Slayer Commits Suicide After Prominent Dallas Civic Leader Is Killed

Mrs. Jules Cahn Murdered By Indigent In Social Service Office; Inquest Staged

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, Sept. 12. — Mrs. Jules Cahn, 55, prominent Dallas civic leader and clubwoman, was shot to death today in the offices of the Jewish social service bureau, of which she was director, by Joe Zimmerman, 68-year-old indigent, who immediately afterward ended his own life with a bullet.

Justice of the Peace E. John Baldwin, who conducted an inquest, ruled that the double shooting was a case of murder and suicide. Officers expressed the belief that Zimmerman, who on August 29 was released from jail on recommendations of Dr. A. J. Schwenkenberg, county psychiatrist, and placed in the care of Mrs. Cahn, was mentally unsound. Zimmerman had been placed in jail because authorities believed him to be insane.

Zimmerman called at the Jewish social relief service bureau with the expressed intention of "having a few words with Mrs. Cahn," the statement being made to Mrs. Ida Lyons, a cousin of Mrs. Cahn with whom Zimmerman was boarding.

Mrs. Cahn was in the office of George A. Levy, executive director of the relief agency, when Zimmerman called. He was informed that Mrs. Cahn would see him shortly. After talking with another visitor, Mrs. Cahn went to her office, followed by Zimmerman, and almost immediately three shots were heard. Levy told police he ran to the office, arriving just as Mrs. Cahn fell to the floor and as Zimmerman fired a shot into his own chest. Mrs. Cahn, shot in the abdomen and chest, died at a hospital.

Zimmerman had been staying at the home of Mrs. Lyons for the past week. Sunday Mrs. Cahn called

Cotton Checks Arrive In Lubbock County

Federal Funds Available For Local Farmers

Total Of $13,638 Received By County Agent Tuesday; More Checks Being Expected In The Near Future

Top Paid Is $770

Approximately $1,000,000 To Flow Into Lubbock County As Result Of Government's Reduction Campaign

BLIND loyalty which prompted Farmer Brown and his mule to plow under a third of the cotton crop they had toiled so to produce is being rewarded as promised.

O. G. Tumlinson, county agent, late Tuesday mailed cards to 44 Lubbock county farmers informing them their cotton acreage reduction checks, totaling $13,638, had arrived from Washington, D. C. They were instructed to call at the county agent's office for them.

Arrive Quickly

The checks arrived half a day after formal notice that they were being mailed, Mr. Tumlinson said.

W. R. Gregory received the largest check, for $770. Five of the 44 were less than $100, a $66-check being the samllest.

Lubbock county is scheduled to receive approximately a million dollars for reduction of cotton acreage. As nearly 2,500 contracts were signed by Lubbock county farmers, it is believed several weeks will pass before all payments are made.

Checks Are Cashed

Lubbock banks Tuesday cashed similar checks from Hockley county. They were the first to be presented here.

The Hale county agent last night reported no checks received there.

Reports from Crosby and Floyd counties were not available last night. To late Tuesday afternoon, no checks had been received at Floydada, Tahoka, Crosbyton, Post, Brownfield, or Amherst, county agents reported.

Mr. Tumlinson late Tuesday was without information as when to expect the next group of checks. The first quota was less than had been

League Leader Says America Guides World

Secretary-General Is Hopeful For Supreme Efforts Toward Treaty; Grave Problems In Europe Described

By JOSEPH E. SHARKEY
Associated Press Correspondent

GENEVA, Sept. 12. — The world awaits anxiously the results of the great economic experiment now being carried on in the United States, seeking lessons which may be profitable, Joseph Avenol, new secretary general of the League of Nations, said tonight.

It was M. Avenol's first interview since assuming office.

The secretary-general, one of the leading international financial and economic authorities and the secretary of the world economic conference, said the transformation in the American economic system affects the interests of the entire world.

To Seek Treaty

"At the world economic conference," he added, "the United States was able to measure the international repercussions of its policies."

Indications are increasing, M. Avenol continued, that at the international disarmament conference supreme efforts will be made to negotiate some kind of treaty.

Referring to this conference, he

Storm Clouds Gathering For Cuban Leaders

Men Who Fought For Ouster Of Machado Are Now In Control Of Destinies; Army Heads Barricaded In Hotel

Solutions Sought

Fears Are Expressed Violence Might Result From Attitude Of Officers; De Cespedes Their Candidate

(By The Associated Press)

HAVANA, Sept. 12. (AP)—A Cuban government made up exclusively of men who fought to oust Gerardo Machado tonight took this island's destinies into its hands as several hundred army officers outspoken in their opposition remained barricaded in their hotel.

One month to the day after Machado was ousted, the tall new president, Dr. Ramon Grau San Martin, swore in his cabinet of eight men who battled with him against the former executive.

Work On Problems

Apparently paying little attention to the storm clouds of opposition, the regime set to work on the republic's manifold problems. As a guide mark they had the declaration of Grau San Martin that "Cuba at last is free."

"I feel happy to say that Cuba at last is free among the civilized nations of the world," the president told a loudly-cheering crowd which assembled in the palace to witness the formal swearing in of the cabinet.

Hope For Prosperity

" . . . At last Cuba has a stable government," he added. "All that is needed is to assure prosperity, and we hope that prosperity will come quickly."

Despite the reassurance of the chief executive, fears were expressed in many quarters that violence might result from the attitude of

Husband-Lover Causes Stir In Court As He Opposes His Wife In Suit Against Film Actress

"I Know I Am The One To Blame," Read Declares; Says He Should Be The One Sued And Not Claire Windsor; Tells Of Quarrels With Wife Over Men And Women

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 12. — Relating how he had been the aggressor in the now defunct love affair with blonde Claire Windsor of the stage and screen, Alfred C. Read, jr., caused a stir today at the trial of his divorced wife's $100,000 alienation of affections suit against Miss Windsor by declaring he was the one who should be sued.

"If anyone should be sued it should be me and not Miss Windsor," testified Read, former stock broker of Oakland.

A juror blinked and asked him to repeat the statement.

In his testimony Read shouldered all the blame for the love affair with the violet-eyed Miss Windsor which blossomed on a trans-continental train two years ago. The two women in the case smiled broadly at some of his statements.

Read said he and his wife, Mrs. Marian Young Read, had repeated quarrels — "at least 100"—over other men and wom-

Wets Lead By Big Majority In Each Area

Maryland, Minnesota And Colorado Show Commanding Leads As Late Returns On Voting Trickle In Tuesday

Only Seven To Go

Twenty-Nine States Now Lined Up; Baltimore Shows Eleven To One Vote; Other Cities Also Back Wets

(By The Associated Press)

MARYLAND and Colorado yesterday voted for prohibition repeal while late returns from Minnesota indicated that state also would follow suit by a substantial margin.

Maryland's victory for repealists showed a vote of over five to one while Colorado wets held a good two to one advantage. Late returns from Minnesota showed the home state of Andrew Volstead leaning toward repeal by two to one.

Baltimore Is Strong

Baltimore went 10 1-2 to 1 for repeal, thus electing 18 wet delegates to the state convention of 24 that will formally ratify the 21st amendment for Maryland.

On Monday Maine became the 26th consecutive state to approve repeal. Maryland, Minnesota and Colorado bring the total to 29, seven short of the necessary 36 for ratification. No state has voted to retain prohibition.

Maryland Is The 27th State To Join Ranks

BALTIMORE, Sept. 12 (AP)—Maryland today voted over five to one for prohibtion repeal. It was the 27th state to go wet.

Not a single dry was elected as delegate to the state's repeal convention—to be made up of six delegates at large and three delegates from each of the six congressional districts.

In Baltimore the wets polled a 10 1-2 to one victory. At midnight it appeared that the drys had taken only one county, Dorchester, though two others were very close.

Vote Is Given

With 1,256 of the state's 1,379 voting precincts having reported the count stood:

For repeal 191,991.
Against repeal 37,051.
Unpledged 3,452.

The Baltimore city vote was 119,091 for repeal, 11,295 against and 2,085 unpledged. That in itself was sufficient to assure the election of a wet convention majority, the city comprising all or part of four different districts.

Colorado Jumps Aboard With A Wet Majority

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 12 (AP) — Colorado tonight joined the long list of states favoring repeal of the 18th amendment.

With 1061 precincts out of 1,547 in the state reported in today's special election the vote was: for repeal 112,528; against 49,595.

It was officially reported that Denver voted five and one half to one for repeal. The vote in all 314 precincts was not tabulated but 250

Open Rebellion Against FDR And Members Of His Cabinet Looming In Patronage Fight

Smouldering Resentment Now Flares Openly As Senators Charge That Republicans In Office Are Favored

BY DON J. KIRKLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12—Smouldering resentment over patronage, especially toward Secretaries Ickes, Perkins, and Wallace, has brought a group of Democratic senators to the point of planning open rebellion against the Roosevelt administration in the coming congress.

A round robin, addressed to President Roosevelt, was said privately by several senators who had signed it, to be either somewhere on Capitol Hill or en route to the chief executive, if not already in his hands.

