County commissioners endorse Houston plan

Scurry County's four precinct commissioners Monday morning went on record as "for" the proposed project to extend Houston Ave. to the south and east — creating a new traffic linkup for west Snyder to the Big Spring Highway.

While the four commissioners voted unanimously for the plan, Scurry County Judge Preston Wilson noted his exception to the project, however.

Wilson commented, "I'll vote against it because I don't think the county needs to be making rules and regulations inside the city limits, just as the city has no say-so outside the city limits."

The resolution will carry the judge's signature, however, since it was passed by the court.

Hassie Sneed, commissioner for Pct. 2, commented, "I'm for it because it will benefit traffic out of (Towle) park."

Commissioner Berhard Bartels, Pct. 3, made the motion to pass the resolution and Commissioner Eldon Perry, Pct. 1, seconded. Sneed, Bartels, Perry and Commissioner Ted Billingsley, Pct. 4, all voted for it.

Its passage makes the commissioners court the second local entity to endorse the plan. The resolution is to be presented Tuesday night at a meeting to allow public comment regarding the project.

A similar resolution was passed last Tuesday by the board of directors for the Snyder Chamber of Commerce.

Monday's endorsement came at the request of John Gayle, city manager, and Ed Vernon, resident engineer for the Snyder office of the Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation. Both addressed the court during its regular Monday session.

In response to a question regarding truck traffic along the proposed street, Gayle commented, "It's definitely not designed as a truck route.

"We plan to put up signs specifying no trucks allowed and we plan to enforce it," he said.

The public meeting Tuesday is to begin at 7 p.m. at city hall. It will be conducted by local representatives of the highway department.

A tape recording of the meeting will be made and all comments forwarded to the Federal Highway Administration, which has targeted some $750,000 in urban development funds to complete the project.

The city-provided portion of the work includes furnishing legal right-of-way for the street route and pledging funds for curb and guttering.

Both of these requirements have already been met.

Economy signs good

WASHINGTON (AP) — The economy grew at an unexpectedly strong annual rate of 7.5 percent this spring even as inflation remained in check, the government reported today.

Presidential spokesman Larry Speakes hailed the report as "exceptionally good news — again."

The growth figure released by the Commerce Department for economic activity in the April-June quarter was sharply higher than the preliminary estimate last month of 5.7 percent.

Today's revision followed the pattern the economy set early in the year — confounding experts who persist in predicting slower growth as the recovery from the 1981-82 recession begins to lose steam.

Growth in the second quarter was slower than in the first, which was revised today to an astonishing 10.1 percent annual rate — matching the best performance in three years.

However, both growth rates were well above what economists had predicted. Originally, the consensus forecast was for growth below 5 percent in each quarter.

Growth, as measured by the gross national product, the total output of goods and services, turned in a performance in the January-March period unmatched since a similar 10.1 percent increase in the first quarter of 1981.

Often such strong growth at this stage of an economic recovery would signal a return of inflation. But that has not been the case this year.

The goverment reported today that a GNP-linked inflation measure was rising in the second quarter at an annual rate of 3.2 percent, lower than the 4.4 percent rate posted in the first quarter. The smaller increase was attributed primarily to food prices, which dropped in the second quarter after rising sharply in the January-March period.

At the White House, Speakes noted the new inflation figures and said:

"The composition of this growth shows great promise for the future. Economic growth in this recovery is stronger than any upturn since 1950. So, while growth continues on an excellent path, inflation remains nailed down and the economy's on track."

Many economists have expressed concern that the strong growth being shown by the economy could eventually choke off the recovery by inspiring heavy business and consumer borrowing, which would drive up interest rates and trigger inflation. However, while interest rates have risen, inflation has remained in check.

The Commerce Department report said that the strong GNP gain for the second quarter resulted primarily from an increase in final sales — which increased at a rate of 10.4 percent, compared to a 3.6 percent increase in the first quarter.

Personal consumer spending was also up during the period, increasing at an annual rate of 6.9 percent, compared to a 4.6 percent pace in the first quarter.

Plat to city again

A plat outlining the proposed development of the Cedar Creek Subdivsion Unit II — a proposal which prompted opposition in its first proposed form — is again scheduled for consideration before the Snyder city council Monday.

The called council meeting is to begin at 6:30 p.m. at city hall.

The plat was first offered to the council July 9. At that time, it drew opposition from a group of adjacent property owners organized as the Cedar Creek Homeowners Association.

The project was proposed as a 39-lot subdivision east of Cedar Creek Drive and running parallel with Augusta Drive.

The plat was tabled at that meeting to allow time for an independent engineering study regarding water runoff and

500th donor forseen

The fourth blood drive of 1984 is planned here Tuesday, an effort which is expected to produce the 500th Scurry County blood donor for the year.

The drive will be from 1 until 9 p.m. at the Senior Citizens Center. The year's donor total to date stands at 408 pints of blood.

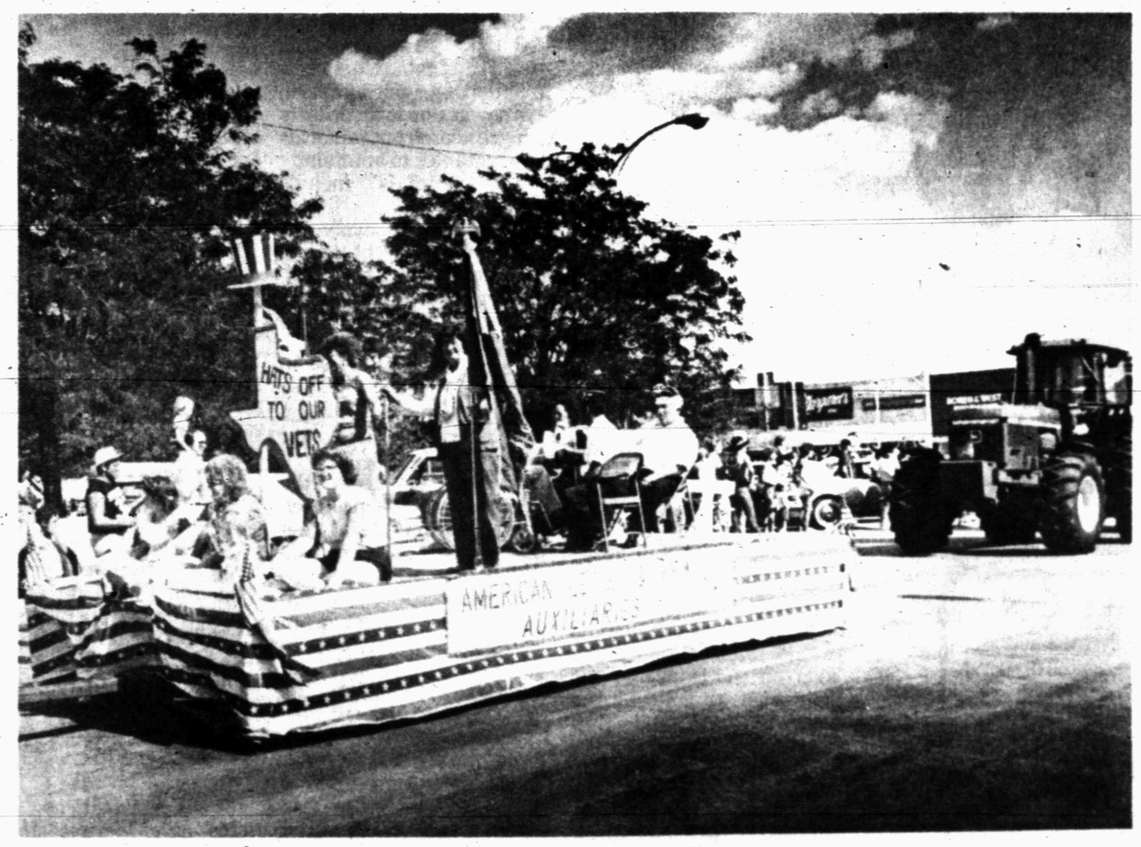

The 500th donor Tuesday will receive a gift certificate courtesy of The Shack restaurant.

