Doggie In This Window Isn't For Sale

The doggie in this window isn't for sale. He followed his master into Marks Dress Shop in suburban East Point, Ala., went to sleep and got locked in the store all Christmas Day. Police received a call Christmas night when the dog was spotted in the store window having himself a time howling over mannekins, Christmas trees and tugging at expensive dresses. Officer Kenneth Byers looks at the dog and overturned Christmas tree as he waits for the store owner to arrive. The mutt was taken to headquarters.

Called 'Rat', Youth Admits Yule Slaying

HOUSTON (AP)—A teen-ager's objection to being called "a rat" brought a dramatic solution early today to Houston's most baffling murder mystery in recent years. Stuart (Sandy) Lumpkin, 17, was the scared, bushy-haired boy whose voluntary surrender to police brought a confession to the Christmas night slaying of Jay Evans, 15, Lamar High School student.

Lumpkin meekly told Capt. Harry Cole he "was the one who shot and killed the boy in West University Place." His three companions on the ill-fated "joy ride" turned themselves in also.

They are:

David Cave, 18, on leave from the Naval Operations Base at Long Beach, Calif.

Jimmy Price, 17, a roughneck with the Farbanks Well Service Co. and owner of the 1955 pink and white Ford which was the object of a statewide search.

G. T. Lawson.

The four surrendered to Cole in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Price, parents of Jimmy.

The policeman was called into the case shortly after midnight by S. M. Lumpkin, Sandy's father.

Cole previously had encountered the youths during a burglary investigation which resulted in the Price and Lawson boys serving sentences at Gatesville. Cave was on a "wanted" list for jumping bond in the same case.

FELLED BY BULLET

Evans, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Evans, was felled by a revolver bullet Christmas night while talking with three teen-age companions on the driveway of his home.

Sandy told West University Place Police Chief Harold Shipp the shooting was "an accident."

Earlier, he told a Houston radio announcer, Dick Williams, the incident "was the damndest accident you ever saw."

Williams' reference to the unknown killers as a "pack of rats" led directly to Sandy's anger which ended with his surrender. In a signed statement to Houston police, the Lumpkin boy said: "We were out riding in Jimmy's car. I saw four boys in and around a car and, as we passed, one of them shouted—I thought at us. I told Jimmy to stop and when he stopped the car, I jumped out and said 'What's up?'"

"A boy came running around the side of the other car carrying what looked like a rifle and firing it. I pulled the pistol from my pocket and shot back. On the second shot, I saw the boy fall and jumped back in Jimmy's car and said 'Let's get out of here.'"

Sandy told police he dismantled the death weapon as he and his three companions continued their "ride."

He threw the bullets, two spent cartridges and three "live" rounds, onto the Rice Institute campus.

The cylinder and cylinder pin were thrown into Brays Bayou. The rest was thrown into another bayou on the south side of town.

The cylinder was found.

Sandy told police he had bought the weapon Monday from a friend, as "protection" from an unidentified college student who allegedly had struck the Lumpkin boy on the head with a tire tool during a Thanksgiving Day drive-in restaurant fight.

The youth said he "disliked being laughed at."

When he heard Williams refer to the killer as a "rat," Sandy became enraged, called the announcer and told him:

"Man, you've got it all wrong."

"It was the damndest accident you ever saw."

Suspicious, Sandy broke off the conversation.

After returning home and going to bed last night, Sandy was awakened by his father who asked:

"Son, are you mixed up in this shooting?"

Sandy told police he went into his father's bedroom and told him of the incident.

At least five witnesses, including three youths with Evans when he was slain in front of his home in West University Place, said they heard what sounded like two or three shots being fired.

Deputy Medical Examiner Ted Walsh said, however, the autopsy showed the boy had been shot only once—by a .38 caliber bullet which split up and left the appearance of three wounds in Evans' head.

AIN'T NUTHIN' BUT HOUN'DOGS

DERBY, England (AP)—The eager hounds of the Meynell hunt flushed a fox yesterday at dusk.

The fox took off into the scrub country with the hounds in hot pursuit. The hunters rode after them into the night.

It took hunters and farmers nine hours to round up the hounds, hopelessly lost. No fox.

Scattered Showers Dampen Texas As Cold Front Moves Nearer

By Associated Press

Scattered showers and thunderstorms dampened South Texas ahead of another wave of cool air which pushed into the northern Panhandle Friday.

The Weather Bureau said the new front should pass Dalhart about 6 a. m. Temperatures as low as 22 were predicted for the Panhandle and South Plains during the night.

A thunderstorm shortly afterward brought 25 inch of rain around Karnes City and Kenedy, and Cotulla measured .05.

Other moisture figures for the 24 hours ending at 6 a. m. Friday included Alpine .09 inch, Junction

.05, San Antonio .03, and Dallas and Del Rio .01. Traces fell at Austin, Fort Worth, Van Horn and Wichita Falls.

Temperatures early Friday varied from 30 at Dalhart to 65 at Brownsville. Thursday's highs covered a range from 53 to 70 in the same two cities, respectively.

The eastern half of the state was cloudy to partly cloudy and skies in the western half were clear to partly cloudy.

The Weather Bureau forecast scattered showers and thunderstorms Friday in all but West Texas. A combination of opposite revolving high and low pressure systems was pushing moist Gulf air over the state.

2 Women Burned As Blast Rips Through Odessa Bank

ODESSA (AP)—An explosion apparently caused by gas accumulated above a vault ripped through the First State Bank of Odessa early today.

Two women employees were burned about the face and arms.

The blast tore out the top of the vault, and the ceiling above it. Windows on all sides of the two-story building were shattered.

Charles Perry, president of the bank, said many of its records probably were destroyed but he could not immediately estimate amount of loss.

Mrs. Norma Stewart and Miss Marilyn Haber, who had arrived ahead of other employees, were taken to a hospital with burns.

Attendees said the two were not believed to be injured seriously.

The explosion occurred about 7:30 a. m. More injuries presumably were prevented by the fact that most other bank workers had not yet reported for the day.

Firemen said a leaky line apparently permitted the natural gas to accumulate in the floor of the building's second story immediately above the vault, which was at the rear of the bank quarters.

Perry said nearly all the bank except his office appeared damaged.

Two large plate glass windows on the west side of the building were hurled 60 yards across a street and parking lot into an alley.

Doomed Slayer Claims Mistake

HUNTSVILLE (AP)—Former Airman Jimmy Shaver, scheduled to be electrocuted next Friday for the rape-slaying of a San Antonio child, contended today the state has convicted the wrong man.

That was the gist of his interview in the penitentiary death row where Shaver awaits electrocution scheduled Jan. 3.

He was twice convicted of raping and slaying Chere Jo Horton, 3, on July 4, 1954.

There was "a lot of circumstantial evidence," connected with his case, he contended.

"They certainly have got the wrong man."

Shaver said death row food is superior to that he received during his long stay in the San Antonio jail. For Christmas dinner, he had "turkey and all the trimmings."

"I certainly enjoyed it," he said.

U. S. Court Reverses Dallas Integration Rule

Deadline At Mid-Term Ruled Out

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Dallas need not integrate its schools at mid-term—Jan. 27—the U. S. 8th Circuit Court of Appeals ruled today.

The court reversed a decision by Judge William Atwell of Dallas that the schools must be integrated at mid-term.

The court ordered judgment entered in accord with an earlier appeals court mandate to integrate "with all deliberate speed."

Today's ruling gives the Dallas school system more time to prepare for integration.

That was what the school board asked in the appeal from which today's decision stemmed. The board contended that to integrate Jan. 27 would disrupt the educational system.

Dr. W. T. White, school superintendent, said of today's order: "It certainly would be conducive to orderly procedure to maintain the status quo of the school system throughout the year. This does give us time to study details of integration, which would not be at all possible if we had to integrate at mid-term."

The case first entered Federal Courts Sept. 5, 1955, when 28 Negro children sought admission to a Dallas high school, a junior high and six elementary schools.

TWICE OVERRULED

Dist. Judge William Atwell, 88, twice dismissed the suit, and twice his decision was overturned by the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals.

Then, bowing to the appeals judges, he ordered last September that Dallas schools integrate at mid-term. This was appealed by the school board, resulting in today's decision.

Atwell even then appeared reluctant to order the schools integrated. He has said integration will mean displacing white pupils to make room for Negro students in the city's crowded schools.

In one of his decisions, he disagreed sharply with the Supreme Court decision of 1954 which declared segregation unconstitutional. Atwell declared this ruling was based on modern sociology, not on the law and previous court decisions.

He said from the bench, "If there are such things as civil rights, there are civil wrongs. It would be unthinkable, and unbearably wrong, to make white students get out of Dallas schools so as to let in colored students."

Dr. Edwin Rippey, school board president, said recently that when integration comes, eventually about half Dallas' 141 schools will have mixed classes.

PLANS NOT TOLD

Just what plans the school board has for integration have not been disclosed, although it began studying the question shortly after the Supreme Court acted.

Rippey did reveal that one plan is for liberal transfers of students who find themselves in a minority in any school.

Negro residential areas are spread throughout Dallas, and if the principle of "school nearest residence" is followed, as many as 20 to 25 schools would be affected immediately by any final order to integrate.

The school board sought without success to obtain a decision from Judge Atwell on what the schools are to do about state aid.

Under a state law passed this year, any Texas school district which integrates without a favorable vote by citizens of the district loses state aid and accreditation. Dallas receives about $1,500,000 a year in state aid.

Atwell in a hearing in December, refused to rule. He advised school board attorneys to take the issue first to state courts.

An attorney for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People NAACP, which had fought through the courts for integration, refused comment today. He is Simpson Tate, regional attorney for the association.

