William Fraser (below), retired New York restaurant operator, was arrested at Raleigh, N. C., after New Jersey police had instituted a nation-wide search for him in connection with Mrs. Stader's disappearance. Lubbock Road Construction Work Awarded

Paving Of Sixteen Miles On Highway 9 Let To Yoakum County Company; Crosby Project Among Lettings

Awards Tentative

Total For Two Days In More Than $6,000,000; Maintenance Contracts Aggregating $454,949 Also Are Let

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Feb. 28.—Construction contracts totalling $2,998,383 and maintenance contracts aggregating $454,949 were awarded tentatively today by the Texas highway commission.

The construction projects called for improvement of 218 miles in 23 counties and the maintenance projects for improvement of 227 miles in 24 counties. Three bridges were included in the awards.

Awards Are Tentative

The awards were tentative and will not be made final until approved by the federal bureau of public roads.

One maintenance project was withdrawn. It was for surface treatment of seven miles of highway 15 in Harrison county, highway department officials declaring feasibility of the project would be further investigated. The road is heavily traveled due to the oil boom. J. B. Early, chief of maintenance engineer, said the heavy trucks probably would tear up the road as fast as it was repaired.

Total Over $6,000,000

The commission awarded contracts yesterday $3,582,128, bringing the total for the two days to $6,005,460.

Award of the contract for improvement of highway 56 in Harris county was withheld again today. Moller and Roberts of Hitchcock, Texas, were low bidders at $447,443.

Pending determination of location of highway 6, the commission also withheld award of the contract for

Girl Masquerades For 14 Years As Texas Cowboy

She Doesn't Drink; She Doesn't "Chew" But She Can "Lick" The Men That Do

(By The Associated Press)

TONKAWA, Okla., Feb. 28.—Perplexed relief agents wondered what to do tonight with Grace Charlton, 38 year old Virginian who tells them she's been masquerading as a Texas cow-puncher for fourteen years.

Broke and hungry, the woman swaggered into the office of Mrs. J. L. Jones, associated charities head, and asked for aid.

At first unsuspicious of the bronzed "cowboy" who announced in mannish tones "he" had hitchhiked from a ranch near Midland, Texas, Mrs. Jones later noticed her visitor didn't remove a pair of gloves.

The gloves masked well-kept hands and the woman at last admitted her sex. The same hands caused Mrs. Jones to express doubt that Grace had posed as "Jack" Charlton without detection on the range and in the rodeo ring.

Grace adhered to her story, however. Accommodated in a jail ward, she asserted she "never was licked by a man or broncho" and expressed a desire to obtain a job in Oklahoma "punching cows."

Letters went out to an aunt, Mrs. Ray Charlton of Roanoke, Va., and Bruce McCallun, Midland. Mrs. Jones is awaiting the replies in the hope some one will agree to care for Grace until she can obtain more feminine employment.

Grace told of running away from Roanoke at the age of fourteen, spending a short time at Ponca

Oklahoma City Man Shot Down During Holdup

Two Hundred Policemen, Deputies Called Out In Effort To Run Down Two Robbers In Saturday Night Slaying

Alarm Is Sent Out

Filling Station Operator Is Murdered While Reaching For Gun; Dragnet Thrown About Area Of Shooting

(By The Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 28.—Two hundred policemen and deputy sheriffs were called out in an attempt to run down two robbers who killed Francis J. Heron, 25, a filling station operator, here tonight.

Heron, according to a witness, apparently was reaching for a gun when one of the robbers fired. One bullet struck Heron in the heart, another in the left arm and the third went through his hand.

Alarm Sent Out

A general alarm was sent out and all police scout cars were ordered to the area surrounding the filling station, in the southwest part of the city.

R. E. Caffery, a customer, had parked his car in the driveway of the filling station and was inside with Heron when the robbers entered. Asking whose car was parked outside, and learning it was Caffery's, the bandits drew guns and ordered Caffery and Heron to put up their hands. Caffery complied, but Heron made as though to reach for a gun. He was instantly shot down.

The robbers fled in Caffery's automobile. Later it was found abandoned a block away.

Three radio broadcasting stations were notified and descriptions of the robbers sent out.

A small boy told police that he saw the robbers leave Caffery's car and enter a green coupe, in which they sped westward.

Vets Loan Applications Averaging 1,000 An Hour

Appeals Are Made To Permit Needy Ones To Come First

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Veterans loan applications clicked through governmental machinery at the rate of more than 1,000 an hour today as appeals went forth to permit those most in need to be allowed to file first.

Chief Finance Officer H. W. Breining of the veterans bureau estimated that more than 10,000 checks for upwards of $3,000,000 had gone out from the 54 regional offices during the day.

Long Lines Form

Long lines of men assembled at the Washington regional office. Of the 1,200 applications received at noon, only 78 were for loans on certificates that never before had been borrowed upon.

From 500 to 600 applications per hour were handled in the Washington office, and officials said a similar rate should have been maintained in the 53 other regional offices.

Next week, Breining said, checks would rise to 25,000 daily and he expected them to remain at that level through March. He said that on the basis of 25,000 checks daily the total would approximate $7,500,000 a day during the peak month of March. After which he expected loans to start declining.

$20,000,000 Obtained

He said $20,000,000 already had been obtained from the treasury to add to the $30,000,000 the bureau had on hand. Telegraphic warrants for $17,750,000 were dispatched to the regional offices and will be added to as needed.

Veterans Administrator Hines tonight headed a group of radio speakers appealing for veterans to permit those most in need to receive loans first.

They reminded veterans that unless they paid interest on their loans, they would have only $74 left of a $1,000 certificate when it matured in 1945.

Hines said this policy would be followed in all of the regional offices.

Partly Cloudy And Colder Is Forecast Here

Norther Brings Heavy Sleet And Snow To Lubbock And Other South Plains Towns On Saturday Night

Lightning Occurs

Unusual Electrical Display Accompanies Snowflakes In West Texas Areas; Thermometers Trend Downward

BELATED winter struck the Texas Panhandle-Plains country Saturday night as a norther swept the section to the accompaniment of unusual electrical displays. Temperatures in most localities remained above the freezing point.

Thunder from a starless sky forecast the change for Lubbock before 7 p. m. and sprinkling began almost immediately as the wind continued to increase in velocity. Precipitation increased in quantity and before 9 p. m. became sleet. Snowflakes were falling before 9:15 o'clock. Lightning continued to occur as a high wind blew the light flakes before it.

Forecast Is Colder

General forecast for West Texas, Saturday night, was partly cloudy and colder. A steady rain which began over the northern Panhandle became a heavy snow by midafternoon, the weather bureau at Amarillo reporting half an inch of precipitation to that time. The temperature fell rapidly, reaching 32 degrees at 4 p. m.

The thermometric tendency was downward throughout the South South Plains region Saturday night, and swon was reported at Levelland, Bledsoe and Morton, where a high wind preceded the precipitation and picked up considerable sand. Snow began at Levelland at about 8:30 p. m.

A slow rain which included some snow began at Plainview at about 8:30 p. m. and the mercury dropped as the precipitation continued. Rain also was reported at Childress.

Temperature Drops

Accompanied by a high wind, which began to increase in velocity at about 7 p. m., a marked drop in temperature was reported at Seminole, southwest of here in Gaines county. No rain had fallen there at 10 p. m., although precipitation was expected.

A misty drizzle began at about 6 p. m. at Lamesa, in the southern

Conviction Of Capone Renews War On Gangs

Key Gangster Is Given Six Months For Contempt; Law Enforcement Agencies Push Forward Fight On Hoodlums

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Feb. 28. — Heartened by the conviction of the key man, Alphonse Capone, the agencies charged with enforcement of the law in Chicago pushed forward with renewed vigor today in their fight on gangs.

In the criminal courts building where the county's wheels of justice grind and in the federal building where U. S. District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson and his assistants drive relentlessly at the organized criminal element, a new spirit of enthusiasm and confidence was apparent.

Given Six Months

Al Capone, the czar of all Chicago gangs, had at last been proved at variance with the law. "Public Enemy No. 1" was found guilty of contempt of court by Federal Judge J. H. Wilkerson yesterday and sentenced to six months in jail.

Prosecutors believed the turning point had been reached in their battle against gangland, with the "big fellow," the one who had never been convicted in his home courts, finally under sentence.

Gangs Merged

In contrast with the years when the gang barons made their own law and enforced it, the government today was able to point to an impressive list of convictions and

Urge Disposal Of U. S. Relief Fund

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28. (AP)—A proposal that a $100,000,000 emergency relief fund be placed at the disposal of President Hoover emerged today from senate debate in which several Democrats and independent Republicans said relief legislation so far enacted failed to meet current distress.

Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, introduced a resolution to authorize the $100,000,000 fund after Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, and Copeland, Democrat, New York, contended there was still time to enact adequate relief legislation.

Copeland and other Democrats charged the Republican administration with failure to provide necessary relief. Borah contended congress had shown a "lack of courage and purpose" and Senator LaFollette, Republican, Wisconsin, said the senate's "abject surrender on the relief compromise had killed any chance of adequate legislation.

Bridge Murder Defense Begun

Woman Defendant Pictured As Devoted Wife Of Violent-Tempered Man; Mrs. Bennett To Tell Slaying Story

(By The Associated Press)

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 28.—Defense witnesses today pictured Mrs. Myrtle A. Bennett as the devoted wife of a violent-tempered man, thus preparing for the defendant's own story of the death of her husband, John G. Bennett, whom she is charged with slaying as the climax of a bridge game quarrel.

From fashionably attired friends of Mrs. Bennett, who described her as truthful and of high moral character, former Senator James A. Reed, defense counsel, drew several assertions that Bennett frequently gave way to outbursts of anger.

"Unusually Devoted"

The witnesses without exception declared the Bennetts were unusually affectionate and devoted.

The prosecution sought to exclude the testimony about Bennett's temper, as irrelevant, declaring the defense as outlined contended Bennett met his death accidentally.

Court adjourned at the end of a week devoted to the trial with counsel arguing as to the admissibility of testimony by L. R. Baker who said he had seen Bennett strike his wife, previous to the night of the fatal bridge game.

(Special To Avalanche-Journal)

SEAGRAVES, Feb. 28.—An overwhelming majority of Gaines county voters today approved a $250,000 highway bond issue. The state will match the issue with an additional $250,000 in the highway program for a state highway north and south through Gaines county. With passage of the bond issue by Gaines county citizens, Terry county remains the only one for which provisions have not been made on state highway No. 137, which extends from Lubbock southwest to a point south of Odessa.

Both Gaines and Andrews county have voted bond issues in the last 30 days, and Terry county is expected to call a similar election soon.

Unofficial returns on the Gaines county election by precincts with votes for and against the bond issue, respectively, follow:

Hyde Says Food Loans Will Depend On Individual Case

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28. (AP)—Secretary Hyde said today that whether a farmer could purchase food with money borrowed directly from the supplemental $20,000,000 drouth relief appropriation would depend on the individual case, its necessity and the security offered.

