DOING WHAT COMES NATURALLY — Snow and children go together, like ham and eggs. The heavy snow that hit the area Friday evening brought out the kids in droves. Two of them, Christopher and Robin Daniels, children of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Daniels, are pictured here. The background is the original "big spring" and beyond it Cosden Lake and South Mountain. About six inches of snow covered the ground, one of the heaviest falls here in recent years.

Gilmore may repeat vows of matrimony

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Convicted murderer Gary Mark Gilmore, who claims he would rather be executed than spend a life in prison, may ask to be married before he faces a firing squad, his attorney said Saturday.

And Samuel W. Smith, the warden at Utah Prison who must approve inmate marriages, said he would consider such a request from Gilmore — though he sees little value in it.

Smith, who has prohibited news interviews with Gilmore, said a London newspaper's interview with Gilmore in which the marriage issue arose was "a slip-up in security." The telephone interview was arranged by the condemned man's lawyer.

Gilmore's execution has been stayed by Gov. Calvin Rampton awaiting a meeting Wednesday of the state Board of Pardons. The execution had been scheduled for Monday.

Pardons Board Chairman George Latimer has said the board would have little choice but to ask for a new execution date if Gilmore insists on death.

Deputy Atty. Gen. Robert B. Hansen said Friday Gilmore's execution could be conducted one week after the board considers his case. The new date would have to be set by Judge Robert Bullock, who had set the Monday date bypassed by Rampton's stay.

Gilmore's attorney, Dennis Boaz, confirmed a London Daily Express report that Gilmore has thought about marriage to Nicole Barrett of Springville, Utah, a divorced mother of two whom prison authorities said visits the inmate daily. He said Gilmore is "considering marriage, but he hasn't discussed the matter with the warden."

Smith said he would consider a marriage request if he received one, but added, "I have not been approached and so I have no position. Without any deep review in the matter, I can see no value in it."

Mrs. Barrett, unavailable to reporters recently, said in a television interview several days ago she shares the "debt" in Gilmore's admitted slaying of a motel clerk.

The woman and Gilmore's uncle, Vern Damico of Provo, have said Gilmore's mood changed after Mrs. Barrett told him she was returning to her former husband. They said this was shortly before the motel clerk was killed.

Boaz said he arranged the interview when offered $250, which he said he split equally with Gilmore. Gilmore's share will be given to Mrs. Barrett, Boaz said.

Of the interview, Smith said, "Obviously, Mr. Boaz should be aware he has no authorization to give out prison privileges. He isn't the warden."

"There was a slip-up in security," Smith said. "Without authorization, Mr. Boaz maneuvered a phone call. It was entirely out of line."

Boaz said he did not know he needed authorization, adding, "It's the first time anyone has offered money and Gilmore said it was fine, Nicole needed the money. It was the only transaction and the offer was cash."

The London Daily Mail said it also had interviewed Gilmore by telephone, but Smith said he was unaware of that.

The fourth report meeting of the Howard County United Way will start at 12 noon Thursday at the Spanish Inn. UW President Dearl Pittman has announced. A Dutch Treat luncheon will be served.

It's just that cops doubted story

Defense fool-proof

MIAMI (AP) — Joe Parrish had what seemed to be a foolproof defense when police charged him with writing bad checks, but it took him six months to convince authorities.

"I can't write," he kept telling officials.

Authorities finally acknowledged Saturday the Joe Parrish who served nine days in jail and waited six months to go on trial probably is the wrong Joe Parrish.

Parrish was arrested May 30 and charged with writing six bad checks totaling $752.21. He is a longshoreman who lives 18 miles away from the address listed on warrants for a man named Joe Parrish, but police didn't seem concerned about the discrepancy.

"I can't write," Parrish told officials when he was arrested. "I don't have a checking account."

He did have a union card in his possession, but he said it had been signed for him by another longshoreman. When he was booked into jail, Parrish printed his name.

For six months, Parrish endured a not-so-funny comedy of errors each time he tried to take a handwriting test at Dade County police headquarters. Once he was told he needed an appointment; another time he was told there wasn't a table available.

Finally, he took the test Oct. 27. The piece of paper got lost that same afternoon in the prosecutor's office.

Last Wednesday, through a mix-up blamed on both sides, Parrish did not attend a hearing at which the alleged badcheck victims were to try to identify him.

The witnesses described Joe Parrish as being 5 foot 8 and between 150 and 175 pounds. The arrested man is 5 foot 6 and weighs 205 pounds.

Asst. Public Defender Carl Masztal, determined to end the case, finally called the bank Friday and learned that the Parrish who allegedly wrote the checks has a different Social Security number than the man who was arrested. He also learned that the Parrish who allegedly wrote the checks worked as a laborer for a roofing company.

Masztal drove to the firm and showed officials a picture of the arrested man.

"That's not Joe Parrish," said Michael Murray, a co-owner.

"That's not Joe Parrish," said Patricia Shields, a secretary.

Both said that a man named Joe Parrish used to work there, but has been in hiding since folks started inquiring about bad checks.

Prosecutor George Yoss then said he would take photos of the arrested man to victims of the alleged bad checks.

"If they say that's not him, I'll ask that charges be dropped against Joe Parrish so they can arrest the real Joe Parrish," Yoss said.

It's black or white in area

Everything turned to black and white for Big Spring and West Texas Friday and Saturday. A snowfall of up to ten inches blanketed the city with the heaviest November snowfall since 1968.

According to Bill Fryrear of the U.S. Experiment Station, Friday's snowfall was not the earliest since the station started keeping those kind of records in 1953.

A snow fell as early as Nov. 7 in 1955. On Nov. 7-8, 1968, an inch of snow fell here. The biggest snowfall on record occurred in January 1955, when eight inches fell.

Slightly over .25 of an inch of moisture resulted from the Friday night-Saturday morning snow.

Police reports showed an abundance of minor accidents and motorists needing assistance, and, inexplicably, a rash of auto thefts.

The State Highway Department began blading, salting, and sanding their roads at 5 p.m. Friday and continued night and day to keep up with the steadily falling white stuff.

A crucial weekend for high school sports saw several games played in freezing temperatures before empty stands.

But what looked bleak for the drivers and football fans looked exciting to some area residents.

Snowmen and snowball fights bloomed on the brilliant landscape. Sleds and snowmobiles came out of storage. Winter coats and hats hurriedly taken out of mothballs were evident along with the surest sign of winter, mittens.

The snow is remarkable for this area. According to Dub Bowlus of the American Meteorological Society, Abilene and San Angelo can expect a 1 inch snowfall each winter season. At that rate, we in Big Srping can expect no significant accumulation again until 1986.

Selma, Dallas county team up in try to save Craig

(Special to The Herald)

SELMA, Ala. — The City of Selma and Dallas County have agreed jointly to invest $125,000 in the purchase of land around Craig AFB, a project which is the first step of a city-county effort to save the base.

Public hearings on the Air Force's environmental impact statement will get under way in the civic center here at 7 p.m., Monday and possibly continue through Wednesday evening.

At least 28 statements will be read to the Air Force team which is coming here for the hearings. Lt. Col. Robert Gadd heads the ATC military detachment which will hear the statements.

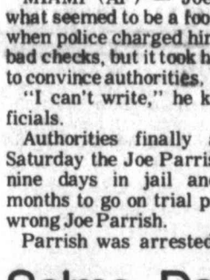

This is the last of the public hearings scheduled by the group. Craig and Webb AFB of Big Spring, Tex., are the two Air Training Command bases proposed for closure. Webb held its hearing last week. The military team went from Big Spring to Lubbock for a hearing because Reese AFB of Lubbock was listed as an alternate base for possible closure.

Among dignitaries who will be present for the Craig hearing are U.S. Senator James Allen (D. Ala.), Cong. Walter Flowers (D.-Ala.), Cong. Bill Dickenson (D.-Ala.) and possibly Cong. Bill Nichols (D.-Ala.), Sen. John Sparkman, (D.-Ala.), will also have a personal representative attending the hearings.

Mayor Joe Smitherman of Selma indicated earlier this year that Selma might take legal action against the Air Force as a means of retaining Craig. Nothing else has been said about such a suit, however.

The land near Craig is being purchased by the city and county to combat the threat of urban encroachment around the base.

With Tommy Hart

When future historians scrape away the dust and set about to study the mores of the present generation, they will first have to dispose of the paperwork that ultimately destroyed it.

Government agencies churn out paperwork for small businesses at the rate of 10 billion sheets annually. In case you have trouble equating that with anything in existence, that would be enough to fill 50 major league-size baseball parks.

If Christopher Columbus had had to fill out some of the forms required of such an operation today, he would have never left the dock.

The Lord's Prayer contains only 56 words, the Ten Commandments just 297. A recent order by the Federal Government dealing with the price of cabbage embraced 26,911 words.

The authors of government publications never settle for five words where 50 can be used. One of the big reasons a lot of smaller companies are being taken over by big corporations is the fact that the owners of the smaller firms can't devote the time required of them to handle the paper work demanded of them by the government.

Whooping crane sighted here

A whooping crane, an extremely rare species of bird, has been sighted ten miles west of Big Spring by the Moody Erskines of Midland.

This season, a whooping crane has been spotted twice near Big Lake, once near Stanton and once near Andrews, according to Mrs. Bebe McCasland of Big Spring.

Anyone sighting the bird, should call 7-6536 so they can relay the information to Dick Endress at the Texas Fish and Wildlife Department in San Angelo.

Last year in an experiment, whooping cranes were placed with sandhill cranes. The cranes they were placed with are marked with orange neck bands and the whooping crane with yellow leg bands.

The whoopers are large white birds with black tips and may be flying with the sandhill cranes, according to Mrs. McCasland.

The cranes wintered in New Mexico last year but have not arrived at that location and are thought to possibly be in this area of the state.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Non-political

Q. I would want to know how a publicly-funded band like Forsan can appear at a purely-political rally at the Howard County Airport to greet Gov. Dolph Briscoe?

A. It occurred simply because school officials who approved the Forsan band going to the airport did not think of politics, but simply as a chance to greet the governor of the state. The same thing occurred in Midland when President Ford flew in and both the Odessa High and Midland Lee bands appeared. This was to dedicate the oil museum, so may not have been considered political. But when President Ford appeared in Abilene on the eve of the primary election, an Abilene band appeared as well as a ballet troup from the civic center and the Big Lake Band who wanted to carry a sign saying "Reagan welcomes Ford" but had to change it to Reagan County Band.

It is a sad commentary of our times that America is now in the midst of an epidemic of murder unparalleled in the history of civilization.

Between the years 1970 and 1974, more Americans were murdered than were killed during the entire Vietnam war — averaging out to ten of every 100,000.

Murder now ranks as a major cause of death in the United States.

A murderer is apt to observe every traffic rule in the books and never expectorate on the sidewalk for fear of legal harressment on his way to do you in.

The youth, especially people in their 20s, are particularly lethal. The young today were raised differently than were past generations. There has been more affluence, more permissiveness, greater expectations and, for that reason, greater frustrations.

The violence to be seen on television, and it seems to increase each season, likely is a contributing factor. Death often comes cool and neat on TV and the camera doesn't linger to clean up the carnage or straighten up the lives that are intertwined with the victim.

Children imitate what they see on television screens and what they see are socially approved killings by the good guys on the video screen. Why bother with the due process of law — let a 25 cent bullet solve all of society's problems.

How many television programs do you see today without a gun in them?

The parents are not without blame. This generation of 'free spirits' is encouraged to 'act out' hostilities and externalize restraints to a degree that someone else is always responsible for their failures or misdeeds.

How many among us parents regarded our own mothers and fathers as being too strict and reassured ourselves that our own kids were going to benefit from more understanding?

Murders today, sad to say, are not being committed by a group of 'crazies.' It would be easy to isolate them if they showed such symptoms. Most of today's slayers are regarded as "average" Americans, typical of the breed.

Seventy per cent of the murder victims are relatives or close friends of the killers. If a husband dispatches a wife, he usually commits the act with a gun in the bedroom of the family home. The wife is more apt to use a knife in the kitchen, if she wants to kill her mate.

Your life is especially in danger on weekends. Upwards to 65 per cent of the murders occur at such times, or on holidays. Alcohol is involved in 50 per cent of all homicides. Authorities say it is because drink increases belligerency and 'releases the super ego.'

An authority on the subject says that few murderers fit common stereotypes, that they are, in fact, a heterogeneous group.

Sheriff killed; two held

CROSBYTON, Tex. (AP) — Murder charges were to be filed Saturday against two men identified as escaped convicts in connection with the shotgun slaying of Motley County Sheriff Jinks Wilson and the wounding of another man.

Crosby County Sheriff A.F. Stark said Wilson's wounded companion, John Rogers, 49, of Matador, picked the pair from a line up after being treated at a Floydada hospital, then being transported back to Crosbyton by ambulance for the line up.

Wilson died of a shotgun blast and Rogers was hit in the chest, face and hand when they stopped to question two men Friday near Crosbyton on U.S. 70 about noon.

The pair, identified by Stark as being escaped prisoners from Louisiana, were arrested by state police about two hours later near Matador on U.S. 82.

"They didn't have any weapons on them when they were arrested," said Stark. "They had tossed them out of the car. We took them back out along (Texas) 70 about 2:30 p.m. but they didn't want to help very much. We found one of the guns but they had two of them--shotguns."

Stark said the men were arraigned before Peace Justice Clyde Davis in Crosbyton and ordered jailed without bond because they admitted being escaped prisoners.

Authorities said one of the men was believed to be from North Carolina, the other from Louisana.

Investigators pieced together a scenario they said indicated Wilson, 62, received a report that some cattle were running loose near his ranch. He recruited Rogers to help him round up the livestock and the two of them drove toward Wilson's ranch.

Department of Public Safety Sgt. Ken Evans said the sheriff apparently stopped beside the road when he saw two men standing by a parked car.

"They (Wilson and Rogers) walked up and asked them what they were doing and that's when the shooting started," said Evans.

Amarillo police said they are looking into the possibility that the same two men in the Crosby County jail robbed a service station in the Panhandle city about three hours before the shooting.

Skin to be glorified

NEW YORK (AP) — A peek of leg here. A glance of belly there. Just a gleam of breast. But backs brazen and full to view.

Skin. Seventh Avenue is glorifying in it this season. Smooth and flawless, bumpy and soft. Dark, light, freckled. Skin is in.

And what better way for spring designs to expose and rejoice in the sensuality of the human form than through soft, feathery fabrics that cling, flow and become a living part of the body they caress.

Halston used matte jersey for his new wrap and tie, or peekaboo, pants. Each leg is wrapped from the waist and thigh, giving a side slit appearance and a sexy little glimpse of knees and calves.

Silk charmeuse, a rich and delicate fabric, was used for much of Halston's evening apparel. It formed the crisscross halter top to gowns. The same top by itself was an evening bra worn with long skirts or pants for a bare midriff look.

Oscar de la Renta liked bared shoulders. His puffy-sleeved Cinderella gowns were sashed at the waist with wide strips of satin, to allow the billowing taffeta skirts to stand out like ripe mushrooms.

See-through country garden dresses were alluring in pale ice cream colors. Pastel rosebuds were embroidered on some.

Gil Aimbez found 100 per cent rayon to be a sensual fabric. His culette dress in a dark blue rose print is open in front. Light blue ribbon runs down the sleeve and all edges.

Mary McFadden liked a bared back with many of her diaphanous tops and jackets. To achieve this effect, the garment ties in one spot at the neckline, leaving the back completely visible.

Her uneven hemline, pointed in the front and back, gives a lingering view of the upper leg. A Lurex chiffon in brilliant, silvery and gold tones was used for these dresses. It is a fabric that moves when the wearer moves, and doesn't give in to stray breezes.

Pierre Cardin's kimonos are soft, illusionary silks. They can be worn alone, for the woman who cares not, or over a tube top. A delicate, antique silk screen floral design adds a demure quality to the flowing jacket.

Qiana is used for Clovis Ruffin's slinky, pencil-thin-strapped gowns. In a short, black version, an intricate strap system holds the dress up and the body in. Cut low on the sides, there is a glimpse of torso. The longer dress fits snugly over the torso, revealing every fold and curve, and then falls loosely to the ankles.

Even the peasant, ethnic looking Gypsy or fantasy designs allow for flashes of skin. Most use a transparent material or drape scarves and ruffles in such a way that shoulders are definitely bared, breasts might be and legs just move with the flounces, which often are tucked up around the waist.

Georgio di Sant-Angelo and Carol Hora used silky chiffon and soft cottons for their print, peasant dresses. Both loved the open sleeve and decolletage.

Scott Barrie's strapless and one-shoulder designs in chiffon abounded in brilliant, tropical colors and bright prints. Lace and ruffles complemented the full, see-through fashions.

Long lines gone

RIO GRANDE CITY, Tex. (AP) — The long lines are gone from the First Bank and Trust Co. of Rio Grande City, but the controversy between bank owner Clinton Manges and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. (FDIC) is apparently far from over.

Persons described as "small depositors" withdrew more than $20,000 Friday. Earlier in the week depositors withdrew almost five per cent of the bank's estimated total deposits of $19 million, bank officials said.

The withdrawals started last Monday after the bank announced it was voluntarily withdrawing from the deposit insurance program furnished to member banks by the FDIC.

There are at least two versions of why the bank withdrew. Bank president Frank Anderson cited too much interference from the FDIC in the bank's operations. Charles M. Pickett, regional counsel for the FDIC at Dallas, says the FDIC initiated legal action to remove the deposit insurance from the bank because of what he described as "unsafe" and "unsound" banking practices. He cited loans to "insiders" such as bank directors and close associates of Manges.

CLINTON MANGES

Manges, who lives near Freer on the Duval County Ranch Co. he owns, also owns the Groos National Bank of San Antonio.

The South Texan blames his problems with the FDIC on former Texas Gov. John Connally, saying his problems began when Connally was secretary of the treasury and when Manges bought the San Antonio bank.

Poor school districts may get big pay boost

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The State Board of Education recommended Saturday that maximum state payments to the poorest school districts be raised by nearly 500 per cent.

The maximum allotment per pupil in districts in which taxable property is valued at below the state average is $56. The board recommended that it be raised to $250.

This and 19 other recommendations on public school finance Saturday would increase the state cost of funding public school education by at least $182.1 million for the 1978-79 biennium.

Approximately 10 per cent of Texas' pupils would qualify for the full $250, with many others getting a percentage of that sum.

Other recommendations to the 1977 Legislature included:

—Full funding of driver's education for three quarters, with the school district permitted to charge for the fourth quarter.

—Spending $14,465,000 more on school transportation.

—An adjustment for inflation in operations and maintenance, for an estimated increase of $104 million.

—Keeping the funding of capital expenditures as a local responsibility.

The board said the "need to adjust salary levels to meet changes in the cost-of-living should be recognized," but it recommended no particular amount.

It said the "determination of local taxpaying ability to support education is the responsibility of the legislature." It added, however, that its "experiencee under the current law has revealed shortcomings in the use of market value as a measure of local district ability."

The board recommended phasing out state support of county boards of trustees and ex-officio county superintendents for a savings of $5,444,800 or more in the 1978-79 biennium.

It also adopted a lengthy recommendation on what fees school districts may charge pupils.

Deaths blamed on state

VENTURA, Calif. (AP) — It is too early to say who will be blamed for several deaths at Camarillo State Hospital, but witnesses in the first week of grand jury hearings pointed frequently to an economy-minded state.

No one was as direct as a 55-year-old psychiatric technician, Jack Roberts, who said the cause of one death at the mental hospital was "your senators, your health department and your governor."

Complaining about understaffing and an overload of paperwork at Camarillo, Roberts said: "To really supervise patients under those circumstances — you can't do it."

