THE FATHERHOOD OF GOD:

Like as a father pitieth, his children,
 So the Lord pitieth them that fear Him.
 Psalm 103:13.

PRAYER: O Love, that wilt not let me go, I rest my weary soul in Thee.

THE WORLD'S BEST SELLER

There are books, billions of copies and thousands of different books, but according to Edwin Clinton Fogg, there is no book that is a better seller than the Holy Bible. He says that since the undoubted and remarkable change of spiritual outlook that has made itself manifest during and after the World War, the Bible has been enormously popularized. Such men as Dr. Conrad, Dr. VanLoon, Bruce Barton and scores of other modern thinkers have startled us all into a fresh interest in this greatest of all books, and we have lost that shame-faced feeling that we used to have if caught consulting the Bible on any day except Sunday.

We find ourselves cheerfully answering questionnaires about the Bible and its characters. We find the movies presenting imposing scenarios based upon its stories. We find the Bible placed on the table in our hotel room—and we discover that it is not only placed there, but used. Bibles in hotel rooms are not only read sufficiently to have to be replaced at intervals, but they are even occasionally carried away by an enthusiast.

It often happens that a man, who perhaps is not accustomed to reading the Bible, has to remain in his room awaiting an engagement for half an hour or so, and out of either curiosity or interest may open the Bible. He cannot help but be instructed by what he reads.

Many people who are accustomed to reading from the Bible may not find it convenient to carry one with them while traveling. For these people it is a source of great satisfaction and comfort to find a Bible available.

Hotel rooms are often occupied by businessmen who are traveling and who may have met with discouragements and disappointments. There is no book in the world so calculated to awaken a new determination and create a new hope.

It is the experience of thousands of individuals that there are times when a sense of loneliness becomes a real burden, but the Bible emphasizes the fact that man is never alone—the Great Companion is near at hand. Many hotel guests travel alone; this means that they are separated from their families and the Bible emphasizes the sweetness and beauty of home relationships. It becomes a blessing to the homesick. It creates a general sense of good will and fellowship and is the great bond in human relationships. It makes a man more efficient and competent in his business life and more kind and considerate in his home life.

A certain young man had worked his way to a fine position in a mercantile house, and then temptation overcame him and he left his employers, taking with him a large sum of money. He determined to hide himself in the big city and registered under an assumed name in a hotel. To pass the time he picked up the Bible and began to read it. As the beauty and holiness of chapter after chapter were unveiled before him, he was self-convicted of his sin. Hastily he gathered his belongings and went back to his employers, returning the money he had taken and offering to pay the penalty of his crime. They forgave him and allowed him to retain his position. The grateful father of young men went to the New York Bible Society and offered to help pay for Bibles for hotels, because the copy had saved his son.

The Bible in a hotel room often averts suicides, thefts and the tragedies of loneliness. That it is appreciated and used there is absolutely assured. It is the greatest book of all time—and the Best Seller.