Regarding loans from agricultural credit corporations, which the measure proposed to increase and extend, the secretary said farmers could use that money as though they obtained it from any bank.

Returning today from Cincinnati, the secretary announced that plans for administration of the $20,000,000 fund had been completed.

Hung Jury Is Result In Joe Hawkins Trial

No Verdict Reached In Case At Floydada After About 40 Hours Deliberation; Acquittal Favored 8 To 4

(Special to The Avalanche-Journal)

FLOYDADA, Feb. 28.—After deliberating approximately 40 hours, the jury which heard the case against Joe Hawkins, of Crosby county, charged with the murder of his aged father-in-law, S. M. Walker, October, 1929, reported this afternoon to Judge Kenneth Bain it was "unable to agree." Hawkins was released on bond.

The jury received the case at 9:40 Thursday night and filed into the courtroom at 2:15 this afternoon.

Acquittal Favored

It was understood that the jurors stood eight for acquittal and four for conviction. Number of ballots taken was not learned.

A. J. Folley, district attorney who prosecuted the case, did not announce definitely that he would have a new trial at the next term of court but it was understood that he plans to ask for another hearing.

It is expected that Mr. Folley and Durwood H. Bradley, district attorney of Lubbock, who aided in the prosecution, will confer soon on the proposed new trial.

Makes Strong Fight

Hawkins made a strong fight for liberty. He was represented by R. H. Templeton, Wellington; E. A. Watson, Crosbyton and L. G. Matthews, Floydada. His wife took the stand at the trial here as did his 14-year-old son and a brother-in-law, Walter Walker, son of the dead

SANTA FE, N. M., Feb. 28. (AP)—The New Mexico house of representatives will vote Monday on whether it wants to put the state into the liquor business.

The proposed New Mexico liquor dispensary bill is set for Monday's calendar. It has been preceded by almost unanimous vocal adoption of a favorable committee report, and passage earlier 37 to 7 of a proposal to submit the dry section of the state constitution to a vote of the people.

The liquor dispensary bill, which its sponsors expect will have to run the gamut of the courts if passed, appropriates $50,000 for the state to build a distillery, the finished product would be sold to holders of state permits through dispensaries in charge of superintendents, set up throughout the state.

Permit holders would be entitled to two quarts of liquor, four quarts of wine and 24 quarts of malt liquor monthly.

House To Work Monday While Senate Rests

Legislators In Session On Saturday And To Continue On Texas Independence Day In Effort To Catch Up

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Feb. 28.—While the senate enjoyed the usual Saturday of rest, not planning to be back on the job until Tuesday, the house worked all morning and decided to report for duty again Monday, Texas Independence day. The congested condition of the calendar evidently had impressed the lower house with the need for long, hard labor.

Two bills were sent to the governor today. One was the Petsch anti-kidnaping bill which would permit the proposal to provide that the death penalty could not be assessed if the victim should be returned unharmed. The house today concurred in that amendment.

Little Opposition

The bill was introduced by Representative Petsch of Fredericksburg after the kidnaping of Robert Cerf, son of a wealthy Corsicana banker. Investigation disclosed that Texas had no law covering all forms of kidnaping. The bill encountered little opposition.

The house also agreed to senate amendments to the bill which would prevent a person placing a long distance call from another's phone without the other's consent and the bill went to the governor's office.

Confession In Case Admitted

Youth's Admission To Fatal Drinking Party Which Led To Death Of Arlene Draves Made Part Of Court Record

(By The Associated Press)

VALPARAISO, Ind., Feb. 28.—The confession that Virgil Kirkland signed a few hours after he was arrested for the death of 18-year-old Arlene Draves, became a part of the court record today in his trial for murder.

But it was not admitted as evidence by Judge Grant Crumpacker until after a series of last-ditch fights by the defense had failed to keep it from the jury.

Ponder Over Statement

When court adjourned over the week end and the jurors were locked up, they had this statement by Kirkland it from the jury.

verbal testimony.

"I went to the home of Shorty Thompson with Miss Draves. When we arrived, Thompson was alone with his wife. Shortly after a lot of boys and girls arrived and they drank a lot and danced a lot.

"About midnight Miss Draves began staggering around from booze and I took her out on the piazza to give her air and I smacked her on the side of the face to bring her out of it. Then Thompson (the host), Miss Draves, Paul Barton and myself got in the car and we drove to 37th and Broadway and Barton and I went to get frankfurters. * * *

"About 2:30 we left for home and when we went downtown we could not arouse Miss Draves, so we drove to Dr. R. P. Wharton's home and carried her in and the doctor said she was dead."

Britain And Italy Reach Agreement

Edgar Shelton, member of the Tech architectural department, was master of ceremonies and the 250 persons attending, including faculty members and special guests, were never lacking for some sort of entertainment for almost three hours.

Aside from the serious comments of Frank M. Ryburn, attorney for the Texas Power and Light company of Dallas; W. J. Miller, dean of the Tech school of engineering, and W. T. MOTORISTS INFORMED

The state highway department is starting a series of road marking that will be of interest to motorists along the road and will help them place the blame for ruts and chuck holes in city streets. At the city limits of each town there will be a two-sided sign with "state maintenance begins there on one side and "state maintenance ends here" on the other. Streets inside an incorporated city are not graded by the state, that work being left to the city officals. Highway No. 9 has the first of the lot around Lubbock.

Road Still Inundated

State highway No. 9 south of Tahoka is still under water for nearly an eights of a mile, or rather former section of the road in the middle of an old lake. Last May during one of the heavy rains, when seven inches of water fell near Tahoka, an old lake filled up to as deep as five feet over the road. The road is now almost out of water there being several hundred feet that is not above the water. The state was forced to purchase some new right of way and the highway now goes around the lake.

Club Is Exclusive

Vic Lamb, News editor of the Lamesa Reporter, has organized a new club known as the "Squeedunk club." His platform of "cushions for chairs in witness stands and higher wages for medicine testimonial writers. Also mule shoes for mules instead of horse shoes." Vic so far has only a few Lubbock members but he is expecting to enroll a few more this spring. The club has an extensive membership around Lamesa.

Veteran Car Dealer

Ed Rollins, one of the county dads of Gaines county, is one of the oldest automobile dealers on the South Plains. "I first sold cars back in 1913 in Seminole" says Ed. "My first car was the Hupp. Then I sold the Studebaker and later went into the 'Detroit Special' game. Now I sell the Chevrolet. Ed since the starts of the road bond issue fight in Gaines county has developed a reputation as a speaker.

They Send For J. H.

Whenever a county these days holds a road bond rally, they send for J. H. Hankins, president of the Carlsbad Cavern U. S. 62 Highway association to be one of the speakers, J. H. has spoken at Andrews, Seminole and Seagraves and makes many friends every place he goes. J. E. Shelton of the Brownfield chamber of commerce says he has a sure way of testing out J. H and his brother Jeff. The two look as much alike as two peas and it is hard to tell them apart. "If the fellow talks about the Carlsbad Caverns highway" says J. E." its J. H. Hankins. If he does not, its the other one."

O'Donnell Boys Preparing

The high school boys down at O'Donnell are getting ready for spring track work. Every fine day the boys get out in the afternoon after school hours and practice on a field they have built just south of the railroad crossing near the Edwards gin. Churches Will Have Special Services Here

First Christian Schedules Two Unusual Services To Be Given Today; Workers To Hold Conferences

Two unusual services will be held at the First Christian church today at the regular church hours. In keeping with an observance of foreign mission day, the Rev. Walter P. Jennings, pastor, has announced as the theme of his morning sermon, "From Their Tombs They Call." For more than one-half century the first Sunday in March has been set aside as the day for members of that congregation to pay tribute to the memories of missionaries who died while serving in foreign lands. Histories will be given of those who blazed the trail for modern missionary undertakings and special music is to be given by the choir.

To Present Pageant

Women of the church will have charge of the evening service and will stage a pageant, "The World Call". This will show the work of the "World Call," official organ of the missions, a widely read periodical.

The Rev. J. O. Haymes, pastor, will preach the second in a series of special sermons tonight for young men in a service at the First Methodist church. "Going Away to School" is the theme of the sermon. Special music will be given by the orchestra, and a saxaphone sextet and the choral club will sing.

Open House Scheduled

Young peoples' open house is to be held at 5:30 o'clock and on this occasion a male quartet composed of Mexicans will sing and an orchestra from Little Juarez will offer several selections.

The Lubbock Associational Workers' conference is to meet with the Brownfield association in an all-day session at Tahoka Tuesday, beginning at 10 o'clock.

A Sunday School Workers conference has been announced for next Wednesday in the First Presbyterian Educational building beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

The program will be built around the question, "What Is My Greatest Need In Sunday School?"

Discussions are to be led by Mesdames C. J. Wagner, A. W. McKee, Miss Virginia McLean and N. L. Peters.

Boy Scouts Training School Will Be Conducted Here

Local Men Are To Be Instructed In Boys Activities

Designed to instruct men in supervision of boys' activities, a Boy Scout leaders training school will open here the night of March 17 under auspices of the South Plains Area Boy Scout council, Executive D. T. Jennings has announced.

First meeting of the training school will be held in the basement of the First Methodist Episcopal church. There will be five indoor sessions of about two hours each and an afternoon session which will be conducted in an afternoon and a night. Classes will meet once a week.

For Any Father

The course is "not strictly for scout leaders but is for any father who is raising boys or girls and any man 18 years of age or over who is interested in young people," Executive Jennings said.

Describing "leadership" as the outstanding need in scouting, Executive Jennings said that a desire to make the scout program available to every boy of scout-age in the vicinity could not be realized other than "by the enlistment of more men who are willing to divide some of their time with the boys.'

To Organize Into Troops

Those enrolled in the course, "Elements of Scoutmastership" as offered by the national council of the Boy Scout organization, will be organized as a troop and divided into patrols. The classes will be conducted similarly to troop meetings and each patrol will be assigned a project.

A recent survey made in a Lubbock church disclosed that in the Sunday school were more than enough boys of eligible age to create a second scout troop, Executive Jennings said, and that enough boys will be 12 years old within a year to compose a third troop.

Leadership Lacking

"Yet this church is finding it difficult to supply sufficient leadership for one troop," the area executive commented.

"This is an excellent opportunity for executive boards of the churches to select several men of their church to take this training course with the object of making the scout program a part of the church's program for boys. The churches that now maintain troops probably will wish to train additional men in order that they may create additional troops."

Attendance of persons from other towns in the South Plains council is desired at the training course, which will be the first held in this area since February of 1928, Executive Jennings said.

Only expense attached to the school will be for books, pamphlets and other materials used and will not total more than $2, according to Executive Jennings.

J. D. Hassell is chairman of the training committee of the Lubbock district of the council. Instructors have not been chosen for the training school. Both lectures and practice work will be included.

