Police unsure how man died

By JANE DEES
Staff Writer

A body of a man found in a northeast Midland pasture may have been the result of a murder, Midland police said Friday.

Shortly after finding the body, Midland police said they discovered a stab wound on the body and indicated there may have been a struggle.

But Midland Police Lt. Hank Norton later said police were unsure whether the death was the result of a homicide.

"We are just speculating at this point, and we will not know anything until the autopsy is performed," said Norton, who handles public information for the Midland Police Department.

Det. Captain Billy Ray said, "There's every indication of foul play, but until I know the cause of death, I'm not going to say what it is. I'm not considering it a murder until I know why the person died.

"At the present time, we have not found the cause of death," Ray said Friday evening.

The nude body was found about 10 a.m. Friday by two girls riding horseback. They reported the discovery to police.

Police detectives arrived at the scene and spent most of the day investigating the death.

The autopsy was scheduled Friday afternoon.

Police had not identified the victim at presstime.

Shortly after the discovery of the body, Midland Police Lt. Jerry Compton said it appeared the body had been there for 48 hours.

The body was decomposed, causing problems with identification, police said.

According to police reports the body is that of a white man in his 20s to 30s with reddish brown hair and a mustache.

Compton said it appeared the man had a stab wound in the groin area, but he said the decayed condition of the body prevented them from making anymore conclusions.

He said the body was found next to a transmission line tower in the pasture.

Banks cut prime rates to 8 percent

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's big banks cut their prime rates by a half-point to 8 percent Friday following the Federal Reserve Board's reduction in the discount rate, but economists were divided over whether the cuts can spark the nation's lackluster economy.

The prime-rate cuts put the benchmark lending rate at its lowest level since May 1978. They marked the third time this year that the banks and the Fed have reduced their key interest charges by one-half percentage point.

Although some economists and politicians had clamored for the rate cuts as a means of stimulating the economy, others maintained that the factors slowing the economy — slumping foreign trade and the depressed farm and manufacturing sectors — won't be greatly affected by another cut in interest rates.

"If we look at economic weaknesses, they are coming primarily from the trade deficit and capital spending," said Sung Won Sohn, chief economist for Norwest Corp., a Minneapolis-based financial services company. "I don't think the cut in the discount rate and the subsequent cuts in the prime rate will have much of an impact on the two key weaknesses."

Others said the areas already helped by the decline in interest rates over the past year — especially the booming housing industry — will benefit further from the sustained drop in rates.

"It won't be dramatic, but it will be just one more bit of stimulus to get the economy going," said Kathleen Cooper, chief economist for Security Pacific Corp., a Los Angeles-based bank holding company.

The Fed on Thursday announced it was lowering the discount rate — the interest it charges on loans to commercial banks — to 6 percent from 6.5 percent.

New York-based Chemical Bank, the sixth-largest U.S. bank, was the first to cut its prime rate following the Fed's action.

Major banks across the nation followed Chemical in cutting their prime to 8 percent, including: New York's Citibank, the nation's largest bank; No. 2 Bank of America, of San Francisco; No. 3 Chase Manhattan; No. 4 Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co.; No. 5 Morgan Guaranty Trust Co.; No. 8 Bankers Trust, and No. 9 First National Bank of Chicago.

Robert Sinche, a managing director of Simms Capital Management in New York, said the rate cuts earlier this year helped nurture the growing boom in the housing industry and other interest-rate sensitive areas of the economy.

Panel told to propose budget cuts

By STEVE LEVINE
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — House Speaker Gib Lewis Friday gave the House Appropriations Committee no-holds-barred authority for proposing budget cuts that will solve the state's $2.3 billion deficit.

Meanwhile, Comptroller Bob Bullock announced he is drafting a plan that will allow the Legislature to make up some or all of the deficit by broadening the state's sales tax base and reducing the 4.125-percent sales tax rate. The comptroller's plan of taxing all goods and services is similar to that used in New Mexico, where Bullock and 13 staff members visited Thursday.

Bullock said he will issue a new official revenue estimate — which most likely will increase the deficit — in about 10 days.

"Develop a list of priorities for cutting," Lewis told the 29-member Appropriations Committee, meeting in preparation for an expected special legislative session next month. "Let no agency or program escape scrutiny. Do not be deterred from looking at statutorily or constitutionally dedicated funds."

The speaker, facing a Republican opponent at the polls for the first time in eight years, once again spelled out clearly his opposition to a tax increase. "Our government should be run like a business, when income is reduced, their overhead must be reduced," the Fort Worth businessman said.

"Our constituents will not tolerate increased taxes from a government that has made no significant effort to get its own fiscal affairs in order."

Appropriations Committee Chairman Jim Rudd, D-Brownfield, told committee members to cancel their vacation plans and prepare for four to five days of intense budget cutting beginning July 20. Rudd joins Lewis in opposing tax increases to balance the budget, although some committee members disagree.

"We're not going to make any friends as a result of this," Rudd said, predicting some stiff debates. "None of us like this task, but we must address it."

While Lewis told the panel to "develop a series of options" that will cut enough to eliminate the entire $2.3 billion deficit, Rudd said he prefers a more moderate, short-term approach. He wants to enact a plan that will cut about $1 billion, allowing the state to pay its bills until the Legislature returns for its January regular session.

Deputy district clerk receives promotion

Lawrence Bick

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

Just like the court docket, federal bankruptcy cases in Midland are increasing in an economy that is struggling to recover, said Lawrence "Larry" Bick, the United States deputy district clerk in Midland.

"The significant increase we're seeing today in bankruptcies has been individuals filing Chapter 7 (for liquidation)," said Bick, who has been promoted to chief deputy clerk of the bankruptcy section of the federal court system's Western District of Texas.

Bick, 45, will be re-located to San Antonio.

He will oversee the district's bankruptcy operations in San Antonio, Austin, Waco, Midland-Odessa, Pecos, Del Rio and El Paso under the supervision of U.S. District Clerk Charles Vagner of San Antonio.

Bick is being succeeded by 33-year-old John D. Neil, former Odessa College clerk for financial and veterans aid.

Bick associated the gain in bankruptcy filings with the "downturn in the economy" at the outset of 1986, when petroleum prices began dropping, profits diminished or disappeared, and companies and individuals sought relief in Bankruptcy Court.

"Companies started cutting down on their staffs and laying off people," Bick said. "An individual can only survive so long on unemployment (pay) without a job."

Bick, a former internal auditor and a retired U.S. Air Force intelligence and communications sergeant, was appointed deputy district clerk for the district's Midland-Odessa Division in April 1984.

Before the year's end, the U.S. Congress had passed a bill which consolidated the U.S. Bankruptcy Courts with the District Courts.

Before they were "separate and distinct" from one another.

AT THAT TIME, bankruptcy records were filed in San Antonio. But in December 1984, the pending cases — about 500 — were transferred to the Midland-Odessa Division, which takes in the counties of Andrews, Crane, Ector, Martin, Midland and Upton.

In 1984, 293 cases were filed here, 365 were filed in 1985, and 286 have been filed so far this year.

Bick estimated that 600 new cases would be filed here in 1986.

Six years earlier, in 1980, only 42 bankruptcy cases were filed in San Antonio for the Midland-Odessa Division.

That number increased to 89 in 1981, to 133 in 1982, and then to 301 in 1983 — the year of the downfall of the First National Bank of Midland.

The energy bank, which was Texas' largest independent bank, failed on Oct. 14, 1983, and was taken over by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

Bankruptcy cases here are heard by U.S. Bankruptcy Court Judge Joseph C. Elliott of San Antonio.

U.S. couple ordered from South Africa

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — An American missionary couple said Friday the government ordered them to leave the country by next week.

The Reverends Brian and Susan Burchfield of the American Lutheran Church said an official of the Ministry of Home Affairs handed them a letter Thursday night informing them of their expulsion.

"No reason was given," said Mrs. Burchfield, 39, in a telephone interview. "There are no charges pending against us anywhere and so we are completely in the dark. Our work permit was recently renewed until Oct. 9."

The Burchfields were sent from Lynnwood, Wash., on their first overseas post in January to help a Cape Town pastor with his congregation of 600 mixed-race South Africans.

The letter said only that Home Minister Stoffel Botha "has considered it to be in the public interest to order your removal from the republic."

The Burchfields, who came to this country with two daughters, were told they could appeal by Wednesday, but would have to leave by midnight Thursday if the appeal failed.

Many lawmakers want SPR filled to limits while price of oil low

By STEPHANIE SLEWKA
Hearst News Service

WASHINGTON — The Energy Department has used cash surpluses accumulated from the drop in oil prices to buy an additional million barrels of oil from Mexico to pour into the Strategic Petroleum Reserve.

A few days ago, the Energy Department reluctantly received $578 million earmarked for the purchase of oil for the reserve, money it had tried to defer to Congress, as well as $198 million in deferred construction money, part of which will be used for the construction of a storage site at Big Hill, Texas.

Fifty thousand barrels of oil a day are currently being pumped into underground salt caverns at West Hackberry in Louisiana, where a gusher of oil and brine leaked from a cavern on Monday. The leak was soon repaired, after an estimated 2,000 barrels of crude oil and brine escaped. The rest of the site was undamaged.

At the end of July, 503 million barrels of oil will have been stored as a backyard oil supply to guard against a disruption of foreign oil imports.

Congress authorized a 750 million barrel reserve at the height of the Arab oil embargo in 1977, but the Reagan administration has repeatedly attempted to cap the reserve at much lower levels.

Until early this month, citing budget constraints, administration officials said 502 million barrels was the limit. Energy Secretary John Herrington only recently started pressuring other cabinet members to continue the filling of the reserve.

The matter of the Strategic Petroleum Reserve's future was reportedly on the agenda of the president's Domestic Policy Council last week, but a spokesman for Herrington said he could not comment on what, if any, agreement was reached.

Hospital's new children's ward stimulates hope in autistc boy

By SUSAN OKULA

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — For most of his 7 years, Joey Kelly hardly spoke. He slept poorly, didn't eat properly, wouldn't dress himself. He sometimes lapsed into screaming tantrums that lasted several hours.

Joey is autistic. Late last year, his parents checked him into Yale-New Haven Hospital's new children's psychiatric ward. When the family went home to Aberdeen, S.D., six weeks later, Joey was talking fluently, sleeping well, grooming himself and was able to eat a sit-down meal with his family.

"Before, he was kind of a cross little boy," says Joey's father, Joseph Kelly. "He was unhappy and got into fits. Now, he wakes every morning with a smile and he's as happy as he can be."

Joey was one of the first patients of the 12-bed Yale Children's Psychiatric Inpatient Service which opened in December. The unit treats children from 4 to 14 who have serious mental health problems.

Many major teaching hospitals have psychiatric wards for children, says Dr. Joseph Woolston, director of the Yale service. But Yale's program is unusual, he says, partly because it also teaches parents how to deal effectively with their children's difficult behaviors, he says.

Besides autism, the unit treats problems such as psychosis, affective disorders, emotional illness aggravated by physical conditions and physical conditions brought on by emotional turmoil. Recent patients include a 4-year-old boy who burned down a house and two emotionally impaired brothers who were abandoned by their mother and abused by their alcoholic, drug-addicted father, Woolston said.

Studies indicate that between 5 and 15 percent of the nation's school-age children nationally suffer significant mental health problems and a majority of them probably do not receive adequate treatment, says Dr. Donald J. Cohen, the director of the Yale University School of Medicine Child Study Center.

"Adults who have disorders often find ways to announce it publicly. Children simply suffer," he says.

At Woolston's unit, children see a variety of specialists who work for the Yale School of Medicine and its Child Study Center as well as Yale-New Haven Hospital. Cohen hopes the program will come to be regarded as a national model because of this multidisciplinary approach.

Woolston says a youngster's stay at the hospital begins with a diagnosis, made through evaluations of physical, mental, neurological and educational capabilities. Then treatment is formulated.

During his stay, usually about six weeks, a child follows a routine that includes regular schoolwork.

Treatment for Joey Kelly started with a diagnosis of autism, a serious developmental disorder whose victims are often out of touch with reality. Woolston said doctors found that Joey's IQ was normal, and that he could function at a higher social level than many autistic children.

Doctors then determined what Joey was and was not capable of achieving and guided him toward reachable behavior goals, such as sleeping through the night. Just being in the highly structured unit encouraged Joey to talk and socialize more, Woolston says.

Family instruction and therapy are important, too, the doctor says. In Joey's case, the doctors wanted his parents to visit three times a day in order to wake him, eat with him and put him to bed.

A Connecticut mother whose 12-year-old son was treated for an attention disorder, says, "They taught me not to yell at him, to use a low voice."

"We learned in family therapy how to deal with everything that we were feeling in a positive way," added the mother, who did not want to be identified.

The unit also has a "quiet room," used to calm a child whose behavior is out of control. Such children are taught the concept of "time out," in which they are required to sit quietly.

If that doesn't work, they are temporarily locked in the quiet room, which is adjacent to the nursing station. About five feet square, the room has a padded bench, two windows and a heavy door.

The mother of the boy with attention disorder initially objected to the quiet room.

"Then I saw the necessity of it as a place to calm down without any distractions and to think about alternate behavior," she says. "The longest he was in the quiet room was 20 minutes."

If a child is so out of control that he could hurt himself, Woolston says, he is tied to a hospital bed.

When a child is ready to go home, the unit tries to see that he returns to a positive environment at home and school, Woolston said.

Prior to the young arsonist's discharge, the unit arranged an 8-hour school day, continuing therapy, household help for his mother, and the supervision of a social worker.

The two emotionally impaired brothers were placed in a residential treatment program while their father was encouraged to seek counseling.

White House forms pattern of exclusion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan White House, whose managers prefer decorum to the sometimes unruliness of a free — and sometimes free-wheeling — press, is more and more off limits to reporters.

They're small steps, to be sure, each one by itself hardly worth mentioning outside the grounds. But as they are added one after another, they begin to form a pattern of exclusion.

Item: Broadcast correspondents, whose persistent questions seem in recent years to have dominated the brief photo sessions sometimes permitted at the start of presidential meetings, are told they may send only one of their number to each session.

Item: The Secret Service, ostensibly for reasons of security, begins barring the small "pool" of reporters and photographers that usually accompanies the president from following him into and through hotels and places where he goes to make speeches. As a result, news people can no longer get close enough to the president to talk to him when he is traveling.

Item: Still photographers, once accompanied by reporters and television crews whenever they took pictures of the president, are quietly escorted into some meetings without their inquisitive colleagues along. Begun on an experimental basis, purportedly to increase opportunities for candid photos of Reagan, these "stills only" events are now frequent substitutes for the larger sessions that customarily include reporters.

Item: The president, who once entered the East Room through the main door to address assembled guests, now slips in through a side entrance beyond the reach — and questions — of reporters covering such events.

None of these steps would be cause for concern if there were regular access to President Reagan and his top lieutenants. But for years members of the news media have been prohibited from walking unescorted through the working areas of the White House and generally see the president only at his pleasure or the inclination of his staff.

Reagan, in particular, exhibits little desire for informal or unrehearsed meetings with reporters.

And as a practical matter, no other outside observers have regular opportunities to question him about his policies or issues of national concern. The American system of government doesn't offer the alternative available in parliamentary governments, which traditionally subject the prime minister to questioning by his or her fellow lawmakers.

In the past week, Reagan flew to New York and back aboard a plane without the usual contingent of reporters and photographers in tow.

Insects: Change their behavior rather than poison them

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Mankind has tended to poison the insects that become a nuisance, but a better way to fight bugs may be to change their behavior, a University of Arizona researcher says.

"We have a couple of choices," neurobiology professor John G. Hildebrand said. "We can either kill insects, using pesticides, or we can try to manipulate insects so they don't die."

The problems with using poisons are, for one, that they kill more types of insects than those that are targeted. Poisons also can kill or sicken other living things, Hildebrand said in a telephone interview.

Insects also are able to adapt to poisons, with a few insects which survive a pesticide spraying likely to spawn entire insect generations that are immune to the pesticide, Hildebrand said.

So Hildebrand said a better way to combat the insects would be to change their behaviors that humans find troublesome. He acknowledged that changing the behavior of insects could upset the natural balance of things, but he said the impact probably would be less harmful to the environment than poisons are.

"It would mess up the system much less," he said.

To provide an example of the types of insect behavior changes that might prove beneficial, Hildebrand discussed the mosquito.

He said that if mosquitoes could be encouraged to go after the blood of, say, rabbits or dogs instead of humans, diseases borne by mosquitoes would be less prevalent, and mosquitoes themselves would be less of a nuisance to people.

But, Hildebrand pointed out, the mosquitoes would still get their diet of blood, and they'd still be out there in the food chain to be eaten by the things that eat mosquitoes.

