Texas Water Board Asks Ruling On Power To Cancel Permits

STATE WATER BOARD STUDIES POWER LAWS

Ruling On Request For Rehearing of Power Permits Asked

PLAN TO RECONSIDER

Action Follows Meeting At Abilene On Water Rights Issue

By Universal Service.

AUSTIN, Aug. 20.—After returning from the Abilene water conservation meeting, the board of water engineers today asked the attorney general for an opinion as to its legal authority to reopen and reconsider its former action in granting six water right permits to the syndicate power company of Dallas for diversion of water from the Colorado river and its tributaries.

Request for the opinion was the result of a resolution adopted at the recent Abilene meeting requesting the board to reconsider its action in granting the permits. The resolution also said that in case the board did not reopen the case the governor would be urged to have the next special session of the legislature take action on the matter.

In the event the attorney general rules the board has the legal right to cancel the permits, the board will then reconsider the whole proposition, said A. H. Dunlap, member of the board.

Earthquake Shakes California City

EUREKA, Cal., Aug. 20. (AP)—An earthquake of severe intensity, lasting about one minute, shook Eureka today at 1:10 p. m., breaking windows in the courthouse, business buildings and homes, scattering merchandise in stores, cracking walls and knocking one building out of alignment. No one was injured and no serious damage was done. People were warned not to start fires in their homes.

Steel Obstruction Saves Lives in Wreck

BRYAN, Aug. 20. (AP)—A steel obstruction alongside the railroad tracks Saturday perhaps saved the lives of two occupants of an automobile which was struck by a fast train of the Southern Pacific railway.

The train hit the car in the rear as it passed across the tracks. The machine bounded against the obstruction and was prevented from rolling down the embankment Those in the car were negroes.

Georgia Aviator Will Fly to South America

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Aug. 20.(AP)—The Port of Brunswick with Paul Rerfern as pilot, may hop off for South America Monday morning or possibly tomorrow, it was announced here today, following the arrival of a factory expert from the Wright interests, manufacturers of the plane's whirlwind motor.

700,000 Members On American Legion Post

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 20. (AP) —The American Legion passed the 700,000 mark in membership today, Howard P. Savage, national commander, announced. A steady increase in legion membership began two years ago and the organization today is larger than it has been since 1922.

Diamond Thieves To Be Watched For Here

Police here Saturday were notified to keep a look-out for thieves responsible for the theft of a diamond ring, a gold football and chain, a pair of shoes, and $20 in cash and several smaller articles, from G. A. Stadler of West Texas. Date of the robbery and further details were not given.

THE WEATHER

OKLAHOMA: Sunday and Monday partly cloudy.

DOOR RAMMED IN DOPE RAID

Pretty Young Girl Found In Chinese Den

By Universal Service.

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 20.—Battering down a barricaded door when refused admittance, federal narcotic agents and city detectives late today found a Chinese supporting a beautiful young woman still dizzy from the effects of opium in the shadows of the room's lavish oriental furnishings.

Officers who had been watching the house, saw the woman arrive.

She drove up in a limousine and was greeted at the door by the Chinese, who was attired in gorgeous native costume.

Door Is Nailed.

After the woman had been inside for about 10 minutes, the narcotic agents attempted to enter. Their knocks were greeted by the sound of nails being driven through the door into the door casing. They then battered down the door.

The atmosphere of the house was heavy with incense from smoking tripods. The smoke from opium pipes also drifted towards the shaded lights in the semi-darkened rooms.

According to officers, the Chinese had the woman under the influence of drugs when they broke in. Unable to stand, the woman was being held up by the Chinese who attempted to drag his victim behind a heavy portiere at the sight of the federal agents.

No Dope Found.

No opium or opium pipes were found by the raiders although the atmosphere was heavily ladened with the sweetish odor. While they were beating their way into the house, officers believe, the Chinese concealed the opium and smoking layouts in scret compartments.

Both the Chinese and the young woman, whose identity the police refused to reveal, were arrested. The woman was later sent to a hospital for treatment.

Six Airplanes Are Destroyed By Fire

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 20. (AP)—Fire of undetermined origin destroyed a large hangar and six airplanes at Stinson field late Saturday afternoon with a total loss of approximately $15,000, according to a report reaching the city early Saturday night. A quantity of airplane wings stored in the building were burned.

Goebel's Plane Now At Hawaiian Port

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii, Aug. 20. (AP)—The airplane Woolaroc piloted by Arthur Goebel, arrived here this afternoon from Wheeler field. The plane, which won first prize in the recent Dole race to Honolulu, will be crated here and shipped to San Francisco.

South Plains Crops In Good Condition

AUSTIN, Aug. 20. (AP)—Crops in the south plains section of the Panhandle are the finest that section has had in years, W. B. Head, chairman of the Texas Power and Light company's directorate, reported Saturday after a two week's vaction trip to El Paso and points in New Mexico.

LAST APPEAL IN SACCO CASE TURNED DOWN

U. S. Supreme Court Plea For Stay of Death Order Denied

HOPE FADES FAST

Only Chance For Pair Doomed to Die Is Called Slim

By Universal Service.

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 20.—Sacco and Vanzetti lost every move they made today to save their lives. Everywhere their attorneys turned in their frantic efforts to keep the two anarchists out of the death chair Monday midnight they ran up against impregnable legal walls. The last crushing blow came when Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes of the United States supreme court late today denied a stay of execution.

He had been appealed to in connection with a petition for a certiorari which was left with the clerk of the United States supreme court earlier in the day.

There appeared tonight to be only one way left for the condemned men to turn and that is down the corridor of death that they will march Monday night to the fatal chair only 13 steps from their cells.

Two Slim Chances.

Their attorneys are still pinning their hopes, however, on two very slim chances.

One is an appeal to Governor Fuller. A concentrated drive will be made on him tomorrow and Monday.

The other is an appeal to United States Attorney General Sargent for federal intervention. He was appealed to today by Arthur Garfield Hays, New York attorney, and Francis Fisher Kane, of Philadelphia.

He told the two lawyers that it was the first time he had understood the relation of the department of justice to the case and took the matter under advisement.

That is all the Sacco and Vanzetti sympathizers have now to hang their hopes on.

Many Hopes Shattered.

Sacco and Vanzetti had one hope after another shattered in rapid succession today.

First Judge Morton denied a stay of execution.

Second the clerk of the supreme court of the United States refused to permit their representative to formally file a petition for a writ of certiorari, although he personally accepted the papers without formaly recording them.

Third was the denial of Justice Holmes of a stay of execution.

While these formal moves were being made more pathetic scenes were being enacted at the prison where Vanzetti was embraced for the first time in 19 years by his sister, Luigia, who arrived yesterday from Italy.

Man Greets Sister.

All precedents at the state prison were broken when the authorities permitted Vanzetti to step from his death cell, just 13 paces from the fatal chair in which he is slated to sit, and embrace his sister in the corridor.

Grim guards stood by as she threw her arms around the condemned man and sobbed:

"Barto, oh, Barto."

That was all she could say as she nestled her head on the doomed man's breast.

When she later emerged from the prison she was in a state of collapse.

Corridor of Death.

The girl arrived at the old prison accompanied by Mrs. Rose Sacco, wife of Vanzetti's condemned pal. Warden William Hendry joined them and led the way down the corridor of death.

Vanzetti had been allowed to take a seat in the corridor in front of his barred cell. When the frail little woman caught sight of the slumping form she rushed forward and threw her arms around his neck.

The warden and Mrs. Sacco stood back during the embrace. When they drew apart the girl was about to faint. The warden rushed forward to support her and Mrs. Sacco brought a glass of water.

Then the brother and sister were permitted to be together for an hour.

Sister Pleads For Faith.

She made pathetic plea for him to cast aside his infidelity and embrace the faith of his fathers.

Of all the persons who are striving to save Vanzetti she is more concerned in saving his soul than his body.

The brother and sister conversed in low tones. They talked of their childhood days, of sunny Italy, of their brothers and sisters that he left 19 years ago to make his way in the new world.

No mention was made of the killing of a paymaster and his guard seven years ago, the crime for which Sacco and Vanzetti were convicted.

Sister Led Away.

Finally she was led from the death house and, accompanied by

FROG BOOZE JAG

Amphibians Croak Obituarily After Liquor Orgy

By Universal Service.

BOERNE, Aug. 20. — Too drunk to be interested in the flies that buzzed about their jowls, scores of big bullfrogs lay on the banks of a pond in Kendall county, a short distance from here, sobering up this afternoon after a spree.

Their home was the recipient of 2000 gallons of whiskey mash which was seized by prohibition agents from San Antonio on a nearby farm.

Eyes bulging from their green faces, the bullfrogs were found motionless on the water's edge.

When the officers punched them with sticks, the inebriates only emitted faint croaks.

FIVE SUITS ASK BIG SUM

$42,000,000 Damages Asked of Oil Companies

BEAUMONT, Aug. 20. (AP)—Five suits asking a total of $42,000,000 in damages were filed in district court here today by H. B. Fall of Houston, Mrs. A. E. Casewell of Beaumont and 29 others involving claims on separate tracts of land out of the Humphries survey on the Spindle Top oil field here. The defendants named in the suits are: Yount Lee Oil company, Gulf Production company, Oakwood Realty company, J. F. Weed and Rio Bravo Oil company.

About 15 acres of land are involved.

The largest individual amount asked is from the Yount Lee company, the plaintiffs seeking $15,000,000 in damages and title to land.

The plaintiffs claim that the defendants are unlawfully in possession of the land through title bestowed by the Humphries survey which, they allege, is illegal. The plaintiffs claim prior title through the John Douthitt survey.

Endurance King Will Start Tuesday On 125-Hour Test Against Car Motor

Rosser J. Newman, holder of several world's endurance records, including driving an automobile for 197 hours and 35 minutes, dancing for 217 hours, and roller skating for 72 hours, will Tuesday morning start out on an 125-hour endurance test in Wichita Falls, according to plans made public Saturday.

Newman will start Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock from the Parmenter Motor company and while he does a variety of stunts for the next 125 hours, he will keep the motor of his automobile running as a test between his endurance and that of the automobile engine.

In his demonstration, which will be under auspices of The Wichita Falls Record-News and a number of merchants and business men of the city, Newman will do a variety of stunts to prove his energy during the 125 hours of wakeful activity.

A complete schedule of Newman's program during the endurance test will be announced in a later issue prior to the beginning of his demonstration. Among other things, he will make drives to towns in Wichita Falls' neighborhood, will dance, visit numerous business houses and altogether spend a quite busy time during the five days and five nights of his test of stamina.

Two Killed as Wing Break and Plane Falls

HARRODSBURG, Ky., Aug. 20. (AP)—William Van Arsdall, 31, and Ormand Van Arsdall, 25, members of a prominent central Kentucky family, were killed at Van Arsdall station, ten miles from here, tonight when their plane fell about 1200 feet. The accident was caused by the breaking of a wing of William Van Arsdall's newly-purchased plane.

"Coon-Can Dad" Taken On Home Brew Raid

Raid on a servant's house in the rear of 11th street late Saturday afternoon by Deputy Sheriffs W. R. Emmons and J. B. Scarbrough resulted in the arrest of "Coon-Can Dad," well known negro of this section, and the confiscation of about 29 bottles of beverage.

OLD GLORY TO TAKE AIR FOR ROME TODAY

Hopoff Over Atlantic To Start at 5 P. M. If Weather Good

FAVORABLE WINDS

Bertaud and Hill Plan 2500-Mile Flight Over Water

CURTISS FIELD, N. Y., Aug. 20 (AP)—Old Glory, the Fokker monoplane in which two American air mail pilots will attempt to fly to Rome, was groomed today for a probable takeoff at 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, eastern standard time.

The Roosevelt field runway dried out today from rains which have prevented a takeoff during the past two days.

The weather bureau announced that there would be considerable cloudiness from here to Newfoundland and thence over the great circle course tomorrow but the winds will be favorable and a system of low pressure areas seem to be moving northestward out of the airplane lane.

Lloyd Bertaud and James D. Hill, who will pilot Old Glory, are planning to follow a modified great circle course, jogging repeatedly southward as they proceeded and reaching Europe at Bordeaux, France, instead of at Ireland. This will necessitate a 2500-mile water jump instead of one of 1900 miles but on the other hand it will insure better weather, as the map shows more favorable conditions below the great circle than above it, and will also put the plane over the steamer lanes for much of the way.

Silent Waters of Pacific Yield No Tangible Clues

Hope For Erwin and Eichwaldt Fades as Two Fliers Fail To Arrive at Hawaiian Goal

By Universal Service

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 20. — Three lives have been lost, seven persons are missing at sea, two men have been injured and three planes have been ruined. This is the toll up-to-date of the Dole air flight to Honolulu.

August 10.—Lieut. George Covell and R. S. Waggoner were killed at San Diego when taking off for Oakland airport in their plane. Both were crushed and burned to death.

August 11.—Captain J. O. Griffin, Ted Lungren and Lawrence Weill, miraculously escaped death when their triplane was forced down in San Francisco bay.

August 12.—Capt. A. V. Rogers, instantly killed during a test flight at Los Angeles.

August 16.—Start of Dole race.

August 16.—Monoplane "El Encanto" failed to take off and crashed. "Pabco Flyer" also crashed.

August 19.—Capt. Bill Erwin and Capt. A. H. Eichwaldt forced down in Pacific while hunting lost planes.

August 20.—Seven aviators missing at sea.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 20. (Ap)—The U. S. S. Hazelwood radioed tonight that it had made a thorough search of the area where the airplane Dallas Spirit is supposed to have fallen and failed to find a trace. The area searched was around 33.27 degrees north latitude and 132.30 west longitude. The Hazlewood said it was proceeding to San Francisco for refueling.

By Universal Service.

HONOLULU, Aug. 20.—"Absolutely no foundation for rumors," was the terse announcement today from the United States army 4signal corps, in commenting upon the report spread in the United States that the missing Dole plane "Golden Eagle" had been found. The reports had stated that the signal corps had picked up such a report.

By Universal Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 20.—Hope for the safety of the one woman and six men who are missing somewhere over the broad expanse of the Pacific ocean as the result of their disappearance in their three airplanes—"Golden Eagle," "Miss Doran," and the "Dallas Spirit"—gave way tonight to pessimism.

The "Golden Eagle" and the "Miss Doran" were starters in the Dole $25,000 race to Hawaii which began last Tuesday at the Oakland Municipal airport. "The Dallas Spirit," piloted by Captain Bill Erwin of the Texas city and carrying Al Eichwald as navigator, took off yesterday from Oakland in a rescue attempt which the aviators hoped would land them in Honolulu on their way to Hongkong.

One great hope remained that Captain Erwin's "Dallas Spirit" was safe and still winging his way on his errand of mercy. This hope was based on the theory of radio experts that the radio transmitter of the "Dallas Spirit" went out of commission from one of many causes, thus causing an omminious silence to follow his dramatic recital of the details of his flight up to a point approximately 700 miles west of San Francisco last night. With more than 24 hours passed since the plane left Oakland, this faith and hope was dimming gradually.

Captain Erwin, an aviation expert and stunt flier, was believed by experts to have been able to pull his plane out of the second tailspin, but in so doing probably damaged his radio to such an extent that repairs could not be made. With this tiny thread of hope in the minds of his flying friends, they are of the opinion that "Lone Star" Bill and his flying companion will arrive at their destination safely.

Favorable news from the "Golden Eagle" with Jack Frost and Gordon Scott aboard and the "Miss Doran" with Miss Mildred Doran, the Flint, Mich., school teacher as passenger, and John Auggy Pedlar and Lieut. Vilas Knope, pilot and navigator respectively, reached a high pitch early today when word was received of the rported sighting of flares, 250 miles off the California coast. The freighter West Sequana rushed to the scene but failed to locate anything to indicate the flares had come from a plane.

Rum runners have been in the habit of using such flares as signals and it is now presumed the light seen last night came from one of these vessels.

Twelfth naval district headquarters announced today that a recapitulation revealed that nine destroyers, the ammunition ship, Nitro, the aircraft carrier, Langley, and the tender Aroostook, were in the search area and were actively engaged in seeking the three planes and their seven occupants.

Rumors flew thick and fast today regarding the plane "Dallas Spirit" but all fell by the wayside upon close investigation.

At 11 a. m. the destroyer Hazelwood reported to headquarters she was nearing the position given by the "Dallas Spirit" when last heard from 16 hours ago, but nothing thus far had been sighted to give encouragement.

HAWAII STILL HOPES FOR MISSING FLIERS

By Universal Service.

HONOLULU, Aug. 20.—Hope for the missing Dole fliers has not been given up in Hawaii!

Efforts of the navy and all of the private agencies of the islands continue to be vigorously pressed in an effort to find some trace of the missing planes—the "Golden Eagle" and the "Miss Doran."

The fourteenth naval district today extended the search by planes and submaries to a large area north of the island of Hawaii.

Two naval patrols left their station at Pearl harbor field for a flight of 400 miles out to sea. One of the patrols went to Holokai light from which position the plans were to go on a northeast course for 120 miles and then return on a parallel route to Lahaina.

Planes of the other patrol were

4 Perfect Bridge Hands Brings Out Some Queer Data

AUSTIN, Aug. 20. (AP)—Four perfect suits were dealt in a bridge game of the Llano Bridge club, a special dispatch to the Austin American-Statesman said. The probability of four perfect hands at one deal is one in 14,479,014,067,800, according to Frank D. Creasy, mathematics professor of the College of Marshall. It is estimated in playing 100 rounds a day the deal would be repeated in a little over 396,000,000 years.

MAY DEPORT LAW VIOLATORS

To Introduce Bill In Congress

By Universal Service.

WINONA LAKE, Ind., Aug. 20.—Deportation of all unnaturalized citizens found guilty of violation of the eighteenth amendment, or any liquor laws enacted by state legislation is to be asked in a bill to be introduced in the next congress.

H. Hyde Russell, founder of the anti-Saloon league, and assistant general superintendent, stated today that the bill probably would be introduced as soon as the congress convenes next December.

Its introduction is to be simultaneous with the fight to be made by the dry organization in the short term for strict dry enforcement.

With the cessation of manufacture of medicinal whiskey ordered by Dr. J. M. Doran, federal prohibition commissioner, immediately after he was sworn into office, the league has lost one of the points for which it was going to fight.

Dr. Robt. Harreed, of Lausanne, Switzerland, fourth president of the world league against alcoholism now in session here, leaves next week for Geneva where he will attend sessions of the League of Nations.

Two Paris Men Held For Metal Bar Attack

PARIS, Texas, Aug. 20. (AP)—Will Terry of Paris was in a critical condition in a local hospital Saturday night suffering from a fractured skull as a result of an affray near here late Saturday.

Two Paris men were facing charges of assault to murder in connection with the case. Witnesses said that Terry was struck over the head with a heavy metal bar while scuffling with the two men.

Dog Owner Shoots Borger Constable

BORGER, Aug. 20. (AP)—Charged with having fired a load from a shotgun through the hat of a constable here Saturday, E. A. Reynolds of Borger was held under $1500 bond.

The shooting occurred, according to police, when the constable attempted to take a dog away from Reynolds. The dog had bitten a man.

NAVAL PLANES SKIM PACIFIC IN MERCY HUNT

Aircraft Tender Langley Cruises Over Trail Of Fliers

NO GOOD NEWS YET

Airplanes Set Out From Deck of Ship For Sea Hunt

By Universal Service.

ABOARD U. S. S. LANGLEY, 160 miles south of San Francisco, Aug. 20.—This big motherbird of the navy has been sending out her airplane brood ever since 5 o'clock yesterday morning in a sweeping search for the lost fliers, but no trace of them has been found. The wide reaches of the sea out here tell nothing.

Yellow-winged planes darted from the flight decks into alien skies, swoop down to skim the waters hour after hour, and return to their nesting place with the same old story—nothing sighted!

But the navy never rests. Two planes come in; two more go out. And so it goes from dawn to sunset.

Once during the forenoon Friday excitement shook the ship from stem to stern. All hands rushed to the rail and hopes rose sky high. What appeared to be a piece of wreckage, the skeleton frame of a derelict plane, was sighted off the port bow.

"Hard aport!" echoed down from the officer of the deck to the helmsman.

Tree Causes Stir

The great ship swung about in her own wake as a seaplane catapulted into space, and every glass was trained on the grim object floating away to leeward. But close inspection brought bitter disappointment. It was only an uprooted tree with gaunt, leafless branches tossing aimlessly in the waves. Fate chuckled—but the Langley went on.

Flanking her on either side are sister searchers. Ten miles away to the north is the Aroostook, with a seaplane, and in the south, the destroyer Meyer. They are combing a pathway thirty miles wide, and the navy has still other ships to the south.

Capt. J. H. Towers, U. S. N., commanding officer of this huge airplane carrier, is himself a veteran flier and has plotted his course with the two-fold knowledge of mariner and aviator.

Follow Flight Trail

The Langley is steaming along at fourteen and one-half knots an hour in a westerly course, sixty miles south of the great circle route followed by the Dole birds.

The reason for this is that the planes, if forced down, are expected to have drifted by wind and current to this area. The estimated drift has been calculated to a nicety—one mile an hour for the first 200 miles out, half a mile for the last 200 and a quarter-mile an hour for the next 200 miles.

Drift Deercases.

The drift is figured to be negligible at 800 miles out by reason of contrary winds and currents, so that at that distance the Langley's course will carry it into the regular ship lanes across the Pacific.

The planes are constantly in communication with the Langley by radio. All carry verys pistols and cartridges, and the amphibians in addition carry emergency rations and water in case they should pick up the flyers exhausted.

Phew!

Another moment of excitement. The plane just came taxiing across the water with the observer climbing on top of the wing and riding like a cowboy, his balance maintained by two ropes. He seemed to be shouting a message.

The sailors crowd the nets—an age of suspense—no news!

They lower the bog hook and hoist him aboard while another plane goes out to take his place.

Two men came aboard with the Universal Service correspondent today whose very lives, almost, are bound up in the search.

Kin Board Ship.

One is W. K. Jay, builder of the "Golden Eagle," and the other is Denham Scott, the young brother of Gordon Scott, navigator of the missing Hearst plane.

Both know every stick and strut that went into the plane's construction, and every minute detail of what Frost and Scott carried in the way of food, water, signal devices and floating apparatus.

According to young Scott, there was sufficient concentrated food and water aboard to last fourteen days. Both men, he said, were provided with patent silver emergency distilling flasks costing $50 apiece.

Ford Will Build New Truck in Early Fall

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 20.(AP)—A new Ford truck with double the horsepower of the present model will be introduced in the coming fall, N. W. Ayer and Son, local representatives of the Ford company, announced today.

WAR VET DOES NEEDLE WORK

Civil War Fighter Skilled At Embroidery

BY PAXTON SMITH

Special Correspondent of The Record News.

VERNON, Aug. 20.—J. W. Bradley, 86, who resides near Bluejacket, Craig county, Okla., made his first trip to Texas this week. Mr. Bradley is visiting his niece, Mrs. John W. Coffee here, and it is the first time he has seen his niece here in 51 years, he declared. Through correspondence with a cousin in Illinois, Mrs. Coffee learned that her uncle was able to make the trip back to his old home in the Prairie state, so Mrs. Coffee extended her kinsman a cordial invitation to visit Vernon and the Lone Star state. Mr. Bradley will be 87 on September 12.

Aged Man Embroiders

Last June the aged man took up embroidery and other needle work as a pastime and specimens of his handiwork shown the correspondent attest to his skill with a thimble and needle. Mr. Bradley says that when a small boy in Illinois he used to make his own clothes, after his widowed mother would cut them out for him. His varied and artistic patterns are not for sale, but he gives them to relatives and friends. Mr. Bradley uses a pair of scissors which his brother forwarded him from California. They are of antiquated design and were found 20 feet underground in an old mission half-buried by a landslide from a neighboring mountain, he said. Mr. Bradley has pieced three or four quilts, quilting two of these himself. One quilt, which bears his name, age, etc., was cut out, pieced and quilted by Mr. Bradley in 42 hours' time.

Family of Longevity

Commenting on his longevity Mr. Bradley said laughingly that he expects to live until he sees everybody else dead. He declared that his maternal grandfather lived until he was 110 years of age, when he was killed by a house falling upon him. Mr. Bradley makes his long trips alone and has been downtown several times since arriving in Vernon, and Sunday attended the services at the Methodist church here. He was unfortunate enough to lose the sight of his left eye two years ago, but otherwise he is in good health. He stated that not being able to do outdoor work anymore he took up needlework and indoor activities "just to have something to do."

25-Cent Goldpiece

Among the interesting curios possessed by Mr. Bradley is a tiny 25-cent goldpiece or one-fourth dollar coined in California in 1858, the rare diminutive coin having the picture of a grizzly bear on it, this being the golden state's most characteristic animal at that time. Mr. Bradley proved his skill as an artisan by shining by steak bones until the polished rings on his crocheted purse shine like ivory, while he has made over 100 silver rings from the metal used in oil refineries for hot tubes, Mr. Bradley gives these away, and wears one himself. Four refineries are located near his 86-acre farm near Cushing, Oklahoma. Mr. Bradley also owns real estate in Bluejacket.

Recalls Sooner Rush

He recalls vividly the days of the "rush" when Oklahoma was first settled. He told of how the people lined up in two rows each over a mile in length to "register" for land with government officials before the opening up of the territory and subsequent rush for claims, also the somewhat smaller lines of people waiting to record their deeds at the old state capitol at Guthrie.

Mr. Bradley fought in the Union army during the civil war for three years, two months and 11 days, participating in the battle of Vicksburg. One of his brothers fought in the Confederacy while still another was a member of the Union forces in the war between the states. Mr. Bradley is a total abstainer, using neither tobacco, coffee or liquor. He said that he had used all three rather freely during his army days but very little since that time.

Once Owned Auto

Although he once owned a seven-passenger automobile, Mr. Bradley sold it, preferring horse-drawn vehicles instead. He looks forward to the purchase of a span of horses of Arabian decent next spring as avidly as many people would to buying a new car.

Mr. Bradley was born in England and came to America with his family when only five years of age, landing in August before his sixth birthday in September. Sixteen weeks were spent in the voyage to this country, the trip being made in a small sailing vessel, the storms tearing away three masts from the ship before it finally landed.

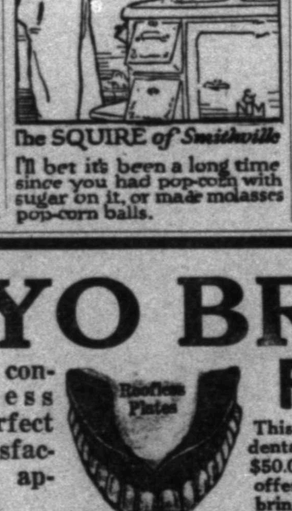

Worked On Flat Boat

His father's death three years after arriving in America resulted in Mr. Bradley and his brothers earning their own way from a tender age. He recalled the time when he worked aboard a flat boat in Tennessee and Kentucky for a cool twenty-five (cents) per week and board. After trips to Arkansas Mr. Bradley located in Missouri where he lived nine years, moving into Oklahoma (then Indian Territory) 42 years ago. All of the trip from Illinois to the southwest was made in a wagon, he stated.

After Round-the-World Record

In an attempt to hang up a new speed record for traveling around the earth, John Henry Mears, theatrical producer and a former holder of the record, is starting from New York September 15 on a round-the-world air flight. Mears is shown above and below is a map of his proposed route. He held the record for globe-circling trips until a year ago when it was smashed by Linton Wells. Mears is to be accompanied on his present trip by Charles B. D. Collyer, as pilot.

30-ACRE TRUCK PATCH PROFITS

Hereford Farmer's Record Is Eye-Opener

Special to The Record News.

HEREFORD, Aug. 20.—H. G. Gaede and family, tenants on the Baskin irrigated gardens just south of Hereford are proving to the world that truck farming can be done on a large scale, and at a profit for everyone concerned. For years farmers in the Hereford shallow water district have been raising fine gardens, and any vegetables that grow in a truck patch could be found in some garden in the country. The vegetables scored at the top at the big fairs of the state, whenever they have been shown for competition with those from other sections. Everyone knew that the vegetables could be raised on a small scale but some wondered whether it would be profitable to raise them commercially. A trip to the Baskin irrigated gardens just south of Hereford will convince the most skeptical person as to the vast profits that can be derived, and of the future possibilities of the Hereford shallow water district as the garden spot of Texas.

30 Acres of Truck

The Gaedes have 30 acres in truck, and some 20 varieties of the garden products can be found on this farm. Beans, peas, tomatoes, cucumbers, beets, onions, cantaloupes, corn, sweet potatoes, water melons and many other kinds of fresh foods can be found in abundance at the Baskin place.

One truck is running daily to Amarillo, Borger or Pampa and the Gaedes have booths at each of these places, besides a large number of customers in the grocery stores. Most of the stores of Hereford are supplied with fresh vegetables from this farm.

The Gaedes raised a big bermuda onion crop, and on a quarter of an acre where the onions were thin, cucumbers were planted, right in with the onions. Near-$100 worth of cucumbers have already been sold from this tract, and the patch has hardly been touched. There is also a big onion crop on the same ground.

Eight Acres of Beans

Eight acres of beans and peas are now furnishing green beans and peas for hundreds of people in Hereford and neighboring cities. Five acres of tomatoes will soon be ready for the market. Two and one-half acres are in cantaloupes and these will be ready for the market next week. The corn has been planted at different times so that green corn can be marketed until frost. Turnips, winter onions, beets, etc., have just been planted, so that you can find garden vegetables of all ages and sizes at the Baskin farm.

"We are just getting started in the marketing of our products, because of the late start in planting last spring," Mr. Gaede said, "but we will have it on the market daily from now on." There are eight mature people in the Gaede family, and with the many duties connected with this new industry, they are unable to handle it in the right way and a son and his family will arrive next week from Kansas to help take care of the record crop. One truck cannot handle the business that goes to Amarillo and her sister cities, and another one will be put on next week.

Fifty-Fifty Division

L. Baskin of Hereford owns the land, Irrigation plant, and is financing this undertaking. The Gaedes furnish all the labor and the proceeds from the sale of truck are divided. This plan is proving profitable for all concerned and will probably cause a large acreage in the Hereford shallow water belt to be put in truck next year. If the 250,000 acres of this shallow water district were properly developed, the Hereford country could supply thousands of people in cities of the country with fresh vegetables.

150,000 Hunting Tabs Sent Out Over State

AUSTIN, Aug. 20.—Forces of the state game, fish and oyster commission were sending out 150,000 hunting licenses to county clerks and game wardens today in anticipation of the opening of dove shooting in the north game zone September 1.

Commissioner Will J. Tucker said he expects more than 150,000 to be necessary.

WORK ON GAS LINE IN OLNEY

Natural Gas Service Due In September

OLNEY, Aug. 20.—Work on the city mains and gas lines being laid here preparatory to the introduction of gas into this city in September, is progressing nicely. Quite a bit of the ditching has been done for the main lines and some of the pipe has been laid. Pipe is also being unloaded at different points over the city.

The lines enter the city from the north along Avenue B, and turn west, running in the alley between Main and Second streets. The ditching machine is at work now on the upper of the lines near the western end of Main. The pipe has been laid in the business section, and is following the ditcher a short distance.

Calomel Attacks the Bones and Deadens the Bowels

Never take calomel. It is mercury—a dangerous drug. If you are constipated, bilious, sick, headachy, stomach sour, meals don't taste right, hot days make you drowsy and lazy, take Dodson's Liver Tone. That's all you need.

Calomel salivates. That's why you have to take salts the next day to get it out of your system so it will not eat your bones. You have to stay at home a day to recuperate from the shock it gives you. No wonder Dodson's Liver Tone is so popular. All you do is take a spoonful at night. By morning you are cleaned out good, head is clear, you feel as light as a feather; you are not sick, no danger of salivation, and you can eat anything you want. Think of that.

Get the big bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone from your nearest store. They all have it. Keep it in the house so you will have it handy to take nights before going to bed. rough.—Adv.

PROFIT FROM TRUCK FIELDS

Harmon County Farmers Prosperous Shape

Special to The Record News.

HOLLIS, Okla., Aug. 20.—Every day large truck and wagon loads of watermelons, cantaloupes, roasting ears, tomatoes and various other farm products are being marketed in Hollis, and the business men of this city are doing everything in their power to handle every item of produce that is offered for sale by the farmers. One grocery merchant stated that he had not received a single shipment of foreign grown produce in several weeks, and would not offer anything in this line as long as Harmon county folks continued to supply the demand with the quantity of fruits and vegetables that are now being offered on the market.

Farmers Profit.

It would be hard to estimate the amount of money that will be paid out by the merchants of Hollis to Harmon county people for fruits and vegetables, but the sum would be startling were the facts known. A truck or wagon load of melons usually nets the farmers $10 or $15 dollars, and sometimes more, and several loads are disposed of daily in Hollis. Tomatoes of the home grown variety are in constant demand and are bringing fancy prices, and the flavor and appearance are superior to those shipped here from other portions of the country. This crop will place several thousand dollars in the pockets of Harmon county farmers and the money will be kept at home.

Want Home Produce.

Merchants of the city state that they had rather handle the produce grown by their customers and friends, rather than have such things shipped through the wholesale houses, and they will continue to use everything possible as long as there is a market.

The wheat crop placed several hundred thousand dollars in the pockets of the people of this county, and last week alone several thousand dollars worth of feed was marketed here. Farmers have been selling their feed from last year, since the new has matured, and every one states that the new crop is the finest ever produced.

Every day finds large numbers of people marketing chickens and eggs and hundreds of dollars are realized from this source every week.

Debts Are Reduced.

All these things run into money at a very rapid rate, and it is generally accepted as a fact that Harmon county people are in a better shape financially than they have been for years. Debts are fewer and of smaller dominations than for the past few years, and if nothing happens to the big cotton crop that is now maturing, almost every person in the county should be free of debt before the fall season is completed.

They Know Their Groceries

A lot has been said about people who "know their groceries" but Dolly and Polly Rouse, twins, above, of Bethel Grove, Ark., really do. Before a crowd of 4000 people, including the governor of the state, the twins packed an ideal lunch to win the first prize at the state demonstration contests for girls.

New Attendance Record at T-O Fair Anticipated by Shepherd

"We are receiving more encouragement than ever before this far in advance of the fair and from these reports this year's attendance at the Texas-Oklahoma fair ought to set a new record if weather conditions are right," said Mayor R. E. Shepherd, secretary-manager of the Texas-Oklahoma fair Saturday afternoon. We have received many inquiries from all parts of Texas regarding the county exhibits and livestock sections. Many of these inquiries are from people who have not exhibited before but who plan to be here this year."

Plans Progressing.

Plans for the fair, the mayor further stated, were going forward rapidly. The advertising campaign throughout the Wichita Falls trade territory is well under way. Mr. Shepherd visited Kemp City Saturday where the annual picnic was under way. Saturday's crowd, due to the showers was not as large as was expected. Friday's attendance was about 5000 people and those who were there were told about the coming exposition in Wichita Falls.

Mr. Shepherd says one of the reasons for the big interest in the fair this year is because of the big premium list. More than $12,000 in cash will be awarded as premiums. Of this amount $3000 goes for the county exhibits alone. For livestock the cash awards total more than $7000. Particular emphasis is being given this year to the dairy division.

Much interest is being shown in this department because of the fact that within the next 90 days Kraft Brothers will establish the biggest cheese factory in the south in Wichita Falls. With this factory, it is expected, there will be developed a great poultry and hog raising section and if the plans are carried out as is believed they will the next few years, according to predictions, will see farming conditions revolutionized in this part of Texas.

Hamilton Due Back.

Mr. Shepherd announced Saturday that W. B. Hamilton, president of the fair association, was expected to return from Colorado in the next few weeks and was planning to devote considerable time to the fair and plans for this year's exposition. Other officers of the fair association are W. F. Weeks, vice president, and Orville Bullington, vice president, who are also devoting considerable time to the work.

Five Black Prisoners in Wichita Jail Sing Throughout Each Day

"Fat black bucks in a wine-barrel room
Fat black bucks with feet unstable,
Reeled and stamped and pounded on the table,
Pounded on the table——"

THIS quotation may be inaccurate. Readers of the Vachel Lindsay poem, the "Congo," from which it is taken, may at their will correct it. The poem was recalled vaguely, and in the above form, by what may be a striking revelation in the life of the Wichita county jail, a place unromantic enough, granted, unless certain phases of its life can be interpreted through the vision of a poet like Lindsay, or a person who chooses to seek that vision, and the quotation will stand for this story.

The revelation is that for the first time known to the present custodians of the county bastile a group of five negroes, most of them hardened and calloused, conduct daily, in the custom of their race, a peculiar religious service, built on their own lines, an expression of their sown selves in a primitive way W. S. Johnson, day jailer, says that each morning the five negroes gather around the table, just like the poem says, and have their morning prayers and services. One of them leads in the prayer services, chanting old negro prayers in a fashion just as effective as the ordered and grammatical compositions of more enlightened advocates, according, not only to the jailer, but to cell inmates near the negro confines. Then the hymns are in order. The leader choses his son, announces it to his dusky congregation, and the bare tesselated walls of their prison ring with robust harmony.

They stop only when they tire. They stop, of course, for their meals. But here lately lusty baritones and tenors have resounded in the place through most of the hours of the day.

The service Thursday afternoon, a song service extraordinary, is what called the lines of the poem to mind. For four out of the five are "fat"; and four of them were sitting in front of a "table" and one of them was "reeling" with song as the others "pounded on the table"; and although they weren't in a "wine barrel rom," there was a little keg in one corner of the cell and most of them wanted a drink anyway, suposedly.

"Goodbye—Goodbye—Goodbye
I'm a goin' to de promised lan'"

They swayed with song, their heads uplifted towards their "director," who interposed, at the end of each verse, a lingering wail of the old stanza, and began, for the others, the new. They listened attentively, caught the words to the new stanza from his lone voice, then the cell vibrated with the chorus of the five.

"Take yo stand, O brother, take yo stand,—
I'm a goin' to de promised lan'"

And well many they sing. Two are under penitentiary sentence for car theft; two for assault to murder; one for a federal offense, according to the jailer.

The value of these old songs is inestimable from the standpoint of one interested in folk mores of the American negro, according to two American poets that have contributed much in this vein, namely, Lindsay, and Carl Sandburg. The two verses quoted were all that could be "snatched" from the negroes' songs. They are said to have a book of them in their cell, but it was not for public inspection.

FOARD COUNTY PIONEER DIES

T. J. Woods, 74, Victim Of Long Illness

Special to The Record News.

CROWELL, Aug. 20.—T. J. Woods, age 74, for twenty years a resident of Foard county, died at his home in Thalia Friday afternoon following an illness of about three weeks in which he was confined to the Crowell hospital. It was thought that he had practically recovered from his illness and he was removed to his home recently and death came unexpectedly.

He is survived by his wife to whom he has been married fifty-two years; four sons: W. F., C. H., and S. H. Woods of Thalia; R. A. Woods of Archer City; one daughter, Mrs. J. D. Thomas of Duncan, Okla., and two brothers: Jim Woods of Denton, and J. H. Woods of Henrietta.

Olney's New $136,000 High School To Ready For Formal Dedication Soon

Special to The Record News.

OLNEY, Aug. 20.—In a short time work on the new high school building will be finished and the high school system will be housed in one of the most modern and complete town plants in the state. The $136,000 three-story brick structure, with its carefully worked out arrangement and its well selected equipment, would do credit to a much larger town and a much older school system.

On the ground floor is the gymnasium, showers and lockers for the girls and boys doing athletic work, and class rooms and the study hall. On the second floor is the library, rooms for the commercial and domestic science departments, offices of the superintendent and principal, with a text-book store room. On the third floor is the auditorium and science department.

One of the most attractive features of the entire building, the main auditorium, has its lower floor entrance on second floor. The balcony entrances are on the top floor. With a seating capacity of about 800 persons, and one of the largest and best arranged stages in the city, this auditorium is the town's best gathering place. There are two large dressing rooms, one at each end of the stage. Three sets of scenery, one exterior and two interiors, have been bought besides a beautiful mulberry velour curtain for the stage.

Survey Reveals Important Data

Fossil Finds Discovered In Brewster Area

ALPINE, Aug. 20.—Since oil development is going on in Brewster county, it might be interesting to know that fossils are abundant in the lower limestones of Brewster county, according to the University of Texas bulletin, and the following interesting data is quoted from Bulletin No. 1753, page 47, under the heading of "Geologic Exploration of Trans-Pecos Texas."

"Some of the limestone is phosphatic. There are also phosphatic limestone nodules in the shales which contain fossils, are colitic, and when unweathered, are very dark brownish-black, or blue-black in color; but generally have a surfaced weathered shell of a rich brownish-yellow color. Limestones increase in thickness and number toward the base of the section. They are in the lower portion, mostly phosphatic; range in thickness from an inch or less up to three feet or more; weather either brownish or dove-colored; and are separated by intervals of shale and thin flaggy sandstones which probably average 10 feet in thickness. The shales are often phosphatic. The limestones sometimes give off a fetid odor upon being struck with a hard instrument. They are often colitic. Small black pebbles of black chert are found in the limestones about 100 feet above the base of exposure. The unweathered limestone is very dark brown, or blue-gray. Fossils are abundant in the lower limestones, especially in some beds about 100 feet above the base of the exposure."

The above is in reference to that section of Brewster county about five miles southeast of the town of Marathon, where drilling is now going on and such existing formation is interesting at this time, when oil is being discovered in nearby counties, as Reagan, etc. It is said that there is more Pennsylvania formation in Brewster county, than in any other county of Texas.

Small Refinery For New Mexico Field

AMARILLO, Aug. 20.—The Taylor-Burke interests, who have been operating in the San Juan Basin are of New Mexico, Colorado and Utah, have contracted to construct a small topping refinery in the Mancoe river area of San Juan county. It will be of the Smith-Kittel type of refinery and can handle 50 barrels of crude a day. They already have a small plant at the Broomfield pool handling 20 barrels of oil daily.

Rain in Foard County

Special to The Record News.

CROWELL, Aug. 20.—Crowell received seven tenths of an inch of rain this morning and reports show rain to be general all over Foard county with more than an inch in some places. More rain is expected during the day, over four inches of rain having fallen here in the past week. However, rain was needed in eastern part of county and will be of considerable benefit to late row crops and wheat land.

Sunday School Class Gives Unique Social

Members of the Highland Heights Baptist Alathean Sunday school class entertained with one of the most delightful social affairs of the summer season Monday evening when they took their guests for "a trip around the world." Four countries, Mexico, Japan, Ireland and Alaska, were included, after which they were brought to the home of Mrs. J. J. Speer at 3006 Miami street for the program on America. At the entrance was Miss Claudine Vaughan representing the statue of liberty, and Jack Goss, as Uncle Sam.

The program included the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" and "America," and a reading by Miss Lois McAfee. Miss Lorene Tucker gave piano numbers and played accompaniments.

Approaching Marriage Announced At Dinner

Of interest to numerous friends in Wichita Falls as well as those in Electra, is the announcement of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Lorene Douglas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Douglas, pioneer citizens of Electra, and E. Ray Skinner. The wedding to take place Thursday morning, Sept. 8 at the home of the bride-elect's parents in Electra.

The announcement was made at a prettily appointed buffet dinner given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Thursday evening, when the hostess was assisted by her other two daughters, Misses Juanita and Virginia Douglas.

The table was unusually beautiful, with centerpiece formed of roses and other fragrant blossoms over which hovered vari-colored butterflies, representing a miniature garden. This was surrounded with dainty pink lighted tapers.

With the dessert course each guest received a bag to which was attached a hand-painted card bearing the names of the couple, the date of the approaching nuptials and the inscription "Let the cat out of the bag."

Those attending included Misses Bonnie Jennings, Dixie Tuttle, Earline McDaniel, Katherine Barr, Opal Tarlton, Annadel Skinner, Minnie Nell Yelldell, Harriett Barwise, Lois McGaughey of Vernon, Virginia Miller of Wichita Falls, and Mesdames Bennett, Nance and Frank Doores, Ben Jordan of Plainview, Claude Vaughan of Henrietta, and Mrs. Paul Lipscomb of Yuma, Ariz.

Miss Eleanor Pitman Honoree At Party

In observation of the birthday of their daughter, Eleanor, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Pitman entertained with an enjoyable party and program on the lawn at their home, 1105 Alma street Wednesday evening. Following the playing of games, a program was presented including a one-act play in which the parts were taken by Misses Mary Williams and Jim Covey; a comedy sketch, "Sis Hopkins, the Actress," given by Miss Juanita Burgess; reading, "Popping the Question," Miss Lois Baber and a lovely colonial number given in costume, by Miss Fay Humphries. Mrs. Pitman concluded the program with a group of readings.

The honoree was given a box of candy by the young men guests, with the Rev. Dan Grieder making the presentation talk.

Honor guests were Judge and Mrs. E. W. Nicholson, Mrs. D. B. White and the Rev. Dan Grieder. There were 50 present, and ice watermelon was served at the close of the evening.

Two Couples to Say, "I Do" at The Texas-Oklahoma Fair

A double wedding in front of the steel grandstand at Fair park on the opening day of the Texas-Oklahoma fair, October 1, is being planned by Secretary-Manager R. E. Shepherd. This event will take the place of the style show and pageant which has been the opening night feature for the past few years. It is planned to stage this on the night of Tuesday, October 4, which will be Wichita Falls day. This, Mr. Shepherd believes, will be of greater benefit as an entertainment feature for Wichita Falls day.

"The fair association will furnish the minister and the license and will arrange for the proper setting for the wedding," Mr. Shepherd said. "Many of the merchants have promised to lend their assistance and to make donations of useful articles. We will also furnish the band for the wedding march and arrange for a proper setting, one that befits such an occasion, carrying out the solemnity of such an event. We will also, if desired, furnish the attendants."

Mr. Shepherd stated that the offer for the wedding couples would be open to persons living in Texas, New Mexico or Oklahoma and any one interested could get further information from his office, 602 Hamilton building.

Of 41,866 articles left on Glasgow street cars in the past 12 months, there remained unclaimed 7425 umbrellas, 2791 purses, 2790 bags and cases, 2687 gloves, 1416 articles of jewelry and 2855 parcels of various sizes.

CHIROPRACTIC

125 HOURS ENDURANCE DRIVING

Health turns the Clock Backward

HIS NERVES MUST BE PERFECT

"During all my endurance drives I find Chiropractic a most essential feature of health. During these drives I always have Chiropractic adjustments and receive remarkable benefit. The terrific strain on one's nervous system requires that the nerves be in perfect condition. For this benefit I always rely on Chiropractic. During this drive I have chosen P. L. and T. H. Myers to safeguard my health."

—ROSSER J. NEWMAN.

THE IMPORTANT STOP OF THE DRIVE

The minute this drive ends Newman will be rushed to the Parmenter Motor Company to rest and sleep. Before retiring he will receive his adjustments that his nerves may be settled for this necessary rest.

HIS FIRST RELIEF WILL BE CHIROPRACTIC SCIENCE

During the drive Newman will stop several times at this office to receive adjustments so essential to his "carrying-on." The exact time will be announced in our following ads that you may be here to see him. The necessity of perfect circulation, nerve control and well being makes this his IMPORTANT STOPS.

PACIFIC TRIP HELPS TEXAS

California Farm Survey Gives Needed Data

Special to The Record News.

TAMFORD, Aug. 20. — Skyscraper farming, "freak" ranches on one acre of highly intensified products, and thoroughly specialized agricultural methods were high points observed by Exhibit-Agricultural Manager B. M. Whiteker of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce on his recent trip to California where he was sent to study dairying, poultry raising and farming of that section.

Whiteker was one of the party of 28 Texas people who made the California tour under directorship of J. A. Kemp, Wichita Falls capitalist, who organized the excursion to teach farmers in his Wichita valley irrigation project how to use poultry and dairy farming and irrigation most profitably. Whiteker, who is the veteran exhibitor of the west who arranged the prize winning Texas Sesqui-Centennial display at Philadelphia last fall, was sent on the trip in view of the fact that the West Texas Chamber of Commerce is planning organization of a poultry and dairy bureau to begin functioning within the next few months.

Texas Stands Out.

"My trip to California served to make me more impressed with Texas, particularly the west, than ever before," Whiteker stated upon his return. "California is efficient in her farming methods because she has to be. Her specialization and high utilization of every product comes as a result of necessity, rather than from any superiority of climate or land conditions," he further stated.

It is because of the excessive price of land in California that farmers are forced to cultivate their land intensively and to make use of every by-product possible. This concentrated specialization was observed on every hand by Exhibit-Manager Whiteker of the West Texas Chamber who sketched his trip briefly according to the points which were most outstanding. His report follows:

"Regardless of the fact that land under irrigation in California ranges in price from $400 to $4000 per acre, yet the efficient methods applied in irrigating, in poultry raising, and in dairying make profits many times in excess of the investment.

"In this connection, it may be said that if West Texas farmers would apply even 50 per cent of the efficient methods used by Californians, they could grow independent and prosperous, first because Texas land is cheap, and second because Texas' land fertility is far superior to that of California. In the Lone Star State, fertilization is negligible while California pays an immense price for fertilizing elements.

One Model Farm.

"The example of one model farm in the San Fernando valley illustrates admirably what is being done in California under the intensified operation basis. The farm observed was devoted chiefly to poultry raising, and kept 2500 hens, which are fed only green stuff. These hens average 200 eggs per year. The cost of maintenance is $2 per hen per year, as green stuff is grown on the land at all seasons. Egg production amounts to about $7500 per annum, and in addition to this there is sufficient fertilizer from the fowls to bring the total income to $7600 from this phrase alone. Baby chicks are raised in brooders mounted on top of hen houses, and the cockrell and fryers pay the expense of handling the baby chickens and raising pullets to the laying stage.

"In other words, the Californian in the poultry business considers the hen a manufacturing machine. He feeds her $3 worth of feed per year, and she produces or manufactures $7 worth of food value in eggs, and an estimated value of $3 in fertilizer, making $10 produced a year.

Hens Can't Rest.

"There is no rest period in the life of a California hen; the moment she ceases to produce eggs, she is sent to the packing house for meat. No Californian can keep less than 1500 profitably, as labor and cost of handling is too high. Many one acre farms have from 1500 to 2500 hens.

"The co-operative marketing scheme is followed. All produce is handled through the organization. Great packing houses are built where eggs are graded carefully as to size, shape and quality. The culling process consists of testing and candling eggs and classing them in about 15 different grades as to shell condition and purity.

"Poultry experts are employed at Petaluma, as well as other points, to study egg shell and feed problems. Establishment of the right relationship of feed to shell quality insures a higher valued egg which can be held for the best markets.

"Dairying in its most constructive phases was observed at Owen's Mouth, some 25 miles from Los Angeles where probably the largest dairy farm in America is located. The Adohr Farms keep more than 1500 dairy cows, most of which are Guernsey stock. The daily milking comes from an average of 800 cows. At this time, there are 700 Guernsey cows and 100 Holstein in use. Six hundred acres comprise the range of the farm, some 350 acres are planted in alfalfa, 150 in corn and some one hundred acres are taken up in lots, sheds, fruits and truck. No pasturing is done. All the dairy stock is kept up and fed a balanced ration for milk and butter production.

Linseed Oil Ration.

"The ration which is fed consists of linseed oil meal, rolled barley, beet pulp and wheat bran. This ration insures an average production of 22 pounds per day for Guernsey cows and 15 pounds daily for the Holstein. The demand for Guernsey sweet milk far exceeds the supply.

"The Owens Mouth dairy farm is the most sanitary farm in the world. No flies are permitted in the barns, and no cow is permitted to enter it until she has been given a bath. The entire barn is disinfected and is kept clean by constant washing. Two hundred cows are milked at one time, all milking being done by hand. A dairy hospital is operated in connection with the plant, with competent veterinarian service available 24 hours of the day. Only certified milk is sold from the dairy; no pasturised milk is delivered. Little butter is produced, as sweet milk is so in demand that the supply is not always available.

Last Lap of Trip.

"During the last lap of the trip, extensive irrigation of citrus fruits, truck and other produce was observed in the famous Fontana area, if the San Bernardo valley. Here orchards varying from two and one-half to ten acres were seen. In an irrigated area of 18,000 acres. Five thousand acres in vineyards were observed and six thousand in citrus fruits were seen. Some poultry flocks were visible on all the fruit and truck farms, these averaging from 1500 to 2000 laying hens. Every available acre was used by either orchard, fruit or vegetable garden and stock.

"At the Weeks One-Acre Farm, peach and other fruit trees were trained to grow on fence rows, just as vines are trained. All limbs which tended to grow out from either side of the wire were pruned, so that an orchard of considerable production power was available on the smallest acreage possible. Fruit coming from the trees trained to run on wire was said by the producer to be superior to that grown on an ordinary spreading tree. The reason given for this was due to the pruning of extending branches, and the necessarily small size branches entwined in the wire, more energy, food element and sunlight are available in growth of fruit. According to claim of California orchardists, peaches, plums, and citrons grown on the fence prove larger, better flavored and of higher quality in every way than those grown by the ordinary method.

Hog Industry.

"Hog raising was another interesting industry observed in the Fontana district. An association market there handles 50,000 head of hogs, averaging from 175 to 200 pounds each. On this hog ranch, there are more than 300 acres which maintain 6000 brood sows. The hogs are fed exclusively on garbage from Los Angeles which comes in by the train loads to the farm daily. This swill is obtained at a very low price; the freight rate is exceptionally low, and the cost over that rate is nominal.

"Some few Texas hogs were used on the farm several years ago, but their mortality rate was very high due to the fact that they were not garbage fed hogs, and thus Texas stock has not been used for some time. Duroc Jerseys are mainly used on the farm, these being easily bred to garbage feeding, and with the death rate, percentage practically nothing. A most practical return from the hog ranch is obtained on fertilizer. A sufficient supply is realized for almost the entire irrigation project. Lots are cleaned daily, and the materials are prepared, sacked and shipped out every hour of the day to orchards, vineyards and gardens of the region.

"The most successful diversified irrigation district under operation was the irrigated valley out from Salt Lake City on to Colorado Springs. Farm houses along that sector had every appearance of prosperity, with diversified row crops, fruits and vegetables, two or three dairy cows, a brood sow or two, from 2000 to 5000 laying hens, well filled bins, shedded machinery, and garage for cars. The Texas party did not get to inspect this region but was impressed with it from observation."

Many phases of the trip could not be covered in this sketchy report. Social functions, trips to the movie studios, inspection of the famed Burbank gardens and other events were features that added much interest to the tour.

POULTRY PRIZE LIST ISSUED

Special Catalog Ready For T-O Fair

The special poultry catalog issued by the Texas-Oklahoma Fair association, came from the press Saturday afternoon and is ready for distribution. The catalog contains the complete premium list for the poultry, pigeon and rabbit departments. Cash prizes total approximately $2000. Ira Brown is superintendent of the poultry division. F. A. Foster is assistant, and T. A. Crosby is in charge of the rabbit department. He will be assisted by C. W. Kerr.

In all departments special premiums have been offered.

The catalogs may be obtained at the office of Fair Secretary R. E. Shepherd in the Hamilton building or from Mr. Brown in the Staley building.

