Note to Dutch Government Protests Against Discrimination Against U. S. in Djambi Oil Fields.

American Minister Informs Hague America Expects Reciprocity in Dealing With Oil Problems.

THE HAGUE, April 29.—The chamber of parliament today by a vote of 49 to 30 adopted the Djambi oil field bill, thus barring the bid of the Standard Oil company for a concession in the Sumatra oil region.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—The United States finds no alternative than the adoption of the principle that no foreign capital can operate in American oil lands unless its government accords similar privileges to American citizens, William Phillips, American minister at the Hague, says in a note which he handed the Netherlands minister for foreign affairs on April 19 by direction of Secretary Hughes.

The note is in the nature of a protest against the granting of a monopoly for the development of the Djambi oil fields in the Dutch Indies to a company "in which foreign capital other than American is so largely interested."

"My government," says Mr. Phillips, "attaches the highest importance to the recognition of the principles of reciprocity and equal opportunity in the solution of the oil problems, as well as the extension to American capital organized under Dutch law of the same privileges and benefits which are granted to other foreign capital similarly organized under the laws of the Netherlands."

The bill provides for the exploitation of the valuable oil lands for a period of 40 years, by a combination of the Dutch India government and the Batavia Oil company, the latter belonging to the Shell group. The capital of 10,000,000 guilders will be equally divided, but the company will be under control of the Dutch government. The board of directors must all be Dutchmen. Its president, vice

U. S. HOPEFUL REPARATION CONTROVERSY BETWEEN HUNS AND ALLIES SETTLED SOON

WASHINGTON, April 29.—The American government still is hopeful that the reparation controversy between Germany and the allies can be settled by discussion.

This was learned authoritatively tonight after the whole situation had been discussed by President Harding and his cabinet, and Secretary Hughes had conferred with the French and Italian ambassadors.

Upon what administration officials based their hopefulness was not disclosed as they continued to maintain absolute silence as to the character of the informal exchange with the allied governments and also as to views of the United States on t he proposals. It became known, however, that neither Great Britain nor Italy had finally rejected as a basis for possible discussion the German offer.

France and Belgium were understood to hold that the proposals as such were unacceptable, but apparently their informal replies to Mr. Hughes were of such a character as to cause officials here to believe that the door had not been closed to further consideration of a settlement by discussion.

The impression gained ground here tonight that the next formal move in the controversy await the outcome of the meeting at London tomorrow of the allied supreme council. It was made known officially that the American government had not communicated to Germany any request for a modification of the proposals and that Germany had not approached this government with any offer of modification.

CARSON WELL REPORTED TO BE GOOD ONE

Gulf's No. 2 Burkburnett in Carson County Put on Pump and Production Estimated at 500 Barrels.

Producer is 20 Miles North of Panhandle and Is First Completed in That Section of Texas.

The Gulf's No. 2 Burk Burnett in Carson county, put on the pump yesterday, is a well and a good one, with estimates as to its production conservatively placed at from 200 to 500 barrels, with some ranging as high as 1,000 barrels, according to reports reaching Wichita Falls Friday morning. The sand depth is around 3,050 feet.

Confirmation of these reports at the local offices of the Gulf Production was impossible, as no reports had been received here, but local officials expressed no surprise at the reports that the well looked to be a good one although expressing doubt at the highest production figures reported.

First In Panhandle.

The well, which is 20 miles north of the Panhandle, on the main line of the Santa Fe will be the first oil well completed in the Panhandle, where monster gassers have been obtained in a number of places, and where practically all Texas and Oklahoma oil operators look to as the general location of the next big Texas oil field.

Wichita Falls oil operators are heavily interested, not only in the country immediately surrounding the Gulf tests, but in all parts of the Panhandle giving indication of oil structures.

Immense Importance Here.

Completion of the Gulf well for a commercial producer of any size will be a matter of immense importance for Wichita Falls, oil operators believe, for if a big oil field is developed in the Panhandle it will make this city the undisputed oil center of Texas and Western Oklahoma, in addition to benefits accruing through benefits to the local operators interested in that section.

The well is the second that the Gulf has drilled on the Burk Burnett ranch, containing 150,000 odd acres. The No. 1 was a gasser, with an estimated production of 75,000,000 feet.

The No. 2, three miles due east of the No. 1, and lower on the same structure encountered a gas flow estimated at 11,000,000 feet at around 2,500 feet.

This flow was cased off, and a small showing picked up at around 2,800 feet. This was tested out and the drilling resumed until the 3,050-foot sand was picked up about a month ago.

STANDING 1,500 IN OIL FROM NEW BURNETT SAND

The Gulf Producing Company's No. 13 Burnett lease, is standing 1,500 feet in oil from the sand at 1966 feet, according to Friday morning reports. The well is now being rigged up to pump.

The No. 13 Burnett-A, is the south offset to the discovery well of the Gulf's new pool, about three miles east of the Gladiolus or South Electra shallow pool, and a little over four miles southeast of the town of Electra.

The well has been drilled four feet into the sand, it is said, and shows every evidence of being a fair sized well, from the present showing.

It will be the only deep well completed so far in the territory southwest or east of Electra.

This and the Powell well, which is now preparing to drill in, are the present deep sand sensations in the Electra district.

OFFICERS OF ROTARY SELECTED

acterization of Mr. Roberts by Carl U. Daniels, who made the presentation speech for the president's gift. He spoke of his attitude toward the work he did, and the attitude he displayed toward the men in his employ.

"If every employer was like this, there would be none of this industrial unrest. He knows his men by their first name and always has a cheery word for each. When one of them is sick, he will himself prepare delicacies for him, and take it to him himself—he does not send it.

"He is the same by his friends. I have known of his getting up in the night and driving 70 miles to get a friend to the bedside of a relative.

Faithful Work.

"A charter member of this club, his faithfulness is well illustrated by his attendance record. In the six years of its existence, it has held 259 meetings—I. H. Roberts has been present at 222, having missed 37 meetings in the six years."

Praise for the faithful work, the cheery good nature, and the happy smile always in evidence for his fellows from Ira Brown, the secretary, was voiced by Dr. Charles R. Hartsook, immediate past president, in maging this presentation speech.

The speaker also expressed appreciation of the services of the retiring president, as well as confidence and good will for the incoming president. Dr. Hartsook also advocated making such a meeting, with the ladies present, whose identity he did not then know, an annual occasion, with an enthusiastic affirmative vote from those present.

The new president expressed appreciation of the character of responsibility which came to him with his new office, and his appreciation of the same. He promised his fellow Rotarians to discharge the duties of the office to his fullest capacity, and his sense of what it would mean to measure up to the six past presidents who had preceded him—George Keith, Tom B. Smock, Q. B. Lee, J. M. McFall, Charles R. Hartsook and I. H. Roberts, giving instances of the work performed by each, as well as by Harry Bray, whose faithfulness as a Rotarian, he declared, outranked them all.

Both Mr. Roberts and Mr. Brown expressed their thanks briefly.

In relinquishing the responsibility as president of the club, Mr. Roberts spoke of a conflict of emotions—a sense of relief at the relinquishing the responsibility that had been his during the past year, and one of regret that the pleasure he had received as officiating in that office for the membership of the Rotary club was to come to an end. He assured the incoming president of the loyalty and co-operation of the entire club.

New President Speaks.

The principal address on the program was one where Albert Myles sketched the origin and growth of the Rotary organization and its meaning. He showed how in the beginning, in 1905, the principal idea of the club had been selfish, and through a desire merely for a broader association.

Goes Through Regeneration.

In 1911, he told his hearers, the Rotary organization had gone through a regeneration, had first conceived its present idea of service above self, and had received from Arthur Frederick Sheldon its present motto, and the idea which goes with it, "He profits most who serves best." He quoted liberally from the Rotary code of ethics, which more fully brings out the entire idea behind this motto.

Mr. Myles was introduced by his old antagonist in the club discussions, Bert Bean.

Rev. N. F. Grafton asked the invocation.

NETHERLAND'S CAPITAL NOT WANTED HERE

president and one other member of the board of directors are to be nominated by the Dutch minister of the colonies, under the provisions of the bill.

Note Made Public.

The text of the American note, as made public at the state department, follows:

"Excellency: During the last 12 months, I have on several occasions presented to your excellency, the very great interest of my government in the participation by American capital in the development of the mineral oil deposits of the Netherlands East Indies. With your approval I have also had frequent interviews with the minister of the colonies on this same subject. On every occasion I have sought to impress upon the government of the Netherlands that the real interest of the government of the United States in these matters lies in the recognition of the principle of mutual or reciprocal accessibility to vital and natural resources by the nationals of the United tSates and by those of foreign countries, and the belief that the recognition of the principle of equal opportunity is the solution of the future oil problems throughout the world.

"I have pointed out that the United States has for years carried a burden of supplying a large part of the petroleum consumed by other countries, and that the petroleum resources of no other country have been so heavily drawn upon to meet foreign needs as the petroleum resources of the United tSates. I have pointed out that in the future ample supplies of pretroleum have been indispensible to the life and prosperity of my country as a whole, because of the fact that the United States is an industrial nation in which distance renders transportation difficult and agriculture depends largely on labor savings devices using petroleum products.

No Alternative

In these circumstances, my government finds no alternative than the adoption of the principle of equally good opportunity with the proviso that no foreign capital may operate in public lands unless its government accords similar or like privileges to American citizens; and furthermore, I have submitted that in the light of the future needs of the United States such very limited and purely defensive provisions as the above might become inadequate should the people of equality of opportunity not be recognized in foreign countries:

"During the month of January, 1921, I again had an opportunity to discuss the situation with your excellency and on this occasion I advised you that in my interviews with the minister of the colonies I had gained the impression that the colonial department at least was inclined to favor the participation of American capital in the development of the Djambi fields, at the same time I advised you of the nature of the reports which I made to my government in which I had dwelt upon the favorable attitude of the colonial department and furthermore, I asked whether the attitude of the minister of colonies represented in fact that of her majesty's government. You will recollect that on January 31 you were good enough to advise me that my impressions had been accurately reported to my government and that I had not exaggerated the favorable attitude of the colonial department which represented that of your excellency's government.

Informs Ruler.

I have now the honor to inform your excellency that I have received a telegram from the secretary of state to the effect that the government of the United States is still mindful of the assurances that have been given by you and by the minister of colonies relative to the favorable attitude of her majesty's government toward American participation in the development of the Djambi fields. While I am not acting on behalf of any particular American company, I am glad of this opportune moment to point out that certain definite propositions which have been made during the last twelve months, furnish sufficient evidence that responsible and experienced American interests are ready and desirous to co-operate with the Netherlands government in oil developments in the Netherland Indies.

FOUR— NETHERLANDS 9 ....

Dutch Law Prohibits.

"It is perhaps needless to say that my government is fully aware of the laws and regulations in the Indies which prohibit foreign companies as such from entering the colonies for the development of mineral oils. On the other hand, my government is very greatly concerned when it becomes apparent that the monopoly of such far reaching importance in the development of oil is about to be bestowed upon a company in which foreign capital other than American is so largely interested.

