Nazis Fleeing Before Reds

Russians Closing In Fast To Halt Die-Hards Short Of American Lines

By ED L. CAMPBELL
Associated Press War Editor

CZECHOSLOVAKIA'S post-surrender war raged on last night with three Russian armies pushing hard to clean up the German "middle army group" before these die-hards could flee westward and surrender to the American forces.

Only a 1,200 square mile Bohemian pocket east and northeast of Prague remained in German hands. South of the capital, scattered enemy troops surrendered in disorder between the American and Russian lines.

Thousands Trudge Eastward

Elsewhere along the Russian front, Soviet leaders reported "peace and order" with countless thousands of German war prisoners already trudging wearily eastward. They were bound for Russia and labor camps where they will work to restore war-ruined villages, cities and factories.

A new chapter in the surrender was being written in the broad Atlantic where large numbers of Nazi U-boats started bobbing to the surface, flying the black surrender flag. In New York it was announced that the U-858, first German vessel to surrender in American home waters since outbreak of the war, was expected to arrive off Cape May, N. J., today.

Prize Crew Takes Over

Members of the German crew will be removed and an American prize crew will then take the surrendered vessel to Philadelphia, the Navy said.

London reported at least 10 U-boats had entered British ports and five more were standing by to be received. Others, far at sea, were expected to head for whichever Allied shore is nearest.

The Nazi torpedo, or E-boat fleet, concentrated around Dutch and Danish ports, was scheduled to be handed over this week-end. Weather had prevented earlier surrender.

Election In England

In England, the people were turning back to domestic politics and there were hints that Prime Minister Churchill in his anniversary broadcast tonight (2 p. m., cwt) would tell the country when it could expect to hold its first general election in ten years. Informed guesses were it would be either in July or October, leaving August and September for the busy harvest time.

In a Scottish castle near Edinburgh, a group of German officers began explaining to Allied authorities the secret German military and naval dispositions in Norway so liberation of that country can be carried out efficiently.

Point Values On Fats Up Sharply

WASHINGTON, May 12. (AP)—Price Administrator Chester Bowles tonight ordered higher ration point values for lard, shortening, cooking and salad oils, effective at 12:01 a. m., Sunday.

They will be increased to 10 points a pound from the present value of 6 points.

This action, Bowles noted, was forecast two weeks ago when the inter-agency committee on foreign shipments reported that "the free world's needs for this basic nutrient and industrial raw material, including the needs of liberated Europe, exceed prospective supplies by nearly 500,000 long tons."

Must Really Economize

The report also said that the United States "must be prepared to economize its use (of fats and oils) if any real contribution is to be made to this pressing problem."

The point value increase announced today does not apply to butter or margarine.

Bowles said the War Food administration's revised allocation of fats and oils for civilian use during the April-June quarter is 814,200,000 pounds. The allocation previously approved for that period was 856,500,000 pounds.

Industrial Uses Cut

OPA also announced that current quarter supplemental allotments of fats and oils to industrial users are being reduced. That cut, he said, will trim by about 20 per cent the rate at which these products are used by all except pharmaceutical manufacturers.

The inter-agency committee, headed by Foreign Economic Administrator Leo T. Crowley, had reported that it will be necessary to limit this country's civilian consumption of fats and oils, including butter, to an annual rate of about 36 pounds per capita, as compared with a prewar average of 43.7 and a 1944 average of 42.2 pounds.

This, the committee said, will be "sufficient to maintain the health and productive strength of our people."

Canada To Send Few Men To Pacific War

MOOSOMIN, Saskatchewan, May 12 (AP)—Defense Minister A. G. L. McNaughton told a public meeting last night that Canada did not intend to send huge numbers of men to the Pacific "to slug it out hand-to-hand with a foe perhaps better fitted than we to survive in the jungle war," but "we will assist to smash the Jap forever with a minimum of men and a maximum of machines and explosives."

Canada's share in the Pacific war has been planned in the closest consultation with the Allies, McNaughton said, adding he felt "our share will be just and fair."

Girl, 17, Confesses Slaying Of Mother

LOS ANGELES, May 12. (AP)—Barbara Adams, 17-year-old student at Los Angeles City college, admitted, police said, that she had stabbed her sleeping mother to death early today and had then gone to bed and read her Bible.

The girl was booked by police on suspicion of murder. The mother, Mrs. Maude Adams, 54, was employed as a nurse's aide at General hospital.

RUSSIA TO BUILD CARS

LONDON, May 12 (U.P.)— The Moscow radio said today that within a few days the production of modern and comfortable automobiles will begin at one of Russia's big tank factories.

Your Bundle Ready?

Paper Pickup Today South of Nineteenth

ONE of the most vital materials for war which is scarcer today than ever before is paper, which must be collected continually on a national salvage basis until victory.

Trucks from Lubbock Army Air field will be out again today to collect that scrap paper you should have bundled up for them. Paper should be securely tied in bundles not exceeding 20 pounds and placed on the curb, preferably at each end of the block, before 9 a. m.

The trucks will cover from Twentieth street south today, collections having been made from Nineteenth north last Sunday.

NAZI SPY EXECUTED BY AMERICAN TROOPS—These dramatic pictures are the first released showing the execution of a Nazi spy by American troops in World War II. The spy was Richard Jarczyk, an Obergerfeiter in the 36th Volks Grenadier division. Assigned to fight for the fuehrer behind U. S. lines, he posed as a Pole in civilian clothes and had nerve to offer to the Allied Military government in Bruckweiler, Germany, his services in governing the town. His mission was to sabotage U. S. equipment and to kill Americans at night. Upper left, U. S. Capt. asks condemned man if he wishes to make statement; lower left, he is fastened to execution post. Upper right the U. S. squad fires and spy is pronounced dead, lower right, as doctors examine him with stethoscope.

Eleven Nations Would Hold World Peace-Keeping Power

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, May 12—The United Nations conference drove forward tonight under the dual impetus of a vote to concentrate peace-keeping power in the hands of 11 nations and an American delegation agreement on the hot issue of regional security systems.

Each decision has a long way to go before it is written finally into the charter of a world organization for preserving peace.

But the basic pattern for keeping peace, drafted at Dumbarton Oaks in Washington last fall by China, Russia, Britain and the United States, had survived two stiff tests.

Big Power Insistence

For the big powers had been insistent that the major instrumentality for ridding the world of war should be a security council of 11 members with broad powers to step into any threatening situation threatening peace. A conference committee voted today to restrict the council membership to 11.

And the American delegation worked out a formula for giving regional blocs of nations the right to take emergency action to keep peace without depriving the council of over-all powers.

The action in the committee and in the delegations were separate. Yet they were laced strongly together. And the attitude of Latin American nations posed a big question mark over both decisions.

Cuba withdrew a motion to increase the security council's membership to 15 only after attaching a major reservation.

Cuba And Autonomy

Cuban delegate Guy Cisneros said his country "withdraws its proposal on condition that integration of the Inter-American (security) system within the world organization be approved with necessary autonomy."

Representatives of the Latin American countries tentatively agreed later in the day on the principles worked out by the U. S. delegation.

It was presented to them at a meeting in the apartment of Colombia's Foreign Minister Alberto Lleras Camargo in the form of principles rather than as a drafted amendment to the security charter.

A committee of four—representing Colombia, Mexico, Peru and Cuba—was named to work out a formal text of the formula for presentation to the conference.

Matter Of Wording

There was no voting in the meeting but the general tenor of discussion, it was reported, indicated that the question now is a matter of wording. The text may be ready at the beginning of next week.

While many of the Latin Americans had hoped for more com-

Goering Indicted On Eight Counts

LONDON, May 12 (U.P.)—A member of the United Nations War Crimes commission said today that Hermann Goering has been indicted on at least eight separate counts and "we have an airtight case."

"I would like to prosecute him myself," a commission member said in revealing that the evidence already compiled against Goering as a war criminal filled several volumes.

All but one of the counts against the roly-poly reichsmarshal, now in custody of the U. S. Seventh Army in Bavaria, arise from his alleged responsibility as a minister of the Reich for the criminal policies laid down by the German government.

Responsible For Slaughter

The remaining indictment charges Goering with specific responsibility for the forced labor and slavery programs in Germany, which violated the articles of the Hague convention.

Adolf Hitler named Goering commissioner for the four-year economic plan under which the Reich enslaved civilians of occupied territories and forced them to work on German defenses and in German war plants, without pay and frequently in conditions that caused wholesale death and disease.

Documents outlining and implementing the four-year plan are in the hands of the War Crimes commission. Indicted with Goering are 3 men who assisted him in administering the program. They are Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels, "plenipotentiary for the total war effort," R. Walter Darre, one-time minister of agriculture, and Fritz Sauckel, manpower director.

Goering and Darre are under arrest and awaiting trial. Goebbels was reported in Berlin, and United Press Correspondent Joseph Grigg reported from the German capital this week that the Russians had found a body identified with reasonable certainty as that of Goebbels. Sauckel has not yet been accounted for.

Goering was among the first of the top Nazis to be indicted by the commission. His name was placed before it by both Czechoslovakia and Poland. The charges were investicated and documented by a committee of the commission, which then recommended their approval by the full commission—a step which was taken last November.

The indictments variously charge him with setting up courts which condemned thousands of Czechoslovaks; with the Lidice massacre; with atrocities at achau, Buchenwald and elsewhere; with the massacre of Czechoslovak students in a 1939 demonstration; and with establishing a Jewish extermination camp at Auschwitz.

Most Discharged Vets Not Subject To Draft

WASHINGTON, May 12. (AP)—Current Selective Service policy provides that veterans discharged under the Army's new point system may not be called into service again, except in rare cases.

In instructions to draft boards last October, Selective Service ruled that men honorably discharged should be rained in class 1-C, the classification given to all men in the armed forces.

IT WILL BE A HAPPY MOTHERS DAY for President Harry S. Truman and his 92-year old mother, Mrs. Martha Truman, of Independence, Mo., who flew to the capital in an Army Air Transport Command plane to be with her famous son. She is shown with the President as she alighted at Washington National airport after a four hour, 15 minute flight. "Fiddlestix!" she exclaimed when confronted by news cameramen.

E Bonds Featured In 7th Loan Drive

Lubbock county's participation in the Seventh War Loan drive, opening Monday, will be featured by a concentrated campaign to revive payroll allotments for bond purchases, C. H. (Brownie) Hamilton, E bond quota chairman for the drive, announced Saturday.

The county's quota in E bonds in the Seventh War Loan drive is $1,700,000, sixty per cent more than the Sixth War Loan campaign, Hamilton said.

Hamilton's campaign is to be centered around members of the Lubbock Rotary club, who will make up teams to contact as many employers and employes as possible in the city to bring the E bond quota to a successful achievement.

"Only $173,000 worth of E bonds were credited to Lubbock county during April, so you see we have a long way to go before we reach our quota," Hamilton said.

One advantage offered in the Seventh War Loan is that purchases of E bonds during April, May and June may be counted in the drive totals, Hamilton pointed out.

"Only once in the past 12 months has Lubbock county exceeded its E bond monthly quota," Hamilton pointed out, declaring that an effort will be made in the payroll drive to renew pledges so that quotas may be met monthly until victory over Japan is achieved.

"We hope to sell enough bonds, or at least get pledges for enough purchases in May and June to

Yanks Reach Edge Of Rubble-Strewn Naha

165 Jap Planes Downed; One Major U. S. Fleet Unit Damaged In Attack

By LEIF ERICKSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

GUAM, Sunday, May 13—Leathernecks of the Sixth Marine division drove into a suburb of Naha, about 500 yards from Naha itself, as troops of the 10th U. S. Army made a general, slow, bitterly-fought advance along the southern Okinawa front yesterday.

Lt. Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner's 10th Army Yanks battled ahead doggedly on the second day of their new full-strength drive despite strong Japanese air attacks.

These attacks, made in strength Thursday and Friday, damaged one major fleet unit—probably a battleship or large carrier—and several other smaller ships, Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz said in today's communique.

Destroyer Bags 19

Paced by one destroyer which alone shot down 19 Japanese aircraft, carrier pilots and ships destroyed 165 of the attackers.

Seventy-two of these were downed Thursday and 93 Friday. However, 40 of the total of 165 had been reported destroyed in yesterday's communique.

The destroyer's 19-plane record probably is an all-time mark for a ship of that size in one air attack.

(The old carrier, Hornet, claimed 26 Japanese raiders downed before she was mortally wounded Oct. 26, 1942, and the battleship South Dakota claimed her guns downed 34 in defending another carrier in the same battle. The Hornet's claim was for one 80-plane attack; the South Dakota's for several attacks.)

Sixth Marine Advance

The advance by Maj. Gen. Lemuel C. Shepherd's Sixth Marine division into Takamotoji was the day's outstanding forward push. Takamotoji is north of the Asato river, which forms still another natural barrier to capture of Naha and its big airfield to the south. The Leathernecks, at a cost of scores killed, bridged the Asa river only two days ago in a daring maneuver.

The First Marine division and the 77th Army division in the center of the southern Okinawa line made progress against Japanese cave and ridge positions.

On the east coast, the 96th division captured important strongpoints and straightened its line, which flanks Yonabaru airstrip.

The 96th troops hold positions a mile and a half beyond the southern end of the airstrip, but the Japanese have prevented capture of the field because they still hold commanding positions from which they can pour artillery onto the runway.

In operations presumably intended to deny islands flanking the Okinawa area to any Japanese use, cruisers and destroyers bombarded Minami Daito island about 200 miles east of Okinawa Thursday.

Yesterday, troops of the 10th Army invaded small Tori island,

Big Jap Drome Under U. S. Fire

By FRED HAMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

MANILA, Sunday, May 13—The big Japanese Del Monte airdrome in north central Mindanao, Philippines, came under the guns of the U. S. 40th division Friday, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today, after the Yanks made a 14-mile advance from their invasion beachhead.

Elements of Maj. Gen. Rapp Brush's division, which landed at Macajalar bay Thursday and advanced four miles the first day, pushed south along Sayre highway, taking the Alae road junction and reaching a point 60 miles from the 31st division which is fighting northward along the same road.

Skillful Air Support

Skillful air support made the work of the doughboys easy. Thirteenth Air force planes fire-bombed the Japanese positions flanking the road, driving the enemy back while Yank infantrymen dashed in and captured machinegun and mortar fortifications.

Del Monte is the site of the biggest pineapple plantation in the Pacific, outside of Hawaii, and has been developed into a formidable air base by the Japanese.

Maramag airfield was secured by the 31st, the communique said.

Meanwhile, the American 24th division fighting north of Davao city near the eastern Mindanao coast repulsed several Japanese night counterattacks and pushed the Nipponese into the hills between Talomo and Davao rivers.

Pincers Draws Tighter

Yank and guerrilla forces fighting in the mountains of the Manila watershed in east central Luzon are within two miles of closing their pincers on Japanese forces in the vicinity of Ipo dam.

Naval units patrolling the east coast of Luzon destroyed several Nipponese small craft, and American bombers and fighters plastered all Japanese holdout defenses on the island with 450 tons of explosives.

Australian and Dutch forces pressing the invasion of Tarakan island, petroleum center off the northeast coast of Borneo, advanced one mile north of the Djoeata oil fields, meeting only scattered Japanese resistance. These Allied forces already have cleared one oil field of the enemy and taken an airfield.

Allied planes continued their shattering blows at Nipponese installations and shipping around Borneo's coasts, heavy bombers striking barracks and shipyards at Balikpapan on the southeast coast and starting fires in the Brunei bay area on the northwest shore.

Heavy Blows On Formosa

Widespread destruction on Formosa resulted from blows by Philippine-based bombers and fighters, which staged low level night attacks on Taihoku factories, and then came in for daylight raids on plants at Kari, Okayama, Kagi and Mato. Railways and rolling stock also were hit.

Japanese airfields near Canton were put under aerial attack for the second straight day with 125 tons of bombs. The previous day's blasting had unloaded 180 tons on the fields.

Shipping and rail lines from Shanghai south into French Indo-China, were the vital Nipponese

Slaton And Posey Get Rain And Hail

A "pretty good rain" with some hail fell in the Posey community and a shower hit Slaton late Saturday afternoon, it was reported by the Santa Fe dispatcher at Slaton.

The line had received no other reports of rain on the South Plains although cloudy conditions prevailed throughout the area last night.

Lubbock received a sprinkle.

A good rain has been long awaited in the Lubbock vicinity and farmers say that the need for moisture is growing serious.

The weatherman held out little promise, forecasting partly cloudy and not much change in temperature.

Some Navy Personnel To Become Inactive

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP) — Improvement in the Navy's enlisted personnel situation will permit transfer of substantially all retired enlisted men to inactive duty by January 1, 1946.

A circular letter to all ships and stations from the bureau of personnel, made public by the Navy today, said exceptions would be made only in the case of those holding key positions who continue fit for active duty.

All others, the bureau said, shall be released as their services can be spared "progressively and without further reference" to the bureau.

DAVID CANNON DIES

FALLS CHURCH, Va., May 12 (AP)—David P. Cannon, a son of the late Bishop James A. Cannon, jr., well known Methodist leader and staunch advocate of prohibition, died here last night after a long illness. Cannon practiced law in Texas for several years.

Lend-Lease For Russia Checked

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—Lend-lease to Russia through Europe is being suspended now that war there is over.

A statement of Leo T. Crowley, foreign economic administrator, said tonight the government is reviewing its lend-lease programs.

It is necessary, he said, "so that American resources will be distributed in such a way as to make the utmost possible contribution to victory in the major war which we have still to win."

Meanwhile, "new shipments to Europe" are being held up except to countries at war with Japan or through which redeployment of our troops now in Europe can be facilitated thereby.

Other Routes Not Affected

Lend-lease to Russia by other routes apparently is not affected. An informed source said substantial amounts are going by ways which had not been disclosed.

The announcement was taken to mean that supplies going to Europe were more specifically sent for purposes of fighting the European war. It would appear to be an obvious development that shipments

Famed Luxury Liners Still To Move Troops

PARIS, May 12 (AP)—The Queen Elizabeth and the Queen Mary, which between them delivered more than 1,000,000 soldiers to the European theater of operations in history's greatest trans-Atlantic troop shuttle, will continue to ply the Atlantic returning troops and casualties, it was disclosed today.

Operated jointly by American and British personnel, the famous British luxury liners transported troops and patients to and from the United States, starting three years ago.

Each ship can carry a full division in one trip and the 85,000-ton Queen Elizabeth, largest liner ever built, has exceeded that at times.

DARNAND SAID HELD

NEW YORK, May 12 (AP) — Joseph Darnard, former chief of the Vichy militia, was captured in northern Italy with 200 former militiamen, a British broadcast recorded by the OWI said. The Paris radio said he was taken May 6.

Victory Prayers To Feature Day

(By The Associated Press)

Texans were expected to throng churches, large and small, today to give thanks to God for a victory which has ended an unchristian debacle in a long-suffering Europe.

And, remembering another bleak Sunday when the Japanese hurled a war upon the nation from an unsuspecting sky, Texans will pray with renewed fervor for providential might in vanquishing another foe.

Prayers will turn, too, to San Francisco where men of free nations have gathered to cast a mold, with the stamp of God, for a definite and permanent end to armed conflict among nations.

All Areas Join Plan

Almost without exception, Texas churches of all denominations, heeding President Truman's victory proclamation, planned reverent victory services.

The President, in naming today "a day of prayer," called upon the people "whatever their faith, to unite in offering joyful thanks to God for the victory we have won and to pray that He will support us to the end of our present struggle and to guide us into the way of peace."

Churches in Midland, Brownsville, Lubbock, Dallas, Pampa, Abilene, Beaumont, San Antonio, Corpus Christi, and many other Texas cities announced definite services in accord with the Truman proclamation.

Big City Churches

In San Antonio, Protestant churches planned prayers both at Sunday School and regular morning services. Hebrew services will consist of victory thanksgiving prayers when a servicemen's honor roll is dedicated.

At Dallas, Methodist congregations, in addition to victory services, will honor Mothers by giving funds to the Young Memorial home for aged women. Knights Templar of Dallas and Tancred commanderies will gather in uniform at St. Matthew's Episcopal cathedral to conduct their 40-year-old religious service.

At the First Baptist church of Oak Cliff in Dallas an offering for Buckner's orphan's home will be taken as part of Mother's day and victory services. A twilight service of thanksgiving will be held at Dallas' Ridgecrest Baptist church.

Special Offerings

Southern Presbyterian churches will receive special offerings for the fund to be raised by the denomination's defense service council for work to be carried on among service personnel by chaplains.

These are typical of church observances.

At Corpus Christi, a special Mother's day breakfast is planned at the Shoreline USO, after which servicemen from the group will attend church services with each mother. Army mothers, Navy mothers and Texas A. and M. college mothers will be guests this afternoon at an open house at the USO.