Nine Building Permits Issued During Week

Nine building permits, involving total expenditures of $18,700, were issued during the week in Wichita Falls by W. E. McBroom, city clerk.

Including the past week's amount the total for 1927 to date involved in Wichita Falls building operations is $2,516,679.

The permit obtained during the week involving the largest amount was issued to Herbert Spencer for the erection of a residence, at a cost of $5000. The house will be built at 1606 Garfield.

Permits issued during the week follow:

W. R. Anderson, 2309 Kemp boulevard, residence and garage, $3000.

Frank Parrish, 2210 Talunar Lane, residence and garage, $2950.

Rural School Meeting Set For Sept. 1 and 2

Annual institute for teachers in Wichita county rural schools will be held Sept. 1 and 2 in the Valley View school house, Burl Bryant, county superintendent of schools, said Saturday.

Heretofore, the annual rural school institute has been held in connection with independent school district institutes, which according to a state law had to be in session for five days. However, the law was repealed by the last legislature, making the holding of school institutes a matter of decision of each independent school district and the county superintendents of schools.

1927 School Tax Rolls Prepared By Raley

School tax rolls for 1927 in the Iowa Park and Fairview districts were completed Saturday by Guy Raley, county tax collector.

The total for the Iowa Park roll is $6,952.22 and the Fairview roll, $61,186.43. Due to the valuable oil properties in the Fairview district the amount of the tax roll in that section is unusually large.

School tax rolls in other districts of Wichita county will be completed in the near future, Mr. Raley said.

CIGARETTE THEFT REPORTED

Theft of a small quantity of cigarettes and candy from the Grant Street Drug store, 2215 Grant, late Friday night, was reported to police headquarters Saturday morning.

LEMONS WHITEN THE SKIN

Better than "Bleaches" for Freckles, Tan, etc.

The juice of two lemons squeezed into a bottle with Orchard White, will soothe sunburn, and clear up freckles, tan, discolored skin, quicker than anything you can buy already prepared, and it doesn't cost you near as much.

Any druggist can sell you Orchard White, and it only takes a minute to mix it with the juice of two lemons. Then you have enough to last you all season.

It makes a delightful lotion which you can put on your face, neck, arms or hands at any time, and it will keep them nice and white. Mix a bottle now, so you will have it handy to use should your skin begin to turn dark, or rough.—Adv

Stripling Enters Plea Of Guilty to Theft

Sam Stripling, arrested late Friday afternoon by Deputy Sheriff Charles Gant in connection with the theft of four inner tubes from the Franklin's garage, entered a plea of guilty before Justice of the Peace R. V. Gwinn Saturday morning, and was assessed a fine of $23.35. Stripling was remanded to jail for 30 days in default of the fine.

Deputy Gant recovered the tubes from the negro, and returned them to their owner.

Roberts Writes Song For Spud Ball Team

After completing one musical bit which he has entered in the contest for the selection of a state song, P. B. Roberts, publisher of the People's Press, is working on a new one, to be more locally centered, and to be dedicated to the Wichita Falls baseball club, he announced Saturday.

The title of the selection is to be "The Spudder's Song." Both the words and the music are about completed, Mr. Roberts said.

EXTENSION OF ONE MILE GIVES MONTAGUE COUNTY OIL POOL

COUNTY HOLDS UNDRILLED OIL

Stovall Gives South Bend Second Deep Well

By TOM TRULY

Montague county, although it now has probably the most restricted drilling program in the Wichita Falls district, furnished an important development from oil activity during the past week.

The Nocona field, already one of the major areas within the district, was extended nearly a mile by Bridwell and Heydrick in their No. 1 McGauhey, located in the G. Nichols survey. This well is pumping 20 barrels daily from sand at 1145 feet. It is more than a half mile north of the Continental Oil company's producers on the Maddox farm and adds a wide scope of territory to be drilled up when conditions will warrant a thorough development of oil properties.

Shutdown Tight

The drilling shut down has been very effective in Montague county. There are now less than 20 drilling wells there and a majority of these are forced operations. There are a half dozen major companies who own enough proven leases in the county to insure an abundance of field work when development is again started.

Most of the south half of the county has been leased for deep exploitation. A number of dry holes have resulted from previous deep drilling in this sector but many geologists and operators are still more nearly convinced that the deep strata of Montague will be found commercially productive than not.

Prolific Gas Sands

The gas sands of Montague are among the most prolific in Texas, producing some gas suitable for the manufacture of helium. Since the United States government has shown a disinclination to pipe the gas to the government plant at Fort Worth, private interests are said to have become active with the view of piping the gas and manufacturing the non-inflammable inflation for aircraft.

Montague county at present sits almost idly by while more or less activity is being carried on elsewhere but many oil men are of the opinion that untold opportunities still exist there for those who will take their advantages.

Foard county waited another week without hearing tidings of its first big well. After penetrating two more gas structures below 1800 feet, Fain-McGaha and Roxana Petroleum corporation are fishing for tools in their No. 1 Matthews while the well continues to spray gas and oil. Its depth is now 1875 feet.

Well in South Bend

The South Bend pool of Young county scored its second producer from the 4200-foot lime when C. C. Stovall deepened his No. 1 Fee. It is flowing 780 barrels daily, about 20 per cent of which is water. Panhandle Refining company's No. 7 McCluskey, first well to reach the deepest pay, is still flowing more than 5000 barrels daily.

An important announcement concerning Young county was made by the United Royalty company when its intention of drilling two wells in the Graham section were made known. The tests are to be for th edeeper sands and will determine the nature of some purely wildcat territory.

Denies Finding Gas In Hartley County

J. E. McKanna of Wichita Falls denied the report that he had found 15,000,000 feet of gas at 3300 feet in his No. 1 Capital lands, in section 30, block 22, of C. S. S. Lands, in Hartley county. This test at last reports was drilling below 3200 feet in lime.

McKanna's No. 1 Shelton, in section 29, section 202, is still shut down at 3595 feet, awaiting orders.

23 Companies Show Decrease of 43 Per Cent

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—A compilation of aggregate earnings of 23 oil companies for the first half of 1927 shows a drop of 43 per cent in comparison with the same period last year. Net totalled $52,664,396 against $92,862,090, a decrease of $39,697,694. Earnings of 20 companies which reported quarterly were 64 per cent smaller in the second quarter than a year ago and 21 per cent less than the first quarter this year.

RANGER JUBILEE

Oil men from all areas of Texas are laying plans to take in the Ranger oil jubilee on October 21 and 22, when the tenth anniversary of the completion of the Texas Pacific Coal and Oil company discovery there occurs. John Ghoulson, a pioneer Texas oil man is general chairman.

36,800 Barrels Drawn From Stocks During July in Wichita District

Total Stocks On August 1 Were Only 2,849,415 Barrels; Production Was 2,999,281

Crude stocks in the Wichita Falls district were reduced 36,800 barrels during the month of July and since June 1 have been reduced more than 350,000 barrels, according to estimates gathered on partial information here.

With a total tankage capacity of approximately 10,000,000 barrels, the district had in storage on August 1 only 2,849,415 barrels of oil. Total stocks on July 1 amounted to 2,886,215 barrels and on June 1 the stored crude was approximately 3,200,000 barrels.

The district produced a daily average of 96,751 barrels for a total of 2,999,281 barrels for the month of July.

About 90 per cent of the oil in storage in the district is held at Wichita Falls, Electra, Iowa Park and Burkburnett.

A table showing the amount of oil in storage in each county with the approximate tank capacity as of August 1 follows:

County	Stocks	Approx. Capacity

Doheny Surprised at Texas Oil Fields; First Visit Since 1874

Special to The Record News.

SAN ANGELO, Aug. 20.—Edward L. Doheny, one of the outstanding characters in the oil industry, is surprised at the formation on which the West Texas oil pools are located and proving one of the greatest oil producing areas in the country. "This looks like a country where only the drill tells the true story of where you find oil," he said. He made the statement following an inspection trip of the fields in this area during the early part of the week. He was accompanied by officials of his companies and traveled in a special train.

"Go to the valley for water and to the hills for oil," an old adage, does not apply to this section, he said with surprise. He said though that the West Texas fields did present some of the usual conditions.

His interests recently bought acreage in this section from Kemper Kimberlin, San Angelo independent oil operator.

The trip into Texas this week is the second trip Mr. Doheny ever has made into the southwest and his first one was in 1874, when employed in constructing telegraph lines around Fort Sill.

Though 71, Mr. Doheny is as spry as any member of the party, the first one up in the mornings and the first to bed at night. He is a hearty eater. His trainer, Ahmed Abdullah, accompanies him wherever he goes. He has been with Mr. Doheny 18 years.

Thalia Expects Oil Boom; Votes On Incorporation

Thalia is making preparations for an oil boom. Its citizens have good reason to feel optimistic about the oil situation with a well less than two miles away showing gas and oil at several different levels.

An election has been called for September 7 to vote on incorporation. If and when the election carries, steps will be immediately taken to bring about some public improvements. Incorporated, the town will be in position to arrange for an influx of oil operators which is sure to follow completion of a producer by Roxana and Fain-McGaha within a short time.

The town already boasts a strong bank, several modern stores and some imposing residences. It is in the northeastern part of Foard county and will be the center of operations for the impending field.

Three New Wells Start In Panhandle

AMARILLO, Aug. 20.—There were five first reports the past fiscal week in the Panhandle oil fields.

Gray and Wheeler each had two and Bailey county one. Two were old wells going deeper, three being new operations.

Bailey County.

Humble Oil and Refining company No. 1 Fuqua, in the center of the east half of section 117, block A, of H. B. & B. survey, Bailey county, a rig on the ground.

Gray County.

Empire Gas and Fuel company No. 1 Hughey, at 330 feet from the south and 990 feet from the west lines of the southwest quarter of section 129, block 3, of I. & G. N. survey, going deeper from 3235 feet.

Magnolia Petroleum company No. 1 Neitholt, at 330 feet from the north and east lines of the southeast quarter of section 152, block 3, of I. & G. N. survey, going deeper.

Wheeler County.

Hatcher and others No. 1, in the center of the northeast of the southwest of section 80, block 23, of H. & G. N. survey, a Star machine.

Piney Oil and Gas company No. 1 Ackley, in the center of the northwest of the northeast of section 20, block 24, of H. & G. N. survey, a location.

Among the babies born recently at the London Zoo are a lion, a tiger, a hippopatamus, a fruit bat, wild dogs and prairie wolves.

WILBARGER FAILURE

Verschoyle and Vaughan have completed their No. 1 Ancell in section 3, block 7, H. & T. C. survey, Wilbarger county, as a dry hole with the total depth 1825 feet.

ANOTHER SAND

Consolidated Oil company and A. G. Carter will run the Halliburton test to a second sand encountered in their No. 1 Mrs. Wheeler, located in section 56, block 7, H. & T. C. survey, Wilbarger county. A sand at 1296-99 feet was dry and deepening to 1355 feet revealed another structure which gives promise of making a well.

THALIA TEST

Roxana Petroleum corporation and Fain-McGaha are fishing for tools at 1875 feet in their No. 1 Matthews, located in section 3, G. S. & F. survey, eastern Foard county. The hole bridged and when the bridge was cleared the tools were blown up in the hole.

MUENSTER WELL FLOWS

Sowell Brothers No. 1 test in block 90, townsite, Muenster field of Cooke county, ran oil over the derrick floor and onto the ground over a sizeable area in making a head Saturday. The flow was said to have amounted to about 75 barrels. The sand is at 1668-77 feet.

WEST OF TRUSCOTT

Deep Rock Oil company is building the derrick and will be ready to spud in its No. 1 Moore, west of Truscott in Knox county. The location has been made for several weeks.

WICHITA COUNTY

C. P. Sheldon tested out another sand at 1796-98 feet in his No. 1 Barton, located in the F. Peterswick survey, southwest Wichita county. The swab pulled out a stream of salt water and the test is to be deepened.

WEST OF CLARA

A. Rollerstone, prominent Oklahoma operator, is drilling at 2580 feet in his No. 1 Schnokenberg, a wildcat test located west of Clara and in Wichita county.

HARDEMAN COUNTY

The Milham corporation is drilling below 400 feet in No. 1 Reeves, located 10 miles southwest of Quanah in Hardeman county. The test is on a 12,000 acre block and Milham is said to be increasing its holdings.

Slick Outpost Bears Watching

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 20.—Seminole field scouts were watching closely the T. B. Slick test in 11-6-6 yesterday and a number of Tulsa oil men, owners of acreage in the vicinity, were also watching the well.

It was drilling in the Simpson found just above the Wilcox. Late yesterday the well was drilling at 3916 feet in the Simpson.

The Viola was topped at 3808 feet and the Simpson hit at 3865 feet.

The Indian Territory Illuminating Oil company's well of the Little river pool in 1-6-6 about seven miles north of the Slick test had 57 feet of Viola lime. The Slick test also had 57 feet of Viola.

The Indian Territory well had 33 feet of Simpson, from 3984 feet to 4017 feet, where the Wilcox was topped. So far the Slick well has 33 feet of Simpson.

Although it is more than five years since women of England were permitted to practice law, each term only two or three take up the profession.

REEVES COUNTY HAS OIL SHOW

Fishing Job Delays First Producer

SAN ANGELO, Aug. 20.—Drilling in of three new wells in Pecos county—one of them, the Mazda, extending the field 2 1-2 miles west, and striking of the second pay in Mid-Kansas and Transcontinental No. 3-B Yates, with eight new locations in the northwest area, provided the high lights in oil development this week in the Trans-Pecos area.

The Lane area in Upton county gained another well, as did the University pool in Crane county, coming on the heels of the completion last week of ten producers in the Gulf-Landreth area. World Oil company's No. 1 Duff appeared to be Reeves county's first producer in the making, with 2000 feet of fluid in the hole and gassing at 3650 feet, with a fishing job underway.

Drilling at 1536 feet in lime, filling with oil and reported to be yielding a bailer hourly, Mazda-Red Bank No. 1 Smith seemed certain of becoming a producer. It is in section 24, block 194, Roxana, Pure, California, Phillips and the Gulf will be placed actively in the play by the new well.

Well Increases

Mid-Kansas and Transcontinental No. 7-A Yates, north of the No. 5 producer, increased to 45 barrels hourly when drilled to 1262 feet after making 857 barrels in 24 hours. Mid-Kansas and Transcontinental No. 3-B Yates, which came in last week at 868 feet, increased Wednesday to an average flow of 455 barrels hourly when it reached 915 feet in the black lime. The well produced 1002 barrels up to 1 o'clock Thursday morning through a 3-16 inch choke and was shut in. Its peak was 525 barrels in an hour Wednesday. No. 3-B is in the southeast corner of section 61.

South of No. 3-B, Marland No. 1-A Yates, in the northwest corner of section 60 and a western offset to Allsman & Bell's No. 1 Pecos river bed producer, flowed 20 barrels of oil Thursday morning, drilling at 997 feet. It had made four small heads in the last 24 hours, not yet in the big pay. The week's developments increased the number of Pecos county producers to 15.

Upton county's newest producer is Prairie's No. 3-C Lane, flowing 70 barrels of oil, 28 per cent of which was basic sediment and water. The pay was topped at 1965 feet and was penetrated to 1965. Prairie No. 4-C Lane was preparing to shoot after striking an oil showing from 1962 to 1980 feet. It had a total depth of 2038.

Big One In Crane

Crane county's latest well, Cromwell, Jones and others' No. 3 in the University pool made 1900 barrels the first day from 3000 feet. The first hour it made 210 barrels.

The Gulf Production company during the recent week reached the pay with six of its wells and Landreth gained four wells in the strip fight that brought the climax of a race between 15 drilling wells in the area, all getting the pay within a day or two of each other. Landreth gained the largest of the group in its State Land No. 11, which produced 4500 barrels at a depth of 2840 feet. The Gulf's No. 21 was the nearest to it with initial production of 2700 barrels at 2924 feet.

Torrid Area

The strip was the hottest completion sector of the West Texas area during the week with the Church Fields area getting two producers, Winkler two, Upton two, Pecos two and Crockett one. The wells follow:

Gulf's 17, depth 2905 feet, and production 390 barrels. Gulf's 20, at 2929 feet, production 437 barrels after shot. Gulf's 21, at 2924 feet, in initially for 1320 barrels, which increased to 2700 after a shot. Gulf's 22, at 2929 feet, 2400 barrels after a shot, with initial production of 1400 barrels. Gulf's 23 at 2870 feet, 1200 barrels after a shot. Gulf 24 at 2859 feet, 807 barrels after a shot.

Landreth Gets Three

Landreth No. 10, at 3008 feet, 270 barrels after a shot. Landreth No. 11, at 2840 feet, producing 4000 barrels. Landreth No. 12, with 2000 feet of oil in the hole at 2890 feet. Landreth No. 13, in lime, total depth 2875, with showing of oil at 2830 feet.

Magnolia No. 7 Hardwick, in Church Fields area, at 2991 feet, produced 870 barrels after a shot, and the number 8 made 50 barrels daily after a shot, depth 2993 feet, on the northeast side of the field.

Simms Atlantic 3-D in Winkler at 3002 feet made 800 barrels of oil after a shot and was flowing 905 barrels at last reports.

Terry County Showing To Be Tested Soon

AMARILLO, Aug. 20.—It will take 10 to 12 days before the Kingsland Oil and Potash company know what it has found in its No. 1 Brownfield, in section 7, block A-1, of E. L. survey, in east central Terry county, the South Plains area. Tuesday night at 2230 feet it picked up considerable gas through a hole full of rotary mud and water, and drilling was immediately suspended for orders.

The suspension of drilling caused the water and mud to shut off the gas, but not before rainbow showing of oil appeared. Orders were given Thursday to tear down the rotary rig, remove the draw works and standardize. This will require more than a week's time and the well will then be tested.

Electra, Young and Cooke Account For 455-Barrel Gain in Production

The Electra district, in cleaning up surplus oil, Young county, Cooke county and Jack county had a combined gain in production the past week to offset losses in the other fields and the entire district registered a gain of 455 barrels.

Daily production for the weke was estimated at 102,215 barrels as compared with 101,760 barrels the previous week.

Due to the completion of a 700-barrel well by C. C. Stovall and another increase in the output of Panhandle Refining company's No. 7 McCluskey, both in the South Bend pool, Young county showed a gain of 390 barrels Electra's increase was 435 barrels. Cooke county set another new figure with 6165 barrels daily and Jack county registered a 75-barrel increase.

Daily production by fields follows:

Field	Last Week	Prev. Week	Gain	Loss

Panhandle Field Drops Below 100,000 Barrels in Daily Oil Production

AMARILLO, Aug. 20.—Inability of the pipe lines in the Panhandle field to connect to any wells the past week caused the plains oil field to drop below 100,000 barrels a day for the first time since the summer of 1926. Only one well was completed and it has not been connected to by a pipe line.

The daily production of the Panhandle was estimated at 99,848 barrels a day, a loss of 5818 barrels a day in a week's time.

A field survey shows fully 75 wells waiting for pipe line connections and these, or a part of them, could overcome the Panhandle field's decline, but the prospects for their immediate completion is not bright.

The field summary follows:

Area—	Wells	New Output	New Wells	Output	Gain	Loss	Wells Avrg.

TWO PRODUCERS IN JACK FIELD

Dozen Wildcats Drilling In County

JACKSBORO, Aug. 20.—During the past week only two small producers were completed in Jack county, but a dozen or more wildcat tests are drilling away and are swiftly approaching the depth where production is expected to be found.

One of the two producers completed was the Stampfli-Walton and Kell-C. C. Bloodworth No. 1, J. F. Shears survey, abstract 149, located approximately 10 miles northwest of Jacksboro, for a five-barrel producer from a sand encountered at 318 feet and drilled to 328 feet. The other producer was the Bland and Chandler-Ellis and Dubose No. 2, Jas. W. Williams survey, abstract 887, which encountered a sand at 466 feet and drilled to 480 feet. Several hundred feet of fluid is standing in the hole, and as yet this well has not been put on the pump.

The Bland and Chandler-Ellis and Dubose No. 3 is located just south of their Ellis and Dubose No. 1, while their Ellis and Dubose No. 4 is located just south of their Ellis and Dubose No. 2. These wells are to be spudded in immediately.

The C. E. Harvey-Millett No. 2, located on the 20 acres just recently purchased from O. K. Giles out of the Jas. W. Williams survey, abstract 887, has been made in the northwest corner. The Bland and Strang-Millett No. 5 location, Jas. W. Williams survey, abstract 887, has been made 1528 feet due south of their Millett No. 2. The L. M. Lamar-J. R. Moore No. 2 William Berryman survey, abstract 40, has been made just east of their Moore No. 1, which was dry and abandoned.

Antelope Pool.

In the extreme northwestern part of Jack county in the Antelope shallow pool Parka and Cunningham-Bowen No. 1, Rebecca Parker survey, abstract 461, has been junked and rig skidded 300 feet east and rigging up for their Bowen No. 3. The Hester and Hawkins-J. Barry No. 1, Rebecca Parker survey, abstract 461, was dry at 827 feet. S. E. J. Cox-D. Nixon No. 1, J. Armendaris survey, abstract 27, has been temporarily shut down to make repairs on machinery.

The Fletcher Royalty and Drilling company-A. S. Johnson No. 1, Ben Terry survey, abstract 611, is setting 12-inch casing at 1050 feet.

The Watchorn-Williams No. 1, B. S. & F. company survey, abstract 88, is drilling at 4770 feet in a hard black formation. Rochelle-Ira D. Gray No. 1, J. W. Ramsey survey, abstract 499, is underreaming eight-inch casing at 2200 feet.

In the southwestern part of the county, in the Leidecker pool, Reed and Neely are drilling at 1510 feet on their Keyser No. 1, L. Watwins survey, abstract 1502. Buttram-Jones No. 2, S. P. R. R. Co. survey, abstract 550, is drilling at 945 feet, while the Seaboard Oil and Gas company-J. W. Cullers No. 1, J. R. Cullers survey, abstract 2188, is drilling at 1540 feet.

STORAGE GAINS

AMARILLO, Aug. 20.—Producers in the Panhandle field the past week ran 27,516 barrels a day into storage, and withdrew 24,086 barrels a day, giving storage a gain of 430 barrels a day.

Crane County.

Crane county gained the following locations: Tidal University 6-1, section 47, block 30, university survey, 200 feet from south and 990 from east, corrected; and Tidal Oil University 5-1, section 47, block 30, university survey, 1650 from north and 330 from west of southeast quarter; Landreth Production company's Cowden Anderson State 16, block 10, 200 feet from north and 660 feet west of No. 12, Marland Oil company, Union Land No. 1, section 28, block 35, H. & T. C., 330 from southeast and 33 from northeast of west quarter.

Howard County.

Howard county also gained three in the Marland's Guitar estate No. 2, section 14, block A, Bauer Cockrell survey, 1320 from sand 1320 from east lines, and six miles northwest of Big Spring; G. A. Henshaw settles No. 1, section 135, block 29, W. and NW survey, 330 feet from north and 1650 from west lines of section, and Texas Company, University Beasley No. 2, section 46, University survey, block 30, 200 from south and 300 from west lines.

The World Oil company Powell No. 1, Crockett county, is in section 52, E. L. & R. R. survey, block BB, 2325 from north and 825 from east.

Tidal Oil University No. 7-1, section 47, block 30, Crane university survey, Crane, 200 from south and 330 from east lines.

Upton County.

Three locations in Upton include Tidal's Burleson No. 2, section 2, J. Nidever survey, 330 from west and 225 from north lines of Tidal's 30-acre tract, offsetting Dixie 29 Burleson; Humble's Kicker No. 6, section 5, M. S. Denton survey, a short distance from Humble Kicker No. 5, and J. M. Hickey on J. S. McKinley farm, section 7, block 38, H. & &T. C. 1650 from southeast line and 1650 from southwest line.

New locations in Pecos county include M. Kansas and Transcontinental 4B, section 61, block 1, L. & G. N., 250 from north and 1273 from west lines. Others already announced are the same company's No. 1 Smith in section 31, block 194, G. C. & S. F. 1320 from north and 1320 from west lines, Humble's in section 36, block 194, Sims on J. C. Duval survey, and same company in section 193.

Gasser Changes To Oiler After Blowing a Week

RANGER, Aug. 20.—Texas-Pacific Coal and Oil company hase an unusual well in its No. 2 Higginbotham, located in the Gordon pool 12 miles north of Ranger. Brought in several weeks ago as a gasser with a daily yield of 16,000,000 cubic feet of gas, this week it began to decrease its gas flow and at the same time started making a little oil. While the oil increased the gas continued to decrease and yesterday the well was making 12 barrels of oil per hour.

CAMP GROUND FOR WORSHIP

Davis Mountains Induce Outdoor Religion

Special to The Record News.

ALPINE, Aug. 20.—In the very heart of the Davis Mountains is a hallowed spot, the Bloys camp meeting ground, where the annual meeting begins today, and on which stands the great and tall marble monument erected to the memory of Dr. W. B. Bloys, who was the spiritual leader of the entire Davis Mountain country, for more than a quarter of a century during the pioneer days.

The Bloys camp meeting ground was founded in 1889 at Skillman Grove, twelve miles west of Fort Davis, almost forty years ago, by Dr. W. B. Bloys, a Presbyterian minister, and this noble patriarch was the leading spirit of the venture for twenty-seven years. Unlike other meetings, this meeting was conducted without regard to denominations or creeds—and it stands today as a monument to united brotherhood for the accomplishment of good, regardless of creeds.

Monument of Marble.

Dr. Bloys continued his leadership until his death and devoted the best years of his life to this noble work. The monument of pure white marble, was erected by the cattlemen of the entire Davis Mountain section, who all reverence the memory of the sainted Dr. Bloys. This meeting is attended by every denomination and is an example of perfect unity for the accomplishment of good.

"The Romance of the Davis Mountains," a book written by C. H. Roht of San Antonio, was dedicated to Dr. Bloys, and as time goes on, instead of being forgotten, as many deceased people are, Dr. Bloys lives in the hearts of this people—the people of the Davis Mountains. Even strangers coming in to reside seem to feel the influence of his noble life. Anyone visiting the Bloys camp meeting grounds and listening to the history of that solitary monument feels an inspiration and awe of this sainted man's early struggles and hardships endured to bring about this restful, peaceful christian unity.

Dr. Bloys was for a number of years the pastor of the Presbyterian church at Alpine, and also the First Presbyterian church at Fort Davis and at a meeting recently at Skillman Grove to arrange a suitable program for the annual camp meeting in August, many Alpine people were present.

Religious Camp.

During these annual camp meetings, people from the large ranches come and camp during the entire week and in addition to the splendid religious services the occasion is a kind of annual renewing of friendships, making new acquaintances and a general get-to-gether meeting.

The meeting which is now in progress is being conducted by Dr. John H. Burma, Presbyterian, and president of Trinity University, Waxahachie; Dr. S. J. Porter, pastor First Baptist church, Washington, D. C.; Dr. W. A. Shelton, pastor First Methodist church, Atlanta, Ga., and Dr. L. D. Anderson, pastor First Christian church, Fort Worth. Dr. R. L. Irving, Presbyterian minister, Fort Davis, is superintendent of the camp meeting association and Capt. J. B. Gillett, is president.

First Gain In Six Days Made

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 20.—Seminole production gained 1903 barrels yesterday over Thursday's figures, the first increase for the field in six days.

Production for the 24 hour period closing yesterday morning at 7 o'clock, was 443,879 barrels. For the proration district, which excludes the Little river pool, the gain was 2185 barrels over Thursday.

The big increase was made in the Searight, smallest of the pools in the Seminole proration district, which jumped about 3000 barrels. Bowlegs gained about 1000 barrels but Earlsboro fell off 4000 barrels while Seminole made a 2000 barrel increase.

Operators were of the opinion that yesterday's gain was caused by new wells and increased flows in others. They said the trend was still downward.

For the proration district the production was 435,841 barrels against 433,653 barrels for Thursday.

Comparative figures for the field with 694 wells producing, follows:

Pool—	Thursday	Friday
Bowlegs	166,641	167,086
Earlsboro	166,641	162,562
Seminole	74,113	76,256
Searight	26,590	29,637
Proration area total	433,653	435,
Proration area total	433,653	435,841

Seminole total	441,976	443,879

Deaths

H. A. BRACKEEN JR.

Funeral services for H. A. Brackeen Jr., 33, 809 Bluff, who died in a local hospital early Friday morning, were held Saturday in Merkel, Texas, where the body was forwarded for burial late Friday night by the Burris-Sheppard mortuary.

Deceased is survived by his wife, Mrs. H. A. Brackeen Jr., two small children, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Brackeen Sr., of Electra.

O. C. YANCEY

Funeral services for O. C. Yancey, resident of Graham who died Thursday, were held from the parlors of the Merkle Undertaking company Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock with the Rev. Grover C. Townsend, pastor of the Lamar Avenue Baptist church officiating. Interment was in Riverside.

Mr. Yancey was an employe of the Panhandle Refining company.

IRA HAWKINS WILSON

Funeral services for Ira Hawkins Wilson, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Wilson, 1627 Eleventh, who died in a local hospital late Friday evening, were held from the parlors of the Merkle Undertaking company Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock with the Rev. Dan F. Grieder, junior pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiating. Interment was in Riverside.

The child is survived by its parents.

Baby Chicks in Small Danger in Making Long Trips by Mail Travel

If the air mail will reduce the mortality rate of baby chickens shipped by parcel post, the sickliest chick will be enabled to start a long journey without the least fear of reaching his destination dead. It is almost that way now.

A woman living near Lake ichita received a parcel of chicks Tuesday. Before taking them from the postoffice the box was opened and its contents examined in the presence of Postmaster O. P. Maricle. Four out of 105 chickens in the box were dead. The others seemed as happy as though they might have been tunneling under the wings of their mother. They had come all the way from Missouri.

Mr. Maricle said that very few baby chicks are lost in postal transit. It is only when there is an unexpected delay that the mortality rate is heavy.

Bobbies of London who direct traffic have adopted white slickers with white hands on the sleeves for wear during fogs so that their signals may be seen.

In France, where the first automobiles were produced, there is one car to every 57 inhabitants, while in America the proportion is one to every six.

JUDGE PUTS THIS ONE OVER

R. V. Gwinn Outhinks Two Salesmen

In these days of loquacious advertising salesmen who are apparently always submerged in their own conscientiousness, it has become necessary for the public to provide means to defend itself, according to Justice of the Peace R. V. Gwinn, who Saturday morning found those means, and also found that they would work.

He thought of the scheme at the sight of two young men with "personality" who entered the door of his office in the courthouse, armed with "portfolios." He knew what was coming.

"Judge Gwinn," one of the salesmen said, "we are here in the interest of advertising for—" and so on.

The speech ended. The judge fumed.

"Young man, cease. Talk no more of your magazine. I need no advertising. In fact, I wouldn't give you five cents for your whole publication, your advertising, or anything connected with it, and furthermore—"

Now, Judge Gwinn is known for his vivacious manner of talking, and those who know him best don't take it seriously. It is meant in fun, and daily there are scores of visitors in his office to hear just this kind of talk.

But the salesmen, knowing nought of this, grew afraid, and not wishing to offend the judge, apologized—and what is more, gave him, free of charge, a $10 "good-will" ad in the magazine, which is to be published shortly.

The judge has the receipt of the salesman, which he exhibits proudly as symbol of the "triumph of the old days over the new."

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20. (AP)—An active and excited advance in the cotton market today followed publication of the government's report on the activities of boll weevil and other insects in the south, all months making new high records for the season. December contracts sold up to 21.20 and March to 21.36, net advances of 12 to 80 points on the general list. The close was only a few points off from the best under realizing, with the final tone steady, at net gains of 62 to 75 points.

The market opened firm at an advance of 27 to 38 points under more or less general buying. A good deal of realizing at the initial prices was absorbed on setbacks of a few points, the market showing increased strength and activity after publication of the boll weevil report. This was regarded as indicating a heavy infestation of the insect, particularly in Alabama, Mississippi, and South Carolina, and evidently was considered even more bullish than anticipated.

In addition to heavy covering by recent sellers there was a broadening demand from trade and commission houses, October deliveries selling up to 20.95 and January to 21.22, these prices representing advances of about $3.50 to $4.00 per bale over the closing quotations yesterday and of more than 2¾ cents a pound above the low level touched on the reactions late last week.

The increasingly serious view of the boll weevil situation, no doubt inspired expectations of smaller crop estimates, and buying was reported in anticipation that end-August condition and yield figures would show a considerable falling off as compared with the end-July reports.

Except for comparatively low temperatures, the weather news was considered somewhat more favorable, and may have increased the disposition to take profits on the initial advance, but the later market appeared to be entirely dominated by the boll weevil news.

The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 69,000 bales, against 37,000 last year and 32,000 two years ago.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 20. (AP)— The government's tenth weevil report showing heavy infestation and serious damage to crops as early as August 1, was even more bullish than traders expected and as a result cotton prices soared to new highs for the season. December sold up to 21.62, compared with 20.30, yesterday's closing figure and 20.56, the high points of August 9. The option closed at the high, with the general market closing steady at net advances of 70 to 72 points.

Despite rather poor Liverpool cables first trades showed gains of 1 11o 30 points due mainly to expectations of a bullish report. The market continued to advance until by the end of the first hour October reached 20.41 and December 20.63, 32 to 33 points above the previous close.

In the second hour, after the report was issued, the market became extremely active and all months climbed upward, making new highs in the final trading with October at 20.79, and December 21.03, a net gain of approximately $3.50 a bale over the previous close.

Exports for the day totaled 28,249 bales.

BOSTON, Aug. 20. (AP)—Trading has been very quiet generally during the past week. The present quietness in raw wool is not an unusual development of this period, especially in view of heavy purchases made by the mills during recent weeks.

COTTON GOODS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20. (AP)—The gray goods market was exceptionally active for Saturday. Large sales were made. Various lower prices were withdrawn and advances were paid on a few constructions. The burlap market was fairly active, sales of spots and afloats going through at advances. Calcutta cables reported the bazaar unchanged to slightly firmer. The Yokohama raw silk market was quiet after the remarkable 50-yen advance of the previous day. A 10-yen recession failed to affect prices here.

Durant's Enthusiasm Influences Strong Tone in Stock Market Circles On Wall Street

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—William C. Durant's highly enthusiastic outlook, as expressed prior to his taking a vacation abroad, together with expectation of a 3 per cent call money rate soon influenced further strength in the stock market in yesterday's half session. General Motors held the leadership and was joined in its advance by Du Pont, General Electric, International Combustion and other good industrials. The rails remained rather dull and a little soft while the oil shares dipped a little lower. Private crop estimates of a bullish nature were responsible for enhanced bullishness of the trading community and active options added to their gains. Sterling featured a rather listless foreign exchange market in a move to its high level of the year, while the grain markets remained irregular.

In expressing belief that the greatest bull market ever known was ahead, William C. Durant made it quite plain that he meant for good stocks. He particularly emphasized "good" and while he did not say so it was quite evident that he had in mind some recent stock market developments threatening another Manhattan Electric cataclysm. All stocks on the stock exchange are "good" at certain prices but there is a price territory in which even those with the largest assets and greatest earning power become "bad." The real "bad" stocks, however, are those which are technically cornered so that the number of shares available for trading is a factor that must be considered fully as much as earning power, etc., in a selective market such as now experienced.

New Haven moved fractionally higher under influence of the dividend forecast of Director Hadley, while other railroad stocks remained listless and a trifle softer. The New Haven's refunding program has the whole-hearted support of all in the banking and brokerage communities. The progress of the last two years, in so far as Wall sstreet is concerned, is proof positive of the success of the new management's program of rehabilitation. With the government debt out of the way, it is stressed, the management will be able to proceed more vigorously with its expansion and betterment schedule. To the old timers in the street the talk of a New Haven dividend is just a little more of a shock than is that concerning the Erie. They never expected to live to see such developments, but now have reason for strong hope that they will read of dividend payments on both these stocks entirely as a result of developments of the last 24 months.

"Bill" Skelly, the wildest bull of the oil game, was the latest to comment on the possibility of improvement in the industry, but his stock slid off fractionally with the rest despite the wire advices to "buy" that came through from the southwest about the same ime as his interview appeared on the tickers. "Bill" talked of a return to normalcy, but his words lost part of their potential influence in that the stock market world is beginning to believe that "normalcy" for oil men constitutes the getting of the oil out of the land no matter at what cost to others or to the industry as a whole.

International Combustion proved one of the "good stocks" as it registered a new high for the move on continuation of the important buying first told of here several days ago and closed at the top for the session. Nash and Chrysler followed General Motors as buying attributed to the motor firm of 115 Broadway was evidenced again. The General Motors record high was the result of covering of a short account by tha uptown trader who has tried the bear side with considerable cost at intervals over the past two years.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20. (AP)— Strength and activity of a select group of motor shares overshadowed all other developments in today's brief session of the stock market. The general list continued to drift, although the undertone was fairly firm, and several new high records were established. Trading was only moderate in volume.

Speculation for the advance derived its chief impetus today from the publication of bullish interviews by William C. Durant, automobile manufacturer and stock market operator and Charles E. Mitchell, president of the National City bank. Durant's statement that another stock slip-up of General Motors might be necessary in the near future stimulated the demand for that stock, the old issue crossing 231 to a new high record and the new "When Issued" stock selling above 117. Chrysler crossed 58 to a new top and moderate gains were recorded by Moon, Nash and Jordan Motors.

Pools, faced with the prospect of easy money rates for some time to come, renewed operations in a number of specialties.

At the close of the market, the average of 20 leading industrial issues was again in new high ground, the day's gain being slightly more than half a point.

Rail shares were rather quiet, with price changes narrow and unimportant.

Foreign exchange trading was quiet with few important rate changes. Demand sterling ruled slightly firmer around $4.85 13-16, and French francs were steady just under 3.92 cents. Portuguese escudos fell below 4 cents, duplicating the year's low level.

Officers Search For Body of Human Hand

DENTON, Aug. 20. (AP)—Finding of a partly decomposed human hand in a meadow near here Saturday has started officers searching for a shallow grave in which may be found the remainder of the body.

The find was made by former Sheriff Jim Goode and Dr. A. C. Baird of Denton. They believe the hand was pulled from a body buried in a shallow grave in the meadow. The men were baling hay when the find was made.

Airships of the Royal Air Navigation Co. of Holland flew 536,863 miles in 6614 flying hours, last year.

One of the largest dams in the world is being constructed near Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

Boy Scout News

TROOP ONE.

Troop one, Lowell Nichols scoutmaster, enjoyed a watermelon feast at Scotland Park Thursday night. Before eating the boys played an interesting game of football. B. Dillon, mascot of the troop, won the largest slice of watermelon for telling the best joke.

A progressive story was started by Mr. Hamilton, assistant scoutmaster, and each member of the troop added a chapter. The meeting of the troop Friday night opened with five relay races. Two patrols were re-organized, with Jack and Robert Dillard patrol leaders. The patrol that fills up the soonest will be given a patrol banner and each member of the winning patrol will receive the patrol insigna.

PATROL LEADERS CONFERENCE

The patrol leaders conference which was held at Camp Ephraim Griffin the 16, 17 and 18, was a big success. Thirty-eight boys attended and all declared they learned more than they ever expected to learn in any other three days.

Troop two had three members present; troop four, one; troop five, five; troop ten, six; troop 11, three; troop 12, five; troop 16, two; troop 26, one; troop 22, four; Electra eight.

The school was run on a commission basis, each patrol being assigned a commission to carry out. An outline of the school is being prepared and, when finished, will be sent to each scoutmaster in the district.

TROOP THREE.

Troop three, Lee Loeffler, scoutmaster, had its meeting Friday night in the form of a treasure hunt. The troop met at the First Methodist church and went to the river. Chief Dark Cloud, Homer Lee took charge of the hunt. Each patrol leader was given a map and his patrol was ordered to follow the directions on the map in order to find the treasure. Kermit Ashby, a visitor from troop 11, and Herman Givens found the treasurer, which was a box of candy large enough for the entire troop to enjoy. The individual treasure was a one-half pound box of candy.

Scouts who attended camp sang "Kiowatch," the Indian song learned at camp, while maching around the camp fire. After a patrol check-up a sketch of the last period of camp was given by J. C. Daniel. Several funny jokes were told by Travis Lee and Charlie Aston.

Springer Williams, who possessed the only flashlight in the group, led the way back to the cars and the boys went home, declaring they had the best time ever.

TROOP TWENTY.

Troop 20, R. E. Davis, scoutmaster, opened its meeting Friday with the scout oath.

Reggie Humphreys told about the scout camp and the patrol leaders conference. Sherman Anderson demonstrated first aid requirements for second class, and games of Kelly Says and Indian wrestle were played. The meeting was closed with the scout oath.

TROOP TWO.

Troop two held its regular meeting last Friday night at the First Methodist church.

John Weller had charge of the meeting as Mr. McClure, the scoutmaster, was detained at his work and could not attend. The meeting opened with the scout oath, laws, and pledge of allegiance to the flag, led by John Weller.

A contest was held to see who was the ugliest boy in the troop. All the boys tried to look ugly except Edward Etter and he won the contest. He was appointed to teach the troop a new song and did his best. Oh Chief, Oh Chief and poison were played. The scoutmaster surprised the troop so the meeting started over again with the scout laws, etc. As the winter is coming on, troop two is going on a new basis and it will be pretty hard for a boy to get into the troop.

Miller McDaniel and Melvin Giles gave a short talk on the patrol leaders school. The trip to Craterville Park was discussed. A special meeting of the troop will be held Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock to discuss this trip and every member of the troop is requested to be there.

E. Clay Venable, camp director, was in town Saturday on his way through to Oklahoma City.

Board of review will be held Monday and Tuesday, August 29 and 30 at scout headquarters.

Livestock

TEXAS LIVESTOCK.

FORT WORTH, Aug. 20. (AP)—Quick sale of th cusual light week-end run characterized the Fort Worth livestock market on Saturday. Receipts were estimated at 300 cattle, 250 calves and 300 hogs.

Cattle supplies were mainly cows of poor grades and a small supply of heifers and yearlings. Cows were all of the canner and cutter variety and sold to the packers at prices ranging from $2.50 to $4.65. The largest draft of the day was a lot of 11 cows weighing 620 pounds that brought $4.65.

A few head of butcher bulls of weights up to 1382 pounds sold at $5.75@5.85. A few scattering bulls sold at $4.50 and up to $5.00.

One load of calves in the 216 pound class was good enough to sell for $10.00. The remainder of the 250 calves sold at from $4.00 to $9.00 with a full load at $9.00 and also a half load.

The hog market appeared steady through a load of heavy butchers sold at $9.75, a price somewhat above the market range. The few light butchers in sight were good enough to bring only $10.25 against a top of $10.50 on Friday when the quality was none too good. Some East Texas feeder pigs sold at $9.25.

There were no sheep on the market.

TEXAS CASH GRAIN.

FORT WORTH, Aug. 20. (AP)—Export bids for wheat were a little higher Saturday and milling grain brought about a cent more than on Friday. Corn, oats milo and kaffir, all registered lower values on the Fort Worth cash grain market as the week closed. Exporters were bidding eight to nine cents over Chicago September or $1.48¾ to $1.49¾, basis No. 1 hard wheat delivered at Texas gulf ports.

Receipts Friday were: Wheat 14 cars, corn six, oats three and sorghums eight cars.

CAL AND MRS. PLAN BIG LARK

Coolidges to Make Trip To Yellowstone Park

By Universal Service.

RAPID CITY, S. D., Aug. 20.—With all the enthusiasm of a pair of kids on a lark, President and Mrs. Coolidge tonight completed their preparations for their vacation tour to Yellowstone park.

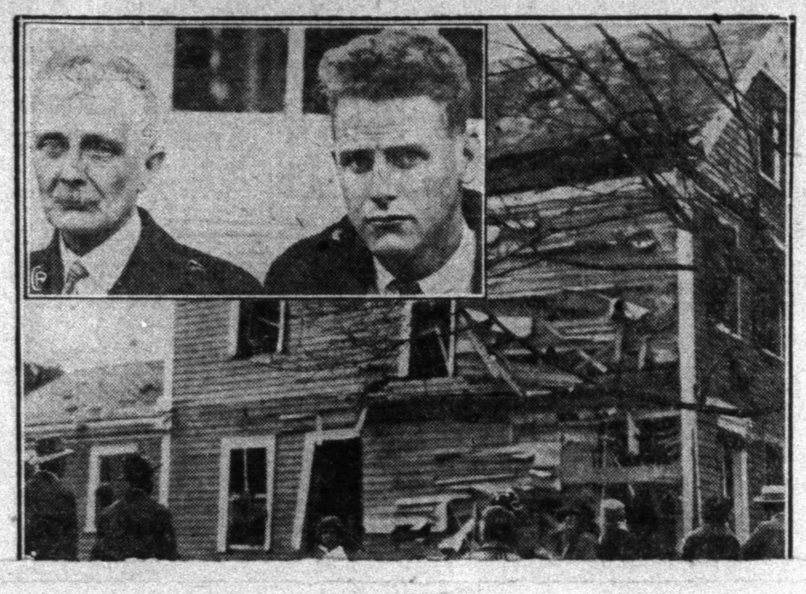

For them—especially the president—it will be a vacation within a vacation. Since coming here early in June for his summer "vacation" President Coolidge has found a lot of fun in fishing and horseback riding but, in fact, he has worked practically as hard as if he had been at his desk in Washington.

Five days every week he has motored over the 32 miles of mountain roadway to his executive offices here and transacted the great volume of routine work that has come to him from all the government departments at Washington in the famous leather mail pouch used by all presidents since Washington.

STATE GUARD CAMP CLOSES

Troops at Camp Homeward Bound

HOUSTON, Aug. 20, (AP)—Erect of carriage, faces tanned by the sun and brisk sea breezes of South Texas, more than 5000 troops of the 36th division, Texas national guard, passed through Houston Saturday afternoon homeward bound to the far corners of Texas after 15 days of work and play at the annual summer encampment of the division at Camp Palacios.

Major General John A. Hulen, commanding the division, declared that the camp was the best from the standpoint of training that the national guard of Texas had ever staged.

While the mission of the camp this year was to train the smaller units such as companies, batteries and air squadron in combat tactics the division made what the officers said was a splendid showing in reviews. No more time than was necessary was devoted to drill, but the appearance of the men at the divisional reviews drew praise from high army officials and from Governor Dan Moody who spent three days in camp with the division of which he is the com-

Red river. Mr. Adkins will also investigate a similar structure which runs northeast from the central mineral region, off toward Lampasas. This latter "bend arch" has never been explored. It is regarded as possible that other structures of this kind may be found extending in other directions from the central mineral region. It will take Mr. Adkins several weeks to make this survey.

The bureau of economic geology also recently completed a survey of Tom Green county, and at present G. G. Henderson, temporarily employed by the bureau, is tracing the San Angelo formation northward through Cooke county.

Rain at Haskell

HASKELL, Aug. 20.—Beginning at 4 o'clock Saturday morning a slow steady rain fell all day long over the biggest portion of Haskell county. This is a boon to the farmers as rain was badly needed for the splendid all round crop now in the making.

Ohio Street-Where Wichita Falls Business Got Its Start-Has Interesting History

Out of some 300 streets in Wichita Falls, Ohio avenue is one with a history. Ohio was the principal business street when Indiana and Scott avenues were still residential thoroughfares "out in town."

Many of the city's largest and most substantial concerns had their beginnings in buildings along Ohio. Some of them have moved farther uptown but today one finds that Ohio avenue ranks among the leaders in point of popularity with shoppers, commercial visitors to the city and pleasure seekers.

Ohio was not the scene of the first business district, a few blocks on the north side of the river having originally been set aside as the business center of the then budding village, but its location soon attracted the early builders and the story of the growth and development of Ohio avenue is almost the story of the growth of Wichita Falls from its very beginning.

An Attractive Street.

Maintenance of the attractive appearance of the street is probably without parallel in a Texas city. There is probably not another city in the state which can boast of an "oldest" business street with the modern, well kept and clean appearance which characterizes Ohio avenue.

The "wild" incidents of Wichita Falls' early days have been told and re-told. A man was hanged once at Seventh and Ohio. A bank on the street was cleaned out by Oklahoma desperadoes. There were some killings and no few brawls. Summed up, Ohio avenue had an interesting albeit somewhat powder-burned and sanguinary early existence.

But the most romantic tales are untold. They are the stories of the first few years in this city's climb to its present commanding position in the state and nation's commercial and business life.

As the early builders were attracted to Ohio avenue because of its location, so has it maintained its importance as a commercial thoroughfare to the present time. All firms on the street are within easy walking distance of the union station. The city hall and postoffice are on the avenue as well as several of the city's leading hotels.

The location of the street has been responsible for the ever present activity of improving the buildings and constructing new ones. The buying public simply demands buying places on Ohio and as a result the firms located there are stable and permanent as well as convenient and modern.

Many New Buildings.

There were two great periods of building and one lesser one which resulted in the complete development of the street. From 1890 to 1895, 1912-13 and 1917-20 scores of structures were erected.

The City National bank, one of the strongest financial institutions, had its beginning on Ohio avenue, being first located in the Hines building at Seventh and Ohio. Later it built a five story building at Eighth and Ohio, which is now the eight story Holt hotel.

Those who constructed larger edifices on Ohio at various periods of its development included the names of Barwise, Bean, Lea, Everett, Hardy and others.

Ohio Street Way Back When —

There's a decided contrast between the scene above and Ohio street as it is today. This picture was taken a quarter of a century ago when horses on the streets were not curiosities to be commented about. Ohio street was a thriving business thoroughfare even in the good old days. And it has kept abreast the progress of Wichita Falls during the years that have intervened since this photograph was taken.

TIRE REPAIRS NOT A CINCH

Experts and Fine Machinery Are Essentials

"Any man or any establishment can repair a tire as good as we can," says Gene Segall, owner of the Segall Tire company, "if he has the $6000 worth of Heintz electrical vulcanizing machinery and the expert workers that we have." This sounds easy enough to the ordinary layman, but when $6000 is invested to properly care for a small tire repair, and when a man must train for years and years to do it correctly the story takes on a different aspect.

In the Segall plant the Heintz electrical system is used. It is the official Goodyear system and is fully endorsed by the Goodyear company. In the repairing of the tires all Goodyear materials are used exclusively. The battery of seven Heintz tire molds range in size from three to 10 inches in diameter and the proces sof curing takes from two to five hours.

"We use the same system in repairing our tires that is used by the Goodyear Tire company in the the Goodyear Tire Co., in the making of their tires," says Mr. Segall. "The rubber is the same material and is so cooked to form a perfect blend with the original rubber of the tires. Even to the "cushioning" of the repair is done as the factory does it so that any jolt to the tire will be absorbed by the softer and more flexible rubber. When the repair is being made the Segall Tire company nameplate is made into our mold to come out on the tire; should that repair prove unsatisfactory the owner would know exactly where the work was done."

Mr. Otis H. Cook, for more than 10 years an authority on rubber and tire repairs, is in complete charge of the Segall repair department. Mr. Cook is a graduate of the Goodyear factory, at Akron, Ohio, and has learned through experience the value and character of all makes of tires.

"Be sure to tell them," said Mr. Segall to the writer, "that because of this better equipment and more capable help that we can do better work at the lowest price. And too, that more people ride on Goodyear tires than on any other kind."

Two Men Lose $3825 In Austin Hijacking

AUSTIN, Aug. 20. (AP)—Two men in overalls held up D. Winders and his nephew, Hubert Winders of Shreveport, La., at the point of a pistol and robbed them of $3825, they reported to the sheriff's office last night. The Winders said the holdup was about 10 miles south of Austin.

FIRST BOTTLER OF COCA COLA

Biedenharms Paved Way In Beverage

The curious populace, having answered such questions as "Who crossed the ocean in an airplane first?" and who blew the first soap bubble?" and what not, has seemingly left unanswered a question that pertains to one of their favorite picnic and ball game refreshments. Which is, "Who bottled the first bottle of Coca Cola?"

J. W. Heskett, foreman of the Coca Cola Bottling works, 418 Ohio, claims that Joe Biedenharn brother of A. M. Biedenharn, manager of the local plant, who is in charge of the bottling works in Monroe, La., also owned by the Biedenharn brothers, produced the first bottle of the national refreshment while in Monroe in 1890. Coca Cola was then in its national infancy, and hadn't emerged from the stage of being served over the soda fountain via the crushed ice route. Now it is the guardian angel of every baseball game, hamburger stand, or family picnic.

The bottling works here, under the management of A. M. Beidenharn, was established several years ago, and is one of a series of plants throughout Texas and Louisiana owned by the Biedenharn brothers. Since the old days when capping the bottles was a slow process, this plant has kept abreast of the times, and is now equipped with standard bottling machines capable of bottling 90 bottles per minute.

Trade is not confined to this territory, officials said, the company being headquarters for a trade territory extending over Wichita, Clay, and Archer counties.

Diamond Sales Are Increased

Shain Jewelry Store Has Loan Department

Qualified through a well established and trustworthy loan department, the Shain Jewelry store, 718 Ohio, has, since its establishment in 1920, been enabled to take care of an increasing volume of diamond trade, according to M. Shain, owner. Many stones of value, which of necessity are left in the possession of the store, can be bought at second-hand prices, leaving the purchaser in possession of an item of value worth many times its purchase price. While the loan department of the store is not a foundation of the business, Mr. Shain said, it acts as a bulwark to the diamond trade, which is daily increasing.

The store specializes in diamonds, watches of all makes, and a luggage department, Mr. Shain said. One half of the store is given over to a well stocked department of trunks, hand bags, and all forms of leather goods.

Golden Star Has Auspicious Start

Uniting in business after several years experience in the same fields, James Costantars, formerly with the Manhattan Cafe in San Antonio, and Steve Anthony, owner of Steve's Confectionary, established the Golden Star Candy shop and confectionary at Seventh and Ohio eight months ago, and have gradually built foundations for a growing business, according to business reports for the last few months. The joint owners have specialized in candy making and kindred lines for eight years.

The shop is well provided for a confectionary business, and has recently enlarged its capacity for the serving of sandwiches of all kinds, owners said.

BAILEY MOLINE IN EXPANSION

New Management Has Added Departments

Since its change in ownership on May 28, 1926, when the Bailey-Moline Hardware company, 810 Ohio, was purchased from J. L. Maxwell by C. B. Bailey, now president; A. C. Moline, vice-president, and Richard Nix, credit manager; expansion in various lines has resulted in the addition of a hotel and cafe department, a builders hardware department, and a department of hardware for farm trade, according to Richard Nix, one of the new owners.

Probably the two largest of these are the farm trade and the cafe and hotel departments, Mr. Nix said. In the former are found the Harvester company implements, tractors, threshing machines, Great Plains plows, grain drills, corn binders, mowers, and etc., which is made the more effective on account of its sub-department of repair materials for these implements. A stock of these materials, valued at thousands of dollars and said to be the largest in Northwest Texas, is maintained in this store, Mr. Nix said.

The hotel and cafe department is in charge of R. L. Maiaby, who has perfected arrangements for the manufacture of any conceivable hotel or cafe hardware necessity, it was said.

The builders hardware department, stocked with highly priced samples, is under the direct supervision of D. A. Tickell, and growth in this field has been instantaneous, officials said.