"In this connection I desire most earnestly to divert to your excellency's attention the fact that American capital stands ready to assist in the development of the Djamui fields and other oil deposits in the Netherlands Indies. In conclusion, I venture to say once more that my government attaches the highest importance to the recognition of the principles of the reciprocity and equal opportunity in the solution of the oil problems, as well as the extension to American capital organized under Dutch law of the same privileges and benefits which are granted to nations."

AWARDED DAMAGES AGAINST DECEASED

Five hundred dollars was the amount awarded B. E. Dawson in the damage suit against C. L. Morgan (deceased) in the 89th District court Friday afternoon. Fifteen thousand dollars was asked for and it was said during the trial that Dawson's jaw was broken by a blow from Morgan's fist and that his spine was injured.

The alleged fight from which this suit grew is said to have been staged at Newtown and to have grown out of a misunderstanding of a feed storage deal.

STEEL USERS COMPLAIN TO GOVERNMENT

truck to the Gary, Indiana steel mill and purchases steel manufactured at that plant must pay the price charged in Pittsburgh, plus an amount equaling the freight rate from Pittsburgh to Gary."

Complaints Limited

The complaint is not limited, however, to the alleged use of this device. It charges specifically that the steel corporation "owns and controls the utlimate iron ore supply in the United States," and that because of "its power and influence" through the large percentage of the steel manufacturing business done by it and supported by it, its consequent potential power to embarrass or destroy its competitors by unduly lowering its price schedules is "tantamount to the naming by the steel corporation of prices that are to be charged by all steel manufacturerers in the United States."

Charge also is made that the steel corporation for at least seven years has issued from time to time, price quotations and schedules covering rolled steel manufactured by its subsidiaries and that these quotations are adopted by all of the respondent subsidiaries and their competitors substantially as their quotations of prices and that this alleged practice of steel manufacturers in giving uniform prices succeeded the custom which formerly prevailed whereby such manufacturers openly met at intervals and agreed upon prices which they were to charge and maintain.

Other Charges Made.

Other specific charges included: That the United States Steel corporation has complete control, supervision and direction over the business conducted by the subsidiaries named, transportation materials used in the manufacture of iron and steel, and products made there from interstate commerce.

That the United States Steel corporation, through certain of its respondent subsidiaries owns and controls over 75 percent of the total iron ore deposits in the Lake Superior district, where is located the greater part of the iron ore deposits in the United States.

That it owns and controls the greater part of iron ore deposits in Alabama, where production is second only to that of the Lake Superior district.

That it owns and controls the major number of railroads and lake transportation systems which carry iron ore from mines to manufacturing plants of the respondent subsidiaries and their competitors.

That it likewise owns and controls coal lines and limestone quarries necessary in the manufacture of steel.

That the total production in the United States of the following items the respondents manufacture and sell approximately 47 percent of the crude steel in the form of ingots; approximately 45 percent of billets, blooms, sheet and tinplate bars, rails, plates and sheets, structural fabrics, bars and the like and approximately 60 percent of other steel products.

That the steel corporation, through its subsidiaries controls and utilizes 145 plants, principally in Pennsylvania, Ohio, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Alabama, Kentucky, West Virginia, Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, Kansas, California and Washington.

FIFTY DEFENDANTS LOSE IN COURT

With 50 defendants on the side lines, R. E. Montgomery's suit against G. P. Sanders et al came to a conclusion in the 89th district court Friday when the jury decided in the plaintiff's favor.

The suit was a trespass to try title and involved "squatters rights" in the so-called "no-man's land" of Wichita Falls.

EIGHT IN LOCAL JAIL TO PRISON

More space in the county jail is the promise of Jimmie Allen after Sunday, when he and three guards will transport eight men to Leavenworth.

Yesterday he brought Jailer Cass Tarver another "boarder," Charles Fowler of Dallas who has eighteen months to work off in Leavenworth on a charge of violations of the narcotic act.

"They're nice boys but I'll be glad to see 'em clear out" said Tarver Friday afternoon, "We've too many customers at Hotel Rest-a-While and need the floor space."

Misses Myrtle Wells and Dixie King will leave next week for Galveston, where they will attend the state convention of graduate nurses, May 3, 4, and 5.

GRAHAM THOUGHT HE HAD HEART TROUBLE

Restored to Health by Tanlac Four Years Ago, He Says He Has Felt Fine Ever Since.

"Yes, sir, I certainly can recommend Tanlac and am glad to do so, for it set me right four years ago and I have felt fine ever since," said W. R. Graham, R. F. D. No. 1 Pinson, Tenn.

"At the time I began taking Tanlac I had been suffering from stomach trouble for about five years, and had become so badly run down life was very little satisfaction to me. I couldn't eat anything without bloating until my heart acted so queerly I thought I had heart trouble. I had a heavy feeling like a lump of lead right in the pit of my stomach all the time, and at times my head ached like forty and I was so dizzy I could hardly stand up. I was nervous, and nights I couldn't sleep to do any good and got up mornings feeling tired out and not able to eat a bite of breakfast. I was badly constipated, and my kidneys and bladder bothered me a great deal.

"Well, I managed to keep on the job, but it was just all I could do. Then I began taking Tanlac, and after finishing my sixth bottle my stomach was in fine condition, and all my other troubles had disappeared so that I was feeling fine all the time. Since then I've enjoyed the best of health and, as Tanlac is what has made my life really worth living, I'm glad to say a good word for it."

Tanlac is sold in Wichita Falls by Miller Drug Store; in Electra by Tarlton Drug Co., and in Burkburnett by West End Drug Co, and by all leading druggists.—Adv.

HEARST OFFERS REPARATION TO WICHITA FALLS

An offer to make reparation for the insult to Wichita Falls by the picturization of this city as a "rag-town" in the April issue of Hearsts magazine, by allowing a picture of Wichita Falls as it really is with explanations to be printed in the next issue of that magazine, was made in a letter from K. M. Goode, editor.

Rex Beach received a good coat of "kalsomine" at the editor's hands, and the "stupid blunder" was put on Armand Both, illustrator, who drew in his imagination to show the union station in "Wichita Falls" as an oil field cross-roads with the stop look and listen sign indicating that if a train ever stopped, it was on signal, and oil derricks showing above the tents and wooden shacks of Main street. However, not all of the buck was passed to Armand for the editors of the magazine admit that Mr. Beach was the first to object to the drawing and that it went through under his protest that there were no oil wells in miles of the city.

Mr. Goode's letter was in reply to a communication from C. E. Carter, publicity manager of the Chamber of Commerce, in which Nick allowed his feelings to incline toward the tabasco variety. As soon as Mr. Carter saw the offer of the editor to allow a picture of Wichita Falls to be published in Hearsts he remarked that "we would get darn good publicity after all."

It is expected that the Chamber of Commerce will allow a picture of this city to be reproduced in an early number of Hearsts. The letter from Editor Goode follows:

Dear Sir: I have your letter of April 20 and am inclined to agree that in the light of the provocation, it is comparatively mild.

"In the first place, let me hasten to say that it would be a grave injustice to blame Mr. Beach for anything to do with the illustrations. Mr. Beach was the first man to protest against the drawing of Wichita Falls and to explain that there were no oil wells within 15 miles. He brought back photographs which he was good enough to offer for the benefit of the illustrator and which we took pains to have Mr. Both inspect. Mr. Beach may accept his own responsibility for any injustice to the modernity of your city in the text, but it is certainly not fair to blame him in any degree for the drawings.

"The whole difficulty lies in the fact that 'Wichita Falls' means no more to Armand Both, the artist, than Armand Both does to 'Wichita Falls.' In fact, it is quite probable that he believes 'Calvin Gray' is a real character and that 'Wichita Falls' is a pretty name Mr. Beach made up. At any rate, he considers it to be his job to draw as good a set of pictures as his artistic imagination could find in Mr. Beach's manuscript. I grant you he should have been better informed but I have been working in magazines even longer than you have been in the newspapers, and I have yet to find a real artist who really gives a damn about the correctness of his pictures if the pictures are good.

"The real blame, of course, belongs with me and the other editors who allowed the caption on the picture to go through unchallenged. But this was merely a slip such as you yourself have seen in a good many well-run publications. Anybody with the slightest knowledge of editing is always guarding against the danger of allowing a proper name to go through under anything but an actual photograph.

"However, the damage is done, and I am extremely sorry. It goes without saying that it is the sort of error what we would much prefer to avoid, as it could not possibly do anybody in the world the slightest good, and always arouses a lot of letter writing and explanations. Mr. Beach in particular was disturbed because he did, as a matter of fact, spend several months in your part of the country collecting material for his story.

"I do not know that there is anything we can do to remedy whatever harm you may feel has been done 'Wichita Falls' by this stupid but entirely innocent blunder. If you could find time to mail me a photograph of the town as it really is, I will try to find a little space somewhere in the next issue to publish it with a few lines from your letter, describing its unquestioned size and standing."

BAVARIAN KING COMES OUT OF EXILE TO ATTEND WEDDING OF CROWN PRINCE

King Louis III of Bavaria escorting Princess Antoinette to the wedding (above) and Crown Prince Rupprecht and his bride, the princess, after the wedding.

The recent marriage of Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria, fifty-two, to the young Princess Antoinette of Luxemburg, twenty-two, at Lesggries, attracted world-wide attention. It marked the first appearance from exile of King Louis III of Bavaria. He left his exile home in Homen Warte near Munich, to attend the ceremony. The Grand Duke of Baden, the Grand Duchess of Luxemburg, sister of the bride, and many other members of the European nobility attended.

Furnish Key To Treasure In Word Study

What vast and mighty treasures of words full of rich meaning lie locked up in our language—hidden away from common use, and enjoyed only by the learned few. It is as if, possessing the mineral wealth of Mexico, mined, smelted and ready for the mint, we turned scornfully aside revelling in a voluntary poverty.

A dictionary constitutes the treasure house of a language. As a people, we needlessly deprive ourselves of the helps at our command. In our daily tasks, not one of which can be performed without the use of words, we possess only the most primitive tools, when we might be equipped with the keenest and most efficient. If the dictionary be the barred and bolted treasure house we have mentioned, then the coupon we print daily in this paper is its key.

The coupon will appear only a few more times. This marvelous distribution draws to a close. Readers are advised to consult the coupon now, read the display announcements and ascertain at once how this great New Universities Dictionary can be secured practically as a gift.

Police Chief Huff said that Mr. Hunt was not positive whether his pockets were picked on the train or while in Fort Worth.

COFFEE IS NOT HARMFUL, TEST SHOWS

BOSTON, April 29.—The first findings of the scientific coffee research, which has been in progress at Technology since June, 1920, was announced by Prof. Samuel C. Prescott, head of the department of biology and public health and director of the coffee investigation.

