Former Borger Postmaster Is Assessed Term

Harold Rothschild Given Term Of 14 Months In Leavenworth Penitentiary After Conviction At Amarillo

(By Associated Press)

AMARILLO, May 21. — Branding as a "deliberate fabrication" the statement of Harold Rothschild, former Borger postmaster, concerning the alleged robbery of the Borger post office last November 20, Judge James C. Wilson in federal court late today sentenced Rothschild to 14 months in Leavenworth penitentiary.

The Borger post office was robbed of $3,200 in currency and $566 in checks. The checks, it was brought out in the evidence had been written by Rothschild to replace cash he had taken from postal funds. He was found guilty of embezzling the $566.

Statement Read

Before sentence was passed, Assistant Attorney Alex Mood asked for permission to read a statement made by Rothschild soon after the robbery. It recounted how two armed bandits came to his home late at night, and how one of them forced him to go to the postoffice and aid in the robbery while the other remained at home as guard over Rothschild's wife and a nephew. Every step of the robbery was described in detail.

"You have asked for clemency until the perpetrators of this robbery can be apprehended," Judge Wilson said in passing sentence. "They will never be caught and they will never face trial, for they don't exist. Your tale of the robbery is a studied, carefully worked-out story. You remember entirely too many details, remember every detail of the robbery and forget the $200 check you deposited to your personal account."

Congressman Marvin Jones Visitor In City Thursday

"I was over on the court house lawn and looked at the excavation work for the new Lubbock postoffice," Marvin Jones, of Amarillo, member of congress from this district, said while here Thursday afternoon.

Eastland Man Chalks Up Par In Qualifying

J. K. Bradshaw, Lubbock High School Youth, Is Close On Barnett's Heels With Score Of 73 In Play

Wind Blows Hard

Scores Of Majority Entries Are Boosted Through Strong North Wind; Match Play To Get Underway Today

A WITHERING, wilting wind and storm came out of the north yesterday afternoon and spelled practical disaster to thirty-odd golfers who were at the time playing what might have been their qualifying round but before the storm S. J. Barnett of Eastland had fired a 72, perfect par, over the Lubbock Country club course to take medalist honors in the seventh annual West Texas Golf Association tournament.

Barnett, winner of Eastland's invitation tournament last year and runner up in the Mineral Wells invitation tournament, otherwise a first class golfer, was one of a field of 140 golfers who played the 18-hole qualifying round yesterday. He shot par on both nines, a 36 going out and a 36 coming in, to lead a field in which a score of 82 was needed to qualify for the first flight. Since the number of "82" shooters would not fill out the full 32 players of the flight, several "83" golfers drew for first flight honors.

Youth Sensation

J. K. Bradshaw, until recently a caddy at the Lubbock Country club, a 17-year-old student of Lubbock High school, was close upon Barnett's heels with a startling 73. Bradshaw shot a clean 36, for a par, going out and came in with 37, one over par. His shooting was the talk of the field during the day's work and won him a place near the top in the first flight.

Except for the gale late in the afternoon, almost perfect golfing weather prevailed for the early

Wealth Of Facts Opened In Deposition At Trial

Incidents Of Case Are Revealed By Court Paper

FOR more than two hours and a half Thursday afternoon a jury in 99th district court listened to the reading of several hundred questions and answers in a deposition made by Jim Johnson, former foreman of the old Howrey Cattle company's ranch in Eastern New Mexico, relating to incidents and events around which the case was centered.

The case was the libel action brought by Fred Spikes against J. Evetts Haley and the Capitol Reservation Lands and its trustees for publication of a book "The XIT Ranch of Texas," in which statements concerning the slaying of two brothers of Mr. Spikes and his own wounding, are claimed to be libellous. Mr. Spikes is asking $100,000 actual and $100,000 exemplary damages for the publication.

Purported Facts Revealed

Normally, reading of depositions in civil cases are rather a tedious affair but owing to the position of the maker and his closeness, with the case a wealth of purported facts bearing in the case were revealed by the depositions. There were two, a direct examination by the defense consisting of around 300 to 350 questions and a cross examination by the plaintiff with over 500 questions. There were an equal number of answers. Not all of the questions were used and a number read were objected to by the opposing side.

Johnson stated he was one of a posse of officers and special deputies who arrested five men on warrants charging them with cattle stealing. One of the men was convicted but later the conviction dismissed by the supreme court of the territory of New Mexico.

Warrants Were Issued

"John Doe" warrants were also issued for "members of the Spikes gang the witness testified, because he did not know the names of the members of the Spikes family living in that section. It was while attempting to serve these "John Doe" warrants that Dick and John Spikes were killed by the men who had the warrants and Fred Spikes wounded.

Court Adjourns During Weekend

Members of the jury hearing the Fred Spikes libel case will probably not be required to appear in district court Saturdays during the hearing of the case.

Judge Clark Mullican of the 99th district court, in whose court the case is being heard, indicated Thursday that he would adjourn from Friday night until Monday morning. This would permit farmers on the jury to get some of their farm work and odds and ends cleaned up, as well as give him a chance to see other lawyers who might have matters to bring to his attention, the judge said.

Hankins Says Highway Work Is Neglected

President Carlsbad Cavern Association Urges An Immediate Program For Counties In Kiwanis Address

"I believe we're falling down in highway work in Lubbock," J. H. Hankins, president of the Carlsbad Caverns Highway association, told members of the Lubbock Kiwanis club Thursday. "The people are not interested in highway development as they should be."

Mr. Hankins' talk was one of three on highways given before the club. Joe Caldwell, division engineer of the state highway department and County Judge E. L. Pitts were the other speakers. Frank White was in charge of the program.

Gives Argument

"The state highway bonds is the best argument you can put up to the people of other counties which do not have paved roads," Mr. Hankins continued. "Two years ago, the issue didn't get through the senate even but this legislature it passed the upper house with a bang and lacked only three votes of getting by in the lower house yesterday. In the next legislature it is inevitable that it will pass."

"Highways should be paved by the people who travel over them," he declared as he told of plans for states to change highway finance from ad valorem to gas and automobile taxation. "It don't be two years until practically every state in the union will have made this change."

Now Is Time

"Right now, it is imperative that counties of West Texas vote bonds for highways and start the work for it's the county that doesn't vote

Another Revenue Raising Bill Assured With Agreement Of Committee On Peddlers Tax Of Sulphur, Cement

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, May 21. — The Texas house of representatives today refused to concur in a senate resolution to recess the regular session at noon tomorrow until June 22. The vote against the resolution was 94 noes and 45 ayes.

The action of the house in refusing to concur in the recessed session resolution was taken by many as a challenge to the governor to call a special session. The governor earlier in the day had recommended the regular session be extended for a few weeks or that the legislature recess for a suitable length of time and return to consider business left unfinished at noon tomorrow.

Special Session Looms

In his message the governor stated failure to wind up the business at hand probably would necessitate a special session. He expressed an aversion, however, to a special session, stating it would be more economical and advantageous to pending legislation to continue the regular session.

One of the main arguments for a recessed session was that the appropriation bills still were in free conference. Representative Sanders of Nacogdoches chairman of the house committees, said the bills would be reported tomorrow.

Argue Two Hours

The house argued more than two hours on the recessed session resolution. Sanders said his committees would have reported this afternoon had the argument on the resolution

Family System Thought Bared With Examining Trial In City

Man And Wife Facing Charges Of Forgery; Bond Set After Trial Thursday At $2,000; Woman Not Arraigned

WHAT officers termed as a family forgery system was bared here yesterday in the examining trial of W. E. Kunkle, said to be of Hale Center, conducted before Justice of the Peace H. K. Porter. Kunkle was charged jointly with his wife with forgery and attempting to pass forged instruments.

The husband's bond was set at $2,000 pending the action of the 72nd district court grand jury. Mrs. Kunkle was not arraigned yesterday.

Evidence indicated Kunkle made out the checks and induced his wife to attempt to cash them at various stores, County Attorney Vaughn E. Wilson said. Handwriting on the checks found in Mrs. Kunkle's possession compared with that of her husband, officers said.

WASHINGTON, May 21. (AP)—New problems of financing the government and America's position in international banking were discussed by government officials today before the national association of mutual savings banks.

Undersecretary Mills of the treasury said the present government deficit raised the question of whether some of the war taxes had not been repealed or modified too rapidly. He added there was "no occasion for alarm unless it should appear that there is a real danger of a series of unbalanced budgets."

Buried Together

Attended Funeral Services For Child Last Sunday; Mother Is Employe In Department Store At Littlefield

TRAGIC death has taken its second victim from the Neyland family.

W. R. Neyland, 35, of Teague, father of Pauline Neyland, 13, of Littlefield, who died here last week as a result of poisoning, took his own life Tuesday at Houston, it was revealed here last night.

Grief Said Cause

Grief over the death of his daughter was thought to have been responsible for his act. His death was caused by a bullet wound, which coroner said was self-inflicted.

Neyland attended funeral services for his daughter Sunday in Teague and is thought to have gone to Houston Monday. The child's mother, who is a Littlefield department store employe, also attended the services. She had not returned to her home last night.

Drank Disinfectant

The girl died two days after she drank more than a pint of disinfectant at her home in Littlefield. She was unconscious when she was discovered in the bathroom.

Despondency over a failing grade in school was given as the motive for her act. She is reported to have left a note to her mother, concerning her parents. The contents of the note were not revealed.

The father was buried near the grave of his daughter in the Teague cemetery.

Task Of Correcting Numbering System Of City Starts Today

City Engineers To Begin Canvass; Loss Of Free Mail Delivery Looms Unless Action Taken Immediately

A CORPS of workers of the city engineering department today will begin a canvass of the city in an effort to straighten out Lubbock's house numbering system.

Every business house and residence in the city will be visited and owners will be informed of the proper numbers of their houses, city officials said. Where there is no opposition from the occupants of the houses, numbers will be changed by the engineering department without cost to the residents.

Urge Cooperation

The city is asking that all numbers be changed by July 1 to comply with the new code as authorized by an ordinance passed by the city commission last week.

The change is being made in order to facilitate the delivery of mail and utility bills and to give the city a uniform numbering system, W. H. Rodgers, acting city manager, said yesterday.

Service Threatened

Persons who do not comply with the request may find their free city delivery service cut off, John L. Vaughan, Lubbock postmaster, said.

BOSTON, May 21.—In "personality" New York is the city unbeautiful from the point of view of Dr. Daniel L. Marsh, president of Boston university, in a report to the American Institute of Architects.