Legion Reporter In Europe Disaccredited

PARIS, May 12. (AP) — John Groth, writer and artist representing the American Legion magazine as war correspondent, was disaccredited and ordered returned to the United States today. Supreme headquarters said a trip he made to Berlin, soon after its fall to the Russians, was unauthorized. He had been suspended earlier.

"I feel it is very unfair," Groth said. "I think the American people who sent 4,000,000 of their sons to the European theater many of whom will never come back, have a right to eyewitness accounts of the fall of the enemy's capital."

Groth's Berlin story was passed by censors and was carried by the Associated Press.

Veterans Of Both Africa, Europe Exempt From Pacific Campaign

PARIS, May 12 (AP)—The U. S. Army's vast redeployment plan to shift fighting men from Europe to the Pacific began operation today, following an announcement by Gen. Eisenhower that combat troops who served both in North Africa and Europe would not have to fight in the Japanese theater.

"We must be sure," Gen. Eisenhower wrote to generals of his command, "that no soldier is sent to the Pacific who has fought in both North Africa and Europe.

"It may be that some soldiers in this category will not have sufficient points to be eligible for discharge. However, these men should be retained in the European theater for occupation, as they should not be required to fight another campaign."

To Apply Overwhelming Force

Uppermost factor in the operation of the redeployment plan, said Lt. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, deputy military governor of the U. S., group control council, was "the problem of applying overwhelming force to bring the war against Japan to a quick end."

Troops which have amassed sufficient points based on service, dependents and decorations, will be discharged. When the scores are tabulated they will be sent to the War department, which will determine what score will be low enough to permit the release of 2,000,000 men while retaining the 6,968,000 necessary to fight Japan and occupy Germany.

Among the foremost factors involved are the immediate training of troops now in Germany and France in Japanese tactics, and the matter of leave and accommodations for troops awaiting reassignment or discharge.

Service Troops Moving

Some American service troops already were moving toward French ports, for the beginning of the long journey to the Pacific area. Combat troops will begin moving in about six months.

It will be 45 days before the Army knows the names of the men who will be sent home under the point system. Gen. Eisenhower's letter said "when the bell rings we must be prepared to release the high point men in each combat division who are eligible for discharge, even though it results in an immediate reduction of divisional strength below the authorized figures."

He added that "we must not follow blueprint designs rigidly, but must apply the established policies with human understanding."

To Study Japanese Tactics

Gen. Clay said American troops who will go to the Pacific will be trained in Japanese tactics while still in France and Germany, under a senior experienced battle general who is already in the European theater but whose name cannot be revealed. Japanese equipment will be brought to the theater for the eight-week training program.

Allied headquarters in Rome estimated that possibly 11,000 American soldiers would be returned from the Mediterranean theater this month and, if shipping facilities are adequate, 15,000 more will follow in June and the same number in July.

WACs in the European theater with a total of 44 points will be returned to the United States as soon as the theater quota of 10,800 is filled and adequate replacements are available, communications zone headquarters said. WACs whose soldier husbands have been returned to the United States for discharge will be able, however, to apply for immediate release.

Headquarters also announced that leave accommodations for American troops awaiting reassignment under redeployment will be stepped up from 28,000 to 175,000 and that leave centers in Paris, Britain, Brussels and the French Riviera were being prepared for the anticipated rush.

News Briefs

A suit asking $70,000 in damages of H. W. Stotts was filed in 99th district court Saturday by Minnie Mince and others. All principals are of Lubbock county. The suit, pleadings set out, grew out of the Sept. 14, 1943, death on U. S. highway 62 between Lubbock and Idalou of Alvin Eugene Mince, husband of the plaintiff Minnie Mince and father of plaintiff minor sons Don Gayland and Jessie Deland Mince, 3 and 2 years old respectively. Mince, pleaded to have been driver of a truck owned by Stotts, suffered fatal injuries when his vehicle and one driven by Dane Bennett crashed. Plaintiffs accused Stotts of negligence.

Young men of 17 wishing to join the U. S. Marines still are needed by the Lubbock recruiting office to fill the May quota, S/Sgt. Charles W. Clark, recruiting officer, said. Twenty-five men are needed and will be called to active duty during June and July. Birth certificates will be needed by those applying said Sgt. Clark.

Floydada will be host Thursday to the annual farm ownership of the Farm Security administration, H. C. Gilmore, district 11 FSA supervisor disclosed Saturday. Records of the past year's work will be studied and compared with the present program results.

Clerks, typists and stenographers are in urgent demand in connection with the war program with salaries ranging from $752.00 to $1,971.00 per annum, M. W. Waldron, local U. S. Employment Service office manager, said Saturday. Appointees will be sent to Washington with transportation paid and rooms reserved there in advance. Applicants are urged by Waldron to seek full information at the office at 1207 Thirteenth.

A fine of $50 and court costs was assessed when Grisham Scott May pleaded guilty of having driven an automobile while his operator's license was suspended. Judgment was stayed until July 11, County Judge Walter Davies provided.

PORTSMOUTH, Va., May 12. (AP)—The 27,100-ton aircraft carrier Tarawa, named for the historic battle which marked the turning point of the war in the Central Pacific, was launched at the Norfolk Navy yard today before a throng estimated by the yard public relations office at almost 100,000.

Discharges Handed To 2,500 Veterans

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP) — The Army handed discharge papers today to approximately 2,500 veteran troops—the first batch of men released to go home under the new point rating plan.

They were all mustered out at rest camps in this country, being among the veterans of fighting on all fronts who had been brought back for recuperation. An estimated 216,000 such men are eligible for release.

The War department said all 2,500 had high point scores for length of service, overseas duty, combat and parenthood. A minimum of 85 points is necessary for discharge and the Army expects to release 1,300,000 soldiers on this basis within a year.

BARTENDER IS FIRST

FORT DEVENS, Mass., May 12 (AP)—T/5 Peter Flowers, 28, a former Cambridge, Mass., bartender, was handed his discharge papers at 9:10 a. m. (CWT) today—the first soldier to be released here from the Army under the new point rating system.

Blueprint For Invasion Of France Started As Gag, And Nazis Knew It

By TOM REEDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 12. — It's safe now to tell Jerry that he once had in his hands the key to the U. S. invasion of France and didn't know it.

It is a fantastic story of a huge gag that turned into strategy.

Army planners told it in strictest confidence to this writer many months ago. V-E day lifted the security ties.

What happened was this:

A group of officers was assigned to plan the logistics of the Normandy invasion.

They slaved night and day over the seemingly impossible task of putting men down on the beaches and then supplying them without port facilities.

Colonel's Head Buzzing

A colonel afted weeks of burning the midnight oil was virtually going around in circles, his head buzzing with figures that refused to add up. In tired disgust one night he sat at a typewriter and relaxed his sense of humor.

He wrote a purely jocular form on the "operations" of landing and supplying men, in good military style.

The colonel reached these conclusions:

1. Any length of beach is too short to take the number of vehicles belonging to the number of divisions that will be necessary to assault such a length of beach.

2. Unless immediate steps are taken to construct sufficient beaches in this country, to be towed across the channel already assembled, no assault can take place.

Sage Observation

The "logistic" study included this sage observation:

"The general principle is that the number of divisions required to capture the number of ports required to maintain those divisions is already greater than the number of divisions those ports can maintain."

The solution?

"Go to an area where no ports exist and the problem then will not arise."

The colonel set this up as his final objective:

"To evolve an organization for a captured port."

He concluded:

"In order to have the invasion take place in an area where there are no ports it is recommended that a port should be constructed on the selected area of the enemy coast by sinking as many concrete filled blockships in as small an area as possible.

"The capacity of this port is estimated by the Navy to be 200 ships per day from D minus 2 onwards. This capacity is unlikely to be reached however as all small and medium coasters will undoubtedly be required as concrete filled blockships."

"Gag" Circulated Widely

The five page "gag" was circulated among officers who doubled up in giggles, sprinkled with sympathy for the lads who had to try to solve the problem.

Army men say the thing got all over London and one major said he could swear that German counter intelligence surely had picked it up. No one thought anything of that, then.

But, in the meantime, the planners got to thinking about artificial ports. Why not, they concluded.

So the idea was adopted virtually to float a new coast line across the channel as the jokester had suggested. Floating docks were constructed to be embedded in concrete when they hit Normandy and there were the ports, ready made!

Allies' Greatest Weapon

It has been said since that these floating docks were the Allies' greatest "secret weapon" for that invasion; they constituted the imponderable factor that the Nazi hadn't reckoned with.

Assuming the major knew what he was talking about—that the Germans had the jocular reference to portable docks, it must be assumed that the Germans didn't know it to be anything more than a gag.

If they had got wise, bombers could have smashed the slow-moving docks as they were being towed across the channel. Perhaps the early waves of assault troops might even have run out of ammunition and been thrown back into the sea.

Those are the thoughts that were going through the minds of the Army planners sweating out the period between the circulation of the joke and the fruition of its idea.

WAVES For Hospital Corps Are Wanted

Faced with the need of additional personnel for the hospital corps and for certain other specialty divisions, the Navy has reopened on a wide scale the opportunities for enlistment of young women in the WAVES.

Chief H. A. Lambert in charge of the Navy recruiting station here, said yesterday that correspondence from recruiting headquarters advised that 2,000 WAVES per month for the next several months were needed to fill essential military posts, and that applications for enlistment, sharply curtailed in recent months, could be submitted on an almost unlimited scale.

Approximately half of the WAVE applicants accepted for enlistment will be selected for hospital corps while at training school, although no specific assignment can be promised an applicant at the time of enlistment. All WAVE recruits will receive eight weeks training at Hunter college, New York, and those selected for hospital corps will have an additional eight weeks hospital training. Others will go directly to duty stations.

Women of the Lubbock and South Plains area who are 20 to 36 years old and interested in enlisting in the WAVES are invited to visit the Navy office at the post office building here, or write in for additional information and application forms, Chief Lambert said.

Germans Must Rebuild What They Destroyed

SAN FRANCISCO, May 12 (U.P.)—Kuzma B. Kiselev, foreign commissar of Soviet White Russia, said today that the German people must be forced to rebuild with their own hands the towns and cities destroyed by their armies during the war.

Just how this is to be done, Kiselev said in his first interview with any foreign correspondent, is something to be determined by the final European peace conference which should be called "as soon as possible" after the conclusion of the United Nations assembly here.

"Mind you," he said in his native tongue, "we are not very keen on German help in rebuilding our country. They have not proved to be good workers when used as war prisoners. But we believe this to be a matter of supreme justice."

GEN. BOR IN BRITAIN

LONDON, May 12. (AP)—Lt. Gen. Tadeusz Komoroskwi (Gen. Bor) who commanded the unsuccessful Polish uprising in Warsaw last summer and later was captured by the Germans, arrived in Britain today by plane from Paris. Komorowski was flown here in an American Liberator and was received at the airfield by high Polish civil and military leaders including Tomasz Arceszewski, premier of the London Polish regime.

Former Lubbock High School Student Set For Film Debut

JOHNNY HARP

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

CULVER CITY, Calif. May 12—Johnny Harp, former Lubbock High school student, has been signed to a term contract by Vanguard Films, Inc., and will make his motion picture debut in a featured role in "They Dream of Home," film adaptation of Niven Busch's latest best seller novel.

The 18-year-old Texan who came to California just four months ago, got his big chance while appearing in a Little Theatre production of "The Doughgirls" in Hollywood. He was spotted by Henry Willson, assistant to the president of Vanguard, and was given a screen test opposite Shirley Temple.

Born in Lorenzo

He will use the screen name of Johnny Sands and is being groomed for leading man roles with Miss Temple.

Born April 29, 1927 in Lorenzo, Texas, he attended school in Lubbock; Tulsa, Okla.; Carlsbad, N. M., and Plainview, Texas. While attending high school here he was active in sports and dramatic circles.

He is a son of Mrs. C. R. Gough of 1210 Milwaukee street, Plainview.

His role in "They Dream of Home" is that of Pinky, a young Marine just discharged after being wounded overseas, and is one of the key characters in the story. Dore Schary will produce the film for Selznick International.

Veterans Placed In Jobs Here Total 348

Permanent placements have been given 348 returned veterans of World War II in Lubbock since April, 1944, with 77 additional veterans placed in war jobs in other parts of the area, M. W. Waldron, local U. S. Employment Service manager, said Saturday.

Some 400 veterans contact the local USES office each month with 70 per cent seeking jobs and job information and two of every three referred being hired, he stated.

"The local veteran srevice job gets bigger day by day," Waldron stated, "and in order to give the maximum service to every veteran we are contemplating establishing, in the very near future, branch offices in this area."

These figures compare with 14,000 veterans seeking information and work each month in Texas with about the same percentage as recorded here being placed. There are 79 USES offices in Texas serving as information centers for veterans seeking jobs and advice, Waldron said.

There are a few rare cases on record where persons have been able to see Jupiter's moons with the naked eye.

Parents Of Children Who Enter School Next Fall, To Meet

Parents of children who will enter school for the first time next fall, are asked to meet at their respective schools Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock for the purpose of discussing what is necessary to prepare children for school entrance, Miss Dorothy Lomax, director of curriculum for Lubbock Public schools, announced Saturday.

The meetings are preliminary to the summer roundup sponsored by the P-T. A. At the meetings, which will also include principals and teachers, the importance of having the child ready for school — physically, socially and emotionally—will be discussed. Each mother will be given a checking list prepared by Miss Lomax.

Parents who do not have transportation to the meetings, may contact their respective principals who will arrange through the P.-T. A. for rides. Mothers may bring their children and leave them in a nursery sponsored by the Girl Scouts.

Mrs. Marjorie Brasher, public school nurse, will examine preschool children, on specified dates at the various schools and make recommendations for things they need. Mothers are to bring their children to the schools on the dates named: Bean, May 23 and 24; Central ward, May 25 and 28; Dupre, May 29 and 30; George M. Hunt, May 31 and June 1; K. Carter, June 4 and 5; McWhorter, June 6 and 7; Gaudalupe, June 8; Roscoe Wilson, June 11 and 12; Sanders, June 13 and 14.

VETERAN DISCHARGED

SAN ANTONIO, May 12 (AP)—Staff Sgt. Augustin Lucio of Route one, box one, San Marcos, Tex., was the first army veteran discharged at the Fort Sam Houston separation center today. Sergeant Lucio fought with the Second division in Europe.

WACS' Third Anniversary Will Be Observed At LAAF

A full round of events, including a luncheon, review and a dance, honoring members of the Women's Army Corps on their third anniversary as soldiers and for their vital contribution toward the victory effort has been planned for Lubbock Army Air Field WACs beginning Monday.

Monday will mark three years to the day since the WACs were organized.

The occasion will be in observance of the third birthday of the courageous group of women who on May 14, 1942, formed the nucleus for the Women's Army Corps auxiliary, and in honor of the many thousands of patriotic American women who since have joined their ranks.

"Open House" Planned

Today, the WAC is an integral part of the machinery that helps keep the wheels of the world's greatest war machine running smoothly. At LAAF, as at many hundreds of Army posts throughout the nation and abroad, they are serving in jobs essential to victory — jobs which otherwise would have to be handled by someone else who is now handling an even more important duty.

The full schedule of events for the WACs at LAAF will get under way at 10 o'clock Monday morning when the WACs play hostesses for an "open house," the event to continue until four o'clock that afternoon. Visitors will be met at the gate by WAC hostesses who will escort them to the WAC area, dayroom and other WAC buildings.

Luncheon Is Set

The program for the day will continue with a luncheon at noon when the WACs are hostesses for a dinner for all department heads at the WAC mess.

That afternoon a big review will honor the women soldiers as they stand in the formal reviewing party.

That night, from 8:30 o'clock until 11:30 o'clock, there will be a dance in honor of the WACs at the Service Lounge with Pappy Birnbaum and his orchestra furnishing the music.

Visitors from Lubbock and the surrounding area are invited to visit the field during the WAC "open house" from 10 until 4 o'clock Monday, it was announced by officials.

Although Monday is the big day for the observance of the anniversary, all of next week has been set aside in honor of the work the women soldiers are doing.

At present, WACc are holding more than 45 different jobs on the field and are materially aiding in the intensive program which continues around the clock in the training of combat returnees in the latest methods of "all weather" instrument flying. It is not at all unusual to find a WAC in the tower or in some other key post.

The WACs first arrived at LAAF back on June 10, 1943, and like all such first arrivals of women soldiers, attracted considerable attention. But now the WACs consider it a tribute that they have made for themselves such a definite place in the military routine at LAAF that they no longer attract undue notice.

Farmers of the Lubbock area have until Monday to report any winter legumes or small grain, other than wheat, used as cover crops during the past winter season, according to an announcement Saturday by Walter Y. Wells, administrative officer of the Agriculture Adjustment Agency.

Payment for this practice totals the cost of seed for legume cover crops, while $1.50 an acre will be paid for the grain. This small grain, barley, oats or rye, must have been planted during the fall of 1944 and was to remain unharvested.

Wells reported very little activity here with this type of cover crops.

The CHIROPRACTOR-and You

HEMMORRHOIDS, LOW BLOOD PRESSURE

Lady, age 45, who had liver trouble, internal hemmorrhoids, low blood pressure, and constipation. After having tried many other methods, she came to me as a last resort. Upon examining her I found that she had severe pressure on the nerves was relieved by adjustment and kept relieved long enough for the nerves leading to the affected parts of the body to rebuild. The lady got well. At the present time she is completely well of all symptoms.

NERVOUSNESS. KIDNEY TROUBLE

Case History No. 1490. Lady, age 30, who was very nervous, had trouble with her kidneys, arms and legs would go to sleep, and she was losing weight rapidly. She came to this clinic as a last resort. I found that she had pressure on nerves which was the cause of all her symptoms. She began taking adjustments and has readily improved. She has gained weight and isn't nervous anymore.

THE CHIROPRACTOR CONTENDS:

Most people do not find out whether or not they have pressure on nerves that will cause dis-ease until the diseased condition has become so bad or has existed so long that it is noticeable to them by its symptoms. The symptoms are not the disease. They are merely the signs that dis-ease is present in the body and are the warnings offered by your body to arouse you to the need of removing the cause of that condition.

ELIMINATE THE CAUSE OF DIS-EASE

The chiropractor is thoroughly trained in the correction of these adnormalities. When the vetebra is replaced (adjusted) to its normal position and the pressure upon the nerve fibers is relieved, the cause of dis-ease has been taken away. There is no question but that the chiropractor has demonstrated time after time his ability to deal with the cause of dis-ease. The reason that Chiropractic is of inestimable value is that the effects are lasting, and the effects are lasting because the very cause of the condition is removed.

Army Leaders Offer Draft As Only Source Of Peacetime 'Availables'

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 12. (AP)—Congressional advocates of a peacetime draft said today Army leaders are convinced the draft is the only way a postwar military force of 4,500,000 "availables" can be maintained.

While the Army has insisted that it has no definite plans for the size of the postwar military establishment, it submitted to the House Military committee this week a written statement containing these words:

"The active reserve will be composed of those individuals and units sufficient in types and numbers which will, together with the other components, constitute an over-all balanced force in the Army of the United States of four and one-half million (4,500,000) men."

Strictly "Planning Figures"

That figure, an Army spokesman said, is strictly "a planning figure" and represents the "availables" who could be called upon in a future emergency or "M-day." There are other figures based on other sets of assumed conditions.

Under present War department plans, committee members said, at least 4,000,000 of the 4,500,000 would be reserves and national guardsmen and, if the entire quota is to be filled, the remaining 500,000 presumably would be regular Army personnel.

The War department issued a statement last night, however, in which it said it was "not the fact" that it plans a peacetime standing Army of 500,000 men.

"The size of the regular Army," it added, "which the War department will recommend after the war will depend upon the condition of the world, the commitments of the United States at that time and the military policy adopted by the congress."

Two Alternatives

Committee members represented Army spokesmen as asserting there were these two alternatives to the building up of a huge reserve through a peacetime draft law: An "inadequate" defense establishment, or a huge standing Army which would cost billions annually.

Hearings will start June 4 on peacetime draft legislation broadly requiring every able-bodied male citizens to take a year of military training as soon as he becomes 18. If it becomes law, the legislation may make each trainee liable for military service for six years after his return to civilian life following this year of training.

Of an estimated 1,200,000 youths expected to be eligible for training annually, the Army believes it can train 600,000 and the Navy 520,000. The others would be rejected or deferred.

Many Would Be Retained

Should the program discussed with the military committee be approved, many of the 186,000 reserve officers now on active Army duty would be retained to provide the training.

Along with the outline of its tentative reserve program, the War department has given the military committee copies of a statement by General George C. Marshall, in which the Army chief of staff expressed this view:

"There are two types of military organization through which the manpower of a nation may be developed. . . . One of these is the standing Army type. . . . Under this system, leadership in war and the control of military preparations and policy in peacetime are concentrated largely and necessarily in a special class or caste of professional soldiers. This is the system of Germany and Japan. It produces highly efficient armies. But it is open to serious political objections. . . . It . . . has no place among the institutions of a modern democratic state based upon the conception of government by the people.