Donors Tuesday will also be eligible to win a trip for two to the 1984 World's Fair in New Orleans — a contest sponsored throughout the area served by United Blood Services of Lubbock.

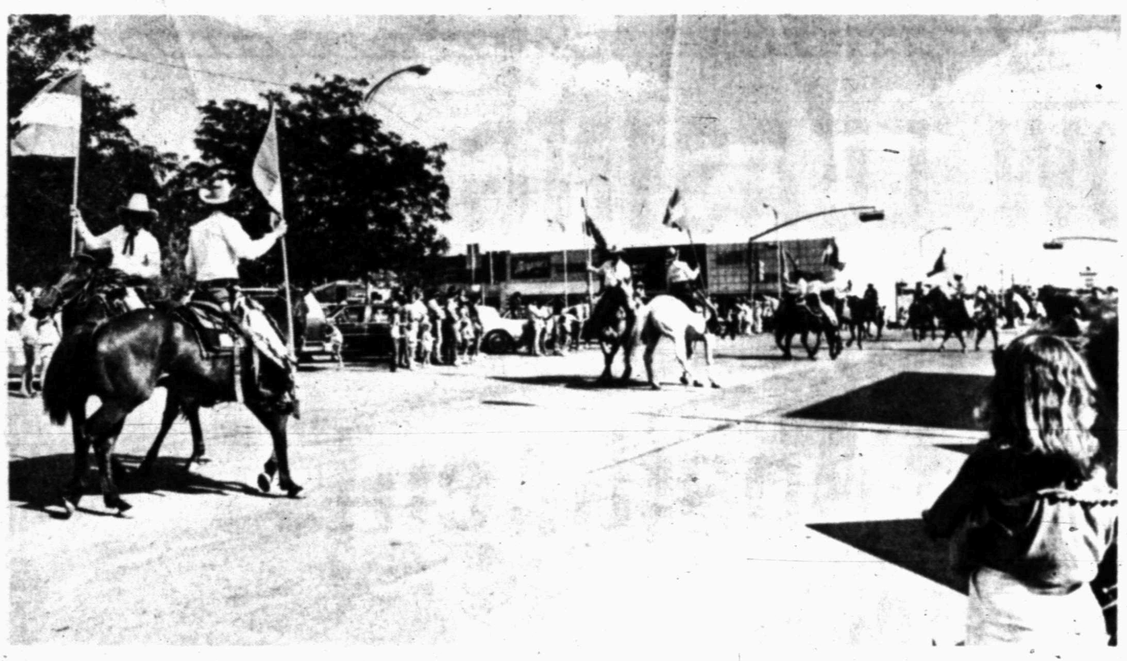

Each donation will constitute an entry in the contest. Those who bring in new donors will receive entry blanks also. The winner will be drawn Sept. 4 in Lubbock.

As with past drives, every donor Tuesday will

Leaders change as rodeo ends

Team roping and bull riding were the only events to see new leaders following the final night of Scurry County Rodeo action here.

With cowboys going all out to beat some top times, Saturday's show was hot with competition, but as expected, had its share of broken barriers and other penalties.

Odessa's Gary Don McCain did come through with a 76 to win the bull riding. Dale Stowe of Sweetwater scored a 74, tying the previous best that Kevin Marshall of Beaumont had posted earlier in the week.

The other best set Saturday was in the team roping, where Jerry Skaggs and Joel Maker turned a 5.3, shooting down the previous lead of Foreman Mader and Mark Fanning, who had timed a 5.8.

Other Saturday night competitors moved into the money, but none took over first place. Gail cowgirl Raylynn Key posted a 15.09 in the barrel race, for instance, which left her in third place. Snyder's Gayla Mueller set the best time on Friday with a 15.01.

'Salesman' slated for three-day run

Members of the cast and crew of the Western Texas College Summer Theatre Workshop will open their production of Arthur Miller's Pulitzer Prize winning play "Death of a Salesman" Thursday night.

The play is a tragedy of "the American dream gone sour." The local production will feature Mike Dennis as the "salesman" Willie Loman.

The show was written in 1948 and first produced on Broadway in 1949 with Lee J. Cobb portraying Loman, the faithful salesman who spent his life pursuing the American dream of material success and popularity.

Other notable performers who have starred in the show include Dustin Hoffman, who read the part of Bernard as an unknown actor in a radio production in 1966 and recently completed a stint in the character in a Broadway revival of the show this season.

WTC drama instructor Jim Rambo calls "Death of a Salesman" a "disturbing show" which had fallen from popularity over the past 30 years. He noted it is now enjoying a revival worldwide.

The play — given credit for defining the now popular concept of "The American Dream" — has recently been staged in China under the direction of author Arthur Miller and has been produced in numerous cities over the past two years.

Rambo cautions local theatre-goers that the nature of the characters and subject matter of the show may be too strong for some.

According to Rambo, language which some may find offensive has been left in the local production in order to preserve the accurate portrayal of the characters. He suggested parents should exercise

Q. — How many dogs are allowed to be kept in one's yard in the city limits?

A. — Local police say there is no city ordinance which specifically directs the number of dogs allowed per residence. Large number of dogs are subject to health regulations and "public nusiance" complaints, however.

Israelis vote in election

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Battered by 400 percent inflation and unsure of prospects for peace, Israelis voted today in an election expected to produce a narrow victory for the opposition Labor Party over Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir's Likud bloc.

A clearcut outcome could decisively alter the future of the Middle East. But the results forecast in the final round of opinion polls suggested that small parties would hold the balance of power and produce the kind of unwieldy coalition government that has always governed Israel.

It could take several days of inter-party maneuvering to establish which of the two major parties is able to form a new government.

More than 2.6 million Israelis were eligible to vote today at the 4,850 polling booths, choosing among Labor, Likud and 24 other parties ranging from the extreme right through a variety of religious factions to left-wing and communist groups.

Mondale-Ferraro rebound

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Gallup poll taken for Newsweek magazine puts the Democratic Mondale-Ferraro ticket ahead of President Reagan for the first time in a major public opinion survey.

The poll, taken as the Democratic convention was winding up on Thursday and Friday and after the candidates had received extensive prime-time television coverage, found the team of Walter Mondale and Geraldine Ferraro endorsed by 48 percent of those polled.

Forty-six percent of the respondents said they favored the Republican ticket of Reagan and Vice President George Bush, while 6 percent said they were undecided about who they wanted to win the November election.

The poll results were published in the current issue of Newsweek, which said Gallup interviewed 1,006 registered voters by telephone. The poll's margin of error was 4 percentage points, which means Reagan could be trailing by as much as 52-42 or leading 50-44.

Suspect in pickup theft

A 17-year-old Snyder man was jailed for unauthorized use of a motor vehicle early Sunday morning in connection with the theft of a pickup truck from the parking lot of the Scurry County Coliseum.

Jailed was Jacob Frank Smith of 2005 Ave. L, who was found along with the missing vehicle around 5:30 a.m. Sunday.

J.C. Herrera reported the theft of his 1977 Ford pickup at 5:30 p.m. Saturday.

According to reports, the truck had last been seen parked at the coliseum around 2:30 p.m. It was thought taken sometime later Saturday afternoon.

City police on routine patrol spotted the missing truck early Sunday morning parked on U.S. Highway 84 just inside the city limits.

The truck was returned to Herrera later Sunday and Smith posted a $1,500 bond in connection with the charge Sunday afternoon.

Parade winners announced

Several money prizes and trophies were awarded at the conclusion of the Scurry County Rodeo Association parade held Saturday. It had been postponed from the previous Wednesday due to the rain.

Money prize winners were Deep Creek Chapter of the American Business Women's Association, first place, $150; Sparkle City Squares, second place, $90; American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars auxiliaries, third place, $60.

Three judges decided the top float winners.