The grand jury — unlike most, the hearings are open to the public — is investigating 13 deaths which prosecutors have said may result in criminal charges and 42 other questionable deaths out of more than 200 at Camarillo in the last four years.

Patients died by strangulation, drug overdose, suspicious fire, drowning and apparent starvation, the grand jury has been told. The investigation comes on the heels of a year-long inquiry by the Ventura County district attorney's office.

The situation at Camarillo, apparently, is part of a larger problem that reaches back into the administration of former Gov. Ronald Reagan, who left office in 1974. And it's not simply a shortage of money, a legislative committee said recently, but a lack of decisiveness on how to spend available funds.

"The principal reason the (state health) department is having so much difficulty resolving the staffing and capital outlay issues is that it has not yet dealt with the fundamental question — what future role will the state hospitals have in the delivery of services to the mentally and developmentally disabled?" said a background paper produced for a recent hearing by state Sen. Arlen Gregorio's Health and Welfare Committee.

Under Reagan, the population of state hospitals was reduced from 30,000 patients to 16,000, mainly by sending the less acutely disturbed to newly developed community facilities.

All automatic heating systems are controlled by a thermostat that should be centrally located. The furnace will deliver heat the thermostat calls for, so the thermostat should be located on an inside wall where it is not subject to cold drafts or sources of artificial heat. Once a year, remove the cover from the thermostat and carefully blow out any dust or lint that has accumulated. Your furnace needs care more than once a year — at least two or three times.

The change to metric system

Are you ready for it?

By BOB BURTON

The metric system is proof that there is no such thing as an isolationist America. It is a European system of weights and measures which is internationally recognized for its convenience and accuracy. It is also the system to which America will convert probably within the next decade.

According to an Air Force fact sheet, the metric system has been the "standard of the Nation's scientific and business communities for the last hundred years."

In fact, our English system is dependant on metric standards for its definition. The official American yard is .91440183 meters. The American pound is .4535924277 kilograms.

WEBB AFB is subject to Department of Defense directives which are aimed at gradual conversion to the metric system. The eventual Defense Department objective seems to be "the use of the international metric system in all of its activities . . ."

Sometimes it seems Big Spring is as isolationist as America. If the metric system is so near, why haven't we all seen it? Where is this bogeyman?

If you look carefully, it's all around you.

Out at the experiment station, Bill Fryrear produces all his results in metric readings.

"We measure plant growth in centimeters, wind velocity in meters-per-second, and yields in kilogram-per-hectare. We measure weights in grams and rainful in centimeters."

Fryrear said that the biggest problem farmers would face in conversion is that all their land is presently measured in acres.

"Some of the farmers get confused by the conversion of pounds-per-acre to kg.-per-hectare," said Fryrear.

"A hectare is 100 meters square, or 10,000 square meters, about 2.5 acres. I pound-per-acre yield comes out to 1.1 kg.-per-hectare."

The advantage of the metric system lies in its ease of conversion. All lengths are measured in meters, all weights in grams, all volumes in liters. All time measurements will remain in seconds, minutes, and hours.

Centimeters, kilograms, and milliliters are just different quantities of the same measurements. Milli- means thousandths. Kilo- means thousands. Centi- means hundreds.

So, instead of 36 inches in yard, you have a hundred centimeters in your meter. You have a thousand milliliters in your liter. You have a thousand grams in your kilogram.

No more 12 inches in your foot, 16 ounces in your pound, 4 quarts in your gallon. It's all in tens, based on the decimal system.

IT GETS EVEN easier to use as you practice with it. The system is set up so that your basic unit of weight, a gram, is directly related to volume, or cubic centimeters. One cubic centimeter of water weighs one gram.

Do you know just offhand how much a gallon of water weighs? Well, a liter of water weighs 100 grams, and so on. It's not that hard.

Speeds are in meters-per-second or kilometers-per-hour.

At Bob Brock Ford, service manager Dave Hodnett says the four-cylinder engine brought the metric system to Detroit. With the small car boom, Ford began importing some if its parts from overseas, and with the European parts came the European system. The Ford Courier truck, from Mazda in Japan, is entirely metric, with bolt sizes in millimeters instead of fractions of an inch. The Pinto and Mustang II four-cyclinder engines are metric, too, and they are produced in Detroit.

According to Hodentt, the '77 Thunderbirds have a speedometer which is calibrated in kilometers-per-hour as well as miles-per-hour.

Hodnett maintains that, although it is still a matter of personal preference, the metric system is simpler to use.

"There are less tools," he said, "With American parts you need many more wrenches to fit the variety of bolts."

In the metric system, bolts run in straight millimeters instead of sixteenths of an inch fractions. In the metric system, the size larger than 10mm is 11mm. In the inch system, the size larger than ½ inch is 9-16ths. If you use 32nds of an inch as your base, the number of the wrenchs needed doubles.

"Some of the people here may find the change difficult," said Hodnett, "But it really is easier, once you start to use the metric system."

Students at Big Spring High School are introduced to the system through freshman science. All experiments and most science problems are handled in meters-per-second and grams-per-square-centimeter.

COUNTY SURVEYOR C. R. Crim said he has some electronic instruments which measure in both meters and feet. But, he expects no change to the metric system in the near future; in fact, he said that the position of Texas lands is not at all dependent on the federal government's decision.

Crim points out that all public lands in Texas went to the state school board when Texas became a state, not to the federal government. Any decision on Texas land measurements would have to be a state decision, not a federal decision.

Not that he doesn't have problems to begin with. Texas state measurements are presently done in "varas." Each vara is 2.78 ft., which makes conversion, obviously, a snap.

Some rare indications of the metric system can be found in local grocery stores where wine is old by the liter.

Hardware stores in Big Spring stock metric sockets, but say they really aren't a fast moving item.

METRIC CONVERSIONS

1 meter — 39.37 inches; 1 kilometer-per-hour — .6 miles-per-hour; 1 kilogram — 2.2 pounds; 1 liter — 1.1 quarts; 1 lb.-per-acre — 1.1 kg.-per-hectare.

(AP WIREPHOTO)

SHE'S WHAT? — 18-year-old Debra Leniham frolics in the Florida sun, little knowing that her measurements are 89-58.5-89, that she is an adequate 1.6 tall, and she weighs a trim 45. In metric measurements, of course, that's centimeters, meters, and kilograms.

Chrysler awarded contract

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Chrysler Corp. is the winner of an Army contract that could be worth $4.7 billion to develop a battle tank for use in the balance of this century.

Chrysler will receive $196.2 million in the first phase of the contract to build 11 test models of the XM-1 tank over the next three years. The Army ultimately intends to purchase 3,325 new tanks at a cost of about $1.5 million each.

Army Secretary Martin Hoffmann said Friday the XM-1 will be designed "to meet any adversary over the next 20 to 25 years."

Chrysler beat out the General Motors Corp. for the development contract, even though GM reportedly was the preliminary choice for the weapon four months ago after an earlier evaluation.

Hoffmann said Chrysler's design will be matched against West Germany's Leopard II battle tank before the Army decides in March which model to purchase. However, he plainly indicated that he expects the American-made tank to win the competition.

"If the Leopard outdoes the XM1 ... the Leopard would replace this as the finest main battle tank," Hoffmann said.

"Our assessment at the present time is that ... the two may be even, but we feel this (the XM1) represents the best main battle tank technology in the world."

The U.S.-designed tank will be equipped with an engine and eventually a 120 millimeter gun similar to those in German tanks.

The plan is to use tank parts in common with the German armored weapon to make it quicker and easier to resupply both, particularly in combat.

The Chrysler design incorporates a turbine engine generating 1,500 horsepower, and a gun turret that could handle either a 105 millimeter gun, which is now used on U.S. tanks, or a 120 millimeter gun, that is mounted now on German and British tanks.

Gene Garrison resigns post

ODESSA — Gene Garrison has resigned as manager of the Odessa Chamber of Commerce to accept a position with Pinkie's Inc., Odessa.

Garrison will become vice president in charge of marketing with Pinkie's. Garrison joined the Chamber in September 1968. He previously had been in Chamber work in Kennedy.

Garrison was under fire earlier this year when the City Council ordered a tax audit of two tax-funded Chamber departments. The Chamber board had approved a deficit budget earlier this year, after the City Council withdrew $181,000 in money due the Chamber.

From pigs, everything downhill

I might have been a farmer — might have been, except that I had no aptitude.

As a young Future Farmer of America, my garden failed, the drought got my maize crop and, worst of all, I went into the pig business.

The pig business, even today, is an expensive lesson to learn, and it was no different 18 years ago.

I STARTED OUT with three pigs, which was bad enough, but things went downhill from there. Pretty soon I had 13, a most unlucky number of them.

The things were eating me out of house and home. As I mentioned earlier, the maize crop which I had planted to feed them failed totally, so I was left to scrounge what I could in the way of pig food. Although I was forced to purchase some grain from the feed store for them, I was clearly losing money like it was being poured into a hog wallow.

At the rate things were going, not only would I fail to make the $50 necessary to become a "chapter farmer," but I might be the first FFAer to declare bankruptcy.

I was desperate for something to feed those hogs. I begged for slop at the back door of both the town's cafes. I dug through the garbage cans behind the grocery store for spoiled vegetables. I could be seen along the highways pulling careless weeds like they were a cotton harvest. But the pigs ate on and on.

One cold and rainy November day, a neighbor farmer came to me and said, "J. Tom, you need something to feed your pigs, right?"

"Do I. Do I ever."

"I've got a field full of turnips that are going to rot," the neighbor said, "and you can have all you want for your pigs."

I thanked him and thanked him. That afternoon, I cranked up old Farmall 20, hooked up a trailer, and drove through the freezing rain to his field. I worked until dark loading the cattle trailer brim high with turnips. However, the tractor had gotten too cold and wet to run. After an hour of trying to start it, I trode home wearily.

After football workout the next day, I tried again. This time the tractor fired up, but as I left the field, I stuck it in a deep hold.

THE WEATHER WAS still very cold the following day as I borrowed the neighbor's tractor to pull ours out. Two hours of pulling and digging finally paid off, and I was freezing my way along the road toward home (this was in the days before tractors had central heat and carpeting).

I was tired and cold, but I wasn't unhappy. I had enough turnips to feed those hogs for weeks. A feeling of triumph began to build inside of me as I pulled the trailer up beside the hog pen.

"Come and get it," I said to my pigs as they oinked hungrily up to the fence. I climbed up in the trailer and scooped an armful of turnips into their trough.

The pigs ran up to the turnips, sniffed at them for a second, then walked off.

"Hold it, you silly pigs," I yelled, although silly may not have been the exact adjective I used. "Those are turnips I worked hard and froze myself to bring you. Now eat them."

I leaped into the pen, picked out the littlest pig and chased him down. I held him while I pried his mouth open and pounded a small turnip into his throat.

The pig chewed for a second or two, then spit the turnip out.

BEFORE A ROOSTER could crow the sundown, I was banging on the door at the neighbor farmer's house.

"Why didn't you tell me before I went to all that work." I asked him, "that pigs won't eat turnips."

"Is that a fact?" he said, adding with that dry country wit that I failed to find humorous, "maybe if you peeled the turnips and boiled them with a touch of parsley."

Job hunters

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — As it must happen during every change of administration in Washington, there is a great deal of job hunting going on right now. The problem for many presidential appointees is that it's very difficult to go back to what they were doing before they got into the government. Having once tasted the power of running a billion-dollar federal bureau it's hard to return to selling insurance or working on a detergent account for J. Walter Thompson.

UNFORTUNATELY, GOVERNMENT experience does not necessarily mean that you're qualified to handle an important job in the private sector.

Here is an example of what I mean.

"Please sit down, Mr. Maximum. Mr. Ratcliffe of the Republican National Committee spoke very highly of you. I see you're looking for a position with our firm."

"Yes, sir. For the past eight years I was Director of the U.S. Government Inter-Office Affairs Council on Coordination and Rectification. It was one of the highest management jobs in Washington."

"What exactly did you do?"

"Our department was in charge of reviewing position papers on rectification of abuses of nonregulatory agencies involved in the areas of essential input and output, and to recommend to the White House their long-range effects on the economy."

"Could you be more specific?"

"I'm sorry, I didn't understand the question."

"What was your role in the department?"

"I WAS IN CHARGE of the entire operation. My staff brought me papers and I either signed them or refused to sign them. In many cases I advised that they be passed on to anoter bureau. In some instances I recommended hearings, and in others I turned over the matter to the Justice Department."

"Mr. Maximum, that's all very interesting, but since you are applying for a job as Executive Vice President of this corporation we're trying to find out what kind of contribution you could make here."

"I believe my strength would be in budget planning. I had 20,000 people working for me and our yearly budget was $1.5 billion. It was a great responsibility because if we didn't spend all the money in the fiscal year we had to give it back to the Treasury. I'm proud to say I always managed to spend every cent of it."

"That's very good, Mr. Maximum, when you're working for the government. But when you're working for a private company the job of an executive is to save the corporation money."

"Why would you want to do that?"

"Well, we like to show a profit at the end of the year."

"What's a profit?"

"It's the money left over, after all our costs and taxes are paid."

"THAT'S FASCINATING. We never worried about profits in the government. Our job was to spend money and get the job done. I believe the best way to solve a problem is to throw money at it."

REMEMBERING...

By BILL D. BROOKS

MY SISTER'S FIRST DATE

It seemed corney and unimportant to me but Mom and Dad seemed pretty excited about it. It was to be sister's first date. I mean a real date with a real boy! The boy had asked her a week before but she had delayed telling the folks for fear they wouldn't let her go. She finally told them at the supper table the night before the date was to be. Dad got choked but Mom seemed proud to hear it. Sis spoke nervously at first but then blurted it all out and quickly said, "Please, Mama, can I? Can I?"

Dad said, "No, you're too young!" Mom said, "We'll see."

At breakfast Mom said, "We've got a lot to do today if you really want to go out with that boy." "Dad nodded. Sis was bursting with excitement, "Really — can I — really!"

Her hair had to look just right so they set to work on that, fussing over it for nearly an hour. They rustled in her closet back and forth through the small selection, not coming up with anything suitable. Tears came, with Sis blubbering, "I don't have a decent stitch to my name." Mom left the room and returned with a box wrapped in plain brown paper.

She laid it on the bed under Sis's downcast gaze. "What's that?" "Open it and see." Her puzzled look turned to joy when she pulled out the prettiest dress imaginable. Even I thought it looked nice.

Mom said, "It was going to be your Christmas present but I reckon its more appropriate right now. Try it on and let's see how it fits."

They had to take some tucks and stuff but when it was all fixed Mother said she looked just like a princess.

Dad moped around all day with a concerned look on his face but no one paid him any mind.

Finally Mom ran us all out of the room and shut the door. They were in there for about an hour but I never knew what they did.

The date was [illegible] but Sis was ready [illegible]. She made a thousa[illegible] to the front window to look out.

Promptly at seven there was a knock and Sis ran to her room and shut the door. Dad let him in, looking him over critically. Mom said, "She's not quite ready yet. Would you care to have a seat? Can I get you something to drink? It's been an unusually cool day today, don't you think? How are your folks?" He said, "Thank you, no ma'am, yes ma'am, fine, thank you ma'am."

There was a long silence then and Mom said, "I just can't imagine what's keeping her. I had better check."

I had never realized how much Sis favored Mom till they came out of the room together. They both looked as pretty as I had ever seen them. I didn't realize until then how important all this was. Why, before long she'd be married and moving away from home, maybe even out of the state. Then I might not ever see her again and . . . For a moment I thought, "Dad might be right, maybe she is too young!"

Herbert leaves

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — The Pentagon delivered its biggest Bicentennial salute this year not to one of our dead military heroes, but to Rep. F. Edward Hebert, the crotchety old Democrat from Louisiana, who is still very much alive.

The crusty Congressman is finally stepping down after a 36-year career dedicated primarily to championing causes dear to the hearts of the brass hats.

HEBERT WAS A member of the House Armed Services Committee from its inception in 1947, and served as the committee's chariman from 1971 to 1974 when a group of feisty freshmen deposed him in favor of someone less inclined to carry water for the Pentagon.

Hebert had indeed been a one-man bucket brigade for the military. From the center of a two-tiered curved desk, with two small American flags flanking him, he ruled the committee with the stern hand of a drill sergeant. At times he appeared to be playing Charley McCarthy to the Pentagon's Edgar Bergen. Perched upon the Defense Department's knee, he opened his mouth and the military spoke.

The brass hats deeply appreciate such faithful service, so they decided to bid farewell to the old soldier in style. As an occasion for the ceremony, they chose homecoming weekend at Tulane University, in Hebert's hometown of New Orleans. Tulane, appropriately enough, was playing Army.

With a blaring of trumpets and rolling of drums, military officials assembled the night before the game to say goodbye. The Secretary of the Army was present, as was the Army Chief of Staff, the West Point Commandant, and a host of lesser lights.

Four military bands, one from each of the services, played swan songs for Hebert. The Army had flown in its 60-man Chorus and Herald Trumpets, which usually play only at the White House in honor of visiting heads of state. The 80-member Army Chief of Staff's band, decked out in special Bicentennial uniforms, was also there.

The Chorus and Herald Trumpets led the other bands in a ceremonial military tattoo. It was the first time such a tattoo had ever been performed on a college campus.

HEBERT, ACCORDING TO eyewitnesses, was "visibly moved" by the military's farewell for him. The taxpayers should be moved as well; it cost them $27,158 to bid aloha to Eddie Hebert.

Footnote: A military spokesman claimed the money spent in honor of Hebert's departure was not wasted. The ceremony, he said, "provided good local exposure for recruiting."

Geographic tongue common sympton

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear. Dr. Thosteson: Would you please give me an explanation of geographic tongue? Is it rare? I have one, and sometimes it is very sore, red and coated. — Mrs. B.

The tongue surface consists of thousands of tiny cone-shaped projections called papillae (pa-PIL-lie). These structures contain the taste buds. In geographic tongue the papillae have changed in size unevenly, forming a pattern resembling a relief map. The "mapping" changes periodically, causing a shifting of the "islands and continents." A fancy term for it is "benign migratory glossitis."

Irritations, as from smoking or spicy foods, may cause temporary changes of this kind. Children and adolescents are prone to developing geographic tongue. It is not uncommon.

Any serious illness may affect nutrition and bring it on. In some cases B-complex vitamins have helped. Your redness and soreness suggests a vitamin deficiency. One reader who complained of this was found to be a mild diabetic, and her tongue smoothed out when the diabetes was treated. Worth investigating.

Except where an underlying problem can be detected, there is no specific treatment for it. Because the taste buds are involved this may be the cause of a sudden loss of taste during and after an illness.

Incidentally, what is called "furry tongue" is a disturbance of these papillae in which they grow long and thread-like

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am under a doctor's care for hypertension and am taking three pills a day for my blood pressure, which is high. I have a continuous ringing in my head. I have mentioned it to my doctor, but he didn't give me an answer. Can you give me some information about this? I am 58. — Mrs. V. S.

Hypertension means high blood pressure. As to the head-ringing, blood pressure medicine can cause this. But the high blood pressure itself is a more likely cause. In any event, it's a symptom that shouldn't be ignored by you or by your doctor.

I assume he is satisfied with your present pressure readings. Ask him if an adjustment in your dosage is possible or in order. If you'd like to read my booklet on high blood pressure, send 25 cents to me in care of The Big Spring Herald. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My whole family has hair loss. My husband's hair began to come our first. We didn't think much of it at first. Then in about six months mine began to come out. Now the same thing is happening to my two daughters. We had hair culture tests run as well as blood tests and kidney tests. We can't find the trouble. The hair isn't coming back in. — Mrs. W.