IMPLANTED LAWS

People in this country frequently are upbraided—and not altogether unjustifiably—with cherishing an implicit faith in the might of written law. Let a reformer be convinced that certain changes in manners and customs, social usages or political practices are necessary, and at once he begins a crusade to persuade legislatures to enact statutes of the desired tenor. Having attained that objective, he usually is content to let the matter rest there; He considers the thing as done and is ready to devote his attention to some other evil or abuse which calls for correction. This is by no means a peculiar American national trait. Reverence for whatever is written is all but universal; it is deeply rooted in the past. For that reason it is easy to overlook what should be an obvious truth—that right conduct cannot be imposed by fiat. Too, the futility of attempting to inculcate morality by precept is proverbial. Many people think that if we could teach the Ten Commandments to our children we would solve our moral problems. Professor Theodore G. Soars, head of the University of Chicago religious education department, said lately: The fallacy of the notion is evident, for ordinarily when a commandment is broken it is not out of ignorance. In truth, the Decalogue, the Golden Rule, systems of ethics and codes of laws, all have been evolved out of human experience. The solemn, sacred circumstances attending the birth of each—that they came down from Sinai written on tablets of stone, or were spoken by Jesus on the Mount, or were propounded by philosopher, prophet or saint; or issued from beneath the stately dome of a capitol—may increase the laws' impressiveness. Those circumstances are calculated to compel lip service, at least; but—however exalted its origin—a law is not sincerely accepted as a rule of living unless it evokes a response from the heart. It must be written there, as the Apostle Paul said, and indelibly imprinted on the minds of men, before it can become an influence guiding their relations with one another and their attitude toward God. All morality springs from "that little spark of celestial fire within the breast, called conscience." Both in contacts with one's fellows and in contemplation of Divinity, that inner voice bids one do what is right. Law might be characterized as a fruition of the collective conscience of mankind. A corollary of this proposition is that right and wrong are relative, not always absolute, terms. The ethical forces are living and ever changing—not always for the better, perhaps; but the predominant tendency of moral standards is upward. Lowell's line expresses this truth: New occasions teach new duties; Time makes ancient good uncouth. For example, within the memory of men now living the institution of slavery—so repugnant to our moral sensibilities—was widely regarded as not only right, but sacred. No past age concerned itself as we do about social and industrial justice. As Dr. Soares observes, Scripture may be quoted in defense of many an ancient and entrenched wrong; yet "the very spirit of the Bible is that each generation shall make a morality of its own. Statutes written in books too easily may be a dead letter. Laws implanted in the heart already have become a living force.

THE HIGHER CODE

A syndicate editorial writer waxes eloquent in defense of the "squealer," the creature who turns state's evidence against his former associates in crime and thereby obtains for himself immunity.

The squealer, our writer friend insists, is necessary to the administration of the law; he is braver than the man who will take his punishment tight-lipped rather than testify against his associates; he is a man who should be held up to public acclaim. Perhaps all that is true; not being intimately connected with the underworld, we cannot say. We think, however, that its the veriest twaddle. People have always despised the squealer, whether he is the boy in the schoolroom who runs to tell teacher of the misdeeds of his classmates, or the criminal on the witness stand who implicates his fellows in order that he may go free. People don't regard that as "bravery." They never will. They aren't—thank God!—constituted that way. Treachery in the criminal is no more likely to win applause than is treason in the soldier. The squealer is nothing more nor less than a traitor. He can't expect us to pat him on the back and tell him what a brave man he is, even when we make every attempt to punish him for his crimes. If he deliberately associates himself with other criminals, helps them perform their crimes, we'll think a lot more of him if he takes his medicine along with the rest. At least, we'll not have as much contempt for him. No, we'll never succeed in elevating the squealer to a high pinnacle in society, even when he helps that same society. He'll always remain a squealer. We'll always condemn him; opprobrium will always be his lot. There was a code which governed human conduct long before a few hundred thousand laws were written upon our statute books. The squealer violates that simpler primary code—and we can't amend it in our legislatures.

We wonder how many men, after they "squealed" have reformed, and have not gone ahead and repeated the crime, or have committed some other just as bad or worse. Some times people are lead into a rap. They are sometimes dragged into committing a crime, and may not be criminals at heart, but ordinarily the squealer is not a type of citizenship that will make good companions for our boys or girls, and the practice of allowing them to go free in order to convict some other, we doubt if it is a good one.

SO THINK WE

We think about the only trouble with President Coolidge going to the Black Hills will be that too many people will want to keep cool with Coolidge.

We think that with anything like a reasonable from now on till the natural date of frost there will be one of the biggest crops of everything usually raised on the plains gathered this year.

We think that the people of the South should look well into the life and character of Victor A. Donahey, Governor of Ohio, whom O. B. Colquitt is booming as presidential timber.

We think that most of the stocks that are "preferred" are really preferred more before they are bought than after.

We think with as many colored folks as there are in Lubbock their part of the town should be thoroughly and definitely designated and they be given to understand that there is where they stay. Too many colored people are living in rented houses in the sections of town that are supposed to be absolutely for white folks. We do not think that any person should rent a house to colored folks unless the colored folks are employed by them. We do not think it wise to mix them as they are being mixed now.