According to Mr. Nix, plans are now being formulated to boost a department of dairy supplies in the store, and several articles, including cream separators, and novel dairy cans, have already arrived to form the nucleus of the new department.

CHAIN STARTED ON OHIO AVE.

Piggly Wiggly's First Store On Ohio

Ohio street was chosen for the location of the first Piggly Wiggly store opened in Wichita Falls. This store was opened at 811 Ohio street about three and a half years ago.

While this store remains at the same location, Piggly Wiggly has been doing some real expanding. Instead of the one store, there are now eleven Piggly Wiggly stores in Wichita Falls—all patterned by the original store which started on Ohio and, according to the management, the store on Ohio has shown a constant increase in business since the month it was opened.

American housewives are aware of the advantages offered by the self help groceries, according to O. G. Flemister, president of the Wichita Piggly Wiggly company, who states that this is proven by the rapid expansion of Piggly Wiggly stores here and throughout the country.

"Our stores are meant to make shopping a pleasure rather than a drudgery," Mr. Flemister continued. "Our stores make possible the quickest possible selection of what the patron wants. And the housewife may choose precisely what she desires at the price she wishes to pay and in the quantity she needs without selling arguments being presented to influence her purchase. The stocks in our stores are more complete than those found in the average grocery store and we try to have upon our shelves every item or brand the housewife may desire. We sell nationally advertised products and never try to substitute inferior products. We now have our Piggly Wiggly stores located in Wichita Falls so that no matter where the housewife may live there is one near enough to offer a convenient and economical trading place—and we intend to keep abreast the growth of the town in our operations at all times."

There are now approximately 3900 Piggly Wiggly stores in operation throughout the country. These stores represent one of the largest retail outlets for food products in the entire world.

Planes Aid in Hunt For Man In Desert

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 20. (AP)—Two Douglas transport planes hopped off today from Fort Sam Houston to join in the search for Alfred C. Menard, shell shocked war veteran, reported lost in the Arizona desert.

The planes took off on war department instructions to search Phoenix as quickly as possible and spare no efforts to locate the wanderer.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20. (AP)—An active and excited advance in the cotton market today followed publication of the government's report on the activities of boll weevil and other insects in the south, all months making new high records for the season. December contracts sold up to 21.20 and March to 21.36, net advances of 72 to 80 points on the general list. The close was only a few points off from the best under realizing, with the final tone steady, at net gains of 62 to 75 points.

The market opened firm at an advance of 27 to 38 points under more or less general buying. A good deal of realizing at the initial prices was absorbed on setbacks of a few points, the market showing increased strength and activity after publication of the boll weevil report. This was regarded as indicating a heavy infestation of the insect, particularly in Alabama, Mississippi, and South Carolina, and evidently was considered even more bullish than anticipated.

In addition to heavy covering by recent sellers there was a broadening demand from trade and commission houses, October deliveries selling up to 20.95 and January to 21.32, these prices representing advances of about $3.50 to $4.00 per bale over the closing quotations yesterday and of more than 2¼ cents a pound above the low level touched on the reactions late last week.

The increasingly serious view of the boll weevil situation, no doubt inspired expectations of smaller crop estimates, and buying was reported in anticipation that end-August condition and yield figures would show a considerable falling off as compared with the end-July reports.

Except for comparatively low temperatures, the weather news was considered somewhat more favorable, and may have increased the disposition to take profits on the initial advance, but the later market appeared to be entirely dominated by the boll weevil news.

The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 69,000 bales, against 37,000 last year and 32,000 two years ago.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 20. (AP)—The government's tenth weevil report showing heavy infestation and serious damage to crops as early as August 1, was even more bullish than traders expected and as a result cotton prices soared to new highs for the season, December sold up to 21.02, compared with 20.30, yesterday's closing figure and 20.56, the high points of August 9. The option closed at the high, with the general market closing steady at net advances of 70 to 72 points.

Despite rather poor Liverpool cables first trades showed gains of 1 to 20 points due mainly to expectations of a bullish report. The market continued to advance until by the end of the first hour October reached 20.41 and December 20.63, 52 to 53 points above the previous close.

In second hour, after the report was issued, the market became extremely active and all months climbed upward, making new highs in the final trading with October at 20.79, and December 21.03, a net gain of approximately $3.50 a bale over the previous close.

Exports for the day totaled 28,249 bales.

COTTON GOODS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20. (AP)—The gray goods market was exceptionally active for Saturday. Large sales were made. Various lower prices were withdrawn and advances were paid on a few constructions. The burlap market was fairly active, sales of spots and afloats going through at advances. Calcutta cables reported the bazaar unchanged to slightly firmer. The Yokohama raw silk market was quiet after the remarkable 50-yen advance of the previous day. A 10-yen recession failed to affect prices here.

ALAMO—The Crockett county commissioners court is planning to spend $145,000 on road building.

Durant's Enthusiasm Influences Strong Tone in Stock Market Circles On Wall Street

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—William C. Durant's highly enthusiastic outlook, as expressed prior to his taking a vacation abroad, together with expectation of a 3 per cent call money rate soon influenced further strength in the stock market in yesterday's half session. General Motors held the leadership and was joined in its advance by Du Pont, General Electric, International Combustion and other good industrials. The rails remained rather dull and a little soft while the oil shares dipped a little lower. Private crop estimates of a bullish nature were responsible for enhanced bullishness of the trading community and active options added to their gains. Sterling featured a rather listless foreign exchange market in a move to its high level of the year, while the grain markets remained irregular.

In expressing belief that the greatest bull market ever known was ahead, William C. Durant made it quite plain that he meant for good stocks. He particularly emphasized "good" and while he did not say so it was quite evident that he had in mind some recent stock market developments threatening another Manhattan Electric cataclysm. All stocks on the stock exchange are "good" at certain prices but there is a price territory in which even those with the largest assets and greatest earning power become "bad." The real "bad" stocks, however, are those which are technically cornered so that the number of shares available for trading is a factor that must be considered fully as much as earning power, etc., in a selective market such as now experienced.

New Haven moved fractionally higher under influence of the dividend forecast of Director Hadley, while other railroad stocks remained listless and a trifle softer. The New Haven's refunding program has the whole-hearted support of all in the banking and brokerage communities. The progress of the last two years, in so far as Wall sstreet is concerned, is proof positive of the success of the new management's program of rehabilitation. With the government debt out of the way, it is stressed, the management will be able to proceed more vigorously with its expansion and betterment schedule. To the old timers in the street the talk of a New Haven dividend is just a little more of a shock than is that concerning the Erie. They never expected to live to see such developments, but now have reason for strong hope that they will read of dividend payments on both these stocks entirely as a result of developments of the last 24 months.

"Bill" Skelly, the wildest bull of the oil game, was the latest to comment on the possibility of improvement in the industry, but his stock slid off fractionally with the rest despite the wire advices to "buy" that came through from the southwest about the same ime as his interview appeared on the tickers. "Bill" talked of a return to normalcy, but his words lost part of their potential influence in that the stock market world is beginning to believe that "normalcy" for oil men constitutes the getting of the oil out of the land no matter at what cost to others or to the industry as a whole.

International Combustion proved one of the "good stocks" [illegible] continu[illegible] here se[illegible] session. [illegible]s buyi[illegible] ray wa[illegible] record [illegible] count [illegible] side wit[illegible] two yea[illegible]

NEW YORK, Aug. 20. (AP)— Strength and activity of a select group of motor shares overshadowed all other developments in today's brief session of the stock market. The general list continued to drift, although the undertone was fairly firm, and several new high records were established. Trading was only moderate in volume.

Speculation for the advance derived its chief impetus today from the publication of bullish interviews by William C. Durant, automobile manufacturer and stock market operator and Charles E. Mitchell, president of the National City bank. Durant's statement that another stock sllp-up of General Motors might be necessary in the near future stimulated the demand for that stock, the old issue crossing 231 to a new high record and the new "When issued" stock selling above 137. Chrysler crossed 68 to a new top and moderate gains were recorded by Moon, Nash and Jordan Motors.

Pools, faced with the prospect of easy money rates for some time to come, renewed operations in a number of specialties.

At the close of the market, the average of 20 leading industrial issues was again in new high ground, the day's gain being slightly more than half a point.

Rail shares were rather quiet, with price changes narrow and unimportant.

Foreign exchange trading was quiet with few important rate changes. Demand sterling ruled slightly firmer around $4.85 15-16, and French francs were steady just under 3.92 cents. Portuguese escudos fell below 4 cents, duplicating the year's low level.

Officers Search For Body of Human Hand

DENTON, Aug. 20. (AP)—Finding of a partly decomposed human hand in a meadow near here Saturday has started officers searching for a shallow grave in which may be found the remainder of the body.

The find was made by former Sheriff Jim Goode and Dr. A. C. Baird of Denton. They believe the hand was pulled from a body buried in a shallow grave in the meadow. The men were baling hay when the find was made.

Livestock

TEXAS LIVESTOCK.

FORT WORTH, Aug. 20. (AP)—Quick sale of th ousual light week-end run characterized the Fort Worth livestock market on Saturday. Receipts were estimated at 300 cattle, 250 calves and 300 hogs.

Cattle supplies were mainly cows of poor grades and a small supply of heifers and yearlings. Cows were all of the canner and cutter variety and sold to the packers at prices ranging from $3.50 to $4.65. The largest draft of the day was a lot of 11 cows weighing 620 pounds that brought $4.65.

A few head of butcher bulls of weights up to 1382 pounds sold at $5.75@5.85. A few scattering bulls sold at $4.60 and up to $5.00.

One load of calves in the 216 pound class was good enough to sell for $10.00. The remainder of the 250 calves sold at from $4.00 to $9.00 with a full load at $9.00 and also a half load.

The hog market appeared steady through a load of heavy butchers sold at $9.75, a price somewhat above the market range. The few light butchers in sight were good enough to bring only $10.25 against a top of $10.50 on Friday when the quality was none too good. Some East Texas feeder pigs sold at $9.75.

There were no sheep on the market.

These Four Wichitans Sell Insurance

MRS. NORENE REASER

H. M. HARRIS

MRS. CLARA ROWAN MANNING

CLYDE JACKSON

Changes in the policies of the Texas Employers' Insurance association, and the Employers' Casualty company with regard to the nature of insurance carried by both concerns have been announced by H. M. Martin, district manager of both companies. In the future both organizations which have heretofore specialized in casualty lines, will write general fire insurance on the same basis as applied to casualty lines of insurance. The change is now in effect.

Continuing the discussion of the change Mr. Harris said:

"Within the past 12 years, the Texas Employers' Insurance association and the Employers' Casualty company have returned to policy holders in Texas more than $2,000,000 in actual cash savings on the cost of different forms of casualty insurance — particularly on workmen's compensation.

"We have been asked so many hundreds of times by our assureds why we could not handle their fire insurance on the same economical basis on which we handle their other lines that these questions have crystallized into a demand. In response to this demand, in line with our well established policy of direct personal insurance service, at a reduced cost, we have established a department of fire insurance, and we are now in position to write this form of protection on the same direct plan which has enabled us to return dividends of 16 2-3 per cent on other lines, to our policy holders for the past six years.

"With the one thought of reducing our fire loss ratio to a minimum, which means increased savings to the policy holder, we are writing only the better and more desirable classes of fire risks, and under no consideration will we accept any forms of special or unusual hazards.

"In our Wichita Falls district office, 803-804 City National bank building, where we maintain fully equipped service departments for claims, payrolls and audits, we have four special representatives who are presenting the merits of our fire insurance, as well as other lines, to the insuring public."

Coolidges to Make Trip To Yellowstone Park

By Universal Service.

RAPID CITY, S. D., Aug. 20.—With all the enthusiasm of a pair of kids on a lark, President and Mrs. Coolidge tonight completed their preparations for their vacation tour to Yellowstone park.

For them—especially the president—it will be a vacation within a vacation. Since coming here early in June for his summer "vacation" President Coolidge has found a lot of fun in fishing and horseback riding but, in fact, he has worked practically as hard as if he had been at his desk in Washington.

Five days every week he has motored over the 32 miles of mountain roadway to his executive offices here and transacted the great volume of routine work that has come to him from all the government departments at Washington in the famous leather mail pouch used by all presidents since Washington.

STATE GUARD CAMP CLOSES

Troops at Camp Homeward Bound

HOUSTON, Aug. 20. (AP)—Erect of carriage, faces tanned by the sun and brisk sea breezes of South Texas, more than 5000 troops of the 36th division, Texas national guard, passed through Houston Saturday afternoon homeward bound to the far corners of Texas after 15 days of work and play at the annual summer encampment of the division at Camp Palacios.

Major General John A. Hulen, commanding the division, declared that the camp was the best from the standpoint of training that the national guard of Texas had ever staged.

While the mission of the camp this year was to train the smaller units such as companies, batteries and air squadron in combat tactics the division made what the officers said was a splendid showing in reviews. No more time than was necessary was devoted to drill, but the appearance of the men at the divisional reviews drew praise from high army officials and from

Red river. Mr. Adkins will also investigate a similar structure which runs northeast from the central mineral region, off toward Lampasas. This latter "bend arch" has never been explored. It is regarded as possible that other structures of this kind may be found extending in other directions from the central mineral region. It will take Mr. Adkins several weeks to make this survey.

The bureau of economic geology also recently completed a survey of Tom Green county, and at present G. G. Henderson, temporarily employed by the bureau, is tracing the San Angelo formation northward through Cooke county.

Rain at Haskell

HASKELL, Aug. 20.—Beginning at 4 o'clock Saturday morning a slow steady rain fell all day long over the biggest portion of Haskell county. This is a boon to the farmers as rain was badly needed for the splendid all round crop now in the making.

WOLFF BROS. COVER SECTION

Tobacco Wholesalers Do Big Volume

Within 10 years of the establishment of the business here, the Wolff Brothers, 724 Ohio, wholesale dealers in cigars and all equipments for the smoker, have spread the volume of their trade to such an extent that traveling salesmen of the concern now operate within a radius of 75 miles of Wichita Falls, and orders from New Mexico and adjoining states are received daily, according to H. D. Wolff, one of the three owners.

The firm, while specializing in wholesale trade of the YB, Lovera, Portina and Ruskin cigars, also handles pipes, tobaccos, confections and candies, Mr. Wolff said. The retail trade of the firm is negligible, amounting to about only two per cent of the aggregate business.

M. J. Wolff acts in the capacity of traveling salesman for the immediate Wichita territory, while M. E. and H. D. Wolff manage the local business and superintend out-of-town and state shipments.

Nationalist Retreat Threatens to Be Rout

By Universal Service.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 20.—The nationalist retreat before the forces of the north threatens to develop into a rout. More than 100,000 Chinese are retiring from the region of the Yangtse in the direction of Shainghai. More than 15,000 of them passed Shanghai today.

Many of the fleeing thousands are civilian refugees from Nanking who are hurrying to safety with all their movable possessions.

Five States Buy Auto Supplies From Gaines Motor Supply Co.

Distribution of automobile parts of all kinds to Wichita and surrounding counties, to southern Oklahoma, Mississippi, Kansas and New Mexico, has built one Wichita Falls concern to a point where the annual business totals $150,000, according to Milton J. Gaines, joint owner of the Gaines Motor Supply company, 916 Ohio. The company carries a stock of parts valued at $50,000, and mountains a staff of salesmen throughout this region and Northwest Texas, Mr. Gaines said.

Mr. Gaines and his brothers opened their business here in 1919 after completing several years experience in the journalistic field in Dallas, where both were connected with the circulation department of the Dallas Times-Herald, and the Journal. Milton J. Gaines supervises the business proper, assisted by his brother, who, in the capacity of sales manager, has built up an enviable record.

The company handles, in addition to its stock of supplies, special makes of trucks and tractors, the latter of which is a recent addition to the capacity of the store.

Hardware Store Enjoys Growth

Wichita Hardware Co. In 18th Year Here

With an addition of four departments to the regular line of hardware carried by the firm, progress of the Wichita Hardware company, 714-16 Ohio, in the last few years has justified an increase of these departments and lent stability to the volume of business, according to L. R. Scheurer, junior member of the firm. The business was inaugurated in 1909 with a meager stock of shelf and builders hardware, maintained at 804-6 Ohio. Moving to its new location in 1921 the department of plumbing supplies, a harness shop, a tin shop, and a lock and gun shop were added.

PROGRESS

About three and a half years ago the people of Wichita Falls were invited to inspect a Piggly Wiggly store.

This first Piggly Wiggly store was opened to the public at 811 Ohio street.

And it brought to Wichita Falls a revolution of grocery merchandising. It enabled the people of Wichita Falls to buy groceries of the highest quality at the lowest prices—unbothered by clerks urging them to buy.

Piggly Wiggly was the pioneer in bringing lower costs for high grade food products.

That this policy was appreciated is indicated that the Piggly Wiggly store at 811 Ohio street is still in operation—and has been joined with TEN OTHER PIGGLY WIGGLY STORES now located at convenient shopping locations throughout the city.

And Piggly Wiggly stores are still leading in giving the people of this territory the best values and the lowest prices they have ever known.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20. (AP)—An active and excited advance in the cotton market today followed publication of the government's report on the activities of boll weevil and other insects in the south, all months making new high records for the season. December contracts sold up to 21.20 and March to 21.36, net advances of 72 to 86 points on the general list. The close was only a few points off from the best under realizing, with the final tone steady, at net gains of 62 to 75 points.

The market opened firm at an advance of 27 to 38 points under more or less general buying. A good deal of realizing at the initial prices was absorbed on setbacks of a few points, the market showing increased strength and activity after publication of the boll weevil report. This was regarded as indicating a heavy infestation of the insect, particularly in Alabama, Mississippi, and South Carolina, and evidently was considered even more bullish than anticipated.

In addition to heavy covering by recent sellers there was a broadening demand from trade and commission houses, October deliveries selling up to 20.95 and January to 21.22, these prices representing advances of about $3.50 to $4.00 per bale over the closing quotations yesterday and of more than 2¼ cents a pound above the low level touched on the reactions late last week.

The increasingly serious view of the boll weevil situation, no doubt inspired expectations of smaller crop estimates and buying was reported in anticipation that end-August condition and yield figures would show a considerable falling off as compared with the end-July reports.

Except for comparatively low temperatures, the weather news was considered somewhat more favorable, and may have increased the disposition to take profits on the initial advance, but the later market appeared to be entirely dominated by the boll weevil news.

The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 60,000 bales, against 37,000 last year and 32,000 two years ago.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 20. (AP)— The government's tenth weevil report showing heavy infestation and serious damage to crops as early as August 1, was the bullish than traders expected and as a result cotton prices soared to new highs for the season. December sold up to 21.63, compared with 20.36, yesterday's closing figure and 20.56, the high points of August 9. The option closed at the high, with the general market closing steady at net advances of 70 to 73 points.

Despite rather poor Liverpool cables final trades showed gains of 1 1to 20 points due mainly to expectations of a bullish report. The market continued to advance until by the end of the first hour October reached 20.41 and December 20.62, 12 to 35 points above the previous close.

In the second hour, after the report was issued, the market became extremely active and all months climbed upward, making new highs in the final trading with October at 20.79, and December 21.03, a net gain of approximately $3.50 a bale over the previous close.

Exports for the day totaled 28,249 bales.

COTTON GOODS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20. (AP)—The gray goods market was exceptionally active for Saturday. Large sales were made. Various lower prices were withdrawn and advances were paid on a few constructions. The burlap market was fairly active, sales of spots and afloats going through at advances. Calcutta cables reported the bazaar unchanged to slightly firmer. The Yokohama raw silk market was quiet after the remarkable 50-yen advance of the previous day. A 10-yen recession failed to affect prices here.

Durant's Enthusiasm Influences Strong Tone in Stock Market Circles On Wall Street

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—William C. Durant's highly enthusiastic outlook, as expressed prior to his taking a vacation abroad, together with expectation of a 3 per cent call money rate soon influenced further strength in the stock market in yesterday's half session. General Motors held the leadership and was joined in its advance by Du Pont, General Electric, International Combustion and other good industrials. The rails remained rather dull and a little soft while the oil shares dipped a little lower. Private crop estimates of a bullish nature were responsible for enhanced bullishness of the trading community and active options added to their gains. Sterling featured a rather listless foreign exchange market in a move to its high level of the year, while the grain markets remained irregular.

In expressing belief that the greatest bull market ever known was ahead, William C. Durant made it quite plain that he meant for good stocks. He particularly emphasized "good" and while he did not say so it was quite evident that he had in mind some recent stock market developments threatening another Manhattan Electric cataclysm. All stocks on the stock exchange are "good" at certain prices but there is a price territory in which even those with the largest assets and greatest earning power become "bad." The real "bad" stocks, however, are those which are technically cornered so that the number of shares available for trading is a factor that must be considered fully as much as earning power, etc., in a selective market such as now experienced.

New Haven moved fractionally higher under influence of the dividend forecast of Director Hadley, while other railroad stocks remained listless and a trifle softer. The New Haven's refunding program has the whole-hearted support of all in the banking and brokerage communities. The progress of the last two years, in so far as Wall sstreet is concerned, is proof positive of the success of the new management's program of rehabilitation. With the government debt out of the way, it is stressed, the management will be able to proceed more vigorously with its expansion and betterment schedule. To the old timers in the street the talk of a New Haven dividend is just a little more of a shock than is that concerning the Erie. They never expected to live to see such developments, but now have reason for strong hope that they will read of dividend payments on both these stocks entirely as a result of developments of the last 24 months.

"Bill" Skelly, the wildest bull of the oil game, was the latest to comment on the possibility of improvement in the industry, but his stock slid off fractionally with the rest despite the wire advices to "buy" that came through from the southwest about the same time as his interview appeared on the tickers. "Bill" talked of a return to normalcy, but his words lost part of their potential influence in that the stock market world is beginning to believe that "normalcy" for oil men constitutes the getting of the oil out of the land no matter at what cost to others or to the industry as a whole.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20. (AP)— Strength and activity of a select group of motor shares overshadowed all other developments in today's brief session of the stock market. The general list continued to drift, although the undertone was fairly firm, and several new high records were established. Trading was only moderate in volume.

Speculation for the advance derived its chief impetus today from the publication of bullish interviews by William C. Durant, automobile manufacturer and stock market operator and Charles E. Mitchell, president of the National City bank. Durant's statement that another stock slip-up of General Motors might be necessary in the near future stimulated the demand for that stock, the old issue crossing 221 to a new high record and the new "When issued" stock selling above 117. Chrysler crossed 56 to a new top and moderate gains were recorded by Mack, Nash and Jordan Motors.

Pools, faced with the prospect of easy money rates for some time to come, renewed operations in a number of specialties.

At the close of the market, the average of 20 leading industrial issues was again in new high ground, the day's gain being slightly more than half a point.

Rail shares were rather quiet, with price changes narrow and unimportant.

Foreign exchange trading was quiet with few important rate changes. Demand sterling ruled slightly firmer around 4.85 15-16, and French francs were steady just under 3.92 cents. Portuguese escudos fell below 5 cents, duplicating the year's low level.

Officers Search For Body of Human Hand

DENTON, Aug. 20. (AP)—Finding of a partly decomposed human hand in a meadow near here Saturday has started officers searching for a shallow grave in which may be found the remainder of the body.

The find was made by former Sheriff Jim Goode and Dr. A. C. Baird of Denton. They believe the hand was pulled from a body buried in a shallow grave in the meadow. The men were baling hay when the find was made.

Airships of the Royal Air Navigation Co. of Holland flew 536,868 miles in 6611 flying hours, last year.

Livestock

TEXAS LIVESTOCK.

FORT WORTH, Aug. 20. (AP)—Quick sale of th usual light week-end run characterized the Fort Worth livestock market on Saturday. Receipts were estimated at 200 cattle, 250 calves and 300 hogs.

Cattle supplies were mainly cows of poor grades and a small supply of heifers and yearlings. Cows were all of the canner and cutter variety and sold to the packers at prices ranging from $3.50 to $4.65. The largest draft of the day was a lot of 11 cows weighing 630 pounds that brought $4.65.

A few head of butcher bulls of weights up to 1382 pounds sold at $5.75@5.85. A few scattering bulls sold at $4.60 and up to $5.00.

One load of calves in the 216 pound class was good enough to sell for $10.00. The remainder of the 250 calves sold at from $4.00 to $9.00 with a full load at $9.00 and also a half load.

The hog market appeared steady through a load of heavy butchers sold at $9.75, a price somewhat above the market range. The few light butchers in sight were good enough to bring only $10.25 against a top of $10.50 on Friday when the quality was none too good. Some East Texas feeder pigs sold at $9.75.

There were no sheep on the market.

Manages Car Firm

Bob Cornelison is the genial manager of McFall Brothers, local dealers in Dodge Brothers automobiles. He has been in the automobile business since that industry was in it's infancy. (And he isn't so old, at that—he just started in his chosen profession when he was young).

Right now he says that his biggest problem is in securing enough of the new Dodge models to meet the demand. But deliveries are getting better all the time and that problem will soon be a thing of the past.

Mr. Cornelison knows automobiles from "A" to "Z" and he is generally found at the McFall salesroom at 817-19 Ohio street.

By Universal Service.

RAPID CITY, S. D., Aug. 20.—With all the enthusiasm of a pair of kids on a lark, President and Mrs. Coolidge tonight completed their preparations for their vacation tour to Yellowstone park.

For them—especially the president—it will be a vacation within a vacation. Since coming here early in June for his summer "vacation" President Coolidge has found a lot of fun in fishing and horseback riding but, in fact, he has worked practically as hard as if he had been at his desk in Washington.

Five days every week he has motored over the 32 miles of mountain roadway to his executive offices here and transacted the great volume of routine work that has come to him from all the government departments at Washington in the famous leather mail pouch used by all presidents since Washington.

STATE GUARD CAMP CLOSES

Troops at Camp Homeward Bound

HOUSTON, Aug. 20. (AP)—Erect of carriage, faces tanned by the sun and brisk sea breezes of South Texas, more than 5000 troops of the 36th division, Texas national guard, passed through Houston Saturday afternoon homeward bound to the far corners of Texas after 15 days of work and play at the annual summer encampment of the division at Camp Palacios.

Major General John A. Hulen, commanding the division, declared that the camp was the best from the standpoint of training that the national guard of Texas had ever staged.

While the mission of the camp this year was to train the smaller units such as companies, batteries and air squadron in combat tactics the division made what the officers said was a splendid showing in reviews. No more time than was necessary was devoted to drill, but the appearance of the men at the divisional reviews drew praise from high army officials and from

Red river. Mr. Adkins will also investigate a similar structure which runs northeast from the central mineral region, off toward Lampasas. This latter "bend arch" has never been explored. It is regarded as possible that other structures of this kind may be found extending in other directions from the central mineral region. It will take Mr. Adkins several weeks to make this survey.

The bureau of economic geology also recently completed a survey of Tom Green county, and at present G. G. Henderson, temporarily employed by the bureau, is tracing the San Angelo formation northward through Cooke county.

Rain at Haskell

HASKELL, Aug. 20.—Beginning at 4 o'clock Saturday morning a slow steady rain fell all day long over the biggest portion of Haskell county. This is a boon to the farmers as rain was badly needed for the splendid all round crop now in the making.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20. (AP)—An active and excited advance in the cotton market today followed publication of the government's report on the activities of boll weevil and other insects in the south, all months making new high records for the season. December contracts sold up to 21.20 and March to 21.36, net advances of 72 to 80 points on the general list. The close was only a few points off from the best under realizing, with the final tone steady, at net gains of 62 to 75 points.

The market opened firm at an advance of 27 to 38 points under more or less general buying. A good deal of realizing at the initial prices was absorbed on setbacks of a few points, the market showing increased strength and activity after publication of the boll weevil report. This was regarded as indicating a heavy infestation of the insect, particularly in Alabama, Mississippi, and South Carolina, and evidently was considered even more bullish than anticipated.

In addition to heavy covering by recent sellers there was a broadening demand from trade and commission houses, October deliveries selling up to 20.25 and January to 21.32, these prices represented advances of about $3.50 to $4.00 per bale over the closing quotations yesterday and of more than 2¼ cents a pound above the low level touched on the reactions late last week.

The increasingly serious view of the boll weevil situation, no doubt inspired expectations of smaller crop estimates, and buying was reported in anticipation that end-August condition and yield figures would show a considerable falling off as compared with the end-July reports.

Except for comparatively low temperatures, the weather news was considered somewhat more favorable, and may have increased the disposition to take profits on the initial advance, but the later market appeared to be entirely dominated by the boll weevil news.

The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 65,000 bales, against 27,000 last year and 32,000 two years ago.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 20. (AP)—The government's tenth weevil report showing heavy infestation and serious damage to crops as early as August 1, was even more bullish than traders expected and as a result cotton prices soared to new highs for the season. December sold up to 21.03, compared with 20.30, yesterday's closing figure and 20.56, the high points of August 9. The option closed at the high, with the general market closing steady at net advances of 70 to 73 points.

Despite rather poor Liverpool cables first trades showed gains of 1 to 30 points due mainly to expectations of a bullish report. The market continued to advance until by the end of the first hour October reached 20.41 and December 20.62, 22 to 33 points above the previous close.

In the second hour, after the report was issued, the market became extremely active and all months climbed upward, making new highs in the final trading with October at 20.79, and December 21.03, a net gain of approximately $3.50 a bale over the previous close.

Exports for the day totaled 28,349 bales.

WOOL MARKET.

BOSTON, Aug. 20. (AP)—Trading has been very quiet generally during the past week. The present quietness in raw wool is not an unusual development of this period, especially in view of heavy purchases made by the mills during recent weeks.

COTTON GOODS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20. (AP)—The gray goods market was exceptionally active for Saturday. Large sales were made. Various lower prices were withdrawn and advances were paid on a few constructions. The burlap market was fairly active, sales of spots and afloats going through at advances. Calcutta cables reported the bazaar unchanged to slightly firmer. The Yokohama raw silk market was quiet after the remarkable 10-yen advance of the previous day. A 10-yen recession failed to affect prices here.

Durant's Enthusiasm Influences Strong Tone in Stock Market Circles On Wall Street

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—William C. Durant's highly enthusiastic outlook, as expressed prior to his taking a vacation abroad, together with expectation of a 3 per cent call money rate soon influenced further strength in the stock market in yesterday's half session. General Motors held the leadership and was joined in its advance by Du Pont, General Electric, International Combustion and other good industrials. The rails remained rather dull and a little soft while the oil shares dipped a little lower. Private crop estimates of a bullish nature were responsible for enhanced bullishness of the trading community and active options added to their gains. Sterling featured a rather listless foreign exchange market in a move to its high level of the year, while the grain markets remained irregular.

In expressing belief that the greatest bull market ever known was ahead, William C. Durant made it quite plain that he meant for good stocks. He particularly emphasized "good" and while he did not say so it was quite evident that he had in mind some recent stock market developments threatening another Manhattan Electric cataclysm. All stocks on the stock exchange are "good" at certain prices but there is a price territory in which even those with the largest assets and greatest earning power become "bad." The real "bad" stocks, however, are those which are technically cornered so that the number of shares available for trading is a factor that must be considered fully as much as earning power, etc., in a selective market such as now experienced.

New Haven moved fractionally higher under influence of the dividend forecast of Director Hadley, while other railroad stocks remained listless and a trifle softer. The New Haven's refunding program has the whole-hearted support of all in the banking and brokerage communities. The progress of the last two years, in so far as Wall street is concerned, is proof positive of the success of the new management's program of rehabilitation. With the government debt out of the way, it is stressed, the management will be able to proceed more vigorously with its expansion and betterment schedule. To the old timers in the street the talk of a New Haven dividend is just a little more of a shock than is that concerning the Erie. They never expected to live to see such developments, but now have reason for strong hope that they will read of dividend payments on both these stocks entirely as a result of developments of the last 24 months.

"Bill" Skelly, the wildest bull of the oil game, was the latest to comment on the possibility of improvement in the industry, but his stock slid off fractionally with the rest despite the wire advices to "buy" that came through from the southwest about the same ime as his interview appeared on the tickers. "Bill" talked of a return to normalcy, but his words lost part of their potential influence in that the stock market world is beginning to believe that "normalcy" for oil men constitutes the getting of the oil out of the land no matter at what cost to others or to the industry as a whole.

International Combustion proved one of the "good stocks" as it registered a new high for the move on continuation of the important buying first told of

Livestock

TEXAS LIVESTOCK.

FORT WORTH, Aug. 20. (AP)—Quick sale of th ousual light week-end run characterized the Fort Worth livestock market on Saturday. Receipts were estimated at 300 cattle, 250 calves and 200 hogs.

Cattle supplies were mainly cows of poor grades and a small supply of heifers and yearlings. Cows were all of the canner and cutter variety and sold to the packers at prices ranging from $3.00 to $4.65. The largest draft of the day was a lot of 11 cows weighing 620 pounds that brought $4.65.

A few head of butcher bulls of weights up to 1382 pounds sold at $5.75@6.85. A few scattering bulls sold at $4.60 and up to $5.00.

One load of calves in the 216 pound class was good enough to sell for $10.00. The remainder of the 250 calves sold at from $4.00 to $9.00 with a full load at $9.00 and also a half load.

The hog market appeared steady through a load of heavy butchers sold at $9.75, a price somewhat above the market range. The few light butchers in sight were good enough to bring only $10.25 against a top of $10.50 on Friday when the quality was none too good. Some East Texas feeder pigs sold at $9.75.

There were no sheep on the market.

Total stock sales 722,600 shares.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20. (AP)— Strength and activity of a select group of motor shares overshadowed all other developments in today's brief session of the stock market. The general list continued to drift, although the undertone was fairly firm, and several new high records were established. Trading was only moderate in volume.

Speculation for the advance derived its chief impetus today from the publication of bullish interviews by William C. Durant, automobile manufacturer and stock market operator and Charles E. Mitchell, president of the National City bank. Durant's statement that another stock slip-up of General Motors might be necessary in the near future stimulated the demand for that stock, the old issue crossing 231 to a new high record and the new "When issued" stock selling above 117. Chrysler crossed 55 to a new top and moderate gains were recorded by Moon, Nash and Jordan Motors.

Pools, faced with the prospect of easy money rates for some time to come, renewed operations in a number of specialties.

At the close of the market, the average of 20 leading industrial issues was again in new high ground, the day's gain being slightly more than half a point.

Rail shares were rather quiet, with price changes narrow and unimportant.

Foreign exchange trading was quiet with few important rate changes. Demand sterling ruled slightly firmer around $4.85 13-16, and French francs were steady just under 3.92 cents. Portugese escudos fell below 5 cents, duplicating the year's low level.

Officers Search For Body of Human Hand

DENTON, Aug. 20. (AP)—Finding of a partly decomposed human hand in a meadow near here Saturday has started officers searching for a shallow grave in which may be found the remainder of the body.

The find was made by former Sheriff Jim Goode and Dr. A. C. Baird of Denton. They believe the hand was pulled from a body buried in a shallow grave in the meadow. The men were baling hay when the find was made.

SMITH'S NO 1 IS PIONEER

Group Headquarters At Ohio Establishment

The Smith Drug Store No. 1, headquarters for three drug stores of the same name in Wichita Falls, is one of the pioneer drug stores of the city, having been a landmark in the trade for about thirty years. In addition to the modern stock of drugs, the store has made a speciality of medical appliances, the only complete stock of which in the city is to be found here, according to J. M. Spoonts, general manager of the three stores.

The stores began their growth eight years ago when they were purchased by Ben E. Smith. Upon his removal to Fort Worth in July, 1926, store No. 4, at 612 8th street, was discontinued, and the stock distributed to the remaining stores, making an apparent addition to the original stocks.

Mr. Spoonts maintains his offices in the Ohio street store, supervising the activities of the others, one of which is located in the Kemp hotel building, the other at 901 Indiana.

E. W. Adams is manager of Store No. 1, 720 Ohio, and is also assistant to Mr. Spoonts. The Kemp hotel store No. 2, is in charge of L. E. Jones; while store No. 4, is managed by O. L. Tedrow.

Senator McFarlane, in company with a number of his friends from Graham, arrived here Friday afternoon to "see our Spudders play."

Williams Body Works Equipped To Care For All Auto Repair Work

Established only 30 days ago, the business condition of the Williams Garage and Body Works, 508 Ohio, successors to the Wichita Wheel and Body Works, bids fair to make itself known in the garage industry of Wichita Falls, owners of the concern said Saturday. With their store of equipment, and adequate mechanics, the garage is able at present to take care of any kind of job that pertains to the automobile, including top repairs, welding and body repairing, O. Williams, joint owner with C. E. Prewitt, said.

Two separate concerns, the welding shop managed by A. C. Flack, and the top repairs works of C. F. Watson, are independent of the Williams garage, but occupy the front positions of the garage in such a manner as to enable cooperation from the garage, Mr. Williams pointed out.

Mr. Williams was formerly owner of a garage at 506 Ohio, while Mr. Prewitt was formerly connected with the North Texas Coach company.

Retreading At Reeves Tire Co.

Shop Boasts Complete Set Of Equipment

Boasting of being the oldest tire shop in Wichita Falls, having added the vulcanizing and tire trade to the welding department eleven years ago, the Reeves Tire Shop, 621-23 Ohio adds another laurel in its crown by being the only shop here equipped to retread any and all balloon tires, according to W. B. Reeves Jr., son of the owner, and manager of the tire department. The fixtures of the vulcanizing department include twelve molds for retreading, which have been added to the firm with the increase in demand of trade.

In addition, this phase of the shop carries a complete stock of tires, specializing in the Kenyon and the Denver, the latter of which is reaching record sales in competition with mail order house tires, Mr. Reeves said.

The business started seventeen years ago as a welding shop, operated by the present owner of the plant, W. B. Reeves Sr. His younger son, E. B. Reeves, manages and supervises the welding department, which in past years has competed with the tire department for large volumes of business. All manner of welding work is capably handled in this department, which is well equipped, and in the hands of experts at the trade.

The tire shop was moved to its present location in 1916 from its old site, where the Perkins-Timberlake building now stands.

Speedy "Westerns" Shown At Gem

When you tire of stage melodrama, and the antics of bejewelled heroines, and dancing dandies and want to see a real western show with lots of speed, make your way to Ohio street and pick out the Gem theater, you'll find it at 713.

Such is the advice of William McIlheran, theater manager, and joint owner of the show. There's always a good one there, a show that will make you leave feeling pleased.

The theater is under the same ownership as the Garden theater.

VENICE, Aug. 20.—Many precious historical relics of the house of Bourbon will go under the hammer in the solons of the Excelsior hotel, Lido, on August 25 when the effects of the picturesque Don Carlos, the pretender, are sold.

Many of the articles will be personal souvenirs of the pretender to the throne of Spain whose romantic career threatened to eclipse the present King Alphonso, the thirteenth.

CAL AND MRS. PLAN BIG LARK

By Universal Service.

RAPID CITY, S. D., Aug. 20.—With all the enthusiasm of a pair of kids on a lark, President and Mrs. Coolidge tonight completed their preparations for their vacation tour to Yellowstone park.

For them—especially the president—it will be a vacation within a vacation. Since coming here early in June for his summer "vacation" President Coolidge has found a lot of fun in fishing and horseback riding but, in fact, he has worked practically as hard as if he had been at his desk in Washington.

Five days every week he has motored over the 32 miles of mountain roadway to his executive offices here and transacted the great volume of routine work that has come to him from all the government departments at Washington in the famous leather mail pouch used by all presidents since Washington.

STATE GUARD CAMP CLOSES

Troops at Camp Homeward Bound

HOUSTON, Aug. 20. (AP)—Erect of carriage, faces tanned by the sun and brisk sea breezes of South Texas, more than 5000 troops of the 36th division, Texas national guard, passed through Houston Saturday afternoon homeward bound to the far corners of Texas after 15 days of work and play at the annual summer encampment of the division at Camp Palacios.

Major General John A. Hulen, commanding the division, declared that the camp was the best from the standpoint of training that the national guard of Texas had ever staged.

While the mission of the camp this year was to train the smaller units such as companies, batteries and air squadron in combat tactics the division made what the officers said was a splendid showing in reviews. No more time than was necessary was devoted to drill, but the appearance of the men at the divisional reviews drew praise from high army officials and from Governor [illegible]

Red river. Mr. Adkins will also investigate a similar structure which runs northeast from the central mineral region, off toward Lampasas. This latter "bend arch" has never been explored. It is regarded as possible that other structures of this kind may be found extending in other directions from the central mineral region. It will take Mr. Adkins several weeks to make this survey.

The bureau of economic geology also recently completed a survey of Tom Green county, and at present G. G. Henderson, temporarily employed by the bureau, is tracing the San Angelo formation northward through Cooke county.

Rain at Haskell

HASKELL, Aug. 20.—Beginning at 4 o'clock Saturday morning a slow steady rain fell all day long over the biggest portion of Haskell county. This is a boon to the farmers as rain was badly needed for the splendid all round crop now in the making.

M'FALL STICKS TO DODGE CAR

Only Kind Handled Since Opening in 1914

McFall Brothers, local agents for the Dodge Bros. cars, known for its driving qualities throughout this region, has the reputation here of being the oldest dealers in the sales of automobiles who have selected one car for its specialty and have "stuck to it."

This company, owned by J. M. McFall, entered the automobile business in 1914, after giving up the former occupation of transfer and household storage business and brought the first Dodge car here early in 1915. Close attention to its sales department and the adherence to its special line built a foundation of good will and "honesty in policy," that resulted in a business production of $1,400,000 within five years, according to Julian McFall, assistant to the owner.

Since that date, the business has spread over the neighboring territory, which is now traveled extensively by salesmen of the concern, and the addition of the Graham Brothers trucks to the stock has provided many country residents and city warehouses with substantial vehicles. The average sale per year is estimated at 600 cars and trucks per year, Mr. McFall said, although sales have been known to reach 800 per year.

Another feature of the company is the stock of street car busses included in its stock. Four of these vehicles now being used in Wichita Falls were purchased from this company, Mr. McFall said. Each has a seating capacity of 21 passengers.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20. (AP)—An active and excited advance in the cotton market today followed publication of the government's report on the activities of boll weevil and other insects in the south, all months making new high records for the season. December contracts sold up to 21.20 and March to 21.36, net advances of 72 to 80 points on the general list. The close was only a few points off from the best under realizing, with the final tone steady, at net gains of 62 to 75 points.

The market opened firm at an advance of 27 to 28 points under more or less general buying. A good deal of realizing at the initial prices was absorbed on setbacks of a few points, the market showing increased strength and activity after publication of the boll weevil report. This was regarded as indicating a heavy infestation of the insect, particularly in Alabama, Mississippi, and South Carolina, and evidently was considered even more bullish than anticipated.

In addition to heavy covering by recent sellers there was a broadening demand from trade and commission houses, October deliveries selling up to 20.95 and January to 21.22, these prices represented advances of about $3.50 to $4.00 per bale over the closing quotations yesterday and of more than 2¼ cents a pound above the low level touched on the reactions late last week.

The increasingly serious view of the boll weevil situation, no doubt inspired expectations of smaller crop estimates, and buying was reported in anticipation that end-August condition and yield figures would show a considerable falling off as compared with the end-July reports.

Except for comparatively low temperatures, the weather news was considered somewhat more favorable, and may have increased the disposition to take profits on the initial advance, but the later market appeared to be entirely dominated by the boll weevil news.

The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 69,000 bales, against 27,000 last year and 52,000 two years ago.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 20. (AP)—The government's tenth weevil report showing heavy infestation and serious damages to crops as early as August 1, was even more bullish than traders expected and as a result cotton prices soared to new highs for the season. December sold up to 21.03, compared with 20.30, yesterday's closing figure and 20.56, the high points of August 8. The option closed at the high, with the general market closing steady at net advances of 70 to 72 points.

Despite rather poor Liverpool cables first trades showed gains of 1 1to 90 points due mainly to expectations of a bullish report. The market continued to advance until by the end of the first hour October reached 20.41 and December 20.62, 52 to 55 points above the previous close.

In the second hour, after the report was issued, the market became extremely active and all months climbed upward, making new highs on the final trading with October at 20.79 and December 21.03, a net gain of approximately $3.50 a bale over the previous close.

Exports for the day totaled 28,749 bales.

COTTON GOODS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20. (AP)—The gray goods market was exceptionally active for Saturday. Large sales were made. Various lower prices were withdrawn and advances were paid on a few constructions. The burlap market was fairly active, sales of spots and afloats going through at advances. Calcutta cables reported the bazaar unchanged to slightly firmer. The Yokohama raw silk market was quiet after the remarkable 50-yen advance of the previous day. A 10-yen recession failed to affect prices here.

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—William C. Durant's highly enthusiastic outlook, as expressed prior to his taking a vacation abroad, together with expectation of a 3 per cent call money rate soon influenced further strength in the stock market in yesterday's half session. General Motors held the leadership and was joined in its advance by Du Pont, General Electric, International Combustion and other good industrials. The rails remained rather dull and a little soft while the oil shares dipped a little lower. Private crop estimates of a bullish nature were responsible for enhanced bullishness of the trading community and active options added to their gains. Sterling featured a rather listless foreign exchange market in a move to its high level of the year, while the grain markets remained irregular.

In expressing belief that the greatest bull market ever known was ahead, William C. Durant made it quite plain that he meant for good stocks. He particularly emphasized "good" and while he did not say so it was quite evident that he had in mind some recent stock market developments threatening another Manhattan Electric cataclysm. All stocks on the stock exchange are "good" at certain prices but there is a price territory in which even those with the largest assets and greatest earning power become "bad." The real "bad" stocks, however, are those which are technically cornered so that the number of shares available for trading is a factor that must be considered fully as much as earning power, etc., in a selective market such as now experienced.

New Haven moved fractionally higher under influence of the dividend forecast of Director Hadley, while other railroad stocks remained listless and a trifle softer. The New Haven's refunding program has the whole-hearted support of all in the banking and brokerage communities. The progress of the last two years, in so far as Wall sstreet is concerned, is proof positive of the success of the new management's program of rehabilitation. With the government debt out of the way, it is stressed, the management will be able to proceed more vigorously with its expansion and betterment schedule. To the old timers in the street the talk of a New Haven dividend is just a little more of a shock than is that concerning the Erie. They never expected to live to see such developments, but now have reason for strong hope that they will read of dividend payments on both these stocks entirely as a result of developments of the last 24 months.

"Bill" Skelly, the wildest bull of the oil game, was the latest to comment on the possibility of improvement in the industry, but his stock slid off fractionally with the rest despite the wire advices to "buy" that came through from the southwest about the same ime as his interview appeared on the tickers. "Bill" talked of a return to normalcy, but his words lost part of their potential influence in that the stock market world is beginning to believe that "normalcy" for oil men constitutes the getting of the oil out of the land no matter at what cost to others or to the industry as a whole.

International Combustion proved one of the "good stocks" as it registered a new high for the move on con- her ses- ra- rec- cou- side- two

NEW YORK, Aug. 20. (AP)— Strength and activity of a select group of motor shares overshadowed all other developments in today's brief session of the stock market. The general list continued to drift, although the undertone was fairly steady and several new high records were established. Trading was only moderate in volume.

Speculation for the advance derived its chief impetus today from the publication of bullish interviews by William C. Durant, automobile manufacturer and stock market operator and Charles E. Mitchell, president of the National City bank. Durant's statement that another stock slip-up of General Motors might be necessary in the near future stimulated the demand for that stock, the old issue crossing 231 to a new high record and the new "When issued" stock selling above 117. Chrysler crossed 58 to a new top and moderate gains were recorded by Moon, Nash and Jordan Motors.

Pools, faced with the prospect of easy money rates for some time to come, renewed operations in a number of specialties.

At the close of the market, the average of 20 leading industrial isues was within one high ground, the day's gain being slightly more than half a point.

Rail shares were rather quiet, with price changes narrow and unimportant. Foreign exchange trading was quiet with few important rate changes. Demand sterling ruled slightly firmer around $4.85 11-16, and French francs were steady just under 3.92 cents. Portuguese escudos fell below 4 cents, duplicating the year's low level.

Officers Search For Body of Human Hand

DENTON, Aug. 20. (AP)—Finding of a partly decomposed human hand in a meadow near here Saturday has started officers searching for a shallow grave in which may be found the remainder of the body.

The find was made by former Sheriff Jim Goode and Dr. A. C. Baird of Denton. They believe the hand was pulled from a body buried in a shallow grave in the meadow. The men were baling hay when the find was made.

Airships of the Royal Air Navigation Co. of Holland flew 536,868 miles in 6611 flying hours, last year.

One of the largest dams in the world is being constructed near Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

NOCONA SOCIETY

NOCONA, Aug. 20.—Miss Ruby Fay Myrick entertained the Gardner B. Y. P. U. at her home Tuesday evening, honoring Jim O. Hill on her birthday. Beautiful cut flowers were used in decorations.

After enjoying various games the lights were turned out and the hostess entered the dining room, holding a large birthday cake with candles lighted numbering the years of the honoree.

The guests were invited to cut their own slices of cake. Miss Vivian Haralson cut the mint, Miss Lois Reed cut the needle, Miss Lena Ball cut the thimble and Mr. Frank Baker cut the dime.

Delicious ice cream was served to the following: Misses Ena Mitchell of Vivian Harralson, Lena Ball, Lois and Jewell Reed, Messrs. Jim O. Ball, Everett Harralson, Frank Baker, J. W. Hill, Mansell Hynds, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Myrick and the hostess, Miss Ruby Fay Myrick.

Mrs. W. J. Johnson and son, Floyd Johnson, of Lebanon, Ga., Mr. and Mrs. Ed Garrett and son, Frank, of Holly Springs, Ga., came Sunday and are visiting Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Fry, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Carmichael and family at Quanah, Mr. and Mrs. Carmichael and family at Chickasha, Okla., Mrs. B. W. Miller of Portalis, N. M., arrived Thursday and will visit with the above named relatives.

Family Reunion

On Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Long, who reside east of Montiel, the family of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. C. Smith of Nocona met in a family reunion.

All of the Smith children were in attendance. They were Mrs. W. L. Robinson and family, Mrs. George Smith and family, Mrs. Ernest Smith and family, Mrs. W. G. Williams and family, Mr. Walter Smith and family and the hostess, Mrs. Long. It had been eight years since they had all met together. They report a most delightful day.

Methodist S. S. Class Picnic.

Mrs. H. G. Halcomb chaperoned her Sunday schol class of girls on a picnic and swimming party Tuesday afternoon at Farmers creek. The time was delightfully spent swimming and playing in sand.

A lovely lunch consisting of sandwiches, olives, pickles, potato chips, cakes and ice cream was served picnic style.

Those who enjoyed this delightful outing were Mrs. H. G. Halcomb, teacher of the class; Misses Ola Mennsano, Frances Beck, Helen Hill, Artie Pribble, Virginia Addison, Portia Lee Sanders, and Josephine Stump; guests: Mrs. Jewel Childers and son, Roy, of Wichita Falls, J. C. and Guy Halcomb, Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Stump and children, Joy, Helen and Gaty.

Shower for Bride

Mrs. R. L. Myrick entertained at her home Wednesday afternoon with a miscellaneous shower honoring Mrs. Joe Fyratt, a recent bride.

After a number of games, a "kitchen contest" was cleverly carried out. The prize, a rolling pin, went to Mrs. Janeway, which she presented to the bride. The booby prize went to Miss Fay Bessett.

The gifts were hidden in various parts of the house. The hostess read clever rhymes which directed the bride to the places where each gift was hidden.

A lovely plate luncheon with iced tea was served to Misses Juvina Hunter, Fay Sewell, Ruby Fay Myrick, Fay Howard, Ola Menasco, Artie Pribble, Lila Fay Haggerton, Lillian and Bertie Haggerton, Mesdames M. A. Fletcher, C. W. Haggerton, J. P. Janeway, the hostess, Mrs. Myrick, and the honoree, Mrs. Joe Fyratt.

Girls Embroidery Club

Little Miss Christine Newman was hostess to the Girls Embroidery club Friday afternoon at her home.

They spent a delightful hour embroidering. The prize for the best fancy work went to Reba Winestine.

A very interesting "treasure hunt" was enjoyed.

A lovely plate lunch consisting of sandwiches, pickels, olives, potato chips and lemonade was served.

A theater party was also enjoyed by the following members: Dorothy Virginia Gist of Tulsa, Okla., Anita Leonard, Reba Winstine, June Smith, Anita McLain, Pe Priest and Patsy Foster, Mamie Shillman, Marjorie Maddox, Geraldine Rask, Marcell Foster, Helen Shackelford and the hostess, Christine Newman.

Shackelford-Merchant

Miss Irene Merchant and Mr. Cass Shackelford, both of Nocona, were united in marriage Thursday evening, August 11, at the Central Christian parsonage, Rev. G. W., pastor officiating. The young people left on a trip to Colorado, after which they will be at home in Nocona.

Six O'clock Dinner

Miss Frances Shackelford enterlained a few friends at home last Thursday evening with a six o'clock dinner. The color scheme of the table and dining room being blue and white.

A three course dinner was served to Misses Ciara Hopkins, Hazel Beal, Chloma Gibson, Pauline Hynds and the hostess, Miss Shackelford, with Miss Hynds of Fort Worth as the guest of honor.

CAL AND MRS. PLAN BIG LARK

By Universal Service.

RAPID CITY, S. D., Aug. 20.—With all the enthusiasm of a pair of kids on a lark, President and Mrs. Coolidge tonight completed their preparations for their vacation tour to Yellowstone park.

For them—especially the president—it will be a vacation within a vacation. Since coming here early in June for his summer "vacation" President Coolidge has found a lot of fun in fishing and horseback riding but, in fact, he has worked practically as hard as if he had been at his desk in Washington.

Five days every week he has motored over the 32 miles of mountain roadway to his executive offices here and transacted the great volume of routine work that has come to him from all the government departments at Washington in the famous leather mail pouch used by all presidents since Washington.

Has Busy Day

While here he has conferred with more than half of his cabinet, adopted a program for development of the navy and the army and air forces, approved the $3,316,000,000 budget and arrived at the most momentous decision in his career—not to run again for president.

With Mrs. Coolidge and John he will leave for the Yellowstone park tomorrow night. He has no business engagements there. He will be practically cut off from all work. Of sightseeing he will do little. He wil devote himself to horseback riding and fishing.

As the president himself has expressed it he will be "on the hoof" most of the time in the Yellowstone. During the westward tour, his special train will make brief stops at Billings and Livingston, Montana. He will go into the park through the Gardiner entrance. He will stay about five days in the park. He will return to the summer White House a week from Monday and will remain here about 10 days before departing for Washington.

Medal For Coolidge

President Coolidge today received from the state department an aviation medal sent him by King Albert of Belgium. It was brought from the king by Col. Lindbergh. The medal to the president is inscribed, "to the high protector of the international league of Aviators."

Dwight Morrow of J. P. Morgan and company slipped out of the summer White House today and resumed his journey to his western ranch.

Morrow, who was in the same class with the president at Amherst is one of the president's oldest friends. He declined to talk for publication while here saying his visit to the president was "merely personal."

Senator Hiram Dingham of Connecticut, who made an extended tour of China during the height of the civil war and who has since visited the Philippines and Hawaii, will confer with the president here after the Yellowstone trip.