Skull collector beautifies, sells rejected bones

NEW YORK (AP) — Henry Galiano never works alone. Lined up and waiting for him every morning, ceaselessly smiling, are rows and rows of gleaming white skulls.

All kinds of skulls are for sale in Galiano's shop. He stocks little mouse skulls, huge elephant skulls, beaver skulls with enormous incisors, toucan skulls with colorful beaks, skulls of turtles, minks, skunks and rats.

Some skulls have horns. Wildebeest horns turn inward, Cape buffalo sweep outward, eland spiral upward and African antelope turn around, providing a handy hook to hang a skull from a ceiling water pipe.

And in Galiano's back room workshop, more than 50 hang that way, waiting to be waxed and sold.

Galiano, 35, has been selling skulls for more than a year from his Upper West Side store, Maxilla and Mandible, named for the upper and lower jawbones. A franchise opened in San Francisco in April.

The entrance is foreboding, down steps dropping from the sidewalk to a black doorway flanking a window displaying bones. Inside nine spotlighted Western mule deer skulls, all carrying racks of antlers, greet visitors from a black hallway wall.

The bones and skulls of humans, gathered from medical supply houses, line the shelves of a display case and a skeleton hangs nearby.

But Galiano said bone collectors often skip over their own species and go instead to the catfish, armadillo, crow, muskrat and other skulls that run from about $10 to $50. The cheapest items are miscellaneous bones and teeth for 50 cents each; the most expensive, an ivory elephant tusk for $15,000.

"This business takes advantage of an exhaust that goes on all around the world with wildlife," he said. "What we're making beautiful and saleable is what would normally be discarded."

Galiano, who is single, has dabbled in other businesses, once entering a partnership to sell bottled New York City tap water to New Yorkers. He grew up in East Harlem and describes himself as self-educated.

Volunteer work at the nearby American Museum of Natural History turned into a paying job as a vertebrate paleontologist. He worked there 13 years, identifying fossils, cataloging the collection and publishing research on the evolution of carnivores.

His present business grew from contacts among trappers, ranchers, fur breeders and game wardens in Africa and North America who supply him with skulls.

Galiano said he doesn't solicit the bones of endangered species, not wanting to offer anyone an incentive to kill them. "That's not to say they don't kill them anyway," he said, and he sells some of the ones he's offered.

Most of his customers come from the art world and 70 percent are female. Artists, he said, are more open minded about the implications of death implicit in a skull, but they also appreciate its aesthetic value.

Galiano believes a clean, well polished antelope skull could one day hang in living rooms everywhere.

"It's like an original art work, done by God," he said.

Other buyers are educators like Paul Goldwater, 38, of Riverdale, who teaches biology to seventh-graders in a slum area of the Bronx. There's nothing like a skull to get a class to sit up and pay attention, he said.

"If I walk in with an object like a skull, a human skull or an animal, kids say 'What's that?' " he said. "Kids are mesmerized, they're absolutely quiet.

"The first question they ask me is, 'Is it real? Can I touch it?' "

Ex-vice president of defunct FNB indicted

From Staff Reports

The indictment of a former vice president and loan officer of a defunct Midland bank is a part of an "on-going" investigation, an assistant U.S. attorney said Friday.

Olen Mack Brock, former vice president and loan officer of the defunct First National Bank of Midland, was indicted Thursday by a federal grand jury in Midland for embezzlement and sharing the benefits of a loan.

Brock, 49, of Ruidoso, N.M., became the fifth Midland-Odessa ex-bank officer in 1½ years to be indicted for embezzlement and fraud charges stemming from bank loans.

Three former bank presidents and a bank director have been convicted by federal juries.

"This is the result of an on-going investigation by the Federal Bureau of Investigation," Assistant U.S. Attorney Jim Blankinship said Friday.

He said Brock is to surrender next week, when he is to make bond.

The indictment alleges that Brock tried to defraud the bank of $21,700 through a loan by the bank to a construction company in 1981.

Brock also is charged with fraudulently causing $87,000 to be loaned to a land company and receiving $12,500 from that loan in October 1981.

The third count alleged Brock received an unspecified amount of money through a loan transaction to J.L. Davis of Midland.

If convicted, Brock could be sentenced up to 15 years in prison and fined $750,000.

Brock left the First National Bank of Midland before it failed on Oct. 14, 1983, when the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. took over the bank, which had lost millions of dollars in soured energy loans.

Since late April 1985, federal juries in Midland have convicted three former bank presidents and a bank director of fraud:

■ Eddie Thomas, 43, ex-president of the failed MetroBank at Midland Regional Airport, is serving a 20-year prison sentence and has been ordered by Bunton to pay $550,000 in restitution. He was convicted of 14 counts of embezzlement, misapplication of funds, and making false entries.

■ Roger Harris Clark, 43, an engineer who was a former director of Permian Bank & Trust in Odessa and owner of manufacturing companies in Odessa and Tulsa, was sentenced by Bunton to 10 years in prison and was ordered to pay $378,317.65 in restitution. Clark was convicted of five counts of mail fraud, wire fraud, wire-transfer fraud and making false statements to secure bank loans.

■ Max Malone, 53, former president of Permian Bank & Trust in Odessa, was sentenced by Bunton to 24 years in prison and was ordered to pay $317,410.71 in restitution. Malone was convicted of 13 counts of embezzlement, misapplication of funds and making false entries. Bunton dismissed one of the counts.

■ Bill Tapp, 42, former president of Bank of the West in Odessa, was convicted on 10 counts of embezzlement, misapplication of funds, making false entries and making loans without the approval of the bank's board of directors.

BICK

At present, "in the neighborhood of 10,000" bankruptcy cases are pending in the sprawling district — the largest territorial-wise in the nation.

Between 4,000 and 4,200 cases were filed in 1985, and Bick predicts an additional 6,000 will be filed this year.

"We're losing ground," he said. He said about two cases are filed for each case disposed of.

CURRENTLY, the district has two bankruptcy judges, Elliott and R. Glen Ayers, but has been authorized a third judge.

Elliott, who is leaving the court this autumn, is being succeeded by Larry Kelly, a Waco lawyer who specializes in bankruptcies.

Bick is the Bankruptcy Court's hearing examiner for the first meeting of creditors.

Bankruptcy cases are filed under the U.S. Bankruptcy Code's Chapter 7 for liquidation, Chapter 11 for reorganization of a business or corporation, and Chapter 13 for adjustment of debts of a person with regular income.

Bick noted that filing for bankruptcy under Chapter 7 often is the "last hope" for some people who, "through no fault of their own," fall into dire financial situations.

Often, they have no recourse but to file for bankruptcy.

"Bankruptcy laws have their fallacies," Bick said. "Some people use the Bankruptcy Court for their own advantage."

Under Chapter 11, the Bankruptcy Court protects the debtors, such as businesses and companies, from their creditors, and "allows them time to re-structure their corporate makeup and to re-organize their debts "to pay their creditors something which is satisfactory to everyone...if they survive."

Some companies which file for reorganization under Chapter 11 end up insolvent and file for liquidation under Chapter 7.

"IT (CHAPTER 11) gives them time to organize, tighten their belt, and re-negotiate their debts," Bick said. "The court oversees the activity and prevents the creditors from repossessing and foreclosing."

Bick said that the bankruptcy functions constitute about 50 percent of his office's workload, which includes maintaining U.S. District Court's civil and criminal records, handling grand jury indictments, summoning jurors, and processing naturalization papers.

Working under Bick's supervision are Charlotte Popp, who handles the civil and criminal docket, and Sharon Mendenhall and Christy Carouth, who process bankruptcy records.

Bick, who will be leaving for San Antonio next week, said his office functions "at the pleasure" of U.S. District Court Judge Lucius D. Bunton.

Bunton said Bick has been "very cooperative" with the lawyers who practice in federal court and has been "very helpful" to the court.

"We will sorely miss him," the judge said.

BUDGET

John Bell, director of the Treasury's cash flow estimating division, told the committee that lawmakers must save $500 million by December, or the state's checks will begin to bounce. For January through May, Bell said, they will need an additional $1.2 billion to $1.4 billion.

Rep. Mike Toomey, R-Houston, issued a tentative report from his seven-man subcommittee that recommended the Legislature "consider the various options for breaking" some of the 58 percent of the budget protected in funds created by the Texas Constitution or state law. Those funds include most of the state's appropriations for public schools, highways and employee and teacher retirement programs.

Without delving into the $7.8 billion those funds protect in the fiscal 1987 budget, Toomey said, the committee will be unable to solve the deficit "unless you make just huge cuts in the other parts of the budget."

Those cuts, Legislative Budget Board Director Jim Oliver said, would amount to 37.1 percent of the remaining $5.5 billion if lawmakers want to eliminate all the red ink now. If the Legislature simply wants to reduce the deficit to about $1 billion to handle the Treasury's cash flow problems, it would need to cut 19.2 percent from the unprotected portions of the budget, Oliver said.

OIL

To cut costs, the administration requested a deferral of funds earmarked for SPR in both the the fiscal 1986 and 1987 budgets, but Congress refused to go along. As a result, the Energy Department a few days ago received an additional $578 million in deferred funds to buy oil, and $198 million for construction at Big Hill and expansion of some of the existing sites.

Many legislators want Herrington to use the money to fill the reserve to its limits now while oil prices are low. The current holding capacity is 527 million barrels, but Congress has made plans to expand two currently operating sites to hold more oil. Expansion at one of the sites is expected to be finished in mid-1987, and expansion at West Hackberry which is currently being filled, should be finished by the end of 1988.

When the two sites are expanded and Big Hill is completed by the end of the decade, the reserve's total holding capacity would be 750 million barrels.

Some members of Congress and administration officials have argued that a new contract for Mexican oil for the reserve should be granted by the middle of August, when the current accord runs out, to help the struggling Mexican economy. Others have urged that the government buy domestic oil from stripper wells (those that produce under 10 barrels a day) that are being shut down in record numbers because of the headlong drop in oil prices.

The reserve so far is comprised almost exclusively of foreign oil, and has been filling up with oil from the state-run Mexican oil company, Pemex, since last October.

The price of oil was approximately $28 per barrel when Congress estimated the cost of buying oil for the reserve in 1986. Because oil dropped to as low as $12 a barrel before leveling out at near $15 a barrel, the Energy Department found itself with a surplus of oil money and bought an additional million barrels of oil from Mexico.

The Energy Department also received funds the administration had deferred for the construction of a final storage site in Big Hill. The administration had halted preliminary work at the site, saying money was short and the extra storage space was not needed in the foreseeable future.

BODY

Compton said it was possible the body was moved to where it was found.

He said there may have been a struggle, but did not elaborate.

He also said a four-inch knife was found at the scene and there was blood on the blade.

Compton said officers discovered a human footprint and a trail of matted-down grass near the spot where the body was found.

Norton said more information about the death would be released after the autopsy.

An X-ray of the body did not indicate any broken bones, Ray said.

Midlander injured in explosion

From Staff Reports

A 38-year-old Midland man was listed in stable condition after receiving burns in an explosion Friday afternoon at a gas plant south of Andrews, a Permian General Hospital spokeswoman said.

Julio Burito, an employee at AMOCO Midland Farms Gasoline Plant, received second-degree burns to his face, neck and arms, but was listed in stable condition Friday night, said a spokeswomen with the Permian General Hospital in Andrews.

Burito was burned after escaping gas ignited in a plant engine room, said Andrews Fire Chief Jack Clements.

However, Clements said the exact cause of the fire is unknown.

Several compressors in the engine room were damaged by the explosion, Clements said. He said he did not know the cost of the damage.

Two units from the Andrews Fire Department responded to the plant explosion 23 miles south of Andrews off U.S. Highway 385, Clements said. The fire that started around 3:30 p.m. Friday took two hours to put out, he said.

Man says automobile dash taken

From Staff Reports

A $500 automobile dash with an AM/FM radio was taken from a Midland business, the Midland County Sheriff's Department reports.

William Weakley of Showpiece Auto, 30 West Industrial Loop, told sheriff's officers that the burglary occurred Wednesday night after the dash and radio were taken from a '71 Chevy Corvette.

In other law enforcement reports, several blank checks and a $363 Paymaster checkwriter was taken from Action Energy Mechanics, Inc., 9816 County Road 129. The items were taken Thursday night, the department reports.

The Midland County Adult Probation office, 218 West Illinois, reported the theft of $207 in cash, from a drawer used to collect money from probationers. Kay O'Neal of the probation office, told officers the money was taken sometime between 4 p.m. and 5:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Patsy Sellars, 600 Liddon No. 77, reported the burglary of up to $480 in items and cash from her home. Ms. Sellars told police officers that four watches worth a total of $180, one $100 stereo cassette player and $200 in cash were taken between 1:30 p.m. Tuesday and 9:10 a.m. Wednesday.

COUPLE

The couple were among 56 people arrested on a disorderly conduct charge March 7 while saying goodbye at the airport to a deported Lutheran minister, Gottfried Kraatz.

Burchfield, 38, was among 250 people detained June 15 at St. Nicholas Anglican Church following a memorial service for blacks killed in the 1976 Soweto riots. He was released without charge after three hours.

"One of the people in our congregation also happened to be detained in St. Nicholas and we see pastoring here as we would in the United States. If someone in your congregation is hurting, in hospital or prison, you not only visit them but you work on behalf of their well-being, if it's inquiring about their condition or getting them legal help," said Mrs. Burchfield.

"I think it's a good example of how someone can be arrested, detained, deported for any number of ridiculous reasons. If we're deported, I'm not going quietly," she said.

Bullock says austerity plan hasn't reduced rate of spending

By STEVE LEVINE
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — State expenditure figures for June show Gov. Mark White's austerity plan still has not reduced the rate of state spending, Comptroller Bob Bullock reported Friday.

For the fourth month in a row, June spending ran ahead of the average for the six months preceding White's Feb. 18 call for agencies and universities to curtail expenditures by 13 percent.

The report showed spending for all of state government totaled $1.8 billion, 37.8 percent greater than the September-to-February monthly average.

For the general revenue fund, the state's main checking account and the target of the governor's reductions, June spending ran 3.3 percent above the six-month average.

Bill Hamilton, White's chief budget officer, told the House Appropriations Committee that agencies and universities in June slowed down spending for salaries, office leases, utilities and out-of-state travel — four of the eight items the governor has targetted.

"We would consider that a favorable trend," he said.

Hamilton said 181 of the 201 state agencies have submitted budget-cutting plans that would save about $654 million by the Aug. 31, 1987 end of the current fiscal period.

Beaumont Rep. Mark Stiles, a member of the Appropriations Committee, said those agencies that have not submitted a plan could face stiff cuts from the Legislature.

"There's just some agencies we probably don't need anymore," Stiles said, laughing.

Those agencies that have not reported include the Supreme Court and Court of Criminal Appeals, the Motor Vehicle Commission, Midwestern State University and Texas Southern University.

The University of Texas of the Permian Basin, which has submitted a spending reduction plan, spent $500,000 in general revenue in June, up 1.6 percent from its September-to-February average.

Republican gubernatorial candidate Bill Clements criticized the apparent failure of White's plan to hold down spending.

"The true meaning of the constant increases in state spending each month is that Mark White plans to give the state of Texas an income tax," Clements said.

White has repeatedly vowed to veto a bill creating an income tax.

White campaign spokesman Mark McKinnon called Clements' accusation "a lie."

STATE

Lawmaker: Clements wants to decimate schools, impose tax

By STEVE LEVINE
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Bill Clements wants to either decimate public school reforms or impose giant local property tax increases on Texans, Senate Education Committee Chairman Carl Parker charged Friday.

A spokesman for the Clements campaign accused Parker of "making a lot of political rhetoric."

Last month, Parker organized a "put-up-or-shut-up" letter from 15 state senators challenging Clements to reveal his secret plan for solving the state's $2.3 billion budget shortfall.

Parker, D-Port Arthur, said he has analyzed "statements, speeches and press releases" from Clements to "decode" the Republican gubernatorial candidate's secret plan. By refusing to consider tax increases and by placing education, prisons, public safety and mental health on a "clean list," Parker charged, Clements is really calling for a 62-percent cut in remaining state programs such as welfare, highways, health, rehabilitation and teacher and employee retirement plans.

Parker called that prospect "completely absurd" and said Clements' "inaccurate and misleading statements" are preventing "citizens from making informed decisions about the future of this state."

Reggie Bashur, spokesman for the Clements campaign, agreed that Clements does not want to cut education, prisons, public safety and mental health. "The remainder of the budget will be examined for priorities and possible cuts," Bashur said.

Even if Clements makes no changes in the current $5 billion appropriation to public education, Parker claimed, the school system would be $409 million short next year for such reforms as lower class sizes, the career-ladder bonus plan for outstanding teachers and special programs for gifted and talented students.

