or might not be discussed.

Pearson and his partner, Jack Anderson, have written a book called "U.S.A — second class power?" which includes some chapters on just those ticklish questions. So Chairman F. Edward Hebert (D-La.) had called them to tell what they knew.

Called Liar By Many

Pearson has been called a liar by so many congressmen he can't remember the number. He's been called liar, and worse, also by presidents, and by cabinet members and others in assorted high places.

Some of these protests of course have come shortly before the accused was sent to the showers, or even to jail.

Rep. Clare E. Hoffman (R-Mich.) likes to say he got Drew once to admit under oath that he was a liar. I think what Pearson actually said was, he was wrong.

Anyway, this enables Clare now to say, "I just don't know now what to believe. If a fellow says under oath he's a liar, where does that leave you?"

Norrell Well, Walking

I guess Pearson muffed another one just this week. He said in Sunday's paper that Rep. W. F. Norrell (D-Ark.) was ailing and in a wheel chair and maybe marked for early retirement. But Norrell turned up afoot at a hearing Monday and announced he'd never been in a wheel chair in his life.

"Pearson is a complete liar," he said.

This stacked up as one of the milder ways in which this sentiment has been put through the years. But there was nothing like it at Monday's hearing. Hebert, it is true, did make Pearson and Anderson start out by swearing to tell only the truth. But then the subcommittee swears all its witnesses.

Hebert said the subcommittee had seen the witnesses' book, and had read some of their columns, and had invited them up for whatever help they could give. They had "graciously accepted," he said.

Several newspapermen in the room, including maybe Pearson and Anderson, squirmed a little at Hebert's next remark. He assured Drew and Jack, "you can take the newspaperman's fifth amendment as much as you like."

Thanks Witnesses

It turned out this was kind of a joke. All he meant was he wouldn't press the witnesses to reveal their sources where they felt obligated to shield them.

Well, the upshot of the testimony was just about what the subcommittee expected. The columnists said too much influence is used in getting defense contracts. They cited some cases. They named some names. They commended the subcommittee for trying to do something about it.

Nobody ever gave them a hard time. Rep. William E. Hess (R-Ohio) came closest to it, I guess. He said once it was his understanding what Pearson was saying was wrong. Pearson said politely he was pretty sure it was right.

I suspect Pearson and Anderson went away a little disappointed. I know I did.

IT'S THE LAW in Texas
A public service feature of the State Bar of Texas

Specific Performance

What can you do if someone doesn't keep the terms of a contract with you?

You might (1) get money damages for your losses, (2) get back what you gave him as your part of the contract, or (3) get a court to order "specific performance" on his promise, on pain of contempt of court penalties such as fines or even jail sentences.

As a rule, a court prefers money damages for a broken contract, since it is definite and often more easily enforced. But in some cases money won't do: For example, since no two pieces of land are alike, you could not take the money given to you in a contract to buy another piece of property "just as good".

And so courts, as a rule, enforce contracts to buy land by specific performance. They make the seller hand over the precise piece of property. Likewise you may get specific performance on contracts to buy or sell unique art goods like a painting of a great master of which there are no two alike.

You can seldom if ever get specific performance on personal service contrats which call for personal or confidential relationships, or special knowledge, good judgment, or skill. Their enforcement would be too hard for the court to supervise. But instead you may collect money damages; or perhaps in the first place you could provide in the contract for forfeiture of money for failure to perform.

No one can enforce specifically as agreement to get a third party's consent. Captain Miles Standish could not make John Alden get Priscilla's consent to marry him.

Or suppose a man and wife own property together and the husband alone wishes to sell. No court will make the wife sell her half against her will.

Before a court orders specific performance it looks as carefully int the "equities". Was the "injured party's" contract fair and free from fraud? Did he take unfair advantage of the other party? Or wait too long to claim his rights? Could he have carried out his part of the contract?

(This column, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform — not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

What Forms A Man?

By what manner do men become what they are?

This question has never received all the attention that it should. But there are three notable schools of thought in the area which are up for consideration and testing. A brief discussion of all three of these concepts may be of help.

First, we find the school of heredity. This body of thinking contends that man is what he is by virtue of inherited tendencies. Ancestry, race, mores and custom are here elevated to the most powerful determinants of the nature of man.

It is claimed by persons who attack themselves to this school, that a person is what he is because of the strange and invisible influences which play upon him thru the genes. These subtle factors, it is argued, are the final arbiter in the conditioning and the development of man as he is.

To improve man, according to the ideas contained within this body of thought, one must begin by systematic breeding of the race. And perhaps the most forceful argument that can be marshalled here is the fact that man has learned by being selective with his livestock how to improve the blood lines of his horses, cows, sheep and pigs.

The second school of thought, and one which has an enormous number of converts, consists of the psychological school, including behaviorists and environmentalists who insist that man is so totally influenced by his surroundings that heredity plays only an insignificant part in the final product, if it plays any part at all.

Man is seen here to be the product of his environment. And environment is defined as all things with which the person comes into contact, including the persons he knows and with whom he exchanges ideas, the books that he reads, the home that he lives in, and so on.

The suggestion is made that man is the sum total of the influences in which he finds himself; somewhat a passive instrument, absorbing his surroundings something like a sponge, and unable to do much about it.

To improve man, it is argued here, one must begin by improving his environment, the books, the teachers, the ideas, the physical surroundings with which he is in contact.

There are doubtless as many variations between these two extremes as there are savants competent to discourse on the subject. But there is, additionally, one further school of thought, not so large in numbers, but important because of its pioneering insistence upon still another point of view.

This final school of thought is the individualistic school. Here, the posit is made that man is the controller of his own energies. That heredity or environment to the contrary notwithstanding, the individual, and no one else, decides what the individual will become.

Heredity, it is acknowledged, may play some part. So, also, will environment. But the individual, being the master of his own energies, is the single determining factor as to what tendencies which lie within him will be emphasized, which deemphasized or discarded.

Additionally respecting environment, whereas there is an unquestioned influence that may exist from this source, the extent or absoluteness of that influence remains in the control of the individual.

In short, this body of thought contends that man is more than annual and more than environment. While acknowledging the influences from either or these two sources as being in existence, it still claimed that a person can transcend either his heredity or his environment.

And the strongest argument is the positive record that in literally hundreds of cases, individuals have done just that. Persons have repeatedly demonstrated in individual instances that they need not mirror their ancestors, nor simply outpicture their surroundings.

History, indeed, tends to prove that man can triumph over inherited tendencies, and also that he can change his environment at will.

Thus, it is claimed that to improve man, man must first wish to aspire to self - improvement. When the individual discovers that he is more than something that reacts to stimuli, that he can, in fact, create stimuli, something more in accord with more of the facts of life is discernible than the conclusions of either of the other schools of thought.

We are committeed to this individualistic camp. We believe that man can make of himself what he will; that in fact he is the master of his own destiny and the captain of his own soul.

The Coming Morality

A few hundred years ago, most men believed that the institution of slavery was a normal and completely moral affair. The record of the human race reveals that for countless ages . . . as far back as the records go, as a matter of fact . . . evidence abounds that slavery was a common practice.

Then, suddenly, beginning with the writing of Tom Paine and continuing up to the present time, a general feeling of revulsion against slavery is to be noted. Most men no longer feel that slavery can be condoned in a moral sense.

This is not to say that the actual practice wherein some men buy and own other men, has been completely banished from the earth. Here and there we find that slave owning practices still obtain. But there is virtually total public anathema toward the idea. No longer is this practice considered moral. Rather, it is viewed as an abomination and great efforts are still being made to eradicate what is left of this dismal carry-over from barbarism.

This fact is something that we should consider with more than passing significance. Too many people claim that human beings cannot be changed and that they will not change. Too many view the human being as a static creature, incapable of development, improvement or even of self - discipline. Too many insist that man is nothing but the product of his environment and consequently is doomed to go on forever repeating the same old foolish mistakes which have characterized our bloody passage across history's pages.

If, as the environmentalists insist, it were true that man could never rise above his environment, nor change it by his own energies and determination, then the fact of a general moral disdain for slavery as having arrived within the past two centuries, would have to be discounted totally.

