Colorful Parade Heads Celebration

The first rodeo performance of the fourth annual Top o Texas Rodeo and Horse Show, heraldec by the colorful Grand Entry of all performers, will begin at Recreation Park at 8 p. m. today.

Pampa's Rodeo Week got underway yesterday with judging of Palomino entries, but the Kid Pony Show, originally scheduled for last night, was ponsponed because of rain. This show for the youngsters will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow, instead, Leo M. Fry, chairman of the show, said.

Led by the colorful Hardin-Simmons Cowboy Band, the grand parade opening the fourth annual Top o' Texas Rodeo and Horse Show wound through downtown Pampa for more than an hour this afternoon.

Motorcycle and State Highway Patrol escort led off the parade that began marching at 4 p.m. from W. Foster in front of the Pampa Baking Company.

Color guards furnished by the Pampa American Legion Post came next, followed by the official cars of Mayor C. A. Huff, W. D. Price, president of the rodeo association, and city, Chamber of Commerce, and civic leaders.

The fast-stepping Hardin-Simmons Band, executing its zigzag "cowstep," was just ahead of Monte Hale, Republic Pictures Western star who is another special guest of the rodeo this year.

After Hale came the gay troupe of sponsored cowgirls, led by Mrs. Alice Cockrell Gray, hostess to the girls. The civic clubs and organizations came next in line, followed by Army units and the Khiva Temple drum and bugle corps.

The Santa Fe Special, Pampa Roping Club, and other out-of-town roping club entries preceded the Harvester Band, under the direction of Orland Butler.

The Palomino entries came next, followed by the ranch and commercial entries and the cowboys and cowgirls. Commercial entries, sound truck, and police vanguard concluded the more-than-a-mile long parade.

In a spot check for ten minutes this morning, more than ten additional cowboys and sponsored cowgirls registered for various events at Rodeo Headquarters in the City Hall. This rate of about one new entry per minute kept up through the whole morning, rodeo officials said.

Registrations for old timers began at 10 a. m. today in the old timers' headquarters at Recreation Park.

Horse stalls at Recreation Park were rapidly filling this fnorning as registrations for the American Quarter Horse Show began com-

Buses Will Run To Rodeo Grounds

The Pampa City Bus Company will run two extra buses to Recreation Park each evening of the rodeo, tonight through Saturday night, to handle the extra crowds, it was announced yesterday.

The buses will start on Browning and N. Cuyler and will stop at all the corner stops south on Cuyler to Brown. Then they will travel east on Brown and Frederic to Recreation Park.

The buses will run about every 15 minutes, beginning about 7 p.m., until gate time, and will make return trips following the show.

Old Timers Registering

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Elkins, Pampa, were the first old timers to register at Recreation Park this morning, Harry Kelley, chairman of the Old Timers' celebrations, said.

Mr. Elkins is 84 years old. Mrs. Elkins refused to divulge her age. The Elkins came to Pampa in 1886 from South Texas.

Twenty-two ladies have registered to act as hostesses for the old folks this week, Kelley said.

Mrs. Fred Thompson, Mrs. Henry Ellis, and Mrs. Frank Smith are in charge of the hostesses, and Mrs. Clinton Henry and Mrs. Harland D. Case are on duty today.

Mrs. Clarence Kennedy and Mrs. Eben Warner will be on duty at Recreation Park from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. tomorrow, from 1 to 5 p.m., Mrs. Marvin Harris and Mrs. John Hankins will serve, and from 5 to 9 p.m., Mrs. Rufe Jordan and Mrs. Jack Merchant will assist the old folks.

Those on duty Friday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. will be Mrs. Charles Ford and Mrs. Louis Cabot, from 1 to 5 p.m., Mrs. Tom Rose, Jr., and Mrs. Smiley Henderson, from 5 to 9 p.m., Mrs. Huelyn Laycock and Mrs. E. O. Wedgeworth.

Saturday, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., Mrs. R. M. Samples and Miss Elise Donaldson will be on duty, from 1 to 5 p.m., Mrs. Homer Dockery, Mrs. Henry McClelland, and Mrs. Aubrey Osborne will serve.

FOURTH CASE POLIO HERE

Betty Jean Lancaster, teen-age daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Lancaster of Mobeetie, will be sent to the West Texas polio center at Plainview today, after local physisians diagnosed her illness as poliomyelitis.

Betty Jean three days ago came to Pampa to visit in the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Zell, 616 N. Roberta. She was feeling badly when she arrived, but it was not learned until this morning that she had polio.

The Lancaster case of polio is the fourth in Gray County during the past two weeks. Gordon Crocker, Jr., of Pampa and Betty Ann Webber of Pampa were sent to Plainview with the disease last week.

Tinsley Child First Polio Victim Here

Eight-year-old Dorothy Josephine Tinsley, daughter of Mrs. Rosemary Tinsley, 600 N. Nelson, died at 4 a. m. today at a local hospital of bulbar-type polio. This was the first Gray County polio death in more than two years.

A student at Horace Mann School, Dorothy Jo would have entered the third grade in the fall.

She was stricken with the disease last week and admitted to a local hospital Saturday morning. When her attending physician realized the seriousness of her condition, she was placed in an iron lung.

Dorothy Jo and her five-year-old sister, Elaine, spent a week at Lubbock about a month ago visiting their father, W. R. Tinsley. It is very difficult to accurately trace the place or condition where the disease is contacted; so her attending physician could not say whether or not she contacted polio while at Lubbock.

Besides her mother, father and sister, she is survived by grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Hampton of Pampa, Roy Tinsley of Pampa; an aunt, Mrs. C. P. Mates of Borger, and an uncle, H. T. Hampton, Jr., of Lubbock.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. tomorrow at the First Presbyterian Church with the Rev. Clyde Smith officiating. Burial will follow at the Fairview Cemetery. The casket will not be opened at the church.

Pallbearers will be T. M. Brooks, Jim White, Joe Lutz, Leib Langston, Grover Lewis and Roger McConnell.

Red Cross Field Worker to Hold Meeting Friday

Mrs. Waunita Hutchison of St. Louis, general field representative of the American Red Cross, will be in Pampa Friday to conduct a meeting, Mrs. Paul Hill, executive secretary of the Pampa Chapter of the American Red Cross, said today.

Red Cross chairmen, disaster chairmen, and members from Borger, McLean, Miami, Canadian, Wheeler and Pampa will meet at 1 p. m. Friday at the Red Cross office in the City Hall.

The meeting will be to work out plans for responsibilities of all parties if and when disaster strikes a town.

"We hope this is our payment of insurance against disaster, but if it should hit this section we want to know what each one is to do," Mrs. Hill said.

If the Red Cross works out a definite program, in the event of a disaster, it can be automatically carried out.

German Labor Rushes To Finish New Field

BERLIN (AP) Twenty thousand German laborers will be employed in rushing to completion a new airfield in blockaded Berlin, Col. R. A. Willard, U.S. commander of the Berlin military post, said.

The field, an American undertaking, will enable the Western Allies to expand their airlift in the coming winter if the Russians should refuse to lift their land blockade of Berlin.

Two Pampans smokin' "makin's" because, they said, the price of "tailor-mades" had gone up. (But when they began to roll 'em, we could see they aren't Panhandle cowboys: they couldn't roll 'em astride the legendary horse, riding into a 40-mile wind. They're losing money, wasting tobacco, trying to take a short cut to personal prosperity.

Reds Race to Beat West in Writing German Constitution

BERLIN (AP) Communists in Eastern Germany raced to beat the West today in producing the nation's first post-war constitution. Both groups have set September target dates.

Berliners, meantime, voiced hope that this week's Western power talks with Prime Minister Stalin in Moscow would result in an East-West compromise and early lifting of the Berlin deadlock.

There was no official comment in Berlin on the Moscow negotiations, but it is known American and British occupation commanders are being kept advised of developments by Washington and London.

In the Soviet capital itself American diplomatic sources maintained silence on the negotiations. The lid also is on tight in Washington, London and Paris.

At the moment, interest centered on the race to produce rival German governments.

The Communist-controlled People's Council, after discussing the draft for a "German democratic republic," ordered its Constitution Committee to complete the document by the middle of September. It will then be laid before the Communist People's Congress for approval.

The Constitutional Assembly as proposed by the Western powers is tentatively scheduled in Western Germany for early September.

The constitution proposed by the People's Council will be drafted along traditional Communist lines.

The Communist constitution will be drawn up to include all Germany. The Communists insist the People's Council represents all political viewpoints in Germany, although it is not recognized outside the Soviet Zone and the Soviet sector of Berlin.

In Berlin, the struggle continued between Communists and anti-Communists for control of the city's divided police force. Rival central headquarters operated in the Russian sector and in the Western sectors.

The Soviet-controlled half of the force under Moscow-trained Paul Markgraf still held prisoner four Western area police seized last weekend.

The Communists also have confiscated the house and furniture in the Soviet sector belonging to Johannes Stumm, Socialist chief of the Western sector police. The Communists threatened further arrests and seizures.

Democrats Bid To Win Negro Vote for HST

WASHINGTON (AP) The Democratic National Committee has banned race segregation in its headquarters staff in a new bid for Negro support in the presidential election.

National Chairman J. Howard McGrath told a reporter the committee "merely is being consistent" by putting into effect a policy urged by President Truman for government jobs and the armed forces.

McGrath said he expects to announce later the appointment of a Negro assistant to the chairman.

McGrath said the committee is abolishing its Negro division as such and distributing its Negro workers among other units. He said there will be no race discrimination in the hiring of stenographers, clerks and other employes.

The Republican National Committee maintains a Negro division. William Murphy, GOP publicity director, said several Negroes are employed on the headquarters staff.

McGrath's move was looked on by some Dixie Democrats as a further sign that the administration is more interested in Negro support from the big vote states than it is in patching up the party row in the South.

Some of the Southerners are backing a presidential candidate of their own, Gov. J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina. Others have declared they won't vote for President Truman. Alabama and Mississippi electors have been formally instructed not to support him.

Most of the Southern states have refused to come across with

Indonesians Visiting Oil Fields Here

Three Indonesian visitors from far-off Sumatra arrived in Pampa at 3 p. m. yesterday to spend a day touring the Panhandle oil wells.

Staying at the Schneider Hotel, the Indonesians are accompanied by M. M. Field and Donald McCoy, Standard-Vacuum Oil Company representatives, who are traveling with the men on their 10-week tour of the United States.

Djuani Moekti, Schaaf Azis and Nicolas Sundah are the names of the travelers. They arrived at La Guardia Airport in New York on June 3. All three are workers at the company's refinery at Soengei Gerong near Palembang, Sumatra.

Field explained the trip is both a reward and an educational experiment.

"These men, like their fellow workers at Soengei Gerong, have labored unceasingly to repair the war damage and to get the refinery going once again," Field said.

Moekti, who before the war worked in the paleontology laboratory in Palembang, is now in the employe relations department at the Standard-Vacuum's plant. Azis, a worker in the refinery steam and power department, is also president of the school board in his home community. Sundah, formerly employed at a natural gasoline plant in the Pendopo oil field in South Sumatra, now works in the company's land department. He was in a Japanese interment camp for several years.

The Indonesians spent July 25-28 touring oil fields near Oklahoma City. After leaving Pampa tomorrow, they will go to Cascade, Colo., as their last stop before flying to Holland to witness the coronation of Princess Juliana Aug. 25.

They have traveled in Washington, D. C., Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Detroit, Chicago, Peoria, Wichita, Tulsa, Oklahoma City and Colorado Springs during the past two months. Their schedule had been arranged with a view of giving them an insight into national, state and municipal government processes, as well as the social and industrial conditions which prevail in this country.

Italy Ready to Surrender Her Sovereignty for Europe Union

ROME (AP) Italy is ready to take the lead in surrendering national sovereignty to bring about European union, Foreign Minister Count Carlo Sforza said today.

The statesman urged union now as the only cure for the continent's postwar economic and political ills and the sole hope for peace.