"Our best prospect for economic revitalization and creating jobs lies in education," Parker told reporters at a Capitol news conference. "We are too close to our goal of quality in education and access and opportunity to abandon our quest."

Without new taxes for education, Parker said, Clements' plan leaves the state three choices: a 9.9-percent increase in local property taxes, a $175-per-month pay cut for teachers or the laying off of 23,500 teachers. "Such meat-axe cuts would permanently damage, forever, public education in this state," he said.

Bashur said Clements has promised to continue spending 51 to 53 percent of the state budget on education. "He is not going to increase the percentage," Bashur said.

Woman, baby die in domestic fight

AMARILLO (AP) — A 7-month-old baby died Friday from being stabbed and beaten in what police said was a domestic fight that earlier took the life of his mother.

Police said Michelle Ward, 20, died Thursday after surgery for massive head injuries in the attack. Her baby, Skyler Ward, had been hospitalized in critical condition and died Friday morning, hospital officials said.

Arrested and charged in Ms. Ward's death was Joey Alexander, 29, the woman's common-law husband and the child's father, police said.

They said he stabbed himself in the stomach after locking himself in his family's apartment. He was in serious condition at Northwest Texas Hospital.

A man identified as a friend of the dead woman William Palmer, was treated and released for minor injuries suffered when he was beaten during the attack at the apartment, police said.

Lt. Andy Dieterman, coordinator of the Special Crimes Unit, said a domestic dispute apparently triggered the violence.

The attack followed an argument conducted in sign language between Alexander and his wife, who are deaf-mutes, Dieterman said.

Palmer and the woman fled with the baby to another apartment but were followed there by the attacker armed with a baseball bat, police said.

They said after the attack at that residence, the assailant returned with the baby to the Ward apartment where the baby was apparently stabbed, Dieterman said.

The assailant then turned the same knife on himself, Dieterman said.

Police said Ms. Ward recently moved to Amarillo from Clovis, N.M.

STATE IN BRIEF

TEC guard convicted

HOUSTON (AP) — A state prison guard was convicted of perjury for lying to protect other guards in testimony about the beating and burning of inmate escapees.

Texas Department of Corrections Lt. Bobby Byrd, 34, was found guilty Thursday by a jury on four counts of perjury for giving conflicting statements to a federal grand jury and trial jury.

Mark Anthony Griffith, a murderer, and Scott Elwyn Lickliter, a robber, were beaten in 1982 when they failed to tell guards how they had escaped. Byrd testified in the January trial of six former TDC guards now serving two-year terms in federal prison for violating the inmates' civil rights.

Byrd who will be sentenced Aug. 12 could receive 20 years in prison and $40,000 in fines on each count. A TDC official said Bryd's employment will be evaluated as it is TDC policy to fire employees convicted of a felony.

Aliens deaths probed

COTULLA (AP) — A $5,000 reward was offered Friday for anyone with information leading to the arrest and conviction of the smugglers responsible for the deaths of two illegal aliens who died in the stifling heat of a boxcar.

The two aliens and 21 others, on a Union Pacific freight train traveling from the border city of Laredo to San Antonio, were discovered by the U.S. Border Patrol during a routine check about 8 p.m. Wednesday, said agent Leon Janek.

"We're optimistic we might make arrests," Chief Border Patrol Officer Joe Garza of Laredo said Friday. "We have several leads and the border patrol has offered a $5,000 reward for information leading to an arrest and conviction."

Garza said the agents averted more fatalities by stopping the train before it reached San Antonio, about 100 miles northeast of Cotulla.

Jury convicts woman

HOUSTON (AP) — A Rockwall woman who said she wanted to get a child out of a "bad situation" was sentenced to probation and fined $5,000 for trying to buy a baby, officials said.

Jurors in visiting state District Judge K. Baker's court placed Alice Jane Baker Long, 47, on five years probation Thursday.

Ms. Long's sentence marks the second felony conviction in the case. A Pasadena, Texas, woman who acted as intermediary in the baby sale, Martha Mueller, 39, pleaded guilty in return for a six-year prison sentence.

Ms. Long testified she did not deny wanting the baby offered her by undercover police, but said she simply wanted to get the child out of "a bad situation" and turn it over to authorities.

Sniper's bullet hits woman

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A sniper fired a bullet into a car traveling on a busy city road, striking the face of a woman riding with her husband and young son, police said Friday.

Patricia Iturralde, 28, was in fair condition Friday at Southeast Baptist Hospital.

The bullet smashed the window on the passenger's side of the car and struck the right side of Ms. Iturralde's nose, narrowly missing her husband and 2-year-old boy, police said.

The couple's car was passing a heavily wooded area, according to a police report. "The next thing I noticed, the window on the passenger side was busted and my wife was bleeding," Hodges said. "The bullet hit the back of my headrest."

Police searched the wooded area on foot and by helicopter but found nothing.

Man struck by fan blades

WACO (AP) — The body of a maintenance man who apparently died when hit by fan blades on the air conditioning equipment he was servicing was found Friday on the roof of the main post office, authorities said.

Eugene Perry, 52, had been doing maintenance to the building's rooftop walk-in air conditioner Thursday afternoon.

Justice of the Peace Joe Johnson says Perry apparently was injured by fan blades that hit his neck. Power to the unit was supposed to have been turned off, authorities said.

Postmaster Norman Adamson says Perry's wife called the office Friday and said her husband did not return from work. A search turned up the body around mid-morning, Adamson said.

Escaped inmate captured

HUNTSVILLE (AP) — A 37-year-old prison inmate was returned to the Texas Department of Corrections about eight hours after he was reported missing from the Ellis Unit, a prison spokesman said Friday.

Gary Wayne Shankles, serving 50 years for unauthorized use of a motor vehicle and aggravated robbery from Tarrant and Van Zandt counties, was apprehended without resistance about 1.5 miles from the prison late Thursday, TDC spokesman Charles Brown said.

Shankles was discovered missing during a routine count at about 6 or 7 p.m. Thursday, Brown said. Prison guards used dogs to track down the inmate after he was reported missing.

"We won't know how he did it (escaped) until we talk to him," Brown said.

Photographer jailed

PLANO (AP) — A 49-year-old photographer was jailed Friday on bonds totaling $3 million in what police said was a scheme to persuade young neighborhood girls to recruit their friends for pornographic photo sessions.

Plano Municipal Judge Weldon Copeland set the bonds Thursday on charges of aggravated sexual assault and possession of child pornography against Zoltan Balogh, who was then transferred to the Collin County Jail.

Lt. Jerry Scott said police believe that Balogh, who had photography equipment in his home, sexually assaulted an 11-year-old Plano girl and posed with her and other young girls in sexually explicit pictures.

About six or seven other young girls aged 10 to 14 visited his townhouse, but police said they hadn't determined if they were sexually assaulted. Police said Balogh did not sell the pictures of the young girls once he took them.

Bright to help Clements

DALLAS (AP) — Gubernatorial candidate Bill Clements and oilman H.R. "Bum" Bright put aside any past differences and have become teammates in the campaign to unseat Gov. Mark White in November.

Bright, owner of the Dallas Cowboys, said Thursday he has rejoined the Clements campaign and has pledged to help raise $1 million. He will serve as one of three co-chairmen for a $5,000-a-plate Clements fund-raiser July 23 in Dallas, which President Reagan is scheduled to attend.

Bright and Clements clashed last year when the former governor decided to mount a political comeback after Bright and other Republican leaders persuaded former Democratic Rep. Kent Hance to switch parties.

Administration labels new trade bill 'protectionist'

By PEGGY ROBERSON
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — The Reagan administration is trying to find some way to slow down the momentum for Senate passage of a trade program which Democrats say will "level the playing field" and the president calls "a throwback to the era of protectionism."

"Frankly, we're trying as hard as we can to derail the protectionist juggernaut now seeping through the United States Congress," said Vice President George Bush, speaking last month to the Vancouver, Canada, Board of Trade.

The House approved a sweeping revision of trade law in May that President Reagan promised to veto if it reaches his desk.

Senate hearings have not been scheduled on the House bill, but the Finance committee will move full-steam-ahead with hearings the remainder of the month on another half dozen trade bills boasting strong bipartisan support.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., second-ranking Democrat on the Senate Finance Committee and a catalyst on the issue, recently warned the administration that the Senate bills are even more restrictive than the House legislation. He strongly urged the administration to help draft legislation both houses can accept.

If the White House remains on the sidelines, Bentsen said, the president could be faced with having to veto a trade bill in the middle of this fall's congressional elections.

So far, however, the administration has shown little inclination to cooperate. Some observers say the hands-off approach is out of concern White House officials would be faced with a bill they helped to draft, but which contains provisions that are either too protectionist or too restrictive for the president to support.

Many Democrats believe the trade issue will work to their advantage. They talk about "reciprocity" in trade, and call for "level playing fields" and the approach is winning favorable attention from voters.

In an off-year East Texas congressional race in 1985, the trade issue may have provided the margin of victory for Democrat Jim Chapman against a better-financed, administration-backed Republican.

Chapman, of Sulphur Springs, running for re-election without opposition, recently called on the Reagan administration to "take tough action" against subsidized timber imports from Canada. He said the lack of a "cohesive forest products trade policy" threatens the domestic timber economy.

"If administration officials would come out of the enchanted forest and see the ugly sight of mills closing in East Texas, they wouldn't hesitate to take action," Chapman said.

Chapman's comments came following a unanimous ruling in late June by the International Trade Commission that Canadian timber imports are hurting the U.S. lumber market.

The administration certainly will resist slapping new tariffs on the Canadian timber industry, as Chapman advised. In May, when the White House responded to pleas from one sector of the U.S. timber industry to get tough and announced tariff increases of up to 35 percent on Canadian cedar wood building products, the Canadian government retaliated by restoring previously abandoned tariffs on a variety of U.S. products, including books, periodicals, semiconductors and computer parts.

The action strained U.S.-Canadian relations and underscored the risks in a tit-for-tat approach to international trade.

For example, while job-hungry Texans are complaining that foreign imports, including oil from the Middle East, are taking their jobs, at least 272,000 Texans' jobs were created directly as the result of exports, according to the International Trade Administration.

Also, approximately one in three jobs in agriculture in Texas and elsewhere results from exports.

A familiar complaint by U.S. farmers is that foreign governments, particularly the European Economic Community, subsidize their growers' crops, forcing prices so low that Americans can't compete. Now, however, in the case of U.S. rice sales abroad, that complaint is being turned against the U.S., demonstrating the other edge of a two-edged trade sword.

Mystery military plane crashes; Pilot dies

NATION

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP) — A mystery Air Force plane crashed in Sequoia National Forest early Friday, killing the pilot, igniting a 45-acre brush fire, and triggering a cordon of Air Force secrecy.

The Air Force refused to say what type of airplane crashed or whether it was an experimental craft from the flight test center at Edwards Air Force Base, about 80 miles southeast of the crash site.

Public affairs officials at Edwards, who read brief statements to reporters, confirmed that the crash occurred about 2 a.m. and killed one person. The pilot's name was not released.

"The whole area has been restricted, including the air space above the crash site," the Kern County Sheriff's Office said, stressing that it was relaying information from the Air Force.

"There will be military aircraft in the area, and anyone entering the area will be dealt with appropriately by the Air Force," the sheriff's office said.

Gen. Michael McRaney, head of public affairs for the Air Force, said from the Pentagaon that the plane had only one crew member and "was definitely not a bomber."

No weapons of any kind were on board, 2nd Lt. Eric Schaible said.

The crash, about 12 miles northeast of Bakersfield, triggered a brush fire that blackened 45 acres of the Sierra Nevada before it was contained at 8 a.m. by Kern County and U.S. Forest Service firefighters.

Kern County fire dispatcher John Rosso said the crash occurred in Kern River Canyon, about 110 miles north of Los Angeles.

The initial statement from Edwards, five hours after the crash, said only that an Air Force plane had crashed, gave a general location and said a board of officers would be appointed to investigate.

"That's the guidance we've been given from Washington," said Staff Sgt. Lorri Wray, after she read the statement. "We can't give out any details."

Poland honors American art conservator

NEW YORK (AP) — An American art conservator was awarded a medal by the Polish government Friday for restoring a six-story-high art treasure that barely escaped a Nazi bombing during World War II.

Gustav A. Berger was honored at a reception in the Polish Consulate, which itself was restored to enhance walls and ceilings full of ornate American artwork from the late 19th century.

Berger, who lives in Manhattan, went to Poland in 1981 to advise specialists working to save the Panorama of Raclawice, a battlefield scene the size of a football field that was completed in 1894. The work had been damaged in a bombing during World War II, then was rolled up in sections and hidden in a monastery for the remainder of the war, said Consul General Andrezej Olszowka.

"It had suffered very much during the dark times of the second World War, during the German Nazi occupation of Poland," said Olszowka. "The purpose of our enemies was to destroy it — (those things that) helped to preserve the spirit of being Polish."

Most restoration projects are done on a flat surface. But panoramas, which encircle the viewer, cannot be flattened. Berger shared with the Polish experts the techniques and instruments he developed in 1979, when he restored the Atlanta Cyclorama, the largest surviving panorama in the United States.

The Poles built a special hall to display their panorama and it was reopened to the public last year in the city of Wroclaw.

The work by Jan Styka and Wojciech Kossak depicts an April 4, 1794, battle near the village of Raclawice led by Tadeusz Kosciuszko, who went on to fight with George Washington in the American Revolution.

Panoramas were invented around the time of the American Revolution as a method of chronicling important events, said Berger.

Firemen's wives want to take calls for free

SOUTHAMPTON, Mass. (AP) — The federal government says six firefighters' wives who answer emergency calls at home must be paid minimum wage, but the women say they don't want the money and Southampton says it can't afford to pay them.

"It's absolutely ridiculous," Fire Chief Rheal Labrie said Friday. "I'm going to have to fire my own wife and lose six good girls, who have been doing an excellent job for more than 20 years.

"It's only in the past two years that the town has agreed to pay them $1 an hour. And now, just when they were able to make a little money at it, the federal bureaucrats get into the act and the town says it's going to have to eliminate their jobs, because it can't afford to pay them $3.35 an hour."

Attorneys for the U.S. Labor Department in Boston notified the town that it has until Aug. 1 to raise the women's pay and give them back wages from April 15, when the minimum wage law was expanded to municipal employees, Labrie said.

Albert H. Ross, a lawyer with the department, said the U.S. Supreme Court, in a decision last year, found municipalities came under the Wage and Hours Act.

"If the women have to answer emergency calls and dispatch they are confined to their home for those hours and we have always taken the view that constitutes hours worked," he said.

The budget for the women, who maintain the town's 24-hour emergency phone system, would rise from $8,760 a year to $29,346 if they received the minimum wage, he said.

"We consider what we do as a service to the town," said Labrie's wife, Lorraine, who for 25 years has been taking emergency calls for the amubulance and 24-member fire department. "This is our way to help out. We all know the town and most of the people and with our husbands and sons being firemen, it is of great interest to us."

She said that when she started, there was no pay. Later the women received $50 every three months. The women were satisfied, she said.

"We have the emergency phones in our own homes and you have to stay home when you are on duty, but you can still do things around the house and the six of us alternate," she said. "We swap times if someone has to go out when its their turn and we've just been one happy family."

The women even explored evading the minimum wage law by setting up an association that would contract for their dispatching service with the town of 4,000 people.

NATION IN BRIEF

Brothers plead innocent in adoptive father's death

COSHOCTON, Ohio (AP) — Two of three brothers charged in the fatal shooting of their adoptive father have pleaded innocent, and the third may be tried as an adult, court officials said.

Divers found the body of John T. Roberts, 43, in the Tuscarawas River on July 4. Police said he was shot in the head and chest with a .22-caliber rifle, probably while sleeping, on July 2 in the family home.

Two brothers, ages 13 and 11, pleaded innocent Thursday to delinquency counts of complicity and conspiracy to commit aggravated murder, obstructing justice, tampering with evidence, and abuse of a corpse.

Coshocton County Juvenile Court Judge C. Fenning Pierce told the boys they could be placed in a juvenile center until age 21 if they are convicted.

Their 16-year-old brother is charged with delinquency counts of aggravated murder, obstructing justice, tampering with evidence and abuse of a corpse in the death of the father.

Fire strikes Baptist mission

KOKOMO, Ind. (AP) — Fire on Friday destroyed the world headquarters of the Evangelical Baptist Ministry Mission.

Firefighters from several communities battled the early-morning blaze for six hours, but could not save the building or its contents. Damage was estimated at about $500,000.

One firefighter was treated for heat exhaustion at the scene and an unidentified passerby who pushed his hand through a glass window while trying to get into the building received 14 stitches, said Capt. David Etherington of the Harrison Township fire department.

