Wholesale prices held flat in April

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices held flat in April, ending four months of increases, the government said today. The sharpest food price decline since June offset the only gasoline price gain in nine months.

Today's report showed that, for the first four months of 1984, inflation at the wholesale level is running at an annual rate of 4.4 percent, in line with analysts' predictions that, for the full year, the rate will be 4.5 percent to 5 percent.

The 2.9 percent boost in gaoline prices had been expected by industry analysts who point to increased consumption but diminished refinery capacity.

Not since the summer has the Labor Department's Producer Price Index for finished goods recorded an increase in gasoline prices.

Offsetting that, however, was the good news on food prices.

Wholesale vegetable costs plummeted a sharp 26.1 percent. Fresh fruit prices tumbled 8.2 percent while beef and veal prices were off 2.8 percent.

Fish prices fell 3.4 percent after soaring 30.2 percent in March as fishing off the Northeast coast was slowed sharply by bad weather.

In a separate report, the Commerce Department said retail sales rebounded sharply in April, rising 2.9 percent to wipe out a March decline that had been one of the biggest in recent years.

As for wholesale prices, natural gas costs recorded their steepest increase, 1.7 percent, since March 1983. But fuel oil prices, reflecting the end of the winter heating season, plunged 9.2 percent.

The energy price increases lag a month behind the other wholesale price calculations as energy companies make their reports too late for inclusion in the current tabulation.

Wholesale prices overall had risen 0.5 percent in March, 0.4 percent in February and 0.6 percent in January. Prices rose a tiny 0.6 percent in 1983, their best showing in two decades, after advancing 3.7 percent in 1982.

The wholesale price index measures month-to-month changes in the prices paid to producers for food, energy products and other items. The prices American consumers actually pay — usually to retailers — are measured by the Consumer Price Index. The producer price measure often gives a good idea where those consumer prices are heading.

Detailing last month's price activity, the Labor Department said:

—Food prices overall were down 0.6 percent.

Egg prices shot up 18.6 percent, reversing the 18.5 percent drop in March. Pork prices rose 8.7 percent.

Worker killed by rig

An oilfield accident claimed the life of a 32-year-old Snyder man late Thursday.

Pronounced dead at the scene was Juan (Johnny) Guadalupe Alaniz of 3504 44th St.

Alaniz was part of a crew attempting to place a drilling rig tower on the back of a flatbed truck. In the process the tower fell, crushing Alaniz.

The time of death was placed at around 4:45 p.m.

He was an employee of Elmo Moore Trucking Co. Inc. of Tye. The crew was working at a rig site some three miles south of here beside U.S. Highway 84.

Justice of the Peace Dan Callaway pronounced Alaniz, who sustained massive injuries to the back and chest, dead at the scene.

Funeral services are scheduled for 4 p.m. Saturday at the Bell-Seale Funeral Chapel.

He is survived by his wife Clarissa of the home; two daughters, Michelle Alaniz and Heidi Lee, both of Snyder; a son, Heath Alaniz of Oklahoma; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Alaniz of Hermleigh; and a brother, Richard Alaniz of Hermleigh.

Open air CCU due at Cogdell

Renovation of a portion of the old hospital wing at Cogdell Memorial Hospital was approved Thursday — work which will convert the space to an open area Critical Care Unit.

Initial work on the renovation is expected to cost $11,487. This will entail eliminating two walls, installing a lowered ceiling and recovering existing walls.

The area to be converted is on the second floor of the old hospital wing. It now consists of two wards with a semi-private room in between.

This room will be converted to a nursing station and the adjoining walls removed to allow visual contact with patients on both sides.

Once the area is "opened up," cabinet and other finish work will still be required, said Hospital Administrator Cy Miller.

Cogdell currently has a nine-bed CCU unit — an area consisting of nine private rooms.

The change to an open concept was recommended to allow a central location and easy access for patient monitoring equipment associated with a critical care unit.

In addition, the visual contact available to nurses was pointed to. In the current unit, closed circuit television is included in each individual room.

In the open area CCU, curtains will be installed to offer patients some degree of privacy.

Once the work is completed, the current CCU will be converted to office space for nursing supervisors.

The action came at the May meeting of the board of managers for Cogdell. In addition Thursday, the board approved a pay increase for Miller was approved following a board committee recommendation.

The board approved also a one-time payment of $27,662 to go toward teaching staff salaries for the associate degree nursing program offered through the hospital, Western Texas College and Howard College in Big Spring.

A like payment is to be asked of WTC officials, part of an overall expense of $55,320.

Miller noted the cost is a "one-time deal" because funding for this portion of Felony cases pleas offered

Five felony defendants were sentenced following guilty pleas in 132nd District Court Thursday.

Henry Orville Wells, 66, of Snyder pleaded guilty to a charge of burglary of an auto. He was sentenced to five years in the Texas Department of Corrections.

Wells had been charged last week in connection with the burglary of a car parked beside the Snyder National Bank.

Also sentenced to a term in the TDC Thursday was James Christopher Pierce, who now faces a five-year term after having a probationary term cancelled.

He was on probation for a 1981 charge of cocaine possession and was arrested April 28 on charges of DWI and possession of marijuana.

Marion Charles Thompson of Louisiana, charged in connection with the March 4 theft of radio relay systems from a tower site near Fluvanna, exchanged a guilty plea for a six-year probated prison term.

He had been charged with burglary with intent to commit theft. According to terms of the plea bargin

Danny Hukel, in the Gatesville Messenger, told about a woman who took out her frustrations on her hometown.

The sand must have been blowing because she set fire to her office, rammed her car into several stores, hit a parked vehicle and drove into a fence before the police could stop her.

Asked to explain her actions she said, "I went out and got rid of my frustrations." It was said to have cost some $50,000.