To bring it about and to do away with "archaic frontiers and archaic customs duties," he declared in an interview, this nation is ready to "accept curtailment of its political sovereignty, even in the most unexpected aspects."

He said there was but one condition: "That others do the same."

A long-time advocate of unity, Count Sforza had his hand strengthened last week when the Senate, in approving the European Recovery Program accords, urged their early development into effective union.

Only Communists and fellow-traveling Socialists demurred.

The question of national sovereignty has been and is one of the primary stumbling blocks in the way of a United Europe.

"To say that European countries ought to federate," the Italian foreign minister said, "is to say that they must restrain in their economic life useless competition and divergent efforts.

"It means renouncing 'progressive areas of sovereignty, customs barriers, financial restrictions, anti-economic distribution of tasks and functions.

"It is these little and harmful autarchies that bear one single fruit: the misery of Europe."

It is necessary, therefore, Sforza argues, "to reopen Europe to the (free) circulation of goods, of labor and of ideas." Italy knows, he continued, that this is the only way to arrive at that economic cooperation "which is the basis and end of the generous assistance lent" through the Marshall Plan.

Even so, bread and work are not enough. "Peace also is needed," said Sforza. And for that a European federation "must join together to defend, where necessary, peace and our thousand-year-old civilization."

As for the prospect that Italian Communists might sabotage ERP, Sforza commented: "Italians are not fools. The more Communists assail it, the better Italians will know what path they must choose for their economic resurrection."

Walker Head Draft Board

C. H. Walker of Pampa was selected chairman of the four-county Selective Service Board in a meeting here yesterday. Cliff H. Weatherly, Wheeler County, was named secretary of the board, No. 52.

The board, to operate under the newly-enacted Selective Service Act, will administer draft business for Gray, Roberts, Wheeler, and Donley Counties, as designated by the state draft control body.

An announcement from the board said:

"Office space has been assigned to the board on the third floor of the Courthouse (Pampa), and it is expected that the office will start functioning in a week or ten days, or as soon as supplies are received from Austin."

The board spokesman also said "it is not expected that there will be a great many registrants or inductees from the four counties."

The board's organization meeting was held at the Gray County Courthouse. Present were Walker and Luther Pierson, of Gray County; Weatherly, of Wheeler County; William E. Hodges, of Donley County. Absent was W. H. Craig, Roberts County.

Tenants Sue Landlady For Sleeping in Tub

LOS ANGELES (AP) Their rent was too high—and besides, the landlady insisted on sleeping in the bathtub.

So nine rooming house tenants yesterday filed suit for $50,000 damages in superior court. They charged the landlady, Mrs. June Gilbert:

1. Levied rents in excess of legal ceilings.

2. Often slept in the tub, making it extremely difficult for them to take a bath.

Flagpole Sitting Has Compensations

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Being a flagpole sitter is not without compensations, says Milton Van Noland, 21, in his sixth day atop a mast at a used car lot.

Yesterday a reveler climbed the pole to offer him a drink.

"It's in my contract that I can't drink but it was a nice sentiment," Van Noland said.

Mississippi Is Dixiecrat

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) Mississippi's Democratic convention reiterated its solid states' rights stand by pledging the state's nine electoral candidates to the Thurmond-Wright ticket.

State delegates, who reconvened there Tuesday, also voted approval of Mississippi's walkout at Philadelphia.

The state convention adopted resolutions which, briefly, would:

Call for a states' rights educational campaign in each county.

Commission the nine elector-candidates as delegates to another Birmingham convention on Oct. 1.

Request all candidates on the state ticket to declare their support for states' rights plans.

Call on Mississippi's congressional delegation and candidates to declare how they would vote, if Congress should have to decide the Presidential election.

Prison Cake Vendor Accepts Hot Check

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) Nick Michalc, 46, sells coffee and cakes to city prison inmates and should have known better. But when an old customer asked him to take a $20 check Nick took it.

It bounced, all right. The old customer is a Folsom Prison parolee held on bad check charges.

We Heard...

A cowhand noticed a local girl in Western regalia, but without cowboy boots; so he asked her where they were. "Oh," she hastily responded, "I got stuck in the cowlot this morning and had to wade out without them."

A Pampa banker, a merchant, an insurance man, and an attorney standing on Cuyler discussing waistlines—their own. They related how much weight they had lost, and we had to look to see if they didn't have on dresses!

U. S. Employe Is Principal Witness

WASHINGTON— (AP) —Nathan Gregory Silvermaster, now accused of spying for Russia, stayed on the government payroll during the war although both the Navy and Civil Service Commission tried to get him off, it was disclosed today.

This was developed at a session of the House unAmerican Activities Committee where Silvermaster took the stand and (1) denied he ever was a spy or agent for any foreign government, and (2) steadfastly refused to say whether he is or has been a Communist.

Silvermaster is one of the men named by Elizabeth T. Bentley as members of a wartime Communist ring in the government. She testified that they gave her secret information for relay to Russian agents.

After Silvermaster left the witness chair, Miss Bentley went back and repeated the story she told last week that Silvermaster headed a Communist "group" in the government and operated a photographic laboratory in his basement where secret documents were photographed.

Silvermaster himself told of the Navy's efforts to pry him from the government's payroll. He said he beat them by getting Lauchlin Currie, a White House aide, and C. B. Baldwin, then his boss in the government, to intervene.

From Louis Russell, a committee investigator and former FBI agent, came testimony that the Civil Service Commission regarded Silvermaster as a Communist and recommended that he be barred from Civil Service, but that he stayed with the government for four years thereafter.

Robert E. Stripling, the committee's chief investigator, said the reason Silvermaster wasn't removed from the federal payroll was "because he went to the White House and got Mr. Currie to go to Mr. Patterson on his behalf."

Miss Bentley testified last week that Currie gave information to the Communists, but that she did not believe he was a Communist. Currie, now living in New York state, immediately issued a denial.

While he refused to answer questions about any affiliation with the Communists, Silvermaster read a statement saying he had been cleared after investigation by various agencies, including the chief of the U. S. Secret Service and Secretary of War Patterson.

He produced a copy of a letter which he said Patterson had written in his behalf.

Silvermaster's statement denounced as "false and fantastic" the charges Miss Bentley made against him.

Then Silvermaster refused to answer any questions about communism. He stood on his Constitutional rights, he said, and

Story of Spy Ring New Only To the Public

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The startling story of the Communist-Russian wartime spy ring inside the government is new only to the public.

It's been known a good while to government officials, Congressional committees, and the FBI.

But, so far as the public is concerned, the story began to break only last week.

That was when Miss Elizabeth T. Bentley, self-confessed Soviet spy and former Communist Party member, appeared before the Senate committee.

The next day the House committee called her in, threw open the doors, and let the public hear what she had to say.

She named names and told of spy rings, made up of wartime government employes, working for the benefit of Russia.

Only one of all those she named is still in government employ.

During the early war years, Miss Bentley said, she came regularly to Washington from New York to gather secret information for Russia from government employes.

Later she suffered a change of heart and dropped out of the Communist Party. In mid-1944 she went to the FBI and confessed.

One by one the FBI investigated the people she mentioned.

About a year ago a New York Federal Grand Jury began to investigate.

Miss Bentley told her story at length to the jury. And then the people she accused of spy work were called before the jury.

But after a year of investigation the grand jury still hasn't indicted anyone for spying. It still may do so, because it's still in session, but there's no indication it will.

On July 21 it indicted 12 top Communist Party leaders for conspiracy to overthrow the government. But that was something aside from its year-long investiga-

Livestock to Be Removed

During a 15-minute radio address last night, Ray Salmon, city health inspector, told listeners all livestock must be moved out of Pampa at least for the summer.

Speaking on prevention of polio, Salmon said the "easy-going days of sanitary violations in the city are over." The removal of livestock has resulted from the immediate emergency polio scare in the city.

"It has been definitely proved," said Salmon, "that flies are carriers of polio. By requiring that all cows, horses and chickens owned by Pampans are sent to the country, the flies that accompany the livestock will help just that much."

Salmon received a list of complaints this morning on local livestock. A. N. Thorne, assistant city health inspector, will contact the owners today.

"If the people do not cooperate in this undertaking, we will be forced to file charges on them," Salmon concluded.

Seven Americans Win Titles As Olympics Pass Half Mark

By MILT MARMOR

OLYMPIC STADIUM, Wembley, England —(AP)— The Olympic track and field games passed their half way mark today with the United States well on the way to equalling or bettering its greatest triumphs in other modern Olympiads.

At the end of four days of international competition, 14 individual champions had stood proudly at attention in the stadium while their national anthems were played. Seven times it was the "Star Spangled Banner."

There remain ten more finals to be held before the track and field games end Saturday. The United States seems assured of winning four and has a possible chance in a fifth.

Thus far the American team has captured the following individual titles:

100, 200, and 800 meters, 400 meter hurdles, broad jump, pole vault and shot put.

It now appears likely to win the 400 and 1,600 meter relays, the decathlon and the 110 meter hurdles.

The other events on the next four days of competition are the javelin, 400 meters, 3000 meter steeplechase, 1500 meter run, 10,000 meter walk, and marathon. Only in the 400 meters and javelin do the Americans have any real hope of winning and in those the possibilities are slim.

No other nation is even remotely close to the United States in the matter of first places and in the track and field point score the Americans have 131 to runner-up Sweden's 44.

Sweden has two firsts and is favored to add the steeplechase and 1500 meters and possibly the javelin.

Hungary, Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Australia and Italy each have one title.

The next few days should see two of the most famous stars of trackdom appear in their specialties.

Herb McKenley of Jamaica, the former Illinois University runner, starts his quest this afternoon for the 400 meter title. He is deemed the top heavy favorite to win. He placed fourth in the 200 yesterday.

Today also marks the start of the 1500 meter heats and the first appearance here of Lennart Strand, the temperamental Swede who shares the world mark of 3:43 with the great Gundar Haegg.

All Favorites Except One Still Trying for Tennis Tourney Title

GALVESTON —(AP)— All but one of the seeded players were still in the running today in the 14th annual Gulf Coast Tennis Tournament.

Betty Gray of Houston pulled an upset yesterday by defeating fourth-seeded Doris Casey of Corpus Christi, 6-3, 6-0, in junior girl's singles.

John Hernandez, top-seeded San Antonio entry in junior boy's singles, defeated Billy McMillan of Galveston, 6-3, 6-0, and second-seeded Aaron Cohen of San Antonio trimmed Rod Williams of Garland, 6-0, 6-0.

Hernandez and Cohen have reached the quarterfinals, but all others in the meet are in the second round.

Women's singles got underway yesterday with top-seeded Margaret Eby scoring two straight, 6-0, wins over Nancy Sellers, Dallas. Mrs. John Scoggins, Galveston netter, seeded second, defeated Irma Garcia, Galveston, 6-0, 6-0. The third and fourth seeded players, Nancy Armor of Dallas and Mary Hamer of Houston, both posted, 6-0, 6-0, wins over their respective opponents, Rosemary Sone and Christina Chapa of Corpus Christi.

The top-favored men's doubles team, Howard Startzman and Jason Morton, both of Houston, defeated Phillip Ciaccio and John Lands, both of New Orleans. The No. Two team of Felix Kelley, Robstown, and Jack Hayden, Houston, turned back Travis Smith and John Willis, Wharton, 6-1, 6-1.

Other results yesterday included:

Men's doubles:

John Lanham, Houston, and Bernard Gerhardt, Austin, beat E. B. Levy, San Antonio, and John Schmidt, Galveston, 6-1, 6-1.

Women's singles: Doris Casey, Corpus Christi, beat Bonner Baker, Houston, 6-4, 6-3.

Boys' doubles: Sam Giammalva, Houston, and James Schmidt, Galveston, beat Rod Williams and Howard Walker, both Garland, 6-4, 6-0.

Charles Workman and Michael Welch, both Corpus Christi, trimmed John Graham and Herschel Zinn, both of Galveston, 7-5, 6-4.