Personal Letter Sent

In additional to this protesting missive, it was understood a personal letter had been sent to the White House by one of the party's stalwart supporters, assailing the cabinet trio for "appointing Republicans instead of Democrats" in their departments.

Key Pittman of Nevada, president pro-tempore of the senate and chairman of the foreign relations committee, was credited in senatorial circles with being the author of this letter, but members of his office force said they had "never heard" of such a communication.

On Way Back

Pittman is on his way back to Washington from Nevada, where he

A successor to Associate Professor Clements has been selected, the name being withheld from announcement until an acceptance is received.

Johnson Pleads For Confidence

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Gen. Hugh S. Johnson pleaded tonight for a return of confidence in the nation's ability to overcome economic difficulties and said signs of a "broad advance are everywhere."

The recovery director, speaking at an NRA rally in Madison Square Garden, declared every economic index has "moved substantially upward since those dark days of March."

Growing out of the NRA movement, he asserted, is a "distinct stirring of hope throughout this country," and that hope, he added, "is not without substance. The greatest element of recovery is recovery of confidence."

Local Boards To Block Violators

Observance Of Code Agreements To Be Forced By NRA

BY JAMES P. SELVAGE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12. — A renewed effort to crush the long-standing deadlock over a bituminous coal code was begun today by Hugh S. Johnson, the NRA director, simultaneously with announcement that "compliance boards" would be set up in every community to compel observance of Blue Eagle agreements.

With the reports reaching the capital of plans by impatient coal miners in Pennsylvania to strike as a means of hurrying along an agreement among soft coal operators, the recovery administration moved for quick arbitration of disputed points.

Name Representatives

At a brief public hearing, the various groups of mine owners were directed to name representatives to begin immediate conferences designed to reach a general agreement upon a code.

In announcing this procedure, while Johnson sat silently looking on, Richard R. Richberg, the general counsel of the NRA, indicated officially for the first time that regional codes might be necessary instead of one board charter for the entire industry. He said that if any small groups remained "irreconcilable we may find it necessary to proceed without them."

The long awaited move by the administration to compel observance by employers of the wage and hour contracts they signed with President

Stringent Regulations On Sale Of Gold Are Modified

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12. (AP) — The stringent regulations that for months have governed the sale of gold were modified by the treasury today to create, in effect, a free gold market for the industries, arts and professions licensed to acquire and use the precious metal.

The change consisted simply in the insertion into the old regulations of a paragraph permitting licensed manufacturers to buy scrap gold—old trinkets, watch cases, rings, teeth fillings and the like, heretofore marketable only at the mint—whether or not the seller is licensed.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12. (AP)—The securities act of 1933 was described by speakers at the annual convention of the financial advertisers today as a barrier that has halted the flow of long term capital into industry where it is needed.

After Robert E. Christie, jr., nominee for president of the investment bankers association, had urged cooperation in making it work, and Col. Allan M. (By The Associated Press)

Governor Miriam A. Ferguson has asked them to reconvene on next Thursday to consider emergency legislation. Chief of the subpects is enactment of laws that will carry into effect a constitutional amendment voted on August 26 to authorize the issuance of state bonds, not to exceed $20,000,000 to succor families made destitute because of unemployment.

Second in importance, the governor listed proposed amendments to the state's stringent anti-trust laws, which might hamper industry from taking full advantage of the president's relief program.

Although the executive did not include passage of a sales tax in the list of subjects named as creating an emergency, many legislators believed that method

NOW that school has started and you have been in the first-day-of-school rush downtown, a recipe for avoiding trouble will be given.

Several years ago, Mrs. S. J. Olsen got tired of going down town on the first afternoon of school to buy her children their lists of supplies, so she decided to remedy the situation. Now she goes to school with her youngsters on the day classes open and gets lists of what they need. Then she stops in town on her way home and buys things before the rush begins. She avoids, also, having her children underfoot while she is shopping.

Then, in the evening while others are rushing around making purchases she can rest at home knowing that she has everything bought.

REFLECTIONS: Hill Stewart looks most like a lawyer among local attorneys . . . R. C. Campbell, looks most like a preacher . . . . Dr. R. C. Mansell looks least like a doctor . . . W. D. Crump is the handsomest old man . . . . That "different" atmosphere walking under the trees in front of the R. B. Hutchinson and G. E. Lockhart homes . . . The startling squawk of that parrot at the Lidel hotel . . . Garnet Reeves' inevitable humorous stories . . .

Things I don't like: Back-hand writing, permanent waves on little children, rouge on very old women or young girls, spike heels, knick-knacks, bangs, beach or party dresses in offices, rose-tinted finger nails, ribald jokes.

Things I like: Patios, dogs, limericks, coffee on cold afternoons, the silence in Catholic churches, walking in the rain.

FATE'S HAND

IN another twenty-five years it should be interesting to read success stories in which men and women tell how they happened to start doing the things they are doing at that time.

There was a time when young men and women went to college with a definite vocation or profession in view. They graduated, looked over prospective jobs and then decided just where they would start.

You may easily find inspirational books today in which authors urge one to aim at a particular job or profession and then work to that end. The theme of these volumes is that "Where there is a will there is a way."

Yet there are plenty of young men and women who have finished college during the last two or three years who will be willing to wager that these stories are just so many words printed on paper, with no meaning whatever. For many of these young folk had the will and ambition and training and yet never found an opening in their chosen fields. The mercenary and unsympathetic business world led them to believe that no amount of ambition and education could create a demand for what they could do.

That's one reason why artists turned to selling groceries, writers decided to homestead, civil engineers began punching cattle or selling men's ready-to-wear and school teachers opened drug stores.

That is a reason, too, why it is going to be interesting in a quarter of a century to read success stories. One is likely to discover then that this depression and panic made a vast difference in the lives of men and women. One is likely to discover that many of the leading men in business and professions got there by accident rather than because of careful planning and education.

People may be still writing that a person can be what he wishes if he makes the effort, but the chances are that there will be plenty of men and women who will think otherwise.

Spanish Premier Announces A New Lineup To Succeed The Government Of Azana After Two Elections

MADRID, Sept. 12. (AP)—Premier Alejandro Lerroux announced today the personnel of his cabinet to succeed that of Manuel Azana, whose resignation the new premier demanded when two elections were unfavorable to it.

The new government, approved by President Alcala Zamora and all Republican minority groups, directly flaunts an old Spanish superstition in that it has 13 members.

"We are above superstitions now," said Lerroux, a 69-year-old attorney who has been active in Spanish politics for 50 years. He himself took the state portfolio until the return from the United States of Sanchez Albornoz, rector of Madrid university.

With the announcement of the government, leftists, radical socialists, socialists, and others distributed leaflets attacking Lerroux and their own party leaders for tolerating the government.

The cabinet follows:

War, Jose Franchy Roca, former minister of commerce.

Interior, Martinez Barrios, former minister of communications.

Education, Francisco Barnes, former minister of public instruction.

Treasury, Gomez Lara.

Public works, Guerra Del Rio, leader of the radical republican party.

Commerce and industry, Gomez Parapcha.

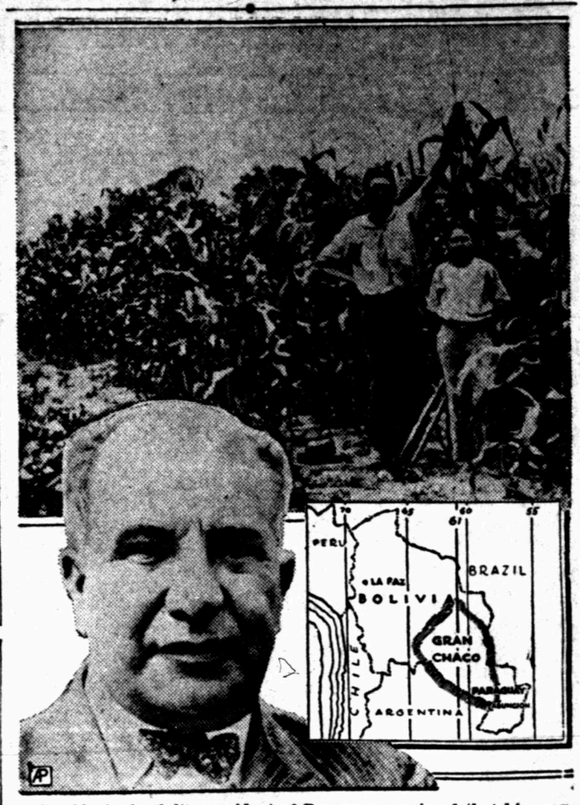

Justice, Juan Asensi, a reactionary deputy.

Labor, Richard Samper.

Peace Time Farms In Gran Chaco Planned By Paraguay's President; Mennonites And Dukhobors To Take Up Area

Eusebio Ayala (left), president of Paraguay, convinced that his country will win from Bolivia the Gran Chaco region, shown on map, has begun arrangements to bring 100,000 Mennonite and Dukhobor farmers to the region from Canada and Mexico. Real tall corn grows there, as the upper picture testifies.

BY GIDEON SEYMOUR

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 12. (AP)—A plan by Paraguay to place 100,000 Mennonites and Dukhobors from Canada and Mexico in the war-torn Gran Chaco region has been revealed by advices from Ascunicion, capital of that country..