The cause of the fire was under investigation.

The work of the mission, which has outposts in 18 countries, will continue despite the blaze, said David Marshall, its general director.

Soldiers die in copter crash

BIG BEAR LAKE, Calif. (AP) — An Army helicopter crashed in the San Bernardino Mountain wilderness, killing three soldiers and injuring two others, officials said Friday.

The helicopter, which apparently crashed Thursday night, was discovered Friday morning southeast of Big Bear, said Capt. Margaret Sutter of George Air Force Base near Victorville.

San Bernardino County Sheriff's Deputy Harry Hatch said three people aboard the UH-1 helicopter were killed and two were injured.

The crash occurred on the east side of San Gorgonio Mountain between the 6,000-foot and 7,000-foot level. The mountain is the highest in Southern California with a peak elevation of 11,502 feet.

Quake hits Tennessee

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — A slight earthquake rattled windows Friday in southeastern Tennessee and northern Georgia, a spokeswoman for the Tennessee Earthquake Information Center said.

There were no immediate reports of injuries or serious damage in the quake, which occurred about 10:25 a.m., said the spokeswoman, who refused to be identified.

The quake registered between 3.5 and 4 on the Richter scale of ground motion, or capable of causing slight to moderate damage. Its center was believed to be southeast of Chattanooga, the spokeswoman said.

Ambassador to be named

WASHINGTON (AP) — Reginald Bartholomew, the U.S. ambassador in war-torn Lebanon since 1983, will be nominated by President Reagan to be ambassador to Spain, it was announced Friday.

Bartholomew, a career member of the Foreign Service who served a two-year stint on the National Security Council during the Carter administration, will succeed Thomas O. Enders in Madrid. There was no announcement of Enders' future plans.

Machinist, animal lover adds European bear to menagerie

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP) — From the mind of the man who brought you Pappy the Rollerskating Wonder Horse, now comes Herbie the Cookie-Chomping European Black Bear.

Herbie, who will chomp just about anything that looks like food, is the star attraction at Gerry Bressler's Hillside Wild Animal Farm, a new and impressive little collection of exotic birds and beasts in rural Brush Valley.

In addition to Herbie, Bressler's menagerie includes four-horned sheep, Barbados big horn sheep, fallow deer, sika deer and a wild mustang named Cherokee.

Feathered friend fanciers will find Indian blue peacocks, golden pheasants, silver pheasants, ring-neck pheasants, owl pigeons, oriental fantail pigeons, Narragansett turkeys and some very strange looking chickens. Russian wild boars are supposed to be taking up residence when more pens can be built.

For Bressler, a 58-year-old machinist with a lifelong love of animals, Hillside Farm is the fulfillment of a dream.

Pappy, the bronco he trained and took on a 12-year-long whirl of carnival, fair and television appearances in the 1960s, was just a prelude to this.

At Hillside Farm, Bressler says, the goal isn't so much entertainment as it is consciousness-raising.

"I want children who come here to remember these animals as ambassadors of their own species and to be aware of their needs to survive in a human-dominated world," he said.

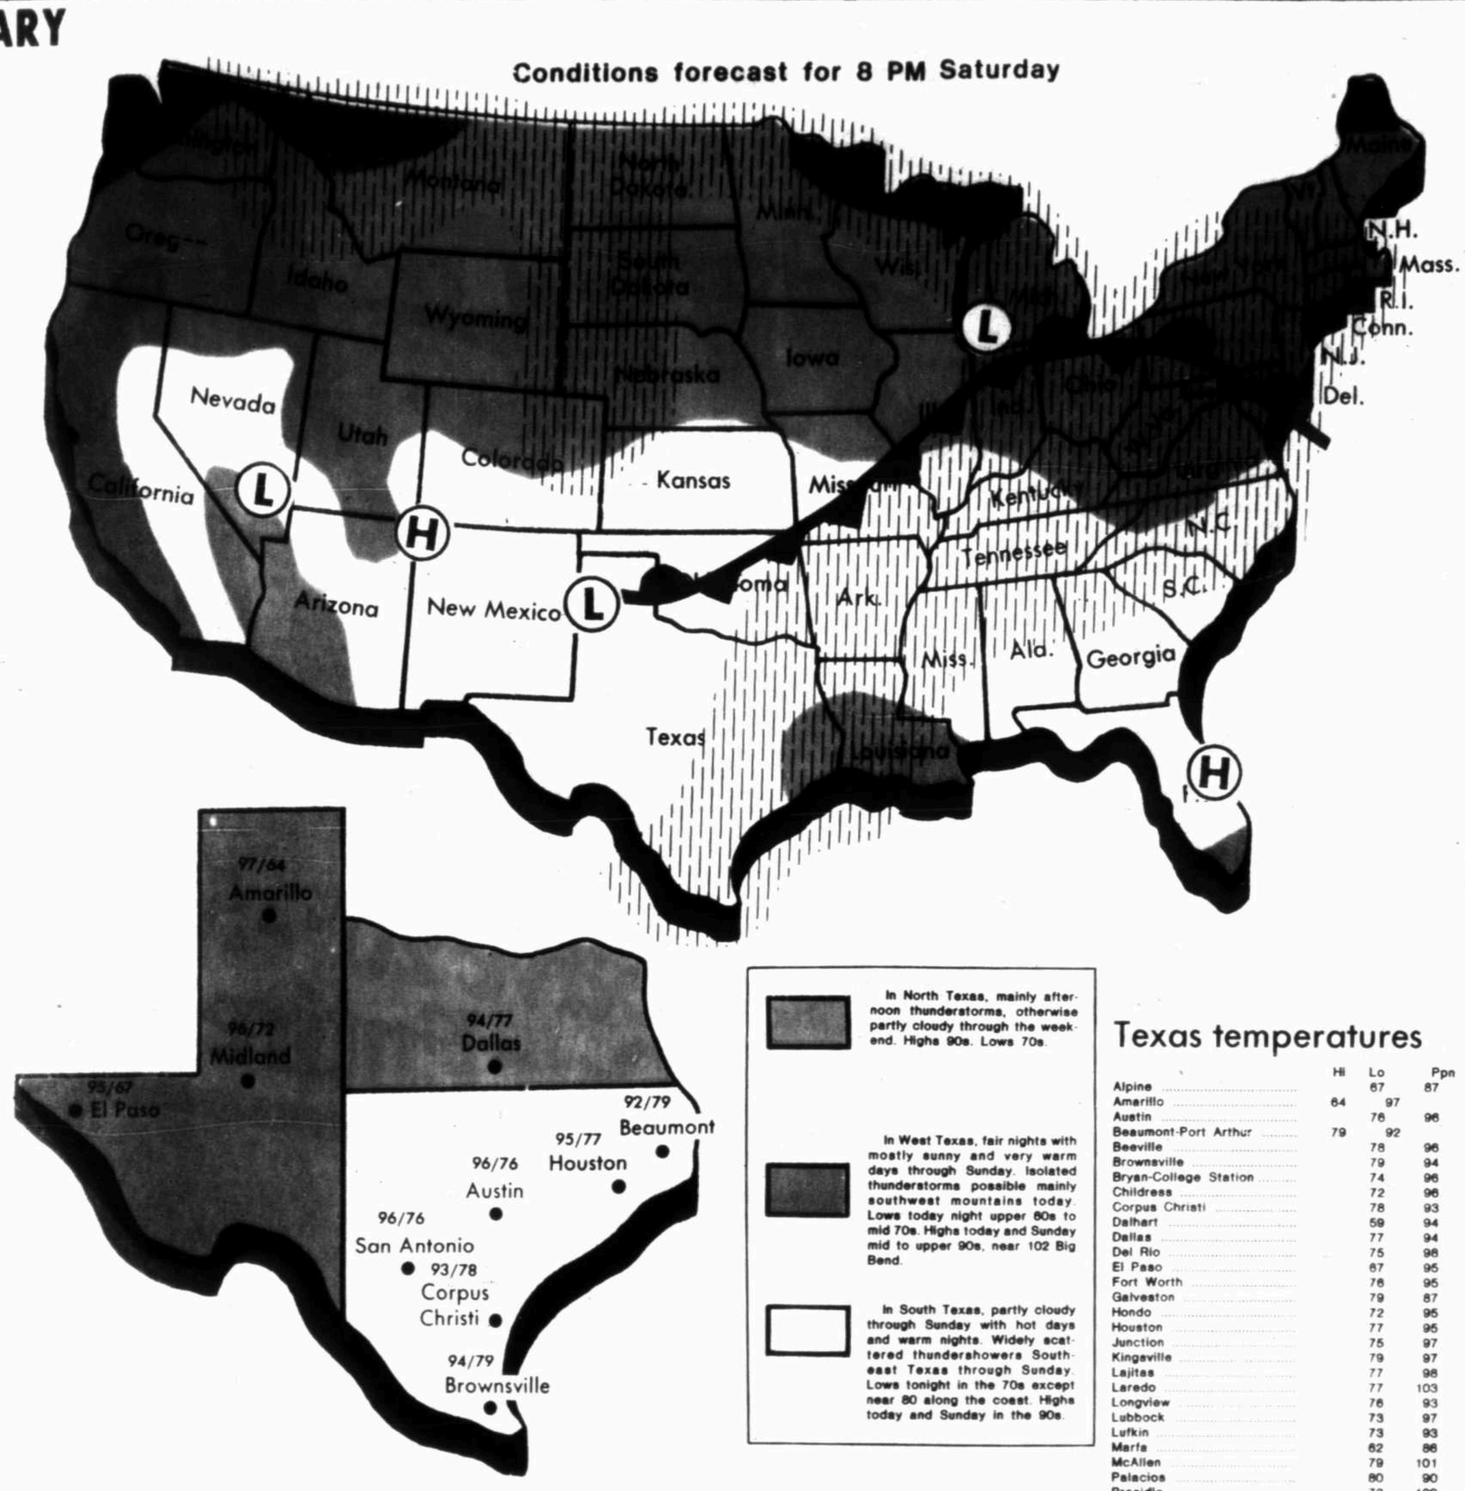
TORNADO or THUNDERSTORM

WATCH — (Conditions are right for a tornado or severe thunderstorm to form.)

WARNING — (A tornado or severe thunderstorm already is in existence.)



Weekend to be warm, sunny

From Staff and Wire Reports

The weekend will be sunny and warm with highs in the upper 90s, reports the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport.

Today will be warm with a high in the upper 90s. Winds will be south at 10 to 20 mph. Tonight will be fair with a low near 70.

Sunday will be sunny with a high in the upper 90s.

Friday's high of 96 degrees was 10 degrees cooler than the record high of 106 degrees set in 1964. The overnight low of 72 degrees was 17 degrees warmer than the record low of 55 degrees set in 1936.

STATE

Scattered showers and thunderstorms lingered over northern sections of North Central Texas Friday as heavy thunderstorms developed over the Gulf of Mexico just southeast of Brownsville

Others developed around Eagle Pass on the Mexico border, and in southeastern Texas, the National Weather Service said.

Elsewhere, skies around the state it was partly to mostly cloudy except in the northern Panhandle where skies were clear.

The forecast called for partly cloudy skies through the weekend with isolated to widely scattered mainly afternoon thunderstorms throughout the state.

NATION

Thunderstorms rumbled over the north-central states Friday, spinning off a tornado in Wisconsin, while temperatures in the Southeast shot past 100 degrees for a fifth day, killing a Georgia woman.

A cold front across the northern Plains helped trigger heavy showers and thunderstorms across eastern South Dakota, where marble-size hail, heavy rain and gusty wind raked Columbia.

A tornado touched down in Madison, Wis., near Dane County Regional Airport, damaging at least one home, but there were no reports of injuries.

Behind the front, Alamosa, Colo., had a record low temperature of 37 degrees, breaking the old mark of 42.

By contrast, the temperature in Columbia, S.C., and Augusta, Ga., reached the century mark for the fifth day in a row, with a reading of 102 in both cities. The heat wave was expected to continue for the next few days.

In Dublin, Ga., a 51-year-old woman collapsed at her home from what appeared to be a heat stroke and died at a hospital. She had no fan or air conditioner.

Today's forecast called for scattered showers and thunderstorms over much of the nation except northern New England, west Texas, the central and southern Rockies, the southern half of the Intermountain region through southern Oregon and California.

Twister swoops through Madison, Wisc.

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A tornado swooped through a residential neighborhood Friday, damaging eight buildings but causing no injuries, a Fire Department officials said.

"We were very, very lucky," fire Lt. Phillip Vorlander said. "If the path had been different it could have been much worse."

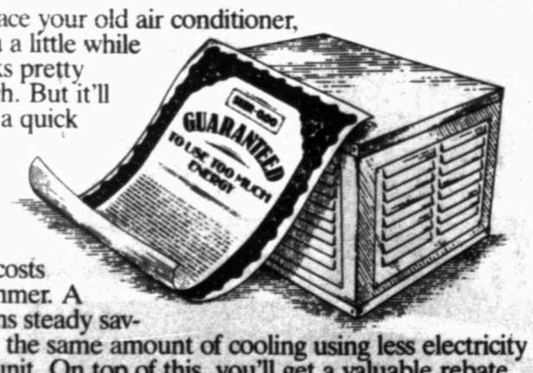
The Dane County emergency management office reported that the twister caused major damage at two homes, light damage at five and damage at two apartments in one building. There was no immediate damage estimate, Vorlander said.

He said a resident told him the storm "kind of whooshed across" the residential area shortly before 5 p.m.

One attached garage was torn loose and deposited in hundreds of pieces across the street.

SOME PEOPLE BUY AIR CONDITIONERS LIKE THERE'S NO TOMORROW.

When it's time to replace your old air conditioner, it'll probably only take you a little while to find a new one that looks pretty good and doesn't cost much. But it'll take a lot longer to realize a quick bargain is likely to cause a slow burn on your wallet every month.



A high-efficiency air conditioner could make a difference in your cooling costs this summer and every summer. A high-efficiency choice means steady savings because you're getting the same amount of cooling using less electricity than with a low-efficiency unit. On top of this, you'll get a valuable rebate from your electric company if your central air conditioner or window unit meets our Energy Action standards.

See your recognized Energy Action air conditioning contractor or dealer for help in choosing a high-efficiency air conditioner or heat pump. Tomorrow, you'll be way ahead of the game.

It pays to choose an Energy Action Unit.

Tovar jars Angels from skids

By BOB BRUNDAGE
Sports Writer

The Midland Angels fought hard against the Shreveport Captains, but, in the end, it was luck and one hit that decided the game, a 7-6 come-from-behind, ninth inning victory for the Midland Friday at Angels Stadium.

Trailing 6-5 in the bottom of the ninth and one already out, Angel Kevin King snapped his 0-for-4 night with a line drive single off the glove of shortstop Angel Escobar.

One out later, James Randall connected for what should have been the game-ending out, a easy grounder to second baseman Todd Thomas. However, Thomas misplayed the ball and, by the time he recovered to make the throw, Randall was on first.

Raul Tovar, the fourth out of the inning, took advantage of the Angels' new life, drilling the Ed Puikunas' first pitch down the right field line to drive in King and Randall to win the game.

Even though Tovar was five feet short of third base when the game ended, he gets credit for a triple because he's allowed as many bases as the winning runner advanced.

"That was certainly what I'd consider a big hit, a well placed hit because their pitching staff is tough," said Angel manager Joe Maddon, whose club has been suffering a lack of offense the past few games. He was happy to see the ball bounce his team's way for a change.

"We've been stranding so many base runners," said Maddon. "In San Antonio we stranded a ton. Maybe a game like this will get us going."

THE NIGHT was filled with close, if not questionable calls.

The Angels went into the bottom of the seventh trailing 6-3 and came within an umpire's call of tying the game.

With one gone, Dante Bichette scored on a Scott Medvin wild pitch that moved Randall to second. Tovar walked and Puikunas was called from the bull pen. After a wild pitch scored Randall for a 6-5 game, Tovar tried for two bases on David Heath's groundout to second base.

Thomas came up with the grounder, threw to Mike Rubel at first to get Heath and Rubel turned and threw to catcher Mackey Sasser, who made the tag as Tovar dived head first into the plate.

Tovar didn't agree with call. Maddon didn't agree with the call and 1,415 Angel fans didn't agree with the call. Maddon argued the point but, as usual, the man in blue wouldn't budge.

"It was a close play," said Maddon. "I didn't know if he (Thomas) would throw to first base or look for a run

Goodwill a $20 million debacle?

ATLANTA (AP) — A financial analyst is predicting that Atlanta-based Turner Broadcasting System Inc. will lose at least $20 million on the Goodwill Games, twice the loss originally projected by TBS Chairman Ted Turner.

"The only good financial news about the Goodwill Games is that they won't happen again for four years," said Lee Wilder, an Atlanta analyst who follows TBS for Robinson Humphrey Co. Inc.

