

Funeral Rites Held for Mrs. F. O. Masten

Friends from many points in West Texas paid tribute to Mrs. F. O. Masten in services conducted at the Church of Christ at 3 p.m. Thursday, April 20. Minister Grandol Forehand of Dgthart, former minister of the church here, officiated.

Mrs. Masten died at her home at 1100 West Avenue Wednesday, April 19, after a long illness.

Pallbearers for the service were John Wilks Masten, W. C. Masten, Cecil Masten, Carl Griffith, Curtis Savage and C. T. Hubbard. Honorary pallbearers were Bill Tarter, Clarence Littleton, Paul Spillman, Paul Bell, Bill Adams, J. H. Vincent, John Coleman and Pat O'Hair.

Burial was in the North Wellington Cemetery under the direction of Kelso Funeral Home.

Mrs. Masten had lived in Collingsworth County since 1918.

She was a quiet woman, who shunned publicity and the public eye, yet she won recognition throughout the state in work seldom entered by women—agriculture.

In this she joined the efforts of her husband to make farming, and especially cotton growing, better in Collingsworth County.

In 1924 she entered the More Cotton on Fewer Acres contest held by the Dallas Morning News and Texas A&M College. She won first place in West Texas on five acres.

In 1925, she received the award for the most valuable 5 acres of cotton in Texas, judged after the crop was harvested and on the table of the cotton exchange in Dallas.

Three years later, in 1928, she and Mr. Masten fertilized 9 acres of the rich land on their farm east of Wellington and planted 9 acres of cotton.

That year, Mr. and Mrs. Masten were selected by Progressive Farmer Magazine as Master Farmers of Texas. The couple recalled in recent years that they worked all winter fertilizing this land—work that now can be done in one day.

The couple in 1941 invented a guide for a plow which will enable a tractor to travel on course all day in a field without a driver. Life Magazine gave this major coverage.

Another facet of Mrs. Masten's life was her generosity to many individuals, groups

Mystery-Comedy

Samnorwood Seniors Present Play Friday

Samnorwood seniors will present their class play, "Lights Out," Friday, April 28 in the school auditorium. Curtain time for this mystery-comedy is 8 p.m.

All of the elements that draw full response from a play of this type are present.

The story centers on Mrs. Agnes Harwood, a self-centered rather frivolous woman, who is trying to dispose of an estate left to her by her late uncle.

This role is taken by Suzy Bentley. Her counterpart is her daughter, Doris, much more sensible than she, and played by Judy Martindale.

The romantic interest enters with Neil Parker, a quiet young man who writes mystery stories, a part taken by Acie Boyd. These and a number of others are gathered at a house party, from which it is hoped a buyer will emerge.

Action picks up as lights in the house go out, there is a scream and a guest known as Vicky Wayne screams and disappears. A voice warns the estate is not to be sold. Then

Four Delegates

Wellington Jaycees Attend State Meet

Four members of the Wellington Jaycees attended the annual convention of Texas Jaycees which was in session in Fort Worth Wednesday through Sunday, April 19 to 23.

These included Glen Warrick, president; Donald Settle, interclub director; Ralph Owens and Duggie Jameson. Each was a voting delegate for the Wellington Club.

During the business session, Bill Burden of Shamrock was elected vice president representing Area I, which includes 64 clubs in the Panhandle and West Texas area. He succeeds Chancey Hommel of Clarendon.

Art Horea, a Fort Worth insurance man, is the new president of the Texas Jaycees. He succeeds Glen Reed of Austin.

City Council Votes to Pave Runway at Marian Airpark

The Wellington City Council, meeting in a called session on Monday night, April 24, voted to pave a landing strip 2400 feet long and 60 feet wide at Marian Airpark, Mayor John Coleman announced Tuesday morning.

The vote was unanimous. Mayor Coleman said the council believes it will be able to advertise for bids in about two weeks.

The council also has requested $20,000 from state funds to help finance the cost of the landing strip.

The city will not have to acquire additional land to pave this strip, Mr. Coleman said.

It will be built to Federal Aviation Agency specifications in every respect, he declared.

The City Council will continue work on the Airpark improvement at its regular meeting Monday night, May 1. Two contractors are due to meet with the members to discuss costs of a landing strip such as the city proposes to build.

"The quality of this landing strip will be equal to that of the long runway the city has been seeking," Mayor Coleman said.

"I do think it is very important that we have adequate air transportation, inasmuch as we do not have a railroad running east and west and this will help air traffic in this area as well as increase air traffic at Marian Airpark," said Mr. Coleman.

Many of Wellington's business and professional men believe airport improvement is Wellington No. 1 need, in view of limited bus transportation and complete lack of passenger rail transportation out of the city.

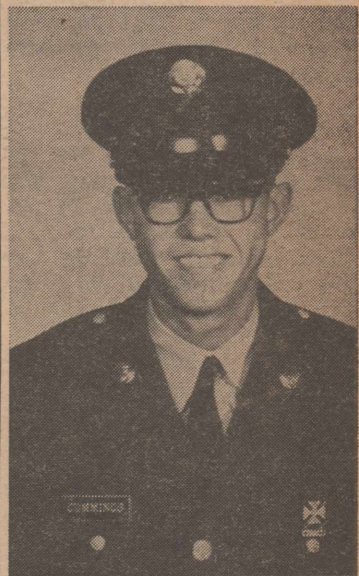

They point out that more local people use the planes for travel than is generally recognized by the public.

The City Council will continue to seek FAA funds totaling $32,683 for improvement of Marian Airpark which were approved Dec. 16.