President Eusebio Ayala, the advices state, already has obtained promises of cooperation from Chaco landholders, to whom he indicated that an understanding had been reached with spokesmen for the prospective colonists.

Depends Upon War's End

The project depends upon conclusion of the Paraguayan-Bolivian war, recently referred for settlement to the combined good offices of Argentina, Brazil, Chile and Peru.

It also would require Paraguayan retention of the central Chaco region as far westward as the sixty-first parallel. Present battle lines are about 60 miles inside that parallel, but Paraguayan authorities are counting upon regaining the territory essential to their colonization program.

If the present fighting should end inconclusively, simmering down to such a status as followed the hostilities of 1928 Paraguay might press the scheme without waiting for a treaty fixing a definite boundary. It regards colonization as more conducive than warfare to a final settlement of the old quarrel.

Government Pays Fares

The financing of the mass migration from another continent and the placing of the farmers upon quickly productive land offer problems of which Paraguay also is giving attention. The government intends to transport the immigrants, and land owners have agreed to sell to Paraguay, agricultural holdings near the 75,000-acre colony where 10,000 Mennonites have been settled since 1927.

To bring 100,000 new colonists into the Chaco would take ten years, it is estimated, but it would treble the white population. Paraguay already obtains from the Chaco about half of the government revenues.

Mineral Riches Lacking

The new settlers would be exempt, as are the present Mennonite colonists, from compulsory military service, to which they object on religious grounds. They would govern and police their own communities.

Paraguay regards the future of the Chaco as lying essentially in agriculture and livestock, despite the impression that the region is potentially rich in ore and oil.

Geologists have reported there is no more reason to expect petroleum or minerals under the rich red loam of the Chaco than beneath the soil of southernmost Brazil, of which geologically it is a continuation.

Dislike War Notes

Dissatisfaction among some Chaco Mennonites, which came to a head seven months ago in a threat to migrate to Uruguay or southern Brazil, has died down.

Those who favored removal, because of the war and the inadaptability of the land to wheat and cotton, were reminded that the average colonist had done well. The wealthiest of those who came in 1927 is reputed to have banked $30,000.

Lately there has been some grumbling at the Paraguayan army's confiscation of livestock and produce from Chaco farmsteads upon promissory notes which have no negotiable value, but this is not confined to the Mennonites. President Ayala has promised that the satisfaction of these debts will be the first concern of the government when hostilities cease.

College Youths Dominate Medal Round In Amateur Go; Three Texans In

John Fischer Beats Sawyer For Medalist

Gus Moreland Completes Medal Round With 144 For Fourth Place; Jack Munger And W. R. Long Make Top Flight

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

KENWOOD COUNTRY CLUB, CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 12.—Two youthful collegians waged a record smashing fight today for the qualifying medal of the United States amateur golf championship with Johnnie Fischer of Cincinnati and the University of Michigan, triumphant by a single stroke over Pat Sawyer of Minneapolis and the University of Minnesota.

Fischer captured the low scoring honors for the second consecutive year with the new record figures of 72-69—141, in one of the wildest and most exciting finishes in the 37-year history of the national tournament.

Shoots 2 Under Par

Fischer gave a brilliant performance under heavy pressure. His closing 69, two under par, equalled the new competitive course record for Kenwood, nosed out Sawyer and lowered the tournament qualifying record by one stroke.

Sawyer, who finished second with 72-70—142, had no sooner equalled the old mark than Fischer came galloping home to wipe out the record that had stood for nine years. The mark of 142 was set in 1924 by D. Clarke Corkran of Baltimore, equalled twice by Bob Jones, in 1927 and 1930, and by Fischer himself, just a year ago.

Munger Falls Behind

Fischer and Sawyer, with 72 each yesterday, both started their final qualifying round two shots behind the pace-setters, Ross Somerville, of Canada, the defending title holder, and young Jack Munger, of Dallas, Tex. Fischer caught Somerville at the turn and Sawyer passed the champion on the last nine. Munger faded from the pace-setting picture in a jamboree that carried nearly a dozen brand new national tournament figures into the qualifying vanguard.

Somerville, who will start match play defense of his title tomorrow in the first of two 18-hole rounds, shot the best qualifying score of his career, 70-73—143, but it was only good enough for third place, just a stroke behind Sawyer, 20-year old Minnesotan who couldn't qualify last year.

For the most part it was strictly a field day for the country's golfing youth. Tied for fourth place at 144 each were the seasoned Gus Moreland of Dallas, and two newcomers, Jim Milward, 20-year old Madison, Wis., entry, and William R. Long, a young Austin, Texas, bank clerk.

Goodman Is Seventh

Johnny Goodman, of Omaha, 23-year old National Open champion, tied for seventh place at 145, with Frank J. English of Denver, another new comer and Colorado state amateur runner-up for the past two years.

Two more tournament records were smashed when it finally developed that 36-hole scores of 150 marked the qualifying limit and that a playoff was needed among an even dozen who finished there. The scoring range of 141 of 150 for the qualifying list compared with the former low range of 142 to 152, last year.

Tomorrow morning the twelve in the 150 bracket will battle it out on the elimination system for eight places remaining to round out the match play field of 32.

Three Ex-Champs Survive

The three surviving ex-champions, Max Marston of Philadelphia, Chick Evans of Chicago and H. Chandler Egan of Del Monte, Calif., finished on the border line. Along with them were two Walker Cup stars, Maurice McCarthy, jr., of Cleveland, and George T. Dunlap, Jr., of New York, who nearly blew himself out of the tournament with a 79 today after his sensational first round 71.

The others are R. M. Grant of Hartford, Conn.; Chris Brinke of Philadelphia, Nicol Thompson, Jr., of Canada, Eddie Held of Jamesburg, N. J., who has seen previous playoffs; Spencer Overton of Baltimore, who came back with a subpar 70 after his opening 80; Will Gunn, Jr., of Wallingford, Pa., and Ira Couch of Chicago.

Young Sidney Noyes, Jr., of New York, furnished the day's most electrifying spurt with a 31, four under par, for a new record over the incoming nine. This pulled him down to par 71 for the day and a qualifying total of 149.

Noyes clipped the mark of 32 over the same nine, made by Leland Hamman, of Paris, Tex., whose performance, after an outgoing 45, was not good enough to get him a qualifying place. Hamman totaled 156.

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 12 (AP)—Robert Burns Donohoo, 14, died today from the effects of injuries received in a football game at the Draper Junior high school near here yesterday.

Schmidt Must Rebuild Entire Team At T.C.U.; One Regular Player Returns

But Frog Mentor Is Hopeful Of Taking Another Pennant

By BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

FORT WORTH, Sept. 12.—Candidates for this season's championship Texas Christian university eleven face the necessity of filling stardom shoes.

Coach Francis Schmidt lost his entire 1932 starting lineup with the exception of one backfield man. Seven were players who were selected on the Associated Press' consensus aggregation after they had won the southwest conference title with six consecutive victories and finished a full season schedule of ten wins and one tie.

Open Friday Night

Yet the Horned Frogs will open Friday night in a non-conference setto against Austin College as one of this year's championship favorites.

From a bumper crop of thirty-eight candidates, Schmidt is hopeful of discovering men with abilities to replace such all conference material as Johnny Vaught, who was named on the Associated Press' all-American; Ben Boswell, Madison Pruitt, Foster Howell, Blanard Spearman, and Lon Evans.

His task of rebuilding so quickly appeared impossible, but today there is substantial optimism in the Horned Frogs' camp.

Schmidt plans to employe the same "variety system" that won last year's title. He has retained Raymond "Bear" Wolf as his assistant. Wolf will handle the warriors of the front wall.

Dick Allison, 195-pound reserve tackle, has been shifted to center. He looks a-number-one. Paul Hill, 245-pound sophomore guard, is apparently a sure-thing for Johnny Vaught's old position. He probbaly will play offensive guard and defensive tackle.

One of the tackle jobs will go to Manuel Godwin, 213-pound sophomore who worked hard this summer, lost weight and reported ready to play. Captain Jack Greaves, 2-year letterman, has one wing job cinched. Co-Captain Jack Langdon is expected to play offensive half back and defensive end. He is one of the best blockers on the team.

Good Line Promised

Cy Perkins, 190-pound senior, promises to come through as a regular tackle. From this material, Schmidt is confident of building a line that will almost equal his all-conference line of 1932.

John Kitchen, 174-pound last year regular, is a prospect for quarterback. Jimmy Lawrence, 179-pound star from the freshman ranks, and Jewell Wallace, 168-pound letterman, are outstanding halfbacks. Taldon Manton, 179-pound plunger off the freshman team, has the inside fullback track and is going strong.

A heavy front wall, a versatile backfield capable of playing the "Schmidt's varieties" is causing the Christians to be feared as the conference campaign nears.

The schedule:
September 15—Austin college.
September 22—Daniel Baker college.
September 29 — North Texas Teachers.
October 7—University of Arkansas.
October 14—Simmons University.
October 21—Texas A. and M. college.
October 26—Centenary college.
November 4—Baylor university.
November 11—University of North Dakota.
November 18—University of Texas.
November 25—Rice institute.
December 2—Southern Methodist.