Queens' Regimes Are Short Lived

Nearly Every Occasion At Texas Tech Demands A Queen But Their Ruling Is Short; One Crowned Saturday

BY MARSHALL FORMBY
Tech Correspondent

In the days of old, queens reigned supreme. Anything and everything was done for "Her Majesty" and as the story goes one Sir Walter Raleigh threw his velvet cloak in the mud for Queen Elizabeth to walk on in order that she might not soil her white shoes.

In Texas Technological college queens reign supreme but their power is short lived for there is a queen for every activity. For every big event an election is held for a queen who is crowned but her power usually lasts only one or two days.

Four Selected

A rodeo queen, Picador queen, junior class queen, and a freshman queen already have been selected for this school year and at least one more will be selected, one to reign during the annual pageant next May.

When the aggie students at Tech sponsored a rodeo last fall an election was held for a queen. Miss Kathleen Harman, Lampasas, was chosen and held the throne for two days. Prior to this, however, the Picador, monthly magazine in the college, sponsored an election for a Picador queen who received a free trip to the Tech-Texas Christian university football game at Fort Worth. Miss Gail Quinlan, Lubbock, received this honor and the free trip.

To Be Crowned Saturday

During a recent election held by members of the Tech junior class, Miss Catherine Jameson, Lubbock, was named junior queen. Miss Jameson will be formally crowned at the junior prom at the Tech gym March 7. She will reign over the frolic that night.

Freshman at Tech closed an election last Tuesday for a freshman queen. The election was sponsored by The Toreador, Tech weekly newspaper, and Frank Emison, editor, announces that the winner will not be announced for several weeks. The winner of this election will be crowned queen at the annual freshman dance which will be held probably April 18. The queen will reign at the ball for a few short hours.

Pageant To Have Queen

When the annual pageant is presented next May, some Tech co-ed will be crowned queen. This attraction is too far off for queen nominations, but at least one more crown is waiting for some Tech co-ed this spring.

And so the Tech queens come and go. The hours that they reign may be short, but the memories go on forever!

At the British radio show $25,000,000 worth of equipment was shown.

Solons Offer Amendments

Forty-Four Changes In The Constitution Of Texas Would Be Made In Legislature's Approval Given

AUSTIN, Feb. 28—(Special)—Forty-four amendments to the Texas Constitution have been offered so far during this session of the legislature and more are expected during the second thirty days.

Those voters who paid poll taxes this year will probably have many of these proposals to vote on, since a large number have enough support to get them through the legislature and be placed on the execution block of the people's vote.

They Vary In Provisions

Some of the most important provide for: abolishing the ad valorem tax for state purposes after 1932; to give the legislature authority to levy an income tax based on a graduated scale; combining the offices of county tax collector and assessor; cutting the state ballot short with only the governor, lieutenant governor and attorney general elective, diverting all money from the university oil royalty fund to the available fund after the royalties aggregate $18,002,000; providing for creation of rural electric light, power and gas districts proposing that only persons owning property be permitted to vote at bond elections; revising the method by which former owners of land sold for delinquent taxes may redeem the property within two years by payment of double the amount of taxes and cost of foreclosure.

Extending the time of payment of poll taxes to May 1; limiting representation in the legislature of any county to one senator and four representatives; abolishing the death penalty for capital crime; allowing the legislature to fix salaires of governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general and comptroller; granting the highway commission all revenues from gasoline sales tax and their taking over indebtedness of counties for monies spent on roads; providing that all retired army officials and members of reserve forces may hold public office; exempting a homestead from taxation except so much thereof as may exceed $2000 valuation; appointment of notary publics by district courts; permitting foreclosure of liens for delinquent taxes without suit in court; state road bond issue for construction of state highways; limiting membership of senate to 31 members and house of representatives to 62 members; permitting counties of 150,000 population to adopt home rule charter.

Of 1,700 tobacco growers attending mass meetings looking to the organization of a bright leaf cooperative in Georgia, only two have voted against the proposal.

Flames Damage Hospital Of Dr. Sam Stewart At Hobbs

HOBBS, N. M. Feb. 28. (Staff Special)—Fire of undetermined origin damaged the Stewart hospital here, owned by Dr. Sam H. Stewart, to the extent of $4,000. Dr. Stewart was out of the city, having been called to Lubbock with his baby.

No one was in the building at the time the fire started. It is presumed by the firemen, who responded to the alarm, that persons who were in the building without authority, started the blaze.

Woodsmen cutting timber in the battlefield section east of Richmond, Va., broke teeth from two saws on cannon balls imbedded in trees.

State Reading Course Being Carried In Rural Schools

Numerous schools of Lubbock county are following the state recommended reading course, according to Miss Mae Murfee, county superintendent of schools.

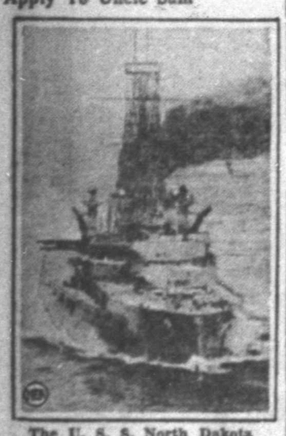

Those following the course are given a state diploma. Students are expected to read state adopted books, using a schedule and specified course.

Acuff is the first school in the county this year to finish the course Miss Murfee explained. Others are following the plan and Miss Murfee expects a number to have their work completed by the end of the term.

The speed limit for light motor cars has been abolished in England.

Want To Buy A Battleship? Apply To Uncle Sam

The U. S. S. North Dakota

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28—Step rightup, folks! Uncle Sam is getting ready to sell a $25,000,000 battleship to met provisions of the London naval treaty. It is the 21-year-old U. S. S. North Dakota, and he'll take whatever he can get, on a cash basis or the installment plan.

The vessel is now at the Norfolk, Va., yard, where it has been out of commission since 1923.

The original cost and operation expense during her 14 years is estimated at nearly $25,000,000. Yet, the warship has never fired a gun in anger.

Girls Need Less Sleep, Have Fewer Dreams

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 28—Girls are far better sleepers than men and, as a result, feel more peppy and less grouchy in the morning. Dr. Donald Laird, of Colgate University, said in an address here.

Dr. Laird

An "inter-collegiate good sleep contest" between boys of Colgate and girls at Skidmore showed that girls have less trouble going to sleep, wake up fewer times and have fewer dreams.

"If you need an alarm clock to waken you, then you need more sleep," the slumber expert said.

Slept Through 'Quake But Can't Stand Wife's Nagging

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 28—Alfred N. Stendal is enjoying the comparative quiet of single bliss, after a successful suit for divorce.

Stendal, a deaf mute, slept through the San Francisco earthquake and didn't become aware of the disaster until the following morning.

But he couldn't stand his wife's nagging, even though—being a deaf mute—she did it in the sign language. His petition stated that his wife made home life impossible with her complaining. Friends said that on different occasions one of the parties involved would turn off the lights during arguments, making the other's sign language less effective.

PLAN TOUR COURSE

Under the direction of Dr. W. C. Holden of the Tech history department a class in archaeology will make a tour of parts of New Mexico during the first six weeks of summer school this year. The course will carry with it nine hours of credit.

It is planned to use a truck or bus to carry the students on the trip this summer. Estimated cost for registration fee, traveling expenses and board will average about $65 or $70 per student, according to Dr. Holden. Between 15 and 20 students will make the trip.

On the trip, ruins of several old towns will be visited and lectures will be given each day. Last year 15 students made the trip which was taken during the latter part of July and in August. It has been necessary for the trip to be offered during June and July this summer, Dr. Holden states and any student who has taken freshman history is eligible to enroll.

TO LEAVE FOR SHOW

Professor W. L. Stangel, head of the Tech department of animal husbandry, will leave Tuesday night for Fort Worth where he will serve as a member of the sifting committee during the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show which begins Saturday.

Professor Stangel also is superintendent of the Swine department at the show and also superintendent of the Boys and Girls Pig club department. He has held the latter positions for some time.

Debates are being held twice each week in the debate class, "Argumentation and Debate". Members of the class will be judges during a debate tournament which is to be staged here next week. The winners of the debate upheld the negative.

Regular meeting of the Scurry County club has been announced for tomorrow night. The organization is composed of Tech students from Scurry county. Social entertainments are held frequently by the members.

Roe Bavousett, Camp Spring, is club president.

WILL ENTER LIVESTOCK

In order that the college may keep abreast of changes in types of livestock from time to time, Tech is shipping four cars of livestock to Fort Worth this week. The stock to be exhibited is stock that has been used for class instruction in the college.

One car to be shipped will include rambouillet lambs that have been on feeding test for 90 days. These lambs will be sold on the market Wednesday and the following day a killing test will be obtained to determine the weight of the pelt, weight of the caul fat, and the dressing percentage.

On Wednesday three car loads of live stock will be shipped to the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show. Included among the stock will be eight fat steers of two breeds, seven dairy cattle of two breeds, 17 fat barrows of three breeds and nine sheep of two breeds. In addition to the show cattle seven market animals will be included in this shipment. R. C. Middleton, W. H. Rogers and A. C. Rogers, herdsmen of Tech dairy cattle, Tech beef cattle and Tech hogs and sheep respectively will be in charge of the stock.

In the past years the premiums won by the Tech livestock exhibited at the Southwest Exposition and Fat Stock Show have borne all expenses of the exhibition.

SERVE LUNCHEONS

Under the direction of Miss Mayme Twyford, member of the foods department in the Tech school of home economics, a class in "Tea Room Management" is serving luncheons in the tea room of the home economics building. The luncheons which are served on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 12 o'clock sell for thirty-five cents each.

The last of these luncheons will be served March 13 and they will not be continued next term, according to word from the foods department.

INSPECTS TECH-MADE SAW

A representative of an eastern scientific company was here recently examining a diamond saw made by students in the Tech geology department. The visitor took a copy of the saw back to the offices of his company.

The saw was made by the geology students under the direction of Dr. L. T. Patton, head of the department, after the saw was needed and no funds were available to buy one. It is claimed that the saw is able to cut rocks very thin and serves the purpose exceedingly well.

TO DEBATE ABILENE TEAMS

Accompanied by Miss Annah Jo Pendleton, acting head of the Tech speech department and director of debate, Wayne Castleberry and Bill Sewell will leave tomorrow for Abilene where they will meet debate teams of Abilene Christian college and McMurry college. Tech will defend the negative in each debate of the question, "Resolved, That the Nation Should Adopt a Policy of Free Trade."

The schedule calls for an engagement with Abilene Christian college tomorrow night and with McMurry college Tuesday night. A telegram was received by Miss Pendleton from the director of debate at Abilene Christian college late yesterday that they preferred to debate on Wednesday. It is thought, however, that the debates will be held as were scheduled.

The engagements this week probably will be Sewell's last debates for Texas Tech. This year is his fourth year as a Tech debater.