We're glad she didn't live in Snyder.

Larry Crabtree, in the Vernon Record, told about a psychologist in the state hospital there who was giving an oral test on his lecture on mental health.

Speaking specifically about manic depression, the doctor asked, "How would you diagnose a patient who walks back and forth screaming at the top of his lungs one minute, then sits in a chair weeping uncontrollably the next?"

A young man in the rear raised his hand and answered, "A basketball coach."

George Dolan, in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, says no soliciting signs don't always discourage sales people.

A school near Fort Worth was being bothered by salesmen peddling their wares, so a "no soliciting" sign was placed on the front door.

It wasn't long before a salesman entered the principal's office and offered grapefruit for sale.

"Didn't you read the sign on our front door?"

"Lady," he answered, "if I could read I wouldn't be selling fruit."

Ask Us

Q. — Will the Olympic Flame come through Snyder?

A. — No, but at least one local organization was contacted regarding the possibility more than a year ago. A spokesman said they were contacted to determine if they were willing to provide both runners and a fee to have the torch routed through the county. The fee was "pretty substantial," they said, and they declined. The closest the torch will come to Snyder is less than 100 miles to the north at Benjamin and Guthrie on June 15.

In Brief

Mattox ordered to trial

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox today was ordered to stand trial on charges of commercial bribery.

State District Judge Mace Thurman refused to dismiss the commercial bribery indictment handed up by a Travis County grand jury and scheduled Mattox's trial for Sept. 17.

Mattox said immediately after the brief hearing that he would take his case to higher courts.

Roy Minton, Mattox's chief attorney, said an Austin district court would be asked next week to release Mattox from the charges.

He said Mattox would ask a writ of habeas corpus contending that he is being illegally held by a defective indictment.

"If we lose in the district court we will take it to the 3rd Court of Appeals," Minton said.

Mattox said he was "disappointed but not surprised" by Thurman's ruling.

"The motions (to dismiss the indictment) were denied by a judge who empaneled the grand jury which indicted me at the request of a district attorney who wants to run for state attorney general," Mattox said.

Residents glimpse gunmen

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas (AP) — Cindy Leonard, the owner of a downtown-area business, had one of the best seats as residents turned out in droves hoping to get a look at the gunman who took seven people hostage at a bank.

The shopowner was hard at work Thursday morning when a Cadillac squealed to a stop in front of the Citizens National Bank, located next door to her shop. Moments later, an armed man took seven bank employees hostage.

The crisis ended late Thursday when officers overpowered the gunman, identified as Richard Donald Foster, after the three remaining captives shut a bank vault door behind him.

Mrs. Leonard said she missed much of the action in the first few minutes, but could see the gunman from a side window in her shop as held the hostages.

Government loses case

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — In the first ruling to hold the U.S. government responsible for fallout damage from atomic testing, a judge condemned the failure to give simple advice — like "wash everything" — to people who later suffered cancer.

The decision, arising from above-ground nuclear blasts at the Nevada Test Site from 1951 to 1962, ordered the government to pay $2.1 million in nine cancer cases. Damages in a 10th are to be decided later.

The ruling also is expected to set a precedent for settling hundreds of other claims of radiation-induced cancer.

U.S. District Judge Bruce Jenkins found the government negligent, rejecting arguments that monitoring was sufficient and that all precautions known by the early 1950s to be necessary were taken.

Official says deregulate

AUSTIN (AP) — Congress should deregulate natural gas instead of extending price controls, Texas Railroad Commission Chairman Mack Wallace says.

Wallace, noting that natural gas production in Texas declined 10 percent last year, called Thursday for a "revolution in our energy thinking" to deregulate gas prices and guarantee American energy independence.

Business leaders...

Forecast ongoing good times

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — Economic good times should continue through this year and next, but threats from looming budget deficits could plunge the nation back into a recession by 1986, the country's top business leaders warned today.

While the chiefs of America's biggest companies saw storm clouds on the far horizon, their short-term prediction was for continued economic growth in the months ahead, but at a slower pace than last year.

A forecast prepared for the spring meeting of the 200-member Business Council predicted that interest rates would continue to rise, spurred in part by the continuing heavy borrowing needed to finance federal deficits edging near $200 billion annually.

The prime rate, a key business borrowing rate, already has climbed three times in the past two months to 12.5 percent, its highest level in 18 months.

The business forecast, presented to executives gathered at this plush resort in the Virginia mountains, is based on the views of top economists at 19 major corporations.

John R. Opel, chairman of IBM Corp., said there was wide disparity among the economists about interest rates.

The report predicted the prime rate would not go higher than the current 12.5 percent this year and 13 percent in 1985, but Opel said a minority saw the prime rising to 15 percent or higher next year.

Opel said the fear of higher rates was based on concern that current efforts to trim the federal deficits don't go far enough.

"Our consultants do not see in present administration or congressional budget proposals much hope for significant or early budget reductions," Opel said.

Congress and the administration are currently looking at various packages to make a "down payment" of around $150 billion in deficit reductions over the next three years.

The number of economists fearing a recession has grown from 25 percent last year to 40 percent currently, Opel said.

"They are saying if the deficit isn't reduced in some material way, we can expect trouble in 1986," he said.

For the rest of this year, the business leaders saw few problems with the economy to plague President Reagan before the November election.

Economic growth surged at a surprisingly robust 8.3 percent rate in the first three months of 1984. Like other forecasters, the businessmen expect this to slow dramatically.

Lawyer from Houston becomes veterans' hero

HOUSTON (AP) — Attorney C. Benton Musslewhite says he almost didn't take the Agent Orange defoliant case that most lawyers considered unwinnable.