We think that one of the very finest things about the recent rain was the scope of country that it covered. It fell over the very richest section of the western part of the state, and will be of very great benefit to a mighty large number of good farmers.

We think that pedestrians have their rights even if it is the last "riten."

We think Lindy is better on non-stop flights than he is on non-stop oratory, from what we have heard of his speeches.

We think one would run a great risk of being burned should he use a garden hose to sell law sprinklers and garden hose in Mississippi or Louisiana just now.

We think that many places where the oil derricks are the thickest these days, is not the richest place in the world, and some of the places where nothing but oil is to be had, business has gone. People often get too excited over just a slight sign of prosperity and lose their head and then their money soon goes too.

We think that when a fellow starts out to meet trouble half way, he very seldom has to go that far before he is face to face with it.

We think trouble is never pleasant, and should be avoided when ever it is at all possible.

We think that after all opportunity is merely the proper mixture of work and thought.

We think that in all probability, horse-power will always be cheaper than brain power.

We think if most people could live up to the measure of the critics that they would certainly be fine citizens.

We think some men who test their own horn, too it so loud that he thinks he is the entire band.

We think it never pays to fail to pay your poll tax for those who are selling when you may be called upon to vote, and sometimes very important elections are held on years that are not election years in Texas, and in a case of that kind there are a great many people who will be deprived of their voting and some of the issues involved are very important. It is a mighty good idea to keep in voting trim.

We think there are entirely too many mob stunts being pulled over the country.

We think the Lubbock county farmers about the busiest bunch of men that have been working in this section lately.

We think there are great many men who do not really know how to sell when you may be called upon to do so in this section of the country. Lubbock in particular is one of the real busy places. Many new dwellings are being erected, and the big gas contract going on, the railroad construction and the paving program and a lot of city work, require a mighty good program and one that will mean much to the people of Lubbock.

We think it rather strange that Cal would select South Dakota as the place to take his rest, when that spot is practically the geographical center of his unrest.

We think the cut in the size of the money may not be as much as it does not affect the amount of stuff I will buy. My purchasing power seems to have been cut many months ago.

We think road maps are more entertaining these days than seed catalogues and we are of the opinion that they are being studied more than even the family bible in many of the homes, though the latter is one of the best log books of life's highway that one could get hold of.

We think all cities have their troubles, and there are those who have even more troubles than Lubbock. Fact of the business we believe that things look along just a bit smoother in Lubbock than in most any other place that we have any knowledge of.

We think there will be "lots" of bleacuts raised in this country this year. Even after some people thought the wheat crop would be a failure there is going to be many hundreds of ears of wheat raised.

OUT OUR WAY

LAUGHS

Johnnie, aged six, was one of those mischievous little fellows spanked frequently by mother. One day father came home in time to see Johnnie with red eyes and big tears trickling down his cheeks. "Well, son, what is the trouble?" he asked.

"Oh, nothing in particular, pop, only I just had a quarrel with that wife of yours and she spanked me."

(By The Associated Press)

Small Boy: "Tain't enough!" James returned home from school with evidence of a serious disagreement with some of his associates. As he entered the room his mother looked up and in surprise inquired: "Why James, how did you get your clothes so badly torn?"

"Tryin' to keep a good little boy from bein' licked."

"That is just like my brave little son," said the mother fondly. "Who was the good little boy?"

"Me."

"Do you realize what wonders there are in a drop of water?" "Yes, my wife and I spent our honeymoon looking at one."

"What? Gazing at a drop of water?"

"Uh-huh! Niagara Falls."

Inquisitive: "Ellen, what's happened to old Simon?"

Ellen: "He done died wid lead poisoning."

Inquisitive: "Lead poisoning? I didn't know Simon was a painter."

Ellen: "Nonsense, he was in the chicken business."

TEACHING FIRE PREVENTION IN TEXAS SCHOOLS

A bill providing for the teaching of fire prevention in all the grades in the public schools of Texas failed to be made a law by the recent regular session of the legislature.

