Some of the fans of the Dallas Cowboys have commented recently on the number of new faces on the World Champions' squad. Actually the Cowboys have had a relatively small turnover since they finally reached the status of serious contenders for championship honors, and undoubtedly the reason that the list of new faces this year is greater than usual is the fact that some of the Cowboys have reached the age when retirement is no longer a remote possibility.

The Green Bay Packers, who dominated professional football only half a dozen years ago waited a year or so too long to bring in new faces, some observers believe, and coupled with departure of the late Vince Lombardi, it put them into virtual eclipse for a few years. The Packers, who will host the Cowboys this coming Sunday at Milwaukee, have tried to make up for lost time in rebuilding their squad the past two years and consequently they will have only eight players on their roster Sunday who participated in the famous "Ice Bowl" NFL title game on Dec. 31, 1967.

On the other hand, there are 16 Dallas Cowboys still around who were on the Dallas roster for that game.

Last Friday night's victory over the Big Spring Steers was a big one for the Snyder Tigers for several reasons.. Big Spring is a long-time rival and a victory over them at any time in any sport is to be savored. This time, it was Snyder's first victory over a Class 4A team since the Tigers themselves were elevated to Class 4A, and thus will no doubt find a place in local athletic history. In professional parlance, the Tigers are a sort of "expansion team" in the Class 4A ranks—in other words an outright newcomer. You would have a hard time convincing Big Spring, or even Midland Lee, that these newcomers to the 4A rank are babes in the woods, however.

The Southwest Conference, which so far has enjoyed its best season against outsiders in many moons, has seen an upsurge of offensive power in its ranks this year, despite the fact that SWC teams are passing the football rather sparingly, not withstanding the heroics of Rice's Bruce Gadd. They are scoring more, gaining more yards on the ground and when they do resort to the forward pass, they are completing more of them.

What's the reason for it? "Better personnel to move the football, says SMU Coach Hayden Fry. "There are more special-ability people in the conference this year."

"That also means there are some good offensive linemen in this conference and they're seasoned players," says Baylor Coach Grant Teaff. "You're not going to find many freshmen or junior college transfers in the trenches."—WACIL McNAIR.

China, Japan Agree To Establish Relations

PEKING (AP) — Prime Minister Chou En-lai announced tonight that China and Japan have decided to establish diplomatic relations and terminate the state of war between the two countries.

The 74-year-old premier said in a farewell toast at a glittering banquet in the Hall of the People given by Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka of Japan that this historic step will make a "positive contribution" to the relaxation of tension in Asia and to world peace.

Tanaka, 54, who arrived here Sunday on a state visit, said normalization of relations is only the first step and that he will try his best to continue the trend of rapprochment.

Japan's 22-year-old state of diplomatic relations with Taiwan is expected to be broken by Friday morning, when Chou and Tanaka sign a joint communique outlining the steps they have taken

"We are going to end the abnormal state of affairs which has existed between the two countries up to now," Chou said. "The termination of the state of war and the normalization of relations between China and Japan — the realization of this long-cherished wishes of the Chinese and Japanese peoples will open a new chapter in the relations between the two countries and make a postive contribution to the relaxation of tension in Asia and safeguarding the world peace."

The banquet took place after the fourth and final round of talks by Chou and Tanaka.

A Japanese spokesman said after their 80-minute meeting, "Our major problems have been solved. The summit has been a success."

The joint communique, ending 22 years of hostility and distrust between Japan and the Chinese mainland, will be signed Friday morning in the Great Hall of the People.

Tanaka and Foreign Minister Masayoshi Ohira will sign for Japan. Chou will be the sole signer for China.

Earlier, Mao Tse-tung gave the Chinese-Japanese summit his official public blessing by meeting with Tanaka.

The Chinese Communist party leader received Tanaka Wednesday night in the private residence where he met President Nixon in February. They talked for an hour and the session was described as "very friendly" and cordial.

It was Mao's first encounter with a Japanese prime minister in more than half a century as a revolutionary leader.

The gesture, coming midway in Tanaka's meetings with Premier Chou En-lai, was a tipoff that the two men are moving toward agreement on establishing diplomatic relations and working out a series of pacts which will formalize their new ties.

As party chief, Mao is the most powerful man in China. Chou is his second in command.

Official color photographs showed Mao ruddy-faced and in apparent robust health as he shook hands with Tanaka.

Dressed in a gray civilian tunic, Mao remarked humorously that he hoped the "fighting" with Chou was over. And he observed that once people have fought they become more friendly.

Remaining Prisoners Concern Freed Trio

By JOHN VINOCUR
Associated Press Writer

COPENHAGEN (AP) — The three American pilots flew home today, happy to be within hours of the land they left to fight a distant war, concerned about the hundreds of prisoners of war they left behind.

Lt. Norris Charles put it succinctly shortly before he and two colleagues released by Hanoi took off for New York.

At a Copenhagen news conference he said the American people were in fact bringing the trio home. Then, concerning the remaining prisoners, Charles told Americans:

"If you really want to bring these men home you can do it. If you really want to end the war you can do it. I call on you to help me bring the men home ... I can't feel too free when I consider the men who are left behind in North Vietnam."

Charles, his fellow Navy Lt. (j.g.) Mark Gartley and Maj. Edward Elias of the Air Force appeared to be in fine shape as they arrived in Denmark after an overnight stay in Moscow. They had flown from Hanoi via Peking and Moscow, traveling on commercial planes in the company of a group of American antiwar activists. That was an effort to avoid any attempt by U.S. authorities to take the pilots into custody while en route.

Charles had been a prisoner of war almost a year, Gartley four years and Elias four months.

They shunned political statements today.

Gartley observed: "I've been away from the States for a very long time and not all the issues are clear to me. But whichever policy will bring the men home the fastest is the one I support the most."

Asked if Jane Fonda as a visitor to Hanoi had reported accurately that American prisoners of war favored the election of Sen. George McGovern, Gartley said the actress was "not qualified to speak for the opinions of the prisoners of war."

The men had a steak dinner at a country inn an hour from Copenhagen, and watched the changing of the guard at the Royal Palace.

"We are more like tourists than POWS," Charles remarked.

The departure of their flight was delayed more than half an hour due to a traffic bottleneck in the airport.

When the fliers reached Moscow there was a name-calling struggle between the activist group and a U.S. diplomat, centering on who would be in charge of the men's return home. There was nothing like that in Copenhagen — the official contact was brief and polite.

Charles told a newsman that he did not expect to be going back on combat duty and the other two pilots nodded their heads in agreement.

Asked if he thought he would be in trouble with the U.S. military for his statements, Charles replied: "The military does not hold the truth against anybody."

Gartley, speaking of his long captivity, said "psychologically speaking you become adapted. The first six months are hard."

Bremer's Sentence Reduced

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (AP)—A three-judge appeals panel today cut 10 years off Arthur H. Bremer's 63-year prison sentence for the shooting of Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace and three other persons.

The decision came after a 45-minute hearing during which the 22-year-old defendant, speaking in a soft, dispassionate voice, made a personal appeal for a reduction.

"Sixty-three years is more than a life sentence," Bremer told the judges. "It is severe and harsh. I plead for a reduction of the sentence."

The Prince Georges County Circuit Court judges gave no reason for the reduction.

They reduced the sentence of assault with intent to murder Wallace from 15 years to 10 years and took five years off the 15-year term imposed for using a gun in a crime of violence. The other sentences against Bremer were left untouched.

Bremer has yet to appeal the conviction. Today's hearing dealt only with an appeal that the sentence be reduced.

He did not visibly react to the decision.

US Jets Stage Coordinated Raid

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. jets from three bases in Thailand set fire to more than half of a 70-building military storage complex in a major coordinated raid northwest of Hanoi, the Air Force reported today.

The raid Wednesday was the first of the war against the depot 84 miles northwest of Hanoi, used for temporarily storing war materials en route southward and to support troops based in the immediate region, the Air Force said.

Several flights of F4 Phantom fighter-bombers hit the sprawling complex with laser-guided 2,000 pound bombs and conventional 500-pound fragmentation bombs, the Air Force said.

The raid was among more than 300 tactical air strikes reported by the U.S. Command across North Vietnam Wednesday. It was the third successive day that more than 300 strikes had been launched over the North by U.S. fighter-bombers.

In Saigon, where allied intelligence anticipated an increase in terror attacks in the weeks prior to the U.S. presidential election, a grenade was tossed at a South Korean jeep in the Chinese quarter of the city this morning. The grenade fell into the street, killing one Vietnamese civilian and wounding four others, the Saigon command said. There were no Korean casualties and the terrorist escaped.

Fighting continued at a generally low level with only scattered, small actions across South Vietnam, but analysts said they had no evidence this was tied to any political developments in Paris. Instead, they said, they were more inclined to accept the theory that the North Vietnamese were regrouping and receiving fresh supplies for another round of attacks across South Vietnam.

Associated Press correspondent Dennis Neeld reported that work crews reopened Highway 1 north of Da Nang under fire after it had been cut for two days by culverts blown out by saboteurs.

Communist forces kept up harassing attacks in Quang Ngai province 75 miles south of Da Nang, and there were no signs of major progress by government forces in securing Highway 1 in the region.