Turner, creator of the Goodwill Games, said during his company's annual meeting in June that TBS would lose about $10 million on the international sports competition, which is being shown on his "superstation" WTBS and some independent television channels around the country.

Ratings for the programming have been far below anticipated levels, and TBS spokesman Arthur Sando confirmed Thursday that the losses would be greater than anticipated, probably more than $15 million.

Pelluer relishes cheerleader role

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — With Gary Hogeboom out of the picture and an enthusiastic Steve Pelluer throwing his full support behind Dallas Cowboy Danny White, the quarterback controversy may be a thing of the past.

"I am going to support Danny White until the cows come home," Pelluer said. "I feel that's my job. Danny and I don't have any real conflicts with each other."

There was friction between White and Hogeboom last year as both vied for the starting quarterback post.

But Hogeboom was traded to Indianapolis in April and if Pelluer holds any aspirations of being the No. 1 quarterback, he isn't hinting at it.

"You've got to understand that my personality is a little bit different from Gary's," Pelluer said. "When it comes to football, I try to do my business on the field because the coaches will make the ultimate decision. So I have to prove to them more than anyone else what my abilities are.

"The way I approach it is that I could be the No. 1 quarterback by the end of the year. Danny could get hurt, or I could beat him out. But why worry about it?" he told the Dallas Times Herald.

THE WHITE-Pelluer relationship is much like the Roger Staubach-White camaraderie of the 1970s, when White was more like a caddie to the top man than a thorn in his side.

The plan this season is to groom Pelluer for White's job making sure White is comfortable as No. 1, Cowboys coaches say.

"The single most important thing this season will be to focus on one leader," passing coordinator Paul Hackett said. "The nature of the game of football is to have one leader. But that doesn't mean that when Pelluer is in there, we won't be a good football team."

John Cox' secret is safe here

When I saw John Cox of the Chicago Cubs front office in the press box before Thursday night's Texas League game between Shreveport and Midland, my first reaction was, "Mon Dieu, they've found him out and sent him back to Midland."

It was too bad, I thought, especially after he had gotten away with it for so many years. You wouldn't think a ball club would do that to someone, especially after he's proven himself a valuable, not to mention amazingly agile, hand, surviving numerous upheavals in organizational management.

At any rate, no one would have found out from this corner. My lips were sealed, at least to any one beyond ear shot.

Cox was general manager of the Midland Cubs back in 1973 and 1974. He was a delight to be with, someone who could sit around all night and swap baseball yarns and trade names and memories of the past.

He wasn't like these Johnny-come-latelies. Mention Pete Coscarat and they do a cartwheel of bewilderment. Name the Chicago Cubs infield of 1936...easy Gabby Hartnett, Phil Cavaretta, Billy Herman, Billy Jurges and Stan Hack. Baseball's only lefthanded hitting infield from bygone American League days, a piece of cake. Sam Jethroe, Rollie Hemsley, Lou Fette, he knew them all...even Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig. You just couldn't fool him.

I never suspected John's secret and it was quite by accident that I discovered it.

IT WAS MY turn to tell one and I didn't even expect the courtesy of an answer when I perfunctorily asked, "Hey, you remember Thurman Tucker...well...."

At first I thought John's, "Thurman who?" was a joke. I laughed. Everybody enjoys a sense of humor, only Cox had no idea who Thurman Tucker was. In fact, he thought I was putting him on.

I couldn't believe it, that some one had never heard of Thurman Tucker.

In an attempt to jog his memory, "You remember, the White Sox, Cleveland outfielder who was the spitting image of Joe E. Brown...." Oh, oh another dead nerve. He didn't know who Joe E. was either.

I tried not to let it make a difference in our friendship, but you know how it is when you find out something like that about someone.

Cox was called up to the Chicago front office in midseason of 1974, obviously no questions asked. At least, not about Thurman Tucker.

Fears that he had been found out were quickly dispelled. "I was over at the Texas League All-Star game for a look at the top players and I'll be here a few days looking, possibly a trade."

WHAT JOHN is looking for is the minor league player (Lew Burdette) as a throw-in for a Johnny Sain-to-the-Yankees type deal.

Don't mention Joe Carter and Mel Hall. Cox immediately bristles. "Hey, the guy we got for them just turned out to be the Cy Young winner, Rick Sutcliffe and we weren't going to get a player like that for nothing."

Of course, the Cubs and John's boss, Dallas Green, were rolling the dice for the big stakes, the National League pennant, when they made that trade. After 40 years of waiting, anything was worth the try. And they came within a game of pulling it off.

THEN LAST year there were all those injuries and, now, this year....

"After we won the division in 1984, that fall the newspapers were upset with us when they discovered we hadn't signed Steve Trout, Sutcliffe and Dennis Eckersley. Now this year, they are wondering why we bothered to sign them."

"When we got Mumphrey and Trillo last winter, everybody praised us for solidifying our bench. Now they say the team is aging...Ron Cey and Gary Matthews are too old.

"It's not the older players that are letting us down. Our club is Ryne Sandberg, Leon Durham, Bob Dernier, Jody Davis, Shawon Dunston, Keith Moreland. They haven't produced like they were expected to. Actually, Cey and Matthews came through for us on the coast and are contributing. Slumps and base running, you probably see better base running right here, have killed us," Cox said.

Cox feels the Cubs still have the ingredients to win, "although not this year, the way the Mets are playing," but the players will have to play up to their capabilities.

Meanwhile, Cox admits it's nice to be in Midland, away from the harpering press, and among old friends.

And since Cox' reputation-soiling admission, it has been discovered that there are quite a few people who look blank when Thurman Tucker is mentioned.

1901 — Cy Young of the Boston Red Sox won his 300th game with a 5-3 victory over the Philadelphia A's.

1949 — Larry Doby of the Cleveland Indians and Jackie Robinson, Roy Campanella and Don Newcombe of the host Brooklyn Dodgers became the first black players to appear in an All-Star Game as the American League took advantage of five National League errors to win 11-7 at Ebbets Field.

1979 — In the most ill-fated promotion in baseball history, thousands of fans overran the Comiskey Park field during "Disco Demolition Night" and caused the Chicago White Sox to forfeit the second game of a doubleheader after losing to Detroit 4-1 in the first.

Thornton too much for Rangers, lose 3rd straight

Associated Press

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Indians are playing their best baseball in nearly two decades, but hot-hitting Andre Thornton says it's too early to tell how much the Indians have improved.

"I don't think we've reached the point where we can say how good we are," Thornton said after driving in three runs with three hits in the Indians' 7-2 victory over the Texas Rangers Friday night.

Cleveland, 46-37 after losing 102 games last season, stands nine games above the .500 mark for the first time this late in the season since 1968. Thornton has helped Cleveland win three straight and 10 of their last 12 games by driving in 16 runs in his last eight games.

Knuckleballer Tom Candiotti went the route for the eighth time this season, yielding eight hits in improving his record to 8-6.

Candiotti, 8-6, struck out five and walked four in his fifth consecutive victory and eighth complete game of the season.

Loser Bobby Witt, 4-8, surrendered six runs, five earned, on three hits and four walks in the first 1 1-3 innings. The Rangers lost their third straight game and fifth in their last six.

The Rangers took a 1-0 lead in the first inning when Scott Fletcher doubled and scored on Gary Ward's single. Cleveland tied it in the bottom of the inning on Thornton's RBI single.

Brook Jacoby and Brett Butler drew lead-off walks to start the Indians' five-run second inning. Cory Snydr singled to load the bases before Chris Bando lined a sacrifice fly to put Cleveland ahead 2-1. After Bernazard walked to reload the bases, Julio Franco rapped a two-run single to knock out Witt in favor of Jeff Russell. After the second out, Thornton lined a two-run double off the top of the left-field fence, giving Cleveland a 6-1 lead.

Mel Hall hit a solo home run, his 16th, in the fifth inning for the Indians' final run before the Angels closed the scoring in the seventh on Pete O'Brien's RBI single.

AL Roundup

Angels 5, Red Sox 0

BOSTON — Reggie Jackson hit a pair of homers, his first since May 14, off Tom Seaver and the California Angels defeated Boston behind the clutch pitching of Kirk McCaskill.

Jackson hit a towering shot into the right-field stands leading off the second inning for his eighth homer of the year and No. 538 of his career.

Then, after the Angels made it 2-0 on Wally Joyner's RBI single in the fifth, Jackson started the fifth by lining a 2-0 pitch into the bleachers beyond the Boston bullpen in right-center for another homer.

It marked the 40th time in his 19-year major league career that Jackson has hit more than one homer in a game.

The Angels added another run in the seventh on Doug DeCinces' RBI double off shortstop Rey Quinones' glove, and completed their scoring with Gary Pettis' RBI single in the eighth.

Royals 4-7, Tigers 3-8

KANSAS CITY — Dave Engle's 11th-inning single over a drawn-in infield scored Kirk Gibson from third as Detroit defeated Kansas City to gain a split of their doubleheader.

In the first game, the Royals rallied for a 4-3 victory on Frank White's two-run homer in the eighth inning and two perfect innings of relief from Steve Farr, 6-1.

Gibson singled off Mark Gubicza, 3-5, to lead off the Tigers' 11th in the nightcap, stole second and moved to third on Alan Trammell's grounder to first.

Yankees 9, Twins 3

MINNEAPOLIS — Rookie Doug Drabek earned his first major league victory and Mike Pagliarulo and Dan Pasqua hit home runs to lead New York to a victory over Minnesota.

Don Mattingly had three doubles, giving him 31 for the season in 87 games, and knocked in two runs as the Yankees won their third straight game and dealt the Twins a third straight loss.

Drabek, 1-2, a 23-year-old right-hander, allowed just one hit over the first 5 ⅔ innings before Randy Bush singled and scored on Kent Hrbek's double to cut the Yankees' lead to 2-1.

Blue Jays 6, A's 5

TORONTO — Damaso Garcia's two-run homer capped a four-run second inning that carried Toronto to a victory over Oakland.

Garcia' homer, which just cleared the left-field foul pole, came on a 3-2 pitch by Oakland starter Jose Rijo, 3-8. It was Garcia's fifth straight hit over two nights.

Joe Johnson, acquired last weekend from the Atlanta Braves for Doyle Alexander, started his first game for Toronto. He lasted into the fifth when he gave up one-out singles to Dwayne Murphy and Jose Canseco with the Blue Jays leading 6-3.

Mark Eichhorn, 7-3, relieved and struck out Bruce Bochte and Dave Kingman to end the threat. Eichhorn gained the victory with last-inning relief help from Tom Henke, who gained his 14th save.

Orioles 4, White Sox 2

CHICAGO — Ken Dixon allowed just five hits and struck out a career-high 13 in 8 ⅔ innings and Cal Ripken drove in two runs with a homer and a single, leading Baltimore past Chicago.

The triumph was the fifth in the last six games for the Orioles, while the White Sox suffered their third straight defeat.

Dixon, 8-7, struck out the side in the third and fifth innings and had six straight strikeouts in one stretch. He left after giving up his fifth hit with two outs in the ninth, and Don Aase gave up an RBI single to Jerry Hairston in the ninth before finishing up for his 23rd save.

Mariners 9, Brewers 3

MILWAUKEE — Danny Tartabull hit a two-run homer, Phil Bradley drove in three runs and John Moses had three hits, three stolen bases and an RBI as Seattle collected 14 hits to beat Milwaukee.

Mike Morgan, 7-8, scattered seven hits and completed his fourth start after rain delayed the start of the game for 90 minutes.

The Seattle victory gave the Mariners' eight wins in their last 12 games and handed the Brewers their sixth consecutive loss.

Phillies not impressed by All Star Scott

Associated Press

HOUSTON (AP) — Von Hayes hit a two-run home run and Don Carman combined with two relievers on a five-hitter in his first major-league start, leading the Philadelphia Phillies to a 4-1 triumph over the Houston Astros Friday night.

Carman, 4-2, pitched five innings and gave up one hit. He struck out three batters and walked one. Tom Hume went two innings, then Steve Bedrosian pitched the last two for his 11th save.

Loser Mike Scott, 9-6, pitched seven innings and gave up three runs and three of the Phillies' five hits. His personal three-game winning streak ended a day after he was named to the National League All-Star team.

Scott struck out nine batters to bring his major-league leading total to 167.

The Phillies took a 1-0 lead in the second when Mike Schmidt walked, went to third on Hayes' single and scored on Glenn Wilson's sacrifice fly.

The Phillies increased their lead to 3-0 in the fifth when Ron Roenicke walked and Hayes hit his fifth home run of the season.

NL Roundup

Cubs 6, Dodgers 3

LOS ANGELES — Gary Matthews hit two homers and drove in four runs to power Chicago over Los Angeles.

Matthews opened the scoring with a run-producing single in the fourth then he hit a two-run homer in the sixth inning to give Chicago a 4-0 lead. In the eighth, after the lead was cut to 4-3, he hit a solo home run, his 10th of the season.

Manny Trillo drove in Chicago's other two runs with a pair of singles.

Chicago starter Scott Sanderson, 4-6, gave up a run over 5 1-3 innings. Lee Smith pitched the last two innings for his 14th save, striking out five batters.

Reds 3, Expos 2

MONTREAL — Bill Gullickson combined with John Franco on a six-hitter in his first appearance against his former Montreal teammates, leading Cincinnati to a victory over the Expos.

Gullickson, 6-6, gave up both runs — only one earned — over his eight innings. He walked one batter and struck out five. Franco got the last three outs for his 14th save.

The Reds, who have won nine of their last 12 games, had only five hits off starter Andy McGaffigan, 5-4, and two relievers. They scored their runs on an error, a groundout and a walk.

Mets 11, Braves 0

NEW YORK — Gary Carter hit a grand slam and a three-run homer and Sid Fernandez pitched a two-hitter as New York routed Atlanta in a game interrupted by a bench-clearing brawl in the first inning.

Carter's seven RBI in the game tied a career high and was one short of a team record. Carter took over the National League lead with 65 RBI and now has 16 home runs.

Fernandez, 12-2, won his seventh straight start and became the NL's top winner. He walked three batters and struck out nine as he threw his first career shutout, in his 59th career start. He did not allow a hit after the third inning.

Carter hit his three-run homer in the first and Braves starter David Palmer hit Darryl Strawberry in the right hip with his next pitch. Strawberry rushed the mound, where Palmer threw his glove at him.

Palmer side-stepped Strawberry and home plate umpire Jerry Crawford pushed the pitcher aside as both benches and bullpens emptied. Order was restored within a few minutes and no one was ejected.

Cardinals 4, Padres 2

SAN DIEGO — Danny Cox combined with Todd Worrell on a five-hitter and St. Louis scored two runs in the fourth inning on a two-out error by Steve Garvey as the Cardinals defeated San Diego.

Garvey mishandled Ozzie Smith's grounder with the bases loaded and the game tied 1-1 in the fourth, capping a three-run rally for the Cardinals.

Cox, 3-7, gave up five hits in 7 1-3 innings, earning his first victory since June 18. He had lost his last two starts.

Worrell retired all five batters he faced, striking out three, for his 14th save.

Niekro's book not kid's stuff

ATLANTA (AP) — Cleveland Indians pitcher Phil Niekro, does not recommend his autobiography "Knuckle Balls" for youngsters because of the language, but his co-author says a disclaimer to that effect could aid the sale of the book.

"Kids are going to see or hear about this warning, which will make them curious enough to go out and buy the book," says Tom Bird.

The book, which became available in bookstores July 1, recounts Niekro's seasons with the New York Yankees in 1984 and 1985 and his long association with the Atlanta Braves.

"There's a lot of four-letter words in the book that I didn't think were necessary to make the book good," the 47-year-old Niekro told The Atlanta Constitution on Thursday in a telephone interview from Cleveland.

Because of the language, Niekro got the publisher to include the disclaimer.

"Phil is responsible for everything in the book," said Larry Freundlich, president of the publishing company.

"But he was embarrassed after he read the final copy, so he asked us to run a disclaimer."

Brett hurt, Brook Jacoby to fill in

NEW YORK (AP) — George Brett, the Kansas City third baseman who was named to his 11th consecutive All-Star Game this week, has been replaced on the American League roster for the July 15th game by Cleveland's Brook Jacoby because of a shoulder injury, the league announced Friday.

Boston Red Sox third baseman Wade Boggs, who was second in voting behind Brett and was named as a reserve to the AL squad earlier Friday, will probably be named to replace Brett in the starting lineup, AL Vice President Bob Fishel said.

Brett has been suffering from strained shoulder ligaments and a strained rotator cuff tendon in his right shoulder since a July 1 game in Seattle.

He finished second behind Baltimore shortstop Cal Ripken in votes for the AL. Ripken received 1,486,806 votes to Brett's 1,257,432. Boggs was third with 1,172,529 ballots.