Mayor Coleman pointed out, however, that these funds were contingent upon the city meeting certain specifications. Local money would match the FAA funds.

That improvement program called for extension of the runways, building an apron and connecting taxiway, and installing

VFW Asks City To Observe Loyalty Day

Records Save Tax Dollars

DALLAS.—Good record keeping throughout the year can save tax dollars at income tax filing time.

Taxpayers who keep good records are less likely to overlook deductions to which they are entitled, says Ellis Campbell, Jr., District Director of Internal Revenue in northern Texas.

Those who itemize their deductions on page 2, Form 1040, should keep cancelled checks, receipts, statements and other data to support them.

One way to keep records is to get a supply of large envelopes or folders, label them according to the types of income and deductions you have, and accumulate the information, Campbell said.

If you keep good records, preparing your 1967 tax return will be a much easier task, the Internal Revenue Service official said.

The film, "Texas—Land of Contrast," available with Spanish, German, French and English narrations, is the first of a series of travel films to be produced by the Department. This first film shows the variety of recreational facilities that can be found in Texas and seeks to erase the misconception that many out-of-staters have of Texas as one vast barren wasteland.

1954 Study Club Presents $100 Check to Library at Tea and Open House

National Library Week was observed at an all-day tea and open house at the county library Wednesday, April 19.

Members of the City Federated Clubs were the hostesses and assisted in receiving the guests and showing them through the library throughout the day.

A high point came with the presentation of a $100 gift certificate from the 1954 Study Club. The gift was turned over to Mrs. Rob Isbell, librarian, by Mrs. A. J. Fires, who is a member of the committee to choose the books to be purchased from this fund.

This committee includes Mrs. Eddie Slay, chairman, Mrs. Fires, Mrs. Virgil Patterson, and Mrs. Roy Jeffrey, all members of the 1954 Study Club.

Approximately 80 second grade students from Wellington, Dodson, Quail and Sam-norwood, and a fourth grade class from Wellington were brought by bus to the library to become acquainted with it, Mrs. Isbell said.

Other gifts of money have been received this year, Mrs. Isbell reminded.

The Good Neighbors Club donated $25 earlier in the year to buy books for children, $10 was spent then and $15 for books for Library Week.

The 1924 Study Club donated four books of "Winnie the Pooh." Several memorial books were presented. "These are lasting memorials to those we love," said Mrs. Isbell.

This is the Tenth Anniversary of National Library Week and also the tenth anniversary of the appointment of Mrs. Isbell as county librarian.

"I am enjoying the work very much, as I have an opportunity to meet and help so many people," Mrs. Isbell said.

Re-decorate Your Patio

Have you ever wished for a colorful and exciting floor covering for that stained or dismal concrete patio or porch? Your wish may be as far away as the local floor covering dealer.

Most dealers have colorful, weather-resistant outdoor carpeting or a new type of resilient tile flooring designed for concrete patios, porches, breezeways, and other locations subject to weather.

The new weather-resistant resilient flooring provides an attractive, durable walking surface that requires little upkeep. An occasional sweeping and rinsing with a garden hose provides a quick clean-up.

Installation is similar to that of ordinary indoor tile flooring, except that an extra priming step is involved. A new technique of cement application and tile spacing allows for expansion and contraction. Application of the resilient tile flooring requires no special skill or equipment and can be done by the do-it-yourself enthusiast.

Intensive tests indicate that the new resilient outdoor floor tile is unharmed by repeated freezing and thawing. Installations were subjected to temperatures as low as 40 degrees below zero and as high as 150 degrees above without damage to the tile or loosening of the adhesive. The material is also resistant to color fading under prolonged exposure to sunlight.

Low Calorie "Whipped Cream"

This method is tasty as well as inexpensive and nutritious. For 2½ c of delicious topping you will need to mix ½ c instant nonfat dry milk crystals with ½ c ice water in a cold bowl. Whip until soft peaks form, 3 to 4 minutes. Add 2 t. lemon juice and continue whipping until stiff peaks form, 3-4 minutes longer. Gradually all ¼ c sugar while beating. Serve at once or store in refrigerator.

Where Did Your Money Go?

One of our four American families now has an income of $10,000 or more per year. This means that affluent families now outnumber those considered by authorities to be poor. About one out of six families earns $3,000 or less.

Reviewing family economic progress over the past twelve months, there was a rise of $325 in median family income to an annual $7,225 and an over all increase of one million in the number of jobholders.

That means that more families are cutting larger wedges from a larger financial pie. Part of these broad gains were offset by rising prices, however.

Taking a typical $100 income—after taxes—here is how families spent their money last year:

Housing and home furnishing took $28, the largest share. But a surprisingly big bite of $22 went to food budget. Transportation, including car upkeep, insurance and repairs, cost $15 out of the typical $100. About $7 went into different types of savings.

Health care, including health insurance, accounted for $6. Personal care, tobacco, alcoholic beverages, education, and miscellaneous purchases accounted for the rest.

The food item in the budget represented the largest single percentage increase over the previous year—approximately 5 percent. This was greater than the overall percentage increase in consumer prices.

However, Americans had approximately $32 billion more in disposable income over the previous year, so they came out ahead of the price rises.

Home Economics Briefs

- To prevent important document from turning yellow with age, wrap them in cloth dyed with bluing. Then launder this cloth occasionally so dust won't sift through to soil those valuable papers.

- Cotton mercerized thread, the all-time favorite for home sewing, is extra strong. If the thread should break in the sewing machine, check to see if the machine is threaded correctly. Breaking also may be caused by a bent needle, or a needle that is the wrong size for the thread.