Vietnam Press, the official government news agency, said that North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops indiscriminately fired into refugees on Highway 1 south of Quang Ngai City, killing 17.

White House, Thuy Deny Peace Settlement Rumors

By KENNETH J. FREED
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger is back in the United States after a unique two-day meeting with top North Vietnamese negotiators, a meeting the White House denies produced a settlement of the war.

What, if anything, came from the Paris sessions remains a secret held by a handful of administration officials.

Kissinger talked to President Nixon by telephone Wednesday night after his return to Washington and will provide a complete report at the White House tonight after the chief executive returns from a campaign trip to California.

The President's chief foreign-policy adviser emerged from his Air Force plane smiling and looking relaxed, but he refused to meet with waiting reporters about his talks with Le Duc Tho and Xuan Thuy.

"I can't say anything," Kissinger shouted to newsmen who implored him to stay a while after his jet touched down on a rain-slicked runway at Andrews Air Force Base.

What the reporters wanted to ask about specifically was a report that an agreement had been reached to create a three-segment neutral regime in Saigon with a cease-fire going into effect in October.

In Paris, meanwhile, Thuy said rumors of an imminent agreement on a war settlement are "without foundation and contrary to the truth."

Thuy, who is North Vietnam's chief peace negotiator, said his delegation has been besieged with calls asking about rumors of an agreement.

Trailer Brakes Rules Are Eased

AUSTIN (AP) — Farmers got a break on trailer brakes today.

A Senate committee also eased regulations for towing boats.

Changes to a 1971 law on trailer brakes had been sought almost since the law went into effect. Gov. Preston Smith even considered calling a special legislative session on that topic this past summer.

Farm groups particularly wanted changes.

A bill sponsored by Sen. Wayne Connally of Floresville was approved for floor debate Thursday after numerous amendments, including a proposal by Port Arthur Sen. Roy Harrington to exempt boat trailers from having lights if they are used only in the daytime.

The amendment specifies that if the directional signal on the "towing vehicle" can be seen, a signal light is not needed on the boat trailer.

All farm trailers would be exempt from the lighting requirements if they also are pulled only during daylight and are visible for 1,000 feet. This, in effect, would prevent movement of such trailers in rainy or foggy weather.

The new proposal also removes the 30 miles an hour speed limit on farm trailers and exempts the trailers under 15,000 pounds gross weight from the 1971 law, which required a brake on each wheel. The proposal, however, requires that the driver would have to be able to stop the trailer within 50 feet if he is going 20 miles an hour.

Rep. Mike Moncrief of Fort Worth headed a special House committee which worked on a new bill after complaints about the 1971 law.

Supporters of the proposed changes included the Texas Farmers Union, the Texas Federation of Co-operatives and the 130,000-member Texas Farm Bureau.

Chief Wants Laws Changed

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Dallas Police Chief Frank Dyson told a meeting of city businessmen today that the men and women of his department want the laws changed to make the criminal justice system work.

Calling the present situation "discouraging and demoralizing", Dyson said in an address prepared for delivery to the Salesmanship Club:

"We do the very best we can under the circumstances. I want it clearly understood, however, that we are not resigned to a continuation of things as they are.

"We can amend the Constitution. We can change the laws. We really can make the criminal justice system work. I call on all of you ... to give us the support we need to get these situations corrected."

The wheels of justice are not only turning slowly, but "have almost ground to a stop", Dyson said.

"It is my hope," he added, "that growing dissatisfaction with our system of justice, as presently constituted, will be translated into a demand that something be done."

Remarking that a major crime occurs in Dallas every 12 minutes, the police chief said a relatively small number of persons are responsible for a large majority of these crimes.

A prison sentence is only a temporary setback for the repeat offender, he pointed out.

"They will be released, not as rehabilitated individuals, but as wiser, more knowledgeable criminals ready to resume their criminal activities."

Dyson said the repeat offender "exploits every legal technicality, loophole and weakness" of the system to evade the fair administration of justice.

"The hard-core repeat offender ... not only relies on but expects a lenient attitude from the courts," Dyson said. "When apprehended for a criminal act, the repeat offender is continually allowed to go free on bond, meaning freedom to commit additional acts of crime."

VA Vans Due Here Oct. 12-13

Two mobile vans manned by veteran services and benefits specialists touring Texas as part of President Nixon's National Assistance for Veterans program will be in Snyder, Oct. 12 and 13th, according to Jack Coker, Waco Veterans Administration Regional Office Director.

Coker said the National Assistance for Veterans program is a multi-federal agency concept joining the services of the VA; Health, Education, and Welfare; Housing and Urban Development; Office of Economic Opportunity; and Texas Employment Commission.

Donald E. Johnson, Administrator of Veterans Affairs, is national coordinator of the program.

During the month of October the vans will visit Greenville, Abilene, Sweetwater, Snyder, Midland, Odessa, Pecos, San Angelo and Brownwood.

Use of mobile vans will bring assistance to veterans who have not made full use of their benefits and other federal government services.

VA Chief Johnson said the Texas vans--a first in the nation as an innovative program--will establish a "track record" to base planning for the expanded program to deliver veterans services.

Traveling with the vans will be a team of four VA benefits specialists, a clerk, and a Texas Employment Commission representative, who will be from the local office of the TEC.

Information and counseling in various veterans benefits areas will be offered. These include education, home loans, medical benefits, disability compensation and pensions, employment, job training, housing assistance, and individual and family counseling.

Coker said a key feature of the van's effectiveness will be the complete telephone communications available for counselors. Contact may be made from the van to any government office needed to give the veteran complete, one-stop service.

All persons interested can contact any chapter member or the Vocational Agriculture department at Snyder High School.

Road Projects Lack Funding

HENDERSON, Tex. (AP) — Texas Highway Commission chairman Dewitt Greer said today many high priority highway projects lack funding and no relief is in sight.

Greer told a chamber of commerce luncheon the commission needs $1.2 billion do to an adequate job next year but can anticipate receiving less than half of that, $482 million.

One reason for the shortage, Greer said, is inflation. It takes $1.58 to buy highway construction today that cost only $1 only 10 years ago.

Also, Texas will get only $189 million this year from the Federal Highway Trust Fund instead of $283 million that had been expected, he said.

Greer urged continued citizen support for a first class highway program. He asked his listeners to tell their elected representatives they oppose diversion of highway funds to other programs.

Sign True

FRANKLIN, Tenn. (AP) — A motel put up this sign: "Waitresses to strip."

Ribicoff To Unveil Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff unveils his compromise welfare-reform plan today to carry the Senate into the heart of its debate on a giant Social Security-welfare bill.

While the welfare-reform provisions have proven the most hotly disputed aspect of the legislation, it also contains Social Security increases which the Senate raised still further Wednesday.

By a 76-5 vote, the Senate adopted Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield's amendment lifting the ceiling on the amount retired persons can earn without losing Social Security benefits.

Mansfield's amendment pegs the ceiling at $3,000 a year, compared with the present limit of $1,680. Some 1.5 million persons could benefit from the $3,000 ceiling during the first year.

Despite some opposition, the Mansfield proposal was debated and passed in short order in contrast to the prolonged argument expected on welfare reform.

Ribicoff offered his compromise in hopes of defeating the rival Workfare approach drafted by the Senate Finance Committee and inserted in the bill.

But there were indications his amendment would not attract sufficient support to be grafted onto the Social Security-welfare bill as a substitute for Workfare.

Rally Fizzles

NEW YORK (AP) — A rally that bloomed when watered by peace rumors Wednesday withered on the vine today as both the White House and the North Vietnamese denied that any break-through had been made in negotiations.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was down 2.56 to 944.69. Declines led advances 655 to 518 on the Big Board, with 1,541 issues exchanged in slow trading.

The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,400 common stocks was off .08 to 60.06, and the price-change index at the American Stock Exchange was unchanged at 26.08.

The market has been in general decline on low volume since Labor Day.

Governor Adds More Subjects

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — For a governor who claims he dislikes calling special legislative sessions, Preston Smith seems to be doing his darnedest to keep this one in town the full 30 days.

Originally, Smith told legislators to work on competitive car and house insurance and a proposal to allow him to transfer funds in financial emergencies.

But Monday he added at least four more subjects, including a new trailer brake law and $13.5 million in state funds for state medical schools at Houston and Lubbock.

Wednesday, Smith asked the session to provide Texas a "superport" capable of handling giant oil tankers.

Committee hearings were scheduled on some of the proposals today, and a House-Senate committee on insurance went into its sixth day of facts and figures on competitive rates.

The House had to wait 20 minutes before 100 of the 150 members showed up for a quorum to do business. Then after 20 minutes of routine motions and resolutions the House adjourned until 1:30 p.m. Monday.

A number of lawmakers asked Smith to let them consider construction of a deep-water offshore port. It also was recommended in the Texas Democratic Party platform adopted in Houston last week.

Environmentalists generally fear a superport might ruin coastal areas, and they are also concerned about the possibility of major oil spills. Rep. Ray Lemmon of Houston, sponsor of a bill to create a Texas Harbor and Terminal Commission with the power to issue bonds and construct the port, said it would take about five years and from $70 million to $100 million to build.