Brett, who has had one pinch hitting appearance since his injury, was hitting .290 with eight homers and 40 runs batted in through Thursday's games. Boggs has a .370 average with five homers and 43 RBI through Thursday's games.

Jacoby has a .268 average with 10 homers and 48 RBI. His appointment to the squad makes the 15th player among the 28-member AL squad that will be playing in the first All-Star Game.

Jackson, Garvey will stay home

NEW YORK (AP) — The names Steve Garvey and Reggie Jackson usually come up around All-Star time.

But this year, Garvey, an 11-time National League All-Star, and Jackson, a 12-time Star, were not named as reserves Friday for the July 15th classic, despite both just missing being voted to the clubs by the fans.

St. Louis Cardinals Manager Whitey Herzog named Houston's Glenn Davis as the backup first baseman to starter Keith Hernandez of the New York Mets.

Kansas City Manager Dick Howser selected Toronto's Jesse Barfield and Lloyd Moseby, Boston's Jim Rice, Chicago's Harold Baines, and Oakland's Jose Canseco as substitutes for starting outfielders Kirby Puckett of Minnesota and New York Yankees Rickey Henderson and Dave Winfield.

Other reserves named Friday for the NL were outfielders Dave Parker of Cincinnati, Kevin Bass of Houston, Tim Raines of Montreal and Chili Davis of San Francisco. Also chosen were Los Angeles Dodgers second baseman Steve Sax, Montreal shortstop Hubie Brooks, Giants third baseman Chris Brown and Pittsburgh catcher Tony Pena.

The AL reserves include third baseman Wade Boggs and catcher Rich Gedman of Boston, Kansas City second baseman Frank White, Yankees first baseman Don Mattingly, Seattle third baseman Jim Presley and Blue Jays shortstop Tony Fernandez.

Jackson and Garvey could not be reached for comment, but one other player who also was not selected, Boston pitcher Dennis "Oil Can" Boyd, was extremely upset.

Boyd erupted into a rage Thursday night and left Fenway Park before the Red Sox' scheduled game with California when he learned he had been kept off the AL's pitching staff.

"I tried to talk to him. He was not under control. I couldn't calm him down," Boston Manager John McNamara said.

"He didn't want anything to do with anybody. I'm very disappointed with the way he reacted and the fact he left the clubhouse."

The AL selected Baltimore's Don Aase, Boston's Roger Clemens, California's Mike Witt, Cleveland's Ken Schrom, Detroit's Willie Hernandez, Milwaukee's Ted Higuera, Yankees reliever Dave Righetti and Texas knuckleballer Charlie Hough.

Initially, Hernandez said he would skip the All-Star Game to give his sore shoulder time to rest, but later seemed to change his mind.

"My arm is getting better," Hernandez said Friday morning in a telephone interview from his hotel room. "With last night's rainout, it got more rest. I'm thinking I'll be OK for the All-Star game. I'll probably change my mind and go."

But Garvey, who is hitting .237 with 13 homers and 37 RBI, and Jackson, batting .282 with seven homers and 31 RBI, do not have a choice.

Garvey was second to Hernandez in fan voting for the NL, finishing under 138,000 votes behind the Mets Gold Glove first baseman, who received 995,279. Puckett edged out Jackson, who finished fourth in fan voting, by 17,000 ballots.

Garvey was the first player to receive more than four million votes, reaching that milestone in 1977, and was the first starter ever selected by write-in, 1974.

Those who did make the squad, particularly first timers, were elated.

"For a day, I'm going to enjoy it," said San Francisco's Mike Krukow, named to the NL pitching staff Thursday night. "I don't know if I'll pitch or sit on the bench, but whatever happens, I'll enjoy it."

"I'm thrilled. It's quite an honor," said Philadelphia Phillies left-hander Shane Rawley. "To be picked is something you dream about."

Krukow and Rawley will be joined by Cincinnati's John Franco, Houston's Mike Scott and Dave Smith, Los Angeles' Fernando Valenzuela, Montreal's Jeff Reardon, Rick Rhoden of Pittsburgh and New York Mets Sid Fernandez and Dwight Gooden, the expected starter.

Starters will be Mets catcher Gary Carter, Chicago second baseman Ryne Sandberg, Phillies third baseman Mike Schmidt, Ozzie Smith of St. Louis at shortstop, and Darryl Strawberry of the Mets, Atlanta's Dale Murphy and San Diego's Tony Gwynn in the outfield.

The remainder of the American League starting lineup will be Angels first baseman Wally Joyner, Lou Whitaker of the Tigers at second, Kansas City third baseman George Brett and Baltimore shortstop Cal Ripken.

Miffed Oil Can suspended, fined

BOSTON (AP) — Dennis "Oil Can" Boyd, the Boston Red Sox emotional right-hander, was suspended without pay for three days Friday for walking out on the club in anger over being bypassed for the American League all-star team.

"He will not be back in uniform until he meets with us and apologizes to his teammates," Red Sox general manager Lou Gorman said in announcing the suspension.

Boyd, who has an 11-6 record, went into a tirade in the clubhouse before a game with California Thursday night after learning that he had not been picked by Kansas City Manager Dick Howser as one of eight AL pitchers for Tuesday's All-Star Game at Houston.

Boyd cursed just about everybody in sight, threw clothing around as he took off his uniform and left the ballpark.

Boyd was fined a day's pay, about $1,600, when he failed to report for a game last August.

With a bigger contract this year, he was fined another day's pay, $2,150, for reporting late to the last Red Sox exhibition game of spring training on April 5.

Sills' return to PGA well worth the wait

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — Tony Sills, playing his first tournament in five weeks, shot a 6-under-par 65 Friday for a share of the lead with Jodie Mudd after two rounds of the $500,000 Anheuser-Busch Golf Classic.

Sills, who finished second at Phoenix in January and third at Pebble Beach a week later, needed only 24 putts in his round to move to a 7-under 135 total on the 6,776-yard Kingsmill Golf Club course.

Sills returned to the PGA Tour this week after spending some time in Los Angeles with his father, who is ill.

"If I could play real good, that will make him feel better, so that gives me incentive," said Sills, who shot a 70 Thursday.

Mudd, whose opening-round 65 tied him with rookie Adrian Stills for the early lead, carded a 70 Friday.

"It's not the kind of day I had yesterday, but I'm making progress," said Mudd, a five-year Tour veteran looking for his first victory.

"I'm very surprised," Mudd said. "I thought 9- or 10-under would be leading by now. But with this hot weather out there, it's tough. Some players can get worn out."

Stills, at 28 the youngest of the black golfers on the Tour, was 8-under after seven holes Friday, but recorded back-to-back bogeys on Nos. 8 and 9 and finished with an even-par 71 for a share of second place one shot behind the leaders.

Tied with Stills were Mark O'Meara, Mark Hayes and Tony DeLuca. O'Meara tied a course record with a 63, a feat matched in 1984 by Wayne Levi, Willie Wood and Ronnie Black.

"To be truthful, this is not one of my favorite golf courses," O'Meara said. "But if I could shoot two more 63s, I'd love this course."

Hal Sutton and Roger Maltbie shot 67s to move to 5-under for the tournament. They were joined at that figure by Tim Simpson, Scott Hoch, Gene Sauers and Kenny Knox.

Mark Wiebe, John Mahaffey and Joey Sindelar — who finished first, second and third here last year — were all 4-under after Friday's play.

Also in the group at 138 were Fuzzy Zoeller, Craig Stadler, Denis Watson, Russ Cochran, Richard Zokol, Denny Hepler, Rick Fehr and Bill Bergin.

The cut was established at even-par 142, qualifying 70 of the 156 players for weekend competition. Among those who missed the cut was host pro Curtis Strange, who makes his home at Kingsmill and has yet to win the event.

O'Meara, starting on the par-35 back nine, birdied the 12th, 13th, 15th, 17th and 18th holes to make the turn in 30, then added birdies on Nos. 1, 5 and 7.

Hayes, who opened with a 71, put together a five-birdie, one-eagle, one-bogey round for a 65 Friday.

Dickinson shares lead in Women's U.S. Open

KETTERING, Ohio (AP) — Judy Dickinson finished with two birdies and an eagle to gain a share of the second-round lead Friday with Betsy King in the 41st Women's U.S. Open Golf Championship.

Dickinson and King, the current Ladies British Open champion, each completed two trips over the rain-soaked 6,243-yard NCR Country Club course in at 1-under-par 143.

King, who birdied two of the last three holes, and Dickinson each shot a 71 in muggy heat that produced a brief afternoon thunderstorm.

"I'm voting for rain delays," said Dickinson, whose birdie, birdie, eagle string came shortly after the delay. A day earlier, she came back from another storm delay to chip in for birdie on the 17th, then birdie the 18th.

Dickinson, a runner-up in this tournament a year ago, and King shared a one stroke advantage over Amy Alcott, who birdied five times in a stretch of six holes on the back nine.

One over par for the day after nine holes and four over for the tournament, "I just told myself, 'eat nails'," said Alcott, whose back-nine exploits got her in with a 69 and a 144 total, even par.

Alcott's old foe, Hollis Stacy, led a group another stroke back at 145.

"We go back a long way, back to the juniors in 1969. We seem to bring out the best in each other," said Stacy, a three-time winner of this title after she had matched par 72.

She was tied at one over par with Sherri Turner, Deb Richard, Sally Little and Japanese Ayako Okamoto, a regular on the American LPGA Tour for the last four seasons.

Okamoto closed up with a 69 that included bogeys on the last two holes. Richard also had a 69. Little shot 72 and Turner 73.

Defending champion Kathy Baker and first-round leader Beth Daniel were in a group at 146. Baker had a 72 and Daniel slipped to 76.

Pat Bradley, the LPGA's leading money-winner who needs a victory here to keep alive her hopes of a one-year sweep of all the ladies' Grand Slam tournaments, improved to a 71 and was four strokes off the pace at 147.

King was one over for the day — and the tournament — until she holed a 20-foot downhill birdie putt on the 16th hole, then hit a wedge to within three feet for a birdie on the 17th.

Dickinson was well back until the rains came.

After the storm passed, she hit a wedge from the rough to within five feet of the flag for a birdie on the 10th, ran in a 15-foot putt on the 11th and then pitched in from about 30 feet for eagle-3 on the 12th.

Alcott would have had a share of the lead but for an 18th hole bogey from a bunker. But she was far from disappointed.

"Three under par was my goal for the day. I was thinking the number. And I accomplished it," she said.

Belgian wins 8th Tour leg

NANTES, France (AP) — Belgian Eddy Planckaert sprinted ahead of teammate Eric Vanderaerden to win the eighth stage of the Tour de France on Friday, but Jorgen Pederson of Denmark remained the overall leader.

The 204-kilometer (127-mile) trek from Saint-Hilaire-du-Harcouet to Nantes saw some of the fastest riding to date, with speeds averaging nearly 44 kilometers (27 miles) per hour.

As the riders neared Nantes, 12 of them attempted to break ahead, including American Andrew Hampsten, Adrie Van der Poel of the Netherlands, Italian Silvano Contini and France's Bruno Cornillet.

Contini appeared to be headed toward victory, but at 800 meters (875 yards) Panasonic teammates Planckaert and Vanderaerden overcame him, with Planckaert finishing first.

All riders were credited with the same finishing time — 4 hours, 39 minutes, 55 seconds — with the lead pack of 173 cyclists crossing the line almost simultaneously. Their finishing order is judged from film at finish line, and they are given different positions.

The ninth stage of the race on Saturday is an against-the-clock individual course of 61.5 kilometers (38 miles) expected to change the overall standings dramatically.

U.S. Boxers rising above politics

By LARRY SIDDONS

Goodwill Games

MOSCOW (AP) — Michael Bent and Arthur Johnson scored opening-match victories to give America's politically wracked boxing team a boost, but the U.S. women's volleyball team was defeated by the Soviet Union Friday at the Goodwill Games.

One of eight last-minute substitutes for the U.S. boxers, flyweight Juan Acevedo, lost to North Korea's Gvanho Chon less than 24 hours after arriving in Moscow from New York and said jet lag had almost as much to do with his loss as the Korean's fists.

Bent, the U.S. national champion heavyweight, outpointed Bulgaria's Svilen Rusinov 3-2, while Johnson, the national flyweight champ, took a unanimous decision over Hungary's Janos Varadi.

On the volleyball court, the powerful serves of Julija Salcevich helped the Soviets to a 15-12, 11-15, 15-4, 15-4 victory over the U.S., silver medalists in the 1984 Olympics.

The lone remaining member of that squad, Paula Weishoff, had to leave the match late in the first set with an ankle injury.

That typified the kind of day it was for the Americans at the international sports festival.

For the first time in the first eight days, an American failed to win a gold medal. In fact, the U.S. medal haul for the day totaled just one.

Soviet athletes, however, had no such problems.

They won two golds — Nikolai Brozhzhin in the men's three-meter springboard diving, edging former U.S. collegiate platform champion Kent Ferguson — and Viktor Manakov, in the men's 50-kilometer individual cycling points race.

Britain won its first medal of the games, and it was gold, with Sally Hodge taking the women's 20-kilometer individual points race.

The day's other gold medal went to Lutz Hesslich of East Germany, who defeated teammate Mikhael Hubner 2-0 in men's sprint cycling.

That event saw U.S. Olympic champion Mark Gorski beaten twice — by Hubner in the semifinals and by Australia's Gary Neiwand for the bronze medal.

After eight days, the Soviets had compiled 45 gold medals and 125 overall. The United States was second, with 31 golds among 88 medals, while East Germany was third with seven gold medals and a total of 20.

Moscow suffered through a second consecutive day of rain and high winds, and similar weather at Tallin on the gulf of Finland forced officials to postpone the opening ceremonies in yachting. The ceremony was reset for Monday, two days after the scheduled first race.

And the games themselves encountered more bad financial weather.

A financial analyst in Atlanta, Lee Wilder, predicted that Turner Broadcasting System, which is co-promoting the games with the Soviet sports ministry, would lose $20 million on the event, twice the loss Turner, TBS president, projected just last month.

"The only good financial news about the Goodwill games is that they won't happen again for four years," Wilder said.

Arthur Sando of TBS said losses were now projected at $15 million.

Turner said he was not worried, and that the event's contribution to world peace overshadows financial considerations

Political and commercial considerations led the U.S. Defense Department last week to ban nine boxers — one marine and eight soldiers — from competing in the Goodwill games, and late substitutions had to be found.

Acevedo was the latest, being picked after the majority of the squad was already in Moscow. He arrived Thursday, got in some practice, then went to the Olympic indoor stadium for the night's first match. Chon beat him 5-0.

"The jet lag was still getting to me," Acevedo said. "I feel I could have otherwise done better."

Soviet and American boxing officials criticized the Pentagon decision again Friday, but the U.S. boxers themselves said it may wind up helping them.

"That took a little bit out of us, but now we are fired up," Johnson said.

The volleyball battle between the U.S. and Soviets was controlled by the Soviets, and especially by Salcevich's left-handed serve.

The Americans 11-9 when Weishoff was injured. The Americans rallied to tie it, 12-12, but the Soviets then scored the last three points for the set.

In the second set, the U.S. fared better holding serve and fending off Salcevich's blasts, but in the third set the Soviets sped to a 14-3 lead and were never in trouble.

They split the first six points of the final set before the Soviets rolled off four in a row and never again trailed.

Taras Liskevyich, the American coach, said the Soviets are "a very good team — but not one we can't beat in the future. They are very well coached. They have played with the best in the world."

The Soviets will play Peru for the gold medal Saturday.

COLLEGE BASKETBALL

INDIANAPOLIS — Indianapolis has been selected to host the finals of the 1991 NCAA Division I men's basketball tournament and Minneapolis has been awarded the event for 1992, officials said Friday.

The decisions, which are subject to formal approval by the full NCAA board at its Aug. 11-12 meeting, were announced by the NCAA tournament selection committee at simultaneous news conferences in the two cities.

It was the second time in three years that the selection committee has made a double decision. In 1984 it awarded Seattle the 1989 finals with Denver receiving the Final Four for 1990.

The Final Four semifinals and finals will be played in domed facilities both years. Indianapolis will use the 2-year-old Hoosier Dome, which can seat as many as 67,000 for basketball.

PEORIA, Ill. — Bradley University is not likely to appeal a reported one-year ban from NCAA tournament play, school officials say.

"I haven't been told officially that we are not appealing, but I've been told all along we probably wouldn't," sports information director Joe Dalfanso said Thursday.

FOOTBALL

SUWANEE, Ga. — Former Pro Bowl running back William Andrews of the Atlanta Falcons, who has not played in two years because of a knee injury, has been cleared to participate in full-contact drills when the NFL club opens training camp next week.

