Some Good—Some Bad

By Rusty

The promise of a free meal will insure a record attendance at your next meeting.

Some of the late model cars have come out without running boards. Now Jack Logan reports that some one is going to have to invent a fenderless automobile as his car is too wide for his wife to drive into the garage.

Wonder what the parishoners will think when a certain pastor leaving here soon to go to his first pastorate, arrives and starts unloading his household goods packed in whiskey cartons? Nothing like a good first impression to give you the right start in a community, I always say.

Why not admit, right at the start, that your wife is right? It will save having to agree with her later.

Grade school closed today for this term and several hundred young people are free for the next two months, from school duties and upon themselves and the parents rests the responsibility of finding other duties to replace the school, and keep restless youths from seeking unwholesome activities. Useful employment or the right kind of recreation is the ideal vacation for the American youth and the Boy Scout troops and the local Camp Fire group are doing a wonderful work along this line.

What Is Good Will?

The Supreme Court of the United States is rendering a decision in a very important case involving Good Will—the court gave the following definition of Good Will:

GOOD WILL IS THE DISPOSITION OF THE CUSTOMER TO RETURN TO THE PLACE WHERE HE HAS BEEN WELL SERVED.

A number of Burk Burnett merchants who are always complaining about trade going to Wichita Falls should take note of the above definition and put it into practice.

Attention, Bob Browning

If you missed one of your cantaloupes Wednesday evening we will be glad to tell you who the culprit was. We saw him take the cantaloupe and later trade half of it to the Cannon Drug Store for some ice cream. When last seen he was enjoying a cantaloupe a la mode. We will refrain from giving his name but his initials are Alvin Hill.

We believe it was Benjamin Franklin who said: "Save a little of thy income, and thy hidebound pocket will soon begin to thrive and thou wilt never cry again with an empty stomach; neither will creditors insult thee, nor want oppress, nor hunger bite, nor nakedness freeze thee. The whole hemisphere will shine brighter and pleasure spring up in every corner of thy heart."

Butler Recital At High School Friday Evening

Miss Blanche Butler will present her piano pupils in recital at the High School auditorium Friday evening, June 23, at 8 o'clock.

Approximately fifty pupils will take part on the program which Miss Butler states has been arranged so that it moves swiftly and alternates recital numbers with specialty acts in a manner which will keep the interest stimulated.

Miss Butler's recitals always offer something new and different and much time and thought have gone into preparations for the recital this year, which she states is one of the most unusual she has ever attempted.

Miss Clarine Fulk of Pampa, a young accordionist of note, will be presented as a guest artist. Other specialty artists will include the Browning sisters: Elaine and Virginia Dee; Willetta Smith

Sam Spence Will Address Fifty-Two Graduates Of Hardin Grade School

Fifty-two students will receive their seventh grade diplomas in commencement exercises at Hardin school auditorium Thursday evening, June 22. Sam Spence, prominent Wichita Falls lawyer, former district attorney of this district, and former resident of Burk Burnett, will deliver the principal address of the evening.

Amateurs To Try For Prizes Next Community Night

ACC QUARTET WILL BE FEATURED

The next Community Nite program, June 30, will be open to all amateur artists in Burk Burnett and surrounding communities. Any sort of talent will be accepted; singing, dancing, imitations, etc. Prizes will be awarded to the first three places, which will be decided by judges.

Herman Engelmann will have charge of all entries. Anyone interested in competing is asked to contact him at an early date.

As an added special attraction on that date, the Male Quartet from Abilene Christian College, which is making a tour of the United States, will sing several numbers. The quartet is composed of boys from four different states: Bob Hornbacker of Stafford, Kansas; Clint Cooke of Cordell, Okla.; Frank Dunn of Conway, Ark.; and James Black of San Juan, Texas.

The first Community Nite program was presented here Friday evening, June 16, before a large and enthusiastic crowd. The school band opened with a concert which was very well received. Much comment was made on the development they have made in the eight months since the band was organized with Earle Woodall as director. Plans are being made to outfit the band with uniforms before the football season.

They will probably be heard at various times throughout the rest of the summer at these programs, which will be held at surrounding which will be held here and at surrounding communities.

Rotary Club

President M. C. Tucker presided at the regular meeting of the local Rotary club Tuesday noon. Jingle Hayes, program chairman, introduced Carl Morrison, who showed the club members a film on "Care of the Teeth."

H. D. Smith has charge of the program for next week.

Rotarians from Wichita Falls attending were: Alex Brittain, Kindel Paulk, Charlie Featherston, James Atell, J. K. Estes, John Sullivan.