Smith said a report to be issued next week by state interagency councils on transportation and natural resources will show that "Texas requires greatly increased importation of foreign oil to meet its growing energy needs" — and such oil is shipped increasingly in jumbo tankers.

Dr. Arthur Williams, dean of the University of Minnesota business school, told the joint insurance committee Wednesday "open competition should produce a lower rate if we agree that rates seek their proper level. But if a state has adequate rates they would go up."

Williams did not speculate what rates would do in Texas if competition were allowed. The State Insurance Board now sets auto and house insurance rates on a uniform basis.

Two Vehicles Are In Mishap Here

Minor damage resulted from a two-car mishap on Thirty-seventh Street at Avenue E at 11:55 a.m. Wednesday.

Investigating Highway Patrolmen said the 1971 Model Buick of Terry Kubena, Hermleigh, was involved in a collision with the 1962 Model Chevrolet of Jimmie Anders, 1906 Coleman, Apartment 3.

Officers said both cars were traveling East prior to the collision and the vehicle driven by Anders was in the process of making a left turn onto Avenue E.

Car Hits Tree

City Police investigated a one-car mishap in the 2400 block of Avenue M at 6 p.m. Tuesday.

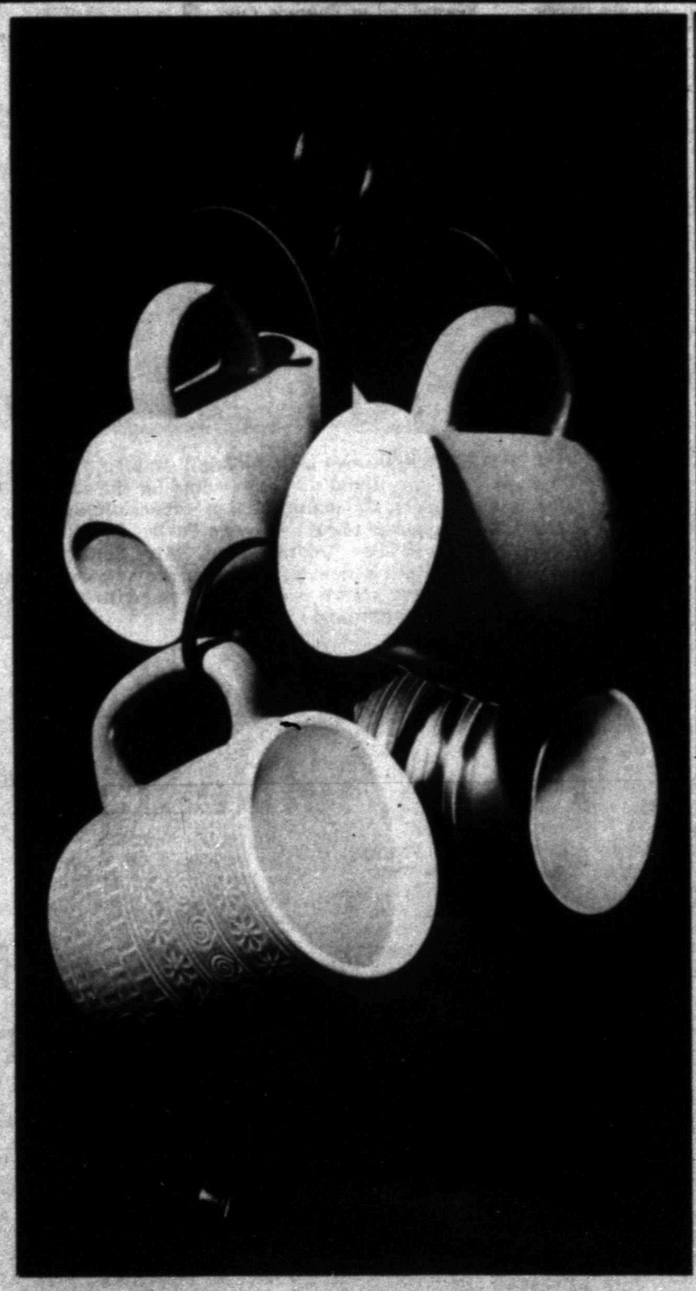

Officers said the brakes on a 1964 Model Ford operated by Michael Leon Holloway, 214 Twentieth Street, apparently failed. The car crossed the intersection of Twenty-fifth Street and Avenue M and hit a tree with the right front fender. Damage was minor.

Tunisia, an old land, got a fresh start as an independent republic in 1957.

The Weeders Guide

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

Many legends accompany the tulip. Hiding in the shadow of, but not overshadowed by the more showy tulip is the fragrant hyacinth, which emerges about the same time, and should also be planted in the fall.

The hyacinth, also a bulb of great antiquity, was part of the Dutch bulb craze of the 1630s. It has come a long way from the ancient days when it grew wild in Eastern Mediterranean areas. It was imported to Holland by 1570 and has steadily been improved upon there.

The hyacinth memorialized Hyacinthus, a gifted and handsome Grecian youth, slain in a fit of jealousy by Zephyrus, God of the West Wind. This dastardly legendary deed was committed while Hyacinthus was throwing the discus with Apollo, the Sun God.

Apollo promised that Hyacinthus would be remembered always and from Hyacinthus's blood caused a path of fragrant purple flowers to flourish.

Early in the 18th century there were about 50 varieties of hyacinth. Soon afterward there were 2,000. As the hyacinth became fashionable, Madame de Pompadour championed it in the French court.

The hyacinth is a member of the lily family, bearing thick spikes of delicate bell-like florets on strong stems. They are fine for virtually any garden, formal or informal.

A long way from the original purple limitation, the Dutch have developed shades of blue, bright red, soft pink, lavender, yellow and white, pastels and bright colors.

Hyacinths are beautiful planted with other flowers, such as Species tulips, miniature daffodils and minor bulbs--grape hyacinth, scilla and crocus.

Our friend Marc Reynolds, an expert on bulb selections, suggests:

Red, blue and purple hyacinth varieties to contrast with clumps of yellow or cream-color daffodils; white and blue hyacinths blend beautifully with the pinks and reds of azaleas; for a striking floral interplanting, group hyacinths with low-growing Species tulips and have large, brilliant blossoms; plant hyacinths around light-leafed trees or beneath flowering crabapple or cherry trees; plant them at the base of or in between shrubbery.

Hyacinths are excellent along garden paths with pansies, violas and forget-me-nots.

MORE WORKERS, MORE PAID TIME OFF

UAW To Stress Nonmonetary Issues

By STEF DONEV
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers say they'll force the automakers to "humanize" the assembly lines, hire more workers and give more paid time off—perhaps as much as an extra month a year—in 1973.

Ken Bannon, head of the UAW's Ford Motor Co. department, gave the first formal glimpse of the union's plans when he spoke to the UAW's National Ford Council here Tuesday.

UAW officials said one reason they will stress nonmonetary issues is that they expect President Nixon to be re-elected and a new, stiffer wage freeze to be imposed.

"We've heard indications the limit might be as low as 4.7 per cent," one official said. "And if we can't get our fair share in the paycheck, we'll get it this way. Besides, the time is right to do something about factory and assembly line conditions."

UAW contracts with Ford, General Motors and Chrysler expire next September. Bannon said the target company has not been chosen.

"Even though we struck GM the last time, that doesn't mean we won't pick on them again. And Chrysler's financial condition doesn't rule them out either," he said.

"As we go into the 1973 auto negotiations," Bannon told the 200 UAW local officials from the nation's Ford plants, "we have to do something about the conditions employes work under. Factory conditions fill people with dread about the thought of entering the plant every day. And they become so frustrated they take it out not only on their fellow man, but on the product."

Both Ford and General Motors officials have publicly indicated they will fight any attempt to change the operation on the assembly lines, he said. "But we will present the issue and we will fight for it."

Bannon also offered a proposal for 10 per cent more paid time off—26 working days a year—and said it would not cause expensive plant shutdowns because it would force the automakers to hire 10 per cent more workers.

He said overtime must be reduced so more workers can be hired and present workers can enjoy their leisure.

Although final contract demands will not be decided until the Special Collective Bargaining Convention in late March, Bannon, UAW President Leonard Woodcock and other union leaders indicated the demands will stress these points.

Both Bannon and Woodcock urged the election of Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern.

If President Nixon is re-elected, both men said, working men and women will continue to be stepped on while big business basks in the administration's business-oriented tax loopholes and privileges.

"We're supposed to be a government of laws," the UAW president said, "but we're dangerously becoming a government of the fix."

Fischer On Show

BURBANK, Calif. (AP) — World chess champion Bobby Fischer, who said cameras bothered his concentration in the title match he won against Russian Boris Spassky, will appear on Bob Hope's Oct. 5 television special, the National Broadcasting Co. has announced.

Fischer will join Olympic gold medalist Mark Spitz, singers Karen and Richard Carpenter, David Cassidy and "Follies" star Alexis Smith.

He will have a "light part," an NBC spokesman said Wednesday.

The chess champion is scheduled to tape his part Sunday.

