The sale of fireworks "tickets" for the big July 4th celebration in Towle Memorial Park is now underway and you can purchase one for a dollar. It will require about two thousand of them to take care of the expenses incidental to the fireworks, prizes, etc., which the Chamber of Commerce will give away at the Independence Day event.

A lot of prizes are donated, of course, by local merchants, but some of the larger ones are paid for at greatly reduced rates.

The biggest prize on the list again will be a color television set, and there will be many more.

Purchase of a fireworks ticket actually is a contribution to the expense fund, since the celebration always has been carried on as a self-sustaining activity. Also, it is one of the most popular activities held here each year and attracts the largest crowd among the annual events held in Snyder, with many coming from out of town.

The cost of fireworks has gone up (and what hasn't) since last year, but the Chamber of Commerce July 4th committee does not want to skimp on this event because it really is the headliner of the whole Independence Day show.

Another organization is hunting old photographs, newspaper clippings and other items of historical interest. The Permian Basin Oil Show is searching for such items dealing with the oil industry in the basin so that exhibits can show people today how the industry once was in this area. Anyone willing to lend such items for the show, with assurance that they will be returned promptly, has been asked to contact Tom Brandon at 1313 West Third Street in Odessa.

Cambodian Units Blunt Big Communist Attack

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Cambodian tanks and infantry blunted a heavy Communist-led attack today on the provincial capital of Siem Reap, four miles south of the ancient Cambodian capital of Angkor Wat.

A responsible military source said the enemy troops were withdrawing toward Angkor Wat, the site of historic ruins from the ancient Cambodian empire.

The fighting centered around the provincial airport two miles northwest of Siem Reap. The informant said enemy forces had been cleared from the airport but that he did not know whether it had reopened. It closed down after sporadic fighting Friday.

Reports from Siem Reap indicated that street fighting had died down but that some North Vietnamese and Viet Cong units were still in the town.

Some sources said Siem Reap is defended by a large Cambodian force and that the enemy attack apparently was aimed more at embarrassing the Phnom Penh government than at capturing and holding the territory. A big enemy victory near Angkor Wat would receive publicity because of the name of the ancient capital.

Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops also kept up their pressure today in other parts of Cambodia, and spokesmen in Phnom Penh said the current offensive is the enemy's largest and most widespread since U.S. and South Vietnamese troops entered the country's eastern provinces a month ago.

The enemy kept up heavy pressure on Kompong Cham, a provincial capital 80 miles north of Phnom Penh. The source in Phnom Penh said enemy troops had seized control of Highway 6 between the Cambodian capital and Kompong Cham and were barring even civilian traffic from the road.

This, the informant said, was only one of many indicators of the steadily deteriorating military situation in Cambodia.

Angkor Wat, 185 miles northwest of Phnom Penh, is the site of 40 square miles of some of the most imposing temple ruins in Cambodia. The government began evacuating tourists from the area Friday, but the airport was then closed and it was not known whether all of the tourists got out safely.

Sporadic fighting had been reported near the airport Friday. Military officials said then that the closest known North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces were 60 miles away and that the clashes probably involved Cambodian Communists, known as Khmer Rouge.

Fighting as far as Siem Reap surprised officials in Phom Penh, who up to now have had to deal mostly with enemy pressure northeast and south of the capital.

The action at Siem Reap spread Cambodia's small and inexperienced army still thinner, but officials had hopes that Thai troops would arrive in the area soon. There have been reports that some troops from Thailand would be assigned there.

Fluvanna Set For Big Homecoming

FLUVANNA — Practice sessions and last-minute informal committee conferences mark the week before the big Homecoming celebration June 12-13 at Fluvanna, where residents are preapring for an influx of 800 to 1000 former residents and ex-students.

All committees report plans complete for this fourth Homecoming observance. Highlights of the two days will be, on Friday, a tea honoring senior citizens, ex-residents, and students prior to 1927, to be held at Fluvanna Community Center 3 to 5 p.m. and class parties beginning at 8 p.m. at the school and in nearby homes; on Saturday, barbecue lunch served at the school gym, followed by a program in the school auditorium at 2 p.m.

The program has the theme "Do You Remember When" and consists of several segments clued to actual events in Fluvanna, depicted in song, dance and fashion. Ralph Miller is narrator, and Mrs. Bill Stansell is pianist. Mrs. Russell Jones (Minnie Stavely) of Seminole will provide musical interludes between scenes.

L. M. Dawson, general chairman of the event, will recognize special guests and present awards to the oldest teacher and student and to those traveling farthest. Dawson, now superintendent of schools at Westbrook, was Fluvanna's superintendent from 1955 through 1968.

Import Controls High On Agenda At TIPRO Meet

DALLAS (AP) — Oil import controls and stronger incentives to stimulate lagging domestic explorations for new petroleum reserves will be major items under study the next three days by Texas independent oil operators.

The Texas Independent Producers & Royalty Owners Association (TIPRO) meeting opens Sunday with an open forum on the controversial subject of a proposed unitization law in Texas.

Policy resolutions will be considered Monday and Tuesday.

Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., will speak Sunday afternoon after receiving the association's annual recognition award.

Dole will be followed Monday by John Carver, a member of the Federal Power Commission; James Akins, director of the State Department's Office of Fuels and Energy; and Frank Ikard, president of the American Petroleum Institute.

Henry Wilson, president of the Chicago Board of Trade, speaks at the concluding Tuesday session.

The independents also will hear the November general election candidates for the Senate seat lost by Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex.

Rep. George Bush, a Houston Republican congressman and former Olmsby, speaks Monday morning. Bush's Democratic opponent, Lloyd Bentsen Jr., Houston businessman and former Rio Grande Valley congressman, speaks Tuesday morning.

Imports and improved incentives will dominate the Monday afternoon business session for review of committee reports and recommendations.

The independents are expected to determine that the Interior Department's current mandatory oil import control program is so flexible its fundamental purpose and objectives have been obscured.

A report by President Nixon's special cabinet level task force on oil imports also is expected to undergo severe attack. The task force majority recommended abandonment of the current quota system in favor of a tariff system aimed at causing domestic crude prices to be reduced.

The association at times has considered a tariff as a logical method of controlling imports but W. J. Murray Jr., the trade group's president from Austin, has said the task force report "probably represents a graver threat to the domestic industry than any of the other current problems."

"Tipro is on record as advocating some form of producer-explorer quota, but has neither agreed upon nor felt it wise at this time to endorse any of the several reasonably acceptable plans," Murray said recently.

The association's policy will be hammered out Tuesday.

Finch Leaving; Richardson To Cabinet Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon announced today that Robert H. Finch is leaving his post as secretary of health, education and welfare to join the top White House staff and will be replaced in the department by Elliot Richardson, now undersecretary of state.

Appearing before newsmen in the White House press center, Nixon began by describing Finch as "my oldest and closest friend and associate within the administration." He declared:

"I regret losing him at HEW but I need him here."

The President indicated he felt there were areas in which he was not getting the full range of counsel that he expects Finch to provide.

Richardson, 49, has been undersecretary of state since the beginning of the Nixon administration and had served as assistant secretary of health, education and welfare in the Eisenhower administration.

Finch's departure from the Cabinet was the first in the Nixon presidency. At the White House, he will share the title of counselor to the President—the highest staff designation—with John D. Ehrlichman and Bryce N. Harlow.

Nixon told newsmen he and Finch had been discussing for some time the possibility of his old friend providing regular counsel to the chief executive in the domestic field and in some foreign policy areas.

Declaring that he had hoped Finch could serve both as private adviser and Cabinet secretary, Nixon said experience showed that running the Department of Health, Education and Welfare was a full-time job.

Finch, former Republican lieutenant governor of California has been embroiled in a series of controversies while serving in the Cabinet and, from time to time, there had been rumors he might leave government entirely.

Talking to newsmen after Nixon announced his job shift, Finch said, "It's a higher calling but a lower salary."

Finch described the move as "coming home to be with Bob and John" and other Nixon aides—references to presidential chief of staff H. R. Haldeman and Ehrlichman.

Haldeman and Ehrlichman are regarded as the two most powerful figures on the White House staff.

The president's action to transfer Finch had been predicted by the Chicago Tribune in its final edition of Saturday.

Nixon, trying to nip in advance any speculation that Finch's survival might precipitate staff rivalries, said all his top associates "are team players" and that the addition of Finch will strengthen the staff operation.

Richardson, a former Republican lieutenant governor of Massachusetts, said of his nomination for the Cabinet:

"I'm delighted, stunned and saddened all at once."

Richardson said he had enjoyed his work at the State Department, and added that he would be "rejoining old friends" at HEW. "I look forward to the assignment because it is a demanding one," he said.

Nixon, who has faced some criticism because of a supposed reliance on Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, his former New York law partner, suggested Finch will play a major advisory role.

Besides serving on the domestic affairs council, Nixon said Finch will travel with him regularly—whether to foreign countries or to Florida or Southern California for working vacations.