Trophies were also given to three sheriff's posses for participating in the parade. They included Terry County Sheriff's Posse from Brownfield; Nolan County Sheriff's Posse from Sweetwater; Dawson County Sheriff's Posse from Lamesa.

Association officials express thanks and appreciation to all who participated in the parade.

Wife has not given up

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — The wife of a missing youth minister says she doesn't want her husband to believe that he cannot return home if he decided to drop out of sight intentionally.

Beth Cox told the Abilene Reporter-News that she planned to return home to San Antonio after eight days of searching for her husband, Wesley Barrett "Barre" Cox, who was reported missing July 13.

Mrs. Cox said she believed her husband had suffered a head injury, but added that if he had left intentionally she and church leaders wanted him to feel like he could come home.

"We love him and whatever he wants is what we want," she said. "Things like this don't change love. Love is always there."

Mrs. Cox said her husband could have been the victim of foul play, but she would not give up hope that he would return.

Cox's ransacked car was found on a rural road in north Jones County, near the small community of Tuxedo, on July 12.

Cox, 33, a former Abilene Christian University staff member, had been youth minister at MacArthur Park Church of Christ in San Antonio since last fall.

Mrs. Cox said her husband had been in Lubbock where he was completing work on his doctoral dissertation at Texas Tech University. She said she last spoke to him on the night of July 11 before he left Lubbock and had expected him in San Antonio on July 13.

"I talked to him Wednesday night (July 11)," said Mrs. Cox. "He said he had a real rough day, but he felt like he got a lot accomplished (on his dissertation)."

She said her husband planned to spend the night of July 11 in Abilene, then had an appointment the next day with the head of his disseration committee, who was at a Texas Tech art camp in Junction.

But Cox never arrived at either place, and Mrs. Cox quickly traveled to Jones County to join in the hunt for her husband.

Police called off the search last week after a three-day air and ground search of several West Texas counties.

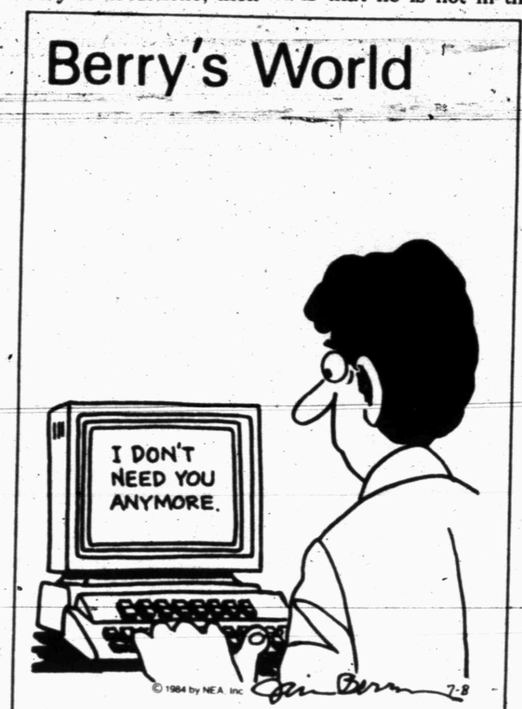

"The only thing I'm sure of is that he is not in the area that was searched," Mrs. Cox said. "I feel confident there is nothing in the area, not even any shallow graves."

Mrs. Cox also thinks her husband spent the night of July 11 in an Electra motel, even though motel owners now deny their initial report.

"We (she and police) still believe the report in Electra. We just think there's some reason she (the clerk) doesn't want to cooperate," said Mrs. Cox.

But a report from a convenience store clerk in Vernon that a man fitting the missing youth minister's desciption was seen there on July 15 has been "discounted" because it now appears "too shaky," she said.

Restaurant may not be reopened

SAN YSIDRO, Calif. (AP) — Plans to reopen the restaurant where 22 people were slain in the nation's worst single-day mass murder have been put "on hold" following community protests against the idea, a McDonald's Corp. spokesman says.

"Whatever action would be taken is on hold," said Bob Keyser, McDonald's director of media relations. "The concern is for the people, not simply for business."

Keyser added he has "no idea" when the company would make a final decision on the future of the franchise, situated on the main street in this predominantly Hispanic community of 14,000, which is a part of San Diego.

Monetary pledges, meanwhile, poured into a fund set up to help the victims and their families, operators of the fund said Sunday.

Paul Harvey

The debate over evolution has never shaken my faith in Scripture: "In the beginning, God...."

I grew up taught that creation was created by a Creator.

I have read and listened with fascination to the evolutionists who believe that creation evolved from nothing "with a big bang."

Now I've found a scholar — actually a chemical engineer — who combines those two views in a book called "The Fourth Kingdom."

Succinctly stated, William Sauber figures that, "In the beginning. God, with a big bang, created the heavens and the earth."

I'll buy that.

Sauber's concept of the "fourth kingdom" is predicated on a fascinating presumption that evolution is an orderly progression from minerals to vegetables to animals.

The "animals" include us.

And next to evolve is what he calls "the fourth kingdom."

Here is his scenario: As planet Earth cooled, all was "minerals."

The first crude cells to populate the planet resembled bacteria which evolved into the first plant cells — "vegetable."

Thence, up from the sponges and the protozoa came worms, fish, reptiles, birds and mammals and us.

It required the development of the human brain — plus dexterity — to allow us — men and women — to create the next evolutionary advancement — spaceships.

Mr. Sauber sees us eventually embarking on a space ark to leave this planet in favor of more friendly ones.

"Machines will fulfill our destiny."

His prevue of "The Fourth Kingdom" may fascinate you as it did me. It may merely make you happier that you lived when you lived.

But inevitably you should be reassured by the certainty with which this evolutionist — in the end — is forced to concede that the proof of a Creator "has been uncovered by the scientific process itself."

The Einstein, who perceived reality far more deeply than most of us, left us this legacy: "There is a creative force, a higher intelligence, operating in nature and in the universe."

And that Darwin, were he alive today, sharing what the life sciences are now learning, would have to re-write his own evolutionary theory to acknowledge: "In the beginning, God...."

DR. LAMB

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Fat counts more than body weight

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 31-year-old male officer. Though I am not overweight according to my department standards (medium build, 5 feet 10, 170 pounds) and do not have any aches or pains, I do have an extra roll of fat around my waist.

Because I am a line officer, upper-body and abdominal strength, as well as stamina, are very important. I would like to lose 10 to 15 pounds and develop my upper-body and abdominal strength and stamina. I would like your recommendations on my weight, diet and exercise program.

DEAR READER — You are wise to pay more attention to how much fat you have under your skin than to the weight tables. Regardless of what the tables say, if you still have a roll of fat under your skin, you do have unnecessary and usually unhealthy fat.

To eliminate unwanted body fat you simply have to consume fewer calories than your body uses. It follows that the correct approach to losing body fat is through diet and exercise. The combination is usually best.

Avoid fad diets but follow a balanced low-calorie diet. To help you with this I am sending you The Health Letter 4-7, Weight Losing Diet. Others who want this program can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Perhaps your department has access to an exercise facility. Weights or machines that help you work your muscles against resistance are the most effective means to develop strong upper-body muscles. Situps and leg lifts help to stengthen the abdominal muscles. Usually the situps help the upper abdomen most; the leg lifts help the lower abdomen. People who have not been doing leg lifts or have weak muscles should do their leg lifts with their knee bent to avoid excessive strain.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My son, who is now 10, has been involved in year-round competitive swimming since he was 6. This has involved practicing four to five times a week for 60 to 90 minutes. Sometimes during the summer he has practiced twice a day. Can too much swimming be physically harmful for a child? Will it retard his growth? How much is too much? Would a week or so at a competitive summer swimming camp that involves much more exercise and swimming be too much for a child his age?

Recently the swim team has started working out with light weights several times a week. Is this harmful for a 10-year-old?

DEAR READER — One doctor recently referred to this as "socially approved athletic child abuse." You might say the same thing about a number of children's sports where the child is encouraged or downright pressured by parents to perform.