- Use cardboard from laundered shirts for fruit and vegetable cutting boards. They absorb juice well. They might also be used under plant cans to prevent drips on the floor.

Mrs. James Phillip Donnelly III

Celia Davidson, James Donnelly III Marry in Recent Church Rites

Miss Celia Ann Davidson and James Phillip Donnelly III were married Saturday, April 8, at the Ninth and Maddox Church of Christ in Dumas. David Caskey of Denton officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Davidson, 114 Oak, Dumas, and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Scott and the great granddaughter of Mrs. Hattie Scott of Wellington. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. James P. Donnelly, Jr. of Albany, N.Y.

Baskets of white gladioli and yellow spider mums and seven-branched candelabras with white tapers decorated the altar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length sheath gown of white slipper satin which she designed and made. The chapel length train was attached to the waistline at the back. Motifs of embroidered lace and seed pearls accented the gown at the neckline and skirt. Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a satin coif and she carried a bouquet of yellow roses on a white Bible.

Miss Ardene Davidson, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and Miss Carol Ann Milbern was the bridesmaid.

Candles were lighted by Miss Patricia Ann Mullins and Miss Carol Sue Mullins. Mrs. Roger Davidson of Dallas, sister-in-law of the bride, registered the guests at the wedding.

A reception followed the wedding in the fellowship hall of the church. The bride's table was covered with a white net cloth over yellow and the centerpiece was an arrangement of white gladioli in an antique crystal bowl, a family heirloom belonging to the bride's grandmother.

Massacre Site Holds Lure

GOLIAD --- Adults familiar with Texas history come with hat in hand to ponder at Goliad State Park to refresh their memories over patriots' gallant efforts more than a century ago.

And the youngsters come with stilled exuberance to bulwark their studies of Texas' mighty struggle for Independence.

They all now join in awesome reverence, seven days a week, in seeing the relics of the bloody pioneer days when uncertainties of complex military challenges jeopardized mere existence.

The combined attention is all mighty impressive for elderly Johnny Litton, who describes himself as "an East Texas transplant" now in charge of the historic setting just off Highway 183.

On a January weekend just a few persons short of 300 visited the museum where the courageous deeds of Colonel James Walker Fannin and his 342 Texas volunteers are preserved in documented parchment.

Fannin's 342 volunteers were massacred during Texas' fight for its independence, on the site of the present two-century old mission-museum complex.

The structures were partly restored during the early 1930's CCC improvement program for state parks. The ante-bellum environment prevails now as young and old silently view the treasured relics.

Litton said most of the school children come by bus loads from Corpus Christi, Rockport and other coastal areas. He added that many of the adult visitors are from the same general area since they are residents of other states now vacationing in balmy South Texas.

"They are a very correct crowd," said Litton. "All of the documents are under glass but I know this hallowed spot adequately mellows any ideas about souvenirs."

Mrs. Keith Cunningham and girls of Stamford visited over the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hunter.

Mrs. Hazel Brewer of Lubbock spent the week end with her mother, Mrs. L. A. Dickey.

Mrs. L. A. Dickey visited last week in Memphis with her daughter, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Combs.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Johnson of Quitaque visited over the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gabe Wright and his mother, Mrs. Robert Johnson.

"Many other people worked as individuals to make house to house canvasses, all working together for this cause to help our county as a whole to have blood available when needed by our hospital. To all these we owe our thanks and appreciation.

"There were 126 persons presented themselves for blood donations. 16 were unable to give blood. There were 110 pints of blood given. These people are all to be commended for their generosity.

"The unit manager from Wichita, Kan., E. H. Womer, ACN, remarked it was a nice visit, good facilities, a well organized first visit. Donald Nunneley and helpers did a great job," said Mrs. Isbell.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Lancaster, Gary, Terry and Bobby of Amarillo visited recently with Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Lancaster.

Interest Grows in Quest for Senior Citizen

Excellent response to the contest to select the Collingsworth County Senior Citizen of the Year was reported this week by Mrs. Cecil Masten, who reminded that the deadline for nominations is May 1.

Letters of nomination should be mailed or brought to the office of Miss Leta Kees, home demonstration agent, in the courthouse.

Selection of the Senior Citizen of the Year is sponsored by the County Home Demonstration Club Council. Mrs. Masten is the Texas Home Demonstration Association chairman for Collingsworth.

She reminded that any one, man or woman, over 65 years of age may be nominated. Their letter of nomination should contain a review of their public service to the county, to their community and to their church.

All those nominated must live in Collingsworth County, but a resident from outside the county may nominate a local resident.

Recognition on the state level will be given the Senior Citizen of Collingsworth County, for that person will be listed in the Governor's list of Outstanding Senior Citizens of 1967.

On the state level, this is not a contest.

All persons nominated will be honored at the Senior Citizens tea held by the Home Demonstration Clubs on Monday, May 8.

County Wide Storm Warning System Set

A storm watch has been organized by the Rolling Plains CB Radio Club and in a recent meeting watch assignments were made.

The control center will be in the Jack Kopp home, and anyone spotting a storm cloud or one that should be watched should report it to him by phone or CB radio. If law enforcement officers spot a cloud, Kopp will know this as his radio receives the law enforcement officers' frequency.

The community cloud watch is made up of these people:

Watching from the west part of the county are N. E. Childers of Marella, Palo Cummings and Elvis Pitts of Buck Creek.

South of Wellington: Bud Seale and John Brim.

East part of county: Truitt Holland and Dennis Holland.

North of Wellington: Shelton Nunneley, Horace Small and Ted Wheeler.