Fire Damages Playboy Club

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) — The fashionable 10-story building that is home to Hollywood's Playboy Club was damaged early today by a fire which also briefly threatened neighboring structures on the glittering Sunset Strip.

The $10-million, 86,900-square-foot building suffered relatively little structural damage, fire officials said. The damage estimate was $400,000, mostly to interior furnishings.

No injuries were reported.

Officers said the blaze started for unknown reasons in a lounge area of the third floor, the actual location of the Playboy Club, and climbed along the building's southern wall and through its windows to the top.

As the fire made its ascent, it burned out furnishings of the Playboy Club, Playboy executive offices, an insurance company and other offices and the top story soundstage for the "Playboy After Dark" television series, authorities said.

The blaze prompted two alarms at 3:05 a.m., more than an hour after the club closed.

Fair Skies Over Texas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fair skies and mild temperatures were in the forecast for Saturday as a ridge of high pressure dominates the Texas weather scene.

Early morning cloudiness stretched across the far west and southwest portions of the state with the rest of the state enjoying a night of clear skies and mild temperatures.

Temperatures dipped in a few spots as record lows were noted. Fort Worth tad a 56 at 5 a.m. which was the coolest for a June 6 since 1937 when a 57 was recorded. San Antonio had a record 58 Friday.

Early morning thermometer readings ranged from 53 at Amarillo to 72 at Brownsville.

A few thunderstorms plagued the state Friday with one inch of rain and marble-sized hail being dumped on Alpine Friday afternoon. Radar picked up a few thundershowers south of El Paso near the Mexican Border Friday night.

The high pressure ridge, extending from the central Rocky Mountains into the Gulf of Mexico is to govern the weather over a five-state area through Sunday, the Weather Bureau said.

There will be a general warming trend with warm days and cool nights.

Israelis, Arabs Stage New Raids

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israelis and Arabs marked the third anniversary of the six-day Middle East war with a new round of raids— the Israelis in the air, Arab commandos on the ground.

Israeli warplanes assaulted Egyptian military targets along the Suez Canal for 11 hours Friday and then returned at night for another 3½ hours.

The military command in Tel Aviv said the heavy bombing was aimed at reducing Israeli casualties along the waterway and preventing an Egyptian buildup.

Arab guerrillas staged sporadic border raids Friday and resumed them today, firing rockets from Lebanon into the Kirayat Shomona area of Upper Galilee, the Tel Aviv command said.

In six days the Israelis have hit Egyptian canal targets for about 65 hours, in line with the new strategy announced Friday by Lt. Gen. Hain Bar-Lev, Israeli chief of staff, in an anniversary statement.

Bar-Lev said that Israeli forces have shifted from a policy of retaliation to "continuous military activity" in order to "counter war with war."

Mass demonstrations were staged and speeches delivered in various parts of the Arab world Friday.

Libya's strongman, Col. Muammar Kadafi, told a Damascus rally on the second day of his visit to Syria that all Arab armies must be thrown against Israel.

Soviet Spaceship Continues Orbit

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet spaceship Soyuz 9, launched Monday night, continued its solitary orbit of the earth today with its two passengers reported "feeling well."

A brief morning report on the flight said the cosmonauts—Adrian Nikolayev and Vitaly Sevastyanov—had begun their fifth rest period since the launching. The two men have been sleeping from early morning to mid-afternoon while the spaceship is out of radio contact with Russia.

Rap's Bond Is Forfeited

ELLICOT CITY, Md. (AP) — A bail bond company which held a $10,000 bond on H. Rap Brown has been notified by the Howard County Circuit Court that it has forfeited the money because the black militant leader is still missing a month after his scheduled trial appearance.

A spokesman for the court said Friday the Eastern Shore Bail Bond Service of Cambridge officially forfeited the bond last Wednesday, 30 days after Brown was ordered to appear in Ellicott City for his trial on arson and riot charges.

Brown was scheduled to go on trial May 4 before Howard County Circuit Court Judge James Macgill on charges stemming from civil disorders during July 1967 in Cambridge.

After he failed to appear, the judge issued a bench warrant for his arrest and two days later the black militant was named to the FBI's most wanted list.

The 10 commandments for husbands

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I notice that on occasion you have reprinted articles on request, which I think is fine, especially those which uphold morality in young people. However, I urge you to reprint the 10 Commandments for the 20th Century Husband. With so much infidelity going on and the divorce rate skyrocketing, it is needed now more than ever.

Thank you. GRATEFUL SAILOR—FPO SEATTLE

DEAR GRATEFUL: With pleasure. Ten Commandments for the 20th Century Husband:

1. Thou shall put thy wife before thy mother, thy father, thy daughter, and thy son, for she is thy lifelong companion.

2. Abuse not thy body either with excessive food, tobacco, or drink, that thy days may be many and healthful in the presence of thy loved ones.

3. Permit neither thy business nor thy hobby to make of thee a stranger to thy children, for the precious gift a man giveth his family is his time.

4. Forget not the virtue of cleanliness.

5. Make not thy wife a beggar, but share willingly with her thy worldly goods.

6. Forget not to say, "I love you." For even tho thy love be constant, thy wife doth yearn to hear the words.

7. Remember that the approval of thy wife is worth more than the admiring glances of a hundred strangers. Cleave unto her and forsake all others.

8. Keep thy home in good repair, for out of it cometh the joys of thy old age.

9. Forgive with grace. For who among us does not need to be forgiven?

10. Honor the Lord thy God all the days of thy life, and thy children will rise up and call thee blessed.

Truly yours, ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

P. S. Next Sunday the TEN COMMANDMENTS FOR WIVES.

DEAR ABBY: I have never seen this problem in your column, but I would sure like to.

How long should a hostess wait for late dinner guests? Last evening my husband and I attended a party at the home of friends. We were invited for 7 o'clock and arrived promptly. So did everyone else, with the exception of one couple who came steaming in full of apologies at 8:45! The hostess held up dinner for this couple. By that time I had developed a hunger headache and my husband exceeded his quota of cocktails. Need I tell you what kind of an evening we had? Your comments would be very much appreciated.

BURNED UP

DEAR BURNED: I think 15 minutes is long enough to "hold up" a scheduled meal for a tardy guest. George Washington is said to have set a good precedent. He instructed his cook to inquire not, "Have the guests arrived?" but, "Has the HOUR arrived?" It's still a good rule.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LOOKS YOUNGER": Are you bragging or complaining? When men between 25 and 30 ask you out, look them in the eye and say, "Thanks a lot, but I am 34 — a little 'old' for you, but if you have a friend between 35 and 45, send him around."

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Letter writing can be a breeze. For Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

Soviet Naval Buildup Is Pressing US

By LEWIS M. SIMONS
Associated Press Writer

PORT SWETTENHAM, Malaysia (AP) — The Soviet naval buildup in the Indian Ocean is pressing the United States into a similar expansion, the commander of the U.S. 7th Fleet said today.

"The Soviets have been sending their units to the Indian Ocean in considerable numbers recently," Vice Adm. Maurice F. Weisner told newsmen aboard his flagship, the guided missile light cruiser Oklahoma City.

"We feel it would be desirable for the United States to have a presence in the Indian Ocean," he added, "and it would—I would say—be related to what the Soviets are doing there too."

He said he hoped for greater freedom with the end of the U.S. involvement in Vietnam so the U.S. naval vessels could be committed to the Indian Ocean in numbers "more than we have recently had."

Weisner stressed that his desire to have more U.S. ships in the Indian Ocean did not signal a new U.S. military policy. "To properly discharge my responsibilities in the various parts of the world it would be desirable to have my ships in those areas," he said.

The 7th Fleet's area of responsibility covers more than 30 million square miles of the Western Pacific, from Guam to the central Indian Ocean.

Weisner commands some 130 ships, 500 aircraft and 65,000 men.

The Oklahoma City is paying a good will visit to Malaysia.

Car Crashes Into Wall of Store

The Star Discount Store building and an automobile were damaged Friday when the auto crashed into a front wall of the building.

City police said that the brakes apparently failed on the 1958 Ford driven by Charloyte M. wetzel and the vehicle continued into the building when she attempted to park in front of the store. Damage to the wall was estimated at $500 and to the car at about $200. Mrs. Wetzel went to a doctor's office for treatment of minor cuts after the mishap.

SOUTH BOSQUE, Tex. (AP) — Gary Bob Yates, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Yates of South Bosque was killed Friday night when his motorcycle and a grain truck collided near U.S. 84.

Texarkana Gets Rid Of Its Rats

TEXARKANA, Tex. (AP) — Texarkana, once dubbed "rat capital of the world," may soon be offering a bounty for every rodent found within its city limits.

Community Services Director William Westbrook didn't charm them out of the sewers with a flute like the Pied Piper of Hamlin in the storybook. His weapons were garbage cans, "gunk" and "gunk" — a poisonous potion which only its Norway rats.

Westbrook won't say how many rats were in the city, straddling the Texas and Arkansas state lines when he started his campaign. He can't estimate how many are left, now. But he hopes within a year to offer cash rewards for those turned up alive.

