Ann Duncan, CHDA Says:

Focus is a new idea in the Extension Service Home Economics Program. I spent July 20-21 in Amarillo to learn new ways of using Focus in Lynn County.

Several years ago a national committee of Extension personnel was set up to study problems of American families and what type education would help families solve their problems. This committee decided on five major areas: Concerning all Americans. These areas are Family Stability, Consumer Competence, Family Health, Family Housing, and Community Resource Development.

The committee also studied who needed help the most, and recognized young marrieds, disadvantaged families, parents and adolescents, adults preparing for retirement, senior citizens, young children, and other professionals who deal with home-makers. They felt if concentrated educational programs were provided for these people, they would be able to solve many of their problems.

What are these problems? Over one million marriages break up each year. More than 2.5 million children under 14 need psychiatric help. Estimates indicate there are 4.5 million alcoholics. Consumers spend over $1 billion each day. Eighty percent of the families use consumer credit. Personal bankruptcies jumped 350 per cent in the last ten years. In 1960 more than 20 million families had inadequate housing. Fifty per cent of the teenagers have inadequate nutrition.

In 1962, one half of the young men called were accepted for military service because 25 per cent were medically disqualified. 25 per cent failed mental tests.

These problems have been cited on a national level. What about our own country and our problems? Could many of them be the same?

Instead of planning programs on food, clothing, home management, programs will be planned to help people find solutions to existing problems in everyday living. This does not mean we will leave out these subjects, but we plan the program for the people we serve and their needs.

I think we can be of more value to the people if we can help people live together. Consider the cost in personal adjustment of a divorced couple with young children; the prevention or cure of an alcoholic, versus alcoholism; the value of good nutrition for growing children; the prevention of falls, burns and other household accidents.

This is a change in emphasis in the home economics program which will enable us to reach more people for better living.

Three Accidents Listed In June

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated three accidents on rural highways in Lynn County during the month of June, according to Sergeant A. E. Roberts, Highway Patrol Supervisor of this area.

The crashes resulted in three persons injured, and an estimated property damage of $4,475.00.

The rural accident summary for Lynn County during the first six months of 1967 shows a total of 28 accidents resulting in no persons killed, 23 persons injured, and an estimated property damage of $22,223.00.

The number of traffic deaths in Texas continues to rise. For the first six months of 1967 there have been 1,476 traffic deaths compared to 1,396 traffic deaths for the first six months of 1966. This six per cent increase is very alarming, and chances are it will become very critical because of vacation months and holiday periods still ahead to intensify the magnitude of the accident picture.

This alarming increase can be reduced by drivers knowing and obeying traffic laws, being a defensive driver and being a courteous driver. The Sergeant stated, "Courtesy is contagious—try it."

Miss Wyatt Tells Of Trip

The Baptist Student Union at Texas Tech sponsored a trip to Mexico for ten girls (myself included) and two sponsors. Our purpose in going was to teach Bible to the children of American missionaries—who live in Mexico.

Each year missionaries hold a conference, to discuss the problems they may have had, and to plan for the current year. The city chosen this year was Cuernavaca, the capital city of the state of Morales, about an hour's drive south of Mexico City. Beyond the busy narrow city streets in Cuernavaca, sitting among the hills, is a huge hotel, converted recently to a resort center strictly for religious groups such as this.

Here, at the Chula Vista, it was the duty of the "Big Ten" (us) to corral 70 "MK" (missionary's kids) as we fondly called them. Seriously, we found them to be no different than any other normal children we had come in contact with, with one big exception. They had one over on us, in that they knew two languages—the Spanish language was mastered just as fluently as the English. In fact, some of the first graders could speak English just fine, but were able to read and write only in Spanish.

On the whole, they were generally cooperative and we became very attached to them before the trip was over.

In the beginning, I must admit, I felt no real challenge in teaching missionaries children, feeling that they had already heard what I had to say, maybe knowing more than I. The missionaries wives informed us about situations there that changed our minds. The important thing for us to do was to teach their children the American way of life. Through the Bible School they experienced an organized church classroom situation. Because of the type of missions many of their parents work in, the classroom situation is not possible. The children, even the youngest juniors, knew the scriptures well, much better than I, but having someone new to present them proved most effective in helping them to learn.

In the afternoon we planned recreation for the children; they swam, played soccer, hiked and generally kept us looking for them.

The countryside around Cuernavaca was truly beautiful and the climate was not humid as I had expected. The city itself was among the most interesting I saw, with cobblestone streets, and sidewalks wide enough for only one person. Most stores had open doorways; we just walked right in without having to worry about doors. And the buildings were very close to one another, many sharing a common wall between them. Although they looked old, they sold quite a few modern articles, the women's clothes were especially attractive.

This city, supposedly of the retired rich, had beautiful homes and perfectly kept gardens . . . but we couldn't see them. Because of the thievery and burglaries, many homes had high fences or stone walls around them, with broken glass strewn on top.