During the business session, officers for the coming year were named, with Carroll Nunneley, president; Shelton Nunneley, secretary; Johnny Barnett, reporter; Rev. Pitts, chaplain, and Vernon Rudy, breaker.

Members of the entertainment committee are Bud Seale, Rev. Pitts and Tean Martin; and the refreshment committee: Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Rudy.

Dee Coleman was named Civil Defense co-ordinator for the CB Club to succeed the late Joe Coleman.

Foreign Language Proposed for Junior High Students in Texas

There is before the legislature a bill which proposes that foreign languages be taught in Texas Schools in grades 5 through 8. This is in addition to foreign languages already taught in high school. The Texas Education Agency has given its approval.

This puts emphasis on the languages at the place where many educators believe it will do the most good. Learning a second language at this age is easier than for high school students, much easier than for those who wait until they enter college.

Wellington experimented with Spanish in the elementary grades a number of years ago and in the language of their contemporaries, the children had a ball.

It is to be expected this second language will be Spanish in most schools. Texas ties with Mexico are close. Think how many Collingsworth people have already visited in that nation!

As trade ties with the Americas to the South grow, more jobs will demand fluent use of both Spanish and English. These range from management level down to secretaries and stenographers.

The idea of bi-lingual children is not new to Collingsworth and much of Texas. Many have young friends who speak both languages. After all, it must be remembered that the native language of Texas was Spanish long before it was English.

Kiljoys Strike Again

Over in not-so-bonnie England is a dire situation. The National Health Service, in a retrenchment drive, has decreed that physicians can no longer prescribe vitamin tablets for persons who are healthy. Worse than that the service has forbidden physicians to prescribe tonic wines for the ill, near-ill or the plain healthy.

Naturally the uproar is great as there are thousands of persons who abhor vitamins but who firmly believe that a dram or two of wine early in the morning or late at night or several times during the day is conducive to good health. A little wine, they believe, tends to agitate the circulation, lift spirits and make life more tolerable.

But, as in many other cases, someone is always taking the joy out of life. Certainly, Parliament should give its attention to this step to deprive the British of one of the few remaining joys of austere existence in that island. —St. Joseph News-Press

Full of Prunes

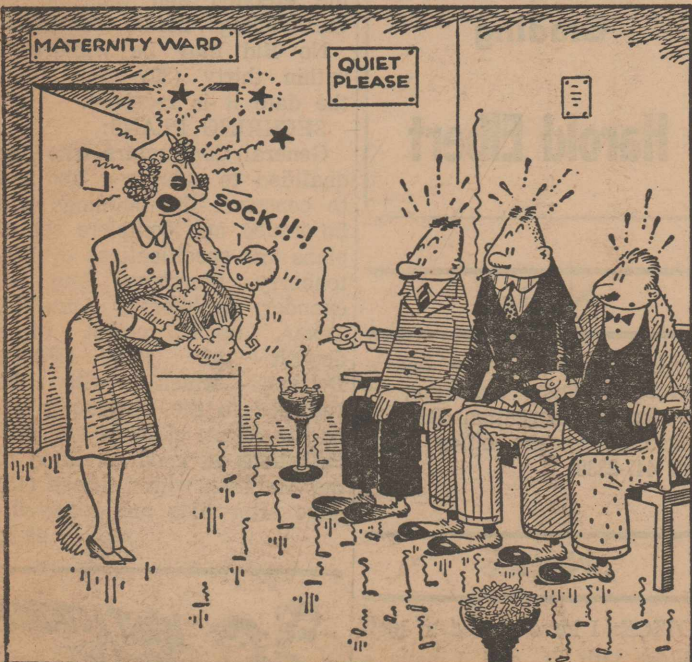

Statistics are statistics and we would be the last to dispute them. When somebody tells us that 200,000 tons of prunes are consumed every year, we have no evidence to the contrary and wouldn't know where to look for it if we wished to have it. And when we are told that means three pounds per capita a year consumed by the people of the United States, we know there's no evidence to the contrary. Two hundred thousand tons is four hundred million pounds. Divide that by 310,000 and what you have is, sure enough, about three pounds per capita.

And yet, and yet . . . Well, still wonder. Limited observation is a poor basis for generalization, but how many persons know how many families every member of which eats three pounds of prunes a year? Aren't there in fact, many who know many families which do not eat three pounds, adding up to consumption of father, mother, Junior, sister and the baby, much less 15 pounds?