Excessive hair loss as you describe is, indeed, unusual.

There are various disorders that could cause this in an individual, but involvement of a whole family is very rare.

One thought occurs that would apply to a whole family: excessive use of vitamin A. If all members of the family have been taking high doses of vitamin A, it should be stopped.

Another possibility is that the family is being exposed to toxic substances such as arsenic or a thalium preparation.

There can be congenital defects involving hair formation. This could be a factor in one parent and children, but not in both parents. And I assume the tests you had included those for any congenital infectious disease that could be spread throughout a family.

You should keep your family under close observation and continue with some close medical detective work to find the cause of this problem.

Capitol comment

Briscoe learns how

By JIM DAVIS
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Sometimes accused in the past of being a hidden governor, Dolph Briscoe recently has been grabbing the news limelight like a real political trouper.

Things have been going Briscoe's way and this probably has spurred him to a more public profile.

It must be rather easy to face reporters with confidence when you know there principal goal is to get you to make a comment on your political future that is just a little more committing than your previous comment.

This situation can lead to a toying with words that can be enjoyed by all with no real harm to anyone.

BRISCOE BACKED a winner in the presidential sweepstakes this fall and has every right to expect his voice to be heard in Plains, Ga., now and in Washington, D.C., later.

The state government he nominally heads faces a financial surplus estimated as high as $3 billion for the next biennium. The governor can call for new highway funding, more state money for schools and still talk about a $1 billion reserve fund.

And surely there must be great satisfaction in seeing other state officials suddenly finding their own jobs so attractive after the toying with words gives the impression that Briscoe will run again in 1978.

In one of several recent speeches, Briscoe last week received a standing ovation from the Associated General Contractors membership and heard himself praised by AGC president Zack Burkett of Graham as the governor "who has done more for the State of Texas than any other in its history."

The governor's fund-raiser in Austin a few weeks ago was a financial success if not a social one. Many people appeared to have paid $50 just to pick up their Dolph Briscoe lunchboxes, move through the reception line and out the door. Ice tea, sandwiches and band music (that's college band, not dance band) probably seemed unexciting to those who move in the more swinging circles of Austin politics.

* * *

BRISCOE SAYS he could fill Jimmy Carter's cabinet with Texans if Carter would let him. He said he will talk with the president-elect in the near future on recommendations for top administration jobs.

Last week the governor named five persons he said he could strongly support for cabinet positions but said he wasn't limiting his support to them. The list included U.S. Rep. Barbara Jordan of Houston, State Agriculture Commissioner John C. White, State Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong (who would love to be Secretary of the Interior), Democratic National Committee chairman Robert Strauss and Jess Hay, a Dallas investments executive who headed up Carter's financial drive in Texas.

Comptroller Bob Bullock and State Rep. Mickey Leland of Houston traded verbal punches through the press last week over job discrimination.

Leland issued a blanket condemnation of state government in the area of minority hiring and mentioned the comptroller's office — among others — as having few women or racial minority members in high-paying jobs.

In a sarcastic news release Bullock welcomed Leland to the fight against discrimination, saying previously others did the work and Leland showed up "in his gold T-Bird for the picture-taking."

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I became a Christain some time ago, but I seem to have lost the good feeling I had at first. How can I get it back? — Mrs. B. J.

DEAR MRS. J.: You seem to be basing your relationship to God on good feelings. However, the Scriptures teach that our salvation is not based upon feelings and emotions but upon faith in the assured promises of God's Word. When we equate our salvation with feelings, we give the evil one an open door to attack us. He can then rob us of the happiness and joy we once knew by attacking our confidence in the assurance of our salvation. Let me suggest that God's Word is powerful, and when you store it in your heart, it will draw you close to God and bring the sense of assurance and joy that you seem to lack.

First, examine yourself to determine if you are allowing some wrong in your life to rob you of the joy of being a Christian. If so, confess such sin and renounce it. On the positive side, establish good devotional habits involving daily Bible reading, prayer and personal witness. Reckon upon the nearness of Christ, even though you may seem to be walking in the dark.

Second, set aside your requirement to experience feelings of emotions. Be assured in your heart that in spite of how you feel, you have the confidence of the right relationship to God, which is based upon such promises as Romans 10:13, "Whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved."

God sometimes allows a Christian to enter a spiritual wilderness experience following his salvation in order to teach him better how to live the Christian life by faith. In this condition, the Christian life may seem drab and the Lord's presence unreal. Such is not the case. It is only necessary that God teach us Christian maturity and how to walk with Him by faith.

Our happiness is not the result of what happens, but issues out of our confidence in God's faithfulness and power to keep us through time and eternity.

Man poisons self after wife dies

CROFTON, Md. (AP) — A retired Army major poisoned himself, apparently because he felt he had nothing to live for after his 84-year-old wife died, authorities say.

According to neighbors, Maj. John M. Masen, 78, had devoted his life to caring for his wife, Ethel, a victim of Parkinson's disease.

Police said Masen called them early Friday morning and said simply, "I have taken poison and I'm going to die soon."

Police rushed to the house. Masen opened the door, let them in, collapsed in a chair and died. They found his wife's body in an upstairs bedroom.

"When she died, nothing mattered anymore," said a neighbor, Mrs. Audreys Teahey. "In a way it was like an old fashioned love affair."

Masen had been a biochemist at the Walter Reed Medical Center outside of Washington and a career Army officer.

One neighbor said that until about six years ago, the couple spent each winter in Florida, returning in time for Masen to tend to his azaleas, which made the Masen home a neighborhood showplace.

"He had about 50 varieties and he knew when each one would blossom," a neighbor said.

Children awaited the return of the couple because their car would always be loaded with fruit from Florida.

"They were the adopted grandparents of all the kids here," Mrs. Teahey said.

But the trips to Florida ended when Mrs. Masen's condition worsened. The couple became reclusive as Masen took over the complete nursing care of his wife.

Police said preliminary findings by the state medical exminer showed that Masen died of cyanide poisoning and Mrs. Masen died of natural causes. She was found lying peacefully in bed.

Farm health care still big problem in South

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Despite the economic boom in the South, adequate health care remains a serious problem for the area's rural poor, many of whom see doctors only rarely — if at all.

"There are a lot of people who don't have enough contact with the rest of the world even to know when they are seriously ill," said Dr. Raymond Wheeler, Charlotte, N.C.

Wheeler, a past president of the Southern Regional Council, told the Southern Rural Health Conference that education for these persons is as important as health care — or, at least, must come first.

Nearly half the nation's poor live in 13 largely rural Southern states. And Dr. Ray Marshall, of the University of Texas says the New South, the industrial South, has masked many of its problems in the health field behind "industrial promotion."

"We hear a lot of talk about how prosperous the South, the so-called Sunbelt, has become," he said. "That conceals the fact that we have whole areas that seem to be completely left out of this progress."

Wheeler said, "Economic development in the rural South is intimately related to the development of an effective health care delivery system."

The health conference reported: "The first order of business initiating these ... changes is the implementation of universal, comprehensive, national health insurance."

Such insurance, along with Medicaid and Medicare, must pay nurses and physician assistants who are the only medical contacts that many rural areas have, the conference reported. At present, Medicare will make payments only to doctors.

Laws of the various states specify who gets Medicaid payments, for the needy, but in most cases physicians must be present or must supervise the nurses or physician assistants — and, again, the payments go to the physicians.

Unless the laws are changed to permit payments to nonphysicians, said Marshall, "It will be very difficult for many of these clinics ... to extend health care to these remote areas. You can't get a doctor in a town of 500."

Physicians have lobbied against direct payments to nonphysicians involved in health care programs and against national health insurance. But the conference went on record as saying national health insurance is the necessary first step toward improving health care in the rural South.

The conference cited a preliminary task force report on rural Southern health, which showed:

—The death rate in the rural South generally is 22 per cent higher than the national average.

—Infant deaths in the rural South are higher than in the rest of the nation but "for rural blacks the rate is 64 per cent higher than that of their white neighbors."

—In some areas of the South, doctors still have segregated waiting rooms for blacks and whites.

"Unfortunately, access to medical care in this nation depends on one's ability to pay for it and upon the availabilty of adequate health resources," said the report.

The problem is compounded by what the conference called "a disturbing decrease in black enrollment" in medical schools. Unless this trend is reversed the report said, "it may be difficult to recruit medical professionals to meet health needs of minorities in certain areas of the South."

States represented at the conference were Alabama, Arkansas, Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas, Oklahoma, and New Mexico.

Driver has his day in court

JOLIET, Ill. (AP) — Antom Jagoginski didn't feel like paying a $15 traffic fine, so he drove 1,100 miles to have his day in court.

Jagoginski, 47, was vindicated Thursday by Judge Michael Orenic of Circuit Court, who found him innocent of improper lane usage. He had been ticketed on Sept. 1, 1975, after being involved in an accident near Joliet.

To have his hearing, Jagoginski drove from Englewood, Colo. He speaks Polish and little English, but an interpreter was provided.

When the judge said the state had failed to prove the charge and told the defendant he was free to leave, Jagoginski expressed his thanks to the judge and all the lawyers.

Then he left the courtroom and started the 1,100-mile trip back to Englewood.

In Rhodesian talks

Target date demanded

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — British organizers of talks on Rhodesia postponed a session today at which black delegates had threatened to call for indefinite adjournment unless Britain set Dec. 1, 1977 as a target date for black rule.

Reliable sources said Chairman Ivor Richard postponed the meeting early this morning at the request of some black African states aligned against Rhodesia that are in Geneva as observers.

A British spokesman said only that "the chairman has agreed to a request to postpone the plenary session until Monday."

There has not been a formal session of the talks since Nov. 5. Richard called a meeting for today after all four black nationalist leaders rejected a British compromise formula Friday.

Spokesmen for Joshua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe, black leaders who had threatened to call for adjournment today, declined to comment on the postponement. They referred reporters to the British delegation.

The postponement apparently caught the other two black delegations, led by Bishop Abel Muzorewa and the Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole, by surprise. "This is new to us," Sithole's spokesman said. "We have not called for a postponement."

The black nationalists have insisted on a one-year period for transfering power from Rhodesia's 270,000 whites to its 6.4 million blacks. The white regime of Prime Minister Ian Smith has held out for a two-year transition.

Richard reportedly proposed March 1, 1978 as the deadline for the transfer but specified that the 15-month period could be shortened to a year or less if procedural matters could be completed in time.

Spokesmen for Nkomo and Mugabe, who have formed a Patriotic Front at Geneva, have said they would seek an indefinite adjournment unless Richard agreed to the 12-month transition period they demand.

Muzorewa and Sithole, both Methodist churchmen, supported the 12-month demand but did not threaten specifically to call for adjournment if the Dec. 1 date is not set.

On Friday, a spokesman for Sithole said the Methodist minister had seen a preliminary draft of Richard's statement. "If he (Richard) sticks to his position, there is nothing in it for us," the spokesman said.

"We haven't agreed yet (despite) the emergency situation in which we are," Muzorewa, also a Methodist churchman, told reporters. "We have not been given any new evidence that ... persuades us to change our position."

Nkomo told a reporter that Richard was "giving us vague terms, and we want her majesty's government to be definite. This is a matter of life or death for our people."

$33,880,000 authorized

4 textbooks eliminated

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The State Board of Education approved $33,888,000 worth of new textbooks Saturday, after eliminating four, including a biology text that had a caption stating the "city is sick."

The board also rejected a set of chemistry books that included references to the Beatles and Fidel Castro.

Dr. William Kemp of Houston objected that the caption in "Action Biology" by Allyn and Bacon, Inc., would "prejudice a child's thinking" about cities.

He said he lives in the most polluted city in Texas, but a "lot of progress" is being made, as illustrated by the return of fish to waters that were "totally polluted."

"Cities are a vibrant part of our time, and I resent propagandizing children that cities are sick," he said.

Mrs. Jane Wells of Austin said it is "insufficient reason" to remove a textbook because "some members want to take something personally."

"I'd feel the same way wherever I lived," Kemp replied.

Woodrow Bean of El Paso said textbooks should "state the facts, good or bad. The quicker the children of Texas know what's going on the better off they will be in later life."

"There are a lot of areas in my town that are sick," Bean said, "but they are being addressed — talked about — and something is being done about it."

Children need "diverse" educational tools to "capture their imagination," Mrs. Wells said. "Let's try it (the book). We're not stuck with it for 100 years."

"Perhaps we have captured their imagination, and it's time we moved on and captured their minds," said E. M. Huggins Jr. of Fulshear.

It was Huggins who blew up Thursday over the inclusion of the Beatles and Castro in one thin volume of "Interdisciplinary Approaches to Chemistry."

The representative for Harper & Row, Publishers, Inc., said the goal of such references was to show that "science is not just something that is going on in a vacuum."

The textbooks adopted Saturday will be available next September. Contracts for the new books range from three to six years.

Ex-Nazi officer gains freedom

ROME (AP) — Herbert Kappler, a former Nazi officer involved in a World War II massacre, was given his freedom by an Italian military tribunal today after 28 years in prison. His lawyer said Kappler planned to return home to Germany, probably within a few days.

The 69-year-old former German SS officer was listed in critical condition at a military hospital, where he is reportedly being treated for stomach cancer.

Franco Cuttica, Kappler's lawyer, said it would be at least Monday before authorities could arrange to escort him out of the country. He said Kappler technically remains a prisoner of war until he leaves Italy.

Cuttica said the stress of the decision, which came despite protests from leftists and Jews, left his client in no condition to travel immediately.

Cuttica said he did not know where in Germany Kappler would go. He noted Kappler himself is from Stuttgart and the wife he married in prison in 1972 is from Hamburg, but neither of them has any living relatives.

Kappler was sentenced to a life term for his role in the execution of 335 hostages in Rome on March 24, 1944, in retaliation for the partisan attack that killed 32 German soldiers the day before. Most of those executed were Jews.

Kappler was in Germany after the war but surrendered when he learned he was on a list of war criminals. The court that convicted him in July 1948 found he was merely following orders for the execution of 320 persons — a 10-1 ratio of retaliation — but held him personally responsible for the other deaths.

Kappler argued that the extra deaths were the result of confusion at the time of the incident.

Goliad

Achievement tests given

By HELEN HICKS

Friday afternoon students from Goliad, Runnels and fourth, fifth and sixth graders from the various elementary schools went to the high school auditorium to see a patriotic play called "Stars and Stripes Forever." The characters in the play were portrayed by people from New York.

Achievement tests will be given Tuesday, November 16 and Wednesday, November 17 to the seventh graders at Goliad. Directions for the tests will be given over the public address system by Lee Freeze, counselor.

Students in Big Spring schools will receive a holiday Friday of this week while faculty members have a work day in their respective buildings. Thursday will end the second six weeks, or first quarter, of this school year.

Food classes will make pizza this week to close out their quarter's work. These classes are taught by Mrs. Reba Bristow.

The bulletin board in the library for the month of November was done by Alisa Schrecengost. The theme is on Thanksgiving.

Goliad's eighth grade football team has had a very good year. They finished the season with a 7-1 record. They scored a total of 224 points all year, while allowing only 82 points to be scored against them. The Mavericks averaged 28 points a game, while allowing their opponents to score an average of only 10 points a game. Along with Runnels the two eighth grade teams had a 14-2 season.

Boys interested in basketball this year tried out last week after school. The junior class is publishing a school newspaper entitled "Wildcat's Tale." It is put out every other Friday and costs fifteen cents per issue. So for your latest "Horrorscope" and Aggie jokes, be sure and get your issue!

During the first pep rally of the year, FHA President Pamela Parsons crowned Tomy Whitesides as FHA beau for 1976-77.

In Tuesday night's game with the Greenwood Rangers, the Westbrook Wildcats were defeated. The girls coach, Charles Parnell, commented that after one full week of basketball, the team is beginning to shape up. Certain bright spots have been shown in the past two ball games the team has played. They appear to be a likely title contender later in the season!

Games scheduled for this coming week are: November 15, Colorado City, 6:00, here; November 19, Sands, "A" and "B" and "A" girls, 5:00, there. Jr. High's next game will be November 22 with Divide, here.

Forsan

12 weeks gone by

By STEVE COWLEY

This week has mostly been filled with tests and studying, as another twelve weeks slowly faded away. The exemption system worked nicely, and exempt students enjoyed the holiday. There will be no school Monday, because of a teacher work day.

The two big items of the week are too late in the week for me to report on. The Buffalo Band marched for contest at Odessa Saturday. All the weeks of gripy section leaders, bad practices, inflamed tempers, tranquilizers for the band director, lost music, busted horns, and more tranquilizers for the band director came to an end Saturday. Came to an end, that is, unless the Forsan Buffaloes came through Friday night.

Americans back in big cars

Fling shortlived

DETROIT (AP) — After a fling with little cars, Americans reaffirmed their love for the big ones in the 1976 model year. Full size and intermediate models dominated the industry's list of best sellers.

Eight of the top 10 new domestic cars sold in the recently ended model year were big — full-size and four mid-size — while only two were compacts, industry figures show.

The smallest cars — the subcompacts — didn't make the best-seller list for 1976.

By contrast, half of the top 10 sellers in the 1975 model year were compacts or subcompacts, while only two were full size.

Auto analysts say the conditions that sparked a romance two years ago between a fickle public and little cars no longer exist.

"There isn't as much interest in the lowest-priced, fuel-stingiest model." said a sales analyst at Ford Motor Co. "The economy has improved, gasoline prices never went to $1 a gallon — like some people had predicted — and fears of another oil embargo have eased."

But at the same time, consumers simply aren't choosing big cars over small ones. Rather, the market is gravitating toward the center.

American Motors Corp. felt the switch from small cars most sharply. The only U.S. car maker still in a sales rut, AMC lost a record $51.1 million in the July-September quarter and ended up $46.3 million in the red for fiscal 1976, ended Sept. 30.

AMC Chairman Roy D. Chapin Jr. said a "sharp fall-off in passenger car sales during the last half of the fiscal year" was the major reason for AMC's losses. He predicted that segment would regain momentum next year.

AMC's domestic car sales so far this year are off 24 per cent from 1975 levels, while the Big Three auto makers are up 27 per cent.

The list of best sellers for 1976 shows people shopping for small cars bought compacts over subcompacts, while bigcar buyers took intermediates over full-size models.

The No. 1 domestic car in the model year was the mid-size Oldsmobile Cutlass which recorded a 67 per cent sales gain from 1975 to shove the perennial leader — the full-size Chevrolet — into second place.

Sales of the Cutlass, the third-best seller in 1975, were 479,600, while the Chevrolet totaled 457,800, a 9 per cent increase from 1975.

Ride back from Snyder became ordeal for fans

By MARJ CARPENTER

Neither snow, nor rain, nor sand nor sleet can stop the Forsan football fans, who just made an impossible trip back from Snyder Friday night.

The real blizzard hit right at the beginning of the game at 7:30 p.m, although the fans had driven through a light snow to go over to the neighboring city for the contest between Forsan and Wilson.

By the time the game was over, everything was covered with snow, with more coming. People who had planned to eat decided instead to get in their cars and began the trek back to Forsan.

A trip that ordinarily would take 50 minutes dragged into over three hours for some of the group. The two band buses, which left immediately after the contest, got 13 miles out of Big Spring to the 13-mile hill and were forced to stop.

Two eighteen-wheelers were sideways on the hill and a third truck parked behind. Cars were in a long caravan from Snyder. Drivers had seen many of their friends slip off into ditches on the right and left along the way. The cars were halted on the hill.