Swimming is a wonderful exercise and I usually recommend it. The danger of wretched excess in swimming for young people is the "swimmer's shoulder." Doctors from Henry Ford Hospital sports clinic estimated that during a swimming season, a child under these circumstances may rotate the shoulder 1.5 million times. In many youngsters, there is not enough space under a bony arch in the shoulder for this kind of development.

No one knows how much is too much for a particular child, but I would prefer to err on the conservative side. The exercise will not stunt his growth.

Light weights to strengthen the muscles are fine, but heavy weights are not, at his age.

One-car accident kills three

DECATUR, Texas (AP) — Three people were killed and another critically injured in a one-vehicle accident early today on Farm Road 51 about 10 miles north of Decatur, the Texas Department of Public Safety said.

The victims were identified as Billy Teater, 24; his wife, Delores Teater, 22; and Nathan Albert Rowland, 23, all of Azle. Rowland's 18-year-old wife, Susan, was reported in "extremely critical" condition at a Decatur hospital.

A DPS spokesman estimated that the southbound van the four were in was traveling at speeds in excess of 100 mph when it veered off the highway.

After traveling off the roadway for 245 feet, the van became airborne for 110 feet, landed on its roof, and skidded 101 feet into a tree, which sheared off the top of the vehicle, the DPS spokesman said.

The vehicle bounced off the tree and came to rest on its wheels again in a gully 22 feet away, the DPS said.

Big chance for West

By Oswald Jacoby and James Jacoby

"Defend with Your Life," a book by Terence Reese and Eddie Kantar, poses problems guaranteed to shake the cobwebs from the brains of average players and experts alike. To derive maximum enjoyment and benefit from today's deal, blot the East and South hands from your mind and place yourself in the West chair.

You lead a spade against six hearts. Declarer wins the ace as your partner plays the king. Now comes the ace of hearts, a small club to dummy's ace and king, and a club ruff in the South hand. A heart is led to the king and dummy's last club is trumped. Next the 10 of spades is played. You win the queen, dummy contributes the jack and partner plays the seven. Now what?

Declarer cannot have more than six original hearts, and has shown only two clubs, so probably began the deal with five cards in spades and diamonds. He has played the ace and 10 of spades, so there are three cards left. What are they? In fact, if his remaining cards other than hearts are all diamonds, you will certainly set the contract by leading a spade. Even though declarer may be able to trump in dummy and discard a losing diamond from his hand, he will still have to lose the diamond finesse. And look what happens if you carelessly lead a diamond in the actual layout. Declarer claims, congratulating himself on his clear deception in playing the spade 10 to your queen and dummy's jack.

For partnerships with carding agreements, East's play of the seven of spades as you won the queen denoted an initial holding of K-7-2.

New mothers...

Book records experiences

By DIANE CURTIS
Associated Press Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Lawyer Susan Keel surprised even herself when she found she wasn't eager to return to work after the birth of her daughter, Natasha.

At the insistence of husband Richard Katz, she agreed to stay home with Natasha for a year or so, but she was sure she would so miss her career as a divorce lawyer that her husband would agree she should go back to work.

What she found after the birth of Natasha was that the importance of a career had ebbed as she watched her child grow and decided the best person to care for a child was its mother.

"When I'm really honest with myself, I think it does make a difference" if a child is cared for by a parent, Ms. Keel, 35, said in an interview in her hilltop Mill Valley home.

"That's not a popular viewpoint because there are so many women who want to work, and so many women who have to, that people want to believe, as I wanted to believe, that it doesn't make a difference ...

"I think there's a real trend in women our age who have had careers and now are having children and are reacting the way I am," she added.

But even some of her friends are not reacting the way she is, and that is the point of a book called "Having A Baby," written by Ms. Keel and six other women, including best-selling author Danielle Steel Traina.

The book is a non-expert look at the emotional and physical trauma, exhilaration, pain and joy of pregnancy, labor, delivery and motherhood, including some words on mixing careers and motherhood, from seven different perspectives.

"There are seven ways we did it in this book," says Mrs. Traina, and the point of the book is that all seven are correct — and that there are many others.

The book was spawned in a pregnancy exercise class in Mrs. Traina's Pacific Heights home. The other exercisers and authors are Jan Yanehiro, Katherine Dusay, Averil Haydock, Mary Oei and Diana Bert, some with careers, some without, some who had had children before, some who hadn't.

The chapters include anecdotes and recollections written by each of the women, on everything from conception and finding a good doctor to weight gain and postpartum depression.

The need for such a book, Mrs. Traina believes, is the lack of "tribal ways" in modern life — the lack of a grandmother or an aunt or mother to pass on her experiences.

The authors don't pretend to be experts, except in the sense that every woman who has gone through pregnancy and delivery is an expert.

"One of the things we wanted to stress is it's not a medical book," said Ms. Yanehiro. "But we do show from our experiences that anything is within the range of normal."

Even on delicate and very personal issues, such as miscarriage and sex after delivery, the women are very frank. "One is left with the emptiness, the grief," Mrs. Traina said of her miscarriage, explained in detail in "Having A Baby."

Since the book was written about her pregnancy with Samantha, now 2, Mrs. Traina, 37, has had another child, Victoria, 8 months, and she has four other children from earlier marriages and from her husband John's previous marriage.

Ms. Keel also is pregnant with her second child, due late this summer, when Natasha will be 2½ years old.

Ms. Yanehiro, 36, co-host of a nightly San Francisco television program, "Evening Magazine," had a second daughter in May. Her first daughter, about whom she wrote the book, is named Jaclyn Mariko Zimmerman.

Ms. Yanehiro took off only five weeks after the birth of her first daughter and she plans to return to work soon.

"I love being a mommy. It's the best thing I've ever done," she says. "Those little hands, that little smile that lights up the worst day you've ever had. She melts everything away."

While she does feel guilty when she goes to work, especially when she's gone for up to 10 days at a time, "I choose to think that the quality time I give her is the best."

"I think for a long time we believed we could do it all and we could do it comfortably," said Ms. Keel. "I don't think that's true anymore. I think we have to make some sacrifices."

The recipe produces 10 half-pint jars — some to use in the next few months, some to have on hand at Thanksgiving. We specify that holiday because preserves taste best when they are stored no longer than six months after they are made.

Served for brunch with toasted English muffins, Amber Marmalade made a big hit at our house. The marmalade also adds piquancy when it accompanies French-toasted cheese sandwiches.

AMBER MARMALADE

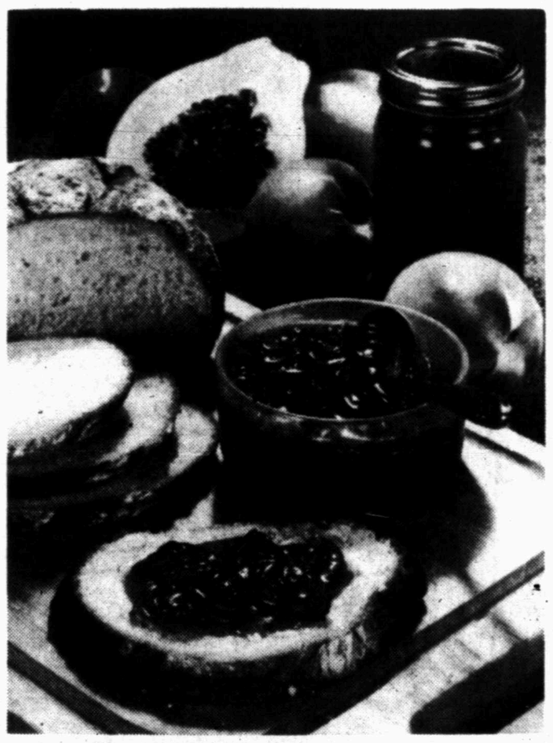

2 medium lemons
1 cup water
3 pounds peaches (about 12 medium)
2 large papayas (each about 20 ounces)
8 cups sugar
1 tablespoon thinly slivered syrup-packed ginger root

Halve lemons lengthwise and slice very thinly. In a small saucepan simmer lemon and ½ cup of the water until liquid is reduced to about 2 tablespoons — about 20 minutes; drain and reserve.