"Drying up their food supply was our first step in this successful rat control program," Westbrook said. "Rats require food, water and harborage. If you deny any two of those three requirements, you can't have rats."

"The enforced garbage removal program got rid of the food supply," he said. "Now Operation Clean Sweep is getting rid of the harborage."

Westbrook is supplementing these two programs with liberal application of a newly-developed poison provided by the pharmaceutical firm in Fort Washington, Pa.

"They accidentally discovered this poison and found that it is highly toxic to a Norway rat — and nothing else," Westbrook explained. "It will kill a Norway rat in less than an hour with a single dose."

That's where the "gunk" comes up.

As bait food, Westbrook made up what he calls "a bunch of gunk" including, among other things, paraffin and raisins.

When he sent a sample of this to the chemical company, they passed it on two university research laboratories, whose researchers turned it down.

"What those scientists in their laboratories with their cages of well-fed rats forgot," he said, "is that ordinary rats eat in the fields and running up and down the alleys are not as well fed as these laboratory rats and are going to eat things that the laboratory rats wouldn't touch."

Anyway, with Westbrook's tempting menu at hand, the rats are not eating the citizens of Texarkana.

"We haven't had a single report of human rat bite cases since our program began seven months ago," said Westbrook. "Rats do not constitute a significant problem in Texarkana at this time."

Westbrook dreams now of trying a foam containing formaldehyde and nitrogen which could be used to fill rat burrows and insulate houses.

Hamelin's Pied Piper never had weapons like that.

General Dynamics Hit Hard

FORT WORTH (AP) — Employment at the Fort Worth division of General Dynamics will be reduced by about 14,000 over the next 18 months, a spokesman for the firm said Saturday.

The announcement came in the wake of the Defense Department award of the B1 strategic bomber contract to North American Rockwell Corp. Friday.

Officials at General Dynamics, which had been a contender for the contract, said they were disappointed at the Defense Department decision.

The General Dynamics plant in Fort Worth will strive to keep the F111 fighter-bomber in production beyond 1972, a spokesman said.

Contracts for the F111 expire in 1972.

"Our plan for the immediate future is to bend every effort toward keeping the F111 tactical fighter-bombers and the FB111 strategic bombers in production beyond their currently planned completion in 1972," the spokesman said.

"As a result of production order reductions, the work force at the plant will have to be reduced by about 14,000 over the next 18 months," the spokesman said.

Employment at the plant is now 26,000.

The spokesman declined to speculate on layoffs after 1971.

"The announcement by the Department of Defense that North American-Rockwell, Los Angeles division, was declared winner of the B1 contract comes as a severe disappointment to General Dynamics," the spokesman said.

Camp Is Occupied By Indians

BIG BEND, Calif. (AP) — Rebuffed in efforts to take over Lassen National Park, a band of Pit River and other Indians has occupied a summer campground maintained by the Pacific Gas & Electric Co. for its employes in the wilds of northeastern California.

"We've adopted a wait and see policy," said a spokesman for the world's largest private utility firm. "We don't want to precipitate anything."

About 130 Indians and some Caucasian supporters early Friday tried to take over Lassen National Park 80 miles southeast of here, but were turned back by armed park rangers and federal marshals. The park includes Mt. Lassen, a volcano which last erupted in 1914.

There was no violence, but before leaving the Indians read a proclamation to the head ranger announcing their intention to take over 3.5 million acres of northeastern California they say belongs to them. They said they had guns "for hunting" but did not display them.

The Indians then took off in some 30 cars and moved to the PG&E's Camp Pit, 10 miles southeast of here, set among a constellation of PG&E powerhouses that generate electricity from the tumbling Pit River and its tributaries in this heavily forested region 250 miles northeast of San Francisco.

The PG&E spokesman said the camp has 12 cabins, put up by members of the PG&E employes association on company land. He said the Indians awakened two employe families already on vacation, told them they would not be harmed, and set up housekeeping in the remaining cabins. Late Friday he said he understood they also had occupied six more buildings nearby belonging to the U.S. Forest Service.

Among the Indians were some who took part in the Indian occupation last Nov. 20 of Alcatraz Island in San Francisco Bay, where Indians remain.

The Camp Pit group told PG&E they owned the land in the camp and that the company was trespassing.

The Pit Indian tribe now numbers up to 3,000 people and is laying claim to lands in Shasta, Lassen and Modoc counties.

ACTION IN DISTRICT COURT

County Court Plea Entered

Oral Jack Owens pleaded guilty in county court Thursday to a charge of driving while intoxicated and received a $100 fine plus court costs and a 60-day jail term. The jail term portion of the sentence was probated for one year.

The offense occurred last Wednesday, and he was arrested by Highway Patrolmen.

10 Activists Convicted In Draft Office Raids

CHICAGO (AP) — Ten anti-war activists have been convicted in U.S. District Court of destroying thousands of draft records in a raid on a Selective Service office.

All were convicted on all four counts of the indictment in a verdict returned Friday by a jury of seven men and five women. The maximum penalty is 23 years in prison and fines totaling $32,000. Sentencing is scheduled Tuesday.

Three of the defendants were not present to hear the verdict. They disappeared near the end of the five week trial, and warrants have been issued for their arrest.

Judge Edwin A. Robson revoked the bonds of the seven defendants who were in court. He said they are a menace to the community and he would be negligent in his duties if he allowed them to remain at large "to wreak the same havoc" elsewhere in the nation.

It is only a step from burning draft records to burning buildings, the judge said in denying defense motions that the seven remain free on bond pending sentencing. The defendants' actions amounted to anarchy, he said.

Bonds for the other defendants were revoked when they disappeared.

The defendants admitted during the trial that they took part in the raid on a complex of draft offices and destroyed records by pouring paint on them and dumping them into a bonfire.

But an attorney for four defendants argued that his clients were innocent on grounds they were "culturally insane" because their views on vietnam and racism differ from those of the majority of Americans.

In his instructions to the jury, however, Judge Robson said that an individual's political beliefs are no basis for disobeying the law.

The four defendants, represented by attorney Frank Oliver were examined by a psychiatrist who testified for the prosecution that all four were mentally sound and able to tell the difference between right and wrong at the time of the raid.

The four were the Rev. Nicholas J. Riddell, 40, of Milwaukee, a Carmelite priest; Linda J. Quint, 22, of Chicago, and Edward Gargan, 19, and William Durkin, 20, both of Milwaukee.

They were among 18 persons arrested May 25, 1969, during the raid on a southwest side Selective service office. Three of the 18 were dismissed because they were newsmen observing the demonstrations.

Four of the defendants failed to appear when the trial began and they were served from the proceeding.

One of the remaining 11, Edward Hoffmans, 32, Iowa City, Iowa, was ruled mentally unfit to stand trial after a psychiatrist testified he showed signs of a schizoid personality.

One of the convicted defendants, Frederick J. Chase, 26, Detroit, has been sentenced to 297 days in jail for contempt for repeatedly refusing to rise when the judge and jury entered the courtroom.

Death Of Youth Blamed On Anger

HONOLULU (AP) — Thomas Endo, 18, died after his arrest by police because he had no sweat glands and his body overheated in anger, his father says.

"It was just too much strain on his heart," Katsuya Endo said Friday.

The younger Endo was arrested for disorderly conduct Wednesday. Police said he was kicking and screaming and could not be calmed.

A few moments later he lapsed into a coma and died.

The father said the boy usually controlled his temper by taking a shower or wetting his head.

Jobless Roll Rises Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five per cent of the nation's labor force was unemployed in May, the highest monthly rate since 1965, the Labor Department announced Friday.

The 5 per cent jobless figure was up from 4.8 per cent in April and 3.5 per cent last December and brings the total number of unemployed in the United States to 4.1 million, based on a seasonal adjustment that in the past has figured on an increase in employment in May.

In announcing the figure, the department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said the earnings of a million rank-and-file workers was up two cents to $3.20 an hour, an increase of 19 cents an hour over a year ago. However, the country's highest inflation rate in two decades more than eliminated the wage gains.

The bureau said the jobless rate among Negroes was down from 8.7 to 8 per cent. That figure had been as low as 7.1 per cent just last March.

Another house fire caused considerable damage to a bathroom wall and hot water heater at the Raymond Campos residence, 2911 Avenue J at 4:0 p.m. Friday.

Firemen also answered a call to a grass fire at Twenty-fourth Street and Avenue H at 11:40 a.m. Saturday.

MRS. JOHN HARRIS MARSHALL

Miss Birdwell Weds Lt. Marshall May 31

BIG SPRING — Cynthia Ann Birdwell of 600 Dallas, Big Spring, and Lt. John Harris Marshall, 1500 Michigan Ave., Salt Lake City, Utah exchanged vows May 31 at 10:30 a.m. in St. Mary's Episcopal Church. The double ring ceremonies were performed by the Rev. H. B. Birdwell, father of the bride.