Because of the closeness of vehicles in the line, nobody could get enough traction to take a run at the hill. Twinkling red tail lights and flashers were all over the north side of the hill. Some vehicles were off the road on the east some on the west, some stuck halfway up and some at the botton. One or two hardy souls slid sideways up to the top, through the whole mess.

Some of the band kids were out throwing snowballs while they waited. Motorists on CBs had been warning other motorist for miles to slow down at the hill, so there were no sudden catastrophes.

Deputy Buster McCartney, at the wheel of chain-driven sheriff's car, began to methodically tie on to each car near the top and drag them over the ridge, clearing the way for the buses to come through.

He was assisted by somebody in a four-wheeler who was literally pushing vehicles over the rise. One man alerted the local police department to "please" get the highway department out to the hill with sand, but the message apparently failed to get through. A road grader and sand arrived at 1:30 a.m. abut 30 minutes after the hill was shaved.

Parents awaited the band buses at their regular parking lot, gathered in cars listening to a CB radio. Well after midnight when the buses cleared the hill, cheers not only went up in the buses but back where parents waited as well.

The football bus was farther back since the boys were fed following the grueling game. By the time this bus reaches 13-mile hill, most of the stalled vehicles had been cleared off and made the ridge.

School Principal Jack Woodley said Saturday morning, "We're just thankful to be home." Supt. J. F. Poynor, who was driving the lead bus, said, "Amen."

More influence sought

Brezhnev visits Tito

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Western diplomats say Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev will try for more influence in Yugoslavia's foreign policy when he meets with President Tito this week. In return, Brezhnev is expected to promise to keep hands off this country's internal affairs.

Brezhnev will be here for three days, Nov. 15-17, the Yugoslav news agency Tanjug said Saturday. The visit is reportedly part of a round of talks with Eastern European leaders, including a visit to Romania later this month for a meeting of Warsaw Pact nations.

Tito, a popular World War II leader, has been able to keep Yugoslavia independent of the Kremlin for 30 years. But he is now 84 and only recently recovered from a liver ailment.

Some Western diplomats have raised doubts about whether those who succeed him will be able to hold together the various Yugoslav nationalities, such as the Serbs and Croats, so as to resist Soviet domination.

Despite his opposition to Soviet influence within Yugoslavia, Tito has provided some backing on international issues.

In 1973, Belgrade made Yugoslav airports available for a Soviet air lift to supply Egypt with weapons and other aid for the war with Israel.

Yugoslavia played a similar role in last year's Angola civil war, when the Soviet Union was supplying aid to the Marxist Angolan faction and the Cuban troops who helped them beat two pro-West groups, the diplomats said.

Yugoslavia feels that kind of limited aid is consistent with its policy of solidarity with Third World nations. But it has been a cause of serious friction with the United States.

Western diplomats say Moscow has been pressing Tito to allow Russian bases in Yugoslavia's Adriatic ports, across from NATO-member Italy, to provide support for the Soviet Mediterranean fleet.

Yugoslav officials said recently Belgrade would never agree to a permanent military pact with the Soviet Union. Yugoslavia is not part of the Warsaw Pact.

Relations between Moscow and Belgrade, often cool in the past, have improved recently, especially in trade.

In 1975, the Soviet Union supplanted West Germany as Yugoslavia's largest trade partner. Exports to the Soviet Union were up 31 per cent and imports rose 23 per cent in the first seven months of this year.

Experts agree that the 1976 goal of $2.3 billion in bilateral trade is within reach, increasing the Soviet share of total Yugoslav trade to around 15 per cent.

Scholarships awarded 874

Scholarships valued at more than $5 million were awarded to 874 college students by the Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps. (AFROTC) recently. The average scholarship's value is approximately $2,300 for one year. The student receives financial assistance covering costs of tuition, fees, books, and incidental expenses, as well as $100 subsistence allowance each month during the academic year.

The majority of the scholarships were awarded to students pursuing scientific or technical academic degrees. The rest of the scholarships were awarded to cadets enrolled as pilot-navigator-missile candidates and students in non-technical areas, including pre-medical and nursing degree candidates.

Clancy to run again in '78

CINCINNATI (AP) — Voted out of office last week after 16 years, U.S. Rep. Donald Clancy, R-Ohio, said he plans to run for Ohio's Second District again in 1978.

Clancy, in his first statement since his Nov. 2 defeat, said he will practice law in Cincinnati and "and get ready for the next election."

Racial incidents lead to battle in prison

REIDSVILLE, Ga. (AP) — A battle among inmates at Georgia's maximum security prison that left three convicts dead and 15 wounded apparently was sparked by earlier racial incidents, a prison official says.

Four of the injured prisoners were in critical condition, authorities said.

"A group of whites set upon a group of blacks," Georgia Corrections Commissioner Allen Ault told reporters.

He said about 80 inmates were involved in the brief but bloody incident as about 500 prisoners were leaving a cell block for morning work details Friday.

The prison, built in 1937, holds about 3,000 inmates, two-thirds of them black.

Ault said the disturbance apparently began as retaliation for an attack on two white prisoners by two black inmates Thursday when "two whites were jumped."

Sara Passmore, of the Department of Offender Rehabilitation, said prisoners told officers that whites earlier had beaten a black inmate. Corrections officials were not told of the incidents until Friday, she said.

Normal prison routines were resumed later in the day, but about a dozen state troopers remained on duty outside the facility in case of further trouble, officials said.

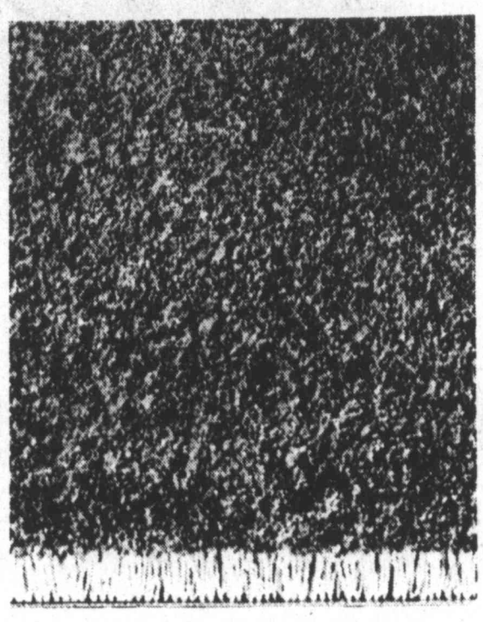

The killings were committed with small knives or "shanks," weapons similar to ice picks but fashioned from metal bed poles, Ault said.

The dead were identified as Willie Frank Madison, 27, of Lincolnton, Ga., who was serving six years for burglary and escape convictions; Johnny Lee McPherson, 29, of Rockmart, Ga., serving a life term for robbery, assault with intent to murder and possession of a deadly weapon, and James Langford Carter, 29, of Decatur, Ga., serving 10 years for rape and violation of the state Firearms Act.

'No risk' project costs man

DALLAS (AP) — An Alabama hearing aid salesman who lost $135,000 in an alleged silver swindle has testified he thought the scheme was a "normal no-risk project."

The testimony by K. L. Azar was made Friday in U.S. District Court here in the trial of Kyle G. Bretz, James McCollom, Theodore Dunkle, James Cockrell and Troy Becker.

The government claims they bilked investors out of more than $1 million by falsely claiming they had a secret process for extracting silver ore found in Llano County, Tex.

Azar said he made trips to New York City and the Bahamas to secure loans for Kyle G. Bretz Enterprises and Bretz showed him "overwhelming documents" that indicatted the Llano ore had a very high value.

He testified that to help Bretz obtain a $5 million loan, he made a trip to New York City in 1974. His commission for assisting in securing the loan was to be $200,000 and when production of the silver began, he was supposed to get another $2.5 million, he said.

When asked by defense attorneys if he thought that kind of return was "usurious," he replied:

"No, sir, because they were talking about tens of millions of dollars and this was just a drop in the bucket."

Azar said he gave Bretz a "temporary loan of $25,000" in October 1974.

He said later he transferred $125,000 that he had borrowed from an Alabama bank to a bank in the Bahamas to be used as security for another loan.

'Missing links' are discovered

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — An historian says he's found a missing link in the history of the American Revolution — in an old trunk belonging to an 84-year-old woman who just happened to mention it.

Gregory Shaaf said documents he discovered could help explain for the first time why the American Indians sided with the colonies rather than with England during the Revolutionary War.

The find includes letters from George Washington, Thomas Jefferson and John Hancock and a missing block of pages from the journal of Col. George Morgan, the colonies' Indian affairs agent during the War, Shaaf said in an interview Friday.

Shaaf, author of "Ten Thousand Years of Santa Barbara History," said he learned about the trunk during an afternoon chat with Susanna B. Morgan — a descendant of Col. Morgan.

"We were sitting in her home visiting," Shaaf said, "and all of a sudden she says, 'Oh, by the way, I happened to find a trunk the other day I hadn't seen in a long time.'

"And then she lays in my lap over a hundred pages of 18th century documents, including 73 pages that had been missing from Col. Morgan's journal — from April to May 1776."

Persistence pays off for attorney, age 70

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — A man who spent eight years unsuccessfully fighting a Florida law school's bar against blacks has finally won permission to practice law in the state — at the age of 70.

The Florida Supreme Court ruled Friday that Virgil Hawkins would not have to take the state bar examination.

Hawkins was twice denied admission to the University of Florida law school in actions upheld by the state court, and Friday's unanimous opinion said he had a "claim on this court's conscience."

In 1949, Hawkins was denied admission to the school on the basis that state law at the time barred blacks. The denial was upheld by the state Supreme Court.

In 1954, the U.S. Supreme Court struck down the decision and ordered that Hawkins' application be considered. School officials again refused to let him in, and the state Supreme Court upheld that denial in 1957, saying that to admit Hawkins could produce "grave public mischief."

Hawkins did not appeal that decision, and instead enrolled in the New England School of Law in 1964.

Last year he asked to be allowed to practice law in Florida through "diploma privilege" because he had graduated from the New England school.

The Florida Bar Association argued that while other requirements should be waived, Hawkins should be forced to take the bar exam because the "public deserves to be protected" from those who cannot pass it.

However, the court held that the record supported a decision waiving the requirement.

The court ordered that Hawkins, who has recently been working in public relations in Fustis, be admitted to the bar unless a character report by the Florida Board of Bar Examiners turned up anything wrong.

They added that before Hawkins can practice on his own, he will have to complete a six-month internship program under a practicing attorney.

Saracho will seek re-trial

Jose Antonio Saracho, sentenced by a Big Spring jury to 99 years in prison for aggravated sexual abuse, Friday filed a motion asking for a re-trial. The motion, filed with the District Clerk's office, said that the trial given Saracho in 118th District Court was invalid because of three violations of the defendant's rights.

Saracho contends that his attorney, Roy Ford, was inadequately informsd of the fact that the foreman of the jury was acquainted with the victim.

Saracho also claims that the jury was prejudiced by the fact that he was required by the prosecution to strip to the waist in the courtroom. District Attorney Robert H. (Bob) Moore asked Saracho to remove his shirt so that the victim and the jury could see his tattoos. The tattoos served as identification for the victim.

District Judge Ralph Caton had not ruled on the motion.

Plainview man is re-instated

PLAINVIEW — Eduardo Campoamor, a Plainview peace officer fired from his job last Oct. 18, has been reinstated and given all his back pay following an appeal heard by city officials Friday.

Campoanor will resume his duties Monday. He told reporters he was glad the incident was closed.

Campoanor was dismissed from the force for alleged bad relations with the public and for burning up an engine of a squad car in a high speed chase.

Investigations proved the car's engine had about 80,000 miles on it and was not in a condition to last long. Campoamor told city officials he was not aware of any restrictions applying to use of the vehicle.

Campoanor's attorney said three youths who had signed complaints against him had been in trouble with the law in the past and, it appeared to him, were attempting to gain "revenge."

To kill President Kennedy

Did Hoover know of plot?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department reportedly has uncovered a 1964 memo in which late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said he was told Lee Harvey Oswald discussed in advance with Cuban officials his plan to kill President John F. Kennedy.

The FBI and the Justice Department refused to discuss the report, which was carried in today's editions of the Washington Post.

The newspaper quoted informed sources as saying that Hoover wrote in the memo that he was told of the discussions between Oswald and the Cubans by a highly reliable informant who learned about them personally from Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

It has been disclosed in documents recently released by the CIA under the Freedom of Information Act that Oswald visited the Cuban Embassy in Mexico City less than two months before Kennedy was killed in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963.

Oswald was arrested shortly after the assassination and was himself killed by Jack Ruby two days later.

There has been speculation that if Cuba was involved in the Kennedy assassination, it was to retaliate for CIA attempts on Castro's life.

Castro has denied that Cuba played any part in Kennedy's death.

The Post quoted sources as saying the Hoover memo was addressed to the Warren Commission, which investigated the assassination. But the sources were not certain if the memo ever reached the commission.

The Post reported that sources said the memo came to light only recently as the result of information brought to the attention of the Justice Department that prompted Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi to order a search of FBI files.

The newspaper said its sources could not say, if the memo is accurate, whether Castro learned of Oswald's intentions before Kennedy's death.

The Post also said its sources speculated that the informant referred to in the Hoover memo was Rolando Cubela. Cubela, a former high Cuban official, has been identified as a 1961 CIA recruit who figured in the agency's plots on Castro's life.

A House committee that was formed to investigate the assassinations of both Kennedy and the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. is scheduled to hold its next meeting on Monday.

Former U.S. prosecutor Richard A. Sprague, who was picked to direct the investigation, has said the committee may take years to complete its work.

Allegations that Oswald was in some way working for the CIA have been circulating since 1963. They have been discounted by CIA officials who claimed they were part of a Communist propaganda campaign.

Documents disclosed last month by the CIA showed that the spy agency once considered using Oswald as a source of intelligence information about the Soviet Union. That disclosure conflicted with sworn testimony before the Warren Commission by Richard Helms, then a branch chief and later CIA director, who said the agency never had "even contemplated" any contacts with Oswald.

Overdoses kill 4 in New York

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four people died and 25 others were treated at hospitals Friday night and early today in a wave of apparent drug overdose cases in Washington and its suburbs.

Washington police said three persons had died in Washington and one man died in suburban Maryland. The victims were all males between 22 and 31, police said. Seven persons remained hospitalized early today.

The deaths were described as drug-related, but Washington police said exact causes of death could not be determined until autopsies are performed.

Police in suburban Prince George's County, Md., tentatively identified the drug as heroin.

Future veep ends visit

ST. JOHN, Virgin Islands (AP) — After a week in the sun and sand at a secluded resort, Vice President-elect Walter F. Mondale is returning home to help Jimmy Carter pick his cabinet and write a budget.

Mondale and his wife, Joan, were to leave Caneel Bay Plantation today for Washington. He said he will go to Carter's hometown of Plains, Ga., sometime next week to help plan the transition.

"I'm ready to go back to work," Mondale told reporters Friday. He said key executives must be selected for the Carter cabinet and "some very important budget decisions ... have to be made."

Mondale said that to help Carter make appointments, "I intend to be working very closely with the national leadership, with governors, mayors, state legislators and with party leadership around the country and with a wide range of people in getting their advice and counsel on behalf of the President-elect."

He also commented that the televised debates between the candidates were among "the few things that the public really responded to" during the campaign. He said they should be a part of future campaigns.

The relaxed Minnesota senator traded one-liners with reporters, displaying the affability that led resort manager George Lidicker to describe him as one of the livelier guests at posh Caneel Bay. Past guests have included Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey and former President Richard M. Nixon.

Lidicker recalled that Kissinger, like Mondale, stayed in a cottage owned by developer Laurance Rockefeller, a younger brother of outgoing Vice President Nelson Rockefeller.

But Kissinger occupied all five units in the cottage with his entourage and guards, Lidicker said, while the Mondales used only one of the units — a one-bedroom apartment on the upper floor.

Four other families occupied the remaining units.

Kissinger had a platoon of guards, even frogmen offshore in the Caribbean, Lidicker said. He said Mondale's Secret Service agents seemed fewer and a bit more relaxed.

The Forsan Buffaloes played in a blizzard, got behind for the first time this season and still pulled out a District 3-B championship an 8-6 win over the Wilson Mustangs, the north zone champions.

Playing in Snyder, both teams went into the contest with 10-0 records and the Forsan Buffaloes had never been behind this season, having allowed only one touchdown along the way.

The game and a blowing snowstorm began at the sam e time, and Forsan took the ball on the kickoff and began to move. They grabbed a quick first down with carries by Gary Martin, and Rusty Henderson.

They had what looked like a second first down when they got an illegal motion call. This was the first of five such calls in the game, which occurred as the backfield would slip and slide around out of position.

Wilson dug in and held and Forsan was forced to punt against the wind, getting off a 22-yarder into the storm.

On the first play from scimmage, the Wilson quarterback, Carlton Henderson, operating from a Houston veer, went 78 yards for a touchdown.

The first-string Buffalo defense had not been scored upon all season. They had been warned about the possibility of the type of weather they were faced with at this particular play-off.

Forsan fans were stunned and the Wilson fans jubilant like the game was over. It was alright. It was over for Wilson.

Wilson tried to kick the extra point and it was no good. They only made one first down after that jaunt, in the entire contest and it was late in the third period on a 16-yard scamper by Henderson.

Forsan's Henderson came roaring back on the next few carries like he wanted to personally clear the name of Henderson. They had everything going well. Ralph Miranda hurled a beautiful long pass that was caught by a Buffalo and a Mustang at the same time, with the Mustang snatching it out of the hands of the Forsan receiver.

The defense dug in again and the quarter ended with the game 6-0 in favor of Wilson. John Medlin and Henderson carried six times, then lost the ball on a fumble. The defense, sparked by Alan Hollandworth, Ship Koelzer, Hank Adams, and Don Roberson held. Wilson punted straight up into the wind.

Forsan took the ball on their own 37. Gary Martin carried twice. On the third carry, the Buffs fumbled and lost the ball. On the first carry for Wilson, the Mustangs then fumbled and Forsan recovered the ball.

This gave the Buffs their needed momentum. Martin carried four yards to the 20 and on the next play, Randy Cregar went in 20 yards for the score with 1:59 left until the half.

Martin then slid and slipped, zigged and zagged around in the backfield before going around the right end into the corner of the end zone for the two points that made the difference in the contest.

After the half, Forsan began to use big Hank Adams on the carries. Early in the season, Adams carried the ball a lot, but had been switched to the strong Buffalo defense.

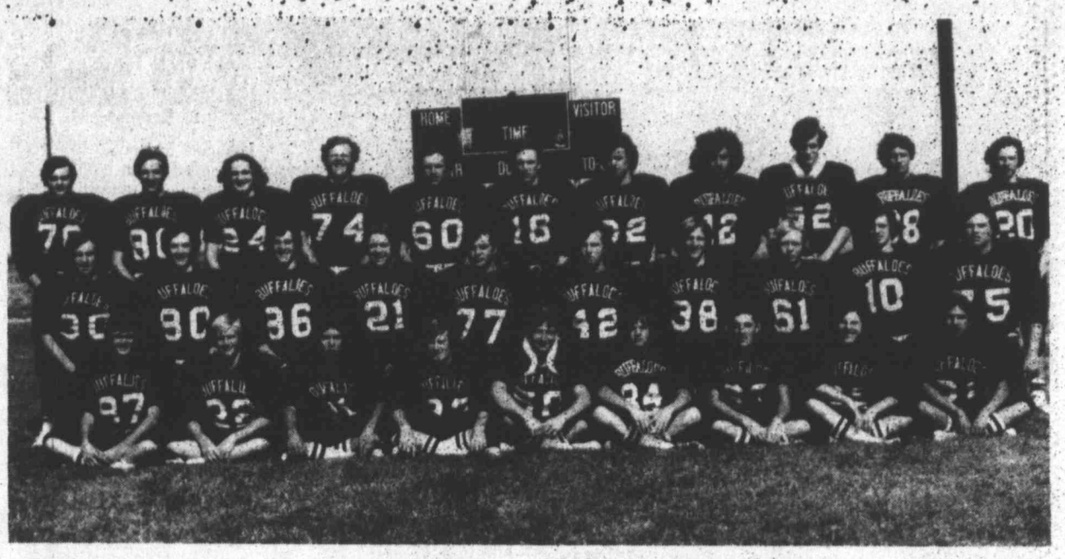

The snow made broken running impossible and big Hank was used like a snow plow to keep the ball in the possession of the Buffs.