Women of the Congregationalist church here have decided to appeal to Senator Norbeck to prevail upon the president to attend religious service in the splendid church edifice here. They spent $250 for a new carpet and other fixtures but, to their disappointment, the president chose to attend the tiny frame church in the neighboring cow town of Hermosa.

Planes And Ships Hunt Lost Fliers

to take positions near Hana Island of Maui and put out on a similar course returning to Lahaina.

Two planes were in each patrol. They were to fly approximately 10 miles apart, sending reports every 15 minutes.

The U. S. S. Pewigan went to Lahaina to serve as a base for the planes upon its arrival there.

The submarine tender Holland with eight submarines were proceeding in formation on a line running southwest from Kaaena Point, Oahu, for a position north of Kaui.

Churches of Hawaii were open for the prayers of the islanders who followed the suggestion of Governor Farrington for universal supplication for the safety of the missing fliers.

ERWIN WEARS CROSS FOR BRAVERY IN WAR.

DALLAS, Aug. 20. (AP)—Captain William P. Erwin, Dallas aviator, war ace and wearer of the Distinguished Service Cross, entered the trans-Pacific flight to round out a decade of flying.

He was born in Ryan, Okla., Oct. 18, 1895, the son of Rev. and Mrs. W. A. Erwin and was educated to be a musician, but when the world war broke out he abandoned a tour of the country with a composer of religious songs to go to the officers' training camp at Fort Logan, H. Root, Little Rock, Ark., where it was suggested he become an aviator.

Erwin went to the ground school at the University of Texas, became one of the 10 "honor men" and was sent overseas to complete his training, becoming a pilot in September, 1917.

Captain Erwin was credited with bringing down eight enemy planes and was shot down a number of times himself. He received the D. S. O. for obtaining valuable information under fire and "strafing" machine gun nests to protect American troops.

Since the war, Erwin had conducted a flying school at Love field, Dallas. His wife, who had planned taking the trans-Pacific flight in the Dallas Spirit, is now visiting friends in New Jersey. The National Aeronautical association would not permit her to accompany her husband because she was not 21 years of age.

ERWIN'S AIDE STARTED SAILING AT AGE OF 15.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 20. (AP)—Alvin H. Eichwaldt, 27, navigator selected to steer the Dallas Spirit over the Pacific from Oakland to Honolulu with Captain William P. Erwin, went to sea when he was 15 years old and followed the sea up to the time he climbed into the fuselage of the Erwin monoplane.

Eichwaldt's home is in Hayward, Alameda county, California, where he has lived with his mother, Mrs. Florence Delanoy Eichwaldt.

During the world war, Eichwaldt served eight months in the navy with mine layers in foreign waters. When he left the service he held the rank of quartermaster.

After the war, Eichwaldt continued following the sea and held a first mate's license when he entered the Dole race, only to be prevented from participating in the event by a mishap to the plane from Texas.

BROTHERS BUILT TWO PLANES IN DOLE RACE

By Universal Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 20—The Dole flight, it was revealed today, was a competition between brothers as well as planes.

The winning plane, Art Goebel's Woolaroc, was from the Travelair factories in Wichita, Kan. So, too, was Bennett Griffin's Oklahoma, forced back by overheating of her engine. Their designer was Lloyd Stearman, widely known in aviation engineering circles.

The Dallas Spirit, in which Capt. William P. Erwin started for Hawaii last Tuesday and started again yesterday in an effort to find fellow competitors who had failed to reach Hawaii, was a Swallow, also made in Wichita. Its designer was William Stearman, younger brother of the Travelair's architect.

The Dallas Spirit embodied several novel ideas, particularly one in the placing of the landing gear, and its success in the race would have meant much to the younger brother. Lloyd Stearman already had one Hawaiian flier to his credit — the Travelair monoplane in which Ernest Smith and Emory Bronte made the first non-military flight to Hawaii.

The Dallas Spirit was said here to be the first monoplane turned out by the Swallow factories. Aviation experts who examined it at Oakland airport prior to the flight commented upon the excellent workmanship employed in it.

ERWIN MAY HAVE DIED FOR CHIVALRY

DALLAS, Aug. 20. (AP)—Captain William P. Erwin probably went to his death in the darkened reaches of the Pacific ocean because of his heroic zeal in searching for the Dole trans-Pacific fliers, in the opinion of Captain Andy Southgate, member of the National Aeronautical committee and Dallas aviator who was trained with and flew with the American ace in the world war.

"If Erwin had maintained a higher altitude he would have been in no danger of a tail spin," Captain Southgate said tonight. "He knew this, but an altitude assuring practical safety for himself would have prevented Erwin from seeing the ocean and the possibility of his finding traces of the Miss Doran and the Golden Eagle.

"Captain Erwin started off in Dallas Spirit at an altitude of 1700 feet, if he had maintained that height he would have had the stars and the horizon to guide him in steering the plane even if the lights on his instrument board failed him as they did. Instead, flying low, under clouds and haze making the "ceiling" he was in serious danger the instant he was deprived of the guidance of his instruments by failure to light. It was under the circumstances, almost inevitable that the plane should go into a tail spin.

"The sacrifice, if it was a sacrifice was like Bill Erwin, and a fitting climax to a spectacular career as an aviator and an American ace," Captain Southgate said.

ERWIN'S PLANE BUILT AT WICHITA, KANSAS.

DALLAS, Aug. 20. (AP)—The plane Captain William P. Erwin was piloting was a monoplane, built especially for him at Wichita, Kan., and under his personal supervision. His entry into the Easterwood flight from Dallas to Hongkong was backed and financed by the Dallas News and Journal and a number of Dallas business men. The plane cost something more than $16,000 equipped and was flown to Dallas from the factory early this month. After tests here and adjustments recommended by federal radio inspectors, it was started to the Pacific coast August 10, after a false start the day previous.

The machine had a wing area of 330 square feet, wing span of 48 feet. Over all length of the plane was 31 1-2 feet. Its high speed was estimated at 126 miles an hour and cruising speed 105 miles. The name "Dallas Spirit" was selected from many submitted in a contest.

Home of Sacco-Vanzetti Juror Damaged By Bomb

Home of Lewis J. McHardy at Milton, Mass., a Boston suburb, bombed. McHardy, who was on the Norfolk county jury which convicted Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, radicals, is shown in inset above with his youngest son, Theodore, who, wth the remainder of the family, was asleep in the house. All escaped injury.

Last Appeal In Sacco Case Fails

Mrs. Sacco, returned to defense headquarters in the city where the two women retired to a private room.

During the stay in the death house Mrs. Sacco talked to her husband through the bars. This was her regular daily visit.

They will go back again tomorrow to visit their loved ones and will be permitted to see them for the last time on Monday for Monday is the last day of their earthly calendar.

Fourteen persons who attempted to picket the state house were arrested today. Armed with large placards they had staged a "death march." No disorders attended the arrests.

Boston Under Guard.

Boston is completely and heavily armed again tonight. All the police have been placed on 24-hour duty. The guard around the prison was increased. The national guard will assemble in the armories Monday, ready for action if needed.

Prominent Shipper Commits Suicide

BEAUMONT, Aug. 20. (AP)—W. A. Bowie, president of the Gulf Export and Transportation company committed suicide this afternoon by shooting himself through the head as he stepped from his car in the driveway of his home. Bowie's company operated a fleet of steamers, barges and schooners between Beaumont, Orange and Port Arthur in the Sabine district and Tampico and Vera Cruz, Mexico.

SMALLEST PLANE

Tiny Aircraft Off For Trans-Continental Journey

GLENDALE, Cal., Aug. 20. (AP) W. B. Kinner, airplane designer, hopped off here today for New York in what is said to be one the smallest airplanes to attempt a transcontinental flight. The craft with a wing spread of only 28 1-2 feet, weighed 850 pounds before loading with gasoline sufficient for making the first of a series of 400-mile hops to the east coast.

TRANS-OCEAN ROMANCE OFF

Former New York Girl Leaves Count

By Universal Service.

ROME, Aug. 20.—Another trans-Atlantic romance is on the point of finishing before the Paris divorce courts. The countess Zophola, the former Edith Mortimer, of New York, will soon petition the French courts to be freed from the dashing Count Zophola, scion of a distinguished Venetian family.

The Zopholas have one child, a girl of four years, who is the great playmate on the sands of Lido with the daughter of the former Mrs. Enrico Caruso.

The Countess is an intimate friend of Countess Salm, the former Millicent Rogers. She recently made a flying trip to Paris to arrange the last details of the legal procedure necessary to her action against her husband.

The Countess Zophola is now at St. Moritz while the count is at Lido.

Ten Lubbock Prisoners Fail to Break Jail

LUBBOCK, Aug. 20. (AP)—A carefully planned jail break of 10 Lubbock county prisoners came to naught because officers were suspecting it and waiting down stairs. When he went to open the bull pen door for the regular evening meal, Jailer Terrill Williamson was attacked by two men, and a third was hurrying forward when Sheriff Bud Johnson and Deputy Vernice Ford arrived on the scene with drawn revolvers and quelled the uprising quickly.

Report Soon On Oil Survey

University Bureau Issues Geological Bulletin

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, Aug. 20.—An important addition to the geological information concerning counties of West Texas will be available for the general public soon. It is in the form of a bulletin which is now in press. It deals with the geology of the Fort Stockton region of Pecos county and is the result of a survey recently made by W. S. Adkins, associate gelogist in the bureau of economic geology of the University of Texas.

This survey and report specifically covers approximately 225 square miles of the northern part of the county, but it also contains a compilation of approximately 150 oil wells, most of which are situated in the eastern part of the county. This list of wells embraces all except those that were drilled more recently.

The compilation gives a description of samples taken from the wells. In this connection, it is of public interest and importance to know that practically all of the companies now operating in West Texas carefully keep samples of any insoluble salts which may be encountered in course of drilling and it is by analyzing these samples that it can be determined whether they are of potash content.

Central Survey.

Mr. Adkins will begin another important survey September 1. He will make a complete contour of the central mineral region, embracing Llano, Burnet, Mason, Lampasas, San Saba and parts of Travis and Williamson counties. In this proposed survey he will get the dip of the cretacious formation and determine how much uplift there has been since cretacious times. This information will be important in connection with oil possibilities.

Study Bend Arch.

Another important feature of this survey will be that of arriving at additional facts in connection with the "bend arch" which runs north from the central mineral region, through the Ranger and other oil fields and extending clear to the Red river. Mr. Adkins will also investigate a similar structure which runs northeast from the central mineral region, off toward Lampasas. This latter "bend arch" has never been explored. It is regarded as possible that other structures of this kind may be found extending in other directions from the central mineral region. It will take Mr. Adkins several weeks to make this survey.

The bureau of economic geology also recently completed a survey of Tom Green county, and at present G. G. Henderson, temporarily employed by the bureau, is tracing the San Angelo formation northward through Cooke county.

STATE GUARD CAMP CLOSES

Troops at Camp Homeward Bound

HOUSTON, Aug. 20, (AP)—Erect of carriage, faces tanned by the sun and brisk sea breezes of South Texas, more than 5000 troops of the 36th division, Texas national guard, passed through Houston Saturday afternoon homeward bound to the far corners of Texas after 15 days of work and play at the annual summer encampment of the division at Camp Palacios.

Major General John A. Hulen, commanding the division, declared that the camp was the best from the standpoint of training that the national guard of Texas had ever staged.

While the mission of the camp this year was to train the smaller units such as companies, batteries and air squadron in combat tactics the division made what the officers said was a splendid showing in reviews. No more time than was necessary was devoted to drill, but the appearance of the men at the divisional reviews drew praise from high army officials and from Governor Dan Moody who spent three days in camp with the division of which he is the commander-in-chief.

FIRST UNITS OF NATIONAL GUARD DUE HERE SUNDAY

The first units of the Texas national guard companies from Wichita Falls attending the state encampment at Palacios were reported to have arrived in Wichita Falls at 4 a. m. Sunday, according to information received from relatives of several of the guardsmen.

Rain at Haskell

HASKELL, Aug. 20.—Beginning at 4 o'clock Saturday morning a slow steady rain fell all day long over the biggest portion of Haskell county. This is a boon to the farmers as rain was badly needed for the splendid all round crop now in the making.

SPORTING NEWS — THE RECORD NEWS — FIRST ACCURATE COMPLETE

SPORTS through the Edgren EYES

By Robert Edgren

Many old time notions connected with training are going out of fashion. In the old days in England it was supposed that all athletes must be fed great gobs of rare beef, washed down with ale. Bread and beef! That's a diet to give and present day student of dietetics the willies. Nothing could be worse. Especially white bread, which is about as nutritious as Portland cement. As for the ale, botleg liquor has killed more good athletes than ale ever helped get into condition.

* * *

Not many years ago Freddy Welsh, a lightweight boxer, was the subject of many jokes because he lived on fruit and vegetables, cutting out the usual prize-fighter's diet of beef, bread and ale. In those days, this marked Welsh as a freak. As years went along, the sport world was impressed with the fact that Welsh was au exceedingly virile young man, who seemed tireless in a fight although he cut out a pace, the speed of which few could follow. Welsh went 25 rounds to a draw with Packey McFarland, the greatest boxer in the world at 125 pounds. He outboxed and defeated Abe Attell, Jem Driscoll, Matty Baldwin, Ray Bronson and scores of other good lightweights, and did it on the fruit and vegetable diet. People couldn't understand it. Eventually Welsh won the world's lightweight title from Willie Ritchie, a great fighter. In all his fights he seemed to have unlimited speed and endurance. It took Benny Leonard, coming up when Welsh was growing old, to beat him. Welsh died a few weeks ago, but if you ask my opinion, I'll say that the direct cause of his death was reckless living. At that, it took several years of departure from his old careful diet to break down the constitution he had built up.

About that beef and bread and ale diet for athletes—it may be remembered that in England, where beef, bread and ale was considered the ideal training fodder, rheumatism polished off many famous athletes long before they were through with competition. There must be some flaw in the system.

* * *

Dissipation the Fighter's Curse.

In ring circles it is well known that hundreds of good fighters have broken down physically after a few years of activity. When a fighter is seen to lack skill in removing his chin from the path of punches, the ringsiders look wisely at each other and say: "There's a guy who'll be cutting out paper dolls before long."

I was talking this over with one of the best known surgeons in New York, quite recently. He is a fight fan, by the way.

"There may have been some cases where fighters have had their mental faculties destroyed by taking too much pounding," he said, "but in my experience I've found that in practically every case the damage has resulted from disease following dissipation. The average fighter hasn't much intelligence or education. When he suddenly gets easy money and has new temptations thrown in his way he hasn't sense enough to avoid dangers he never knew anything about before."

* * *

One of the queer things in athletics is the worshipping of big muscles. We have the traditions of Hercules, shown in the ancient Greek statues as a muscular freak. As a plain fact, few huge muscled men can do anything in sport. They are muscle bound and too slow to be effective. The long, loose muscle is the effective muscle. Jack Dempsey's, for instance, as compared with Jack Sharkey's. The smooth muscle acts quickly and doesn't tie into knots under continued strain. Wrestlers, who develop big muscles by years of slow tugging, can't box to save their lives. Their big muscles are no good. Yet people go to wrestling matches and gasp at the sight of these lumpy behemoths lumbering around. They look so threatening. In Japan, professions are carried through families for generations. The acrobats, lean and lithe, are the finest in the world. The wrestlers, stuffed with food from childhood to make them big and bulky (some of them weigh over 350 pounds) and with immense arms and legs, are useful in their own game and for nothing else. Japanese wrestling consists of trying to butt or push an opponent out of a circle. A freight car would be a good wrestler in Japan. One of the Japanese tricks to make bulging arms is to keep a tight bandage around the upper arm. This causes a distention of the veins and swelling of the muscles, but a muscle "built up" in that way is about as healthy and active as a Cape Cod oyster transplanted to New York harbor to bloat up on refuse.

* * *

Big Men Generally Not So Good.

A lithe, active tennis player is a better athlete than any bulky wrestler, and will live longer and stay in better health. When bulky muscles deteriorate, the heart usually deteriorates with them. That is one of the dangers of overdeveloping in heavyweight sports.

I remember several extremely big men who were headed for ring titles because of their bulk, and inverably they were knocked out by leaner fighters. Ed Dunkhorst, weighing 285 pounds, was knocked out by Bob Fitzsimmons, weighing less than 165. Jess Willard, rather fat and weighing 265, was knocked out of the title by Jack Dempsey, 188. Among the old time giants were Patsy Cardiff, Yank Kennedy, Carl Morris, Dan Daily, Fred Fulton and many others more remarkable for the way they shook the floor when they fell, than for anything else. Jeffries was huge—weighing 225 pounds stripped, when he was champion and at his best, but he was long muscled and supple in spite of his tremendous limbs, and never carried a pound of superfluous fat into the ring.

In the old days, training was different. Fighters and other athletes were expected to do a tremendous amount of work before a competition. Dempsey made the mistake of overworking before most of his fights. He was overtrained in several fights and would have been overtrained for Sharkey if he had followed his own ideas. Leo Flynn stopped the hard work and make Jack relax in his Saratoga camp, with the result that he carried all his vitality into the ring against Sharkey, and could have fought 15 rounds and put on the spurt in the fifteenth instead of the seventh if necessary.

The greatest athlete I ever knew was Tom Carroll, professional all around athlete and still holder of all world's professional hammer throwing records, which he rebroke on his forty-fifth birthday. Carroll's system of training was about like that of Dempsey in his last fight. Preparing for a professional meet in which he'd compete in about a dozen events, including jumping, running and weight throwing, Carroll worked hard for several weeks. Then, the last week, he would go down to a beach, lie in the sand through the day, relaxing, to bottle up as much vitality as possible. He'd take along a small 12-pound shot and get up now and then for two or three easy puts. The last two days he'd do nothing at all. When he appeared on the field, his condition was prefect and he'd have a tremendous store of energy to unloose in the competitions.

* * *

Some of the best athletes in modern competition compete often and train very seldom. I've known John Daley in New York to run a great marathon race—over 26 miles—without a day's training. That of course was because he always kept in good condition and his energy was not impaired by too much training. Modern trainers know that too much training is much worse than not enough training. Burned out muscles and wasted energy are a greater handicap than layers of fat. There was "Phat Willie" Meehan, a fat fighter who gave lean Jack Dempsey a couple of his roughest four round bouts in the early days. Meehan didn't train, but he could go fast for four rounds. If he had run that natural fat off he couldn't have gone a round.

BRAVES CLIP CUBS FOR TWO

League Leaders Routed In Double Header

BOSTON, Aug. 20. (AP)—The Braves today upset the league leading Cubs and took both games of a double-header by scores of 6 to 5 and 2 to 1.

A four-run rally in the last of the ninth inning featured by singles by Wertz, High and Fournier with Hogan hit by a pitched ball, gave Boston the opener.

The second game was an old time pitching duel between McQuillan and Bush. The score:

CARDS 8, PHILLIES 2.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 20. (AP)—Grover Cleveland Alexander hurled his seventeenth victory of the season for the Cardinals Saturday by opening the series with the Phillies with a 8-2 triumph. The world's champions hit Pruett and Sweetland for a total of 17 hits, but did not cinch the game until the eighth, when five hits, an error and a walk netted five runs.

The Phillies made five errors. The score:

Waco Bombarders Break Spud Streak

Payne Falters Before Withering Attack In First Frame; Freeze Checks Wichita Falls Advance

The haberdashery was beat out of some business Saturday afternoon. George Payne has decided to wait a few days longer before purchasing that fall wearing apparel at the expense of J. Alvin Gardner.

You see, George has won 19 games and the understanding is when he cops number 20 the Spudder prez presents a new suit to the veteran righthander. But George stumbled yesterday at the orchard. Waco's loud young team getting to the oldtimer boisterously in the first frame and before the din died, had smashed across five runs. These and three tallies garnered by the Brazos river village detachment later in the affray proved too large a barrier for the home guard to overcome.

So Wichita Falls' victory streak was sliced at the eight mark, the ninth game going on the wrong side of the ledger by an 8-to-5 score.

The Waco triumph evened the series. The same clubs square off again Sunday afternoon in a double header.

George started wrong and the Pratt outfit didn't give him a chance to get right, hopping on him after he walked Windle for five hits, four of them in succession. Tom Estell relieved the vet and worked the rest of the route in nobby form.

The Spudders, apparently none dismayed, plugged away at Oscar Tuero and seemed on the verge of overhauling the mammoth Waco lead until Mr. Pratt got smart and changed heavers. Jake Freeze, the collegian, went to work for Waco in the fifth and blanked us the remainder of the distance.

Umph! Tough to Take!

Windle started the game with a base on balls. On a hit and run play, Moore singled past first, Windle taking third. West singled past first. Lamb juggled the ball and then threw high and wide to the infield. Windle and Moore scored and West went to second. Pratt beat out a bunt in front of the plate. Blackerby singled to right, Pratt went to third and West scored. Shires filed to right and a bullet-like return by Lamb held Pratt on third base. Vigare singled to left, scoring Pratt. Estell relieved Payne at this stage. Wolgamot singled to left scoring Blackerby. Tuero hit into a double play, Estell to Turgeon to LaFayette.

The Spudders came right back for a couple of runs in their half of the first inning. Fitzgerald singled through the box. Turgeon's grounder was just inside the third base line and rolled for a double, Fitzgerald stopping at third. Benton grounded to Tuero with no advance. Lamb sent out a sacrifice fly to left, scoring Fitzgerald. Jenkins smashed one to center for a base, scoring Turgeon. Swenson crashed one at Vigare, but Jenkins was forced at second.

Max West hit a home run in the second inning with none on to give the Cubs their marker in this inning.

Tuero opened the fourth round with a single over first which was almost short enough for Lamb to get him at the bag. He beat the ball, however, by a hair. Windle laid down a sacrifice bunt, sending Tuero to second. Moore singled to center, chasing Tuero to third. West singled to center, scoring Tuero and sending West to second. Estell then put on the brakes and Pratt popped to third and Blackerby rolled out to second.

LaFayette Homers

The last of the Spudder runs came in the fourth inning. Lamb opened the round with a single past short. Jenkins forced Lamb at second with a hopper to the box. Swenson singled past short sending Jenkins to second. LaFayette then slammed one far over the right field wall for a home run. Cobb popped to short and Estell rolled to third.

Waco's ninth inning was opened with a single past short by Max West, his fourth hit of the day. Pratt sacrificed him to second with a bunt to the box. Blackerby rolled to Benton, and West pulled up at third. Shires smashed a hot one back through the box for a single and West galloped home. Vigare hit to LaFayette for the third out.

SPORTING NEWS — THE RECORD NEWS — FIRST ACCURATE COMPLETE

TOP O' MORN STUFF
By Blondy Cross

HALF!

Having now lost a game again, the Spudders have thrown strong-hearted fandom into consternation. The I-told-you-so guys begin to shudder and groan, "We're sunk; all the league's against us."

* * *

Lamble heaved one away in the first inning (that must make at least two errors for him this year) and there are several of the boys who will start shushing you now and whispering, "S-s-sh, he's been bought off. It ain't on the books for us to win the pennant."

* * *

The average, level-minded fan may think this is said jokingly. Doesn't sound reasonable, at that, does it? But you would be surprised at the number of "yellow" sports and rumor mongers who crop up with a slug of dirty cracks every time the gang drops one.

* * *

REDS

Why, there was a bunch of morons out there yesterday who razzed the home guard like a rival rooting section instead of the home crowd just because George was finding it tough and Waco got off to a running start in the first round. The Spudders had won eight straight and today are leading the league by the health- margin of 10 games with the season on its last legs, yet cluster of gozos upped with jibes and jeers because they couldn't win 'em all.

* * *

Soft break for the sports writer: Prez J. Gardner announces that beginning with Sunday afternoon and continuing as long as he owns the Spudders he will serve sandwiches and Budweiser in the press box between games at all double headers. It's a big league custom, says Jabez, that should not be out of order in the greatest minor league.

* * *

WELL

Waco fan in picking one of these mythical "all" teams tells Waco sports writer that he chooses Turgeon over Pratt for second base because Pete is a surer fielder, faster both ways on double plays, the peer of pop fly snaggers and more adroit at tagging the runner on attempts to steal. Like most enthusiasts, that fan overdid himself. Wasn't necessary to go into details.

* * *

WOOF!

Bunch of boys in the right wing of the grandstand took up Art Shires' Indian yell and whooped it right back at him through the afternoon yesterday, so tagging Art's goat that he threatened to climb right up and "git somebody." When invited, Art answered, "If I come up there you'd tear down the stand getting out!"

Arthur didn't go up, so the Spudder management isn't out any repair bill. They do say Art is tough . . . or hard-headed.

* * *

THAT EVERYDAY SHOW

Piped about the burg:

A weighing contrivance which for a consideration of 1 cent gives you a neatly stamped little card designating your weight at five pounds or so more than it really is and suggesting a "joyful way to reduce."

Contrasting traits: A male with ire aroused just because a couple of guys looked at him more than passing close . . . A woman, face agleam with happiness apparently just because a couple of other fluffs stood nearby gazing her up and down, from foot to crown, as it were.

At the arena: He was red-faced, liquored and loud, excitedly wurbling, "Throw him, Joe! Attaboy, Joe!" But Joe was quite unaware of this enthusiastic moral support, having wrestled his wrestle and repaired to the hotel full 30 minutes before.

Perhaps one of the most humorous skits of the week was that one enacted by the Beaumont catcher the other afternoon when he muffed a pitch, hurriedly slung his mask to the ground and unwittingly caged the ball, then started a frantic search for the pill, looking all the world like a scared rabbit cornered and hunting a hole. It remained for one of his mates in the dugout to tip him where the sphere was.

CRACKS FROM CONSUMERS

Dear Blondy:

Everybody has been picking up what they call All-Star teams in the Texas league this year, but thus far none of them has picked an All-Cellar team from the Texas league. This is something that is harder to pick than an All-Star team and here is the first one:

Catchers, Billings, Dallas; Wolgamot, Waco.
First base, Galloway, Beaumont.
Second base, Bauman, Dallas.
Third base, Woehrs, Shreveport.
Shortstop, Odom, Beaumont.
Left field, Bagwell, Dallas.
Centerfield, Harris, Shreveport.
Right field, Miller, Dallas.
Pitchers, Grabowski, Houston; Johns, Fort Worth; Owens, Dallas; Conley, Dallas; R. Love, Dallas, Good, San Antonio.
Utility, Boggess, Waco.

Some may disagree with this team, but that is about as good as any in its class. Miller of Dallas in right field will be one that some will of another view, but he is too slow and not a fielder for that all-star class. He might hit them, but that is made up by the others through his slowness in the outfield. Bagwell would come under the same rating. Johns is known to be a good pitcher, but he has done nothing this year and for that reason is on the All-Cellar team. J. M. L. T.

Answer: Glad you didn't name an official scorer to go with this team.

My Dear Mr. Cross:

I see where the rest of the boys have been picking their All-Star teams from the Texas league, or what they are supposed to be. Why not handle this one for them and let that settle the question. If any one has any kicks on it, just look in the Texas league standings and then keep quiet:

Catchers, Lapan, Tobin, Cobb; pitchers, Payne, Fussell, Steengrafe, Estell, Kiefer, Cobb; first base, LaFayette; second base, Turgeon; third base, Swenson; shortstop, Mann; outfielders, Benton and Griffin; left field, Jenkins; center field, Fitzgerald; right field, Lamb; manager, Williams; owner, Gardner.

Yours for the pennant and Dixie flag,
J. S. D.

Answer: Patriotism forbids contradiction.

GREAT PRATT TOPS HITTERS

Spudders Fall Below .300 Mark in Batting

Derrill Pratt may not lead a pennant winner but the veteran infielder threatens to top Texas League batting this year. His average of .382 puts him in front of this season's regulars through Thursday, the lead as far as the playing through batters are concerned remaining a four cornered Waco contest. Pratt's teammate, West, continues to lead in hits made with a total of 187 against Pratt's 178 and 176 for Jenkins, Wichita Falls. The leading run scorers are Jenkins, 122; E. Moore, Fort Worth, 106 and S. Harris, St. and Martin, Houston, 101. In spite of his long absence from the game, C. Miller, Dallas, is still the home run leader with his total of 29 to 25 for Pratt and 20 for West. Gross, Dallas, leads in stolen bases, 33 to 27 for Martin, Houston.

Waco continues to lead club batting with a .305 average, topping in hits made and in home runs. Wichita Falls leads in runs, San Antonio in stolen bases. Hanson, Beaumont, has the best winning average of pitchers in long enough for consideration, Payne, Wichita Falls, of those with wins in double figures, but Frankhouse, Houston, is the first pitcher to win 20 games. E. Love, Dallas, leads in strikeouts with 114. .300 hitters, club batting, and pitchers winning half or better of their games through Thursday follow:

Wichita Athletes Play At Decatur

DECATUR, Aug. 20.—The football training camp at Decatur Baptist college will open September 5.

Coach Penn Dickson has been assured of the return of nine letter men and the chance of six more being back again. Then he has about a dozen coming up from the high school team that last year won the bi-district championship and lost to Highland Park high school from Dallas.

Jones will be back at center again this year and from this solid post Jones is a tower on the line. Lewis and Maidens will be back at their guard positions from last year and their greatest years are expected from them. Petty and Eddings will be at the two tackles position. Newton and Porter on the wing jobs will round out a seasoned line from last year's letter men and with the additional strength that is coming in this should be one of the best lines in the conference.

Curly Christian and Captain Ford will be all of the backfield men that are sure to be back with the Indians this year, but Janeway is still being hoped for. Melton and Smith, guards, Spann, a tackle, and Cox an end are yet being hoped for to return.

The quarters that will be furnished to the football candidates will be filled with a troupe of stars that Decatur will cast her chances with this year in the Junior college conference. From September 5 the camp at Decatur will be a great scene of activity and Coach Dickson's work will be closely watched.

Curly Christian and Vernon Lewis are from Wichita Falls and they are sure of being back in harness this year. Maurice Cox will be a Wichita Falls boy who may be among the missing, but the Decatur fans are still hoping to see "Lefty" back on that wing position.

One player that will be missed from the Decatur ranks will be Judson "Dirty" Walter, triple threat man of last year.

Bluefish are said to abound in the east. We didn't know so many of the boys had taken a tumble on Wall street.

Tex Rickard is looking for a site for his first big 1928 battle. Maybe that's why Byrd is going to hop off for the South Pole.

Panhandle Battles Cowtown Champs

Panhandle Refiners, Wichita Falls amateur baseball champions, will journey to Fort Worth at the end of the week to engage the Fort Worth champs (undecided) in preliminary play for the championship of the Texas amateur athletic federation, announced Manager Bill Hoehn of the Panhandle yesterday.

Wichita Falls will play the winner of a series now under way between Fort Worth Steel and Machinery team and the Turrentine and Thompson Printers. These two clubs are engaged in city championship series over the present weekend. The winner plays hosts to the Panhandle club in three-game series August 27 and 28.

If Wichita Falls defeats Fort Worth she will tackle on the following week the winner of the Dallas city championship. Schepp's Bakers loom as probable Dallas champs.

Panhandle, also city champs in 1926, defeated last season's Fort Worth champions, the Stine Printers, in series at Spudder park.

Bill Hoehn has been putting his club through at a fast pace since close of Twilight play here two weeks ago. The Longhorns have been working out every afternoon and are in top condition.

BOYS TRIED TO OUTSMART ME SO I LET THEM, SAYS FLYNN

(This is the fifth of a series of articles in which Leo P. Flynn, the noted boxing man, tells how he brought back Jack Dempsey.)

BY LEO P. FLYNN
Manager of Jack Dempsey
Written Expressly for Universal Service
Copyright 1927, By Universal Service

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Now we have arrived at that period in the training of Jack Dempsey which I can best explain by answering some of the complaints made against me by the newspaper men. Some of them think I gave them a few bum steers at Saratoga.

They were the ones that fibbed, not me. They made a number of assertions about Dempsey that reacted to our advantage, and I did not feel it was up to me to enlighten them. They had not bothered to ask for my side of their stories first, so I did not imagine they would be interested in what I had to say afterward.

Some of them said that Dempsey was all in. That was their opinion, and they were privileged to express it. Why should I take issue with them? Besides, I knew Sharkey would eat it up.

Others declared the workouts had proved Dempsey's speed was gone. They overlooked the fact that he was boxing on a 4-inch felt pad, and none of them happened to notice that he was wearing unusually heavy shoes. I figured the transition to a fast ring and light shoes on the night of the fight would make Jack feel like a racehorse, and it did.

I knew Sharkey was gulping down every rap he read. Why should I have gone out of my way to expound my theories?

A few of the boys insisted we were holding secret workouts, especially during the last few days. The only workouts we were holding were around a card table, but I know that the secret workout business helped to make Sharkey over-confident. He thought we were worried.

The night before the fight, one of the volunteer investigators discovered that Dempsey had injured his left arm. He didn't bother to question me, and I knew the story would please Sharkey. I let it go at that.

I did not spread any misinformation. I was glad to have it sent out, but I had nothing to do with it. Some of the boys tried to out-smart me, and I let them do it. That's all there was to that.

Dempsey was ready to fight 10 days before the bout took place. I realized on the afternoon of July 11 that Jack was as strong and as fast as he ever would be. That complicated my job to beat the band.

I knew if I worked him every day, he would go stale. If I didn't work him enough, his stamina would suffer.

My problem was to keep all the energy in the bottle until I was ready to pull the cork. I couldn't let any of it bubble out, because there wasn't enough time left to charge up again.

I cut the boxing in half. I worked him every two days instead of every day. I gave him light exercise and golf to keep his mind occupied on the off days.

There was a yelp from every boxing expert in the land. First, they thought I was plain daffy; then, they decided I was trying to trick them. I was never more on the up-and-up in my life. There were no workouts except those that took place in the little ring across from Tom Luther's hotel. I couldn't let Dempsey get too hot, and I couldn't let him get too cold. My idea was to keep him simmering.

I firmly believe that Jim Jeffries would have made a much different showing against Jack Johnson had he used the system of training that I employed on Dempsey. As it was, Jeffries lost his fight in his training camp.

And Tex Rickard, who promoted the Jeffries-Johnson fight, agrees with me.

The tragic death of Johnny Dempsey was a terrible blow. It took the heart out of Jack, and I know we were a pretty sick crew for several days. I don't mind saying now that I thought we were licked. Jack took it awful hard. But Mrs. Dempsey saved the day. She took command of everything, and called Jack as often as three times a day during the period he was so blue. She made him feel there was someone sharing the burden, and that always helps.

It was an anxious 10 days for me, the time between the day I realized that Jack was ready and the day we broke camp for New York. But my system worked beautifully, and I was a mighty confident man when we entered a compartment on a train bound for the big town.

But I reckoned without a ham sandwich. It almost undid in an hour what I had worked a month to accomplish.

JAPS BEAT CANADIANS

MONTREAL, Aug. 20.(AP)—Japan today defeated Canada in the American zone Davis cup tennis final by winning three of the five matches played. Japan accordingly will play France for the right to meet the United States cup defenders in the challenge round.

Larruping Lloyd Cops Loop Lead

Heilmann On Road to His Fourth Championship

CHICAGO, Aug. 20. (AP)—The perfect ball player in the opinion of Manager Donie Bush of the Pittsburgh Pirates is Lloyd Waner and Brother Lloyd, emulating Brother Paul, climbed today into the list of leading hitters of the National league. Lloyd's entrance, gave the Pirates half of the first ten hitters in the cidcuit, with the "three musketeers" of the Pirates still perched securely on top. Lloyd was the first National leaguer to reach the century mark in runs reaching 100 on Wednesday.

Frankie Frisch is making another threat at third place, being only two points behind Clyde Barnhart, the lowest of the Pittsburgh trio.

Alex Still Wins.

The hero of last fall's world's series, Grover Cleveland Alexander, who was sold down the river by the Cubs to the Cardinals for the waiver price is demonstrating that his efforts in landing the world's championship flag for St. Louis were not the final flash of form. "Big Pete" as his comrades of the Cubs used to call him, is within the first five flingers of the National league in averages compiled today including Wednesday's games.

Alex has won 16 and lost 7 this year for the Cards, and only two pitchers top him in victories. Old Jessie Haines of the Cards with 19 wins is one of these and Charley Root of the Cubs is the other with 22.

Cy Williams home run bat has been idle at the 23 mark for a fortnight and meanwhile Rogers Hornsby and Hack Wilson have climbed up to 26.

Frisch while waiting for one of the three leading Pirate clouters to slide down the ladder past him was as active as usual on the paths, adding two more stolen bases to his string to reach 33.

Leading National league hitters are: P. Waner, Pittsburgh, .354; Harris, Pittsburgh, .378; Barnhart, Pittsburgh, .353; Frisch, St. Louis, .351; Stephenson, Chicago, .344; Hornsby, New York, .343; L. Waner, Pittsburgh, .339; Traynor, Pittsburgh, .331; Hendrick, Brooklyn, .328.

Heilman on His Way.

The three time batting champions of the American league, Harry Heilmann of Detroit seems on his way to a fourth title. He is tied today for second place in the batting standings in games including Wednesday, with Columbia Lou Gehrig. Al Simmons of the Athletics still tops these two by 15 points, but Al has not played for a month now.

Swinging from the heels, to keep ahead of Babe Ruth in the home run race Gehrig has dropped to .379 now, while Ruth is just 20 points lower. The Babe tied up the home run race Wednesday at 38, making his second homer in the Chicago White Sox series.

While the other batters are succumbing to shrinkage of the batting average Tris Speaker is standing like a stone wall and the leaders have slid past him, all except three so that Tris ranks fourth with his .362.

Johnny Neun, Detroit first sacker, gained one stolen base on George Sisler this week and is but two behind Sisler's mark of 23 now. Whispering Bill Barrett of the Sox also picked off a couple and now has 20. Like the Pirate trio holding the batting honors of the National league the Yankees have a pitching trio atop the list of the junior circuit. Hoyt is within one victory now of Ted Lyons' mark of 18.

Another heavy hitting record, the two base hit mark, seems safe this year as George Burns, title holder, has only 44 this year toward his high total of 64.

Leading American league batters are: Simmons, Philadelphia, .394; Gehrig, New York, .379; Heilmann, Detroit, .379; Speaker, Washington, .362; Ruth, New York, .359; Schang, St. Louis, .359; Fothergill, Detroit, .353; Goslin, Washington, .348; Meusel, New York, Combs, New York, .346.

Friends thought by naming a mountain after him it would give Mussolini a lot of publicity. Not these days. They should have had the mountain fall on him.

Indiana university scholastic records show that athletes are far from dumb. No, it's the fans who put up $10 for a stadium seat that are.

Fight Tickets On Stand Monday

By HARRY MacNAMARA.

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—Public sale of the tickets for the world's heavyweight boxing championship match in which Jack Dempsey will attempt to regain the title from Gene Tunney at Soldier field, September 22, will open Monday at 9 o'clock in the morning it was announced today by Ike Dorgan, Tex Rickard's press representative.

Tickets of all prices of the scale, $40, $35, $30, $25, $20, $15, $10 and $5, including state and federal tax, will be available at the box office, according to Dorgan.

Part of the plan for the seating arrangement, which has been compiled by Rickard and Promoter George Getz, has already been approved by the Illinois state athletic commission and the tickets that will be placed on sale Monday are in the section that has been approved by the board. A few minor changes will be made in the rest of the plan and then it also will be approved by the commission. There is a possibility that the entire plan will be sanctioned by Monday and that all of the tickets will be ready for distribution at that time.

Rickard received the largest single order for tickets today that he has ever handled in his career as a promoter, Dorgan announced. A certified check for $35,000 worth of tickets was received by the promoter from St. Louis. It represents the total reservations for a large civic organization in the Missouri city and more than doubles Rickard's previous high water mark for a single reservation order.

Jack Dempsey spent a very quiet first day in the battle zone today. He was scheduled to play golf in the morning, but changed his mind and spent most of the morning with Rickard in his suite at the Congress.

Jack visited with the promoter and "kidded" with the office force and almost disrupted the business of selling tickets. He wound up by shaking hands with cash customers for almost a half hour and then beat it for the Edgewater Beach hotel to spend the afternoon and evening with his wife, Estelle Taylor, who is ill.

Jack plans to play golf with Rickard and his manager, Leo J. Flynn, again tomorrow, but he may change his mind again. He points out that he has almost five weeks to prepare for the bout and stated today that he wasn't going to start worrying about the training business until Monday, when he plans to start light work at his Lincoln fields camp.

Eastern Tennis Men Clinch Annual Series

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 20. (AP)—The east cliched the annual intersectional series with the west today when Francois T. Hunter, member of the Davis cup team, took the measure of George Lott, 20-year-old Chicagoan, in the feature singles match, 7-5, 8-6, 6-0. This made the score 5 to 2 in the east's favor for the two days' play.

In the final match of the series, John Van Ryn, and Frank Shields, national junior champion, added to the eastern triumph by defeating Lionel Ogden and Cranston Holman, California pair, 6-4, 3-6, 10-8. This made the final score 6 to 3 in the east's favor.

Los Angeles Woman Wins Western Crown

LAKE GENEVA, Wis., Aug. 20. (AP) — Mrs. Harry Pressler of Los Angeles today won the women's western golf championship by defeating Bernice Wall of Oshkosh, 5 and 4, in a match that was hers all the way. Far longer from the tee the Pacific coast player could not lose except on the short game and Miss Wall usually good in that department could not make her putter work well. Neither shot exceptionally good, but Mrs. Pressler was close to par scoring the second nine in one under perfect figures.

Afternoon cards:

Mrs. Pressler, out, 554 554 645—43; in, 344 55.

Miss Wall, out, 554 445 654—42; in, 444 55.

There is absolutely no truth in the report that the Yankees have have conceded the American league pennant to Boston.

WACO ASSAULTS LEADERS IN DOUBLE BILL THIS AFTERNOON

Kiefer and Cobb Booked to Face Shore's and Caldwell On Hill in Crucial Games

Wichita Falls stopped, by the Waco Cubs yesterday after winning eight straight, returns against the upstart central Texas nine Sunday afternoon at Spudder park in a double header. With the season waning today's offering is the next to last twin bill Wichita Falls fans will see this year. First game starts at 3 o'clock.

Joe Kiefer and Herb Cobb are slated for mound service, Spudder Manager Carl Williams said last night.

Shores and Caldwell loom as the probable Waco starters with Benge in line for chores.

Waco, a thorn to the Spudders all season, still strives nobly to break back into the flag-contending class. A double loss for Wichita Falls with a road trip just in the offing could develop serious complications. The Spudders receive Dallas in three games starting Monday and then hike out for the last swing over the loop, returning home Wednesday, September 7 with Shreveport for a one-day stand that brings with it a double header and a four-game series beginning the next day with Fort Worth.

Due to grand larceny in left field by Randie Moore, the Spudders gave Houston a life yesterday, losing to Waco while the Buffs were beating Shreveport. Moore robbed us of enough base hits in the tight spots to ruin several games for us.

Wichita Falls is 10 games ahead of Houston today and 12 in front of Waco.

MUNY TOURNAMENT HERE THIS WEEK TO BE TEXAS' LARGEST

Public links golfers from all such cities as Amarillo, Abilene, Sweetwater, San Angelo, Dallas, Fort Worth, Waco, Austin, Houston, Beaumont, Texas City and San Antonio represented will swarm to the fourth annual municipal tournament carded next week-end at the Weeks' park course.

Fully 200 golfers are expected to participate in the tournament which starts Saturday and closes Sunday, Charles Keirsey, association president, estimates. Keirsey says the tournament will be the largest ever staged on a Texas golf links.

L. O. Landon and C. C. Bunnenberg, Wichita Falls members of the advisory committee, are cooperating with Keirsey and Golf Professional William Strachan, who will be in charge of the play.

Rules, schedule of play and general program for the golfers as drawn up by the tournament committee follow:

"Eligibility: Any white citizen of Texas 16 years of age, who has resided in Texas for one full year, who is within the class of amateur, (as defined by U. S. G. A. rules,) and who is not connected with any recognized country club, and has not been so connected for at least one year next before qualifying day, and who is an active member of or player upon a public golf course in Texas. Entrants may be required to satisfy tournament committee upon questions of eligibility and matters of good conduct; and the committee tournament rules, and award such prizes and standings to next player in line who has abided the rules.

"Schedule: Practice rounds—Scores to be kept. Every town properly represented will have a team, composed by casting together the four best scores. The best individual score will receive a prize, and a prize will be awarded to each member of the winning team. Also the players will be grouped into triangle tournaments of eight, 10, or 16 players, according as entrants may desire to enter the triangles. The best score for 18 holes of every player will be used for the purpose of classification. All scores under 86 will be class A, and all scores over 85 will be class B.

"Sunday, August 28: Tournament proper—thirty-six holes, medal play, regular golf, every move of the ball a stroke, played in foursomes arranged by the committee, but every man for himself. The low individual score for the day shall be declared champion, and shall be awarded first prize, and also a prize for the runner-up. According to Saturday's classification the maker of the low score among the Class A players on this 36 holes will receive a prize, unless the low score be made by the champion or runner-up, in which case the prize shall go to the next lowest Class A score; a like prize under like conditions also apply to class B.

"Golf balls will be given as prizes for birdies made during the play of the regular tournament 36 holes, as well as for the winner and runner-up in the "long drive" contest. Also a number of other prizes.

"Program: Paid for by the association and free to entrants) Saturday, August 27: In the evening—swimming at 'Westmoreland.' Bring along your classiest bathing suit and mingle with these bathing beauties. This is a seven-acre artificial pool made to swim in. It is fed continuously with clean water through three large fountains that would easily be mistaken for artesian wells. This swimming party is a part of the convention—Don't miss it.

"Sunday, August 28.—In the evening — Banquet — (Beefsteak, no fooling,) at Weeks' park club house —a place and steak for every hungry man in a dining room where the coolest breezes blow. There will be no long-winded speeches—just an item or two of top-notch entertainment, led by a real wit, known for the humorous "foot prints" he has left in many of the banquet halls of Texas. After that, which will include the awarding of prizes, the annual business session of this association, election of officers and fixing the place for next year's tournament. Then, friendly good-byes and good lucks until we meet again at the battle of the tournament of 1928."

Sports Done Brown

By NORMAN E. BROWN

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—Saw Chicago Cubs in one of their daily pennant battles here and that battle simply added to my belief—and the general one—that McCarthy has a great ball club—if not one that is set to win the pennant this year.

The game showed the Cubs to be a fighting, dangerous outfit.

They were playing the Reds and won, 7 to 2. The final box score didn't indicate that it was much of a game. But there was much to discuss in the playing of it.

The Cubs showed their spirit, for instance, in the third.

Rube Bressler, of the Reds laid down a grounder to young English, shortstop. The young man messed it up and Bressler was safe. Then the Cubs made up for the boot by pulling a lightning double play on Walker's bounder.

George Kelly tried to start another rally by singling. A moment later he tried to throw the Cub infield off its guard by stealing—and was caught.

In the fourth inning Hughie Critz, a fast man on the bases, drew a pass. Catcher Hargrave drove a long single to right. Cliff Heathcote fielded it and whipped it to third in time to nail Critz. It was a long play and took a perfect throw. The point is the bet wasn't overlooked.

Dempsey Stays At Side of Ailing Wife

CHICAGO, Aug. 20. (AP)—Peaceful in mind and in no hurry whatever to settle down to the task of training, Jack Dempsey today hovered attentatively at the side of his ailing wife, Estelle Taylor. He announced, however, he would go to Lincoln fields Monday, not only to look over his camp, but to start active work.

BROWN BUD WINS.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 20. (AP)—Brown Bud of E. Johnson's stable, won the 58th renewal of the Classic Traverse derby at the Spa track here Saturday. Nimba was second in front of Valorous.

ROUGH STUFF ON MAT CARD

Mantell Meets Reed, Yaqui Takes Chec Again

THE CARD

Dutch Mantell versus Mike Reed. Two falls to a finish.

Yaqui Joe versus Silvio Checco. Two falls to a finish.

Time: Tuesday night, 8:15 o'clock.

Place: Ross stadium.

None of the four wrestlers billed on this week's mat card needs introduction to Wichita Falls fandom. They're all quite well acquainted, so to speak. All but one are roughnecks and this one displays roughneck tendencies under pressure. The "one" is the Indian Yaqui Joe who grapples like a gentleman as a rule but who reverts to his ancestral type if the adversary waxes boisterous. Mantell and Reed never were known to wrestle like gentlemen. Take it all back, Dutch was sick or something one night and worked cleanly here with Jack Reynolds. Otherwise, the apeman is nothing but an out-and-out lumberjack miller. George Hodgins calls his a "Marquis of Packinghouse" exponent.

But to Joe again, the Indian mixed with Checco here last week and they got rough. Chec got hurt and the match was forfeited. Now Chec's back with the revenge light, as it were, burning in his eyes. That's sufficient ballyhoo. The Italian will try to murder the Indian bare handed and the Indian will endeavor to do the same to the Italian.

You can take it as you wish on this Reed-Mantell thing. They've never met before, so they're going together "blind." In a case like that the "submarine-socking" Dutchman, known for his many tricks (nearly all unorthodox) may more than fool the rugged Reed in a riotous get-together. There should be plenty of farce and the chance for a tragedy, too.

DESERT DEATH IS SUCCESSFUL

Fliers Fail to Find Shell Shocked Veteran

By Universal Service.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Aug. 20.—Hope of finding Alfred C. Menard, 32-year-old shell shocked war veteran, who struck out across the sun-parched desert west of here last Tuesday with the avowed purpose of losing himself, alive, waned tonight as the two giant Douglas transport planes returned here late today after circling over miles of the trackless white sands without finding trace of the wandering veteran.

Although their eyes were inflamed from hours of constant scrutiny of the glaring desert, the pilots and observers refused to give up the search and, after the planes had been re-fueled, the grim race between the ships of mercy and the black vultures of the desert was resumed.

Wanted To Die

Last Tuesday Menard fled into the desert to die of thirst and hunger. For months he had worried about his mental condition and a few hours before he was seen running into the desert he told friends that he "could no longer stand the thundering of the guns."

Old Indian scouts and deputy sheriffs with years of experience in desert tracking formed a posse and took up the veteran's trail. For a day and a night they followed the footprints in the sands. Late Tuesday they believed they were right behind Menard as the footprints became irregular, a sure sign, possemen said, that the veteran was weakening and beginning to wander in circles.

At the rim of the Black Canyon, however, the possemen lost the veteran's trail. They searched in every direction for a telltale footprint but the shifting sands balked the keenest eyes.

Knowing that Menard was beyond their aid, the posse called upon the war department to send airplanes to take up the search and two giant planes were ordered out of San Antonio with instructions to "search every square foot of the desert."

A good part of the desert was scanned by the aerial trackers today.

Several times, they said, they saw vultures hovering over inert forms on the floor of the desert but upon swooping close to the ground discovered the scavengers of the desert feasting upon the carcass of a steer.

Public Schools Want Teachers With Degrees

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, Aug. 20.—About 300 students of the University of Texas have been placed in teaching positions since February 1, according to Miss Miriam Dozier, secretary of the Teachers' Appointment committee of the university. The usual number of placements during the year is about 600, said Miss Dozier.

"High schools are demanding more and more that their teachers hold degrees, and some of the schools are asking for persons with master of arts degrees," Miss Dozier added. "Some of the schools are even beginning to require degrees for grade places."

Mrs. Otis B. Hocker Dies at Paris Saturday

PARIS, Texas, Aug. 20. (AP)—Mrs. Otis B. Hocker of Clarksville, wife of a prominent hardware dealer of that city, died Saturday in a hospital here after a brief illness. Because of her critical condition last week the convention of Northeast Texas Hardware Dealers association scheduled for Clarksville was indefinitely postponed.

Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon.

Lloyd's Baby Is "Growing Up"

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lloyd of Hollywood, Cal., and their daughter, Gloria, are snapped while passing through Chicago. The film comedian's baby is "growing up fast," this picture indicates.

12 SCOUTS GO TO MOUNTAINS

Honor Campers Leave Next Thursday

As a reward for better scouting displayed by them at Camp Griffin, Diversion lake, this summer, 12 Wichita Falls and North Texas Boy Scouts will leave here Thursday, August 25, for a 10-day stay in the Ozark mountains. They will return on September 3.

They will travel through the lower part of Oklahoma to Rogers, Ark. They will camp in the mountains near Rogers for five days, then going to Joplin, Mo., and back through Kansas into Oklahoma. They will spend a day in Oklahoma City and visit the Miami lead mines near Tulsa.

The following boys will make the trip: Harold Frierson, Vernon; Sennett Hill, Thrift; Lloyd Current, Petrolia; Stafford Helm, Dundee; Don Garner, Electra, Joe Turner, Electra; Jerry Tarvie, Electra; Noble Steham, Electra; Jerome Allen, troop 11, Wichita Falls; Homer Lee, troop 3, Wichita Falls; J. W. Adair, troop 15, Wichita Falls; Bill Steger, troop 11, Wichita Falls.

Leaf and Boll Worms Threaten After Rains

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Aug. 20.—Much fear as to the possibility of the leaf worms and boll worms on the cotton in this vicinity being increased with the showers falling Friday night and Saturday morning, was being expressed by farmers Saturday. The cotton, however, promised a fine crop and about ready to be picked in some instances, unless a pest arrived to destroy the latter cotton.

Payment of Community Chest Pledges Urged by Shepherd

Urgent need of funds by the organizations comprising the Community Chest was stressed Saturday by Mayor R. E. Shepherd in an appeal issued to some citizens of Wichita Falls to pay their April 1 and July 1 pledges to the Community Chest.

Mayor Shepherd's appeal followed the issuance of a statement by Miss Myrle Neeley, secretary of the Welfare association, in which it was shown that over $6000 is due the Community Chest for April 1 and July 1 pledges.

Miss Neeley's report further disclosed that the Community Chest now has only $1800 in its treasury for the payment of August bills which will amount to approximately $4,500.

In his appeal, Mayor Shepherd said:

"There is an acute need of citizens who have failed to pay their April 1 and July 1 pledges to the Community Chest to pay the pledges at once. Social service organizations in Wichita Falls caring for the sick, babies and indigent old depend upon the Community Chest for the funds necessary in this charitable work.

"It is far less expensive for the citizens to pay these pledges so that the Community Chest can function than by non-payment to necessitate the disbanding of the chest and have the indigent begging alms from individuals. Citizens who made the Community Chest pledges can pay them, if they will, and I hope it will not be said by 'the rest of the world' that Wichita Falls could not, or would not, support a worthy organization such as the Community Chest."

Hawaii Proud of "Own" Flyers

Not omitting any honors for Art Goebel, Hollywood stunt flyer, who won the $25,000 first prize in the Dole Hawaiian flight, the island folk have been celebrating the winning of the $10,000 second prize by their own entries, Captain Paul Schluter, left, veteran Pacific shipmaster, and Martin Jensen of Honolulu, navigator and pilot, respectively, of the Aloha. Jensen has been flying among the Hawaiian islands for years.