Tulsa Moves Back in 2nd With 2 Wins

By the Associated Press

Tulsa didn't wait very long to regain second place in the Texas League—one day to be exact. A double triumph over San Antonio last night shoved the Oilers past Houston.

While Tulsa was knocking off San Antonio, 4-1, 3-1, Houston split two with Oklahoma City. The Buffs won the opener, 3-2, and Oklahoma City took the second, 10-4.

Dallas had a three-game winning streak shattered by Shreveport, 7-6 and 11-6, while league-leading Fort Worth took it on the chin from Beaumont, 9-7.

Jim Avrea held San Antonio to four hits in the first game for his fourteenth victory and Bud Byerly limited the Missions to two blows in the nightcap.

Pete Bryant bested Vic Johnson in a pitching duel in the first Houston-Oklahoma City game, but a five-run fourth inning rally sent the Indians away to a big lead in the second.

Shreveport treated six Dallas pitchers like cousins in the two games at Dallas, banging out a total of 28 hits.

Tonight the same teams wind up their series.

Tommy Ryan, Former Ring Great, Succumbs

VAN NUYS, Calif. —(AP)— Death has claimed another of the ring's old masters, Tommy Ryan, former welterweight and middleweight champion of the world.

Ryan, who graduated from lumber camp brawls and fought through the rugged turn-of-the-century era when bouts went as long as 76 rounds, died of a heart ailment yesterday.

He was 78.

Ryan was born Joseph Youngs, Jr., at Redwood, N. Y., March 31, 1870, son of a French glassblower. He left home early, changing his name to Tommy Ryan, and headed for the Michigan lumber camps and from there to the ring.

Shamrock Park Adds Seats to Football Field

SHAMROCK —(Special)— Construction of 600 additional seats is underway at Denver Field, home of the Shamrock Irishmen.

The 600 seats are replacing the center of the old stand on the west side of the field. The old seats, constructed in 1932, are been moved and repaired. Some of them will be placed on the east side of the playing field and others on the north end.

When the remodeling program is completed, Denver Field will have a capacity of approximately 1,800.

Other improvements being made include a press box and radio booth at the top of the west side bleachers. A dressing room for visiting teams is being placed in the northwest corner of the grounds. Hot and cold water will be made available to the visiting athletes and the building will be equipped with sanitary facilities.

Rest rooms for fans are being installed at the north end of the field.

The construction and repairs will be paid from the sale of three series revenue bonds.

Tournament Starts

TEMPLE —(AP)— The state Negro semi-pro baseball tournament gets underway here tonight with ten entries. The winner will represent Texas at the National Tournament later this month.

Sports Round-Up

By SKIPPER PATRICK
(for Hugh Fullerton, Jr.)

KANSAS CITY —(AP)— Fourteen or fifteen clubs in ye old golf bag? Or does the number really matter?

The United States Golf Association decrees the limit shall be fourteen. A notable disagreement with the USGA fathers was evidenced in the 45th Western Amateur when former champion Wilford Wehrle, of Louisville, Ky., disqualified himself when he turned up with fifteen clubs. . . Wilfred's opponent, James McHale, of Philadelphia, and Marvin (Bud) Ward contended it "wasn't fair" for a fellow to lose that way, especially when the Kentucky shooter didn't know himself how the extra stick got in the bag. . . And Sammy Snead likely would support an increase. He was disqualified because of an extra club in the 1946 Western Open.

Time was when many golfers lugged around more than two dozen clubs. They had four types of wedges. They had windjammers. They had Number 5 woods. There were cleeks about. . . And then there was the night Walter Hagen caught Lawson Little in a hotel lobby loaded down with clubs (Little had 25 in his bag) . . . "Hey, junior, why do you need all those clubs?" the Haig asked. "When I was young, fellows like Chick Evans, Francis Ouimet and myself operated with eight or less. You can make seven shots with a niblick. Why don't you try it?"

Texas Cagers Best in U. S. Bee Asserts

ABILENE —(AP)— Clair Bee, coach of Long Island University and one of basketball's keenest observers, today came right out in school—the Texas Coaching School, that is—and said cagers of this state were the best in the nation.

The way he put it was that "Texas boys have got more than any others in the nation and that doesn't bar Indiana."

Indiana, you know, has long been noted as the cradle of the nation's basketball.

What he meant by "got more" was that they had the height and the speed. But they have several weaknesses, too. One, he declared, was that they do too much running and not enough passing and ball handling. Another was that they don't make basketball a year around proposition like the boys in other states, particularly the East and Midwest.

Bee is here lecturing at the eighteenth annual Texas Coaching School.

Bee came out in favor of the tall boys in basketball. "They should quit picking on those fellows even if they are eight feet tall and just rake the ball out of the basket," he said. "Most of those fellows can't participate in any other sport. The tall boys add to the game."

Bartell Scores Upset

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. —(AP)— First round survivors in the annual Pikes Peak Golf Tournament squared off today with one eye on the weather and the other on W. S. Bartells of Kansas City, Mo., who scored the tourney's first major upset.

Only Eight Points Separate Top Four Teams in AL Race

By the Associated Press

The greatest of all American League pennant races approached the two-thirds mark today in an unprecedented situation—a virtual four-way tie for first place among Cleveland, New York, Boston and Philadelphia. A mere .006 percentage points separated the four teams.

As a result of last night's games, the Indians regained the top rung by defeating the Washington Senators, 5-3, while the Athletics dropped from first to fourth by losing to the Chicago White Sox, 2-1, in 10 innings. The Yankees took over second place by trouncing the Detroit Tigers, 15-3, and the Red Sox advanced to third by out-slugging the St. Louis Browns, 15-8.

Cleveland has a .596 percentage, New York .594, Boston .592 and Philadelphia .590.

The National League race also was tightened appreciably when the front-running Braves were beaten 5-4 by Cincinnati while the rest of the first division, New York, Brooklyn and St. Louis were idled by rain.

Old Satchel Paige, making his first major league start before 72,434—the largest night game crowd in Cleveland history—gained the honor of pitching the tribe back into first place. The 44-year-old Negro righthander hurled seven innings, allowing the Senators seven hits before he was taken out for a pinch hitter. He struck out six and walked four.

Basketball Stars Show Preferences In School Choices

ABILENE —(AP)— High school basketball players here for the annual All Star game of the Texas coaching school are well distributed as to choice of colleges they will attend.

Texas will get three of them, while Texas Christian, Southern Methodist, Texas A&M, and Tyler Junior College come up with two each. Texas Wesleyan, Texas Mines, Rice, Baylor and Tulane get one apiece. Four of the boys still are undecided.

The check-up shows:

Texas — Walter Kearns, Denton, center; Luther Scarborough, Poly (Fort Worth, forward; James Dowies, Sam Houston (Houston), forward.

Texas Christian—Maurice Campbell, Mount Vernon, guard; Harvey Frommel, Sinton, guard.

Southern Methodist—Mort Halbert, Throckmorton, center; Benny White, Thomas Jefferson (San Antonio), forward.

Texas A&M — Gene Landrum, Abilene, guard; Walter Davis, Nederland, center.

Tyler Junior College — Bryan Miller, Crozier Tech (Dallas), forward; Ken Pemberton, Stratford, forward.

Texas Wesleyan — Tom Hancock, Prairie Valley (Nocona), guard.

Texas Mines — Ramon Orona, El Paso High, forward.

Rice — Leonard Childs, Jeff Davis (Houston), guard.

Baylor — Bill Harris, Harlingen, center.

Tulane — Billy Wimp, Lufkin, forward.

Bunky Bradford of Arp, who led the nation in scoring last season, is trying to decide between Texas Christian and Kilgore Junior College. Others undecided are Bill Frazier, Carey, guard; Charles Haley, Johnson City, guard, and Jimmie Fountain, East Mountain, guard.

Oilers Rained Out; Final Game Tonite

The Pampa Oilers ran face to face with their old buddy, the weather man, last night and for the second time of their current nine-day home stand, their contest was postponed due to rain.

Also victimized by the wet splurge were the Abilene Blue Sox who were scheduled to provide the Oilers' competition last night.

On July 28, the Oilers had a game with the Albuquerque Dukes rained out and three times earlier in the season their contests have been forced into postponement.

At press time, the skies were still heavily overcast, indicating that tonight's game might be delayed until the Blue Hose are back in town.

Manager Grover Seitz and Owner R. L. Edmondson still have come to no definite decision whether or not a doubleheader will be played.

If a twin bill is called, Seitz will start two southpaws against Manager Dixie Davis' Soxers. Roy Parker and Avon Driggers will receive the starting call for the Pampans, opposing Jim Sweet and "Tex" Coapland for the visitors.

After tonight, the Oilers take to the road for six days, playing crucial series with the Borger Gassers and Amarillo Gold Sox. They return home on Aug. 11 for two games with the Gassers in Oiler Park and then two more contests with the Clovis Pioneers. These two home series will be the final engagement between the two teams in the local park.

During flight the intense muscular activity produces much heat in a bird's body.

By The Associated Press

The Albuquerque Dukes made it two straight over the Amarillo Gold Sox last night, 8-4, and stretched their West Texas-New Mexico League lead to five full games.

Rain washed out the Abilene-Pampa and Borger-Clovis games, but Lamesa knocked off fourth-place Lubbock, 7-5.

Seven doubles, a triple and Len Pill's home run erased an early Amarillo lead and gave the Dukes an easy victory.

Lubbock blew a three-run lead as Lamesa evened the three-game series. The Loboes scored three times in the fifth inning without a single hit to tie the score and Jim Skidgel's three-run homer in the seventh put them ahead for keeps.

Hopkins HD Club Has Yard Program

Mrs. W. E. Melton gave a demonstration on yard planning when the Hopkins Home Demonstration Club met recently in her home. She told the members of the club that trees, shrubs and flowers should be planted so as to appear that they were "planned" by nature. She said that driveways leading to the house should be planned with an irregular line.

Mrs. Mary Anne Duke, home demonstration agent, suggested that the club members write letters to the French people with packages that they send through CARE.

Mrs. P. F. Rice was in charge of the business and Mrs. Siler Hopkins, acting secretary, read the minutes of the preceding meeting.

Eight ladies were present. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the formal program.

The Luther Piersons Return From Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Pierson have returned home after taking a four-week sightseeing trip by car. They drove to the East Coast and circled back home. While away they visited their daughters in Chicago and sons in Baltimore. They also visited Mrs. Pierson's brother, F. F. White, in Hartford, Conn. They were in Washington, D. C., at the time General Pershing was buried.

Other cities along their route included Philadelphia, and Little Rock. They made stops also in Kentucky, Tennessee, Michigan, and Minnesota.

Patsy Pierson, a summer school student at the University of Denver, returned to Pampa just about the time her parents arrived from their trip East.

★ WE, THE WOMEN

BY RUTH MILLETT

NEA Staff Writer

WE THE WOMEN WEDNESDAY

What qualities in a husband makes other women say in all sincerity, "I don't see how his wife puts up with him?"

Well, here are some of the husband-types who usually bring forth that remark:

The husband who knows it all and gives his wife a verbal slap in the face every time she ventures to express an opinion he doesn't recognize as his own.

The husband who can't resist the temptation to make a pass at every attractive woman who comes along.

The husband who is stingy in money matters, so that his wife can never buy anything without wondering what he will say about it.

GREAT EGOTISTS

The husband who insists that all family life revolve around his goings and comings and his comfort.

The husband who is a show-off and gets his loudest laughs at his wife's expense.

The husband who takes no responsibility but pushes everything off on his wife.

The husband who is a Mama's boy and is forever letting Mama interfere in his life.

The husband who, either because he is impractical or downright shiftless, never gives his family the security he could.

The husband whose ego has to be fed constantly by his wife, and who never bothers to give her any build-up at all.

• McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

LAYING OFF FINESSE WINS THREE, N. T.