Second Type Explained

"The second type of military institution . . . is based upon the conception of a professional peace establishment (no larger than necessary to meet normal peacetime requirements) to be reenforced in time of emergency by organized units drawn from a citizen Army reserve, effectively organized for this purpose in time of peace. . . . The type of our military institutions was determined in the beginning by the form of our government and has not changed since Washington's administration. It will therefore be made the basis for all plans for a postwar peace establishment."

Lt. John N. Harrell Missing On Flight

HARRELL

Second Lt. John Neill Harrell, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Harrell of Southland, is missing on a local flight from Sarasota, Fla., since April 5. His plane, a P-51 which he piloted as observer for another pilot flying on instruments, disappeared after a climb to 10,000 feet, and was never seen afterwards.

Search for the plane and pilot, conducted by every source available to the Army, and aided by the facilities of the Navy and Coast Guard in the area, was carried on for 30 days, then the search was announced as abandoned.

Lt. Harrell, graduate of New Deal Hgh school, lacked only part of a semester on his degree in agricultural economics at Texas Tech when he went into the Air corps Feb. 24, 1943. His first cadet training was at Maxwell field, Ala., and after training at Bennettsville and Sumter, S. C., he took his advanced training and received his wings and commission at Marianna, Fla., March 12, 1944.

He was an instructor in instrument and contact flying at Greenville, Miss., until last November when he was assigned to transitional training for combat flying. He was receiving instruction in combat flight at Sarasota Army Air field when his plane was lost.

Russia Offers Plan On Trusteeships

SAN FRANCISCO, May 12. (U.P.)—Soviet Russia has proposed a plan for international trusteeships which would give each of the big powers a permanent seat on the trusteeship commission and a veto over designation of any territory as a strategic area, it was learned today.

The Russian plan has not yet been made public by the international secretariat of the United Nations conference. It has been designated a "restricted" document by the Soviet delegation.

But it was learned that the Soviet proposal conflicts sharply in some respects with the American and British plans which, after more than a week of study, are slowly being merged.

The American plan calls for a trusteeship council on which each of the trusteeship-holding countries plus an equal number of nations not holding trusteeships would be represented. The Russian plan adds another provision by which all of the permanent members of the world security council would have permanent seats on the trusteeship council whether or not they hold trusteeships. Since the United States, Britain, and France are certain to hold trusteeships, it would mean that Russia and China also would be guaranteed permanent trusteeship council seats.

Whereas the American plan allows the holder of the trusteeship to designate strategic areas, with approval of the security council, the Russian plan would place the power of designating strategic areas in the security council. Such action would require the unanimous vote of the permanent members of the security council.

Nazi Party Outlawed By Austrian Regime

The Soviet-sponsored provisional government of Austria has passed a law suppressing the Nazi party and providing death sentences for its present members, Tass said today.

The Tass dispatch, broadcast by th Moscow radio to the Russian domestic press and reported by the FCC, said that under the law all the Nazi party's property in Austria "is to pass into the hands of the Austrian republic."

Flood Of Goods Seen As Inflation Weapon

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—The OPA was on record today with the view that a flood of consumer goods is the best weapon against disastrous inflation in the reconversion period.

Record production at low prices and high wages will do more than anything else to "smother the fires of inflation," Price Administrator Chester Bowles told a news conference yesterday.

OPA will see to it, he said, that prices of most commodities returning to the market are kept at 1942 levels.

Bowles added, however, that OPA will not hesitate to approve higher prices for manufacturers who can qualify under the agency's standards set up for reconversion.

Okinawa Battle

about 55 miles west of Okinawa. The island was occupied without opposition. Both Tori and Minami Daito were valuable to the Japanese for observation positions.

Street fighting was under way in Takamotoji as the Marines battled for entry into Naha itself after 42 days of the central Pacific's most sustained bitter ground campaign.

All four Yank divisions on the southern line are employing tanks. The 77th division effectively employed flame throwing tanks against Japanese caves.

Mopping Up Is Tough

There is this disadvantage however to using tanks. After a tank-led advance half a day often is required to mop up bypassed Japanese to the rear, one officer of the 77th division explained.

On Wednesday, Vice Adm. Marc A Mitcher's fast carriers raided airfields and shipping on islands in the Amami group in the northern Ryukyus. It was in this strike that the major fleet unit was damaged, (A major fleet unit presumably is a battleship or large carrier.)

This action ranged from the northern Ryukyus to American forces lying off Okinawa. A total of 72 Japanese airplanes were destroyed, including 40 over Okinawa. Ships' guns shared with carrier pilots in downing the enemy airplanes.

The Amami raid saw Yank pilots destroying four more Nipponese planes on the ground in low level attacks and damaging warehouses, installations and a number of luggers.

93 Downed Friday

The enemy returned to the attack on American shipping Friday. Although 93 attackers were shot down, the Japanese managed to damage "several surface ships," Nimitz reported.

One American destroyer shot down a total of 19 Japanese planes on this one day, meriting mention in Nimitz' communique.

Navy search bombers again winged to the Korea area, sinking a coastal cargo ship and setting three cargo ships afire.

Aleutians-based Army Mitchels sank a small cargo ship and damaged two others in Kataoka harbor, Shimushu island, in the northern Kuriles. One Mitchell was lost.

Other bomb and rocket targets were radar installations on Minami cape, Shimushu island; Kashiwadara on Paramushiro; Truk and Yap in the Carolines, Kake and the Palaus.

Congratulations To:

Cpl. James Spencer Speaks Here Tonight

Cpl. James C. Spencer, 31, 1936 graduate of Texas Technological college and former state representative from Athens who has been a prisoner of war of the Japanese the past three years, will speak at the Asbury Methodist church tonight at 8 o'clock. His subject will be "Men of Bataan."

SPENCER

Cpl. Spencer, who went into the Army in October, 1940, was sent to the Philippines in September, 1941, and was among the heroic defenders of Bataan and Corregidor who were captured by the Japs early in 1942. He participated in the now historic Bataan "Death March" and was held prisoner in the Cabanatuan prison camp before being transferred to the notorious Bilibid prison where he was held from October, 1944, until his liberation by the famous "Rangers" in February, 1945.

Cpl. Spencer is a brother of Charles C. Spencer, postal employe, who resides at 2403 Twenty-third. His father, C. A. Spencer, of Athens, accompanied him on his visit here. He will be in Lubbock about a week.

World Conference

plete automony for the American system than accorded under the compromise, there was reported by those at the Latins' meeting a general understanding of the difficulties with which the formula had been worked out and agreement that the world organization must not be weakened.

Apparently approved by President Truman, it would allow individual nations to bind themselves together for mutual defense in case of attack. But it would keep for the security council the right to step into any regional dispute and take action against an aggressor.

Big Five Session

Chiefs of delegations of the Big-Five nations—China, France, Russia, Britain and the United States—met this afternoon to go over the American proposal and conference problems in general.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden of Britain was reported to have tossed in a suggestion that the regional security program be broadened somewhat. He was said to see a need, particularly as far as the Middle East is concerned, to grant regional systems more authority than the Americans proposed.

Apparently they were striving for harmony on all major conference issues now in prospect before British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden departs tomorrow for London.

Goes By Washington

Eden will travel by way of Washington, where presumably he will see President Truman.

One big world and territories seized from the enemy in both world wars under guardianship of members of the new league.

Both the British and Americans who largely have composed their own differences over trusteeships, now are reported taking a somewhat gloomy view of the chances for accord with Russia.

As some of them understand it, the Soviets would let the security council, rather than individual nations, designate strategic trustee areas and this might bring into play the ability of any one of the Big Five to veto council action on steps for keeping peace.

Vital Pacific Bases

The United States naturally would be hesitant to let Russia or anyone else control a decision on whether vital defense bases in the Pacific are strategic areas.

The committee vote on an 11-member security council was unanimous, although some countries abstained from balloting. The decision still must be ratified by a conference commission under which the committee operates and by the entire conference.

What it approved today was the original pattern for a security council drafted at the Dumbarton Oaks discussions by China, Britain, Russia and the United States.

Soviet Lend-Lease

there on the same scale would not now be necessary.

Other countries in Europe getting lend-lease are at war with Japan. Only Russia is affected by the embargo.

Russia was understood to have been notified of the development, but it was not known when. There was no indication whether she had made reply.

Cryptic Statement

The Crowley statement, somewhat cryptic in its failure to name Russia specifically, or to go into detail, was issued late tonight without additional explanation.

Whether it had any connection with this government's recent stiffened attitude on diplomatic questions, particularly the Polish issue, was not apparent. Because of the late hour, official reaction was lacking.

The action followed by a few hours pointed notice to Marshal Tito of this government's views toward territorial changes. Tito long has had Moscow support.

Avoids Implication

However, the fact that the statement came through Crowley's office and not from higher government levels, such as the State department or the White House, was seen as an effort to avoid the implication that the order is a slap at Moscow.

The lend-lease agreement with Russia is on a year-to-year basis. The last protocol, signed after long negotiations, was retroactive to July 1, 1944, and expires June 30, this year unless other arrangements are made. Since its terms have not been made public it is not known whether it automatically is extended.

DROOPING ISSUES RECOVER

NEW YORK, May 12 (AP)—Victory-in-Europe week, which witnessed a general stock market decline, ended today with substantial recoveries notably in rails and peace-rated industries.

Helpful to sentiment were further steps of the WPB to cut production goods manufacture. While reconversion doubters still were plentiful, even these seemed less apprehensive. Considerable short covering and reinstatement of commitments resulted.

Transfers of 560,000 shares compared with 930,000 in the previous short sessions.

Conspicuous on the upside were Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Goodyear, American Telephone, Standard Oil (NJ), Texas Pacific Land Trust, Douglas Aircraft, and Philip Morris.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was up .6 of a point at 64.5 but was down .8 on the week. Of 751 issues registering, 426 were up, 122 off and 203 unchanged.

Reorganization rail bonds tilted higher.

Cotton . .

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, May 12 (AP) — Cotton futures rallied into new seasonal high grounds today on aggressive trade and commission house buying along with local short covering. The advance was aided by a scarcity of offerings. Tightness of spot cotton and unfavorable crop news were steadying influences. There was some buying by spot firms in July against recent Spanish purchases of cotton.

Futures closed 10 to 80 cents a bale higher.

Jap Ship Losses

Japanese shipping losses in the aerial sweeps included two freighters left afire off Formosa, a 1000-ton freighter-transport and four river boats set afire and several luggers wrecked off China and a freighter and several schooners damaged in the Lesser Sundas.

The Australian drive on Wewak, Japanese base on the New Guinea east coast, was accelerated with the landing of 6th division units east of the city. Other units of the Aussie division are approaching Wewak from the east.

MacArthur said Royal Australian Navy and air units, and U. S. Army Air corps planes, supported operations in the Wewak sector.

The drive on Wewak, bypassed in earlier Allied offensives toward the Philippines, is aimed at seizure of the city and capture of airstrips.

Donald Nelson Resigns Post

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP) — Donald M. Nelson has resigned as White House representative to "other governments" and President Truman has named Edwin A. Locke, jr., to carry on his work in China.

Locke was Nelson's executive assistant on his missions to China, Russia, England and Australia.

The resignation of Nelson, former Sears Roebuck executive who left the chairmanship of the War Production board to take over various special diplomatic assignments for the late President Roosevelt, is effective May 15.

Nelson organized a War Production board for China and left it in the hands of assistants some weeks ago.

Nelson submitted his resignation April 16, but it was not accepted then. He later repeated it verbally, White House officials said, and Mr. Truman accepted it.

One Person Survives Sinking Of Jap Ship

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP) — The State department today said it had notified Japan through the Swiss government that only one person survived the sinking of a Japanese ship believed to be the Awa Maru.

It identified the survivor as Kantaro Shimoda, 45, who said he was a steward on the Awa Maru, a Japanese relief ship returning to Japan after carrying supplies to Allied prisoners in Japanese occupied areas.

On April 11 the State department announced that the navy had informed it that an American submarine sank a Japanese ship on April 1 with "no lights or special illumination visible at any time" 40 miles off the estimated course the Awa Maru was supposed to be traveling.

Japan subsequently announced the ship had gone down with a number of high Japanese officials aboard, and lodged a protest with the American government.

Surrender Of German Submarines Reported

LONDON, May 12 (AP)—German submarines have been bobbing up in large numbers in the Atlantic and north Sea and at least ten have surrendered in British ports with five others standing by to be received, advices reaching London said.

While most of the submarines contacted were a considerable distance from American shores, some may make their way to the United States and Canada. (A Halifax dispatch said one U-boat was due to surrender at Shelburne, N. S., Sunday).

The London Star, quoting a German naval commander, said only grand admiral Karl Doenitz knew how many submarines Germany had in the Atlantic.

"We never knew because authorities did not want us to know how heavy our casualties were," the commander said.

Release Of Britons To Begin June 18

LONDON, May 12. (AP)—Morning newspapers announced today the first releases of men in the British armed services would begin June 18, but that demobilization in full would not begin until the end of the Japanese war.

The Daily Mail said the gradual release of men by classes meant that 500,000, most of them married, would be in civilian clothing by Christmas.

The first group to be released will include all men over 41 who were in the army before the middle of 1941.

War Points Up Stupendous Production By U. S. Flants

By JAMES D. WHITE
Associated Press Staff Writer

The strength that beat Germany was nearly five years in the building.

America's entry into the war at the time of Pearl Harbor saw this effort already uncertainly begun — moving toward goals then considered fantastic but long since outstripped in the greatest production feat the world has known.

The process was begun in the summer of 1940 with the program announced by President Roosevelt to make this country the "Arsenal of Democracy." He laid down goals which seemed astronomical—50,000 planes a year where we then were building 6,000, a two-ocean Navy; an Army of 1,725,000 men where we then had 250,000; critical items for an Army of 3,000,000, with a system of factories capable of supplying 4 million; a vastly expanded Merchant Marine to carry the weapons of war to the beleaguered democracies fighting the Axis.

Step-up Begins

By Pearl Harbor, planes were being produced at the rate of 2,000 a month; the two-ocean Navy, badly needed because of losses at Pearl Harbor, still had to be built — but the government had 11 of its own yards and 110 private yards busy with naval construction which already had launched the world's two most powerful battleships—the North Carolina and the Washington.

The Maritime commission shortly was able to launch a merchant ship a day, mostly tankers and the war-emergency Liberty ship—which was assembly-line produced on both coasts, the gulf and along inland waterways. These too were needed desperately because of the inroads which German submarines made on the merchant fleet carrying supplies to Britain and Russia.

At the time of Pearl Harbor 7,000,000 persons were employed in war work. A year later 17,500,000 were in the war plants.

In the first year the nation produced 49,000 planes, 32,000 tanks and self-propelled artillery pieces, 17,000 anti-aircraft guns larger than 20 millimeters, and 8,200,000 tons of merchant shipping. (Naval construction figures were secret). The Army grew to nearly 5,000,000 men, 1,000,000 of whom were already overseas.

Emphasis On Heavy Ships

By the end of 1943 a new plane was being delievered every 5 minutes, with a heavy bomber every 40 minutes. Total planes made during the year came to more than 85,000. Emphasis changed to heavier planes, such as the Flying Fortress, Liberator and the B-29 Superfortress designed to batter Japan.

In that year 19,000,000 tons of Merchant shipping slid down the ways—five ships a day. Conquest of the German U-boat enabled the builders to begin thinking about halting construction of the emergency Liberty ship and concentrate on the faster "Victory ship" in 1944.

The United States alone outproduced the Axis by 50 per cent during the year, spending 60 billion dollars to do it. It upped its sights for 1944 by 25 per cent and estimated the cost at 75 billion dollars.

The Navy had amassed more than 800 warships, half of them built in 1943. This did not include thousands of auxiliary craft and the program for 80,000 invasion vessels, one-third of which were built by the end of the year.

Plenty of Ammunition

The Army had enough rifle and machinegun ammunition to fire 2,000 rounds at every Axis soldier and enough artillery ammunition to lob 17 shells in his personal vicinity.

Thus began the next-to-last period of the war—the crest of production and war activity before victory. In April, 1944, the Army announced it had reached its peak strength of 7,700,000 men, while in July the Navy said it was nearing its peak of 3,700,000 men.

By May Lend-Lease contributions to the Allies had reached a total of more than 20 billion dollars worth of war goods and services. Half of this was in munitions.

Today's War Casualties

Pfc. Troy W. Bradford, 25, son of Mrs. J. Bradford of route 3, Luddock, died on Mindoro island April 10 after being admitted to the hospital with a severe gunshot wound in the chest. He was unconscious on arrival and died quietly after a few minutes, the family was advised. Pfc. Bradford had been overseas 18 months and in the service two years. Two brothers in the service are S 1/c Grady Bradford who has served in the Pacific two years and is here on a 30-day leave and AMM 2/c Eugene Bradford, who is attending specialist school at Kingsville. Other survivors are two more brothers, Jack and Jimmy Bradford, both of Lubbock and two sisters, Mrs. E. B. Quiette of Lorenzo and Mrs. W. L. Jordan of Lubbock.

BRADFORD

Pfc. Leonard Henley, 23, of 228 Paris Ave., son of Mrs. Lela Henley of Corcoran, Calif., was slightly wounded in action on Luzon April 12. He was inducted into the Army in October, 1942, and has been in overseas service since 1943. Pfc. Henley, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Florence of 1624 Third, had his basic training at Fort Lewis, Wash., and maneuvers training in California before going to the Pacific.

War Bond Drive

have our quota filled by May 30, date of the coming to Lubbock of the 'Here is Your Infantry' show," Hamilton said, "so that we can show those war veterans in the show that the home front is doing its share."

Infantry Show Coming

The infantry show, an awesome and thrilling spectacle, will be staged in Texas Tech stadium on the night of May 30, Memorial day.

To the 40-soldier company, members of which have been in the real thing when bullets flying over mean death instead of excitement for the crowds, the show is pretty tame stuff, but it will offer simulated fury of battle action to the thousands of spectators expected to throng the stadium for the show.

The average overseas time of the infantrymen in the show is 20 months each; their individual records range from five months to 53 months outside the States. Their combat theater ribbons are heavily encrusted with battle stars. Twenty-three of the 40 are native Texans. Unit members hold 34 special citations, including one Distinguished Service Cross, and thirteen Purple Heart wearers.

Appeal For E Bonds

The battle spectacle, with its terrible destruction of vital equipment and precious lives, is enacted by the infantry unit as a powerful appeal for greater E bond purchases in Texas' Seventh War loan. State war loan leaders predict that the tough goal of $168,000,000 in Texas, and the $1,700,000 in Lubbock county, will shrink to insignificance when those who are asked only to buy bonds who have witnessed this battle show.

Machine guns, automatic rifles, bazookas, grenades and flame throwers will be seen in action as the soldiers go through the task of disposing of a Japanese pillbox as one of the features of the show.

Bruce Craig is chairman of the "Here Is Your Infantry" show which County War Finance Chairman Neil H. Wright arranged to appear in Lubbock for the benefit of thousands of South Plains residents who have sons in combat areas in the Pacific.

KANSAS CITY, May 12 (AP)—A twin-engine Army training plane from the Army air base at Midland, Texas, crashed at the edge of the Missouri river near the Fairfax airport late this afternoon. The six men aboard escaped uninjured.

The plane crashed during a take-off from the Fairfax field and nosed into the river. The occupants waded ashore in waist-deep water.

Goering's Luncheon Episode Brings Bad Case Of Indigestion

DALLAS, May 12 (AP) — The luncheon Air Marshal Hermann Goering ate with commanding officers of the 36th division gave Texas a bad case of indigestion.

The Texas 36th division captured Goering last week. News stories from the front described a luncheon at which Goering reportedly ate with Maj. Gen. John E. Dahlquist and shook hands with Brig. Gen. Robert Stack.

Lt. Gov. John Lee Smith promptly and sharply criticized Gen. Dahlquist in a personal privilege speech in the Texas Senate.

That started a train of comment, pro and con. The Greenville (Tex) Herald complained Goering was treated like a privileged character, not like a war criminal.

Other Comment

Other unfavorable comment came from the Waco Times-Herald, the Galveston News, and other Texas newspapers.

The San Antonio Express said it was "unfortunate" Goering was photographed before the Texas flag. Saying the Lone Star banner is an honorable flag, the Express said, "a far more fitting background would be the piles of corpses his luftwaffe amassed in helpless communities."

On the other hand, Big. Gen. J. Watt Page, director of Selective Service in Texas, said "our American officers have proved they know what they are doing."

Others Defend Action

Others defending the action of the commanding officers were Brig. Gen. Arthur B. Knickerbocker, adjutant general, and Sen. James E. Taylor of Kerens, who served with the 36th division in Italy.

(The London News Chronicle agreed with the critical Texans. The London newspaper said editorially: "Once and for all, Hermann Goering is an evil, cruel murderer to whom justice must be done. Because he is fat, he is not kind; because he laughs, he is not merciful; by his record he is a criminal.")