But in challenging the federal government and seven large chemical companies, Musslewhite helped negotiate what may be the largest settlement in a products liability case in U.S. history.

The $750 million settlement reached Sunday in federal court in New York could affect as many as 100,000 veterans.

Musslewhite represented 1,500 Vietnam veterans who sued the companies, claiming the defoliant sprayed in Vietnamese jungles made them ill and caused sickness and birth defects among their children.

He said the most difficult part in reaching the settlement was deciding what would benefit the veterans the most.

"It was the most horrendous feeling, sitting there and you didn't know which way to go. There were some out there with families, some who were dying and need some contribution now and there were those who wanted their day in court, even if it meant they might not get anything," he said. "I believe it was best to let the veterans decide if the settlement was right."

Already $22 million in debt when he became involved in the suit in 1980, Musselwhite estimates he contributed almost $250,000 to the case, not counting his time.

But, he said, he almost didn't take the case.

"At first I didn't want to get involved," he said. "Nine out of 10 competent trial lawyers wouldn't have touched this case with a 10-foot pole."

What finally convinced him to take the case was a memo about a 1965 meeting among representatives of seven chemical companies who acknowledged that Agent Orange contained dioxin, a chemical highly toxic to humans, he said.

But Musslewhite said the company representatives did not tell the Pentagon of the defoliant's hazards, and that use of the chemical in Vietnamese jungles wasn't stopped until 1972.

"I just said, 'I can't believe it. I can't believe anyone would do this, would allow that to continue knowing what they did,' and I just couldn't say no once I knew that," he recalled.

He then contacted the attorney for a veterans group, Citizen Soldier, in New York and offered to take calls from veterans who thought Agent Orange had made them ill, he said.

"Musslewhite has definitely been one of the most active and most involved in the case," said Houston lawyer John O'Quinn, another of the seven lawyers working on the suit. O'Quinn estimated that Musslewhite spent 5,000 to 6,000 hours working on the case during the past four years.

Musslewhite said he doesn't own a house and still is $3 million in debt from a spate of lawsuits stemming from real estate ventures in which he was involved and a divorce settlement with his wife of 23 years.

"I realize it's not good for a lawyer to almost be in debtor's prison," Musslewhite said. "But I have worked on cases to great personal detriment and I have had some good rewards, and I don't care what the other lawyers say."

Musslewhite has worked in private practice in Houston, Lufkin and Dallas and two years for the Pentagon judge advocate general's corps.

Once an active Democrat, he lost a congressional seat in 1962 by 41 votes and again in 1966 by 11,000 votes. He also was legislative assistant for Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Texas.

Indecisive personality

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Can hardening of the arteries affect a person's personality? My 60-year-old husband can be kind and considerate one minute and really hateful the next. He's become very indecisive.

He's eaten lots of fried, starchy foods and sugar most of his life. He sometimes goes all day with nothing but black coffee and cigarettes. But when he does eat, no matter how much, he remains skinny. He also complains of excessive tiredness.

The diagnosis of hardening of the arteries is my own. We haven't been married too long and he tells me how sweet and kind I am, so apparently I don't bring on the spells.

DEAR READER — Yes, narrowing or blocking of arteries in the brain can cause personality changes. And the brain can undergo changes with age even if the circulation is normal. Doctors are accustomed to seeing a person who is kind and gentle become difficult after a stroke. However, that's not always the case.

Volatile personalities aren't always due to changes in the brain or other physical problems. Some people are born or develop volatile personalities early in life.

When a person behaves badly, at any age, he needs to learn to behave better. Self-control is important to the extent possible even in people who have some changes associated with age or disease.

The current thinking is that age shouldn't be used as an excuse to avoid reality. Reinforcing reality, including the reality of recognizing who your friends and family are, as opposed to going along with unacceptable behavior or mistaking perceptions, actually helps the person do better.

It's a mistake to blame everything that happens on age. You should read the Health Letter 14-2, The Aging Mind, which I'm sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

If your husband would follow a good diet and eliminate cigarettes and coffee, he might feel better. Lifestyle makes a big difference. He should set some goals for a self-improvement program. Then you could help him with his goals.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Does cooking with a microwave oven cause cancer?

DEAR READER — No. A properly designed microwave oven emits no significant amount of microwaves; there's no way they can cause any medical problems.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Is it true that shaved hair grows back thicker and coarser? Does hair grow back longer?

DEAR READER — You might as well ask if cutting the lawn causes it to grow longer and thicker. No, the hair shaft is really dead. The growth part is the hair follicle beneath the surface of the skin. The follicle is like the bulb of an onion.

The hair may seem coarser because the part of the shaft near the skin is stiffer and coarser — a stubble. So is the stubble of much grass.

I know your question is based on a commonly held idea, but there's no truth in it. Hair characteristics are more dependent on hormones manufactured within the hair follicles and inherited characteristics.

We know what acid rain does; we don't know where it's coming from. Until we do know, let's not spend a hundred-billion dollars fixing something that isn't broken!

People in New England and Canada contend that sulphur pollution, primarily produced by coal-burning industrial plants in the Midwest, is carried on the wind, mixed with moisture and then falls in the form of acidic rain or snow which damages lakes, fish and perhaps trees.

However, four recent scientific studies from Vermont to North Carolina indicate that damage to vegetation in those states, earlier attributed to acid rain, actually resulted from some other cause or casuses.

In the decade since the Clean Air Act, sulfur dioxide emissions from coal-fired electric power plants have been reduced 26 percent.

Yet, at the same time, to conserve oil, utilities are using more coal, 52.5 percent more.

More coal burned with less pollution can be credited to low-sulphur coal, coal washing and post-combustion scrubbers.

But the fact that total emissions have been reduced with no substantive reduction in acid rain...