Team physician Dr. John Garrett, who gave his approval Thursday, said he sees no major obstacles to full physical contact for Andrews, who will report with the rookies when they open practice Wednesday.

HORSE RACING

INGLEWOOD, Calif. — Snow Chief, winner of the Preakness and Jersey Derby, will not race again this year because of a bone chip in his right knee, Jim Peden, a spokesman for Hollywood Park said Friday.

Peden said the injury was disclosed by X-rays following Snow Chief's third-place finish last Saturday in the Silver Screen at Hollywood Park and that an operation would be performed.

Psychiatrists worry too, that service is less valued

By ROBERT FURLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Psychiatrists have worries, too, including concerns about income and job status, two doctors say in a new study.

In fact, "psychiatrists in recent years have felt besieged," Drs. Boris Astrachan and Steven S. Sharfstein write in the July issue of the American Journal of Psychiatry.

Their psychiatric colleagues, the two men say, "have perceived that the services they provide are less valued and less well-reimbursed than those of other medical professionals."

In addition:

— "They have expressed concern over the decrease in psychiatry's attractiveness to medical students.

— "They have been preoccupied with evident bias in governmental and commercial insurance and have mobilized to resist attempts to further restrict psychiatric coverage.

— "They have been exhorted to reexamine their practices and to market their services."

But things aren't really so bad, concluded the authors, who are from the Connecticut Mental Health Center in New Haven.

They cited 1982 figures from the American Medical Association and a survey by the 30,000-member American Psychiatric Association — the most recent comparable numbers — showing that American psychiatrists that year had a mean gross income of $85,500 each, mean income of $76,500 after expenses and a mean net hourly income of $34.05.

The net yearly income figure was up 200 percent in ten years.

To be sure, radiologists, anesthesiologists and surgeons did better, making $130,000 to $140,000 each, with mean hourly incomes ranging from $46.35 for anesthesiologists up to $48.80 for surgeons.

Roman Catholics, Anglicans debate ordination of women

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP) — The decorous tone and polished phrasing befit a thoughtful sitting-room conversation between knowledgeable churchmen. But they dealt from power about a volatile subject, with high stakes on both sides.

The extraordinary result was a determination for joint Roman Catholic-Anglican discussion of smoldering differences over ordination of women.

Participants in the direct, candid overtures about it were the highest officers of Roman Catholicism — Pope John Paul II — and of the world-wide Anglican Communion — the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Most Rev. Robert Runcie.

Their courteous, forthright and probing talk about their growing solidarity in face of a looming snarl over ordaining of women by some Anglican branches, took place in a series of letters made public last week.

"My dear brother," the head of Roman Catholicism's 800 million called the spiritual leader of 70 million Anglicans, including U.S. Episcopalians.

"God's very call to us to be one also bids us face frankly the differences which still separate us," John Paul wrote.

Runcie, replying in the "same spirit of brotherly love," said their frank exchange on such a controversial subject was a "sign of both the seriousness and maturity" of their churches' commitment to reunion.

Because of mutual responsibility to that cause and the gravity of the women's issue, Runcie wrote, "there is a special obligation to tackle" it together.

His proposal for joint dialogue about women's ordination, a topic the pope once ordered closed in his own church, provided the key outcome of the letters: The issue would, indeed, be mutually examined.

Assurance of consideration of it came in letters both from the pope and from the head of the Vatican's Secretariat for Promoting Christian Unity, Cardinal Johannes Willebrands, who was drawn into the correspondence.

"This topic will, of course, continue to be a matter of discussion," Willebrands wrote to Runcie, adding:

"In the context of the Anglican-Roman Catholic dialogue, the most immediate question will be about how the ordination of women in some parts of the Anglican communion affects progress toward fuller communion between us."

Five of the 28 national branches of Anglicanism now authorize ordination of women - in the U.S. Epicopal Church and in Canada, New Zealand, Hong Kong and Uganda.

It is under debate in other Anglican branches, including the "mother" Church of England. The pope and his predecessor, Paul VI, have said a firm "no" to such ordinations, but surveys show half U.S. Catholics approve.

The unusually open discussion of it in the letters among John Paul, Runcie and Willebrands between last December and June came as representatives of the two churches achieved growing accords on most other matters.

John Paul reaffirmed, "with all brotherly frankness," that Catholicism would adhere to its practice of not ordaining women, but the joint Anglican-Catholic commission should "study all that hinders" reunited ministries.

He said the increase of women's ordination in Anglican branches is "an increasingly serious obstacle" to continuing progress toward unity.

Runcie agreed that ordaining women is a "divisive matter not only between our churches but also within them."

He detailed the Anglican case for them in his letter to Willebrands who in reply offered the Catholic case against them.

It amounted to a "mini-dialgogue on the question," commented the Episcopal Church's Presiding Bishop Edmond Lee Browning, noting that both sides based their cases on "serious doctrinal reasons," not cultural trends.

Runcie said some Anglicans were convinced not only that there are no "fundamental objections" to ordaining women in Scripture or tradition, but that substantial doctrinal reasons "actually require it."

He said both Anglican and Roman Catholic doctrine holds that the humanity taken on by Christ and which became "the risen and ascended humanity of the Lord of all creation must be a humanity inclusive of women" for them to share redemption.

Consequently, Runcie adds, some Anglicans point up the "representative nature" of the priesthood and its "special sacramental relationship with Christ as High Priest in whom complete humanity is redeemed."

Because that "includes male and female, it is thus urged that the ministerial priesthood should now be open to women in order the more perfectly to represent Christ's inclusive High Priesthood," Runcie said.

Willebrands cites an "unbroken tradition" of ordaining only men as a standard set by "the practice of Christ and the apostles" from which the church could not deviate.

RELIGION IN BRIEF

United Methodist Women challenge mission hopefuls

Plans are underway for the 1986 Mission Education Events scheduled July 18-20 and July 21-23 at South Plains College in Levelland. The Mission Education Events are sponsored by the Northwest Texas Conference United Methodist Women of the United Methodist Church. Edith Johnson of Levelland will handle local arrangements.

The purpose of Events is to emphasize the global mission of the church and challenge persons through studies to missionary outreach, Christian social action and spiritual growth. The weekend Event will open with registration at 4 p.m. Friday, July 18, and close at 3 p.m. Sunday. The weekday Event will open with regirstration beginning at 8:30 a.m. Monday, July 21 and close at 3 p.m. July 23.

General theme this year will be God's Creation — Human Responsibility, with focus on three study themes: Technology in Tension with Human Values; Suffering and the Christian Community of Faith; and Crossroads in Southern Asia. The study group leaders are the Rev. Steven F. Campbell of Booker; Dr. J. Brendonly Douglas of Kerrville; Faye Nabours Matthews of Lubbock; Sharon Spurlin of Berryville, Ark.; and Marjorie Burns. Mission studies for elementary-age children will be taught and coordinated by the Rev. Jo Carr, Pastor of Christ United Methodist Church (located directly across from the college.) Child care also will be available at Christ Church.

Participants attending the weekend Event will worship at Christ Church as a group on Sunday morning.

United Methodist Women and mission leaders from the 243 area churches within the bounds of the Northwest Texas Conference are expected to attend. The Northwest Texas Conference spans a geographic area that includes the Texas Panhandle and the South Plains, extending south to Midland, east to Abilene, and north through Vernon to the Oklahoma line.

For more information contact Margie Raye Titus at 684-8974.

Religious freedon upheld

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill has been introduced in the House of Representatives that would impose federal criminal penalties for damage to religious properties or those who obstruct by force or threats the free exercise of religion.

Rep. Dan Glickman, D-Kan., who introduced the bill on behalf of himself and 31 co-sponors representing diverse political and religious interests, said:

"In spite of our nation's wilingness to accept and embrace various religions and forms of worship, there remains a minority within our population who see fit to vandalize and destroy religious property and...to jeopardize the freedom of others to safely practice their religious beliefs."

Terrorism to be probed

NEW YORK (AP) — The Synagogue Council of America, representing all three wings of Judaism, has agreed on consultations with the Lutheran World Federation on such current issues as terrorism, nuclear disarmament, emerging new anti-Semistism in Germany, Soviet Jews, Jews in Arab lands and mutual concerns regarding world poverty.

Coalition backs Catholics

NEW YORK (AP) — A broad religious coalition, ranging from Baptists to Mormons, have filed a friend-of-court brief backing the Roman Catholic Church against a federal suit seeking to revoke the church's tax exemption.

The suit, pressed by Abortion Rights Mobilization, a New York organization, claims the church violated Internal Revenue Service rules for tax-exempt organizations by campaign activity based on church opposition to abortion.

An appeals court, which heard arguments last week, has yet to rule on a district court's contempt citation and heavy fines imposed on the church for refusing to supply extensive records sought in the suit.

Among those joining in the friend-of-court brief were the National Council of Churches, including most major Protestant and Eastern Orthodox denominations, and these other organizations:

RELIGION

A pastor's pride

The Rev. H. Edwin Young says "I hope God is honored by it," of his new Second Baptist Church in Houston. The 350,000-square-foot complex seats 10,000 people and includes four racquetball courts, two basketball courts, jogging trail, movie theater, fitness room, whirlpools, television studio, restaurant, and walnut-paneled hall for senior citizens. It cost $34 million to build, more than the Astrodome.

Contribution to religious causes rose to nearly twice inflation rate

NEW YORK (AP) — American giving to religious causes rose to $37.7 billion last year, up 6.5 percent or nearly twice the inflation rate. But giving to other philanthropic causes increased even more.

The figures were part of the annual report, "Giving USA," compiled by the American Association of Fund-Raising Counsel.

"The spirit of giving is alive and well and comes across loud and clear," says the association's chairman, Robert L. Thompson. "It is one of the remarkable characteristics that sets this country apart from every other country in the world."

Altogether, the report estimates Americans contributed $79.84 billion to philanthropic causes in 1985, up 8.9 percent from the year before, far outdistancing the annual 3.7 percent inflation.

Although religious contributions lagged behind the general gain in giving, the religious total surpassed that in any of five other fields. It was triple the $11.25 billion given the second largest recipient, health and hospitals.

Overall, the $37.7 billion given to religion amounted to 47.3 percent of all U.S. giving, about half of it, in keeping with a steady pattern of a predominant share of giving going to religion.

However, the report notes a recent study by Council on Foundations found that religious bodies themselves give away about 27 percent of what they receive in grants to various human welfare projects.

Among them were help to the aged, the handicapped, blacks, Hispanics, American Indians, Asian Americans, providing food, refugee aid, day-care, youth programs, education, disaster relief and work for human rights.

The council said religious bodies give more than twice as much to such causes as corporations or foundations.

While religious denominations put a substantial part of their receipts into the various uplift work, the report notes that this isn't so of another growing recipient of religious gifts — TV evangelists. The report says:

"While the lion's share of contributions to TV evangelists go to pay (TV) expenses connected with reaching their audiences, church groups spend a considerable portion of their receipts on social service work."

Nevertheless, religious giving in recent years has been "substantially boosted" by contributions to TV evangelists, the so-called "electronic church," the report says.

It adds that contrary to fears, such giving has not subtracted from church support — as concluded in a recent broad study by the Annenberg Communications Center at the University of Pennsylvania.

Americans urged to recommit selves to Liberty ideals

NEW YORK (AP) — On occasion of the centennial of the Statue of Liberty, church leaders urged Americans to recommit themselves to the "compassionate and unifying" ideals it represents.

The special appeal came from Bishop Philip R. Cousin, president of the National Council of Churches, representing most major Protestant and Eastern Orthodox churches, and the Rev. Arie Brouwer, its general secretary.

They said the statue from the start bespoke the promise of the blessings of liberty," but "the promise as not always honored" for immigrants, blacks, native Americans and "the tired and poor within our own borders."

Advising confession of "our failures" to live up to the ideals, the church leaders said "only through such confession can we all be free to rededicate ourselves to the struggles for liberty," adding:

"Let us, in the churches across our land, pray not only that the light of liberty may never be extinguished, but that ... it may burn ever more brightly until all our citizens are free to walk in its light ... remembering the words of our Lord, 'As you did it to one of the least of these, you did it to me.'"

Mennonite, Amish farmers battle officials over new state sewer law

Los Angeles Times-
Washington Post News Service

LEONARDTOWN, Md. — The Old Order Mennonite and Amish farmers of St. Mary's County are battling with county officials over whether the farmers should be forced to change their traditions to comply with a new state sewer regulation.

The dispute, they say, could force them to move to another state after nearly 50 years in Southern Maryland.

The state regulation banning the farmers' traditional privies in new construction and requiring indoor plumbing and a modern sewage-disposal system violates both their religion and common sense, leaders of the Amish and Old Order Mennonites said.

"Some are shopping around for new areas," said David Stauffer, 60, deacon of the Mennonites, who occupy several farms near this county seat. "Some have been through Kentucky, looking around. The scripture tells us, if you're persecuted in one city, you shall flee into another."

The regulation, which was set in November, was invoked by county health officials in stopping construction this spring of a one-room schoolhouse for 30 students that the Mennonites began building earlier in the year.

Community elders stressed that the regulation would ban construction of new houses with outhouses, which the elders say will severely affect the next generation.

Without the ability to build new houses, they explained, they must move on.

Dr. William Marek, the county's health officer, expressed disappointment at the conflict but said officials must abide by the law.

"We feel they're a great asset to our community, and we want to work with them, with their lifestyle," Marek said. "But we don't want to give up the public-health aspects. Our protection is prevention."

Health officials contend that privies allow viruses and bacteria to spread through the soil to wells and to ground water, and that they constitute a threat to public health. Officials require flush toilets, with sewage pumped to an outside septic system, where the waste is filtered before spreading.

The Amish and Mennonites say their system has worked well for generations, without any measurable impact on their health. They add that flush toilets often require electric water pumps, which would be costly and would violate their prohibition against the use of electric current.

There have been no requests for housing permits from the Amish or Old Order Mennonites since the regulation was set last fall.

"In the past, we've had one or two Amish home applications a year," said Tom Russell of the county housing department. "We can't resolve the philosophical difference, but the question will keep coming up again and again and again."

"So far we've been able to build," said Amish leader Jacob Swarey. If not, he indicated, there is always the possibility of a mass migration to a less-regulated jurisdication.

"Traditions are very important," said state Assistant Attorney General Marc Cohen, arguing for enforcing the health code. "People's piety and religion are of utmost concern to this nation, but to the extent they conflict with society's goal of protecting public health, they must be set aside, and all citizens must comply with the law, equally and fairly."

A possible compromise on the school issue emerged Wednesday during a four-hour appeals hearing.

The Mennonites agreed to line the school privy with concrete so that it could be considered a holding tank and pumped periodically. The regulations allow exceptions for essential public buildings on a case-by-case basis.

Arthur Cohen, chief hearing examiner for the state Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, said he would make a recommendation in the next few weeks to the department secretary, who makes the final decision.

"This appeal has to do with more than one school," said Jim Weber, chief of the county's planning and zoning office.

The Old Order Mennonite and Amish share a horse-and-buggy culture and dress identically, although Amish men wear beards and Mennonites do not.

The Newspaper BIBLE

WHAT'S THE WORLD COMING TO?

Heaven and earth will disappear, but My words remain forever. But no one knows the date and hour when the end will be - not even the angels. No, nor even God's Son. Only the Father knows. (Matthew 24:35-36)

And God has commanded that the earth and heavens will be stored away for a great bonfire at the judgment day, when all ungodly men will perish. But don't forget this, dear friends, that a day or a thousand years from now is like tomorrow to the Lord. He isn't really being slow about His promised return, even though it sometimes seems that way. But He is waiting, for the good reason that He is not willing that any should perish, and He is giving more time for sinners to repent. The day of the Lord is surely coming, as unexpectedly as a thief, and then the heavens will pass away with a terrible noise and the heavenly bodies will disappear in fire, and the earth and everything on it will be burned up. And so since everything around us is going to melt away, what holy, godly lives we should be living! You should look forward to that day and hurry it along - the day when God will set the heavens on fire, and the heavenly bodies will melt and disappear in flames. But we are looking forward to God's promise of new heavens and a new earth afterwards, where there will be only goodness. (2 Peter 3:7-13)

Then I saw a new earth (with no oceans!) and a new sky, for the present earth and sky had disappeared. (Rev. 21:1)

Mexican army places Juarez under 'undeclared martial law'

CIUDAD JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — This border city has been placed under "undeclared martial law" after Mexican army soldiers took over the police department amid mounting political tension, the acting mayor of Juarez said Friday.

Meanwhile, the U.S. consul general warned American tourists visiting Juarez, just across the Rio Grande from El Paso, Texas, to be cautious, especially this weekend, when official results from last Sunday's state elections are to be announced.