MAN SUES FOR DEATH OF COWS

Claims Polluted Water Kills Cattle

Claiming that polluted water flowing from a slaughter house onto his land, occupied by a dairy, was killing his cows, J. M. Schenk filed suit Saturday for $4200 damages against M. V. Poole, J. C. Chenault and S. B. Heard, owners of the slaughter house.

The slaughter house is situated on the old Burk road, northwest of Wichita Falls, and adjoins the land owned by Schenk, according to the allegations in the petition filed by the plaintiff.

That the land for the slaughter house slopes to the dairy and that the polluted water flows onto his land and is consumed by the cows, resulting in the death of the animals, is the contention of the plaintiff in his petition.

Prisoner Wants Suit Delivered

Narcotic Agent Hears Prize Request

M. W. Barnett, federal narcotic officer, made his last trip to visit his prisoners at their request in the county jail Saturday afternoon.

A few of his men there, arrested for alleged dope peddling, and etc., frequently call on him to make confessions, or tell valuable secrets that lead to other and bigger arrest, Mr. Barnett said.

But this time one of his most eccentric prisoners called him Saturday morning, asking that he come to the jail, "in a hurry."

Barnett made a rush call. The prisoner handed him a dollar and asked him "if he would plase go to the tailor shop and get his suit of clothes he had left to be cleaned."

L. B. Ezell Named On U-T English Faculty

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, Aug. 20.—Announcement has been made of the appointment of L. B. Ezell, graduate student of the University of North Carolina, to the English faculty of the University of Texas. Mr. Ezell will be part time instructor at University during the coming year. He is a graduate of Elon college in North Carolina and this summer he is studying in the Universiay of North Carolina.

Niece of Physician Auto Accident Victim

The condition of Miss Virginia Walters, niece of Dr. Charles R. Hartsook, 2715 Ninth street, who is confined in the Morningside hospital in Montclair, N. J., with injuries sustained in an automobile accident Thursday, was reported greatly improved Saturday, according to a telegram received by friends in Wichita Falls. Miss Walters is expected to leave the hospital within two or three weeks. Her skull was fractured in the accident.

Hawkins to Enter Dallas-China Flight

BAKERSFIELD, Cal., Aug. 20. (AP)—Lieut. Ken Hawkins, U. S. N. navigator of the plane El Encanto, which was forced out of the Dole flight by a takeoff crash, announced here today his plan for financing immediately a Dallas to Hongkong flight to be made in a bi-motored amphibian plane having a cruising radius of 7000 miles. The proposed flight, he said, would cost $100,000.

Governor's Enforcement Fund Hits Low Ebb

AUSTIN, Aug. 20. (AP)—Governor Moody's law enforcement fund is so low that expenses incurred by at least one sheriff to date in returning a prisoner to Texas under extradition will have to be paid by the sheriff, who will be reimbursed later by the legislature, it was learned today.

Depletion of the fund has been rather common for years.

Conduct Test To Find "Oklahoma's" Fault

OAKLAND, Cal., Aug. 20. (AP)—Tests were conducted today at the Oakland airport to determine the trouble which forced the "Oklahoma" to return after its start in the Dole air race from Oakland and a piston was "seized" when it returned after its short dash over the ocean Tuesday.

Weevil May Cause Ban On Sweet 'Taters

AUSTIN, Aug. 20. (AP)—Texas may put an embargo on Louisiana sweet potatoes because of the asserted sweet potato weevil infestation there, R. E. McDonald, Texas state entomologist, said today at the close of a hearing on the question.

KIWANIS HEAR KEMP MONDAY

California Farming to Be Discussed

J. A. Kemp, Wichita Falls capitalist and agriculturist who sponsored the recent trip to California made by more than 30 Wichitans, will be the principal speaker at the Kiwanis club luncheon Monday at the Kemp hotel. Mr. Kemp's subject will be "California Farm Production Applied to Wichita Falls and Vicinity." The Luncheon begins promptly at 12:15, it was announced.

Several musical numbers are scheduled to be presented and Homer Sanderford, who has been in Corpus Christi for some time, will make an announcement concerning the state convention to be held there. The local club has 14 registrations for the convention.

George H. Whorton of the Perkins-Timberlake company has returned from a vacation at Hubbard City.

THE PLAIN TRUTH

Is What We Tell You Under Our Used Cars

You don't have to be an expert to buy one of our used cars. You don't have to worry about getting the right price. Our unique USED CAR PLEDGE does away with all that.
We'll tell you the facts as we know them, frankly and honestly. We'll tell you just what kind of service to expect from the car you select.
No fairer proposition has ever been offered the public. Each car is sold on a "one-price" basis, and we stick to our prices, because they are fairly and honestly marked to begin with.

1927 Oakland Special Roadster, like a new car in every way $850
1926 Special Nash Roadster, been driven 12,000 miles $650

TRUSTY HELD FOR KILLING

Hopkins Gets Cook's Help From Local Jail

Jesse Lee Walker, alias "Buster" Walker, was arrested here late Saturday afternoon by Sheriff F. O. Flippen of Hopkins county and Constable Frank Morgan, acting under authority of an indictment by the Hopkins county grand jury last February charging him with the murder of Thestis Hodge, another negro, in May, 1926.

Walker located here at his home on Lake street through the assistance of the local sheriff's department, and was identified by one of his friends, brought here for that purpose by Sheriff Flippen. The latter arrived here about noon Saturday and asked the aid of the local sheriff's and constables' department in apprehending his man.

The negro was indicted in connection with the murder of Hodge, who was found at his home clubbed to death over a year ago, Sheriff Flippen said.

Walker was well known among officers, who said that his frequent habits of becoming intoxicated made him a "regular visitor" at the jail; and finally becoming friendly with the jailers, was allowed a certain amount of freedom in the place. He was there Saturday night without that certain freedom.

Sheriff Flippen will take him back to Sulphur Springs Sunday, where he will await trial in district court in September.

Robert E. Newman, 47 Dies Saturday Night

Robert E. Newman, 47, until recently business agent of the Wichita Painters' union, died Saturday night in a local hospital at 9:35 p. m.

Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock from the Burris-Shepherd funeral parlors. Burial will be in Riverside cemetery.

Mr. Newman came to Wichita Falls three years ago from Fort Worth. He had been business agent of the painters' union until a few weeks ago when he resigned on account of ill health. His home was at 706 Grace street.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Sally Newman; a sister, Mrs. Frank B. Creighton of Wichita Falls, and a brother, Willett Newman, of Burbank, Cal.

AEF FORCED TO BORROW GUNS

U. S. Shipped Few New Guns During War

HOUSTON, Aug. 20. (AP)—The Houston Post-Dispatch in its editions here tonight quotes Major General Ernest Hinds, commander of the eighth corps area, as saying during a brief stop here Friday night that only 24 field guns made in America after her entry into the war had reached the army in France by the time of the armistice.

General Hines, who was Pershing's chief of artillery said he was interested in the question and had one of the officers look up the record for him.

"In 19 months we were able to manufacture and ship to France only 24 guns," he repeated. "We had to rely entirely on the French and British for our field pieces. In the St. Mihael operation only we employed over 300 cannon.

"Of course the material which the army already had in its possession when war was declared was gotten across promtly enough," he said, "but it did not amount to a drop in the bucket. What we needed was new guns and it took us a terribly long time to begin making them in anything like adequate quantities."

General Hinds said he thought there was little danger of a similar situation arising in case the country again is confronted with war.

"In the first place," he said, according to the Post-Dispatch, "we have a lot of stuff left over from the last war, guns and ammunition that we made ourselves or brought from the allies. It will become obsolete in time naturally. But it is now a part of the duty of the assistant secretary of war to keep in close touch with the manufacturers throughout the country and to work out plans for their immediate co-operation in time of war. We should hardly be caught napping so badly another time."

Kelly Nicholson Jr., Dies at Ardmore

Kelly Nicholson Jr., seven-year-old grandson of G. W. Nicholson, 2315 Princeton street, died Saturday night at 8 o'clock at his home in Ardmore, Okla., according to a message received by Mr. Nicholson.

RACE BETTING AT GALVESTON

Galveston Dog Race Card Draws Large Crowds

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, Aug. 20.—Wide open, unmolested race-track betting is a fact in Galveston. It has proven the best drawing card for the resort city of anything in recent seasons. A 90-day season of nightly racing—Sundays included—is now in the second month, and the races averages 6000 patrons per night.

Greyhounds are raced instead of horses. The mechanics of the race track operation is the same as for horse-racing. The betting method is known as the "certificate plan," which is to be tried in horse racing, it is reported, in North Texas fairs this year. Success of the Galveston races is said to be significant to every county fair in Texas where racing is a part of the program.

Certificate Bet Plan.

The "certificate plan" has been upheld by supreme courts of 11 states, according to promoters and has not lost in any state where tested. The Galveston races do not involve a test of the state law at all, it is said, because the law specifies horse-racing.

A brief inspection of the Galveston dog races proves clearly that it is the element of betting which lures the crowds, and not the watching of an interesting series of greyhound races.

There are approximately 80 windows where "certificates" are bought. There are eight races nightly, with eight dogs in each race. Several hundred dogs are in the kennels, and the dogs have names and importance to the race followers the same as well known horses.

Admission of 90 cents is charged to the races, this paying the purses and much of the operating expenses. A grandstand and track have been built at a cost of $100,000.

$2500 Bet On Race.

For each race the entries and the approximate odds are posted on bulletin boards. Apparently from $1500 to $2500 is bet on each race. The patrons line up at the 80 windows and buy tickets. The tickets are in $5 and $2 denominations only.

Before a race is over the "win, place and show" value of tickets or "dividends" on the winners, are posted on the boards. Winning tickets are cashed at these values. It is understood 10 per cent is deducted from the ticket sales to cover the operating costs and the profits of the races.

Favorite or heavy odds on dogs which win pay little more than the cost of the tickets, since most of the money is placed on them. An off-odd pays as high as $93 for $5 for first place and $25 for third place.

Dogs Are Honest.

The race followers accept it as a truism that dogs are more honest than men—than all men—since there is no change to govern the outcome of the race, no chance to pull up a dog that has started.

Most of the races are for three, four and five furlongs.

Attendance at the races, being approximately equal to the total number of persons who patronize all the bathing beaches combined, is accepted in Galveston as proving that there is a substantial following nowadays in Texas of the ancient game of racing. The races draw hundreds of patrons from out-of-town who visit Galveston only for the opportunity of attending them, race-track officials say.

A guess is that 4000 to 6000 individual bets are made in the course of a night's racing by a race crowd of 6000 persons. These figures are borne out by the fact that there is a queue of buyers of tickets at each of the 80 windows for each of the eight races.

Racing Coming Back.

"Racing is coming back. Dog races prove the interest of the public. Horse-racing will have a still wider appeal," one promoter of the "certificate" system of racing declared—a man who insists the method is clearly within the Texas anti-book-making law, and declares he is anxious to take a test to the state supreme court in order to have the highest tribunal pass finally on the legality of this method.

Harmonica Experts Tuning Up For Championship Contest

Mayor Shepherd to Be One of Judges Wednesday Night At Bellevue Park

There'll be a new champion Thursday morning in Wichita Falls.

He or she will be the best harmonica player in the city and in addition to the championship will also possess a valuable harmonica which has been donated by the Hohner Harmonica company as a prize.

The champion will be selected at the city-wide harmonica contest to be conducted by Bill Ward, recreational director of the department of parks, Wednesday night at Bellevue park. The contest will start at 8 p. m.

Mayor R. E. Shepherd was added Saturday to the list of judges, which is composed of Alva Wilgus, musical director of the department of parks; Charles J. Johnson, who 25 years ago was rated as the best professional harmonica player on the American stage; and Steve Stevenson, of The Record-News editorial staff, a professional harmonicist on the Keith and Orpheum vaudeville circuits several years ago.

Mr. Ward has divided the contest into two divisions; the junior and the senior. All contestants 17 years old and younger will contest in the junior division and all those over 17 years of age will be in the senior division. Three prizes will be awarded in each division. Each prize will be an expensive harmonica donated by the Hohner company.

The winners in the junior and senior divisions will be pitted against each other at the end of the contest for the championship.

The oldest entrant in the contest is W. B. Morton, who is 55 years old. The youngest entrant is Guy Rogers, Jr., six years old.

Following are the names of the contestants:

WORLD WAR DEAD KNOWN

99.9 Per Cent of Americans Identified

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20. (AP)—Official check-up by the war department made public today shows that 99.9 per cent of the Americans killed during the World war have been identified and now sleep in registered graves either at home or in France.

The total number of deaths in the A. E. F. including those who died on transports is placed at 77,771. On June 30 of the present year, the number of registered graves was 77,701, of which 46,284 were in the United States, 605 in foreign countries for private interment and 30,812 remaining in Europe.

Of those in Europe 20,880 are buried in France, 431 in Great Britain, 373 in Belgium, while 123 at the request of their families have been left undisturbed on the battlefields where they were originally buried.

Woman Who Confessed to Murder For Which Negro Died Is Freed

NORTON, Va., Aug. 20. (AP)—Although police said she had confessed she killed Bertie Lindsey in Knoxville, Tenn., about five years ago, for which crime a negro was electrocuted, Mrs. Sadie Mendil, aged 28, was released from jail here today.

Chief of Police Warren said he had been advised by telephone by the office of the Knoxville chief of police that Maurice Mays had paid the death penalty for the crime, and that records there showed no charge against the woman.

Mrs. Mendil and her husband, a palmist, arrived here Wednesday. She went immediately to the chief of police's office and volunteered a confession, explaining that her conscience had been troubling her.

At the time of the crime, police said, Mrs. Mendil told them, her name was Mrs. John Roddy and she lived at Devonia, Tenn. Dressed in men's clothes and with her face blackened, according to her story, she slipped into the Lindsey woman's home and killed her in bed. She did so, she said, because a few nights previous she had trailed her husband, a traveling man, to the Lindsey home, and had seen her husband and the Lindsey woman together on the street.

When she left the jail, Mrs. Mendil told Chief Warren she was going to Knoxville to see her two-year-old son who is living with friends.

HASKELL GETS FIRST COTTON

O. H. Andress Brings In Initial Bale

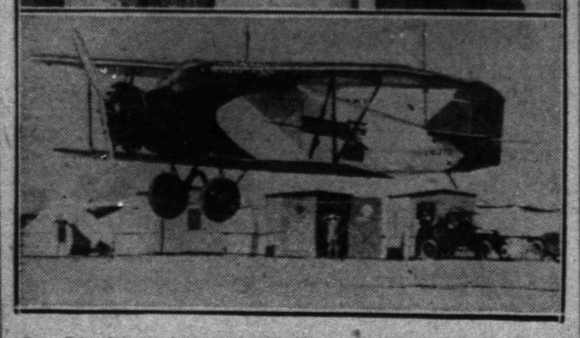

Special to The Record News.

HASKELL, Aug. 20.—Haskell's first bale of cotton from the 1927 crop arrived in town Monday afternoon, and was ginned by the Farmers' Gin company. The bale was owned by O. H. Andress, farmer, five miles south of Haskell. The bale weighed 285 pounds and was bought by Siegel and Bizzell of this city, who paid 19 cents per pound for the staple, a total of $73.15 beside the premium of $50. W. L. Davis brought in the second bale to the same gin on Tuesday and it weighed 451 pounds. Mr. Davis was given $25. On Wednesday morning Joe Granetbeaur brought in the first bale of picked cotton of the season from his 1330 pounds of seed cotton he received a bale of 470 pounds. Mr. Granetbeaur was given $12.50.

FARM BODIES WILL ALIGN

Steps For Organization Started Saturday

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 20. (AP)—Preliminary steps in the organization of the Texas Federation of Agricultural associations were completed at an all day meeting held here today by representatives of various associations and independent farmers. The association is intended to be a non-partisan organization for the purpose of securing such legislation as will be directly beneficial to the agricultural interests of the state and indirectly to the people as a whole. R. E. Kleberg of Corpus Christi, president of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers' association was named temporary chairman. R. L. Bobbitt of Laredo, speaker of the Texas house of representatives sounded a keynote of co-operation on the part of all farmers.

"Ninety per cent of the 1174 bills introduced in the state legislature during the last session were written and brought to Austin by paid attorneys of well organized groups," Bobbitt told the farmers, "those bills which were eventually passed got through because a good organization was behind them.

"Because the organized bankers of the state wanted 26 bills they were passed. Because the state medical associations wanted the medical department reorganized it was. With the present worn out legislative machinery in the state, your reprpsentatives can not study all bills and must let the organizations influence them.

"If all these other organizations can get together why can't you farmers? When you do get together in an organization such as you have organized today then you'll begin to get what you want. Quit passing the buck to the other fellow and do some work yourselves."

The association will complete its organization at the state fair in Dallas.

Two Arrests Made At Kemp City Fair

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Aug. 20.—Four arrests were made by special officers, C. E. Taylor and L. S. Tinnin, at the Kemp City fair Friday night. Two men were arrested when caught stealing casings late Friday night, giving their home address as Dad's Corner community, and it was necessary to fire two shots before they were caught. They were brought to the Electra jail along with two men who gave their address as Paducah, who were drunk. The casing thieves were caught with only one casing, but are said to have made away with a number before found.

TRUSTY HELD FOR KILLING

Hopkins Gets Cook's Help From Local Jail

Jesse Lee Walker, alias "Buster" Walker, was arrested here late Saturday afternoon by Sheriff F. O. Flippen of Hopkins county and Constable Frank Morgan, acting under authority of an indictment by the Hopkins county grand jury last February charging him with the murder of Thestis Hodge, another negro, in May, 1926.

Walker located here at his home on Lake street through the assistance of the local sheriff's department, and was identified by one of his friends, brought here for that purpose by Sheriff Flippen. The latter arrived here about noon Saturday and asked the aid of the local sheriff's and constables' department in apprehending his man.

The negro was indicted in connection with the murder of Hodge, who was found at his home clubbed to death over a year ago, Sheriff Flippen said.

Walker was well known among officers, who said that his frequent habits of becoming intoxicated made him a "regular visitor" at the jail; and finally becoming friendly with the jailers, was allowed a certain amount of freedom in the place. He was there Saturday night without that certain freedom.

Sheriff Flippen will take him back to Sulphur Springs Sunday, where he will await trial in district court in September.

San Antonio Motorists Pays Lowest Price For Gasoline

By Universal Service.

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 20.—San Antonians tomorrow will operate their automobiles on the cheapest gasoline in the state.

Leading oil companies here today announced a two-cent reduction in the price, making it 16 cents at filling stations instead of 18 cents, the Friday figure.

Houston, Dallas and Fort Worth, representatives of the large companies here said, received a one-cent cut in gas prices, the filling station price being 17 cents.

WORLD WAR DEAD KNOWN

99.9 Per Cent of Americans Identified

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20. (AP)—Official check-up by the war department made public today shows that 99.9 per cent of the Americans killed during the World war have been identified and now sleep in registered graves either at home or in France.

The total number of deaths in the A. E. F. including those who died on transports is placed at 77,771. On June 30 of the present year, the number of registered graves was 77,701, of which 46,284 were in the United States, 605 in foreign countries for private interment and 30,812 remaining in Europe.

Of those in Europe 20,880 are buried in France, 431 in Great Britain, 373 in Belgium, while 123 at the request of their families have been left undisturbed on the battlefields where they were originally buried.

Woman Who Confessed to Murder For Which Negro Died Is Freed

NORTON, Va., Aug. 20. (AP)—Although police said she had confessed she killed Bertie Lindsey in Knoxville, Tenn., about five years ago, for which crime a negro was electrocuted, Mrs. Sadie Mendil, aged 28, was released from jail here today.

Chief of Police Warren said he had been advised by telephone by the office of the Knoxville chief of police that Maurice Mays had paid the death penalty for the crime, and that records there showed no charge against the woman.

Mrs. Mendil and her husband, a palmist, arrived here Wednesday. She went immediately to the chief of police's office and volunteered a confession, explaining that her conscience had been troubling her.

At the time of the crime, police said, Mrs. Mendil told them, her name was Mrs. John Roddy and she lived at Devonia, Tenn. Dressed in men's clothes and with her face blackened, according to her story, she slipped into the Lindsey woman's home and killed her in bed. She did so, she said, because a few nights previous she had trailed her husband, a traveling man, to the Lindsey home, and had seen her husband and the Lindsey woman together on the street.

When she left the jail, Mrs. Mendil told Chief Warren she was going to Knoxville to see her two-year-old son who is living with friends.

HASKELL GETS FIRST COTTON

O. H. Andress Brings In Initial Bale

Special to The Record News.

HASKELL, Aug. 20.—Haskell's first bale of cotton from the 1927 crop arrived in town Monday afternoon, and was ginned by the Farmers' Gin company. The bale was owned by O. H. Andress, farmer, five miles south of Haskell. The bale weighed 285 pounds and was bought by Siegel and Bizzell of this city, who paid 19 cents per pound for the staple, a total of $73.15 beside the premium of $50. W. L. Davis brought in the second bale to the same gin on Tuesday and it weighed 451 pounds. Mr. Davis was given $25. On Wednesday morning Joe Granetbeaur brought in the first bale of picked cotton of the season from his 1330 pounds of seed cotton he received a bale of 470 pounds. Mr. Granetbeaur was given $12.50.

That more vitimines are found in many factory-canned foods than in those put up in homes, is the recent claim of an expert.

Steps For Organization Started Saturday

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 20. (AP)—Preliminary steps in the organization of the Texas Federation of Agricultural associations were completed at an all day meeting held here today by representatives of various associations and independent farmers. The association is intended to be a non-partisan organization for the purpose of securing such legislation as will be directly beneficial to the agricultural interests of the state and indirectly to the people as a whole. R. E. Kleberg of Corpus Christi, president of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers' association was named temporary chairman. R. L. Bobbitt of Laredo, speaker of the Texas house of representatives sounded a keynote of co-operation on the part of all farmers.

"Ninety per cent of the 1174 bills introduced in the state legislature during the last session were written and brought to Austin by paid attorneys of well organized groups," Bobbitt told the farmers, "those bills which were eventually passed got through because a good organization was behind them.

"Because the organized bankers of the state wanted 26 bills they were passed. Because the state medical associations wanted the medical department reorganized it was. With the present worn out legislative machinery in the state, your representatives can not study all bills and must let the organizations influence them.

"If all these other organizations can get together why can't you farmers? When you do get together in an organization such as you have organized today then you'll begin to get what you want. Quit passing the buck to the other fellow and do some work yourselves."

The association will complete its organization at the state fair in Dallas.

Two Arrests Made At Kemp City Fair

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Aug. 20.—Four arrests were made by special officers, C. E. Taylor and L. S. Tinnin, at the Kemp City fair Friday night. Two men were arrested when caught stealing casings late Friday night, giving their home address as Dad's Corner community, and it was necessary to fire two shots before they were caught. They were brought to the Electra jail along with two men who gave their address as Paducah, who were drunk. The casing thieves were caught with only one casing, but are said to have made away with a number before found.

Party of Wichitans Prove Good Anglers

Not satisfied with a nice string of bass including one five-puounder, Charles R. Fuller, insurance man, Judge C. M. McFarland, county judge; I. J. Vogel, attorney, and Hank Smith, oil man, were again on their way to Lake Kemp Saturday afternoon, having returned the night before from a successful foray on the bass tribe.

The party spent Friday at the lake, fishing in Judge McFarland's houseboat, said to be the largest on the lake.

The Philippine Islands, discussed as a rubber-growing country, bought more than $2,500,000 in rubber goods from the United States in the past year.

Lack of Machinery Handicaps Road Aid

AUSTIN, Aug. 20.(AP)—Lack of machinery and forces prevented the state highway department from doing about $500,000 worth of maintenance work in 17 Texas counties for which contracts must be let to outsiders soon, R. A. Thompson, state highway engineer, said today.

Having given a pint of blood to an unknown woman in a hospital in England, a man later found that the patient was the sister of his brother's fiance.

God Her Chief Guide In Rearing Children Avers Successful Mother Here

BY PEGGY PIEDMONT

Mothers may raise their children according to set rules or they may raise them by feeding them when they are hungry, letting them sleep when they are sleepy and awaken at their leisure. But Mrs. S. A. Barnes, wife of Dr. S. A. Barnes, pastor of the Floral Heights Methodist church, says in giving her views on rearing children, that it makes no difference what method is pursued, that the main thing is to pray over each child individually, especially on important questions concerning their welfare that are sure to come up.

"I have reared three fine children to be grown, two girls and a boy, and despite the fact that they are preacher's children, I know that they are as fine a bunch as you can find anywhere. You know it is commonly said that preacher's children are the worst in the world, but statistics do not prove this. On the other hand the standing of preacher's children are of the highest as a whole," Mrs. Barnes declared.

Health Is the Thing

"While I think you have to manage each child differently, as each disposition is different, I believe that my children's good health while they were quite young, was at least partly due to the fact that I read and studied all the time and reared them on a schedule that required regular habits of sleep and eating. No, I have no pet theories. I used to have before I had children, but with the actual experience of rearing a family, all my pet theories vanished and I found that it took all my time and thought to meet their individual problems each day without worrying about trying to carry out any ideas I might have formerly had."

Mrs. Barnes is the mother of two splendid girls and one son. The eldest, Mrs. B. W. Miner, one of Wichita Falls' most popular matrons, who before her marriage was Miss Fannie Margaret Barnes, Miss Adnah Orinne Barnes and Seaton Barnes.

Girls Finish College

The girls completed college courses before they were 20 years of age and previous to her marriage a few years ago, Mrs. Miner taught English and mathematics in the local schools. She has her A. B. degree from S. M. U., and Miss Adnah Orinne after receiving her B. S. degree at S. M. U. a year before last, taught home economics last term in the Mexia high school. Seaton didn't take to school work so much as the girls did, according to his mother, and while she said she would have liked for him to have had his degree, he was anxious to get out for himself, and after a year at Southwestern university has been engaged in the oil game for the past three years.

"Seaton has done well in his chosen business, and I have begun to feel that unless a boy is studying for a profession, that probably it is just as well after he finishes high school and one year at college that he takes up the responsibility of making a living, which after all is his ultimate aim in life. I am proud of my boy. I had hoped that he would be a preacher, but outside of occupying a chair on the pulpit when his father preached, which he always did until we moved to Wichita Falls, I am afraid that is as far as he will ever go in that direction. However, I believe in letting children choose their own profession or business in life. I do not believe that they will make a success of something that someone else chooses for them."

God Gives Success

"But I want you to emphasize the fact that whatever success I have had in the rearing of my children, that I owe it to God, for He has certainly been the guiding hand in the bringing up of my family. I took every problem to Him in prayer and was guided by His supreme leadership. I believe that God should be the chief reliance of every mother, and that she should pray over her children's problems before making any decision of importance," Mrs. Barnes said.

Dr. Barnes was also given credit for his part in the rearing of this model little family. Mrs. Barnes thinks that probably preachers are able to give their wives more cooperation in the bringing up of the children than the average man, because in his work he makes a closer study of their requirements. This is also a great help, she declares.

IN THE PICTURES

Miss Eileen Willis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Willis, 1406 Tilden, is one of Wichita Falls' popular debutantes who received her B. A. degree from Baylor university last year.

Miss Margaret Brown is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. W. Brown and is another Baylor student. Miss Brown leaves next month to enter school and will be in her senior year work.

Misses Iline and Louise Baker of Wills Point have returned home after spending a week with Misses Eileen Willis and Margaret Brown. The girls are all schoolmates at Baylor, and the visitors furnished inspiration for some of the most delightful summer parties of the season given for members of the younger set.

Miss Dorothy Nolen together with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Nolen, has returned from Colorado where she has been doing special work in dramatic art in the state university at Boulder. The young artist is one of the city's most talented readers, and completed a course at Northwestern university last year. She will open a studio in expression September 1, and is an active member of the Readers' club.

Mrs. Bryant Hostess To Alathean Group At Her Residence

Members of Group three of the Alathean Sunday school class of the First Baptist church were entertained in a combined business session Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. Burl Bryant at her home, 1111 Monroe street.

Features of the session was the presentation of a dainty gift to Mrs. E. E. Henry, one of the members, who is moving the first of September to Ardmore, Okla., and in the business meeting, the election of Mrs. H. G. Wyatt, group leader. Contests and candy making furnished diversion.

Refreshments were served to Mesdames George Brown, A. J. Farris, Ben C. Ammann, Edison E. Henry, O. L. Laumen, W. K. Guinn, J. R. Moss, B. W. Lovelace, E. C. Hall, E. S. Randolph, H. G Wyatt, S. E. Dancer, W. E. Brownrigg, and Misses Betty Lou Ammann and Dell Wyatt.

Mrs. McLarry Gives Surprise Party

Mrs. Jess McLarry was hostess to a group of friends at her home Monday evening when she entertained with a surprise party for her husband in observation of his birthday. Games and contests furnished the diversion in which comic prizes were presented to Homer V. McConkey and James L. Pollard.

Three tables were arranged for "42" and another enjoyable feature, was the cutting of the birthday cake that centered the table.

Refreshments were served to Mr. and Mrs. James L. Pollard, Mr. and Mrs. Erwin A. Ramming, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Caddell, Mr. and Mrs. Homer V. McConkey, Mr. and Mrs. V. N. Armstrong and Jess McLarry.

Royal Neighbors Meet Thursday

The Royal Neighbors met for their dinner day session at the hall Thursday with a large attendance. A sumptuous menu was served at 12 o'clock after which the business session was held. The camp will resume regular sessions beginning the first Thursday in September, according to the announcement.

Mesdames R. W. Oakey, Thompson and Brown served on the dinner committee.

Mrs. Bowen Hostess At Bridge Party

Complimenting Mrs. Mack Boring of Fort Worth, house guest of Mrs. W. B. Brookover, Mrs. James P. Bowen was hostess to a group of friends Thursday morning at her home, 1705 Monroe street, at bridge. In the games, Mrs. W. H. Caldwell was awarded the high score favor.

Luncheon was served at the Angelina Tea rooms.

Blue Bonnet Players Will Hold Meeting

The Blue Bonnet players will meet at the Floral Heights Presbyterian church Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in the regular business and study hour session. Every member is expected to be present.

American Season In Full Swing In London With Texas Well Delegated

BY GERTRUDE LADY DECIES
Universal Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Aug. 20.—The "American season"—as the usual autumn season is coming to be known on account of so many American visitors arriving in London for the early fall festivities—is in full swing now and hundreds of visitors from the United States are arriving on every boat.

Many of the tourists are now returning after their European travels, but there are more Americans in London now than ever. Many are making trips to a number of fine old English gardens which have opened to swell the funds for the national memorial to Queen Victoria.

Among the latest arrivals are Dwight Davis, and J. Elch Steers, of New York, with a family party.

• • •

THE regular flood of Americans is going to Scotland to join the already large contingent which has settled down for two months' grouse shooting. Among them are Miss Florence Compton and the Misses Lindsey of Springfield, Mass., Dr. and Mrs. Burdett, E. P. Craig and Miss Isabelle Craig, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Bletsoe of San Antonio, Mrs. Collins Campbell of Oklahoma City, S. H. Stemm, Jr., of Chicago, Frank S. Johnson of Winston-Salem, and Al Dumgan and party of Bethlehem, Pa.

• • •

KING GEORGE is shortly visiting with Lord and Lady Sefton, at Abbeystad, in the heart of Wyresdale, Lancashire, and Queen Mary is going to Castle Bromwich, Birmingham, next week, where she will be the guest of the dowager countess of Bradford at Castle Bromwich hall. Several members of the royal family also are planning to attend the famous highland games at Braemar early in September.

• • •

MISS R. E. GOULDING of New York City, created a mild sensation in Berkeley this week when she appeared wearing a necklace actually worked on to the gown itself. The black velvet gown has three rows of "diamonds" sewn on it in the front and two on the back.

• • •

I NOTICE, as a matter of fact, that jewel embroidery is becoming a feature of the autumn gowns. I saw one gown this week with a pendant ornament rather like a jeweled fob hanging from the left

Wichitans Guests At Lovely Dinner In Colorado Hotel

Wichita Falls' friends of Miss Virginia Robertson, who have been touring Colorado this summer, were delightfully entertained at dinner at the Olin hotel in Denver, the past week with Miss Robertson hostess.

Covers were laid for Misses Dorothy Shamburger, Jane and Ruth Moore, Winzella Witherspoon, Mary Tancred, Dorothy Nolen and Messrs. Lou Kline, John Herring, Bob Reed, Clark Ellison, George Moss, Al Tipple and Ted Woods.

Miss Robertson with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Robertson, is touring Colorado and the western coast.

Fort Worth Guests Given Pretty Party

Naming her house guests, Misses Florence and Lillian Netherton of Fort Worth, honorees, Mrs. J. E. Mooring entertained at "hearts" Tuesday evening at her home on Britain street.

In the games, Miss Lillian Netherton and Ted Roarcass won the high score favors, while Miss Clarie Putnam of Alvord and Otis Carnes were consoled for low.

At a late hour, refreshments were served to Misses Cynthia May Petit, Ina Myrle Warner, Claris Putnam, Lillian and Florence Netherton, Mary Stevenson, Alta Stevenson and Messrs. Otis Carnes, E. R. Hightill, Ted Roarcass, Pate Oakes, Milton Price, and Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Albritton.

Miss Fannie Blank Gives Bridge Party

Miss Fannie Blank was hostess at her home, 700 Taylor street, Thursday afternoon, entertaining with a lovely bridge party. Cut flowers and ferns furnished an attractive setting for three tables arranged for the games. Miss Jean Fisk won the high score favor, while Miss Martha Bergolofsky was consoled for low.

Refreshments were served to Misses Jean Fisk, Martha Bergolofsky, Marguerite Holland, Gelda Combs, Clara Massier, Maerita Horn, Gertrude Krass, Elizabeth Massier, Hazel Hobbs, and Mesdames R. E. Davis and Abe Blank.

School Crowd Home— Not All At Work—
Cooler Days Ahead— Bits of Indian Lore—
First Hint of Fall— And Bobbed Hair—

I SURMISE reading between lines, Kitty, you can easily guess that like all restless Americans, I am in that class, and writing so much about everybody else traveling, I too, am eager to be on the wing. Those who have not already gone are like the auctioneer says, "going fast," and when September comes they'll be going faster, 'cause that month sees the departure of the college crowd.

And this month also sees the return of a school crowd who have been taking summer work in the University of Colorado at Boulder. Mrs. J. D. Bright and Marjorie and Don have already returned, also Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Nolen and Dorothy. The boys and girls were in school while their parents spent several weeks in and around Boulder waiting until the end of the summer term to bring them home for a brief breathing spell before the fall and winter work sets in.

Today others who have attended both summer semesters are expected home and they are Mary Tancred, Clarence Beavers, Louise Kay, Weldon Carter, Evelyn Frances Lyle, Sara Wheeler, T. P. Duncan Jr., Winzella Witherspoon and Mrs. Anna Witherspoon.

• • • •

AND with the coming of September, our minds turn constantly to thoughts of cooler weather and the beginning of club work and more social activity. And while we are thinking of club work I am reminded of what I heard a few days ago about the State Federation of Women's club session to be held at El Paso in November. So it would seem that while some have been taking the summer easy so to speak, others have probably been harder at work than ever before, and surely one of these is Miss Kate Friend of Waco. For she has been chosen to write the birthday pageant for the convention, which is always one of the outstanding women's affairs in the state.

The presentation will do honor to Mrs. Edward Rotan of Waco, first president of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs. The organization has grown from a small membership to a membership of 60,000. The pageant will also memoralize Waco as the home of the organization.

The pageant will be presented in Liberty hall in El Paso, which seats 3000. Music, effective lighting, and a "runway," said to be like the kind used by the A. E. F. in their theatricals in France will be used.

A group of Wichita Falls women will attend this state convention and among these will probably be Mrs. Ben G. Oneal, president of the Womans Forum, Mrs. J. C. Berney, Mrs. P. P. Langford, Mrs. Ola G. Hamlin, Mrs. A. B. Lipscomb, Mrs. J. M. F. Gill of Burkburnett and no doubt a host of others.

• • •

YES the first breath of fall is now in the air. Already plans are being made for the T.-O. fair, and Wichita Falls women are beginning to think seriously about the part they will take in the big show. The most interesting and attractive displays in the woman's building are arranged by the county home demonstration clubs of Wichita county and already these women are thinking about the displays and are making plans for them. A rally day program for Thursday to be given at the fair grounds is announced by Miss Ethel Louise Webb, county demonstration agent, which is expected to be attended by at least 200 club women. On this committee are Mrs. A. N. Dahl, Mrs. A. D. Butcher and Mrs. George Leath. Miss Mamie Lee Hayden, district demonstration agent, will take part, and an interesting feature will be a talk by Mrs. W. C. Williams, who was Wichita county's representative on the Farm Woman's special to California.

IN THE GLOW OF THE CAMP FIRE

Members of the Temskatawa Camp Fire group met at headquarters Thursday afternoon and following a brief business session spent the hours in doing bead work. The Indian bead stitch was stressed and each girl learned the stitch. The meeting this week will be held at the home of Mildred Anderson, 2599 Broad street when the girls will work on leather bags and purses using the Indian bead stitch.

Those present were: Mildred Anderson, Olive Humphrey, Eunice Sommerville, Edith Long, Della Gail Morgan, Nadine Loofbourrough, Inogene Kroeger and Edith Crump.

Baptist B. Y. P. U. Has Informal Party

Members of the Highland Heights Baptist junior B. Y. P. U. enjoyed a delightful party and watermelon social at Scotland park Thursday evening. Games were played after which the ice cold melon was served.

Those attending were Viola Halford, Helen Muller, Coralee Ludolphus, Bernice Jarman, Mary Lee Bradford, Ruth and Ruby Wheat, Margaret Smith, Ella Lee Hanvey, Frances and Virginia Cox, Marjorie Bradburn, Beatrice Hanvey, Margaret Steel, Myrtle Gray, Margaret Gray, Alvin Fry and George Musick, J. H. Herndon, Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Ludolphus, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Muller and Mrs. M. J. Driskell.

Mr. and Mrs. Peters Honorees At Dinner

Complimenting Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Peters who are leaving soon for Enid, Okla., to make their home, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ratliff entertained at dinner Tuesday evening at their home, 1711 Britain street. Mr. Peters goes to accept a responsible position with the Oklahoma Gas and Electric company. He was for six years with the Texas Electric Service company.

Covers were laid for several couples.

Grace Methodist W. F. M. S. To Meet

The Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the Grace Methodist church will meet at the home of Mrs. Annie Friberg, 1511 Tenth street Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. A feature of the session will be the opening of the mite boxes.

Pretty American "Tomboy" Becomes Dignified Hostess To Prince Of Wales

By GEORGINA WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20. — The lagging midsummer days bring but little in the way of social activities here, but there is plenty to talk about when folk get together at the country clubs.

Washingtonians are forever getting into the spotlight wherever they happen to be, and reports coming from all over the country and the world, for that matter, about their doings furnish entertaining subjects for chatter "back home" here.

It's really surprising how small the world is anyway and how somebody or other in the old home town just will find out your deepest secrets.

Well, there's a lot to talk about just now. Take cute little Josephine Weller, for instance. A few seasons ago she made her debut in Washington and was a hoydenish tot whom everybody loved.

Her curly little bobbed head, cropped very close for comfort, brightened up many a dull party, and her twinkling toes, so expert in the dance, never were known to trample a masculine patent leather pump.

But the gray-haired dowagers did put their heads together and low as how this present generation of debutantes didn't have much poise and dignity. No, Josephine couldn't be said to have much dignity.

Josephine up and married young George Fulford, Jr., of Canada and since then she has been wiggling along somehow with four or five castles. It was a surprse wedding and everybody wondered who this Canadian lad was anyway, to capture the most carefree and unhampered debbie of the season.

Well, Mrs. George Fulford, Jr., has just entertained the prince of Wales at a very exclusive breakfast and an equally exclusive yachting party up there across the border.

Yes, sir-ee, our little Josephine certainly has stepped right out into the most ultra circles—and she's proved herself dignified enough for the royal set. And wouldn't the gray-haired dowagers, singly and collectively, have given the best ten years of their lives for the same chance at the heir to the British throne!

It was at an immense ball in Ottawa that the Weller child captivated the royal eye, an eye long known to look interestedly at American girls. And so it was that out of the social war among Canadian ladies to see who would be lucky enough to entertain H. R. H. our Josephine came right out on top.

I've an idea little Mrs. George Fulford, Jr., is not much concerned with her reputed lack of dignity.

Among the morsels that make good conversation is the recent wedding of the girl whom we all knew as Nona McAdoo to Dr. Edward Spencer Cowles, New York psychiatrist.

Nona married herself, taking as her husband Ferdinand de Mohrenschildt, who was at that time second secretary of the Russian embassy here. Then she spent a season abroad in the Red Cross hospitals during the war and after the death of her husband opened in Paris a bureau of information and guidance for Americans interested in the purchase of antiques on the continent and in England.

Since that time, Nona McAdoo has been in Washington on and off—always the same charming Nona whom we loved in the old days. Her present marriage is considered a brilliant one, though the wedding was one of those quiet affairs that one knows about only after it has happened.

Nona has a little sister in Washington now. Sally McAdoo, after her graduation from Bryn Mawr a year ago, came here and turned into a "working girl." She goes to "business" every day just like anybody else and seems to enjoy it.

THE newest evening capes are transparent. I noticed Mrs. B. P. The effect, when wrapped around the wearer over a slim, black gown, was extremely beautiful.

BUT NOT everybody is working. Some are enjoying these vacation days to the fullest extent. And among these are the James L. Duffy family. Happily located near Rindoso, N. M., in a cabin on the cool mountain side among the pines, Mrs. Duffy writes, "We have arrived home at last—back to our old Sleepy Hollow cabin on the banks of the Rindoso river at the foot of a mountain where we spent last summer. If I could only send you one big life sized whiff of these pines—of all the rejuvenating places in the world, this has them all beat. We traveled over 1400 miles around Santa Fe before we came here. Santa Fe is called the "City Different" and it is without doubt as strange a place as can be found within the boundaries of the United States. We visited the ruins of the cliff dwellers and I was the only coward in the family. Even our little six-year-old daughter, scaled a 50 foot ladder and explored the compartments under the guidance of an Indian policeman—they climbed around and through an old Indian Pueblo that has been recently excavated and then down the sides of the cliff again and then down and down until I really grew dizzy watching them from the car. One day we went to Taos—saw the artists colony, a most wonderful Indian Pueblo and were entertained by the chief's little four-year-old son. Going back to Santa Fe we passed 16 cars and two trams on a mountain road that surely came very near making a wreck out of me.

• • •

ANOTHER day we enjoyed the rare sight of watching the famous Maria and Julian Martinez bake some pottery that we had ordered and also attended an Indian church. The choir (all Indians) sang the full high mass in Latin and stanndng behind the priest as immovable as as sentinel and with arms folded was a full blooded Ildefonso Indian.

"We were in the palace of the governor and the children rang the oldest bell in America (brought over from Spain) and also saw the oldest house in the United States.

"Nell and Maxine have made some wonderful friends up here and we had a party for the young people here last night.

"I want you to come and see my pottery and kodak pictures when I come back."

The invitation is already accepted and wish you could be with me and see all the interesting things that I know Mrs. Duffy will bring home with her.

A PARIS news note says: "There is no doubt of the fact that bobbed hair of the extreme type is going out. Hair for the making of switches and transformations is greatly in demand. Some of the working girls who were never bobbed are selling their tresses for this purpose." What a pity!

But an added note says, "Some women will always bob, because they're getting old fast, and think the bob makes them look younger."

How about you Kitty? Do you intend to let your hair grow out to be in style? My advice is to follow the fashion, no matter what it may be. And this is the last word on that subject from——

MODERN GHOST STORY

LONDON.— London introduces the modern ghost story. Veiled and mysterious figures are roaming around the streets in a certain vicinity, slipping back into a mysterious house with a sign "Beauty Specialist." The "ghosts" are women who are having their faces altered and cannot be seen for a while. But they must have fresh air.

CRAFTY.

Music - Musicians

By MME. COBINA WRIGHT.
Famous Songstress and Society Leader.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—"Seest thou a man diligent in his business," says the prophet, "and he shall sit before kings," and in this day and age the proverb applies to woman, for woman in this advanced generation has every opportunity to forge her way to the front, if her feminine mind so wills it, and she does not take advantage of her ancient prerogative to change it.

This occurred to me last week when in the midst of the vast assemblage of men forming the symphony orchestra for the open concerts given every evening in the stadium, I discovered one lone woman with flaming hair, playing the celeste.

Her name is Mrs. Berthe Vandenberg. For two years she has played this delicate instrument, like a toy piano, at these concerts, and has the added distinction of being the only member of the feminine persuasion in the orchestra. Because she is the only representative of her sex, she feels duty bound to be careful of her p's and q's particularly in the matter of punctuality, less perchance any slackness on her part might be construed as a failing common to all women.

• • •

"PEOPLE have those little prejudices about women," says Mrs. Vandenberg," and I must be awfully careful never to add color to them by any deed or laxness on my part."

It was while the Manhattan opera house was in full swing that Mrs. Vandenberg first became a player of the celeste, and her careful manipulation of this instrument has made her a unique figure in musical circles.

One day while she was playing accompaniments at the Manhattan, Maestro Campanari said to her:

"Why don't you learn to play the celeste? It will give you more opportunity and if you master it and can learn the solo part of "Salome' I promise you may play it with the orchestra at the next performance."

The idea took root and she took him at his word, with such success that five years ago she joined the Philharmonic orchestra where sometimes she plays the celeste and sometimes the piano. An accomplished pianist, she studied abroad with the finest masters and both by training and musical instinct has earned her place side by side the leading musicians of the day.

• • •

"IT IS a wonderful sensation," says Mrs. Vandenberg. "This playing in the open air. "Your music seems to rise right up to the heavens, to the stars, and the great crowds are inspiring, too. The freedom of it all, too is contagious. I tell you when the summer is over all of us are going to miss the invigorating sensation of working in the open air with the heavens as the only roof."

• • •

LITTLE Marion Talley is not letting the summer grass grow under her feet. While most of us are idling by the seashore, she is studying hard improving her French and Italian lessons, coaching in new roles and fulfilling such engagements as the summer months bring forth. She finds New York the best place in which to have a holiday, for holidays to this young soprano are just so many opportunities to work harder.

• • •

BY NO means content with the great success she has made, her ambition is to climb the musical ladder until she reaches the very top, and with the help of her mother and sister, who are devoting their lives to her career, and with her youth and talent to aid her, there is no reason why as she matures, she should not become one of our greatest singers. Certainly what she has accomplished at her age is marvelous, and so great is the response of the public to her gifts that, one of the officials of the Metropolitan opera house tells me, on the recent trip of the company to the west, little Marion Talley was their biggest drawing card.

FASHIONS FOR THE VARIOUS FALL ACTIVITIES AT MILLER-FERGUSON

In the Fall Sport World

NOVELTY weaves and bold steamer plaids, with usually shaggy wolf or soft nutria collars, strike the latest note in sport and travel coats. Straight lines prevail with stitching, large pockets and occasional attached scarfs of the coat material, the only trim. One of the most collegiate of these youthful, and youth-giving coats, combines most of the tendencies in the sport wrap, being of a novelty weave and straight-lined with a long slender scarf that may hang loose or be thrown back across the throat, and the ends of which are tipped with red fox.

Miller-Ferguson's sport hats are especially smart. The wide variety of shapes and shades requires a personal inspection, but the Neapolitan blue felts seemed outstanding.

Autumn Styles For Semi-Formal Occasions

BROWN, too, receives "Dame Fashion's whole-hearted approval and some of the most attractive frocks for semi-formal wear are shown in the Marie Glaze and dove bloom (both new and unmistakably autumnal shades of brown). The beauty of these dresses is greatly dependent upon draping and blousing, together with the graceful flares of the skirts, though gorgeous new materials mean much. Transparent velvet, cut velvet and metallic cloth are used to wonderful advantage in the colorful creations. One gown of more formal feeling featured an emerald green velvet skirt with cream and gold long-sleeved blouse.

Wear velvet hats on these occasions.

Fall Modes For Street Wear

CLOSE fitting black felts or soft black velours are the season's smartest millinery offerings for street and indeed for quite general wear. Miller-Ferguson shows a number of these chic little black hats in especially captivating models. Black, black, black! It keeps creeping in to claim once more the supremacy it held just after the war.

The tailored suit, so popular in the spring, is supplanted this fall by a smart coat worn over a dress in the same shade. A black durama cloth I saw here had collar and cuffs of natural wolf, with a flower of the durama. Detail is very important and this touch accomplished much in smartness.

Important New Accessories

THE new velvet, patent leather and reptile bags are found here in both envelopes and pouches, and handkerchiefs that peep from the bag, as well. Georgette to match the costume, with deep lace edge makes many of the new kerchiefs.

A few of the leading hosiery shades are mauvine taupe, sand-dust and shadow (gray).

Platinum, white and beige fox neckpieces hold their established place in the costume of the well groomed woman. The fox furs here are reasonably priced and of good quality.

Do You Profit by What You Read?

REMEMBER Richard Carstone in Dicken's "Bleak House"? His manner of calculating his financial status always brings a laugh, yet most of us subconsciously employ the same method.

Richard would say: "Let me see! I didn't buy that five pound bag so I saved five pounds there. If I have a good rattle to London and back in a post chaise, and put that down at four pounds, I shall have saved one."

It is especially easy to adopt this unsound logic when the end for which the money is to be spent is one we particularly desire. We never probe the sophistry then, as really the only way to save money is to deposit it in a savings account.

The North Texas Building and Loan Association, 822 Scott street, offers investments and accounts to suit every purse and every purpose. Whether you wish to invest your money for many years or only a few months, you'll find the North Texas safest and most profitable.

Especially suitable for women are their 6 per cent interest bearing accounts which may be withdrawn at any time. Make a practice of systematic saving. The best judgment is fallible and prey to feeling, but a balance at the North Texas Building and Loan stands fir

THERE was a time when it was a problem for mothers to decide just what to serve at children's parties. It must be something that will be a real treat for the kiddies, yet nourishing and healthful. Now the answer comes easily—Colvert's! Isn't it fortunate that food so healthful is at the same time delicious?

A host of birthday parties seem to be scheduled for these last weeks in August and the mothers who are giving their first children's party can be sure of its success by following the popular taste and choosing Colvert's pure ice cream as the refreshment nucleus. It may be had in the children's favorite flavors and it is their favorite treat.

When you serve Colvert's you know you are serving a real, nourishing food. Place an order with the nearest dealer.

PROPOSE TEN MORE SHIPS

President Coolidge to Urge Construction

By Universal Service.

RAPID CITY, S. D., Aug. 20.—Intent upon building up a well-balanced fleet for future protection of the United States, President Coolidge will consent to the construction of ten more modern cruisers, in the next session of congress, it was learned authoritatively here today.

This will be in addition to the eight cruisers of the most modern type already authorized by congress and the appropriations for which the president assented to in the $3,216,000,000 budget ratified by him during General Lord's recent vsit to the summer White House.

It will provide the United States with the biggest building program undertaken since the Washington conference. With this program completed, the country will have 38 cruisers, the number fixed by the naval chiefs as necessary to round out the entire fleet to proper proportions.

Big Navy.

President Coolidge allowed it to be made known here today that during the big navy fight in the last session of congress he advised the house naval affairs committee, during a secret conference at the White House, to pass legislation authorizing the construction of ten great cruisers. Although he was then derided as "a little navy man," he refused until today to permit it to be revealed that he was actually urging the bigger program.

The president is disgusted with the outcome of that navy fight in the house. Speaker Longworth and other republican stalwarts made high-sounding speeches for a greater navy but the extent of their oratory, as the president looks upon it, was to make the insignificant appropriation of $450,000 for three cruisers. Each cruiser costs about $10,000,000. By their futile effort, the members of congress did nothing but delay the naval program which the country should now be undertaking as the result of the Geneva parley collapse, the president believes.

Urged Tax-Cut.

President Coolidge is also sternly critical of the tax-reduction fiasco in the last congress. He recalls for information of the public that he then urged the congress to make a substantial tax-cut. The treasury surplus grew to $633,000,000, but instead of handing any of it back directly to the tax payers, congress allowed $611,000,000 of it to be paid in against the national debt.

With an estimated surplus of but $338,000,000 for the current fiscal year, President Coolidge holds that the prospect of a great tax slash is not nearly so promising as a year ago. If left to his discretion, he would provide a tax cut out of that surplus. But he also permitted it to become known today that he fears that congress may engage in a spending orgy that will absolutely destroy all possibility of tax reduction.

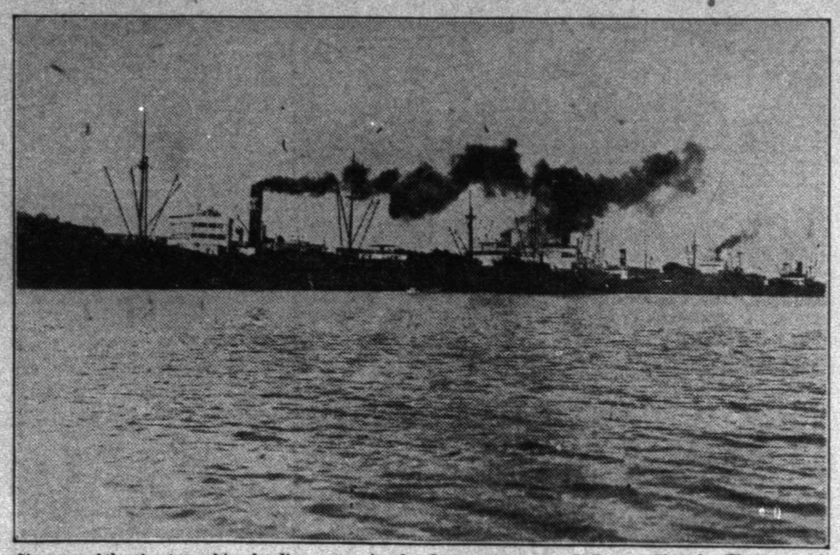

President Coolidge is very much in the mood to veto every unnecessary expenditure by the next congress in order that the surplus may be handed in the shape of a tax-cut to the public.

WHITE WAY NOT GAY FOR POLLY

NEW YORK.—The bright lights of Broadway turned dim for Polly, a brightly colored macaw owned by the manager of a hotel. Polly departed her captivity by way of an open window and spent the next few hours investigating the roaring forties. She was captured by a small Boy Scout, and returned, dishevelled and disillusioned, with a towel wrapped around her head. A $10 reward was forthcoming and the small Boy Scout departed, serene in the knowledge that by saving one more innocent gal from Broadway's pitfalls he had done his good deed for that day.

Corpus Christi, Texas' Newest Port, Has Busy Harbor

Six trans-Atlantic steamships loading cargo in the deep water port of Corpus Christi. They are of the great cotton fleet that is carrying Texas cotton to far ports of the world.

Special to The Record News.

CORPUS CHRISTI, Aug. 20.—Strategically located as a natural outlet for one of the greatest cotton producing areas in the world, the Port of Corpus Christi is rapidly taking its place as one of the most important cotton shipping centers of the south.

The first indication of the vast amount of cotton that would be lifted from this port came when the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Marketing association announced they would concentrate at least 50,000 bales at Corpus Christi for exportation to foreign markets.