Three reasons why the Texas Christian University Horned Frogs, despite the loss of their entire 'all-conference' line, are not being sold short in Southwest football circles. Left, above, is Captain Jack Graves, end; below is John Kitchen, brilliant backfield veteran. At right is Coach Francis Schmidt in his working clothes.

Wholesalers Win Over Hilton Ten

Scoring heavily in the last few innings, the A. W. McKee company Wholesalers defeated Hotel Hilton, 14 to 3, yesterday in an American league softball game.

Home runs played a big part in the game, Knight, Dowell, Allen and Tosh slamming out four-baggers, some of them finding the hassocks occupied.

Another scheduled American league game was forfeited to Hule-Ribble when the Lubbock Printers failed to show up before deadline.

In the National league, City Hall defeated Avalanche-Journal, 11 to 1, the Reporters having trouble connecting with the offerings of Pitcher Godeke.

Lineups:

A. W. McKee Company—Wood, Knight, Dowell, Allen, Ingram, Higgins, Watkins, Tosh, Stalnaker and Morgan.

Hotel Hilton—O'Reilly, Zarafonetis, Shultz, Nixon, Martin, Jordan, Heidel, Pullem, Lawson and Webb.

Monte Pearson Hurls Cleveland To Victory; Sam West Stars As Browns Beat Red Sox In 4 To 1 Contest

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Monte Pearson, the Indian's sensational rookie, today bested the veteran "General Alvin Crowder in a neat pitching duel and Cleveland set the Washington Senators down 3-1.

The defeat shaved a game off from Washington's American League lead since the New York Yankees trimmed the Detroit Tigers in New York. The Senators are now heading the parade by 8 1-2 games with fifteen more to be played.

Pearson was bearing down all the way and allowed only four hits. Crowder likewise was miserly, giving up five, one of which was Hale's home run in the second.

Australian Davis Cuppers Lead In Exhibition Match

LAKE FOREST, Ill., Sept. 12. (AP)—Australia led America two to one at the end of the first day's play in the Davis Cup exhibition matches at Onwentsia club today.

Adrian Quist sent the Aussies into an early lead by disposing of Keith Gledhill, lanky United States star, in the opening singles match, 3-6, 6-2, 6-3. Frankie Parker, America's "boy wonder" of tennis, outmaneuvered the equally youthful Vivian McGrath 6-4, 6-2.

McGrath atoned by teaming with Jack Crawford veteran Australian Davis Cup winner, to sweep through Parker and Frank X. Shields, giant New Yorker, 6-8, 6-4, 6-4, 6-3.

Tomorrow's singles matches pit Wilmer Allison, American captain, against Don Turnbull, while Crawford, who was finalist in the national singles at Forest Hills last week, meets Shields. The doubles bring together George M. Lott, jr., and Lester Stoefen, the American champions, versus Quist and Turnbull.

Barney Ross Wins Bitter Bout With Canzoneri To Retain Lightweight Title

Split Decision Is Handed Champion In 15 Rounds

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

POLO GROUNDS, New York, Sept. 12.—Barney Ross, fighting with the fire of a zealot, saved his lightweight title from returning to desperate little Tony Canzoneri tonight in a fifteen-round battle that surpassed in savagery anything the lightweight division has seen here since the historic duel of Benny Leonard and Lew Tendler years and years ago.

For fifteen rounds, with scarcely a moment for a long breath, two of the fastest, most desperate hitters among all the little fellows fought each other to a frazzle in a struggle so close, so shifting in its roaring tide, that in the end only the split decision of Referee Arthur Donovan and the two judges retained the crown for the burning-eyed, aesthetic faced scrapper from Chicago's ghetto.

Saves His Title

Thus Ross saved his title as he won it from Canzoneri in ten rounds in Chicago in June, by the narrowest possible margin, as a crowd of 40,000 thronged about the ring and howled in protest.

Round after round they ripped at each other, first one then the other weakening, then coming back, then fading off again under a punching storm that never gave the huge crowd a quiet moment. But toward the end it was the stamina that oozed from every muscle of the 22-year-old champion, that lifted him onto the closing rally that saved him the day.

Up To Referee

Judge Arthur Kelly voted when it was all over for Canzoneri by a margin of eight rounds to seven, while Judge Harold Barnes gave the defending champion a decisive edge with nine rounds won, two lost and four even. It was up to Referee Donovan to decide then, and he cast his vote for Ross, giving him eight rounds, Canzoneri four, with three even.

Rarely has New York ever seen a battle so close, so fierce, so interesting.

For six rounds the brilliant little Canzoneri, at 25 a former champion of both the featherweights and the lightweights, swarmed over the titleholder, dazzling him at times with his footwork, his feinting, his right hand punching that at times shook Ross' head so badly it seemed he had to go down.

Tony Has Edge

Tony had all the edge along the early way, gaining whatever margin there was in the first, winning the second, fourth and sixth and holding a savage, desperate young champion even in the third and fifth.

But the fire that burned in the veteran of eight years of [illegible] warfare started to flicker spasmodically from the seventh round. Ross won that one by his thudding body punching, though Tony's blood from the champion's [illegible] with one barrage to the face.

Judge Orders Flynn To Give Fight License

Ired Houston Promoter Takes Troubles To Court; Charges "Friends Of Ferguson" Are Given First Choice

AUSTIN, Sept. 12. (AP)—Judge [illegible] F. Robertson of Travis county district court today ordered Jack Flynn, state boxing and wrestling commissioner, to grant an application of Jimmie Guest, of Houston, for a permit to promote boxing contests there.

The court also issued an injunction restraining the commissioner from interfering with Guest in promoting such contests.

The order was handed down at the conclusion of a hearing before Judge Robertson, at which witnesses testified the boxing commission had advised applicants for permits that they must obtain endorsement from friends of the Ferguson administration.

Two There Now

Guest said Flynn had advised [illegible] his application had not been granted because two promoters already had been licensed in Houston and there was insufficient interest in the sport there to support another enterprise of that nature.

Guest announced he would proceed immediately with arrangements for a bout September 18 between Maxie Rosenbloom, light heavyweight champion, and W. "Young" Stribling.

Attorneys for guest, through questioning, attempted to show that Flynn was guided in issuing permits by the applicant's political friendship for the Ferguson administration. Flynn said he never had told any one they needed Ferguson endorsement to obtain boxing permits although he might have suggested that such backing should be given consideration.

MARY LOU GOES SHOPPING

SHE is only eight, but, even at this tender age Mary Lou is a daily customer at the neighborhood stores. Perhaps it is a package of crackers, and a pound of coffee at the grocer's. Perhaps it is some tooth-paste or toilet soap at the drug store.

Of course Mary Lou doesn't decide on what she is going to buy. Her mother writes a list—this brand of crackers, this brand of coffee, this make of tooth-paste, this kind of soap. She knows the prices, and gives Mary Lou just enough money, with an extra penny or two, perhaps, to spend for herself.

Buying is just as simple and easy as that because of just one thing—Advertising.

Advertising has given all of us a lot to be thankful for.

Because of advertising, people in Texas know about and buy Michigan motor cars. People in New Hampshire buy oranges raised in Florida and California. Because of advertising, merchants and manufacturers are forced to improve their products. It has standardized quality. It has increased consumption and thereby lowered costs. It promotes competition and thereby keeps dealers and merchants wide awake to secure for you the most for your money.

But best of all it writes "Finis" on the business career of any merchant or manufacturer who attempts to fool the public or give them less than value received.

Shannon Cases Will Be Ready

Attorneys For Defendants In Urschel Kidnaping Declare They Will Be Ready To Open Trial On Monday

FORT WORTH, Sept. 12 (AP) — "Ready for trial" will be the announcement made for the three Shannons of Wise county, held on kidnaping charges, when their cases are called Monday before Federal District Judge Vaught at Oklahoma City.

This was stated today by Sam R. Sayers, defense attorney, who had just returned from Oklahoma City.

The Shannons are R. H. (Boss) Shannon, farmer, his wife and his son, Armon, 21.

Judge Vaught has set for Friday the hearing on a motion for a bill of particulars which asks that the government set forth more fully the charges made in the indictment.

According to Sayers, all preliminary motions will have been disposed of before Monday. He understands that prosecution, as well as the defense, will be ready for the trial to begin.

He said he did not confer with Harvey Bailey, gangster also charged with the kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel, wealthy Oklahoma City club man. Bailey is in chains in the Oklahoma City jail.

Immediate Relief Work Is Planned

FORT WORTH, Sept. 12 (AP) — Immediate relief for Maverick county's unemployed through the completion of its $6,600,000 irrigation project, now more than half finished, was urged by representatives of the Maverick county water control and improvement district No. 1 in conferences today with state and regional public works officials here.