Trucker Really "Burns Up Road"

The spectators along West Main street experienced a minor thrill last Saturday evening when they saw flames suddenly burst from the pavement. The unusual fire, which spread along the street for about one hundred feet, was caused by gasoline leaking from the tank of Edward Wilburn's truck. It was reported that one end of the tank dropped down onto the pavement, and the fire was caused by the friction as the tank dragged along the pavement.

Neither the truck nor the driver were injured. However, one spectator attempted to extinguish the flame by pouring water on it. Let it be said here that water tends to spread flames caused by gasoline instead of extinguishing them.

Panhandler: "Can you spare $1.65 for a hotdog, buddy?" Gentleman: "Hotdogs only cost a nickel." Panhandler: "Yeah; but I'm going to eat it in the Yankee Stadium."

Local Ginners Endorse Cotton For Bagging

W. T. Holman of the Farmers Co-operative gin, and Walter Duval, manager of the Burk Burnett gin, endorsed a movement sponsored by county agent G. R. McNeil this week to use cotton bagging in wrapping cotton.

A meeting of the ginners of this area was held in the offices of the county agent in Wichita Falls Monday and all ginners went on record as endorsing the movement.

It was pointed out that cotton is usually wrapped in jute and sugar bag, which is more expensive than cotton. Use of the cotton wrapping would take some of the surplus cotton off the market.

Lions Install Officers For Coming Year

Lions club officers for the ensuing year were installed by retiring president Lee Clifton at a regular meeting Tuesday evening. The new officers are: Leonard Mattingly, president; Luther Caffee, 1st vice president; Lynn Kincaid, 2nd vice president; 3rd vice president, Clifford Dodson; Guy C. Pryor, sec'y-treasurer; Bill Estes, Lion Tamer; Ray Hill, tait twister. New directors are Sloan Mills, Millard Fulk, and Fred Knauth. Helen Ingle is Club Sweetheart.

District Attorney Z. D. Allen addressed the assembly and Mrs. M. E. Lewallen and her pupils were presented in a series of musical numbers. Joining Mrs. Lewallen in the performance were Lela Mae Pinkston, Mrs. B. W. Poteet, Irene Hullum, Frances McCreary and Claudia Mae Bowman.

The program was in charge of Barney Lorang, Fred Knauth. B. N. Cauthorn was a visitor.

Kellam, State Director of that organization, for the employment of Wichita County youths in improving and beautifying the state highways in Wichita county; furnishing hospital aides in the City-County Hospital and the State Hospital; the employment of youths in clerical positions with the various public offices; the operation of a woodworking shop, in which the youths will gain work experience in woodworking and at the same time produce necessary useful articles for tax-supported organizations; and the operation of a project for Wichita Falls Airport, in which youths will gain work experience in the different types of ground work necessary to the successful operation of an airport.

These projects should operate to the mutual advantage of the youths and the general public. The youths will be given valuable work experience and will have an opportunity to earn their livelihood and at the same time perform useful, worthwhile work which will be an aid to the general public.

Burk Dogies Break Into Win Column

The Burk Burnett Dogies broke loose with a seven-run rally in the eighth inning of their game with the Iowa Park Buffs in Iowa Park Sunday to win, 13 to 10.

The enraged Dogies sent three Iowa Park hurlers to the dugout and had started on Lewis Landrum, called in to the mound from shortstop, when the game ended. Burk Burnett registered 11 safe hits, and Iowa Park 10.

James Zink came to the rescue of his fellow pitcher, David Brantley in the sixth frame when Burk Burnett was trailing, 6 to 9, and held the Buffs in check. He smashed a double with the bases loaded, to score all three runners.

AMERICA'S CRIME RECORD

Crime keeps pace with progress.

During the lifetime of middle-aged Texans the population of Texas has doubled. Crime has trebled and then some. No single industry or business, 50 or even 100 years old is comparable in magnitude with illegal activities of criminals. Their tentacles have found their way into every legitimate business and industry in the land. Even the almost impregnable forces of the government have not been immune. Fugitives in their flight and in their dire need menace the safety of our people on the public highways and in their homes. Lawlessness at times has corrupted legislative halls; it has polluted segments of the judiciary; it has contaminated public office; it has even demoralized certain of our law-enforcing agencies. Its subversive forces are gradually undermining the cornerstone of our social order. The business interests of the state and nation have suffered tremendous damages from the plague of predatory activities. Certainly business can never reach the zenith of prosperity, nor the home attain to its peace and security until widespread lawlessness is curbed. And it can be done.