Midland Wants To Split From Permian System

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Midland wants to get out of the Permian Junior College system to save its own two-year school, says a Permian regent.

Odessa residents won't vote bonds for a Midland campus, he said.

Reagan Legg, a Midland lawyer, told a Senate committee Wednesday the Midland college "is in a box and will wither on the vine" if it must remain in the Permian system, which includes the Odessa and Midland junior colleges.

He supported a proposal by Sen. W.E. Snelson of Midland, chairman of the Intergovernmental Relations Committee which heard the bill, to allow the Midland college to split off from the Permian system.

The committee approved the bill for floor debate.

It was not included in Gov. Preston Smith's original call for the special session, but he added the subject Monday.

Odessa Junior College was established in 1946 and the Midland college was set up in 1959. Legg said, operating out a high school from 4-10 p.m.

In 1969 in an effort to get an upper-level college, an agreement was made between Midland and Odessa to build the college between the two cities, Legg said. He added that as part of the agreement the Midland Independent School district voted 4 to 1 to join the Odessa college district.

Also as part of the understanding, Legg said, a campus was to be built within two years for the Midland college; then there would be a two-year campus at Midland and Odessa.

The plan to locate an upper-level school between the cities "fell through," Legg said, when University of Texas regents picked Odessa as the site for UT-Permian Basin, which will open in September 1973.

Then last November a districtwide bond election to build a Midland junior college campus failed even though Midland residents approved it by a 4 to 1 vote. The reason for the defeat, Legg said, was that 97.3 per cent of the Odessa residents who voted rejected the issue.

"As long as we are part of the Odessa junior college district, we won't be able to build a campus," said Legg, one of four Midland residents on the 13-member board of regents.

He said Midland is the largest city in Texas without a college campus, and its junior college now has an enrollment of 1,135.

He said the city was prepared to donate 110-150 acres for the Midland campus.

Snelson's bill would allow Midland to withdraw from the Permian district by the reverse procedure by which it joined the district.

"There's no such provision now in the law," Snelson said.

One Killed In Week's Combat

SAIGON (AP) — Only one American was reported killed in action in Indochina last week, but two died of non hostile causes, the U.S. Command announced today.

In addition, the Command said six more men were listed as missing and 13 were reported wounded.

South Vietnamese casualties continued at unusually high levels caused by the North Vietnamese offensive. A total of 631 government troops were reported killed, 196 missing and 2,346 wounded.

The Saigon command claimed 2,879 enemy were killed during the weekly reporting period which ended Saturday.

The allied commands now have reported these total casualties for the war:

American — 45,858 killed in action; 10,276 dead not as a result of hostile action; 303,400 wounded; 1,681 missing, captured or interned; and 118 missing not as a result of hostile action.

South Vietnamese — 156,003 killed and 409,506 wounded.

Viet Cong and North Vietnamese — 893,569 killed.

Houston Rites Set For Trainee

HOUSTON (AP) — The body of Louis W. Morton, 23, a former Peace Corps trainee killed last week in Uganda, was returned to Houston Wednesday night.

Morton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Agmand Morton of Houston, was killed by Uganda soldiers as he returned to Kampala after a weekend on a game preserve in the Southwestern part of the country.

Funeral services will be held here at noon Friday in Christ the King Roman Catholic Church. Burial will be at Garden of Gethsemane Cemetery.

Morton was killed as he and Robert C. Freed, 23, of Madison, Wis., another former trainee who also had dropped out of the Peace Corps program after two months, returned from a weekend visit to the game preserve.

A Peace Corps official at Washington said the two men had no way of knowing that fighting had broken out since they had no radio in the rented car.

The official said Morton and Freed passed through a pair of military roadblocks and came to an obstruction in the road. They were fired upon by Ugandan soldiers as they made their way around it. The car kept moving and a machine gun opened fire upon them, the official said.

Morton, driving the automobile, was killed. Freed was wounded slightly in the shoulder.

Freed was picked up by the soldiers and taken to a hospital where he was treated for wounds. He then was brought to Kampala where he reported the incident to the U.S. Embassy.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q — Should a taxpayer contact the Internal Revenue Service to get his auto excise tax refund?

A — Generally, refunds are made to the purchaser by the auto manufacturers and importers. If you purchased an automobile between Aug. 15 and Dec. 11, 1971 and have not received your excise tax refund, contact the firm that sold you the car. However, if you were the importer of the auto, you would contact IRS directly.

Q — I purchased a $20 ticket to attend a political fund-raising party for a candidate for state office. There was dancing and refreshments at the party, but also some brief remarks by the candidate. Is the entire cost of my ticket eligible for the deduction or credit for political campaign contributions?

A — No, because the event was designed primarily to offer benefits of value to those attending. Consequently, your political contribution eligible for a credit or deduction is only the excess of the amount you paid for the ticket over the fair market value of all the benefits available to you. If the dinner or other function had been merely incidental to the essentially political nature of the event, the function would not be considered primarily a device to confer private benefits. To qualify as essentially political, the program must be primarily devoted to political speeches or discussions. In such a case, the entire cost of the ticket is eligible for the credit or deduction.

Q — I'll be turning 65 this year. Are there any special tax benefits for Persons my age?

A — Yes. There are several benefits for those 64 years of age or over. For example, there is an extra $750 exemption for age, and special provisions covering the sale of a personal residence.

These are explained in IRS Publication 554 "Tax Benefits for Older Americans." Send a post card to your Internal Revenue district office for a free copy.

Tower Challenges Youth

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., challenged Texas youth leaders today to speak up against drug abuse in support of efforts by both state and federal governments.

"Drug abuse has become public enemy No. 1," Tower told students at Baylor University. "This is one of our most critical domestic problems and it is one which young people can help us to solve. It is time for the real leaders among our young people to speak up as forcefully against drug abuse as one of the radical rabble-rousers have in its favor."

Tower said Texas has received about $23 million in federal funds the past two years for prevention, treatment, rehabilitation and education in the drug abuse program.

"Personally, I am committed to turning back the tide of drug abuse," he said. "The $23 million in federal funds which Texas is receiving during the current two-year period for drug abuse programs probably will prove to be one of our wisest investments."

The world's largest network of private rehabilitation workshops for the handicapped is Goodwill Industries of America, a nonprofit organization.

IMF Seeking System To Monitor Values

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Efforts of the world's trading nations to erect a new monetary system is further recognition that this is, after all, one small planet of mutually dependent peoples.

That reminder is more often placed before us today in another context, that of ecology. We fully realize now that one nation's behavior in air and water treatment, for example, effects not only it but the world.

The same is true in international trade, where one nation's excess often can be used to fill another's need, to their mutual benefit. But there is no gyroscope to maintain this balance, and trade sometimes hurts rather than helps.

Nations sometimes try to dump their excess on another. They try to withhold goods if that helps their cause. They erect trade barrier in the form of tarriff duties. In effect, they sometimes practice warfare in trade.

Other problems arise because of internal differences, economic policy, inflation, wage rates, living standards, stage and pace of industrialization.

And as these economic elements change, so also changes the symbol of a nation's economy, the value of its currency. Ever-changing currency values constitute a threat to the exchange of goods and money.

In effect, the International Monetary Fund, now meeting in Washington, is seeking to build into world trade a guidance system, a monitor of values, by erecting a new system of currency exchange.

If they succeed—it is generally believed imperative that they do—it will be perhaps the most vital of many moves undertaken in the past 25 years to achieve world economic cooperation.

Progress is already noteworthy. The United States now trades with China and Indonesia. Japan and China are seeking to accommodate each other. The nations of Europe are erasing trade barriers and expanding the European Common-

The trend is not, however in one direction.

Simultaneously with efforts toward economic cooperation and unity, economic nationalism is intensifying in some nations which are fearful that trade hamper, more than promotes their well being.

The United States is considering the Burke-Hartke bill aimed at protecting American business. Chile and some underdeveloped nations are going their own way. Canada, Australia and others are concerned about foreign ownership of their production facilities.

Moreover, the gap between the rich nations and the poor nations is widening rather than closing, and international trade is one of the primary reasons for it. A nation whose exports consist mainly of raw materials, especially those that can be duplicated artificially, has little clout.

The route toward economic cooperation has crossed a lot of hills and valleys to get this far, but it still has many more ahead. At the moment, the biggest obstacle is the lack of an acceptable monetary system.

The system that died a year ago had served the world's trading nations until it became too out of joint with the times, too unflexible to adapt itself to changes in the economic strength of nations.

Erecting a new system is considered by monetary authorities to be the only alternative to gradual fragmentation of the economic conditions that brought prosperity to many nations following the great depression and World War II.

Junior Editors' Quiz on COAL and CHARCOAL

QUESTION: What is the difference between coal and charcoal?

* * *

ANSWER: Coal is formed from decomposed vegetation in swampy areas where it was pressed down many times by earth and water. This natural process took millions of years. Coal is really fossilized vegetation. The plants that helped to form coal are sometimes visible in a chunk of coal. Geologists figure that a thickness of 5 to 8 feet of rotted plants or peat results in a one foot bed or layer of coal.

Coal is used to generate electricity and gas, also to produce steel and iron. It turns the wheels of industry and has an influence on everyday life.