Here is a notable step upward and forward, an improvement over past environments in a most remarkable and conclusive fashion. To our mind, we would be foolish, indeed, were we to discount the significance of man's emergence as a more moral creature than he was two hundred years ago.

As a matter of fact, this revulsion against the practice of owning people we see not as a unique and utterly unparalleled event, but as only one instance of the great strides human beings have taken and are taking today. If we turn to the records of very ancient peoples we discover that from the very beginning of the human record there is a stack of evidence which demonstrates that man is relying less and less upon barbaric practices, more and more upon moral absolutes and a moral determination.

And it strikes us as important, and altogether likely that with the further passage of time, men will learn how to be even more moral than they are now with their present antipathy towards slavery.

What is slavery? Is it not defined as the practice of having one man own another man? And is this not tantamount to saying that when slavery is in vogue, one man may own another man so that he can control the other man and take from him all that he produces? And if this is true, is it not also true that the purpose of slavery is to grant to one man the absolute control over the other man? Ownership, lacking control, is pointless.

A slave owner was one who owned other human beings for economic reasons. He wanted the total production from the man that he owned, and was willing to invest his money to this end.

But if it is true that we have presently, at least intellecually, abandoned slavery, the "actual ownership" of man by man, it is certainly not true that we have also abandoned the concept that some men, of right, should control other men. And it appears to us that with the passage of time, we could reasonably anticipate that the concept of control of one by another will one day be considered as immoral as ownership of one by another.

Control of one by another, is nothing in the world but slavery lacking a clear title. Yet, today this concept of slavery is still very much in vogue.

We look forward to a coming time in history when men will not wish to control other men and consequently will not permit nor tolerate such practices. And when this time comes, then the agencies of such control, notably governments and unions, will have to be revised in some manner whereby such immorality will no longer be tolerated.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

The Relationship Between Freedom, Utilitarianism And The Mosaic Law"

I have seldom had the good fortune to come in contact with a writer who explains the ethics of the Bible better than Frederick Nymeyer, who publishes a magazine "First Principles in Morality and Economics, on which depend personal well - being and social health and harmony".

I have only come across this magazine in the last two or three months.

Mr. Nymeyer has been associated with the Christian Reform Church and publishes this magazine to point out their misinterpretation of the scriptures. He says: "We have not begun a publication to criticize Mohammedanism, nor Confucianism, nor Catholicism, nor Christian Science. We are not adherents of any of those systems of thought. There is something inappropriate about bypassing oneself and criticizing what is far away."

So he goes very thoroughly into the Protestant denominations, and especially the Christian Reform Church.

In his July, 1959 issue he has an article explaining the Killing or Murdering Commandment as clearly as anything I have ever run across. I am passing it on:

"It may appear that there is no relation between freedom and the commandment, Thou shalt not kill, but if there is any application of the ideas of the Hebrew-Christian religions to the subject of freedom, it will have to be via the commandment, Thou shalt not kill. There is no other contact point.

"In the first place, by common consent and common sense the commandment, Thou shalt not kill, has ever been understood to exclude all violence. The commandment could read then, Thou shalt not commit violence. But 'violence' can be accomplished without blood and blows, that is, by non-violent coercion, which although non - violent nevertheless does 'violence' to the other person. This coercion, by reasonable extension, is also forbidden. Finally, coercion may be legalized by the acts of a legislature or a judge; but the mere fact that it is public coercion does not exonerate such acts from the prohibition of employing compulsion against another.

"If then the Sixth Commandment forbids all coercion (except to employ coercion to protect oneself from coercion), what is this negative prohibition restraining each of us, except to allow freedom to others to pursue their inclinations (whatever they may be, except when they violate the reciprocal freedom and rights of others). If I may coerce no one, and if no one may coerce me, what is this other than legislating, All men shall be left free?

"When the ancient law of Moses with stark simplicity legislates against murder, violence and coercion it not only has the merit of prohibiting those evils, but it has the magnificent positive virtue of legislating freedom.

"How does it do that? The essence of the method consists in this: what A proposes to do which will affect B is not left to A to decide unilaterally, but must receive B's uncoerced concurrence, or else it is forbidden. Under Moses's law no man is the sole judge of what he proposes to do that will affect another. If A wishes to sell, he may not coerce B to buy. If B wishes to buy, he may not coerce A to sell. Obviously, A may not get so high a price as he wants, and B may not buy so cheaply as he wishes, but whether they make a deal depends on whether each party prefers to make a deal rather than to forego it. The price may be 10 per cent less than A prefers, and 10 per cent higher than B prefers, but if they make a deal without coercing each other, each obviously prefers making the deal to not making it.

"There is only one good reason why they will make a deal, and that is that it is preferable to not making it. They choose between the choices available to them. All depends on whether to make a deal gives them more utility than not to make a deal. Utilitarianism teaches that that which yields the greatest utility should be done. Consequently, utilitarianism is based on freedom, and freedom in turn is based on the Mosaic Law.

"The author of the Mosaic Law had three options when formulating the law: (1) he could have legislated (a) for freedom, with (b) silence about coercion; (2) he could have legislated explicitly both (a) for freedom and (b) against coercion; or (3) he could have legislated (a) against coercion, with silence about freedom. Number one would have been obscure; number 2 would have been long-winded; number three was adequate and simple. With grim compression of words the author of the decalogue chose legislating, Thou shalt not kill (commit violence or coerce). But obviously that is legislating for freedom as inescapably as if it had been stretched out in long phrases and complex sentences.

"Rightly understood, the commandment, Thou shalt not kill, is the cornerstone of the structure of society and the foundation of freedom. If anyone can formulate the principle of freedom more simply and comprehensively than, Thou shalt not coerce, he should speak up."

Bessie — Susie went to see that good-looking bachelor dentist yesterday to get some false teeth.

Jessie — How did she get along?

Bessie — I hear she made a poor impression.

The boss returned in a good humor from lunch and called the whole staff in to listen to a couple of jokes he'd picked up. Everybody but one girl laughed uproariously.

Boss (grumbled) — What's the matter? Haven't you got any sense of humor?

Girl — I don't have to laugh. I'm leaving Friday anyhow.

The all - but - convicted murderer leaned over and whispered in his lawyer's ear.

Murderer — Those are a tough-looking bunch of guys on the jury. Do you think I'll have justice done me.

Lawyer — I doubt it. I know for a fact that two of the men are unalterably opposed to capital punishment.

It fell to the lot of five year old Wallace Stewart, being the third son in rapid succession, to sift the family ashes, as his brothers had done before him. One morning the boy was told by his beaming father that a baby had arrived the night before. Wallace also beamed, much to his parent's gratification.

Father — And just think! It is our first little girl!

Boy—A girl. (As if it were the synonym for all that was opprobrious.) Gee! Must I always sift ashes?

The Doctor Says:

by EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

I suspect that small children are more susceptible to develsping nervous habits than human beings at any other age. When they do, the situation is often likely to be made worse by the fussing of the parents at the children.

Here are some examples: "My son is two years old and loves to be outside. When I put him there by himself, he cries and shouts, but stops the minute I go out. Will it hurt him to leave him in the big yard and let him cry it out?"

In another letter, a mother writes that she has a little 3½-year-old girl who has had spells of holding her breath since she was a year old. It always happens when she falls or gets bumped. She has these spells on the average of once every two weeks.

A similar letter comes from the mother of a 5-year-old girl. Until the age of three, she writes, the girl was easy to deal with, but now she finds the child is terribly frustrated, sucks her thumb and has a problem with food. The girl is also aggressive and sassy, her mother says.

Probably all mothers and fathers will recognize from these typical letters, experiences and worries they have had with their own children. With the possible exception of the little girl who holds her breath, and should be examined for some physical cause, the probabilities are that these are all cases of emotional strain in children of a perfectly normal type. The parents would be wise to think of possible causes, such as jealousy of another child, or lack of playmates as responsible for this kind of behavior.

They can also study their own attitude toward their children and make sure that the youngsters are confident of the parent's affection, consistency of discipline, love, and a general lack of quarreling around the home.

If the parents can provide a happy, affectionate environment and not pay too much attention to these emotional qualities of their young children, and deal with them firmly but kindly, there is a good chance that they will be outgrown.