Hard on the heels of this announcement, representatives of the All-Russian Textile Syndicate, Inc., arrived in Corpus Christi and after an inspection of shipping facilities, stated they would export at least 50,000 more bales of cotton. One of their boats arrived in port immediately. It is now loading 16,000 bales.

Up to the present time, eight large trans-Atlantic vessels of the U. S. Shipping board have lifted cotton cargoes destined for foreign ports. Several foreign vessels have lifted cargoes. A boat that will lift 10,000 bales for China is expected soon.

According to J. L. Boyd, director of the port, cotton is being concentrated with a rapidity that is unprecedented in the annals of shipping history. Over 100,000 bales of cotton is now in Corpus Christi and more is coming in daily.

Officials of the Nueces county navigation commission, headed by Robert Driscoll, declare the Port of Corpus Christi has shattered all existing records for a new port in regard to the amount of cotton tonnage already lifted and they are of the opinion that at least 250,000 bales will clear from the port before the season comes to a close.

IOWA PARK SOCIETY

Special to The Record News.

IOWA PARK, Aug. 20.—The Rebekah lodge had an interesting meeting Friday night at the lodge hall. Reports of the meeting of the Lower Panhandle association at Electra were given. Mrs. C. E. Davis giving the principal report. Several visitors from Electra were present. During the social hour ice cream was served.

The Christian Ladies aid met Monday at the church in a Bible lesson studying the twelfth, thirteenth and fourteenth chapters of Matthew. Mrs. O. L. Woodall was the teacher. In the absence of the president, Mrs. R. B. Sisk on account of illness, Mrs. Arthur A. Jackson presided. During the business session it was decided to disband for the rest of the summer. The federated meeting which was to have been held on the fifth Monday of this month was postponed until the next fifth Monday on account of the hot weather.

The Intermediates B. Y. P. U. enjoyed a tacky party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Redin Tuesday evening. Many amusing costumes were worn and the youngsters enjoyed playing games for a couple of hours. Punch was served throughout the evening and iced watermelon was served as refreshments. Those enjoying the hospitality of the evening were: Irene McDonald, Ozelle Cambron, Thelma Alvey, Althea McDonald, Margaret Baird, Norma Cole, Florence Cole, Velva Shipman, Helen Dawson, Ruth Cole, Violet Shipman, Inez Churchill, Madge Churchill, and B. F. Grimsley, Rowlie Reiserman, Roger Golden, Ferren Kildow, Thelma Jacks, Juanita Nichols, Melvin McIntire, Marshall Chrestman, Hortense Davis, Eula Davis, Mildred Davis, J. R. Davis and the leaders, Mrs. Glen N. Neafus and Mrs. R. L. Redin and her two children, James and Joy.

Mrs. V. R. Munden entertained a few friends Saturday evening in honor of the sixteenth birthday of Miss Ruth Cole. They enjoyed playing games and were served with refreshments of ice cream and cake. Those present were: Norma Cole, Helen Dawson, Florence Cole, Hortense Davis, Dewey Cole Jr., Coleta Cherry, Dell Harbour, Roy Cole, Jack Self, Jim Cole, Lucille Cole, Callie Mae Cole.

Tuesday night was stunt night at the Methodist church when each department of the church and Sunday school was supposed to furnish some form of amusement for the benefit of the others. A good sized audience was present and the entertainment proved a great success. The dignified stewards forgot their dignity for the evening in a game of leap frog, and the Woman's Missionary society gave a clever little play, "Gathering Nuts." The Epworth Junior and Hi societies used funny songs and the Senior league, under the direction of Miss Vivian Smith, gave a costume play. The intermediate department of the Sunday school staged a most amusing elopement, with the car of the elopers breaking down and the law in pursuit, but at last they eluded their pursuers and reached the preacher's house and called him out of bed to perform the ceremony. The senior class presented a human organ with Fritz McDonald as Paderewski. The young people's class went fishing and caught a string of suckers, to the discomfiture of the suckers. The adult class held a spelling match followed by a hoop race.

At the close all the groups joined in a sing-song, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," and enjoyed a treat of Eskimo pies.

The T. N. T. class, a men's class of the Methodist Sunday school, together with the guests who went on the fishing trip with them about three weeks ago, will have charge of the music at the Methodist church services Sunday morning. They will occupy the choir, with Carl Goetze at the piano. There will be special instrumental music and a male quartet will sing. The subject of the morning sermon will be "Fishing." At 5 o'clock in the afternoon the men will go to the home of J. J. Burman where a service will be held, the subject of the sermon to be "Something Better Than Watermelon." There will be no service at night at the Methodist church on account of the revival at the Baptist church.

Bank resources in Texas have increased $903,000,000 since 1910 and bank deposits in the same period have increased $668,000,000. Last year the total bank resources were $1,276,763,000.

HOLLIS SOCIETY

HOLLIS, Okla., Aug. 20.—Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Johnson entertained with a formal party Monday night in the honor of Miss Bessie Hunt of Wellington, Texas, who is visiting with friends here this week. Those present were Miss Elie Johnson, Miss Clarice Johnson, Miss Bessie Hunt, Tucker Tuetsch, Carl Jordan, Ellis Johnson, Ross Maloon and Herschel Johnson.

Mrs. J. M. Crowder entertained her Sunday school class in her home Friday afternoon. Those present were: Beal Jean Sherrill, Sam Prather, Earl Prather, Kenneth McFall, Jess and Jean Miller, Joe Frank Adams, E. T. Smith Jr., Truman Newberry, R. Dean Beavers, Medford Crowder and Billy Wilson.

The children enjoyed many games, such as "Drop the Handkerchief," "Riding Stick Horsies," etc. Animal cookies and ice cream were served to the little folks and they all had a happy time.

Relatives and friends from different parts of the country began to gather at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Curd Saturday. It has been a long time since this crowd has been together for a reunion and it will be of real interest to them, as many things that have happened since the last meeting will be discussed as is usual with such gatherings. Those attending the reunion are: Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Curd of Kansas City, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. W. Curd and Will Curd of Petersburg, Texas; Rev. Dan Curd of Shaddock, Okla., and Charlie Curd of Enid, Okla. Others will be here before the reunion closes and will see the final big day with all the children of Mr. and Mrs. Curd present. Mr. and Mrs. Curd are well known in and around Hollis and community.

Tuesday night the Young Men's or Berean class of the First Baptist church met for the biggest entertainment in the history of the class. It proved to be a success in every way.

Plans were carefully arranged by the social committee for a treasure hunt. Two prizes consisting of two eversharp pencils, made up the treasure which was hidden at the end of the trail. Clues were planted in different business houses and residences of the city, which served as guides to the hidden prizes.

The crowd of young men and their girl friends met at the Baptist church at 8:30. There they received their numbers and were paired accordingly. The first clue was given to each boy, being in a large paper sack, which was to hold the contents attached to each clue, as they went to make up the "eats" of the party.

At the word "go" the race began. Everyone left the church house with a rush, and soon the streets were full of the clangs of Fords and purrs of automobiles. Some of the couples had a little difficulty in finding their clues but managed to get there finally.

The winners of the race were pushed hard by several other couples, but they were not to be defeated. The race ended at the Baptist church, the starting point, where everyone found a prize each for their efforts.

After the gang arrived and inspected the prizes and congratulated the winners, they seated themselves on the lawn to rest and find out the contents of their sacks, which proved to be the refreshments for the evening, with iced tea served to help out. At this period many exciting narratives were told by different couples concerning the happenings along the path of the hunt.

After refreshments were finished, the gathering was called to attention by the class president, who extended an invitation to all young men, not members of any Sunday school class to attend the Berean class of the Baptist Sunday school. He also urged the regular attendance of those already enrolled. This was the climax of the evening's entertainment and before leaving every one expressed themselves as having a wonderful time, congratulating especially the hostesses for their new way of entertainment which made a great success of the party.

Baptist Young People Entertain

One of the most enjoyable affairs of the summer occurred on last Friday evening when the senior classes of the Baptist church were entertained with a picnic. The three classes of young people met with their respective teachers and a few guests at the church at 7:00 o'clock and motored out to Loving park. On arriving there each person took a part in many interesting games, after which supper was spread in picnic fashion. After supper a feast of watermelon was enjoyed and later the classes were served to delicious ice cream. Those who enjoyed this affair were Isabell Powell, Margaret Emmanuel, Evelyn Maurice, Letha Kelly, Jewell Coleman, Louise Willis, Bonnie Willis, Lamerias McClellan, Helen Brantly, Hettie Le Brantly, Mittie Lee Royal, Dorothy Moore, Doshie Elliott, Nora McDonald, Anna Lou Harper, Tomazene Dukeminier, Lois Eberwood, Faye Maneric, Hazel Cook, Aires Burt, Della B. and Evelyn Joy Burt, Bertha Sasser, Mesdames Harper, Noles, Burt, and Tarter, Messrs. BUT NOT everybody is working. Some are enjoying these vacation days to the fullest extent. And among these are the James L. Duffy family. Happily located near Rindoso, N. M., in a cabin on the cool mountain side among the pines, Mrs. Duffy writes, "We have arrived home at last—back to our old Sleepy Hollow cabin on the banks of the Rindoso river at the foot of a mountain where we spent last summer. If I could only send you one big life sized whiff of these pines—of all the rejuvenating places in the world, this has them all beat. We traveled over 1400 miles around Santa Fe before we came here. Santa Fe is called the "City Different" and it is without doubt as strange a place as can be found within the boundaries of the United States. We visited the ruins of the cliff dwellers and I was the only coward in the family. Even our little six-year-old daughter, scaled a 50 foot ladder and explored the compartments under the guidance of an Indian policeman—they climbed around and through an old Indian Pueblo that has been recently excavated and then down the sides of the cliff again and then down and down until I really grew dizzy watching them from the car. One day we went to Taos—saw the artists colony, a most wonderful Indian Pueblo and were entertained by the chief's little four-year-old son. Going back to Santa Fe we passed 16 cars and two trams on a mountain road that surely came very near making a wreck out of me.

• • •

ANOTHER day we enjoyed the rare sight of watching the famous Maria and Julian Martinez bake some pottery that we had ordered and also attended an Indian church. The choir (all Indians sang the full high mass in Latin and stannding behind the priest as immovable as as sentinel and with arms folded was a full blooded Ildefonso Indian.

"We were in the palace of the governor and the children rang the oldest bell in America (brought over from Spain) and also saw the oldest house in the United States.

"Nell and Maxine have made some wonderful friends up here and we had a party for the young people here last night.

"I want you to come and see my pottery and kodak pictures when I come back."

The invitation is already accepted and wish you could be with me and see all the interesting things that I know Mrs. Duffy will bring home with her.

A PARIS news note says: "There is no doubt of the fact that bobbed hair of the extreme type is going out. Hair for the making of switches and transformations is greatly in demand. Some of the working girls who were never bobbed are selling their tresses for this purpose." What a pity!

But an added note says, "Some women will always bob, because they're getting old fast, and think the bob makes them look younger."

How about you Kitty? Do you intend to let your hair grow out to be in style? My advice is to follow the fashion, no matter what it may be. And this is the last word on that subject from——

MODERN GHOST STORY

LONDON.— London introduces the modern ghost story. Veiled and mysterious figures are roaming around the streets in a certain vicinity, slipping back into a mysterious house with a sign "Beauty Specialist." The "ghosts" are women who are having their faces altered and cannot be seen for a while. But they must have fresh air.

CRAFTY.

Whenever China has a war she manages to arrange to have it played on the home grounds.

Music - Musicians

By MME. COBINA WRIGHT.
Famous Songstress and Society Leader.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—"Seest thou a man diligent in his business," says the psophet, "and he shall sit before kings," and in this day and age the proverb applies to woman, for woman in this advanced generation has every opportunity to forge her way to the front, if her feminine mind so wills it, and she does not take advantage of her ancient prerogative to change it.

This occurred to me last week when in the midst of the vast assemblage of men forming the symphony orchestra for the open concerts given every evening in the stadium, I discovered one lone woman with flaming hair, playing the celeste.

Her name is Mrs. Berthe Vandenberg. For two years she has played this delicate instrument, like a toy piano, at these concerts, and has the added distinction of being the only member of the feminine persuasion in the orchestra. Because she is the only representative of her sex, she feels duty bound to be careful of her p's and q's particularly in the matter of punctuality, less perchance any slackness on her part might be construed as a failing common to all women.

• • •

"PEOPLE have those little prejudices about women," says Mrs. Vandenberg," and I must be awfully careful never to add color to them by any deed or laxness on my part."

It was while the Manhattan opera house was in full swing that Mrs. Vandenberg first became a player of the celeste, and her careful manipulation of this instrument has made her a unique figure in musical circles.

One day while she was playing accompaniments at the Manhattan, Maestro Campanari said to her:

"Why don't you learn to play the celeste? It will give you more opportunity and if you master it and can learn the solo part of "Salome' I promise you may play it with the orchestra at the next performance."

The idea took root and she took him at his word, with such success that five years ago she joined the Philharmonic orchestra where sometimes she plays the celeste and sometimes the piano. An accomplished pianist, she studied abroad with the finest masters and both by training and musical instinct has earned her place side by side the leading musicians of the day.

• • •

"IT IS a wonderful sensation," says Mrs. Vandenberg, "This playing in the open air. "Your music seems to rise right up to the heavens, to the stars, and the great crowds are inspiring, too. The freedom of it all, too is contagious. I tell you when the summer is over all of us are going to miss the invigorating sensation of working in the open air with the heavens as the only roof."

• • •

LITTLE Marion Talley is not letting the summer grass grow under her feet. While most of us are idling by the seashore, she is studying hard improving her French and Italian lessons, coaching in new roles and fulfilling such engagements as the summer months bring forth. She finds New York the best place in which to have a holiday, for holidays to this young soprano are just so many opportunities to work harder.

• • •

BY NO means content with the great success she has made, her ambition is to climb the musical ladder until she reaches the very top, and with the help of her mother and sister, who are devoting their lives to her career, and with her youth and talent to aid her, there is no reason why as she matures, she should not become one of our greatest singers. Certainly what she has accomplished at her age is marvelous, and so great is the response of the public to her gifts that, one of the officials of the Metropolitan opera house tells me, on the recent trip of the company to the west, little Marion Talley was their biggest drawing card.

FASHIONS FOR THE VARIOUS FALL ACTIVITIES AT MILLER-FERGUSON

In the Fall Sport World

NOVELTY weaves and bold sleamer plaids, with usually shaggy wolf or soft nutria collars, strike the latest note in sport and travel coats. Straight lines prevail with stitching, large pockets and occasional attached scarfs of the coat material, the only trim. One of the most collegiate of these youthful, and youth-giving coats, combines most of the tendencies in the sport wrap, being of a novelty weave and straight-lined with a long slender scarf that may hang loose or be thrown back across the throat, and the ends of which are tipped with red fox.

Miller-Ferguson's sport hats are especially smart. The wide variety of shapes and shades requires a personal inspection, but the Neapolitan blue felts seemed outstanding.

Autumn Styles For Semi-Formal Occasions

BROWN, too, receives Dame Fashion's whole-hearted approval and some of the most attractive frocks for semi-formal wear are shown in the Marie Glaze and dove blooms (both new and unmistakably autumnal shades of brown). The beauty of these dresses is greatly dependent upon draping and blousing, together with the graceful flares of the skirts, though gorgeous new materials mean much. Transparent velvet, cut velvet and metallic cloth are used to wonderful advantage in the colorful creations. One gown of more formal feeling featured an emerald green velvet skirt with cream and gold long-sleeved blouse.

Wear velvet hats on these occasions.

Fall Modes For Street Wear

CLOSE fitting black felts or soft black velours are the season's smartest millinery offerings for street and indeed for quite general wear. Miller-Ferguson shows a number of these chic little black hats in especially captivating models. Black, black, black! It keeps creeping in to claim once more the supremacy it held just after the war.

The tailored suit, so popular in the spring, is supplanted this fall by a smart coat worn over a dress in the same shade. A black durama cloth I saw here had collar and cuffs of natural wolf, with a flower of the durama. Detail is very important and this touch accomplished much in smartness.

• • •

Important New Accessories

THE new velvet, patent leather and reptile bags are found here in both envelopes and pouches, and handkerchiefs that peep from the bag, as well. Georgette to match the costume, with deep lace edge makes many of the new kerchiefs.

A few of the leading hosiery shades are mauvine taupe, sand-dust and shadow (gray).

Platinum, white and beige fox neckpieces hold their established place in the costume of the well groomed woman. The fox furs here are reasonably priced and of good quality.

THERE was a time when it was a problem for mothers to decide just what to serve at children's parties. It must be something that will be a real treat for the kiddies, yet nourishing and healthful. Now the answer comes easily—Colvert's! Isn't it fortunate that food so healthful is at the same time delicious?

A host of birthday parties seem to be scheduled for these last weeks in August and the mothers who are giving their first children's party can be sure of its success by following the popular taste and choosing Colvert's pure ice cream as the refreshment nucleus. It may be had in the children's favorite flavors and it is their favorite treat.

When you serve Colvert's you know you are serving a real, nourishing food. Place an order with the nearest dealer.

Deposit Your Treasures

WHETHER you are in town or away on a trip, there is always occasion for an uncomfortable feeling of insecurity regarding the things you wish to guard against fire and theft, unless you know they are in a safe deposit vault.

Do You Profit by What You Read?

REMEMBER Richard Carstone in Dicken's "Bleak House"? His manner of calculating his financial status always brings a laugh, yet most of us subconsciously employ the same method.

Richard would say: "Let me see! I didn't buy that five pound bag so I saved five pounds there. If I have a good rattle to London and back in a post chaise, and put that down at four pounds, I shall have saved one."

It is especially easy to adopt this unsound logic when the end for which the money is to be spent is one we particularly desire. We never probe the sophistry then, so really the only way to save money is to deposit it in a savings account.

The North Texas Building and Loan Association, 822 Scott street, offers investments and accounts to suit every purse and every purpose. Whether you wish to invest your money for many years or only a few months, you'll find the North Texas safest and most profitable.

Especially suitable for women are their 6 per cent interest bearing accounts which may be withdrawn at any time. Make a practice of systematic saving. The best judgment is fallible and prey to feeling, but a balance at the North Texas Building and Loan stands for

Chaney Star In Mystery Film On Majestic Screen

Lon Chaney, always a master of mysterious roles and belief-defying disguises, and Tod Browning, who is to the screen what Edgar Allen Poe was to mystery in the printed word, have triumphed again.

The combination that produced "The Unholy Three," "The Road to Mandalay" and "The Blackbird," has gone another step forward into the mysteries of life—and the result is "The Unknown," now playing at the Majestic theater.

To say that it is Chaney's strangest role is putting it mildly. He plays an armless sideshow freak at a circus—performing everything usually done by hands with his feet. He ties his own necktie, shaves, eats and drinks, with his feet—and at his "act" before the audience, throws knives, fires guns, and otherwise duplicates the feats of professional "armless wonders."

This is only one phase of the unusual role—in itself astounding when one thinks of the patient practice that enabled the actor to perfect himself in what is perhaps the most difficult of roles.

It is a strange mystery tale revolving about a circus, with Chaney as a sinister armless freak, ruling an underworld from his hiding place among the hundreds in a motley city. The audacity of it is amazing — an apparent harmless sideshow freak controlling the entire underworld. His love for Joan in the circus, his jealousy of the strong man, who is his rival, and the amazing sacrifice that climaxes the astounding story, are worked out by Browning in a masterly manner. Chaney's acting of a part will go down as one of his greatest screen achievements.

Joan Crawford is a beautiful lass and Norman Kerry is a romantic figure as the strong man in the odd romance. John George and Nick de Ruiz are others of note in the cast. An entire circus was reproduced, and is a spectacular incidental, as is Norman Kerry's terrific tug-of-war against two galloping horses.

Waldemar Young adapted the story to the screen from Browning's original with many deft touches.

THEY PLAY BROTHERS.

Joseph Schildkraut and Victor Varconi are playing brothers in "The Forbidden Woman," which stars Jetta Goudal at the DeMille Studio. Paul Stein is directing.

LIFE STORY AT OLYMPIC

Norma Shearer Star in 'After Midnight'

Few motion pictures have ever gotten under the crust of life far enough to show picturegoers what life itself is really like.

"After Midnight," Norma Shearer's new starring vehicle, which opens today at the Olympic theater, has not only penetrated the crust but has delved deep into the core of life.

It is like a chapter from life itself, rather than a story from the pen of a human being.

For some reason story tellers have always insisted on writing things that never happen, never could happen and even sound illogical in their telling. Monta Bell, who directed "After Midnight," and who wrote the original story, has told a simple story in a simple manner—thereby giving it magnitude and greatness.

He has given to Norma Shearer the character of a young girl whose one great enemy is life. He has written his story and transplanted it to the screen with nothing of the startling nor illogical in it. Miss Shearer is a young girl whose path is beset by circumstances—not physical heavies.

There is no man waiting an opportunity to make her his victim. She conducts herself with dignity and poise in the midst of glitter and tinsel, and she never waivers until she gets to the point where everything in life, seemingly, has failed her. Even then she learns that with the assistance of love, she can yet conquer all.

It is by far the best character we have ever seen Norma Shearer portray upon the screen—and she has portrayed it in a manner that shows she needs nothing but an opportunity to prove her worth as a film star. She goes from one end to the other of her wide range of acting without faltering.

Lawrence Gray gives a good portrayal of the romantic male role and Gwen Lee, sophisticated Gwen, bursts out with a flame of acting that shows all she needs to become a star is opportunity.

Harris Star In 'The Country Girl'

It'll be back to the country Sunday and Monday for the ticket buyers to the Mission theater for Honey Hank Harris and his "gang" are going to do their stuff in "The Country Girl."

Honey Hank and Jimmy Brennan are going to dish up the comedy assisted by Elvie Herndon, one of the cleverest comediennes ever appearing on a Wichita Falls stage.

In addition to Honey, Jimmy and Elvie, "Fat" Houghton, and Zoe Frazell will do "specialties" which will comprise a flock of hoofing and singing.

Of course the Honey Girls, composing the chorus will be in appearance dolled up in the latest costumes, befitting a "real line."

PADDOCK IN FILMS.

Charles Paddock, sprint champion, has been cast as a coach in "The High School Hero," initial David Butler directorial effort being made by Fox Films.

History In Files Of Film Factory

Movies of Famous Men Are Preserved

An inventory of 20,000,000 feet of film in the vaults of Fox News by Truman H. Tally, director-in-chief, has revealed an amazing quantity of visual history of the present generation. In this mass of gelatin there is presented every notable event and personality of two decades, together with many others before that.

While the Fox Film vaults contain duplicates of all film that has been used, they also house thousands of feet of film never released, but kept for posterity as official records. In the course of a week from 25,000 to 40,000 feet of film are inspected by the editors, who select two reels of 900 feet each for public presentation.

One of the oldest films shows Bismarck, the Iron Chancellor of Germany, who made the might of the pre-war fatherland possible. Another presents the funeral of President McKinley, while a third introduces the late Czar Nicholas of Russia, with his family, in the royal palace at St. Petersburg before the revolution.

The inaugurations of presidents, the history of aviation beginning with the box-like planes of the Wright brothers, and war pictures shot at the front, are part of the enormous treasure in film which is stored in fireproof vaults under time locks at the Fox studios in New York.

By means of a cross indexing system similar to that in the Congressional library, it is possible to produce any reel in the collection within a few moments.

THE WISE WIFE NEXT.

Ethel Wales, with whom outstanding character portrayals are becoming more or less of a habit, has been cast for a featured character part in "The Wise Wife," which E. Mason Hopper is directing for DeMille with Phyllis Haver in the featured role.

SALLY MAKES GRADE.

Sally Phipps, former Wampas star, who has been on trial on the Fox lot for about a year, has made the grade. She has just been signed to a five-year contract by Fox. She is now playing in "The High School Hero."

SLATON. — The Southwestern Bell Telephone company is reported to be planning a brick fireproof building here as a port of a $77,000 local improvement program.

McAdoo On the Road Again

WILLIAM GIBBS McADOO is on the road again. He invaded Virginia. He delivered an address. He coined a new praise for a slogan. He declared "Lawless liberty is not freedom but anarchy." He advised that all liberty be restrained to the point where it is compatible with the liberty of others.

Man is not born the possessor of inalienable rights according to the Californian contender for White House honors. This is his platform, "There cannot be private rights in any proper sense of the term except as they are defined and determined by the community acting through its appropriate organs."

Is this a nation or town meeting? If it is a nation then all power comes from the top "through the people." If it is a town meeting then all power comes from below "through the people." When the democratic party abandoned state rights they abolished the town meeting and local self government.

If inalienable rights have no existence and private rights are stupid platitudes what has become of the Jeffersonian conception of government?

Wealth, in the form of slavery, ruled when Jefferson walked the earth. Wealth, vast aggregations of wealth, rules today. In his earlier years Arthur Brisbane was a thorough going radical. Time changes men and things.

Now Brisbane is a multi-millionaire. He believes in individualism speaking for and through billion dollar combinations and consolidations. As for little business he has scant respect for it.

As he sees it this is the age of big business and the bigger the better for all the people. As for Statesman McAdoo he does not know where he is going from here.

Lawless liberty has no basic or cornerstone. It never had in America. And never will.

New Jersey Blue Laws

NEW JERSEY has blue laws that were enacted ages and ages ago. New Jersey has Mount Tabor. Mount Tabor is a Methodist camp community. A terrific row was precipitated by the golf players of the community. They split into hostile camps. Fundamentalists declared against golf on Sunday; modernists were going to play golf on Sunday or know the reason why.

A board of trustees ruled the community. This board ruled against Sunday golf. Its members declared that the laws of God and man should not be violated. Then it was decided to hold a referendum. It was a most exciting election. More than 800 good and true cast their ballot. And the golfing ticket won.

Then the fundamentalists bolted the decree of the referendum. They promised the victors that should a golf stick desecrate the ground on Sunday they would invoke the state vice and immorality act of 1852. That law sanctions hymn singing and church going on Sunday but it has been a dead letter in other years. Mount Tabor has a summer population of 800 and a winter population of 100. It was founded 50 years ago and this is the first real row that the community has known and all on account of the noble Scotch game. Is golf sinful? Is it immoral?

Donahey in the Picture

Governor Victor A. Donahey of Ohio is in the pictures. There has been a strike of soft coal miners on in Ohio for months and months. Owners of the mines have declined to accede to the demands of the strikers.

They claim "the American right" to reopen their mines and resume the digging of coal. Winter is coming and the demand for coal will be heavy.

Governor Donahey sent national guards to the mining regions. He sent one of his colonels to the mining regions.

Now the strikers are growing restless. Their funds have reached a low ebb. They are bitter against the strike breakers.

They realize that winter is coming and that jobless men with families to care for are facing the rigors of winter as well as hunger.

Governor Donahey has been told by the mine owners that there must be a showdown. They demand protection for their non-union employes. They demand the right to run their own business in their own way.

Governor Donahey was a printer in his early days. He carried a card in a labor union. In his campaigns for office he has been backed by the farmer organizations and the labor unions of Ohio.

This makes it interesting all around, for Donahey is for rigid enforcement of pro laws and all other laws.

Now what is going to happen in the mining districts in the buckeye state? Donahey is carrying the load. This is pleasing to the Republican politicians of Ohio who are on the outside looking in so far as official responsibility is concerned.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By BURTON RASCOE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—You won't find it in guide books, but it is interesting to know:

That the most popular place for a summer night's necking, for those who have autos appears to be Pelham Bay parkway, east of the Boston Post road. There are cars by the score nightly and no cop ever seems to bother them. Elsewhere in New York, the vigilance of the police in the matter of public necking is terrifying.

That the music room in the public library is often patronized by a group of old men, who sit and read musical scores; waving their hands to and fro and enjoying the arias on paper just as much as if they were hearing them played by a symphony orchestra.

That there are four speakeasies surrounding police headquarters at Grand street and Centre Market place, all of which do a rousing business with the doughty John Laws making up the greater part of the patrons.

That the area about Columbus Circle is filled with agencies of expensive foreign made cars. Such showrooms as the Hispano-Suiza, the Renault, the Citroen, the Sunbeam and so forth are always sure of attracting a crowd.

That there is a sign in all the automat restaurants reading thus: "WE CANNOT ALLOW THE USE OF OUR TABLES TO THOSE BRINGING THEIR OWN LUNCH."

Tammany Young, by the way, whom I mentioned above, is really an exceptional fellow. His reputation for gate crashing still stands but his technique has fallen into disuse. He does not have a bludgeon his way into first nights and to various other gala affairs any longer. He is so much a part of local tradition that most managers of entertainments actually bid for his presence. Instead of a furtive intruder, he is now an honored guest. And be can be seen at most of the first nights and the big prize fights, immaculate in tuxedo and derby.

He has even entered the movies. During the winter, a number of companies had studios in New York, and it was a dull production manager who did not invite Tammany to appear in some part in a picture.

The lad is by no means bashful. Recently he was telling me how indispensable he was to Gloria Swanson when she was making a picture here. According to his story, he gave the star and her director numerous bits of invaluable advice touching on little incidents which would help the picture. He outlined to Mme. Swanson the correct procedure with which the New York maid atones for an insult received in the subway. Naturally, the actress could not k new the intricacies of local customs and she was most grateful to Mr. Young for his aid.

But the great mystery about Tammany is his means of support. He is always well dressed and appears to be eating regularly. Yet he has unlimited leisure. The only solution I can think of i s that he may be paid for gracing various festivities with his presence.

The property on which Trinity and the graveyard is situated is alone worth at least twenty-five million dollars. It is larger than the property on which the Equitable building is built and it is, moreover, tax free. Years ago, word got to the ears of the trustees, among whom was the elder J. P. Morgan, that the city was contemplating continuing Pine street through the church property. The church promptly erected a fourteen thousand dollar monument dedicated to the men who fought in the Revolutionary war, and thus, for sentimental reasons, the old property was saved from being condemned.

But thirty years ago, Beard used to tease the cow which one of the elderly Rhinelander ladies kept in her front yard. This home was then located at Fifth avenue at 20th street.

The colonel has seen service under a number of banners and he has campaigned in most parts of the world. He is battle-scarred, distinguished, and coming from one of the nation's most representative families, he is a survivor of the picturesque type of New Yorker who is all but extinct. And he can entertain for hours with all manner of anecdotes. Yet he is forced to write pot-boilers for third-rate fiction and live in the gloomy depths of the Bradford—which, incidently used to be a very fashionable hotel. But that is another story

Fable of The Syndicate Lover, The Pickled Papa and Rest of the Bunch

By GEORGE ADE.

He seemed to be making grand He adway except with the One that he wanted to Snare out into a Dim Corner.

Once there was a love-hit Bachelor. He wanted the Girl so hard that he would come around at Night and look up at the Windows of her Boodwar and knaw the Palings of the Front Fence.

The Fires of Passion had got beyond Control and it was time to call out the entire Department. He felt no Shame. He would send an A. D. T. boy at 6 saying that he would be up at 8 and then he would phone her at 7 to find out if she had received the Note.

His affection was none of your stingy, half-way Quivers. It was the real Essence of Goo-goo, double strength. It was an Octopus Love that reached out its red-hot Tentacles and twined around all Objects, animate and inanimate, that were associated with little Honey-Bun.

He would have deemed it a Holy Privilege to go around and mow the Grass in her Front Yard.

It was the kind of transfiguring, old-fashioned, romantic-novel Love that made him think well of the Kin-Folks. He knew that any one who was related to the Queen of the Human Race was certainly Right. So he tried to stand Top-Hole with the Old People and a brother named Walter and a tall-browed Sister who was intellectual.

Consequently his Work was marped out for him.

Mopsey's Father was what we might call liberal in his Views. That is, he never had ratified the 18th Amendment. When he put away enough to last him, he figured on living to be 150.

Vicarious Piety.

Had it not been that he took on his daily Package in a dark corner of the Library and carried a gold-headed Cane, a good many people would have said that he Drank. As it was he simply had the Name of being a High Liver.

While he was slightly Overset and carried about 165 in his Gauge he was exceedingly Dignified—in fact a Gentleman of the Old School. He objected to playing Poker with a Stranger but he loved to skin a Good Friend so he was no Gambler.

Baby's Mother was exactly the Sort that is usually married to an elderly Sport. Having found it impossible to wean him away from the O. F. Toddies and the Saturday Night Game that laps over into Monday Morning, she tried to catch even by reforming all the rest of the Universe.

She was a member of 33 Organizations that were out to whip-saw the Cigarette, down the Cabarets and give a lasting Ki-Bosh to the Blue Chip and the Kitty.

As soon as she had a little Money saved up she sent it to the Missionaries in Kakaroo. By attending Services at least twice every Sunday she hoped to establish a good General Average for the whole Family.

As for the other members of the Family, they knew that she had enough Piety to supply four ordinary Mortals, so they did not have to go out and accumulate any. The whole Bunch, Father included, expected to get past the Turn-Stile on Mother's Ticket.

The Sister with the busy Dome was in two or three Philadelphia Library Clubs. She read one Book a Day, even in the hottest Weather. If she had stopped to take a Breath, the Publishers would have secured a Lead and she never could have caught up.

Loved One had a Brother with big gristly Hands and stocky Shoulders. His Conception of a Glad Summer's Day was to get out and play 72 Holes, followed by several Sets of Tennis, after which it was time to bat up a few Files and then, in the Gloaming, start in for four or five Hours of Kelly Pool, which may or may not be listed as an intellectual Pursuit, depending upon the Point of View.

The True Lover thought it a Slick Policy to cultivate the Quartet that lived with his Own and Only As for Father and Mother and the Female Book-Worm and athletic Walter, they were friendly to the prosperous Bachelor and each one determined to put in a few quiet Plugs for Sis.

So Father took the Candidate down to his Club and gave him Old Stuff that was 130 Proof and then tried him out in a nice little cut-throat Game.

By the time he got away from the Pirates, he was due to turn up and attend Morning Service with the Prospective Mother-in-Law. He let on that he was keen for a good Sermon and he made an awful Bluff at singing the Hymns that he had not heard for twenty years.

The Big Four.

On Sunday Afternoon he was due to meet Brother Walt at the Country Club and play him for a Ball a Hole. After a couple of Sundays, Walt had enough Radios to last him a Life-Time.

When he had hurried to his Room and rubbed himself with Witch Hazel he would tear for the House where the living Book Review would be waiting to ask him if he didn't think F. Scott Fitzgerald's Latest Work was better than "Omar Khayyam." While he would be doing Foot-Work and side stepping the Questions that were calculated to slow him up as a howling Ignoramus, the Real Thing would be sitting back waiting in vain for an Opening.

This went on for quite a Spell. He had been jolted at Poker, trimmed at Golf, put against long Sermons right in Fly-Time and conned into reading 47 Books that did not appeal. He seemed to be making grand Headway with all members of the Outfit except the one that he wanted to snare out into a Dim Corner and hold in a Strong Embrace forever and ever.

After a while he began to weaken on the Scheme of playing up to a whole Cast of Characters. He wondered if it would not be just as easy to love an Orphan.

She was Wise. She saw herself losing a Good Thing. It was a shame to backcap her own Tribe, just when they were pulling for her, but she had to do it.

One Night she fought off the others and lured him into a Boat and there in the Moonlight she told how she had lived in the same House with them for 19 years and how they were all right but they wouldn't do.

"It's a mere Suggestion," she added, "but why don't you stop trying to make these Around-the-Table combination Shots and pay a little more attention to Birdie? You don't have to win out the entire Family in order to book me. You must be an Amateur."

Thereupon they Clinched and the Family dropped out of the Deal.

Moral: Don't try to embrace a whole Tribe.

Pay Day Law Called Inadequate by McKenny

AUSTIN, Aug. 20. (AP)—The "semi-monthly pay day law" providing punishment for employers failing to pay off their workmen at regular intervals, is inadequate because it "renders only an indirect service for the wage claimant," Charles McKemy, state labor commissioner, charges.

Railroads Pay Nearly $7,000,000 In Taxes

AUSTIN, Aug. 20. (AP)—The principal railroads of Texas paid ad valorem taxes totalling $6,962,720 to the state, counties and local districts last year, figures compiled by Former Gov. O. B. Colquitt, chairman of the state tax survey commission, show.

SHINGLES

The disorder commonly called shingles is known in medical books under the name of Herpes Zoster. This is an acute inflammatory skin disease, characterized by the formation of groups of vesicles on a reddish base, usually along the course of a skin nerve. It generally appears on only one side of the body and more frequently on one side of the upper back than any other one place.

The eruption looks somewhat like a mixture of chicken-pox and eczema. At the onset of the disease, a fever usually develops which, however, disappears in a day or two. The eruptions continue to appear for as long as several weeks with more pain than is usually attendant upon skin eruptions. A kind of neuralgia sets in and the patient affected with this disorder is often unable to sleep while the neuralgia is present.

The distinctive difference between shingles and other kinds of skin eruptions is that the inflammation is around a certain branch of nerves which lie just under the skin. The same sort of inflammation in the throat would be termed tonsilitis. If poisons of much the same nature are deposited in the muscles or joints, it is called rheumatism.

No doubt the reason that some develop shingles while others do not is because some people are more susceptible to disorders of the nerves, while others are more liable to develop rheumatism, nephritis, or some other type of disorder.

The one who has a case of shingles is always one who has been enervated by mental overwork, worry, or some other destructive emotion. In every case, there has been a history of a definit enerve waste. The patient thus weakened must go through a siege of some inflammatory process, and the "nervous" person often develops this inflammation extending over only one set of nerves.

The treatment of shingles should consist of the use of methods which will relieve the loval pain and inflammation, and also get rid of the toxic poisons in the system which have been produced through enervation.

The eruption should be bathed frequently in some mild antiseptic solution, or painted with a two (2) per cent mercurochrome solution.

Great relief of the neuralgic pains will be experienced by the application of hot, moist towels. Daily treatment with the ultra-violet light is especially to be recommended, as the use of these actinic rays will not only kill any bacterial life on the skin, but will also keep the local disorder from spreading.

The internal treatment should consist of fasting without food for two or three days, and the use of an enema at least twice daily.

After the recovery, the patient should remember his lesson and be especially careful to avoid enervation in the future.

QUESTION: X. Y. Z. writes: "Is uncooked, plain bran good for curing constipation?"

ANSWER: The best bran to use is that contained in real wholewheat flour where the bran is completely pulverized. The plain bran is liable to be scratchy and, although the intestines are excited by its irritation, the inevitable result will be only more constipation, and colitis.

QUESTION: Marie H. writes: "I have been told that falling hair is caused by thyroid gland trouble. Is this correct?"

ANSWER: There is, no doubt, a close relationship between the growth of hair and the function of the thyroid gland. Those who have an insufficiency of the thyroid secretion usually became fat and have a poor growth of hair, while the thin person is usually of the hyperthyroid type, and has plenty of strong hair.

QUESTION: W. W. N. writes: "A blood specialist told me that I had perinicious anemia. I lost 25 pounds, and was too weak to walk upstairs. Now, after treatments and dieting, I am very much better and am gaining weight, but I still have a burning and tingling feeling in my hands and feet."

ANSWER: Your symptoms will disappear as soon as the anemia is enetirely overcome. Your heart is probably not functioning properly, but will do so as soon as the new blood has time to strengthen it.

QUESTION: Ethel M. aske: "With what foods may we combine non-starchy vegetables?"

ANSWER: Non-starchy vegetables may be combined with any other single article of food. But remember, when combining with the carbohydrates, or starches, no proteins should be used, and the same rule applies the other way round. Combine with either portein or starch, but never with both at the same time.

On Your Birthday

By BRUCE BARTON

Illustrated by RAEBURN VAN BUREN

EVERY once in a while you read an item like this in the newspapers:

> This is the fifty-sixth birthday of the Hon. John Jones. Many letters and telegrams of congratulation were received, but no special celebration was held. Mr. Jones spent the day in his office as usual.

Such a paragraph always excites my curiosity. I wonder what went on in the brain of the Honorable John Jones while he was alone in his private office "as usual." For if you could know exactly what a man thinks about himself on his birthday, you would have a pretty good idea as to just about how big a man he is.

No two young men ever did a finer service to America than Meriwether Lewis and William Clark, who blazed the first trail through the Western wilderness. On their expedition Lewis had a birthday, and we find in his diary this entry:

> This day I completed my thirty-first year, and conceived that I had in all probability existed about half the period which I am to remain. . . . I had as yet done little to further the happiness of the human race, or to advance the information of the succeeding generation. I viewed with regret the many hours I have spent in indolence . . . and resolved, in future, to redouble my exertions and . . . to live for mankind, as I have heretofore lived for myself.

Our interesting but rather shallow friend Samuel Pepys used to spend part of each birthday and New Year's Day in checking over his accounts, and congratulating himself on the increases in his worldly wealth.

Samuel Johnson, a very much greater man, came up to each successive birthday with a sense of great dissatisfaction. He wrote in his journal:

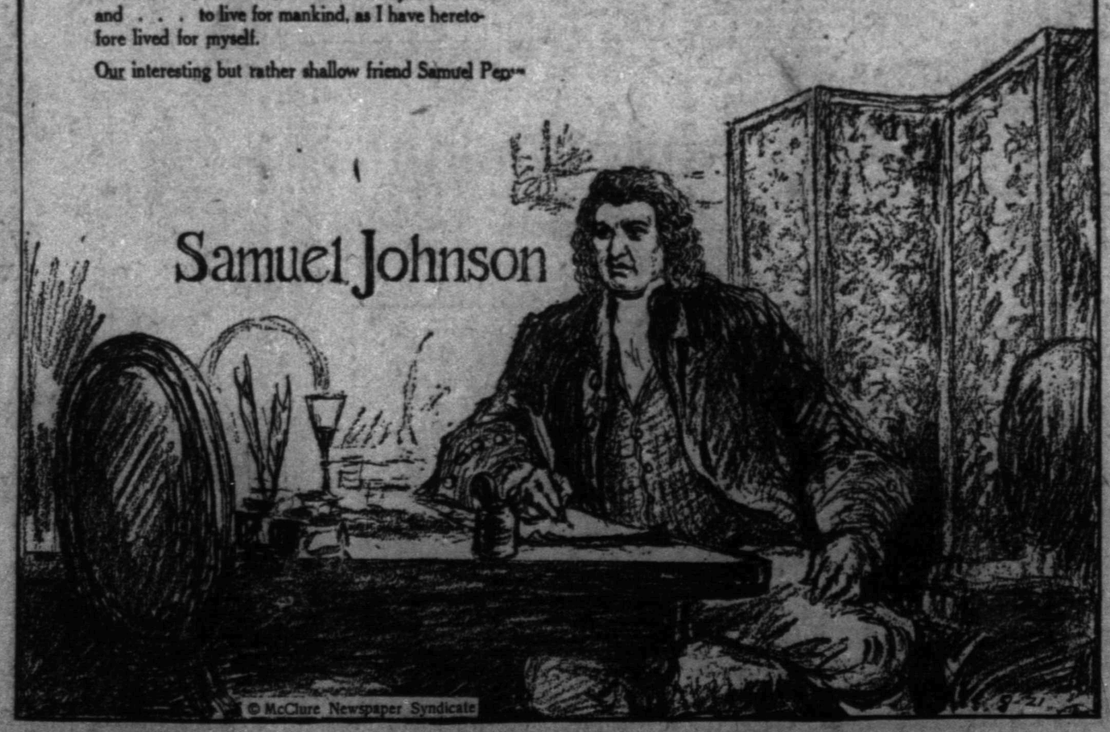

> I have now spent fifty-five years in resolving, having, from the earliest time almost that I remember, been forming schemes of a better life. I have done nothing. The need of doing, therefore, is pressing, since the time of doing is short.

As a matter of fact, Johnson had done a great deal. He had completed the great self-imposed task of compiling his dictionary and made himself one of the most celebrated men of his time. But his ideal was so far beyond his achievements as to be a constant reproach.

Halfway between the easy-going self-satisfaction of Samuel Pepys and the harsh self-condemnation of Samuel Johnson there is a happier middle ground.

Every man ought surely to have the privilege of some self-satisfaction, on his birthday, over what he has done. But to fell complete self-satisfaction is pretty good evidence that what he set out to do wasn't very much.

The Priceless Gift of Invention

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE.

"The trouble with you scenario writers, Jake," said the movie producer, "is that you ain't got no invention. Unless you can swipe some idea off a story that is so old everybody wants to forget it, you can't turn out anything that will bring any money into a house. If it wasn't for me, this company would have been busted long ago, instead of making a name for itself and climbing up to where pretty soon it will be a rival of the big fellows.

"The difference between you and me is that you never pay no attention to what is going on, while I keep my eyes open all the time. What makes a good picture is something that really happens, and things are happening all the time, only you got to notice 'em and think about them.

"Now I got an idea here that I picked up only this morning. I ain't got time to work it out myself, but you're pretty good as soon as you have something to work on, so I'll give it to you, and you can put it into shape. Maybe if I tell you how I happened to pick it up it'll be a lesson to you to look out of your eyes now and then and hunt around for human interest stuff and then I'll have more time to devote myself to the artistic side of the game.

"I was looking out of the window of the apartment this morning when I heard one of them carry ons, which is another name for chimes, in a tower a block or so down the street. There was some big bells and a lot of little bells, and one of the big bells was pretty near as big as one of them lemonade tents that you see at a circus, and it was ringing to beat the cars. While I was watching it the idea come to me—not all at once, but piece by piece—and then I had the story just as I am going to lay it out for you.

"I thought first that it would be fun if you were a kid to hang on to the clapper of one of them bells and take a few rides for yourself, if you didn't get your fingers busted when they hit the inside of the bell. Then I thought how would it be if you didn't want the bell to ring, like there was a fire in the house of some guy you didn't like, and the bell would call the fire company. All you'd have to do when you see the fire would be to go up into the tower and hang onto the bell, and then it couldn't ring because you'd be so heavy it wouldn't get a full swing, and by the time they climbed up and found out what was the matter, the fire would have a head start on the hose company, and it would be too late to prevent any damage.

"But an idea like that ain't no good for the movies, because people ain't got no sympathy with fellows who want other people's houses burned down, and the guy who was swinging on the clapper wouldn't be considered a hero, but a kind of dirty skunk.

"But I knew there was a good movie in the idea, all the same, so I thought about some way to make a fellow want to stop a bell ringing for some good purpose and by and by it occurred to me that they used to hang people in the old times when the curfew rang, and that if you could stop the curfew from ringing the fellow wouldn't be hanged until maybe you could get to the judge and put up an argument that would show him where he was wrong when the guy was sentenced.

"Then it just flashed across my mind how much better it would be if the fellow's gal stopped the bell ringing, long enough to send somebody to the judge, so as to save her boy friend. And that was the whole idea.

"After thinking it over at odd times for a couple of days I worked out a story where a fellow named Basil Underwood, which just popped into my head and is a swell name, was to be hanged for something he was innocent of at the ringing of a curfew.

"I had his gal read about the sentence in the morning paper, and after she had failed to get an appeal from the decision of the supreme court, went to see the chap in jail for the last time. That kind of parting stuff is always sad, and gets 'em hard. Him and her talked it over and she says she'll save him.

"It seems that the judge, after propounding the sentence has gone off on a trout fishing trip to the Black Hills and won't be back till tomorrow and without him there ain't nobody that can issue a reprieve. But the girl says she'll fix it somehow if she can just postpone that curfew from ringing at 9 o'clock, because if it misses that hour it can't ring again till 9 o'clock the next evening, on account of 9 o'clock in the evening being the law which says what time it must ring and can't be changed.

"Basil ain't got much hope that she'll pull it off, but he kisses her goodby and tells her to take care of herself and think of him once in a while and not to let his execution make her feel bad.

"Well, the first thing the girl does is to go to the sexton of the church who is an old friend of the family, and try to talk him into getting sick or something so he can't toll the bell. But the sexton says that while he knows Basil is a fine upstanding chap, and would do anything in reason for him, he'd be fired if he forgot to ring the bell, and like everybody else he has his living to make and can't take any chances of losing his job.

"That worries the girl for quite a while. Then she gets the big idea. While the sexton is home for supper she slips in through the window of the church, climbs up to the belfry, and finds out that by taking a big jump off the ledge she can grab the bell clapper and hang on to it. So she waits till she hears the sexton come in just before nine and makes the leap. She catches on all right and swings back and forth getting her knuckles barked pretty bad, but never letting on that she is hurt.

"You'll have it planted in the script that the sexton is a deaf old guy and don't know whether the bell is ringing or not.

"Well, pretty soon, when the sun begins to go down the town people wonder why they ain't heard the curfew ring, and the official who has led Basil out into the court yard has nothing to do but to take him back and put him into his cell again, on account of not daring to do his official duty except according to law.

"There is a lot of talk all over town about it, but nobody finds out why the curfew didn't ring till the girl sees the judge the next morning and makes a clean breast of the whole business. The judge has a big heart and so he decides to give Basil a new trial, and with the new evidence that is discovered in some lost documents he is acquitted and the next time the bell rings it is for a wedding.

"Now I worked that whole story out by myself, just from seeing a carry on and if I can do it you ought to be able to do the same thing. But of course if you had the same kind of an inside of your head that I have you would be producing instead of getting a little coin now and then for firing up a scenario, wouldn't you?"

ROME, Aug. 20.—Peremptory denial of any papal intercession in favor of Sacco and Vanzetti was made to Universal Service tonight by a high official in the Vatican secretaral of state.

'BUNK' SAYS NAVARRO AS SCRIBES ASSIGN STAR TO MONASTARY

M-G-M PLAYER HAS CONTRACT

He Calls Report of His Retirement False

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 20.—The most important male character in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," is by popular vote, Gus Elsman, button manufacturer and Lorelei's boy friend. Almost as much interest has centered around finding the right actor to create Elsman on the screen, as in the choice of the blonde gold-digger herself. Anita Loos, after looking over the prospects, has decided upon Ford Sterling, erstwhile Mack Sennett comedian and now with Paramount Famous Lasky, to portray the Chicago button manufacturer.

Anita, who has been here with her husband, John Emerson, for the last few weeks, has been looking at an average of 10 prospective Loreleis a day. She says she is suffering from blonde blindness. Meanwhile, the tests go along merrily with every actress, whose hair shows any partiality toward blondness, holding the thought that she may be picked.

Ford Sterling is an excellent choice for Mr. Elsman, if he doesn't try to overplay the gentleman from Chicago. Sometimes Mr. Sterling gets completely carried away by a characterization, with unfortunate results.

An Exaggerated Rumor.

The rumor that Ramon Navarro will enter a monastery is rather disconcerting to Irving Thalberg and those in charge at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. With a two years contract with Mr. Navarro and a full schedule of pictures ahead, Mr. Thalberg is wondering how young Navarro could live in a monastery and still be making pictures. However, Ramon assures M-G-M that like many good stories this one may be classed with Mark Twain's death. He begins work almost immediately on "The Sea King," an original story by one of the M-G-M scenario writers. "The Sea King" is a costume play and on the type of "Scaramouche," in which young Navarro made probably his most notable success. "The Sea King," to be directed by Robert Leonard, will be followed by "The Prince of Graustark" and then, if Ramon is a good little boy, he is promised a vacation.

The Costello Sisters.

The Costello sisters, Dolores and Helene, who lately seem to be in each other's company more than in the previous months, are about to be reunited. Helene was farmed out to John Stahl at M-G-M for "Old Kentucky." She has now been told to return to Warner Brothers studios as soon as she finishes, for a part in "The Silver Slave," which, we are told, provides an equal chance for Miss Rich and Miss Costello. Howard Bretherton will direct. While Helene is busy on the Irene Rich set, sister Dolores will be making "The College Widow," also a Warner Brothers picture, on an adjacent set.

Lon Chaney and Joan Crawford in "The Unknown," the screen attraction at the Majestic theater.

Richard Walling and Nancy Nash in "The City," to be shown at the Mission Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

A scene from "The Fighting Three," starring Jack Hoxie, coming to the Mission Friday for two days.

'West of the Law' Mission Offering

"Fangs," the dog star, said by many to be the most talented canine performer before the camera at the present time, is now showing at the Mission theater in "West of the Law," a new Rayart picture-play, in which he performs all of the feats which have served to make him famous, plus an assortment of new ones recently devised by Leonard Martin, his trainer.

He displays super-human intelligence and plays a tremendously important part in the unfolding of the unusual story. Those two great favorites, Ben Wilson and Neva Gerber, are also prominent in the cast, which includes as well, Ashton Dearholt, Al Ferguson, Lafe McKee and others of almost equal repute.

Raymondville Man Is Warden Inspector

RAYMONDVILLE, Texas, Aug. 20. (AP)—Game Warden Robert Snow, brother of Sheriff Luther D. Snow of Willacy county, has been appointed inspector of game wardens of the State Game Commission by Will J. Tucker.

He left here for the Davis mountains, carrying with him the famous pack of lion hunting dogs belonging to Sheriff Snow, and will hunt there, endeavoring to reduce the number of bears and mountain lions, which are said to be depradating on livestock in that section.

NEW VAN BIBBER SERIES.

Tyler Booke, Broadway stage comedian, recently signed by Fox Films to play the title role in the fourth series of Van Bibber comedies, has started to fulfill his contract. With Duane Thompson as his leading lady, he has started work on the first of the new series, "A Fool and His Honey."

STARS WITH MARIE.

Harry Myers, who rose to fame as "The Connecticut Yankee" in the screen version of that famous Mark Twain tale, has been cast conspicuously in "The Girl in the Pullman," Marie Prevost's current starring featuare for Cecil B. DeMille.

Norma Shearer and Lawrence Gray in "After Midnight," now showing at the Olympic theater.

$300 In Air Mail Postage Stamps Put On 10,000 Feet of Movie Film

Rushed across the continent by airplane in order that production might not be delayed on Leatrice Joy's current starring picture, ten thousand feet of film stock was delivered at the DeMille Studio recently, bearing over $300 in air mail postage.

This film was a special type, used by cameraman Arthur Miller in photographing "The Angel of Broadway," in which Miss Joy is starring. An added sequence to the picture necessitated additional film stock, which was ordered by telegraph from the Dupont laboratory in Parlin, N. J.

Due to the speed of the air mail, this film reached the DeMille Studio in plenty of time and although the postage cost $315.60. Many times that amount was saved through averting a possible delay in production.

Lois Weber is directing "The Angel of Broadway," which was written by Lenore J. Coffee. Victor Varconi plays opposite the star, while Alice Lake, May Robson and Ivan Lebedeff are also featured.

'The City' Popular Stage Play To Be On Mission Screen

The late Clyde Fitch's greatest play, "The City," which has retained its tremendous popularity for a number of years, has been produced by Fox Films and will have its first showing in this city at the Mission theater Tuesday.

Ably directed and with a cast of some of the screen's outstanding favorites, this picture throbs with life and reveals in a sensational manner the lure and challenge of a great city to make good at any cost.

This is t throbbing, vital story of a small town family and the devastating influence that the city had upon its various members.

Cast as Cicely Rand, is Fox Films latest discovery, Nancy Nash, who fills the difficult role of a country girl confronted by the temptations of the city, with fine understanding. This is Miss Nash's first appearance in pictures and she was only chosen for the part after the producers had made test screenings of sixty other girls who tried for the role. This young lady by her performance in this picture bids fair to reach stellar rank in a short time.