His ideas of personalities of cities are:

Boston: Tall, straight and lean; rather quiet, dignified, iron grey hair, neatly dressed.

New York: Big, bloated, rather uncouth, self-centered, pushing another aside at the ticket windows, tramping on others' feet without apology.

Chicago: Thick set, stocky, breezy, loud, somewhat braggart, affable, enthusiastic, ready to help a fellow.

From his home at Three Rivers, New Mexico, Fall has instructed his attorneys here to apply to the supreme court for a review of the District of Columbia court of appeals decision affirming his bribery conviction and upholding a sentence of a year's imprisonment and a $100,000 fine.

Fall recently announced because of illness and advanced age he would abandon his contest against conviction of receiving a $100,000 bribe from Edward L. Doheny, wealthy oil man. Doheny was acquitted of giving the money.

Enrollment At S.M.U. Higher

President Selecman Makes Annual Report In Address To Student Body; Graduating Class Is Bigger

DALLAS, May 21. (AP)—President Charles C. Selecman of Southern Methodist university told the student body in a chapel address that the university was one of a few in Texas that enrolled more students this year than in the preceding year.

The president, in making his annual report, said enrollment for the present year showed a gain of 106 over last year. He said the university, through strict economy, was operating at the present time on $3,000 less than the cost of operation last year due to an economy program sponsored by himself and J. W. Bailey, business manager.

He said the University of Texas was the only state institution of higher learning in Texas that had not suffered a decrease in enrollment during the last year and that church schools generally had suffered decreases in many instances ranging from 33 to 50 per cent. Dr. Selecman reported the total enrollment as 3,110 students for the 1929-1930 school year while 3,218 students were in school this year. The June graduating class he said would include 378 students, compared to 336 last year.

Dr. Selecman recently was reported as the object of a "round robin" protest circulated among faculty members who were asked to pledge their willingness to appear before the board of regents at the June 2 meeting and protest his administration. Dr. Selecman has withheld comment and faculty members refused to affirm or deny the report.

Know Alamir Caponitch? You Have Seen His Picture In Newspapers Often! Transylvania Man Claims Him As Son

BY MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Writer

LONDON, May 21 — Did you ever hear of Alamir Caponitch?

Well, his name and his picture have appeared in the newspapers of the world more than those of any living man except perhaps the Prince of Wales. He has been denounced by press and pulpit.

Here is where you hand yourself a laugh: Alamir Caponitch, it is asserted, is none other than your old friend Al Capone, baddest of all the bad men of Chicago. For years it has been stated that Capone is an Italian-American whose origins are Sicilly, the classic land of brigandage.

Papa Caponitch

Al ought to know all about his ancestry, but the reporters of the "Ellenzek," a little paper published in Transylvania, will not have it so.

Down in a Transylvania hamlet they have disbovered an old man who they say is the real father of America's most notorious man. Papa Caponitch lives there in modest circumstances, but respected by all.

At first, when the Transylvanian reporters approached him, he was as talkative as the average oyster. But finally, worrying of the persistence of the pencil-pushers, he opened up.

Tells All

He said his son Alamir went to school until he was 14. Then Papa Caponitch apprenticed him to a carpenter so he could learn to make an honest but modest living. Alamir proved himself a very clever worker, but he just could not behave. Having an inordinate appetite, he pinched some goodies from the shop of the corner grocer and lost his job. His father apprenticed him elsewhere. Same story.

Didn't Spare The Rod

"I gave him a good threshing each time," said Papa Caponitch, "but it did no good. Between tears he would promise to behave henceforth, but each time his appetite got the better of him. It was not crimes he committed. It was mere boyish peccadillos. After all, if your son pinches an apple when nobody is looking, it is not so terrible. At 17 he definitely quitted his home and natal village.

"At rare intervals, he wrote to me and each time the postage stamp showed he was in a different country. He must have traveled all over Europe.

Out To Make Good

"The last time I got a letter from him—it was in November, 1910—he wrote me from Havre. In this letter, which was to be his last, he wrote he was on the eve of embarking for America where he was determined he would make a success of his life. I guess he has. But he never writes to his poor old papa any more."

Caponitch showed the reporters a picture of Alamir sent from Harve. They had to admit it did not look like Al Capone. Then the old man showed them a picture of himself at the age of 40. They claim it was a perfect reproduction of the features of Chicago's eminent citizen—minus the famous scars.

Competition Is Keen

As Transylvania is now part of Roumanian, some of the papers of that country celebrated Al Capone as a Roumanian. Which immediately started some of the Hungarian papers off. They reminded the world that before the war Transylvania was part of Hungarian territory. Hence the great Alamir Caponitch is really a Hungarian by birth.

Seven cities contended jealously for the honor of being called the birthplace of divine Homer. Now three countries are contesting for the somewhat more dubious honor of being the birthplace of Al Capone. Sicilly, Roumania, Hungary, all make their claims on the home-town boy who went to the big city and made good.

Miss Laura Topham, aged 24, a factory worker in Bradford, England, claims to have made a new world record by swinging two half-pound Indian clubs for 48 hours, five minutes.

Mrs. Ward Powell Of Ft. Worth Named Bridge Party Honoree

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN
Avalanche Woman's Editor

THIS afternoon I sorted publicity material that had collected in the desk and learned:

That the eyes of 60,000 business and professional women from all parts of the United States are turned towards Richmond, Va., where the first biennial convention of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs will be held July 6-11 with approximately 2,500 delegates, representing 1,300 local business and professional women's clubs in attendance.

That from January 1, 1930 to September 30, 1930, 82,332 persons passed through the Carlsbad caves.

For brighter kitchens, try new cottons. Hand towels are coming in fresh, new designs, but remember that hand towels and dish towels should be quite different to avoid confusion. In choosing dish towels select a quality that absorbs quickly and will not leave lint.

A white summer is the prediction of the fashion experts. White is the basic color note of the season and will be worn alone or with splashes of gay color. One of the most acceptible outfits of the summer showings offered by Fifth Avenue shops is the street and sports suit of white linen, corduroy, piquet and flannel.

Every girl should choose a home before a career. And every girl should know how to cook, sew and do housework, according to Mrs. Martha Parnell Warren, junior in the University of Arkansas and daughter of the state governor, who married in her freshman year and has continued her work in the college. She knows how to do the things she advises others to do.

Forty-nine different canned foods were reported to the American Chemical society recently as supplying scientifically adequate amounts of vitamins A, B, C and G. If this year's June bride will see that the new head of the house gets out in the sunshine, she may safely feed him from cans so far as vitamins are concerned and on cloudy days she can give him cod liver oil to supply the missing vitamin D.

That one was included in case we have any June brides this spring and to fill the grooms-to-be with anticipation for the first home-cooked meals.

One of the pleasant ways of following the "spring renewal urge," as far as woman is concerned, is to restock one's wardrobe with the new accessories that have an effect upon the ensemble as refreshing and gay flowers, for instance.

That president Hoover's White House conference on child health and protection, recognizing the rights of the child as the first rights of citizenship, pledged, among other aims for the children of America, for every child health protection from birth through adolescence, including: periodical health examinations and, where needed, care of specialists and hospital treatment; regular dental examinations and care of the teeth; protective and preventive measures against communicable diseases; the insuring of pure food, pure milk, and pure water.

A grease spot on her best party gown launched Annette Jennings of Boston in a paying business. She experimented in removing the spot with a home-made cleanser of her own and it worked. After that she began experimenting with more spots; her friends bought bottles of the cleanser; a silk company became interested. Now she operates a factory of her own.

Which is a reminder of the businesses that women have started from baking pies and breads at home; from making extra good sandwich fillers, salad dressings or jellies. Lots of women are now commercializing their abilities as cooks just as they are going into businesses which have little connection with the home.

KEEPING A REPUTATION

NOW I find that I sent the Business and Professional Women to Amarillo a week early. They will go next Thursday and all the time I was sending them this week.

All my efforts to get them to leave this week-end anyway just to make the story authentic failed, so I'm doing all that I can to keep them off the streets. Several of them aren't supposed to be in Lubbock if I maintain any sort of reputation for reliability. The meeting is to be on May 28 to 30.

ABILENE, May 21. (AP)—First awards for the year by the Bach Foundation of Simmons University here, were made to 34 students of music in the southwest, a committee awarding 32 scholarships in piano, voice and violin. Allison said applications may be sent to the director as late as September 15. Dismissal Of Man Demanded

Governor W. H. Murray Declares That Professor Must Give All Of His Time To University Or None

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 21. (AP)—The University of Oklahoma board of regents had before it today the demand of Governor W. H. Murray for the dismissal of Prof. P. L. Gettys who also is attorney for the Oklahoma municipal league, an organization of city officials.

Murray said it had been reported Gettys was attacking legality of the county equalization excise board law passed by the last legislature at the request of the governor.

"If Doctor Gettys has been holding meetings over the state in connection with the Oklahoma municipal league, which as I understand it, is composed of city managers, then his course is reprehensible in the extreme," the governor said.

"As a man on the payroll of the university, he should not devote his time to private practice, but, the constitution says, entirely to the university.

"In the second place it is reprehensible for any man trying to serve the state government to attempt to tear down the laws of the state government."

Professors and instructors on the payroll of private interests, if there are any such, also should be dismissed, Murray said.

Restore Quiet In Government

Cuban Authorities Announce That Revolutionary Attempts On Government At Two Sections Suppressed

HAVANA, May 21. (AP)—The government today announced that the authorities had suppressed revolutionary attempts at Manzanillo and Baiguin and some "excitement" manifested at Shaparra, and Holguin.

An official statement issued by Secretary of Interior Octavio Zuzarreta, said the government had taken measures to prevent further trouble and that its armed forces were prepared for any emergency, although "there is no fear that events will become more serious."

The statement added that reports from all other points in the republic showed absolute quiet prevailing. It declared that while a suspension of constitutional guarantees which the president was authorized to use at his discretion had not yet been restored to "it may be necessary to do so if the seditious attitude persists."

The government reported that none were killed and only a few wounded in the disturbances which occurred in the province of Oriente.

Scientific Vapor-Lock Detective Is Patrolling Gas Stations Of College

TROY, New York, May 21. (AP)—A scientific vapor-lock detective is patrolling the gas stations of this region for Rensselaer Polytechnic institute.

Vapor-lock is a trouble which stalls automobile engines. It is the formation of bubbles of vapor in the gasoline feed lines and on the line leading to the carburetor. The vapor does not flow and it chokes off the supply of liquid gasoline.