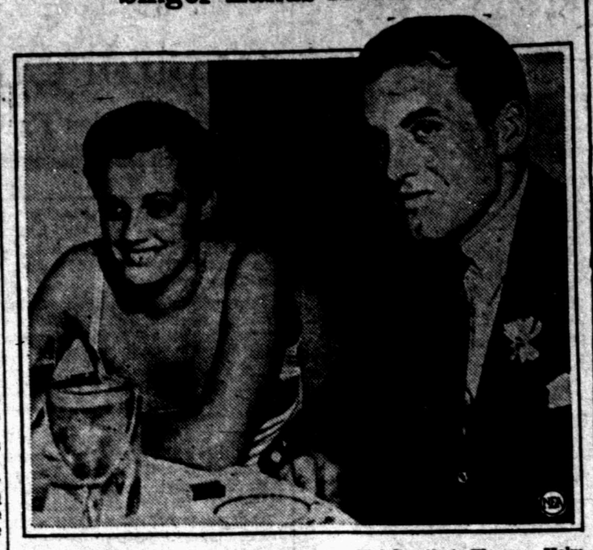

D. K. Woodward, attorney, and E. L. Myers, engineer, both of Dallas, brought a plea before Clifford B. Jones, regional advisor, and Robert A. Thompson, state public works engineer as representatives of water district. They declared that a state survey showed that more than 50 per cent of the county's residents are unemployed and in need.

Delay in completion of the irrigation project also is preventing the primary means of livelihood in the county from being developed, they reported. They previously submitted an application for $2,400,000 with which to complete the project.

TRIAL DATE SET

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 12 (AP) — George McGee will go to trial here Sept. 18 on kidnaping charges in connection with the abduction of Miss Mary McElroy, daughter of City Manager H. F. McElroy, last May. Walter McGee, a brother, is under death sentence on a charge of being the leader in the abduction.

Two Temporary Groups Are Formed By Growers Of Wheat

Wheat farmers have formed two temporary groups, each to serve three communities, and have elected temporary officers, O. G. Tumlinson, Lubbock county farm agent, said Tuesday.

J. H. Snyder, Ward Crim and A. A. Regan, represent a three-community group that met at Monroe Monday night. Abernathy and Liberty, as well as Monroe, comprise this group.

W. L. Brashear, K. D. Brian and George Whiting were named at Becton for Becton, Estacado and Caldwell.

Tuesday night a committee at Shallowater for several other communities was to be named.

These three groups meet Monday to sign up farmers for the wheat allotment program. Applications for sale of wheat land to the government are being sent to each group. Communities will then select their own officers and these in turn will name the county committee. One man from each community is to be on the county committee.

Marriage License Business Is On Increase In Lubbock

Evidencing a marked increase in the number of marriage licenses issued here, the eighteenth such permit this month was granted Tuesday afternoon.

Although the legislature repealed requirement of three days' notice of intention to marry, effective September 1, it retained requirement that the man file a doctor's certificate. He may bring it to the clerk's office and obtain a license immediately now.

Ed Allen, county clerk, upon querying them, was informed by clerks at Amarillo, Levelland, Austin, Post, Crosbyton, Tahoka, Brownfield, Abilene, Wichita Falls, and Plainview that they still required the certificate.

Julian McFall, Wichita county clerk, said he had a ruling from the attorney general's office to that effect.

Tropic Storms Hit Caribbean

Two Hurricanes Are Riding In That Area But Are Reported Far From U. S.; Changes In Direction Expected

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP)—Two tropical storms rode through the Caribbean today, but they were far from the United States coast.

One located 1,000 miles east of Havana, was moving west northwest at 11 miles an hour attended by gales and possibly winds of hurricane force near the center.

The other, 500 miles southwest of Havana, was centered 75 miles east of Belize, British Honduras, and was moving slowly northeast with increasing intensity. The weather bureau said it was likely to reach Yucatan tomorrow, attended by gales.

The bureau emphasized that the tropical storms might change their direction at any time.

A Liquor Control Board

THERE is no reasonable doubt that the coming winter will see repeal of the federal prohibition laws.

National control of liquors, as we have seen it attempted during the past 14 years, is near the end of the toboggan.

Striking out of the 18th amendment to the constitution is as certain, almost, as death and taxes, and the problem of what to do with John Barleycorn will go back, largely, to the individual states.

That being the case, what shall be done with the very necessary question of control of intoxicants?

Certainly, there must be control. But what kind of control and when will it be ready?

That is one of the gravest problems this country has confronting it.

By and large, The Morning Avalanche looks with disfavor upon the 'commission' or 'bureaucratic' form of government as expounded by Herbert Hoover during the four years he floundered in the White House. Yet the subject of liquor control, we think, is one which may well be turned over to a group of citizens appointed by the president, to look into all angles of the question, to study them and to formulate a method of control for final approval of the people.

We should like to see Mr. Roosevelt appoint a control commission non-political, non-sectarian and representing both wet and dry ranks, for this important work. Such a commission should not, of course, be composed of gentlement whose past political aid entitles them to honor, but instead of men whose high position in the nation has earned them the respect and confidence of the public.

Men like Harry Chandler, dry Republican publisher of the great Los Angeles Times; Alfred E. Smith, Melvin Alvah Traylor, Gerard Swope, Alfred P. Sloan, General W. W. Atterbury and others of that type and ability, could well be pressed into such a service. There are great educators, too, whose counsel would be valuable, as well as great lawyers and, perhaps, a physician or two like Crile, of Cleveland, and Mayo, of Rochester. From the ranks of America's great could be assembled a wise, capable commission, to represent us all in formulating a plan to improve deplorable conditions of the pre-prohibition and prohibition eras for the days of the future.

Liquor control is too big a thing, too essential a thing, to be lightly treated.

The subject is not political, although it has been forced into politics by rabid wets and drys alike.

It is a great social question, crying for solution—and must be solved before the great majority of thinking people will be satisfied.

We have long ago discovered that the liquor problem cannot be solved by the open saloon; we have also discovered that by merely saying "thou shalt not", no solution has been arrived at.

This country needs something vastly superior, vastly more intelligent and vastly more workable than either of the two extremes we have tinkered with.

There is no gainsaying that.

True, a man can learn table manners after he marries, but it is very hard on the shins.

You needn't look to make sure. When the movie hero picks up the heroine, the weeping lady behind you weighs 212 pounds.

Some divorces remind you of baseball strategy. The pitcher isn't jerked because he's going bad, but for the sake of a pinch hitter.

Atlas, carrying the world on his shoulders, seems not so much a myth when it is realized that a radio soprano, single-handed, can bring the moon over the mountain.

Another reason you can tell he's an expert is because he won't listen to another expert.

None is perfect; when a man outgrows fairies and Santa Claus, he still believes in statistics.

THE POWER OF NON-RESISTANCE

"But I say unto you, that ye resist not evil."—Matthew, 5:39.

Gandhi may seem very foolish to a world that is in the habit of going to war to down the evil ones. Just suppose Gandhi had started out to use the policy of resistance. He could have easily raised a large army. But the inevitable would have happened: the empire would have long ago wiped out such an army, and Gandhi would be forgotten by now. Instead, he uses the policy of non-resistance, and a great empire does not know what to do with him.

The National Whirligig

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By George Durno

THE palpitation is very faint so far but there seems to be an anti-Farley movement in the making. Air rifles are popping at the Postmaster General-National Chairman with something more than a hint there may be shotguns in the offing.

Friends of Big Jim have felt the breeze of the first sniping. So have newspaper men in whose laps some most insidious stories have been planted.

As yet it is rather hard to detect the source of the shooting. A lot of it bears evidences of New York City origin.

Subterranean rumors have shaken under Washington newspaper feet that Farley is slipping. Some of them have even erupted into print.

For some time of course there have been complaints from senators and congressmen that Farley wasn't cutting the pie fast enough. Ten members of the upper house started a round robin to the president in protest.

The latest warfare has more of a guerrila nature.

AL: Could it be that Al Smith has not forgotten the wounds of the Chicago convention? Is it possible Tammany—plus its hidden banker support—is still smarting from a forced retreat? Are the anti-Roosevelt forces in New England active again? Does the N. Y. City mayoralty fight figure in?

Answers to these questions might solve the riddle, and then again maybe not.

The pressure has been turned on to dim the Farley star. That seems to be the only safe answer.

JAMES: The name of James Roosevelt, oldest son of the President, has been brought into the picture. Stories are out that he is handling New England patronage to the exclusion of Farley. And with the connivance of Democratic state leaders.

This is not overly pleasing to the White House. The younger Roosevelt campaigned vigorously for his dad in New England states. Where Federal job holders ran into Smith sentiment James stepped in with the deciding vote.

Farley, so far as can be learned here, was more than willing. It took a big load off his shoulders.

The Postmaster General's friends are watching the situation closely. They probably will turn up with an antidote.

HENRY: Henry Ford must be chuckling in his sleeve over his tiff with the Blue Eagle.

For a month and without taking a dime out of his pocket the flivver king has kept his name on the front page of every paper in the United States.

Quite a break for a man prepared to spend millions for paid advertising.

Best of all, Ford has had as running mates in his miles of free publicity the names of Franklin D. Roosevelt and Hugh Johnson. Clipping services tell you the last two have got more newspaper space in a length of time than any gentlemen of history.

With it all, his product doesn't seem to have suffered overly.