RARE COLLECTION ON DISPLAY

Among the rare collection on display in the Tech Geology museum are a collection of Triassic reptile teeth said to be one of the most famous collections in the world. Most of the teeth were gathered from the Swenson ranch near Spur.

HAS NIGHT POSITION

Word has been received that Bill Rousell, former Tech student is now working with a night engineering crew on the Brownwood dam project at Brownwood. Rousell was enrolled in the Tech school of engineering as a junior student last fall.

He expects to return to Tech in January 1932.

Tech Eleven To Meet Baylor Bears In 1931 Season

Site Of Tilt Not Decided; May Be Here

Contract For Game On Way To Lubbock; Bears One Of Strong Elevens Of Southwest Conference

Definite assurance of a football game between Baylor University and Texas Tech in the 1931 season was given yesterday by George Belew, business manager of Baylor athletics in a telephone conversation with Russell Smith, business manager of Tech athletics, Saturday. The contract for the game is in the mails.

Site of the conflict was not known here yesterday pending the arrival of the contract. Tech officials had been corresponding with Mr. Belew since last fall regarding the game and both schools were holding out for home games. There is a possibility, however, that the game will be played here due to the fact that a Tech eleven met the Bears on the Cotton Palace field in Waco in 1929. Tech officials have made a strong bid for the 1931 game in Lubbock.

Contract For Two Years

The contract between the two schools is to run for two years.

Signing of the contract for the game gives the college another date on a Southwest conference schedule, an arrangement which has been in force since 1927. Without the Baylor game, Tech would have been left off this year.

The Bears were one of the strongest teams in the conference this year and furnished plenty of misery for their opponents in all contests. They held the strong Purdue eleven to a low score at the opening of the season. Almost the entire team will return for this fall.

Hitch In New Major-Minor League Draft Treaty Is Marring Baseball's Horizon; Solution Is Sought

(By The Associated Press).

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 28.—With the training camps getting into full swing and ball players taking the spotlight away from the club owners for the season, it developed unexpectedly today that a hitch has occurred in the task of smoothing out the new major-minor league draft agreement.

It has been generally taken for granted the capitulation of the five former non-draft circuits — American association, Pacific coast, International, Western and Three Eye—had removed the last obstacle to complete agreement and brought the opposing factions into complete accord on a new set of regulations.

Battle Still On

However, the Associated Press learned today that the battle still is on in respect to some details of the final terms designed to settle the conflict.

It is understood the present hitch arises from reservations and interpretations, attached unexpectedly by the minor league arbitrating committee to the major league terms which the big fellows had thought were accepted unconditionally.

Landis Gets Facts

Exactly what these reservations involve has not been disclosed. They have been put in the hands of Commissioner Landis. They are understood, however, to concern the optional player clauses and the details of draft operation in some of the minor leagues of lesser classification, all other items apparently having been settled.

They have complicated matters sufficiently, at any rate, for Commissioner Landis to call a conference at his present winter headquarters in Belleair, Fla., with the presidents of the two major leagues —John A. Heydler of the National, and Ernest S. Barnard of the American. There already have been some separate difficulties.

Larry French Is Holding Out For $12,000

PASO ROBLES, Calif., Feb. 28.(AP) The second squad of Pittsburgh Pirates reached spring training headquarters today, and the first full workout of the season is scheduled for tomorrow.

Larry French, left handed pitcher, remains as the club's only major holdout. It was said at camp today he was asking approximately $12,000 for the coming season's work.

Shotton Says He's Got "Real Reserve Material"

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., Feb. 28. (AP)—Burt Shotton, manager of the Phillies, said today that for the first time since he took over the management he will start the 1931 season with "real reserve material." but I do think we will get out of last place if two new men come up to expectations and make good," he said.

Connie Mack Says Youngsters Have Chance

FORT MYERS, Fla., Feb. 28. (AP) Only a few regulars have taken part in the Athletics training thus far, and Manager Connie Mack has had plenty of opportunity to look over his recruits. In one of his brief talks to the squad Mack said that young men possessing baseball talent have a better chance to break into the majors this season than for years.

"We, too, are looking for young men," he said. "I need pitching strength, and I hope it comes from this young crop."

Cardinal Pitchers In Good Shape, Already

BRADENTON, Fla., Feb. 28. (AP) Manager Gabby Street of the Cardinals said he never has seen his pitchers condition themselves so quickly. When the Cardinal regulars report Monday morning they will find strong-armed pitchers in unusually good condition to give them all the batting practice they need, he said.

"My pitchers will be in grand shape for the exhibition games and again send fine young pitchers out to the enemy without danger of losing anybody's arms," he said.

Vic Sorrell To Don Spectacles This Season

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Feb. 28.(AP) Pitcher Vic Sorrell of the Detroit Tigers will don spectacles on the playing field for the first time since he took over the mound duties for the Tigers in 1927, it was announced today. Sorrell, who led all pitchers in victories last season, with Tiger camp here on arrival at the training season, will be fitted with shatterproof glasses by Mark Koenig donned the specs last season.

Brownie Rookies To Get Regulars On Tuesday

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 28. (AP)—After six days of workouts, Bill Killefer's rookie Brownies are all primed and ready for the regulars when they report Tuesday, with some real opposition. The sun has shown but a few days and the workouts have been hampered some by the weather.

Killefer said he wants to give John "Clipper" Smith when he reports all the batting practice they can handle of his juveniles a chance to show their mettle before the Brownie aggregation leaves Florida.

Howley Shows Up For First Practice Session

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 28. (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds sandwiched two workouts between showers today for Manager Dan Howley who made his first appearance of the training season on the ball grounds. Howley who had suffered from an injured toe signalized his presence by telling volunteer independent players to leave camp. They had donned uniforms to help the pitchers limber up.

McCarthy Teaching His Hurlers To Field

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 28. (AP)—Rain cut short the New York Yankees' spring training activities today but afforded the pitchers no rest from their daily task of learning how to field. Perhaps no major league manager devotes so much time to this defensive aspect of the game as does Joe McCarthy, the Yankees' new pilot.

Senator Hurlers To Get Bonus On Victories

BILOXI, Miss., Feb. 28. (AP) — Clark Griffith has no objection to paying his pitchers on a piecework basis in proportion to the number of victories they turn in.

Not only did the Washington owner of the Nationals agree to incorporate in Ad Liska's contract a provision that will compensate him proportionately to the extent of improvement over his 1930 record of nine won and seven lost, but he announced he would make similar arrangements with any of his other flingers who foresee a big year.

The youthful submarine hurler's signature left Fred Marberry and Jack Hayes the only unsigned men on the roster.

Joe Shaute Loses In Practice Session

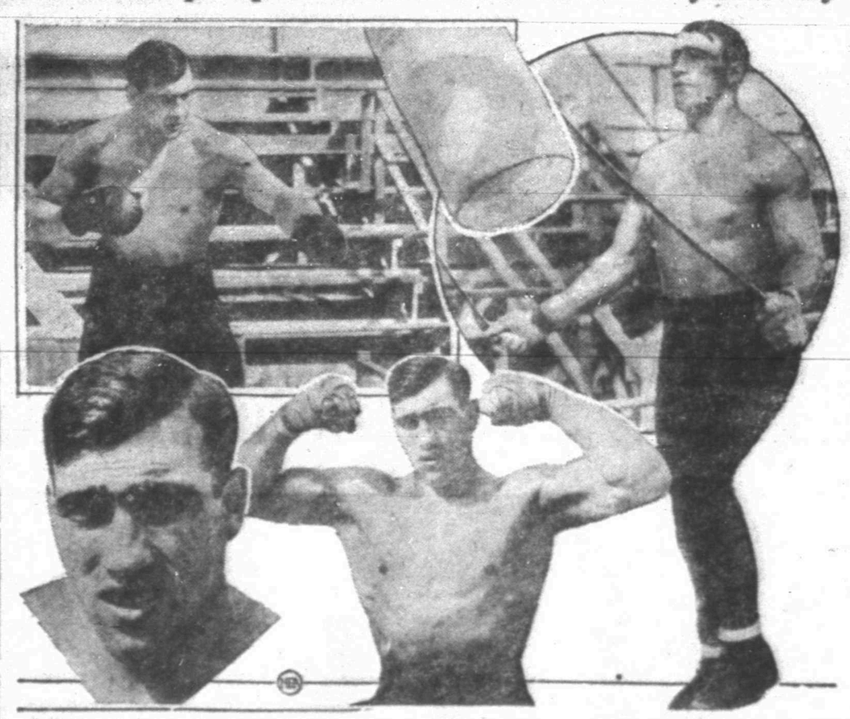

CLEARWATER, Fla., Feb. 28. (AP) Joe Shaute was the losing pitcher in today's nine-inning practice game in the Brooklyn Robins camp but Wilbert Robinson, plump manager of the Robins, thinks the former Cleveland Indian ace will be a big help in the coming National league campaign. Shaute pitched with a free and easy motion that indicated he has recovered from the sore arm that cost him his place with the Indians.

Two Orientals Watching Jawn's Team Work Out

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 28. (AP)—Two Japanese, H. Koshimoto and M. Hongo, arrived from far off Tokio today to study major league baseball as it is taught by John J. McGraw, manager of the New York Giants. The Orientals plan to stick around a while and watch McGraw's methods. Then they'll return home and teach youngers in their own land the inside stuff they pick up. A two-hour drill on routine occupied the Giants today.

ROVING THE SPORTS WORLD

WITH COLLIER PARRIS
JOURNAL SPORTS EDITOR

The trophy tournament at the Meadowbrook Golf Club begins this morning. If you've been playing out at Bill McMillan's course you have probably seen the gold and silver miniature golf balls that will be given into the temporary care of low scorers.

To the five low scorers in the 18-hole tournament will go the gold balls, numbered in the order of their merit. The second five will receive the silver balls. It may be forever and it may be for one day because if you shoot the lowest score and get No. 1 gold golf ball and your nearest rival beats you in your next match, he will trade balls with you, and so on down the line. At some later time should No. 11 in the tournament shoot a lower score than No. 10, the former would hold the No. 10 silver trophy.

McMillan is putting a lot into his Meadowbrook course and deserves much commendation. Fairways and greens have undergone special treatment during the past week. McMillan solving the unemployment problem for nearly a dozen men by putting them to work on the course. He plans to spend around $1,000 during the next two months in watering the fairways. But even with all that, we can't break sixty, and become too disgusted to play the 8th hole.

What's this? A Texas college abandons intercollegiate football? The Associated Press says it's true. St. Mary's University of San Antonio, through President Alfred H. Rabe, announces that the expense of maintaining a team will prohibit the school from participating in intercollegiate competition. The funds heretofore used for that purpose will be turned into "educational channels."

Texas Tech therefore must do a little schedule revising. The Matadors are matched with the St. Mary's team on October 9, the game to be played at the Matador field. Coach Pete Cawthon was out of town when the announcement came and his reaction is unknown. It may be that the team will rest that week-end, due to the game with the Haskell Indians at Dallas on the following week-end.