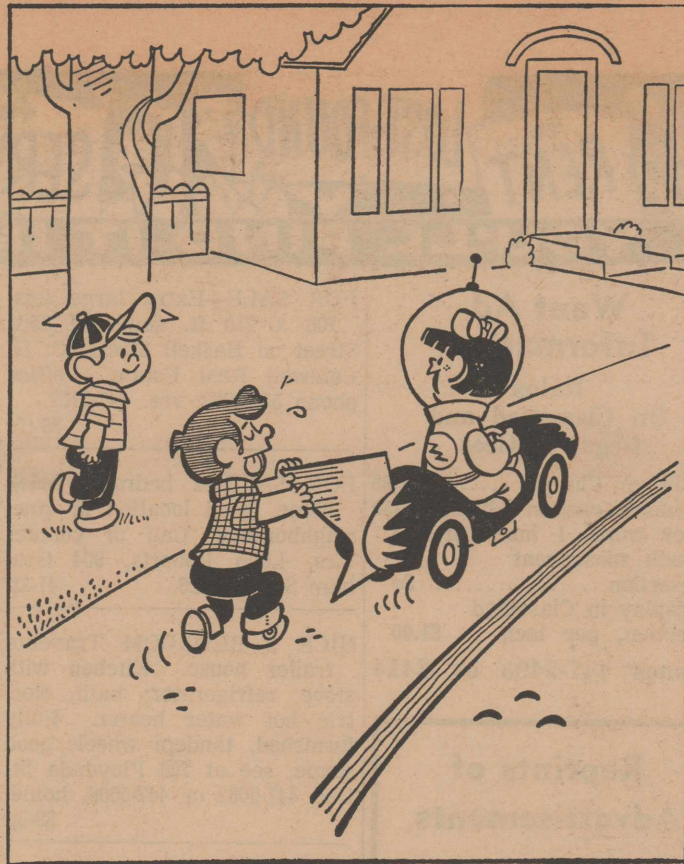

Still there are the statistics, and unless we use Great Society mathematics 130 million goes three times and a little over into four hundred million. Maybe it's just that we're all full of prunes.

State Capital
NEWS
By Vern Sanford

AUSTIN.—Legislature showed signs of quick response to the request by Gov. John Connally to postpone writing a tax bill until next year and to adopt a state government budget for only half the fiscal biennium.

Both House and Senate budget-writing committees will scrap their biennial appropriations measures and have one-year bills ready for action this week.

In an unusual night speech to a joint session of the House and Senate, Connally pledged to call a special session next year to pass a 1969 appropriation bill and consider necessary new taxes. Overall purpose was to break legislative logjams on major legislation.

State financial picture appears to be this: Under the one-year budget plan, about $137,000,000 in additional spending can be done in the year starting next Sept. 1 out of the general revenue fund. Because in past years the estimates of Comptroller Robert S. Calvert have been conservative, there generally is a surplus left at the end of each year. Connally thinks a surplus of $50-60,000,000 might be in sight a year from now. Thus the size of the tax bill to be passed could be that much less than it would have to be if it were passed now.

This $50,000,000 or so would not actually be "saving", since Connally expects the Legislature to spend the same amount on two one-year budgets as on one two-year budget. However, the Governor figures that if business growth continues to gain, revenues from present taxes will bring in more than had been expected and thus make it possible to get by with a smaller tax increase.

Lt. Gov. Preston Smith, after initial doubts on wisdom of the procedure, urged the Senate Finance Committee to go along. Smith cautioned the legislators not to take the new financial procedure as an invitation to spend more freely and to clear up any legal questions at an early date.

Lieutenant governor, who contends that no new taxes are necessary, viewed Connally's proposal as "at least partial recognition that our financial salvation does not necessarily and exclusively lie in passing a big tax bill at this time."

COMMUNITY CENTERS

Bill by Rep. Billy H. Williamson of Tyler to make more cities in Texas eligible for grants-in-aid for community mental health centers has passed both House and Senate.

State now may make such grants-in-aid to cities of 100,000 or more population. This bill would lower that minimum to 75,000.

It also would allow grants-in-aid to a center serving less than 75,000 population, if the state commissioner of mental health and mental retardation declares it eligible.

EDUCATION MEASURES

House of Representatives passed two measures of the education package sponsored by Rep. Alonzo Jamison of Denton.

One would allow some college educated persons who did not take all the required education courses in college to qualify as teachers.

The other would allow persons already knowledgeable in American and Texas history and government to take advance-standing exams, and if they make an A or B, receive that grade without having to take the course.

It also would exempt some out-of-state graduate students from having to go back and take undergraduate history and government courses.

RAILROAD CROSSINGS

A measure acceptable to both the Texas Motor Transportation Association and the Texas Joint Railway Labor Board now is awaiting action before the House.

Bill provides that trucks carrying explosives or inflammables stop when crossing railroad tracks within city limits but only slow down to 20 miles per hour or less when crossing tracks outside of cities.

SAFETY BILL

An occupational safety bill, subject of bitter controversy and deadlocks in past legislative sessions, was passed by the House 143-0. A compromise version was hammered out after usual friction over terms developed. Senate passage is likely.

Bill calls for Division of Occupational Safety in State Department of Health, with three-member board to formulate standards. A safety engineer would inventory all industrial accidents and advise the board on needed rules.

CRIMINAL CODE

Major revisions in code of criminal procedure to meet the criticism of law enforcement officers is being speeded to the House floor by Criminal Jurisprudence Committee.

Major changes deal with warnings of rights of accused by judges; arrests of suspicious persons, without warrants; notice of pre-trial hearings; sentencing procedures; and requirement that witnesses to a crime identify themselves at request of a police officer. The Committee voted down effort to allow greater freedom in use of oral confessions in trials.

AG OPINIONS

Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin held he could not approve bonds supported by Trinity River Authority tax of 15 cents on $100 valuation as proposed in Senate bill amendment because notice of intent to introduce the measure was not published locally as required by constitution.

In other recent opinions, Martin concluded that:

—A sheriff is authorized to release a prisoner "laying out" his fine in jail after he satisfies sentence and court costs at the rate of $5 a day.

—State Building Commission can enter a contract prior to Sept. 1 for a liquor tax collection station at Cordova Crossing, El Paso, although construction will begin before the transfer of the site to the U.S. under the Chamizal agreement.

Washington Report

From Congressman
BOB PRICE 18TH DISTRICT, TEXAS

1223 LONGWORTH OFFICE BUILDING, WASHINGTON, D.C. • 225-3706

One of the big problems Congress faces, especially the House Agriculture Committee, on which I serve, is the worsening farm situation. I have had many letters recently from both farmers and businessmen in smaller Panhandle communities about the continuing decline in farm income and the resultant depressing effect on businesses in the smaller towns.