EDSEL: The elder Ford, it is said, has long had a habit of perfecting his publicity within his own plant. High-priced advertising agencies handle his contracts but their men are never called in until all the strategy has been perfected and there is nothing left but the mechanics of dissemination.

Edsel, the son, doesn't carry half the ballast accredited to him, according to Detroit. Those who have essayed promotion work around the closely guarded flivver domain say papa has a habit of vetoing Edsel's ideas.

Henry seems to have what we jokingly call the "mass mind" pretty well figured out.

GARNER: Vice-President Garner is coming in for a little private panning from his colleagues in Washington.

They say, off the record, he must think he is still part of the legislative branch without other duties.

His critics say he has been off on a complete vacation in Texas ever since Congress adjourned.

Garner usually has something to say when he opens his mouth and may have decided to wait until then to come out of voluntary retirement.

NOTES: Another organization of old-time friends has been added to President Roosevelt's social calendar. . . . They are known as the "Four Horsemen" and include the four newspaper reporters who traveled with Mr. Roosevelt on regular trains back in the days he was after the Presidential nomination. . . . Calling the roll they are Earnest Lindley, of the New York Herald Tribune, who is an official biographer; Louis Ruppel, formerly of the New York Daily News, now Deputy Commissioner of Narcotics; Walter Brown, of the Albany Associated Press office, and Jim Kieran, of the New York Times. . . . Captain Herman Gray, who conducts the great and near-great deep-sea fishing all along the Atlantic Coast, plays no political favorites. . . . He took President Hoover out off Long Key, Fla., in 1930, and turned up last week off Montauk Point, L. I., to do the same for President Roosevelt.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

AS New York sees it there are three separate clashes of philosophy among NRA supporters in and out of government circles. They may make a lot of difference in how the act is administered depending on which school of thought carries the day in each case.

1. Speed. Some want to push NRA as rapidly as possible regardless of methods used. Others prefer safe and sound ways—letting natural forces do as much of the work as possible—with slower results.

2. Performance. Some see it as an emergency measure only, to be discarded when the crisis is past. Others want it to become the foundation for a permanent re-organization of industry along new deal lines.

3. Purpose. Some think it will bring immense economic benefits. Others construe it as primarily a social measure to be administered as such.

In spite of the obvious pressure for fast action most informed New Yorkers believe actual advances will be slow if only because of the multitude of problems still to be solved. They believe the Act will be administered with a view to making it the foundation for a permanent change. All will depend on the Congress elected in 1934. They also think it will achieve maximum success if its social benefits are stressed above possible economic gains—as the social benefits will be easier to demonstrate.

SHAKEUP: Local sources with an ear to the ground hear that a wholesale shake-up in NRA personnel is on the way. As this column pointed out several weeks ago some of those invited to serve as Deputy Administrators were known to be out of sympathy with fundamental NRA objectives. Some have been converted, some have not. The latter will be replaced in the interest of a strong pull and a pull all together.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

U. S. PRESENT MACHADO

Cuban presidents may not leave the country during their term. Therefore when Machado contemplated a trip to United States in 1927, he procured a special dispensation from the Cuban Congress. The tenor of the dispensation was that the northern frontier of Cuba had been extended to include the United States, so Machado in traveling to Washington and to New York, would always remain on Cuban soil. Machado arrived at Key West, Fla. on April 20, 1927, carrying with him a Cuban flag and the curious Congressional dispensation. With the United States included in the Cuban territory, it is easy to see that Machado was President of the United States.

Ginners Face Big Problems

Face Problem Of Reconciling Their Questions To The Opposition Of Farmers For Lower Rates

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 12. (AP)—Cotton ginners attempting to arrive at a labor and marketing code, today faced the problem of reconciling their questions for higher wages and lower ginning charges with the opposition of farmers to boosts in service charges.

A code conference that lasted almost until last night was held here yesterday and adjourned without definite action to permit an inquiry into provisions of the cottonseed crushers code agreements.

One suggestion that came from the ginners for general ginning charges was from 25 to 30 cents for upland cotton with a wage of a minimum of 15 cents an hour for unskilled workers.

The ginners proposed total charges varying from $3.75 to $4.50 a bale plugging and tieing charges of approximately $1.10 a bale and storage charges of about 25 cents a bale.

Farmers argue they were unable to pay much more for ginning until they get more for their cotton and suggested delay of adopting a code this year. Ginners contended the industry was "faced with certain bankruptcy unless it obtains a code and gets more money."

It Looks Like A Long, Hard Winter!

"The Wandering Jew" Is Headin' South And Abie Is Always The Best Weather Prognosticator; Wants To Settle Down

IT'S GOING to be a long hard winter.

We haven't been out to look at the grass or the bark of trees, but just the same, it's going to be a hard winter.

The reason: "The Wandering Jew" is headin' south.

Weather prognosticators may have various methods of determining whether we'll have cold weather or not but the best way to telling around a composing room is to watch for "Abie".

"Abbie, the Wandering Jew" is Nathan Bergman, the last of the once populous tribe of tramp printers known to nearly every newspaper shop throughout the country.

"Abie" is headin' south and wants to settle down after 32 years of wandering over the United States from the western banks of the Mississippi to the sunny beaches of California.

Tramp printing isn't what it used to be, "Abie" says. Time was when the tramp printer was eagerly hired at whatever shop he chose to stop. He brought with him new ideas, new shop methods and news of the trade from other sections. But now the once honorable and ancient profession of tramp printer is almost extinct. Bergman is a survivor from a time that is past; realizing it, he now wishes to settle down.

He became a tramp printer when he was only 18 years old and is now nearly 50.

"I'm all washed up," he declared in the Avalanche-Journal composing room Tuesday afternoon after "hittin' town." "My game is all over. Everywhere I go, now, they tell me that they have all they can do for the local boys. I'm looking for a place to become a local boy myself. It's not like it was in the old days when the tramp printer was welcome anywhere."

Bergman has traveled more than 20,000 miles in the last year and can probably tell you more about conditions over the country than any other man. He personally knows more printers and newspapermen west of the Mississippi than any other individual.

He travels everywhere—that is everywhere that a freight train stops; working a day, a week or more in each place—that is if he can get the work and then he's off again to some unknown destination. He usually tries to "land in towns or cities where "somethin' is doing'" or where some special events are taking place.

Right now, "Abie" admits, there isn't much doing any place.

"Where am I going from here? Well I don't know and it doesn't make much difference," he declared. "It's just about as tough anywhere. Guess I'll get a couple of blankets and hole up somewhere south for the winter."

Bergman says he is now making plans to write a book telling of his career as a tramp printer.

The last time "Abie" visited Lubbock was about 6 months ago. He worked here for several weeks in 1926 before going to Amarillo where he worked for an entire year on the Amarillo Globe-News, the longest he has ever stayed in one place.

AUSTIN, Sept. 12. (AP)—Charley Lockhart, 45-inch tall (or short) state treasurer, in not overlooking any opportunities to place cash in the Texas treasury.

For months the coffers of the general revenue and Confederate pension funds have virtually been as bare as old Mother Hubard's cupboard and business has been transacted on the wrong side of the ledger in the amount of approximately $11,000,000.

When the chance came to pick up a little spot cash the treasury in the form of premature sale of state beer tax stamps, Lockhart jumped at it and then asked the attorney general's department if the proceedure was legal.

Under some interpretations of the beer law, Lockhart could not sell the stamps before Sept. 15, the date beer sales become legal. He foresaw that much beer would be sold without stamps unless they were made immediately available to distributors. Lockhart took the responsibility of putting them on sale as soon as they were printed and collected several thousand dollars that otherwise might never have been added to the state's income.

It was common knowledge that much beer was being sold illegally and some inquirers sought advice whether, in the event they were caught, it might be a mitigating circumstance if the containers of the state revenue stamps, Lockhart however, advised against ma any sales until Sept. 15.

Lockhart believes in political chology.

Before he ran for state treasu his official signature was C Lockhart. Most of his friends h him as "Charley" and when he nounced for office it was under t name so there would be no mists

He also deliberated at length looked up authorities on the pr way to spell it and discarded "Ch lie" as too effeminate.

Lockhart believes in showmans and readily agrees to pose in position suggested by news pho raphers.

"I'm an expert at this p business," he says.

WALL STREET REPORT

By JOHN L. COOLEY

Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 12 (AP)—Stock market enthusiasm waned a bit today after an early bid for extension of Monday's rally. Prices exhibited considerable resistance to such selling as trickled through the list during the afternoon, but the market lacked the strength for further appreciation and final prices were generally lower.

Foreign trading was active, particularly in the first half hour or so which saw some extension of yesterday's gains. Later volume dwindled and the market became colorless. Net losses averaged into a major fraction, though some of the favorites were down a point or slightly more. Sales totaled 2,240,396 shares.

Wheat was irregular, closing down. Bonds tended toward improvement, helped by a demand for speculative loans. Cotton moved narrowly.