He broke away 58 yards for a score early in the third period, which was called back on illegal procedure. Alternating with Martin, Henderson and Miranda, Adams kept the ball moving most of the time in the third period.

Two strong points for the Buffs have been the defense and the amazing number of backs, including Henderson, Medlin, Miranda, Gary Tidwell, Adams, Cregar, Martin, Raymond Sewell, Dale Earnest, Randy Reavis, John Wright and Angel Miranda. They have piled up 370 points while their opponents have scored 12.

Dumping Wilson's Wes Wilke and Philip Bednarz at particularly key times in the contest were Ho landsworth and Roberson. Most of the second half was played in the middle of the field with nice clean snow at the goal line. This was until Forsan made a final push near the end of the contest and messed up the snows at the north end on another attempt to score.

Forsan will play the winner of the Balmorhea-Dell City game which was to be played Saturday in Van Horn. A site of the contest will be announced, according to Coach George White.

LUNAR FOOTBALL? — With the wind-swept snow obscuring the backgrouind, and the field covered in a 4-inch layer of the pearly-white mixture, Big Spring Steers and San Angelo Bobcats fight it out in the freezing cold. Bubba Stripling is stopped here by Bobcat defenders after gaining nine yards. Lance Perry (61), Jack Buchanan (70), Dee Nanny (64) and Del Poss (80) all have been frozen in action by the camera's capture of the unearthly scene.

"The chill of victory and the agony of de feet," told the story at Memorial Statium Friday night as the San Angelo Bobcats warmed up briefly in the last half of their final District game of the season with the Big Spring Steers and slid to a 20-6 victory in a blinding blizzard.

Perhaps between a 100 and 150 football faithful braved slick streets and artic-like weather conditions to briefly sit in the snow-banks that were bleachers.

The Steers, cold for most of the season, seemed to prosper on the glacier gridiron, and the visiting Bobcats looked as if they would turn to inanimate snow statues in the first half.

With the help of Jack Forst, the Bovine defense threw up a snow castle in the first half that made the Bobcats cough up the ball seven times on nine possessions.

The Longhorns came out in the spread formation, an offensive attack that gave quarterback Bubba Stripling four targets. The inclement weather hampered the efforts of an inspired effort, but with 8:57 remaining in the first half, the Steers finally capitalized on a Bobcat frozen bobble. Steve Wolfe took a nose-dive into the snow at the Angelo 20-yard line and grabbed the fumbled pigskin out of the icebox.

Steer quarterback Bubba Stripling only needed two plays to make Wolfe's effort profitable. Stripling first two-stepped to the left, walking on frozen eggs on the ice field past slipping and sliding defenders. He carried the ball down to the 11-yard line.

He then kept the goose flesh, and skated his way through the chattering of teeth and chilblains of a Bobcat defense and fell into the polar region that is sometimes known as the end-zone in an explosion of snowflakes and icicles.

A try for the two-extra points failed when a pass to Tommy Wegner fell from his quickfrozen fingers.

San Angelo could not seem to get out of cold storage in the first half. Their premiere running back Bill Woodard, trying for a 1,000-yard season was the only cool cookie who could get across the scrimmage line, and when he did, the glacial pigsicle popped out of his frostbitten digitals more times than not.

Woodard was to become the champion of the visitors' cause in the second half however, as he gained 169 yards to bust the 1,000-yard mark by 22, and he also carried the ball for three touchdowns past a second-half snowbound Steer squad.

The outcome of the game was attributed to turnovers. The Steers gathered in seven exchanges in the first half while only giving up one, but they gave the ball up five times in the second half in crucial situations to ice the game away for Angelo.

The snowfest in Siberia Stadium was the wintry end of a long season for the Steers, and the finale for 22 seniors playing in the freezing black and gold.

Senior quarterback Bubba Stripling, a three-year starter on Steer basketball teams, and recruited last spring to fill a vacant signal-caller's position on the Bovine offense, ended his career on the football field by being the leading host rusher of the night, garnering 32 icebound yards, and completed eight of 23 passes for 78 yards.

Steer defensive back Billy Hayes picked off three Bobcat passes practically out of the shivering hands of Bobcat receivers. Tommy Churchwell, Steve Hughes, Tony Mann, Sammy Ortega and the rest of the Steer defense held up as well as could be expected in the face of such stone cold odds.

Only once were they scored upon in a forthright drive. That came with 4:45 remaining in the third quarter as Woodard capped a 79-yard drive where the visitors picked up most of their yardage and first downs.

The 'Cats tried to kick the PAT to go in front, but the snap was high, and knocked a few icicles off of the kicker's helmet. Tony Mann made sure the PAT failed as he fell on the holder who had scooped up the snowcone.

A Stripling fumble on his own 14-yard line led to another Angelo score, and an errant pass deep in Steer territory gave the Bobcats added insurance, as they capitalized on that one in the fourth quarter.

The frosty game was a fitting end to the locals' season. The Steers played with a spirit born of frustration and frozen muscles and feet, but could not hang on the full 48 minutes.

But it was not doubt an unforgettable experience for the Steers and the few snow-covered fans that saw them in their last game.

There is always the melting of the snow, the coming of spring and a new football season next year.

THROUGH the fieldglasses

By Danny Reagan

The Steer game Friday was an experience that I would just as soon not ever have to go through again.

Wearing two of everything didn't help all that much, and I doubt if three of everything would have made a bit of difference.

Poor Roy Ivey, the sports writer from San Angelo. When he left Angelo Thursday afternoon to cover the Lakeview game in Lubbock the temperature was 65 degrees.

But when he journeyed down from Lubbock to Big Spring the next day, the old red ink on the wall showed barely half that much. He didn't bring any special clothes to combat the elements, and he had to be the coldest person huddled in the press box . . .

. . . And there were a number of us. When the game started there might have been 100-150 people on both sides of the field, but as it continued, and the snow and wind continued that number dropped appreciably.

Most of the fans went home, but more than two dozen of them came to the press box door red-nosed and freezing seeking asylum from the blizzard.

With the soft heart that Royce Cox has, they knew they would find shelter. Even the cheerleaders joined us during the fourth quarter and led a cheer or two.

The entire experience wasn't really that bad I suppose, (We could've been down on the field), but during the first quarter the windows started fogging and freezing up, and the ink in my pen was slowly becoming rock hard, and my feet lost feeling.

My second-favorite spotter, Harold Wilder, also wearing two of everything said that he wouldn't have missed the experience for anything. Poor Coach, the cold must have gotten through all those knitted caps.

The Sands Mustangs basketballers continued in their undefeated season by sweeping a pair of boys' games from Bronte Friday night.

In the "A" game, Martin Nichols with 24, Stan Seaster with 17, and Gary Webb with 10, led the Mustangs to a 74-32 pounding of Bronte.

In the "B" game, David Long with 17, Summers Shaw with 11, and David Hall with nine led their squad to a 53-40 victory over the Bronte JV's.

In another short note from Sands, the Senior Class dinner that was scheduled for today has been postponed until next Sunday due to the weather.

Home-opener with Andrews Tuesday

Steer roundball begins soon

By DANNY REAGAN
Sports Editor

The Big Spring High School Steer basketball squad is preparing to tip off its 1976-77 schedule Tuesday in a battle with the Andrews' quintet.

Head Coach James Griffin indicates that the team is a better squad overall than the group last year.

"We are quicker, and the attitude is super," said Griffin. "We may be young but we fight and hustle."

The Steers will be a running and gunning type of squad this year, necessitated by their lack of height.

"As small as we are, we have to run," said Griffin, "but we are the biggest we've been since I've been here."

The Bovinss may be tall compared to past teams, but they are definitely shorter than most of their competition this year.

There are five returning lettermen to the team, and even though the Steers lost their top two scorers from last year, they have their leading scorer in district action, Bubba Stripling, coming back.

Stripling, 6'0" and guard Elroy Green, 5'10", are the only two-year lettermen on the squad this year, and both are expected to see a lot of starting action.

Green, one of the two captains of the team this year, will start in the Andrews game Tuesday, but Stripling, due to his stint in football and lack of practice time will play but will not start. The same goes for Mike Harris, 6'3" forward, who will also see limited action in the first game.

WILDER, C. 6'4" sr. | PERRY 6'4" jr. | GREEN 5'10" sr. | JONES 6'0" sr. | RUBIO 6'2" sr.

The four other starters for e first game include the other captain, Casey Wilder, 6'4", senior, who Griffin sees as his best shot; 6'4" junior Kenneth Perry, one of the top rebounders for the Steers; senior Johnny Jones at 6'0", who should also be one of the top shooters for the team; and senior Frankie Rubio, at 6'2", the biggest man, weight-wise on the team.

Remaining players on the 12-man squad include Steve Evans, a 5'10", senior who is considered a fine backup guard; Scott Wilder, a 6'1" junior who was the leading JV scorer; Danny Crosby, a 6'2" junior who is the best jumper and who Griffin considers the best player to come out of the junior high squads in a long time; and Cornell Kimble, a 5'10" senior backup guard.

Mike Harris is expected to add strength on the boards, and expertise on the press once he makes the transition from football to roundball.

The Steers, who finished at 14-17 for the season last year, lost five of those games by one point, and will be trying to find the edge to turn the overall picture around.

The opening game will be indicative of the competition the Steers will face this year. Most of the teams, as Andrews, will be taller, and will have a winning attitude.

"We have to be really ready for Andrews," said Griffin, "becuase of their football team they have a winning spirit and are ready to play. We can't take them lightly."

The Steers, who average at just over six feet a man, are expected to finish back in the Midland Lee, Permian led pack in District 5-4A competition.

Game time this year, for all varisty contests will be 8 p.m. At times they will follow sophomore and junior varsity games, starting at 4:15 and 6:15 respectively.

Ed Henry is the coach of the JV's, while Don Childs is the sophomore mentor.

Freddy Marin, Casey Thompson, Brian Rosson and Mike Pitts are managers for the roundballers, and Mike Biles is the trainer.

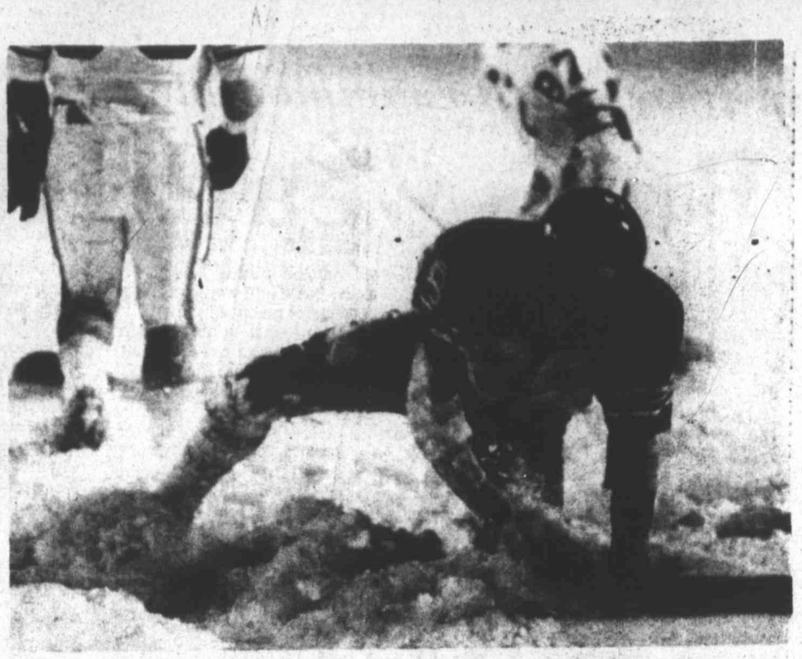

The games will be Tuesday and Friday nights, and tickets can be bought at the gym or ticket office.

IN A CLOUD OF SNOW — San Angelo's top running back, Bill Woodard tries his luck through the middle of the Steer defense as clods of snow is thrown up by blockers and defenders alike. Big Spring's Ernie Nichols (62), Robert Wrinkle (73), and Steve Wolfe (75) all come in for the kill. In the background, up in the stands, three shadowy figures can vaguely be discerned watching the proceedings.

DIGGING FOR THE BALL — Steer wide-receiver Kenneth Coffey appears to be digging in the half foot of snow that covered Big Spring's Memorial Stadium Friday night. Actually, Coffey is picking himself up from snow clump after being dumped by Bobcat receivers.

SNOW BALLET — Big Spring Steer Robbie Wegner and an unidentified San Angelo Bobcat do the Alaskan hat dance in the snow around a fumbled pigsicle, one of many loose baubles of the night.

SNOW MONSTERS? — No, not really, just one of the Steer faithful who braved the blizzard to "watch" the Bovine's final game of the season. This fan was half-covered with a snowbank 30 minutes later.

HOW COLD IS IT? — Seems to be the expression written in Harold Sherman's (85) face, as he and other Steer reserves try to keep warm on the sidelines with a hot-air blower. The heaters might have helped subdue frostbite, but there is little chance that they kept anyone warm.

ICY TOUCHDOWN — Big Spring quarterback Bubba Stripling lies half-covered with snow after plunging into the Angelo end-zone for the first score of the game. Alan Partee (55), Lance Perry (61) and Gregg Adams (32) pick themselves up out of the show as the referee begins his signal for the score in the background.

Play-off pic developes

Opening shots of the Texas schoolboy football playoffs were made Friday night as several zone winners fought for district titles.

But perhaps but most significant game was a regular season contest to determine the Dist. 15-4A champion. Temple, ranked seventh, out-toughed No. 4 Killeen 21-0 to advance to next week's bi-district level.

The biggest playoff games were in Class 3A, where top-ranked Beaumont Hebert crushed ninth-ranked Silsbee 42-0 to win Dist. 9-3A and fourth-ranked Humble outscored Huntsville 28-25 to capture Dist. 10-3A.

Other games between zone champions were fought in Class B, where No. 1 Gorman whipped Eden 40-6 for the Dist. 6-B title, No. 7 Forsan nipped ninthranked Wilson 8-6 to win Dist. 3-B and Sundown smashed fourth-ranked Sudan 26-6 in a Dist. 2-B showdown of zone winners.

The biggest surprise of the last night of the regular season came in Class 2A, where topranked McGregor was swamped 40-6 by West.

Besides the Killeen-Temple game, results went according to form among the rest of the 4A Top Ten. First-ranked Houston Kashmere beat Houston Williams 18-8 Thursday night, No. 2 Longview crushed Lufkin 44-6, third-rated Port Neches-Groves blanked Vidor 37-0, No. 6 Sherman outlasted Richardson 21-15, No. 9 San Antonio Churchill mashed San Antonio Lee 24-7 and 10th-ranked Baytown Lee beat Houston Sterling 26-8. No. 5 Spring Branch Memorial played Saturday night and No. 8 Brazoswood was idle.

Elsewhere in 3A, No. 2 Brownwood stoned Stephenville 35-6, third-ranked Gainesville outscored Bonham 40-27, No. 5 San Angelo Lake View nudged Lubbock Dunbar 14-6, sixthranked Gregory-Portland was upset 6-0 by Beeville but won a three-way coin flip to win its district, No. 7 Dickinson tripped Friendswood 44-17, No. 8 Andrews was shut out 3-0 by Monahans and 10th-rated Perryton was idle.

Besides the McGregor loss, no other members of the 2A Top Ten was defeated.

Aggies pull Hog Joke

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)— Texas A&M frosh halfback Curtis Dickey ran for a touchdown, then stunned Arkansas on a 41-yard touchdown pass all within a 59-second span of the second quarter Saturday and the vengeful Aggies shattered the Razorbacks' Cotton Bowl dreams with a 31-10 Southwest Conference victory.

Dickey, the most sought-after schoolboy back in Texas last year, dashed three-yards for a touchdown before dropping a bombshell on the defending Cotton Bowl champions–the first pass of his career.

After Lester Hayes had intercepted a Ron Calcagni pass, Dickey took a pitchout on an apparent sweep. But he stopped and found Randall Teate all alone behind Arkansas' Elijah Davis. Teate took the ball at the 10 and rambled into the end zone untouched.

The nationally-televised victory made 16th ranked Texas A&M's record 7-2 and considerably enhanced the Cadets' bowl chances.

The Liberty, Fiesta and Sun Bowls were in attendance in the bitter-cold 41-degree day.

The 13th-ranked Razorbacks are 5-2-1 for the year and 3-1-1 in league play, a game and a half behind Texas Tech and a half-game behind Houston.

For the Aggies, it was sweet revenge for last year's humiliating 39-6 nationally televised loss to Arkansas that knocked them from the unbeaten ranks.

Red Raiders run roughshod

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Dandy, deadly Rodney Allison guided fifth-ranked Texas Tech through an icy snow storm Saturday to a runaway 34-7 Souhtwest Conference verdict over Southern Methodist.

The crafty junior quarterback knotched a couple of touchdowns as the unbeaten Red Reaiders mounted a 24-0 halftime lead and rolled to their eighth consecutive victory.

The Raiders, shooting for a New Year's date in the Cotton Bowl, padded their SWC lead to a full game over idle second place Houston and set up a potential title bout between the two here next weekend.

Tech is 5-0 and Houston 5-1 in SWC play.

An overnight storm delivered nearly six inches of snow and delayed the start of Saturday's game an hour and a half while work crews cleared the artificial turf.

But the snowfall resumed before halftime, coating the field in white,chasing off many of the 34,780 homecoming fans and contributing to an icy comedy of misques.

Allison, combining deft ball handling with some dazzling runs, recorded touchdown romps of 8 and 3 yards, Larry Isaac scooted three for another and Bryan Hall's 20-yard field goal staked the Raiders to their 24-0 halftime cushion.

Freshman quarterback Tony Black winged a snowball to Emanuel Tolbert in the third period on a play covering 76 yards and SMU, now 2-8 and 1-6, picked up its lone touchdown.

Hall booted a 25-yarder and Billy Taylor cracked over from the one to close out the Tech scoring.

Taylor's 56-yard run was the key play in a 75-yard drive that set up Tech's first touchdown, an eight-yard gem by Allison after a smooth fake and cut.

Allison also kicked off runs of 8 and 14 and fired a 10-yard pass to Isaac to set up Isaac's touchdown run. And it was a 19-yard toss from Allison to Sylvester Brown that propelled Tech to its third TD.

Scuttled time and again by a savage Tech defense, SMU got its moment of glory early in the snowy third period, and even then the weather was a factor. A Tech defender slipped as Black located Tolbert alone at the 50-yard-line and Tolbert galloped on unhindered for the 76-yard touchdown.

Hall, who kicked his 39th consecutive extra point, capped a 58-yard thrust in the third period with his 25-yard field goal and then Taylor ended the scoring.

Taylor's one-yard touchdown run was the final stroke on an abbreviated 24-yard Tech scoring march that was set up by Bill Bothwell's fumble recovery.

For the evening, Allison racked up 92 yards rushing and 45 passing while teammates Isaac and Jimmy Williams were garnering 66 yards each and Taylor was tacking on 74.