But the curb of lawlessness must begin right here in this community. Not all the sins of the nation are committed in the East or in some distant seaport. There are crimes and criminals in every community of this fair land. This means that there is a grave responsibility right here at home, in the homes of this section, in the schools of this district, and in the law enforcing agencies of this county.

Speaking recently in Houston, Pierce Brooks stated, "It behooves every citizen who loves his state and who loves his home to help in the crisis of these perilous times. It is most disturbing when one checks the statistics and learns that crime in some form or other will visit at least one out of every four homes in America this year unless drastic steps are taken to stay the onslaught of forces of lawlessness that are loose in the land today."

LEGISLATIVE TENDENCIES

Some Texas lawmakers are tending toward the extreme and unless their tactics are changed the State is headed for most treacherous waters.

The rider attached to the appropriation bill relating to publishing a department head or employee smacks of some type of dictatorship forced upon the people of Russia, Germany or Italy.

Boiled down to its basic elements, the rider would impose the theory that the masses should be held in ignorance of what a department head or employee may be doing to make such a department function.

If that is the type of legislation that a few members of the legislature would conjure up to glut the statute books, it would have been better for their own district and for Texas had they never been elected.

Doubtless the thinking voters of Texas next year will ask some very embarrassing questions of their present legislators in the event the latter seek re-election. Their records will be revealed. Every tub should stand upon its own bottom and the time has come—yes has always been here, when the government should have more intelligence and less horse play and insincerity; more morality and less attendance at honky-tonks; more conscientious consideration of the conservative view of things, and thus put an end to radical dreamers whose knowledge of the needs of Texas is so limited as to cause the general public to distrust their usefulness.

I Give You Texas

By Boyce House

It has been said that there is a sidewalk cafe in Paris, France, and if you sit at one of the tables long enough, you will see everybody in the world—no doubt, a slight exaggeration. Pretty much the same statement however could be made, as far as Texans are concerned, with regard to Austin hotel lobbies.

Over there is Paul Holcomb, fiery, crusading El Campo editor, given the lion's share of the credit for the defeat of T. J. Holbrook, who was the "dean of the Senate", and here comes smiling Charles Deval, Kilgore editor. There's Colonel Ray Leeman, erect and military-looking with his mustache; he's the executive vice president of the South Texas Chamber of Commerce—and did you know he used to write poetry? It was quite some time ago when he was Chamber of Commerce secretary of his native town of Mineral Wells and his poems proclaimed the glories of the resort city.

Others: Jim Gaddy Norris, Fort Worth attorney and son of the celebrated Dr. J. Frank Norris; Dr. W. J. Danforth of Fort Worth, past State American Legion commander; Curtis Hill, tall, slow-talking, droll Dallas lawyer, former assistant Attorney General. Lots of interesting folks visit Austin.

Glorious is the treat promised by Barney Hubbs, publisher of the Pecos Enterprise, when the West Texas Press association assembles in his picturesque city, Friday and Saturday, August 11 and 12. Among the features will be one joint session with the New Mexico Press Association in Carlsbad, N. M.; trip through Carlsbad Caverns; tour of the Big Bend country, including McDonald Observatory, Sul Ross College and Museum, and scenic points in the Big Bend National Park besides special entertainment by towns along the way. Barney declares, "You won't have much use for your pocketbooks after you get out here. Practically everything is furnished except your ability to have a good time in the only untamed country on the face of the earth." To President Douglas Meador of Matador and Secretary J. C. Smyth of Snyder, thanks for a reminder of the convention.

And, speaking of good times, remember the fun you had at Pioneer Palace in Fort Worth in 1936 and '37? Well, when magnificent Casa Manana opens on July 21 for the summer, the Western fun-spot with the stage above the bar will open too and there will be vaudeville, old-time moving pictures (like "The Perils of Pauline") old-style melodrama (Curses, foiled again!) and audience-singing with colored slides, such as were popular in 1910, illustrating such songs as "Down by the Old Mill-Stream" and "Let Me Call You Sweetheart." And Lou Wolfson, executive director promises that Karma, a fortune-teller only three inches high, will be there, along with an amusing auction, a device where you shoot a gun and take your own picture, a penny arcade and dancing.

Readers send in the following nomination for the "oldest joke" contest:

A man, who had beaten up an acquaintance, was before the judge. "Why did you do it?" the judge inquired. "Because he called me a hippopotamus," the defendant replied. "But that was a year ago," the injured man said. "I know it," the other answered, "but I hadn't seen a hippopotamus until yesterday."