City Council members early Friday afternoon were shown a crushed ballot box, stacks of torn ballots and other electoral documents stamped with what appeared to be the seal of the State Electoral Commission that purportedly were found in the trash.

"We are under a state of siege, an undeclared martial law. This is unconstitutional," said acting Juarez Mayor Miguel Agustin Corral. "These are totally arbitrary measures. This is a very questionable situation for the Mexican federal government that in times of peace, armed soldiers are patrolling the streets of a peaceful city."

Mexican army soldiers took over the city police department at about 1 a.m. MDT Thursday "at bayonet point," said city manager Sergio Conde Varela.

The conservative opposition National Action Party, or PAN, has accused the ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party (PRI) of massive government-instituted fraud in last Sunday's elections for a governor of the state of Chihuahua, 67 mayorships and 14 legislative seats.

A crushed ballot box and a stack of documents, including stamped ballots and a request by a PAN representative for copies of vote tallies, were shown to city council members.

Libyan forces to launch missiles during maneuvers in Gulf of Sidra

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) — Col. Moammar Gadhafi's armed forces will launch missiles in maneuvers to begin Sunday in the Gulf of Sidra, the official Libyan news agency JANA reported Friday.

Libyan and U.S. forces clashed in the gulf earlier this year.

The military exercises, described by JANA as large-scale, are the first announced by this North African country since U.S. warplanes bombed targets in Tripoli and Benghazi on April 15.

The maneuvers, which are scheduled to end Tuesday, will involve mobile and fixed targets, the agency said in a one-paragraph dispatch. It did not elaborate.

There was no indication whether the missiles would be launched from airplanes, ships or land-based installations.

The Reagan administration contends Gadhafi supports international terrorism and has implicated the Libyan leader in terrorist attacks last Dec. 27 at the Rome and Vienna airports that killed 20 people, including five Americans.

The April air raids, which according to Western diplomats killed about 100 people in Tripoli and an undetermined number in Benghazi, were intended to punish Libya for its alleged support of terrorists.

Gadhafi denies charges of involvement in terrorism.

The United States in March challenged Gadhafi's claim that Libyan territorial rights extend 200 miles offshore to include the entire Gulf of Sidra. Most nations recognize only a 12-mile offshore territorial limit.

When U.S. forces held maneuvers in the gulf, Libyan forces fired on them, according to the Reagan administration.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Moroccan student dies from Chernobyl radiation

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — A Moroccan studying at the Soviet Nuclear Research Institute in Kiev has died from radiation absorbed after the April 26 reactor disaster at the nearby Chernobyl plant, an opposition newspaper said Friday.

A Moroccan diplomat in Moscow, however, said the death of Abdessalam Chichi was not related to the explosion and fire at the nuclear power plant 80 miles north of Kiev. The diplomat, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said he could not provide further information on the cause of Chichi's death.

The plant accident has cost 26 lives, according to the latest official Soviet figures released June 5, but no foreigners have been reported among the victims.

Moroccan authorities made no official comment on the report by the daily Al-Ittihad Al-Ichtiraki, the official organ of the opposition Socialist Union of Popular Forces.

According to the paper, Chichi's body arrived at the Casablanca airport Thursday from Moscow and was taken to Fez, his hometown, for burial.

Moslems slated to die

TUNIS, Tunisia (AP) — Four Moslem fundamentalists, including two army officers, were sentenced to death in connection with a plot to establish an Islamic republic in Tunisia, considered the most westernized Arab nation.

A military tribunal on Thursday sentenced 20 others, including four fugitives, to five years imprisonment and acquitted two others in the case.

The group allegedly sought the imposition of Shariah, or Islamic law, in Tunisia. Prosecutors said the group was guilty of theft, attempted murder and illegal possession of explosives.

Prosecutors said Lt. Habib Dhaoui, 31, masterminded the conspiracy. He and another lieutenant, Kilani Ouachahi, 44, were sentenced to death.

Michael Joseph, a Spaniard converted to Islam, and Mohammed Lazrag, identified as the group's chief ideologue, received death sentences in absentia.

Syria official to visit Chirac

PARIS (AP) — Syrian Vice President Abdul-Halim Khaddam will meet Premier Jacques Chirac in Paris next week, the government reported Friday. The announcement followed reports that Syria has made progress in its efforts to gain the freedom of French hostages in Lebanon.

A spokesman for Chirac said the luncheon meeting is scheduled for July 16 at the premier's Hotel Matignon offices.

The talks would be the highest-level meeting between France and Syria since President Francois Mitterrand visited Damascus, the Syrian capital, two years ago.

A Western diplomat in Damascus who spoke on condition of anonymity said the meeting was important, but would not confirm press reports that a French hostage held by Moslem zealots in Lebanon will be released soon.

Al-Nahar, an independent daily in Beirut, Lebanon, identified the hostage as Marcel Carton, a political officer at the French Embassy who was kidnapped in Moslem west Beirut on March 22, 1985.

JEANE DIXON'S your horoscope

© 1986, Los Angeles Times Syndicate

By Jeane Dixon
Sunday, July 13, 1986

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Your business and financial affairs can be advanced much farther than you imagined provided you take the initiative. In some cases, it will be even more beneficial if you can be in the right place at the right time. Luck travels with you and also affect romance in a positive way. A child shows signs of maturing nicely.

CELEBRITY BIRTHDATES: Popular Rep. Jack Kemp (R-NY), action movie star Harrison Ford, original NBC-TV "Today" show host Dave Garroway, and actor Cheech Marin.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Spend money carefully when it comes to entertainment as your vacation is upcoming. Delegate more responsibility to loved ones to avoid feeling overburdened. Stay away from controversial subjects.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Be alert. Someone who appears erratic may be sending out signals for help. Make your career expectations more realistic. Talk over your goals with your mate. Graduate study or research could be the answer.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): New ideas will flow freely; write them down for future reference. Gardening can be fun and will improve the appearance of your property.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Spend the day doing what you and your loved ones enjoy most. Outdoor sports or picnicking holds appeal for many. Reading and relaxing are favored over socializing in large groups tonight.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Attending services in a new church gives you a chance to meet some interesting people and proves to be inspiring. Reading the Sunday newspaper could lead to new career opportunities. Follow up immediately.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Deal directly with someone who is spreading rumors. Let go of old ideas and consider new ones. Teen-agers present some interesting options. Participate in family activities. Your sunny disposition is contagious.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Showing more affection will help budge a generation gap. Avoid anyone who tries to conduct business today. Reading proves enlightening as well as entertaining.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Hold off discussing the budget until mid-week. Research will help to satisfy your curiosity. A sudden argument could put a damper on romance. A sibling shares a wonderful family secret with you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Someone you meet at a family gathering could turn out to be the love of your life. Put your best foot forward as first impressions are usually lasting. Let others ask the questions.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You know what you want and are prepared to work for it. Count on the loyalty of others when you pursue important goals and financial security. Spend some time today with loved ones.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Occurrences on foreign soil may affect your pocketbook. Travel is expensive but necessary. Your success can be enhanced if you keep up-to-date on current affairs. Romance blossoms this afternoon.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Even though you are not 100 percent sure, it is time to take the next step. Get additional training if it will improve your chances for a promotion. Your mate displays some much needed affection.

Bob Geldorf to be honorary knight

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II, in a break with tradition, will personally award an honorary knighthood to rock singer Bob Geldof in recognition of his work in African famine relief, Buckingham Palace announced Friday.

Ordinarily, the foreign secretary presents honorary knighthoods, but Geldof has been invited to the palace July 24 to receive his award from the queen, the palace said.

Geldof was severely critical of a speech the foreign secretary, Sir Geoffrey Howe, made on African famine recently to the United Nations.

The Irish rocker, who organized the Live Aid concerts and other events that raised more than $100 million for famine relief, will not be able to call himself Sir Bob as he would if he were a British citizen and eligible for a full knighthood. But he can use the initials KBE — Knight Commander Order of the British Empire — after his name.

• • •

SAN FERNANDO, Calif. (AP) — Actor Todd Bridges, who plays Gary Coleman's brother on the "Diff'rent Strokes" TV series, was placed on three years' probation Friday in the bombing of a car belonging to a man with whom he had done business.

Bridges

Los Angeles County Superior Court Judge Robert Fratianne also ordered the actor to jail for one year, but he stayed the order until Jan. 7, when he will review a probation report and decide whether to suspend the jail sentence, clerk Vern Paul said.

Bridges, 20, also was fined $2,500 and was ordered to perform 300 hours of community service and to pay $6,000 restitution to an automobile customizer whose Mercedes-Benz was damaged in the explosion, Paul said.

Bridges pleaded no contest June 5 to a felony charge of making a bomb threat in an agreement with prosecutors to drop three other charges stemming from the March 26 bombing of a Mercedes owned by Gregg Tyree.

Deputy District Attorney John Spillane said Bridges was unhappy with work Tyree had done on the actor's Porsche.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Soul singer Teddy Pendergrass, who suffered a liver injury in a traffic accident July 3, will remain hospitalized for several more days, a spokeswoman said Friday.

Pendergrass

Pendergrass was in good condition Friday at Osteopathic Medical Center, where he underwent surgery to close a gash in his liver, spokeswoman Carole Familetti said.

"He will be released in the next few days," said Ms. Familetti. "No day or time has been set."

Doctors had hoped to send the 36-year-old Pendergrass home to suburban Gladwyne on Friday but delayed the release to make sure the singer, who had been on a liquid diet, could tolerate solid food.

Pendergrass, who was partially paralyzed in a 1982 car accident, lost control of his specially equipped van and crashed into a utility pole in Lower Merion Township.

ATLANTA (AP) — Actress and television personality Jayne Kennedy has filed suit against the Coca-Cola Co., contending it circulated a poster with her picture after her contract with Coke expired.

Ms. Kennedy said the advertising poster has foiled her attempts to get similar contracts with Coke competitors.

In the suit, filed Wednesday in Superior Court here, Ms. Kennedy contended the Atlanta-based company violated her privacy by distributing the poster.

Coca-Cola spokesman Carlton Curtis did not return a telephone call seeking comment made to his office Friday.

© 1986, Los Angeles Times Syndicate

By Jeane Dixon
Sunday, July 13, 1986

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Your business and financial affairs can be advanced much farther than you imagined provided you take the initiative. In some cases, it will be even more beneficial if you can be in the right place at the right time. Luck travels with you and also affect romance in a positive way. A child shows signs of maturing nicely.

CELEBRITY BIRTHDATES: Popular Rep. Jack Kemp (R-NY), action movie star Harrison Ford, original NBC-TV "Today" show host Dave Garroway, and actor Cheech Marin.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Spend money carefully when it comes to entertainment as your vacation is upcoming. Delegate more responsibility to loved ones to avoid feeling overburdened. Stay away from controversial subjects.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Be alert. Someone who appears erratic may be sending out signals for help. Make your career expectations more realistic. Talk over your goals with your mate. Graduate study or research could be the answer.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): New ideas will flow freely; write them down for future reference. Gardening can be fun and will improve the appearance of your property.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Spend the day doing what you and your loved ones enjoy most. Outdoor sports or picnicking holds appeal for many. Reading and relaxing are favored over socializing in large groups tonight.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Attending services in a new church gives you a chance to meet some interesting people and proves to be inspiring. Reading the Sunday newspaper could lead to new career opportunities. Follow up immediately.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Deal directly with someone who is spreading rumors. Let go of old ideas and consider new ones. Teen-agers present some interesting options. Participate in family activities. Your sunny disposition is contagious.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Showing more affection will help budge a generation gap. Avoid anyone who tries to conduct business today. Reading proves enlightening as well as entertaining.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Hold off discussing the budget until mid-week. Research will help to satisfy your curiosity. A sudden argument could put a damper on romance. A sibling shares a wonderful family secret with you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Someone you meet at a family gathering could turn out to be the love of your life. Put your best foot forward as first impressions are usually lasting. Let others ask the questions.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You know what you want and are prepared to work for it. Count on the loyalty of others when you pursue important goals and financial security. Spend some time today with loved ones.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Occurrences on foreign soil may affect your pocketbook. Travel is expensive but necessary. Your success can be enhanced if you keep up-to-date on current affairs. Romance blossoms this afternoon.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Even though you are not 100 percent sure, it is time to take the next step. Get additional training if it will improve your chances for a promotion. Your mate displays some much needed affection.

Bob Geldorf to be honorary knight

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II, in a break with tradition, will personally award an honorary knighthood to rock singer Bob Geldof in recognition of his work in African famine relief, Buckingham Palace announced Friday.

Ordinarily, the foreign secretary presents honorary knighthoods, but Geldof has been invited to the palace July 24 to receive his award from the queen, the palace said.

Geldof was severely critical of a speech the foreign secretary, Sir Geoffrey Howe, made on African famine recently to the United Nations.

The Irish rocker, who organized the Live Aid concerts and other events that raised more than $100 million for famine relief, will not be able to call himself Sir Bob as he would if he were a British citizen and eligible for a full knighthood. But he can use the initials KBE — Knight Commander Order of the British Empire — after his name.

SAN FERNANDO, Calif. (AP) — Actor Todd Bridges, who plays Gary Coleman's brother on the "Diff'rent Strokes" TV series, was placed on three years' probation Friday in the bombing of a car belonging to a man with whom he had done business.

Bridges

Los Angeles County Superior Court Judge Robert Fratianne also ordered the actor to jail for one year, but he stayed the order until Jan. 7, when he will review a probation report and decide whether to suspend the jail sentence, clerk Vern Paul said.

Bridges, 20, also was fined $2,500 and was ordered to perform 300 hours of community service and to pay $6,000 restitution to an automobile customizer whose Mercedes-Benz was damaged in the explosion, Paul said.

Bridges pleaded no contest June 5 to a felony charge of making a bomb threat in an agreement with prosecutors to drop three other charges stemming from the March 26 bombing of a Mercedes owned by Gregg Tyree.

Deputy District Attorney John Spillane said Bridges was unhappy with work Tyree had done on the actor's Porsche.

• • •

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Soul singer Teddy Pendergrass, who suffered a liver injury in a traffic accident July 3, will remain hospitalized for several more days, a spokeswoman said Friday.

Pendergrass

Pendergrass was in good condition Friday at Osteopathic Medical Center, where he underwent surgery to close a gash in his liver, spokeswoman Carole Familetti said.

"He will be released in the next few days," said Ms. Familetti. "No day or time has been set."

Doctors had hoped to send the 36-year-old Pendergrass home to suburban Gladwyne on Friday but delayed the release to make sure the singer, who had been on a liquid diet, could tolerate solid food.

U.S. Embassy surprised at light sentence given man linked to death

PARIS (AP) — The U.S. Embassy expressed surprise Friday that a Lebanese man allegedly linked to the killing of an American military attache was sentenced to only four years in prison on several lesser charges.

Georges Ibrahim Abdallah, alleged to be the European leader of the Lebanese Armed Revolutionary Factions, was sentenced Thursday in Lyon for possession of arms and explosives, using false identity papers and associating with criminals.

He still faces charges of complicity in the Feb. 18, 1982, killing of U.S. Col. Charles M. Ray and the assassination of Israeli diplomat Yacov Bartsimentov. His group has claimed responsibility for both slayings.

In an unusual comment on a local legal decision, the U.S. Embassy said in a statement, "Although Abdallah was not on trial for murder in Lyon, he is associated with a group that has killed or tried to kill several U.S. diplomats.

"We were suprised that the prosecutor in Lyon asked for only a four-year sentence which he characterized as 'moderate.' This is a lighter sentence than we have seen in similar cases in other European countries," it said.

The statement was read to The Associated Press by an embassy spokesman on the condition he not be identified by name.

"We hope that Abdallah, who makes no secret of his violent intentions against Americans, will serve his full term," it said.

The statement also said the U.S. government and Ray's family have become civil parties to the investigation of the diplomat's killing.

Under French law, a civil party to a case has full access to all documents of the investigating magistrate, who conducts the inquiries and will decide if the case should go to trial. There have been reports the charge against Abdallah in the killing will be dropped.

WORLD

Price increase canceled

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — The government ordered bakeries on Friday to cancel increases of more than 100 percent in the price of bread, the state-run press reported.

An official communique said the increases were unjustified and represented monopolistic behavior by the bakery companies, whose management is not controlled by the communist government.

The price of a one-pound loaf went from the equivalent of 15 cents to about 35 cents. Average monthly pay in Yugoslavia is less than $200.

Pick a car. Any car.

Now you can be picky about the kind of car company you keep. Because we've got a full hand of Civic, Accord and Prelude automobiles.

To Honda, the game has always meant innovation in engineering.

The payoff? Reliability, economy and performance. Maybe that's why Honda has the highest owner loyalty of any leading import car.*

So come see the 1986 Hondas. The odds are all on your side.