Music for the ceremony, which was provided by Mrs. Carl Baker, included processional: "Praise to the Lord, the Almighty"; Presentation of Elements: "Come Holy Ghost," sung by Mr. Larry Stanley and Mr. Dan Shockey; Communion of bride and groom: "Jesus, Joy of Man's Desiring," solo by Larry Stanley; and Recessional: "I Bind Unto Myself Today."

The bride carried a cascade of cymbidium orchids and wore an ivory gown of imported pure silk organza over peau d'soie. Full bishop sleeves enhanced the sculptured bodice, decorated with rows of Venise lace and narrow ribbons which formed a Victorian neckline. The full chapel train was sashed with a wide band of ivory peau d'soie, ending with a wide streamer.

Maid of honor was Miss Lynda Lloyd of Big Spring, who wore a floor length sleeveless gown of mist green with a silver jewelled collar. Bridesmaids were Miss Jeann Allen of Big Spring and Miss Mary McMath of Colorado City. Their gowns were similar to that of the maid of honor. Bridal attendants carried white prayer books and wore headbands of shasta daisies.

Best man was Dr. John Stuart Marshall, father of the groom. Ushers were Mr. Richard Atkins, Doug Daniel, Dr. Pete Rhynesand, Dr. Jack Burnett, Stuart Marshall and Alan Marshall, brothers of the groom, served as groomsman. Acolytes were Scott Birdwell, brother of the bride, Steve Burnett, Bob Dyer, and Smith Swords IV.

Reception was held in the church parish hall, where the bride and groom received guests as they left the church. Miss Melinda Brooke of Big Spring registered guests. Silk organza cloth covered the refreshment table, which was decorated with spring garden flowers and two white doves in a white ivy-entwined cage hung from the ceiling.

The couple left immediately for Little Rock, Ark., where the groom is stationed. The bride chose a two piece ecru pantsuit with accordian pleated top and gold accessories as her going away suit.

Mrs. Marshall is a graduate of Big Spring High School and attended Howard County Junior College where she was a member of Phi Theta Kappa. The groom is a graduate of Westminister College of Salt Lake City.

Parents of the couple are the Rev. and Mrs. Harland B. Birdwell of Big Spring and Mrs. Kathryn H. Marshall of Salt Lake City. Grandparents of the bride are Mrs. Henry Birdwell and Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Smith of Snyder.

New Approach To Civil War Conflict

THEIR TATTERED FLAGS
By FRANK E. VANDIVER
Harper, $10

It is hard to imagine a fresh approach to the Civil War. Yet Frank E. Vandiver, a genuinely authoritative Southern historian practicing his craft at Rice University in Houston, has achieved just that.

He calls his book "The Epic of the Confederacy," which makes it sound sonorous and a bit dull. It is anything but that. Actually, it is an impressionistic history, from Southern orientation, of the tragic fratricidal conflict. Imagine a fresco of the war's highlights painted, not by Michelangelo but by Renoir.

The text of the book proper, not counting acknowledgements, bibliography and notes, is only 306 pages. Yet, within this spatial limitation, Vandiver manages to spotlight the important political, social, and diplomatic as well as the military events of the war. Certainly the details cannot be extensive, but Vandiver is exceptionally good at the profile, the vignette, the sketch.

The writing is brilliant. In fact, at times it seems too good. When conserving time by drawing on his great knowledge of Southern history, he describes how this or that central figure felt about a given problem. We almost believe we are within the mind of that personality until we suddenly realize that what we are getting is Vandiver's own thinking.

Jefferson Davis, president of the doomed Confederacy, gets his first fair shake in some time. Perhaps he rated his own strategic ability too highly; nevertheless, nobody else of similar administrative experience and complete dedication to the cause comes to mind who could have held a crumbling nation together for so long.

The battle scenes are remarkably terse. Most of them are described in a few paragraphs. Of the more important, First Manassas gets only five pages, Gettysburg only a little over four. The clarity achieved in such miniature descriptions is often surprising.

Vandiver leaves most of the generals' reputations as he found them. Lee and Jackson, of course, are still transcendent. Joe Johnston and Beauregard, who incidentally did not exactly trust each other, are definitely upgraded. As a Texan, Vandiver devotes more time than is usually given in longer histories to explaining the ineffectiveness of a really able general, E. Kirby Smith, in his Trans-Mississippi satrapy.

Now that the dust of the Civil War Centennial has settled, "Their Tattered Flags" is an excellent guide book to review the principal events of that unhappy era.

Liza Minelli Suit Moved

HOUSTON (AP) — An alination of affections suit brought against film and singing star Liza Minnelli was shifted te federal court Friday.

Mrs. Margaret Louise Kulbeth had filed the suit against the daughter of the late Judy Garland. It was shifted to federal court because Miss Minnelli is a resident of another state.

Mrs. Kulbeth in the suit alleges that her husband's affections had been alienated by the star through her "great power, wealth and influence."

She is also seeking a divorce from her husband, who appears under the name Rex Kramer with "The Bojangles" musical group.

Miss Minelli had hired the group after she saw them perform at a local nightclub.

Mrs. Kulbeth asked in her suit for $456,352, which she said was based on her husband's future earnings.

Hickel Goes For Plain Talk And Direct Action

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Walter J. Hickel likes direct action and plain talk.

Washington, where the natives speak Baffle-gab and Legalese, has a hard time understanding him. It took Hickel, as secretary of the interior, 16 months to break through the communication barrier.

Born in 1919 near Claflin, Kan., Hickel was the son of a tenant farmer. With only a high school education, 37 cents of his own and a borrowed $10, he made his way to Alaska in 1940 and went on to become a real estate millionaire and then, in 1966, governor.

Understandably, he loves Alaska.

Twice married, he raised six sons there, built his home there, found lasting friends there.

"I enjoy being outdoors," Hickel said in a recent interview, "but I can't find enough time for that in Washington. The one thing I miss here is being able to get outdoors the way I could in Alaska. My favorite recreation is motorboating in the fiords."

A loyal Republican, Hickel at first backed Nelson Rockefeller in 1968, then campaigned hard to elect the party's choice, Richard M. Nixon, as president.

But when Nixon offered him a Cabinet post, Hickel "agonized" over the decision to leave Alaska, says a close associate.

It turned out to be a rough uprooting.

Governor of an undeveloped state which had just struck oil, Hickel was labeled by conservationists as an exploiter and a pawn of oil interests.

Hickel himself added to their fears with ill-chosen words, such as his objection to "conservation for conservation purposes."

Only four days after he took office as secretary of the interior, an oil well off Santa Barbara, Calif., sprang a leak and polluted the sea for miles around. Although the lease had been issued by Hickel's predecessor, the widely admired Stewart L. Udall, cartoonists began drawing Hickel with oil on his hands.

But he surprised his critics by ordering oil companies held liable for the full clean-up costs of such accidents—no limit, and no excuses.

He campaigned to save the alligator, helped block plans for a jet airport near Everglades National Park, and won antipollution measures from four big steel companies, a mining firm and the city of Toledo with threats of legal action.

This year, after an oil spill in the Gulf of Mexico, Hickel sought and obtained grand jury indictments against Chevron Oil Co.

After the first few months, critics and the press began saying, in amazement, that Wally Hickel was beginning to be turning into a conservationist.

"I haven't changed," Hickel replied. "These are no different decisions than I made when I was governor ... I think it was just unfortunate that charges were made without really knowing the full person."

Alaskans, he insisted on another occasion, understand conservation.

"Basically, it's the metropolitan areas in the East that have never understood conservation," he said. "We (in Alaska) live with it; we see it every day."

Those who have worked closely with him say he's a very honest, blunt man who wants to solve problems.

"He has little formal education, but he's a shrewd guy," said a well-respected colleague. "He's got a fresh viewpoint that is not in the traditional, conventional Washington pattern."

Associates say he has a quick, but brief, temper; they describe him as "demanding," "impatient," "energetic."

They say he has keen judgment but little patience for complications.

The no-frills attitude shows at home, too, where Hickel likes to cook dinner for company.

"I guess his big hobby is cooking," said a frequent guest, "but he only has one menu, the Hickel Steak Dinner."

It consists of a grilled filet, boiled potato, salad, coffee, iced tea or beer, but no dessert.

House guests at his home in a fashionable Maryland suburb are usually fellow Alaskans; he's made few close friends in Washington.

He has few outside interests.

"I still try to jog around the neighborhood, and work out in the department gym," Hickel said recently—he was a Kansas Golden Gloves boxing champ when he was 19. "But I don't have much time off.

"I have official functions in the evening three or four times a week, and I must spend about a quarter of my time on the road."

"I used to be able to read anything I wanted," Hickel said. "Not fiction, but anything factual. For 25 years I read the Reader's Digest cover to cover.

"Now I only read the essentials and I have a hard time keeping up with that.

"I haven't been to a movie in a long time."

He sold his 26-foot boat when he moved to Washington, and hasn't bought another one for the placid, polluted waters of the Potomac River or Chesapeake Bay.