The report states that caffein, the narcotic characteristic ingredients of coffee, is, in the moderate quantities consumed by the average coffee drinker a safe stimulant, without harmful after effects.

The investigators are now at work to isolate and identify the other constituents of the coffee bean, especially those which determine the flavor and aroma, preliminary to studying the best methods of brewing beverage coffee.

DENVER TO HOLD BIG AIRPLANE MEET

DENVER, April 29.—Plans for the greatest "airplane meet" ever staged west of the Mississippi, to be held in Denver beginning May 15, are under way today, and it is expected that 30 planes will fly in exhibition feats during the air carnival.

A score of individual flyers, mostly residents of the Rocky Mountains region, are expected to compete in the various contests, including a daily program of racing events, "stunt" and exhibition flying. Trophies and money prizes will be awarded for long distance and trick flying. Parachute jumpers will be secured, if possible, to lend an added thrill to the contests.

Entries from Kansas, Oklahoma, several northwestern states and California are being booked.

The original day chosen for Inauguration day was not the 4th of March, but the first Wednesday in March.

Old Order Changes Homely Relish

NOW HAILED BY SCIENCE AS WORLD'S MOST PERFECT FOOD

That butter was the best cooking fat has long been a secret of the innermost heart of every good cook. She knew that when all else failed she could depend upon butter to give the fine flavor, the crisp shortenings, that she most desired. But withal she considered butter an extravagance and at the prices that have prevailed for many years, a real luxury.

Now come such world-known authorities as McCollum of Johns Hopkins University and declare that butter for cooking, entirely different from being a luxury, is a real necessity in the cooking of any family where there are growing children and a very desirable part of the diet of any family of adults.

For butter contains "vitamines"—that mysterious, recently discovered property of some few foods which makes children grow and grown folks feel well.

The housekeeper, then, who gives her family plenty of butter on the table as a spread for bread and biscuits, and who uses butter in large quantities in her cooking, is not only supplying their food needs with a food that, reckoned in terms of calories and the more familiar food values, is exceptionally reasonable in price, but a food that because of its vitamine content supplies a need of the human body that cannot otherwise be taken care of.

Creamery butter when made in a modern sun-lit butter plant, from rich cream, handled through snow-white, spotlessly clean machinery, with every process guarded and checked by experts, with every care taken to insure and protect its purity, flavor and wholesomeness, offers an unusually valuable and concentrated food, as well as providing an exceptional source of "vitamines," the growth and health-producing element.

THE RODEO.

The Spring Rodeo now being held here is a decided credit to Wichita Falls. It is an exhibition of the first class of which any city could well be proud. That our people will strongly support it is well indicated by the advance sale of tickets.

Its success is directly due to the efforts of the Retail Merchants Association and the directors of the Chamber of Commerce, who, with T. B .Noble, Jerome Stone and Jim Marlow, worked untiringly with Tom Burnett and Colonel Mulhall to make it a genuine exhibition. To the latter two and their well trained staff must go the majority of credit.

Plans are now under way to provide a permanent home for this exhibition, where it can be put on next year. With a permanent home this can well become an annual event, bringing much renown to Wichita Falls.

It might even be held at a different season in order that a North Texas Fair could be held in conjunction with it. Such a combination would attract people from all over Northwest Texas and Southwest Oklahoma. We have a large city in the building here. This is so because a few men with vision worked unselfishly for its future. That future is being more clearly realized every year. To plan for such a combination exhibition now is not a day too early.

No better location could be possible for an annual exhibition of horsemanship than Wichita Falls, located as it is in the center of what a decade ago was the great cattle country. The art, and it is a high art, of horsemanship, such as the plains developed, should be preserved. It is the rightful heritage of our coming generations.

Wichita Falls was first known as being located in the heart of the cattle country; later it became the great wheat growing county of Texas; then came oil which made it known throughout the United States. Before long the irrigation project will make it the center of a Texas Garden of Eden.

We will still have cattle, wheat and oil in large amounts when this has been finished. With the coming changes let us preserve fittingly the best of the plains life, improving if possible the present splendid exhibition.

COMPETITION.

There are competing telegraph companies in Fort Worth. This is indicated in several ways. The most striking of which is that it often requires five hours less time for a message to reach Fort Worth from Washington than it does for a message filed at the same place and same time to reach Wichita Falls.

This service delay does not so much come from our one company slighting this city as from the fact that in Fort Worth where they have competition, necessity compels high grade service.

Our Chamber of Commerce is successfully active in many constructive lines, but here is something that should have their attention. Wichita Falls is too big to be at the mercy of a single telegraph company.

It is true that the Commercial Radio Station has somewhat relieved our wire service. However, its use is not yet general enough, due to its novelty, to help greatly. It is growing, however.

There has been talk for five years of interesting another company to make extensions and open an office in Wichita Falls, but no follow up effort has been made to bring this about.

Entirely aside from the improved service which comes from competition the plain truth that a single company with overloaded wires cannot expeditely handle our telegraph business is readily apparent. Occasionally during storms our one company has wire trouble which holds up service. Two companies operating here would afford relief during such periods.

Wichita Falls does not need stand on the top of its large office buildings and shout at the world that it has now become a real city and is steadily growing. The amount of business done here, the size of our bank deposits, are proof that it is. These proofs will become still more apparent during the coming years.

Sometime it will have telegraphic competition which will put us hours closer with the outside world. A little persistent effort could bring that relief now. Wichita Falls right now is too big to be at the mercy of a single telegraph company.

President Doak Roberts has stated that he will fully investigate the incident where First Baseman Kraft of Fort Worth, who hit Miller of the Spudders with a ball, before passing sentence. It is to be hoped that Robert's action will be in the interest of sportsmanship. After all, the public makes possible baseball games. And the public pays to see exhibitions of skill conducted with sportsmanship. No player, no matter how skilled, should be tolerated who cannot hold his tongue to decent limits, nor his temper, and should draw both a suspension and a heavy fine.

Editorial Digest

"HOME RULE" FOR THE RAILROADS.

"Industrially the most encouraging domestic news of the year" to the Richmond News Leader (Dem.) is the decision of the Railroad Labor Board abrogating national agreements and laying down certain principles as the basis of negotiations for new working contracts between the individual roads and their employes. Practically the entire press takes the same view, and agrees with the New York Herald (Ind.) that "a very important milestone in post-war American history" has been safely passed. There is some difference of opinion as to where the victory lies, but agreement is general that "the basic principles adopted are sound and eminently fair" (Evansville Journal, Rep.), and while much depends on the spirit in which both sides enter the coming conferences, the press feels, with the Charleston News and Courier (Dem.) that "an honest effort to formulate working rules under these principles can hardly fail of success." At any rate, the Baltimore News (Ind.) thinks "we may now hope to see something accomplished toward a solution of the railroad problem."

Official sanction of the principle that each road should make its own working agreements constitutes "a substantial victory for the executives" in the opinion of the Baltimore Evening Sun (Ind. Dem.). In this it is supported by a considerable number of papers, among them the Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph (Rep.) the New Orleans Times Picayune (Ind. Dem.) and the Winston-Salem (N. C.) Journal (Dem.), which calls it a triumph for "home rule in industry." But since, as the New York Evening Post (Ind.) points out, "the decision makes concessions to both sides," the Chicago Journal (Dem.) views it rather as "a victory for the railroad industry." And the "astonishing fact" that "both the employes and the operators are more or less satisfied with the decision" leads the Hartford Courant (Rep.) to the conclusion that "the public" also will have a substantial share in the victory.

The national agreements made during the war receive no support from the press, and their termination is enthusiastically endorsed. Under them the Wilmington (N. C.) Star (Dem.) holds, "the railroads have undoubtedly been subjected to numerous unnecessary and unjust burdens" and since "human wisdom is not capable of designing a set of rules that would be uniformly workable and fair throughout the United States" abrogation of the principle is "unquestionably sound." By cutting loose "the millstone of national agreements" the New York Tribune (Rep.) credits the Labor Board with dispelling "an economic vagary." The Pittsburgh Gazette Times (Rep.) considers "agreements" a misnomer—they "were not agreements, but a labor code forced upon the transportation companies . . . on the pretext of wartime necessity" and in writing them off the Labor Board is acting in the interests not only of railroad workers and managers, but of "the country as a whole." But one voice is raised against this point in the new program. That is the New York Call (Soc.) which sees individual conferences as a means to "split the workers into as many negotiating groups as there are railroads and destroy at one stroke the solidarity that is promised by one national conference."

However, the Lynchburg News, (Dem.) expresses the majority opinion when it declares that "the scope of the victory" of the operators "is perceptibly narrowed by some of the sixteen principles laid down . . . as a basis for the agreements hereafter to be arrived at." These principles, according to the Philadelphia Public Ledger (Ind.) are "the old, basic labor contentions;" they "uphold the eight-hour day, the principle of collective bargaining, the right of organizations and of naming representatives," and promulgated by a governmental body they "will make industrial history."

The scene is a country national school in County Antrim. The teacher is exhibiting a class of tiny boys to an inspector. She asks the top boy:

"Johnny McDowel, who is the Supreme Being?"

Johnny, in a tone of pleased conviction and certainty: "Sir Edward Cairson, miss."

"Wrong—next boy."

Second boy in a surprised tone: "Sir Edward Cairson, miss."

"Wrong—next."

Third boy, thinking the teacher either absent-minded or trying to catch them: "Sir Edward Cairson, miss."

"Wrong."

A small boy at the end of the class mumbles out: "God, miss."

Just then teacher and inspector are summoned for a moment into an adjoining room. As they disappear through the door, three clenched fists are raised, and three small voices chorus: "Ye bloomin' little Sinn Feiner—wait till we get ye outside."

ARE WHISKERS COMING BACK?

Just the other day we noted a group photograph of the faculty of a highbrow college. Nine of the gentlemen present wore whiskers of various forms, and the tenth had a pained look as though he were straining to raise a set. When our celebrated institutions of learnings get to doing it, it is time to sit up and take notice. Whiskers may be almost as much of a menace as Bolshevism, much more so, in fact, as they are liable to crop out in any family.

It has always been a question whether the whiskers made the man or the man makes the whiskers. The majority of people, we believe, are set against an epidemic of facial forests in this country. It is hard enough to meet any man face to face now, and some men are very hard to find, but if it comes we must meet it with fortitude and try to get them placed on the luxury tax list, which seems to be the best way to kill anything off in this country.

There are two ways of stating a theory. I KNOW that this is absolutely correct, and I know that THIS is absolutely correct. Relatively speaking, both are correct. A scientific conception of space and time and their relation to the physical world of study. The physical world does not mean the legs which are being exposed with the aid of silk stockings. It means more than that.

Space means much, but time means more. Gravitation or attraction is also important. It is a wonderful theory; but I am from Missouri.