NO COMMENT

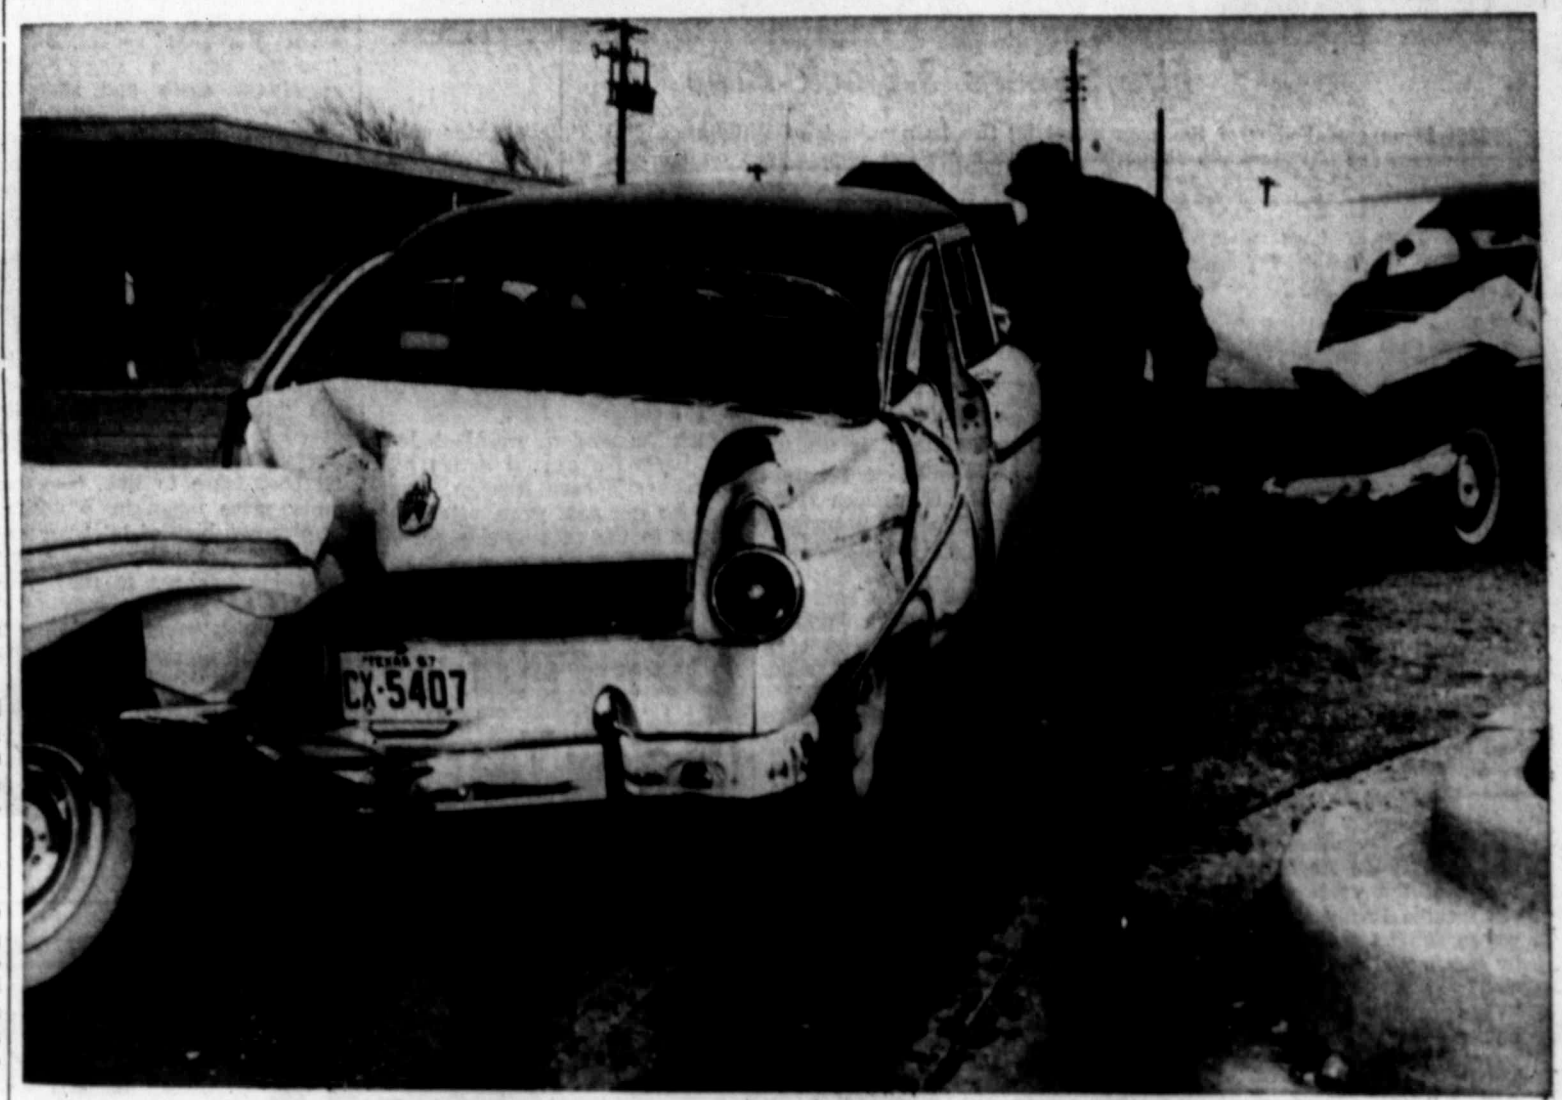

C. B. Bunkley Jr., another Negro attorney who has helped in the case, said he did not want to comment until he reads the appeals decision.

Today's decision was handed down by Judge Richard Rives of Montgomery, Ala.

He made it clear that Dallas school authorities should be "accorded a reasonable further opportunity to meet their primary responsibility of integrating."

The court also said that if Negro plaintiffs seeking integration "should claim that the school authorities have failed in any respect to perform their duty there should be a full and fair hearing in which

Injuries Result From Three-Car Collision

Ollie McDaniel, driver of the center car, was hospitalized with a fractured right collar bone and a brain concussion Thursday following the three-car accident at 15th and Gregg. McDaniel was crossing Gregg — going west — when hit by the car pictured at right. The car, driven by Andree Gamboa, 305 N. Lancaster, was traveling south. Impact of the collision slammed McDaniel's car into the Ford shown at left. E. B. McCormick was in the car, but it was stopped. Today at Cowper Hospital, officials said McDaniel was in good condition despite the injuries.

Russians Build Oil Prospector

LONDON (AP)—Russian scientists have designed an electronic device to take the guesswork out of oil prospecting, Moscow radio said today.

The broadcast said the device creates a model of the oil pool, determines the quantities of petroleum, and indicates how it may be extracted with the fewest number of wells.

The machine uses samples of oil bearing strata, taken from several wells," the broadcast said. "It precisely determines the locale of the oil pool and the best sites for drilling wells."

The machine also gives data on the amount of water which must be pumped into a pool to maintain the necessary pressure for production and determines the output of each well, Moscow said.

The radio said other scientists have made successful tests of an electronic device to control the movement of railway locomotives.

Part of the apparatus is installed in the locomotive. It takes into account grades, resistance, and the effect and velocity of the wind, the broadcast said. On approaching a station an automatic device operates a braking system.

The device, soon to be installed on Russia's main railway lines, accurately indicates the safest and most effective speeds, the radio said.

4-H Livestock Is Rounded Up For Show At Odessa

Steers and lambs which are to be entered in the competition at the Odessa Fat Stock Show by members of the Howard County 4-H clubs were being assembled today at the fair grounds buildings.

The animals and their young exhibitors will leave early Sunday for the show. Judging will be on Tuesday of next week. An auction sale will be held the following Saturday night to climax the week's event.

Eight steers and five lambs are being shown by local boys and girls.

Big Spring 4-H clubbers who are showing steers are Wanda Boatler, Freddie White, Tommy Newton, Coahoma exhibitors are Delroy Buchanan and Roger Brooks; Vealmoor is represented by Jerry Iden; Knott by Joyce Robinson and Forsan by Gerry Hackridge.

Lambs are being shown by L. Nell Overton, H. K. Elrod, Muri Bailey, Harold King and Tommy Gilmore, all of Forsan.

SCIENTIST BELIEVES

Screwballs Best Space Crewmen

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

AP Science Reporter

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—A scientist said today that semi-screwballs might make the best crewmen for space ships.

Or perhaps Eskimos, or calm Buddhist monks.

The reason is that spacemen will face very tough psychological ordeals on long trips, and will need training or particular mind-sets to do it, said Donald M. Michael, Ph.D., Stamford, Conn.

Space exploring won't be all a delightful easy adventure, he told the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science.

It could mean living for months in cramped quarters... so cramped that in human reactions a close buddy becomes insufferable... long boredom... danger of meteors puncturing the ship... few if any games or recreation... silence... little stimulation of the ordinary human senses.

Dr. Michael, senior research associate of Dunlap and Associates, Inc., said volunteers "will necessarily be personality deviants" because so-called normal people wouldn't take such risks.

But this might not necessarily be so bad because the "nomad" people might not be able to put up with the psychological problems, he continued.

Schizophrenics or hermits might meet one condition—they don't depend upon others for psychological support. But they might not feel enough social obligation to do their jobs.

Eskimos or Buddhist monks might make good crewmen, since they aren't so concerned with time and are more sedentary, Dr. Michael said.

Some psychological problems might be solved by mixing the sexes, but this "might also add new but not unique problems."

Egypt Proposes Afro-Asian Common Market To Stall West

CAIRO (AP)—Egypt proposed today the establishment of a common market by African and Asian nations to counteract the new European common market.

The proposals were made to the economic committee of the African-Asian People's Conference which opened yesterday with the traditional slogans of Communist propaganda.

The committee heard the proposal by Abdel Razzak Hassan of Egypt behind closed doors. Some members protested that they wanted to hear a Soviet economic report before debating the proposal.

The Russian report was scheduled for a plenary session later. In the past Russia has tried to attract other developed nations to communism by painting glowing pictures of her economic progress.

The European common market of France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg, will go into effect Jan. 1. It will throw a single tariff wall around the six nations and provide privileged access to the countries for some products from African areas connected with them.

Some independent African countries have expressed fears that they will have a harder time selling raw materials to the six. Talk of countermeasures has also been heard in Latin-American nations that export to the common market area.

The Egyptian report said an African-Asian common market would promote cooperation among the nations as well as combating the European bloc.

Not a single kind word for the West was spoken yesterday by the 40 delegates from 30 nations and colonies. No more were expected today and the conference will probably go on this way until its scheduled end Jan. 1.

Since the delegations are non-official—some are composed of exiles—Lie conference is unrestricted by the normal diplomatic niceties of governments. The delegates have used this leeway to lambast the West.

Some Western observers have long felt that Russia's greatest efforts to win over African and Asian nations were by selling them communism as the best way to prosperity.

The Soviet report came at a time that Russia is stepping up her offers of economic aid to African and Asian nations.

Among targets of speeches at the opening session of the Egyptian-sponsored conference were nuclear weapons tests, the Eisenhower Doctrine, military alliances and foreign military bases.

There is a "gross discrepancy" between governments which continue nuclear tests and people who demand cessation of tests, said Serag el Din Abbas of Indonesia. "The people's movement opposed to atomic warfare is gaining ground," he declared.

An immediate ban on all laws even remotely imposing racial discrimination was asked by Foreign Minister Mohammed Ahmed Mahgoub of the Sudan.

A ban on weapons tests was also asked by the 45-member Japanese delegation, the largest in Cairo.

Truman Urges A Solid Front

NEW YORK (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman said today the most important thing at the moment is to patch up differences with friends and consolidate forces against totalitarianism.

Truman, here on a visit, made the observation to reporters accompanying him on his usual morning stroll. He discoursed on a variety of topics.

Asked if Americans are complacent, he replied that "Americans are always complacent until they're stirred up. Then we do the job that has to be done."

In reply to another question, Truman described as a very able person James R. Killian, newly appointed government missile program coordinator.

"If they give him the authority he can do the job," said Truman.

The satellite, carrying the dead dog, will be about 155 miles high.

changed Bennie. He doesn't drink any more. He has a steady girl and a steady job of sorts. He wants to go to school and learn to read.

Bennie works as a truck driver's helper for the Salvation Army at $17 a week (grant, not salary) plus room and board. He eats at the Army dining hall under a sign that says: "Jesus Never Fails."

"Sometimes it seems like he does fail," Bennie observes, "but I reckon it only seemed that way to me for a bit back there."

"Back there" is the time of the Grimes case. Bennie was arrested shortly after the girls' nude, frozen bodies were found beside a country road Jan. 22. Several skid row people reported seeing the sisters with a dishwasher and drifter known as "Bennie."

After three days of questioning, Bennie signed a confession. But the mother of the slain girls insisted Bennie was lying. She said her daughters never would be on skid row of their own free will and certainly not in the company of such a person. Bennie repudiated the confession.

Why did he confess? "I just wanted some peace," he said. "I wanted them to stop asking me questions. That's all I wanted was some peace of mind, for them to let me alone."

Dishwasher Gains Fame (Of A Sort)

By BERNARD GAVZER
CHICAGO, Dec. 27 — Fame, of a sort, came to Bennie Bedwell as he was sitting in a skid row movie house.

The law plucked the 20-year-old drifter and sometime dishwasher from his seat. For a brief time it held him up to the hard glare of public inspection as a suspect in one of Chicago's most lurid—and still unsolved—murders.

Then, with scarcely a ripple, it dropped him back into his twilight world of cheap flophouses, saloons and beaneries, where jingling pockets lead to a bottle and strange women.

During his brief flight from obscurity to notoriety, Bennie was accused of slaying the teen-aged Grimes sisters, Barbara and Patricia, who disappeared just a year ago today.

Bennie confessed (under police duress, he said). He recanted. He was freed. He was charged with rape in Florida, taken there, tried and acquitted.

The experiences seem to have little better off, but he still lagged behind his city brother. Farm net income went up two per cent, the second year of rise.

A sad pre-Christmas note was a growth in unemployment. The total unemployed in November, 3,200,000, was the highest for that month in eight years.

Manufacturers attempted to reduce inventories and this was a factor in curtailing demand for raw materials. Complaints of a profit-margin squeeze were heard as the year ended.

Briefly: auto output was the third biggest. Chrysler bounced back...steel production boomed early, fell shockingly as the year ended...cigarette sales boomed. A big switch toward filters continued...rails had troubles. The New York Central and the Pennsylvania started to study merging...more movie houses closed...new home building, slow early, picked up as the year ended.

Decision Due In Insurance Tax Case

OKLAHOMA CITY — State Insurance Commissioner Joe Hunt has promised a decision "as soon as possible" on the tax charges against Reserve Life Insurance Co. of Dallas.