Officials Set Safety Meetings Over State

AUSTIN, May 12 (AP)—In an effort to increase the efficiency of traffic courts, representatives from the Supreme court, the attorney general's department and department of public safety will hold meetings in every section of the state during May and June as part of a national program being sponsored in Texas by the Texas Safety association.

Chief Justice James P. Alexander of the Supreme court who will take part in the discussions, said "too often a traffic offender is hailed into a dingy office, arbitrarily fined without regard to his side of the story and hurriedly dismissed."

Places and dates of meetings include:

Wichita Falls June 19; Childress June 20; Amarillo June 21; Lubbock June 22.

South Plains Oil Development Activities

Wildcats In Cochran, Terry, Dawson And Lamb Are Watched Closely As They Approach 'Critical Stages'

OPERATIONS during the immediate future at wildcat oil explorations in southwest Cochran, southeast Terry, west-central Dawson and in east Lamb counties will be watched closely by the petroleum industry. Each of those projects are at, or rapidly approaching, "critical stages."

Stanolind Oil and Gas company's No. 1 Edwards, southwest Cochran county wildcat, in northwest quarter of section 13, block L, PSL survey, is showing for possible discovery of a new oil field from the San Andres—Permian lime.

Drillstem Test Taken

A drillstem test at 5,024-5,102 feet, open for one hour, and using a 5-8th-inch bottom-hole choke, recovered 360 feet of gas cut drilling mud, 720 feet of oil and gas cut mud, 540 feet of free oil, and 180 feet of oil cut with water.

Operator representatives had not been able to determine character of the water. Some observers believe it could be drilling water.

To Core Ahead

The project was to core ahead. Informed sources think the exploration can be completed for a fair producer and a new discovery. It is almost on the Cochran-Yoakum county line and about ten miles west of the closest production in the Slaughter field.

Woodley Petroleum company No. 1 Gunn, in section 7, block C-39, psl survey, in southeast Terry, had progressed under 4,818 feet in the San Andres lime, and was drilling ahead. It is looking for pay in that section and should find something in the next 200 feet.

Top of the San Andres was at 4,470 feet, on an elevation of 3,154 feet. Some geologists have contoured that point as being slightly higher than it had been expected. Operator representatives have not made any predictions as to what they think they will find — they of course hope to get oil.

Drilling Out Plug

The Texas Company No. 1 Higginbotham, west-central Dawson county prospector in labor 16, league 279, Hutchinson county school land survey, was drilling out plug on 7-inch casing which had been set at 5,734 feet, with 300 sacks of cement, over a total depth of 7,040 feet, in lime.

Operator had not reported any indications of oil, but a Schlumberger survey had been taken before the casing was set. When the plug is drilled out it is expected that a swabbing test will be undertaken on the 306 feet of uncased hole.

Bringing In Cable Tools

Hunt Oil company No. 1 Foust, east Lamb county wildcat in section 43, block B-1, Thompson survey, was bottomed at 5,877 feet, in dolomite, with 7-inch casing cemented at 5,864.49 feet with 200 sacks of cement.

The rotary drilling rig is being moved out and operator is to bring in a cable tool unit to drill out cement, and drill ahead. The project possibly will drill to around 7,000 feet, and may go deeper than that point.

Tucker Test Plugged Back

Humble Oil & Refining company No. 1 Tucker, in northwest corner of section 119, block A, Thompson survey, and an offset to the discovery well in the Anton field, had plugged-back from 6,032 feet, where it had tested for some oil and some water, to a new bottom at 5,910 feet, and was swabbing to clean out and test, after treating with 5,000 gallons of acid.

The plug-back was an attempt to eliminate the water.

Humble No. 1 Leftwich, in southeast corner of west half of section 32, block 1, Thompson survey, and a north outpost to the initial producer in the Anton area, had reached 3,835 feet, and was drilling ahead in dolomite.

Humble No. 1 Bagwell, in southwest corner of labor 25, league 673, State Capital Lands survey, 7,000-foot wildcat, about three miles southwest of Littlefield, in central-south Lamb county, had penetrated below 5,254 feet, in lime, and was continuing.

Bailey Test Down 8,500

El Paso Natural Gas company No. 1 West Texas Land & Mortgage company, in section 55, block A, MB&B survey, in northwest Bailey county, had reached 8,500 feet, in lime and was drilling ahead.

Stanolind No. 1 Slaughter, central Cochran county exploration in labor 49, league 101, Jeff Davis county school land survey, was bottomed at 10,839 feet, and according to unofficial, but reliable sources was in granite.

Operator had run a Schlumberger survey, and was to take a drillstem test. It is possible that the project will be abandoned shortly. It reported no shows of oil at any point. It had drilled through Ellenburger from around 10,383 feet, and had some water in that horizon.

Swabbing To Test

Texaco No. 1 Coble, west-central Hockley county prospective extension to the Levelland field, and in the northeast corner of labor 20, league 67, Hardeman county school land survey, was swabbing to test.

It treated at 4,800-60 feet, with a total of 10,000 gallons of acid in stages of 2,000 gallons, 4,000 gallons and 4,000 gallons, and on last test reported had recovered 60 barrels of oil and about 55 barrels of sludge. The well does not appear to be clearing up from the water and sediment and may have to be completed for about a 50-barrel per day pumper.

This development is two miles west of the initial producer in the Levelland area, which was finished for around 100 barrels per day pumping.

Rollins Under 5,755 Feet

George P. Livermore, Inc., No. 1 Rollins, in section 5, block P, EL survey, Northwest Lubbock county exploration to the lower Permian, at around 6,500 feet, had progressed under 5,755 feet, in lime.

Livermore No. 1 Wiese, in northwest Crosby county, in section 64, block C, D. and W. survey, was drilling ahead past 4,088 feet, in lime. It had reported no shows of oil. Slated destination to around 10,000 feet to test for Ellenburger production.

D. D. Feldman No. 1-A Edwards, in section 312, block 3, EL survey, in northwest Lynn county, was drilling ahead under 5,893 feet in lime, after completing a fishing job at 5,831 feet.

Preparing To Set Liner

Honolulu Oil Corporation No. 1 Richardson, in section 1,282, BS and F survey, in northwest Garza county, was on a total depth of 3,522 feet, fishing for a retainer. It had shown some oil and some water, and was preparing to set a liner to try to eliminate the water.

Honolulu No. 1 J. L. Hall, 440 feet from south and west lines of section 1,256, TT survey, and about one quarter of a mile north and the same distance east of a small pumper in the northwest Garza PHD field, had spudded early in the week, and at last report had reached 1,139 feet in redbeds and was drilling ahead.

TWO FLIERS KILLED

TEMPLE, May 12 (AP)—An explanation was sought today for the cause of an Army plane crash eight miles north of here which killed Lt. Gerald W. Whisler, Lampoc, Calif., and Cpl. Russ B. Blackburn, Temple, Tex.

FIRST GI LOAN APPROVED—Mr. and Mrs. Eldon L. Turner are shown above left signing their loan papers with Knox T. Thomas, secretary-manager of First Federal Savings and Loan Association, to mark the approval of the first loan in Lubbock to an ex-serviceman under the G. I. Bill of Rights. Turner's loan is for the construction of a four-room house shown right, at Ave. U and First street, on which he secured a loan of $3,508.75. Payments will be $21.21 a month plus insurance and taxes. Cost of the house included 300 feet of gas line extension. The house was constructed by the South Plains Construction Co., Jim Reid, manager and operator; materials from the Forrest Lumber company. Turner, a mechanic at Miller and Miller Motor Freight lines, received a medical discharge from the Army, Nov. 12, 1941, after serving 14 months and 17 days in the Quartermaster corps at San Antonio. He enlisted on Aug. 26, 1940.

Swank Club Bars 2 Combat Fliers In Regulation Garb

CALCUTTA, May 12. (AP)—Two veteran B-29 combat fliers have been fined by an Army courtmartial after a brawl that arose when their regulation uniforms were not considered fancy enough to admit them to the ballroom of the new U. S. Army officers' club at the Kanarni estates here.

A navigator paid $100 and a copilot $50.

The incident highlighted widespread dissatisfaction among India-Burma combat officers with the swank demanded before they can rub elbows with their rear area brethren at the Kanarni estates, under non-combat officer management.

The "battle of the bush jacket" comes in the now it can be told class, since steps hvae been taken to remove the main causes of dissatisfaction.

It began when the navigator and co-pilot, each with more than 400 hours of combat flight and three combat medals, arrived in town on leave and appeared at the Kanarni club in regulation cotton shirts, standard garb all over the theater of action.

They were barred and informed they must wear either tunics, which are out of question in Calcutta's Turkish bath climate, or bush jackets, a non-regulation sort of long-skirted Norfolk jacket for hot weather borrowed from the British and optional in this area. The brawl followed.

Combat officers had long complained that the bush jacket ruling virtually reserved the club, which cost plenty of money, for type-writer troopers who had a corner on available bush jackets.

Brig. Gen. Robert Neyland, commander of base section two, and other authorities here have held that the dress requirements contribute to better behavior.

The Kanarni management still is sticking to the bush jacket requirement, but has come down to the extent of putting in a stock of the jackets which outposted officers can rent for one rupee nightly.

Antiquated German Vehicles Make Traveling Slow Process

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Here is another installment in the prisoner-of-war diary of United Press War Correspondent Edward W. Beattie, Jr., who has been liberated.)

By EDWARD W. BEATTIE, JR.
United Press War Writer

BAINS LES BAINS, France—Arrived here 10 a. m. after a seven hour trip from Bourbenne. Lord alone knows what our average speed was but I do know after the first hour and three quarters we had finally reached a signpost which put us seven kilometers outside Bourbenne.

Everything goes wrong with these German convoys. The transport is hopelessly antiquated—either worn out German vehicles which have been rolling since the war started, French equipment built by slave labor since then, or weak-lunged little civilian cars stolen from the French which never were intended for such a job—and half the vehicles towing the other half most of the time.

There are constant breakdowns, constant arguments along the road, constant fear of air attack. The cars go along smothered with tree branches for the convoy from the air must look like a woods on the move. There is a tremendous number of roadblocks mostly consisting of big tree trunks notched together in log-cabin style and filled-in boulders. But only rarely do we see the necessary eighty-eights or other anti-tank guns to turn them into effective obstacles.

Almost No Artillery

In fact, this whole battle group is armed in a very hit-or-miss fashion. I've seen few tigers or panther tanks, only a handful of scout cars, and almost no artillery of any description.

Constantly along the road you pass troops wearily slogging eastward. Many carry panzerfausts and there are quite a lot of machine guns of all nationalities.

Lots of soldiers have managed to acquire bicycles but even these relatively fortunate people look awfully tired. There are great numbers of horsedrawn carts and the poor animals are in even worse shape than the men.

How the German army managed to extricate itself at all beats me. The truth of the matter obviously is that these men still are very fine soldiers and that they have had five years' toughening and conditioning which taught them all the answers.

Some Soldiers Radical

I've had plenty of opportunity to talk to soldiers all evening and into the night. Some of them are very radical and told me Germany's plight is due to her leaders who should be shot for betraying the people. The same men however were rabidly anti-communist and insisted Germany would fight to the last gasp against communism. They have little or no hatred for the Americans and British and think we should be fighting on their side.

On the basis of three days' talking thus far I am amazed at the extent of anti-communist feeling. It had been strong enough before the war around Berlin as a result of six years' Nazi propaganda. Now under wartime conditions it's absolutely overwhelming. I have not yet met a single German who is not convinced Germany is the world's only bulwark against the communist tide which, if they lose the war, will sweep across the Rhine to the English channel, through the British Isles, and eventually across the Atlantic.

Germans Fear Russians

These Germans think every Russian is an "eastern halfman" or "Asiatic subhuman" who destroys everything and that the Red army eats the landscape bare like a locust swarm as it passes.

It almost seems as though the Germans had talked themselves into a fear of Russia so strong that their fighting troops panic at the thought of the Red army, and I wonder whether this produces the best sort of defensive resistance.

I spent last night dozing in a car and have been asleep all day except for the brief laundering of two handkerchiefs and an extra pair of socks. Those and my toilet kit and musette bag were all I was able to save when captured. The guards let me play skat with them tonight and a couple of them gave me a few cigarets. It was pretty bad smoking tobacco. The guards are mostly middle-aged, and pretty blue in spirits.

ODT Leader Paints Bleaker Picture For Sports Future

THE SPORTS EYE

By Mack Turner

ABOUT a year ago, the Sports Eye was campaigning for a baseball school to start off the kids in Lubbock on the junior baseball program. The idea clicked, and the school was put on. It was worth every bit of the time and effort that went into it.

Today, the Sports Eye has another campaign, and this is the opening shot. We only hope it will be the shot heard throughout West Texas.

A year ago, the idea wouldn't work. But today, it is the logical idea for the next step, and we think Lubbock is ready for it. We talked to several of the outstanding leaders of baseball in the city about the idea, and they all agree with us.

There is still work to be done, but the first steps have already been made, to bring to Lubbock the first annual American Legion junior baseball tournament. The tournament will be held in Lubbock in June, as a tuneup for Legion teams throughout this country for their coming district tourneys.

A year ago, Lubbock was the only junior baseball team in West Texas. It went to the state tournament without firing a shot. But this year, the story is different. There are such towns as Borger, Amarillo, Littlefield, Levelland, Plainview, Lamesa, Wichita Falls, Odessa, San Angelo, Big Spring, Midland, and possibly others that have started the wheels rolling on the junior baseball plans.

The Sports Eye talked to Sam Rosenthal, prexy of the Lubbock Hubbers of the West Texas-New Mexico League (now a war casualty) and one of the outstanding backers of "anything baseball" in Lubbock.

Rosenthal offered us, through the Lubbock Professional Baseball club, that he would do everything possible for the kids, and he has done so. He has given equipment, and this year has promised the lights to bring the arc play to the kids.

Now the Lubbock Baseball club is willing to put up a suitable trophy to the winning club. The trophy will go to the American Legion post that sponsors the winner each year, and rotate until some post musters the power to win it three times in a row.

The tournament could become an annual affair, and in the future be played in the Lubbock Baseball park (to be built as soon as pro ball comes back to West Texas) and arranged on dates when the Hubbers are on the road.

We would like to hear response to this suggestion, and out of town teams are especially urged to let us hear from them. Also from towns we have not to date heard from.

WHILE still on the subject of junior baseball, don't forget that the American Legion boys, backers of the game in Lubbock, will be out Tuesday with Adult Baseball Booster cards, so be ready at the plate, and when a Legion salesman serves you a little blue card over the middle, bust it for a home run with a kickin to help along the game.

The Boosters club is a worthy project, and the boys deserve the help. The Legion, and other workers, have done a great job in putting something on the line for our kids, but it will take help from the pocketbooks of John Q. Fan.

CLEANING the cuff:

Had a letter from our good friend Coach Otis Coffey at Pampa last week. The Pampa Harvesters are wanting to fill their football schedule with Class AA teams this fall, and have a number of open dates. Any Class AA schools having an open date on Sept. 28, Oct. 5, Oct. 19, or Nov. 2 are urged to get in touch with Coach Coffey. The Harvesters were District 1-AA champions two years ago, and runnerups last year.

Had a phone call Friday from our good friend Jack Woodard on the Plainview Evening Herald, inviting us to come up Friday night and see their game with the Exes as the close of the Bulldogs spring grid camp. Sorry we couldn't take him up, but thanks for the invitation.

We want to congratulate Charles Pressley on his appointment as captain of the Westerners. We have known Charles as long as we have been in Lubbock, and we couldn't have picked a better man for a big job than the coaches did in picking Pressley.

Heard from our old friend Burl Gene Moore, the Blonde Comet. Mrs. Moore, the former Betty Rountree, was on the sidelines at the Western-er-Exes ball game Friday afternoon. Burl Gene is stationed at St. Petersburg, Fla., with the Merchant Marines, and expecting daily to get shipping orders. His only running this year has been over the obstacle courses in his Marine training.

Had another letter this week from "Admiral" Price, former coach of the Lubbock Cowhands. One of us is going to have to get together on who wrote who last, but he now has the better of the argument. Howard wants us to prod Coach Dixie White into writing him, and sending along the sports news from home. Most of the present Westerners are Howard's Cowhands of a couple of years ago. Admiral reports lots of baseball play around him, and having a big time. Also reports a lot of the old grunt and groan artists, well known to Lubbock fans, are showing around San Diego, naming Trout, McShain and Webber.

I'll be seeing you.

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—Sports will "be lucky" to play out regular schedules this summer and fall unless Japan quickly folds up, relieving the burden on transportation, says ODT Director J. Monroe Johnson.

It already has been demonstrated in redeployment following Germany's defeat, Johnson said today, that the "impact on sports like everything else will be terrific."

What Johnson Expects

Going over the sports situation in an interview, Johnson commented that:

There is "no possibility" of the all-star major league game being played:

The Kentucky Derby, Preakness, Belmont stakes and other horse racing headliners will be conducted on a "trolley car" basis;

The World Series cannot be held unless both pennants are won in one city as St. Louis did last season;

Bowl football games "simply will be out of the question" along with the college all-star game in Chicago and similar contests;

All college football games must be played on the "home" field of one of the competing teams. This includes the Army-Navy game, played in Baltimore last season as a war loan feature.

"And even if Japan quits by next September, it will be about six months before we recover enough to help anybody," Johnson said. "The only hope is for the Japanese to see the light in the next six weeks or so."

Hard Blow To Sports

Johnson's remarks struck the sports world like a bucket of cold water.

With the lifting of the ban on racing, recession of the War department's regulations on 4-F professional athletes and easing of other government restrictions, athletic leaders had felt more optimistic about the future than at almost any other time during the war.

"Everything not dedicated strictly to the war will have to get out of the way and we haven't got time to argue," Johnson emphasized.

"No one would be happier than I if we could cut out all wartime travel restrictions," he said, "but the brutal, inescapable fact is that due to greater transportation demands ahead we must be prepared for further curtailment."

The Pacific Coast will be "a particularly acute area" in this country's redeployment of armed forces and some football games out there besides the Rose Bowl "may be out," Johnson added.

Referring to savings already made by sports, with organized baseball taking the lead, Johnson remarked "that is a mere bagatelle."

Hunt Pioneers Take Honors In Play Day

Hunt's Pioneers carried away the top honors of the day in the annual Lubbock grade school Play Day program at Chapman field, amassing 37 1-6 points to top the field in all events.

The Wilson Wranglers and Central Ward Spurs pressed them close most of the way, and ended up in a second place tie with 31 1-6 points.

The Hunt boys nosed out Central Ward for the top honors in the boys division, while the Hunt girls were gaining second honors, trailing the Wilson girls to the wire. Hunt's boys gained 19 1-6 points, two points ahead of Central Ward. The Wilson girls first place was gained with 22 points to 18 for Hunt.

The Dupre Dogies won the boys volleyball championship, while the Hunt girls added another victory to the chain, winning the girls volleyball title. Dupre won over Guadalupe, 37-28, and Hunt won from Bean, 41-28.

In the softball exhibitions, two good games were unreeled, with the Hunt boys nosing out the Dupre Dogies in a well played 4-3 game. The Hunt girls made softball a clean sweep by winning over Central Ward, 8-5.

In the rope skipping events, honors were well divided. Wilson and Sanders won the rope skipping relays, run in two races, and Rowena Bittick of Hunt won the rope skip.

Sanders won the over and under ball relay.

Gloria Lewis of Wilson carried off the honors in the girls track meet, winning the 25 yard dash, the 50 yard dash and the standing broad jump. Jackson of Hunt and St. Clair of Bean tied for first place in the high jump, while Central Ward's Pendley and Ivey won the 3-legged race.

In the boys events, Wayne Stroud of Hunt was the only double winner, romping to first places in the 25 and 50 yard dashes.

Central Ward's 440 yard relay team of James Hayes, Allen McBride, Don Jones and James Fortenberry came from behind to win this event.

K. Carter had two winners in Dunlap in the high jump, and Ray Houston in the boys rope skipping. Joe Boyd of Wilson topped the chinning the bar honors.

RACE DATES SET

NEW YORK, May 12. (AP)—With Col. Matt Winn picking June 9 at the date for the 71st running of the Kentucky Derby, the big three of the turf will be decided in this order:

Kentucky Derby — June 9 at Louisville.

Preakness — June 16 at Baltimore.

Belmont Stakes — June 23 at New York.

Dallas Open To Start Sept. 6

DALLAS, May 12. (AP) — The Southwest's richest golf tournament—a $10,000 Open that will become an annual affair in Dallas—was announced today for Sept. 6, 7, 8 and 9.

Sponsored by the Salesmanship club of Dallas, the tournament, which replaces the Texas Victory Open, will be for the benefit of a children's recreation camp here. The Victory Open was held in 1943 and 1944.

The tournament, approved by the National Professional Golfers association, will have a limit of 150 entries. Amateurs will participate only upon invitation.