I also have a question about ruptures in small babies and what causes them. These are inborn weaknesses of the muscles and other tissues which allow some of the contents of the abdomen to protrude through the weakened spot.

Whether surgical treatment of such a rupture should be undertaken, and the age at which it should be performed, depends on the location, size and some other factors which have to be evaluated by the surgeon.

Stanley Yankus Finds Freedom As Clerk In Australia Firm

By ERIC RIEL
United Press International

ADLAIDE, Australia (UPI) — Stanley Yankus, the Michigan farmer who quit the United States in protest over government controls with the intention of raising chickens in Australia, has indeed started his new life from scratch—but as a clerk.

Yankus is earning 16 pounds a week ($36)—or 14.11 pounds ($32.80) after taxes as an employe Pope Products, a firm that make refrigerators, television receivers, lawnmowers and washing machines.

"They asked me whether I wanted a temporary job, or something that would lead to early advancement," he said. "I told them I'd be willing to start from scratch and see how I like it, and how they like my work."

Yankus, his wife, two sons and a daughter arrived in Adelaide on June 19, but he has already decided that "Australia offers the individual like myself more freedom" than the United States does.

"I still think that the U.S. Constitution is the greatest in the world," he said, "but the trouble is that at the present time it isn't being upheld."

Sold Michigan Farm

As for Australia, Yankus continued, it has "a lot of funny laws, but so many of them are blatantly disobeyed."

The 40-year-old lean, bespectacled American sold his farm in Dowagiac, Mich., last spring after the government had fined him for violating agricultural control laws because he refused to stop growing wheat to feed his chickens.

He said he still intends to become a poultry farmer in Australia but that "I want to take my time about it."

"When I really get the feel of the place," Yankus said, "I may be able to introduce American method to raise chickens again."

For now, though, he is content with being a clerk, although he does hope to become assistant to Pope's sales manager before long.

He said that "on the workers level, I still say that in America you earn more goods and services for an hour's work than you can in Australia, where wages are low for unskilled labor.

"But if I can go up the ladder, and learn more about this vast country, I'm sure that in the long run, this will give me a better deal."

Have New Station Wagon

The Yankus family lives in a furnished six-room house about six miles from the heart of Adelaide which they rent for 10 pounds ($22.40) a week.

In the driveway sits a brand-new Holden station-wagon which cost Yankus $2,850.00.

While buying the car, Yankus disproved the general idea that you can't bargain in Australia. "I went around the dealers and that was more or less true," he said. "But when the salesman came to the house to close the deal I told him that he would have to put a heater to clinch the sale. He did. So there you are."

In similar fashion, Yankus got 10 per cent off when he bought his two boys, Russell and Dennis, bicycles for 28 pounds ($80) apiece.

Quotes In The News

ENNIS, Mont.—Mrs. Irene Bennett, of Coeur D'Alene, Idaho, describing the earthquake and collapse of a mountain top that killed her husband and three of her children:

"Suddenly we all heard that terrible rumbling. I saw my husband yelling. He told me to grab a tree. I saw him grab a tree, but I never saw him again."

OCONOMOWOC, Wis. — Clyde Pfeiffer, 32, promising to stand by his wife as she is tried on charges of plotting with her married lover to kill him:

"We had nine wonderful years together. I am not going to throw that away for one bad one."

HESLEDEN, England — The Rev. William Bosley, 55, convicted last week of drunken driving, preaching a sermon in which he apologized to his congregation:

"He that is without sin among you, let him cast a stone."

MELON-CHOLY — Fork in hand, Southern Illinois University senior Jeannie North expectantly awaits the harvest at the school's unofficial watermelon patch. Vines appeared mysteriously in a petunia patch in front of the Student Union this spring. Best guess is that seeds were dropped among the flowers during a melon feast last summer.

The Almanac

United Press International

Today is Thursday, August, 20th, the 232nd day of the year, with 133 more days to follow in 1959.

The moon is approaching its last quarter.

The morning stars is Mercury.

The evening stars are Mars, Jupiter, Saturn and Venus.

On this date in history:

In 1741, the Danish navigator Vitus Bering discovered Alaska.

In 1776, the American Army escaped from what might have been its death trap when General Washington took it in a thick fog from Brooklyn to Manhattan, eluding the British fleet in the East River.

In 1914, German troops occupied Brussels, the capital of Belgium.

In 1940, Prime Minister Churchill made a moving tribute to the men of the R-A-F, telling the House of Commons: "Never in the field of human conflict was so much owed by so many to so few."

Also in 1940, a presumed agent of Josef Stalin fatally wounded Leon Trotsky at Trotsky's hideout at Mexico City. The murder—now serving a life term in a Mexican prison—has steadfastly refused to talk.

Thought for today: The French author Gabriel Pascal said, "The heart has its reasons which reason does not know."

News In Brief

INVITED TO PLAY PREMIERE

HAELSINGBORG, Sweden (UPI)—Marilyn Monroe and her playwright husband, Arthur Miller, are expected to attend the Swedish premiere of one of Miller's plays here Nov. 13, informed sources said today. The actress and Miller have been invited to the opening of "A View From The Bridge" at the Haelsingborg Theater.

GUARDS KILL SHARK

LA JOLLA, Calif. (UPI) — A 10-foot hammerhead shark was killed by lifeguards Tuesday in the same area where sharks have killed one skindiver and attacked another this summer. Bob Shea, 21, and Edward Webb, 22, caught the powerful monster on a baited hook then dragged it backwards in the water until it drowned.

DOUGLAS BATTLES TAXES

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Actor Kirk Douglas and his wife have filed an appeal against an Internal Revenue service claim that they owe $148,519.99 in back taxes, it was revealed today. The government charged that they made excess deductions of their 1955 income tax return.

WIFE SHOT AS PROWLER

BELZONI, Miss., (UPI) — A husband who mistook his wife for a prowler killed her in their home Monday night, police said. Officers said Sidney Cobb had gone to bed early and was awakened when his wife slammed the door after bringing some laundry in from the yard. Cobb grabbed a gun and shot her, police said.

TEXAS PILOT KILLED

NEW BOSTON, N. H. (UPI)—Capt. Russell A. Nelson, of Big Spring, Tex., was killed Saturday night when his plane crashed near New Boston while on a navigational training formation. Nelson was stationed at George Air Force Base in California.

BEN-GURION TO REST

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Premier David Ben-Gurion's doctors said today they have ordered him to rest for at least a week even though a checkup showed the 74-year-old Israeli leader was in good condition. He left for an undisclosed destination.

AMERICAN EXHIBITION IN MOSCOW—Model shows the buildings and landscaping for the American National Exhibition in Moscow. The exhibit, opening in July and running for six weeks, is in the city's Sokolniki Park. In foreground is the science building, housed under a huge aluminum dome. Cultural and technological exhibits will occupy fanlike structure behind dome. By reciprocal agreement, the U.S.S.R. will exhibit this summer in New York.

Wait Until Reaching Campus Before Buying School Clothes

By MARY PRIME
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Memo to college-bound girls: buy your school wardrobe as you do textbooks—after you find out what's required.

So say two co-eds who won grand prizes in the 13th annual "make-it-yourself-with-wool" contest, sponsored by the Wool Bureau and the Women's Auxiliary of the National Wool Growers Association. The contest is held in 20 western states in the wool-growing area.

Millicent Robbins, 20, senior winner, of Walsh, Colo., and Amelia Beth "Amy" Loomis, 17, of Donnely, Idaho, the junior winner, advise building a wardrobe after reaching school.

Customs, fads, school rules, and climates vary from campus to campus, said Miss Robbins, who will be a home economcis senior at Colorado State University, Fort Collins, Colo. Some schools are dresser, especially if co-educational, she explained. At one college she attended, for example, blue jeans were the rule, but on another campus, Bermuda shorts were "in" and jeans were "out."

Some Up, Others Down

Even socks vary, she added. At some schools, girls wear them turned up, and at others, socks are turned down—how much depends on the campus. At still other schools, socks are rolled. Length also varies, from full-length tights to knee-length socks and anklets.

The basic "brought-from-home" wardrobe should be left-overs from high school, because no one in college has seen them, the girls said in an interview. The nucleus of this wardrobe should be skirts and sweaters.

Items to buy after arriving at school include cocktail and date dresses, sports clothes, and formal gowns, they said.