Charcoal is made from vegetable matter where the substances are charred or incompletely burned. Most charcoal is made from wood which is burned with little access to air. The lack of air causes the wood to char and only partially burn. Wood charcoal is used as a fuel and produces a smokeless fire, popular for broiling meat. It is used as a filter to absorb impurities, and is used in gas masks to absorb poison gas.

Captains Of Tugboat Honored

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The U.S. Maritime Administration has presented one of its highest awards to two New Orleans tugboat captains for heroic acts during the Union Faith ship fire.

The Merchant Marine Meritorious Service Medal was issued Tuesday to Capts. Douglas Grubbs and Chris Rieder.

Both were involved in rescue operations April 6, 1969, when the Chinese tanker Union Faith and an oil barge collided on the Mississippi River at New Orleans, triggering fires and explosions that killed 25 persons, and threatened the port of New Orleans and the river bridge.

The Maritime Administration cited Grubbs for manuvering his tug "Cappy Bisso" in close to pick up survivors in the river, tying onto the Union Faith when he saw that it was drifting, and holding it several hours until the vessel began to sink.

Damage Heavy In Ft. Worth Blaze

FORT WORTH (AP) — A fire struck the Quarles Lumber Co. Wednesday night.

Firemen remained at the scene today to douse coals and smouldering stacks of lumber.

The fire was first reported about 11:15 p.m. when patrolmen J. A. Carlberg and L. T. Rench spotted it. They said about two-thirds of a large warehouse at the southwest end of the company grounds was burning.

Firemen said a 15 to 20 mile an hour wind began blowing from the southeast after they arrived and carried the flames across two other sheds, both filled with lumber. Six two-ton flatbed trucks parked in the yard also were destroyed.

The fire went to four alarms and as not brought under control until after 2 a.m.

H. B. Stuck, company president, made no damage estimate but said damage would be "heavy."

The only fireman injured during the laze was W. L. Usrey, who suffered an eye injury. He was treated at a hospital and returned to the scene of the fire.

Ants are said to outnumber all other land-dwelling animals.

Parker Is Hit With Riders

By MARTIN KRUMING
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Bus driver Edgar Parker enjoys happy passengers.

That's why he greets them with, "Hi, how are you?" and urges them to "please watch your step. Have a beautiful afternoon and a lovely weekend."

Parker apologizes to elderly ladies with canes for not pulling even with the curb; says goodby in five languages; points out landmarks in Harlem and midtown Manhattan; waves to merchants and jokes constantly.

Some samples:

"Next stop is the poor house—Rockefeller Plaza."

"Welcome aboard our 747. We have this aircraft disguised as a bus to prevent a hijack. I hope."

The riders love it.

Customers have written him letters, offered candy and free lunches and even tried to kiss him.

"One lady wanted to kiss me goodnight but her husband kept pulling her away," says Parker, a 50-year-old father of three who moved to New york from North Carolina in 1936.

He started driving a city bus four years ago. Before that he ran a liquor store in Harlem.

"Driving a bus in New York is one of the hardest jobs," he says. "Anything you do with the public is hard."

His secret is "neighbor first, God second and me last."

"I love people," says Parker, an ordained minister who spends little time preaching but a lot of hours visiting hospital patients.

"You never see people smile anymore. They're so tense waiting for someone to offer a kind word," he says. "If everybody practices a little love there would be less fear."

Many passengers stop on their way out to thank him for a pleasant ride. A German woman had her friend take her picture alongside him.

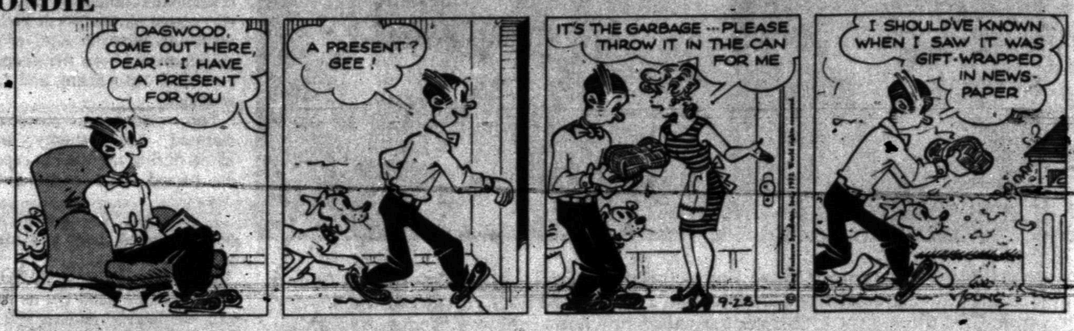

How do you spot Parker's bus?

It's marked "4 to Ft. Tyron Park" on an afternoon route, and usually he's heard announcing over his microphone: "All aboard. All aboard. Hi, glad to have you with us today."

McGovern Announces Two Teams Of Mayors

By LEE BYRD
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George McGovern today named a team of more than 20 mayors to help him forge a long-range urban policy and pledged $4 billion in interim relief to cities.

The Democratic Presidential nominee also announced that a second group, "Mayors for McGovern," will begin active campaigning in his behalf. It is headed by John V. Lindsay of New York, Joseph Alioto of San Francisco and Roman Gribbs of Detroit.

That trio will participate as well on the new policy panel, for which McGovern designated Mayors Kenneth Gibson of Newark, N.J., Richard J. Daley of Chicago and Kevin P. White of Boston and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota as leaders.

After introducing the new campaign units, McGovern attacked the Nixon administration's urban record and declared the election "will determine the fate of American cities for the next two decades."

In remarks prepared for a midmorning news conference, the South Dakotan called for a massive redirection of federal funds from the Vietnam war to jobs, housing, crime prevention, environmental protection, schools and urban transportation.

He was particularly critical of the Federal Housing Administration, saying "the federal government today is ... becoming the nation's largest slumlord."

McGovern said federal housing authorities in at least 20 cities, including St. Louis, Chicago and Washington, face imminent bankruptcy while "Richard Nixon has impounded some $315 million which could be used" to keep them alive.

"Under my administration," McGovern said, "the impoundment of funds appropriated by Congress because of so-called inflationary pressures will cease. These public programs should not be penalized for the mistakes of other sectors of the economy."

McGovern hailed the recent congressional compromise on the revenue-sharing bill as "a very welcome step" but said "as president, I would increase that program another $4 billion in emergency fiscal relief to cities, out of money saved through tax reform and cuts in unnecessary military spending."

He said his administration "as one of its first acts," would look to the urban-policy panel chaired by Gibson for the nation's first long-range development plan.

"The lives of 100 million children, the increasing flight to the cities, our terrible transportation needs, and the vast decay of urban centers cry out for immediate, serious, and thoughtful planning," McGovern said.

On the employment front, McGovern said, the Nixon administration has adopted "a deliberate policy of economic neglect ... by throwing men and women out of work," whereas he is committed to a $6-billion program to create one million new public-service jobs by 1975.

"Despite the talk of law and order," McGovern went on, "The Nixon administration has permitted a 30-per-cent increase over three years in the number of serious crimes, and some 350,000 drug addicts still roam the streets.

"I would propose as president a tough $1.5-billion program to fortify this country and its legal, its curative, and its preventive fight against drugs."

McGovern's comments came in his only public appearance planned until next week, when he resumes full-scale campaigning.

GM Strike Is Ended

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Striking United Auto Workers have ended the longest walkout ever at a General Motors plant, but apparently without assurance their major grievances have been settled.

UAW Local 674 members voted Wednesday to ratify a new contract for operations at the GM Assembly Division plant in suburban Norwood. They had been on strike 174 days.

The contract—approved by a 74-26 per cent margin by the plant's nonskilled workers and a 94-6 per cent margin among the skilled workers—satisfied the employes' seniority, overtime and shift preference grievances.

But Richard Minton, Local 674 president, said the international UAW organization had recommended that certain production standards grievances be dropped.

These complaints, including alleged assembly line speedups and poor working conditions, had been at the crux of employe unhappiness.

"This is one thing I don't like," Minton said. But over-all, he added, the contract "is a major victory for us."

GM said the plant would reopen at the earliest possible date. However, Sidney W. Roche, the plant manager, said several weeks might be required.

Alcoholism will affect three million men this year and cost industry $4 billion in lost time and inefficient work. In a company of 10,000 employes, the minimal cost of alcoholism will reach $1 million annually, according to Project Health.

Panel Downs Housing Bill

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Crammed with enough provisions to anger liberals and conservatives at the same time, an omnibus housing bill has been shot down by the House Rules Committee.

By a 9-5 vote Wednesday, the committee refused to send the $10.5-billion legislation to the House floor and, in effect, killed its chance for passage during this session of Congress.

The bill would have provided funds for two years for a wide range of programs supervised by the Department of Housing and Urban Development, including most existing forms of public housing.

In addition, it would have provided $400 million to subsidize operations of city transit systems which now receive federal aid only for capital expenditures.

The Rules Committee turned down the bill as cleared by the House Banking Committee. So the banking panel planned a meeting today to determine whether there should be an effort to salvage the bill's most palatable portions, an unlikely choice because of the rush to adjourn by Oct. 14.