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority
Written for NEA Service

One of the hardest workers for organized bridge in the Midwest is Harry Lees, of St. Louis, Mo., vice president of the American Auto Insurance Companies. He is a vice president of the American Contract Bridge League, and served for some time as president of the Midwest Conference of the league. He will head the St. Louis delegation to the summer session of the national championships tournament starting July 31 in Chicago.

Although Lees is a bridge leader, he plays tournament bridge just for the fun of it. Nevertheless, he is always in there to take all the match points he can on a board. He certainly collected all of them on today's hand.

So far as his spade bid is concerned, I think that Lees has a theory that if nobody else bids spades, it might be a good idea to bid them yourself. But the spade bid did not stop West from opening the deuce of spades, and that was the opening at practically every table in the room.

Also, everybody put on the queen from dummy—that is, everybody but Lees. At all of the other tables East's king won the first trick, the king of clubs came back. And now try to make three no trump!

Lees went right up with dummy's ace of spades on the first trick, and led the king of hearts. Why? Because he counted one spade trick, four heart tricks, three diamonds and the ace of clubs—nine tricks, and that was what he made, for a top score on the board.

Mrs Robertson Is Hostess to HD Club

Mrs. Mary Anne Duke, new home demonstration agent, was welcomed when the Worthwhile Home Demonstration Club met last Friday in the home of Mrs. Ray Robertson. Mrs. G. H. Anderson presided over the meeting and Mrs. T. J. Watt led the recreation of songs and guessing games.

Members answered roll call by naming improvements made in their yards.

Reports were given by standing committee chairmen. Mrs. Robertson reported on education; Mrs. Anderson on finance, Mrs. Watt on recreation, Mrs. A. French on exhibits. Mrs. O. G. Smith and Mrs. Ora Wagner reported on the work of special committees.

A ten minute demonstration on scalding and peeling tomatoes was given by Mrs. D. L. Lunsford. She told the members to dip the tomatoes into boiling water for one minute then plunge them into cold water and remove peelings. She suggested that peaches and apricots be peeled in the same way. She stated that those who wanted a canned salad tomato could use one teaspoonful of anhydrous calcium chloride solution to one quart of tomatoes and process in water bath the required time. She said that the solution may be made by adding 2 1-2 ounces of anhydrous calcium chloride to one pint of distilled water which makes enough to can 50 quarts of tomatoes.

Gifts were presented to Mrs. Robertson who has completely remodeled her home.

Others, besides those mentioned, who attended the meeting were Mrs. Nat Lunsford and Mrs. Berry Norton, a visitor.

GINGERBREAD TOPPING

For a quick gingerbread topping combine three tablespoons of melted butter or fortified margarine with a tablespoon of old-fashioned molasses and a quarter cup of sugar. Mix in two tablespoons of evaporated milk or light cream and a half cup of shredded cocoanut. Spread the mixture over warm, baked gingerbread and place under the broiler to brown. Watch carefully so that topping doesn't burn.

TO PREPARE CAKE PAN

Many cooks like to grease and flour a cake pan before using. To do so cover the bottom of the pan lightly with a film of fat (it is not necessary to grease the sides), then put a few teaspoons of flour into the pan. Tip and shake so the greased surface is covered with a film of flour; then invert and shake out the surplus flour.

RIBBON CURLERS

New curlers of ribbon come in a variety of colors, and look gay enough when tied in bows to be worn on a date. You can set the hair while sunbathing by dampening the curling pad, and tieing the ribbon into a bow.

Thursday Dinner Suggested Menu

Panfried Chicken (x)
Wide Noodles
Green Peas
Tomato Slices with Vinaigrette Dressing
Bread and Butter
Fruit Cup with Crisp Cookies
Beverage
(Recipe for (x) Dish Follows)

PANFRIED CHICKEN: Have a 3 to 3 1-2-pound frying chicken cut up into 6 to 8 pieces. Wash, clean and dry well. Mix 1 cup flour, 2 teaspoons salt and 1-4 teaspoon pepper together well in a medium-sized brown paper bag. (Two teaspoons of paprika may be added to this flour mixture if desired). Put two pieces of the chicken in the bag at a time and shake well to coat evenly. (Reserve leftover flour for use in coating chicken another time or use it to thicken gravy.) Put 1-3 to 1-2 cup butter or margarine in a large skillet and heat; when the fat is quite hot but not brown put the chicken pieces in carefully, skin side down. Brown over moderate heat, then turn to brown other side—this will take from 20 to 30 minutes. Add 2 tablespoons water to the skillet, cover tightly and steam over low heat until chicken is very tender, about 15 or 20 minutes longer. Remove cover, cook a few minutes longer, to crisp crust. Remove to hot platter and keep warm. Add 2 to 4 tablespoons of water to pan and stir over low heat to take up all drippings; serve this pan-gravy over hot cooked noodles along with chicken. Makes about 6 servings.

Boycott on Butcher Shops s Growing

By the Associated Press

Texas butchers heard a ringing their ears today—the jangle of ousands of telephone bells as ecruits in 10 cities talked up the ousewives' war against high meat ices.

The movement to boycott butch- shops between Aug. 9 and Aug. spread yesterday to Beaumont, alveston, Abilene and Hamlin.

Earlier, housewives in Orange, aris, Corpus Christi, and Waco ded in with women in Dallas, here the boycott campaign be- an. Mrs. R. D. Vaughn, presi- ent of the Dallas Women's Cham- er of Commerce, started it by etting volunteers to go through ie telephone book bage by page nd call women for support.

The effort to force meat prices own was promised support from ,000 women in Dallas alone when ie Dallas Federation of Women's lubs asked its members to join ie boycott.

Dallas Butcher Wallace Shanks rotested plaintively:

"Some people don't think of cut- ng down on other things, such s shows, drinking and high-priced utomobiles.

"Meat prices are high, what n't?"

But at Abilene, Mrs. Rufus tokes telephoned 200 women and rganized a telephone chain to romote the boycott. A drive to oincide with Abilene's was being rganized by Hamlin women. And Beumont sewing group of 14 omen, led by Mrs. C. A. Adair, oined other women in planning telephone campaign.

In Miami, Fla., chain telephone alls were used in a campaign gainst meat prices.

E. A. Daly of Biscayne Park, alled 32 friends asking them not o buy meat for one week be- inning Friday. He asked each riend to call at least five others, long the line of chain letters.

Old Texas Sea Bed Gives Up Skeleton of Marine Monster

WACO —(AP)— One day millions of years before the Garden of Eden was in bloom a sea monster died in the great prehistoric lake that covered what is now central Texas.

It settled to the muddy floor of the shallow sea.

In time it became caked in mud and silt and was preserved in its tomb beneath the water.

While it lay there undisturbed 80,000,000 years or more great changes were slowly taking place on the earth above. The lake dried up. Man appeared. Civilization came.

By now erosion of the soil above was beginning to expose the skeleton of the ancient marine reptile to the surface of the earth, in a trickling spillway behind a huge 20th Century reservoir dam.

And there it was found the other day by two school boys and a middle-aged fisherman.

Geologists from Baylor University in nearby Waco were notified. Aided by geology and zoology students, they carefully chiseled away the blue shale from enough of the valuable fossil to allow the bones to stand out in sharp contrast.

But there was little or no question in their minds what it was. From its characteristics they determined that it was a four-flippered plesiosaur, a reptile which lived in the sea more than 80,000,000 years ago.

"It's remarkably well-preserved," observed Richmond L. Bronaugh, assistant professor of geology at the university.

The skeleton measured almost 20 feet in length. A section of the tail was missing. The head was three feet long, a foot broad and tapering off to a long-pointed jaw. Teeth marks were visible. Fifty or more vertebrae showed distinctly.

In the midsection of the curled framework the geologists found a small, perfectly shaped round rock. They said it could have been part of the "gravel" the plesiosaur used to digest its food much like a chicken grinds food in its gizzard with small pebbles.

The plesiosaur, said Bronaugh, was not a "picture book" animal of the dark ages.

"Most people get the impression that all prehistoric animals had long necks, huge bodies and short tails, but this one for example is almost oppositie. It has a short neck and a long tail," he said.

The sea-going plesiosaur lived at the same time as the dinosaurs which then roamed the earth.

Bronaugh said the plesiosaur was a product of the Mesozoic Era, and was more closely associated with the upper cretaceous period, most recent of the "age of reptiles."

The discovery of the rare fossil was marred by a near tragic accident. Sightseers flocked to the site and geologists quickly decided that the sooner the skeleton was removed to the safety of the university's Strecker Museum the better.

They began to cut away an oblong slab containing the skeleton. They soaked sacks in plaster of paris and pasted them on the slab to strengthen it and to help hold the bones together.

After the slab was cut out and the plaster of paris nearly hardened they turned it on its side to lift it on a truck.

They saw a sickening crack speed across the slab. There was a second. A third. The slab fell broken out of their grip. The petrified skeleton which had survived the ages was now in several pieces.

"It wasn't too bad," Bronaugh said later. "We had half-expected it to crack. We can put the 'critter' back together with little trouble."

Bronaugh said the find was made separately by teen-agers Wayne and James Brown, and Joseph Baur, an employe in the finance department of the veterans hospital here.

Baur, who confides that he now thumbs through books on the subject of prehistoric animals, had found one of the reptile's flippers or paddles four months ago.

"I had a hunch that if I kept looking around the same spot I'd find the rest of it," he said. "And sure enough I did."

Both Baur and the youngsters gladly turned over their find to the university, where it will be put on exhibit.

Two or three days after the plesiosaur bones were found, J. W. Dixon, chairman of the university's geology department, hurried out of a classroom mopping his brow.

Someone in the hall asked him how he knew a plesiosaur lived 80,000,000 years or more ago.

Dixon smiled and kept on walking.

"That's just what it took me an hour to explain to my class," he said over his shoulder.

Arson Suspect Tells Of Unsolved Robbery

TOKYO—(AP)—Japanese police at Hiroshima, investigating an arson case, questioned a neighbor. No, he insisted—he hadn't started any fire; all he had done was rob that bank messenger last fall of half a million yen.

He also told officers exactly how he'd managed the robbery—which police had never been able to solve.

Leaves From a Correspondent's Life Note Book

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK —(AP)— The Second World War, which optimists hope will go down as the last great war on earth, already has turned out to be a literary success.

The continuing post-operative interest in this vast battle of the nations has confounded publishers, and left a number red-faced. They are the ones who rejected good war books because they felt the public was sick of hearing about the subject.

The public still wants to find out what really happened.

Two of the top dramatic hits on Broadway today are William Wister Haines' "Command Decision" and Thomas Hegger's "Mister Roberts." What is the current best selling book of fiction? "The Naked and the Dead," an earthy picture of Pacific ground fighting by Norman Mailer, a young Brooklyn ex-soldier.

Topping the non-fiction list is "The Gathering Storm," by Winston Churchill. Another best seller for weeks has been "The Stilwell Papers," the distilled spirits of "Vinegar Joe."

And the memoirs are really only beginning to roll from the presses. Stepping up to the book plate next is General Ike himself.

The high level men of our times have been franker in their memoirs than has been customary in other post-war periods. The behind-the-scenes frictions they have disclosed have shocked and surprised many of the combat men who thought the only fighting in war took place on the battlefield.

But nobody fought the same war. The war the platoon scout fights is different from the war the battalion leader knows. So is the war fought by the regimental colonel and the war fought by the Army commander. To know any war you would have to talk to every man who had a part in it, and that is impossible.

But it is possible to experience the feeling common to all wars. This is the function of a real writer.

To know how men in all branches of the services lived during the last war I believe the best single source is the collected dispatches of Ernie Pyle.

The Second World War looks like it will be the most written-about war in our history. But it may take it a century to catch up with the Civil War. Gettysburg still means more than Bastogne to the circulating library trade.

FORGIVENESS

A wise man will make haste to forgive, because he knows the full value of time and will not suffer it to pass away in unnecessary pain.

Fabled Texan Became the Cattle King of Paraguay

ASUNCION, Paraguay —(AP)— There's a government warrant out for the arrest of George Lohman, but that's nothing to worry a man who's been reported dead twice.