A stranger, strolling through the cemetery, read a tombstone inscription: "Here lies a lawyer and an honest man." The visitor commented, "Ground must be scarce around here; they're burying 'em two to the grave."

An old farmer consulting a lawyer about a prospective law-suit said, "I'll give you the facts and you can put in the lies to suit yourself."

Sunday is the only day that most citizens have a chance to get out with their families and really enjoy the use of the highways that their money has built. They go picnicking, visit relatives or just drive around and view the scenery. The presence of big trucks on the highways on that day adds a traffic hazard to the congestion, hence the well-received suggestion of State Railroad Commissioner Jerry Sadler that such trucks should not run on Sunday unless handling perishables or doing other emergency hauling.

Sportsmen's Show Comes To Texas

A new type of instructive-entertainment, sportsmen's shows, which have attracted tens of thousands of spectators in Eastern cities is invading Texas. Elaborate preparations are being made for the first of these, the Southwest Sportsmen's, which will be staged at Amarillo for one week beginning June 26 and which is expected to attract 20,000 persons.

The show, being staged by sportsmen of the Panhandle, will present the greatest galaxy of outdoor sports talent and the

WHEN PASTURE NEEDS HELP

St. Louis, Mo.—It is calculated that a cow weighing 1000 pounds and producing 12 quarts of milk daily—and getting pasture only—requires each day 100 pounds of grass. This is a great deal of grass—especially when it has to be grazed. On pastures good enough to yield 100 pounds of grass per acre per day, this cow would need a muzzle four feet wide and would have to push it over two miles every day to obtain enough grass to satisfy her needs.

Grass Is Great Feed
"There's no question about the milk stimulating properties of green, juicy grass," says D. H. Van Pelt, Purina Dairy Specialist. "When cows are first turned on grass, milk production spurts to a higher level. No wonder dairy farmers are tempted to quit feeding their milk-making ration!"

"What they don't take into consideration is the fact that pasture stays at its best only a short time. As its quality deteriorates, milk production gradually falls off. This is vividly confirmed by the following typical experiment, conducted at the Purina Experimental Farm—

"Cows 338 and 117 of the Purina herd were as near alike in condition, freshening period and producing ability as was practical to select. Cow 338 was on grass alone for 5 months. At the end of that time she had lost 190 pounds in weight and gave 138 gallons of milk in July, August and September. Cow 117 was on grass, along with which she was fed grain that had been balanced out with Purina dairy concentrate. After 5 months she had gained 45 pounds and her July, August and September production was 189 gallons of milk.

A Costly Practice

"It would be a shame to let a cow like No. 338 go through the spring and summer on nothing but grass, then freshen with her body weight down right ahead of the fall and winter lactation period. It would cost far more in feed and care to bring her back into better production and condition," Van Pelt says. "Common sense and long experience dictate that it pays to feed a supplementary grain ration with pasture, right from the start."

"On lush pasture the regular winter grain ration should be cut in half," recommends Van Pelt. "As the season advances and grass loses more and more of its stimulation, the grain ration should be increased enough to hold up production. In the long run this method uses less feed, is less costly, and contributes greatly to the life and milking capacity of the cow."

larily. It has no money to lend, but its services are free and confidential. Meeting notices will appear from time to time.

Neighbor: "When you grow up what is your ambition, Tommy?" Tommy: "I'd like to have people tremble like leaves at the mere mention of my name."

Emancipation Day

By Bill Woods

We wonder how many people know that Negroes in Texas and Louisiana celebrate Emancipation day on different dates from other states?

The Emancipation Proclamation, which freed all the slaves in the entire South, except Tennessee, parts of Louisiana, and Virginia, where Federal troops were already in power was one of those events which was relegated to obscurity by the momentous conflict between the North and the South. At the insistence of the more radical Republicans, Lincoln issued the Proclamation on January 1, 1863, although he did not feel that the public was ready to receive such a proclamation. He was afraid that the proclamation, following so close on the disastrous McClellan campaign, might be construed as a desperate attempt of a defeated combatant to regain the support of his followers.

Although this proclamation included Texas and a major portion of Louisiana, the citizenry of the Lone Star state and Louisiana did not heed the statement. However, when General Sheridan arrived in New Orleans from Washington in 1865, he brought with him the authority to enforce the provisions of the Emancipation Proclamation, which he reissued from his headquarters in New Orleans on June 19, 1865. The Negroes of these two states now celebrate that day as the entire citizenry of this country celebrate the Fourth of July.