The trouble is due to the presence in gasoline of improper proportions of the volatile stuff which makes starting easy, usually called the "high test" characteristics. Warm weather aggravates vapor-lock. Manufacturers blend their motor fuels to minimize this risk.

To find how to make these safeguards more effective the scientific detective is following these fuels, one at a time, from refinery to station after station and into the automobile. The work is done by George F. Hodgson of Batavia, N. Y., working under the supervision of Dr. Harold Felgenbaum.

Methods for measuring vapor pressure of gasoline and for the determination of the limiting practical vapor pressure for motor fuels have been worked out. The most promising is known as the Reid method for a control to guard against vapor-lock. He determines how the pressures at the gas stations deviate from those at the refinery and how the characteristic of gasoline change as it is confined in the car's fuel tank and in the vacuum tank before entering the carburetor.

Americans are the only foreigners who can drive an automobile in France without a French license.

Merchants To Gather Today

Final Plans For Convention Of State Association Will Be Made At Meeting Of Committee This Morning

Final plans for the annual convention of the Texas Retail Merchants association, to open here Monday, will be made today at a meeting of the general arrangements committee, Paul Sherrod, chairman, announced yesterday. The conference will be held at 9 a. m. at the offices of the Lubbock Retail Merchants' association in the city hall.

In addition to members of the committee, E. L. Robertson, president of the local association, will attend today's meeting.

Mr. Sherrod yesterday urged Lubbock merchants to arrange their business affairs so they may attend at least some of the sessions of the three days' meet.

"We must have a representative delegation of Lubbock people at the meeting in order to carry the city's hospitality into the meetings," he said. "There has been some criticism of host towns in the past, because local merchants and tradesmen appear to take little interest in the conventions which were arranged for their benefit."

Interest Shown In Garza Tests

Penney and Posey's No. 1 Justice, on the townsite of Justiceburg and located on the Penney and Posey ranch properties, in section 25, block 6 HGN survey, is drilling below 2,720 feet in the lime.

Location is 1, 980 feet from the south line and 1,680 feet from the east line of the section, in Garza county.

Justiceburg is the scene of considerable oil play, there being four or five active wells pumping at this time. Production of one well is around 50 barrels and the others produce 10 to 15 barrels each.

Ranch owners and others in Post and Garza county are watching the test with much interest.

A large electrical power station is to be built in Calparaiso, Chile.

Dealing With "Dope"

A CO-ORDINATED movement against the illegal narcotics traffic in Texas is made possible by a new state law making drug addicts and peddlers liable to felony and misdemeanor charges.

State courts will have the benefit of files and testimony held by federal authorities. Co-operation thus is encouraged between federal, state, county and city officers.

The new law gives a district attorney the power of injunction over a place at which addicts gather habitually, the prosecutor being empowered to declare the place a common nuisance.

Marihuana for the first time comes under the jurisdiction of state officers. Planting or cultivation of the weed, as well as possession and sale, is declared unlawful.

An effective blow has been struck at the drug evil, county and federal law enforcers seem to agree. It specifies that it is unlawful to possess, distribute, prescribe, traffic in, or give away any narcotic drug. Druggists, hospitals, or those authorized to distribute narcotics, are immune, however.

A first violator can be charged with a felony, sentence being limited to a fine of not less than $2,000 or a five-year penitentiary sentence. A second offense is punishable by a fine of not less than $1,000 or more than $3,000, or a penitentiary term of one, to five years, or both.

LIVING ABROAD

...m the United States nearly 300,000 native-born Americans have departed during the last 14 years to take up their residence abroad. That means, to come down to a basis that is less overwhelming, that native-born citizens are leaving their homeland at the rate of 697.1 per week, or just a fraction under a hundred per day. Every 15 minutes a citizen shakes the dust of the land of liberty and opportunity from his shoes and boards ship for other parts.

The fact is interesting in itself, but it would be much more interesting if one could discover what the official records will never tell. How does it happen that so many of the elect prefer foreign residence?

There are, of course, many Americans sent abroad every year to represent American corporations in foreign lands, and the government maintains extensive staffs in all other countries. But large as these representations are, they comprise but a small fraction of the half million.

What is it the expatriated find in their adopted countries they did not find in the United States? The question has never been answered fully, although a few American authors and painters domiciled abroad have said they did not find freedom in the land of the free. Whether this is a reflection upon the country depends on the point of view.

It is significant, however, that these voluntary exiles, with barely a half dozen exceptions, have not won riches in the countries of their choice. Most of them derive their income from the United States.

Practical Health Problems

VACCINATION

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

In 1760, the statistics indicated that about 7 per cent of each generation of mankind was being killed by smallpox. In some epidemics as many as 33 per cent of the persons affected passed away.

In one Scotch town 161 out of every 1,000 children born alive died of smallpox, and there was an epidemic every four or five years. In an epidemic that took place in Boston in 1752, when there was a population of 15,731, 1,843 people left town; 6,035 had had smallpox previously and recovered, and all of the remainder of the population, except 174, had the disease. These figures are extremely striking in view of the relative freedom from smallpox of the vast majority of our people today.

It seems reasonable to believe that proper vaccination of all of the people and proper isolation and control of every case of smallpox would result in stamping out this disease entirely. Unfortunately there are still people who refuse to be vaccinated and there are still people who devote the largest part of their lives trying to prevent other people from being vaccinated.

Vaccination against smallpox is merely the means of giving the person the kind of immunity from disease that results from a previous attack without causing him to undergo all of the tribulations of the disease and the pock-marking of his face associated with it.

In the 18th century, the unusual person was the one without the scars of smallpox on his face, but today the unusual person is the one who carries such scars.

Smallpox seems to the average man to be merely a disease of the skin with a severe eruption. It is, however, a disease with fever, aches and pains, and not infrequently with severe hemorrhages which may cause death.

The figures of the United States Public Health Service indicate that about 30,000 people per year develop smallpox in our country. Due to the increased scientific care given to such people, there are only a few hundred deaths from these cases. However, diseases change in their virulence and there are severe outbreaks from time to time in which as many as 20 per cent of those who are not vaccinated and who get the disease die as a result of the attack.

Because of the present relative infrequency of smallpox and because of modern methods of scientific control, there are some who think that vaccination might well be abandoned. As long as the disease is among us, however, the way to safety is vaccination. A disregard of this measure would result in gradual increase in the number of cases, an increase in virulence, and numerous fatalities. Perhaps the time will come when the whole world will be sufficiently intelligent to take the necessary steps to stamp out smallpox completely but that time is not yet.

Seen As Counterpart

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Spain is one of the places where those who worry over the ultra radical tendency of the times undoubtedly have some real reason for their anxiety.

CHAS P STEWART

For 20 years, at least, a substantial substratum of old-fashioned anarchism has underlaid anti-governmental activities there. It was a school of thought which was stronger under Alfonso than anywhere else in the world—not Communism of the Russian type, but hostility to any rulership whatever. Communism may have tinged it since the Moscow regime's establishment, but it is impossible that the earlier philosophy can have been absorbed by it completely.

It is surprising that it did not manifest itself sooner following Alfonso's departure. Probably its disciples were taken by surprise and required time to consolidate.

In one respect it rivals Communism—it is fully as anti-clerical. Recognition, however, that the Spanish church has been something quite distinct from a religious institution, should not be interpreted as hostility to Catholicism. Wholly independent of its spiritual function, it has been a vested interest and a most oppressive one. It was estimated on reliable authority 20 years ago that even then it owned approximately 30 per cent of the national wealth. It engaged in many lines of business and industry, from small retailing to the operation at that time (I do not know whether this still continues) of the most important Spanish trans-oceanic steamship line. Being tax free, it naturally was a gravely disorganizing economic influence.

THE DEVELOPMENT of sentiment adverse to Alfonso personally was to have been expected, both in itself and as a concomitant of the outbreak of anti-clericalism. The king has been no such popular character as has been represented. The liking for him was limited to a small circle, but it was the circle which most freely expressed itself.

THERE WAS considerable individual liberty in Spain, but little of a political character. In 1908—as long ago as that—when I first visited the country, the governmental rein was so tight that I found myself stopped by a censorship which prevented me from conducting a telephone conversation in England in Madrid.

That I might be the more readily understood, I was required to speak Spanish or nothing, perhaps being more closely watched than th caverage person, since I was known to be there on newspaper business at a time of some disturbance.

At any rate, there was bitter resentment at the strict espionage.

THE REPUBLICAN administration evidently has leaned unpopularly far backward in the matter of abating many of these causes of complaint of long standing, and the Reds, having meantime gathered their strength, evidently have taken advantage of it.

Philosophical anarchism centainly is not strong enough to upset government in Spain, but it may make considerable trouble.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH POLITICS

American politics has grown steadily more strident and clamorous and, in the opinion of the average man, steadily more futile, within recent years. Hardly any department of life is proof against useless bickering and unlovely intrigues of political leaders between whom there is, after all, hardly more difference than between the various peas out of the same pod.

The clamor has been carried within the walls of the sanctuary itself. Those who labor and are heavy laden are assailed, even as they kneel at the altar, by the loud claims of campaigners seeking votes. Bishops abandon their pastoral offices to preach politics, and the temple that was called the House of Prayer is being converted into a sort of campaign headquarters.

If the aim of the political parsons is to see their sect dominate the world temporally, perhaps their tactics are correct, but they are not correct if their aim is to offer weary men the consolation that "triumph could not yield them and that defeat could never take away."

Some officers of the church seem far more concerned with the defeat of certain politicians they dislike than with advancing the Kingdom of God. Religion has nothing to offer more desirable than inner peace, but some modern religious leaders seem little inclined to offer their followers that peace of mind.

THE VASTNESS OF LIFE

One of the incidents of the conquest of nature by science is the shuddering sense of immensity that it gives to those who comprehend the distances computed by the astronomer, the archaeologist, the geologist—the remoteness of the stars, the age of this solar system, the life of man upon the earth.

The effect naturally would be to quench the Promethean spirit, for this consciousness of the vastness of the universe and the eternity of time tends to make him contemptible by dwelling on his insignificance in an ever-expanding universe.

If man lived in daily consciousness of the astronomical fact that the universe of lights does not revolve around the earth, which to man's vision seems so great but is pitiably insignificant; if he lived also in the consciousness of the fact that human beings, as the sands of the sea in number, have laid themselves down in its dust never dreaming of the countless ages to come; if the race as a whole possessed this Copernician consciousness, would it lose its confidence in itself and faith in an all-seeing Providence?