And the fact that only 4 percent of New York state's lakes are "acidic" strongly suggests some other cause — possibly runoff from forest floors.

Further, a study of weather cycles indicates that there is less acid rain during periods of prolonged drought — not because there is less rain — but because there is more wind-blown calcium in the air which tends to neutralize acidity.

Further complicating computations is the known fact that rainfall is naturally acidic, normally 4.5 to 5.5 hydrogenions.

Also, it is known that one active volcano emits into the atmosphere more particulate pollution than all the world's industries combined — and we have recently had three enormously active volcanoes. And yes, volcanoes emit sulfur dioxide also.

I have barely touched on the scientific complexities and economic ramifications of this enormously complicated subject.

More and more scientists are saying we need more answers to our questions before prescribing remedies.

President Reagan, prudently, is asking more time before committing 100 billion of your dollars to a massive cleanup.

Yet, this is an election year and agitation, particularly from northeast states, could precipitate a premature commitment.

T. J. Hart resigning from NASA

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The astronaut who used the space shuttle's robot arm to pluck an ailing satellite from the sky after a spacewalk failed to retrieve the orbiter has decided to leave the space agency for a job in private industry.

Terry J. Hart, 37, who snared the $75 million Solar Max last month, said Thursday he has accepted a management-engineering position with Bell Laboratories in Whippany, N.J. His resignation is effective June 15.

Hart was selected as an astronaut candidate in January 1978 and became a member of the space corps the following year.

His duties on the rescue mission, carried out April 6-13, included the operation of the space shuttle remote manipulation system, an arm-like crane controlled from inside the space cabin.

Space-walking astronauts had been unable to secure a hook to the surface of the rotating satellite.

Hart previously worked for Bell Lab from 1968 to 1978 as member of the technical design staff. He received two patents during his decade with the company.

Prior to that, Hart was an Air Force pilot. He still is in the Air National Guard.

Hart is a native of Pittsburgh. He holds masters degrees in science from both Massachusetts Institute of Technology and from Rutgers University.

Hart's resignation leaves 77 astronauts in the space corps. He is the first to leave NASA from a large group that became astronauts in 1979.

SCOOP rep addresses B&PW

Faye McCollum, Business and Professional Women's Club president, arranged an informative program for an after dinner meeting at the Martha Ann Woman's Club recently.

Guest speaker was Diana Price, a licensed foster parent and NOVA trainer. She told of the great need for an establishment for teenaged girls and other children with needs of guidance and security. She outlined the plans of Scurry-County Options and Opportunities for People (SCOOP) and asked encouragement from the group.

Clemy Andress was hostess. Spring arrangements were used in decorations. Nellie Smith led the club collect.

Ruby Butts, vice president, conducted the business meeting. Frances Brown reported on the collection of books. Plans to attend the Art Festival in Midland were tabled and the fund raiser was postponed.

Lee Weaver will be the hostess for the May meeting in her home.

By Oswald Jacoby and James Jacoby

Here's a simple hand to play — that is, if you get to three no-trump. Four hearts can be made on a very complicated end play, but today we are interested in the simple things of bridge.

South is in three no-trump and receives the king of diamonds lead. Not that it is too unexpected. South's weakness is in that suit.

South must set up his hearts. He must try to guard against the loss of diamond tricks after he loses the ace of hearts.

How does he do this? He must call upon one of bridge's favorite animals, the duck! So he lets the first diamond live, but wins the second. He has guarded against a 5-2 diamond break, provided that East holds the heart ace. At trick three he leads a heart and has his nine tricks, since East holds the ace.

Ten are available on the same silly end play that would bring in a four-heart contract. He must assume that West holds the queen of clubs. So here's the play.

It is down to a four-card ending. If West has discarded down to one diamond and three clubs, he is thrown in with the diamond. If West is down to two diamonds and two clubs, South has his three club tricks by just playing out the A-K-J.

Hermleigh Methodists schedule celebration

First United Methodist Church of Hermleigh plans a special event at 6:30 p.m. Sunday to celebrate the 200th anniversary of Methodism.

The youth of the church will present a program to be followed by a covered dish supper complete with birthday cake.

A display of old items relating to the Methodist church will be on display in the elementary class room. Some items loaned for the exhibit include a 1849 Methodist hymnal, 1861 Methodist membership document, 1890 Methodist discipline and pictures.

Problems can't keep him down

HOUSTON (AP) — George Harris, weakened by 29 operations in his 35-year life, spent four years interviewing before he found a job which pays him $260 a month less than the Social Security benefits he'd collect if he stayed unemployed.

But Harris says he's grateful for the chance to escape the boredom which drove him to crossword puzzles — he figures he worked about 500 books full — and daytime television.

"I knew things were getting bad when I started watching soap operas and when I began to know the names of the people on the soap operas," he said. "Then my wife would come home (from work), and I'd tell her about the soap operas."

It took Harris more than 65 job interviews to land his job managing a wallpaper distributing company.

"As long as I can draw a breath, I hope I'm never a burden to my fellow taxpayer," he said.

Harris was disabled in October 1978 when he fell one story from a warehouse walkway. He says he suffered a fractured skull, five cracked ribs and two crushed discs in his back from the fall.

His legs became weak after the accident and doctors say the condition will grow worse until he cannot walk, he said.

"My legs right now look like toothpicks," he said.

Harris will have corrective surgery for his legs, but doctors say his condition may improve if he delays the operation.

The warehouse accident wasn't Harris' first bad luck.

When he was 14 he accidentally poked his eye with a screwdriver while building a bookshelf for his mother in a shop class. The injury required surgery. He needed more surgery at 16, when he was injured in a motorcycle accident.

And at 20, doctors removed a benign tumor from his face, an operation that later caused him dental problems.