FSA Committees Assist Farmers In Paying Debts

Burden of excessive debt was lightened for 148 Texas farm families during May by county debt adjustment committees, it was announced recently by Guion Gregg of the Farm Security Administration.

Mr. Gregg said that of the 12 FSA administrative districts in the state, a 24-county area in Northwest Texas, including Wichita county, had the greatest adjustment. M. B. Oates, Wichita Falls, is district FSA supervisor. Debts are adjusted by county committees which act as mediators between debt-distressed farmers and their creditors in working out agreements for extensions of time and reduction in interest

Petroleum Cocktail For Motorists And Industry Constantly Refilled By Increasing Oil Reserves

PIONEER oilmen of Pennsylvania who boasted of their ability "to drink every drop of oil produced west of the Ohio River," started a game that has been popular ever since. Periodically the nation is warned to prepare for an oil shortage.

The pessimistic Pennsylvanians made no attempt to carry out their boast. The motor car and other machines powered with internal combustion engines took over the job. In recent years the machines have been "drinking" about 1,000,000,000 bbl. of petroleum and its products annually. Yet to exhaust reserves of oil known to be stored underground and recoverable with today's methods, they would have to drink another 17,348,000,000 bbl.

Prophets Confounded

Petroleum technologists seem to take delight in confounding the prophets of doom and disproving their scares of scarcity.

Commercial production of oil began in Pennsylvania in 1859. Oil was located at a depth of 69 feet. By 1895 wells were drilled to a depth of 1,200 feet, by 1909 to 5,600 feet, by 1930 to 10,000 feet. In 1938 the world's first 15,000-foot well was brought in.

To make life more difficult for the exhaustion experts petroleum scientists attack the problem from several angles. Old fields are given youthful producing vigor by a blood transfusion technique. Gas or water is forced into the wells; additional oil comes to the surface. For instance the old Bradford field in Pennsylvania had a peak production of 23,000,000 bbl. in 1881. Production fell to about 2,000,000 bbl. in 1910. Repressuring with water lifted production to about 20,000,000 bbl. in 1937!

New fields annually augment the nation's reserves as scientific and precision instruments probe underground secrets so thoroughly the geologic formations his drill will encounter. The seismograph, the torsion balance, the magnetometer and the gravity meter detect the presence of domes, anticlines, synclines, arches, faults and other formations in which oil may be trapped.

Refiners Progress

Petroleum refiners have joined in the sport of making the prophets miserable. They have developed scientific methods of manufacture which curtail the volume of crude oil needed for a given quantity of refined products. Only a few years ago they doubled the quantity of useful products so obtained, and still newer methods indicate that recently they have rung the bell again. It is estimated that about 36 gallons of gasoline now can be obtained from a 42-gallon barrel of crude oil. About 20 years ago nine gallons was the average yield.

Poor Guessing

The score of those who have been courageous enough to predict the day of exhaustion has been incredibly poor. In 1914 imminent exhaustion was predicted. Only 6,000,000,000 bbl. was believed to be in reserve; 18,000,000,000 bbl. since have been produced. In 1925 only 5,000,000,000 bbl. were known to be available, but 13,000,000,000 bbl. have been brought to the surface since then. For January 1, 1939 reserves are estimated at 17,348,000,000 barrels, the greatest in history and actually proved by the drill as "oil in sight."

Predicting petroleum exhaustion is no sport for the amateur. The competition from the petroleum technologist is too tough! Furthermore, in some distant year, exhaustion actually should materialize, there is a gigantic supply of oil shales and coal from which products can be obtained at no great trouble or expense. Proper handling of a surplus rather than worry over a shortage appears to be the petroleum industry's continuing problem.

The corn fields are fine in this part and nearly everyone has their corn laid by and is getting ready to start in the fields of the poor man's crop (cotton) as it will be maybe March, 1940, before the crop will be laid by, harvested, ginned and sold, if it makes, and all the cotton farmer will realize out of this year's work will be the experience of raising a big cotton crop in 1939.

Just Think It Over

When you do another favor, forget it; but when another does you a favor, remember it.

Teacher: "Willie, where is Toronto?" Willie: "Right between Davenport and Pittsburgh."

Teacher: "Where did you get that answer?" Willie: "On our radio set."

The Pedestrian

I gaze across the street so wide; I start, I dart, I squirm, I glide; I take my chances, oh, so slim—I trust to eye and nerve and limb.

I scoot to right; I gallop through; I'm here and there; I'm lost to view.