The answer is that the mind of man, which has comprehended this vast universe, weighed the earth, computed eclipses to a second, and learned how to converse across continents and oceans, will make the adjustments as a pioneer in a new land. Within him is the instinct for perfection that no outside cosmic force can subdue or permanently halt or even intimidate.

After all, minds incapable of comprehending astronomical distances and which might be thrown off their equilibrium by long speculation on matters so vast are not in the habit of worrying themselves about them.

The president has finally consented to make a speech at the dedication of the Harding memorial. Whether the word "spiritual" will appear in it remains to be seen.

THOMAS BLACKLOCK—THE SCOTTISH POET.—The Scottish poet, Thos. Blacklock (1721-1791) became blind at the age of 6 months, as a result of an attack of smallpox. His ability to write descriptive poetry is an extraordinary accomplishment, in view of his lack of sight. It was long maintained that he possessed a sixth sense permitting him to become aware of color by touch.

JOSEPHUS SCALIGER MEMORIZED 62,000 VERSES IN 21 DAYS.—Joseph (Justus) Scaliger (1540-1609) French humanist and philologist, is described as an "ocean of knowledge", and the possessor of an extraordinary memory. When he arrived in Paris to study ancient languages under Tournebe young Scaliger, aged 19, at once became the master of his teacher. The great feat of reciting the whole Odyssey and the Illiad from memory was performed in Leyden, Holland, where he occupied a professorial chair at the University.

TED DE BONIS—PITCHER OF THE TROY EMERALDS.—In June 1927 the Troy Emeralds and the Cohoes Insulars were playing in Prospect Park, Troy, New York. De Bonis hit the first batter with the first pitched ball, walked the second batter, hit the third with the [illegible] pitched ball, and hit the fourth with the second pitched ball, the fourth man forcing in a run. De Bonis pitched 11 balls, without a strike being called or a batter swinging at a ball, yet a run was scored.

A THRILLING MYSTERY STORY + by MILES BURTON

CHAPTER 48

"Are you quite certain that it was Professor Cobbold who spoke to Dick.

"Why, what doubt could there possibly be?" replied Dr. Weatherleigh. "Voices are often indistinct over a trunk line, as you know. But there is no reason to suppose that it was not Professor Cobbold speaking."

There was every reason to suppose that it was not Professor Cobbold, thought Dick, unless Professor Cobbold and the Funny Toff were one and the same person. This might be so, but it seemed highly improbable. Much more likely that the Funny Toff had used the Professor's name, knowing the weight that it would carry with Dr. Weatherleigh. No doubt Sir Edric would be able to trace that trunk call, and so obtain a definite starting point for his inquiries.

His thoughts were interrupted by Dr. Weatherleigh. "I still don't see, Dick, how you got here. I assume that Alison communicated with you from Bath, asking you to meet here."

"No, she didn't do that," replied Dick slowly. "But, as a matter of fact, I was actually inside the working when the pig was cast, and when, an hour or two later, Alison came to fetch it."

"When the pig was cast!" exclaimed Dr. Weatherleigh, in a tone of complete bewilderment. "My dear boy, you must be suffering from hallucinations! The pig was cast hundreds, perhaps thousands of years ago. Or, alternatively, if it were only cast yesterday, as you say, how could Professor Cobbold, or any one else, for that matter, have known of its existence the previous day?

"I'm afraid that we are all involved in a gigantic conspiracy," replied Dick gravely. "The whole thing is merely another of the Funny Toff's amazing escapades. Listen, Doctor."

Dick recounted at length everything that had happened to him since he left Lestridge Hall. Dr. Weatherleigh listened with close attention, occasionally uttering an exclamation of astonishment or concern. When Dick had come to the end of his story, he remained for some moments lost in thought.

"There would appear to be only one thing to be done," he said at last. "It is your duty to place the facts in possession of your friend, Sir Edric Conway, and that at once, before these miscreants have time to make their escape."

"I propose to get on to the telephone to him immediately," replied Dick.

"It would be far more satisfactory to interview him personally," remarked Dr. Weatherleigh. "It will only mean a delay of a couple of hours at most, for you can catch the next train to London, and take the pig with you. If you care for me to do so, I will accompany you, for Sir Edric will doubtless like to hear my account."

"I should be only too glad if you would, Doctor," replied Dick eagerly.

"Since I am not allowed to see Alison, I have no objection," said Dr. Weatherleigh. "I can return here after the interview. We had better start at once; there is, I believe, a train about ten o'clock."

Dick agreed. He sat out to purchase a suit-case large enough to contain the pig. Dr. Weatherleigh, while he was doing this, suggested sending a telegram to Sir Edric, announcing their intended arrival. They met at the garage, where Dr. Weatherleigh looked closely at the pig before it was put into the suit-case.

"A very clever forgery, if indeed, it is one," he remarked. "I could form no opinion as to its genuineness wthout a very careful and detailed examination. It appears to be very heavy. Do you think that we can manage it between us?"

"Oh, yes," replied Dick confidently. "We'll get the garage people to drive us to the station, and a porter can put it under the seat of a carriage for us. I don't feel like letting it out of my sight."

"You are quite right," agreed Dr. Weatherleigh. "We have assumed a great responsibility. I am not sure even now, that we ought not to place it in the care of the local police."

But Dick protested. "That would mean a waste of time," he replied. "We haven't too much time to catch our train, as it is. Besides, Scotland Yard will want to keep this in their own hands. They wouldn't be pleased if we let the local police in."

Dr. Weatherleigh allowed himself to be overruled, and they started for the station. They secured a

Welton Winn Writes Of "Great Case To Be Tried" In Meeting At Courthouse On Sunday Afternoon

A GREAT CASE TO BE TRIED

Dear Editor: All the citizens of Lubbock invited to attend and act as voluntary jurors in trying the case. It will be up for hearing Sunday, May 24, at the courthouse in this city, at 2:30 o'clock, p. m. The case is "The Scripture clearly teaches that God's penalty for sin and disobedience is death extinction of being" vs. "The other theory extant in the world that the penalty for sin and disobedience is an endless life of torture in a place called hell."

The latter claim we affirm is not true when the Scripture is fairly and intelligently interpreted. We further claim that this erroneous doctrine has produced more atheists and infidels than any thing else in the universe.

We also believe the time has fully come for the light of God's eternal truth to shine out and dispell this great error. We will use only Bible testimony to prove our case.

We invite all to attend and hear the case presented, and judge the testimony given. Whosoever will let him come.

Predicts End Of Farm Board

Cornell University Speaker Says History Repeats Itself And That End Of System Is Very Near

CHICAGO, May 21. (AP)—James E. Boyles of Cornell university, speaking before the Analysis' club last night, said signs were apparent of a break-up in what he termed the government's farm marketing experiment.

"History repeats itself," he said. "A few years ago in North Dakota the non-partisan league put the state government into the grain business. Most of the experiments quickly failed and ceased. Only one remnant hangs over—a flour mill and elevator at Grand Forks, operated at a loss every week since its first day's business.

"Our friends of the American Farm Bureau federation set up two huge central marketing agencies in Chicago, the United States Grain Growers and the Grain Marketing company financed with private credit from the farmer. These experiments quickly faded from the picture.

"Now comes the farm board, setting up one big central in Chicago, and numerous large regionals. These are financed with cheap government credit, but, like the experiment I have just named, these new ones pay high salaries, are extravagantly managed, show disregard of the sound principles of grain marketing, bring about increased costs and are contrary to farmer psychology. So now we see signs of the break-up of this big and costly experiment. Already Montana and North Dakota have pulled out of the system."

The farm board, he concluded, in addition to its other troubles, "is trying to carry two big corpses—200,000,000 bushels of wheat, 3,500,000 bales of cotton. This means a carrying charge of $175,000 a day, and even the United States treasury cannot carry such a load indefinitely."

Pioneer Oil Man Dies Of Illness

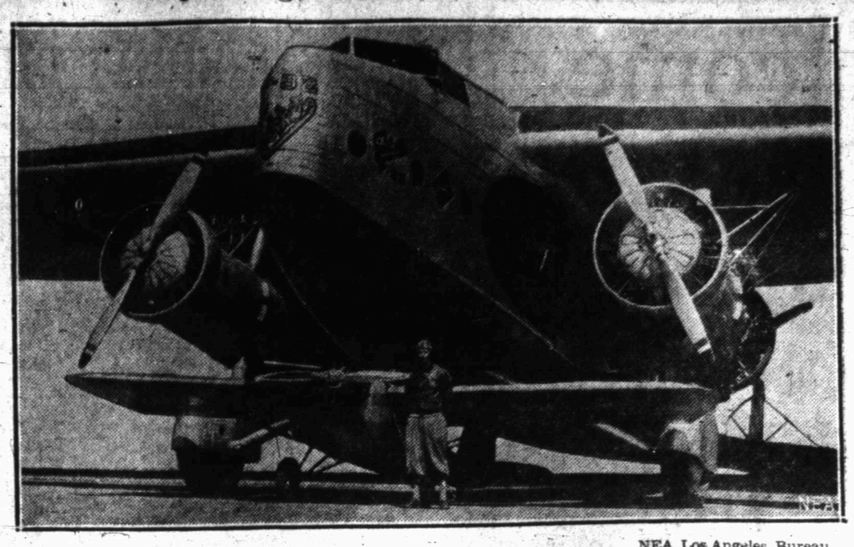

WESTPORT, Conn., May 21. (AP)—Edward Thomas Bedford, one of the last survivors of the pioneers who developed the American oil industry, died today at Greens Farms, his summer home. The capitalist had been in ill health about two years. He was 82 years old.

A contemporary of the Rockefellers, Charles Pratt, Henry H. Rogers, and others in the oil industry, Bedford was associated with the Standard Oil company for many years. He was a director and member of the executive committee of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey from 1903 until 1911.

He was president of the Corn Products Refining company from its organization as a consolidation of several concerns in 1906 until his death.

Lightning, a carrier pigeon belonging to Rita Richards of London, which "joined the navy" in 1914 and carried many important messages from Q boats and other ships at sea to the naval base at Lowestoft, has just died, aged 17 years.

A COLLEGE COLUMN

By MARSHALL FORMBY, TECH CORRESPONDENT

IS LAST CONCERT

Rendering its last concert this school year, the Tech Matador band played last night at the administration building before a large crowd. Town people as well as students and faculty members attended.

As only a few of the members will be graduated this year, practically the same organization will be here next fall when the 1931-32 session opens. Six or eight places will be filled, and the band will be ready for service within a few days after the session begins.