In stocks, oils maintained an uward direction and so did some of the motors. Petroleums were mostly higher at the close, but automobile issues were inclined subject to the profit-taking which pared down prices elsewhere.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 13 (AP)—Cotton was erratic today and prices fluctuated without definnite trend. The market advanced on inflation rumors gaining 11 to 13 points but eased off 17 to 18 points from the highs in sympathy with easier stocks and some hedge sales. There was a rally of 4 to 6 points on shorts covering at the end and the close was steady net unchanged to 2 points down for the day.

The market opened higher owing to much better Liverpool cables than due and firmer sterling.

The market weakened in the late trading in sympathy with lower stocks and prices made new lows for the day at 8.80 for October and 9.06 for December down 17 to 18 points from the lows and 8 to 6 points below yesterday's close. There was a rally of 4 to 6 points at the end of covering. October closed at 8.84 down 2 points net for the day and December closed at 9.05 or net unchanged for the day.

Liverpool is due on New Orleans tomorrow 5 penny points down.

Port receipts 49,145, for week 117,439, for season 898,483, last season 712,609. Exports 28,914, for week 78,707, for season 793,258, last season 744,018. Port stock 3,502,318, last year 3,322,562. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 118,145, last year 83,539. Spot sales at southern markets 34,800, last year 37,957.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Sept. 12 (AP)—Early reiterated discussions of inflationary possibilities were followed by reactions when grains and stocks softened in the later afternoon. December contracts, which had advanced to 9.23 or 14 points net higher, eased to 9.05 and closed at 9.11. The general market finished unchanged to 4 points advance.

The market opened 11 to 13 points higher in sympathy with firm cables and on an accumulation of overnight buying orders attracted by yesterday's rally. Washington reports of White House conferences with financial advisers and weakness of the dollar in terms of foreign currencies. The trade commission houses, Liverpool and the continent were early buyers and the advance carried prices up to net gains of 13 to 15 points, or to what proved the highs for the day. Moderate southern hedge selling and some profit taking appeared, with prices working off 4 to 5 points from the best.

However, the market ruled relatively strong during the remainder of the morning and in the early afternoon, traders showing little disposition to follow advances prior to tomorrow's half holiday. Selling from Wall Street and local sources increased later, when other markets reacted with May easing from 9.84 to 9.80, but prices recovered 3 to 7 points of the losses at the close.

The New York cotton exchange service estimate of domestic consumption of 807,000 bales in August, compared with 801,000 in July and 403,000 in August, 1932, attracted favorable comment as pointing to agradual improvement in the statistical position, but was without apparent immediate market influence. Exports today, 25,560 making 786,308 so far this season. U. S. port stocks 3,070,511.

of raising revenue to support the government likely would be brought up during the session.

Sentiment seemed pretty evenly divided on the issue whether revenue-raising measures were needed at this particular time.

The constitution limits a special session to thirty days, but the governor can follow up with a call for a succeeding session should she see a need for one.

en during their married life which began seven years ago today.

Miss Windsor, he said, was only one of the many women who had a part in his life, according to his wife's accusations.

"I am not anxious to see Marian win this case," Read testified, "because I know I am the one to blame.

"Before this trial started, I told Marian that I could not testify for her—that I would have to tell the truth and that it would not help her."

Read said he was reluctant to testify too fully on intimate details of his married life because today was his wedding anniversary, but nevertheless he asserted his wife once made admissions regarding another man while they were having a quarrel over Miss Windsor.

REGRETS TENDERED

BROWNSVILLE, Sept. 12. (AP)—President Roosevelt today sent a telegram to Maury Hughes, chairman of the Texas national recovery committee, expressing his regrets at being unable to attend any of the series of nine N.R.A. meetings to be held in various Texas cities tomorrow night.

Wolverine Beauty

Barbara Strand, 18-year-old brunet of Dearborn, Mich., was named "Miss Michigan" to represent her state in the Atlantic City beauty pageant where "Miss America" will be chosen.

Grains

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, Sept. 12 (AP)—Fair demand continued Tuesday for all offerings on the Fort Worth cash grain market. Prices ranged as follows, basis car loads on track at Fort Worth, freight paid, to destination:

Delivered Texas gulf ports, export rate, or Texas common points wheat No. 1 hard 84 1-2@85 1-2. Barley No. 2 nominally 60-65; No. 3 nominally 55-60. Sorghums: No. 2 milo per 100 pounds 1.30-1.35. No. 3 milo 1.20-1.25. No. 2 kafir 1.13-1.15. No. 3 kaffir 1.11-1.13

Delivered Texas common points or group three corn No 2 mixed 64-64 1-2. No. 3 white 67 1-2@68; No. 3 yellow 64 1-2@65. Delivered Texas common points: oats No. 2 red 44 1-2@45 1-2; oth. 3 red 43 1-2@44 1-2.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Sept. 12 (AP)—Despite a fresh advance of 1 1-4 cents a bushel today wheat finished at a loss.

Profit-taking in the late dealings more than offset continued notice of inflation possibilities and of needed rain for northern Argentina, where a repetition of severe crop damage in 1929 was suggested. A handicap to bulls was that United States government crop figures, although confirming major losses in all cereals, were not as low as trade expectations.

Wheat closed unsettled 1-2@1 1-8 under yesterday's finish, corn 1@1 1-2 down, oats 3-4@1-8 off, and provisions varying from 5 cents decline to a rise of 7 cents.

Local Boards

Roosevelt pending adoption of permanent codes called for board members in every town and city.

Investigate Complaints

Without authority actually to withdraw a Blue Eagle from any window, the boards were charged with investigating complaints, seeking voluntary compliance by an employer where violations were found and, if necessary, reporting to NRA headquarters here.

Johnson reserved to himself the right to act against specific employers.

The boards, which are to be set up immediately, will include two representatives of employes—one for industrial workers and the other for retail and wholesale trade workers; two spokesmen of employers with the same divisions, one consumer representative, preferably a woman, and one attorney. They will choose a chairman as the seventh member.

League Leader

said:

"In Europe grave problems await settlement. We must assure by a general convention of disarmament in equilibrium and a durable peace.

Solution Necessary

"Also we must conciliate the necessities of the great economic exchanges with the realities of groupings of nations."

As extra-European problems, M. Avenol saw the necessity of solving these.

"In the far east there must develop an equilibrium in the relations of China with Japan, the United States and Europe.

"Throughout the American continent, after the difficulties caused by the fall in prices, must come an adjustment of the relations with the United States and Europe.

League Is Universal

"With the Sino-Japanese conflict and the Latin American disputes, the League of Nations has left the limits of Europe and become universal.

"Even if in this extra-European progress errors have been committed, this would be compensated for by experience which the league gained."

The secretary issued a warning that the world is no longer that of 1919, adding:

"Under the diverse forms there is an affirmation of an opposition between the technical racial groupings and national individualities and the development of nation economic policies."

He was optimistic, however, concerning the possibility of friendly adjustments.

Three States Go For Repeal

Maryland, Minnesota And Colorado Show Commanding Leads For Wets; Only Seven More Now Needed

precincts reported 48,885 for repeal and 9,756 against.

Seven Counties Wet

Seven counties outside of Denver, of the state's 63, with all precincts reported, returned overwhelming majorities for ratification of repeal. All seven counties were in the state's metal mining country.

Coloradoans voted for 15 candidates on each side of the question. The successful group will meet in constitutional convention Sept. 26 to record the vote of today's election.

Volstead's Home State Leans Toward Repealists

ST. PAUL, Sept. 12 (AP) — The home state of Andrew Volstead, "father" of the prohibition enforcement law, leaned toward repudiation of the 18th amendment tonight on the basis of incomplete returns from today's special referendum.

Representative reports, in some cases meager, but in others, fairly complete, continued to show a majority for repeal of slightly more than two to one.

With 1,675 precincts heard from of 3,693 in the state, the vote stood:

Repeal 368,478.
Aainst 124,229.

Maine Repealists Count A Grand Slam In Voting

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 12. (AP)—Maine repealists counted a grand slam today in the election of 80 delegates to the state's constitutional convention on repeal to be held Dec. 6.

Prohibition candidates failed to take a trick in yesterday's election which saw the state reverse its 80-year-old dry stand and pile up a more than two-to-one vote for ratification of the 21st amendment.

With 42 precincts missing out of the 632 in the state the vote was:

For 112,626
Against 51,817

The state was the 26th in succession voting to delete the 18th amendment from the federal constitution.

Torpedo Victim Returns To U. S.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12. (AP) — Robert J. Tumlin, of Gainesville, Texas, who was rendered blind by a blow on the head during the torpedoing of the Lusitania, returned today from his annual pilgrimage to Europe.

Tumlin, a cotton man, said he never had permitted his narrow escape from death during the world war to spoil his enthusiasms for the sea.

Each year since his affliction he has gone abroad.

Fellow passengers said the blind man played shuffle board on route home with amazing skill and that frequently he won over opponents despite his handicap.

He was accompanied by two sons, Robert, jr., and Richard.

Called For Quiz

Warden Robert H. Hudspeth of Leavenworth prison, above, has been summoned to Washington by Sanford Bates, U. S. prison commissioner, to confer on the case of Terry Druggan, Chicago beer baron, said to have been granted special privileges at Leavenworth, and on charges of discontent in the prison.