The recreation camp, established on the shores of Bachman's lake, was opened in 1921. It was closed in 1942 because of the infantile paralysis epidemic and has been occupied the past two years by a non-commissioned officers club for the Fifth Ferrying Group here.

The recreation camp will be reopened and will be operated from profits of the tournament.

The tournament will be held at the Dallas Country club, scene of the first Texas Victory Open. The 1944 Open was at Lakewood Country club.

Texas Not To Be Ruled Out For Using Culp

DALLAS, May 12. (AP)—The Southwest Conference faculty committee ruled today that the University of Texas baseball team would not be penalized for having used Henry Culp, who was charged as having player professional baseball before entering college.

Investigation of Culp, now with Memphis of the Southern Association where he went after having pitched one victory for Texas in the conference baseball race, was instituted by Bruce Layer, sports editor of the Houston Post. It came to Layer's attention from a former professional ball player.

Layer wired Judge W. G. Bramham, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues, who replied that Henry E. Culp had been with La Fayette of the Evangeline League and Osceola of the Northeast Arkansas League in 1937 and with Henderson of the East Texas League and Harlingen of the Rio Grande Valley League in 1938.

D. X. Bible, University of Texas athletic director, said every effort had been made to determine Culp's eligibility. It was on this basis that the conference committee ruled there would be no penalty against the university.

Texas is now leading the conference baseball race.

Mustangs Ready For Spring Grid Session

DALLAS, May 12. (AP)—Thirty days of spring football practice opens at Southern Methodist university Tuesday with a squad of 40 due to report to Coach H. N. (Rusty) Russell.

Russell listed only one newcomer of experience on his squad. He is Cedric Lipke, a guard from Thomas Jefferson High school of San Antonio. He expects a number of high school stars to enroll either July 1 or Sept. 1.

There are now 13 lettermen on the squad but several of them may be called to the service or transferred in the Naval training program before football season opens.

Athletic director James H. Stewart today announced completion of the 1944 schedule by addition of Eagle Mountain Lake Marines for Sept. 22 and North Texas Agricultural college for Sept. 29. The schedule includes intersectional games with Missouri, Oklahoma A. and M. and Tulane and games with the six other Southwest Conference schools.

TILDEN WINS AGAIN

FERNDALE, N. Y., May 12 (AP)—Big Bill Tilden beat Vinnie Richards, 6-1, 6-2, in a tennis exhibition at the Grossinger Country club today. Afterwards Tilden's racquet was auctioned off for $15,000 in war bonds and Richards' for $10,000.

SPORTS SALUTE TO MOTHERS — Behind the feats of every athlete is the guiding hand of a mother, and on this day when all the world pays tribute to mother, a special tribute goes to the pair above. Miss Freda Walker, regular forward of the Meadow High school basketball team last year, and member of the tennis doubles team that went to the regional meet, carried on the family tradition started by her mother, Mrs. Lee Walker, who as Miss Alleta White was a member of the first girls basketball team, and one of the most famous at Meadow. Freda is the third of four daughters who has carried on the family tradition at Meadow, preceded by Alma and Joyce, and another, Lee Nell, now eight, looks forward to her chance to carry on. Members of that first team are now scattered throughout West Texas, but this family still carries on the banner.

Texas Longhorns Take Top Honors In Track And Field

DALLAS, May 12 (AP)—The University of Texas swept up seven first places and a tie for another today to win the thirtieth annual Southwest Conference track and field meet—the nineteenth title for the Longhorns and the sixteenth in twenty four years of coaching by Clyde Littlefield.

The Orange rolled up 79 1/12 points, 32 more than second place Texas A. and M. Rice was third with 30, Arkansas fourth with 14½ and Southern Methodist fifth with 5 1/3. Texas Christian also competed but did not score.

The Aggies pulled down four firsts and a tie for another with their Roy Holbrook the high-point man of the day with 10¾. Holbrook won the 440-yard dash by three yards over Guy Groves of Rice, took the half-mile easily and ran on the second place mile relay team.

Upsets were scattered through the program of close finishes in most events. Andy Shurr, Texas' top sprinter, was beaten in both dashes—in the 100 by Rice's George Walmsley and in the 220 by his teammate, Earle Collins, a surprise winner, and Walmsley.

C. P. Kegans of Texas, top favorite in the Javelin throw, tied for the high jump but injured an arm and was unable to compete in the other event in which Ocie Richie of Arkansas came through with first place.

Rice grabbed off three first places, Arkansas one and Southern Methodist a tie for one.

Lubbock Army Air Field To Play 30-Game Baseball Card

With some of the toughest service team opposition in the state on the diamond schedule, Lubbock Army Air Field's Fliers this week head into a series of week-end tussles that continue through August.

In some ways the schedule resembles that which baseball fans of the area formerly looked forward to back in the days when the old West Texas-New Mexico league was going strong. AAF teams from Pampa, Amarillo, Big Spring, Wichita Falls and Midland, all towns which formerly fielded teams in the old WT-NM circuit at one time or another, are on the schedule for home and home games against the Fliers.

Also Involves Others

In addition, several other top notch clubs will appear in the city against the Fliers, including teams from Pyote AAF, Childress AAF and Hobbs AAF, which already holds one 18 to 7 decision over the LAAF club, chalked up last week.

The schedule as announced by Lt. Joe B. Holmes, athletic director at LAAF, includes 30 games, all to be played on week-ends with the exception of a July 3-4 holiday double bill with Hobbs.

The team is working under the direction of Staff Sgt. Sam West, well known Lubbock resident and for 16 years a major league player with the Browns, White Sox and Washington. This is the first team the Fliers have put on the field since 1943 when the club played a full schedule with a mediocre performance for the season.

Shows Promise

However, with a little more experience this year's team shows promise of winning a few games. The big problem, as usual, is on the mound but Saturday's performance by Johnny Davis in stopping a classy Goodfellow AAF team was somewhat better than expected.

Some of the games booked thus far are only tentative, but if they do not materialize, other teams will be added. Other games may be added to the present schedule also it was indicated.

This week-end the Fliers journey to Pampa to take on the Pampa AAF squad and the next week-end play host to the powerful Amarillo AAF Sky Giants at the LAAF field.

The LAAF schedule, all against AAF teams, as announced thus far:

May 19-30—At Pampa; May 26-27—Amarillo here; June 2-3—Big Spring here; June 9-10—Pampa here; June 16-17—Childress here; June 23-24—At Amarillo; June 30-July 1—Pyote here (tentative); July 3-4—At Hobbs; July 7-8—Midland here (tentative); July 14-15—Sheppard Field here (tentative); July 21-22—at Pyote (tentative); July 28-29—At Pampa; Aug. 4-5—at Midland; Aug. 11-12—at Sheppard Field (tentative); Aug. 18-19—Pampa here.

LAAF Rolls To Win In Opener

Lubbock Army Air Field put together some timely hitting and good pitching Saturday afternoon to defeat Goodfellow field, 10 to 5, and take a lead in their two-game series.

The two teams square off again at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon, again on the Post diamond. Paul Bodde will hurl for the Fliers and Earl Burnworth, who tossed for Independence, Kas., AAF last year, will toil for the visitors.

Johnny Davis hurled steadily for the locals Saturday and except for two innings in which he weakened and his infield erred often, he held the Skyhawks in check. Curtis Elwood did the big stickwork for LAAF, collecting a home run and two singles, while Davis contributed a homer, and single to his own cause. Johnson blasted a round-tripper for Goodfellow.

Both Score Early

Davis would have had a shutout until the eighth had not a first inning double play attempt missed fire. After Frank Kava walked, Bill Dauscher grounded to LAAF thirdbaseman Frank Janda, who tossed to second in time to get Kava, but Leon Mangold overthrew first base.

In the second inning Joe Billy started a fast double play that got the LAAF twirler out of trouble.

The Fliers started their scoring in the second frame, when Janda singled to right, Lilly walked and Davis poked one through shortstop for a hit. In the third, Frank Vecchio was passed, Arnie Teusink sacrificed and both he and Vecchio were safe. Elwood got the first of his three hits, a single to right to count Vecchio, then he and Teusink scored on Os Wilhite's single after Janda had walked. Janda went to third on the throw-in and scored while Goodfellow pitcher Arthur Paul tossed Davis out at first.

LAAF Rallies In Sixth

Wilhite got a life on an error in the fifth and scored ahead of Davis, whose long home run clout went between the left and center fielders.

The Fliers came back with three runs in the sixth. Vecchio doubled, Teusink sacrificed him to third and Elwood poled one over the centerfielder for his homer. Janda then walked and scored on Wilhite's two-bagger.

The Skyhawks scored four times in the seventh on two singles, Johnson's home run and four miscues.

Davis had the eight hits he allowed well spaced, no two coming in one ining except in the seventh. George Dienes went to the hill for the visitors in the seventh and let the Fliers down with one hit.

It was the first victory for LAAF in this young season and was Goodfellow's opening gesture for 1945.

Buster McRae, 83, vs. Keith Newman, 79; Jimmy Sexton, 87, vs. Floyd Stevenson, 85; Neil Sikes, 95, vs. Roy Alley, 97; Willie Gleatin, 109, vs. Wendell Conditt, 100; Robert Ferguson, 114, vs. Bobby Griffin, 115; Norman Lindsey, 121, vs. Herbert Puryear, 121; Bobby Ledbetter, 135, vs. E. A couple of fast paperweight exhibitions resulted in a decision for George Bankston over Jimmy Alley, while Jimmy Jackson and Tommy Moore fought to a fast draw.

Japs Facing 'Total Blackout' As Allies Set To Unleash Real Power

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press News Analyst

A vastly agumented aerial attack apparently faces Japan at a time when there are pronounced signs of the collapse of her ability to meet even the present-scale American bombing forays in critical areas.

SIMPSON

This becomes evident on the heels of a statement by high American air officers in Europe predicting the early arrival in Japanese skies of Allied bombers by the thousands, instead of by the hundreds.

Nowhere, except in virtually futile suicide assaults on shipping off Okinawa is the Japanese air force giving effective opposition, not even over Japan itself.

Giant Raid Without Loss

The mass raid on Japanese home oil storage installations, estimated to have involved up to 400 Superfortresses, was made without loss or indicated damage to a single ship by enemy action. In the Burman theater in China, most critical for Japanese hopes of retaining the China-Indo China communications corridor, American observers at the 14th Air Force base, Chihyiang, report no enemy air echelons supporting ground troops routed by a Chinese counterattack closely coordinated with General Chennault's airmen.

Farther south, American press observers in Calcutta note that in recaptured Burma, in French Indo-China and even on the Malay peninsula the campaign of Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten to open the western approaches to the China sea is taking shape with little Japanese air interference.

Enemy Planes Very Few

It is estimated by the Allies that not more than 400 enemy combat planes are available for duty in all that vast stretch of territory in process of redemption from enemy hands. Japanese air power ceased months ago to be a factor in the fighting in the Philippines. It has so far offered no substantial opposition to the steady air blasting of Formosa, Nipponese China sea Gilbraltar.

So far as current field reports from any sector of the war in the Pacific go, it would seem that Japan is facing the terrible ordeal of miss air bombardment virtually undefended from above as Allied power shifts from Europe for that purpose. On her home islands as well as her remaining island or mainland outposts, she is all but roofless under the brewing storm.

Commencement exercises will be held the following Tuesday night, Struggs said.

In 1820, approximately 82 per cent of all persons in the United States ten years old and older, gainfully employed, were working on farms.

U. S. Public Is Critical Of Plan To Unionize Foremen

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J.—One of the questions now being widely discussed in labor and management circles is whether or not foremen should organize into a union.

The whole question was pointed up recently by a decision of the National Labor Relations board that foremen may organize into a union which will be recognized as a bargaining agent under the Wagner Labor Relations act.

GALLUP

Before this decision, the Foremen's Association of America was organizing foremen without being recognized as a bargaining agent under the Wagner act, because of an earler decision by the NLRB ruling that foremen could not be certified as an appropriate collective bargaining unit under the Wagner act.

In order to discover what public opinion at this stage in the discussion might be, the Institute had more than two hundred field reporters in carefully selected areas question people in all walks of life about the issue. The results point up these salient facts:

1. Fewer than three in every ten (28%) among the adult population in this country say they have heard or read anything about the question of foremen joining a union.

2. Among this small, informed group, a majority disapproves the idea of foremen becoming members of a union.

3. When everyone, including those familiar as well as those not familiar with the issue, are questioned on the principle, the weight of opinion continues to be against having foremen join unions.

4. Labor union people, on the other hand, favor having foremen join a union by a majority of 56 per cent to 27 per cent opposed. Among labor union people familiar with the question, sentiment is about two to one in favor of foremen joining a union.

These facts are based upon replies to this question:

"At the present most sl.op foremen in factories are not members of a labor union. Do you think they should or should not become members of a labor union?"

The vote of the nation:

Think they should	29%
Think they should not	41
No opinion	30

The vote confined to the 28 per cent who are familiar with the issue:

Think they should	35%
Think they should not	51
No opinion	14

The vote of labor union people:

Think they should	56%
Think they should not	27
No opinion	17

GETS CORSET BILL

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (U.P.)—The Indiana Chamber of Commerce found out where the $10 corset charged to them came from. One of the secretaries there purchased the article, and when asked her address, gave the Chamber of Commerce as that where she received her mail. She said that the clerk probably misunderstood her and charged it to the Chamber instead. She was very embarrassed about the publicity—so was the Chamber.

RANGE FINDERS ACCURATE

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (U.P.) — The Navy's largest range finder, long enough to span the gun turrets of our biggest warships, contain 1,500 mechanical parts and as many as 135 optical parts, its manufacturer, Bausch & Lomb Optical Co., revealed. The optical prisms must be accurate to one-half second of an arc, allowing an angular deviation of only one inch in six and one-half miles.

Iron women of the Middle Ages wore brooches of the ring type, in which the pin was held in place by the fabric through which it passed.

Philip Wylie once wrote a 100,000 word novel in nine days while crossing the Atlantic.

During World War I, production of farm tractors increased more than tenfold.

BARGAIN. Baby beef type turkey eggs. Luther Green, 1 mi. N. Keeton Pkg. Co. Dial 2-9968.

THANKS FARMERS IN BEHALF of our boys in the armed forces, we wish to thank you for the way you responded to our plea for large clean grade A eggs. Because of your patriotic cooperation, we have been able to get their eggs to them much faster than could have been possible otherwise. We still have many more war department orders to fill, and the government is looking to you to help us meet our increased quotas.
If you haven't heard of the way that you can make more money, and still be helping our soldier boys, ask your neighbor, or we will give you the information. Your large clean grade A eggs are still desperately needed. Thanks again.

IRRIGATION FARM FOR SALE CLOSE IN AND A BARGAIN
150 acres of fine land, located about 7½ miles out of Lubbock on pavement. A very fine irrigation well, fair improvements. This is a real investment. All mineral rights go. 68 acres produced 92 bales of cotton in 1944, and the feed crop was equally as good. The owner received over $3,000.00 in rents. Considering the distance from town, the possibilities of oil and the fine land, this is a bargain at $140.00 per acre. Mr. Investor, this is your chance to own a close-in farm.

Plans Outlined For Scout Camp

Plans have been announced for the summer Boy Scout camps to be held from June 2-23 at Camp Post. Alex McDonald, South Plains council camping chairman, announced that plans for improving the camp are being completed and that wells are being drilled to obtain water for the swimming pool to be built on the camp site.

Scouts and leaders from Bailey, Lamb, Lubbock and Dickens counties will use the camp from June 3-9; from Dimmitt, Swisher, Briscoe, Hale, Floyd, Crosby and Motley counties June 10-16 and from Cochran, Hockley, Yoakum, Terry, Borden, Lynn, Garza, Gaines and Dawson counties June 17-23. The camp opens to these groups on Sunday afternoons and closes Saturday of their respective weeks.

Camp Qualifications

Registered Scouts and their leaders are eligible to use the camp. No individual Scouts will be admitted; they must all come as a troop under adult leadership. Troops with tents who pay their fee before May 26 will pay seven dollars for each Scout. Troops without tents must pay $7.25 for each Scout. If the fees are paid after May 26, an additional 25 cents will be charged for each Scout.

Scouts must have a physical examination before coming to the camp and will bring their own bedding, toilet articles, dishes and scouting equipment. Leadership will be under the direction of the Rev. John Winslow of St. Paul's Episcopal church with a staff of qualified leaders including a member of the executive office.

Activities Program

Activities will include campfires, hikes, Indian lore, marksmanship, archery, games, opportunities to pass advancement, handicraft, grand coue, and Order of the Arrow. In addition each troop will help to teach a camping skill. No swimming will be possible this year, however, unless rains fill Two-Draw lake before the camping season.

Advance registrations have been brisk and indicate a large attendance, McDonald said.

Bear-baiting, once a popular English sport, was prohibited by Parliament in 1835.

Petersburg Class Graduated Friday Night; Williams Talks

PETERSBURG, May 12. (Special)—Thirty seniors of Petersburg High school received diplomas at commencement exercises Friday night following an address by Jeff Williams, a Chickasha, Okla., lawyer, and widely known speaker and Rotary International worker.

Williams, who has travelled approximately 150,000 miles in the last five years speaking to audiences in America and foreign countries, warned the graduates that they were entering a "crazy old world." He said the civilized world is at war while the natives dwell in peace. "This world is no place for sissies. You are entering a highly competitive field in view of the eight or nine million men soon to return to civilian life."

Veterans Have Priority

The speaker reminded the graduates that veterans would have priority over them in securing jobs. "Therefore, you seniors will have to be good."

Juanita Bell gave the valedictory address and Arthur Hegi, highest ranking boy, presented the salutatory address. Jo Dell Pharr was salutatorian of the class.

Juanita Bell presented a piano solo and Mrs. Weldon Boyd and Mrs. C. E. Martin sang a duet. Mrs. H. Wiese played the processional and recessional. Kenneth Robinson presented diplomas to the graduates; Rayburn Mason presented the senior gift, a clock and signal system and Leroy Saul presented awards made by the Petersburg Business Men's club. Receiving the awards and scholarships were Peggy Ann Kinkner, David Porterfield, Marjorie McAdams, Juanita Bell and Arthur Hegi.

The speaker was introduced by Sidney Reeves, superintendent. Benediction was said by Oran Martin. Two seniors receiving diplomas who are in the armed forces were Kindred Underwood and Carl Wayne Rambo.

Blood Diverted From Europe To Pacific

GUAM, May 12. (AP)—Whole blood donated by New Yorkers and originally consigned to Paris was believed here to be the first war supply item freed from European assignment to reach the Pacific theater.

A shipment of 216 pints arrived at Guam today and was hurried to battlefronts in the Philipines and Okinawa.

The blood was from New York City and Brooklyn Red Cross centers. Guam addresses were superimposed on cancelled Paris labels.

Thirty-Nine Yanks Freed From Japs In Rangoon Prison

RANGOON, May 12. (AP) — Twenty U. S. Army Air force officers and 19 enlisted men, abandoned by the Japanese as unfit to walk away from the Rangoon central prison, were evacuated May 4 by the 15th Indian corps which had occupied the Burma capital the night before.

With the Americans left behind were 29 British officers. Seventy-five other American officers and men were among 400 prisoners of war marched away by the Japanese April 25 in a withdrawal northward toward Insein, where most if not all were believed rescued by troops of the British 14th army.

Sgt. Major John Finnerty, 30, of Eire, a member of the Royal Innis-killing fusiliers who had spent three years and 14 days at the prison said the Japanese used "refined torture" methods on the prisoners.

1,000 Prisoners Died

The Irishman said in three years 1,000 prisoners had died of beriberi and dysentery.

On April 29, the prisoners said, the Japanese guards ordered "lights out"—although there never had been any lights. The next morning the guards were gone and the prisoners found a note in which the guards said they were afraid they had not treated the prisoners very well, adding "if we meet on another front we must all fight bravely."

American prisoners rescued from the Japanese at Rangoon included:

Texas: Lt. Aaron L. Bearteen, Houston; Lt. S. D. Garrett, Nacogdoches; Lt. Clifton Leon Bray, San Antonio; Capt. Robert C. Shanks, jr., Grand Prairie and T/Sgt. Ernest S. Quick, Houston.

Transfer Of B-29 School Cancelled

FORT WORTH, May 12 (AP)—Army Air forces training command headquarters announced here today cancellation of an order which would have transferred the B-29 engineers' school from Lowrey field at Denver to Sheppard field at Wichita Falls.

The command said it had not been decided whether to leave the school at Lowrey field or transfer it to some location other than Sheppard field.

MOTHER'S DAY 1945

"Thankful for Small Blessings..."

She is thankful—for a snug place to live, for the bounty of the land which feeds her well, for all the years behind her in which she had her share of youth and romance, of crises survived, of children born and reared. She is thankful—for the degree of good health she still enjoys—for the capacity for laughter with which she was endowed—for the clear mind with which she sees the present struggle and which helps her calmly bear the fact that her first born faces death on the battlefield even as she prays for his safety. She is thankful—asking only that she be spared to share in the Victory; to welcome home her son to her tender mother-arms: to live her remaining years in peace and security.