New officers selected for the band are Ronnie Sheppard, president; K. F. Keffer, vice-president; Fred Fairly, secretary; Sam Williams, treasurer; Allen Dykes, reporter, and Ernest Snodgrass, sergeant-at-arms.

Harry Le Maire is director. Culver Hill is retiring president.

HOLMES IS TECH HOPE

Golf fans of Texas Tech are pinning their hopes on Billy Holmes, Tech freshman golfer, to represent Lubbock in the West Texas golf tournament underway here. Several other Tech students have entered. Mendall Hughett, Spec Coker, Jack Wilson, Walter Pendleton and Lyle Holmes, Billy's brother, are likely to account for good score cards.

Billy Holmes and Coker have won titles this spring. Sports writers have indicated that these two probably will be keen competition.

ENGINEERS PLAN PICNIC

As their last get-together this school year, members of the Tech Engineering society will leave the engineering building at 6 o'clock this afternoon for the county park where they will attend their annual spring picnic. Transportation is to be furnished those not having ways to attend.

Events will include baseball and other games. Willard Nott and William Luce are the committee that arranged the affair.

The Engineering society, composed of students in the school of engineering, promotes three events each year, a dance in the fall, a banquet in the winter, and the annual spring picnic. Winnifred Wardell is president.

SPANISH PERIODICALS HERE

Among new additions to the library is a volume of Spanish magazines, "Filologia Espanola," which have been bound in ten books. They were purchased by the college library through Miss Elizabeth West, who is spending this year in Seville, Spain. She is head librarian of the college.

Miss Emma L. Main is acting librarian.

DEBATE SCIENCE QUESTION

Presenting the affirmative side of the question, "Resolved, That the World Has More to Fear than to Hope From Science," Garland Smith and Eleanor Nelson won over Hubert Hopper and Eileen Graves in a debate class yesterday. The affirmative pointed out that the many inventions coming from modern science has made the world a dangerous place to live.

The debate was in an agumentation class under the direction of Miss Annah Jo Pendleton, acting head of the speech department.

PRE-LAWS GATHER

With Judge Clark M. Mullican of 99th district court as principal speaker, members of the Texas Tech Pre-Law club held their last meeting of the year with a smoker Wednesday evening. New officers were selected for the next year as follows: Alvis Ellis, president; Canon Clements, vice-president; J. C. Davis, secretary-treasurer; Solon Clements, chief justice of the court; Carroll Thompson and Garland Smith, associate justices; Charles O'Neall, prosecuting attorney; Carl Crutchfield, sheriff; E. Johnson, parliamentarian; and J. W. Jackson of the government department as sponsor. Mr. Jackson, a Tech graduate of 1929, was a charter member of the original Pre-Law club of the campus.

The club is composed of students intending to study law or who are majoring in government.

JOINT "Y" MEET PLANNED

A joint "Y" spring cabinet training conference of the Tech "Y" associations will get under way this evening when members of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. meet at 6:30 o'clock for a supper, the first of the series of meetings to be held this week end. Other meetings will follow tomorrow afternoon and tomorrow evening and Sunday the students will meet at the home of President Paul W. Horn.

Among the speakers for these meetings will be Harry Bone, national "Y" worker. Aside from the regular discussions during the meetings, plans will be made for the next year for the two organizations.

Jack Boyd is secretary of the Y. M. C. A., while Miss Jo Wilder is secretary of the Y. W. C. A.

PLAN PICNIC

Members of the Tech International Relations club will hold a picnic this afternoon according to Alvis Ellis, president. Each person attending is asked to bring 35 cents, Ellis said. The club is made up of students of social science of the college. Most of them being in the government department.

Canon Clements is president-elect.

SENIORS MISS CLASSES

Heavy Deficit In Treasury Is Seen

WASHINGTON, May 21. (AP) — With but six weeks remaining before the end of the fiscal year, the treasury had a dificit of $984,268,517 on May 19 and it seemed probable that extensive financing would have to be done before June 30 to meet the situation.

While no treasury official would venture an opinion, indications grew that a long term bond issue was being considered and instead of being held for announcement in the late summer might be offered the public in June. However, rapidly changing conditions in government finances would prevent, a decision being made until at least the early part of next month and it still may be decided to continue borrowing with short term paper until August or September.

On May 19 the treasury had collected $2,760,210,715 since last June 30 and had spent $3,744,479,232. Since last March 19 it has issued more than $2,500,000,000 in securities in various forms.

Gaines Test Well Now Below 1,520

No. 1 Nick Alley, of the Landreth Production company, in section 2, Block A-30, public school lands of Gaines county, is drilling below 1,520 feet and is in the sand, latest reports from Seminole show.

Location is 660 feet from the north and the same distance from the west lines of the section.

It is near the state line between Texas and New Mexico and is believed to indicate a trend of one of the fields of Lea county in that state.

Operation is strictly a wildcat. It is expected the test will be drilled to between 4,500 and 5,000 feet. Just at present this is the only active drilling operation in Gaines county.

CUTS ANNOUNCED

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 21. (AP)—Further pursuing its economy policy, the Oklahoma highway commission today placed 1,200 highway maintenance men on a five-day week basis, cutting salaries in proportion.

Maintenance men have been working six days weekly.

Sam Hawks, commission chairman, estimated the reduction in time would result in a $7,200 weekly saving.

League Gives Measure Favor

Endorse Proposal For Establishment Of An International Mortgage Credit Company And Cleans Up

GENEVA, May 21. (AP)—The league of Nations council today formally endorsed a proposal by the Pan-American commission for establishment of an international mortgages credit company and went on the clean up issues of lesser importance preparatory to winding up its meeting.

There was some acrimonious debate regarding the league's position in Liberia. The Venezuelan delegate insisted that is Liberian policy must never be political lest the African republic's independence be compromised.

Efforts to suppress alleged slavery there will be weakened, he said, if the league adopted "imperial functions."

Arthur Henderson, British foreign secretary, deposited ratification by Great Britain, Australia and New Zealand of the general act for peaceful settlement of international disputes.

Aristide Briand deposited the French ratification of the same act and also of the protocol covering adherence by the United States to the world court.

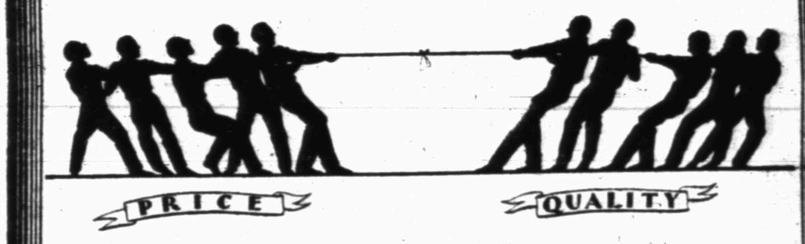

Dino Grandi, deposited Italy's ratification and Sir Atul Chattergee deposited the Indian ratification.

American Hopes Low In France

AUTEUIL, France, May 21. (AP)—American hopes hit a new low today as the preliminary play in the various doubles events of the French hard courts championships reached the critical stages with only George Lott and Johnny Van Ryn left to carry on the invasion. Miss Elizabeth Ryan, former Californian now living in England, survived the quarter final round with Jean Borotra in the mixed doubles, but her allegiance is now considered divided.

Lott and Helen Jacobs, Berkeley, Calif., Miss, went down to an unexpected defeat before Doris Metaxa, Marseilles, and Antoine Gentien, 3-6, 6-4, 6-1, while Van Ryn and his wife, the former Midge Gladman, were eliminated from the third round by two English youths, Mary Heeley and Fred Perry, 6-4, 6-8, 6-4.

Miss Ryan and Cilly Aussem, Germany, advanced to the semi-finals in the women's doubles, defeating Mrs. Phillis Satterthwaite and Muriel Thomas, of England, 6-4, 6-2. Fraulein Aussem paired with Christian Boussus, young French Davis cup player, reached the quarter finals round of the mixed doubles.

In the men's singles tomorrow Lott has drawn Rene Vieillard as a first round opponent while Van Ryn meets Andre Piel. Miss Ryan and Fraulein Aussem oppose Sylvia Henrotin and Josanne Sigart, French pair, in the women's doubles. Later Miss Ryan will team with Borotra against Betty Nuthall and P. D. B. Spence in the mixed doubles.

A.-J. Nine Loses To Texas Utilities

Succumbing under a barrage of errors, the Avalanche-Journal team went down in defeat the second time this week in a city league game Thursday afternoon with the Texas Utilities, 8 to 7. The publishing nine had the game apparently sewed up, scoring five runs in the opening frame, but errors led to their downfall later.

The Utilities nine scored one run in the first inning, four in the second and one each in the third, fourth and fifth all on four hits. The A.-J. team made ten hits.

Sam Scott, hurling for the Utilities, retired in the first inning in favor of Presley after he had been touched for six hits and five runs. The two men were out. Hambright hurled for the A.-J. crew.

Sixty-Seven-Year Old Paris Golfer Carries Gus Morland Out At Dallas

J. E. Osborne Upsets Dope To Eliminate Tourney Leader

(By Associated Press)

DALLAS, May 21.—First and second round matches today in the first annual Lakewood country club invitation golf tournament left one visiting golfer in the championship flight. He is J. E. Osborne, Paris, Texas, who gave the tournament a couple of big upsets today when he eliminated L. R. Robertson in the morning round 2 and 1, and then erased Gus Morland in the afternoon, 8 and 2.

Osborne's victory over Morland was the biggest tournament upset in Texas golfdom this season. The Paris golfer, who is 67 years old, played a fine game to eliminate Morland who was the outstanding tournament favorite. Osborne turned in the front nine two up on Morland, and made it three up at the tenth when Morland three putted. Accurate pitches and approaches, backed by a steady putting blade, proved Osborne's best game.

Quarter final and semifinal matches will be played tomorrow with seven Dallas golfers as contenders.

Two Tall, Lean Englishmen To Battle Each Other For British Amateur Golf Crown

John De Forest, Son Of One Wealthy Baron And Eric Smith, Cambridge Student, Meet In Finals Today

(By Associated Press)

WESTWARD HO! Devon, Eng., May 21—Two tall, lean Englishmen, John De Forest, 25, son of one of Great Britain's wealthiest barons, and the 22-year old Cambridge undergraduate, Eric Smith, tomorrow will play a 36-hole match for the British amateur golf championship.

The two young Britishers, one of whom will wear the crown Bobby Jones took to the United States last year, are the survivors of a tournament which saw George Voight, the chief American hope, and the British favorites eliminated early. None of them even got to the quarter finals.