"Now all my top teeth are ruined," he said. "I have nothing there. Everything just fell out of my mouth."

Harris said he will have his teeth fixed when he can afford it, but until then he eats "a lot of soups and a lot of mashed potatoes. A lot of stuff that isn't good for my ulcer."

When he had stomach surgery, the operating team accidentally left a stainless steel clip on his esophagus, he said. He learned of the problem when he realized he couldn't eat or swallow.

U.S. Senate race...

Amnesty now big issue

AUSTIN (AP) — President Reagan says communist expansion in Central America could send a flood of illegal aliens across the U.S. border, but the issue of illegal aliens already in Texas is credited with turning a third-place candidate into a winner in the Senate primary.

A month before Saturday's vote, U.S. Rep. Kent Hance was running third in opinion polls behind former congressman Bob Krueger and state Sen. Lloyd Doggett.

"I'd begun to think my first name was 'Distant,'" Hance said. "Every time I'd see my name in the newspapers, it would say, 'Distant Kent Hance...'"

But the conservative Hance ended up the surprise top vote-getter and will face liberal Doggett in a June 2 runoff. Many political observers say his staunch opposition to amnesty for illegal aliens was the reason.

"Hance raised the only issue; he created the only real issues in the race. I don't think anybody was paying any attention until Hance started drawing the line on issues like amnesty," said George Christian, an Austin political consultant and former press secretary to President Lyndon Johnson.

Illegal aliens are a big problem in Texas. But no one knows how big.

"There's no way we could estimate how many there are. We do have quite a few," said Leo Soto, spokesman for the Immigration and Naturalization Service regional commissioner in Dallas.

In mid-April, Hance pollster Irwin "Tubby" Harrison of Boston sent the candidate a memo outlining key issues in the Senate race. Harrison pinpointed amnesty as one that "would play" with Texas voters.

Through the campaign's final weeks, Hance raised the amnesty issue repeatedly. In speeches and news conferences, he hammered away at Krueger and Doggett, who had said they favor a bill before Congress that would grant amnesty to illegals in the United States for many years.

"I am opposed to the amnesty for aliens bill because it causes Americans to lose jobs. Studies show it would cost the federal government $25 billion for all illegal aliens who become eligible for federal programs," Hance said, adding, "Every country that has granted amnesty to aliens in the past has had to come back and grant additional amnesty because such actions encourage more people to come in illegally."

Hance's speeches were backed up by a massive television ad campaign, with the commercials highlignting the amnesty issue. Hance said he spent $300,000 on commercials the campaign's final week alone.

"The frequency of his media was enormous. The average Texan might have seen as many as 10 Hance TV commercials in the past week," said pollster George Shipley, who worked for third-place finisher Krueger.

Can't locate bodies

ANAHUAC, Texas (AP) — Several hours of digging at sites where confessed mass killer Henry Lee Lucas said he buried three bodies have turned up no remains, a sheriff's spokeswoman says.

Susan Hollomon, an administrative assistant with the Chambers County sheriff's office, said Thursday searchers had no luck in finding the man and two women Lucas told officers he buried near High Island.

"Lucas said he strangled one woman, repeatedly stabbed the other one and killed the man," said Fred Dodd, chief deputy for Chambers County. "The women were killed in 1979 and 1980 while the man was killed in 1981."

Dodd said Lucas told investigators all the killings occurred during the summer. He said the three victims were all between 18 and 25 years old.

The search for those victims began as Chambers County authorities awaited word on the identity of bone fragments found two weeks ago in another spot which Lucas showed investigators. He said that grave contained the remains of a woman hitchhiker he killed in May 1982.

Dear Abby

Woman Discovers Her Love For Kids Is Only Part Time

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1984 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: After waiting for over five years to adopt a child, my husband and I became the proud parents of a 3-month-old baby girl. Everything was wonderful for the first month, then reality set in and I began to realize how much I had to give up for an infant. My husband and I had been married for over 10 years and were accustomed to coming and going as we pleased. Maybe at 35 I was already too set in my ways.

I was used to baby-sitting kids in my home for the last three years, but they always went home at the end of the day, and I had my evenings and weekends to myself.

I began to resent the baby for taking away all my free time and ruining my night's sleep. I became angry and resentful when she cried or fussed. My husband was no help at all. At times, I felt myself slipping out of control, and I worried that I might even hurt the baby.

When my social worker came to check on the baby, I became hysterical, broke down and admitted I couldn't handle being a mother 24 hours a day. The baby was removed from our home and I was told that not every woman is "cut out" for motherhood. I feel like a failure.

My main concern is what to do with all the baby furniture and clothing. Most of her clothes have never been worn because she didn't grow into them. Please hurry your answer. I can't stand to see all these things around.

NEEDS YOUR HELP

DEAR NEEDS: Your local welfare department can surely find a needy family who will welcome the baby furniture and clothing. Please call it immediately. And don't feel that you are a failure. Your social worker was right. Not every woman is cut out to be a mother.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I both have the same problem. I just had a set of dentures made (this is the second pair made by the same dentist), and I hate them! They are so dark and dingy I try not to smile. I've seen dazzling white teeth on TV and that's the kind I want.

My husband has worn his dentures for six years, and he also wants a set that dazzles. The dentist who made my husband's set and now is making mine refuses to make us the teeth that dazzle. He says they will look artificial and ridiculous.

My husband and I don't care. If our teeth look artificial and ridiculous, it will be our problem, not the dentist's. We told him this, and he said it will be his problem because he will be ashamed if anyone knew he made them for us.

Abby, what should we do? Money is no problem. Should we stick with this dentist or go elsewhere? He has been our dentist for years, but we can't seem to get anywhere with him.