Attorneys for the state insurance commissioner argued yesterday the company never actually owned $501.72 worth of Oklahoma securities on which it claimed tax exemptions totaling $76,000. The four-day hearing wound up yesterday.

Reserve claimed exemption from a 4 per cent state premium tax under a law waiving the tax for companies which invest as much as 30 per cent of their assets in Oklahoma securities.

Attorneys for the commissioner contend Reserve purchased the securities just a few days before the end of 1954, so they could be claimed, then sold them back immediately after the first of 1955. The state seeks to collect the premium tax on the ground the company never owned the bonds.

Economic Tide Turned Out During The Year

NEW YORK — The economic tide turned in 1957.

Instead of flowing in, it started flowing out. Debate raged as the year ended as to how long the new condition would last.

The turn was the biggest economic news of 1957. But before it came late in the year, a few new records were set. Here are some of the highlights:

Gross national product (the value of all goods produced and services rendered) set a new high of about 439 billion dollars.

Missiles made news. The United States fired guided missiles, intermediate range ballistic missiles and a "Far Side" rocket. But the Russians sent a dog circling "round the earth and stole the show."

Consumers spent more money than ever before but they probably bought less merchandise. Reason: what they bought cost them more.

Inflation may have been halted. It looked that way late in the year, but nobody knew for sure.

Tight money pinched many a borrower. It resulted from the Federal Reserve Board's tussle with inflation. Interest rates soared to the highest point in 25 years, slackened later.

It cost more to live. The consumer price index in September set a record high of 121.1 per cent of the 1947-49 index and stayed there in October. It may have eased a bit in November.

The bullish trend kept going in Wall Street. Stocks came close to reaching their bull market highs of 1956, then fell back to the lowest level since 1955.

The farmer found himself a ning meeting with a dinner served at 7 o'clock.

Jack Alexander, president-elect, will begin his official duties next Thursday. Horace Reagan, president for the past year, voiced his thanks to the membership for its cooperation in the year just ending.

130 May Die On New Year's

CHICAGO — The National Safety Council today estimated 130 Americans will die in traffic accidents during the New Year celebration.

The council predicted 100 fatalities on the streets and highways during the Christmas holiday. The total reached 225.

Statistics show that, since World War II, traffic deaths have been substantially lower during the New Year celebration than during the Christmas observance. One big factor is less long-distance travel. The lowest toll since World War II is 93, compiled during the one-day switch from 1946 to 1947.

The New Year period will run from 6 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 31 to that's 30 hours, the same as the Christmas period.

First Baptist Slates Student Night Service

SNAC (Student Night at Christmas) will be observed Sunday evening during the regular church service at the First Baptist Church. The theme for this year's SNAC is "We Believe... And So We Speak." The students of the various colleges will take part in the program.

Saturday at 1 p.m. a rehearsal will be held in the church auditorium. A coke party will be held after the rehearsal.

Tommy Pickle will be narrator for the Sunday evening program, and Mrs. Clyde Angel will be director of the verse choir. Speakers include Peggy Hogan, Baylor, whose subject will be "We speak by putting on the whole armor of God"; Pat Dunn, Texas Tech, "We speak by joining hands with one another to reach our captives for Christ"; and Robert Angel, Baylor University Medical College, "We speak by participating in the world mission of Christ."

Special music will be "Send Me, Oh Lord, Send Me," to be sung by the students. It was written by Ross Coggins, former BSU director at Texas Tech, and now a missionary to Indonesia.

Dr. P. D. O'Brien, pastor, will give the concluding message, "Christ in You Today and Tomorrow."

Kiwanians Hear Discussion Of Petrochemistry Potential

Ninety-seven per cent of the contents in a barrel of crude oil, when processed and refined, is utilized for energy purposes. It becomes fuel for engines of various types to turn the machinery and provide the transportation motivation for the nation.

Three per cent of the barrel of crude oil is used in a hundred other operations—all a part of a new and growing field called petrochemistry.

Dewey Mark, with the Cosden company, spoke before the Big Spring Kiwanis Club Thursday on what has been done with this remaining three per cent and of the many additional potentialities that is offered by it for the future.

He had samples of many of the products which come from the residue of the barrel of crude and he displayed the numerous raw materials which are separated from the crude oil as it goes through the processes of refining and processing.

Some of the widely used products which are dependent to a large degree on byproducts of petroleum he had on hand included nylon hosiery, aspirin tablets, saccharine, laundry detergents, synthetic rubber, and innumerable plastic bags, toys and dishes.

He foresaw a future when the use of elements included in the three per cent of the petroleum above its energy uses would be much more expanded than at this time.

Announcement was made that the club will meet next Thursday as usual.

On Jan. 9, annual ladies night for formal installation of officers will be conducted at the Cosden Country Club. This will be an eye-

Pilgrims In Holy Land

Lined up in front of the frontier post at Mandelbaum Gate to get travel orders checked are pilgrims preparing to cross from Israel into Jordan for a Christmas pilgrimage to Bethlehem. The inscription on the tent reads "Merry Xmas." The pilgrims crossed the armistice line at Mandelbaum Gate and walked about 200 yards across No Man's Land to the Jordan side of the barbed-wire-lined border. There they entered Jerusalem's old city section en route to the town of Christ's birth.

U.S. Spends $17 Billion On Missiles Since World War II

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has put more than 17 billion dollars into research, development and production of missiles since it began work on them during World War II.

All but about half a billion dollars of the total has been programmed since the beginning of the Korean War in 1950 set off the rearmament program.

Congressional committees are investigating or preparing to investigate the whole missile program. They will try to determine whether the Pentagon has been diligent in spending the money provided by Congress and whether it has had enough funds.

Figures made available at the Pentagon today show that $17.2 billion has been assigned to missile programs since "fiscal year 1945 and prior." The figure includes an estimated $4,638,000,000 for the current fiscal year, but does not take into account an extra billion dollars which Secretary of Defense McElroy has said he will ask from Congress.

A Defense Department summary said the total includes "the cost of bringing guided missile weapon systems to an operational status, research and development, production facility expansion and tooling, procurement, contract and military overhead to support missile testing and certain construction costs for research and development."

It does not include such items as the cost of running operational sites, like those for the Nike anti-aircraft missile.

From the time the services began analyzing captured German missiles late in World War II and studying development of their own weapons through June 30, 1946, the total missile program amounted to about 70 million dollars. During the 1947 fiscal year ending June 30, 1947, the outlay was 58 million dollars, then started climbing to 81 millions in 1948, and to 98 millions in 1949. It reached 134 millions in fiscal 1950—which ended about the time the Communists attacked in Korea.

Although there is little evidence that the United States was aware at that time of Russia's intensifying interest in missiles, the inception of the Korean conflict revealed Soviet technological capability in new jet aircraft, and along with other military spending increases, the allocation for work on U. S. missiles jumped to 784 millions in fiscal 1951.

The figure rose to $1,058,000,000 in 1952, and to $1,166,000,000 in 1953.

It dropped back a bit to $1,067,000,000 in fiscal 1954, the first full fiscal year of the Eisenhower administration.

But the program outlay moved up again to $1,470,000,000 in the year ended June 30, 1955; climbed to $2,270,000,000 the next year; to $4,284,000,000 in fiscal 1957; and to $4,638,000,000 estimated for the current year.

A Pentagon spokesman said no analysis is yet available on how the missile obligation items for each fiscal year, as approved by Congress, compared with the requests from the military.

Hilliary Within 280 Miles Of Pole

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (AP)—The Ross Sea Committee reported today that Sir Edmund Hillary's party is 280 miles from the South Pole and may reach the U.S. station there by New Year's Day.

Committee Secretary A. S. Helm said the New Zealand explorer's five-man party covered another 40 miles during the night but had run into soft snow when they found the going difficult. The night before Hillary made 56 miles.

Helm again denied that there was any idea of a race between Hillary and British members of a Commonwealth transantarctic expedition which is heading for the South Pole from the opposite direction in a trek completely across Antarctica.

Charities Lose Battle Over Will

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A traffic policeman and two bellhops have agreed to settle for $200,000 in a legal battle for the $1,200,000 estate of Mrs. Anna M. Haerer. The remainder of the estate will be divided among four charities.

The out-of-court agreement provided for the trio to split their $200,000 portion. A contest with the charities began when two wills were filed for probate after Mrs. Haerer died July 29, 1955, in the Bellevue Stratford Hotel. One will, signed in 1946, left her estate to William T. Miller, 63, a traffic policeman outside the hotel for nearly 30 years; Anthony D'Elia, 51, Bellevue-Stratford bellboy captain for 30 years; and William B. Dexter, 68, a retired bellboy.

A will signed in 1944 had bequeathed her estate to the Women's Auxiliary of St. Edmond's home for Crippled Children, the Women's Auxiliary of Misericordia Hospital, separately, and St. Joseph's House for Homeless Industrious Boys.

The charities contended the second will was written after the three men exerted undue influence on Mrs. Haerer, who lived in the hotel.

Storms Diminish In Eastern Areas

By Associated Press

Storms diminished in most of the Eastern sections of the country but it was wet and windy in parts of the Northwest Mid-continent.

It was colder over most of the country from the Mississippi Valley eastward to the Atlantic Coast, but no severe cold was reported.

Skies cleared during the night across the rain-swept Eastern states from Virginia southward to Florida, but the storm center intensified as it moved northward and spread heavy rains across New England. But the wet belt which covered much of the Northeast quarter of the country diminished. Rainfall amounts measured from 1 to 2½ inches in central New England.

Snow flurries were reported in the colder air extending from the upper Ohio Valley through the higher elevations of Pennsylvania and New York.

A Bible Thought For Today

And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are the called according to his purpose. (Romans 8:28)

You Can't Wreck And Have It, Too

The Soviet no sooner wrecks one "disarmament" conference than it launches a campaign for another, the idea being that as long as the Communist organs of propaganda and Communist organs can keep harping on "peace, peace," and "disarmament, disarmament," gullible people will swallow the notion that only the Soviet sincerely desires peace and disarmament.

The late unlamented London disarmament parley dragged on for weary months with nothing done. It foundered on the rock of Soviet intransigence, like many of its predecessors.

But the Soviet hit the ground running, yelling for another conference. So the United Nations cooked up a disarmament committee of broadened scope, this one to include 25 nations. The ink hadn't dried on the resolution before Moscow refused to have anything to do with it.

Instead, the Soviet started talking about one that would include all 82 members of U. N. Mr. Dulles pointed out the obvious: a meeting of 82 nations couldn't possibly be a negotiating body, but could only lay down general principles.

Mr. Eisenhower declared the NATO nations are "in deadly earnest" in their desire to find a formula for cutting down the burden of world armaments. But he said what is needed is clear evidence of Communist integrity and sincerity "and a spirit of cooperation on both sides."

Even if iron-clad guarantees, backed up by unhampered international inspection of stockpiles and facilities, should produce nuclear disarmament it would be suicidal for the United States to become a party to it, for the simple reason that in manpower and conventional methods of warfare the Communist world would have the overwhelming advantage. If it takes two years or five years for us to catch up with the Soviet in ballistic missiles, it would take twice as long to catch up with the Communist nations in non-nuclear, conventional war-making machinery and trained manpower. For as long as we must deal with Soviet communism any form of disarmament that includes nuclear weapons is out of the question, even if all the safety measures to insure compliance it is possible to devise are adhered to.

We still string along with the wisdom of George Washington, whose formula regarding peace through strength has long been printed at the top of this column.

No Room For Reservations Here

In Mobile, Ala., U. S. District Judge Daniel H. Thomas took under advisement a case of a sort he never had to weigh before.

An English-born woman, mother of two small children, applied for naturalization papers—with fingers crossed. She took exception to that part of the oath requiring a promise to bear arms against any foreign country involved in a war with the United States.

"But this would not stop me from loving America," she told the judge, "I want to be a loyal citizen of this country and I would be that." She said she would bear arms against Russia or any other country except England.

We would be improper to speculate on the court's decision; but we can think of a few old saws that seem to fit this situation pretty good.

For instance, love me, love my dog.

Take it or leave it. Beggars shouldn't be choosers.

The Congress makes the laws. The Constitution says thus and so. Oaths of office and of fealty to the United States of America are reasonable and just. Hundreds of millions of American citizens, first and last, have taken them without reservation. They were not allowed to pick and choose this phrase or that, rejecting some, embracing others.