Notorious Sooner Bandit Captured

WHEATLAND, Wyo., Sept. 12. (AP)—When his automobile, allegedly stolen in Pueblo, smashed on a curve near here last night, after officers had chased him for five miles, Pete Carroll, 32, said to be a notorious Oklahoma gunman, was captured.

Carroll suffered a broken neck.

The officers were an clone behind when they reached the curve that their car was overturned when the driver swerved to avoid Carroll's wrecked car. None of the officers was injured.

Sheriff George Carroll at Cheyenne was notified of Carroll's capture. He is believed to have robbed a drug store in Cheyenne of $100 last night shortly before his capture.

Brother-In-Law Of Governor James Rolph Takes Own Life

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 12. (AP)—Robert C. Reid, 50, brother-in-law of Governor James Rolph, jr., committed suicide today by plunging from the top of the 19-story Balfour building in the heart of the financial district.

A note left on his desk said fear of a mental collapse caused his act.

News of the suicide was kept from Governor Rolph, who is ill with pneumonia in a hospital here.

Systematic terracing of hills in north Louisiana to prevent soil erosion is planned by the state extension service.

THE RETURN OF TARZAN, No. 27

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

When they reached their captured village, it was too late for rescue. Already the cannibal slaves were preparing a gruesome feast under the very eyes of their Arab masters. Maddened by the sight, Waziri warriors charged, but were repulsed by the armed Arabs. The old chief himself fell, mortally wounded.

Next day the tribe begged Tarzan to lead them to victory. So he placed their finest marksmen in the tree-tops overlooking the village. Now for days, relentlessly and without sound, their arrows of death flew forth and always a victim, Arab or cannibal, fell, pierced through the heart.

Finally, Tarzan collected his warriors and retreated a mile into the jungle to rest and eat. At midnight, alone he crept through the blackness to the sleeping village. A single sentry dozed before a fire. Softly Tarzan climbed a tree and swung lightly inside the palisades. Cat-like, he stole upon the sentry.

As Tarzan crouched to spring, the cannibal, warned by some subtle sense, sprang to his feet. Eyes wide with horror, his one thought was to escape this fearsome-looking white savage. But before he could even turn, a swift, giant hand clutched his windpipe and, struggling madly, he was borne to earth.

FORT WORTH, Sept. 12. (AP) — The Regional Agricultural Credit corporation of Fort Worth, serving Texas, with branches at San Angelo and Houston has collected roughly a fifth of the $15,027,818 lent to farmers and live stock men since its organization last November, according to figures up to August 31.

Collections for September have been at a faster pace than for August, according to A. E. Thomas, vice president and general manager.

As of August 31 there had been 13,277 loans made, aggregating $15,027,818. Of this number, 1,552 loans amounting to $3,034,431 had been paid before maturity.

Figures for three offices as of August 31 follow:

Fort Worth, 123 loans amounting to $461,523, paid up out of 6,631 loans aggregating $4,077,847; Houston, 1,178 loans amounting to $1,104,159 paid up, out of 5,408 loans aggregating $4,216,119; San Angelo, 251 loans amounting to $1,486,744 paid up, out of 1,238 loans aggregating $6,733 852.

Collections so far in September have been accelerated because of the beginning of the cotton harvest. A number of the loans to livestock men already have been paid. No loan was made for more than a year and most of them fall due during the harvest season.

Reporter Treks Through The Wilds Of Canada To Get First Interview With Missing American Balloonists

Editor's note: Following interview with Ward T. Van Orman and Frank Trotter, American balloonists, was obtained by a Canadian press correspondent who trekked overland during the night to their isolated cabin and back — 20 miles through dense brush country—to be the first newspaperman to reach the balloonists.

By JAMES Y. NICOL

THOR LAKE, Ont., Sept. 12. — While all that remains of the balloon Goodyear IX reposes amid the jack-pines of the Thor Lake area, ruined beyond repair Ward T. Van Orman and Frank Trotter copilots of the big Bennett air race bag, hoped to get out of the northern Ontario backwoods today under their own power.

To a newspaperman who reached the woodcutters' cabin where they rested last night, the American balloonists laughingly remarked:

Will Walk Out

"Send word home that nobody's going to carry us out of here on a stretcher. We are walking out of the shop here just the same as we arrived, on our feet."

Matching their wits for a full week against the wiles of the wilds, traversing country that is an almost impenetrable maze of slash in the lowlands and a defiant ridge of rock above, laid low by illness, Van Orman and Trotter still were prepared to challenge the hazards of balloons and brush heaps.

The veteran airman, Van Orman, and his darkhaired, youthful aide, laughed over their adventures at their temporary home under the pines, 12 miles from here. They were found yesterday by James Barrett, hydro repairman, after cutting a powerline in the hope it would bring assistance.

Smoke Last Cigaret

When they left Chicago on Saturday, Sept. 2, the ballonists carried seven cans of beans, four cans of fruit, six apples, six oranges and a carton of cigarettes. They smoked the last two cigarettes 24 hours before they were found.

Asked about the crash, Van Orman turned over the Goodyear's log, written as tersely as a military dispatch. It read: "Sunday, Sept. 3, six p. m., used 15 bags of ballast fighting storm. Barometric pressure at the ground at the time of final landing was 29.98. Temperature 60 degrees. Wind west southwest, velocity 40 miles an hour.

"Forced down by heavy squalls and severe lightning, barograph glass broken. Hard landing."

Enlarges On Story

Van Orman left it to his co-pilot to enlarge on the story.

"Vertical currents, rain, hail and thunderstorms caused the crash," Trotter explained. "It was the most terrific crash I ever experienced."

The basket with its two occupants struck a tree 20 inches in radius, snapped it in two like kindling wood. The force of the impact tossed the basket 20 feet, and it wound itself around another tree like a top string. The big gas bag was turned inside out.

"It was a stunner," Trotter said. "As soon as we got our senses we shook hands."

Sleep In Basket

They came down from an altitude of 8,000 feet and slept the first night in the basket in the tree tops. So severe was the wind and lightning and hail they didn't budge.

Casually thumbing the pages of a little black book, Trotter recited the events that followed.

"Monday morning at six o'clock our first move was to get the equipment, including the barograph, out of the basket along with the parachutes."

"Did you ever use the parachutes?" he was asked.

"We had them on once but we never used them. We didn't have them on at the time of the crash.

"Then we cleared brush to make a camp. We had plenty of compasses. After we built camp, we made a tent out of a part of the balloon. It took all day. The weather was clear. At sundown we went to sleep.

"Tuesday morning we woke up to find the matches we had were wet. We carried some in a waterproof cover. They too were moist. We had to dry them out. Van took sun sights for latitude and longitude. We found ourselves 20 miles from the railway. The weather had turned nasty and it rained. We couldn't stay out in it so we stuck where we were.

Start For Railway

"Wednesday morning we started for the railway. Brush, brush, brush.

"We had five cans of beans. We had eaten all the fruit. We estimated we made three and a half miles to the southwest before we made camp that night. Two canopy curtains off the balloon basket were our tents and we had a raincoat. We slept like a top that night. —

"Thursday we started at 7:15 a. m. We saw moose tracks in the valley and other evidences of moose life. The insects were bad and we made camp about five and a half miles from the balloon.

Both Tuckered Out

"That night we were both all tuckered out, but we only got about three hours sleep, there were so many showers. The rain put out our fire and we were very cold. We had a quart of drinking water left.

Friday we left camp at 8:20 a. m. and found a marked trail. We made three quarters of a mile the first hour. At 10:45 we found a creek and filled our water cans. At 12:30 we came upon a swift stream, flowing south-southwest. Both of us were becoming a little sick from what we thought was ptomaine poisoning. That was because we cooked the beans in the cans after opening them. We were in pain all night."

Hear Train Whistle

"In agony," corrected Van Orman.

"Saturday we started at 8:15 and an hour later we heard a train whistle. We were both retching severely. At 11:00 we spotted a big moose.

"We had a 12 gauge shotgun. Van took a long shot and hit the moose but only wounded him. He ra away.

"Sunday we followed a high te sion line. By 3 p. m., we had ma only three and a half miles. We c down a telephone pole, breaking u lines in the hope that some r pairman would find us. I left a no attached to the pole that we we continuing along the line. Va hadn't been able to eat since Frid morning; I since Saturday.

Plane Is Heard

"At 4 p. m., we heard a plane a fired every shell out of a pist Van alternated with a shotgu There was no response. At 5 p. m we found a camp tower abandone

"We broke the lock on the bun house and found two beds, fi blankets, one bag of beans, one b of salt and a camp stove. We h two cigarettes left. We sat do then in state and smoked one ea —our last. It was a great celebr tion and we were two very hap men. We found a newspaper dat Aug. 23, 1933. We slept a long ti like two dead men, after lighting fire in the stove.

"There was a heavy frost duri the night. Monday we decided stay in two days to build up c strength. I shot a partridge. V showed slight improvement. At 10 a. m. James Barrett showed up. was looking for line trouble and had food, a loaf of bread."

"And two cans of beans," Barrett put in.

"But did we eat like a pair horses," said Trotter.

Van Orman and Trotter expect to walk to railway steel today a take a train for Sudbury.