My life, I know, hangs in a toss—Another plunge—I am across! Oh, give me pity, if you can, I'm just a poor pedestrian.

It costs a girl a lot of money to look beautiful while she's being courted but she gets even after she's married.

My Dear Old Dad!
"Dad may not be called the wisest Guy that ever trod the plain; Dad ain't fancy; Dad ain't cunning;

Dad ain't got the kind of brain That is used by many fellers, He is just a common guy Tryin' hard to make a livin' Livin' hard to make a try.

"Dad ain't got much style or flourish, He don't seem to care a lot If his pants is creased expertly Or his tie is tied or not; Even though his hat looks slouchy And his shoes need shinin' bad, You won't find a spark of worry Aggravating dear old Dad.

"Dad has learned to take what's given In his more than sixty years; He has learned that life's a mixture, Of some smiles, some hopes, some tears. Dad ain't never got no money, But he seems right pleased and glad That he's got some kids who proudly

Like to call him 'Dear Old Dad.' 'Seems as though he's gettin' feeble, Seems the weary years take toll; Age is markin' down its presence; Dad is slowly growing old. When he passes on forever, I'll remember that he had Every virtue that was needed, For a feller's 'Dear Old Dad.'"

To hear some fellows describe a thirty cent dinner you'd think they had dined like kings.

There is a good deal of difference between a reason and an excuse.

Save life and expense by using good sense.

Christian Science
Services

"Christian Science" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, June 25th.

The Golden Text is: "Sing, O heavens; and be joyful, O earth; and break forth in singing. O mountains: for the Lord hath comforted his people, and will have mercy upon his afflicted" (Isaiah 49:13).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also; and greater works than these shall he do; because I go unto my Father" (John 14:12).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The Principle of divine metaphysics is God; the practice of divine metaphysics is the utilization of the power of Truth over error; its rules demonstrate its Science." (page 111).

BYPU Enjoyed
Hobo Hike

Members of the Intermediate BYPU and their leaders and sponsors enjoyed one of the most unusual entertainments of the season last Thursday evening when they went on a "Hobo Hike."

The group met at the church at 7:30 where they posed for their pictures for Fred Brookman of the Burkburnett Star. They were dressed in overalls and straw hats and carried packs tied in bandanas and fastened on sticks.

They followed the railroad track north and hiked across to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Johnson where a big pot of stew had been prepared. Following the "refreshments" of stew and crackers and plenty of ice water, they hiked back to the church. Mrs. B. H. Preston made the trip on foot, but rode back to the church. Guests were Mrs. Henry Grace and Mrs. Artie Whitesides.

Leaders and sponsors were Henry Grace, director; Mr. and Mrs. Will Teal, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Preston, Mr. and Mrs. James Johnson. Mrs. Beulah Jackson and Mrs. E. H. Carver, who are also leaders in the department, were unable to attend.

Paint and varnish were applied where needed and the window curtains were tinted, ready to be hung next fall before Achievement Day when the final check-up will be done on work completed during the summer months.

Fairview FHM
Had Party At Sandy Beach

The Future Homemakers of Fairview with their sponsor and four of the girls' mothers made a two day trip to Dallas and Fort Worth last week. Funds for transportation and lodging were made by the club during the regular session of school. The girls carried groceries for all meals except one. The cost of that meal which was eaten down town, and tickets to a theatre were the only expenses of the trip. The meals eaten in tourist camps were all prepared by the girls who also made their own grocery lists and selected their supplies.

Mrs. Buzbee, Mrs. Hayes, Mrs. Roy, and Mrs. Donehoo furnished transportation for the trip, for which the girls are very grateful.

The party left the Fairview campus at 7:25 in the morning. Arriving in Dallas they went through a WFAA textile mill; ate the picnic lunch they had carried ready prepared; and then, finding all dress, lingerie, and hat factories shut down for a few days, they went to Sanger Bros., where they were most courteously shown through every department in the store.

After eating supper at their camp, they attended the theatre and window shopped. The next morning they breakfasted early and were in the broadcasting studio in the Baker Hotel for the "Early Birds" broadcast. They were then shown through the Baker, had a bird's-eye view of Dallas from the observation tower of the Magnolia building.

In the afternoon they made a tour of inspection of Baylor hospital and visited State Fair park, the Coca-Cola Plant, Brown's Cracker and Candy Co., and then started to Fort Worth where they saw the Botanical Gardens. They returned to Fairview by way of Lake Worth and Jacksboro.