The bill was introduced in both houses. The Senate's action it with out objection. The House passed it with an amendment providing that the subject "may" be taught. So it ended with no law on the subject.

The State Superintendent of Public Instruction, however, will publish an outline of a course of study in fire prevention in his manual and course of study, elementary Grades, Public Schools of Texas.

This is felt to be the greatest achievement yet made in the advancement of the teaching of fire prevention in the public schools of Texas. This course will be out for the beginning of the schools next September. Terry County Herald.

The teaching of fire prevention is a great thing, and it should be more and more encouraged. The teaching of the children regard the danger of fires more seriously, but it is also teaching them more about their own home, and the homes of the community in which they live, and also familiarizing them with the laws of the state and the requirements of the state fire laws. It is a good thing and there is wisdom in the state fire marshal insisting on the children being taught fire prevention.

SHOWERS OF BLESSINGS

With the fine rains we have been having the past few weeks it makes us feel that we shall all prosper this fall. Times have been just a little hard and we have to manage and scheme to "get-by" these days. Of their better times, we are the way our farmers are handling their poultry and dairy products. Every Saturday afternoon farmers from all parts of the county can be seen bringing in their produce to produce houses. Seems that there must be money in something besides cotton—Frost Dispatch.

The people of West Texas live the soil out here, depends so heavily to the touch of the rain gods. No matter how dry it has been. Let a good rain come, and it will only be a short time till the people will change their expression. There will be more spring in their walk, and their confidence will brighten up and the smile of health and happiness will come on their faces and it will make one feel good to be associated with them.

Your Health

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Since the development of the technical device that measures accurately the blood pressure of man, physicians have given increasing attention to departures from the normal of these measurements.

It must be understood that high blood pressure and low blood pressure are not in themselves, diseases; they may, however, be manifestations of disturbances of the body tissues. Dr. Alfred Friedlander of the University of Cincinnati, recently has made available a complete resume of our present knowledge of blood pressure at various ages and of the factors responsible for departures from the normal.

Blood pressure is usually lower in children than in adults; thus at the ages of three to ten it will average 90 to 100; between the ages of seven to fourteen, approximately 95. British investigators find that the blood pressure rises gradually with age, being 85 at five years of age, and approximately 115 at fourteen years of age. American children "will vary from 92 to 95 at five years of age, and from 104 to 114 at fourteen years of age."

The blood pressure of young men is approximately 120. Forty-five per cent of men examined in the University of California had pressures of 120; 22 per cent, 140 mm. Eighty per cent of 1000 Danish soldiers from the ages of 20 to 25 were found to have blood pressures varying from 110 to 120.

Most of the insurance experts in the United States were inclined to believe that low blood pressure, particularly in persons after fifty years of age, tended to longevity. About 3 per cent of men have blood pressure under what is supposed to be normal.

The evidence altogether indicates that there is a slow but steady rise of blood pressure from childhood on, with a slight lowering of pressure in the early years of adult life. The blood pressure remains stationary until after the age of 40 in most instances, at which time there may be a gradual rise.

Great variations of pressure are found in various large groups of persons, and many physicians believe that heredity, which produces fixed types of blood vessel systems, is largely responsible for this factor. About three per cent of normal, healthy white persons have a blood pressure of 110 or less. Chinese, and Filipinos, in even larger numbers have low blood pressure.

Today's Poem

"I KNOW SOMETHING GOOD ABOUT YOU"

Wouldn't this old world be better if the folks we meet would say: "I know something good about you!" And then treat us just that way?

Wouldn't it be fine and dandy, if each handshake warm and true carried with it this assurance: "I know something good about you?"

Wouldn't life be lots more happy, if the good that's in us all were the only thing about us that folks bothered to recall?

Wouldn't we all try the harder, just to make that goodness grow?—If any other folks remembered Every little good we show?

Wouldn't goodness be more catching, if we kept the thought in view When we're meeting, greeting or true?