Peel peaches, pit and dice (about ½-inch) — there should be about 6 cups. Halve papayas, remove seeds and membranes and cut off skin; dice (about ½-inch) — there should be about 4 cups.

Into a 6- to 8-quart saucepot turn the reserved lemon, the peaches, papaya, sugar, ginger and the remaining ½ cup water; bring to a boil, stirring until sugar dissolves. Simmer, stirring down the foam often, until mixture reaches the nearjelly stage — when a metal spoon is lifted from the boiling syrup, the syrup will drip from the spoon in two distinct drops about ½-inch apart. Ladle marmalade into clean hot jars to within ¼ inch of the rim. With a clean damp cloth, wipe rims and threads of jars. Seal jars according to manufacturer's directions. Place jars on a rack in a large saucepot of boiling water — water should cover jars by 1 or 2 inches. Cover saucepot; bring water to a boil; boil 5 minutes. Remove jars to a towel to cool. Store in a cool dry place.

Makes 10 ½-pint jars.

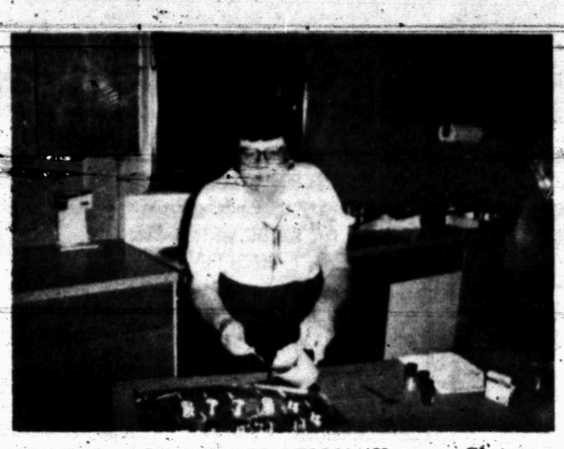

AMBER MARMALADE—It's made with peaches and papayas and has a deliciously subtle flavor.

Reunion slated

The annual Woolever family reunion is set for Saturday and Sunday, July 27 and 28, in the Towle Park pavilion.

Citation, the 1948 Triple Crown winner, started 45 times and was out of the money only once. He won 32 races, was second 10 times and third twice.

SUCKER DEMONSTRATION—Kaye Clawson demonstrated sucker making to the members of the Stargazers Extension Homemakers Club.

Learn sucker making

"Sucker Shapers" was the topic of the July 12 meeting of the Stargazers Extension Homemakers Club.

Following the business meeting led by Dorothy Hanks, president, Kaye Clawson demonstrated the art of sucker making to club members. In addition to showing the various molds that can be used and the how-to of using them, Clawson gave the members recipes that can be used at home.

Stargazers next meeting is set for August 9. They plan to work on a community service craft project.

BOOK REVIEW

CHEAP SHOT. By Jay Cronley. Atheneum. 240 Pages. $13.95.

Fans of Donald Westlake's marvelous crime caper novels now have a new source to tap when they've read all their Westlake books.

He's Jay Cronley, and his book "Cheap Shot" is as funny and imaginative as anything that Westlake has written.

Books of this kind feature bumbling crooks with grandiose plans on how to get-rich-quick, and inept cops. The combination makes for lots of action and lots of laughs.

In "Cheap Shot," a gang of bad guys with hearts of gold decide the road to riches lies in the aisles of a well-stocked art museum. The job has been thought up by Trout, a leader of sorts who is much better at thinking up and working out the details of a robbery scheme than he is at actually carrying it out.

Trout's plan is this: Since the museum is directly wired to the local police station a robbery attempt would bring the police running. Trout's solution is to kidnap all the cops so none can come running.

So, Trout and his group descend on the police station during the early morning hours and capture all the cops with ease. They load them into a moving van and lock them in. They also have another van which is identical to the one in which the police are caged. They drive both to the museum, gain entry and start lugging out the treasures.

And then things go wrong. The vans are so much alike that they can't remember which is empty and which is full of angry and armed cops.

Of course, it all gets sorted out by the end but along the merry way Cronley has entertained and amused his readers mightily.

PICOSECONDS

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Until recently, electronic signals faster than a few picoseconds were considered "instantaneous" — beyond study or measurement.

A picosecond is one-trillionth of a second.

But the University of Rochester's Laboratory for Laser Energetics says its scientists have developed an electro-optic sampling device that measures electronic signals with an unprecedented resolution of a few hundred femtoseconds. A femtosecond is one-thousandth of a picosecond.

The scientists say a system capable of such resolution is vital to the development of ultrafast computers and communications systems now limited by the response times of their electronic components — components that first must be measured before they can be improved.

Information about your changing telephone service from Jim West, Manager Community Relations

New "Premises Work Charges"

There has been an important change recently regarding telephone wiring. The change involves the installation and repair of jacks and "inside wiring."

Inside wiring is required from the point where our lines end in a "network interface." On most new homes, this interface — a large plastic box — is usually installed near the power meter. (In new apartments, it's usually located near the circuit breaker box.)

If you don't have a new home, you probably don't have a network interface (we just started installing them in 1982). Instead, you have a similar device called a "protector."

Like a network interface, the protector is the point where our line ends and your inside wiring begins.

Until recently, we did all the installation and repair of wiring inside our customers' homes. We will still perform that work if you ask us — but the way the work is charged has now changed.

If we do the wiring, we'll now bill you "Premises Work Charges." These charges are billed for each 15-minute period required on the job. Charges cover all costs associated with the work, including materials, but costs differ for installation and repair.

Here's how the charges break down if we do the work for you:

PREMISES WORK CHARGES FOR JACKS AND INSIDE WIRING

		8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday-Friday	Other Times: Monday-Friday All-day Saturday	Other Times: Sundays and Holidays
Installation	Initial 15 Minutes	$18.50	$22.75	$27.00
	Each Additional 15 Minutes	$10.50	$12.50	$14.75
Repair	Initial 15 Minutes	$28.25	$31.75	$35.25
	Each Additional 15 Minutes	$10.50	$12.75	$15.00

If you don't wish to have Southwestern Bell Telephone perform the work, you now have two other options. Those are hiring someone else (such as an electrical contractor), or doing it yourself (materials are available from many retail stores).

New rates — Small increase to you

By now, you are probably aware that Southwestern Bell Telephone received final approval for a rate increase effective June 1, which included the change in Premises Work Charges. I say you are "probably aware," because most customers will hardly notice it on their local exchange phone bill.

The rate award sounds like a lot of money — and it is, but the increase for residence flat-rate local exchange service is only 30 cents per month, or less.

Most of the increase (about 89%) was put on one group — Texas long distance companies (who pay for access to Southwestern Bell Telephone's network).

Teen-Ager's Letter to God Gets Panned and Praised

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1984 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: For years, the first thing I used to read in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat was your column, but you have just lost a reader.

Why? Because I hate your reruns! These people who ask you to print a letter because they think it's so good, let them get a scrapbook and save the ones they like, so the rest of us won't have to be bored with them. "Please, God, I'm Only 17," about the dead teen-ager in a car wreck, is one I really hate. I don't feel sorry for some jerk kid who kills himself doing 80 mph in a souped-up jalopy. I see kids like him every day around here, bouncing up and down in their seats, hitting the roof of the car with their heads. Most of them are either so high on dope or drunk on beer they can't feel a thing. And they all turn up their radios so loud you can hear them a block away.

This may sound cold to you, but if they kill themselves, it's fine with me; there's just one less nut on the road.

Like I said, Abby, you just lost a reader in St. Louis.

—FRED D., ELDON, MO.

DEAR FRED: Sorry, I hate to lose a reader, but I've heard from hundreds of readers (mostly teen-agers) urging me to run that letter every year. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: I am a 16-year-old boy, and I usually have fairly good control of my emotions. I mean, it takes a lot to make me cry, but when I read that letter in your column, "Please, God, I'm Only 17," I couldn't hold back the tears. I just never had anything hit me like that letter did.