Foy of Electra fell back into third place with an average of .438.

Wininger of Electra took the league leadership in base hits with 17, one better than Beilue, but was one run behind Beilue who leads the league with a total of 16.

Burkburnett History

As revealed by the files of The Star 10 years ago.

A deal was made a few days ago at which time the Wichita Falls Cotton Oil Co. purchased the Electric Gin from the W. S. Duvall Company of this city. The building is to be moved and the W. S. Duvall company will continue to operate what is known as the new gin.

The road from Stringtown to Iowa Park is to be graveled and 1½ miles on the old Wichita Falls-Burkburnett highway will be surfaced with Duraco rock asphalt soon.

About 500 people attended the first community night of the season held Monday night. W. B. January won prizes in a Yo Yo contest held at that time.

Plans were discussed by the Chamber of Commerce at their regular semi-monthly meeting Wednesday to sponsor a regular trades day.

A June wedding of interest is that of Rev. J. B. (Doc) Jordan, Mansville, Okla., and Miss Kathryn Louise Shelby of Mansville, which was solemnized on June 15th.

The marriage of Miss Mary Louise Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe H. Davis, to Don R. Carmichael, son of Mrs. W. R. Carmichael, of Denton, Texas, took place at the home of the bride's parents Tuesday morning.

The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Prinzing who has been seriously ill, is reported to be doing nicely.

Probably the youngest piano pupil in Burkburnett ever to be presented in recital is little Miss Mary Lafon Alexander, who will play 18 selection in her recital at the Methodist church Friday evening. Mary Lafon is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Alexander and is only 9 years of age. She has just completed her first year in music and won first place in a piano contest for having accomplished the most work in a year's time.

State Dept. Issues Typhoid Warning

If you have not been vaccinated against typhoid fever within the last two or three years, go to your family physician and have him give you three "shots" that will protect you against that disease.

This advice comes from the Texas State Health Department, and is addressed particularly to those persons planning vacations away from home or those who go regularly on camping, fishing or such trips.

Typhoid is contracted by way of the mouth. Each case comes directly or indirectly from some previous case. You eat or drink the germs that cause the disease, in food, water or milk contaminated by the discharges from persons who are ill with the disease or who have had it at some time.

Modern medical and public health practices have greatly reduced the occurrence of typhoid, but it is still a menace to those unprotected against the disease. Protection of public water supplies from pollution, pasteurization of milk, inspection and supervision of food supplies, improvement in household sanitation and hygienic habits, better sewage disposal and careful investigation of typhoid outbreaks to determine the source of the disease are measures which have contributed to the diminution of the incidence of typhoid in Texas. But there are still sources of infection to which individuals are exposed, that cannot be reached by public measures, and for which vaccination affords additional protection.

Persons who are apparently well, but who have had the disease at some time, may continue to discharge the typhoid germs. Such persons are known as "carriers" and if they are not careful in their personal habits they are liable to contaminate any food they touch. Flies carry germs from contaminated sources to food, and are another source of typhoid infection.

Health departments, state, city and county, are waging constant warfare against typhoid all the year. Special efforts are made during vacation period through the sanitary supervision of summer camps, parks, and public eating places to reduce any possible danger of vacation typhoid from such sources. But vaccination and sanitation are the only means of personal safety against the disease. So see your physician today for a vacation and summer unmarred by typhoid.

Texas Farmers Urged To Plant Grain For Quail

Quail once thrived in practically every section of Texas, but clean and perhaps unwise farming has done much to destroy the bobwhite's food and cover. However, quail are still hunted by five times as many sportsmen as those seeking any other kind of game in the Lone Star State, it is estimated by Will J. Tucker, Executive Secretary of the Game, Fish and Oyster Commission. Land owners, realizing this, and visualizing additional income from the leasing of hunting rights on their lands, are leaving more and more of their acreage, much of the part set aside being of little other use, in plots suitable for the raising of bobwhites.

To assist in this habitat planting by land owners, Phil D. Goodrum, Director of Research for the Game Department has announced that the planting of Korean lespedeza seed is proving one of the most beneficial moves tending to aid quail in their fight along the road back.

Goodrum also called attention to the fact that many of the practices permitted under the Agricultural Adjustment Act program are beneficial to wildlife and that the benefit payments under this program can be used by many land owners who wish to devote areas to wildlife restoration and thereby receive compensation in the form of hunting fees as a result of wildlife-aid improvements on the land given over to this purpose.