We are not so hard up for citizens that we need to let them come into the brotherhood on their own terms.

Americans are made in two ways: by being born Americans, and by being naturalized. They don't ask to be born, but they are proud of their birthright. Those who ask to be naturalized should not try to rewrite or modify their terms of admission.

Whole hog or none, sister.

In Defense Of Secretary Dulles

WASHINGTON—Two men sat and talked together before the nation. Monday night in a television broadcast—the President of the United States and the secretary of state. But if Soviet Russia had had her way, they would not be sitting together—indeed, Mr. Dulles would not be in public office at all.

For the rulers of the Soviet Union think that Mr. Dulles is an obstacle to their designs for world conquest. They think they could manipulate some other secretary of state and that Mr. Eisenhower would become "soft" in his dealings with Moscow if somebody else besides Mr. Dulles sat at his elbow advising him.

This mistaken, but nevertheless ingrained, view is held by high Russian officials who, in the last few days, have expressed themselves boldly to that effect to some diplomats of the West.

"If only Dulles could be gotten out of the way" is the refrain from the Communist side.

Strangely enough, the Communist propaganda which has been insidiously infiltrating various capitals of the world for the last several months with this viewpoint has been getting support from diplomats here and there and some politicians and writers in the western world.

Thus, in Britain a wing of the Conservative party feels so resentful against Secretary Dulles, because he thwarted armed intervention in the Suez dispute in 1956, that various newspapers still reflect a bitter point of view and keep up a steady stream of speculative stories about when Mr. Dulles might resign.

Yet had it not been for the advice given the President by Mr. Dulles, the debacle in Egypt would have bankrupted Britain and France and would have left its wretched a guerrilla war that would still be going on. Some day in Paris and London they will appreciate what Mr. Dulles did to save them.

Propaganda to force Mr. Dulles out has, in this country, partisan sponsors and partisan objectives. This doesn't need any Communist inspiration and has nothing to do with Soviet schemes. The Republicans fought Secretary Acheson in much the same way that the Democrats are conducting their warfare now against Secretary Dulles.

Why We Fell Behind

WASHINGTON — Fat, happy and half asleep.

That's the essential picture of America in 1957 which emerged from the testimony of witness after witness before the Senate committee investigating why this country fell behind Russia in the military weapons of the future.

So 1958 will be a kind of gymnasium for us to get back in shape.

How to do it—how to drive a democracy into outstripping a dictatorship by some sacrifices without relinquishing some liberties—the problem facing Congress next year.

This year we went in for bigger cars that burned more gas than cost more money.

We bought fancier homes and appliances and better clothes. We put more money in the bank. We longed for a tax cut. We were well fed and content.

We slowed down missile-making to save on overtime. We went less than all-out on satellites and missiles, forgetting the effect the Russians' missiles and Sputniks would have on the rest of the world if they got their earth-climbers aloft first.

The Kremlin could do as it pleased. It could, as it did in the past, sacrifice generations to win the future. It could tell the Russian people what they could and couldn't have.

And it did. It left them on a living scale far below ours while it pumped its brains and resources into weapons which, unless we woke up, would leave us at their mercy someday.

It isn't the first time something like this happened to us. It happened in the 1930s—although we were struggling out of a depression then—when Hitler was arming and frankly threatening to take over the world.

But our isolation is gone. Russian missiles soon should be able to span the ocean in minutes. If the new kind of war comes we'll either be ready or have to be ready to die. We don't know how much time we have to get ready.

If the cold war with Russia lasts long enough, and becomes intense enough, it's possible we may feel it necessary to sacrifice some liberties even before a shot is fired.

It is even possible, in the struggle for survival against dictatorship, that we might vote ourselves into a dictatorship, although there's no sign now that such a drastic step will be necessary.

It's the task of Congress to see that doesn't become necessary by devising ways, within a still functioning and free society, to match the concentrated power of a dictatorship by the voluntary efforts of democratic people.

There is no need for a full pen of ink to set down my resolutions this year. At 46 the inexorable erosion of nature and slowing arteries turn a man into as much of a nobleman as he is ever likely to become. It is the passage of time, not the growth of character, that turns most men into angels.

The only good resolution a man needs to make in middle age, written with an interior urgency apparent only to him, is this: "Keep living!"

And a Happy New Year to you, too.

Notes On Holiday Drivers

Notes from a 600-mile holiday tour: I wasn't a bit surprised to get back to the news desk and discover wire service reports of the holiday traffic slaughter. I saw no wrecks on this particular trip, but here were some near-misses:

North of San Angelo, some goober-head driving without lights on a pitch-black evening. Nearly ran another car into the road, as the near-victim came up from behind at a moderate speed.

Too many drivers, especially in farming areas, traveling from 30 to 35 m.p.h. on a public highway. Going too slow is just about as dangerous as going too fast, with anything less than 45 becoming dangerous in a 60-m.p.h. speed zone. Also, it's these slow ducks who generally may be counted upon to bounce onto the highway from off a farm road, neither looking nor stopping.

There was the usual quota of speeders, but these seem to be a bit more careful than they were a few years ago. Seldom does a car pass me nowadays without first checking the road ahead to see if it's clear, and there are only a few who sweep around me on a blind curve or under the crest of a hill.

The Highway Patrol had a radar trap set up just outside Eden, and the cops were hauling 'em in by the dozens. I couldn't resist an I-told-you-so snigger at the culprits as the officers waved me on. Cars of radar victims had been pulled off onto a wide shoulder and stacked up until it resembled a parking lot at the height of the Yuletide shopping season.

Now to switch to an only slightly more pleasant subject: radio programs on Christmas Day.

On my car radio, I am able to pick up just about any station one may receive on the average home-based radio, such as Denver, Shreveport, Salt Lake City, Chicago, plus a varied assortment of area stations. During my trip, I was in range of just about every local station in Texas, plus the more powerful continent-spanning stations. Last Sunday, Christmas programs of the type I like were all one could get on practically any station. But on Christmas Day, what few Christmas programs were available featured the latest hit songs from Tin Pan Alley or some mediocre and amateurish Yuletide soap opera.

On Christmas Day, there were a pitiful few of the carols of more ancient vintage, but plenty of recordings of new tunes by Elvis Presley and Frank Sinatra. But maybe I'm being too critical. Maybe I'm just too old-fashioned to appreciate anything but the traditional where Christmas music is concerned.

A Willingness To Negotiate

As was expected by the authors of the NATO communique, the Soviet government has promptly rejected their proposal to negotiate about disarmament. This may give some satisfaction to those who believe that to negotiate with the Soviet Union is a danger to the Western world, and that our security and salvation lie in a steadfast and stony refusal to be drawn into serious diplomatic conversations.

I think that those who take this view are greatly mistaken, and that if we persist in making a policy of not wanting to negotiate, we shall do incalculable and perhaps irreparable harm to our position in the world. For this policy, which is incarnate in Mr. Dulles personally, is tantamount to granting the Soviet government a monopoly on the issue of peace. It is a guarantee that we ourselves will not compete in this field, that the Soviet government can make any proposals it chooses with no real risk of having its hand called. The policy carries with it a built-in certainty that the United States will accept the onus in the eyes of mankind of having made it inevitable that all peace proposals come to nothing.

It is not often that a great power makes it so easy for its rivals.

The next three years or so will be a critical time for the NATO alliance. On the most optimistic assumptions, it will take at least that long to begin to close the gap which has been opened up between the rate of Soviet and the rate of American military technological progress. It is almost certain that in the years immediately ahead the gap will become wider rather than narrower. This will mean that for a critical period our European allies will feel themselves to be more and more vulnerable.

The coming three years will also be a period of great political uncertainty among the leading NATO powers. President Eisenhower has three more years to serve, and then there will be a President.

At the very least, despite the best efforts of Mr. Hagerty, it is only too evident that the President has very limited reserves of energy. In Great Britain, there will be an election during this critical period. In Germany, Dr. Adenauer is not getting any younger. There is no telling what will happen in France.

The chances are better than even that in the course of the next three years the leading NATO powers in Europe will become less willing than they are now to stand where Mr. Dulles stands. Even now, Dr. Adenauer and Mr. Macmillan had to insist at Paris that Mr. Dulles do something to disguise his inflexibility.

The real danger in the Dulles policy is that if the United States does not lead the Western world in the effort to negotiate peace, there will be an explosion of nationalist and nationalist sentiment which will shatter the alliance. What we are doing under Mr. Dulles' domination of our foreign policy is to renounce the political leadership of the Western Alliance. We are alienating the confidence and affection of the peoples of the alliance. We are preparing the way for a political crisis in which it will be each nation for itself, and the devil take the hindmost.

In saying this, I have no illusion whatsoever that an over-all general settlement can be negotiated with the Soviet Union, now or in the foreseeable future. On the contrary, I feel sure that no such general settlement is in prospect.

What may be possible is a series of limited, localized, specific agreements—made one at a time, quietly and carefully negotiated. It should be the assumption of our foreign policy that agreements of this kind are possible. We should proclaim the assumption through someone who believes that they are possible. And on that assumption we should then be steadfast and persevering. (Copyright, 1957, New York Herald Tribune Inc.)

The Ageless Christmas Dinner

There are days when my fondest dream is to take a good stout ax to both the telephone and Don Ameche.

And then there are days, such as Christmas, when it spans oceans and continents and a family, scattered around the world, is united for a few joyous and tenuous moments. Then, briefly, this gadget of doubtful worth, takes on meaning, purpose and worth.

It would be a fascinating statistic to pin down the valuable amount of wire time taken up yesterday by members of loving families shouting, "Hello, hello. How are you?" at each other before actually getting down to the business of swapping family news and views.

It was obvious Wednesday from the moment Aunt Nellie Virginia and then Aunt Kittie Lee picked up the telephone receiver in Nampa, Idaho, that both girls, now well into their eighties, were at the top of their form, which is pretty special.

For 60 years, with only one exception, Aunt Nell has cooked the family Christmas dinner (Aunt Kitt takes on the Thanksgiving feast) and her only complaint yesterday was the sad fact that literally there is no family left in the valley any longer to drool over her cuisine.

"Only five for dinner today," she said. "It hardly seems worth the bother." And it carried me back to the days when the Christmas table was always crowded with 20 to 30 persons of all ages, and Uncle Charlie carved a turkey at one end of the table and Uncle Ted carved a second at the other end.

"But you're still having the same menu?" I asked, in real alarm.

"Of course," she said, and I relaxed happily at my end of the phone. Once, years ago, Aunt Nell tried to change the menu. The family rose as a man in righteous indignation.

This may be a changing world, but Aunt Nell's Christmas dinner—and those of us thousands of miles away want no trifling with it—is a fixed feast of crab-meat cocktail, cream of vegetable soup, and turkey with all the trimmings, followed by plum pudding and-or mince pies and an ocean of coffee, hot, strong and black as a derby.

Aunt Kitt came on the line to say that she was contributing a batch of her unsurpassed light rolls. And, 2,800 miles away, I could fairly smell the kitchen perfumes with the turkey in the oven, and see the pan of light rolls, under an immaculate dish towel, slowing rising to the occasion.

Santa, they said, had been marvelous to them. And they promised to try to be reconciled to the infernal machine (in their opinions), a new teevee set wished in them by some of the younger members of the family.

Both are great readers, by avocation, and they have stoutly resisted teevee for years in the belief that really nice people, that is, literate persons, READ and don't just look.

"Honestly, there are worthwhile, intellectual programs on teevee," I cried across the continent. I could fairly hear the sniff before Aunt Kitt, who at 83 took to lecturing on pioneer life and times, said, "Well, we'll give it a chance."

Then, like thousands of other American families held together by a thin, miraculous wire, we cried our love and greetings to each other, and for a few precious moments, we had the illusion of being together on Christmas Day. (Copyright 1957, United Features Syndicate)

A Report To The Nation

President Eisenhower listens as Secretary of State John Foster Dulles talks during their radio-television report to America in Washington, D. C., on last week's NATO council meeting in Paris. Ike tossed back to Moscow responsibility for making the next move to "reduce world tensions" and open the path to disarmament and peace. Dulles all but spurned Russia's recent call for "a special session of the United Nations or an international conference."

1957 Was The Year Of The Big Switch In California Politics

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The year of the Big Switch—that's 1957 in California politics.