IGNORANT ESSAYS

By J. P. McEVOY

When I was a young father I used to think that putting babies to bed was a simple proposition. You merely looked at them sternly (I thought) and said in a firm voice "Go to bed." Then they marched right off (I thought), crawled right in, pulled the covers up around them and went off to sleep immediately. That's the way they did it in the book I bought, "How to Train Children." Sometimes they hesitated a little, but if you looked at them sternly (it said so in the book) and kept the authoritative parental note in your voice they surrendered (in the book.)

Well, I have grown older in years and wisdom and grace since then. I don't read that book anymore, either. I gave it to another young father whom I never did like anyway. My latest child is now at the firm-voice and stern-look age. And every night he must be put to bed. It isn't any ordinary job. True there are four of us who collaborate, but it takes all of us working in shifts to do the trick. I have tried cajolery, bribery, trickery, force, reason, everything, in short but mayhem, and he, foils me with dexterity and ease.

Last night, though, I fooled him. It seems like a dream, now that I look back upon it. Maybe it was a dream. Maybe it didn't happen at all. It couldn't have. I'm sure. And yet, I believe it did. It was like this: "Son, (I said) "come over here and daddy willl tell you a story." (He came) "Once upon a time (I began) there was a little fairy, a litte shoe button fairy, and what do you suppose he loved to do? He loved to unbutton brother's shoes. One, two, three (unbuttoning his shoes) four- five- six. And just as he finished unbuttoning brother's shoes and taking them off (I take them off) he dripped them on the floor, one at a time like this, bang, bang. And just then another little fairy came along: 'Hello shoe-button fairy,' said the other little fairy. 'Hello, clothes-button fairy' said the shoe-button fairy, for that was the little stranger's name. 'What are you doing?' 'I am unbuttoning brother's shoes.' 'That's nothing. I can unbutton buttons, too,' he said and then he started in: One, two, three, four—(here I take off his dress and waist, keeping perfect time) Five, six, seven, eight, three. Now'll I'll run you a race in the nursery,' said the clothes-button fairy. 'All right,' said the shoe-button fairy, 'but how about brother?' 'Let him catch us if he can,' said the clothes-button fairy, so off they went, and brother went right along with daddy right after them. (Here we stage a race into the nursery). "And right into brother's bed they tumbled and closed their eyes, the shoe-button fairy and the clothes-button fairy, brothers and daddy. And they keep them closed—and closed—and closed—and they all sang Three Blind Mice like this: Three Blind Mice (very slowly) Three—Blind Mice—Three Blind Mice—see how they run—see how they run (slower and slower) see how they run—and the first thing I knew the little dickens was asleep.)

That was last night. Will it work again tonight? If it only would. But I have a fear—"I have a fear—an odd idea—a foreboding. No chance,

PULLING BOTH WAYS FROM MIDDLE WILL NEVER GET 'EM ANYWHERE

NOSING 'ROUND WASHINGTON

BY ROBERT CORTES HOLLIDAY

Author of "Walking-Stick Papers," "Broome Street Straws," "Men and Books and Cities,"

Seventh Installment.

We called one day to see Assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt. He is not in the state, army and navy building where Mr. Denby is but some ten minutes' walk away, in the long, rather fragile looking navy department building constructed during the war.

Here numerous gold-braided officers continually come and go. The building is filled with very beautiful models of fighting ships. At one side of Roosevelt's door is a model of the San Diego,, at the other side a "sample U. S. navy patrol boat."

As we gave him our cards a young man asked us if we knew "the colonel." An old Washington newspaper man had told us that morning, "He will go far under his own hat." Several very large men, also waiting, were smoking very large cigars while we waited. While all male visitors to public offices in Washington appear to smoke continually, those in government positions apparently do not smoke during office hours. And government business hours there seems to be queer. The senate goes into session at just about lunch time. The president seems to be around in his business office throughout the whole of the middle of the day. And the office of the secretary of state telephones you at 6 o'clock Saturday night.

The young man showed us in. Mr. Roosevelt arose from his desk shook hands very cordially, said "How do you do" and sat down again and at the moment said nothing further. It was up to us to swing the conversation. So my friend launched out: We had nothing to do with affairs of state, had no design to interview him as to naval matters, simply were curious to see if we should find him eating an apple and wearing white socks, or what. With hearty good nature, Mr. Roosevelt replied that he was not eating an apple because he did not have one to eat and that he had only once worn white socks, woolen ones, when a boy at school.

He was very neatly dressed in a suit of quiet dark material, wore rich dark red tie, with a stick pin to it. Curiously weather beaten looking complexion. As he has just published a book we asked him if he intended to carry on more or less of a literary career together with his public life. He said, well, perhaps more or less. But he wouldn't have time for much such work. He "practiced" writing on Saturdays and Sundays, but mainly for the purpose of attaining to clearness in expressing himself. He insisted that the great bulk of his father's writings had been done before the full course of his political activities and after he had retired from them.

After we had arisen to go he walked up and down the room with us, with a somewhat arm in arm effect. Declared we should know a friend of his up in Boston, because we'd "like him." Said to look in on him again any time when in Washington. Very affable young man.

We went out on S street to see Wilson's new house. Handsome enough structure, but, undetached from the building next door and fronting directly on the sidewalk, we decided that it looked somewhat more like a club than like a private residence. Were told later that the part of that house to look at is the back of it, as there are wonderful gardens there.

One cannot fail to note in the numerous art shops, where pictures of Harding, Roosevelt, Washington, Lincoln and Cleveland are displayed in abundance, the relative absence of pictures of Wilson.

Why do august statesmen in the lobby of the New Willard cross their legs so that we can see that their shoes need to be half-soled? Why do so many distinguished looking gentlemen in Washington wear their overcoats as though they were sleeveless capes? What on earth do so many Oklahoma looking characters do in Washington. Why is it that there the masses do not, as in New York and Chicago and Los Angeles, stroll about at night?

We stopped in again at the executive office of the White House. Remarkable number of doormen there got up somewhat like policemen, as that you repeatedly have to explain yourself all over again. Man new to us on today. Suspiciously asked our names. Then (though what just our names could have meant to him I cannot see) shook hands with immense friendliness and told us his name.

Quite a throng waiting. Busy hum all about. Different crowd from usual. Hardly any reporters. Old gentlemen. Stout, red-faced fellows with large black slouch hats. Several young-ish women with very generous bosom displays. Some sort of a delegation, apparently. We did not make out just what. But the scene somewhat suggested a meeting of the Los Angeles branch of the Ohio society. At length the company lines up. We trail in through with the rest.

The president, looming in the center of the office, shakes hands with each caller in turn, in a manner of paternal affection. Holds your hand very gently within his for a considerable while. Rather odd position he takes when shaking hands. Right shoulder lifted. Looks (though I felt that, he was unconscious of this effect) somewhat like a pose that a painter might put his model into when about to paint him shaking hands.

He bent over us in a very fatherly fashion. Said, yes, yes, he had got our letters while in the south. Which was quite a mistake, as we hadn't written him any letters. But his kindly intention was quite unmistakable.

To the person born on the third day after the new moon will come great success, largely through the help and assistance of others.

THIS WOMAN'S EXPERIENCE

Brings a Ray of Hope to Childless Women

Lowell, Mass.—"I had anemia from the time I was sixteen years old and was very irregular. If I did any house cleaning or washing I would faint and have to be put to bed, my husband thinking every minute was my last. After reading your textbook for women I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and used the Sanative Wash, and have never felt better than I have the last two years. I can work, eat, sleep, and feel as strong as can be. Doctors told me I could never have children—I was too weak—but after taking Vegetable Compound it strengthened me so I gave birth to an eight pound boy. I was well all the time, did all my work up to the last day, and had a natural birth. Everybody who knew me was surprised, and when they ask me what made me strong I tell them Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Use this testimonial at any time."—Mrs. ELIZABETH SMART, 142 W. Sixth St., Lowell, Mass.

This experience of Mrs. Smart is surely a strong recommendation for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It is only one of a great many similar cases.

A WIFE IN THE MAKING

BY PHYLLIS PHILLIPS

THE "BRIDAL SUITE."

Arm in arm, Edward and Cherry followed Mrs. Randell into the house, stopping at the entrance to admire the beauty of the crimson ramblers which grew in scented profusion all up one side of the porch. Cherry buried her nose deep into a mass of them, then turned to admire the rest of the flowers blooming at her feet.

"This is just the most beautiful garden, ever," she exclaimed delightedly to Mrs. Randell, "and I know that I shall be wonderfully happy living here with you and all these flowers. And such a homey, scrumptious house, too. You know, Mrs. Randell, I've been raised in the city and I've never had a chance to sit down in a garden like this very often. We all had to work at home and there were very few trips to the country, even in the summer."

"I'm glad you like us, my dear," responded Mrs. Randell, gently, "and I'm sure that we are going to love having you with us, too. But now let's go in and have some food. I'm sure you two young people must be starving, after your long trip. Jane, tell Phoebe to put the breakfast on the table right away," she said, turning to her daughter.

Once inside the spacious house, Cherry exclaimed all over again at the invitingness of everything. The roomy hall, the sunny sitting room, which led one right out to the wide verandah, with its long French windows opening to the full sweetness of the flowers without. On the other side of the entrancehall was the drawing room, a big room, and to Cherry's way of thinking, not half so comfy as the other one. At one end of it was a large fireplace, and round the buff-colored walls hung stiff portraits of dead and gone Randells, who looked serenely and solemnly down on the new bride, with almost a quizzical expression in their eyes. Here, the chairs were set stiffly in their places and a wide satin-covered couch seemed to argue against anyone ever being so rash as to try its smooth depths no matter what the circumstances. The sun only filtered in at the windows, which was another point against it, according to Cherry, and there were wax flowers under a glass case, which were more formidable than a row of German spears to her way of thinking.

Up the wide staircase Mrs. Randell led them, to the hall above, from which many doors opened, showing clean, cool bedrooms beyond. At the end of the hall the lady of the manor threw open a door, and welcomed Cherry to her new room. "It used to be Edward's my dear, and I thought as long as he was so used to it and it was so large and pleasant he'd like to go on having it for you and himself."

It was a huge, sunny room, with four large windows. A hickory tree stretched its broad, green arms protectingly outside one of the windows, as though extending its blessing to the bride.

"I just love this room, Mrs—er—M—" said Cherry, stopping confusedly, to wonder what she should call Mrs. Randell.

"Mother, please, dear, always mother. Just as much to you as to my Edward," said Mrs. Randell, patting Cherry's hand reassuringly. "I know it's all strange to you now, but you'll get used to it, and to your new mother, too, I hope, dear girl."

"Now I'll leave you to clean up a bit, then come down to breakfast and we'll get acquainted over Aunt Phoebe's hot biscut and excellent coffee," Mrs. Randell admonished, as she whisked out of the room.

"It's sweet to have you share my old room, darling," said Edward, as he drew his wife into his arms and kissed her tenderly. "Welcome, welcome home, dear, many times."