It made me realize a lot of things. For one, it made me realize how much it would hurt my parents and grandparents if I ended up like that kid did, all because I chose to drive faster than I should.

It also made me promise myself that I would never, never take a drink of anything—not even beer—and then get behind the wheel of a car. I also promised myself that if I am in a car and the driver starts to drive recklessly or foolishly fast, I will try to talk some sense into him—or her—and if I can't, I will insist on being let out of that car no matter where I am or what time it is.

Thank you, Abby, for printing that letter. Please run it every spring just before the kids have their proms because that's the time most kids get killed in car accidents.

I never realized how much one letter could change my life. Keep up the good work.

—RICK IN INDIANA

DEAR ABBY: I just read your column about weddings that were stopped when the question was asked, "If there is anyone present who knows why this couple should not be joined in holy matrimony, let him speak now or forever hold his peace."

I would like to add my own experience: I was a 19-year-old bride in 1933. The man I was about to marry was 26, and we had gone together for two years.

We walked down the aisle of a little country church filled with friends and relatives. When the preacher asked if anybody present knew why we shouldn't be married, I spoke up and said, "I cannot marry Allen (his real name) because when he asked me to marry him, I told him I would on the condition that he never take another drink of whiskey again. He swore he wouldn't with his hand on a Bible, but as we were walking down the aisle I smelled liquor on his breath!"

The guests were shocked, the wedding was called off and my daddy said he was proud of me. Allen left town, and two years later I married a nice non-drinking man. Next May we'll have been married 50 years.

Plan high-tech security for GOP convention

DALLAS (AP) — Police will have available for next month's Republican National Convention a highly sophisticated infrared device that will enable them to fly overhead on a moonless night and see a man crouched in a parking lot as easily as if it were broad daylight.

"It will enable us to check out areas at night, like rooftops and dark alleys," Dallas police Lt. Robert Cormeer of the department's helicopter unit told the Dallas Times Herald.

For local and federal law enforcement officials, the $400,000 device, on temporary loan from Texas Instruments, is only one piece of the futuristic equipment to be used during the Aug. 20-23 convention.

Cormeer said a device, shaped like a basketball, views the ground and instantly sends a picture through a cable to a television monitor inside the aircraft.

Reproduction on the screen is so good that those who view the pictures "can't tell the difference between daylight and dark," said Joseph Keahey, marketing director for Texas Instruments.

Officials say it has been used primarily by the military since its invention 20 years ago. Texas Instruments hopes to modify it for civilian use.

The FBI will be using other high-technology security devices.

Voice encryptors have been installed in the FBI's command post and in agents' cars so no one outside the agency can listen to the electronically scrambled radio communications.

"For the convention, because of the potential need, everything here is the latest and the best," Dallas FBI spokesman Udo Specht told the Times Herald.

The agency's inventory of security devices, ranging from weapons and walkie-talkies to night-vision goggles, has been increased by loans from other field offices, and all the equipment is undergoing special scrutiny.

"It's fair to admit that everything we've got is being tuned up for the convention," Specht said.

A special FBI computer with massive memory capabilities, on loan from Washington, D.C., will link intelligence data from hundreds of local and federal agencies.

Library club nears completion

The Scurry County Library Summer Reading Program has been a big success. Two-hundred-amd-forty-two children are enrolled in Magical Mysteries, the Texas Reading Club.

Each child must read at least 12 books on his or her level to complete the program and get a certificate. August 11 will be the end of the program so those who have not yet read their 12 books are encouraged to get reading.

Films continue to be shown each Thursday at 10:30 a.m. for all children. July 26, will feature "Aladdin and his Wonderful Lamp."

To serve our Spanish-speaking community, Scurry County Library has Spanish language popular novels, fotonovels, romances and westerns availabe for borrowing.

LAST STORY TIME--Friday was the last day of Scurry County Library's story time. It will resume for preschoolers (3-5) in September each Friday at 10 a.m. Those pictured are back row, from left, Linley Rhinehart, Stephanie Spencer, Mrs. Roxie Angel, Troy Allen; front row, Lupe Guerra, Molly Wilson and Jared Dennis. Tarnished lawmaker pursues new career in bio-medicine

WACO, Texas (AP) — Mike Martin, who made national headlines when authorities accused him of staging his own shooting during his days as Texas legislator, is aiming for a new career — and still dabbling in politics.

Martin, 32, is working toward a bio-medical degree at Texas State Technical Institute here, where he is president of the student senate.

"I go by another name now because it's easier. But it doesn't take long before people find out who I really am," he said in a telephone interview with the Longview News-Journal published Sunday.

"But a year's a long time, and here in Waco, most people don't really remember that much about all the stuff which happened," said Martin, who represented Gregg County in the Texas House.

Martin's downfall began when he was charged with lying to a Travis County grand jury that investigated his shooting on July 31, 1981, at an Austin trailer park. The following April, he accepted a plea bargain that included a $2,000 fine and his resignation from the Legislature.

Martin, who hopes to become a hospital administrator, said he plans to enter Baylor University next year and study business management.

"That is a great field to get into these days. It's wide open and I believe I will be good at it," he said. "I've always been interested in helping people. That's why I ran for the House. I wanted to help my people."

Martin's former wife and two children are living in Tyler. Divorce proceedings were finalized this year. The divorce is something that did not result from the confusion following the shooting incident, he said.

Though Martin says he will never seek public office again, he adds that he has never shaken the bug to govern, he said.

"It's kind of funny, but when I enrolled in TSTI the school had a lot of trouble between the students and the administration. The students came last with the administrators," Martin said.

"So I was selected to represent my technical class in the student senate. After only a few weeks as a represenative, the other people in the senate noticed I was very intense at my job, so they elected me president," he said.

About three weeks later, someone found out who he really was, and the word spread, he said.

"Needless to say, some of the people were pretty upset, and some of them even debated whether or not to throw me out. But the majority voted to keep me and everything has been okay since then," he said.

Martin offers no apologies for his meager results in the Legislature, where he sat on the last row, filed just one bill, and was ranked among Texas Monthly magazine's 10 worst legislators.

"The one bill I filed on creationism being taught in public schools was the only piece of legislation my constituents asked me to present. And that was buried (by other legislators)," he said.

Martin became a national figure when he was shot in the arm as he ducked behind a car in an Austin trailer park. At first, he told police he didn't know who shot him, according to reports at that time.

Average Payment can help smooth out high summer electric bills.

In the summer, intense Texas heat can make your air conditioner work longer and drive your electric bill up in a hurry.

Our Average Payment Plan can help by "averaging out" your payments. You still pay for all the electricity you use, and your payments will still vary from month to month. However, in high-use months you pay for less electricity than you use, and in low-use months you pay for more.

Average Payment can help smooth out high summer electric bills. It's available to both residential customers and churches. If you'd like to know more, give us a call.

Fixx, dean of jogging, dies

HARDWICK, Vt. (AP) — An autopsy has shown that Jim Fixx, author of the 1978 best-seller "The Complete Book of Running," had serious heart disease that led to his fatal heart attack while jogging.

"He had serious heart disease affecting two major arteries to the heart. They were completely blocked off," said Vermont Chief Medical Examiner Dr. Eleanor McQuillen.

She added that besides the heart problems, Fixx was in "fine, excellent shape."She said he apparently didn't have any warning signals that accompany a heart attack, and apparently didn't know of his condition.

"He never had any warning. If he did, he ignored it," the medical examiner said.

Fixx checked into a Hardwick motel Friday afternoon and was found along Vermont 15 by a motorcyclist about an hour later, officials said. Efforts to revive him were unsuccessful, according to police.

Fixx was in Vermont for a vacation and had often summered in the Greensboro area, said David Smith of Greensboro, a friend of the author. Fixx held annual running workshops in the state, with the most recent conducted last month.

Fixx's body was flown to Greenwich, Conn., during the weekend for a memorial service.