This is MOTHER—to whom we so reverently pay tribute today.

Fuehrer's Private Life Well Concealed

Hitler's Safe Contains Only 12 Copies Of "Mein Kampf"

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER
Associated Press Staff Writer

MUNICH, May 12.—There were disappointed faces in the U. S. 179th infantry when one of its mechanics opened Hitler's safe in his private home on Aussere Prinz Regenten Strasse today.

Instead of the expected documents — possibly even the fuehrer's will — they found only 12 copies of the first edition of "Mein Kampf," most of them autographed. Otherwise there was not a scrap of paper in the safe.

But under the residence was found one of the most modern and bombproof cellers in all Germany. The shelter, according to the caretaker, was constructed only after the war began. Seven inch steel plates, embedded in four-feet thick concrete, made up the ceiling. Every room was separated from the next by steel doors. There was a modern little electric kitchen, a small but comfortable bedroom and several small underground living rooms.

Deceit Is Revealed

The more one studies Hitler's various hideouts, the more one realizes how deceitfully official propaganda built him up as a simple man of the people, whose personal wants were the most modest and whose every hour was so concentrated upon Germany's welfare that he had no time for private life.

Unknown to most residents of Munich, he had maintained his sumptuous private residence here since 1929 while pretending to live either at Reichschancellery in Berlin, the mountain retreat or Obersalzberg, above Berchtesgaden, or in the pretentious so-called Fuehrerbau on Munich's Koenigsplatz.

An example of the ignorance concerning Hitler's private home was given me when I searched for this hideout. I mistakenly went to a street within the confines of the old part of the city known as Prinz Regenten Strasse, instead of the street by the same name beyond the Isar river, prefixed by the word "Aussere," meaning outer.

People Ignorant Of Place

Nobody in the old section to whom I spoke had even heard of the private Hitler dwelling. Everybody referred me to the Fuehrerbau.

Like everything affecting Hitler, the private dwelling had costly furnishings, large rooms, modern gadgets and expensive paintings.

The contents of the spacious library, I was told, had been removed by intelligence officers for study.

In this house there were both a painting and bust of his niece, Geli Rabaul.

She was reported to have committed suicide in her bed room in this dwelling soon after Hitler's accession to power because she was jilted by her uncle. However, the story that Hitler strangled her in a fit of passion never died.

Original Furnishings Remain

Her bedroom appeared to still have the original furnishings. Two American soldiers are now living in it.

Hitler's bedroom struck me as effeminate, except that the couch-like bed was exceptionally hard. The upholstery of the couch and chairs had delicate, light colors such as the average man would not choose. The dresser, night table, stove and tiling were all white. On the linens the initials "A. H." were embroidered.

Only a few minutes from Hitler's retreat is the home of the much-discussed Eva Braun. After an inspection and a talk with the caretaker there I must revise my previous opinion on one phase of Hitler's life, namely, his relationship to women.

At Eva Braun's house I felt convinced there was some sort of bond between the fuehrer and the former photographer's assistant. Hitler had a passion for art and architecture. Her library has many books on the subjects.

Entertained Hitler's Friends

She appears to have entertained many of Hitler's personal friends, who then sent her books with inscriptions saying how much they enjoyed her hospitality.

But Hitler apparently sometimes gave her books intended for himself. I found a volume on the life of the composer Eugen D. Albert, by Wilhelm Raupp, with the author's dedication to Hitler.

An oil painting of Eva Braun showed a blue-eyed, blonde, Gretchen-type of Teutonic maiden.

The appointments of the house, which the housekeeper said Hitler had given to Eva, were in good taste. Nobody seems to know her present whereabouts.

Winners Named In 4-H Contest

Winners in the annual Sear's 4-H club cow-hog-hen program essay contest in Lubbock county were determined Saturday by a three-man judging committee with Cecil Carlile, Frenship; Joe Jack Reynolds, Roosevelt; Gene Lasater, Roosevelt; and John L. Musgrove, Idalou awarded the prizes.

Headed by Manuel W. Ayers, assistant county agent, the essay contest was staged in the county with contestants entering articles on "Advantages of the Cow-Hog-Hen Plan of Farming." One pure bred registered gilt will go to each of the individual winners, coming from a litter of last year's winners. An agreement will be signed by present winners to donate one gilt of their litter for the prize next year.

Gilts will be awarded by May 26 and be cared for under the direction of the county agent's office. A show will be staged in October to determine the county winners, and later in the month a district meet, composed of seven counties, will be staged. Dairy heifers will go to district winners.

The contest was judged by Fred Worsham, farmer near Frenship; Fred Kveton, farmer from near New Deal; and Billy Joe Evans, 4-H club boy from Shallowater, who gave 40 per cent credit to the essay submitted, and practical demonstrations in following out presented ideas counting 60 per cent of final judging.

A similar contest is slated soon among Future Farmers of America boys, to be conducted by the vocational agriculture teachers of the county, Ayres said. Besides the four gilts to be awarded, one FFA boy will receive a registered boar. The boar was awarded to a 4-H member last year.

News Briefs

"Check and Double-Check" and "Doubtful-Dollars," two sound films which expose methods used by check thieves, forgers and counterfeiters, will be shown at 8 p. m. Monday in Junior High school auditorium. Forrest V. Sorrels, supervising agent for the U. S. Secret Service at Dallas, will answer questions submitted by the audience, following the showing. Arrangements for the local showing were made by Chief of Police D. M. Reeder and Walter G. Clayton of Aetna Life Insurance Co. No admission fee will be charged and the public is invited.

Around 700 pounds of clothing were turned in to the United National Clothing collection headquarters here Saturday afternoon by the Lion's club at Whiteface. Ben L. Graham, president of the club, was chairman of the collection.

SCATTERINGS

IWO JIMA — You've seen Joe Rosenthal's picture of the valiant Marines raising the flag of the United States on the volcanic rim of Iwo Jima's Mount Suribachi that is the official picture in the Seventh War loan. Did you know, however, that of the six men pictured three were killed in the fierce fighting on that barren rock-strewn island and one seriously wounded soon after they made that trip? Killed were Pfc. Franklin R. Sousley, Sgt. Michael Stank and Sgt. Henry O. Hansen; wounded Phm 2/c John Bradley. The other two were Pfc. Rene A. Gagnon and Pfc. Ira H. Hayes. The battle of Iwo Jima was the costliest victory the Marines have ever known. Some Lubbock men were in the battle. To their everlasting glory let's go over the top in buying war bonds during the drive.

IGOR GORIN, Russian baritone who sang on the Tech Artist course program several seasons ago, is to be Howard Barlow's radio guest Monday night at 7:30 o'clock over NBC. . . . We think it fitting that the memorial service for Ernie Pyle is to be held today in Albuquerque, where he maintained a home and a place very near to his heart. Of all the tributes written in his behalf we liked best the simple words by Hal Boyle, Associated Press writer who is a Puitzer winner this season: "He isn't dead you know . . . Army old-timers never acknowledge any soldier ever dies . . . 'He's just been transferred to another outfit,' we'll be running into him again some one of these days." The theme of the memorial program will be "So long, we'll be seeing you."

One answer to the natural anxiety over trying to please the service man who is home for a while was given by a young officer who had been treated with such deference by his family he grew tired of it. "Settle down to your normal speed," he advised them at supper the other night, "I'm only human you know." . . . We suppose John A. Stinson's champion horse Black Highbrow blinked his eyelashes if he noted in the paper that his name was carried as "Black Eyebrow." The horse won a ribbon and loving cup in the Spring horse show staged in El Paso last Sunday.

SAFE MOTHERHOOD

THE past year of war has been the safest for mothers and babies in the nation's history, according to officers of the Maternity Center association in New York. This mind you despite the news of death and injury overseas and the anxiety which has come to hundreds of thousands of expectant mothers; despite the shortage of doctors and nurses on the home front and the overcrowding of hospitals due to the higher birth rates of the past few years.

The record is attributed to several factors including improved medical, hospital and nursing care, better knowledge among expectant parents about what the coming of babies means to them and their families, younger parents, higher standards of living and new medical life-saving technique.

MOTHER'S DAY MARTYR

THIS is the 31st anniversary of Mother's day since it was in 1914 Congress passed an act designating the second Sunday of May as Mother's day and requesting the display of the flag on all government buildings on that day. We think such a day should be dedicated to the vital part that mothers play on the home front rather than the emotional frenzy some people try to promote.

Anna Jarvis, founder of the day, is today an old 84-year-old, gaunt and sightless woman, a patient at Philadelphia General hospital. In recent years she became alarmed at the turn the day has taken. She had meant for it to be a public expression of love and reverence for mothers but she told a reporter in New York that she thought the day "had been desecrated by commercial racketeers."

So bitter did Miss Jarvis become over the situation she isolated herself from the world. She refused to attend a Mother's day rally in New York in 1923 and threw a retail confectioner's convention into an uproar when she ran in to their Philadelphia meeting and shouted, "You are using a beautiful idea as a means of profiteering."

After she dies, likely the nation will raise funds to build a monument to her memory. In the meantime we think it's too bad her life is one of such tragedy.

THE GI'S LAUGHED

HER German captors didn't bother Nurse Lt. Lula Howard of Hollis, Okla., who trained at Lubbock General hospital, as much as the GI fellow prisoners who laughed at her culinary efforts.

Captured with nine other American nurses who spent several hours in German captivity, the nurse said that it wasn't so bad when the Germans took all their valuables and keepsakes.

"What really burned us up," she told her cousin Mrs. John Godfrey of route 4, Tahoka, "was the way the GI's who were captured with us snickered and passed snide remarks at our kitchen policing." Nine hours after being captured, the nurses were freed by American tank units.

Daughter's Visit Is Time Of Reunion In Furgeson Home; Grandsons Here

BY OPAL DIXON
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

A CITIZEN of both the United States and Great Britain, Mrs. Fred Vessey sums up some of the wartime differences of her two countries in this statement: "Over here you live in heaven."

Mrs. Vessey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Furgeson of west of Lubbock, arrived recently — today is the first Mother's day she has spent with her mother in 20 years. She was reared in Lubbock county, went to Ohio and then to England after her wedding, and was not reunited with her parents until her return to the states recently on a hospital ship bearing 500 wounded soldiers home.

Her return to the states also was the occasion of a reunion with her own son, Billy Vessey, who came from England to be with his grandparents seven years ago, graduated from high school in Lubbock county and entered the Royal Canadian Air force in 1942. Billy, who is stationed in Labrador, met her in New York and accompanied her to Lubbock. It was his first time to see his brother, Kenneth, 5, born after he left England.

It's A Land Of Plenty

Mrs. Vessey says she has come to a land of plenty in comparison to the bomb-torn buildings, the food and clothing scarcities she left behind.

"You can go out and buy clothes without coupons. We had 20 coupons to last six months, and it would take 18 to buy a coat. Mothers of Britain would do without shoes to help clothe their children; would eat potatoes and other starchy food and leave the other food for their children.

"Over here you live in heaven. You have salads, fruits, cream, eggs, everything."

Her little boy had never seen a banana until he reached New York. "Mummy, I don't like this vegetable," he said after eating a few bites.

A woman in New York said there was no meat and other foods were scarce because America is sending those things to Britain. "But you have so much more to take the place of things they are without over there," Mrs. Vessey told her.

Speaking with the viewpoint of a Briton and leaving no doubt she is a "Yank," Mrs. Vessey said that when she heard the Victory in Europe proclamation her first thought "was of English mothers and little children who were so helpless in this war. There would be no more bombs to fall on them and they could go to bed at night and sleep in peace."

"I feel like the American mothers would stand the test just as well as those English mothers stood the blitz of England," she said. "I happen to be one Yankee who has taken a bit of it myself."

Visiting at the farm home of her parents, Mrs. Vessey and her son marvel at the abundance of cream, eggs, milk and other foods. Mrs. Vessey recalled a letter she received in 1942 in which her mother told her she was selling $30 in eggs a week. "We had eaten no eggs in nine months."

Around the Shop Windows

Well Folks:

It looks as if the girls are doing their part by Mother's Day. The Decorators Studio, 1302 Ave. N, was full of beautiful packages Friday when I was in to make some sweet mother know she is loved. The Studio agrees with our President that Mother's Day is a wonderful day to set aside for prayer and thanksgiving.

Fredda and Alma always do a double rejoicing because their mother's birthday is close with Mother's Day. They had a surprise party for Lillie Wednesday night. Next week the Straw Boss starts celebrating Monday. Her birthday really comes on Thursday but Kaye sort of strings it out and makes it last a long time.

Among new arrivals at the Studio are new tables and I noticed Alma writing a sizeable check for Wedgwood that is on its way and more Red Wing pottery has been shipped. Most outstanding of new arrivals is a pair of large pictures. These are companion pictures of "Marie Antonette" and "Louis Sieze" framed with dark green velvet mats and mirrored frames. A large mirror is new, too. This is done in the Chinese manner which is the decoration painted under the glass frame. This is a nice complement to a pair of light wood end tables and a large square coffee table. All of the tables have the Chinese decoration on them.

It seems that Alma was out of the Studio two days for various reasons and when she came in Friday morning the other girls had catalogues opened on her desk with suggesting notes pinned to pages. From what she said the others probably ordered these catalogues because the items that they carried wouldn't fit into her plans but they might with the others as the Navy and Air Corps seem to be most important in the trend of thought of certain people who work at the Studio. Might be that even Fredda has ideas.

Good-bye,
Grandpa Nosey,
1302 Ave. N.

P. S. No the catalog wouldn't interest Alma since she has gone native "New Mexico." Diamond wedding bands would look slightly out of place with sompreros and blue jeans. No Alma you had better stick to your Indian jewelry.

Mary Lanham And Sgt. Gene Gideon Marry In Candlelight Service At Church

MRS. GENE GIDEON

Miss Mary Lanham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. N. Lanham of 2410 Eighth, and Sgt. Gene Gideon, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Gideon of near Lubbock, were married in a candlelight ceremony read Thursday night at 8 o'clock at Central Baptist church by Rev. Jack Welch and Rev. Jeff Welch.

The double ring service was performed before an altar decorated with large baskets of white lilies. Palms and candelabra were in the background.

Mrs. R. L. Ducket played the wedding marches and accompanied Miss Micky Jean Exum who sang "I Love You Truly" and "Always."

Bride Wears White Lace

The bride given in marriage by her father wore a white lace gown over slipper satin. The gown was fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and petal point sleeves extending over the wrists. Her tiered finger tip veil was attached to a halo of pearls which belongs to her mother. She carried a white Bible topped with an orchid and white streamers. For something old she wore her grandmother's wedding ring, for something borrowed she wore a string of pearls of Miss Maxine Boone and for something blue she had a Bible marker of blue satin ribbon.

Attendants, Miss Martha Sue Price, maid of honor, and Miss Harmo Lou Easterwood, bridesmaid, wore pale blue dresses with sweetheart necklines and full skirts. Their corsages were white carnations.

From Lou To Louella

DEAR LOUELLA: F/O Jack Giles has made plans to marry Fairfax Nesbitt, of San Antonio, sometime this month. Jack is stationed in Boca Rotan, Fla. . . . Pat Pasley, Sherry McIver, Pat Dumas and Mary Troy were guests of honor at a slumber party given by Frances Rambo in Brownfield Friday night. Other Tech co-eds attending were Pat Carter, Billie Lackey, Carolyn Harriss, Glenna Ross, Jean Knight and Wanda Hahn. And more about some of these girls—Billie and Frances received records Friday morning which were made by boy friends, Ken Jones and Mon Telford, who are attending Navy schools in San Diego. Pat Carter who is to marry T/Sgt. Tommy Hart around June 1 had an announcement party in Brownfield Saturday. Tommy has been overseas but is stationed in Big Spring at present. Pat Dumas received an engagement ring from Sailor Roy Wilson Thursday. He bought the ring in Hawaii.

Sarah Scroggins is to marry Raymond Swofford in June and will have an announcement tea sometime this week. . . . It was unusual to see Pat Blount dancing on the avenue this week with Tutti Lanier instead of Mary Wells. . . . Pledges of all the girls' social clubs have been giving parties for the members. Last club meetings of this school year were held Wednesday night. . . . Sailor Benny Rhodes is stationed in South Carolina. . . . Al Vandergriff and Lotta Bess Baldwin are together just most of the time. Things must be getting serious. . . . The ouija board told Sue Stockard that she is to marry Wayne Kittley in April of next year. So she told him and all those attending the journalism banquet Thursday night about it. . . . Dimple Mickey writes that she is having a wonderful time in Santa Barbara, Calif., where she is visiting her sister and brother-in-law, Marine M/Sgt. and Mrs. Willard H. Atcheson. The Atchesons formerly lived in Lubbock and Mrs. Atcheson was Ina Mickey.

Pat got a dresser set and rhinestone bracelet from Russell Lawrence for graduation. The two "go steady.". . . Johnny Cole who has five more weeks of boot camp in San Diego sent "Button" Peters a dresser set for graduation. Button will go to Tech or SMU in Dallas next fall. . . . From H. A. Mahle, jr., Phylis Stalcup received ear rings and hair clasps for graduation. . . . Wistie Reid and Rue Copeland will be students in Hardin-Simmons in Abilene next fall. . . . Virgie "Bogan" Sneed will go to TSCW and Marijane Grace, Margie Fry and Joe Ann Bailey are to be in Tech.

CHERIE LANE has an engagement ring from Dennis Patterson. . . . Betty Harrell is a lot of fun. Her boyfriend is in California and calls her often. . . . Margaret Long, last year Tech graduate, is a photographer and reporter on the Wichita Falls daily paper. She was here this week. . . . Bill Nelson and Polly Gossett still go together. . . . Fran Buchanan has as her guest her fiance, Lt. W. W. Gardner. . . . LaNell Doshier's boy friend is just back from overseas and is in Washington, D.C. . . . Bobby Hayes and Jo Winders just can't seem to get along. . . . James Headstream, ex-Techsan, has just finished boot camp in San Diego and was a visitor on the campus this week. . . . Norma Barnes and Russell Birdwell have lots of dates on the Avenue. . . . The other night on a hayride, Cherie Dennis lost the set out of the engagement ring which Bob Tosh gave her, but he has already replaced it. . . . Josie Perry and Willie Oehrlein were married Saturday.

Wedding congrats go to the following who will celebrate anniversaries this week: Messrs. and Mesdames Ralph Mecusker, Roger Clapp, Robert D. Richerson, Thomas J. Hickey, Roy S. Parks, Lewis B. Amaon, Wayne Hildreth, Fred E. Forster, jr., and Howell L. Peden.

TRY THIS AMAZING BARCEL RECIPE TO TAKE OFF UGLY FAT

Right in Your Own Home, You Can Lose Pounds of Excess Weight Without Starvation Diet or Strenuous Exercise

It's simple. It's amazing, how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Barcel Concentrate. Pour this into a bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it.

If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Perhaps you are overweight due to over indulgence in food or the wrong kind of food. With the Barcel home recipe method, you do not have to starve yourself or go hungry. Just follow the simple instructions given on the label and you should get satisfactory results quickly. The very first pint you make up should show results.

LOSE UGLY FAT WITH BARCEL

Why not slim down your figure without a lot of fuss and bother? Try the Barcel way. Wear your streamlined frocks and slacks gracefully. Remember, if the very first bottle of Barcel doesn't show you the sensible way to lose weight, your money will be refunded.

Commander Of Nazi Panzer Army Taken

WITH THE U. S. SEVENTH ARMY, May 12 (AP) — Col.-Gen. Sepp Dietrich, commander of the Sixth SS panzer army, and his wife were captured today by the 636th Tank Destroyer battalion, 36th division.

M/Sgt. Herbert Kraus, Cleveland, recognized Dietrich after military police placed him in a prisoner cage.

"Dietrich doesn't look anything like an army commander — he's more like a neighborhood grocer," Kraus said.

(Front dispatches to Moscow in April said Dietrich had been assassinated during the battle for Vienna.)

ORANGE, May 12 (U.P.) — A deadly U. S. destroyer named for the late Lt. Joseph Orleck, decorated naval hero of Columbus, O., slid down the ways at the Consolidated Steel Corp., yards here today.

Allied Command Soon May Be Dissolved

WASHINGTON, May 12 (U.P.)— Military observers here believed today that the Allied high command in Europe under Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower may not be needed much longer.

The high command is familiarly known to war correspondents as SHAEF, which stands for supreme headquarters, Allied expeditionary forces. SHAEF was set up in England in preparation for the Anglo-American-Canadian invasion of the continent. It was later moved to Reims, France, where it accepted Germany's surrender May 7.

Yesterday the War department announced its plans for military government of Germany in conjunction with Britain, Russia and France sitting in a joint control council in Berlin.