Actually, business in Amarillo, Borger, Pampa, Hereford and other communities with industrial payrolls is adversely affected by the comparatively low level of farm and ranch net income. Farm prices dropped in February to only 74% of parity and remained at 74% during March.

In only one other month since 1934 have the prices farmers received for what they produce been so low in relation to the prices of the things they must buy to produce their crops and livestock and to live on the farm.

Consumers of this nation should understand that we might be short of food in this country today if our farmers depended solely on prices received in the market place and if these prices had been as low in all the years since 1940 as they are today. There probably would not be enough resources now left in the agricultural economy to provide abundance for our own people and certainly no possibility of sharing food with the hungry millions of other nations.

Addressing a farm credit group in Houston recently, Rep. W. R. (Bob) Poage, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, said he was deeply concerned by the hue and cry last year from housewives and boycotts across the country when the prices farmers received for some of the goods they produce advanced moderately and prices at the grocery stores advanced more.

And all this happened, Mr. Poage pointed out, in a year when prices farmers got for what they produced were substantially — actually 5% — below what they were 20 years before and they are substantially lower than that today. Food prices for the same period are up 35%. Today, the farmer receives only 5.5% of the U.S. consumer's total after-tax income for his products—one-half the share he received in 1947. But during that past 20 years hourly earnings of industrial workers have advanced 123% and corporate dividends are up 232%.

This story could go on and on—the inflated prices a farmer must pay for everything—machinery, building materials, labor, medical and hospital care. In the nation as a whole and particularly in the Panhandle, agriculture is our biggest industry. It is also our most vital industry but the least rewarded.

The competition of higher paying jobs and public assistance payments in cities keeps a steady stream of farmers and farm workers moving off the land. Our farm population today is down to 12 million, less than half what it was 18 years ago. And not many people are going into agriculture. More than half of our farmers are over 50 years of age and 18% above 65. So it is obvious that we are headed for trouble unless we put incentives back in agriculture and this means that the cities must be willing to return to the farmers in the price of food and fiber a profit on a parity with people in other undertakings that contribute to our well-being.

The Wellington (Texas) Leader
Thursday, April 27, 1967

Because of his fewer numbers, the political force of the farmer has diminished to the extent that he must now depend upon members of Congress and administrators representing urban constituents and populations for approval of policies which are fair and equitable to agriculture. And I believe it is urgent that the great metropolitan areas understand what is involved before it is too late.

This is, therefore, one of the most vital issues facing Congress. We must forestall any probability of a food shortage in the United States and, hopefully, be able to help feed the hungry people in the Free World nations. A fair farm income and small industries in our smaller communities will hold people in rural areas and stop the flow into the slum-ridden cities.

Rolling Plains Stockholders Will Hold Meeting in Stamford April 29

Plans are complete for the 33rd Annual Stockholders meeting of the Rolling Plains Production Credit Association, according to J. L. Hill, Jr., general manager. The meeting will begin with registration at the high school auditorium in Stamford at 11 a.m., with lunch being served from 11:30 to 12:45. Business session starts at 1 p.m. at which time reports from the board of directors and the management will be heard. The term of one director, Lasater Hensley of Guthrie, expires with this meeting. Mr. Hensley was re-nominated, along with Stuart Dixon of Matador, to stand for election to this vacancy on the board.

Chas. W. Stenholm, executive

Wilcoxson Is Representative of Air Academy

High school juniors who are interested in entering the United States Air Force Academy upon graduation are reminded to apply for nomination this spring, said Lt. Col. M. K. Wilcoxson, the Academy liaison officer in the Wellington area.

Members of Congress will soon begin to consider candidates to the class entering the Academy in June 1968. Since nominating quotas are limited for each Member of Congress, the student should not delay making his application.

Senators and Representatives are interested in nominating successful high school students to be considered for Academy appointments from their states and congressional districts. A good scholarship standing, participation in extracurricular activities, and physical fitness are the most important factors considered by Congressmen in choosing their nominees.

Col. Wilcoxson is a member of the Air Force Reserve, not on active duty, who represents the Academy in high schools in the Panhandle area. He urges students who are interested in the Academy to get in touch with him for information concerning the application procedures and entrance examinations.

Col. Wilcoxson may be contacted by writing him at Box 111, Childress, Texas 79201, or by calling WE 7-3776, Childress.

director of the Rolling Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., will address the assembly as will Jack H. Barton, vice president of the Intermediate Credit Bank of Houston. At the close of the session some stockholder, or the wife of a stockholder, will be awarded a Zenith color TV set as an attendance prize.

The Rolling Plains PCA is the result of merging the Memphis Association into the Stamford Association as of March 1, 1965. The new organization makes production loans to farmers and ranchers in 17 counties in the Rolling Plains area of Texas and maintains offices in Stamford, Haskell, Spur, Munday, Anson, Memphis, Matador, Paducah and Wellington. In 1966 a total of nearly 20 million dollars was loaned in this area by the association and it now looks like that 1967 will exceed this by a good deal. The present loan volume of the association is more than 3 million dollars ahead of what it was two years ago, just following the merger.

C. G. Burson, Sr., of Haskell is president of the board of directors and the other directors are Lasater Hensley of Guthrie, Mack T. Claburn of Anson; John E. Glover of Childress, and L. M. Bartlett of Wellington. J. L. Hill, Jr., is general manager and J. R. Gleaton and R. C. Cobb serve as assistant managers.