De Forest won two hard fought matches today. He defeated Syd Roper, the former coal miner and Voight's conqueror, two and one and then scored a one hold victory over the Scotsman, William Tulloch.

Smith became a finalist by defeating Peter Miller, the London amateur, two and one and then eliminating the hope of Ireland, Dr. John MacCormack, by one hole.

Tony Manero Is Sole Trans-Atlantic Survivor

LEEDS, England, May 21. (AP)—Tony Manero of Elmsford, N. Y., today remained the sole survivor of a trans-Atlantic delegation of golfers which set out Tuesday in the Leeds professional golf tournament.

Jose Jurado of the Argentine survived the first round but fell in the second while Marco Chini, the fourth South American, and Kirkwood, were eliminated in the first matches this morning.

Manero, playing in excellent form today, defeated W. T. Twine, 4 and three, and men polished off the lesser known of the Whitcombe brothers, Geginald, five and four in the second round.

yet you'll find me under the reading lamp"

Big game is big game whether you hunt it yourself or share the thrill from an open book, or the silver screen. Likewise, a good cigarette is a smoke. What you taste in Chesterfield is what you want to taste—milder and better tobaccos. The taste is there and the fragrance too, for these tobaccos are blended and cross-blended to bring out their full aroma and flavor, and there can't be anything better in a cigarette.

FOR NINETEEN years, our Research Department has kept intimate touch with every new development of Science that could be applied to the manufacture of cigarettes. During this period there has been no development of tested value or importance to the smoker which we have not incorporated into the making of Chesterfield cigarettes.

First Glass-Metal House

This is the first all-metal-and-glass house built as a practical home in the western world. It is attracting eager attention at New York's Architectural and Allied Arts Exposition. All construction is of steel and aluminum, fabricated of standard parts in less than a week. It's fireproof, earthquake-proof, and practically indestructible. It can be knocked down and moved to another neighborhood cheaper than building a new house. Many architects see in it the home of the future.

CORSICANA May 21. (AP)—Currie W. Caldwell, one of five men charged in indictments here with kidnaping, conspiracy to commit a felony and assault while masked, was released on $10,000 bond today.

Caldwell, along with Charles R. Hassell, Doyle and Jimmy Nash and Oliver Clapp, was indicted in connection with the abduction last December 10 or Robert Cerf, 28, Corsicana bank president's son, and the payment of $15,000 ransom for his release.

Wheat Crop To Exceed Others

Figures Revealed At Amarillo Gathering Indicate That No Time In History Has Crop Loomed As Large

AMARILLO, May 21. (AP) — Although the Panhandle wheat crop for 1931 was estimated at 40 million bushels, one of the biggest yields on record, those attending the annual meeting of the southwest shippers advisory board here today were told that railway cars and storage facilities were available to handle the crop.

Movement of the crop from the South Plains will begin about June 15, it was estimated, and from the North Plains about ten days later. Speakers representing the railroads said plenty of cars were available.

The biggest factor in the way of handling the new crop is the 48 million bushels already in storage in Texas, speakers said. This condition also will make for lower prices, they said. Estimates of prices ranged from 30 to 40 cents a bushel.

Little new machinery has been bought this year and the movement from the fields will be slower than in past years, speakers said. On the other hand, the use of old machinery has cut the cost of production to a new low level, according to Walter Barlow, prominent grain man of Amarillo.

Due to little farm storage, much of the crop will be marketed direct from the combines. The yield will run from 12 to 20 bushels an acre in 35 counties of the Panhandle, it was estimated.

The shippers will meet this afternoon and tomorrow with delegates to the annual convention of the Panhandle Grain Dealers association.

30 YEARS AGO—this May the firm of W. D. Cleveland and Sons began the production of Sunset Coffee. From the first they have selected only the choicest of the world's finest coffees, roasted blended and packed them in their own plant and placed them on your grocer's shelves under the bright red Sunset Label.

AND SO—to help us celebrate Sunset's 30th birthday and to enable everyone to try its delicious mellow flavor and guaranteed freshness, we offer, through the cooperation of our friends the retail grocer, a special sale during the month of May. Never before, to our knowledge has a can of high grade coffee sold at the low price we are offering on Sunset. Buy now and enjoy freely the luxury of a truly fine coffee—and you too will say—

"PRICES TALK" LEVINE'S

MEET YOUR FRIENDS AT LEVINE'S

When your dealer

urges you to buy an unknown substitute product rather than an advertised brand by telling you.. "It's just as good and cheaper"

ask him this Question . .

"If that is true why doesn't the maker advertise it to the world and sell more?"

You will ask him that question because you are an intelligent woman who can not be fooled by a little glib talk.

You know that if the manufacturer of that substitute product had discovered a method whereby he could produce equal quality at reduced prices, he would be eager to advertise this fact convincingly and greatly increase his sales.

You know that you could not buy, say your present car, at the price you paid unless it was produced by mass production.

You know that mass production is possible only by advertising the merits of the product to millions. Also that high quality and low cost can be maintained only through continued mass production made possible by continuous advertising.

You know that advertising does not increase, but decreases prices and adds extra quality never before possible. To illustrate how little advertising costs, a well-known brand of breakfast food costs $0.15, and the cost of advertising each package is only $0.003 (one-third of 1c). If an unadvertised substitute contained the same quality it would cost at least $0.20.

You know that a cake may be baked with cheap ingredients and still be made to look just as good as if only the best of everything had been used. But when such a cake is cut and tasted, the difference is discovered. The catch is that the cake is bought and carried home before that difference is discovered. Just so are all substitutes whose claims are "just as good and cheaper."

Beware of unknown substitutes, for you don't know how they were made nor the quality of their ingredients. Be guided by known, advertised brands, for they always give you the highest quality at the lowest prices.

A THRILLING MYSTERY STORY • by MILES BURTON

-class carrige for themselves, the suit-case, containing the was placed under the seat. heaved a sigh of relief as the started. His task, at least, was n end. An unforseen accident, falling of the tree upon Ali- s car, had thrown the Funny 's plan out of gear, and had rded the opportunity for the e to get on his track. Yes, but it not been for the reasoning h had guided him to the de- ed workings, the secret of the en pig would never have been ed. The Funny Toff's agents ld eventually have traced it, would, no doubt, have found e means of recovering posses- of it. Sir Edric would certainly e cause to modify his opinion he amateur detective.

lthough Dick realized that the ture of the Funny Toff himself the ultimate object to be aim- at, he was keenly interested in fate of his agents. His informa- would enable the police to nd up the three men who had at- pted to murder him, and in the ught he found considerable sat- ction. He felt that he owed m a legitimate grudge, and he ed forward eagerly to the pros- t of identifying them. It would a distinctly unpleasant shock them to be confronted with the n whom they imagined to be ly suffocated!

ick had not entirely recovered m the effects of his adventure. hands were still very painful, d his whole body ached from his from the gate. Now that he compelled to sit still and do hing, he felt distinctly shaky. d at the same time possessed by a ling of irritating restlessness. Dr. atherleigh, who sat opposite him the corner of the carriage, must ve noticed his condition.

"You are not yourself, my boy, d I don't wonder at it," he said ntly. "I have some knowledge of edicine and I know the symptoms. lways carry with me a sedative my own composition. A small dose of it will do you all the good in the world."

He produced a flask, poured some of its contents into the cup, and offered it to Dick, who swallowed it gratefully. Almost immediately his restlessness left him, and he fell into a doze, infinitely pleasant to his tired body. The rumble of the train soothed him; and he fell into pleasant dreams in which Alison played the principal part.

How long he dozed he could not tell. His dreams changed, and he was back in the cell, the cold draught of air from the roof blowing strongly upon him. He opened his eyes, to find the carriage door wide open, and a tall form standing beside it.

He sprang to his feet, half-awake, feeling instinctively the imminence of castrophe. As he did so, the man thrust out an arm, at the same time thrusting his foot between Dick's legs. For an instant Dick swayed, clutching wildly. Then he felt himself hurled off his balance and falling through space. And above the roar of the train he heard peal after peal of the demoniac laughter of the Funny Toff.

Suffering Of Years Ended

More Grateful Words Of Praise Are Won By Konjola — Read These Experiences.

After all, life teaches no more valuable lesson than that we profit by the experiences of those who know, by actual test, what Konjola can do in the relief of ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and of rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness.

Mrs. Allene Tipton

See what Konjola meant to Mrs. Allene Tipton, 2311 Broadway, San Antonio. She says: "For five years I had indigestion and nueritis, and was about to give up in dispair. Improvement began with the first bottle of Konjola. I have taken three and am greatly improved in every respect."

And see what Konjola did in the stubborn case of Mr. T. A. Wilkinson, 1109 Johnson street, Amarillo, who says: "For fifteen years I endured stomach and kidney troubles. I had to get up several times every night, and I always felt tired and worn out. My back ached and I could not eat solid foods. But since taking Konjola it is a different story. I certainly wish I had found this wonderful medicine years ago."

Mr. T. A. Wilkinson

And how happy she found Konjola is Mrs. Ella Mae Ivey, 230 San Pedro avenue, San Antonio. She declares: "Three years ago I began suffering with my stomach. Nausea and vomiting followed meals, and I sloated frightfully. I had terrible hendaches and dizzy spells. But after three weeks with Konjola I can not say too much in praise of this medicine. I am better than in years, and have gained weight."

Mrs. Ella Mae Ivey

The files of Konjola faitly overflow with such words of endorsement. Buy Konjola in any drug store and do not accept a substitute.

Terry Farmers Are Planting

otton Leading In Acreage Being Put Into Cultivation In Area; Corn Planting Is To Be Later

BROWNFIELD, May 21. (Special) Farmers are busy in fields planting crops of all descriptions with ton leading in acreage as the lk of the land to be placed in corn d sorghum grains will not be anted until after June 1, as experience has taught farmers that rly planted grains will not produce as abundantly as the later antings.

Conditions for making a large op were never better and very tle more rain will be needed to ring all stuff to maturity as more an seven inches has been received since January 1 with nearly ree of it falling since May 1, hich gives a good season which is lculated to hold for several weeks. here will also be in a change in he variety of cotton that is marted this fall as large numbers of armers are discarding the short taples and going in for standard arieties, to a large extent. They were encouraged to take this step by the county commissioners who purchased several thousand bushels f improved seed whic hthey are elling at cost and on fall terms here it is requested.

The city of Minneapolis is exactly midway between the equator and the North Pole.

Maryland Woman Happy Now— Loses 55 Lbs.