The homes are never left unguarded, and entrance is gained only with a written invitation. We were able to get an invitation, and marveled at the fine old elegance in which they lived.

Traffic is more than plentiful, but traffic signs are few, so one had to stay alert, or be sorry. But even among the drivers, we noticed a trait of almost all the Mexican people . . . constant courtesy. Smiles and waves were answered with smiles and waves.

I must mention that we saw the home of the famed Cantiflas, or "Pepe", high atop a garden terraced hill close to our hotel.

We all enjoyed our trip, and hope we were able to contribute something to the lives of those youngsters we taught for a week, as well as each of the Mexican citizens we came in contact with.

Funds Approved For Water Import

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 26, 1967 — Representative George Mahon reports from Washington that this week the House passed the Public Works Appropriation Bill which includes $400,000 to continue a broad investigation of the possibility of importing water into the West Texas and Eastern New Mexico area.

Of the sum provided, $200,000 goes to the Bureau of Reclamation and was included in the President's budget and was placed in the bill upon request of Mahon, Chairman of the House Appropriations Committee.

Mahon pointed out that the importation of water into the West Texas and Eastern New Mexico area was an extremely long-range proposition and will require the coordinated efforts of many interests.

Bill Griffin, County Agent Says.....

"Safety Begins at Home" is the thought for July 24 in the Farm Safety Week's daily emphasis series.

County Agent Bill Griffin reminds that neat, orderly farm houses are safer, more pleasant homes.

In order to prevent many of the accidents which happen around the house, caution must be taken while doing housework, caring for the family, during periods of relaxation and home recreation. Accident prevention in the home must be a 24-hour job.

Last year 1,800 deaths occurred in farm houses and 270,000 disabling injuries resulted from other accidents. Griffin emphasizes that farm owners should check home appliances, electrical wiring, power tools and other tools for defects. They should inspect heating systems, chimneys, stoves and other heating facilities.

Remember, "Safety Begins at Home" and the farm owners are the only ones that can make a farm safe.

SANDHILLS PHILOSOPHER

Guaranteed Annual Wage

(Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm may have his tongue in his cheek this week. You never can tell. It could be his foot. That's his problem.)

Dear editor:

I never have been afraid of a new idea, the same as the known and sometimes be worse than the unknown, and I'll admit I'm fascinated by a new idea I read about in a copy of a newspaper I found in a ditch by the road out here yesterday, weighted down by a load of tin cans and bottles which somebody in town apparently had given me, although I wish you'd tell them I'm not in the market.

According to it, the automobile workers are now asking for a guaranteed annual wage. They want to know at the start of the year what they'll earn by the end, not by the hour but by the year.

What I'm wondering is, why didn't us farmers think of that years ago? It's exactly what we need.

Like it is, we start out on a crop and don't know till it's gathered and sold whether we were working for $2 an hour, $1.25, 35 cents, or just for the fun of it.

Naturally, the first question that comes to mind is, who would guarantee us the annual wage? Naturally, too, the car manufacturers wouldn't be interested, nor would the grocery stores or the housewives or the packing companies or the chamber of commerce or the state legislature.

To be statesmanlike about it, the job obviously falls on Washington, and I will appreciate your using your influence if you can locate it somewhere around there in your office to get this thing set up by Congress before the end of the year. Look over there behind that stack of papers.

There is one point though I want to steer clear of. The auto workers are asking also for a share of the companies' profits. We don't need that provision in our bill. Don't even mention it.

You let somebody suggest we're entitled to a share in Washington's profits and immediately some smart alec up there would suggest we'd also have to share in the losses. It'd ruin us.

Yours faithfully, J. A.

Tahoka Men Attend School

COLLEGE STATION — Evon Wilson, Tahoka, a member of the Tahoka Volunteer Department, has returned from attending the 38th Annual Texas Firemen's Training School. The school, attended by more than 2,000 men from approximately 30 states, was held on the Texas A & M University campus last week.

Wilson was sponsored by Lynn County Farm Bureau and Texas Farm Bureau Insurance Companies by contributing toward his cost of the school. Since volunteer firemen are interested in attending the school to help do a better job of fire fighting, the County Farm Bureau and the Insurance Companies in the statewide program sponsored 140 firemen at the school.

NOTICE — Like roast cooked outside? For old 1876 recipe. Write — C. C. Garvin, Fritch, Texas.

The Insurance Company believes volunteer fire departments have contributed to reduce the amount of loss involved by fire. It is their hope the program will help the Tahoka Volunteer Department do even better in the future for residents of Lynn County.

Pat Patterson, fire chief of the Tahoka VFD, also attended the school, serving in the capacity of an instructor of rescue phases.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

Tahoka is not a poverty pocket, so why should one of the city's facilities be so run-down? The cemetery is a disgrace and I think it's about time someone said something about it publicly.