It's a tossup as to who contributed the biggest switch:

William F. Knowland, who decided he'd rather be governor than California's senior senator and Republican leader of the Senate, or Goodwin J. Knight, who announced and renounced his candidacy for governor, then settled for a bid for the U. S. Senate.

The Knight-Knowland shuffle caused a chain reaction. Half a dozen or more candidates for various offices, but mostly the Senate, withdrew or scaled down their aspirations.

Knight, by stepping out of Knowland's way, avoided what many party leaders feared would lead to a disastrous battle in the Republican gubernatorial primary.

Brown Seaweed Man's 'Ancestor'

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Man evolved from brown seaweed, a biologist declared today.

Describing the new theory of evolution he said: "All life is from modified plant life, derived a billion years or so ago from a common ancestor with the brown seaweed."

From recent new evidence "we are forced to conclude that all life belongs to only one kingdom, which in all honesty must be recognized as the kingdom of plants," said Lawrence S. Dillon, Ph.D., associate professor of biology at Texas A&M College.

D. Dillon outlined the revolutionary theory to the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science.

It is based upon many studies tracing evolution in a new way. This method traces the evolutionary pattern by changes and developments in the internal structures of living cells. Different types of living things are classified according to their cell structure and complexities.

This all points to plants as the beginning of life on earth. The older theory of evolution is that life somehow began spontaneously. These first living things developed into plants on one hand and animals on the other.

The new idea is that blue-green algae, a form of microscopic plant life, are the simplest living things. Dr. Dillon explained that these evolved some types of bacteria, then yeasts, then more complex forms of life.

The green algae and higher plants such as ferns, trees and roses form one of the two top branches of the tree.

Yellow algae and red and brown seaweed form the other branch. High animals apparently evolved from this branch by some unknown process, Dr. Dillon said.

Fire Cuts Heart Out Of Town

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (AP)—A wind-whipped fire cut the heart out of this Nova Scotia coal town's business section early today, but Mayor Ralph Gilroy said: "We'll carry on if only half the main street is left."

He said Springhill, which lost 39 men in a mine disaster last year, will ask for government aid immediately. "We'll never say die," he said.

Gilroy repeated the gloomy forecast he made at the height of the fire that most of the town's business houses would never be built up again.

He estimated the loss at a minimum of a million dollars and said 20 per cent of the town's tax revenue came from the burned out businesses.

"I'm the 13th mayor of this town," he added, "and everything's happened now that can."

'Greetings'

Elvis Presley, his pup "Dook" tucked under his arm, studies the notice of induction into the Armed Forces he received at Memphis, Tenn. The teen-ager's rock and roll idol was ordered to report Jan. 20. He said he is ready and willing. However, in Hollywood, Paramount Pictures said it will ask for an 8-week delay so Presley can fulfill a movie commitment. The studio said it stands to lose $300,000 to $350,000 already sunk in the picture if Presley doesn't show up.

Moderate-Conservative Split May Open Guatemala To Left

GUATEMALA (AP)—Guatemala makes another try at regaining political stability in elections Jan. 19, but a split between the moderates and the Conservatives may open the back door to an active leftist party.

Many observers expect violence no matter what the vote count shows.

Once communism's beachhead in Central America, this strategically located republic has been in political ferment since the assassination last July of President Carlos Castillo Armas, who kicked out the Communists in a 1954 coup.

The country was ruled by the Castillo government until the Oct. 10 election, in which leftists were kept off the ballot. The government party, the Nationalist Democratic Movement (MDN), then claimed an overwhelming victory for moderate Miguel Ortiz Passa-relli. But his Conservative opponent, Gen. Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes, claimed fraud. Riots brought a military junta to power briefly and forced Congress to nullify the election. Former Vice President Guillermo Flores Avendano is now provisional president.

Now Guatemala will try again to elect a president. Ydigoras again is on the ballot representing the Conservative interests. The MDN has put up Lt. Col. Jose

Luis Cruz Salazar, former ambassador to Washington. Col. J. E. Ardon, former manager of the national lottery, is running as a lone wolf with negligible backing. But this political unknown may siphon off even more anti-Communist votes from any united front.

There is no candidate with government backing, which often counts heavily in Latin-American elections.

Facing this split in the anti-Communist ranks is Mario Mendez Montenegro of the Leftist Revolutionary party.

Observers doubt that any of the major candidates can gain the necessary majority. This would leave Congress a choice between the two front-runners.

During the campaigning more than a dozen figures of the Communist-tinged regime of President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman have returned from exile either openly or in secret. Some are former Cabinet ministers.

The government has expelled only a few, who were called out-right Communists. The others remain.

The Communists are not believed happy with Mendez Montenegro, who has denied any ties with them. But they are reported to be working quietly for him in the hope that his victory would build a bridge for their return to influence.

Japs Arrest Four Government Officials

TOKYO (AP)—Police searched the homes and offices of four government officials early today and seized documents which a spokesman said may lead to their arrest on charges of passing government secrets to the Communists.

A Metropolitan Police Board spokesman said the four were suspected of having passed secret government papers to a Communist agent. The search involved officials of the Ministry of Forestry and Agriculture, Ministry of Finance, and Economic Planning Board.

Whether a network of Communist agents or sympathizers exists within government agencies is unknown yet, the police spokesman added.

Italian Trio Heading Home

PORT ARTHUR (AP)—A trio of Italians, who said they bought passage as stowaways to get into the United States, today were awaiting shipment back home, wiser but poorer.

They were arrested in a routine check at a bus station Tuesday in Mobile, Ala. They gave their names as Giovanni Dilluvio, 34, Alberto Maggiore, 24, and Francesco Giallombardo, 24. They said they were natives of Sicily, Italy and they reached Port Arthur Sunday and boarded a bus for New York where one of them has relatives.

John Owens, chief immigration officer at Houston, said they paid an unidentified seaman in Rotterdam a total of $840 for "passage" to the United States.

The men told an interpreter they hid behind a tank in the engine room of an Italian ship that docked here. Another seaman, whom they said they didn't see during the trip, slipped them food from time to time.

The men were placed in custody of the ship's captain. The ship was due to sail today or tomorrow.

Device Spurs Heart Checks

WARREN, Mich. (AP)—A device that reportedly picks up the heart's tiniest movements is being used to hear heart murmurs that previously eluded the most sensitive instruments.

It is hoped it will aid in earlier detection of heart disease.

The device, developed by Dr. Dale Groom of the Medical College of South Carolina and Yro T. Sihvonen of the General Motors Technical Center here, is in operation at Medical College Hospital at Charleston, S. C.

Known as a capacitance heart sound pickup, it was developed along the lines of a tool the automotive industry uses to measure engine pressure.

The device is contained in a small bell-shaped housing similar to the end of a physician's stethoscope. It receives the sounds of chest wall movements, with a range down to movements of one-half billionth of an inch, and converts them into electrical signals.

These signals are reproduced on an oscilloscope where they can be photographed or recorded on tape. Direct tapping of the heart is not necessary. The subject's chest skin serves as an electrode.

Latest Sonotone hearing aid is WORN ENTIRELY IN THE EAR—no cord, nothing worn anywhere else. Weighs only half an ounce.

Fines Levied, Bonds Posted

Lillard H. Hardeman and H. C. Crawford, arrested by city police on charges of driving motor cars while under influence of intoxicants, pleaded guilty in county court Thursday.

Each was fined $100 and sentenced to serve 10 days in the county jail.

Both drivers were involved in automobile accidents, officers said.

Thomas Shelby Baxter, arrested for speeding and for operating a motor vehicle with license suspended, posted $500 bond in each complaint. He has been released from custody.

Edgar Lawhon, arrested first on a charge of aggravated assault, posted $1,000 bond in that case and was released. He was rearrested on a charge of driving an automobile with driver's license suspended. He posted a second $500 bond in this case and again was freed.

Adenauer Aide Is Liberty Supporter

BONN, Germany, Dec. 27 (AP) — On a summer day in 1949, in a small village in southern Germany, a dozen men sat over glasses of weak postwar beer in a local inn. They were waiting for the arrival of their candidate for the first federal elections in the Bonn Republic.

At last he came—a chubby, red-checked man, chewing on a black cigar. In heavy, Bavarian dialect, he told the gathering his ideas of free enterprise.

It was in scenes such as this that Ludwig Erhard launched his political career. Today he is West Germany's economic chief, vice chancellor of the federal republic and the man most likely to succeed 81-year-old Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

In those days few people had heard of the sturdy economics professor from Furtth in Bavaria. He had never fussed with politics before.

He was well known to his colleagues, but his ideas about free enterprise seemed to many an economic expert more than doubtful.

Once launched on his political career, Erhard achieved swift success. Five weeks after his election to Parliament, he became the first economics minister of West Germany.

Half a year later he became a member of the Christian Democrats and forthwith one of the Adenauer standard bearers. Although politics plays a major role in Erhard's life today, his background is entirely that of an economic expert.

The American Military Government made him economics minister in Bavaria for a while in 1946 but his ideas did not suit some officers and he was forced to leave the post. Afterwards, he became a professor at the University of Munich until he went to the biznial council in Frankfurt. He is married and has one daughter, Brigitte.

Erhard's view of free enterprise is that the state should keep its hands off the economy and not seek to dictate or plan it. This, however, does not give business the right to do anything it wants. It must serve all the people, not just a segment.

When businesses achieve their freedom, the state has the right and the duty to interfere. The government must be a sort of responsible referee.

Erhard declares that business can be forced to be responsible all by itself: simply by free competition.

Demos' Congress Strength To Grow

WASHINGTON (AP)—The decision of five Republican senators not to run again has tipped the odds strongly in favor of strengthened Democratic control of the Senate in next year's elections.

Retirement announcements by GOP Senators Jenner of Indiana, H. Alexander Smith of New Jersey, Knowland of California, Payne of Maine and Edward Martin of Pennsylvania left some gaping holes for Republican campaigners to fill.

Outnumbered 50-46 by Democrats in the Senate, the Republicans faced an uphill battle even before the five announced they would not seek re-election.

The net effect of these announcements has been to add New Jersey, California and Pennsylvania to the list of tossup senatorial races.

Payne may reconsider in Maine. If he does not, Democratic Gov. Edmund S. Muskie would be regarded as likely to give any other Republican a hard time, provided he ran.

Indiana Republicans, although split, seem confident they won't lose a Senate seat despite the unexpected decision by Jenner to bow out. If Jenner quits before his term ends, GOP Gov. Harold W. Handley might wind up in the Senate with the expectation of running in 1958 for a full six-year term.

GOP Gov. Goodwin J. Knight, crowded out of the race for re-election by Knowland, had expected to get the California Republican senatorial nomination with little or no opposition. But it now looks as though he faces a bitter battle in the primary next June, despite the withdrawal of at least one of his prospective opponents.

Two announced GOP senatorial candidates in New Jersey are Bernard Shanley, former appointments secretary to President Eisenhower, and Rep. Kean.

Martin's proposed retirement in Pennsylvania has not yet brought forth any outstanding GOP candidate to replace him.

There will be 20 Republican Senate seats at stake in 1958 and only 12 held by the Democrats. Of the 12, five in the number are certain to return Democrats. In six other states, Democrats are well entrenched and would be considered the favorites in re-election contests.

Scott Gets Life Term

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The rest of his life in prison, instead of death in the state's gas chamber, has been decreed for L. Ewing Scott.

The penalty verdict was returned last night by the same jury which convicted him last Saturday of murdering his wealthy wife Evelyn, 63. She disappeared from their fashionable Bel-Air home 2½ years ago and has not been seen since.

The 61-year-old former stockbroker took the verdict calmly.

At the words "imprisonment for life," he pursed his lips and raised his hand to smother a cough.

"Mr. Scott is pleased, obviously," his chief defense counsel, P. Basil Lambros, said later. "He said nothing except, 'I want to see you tomorrow morning so that we can go to work on the motion for a new trial.'"

The motion was made by Lambros when Superior Judge Clement D. Nye set Jan. 14 for the formality of pronouncing sentence. The motion can be argued then or within 10 days thereafter.

This was the first use of Los Angeles County of a new California court procedure in death-penalty cases. The jury determines guilt and punishment at separate proceedings.

Scott was convicted solely on circumstantial evidence since no trace of his wife has been found. He fled to Canada nearly a year after her disappearance and was arrested last April at the Canadian border near Detroit.