FROCKS FOR WARM SUMMER MORNINGS AND AFTERNOONS

Frocks for summer wear are now occupying the most important place in the stores as well as in the minds of the dressmakers. There are any number of simple little frocks for morning wear and also many pretty models for the more formal afternoon and evening hours. Shown at the left here is a very light and dainty little dress made of dotted Swiss combined with organdy. The color combination is red and white. An overskirt, a vestee and collar and a huge sash are the interesting features of the dress.

The other two frocks are exquisite creations for afternoon wear. At the right is one of handkerchief linen trimmed with filet lace and in the center is a ciel blue organdie trimmed with embroidery.

Mayonnaise Dressing—Five yolks (beaten) one-half cup cream, one-half cup vinegar, one-half cup of water, one-eighth teaspoon cayenne pepper, one and one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon mustard, one tablespoon flour, two tablespoons sugar. Beat yolks well in a cup, fill up the cup with cream. Mix the dry ingredients; wet with a little water, add to the yolks and cream. Place in a double boiler and let cook until thick and smooth, stirring constantly.

Strawberry Shortcake—Sift two cups flour, five teaspoons caking powder and one teaspoon salt together twice. Into this mixture rub one-quarter cup shortening. Mix with three-quarters cup milk or enough milk to make soft dough. Divide in two parts and roll or pat each part to fit in. Place one-half in tin and brush with melted butter. Place second sheet on first and bake in hot oven. Split, spread with butter and place crushed and sweetened berries between layers and on top. Cut in squares and serve with rich milk or with whipped cream. Garnish with whole or quartered berries.

Individual shortcakes are made by cutting rounds as for biscuits.

Of Interest to House-Wives.

What promises to be a lively campaign to curtail or prevent the substitution of cocoanut oil for butterfat in milk, cream and milk compounds is in progress. Dieticians, consumers' organizations and others are appealing to state legislators to make it unlawful to manufacture and sell imitation milk products in which cocoanut oil displaces butterfat either in part of whole. The opponents contend that as cocoanut oil does not contain vitamines, it is not in the interest of public health to permit it to be used as a substitute for butterfat having the vital elements essential to growth and as a protection against disease.

The cocoanut oil advocates maintain that as they can manufacture an imitation product much cheaper than the real milk product that the public should have the privilege of buying that product for the sake of economy. As long as their containers are properly labeled that they believe that there should be no complaint.

It has been contended that labels are no protection and that many people through carelessness or ignorance feed their children the cocoanut oil mixtures, thus denying them the real food value to be found in genuine compounds.

With the Women of Today

Mrs. Kate S. Wilder.

The North Dakota League of Women Voters claims the distinction of having for its chairman the first woman police commissioner in the United States. She is Mrs. Kate Wilder of Fargo. Mrs. Wilder was elected to the city commission of Fargo in 1919, the first woman in North Dakota to be elected to such an office. At the organization of the commission she was appointed to the police department, which position she still holds.

Mrs. Wilder feels that it is an honor to have been the first woman police commissioner in the country, but her friends claim that it was due her to be honored, for she had done so much for women. She was born in Meadville, Pa., but went to North Dakota with her parents when but a baby.

Her father was a lawyer and practiced his profession in a small town about 20 miles from the "claim" which he took and which mother and the baby "proved up." Before she was old enough to attend school the family moved to Grand Forks, where Mrs. Wilder remained until after her marriage to Fred H. Wilder, when they moved to Fargo. Mrs. Wilder has held several state offices for the W. C. T. U.; has been in the Federated club work for years; is a past matron of the Eastern Star and belongs to Lake Agassiz chapter, D. A. R. She was the first secretary of the North Dakota Votes for Women league and during the campaign for suffrage in 1912 she was in the field from the first of February until election day.

Belgian Women Vote.

The woman vote, cast for the first time in Belgium, is credited with the major share in the conservative victories in elections held a few days ago.

Fairly full returns indicate that the Catholic party, which counted upon the women, has definitely lost its position as the strongest party. The communist candidates were also heavily defeated.

18-Year-Old Delegate

The youngest delegate at the recent convention of the League of Women Voters was Madeleine Jacobs, from Birmingham, Ala. She is 18 and a freshman at Smith. Although Alabama sent her, she represented Smith as well. Smith is the only college that has a league. Its object is not so much to instruct girls how to vote as to educate them to the idea of taking a part in government through some powerful organization like the league. Smith girls who are of age may vote in Northampton, Mass.

Wins Honor in Orient.

Mrs. Charles Burnett, wife of the Colonel Burnett, who is attached to the American embassy in Japan, has for the second time won the prize for Japanese poetry. Approximately 17,000 persons wrote poems in the prize competition, but this American woman won with a poem entitled "Before the Shrine in Ise at Dawn." Mrs. Burnett was born in Tennessee. She first went to Japan in 1911 and did not know the language before that time. She entered the national competition in poetry writing in 1914 and won the prize in that year the first time.

STRAND GIVES TWO MATINEES

Two matinees will be given at the Strand theater this morning, beginning at 9:30 o'clock and continuing until 1 p. m. under the auspices of the Alamo Mothers' club, according to an announcement made by the club president, Mrs. L. R. Buchanan.

"The Love Net," a six-reel feature film with Madge Evans, a popular young actress in the title role, will be shown, followed by two comedies, "Mutt and Jeff" and "The Katzenjammer Kids."

The title of the feature picture is a little misleading, Mrs. Buchanan stated, as it was filmed during her stay in Dallas, and the picture is especially pleasing to younger children.

The proceeds from these Saturday morning matinees are to be used for the playground fund and not only the Alamo school playground, but any other school in the city that needs equipment, Mrs. Buchanan said.

Admission for children of all ages Saturday morning will be 15 cents.

FIVE TWO AUTOS STOLEN 6 MONTHS AGO

Buick roadsters, said to have disappeared from the streets of Wichita Falls some six months ago, were recovered and two brothers, Ralph and Frank Baden placed under arrest at South Bend early this week, according to Charles Bebout, representative of the Anti-Thief Association of Dallas.

One of the automobiles was reported to be the property of Carroll-Brough, Robinson and Gates.

SHREVEPORT, La., April 29.—Coming from behind and making six runs in the seventh and eighth innings, the Gassers nosed out the visiting Spudders in the third game of the present series by a 6 to 4 score, here this afternoon. The Spudders, as in yesterday's game, had the game cinched up until the last half of the eighth, but Ewoldt not content with the glory of winning one game with a triple, slammed out another three-bag wallop, scoring Watts with the tying run and counting with what proved to be the winning tally when Jackson singled to right.

Darrough and Gleason were picked to oppose each other on the mound and while the latter had everything a pitcher is supposed to have, the Texan seemed to have nothing but a prayer and a little good fielding behind him. Two walks and an error in the first inning gave the visitors the first score of the game in the opening inning and they kept that advantage until the seventh when after Gleason had walked McElwee and Darrough and allowed Works to connect with a single, Rothfuss slammed the first ball pitched to him to the other side of the center-field fence for a complete trip around the bags. McElwee would have also scored on this hit had not he tried to steal home when Darrough was at bat, being put out flattfooted.

Gassers Start Work.

The Gassers, four runs behind, romped on Darrough's offering in the seventh and came near tying the count. Three singles, a walk and an error by Work gave the home club three scores which they duplicated in the eight, winning the contest.

The visitors tried hard to overcome the two-run lead in the ninth, but failed dismally. McElwee, first up, was an easy out, Holohan to Eibel. Worked popped to Holohan, but Kitchens singled to left. Salm used poor judgment, sending in McDonald to hit for Darrough, Mac swinging wildly at three strikes and ending the contest.

Spudders Are Lucky.

Darrough was touched for 13 hits and walked six, getting away lucky with the Gassers scoring only six runs. Only fast fielding kept the Spudders from being scored upon at least twice as much as they did. Just the opposite held true for the visitors, for although they got only four hits from Gleason, they took advantage of every opportunity to score runs and did manage to push four counters across.

The fourth and last game of the series will be played tomorrow afternoon, here. The Spudders will then leave for Dallas, where they play the Marines while the Fort Worth Panthers will tackle the Gassers here.

Coming from behind until they tied the count in the last inning the University club managed to stave off defeat at the hands of the Morgan Seeders in a regular scheduled game of the amateur league yesterday afternoon, the final count being 9 to 9. A single, a double and a sacrifice in the seventh gave the University club the tying run.

DESCH BREAKS WORLD'S RECORD

PHILADELPHIA, April 29.—A new world's record of 53 4-5 seconds was made by A. Desch of Notre Dame University in winning the first heat of the 440 yard hurdle. The former record was held by J. M. Watt, Cornell, who did 54 1-5 on the same track last year.

Glancin' 'Round The Sport World

WITH VAN

Not the least interested of the thousands of fans who witnessed a defeat of the Yankees recently at Washington was a delegation of Brule Sioux Indians, who were in Washington to convey to the "Great White Father" the respects of the Indians of the Dakota hills. The redmen were real fans and knew the game from start to finish. The leader of the host waited at the clubhouse door to shake hands with Babe Ruth. Babe was told that if he ever visted the reservation that a special steer would be roasted in his honor, but the bambino declared that he had indigestion as it was, and, anyway, he never could eat all that meat.

Billy Southworth, captain of the Braves, is a field leader of the Arthur Fletcher type. When a Boston pitcher is being hit hard or in need of words of encouragement it is not too much trouble for Southworth to come in to the mound from his position in right field. The former Pirate is always alert and he is partly responsible for the new spirit the Boston team is showing this season.

Texas league pitchers seem to be getting into shape or else the wild batting orgy experienced during the first ten days of the season is having the natural reaction that goes with everything that rises above the average. In the games Thursday, 5 runs was the top and 11 hits the limit. The games were played in short time and the fans were able to get home in time for dinner. Hope they keep it up.

The Spudders now know how it feels to get beat out in the last frame when they had the game practically sewed up. It will be remembered the local lads pulled off a win against Fort Worth much in the same way as did the Gassers Thursday. The bird that said a game isn't over until the last man is out, said a mouthful, as every baseball fan knows.

Pop Boone, Fort Worth sport writer has the right idea when he says "knocking" a ball club never helped to win ball games. Knocking a ball player never helped to make that player more confident of himself and therefore his worth to a ball club drops accordingly. The Spudders haven't set the world afire with consecutive wins, but with the fans behind them in a body, it is going to take the best in every ball club in the circuit to beat Salm's crew to the wire. Get with them.

Evans, Ouimet and Jones, the "big three" of golf, have been listed with official finality as members of the team that is going to cross the big pond and attempt to wrest the honors of the old Scotch game from the source of its origin. The Yankees feel they will bring back with them all the glories they seek and prove to the world that America leads in golf as it does in all other branches of sport.

Two years ago Harry Rommel was a member of the Giants' pitching staff. He did not show any particular strength or promise at the time and John McGraw tied the tinware to his person. Then he began to develop and at the present time is one of the real stars on the mound. We are wondering what price McGraw would pay to have this discarded player return to the Giants' fold, where he could be used to such splendid advantage right at this time? Connie Mack, who grabbed Rommel and developed him, says Harry will be one of the stars of the game before this season ends. This coming from Mack means a whole mouth full and we are going to watch the progress of the Athletic flinger as the season progresses.