Wood Attends Land Bank Meet

Woodrow Wood will represent the Federal Land Bank Association of Shamrock at the Annual Stockholders' Meeting of the Federal Land Bank of Houston. The meeting will be held in Houston on Friday and Saturday, April 28-29. Jack Corn, manager of the Federal Land Bank Association of Shamrock will also attend the meeting.

Representatives from 73 Texas Federal Land Bank Associations will attend the meeting which will be held at the Shamrock Hilton Hotel. This year's meeting is of particular interest as it marks the 50th Anniversary of Land Bank service to agriculture. The Land Bank system is dedicating its Golden Anniversary to American Farmers: "Providers of Plenty."

Hal Weatherford, president of the Houston Bank, will report on the year's business activity.

Douglas Cunningham

Quanah Man Named Area SCS Official

PAMPA.— Douglas Cunningham, Work Unit Conservationist at Quanah since 1964, will become Area Conservationist for the eleven counties in the Pampa area on April 23.

Doug, 34, has been with the Soil Conservation Service since 1960 and has worked in Dalhart, Pampa, Post, and Quanah. He has been very active in all phases of agricultural activities most of his life.

Doug is a graduate of Sul Ross State College at Alpine, with a B.S. degree in Range Management. He is a native of Glascock County.

The Cunningham family consists of his wife Peggy, son Randy Scott, age 7 and daughter Robby Dawn, age 5. They will be joining Doug shortly after school is out in May.

The Cunninghams are members of the First Baptist Church and have been very active in community affairs.

TRAVEL PARTY

An average automobile travel party visiting Texas in 1966 was composed of 2.9 persons. However, the time of year had considerable effect on party size. During the months of June, July and August, the months of the traditional family vacation, travel parties include more children and were larger than during other seasons.

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

It is frequently argued that people should be let to start voting at age 18, on the grounds that if a youth is old enough to be drafted and to look at adult movies, he is old enough to help pick out our overseers.

Others claim that having aged enough for adult fighting and adult him-and-her games is no sign that a person can cast an intelligent vote.

And my voting expert neighbor says it has also been abundantly proved that the ability to vote intelligently does not suddenly pounce on an individual the day he celebrates 21 years of breathing.

It has been said by a famous psycholunatic that democracy goes against the grain of the ordinary human being.

And my people expert neighbor agrees. Says there never was a baby, for example, who was reconciled to letting other people vote on whether or not he gets what he wants.

He says democracy has to be installed in people after birth, and developed by rigorous discipline, self- or otherwise, and perfected by practice, just like neighbor-loving, good-losing, and other forms of acting.

It has been brought out that Washington nabobs spend almost $500,000,000 of us taxpayers' sweat drippings per year on news management, to help embellish their public images.

My cogitative neighbor says he would sure hate to be so fouled-up that it took a big herd of $20,000-a-year imageers to hide his shortcomings.

Says just performing so as to keep their images presentable would seem to be easier than having to keep a stable of cover-up artists. Like taking regular baths is less trouble than all the time having to deodorize.

Washington seems somewhat jittered here lately because many commoners have quit buying so much on credit, and some are even saving money or unpatriotically paying down their debts.

In a new and improved society like ours, of course, the only true way to Prosperity is for everybody to spend more than he takes in.

And it may take a real stiff law to make people quit sabotaging The Great Society by hoarding money, or by using some of their tax-left income to get shallower in debt.

MILLION HIGHWAY MAPS

The Texas Highway Department distributed nearly a million copies of the Official State Highway Map in 1966. The map received worldwide distribution and invited both Texans and out-of-state persons to "Discover Texas, America's Fun-ter."

Motels were the favorite for overnight accommodations by the highway traveler. However, the commercial traveler and convention group favored the centrally-located downtown hotels.

The City of Wellington plans to start paving the runway at Marian Airpark in the near future. It is a move that is of much more importance to our welfare than many of us may realize at this time. With passenger car service a fond memory of the past and with freight and bus services facing increased difficulties and possible curtailment, the maintenance of a modern efficient airport is essential to the prosperity and progress of any county seat town.

Certain improvements in both the city and school are overdue in Wellington and it is encouraging to see the officials of both governing bodies moving ahead with dispatch and resolution. Improvement in the facilities and services of these two important units of public service will encourage increased effort on the part of individuals and other organizations in behalf of the advancement and betterment of the community. Enthusiasm is contagious and so is progressive spirit.

People will adjust to the hour earlier time rather quickly. The simple way is to set your watch up an hour earlier and you will discover the opening and closing hours of the various business houses by their advertisements and the signs on their doors. For instance the dry goods and clothing firms have an ad in this paper saving that they will open at 8:30 in the morning by daylight saving time.

The Future Farmers grossed over $1,400 on their recent rodeo and netted $985. Perfect weather and splendid support from the entire community made it the most successful rodeo financially they have held since they started putting on the entertainment each spring. They intend to put the money into a fund to buy a small tract of land where the ag boys can work on their projects each year. In other years there have been boys living in town who wanted to take agriculture; but who had no plot of ground on which to conduct their work.

Some scientists predict that some day enough food will be farmed and brought from the sea to feed three times the present population of the world. That may be true; but until that day arrives the agriculturist must provide food for an ever burgeoning population from a constantly diminishing supply of tillable land as more and more fertile acres are swallowed by cities, highways, lakes and erosion from wind and water. To accomplish such a herculean task will require more knowledge of the ways and means of producing food than mankind has ever used before.

Soil Stewardship Week Set April 30 to May 7

The annual observance of Soil Stewardship week will open with Soil Stewardship Sunday, April 30, Otis Emmert, chairman of the Salt Fork Soil Conservation District board of supervisors, has announced.