Funeral services were scheduled for 3 p.m. Tuesday at St. Saviour's Episcopal Church in Old Greenwich, said John Fixx, Fixx's 23-year-old son. Fixx will be cremated according to his wishes, he said.

Relatives said Fixx believed himself to be in good health and was most aware of the signs of heart problems because his father died of a heart attack at age 43.

drainage in the area.

Possible drainage problems related to the project were cited by the homeowners group.

In addition, they expressed concern regarding square footage requirements of proposed residences. The proposal includes requirements of 1,850 sq. ft. Existing homes have a minimum requirement of 2,500 sq. ft.

The only other new business item before the council Monday involves a second request from individuals hoping to use music or bells as part of their traveling ice cream truck operation here.

Due to a city ordinance prohibiting such items, an earlier request for these was denied by the council.

The council has also scheduled a second work session Monday related to the 1984-85 City Budget.

Watson dream evaporates...

Ballesteros conquers Open

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP) - The roar on the 18th green said it all.

Severiano Ballesteros had snaked in a 15-foot putt and Tom Watson, one hole behind, knew that his dream of a record-equalling sixth British Open title was over ... at least for another year.

Almost predictably, it was the vicious 17th hole, the 461-yard, par-4 "Road Hole" that destroyed Watson's hopes..

With the title seemingly heading towards a Monday playoff after an exciting nip-and-tuck finale between the American and the Spaniard, Watson overhit his second shot at the most crucial stage of the match.

After a strong drive to a good position on the fairway, his 2-iron shot flew across the road almost out of bounds and landed right next to a stone wall.

Watson knew his chance had virtually disappeared on the hole that had dashed the hopes of several other players before him.

"I wasn't quite sure what club I wanted to hit ... and I pushed it to the right on to the road. The ball ran up about two feet from the wall and restricted my backswing," he said.

The two-time defending champion did well to chip to within 30 feet of the pin but missed the putt and took a bogey.

By then, Ballesteros - who had either been in the lead, just behind or level with Watson for most of the day - had putted on 18 to edge ahead one last time at 12 under par.

As the crowd roared, the popular Spaniard clenched his fist, punched the air and smiled broadly. Now Watson needed an eagle-2 to catch the Spaniard. He drove well but could not chip in from 93 yards and the title went to Ballesteros for the second time.

Ballesteros, who won the Open for the first time in 1979, had not won a tournament all year. He had started the day tied for second with West Germany's Bernhard Langer at 9-under-par, two strokes behind Watson and young Australian Ian Baker-Finch.

"When I holed the last putt, I was so excited, I almost killed my caddie with my hand," said an elated Ballesteros.

For the second time in four years, Langer finished runner-up. In 1981, he placed second to Bill Rogers. On Sunday, he tied for second with Watson.

Appleton scores well at Frontier Days show

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dave Appleton competed for Western Texas College several years ago and continues to visit Snyder frequently.

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) - Dave Appleton's horse fouled him at the chute but made up for it by helping the Stephenville, Texas, cowboy to a bareback bronc score of 79, the highest on the first day of the 88th annual Cheyenne Frontier Days rodeo Saturday.

It took the judges several minutes to decide whether the horse fouled Appleton enough to warrant a reride. Appleton said he was pleased with the decision. "I've got no choice but to be happy, as much as this son of a gun pays," he said. He guessed the difference to him could be about $2,000.

A purse of $430,000 and 1,145 entrants maintain the Daddy of 'Em All rodeo as the richest and largest of the regular season of the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association. Finals are July 29.

Steer ropers got started Friday morning, and the top three times were intact by the end their first go-round Saturday afternoon. Bobby Kirkwood of San Antonio, Texas, had the best time of 13.7 seconds and earned a $5,128 payoff.

Robert Koch of Umbarger, Texas, received $4,142 for his 13.8-second roping, and checks of $2,564 went to Rees Jackman of Thermopolis, Wyo., and Wade Lewis of Hereford, Texas. Each had times of 13.9 seconds.

The top saddle bronc score of 78 belonged to Kent Cooper of Delco, Idaho, who currently holds a $14,000 lead in world saddle bronc standings.

Tracksters need sponsor to state

Scurry County Girl's Summer Recreation track program is needing sponsors to help send some of its members to the Texas Amateur Athletic Federation state track meet, Aug. 3 and 4 in Brownwood.

The girls attended the TAAF Regional Qualifying Meet in Lubbock recently, winning 16 first place medals, three second place medals, four third place medals and 15 ribbons from fourth to sixth place. Those who placed first or second in their events have qualified for the upcoming state meet.

Among them are Eric Braziel in the Bantam long jump and 50 meter dash; Trina Thompson in the 100 meter dash; Shelby Bufkin in the junior long jump; Kayla Walker and Jennifer Gonzales in the Bantam 50 yard dash; Katrina Carrasco in the Midget long jump.

Others are the Bantam boy's 400 relay team of Braziel, Larry Thompson, Chris Winter and Chad Walker, and the Midget girl's 400 relay team of Billie Thompson, Robbie Braziel, Juli Lay and Trina Thompson.

CFA reaches tv agreement

NEW YORK (AP) - ABC-TV said Saturday it had reached an agreement with the 63-member College Football Association, giving the network exclusive rights to broadcast games played by most of the major football powers this season.

The network said it will carry 20 CFA games.

The CFA comprises five major conferences - Southeastern, Southwest, Atlantic Coast, Big Eight and Western Athletic - as well as major independents such as Notre Dame, Pitt, Penn State, Miami and Boston College.

ABC's announcement finally clarified the TV football picture after two weeks of confusion following the Supreme Court decision to uphold a lower court ruling that voided the NCAA's contract with ABC and CBS.

As a result of the high court's ruling, a school or conference could negotiate with any network, station or groups of stations to carry its games. Some conferences, anticipating the ruling, had already sold games to packagers to sell to individual stations.

But the CFA-ABC deal provides a reasonably clear picture of what viewers will see this fall.

It means that in the television "window" allocated to the networks - from 2:30 p.m. to 6 p.m. Central Time each Saturday - ABC will televise CFA games while CBS will carry games involving schools from the Big Ten and Pacific-10 Conferences, the two major conferences that split from the CFA.

There will also be two other television windows - from 11 until 2:30 p.m., when local stations may carry games sold to them by individual schools and conferences; and from 6 p.m. on, when college games can be carried on cable television.

The contract with the CFA does not permit any "crossover" games - games between CFA schools and those from the Pac-10-Big Ten group - to be shown on another network during the late-afternoon time period.

But Jim Spence, vice president in charge of ABC Sports, said ABC has the right to negotiate separately for such games, such as the traditional Notre Dame-Southern California contest that has usually been televised nationwide.

The agreement with the CFA calls for 20 games to be televised between Sept. 8 through Dec. 1, a total of 13 weeks, compared to 10 weeks and 14 games in the CBS contract with the Pac-10-Big Ten, for which it paid an estimated $8 million.

Spence said ABC also had a "position" with the CFA that presumably would give it the right to extend the contract beyond this season.

The price for the CFA package was reported to be approximately $15 million, less than half the $34.5 million each network was paying the NCAA for the rights to the contract that was thrown out by the courts.

Slaught slams Baltimore, 8-4

by The Associated Press

When Don Slaught steps to the plate, the world champion Orioles are just so many pigeons.

The catcher, with a double, triple and two singles, turned in his second four-hit game against the Orioles in three days Sunday to help the Kansas City Royals to an 8-4 victory over Baltimore.

Slaught reached base 12 times in 16 plate appearances over the weekend as the Royals took three out of four from the Orioles. Slaught is hitting .257 overall this season, .457 against the Orioles. He batted .529 against them last year.

"Things like that happen. You can't explain it," said Royals Manager Dick Howser. "The Orioles probably have the best five-man rotation in the league. But one thing is the fact that Slaught is starting to hit the ball well and we've been playing Baltimore. When he's swinging the bat well, he can hit anybody."