"I know something good about you!"

Wouldn't men be truly brothers, if we praised the good we saw?—For there's such a lot of goodness In the worst of you and me.

Wouldn't it be nice to practice That fine way of thinking, too?—You know something good about ME. I know something good about YOU!

FARRELL LEADS SHAWNEE OPEN TOURNAMENT

(By The Associated Press)
SHAWNEE ON DELAWARE, June 20.—With a brilliant 100 for the 36 holes, Johnny Farrell led the Quaker Ridge Golf club, Shawnee, N. Y., today led one of the strongest fields that ever contested in the Shawnee open golf tournament. At the half way mark Farrell held an advantage of one stroke over Willie McFarlane, former open champion, who finished the first day's play in second place with 141. William McNeill, New York, was third with 152.
The best Tommy Armour, newly crowned national open champion, could do was 151. Armour ran into difficulties in the morning round, finishing with 82. In the afternoon he found the course more to his liking and achieved 71.
Farrell won the tournament in 1923 and again last year. In his morning round today he came within one stroke of equalling the record for the course of 47 which he achieved in winning the event in 1922. He turned in a card of 70 in the afternoon, two strokes under par and had a total of nine under, six in the morning and three in the afternoon.

(By The Associated Press)

Strolling Down Sports Lane JAMES R. DOW

The Dawsons came back from the Dawson County capital Sunday afternoon with a victory over the tough Lobos. The Lobos were allowed nine bingles and four hits by "Preacher" Taylor, ace right hander of the Hubbers staff. The Hubber collected twelve safeties and seven runs from Rose, Lobos' ace hurler.

Guess this "Eve" Marshall, Hubbers' new outfielder who was the hard hitter of the Tech crew this spring, didn't help "em out down in Lamesa Sunday. In four trips to the skiff he lambasted out two doubles and scored twice—besides hanging on to all the sky lit hits of the Lobos.

Then this Dude Lassiter, fleetly short fielder for the homebats, turned in a neat game. He fielded with ease and was not so bad with the timber.

Believe the "Old Lady" is going right. The first game he takes the Hubbers through, which was indeed a real battle with the hard nine of Lamesa, to victory for the Hub City.

Now maybe you think the new uniforms of the Hubbers didn't go over big—it opened the eyes of all the fans that attended the game in Lamesa—everybody knows well who is supporting baseball in Lubbock—the twelve merchants of Lubbock will certainly be benefited from their gift to the lads that are battling for baseball supremacy on the South Plains.

Yes, the Hubbers are just a bunch of youngsters—but they hustle. A hustling nine is hard to get out of in any game—sure not if the lads are battling with the oldest heads of baseball—give me a hustling crew—a crew that has their heart, soul and body in the game and will give you a winning combination. That's what this Hubber nine is—look over the lineup and will say that the average age of the club is below 24.

Only finding the Hubbers are having in hand games for the lads here. Lubbock seems to be the hub away from the baseball world—the closest competitor the Hubbers have is in Lamesa and they are 61 miles from us. Now plenty of games can be arranged with the clubs of the Panhandle and of the Southwest Texas oil field.

Dale Gear Is to Head Amarilloans

OMAHA, Neb., June 20 (AP)—After warring factions of the Amarillo, Western League, baseball team conferred with President Dale Gear here today, it was announced that J. O. Whittington would succeed Ed Tracy as president of the club. It was also announced that the player trade made by Tracy Saturday would go through. In this deal Amarillo got two former Omaha players in return for four players and $1,501.

HUBBERS TAKE REVENGE ON LOBOES

(Special to Morning Avalanche)
LAMESA, June 20.—The Hubbers came back on the Lobos to revenge a defeat the club of Lubbock suffered in a three extra inning session two weeks ago and defeated the local nine with a score of 7 to 4. The game was one of intense interest as the hitting of both clubs was strong. The Hubbers crushed out twelve safeties off of Rose, ace right hander of the Lobos; and the Lobos touched "Preacher" Taylor moundman of the Hubbers, for nine bingles.