HOUSTON, April 29.—San Antonio took a 10-inning game from Houston here today by the score of 6 to 5 on Johnny Nee's sacrifice fly, with the bases loaded. Pierrotti, losing pitcher, hurled to two men. He walked both and made a wild pitch. Score:

THIS SPORTING LIFE

NONSENSE RHYMES.

Four hundred is a batting mark
So far. beyond Babe's powers—
He tries to reach it on the field,
But wastes the fleeting hours.
Still, why should Babe be worried?
When
He rests him at the table,
He bats a thousand, thrice a day,
And that's no idle fable!

Says Dempsey: "When the Frenchman's whipped,
There'll be no foe to tussle—
I'll hold the title with no chance
To ever use my muscle!"
Fear not, dear Jack—somewhere today,
Unknowing future glory,
Some huge young man is growing, who
Will end your wondrous story!

Now the young slugger, in the training camp,
Becomes an A1, regular baseball vamp—
But who'll recall it, some few weeks from date,
When he is roosting on an outbound freight?

Eppa Rixey, late of the Phils, now of the Reds, is positively unique. He is the only tall lefthanded pitcher in the history of the game who has never been known as "Rube."

Formerly, they didn't know it was loaded. Now they say they weren't going more than 19 miles an hour.

TAKE 'EM TO BETELGUESE!
Holdout ballplayers.
Fred Fulton.
The Black Sox attorneys.
The Tia Juana track.
Blue Law advocates.

WASTED TOIL.

A fighter spent two strenuous years
Developing a blow—
A deadly wallop which would spell
The tencount of a foe—
He planned and practiced, day and night,
As wise as any owl—
Then, when he first let go the punch,
They ruled his blow was foul!

A pitcher worked as heavers toil,
In mastering a curve—
A whizzing, leaping twist, dead sure
To stun a batsman's nerve—
It was the fastest, fanciest thing—
The greatest of them all—
And then the wise men ruled it out,
As an illegal ball!

A wrestler flexed his mighty arms,
And learned a magic hold,
A certainty to flop them all,
And gain the public's gold!
He brought them writhing to the mat—
He triumphed and he starred—
And then the bosses killed his game—
His winning hold was barred!

NEW WORLD'S RECORD MADE AT ANNUAL PENN RELAYS

PHILADELPHIA, April 29.—The establishing of a new world's record for the 440-yard hurdles of A. Desch, of Notre Dame university, and the excellent all-round performance of Robert Legendre of eGorgetown university, in winning the pentathlon were the outstanding features of the annual university of Pennsylvania relay carnival which opened here today.

The international atmosphere of the meet was furnished by the University of Paris team, which finished fourth in the spring medley relay championship race.

Desch Breaks Record.

Desch, who was a member of the university as Olympic team at Antwerp last summer and who won third place in the 400 meter hurdles, opened the two-day track and field games at Franklin by soaring over the 2½-foot hurdles stretched throughout the quarter mile, in 53 3-4 seconds. His record race cut 2-5 of a second from the best previous time, made over the same course last season when J. W. Watt, of Cornell, was clocked in 54 1-4 seconds.

The race was a contest from the start between a trio of middle western hurdlers. Desch jumped into a lead almost as soon as the first hurdle was cleared and although Pitinger and Hill of Ohio State pressed him hard during the early part of the flight, the Notre Dame hurdler drew away rapidly in the final stretch, winning by a comfortable margin with Pittinger second and Hill third.

Legendre Best Athlete

Legender again demonstrated that he is one of the best all-round athletes in the country by winning first place in the pentathlon from classy field, including Bruts Hamilton of the University of Missouri, 1920 champion; E. L. Bradley, University of Kansas, Inter-collegiate champion, and William Bartels, University of Pennsylvania, who like Legender was a former pentathlon winner.

Five events composed the pentathlon, the broad jump, javlin throw, 200 metre run, discus throw and the 1500 metre run. Points were alotted to each man in the order in which he finished in each contest. Legendre was first with the low score of 10 points, Hamilton second with 13; Bradley third with 16; Bartels fourth with 19. C. Reinarts, Muehlenburg College and V. Clapp, of the United States Naval Academy, fied for fifth with 29. These six athletes were the only survivors of the 21 which started in the all-around contest.

NEW STADIUM PROMISED FOR NEXT ROUND-UP

Wichita Falls Round-Up next year—its fourth—will be held in a specially constructed outdoor stadium capable of holding 20,000 people.

That announcement was made by Tom Burnett, sponsor of Wichita Falls rodeo entertainments after between 8,000 and 10,000 people had jammed and packed themselves within the enclosure of the bull park with hundreds turned away, on the second day of this city's third annual Round-Up. It was the largest crowd that ever gathered in this city for a single entertainment, being larger by 2,000 to 4,000 than the previous record breaking crowd of Thursday, according to "Fog Horn" Clancy.

The announcement of Tom Burnett as he rode up in front of the grandstand just previous to the start of the program was met with an ovation from the assembled thousands who next year will be able to watch the Southwest's greatest Round-Up in an amphiteater which will afford better accommodations to those who once a year enjoy a glimpse of the old west as depicted in Tom Burnett's event.

Crowd Good Humored.

It was a good humored crowd in spite of the overflow and packed situation in both standing and seating space. There was enough of scheduled and unscheduled events, many of a humorous character, to furnish the desired well balanced program.

The clowns are real comedians. The larger of the pair announced that today he will "bull dog a tom cat from an aeroplane" and judged by the manner in which he rode everything they brought out from ponies to buffaloes he can do it if it can be done. "Shorty," who measures considerably less than four feet, is also there with the needed comedy.

It would be difficult to pick out any one feature in Friday's program. The crowd applauded when a spectator by the name of E. H. Breaux bulldogged a runaway steer after it had broken through the north fence and knocked down two spectators. But it cheered all events from the time of the grand entry until Shorty Kelso bulldogged a wild buffalo as the final number of the afternoon's entertainment.

Bull Still Master.

The bucking bull followed the grand entry and at the close of the contest his riderless record remained. Chester Byers, world's greatest fancy roper, pleased the crowd as did the other contestants.

In the Cowboys bronc riding, Yakima Canutt rode and stuck to Searchlight in the feature ride of the number. Searchlight is the horse upon which Bryan Roach won his status as the world's greatest bronc rider. Dave White on Morning Glory put up a good exhibition.

Tiny, the bucking Shetland pony, scattered newsboys to the right and [illegible] like the bucking bull is still [illegible].

[illegible]gated horses of Fred Weeks [illegible]ed the sixth event in which [illegible] was also high school [illegible] saddle [illegible].

[illegible]ere was a large number of "no [illegible]" in the calf roping contest. Several of calves showed speed which would make a deer appear slow and the cowboys had difficulty in the open field work. Scout Maish with a time of 41 1-5 seconds led the successful contestants. His closest competitor was E. L. Herian with a time of 41 3-5 seconds. Cecil Childress also got within the money.

Apollo, the jumping hourse cleared the Buick automobile with little difficulty, jumping a horizontal distance of 23 feet.

Girls R'de Broncs.

Ruth Roach put on a feature exhibition in the cowgirls bronc riding contest. Other contestants included Fox Hastings, Bonnie McCarroll and Rose Smith.

Ben Kirnan, Leonard Stroud and Mabel Strickland, the girl in green featured the trick riding contest. Kirnan the champion and Stroud put on something new for their local admirers who have seen them for three years. The "girl in green" was apparently the favorite among the girl contestants.

The steer bulldogging contest was one of the feature numbers of the afternoon. Milt Hinkle, who started the bull rolling made the best time in 18 1-5 seconds. John Henry made the most sensational throw of the afternoon only to lose out as the steer bested him after he had apparently thrown him. Jim Wilkes was second with a time of 21 2-5 seconds. A couple of well known cowboys hit the sod in a forceful manner during the contest.

The Round-Up will again show this afternoon opening at 2:30 p. m. with the usual night exhibition.

IRISH WARNED TO ABANDON CRIMES

BELFAST, April 29.—Cardinal Logue, primate of Ireland, speaking in Clonoe, county Tyrone, yesterday warned the people against the commission of any crime, and told them he knew for a fact if they abandoned crime they could obtain anything that was necessary for the country. An Irish republic would never be achieved so long as England had a man able to fight, the cardinal declared. He said if the Irish got a full measure of self-government, that would give them all they asked for. The cardinal warned the youth of the country against "old staggers" who seem "to be organizing crime."

"I believe in calling a spade a spade."

"I believe it is the best policy, myself. I once tried to pass one off for a club. That's how I got these two fingers shot off."

WINTER GARDEN CHORUS GIRLS HOLD FIRST PLACE WHEN IT COMES TO CAPTURING MONEYED HUSBANDS

The old Floradora sextette looks like a second or third-rate outfit when compared to the modern Winter Garden, that is in the matter of picking millionaire husbands. The famous Gaiety theater in London and the well-known American Follies are not to be despised as wealthy marriage markets, but the Winter Garden heads the list. Miss Peggy Hopkins, who has come into the public eye recently because her third millionaire husband is suing her for divorce, was only a humble back-row chorus girl in the Winter Garden when she captured her first husband. Josie Collins married Lord Innes-Kerr of England. Miss Cavanaugh married Walter Leimert, a California millionaire. Ethel Lorraine said "Yes" to no less than Raymond Belmont, son of August Belmont, and Jessie Reed, probably the greatest of all former Winter Garden beauties, was just married last fall to young Daniel Caswell, who may be in the millionaire class some day through inheritance.

Announce Winner of Handsome Imported Cast-Iron Suspenders

NEW YORK, April 29.—When it comes to versatility, Everett McGowan, of St. Paul, just about cops the handsome imported cast-iron suspenders.

Everett is the international speed skating champion, which most everybody knows who reads the sport pages, but skating is not his only accomplishment by a whole lot.

Not even the great Jim Thorpe, all-around athlete and holder of all kinds of laurels, can surpass McGowan in the matter of versatility. The St. Paul youth is an accomplished baseball, football and basketball player. He is also a track athlete, being a distance runner and he has played much ice hockey and lacrosse. But wait.

He Tosses a Chapeau.

Everett is also a boxer. More, he has always longed to win laurels within the roped posts, and shortly after arriving in New York recently he determined to toss his chapeau into the ring and go after honors in the welterweight division.

Boxing was McGowan's first love in sports. He first donned the padded mittens at the age of 12 years and at one time he was the 105-pound amateur champion of Minnesota. After he entered St. Thomas' college Everett devoted much of his time to baseball, football, distance running and other college sports and did not do much boxing, but he has managed to keep in practice with the gloves and he won all the bouts he ever was in at weights ranging from 105 to 135 pounds. He is now a welterweight and he believes that he is stronger and a better boxer in every way than he was a few years ago.