Elsewhere in the AL, Oakland defeated Milwaukee 5-4, Detroit blanked Texas 2-0, Cleveland downed Chicago 3-1, Boston bopped California 3-0, New York edged Minnesota 6-5 and Toronto topped Seattle 5-3.

In National League action, San Diego beat Pittsburgh 5-1 in the opener of a doubleheader before the Pirates took the nightcap 3-2 in 11 innings; Philadelphia stopped Atlanta 6-2; St. Louis nipped Los Angeles 7-6; Houston stopped Montreal 6-1 and the New York Mets edged Cincinnati, 7-6.

Slaught singled amid a five-run fifth-inning outburst that buried Scott McGregor, 12-8, and handed the victory to Larry Gura, 10-7. Greg Pryor and Darryl Motley stroked two-run singles in the onslaught.

Joe Beckwith and Dan Quisenberry pitched the final two innings for the Royals.

The Orioles scored their runs on solo homers by Rick Dempsey, Benny Ayala, Todd Cruz and Mike Young.

A's 5, Brewers 4

Oakland fell behind 4-0, but Dave Kingman's 28th home run in the fourth inning brought the A's within 4-2 and Bill Almon's leadoff blast in the seventh ruined the Brewers.

On Friday night, the A's blew an early 7-3 lead and lost 9-7. They were ahead 4-1 after seven innings on Saturday and fell 7-4 to Milwaukee.

Bill Krueger, 7-6, allowed only five hits over 8 1-3 innings, giving up only a single after Milwaukee collected four hits in a four-run second-inning rally. He retired the final 14 batters he faced before Bill Caudill came on for his 20th save.

Kingman's homer gave him 87 RBI in the 85 games he's played.

Tigers 2, Rangers 0

Dan Petry and Willie Hernandez combined on a four-hitter and Dave Bergman smacked his fourth home run of the season as the Tigers completed a sweep of the four-game series in Detroit.

Petry, 13-4, helped the Tigers to their ninth win in their last 10 games. He became the American League's first 13-game winner. Hernandez got the last out for his 20th save.

Charlie Hough, 10-8, came out on the losing end despite allowing only three hits.

Johnson eager to play for Campbell's Oilers

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) - After trying for four years to get traded away from the Dallas Cowboys, wide receiver Butch Johnson still was wary when Coach Tom Landry traded him to the Houston Oilers last April.

It took one conversation with new Houston Coach Hugh Campbell to convince Johnson that he still belonged in Texas.

"We are building something new here," Johnson said. "I think if Coach (Ed) Biles was still here I would have refused to come to Houston. The only reason I'm here is because of Hugh Campbell. I believe that he is a coach that is really for the players and that he's going to make a winner."

Biles resigned six games into the 1983 season and interim head coach Chuck Studley departed for Miami at the end of a 2-14 campaign.

"Coach Landry called me and I said I wasn't really pleased with the choice," Johnson said. "But I talked to Coach Campbell and that persuaded me immediately. There was no question. I felt he was the type of coach I was looking for for a long, long time.

"I'll always have some disenchantment with Coach Landry," he said.

Johnson led the nation with 67 catches his senior year at California-Riverside, but spent eight volatile pro years competing for playing time with the Cowboys' talented stable of receivers.

He caught 41 passes and three touchdowns last season for his best production as a pro. But he says the best is yet to come.

"You've just seen a shell of Butch Johnson, a person that really hasn't had a great attitude about playing football, but has managed to entertain," Johnson said. "I can't imagine what it will be like with a good attitude.

"I'd like to play 16 games and catch a lot of passes without getting injured," he said.

Veteran Oilers wide receiver Mike Renfro went to the Cowboys in exchange for Johnson, who now sees a new beginning.

"I'm on the floor with the rookies," he said. "I'm like starting at the bottom of the boat. But for every ending there is a new beginning and I'm trying to make a new beginning here."

Johnson thinks his playoff experience will help the Oilers and their corps of young receivers.

"They're starting to call me the old man. I've never heard that before," Johnson said. "The advantage I have here over some of the receivers is experience. I've been in Super Bowls, I've been in NFC championship games, I've been in playoff games.

"I've had to play under extreme pressure because I didn't know when I was going to get in a game, so I had to come up with the spectacular," he said.

Cowboys stress defense; White still holding out

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) - Linebacker Bob Breunig says holdout All-Pro Dallas Cowboys' defensive tackle Randy White "is out there somewhere going crazy."

White, in the option year of his contract, refused to report to camp as scheduled last Thursday and is being fined $1,000 per day.

He wants his $350,000 per year contract renegotiated to the level of the $800,000 per year bemng made by the Nuw Yrk Jets' Mark Gustineau.

While White has been fishing, his teammates have been waiting on his arrival.

"It's just speculation on my part but I figure Randy is knocking holes in the wall somewhere because he wants to be here so bad," Breunig said. "Randy is a great team guy. I would assume the minute some progress is being made in his contract, he will be on the first plane out here."

A majority of the Cowboys are supportive of White's move.

"More power to him," said cornerback Everson Walls, who missed camp time last year in his salary dispute with the Cowboys' front office. "Randy deserves what ever he is asking."

In White's absence, the Cowboy defense got its marching orders from Coach Tom Landry, who was displeased with the 1983 season. Dallas' defense was 27th in passing yardage allowed and 13th against the rush.

"One of our goals is a more aggressive attitude," Breunig said. "Tom wants us to develop more sure tackling and pursue harder. Our tackling was not good last year."

Breunig said one goal was "85 per cent tackling accuracy. It was way below 80 per cent last year."

The Cowboys' middle linebacker said a top priority would be placed on tackling during training camp.

Dallas strong safety Bill Bates suffered a bruised thigh during weekend drills.

Smoking decline trend continues

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nationally, per capita cigarette smoking has been edging downward for 20 years and is expected to decline again in 1984. Rising prices, not health concerns, are the reason, some experts say.

A recent report by the Agriculture Department says there is wide disagreement on the issue, however.

The report is in the current issue of Farmline, which is published monthly by the department's Economic Research Service.

Verner Grise, an economist in the agency, says price has been the major factor but acknowledges that health concerns have probably made an impact over the long term.

The report said "no one has yet been able to accurately measure" the impact of smoking on human health. The impact of tobacco prices, however, can be measured. And per capita cigarette consumption generally declines when the retail costs go up.

In any case, the tobacco industry is worried about the trends, the report said, and so are about 200,000 growers of tobacco crops. That's where USDA comes into the picture.

"Tobacco is an agricultural commodity just like wheat or corn," Grise said in the report. "USDA's support programs are not a statement of policy toward smoking. They are simply actions intended to sustain a traditional agricultural industry, one that's been hurt by falling demand in recent years and one that's important to the economy of several states."

Last year, Americans smoked an estimated 600 billion cigarettes, about 5 percent less than in 1982. That was the lowest total since 1974.

Per-capita cigarette use last year dropped also to about 170 packs from more than 187 packs of 20 cigarettes each in 1982. That 7 percent decline was one of the sharpest on record.

Since 1963, U.S. per capita cigarette smoking has dropped 20 percent from a peak of more than 217 packs. That was just prior to the 1964 report by the U.S. surgeon general linking smoking with a number of health problems.

Those per capita figures apply only to Americans 18 years and older, smokers and non-smokers alike. They are a statistical measure, not a true indicator of smoking habits.

Grise contends that the decline in recent years, at least, has been due mostly to retail price increases brought about by rising cigarette taxes and, to a smaller degree, higher manufacturing costs.

He said last year, the average retail price of a pack of cigarettes went up 21 percent, from roughly 75 cents to 90 cents.

Part of the hike was due to increases in federal excise taxes, which doubled from eight to 16 cents a pack.

One state added a penny surcharge per pack, and five states removed "sunset" provisions that would have ended previous excise taxes, Grise said. By December, the national weighted average state tax was 15.3 cents a pack, a 1-cent increase over 1982's rate.

In addition, manufacturers raised wholesale cigarette prices three times in 1983, he said.