A splendid performance is given by Robert Frazer as George Rand, Jr., who takes his family to the city and climbs to the heights of political fame before realizing the terrific cost of it all to his family in simple happiness. Richard Walling, also a recent Fox discovery, gives a fine portrayal as the country boy in love with Cicely, and who makes a success in his home town. Walter McGrail in the role of the ex-convict and dope addict is very convincing, while May Allison as the sophisticated city girl gave a very fine performance.

Poison Snake Collection Favorite Of University Animal Collection

AUSTIN, Aug. 20.—Collecting poisonous snakes is the hobby of G. W. D. Hamlett, instructor in zoology at the University of Texas. Poisonous snakes, however, are not the only animals which Hamlett collects. For his doctor of philosophy thesis this spring, he made a study of the reproduction of the armadillo and he captured more than 40 of the animals for his study.

Hamlett also collects other animals for the department of zoology and while looking for the armadillos he found many other specimens. The most favored of his collection, thought are his poisonous snakes which he has bottled in a preservative for his own laboratory. Hamlett's experiments with these reptiles occupy much of his spare time when he extracts the venom and crystalizes it. This poison he uses for tests on birds and small animals, experimenting to find how much is necessary to cause death.

Hamlett taught during the first term of the summer session at the university, leaving at the beginning of the second term to teach in Texas Technological college at Lubbock. He will not return to the university this fall; instead, he will go to the University of Indiana at Bloomington where he will be assistant professor of zoology during the coming year.

Mines School Merger Not to Effect Training

AUSTIN, Aug. 20.—Merging the College of Mines and Metallurgy of the University of Texas into what is to be a new junior college at El Paso will in no way lessen the scope of teaching of the original institution, according to J. W. Calhoun, comptroller of the university who has returned from an official inspection trip of the physical plant which the enlarged college is to occupy. The creating of the junior college and the taking over of the college of mines and metallurgy were authorized by act of the last legislature.

Child Today Better Declares Educator

HOUSTON, Aug. 20. (AP)—The child of today is a better child than he was 15 or 20 years ago, E. B. Obergoltzer, superintendent of Houston public schools told a luncheon club at its weekly meeting here.

"Yesterday," he said, "an ox cart was considered the best means of transportation of reaching California. Today Pullman tickets is the best. Tomorrow it will be the airplane.

"Some of you wonder if modern education is worth the price. Education is the improved highway to travel, carrying an improved vehicle for the use with the child steering it."

'Spider Law' Violation Probed by State

AUSTIN, Aug. 20. (AP)—Investigation of violation of the "spider law," designed to protect workmen handling cotton from injury, is being made by the state labor department.

The law provides penalties for those held responsible for protruding points on cotton bales ties, otherwise known as "spiders."

Within the last six months, Labor Commissioner Charles McKemy said, out of 12,338 bales of cotton inspected, 1160 "spiders" were found. Responsibility in these cases was determined and agreement reached without prosecution.

County Histories Used As Theses Subjects

AUSTIN, Aug. 20.—As a means of obtaining minute histories of each of the 252 counties in the state of Texas, the history department of the University of Texas is offering work on such histories as thesis material for master of arts degrees.

Chaney Star In Mystery Film On Majestic Screen

Lon Chaney, always a master of mysterious roles and belief-defying disguises, and Tod Browning, who is to the screen what Edgar Allen Poe was to mystery in the printed word, have triumphed again.

The combination that produced "The Unholy Three," "The Road to Mandalay" and "The Blackbird," has gone another step forward into the mysteries of life—and the result is "The Unknown," now playing at the Majestic theater.

To say that it is Chaney's strangest role is putting it mildly. He plays an armless sideshow freak in a circus—performing everything usually done by hands with his feet. He ties his own necktie, shaves, eats and drinks, with his feet—and in his "act" before the audience, throws knives, fires guns, and otherwise duplicates the feats of professional "armless wonders."

This is only one phase of the uncanny role—in itself astounding when one thinks of the patient practice that enabled the actor to perfect himself in what is perhaps the most difficult of roles.

It is a strange mystery tale revolving about a circus, with Chaney as a sinister armless freak, ruling an underworld from his hiding place among the hundreds in "a tented city. The audacity of it is amazing — an apparent harmless sideshow freak controlling the criminal underworld. His love for a dancer in the circus, his jealousy for the strong man, who is his rival, and the amazing sacrifice that climaxes the astounding story, are worked out by Browning in a masterly manner. Chaney's acting of the part will go down as one of his greatest screen achievements.

Joan Crawford is a beautiful heroine and Norman Kerry is a romantic figure as the strong man in the odd romance. John George and Nick de Ruiz are others of note in the cast. An entire circus was reproduced, and is a spectacular incidental, as is Norman Kerry's terrific tug-of-war against two galloping horses.

Waldemar Young adapted the story to the screen from Browning's original with many deft touches.

THEY PLAY BROTHERS.

Joseph Schildkraut and Victor Varconi are playing brothers in "The Forbidden Woman," which stars Jetta Goudal at the DeMille Studio. Paul Stein is directing.

LIFE STORY AT OLYMPIC

Norma Shearer Star in 'After Midnight'

Few motion pictures have ever gotten under the crust of life far enough to show picturegoers what life itself is really like.

"After Midnight," Norma Shearer's new starring vehicle, which opens today at the Olympic theater, has not only penetrated the crust but has delved deep into the core of life.

It is like a chapter from life itself, rather than a story from the pen of a human being.

For some reason story tellers have always insisted on writing things that never happen, never could happen and even sound illogical in their telling. Monta Bell, who directed "After Midnight," and who wrote the original story, has told a simple story in a simple manner—thereby giving it magnitude and greatness.

He has given to Norma Shearer the character of a young girl whose one great enemy is life. He has written his story and transplanted it to the screen with nothing of the startling nor illogical in it. Miss Shearer is a young girl whose path is beset by circumstances—not physical heavies.

There is no man waiting an opportunity to make her his victim. She conducts herself with dignity and poise in the midst of glitter and tinsel, and she never waivers until she gets to the point where everything in life, seemingly, has failed her. Even then she learns that with the assistance of love, she can yet conquer all.

It is by far the best character we have ever seen Norma Shearer portray upon the screen—and she has portrayed it in a manner that shows she needs nothing but an opportunity to prove her worth as a film star. She goes from one end to the other of her wide range of acting without faltering.

Lawrence Gray gives a good portrayal of the romantic male role and Gwen Lee, sophisticated Gwen, bursts out with a flame of acting that shows all she needs to become a star is opportunity.

Harris Star In 'The Country Girl'

It'll be back to the country Sunday and Monday for the ticket buyers to the Mission theater for Honey Hank Harris and his "gang" are going to do their stuff in "The Country Girl."

Honey Hank and Jimmy Brennan are going to dish up the comedy assisted by Elvie Herndon, one of the cleverest comediennes ever appearing on a Wichita Falls stage.

In addition to Honey, Jimmy and Elvie, "Fat" Houghton, and Zoe Frazell will do "specialties" which will comprise a flock of hoofing and singing.

Of course the Honey Girls, composing the chorus will be in appearance dolled up in the latest costumes, befitting a "real line."

PADDOCK IN FILMS.

Charles Paddock, sprint champion, has been cast as a coach in "The High School Hero," initial David Butler directorial effort being made by Fox Films.

History In Files Of Film Factory

Movies of Famous Men Are Preserved

An inventory of 20,000,000 feet of film in the vaults of Fox News by Truman H. Tally, director-in-chief, has revealed an amazing quantity of visual history of the present generation. In this mass of gelatin there is presented every notable event and personality of two decades, together with many others before that.

While the Fox Film vaults contain duplicates of all film that has been used, they also house thousands of feet of film never released, but kept for posterity as official records. In the course of a week from 25,000 to 40,000 feet of film are inspected by the editors, who select two reels of 900 feet each for public presentation.

One of the oldest films shows Bismarck, the Iron Chancellor of Germany, who made the might of the pre-war fatherland possible. Another presents the funeral of President McKinley, while a third introduces the late Czar Nicholas of Russia, with his family, in the royal palace at St. Petersburg before the revolution.

The inaugurations of presidents, the history of aviation beginning with the box-like planes of the Wright brothers, and war pictures shot at the front, are part of the enormous treasure in film which is stored in fireproof vaults under time locks at the Fox studios in New York.

By means of a cross indexing system similar to that in the Congressional library, it is possible to produce any reel in the collection within a few moments.

THE WISE WIFE NEXT.

Ethel Wales, with whom outstanding character portrayals are becoming more or less of a habit, has been cast for a featured character part in "The Wise Wife," which E. Mason Hopper is directing for DeMille with Phyllis Haver in the featured role.

SALLY MAKES GRADE.

Sally Phipps, former Wampas star, who has been on trial on the Fox lot for about a year, has made the grade. She has just been signed to a five-year contract by Fox. She is now playing in "The High School Hero."

SLATON. — The Southwestern Bell Telephone company is reported to be planning a brick fireproof building here as a port of a $77,000 local improvement program.

TA FALLS

vantages Second to None In y, High School and College

With exceptionally fine primary schools taking care of students in every part of the city, two junior high schools and a senior high school and Junior college, Wichita Falls stands among the foremost cities of Texas for educational facilities. Its schools have competent faculties and are directed so that every child and student gains in knowledge, training and character. Coupled with these school facilities are advantageous living conditions and housing accommodations for students. Wichita Falls offers opportunity, too, after school days are over. It is a city that offers many chances to grow with it to greatness.

Wichita Falls Junior College Offers Two Full Years of Accredited College Work

The Million Dollar Junior College and Senior High School presents an opportunity that no boy or girl of Wichita Falls and North Texas should overlook. Instead of going off to school, paying the expenses of living far away from home, they can complete two years of college work in Wichita Falls and enter the university later with a junior standing.

Housed in a beautiful million dollar building, Wichita Falls Junior College is physically equipped to meet the needs of its students. The faculty is alert, capable and ready to work with students to secure the most for them out of their work.

The completion of the first two years of college work at home is in accord with expressed desires of university and college Faculties. They point out that in small undergraduate schools, students receive individual attention from the faculty members a circumstance almost impossible in the large crowded universities. This close relation between faculty and students is highly desirable during the first two years of work, and students will find it a decided help when they go off to complete their education.

The courses of Wichita Falls Junior College are fully accreded by the University of Texas, and students will be given full credit there, and at most schools of high standing, when they enter for graduate work.

In most universities the first two years' work is almost wholly prescribed, for there are elementary courses that the college student must take before work in specialized subjects are undertaken. It is these foundation courses, as well as some special subjects, that the Junior College offers Wichita Falls and North Texas students.

Think carefully about the advantages of attending Junior College. Consult the registrar. Wichita Falls offers you opportunity. Take advantage of it.

He Can't Take a Chance

In this grilling test of human and motor endurance the Gasoline and Oil has a great bearing . . . . in fact the success of five days and five nights of continuous driving hinges on PANHANDLE GASOLINE and PANOLENE MOTOR OIL. Mr. Newman has chosen Panhandle Gasoline knowing that it won the recent Ford mileage contest with an average of 47.6 miles to the gallon. He has chosen Panolene Motor Oil to enable him to make the entire drive with only one filling of oil, five quarts, and with the crank case and hood sealed to prevent refilling. Listed below are his three most important choices and three reasons for choosing them.

BURKBURNETT SOCIETY

Special to The Record News.

BURKBURNETT, Aug. 20—The ladies of the Presbyterian church entertained Tuesday night with an ice cream and cake supper at the Hardin Home park where men, women and children enjoyed a pleasant evening outing.

A generous sum was realized as a church benefit and the program of amusement was featured by the Burkburnett boys' band who kindly contributed the music for the occasion.

Owing to the warmth of the season and the absence from town of many members, the Federated Missionary society meeting scheduled for the fifth Monday of this month will not be held on August 29.

This action is also in keeping with the custom to postpone these meetings during the summer season.

However, the next regular fifth Monday meeting will be held on October 31, 1927, when the ladies of the Methodist church will be the hostesses of the occasion.

The Loyal Live Wire class at the Central Christian Sunday school put on a good program Sunday at that church before a large congregation.

Hymns, choruses, scripture readings, special solos, etc., formed the program as announced last week; and added to this was a reading entitled "What Did You See Out There, My Lad?" by Mrs. Gene Buckner of Breckenridge, who formerly lived in Burkburnett and was Miss Daisy Patrick before her marriage. This number was well given and added much to the pleasure of the program.

Another feature of the hour was a song rendered by Mrs. Tom Word entitled "My Texas" and given by three young ladies of the church, Misses Frances Freeland, Sylvia Patrick and Leila Hughs.

Mrs. G. B. Nobles entertained the McMann Ladies club Wednesday afternoon at her home on the McMann lease.

There was a large gathering of members and visitors present and Mrs. D. F. Estes was welcomed as a new member of the organization.

Following the business session, a social contest was introduced in which Mrs. Estes won high and Mrs. Justice received the consolation prize.

The hostess served a dainty refreshment course to the following friends: Mesdames P. E. Button, L. C. Strait, J. A. Suttles, Walls Nelson, H. B. Brown, R. L. Wilson, J. Vann, H. C. Ellis, D. M. Whitsker, M. Woods, P. E. Frields, A. J. Knapp, J. Strait, Ben Franklin, Justice and B. F. Estes; also Misses Esterine Dutton and Vera Franklin.

On Friday afternoon the members and friends of the M. S. and C. club surprised Mrs. Coy E. Jones with a friendship shower party, the guests gathering at the home of the honoree.

The latter received a beautiful pink and white basket and the opening and inspection of the dainty collection of gifts featured the pleasure of this part of the entertainment.

The hostesses then gave each guest a square of outing stamped with a little animal which was embroidered for a small comfort finished and presented to Mrs. Jones. The best needle work done on the squares was that of Mrs. J. W. Smith, who received a prize that was duly turned over to the honor guest of the occasion.

Other games, fitting to the occasion were played and the winners were Mrs. H. G. McRae and Mrs. S. H. Boker, who presented their prizes to the honoree also.

A delicious summer treat of cream and cake was enjoyed by the following ladies assembled: Mesdames J. W. Smith, Clive Smith, Ruby Jones, W. W. Jackson, S. H. Baker, Coy E. Jones, G. T. England, C. O. Marker, H. J. Meyers, P. A. Whiteacre, H. G. McRae, Misses Mildred England, Minnie Freeman and Pearl Bailey.

The Hardin Demonstration club of Burkburnett met in regular session where an interesting program was rendered which was known as "Magazine Day."

The following numbers were given: "A Story I Have Read This Month," by Mrs. B. F. Estes; "An Article I Have Read," by Mrs. J. B. Noble; "How Farm Papers Help Us to Make Money," by Miss Mary Schmoker; "A Satisfactory Recipe I Have Found in Magazine," Mrs. J. H. McKown. Mrs. A. H. Dahl led a round table discussion on "The Value of Good Magazines in the Home."

The Rally Day of the Demonstration clubs of the county was announced to be held at the Texas-Oklahoma fair grounds, on August 25 and every member was urged to attend that day. Each member was also asked to bring a cup, spoon, knife and fork, and there will be an old fashioned barbecue dinner served. A fitting program will also be rendered on which the following citizens will appear: Mayor R. E. Shepherd, a song; Mrs. W. C. Williams, Wichita county representative on the Farm Women's special to California; Miss Mamie Lee Hayden, district demonstration agent; Mrs. J. Solon Dowing will outline her plan for the D-O fair.

Each club will furnish a "stunt" for the program on the 25th inst.; and with instructive talks and wholesome fun a great profitable day is anticipated by the demonstration clubs.

Those present eWdnesday were Miss Mary Schmoker, Mesdames B. F. Estes, H. G. Cook, F. R. Knauth, J. H. McKown, A. N. Dahl, and T. D Tarkington.

Mrs. Jim Enloe entertained with a delightful social evening Monday night in special compliment to her husband, daughter, Miss Helen Enloe, and brother, B. F. Lawley, whose birthdays all come on this date.

Music, games and bright stories afforded the amusement of the occasion which was closed with a treat of light refreshments. The personnel of the guests included a number of relatives, friends and fellow workmen in the Magnolia company in Mr. Enloe's division.

The out of town relatives present were his mother, a brother, Jess Enloe, and two sisters, Mesdames Streetman and Davis from Tishomingo, Okla.

HASKELL SOCIETY

Special to The Record News.

HASKELL, Aug. 20.—Mesdames T. J. Lemmon and T. J. Arbuckle entertained last Thursday morning in the home of the latter with a "42" party as a special courtesy to their daughter and sister, Mrs. J. E. Morris of Spur. At the close of a number of games of "42" the hostesses served a salad course with iced tea to Mesdames R. B. Cannon, Dallas; H. K. McWhirter, Dallas; S. A. Roberts, O. F. Patterson, T. C. Rogers, Courtney Hunt, R. J. Reynolds, B. M. Whitsker, P. T. Sanders, George Fields, Bruce W. Bryant, Ethel Irby, Marshall Pierson, M. B. Watson, C. L. Lewis, D. L. Cummins, E. Southern, W. P. Trice, Virgil Meadows, Thomas Morrison, J. F. Morrison, H. D. Neff, T. A. Pinkerton, C. L. Lewis, Kenneth Thornton, John W. Pace, R. C. Couch, Bruce W. Bryant, T. J. Arbuckle, A. H. Weir and H. M. Smith.

Tuesday Bridge Club.

The Tuesday Bridge club met last Tuesday with Mrs. Tom French at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and only members with one out-of-town guest were present. At the close of the afternoon's entertainment Mrs. French served each guest a plate of perfection salad, cheese, crackers and apricot sherbet. They were: Mrs. Marlin Wilson of Rule, a member, and Mesdames A. B. Pumphry, Clyde Grimsom, John F. Payne, Wayne Koonce, Theron Cahill, Wallace Cox and Hill Oates.

Miss Vivian Bernard Entertains.

On last Friday afternoon Miss Vivian Bernard entertained her Sunday school class of the Methodist Sunday school with a lawn party and watermelon cut. After many out of doors games the hostess served ice cold melons to the host of her class who were: H. J. Hambleton, Wayne Vaughn, Frank Miller, Bryant, Thomas Keigler, Fred Sanders Jr., Kirby Jones and Ralph Bernard.

Entertain for Delphia Case.

Three hostesses, Misses Velma and Fern Case and Mrs. R. W. Bischofhausen entertained last Tuesday afternoon in the Case home honoring the sixth birthday of little Miss Delphia Case. The honoree met the guests at the door and Miss Fern Case presided over the guest book. Green and white were the chosen colors for decorations and menue. After looking at all of the gifts brought to the honoree by her friends and playing quite a number of games, ice cream and cake were served the following: Thelda Mapes, Margaret Richey, Louise Cannon, Emma Kate Richey, Virginia Sue Couch, Ethel Irby, Thelma Joe Bickley, Bettie Ann Hancock, Ruth Alexander, Lucile Akins, Evelyn Alexander, Maxine Sommons, Ruth Marie Morgan, Lois Virginia Pouts, Mollie Hester and Eva Dell Squires.

Surratt-Davis.

Announcements of the marriage of Miss Douglass Surratt of Albany and Mr. John V. Davis which was solemnized in the home of the bride Monday, August 8, have been received by Haskell friends. Rev. F. R. Reynolds, pastor of the First Christian church performed the ceremony in the presence of relatives and a few close friends. Miss Surratt taught school in the Haskell schools last year and it was then that she met Mr. Davis and the romance began and culminated in the marriage. Miss Douglass Surratt is the the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Surratt of Albany and Mr. John Davis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Davis, pioneer citizens of Haskell. Mr. and Mrs. Davis were married at 6 o'clock in the morning and left immediately after the ceremony for Dallas and Fort Worth and then on to Haskell where Mr. Davis is connected with the Fields Grocery company.

Loe-McClung.

CAR BUILDERS SEEK THE NEW

Chrysler, Peerless, Jordan To Issue New Models

By RAY PRIEST
Universal Service Automobile Editor.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 20.—Reports from Cleveland vie with the announcement of the Chrysler corporation of its new "72" among the manufacturers.

Cleveland reports are that Jordan and Peerless will soon announce new models. The Peerless company is said to be about to bring out a completely changed line.

Jordan rumors bear an air of mystery arising from a published report that a sensational eight-cylinder car announcement might be expected from that plant in the near future.

Possibility that this announcement might be regarding the Argile motor that is owned in America by the Continental Motors corporation was suggested, but confirmation was found impossible at the motor factory.

The new Chrysler "72" has made a hit with many owners of cars in that it combines the usual Chrysler beauty appeal with a greater roominess than has heretofore been offered in any of the models of the company except the imperial "80."

The principal features of the new car are a larger motor mounted in rubber at either end. Seven body styles are available.

Within the last few weeks it has been interesting to listen to the old timers in the automobile industry talk of the "merry Oldsmobile," Winton, the old 999 of Ford fame, Haynes, Chevrolet, etc., as an outgrowth of the first showings over the country of a movie film in which a number of these cars are actually driven under their own power.

This revived interest in the old "one lungers," the horseless vehicle, the tonneau of which was entered through a rear door, and other motor car features of 20 years has led most of the older manufacturers to get out the museum settled brass trimmed vehicle, tune up the motor and have it driven through the main streets of many of our larger cities.

Within the last two weeks it is almost a daily occurrence to see one or more of these old timers chugging down a busy thoroughfare in Detroit, blockading traffic by its slow starts and sometimes permanent stops, with the driver garbed in high gloves, dust coat and high hat of the period when the car was first produced.

Automobile editors will soon begin to know of this delving into automobile history, too, for most of the companies are inordinately proud of these horseless vehicles and have their press agents take numerous photographs of them being driven down the street.

Oversize Tires Give Autoist More Mileage

"The use of oversize tires will enable many motorists to get much greater satisfaction and longer mileage than with regular tires," according to Bill Hoehn, manager of Panhandle-Firestone dealers in Wichita Falls.

"Motor cars are equipped with tires that are ample for any ordinary use, provided they are inflated to the correct pressure. However, most motorists abuse their tires by overloading them and through failure to keep them "pumped up."

"Oversizing allows a much greater margin of safety, and in the long run justifies the extra expense. There are many advantages to using oversize tires, including more comfortable riding, better braking with less tendency to skid, and less tire trouble. The larger tire is not so easily cut or bruised and the tread wears much longer.

"Last but not least, the oversize tire will average far greater mileage, which in terms of cost per mile, means economy. In tires as in everything else, it pays to buy dependable, quality merchandise and Firestones have a reputation for being the leader in that field."

No Change to Be Made In Whippet Design

TOLEDO, Ohio, Aug. 20.—A statement just issued by Willys-Overland, Inc., makers of the Whippet and Willys-Knight, says that no changes are being anticipated in Whippet design or construction and that the success achieved by this car has been such as to indicate the adoption of Whippet features by other cars in the near future.

New design introduced into the light car market by the Whippet, so the statement says, include four-wheel brakes, low swung bodies, higher compression ratio in the motor, higher rate of piston travel and greater power development from the dimensions of the motor than have hitherto been obtained in the power plants used in light cars built as standard production.

It is cited by Willys-Overland that the most recent announcement in the four cylinder field dwells upon increased power development, lower distribution of weight and greater compactness in body dimensions without decrease in the amount of usable room in the bodies.

105-Year-Old Man Dies After Morning Smoke

By Universal Service.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 20.—Jacob Brietkopf, 105 years old, after rising today at his home Newark, enjoyed a smoke and died an hour later. He had been in poor health two months, but up to his final illness had read without spectacles. A year ago he posed for the movies chopping wood.

He was born in Austria and was six feet six inches tall.

American automobiles are the most popular in Aden, Arabia.

Quarter of Century Brings Many Auto Type Changes

What a quarter of a century of progress has done to change motor car its strikingly represented in a comparison of the smart new car of 1902 and of 1927. Twenty-five years ago the Studebaker electric runabout was the last word in transportation. Viewed somewhat askance by conservatives who were loth to replace their high stepping horses with the new fangled horseless carriages, the 1902 runabout was nevertheless considered the smartest turnout of the day.

Progress affords few greater contrasts than that between the 1902 runabout and the Erskine Six Sport coupe, which is accepted as the the highest of motoring fashion today. In the former a crude adaptation of a carriage body is mounted on the stubby framework of the electric. In the latter we find a graceful, low swung and distinctively designed body created by Dietrich—a master custom body builder—who took his inspiration for the body design from the smartest of Europe's high priced cars.

Compact in its proportions, the Erskine Six sport coupe affords ample room for two in the beautifully finished interior, with seats for an extra couple in the commodious leather upholstered rumble seat in the rear deck.

Not only in appearance and comfort but in performance, too, the Erskine is a far cry from the 1902 runabout. Its sturdy economical motor will zoom from 5 to 25 miles an hour in 8 1-2 seconds, and climb swiftly to a steady 50 miles an hour. And a mile a minute 25 years ago was a speed only visionaries such as Jules Verne believed would someday be possible.

CHRYSLER HAS NOVEL RECORD

Car Driven Through Boundary States

A novel long distance automobile record and a remarkable exhibition of motor car stamina and durability were completed when Police Officer Albert O. Bush and his relief driver and mechanician, Theodore Marsh, recently returned to their home city of Canton, Ohio, 21 days after they had left it in a 1924 Chrysler "70" touring car for a drive "round the rim" of the United States.

In the three weeks of their absence their itinerary had taken them through every boundary state of the union and aong the Atlantic, Gulf and Pacific coastlines. They added 13,456 miles to the 50,000 already registered on their car's speedometer, making an average of 636 miles a day. The actual elapsed time for the trip, checked by Western Union, was 21 days, 4 hours and 6 minutes.

In computing the daily average time Officer Bush pointed out that consideration must be given the fact that speed laws were observed throughout the trip and in some states faster running was possible than in others.

The time of the new record is all the more striking in view of the almost inconceivable combination of adverse conditions that met the drivers, running the gamut of cloudbursts, floods, mountain snow and blinding sandstorms.

Their daily telegraphic reports show that from the time they left Canton headed east, and all the way down the Atlantic coast, they ran into a succession of furious rainstorms, which in New Hampshire reached the proportions of a cloudburst. Detours through miles of mud, often hub deep, dragged down their average running time, and washouts entailed long delays until streams could be forded or crossed by improvised bridges.

'Daddy' Songs Banned By Houston Censors

HOUSTON, Aug. 20. (AP)—Girls of the chorus and soubrettes may no longer single out a bald headed man in the very front row at Houston theaters and sing a "daddy" song to him. Mrs. Thomas Eggert, secretary of the Houston censor board says such songs are not nice and has banned them.

All Houston theater managers have been warned not to permit the practice. Jesse Warden, manager of a small theater, said he "couldn't understand it," and Eddie Bremer, head of one of the largest houses, said he had been "warned against the girls singing to individuals."

'LOW' RECORD FOR FRANKLIN

1,000 Miles in Low Gear In 80 Hours

Running in low gear and without stopping for 80 hours and 15 minutes, a 9-B Franklin sedan driven by its owner William Feigel covered 1000 miles over the Houston, Texas speedway from Thursday morning, July 14 to Sunday afternoon, July 18, breaking all known records for continuous low-gear operation. Time and running conditions were checked by a representative of the A. A. A.

Throughout the run the weather remained warm and sultry and the Houston track was heavy. Speed for the thousand miles was 12.4 miles per hour, an average slightly higher than that made in the 100-mile low-gear run staged in connection with the 25th anniversary in which 185 Franklin cars chalked up a group average speed of 12 miles per hour.

Mr. Feigel's speed, however for the first 100 miles was increased to 13 miles per hour, showing an even 13 miles for the first 24 hours in which time he covered 312 miles. In 48 hours 584 miles were checked off with a clock average of 12.17 miles per hour. Driving fatigue began to disappear at this point, and Mr. Feigel figuratively gaining his second wind, increased his speed for the next 42 hours and 15 minutes for an average of 12.4 miles per hour.

Gasoline consumption for the first 48 hours running amounted to 64 gallons or 9.1 miles per gallon. Five pints of oil were consumed in the first 584 miles.

The run was conducted by Mr. Feigel with the co-operation of the Kelley-Trost Motor company of Houston.

The total value of merchandise exported through Texas ports last year was in excess of $670,000,000, an amount greater than the south's total exports in 1910.

Public Is Quick To Welcome Oakland All-American Six

PONTIAC, Mich., Aug. 20.—The Oakland Motor Car company's success in creating an automobile which satisfies the highest American conception of what a car should be is reflected in hundreds of telegrams from Oakland dealers all over the country this week. Tens of thousands have viewed the new Oakland All-American Six, and hundreds have driven it, since its presentation a week ago. They are enthusiastic in their praise of its splendid appearance, its surprising power,—its roomy restfulness, and its generally sparkling performance.

Just as, with the Pontiac Six, Oakland engineers sought to create a car adapted to the needs of the world's most exacting users—the American public—so with the Oakland All-American Six these same engineers have carried that policy to its logical conclusion. The new Oakland is sturdy and powerful, with a man's-size six-cylinder engine. Roominess is assured by its 117-inch wheelbase, and its 175-inch over-all length.

Like the Pontiac Six, it is peculiarly adapted to the requirements of Americans, whether their need be transportation in congested city traffic or speedy and comfortable negotiation of great distances such as only America offers. In neither Pontiac nor Oakland is there the slightest stinting of power, room or riding ease, nor any trace of foreign influence.

Marmon Business Reaches Record

That sales of Marmon cars so far this year have held at record volume and that the Marmon Motor Car company, as a result, has further strengthened its financial position in the industry is definitely shown in the annual statement of the company for the fiscal year ending July 2, 1927.

The statement shows total assets of more than $10,000,000, a gain of nearly $2,000,000 over the previous fiscal year, and the ratio of current assets to liabilities now is more than three and one-half to one. Earnings for the year were equivalent to more than 10 per cent on the outstanding common stock of the company, exclusive of preferred dividend requirements, interest, taxes, etc. During the year the company also retired $250,000 of its serial gold notes.

"The strong financial position of the Marmon company is a direct result of the introduction of the Marmon eight and the record sales of the new line so far this year," declares H. H. Brooks, Marmon general sales director. "Sales of the eight are, of course, in addition to production of the large Marmon series."

NEW DODGE ON MARKET

Orders Large Though Car Not on Display

Dodge Brothers, Inc., has introduced a coupe as the second car in its brilliant new line of fours. Gracefully designed and with every line symbolic of speed, it is as different—and as striking—in comparison with other cars on the market, as the four cylinder sedan.

Dealers have been taking orders for the coupe "sight unseen" for some time and already a substantial volume of business has been booked.

Built with the new and powerful "124" motor which now powers all Dodge Brothers four cylinder cars, this coupe has the same speed and power that has contributed so materially to the notable reception accorded the new four cylinder sedan. The sedan has been advertised as the "Fastest Four in America" and each day is proving the truth and conservativeness of the claim.

The coupe is an all around car for the business man or the small family, Dodge Brothers say. Its phenomenal speed—greater than anything in its class—its quick get away in traffic and its operating economy are claimed to make it an ideal car for either constant driving in traffic or for use on the open highway where speed and snap are wanted. For the small family or for the woman who wants a smart car to drive hereself, its dashing appearance and extreme ease of control have particular appeal. It is built with ball bearings in the steering knuckles, making it possible to steer in traffic with but the touch of a finger.

The coupe is somewhat lighter than the former one and this, combined with the improved combustion obtainable in the "124" engine, makes it exceptionally economical to operate. The car is said to be capable of going 25 miles on a gallon of gasoline at a speed of 25 miles per hour—a notable advance in economy.

The united kingdom now has 1,000,000 unemployed.

The WORLD'S LARGEST BUILDER OF GEAR-SHIFT TRUCKS

OFFICE OPENED BY CHEVROLET

Makes 43 Branches in United States

Creation of a new Chevrolet zone sales office, the 20th to be opened since 1925 and 43rd now established in the United States, more than half of which have parts distribution deposits providing the public with quick and more efficient service, was announced today by H. J. Klinker, general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor company.

The new zone, located at Portland, Me., is the ninth to be established since the first of the year, according to Mr. Klingler, others having been opened at Columbia, S. C.; Salt Lake City, Utah; Richmond, Va.; Butte, Mont.; El Paso, Texas; Charleston, W. Va., Wichita, Kan., and Seattle, Wash.

"The rapidity with which new offices have been opened this year denotes a generally healthful condition of business throughout the country," Mr. Klingler said. "It will be noted that our new offices are located in every section of the United States, an indication that conditions are uniformly good, which augurs well for the fall outlook. Further evidence of this is contained in the fact that Chevrolet sales for every month this year showed a substantial gain over the same period last year, and August sales for the first 10 days indicated that we have the best August of record. By the middle of the month factory production will have exceeded the entire output for 1926.

"Our policy is to place new zone offices wherever the growth in car sales warrants it. With this in mind we get a new index of the enormous increase in production and sales of Chevrolets by noting that in 1925 we had only 23 zone offices and an annual output of 519,060 units. Today we have 43 zone office and our factories are planning to turn out nearly one million cars this year.

"The new office at Portland gives us a network of wholesale points in every section of the country, extending from Portland, Me., to Jacksonville, Fla., and from Seattle, Wash., to Los Angeles, Calif., with many intermediate points such as Fargo, N. D., El Paso, Texas, and Columbia, S. C. The last two additions to the list were the northern extremeties—Portland and Seattle."

Mrs. Julia Moon of St. Louis, Mo., is a guest in the home of her son, Jimmie Moon, and wife, having returned with the latter from a recent visit in that city. Mr. Moon had not seen his mother for the past three years and the family is enjoying a delightful reunion.

In the scheduled announcements of the quarterly conference meetings for this district the following is of interest to our readers as given by Dr. Walter J. Johnson, presiding elder:

Preaching followed by quarterly conference at Texhoma, September 25; at Stringtown, same date at 7:30 p. m.; and at Burkburnett, September 28, at 7:30 p. m. At Thrift, on October 5, at 7:30 p. m.

The death of J. S. Hayes in Wichita Falls Friday was regretted by a large circle of friends in this city where the family lived during the oil boom days and where connections of his family have lived from time to time for a number of years. The sympathy of Burkburnett friends goes out to these relatives in their bereavement.

Rev. E. V. Cole, editor of the Christian Advocate in Dallas, preached in the Methodist church Sunday morning. The sermon was one of power presenting the practical and spiritual standard of Christian living in this present age. He closed his service with a brief appeal in behalf of the church paper, soliciting its place in every family of the church.

All enjoyed Rev. Cole's good sermon and his old friends who recalled him as the pastor of this church during the oil boom days were especially pleased to see him again.

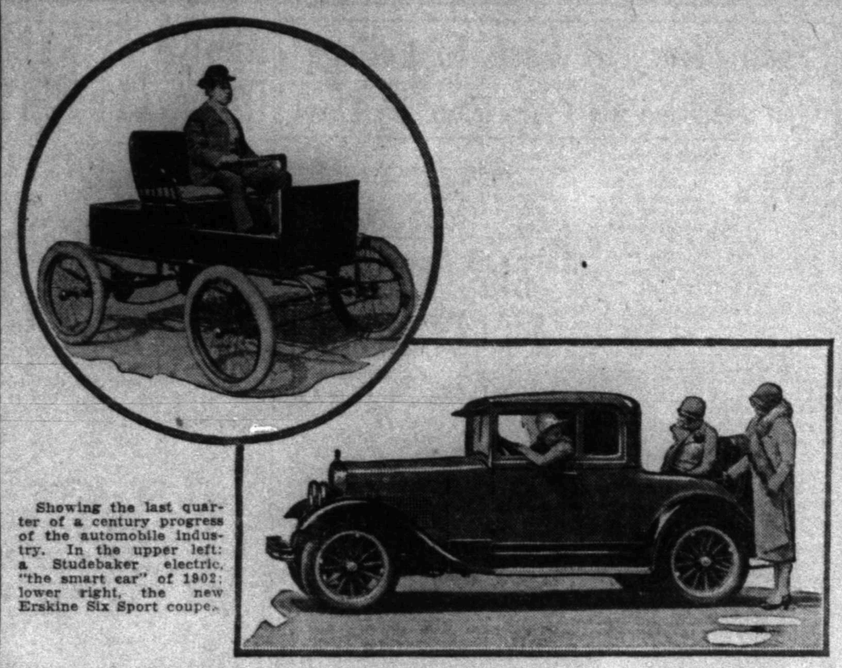

Mrs. Henry O. Moore, formerly of this city, but now of Hubbard, Texas, was a guest among friends in Burkburnett this week.

Rev. M. D. Hayes has declined the call to the pastorate of the First Baptist church of this city. His reasons, it developed at last Sunday's services, will be given later.

Henry Hall, attache of the Quality market, has purchased a three-room house at 116 Avenue F and moved into the new home Monday.

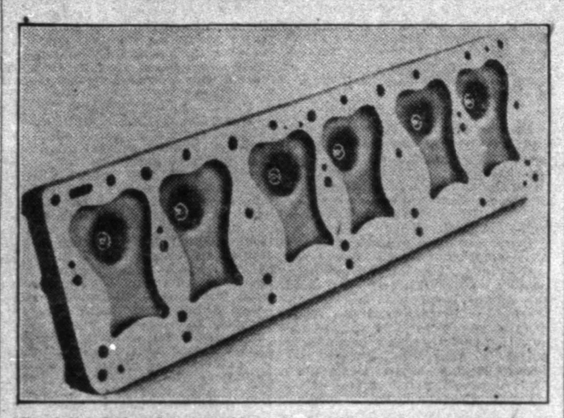

The news of the death of Dr. H. L. Lewis was read with much personal regret among our citizens, with whom he formerly associated here as family physician and friend. He was the father of Mrs. E. L. Blum of this city, and to her and other sorrowing relatives the sympathy of the community is extended in the loss of this good man. T. A. Griffin and J. M. Alexander of Burkburnett were among the pall bearers, both men being former friends and neighbors of the deceased.

Texas Leads Nation In Church Organizations

AUSTIN, Aug. 20. (AP)—Latest available statistics show Texas in the lead in church organizations with 14,516, and second only to Pennsylvania in the number of Sunday schools. Former Gov. O. B. Colquitt, Dallas, reveals in a report filed with the state tax survey commission, of which he is chairman.

Hupmobile Six Wins Reliability Contest

Against a field including both American and European cars of various price ranges, a Hupmobile six won a recent 230 kilometer reliability contest over and extremely hilly and mountainous course near Balboa, Spain.

Control station were placed as close as only 200 meters apart in the severe tests imposed with contestants compelled to run at a uniform speed of 40 kilometers an hour. Grades up to 15 per cent were encountered.

The Hupmobile, despite the rigorous nature of the test, received only two penalty points against it. Both a cup and a medal were bestowed on the winning car.

Woods' Successor Not To Be Named Till Fall

By Universal Service.

RAPID CITY, S. D., Aug. 20.—Aspiring candidates for General Leonard A. Wood's post as governor-general of the Philippines must wait until fall, President Coolidge today announced that the successor will not be chosen until after he has conferred with the war department upon his return to Washington.

One farm near Devine, Texas, produces upwards of two billion onion plants a year. Last year this farm, which employs 6000 persons, shipped 300 car loads of plants.

CADILLAC WINS BEAUTY PRIZE

Winner in German Efficiency Contest

At an international automobile contest for efficiency and beauty of appearance held recently in Berlin, Germany, with 62 entries from many countries, first prize was awarded to a Cadillac special sport phaeton and second prize to the LaSalle. In a similar contest held in Vienna in a field of one hundred contestants, second prize also went to the Cadillac. The honors were doubly valuable because they were awarded to American cars in rivalry with European cars in contests held in European cities.

The special Cadillac sport phaeton which won first place was the one which proved the sensation of the last New York automobile salon and the New York national show. It has also captivated critics of design in London, Paris, and other cities of Europe and South America.

It was designed by Harley Earl, formerly body designer and consultant of the Cadillac Motor Car company, who is now organizing a division on designing arts and color to act in an advisory capacity for all automobile divisions of the General Motors corporation. Earl, who spent the greater part of two years in the study of body design in the United States and in Europe in preparation for the task, is also responsible for the design of the LaSalle car.

New Lub System On Stearns Cars

A new principle of engine lubrication, said to be superior to the "pressure" system generally in use on cars today, is embodied on the latest Stearns-Knight eight-cylinder automobiles according to a statement made recently by H. J. Leonard, president of the F. B. Stearns company, Cleveland, Ohio.

"Well known engineers claim the "positive lubrication" system employed on the Stearns-Knight cars represents a greater advance in reliability and efficiency over the usual "pressure" system than did the "pressure" system over the old "splash" lubrication methods," states Mr. Leonard.

Positive lubrication is accomplished on the Stearns-Knight eight by having all oil delivered by the pump passed directly into the crankshaft at the rear main bearing where it flows from one end to the other. The surplus oil after passing through the shaft is then sent to the minor moving portions of the engine for their lubrication.

By elimination all by-passes and other leads from the main oil line, there is no possibility for any of the lubricant to escape between the pump and the crankshaft. This arrangement permits a large volume of oil to be introduced into the crankshaft."

$200,000 Royalties Enrich University

By Universal Service.

AUSTIN, Aug. 20.—Texas University was enriched by $200,000 when oil royalties totalling this sum were received by Land Commissioner J. T. Robison from companies operating on university lands in Crane, Upton and Reagan counties.

Mexican Law Books Presented University

AUSTIN, Aug. 20.—A gift of sixteen volumes dealing chiefly with Mexican law has been made to the library of the University of Texas by Ezequel Colsa of Matamoros, Mexico, according to C. E. Castaneda, librarian of the Latin American collection and through whom Mr. Colsa made the gift.

Public school expenditures of Texas are now about $55,000,000 annually or five times what they were in 1910 and within $25,000,000 of what the 16 southern states spent last year for this purpose.

Accidents Will Happen.....

ESPECIALLY AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS

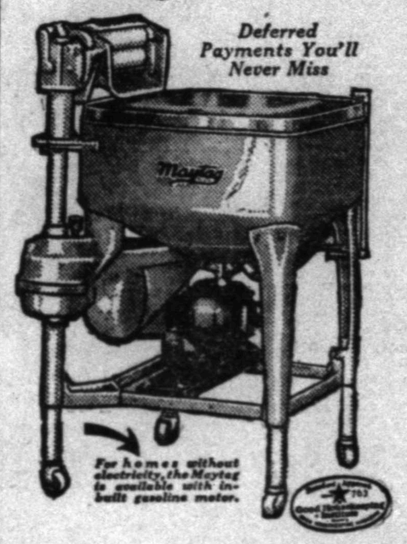

—and during these modern times, with conjested traffic conditions becoming worse every day. The best of drivers may be unfortunate and have some mishap with their car, get the fenders dented in, the body all pushed in on one side—or maybe a "complete" turnover, demolishing the top—that's too bad, it is unfortunate—but not half so bad as you think.. We specialize in repairing automobile bodies, tops, upholstering, etc.. We have one of the best equipped shops in Wichita Falls for taking care of such repairs.. To convince you of this fact we invite you to call around and see us, see some of the work we have been turning out—you too will be surprised to know how good a bad looking car can be made a good looking one. "Yes" or "No" — MAYTAG Leaves it entirely to YOU

Deferred Payments You'll Never Miss

For homes without electricity, the Maytag is available with in-built gasoline motor.

IN THE quiet of your own home you can give the Maytag a thorough trial without obligation or expense. Then decide whether you want it or not. Your decision will be based entirely upon the performance of the Maytag in YOUR home—by the way it washes YOUR clothes.

Try the Maytag for a day. Do a whole washing without expense or obligation of any kind. See big tubfuls washed in 3 to 7 minutes in the life-lasting cast-aluminum tub that will not corrode, rot, rust, split, crack nor break.

See how the heat-retaining nature of the tub keeps the water hot for an entire washing. See how the tub drains and cleans itself in 30 seconds after the washing is done.

See how unusually clean everything is washed without hand-rubbing even collars, cuffs or wristbands.

See how easy it is to wring clothes in the famous Maytag wringer that sets so close to the water level.

The wringer instantly adjusts itself to a handkerchief or a blanket and wrings both dry. It has quick-action tension release and self-reversing drainboard.

Phone the Nearest Maytag Dealer

Use a Maytag next washday. Then judge for yourself its helpfulness to you. Remember, the decision rests entirely with you—if the Maytag doesn't sell itself, don't keep it.

THE IRON-IZER OVERCOMES

PARALYSIS

SAYS WICHITA FALLS MAN

Dr. Harding's Iron-Izer Co.
Gentlemen:

I suffered with paralysis of left leg and left arm for 16 years, had no feeling. Have tried everything possible and received no benefit in my condition.

On July 25th, 1927, I started using Dr. Harding's IRON-IZER. I have full circulation and feeling in my entire left side, am gaining in strength and feel fine.

I am only too glad to praise what the IRON-IZER has done for me and you can use this letter as you wish.

Wishing you continued success, I am, yours truly,

JOHN WARD

Working Class Applauds Doheny On Texas Trip

FORT STOCKTON, Texas, Aug. 20. (AP)—When Edward Doheny, oil magnate was looking over the Pecos county oil fields, recently, he became quite popular among the working people in this section because he manifested interest in commonplace things.

Mr. Doheny, unaccustomed to the arid climate of this section of Texas, appreciated the water supply near Fort Stockton. He said that Comanche Springs and Leon Springs "are wonderful blessing to the people in this seemingly arid land."

Highway Gaps On Midland Roads to Be Closed

MIDLAND, Texas, Aug. 20. (AP)—All gaps in a highway connecting the Amarillo and Midland oil fields are to be closed within a short time. Definite steps were taken at a road meeting in Seminole to complete the highway from Midland to Brownfield, where it will connect with a shorter route to Amarillo. The new road also will make operations in Andrews and Gaines counties and eastern New Mexico easily accesible to company offices in Midland.

McAllen Legion Members Favor Death For Radicals

McALLEN, Texas, Aug. 20. (AP)—American Legion post 37 of this city, has gone on record favoring the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti, now under sentence in the east for murder. The post telegraphed Governor Fuller of Massachusetts its sentiments "so that the law-abiding citizens who love the Stars and Stripes may know that justice is upheld."

Petticoat Business Kills Eastern Clothing Man

NEW YORK, Aug. 20. —Whims of fashion seems to have caused the death of Phillip Horwitz, manufacturer. Decreased demand for petticoats caused him to make silk underwear and he converted a losing business into a profitable one. His estate has been appraised at $160,005. Says an affidavit filed by his estate: "He literally worked himself to death in building up his business."

Campaigning Conservative Lauds British Minister

LONDON, Aug. 20.— Having joined the conservative party because she thinks the conservatives are able to preserve the constitution against socalism, Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, who led the militant suffragists, regards Prime Minister Baldwin as a splendid man and perfectly honest. She so informed voters in the district where she is running for parliament.

Victorious Boll Weevils Leave Ravaged Fields

VICTORIA, Texas, Aug. 20. (AP)—Ravages of weevil have ceased in the southern and western portions of Victoria county, where the cotton crop is regarded almost as a complete failure due to the boll weevil ravages. With early rains it is hoped that the crop may be made.

LIKES THEM WILD

PACOIMA.—On the ranch of J. T. Lockridge stands a fig tree covered with half-matured figs that will never ripen. The reason is that Lockridge overlooked the fact that the feminine heart of this tree might reach out to a companion that answers to some such name as Charley or Bill or Dick. And to insure a large harvest regularly, the companion has got to be wild, Lockridge says.

MANY VISIT 'DUDE RANCH'

Old Romantic Days Of West Are Recalled

Special to The Record News.

ALPINE, Aug. 20.—Traditions of the old west are being preserved near here on Rancho Valle la Cienega, first Texas real "dude ranch," started this summer by Pete Crawford and a group of Alpine citizens.

This ranch, which is also operated as a real ranch, covers 35,000 acres of well stocked land, 15 miles south of Alpine and is one of the most famous ranches in the West and is typical of the old border days, with all the romance and glamor of the Big Bend.

The home ranch lies in the beautiful Calle la Cienega, amid hundreds of trees planted many years ago. It is 5100 feet above sea level, and watered by cool, clear mountain springs.

Like Movie Ranch.

Comfortable rooms, built-in old-styled adobe houses, a great rustic lounge, a dining room that is as spacious as is found in any movie ranch picture, are all there.

One may rest, ride horseback, take long trial trips, pack train tours, a swift morning canter, moonlight rides, chuck wagon dinners, picnics, barbecues, chicken fries in old Dutch ovens, swimming, tennis, cowboy sports, round-ups, etc., to the heart's content.

In the evening there is dancing by real Mexican music, furnished by a Mexican string band, clothed in typical border clothes.

Largest in West.

The famous Rancho Calle la Cienega, meaning "Valley of the Margh", has been in operation for many years and is today one of the biggest undivided ranches in the West. Its ranching activities are maintained by George Brown, owner, but the resort feature is operated by an Alpine corporation, formed to keep the traditions of the old West intact.

Pete Crawford, manager of the 'dude ranch,' himself though young in years, is an old cowboy and former government pack train master. He is one of the most picturesque characters along the border and served years as a border officer.

Old Tales Flow.

There probably is no man in the West so familiar with the Davis Mountain country and the Big Bend as Crawford. While the rest of Texas is sweltering in the hot evenings, guests at the ranch sit around a cozy fireplace, high up in the Davis mountains, and listen to Crawford unfold some of the legends of the great country known as the "Big Bend."

That is a part of the entertainment at this famous ranch, that has been provided by interested citizens of Alpine for the hundreds of tourists who come to this section each year.

The ranch house is also equipped with many of the old time guns, saddles, ox yokes and trophies of the chase, to give it the proper atmosphere for summer visitors who come down from the east.

Two Galveston Men Senior Members of "Y"

GALVESTON, Aug. 20. (AP)—H. H. Goodman has been a member of the local Young Men's Christian association more than half a century. Recently he took out his 52nd membership.

Mr. Goodman joined toe Y. M. C. A. when it was organized here in 1875. He and Dr. Judson Palmer are the senior members of the association, and it is believed they are among the oldest members of the organization in Texas. Dr. Palmer was secretary of the Y. M. C. A. here for 35 years.

City's "Human Driftwood" Lolls in the Sunshine

HOUSTON, Aug. 20. (AP)—Houston's human driftwood, which usually has an aversion for wood, apparently keeps well informed on crop conditions at the city farm as it relates to the probability of labor under compulsion after being sentenced to that institution. City Commissioner H. A. Halverton reports the cotton crop is a failure this year due to drouth on the city farm where 35 prisoners have little to do but bask in the sunshine.

"Take Plenty Of Cash To College" That's Advice To Girls From U. Dean

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 20.—"Before coming to college every student, and particularly if that student is a girl, should have resources for immediate expenses," said Miss Lula Bewley, assistant to the dean of women at the University of Texas. Miss Bewley, who has been connected with the university since 1908 and in constant association with students all of that time, says that a student should come to college prepared to pay the initial fees and room and board until she can get a good job, if such is necessary, however, she believes it is better that the girl have enough money for at least one semester. "The ambitious students who think that they can come without anything and get work immediately to provide them with living expenses frequently meet with disappointment, for such is a difficult thing to do."

$150 for Start.

The statement contained in the university catalogue that it is advisable for a student to have at least $150 before matriculating, Miss Beweley feels to be very conservative. Although fees will be lower this fall than formerly, living expensese are expected to be much the same.

In houses where girls may secure both room and board the expenses run from $32.50 to $50, with the average at about $40, according to Miss Bewley. For lodging alone each girl will pay from $7 to $10 per month. In the dormitories, room rent, board and steam heat are all counted together in every case and two of the dormitories furnish all linens and also launder them; thus, making a comparative account almost impossible. Steam heat, which is furnished in the dormitories, is a saving because in most of the rooming houses fuel is extra.

Lenens Are Furnished.

In the Scottish Rite dormitory and the new Alice P. Littlefield memorial dormitory all linens will be furnished. The laundering of these linens is also included in both of these dormitories, with the Scottish Rite also allowing for personal laundry.

Other expenses a girl may count on besides her board, room rent and laundry, the latter item being usually estimated at about $25 for the school year, are books and fees and incidental expenses. Books usually cost from $25 to $40, depending entirely upon the courses studied. Fees and deposits, too, depend largely upon the courses. The registration fee required of every student is $30. Laboratory fees vary as to length of courses and will cost from $2 to $4 each.

Deposits Required.

There are also certain deposits which the student is required to make which will be refunded at the end of the session or in case the student withdraws during the term, less charges for breakage or loss.

Incidental expenses are practically impossible to estimate, according to Miss Bewley, for the different girls have different means and different tastes as well as personalities and ambitions.

Although many students have been able to work their way through the university, not only maintaining themselves but getting more out of their college life than some students who have all the money they want to spend while in school, university students are warned, however, that too many hours of outside work jeopardize the chances of the students doing his class work satisfactorily.

Aids to Employment.

Students are aided in getting employment through the university Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. Requests for work should be mailed in to the secretaries of either of the two organizations.

Huge Melon Sent R-R President By Newspaper

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—E. E. Loomis, president of the Lehigh Valley railroad, is to cut a big melon. It weighs 95 pounds. It was sent to him by the Fort Worth Star Telegram.

EVERY PENNY COUNTS

NEW YORK.—Three young men, so hard up for funds that they broke into a penny arcade for funds, came to disaster because the loot they stole was so heavy that they could not escape the five policemen who pursued them. It took the policemen five hours to establish that there were 18,350 pennies, not 18,351, in the bag.

"BIG" MONEY AT DEAUVILLE

4000 Berries in One Clip Appears

By Universal Service.

DEAUVILLE, Aug. 20.—The $4000 chip appeared on the Deauville bacarat tables for the first time in European gambling resorts this week-end. At the same time the casino management issued an order admitting women to the no-limit room.

This decision, which makes Deauville a wide open gambling town, something for which the smart women habitues of the green table have been fighting for for several years, was taken by Mayor Henri Lettellier who, since his marriage to Yola Henriquet, has become the most ardent feminist on this side of the ocean.

"Women have exactly the same right as men to gamble with their money to make or lose a fortune if they so desire," said Lettellier. "Deauville is the most progressive town along the channel coast and it was up to its city officials to take the needed step to show the world that women's rights are well protected here."

"King" Speaks

Thus the Deauville king spoke at a gala dinner Saturday night and was cheered for several minutes by the greatest assembly of pretty women seen this year. Whether the casino directors had foreseen the consequences of a feminine invasion of the hitherto forbidden no-limit room, remains a mystery. But the fact is that within a quarter of an hour after the beginning of play it was found that the usual $400 chips were too cumbersome and inadequate, and with a readiness which met with universal praise, 250 checks worth $4000 each were immediately placed at the disposal of the fair gamblers.

Among the women amateur plungers who succeeded in securing the few coveted places around the big table were Peggy Cooper Hewitt D'Erlanger, Baroness Eugene Rothschild, who was formerly Kitty Schoenbrun, Fanny Ward, Mrs. Herman Rawitzer and Mrs. Duncan Preston. Their reckless calling of banco up to fantastic figures resulted, however, in only temporary large losses, no one losing more than a few thousand dollars.