In the second frame the lads of Lubbock under the direction of "Woman" Sanders, veteran base-ball player of the South Plains, got to Rose for five hits and as many runs, which was one of intense interest as the hitting of both clubs was strong. The Hubbers crushed out twelve safeties off of Rose, ace right hander of the Lobos; and the Lobos touched "Preacher" Taylor moundman of the Hubbers, for nine bingles.

The Hubber lineup was changed by Manager Sanders. "Red" Gaither was sent to the outfield; Lassiter went to the shortfield; and "Tuba" Nicholas took charge of matters at the bat. The Hubbers' ace right hander, "Preacher" Taylor, took over the initial bag and Manager Sanders occupied the bench.

J. B. McCarley, of Claridon, returned to his home yesterday after visiting Sunday with his daughter, Mrs. G. H. Alton. Mrs. McCarley will visit with Mrs. Alton for some time.

Virginia Van Wie Leads Golf Meet

BUFFALO, June 20. (AP)—Virginia Van Wie, the 15 year old Chicago girl, led the field today in the qualifying round of the country club of Buffalo's seventh annual women's invitational golf tournament. Miss Van Wie lived up to all expectations by turning in a brilliant round of 86 on a course which was made slower because of the previous day's rainfall.

Only two strokes behind Miss Van Wie was Miss Edith Quier, of Reading, Pa., while Mrs. H. D. Sterrett of Hutchinson, Kan., was third with a 91. Peggy Wattles, representing the country club of Buffalo, tied Helen Payson and Mrs. Blanche Park Schell for fourth place, each accomplishing a 92.

The trouble with most of these "crack" pitchers is they have the nasty habit of going just that in the wrong inning.
A Chicago wrestler admits to the Illinois legislature he has taken part in a crooked bout. Shame!

Were you to chat with Rosa Raisa and talk about her wonderful voice, she'd say to you:

"My husband, Giacomo Rimini, prefers Luckies because they keep his throat ever clear and free from irritation. He insisted that I try them and I found all he said was true. Now we both smoke Lucky Strikes. Not only because they are kind to our throats, but because of their rare flavor."

You, too, will find that Lucky Strikes are mild and mellow—the finest cigarettes you ever smoked, made of the finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos, properly aged and blended with great skill, and there is an extra process—"It's toasted"—no harshness, not a bit of bite.

Houston Educator Visits In Lubbock

Dr. E. E. Overholzer, superintendent of public schools at Houston, and recognized as one of the leading educators of the south, spent Sunday night in Lubbock visiting with his old friend, Dr. J. M. Gordon, Tech administrative dean.

Dr. Overholzer, accompanied by his wife and daughter, left today for the annual convention of the National Association in Seattle, which meets early in July.

ratio of five for the United States and Great Britain and three for Japan, and pledged an American welcome for the lower figures, if the other nations so desired.

U. S. Ships Planned
At the same time he threw out a politely phrased warning that the United States would doubtless resort to extensive building if an agreement at Geneva were found impossible.

Today's entire proceedings were a series of business-like sessions, with the delegates and public alike leaning forward in rapt attention as if regarding perfectly that mighty things depend upon the weighty words which fell from the lips of Mr. Gibson, Mr. Bridgeman and Admiral Salto.

The proposals of all three delegations will be combined if possible into a single harmonious project. It will not be easy, everybody admits, because the difficulties presented are greater than expected. Yet all the delegates tonight are giving the suggestions of their fellow delegates attention, without anybody saying, "It is impossible."

Japan Plan Vague
The Japanese scheme admittedly is vague, but apparently means that Japan will maintain her present cruiser strength, which is only slightly under the American.

British content that by extending the life of battleships from 20 to 25 years, the United States and Great Britain will build six fewer battleships in the next decade than stipulated in the Washington agreement, and Japan four fewer.

The other main British proposal include reducing the size of future battleships from 35,000 to 30,000 tons and of their guns from 16-inch to 15-inch, making aircraft carriers smaller by 2,000 tons and limiting the size of future cruisers to 7,500 tons, and their guns to six-inch, instead of 8-inch.