So St. Mary's is going to turn the athletic fund into "educational channels." It will take a lot of proof before we are convinced that athletics, particularly intercollegiate football, is not as important a part of education as mathematics and geology. A well-rounded education should include a little of everything, else how could it be well-rounded? We endure from a family not necessarily classed as thick-headed and "set in their ways" but when you take athletics out of college you take out one of the best and most important courses, in our humble opinion.

The big cheese of this column is a little man, physically and financially speaking, and we never made the grade in high school or college football. But we would count our high school and college education as lost had we not spent a reasonable amount of time and energy on the athletic field and in the dressing rooms. The best teachers we have ever worked under were coaches of athletics. They taught sportsmanship, physical education, how to blaze the trail and the fundamentals of the finest side of life—that of physical conservation and bodily cleanliness.

The man on the varsity football team gets a lot more out of life and enjoys a wider viewpoint of human nature, is better able to solve some of the mysteries of life than the lanky lad who spends his time outside of classrooms buried in the library researches of the life of Louis XV. The latter may know what lies just beneath the surface of the earth from Beaumont to Bafin Bay, but he wouldn't know the difference between a first down and a stymie, nor much else that transpired above the surface, which is where we must live.

To the casual observer, to a greater extent to the chronic crank, an athlete, particularly if he is a good one, is invited to a college to play football, basketball or whatever he shines in, outlined a course of study which is nothing short of "crips", not compelled to study for classroom work, given a good job, and "gets by easy". Which is entirely the wrong conception. True, he may be invited to come to college. So are good debaters and declaimers. But the athlete must pass required work like all others. He may pass enough to stay in school and still be ineligible for athletics. It's a hard grind. He must divide his study with practice, and he must practice most faithfully. With a book in one hand and a pigskin in the other the football player goes through school. He is to be admired for his spunk. But his reward is much greater. He concludes his college career ready to tackle the next would-be cluders of desire and ambition.

Mustangs Are Back In Race

S. M. U. Defeats University Of Arkansas Razorbacks To Remain In Running For The Southwest Championship

DALLAS, Feb. 28. (AP)—The Southern Methodist university Mustangs defeated the University of Arkansas Razorbacks, 40 to 27, here tonight and jumped back into the race for the championship of the Southwest conference.

After they had lost last night to the Arkansans, the Ponies were counted out of the running, and Texas Christian university was hailed as the coming champion, but the form they displayed in the second game of the series indicated the Mustangs still were to be counted among the contenders.

As a result of the victory and the Horned Frogs loss to Baylor at Fort Worth, the Methodists entered a tie with the Christians and faced the decisive battle with Texas Christian university Tuesday in Fort Worth.

The Mustangs jumped into the fray fiercely at the whistle and quickly took a lead with a free toss by Reynolds and goals by Skeeters and Mills. They were never headed, despite the fact the Razorbacks contributed their annual stellar brand of ball.

Trailing on the small end of a 27 to 15 score at the half, the Porkers came back strong in the second period, but the best they could do was pull to within six points of the Mustangs.

Wright, sophomore center, led the scorers with five field goals and a free toss for a total of 11 points.

Curve Ball Will Tell Fate Of Braves' Rookie Pitcher

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 28. (AP)—Big Wesley Schulmerich, heavy hitting outfielder for the Los Angeles baseball club for whom the Boston Braves laid $40,000 on the line, is heading for the spring camps to find out if he really has mastered the curve ball situation.

He is following in the footsteps of Walter Berger, a former teammate who probably delayed Wes' move to the majors. Berger, a rookie, put new life into the Braves last season with his home run activities.

Schulmerich came to the Angels in 1928 from Oregon State College, where he carved his name in the athletic hall of fame as a great fullback, good baseball player, and wrestler of parts.

The curve ball bothered the big right hander but in spite of this he hit .317 in his irregular appearances that first year and cracked out 19 home runs.

With a veteran outfield on hand in 1929, Wes and Berger staged a close race for the center field job. Berger won. Even at this, Schulmerich hit .328 and banged out 19 homers.

Berger departed for the majors and Wes was shoved over to right field where he encountered the veteran George Harper. He beat Harper out of the position and, playing his first regular season, Schulmerich finished fourth in the Pacific Coast league, hitting .380. His circuit wallop total was 28.

Schulmerich is 28 years old, weighs 215 pounds and stands 5 feet 11½ inches. He throws and bats right handed. His home is in Hillsboro, Oregon.

Nineteen Owls Report For Rice Baseball Team

HOUSTON, Feb. 28. (AP)—Nineteen men, six of them previously lettered, are working out under John Niemic as the Rice Institute baseball coach seeks to build a Southwest conference team.

The Owls in the past, though they have been favored with exceptionally good teams, have given the leaders a deal of trouble now and then, and Niemic hopes to do at least that well again this season.

Jones, Ench and Lee, infielders; Guyer, catcher; Morgan and Russell outfielders, and Hart, pitcher, will be available among the old guard, Hart not until the close of the basketball season.

Thirteen sophomores are trying for posts.

Gene Sarazen Is Leading Tourney

BELLEAIR, Fla., Feb. 28. (AP)—Gene Sarazen of New York, slopped through a steady rain today to card two fine rounds of golf and take command of the field at the halfway point in the Florida west coast open championship with a 139.

One stroke behind came Al Espinosa, from Chicago, who equalled Sarazen's 67 this morning, but could not keep step on the second round.

Standing alone in third place was young Joe Belfore of New Rochelle, N. Y., who surprised the gallery with a 68 this morning and came back with a fine 74 in the afternoon.

Joe Kirkwood, trick shot artist, knit together rounds of 73 and 70, the latter being the best card of the afternoon jaunt, to tie for fourth place with Ralph Kingsrud, Fargo, N. D., and Lighthorse Harry Cooper, now playing out of Chicago. Cooper played consistent golf, turning scores of 71 and 72.

Chances were that little golf will be played during the day unless the players use snowshoes or skis.

The option calls for $2,500 rental yearly for a two-year period. Fleischaker, when the franchise was moved, said one of the factors causing the move was a $5,000 a year rental asked by the park association for the coming season.

Otis White, a mine operator and former ball player who has indicated a desire to place a club here to fill out a six-year association, was not present at the meeting.

West Texas Teachers Defeat East Texans At Commerce, 31 To 29; Game Is Hotly Contested Throughout

COMMERCE, Feb. 28. (AP)—The West Texas Teachers college basketeers from Canyon won the basketball championship of the Texas Intercollegiate athletic association tonight by defeating the East Texas Teachers of Commerce 31 to 29 in a hotly contested game.

The East Texans started out with a 7-point lead early in the game but the Buffaloes warmed to the charge, led by Fortenberry, sixfeet seven and a half inches tall, and Burk, forward. So closely did the East Texans respond with defensive play that the score stood 20 to 19 in favor of the Buffaloes at the half.

Stage Desperate Rally

Never again in the game could the Commerce quintet strike ahead, although they ran up nine points in the last few minutes of play, in a desperate rally.

G. Stringer, captain and guard, and Curtis Stringer, guard, led the Commerce defensive, the cousins tying at nine points each for high scoring honors on their team.

Burk of Canyon was high scorer in the game, with 10 points, while Fortenberry registered nine.

Tides Of Suspicion Rise And Fall In New York Over Question Whether Friday's Bout One Of Those Things

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—The tides of suspicion rose and fell today and arguments were hot and vicious as to whether Billy Petrolle and King Tut, in their sixth engagement, staged one of those things last night in Madison Square Garden.

The New York State Athletic commission, represented solely at the bout by John J. Phelan, made no move today to begin the investigation he ordered after Petrolle knocked the blonde Tut down and out in the fourth round of a savage ten-round melee. In the meantime the Minnesota State Athletic commission barred both battlers and their managers pending the outcome of the investigation.

The thing is all very mysterious and in the opinion of close observers will die a natural death somewhere about the time the local commission meets here for its weekly meeting Tuesday. It is rather generally suggested that Phelan, in the absence of his two fellow commissioners, acted precipitously in ordering the purses of the warriors held up.

"It looked to me the kind of a fight that deserves a little investigating," Phelan said after Petrolle, flattened by Tut in 34 seconds recently in St. Paul, had floored the squat blonde three times and finally drilled him for keeps in the fourth. Phelan had nothing to add to that statement today, but the fighters, the managers, the critics and the faithful at large had a great deal to say.

Citizenship Teaching One Of Outstanding Aims Of Lubbock Schools, Supt. Duncan States

Proper Attitude Toward Government And Its Institutions Foremost In Work Of System; Future Stressed

BUILDING healthy Americans, imbued with the spirit of citizenship and patriotism, and teaching these young Americans the proper attitude toward this government and its institutions, is one of the outstanding aims of the Lubbock public schools, according to an interview released Saturday by M. H. Duncan, superintendent.

"With the spread of Communistic ideas in this country and a growing disrespect for our officials and governmental institutions on the part of many who call them selves good citizens, we feel that, if the schools do not build in the future citizens of the country a proper attitude toward our institutions and those in authority, disaster is sure to follow," Superintendent Duncan declared.

Should Be Loyal

"We want every boy and girl who goes out from the Lubbock public schools to be a 100 per cent American citizen with all that it means, with loyalty to our flag, loyalty to our Democratic institutions and loyalty to those in authority.

"We feel that there is in America today altogether too much unthoughted and unintelligent criticism of our state and national governmental offiicals. Many good citizens feel justified in criticising an official just because he happens to belong to another party, when they should realize that they are Americans before they are members of any party and that loyalty to those in authority, elected by our constituted means of selecting officials, is the first requisite of American citizenship."

Should Love Flag

Mr. Duncan further emphasized that school officiats want boys and girls to love the flag, to honor institutions, to speak well of thos in authority, to reverance our past and to be willing to defend their country and its great heritage against those who would destroy it.

"In every school these ideals are being taught the children," he continued. "We have asked that an American flag be displayed in every room, that the children be taught our patriotic hymns, especially "America", "The Star Spangled Banner," and "America The Beautiful". We have asked that the teachers cause the children to memorize the pledge to the flag: 'I pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America and to the republic for which it stands, One nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.'

Should Be Emphasized

"We are of the opinion that more time should be given in every public educational institution in this country to the teachings of the principles and practices of American citizenship. When the schools give five times as much time to the teaching of foreign languages, which the children will never use, as to inculcating the principles and practices of the right kind of citizenship, it would seem that their program is out of balance and should be adjusted, for surely our government can last no longer than the respect among the people for its institutions.

"If we allow foreigners to come to our shores and teach disrespect for our institutions and do little or nothing ourselves to build respect, we cannot expect these institutions to survive. We must inculcate in our schools, in our churches, and on every occasion, the principles upon which American democracy is based if we would expect that democracy to survive the attacks that are being made upon it by the enemies in our midst. Our schools, our churches and other democratic institutions which we prize so highly cannot last longer than the ideals and the attitudes of the people upon which they are founded."