The big purses being [illegible]anded by the topnotchers in the ring game resulted in McGowan's decision to take a fling at the welterweights and he is open to meet any of the good ones. He says he will not place himself under the tutelage or direction of any professional boxing manager, but will work on the advice of Denny Scanlan, who brought him out as a skater.

Scanlan is none too well pleased with McGowan's determination to win laurels in the ring. He says that Everett is plenty good enough to win his way to the top in the welterweight division, but he is afraid that if McGowan gets several good bouts under his belt he will not want to invade Norway next fall to skate against Oscar Mathiesson for the world's title. And Scanlon has this trip all set.

Double Allegiance.

As a skater McGowan is something of a bearcat. It may be well for him to listen to Scanlan and give boxing the go-by, but you never can tell.

McGowan has the following skating records for a 12-lap track:

Fifty yards, 4 second; 220 yarts, 18 4-5 seconds; one-fifth of a second slower than the world's record; 880 yards, 1 minute 16 1-5 seconds; one mile, 2:41; three miles, 8:57. McGowan's time for three miles is 16 seconds faster than that registered by Bobby McLean when he beat Mathieson at this distance in the world's title races at Christiania, Norway, last year.

TRUCK FARMERS POSTPONE MEET

The meeting of truck farmers plnned for this afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce rooms, has been called off on account of conflicting matters, it has been announced. It will probably be a week from today. The organization committee will meet Tuesday night at the Chamber of Commerce rooms at which time an exact date for the meeting of all of the growers will be set and other plans formulated.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—The nomination of John R. Mitchell, of St. Paul, Minnesota, to a ten-year term as a member of the federal reserve board was confirmed late today by the senate.

COTTON IS STEADIER ON ORLEANS MART

By Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, April 29.—After a lower opening today the cotton market became steadier, but its reactions were mild and at the highest of the day, strongest months were only 1 to 4 points over the close of yesterday. On the close, prices were unchanged to 2 points up.

The initial decline was due almost altogether to an unfavorable Liverpool market and prices in that market were down because of disappointment and attempts to end the coal strike were not successful. When declines of 7 to 12 points had been established, selling power appeared to be exhausted and the market commenced to recover.

Signs of improvement in demand for cotton cloths had much to do with the recovery, although values were steadier some by rumors of easier money rates in this country and by the favorable showing of the weekly federal reserve statement.

Weather conditions over the belt were considered less unfavorable than they have been.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, April 29.—The cotton market was quiet today with fluctuations narrow and irregular. The price of July contracts fluctuated between 12.55 and 12.65 or within a range of 10 points, closing at 12.64. The general market closed very steady net 3 points lower to 3 points higer.

The opening was 5 points lower to 3 points higher and prices sold off several points right after the call under pressure which seemed to come largely from New Orleans and other southern ports. Somewhat to the surprise of local traders, however, Liverpool was a good buyer of October at the decline. Rallies were prompted by continued unfavorable weather in the south, which according to reports here, is preventing the prospective early start of the new crop. Three more May notices were issued today, but without any appreciable effect on the market. Exports for the week exceeded for the same week last year. After the beginning of May last season exports were very light and local statisticians are looking for favorable comparisons during the spring and summer in this respect.

LIVERPOOL SPOTS.

LIVERPOOL, April 29.—Cotton, spot, in small demand; prices easy. Good middling 8.54; fully middling 7.99; middling 7.24; low middling 6.29; good ordinary 5.04; ordinary 4.29. Sales 3,000 bales, including 2,500 American. Receipts 7,000 bales, including 5,700 American. Futures closed quiet; May 7.79; July 8.14; October 8.42; December 8.55; January 8.60; March 8.70.

WEEKLY COTTON REVIEW

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 29.—The cotton market has shown considerable irregularity the last week, but fluctuations have been comparatively narrow and trading restricted by continuation of the British coal strike, the uncertainty of an agreement on war reparations and reports that southern spot holders showed a disposition to sell more freely on advances. On declines offerings from that source have been little in evidence however, while unfavorable weather for the new crop chart has restricted speculative selling and helped the general undertone of the market. The first May notice, estimated at between 6 and 7,000 bales were readily stopped at a premium of from 54 to 84 points on July. As May liquidation subsided, the market steadied upon reports of better prospects for a settlement of the coal mine dispute in England and of an agreement on reparations. Notwithstanding the labor troubles, trade advices from Manchester have been generally encouraging.

Exports for the present week exceeded the movement for the corresponding week last year and local statisticians expect them to run relatively heavy as compared with last year's during the balance of the season. Last year exports fell off sharply after May 1, while reports have been reaching the trade here recently of reparations to ship considerable cotton to Europe on consignment. Private reports so far issued have pointed to a decrease of about 30 percent in acreage and indicate that the prospect for an early new crop start has been materially modified by recent unfavorable weather.

There were a reduction of 40 points in the price of refined sugars by three local refiners to the basis of 6.60 for fine granulated. There seemed to be little better inquiry noted, although buyers are still cautious and not inclined to anticipate.

Sugar futures were easier under renewed selling pressure from commission houses and prices at one time showed declines of 10 to 15 points. Near the close, however, there was a partial rally on covering and buying by trade interests, with final prices 2 to 10 points net lower. May closed at 3.78; July 3.92; September 3.96 and December at 3.84, all bid.

GARBAGE HAULER'S DREAM VANISHES

THERMOPOLIS, April 29.—The vision of riches and dream of altruistic philanthropy of L. C. Lesher, local garbage hauler, has vanished.

Lesher was recently informed of a $2,000,000 fortune bequeathed him by a Philadelphia relatives, and immediately won widespread publicity by announcing that he would use a portion of the wealth to build a home for indigent laborers.

WHEAT PIT PRICES RISE ON BUYING

CHICAGO, April 29.—Sharply higher prices for wheat today resulted from general buying based on the scantiness of the stock here available for delivery on contracts. The market closed unsettled at 1½ to 3½c net advance with May $1.30 1-4 to $1.30½ and July $1.06 3-4 to $1.07 1-4. Corn finished at 5-8 to 7-8 cent decline and oats 3-8 off to 1-8 and 1-4 cent up. In provisions the outcome was an advance ranging from 2½ to 25 cents.

May delivery of wheat showed at one time an advance of more than 5 cents compared with yesterday's close. Something of a reaction followed, but sentiment continued bullish owing more or less to frost damage reports from western Kansas and to predictions of frost in the central west tonight. A material falling off Monday in the visible supply total was looked for.

Corn and oats tended upward at first in sympathy with wheat. Later, however, a sag took place in the absence of any special demand.

Provisions were firmer in response to higher quotations on hogs.

CATTLE SELL READILY ON TEXAS MART

FORT WORTH, April 29.—Cattle sold readily on a steady basis today as the calf trade remained in line with this week's decline, but light receipts were yarded. BRADSTREET'S REVIEW.

NEW YORK, April 29.—Bradstreets tomorrow will say:

While the volume of trade is little different from last week in most sections, the industrial peace seems somewhat better, and an undeniably more optimistic feeling is voiced in most reports. Spring trade has turned out better than earlier expected. A more confident run of predictions as to fall trade prospects, a faster pace revealed in outputs of shoes, leather, bituminous coal, crude petroleum, automobiles and tires, a decrease in the number of idle cars and reports of better loadings on the railways generally, better net earnings report for March than for many preceding months on a number of railroads an improved tone in iron and steel based largely on better takings of material by the automobile and oil trades predominate. Weekly bank clearings $5,890,983,000.

SOCIALISTS FORCED TO LEAVE FACTORIES

TURIN, Italy, April 29.—The police today succeeded in forcing the socialists to evacuate a number of factories here which they had occupied as a sequel to the recent burning of the labor headquarters by the fascisti. The general strike, however, continues.

STOCKS MAKE FORWARD MOVE THEN REVERSE

NEW YORK, April 29.—The stock market made further forward strides in the first half of today's active dealings, but the movement became very unsettled later, many of the leaders cancelling the great part or all of their gains.

This reversal was especially applicable to oils, notably the Mexican issues. The group broke sharply at midday on publication of reports vitally affecting the future value of these properties.

Maintenance of the regular Bethlehem steel dividend was another favorable factor. Steels and equipments frequently dominated the market at gross advances of 1 to 3 points.

Gains of 1 to 7 points, accompanied the intermittent buying of motors and their subsidiaries, especially rubber tires. Leather, food textile and chemical specialties contributed their proportions invariable degree, but reactions at their close ran from 1 to 3 points.

Call money ruled at 7 percent all day.

Dealings in bonds were more extensive than at any recent period, the Liberty division sharing largely in the movement, all at material gains.

KERNEL COOTIE—CHAPTER XVI.

Expect Arrest As Development In Liquor Case

Further developments in the 1800 quart liquor case are awaiting the arrest of a man in another town. The case is being handled by the federal officers, is replete with interest and Jimmie Allen, deputy United States marshal knows much more than he's telling, so officials at the courthouse say.

Sunnybrook whiskey was found in great quantities in an empty house on Austin street a few days ago. The consignment is said by police officers to have arrived in Wichita Falls with a consignment of lime and lumber, the barreled goods being packed in and around casks of lime.

The supposition on the part of a few police officers is that the goods arrived here in bulk, was rebottled, and was awaiting opportune time to be taken to the cache when the "beans were spilled" by inquisitive neighbors.

Federal officers Friday refused to discuss the case saying that it was progressing with ordinary dispatch.

Developments are expected hourly, it was said, and when they come there'll "be a howl in Dixie" according to one of the officials at the court house.

INJURY OF HARRIS STILL A MYSTERY

The condition of G. A. Harris, about 22 years of age, who was found in an unconscious condition on the street car tracks early Friday morning, was reported as critical by hospital attendants at a late hour Friday night.

Efforts of city and county officials to locate any one who had seen the accident was reported unavailing.

His right arm was amputated just above the elbow.

LIGHTS OUT; JOE AND WHITE TURN ON AD SIGNS

Electric signs and lights in front of business houses furnished the only illimunation afforded Wichita Falls from 11:45 o'clock Friday night until an early hour Saturday. Officer White, merchant policeman, got in touch with the electric light officials who declared that the white way lights were out of commission and they were working as fast as possible to correct the defect.

SWITCHBOARD INSTALLED AT FIRE STATION

A telephone switchboard with three trunk lines was installed in the central fire station Friday and will be ready for operation Saturday, it was announced Friday afternoon.

Chief McClure announced that an operator will be on duty day and night. In reporting fires, citizens need only call for the fire station, and the call will be received and the nearest apparatus rushed to the scene.

With the completion of Fire Station No. 2, Wichita Falls will have four well equipped stations in operation, according to firemen ,and the increased number made it necessary that a switchboard be installed to guarantee quick transmission of calls to the proper station.

SUES FOR HALF SHARE IN WELLS

Claiming he is entitled to one-half interest in two oil wells brought in by M. O. and Joe Danciger, W. T. Knight, several months ago filed suit in the 89th District court and the case went to trial with a jury Friday afternoon.