The frisky Tech defense held SMU to 67 yards rushing and Art Whittington was the leading Mustang rusher with 67 yards— Black, the quarterback, being thrown for losses totaling 38 yards. However, Black hit on 6 of 19 passes for 172 yards and the single Mustang touchdown.

Longhorns bounce back over Frogs

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Texas' freshman-dominated offese led by quarterback Mark McBath struck for two quick second-quarter touchdowns and senior halfback Jimmy Walker added two scores to give the Longhorns a 34-7 Southwest Conference victory over winless Texas Christian.

Texas, starting three freshmen in the backfield, got two first-quarter field goals from Russell Erxlaben, then got its first touchdown on its first play of the second quarter on a dazzling 50-yard run by freshman Olympian Johnny "Lam" Jones. Then McBath, the Longhorns third starting quarterack this season, passed 28 yards to freshman tight end Gil Harris for another touchdown three minutes later.

TCU, which fell to 0-10 for the season, was playing its first game after Coach Jim Shofner announced his retirement last week effective at the end of the season.

The contest was played after a snowstorm struck the city earlier in the day. It was still snowing at the start of the game.

The Horn Frogs only touchdown of the game came with 1:32 left in the first half on a 28-yard pass from quarterback Jimmy Dan Elzner to Vernon Wells to make the score 20-7 at intermission.

Texas put the game away in the third quarter, with Walker climaxing two drives with TD runs of one and five yards.

Texas, which was shut out by Houston in its last game, had 370 yards total offense in running its season record to 4-3-1 and its SWC mark to 3-2.

Baylor Bears wild Rice

HOUSTON (AP)—Baylor quarterback Mark Jackson ran for one touchdown and passed for another and the Bear defense thwarted Tommy Kramer, the nation's leading passer, to lead the Bears to a 38-6 Southwest Conference football victory over Rice Saturday.

Jackson sparked the Bears to a 21-6 halftime lead when he hit split end Tommy Davidson with a 17-yard touchdown pass, ran one yard for another score and handed off to Gary Blair, the game's leading rusher, for a one-yard touchdown run.

Jackson left the game midway in the fourth quarter after completing 17 of 26 passes for 246 yards to outperform Kramer who had one of his worst days of the season.

Baylor's three scoring plays in the first half were offset only by a 98-yard kickoff return for a touchdown by Rice's James Sykes in the second quarter.

Sykes, who entered the game as the nation's leading receiver, took the kickoff behind a perfect wedge set up the middle. He broke through the wedge at about the 25-yard line, staggered through a final cluster of tacklers and ran untouched into the end zone.

Wingback Greg Hawthorne resumed the scoring parade for Baylor in the third quarter when he scored twice on endaround runs of 34 and 13 yards to send the Owls to their sixth defeat of the season against three victories. Rice dropped to 2-4 in the SWC.

Baylor is 2-2-1 in conference play and 5-2-1 for the year.

Baylor's Lester Belrose kicked a 41-yard field goal with 5:05 left in the game to cap the Bears' scoring.

Rams-Redbirds highlight NFL.

There is a very good reason for the glint in Lawrence McCutcheon's eye as his Los Angeles Rams face the St. Louis Cardinals in Sunday's key National Football League matchup.

The last time the Rams faced the Cardinals was in the 1975 NFC divisional playoffs. McCutcheon shredded the St. Louis defense that day for 202 yards rushing, a playoff record.

The Rams could use that kind of production from their big runner again Sunday. With five weeks to go in the regular season, division races are getting down to the nitty-gritty.

Nowhere is the nail biting tougher than in the National Conference West where Los Angeles has a half-game lead over San Francisco. The 49ers play at Atlanta this week, hoping to use the 2-7 Falcons to keep the pressure on Los Angeles.

The Rams, however, will get no sympathy from St. Louis. The Cardinals are in a three-way tangle in the NFC East, one game back of Dallas and one in front of Washington.

Dallas hosts the Monday night game against 2-7 Buffalo while Washington faces the winless New York Giants Sunday.

Other Sunday games are Denver at San Diego, Houston at Cincinnati, Kansas City at Oakland, Miami at Pittsburgh, New England at Baltimore, Tampa Bay at the New York Jets, Detroit at New Orleans, Green Bay at Chicago, Seattle at Minnesota and Philadelphia at Cleveland.

While the Rams-Cards game holds major significance at the top of two divisions, survival is on the line in the Pittsburgh-Miami matchup. Both have 5-4 records, and a loss now would jolt post-season hopes of these two perennial playoff teams.

The American Conference East race is spotlighted in the Baltimore-New England matchup. The Colts are two games ahead of the Patriots and a victory Sunday would just about seal the issue.

Oakland, leaders in the AFC West, are a fat three games ahead of Denver. Oakland's magic number for a fourth consecutive West title is two and they will try to reduce that against Kansas City.

Cincinnati stayed two games in front of Pittsburgh and Cleveland in the AFC Central with last Monday night's victory over Los Angeles.

Boomer Sooners outlast Mizzou

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Quarterback Thomas Lott scored two touchdowns, one from 49 yards out, and teammates Horace Ivory and Kenny King each ran for more than 100 yards as Oklahoma outlasted Missouri 27-20 Saturday, bumping the Tigers out of the Big Eight Conference race.

Lott's long touchdown run and a 39-yard scoring sprint by King put the Sooners ahead 27-10 in the third period. But the Sooners had to choke off a furious Missouri rally in the final quarter to keep their Big Eight title and bowl hopes alive.

Pitts still it!

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Tony Dorsett bolted 30 yards for his third touchdown of the game to help top-ranked Pittsburgh fight off a second-half rally and defeat West Virginia 24-16 Saturday in college football.

Officials from the Orange, Cotton and Sugar Bowls looked on as the Panthers' record climbed to 10-0.

Wolfpack loses way in the snow

COLORADO CITY — Stamford struck early on an 8-yard run by halfback Don Earl and then survived three mistakes in the second half to edge Colorado City 7-6 here Friday night.

The win sends Stamford into bi-district competition next week, probably against Post. The Bulldogs will represent District 6-AA with an 8-2 record. Colorado City finished at 7-3.

The game was played during a heavy snowstorm which covered the field at least ankle deep and produced miserable playing conditions for the 6-AA championship game.

Earl led all runners with 116 yards, but 80 of them came on one play in the first quarter. Earl's run came on the Bulldogs third series of downs and he also kicked the seventh point with about 8 minutes gone in the first quarter.

The Bulldogs never got inside the Colorado City 20 after that, but it was enough for the victory.

Colorado City had several scoring opportunities, especially in the second half as Stamford's mistakes nearly cost them the win.

Colorado City's Steve Belvin missed a 27-yard field goal in the first quarter right before Earl's touchdown. Then early in the second quarter a Wolf drive stalled at the Stamford 12 after an incomplete pass.

A 44-yard run by Frank Sanchez had put the Wolves in scoring position.

Belvin and Blake Hammond recovered Stamford's fumbles in the third quarter to give Colorado City new life, but it wasn't enough.

Bulldogs lose to Nature and Merkel

COAHOMA — Merkel's Badgers rambled toa 28-14 win over the Coahoma Bulldogs in District 6-AA football action Friday.

Coahoma scored the first but Merkel got the last four TD's to win.

Coahoma scored in the first period when fullback Rogan Tindol took the ball 68 yards. Rodney Lee added the PAT.

In the second quarter, quarterback Tim Greenfield ran 2 yards for a socre and Lee added the point-after.

With 9:03 left in the first half, the Coahoma center snapped the ball over the punter's head and the Badgers recovered on the one-yard line. Rickey Howes took the ball in from there and halfback Larry Smith ran for the two-point conversion.

In the third period halfback Mark Shaw flew down the field on a 57-yard ramble for a TD, but the PAT try failed.

Fourth quarter action saw the Badgers recover a Coahoma fumble on the Bulldog 20 and quarterback David Pfiester passed 13 yards to halfback Roger Down for the TD. Then with only 1 second left in the game Pfiester intercepted a Coahoma pass and returned it 23 yards for a TD.

Lee captures crown

MIDLAND — With the 13-6 loss of Odessa to Permian Saturday afternoon, the Midland Lee Rebels, by virtue of a 15-6 victory over cross-town rival Midland, took the District 5-4A championship.

As in most Texas schoolboy games Friday night, the Midland bash was held in the snow and it was definitely a factor in the outcome of the game.

There were 23 punts in the ball game and not one of them were miss-snapped.

Coogs upset Eagles

ABILENE — No matter what kind of talent the Abilene High Eagles seem to come up with, they can never seem to beat Cooper, no matter how bad that team is.

Cooper, by winning Friday night's game 14-0, has now won the last 11 straight ball games between those two teams.

Cooper had scoring marches of 80 and 22 yards, and held on at the last, while giving up four fumbles for the victors.

Proceeds from Gala benefit given to rehabilitation center

By CANDY SMITH

Although the final figure for funds received from last month's Gala Benefit is not in yet, it has passed the $29,000 mark and appears very likely that the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center will reach its goal of $30,000.

They money raised by the Gala will go to offset monthly deficits the center encounters during the year, said Jack Davis, director of the center.

The fund-raising benefit, originated three years ago by Mrs. Kent (Jan) Morgan, has gone, in past years, to a reserve account used by the center to offset a trend of decreased income during certain seasons of the year, usually between March and August.

The expected $30,000 raised by the Gala is a large part of the rehabilitation center's approximately $184,000 budget. The Gala was able to contribute $26,000 to the center last year.

"Because of the name (Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center), people think we are funded directly by the foundation board. We don't have access to those funds," said Davis. Without contributions from the Gala, he added later, "we'd be in big trouble."

"The Gala is not a luxury that gives us money to run wild with. It's essential. If we lost the $30,000, we could cut down in expenses and cut out some services. But we could not operate the complete center as we do now," Davis said.

"The rehabilitation center is a community asset, something the community elects to have or not to have. It's an added expense, no doubt about it. And a lot of communities choose not to go to the trouble of having one."

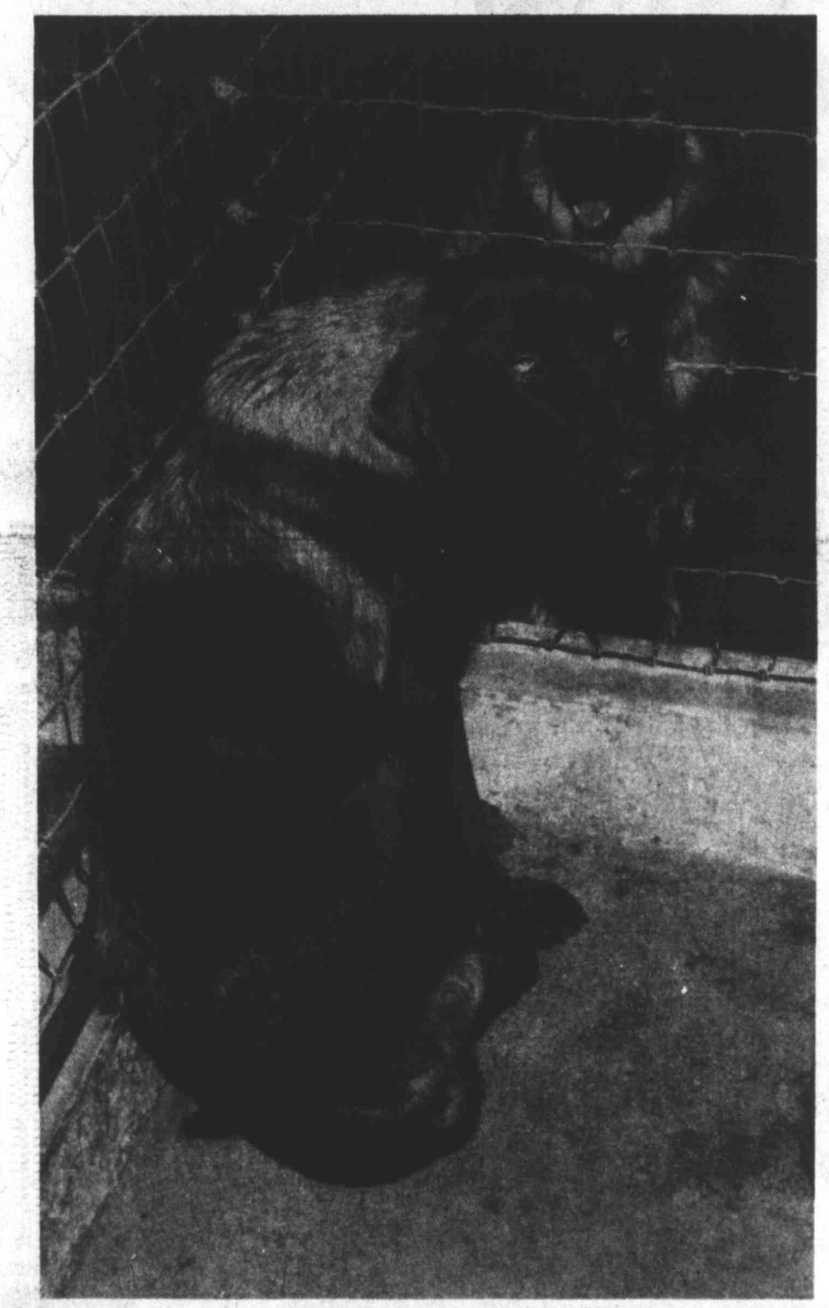

The center provides about 18,500 treatments during 1974-75. "Big Spring has one of the best in the state," as rehabilitation centers go," said Davis.

Most patients pay a portions of their medical expenses but few pay the entire bill. "The realities of existing inflation have forced us to be more concerned about collecting (fees). We're really stressing now that people carry a portion they can afford to carry. But we still are not demanding that someone pay who can't pay," Davis said.

"We're not necessarily becoming more callous, but we are becoming more alert and attentive."

Loose dogs lose at shelter

Photos by Danny Valdes

HOUNDS LIKE ME AIN'T GOT A CHANCE — The dog in the background, apparently a full-blooded Keeshound, was given a home after being held for a week, "because he looked like a good dog." Most, like the one in the foreground, don't possess the looks or breeding to attract attention.

By CANDY SMITH

How often do drivers here have to brake their car suddenly to avoid hitting a dog, or another vehicle in front of them who has braked without warning for the same reason?

Dogs are the real victims of unobeyed leash and vaccine laws according to the men who run the Big Spring Animal Shelter. But stray dogs can also cause problems ranging from accidents to disease.

Despite the laws relating to dogs in this area, it is not unusual to see strays in groups of twos and threes roaming the streets here, unleashed and untagged. Nevertheless, the dog's owner seldom wants to pay the fine to get the dog back, said Samual Munoz, who is temporarily working at the animal shelter in the absence of Eddie Hernandez.

In the event that an owner does not claim his dog, it is put up for sale, but seldom sold. Approximately 85 per cent of the dogs picked up by the animal shelter employes are subsequently destroyed, shelter records show. Animals are not picked up unless they are in violation of the animal code or reported to the police department, who charges the animal shelter with further investigation.

Last month was a typical month in terms of the number of animals handled by the shelter, said Melecio Sarmiento, an employe of the shelter.

For October 1976, 134 dogs were impounded in the animal shelter. Eighteen of those were either claimed by their owners or sold. The remaining 116 were destroyed. The shelter also removed 105 dead animals from off local streets and sidewalks. One cow was picked up.

"We keep the dog for 72 hours after we pick it up," said Samuel Munoz. "The first time we pick up a dog, the owner has to pay a $10 fee to get his dog back. The second time, they have to pay a fee plus a fine. "The fine starts at $10 and is doubled each time the dog returns to the animal shelter.

"When you get to $40, the next time is $80. Automatically, the owner won't want the dog back," said Munoz.

"After 72 hours, we keep the dog a little longer in case someone wants to buy it. If it looks like a real good dog, we keep it a little longer because usually someone will want it. But we don't sell the dog until the owner has had 72 hours to claim it," Munoz added.

"We're kind of cheap on our dog pound fee compared to other towns, at least that's what I've heard from other people," he said.

People who do not care responsibly for their dogs are the city's problem and hence the animal shelter's problem.

"They get too stubborn. Most of the people, if you tell them that their dog is loose, automatically they will get mad. Sometimes they just won't pen them up or anything. Some will pen up the dog until we get out of the block, and then let the dog go again," added Munoz.

Female dogs are their greatest problem, they said. "The female dog is not like a person. It doesn't have just one or two puppies. It has about six or eight."

Many complaints result from a female dog in heat, too. "Yesterday, we had a case where a dog was in heat and the male dogs had almost torn the door of a house up trying to get to the female. We don't really like to have to tell people their dog is in heat," Munoz said.

Still, owners don't like to have their dogs spayed becuase it "hurts their pocketbooks too much," said Sarmiento. The average charge for spaying a dog is from $30 - $60, depending on the size of the dog and whether or not the dog is in heat at the time.

At present the animal shelter is run by two employes.

Stray dogs can also present a danger to people. Rabies, althouth rare, is not unheard of. "People don't think of anything of a scratch or bite until the animal dies, and then they come to us and want to know what to do." said Munoz.

A local girl was recently scratched by a cat and thought nothing of it until the cat was found dead. The father, after calling the pound, had the head of the cat sent to Austin to be examined for rabies.. "I've always told her not to get around stray cats but it was in our driveway and she tried to pet it," said the father.

The local police do take care of dog bite cases in as far as they get the information and turn it in to the animal shelter.

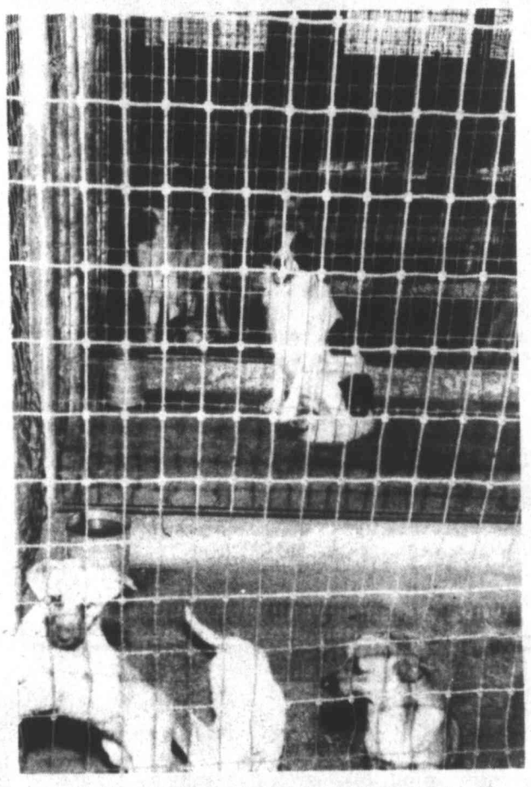

"We have to go by and check the dog every two days for 10-14 days if the owner is willing to keep the dog at home. Otherwise we keep him locked up here for observation," Munoz said.

Mainly, if people would just take care of their dogs, it would help us a lot," said Munoz. "Maybe you could put some of the laws in your paper but I don't know if it would really help or not."

Most people, he added, know the laws but still let their dogs run loose.

Leash laws state all dogs must be tied, chained or fenced, even inside their own yards, unless they are within the house itself. Vaccine laws state that a dog must be vaccinated against rabies at least once a year. Dogs can be given their first shot around thee months of age.

Both laws state that the animal shelter must give tickets for violations. Fines are set and collected by the city judge. But, "if they (people) keep them tied up, they won't have to pay a penny," said Munoz.

DEATH ROW — Only about three out of every twenty dogs picked up ever get out of the animal shelter alive. The city does not have the funds to support abandoned or uncared for dogs.