"Lespedeza seed can be used in these areas, along with a large number of plants, shrubs, and trees valuable to quail as shelter and food, but lespedeza seed is especially valuable to the farmer or rancher who does not have a great deal of land to be used for game raising," Goodrum said. "Strips of lespedeza planted along fence rows and at the edge of gullies provides what appears to be the best all around plant for bobwhite food. A good stand can be established on most soils except in the high plains and in semi-arid regions, where quail do not thrive, anyway, with a minimum of seed-bed preparation. The crop is used by many species of wildlife in addition to quail and has high feeding value throughout the winter months. Sown in the fall next to cover such as fence rows and gullies, lespedeza does not interfere with farm practices. The seed, originally imported from Korea, is moderately priced, selling at approximately 10 cents per pound in small lots at most seed stores and better rates can be obtained for larger orders."

Goodrum also pointed out that landowners clearing forested areas should leave gum elastic, prickly ash, blackberry, sumac, wild plum, black gum, beech and black haws standing due to the fact they provide excellent shelter and food for quail.

"In the more open regions where farmers seek to keep their lands from eroding further, landowners can plant their gullies to such things as Georgia cane and have a veritable game bird heaven and at the same time control the soil," Goodrum said. "Among the other plants highly beneficial are dovewoods, vetch, partridge pea, wild beans, wild sunflower, blackberries, bush clover, snow-on-the-mountain, Mexican clover and milk peas."

Where the land does not already support good cover for birds, Goodrum suggested that brush piles about five feet in diameter be stacked in fence corners or along fence rows leaving space enough under them for quail to move about. They will be used by quail as cover while the land is raising the natural cover supplied by many of the plants mentioned. "Give the birds half a chance with suitable cover, food and protection from being overshot, and you will have quail on your lands, even where the areas are not stocked if there are any birds within a mile of it," Goodrum concluded.

A large buck which ranges in Comal County must depend upon shrubs and small trees for all its sustenance. The deer, it is reported by Game Warden W. F. Sumbrell, has an antler growing downward and it is long enough that the buck cannot get its mouth within ten inches of the ground to graze on the short grasses. However, he isn't so bad off because 75 per cent of deer food is obtained from trees and shrubs.

Political Regulation Of Film Business

For many years the main theme of those advocating political regulation, and especially Federal regulation, of the film business has been directed against block booking. The main argument has been that because of block booking and blind buying of its season in advance, the theatre operator is forced to play sex pictures. In other words the false issue of morals has been injected into the argument.

The first and very obvious answer is that that so-called sex pictures are not made by the major companies at all, and are not involved in either block booking or blind buying in advance. Sex pictures are made by small independent producers. They are sold one at a time. Any theatre operator who plays one of these pictures knows exactly what he is doing. So, the moral issue is simply a bogus selling point to justify the political agitation.

In the second place, it would not be practical for the major film companies to operate without selling in advance of actual production. Their whole financing program is based on this practice. Prior commitments from theatres to play product when produced are the bases on which actual production is made, just as a builder of a new building undertakes to get leases in advance, so that he will know that he will have an income when his building is completed. In fact, the practice of selling in advance of production runs through the entire industrial structure, and is the only way that business can operate.

The third fallacy in the argument is the theory that the best way to cure any supposed evils by the government regulation Government regulation would create a new expense for general tax-paying public, which is not something gravely needed at this time. Aside from the extra expense to the public, the main thing which would be achieved by the government regulation would be to put control of the industry in charge of those who don't know anything about it; in fact, that is a requirement of one of the bills now pending before Congress. It proposed a bureau to run the film business, and provides that no member of the bureau shall have been previously connected with the business.

Judge (to habitual court offender): I wonder if there is anything good that could be said about you."

Offender: "Yessah, Judge. I see a deacon in my church."

Judge: "You a deacon! How in the name of goodness did a bum like you ever become a deacon in a church?"

Offender: "Well, your honor, you see it's this way; there's a powerful roughneck element in our church and they demand recognition."

State Game Warden Conner, whose district is Jefferson, Orange and Chambers counties, was recently voted the most outstanding member of the year of the Gulf Coast Rod and Reel Club of Beaumont.

Referee: "Any more of your questionable kicking of opponents young man, and off the field you go."

Football player: "Well, Ref., I'm just as much shinned against as shinning."

We heard a good definition of a woman the other day and we thought it good enough to pass on to our readers. It is said that a woman is a person who can walk down an eighteen-inch-wide drug-store aisle, lined with delicate chinaware, and not touch a bit of it. Then she goes out and gets into her car, drives home, and knocks the door off a twelve-foot garage.