Army Reviewing Security 'Risks'

NEW YORK (AP)—The Army is reviewing the cases of every soldier discharged as a security risk between 1948 and 1955, the New York Times said today.

When the earlier findings now appear too harsh, the nature of the man's discharge has been upgraded or the security label removed, according to a Washington dispatch to the paper.

The Times story also said: The Army undertook the program voluntarily. The men affected generally know nothing of the review unless the service decides to improve their type of discharge.

The cases are being reconsidered in the light of less restrictive security standards laid down in two directives late in 1955.

Postmen Pick Up New Burden

Now that the Big Spring postmen have completed their monumental task of handling the Christmas mail they can turn their attention to a second assignment—the distribution of some 40 mail bags filled with mid-winter sales catalogs of three major mail order houses in the United States.

Elmer Boatler, postmaster said that 40 bags of catalogs were received from Montgomery Ward, Sears, Roebuck and Spiegle's just before the Christmas rush hit. They were laid back out of the way and are now being distributed.

The big annual catalogs of the firms have not as yet been received by the local post office. They usually show up in January and come in freight cars to the local office for general redistribution to other post offices in all parts of West Texas.

Smith To Stay In Office Until C-C Manager Is Named

Wayne B. (Red) Smith will remain on duty as Chamber of Commerce manager here until a new manager is chosen and takes over the post, he said today.

Smith also reported he plans to be available as long as he is needed for orientation of the new manager.

A special Chamber of Commerce committee is now screening applications for the manager post and has interviewed some applicants. However, no selection has been made.

Smith, Chamber manager here since October, 1956, turned in his resignation early in December, asking that it be made effective Jan. 1.

He will become district representative for Franklin Life Insurance Co. here Jan. 1 and will open an office at 614 Permian Building on that date. However, Smith said he will remain in the Chamber of Commerce office as long as he can be of service.

Housing Shortage Acute In Lamesa

LAMESA—The acute shortage of rental housing in Lamesa was pointed up again this week when the recently appointed county home demonstration agent, Mrs. C. E. Hartfield, said she had been unable to find a home large enough for her family.

She and her husband, an oilfield career man, have four children, ages seven to 12 years, and need to find a three bedroom house. The new agent is to report for duty on Jan. 8, but hopes to move by Jan. 2 so the children can enter school here on that day.

A native of Palestine, the new agent attended public schools there and in Dallas. She moved recently to Midland from Victoria where she had taught homemaker in the high school. She has been dietitian at hospitals in Victoria, Port Lavaca, Dallas and Hannaford, Calif.

COURT

evidence may be offered by any and all parties.

"Further, the court should retain jurisdiction to require compliance with its judgment," the decision directed.

The decision also said: "We thought, and still think, that this court's mandate made it clear that before a more specific date should be fixed and before any orders or judgments should be entered to require compliance with the judgment directed in that mandate, the school authorities should be accorded a reasonable further opportunity to meet their primary responsibility."

The court denied the petition for a writ of mandamus that the school board had asked this fall to force Atwell to delete a specific date for integration from its order. Instead, the court ruled that the district court must follow the original mandate of the appeals court given in September, which sets no specific date. It ruled that in view of the reversal of Atwell's order, the petition for mandamus against him was not necessary.

Against the plea of the school board that it needed more time, the NAACP has contended that the board has had two years in which to begin integration, since the original suit was filed in 1955.

The decision had been awaited fearfully by Dallas school authorities. Had it required mid-term integration, the authorities said, the school system would be badly disrupted.

"UNCONSTITUTIONAL"
Rippy, the School Board president, said of today's decision: "In my opinion, this decision is in line with the original Supreme Court decree (that school segregation is unconstitutional). The actual decree meant that school districts should establish their own timing for integration. That's what the Dallas board has wished to do."

"Undoubtedly after the holidays are over, the School Board will give public consideration to the question of planning for integration."

"It is probable that the board will announce its plans for future integration in early summer."

The School Board has been issuing periodic reports on its status of the integration problem, but has offered no solution.

Citizens of Dallas long had feared integration could bring troubles somewhat similar to those in Little Rock this fall, when screaming mobs fought police and hard-bitten paratroopers in protest against the entry of nine Negroes into Central High School. The school now is integrated under guard of federalized National Guard troops.

Latest figures show Dallas has 18,807 students enrolled, of which 18,807 are Negroes.

Uncle Sam To Lend Business A Helping Hand In New Year

BY SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Uncle Sam will be lending business a boosting hand as the new year starts.

There are widespread doubts as to how effective it will be, but it signals a reversal of attitude in Washington from late summer's economy drive.

Now defense orders are being stepped up again. Wall Street is quick to take note—not only of the actual orders but also sometimes of mere rumors of orders.

The Federal Reserve Board lowered the discount rate—the interest it charges banks when it lends them money. This didn't make money really easy, mainly because the banks weren't being pressed to lend funds to business and didn't step up their borrowing from the Federal Reserve.

But the action from an official seal on the change from fearing inflation to worrying about recession.

Now the Department of Commerce is admitting the noticeable shift in business conditions showing up since September in the down trend in industrial output, factory employment, personal income and retail sales, and the leveling off of prices and of demand for investment funds.

To counter this, Washington is trying two measures. The first is to ease up on the tight money that was aimed at holding inflation in check. How much of a cure this will be is yet to be seen. Just lowering interest rates doesn't make a business firm borrow to expand or to carry inventories or to speed up production.

The second measure is more direct. The Treasury is loosening its purse strings as much as it can without going beyond the federal debt limit.

7 Bitten By Rabid Dog

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—Seven persons are known to have been bitten by a puppy found to have rabies after it had been coddled and petted by several of Florida Southern College's students.

The death of the dog and determination that it was rabid touched off a series of telephone calls by college officials to police throughout the country to warn 82 girls known to have been in contact with the dog.

Letters are going out to tell the entire student body of 2,000 about the situation and others who have been exposed to the animal.

The college said five students were bitten: Patricia Bryant, Atlanta; Sheila Laden, Teaneck, N. J.; Jackie Sierra, Lakeland; Judy Ann Pereboom, Lake Worth and Barbara Hopson, Frostproof.

Miss Hopson took the white and black mongrel home with her when Christmas vacation began also was bitten.

When the puppy died Monday, it was taken to a veterinarian for examination. Preliminary examination showed it had rabies, said Dr. Chester Nayfield, Polk County health officer.

A college spokesman said the animal was smuggled against school rules into the Alpha Omicron Pi sorority house, where it became a sort of mascot.

Millions of dollars will be spent to boost housing construction. Still rising high, an upturn in home building is expected to bolster the entire economy during the uncertain winter and spring months.

Defense orders are flowing again. This was expected after Sputnik knocked the economy drive into a cocked hat. But its timing is a happy one for some of the communities where unemployment had been rising because of previous cancellations of defense orders.

More funds also are to be made available to foreign borrowers so that they can order goods from American manufacturers.

Whether these first steps to counteract the business recession will be effective is debated in business circles.

Softly And Tenderly

A quiet man is heard around the world

Visitors were barred from the sick room. Dwight L. Moody, the evangelist who had stirred 50,000,000 listeners on two continents, had preached his last sermon. A gentleman in his early fifties waited outside in the hall. It was December, 1899, and cold, but the quiet man had come to Northfield, Mass., from his home in East Liverpool, Ohio to pay respects to the man who, with Singer Ira D. Sankey had "reduced the population of hell by a million souls."

Will Lamartine Thompson's gift of music and poetry was matched with "a fine character of sincerity, simplicity and righteousness." He wrote his first song in 1863 at the age of 16, and 10 years later, while studying at Boston's Conservatory of Music, came out with "Gathering Shells by the Seashore." The hit swept the nation from shore to shore and gathered a fortune for the youthful composer who left for Germany to further his musical education and returned to write "My Home on the Old Ohio" and "Under the Moonlit Sky."

Riding the crest of fame and fortune at 40, the mild-mannered composer-poet turned his back on secular compositions and turned his pen to writing hymns. He opened a music store, set up his own publishing house for church songs and bought a two-horse wagon. While Sankey, with the voice that could be heard a mile, was singing to the multitudes in America and England, Will Thompson was driving his team of horses in Ohio and singing his own hymns in rural homes. When he found no piano he simply unloaded the one on his wagon and played his own accompaniment to his "Lead Me Gently Home, Father." "There's a Great Day Coming" and "Jesus Is All the World to Me." At the same time, penitents by the thousands streamed down Moody's sawdust trail to Sankey singing of Will Thompson's "Softly and Tenderly Jesus Is Calling." The echo swept into South Africa and was translated in Hawaii.

Through the door of his sick room, Dwight L. Moody heard someone mention the name of Will Thompson. Ignoring doctors' orders, the dying evangelist demanded that he be admitted. Feebly taking the "Bard of Ohio" by the hand, he said, "Will, I would have rather written 'Softly and Tenderly Jesus Is Calling' than anything I have been able to do in my whole life." The song:

Time is now fleeing, the moments are passing,
Passing from you and from me;
Shadows are gathering, death-beds are coming,
Coming for you and for me.

Oh, for the wonderful love He has promised,
Promised for you and for me;
Tho' we have sinned, He has mercy and pardon,
Pardon for you and for me.

Brothers in Christ

PAUL ASKS THAT A RUNAWAY SLAVE BE RECEIVED BY PHILEMON WITH LOVE

Scripture—Philemon.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
IN THIS, the last lesson of 1957, Paul demonstrates his love and the nobility of his character in a letter to a well loved friend and brother in Christ.

Dr. Wilbur M. Smith, our editor, suggests that we introduce the lesson by calling attention to the thousands of different letters that pass through the mails daily. There are commercial communications, bills, advertisements, orders, letters appealing for money to help worthy causes, invitations, thank you letters, letters of sympathy, letters from family and friends.

This letter of Paul's is full of love for the recipient, joy in his integrity and helpfulness in the Christian cause. Also greetings and love to the members of the church in Clovis, who worshiped in the home of Philemon and his wife, Apphia, and son Archippus.

Paul refers to himself as aged, and to Onesimus as his son, and admits that he would love to keep the man with him, but feels that it would not be right to do so. He beseeches Philemon to receive the penitent slave, but "Not now as a servant, but above a servant, a brother beloved, specially by me, but how much more unto thee, both in the flesh, and in the Lord."

"If thou count me therefore a partner, receive him as myself. If he hath wronged thee, or owed thee ought, put that on mine account; I, Paul, have written it with mine own hand, I will repay thee."

"Having confidence in thy obedience I wrote unto thee, knowing that thou wilt also do more than I say."

Paul still had hope that he might be released from prison, and asks Philemon to find him a lodging, "for I trust that through your prayers I shall be given unto you."

MEMORY VERSE

"Above all things put on charity (love) which is the bond of perfectness."—Colossians 3:14.

The subject of the letter is Onesimus, a former slave of Philemon who had run away and wronged his master in some way. We are not told how Onesimus met Paul, but he did and had been converted to Christ. He was with Paul in prison when Paul was writing the letter to Philemon.

Paul had grown very fond of Onesimus, and would have been glad to keep him, as he ministered to Paul, who had grown old with his sufferings. Paul, however, felt that Onesimus should return to the master he had wronged. Very tactfully Paul leads up to his request that Philemon take back the slave. He sends greetings to Philemon and his family, stressing his love and faith in Philemon and speaking of his own "joy and consolation" in his love, and the fact that Philemon was a refreshing influence to the Christians in Clovis.

He sends greetings to a number of "fellow laborers" in Clovis, and ends his letter with, "The grace of our Lord Christ be with your spirit. Amen." This was probably the last letter Paul wrote, and soon thereafter met his death.

In all the epistles Paul wrote to his fellow Christians in the various churches, he expresses his love for them, his joy in their love in return, and their faithfulness to the Gospel. We cannot do better, therefore, than to impress on all the classes this love of his that runs throughout these letters. In Paul's own words, "Love suffereth long and is kind; love envieth not; ... beareth all things, believeth all things, endureth all things. Love never faileth."

If we cultivate love for others as Paul did, we will enrich our own lives and those of others.

When he stops being cute

This is his very first New Year. He's celebrating it in his own talented fashion, just being cute. Last year thousands of boys and girls were arrested as juvenile delinquents. They had all been cute—once!