Lohman, a lanky Texan who came here in 1912, is a legendary figure on the lonely Paraguayan Chaco. He lives 95 miles from the nearest town. He is rich.

He thinks he has about 80,000 head of cattle and his friends say there are a quarter million acres of land in his home ranch. The Indians, nomads who kill their old people, call him "The White Chief."

Right now, Lohman is charged with aiding the rebels who maintained a seven-month civil war last year. Specifically, the government says he supplied cattle to feed the rebel troops. Lohman's friends say that if he did, it was only to keep the rebels from taking them by force.

Anyway, neither they nor his family are much concered. The part of his family which lives here says "he'll be in pretty soon to fix this thing up."

The fabulous cattlemen came here with Tex Rickard in 1912 to find a fortune. Rickard soon went back to New York and found his as a boxing promoter. Lohman stayed on and never has been back to the States. With Robert Stewart, another Texan, helping him, he started out with 12 head of cattle on a few acres of rented land.

Stewart died last year, but Lohman is still active. He has been reported dead twice. Once during the Chaco War Indians brought in word that he had been killed. They said they had seen his body. It turned out to be the body of somebody else. Just last year word spread again that he was dead. This time it turned out to be Stewart.

Lohman married twice, both times to Paraguayans. Two daughters of the first marriage—one of them herself married—live in Asuncion. The second wife was a girl from Concepcion, the nearest town—95 miles due east of the ranch, Red Spring. They and their four children live on the ranch.

When Lohman's cattle are ready for market, he has a choice of transportation. He can drive them overland to Concepcion and send them down the river by steamer. Or he can drive them all the way to Asuncion—about 350 miles.

The ranch is not bothered with traffic congestion. To get there from Asuncion there is first a 250-mile trip by river steamer to Concepcion. This may take two days, or more if the steamer runs aground on a sandbar. Then there is the overland trip 95 miles due west to Red Spring ranch—where the road ends.

In the dry season a truck might or might not make it. In the wet season an oxcart is the best bet. Since the war, Lohman has bought a jeep. He says it is all right on any road good enough for an ox cart.

Oil Prospecting Holds Promise Of Adventure but There's a Flavor of Science in it Today

PITTSBURGH —(AP)— If you're a hardy soul who loves adventure and life in the raw you might look into oil prospecting—it's one of the few remaining possibilities.

And even that has a strong flavor of science.

The world-wide rush to boost oil production has spurred efforts to find new wells. Some 400 crews now operate in the United States and others are busy in the woods, swamps and jungles of South America and Canada.

A scientist is top man in each crew but instead of being the usual smock-bedecked laboratory worker, he's a rugged individual in boots and slouch hat with a couple of days whisker growth bristling on his chin.

The scientist is key man because oil wells no longer are drilled at random locations. Instead, seismograph crews first "sound" for oil over wide areas, using dynamite charges to send out vibrations which are recorded on a seismograph.

Crews employed by oil companies or by independent contracting outfits spend long periods of time in the field with a "geophysical interpreter" as leader. He's the fellow who tells the others what the wavy lines on the seismograph mean.

The crews numbering about 15 men often take to such unconventional transportation as marsh buggies or wide-wheeled swamp buggies—especially in the marsh areas near the Gulf of Mexico. Standard equipment includes a portable drilling rig, seismograph, wire supplies, dynamite and shot hole casing. Their work often resembles that of sabotage demolition squads in World War II.

At the scene, surveyors determine best spots for drilling shot holes and stationing seismograph detectors. Drillers rig their portable equipment and sink several holes, 30 to 300 feet deep, over the area to be explored.

Next short casing is inserted and a charge of dynamite lowered into a hole. The charge is exploded, setting off a miniature earthquake to send shock waves rippling through the ground. As many as 10 dynamite charges may be set off in one hole to secure sufficient data.

The gathered information is mapped and recorded so that the geologists can determine the prospects for finding oil. A favorable test means that part of the country is in for some bustling development—and that the United States will probably be a little farther ahead in its efforts to find more oil to power the wheels of industry and defense.

Voters Back Large Field Of Veterans

By the Associated Press

Voters in Missouri, Kansas and Virginia primaries yesterday gave the nod for November election competition to a field of veteran political campaigners.

In Missouri, State Auditor Forrest Smith won the Democratic nomination for governor with little trouble, piling up a vote score greater than the combined totals of his two opponents, former U. S. Tax Collector Dan M. Nee and former Attorney General Roy McKittrick.

Smith had the support of anti-Pendergast forces in Kansas City.

The GOP primary was tighter, but Speaker Murray Thompson of the state House of Representatives had piled up a strong lead over his closest rival, Lawyer Manvel H. Cavis.

In Kansas, former Gov. Andrew Schoeppel got the approval of Republican voters as candidate for the Senate seat being vacated by 83-year-old Arthur Capper. Schoeppel defeated Wichita Lawyer Harold Malone.

The former governor's Democratic opponent for Capper's job will be George McGill, who has served previously as senator from Kansas. He ran up a two-to-one margin over farm leader E. K. Dean.

Virginia Democrats meanwhile gave the same two-to-one victory edge to Senator A. Willis Robertson, running for renomination against anti-organization candidate James P. Hart, Jr., Roanoke attorney.

In Congressional contests in the three states, incumbents were in all cases either unopposed, assured of victory, or leading.

All the Virginia primaries were Democratic except in the Eighth District, where Republicans held a contest which brought out only one-fourth the number of votes polled in the same district's Democratic race.

But in the face of all this, McGrath said he thinks things will work out in November.

"President Truman is not going to lose the electoral vote of any Southern state—wait and see," he said.

There is no evidence that the South's anger over Mr. Truman's civil rights program has cooled.

But there are signs that some of the Dixie Democrats in Congress who are up for re-election this year are hedging against a revolt.

One of these, Senator Willis Robertson of Virginia, declined to bolt the ticket and was renominated in yesterday's primary. Robertson and Virginia congressmen were said to feel that they ought not to leave the field open for Truman supporters to make the November contest a three-way race in which some Republicans might win.

We Adopt Parts Of 'Manifesto'

In a recent speech, Martin R. Gainsbrugh of the National Industrial Conference Board, dealt with the all-important and little understood topic of how far this country—which is supposed to be the leader of the anti-Communist forces of the world—has gone along the road which ends in communism, dictatorship, and the destruction of property rights. Here are some examples.

One plank of the Communist Manifesto, the century-old document which summed up in precise detail the principles of communism, calls for a "heavy progressive or graduated income tax." We have an income tax so severe that the accumulation of substantial savings is virtually impossible, and the incentive to take chances, to build up new enterprise, to further develop the nation, has been deadened.

Another plank calls for "abolition of all right of inheritance." Our present inheritance tax laws approach that goal. In case after case, when the owners of a business die the enterprise must be sold to satisfy the tax collecter.

Still another plank demands "centralization of credit in the hands of the state by means of a national bank with state capital and an exclusive monopoly." Today our federal government, in one way or another, completely dominates the money supply, credit, and interest rates.

Another plank advocates the "extension of factories and instruments of production owned by the state; the bringing into cultivation of waste land, and the improvement of the soil generally in accordance with a common plan." It is estimated that the federal government owns $150 billion of our national wealth. It has tremendous land and other holdings. It has gone into commercial business on a grand scale —as witness the Tennessee Valley Authority, and the various government-owned electric projects around the country.

Many more planks from the Manifesto which we have unwittingly adopted in part could be cited. In Mr. Gainsbrugh's words, "The disciples of capitalism need faith. . . In too few can there be found a view that capitalism contains within itself the same seeds of expansion as in the past century. What is needed is a favorable environment for further capital accumulation of private property and a greater degree of voluntary, personal control over its use and disposition." Let that happen, and we will effectively oppose communism at home even as we oppose it by diplomatic means abroad.

Fair Enough.... by Westbrook Pegler

NEW YORK — If Felix Frankfurter had taken only the part that a Supreme Court justice normally takes in the social and intellectual life of Washington, there would be no interest in his influence on the character and the political direction of the American government, at home and abroad. No written requirement forbids a justice to do any of the things Frankfurter did. He had a right to plant his proteges, friends, stooges or political and ideological agents wherever he could. He had a legal right to plant them in the War Department where he finally did put in his old friend, Henry L. Stimson, as secretary at the age of 73, first jostling Harold Ickes and Frank Murphy out of the way. He had a right to stick in two more selected plants to assist Stimson and keep an eye on him. He had a legal right to recommend and see to the placement of men who were, to his mind and for his purposes, valuable servants of the government in the State Department and in the agencies which absolutely rule the radio industry under a policy saturated with communism. He had this right, but such interference certainly was unusual and unbecoming. And, by the standards of many Americans, it was unethical.

Frankfurter was a judge up to his eyes in politics. He was pushing, shoving, elbowing into business that was no proper affair of any man sitting on the Supreme Court. Foreign relations were none of his business. War strategy was none of his business. He was an intimate social friend and ideological comrade of Roosevelt and an avowed partisan of much of Roosevelt's violent philosophy of government, often expressed in riots approaching wild insurrection.

Roosevelt was, in the most practical sense, a litigant in many cases coming before the Court. His opponents were not mere adversaries in legal proceedings but political and social devils. Frankfurter could call on the one litigant, Roosevelt, wheedle favors out of him on the pretext of public service, as in his selection of Stimson to be secretary of war, and accept his hospitality on yachting trips, a touch of high-life that few judges could afford. But a litigant on the other side couldn't approach Frankfurter and an invitation to dinner, even without the company of the fast babes that others provided for their guests. That would have been mighty like contempt of court.

Frankfurter was an old friend of Harold Laski, the English irritant who came over here to lecture at Harvard and, finally, after years of squirming on the issue of communism, was scotched in a lawsuit which was decisive. Laski denied that he was a Communist. In this case, however, he tried to mulct an English paper for saying he had counseled or given countenance to the use of violence for the achievement of political purposes. Laski lost. In the lack of any provable statement to the contrary by Frankfurter, it must be legally assumed that he does not think alike with his friend, Laski, in that particular. In broad political terms, however, they seem to have much in common. Laski's program has now reduced the British to hunger and tatters.

David K. Niles, formerly Neihaus, the White House confidential agent who trod a silent, shadowy course through the intrigues and rivalries of the palace plotters, was the third member of a congenial trio. The public never has been told who put Niles, or Neihaus, into this job. In ideology he was another Frankfurter man, so even if Frankfurter didn't plant him he could have had no objection.

If Frankfurter did not write certain of the fateful speeches of his man, Stimson, which guided the Americans toward war, he easily might have. They expressed the views and purposes of the administration of which he surely was an influential member and the man who uttered them was selected by Frankfurter for the job with confident knowledge of his convictions and plans.

Old newsreels show Frankfurter and his man, Stimson, leaving the ceremony together after Stimson took the oath.

It makes no difference whether other personalities, whether Eleanor the Great or parasites loading canapes and cocktails at the brawls, received more notice than Frankfurter in the memoirs of the last few years. He may not be high man but he certainly got his share of mention in the index columns under "F." That is a measure of a person's prominence and activity, propriety or the reverse.

We observed yesterday that Ickes, a friendly witness, conceded that Stimson was Frankfurter's man.

In Jim Farley's story, made melodious by the Irish poet, Walter Trohan, Farley says that on Dec. 28, 1938, President Roosevelt casually accused Frankfurter of conduct which surely revolts the decency of men with a proper regard for the Supreme Court. Here is one office which surely should seek the man. But Frankfurter knew what power lay in the warrant of a justice and Farley writes that Roosevelt said to him: "Felix Frankfurter wants to get on (the Supreme Court) in the worst way. Some months ago I had to tell him I just couldn't appoint him for many reasons."