Miss Debbie Baker wins Howard College pageant

By CAROL HART

"I was shocked," was the reply that Debbie Baker had in answer to a question concerning her reaction to her being named Miss Howard College. The annual pageant was conducted in the college auditorium Wednesday night.

Miss Baker was named Miss HC over sixteen other girls competing in the contest.

"I almost fell off the risers," she added. The girls competing in the pageant stood on a set of risers as winners were announced. Preceding the naming of Miss HC, three other winners were revealed. Taking the title of Miss Congeniality was Martha Trevino. She was presented with a long-stemmed rose from each of the other contestants. Other winners were Marylynn Rich, second runner-up; and Carla Faubion, first runner-up.

Miss Baker, HC freshman, was sponsored by the campus Press Club in the competition. She is a music major planning to transfer to Southwest Texas State in San Marcus following her school career at Howard College.

Miss Baker has never been in a pageant like Miss HC as a participant, but has participated through other contestants. She once served as a model in a Miss HC pagenat, wearing an outfit made by a contestant. She also accompanied a former Little Miss Contestant on the piano during that contest.

Miss Baker will advance to the Miss Texas Pageant in El Paso now that she has won the title here. If the pageant requires talent, Debbie plans to play the piano. She has taken lessons from several instructors in Big Spring. Most recently, she has been a student of Ann Gibson Houser, who has instructed her for several years. Miss Baker obtained her high school diploma in music last year.

Howard College will sponsor Debbie in the Miss Texas competition.

Howard College staff members cordinating the pageant were Mrs. Johnnie Lou Avery, assistant to the president; Gary Stretcher, director of student activities; Ms. Ann Ward, publications adviser; and Ken Sprinkle, Fine Arts division head.

Debbie is the daughter of Mrs. Janie Baker, Big Spring.

Dear Abby

Abby scored for sexist reply

DEAR ABBY: CHICAGO CHICKEN said he was afraid he'd feel like less of a man if he had a vasectomy, and you said, "If you're afraid you'll feel that way, the chances are you WILL." You then suggested that he place the burden of birth control on his wife!

Abby, you blew it on a number of counts:

1. Since when is being a father the ultimate sign of manhood? What does that make males who desert their children?

2. Since when should women bear the full responsibility for birth control so the male can feel like a "man"?

3. Using your logic and his, does his wife become less of a woman after she loses her ability to bear children?

Abby, how could you?

D. K.

DEAR D. K.: It was easy. Old attitudes die hard. Having been taught by a loving mother that "Papa comes first," my response was automatic—and admittedly sexist and thoughtless. My apologies to women everywhere who are striving for equality with men.

I'll take 20 lashes with a copy of the Equal Rights Amendment.

DEAR ABBY: You printed a letter recently from a well-intentioned woman who suggested that volunteers occasionally take occupants in nursing homes for an "outing" instead of visiting them amid the same four walls they stare at day after day.

My own mother went into a nursing home at age 91, and remained there until she died at 96.

Every Sunday when I took her for a long ride, I'd fill up the car with other residents. Then one day, a nurse asked me if I realized that I would be vulnerable to a lawsuit were I to have an accident with one of the old folks in my car, or if one fell getting in or out of it.

After that, even though my heart went out to the old people, I stopped taking them for rides, but I did visit with them as often as possible.

There is just no good answer to the problem of loneliness there. Mama used to sit outside the door in a rocker, and once when I drove up, I said, "Mother, what are you doing out here? It's cold!"

She answered, "I'm just waiting for you." I kissed her and asked, "How did you know it was Sunday?" She answered, "I didn't. I wait for you every day."

G. W.

DEAR G. W.: Volunteers who visit nursing homes if only to talk with the residents there are offered places of honor in my pantheon of heroes.

DEAR ABBY: Somewhere in a modest home is the luckiest woman alive, and I'm sure she isn't even aware of it.

The OTHER WOMAN usually writes a tale of woe. I am the OTHER WOMAN but I have no "tale of woe" because of a decision I have just made. This wife I speak of is lucky because her children are healthy and well-behaved. They have a pleasant, middle-class home, with good food, good clothes and a good car.

Their lives are secure. Her husband is with her and he always will be. If I could tell his wife one thing, it would be to LOVE her husband and let him know it.

He wanted me, and I wanted him, and only God knew how much. But when people are basically good, they refuse to hurt innocent people, especially children. He's the man I've been searching for all my life. I love him and he knows it. But he is HER husband, and THEIR father. And he has integrity. I wish he were mine. But he's not and he never will be.

Thank you, Abby, for letting me say this. I feel better now.

Potatoes emerge in survival test

Over the years potatoes have been maligned, praised, prized, shunned, used and abused. They're still with us as one of the most popular foods eaten, and the per capita consumption keeps holding high. This says something about the potato's survival ability — and it may say something about its good taste and nutrition.

Fall potato harvest is nearing completion in all major potato growing areas, and a record crop is a certainty, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

Marketing specialists with USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service say the total will reach 30 billion pounds. The size of this crop is more than enough for domestic use with an abundance left over for export.

Fruit preserves, homemade hand cream, stitchery and macrame will be among the fancy gift items for sale Dec. 4 at the "Crafts Corner" in Highland Center Mall.

Sponsored by the Volunteer Services Council, Big Spring State Hospital, the sale will begin at 9 a.m. and continue until 6 p.m. unless all items are sold before that time.

"With Christmas almost upon us, volunteers came up with the idea of utilizing their talents to boost the council's general fund," explained Margaret Baum, volunteer coordinator at the hospital. "Our Midland volunteers, as well as Circuit Riders from Colorado City and Lamesa are joining the Big Spring area group in providing everything from pies to pot holders."

Mrs. Baum noted that every staff member in the Volunteer Services department is also making and donating items for the sale.

The Southern Zone meeting was held Nov. 9, it was announced, in Snyder.

Mrs. Luke Fortenberry gave a program on attracting birds. She told the group that birds have appealed to mankind throughout recorded history, because of their beauty, interesting habits and the assistance which most of them render in eating insect, rodents and weed seeds.

She said that the number and kinds of birds around homes can be increased by supplying nesting sites, food, water and cover. Nest building materials should be placed where they are really available.

Mrs. Fortenberry told the group that moving water is highly attractive to birds.

She added that various birds have different feeding habits. Some prefer animal food, while others like grain or fruit.

Seed-eating songbirds will take a wide variety of foods. Songbird feeding stations do not have to be elaborate to be effective. Birds avoid going under a roof or into a closed area for feeding.

Many hardware, garden supply and feed stores have packaged grain mixtures available for feeding wild birds, she said.

Game bird feeding stations for doves, quail and similar sporting birds are generally to lean-to or flat top construction, she said.

Many FFA and 4-H organizations are now planting food for game birds rather than operating a game feeding station, she said.

INSECTS DON'T BUG HIM — Captain Nollie A. Wilson, holds a Darner Fly, which at one time was rumored to sew young children's lips together.

Nothing unusual for man here

Collecting insects at 3 A.M.

By BILL WERRELL

Captain Nollie A. Wilson must have presented quite a sight, hovering around street lights with a butterfly net at three o'clock in the morning.

The early-morning stalker collects insects for a hobby. Specifically, he is a odonatist, which is a collector of dragonflies and damsel flies.

THE MAIN WAY to tell the difference between a dragon fly and damsel fly is by looking at the size and shape of the abdomen. Dragonflies are the larger of the two spieces, but a small dragon fly is smaller than a medium sized damsel," said Wilson.

He has two different families of dragonflies in his collection; the skimmers, and the saddle-bags.

"The skimmers are the dragonflies you usually see at the pond. The dip up and down and are really quite fast. The saddlebags are different from the others because they have blotches of color on their wings near the thorax that look like saddlebags."

Wilson said his interest in dragonflies stems from the fact that they are territorial hunters.

"Dragonflies are interesting because they have their own territories that they will guard and fight for. Often you'll see two of them fighting for the same domain, but they rarely kill each other," said Wilson.

An old wives tale has it that little children ran the risk of getting their lips sewn together by dragonflies; hence the nickname, Darner Fly.

"Actually dragonflies and damsel flies are quite harmless," said Wilson. "They don't have a stinger, pinchers or anything else we have to worry about.

The dragonfly gathers its food by scooping it up and eating it in flight. The insect cups its legs and "shovels" its victims into its mouth, all the time hovering in the air, according to Wilson.

"Most insects don't eat while in flight," the collector said, "but that's the only way a dragonfly eats."

The insect collector has raised many of his specimens from larva that he has found in ponds.

"I've raised several specimens in a fish bowl when they were still in a larva stage. I used to feed them little minnows and greens, until they broke out of their shell and became full grown adults. It was always a little hard for me to kill them after raising them for so long, but if I didn't, they'd fly away, and then I wouldn't even have them for my collection."

Captain Wilson also collects bugs and beetles; "Now there is a difference between a bug and a beetle. A bug's wings are half membranous; you can see veins in the wings. A beetle's wings are solid."

Wilson went on to describe some of the favorites and most interesting in his collection.

"Now, this one here, I think looks like a Volkswagen," said Wilson, as he pointed out a bug that was metallic blue, "it eats flowers and foliage and is called a Leaf Beetle.

Wilson has some insects in his collection that look like wasps.

THE PEACH Tree Borer looks just like a Yellow Jacket; actually it can't sting and those are just decorative markings that serve to fool it's predators. Many insects have camouflage decoragion, for instance the hummingbird month. You can't even see him if he lands on a tree," said the insect man.

Have you ever been reading, and noticed a tiny spot on the page, and then all of a sudden you hear a little snap and notice the spot is gone?"

"This is called a Psocoptra, or Spring Tail. It's a tiny little bug that you can hear better than see. The snap you hear is actually the insect using his tail to spring to a different location on your page," said the odonatist.

If you have ever wanted to see the metamorphisis of a locust going from the larva stage to full adult, you can.

"In the summer time, when you can hear them outside, get one of the locusts that is still enclosed in his shell. Put him at the bottom of your screen door, and let him climb to the top. Put him at the bottom again and watch. He'll start climbing again but will stop where he wants to. He'll now start to squeeze out of his shell, and will emerge completely after about three hours," said Wilson.

So, if one early morning you are witness to a man wildly thrashing with a butterfly net at a street light, don't call the police; it's just Captain Wilson out for an insect hunt.

Another link in crime series tracked down

Big Spring Detective Avery Falkner and Texas Ranger George Frasier tracked down another link in the chain of armed robberies of Town and Country Stores and money order forgeries Thursday.

Big Spring Marcus Coley Copeland, 1100 W. 2nd, was arrested in Del Rio on warrants from Odessa, and charged later that day with two counts of third degree felony forgery. He is now being held in the Ector County Jail with bond set at $20,000 by Justice of the Peace Harold Sliger.

Warrants for Copeland had also been issued in New Mexico where he is suspected of cashing forged money orders stolen in armed robberies of Town and Country Stores here and in San Angelo earlier this year, according to Falkner. The local detective also stated that most of the forged money orders were for $200, and totaled more than $1,000 in New Mexico.

Five people have already been rounded up in connection with the case, and there may be more arrests to come.

"I'm not sure we have our armed robber yet," said Falkner.

Religious cult leader defends his methods

YAKIMA, Wash. (AP) — A self-proclaimed religious cult leader says a 3-year-old boy who allegedly was beaten to death had shown he was possessed by the devil by saying he hated his mother.

The "minister of God," Edward Leon Cunningham, 51, said the boy, David Weilbacher, was beaten for his own good to rid him of the devil.

The child was spanked regularly with 18-inch long wooden sticks that were sanded smooth, Cunningham said in a tape recorded interview with police played in court Friday.

Cunningham and four other cult members, including David's mother, are on trial for second-degree manslaughter and first-degree assault in the death of the child. The boy's decomposed body was found Sept. 19 in a fly-infested back bedroom of their house.

Also charged are Velma Cunningham, 45, Cunningham's wife and the person who led authorities to the body; Carolyn Cunningham, 27, their daughter; Lorraine Edwards, 20, and Debra Weilbacher, David's mother.

In the tape-recorded interview given to Yakima County sheriff's deputies shortly after the five were arrested last September, Cunningham said, "I always said if I didn't see it I wouldn't believe it. It ain't possible. But it was ... he was possessed by the devil."

The defendants objected to courtroom use of the tapes.

Cunningham said David would not play, had a foolish laugh and repeatedly talked about seeing burned-out houses while on a neighborhood walk with his mother.

He deliberately wet his pants and put glass in his shoes, Cunningham said, and would tell his mother he hated her.

Cunningham said it was decided that spanking the boy would rid him of the devil. He said, "We whipped him with boards. He wanted to be whipped ...."

Cunningham said, "I knew the word of God said if a child is stubborn to beat him and he won't die. It will save his soul from hell.

"Well I believed that, and of course I had no intentions of beating the child to death."

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, NOV. 14, 1976

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day when it could take all the self-control you possess to avoid a confrontation with an opponent. Don't make any promises that are beyond the limit of your ability to handle.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Although it is a day of rest you have duties to perform which could prove costly if neglected. Show mate you are highly devoted.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Remain poised at home so that no arguments can occur there. You have to be more persevering to gain your goals.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Use particular care in motion today and a possible accident is averted. Study statements carefully and avoid costly errors.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Study the financial aspects of a new project you have in mind. Make future plans that will give you more abundance.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You are not thinking straight and want to renege on a promise you have made. Keep your obligation and all works out fine for you.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Keep busy at small tasks that need handling or you could lose out where it counts the most. Take time for improving your health.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) It is best to wait for a more opportune day to gain your aims. Don't argue with a friend, even though you may be right.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Take no risks of any kind today and save yourself much trouble in the future. Evening is best spent at home with kin.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Study a new activity well before actually taking part in it. Sidestep one who is a deterrent to your progress.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't take on any new responsibilities now, but decide how to make current interests more workable. Keep poised.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) An unpleasant situation arises which you can turn to your benefit by being more alert. Strive for happiness.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Make sure you keep promises you have made with one who has helped you in the past. Show loyalty to family members.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will need to be shown how to solve problematical affairs sensibly instead of arguing. Also, to use energy constructively instead of destructively. Religious training should not be neglected. Sports are a must.

Pure corn sells show

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The cornfield stage set is still in place. And so are the jokes grown there.

"Hee Haw," country music's version of "The Lawrence Welk Show," continues to be one of the most successful syndicated TV shows on the air.

The show, in its eighth season, has an estimated audience of 33 million person, up 1 million from a year ago.

It is on 227 stations and shown in every major American television market except Boston. There's a waiting list for advertisers.

Cast members and show officials cite some basic reasons for the success: appeal to the family, simple humor and the popularity of country music.

"Hee Haw," like the Welk show, got its start on network television, but unlike the Welk show, its network life was short. But the show has proved, as did Welk, that the networks don't have all the answers for gauging show popularity. Welk says he's got more stations in syndication than he did on the network.

"The shortest distance between two points is a straight line, and that's the way we've been on this show," host Buck Owens said during in break in taping at the WTVF studio in downtown Nashville.

"We've been straight — not too clever," he said. "The most important thing is the meld of music, comedy and different kinds of comedy. We took oil and water and mixed it and it stayed mixed.

"We are bein' and actin' like what people thought we were, instead of trying to be sophisticated and actin' like we weren't. We went the other way, like the Beverly Hillbillies. We depict ourselves. I don't say or do anything I normally wouldn't do. I can say 'ain't.'"

Sam Lovullo, the show's short, balding producer, agrees:

"We leave people as they are," said Lovullo, who would pass for Curly of the Three Stooges. "You almost see yourself at home as being that way.

"It's family oriented. We reach all classes, all ages and both men and women.

"Also, the country music plays a big part. Country music is story telling about things like love and divorce — things people identify with."

Those connected with the show predict continued success.

"We'll be on a long time," said Lovullo. "'Hee Haw' is the Grand Ole Opry of TV."

Owens says: "I wouldn't be surprised to see it go 15 years in production and another 15 years in reruns. It would be easy to alter the shows by using bits and pieces from one show and parts of another.

"Ten years from now, there still will be a lot of 'Hee Haw' new or old. It'll be like 'I Love Lucy.'"

Informality reigns on the set. There are no wardrobes or makeup rooms or stuffy executives barking orders.

Jimmy Dickens is tall in eyes of his fans

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Jimmy Dickens is only 4-foot-11 but stands tall in the eyes of his fellow country music singers.

"Jimmy is one of the greatest showmen of all times," says Hank Snow. "He is a great artist, a good box office attraction and he's a good person — and that's what it takes."

Faron Young calls Dickens "Mr. Entertainer."

Dickens, 55, is approaching his 30th year as a recording artist. He's been on the Grand Ole Opry almost continuously since 1948 and put 700,000 miles on a motor home during the past five years making personal appearances.

He's been in Europe 13 times, was the first country music artist to circle the globe on a world tour and has lost count of his recordings. He's a likely candidate for the Country Music Hall of Fame.

Despite the glittering background, he's changing his career slightly. He's going to concentrate on ballads instead of novelty songs like "May The Bird of Paradise Fly Up Yosr Nose," which made him famous.

"I've always liked to do ballads, and I've put them on the back of my novelty songs," Dickens said at the office of his booking agent.

Wayne Hodge, his manager, said Dickens "has never been produced to show the abilities he contains. Jimmy has always been spotlighted as a novelty song singer, but I strongly believe in his talents to sing ballads, and I predict that he will soon be riding high on top with ballad-type songs."

His current release is "Preacher Man," written by Billy Joe Burnette and Dale Royal, who wrote the summer smash "Teddy Bear."

"'Preacher Man' is the best record I've ever made," Dickens said. It's a recitation about a truck driver-preacher who delivers sermons over a Citizens Band radio until he's killed.

It's a change of pace from his biggest hits, such as "Old Cold Tater," "Country Boy," "A Sleeping at the Foot of the Bed," "I'm Little But I'm Loud," "Out Behind the Barn" and "Raggedy Ann."

As suggested by some of his song titles, Dickens uses his size as an asset.

"My size has always helped me" said the 120-pounder. "I play the biggest guitar I've got (to accentuate his size). To my knowledge, my size has never hurt me. I've never had a complex about it."

Tour of lot costs $5.95

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Thomas Wolfe once wrote that you can't go home again. If you try it at Universal City, it costs $5.95, plus four bits for parking. That's the tab for seeing the old homestead via the "Universal Tour" of Universal Studios, the 423-acre lot where they make such TV shows as "Kojak" and such movies as Jaws."

Back in 1959, Universal — or the mailroom thereof — was my home during working hours. A giant talent agency, MCA, had just bought the movie lot for its ever-expanding TV production business.

It was a pleasant, leisurely life then. You could see Ward Bond amiably rumbling at someone, chat with sparrow-like old lady who came for Dale Robertson's "Tale of Wells Fargo" mail, and maybe even see Cary Grant out on the lawn near the grey bungalows by the main gate, playing a quick hand of cards with the Japanese gardener. Or you could look wistfully at starlets.

Or hear young Roman soldiers, extras in a costly epic called "Spartacus," joke about re-enlisting in the Spartacus army, as the movie was taking so long to finish they might make general.

A fine life for a teenager. Now, the lawns and bungalows are gone, replaced by a bank building and a 500-room hotel. The kid isn't a kid any more and he no longer just waves at the guard to enter Hollywood's arena of holies. Nope.

He now marches up to the Universal Tour window, forks over $5.95, and sets out to see what, if anything, he remembers from the Universal of 1959. It is a clear, beautiful morning.

About 300 tourists have already gathered in a tree-lined reception area. Three TV sets are lodged in the trees, showing clips from Universal movies like "Jaws" and "Earthquake," promoting them with poorly-focused electronic gusto.