Edith J. Marriott of Baltimore, Md. writes: "Last winter I weighed 200 lbs. and was very much ashamed. I bought a bottle of Kruschen Salts which gave such wonderful results I bought more. After 4 bottles I weigh 145 lbs. and all my friends say, "How slender you've gotten—how did you do it?" I say only 4 words—thanks to Kruschen Salts."

A generous bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts 4 weeks costs but 85 cents at Bowen's Drug, Bowen's Hilton Pharmacy, City Drug Store, the Lubbock Drug Co., Mark Halsey Drug or any drugstore in America—take one half teaspoon in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast—cut out pastry and fatty meats—go light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar—that will help Kruschen take off your fat.

Take Kruschen every morning—it's the little daily dose that does it—if not joyfully satisfied after the first bottle—money back. Adv.

to seek a review by the supreme court of the judgment against him," Hogan said. "Apparently temporarily weary of his long fight and because of the hopeless'y bad state of his health, Mr. Fall first determined not to follow the advice of counsel and early this month instructed them not to ask the supreme court to review the judgment against him.

"Upon further consideration, Mr. Fall has now decided to yield to the advice of his attorneys and to the importunities of his family and friends. The latter felt that the case should not stop short of the supreme court.

"Acting upon definite instructions just received from Mr. Fall, counsel are engaged in preparing a petition to be filed with the supreme court next week. The time allowed by an order of the district court of appeals for Fall's attorneys to file petition for review expires the 28th. Mr. Fall's petition will be filed before that date."

City Numbers

Recommendation for withdrawal of mail service for houses not properly numbered by July 1 will be made to the postoffice department, he said.

Under the new ordinance each residence lot in the city will be entitled to a number, Mr. Rodgers said. Where one house is situated on more than one lot, all numbers excepting that of the first lot will be omitted. Duplex apartments will be designated by letters of "A" and "B". Second stories of business buildings will draw half numbers, he said.

Short Coverings, Originating With Rails, Give Rally Carrying To End

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, May 21. (AP)—Short covering that originated in the rails gave the stock market a rally that carried through to the close today, and for the first time in a fortnight final prices averaged higher. Bonds developed reactionary tendencies, even in the high grade listings, and grain markets were heavy.

Until it was rumored that the eastern railway executives were close to an agreement on the proposed request for higher freight rates, stocks had been irregular, affected somewhat by weakness in isolated issues and by group heaviness in chemicals, amusements and coppers. Nevertheless, the market seemed to be edging inward an advance and when the rails started to rise other groups followed closely. Net advances in industrials and utilities ranged roughly between 1 and 2 points but the carrier issues did much better, climbing from 2 to 5. Total sales were 2,400,000 shares.

Wilson was arrested by the sheriff's department Wednesday night. A gallon of whisky, a hundred bottles of beer and a jar of beer were found at 2108 Twenty-first street, where Wilson lived, officers said.

Brown of the University of Michigan told the tenth annual convention of the Natural Gasoline Association of America here today.

Sydney S. Smith of Tulsa, superintendent of the gasoline division of the Shell Petroleum corporation, was elected president of the association. He succeeds Dr. E. R. Lederer of Fort Worth.

Other officers chosen were: Emby Kaye, Tulsa, Skelly Oil company, first vice president (re-elected); G. M. Campbell, Houston, United Gas Public Service corporation, and W. W. Robinson, jr., Los Angeles, Texas company, vice presidents, and Ray E. Miller, Tulsa, secretary-treasurer (re-elected).

Work is to be started at once on the League of Nations radio station at Geneva.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 21. (AP) — Shattering the season's bottom-price record, corn today dropped to below 48 cents a bushel the first time in 1931. Traders were confronted both by a let-up in corn shipping demand here and by cheap tenders of corn from Missouri river terminals. Stop-loss selling followed, with bear contending that corn still was high in relation to other grains and feed stuffs.

Corn closed nervous 1-2 to 1 3-8 cents down, wheat unchanged to 1 5-8 off, oats at 1-8 to 1-4 decline to a shade advance, and provisions unchanged to 10 cents up.

vagrant. He said he did not even know the person. When examined by the prosecuting attorney the defendant said he was in a room at a hotel on the preceeding night when officers came into the place. He went up to take a few drinks, Hill said on the stand.

The man said he was temporarily out of work and was living with his sister's family at the time of his arrest. He had applied to every cafe in the city for a job but had been unable to find one and had not worked regularly for five or six months, he said.

A woman arrested several days ago also was acquitted of a vagrancy charge yesterday afternoon, when Owen McWhorter prosecuting attorney, moved that the case be dismissed for lack of evidence. The arresting officer on the stand testified the woman was arrested at a local rooming house. Her two children were in the room with her at the time she was arrested, the officer said. The officer testified on cross examination that he became suspicious of the woman by seeing her on his beat late at nights. The officer said he thought the woman had made a trip out of town with a man, but stated he did not see the couple leave the city or return. Missing the woman on his beat caused him to make that supposition, he said.

Attorney Max Coleman represented both of the defendants in yesterday's proceedings. J. T. Inman, day police desk sergeant and corporation judge, presided.

qualifiers. More than a hundred scores had been posted when the storm broke and if there was a better shooter in the remaining field than those qualified he was sadly handicapped by the strong wind.

Match play will begin this morning with the first teeing off at 8:30. Walter Sykes, Amarillo professional, chief starter and referee of the tournament, announced that it was a matter of utmost importance that qualifiers be on hand in time to start their matches at the minute they are called. Sykes appeared highly pleased with the showing of golfers yesterday and their attitude. "Everything has been fine except this little burst of weather, and that handicap need not interfere with the success of the tournament," Sykes said.

Semi-finals will be played Saturday afternoon with finals in all flights coming up Sunday. Thirty-six-hole matches will be played in all of the finals.

Barnett's card:

Out	544	444	434	—36
In	345	444	444	—36—72

While not mentioned as a pre-tournament favorite, Barnett's play yesterday classed him as among the cream of the lot and bade fair to see him through more than one preliminary match.

While some were disappointed in the qualifying tallies of outstanding favorites they were content to abide by the adage that the medalist never wins the tournament. Lubbock's favorites, practically Gibson Payne and Billy Holmes, had worse luck than usual, though Holmes' card showed a 76. Payne had a little trouble with his putts and shot an 80, doing a 41 coming in after a fair out card of 39.

Mansel Merriman, Amarillo's main hope, was out in par 36 but showed a 41 coming in for a 77. E. B. Johnson, another Amarillo hope, fared better with a 75, next lowest to Bradshaw's 73. H. Toler of Hamlin, Bob Peck of Wichita Falls but formerly of Lubbock, Frank Kimbrough of Plainview and Charlie Quail of Post came in with 77's. Bob Scott of Colorado tied Billy Holmes' card with a 76. Ellis Cowden of Midland carded a 79 to cinch a first flight match and Don Mitchell of Lubbock was safe with a 78. C. R. Pope of Abilene also came in with a 79.

Standard Oil Company Looms As Entrant In Retail Field

TOPEKA, May 21. (AP)—The Standard Oil company of Kansas loomed today as a possible entrant into the filling station business with modification by the state court of a 19-year old limited ouster order which prohibited it from engaging in the retail field.

The Standard of Kansas was one of several units involved in ouster proceedings instituted by the state's attorney general's office more than two decades ago. The court in June, 1911, ordered the Standard of Kansas to confine its operations to refining. It operates a large refinery at Neodesha.

The modification of the old order was entered by the court late yesterday on motion of the Standard. No objection was raised by Roland Boynton, state's attorney general.

One Witness Heard And Deposition Is Read In Spikes-Haley Suit Thursday

ed, he said.

The witness denied any "ill feeling" between large and small cattlemen at the time of the trouble. Likewise he denied knowing of ill feeling between Sam Gholson and Ben Cissel and members of the Spikes family.

Told Of Finding Cattle

A story of the finding of some cattle stolen from the Howrey ranch, on the "Spikes range" around Mesa Redona was related. One of the calves, with a Spikes brand on it, said the witness, was found back with the herd on the Bell ranch, sucking its mother, a Hereford cow. One of the Spikes boys which one Johnson was unable to state because he said he knew none of them by name, claimed the cattle. After the animals were turned over to inspectors for the New Mexico Sanitary board, they were stolen from the Howrey ranch, Johnson said.

Johnson admitted hiring Henry Hawkins but said he did not permit cowboys of his ranch to carry arms unless they held special deputy commissions. Hawkins never held such a commission. He was discharged for "association with" undesirable men, he stated. Later he heard the man was involved in acts of violence.

Jury Sent Out of Room

On cross examination by attorneys for the plaintiff Johnson attempted to write into the record what he said was the reason the conviction of one of the alleged members of the Hawkins gang was dismissed by the high territorial court. The jury was sent out of the court room and for over a quarter of an hour the issues were discussed. C. C. Crenshaw spoke for the defendants and G. E. Lockhart and Frank Brown for the plantiff. The contention of the plantiff was sustained by the court.

"I do not know if he killed the two Spikes boys," said the deposition on cross examination in reply to a question if the deponent did not know that Ben Cissel had shot John and Dick Spikes. He denied that the special deputy had been hired by the company or others for any ulterior purpose.

Convictions Secured

Referring to the robbery of the Fort Sumner postoffice following the death of the Spikes boys, the witness said that one of the alleged gang was caught and later two others, convictions being secured in three cases.

In the reading of the deposition for the defense, Charles Crenshaw and George Dupree read the questions and numbers and E. L. Klett made the replies. Lockhart and Brown performed similar duties for the plaintiff.

Federal Agent Heard

Alex Street, El Paso, special agent for the U. S. department of justice, who was on the witness stand when the Wednesday afternoon session closed, occupied the stand all morning.

Street, who said he owned a saloon in Tucumcari, related purported details of the robbery of a rival thirst parlor, known as the Monarch Saloon a few days before John and Dick Spikes were slain. The witness was asked if he had recognized any members of a crowd he saw out side the Monarch saloon the night of the robbery.

Recognized Two

"I thought I recognized two of the men," Street said in response to questioning by C. C. Crenshaw, defense attorney. One was Henry Hawkins, the other George Cook."

The witness said he saw them outside the saloon after the holdup. There were a number of men there. Later witness said he recognized Hawkins by his shape, size and voice.

Street identified pictures of the cave that he said he had visited about six or eight months after the slaying of John and Dick Spikes, on Mesa Redonda. He saw some buttons and buckles at the cave.

Witness also testified having met John and Dick Spikes at Liberty, while he was operating a saloon there, and also at Tucumcari.