WE'LL NEVER SMILE AGAIN

DEAR NEVER: Tell the dentist that if he will make you the kind of teeth you want, you promise not to tell anyone who made them. If he refuses, find another dentist.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I can top that senior citizen who took a premarital blood test and was horrified when it came back positive for syphilis:

Last year, after I had blood and urine tests for my annual physical, the doctor's office phoned to ask me if I knew I was pregnant.

I told them no, I didn't, but I was going to call the newspaper right away because I'm 73 years old and had a hysterectomy 14 years ago.

IT HAPPENED IN SIOUX CITY

A preliminary peace treaty was signed by Britain and the United Sates Nov. 30, 1782, which ended the American War of Independence.

White calls for $1.3 billion in new taxes

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Mark White, insisting that dramatic school reform must be accomplished before September, today called for $1.3 billion a year in new taxes.

White also said he hopes to call a special session of the Legislature in early June to consider raising taxes to fund his proposed education changes.

"In the coming days I will be working with the members of the House and Senate to secure their support of the proposals that I have outlined," White told a news conference where he was flanked by Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, House Speaker Gib Lewis and several other lawmakers.

"The support evidenced here today gives me great encouragement that we will be able to secure the necessary legislative support to call a special session in early June," White said.

However, the governor set no date for the session and repeated that he won't call one unless a majority of legislators agree beforehand to the reforms and taxes proposed.

He said his tax hike plan also would provide substantial money for highway improvements.

White said his tax hike proposal includes:

— A 1 percent increase in the state sales tax.

— A 1 percent boost in the motor vehicle sales and rental tax.

— A 20 percent increase in taxes on liquor, beer, wine and mixed drinks.

— An increase of 5 cents per pack of cigarettes with a penny of that going to cancer research.

— An increase of 5 cents a gallon in the state gasoline tax.

If those taxes are increased now, the governor said, he is confident that no more tax increases will be needed when the Legislature convenes for its regular session in January.

He also disagreed with lawmakers who say that boosting the sales tax will leave the state no choice but to create a personal or business income tax when future money is needed.

Joining White at the news conference was Rep. Stan Schlueter, D-Kileen, chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee.

On Thursday, Schleuter said that before lawmakers approve tax increases, they want to make sure the money will go to educational reforms.

"We want to see the reform. If there's no reform package there will be no tax bill. I want to see the governor sign that reform package first before the tax bill moves out of our committee," Schleuter said.

Schlueter also told his committee Thursday that White's plans to spend $1.3 billion more a year on school reform could leave Texans "looking at a cold stare at a personal income tax."

White said he understood House members reluctance to vote before they understand the reforms planned for public schools.

"We wouldn't expect anybody to be any different than that. It has been my program all along. That's why we're laying out a strong program for education reform," the governor said.

Schlueter said raising the sales tax would leave big city Texans, who pay a local levy and a mass transit tax, paying a 7-cent sales tax, leaving no place else to turn when the state needs more money.

"We are going to be looking at a cold stare at a personal income tax and a corporate profits tax (if the state still needs more money). And people need to understand that," he said.

Some committee members also questioned the sales tax hike.

Rep. Roy English, D-Mansfield, said he would rather look — during the 1985 regular session — at cutting some things exempted from the sales tax than increasing the sales tax rate.

Three fires extinguished

Snyder firemen were called to extinguish three grass fires west of the city Thursday.

The first blaze was reported near B&J Welding on the Lamesa Highway at 3:40 p.m. The second call came at 3:50 p.m. to a location one mile east of Union.

The third blaze was reported on Farm Road 1611 near the Sun Gas Plant at 4:30 a.m. Friday. A faulty electrical transformer owned by SACROC was credited with starting it.

Wreck noted

A single minor traffic mishap was reported in Snyder Thursday morning.

Involved in the 10:37 a.m. accident in the East 800 Block of 37th St. were a 1979 Chevrolet driven by Carolyn Sue Lisk of 5400 College Ave. and a 1972 Chevrolet driven by Rosa Rocha Torres of Snyder.

No injuries were reported in the mishap.

Tires said cut locally

Police were called to investigate two misdemeanor complaints Thursday.

Karen Cline of the Eastridge Apartments filed a criminal misehief complaint at 7:48 a.m.

She said the tires on her car had been slashed and obscenities scratched into the right fender of the vehicle.

The vandalism is thought to have occurred between 12:30 and 7:30 a.m. Thursday.

Dennis Westmoreland, an employee of Joe's Radiator Shop at 2011 ½ College Ave. filed a misdemeanor theft complaint at 9:34 p.m.

He told officers a number of miscellaneous tools had been stolen from the shop sometime between May 3-7.

No value were estimated for either the damage to the Cline vehicle or the missing tools.

City police also jailed four subjects for public intoxication Thursday evening.

Arrests in bike thefts

Snyder police arrested two juveniles Thursday in connection with two recent bicycle thefts.

The pair, ages 14 and 12, were charged in connection with thefts at the Jerry Vestal residence on April 14 and the Calvin Guynes residence on April 15.

Both bikes were recovered and returned to their owners. The suspects were released to the custody of their parents Thursday night.

Rangers falter again

CHICAGO (AP) - White Sox pinch-hitter Jerry Hairston knew "it" was coming again, and he was ready. He's always ready.

"The first fast ball he threw me went right by me," Hairston said, recalling his battle against Texas reliever Odell Jones with two outs in the ninth inning Thursday night. "The catcher knew it. The pitcher knew it. So I said to myself, 'Here it comes again.'"

It did, and Hairston powdered it into the right-field seats for a two-run home run that gave Chicago an 8-6 victory.

"That's what makes this game better than any of them," Chicago Manager Tony LaRussa, who was roundly booed for yanking starter Richard Dotson with the White Sox winning 5-3 with one out in the Rangers ninth.