Their play was temporarily halted by the arrival of Countess Chateaubriand, bedecked with what was stated to be the richest display of diamonds ever seen on any fashionable woman. The countess wore on her left shoulder an immense reproduction of the order of grand commander of the Legion of Honor entirely in diamonds and secured by an invisible platinum chain to a gorgeous diamond necklace.

Both her arms were also filled with diamond bracelets from elbow to wrist.

The effect was so electrifying that the women gamblers deserted the green table, grouping around the countess while the disappointed croupiers had to fall back on the more conservative but steadier gamblers of the stronger sex.

NEGRO SERVES HALF CENTURY

Leaves Texas Prison At Age of 78

HUNTSVILLE, Texas, Aug. 20. (AP)—Fifty-four years ago behind the walls of the Texas state penitentiary is a long time to stay at any one place, but that is how long one old weather-beaten negro served for the state of Texas, according to prison records.

Bill Johnson, 78 years old negro from Harris county made the record. Bill passed through the big steel gates of the "walls" for the first time January 18, 1872. He was only 24 years old. Bill's first jolt to the pen" was for a short term. But as it was during the reconstruction days in the south, Bill could not find any work and as the last resort he burglarized a house and was caught.

Before he had time to collect his thoughts he was again clothed in the regalia of a convict. Bill journied back and forth from the penitentiary on 11 different occasions. As soon as he would serve one term he would come back with another.

His last and 11th trip to "do time" was for ten years. He "put up" seven years of the ten, and on October 25, 1926 he was granted a pardon by Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson.

Johnson said, when he was notified that he had received a pardon, "I have been in the pen so long that I don't know anything else, but I am going to learn something this time and stay out. All you white folks think I'll soon be back, but I'se telling you that you had just might as well close dis heah joint down if you wait for me to come back. Boss I'm gone for good dis time, I have helped you all enough around here."

So far he has kept his promise. Bill's white head is still missing.

Bill was born in Alabama in 1848 and was one of a large slave family. After the negroes were set free Bill ran away from home and drifted into Texas. He declared that he would never have been in the penitentiary if he had listened to his mother who tried to get him to stay at home.

According to prison officials Bill was a good prisoner, always a ready worker, obedient and humble. "I reckon I'se done more work than any body in this world," Bill said as he passed out the gates for the last time.

Midland to Celebrate Street Paving Camaign

MIDLAND, Texas, Aug. 20. (AP)—Formal celebration of the paving of Midland's entire business district will take place next month. This celebration will be held in connection with the completion of the new white way in Main and Wall streets. The residential section is now being paved.

Marshall Merchant Awes Police With 400 Pennies

MARSHALL, Texas, Aug. 20. (AP) A Marshall merchant who was arrested for speeding, paid his fine of $4 with 400 pennies. "There you are," he said to the desk sergent, "count them and give me credit for the fine."

Woman Catches Thief In Crowd of Policemen

By Universal Service.

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—Mrs. Estell Smith caught a thief who attempted to rob her today, while detectives and police stood around, unconcerned. The catch occurred at the annual police field games. Mrs. Smith felt a tug at her purse. She saw a figure fleeing and gave chase. She caught him after a dash through the crowd, to which the detectives paid no heed. She caught him, and then assisted by Traffic Policeman Doyle, took the prisoner, Eugene Wright, 21, a negro to the station house. Other pickpockets did a prosperous business at the games, it was said.

PISTOLS TABOO IN MEXICO

Presidential Contest Cause Of Disarming

By Universal Service.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 20.—Officially announced plans for the "depistolization" of Mexico were being pressed by the authorities today in order to minimize the danger of violent outbreaks in the bitter three cornered presidential contest.

The avowed purpose of the campaign is to check the carrying of firearms by unauthorized persons, thus limiting the privilege strictly to those whose rights cannot be questioned.

Even with this limitation, there will be thousands of civilians entitled to carry arms. The practice is quiet general among members of the national congress and local legislatures, as well as among federal, state and municipal officials.

The official pronouncement anent "de pilstolization" has provoked considerable flippant comment, the newspaper "El Grafico" remarking editorially that "depistolization" is equivalent to "denationalization," the newspaper adds:

"Men of peace, that is to say the minority of the population of our republic, havehastened to applaud the government's program. The measure affects all those who use pistols, consequently, it interests the majority of Mexicans except those without arms, paralytics and those so weak from illness as to be unable to carry the weight of a weapon.

"With us, the pistol has attained the point of being an integral part of our anatomy. For some, it is another hand. For others, it is the brain. There are also those for whom the pistol is the only means of verbal or oratorical expression.

"For such, the government's prophylactic proposals, so laudable from the viewpoint of maimed or paralytic Mexicans (citizens of peace, mark the way to a really tragic destination — denationalization."

Half Million to Be Spent for Road Markers

Florabel Flutter's Abroad

Verses By Berton Braley

Drawings By George J. Kerr

1

IN Venice Miss Florabel Flutter went strong;
Wherever she wandered were men in a throng.
To haunts of the Doges they doggedly trailed her,
With sighs on the Bridge of Sighs cavaliers hailed her.
They sang at her window like so many larks
And fluttered around her like doves at St. Mark's.

2

WHEN Florabel lounged on the Lido arrayed
In silken pajamas of glorious shade
(A garb which the Lido holds perfectly pure,
—See smart people's pictures in Rotogravure),
To get to Miss Florrie you'd have to wade through
Some eight or ten counts and a viscount or two.

3

OF all of the outfit Miss Florrie liked best
A dark-eyed Venetian who also possessed
A soft tenor voice and a flair for romance
And feet that could certainly step in a dance.
He squired her from one gay affair to another
And always included Miss Florabel's mother.

© 1927 - JOHNSON FEATURES INC.

4

ONE night (it was moonlight, and moonlight in Venice
Is lovely, no doubt, but a bit of a menace)
This young cavalier asked Miss Florrie to ride
A gondolier's craft on the shimmering tide.
She went, leaving Mother behind, which was rash,
And soon, on the waters, there sounded a splash!

5

AND onlookers saw, in the glamorous gloam,
A gay young Venetian chap SWIMMING for home!
Miss Florrie returned. Said her mother, "My dear,
What happened? And where is your nice cavalier?"
Said Florrie, "He tried to get mushy and pet;
He seemed to be nice, but I guess he's 'all wet'!"

Studying Eclipses of the Sun to Solve Secrets of the Stars

Above—A Photographic View of the Solar Eclipse Showing the Moon Obscuring the Sun in the Form of a Crescent. The Picture Was Taken at Giggleswick, England, Last June 29, Where the Eclipse Was Seen as Total for the First Time in 200 Years. Right—Clouded Glass Device Used by Amateur Astronomers to Prevent "Eclipse Blindness" While Viewing the Sun.

A TOTAL eclipse of the sun is one of the greatest events in the lives of astronomers the world over. Whenever this phenomenon occurs they journey to any part of the earth, no matter how remote, in order to observe it. Both time and money are lavishly given to secure the best results with the finest scientific instruments that the minds of men can devise. For example, Dr. Samuel A. Mitchell, who directed an American expedition, that of the University of Virginia, which was located at Fagarnes, Norway, to study the solar total eclipse which occurred last June 29, has, since 1900, traveled more than 50,000 miles to observe six total eclipses of the sun.

Why all this time, trouble, effort and expense simply because the sun goes into hiding for a few minutes, even seconds sometimes? Because, as astronomers will inform you, they hope to solve solar secrets while the sun's face is even so briefly obscured.

When the sun goes into a total eclipse it appears to be surrounded by a mysterious and beautiful halo of light, which scientists believe holds the key to the solution of many solar problems. They have already learned that this weird and weak light extends as far as ten million miles from the solar surface, and that it is not a real atmosphere, for comets have been observed to pass through it without friction. Because of its green spectral lines, scientists believe that this feeble light may contain a mysterious element called coronium.

Since astronomers regard the sun as a typical star, they hope by studying total eclipses of it to establish new facts about other stars, some of which are so distant that it takes their light millions of years to reach the earth. The sun, therefore, offers the best opportunity, as it is only ninety million miles distant and its light reaches the earth in eight minutes.

The fact that astronomers can predict, many years in advance, the time of a solar eclipse to within a few seconds, and the region on the earth's surface in which it will be visible to within a mile or so, will perhaps surprise the layman. Yet attention was directed to the eclipse of last June 29 more than half a century ago by the Rev. S. J. Johnson in this "Eclipses Past and Future."

These advance predictions are possible, as Dr. L. J. Comrie explains in Nature (London), because eclipses pass through a definite cycle, or repeat themselves after an interval of 18 years 11 1-3 days. To explain the reason for this, consider the conditions that lead to an eclipse. It is well known that the earth moves round the sun in a nearly fixed plane called the ecliptic. As seen from the earth the apparent motion of the sun in the heavens is along the great circle which represents the intersection of the ecliptic plane and the celestial sphere, or the ecliptic circle. If the motion of the moon round the earth were in the same plane, then once in every lunar month of 29½ days the moon would be in line with the sun, and an eclipse would result. Actually the plane of the moon's orbit is inclined to the plane of the ecliptic at an angle of 5°. This means that the great circle representing the moon's orbit crosses the ecliptic at two opposite points or nodes, while half-way between the nodes the nearest possible approach of the two bodies is 5°.

Should the sun happen to be within a certain limiting distance from either of these modes at the time the moon crosses the ecliptic, there will be an eclipse, either partial or total. If the nodes remained fixed on the ecliptic, eclipses would take place at the same two seasons each year. Actually the nodes make a complete circuit of the ecliptic in a backward or retrograde direction in a little less than nineteen years, so that the sun, in its annual course through the ecliptic, returns to the same node, not in 365.24 days, but in 346.62 days, a period called the eclipse year. Nineteen of these periods equal 6585.78 days. The interval between successive conjunctions of the sun and moon, or, in other words, the interval between successive new moons, is called the synodical month, and is 29.53 days. 223 of these lunations contain 6585.32 days. That is to say, if the sun and moon at any given moment are in conjunction at or near a node, so that an eclipse is in progress, then after 6585.32 days they will again be in conjunction and in the immediate neighborhood of a node, so that another eclipse will occur.

This most useful period of recurrence was known to the Chaldeans as the Saros, and formed the basis of their very successful eclipse predictions. It is still used for the purpose of fixing the dates on which eclipses will occur, although the details of the eclipses are obtained by more refined methods.

The accurate prediction of a solar eclipse is dependent ultimately on accurate predictions of the positions of the sun and moon. These bodies have been carefully observed with meridian circles for more than two centuries.

Among the most remarkable of discoveries made by ancient astronomers was that of the recurrence of eclipses at intervals of 18 years and 10 or 11 days. Scientists today have no knowledge of the discoverer of this period, known as the Saros. In view of the irregularities of the early calendar, such a discovery must have presented great difficulties. The fact that the interval has an odd third of a day, so that the region of visibility of an eclipse is shifted about 120° in longitude at each return, greatly increases the difficulties of discovery, Dr. J. Jackson points out, and it is possible that a period three times as long as the Saros was first discovered. As the area of the earth from which an eclipse can be seen extends over a large arc in longitude, it is possible for two consecutive members of a series of eclipses to be seen from the same place. The total eclipse visible in England on Aug. 11, 1999, will be four Saroses later than that of June 29, of this year, but, whereas this year's eclipse was in the early morning, the eclipse of Aug. 11, 1999, will be visible shortly before noon.

The form and size of the corona seen during a solar eclipse, scientists have found, depend on the actual state of activity of the sun at the moment. If there are many and great sunspots and prominences, and if these are near the sun's edge, then scientists expect a complex inner corona, which, however, will only show to the naked eye as a bright silver ring surrounding the narrow pink circlet of the chromosphere, with long coronal streamers extending in all directions; if there are no spots and insignificant prominences on the sun, then the coronal wings will lie folded along the sun's equator. Prominences, of course, will be visible to the naked eye only if large enough; keen sight could detect a prominence of 40,000 miles height; one of 200,000 miles should be easily visible. The corona will be ivory or white in color; the chromosphere will be rosy; prominences will probably be red, but they may be white.

Unless the eyes are protected when viewing a solar eclipse, there is risk of injury, as Sir Arnold Lawson and Mr. A. L. Whitehead point out in the London Lancet. This warning is likely to be taken thoughtlessly, when many people hope to enjoy seeing the corona of the sun surrounding the black disc of the moon. Even after any ordinary partial obscuration of the sun a few cases of "eclipse blindness" come under the observation of ophthalmic surgeons.

"We dwell upon this danger to the unprotected eye by no means because we wish to discourage anyone from seeing what he can of an eclipse, but rather to remind would-be astronomers, and especially all who have the care of children, that the danger is as real as the safeguard is simple. All that is necessary for a brief survey of the eclipse is to interpose a piece of smoked glass or of fogged photographic film of such a density that the sun when seen through it is no brighter than the setting orb. The photographic film is the safer, as the smoked surface rubs easily off the glass when in use.

"The visible and infra-red rays from the sun passing for the most part unchanged through the cornea and lens," these two authorities explain, "are focussed approximately on some part of the retina whenever the eye is at rest and the sun within the field of vision. Reaching the retina, these rays pass through the superficial layers without doing any harm until they react the pigmented epithelial cells at the back, where they are degenerated into heat, which gives rise to a thermal lesion (an ordinary burn) spreading inward to the retinal tissues and outward to the choroidal vessels"

Heat as a Cause of Fever

HEAT is believed by Drs. Katharine Dodd and Scott J. Wilkinson, of Nashville, Tennessee, to be a cause of obscure fever in children. They reached this conclusion after observing five such cases.

"Infants whose fever," they say, "was definitely caused by external heat not only had fever but were restless and irritable. As soon as they were placed in a comparatively cool room with moving air, their temperatures became practically normal, and they were quiet and contented. Colored children were not similarly affected by the heat. Similar heat exhaustion with fever has often been noted in adults in the tropics and in the southern United States.

"Extreme degrees of external heat, such as occur in the southern part of the United States during periods of the Summer months, may be a cause of fever in white infants," these two physicians report in the Journal of the American Medical Association. "This fever can be prevented or eliminated by placing infants in an artifically cooled room supplied with moving air."

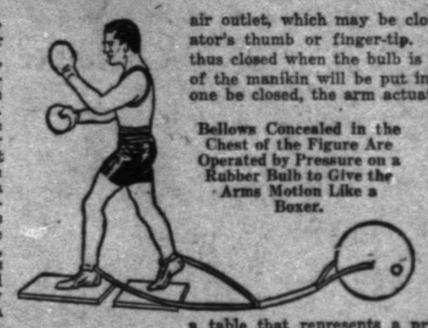

Last July, during a week of extreme heat and very little air movement, these physicians observed high body temperatures in five white infants. Previous to that week the children had been practically without fever. They were well nourished and were gaining weight The report continues: "Prior to that week the weather had been cooler than normal for this time of year.

"Early in the week the temperature began to rise and there was very little cooling at night. On the first day with a peak of 95 F., every child had a temperature of 100 F., or over. The following days, as the maximum temperature of the air became 100 F., or slightly less with a minimum temperature of from 75 to 85 F., the children had a marked afternoon fever, increasing in height day by day. In one case the temperature reached 104.5 F. on the fifth day of excessive heat. A careful physical examination did not reveal any apparent cause for the fever. The children were restless and irritable.

"Just before noon on the sixth day, the children were moved to a room in which a large tub of ice and salt was placed. One electric fan blew directly on the ice, and two others were placed on high wall-brackets so that they blew air against the ceiling. These last two kept the air of the room constantly moving. The temperature of the room was slightly more than 90 F. the first day, and did not go higher than 86 F. on the following day. Thus the peak of the daily heat was eliminated. The day the children were placed in this room not one of them had fever higher than 101.4 F. They all stopped crying and whining almost immediately, and went off into a peaceful sleep."

Fighting MANIKIN Is a Curious TOY

WATARU IDEMOTO, a Japanese inventor of Sacramento, Calif., has devised a novel and curious plaything that takes the form of a boxing manikin. The figure, standing on a base that is in two parts for better stability, has inside its chest two little bellows, which, when air is forced into them by a rubber bulb, operate the manikin's arms. The left arm is horizontally pivoted, while the right arm is vertically pivoted, so that the former swings across in front of the face and the latter swings upward. By this means the actions of a boxer are imitated.

Bellows Concealed in the Chest of the Figure Are Operated by Pressure on a Rubber Bulb to Give the Arms Motion Like a Boxer.

Each of the two bellows is connected to a rubber tube which, passing down through the body and a leg, enters a rubber bulb. The latter, however, has two compartments, separated by a rigid wall, and with each of them only one of the tubes communicates.

On each side of the bulb is a small hole for an air outlet, which may be closed with the operator's thumb or finger-tip. If both holes are thus closed when the bulb is pressed, both arms of the manikin will be put into action. If only one be closed, the arm actuated from the other compartment will be unmoved.

Accordingly, the operator, by suitable manipulation of the bulb, can cause the arms to swing simultaneously or independently; and when two players push two of these manikins over a space on a table that represents a prize-fight ring, pitting them against each other, it is possible to render judgment as to which one is the winner, at least on points.

The neck of each manikin is preferably made of rubber, so that when it is hit in the head the toy boxer will quickly reassume its normal position.

The "ROOSTER" That LAYS EGGS

THE tendency for hens, especially old ones, to develop male characteristics, even to the extent of usurping the male prerogative of crowing, is well known and has been for ages. Everyone is familiar with the dire prediction as to the future prospects of "whistling girls and crowing hens." The unfortunate consequences for the male of not adhering to those lines of duty and action prescribed by Nature for his sex have not, at least in the case of birds, received such general notice; nevertheless such apparent derelictions have been observed in times past and duly condemned.

Early definite records of "roosters" that so far mistook their calling in life as actually to lay eggs seem few, yet the fact that they were supposed occasionally to do so is apparent from frequent references in ancient and medieval literature to "cocks' eggs." Such eggs are said to have been eagerly sought by sorcerers because of their value as ingredients in certain magical preparations. What is more, according to early mythology a cock's egg if hatched gave rise to a fearsome conglomerate of a beast known as a cockatrice, often considered as identical with the basilisk. A whiff of its breath or a glance from its eye meant certain death to the unfortunate recipient, it was believed.

While attending a farmers' institute and poultry show in the village of Mazomanie, Professor J. G. Halpin, of the Poultry Husbandry Department of the Wisconsin Experiment Station, was told by the manager of the local poultry and egg company of an unusual bird in his posession. This bird, which Professor L. J. Cole, Department of Genetics, University of Wisconsin, describes in the Journal of Heredity, had the plumage of a brown cock, but was laying eggs. He had bought it of a farmer, and as it was a great curiosity was keeping it as a "mascot." Professor Halpin, recognizing the interest of the case if authentic, made arrangements for procuring the bird and had it sent to Madison.

The bird was found to have characteristic male plumage of the brown leghorn except for occasional hen feathers (stippled), especially on the breast. There were practically no hen feathers in the hackle or saddle regions. There is no question that to the casual observer the bird would have passed as an ordinary brown leghorn cock. To one familiar with poultry, however, it was at once evident that the head was characteristically "henny" in appearance, the comb and wattles being small. Owing to the fact that the bird had a rose comb, this difference was probably less striking than it would have been had the comb been single. The general body form, moreover, was that of a female rather than a male. Spurs were strongly developed and sharply pointed as they often are in old hens; they were not curved like those of a cock.

An Actual Photograph of the Egg-Laying Wisconsin "Rooster" and Three of "His" Eggs.

"In order to settle the question of egg production beyond any possibility of doubt," says Professor Cole, "the bird was placed in a padlocked wire cage in a room in the Poultry Building. It should be stated, furthermore, that the mesh of the screen on the cage was too small for the insertion of an egg into the cage except through the door. The cage was itself in a room not open to the public.

"It was possible when the bird was received to detect an unlaid egg in the oviduct and the presence in the cage the following morning of an egg of normal brown leghorn size and color dispelled all doubt that our 'rooster' could lay. Following that, eggs came at intervals of about every other day. 'He' continued to lay regularly."

What the Inventors Are Doing

LIPSTICKS that look like ordinary safety matches have two advantages: they are thrown away after using once; and they "draw a finer line."

Perpetual motion is expressed in a scientific novelty which consists of a small bronze dragon with a cloth-covered head. In its mouth there is a glass tube, about two inches long, closed at the end. In the tube is a drop of red liquid, but this drop, instead of standing still, moves upward into the dragon's mouth. Once the drop disappears in its mouth, another drop appears in the bottom of the tube and this, too, is drawn up.

A newly invented thermometer that can be hung on the wall of the living-room or in the office registers both indoor and outdoor temperatures. Attached to it is 15 feet of tubing with a sensitive bulb on the end. The tubing is run outdoors through a hole in the window-frame, and the bulb is inserted in a bracket outside of the building. The top of the thermometer is similar to ordinary household thermometers, while the outdoor temperature is indicated on a round dial with a pointer.

An Iowa sheep raiser has devised a mechanical feeder, which feeds ten lambs at once. It is a wooden trough with a row of holes bored along the bottom just large enough so that the necks of bottles can be inserted. The bottles of milk are placed in these holes at an angle so that the milk will flow slowly.

One of the latest novelties for the kitchen is an egg cooker, server and detector. From one to six eggs may be boiled in this device at one time. When they are taken out of the water, they may be served on the table in this cooker. Spoiled eggs may be detected when boiling, because they will float out of the separate holders.

A Jeweled Ornament for Back of the Hand

SOMETHING new in the way of feminine adornment is suggested by Sydney Scheuer, of Brooklyn, N. Y. It is a jeweled ornament for the back of the hand. To hold it on, a slender chain or a silken cord forms a loop around the second finger, and thence extends along the back of the hand to the wrist, to which it is secured by another loop and a clasp.

Fastened to the chain or cord midway between the finger and wrist loops is a gold or platinum setting, in which may be mounted a cameo or precious stone, or which may be otherwise jeweled. This body part of the ornament may be hollow, to contain a tiny powder puff or what not.

To make the body part fast to the cord, the former is provided with four eyelets, one at each end and one at each side. The loop that embraces the finger affords two strands which, passed through the eyelets, extend along the back of the hand to a clasp and thence around the wrist, where they are secured, at the front of the wrist, by a spring snap.

Filling a Fountain Pen from an Ink Bottle

TO fill a fountain pen properly, it must be dipped into ink of some depth. But, even though the ink-bottle be of such shape as to be adapted for that purpose, the ink left in it when its contents run low becomes useless for pen-filling.

To get over this difficulty, Arthur D. Platt, of Portland, Oregon, suggests a bottle-cap with a tubular receptacle attached to it crosswise. The idea is shown more clearly by the drawing than by description in words.

Two small holes open through the cap into the attached tube. Thus, when the bottle is placed on its side, the ink will run into the tubular vessel. But the latter cannot overflow, because the ink, when it has reached a certain height in the tube, closes the two holes and stops the flow.

By this means, though there be only a small quantity of ink left in the bottle, the tube can be filled to a depth suitable for dipping the fountain pen. When the filling of the pen has been accomplished, a screw top is fastened upon the open end of the tube, and, the bottle being set upon its bottom, the ink that remains in the tube will trickle back into it by gravity.

The Stopper of the Ink Bottle Has a Tubular Receptacle Attached Crosswise from Which the Pen Is Filled in the Manner Shown.

Preferably the tubular receptacle is made of a length equal to the diameter of the bottle, so that the latter, when placed on its side, may preserve an equilibrium, the tube serving as a leg.

Instead of the cap, the bottle may have a rubber stopper with two holes, the tubular receptacle being attached in the same way.

England's Stern Crusade Against Girl-Flogging Scandals

"Send Mayfair's Bad Boys to Prison!"---and Already One Is There!

"Deserted on a lonely road, far from habitation, her form covered with shoe-blacking administered by her tipsy escort, she was forced to wander hysterically for hours in search of help."

LONDON.

THAT series of sizzling scandals which for the past three years has kept Mayfair whispering bids fair to end abruptly—that is, if British law and order have anything to say about it.

Since 1924, young bloods of this city have perpetrated indiscretions ranging from mild practical jokes to definite offenses which, while highly shocking to their elders, have been condoned and cried down on the score of juvenile high spirits and the culprits' exalted social position. But now——

With the sentencing to prison for six months of the very effervescent Sir Gerard Maxwell-Willshire for pinching and covering with shoe polish a young hairdresser's assistant, it begins to look as if the British lion of justice was about to open his jaws and gulp down various other offenders.

Sir Gerard's "prank"—it was really much graver than that—marked the climax of these gilded young London clubmen's skylarking and carousing. Persons who read of it recalled other naughtinesses of Mayfair's "bad boys"—Lord de Clifford's marriage to the daughter of a notorious night club proprietress; Lord Northesk's hansom cab race through Piccadilly at midnight, and the Earl of Kinnoull's divorce from the beautiful wife who had wearied of his eccentricities, fads and flirtations.

When pretty Jean Olds accepted Sir Gerard's flattering invitation to motor and dine with him out of town, she had no idea of the torment that awaited her. Deserted on a lonely road, far from habitation, her form covered with shoe blacking administered by her tipsy escort, she was forced to wander hysterically for hours in search of help.

The shocking events unfolded before the magistrates of the court revealed that the excursion, which opened with champagne and cocktails at West End hotels, ended with the girl being bound and gagged and terrified into divesting herself of her clothing. Whereupon, the coat of blacking was administered by her escort.

Callously abandoned by the baronet, the girl wandered through the woods until dawn, when she reached the shelter of a house. Overcome with shame at her condition, she hesitated to call upon the occupants for help. But the damp of the early morning and her exhaustion from hours of wandering through the woods finally endowed her with sufficient courage. Her astonishing tale was gaspingly recounted and she was provided with clothing and a welcome means to rid herself of the nauseous black covering.

At the trial, pleas for leniency by the defendant's attorneys were based upon the fact that Sir Gerard was the victim of an attack of trench fever which has resulted in a mental disturbance, the abnormalities of which are accentuated by liquor.

In summing up the case, the sentencing judge declared: "You have pleaded guilty to an indecent assault of an extraordinary nature, and in having pleaded guilty you have pursued a very wise course. I do not think it would have been possible for anybody to have believed that the young woman who is the prosecutrix in this case could have consented to the sort of acts that were done. It is not in human nature that such consent should be given.

"Therefore, I think you would have inevitably been convicted and the added publicity and humiliation for this young woman would have been great. By pleading guilty you have saved all that and you have done something by acknowledging your fault toward lessening the effect of your crime. Of course, it is a dreadful thing to find a man here of your position, and it is needless to say that it is a very much greater humiliation to you than it is to a member of the criminal classes.

"But this case as it presents itself really deals with a most terrible outrage. To cover a woman's naked body with blacking and abandon her in the middle of the night is an outrage about which it is difficult to speak temperately. I saw as soon as I read the depositions that it could not be an ordinary case. This is a shocking occurrence, and I can't understand why a man should have committed this deed unless under the influence of some abnormality.

"You have had trench fever which resulted in neurasthenia, I am told, but I am perfectly sure that it would never have caused you to do this, or anything like it, but for the drink. It simply comes to this—that an outrage is committed owing to drink, and that is a very common set of circumstances in these courts. May I say a word to you of another kind? You seem to have given way to, or fallen under, the influence of some curious tendencies when you have drink, and if you yield to it again you will handle some woman in some way that will land you in the charge of murder.

"I know how these things develop. There is only one thing to do now, and you must go to prison. If I could commit you to an inebriates' hospital, or something of that kind, I would do it, but prison will be an inebriates' home for you, and you will have adequate medical attention. Let me implore you when you come out to take the advice of your doctor and absolutely quit the drink, or I don't know what your future may be."

Prior to the trial, statements had been taken from a number of persons with a view to throwing some light upon the matter of Sir Gerard's mental normality. These had been obtained from three women and copies had been served upon Sir Gerard in the form of notice of additional evidence. The court had also been furnished with copies and, in the view of the prosecution, these statements indicated the probability "that the defendant is far from a normal person, that he does at times things which are the action of a person of abnormal mentality." However, these testimonies were considered to have no direct bearing upon the case, and it was decided to take up the proceedings from the time the police had been called in by the owner of the house to which Jean Olds had wandered in her terrible plight.

The gray of Sir Gerard's six-month prison sentence descends upon a colorful and varied career. Disinherited by his family because of other wild escapades, he supported himself by jobs in the choruses of West End musical productions. An engagement with a touring company took him to Australia, where he met and married Lilian Birtles, famous stage beauty, who at one time had the distinction of being known as the highest paid chorus girl in the world—something like $800 being paid her per week for her stage work. At the time of their marriage, Lilian was the leading lady in the company in which the present Sir Gerard was known as "Gentleman Gerry Willshire, Chorus Boy." At the time of their marriage "Gentleman Gerry" was three times removed from being Sir Gerard. Neither he nor his bride had even the faintest notion that within a month the deaths of three members of his family would confer upon him the title. But such was the case, and there were great celebrations upon receipt of this news in Melbourne, where the company was playing.

Lilian Birtles, in her published memoirs, affirms the fact that her husband was possessed of a fiery and unreasonable temper. Describing the first instance in which this was revealed to her, she writes: "It was at an Arabian Ball, given in Melbourne in honor of our producer and company. At midnight, Gerry came roaring across the floor like a mad bull to where I stood with a partner in the costume of Mephistopheles. 'Take your hands off my wife,' he yelled, seizing my arm and trying to drag me away. And then, when I resisted, he struck at me."

This unpleasantness was evidently forgotten, and the couple returned to London, where they had not remained long before stories of their quarrels leaked out and became generally known. The actuality of their rumored divorce was forestalled by the outbreak of the war. Gerry enlisted and Lilian remained in London, gaining daily in favor with the gallery gods and the more affluent occupants of the stalls.

Returning to London, Gerry became flamingly jealous of his wife's popularity and many admirers. One day, after a more than usually unpleasant row, he vanished from London. News of him drifted back to Lilian from Ceylon, where he was reported to be entertaining his friends with utter prodigality. That the group was pleasure-loving and heedless is also indicated in Miss Birtles's memoirs.

Writing of the reports of Gerry's life in Ceylon as they drifted back to her, she tells of a week-end party which took place at a little village miles from any port. The week-end was to take the form of a bang-up farewell party, as Gerry and some of his friends had booked passage to return to England. But the hilarity was so great that the steamer was forgotten until it was too late to catch the last connecting boat-train. But far from giving pause to Gerry and his gang—"they kidnaped a locomotive," writes Miss Birtles, "and drove it themselves, the men and women in dress clothes, some of them riding on the cowcatcher and waving champagne bottles. They caught the ship."

Upon Gerry's return to London, he made it clear to Lilian that he intended to divorce her. When proceedings were started, Lady Willshire filed no objections to the suit for reasons which she gives: "I had no money. Gerry had squandered most of my money along with his inheritance. And, secondly, I did not wish to answer his charges, for fear of winning my suit."

Having obtained his divorce, Sir Gerard came to America, where he proceeded to add a certain flavor to his name by becoming a bridle path escort to wealthy young ladies. He also took occasional fliers in the movies, working as an extra in several pictures, where he doubtless gave correct imitations of English gentlemen.

While in America, he married Miss Vera Gainford, an English girl who owned a little dress shop in New York. Miss Gainford had had considerable stage experience in London, and had played in the same company with Gerry in Australia. Although Gerry tea-danced at the Plaza as well as rode with the daughters of the "400," he preferred to marry this little modiste, who returned to London with him, where, to all appearance, they were living happily at the time he committed the atrocity for which he is now imprisoned.

The second Lady Willshire has stuck by Sir Gerard in true fashion. During all the publicity which resulted from his trial, she would say nothing in condemnation of her husband, and did everything in her power to ameliorate his punishment. "I have been married for four years," she said, "and it has been four years of continual happiness, without any blot upon it whatever."

Many cases similar to that of Sir Gerard have come before English courts in recent years. Bored young noblemen, satiated with ordinary pleasures of life, have tried to pitch their existence at a higher key by inventing new modes of entertainment. But not till the shoe polish episode was the lion of British justice aroused to a fighting mood.

On the day of Sir Gerard's trial, large crowds flocked to Maidstone, where the baronet appeared at the County Assizes before Mr. Justice Rowlatt. In spite of his lordship's warning, when charging the Grand Jury, that it was a case no refined person would care to hear, the under-sheriff was inundated with applications for privileged tickets.

Women formed the greater part of the audience. They were all well-dressed, and some had motored from their country houses in the neighborhood and parked their cars in the spacious courtyard.

Shortly before the time the judge should have taken his seat, the central figure in this cause celebre entered the court with his solicitor. He carried a stick, a soft gray hat, and yellow gloves and wore a suit of navy blue. His profusion of light hair had been brushed back with such meticulous precision that not a strand seemed out of place. His face is naturally full of color, and it was preceptibly flushed as he rose from his seat when the clerk of assize directed the officials to call upon Sir Gerard Maxwell-Willshire to surrender. Sir Gerard stood for a minute, opposite the clerk, only a couple of feet away.

"Who are you?"

There came the whispered reply, "Sir Gerard Maxwell-Willshire."

"Then go into the dock," remarked the clerk, and the scion of one of Britain's oldest families took his place on the stand of the criminal classes.

Glass House Woes of the Lady Sun-Worshiper

On Top of All the Gossip About Her Horse's Pants and Her Own Raw Food Diet Comes the Story of Her Solar Soaring in an Airplane Years Ago.

What the Well-Dressed Horse Is Wearing. Mrs. Word Leigh, Sun-Worshiper (at Left) Giving Luncheon to Lady, Attired in Nifty Denim Breeches. In Background: Mrs. Leigh's Glass House at Nyack, N. Y., in Its Present State, Under Construction.

Greenhouse Roof of Glass, Similar in Plan to Mrs Leigh's. "No one can get too much sun," She Declares.

TO the woes and worries of Mrs. Word Leigh, beautiful and serious-minded sun-worshiper, a fresh annoyance has just been added. On top of the whole shower of unwanted publicity which descended upon Mrs. Leigh's brunette head when she started to build a glass house for herself at Nyack, N. Y., comes the news, unearthed by snoopy "factitians," that Mrs. Leigh's interest in solar phenomena goes back several years and caused a mild hubbub at the time.

Hence, even more publicity for Mrs. Leigh—more chattering and gossiping in Nyack—more gabbling about the raw food which she lives on, and the trousers for her stately nag, Lady. Informal investigations, by townsfolks who thought that Mrs. Leigh's clothing of her horse in denim pants was "just too queer for anything," indicate that her past has been colorful.

Years ago, when the long slit skirt was in vogue and when she was Evelyn Provost, known in the musical comedy world as Adele Rey, this same young lady, a cousin of the second Mrs. John Jacob Astor, received much reportorial notice when she took part in the air flight of the Naval Day Meet at Garden City, L. I. Although, at that time, her sun-worshiping may have been no more than an embryonic theory, she was one of the first women venturesome enough to leave the earth for closer proximity to its rays.

The press, then, made considerable comment upon her theory, and the sun figured spectacularly in all of the written accounts of her flight. It appears that it was shining with particular brilliance on the day of her ascent, and the extreme champagne-colored dress which Miss Provost wore was of the sheerest. Bright day—sheer dress—resultant distasteful publicity for the beautiful sun-worshiper.

Miss Provost, now Mrs. Word Leigh, is occupying the old Sturdevant mansion at Nyack, until the glass house, whose construction she is supervising, is ready for occupancy. This house will be on a hill-side, overlooking the Hudson. The North side is to be of frame construction, but the other three sides and roof will be of glass, set in steel frame work, to admit the full beneficence of the sun's rays.

Secure in her self-assurance of her theories, Mrs. Leigh complains that she is not allowed to continue her worship in peace. Reticent, no seeker of publicity, she has been literally hounded by the gossip and smiles of neighbors and by large groups of reporters who have clamored at her door. But people who live in glass houses, it would seem, may not escape unremarked, and Mrs. Leigh has caused a veritable sensation in Nyack since her plans became known and she first appeared in the village, extraordinarily clad, driving in her basket phaeton behind her horse.

"Of course," she acknowledged, "I may be somewhat more advanced in my theories than a good portion of this village. True worship of the vital principle of the universe produces clear thought. I am familiar with the theories behind the worship of Ra, the Egyptian sun god, and the sun worship of the primitive Americans, the Hindus, the Babylonians and the Persians.

"I have passed much time in England, where this religion has attained more widespread recognition than in this country. Among us in England, an invitation to tea no longer means sitting primly about balancing a cup and a plate, but absolute relaxation in the life-giving rays of the sun. The plain truth is, I am a sun-worshiper, and I hope that Nyack will be a better place, mentally and morally, before I am called away to other fields."

Mrs. Leigh denies that the suit of brown duck, which she recently ordered for Lady, has anything to do with the practice of her creed. Until Lady takes up her quarters in the new stall being contructed for her next to the glass house, she is being left to pasture in the field in which the construction is going on. As a result, Lady was left a victim to the flies which swarm about her during the day.

"The neighbors gossiped so," said Mrs. Leigh, "that I finally decided to put trousers on Lady. I went to a local tailor and ordered two pairs of brown duck trousers. Now, when I turn Lady out to graze, I put the trousers on her, and there simply isn't anything left for the neighbors to gossip about."

Mrs. Leigh's story of her life and how she came to adopt her present creed is an interesting one. Her parents were only moderately wealthy, but Provost, Senior, insisted upon a cultural education for his daughter. Her teachers in piano, voice, dancing and French were of the best. She was still studying under these when she began posing for artists and from the model's stand it was only a short jump to the stage.

As Adele Rey, she applied her whole mind and energy to success in her new career. Everything else was subordinated. When she wasn't rehearsing, she was planning new dances and costumes. She ate improperly in hurried mouthfuls. She slept insufficiently; her life was a routine of nervous energy. It is not surprising that her health suffered.

One morning, she listened to the dictum of a kind old physician who had known her since babyhood. He thought that there was a chance—just a slight one—that she might regain her former splendid health, but to do so she would have to retire to some place far from the hectic round of city and professional life.

So Adele Rey dropped out of existence, and Evelyn Provost went off to South America to regain her lost health. She began to read books on diet, on physical culture and the curative effect of the sun's rays. As a result, she lived exclusively on raw foods—fruits, vegetables and nuts—and spent hours exposed to the sun's health-building glow.

She noticed an immediate improvement, evidenced, she states, by a higher mental power and resistence to fatigue. Speaking of this remarkable recovery, she said recently: "People are not made to live in crowds. If you are with people constantly, you become de-magnetized. Under right conditions, one could live forever; depressed, worn out by contact with thousands, you are lucky if you live out half your alloted span. To counteract huddling in the cities, one should adopt a regime calculated to re-polarize himself."

Today, Mrs. Leigh is, beyond a doubt, a living example of the efficacy of her novel treatment. Clothed in the light, loose garments which she has designed to admit the proper amount of light and air, her movements are characterized by the lightness and grace of perfect health and a supple, youthful physique. Her skin, of beautiful texture and coloring, is untouched by a sign of cosmetic. Her Titian hair, which crownless hats never hide from the sun, gleams in abundance over attractive features. Her bare legs, encased only in flat, soft sandles, or "sun stockings," have been burned a beautiful golden-brown.

Mrs. Leigh denies emphatically that she is a member of the colony of Omnipotent Oom, a group of mystics also located at Nyack, but she states that she is willing, once the house is built, to share the delights of the sun. "One cannot get too much sun," she declares "nor can one remain out of doors all day; wherefore, the glass house, which will admit the sun's rays."

Mrs. Leigh is not the first person to claim as her salvation sun treatment or a raw-food diet. In the case of the latter, Dr. St. Louis Estes, of Washington, D. C., says that, until he adopted a raw-food diet, he was a partial paralytic, totally bald, and unable to concentrate his attention for any length of time. Today, in middle age, a prominent physician practising in Washington and lecturing in many of the larger cities, he is in perfect health, with a crop of magnificent, wavy gray hair.

In the former case, records prove that the virtue of sunlight advocated by therapeutists today was known to the ancients. The Old Testament mentions a long line of sun-worshipers. The Babylonians and Greeks were in the habit of exposing themselves, unclad, on the roofs of their dwellings for sun-bathing, as a health measure. Hippocrates, the father of modern medicine, who lived about 400 B. C., has left records proving his adherence to the theory that light and air are the greatest sources of cure known to man.

Excavations in Greece have brought to light an ancient temple to Aesculapius, the god of sun, medicine and music, whose priests, we are told, were also physicians. These priests advocated the natural agencies of air, light and water in the curing of disease, and in the pursuit of physical and mental culture.

Hence, we have history supporting the theories of Mrs. Leigh (insofar as the curative properties of the sun are concerned) and those of many schools of modern medical thought. Many famous physicians are at present advocating rays of the sun in treatment for tuberculosis, cancer and skin diseases, and sanatoria for this treatment are to be found in the Adirondacks region, in Colorado, in Germany and Switzerland.

When the conservative medical school of Harvard University invited Dr. Edgar Mayer, a young physician striving to stamp out tuberculosis at Saranac Lake, N. Y., to lecture on the results of his sun and lamp treatment, the official stamp of modern approval was given to this ancient treatment. Harvard's recognition brought similar requests from other universities. Gray-bearded faculty members listened eagerly to the wonderful results of this earnest young man, who chose not to accept the munificent offers accruing from his sudden fame, but returned quietly to his mountain village to continue his epic work against the dreaded white plague.

Although to the uninitiated, Mrs. Leigh's sun-worshiping may smack too much of fanaticism, it cannot be denied that many of her theories, backed by history and medical opinion, have a sound basis. Humanity may not share alike its place in the sun, but undeniably, every individual owns an equal part of it. Its health-giving rays are no more beneficent for the rich than the poor, and when a civilization learns to employ to their full extent the curative powers of natural agencies, science believes that a great boon will have been visited upon humanity.

But meanwhile, civilization—or at least certain sections of it—has not progressed far enough to let people alone, particularly Mrs. Word Leigh. Peepers, snoopers and gadabouts still chatter about her "eccentricities."

"Oh, if they'd only mind their own business," sighs the harassed Mrs. Leigh. Lady in her duck pants keeps on calmly grazing.

MAGIC The Weekly Puzzle Page RIDDLES

Can You Guess the Answer to This Rebus?

THESE two figures of a man and a girl are a rebus, the solution to which is the name of a seaport city of the United States and a division of a great American metropolis.

Study the drawing carefully and see if you cannot guess the two names which are suggested by the picture.

Find the Three Hidden Birds

THIS hunter is having a lot of tough luck, for he has been tramping all day without bagging a single bird. But here are three right under his nose—almost.

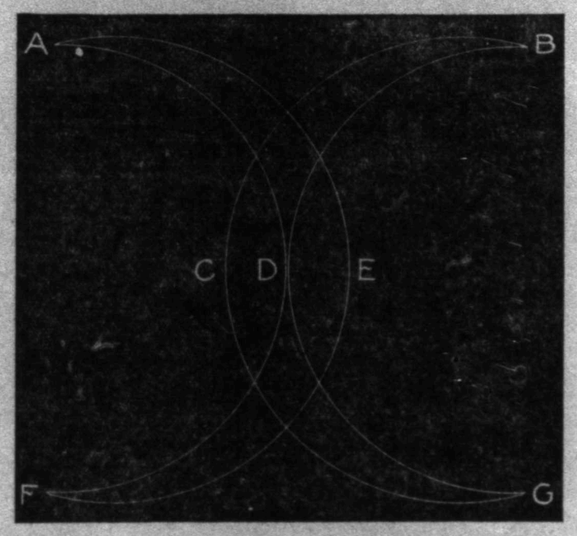

Perhaps you can help the hunter by finding the three hidden birds.

Kinds of Trees

CAN you name correctly the kind of tree suggested in each of the following questions?

1. What tree is always peaceful?
2. What tree do you expect to find at the seashore?
3. What tree wastes away from sorrow?
4. What tree never thinks of itself?
5. What tree is always liked by everybody?
6. What tree always dresses neatly?
7. What tree is never in a hurry?

Mohammed's Monogram

MOHAMMED, the founder of one of the great religions of the world, and whose followers today are numbered by the hundreds of millions, adopted the double crescent as his seal. Tradition says that he was accustomed to draw it in the sands of the desert with one stroke of his scimitar.

Study carefully the accompanying drawing of a double crescent and then with your pencil try to repeat the great leader's feat by completing the design in one continuous line and without going over any part of it more than once.

If you fail to do this, look for the solution next week. By memorizing the method of making Mohammed's monogram you will always have an interesting puzzle to test the skill of your friends.

More Geographical Fun with "Postmark Patches"

HOW quickly can you find the towns and cities in this postmark patch? Get out your scissors. Cut out each half of a postmark and then see if you can put them together and indicate the correct name of the post office at which the letter was mailed.

You will find a borough of one of the largest cities in the world, a "Bay State" city which is a manufacturing center of the boot and shoe industry, and a noted Atlantic coast Summer resort of fashion and wealth. There also is a place with a very odd name.

For all you know, the name of your own home town may be here, too.

Please write to the Puzzle Editor and tell him how much you like this game of geographical fun. Another postmark patch will be ready for you next week.

Here Is a Clever Trick of Reading Cards

THIS "mind reading" trick with cards will be sure to mystify your friends. It is as simple as it is clever.

The amateur magician picks up a deck of cards, from the table, and after shuffling them thoroughly, hands them to some one in his audience. He then requests some one to select two cards from the deck. For example, say the five of hearts and the ten of diamonds are chosen.

The conjurer now tells his assistant to hold the two cards behind his back, one in each hand. He then announces that he can tell in which hand each card is being held. To do this he proceeds as follows and says to the person holding the cards:

"Think of the number of spots on the card in your right hand and multiply it by any even number.

"Next multiply the number of spots on the card held in your left hand by any odd number.

"Now add these two products together, tell me whether the sum is even or odd and I will tell you which card you are holding in your left or right hand."

Suppose the assistant says that the sum is even.

"Then," replies the magician, "you are holding the ten of diamonds in your left hand and the five of hearts in your right."

Here is the secret: Since the assistant knows he is holding the five of hearts in his right hand in following the conjurer's instructions he multiplies five by an even number (8 in this case) which gives forty. Next he multiplies the number of spots on the ten of diamonds held in his left hand by an odd number (5 for example) which gives fifty. Adding these two products together, forty and fifty, gives ninety, an even number. Therefore, the magician knows that the even number indicates that the ten of diamonds is being held in the left hand. Had the result been an odd number the card would be in the right hand.

An Easy Problem in Pictorial Arithmetic

HERE is another one of those interesting problems in pictorial arithmetic, the figures of which are represented by a camera, pie, cape, canoe and the figure 1.

If you add and subtract correctly the letters that spell the name of each object the result will spell the name of one of the great nations of the world.

Krazy Kut for the Kiddies

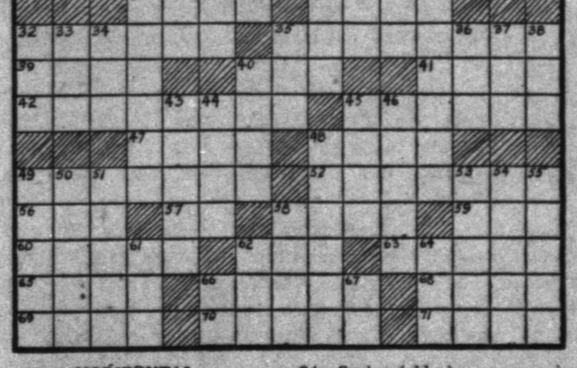

THESE fifteen odd-shaped pieces are to be cut out and rearranged in such a way that they will form the figure of a tropical creature that is a household pet. The figure is not composed of the black pieces themselves, but when they have been correctly assembled it will appear as a white silhouette.

A Word Square

SUPPLY the correct words of four letters each which are indicated by the asterisks and suggested by the following definitions:

1. * * * * A large body of men.
2. * * * * A Mohammedan calif who captured Jerusalem.
3. * * * * The name for a Scandinavian myth or heroic story.
4. * * * * A device for catching game and fur-bearing animals.

One more chance!

The cry of Claudette, the starveling. Starveling for youth, for prettiness, for color, finery and gew-gaws.

Claudette, who had always worn other people's cast-off clothes—violet-eyed, beautiful, spirited, Claudette.

DON ASPWITH married her out of his calculus and geometry class.

It was one of those affairs that occur frequently and yet seem perpetually to amaze. Aspwith was fifty-one, iron gray, slightly, somewhat interestingly stooped, a confirmed pedant if ever there was one, given to periodic nervous headaches and, somewhat incongruously, a great lover of music.

It was this last in him which must have explained his preference for anyone as lyrically gay as Claudette. She was eighteen, working her way through college as waitress in one of the dormitories, a pretty blonde soprano of the college Carol Club and about as joyous and twittering and irresponsible as a huming bird.

She shimmered through the drab geometry hour of Mathematics 4 and gave Professor Aspwith underneath his gray herring-bone sack coat the first heart palpitations that had ever taken place there for any reason whatsoever.

And with little enough cause Claudette could be gay. She had always been a deprived child. Orphaned at ten, shunted around from relative to pillar to post—always a poor relation of a little figure in dresses either too short or too long for her, in somebody's last year's hat, in somebody else's last year's coat—she was a proverbial little soldier of fortune, if ever there was one.

Her father's brother, also a university professor of English history, supporting nine children of his own on an unendowed college professor's salary, did as well by her as could be expected. Which was not well at all. Except that Claudette was rather irrepressible. She loved togs and color and finery, but somehow got along without.

She had played princess all her life. Sometimes the spangles fell away from her eyes and Claudette was let in for a blue day. But not often.

Usually one got by the tight places somehow. If you never had anything, at least you were never out anything. It was good just to be alive. That is, most of the time it was. Unless you got to thinking and the back of your neck began to ache and the making of two ends meet began to assume the impossible proportions of making one of Dr. Aspwith's mathematical problems come out right if you had squared your root wrong.

It was on one of the blue days that she first dawned poignantly upon the Professor's consciousness.

There were little violet caves under her eyes. Claudette had been waiting table on double shift and double duty at the same time, due to illness of the girl who shared her table. It was final examination week. Claudette had no dress for the senior prom to which she had been bidden. Her neck ached. There were eleven cents in her purse. She had not done her geometry. There was a run in her synthetic silk stocking and she knew it.

There were tears in Claudette's eyes most of that geometry hour.

The beginning of that curious courtship was a bit of a shock to her. After that, it was something to be taken for granted. Peacefully, gratefully, for granted. Dr. Aspwith cared. Somebody at last cared whether Claudette got her feet wet for lack of rubbers, or lost her appetite, what with serving a double shift of a table of twelve girls their dinners, or had an occasional holiday or not.

Somebody cared. Dr. Aspwith cared. He was a gentle, a kindly suitor. He lived in a story-and-a-half, red brick house in University Row. An old, four-room house of gothic-shaped windows, a prim little old-fashioned garden and a bird house in each of the four trees surrounding it.

That last filled Claudette's cup to the brim.

She became a faculty wife. She took on a new and sudden dignity that snatched her breath away. And with it, her hampered beauty which had been cruelly held back, began to bloom.

Two years after her marriage, Claudette was quite the belle of faculty wives. Of the entire campus, for that matter. She was the students' first choice for chaperone at every possible function. Even the Professor unbent slightly in the gale of his wife's popularity.

But only slightly. The Professor was wintry by nature. Evening after evening he spent in his study, glad to have Claudette occupied with the college social activities while he worked away at his book and examination papers.

In her way Claudette was happy. Happier than she had ever dreamed she would be. The Professor was kind. More than that, she loved him with a fine placid sense of respect and kept his home well and shielded him from a thousand cares he had known before their marriage.

And yet in a hundred ways Claudette was a starveling still. She had, for instance, never learned to ask the Professor for money. He paid the household bills as they came in to him, and, because all her life Claudette had known limited funds, they were modest bills. But in the entire two years of her married life, Claudette's little purse had remained flat. She bought her simple frocks at the local store and the bills came in to her husband without a question from him.

So Claudette was a starveling for the things her gay nature craved. The girls at the Proms in their gay fluttering frocks stabbed her to the heart. In all her life Claudette had never had one really special dress, made for her, designed to her own type of prettiness and coloring. She was a dowd as to clothes and knew it. The Professor thought her beautiful. It never dawned upon him that her violet-eyed kind of loveliness was all that saved her from the grotesque.

In fact, Claudette's two party dresses, a brown foulard shotted in yellow clovers, and a navy blue poplin with red bows, trousseau frocks turned over to her by the elder of her nine cousins out of their sparse enough wardrobes, had become college lore and joke. Kindly jokes, of course, but Claudette's heart burned.

How it all happened is one of those things that will never be explained. One day, when she had ventured down into the city to buy some flannels for the Professor, who was rheumatic, and which she knew the local campus store did not carry, Claudette, passing a counter of gay scarfs, took one! Crammed it into her reticule. Passed on.

It was all so quick, so sudden, so unpremeditated. It was an orchid colored scarf with a violet stencilled border. It was as if the lovely thing had reached out to snag Claudette's attention. That scarf, thrown across even the dowdy shoulders of the navy blue poplin, would glorify it. Why, that scarf would glorify Claudette.

Claudette's heart was hungry for that bit of loveliness.

A floor-walker saw her cram it into her bag and followed her to the sidewalk, where, with her heart already a lode stone of fear, Claudette was fairly running on her way.

The ugly thing kept happening then as through a glass darkly. There was a private room somewhere behind a store. Claudette swooning into the voices of a group of men in black broadcloth frock coats. Claudette awakening to those same voices.

Horrible. Horrible. Horrible.

No, they were not sending her to prison. Worse. Worse. Worse. They had sent for the Professor. They were kind to her, almost gentle, and a matron with eau de cologne on her handkerchief kept smoothing her forehead.

This was incredible. Something must be done to prevent its happening. The bit of scarf had wound itself around her. The bit of scarf must have been a serpent. They must please send her to prison. The Professor must not know. Anything but that. Anything would be easier—sooner one would wind oneself and choke oneself in the bit of scarf—if they told the Professor Claudette would kill herself.

She began to shriek. It was bargain day in the department store and frock-coated men exchanged anxious glances.

The Professor must not know. The Professor would cast her out. She had been in Paradise and had hurled herself out of it. She had been mad for the moment. And for what? A bauble that was not worth one second of his precious peace of mind. Claudette began to scream again and plunge in the wildest sort of hysteria. Prison if they would. Anything but the Professor, who respected her, knowing this horror that had befallen them both. Anything but that. No! No! No!

He came, but while she was mercifully in another of the swoons that flowed over her at close intervals when the hysteria exceeded endurance. He came and was bending over her when she awoke.

"Don't send me away," she screamed and began to beat at his chest with her frenzied fists. "You are my dear, good, dear and I will work my fingers to the bone to atone to you for this—terribleness. But don't send me away from you, dear good one. Only dear good one I have ever known."

The Professor's eyes were very wet. She daubed up at them with her handkerchief.

"Don't cry," she said. "Don't cry, dear good one. I can't bear it." And began to moan and wind her hands. "The scarf—it was the color—violet—like—spring. I hate it now. But you see—it was so gay. Give me one more chance, dear good one. Give me one more chance."

"My poor starveling," said the Professor. "I see now. I see everything that I should have seen before. I am the criminal. The selfish, self-centered, youthless criminal. Not you. Come home, Claudette, my sweet. It is you who must give me one more chance."