"I saw Henry Hawkins with Dick and Ernest Spikes" he stated. "I saw John and Dick Spikes with Henry Hawkins and I saw Dick and Henry Hawkins in the late fall of 1901.

"As far as I recall I never met Fred Spikes," he said. He added that he did not remember of having heard of Fred Spikes prior to the fall of 1901.

Says Reputation "Bad"

Witness testified that he had heard of the general reputation of "the Spikes gang" and in particular Dick, John, Fred and possibly Sam. "It was bad" he stated,

Henry Hawkins' reputation was "bad" and his "reputation was as a cow thief and outlaw," the witness added.

Witness testified he knew Web McAdams, who, lived near Endee and whose reputation was connected with cattle rustling activities; he did not know Lee Rasberry, but did know William and Jesse Smith.

Robbery of the Monarch saloon was a few days before the death of the Spikes boys. "I was in my place of business at the time of the robbery" he stated. He went out of the back door and towards the Monarch, he said. About half a block or less from the other saloon he saw a group of men.

"I recognized Henry Hawkins by his voice," the witness stated. "I heard some one say, 'we can get more money down at the other saloon but some of us will be left down there'."

Knew Voice

"I knew something about his voice," he testified in response to a query as to how he knew who the first speaker was.

Testifying as to whom he thought the second speaker was he said, "I thought it was Dick Spikes but I would not swear that it was."

Two or three days later, the day of the slaying of the Spikes boys, Street said he was asked by Fred Freeland, a deputy sheriff, to go with a posse to Mesa Rica to look for Henry Hawkins. It was about noon he said, when he was asked to join the posse. In it, besides Freeland, were Sim McFarland, a cattle inspector, George Kilgore, Lee Hart, Donald Stewart and Lee Smith.

Near the home of Minter Moore, a horse breeder, on the Mesa, he and his party had a gun battle with Henry Hawkins and five or six of his gang. He dd not recognze the others, he testified.

Men Shot At Him

The witness told how he and Frank Freeland, had ridden from the Minter Moore dugout on the trail of tracks on a trail. He went southeast and Freeland south. He saw some saddled horses about 250 yards away and several men. "Two or three began to shoot at me," he said, adding one bullet cut the mane of his horse. He at once rode for a small rise to get out of range. He saw Freeland some distance away, riding at him. Shortly other members of the posse came up. Then he got the rifle of Lee Smith and fired at the fleeing men.

"I though I recognized two of them" witness said, adding they were Henry Hawkins and George Cook. They followed the trail for a mile and a half, then returned to Tucumcari.

G. E. Lockhart cross questioned witness at length first concerning pictures of the cave Street had recognized, disputing somewhat his identity. He asked if Mrs. John Spikes, whose home Street had visited the day following the shooting, had not refused him permission to enter. He denied this, saying it was Eugene Logan, who was behind him as a group of men had gone to the Spikes home.

Denies Being "On Payroll"

Street denied being "on the payroll" of the defendants for the case, saying he was only receiving his salary while absent from his government duties and expenses while here. He denied "looking up witnesses", or questioning witnesses for the defense discussing his testimony with other witnesses.

The witness said he "did not remember seeing Jeff Spikes" and denied being "introduced to Jeff Spikes by Henry Hawkins on December 17, 1901 on the streets of Tucumcari."

"I heard Henry Hawkins talk in my saloon," he testified. "He was a loud talker, that is how I recognized his voice."

"I never met Fred Spikes in that country that I know of, he said.

Knew Some Of Group

Asked if he knew a group of men including J. W. Elliott and sons, J. O. Telford, H. M. Smith, Amos Yates and others, he said he did some; others he did not recall.

Asked to name some one who had told him about the Spikes boys and their alleged activities, the witness said, "Amos Yates said they were rustlers of cattle but that he was their friend," and therefore he 'would not' " talk about them. He mentioned others, including George Greer, Henry Hawkins' father-in-law, the Goldenbergs and others, including Sam Gholson and Bud Lee.

Hawkins, the witness said, was "indicted for the robbery of the postoffice at Fort Sumner," which occurred after the shooting and that he, as an officer of a New Mexico county was looking for Henry Hawkins as I had warrants for him."

Lockhart subjected the witness to a severe cross examination in an effort to offset his testimony. He was unable to do this.

highway finance that will be the last one to benefit from the state issue when the refunding of the outstanding obligations is made."

Mr. Hawkins cited the Carlsbad Caverns highway association as a good piece of highway development, pointing out further expansions and improvements to be made on the highway.

Caldwell Speaks

Mr. Caldwell told of highway development in the division, declaring that two years ago there wasn't a yard of paving in the district and at the present time there are 76 miles completed and 38 and one-half miles under construction. Thirty more miles of grade is ready for concrete. Two counties, Andrews and Gaines, have financed a north and south road through their area, he said. Bond issues are being discussed in Terry, Garza, Dawson and Lynn at the present time.

"Lubbock should help other counties in financing their roads," Mr. Caldwell said. He praised the work of the campaign here.

"It's not worth very much to us just to build roads out to the county line and stop," Judge Pitts said in his appeal for support of bond issues in surrounding counties. "We must develop or help develop the entire South Plains in order that the section and Lubbock may realize the most good. We will develop more in this country in the next ten years than we have in the past and nothing will do more for that development than the building of highways."

M. J. White of Lee's Summitt, Mo., brother of the chairman of the day, spoke briefly on highway development in his section and praising the spirit manifested by the business men in this territory.

Lubbock officers were advised that a check bearing the signature, T. H. Shapman, was passed at a drygoods store in Clovis Saturday, Wilson said.

Another Suit Is Filed By Pastor

DALLAS, May 21. (AP)—Rev. Rembert G. Smith of Sparta, Ga., today filed suit in federal court here demanding that a third pastor of the Southern Methodist church pay him $50,000 for alleged slander, the complaint today naming Rev. E. V. Cole, editor of a religious weekly.

Previous suits, filed last week, respectively named Bishop John M. Moore and Bishop Edwin D. Mouzon and sought $50,000 damages from each.

All three suits charged slander in statements asseretedly made during the general conference of the church held here last May, rgarding activities during the 1928 presidential campaign.

The suit against Cole complained specifically of remarks allegedly made in an editorial appearing May 22, 1930, in the Texas Christian Advocate published by Mr. Cole under the supervision of the Methodist Episcopal church South. Mr. Smith alleged the editorial contained false and malicious statements.

Sanders said the appropriations committees would work tonight and report in the morning. The conferees have been hung on the house amendments cutting salaries of employees five and ten per cent.

A plea that the legislature remain in session only a few more days went unheeded.

Passage of another revenue raising measure was assured when conferees on the peddlers tax bill announced they had reached an agreement to levy a tax of five cents per barrel on the commodity. The senate had levied a tax of 20 cents per barrel on cement. Three house and three senate members signed the report.

The peddler tax bill also contained a tax of 75 cents per ton on sulphur, raising the present levy of 55 cents.

It was believed likely the session would end late tomorrow night and that the clock would be turned back before reaching noon to give committees a little more time to work.

While proponents of the recessed session plan argued economy in time saved, opponents contended loss of revenue from the bills passed at this session would more than offset the time and money saved. Under the constitution, bills receiving less than 100 votes in the house or 21 votes in the senate can not become effective until 90 days after adjournment. Had the session been recessed and then continued for another month, the bills would have become effective 150 days from tomorrow.

Beck And Moffett Bills Are Voted Down By Texas Senate

AUSTIN, May 21. (AP)—The senate today voted down the Beck home rule and the Moffett maximum representation resolutions, both proposed amendments to the constitution. While receiving majority votes they lacked the two-thirds necessary for submission to the people.

The vote on the Beck resolution was 19 to 9. The Moffett resolution received a vote to 19 to 11.

The Beck plan would permit counties of 75,000 and above to adopt home rule charters and consolidate city and county governments. It failed at final passage last week in the senate.

The Moffett plan would limit counties of less than 8500,00 population to five representatives, granting them another member for each 100,000 above that figure.

AIR COOLED—

The holes running transversaly clear through the tread of the TRIPLE TREAD TIRE carry off by "FORCED DRAFT" the heat generated in the tread of this new revolutionary tire. As the tire revolves, the small holes open and close with each revolution pumping air in and out, thereby eliminating heat—the greatest enemy of rubber.

BLOW OUT AND PUNCTURE PROOF—

Heretofore, tire manufacturers have found that a tread could be made only so thick—made any thicker, too much heat was generated causing premature tread wear, cracked treads, chipped treads and separation. Due to the mechanical air cooling process of this new TRIPLE TREAD SEIBERLING TIRE it was possible to weld three treads into one, thereby giving the user a guarantee of 50% to 100% more mileage. Combine this with the fact that this new tire is practically blow out and puncture proof, giving more for your tire dollar per non-skid mile than all other so called super tires. Then pay us a visit and be convinced.

Sinclair Lewis And Yale In Argument

Writer Declares That He Offered Nobel Prize Medal As A Present While Officials Say No Offer Has Been Made

NEW YORK, May 21. (AP)—There seems to be a wide divergence between Sinclair Lewis and officials of Sterling Memorial library at Yale university over whether the author had offered his Nobel prize medal to the library.

Lewis said he offered the medal which he was awarded with the $46,350 prize to the library. Charles B. Rush, associate librarian said no offer was made.

"I thought the Yale library was the natural place for the medal, and so while motoring from Westport, (Conn.) to Bethel (Vt.) last Saturday, I stopped off at New Haven," Lewis said. "I learned better, however, than to try to make any presents to the Yale library. They just didn't seem interested, and said there wasn't any place in their collection for such an item."

Rush, in his version of Lewis' visit to the library said:

"He asked if we had any exhibit of coins or medals, a permanent exhibit. I told him that we had quite a numismatic collection and would be glad to show it to him then if he would care to look at it.

"He said no, he didn't want to see it, but did we have a permanent loan, and asked him to explain. Then he said, 'No, I won't do it' and turned on his heel and walked out of the building. He hadn't made the slightest mention of any gift to the library or of the Nobel medal."

Professor Andrew Keogh, chief librarian, said the Yale library had not refused the offer of the Nobel medal because it had never been made.

"We would take the gift cheerfully," he said, "all he has to do is put it in a box and mail it to us and we will put it on exhibit for a period of time then place it with our other coins and medals.

"As for putting it on permanent exhibit in the main hall of the library that is a different matter. He would have to make formal application before it would be even considered."

Lewis was graduated from Yale in 1907.