One reason was that Roosevelt thought the job should go to a Western man. The other was that "I couldn't appoint another Jew" until Louis D. Brandeis should die or resign. In that statement to Frankfurter, Roosevelt, the apostle of purity, meanly truckled to geography, or sectionalism, the domestic equivalent of "racial origin," and, with the superb cynicism of which he was master, blandly told one of his craftiest disciples that religion, not ability, integrity or honor, was to be a second consideration but of equal importance. Even today the whole country is embroiled by the attempt of both parties to render illicit the very principles which Roosevelt here invoked toward the higher judicial office. What would Frankfurter say about a miscreant convicted of rejecting a six-foot Negro showgirl for a chorus line of five-foot blondes? He would hang him, of course, for racial discrimination.

About a week later, Roosevelt did appoint Felix. Now he could really bore from within.

On Page 34., Farley says Cordell Hull, though he was secretary of state, had not been consulted about the choice of John G. Winant to be ambassador to Great Britain. This was in March, 1941, long after Frankfurter might have been expected to get out of politics.

Farley says that Hull remarked to him: "I attribute the appointment (of Winant) to those I call the social welfare group. I'm sure Frankfurter was instrumental in bringing about the appointment."

Ickes remarked in his memoirs that he thought Stimson might have been a better secretary of state than Hull. In that case, he thought, "Harry Hopkins would not have had the run of the place," meaning the State Department, "and even Roosevelt would have realized who was secretary of state."

Yes, but who would have been? Stimson?

Or Frankfurter?

Gracie Reports

By GRACIE ALLEN

Well, I see that New York City is trying to sell a 500-pound anchor that it hasn't any use for, which just shows how human the big city is after all. Here I'd always thought of it as being so smart and sophisticated and now it turns out to be an old softy that buys anchors it doesn't need, just as I would if a fast-talking anchor salesman got his foot in my door.

My husband says New York probably bought that anchor during prohibition, when people would buy most anything that was "just off the boat."

But gracious, New York shouldn't have any trouble disposing of anchors. President Truman certainly could use one on his job in this stormy campaign weather. And Congress might buy it and attach it to the price of meat.

Personally, I'd like to tie that anchor to my bank balance. It's always drifting away.

DEWEY'S POWER POSITION ..... by Peter Edson

WASHINGTON —(NEA)— Presidential Candidate Thomas E. Dewey's position on public power policy is being smoked out by recent developments on "Larry," as the St. Lawrence River project has been nicknamed.

This has come to light through the New York State Power Authority's filing of an application with the Federal Power Commission in building and operating a $400,000,000, 2,200,000 horsepower dam and generating station across the St. Lawrence near Massena, N. Y. This action was taken on Governor Dewey's instructions after the U. S. Senate voted 57 to 30 against ratification of the 53-year-old U. S.-Canadian St. Lawrence Seaway project treaty.

New York and Ontario's new proposal raises a number of important questions in Washington, and their solution may seriously alter present U. S. public power policy. Ultimately, a showdown is in sight over whether electric power generated at government-built dams should be sold wholesale at the bus bar to private power companies for resale at a profit to consumers, or whether such power should continue to be sold by the government directly to preferred customers such as municipalities, rural co-operatives and industrial users.

The private power industry has for years been trying to block development of public power, particularly by valley or regional authorities.

PLATFORM, DEWEY DIFFER

The Republican platform adopted at Philadelphia, however, declared, "We favor progressive development of the nation's water resources for navigation, flood control and power, with immediate action in critical areas. . ." Later the platform declared:

"We favor a comprehensive reclamation program for arid and semi-arid areas, with full protection of the rights and interests of the states in the use and control of water for irrigation, power development incidental thereto and other beneficial uses. . ."

Lawyers may find a sharp conflict between states' rights and federal development, and another distinction between East and West, implied in these two sections. The St. Lawrence valley isn't what anyone would call an arid or semi-arid area. But the development advocated by Governor Dewey for the New York State Power Authority in the St. Lawrence is decidedly a project for promoting the rights and interests of a state.

It is also somewhat at variance with the power policy set forth by Governor Dewey when he was campaigning in the Oregon primary. In his Corvallis speech, he was quoted as having said:

"River development should be on a regional basis. Such large scale, multiple purpose projects as those for the drainage basins of the Missouri, the Columbia and the Willamette are a natural responsibility for the federal government."

FORESAW END

Private power interests in general were quite happy when the St. Lawrence project was sent back to the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate last February. Public Utilities Fortnightly crowed in its March issue that maybe this was the beginning of the end for "Larry." This was before Governor Dewey revived the project as a New York State Power Authority development.

In a more recent issue, however, the Fortnightly, a house organ for the private power industry, takes a slightly different line. Examining Governor Dewey's record on power development, it finds that he favored "non-discriminatory" sale of St. Lawrence power to private utilities at cheaper rates than it cost them to produce power.

That, presumably, would make the St. Lawrence development more acceptable to the private power companies which face a shortage of generating capacity in the New York industrial area.

In granting the New York State Power Authority a license to build and operate the St. Lawrence dams, FPC could conceivably specify how the power generated on the American side of the river is to be distributed, giving preference to certain types of consumers.

When FPC finally approves the project, it will be referred to the State Department which in turn will hand the matter over to the International Joint Commission.

By the time all this red tape is unwound, Governor Dewey may be in the White House. In that event it will be interesting to see whether Dewey will continue to push the New York State-private power interest above the Federal interest.

An Indictment of Modern Education

In the last issue I quoted from an address on the question of education by Walter Lippmann before the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Since this column has taken the position that one of the primary causes of our trouble is our educational system, this address is very much to the point. Mr. Lippmann's position on education is about the same as Dr. Robert Hutchins and Mortimer Adler of the University of Chicago. I quote further from Mr. Lippmann's address:

"The institutions of the western world were formed by men who learned to regard themselves as inviolable persons because they were rational and free. They meant by rational that they were capable of comprehending the moral order of the universe and their place in this moral order. They meant when they regarded themselves as free, that within that order they had a personal moral responsibility to perform their duties and to exercise their corresponding rights. From this conception of the unity of mankind in a rational order the western world has derived its conception of law, which is that all men and all communities of men and all authority among men are subject to law, and that the character of all particular laws is to be judged by whether they conform to or violate, approach to or depart from the rational order of the universe and of man's nature. From this conception of law was derived the idea of constitutional government and of the consent of the governed and of civil liberty. Upon this conception of law our own institutions were founded.

"This, in barest outline, is the specific outlook of western men. This, we may say, is the structure of the western spirit. This is the formation which distinguishes it. The studies and the disciplines which support and form this spiritual outlook and habit are the creative cultural tradition of Europe and the Americas. In this tradition our world was made. By this tradition it must live. Without this tradition our world, like a tree cut off from its roots in the soil, must die and be replaced by alien and barbarous things.

"Western Culture

"It is necessary today in a discussion of this sort to define and identify what we mean when we speak of western culture. This is in itself ominous evidence of what the official historian of Harvard University has called 'the greatest educational crime of the century against American youth—depriving him of his classical heritage.' For there will be many, the victims of this educational crime, who will deny that there is such a thing as western culture.

"Yet the historic fact is that the institutions we cherish—and now know we must defend against the most determined and efficient attack ever organized against them —are the products of a culture which, as Gilson put it, 'is essentially the culture of Greece, inherited from the Greeks by the Romans, transfused by the Fathers of the Church with the religious teachings of Christianity, and progressively enlarged by countless numbers of artists, writers, scientists and philosophers from the beginning of the Middle Ages up to the first third of the nineteenth century.'

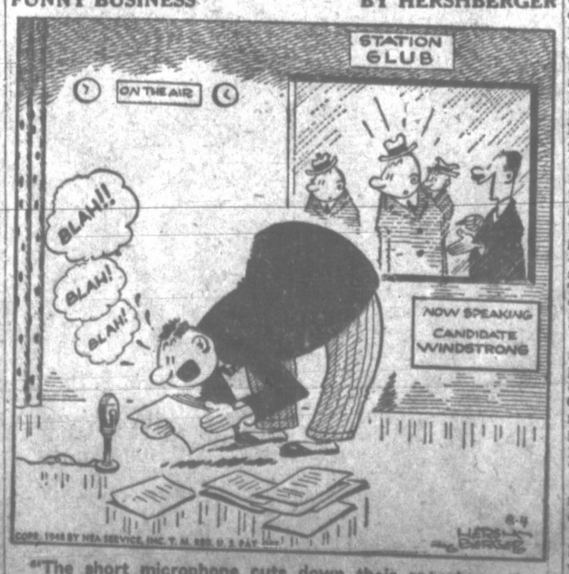

"The men who wrote the American Constitution and the Bill of Rights were educated in schools and colleges in which the classic works of this culture were the substance of the curriculum. In these schools the transmission of this culture was held to be the end and aim of education.

"Modern education, however, is based on a denial that it is necessary, or useful, or desirable for the schools and colleges to continue to transmit from generation to generation the religious and classical culture of the western world. It is, therefore, much easier to say what modern education rejects than to find out what modern education teaches. Modern education rejects and excludes from the curriculum of necessary studies the whole religious tradition of the west. It abandons and neglects as no longer necessary the study of the whole classical heritage of the great works of great men.

"Thus there is an enormous vacuum where until a few decades ago there was the substance of education. And with what is that vacuum filled: it is filled with the elective, the eclectic, the specialized, the accidental and the incidental improvisations and spontaneous curiosities of teachers and students. There is no common faith, no common body of principle, no common body of knowledge, no common moral and intellectual discipline. Yet the graduates of these modern schools are expected to form a civilized community. They are expected to have a social conscience. They are expected to arrive by discussion at common purposes. When one realizes that they have no common culture is it astounding that they have no common purpose? That they worship false gods? That they are tearing western society to pieces? They are the graduates of an educational system in which, though attendance is compulsory, the choice of the subject matter of education is left to the imagination of college presidents, trustees and professors, or even to the whims of the pupils themselves. We have established a system of education in which we insist that while everyone must be educated, yet there is nothing in particular that an educated man must know."

news behind the news

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — General "Ike" Eisenhower has received and answered many letters form plain American citizens which congratulated him on his refusal to listen to the politicians who sought to tempt him into accepting the Democratic presidential nomination only because they figured they could not elect their local candidates with President Truman at the head of the ticket.

Unlike Senator Claude Pepper, James Roosevelt and Frank Hague of New Jersey, who clamored for Eisenhower until he sent a second letter to the Florida legislator just befor the opening of the Democratic convention, these ordinary voters took seriously the military man's first statement that he was not available.

Most of them seemed to rejoice that he was unwilling to become a "man on horseback."

FORSAKEN — General Eisenhower's replies may prove a disappointment to Democrats and liberals who still view him as a 1952 possibility if Mr. Truman should be defeated next November and they have to shop around for a winner four years hence.

In a characteristic thank-you letter to Herbert E. Petley, of 2064 East Ninety-Sixth Street, Cleveland, O., the president of Columbia indicates that he has forsaken the political field permanently for the realm of education, believing that he can advance the true aims of democracy more usefully as a wearer of an academic gown than the toga.

PLACE — Here is his communication, which is dated July 6, 1948, or six days before the we-want-Eisenhower bloc of anti-Truman liberals and bosses assembled at Philadelphia:

"Dear Mr. Petley:

"Thank you for your letter.

"It is always a relief to hear from someone who agrees with me that I have no proper place in the political world.

"It seems to me that as an American who, as a part of one of the greatest and most influential of our universities, wants only to promote understanding of the critical issues facing our democracy, I have my true opportunity for useful service."

Even though General Eisenhower's previous declarations on his possible candidacy seemed to leave the door open for a possible draft in some future year, his insistence that he has "no proper place in the political world" appears to eliminate him from consideration except in a crisis which might demand a man of his peculiar talents in the White House.

MILITARY — The fact is that General Eisenhower, Secretary Marshall, Chief of Staff Omar N. Bradley and several topnotch commanders of World War II are determined to use their influence to prevent the growth of a veterans' bloc such as that which controlled the White House and Congress after the Civil War.

They trace many of the military establishment's woes and weakening from the nation's disgust with the Republican politicians who waved the "bloody shirt" from 1865 almost down to World War I, and they want no repetition of those days.