The committee is more likely to seek passage of a stop-gap bill continuing present housing programs at the current spending levels.

Throughout the process of molding the legislation, one group after another found something in the bill to criticize.

Civil-rights advocates objected to a provision giving local government authorities the right to veto low-income housing planned by private builders but subsidized by the government.

Critics argued that the clause would have strengthened the hand of suburbanites determined to exclude the poor and minorities from their neighborhoods.

Conservatives fought a provision which would have authorized a new program of direct government loans to buyers of low-income housing.

The now-dead bill also contained provisions designed to protect home buyers from abuse by lawyers, title companies and others involved in real-estate settlements. But critics said those provisions had been changed so much that they actually would have been weaker than existing regulations.

As the Rules Committee was nearing its decision, some members expressed concern that if the bill reached the floor, it would delay the intent to adjourn by Oct. 14.

Arrest Three In Kidnaping

HOUSTON (AP) — Two men and a woman were in jail today charged in the Sept. 17 kidnaping of a Texas City woman.

The three were arrested Wednesday night by FBI agents at a Houston residence.

They were identified as Harry Leroy McMahon, 37; Theodore R. Bradford Jr., 20, and Viola Melveaux Frank, 27, all of Houston.

They were charged at Texas City with kidnaping, robbery by assault and felony theft in the kidnaping of Mrs. Richard Taylor, 40, wife of a LaMarque funeral home owner.

Mrs. Taylor was released unharmed last Saturday in Houston after being held by her captors for almost a week.

Police said Mrs. Taylor was abducted Sept. 17 by three persons who forced their way into the Taylor home. The trio also took cash and other belongings from the Taylor home.

The kidnapers first demanded $100,000 from Taylor but then lowered the amount to $16,000, all that Taylor said he could produce.

"Taylor tried to deliver the money at several designated areas in the city but never was able to contact the kidnapers.

Last Saturday a final drop location was established behind a Houston high school. About 40 FBI agents and other officers were near the school when Taylor threw the money bag from a car.

Several shots rang out, fired in the direction of two agents, but no one was injured and the ransom money was recovered. A few hours later Mrs. Taylor was released from a Houston motel.

Police said Mrs. Taylor remembered being held in a house with three children and hearing the name "Viola".

FBI agents said they found the house by checking records at numerous elementary schools.

The three were being held in lieu of $100,000 bond each.

'MARKET-BASKET' INDEX DROPS

Report Shows Markets Widened Beef-Price Gap

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government report today showed that supermarkets widened the beef-price gap between farmers and consumers to a record margin in August, thus failing to pass along to housewives recent declines in cattle prices.

The widening farm-to-consumer meat-price spread, subject of White House arm-twisting of retailers earlier this month, was shown in a "market basket" report issued by the Agriculture Department.

In August, the report said, the average retail price of beef dropped 1.5 cents per pound from a record high in July of more than $1.17 per pound to slightly less than $1.16.

But while cattle producers saw their share drop 8.4 per cent in August, middlemen representing packing plants and retail stores widened their margins 12.6 per cent.

Broken down, a pound of choice beef—a major indicator for family food spending—had a "farm value" in August of 71.0 cents per pound when sold in supermarkets. That compared with 77.5 cents in July.

That figure is not what cattle producers get for live animals, since it takes nearly 2.3 pounds of steer on the hoof to make one pound of supermarket beef. But the figure does represent a producer's share of what the housewife spends at meat counters.

Today's report showed the total cost of a market-basket food list—theoretically enough to feed a typical family for a year—actually declined slightly in August from the record $1,322 peak in July.

The $1 decline was attributed mainly to the lower retail prices for beef and poultry. Slightly higher prices were reported for several items, including pork, which has been at record highs both on the farm and at meat counters.

The $1,321 index was 4.5 per cent higher than a year ago.

Meantime, the total spread between the "Farm Value" and the retail price increased to a record high of 44.8 cents per pound for retail beef in August, from 39.8 cents in July.

Broken down further, the farm-to-housewife beef spread showed the retailer's margin was another record of 37.3 cents per pound in August, compared with 33.0 cents in July.

The farm-to-carcass spread, or wholesale share, in August was 7.5 cents, up from 6.8 cents in July. Earlier this year, however, the carcass spread was higher, reported at 8.1 cents last May.

Donald Rumsfeld, director of the Cost of Living Council, told food retailers in August that the wholesale price of beef began to decline in July and that the council "expected to see a corresponding reduction" in supermarkets. Rumsfeld repeated the expectation on Sept. 7 and said government reviews would be started to monitor beef prices in major food chains.

Although today's USDA figures showed that food costs dropped slightly in August, last week the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported retail grocery prices during the month rose 0.2 per cent.

The USDA report indicated that the difference between the two indexes is due mainly to lower prices for beef during the latter part of August.

"Market-basket prices ... are for the entire month while BLS prices are for the first week of the month," the report said.

Jail Break Thwarted

EASTLAND, Tex. (AP) — Acting on a tip, officers thwarted efforts to break out of the Eastland County jail Wednesday night—apparently only a few hours before it was planned.

Sheriff L. E. Sublett said a search disclosed prisoners in a third floor tank had severed steel bars with a smuggled hacksaw blade and, gaining access to the roof by that means, had cut a hole.

Sublett said his men also took a piece of rope from the inmates.

The break was plotted from the floor where James Duke Creel, 34, a convicted child slayer, was being held.

Creel, formerly a sergeant at Dyess Air Force Base outsie Abilene, was convicted nearly a year ago of murder in the strangling of Tona Worthington, 10, on March 15, 1971 at Abilene. He was tried and convicted at Eastland after the case was moved from Abilene.

War Winding Down Says Gen. Taylor

HOUSTON (AP) — Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor says the Vietnam war is winding down rapidly.

The former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff said Wednesday he believes it "very unlikely" the war could be ended by negotiation.

Taylor, the U.S. Ambassador to Vietnam under former President Lyndon B. Johnson, said the Vietnamization policies of President Nixon are working in all phases—militarily, economically and administratively.

Taylor was in Houston to address a private study club and to promote his book, "Swoards and Plowshares."

Westerners Host Golf Tourney Here Tomorrow

Western Texas College will be host for the third Western Junior College Conference golf tournament of the 1972-73 year at Snyder Country Club Friday, September 29.

The tournament, starting at 9 a.m., is one of nine hosted by each conference school. Five tournaments are held in the fall and four in the spring. Tournament have already been held in Clarendon and Borger.

A point system is used for scoring each tournament, with the winning team receiving nine points; second place, eight points; third place, seven points; fourth, six points, etc. The conference champion will be decided by total points in all nine tournaments.

Coach Bob O'Day's linksters are currently tied for second place with South Plains College golfers. With 15 points each, WTC and SPC follow Odessa College with 18 points. After two tounaments, New Mexico Junior College ranks fourth with 12 points; Amarillo, fifth, 10 points; Howard County, sixth,6; Frank Phillips and Clarendon, seventh, five and one-half; and New Mexico Military Institute, ninth, four.

Each college has five players from represented in each 18-hole tournament. The best four scores of the five players from each school will be used for the team score.

Vying for spots among WTC's top five players are sophmores Max Tenorio, form Amarillo Caprock; Blake Arnwine, Hereford; Tim Stuerzenberger, Abilene Cooper; Barry Hays, Borger; and Steve Rutherford, from Everman. Freshmen are Danny Walters, Abilene Cooper; Mark McCraney, Big Spring; Mark Peters, Big Spring; Joe Ziegler, Canyon; Ricky Hopper, Sweetwater; and Larry Hall, Iraan

Walters and McCraney currently lead WTC's team through the two tournaments.

Walters scored a 68 (three under par) at Clarendon and shot even par at Borger with a 71. McCraney scored 69 (two under par) at Clarendon and 71 (one under par) at Borger. Rutherford is even par through two tournaments, and Tenorio is three over par through two tournaments. WTC's golf team is three under par going ipto Friday's play.

According to Coach O'Day, the Western Junior College conference and the Florida Junior College Conference are ranked as the two best junior college conferences in the nation.

Youth Help SWC Teams

DALLAS (AP) — Young talent is one reason the Southwest Conference teams have compiled an 11-4 intersectional football record.

George Smith, a fleet transfer from Los Angeles, has helped transfer Texas Tech into the No. 2 offensive team in the country. Smith is leading the SWC in rushing. Another Red Raider newcomer , sophomore Cliff Hoskins, ran 79 yards for a touchdown the first time he carried the ball in varsity play.

Texas A&M plans to start three freshmen in its backfield against Army — halfbacks Bubba Bean of Kirbyville, Skip Walker of Del Valle, and fullback Alvin Bowers of Wharton. Aggie wide receiver Carl Coaches has a 97-yard touchdown return against Louisiana State.

Freshman Wayne Morris of SMU broke into the lineup with a 154-yard rushing night against Wake Forest.

Charles Dancer, a 158-pound transfer, caught eight passes from sophomore quarterback Neal Jeffrey in their debut for Baylor.

Andrews Hosts Snyder Tigers Friday Night

Sporting a 2-1 record and seeking more glory, Snyder's Tigers journey to Andrews for an 8 o'clock gridiron tussle with the Mustangs Firday night.