It seems reasonable that once the government of Germany is organized under the council, the zones to be governed by the respective Allies are occupied and the balance of the Allied forces are withdrawn, SHAEF's existence will no longer be required.

Mrs. Jerry Belcher and daughter, Betsy, are spending Mother's day with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Love. They are moving from Cincinnati, Ohio to San Francisco. Mr. Belcher is in radio business.

Restrictions On Typewriters Lifted

WASHINGTON, May 12. (U.P.) — All restrictions on the production of typewriters were removed today by the War Production board.

A certificate to purchase a new machine is no longer required, WPB said.

Typewriter manufacturers have been heavily engaged in war production, the agency said, and have been unable to produce enough machines to meet even essential military and industrial requirements.

Some typewriter manufacturers are still devoting most of their facilities to making war material and will be unable to switch to typewriter production until their war contracts are completed or cancelled, PWB said.

Furgeson Visitors

said Mrs. Vessey.

Ate Eggs On Ship

The first morning on the ship that brought her and Kenneth to the states passengers could have ham and eggs — as much as they wanted.

Young Kenneth, accustomed to scrambled powdered eggs, distrusted the two scrambled eggs placed on his plate and looking at his mother's two fried eggs, said, "Mother, you have real eggs, don't you." They exchanged, so he could have the "real" eggs.

The tragedies of war are close to Mrs. Vessey. She saw two children die in their mother's arms of wounds from shrapnel. She saw a young girl of her acquaintance who lost her senses temporarily during an air raid come unscathed through the raid; while the soldier who rescued her and lent her his helmet lay dead of a wound in the head.

She visited Red Cross hospitals in England and has high praise for their work. There she heard the remarks of a few American soldiers who felt they had no desire to live because those at home did not care. "They won't even write to me," a few said. "I am sure," said Mrs. Vessey, "that some soldiers have died because they had no will to live — because they could not hear from those at home."

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Vessey has been a week-end refuge frequently for soldiers of Canada and America, some of whom were referred to them by their son in Canada, and some of them were referred to them by Lubbock county relatives.

For instance, S/Sgt. Guy Heggi of Petersburg, who was stationed at Cambridge with the Eighth AAF, spent five 48-hour furloughs in the Vessey home. He was referred there by Mrs. Vessey's brother, Ray Furgeson of Becton.

Food Scarcity Was Problem

With rations scarce, Mrs. Vessey frequently did not know how she could obtain sufficient food to feed the soldiers invited to their home, and her family as well. The food always came somehow. "The Lord provided, I guess," said Mrs. Vessey. Sometimes friends would bring gifts of food when they heard soldiers were to be visitors.

Frequently, also, the soldiers brought gifts — scarce foods they were allowed to obtain for their host and hostess and that the British could not buy. They included canned peas, corn, fruits, chewing gum and other commodities. Some brought soap.

Soldiers who frequently visited the home were told that if they found no one at home they might find the key in a certain place and they were to come in and make themselves at home—and "when I return I will prepare something for you to eat."

Before the war Mr. and Mrs. Vessey lived at Romford, Essex, "a half hour out of London." Mr. Vessey, is a consulting engineer. Since the war opened he has served in several places with Henry Ford, in government projects.

On one occasion after he had been transferred to a new town, he rented a house for his family to join him and before they could arrive the house was bombed. At another time, their furniture was exposed to weather because the storage place where it had been stored in London was bombed.

Mrs. Vessey plans to stay in Lubbock indefinitely and her husband plans to join her later. When she left England, she faced the possibility they might not be together again.

Son Remained In England

One son, Stewart, who does not hold American as well as British citizenship, could not accompany his mother to America and remained with his paternal grandparents. He is in the British Navy Cadets reserve and is to sit for his school certificate examinations in July and is to register for the Royal Navy service in July, when he will become 16.

The 5-year-old, Kenneth, could accompany his mother because he was born after Congress passed a law granting American citizenship to children of an American parent born abroad.

Among wounded soldiers on the ship on which the mother and son came home was an Amherst soldier, Pvt. James R. Workman, who had foot injuries.

The ship came in a convoy. Of the wounded men on the transport, some had broken necks, some had broken backs, some had legs and arms missing and some were insane. Four died aboard ship and were buried at sea. Easter service on board ship was "most beautiful," said Mrs. Vessey. Men stood with their arms in slings and on crutches to hear the words of the major chaplain.

In England, Mrs. Vessey enjoyed a reunion with a brother, Royal Furgeson, former district clerk of Lubbock county, whose wife is serving in that position since he left for military service.

The Furgesons have three sons and two grandsons in service. Sons in service include Pfc. Golden Furgeson, who is stationed at Mineral Wells and Sgt. Eldon Furgeson, who is at Scott field, and Royal Furgeson, who is in Paris. Stewart and Billy Vessey are the grandsons.

One of the prized possessions Mrs. Vessey brings with her is a small book bearing the wishes of her husband and her friends she left in England and those she met aboard ship. In the front of the book she wrote, "What the world needs is not more airships or warships, but more friendships such as these have been to me."

Britons Angered By Reception Of Goering

LONDON, May 12. (AP) — The News Chronicle said today that reports of the reception Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering received on his surrender to the U.S. Seventh army had angered the British people.

The editorial said the British particularly were angered by a report that Brig. Gen. Robert Stack of the U.S. 36th division shook Goering's hand.

(An Associated Press dispatch from Kufstein, Austria, on May 9 said both Ben. Stack and Maj. Gen. John E. Dalquist, 36th division commander, were present when Goering was received. The dispatch mentioned a handshaking ceremony, but the principals were not identified.)

"Once and for all," said the editorial, "Hermann Goering is an evil, cruel murderer to whom justice must be done. Because he is fat, he is not kind; because he laughs he is not merciful; by his record he is a criminal."

The editorial was entitled "shaking hands with murder."

The widowed mother of three children—two of them army officers serving overseas—was chosen by the American Mothers committee of the Golden Rule foundation, it was announced today.

Reformation Of Germany Presents Many Great Problems For Allies

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The reformation of Germany presents vast and unprecedented problems for Allied solution, and the greatest of these is how best to re-educate the people of the Reich so as to eliminate the curse of Nazism and Prussianism.

Hitler remoulded the thought of the nation by intensive education along his evil lines. There is no cure except more education along the right lines.

The first task will be to determine what are the right lines, and that won't be easy because there's no exact precedent for guidance. The job of re-education will take years, and the Allies can't afford to make serious mistakes. The wrong approach would be adding to the damage already done by the war-mongering dictator.

Program Should Be Broad

The educational program should be such as would give the Germans the greatest degree of acquaintance with the peoples of other nations.

And what would be the medium of this education? Well, the most important would seem to be the every-day news of all categories, told in straightforward manner through press and radio.

The present day difficulties which we see cropping up even among the United Nations are due in many instances to lack of acquaintance with the other fellow. That breeds suspicion.

This is true even in the case of two allies who are as close together as are America and England. And (whisper) it has much to do with such difficulties as crop up among the big three themselves — America, Britain and Russia.

Soldiers Get Along Well

Have you noticed the development of good relations between the soldiers of the western Allies and the men of Russia as they have come together in the heart of Germany? As utter strangers they approached one another, if not with some misgivings, then at least with much reserve. Once they had met, however, all reserve was gone and they got along in grand style.

Nobody will be able to drive anything of educational value into German heads with the big stick. About the only influence they will be susceptible to will be the unadulterated news of what is going on in the lands of peace and good will.

LAAF At Half-Way Mark In Bond Drive

Civilian and military personnel at Lubbock Army Air field last week reached the half-way mark in their part of the Seventh War Loan campaign with total purchases already standing at $143,925.78 in War Bonds, only $12,000 less than they invested during the entire Sixth War Loan but still little more than half of the field's huge quota for the Seventh War Loan campaign.

The Seventh War Loan, which opens for the entire nation Monday, has been going on at military installations throughout the country since April 1, and will continue through May and June.

The big base bought a total of $155,000 in bonds during the Sixth War Loan campaign but with the increased tempo of the Pacific war demanding more weapons and supplies to continue the war against Japan, the field is shooting for a goal of $264,157.46 during the Seventh War Loan. This lacks only some $46,000 of doubling the amount LAAF invested during the last drive.

The past week both civilian and military personnel carried on an intensive campaign to boost cash sales in keeping with the V-E day observances and officials reported a good response. Cash sales alone among civilians on V-E day totaled $2,887.50 to bring the total for civilian workers to $14,816.50 in bonds in cash purchases so far in the Seventh War Loan.

Radio Monitors For Nazis Want To Help Re-Educate Germans

By WADE WERNER
Associated Press Staff Writer

MAINBURG, Germany — A group of Nazi-financed radio monitors who say they were re-educated by constant listening to Allied propaganda have volunteered to organize under Allied supervision the similar re-education of 60,000,000 vanquished fellow Germans.

In the group are 10 officials and employes of "Interradio," a government-controlled corporation formed in January, 1940, to furnish complete reports of all foreign broadcasts to the Nazi party, the German army, foreign office, propaganda ministry and DNB, official German news agency.

The headquarters of "Interradio" was in Berlin. During the heyday of Nazi power the payroll numbered 4,000 persons operating listening posts in various parts of Germany and all occupied countries.

"Converts" Interned

The memorandum conveying the proposal has been forwarded to higher authorities. Meanwhile the self styled converts to Allied thought are interned and their technical equipment sequestered.

The headquarters staff and key personnel headed by Kurt Mair, the corporation's director general, had been evacuated in mid April from Berlin to castle Oberlauerbach near here, where they were found by U. S. Third army authorities.

In the memorandum, Mair emphasized that while he and his staff were on the government payroll, their job was to report foreign news and propaganda exactly as received. It was somebody else's task to twist and distort some of them for Nazi purposes.

Germans Shut Off

Mair emphasized that the German population as a whole—aside from the few who risked death or imprisonment by secretly listening to foreign stations—was shut off effectively from all contact with world opinion.

"My collaborators and I," Mair said, "are the only persons in Germany who to such an extent have heard the voice of foreign countries without interruption during the whole war and who are accurately informed of world opinion.

Therefore, Germany's number 1 official listerner-in continued, "Interradios'" monitoring experts want to throw their talents into "collaboration in the spiritual and political development of the German people" by disseminating through the press and radio inside Germany the same kind of international news and opinion which heretofore was systematically kept from the knowledge of the German people."

Hollywood On The Loose...

Filmtown Facts And Fancies

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, May 12. — The Encino, Calif., housewife said she was scared to death.

"I doubt," she laughed, "whether I'll remember what a movie camera looks like."

FAYE

Perhaps you remember the lady — a cute little blonde with a turned-up nose by the name of Alice Faye. You do? Of course you remember Alice. She sang all those hit songs in all those big 20th Century-Fox filmusicals. Did some nice acting, too.

Then, two years ago, she said nertz to the movies.

She went home to Encino to look after her husband, fellow by the name of Phil Harris, and her daughter, Alice Faye, jr., now three, and to have another daughter, Phyllis, now a year old.

Every week the studio sent her scripts to read. All musicals. Alice sent them back unread.

"I don't want to make another picture," she told the studio. "I don't want to make another musical. I'm happy being an Encino housewife and a mother."

Her movie bosses gnashed their teeth.

Alice Faye's name on a movie marquee makes money. Alice Faye singing lullabies to her kids at home was costing the studio big money.

"How about a swell dramatic role? No singing at all," the studio finally asked Alice.

"Maybe," she said.

Afraid She'd Like 'Em

THE studio dispatched dramatic scripts by the truckload to Encino.

"I really didn't want to go back to work," Alice told us. "I was afraid to read those scripts for fear I might like one. Then Columbia asked Phil to do a picture and 20th Century-Fox sent me a script called 'Fallen Angel.'

"I was mad after I read it — because I liked it so much. Phil and I talked it over. We finally had a nurse for the children. Phil said 'I'll help you with your lines.' I said 'I'll help you with your lines.' So I called up the studio and said, 'I'm coming back to work.' Everyone practically fainted."

"Fallen Angel" is a small town story of two girls and their effect on a boy who figures he will never amount to anything. Dana Andrews is the boy who becomes involved with a flip waitress, Linda Darnell, and then finds happiness and inspiration with Alice. Otto Preminger will produce and direct. He's the fellow who figured Alice couldn't resist the part.

Alice is as beautiful as ever. Even slimmer. We wondered how she kept herself in shape doing nothing. It was the wrong question.

"Are you kidding?" she said, bristling. "Taking care of two children and making beds and cooking is great for the figure."

Stage Fright

FOR the last few months Alice has been going along wth Phil when the Jack Benny radio show played Army camps.

"They wanted me to sing but I was too scared at first," she said. "Finally they talked me into it. And believe me it was a job. First they took me out and showed me the camp. We got to the stage—gradually. My knees were knocking when Benny introduced me the first time. I was afraid the kids wouldn't remember me. But they did."

Mary Martin Is Back In Movies

HOLLYWOOD, May 12. (U.P.)—Mary Martin left Hollywood two years ago, vowing never to return. Now she's changed her mind and is coming back to work for Mary Pickford.

Miss Martin's returning because she couldn't bear to see someone else star in the film version of "One Touch of Venus" that she's made such a hit on Broadway and on the road.

The glamorous actress believes that her current road trip with "Venus" has put her in fine shape for the film work. Shape's the right word, too, incidentally.

"I'll come back to the screen weighing about 112 pounds," she reports. "That's a little more than I carried when I left. I hope the few new pounds are in the right places."

If they aren't, then the right places just haven't been properly mapped.

Major Problem

But she has one major problem in coming back to Hollywood. A while back she and her husband Richard Halliday, sold their house at Bel-Air. Halliday, incidentally, is also her business manager.

"Now we'll probably have to move in with Dick's mother," she moans. "There'll be Dick, myself and the two children. I know it will be crowded because she has such a small house, but it will be fun being together."

Miss Martin has definite ideas on returning to the films.

"On the screen I want to wear all the wonderful, screwball hats," she laughs. "I want to show off all the beautiful Mainbocher clothes. And, mainly, I want to have a good time, so everyone seeing the picture will have a good time."

Miss Pickford, coming back to active film production, points out that she and one-time song-writer Sam Coslow are going to spend $2,000,000 making the film version of "One Touch of Venus."

"For that," she points out, "everyone SHOULD have a good time."

Ft. Worth And Denver Officials Re-Elected

FORT WORTH, May 12 (U.P.) — Ralph Budd of Chicago and C. D. Peckenpaugh of Fort Worth were the new president and vice-president, respectively, today of the Forth Worth and Denver City railway.

Budd and Peckenpaugh were reelected to their posts at an annual stockholders and directors meeting held here. Peckenpaugh was also named general manager of the line, Texas branch of the Burlington railroad.

American Division May Occupy Berlin

WITH TIHE NINTH ARMY IN GERMANY, May 12 (AP)—Indications here today were that at least one American division will participate in a token occupation of Berlin—probably the crack Second Armored (hell on wheels) division, veterans of Tunisia, Sicily and the European campaign.

A selected squad of war correspondents probably will accompany the token force.

COMMERCE MAN DIES

More Subsidies On Meat Seen

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—A Senate committee chairman said today an OPA order giving still more subsidies to the meat industry probably will be issued next week.

If it meets objections raised by packers and cattle feeders to the present OPA price subsidy schedules, the order may clear the way for quick Senate action on legislation to extend the price control act unchanged for another year from the June 30 expiration date.

Chairman Wagner (D-NY) of the banking committee said he understood OPA officials had about worked out a formula designed to settle the meat price controversy. He has been holding the extension measure in committee pending these efforts.

To Discuss Situation

Price Administrator Chester Bowles has advised the agriculture committee that he wants to appear before it next week to discuss the situation, Chairman Thomas (D-Okla) said.

The agriculture committee will begin work Monday on a report on its food investigations. Thomas said it will cover "findings of facts and conclusions" and asserted he was convinced that OPA must:

1. Give additional subsidies to feeders who fatten range cattle.
2. Give "additional relief" to meat packers.

Thomas Visits Oklahoma

Thomas has just returned from a visit to Oklahoma. He said that in personal investigations there he found no demand for an increase in the price of range cattle and saw no cattle in feeder pens.

"The feeders claim the price they have to pay for feed is so high that they can't afford to feed," he said.

Thomas said he saw no necessity for amending the price control law, believing changes demanded by cattle and meat men could be handled by administrative action.

"But if OPA doesn't do a better job than it has done there will be amendments," he added.

Grain Dealers See Shortage Of Cars

WHY PAY MORE?

Let's Express Our Gratitude; New U.S. Official Is For "Hard Peace"

Do It With War Bonds

Support Our Victorious Troops!

AS the Seventh War Loan drive looms large on tomorrow's horizon, it is a good time, we think, to consider the project.

Ever since the First War Loan drive, it has been bandied about that "lots of people are buying bonds just for 'the looks of things,' and are cashing them in at the first opportunity." Probably there has been some of this sort of thing—some without reason. But the truth is, most people are keeping most of the bonds they buy—and are adding to their store as time rocks along.

On the brighter—the much brighter—side of the picture, too, is the fact that it is not unusual for patriotic Americans to borrow money at interest rates higher than they are receiving from their bonds in order to avoid dipping into their war savings. Walter Posey, president of the First National bank, told a group of Lubbock business men the other day that very frequently citizens with considerable holdings in War bonds borrow from local banks rather than cash their bonds. "I just don't want to break faith with the boys who are fighting," say most of them. That is a great spirit—the same sort of spirit here at home that brought the defeat of Germany overseas.

Beginning tomorrow, the nation will be asked to raise, in the Seventh War Loan drive, a total of $14,000,000,000. Of this total, the citizens of Lubbock county are asked to lend $4,540,000 toward final victory over Japan, with $1,700,000 of that sum representing individual purchases of Series E bonds. We hope and believe that the nation will lend more than the $14,000,000,000 asked; that Lubbock county people will top their goals, both total and Series E.

This Seventh War Loan drive should be the easiest of all to put over, in light of the German surrender. It is unthinkable that the American home front will lose this first great opportunity to express thanks to and confidence in our fighting men, many of whom are already on their way to further battles against the Japs.

Thus a bond purchase in the Seventh War Loan drive is more than a patriotic duty to the country as a whole—it offers a chance for every one of us here at home to express, in the most concrete form, our gratitude to those whose courage and determination has victoriously closed one part of the global war and who stand ready to finish the job at the earliest possible moment.

Let's put our drive over here in Lubbock county with the same dispatch that our fighting men put an end to the myths of Germany's "impregnable Fortress Europe," and the Hitlerian "master race!"

Thoughts On Mothers Day

"NOW there stood by the cross of Jesus his mother . . ."

So wrote the Disciple John almost 2,000 years before the American segment of the human family began annual observance of Mothers Day. But if John had had in mind such an observance, he could not have painted in ten thousand words a more complete picture of maternal love, maternal loyalty, or of maternal compassion than he has given us in ten short words.

As the most celebrated and revered of all mothers took her place at the side of her great Son in the darkest hour of civilization, so have countless other mothers, in countless other lands, taken their places beside their sons and daughters—administering to them at the very last in the same selfless way they have administered to them from birth and throughout life. This is because there is no pumbing the love, the loyalty or the compassion of a mother worthy of the name.

It was not easy, we are sure, for even the hardest-hearted of onlookers on Calvary Hill that day to watch the Christ being crucified. Therefore, it is beyond human understanding—and certainly beyond human powers of description—to interpret the feelings of Mary as she stood by the Cross upon which Jesus suffered. But Mary, like every other mother worthy of the name, was made of stern stuff. And because she was a mother she was able to subjugate—even to entirely forget—herself as she stood by the side of the Cross.

As millions of mothers have stood at the side of their sons and daughters during their darkest hours throughout the years, so will other millions bravely, lovingly stand, proclaiming their loyalty, their everlasting support, regarless of the balance of the world. And it is because of this great gift to mankind that we Americans celebrate Mothers Day each spring and are observing it today.

It's A Small Wonder

WHEN Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the German General staff, signed the articles of surrender surrounded by the rubble of Berlin, he was "nervous and irritated," reported the Associated Press.

And well he might have been:

Nervous—because he'll be lucky if life in the future ever means anything more to him than eating, sleeping and breathing; and

Irritated—because it must have dawned upon him by that time that his best efforts over the past 25 years ended in total failure.

In fact, if nothing worse happens to Keitel than being "nervous and irritated," he'll be just about the luckiest fellow in the world!

OUR PLEDGE

"Loose Sort Of Confederation" To Result From Parley, But:

San Francisco Conference Will Fall Short Of Goal

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO.—This United Nations conference has reached a stage where it is possible to perceive the broad outlines of the ultimate result.

It will succeed in creating a world security organization. But it will be a loose sort of confederation dominated for the immediate future at least by the Big Three which laid the basis for it at the Yalta conference—Great Britain, Russia and the United States. Big power politics will still govern the affairs of nations. These three powers emerged from the European phase of the war as the predominant rulers of the world as we find it today. They hold the mortgage of a bankrupt civilization and they intend to have full change of reorganizing it—a natural outcome, even if not exactly what might be hoped.