Miss Loomis, who will be a freshman at Wheaton College, Wheaton, Ill., plans to take her high-school skirts and sweaters ("I'm not sure how many, but there are stacks"), a knife-pleated skirt with sweater and weskit, two date dresses, a tailored suit which she made for the contest, a weatherproof coat, and a man-made fur ("I'm not sure they wear those there, but I'm going to take it anyway"). The rest she will buy or make later.

A Rule To Remember

Her first rule is: "Dress not to impress yourself, but to be yourself and to be at ease wherever you are."

The girls, both pretty blondes, stopped in New York en route to Europe. They will visit London, Paris and Rome, flying by jet, as part of their winnings. They also received a trip to Los Angeles to appear on television.

Both girls have been sewing for 10 years, and both learned from their mothers and 4H clubs. Miss Robbins lives on a wheat and cattle ranch. Miss Loomis also lives on a farm, although her father is a dealer who buys and sells oats.

The winners agreed that new styles take a long time to sift from cities to the country.

"Mother just had a fit when she saw my new dresses with short skirts," Miss Loomis laughed.

DeGaulle, Ike Meet In Paris September 2

Foreign News Commentary
By ARTHUR HIGBEE
United Press International

PARIS (UPI) — Gen. Charles de Gaulle and President Eisenhower will meet here on Sept. 2.

It will be their first meeting since 1951 when Eisenhower was supreme commander of the allied powers in Europe.

It will mean more to De Gaulle than an opportunity to discuss what Eisenhower plans to talk about with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

For it also will give the French President a chance to sound out the American president on how the U.S. will vote in the Algeria debate in the United Nations this fall.

U.S. Abstained

The U.S. abstained from voting a year ago. This distressed France, and De Gaulle made no bones about it when the late U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles visited him last winter.

All the portents are that the U.S. will abstain again, rather than alienate the Arab world—unless De Gaulle can pull a rabbit out of his two-starred kep.

The question is: can he?

Reports here are that it is just such a hope, or possibly a plan, that prompted De Gaulle to decide on a quick trip to Algeria Aug. 27-28.

A few days later Eisenhower announced his plan to trade visits with Khrushchev, and to meet De Gaulle and other Western leaders beforehand.

Aug. 27 was the date Eisenhower actually suggested for meeting De Gaulle. It should have been simple enough for De Gaulle to put his Algeria date forward or back to accommodate Eisenhower.

Insists on Trip

But he insisted on going to Algeria first. Eisenhower readily agreed.

Reports immediately blossomed that De Gaulle was going to do something spectacular. One rumor was that France would explode her first atomic bomb in the Sahara Desert during De Gaulle's Algerian trip. The French government took pains to deny that any such test was planned.

The more persistent word has been that De Gaulle may come out with a new plan for Algeria either a new appeal to the Algerian rebels to lay down their arms, or an enlargement of his "Constantine" plan for Algeria's economic regeneration.

However, the present Constantine plan is already an economic mouthful. De Gaulle himself is understood to feel that it is too much for France to chew as long as the war drags on.

As to any cease-fire appeal, the potential "French Algeria bloc is as opposed to any concessions to the rebels.

Yet if De Gaulle offers no concessions, the rebels are extremely unlikely to heed any new appeal until after the U.N. debate is finished.

FROM LITTLE GRAINS, A MIGHTY HALL—Kathy Hosch, 16, sifts grains of wheat through her hand in Wellborn, Kan. Small quantities of the grain are playing a part in the development of the Agricultural Hall of Fame, a five-million-dollar world farm center. Construction will begin in 1960. Those who donate grain will be designated founding farmers. Site of the hall is 12 miles west of Kansas City.

SWIMMERS SING BLUES

WATERLOO, IOWA (UPI) — Clear, blue water is what everyone wants for swimming; but there was too much of a good thing here Sunday. Water in one of the town's pools turned purple. Authorities believed a prankster tossed dye into the water.

WHY?

WAKESIDE, England (UPI) — Spinster Hannah Ede celebrated her 101st birthday today and advised those who want to imitate her: "Don't drink, don't smoke, and don't get married."

Children's Wishes Are Big Factor In Buying New Home

By EDWARD COWAN
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Is the new house for you or for the kids?

For the whole family, you say.

According to the Journal of Homebuilding, published by the National Assn. of Home Builders, that whole family idea is true as far as it goes. But...

An article in the August issue of the Journal, which is devoted to sales promotion, tells home builders: "Sell the children."

Its author, Mrs. Dale F. Witt of Virginia Beach, Va., a member of the Home Builders Merchandising Committee, finds "the power of the women in this country has long been recognized as an established fact, but the power of children over buying has not been so recognized.

Walls Are Closing In

"THEY are the reason mom and dad need a new home."

Mrs. Witt's theory is this:

"When the young couple first married, the two-room apartment was delightful, cozy and snug; but, suddenly, the four walls have closed in on them with the addition of junior" and all his special furniture, diapers, bottles and walls.

"This is where junior's influence begins and continues," Mrs. Witt finds.

It grows as he does. For example, he influences location. The new home, according to Mrs. Witt, "must be in an area that has plenty of fresh air, a place to play, good environment, near schools, shopping, congenial children next door," all "for the children."

Must Keep Up With Joneses

Meeting these location requirements may mean father has a 30-minute drive to work or more lawn than he cares to mow—"but he'll put up with it—for the children."

Mrs. Witt maintains the youngsters also have a lot to say—if not in so many words—about price. "The house must be in a neighborhood junior can be proud of, but the payments must leave room for junior's education, savings in case of sickness or braces on teeth, life insurance, money for camps, music lessons."

Since the kids "seem to control all of dad's purse strings," Mrs. Witt advises builders, "Let's tie him up in them and let the children help us sell the family.

Recommends Soft Sell

"Make the children welcome in your model home — no separate playyards; if the children get your walls in the model home dirty, or break a lamp, put it on the advertising cost ledger sheet."

Sales pitch-wise, Mrs. Witt suggests learn the children's names and use them. For example: "This community is an ideal place for Johnny to live. In this neighborhood he will have a happy life and grow up to be a useful citizen because it has good schools, playgrounds, etc." ... "Notice the large window in the kitchen where you can watch Johnny play" ... "The garage has plenty of room for bikes, baby carriage, stroller."

Even before you have any specific prospects, Mrs. Witt recommends, direct promotion to the younger set. "Attract the children to openings and you'll get the mothers and dads. Indians, clowns, balloons, masks, will do a better job in selling them beautiful girls as hostesses."

A late summer hairdo that can be combed several ways is the one that makes sense. The two hair styles here answer qualifications; one haircut produces two different styles. Here, full front bangs (left) are combed across the forehead. Top is slightly wavy and sides curl towards front. Hair is recombed (left center) into a formal coiffure with bangs smoothed across the forehead. Jeweled crescent adds note of glamor. Soft coiffure (right center) with fullness at sides has light, wispy bang. It is combed (right) forward in modified bouffant for a change. In this style, side fullness is smoothed down and crown is very nearly smooth. All styles shown here are by Albert Carter of New York.

DEAR ABBY....

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A neighbor of mine gave her 9-year-old daughter a birthday party in her back yard and didn't invite my little girl. They are the same age and play together every day.

When I saw all the other playmates dressed up in their party dresses, laughing and having the best time, I couldn't believe my eyes. My little girl felt so bad she cried. I was all choked up myself but pretended I didn't care.

Should I let my daughter go over there and play with that neighbor girl? I used to like my neighbor, but now I have no use for her. Would you?

VERY HURT

DEAR VERY: It is almost impossible to keep youngsters from playing with the neighbor children, so don't attempt it. It's difficult to know whether the mother didn't want your daughter at the party or if her child had a temporary "mad" on at the time. If the girls want to play together, I'd say let them, and forget the unhappy incident.

DEAR ABBY: In your column you advised a Baptist girl to consult a Roman Catholic priest about a possible inter-faith marriage. Why didn't you ask her to consult her own pastor?

If a Catholic boy had written, would you have advised him to consult a Protestant minister?