Increase Is Seen In Hale Acreage

(By Staff Correspondent)

PLAINVIEW, Feb. 28.—More than half of the farms of Hale county this year will have a vegetable garden for the home, many for the first time, if the plans of Mrs. Julia Kelly, county home demonstration agent, are carried out by the women of the rural communities.

Acreage will be from a half to more than an acre in extent. The size will depend upon the amount of water available from the windmill and the money the farmer feels he can spend on a garden.

Mrs. Kelly has received assurances from the several hundred women who are members of the home demonstration clubs that they will all have a garden. In addition to these, there are hundreds of women who are not members of clubs who will also have gardens.

Hot beds also will be used by the home demonstration women in securing early vegetables for the table. Many plans for hot beds have been distributed by Mrs. Kelly.

World Breaks Final Story

Appears On Streets As Usual Carrying News Of Its Own Death To Public; Sale Made To Scripps-Howard

NEW YORK, Feb. 28. (AP)—The City room of the New York World on the twelfth floor of the Golden domed Pulitzer building was thronged with leg men, rewrite men, copy readers, beat men, special writers any copy boys when the last big story broke at 2 a. m. yesterday.

They stood about as Lindesay Parrott sat at his typewriter to bat out the obituary of the newspaper on which they all worked when news of the sale of the World to the Scripps-Howard interests was flashed.

The story was snatched from his typewriter in paragraphs. On its way to the city desk it went from hand to hand. And this morning the World was on the news stands as usual, carrying ten columns telling about its own death, as well as a full report of all the other news of the day.

Walter Lippmann, editor, and Ralph E. Renaud, managing editor, were in Renaud's office, looking down on City Hall park, when the decision came. They got the news first.

Renaud hurried out to the desk of Benjamin Franklin, night city editor. He told Benjamin what had happened. A reporter burst through the door, bearing a copy of the decision. Parrot sat down at his typewriter.

While his colleagues leaned over his shoulder, reading each word as it appeared, he wrote his lead.

"Sale of the World, the Evening World and the Sunday World—the three newspapers that Joseph Pulitzer, the elder, left in trust for his heirs—was authorized early this morning by surrogate James A. Foley."

Paragraph by paragraph it followed. It was hurried across the city desk, to the copy desk and sped up to the composing room under the dome.

It has been customary for some time for the World to print an "ear" on page one of its last edition each day. The "ear" said, "final News Edition." Today it was just that.

Preparations On For Annual County Interscholastic Meet At Tech On March 27 And 28

Nine Silver Loving Cups And Host Of Banners, Medals To Be Awarded Winners Of Various Contests

NINE silver loving cups and about a score of banners in addition to ribbons and possibly medals, will be awarded for prize winning competition in the annual Lubbock County Interscholastic meet to be held at Texas Technological college Friday and Saturday, March 27 and 28, Sam Chatham, superintendent of the Idalou schools and director general of the meet, announces.

There will be ten or eleven classes of competition in the literary events this year. More emphasis is being placed on this type of work this year than ever before and according to Miss Mae Murfee, county superintendent, there has been shown a greater interest than ever.

Sends Out Letter

In a former letter to all rural schools, Mr. Chatham makes the following statements:

"The date for the meet is to be in March and not February and is to be held in Lubbock.

"The committee will spend $150 for awards, to consist of banners, cups, etc. Cups will be awarded as follows: 1—a cup to the rural school receiving the greatest number of points in track and field events; 2—a cup to the rural school receiving the greatest number of points in literary events; 3—a cup to the school receiving the greatest number of points in both literary and track and field events, or an all around cup.

To Award On Classes

"For Class 'B' schools there will be a like number of cups awarded; For Class 'A' schools also three cups will be similiarly placed. No school will receive a cup outside its respective group.

"There will be about 20 banners placed on literary, track and field events, with the emphasis on literary events. Ribbons will be provided for track and field events as individual awards and if funds will permit, for literary events individual medals will be awarded.

Singing Contests Slated

"In choral club there will be two divisions only; one for high school and one for grammer grades. Singing classes may consist of any number up to and including 24 boys or girls or mixed as the school sees fit to enter. The judging will be partly on the selected and general conduct of the class as well as the singing. We are expecting this to be one of the greatest attractions of the meet and wp urge all schools to bring singing classes. A banner will be given to each division.

To Offer Baseball

Tech Program Filled With Major Events

Debates, Artists Programs, Dances, District Meet, W. T. C. C. Meet; School Shows; Commencement Set

LUBBOCK and South Plains citizens who would follow the events and attractions offered by Texas Technological college would do wise by jotting down at least a few of the dates on which these events will be given. For the remaining three months of the 1930-31 school session the calendar is crowded and things will happen thick and fast.

Tomorrow night a Tech debating team composed of Bill Sewell and Wayne Castleberry will meet a team from Abilene Christian college. The following night the two will debate a McMurry college team. Both debates will be held at Abilene and in both cases Tech will defend the negative of the question, "Resolved, That the Nations Should Adopt a Policy of Free Trade." It is probable that at least two forensic engagements will be held here before the end of this year.

Junior Prom Saturday.

Saturday night the Tech junior class members will make merry at the annual junior prom at the Tech gym. The 1931 seniors will be special guests of the juniors at this time when Miss Catherine Jameson, Lubbock, will be crowned queen. The affair will be formal.

On March 20 the renowned Brahms quartet will be presented at the Tech gym as the fourth number of the 1930-31 artist course. Tickets for this event are on sale by Professor W. R. Waghorne, head of the Tech music department and manager of the artist course.

To Give Physics Show.

Sometime in April the Tech physics department will put on the annual Physics Show. Such tricks as turning iron white hot by placing it in a bucket of cold water will be performed at this attraction which will be free. The show will be put on by Dr. E. F. George, head of the department. He will be assisted by seniors in the department.

Dumesnil, famous French pianist, will close the Tech artist course when he will feature a program in the gym April 16. His number bids to be one of the best to be put on by the Tech artist course this year.

To Wage Intramural Tilts.

A recent announcement of the Tech Athletic council reveals that there will be no baseball nor track in the college this spring, but that a heavy intramural program will be carried out. The various athletic events will be contested by the three schools at Tech, the school of engineering, school of agriculture and the school of liberal arts.

Plenty of athletic competition will be available on the Tech athletic field, however, when the district interscholastic league meet gets under way here April 24 and 25. Eighteen counties in this district will be represented in both athletic and literary events. The literary events will include debating, declamation, extemporaneous speaking and essay writing. Tech students will be judges in many of the contests.

W. T. C. C. Meet Here.

Things will happen thick and fast during the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention here May 14, 15 and 16. During these three days the annual Texas Tech Engineers' show will be in full swing and visitors to the convention will have a chance to see just what is offered at Tech. Plans are being made for the entire college to have an "open house" during these three days.

On May 15 the annual pageant will be presented. This attraction will be under the direction of Miss Annah Jo Pendleton, acting head of the speech department and more than a hundred students will participate in it. The Chamber of Commerce visitors likewise will have special invitations to view this performance.

The final gun will be fired when the seniors receive their degrees on June 8. Commencement Sunday has been set for June 7 and degrees will be awarded the following day. The final day falls a week later this year than usual, due to the fact the winter term was one week longer. Final exams will have been completed one week earlier and summer school will begin following commencement day.

Lot Cleanup

ing Friday of the chamber of commerce and board of city development, and is expected to supply employment for about 300 local men for from two to four weeks. Newcomers will not be given jobs. Trash which can not be burned on the lots will be carted by truck to the city dump grounds.

Details of the project will be supervised by the chamber's emergency employment committee. The city has been divided into about 20 districts containing approximately 300 vacant lots each for purposes of the program, which will furnish employment and benefit sanitation and appearance of the city.

Meeting of district foremen originally had been scheduled for 2 p. m. today. Change of the hour to 5 o'clock was announced at the chamber of commerce Saturday.

Arkansas' Eighty-Year-Old "King Tut" Labors To Finish Record For Mankind Ages Hense; Works On Rare Memorial

(By NEA Service)

MONTE NE, Ark., Feb. 28.—Apparently "Coin" Harvey is going to live to complete the pyramid he is erecting to a dying civilization and, like King Tut, leave messages to be read by men thousands of years after his death.

"Coin" Harvey is an 80-year-old political economist who taught William Jennings Bryan about free silver. His real name is William Hope Harvey. The dying civilization referred to is—according to Harvey—the United States of America.

For years Harvey has lived as a sort of hermit in this isolated section of the Ozarks; and for years he has been obsessed by the idea of raising a vast pyramid, King Tut fashion, to preserve for future generations thousands of years hence the history of the United States and an outline of the forces which he feels sure will cause the United States' collapse long before that time.

Recently Harvey fell sick. When one is 80, any sickness is serious, and it looked for a time as if his pyramid must go uncompleted. But now he is recovering, and the completion of his memorial will be his one object when he gets back on his feet again.

Has Spent $10,000

So far he has spent more than $10,000 on it. The foundation for the pyramid is complete—a solid bed of limestone that will last forever. A long tunnel has diverted the course of a mountain stream, so that erosion will not, in the course of centuries, wear the pyramid down. An amphitheater has been built facing the site. The base of the shaft, of reinforced concrete, is nearly completed, and in the spring Harvey hopes to get busy on the main part.

When finished, the pyramid will be a mixture of steak and concrete, 130 feet high. The base, resting securely on the limestone ledge, is a 40-foot square block 10 feet high. On top of it will be a massive chamber, 32 feet square and 35 feet high. Above this the shaft will taper upward for 85 feet.

A Record For The Ages

At the very top there will be a metal plate with this inscription:

"When this can be read, go below and find a record of and the cause of death of a former civilization."

Geologists have assured Harvey that in the course of thousands of years, erosion will have filled this mountain valley with earth. The tip of the pyramid is just calculated to break through the earth deposit; and some day, many ages hence, he thinks some wandering human is apt to pass by, find the tip of the pyramid with its metal plate, and be intrigued thereby.

By that time, Harvey believes, all memory of the present civilization will have vanished from the earth. But people will investigate the metal plate and in time will decipher it. Then they will dig down, uncover the pyramid, and penetrate to its interior chambers, just like archeologists in Egypt recently did at King Tut's tomb.

There, hermetically sealed in glass-covered vacuums, will be books, newspapers, records, photographs and similar things to give mankind of the future a complete picture and history of the United States as it is today. There will also be a 300-word book by Harvey himself, outling the appearance of the forces which, he believes, will eventually cause the downfall of American civilization.

To Warn Future Mankind

Thus, he believes, the people of this future civilization will be able to take warning by the fate of the United States and avoid making the mistakes that we have made.

To make sure that they will get his messages, Harvey will put duplicate copies of all of the records in another room in the pyramid. Everything will be protected against decay and destruction. All the leaves of the books and the newspapers will be sealed in transparent coverings so that the paper will be preserved.