But did they have the priceless example of active Christian parents? Were they given moral and spiritual training in the Church? Did they grow up in a Christian atmosphere?

This young fellow can't be absolutely sure that the New Year is worth celebrating. His future is in the hands of his parents. But he's smiling because of his confidence in them.

During this New Year their faith in God, and the sincerity of their relationship with the Church will begin to determine just what their son is going to be when he stops being cute.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

SELLOUT CROWD DUE AT GATOR BOWL GO

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Coaches Paul "Bear" Bryant of Texas A&M and Bowden Wyatt of Tennessee pronounced their teams fit and ready today on the eve of their Gator Bowl football game. Both coaches scheduled light, final workouts in Gator Bowl Stadium this afternoon to give their players the feel of the bright green turf which will be their battle ground.

The bright green color is courtesy of a dye job administered by ground crews. Recent frost and cold turned the grass a dead brown.

Partly cloudy skies and temperatures in the 60s are forecast for the kickoff at 2 p.m. (EST). The game, expected to draw a sellout crowd of 2,000, will be telecast and broadcast nationally by CBS.

The Aggies and the Vols both leaned heavily on stingy defenses in win bids to this 13th postseason show and their preparation for it point to a low scoring game.

A&M rated No. 9 and Tennessee No. 13 in the final Associated Press poll.

Bryant, whose A&M squad arrived yesterday for final tuneups, said he had exposed his players to a lot of Tennessee's single wing offense since signing for the match.

"I don't know if we've worked up a defense to stop the Vols," he added with a grin, "but my boys sure know what the single wing looks like now."

Wyatt gave his first two units a long drill yesterday against the split-T which all America halfbacks used to compile an 8-2 won-lost record.

The trouble is," said Wyatt, "we can't afford to concentrate too much on Crow. If we do, some of those other backs are liable to get loose."

Bobby Gordon, a triple threat tailback, is the key man in Tennessee's offense. Although a powerful runner and an accurate passer, he really stands out when it comes to punting and quick kicking—favorite Vol weapons.

Gator Talk

Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant, right, takes time out from practice to have a chat with Texas A&M co-captains John Crow, left, and Charles Krueger about the Gator Bowl game in Jacksonville against University of Tennessee. Crow, A&M's All-America halfback, holds a stuffed "Texas size" gator. The Gator Bowl game will end the A&M careers for all three. Crow and Krueger will enter the pro football ranks and Bryant will leave after the game to assume head coaching duties at the University of Alabama.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

The Baylor Bears put one sophomore (Don Meredith of SMU) and one junior (Buddy Dial of Rice) on their all-opponent football team recently.

Nederland made a believer out of Red Forehand, who brings the San Antonio Edison football team here next fall.

Forehand declared prior to Nederland's game with Sweetwater last weekend that the Bulldogs were a better club than the 1956 Abilene team, which was considered incredible.

In winning nine of their first 12 starts, the Odessa High School cagers averaged 58.4 points a game. They surrendered an average of 53.4 points per contest in the same stretch.

Around District 2-AAAA, most everyone is conceding that Odessa has the best chance of keeping Big Spring out of the throne room.

Although Jan Loudermilk and Jimmy Evans will be gone, Big Spring should have another good basketball team next year.

Back will be Preston Hollis, Bill Thompson, Joe Bob Clendenin and Benny McCrary plus such B teamers as the LeFevre brothers, Zay and Jay, Jerry Brooks, Goose Russell, Chuck Wolk and several others.

It'll be a different type ball club than this year's outfit, without the rebounding strength of the present Steers. At the same time, it will prove quicker.

Lee Grosscup, the Utah University passing ace, understudied Ronnie Knox, the storied UCLA player, on the Santa Monica High School football team in California.

Tugboat Jones, the Highland Park football coach, gives the nod to the Scotties' Jack Collins over Wahoo McDaniell of Midland as the finest player he's ever coached.

The parallel between the current Sweetwater club and the 1953 Big Spring team endures into the championship finals of the AAA division and could carry on over into 1958.

Big Spring had to go to Port Neches in '53, and lost by a 21-13 score. Sweetwater this year was forced to play in Nederland and yielded a 29-7 verdict, after it appeared the Mustangs were on their way to a 7-6 victory.

Big Spring returned a great backfield, including Tommy McAdams, Buddy Cosby (who later decided not to play), Frosty Robinson and Brick Johnson in 1954, but was hard hit in the line by graduation.

Sweetwater returns all its line backfield, with the exception of talented Glenn Reed, but must absorb a body blow in the center of its magnificent line.

If it succeeds where Big Spring failed in '54, that in finding adequate replacements in its primary, Sweetwater could go 'all the way' in 1958.

Even though the Big Spring club of '54 failed to get out of district, it reigned as co-champion of the league with Breckenridge, which proceeded to win the state title, and wound up with an 8-1 won-lost-tied record, one of the finest in the history of the local school.

There are some who still argue that Big Spring would have beaten Breckenridge that year had Cosby elected to play again.

I look for Tennessee to knock off the Texas Aggies in the Gator Bowl tomorrow. Say by 14-7. The Aggies seem to have lost their momentum after losses to Rice and Texas.

West To Attack Thru Air In Shrine Grid Skirmish

By JACK STEVENSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A duel between air and ground power is in prospect for tomorrow's 33rd annual Shrine charity East-West football game.

Coach Jack Curtice of the West named Jackie Douglas, the 178-pounder from Stanford, as his starting quarterback, emphasizing the plan will be to attack the favored East through the air.

The two West victories in the last six games were engineered by aerial-minded quarterbacks from Sanford, Bobby Garrett in 1954 and John Brodie last year.

With Douglas in the backfield will be Jim Shofner of Texas Christian and Stu Vaughan of Utah at the halves and Gerry Nesbitt of Arkansas at fullback. Vaughan, a flanker back, was the nation's leading collegiate pass catcher this past season with 759 yards and 5 touchdowns on his 33 catches.

At the ends for the West are Farrell Funston, 6-2 and 210 pounds, from College of the Pacific and Willard Deweall, 6-4 and 215, from SMU.

Pioneers Have 4 Lettermen Back From '57

WHARTON (SC)—Wharton Junior College, which will again compete in the Howard College basketball tournament Jan. 2-4, have four lettermen and three squadmen back from last season.

The veterans are Kenny Bell, 6-0, a forward from Houston; Harold Hickey, 6-4, also a forward from Houston; Jerry Dyer, 5-8, a guard from Bedias; and Jim Lucas, 6-1, a forward from Houston.

Squadmen back from last season include Manny Carlin, 6-4 forward from Galveston; Kenny Lewis, 6-2 forward from Somerville; and Bob Tippit, 5-10 guard from Houston.

Transfers on the squad include C. L. Williams, 6-5 Galena Park center, who came from South Texas College in Houston; and Winston Bryant, 6-0 guard of Quachita, Ark., who attended the University of Houston last season.

Freshmen on the Wharton squad include Doris Allen, 6-3 forward from Glen Flora; Wayne Barte, 5-11 guard from Lovelady; Jerry Lee Hanson, 5-10 guard from Houston; Ernie Mills, 5-10 guard from Galena Park; Charles Moritz, 6-2 forward from Boling; Dick Nelson, 6-6 center from Dallas; Mike Pierce, 5-8 guard from Tidehaven; Jerry Spence, 6-1 guard from Brazosport; and Gerald Taylor, 6-1 forward from Wharton.

In 1956-57, the Pioneers won 23 games while losing 13. They scored a total of 2,773 points.

In Johnnie Frankie's nine-year tenure as head coach at Wharton, his teams have won 192 games while losing 87. In 1952, he guided the Pioneers to the National Junior College championship.

Among outstanding players he has had at Wharton are Gerald Cecil of Houston, a member of the 1949 club, who won All-America honors; Charles Brown of Texas City and Roy Green, both of the 1952 team and both All-Americans; and George Jones of Houston, a member of the 1956 team, still another All-American.

The Pioneers compete in the Longhorns Athletic Conference, which includes other members Del Mar, Victoria and Kilgore.

Wharton plays Schreiner in the first round of the tournament here.

The two teams take the court at 1:30 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 2. The winner plays Temple at 9:30 p.m. the same evening.

In games against Southwest Conference freshmen teams this season, the Pioneers have broken even, winning from Rice, 63-62; after losing to Texas, 60-57.

In other starts, Wharton beat South Texas, 69-57; University of St. Thomas, 61-22; South Texas again, 99-98; and Temple, 94-71; while losing to Odessa, 91-82; Houston freshmen, 77-66; and Texas.

Odessa Is Ousted In Invitational

DALLAS (AP)—Defending Class AAAA champion Port Arthur and Class AAA champion Smiley led eight teams today in the quarterfinals of the Cotton Bowl Invitational High School Basketball Tournament.

Port Arthur whipped Cayuga 61 to 55 in the first round and trounced Waco 68-44 in the second round. Smiley, with 7-foot Lewis Qualls, beat Odessa 54-34 and Dallas-Crozier Tech 55-43.

Today's schedule:

CONSOLATION

Wilmer-Hutchins vs. Cayuga; Garland vs. Odessa; Palestine vs. Jacksonville; Sherman vs. Terrell.

CHAMPIONSHIP

Dallas Texas Jefferson vs. Port Arthur; Dallas Woodrow Wilson vs. Smiley; Dallas South Oak Cliff vs. Dallas Sunset and Fort Worth Poly vs. Dallas Adamson.

Yankees Over Rebs At Montgomery

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—A great deal of passing will mark tomorrow's Blue-Gray football game here, the teams' head coaches say.

The Northern line outweighs his Rebel group but the South has the edge in back speed and passing.

Coach Andy Pilney commented today. The Gray attack will be mostly passing, he continued, although halfbacks Jimmy Orr of Georgia and Phil King of Vanderbilt, two capable runners, will greatly assist the offensive efforts.

One reason for Pilney's dependence on aerials is the presence in his squad of the nation's leading passer, Ken Ford of Hardin-Simmons. The South's starting quarterback, Ford completed 115 of 295 passes for 1,254 yards this year.

Roy Harris Rated 4th Among Heavies

NEW YORK (AP)—Roy Harris of Cut 'N Shoot, Tex., was the fourth ranked heavyweight in year-end ratings announced today by Ring Magazine.

Paul Jorgensen of Port Arthur was rated sixth in the feather-weight division.

Winging To Game

COMMERCE (AP)—East Texas State was to fly to Orlando, Fla., today for the Tangerine Bowl football game with Mississippi Southern. Six coaches and 35 players were to make the trip in two chartered planes.

Aussies Sew Up Cup In Just 70 Minutes

By WILL GRIMSLEY

MELBOURNE (AP)—Mervyn Rose, a left-handed one-time tennis outcast, and Malcolm Anderson, clinched the Davis Cup for Australia in just 70 minutes today by crushing a makeshift U.S. doubles team of Vic Seixas and Barry Mackay 6-4, 6-4, 8-6.

The victory gave the Australians a 3-0 lead in the Challenge Round for amateur tennis' most coveted prize. Tomorrow's final two singles matches will be mere formalities.

Seixas is paired against Anderson while Mackay meets Ashley Cooper, who was replaced by Rose in the doubles.

So for the third straight year, and seventh in the past eight years, the Davis Cup remains here Down Under. The last U.S. victory was in 1954 when Seixas and Tony Trabert teamed to win it.

Longhorns, Pampa Tangle Tonight

PAMPA (SC)—The Big Spring Steers can add immeasurably to their stature as a basketball team in a two-game series with the mighty Pampa Harvesters, beginning here tonight.

The two teams take the floor at 8 p.m. They wind up the set in an 8 o'clock practice tilt Saturday evening. No B game is scheduled for either night. The Steers will not return home until Sunday morning.

Coach Johnny Johnson has mapped out the hardest kind of practice for the Steers before they get their feet wet in the Odessa tournament next weekend.

Besides the series with Pampa, the Longhorns visit Hobbs, N. M., for a return game with the Eagles. Big Spring beat Hobbs by 18 points in their previous meeting but Hobbs undoubtedly will prove a much larger order at home.

Big Spring will carry an 11-1 lost record into the court tonight. Pampa is 8-1.

The Steers lost only to Plainview and that by 11 points (62-51) in their first assignment of the year. Since that time, they have turned back Lubbock Monterey twice, Tom S. Lubbock twice, Lamesa twice, Kermit, Muleshoe, Andrews, Odessa and Hobbs.