Sincerely yours,
C. M. D.
(S. F. Theological Seminary)

DEAR C. M. D.: The Baptist girl was seeking information about the Catholic Church, not inter-faith marriage. So I sent her to a Priest for that information. Had a Catholic boy sought information about the Protestant church, I would have advised him to consult an authority in that field — a Protestant minister.

DEAR ABBY: I noticed in your column that a woman had a terrible time with a husband who cursed and used vulgar language. Let me tell you how I cured mine of this habit.

Every time he cussed or said something vulgar I charged him 25 cents. Each time there was a violation I totaled it verbally.

When he reached $25.00 I went out and bought something for myself and charged it to him. It worked!

MRS. A. C. C.

DEAR ABBY: My buddy always used to say he didn't have the nerve to ask a girl for a date so I'd let him come along with me and my girl. The three of us would have a real good time. At Christmas I gave my girl a set of rings (the wedding band to be used when I get out of service next year) and she liked them a lot. I thought I was in paradise!

Now she and my buddy came to me and asked if it would be all right if my buddy took over my girl and the payments on the rings. She says it's him she wants, not me. And he says the reason he never went out with any other girl was because he loved my girl all along. Should I leave them in peace or should I kick up the kind of fuss they deserve?

DOUBLE-CROSSED

DEAR DOUBLE: The damage is done. Let your buddy have the girl and take over the payments on the rings (and be sure he repays you the amount you've paid on the rings so far.) Next time you think you are in "paradise" — watch out for the snakes.

What's your problem? For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Paul R. lives in a big city. Shortly before school closed, he was accosted on his way home by three big boys he'd never seen before. They roughed him up, broke his glasses, tore his shirt.

Until terms end, his father took him to school every day and his mother brought him home. Now weeks after the attack, Paul's afraid to go to the corner alone. His mother writes, "Isn't it about time he was standing on his own feet again?"

Did you ever fracture a leg, Mrs. R.?

If so, you'll remember how gradually your doctor reduced its supports. First, there was the plaster cast. When your bone had sufficiently strengthened, he removed the cast and gave you crutches to hobble about on. After outgrowing the crutches, you used a cane for a while.

If your doctor had told you to walk before you had gained the assurance provided by the cast, the crutches and the cane, you'd have felt scared as Paul feels when you tell him to go to the corner alone.

When a child's self-confidence is fractured by a frightening experience, we remove our support as gradually as doctors remove the supports of broken bones. But because the broken self-confidence is emotional instead of physical, we tend to see our support as "pampering." We wonder if we're right to hold him up instead of making him "stand on his own feet."

This is not reasonable. So I suggest that you make a plan to remove your support from Paul gradually.

When you want him to go to the corner, walk there halfway with him. Then wait until he returns to you. Next time he goes to the corner, let him walk the whole way alone — but wait on the sidewalk before your house so that he can turn around and see you there if he needs to. If he has to go farther than the corner, go with him until his certainty that he can make the corner by himself is so firmly set that he can trust it beyond the corner.

Giving this support will only irk you if you doubt its wisdom.

So, if you're still unsure it's wise to give it, it might be a good idea to consult a psychiatrist. Like Paul, you may need support for your self - confidence — his assurance that premature demands on your child's fractured trust of himself are as foolish as premature demands on broken legs.

'Two-In-One' Hairdo Chases Heat With Its New Spirit-Lifting Look

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Toward the end of the summer, we get a little tired of warm weather fashions and the casual hair styles that are naturally best for summer outdoor activities.

We begin to favor dark cottons more and more, just to give the illusion of change from the popular pastels of summer.

We wish there was a way to formalize our casual hairdo somewhat, but are stymied because it's still hot enough to make a day at the beach seem appealing.

Well, gals, according to a well-known New York beauty salon, you can have your wish. Your hair can be styled so that with the simple use of a comb and brush, the one professional haircut can appear as casual or as formal as you'd like it to be.

You should, of course, have your hair shaped by an expert to flatter your individual features. And this can be done so that you can comb it attractively for either daytime or evening occasions.

If you like bangs, and they are nearly always flattering, you're all set for your late summer coiffure.

Bangs have taken on new lines and lengths, and there are less wispy ends to break the hairline. The new long, almost straight-line bangs will give your hair a pert look for outdoor activities. Yet they can, with the use of a little spray net, be brushed across the forehead for a more sedate hair style.

Watch your hairdresser comb your bangs into a formal coiffure and you, too, can learn the secret of the two-in-one hairdo.

If you look best in a playtime hair style of soft ends, combed toward the face, it can easily be recombed into a full bouffant side effect for evening. Just brush and comb all the ends over and over in one full treatment. This makes the bulky look.

There's no better time than the near end of summer to take advantage of the two-in-one hair style. You can look carefree for swimming or tennis, yet capture the look of fall elegance just as easily as you can pick up your comb and brush.

Try the two-in-one hairdo. There's nothing like a "new look" to lift tired spirits.

Persons who think up combinations for color names have vivid imaginations. Two favorite colors this season sound as though they were made up by a hungry gal. They are salad green and sherbet pink, especially favored in fabric or leather belts.

Mrs. L. D. Rider HDC Hostess

LEFORS (Spl) — "Food Becomes You," by Ruth M. Ieverton, was used as a basis for a nutritional food program given to the Lefors Home Demonstration Club recently in the home of Mrs. L. D. Rider by Miss Lou Ella Patterson, Gray County home demonstration agent.

She stressed the fact that "many acid foods such as strawberries, which are naturally acid, are converted into alkaline food in the stomach, thus it is necessary to be sure we have a balanced diet from the acid-alkaline point of view. The potatoe always remains alkaline in the system, therefore, is an important item in the diet," she said.

In the business meeting, presided over by Mrs. O. O. Bishop, president, it was reported that B. J. Diehl had donated fifty dollars toward the purchase of a lawn mower for the park, and ten dollars had been donated by O. O. Bishop. Plans were discussed to raise the remainder of the money to purchase a power-mower for the city park.

The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. M. L. Rippy with the program, "Exchanging Christmas Ideas."

SOME DEMOS TRYING TO 'GRAB' TAMMANY HALL

By CLAIRE COX
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — White House-bent Rebel Democrats, inspired by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and other political "old pros," are trying to seize New York City's 170-year-old Tammany Tiger by the tail.

Many insurgents insist that the first step on the road back to Washington must be the unseating of Carmine De Sapio as boss of Tammany, the Democratic Party in Manhattan.

Others want to concentrate on reorganizing Tammany Hall at the grass roots level, and it does not matter to them whether they do it with or without De Sapio.

But all the rebels agree that the party has fared so poorly in recent elections, principally in the landslide that swept Republican Nelson A. Rockefeller into the New York governor's chair, that it faces certain crushing defeat next year unless something is done.

They agreed also that they must rebuild the party precinct by precinct to save the mayoralty for the party.

Has Increased Tempo

De Sapio's reply to all this has been to step up his campaign for reelection to leadership of the Greenwich Village Democratic district in which he lives. He also charges his attackers are Johnny-come-latelies on the reform bandwagon.

The boss who has held the reins of Tammany Hall for 10 years claims he already has reformed the party. To prove his point, he has organized what he calls a "reform" Democratic club in a district where the old-line Tammany club defected to the insurgents. Precinct work in New York is done by political club members.

The effectiveness of the campaign against De Sapio and his machine will be determined in the Sept. 15 primary elections in which 33 district leaders will be chosen.

These leaders will, in turn, control Democratic policy in New York County — Manhattan Island — and what they decide will influence the outcome of the 1960 presidential nominating convention.

Sponsors Named

Rebel and insurgent Democratic groups have nominated 20 opposition candidates in the country's 33 districts. Party leaders said it marks the first time since Tammany was founded that its own members have attempted to reform it from within, instead of waiting for high-powered investigations by outsiders.

Spearheading he drive to replace "the gashouse leadership" and "restore our party to what it once was" is the recently organized New York Committee for Democratic Voters. The sponsoring chairmen are Mrs. Roosevelt, former Sen. Herbert H. Lehman, former New York City Police Commissioner Francis W. H. Adams, former Air Secretary Thomas K. Finletter and attorney Lloyd K. Garrison.

The vice chairmen include Mrs. Marshall Field, widow of the publisher; Mrs Albert D. Lasker, widow of the multi-millionaire advertising pioneer, and Dore Schary, writer-director-producer.