So, by preserving for future generations his own opinion of American civilization, Harvey plans to get back at the country that refused to listen to him.

A generation ago Harvey was one of the best known men in the land. He had been born in 1851 in what later became West Virginia, and he had spent his early life in Cleveland and Chicago, practicing law. He took up the free silver agitation in its infancy and became its foremost advocate, writing a pamphlet called "Coin's Financial School," which had a paid circulation of around 2,000,000 copies.

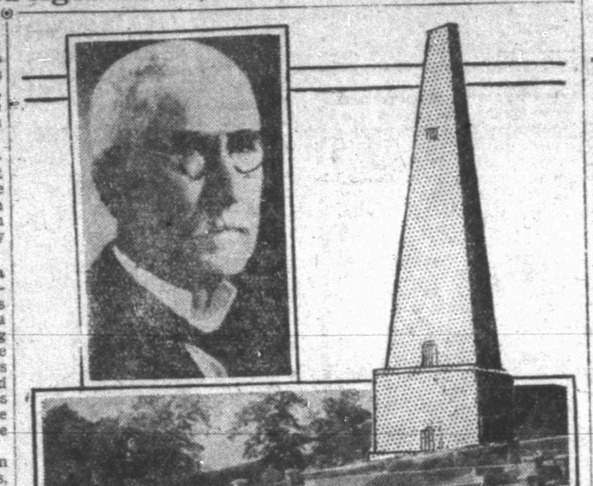

A Friend Of Bryan

When the presidential campaign of 1896 came along Harvey espoused the cause of William Jennings Bryan. Bryan, it is said, was actually converted to the free silver cause by Harvey's writings; and Harvey wrote a novel, "A Tale of Two Nations," in which the hero was modelled after Bryan. For the next four years Harvey was an influential member of the Democratic party.

In 1900, however, it became apparent that the free silver issue was definitely dead. Harvey thereupon dropped out of politics and moved down here to a remote hamlet in the Ozarks. He planned to develop a center here where the leading thinkers of the world could come and rest and think in peace, and he spent a good deal of money on buildings, even building a branch railroad line to make the place accessible to the outside world. This venture collapsed, however, and in recent years Harvey has devoted himself to his pyramid.

He is not seeking to perpetuate his own name. He will not leave any mark or inscription on or in the pyramid to show who built it. He will not sign any of the records in the sealed chambers. All he wants to do is point out, for future generations, the seeds of decay that he has observed in the American civilization of today. Greed, he once said, explains it all.

Using the extension service formula, C. P. Hilburn of Balden county, N. C., produced 1,320 pounds of tobacco on an acre which he sold for $313.12.

William H. Harvey—the famous "Coin" Harvey of a bygone day—is shown above with his rare memorial which he is building to house the records of our present civilization for the benefit of men thousands of years from now. The photograph shows the part already completed; the artist has sketched in the proposed pyramid, for which the base has already been laid.

til the final speech.

"You engineers have a noble profession," said Mr. Ryburn, the first principal speaker. "It is the active fertile minds of you engineers that makes the building of this country possible."

Dean Miller then spoke and introduced two girls who are enrolled in the engineering school and both making excellent grades. The two were Margaret Robertson and Neal Wilkins. A third girl who is a Tech engineer, Mary Green, was unable to attend the celebration.

For ten minutes "Tanlac" Strange spoke amid a roar of laughter and then said, "To my mind there is nothing greater and nobler than architecture. It represents man's interpretation of the beautiful. Architecture alone, however, would be worthless without the other branches of engineering."

Telegrams were read from engineering graduates of Tech from Youngston, Ohio; Guthrie, Okla.; Dallas, Texas; Throckmorton, Georgia; Moore, Penn.; Erie, Penn.; Jefferson City, Mo.; Minneapolis, Minn.; Shreveport, La., and Washington, D. C.

Class speakers were Edgar Neal, freshman Carl McAdams, sophomores; Willard Nott, juniors; and Tommie Morris, seniors. Other speakers included Cary Lodal, John Foster, Ralph Glover, Walter Burns, Bruce Moore and Winnifred Wardell, president of the Engineering society. Other officers of the society which sponsored the event are James Atcheson, vice-president; John A. Davis, secretary, and W. L. Pearson, treasurer. The banquet was planned by a committee made up of Cary Lodal, Carl McAdams and R. P. Ruhmann. Music was furnished by Frank Stone and his Collegians. A special feature was presented by Miss Blanche Fann and P. J. Minter.

Faculty members present were Professor and Mrs. Edgar Shelton, Professor and Mrs. Carl D. Brandt, Dean W. J. Miller, Professor and Mrs. Earl Heard, Professor and Mrs. V. L. Doughtie, Professor and Mrs. J. H. Murdough, Professor and Mrs. O. V. Adams, Dr. and Mrs. R. C. Goodwin, Professor and Mrs. H. F. Godeke, Professor and Mrs. J. C. Hargrave, Professor and Mrs. L. S. Grandy, Professor and Mrs. F. L. MacRee, Professor and Mrs. F. W. Sparks, Professor and Mrs. F. A. Kleinschmidt, Professor and Mrs. W. E. Street, Professors C. L. Svensen, Elmer Hall, Nat B. Edmonson, Wilson Drake, C. C. Perryman and Drs. E. F. George and L. T. Patton.

Special guests were Frank M. Ryburn and W. T. (Tanlac) Strange, principal speakers, Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. J. Bryan Miller, Dean and Mrs. A. H. Leidigh, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Allen, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Kaufman, Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Bennett, Misses Evelyn Knipp, Irma Womack and Blanche Fann, and Messrs Garnett Reeves, J. B. Moxey, Guy R. Johnson, E. W. Hester, James Williams, Bill McWilliams, Frank Emison and Marshall Formby.

She claimed to be part Cherokee Indian and this was under investigation today by agents of the five civilized tribes.

Six months ago, she said, she visited her aunt, returning to El Paso and Midland. Out of a job, she said, she hit the trail into Oklahoma, arriving here this week.

In all her "cowboy" days, she said she didn't drink or "chew"—but she's smoked for twenty years.

Some one asked her today if she now would seek a husband.

"No" she replied positively. "That would be worse than taking care of an old flivver."

Movie Party

women and men in evening dress were drinking and gathered around gambling tables. Roulette wheels, dice and a gallon of liquor was seized. A motion picture projection machine contained a film which police said depicted nude subjects also was taken.

Body, not the veteran film actor of the same name, later told police he had just completed work on a picture and was entertaining some friends. Indicating he would fight the charges, he said: "When the real facts of the arrest are produced at the trial, it will be revealed as merely a sociable gathering of my friends."

Two women accompanied the men to the police station but refused to give their names. One of the men, O'Brien, was well known in pictures as the character, Hildy Johnson, in the film, "The Front Page." Boyd's latest film appearance was in the "Spoilers," with Gary Cooper.

Some of the women at the patry, police said, were in scant attire. The gambling room was described as "well equipped" and supplemented by "A richly furnished bar."

Boyd came to Hollywood about two years ago after a long career on the New York stage. He was divorced a month ago from Clara Joel Boyd, stage actress, whom he charged was "temperamental and often became abusive." They were Married in Greenwich, Conn., in 1920. The day after his divorce, he was arrested in Oceanside, Calif., for reckless driving and fined $250.

Hollywood's other William Boyd has been in films since 1919. The two recently had a dispute over their names but both refused to change them. Among the pictures in which the second William Boyd has appeared were "The Volga Boatman," and "Officer O'Brien."

man, who testified for the first time.

This was the second trial of the case. At the first trial in January, 1930 at Crosbyton, Hawkins was given a sentence of 50 years. He appealed to the court of criminal appeals at Austin and the case was reversed and remanded to Floyd county for trial. Hawkins was free on appeal bond.

Members of the jury were: Lon Blassingame, E. W. Lightfoot, C. W. Henderson, B. L. Breed, S. M. Crawford, George H. Pigg, W. R. Dooley, O. B. Gross, W. O. Hubbard, F. J. Boerner, J. C. Weathers and A. V. Womack.

Durwood H. Bradley, district attorney of the 72nd district court, when informed by the Avalanche-Journal late Saturday of the hung jury in the Hawkins case, said that he expected a new trial would be had.

"I have not talked to Jack Folley but of course there will be a new trial, at the next term of court I presume," he said.

Mr. Bradley expressed some surprise at the verdict.

Students composing the team are: J. Dominy of Paducah, J. O. Gordon of Albany, W. T. McKinney, of Lubbock, Fred P. Nix of Lubbock, B. E. Snyder of Moran, and L. E. Liner of Lubbock.

Prof. W. L. Stangel, head of the department of animal husbandry, and Dr. F. G. Harbaugh, assistant professor in the department, assisted R. C. Mowery in determining personnel of the team at the annual final workout Saturday. Mr. Mowery is associate professor of animal husbandry and coach of livestock judging teams at the college.

Members of the new team were selected from the junior class in advanced livestock judging. The group had been working out since January 1; visiting a Hereford sale, January 23, at Hereford and Standifort Bros. hog farm at South Plains, February 7. Remainder of the training was with livestock at the college. Horses, hogs, sheep and beef cattle were studied.

The Technological college junior team which will compete in the collegiate livestock judging contest at the exposition this week in Fort Worth will be the fifth team to represent the Matador school at the Fat Stock show.

Oklahoma A. & M. college won the contest last year and Technological college placed second.

Twenty-seven Left Stranded When Motor Bus Disappears

DALLAS, Feb. 28. (AP)—Twenty-seven men and women were left stranded here today while police searched in Dallas and other cities nearby for a large motor bus in which members of the party stated they had been en route from Los Angeles to Chicago.

Just after arriving here, they said, the bus driver let them out on a downtown street and said he would return in about 45 minutes. after brakes on the bus had been repaired. Late in the afternoon, the passengers appealed to police. They estimated that baggage left on the bus was worth $5,000.

"Out Our Way" Artist Is Hunter, Too!

Some folks may like to take life easy on "dude" ranches during their vacations, but not Jim Williams, the ex-cowboy who draws the popular daily comic, "Out Our Way." Jim spent several weeks recently renewing old acquaintances at a real old-time Arizona ranch, where, as he put it, "you could ride for 250 miles without seeing a fence." This picture shows Jim, chaps and all, with a deer he shot on a hunting trip into the Camp Wood Mountains, 50 miles from Prescott. It was while he was a cow puncher that Williams met many of the characters whom he portrays in "Out Our Way."

Belated Winter

part of the South Plains, and the temperature dropped. Skies were clouded but at 10 p. m. there had been little precipitation.

Although lowering temperatures were reported at Spur, west of Lubbock, and cloudy skies had prevailed throughout the day there had been no precipitation at 10 p. m.