Many churches in the county will use this as the theme for sermons, and all clergymen have been provided with material on soil stewardship, said Billy Moseley, clerk of the board.

"Soil Stewardship has but one purpose: to make all of us conscious of the possibilities we have from the soil if it is used right," said Moseley.

"Every day we have a greater demand for food and fiber over the world, and the only way we are capable of producing more comes from our soil and water resources."

A highlight of Soil Stewardship Week will come Friday, May 5, at the awards banquet in Fort Worth honoring the winners of the Save the Soil and Save Texas contests.

Among these will be the two ed him to go to a nearby shopping center for her; but he delayed the trip on account of the threatening clouds. If he had gone at that time he would have been in the worst part of the disaster. It was sixteen hours before he could get a call through to notify his parents that his family was safe. All he lost in the storm was two trash cans.

The Wellington Lumber Company is remodeling and in the course of the excavation, Toots Breedlove came across a buried soda pop bottle which bore this inscription: "Crown Bottling Company, Wellington, Texas." Toots says he can remember as far back as 1910; but that he can't remember any Crown Bottling Company. Wellington did have a bottling firm long before Bill Burden secured the Coca Cola franchise; but I have no idea of who operated the firm.

Add the name of Junior Orr to the list of strong-willed men who were once heavy smokers and are now abstainers. It has been eight months since he quit the weed that fouls the breath, frays the nerves, hardens the arteries, and does human health no good in general. Junior has it made if he will remember that only one cigarette may cause him to have it all to do over again.

Nothing is more boring to a smoker than to have to listen to a reformed smoker talking about how long it has been since he quit.

sons of the late Polly O'Neil, Austin O'Neil, Jr., of Cotton Center and Ted O'Neil of Whitney, winners of the state award for an outstanding wildlife conservation program.

Later in the month, May 19, the awards banquet in Pampa will honor regional winners. Among these is Henry Wells, a winner in the essay contest for high school students.

Working with the Salt Fork SCD is the Soil Conservation Service, headed by Gary Reed, work unit conservationist. Other staff members are Lynn Courtney, Jon LaBaum, and Stephen Qualls.

Besides Emmert, members of the SCD board of supervisors are Pat Bradley, secretary, Ted Wheeler, John Robert Hendard and W. O. Vaughan.

The Rev. Jack Tutor of Childress has accepted the pastorate of Faith Baptist Church, which has been without a minister for several weeks.

Rev. Tutor comes to Wellington from the Chalk Baptist Church near Paducah, where he was pastor for two years and three months. Prior to his pastorates in Texas, he was a minister in California 10 years. Eighteen years ago, he served the Brice Church.

He attended Wayland College at Plainview.

During the time the family was in California, Mrs. Tutor was active as leader of the Young Women's Association and Girls Auxiliary in the church.

The family will continue to make their home in Childress, commuting to Wellington for the services. Rev. and Mrs. Tutor operate El Taco Cafe in that town.

In its Monday meeting, the council then turned its attention to another major need of the city, control of the odor from the sewage disposal system southwest of town.

Again voting unanimously, the council went on record as approving a request to the Water Pollution Control Agency of the Texas State Department of Health for a grant under public law 660 that would help provide for building oxidation ponds. That agency can allow up to 30 percent of the cost of the ponds, Mr. Coleman said.

In a telephone conversation with R. D. Riddle of the Water Pollution Control Agency Tuesday morning, Mayor Coleman was told that May is the deadline for making application for these funds.

Mr. Riddle told the Wellington Mayor he would mail the application that day — Tuesday — for the city officials to fill out.

Mr. Riddle also said that there are no funds available at present but he anticipates there will be money available shortly after the beginning of the new fiscal year, July 1.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Winton spent several days at Freeport with Mr. Winton's mother, Mrs. J. H. Kiehlbauch, and his brothers, Mr. and Mrs. J. Porter Winton and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Winton and Jimmy at Sheridan, and his sister, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Johnson at Hal-

In observance of the occasion, free coffee will be served throughout the day. The Thorps, who are experienced restaurant people, bought the restaurant a year ago and have enjoyed a highly successful business since they took charge of the management.

The restaurant is closed on Mondays of each week; but is open all other days of the week.

and institutions. Few were aware of her gifts, for she preferred it this way.

Mrs. Masten was one of the major donors to the building of the new Church of Christ and the preachers home in Wellington, to Abilene Christian College, the Herald of Truth television program which is seen throughout the world, and to Westview Boys Home and Tip-ton Orphans' Home.

Mrs. Masten was the former Lily B. McCorkle, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William McCorkle, and was born at Breckenridge Aug. 10, 1898.

Her parents settled a claim in Oklahoma near Hollis and she spent part of her girlhood there.

As a young woman she worked in the telephone office at Quanah for $15 a month. There she met Mr. Masten, who had come from Montague County to work for $20 a month. They were married at Quanah Aug. 25, 1913.

A number of years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Masten established a home in Wellington. Much of her time since then had been devoted to the Church of Christ, of which she had been a member for many years, and to her friends.

These were years of rich fruition as she worked with her husband to expand their land holdings on the South Plains and west of Amarillo to become among the great farmers and ranchers of Texas.

Mrs. Masten is survived by her husband and three sisters, Mrs. Jess O'Hair of Elk City, Mrs. E. L. Lewis of Quanah, and Mrs. Molly Garretson of Wellington. There are a number of nieces and nephews.

It took Leonardo da Vinci almost two years to paint "The Last Supper."