Pampa, after its opening loss to Childress, has since walloped Childress, Phillips, Vernon twice, Hobbs twice, Duncan, Okla., and Crozier Tech at Dallas.

Pampa beat Hobbs by eight points the first time and nine points in the second game.

Jan Loudermilk, who is averaging 24 points a game, will be at the pivot spot for Big Spring tonight, with Jimmy Evans and Joe Bob Clendenin out front and Preston Hollis and Bill Thompson at the guard positions.

Pampa is due to open with Mack Layne at center, Bobby Gindorf and Coyle Winborn at forwards and Bill Brown and Ray Stephenson at guards.

Brown, only returning regular from last season, is Pampa's leading scorer.

The Harvesters are coached by Clifton McNeely, who has compiled District 3-AAAA finest basketball coaching record and is its highest paid cage mentor.

It was Tech's seventh victory without defeat this season and continued its hex on SMU, which was tripped up by the Raiders last year at a time SMU was ranked fourth in the nation.

Baylor held 6-10 Temple Tucker to a single goal in the first half, but the veteran Owl center led to Rice comeback, scoring 16 of his 18 points in the second half.

The Owls held a 47-29 advantage at one point, but Baylor trimmed it to 56-53 with four minutes left before Tucker took command again with a pair of field goals and a free throw. Arkansas' height proved too much for Texas.

After the first five minutes of play, the Razorbacks began building their commanding lead over the Longhorns. Forwards Larry Stolzer and Harry Thompson paced the Hogs with 16 points each.

Texas Christian racked up its seventh victory in eight starts in beating A&M Junior forward Ronny Stevenson and Kenneth King sparked a second half rally to wrap up the game for TCU. Stevenson scored 12 of his 22 points in the last half. King dumped in 19 points for the Frogs.

The lead changed hands eight times in the first half before the Frogs swept ahead for a 34-29 halftime advantage.

EL PASO (AP)—Because if the stork, Drake may face Louisville in the Sun Bowl next Wednesday without the services of starting end Dick Treimer.

Mrs. Treimer is expecting the couple's first child. If it arrives in time, Treimer will join the Bulldogs for the game. He will be replaced if the stork is late.

DALLAS (AP)—The guy with the biggest personal gallery in the Cotton Bowl game next Wednesday is due to be Ray Wellborn, the Texan who plays fullback for Navy. Wellborn has bought 46 tickets to the game and given them to friends and relatives.

Wellborn is from Houston.

Padlocks On Drills

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Oregon and Ohio State put the padlocks on practices today as they started tapering off for their New Year's Day ball game in the Rose Bowl.

Navy May Use New Strategy Against Owls

DALLAS (AP)—Coach Eddie Erdelatz of Navy hinted today that he not only would use his celebrated "Jitterbug Defense" against Rice in the Cotton Bowl Jan. 1 but would "add another step."

This defense, which Erdelatz brought out the day Navy beat Notre Dame, has his boys starting to move around as soon as the other team begins its signals. It throws the offensive team off stride and Erdelatz said as far as he knew his team was the only one to use a combination of all the defenses in shifting.

"Yes, I think we'll use the jitterbug against Rice," said Erdelatz as he opened practice at the site of the Cotton Bowl game. "But we'll have something new, too. You know every dance has another step and we'll have another with our jitterbug."

Just how effective this defense can be is shown in the records of the Notre Dame, Duke and Army games—the last three big ones on the Tars' schedule. Notre Dame was held to 93 yards on the ground, Duke to 85 and Army to 88.

Rice averaged 273.4 yards per game rushing in its 10-game schedule and if the jitterbug is as effective against the Owls as it was against the others Rice will think it's just walking.

Erdelatz explained why he didn't use the jitterbug from the start this year. "We had to work out all the details and make it operate smoothly and it was after midseason before we thought we had arrived at that point," he said.

Navy was second in the nation on defense as the result of this intricate maneuver, giving up only 162.6 yards per game.

Rice Owls Drill On Abilene Turf

ABILENE (AP)—The Rice Owls, 36 strong, plunged into two-day workouts today as they prepared for a Cotton Bowl date with Navy. Coach Jess Neely said it was going to take a lot of effort because the Midshipmen were a fine team—well-balanced both passing and running.

Neely set up camp yesterday and had a snappy practice session as the Owls resumed training following five days off for the holidays.

The only injury was that of quarterback Frank Ryan, who still is nursing a knee hurt. He won't shake off the injury completely but will play anyway, Neely said.

East Texas Among Tourney Favorites

DALLAS (AP)—East Texas State and Central Missouri State moved into the favorite's role today in the semifinals of the Dallas Elks Cotton Bowl Basketball Tournament.

East Texas whipped stubborn Austin College 61-46 to avenge an early season loss and Central Missouri trounced Texas Wesleyan 81-56.

East Texas meets Wayland College of Plainview in the semifinals. Wayland scored an easy 89-63 victory over the Permex Owls of Mexico City.

Central Missouri battles Central Oklahoma State in the semifinals. Central Oklahoma beat Midwestern 53-48.

In consolation games, Austin meets Permex and Midwestern faces Texas Wesleyan.

Hawks and Lakers Play In Dallas

DALLAS (AP)—The St. Louis Hawks, Western Division leaders of the National Basketball Assn., will present some of the top stars in pro circles when they play the Minneapolis Lakers in Dallas Monday night.

Facing the Hawks will be Bob Pettit from LSU, Slater Martin from Texas and Ed Macauley of St. Louis.

Rookie Jim Krebs of SMU will play for the Lakers.

Union Buster Crys Over 'Crucifixion'

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 (AP)—The white-haired man with chalk white skin and sagging jowls cried out: "I've got no place to turn but God. They call me a union buster. There are 18 million union people and 70,000 union locals and I'm one little bogle man who is supposed to bust them all."

"What the hell is this? What kind of colossal am I anyway?"

No one seems quite sure what kind of colossal Nathan Shefferman is, or whether he is at all. The Senate Rackets Committee tried hard to find out. In the process, Shefferman took the Fifth Amendment 25 times.

Chairman McClellan (D-Ark.) and committee counsel Robert Kennedy bluntly accused him of running a nationwide union-busting service.

Kennedy led Shefferman through an off-beat success story depicting how a one-time $3,600-a-year government employee learned to hobnob with labor union chiefs while billing his clients a million dollars a year to protect them from labor.

Embittered by the committee's disclosures, Shefferman reluctantly consented to an interview:

"What are you going to write about me?" he asked. "Am I going to be crucified some more?"

Before the committee, a polite and urbane Shefferman sought to portray himself as the working man's friend, even though paid by numerous companies as a labor relations consultant.

McClellan and other committee members say the Shefferman story will almost certainly lead to drastic revisions of the nation's labor laws.

One objective, says McClellan, will be to curb secret union-busting practices.

Now under indictment for alleged conspiracy to evade federal income taxes, Shefferman is something of a mystery.

Shefferman, it seems, had a magic touch. Witness after witness testified that when confronted with strike threats or picket lines, they hired Shefferman's Chicago-based firm of Labor Relations Associates (LRA). Nine times out of ten the troubles vanished overnight.

Shefferman's fees ran high. One company paid him $239,651 over a four-year period. But few of his 1,100 clients—including some of the biggest, most reputable firms in the country—gripped much, even when he put the bite on them for amounts ranging from $50 to $1,400 for Christmas gifts to keep "the boys" happy.

Delta Area Reflects U.S. Race Problem

By REILMAN MORIN
ISSAQUENA COUNTY, Miss., Dec. 27 (AP)—This is the Deep South.

This is the Delta, flat and fertile, formed by the mighty Mississippi, draining a continent.

This is the land of cotton and sharecroppers.

Here, in some counties, the Negro outnumbers the white man 3-1, and even more.

The rickety, weather-worn shacks lining sandy country roads often house Negro families of 10 and 12 in two rooms.

Their children often pick cotton until December, then go to school and try to learn in six months what the white child learns in nine.

So here, in the Delta, the great social struggle over integrating the schools stands out, stripped to the raw.

The Supreme Court ruling... Little Rock... Nashville... the bombings and beatings... it all takes on a new and special meaning in the Delta.

The immense complexity of the South's problem, so difficult for the North to grasp, emerges here in sharper colors, with more jagged outlines, than anywhere else.

Council, extreme segregationist group, was formed in Mississippi, at Indianola, July 11, 1954, by 14 men.

Since Little Rock, they say, sentiment has hardened as never before. You hear this everywhere in the South.

What about the feeling of the Negro communities in the Delta?

A Negro professional man in Louisiana, who asked not to be identified, said this: "Not even a Negro can say he knows what a Negro feels today. In my judgment, though, our people are split into two groups."

"First, there are those who feel this thing should be fought out, bitterly, right now."

"A second group feels that movement, progress, is the important thing. As long as the ball is rolling, they say, it should be kept rolling, but they want to make it as painless as possible."

Important Reminder...

... To take advantage of The Herald's Annual Holiday Bargain Rate. The Herald delivered to your door in Big Spring for the full year of 1958, now at the reduced rate of just $16.50

This is a substantial saving from the weekly rate, and can be a great convenience for you. One time does it for the year, and you will not have to worry about paying your Herald carrier each week. He shares in the annual payment.

Incidentally, if you want a gift idea, why not send The Herald to a friend for the year? It'll be a remembrance every day in the year.

Another reminder—the Bargain Rate is in effect for December only. Be sure to take advantage of it before it's too late.

Tire Stacks Burn At Rubber Plant

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Fire starting in a shed spread to two huge piles of used tires covering a square block at the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. plant today.

As the mountains of old tires caught fire, great clouds of black smoke went up, along with spark showers and fall-out of soot. It was estimated there were at least 100,000 used tires in each pile.

Firemen said the blaze evidently started with an explosion, from an undetermined cause, in the pigment shed.

A company spokesman said damage might run between $500,000 and a million dollars.

Red China Nomads Seek Independence

TOKYO (AP)—Red China is having trouble with agitation for an independent republic by nomad tribes in the wild province of Sinkiang.

Radio Peiping said today "reactionary minority racial elements" in northern Sinkiang are agitating for an independent East Turkistan republic.

Sinkiang is a rugged 700,000 square miles of desert and mountains touching the Soviet Union on the west and north. Chinese colonists make up only about 8 per cent of the estimated four million population.

"The trick for New Year resolutions, Laurie, is to make so many that you forget to break some of them."

Claim More Farm Research Needed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Research Service takes issue with critics who contend that—in view of current farm overproduction—scientists should take vacation from efforts to show farmers how to produce more.

Taking account of the growing population and envisioning eventual broad use of farm raw materials by industry, the service contends more research is needed.

"Twenty years from now," the service says in a report, "we will not think that we were doing too much production research in 1957. In looking back over our past, we will be amazed that we were satisfied with a production research effort whose emphasis was so heavily geared to holding the line. We will ask ourselves why we were so sure in 1957 that we could cope with farmers' problems (of meeting demands) of 1977."

Steeves Leaves Military Life

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Air Force said today Lt. David Steeves, central figure in a story of 54-day survival in the wilderness, has been returned to civilian life at his own request.

Steeves disappeared on a jet training flight last spring and was given up as dead, but 54 days later the 23-year-old pilot stumbled out of the rugged California High Sierras with a story of having lived off the land. He said he had been forced to parachute out of his plane, which has never been found.

An Air Force spokesman said Steeves, who was a Reserve officer on extended active duty, asked to be placed on inactive status. The Air Force is under orders to trim its active officer rolls by about 2,500 during the year ending June 30. The spokesman cited this circumstance and said acceptance of requests like Steeves' is routine.

Steeves remains in the Reserve. The spokesman said Steeves' release was effective Nov. 30 and that at the time he was stationed at Craig Air Force Base near Selma, Ala. His home town is Trumbull, Conn.

A former associate of Steeves said he understands the young officer is reconciled with his wife, who at one time after his return from the wilderness had spoken of seeking a divorce.

Reached at Trumbull, where he is living with his brother, Harold, Steeves said he had nothing at all to say, no comment.

On Oct. 30, Steeves told newsmen that he and his wife, Rita, have patched up their marital troubles.

Last week, he was quoted in a Bridgeport paper as saying he might go to work for an airline in a civilian capacity.