This involves a deal and contract in the Northwest field on the George tract. The allegations of the defendants is that Knight was a broker, sold the property under a promise to drill, abrogated same and when they brought in the well began to kick heartily.

Knight's lawyers claim that the case is one of "freezing out."

No decision will be reached before late Saturday, it is expected.

COURT STENOG GETS FEDERAL POSITION

"Fritz" Allred left Wichita Falls Friday afternoon for Dallas to qualify as the recent appointee in the federal district court as an assistant attorney. Allred has been in Wichita Falls for some time holding down the short-hand writing job in the 89th district court and working in each and every court, as occasion demanded.

About six months ago he was admitted to the bar and attorneys around the courthouse say he's in line to make a big success.

Allred will be stationed at Fort Worth to commence with, but there's some prospects of his being returned to Wichita Falls after he gets "the run of the work," according to courthouse officials.

"Are you going to take the children out today, Henry?" asked Mrs. Gotham.

"No, dear. I'm not. I'm going hunting," replied Mr. Gotham.

"Well ,can't you take them hunting with you?"

"No; I'm afraid."

"Afraid of what?"

"Afraid I wont get what I'm going after if I take them. I'm going flat hunting."

An English temperance enthusiast was giving a lecture on his pet subject, and, when well warmed up to his theme, someone asked him how he could account for the miracle of the turning of the water into wine.

His answer was given in all seriousness. It was as follows:

"That," replied the lecturer, "was the one act performed by the Founder of the Christian religion which He ever regretted."

Death Claims Senior Dowell Early Friday

Y. B. Dowell, 62 years of age, senior member of the firm, Y. B. Dowell and Son, died Friday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at his room at 1103 Scott street, after an illness of about a week. His condition was not considered serious until a few hours before death, when complications set in.

Mr. Dowell had been in Wichita Falls for about three months, coming from Dallas where he had lived for about 35 years, and was contemplating moving his family here at an early date.

He was a member of Hella Temple, Knights Templar and Tonnehill Lodge No. 52, A. F. and A. M. of Dallas, a member of the Kiwanis club of Wichita Falls and a member of the Methodist church.

He is survived by his wife, son Herbert Dowell and two daughters, Miss Georgia Dowell and Mrs. W. H. Brotherton, all of Dallas.

The body was shipped to Dallas Friday night by O. W. Hines Undertaking Company. Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the family residence, 2523 Helger street, Dallas.

DISARMAMENT IS NOT KEY TO WORLD PEACE

By EARL C. REEVES.

LONDON, April 29.—Competition in armaments increases the dangers of war, but disarmament agreements can never be binding enough to lead the world toward permanent peace, in the opinion of General Sir Frederick Maurice, the noted military critic.

War, in his opinion, can only be permanently averted by development of methods of settling international quarrels.

"There is a grave danger," he declares, "of a renewal of that competition in armaments which was one of the prime causes of the world war, and, worse still, that the weapons of the future will certainly be far more terrible than the most terrible of which we have yet had experience.

"The battleship of Jutland is already out of date. The tank of 1921 make the tank of 1918, which played such a great part in winning the war, look like a common hack. Aeroplanes are increasing in range and weight-carrying power, and poison gases more destructive of life than any yet used in battle have been discovered.

Science and Destruction.

"For the first time in history science was, during the war, mobilized for the purpose of destruction. It took time for scientists to realise fully the practical requirements of war, and to learn how to apply their inventions to the conditions of the field.

"In fact, the armistice came when science was only just getting into its stride, and horrible as was the destruction wrought up to 1918, it would have been far more horrible if the war had gone on into 1919, while if there is another European war, the destructive forces of 1919 will be relatively more insignificant than those of 1914 appear to us today.

"In the next war no great city of Europe will be out of range, and there will be no non-combatants, and women and children will be exposed to the most horrible forms of death.

"Almost everything upon which the well being of nations depends will be in danger. Therefore, the preservation of civilisation, as we know it, the maintenance of peace, and the reconstruction of Europe depends upon whether or no we can find some means of settling disputes between civilised nations other than war. That is the root of the matter, and is the reason d'etre of the league of nations.

Victor Also Suffers.

"When it is realised that the consequences for war are almost as devastating to the victor as they are to the vanquished, and that to escape war nations must agree to settle their disputes in the same way as do individuals, then, and not till then, will civilization be freed of the menace which hangs over it today.

"No agreements prohibiting the use of particular forms of destruction are of any value, because the imagination of the framers of such agreements is unable to conceive of all future possible developments of destructive science.

It Does Not Pay.

"No convention entered into today can prevent a scientist from working out a formula for some new and more deadly poison and keeping it locked up till it is needed, nor would it prevent the rapid conversion of chemical works to the production of poison in large quantities.

"If all war planes were abolished tomorrow by agreement, nothing could prevent the use of civil planes for destruction if war came.

"These agreements will not eliminate the dangers to civilization. The scients will always have some all-powerful weapon ready for use at short notice.

"The danger can only be removed permanently by convincing the peoples of the world that war can never pay, and by providing them with more effective means of settling quarrels."

Plaintiff Wins Verdict in Suit Involving Title

A verdict favoring the plaintiff in the case of R. E. Montgomery vs G. P. Sanders, was returned shortly before noon by the jury in the United States district court.

The suit was said to have had some fifty defendants and to have involved the title to approximately fifty lots in what is commonly known as "no man's land," located near the river. It was stated that the land was taken possession of during the boom period by people who were unable to find places to live.

ASKS DAMAGES FOR BLOW IN FACE

Damages in the sum of $15,000 is asked by B. E. Dawson in a suit against the estate of C. L. Morgan in the 89th district court.

Mr. Dawson sets forth that he was struck in the face with such force that his jaw was broken by the deceased on January 28, 1920, and that the defendant's death occurred since the suit was filed.

The defense sets forth that the quarrel arose over the fact that the plaintiff had called the defendant harsh names.

Church Delegates Assured of Good Care While Here

Promise of support and co-operation in the matter of caring for the delegates to the Christian church missionary conference to be held here May 9 to 13, was given Rev. J. Lem Keevil, pastor of the Christian church here by members of the business council of the Chamber of Commerce at the regular Friday luncheon. The importance of Wichita Falls making a good impression on the 500 to 700 delegates from all over the state was expressed by Reverend Keevil. "We want to let the people of Texas know that Wichita Falls is not afflicted with the high prices of the boom and that everything is normal here," he said.

The only request which the church conference committee will make of the cityizenship, Mr. Keevil said, is that the delegates be furnished rooms and board at their own expense in the homes of the city.

A report from A. H. Britain, chairman of the committee selected to draft the light and pole ordinance, on some of the provisions was made and a general discussion was entered into by those present. It was recommended that the ordinance be changed so as to extend the time limit for the removal of hanging signs, not condemned as dangerous, but against the ordinance so as to keep from working a hardship on any business man who had invested a large sum of money in an electric sign. The suggestion that ordinance be revised and copies distributed to representative business men in order to enable the committee to benefit by other's experience, was made by Mr. Britain.

W. B. Hamilton, vice president of the Texhoma Oil & Refining Co., brought before the council question of a tariff on fuel oil to protect the Texas oil men from imports from Mexico. At the present time the oil industry in Texas is suffering from a competition with the lower prices of Mexican refiners, Mr. Hamilton said. There are about 20,000,000 barrels of fuel oil imported to the United States from Mexico monthly, according to Mr. Hamilton, while each month there are nearly 8,000,000 barrels of oil going into storage.

"This is a matter which our business men should consider," he said, "as in this refining center business depends to a large extent on the stability of the oil market." "I am a democrat," he added, "but I believe that we should have as much protection as the republican east."

Further discussion of the fuel oil tariff question will be brought up at the next week's meeting, Chairman Mytinger announced.

RANGER WILL HAVE $250,000 GASOLINE PLANT

By W. HAMILTON WRIGHT.
Record News Staff Bureau.

RANGER, April 29.—Announcement was made today by Superintendent Yonkers of the Chestnut & Smith Co., that work will start in the next fifteen days on their proposed $250,000 gasoline absorption plant in West Ranger. Some of the material for the plant has already been placed on the ground and the remainder is en route to Ranger. Word is expected from the headquarters of the concern to start work at once, according to Mr. Yonkers.

The plant will turn out between 6,000 and 7,000 gallons of gasoline daily from 10,000,000 cubic feet of gas. The company is getting a large supply of gas from 100 wells owned by the Prairie Oil & Gas Co. in the Ranger field. It operates three other gasoline making plants here, all operated on the compression method. Fifteen men will be employed continuously by the proposed new plant.

Mr. Yonkers figures that the gas production of a circle ten miles in diameter with Ranger as the center is not less than 150,000,000 cubic feet daily. Of this great amount 5,000,000 feet are daily consumed in Ranger by refineries, households, factories and the like. The gasoline content of the gas now being taken from this field is much greater than it was when the wells were first brought in, acording to Mr. Yonkers.

Another remarkable fact in connection with the Ranger field, is that the gas production of this field is increasing rapidly. Some of the smaller wells, abandoned in the rush for oil, which were making 15,000 cubic feet, when cleaned, have developed as high as 150,000 feet, said Mr. Yonkers.

The Chenault & Smith superintendent does not believe that the Ranger oil field is "played out" as so many others believe. He points to the fact that some of the wells brought in here ar eproducing more oil now than they did when first brought in. During the 1919 boom days, the feverish exploitation of the field by the independents made it imperative for the large companies to extract all the oil they could get out of the earth before the independents got it. Since the oil began to slow down with the independents the larger companies have had no incentive for going ahead with development work. However, it is the belief of Mr. Yonkers that with the price of materials going down and the price of labor slumping, the larger companies of this field will put on a drilling campaign which will somewhat resemble that of 1919 and 1920.

The possibilities of this field are still great, he thinks, and points with some interest to the recent development in finding a new field in the Ranger territory after the larger companies gave it up as worthless. In this particular territory, two new sands have been found, one of which lies deeper than the customary Ranger sands and the other a shallow sand of wonderful production and apparent longevity. The new proven territory lies about 10 miles northeast of Ranger. It was in this new field that the sensational gusher was brought in about three weeks ago. It has been partially defined as eight miles in length with the width still uncertain. Independent operators believe that this new field will shortly bring the daily production of the Ranger field up to a greater height. At present not less than twenty new rigs are being erected in that hitherto deserted part of the field, according to well informed Rangerites.

POLICE FIND LAD RIDING TRICYCLE ON BUSY STREETS

A little boy, apparently about 3 years old, riding a small tricycle, was taken in two by Policeman Gentry Johnson Thursday night after traffic at Seventh and Indiana streets had almost been broken up. A great deal of excitement was caused by the unusual spectacle of such a youngster on a toy tricycle on a crowded street.

The boy lived near Fifteenth and Travis streets and how he was able to reach the busy downtown section from this point without injury is a mystery. The boy's father took the wayward boy under his wing when the officer reached the city hall.