"I'm spoiled by the great fjords of Alaska," he sighed.

Said a close associate, "I don't think he ever stops working. He'll come in first thing in the morning and say: 'You know, I was up until 4 or 5 this morning thinking about this ...'"

Hickel's election as governor in 1966 was by the thinnest of margins—but it was the first time the state went Republican.

"A lot of people won't accept this," said an experienced observer, "but he's about the best political thermometer I've ever seen."

After President Nixon sent U.S. troops into Cambodia, Hickel's thermometer told him the nation was running a political fever. He wrote a personal letter to President Nixon, which somehow leaked out.

The President, Hickel wrote, should listen to America's youth, consult more closely with his Cabinet members, and tone down Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's harsh criticism of young dissenters.

"You don't fool with the mood of America," Hickel said later in a televised interview. "I saw it building up and I thought something had to be done about it ... I thought it was important to get through."

A cartoon in a Washington newspaper reflected what must have been widespread amazement. It showed a hippie in sandals and love beads, and an astonished President Nixon saying, "Wally, is that really you?"

Hickel's heard that kind of question before.

"I don't think people really change a great deal," he once said. "I think people learn to understand them."

LTV To Sell Subsidiary

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — James T. Ling, president of Ling-Temco-Vought, said Thursday that the American Can Co. was planning to take over LTV's 75 per cent ownership interest in Wilson Pharmaceutical and Chemical Cor. of Chicago.

The announcement said both companies have approved the deal in principle, subject to signing of a formal purchase agreement.

Proposed price for LTV's holding of equity securities in Wilson Pharmaceutical is $16 million in cash or approximately $6.50 a share on a fully converted basis.

The equity securities held by LTV are 616,000 shares of common stock, 1,047,992 shares of Class B common stock (convertible into common stock on a share-for-share basis), and 49,000 shares of four per cent Series A cumulative convertible preferred stock (convertible into 800,000 shares of Class B common stock).

LTV plans to convert all the preferred stock and all the Class B stock into common stock prior to completion of the agreement.

Junior Editors Quiz on DINOSAURS

QUESTION: Who first discovered dinosaurs?

* * *

ANSWER: Dinosaurs were huge reptiles which once roamed warm areas of the earth about 150 million years ago. We know about them because many skeletons have been found and these can be dated in various ways. Interestingly enough, one of the very first ancient skeletons of a large reptile to be found was the discovery of 12-year-old Mary Anning, of Southern England. In 1811, she and her father had been digging for fossil sea shells to sell to tourists. Suddenly Mary came across something much more exciting — a large skeleton, with bones were sticking out of a bank. It turned out to be a large reptile, then unknown, which had lived in the sea (top picture) and which was given the name Ichthyosaurus. Although this was not a true dinosaur, Mary's strange fossil created tremendous scientific interest. It was another woman, too, who made the next great discovery of this kind. In 1822, Mrs. Gideon Mantell found a strange, large tooth which didn't seem to belong to any known creature. It turned out to be a tooth of the first known true dinosaur, called Iguanodon. So, keep your eyes open, ladies — who knows what other great discoveries you may turn up?

Lady Mechanic Carries Load In Repair Garage

By KATHY BOREN

Frank Eaker will never have to worry about his wife Frances, joining the Women's Liberation Movement; she's too busy working in his garage to even think about it.

"People used to laugh at me, but they don't anymore. I guess they just got used to it. I was afraid they'd ride Frank about my being a mechanic, and they did for a while, but they don't now," said Mrs. Eaker.

She began taking an interest in mechanics about 15 years ago, when she took a clock apart "Just to see how it worked." From the clock, Mrs. Eaker progressed to her motorcycle, which she tore apart, put together, and later sold. Her most advanced venture could possibly be termed a failure, for after taking a Volkswagen completely apart, Mrs. Eaker found that she couldn't put the parks back in working order. She claims that the parts are still "strung all over" her mother's back yard.

She has great admiration for her husband, who is a mechanic by trade, and who helps her when she encounters something she doesn't understand. He is employed at Wilson Motors, where Mrs. Eaker used to help out occasionally. She became so proficient in her work that she was offered a job there, but Mrs. Eaker feels her first obligation is toward her three children and her home. They work on cars on their own after hours at Sixteenth and Avenue R.

"I'm a housewife in the daytime and a mechanic at night," said Mrs. Eaker. "Frank and I just take the kids with us to the garage at night. Sometimes we work 'til four in the morning. When the kids get sleepy, we just bed them down in the back of the car.

"It's something no one else can do — they say you can't, but if you want to bad enough, you can do anything," commented Mrs. Eaker.

Once she was down under a car changing the oil when the plug came loose and drenched her face with black grease. "I was teased for at least a week about that incident," she said.

"People are often skeptical of my capabilities," said Mrs. Eaker, "and women laugh at me; but if they would do things with their husbands, and really listen to them once in a while, there would be a whole lot less fussing and fighting in this world."

Hams Are Featured

COLLEGE STATION — Hams will be featured by most food retailers while beef specials will be limited during the second week of June, Gwendolyne Clyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist, advises.

"Since hams are being featured, they will be the big seller in red meats," Mrs. Clyatt says. "Select the type ham that best fits your need since the cost per serving will generally be about the same."

While beef specials will be limited, best values will generally be found on chuck roasts and steaks, ground beef, round steaks and roasts and beef and calf livers, Mrs. Clyatt reports.

"Fryers remain an excellent bargain in most meat departments; select the whole bird; cut-up or your favorite parts," she says. "Grade A large and medium sizes of eggs offer about equal amounts of quality and economy for your egg money this week."

Fresh fruit and vegetable items in good supply, at the most economical prices, include apples, oranges, bananas, cantaloupes, pineapples, strawberries and potatoes, Mrs. Clyatt reports. Other economical vegetable buys include head lettuce, cabbage, carrots, mustard, collard greens, sweet corn, dry yellow onions, beets, radishes and green onions, Mrs. Clyatt says, adding that bell peppers are in larger supply and prices are lower.

What's New In Books For Next Three Months

By MILES A. SMITH
AP Arts Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — The books that American publishers will issue during June, July and August stack up like this:

(1) The recent flood of books on war, civil rights, the environment and other public issues seems to have slackened, at least temporarily.

(2) Nonfiction will be dominated by a variety of biographies, auto-biographies and memoirs, along with some specialized items in the field of American history.

(3) As usually happens in summer, the fiction prospects are not very bright; there will be only a sprinkling of new works by established authors.

(4) Publishers used to issue some light, fluffy books to provide summer entertainment, but that brand of fiction and nonfiction is rather skimpy this year.

Several biographies of literary figures will be published in June, including a Harper book by Nancy Milford, "Zelda," the story of F. Scott Fitzgerald's wife; "The Life of Ezra Pound," from Pantheon written by Noel Stock; and "O. Henry: The Legendary Life of William S. Porter," by Richard O'Connor, being published by Doubleday.

The same month will bring into print the personal stories of a number of contemporary figures, including "Those Fabulous Greeks: Onassis, Niarchos and Livanos," by Doris Lilly, from Cowles, and "Lin Piao: the Life and Writings of China's New Ruler" by Martin ebon, from Stein and Day.

In July there will be a candid memoir by the New Yorker's music critic, Winthrop Sargeant, from Doubleday, entitled "In Spite of Myself."

Then in August, Morrow will publish "Pieces of the Action," by scientist Vannevar Bush; Macmillan will issue "Inside the Third Reich," a memoir by Albert Speer telling of 15 years association with Hitler; Holt Rinehart will publish "Robert Frost: The Years of Triumph, 1915-1938," the second volume of Lawrance Thompson's biography.

Among the American history items in June will be "A Nation In Torment" by Edward Robb Ellis, described by Coward-McCann as a popular history of the Depression years of the 1930s, and Gene Smith's "The Shattered Dream," a Morrow book about the Depression years and President Herbert Hoover.

There also will be a Random House work, Irving J. Sloan's "Our Violent Past: An American Chronicle," ranging from Indian massacres to 20th century disturbances, and "Spies of the Confederacy," a Lippincott book written by John Bakeless.

In August, Dial will publish W.R. Brock's "The Evolution of American Democracy," Little, Brown will issue "First Families: The Making of an American Aristocracy," a story about the Adamses, the Lees, the Roosevelts, the Biddles and the du Ponts. There also will be "The American Heritage History of the '20s and '30s," by the magazine's editors and Edmund Stillman.

The June fiction includes a new gothic novel by the veteran author Victoria Holt, "The Secret Woman" published by Doubleday, with a background in Victorian England and the South Seas; "The adventuress," published by Harper, a novel by Santha Rama Rau; "This Day's Death," by John Rechy, the author of "City of Night," from Grove Press, and "Bech: A Book" by John Updike, from Knopf, a series of seven interrelated stories about a Jewish writer.

John Gunther, author of the famous "Inside" books, has turned his hand to the novel, producing "The Indian Sign," a book about illicit love, published by Harper.