Other Points Disfavored
The Americans have been pointing out that 10,000-ton cruisers are needed in America to cover distant points like the far east, where America has no naval bases and that a six inch gun limit would give nations having big merchant fleets an immense advantage, as these could immediately be inserted to an auxiliary war fleet by mounting six inch guns, whereas 8-inch guns are too big for utilization by merchant men. England, therefore, would have an advantage because of her superior merchant fleet.

As the United States is building big long distance submarines, the adoption of the British proposal to limit the size to six inch guns also would hit the American building program.

The next public session of the conference has not been fixed. The executive committee will meet privately tomorrow morning to appoint technical committees.

Building Program Planned
WASHINGTON, June 20. (AP)—Failure of agreement at the Geneva naval armament limitation conference would be followed immediately by a resumption of competitive building with the new congress immediately passing the bill for ten fast new 10,000-ton cruisers. Representative Hiram Boren, ranking Republican on the house naval committee, predicted today.

"The American proposal," he said, "is fair, frank and one which will impress the world with our desire to limit naval expenditures and its rejection by Great Britain and Japan can only bring about a resumption of the race for naval supremacy, which, however costly, will be carried forward energetically by the United States."

Tennis Matches At Wimbledon Played In A Record Time

(By Associated Press)

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 20.—Strictly tennis, and plenty of it, was the order of the day at the opening of the Wimbledon lawn tennis championships and the organizers, aided by beautiful weather, realized the unprecedented feat of running off the entire first round of the men's singles, in which 128 players were entered.

All the interest of the 5,000 fans assembled centered in the scoring of William T. Tilden, the American star, and Rene La Coste, ranking number one, against their respective opponents. Both won their matches without giving the spectators an opportunity to judge what they would do in a crisis.

La Coste, with his newly acquired reputation of the greatest player in the world, and his 15 year old opponent, Sidney B. Wood, an American boy, provided something of a joyful note to the rather monotonous day. La Coste, usually serious minded, over the nets, seemed to take a lot of fun out of the uneven contest.

Young Wood, managed to score five games in the three sets, the match ending in La Coste's favor, 6-1, 6-2, 5-1.

Tilden had an easy time against his English opponent G. A. Pratt, winning 6-2, 6-1, 6-5. He himself considerably by the third set, and sensational aces appeared in the newspapers that he was suffering a recurrence of his old knee trouble. This greatly worried the American spectators, but Tilden himself made the following statement to the Associated Press correspondent:

Tells Of Injury
"The trouble with my knee is not the old cartilage injury which affected me last year. I ran against the side of the courts while playing Craig at Manchester, Thursday, and while the pain for some time was excruciating the old cartilage is all right, and I expect and hope the knee will be all right in a day or two."

The American spectators were given a thrill by the return of Francis T. Hunter to his best form. Hunter played classics in tennis against the Japanese Y. Ochiai, who had shown since he came to Europe, winning 6-1, 6-4, 5-1. Hunter was once a finalist in the Wimbledon championships and his friends look for him to go along well in this tournament.

Borotra, holder of last year's championship had a stormy passage in the first round. He defeated A. C. Belgrave, England, in straight sets, but all of these went into extra games, the score being 7-5, 7-5, 9-7.

Out-of-town visitors in Lubbock yesterday included: E. C. Mallinam, of Florida; M. N. Whitten, of Dallas; and Foster Carroll, of Slaton.

Mrs. W. M. Adams, of Brownfield, was admitted as a patient in a local sanitarium yesterday.

other sections were worth more than a billion dollars. They declared for complete eradication immediately. Florida officials expressed the belief that the pest could be eradicated by prompt measures.

The infested areas are in Hidalgo and Cameron counties, where the grape fruit industry comprises about 60,000 acres in small orchards, with about 4,200,000 trees, of which it is estimated 210,000 will bear fruit this year. It is estimated this year's crop in the region will be from 350,000 to 400,000 boxes.