Moore Keeps Title; TKO's Kid Bassey In 11th Round

By JOE ST. AMANT
United Press International

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Davey Moore, the Springfield, Ohio, rifle, is the winner and still world featherweight champion today but he should give a nod of thanks to British tradition for the ease with which he accomplished his second victory over Hogan (Kid) Bassey.

Moore was well ahead on points, no doubt, Wednesday night when he was credited with an 11th round knockout of Bassey, the chocolate-colored pride of the British Empire from Nigeria.

But the 25-year-old titleholder and the crowd at Olympic Auditorium had to be surprised when Bassey failed to answer the bell for the 11th.

The 27-year-old African himself decided to call a halt because of handicaps he incurred — namely a closed right eye and a right hand which he said he was unable to use from the fifth round on because of an injury.

Hints Bassey Retirement

Bassey's manager, pubkeeper George Biddles, hinting his tiger may retire, explained it this way, in the pattern of British sportsmanship:

"I personally don't feel a fine gentleman like this (pointing to Bassey in the dressing room) should have to go on in boxing if he is going to get serious injuries all the time. He has had too many injuries in too many fights."

Referee Frankie Van took this viewpoint in answer to a question:

"No, I certainly would not have stopped the fight. It was a world championship contest."

Moore, who won the title last March 18 in the same arena under similar circumstances was unbothered by the talk about Bassey's ability or inability to continue. In the March fight Moore scored a 13th round kayo when Bassey was bleeding from cuts above both eyes.

Seek Becerra Bout

He and his manager, Willie Ketchum, said they would like to put the featherweight title on the block here in Los Angeles against Joe Becerra, a good local drawing card who recently won the world bantamweight crown from Alphonse Halimi of France.

Wednesday night's fight drew a gross gate of $47,100.40 on an attendance of 7,450. The bout was televised nationally but blacked out in Southern California. The fighters cut was 30 per cent each of the net gate and the $40,000 TV take.

Moore displayed a confidence which he lacked in the first Bassey fight. He said in his dressing room later, "I was very confident all the way. They kept telling me I was behind on points, but I felt good."

His handlers were telling him a slight fib. Referee Van had Moore ahead, 96-93. Judge Joey Olmos had it 98-94 for Moore and Judge Charles Randolph had it 98-91 for the champion. The United Press International score card also had Moore ahead, 97-93.

Pan-Am Cagers To Be 'Best Ever'

CHICAGO (UPI) — The United States basketball team which will compete in the Pan American Games may be the best hardwood squad ever put together, center George Bon Salle said today, so there's no doubt it will win the Pan American crown for a third time.

The team, selected last April in tryouts involving college, amateur and armed service champions, will play its first competitive games Friday, Saturday and Sunday in a three-game series against the Cleveland Sweeneys at Toledo, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Ohio.

"We're ready for anything," Bon Salle said. "We can play control ball, or run. We've got rebounding, speed, shooting, poise and confidence. I've never seen better ball players than we've got so I don't see how we can lose."

Ford, Wall Among 132-Man Field in Rubber City Open

By TED VIROSTKO
United Press International

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — Doug Ford, twice a bridesmaid, and defending champion Art Wall Jr., were among the 132 pros and amateurs who teed off today in the opening round of the $22,000 Rubber City Open.

Ford, runnerup in last week's Motor City Open and one of the most consistent money winners on the pro circuit, fell by the wayside twice in sudden death playoffs in his two other attempts to take home the first place RCO money.

He was dumped in a four-way playoff by Henry Ransom in 1955 and then Arnold Palmer did it two years later.

Wall, who already has pocketed more than $47,000 this year to lead the money - bags parade among the pros, will be gunning for his second straight RCO crown.

Since copping the $2,800 first place purse a year ago, the Pennsylvanian, who uses an unorthodox baseball grip, has won six crowns, including four on the current tour.

Another former champion, Tommy Bolt, who won the crown five years ago when the 72-hole medal play was moved to the Firestone course for the first time, served notice he plans to be a strong contender.

Bolt turned in a three-under-par 68 during a warmup over the picturesque course which has three par five holes, the longest being the 585-yard No. 16, which includes a lake hazard.

Ingo Asked To Aid Fight Probe

GOTEBORG, Sweden (UPI) — The New York state attorney general's office has asked heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson to help its investigation of the June title-fight promotion.

Johansson, who knocked out Floyd Patterson for the title at New York in June, said today he had received a "telegram" from Louis J. Lefkowitz, New York state attorney general, asking him to come to New York and tell what he knows about the promotion.

The champion said: "I won't be able to go to New York for some time because of a planned trip to England and later business affairs here in Goteborg. But if Mr. Lefkowitz can send over a representative, I'll be happy to give him all the information I know."

NEW BALL PARKS—This is an aerial photo of the three new Optimist Club baseball parks. The parks were completed, except for permanent bleachers and other finishing touches, this year at a cost of approximately $15,000. Optimist Club members and other volunteers did most of the work on the parks. At lower right is the Optimist Boys' Club building. The Western Little League Park is at lower left, and Eastern Little League Park is just above the Boys' Club, on the right. Pony League Park, a full-sized baseball field, is at top left.

More Than 500 Boys Play Baseball in Pampa

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the fourth in a series of articles on the organization, purposes, and activities of the Pampa Optimist Club. This installment deals with the boys' baseball program.

By RED GRIGGS
Daily News Sports Editor

The boys' baseball program was the first activity of the Pampa Optimist Club, and has always been its biggest. However, it is more than either of these. It was, in fact, probably the main driving force behind the organization of the club.

Ray Fowler, a charter member of the club, describes the earliest meetings of the club, in 1954: "You could have formed an all-star baseball team out of club members in those days. There were more former professional ballplayers than you could count, all of whom thought the club was being formed just to bring Little League baseball to Pampa."

Fowler added that, although many other activities were added later, it was the boost from these baseball backers that really got the club started as a "live-wire" organization.

The baseball program was organized almost simultaneously with the club, in the summer of 1954. Twelve teams were formed, four each in two little leagues and a pony league. They used Lions Park and Panhandle Grainery Parks for playing fields through 1957.

In 1956, however, the club bought the 10-acre Bell Estate and part of the Cobalt property, near Craven Street, with a view to building permanent baseball parks. The property cost $10,000, of which $8,000 was paid through donations. The Optimists dug into their own pockets for the other $2,000.

The Boys' Club building was constructed in late 1957 and early 1958; then work was begun on three baseball parks. Western League Park was completed in time for an area tournament in 1958, but Eastern League and Pony League Parks were not completed until the spring of this year.

Optimist Club members and other interested persons donated most of the labor for the parks, and much of the building material was donated. The total cost of the parks, most of it going for lights and concrete work, was between $12,000 and $15,000.

The club is still in debt for this total amount, and plans to go $5,000 deeper into debt to add other improvements, including permanent bleachers, to the parks.

With three new parks to play in, more boys than ever before turned out for the baseball program this year, and the program was expanded by six teams. Each of the Little Leagues was expanded from four to six teams, and a teenage league of two teams was organized.

In addition, the boys unable to play in the four regular leagues were placed on eight different farm teams. The total number of boys in the baseball program reached approximately 500, with 30 in the teenage league, 60 in the Pony League, 90 in each Little League, and well over 200 in the Farm League.

This program called for a tremendous amount of volunteer work and money. Each of the 26 teams had at least two coaches, and two umpires were necessary for each of the three games played every week night. It is estimated that well over 5,000 man hours went into the program this year — not including work on the baseball parks.

In addition, more than $5,500 was required to operate the four regular leagues and the Farm League. This cost was paid by 17 sponsors in the regular leagues and eight in the Farm League.

Only one team in the entire program was unsponsored this year, and that was the Optimist Club teenage team, which got a late start. The 17 regular sponsors pay approximately $320 each year to equip their teams, while the eight farm team sponsors pay from $75 to $100.

This big outlay in money and manpower has not as yet produced a district winner in Little League play. However, it has produced many outstanding individual players. Every member of both this year's district champion American Legion and district runnerup Pampa High School teams was a former Little League or Pony League player.