STOKES

Fear of the future, rather than confidence in the future, has been the prevailing mood here. The United Nations' leaders have proceeded therefore with timidity rather than boldness, with caution rather than daring, and along old established lines. They have hesitated to open new paths.

Some Pessimism Healthy

Considerations of military and naval strategy for some possible vague war in the future have had much influence behind the scenes. This is plainly revealed in the concern for alliances in Europe and in this hemisphere, and in the scramble forecast here for the peace conference over naval bases. Though no one can tell now what the vague war in the future might be like, if it comes, no one could have predicted a few years ahead the strategy which finally developed for the war in Europe, now over, and the war in the Pacific, still going on. Old conceptions had to be cast aside for the second World war.

Some pessimism may be healthy, for it will keep the people of the world constantly on guard. But too much of it is bad, for that would result in freezing the world into conflicting zones, each jealous of the power and resources of the others.

THE organization that will come from this conference, as is indicated now, will be comparable to the loose confederation which the American colonies threw together hastily to fight for independence. It was found to be too weak and ineffective to meet the stresses and strains of peaceful government.

This world organization will have to develop and grow into something more closely approaching the United States of America, as established by the Constitution drafted after the Revolutionary war, if it meets future world needs. It will have to grow into something more than the old League of Nations, which failed to meet the test.

This conference has been disappointing to those who had hoped for something more closely approaching a real union of nations of the world, which includes some leaders here who have been frustrated. It certainly includes the plain people of the world and the soldiers who fought this war and are still fighting.

Their only consolation is that at least a start is being made here. But it must be realized that it is only a start. To make a start is something, though the people must not accept too indulgently that explanation by the practical politicians and the realists.

Constant Alertness Needed

It is hopeful for the future that representatives of the nations gathered here also realize that this is just a start. They are merely laying the foundations. They have taken care to provide machinery for amendment and revision and will authorize another meeting of the United Nations here gathered, at some date not fixed, to make any necessary early revisions found desirable from experience.

The people of the world still face their biggest battle, which is to hold their leaders to what they do here and then demand more and more constantly in the way of improvements. Peace is a battle, too. The salvation of the future depends upon constant alertness, a constant check on political leaders, and the discarding of leaders without boldness and confidence in the future.

Looking At Life - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

A NEW JERSEY dentist has just been convicted of illegally prescribing narcotics and several New York physicians have been found guilty of various forms of malpractice.

Fortunately, cases of this sort are very, very rare, and the average physician lives up to his Hippocratic oath, in which he swears:

"Into whatever houses I enter I will go for the advantage of the sick and will abstain from every voluntary act of mischief and corruption . . . With purity and holiness will I pass my life and practice my art."

I remember, when I was a little boy, my mother wanted me to become a physician, but I objected violently, because I knew even then that I could never be noble enough to be a good one.

To me the physician has always ranked with the minister and the priest—the one caters to the spiritual needs of the human being, the other to his physical ones.

A physician who enages in malpractice is not only a perjurer, but he is a thief who steals from his victims their most priceless possession, their health.

I happen to be one of those fellows who is scared to death of sickness. Whenever one of my friends has something the matter with him, I immediately have all the symptoms and run to my doctor.

Right now I am taking a teasp onful of a red liquid four times a day. There isn't really anything the matter with me, but I feel much better already.

I HAD read an article about "cerebral hemorrhages" after President Roosevelt's death, so I developed a violent headache and was sure I ran a temperature.

I rushed for the thermometer. It showed 98.6, which, as you know, is normal, but I ran to my doctor just the same.

Just to please me, he told me that my blood presure was up a bit, due, probably to imaginary worry, and he gave me the red medicine.

When I asked him when he wanted to see me again, he said, with a smile: "I hope never."

The bottle is only half used up, and already I am forgetting to take my medicine.

If you have a little hypochondriac in your home, I'll be glad to let you have the rest of the stuff without charge.

Today's Chuckles

AT the time of going to press, a person could still cuss a cat without having to file a record of the transaction with the government.

Pauley's Stand Is Firm

(Washington Merry-Go-Round)

By DREW PEARSON
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—At the Chicago Democratic convention last July, there was a little tunnel under the speaker's stand to the floor of the convention hall. Off this passageway were little doors. One was marked: "Edward Pauley."

To the little office behind this door, big, ingratiating Democratic Treasurer Ed Pauley hauled from the floor delegate after delegate who was wavering between Truman and Wallace. There he convinced California's Attorney General Bob Kenney, who had arrived as a Wallace supporter but who after listening to Pauley voted for Truman, and took half of California's delegation with him.

PEARSON

In those last frantic hours when it was nip and tuck between Wallace and Truman, Pauley and his little office did a thriving business. Perhaps he tipped the scales for the man who now sits in the White House.

Last week, after the political debt was paid which made Pauley U. S. member of the Reparations commission, Big Ed had a talk with old friends, including his chief in the White House. Judging by what Big Ed told them, there is no doubt where he stands regarding a hard peace for Germany.

State department appeasers, he told them, will arrange his transportation and his hotel accommodations, but that's all. Otherwise, Pauley is determined that the policy of Franklin Roosevelt before he died shall be carried out. That policy was that every potential war factory in Germany be transferred or wiped out. President Truman has reemphasized that policy.

Pauley, who is as good a businessman as he is a politician, may be a lot better than some diplomats when it comes to carrying it out.

TRUMAN WOOS GOVERNORS

PRESIDENT HARRY TRUMAN is determined to cement his relationship with state leaders as well as Congress. That was the reason behind the recent visit to the White House of Governors J. Howard McGrath of Rhode Island, Herbert R. O'Connor of Maryland and Robert Kerr of Oklahoma. McGrath and O'Connor had actually been asked by Truman to come to Washington, while Kerr happened to be in town and was invited to join them.

Truman opened the conversation by telling the governors that since they live among their constituents from day to day, they are perhaps able to keep a closer check on what the people are thinking than members of Congress. He asked their help in seeing to it that our foreign policy is understandable to the American public, and in turn is understood by the public.

Foreign policy was the only subject discussed, aside from the arrangements for the annual governor's conference, to be held in July at Mackinac Island, Mich.

Truman was invited by the three governors to attend the Mackinac Island sessions, or at least to come out and speak to the governors. The idea appealed to him, but he said he could not reply definitely until much later, when he knew what would be happening in Washington and elsewhere in the world.

As the gubernatorial trio left, McGrath of Rhode Island dropped behind for a moment and Truman said he might be calling him to Washington again within a couple of weeks. McGrath, who led Roosevelt and Truman by more than 10,000 votes in Rhode Island last year, is serving his third term as governor and was U. S. attorney in Rhode Island for seven years before that. A close friend of Bob Hannegan, McGrath seconded Truman's Vice-Presidential nomination last year at Chicago.

NOTE—Later in the day a reporter called McGrath and asked him if he had discussed horse-racing with the President. The governor said he had not, hung up the telephone and turned to a friend. "Lord, what a story the reporters could have made out of that—the governors of Maryland and Rhode Island, two of the hottest horse-racing states, closeted with the President as V-E Day gets close. You know, I didn't even think of horse-racing, and I'll bet O'Connor didn't either."

O'DWYER'S FOOD

WAR Refugee Board Director General William O'Dwyer won't admit it, but he plans to resign soon and devote his full time to getting elected mayor of New York.

O'Dwyer has done a bang-up job as head of the War Refugee board, has even achieved what some people consider "the impossible" in getting the stuffy State and War departments to rush aid to starving refugees.

Early last February, O'Dwyer found the government had more than 1,000 tons of food in Switzerland and another 2,100 tons of food in Sweden lying idle, while refugees died. O'Dwyer figured as a result of his studies of Nazi psychology that in the last days of Hitlerism, the Germans would not go in for extermination by shooting, would accomplish the same end by mass starvation.

To help head this off, O'Dwyer went to Secretary Morgenthau, acting Secretary of State Grew and Secretary of War Stimson, who advised him to go to Switzerland, talk to the International Red Cross there. O'Dwyer did not tell them so, but he turned thumbs down on this idea, realizing that once he left Washington he would be at the mercy of the State department. Instead he went to see Secretary of Commerce Henry Wallace. Wallace took O'Dwyer to see his brother-in-law, the Swiss minister in Washington, who in turn arranged by cable with Switzerland to furnish the trucks to carry food relief into Germany.

Next O'Dwyer put the heat on General Eisenhower's headquarters to give him an allotment of 2,000 gallons of gas a week, together with the necessary tires. All this he turned over to the International Red Cross which began a shuttle trucking service to take care of refugees. O'Dwyer gave orders that all refugees regardless of race or creed were to be fed.

And though many starved in Nazi prison camps, the death toll would have been higher without forthright Bill O'Dwyer.

CONGRESSMEN'S FRANKS

A LOT of people are watching to see whether the Justice department will crack down on an unusual case involving misuse of the franking privilege. In this case, however, the congressmen and senator whose franks were used are not to blame. The culprit, Postoffice inspectors claim, is Mrs. Agnes Waters, Washington representative of the National Blue Star Mothers of Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Waters has mailed official Army casualty lists to members of her organization, asking that they write to bereaved mothers and wives thanking them for contributing their sons and husbands to "the Jewish war."

The postal violation came in the use of government franks to mail these lists. Mrs. Waters obtained the franked envelopes from the offices of Reps. Percy Priest of Tennessee, Joseph Mansfield of Texas and Charles Gifford of Massachusetts, and Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia. The congressmen did not know the envelopes were in circulation but their secretaries obviously were careless in letting some of them out. For each violation, Mrs. Waters is liable to a $300 fine. How many other franks she has used is not definitely known, but postal inspectors are believed to have uncovered enough evidence to result in fines amounting to well over $30,000.

Representative Priest has been urging the Justice department to take action, but officials there are hesitant.

Miller Writes Running Navy Commentary

"The Far Shore" Is Philosophical-Ruminative Writing

"THE FAR SHORE," by Max Miller; (Whittlesey House).

MAX MILLER, the newspaperman who wrote "I Cover The Waterfront" several years ago to have it become a best seller, has written another new book even though he is in the Navy now.

"The Far Shore," also about a waterfront, two waterfronts, in Normandy and southern France, doesn't quite come up to expectations. It's a philosophical-ruminative work, sort of written from the side lines though Miller, a lieutenant commander in the Navy, was in the thick of it. The jacket calls it "grim, splendid and incredible." It is none of these.

MAX MILLER

The best lines are those which Miller, whose ear is as sharp as his eye is observant, quotes from service men. One sailor looking over a smashed Normandy town remarks: "We sure liberated the hell out of this place." Another, accused of taking a cigar that didn't belong to him, retorts: "A cigar don't care who smokes it." And then there was the officer who, the day before he died at Anzio, sent out this dispatch: "We've got the Germans exactly where they want us."

Comparisons Enjoyable

For the next best, you'll enjoy Miller's apt, sensitive comparisons. Beachheads are like circuses, he finds, only turned around; they open with the slambang of a finale and then peter out. He says Navy personnel would be censored right out of Boston for some of the words they use.

There is little or no material here for the historian, except perhaps the official Navy and Coast Guard photographs. It's a kind of running commentary on an intelligent observer's sensations in the course of the two great landings.

Miller is interested in the men, not the machine. If he has a theme, it is that America is where Americans are. The sailors are not finding foreign places romantic.

Just a bunch of home bodies, Miller seems to be saying. He says it all urbanely, and polishes it until it shines. Maybe the trouble is too much shine.

"Forget Your Age"

DO you lie about your age or simply refuse to tell it? Then you are more sensible than most people, says Dr. Peter J. Steincrohn in "Forget Your Age!" (Doubleday, Doran). Nobody needs to know your right age, not even your doctor. You would be much better off if you didn't know it, he says. Dr. Steincrohn's book tells you not only how to live long, but how to live happily. What you should know about the various diseases and what you should leave to your doctor are all here in black and white. Even if you never have an ache or pain, you will enjoy "Forget Your Age!" for its recommendations on how to stay young mentally and spiritually. Says Dr. Steincrohn, "Your age at any given moment depends as much on your philosophy as on the state of your arteries." How to keep a young philosophy when every year a birthday reminds of passing years is told in this book.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

YOU'LL BE TRAVELING THE TOKYO ROAD TOO...

...when you welcome the Victory Volunteer

THE MIGHTY 7th WAR LOAN

. . . As you read this, your armed forces are fighting their way toward the great victory. Every American must do his part—that means every American must back this greatest of all War Bond drives — the mighty, urgent Seventh!

TWO BIG DRIVES IN ONE!

. . . Last year, by this time, you were asked to subscribe in two drives. Since this is the first drive in 1945, we must be ready to back it up to the hilt. That means you must substantially increase your bond buying during the Seventh.

. . . Let's get ready now to welcome the volunteer salesmen with a generous heart and an open pocketbook. Thousands of men, women, boys and girls are giving their time to take your bond subscriptions. They know how vital this drive is—show them you know, too, by buying bigger, extra bonds.

. . . If you have any income, from any source—whether from work, land or capital—you have a personal quota in this drive. Find out what it is—and be ready to do your share when your victory volunteer calls.

. . . The need is greater than ever before. As we push closer to victory, the cost of waging war gets higher and higher. More guns, more ships, more planes are needed every day. That's why we must put every ounce of effort behind the Seventh War Loan. And remember, too, war bonds are still the world's safest investment—they represent savings for your future—victory for your country.

Tentative Plan Gives Russia Lion's Share Of Germany

By ROBERT EUNSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, May 11.—The next job facing the Western Allies and Russia is the division of conquered Germany for occupation, and although the boundaries as yet have not been set, the approximate lines give Russia the biggest share.

For theoretical borders, draw a north-south line through Hannover and Hersfeld. Then slice the western section of Germany with a line running from Hersfeld to near Aachen.

Everything, more or less, in the eastern sector will be under Russian control. Northwestern Germany will be occupied by Great Britain and the southwestern sector by the United States.

Yanks Would Pull Back

These approximate boundaries, if correct, would mean that American armies would have to withdraw from sectors they have conquered and turn over thousands of square miles to the Russians.

(A London dispatch said the French, according to unofficial speculation, would occupy the Saar and extreme southwestern Germany.

(Berlin is to be jointly occupied, and possibly Vienna as well, although a new Austrian government has already been formed, this dispatch reported.)

The line separating the Russian zone from the western Allies' has been referred to for months on the front as the Hannover-Hildesheim line.

Stalin Protested

It has been reported that the Ninth army in its eastward drive was to have stopped at the Weser river rather than the Elbe and that when it approached Magdeburg Marshal Stalin sent a note of protest to the late President Roosevelt.

Observers say the Hannover-Hildesheim line will create "two Germanies."

The Russians east of the Elbe have already set up a barrier which American and British troops are not allowed to pass.

A four-power European advisory commission is working secretly on the final determination of zones of occupation and the terms under which the Germans will live. These are to be announced simultaneously in Washington, London, Moscow and Paris.

Sugar Users Face New Cut

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP) — Increasingly tighter sugar rationing, cutting industrial users to 50 per cent of their pre-war supply, appeared in prospect for mid-year today.

Sugar allotments to householders for home canning will be reduced too—and it will be a lot harder to get them from local rationing boards.

OPA officials, testifying yesterday before the House food investigating committee, said the deep retrenchments are necessary because of a growing sugar shortage, augmented in part by a 700,000-ton over-issuance of sugar to civilians in 1944.

Based On 1944 Average

Industrial users of sugar—soft drink bottlers, candy makers, bakers, etc.—now receive an average of 70 per cent of the amount they used in 1941. But OPA general counsel Richard H. Fields gave the committee a statement from Max McCullough, rationing administrator, which said:

"It appears that it will be necessary during the last half of the year to reduce the allotments of most industrial users to a level of 45 or 50 per cent of their 1941 use."

That would mean a 20 or 25 per cent cut below present allotments—allotments which industry witnesses said yesterday may force some manufacturers to close down.

Rules Said Too Simple

The OPA witnesses conceded that the agency made home-canning rations too simple last year. As a result householders drew out 300,000 more tons of sugar for that purpose than local boards were supposed to issue.

"It was extremely easy," said McCullough's statement, "for a consumer to get sugar ostensibly for canning and use it for other purposes. We know now much was used for other purposes."

It'll be tougher this year. The total home-canning allotment has been froben at 600,000 tons — against more than 1,000,000 used last year. Quotas will be fixed above which local boards cannot go.

U. S. Buys Food For Liberated Europeans

DALLAS, May 12. (AP) — Food for the liberated and occupied countries of Europe is being bought by the United States at the rate of $1,700,000,000 a year, L. J. Cappleman, acting chief of the procurement and price reports branch of the War Food Administration, said today.

Cappleman, head of the WFA's regional office of distribution here, went to Washington last January to take charge of food purchases for lend-lease, liberated countries, the Red Cross and United Nations relief and rehabilitation.

TO INTERN JAPS

WASHINGTON, May 12. (AP) — Unofficial sources said today that the Japanese diplomats captured in Germany would be subject to internment.

Sound waves are used in exploring the earth for oil deposits. The waves are made by an explosion underground, and the time for reflected waves to return to the surface gives a clue to rock formations below the earth's surface.

Lee Miller Learns About The Insides Of A Navy Cruiser

Borneo-Bound Japs Taken Prisoners At Sea As U. S. Task Force Patrols Pacific Area

BY LEE MILLER
Special Correspondent

ABOARD A CRUISER In The Southwest Pacific—(By Wireless) — Our task force took five Jap prisoners on its way to Borneo. The Japs were Borneo-bound too.

We would have taken more, but two Japs on one raft blew themselves up as one of our destroyers approached. And five more Japs on two other rafts, who showed no disposition to surrender and who were in water too shallow for a destroyer to enter, were killed by fire from a land-based plane we summoned.

LEE MILLER

The prisoners were a Jap naval physician, three pharmacists mates and a soldier, the latter slightly wounded from a recent American air attack on Bongao island of the Tawitawi group. The doctor said they had all been trying to escape from Bangao, but a strong current threw their rafts off course.

Rear Admiral Russell S. Berkey, the task force commander, ordered the prisoners transferred from the destroyer to another of our cruisers. We watched through glasses as a line was rigged between the two ships—while they proceeded at their usual speed. The Japs crossed over, one by one, in a variation of the breeches-buoy method.

Capt. Jack Duncan graciously offered to send me across the same way to interview the prisoners, but I demurred on the ground I wasn't fluent in Japanese.

Friendly Natures Overhauled

Meantime another destroyer, on which my friend Lt. Jack R. Howard, of New York, was stationed, overhauled two sailboats but signaled that they contained friendly natives.

Well our taking the prisoners wasn't much of a naval engagement, but then sizeable actions have been fought with fewer persons taken. So we dubbed it the "Battle of Tawitawi."

The "battle" concluded a busy day. We had had an air alarm in the morning, and I got a cracked shin clambering through a scuttle, but the planes turned out to be friendly.

THEN the chief engineer, Lt. Cmdr. George F. Jagla of Cotati, Calif., took the correspondents down to the engine rooms and fire rooms.

It was a hot day even on deck. When we finally emerged from our tour we were bathed in sweat and so limp it was all we could do to stagger to the gedunk stand for life-saving ice cream. The temperatures below reach as high as 140 degrees. Occasionally we would pause in front of a blower bringing in coolish air, but between pauses it was rugged.

We descended so far that at one time we were gazing upward at one of the four massive shafts that drive our propellers.

They Like Hot Work

The funny thing is, Jagla said, that his machinists, water-tenders, etc., would resent transfer to other jobs on the ship. And he said they didn't like going on deck for an airing. They work four hours, then have eight off, and they spend most of the eight in bunks far below deck.

And believe me, while sailors have many amenities that soldiers lack, the soldiers have some advantages. Whereas soldiers have the privacy of goldfish, sailors have the privacy of sardines under glass. They sleep in four—and five-tiered bunks tucked into every available cranny, no matter how public. I'd as soon sleep next to a subway turnstile.

ADMIRAL Berkey reported the wounding of my friend Col. Bob Allen, in Germany, and my thoughts went to his devoted wife, Ruth Finney, Washington correspondent.

The admiral is reading Ernie Pyle's "Brave Men," which he got for Christmas.

After dinner Lt. Frank E. Taplin of Cleveland, Admiral Berkey's intelligence officer, played the piano in the wardroom. "Tap" is a Princeton man. He is married to a New Zealander named Ngaio, the same as Ngaio Marsh, the New Zealand "whodunit" writer. So I finally learned how to pronounce the name. Just forget the "G" and say Nigh-oh. You never know what you'll find out in these tropical waters.

Births in Germany during the first half of 1944 were reported to have shown an increase of 8 per cent over the first half of 1943.

"Buy A War Bond TODAY."

Harnando de Sota, an early Spanish explorer, discovered the lower course of the Mississippi river in 1541. The Spaniards did not follow up his discovery and there is no further record of white men on the river for 132 years.