The Tigers opened the season with a 3-0 triumph over Lubbock Dunbar. They lost 16-0 to Midland Lee, then whacked Big Spring 21-10 last week. The host Mustangs are 2-1 also. They own 42-0 and 13-12 verdicts over Levelland and Sweetwater repectively, but dropped a 39-13 decision to Odessa.

Most prognosticators are calling this contest a tossup with victory probably going to the team with the most desire.

After a slow start, the Tiger offense finally got into high gear last week against Big Spring, scoring 3 touchdowns and a field goal. A change in the offensive line was one of the reasons that the offense began to jell. Willie Smith, 212-pound junior, and Grant Knipe, 222-pound junior, both were installed in the offensive line. Their blocking contributed materially to the Tiger success.

Smith plays nose guard on defense and Knipe is a tackle. This week, Jerry Webb will replace Smith at strong guard on offense.

The passing attack also improved last week with quarterback Tim Holder hitting halfback Jimmy Don Dyess with a touchdown toss. Rounding out the backfield again this week will be Paul Norred, 188-pound junior, at fullback, and Hubert Crayton, 173-pound junior at tailback.

For the third straight week, the Tigers will be facing a team that emphasizes the forward pass. First, it was Midland Lee, then Big Spring, and now, Andrews.

Coach Maurice (Mo) Hodges of the Tigers says that the Mustang quarterback--Jim Leach, a 170-pound senior, is a talented tosser. Joining him in the Mustang backfield will be wingback Dennis Hemme, a 160-pound senior; fullback James Allbright, a 191-pound senior; and, tailback Charlie Gregg, a 205-pound junior.

Both teams employ th I formation offense. However, the Tigers also use the Winged-T. Defensively, Snyder will be in the Oklahoma five while Andrews will use a pro style 4 man front with a rover who plays anywhere on the field.

Anchoring the Mustang defense will be Jim Clements, a 165-pound senior linebacker, and Joe Shryock, a 195-pound senior tackle.

Welton Cobb is the big cog in the Tiger defense. The 192-pound sophmore holds down one of the linebacking spots. He also is a dangerous runner with the potential to go all the way.

Other offensive starters for the Tigers include ends Charles Cain, a 135-pound senior, and Ralph Lewis, a 176-pound junior; tackles Knipe and Chris Covey, a 188-pound senior; guards Webb and Paul Davis. 157-pound senior; center Joe Dale Price, a 174-pound senior.

Defensively, Cobb, Smith and Knipe will be joined by Eddie Bane, 165-pound senior, at linebacker; Micky Gonzales, 258-pound junior, at tackle; Wilbert Thompson, 156-pound junior, and David Yearwood, 160-pound junior, at end; Jackie Hartsfield, 146-pound senior, at cornerback; Charles Cain, 135-pound senior, at halfback; V.T. Roberson, 154-pound junior, at safety; and John Boren, 155-pound junior, at rover.

Hartsfield will aternate with Charles Cain, 135-pound senior, bringing in plays from the bench. Rickey Berry, 170-pound senior, and Nicky Neves, 150-pound junior, both will see action at middle guard. Robert Braziel, 194-pound junior, and Willie Smith, 212-pound jr. both will get into the think of the affray in the offensive line.

Coach Hodges likes to play every boy on the squad every week. Some of the lads not listed as starters are speciality teams, such as the kicking off team, etc.

The list of lads ready to lend a helping hand includes quarterbacks Widgeon Emerson, Tim Jones and Richard Gorman, halfback Kerry Smith, center John Wilson, guard Thomas May, tackles Paul Hayes, Joe Aycock and Jal Dennis and ends Regis Harper, Layne Collins and Greg Godair.

Fullback-linebacker Tommy Welsh is still on the injury list.

Andrews holds an 8-5 edge in the series between these two teams, and the Tigers haven't beaten the Mustangs since 1966 when they won 14-13. The two teams didn't meet each other in 1968 and 1969.

Porkers Make Mistakes

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles said the Razorbacks made a lot of mistakes in their 1½-hour workout Wednesday.

Broyles said a lot of plays had to be repeated and this wasted a lot of time.

Arkansas plays Tulsa Saturday afternoon in Fayetteville.

Broyles said Scott Bull, who started his first game last week against Oklahoma State, will again be the starting fullback Saturday. Broyles said Drew Toole would handle the punting.

Center Stuart Freeland missed practice Wednesday because of a bruised knee, but Broyles said he should be back Thursday.

Junior Varsity Hosts Andrews

There are three football games on tap in Snyder today.

Lamar 8th grade hosts Colorado City at 6 p.m. followed by a 7:30 p.m. clash between Lamar 9th grade and Colorado City. At 7:30 p.m., the junior varsity hosts Andrews in Tiger Stadium.

IMF Officials Are Optimistic

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — In contrast to their mood a few days ago, the world's top finance officials now are saying that large strides can be taken in shaping a new international monetary system within a year.

As the International Monetary Fund moved today to set up the negotiating forum for monetary reform, finance ministers and central bankers attending the IMF's annual meeting believed the basis for serious talks finally had been laid.

Until the United States came out with specific monetary proposals Tuesday, the mood was gloomy over whether any kind of agreement could be hammered out between now and the next IMF meeting in Nairobi, Kenya, next September.

"I leave this meeting with a little bit more optimism," said Helmut Schmidt, the West German finance minister, adding that he was pleased the United States provided a "coherent platform which we have so long waited for."

Schmidt said several major sore points had been resolved, including a U.S. pledge to make the dollar convertible again once its balance of payments is in line, and a softening of the American insistence that trade and monetary talks be closely linked.

But a number of differences remain, indicating that hard bargaining lies ahead.

French Finance Minister Valery Giscard d'Estaing told the delegates Wednesday that next year's meeting should result in final agreement on how the new money-exchange system would work.

He agreed with U.S. Treasury Secretary George Shultz that the dollar should enjoy the same rights as other currencies of the world. Shultz proposed that the dollar be allowed to swing in value in the exchange markets just as widely as the French franc, the British pound, the German mark, or any other money.

But he differed with the Americans on other major points, including one that may prove the most nettlesome problem of all: what to do about the extra accumulation of dollars overseas while monetary reform is being negotiated.

Giscard d'Estaing said in effect that he leans toward putting some limit on the extra accumulation of dollars, an idea strongly opposed by the United States.

The issue is more than a technical one. One of the big questions in the monetary-reform debate will be how the dollar glut overseas will be reduced. Some economists estimate European and other countries hold an excess of $54 billion they can't cash in for U.S. reserves.

The U.S. reserve position, including gold, is only about one-fifth of that amount and that explains why President Nixon suspended the convertibility of the dollar into gold on Aug. 15, 1971.

The French also disagreed with the U.S. proposal to phase out gold as the standard of value for the dollar and the chief reserve asset. This is a traditional French position, because both the government and its people hold a lot of gold.

The IMF meeting winds up Friday and later negotiations will be handled by a newly formed Committee of 20, composed of finance ministers representing the same grouping of nations on the IMF's executive board.

Christine Doesn't Understand Lib

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — Christine Jorgensen, who has lived both as a man and a woman, says she doesn't understand women's lib, but she suggests that men may need liberation more.

"I don't know very many women who aren't liberated," she told students at the University of Minnesota-Duluth Tuesday. She said she thinks men need liberation from the pressures of modern life.

Miss Jorgensen changed her first name from George to Christine in 1952 after undergoing three sex-alteration operations in Denmark.

She said that at first she considered the publicity connected with her sex change to be an invasion of privacy. But later, she said, she concluded that the publicity led to an "open attitude" on sex in the United States.

President Expands On 1972 Campaign Slogan

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President Nixon, expanding on his 1972 campaign slogan of "Four More Years," says his re-election would mean "four of the best years in the whole history of the United States."

Addressing a $1,000-a-plate Republican fund-raising dinner here Wednesday night, Nixon spoke of his initiatives toward Moscow and Peking, but declared:

"We need four more years to build on this beginning.

Then, talking about law and order and his effort to end what he terms permissiveness by the courts, he said:

"Four years isn't enough. We need more."

Summing up his pitch for what he has described as "a clear majority," he cited three goals for his hoped-for four more years:

—Peace in the world.

—"Opportunity and jobs for all Americans."

—To instill in all citizens a firm conviction that "this is a great and good, and indeed, a beautiful country."

The President reflected on his Vietnam policy and said "we have not accomplished everything we would have desired as fast as we might ..."

But, he added, "We have prepared the South Vietnamese so that it is now very clear that they will be able soon to undertake their complete defense without our assistance ...

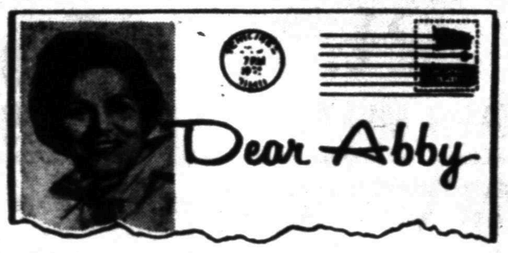

"We are going to end our involvement," Nixon said. "We will end the war. But we are going to end it without betraying our allies and we are not going to abandon our prisoners of war or play politics with our prisoners of war."