They have frequently derived satisfaction from the fact that, although there are more than 15,000,000 voting veterans alive, they have not yet sought the political power which enabled Civil War vets to elect second-rate presidents from Grant to McKinley. They were not disappointed when General MacArthur and Naval Commander Harold E. Stassen were bumped off by voters in the recent Republican primaries and convention.

LEGISLATION — President Truman might have obtained a fairly impressive batch of legislation at the special session of Congress if even his Republican sympathizers on Capitol Hill had not become convinced that he summoned them back to Washington only for political purposes.

When the GOP members of the Senate assembled to consider the President's message behind closed doors, the so-called liberals expressed their belief, albeit mildly, that the party ought to act upon several of his recommendations.

They listed the Taft-Ellender-Wagner Housing Act, already passed by the Senate, an aid-to-education measure, repeal of the federal oleo taxes, increase of the minumum wage from forty to seventy-five cents and expansion of the Social Security system.

BITTERNESS — Among those who held this viewpoint were two of the Republicans' least partisan men—Senator Aiken of Vermont and Senator Tobey of New Hampshire. They had the support of half a dozen others in the caucus, although the latter did not express themselves so positively.

Although favoring both the housing and education measures, Policy Maker Taft took the position that such major proposals should go over until the regular session next January. Together with Minority Leader Halleck, he gave the impression that this was Governor Dewey's preference. Less temperate spokesmen rose to denounce Mr. Truman for his convention hall warning that he planned to "put the Republicans on the spot."

In the end full harmony was obtained, and an incipient rebellion quelled, by a general denunciation of the Truman strategy. And for the first time their remarks regarding the man they liked so well when he sat among them were tinged with personal anger and bitterness.

Texas Today

By MAC ROY RASOR

AUSTIN —(AP)— Had a 10-million-dollar real estate deal gone through 104 years ago it would today be considered perhaps the costliest mistake in Texas history.

In 1844 Texas wanted to join the United States. She offered the federal government all her public domain if it would assume 10 million dollars of her public debt. The Senate refused. Congress decided instead that the new state of Texas would keep both her public debt and her public lands.

Out of that deal that fell through, state land office records show, Texas generously granted land to settlers, to war veterans (Texas Revolution and the War Between the States), to railroads for transportation facilities, to build a capitol, to encourage irrigation, drainage and iron works, to create an independent school system. Out of the deal that fell through, the state created two giant permanent education funds —the permanent free school fund and the University of Texas and Texas A. and M. permanent fund. Together they now total 210 million dollars.

In the past 10 months alone, a minute portion of the remaining public land brought 44 million dollars to the school funds. Land Commissioner Bascom Giles estimates "untold millions" will flow into the funds for years to come. From tidelands alone he expects a "conservative" billion dollars.

All public lands which now remain from the orginal domain are dedicated to public education.

About two million acres—mostly West Texas pastures dotted with oil wells—are held in the university permanent fund. Revenue from those lands have built the fund to its present 82 million dollars.

All other unsold public lands have been appropriated to the permanent free school fund, now totaling $130,000,000. Only about one and a half million inland acres and 18 million tideland acres.

All royalties and sale receipts are poured into the permanent fund in both the case of the university and free school holdings. Those funds cannot be spent outright but instead are invested. Thousands of dollars in interest from the funds are siphoned off monthly into the university available fund and the free school available fund. The available funds are spendable for education purposes.

Out of the deal that fell through, "land office business" has become no idle phrase in Texas.

You can't shoot and kill an idea with a gun. Military genius—no matter how excellent—is not the answer that we dare to rely upon for victory in this cold war that gnaws at the peace.

A PROFESSOR TELLS 'EM

(The New York Daily News)

Columbia University in the City of New York recently accepted a grant of substantial money from the Moscow-controlled Polish Government. The gift was for the purpose of endowing a new chair of Polish Literature, Language and Philology at Columbia.

The chair is scheduled to be named after Adam Mickiewicz (1798-1885)—which is an ironic twist, because Mickiewicz was a Polish poet and playwright who spent most of his adult life doing what he could to get his native country free from the clutches of Czarist Russia.

Anyway, a Columbia associate professor has objected to this acceptance of Communist cash. He has done it in the most emphatic way possible, by resigning the job he has held with honor for 20 years and stating his reasons in a 600-word letter to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the institution's new president.

The professor is Dr. Arthur Prudden Coleman, who has long taught Polish language and literature at Columbia. The Mickiewicz chair, he says, will be used as a pipeline for infiltration of Communist ideas if not actual Communist or fellow traveler personnel at Columbia.

Already designated to hold down the Mickiewicz chair is one Dr. Manfred Kridl, now on the Smith College faculty. Kridl is called a "noted Marxist" by Sigmund J. Sluska, former Columbia Slavonic Department Ph. D student and now a teacher of Polish at Queens College.

At this, Dr. Kridl laughs scornfully—but refuses to tell reporters his political views.

Dr. Coleman says that "since only the naive can believe that the present Polish regime, controlled by Moscow and the Cominform, would not help the U.S.S.R. with all its resources to overthrow by force the Government of the United States," he feels he would be faithless to his trust to retain any collegiate connection with the Red-endowed Mickiewicz Chair of Polish Language, Literature and Philology.

We can't see this episode doing Columbia any good. It will almost certainly strengthen the already widespread suspicion that many a U.S. college is infested with Red and fellow traveler termites on the faculty, and that some colleges are not doing all they might to delouse themselves in this respect.

President Eisenhower, who accepted Prof. Coleman's resignation yesterday, would be wise, we feel, to re-examine the Polish grant from top to bottom, and to let the general public in promptly on what he turns up.

GOP Proposes Own Bill to Guide Prices

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The Republicans formally proposed their own anti-inflation bill today amid prospects it may reach the House for action tomorrow.

Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich), House Banking Committee chairman, said the measure calls for restoring installment buying controls through next March 15 and for moderate tightening of bank credits. These steps have been freely predicted previously by GOP leaders.

In the Republican drive to wind up the extra session of Congress next Tuesday, Wolcott said his committee may act upon the bill today, sending it to the House for consideration tomorrow.

The measure completely ignores President Truman's request for selective price-wage controls and rationing powers. Likewise, there is no mention of the President's proposed excess profits tax.

Republican senators concentrated on bringing up some form of housing bill and on what to do about civil rights legislation—especially the anti-poll tax bill tied up by a Southern filibuster.

The 51 GOP senators were called together for a lengthy morning discussion of what legislation may be pushed in the session before adjournment.

Up for consideration of the 51 GOP members was a plan to concede Southern Democrats a victory in their filibuster and replace the disputed anti-poll tax bill with a proposed Constitutional amendment.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio), who predicted the Tuesday quitting time, said the group appeared about evenly divided on the poll tax proposal.

Southern Democrats have said they would not filibuster against a Constitutional amendment, which would need approval by 36 states. In any event, they apparently had won their fight against special session action on the House-approved bill to knock out such levies by simple Congressional action.

However, Senator Morse (R-Ore) made a fighting retreat last night against the Dixie word offensive on the poll tax question. He held the floor for over two hours defending the Constitutionality of the House measure.

Morse spoke after Senator Hill (D-Ala) had given his colleagues a six-hour and 13-minute talk on the subject. But few senators stayed around to listen to either speaker.

When the Senate finally quit at 10:16 p. m. Morse was promised he still would have the floor at the start of today's session.

Besides the civil rights issue, the GOP party members were due to hear their leadership's proposals for anti-inflation moves.

An agreement announced last night by Taft and Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich), chairman of the House Banking Committee, spoke of three moves: to tighten bank credit by boosting reserve requirements for both deposits and bank notes and —possibly, to reimpose the wartime curbs on time-payment buying.

tion of spying by government employes.

The chairman of the unAmerican Activities Committee — Rep. J. Parnell Thomas, New Jersey Republican — said he decided to throw Miss Bentley's information wide open to the public because he doesn't think the New York grand jury will indict anyone anyway.

Thomas wants a special grand jury called together here in Washington to pick up the investigation.

The Senate Investigating Committee, headed by Senator Ferguson, Michigan Republican, apparently also figured the investigation wasn't getting any place.

So it called Miss Bentley in and said it was doing so as part of its investigation of the government's program of checking on the loyalty of government workers.

The Moo the Merrier

Triplet calves, which occur about as often in the bovine world as quintuplets occur in humans, make their bow on the Ross Street farm near Fort Worth, Tex. The three calves are perfectly normal, healthy and—as the mother can testify—hungry.

The Calm One

Susan Cibulka, 4, calmly plays with her dolls in her Chicago home, unaware of the difficult decision facing her parents. Susan fell on a pair of scissors at Easter time, the blades piercing her right eye. She had one operation, and now several specialists say the eye should be removed lest the left one go bad "in sympathy." Other doctors say wait and see. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cibulka haven't decided what advice they'll follow.

Bitter Reprieve

By Drexel Drake

Copyright, 1948, Charles N. Huff; Distributed by NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Playboy Marcus Sterling has stolen his wife's diamond necklace and handed it over as security on a $10,000 gambling debt to racketeer Harry Bindle. To cover the theft, perpetrated while his wife slept, Sterling makes it appear a professional burglary. He then goes to Edgecraft Country Club to spend the night and establish an alibi. Along with the necklace, he has also taken a sealed packet from his wife's safe. This, Marcus discovers later, is $10,000 in cash which Miriam had withdrawn from the bank to give him.

Next morning Police Lt. Talent arrives at the Sterling household. Mrs. Sterling has been found murdered in bed. The wall safe in her room has been ransacked and everything points to robbery. Talent discovers Miriam's checkbook, with a stub dated the previous day made out to $10,000 cash. The maid, Stella Nelson, tells him Mrs. Sterling kept her diamond necklace in the safe.

XVI

THE shrill jangling of the bell aroused Marcus Sterling from a torturing dream into which it fitted with perfect synchronization. He raised himself abruptly, unable at once to shake off the unreality of the dream . . . vague dodging of pursuit, glaring lights seeking out his hiding places, the ear-splitting alarm of a siren.

He needed a moment to remember that he was in a room in the Edgecraft clubhouse . . . that he had asked to be called at 7 o'clock. He had been in bed little more than two hours. Sleep had not come. . . . Only fitful drowsing with startled awakenings.

Out of bed now, Sterling found reassurance in the flood of daylight that brightened his room. His legs were not too steady but he seemed fully awake, his brain alive, not greatly aware of the loss of sleep.

At his mirror in the bathroom, there was no denying the drawn, haggard appearance of his face. He attacked that with dousing into cold water, rubbing until his cheeks stung. Then the shower. He loitered under it. When again he examined his face in the mirror, he was satisfied that shaving would complete necessary repairs.

From his bag Sterling laid out the clothes he would wear on the golf course. Then he remembered the money.

He'd have to do something about the money, just as he had done something about the dirt-stained shoes, and flashlight. He could afford no mistakes, no carelessness now. He took Miriam's note from the sheaf of bills—lit it and watched it turn to ashes in the ashtray on the small table—mixed the blackened ash thoroughly into the ashes of cigarets he had smoked. He put the money on the dresser. He'd have to take care of that.

STERLING shaved . . . got into his golf clothes. By the time he was dressed, he'd decided what he could do with the money.

It was near 8. Maybe he could still get Shaw in his room . . . tell them to get going and he'd join them on the 10th tee. He could tell Shaw something had come up . . . he had to make some phone calls, wait for some callbacks.

The telephone brought no answer from Shaw's room. Probably at breakfast, Sterling thought. Well, he'd find them in the grill, if he hurried, before they went on to the locker room. He slipped the envelope of money in the inside pocket of his jacket.

Both Shaw and Crabfield were at breakfast in the grill, at a table over near a window. Sterling walked over to the table. The grill was deserted.

"You'll have to do some fast eating if you're teeing off at 8:30," Shaw said.

Sterling explained his pretended dilemma. Both men were sorry.