Popular novelist Mary Stewart as given fictional treatment to the legend of Merlin the magician in "The Crystal Cave," to be published by Morrow, which will arrive in July. In the same month Little, Brown will bring out "Two Sisters" by Gore Vidal, which is described as a novel in the form of a memoir, operating on several levels.

August's scanty quota of fiction will include a yarn by Kingsley Amis entitled "The Green Man," from Harcourt, Brace.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

Newest In Outdoor Furniture

COLLEGE STATION — Summer evenings are a time for sitting under the big oak tree in the front yard and listening to the crickets sing. What better time is this to sit in some of the new styles of outdoor furniture?

The folding feature of aluminum furniture is a great help in storing, but there are times when stacking is a greater advantage; so, some producers of aluminum groups have added chairs and chaises that stack, Bonny Olsen, specialist in Housing and Home Furnishings with the Texas A&M University Extension Service, reports.

Folding aluminum is very portable and easy to carry to the beach or move about the lawn or patio, Mrs. Olsen said. Designs are practical and functional, and non-tip devices add to their safe use, she said.

"Frames are upholstered in a choice of vinyl cord, webbing, or straps, polyfoam-filled pads, or have interspring units," Mrs. Olsen said, adding that vinyl covers are more colorful this year and patterns are more diversified. "In many cases, plastic or wood arms have replaced aluminum arms."

Among new innovations of special interest are heat sealed florals by one company, she said. These are made with heat-sealed clear vinyl tubing which is wedded to a lively floral printed on clear vinyl, for the see-through effect, Mrs. Olsen explained.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG

When a door fails to open and close properly, the most probable source of the trouble is one or both of the hinges.

Move the door back and forth at different speeds and see whether there is even the slightest movement of either hinge. Also, place screwdriver blade in the slot of each screw head and turn it clockwise ... if it turns at all, it means that the hinge is not as tight as it should be.

In some cases, merely tightening the loose screw will correct the condition that is causing the door to sag or stick. In others, the screw will not stay securely in place because the hole in the wood has become enlarged. When this occurs, the hole should be filled with a wooden plug or stuffed with wood putty or plastic wood and allowed to harden before replacing the screw.

If it develops that none of the screws is loose and the hinges show no movement, use a shim, which can be a piece of cardboard placed beneath on of the hinge leaves on the door jamb. Use the shim on the upper hinge leaf if the door has been sticking at the top. Use it on the lower hinge leaf if the problem has been at the bottom of the door. You will be able to determine how much shimming is necessary by testing. Thus, if the shim helps a little but not enough, use two pieces of cardboard, and so on.

When excessive moisture has entered a door and caused swelling, sanding, rasping or planing may be necessary to take off excess wood. But this should be done with extreme caution, because if you remove too much wood, there will be an unwelcome gap when the wood dries out. It is very important that all ends and edges of the door be painted or varnished after such an operation.

In an extreme case, when a door obviously is warped, the only way to correct the condition is to remove the door from its frame. This is done without removing the hinges by pulling out the pins that hold the door to the hinges. If they are stuck in place, as often happens, drive them upwards with a blunt-edged tool and a hammer.

Always remove the bottom pin first. If possible, have someone hold the weight of the door when this is being done. If no one is handy, then place a wedge under the door.

To remove the warpage, place the door flat on blocks of wood so that you can put heavy weights or bricks on the high portions. Then it is necessary to inspect the door at least once a day for several days until you have determined that the door is straight. Here again, be sure to paint or varnish the edges and ends of the door to keep out moisture.

Fluvanna History Goes Back To '91

By MARGARET DAUGHERTY

FLUVANNA — As the date of the Fluvanna Homecoming approaches, many residents begin to think of the early days in the community and to recall places and events, and particularly persons important to the founding of the town.

The actual beginning of the community can be traced back as far as 1891, although the name has changed since then, as well as part of the location itself. It was in 1891 that Mrs. John Ditmore became the first teacher in the area, at the Jumbo school, located on the creek east of the W. A. Reeder family home, east of present-day Fluvanna. Students in this school, which had a term of three months, included Frank van Winkle, Ella van Winkle, Etta Jones, Ella Jones, Etta, May, and Garlie Dargitz, Lee Stavely, Josie Clipper, Maude Bailey, Walter Bailey, Hettie Reid, Joe Reid, Joe Beal, Pearl Beal, and four children of the Wilson family. Several families had moved to the community about this time, including the Rawsons, Dunns, Joneses, and Balls.

Teachers during the next few years included one named Anridenoun in 1892-93, Mattie Patterson in 1893-94, and Fannie Patterson in 1894-95 when new pupils included George Stevenson, Bob White, Walter White, George Cannon, and Walter Cannon. A Mr. German taught the school during 1895-96, and Kate Buchanan taught during 1896-97.

In 1897-98, the school had two teachers, Kate and Charlie Buchanan. Between then and 1900 the teacher's name was Mesewaft, and new families included the Pattersons, Stewarts, Gleghorns and the R. G. Balls.

The school moved west to Light, about a mile east of the present Fluvanna, in 1900 or 1901 and new families moving in during the 1901-02 school term were the J. F. Smiths, George Brumleys, T. A. Steeles, J. D. Letchers, and the Brownings. J. W. Williams was teacher and had eighteen pupils.

The community of Light was formally established on Dec. 30, 1901, when a map designating streets, lots, and a schoolyard was recorded by Scurry County Clerk A. J. Grantham. The land for streets (and possibly for the schoolyard) in the townsite was (evidently) donated by D. C. McGregor, early-day merchant and land-owner, who also gave land for the community cemetery (the east, or old portion, of present Fluvanna cemetery). Evidence indicates that McGregor owned at least part of the land that became the townsite, besides that marked with his name on the accompanying map.

The Light townsite was located immediately West of the county road that leads south from the Fluvanna Community Center corner, past the homes of W. F. Mathis, V. A. Wills, H. B. Lemons, and Ray Reeder. The northernmost boundary was the present-day Farm Road 612; the southernmost was approximately the north side of the property now owned by Wallace Jones. The townsite extended west from that road some 400 feet, being bounded on the west by a street extending almost the entire north-south length of the town, excepting only the schoolyard. That street, no longer in existence, where Paul Turner's house is now, or just west, between the Turner and Steph houses. The townsite was divided into four blocks (approximately 4000 x 500 feet and divided, for the most part, into 60x192 lots), schoolyard (a square of land now owned by Paul Turner and located just east of his house), and for east-west streets connecting the two north-south streets. The street farthest north was about where Farm Road 612 is now, and the street farthest south was, and is, that which leads west from the V. A. Wills home. In 1903, a family named Green lived at that location.

In 1902-03, when many families were moving further west into the Plains area, L. C. Critcher was teacher in the relocated Jumbo school. 1904 was a significant year in school history, for in that year the school was graded, and it began to offer instruction in writing. By 1905, a new building, 28 x 60 feet had been errected, and was divided into two classrooms by curtains. Teachers then were Pearl Clark and Effie Fickas.

D. H. Bishop taught at Light in 1905-06. About 1906-08, the school term had been lengthened to five months, and W. B. Dane was teacher and Josie York assistant. A teacher in those days drew $75 monthly, while an assistant was paid $45.

Light was a thriving rural community for several years. Most of the business buildings faced east and ranged south from the southeast corner of the schoolyard. Sterling Lane had a grocery and mercantile store, located (by most accounts) about where H. B. Lemons lives today. Next was the home of Dr. Ben Harris; farther south were a post office and telephone office located in building(s) belonging to McGregor. Then there was the store operated by McGregor, known as Uncle Dougal's, which in 1901 became a joint operation between McGregor and J. F. Dowdy. During the period of their business association (or a portion of it), the McGregors and Dowdys lived together in the McGregor house. Dowdy later bought McGregor's interest, and, with J. J. Belew, set up a hardware business.

McGregor ran the post office for a time, being succeeded by a Mr. Bois. Sterling Lane built his home south of these businesses, possibly west of the N. L. Beaver home. John Lane also built a house, said to be part of the house where the Wallace Jonses live today. Jim Jones is said to have built the original of the Wallace Jones house from the lumber of the old John Lane house, and Dave Jones acquired it when Jim moved to New Mexico. It then passed to Wallace Jones, who had remodeled it several times.

On the east side of the street were two or three houses and Sid Williams' blacksmith shop, along with McGregor's sheds and lots. Dr. Browning's house stood where N. L. Beaver's is now; the old Browning house now is located southeast of the Fluvanna gin and the Bobby Whites live there. North of the Browning house were McGregor's sheds and then the blacksmith shop. Still further north was a house once occupied by a Ford family, and next to it, the W. A. Dane dry goods store. (Dane once taught school at Light. His store was built a year or so before the building of Fluvanna, probably in 1906 or 1907). To the northeast of the Dane store, well back from the road, was Sterling Lane's gin, and not far from it, near the creek, the former site of the Jumbo schoolhouse.