As Nixon spoke, a dwindling but noisy group of dissenters—the White house described them as the forces of the President's Democratic opponent, George McGovern—demonstrated outside the Century Plaza Hotel.

At one point, police estimated the demonstrators numbered more than 3,000 but their ranks thinned as the evening wore on. Only occasionally did they stray from their role as professed peaceful protesters, once when some tried to storm the lobby.

Los Angeles police in riot garb moved in quickly whenever they got a hint of possible violence but quickly withdrew when nothing serious occurred.

Inside the Century Plaza, busloads of young Republicans had their own party and, at one point, were allowed to leave by the rear of the hotel to gather in the lobby behind ropes and stanchions.

Attractive woman seeks lawyer for 'legal' advice

By Abigail Van Buren

[© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.]

DEAR ABBY: Believe it or not, my husband of 10 years left me and our two beautiful children for our baby sitter! It wasn't easy to accept, but I have decided to make the best of it.

I will say he made a very fair settlement. I get the deed to our new four-bedroom home, which is on 3½ acres of choice property, rental property which pays $30,000 a year, plus annuities for the children [ages 3 and 6] and a very nice cash settlement.

Now I am looking for a decent man. I prefer the athletic type between 35 and 45 who puts God first, family second and his job last.

There is a lawyer in town who is eligible, but I have never been introduced to him. I am told I am a good looking woman, and I am well built and know how to dress. I am not exactly for free love, but I'm only 33, and I'm not dead yet.

How do I meet this lawyer without being too obvious?

"33 AND LOOKING"

DEAR "33": It seems to me that a woman in your position could use some "legal" advice. He's one man you could call up and make an appointment with, without much difficulty. All you may get is legal advice, for which you must pay—but it's worth a try.

DEAR ABBY: You are our last resort. Please help! My father [who lives with us] is 69, and he drives a large, fast car of which he is very proud. The problem is that his eyesight is failing and he won't admit it.

Dad hasn't had his eyes checked in five years. When we suggest a checkup, he flies into a rage and insists that he is the very best judge of his eyesight, and his eyes are perfect.

Abby, we have been with him countless times when he has unknowingly forced other motorists practically off the road, narrowly missed guard rails, and tailed dangerously close to the car ahead of him.

If anyone offers to drive, Dad gets upset and insists on having his way. Everyone who knows him will use almost any excuse to get out of riding with him.

Abby, he reads your column faithfully. Please tell him that he should consider the opinions and safety of others, and get his eyes checked, even tho he thinks they are "perfect." Sign me . . .

OUT OF EXCUSES

DEAR OUT: I'll wager your letter will be read [and heeded] by many who are younger than your dad, but could use the advice. I hope so.

DEAR ABBY: My mother in law has lived with us for nearly 20 years. She is over 80 now and I hope she lives to be 100.

In all the years Mother has been with us, she has never had any expenses. We've taken care of her housing, food, clothing—everything. She has banked her pension checks, and now she has a reasonably healthy bank account.

Now the question, and I hope this doesn't sound mean or grabby: should we ask her to share her pension check with us? Since Mother has paid no bills, I am sure she isn't aware how much the cost of living has gone up.

We have spent our lives and our income raising and educating our family. We have provided for our own retirement, and are not hard up, but we could use a little help.

We wouldn't hurt Mother for anything, and no matter what your answer is, we will continue taking the best of care of her as long as she lives. No name or town, please.

SIXTYISH

DEAR SIXTYISH: I'm sure the dear lady has not offered to share her pension check with you only because you have made her feel so completely "at home" that it never occurred to her—which is to your credit. Your reasons are sensible and valid, ask her.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 69700, L. A., CALIF. 90069 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

Chili Fest Begins Today

SAN MARCOS, Tex. (AP) — More than 50 chili cooks who think they are Texas' best will compete for the state title here Saturday at the Third Annual Republic of Texas Chilympiad.

The three-day chili fest actually begins today at Aquarena Springs as contestants gather to argue over cooking spaces and set up their elaborate cooking apparatus. There will be a classic car show and a street dance also.

Contestants will begin cooking at 11 a.m. Saturday and the judging will start at 3:30 p.m.

There will be another street dance Saturday night, followed Sunday by an air show put on by the Confederate Air Force which features some 40 World War II combat aircraft.

Chilympiad sponsors say Chief Fulton Batiste of the Alabama-Coushatta Indian Reservation, who was last year's winner, will be on hand to defend his title.

Some of the other chili cooks include Harvard O'Neille of Dallas, who adds snails to his chili; Gary Hahne and his Brazos Barrister team from St. Mary's Law School in San Antonio; "Shotgun" Wright of Dallas, Enrique Vasquez, the armadillo chili king of Uvalde; Albert S. Agnor of Marshall; John C. Redmond of Fort Worth, who ran his chili recipe through a computer, and Robert Marsh of San Antonio, who says his chili is a "watered down version of Ozark yeller dog stew."

'Jess' Recalls Nixon

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Amid the crowd of newsmen, Secret Service agents and officials, Jessica Solomon was frightened. So, as she tells it, she reached out and grabbed the hand of President Nixon.

The 8-year-old black girl, who was chased from her home by the rising waters of tropical storm Agnes, says she didn't know who Nixon was but felt a lot better with his hand in hers.

"I said 'Hi.' He asked my name and I told him 'Jess,'" the second-grade student said as she recalled her encounter with the President in late June when he visited a flood shelter here. Nixon took her on his tour, hand in hand.

She remembers Nixon best as the man with the hand rather than as the President.

Jess lives with her parents, three brothers and three sisters in one of the poorer sections of Harrisburg.

Thousands of residents like the Solomons were forced to evacuate their homes when the Susquehanna River spilled over its banks.

Sulphur Springs Proud Of Rain

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Residents of the Sulphur Springs are in Northeast Texas, where protracted drought had forced water rationing, rejoiced today over a downpour which brought nearly seven inches of rain.

Coming as water supplies for only a few days remained, the deluge fell as if in answer to a special day of prayer for just such development last Friday.

Police dispatcher Sherry Sindell at Sulphur Springs said, "We certainly thank everybody for their prayers. This gets our water shortage over."

Later, however, an assessment showed that the heavy rains skirted most of the area west of the city where streams feed into the main lake, with only an inch falling in the watershed. City Manager Olen Petty said the rain may not put much water in the city's sources.

By this morning, however, official observers reported all the showers and thunderstorms had moved into other states except for a lonely shower near Corpus Christi and some showers off the Upper Texas Coast in the Gulf of Mexico.

There was early morning fog around Houston and Victoria.

Although water rose into at least three homes on the east side of Sulphur Springs, filled some streets and stalled cars, Mrs. Swindell said there were no complaints.

"We had only one minor accident during all that rain," she said. "We're just thankful."

One of the heavier rains in other areas measured 3.04 inches at the Port Arthur police station.

Forecasters reported another cool front, approaching from the northwest, would shove into Northwest Texas by late in the day. It was expected to reach South Central Texas by Friday afternoon, touching off another round of showers and thunderstorms as it progresses southward.

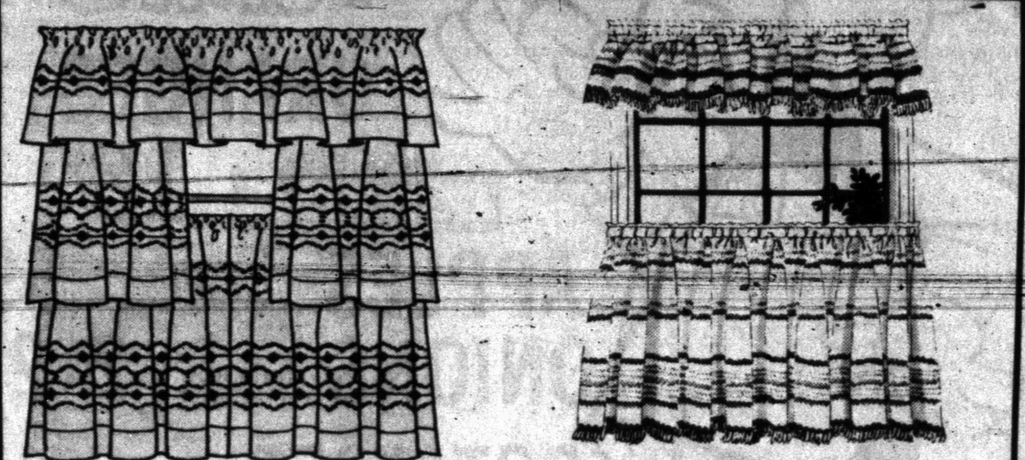

Temperatures early today ranged from 63 degrees at Amarillo and Dalhart in the Panhandle up 79 at Galveston on the coast. These compared with top marks Wednesday afternoon varying from 91 at Wichita Falls to 78 at Houston.

A major brush fire recently ate into the last sancturay of the condor, the Los Padres National Forest in Southern California. Only about 60 condors live there, but most were off hunting in the higher mountains.