However, regardless of whether the Pampa boys' baseball program ever brings forth another Mickey Mantle or Ted Williams, the men working with the boys will consider it a success, if the boys are better sports and better citizens as a result of having played baseball.

In this respect, the time and money put into the boys' baseball program has certainly been well spent.

BILL ROSENSOHN TO BE QUESTIONED BY HOGAN

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bill Rosensohn, key figure in three investigations of the Ingemar Johansson - Floyd Patterson fight promotion, was scheduled for questioning today by Dist. Atty. Frank Hogan.

This questioning will precede 39-year-old Rosensohn's appearance Wednesday before the "boxing" grand jury, which seeks to unearth any underworld connections with the fight game.

Suspended promoter Rosensohn, who had cut short a European vacation at the district attorney's request, was slated to arrive by plane from London early today.

For his own protection, Rosensohn was to have been met at International Airport by detectives from the D.A.'s office. He had been under police guard before he went to Europe. It was Rosensohn's disclosures about being forced out of his own organization — Rosensohn Enterprises, Inc.—that brought about the investigations.

Activities surrounding the Johansson-Patterson promotion are being investigated by the D.A.'s office, the state attorney general's office and the state athletic commission.

Before his vacation, Rosensohn made five trips to the district attorney's office.

When he boarded the New York-bound plane at London, the young promoter said, "I welcome the questioning. I have a clear conscience. I know that Rosensohn Enterprises is finished as a promoting firm, but I expect to make a comeback later as a promoter."

Boxing, Baseball Parents to Meet

A meeting of all parents of boxers and baseball players will be held tonight at Pampa Optimist Boys' Club, Optimist president Newt Secrest has announced. Secrest urged all parents to attend, since plans for raising funds for boxing and baseball will be discussed. The meeting is at 8 p.m.

Spokane Women's Golf Meet Starts

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — Twenty-two of the nation's top women professional golfers, led by top money winner Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S.C., will tee off today in pursuit of Spokane Women's Open $7,500 prize money.

The pros and a couple dozen amateurs will play four 18-hole rounds each on the par 72 Esmeralda Golf Course. The 6,077-yard course was in excellent condition.

smoothest ride!

One of the 7 big bests Chevrolet gives you over any other car in its field

Anyone who's ever taken a Chevy over a choppy country road can tell you how lightly Chevrolet's Full Coil suspension handles rough going—and coil springs never squeak, never need grease! Try this velvet way of going for yourself. Once you do, you'll find your own way of saying what MOTOR TREND magazine puts this way: ". . . the smoothest, most quiet, softest riding car in its price class." But the happiest part of it all is that this Full Coil ride is just one of seven big bests—all documented by published opinions of experts and on-the-record facts and figures.

BEST ROOM—Official dimensions reported to A.M.A.* show that Chevrolet sedans offer more front seat head room than all but one of the high-priced cars—more front seat hip room (by up to 5.9 inches) than the "other two" of the leading low-priced three.

BEST ENGINE—Chevrolet engines have long won expert praise from virtually every automobile magazine, and just recently, Chevrolet received the NASCAR† Outstanding Achievement award for "the creation and continuing development of America's most efficient V-type engines."

BEST ECONOMY—A pair of Chevrolet sixes with Powerglide won their class in this year's Mobilgas Economy Run, topping every other full-sized car. And the winning mileage was a whopping 22.38 m.p.g.

BEST BRAKES—Chevy's bonded-lining brakes are the biggest in their field, built for up to 66% longer life. In a direct competition conducted by NASCAR, Chevy outstopped both of the other leading low-priced cars in a test of repeated stops from highway speeds.

BEST STYLE—It's the only car of the leading low-priced 3 that's unmistakably modern in every line. "In its price class," says POPULAR SCIENCE magazine, "a new high in daring styling."

BEST TRADE-IN—Any N.A.D.A.‡ Guide Book can give you the figures on Chevy's extra value. You'll find that Chevrolet used car prices last year averaged up to $128 higher than comparable models of the "other two." Your Chevrolet dealer will be happy to tell you about a whole host of other advantages besides these seven. Why not drop by his showroom?

Both Leagues' Top Contenders Slump

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press International

Someone please play "show me the way to go home" because the top contenders in both leagues never will make it at this rate.

Talk about the staggers, get a load of this:

San Francisco, the National League leader, has lost five of its last seven games.

Over in the American League, the pace-setting White Sox have dropped three of their last four.

The second - place clubs are stumbling around just as badly. Los Angeles has won only four of its last 11 and Cleveland has lost four of its last five.

That brings us down to the third-place Braves, who lost six of their last nine. But at least they beat the Giants, 5-2, Wednesday night to climb within three games of the top.

Burdette Wins 17th

Lew Burdette won his 17th game by holding the Giants to six hits, including Orlando Cepeda's 24th and 25th homers. Del Crandall put Milwaukee ahead to stay with his 15th homer in the fifth.

The Reds beat the Dodgers, 9-4; the Cardinals scored a 10-inning 8-6 victory in the completion of a game suspended on July 12 but lost the regularly scheduled contest, 4-2. The Phillies topped the Cubs, 4-1, in the opener of a twi-night twin-bill, then played a 12-inning 7-7 tie that finally was halted because of the curfew.

In the American League, the Orioles whipped the White Sox, 3-1; the Indians snapped a four-game losing streak by defeating the Senators, 5-4; the Yankees finally beat their nemesis, Frank Lary of the Tigers, 10-5, and the Athletics humbled the Red Sox, 6-3.

Cincinnati rallied for seven runs in the eighth inning to beat Los Angeles. Jerry Lynch's pinch single with the bases full was the key blow.

In the completion of the July 12th suspended game between St. Louis and Pittsburgh, the Cards trailed 5-4 when play was resumed with one on and one out in the ninth. The Redbirds went ahead, 6-5, but the Pirates tied the score in the bottom of the ninth. Then, in the 10th, four straight singles off Bob Porterfield brought St. Louis its victory.

Burgess Breaks Tie

Smoky Burgess' sixth inning single broke a 2-2 tie in the regularly scheduled contest and earned Vern Law his 14th victory.

Gene Conley posted his 12th victory for the Phillies when he fired a three-hitter and struck out nine Cub batters in the opener. The Cubs apparently were on their way to a 7-6 win in the nightcap when Earl Averill homered in the top of the 12th but Harry Hanebrink's pinch triple tied the score in the bottom of the frame just before the game was halted by the curfew.

Southpaw Billy O'Dell of the Orioles held the White Sox to five hits during the eight innings he pitched and Jerry Walker preserved the victory with a hitless ninth inning. The Orioles scored all their runs during the first three innings off Bob Shaw.

Cal McLish of the Indians was credited with his 15th victory although he needed Larry Locke's help after Bob Allison hit his 28th homer for the Senators in the eighth and Harmon Killebrew smacked his 37th with one on.

The Yankees spotted Lary a 5-0 lead and went on to beat the Tiger right-hander with four-run rallies in the fourth and fifth innings.

Bud Daley pitched a four-hitter and drove in the tie-breaking run in Kansas City's win over Boston. It was Daley's 15th victory against seven losses.

Sooner Cagers Win Oil Bowl

WICHITA FALLS (UPI) — The scene of the annual Oil Bowl rivalry between Oklahoma and Texas all-star high school athletes shifted today to Wichita Falls, with the Texas prep football team hoping to avenge its basketball counterpart's 54-48 loss Wednesday night to Oklahoma.

Football teams clash Friday night.

The Oklahomans' win Wednesday night in Lawton in the basketball game perpetuated the Sooner state's hold on that series. Oklahoma has won all four of the basketball oil games.

Texas put on a late scoring splurge, scoring 17 points in the last quarter. But the Oklahoma advantage was enough to last out the siege, and Oklahoma won.

Top pointmaker for the victorious hosts was Manuel Heusman of El Reno, with 12.

For Texas, Keith Lowery, Woden, had 8 to lead his team. Don Brownlee of Odessa scored 7 points. Jim Williams, Plains, scored six points—all in that frantic last quarter.

Some 1,600 fans watched the basketball game in the Cameron Junior College Field House. Oklahoma had a halftime advantage of 29-19.

Byron Starbuck Roberts, Oklahoma City Harding High School coach, coached the Oklahomans, and the Texas all-star coach was Marshall Brown, of Stephen F. Austin College, Nacogdoches, Tex.