The Light community had no central water works. Families who had no well hauled water from those who did have. Johnsey Roberts drove the mail back in those days, bringing mail, newspapers (the Dallas Morning News and Coming West, the county newspaper of the day) and freight from Colorado City, on Wednesdays and Fridays. He also occasionally brought passengers. When the Squyres family came to Light in 1901, there were two graves in the cemetery.

When the Fluvanna community was began in 1908, Light began gradually to decline. Businesses were moved to the newer community; settlers made Fluvanna their home; the railway went beyond Light; but Fluvanna has never entirely obscured the old community, for the Light area was the source of most of Fluvanna's water supply until 1968 and is today considered a part — an important part — of Fluvanna itself.

Girl Ends Trip On Horseback

TERRELL, Tex. (AP)—Kathie Terry came home Saturday, arriving in the proverbial cloud of dust and with a hearty "Hi-ho, Mr. Gardner" echoing into the sunset.

Kathie, as many may remember, is the young lass who set out from San Antonio nine days ago on horseback to go home to Terrell, 300 miles to the northeast.

As of Friday, she and her dark red quarterhorse, Mr. Gardner, were only 22 miles from home.

"I love to ride and I decided I'd ride my horse home," she said as family and friends gathered at a shady roadside park near Rosser in Kaufman County.

"We'd walk a while and we'd lope awhile," said the 19-year-old who just finished her freshman year at Trinity University in San Antonio.

"We got rained on. There were long days and my back hurt. There were days that were gone before they started."

Many travelers stopped along the way, asking, "Are you the little girl riding her horse home?" She would answer in the affirmative and then her mother, Mrs. Albert Nealy, would receive a telephone call that her daughter was "looking great, although a little sunburned."

Motorists weren't the only ones keeping an eye on the horsewoman. There were 11 county sheriffs along the route watching her and the Kaufman County sheriff gave her a gun and ammunition and the permit to carry a weapon.

The road days lasted from 7 a.m. to mid-afternton and averaged 30 miles. She had lodging in private homes and motels.

Kathie and Mr. Gardner traveled Interstate 35 to Waco, Texas 31 to Corsicana, Interstate 45 to Ennis and then Texas 34 into Kaufman County.

"He's in shape to go back now," she said of her horse, which she kept at a friend's home near San Antonio during the school year.

A minor cut in one foot put Mr. Gardner to bed early Friday at a friend's house between Kaufman and Terrell, but at daybreak Kathie was to bring him back to the roadside park and complete the journey.

Farmer Is Major Consumer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee has drawn a picture of the American farmer as a major consumer in addition to his customary portrait as a producer of the nation's food and fiber.

"The producers of agricultural products spend nearly $30 billion a year for goods and services to produce crops and livestock," the committee said. "Another $12 billion a year is spent for the same products that urban residents purchase—food, clothing, drugs, furniture, appliances and other products and services."

The comment was included in a report accompanying the committee's bill submitted to the House on Thursday for $7.4 billion in appropriations for the coming fiscal year beginning on July 1.

"Each year the farmers' purchases include $3.4 billion in new farm vehicles, machinery and equipment," the report said. "It takes 120,000 nonfarm employees to produce this farm equipment alone."

Other items mentioned as farm-consumed products included:

—About 320 million pounds of rubber annually, or approximately nine per cent of the U.S. total—enough to put tires on six million automobiles.

—About 28 billion kilowatt-hours of electricity a year.

—Five million tons of steel in the form of machinery, trucks, automobiles, fencing, and building materials. This accounts for 40,000 jobs in the steel industry.

The report also said farming is no longer attractive and that younger people are shying away from agriculture.

"Long hours of hard work, more rigorous living conditions, hazards of weather, threats from insects and diseases, increasing financial risks and decreasing financial returns are causing farming to become less and less attractive to each succeeding generation of young people," the report said.

Today, the report noted, only five per cent of the country's population reside on farms. There are about 10 million persons still on the land, compared with about 25 million just two decades ago.

According to an official report from New Delhi, the Indian army was called in to maintain law and order 12 times last year, five times the year before and 14 times in 1967.

Community College Stresses Teaching

Career Corner

by Joyce Lain

(Third of five parts; written in cooperation with the American Association of Junior Colleges)

Here are more questions and answers about community colleges, the growth of which is rewriting the book in American higher education.

WHAT IS A WORK-STUDY PROGRAM? This is a program which places you in a part-time job related to your coursework (wherever possible). An example might be a job with a social service agency working with the disadvantaged. In the case of a social service job, wages are paid 80 per cent by the Federal government, 20 per cent by the employer agency – hospital, city recreation department, school board, etc. Work-study programs are also being arranged with industry whereby firms pay a regular wage.

HOW GOOD IS THE FACULTY? Students at four-year institutions sometimes complain that their professors are more interested in research or other scholarly pursuits than in teaching. Masterful classroom instruction is emphasized in the junior college and teaching is paramount. Where the community college enjoys good support, teachers are likely to be first-rate.

WHERE ARE CLASSES HELD? The physical layouts of community colleges today generally are beautifully landscaped, bright modern classroom complexes. However, while awaiting construction of new facilities, some classes can be found in old high schools, renovated department stores and abandoned warehouses.

DO MOST STUDENTS GRADUATE? No, because of many factors: marriage, service, lack of funds, lack of interest in subjects, failing grades, or early transfer to four-year institutions. Or, employers, desperate for certain kinds of workers, induce students to leave school before the end of their training. This is a shame because although students get work in the field of their choice, they may later find that they can qualify only for low-level jobs and that they lack qualifications required by other employers.

WHAT DEGREES ARE GIVEN? Most colleges award either an Associate in Arts (A.A.), Associate in Science (A.S.), or Associate in Applied Science (A.A.S.) degree if you finish two years.

DO ALL PROGRAMS LAST TWO YEARS? No. Programs preparing you for career entry are usually two years long. However, many community college programs offer courses of varying lengths – ranging from a few weeks to a year or more. The skill needed for beginning welding or typing can be learned in a few months' time during evenings, on Saturdays, or even during special hours if you are working a shift.

HOW MANY DIFFERENT KINDS OF PROGRAMS ARE AVAILABLE? We can identify five basic dimensions of a community college. (1) career education (2) transfer programs (3) continuing education (4) nonformal community service and (5) developmental or preparatory education.

WHAT IS CONTINUING EDUCATION? This is the banner under which most part-time adult students enroll. Studies may be general education or career education, or aimed at specialized interests; for instance, child psychology for nurses, spelunking, scuba diving, and arts and crafts. The variety is delightful!

WHAT IS NONFORMAL COMMUNITY SERVICE? The educational, cultural, informational and recreational activities that do not fall within the purview of the formal college program and so do not qualify for college credits. Examples are short courses — perhaps a one-day, industry sponsored human relations seminar for mid-management employees, cultural events – concerts, tours and lectures; use of facilities by community groups for recreational or meeting purposes.

WHERE CAN I WRITE? If you have a specific career education question concerning community or junior colleges, you may have a free answer from specialists at the American Association of Junior Colleges. Send your request to me at this newspaper with a stamped, self-addressed return envelope. Mark your outside envelope "INFORMATION – AAJC."

Contract Makes LA Area Happy

LOS ANGELES (AP) — There were tears of joy when word reached Los Angeles that North American Rockwell Corp. received a $1.35 billion development contract for the B1-bomber-scheduled to replace the B52s.

The announcement meant 43,000 jobs in California's ailing aerospace industry.

The company was notified Friday that it had been designated as the prime air frame contractor for research and development on the B1 strategic bomber.

Some workers calling news media to confirm the news cried with joy.

Initially, seven aircraft are to be built. Ultimately, it could extend to $13.6 billion program for 200 to 300 planes.

North American had talked recently of closing down its 4-million-square-foot manufacturing plant in nearby El Segundo. But no more.

Company officials said, in fact, that 15,000 persons will be added to the payroll by the time work on the development reaches its peak in 1972. Subcontractors in Southern California expect to add 28,000 jobs.

The contract results from an Air Force decision to replace its aging B52 bombers with the newer and more sophisticated B1 by the late 1970s. Should the company get the contract for the full fleet of new bombers, its staff would increase many fold.

North American Rockwell, a prime contractor for the Apollo space modules, was perhaps hardest hit of such firms in California by federal decisions to cut back expenditures in aerospace and defense as of January 1968.

More Cities Displeased With New Census Count

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — The mayors of Galveston and Beaumont were chargrined Friday over preliminary census figures showing pronounced populations losses since 1960.

Mayor Edward Schreiber of Galveston said "there will have to be a recount" and Beaumont Mayor Ken Ritter said many Beaumont residents were overlooked in the official head count.

Preliminary figures at Galveston show a loss of 6,461 persons since 1960 and Beaumont declined by 3,459 persons.

"To begin with, this is the most ridiculous thing I've ever heard," said Schreiber. "I have made an official protest to the Houston-Galveston Area Council (a regional municipal planning group) because this organization has been designated the agency to assume the responsiblity for the census in this area.