The dues we pay for maintenance don't seem to matter at all. The graves of our pioneers are long forgotten, grown over and dry. Those beautiful wrought-iron fences around some of the older graves are gone... the kind that kept the cattle out when this country was still open range.

The biggest disgrace, however, is the way our family and all the others are led to believe that the annual dues assure you that your loved one's resting place will be well cared for.

Perhaps all your readers will take a critical view of the cemetery and let's get something done about it. Yours Truly, Mrs. Wendell Norman, Plains, Texas

Camera Buffs — As an emergency sky filter when taking outdoor photos, use one lens of your sunglasses.

Be sure glasses are clean, and the F-stop has been adjusted to take care of light density.

Breaking In Footwear — Breaking in your outdoor shoes is important.

You should do this far in advance of any camping or fishing trip you intend to make. First, buy footwear plenty large for your feet, allowing for feet swelling.

Put them on and hike a couple of miles the first few days, three the next several days, and so on, until you are doing five miles per day.

Finally, put footwear on, stand in water four or five inches deep for 15 minutes. Allow shoes to dry while on the feet so that the leather will be formed to fit your feet.

Then every time you come ashore pull your boot out of the water and onto the log ramp.

Watch For Grit On Guides — Most fishermen are particular about cleaning their lines to see that they are kept free of grit.

However, a surprising number of these same anglers overlook the dressing and dirt which accumulates at the foot of the guides on their fly rods. This is abrasive and should be removed regularly by using a small brush.

Bill Griffin, County Agent Says.....

The major cause of death and injury on farms is from accidents with motor vehicles. Today is "Rural Highway Safety" day in the National Farm Safety Week.

County Agent, Bill Griffin, reminds all agricultural workers that care when driving or riding farm vehicles could cut the accident rate in half.

Courtesy is a key to increasing traffic safety and many accidents can be avoided if the driver will remember the basic rules of safe driving.

Griffin urges farmers to adjust their speed to driving conditions and obey all traffic signs.

Farm drivers should be especially careful when entering a road from a farm driveway or field gate. They should remove weeds, high crops, trees or shrubs at farm entrances and rural intersections to insure good visibility.

Many deaths and serious injuries could be prevented by the installation and use of seat belts in trucks and automobiles used around the farm, says Griffin.

National Farm Safety Week is the time for all agricultural workers to realize the dangers and try to prevent many of the needless motor-vehicle accidents on rural roads.

With the increase in use of heavy equipment on farms the number of accidents resulting from this use has also increased and today the National Farm Safety Week emphasizes the "Safe Use of Farm Machinery."

County Agent Bill Griffin reports that over 1,000 people will be killed this year from tractor accidents and the number of injuries from tractor and other equipment accidents may be over 200,000.

Today farmers are reminded of the dangers involved in the use of heavy equipment and warned to keep all machinery in safe operating condition with all guards and safety devices in place. Always stop the machines when servicing, and unclogging or adjusting and refuel after the motor has cooled.

To avoid upsets or backward flips, the operators should slow down when turning or on rough ground; hitch only to the drawbar; set wheels wide; and be cautious when working in slopes, all uneven ground or around ditches.

Griffin urges farmers to remember that the labor saved by good equipment is worthwhile only if the machinery is used safely to avoid injuries to the farmer, his family or help.

Soil News

The Great Plains Conservation Program is an important tool in developing complete conservation systems on the farms in the Lynn County Soil and Water Conservation District says Don Reed of the local Soil Conservation Office.

During the fiscal year which ended July 1, 1953 new contracts were signed in the District. Many others have expressed a desire to sign up this next year.

Through the program the farmer agrees to carry out a conservation cropping system on his land which will protect and maintain the soil in a productive condition. This normal includes high residue producing crops in rotation with cotton. They are needed to help maintain the organic matter of the soil and also serve as a means to catch and conserve water.

The Great Plains Conservation Program cost-shares on parallel terraces, waterways, diversions, and many other practices needed to protect the soil from erosion and conserve natural rainfall on each individual farm.

During the past year 1,654,000 feet parallel terraces were cost-shared under the Great Plains program. Also six waterways, some underground pipelines and about 10,000 acres of brush control were also performed under the program.

It is no accident that men, the world over, have built clocks into the steeples of their churches:

Reduce life to its simplest components and what have you? TIME and GOD.

Time marks the beginning of life. It measures the growth of our bodies. It provides opportunity for our work and play. It reveals to us our human limitations. And then, one day, Time leaves us behind...

But God is the origin of life. He measures the growth of our souls. He provides our strength and forgives our weakness. He reveals to us His limitless Love. And, never deigning to leave us behind, God beckons us on — even beyond the circle of time.

A parable then: the clock in the steeple!
Man finds material security and temporal happiness as he learns to respect Time.
Man finds spiritual security and eternal happiness as he learns to love God!