Hairston's home run, his second, followed back-to-back doubles by Harold Baines and Tom Paciorek that began the counter-rally.

The victory went to reliever Salome Barojas, 2-0, who gave up a two-run single to Mickey Rivers as the Rangers scored three times in the top of the ninth for a 6-5 lead.

Trailing 5-3, Gary Ward walked to open the inning and one out later Dotson hit Wayne Tolleson with a pitch. Barojas took over and gave up a run-scoring single to pinch-hitter Bobby Jones and walked Billy Sample to load the bases for Rivers.

The White Sox took a 1-0 lead against Danny Darwin in the first inning when Rudy Law led off with a triple and scored on Greg Walker's single. Texas went ahead 2-1 in the second on a bases-loaded single by Curt Wilkerson.

After Marc Hill's second-inning home run tied it, Chicago took a 4-2 lead in the third when Walker tripled home one run and scored on a sacrifice fly by Baines.

The Rangers made it 4-3 in the seventh when Sample's bloop single scored Tolleson, who had singled and stole second. Chicago's Julio Cruz singled a run home in the bottom of the eighth to give the White Sox a 5-3 lead.

Pecos nips Andrews; bi-district action set

KERMIT -- Pecos' Tim Windham singled in the winning run in the bottom of the 10th inning to give the Eagles a 7-6 victory over Andrews in District 2-4A playoff action here Tuesday.

The win sends Pecos into the Class 4A baseball playoffs along with 2-4A champion Snyder. Pecos is to play its best-of-three playoff series with Lubbock Estacado, beginning 7:30 p.m. Tuesday (May 15) in Pecos. The series will move to Lubbock on Saturday (May 19) at 1 p.m.

Windham's single came after Roger Garcia had doubled off of Andrews relief pitcher Shay Morris. It gave the victory to Elias Peyan, 7-4, who went the distance for Pecos.

The see-saw battle was scoreless after the first inning and 1-1 in the second before Andrews got a two-run homer from Weldon Kaufman to put the Mustangs up 3-1. A one-run homer from Erasmo Acosta made it 3-2 in the bottom of the third. In the fifth, Andrews went ahead briefly but Pecos followed with three runs to edge in front, 5-4. The Mustangs tied the game in the sixth, and it remained that way until the ninth.

Both teams scored one run in the ninth - Andrews on a suicide squeeze and Pecos on an error.

Peyan handed out eight hits, walked four batters and struck out 13. Omar Trevino opened for Andrews and went four and one-third innings. He allowed four hits, walked three and fanned three. Morris gave up six hits, struck out seven and walked two.

Pecos is 15-12 for the season. Andrews stops at 21-6.

Snyder, which wrapped up the 2-4A title a couple of weeks ago, is scheduled against 1-4A runnerup Canyon in its best-of-three playoff series. The Tigers, 18-5, will host the first game at 4 p.m. Tuesday. The second, and if necessary, third game, will be played in Canyon on Friday, May 18, beginning at 2 p.m.

Houston defeats Philadelphia, 4-2

HOUSTON (AP) - Nolan Ryan, who holds the major league record of five career no-hitters, gestured to Mike Scott's locker, located beside his own.

"See what dressing next to me can do for you," Ryan said jokingly Thursday night after Scott had pitched six perfect innings and finished with a three-hitter over six and two-thirds innings in a 4-2 victory over Philadelphia.

"It was a once in a lifetime thing unless you are a Nolan Ryan," said Scott, who befuddled the first 18 Phillies he faced until Juan Samuels bounced a ground-rule double over the right field wall to start the seventh inning.

"You're always thinking that 'maybe someone will catch it,' but you've got to go immediately to the next hitter and forget it," Scott said, recalling Samuel's hit.

After Samuel's double, third baseman Mike Schmidt clubbed a 400-foot homer and Glenn Wilson singled to send Scott to the bench for reliever Mike DiPino, who retired six of the last seven batters in order.

The Phils didn't even come close to getting a hit before the seventh. Only three Phillies hit fly balls and Scott struck out five batters. Von Hayes slammed a grounder back to the mound with two out in the fifth, but Scott stabbed and threw to first base for the out.

Houston got its first run in the third inning off loser Jerry Koosman, 2-5.

Kevin Bass singled, went to second on a fielder's choice grounder by Craig Reynolds, took third on Mike Schmidt's fielding error on a grounder by Jose Cruz and scored on Jerry Mumphrey's ground out to shortstop Ivan DeJesus.

Koosman kept the Astros in check until the sixth when three more runs scored on Phil Garner's two-run double and a suicide squeeze play with Garner scoring on Doran's bunt back to the mound.

Mumphrey and Cabell singled and scored on Garner's double to the left field corner with Garner going to third on the throw to the plate.

SWC tournament up for grabs say coaches

AUSTIN (AP) - Coaches and players say anyone could win the Southwest Conference baseball tournament even though Texas, the defending national champions and 1984 SWC champion, will have the home field advantage.

Games are scheduled today through Sunday at 1:30 p.m. and 7 p.m., with a championship game on Monday if no team goes undefeated in the double-elimination tournament.

The opener today matched Texas A&M, second to Texas Tech in the SWC in team batting at .322, and Rice, whose pitching staff led the conference in team earned run average with 3.24.

Texas, 51-12, will play Arkansas, 36-13, Friday night.

The SWC tournament winner would get an automatic bid to the NCAA regional baseball playoffs, and possibly another SWC team could advance to regionals.

Asked if three conference teams might get NCAA bids, Rice coach David Hall said, "There's an outside possibility if Texas is third in the tournament, but with any other finish I don't think so."