Sterling sat down with them. The two older men had finished and gone on before Sterling's breakfast arrived.

After a second cup of coffee, Sterling went out to the desk. The main foyer was lifeless.

He recognized the attendant as a youth of endless tasks and errands in the locker room.

"Well, Bob, so you've been promoted up here, have you?"

"Only in the mornings, Mr. Sterling. Nobody else around here wants to get up that early. Anything I can do for you?"

"I need two envelopes, Bob. Both large, but one larger than the other. Think you can round them up?"

The young man took one long stride to a drawer and jerked it open. "There must be six or seven sizes here, Mr. Sterling," he said. "Maybe you'd want to come around back here and pick out just what you want."

• • •

STERLING selected two long envelopes, one of which would fit inside the other with considerable room to spare.

"I see you have a roll of gummed tape in there," Sterling said. "I can use a piece of that."

"Why not, Mr. Sterling? Anything else?"

"I'll need some stamps, but I'll wait until I have the package ready and weigh it. Lucky for me you have that scale."

"Won't you need some paper?"

"Of course. I forgot that. Thanks, Bob." He accepted a profligate gift of club letterheads, for none of which he had any intended use.

In front of the desk again, Sterling nodded toward the large mail box at one end. "What time do they pick up the mail?" he asked.

"The first time around 9:30, Mr. Sterling. Just about when Johnny Geer shows up to take over this job." The youth glanced up at the clock. "You got about 25 minutes, anyway."

Sterling decided against mentioning that the clock was fast. He went to a writing desk in a corner of the foyer, where even young Bob Davis in his spot behind the clerk's desk was out of range. He had the place entirely to himself.

Four Ships Named for Medal of Honor Men

WASHINGTON —(AP)—The Army is renaming four of its ships in tribute to Medal of Honor men who lost their lives in World War II. One was a Texan.

Maj. Gen. Frank A. Heileman, chief of transportation, said the ceremonies will be held at home ports of the ships, which are used for supplying troops and residents of occupied zones abroad.

Lieutenant James E. Robinson's name will be given to the Czechoslovakia Victory. He was killed in action in Germany on April 6, 1945. His widow is Mrs. Vina E. Robinson, Waco. Home port of the ship is New York.

Mexico Produces Hi Test Gasoline

MEXICO CITY —(AP)— Mexico's first homemade high test gasoline went on sale Wednesday.

Super-Mexolina, an 80 octane product of Pemex; the government petroleum monopoly, is being distributed by capital filling stations at 35 centavos a liter, about 21 1-2 cents a gallon at the current peso-dollar rate.

Previously Pemex produced only Mexolina, a 70 octane gasoline, and "Gasolina," a much lower quality fuel. Pemex first announced the latter no longer would be sold, but after protests, particularly from truck and tractor owners, it changed its mind.

Mexolina sells for about 17 cents a gallon and Gasolina for 13 cents.

Army Has New Offer for Vets

A special opportunity for veterans of World War II with anti-aircraft artillery training to enlist in the U. S. Army in advanced grades ranging up to sergeant first class (formerly technical sergeant) has been announced by Sgt. Davis A. Brown, recruiter here.

Open to Navy, Marine Corps, and Coast Guard veterans as well as to former Army and Air Force men, this inducement has been provided to attract qualified personnel for new antiaircraft units organized under the recently authorized expansion of the Army, Sgt. Brown explained.

"Men trained in one or more of 21 different antiaircraft artillery specialties may qualify for this opportunity if they have been honorably discharged from one of the armed forces since May 12, 1945," he said.

"They may enlist for three, four, five, or six years, with assurance of being assigned to antiaircraft artillery duties.

"These specialties include such highly technical fields as radar operation and maintenance, fire control electronics, communications, gunnery, and artillery mechanics. Men who can qualify for these openings will in some cases be given advanced technical training in their chosen fields."

AWOL Guardsmen To Summer Training

CAMP RITCHIE, Md. —(AP)— Twenty-one National Guardsmen from an Oakland, Md., unit who were picked up for failing to attend summer camp have been ordered to remain here for the two-week training session, guard officials announced.

They said six others were released after a guard board of inquiry determined that attendance at camp would work a "personal or business hardship" on them.

MORE TELEPHONE CABLE GOING IN
to serve those waiting

It takes more than a telephone and switchboard to provide service for people who are waiting. It also takes wire and cable to connect each telephone with the switchboard.

Factories are turning out twice as much cable as before the war. And we are placing and splicing it into service as fast as we can get this cable.

We're working hard, but the demand for new telephones is so great we can't put in new cable fast enough to provide service for everyone as quickly as we or they would like.

If you are waiting for service, you may be sure we will connect your new telephone just as soon as we possibly can.

Audie Murphy, America's most decorated soldier during World War II, sweeps Hollywood starlet Wanda Hendrix off her feet as he returns to Hollywood from France. He was awarded the French Croix de Guerre in Paris. Hollywood reports have long said the two will marry.

Big Bean

That long, thin thing William H. Tinsman is holding against the yardstick is a bean—35¾ inches long, to be exact. Tinsman, an Ardsmore, Md., salesman, says it just grew that way. Must contain vitamins.

Market Briefs

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Aug. 3—(AP)—A sleepy stock market finished business today with only a few prices straying more than fractionally from the previous close.

Gains and losses were about evenly distributed, with the railroad section doing a shade better than other groups. The trading pace was one of the year's slowest. Turnover for the full session headed for around 700,000 shares.

Marked down were Republic Steel, Firestone Tire, International Harvester, Phelps Dodge, Dow Chemical, Du Pont, International Paper, and Kennecott Copper.

A trifle higher at one time or another were U. S. Steel, Woolworth, Consolidated Edison, Anaconda Copper, Southern Railway, Baltimore & Ohio, and Santa Fe.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 3—(AP)—Grain futures were strong today although profit-taking frequently cut into the best advances.

An upward revision in the government's estimate of possible wheat exports to Europe during the 1948-49 crop year was the main bullish influence. Also aiding sentiment were reports indicating an easing in the glutted elevator situation in the southwest, and an advance in the government wheat buying price at Kansas City.

Wheat closed ⅜ to 2¼ cents higher, September $2.23¾-⅝, corn was up ¼ to ⅝, September $1.64¾-⅝, oats were ahead ⅛ to ¾, September 72½-⅝.

FORT WORTH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Aug. 3—(AP)—Wheat No. 1 hard 2.29⅝-33⅝.
Oats No. 2 white 89¼-90¼.
Corn No. 2 yellow 2.12⅝-16⅝.
Sorghums No. 2 yellow milo per 100 lbs 2.35-40.

NEW ORLEANS FUTURES

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 3—(AP)—Cotton futures advanced early here today, but in the last hour of trading prices reacted downward under long liquidation and hedge selling. The market closed steady 25 cents a bale lower to 5 cents higher.

Shanghai Sees 'Bend-Down' Strike

Newest technique in the fine art of striking is exhibited in Shanghai. Striking bus drivers and conductors, who walked out in sympathy with 200 who were fired, chalk their protests on the streets. The walk-out left China's largest city without bus service.

She Has Fine Feathered Friends

Diana Twiford, 3, has some rare pets. They're American eagles, dangerous killers in their natural state. Diana's father, Curly Twiford, of North Hollywood, Calif., trains wild animals for the movies, and tamed these two handsome specimens.

In Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD —(NEA)— Comes now a wave of Hollywood economy-wave humor:

Madeleine Carroll and Richard Greene were playing a scene in an empty room for "The Fan." A studio electrician wandered on the set and said: "Hmmm—I didn't know retrenchment had gone so far they don't even put furniture on the sets any more."

When Milton Hill heard about M-G-M's projected sequel to "A Weekend at the Waldorf," he suggested the title, "Monday at the Loan Company." And some wag put up a sign in a hallway at Universal-International, latest studio to be hit by mass employe layoffs. It reads:

"Beware of Falling Heads."

Rory Calhoun and Isabelita, the Hollywood night club dancer, are telling friends they are in love and that it will be a November wedding.

NAME STAYS

Ginger Rogers gets Eleanor Powell's old bungalow dressing room at M-G-M for her dancing comeback with Fred Astaire in "The Barkleys of Broadway." But Eleanor's name remains on the door, as per L. B. Mayer's order when she checked off the lot.

I finally got around to "The Accused" set, to ask Loretta Young where she put her Oscar. She told me: "It's in my den—as conspicuous as possible in an inconspicuous place."

Jane Allyson and Van Johnson have a backstage Broadway story, "Footlight and Fancy," which they hope M-G-M will produce. . . M-G-M is talking to Duke Ellington about the film rights to his Broadway-bound show "Coal Black and Blue," which will star Lena Horne. . .An Australian theater chain is offering Dinah Shore a fortune for a three-week tour.

Word got around to Bing Crosby that the addition to Bob Hope's home would include a vault for his gags.

"Why," asked Bing, "doesn't he just hide them in a cornfield?"

Esther Williams' hubby, Ben Gage, will test at M-G-M for the lead opposite Judy Garland in "Annie Get Your Gun."

Sam Goldwyn's casting director, Billy Selwyn, called an agent to hire a well-known actor-narrator for the voice of the house in "Enchantment." The house plays a prominent role in the narration of the story.

The agent agreed on the role and the fee and then kidded: "By the way, how big is the house?"

"Eight rooms," replied Selwyn.

The agent sneered. "That's not such an important role. My client just played a 14-room house at Paramount."

MUST BE GOOD

Walter Pidgeon must be terrific in "Command Decision." L. B. Mayer himself interrupted Pidge's daily tennis lesson with Frank Feltrop to say he'd just seen the picture and that Pidgeon is great.

It's definite that Bill and Jimmy Cagney will switch from United Artists to Howard Hughes' RKO release. . .There's a deal cooking between David O. Selznick and Alexander Korda to send Greg Peck to England to star in a film version of Thomas Mann's "The Magic Mountain."

Press agent Milt Rosner claims he has the "biggest" client in Hollywood—600-pound Guy "Tiny" Cherry of Fort Worth, Tex., here for a film career. . .John Hodiak and Anne Baxter head for a Jamaica vacation as soon as he completes work on "The Bribe."

Sign spotted by Page Cavanaugh in a Hollywood Boulevard nitery: "Try our shoe-string cocktail. Two drinks and you're fit to be tied."

Della Norrel, Andy Russell's wife, will resume her career as a singer on tour with her hubby this summer and is having a lavish wardrobe designed for her comeback by Ilyana.

Remember "Imitation of Life" and Louise Beavers' great performance? Fannie Hurst has just sent the actress 50 pages of a screen original she's doing on a similar theme.

Jeanne Crain's pretty blonde sister, Rita, turned down her umpteenth movie offer. But it wasn't a flat no. She might be interested, she said, after she graduates from UCLA in February.

USE GLAZED CHINTZ

Draft Boards May Fix Own Points For Registering

AUSTIN—(AP)—Local draft boards may set up as many registration points as they think necessary for the initial registration from Aug. 30 to Sept. 18.

Those instructions were sent to members of the state's 137 draft boards Tuesday by Selective Service State Director K. L. Berry.

The procedure differs from the 1940 registration when the process was geared to the election system and was completed in one day. This time, registration will be done in 17 working days.

"Where the local board will be located in one county and there are a number of sizable communities in other counties within the board area, it is within the jurisdiction of local board members to locate registration places in each and every community to which prospective registrants normally vote or go to school," Berry said.

The initial registration begins with 25-year-olds on Aug. 30 and ends with registration of 18-year-olds on Sept. 17 and 18.

A bird's wing, composed of individual feathers, is a more efficient instrument of flight than the wing membranes of all other flying creatures from butterflies to bats.

PROTECTIVE HATS

Originally, hats or other headgear were worn mainly by men as protection against climate or a sudden blow on the head from a missile or weapon in the hands of an enemy.

EARLY INSURANCE

Prior to 1762, there was no life insurance, although there usually was insurance against loss of a crop or of a ship adventuring across the seas.