CONTINENTAL LEAGUE GETS MANY FRANCHISE REQUESTS

NEW YORK (UPI) — The infant Continental Baseball League, which is trying to pick three more cities to complete an eight-team loop for action in 1961, is drawing franchise applications the way honey draws flies.

That became apparent today with the disclosure that in some of the seven cities already under consideration rival groups are bidding for franchise rights. There was also a report that a group representing Hawaii, the nation's newest state, is seeking a berth in the new big league.

William A. Shea, chairman of the league's founding group, met Wednesday with one group seeking a franchise for Atlanta and later issued a revealing statement.

"Don't get too enthusiastic about this franchise," said Shea. "There are others in Atlanta who also have to be considered."

It was learned that this two-groups-in-one-city situation also holds true in some of the other cities under consideration. In addition to Atlanta, other cities previously announced as in the running for Continental berths are Buffalo, N.Y., Miami, Fla., Seattle, San Diego, Montreal, Dallas-Fort Worth, and San Juan, P.R.

Branch Rickey, newly-elected president of the league, was quoted by the New York Times today as saying a group representing Honolulu, Hawaii, had expressed interest in a franchise and had been sent an application blank.

Rice, Hank Sauer Retire; Boone Goes to Braves

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Two National League "old pros" have reached the end of their playing days, but one of the American League's elder statesmen is getting another chance to stay active and maybe share in a World Series pot.

Retired are catcher Del Rice of the Milwaukee Braves and outfielder Hank Sauer of the San Francisco Giants. Reprieved is infielder Ray Boone of the Kansas City Athletics, obtained Wednesday night by the Milwaukee Braves for righthanded pinchhitting strength.

Rice, 36 and Sauer, 40, will remain with their teams as coaches the remainder of the season. Rice was technically put on waivers to make room for Boone, but it's unlikely he will be picked up by anyone.

Sauer, the National League's most valuable player in 1952, and one of its most feared home run hitters earlier in his career, was made inactive to permit the retention of outfielder Jackie Brandt, who had been carried "free" by the Giants until his status as a national defense player ran out Tuesday.

Boone, 36, started with Cleveland in 1948, went to the Detroit Tigers in 1953, the Chicago White Sox in 1958, and the Athletics this year.

Victoria Ups League Lead

United Press International

Victoria, enjoying the best pitching in the league on a big night for no-hitters, increased its Texas League lead to eight games Wednesday night.

The Rosebuds beat San Antonio, 3-0 as Ford Young tossed a two-hitter. The league leaders got all three of their runs in a big third inning against Ron Perranoski, the loser.

Second-place Austin, meanwhile, was losing a thriller to third-place Tulsa, whose 8-7, ninth-inning victory gave it an edge on the lost side of the ledger. The Oilers now have lost one less game than Austin, but trail the Senators by one game because they have won three fewer games.

Tulsa pulled it out of the fire by scoring two runs in the last of the ninth, after W. H. Shields put Austin ahead in the first half of the frame with a two-run homer. Shields got a solo homer in the sixth.

ALL SQUIRTED OUT

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)—Peter Pollero, 28, thought fast when he discovered a skunk in his garbage can Friday. He slammed the lid and called the police, the Humane Society, the zoo and a pet shop. But Polero and a neighbor finally got the skunk into a bird cage, drove out to the country, and turned it loose. Asked if this wasn't pretty dangerous, Pollero replied: "No. He was all squirted out."

BOOSIE BUMS RIDE

CALLINGTON, England (UPI)—Truck driver William Hill picked up an unexpected hitchhiker Saturday. He was driving along a lane, calm as you please, when a cow jumped over a hedge and landed smack on the hood of his truck. The hey-diddle-diddle cow rode along calmly for a short distance, then slid off and trotted away, none the worse for the trip.

A LITTLE EARLY

NEW YORK (UPI) — At least one New Yorker Sunday appeared awfully impatient. Thomas J. Deegan Jr., chairman of the committee for a proposed World's Fair here in 1964, suggested that the time capsule buried at the 1939 fair be opened in 1964. That's 4,975 years early.

MAY HAVE A POINT

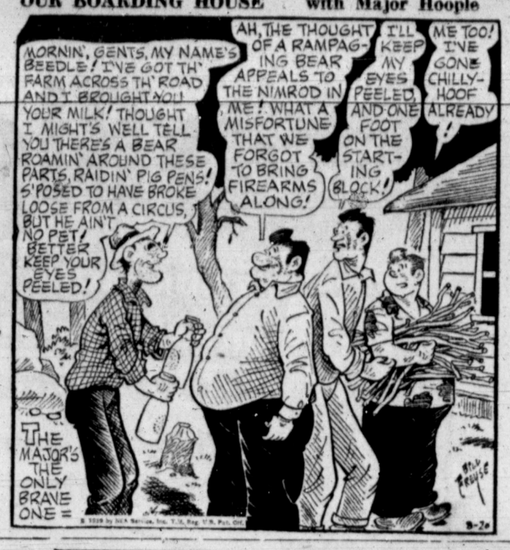

HUDDERSFIELD, Eng. (UPI) —Eight-year-old Alan Robinson, due to testify in an assault case, was asked if he knew what it meant to take an oath. "It means that when you take an oath and don't tell the truth everyone will believe you," Alan replied proudly.

HAVE TICKETS? WILL WED

CHRISTCHURCH, New Zealand (UPI)—An apparently determined sports fan advertised in a local newspaper that he would like to meet a widow "with an eye to matrimony" — provided she has tickets to the forthcoming Britain-New Zealand rugby match. "Kindly send photographs of tickets," the ad concludes.

New industrial cutbacks and rising federal concern marked the 34th day of the steel strike. Industry and union representatives will huddle with U.S. mediators today in New York for the 11th time in 15 days, with no sign that either side has budged on economic issues.

The domestic copper industry is expected to be largely shut down by the end of this week as a result of spreading strikes against major companies. The International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter workers said it plans to strike Anaconda's Montana properties Wednesday and Phelps Dodge Corp.'s Arizona mines Thursday. Idling about three - fourths of the U.S. copper industry.

The Air Force announced cancellation of orders for eight B-58 Hustler bombers in an economy move that is expected to save more than $200 million. The move reduces to 98 the total number of these bombers on order. Convair Division of General Dynamics Corp. is the prime contractor for the aircraft.

The manufacturing arm of American Telephone & Telegraph Co. announced plans to build a $12 million electronic equipment plant near Kansas City, Mo.

Quotes In The News

United Press International

GETTYSBURG, Pa. — President Eisenhower, expressing sorrow at the death of Fleet Adm. William F. (Bull) Halsey:

"His great personal contribution to the successful campaigns in the Pacific and the exploits of the forces under his command are a brilliant part of American military history."

WASHINGTON — Sen. Homer E. Capehart (R-Ind.), stressing in a newsletter that the United States will uphold the doctrine of non-intervention even though that might open the way to charges of supporting Latin American dictatorships:

"The fact is that both Nicaragua and the Dominican Republic have stable governments, and in a topsy turvy world we are interested in stable governments."

PLAINSBORO, N.J. — Mrs. Thomas A. Powner, commenting on the disclosure that hidden microphones listened in on her, her husband and their children during the 14 days they spent in an atomic "fallout" shelter:

"Of course, we would have lived much differently if we had known we were being recorded. We would have been much more self-conscious."

LOS ANGELES — Police Officer Austin Burt Fernwald, 36, who had delivered three babies from parents who couldn't get to the hospital on time, after he had to do the same for his own wife:

"I wasn't at all nervous until I started to drive home. Then it hit me. I really took it easy going home."

Cartoon "That's My Pup" Also Late News

STILL KEEPING WATCH—The space age may seem to be in the doldrums for most people, with no new satellites having been launched in recent months. But every night at the Cincinnati (Ohio) Astronomical Observatory, volunteers man the telescopes in Operation Moonwatch to track the five still-orbiting satellites as they pass over the city. Two space enthusiasts, Thomas van Flandern, left, and Dennis Smith are shown keeping tabs on the man-made moonlets. One object they are particularly trying to locate is the missing tiny American "planet" that bypassed the moon to begin a journey around the sun.