A&M - which had three hitters among the top five in the SWC, including batting champion Don Robison at .447 - will start pitcher Tom Arrington, 4-4, against Rice, which tied A&M for second at 13-8 in the conference.

Norm Charlton, who is among 59 players in the running for a spot on the U.S. Olympic baseball team, will start for Rice, which set a school record this year by winning 40 games and losing 12. Charlton was 3-3 in the SWC but had an earned run average of 2.98.

Freshman Greg Swindell, who is 5-1 with a 1.75 ERA and league-leading 47 strikeouts, will start for Texas, but catcher Darren Loy said Swindell "hasn't had a really good outing" since he lost in 13 innings to Rice on April 20. Kevin Campbell, who is 5-2 in the conference and defeated Texas on March 31, will pitch for Arkansas.

What could be a plus for Texas is the return of right-handed pitcher Wade Phillips, who missed all but the final series against A&M with a broken left arm.

Gustafson said Phillips is not 100 percent and cannot be expected to go nine innings, but teammate Steve Labay said, "Wade could be the missing link we need to carry on."

Retiring coach Tom Chandler of A&M, 38-16, said, "This will probably be more well-balanced than any tournament we've had."

Sports Information Director Bill Little of the University of Texas said Thursday that 1,000 tournament tickets at $24 each already been sold, "which means we're close to being financially solvent before we play a game."

Little said crowds as large as 7,000, which is capacity, are expected for the night games at Disch-Falk field.

Championships held in local soccer league

The Buffaloes, Kicks, Yellowjackets and Sounders were champions in their age divisions as the Snyder Soccer Association completed another season recently.

In finals play, the 6-7 year old Kicks edged the Hawks 1-0 and the 10-15 year old Sounders knocked off the Golden Eagles, 2-1.

In age 4-5 play, the Buffaloes and Flames fought to a scoreless tie before the Buffaloes won 1-0 in overtime. And in the age 8-9 division, the Yellowjackets defeated the Warriors 2-0 in a shootout after neither team scored in regulation or overtime.

Former champion...

Leonard fights tonight

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) - Sugar Ray Leonard fights tonight because of "my own special love for the sport, my own special feelings."

The former undisputed welterweight champion's first fight since Feb. 15, 1982, is a scheduled 10-rounder against Kevin Howard at the 13,866-seat Centrum.

"I could accept it if an opponent made me quit," said Leonard.

It was a detached retina in his left eye that made Leonard retire Nov. 9, 1982. Surgery was successful, and last Dec. 10 Leonard, who will be 28 next Thursday, announced his comeback.

"My goal is to step down when I'm ready to step down," he said. "I don't want to step down because of injury or some other problem. My injury has been corrected, and it's given me a second chance."

Then on Feb. 13, Leonard underwent a procedure to strengthen the retina in the right eye. The Howard fight was postponed, and there was speculation that there would not be another fight for Leonard.

However, Leonard was given medical clearance, and the fight was rescheduled for tonight amid criticism of Leonard for taking what looked to some people to be an unacceptable risk.

HBO will televise the fight, which will begin about 9:30 p.m., CDT.

The contract calls for each fighter to weigh 152 pounds, give or a take a pound. Thumbless gloves will be used, a condition that Leonard insists on for all his future fights.

Tonight's fight, should Leonard win as expected, could lead him in any one of several directions.

There is the possibility of a fight for either or both the World Boxing Council or the World Boxing Association welterweight titles.

Other possibilities are a third fight against Roberto Duran, who beat Leonard and quit against him in the first two, or a fight against unbeaten Aaron Pryor, the former WBA junior welterweight champion, who is about to end a retirement of less than a year.

Then there is boxing's most talked about match - a fight against Marvelous Marvin Hagler, the undisputed middleweight champion. Hagler is scheduled to be at ringside, as his Pryor.

Leonard's last fight ended in a third-round knockout of Bruce Finch at Reno, Nev., which gave him a 32-1 record, with 23 knockouts.

Howard's record is 20-4, with 11 knockouts. In his last fight, the 23-year-old Philadelphian knocked out Bill Bradley in the sixth round at Atlantic City, N.J., Feb. 27, two days after he had been scheduled to fight Leonard. He will earn $125,000 for tonight's bout.

Pressey's shots help Bucs past New Jersey

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) - The New Jersey Nets have protested the outcome, but as far as the Milwaukee Bucks are concerned it's time to look ahead to the Eastern Conference finals.

Marques Johnson scored 11 of his 25 points in the fourth quarter and Paul Pressey sank an equally crucial foul shot and 18-foot jumper in the final 1:22 of play as the Bucks defeated the Nets 98-97 Thursday night to win the National Basketball Association semifinal series 4-2.

Nets executive vice president Lewis Schaffel, after viewing a videotape, announced that the club would protest the final five seconds of the game.

Schaffel claimed those last few seconds should be replayed because he felt the 24-second shot expired before the Bucks' Sidney Moncrief took a shot. If that was the case, the Nets would have gotten possession of the ball, Schaffel said.

In the only other playoff game, Phoenix whipped Utah 102-82 to advance to the Western Conference finals against Los Angeles. The Lakers play host to the Suns in the first game on Saturday.

Boston, leading 3-2, is at New York tonight.

The Nets, who will pay $1,500 to lodge the protest, feel the final five seconds should be replayed with them getting the ball at midcourt.

The controversy erupted after the Nets' Micheal Ray Richardson sank a 20-footer with 29 seconds left to make it 98-97. A shot by Pressey was blocked by Darryl Dawkins with seven seconds remaining and Moncrief rebounded the ball, setting off the controversy with his missed shot.

The referee has no scoring vote in Olympic boxing. The decisions, when needed, are handed down by a panel of five judges.