"I told Mr. (Tom) Coffing (Census Bureau district manager) I did not doubt his figures but I doubt that everyone in the City of Galveston was counted.

"I don't believe everyone in Galveston has been counted and I will not accept this figure. There will have to be a recount," he added.

Projections for 1970 by the Galveston County Transportation Council were placed at 78,000.

Projections for 1970 by the Galveston County Transportation Council were placed at 78,000.

Galveston's acting City Mgr. John Unverferth said the city had expected a 1979 population of 73,000 persons based on water connections, building permits, school overcrowding and other factors.

"I don't see how this can be correct," Ritter said of the Beaumont figures.

Acting Beaumont City Mgr. James Garrard said, "I have always based the population on the national average of 3.8 persons per water connection. Based on my estimates, we should have in excess of 135,000 persons in the city."

Vidor, near Beaumont, showed the largest 10-year regional gain with an increase of nearly 12,000 persons.

Mayor Julian P. Greer, though astonished at the preliminary census count, said he would not protest.

"I really didn't think we had that many persons living here," he said. "I figured in the neighborhood of 10,000 or slightly above."

"I would like to believe the figures and I'm not going to argue with the Census Bureau but the count seems a little high," he said.

Beaumont dropped from 119,175 in 1960 to 115,716 in 1970.

Jefferson County declined from 245,659 to 242,719.

Galveston County grew, registering a gain from 140,364 in 1960 to 165,669 in 1970. The city of Galveston, however, dropped from 67,175 in 1960 to 60,714.

LTV Due To Close Plant

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — LTV Aerospace Corp. will close its San Antonio plant by the end of the month and move the equipment to the main Vought factory in Dallas, a company spokesman said Friday.

The 130 personnel employed at the plant, which was opened in December 1968, were told May 15 that the company was reviewing its continued operation. Only maintenance work will continue after June 30, the spokesman said.

The facility produced small sub-assemblies for the A7 Corsair II attack aircraft built by Vought Aeronautics Co., a division of LTV Aerospace in Dallas.

Vought President Forbes Mann repeated the company's regrets that new government and commercial contracts had not materialized in sufficient quantity to keep the plant open.

"We have enjoyed the finest cooperation possible from all quarters during our stay in San Antonio," he said.

Suspect In Fatal Crash Is Nabbed

DESCANSO, Calif. (AP) — A man was arrested Friday night and identified by the California Highway Patrol as driver of a pickup truck that crashed, killing five Mexican nationals, during an attempt to evade the U.S. Border Patrol.

They said Artegga Garibay, who also gave his name as Toscan Antene Meffin, was arrested by highway patrolmen on the Viejas Indian Reservation near here.

Garibay was booked in county jail for investigation of felony manslaughter, felony hit-and-run driving, reckless driving, smuggling aliens and failure to [illegible]. He refused to give his age or address.

Ten other Mexican men in the United States illegally were injured in the crash early Friday of the pickup truck being chased by U.S. Border patrolmen on U.S. Highway 80.

The driver of the truck fled on foot and eluded a daylong search by highway and border patrolmen who found his bloodstains at daybreak.

Garibay was treated at a hospital for injuries which officers said he suffered in the crash.

The truck was registered to Andres Garibay Ortega of Los Angeles, convicted a year ago in nearby San Diego for alien smuggling and fined $150.

Increase In Imports Disturbing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Planned increased oil imports from Venezuela the second half of 1970 brought "deeply disturbed" reactions Friday from two Texas congressmen.

Reps. George Mahon and Omar Burleson, both Democrats, sent President Nixon a telegram saying many congressmen are concerned over increased dependency on foreign fuel and energy supplies.

They pointed out the President was aware of this when he created the Oil Policy Committee and ordered it to review congressional hearings.

"Several committees of Congress are now actively studying this question but, of course, their findings and recommendations could be made entirely meaningless if our government has already made a commitment to increase the level of imports," the telegram said.

"It is hoped, therefore," the message said, "that you can give us assurance that no agreement has been made to increase the over-all level of imports and if a commitment to Venezuela has been made it will be offset by a commensurate decrease in imports from tte Eastern Hemisphere, with the result that our over-all dependency on imported oil will be increase."

Mahon is chairman of the all important House Appropriations Committee.

Nixon made the increase announcement Thursday just a day after Venezuelan President Rafael Caldera appealed to Congress to end what he called discrimination against his country's oil.

Peru Dangerous Place To Live

By C. YATES McDANIEL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Peru's earthquake devastated area has experienced tragedy before and may well know death and ruin again.

That is the sober assessment of U.S. Geological Survey scientists who declare that sector of South America in the shadow of the mighty Andes is one of the most dangerous places in the world to live.

A United Nations official has estimated that 50,000 persons may have perished in the quake which struck Peru nearly one week ago.

Dr. George E. Ericksen, Survey specialist on Peru's geology, says the stricken area 175 miles north of Lima is "in an extremely active seismic belt."

Milder quakes than the series which killed uncounted thousands last weekend can send tons of unstable earth, glacial ice and fractured rock cascading down sheer mountain slopes into narrow valleys.

In addition, natives are afforded little protection from the debris in their homes. Typical house walls are made of mud or soft adobe brick and overloaded with heavy tile roofs that often collapse under shock, Ericksen said.

Ericksen said records show that "the west coast of South America has a major destructive earthquake nearly every year, with catastrophic earthquakes that occur every four or five years, resulting in hundreds or even thousands of deaths, and tens to hundreds of millions of dollars in property damages."

Ericksen noted the Huaras—major disaster scene last Sunday—was nearly destroyed 20 years ago when mud and rock sweeping down from a quake fractured glacial lake rim buried parts of the city to a depth of nearly 100 feet. Between 4,000 and 6,000 people were killed.

Bad as things were in Peru last weekend, Ericksen believes it could have been far worse. Had the major quake and after shocks occurred at night, he said, people would have been inside their collapsing homes. He added, the temblors came in the afternoon instead of in the morning, when churches would have been crowded.

Many Slip By Patrol On Border

By RON ROACH
Associated Press Writer

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Thousands of Mexican nationals are being smuggled into California in a lucrative and lethal trade that operates despite federal lawmen with electronic eyes and stiff court penalties.

The Mexicans, lured by better paying jobs, are crossing the border illegally by foot, car, truck, plane and boat.

The U.S. border patrol arrested 63,933 deportable aliens in California last year.

At the Chula Vista sector south of here, the number of deportable aliens nabbed jumped from 4,377 in 1963 to 41,597 last year.

It can be a deadly experience for the alien.

"We've had about a dozen deaths since the first of the year involving illegal aliens," U.S. Atty. Harry Steward said. Five Mexicans were killed early Friday when a truck being pursued by Border Patrol officers crashed near Descanso in southeastern San Diego County.

Another alien was shot recently when he ran from guards at the Camp Pendleton Marine Base. Others have died of exposure or falls from cliffs while trying to hike over mountains and deserts of southeastern California.

"I don't know of any crime killing as many people around San Diego," Steward said. "And many aliens are found near death from suffocation in trunks of cars."

Border patrolmen said a major smuggler may make $1 million a year.

"We prosecuted a $300,000-a-year operation last year," said Steward, whose district covers the border counties of San Diego and Imperial.

"They come to get jobs at farms, factories, restaurants, hotels and in homes as domestic workers. Most go back to Mexico after they've earned some money."

If caught, a smuggler faces five years in prison and $5,000 fine for each alien involved.

The Border Patrol uses radar to detect movement along California's 200-mile southern border at night. They also patrol in airplanes, cars and four-wheel drive vehicles.

Mockup Of Future Airliner Is Shown

By CATHY CASTILLO
Associated Press Writer

SEATTLE (AP) — A sleek mockup with one wing, two wooden engines and a pointed nose was unveiled Friday as the Boeing Co. concept of what the world's largest and fastest supersonic airliner will look like.

After viewing the aluminum full-size model of the 1,800-mile-an-hour passenger jet, Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe praised the plane and predicted the U.S. design would win control of the world market from SSTs being built by the Soviet Union and a French-British combine.

Volpe said he was "extremely confident" the Senate will approve $290 million for the supersonic program in fiscal 1971. The House approved the appropriation May 27.

Volpe said that by the time the SST makes its first flight, now scheduled in 1972, noise and atmospheric pollution problems will be solved.

Environmentalists oppose the SST, which will trail behind it a 20-to-25-mile-wide carpet of sonic booms when flying at speeds greater than sound. President Nixon has attempted to quiet boom critics by promising to ban supersonic flights over populated areas.

During the program Friday, Boeing officials said the SST would produce a lower noise level when landing and taking off than passenger jets now in service. The company also said a fully loaded SST would emit about the same amount of pollutants into the atmosphere as three automobiles traveling at 60 m.p.h.

The company said there was no evidence to support critics who say the jet, capable of cruising at 60,000 feet, would form a global layer of cirrus clouds that would alter the climate.