A man in top hat and tails, his face made up to resemble either an ape or an agent who took too much sun, is busy scaring or amusing the arriving pilgrims.

After 35 minutes of this, the line of pilgrims starts moving. We become part of the record 2.9 million folks Universal — which started the tour in 1964 — estimates will have taken the tour by year's end.

Store most cheeses tightly covered in your refrigerator. Stilton cheese may be wrapped in a cloth wrung out of wine and placed in a crock. Store Camembert in a warm place so that the center will be almost liquid when served. Wrap Edam in dampened cheesecloth or wax paper. Cream cheese should be used soon after unwrapping. Serve a variety of cheeses with toasted crackers for a really satisfying dessert. With the very strong-flavored cheeses, serve unsalted crackers or crusty French bread.

AP exec Rat dies

PARIS (AP) — Jacques Jean Rat, office manager of the Paris bureau of The Associated Press for three decades, died today after a long illness. He was 59.

Two miles of track

Buffs have own railroad

SUMPTER, Ore. (AP) — Most railroad buffs satisfy themselves with electric trains and singing songs about Casey Jones and the Wabash Cannonball. Not the Sumpter Valley Railroad Restoration Association.

This group has its own railroad.

Its 200 members worked on and off for five years to restore two miles of track of the Sumpter Valley Railroad, which went out of business more than 30 years ago. They have erected their own depot near this eastern Oregon town.

They also have a locomotive.

The line was dedicated last summer, and the whole community turned out to ride on the train.

"It's kind of a hobby that got out of hand," said Lee Meyers, association treasurer.

"I've always wanted my own electric train. But the real thing is a lot more exciting," said Dale Shumway, vice president.

The Sumpter Valley Railroad was built in 1910 for the burgeoning logging and mining industries of the area. It was abandoned in the early 1940s. The ties were salvaged and used elsewhere. Only the roadbed was left.

One of the association members is George Eccels, a descendant of a founder of the line.

He said it was fun to plan a railroad, but that laying ties and track is hard work, especially if you've worked all day on a regular job.

Association members started working on the railroad in their spare time in 1971.

Nels Christensen, association president, said everyone involved likes railroads and felt that building a railroad line was the best way of pursuing their interests. If you like railroads; you like railroads.

Christensen is an ironworker. He was invaluable when it came to rebuilding the group's pride and joy, a 1910 wood-burning Heisler locomotive.

The association begged and borrowed to buy the engine from Boise Cascade Corp. for $7,500, along with some open-air observation and flatcars.

The locomotive and rolling stock were hauled to Baker, Ore., from Idaho with the help of the Union Pacific Railroad. Union Pacific also donated nearly two miles of 36-inch narrow gauge track and granted permission for the restoration. It owns the Sumpter Valley right-of-way.

Today the group gives rides on the railroad and keeps the equipment shining. Are they happy they're done? Nope.

Christensen said the group would like to get more track from Union Pacific. They want to extend the line from the present two miles to six miles, from the depot to Sumpter.

Like we said, if you like railroads, you like railroads.

Married native Texan

Yankee comes 'home'

A man who is enthusiastic about each new job and who views each assignment as "exciting," Col. Paul Brown took over last week as deputy commander for maintenance at Webb AFB.

The former Connecticut Yankee changed his allegiance and became a legal resident of Texas after marrying Maxine, a native Texan.

He asked for an assignment in Texas and he and his wife are very excited about coming to Webb In the short time he has been in the area he is already impressed with the friendliness of the base and Big Spring people.

"I had heard good things about it before I came, about the outstanding community relations and I find it certainly is true," he said. "The base has an orderly and sparkling appearance and I think everything I heard was understated. I am impressed very much."

Brown went on to say that he will probably miss a lot of the travel that was associated with his Strategic Air Command (SAC) experience, but he feels his new job is "certainly his most challenging."

"I have a set philosophy in aircraft maintenance — if something breaks, fix it, don't produce aircraft that are not fully capable."

Colonel Brown comes to this job with a background of more than 7,000 hours flying time as a SAC navigator; 5 years as an operations staff officer, and approximately 2 years maintenance experience. He was commander of a field maintenance squadron in SAC, as well as an organizational maintenance squadron at Kadena Air Base, Japan (formerly Okinawa). He also served at Udorn Royal Thai Air Base as the maintenance control officer.

COL. PAUL BROWN

Most of Brown's flying time was accured in SAC on long reconnaissance flights in the RC-135. "Often times our missions were over 20 hours duration," he said.

He also considers a tour with the United States Coast Guard as a very rewarding experience. During that assignment he was the only USAF officer on Kodiak Island, Alaska. His task was to train Coast Guard pilots to do polar navigation in the Artic.

Colonel Brown remained a bachelor during his first 12 years of service and volunteered for every possible trip to overseas' locations, both to increase his navigation experience and to see the world.

A strong advocate of pursuing both personal and military education goals, the Colonel pinned on his eagles July 1. He got his degree "the hard way" from the University of Nebraska at Omaha by going to night school and weekend sessions. He also completed the Air War College and Air Command and Staff College by correspondence.

Flying brought him and Maxine together. She was a stewardess on Pan American Airlines and they met on Guam when he was on his way to Southeast Asia and she was on her way back. They married a year later.

The couple, parents of a daughter, 6 and a son, 2, spent about 2½ years at Eielson AFB, Alaska.

Among his decorations, Colonel Brown wears the Distinguished Flying Cross, Meritorious Service Medal, the Air Medal with five Oak Leaf Clusters, Joint Service Commendation Medal and Air Force Commendation Medal.

Agencies file late reports

Outside services cost

By JIM DAVIS
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The state has about 155,000 regular employes but aren't the only ones drawing income from the state treasury. Texas agencies during the 1974-75 fiscal year paid out at least $6 million for outside professional services.

We don't know how much the amount will be for the 1975-76 fiscal year because the deadline for reporting professional fees was only Nov. 1 and some state agencies are notorious about filing these reports late.

IN FACT, it is likely that some agencies which are supposed to make professional fee reports never do. There is no penalty for not reporting.

Reporting of professional fee payments has been required under biennium appropriation bills of the legislature since the 1973-74 fiscal year. Of the 90 agencies or offices required to file such reports, only 20 have done so for any of the past three fiscal years.

This could mean that none of the 70 non-reporting agencies used any outside professional help, but people in the State Auditor's Office, where the reports are filed, think this is unlikely.

Lee H. Ashmore, first assistant state auditor, calls the present requirement "toothless." There is no penalty and if the auditor's office discovers an agency not complying — as it sometimes does in making agency audits — it can only write a letter pointing out the law and suggesting compliance.

Ashmore said a recommendation will be made to the Legislature next year that the professional fees report be put in the same category as each agency's annual financial report.

"If they don't file an annual financial report (by the Dec. 9 deadline) we write a letter to the comptroller and tell him not to pay out any funds for that agency," Ashmore said. "This is what we have in mind for professional services reporting."

Another recommendation will be that the requirement be expanded by moving it from Article III of the appropriations act to Article V.

Article III principally covers administrative agencies but leaves out many agencies such as the judiciary and health agencies. Putting the requirement under Article V would make it cover all agencies.

Including the health agencies would greatly increase the total amount of professional fee reporting because of the heavy use of outside medical services. Asmore estimated this could add several million dollars to the amount reported.

EVEN WITHOUT these additional agencies reporting, the amount of professional service payments is growing surprisingly. The total reported by all administrative agencies in the 1973-74 fiscal year was $4.9 million, or more than $1 million less than the following.

While not total can be given for the 1975-76 fiscal year, the eight agencies reporting through the first week of November generally listed jumps in amounts compared with previous years.

The Texas Department of Agriculture, for example, went from $48,971 in outside services in 1975 to $140,600 in the 1976 report. One single payment went over the previous year's total — $50,000 to Institute of Achievement, Inc., at Lubbock for development and operation of a series of museum exhibits at Texas Tech University.

That department has a half dozen regulars who receive payments each year for consultations on such things as export matters and federal farm policies. Tom Hughes, a consultant on agriculture matters in Washington, D.C., received a total of $32,300 over the past three fiscal years.

The Department of Highways and Transportation jumped from $27,134 in 1974 to $518,744 in 1975 and $793,556 in 1976. A big recipient over the years was Lockwood, Andrews and Newman consulting engineers of Houston with a total of $426,776, but $494,604 of the 1976 report was for a special one-time study of the department's operation by McKinsey & Co., Inc., of Dallas.

By far the biggest user of professional service fees in day-to-day operations is the Department of Community Affairs.

That agency each of th past three years has submitted lists ranging from 161 payments to 205 payments, mostly to individuals.

NO TOTALS were included for any of the reports, but a reporter added up the 165 payments for 1975 to get a total of $510,578. Ten of the persons listed as receiving payments for consulting services in 1974-75 had the Community Affairs office listed as their addresses and currently are named in the Texas Capitol Complex telephone directory as employes of Community Affairs.

Apparently the agency uses professional services funds primarily for part-time and temporary help in various programs.

When a reporter sought information on this situation he was referred to Tom Laramey, legal council for the agency.

"When we contract with someone for professional services it is our intention that it be temporary in nature," he said. He said his legal section had obtained the services of a law student under professional services expenditures and then hired her as a part-time employe when it became clear she was needed for a longer period.

Small business owners invited to workshop

Prospective small business owners will have an opportunity to learn what it takes to start and operate a successful business through a workshop announced recently by Philip J. O'Jibway, District Director of the Small Business Administration in Lubbock.

The workshop program — "Keys to a Business Success" — calls for a one-day workshop for men and women who are considering starting businesses of their own, or buying a new one. The workshop will be conducted by Small Business Administration in cooperation with SCORE (Service Corps of Retired Executives), Odessa College and Odessa Chamber of Commerce. There is no charge for attendance.

The program is scheduled to be held at Odessa College at 8:00 a.m. on Wednesday, November 17, 1976. There will be a $2.00 fee for the workshop, to cover expenses of all materials.

Attendance is open to all individuals considering a new business or who have been in business less than one year. Subjects covered are personal factors for business success, business financing, taxes and insurance, organization and planning, management techniques, choosing a location and sources of assistance and information.

The reason behind the workshop is to help small business owners avoid the problems that lead to business failure. Mr. O'Jibway points out that most failures can be prevented because they are due to lack of management experience and know-how. The need for management knowledge is essential for business success, and it is SBA's aim to inform potential owners of the dangers involved and some things they can do to help achieve success.

Requests for workshop registration should be called in to the Odessa Chamber of Commerce. The workshop will be held in the Composite Technology Building off University Boulevard at Odessa College.

Jordan: Carter owes blacks

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Blacks must hold President-elect Jimmy Carter's "feet to the fire to see to it that he is responsible to the needs and aspirations of blacks," the director of the National Urban League said Friday.

Vernon Jordan Jr. added that because black voters helped Carter carry key states in the Nov. 2 election, the president-elect should provide specific programs to help blacks and should appoint blacks to key government jobs.

"Blacks must permeate on a fair and equal basis the entire governmental structure," Jordan added. "We must not be relegated to those positions that related directly and only to equal opportunity. We have a claim on the Carter administration. We will keep that claim.

"We will remind him of it every day and every hour."

Jordan spoke at a news conference after giving a speech sponsored by the Urban League of Greater Little Rock.

Reagan disagrees

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Ronald Reagan disagrees with a suggestion that Secretary of State Henry Kissinger should act as a special Middle East envoy in the Carter administration.

The proposal was made Wednesday in Jerusalem by Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn.

Ribicoff said Kissinger's good relations with Arab nations and his continuing efforts for peace in the mid-East prompted the suggestion.

Reagan, who had opposed Kissinger's policies in his unsuccessful drive for the Republican presidential nomination, told reporters, "Sen. Ribicoff has more confidence in Dr. Kissinger than I do."

Back in World War I

with Marj Carpenter

Armistice Day came and went this week with little fanfare. It was Thursday and those of you who have fathers or grandfathers who were World War I veterans understand how important it was to them.

One of the guys who remembers Nov. 11, 1918, also remembers Nov. 10, 1918. He is Bob Wren, 85, who lives at 700 E. 14th, and is a good spinner of tales.

He recalls that word had gotten around the night of Nov. 9 that "the war to end all wars was nearly over." One the morning of the 10th, his outfit was due to "go over the top once more." That expression menat out of the trenches and into the heart of the battle.

Word got to the commander that the Armistice was to be signed the following day. He didn't send anybody out over the top on the 10th. "I was glad," Wren said, and added, "I'd have hated to get killed on the last day."

Wren's favorite World War I tale is about Americans taking a hill away from German Storm Troopers that the Germans had been holding quite some time. The French hadn't been able to take the hill but the Americans got it back in 2½ hours, according to Wren.

When they were commended for getting it away from Storm Troopers, one Kansan in the outfit said, "Who cares about a little old storm. We've got cyclones in Kansas."

Wren's grandfather fought in the Texas Revolution and Wren owns a paper signed by Sam Houston. His father, William Randal Wren at one time was sheriff in the area around Lampasess. In 1904, Wm. Wren and his family moved out to the Snyder area.

Bob Wren grew up working cows and breaking horses. He could drop a squirrel out of a tree when he was just a lad and was proud of his marksmanship during the war. He also was good at breaking Mustangs by the time he was 17 years old.

He first worked on a ranch south of Seminole and then worked five years for the Fuller Ranch north of Snyder. He worked on farms and later got into constructiona nd came over and worked all over the oilfield development in and around Big Spring.

Wren arrived in Big Spring in 1927 and worked later driving trucks for oil companies. He finally retired at the age of 67. "I've done a little bit of everything and had a lot of fun," he recalled.

He married his wife Mattie on Nov. 5, 1920. They have a son, Donald who works for General Dynamics in Fort Worth and three daughters, Mrs. Oscar Stewart, Fort Worth, Mrs. Fred Overton, whose husband works for Texas Electric in East Texas and Mrs. Stanley Hess whose husband is a lietenant colonel in the Air Force in San Antonio. "He served over there in that Vietnam outfit," Wren recalls.

Wren only recently got his first pair of glasses. "Well," he said, "The whole bunch has always had good eyes. Grandpa was with the Texas Rangers and he could shoot and Dad could shoot and I could shoot. We could always see pretty good."

He laughed, when asked again about the World War I days, "When we got back to the States, we Texas and Oklahoma boys were ready to go home," he recalled. "Our papers said we'd serve until the Armistice. When we got down there at some camp between New York and Washington and they began to bark out order, we all sulled up a little bit.

"Sure enough, in a day or two, there was a list of 200 Texans and Okies and it said for us to report to Fort Worth for discharge. We were glad to do just that."

Wren's ten grandchildren are fifth-generation Texans. And they come from a long line of hardy scrappers.

Or that's the way it seemed to me — this week when I was wandering around down on 14th Street ridin' fence.

For geothermal energy

Area may have potential

The magnificent scenery of the Big Bend region in West Texas is well known. Interest is now being focused on an energy resource that may lie beneath these rugged mountains and arid valleys. Geothermal energy, the internal heat of the earth, may someday help meet the energy needs of west Texas and New Mexico.

Two areas to have geothermal potential have been found along the Rio Grande River in West Texas. One area extends from south-central New Mexico into Texas near El Paso and continues along the river for about 30 miles. Several hot springs with water temperatures above 100 degrees F. are located in this area.

A second area extends for about 55 miles between Candelaria and Presidio. At least 15 hot springs with temperatures above 100 degrees F. have been discovered there. Two wells were drilled for oil in this area, but both were unsuccessful. However, water at temperatures above 140 degrees F was found at shallow depths.

Infrared photographs taken by satellite offer even more evidence of high heat flow in these areas.

If a large volume of hot water can be found, it may be possible to generate electricity from this geothermal energy. In addition, the hot water may contain a high concentration of minerals that could be extracted for commercial use, or the water might be purified and used to irrigate crops.

Satellite photographs and other studies indicate that the area south of Van Horn and north of the Big Bend National Park may have potential for another type of geothermal energy. In this area, the rocks underground are very hot, but, unlike the areas the Rio Grande River, there are not springs. Hot rocks have not come into contact with underground water.

To use this geothermal energy, surface water would be pumped to depths of 15,000 feet where temperatures of at least 500 degrees F. exist. The water would vaporize upon contact with the hot rock. This steam would be returned to the surface and used to power an electrical generating plant.

The extent of usable rock formations in Texas is not yet known, however. More research will be needed to determine the technical and engineering feasibility of utilizing such a system.

The Center for Energy Studies at The University of Texas can supply further details.

CLEO WILSON

Wilson honored for service

Cleo C. Wilson, senior foreman in Continental Oil Company's Ackerly Post Area, was recently presented with a jeweled emblem in recognition of 40 years of service with the company. He was also presented with a 40 Year Safety Award.

The presentation was made by Mr. J. E. Whitman, Division Manager of Production in Midland.

Wilson, a native of Denton County, Texas, was educated at Forsan, where he began his career with Continental Oil Company in 1936 as a Roustabout First Class.

Wilson served in the U.S. Navy in World War II. In November, 1945, he returned to Forsan as head roustabout and has progressed through various supervisory assignments to the position of District Superintendent at Wichita Falls, Hobbs, N.M., and Borger. He was transferred to Big Spring, June 1, 1973.

Big Lake to get new gas processing plant

DALLAS — A "new, efficient refrigeration gas processing plant" will be built near Big Lake, Texas, as the result of acquisition of facilities by Big Lake Gas Corporation, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Regal Petroleum Corporation.

Announcement of the purchase from Pecos Company, a subsidiary of El Paso Natural Gas Company, was made from Dallas corporate headquarters by Regal President Guy A. McDaniel.

The Barnhart plant and facilities in Reagan and Crockett Counties include Pecos Company's existing plant, land, gathering system and loading facilities, McDaniel explained.

Big Lake Gas Corporation will assume all of the contracts previously held by the Pecos-El Paso group in both the Barnhart and Farmer fields. Plans are also being made to lay additional gathering systems to pick up any unconnected gas in the vicinity.

Corporation officials estimate the initial investment will be in excess of $1 million. The plant will be increased in size as warranted by additional gas development in Southeast Reagan County.

A contract has been let to Carroll E. Gregg of Dallas, hydro-carbon processing engineer, for the engineering and construction of the Big Lake Gas Corporation plant. The new facility is expected to go on stream in the first quarter of 1977, McDaniel added.

Significant drilling and production activities are expected to result from the addition of the new plant to the Big Lake area," he commented. "We are anxious to become a more integral part of the community, and to add to employment of more Big Lake residents, particularly during the construction stage."

The president of the production and drilling company also stated that the new subsidiary will issue royalty checks and do banking for the marketing of gas and liquid products in Big Lake, and will add to the general economy of the area.

In addition to Regal's activities near Big Lake, the plant is expected to provide stimulus to other oil and gas producing companies to drill in the immediate area.

Those personnel, as well as new personnel brought in by Regal and Big Lake Gas Corporation who will remain after completion of the plant operation, will become a part of the Big Lake community. Included is the new field foreman for Regal and plant supervisor for Big Lake, Bob Kirby. He is also overseeing the gas gathering and compression system, in the Howard Draw area, Ozona.

Kirby's oil and gas experience, which covers a lifetime dating back to work with his father in seismographic drilling, covers mostly New Mexico and West Texas.

Kissenger will go to Mexico

WASHINGTON (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger is keeping a low profile in the last weeks of the Ford administration, but he plans to go to Mexico for the installation of Jose Lopez Portillo as the new president.

It was learned Friday that Kissinger will be going to the ceremony as the administration's representative.

Kissinger has stayed out of the limelight since the election of Jimmy Carter in order to help assure a smooth transition.