The temperature at Snyder, in the southeast sector, at 10:15 p. m. was 50 degrees, as compared with 52 degrees at 8 p. m., 55 at 6 p. m. and 63 at 4 p. m. Clouds were reported in the south and west and wind velocity was higher than usual. There had been no rain or snow.

Snow At Pampa

An all-day rain at Pampa turned into heavy snow at nightfall. The temperature had dropped to 39 at 6 p. m. Roads in the vicinity were in poor condition from the heavy rains. Similar conditions prevailed at Borger, nearby, where a driving rain turned into snow at noon and continued unabated Saturday night. It was estimated four inches of snow had fallen.

Although the warmth during the day caused it to melt to some extent, leaving a covering of about two inches on the ground, the snow was reported as extending as far north as Liberal, Kans., and west to Dumas, Tex. The temperature remained above freezing.

Farther south, Wichita Falls reported slow rains to the south and a light mist in the city. The rain extended southward along the Fort Worth and Denver City Railway.

Although it was preceptibly cooler in Fort Worth and Dallas, only traces of rain had fallen. Austin reported .21 of an inch of rain during the afternoon.

Roads Made Heavy

Heavy rains in East Texas oil fields, near Kilgore, made roads almost impassable, delaying trucking of materials to many wells being drilled.

Snow was falling throughout southwest Kansas, the fall measuring an inch and a half early in the afternoon at Dodge City with heavier precipitation reported west of there.

A minimum temperature of 20 degrees with probability of snow was forecast for Wichita, Kan., and vicinity Saturday night by the United States weather bureau. The maximum temperature Saturday at Wichita was 49 degrees. There had been no precipitation.

Blanketed By Snow

A heavy rain was reported over most of Oklahoma during the day. Wheat fields in the Oklahoma Panhandle Saturday night were blanketed with half a foot of snow, according to a report from Boise City. Rain which began there as a drizzle Saturday morning had turned to snow before noon. The white shroud extended eastward to Forgan and Beaver, and the entire northwestern section of the state had received rains.

Oklahoma Panhandle farmers generally regarded the precipitation as beneficial to the new wheat crop.

Slow rain at Wichita Falls, however, was described as "unwanted moisture," the ground in that territory already being watersoaked.

D. F. Eaton, Lubbock county farm agent, Saturday night said that he did not believe the precipitation in the Lubbock vicinity would do any harm, although he indicated that it was not needed.

indictments. Most of the old time rival gangs have been merged, driven out of town or killed off, so the list is made up almost entirely of the henchmen of "Scarface Al" Capone.

Ralph Capone, older brother of the portly leader and a lieutenant in his liquor-gambling-vice syndicate, has been sentenced to three years in prison and fined $10,000 for income tax violations.

Jack Guzik, Capone's business manager, received the biggest sentence so far for income tax fraud—five years.

Frank Nitti, known as the Capone "enforcer" is already serving an 18 month sentence for dodging government taxes.

Ordered Deported

Tony "Mops" Volpe, once Al Capone's bodyguard and more recently one of his executives, has been ordered deported to Italy.

Sam Guzik, brother of Jack, has been indicted and two former beer barons, Frankie Lake and Terry Druggan, have entered conditional pleas of guilty to income tax charges.

Judge Wilkerson, in permitting Capone 30 days more of freedom on the contempt case to enable his attorneys to file an appeal, stipulated that unless his decision were reversed, Capone must start serving his term by July. This would keep him in jail until December when the government hopes to have its income tax case against him ready to take before the grand jury.

therford minister, to prevent legislators from accepting movie passes. The bill lacked only one vote of getting a favorable committee report but the house today declined to print it, 78 to 32.

A bill aimed at keeping open schools in drouth stricken areas was passed by the house. Introduced by Representatives Young of Wellington and Gilbert of Cisco, the bill would allow county school trustees to issue interest bearing warrants to pay school teachers' salaries.

Pass School Bill.

The bill was passed after long argument. Several members of the house claimed teachers should not be given a preferred claim on warrants over other state employees. The interest rate was set at 6 per cent.

Gilbert said that unless school boards were permitted to issue the warrants, many schools would be forced to close before the end of their terms. Enactment of the law deferring the payment of taxes until October 15 was given as the reason for the fund shortage.

Twenty-eight Head Of Cattle Are Sold At Sweetwater Sale

SWEETWATER, Feb. 28. (AP)—Twenty-eight head of registered Hereford cattle were sold on the block here today in the annual mid-winter Sweetwater sale, sponsored this year by the Texas Hereford association. Approximately 200 consignors and purchasers attended.

Breeders said prices ran somewhat below the average. Twenty-three bulls sold for an average of $134 and five females brought an average of $90.

Top price for bulls was $280 for Boo Stanway 114th, consigned by Walter L. Boothe of Sweetwater and purchased by H. A. Freeman of Catarina. Belle Domino 1st, consigned by C. R. Moon of Rotan and purchased by the Wimberly Hereford farm of Sweetwater, brought the highest price for cows—$135.

Seeking World Court Support

Letters To Be Passed Out By Tech "Y" Organizations At Churches Today Urging Special Session Of Congress

Seeking endorsements from approximately 5,000 Lubbock people on the movement to urge a special session of congress to consider entrance of the United States into the world court, letters will be passed out by members of the Tech 'Y' organizations in the local churches today. The letters will urge President Hoover to call the session for consideration of the court protocol.

The distribution of the letters today is the part of a campaign conducted by the Y organizations of the southwestern states.

Following the signature of the letters here today, a telegram will be dispatched to President Hoover Monday telling of the number of advocates of the protocol here and urging the session.

The letter form follows:

Lubbock, Texas,
March 1, 1931.

To His Excellency
Honorable Herbert Hoover,
President of the United States,
Washington, D. C.
My Dear Mr. President:

Our government whose conduct is based on justice and goodwill should have few questions on which it would be unwilling to have the World Court render an advisory opinion.

I endorse the entrance of the United States with the other 46 nations including all the other greater powers into the World Court.

Believing that today all decisions rendered by war go against both sides and that public opinion in general is in favor of the entrance of the United States into the Court, I sincerely urge a special session of the Senate and promise my support to your action.

Respectfully yours.

Much Alfalfa Being Raised

Farmers In Hale County Are Irrigating Crop; Between Four And Five Thousand Acres Sown Into Crops

BY J. SAM LEWIS
Staff Correspondent

PLAINVIEW, Feb. 28. —Between 4,000 and 5,000 acres of alfalfa will be placed under irrigation this spring by farmers of the Plainview irrigated area which includes a portion of western Floyd county as well as Hale county.

Roy Davis, county agent, estimates that the 25 to 30 farmers who are irrigating for the first time will have from 10 to as high as 25 and 30 acres in alfalfa. Some will have even more.

Placing 250 Acres

Fred Lowe, foreman for the Texas Land and Development company is placing with his farmers some 250 acres of alfalfa. Another man is adding 50 acres in alfalfa.

There are nearly 200 irrigated farms owned by the Texas Land and Development company and on every one of these there is a small acreage of alfalfa.

To Average 15 to 20 Acres

"I have never seen as much alfalfa as there is being talked about here," says Mr. Davis. "Just about every farmer who can is going to plant some this year. My estimate is that there will be an average of 15 to 20 acres of alfalfa on the irrigated farms this year."

Alfalfa is a splendid crop for irrigation farming. The yield is high both in hay and in seed. There are more cuttings and the yield is heavier per cutting, than on dry farming. Also, says Mr. Davis, alfalfa on irrigated land is a sure crop, while on dry land the yield depends upon the amount of moisture.

Governor Murray Has Oil Solution

PORT WORTH, Feb. 28. (AP) Governor William H. Murray of Oklahoma tonight laid before Governor Ross S. Sterling of Texas representatives of the governors of New Mexico and Kansas his proposal of a pact to bar foreign or domestic corporations from doing business in these states if they import foreign oil. He said he believed his plan would go far towards solving the perplexing problems that beset oil producers in the mid-continent area.

E. H. Wells of Socorro, New Mexico, state geologist and president of the New Mexico College of Mines represented Governor Arthur Seligman of that state and Alfred M. Landon of Independence, Kan., chairman of the Kansas delegation to the governors' oil conference in Washington, sat in for Governor Harry Woodring.

Verdict Of Murder, Suicide Returned In Family Tragedy

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 28. (AP)—A verdict of murder and suicide was returned by Justice of the Peace John R. Shook this afternoon following a family tragedy in which a man and a child were killed, a man seriously wounded and a woman shot in the left hand and leg.

Fernando Del Rio, 30, and his son Fernando, jr., ten months old, were dead. Mrs. Sara Del Rio, divorced wife of Del Rio and mother of the dead baby, and Epifanio Hermandez, 40, uncle of Mrs. Del Rio, were wounded. Robert B. Green memorial hospital.

Shook had not completed examining witnesses but said he had gone far enough into the details to arrive at a verdict that Del Rio had first fired all the shots and then took his own life.

Cotton Moderate Activity In Cotton Market Livestock Cattle Trade Is Slow On Saturday Grain All Grains Close Week With Losses

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 28. (AP)—There was only moderate activity in cotton in today's short week-end session and although prices started out reactionary they later advanced rather sharply, resulting in a moderate net gain for the day. Liverpool was rather lower than due and the market here opened unchanged to 3 points down and eased off during the first hour on liquidation probably due to a generally reactionary feeling and easier stocks. Late in the second or final hour the market rallied sharply on week-end covering by shorts said to be due to a statement by the farm loan board to the effect that it would not put any part of its large stock of cotton on the market. Prices made new highs 12 to 13 points above the lows and closed steady at the top, the greatest market showing net gains for the day of 5 to 7 points.

Liverpool came in 1 to 4 points worse than due and private cables reported that Bombay sold Manchester cabled that there were good cotth sales to the home trade and a fair business in yarns with India. First trades here showed no change to 3 points decline and the market continued to ease off during the first hour on liquidation, May trading down to 11.24 and October to 11.75 or 5 to 6 points below the previous close.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Feb. 28. (AP)—An opening decline in cotton under realizing and some selling on the easier showing of Liverpool and weakness in Alexander, was followed by rallies on trade buying and covering today. May contracts after selling off to 11.21, or 6 points net lower rallied to 11.37 and closed at 11.36. The final tone of the market was very steady at net advances of 6 to 8 points.

Trade buying appeared to be in the market around 11 1-4 cents for May, with part of it attributed to Japanese interests, and after early offerings had been taken, prices rallied on a continuation of this demand and week-end covering. March contracts sold up from 11.22@11.75 and October from 11.74@11.88 and closing quotations were within a point or two of the best.

Cable advices from Liverpool said continental buying and trade calling had been supplied by Bombay selling, and selling influenced by the weakness of Egyptian cotton. Manchester reported good buying of cotton cloths for the British home trade and a fair business in yarns with India.

DIES OF WOUNDS

EL PASO, Feb. 28. (AP)—Shot by a man said to have been crazed with Marihuana, Damasco Navarette, 28, of Tres Jacales colony, in Mexico across the river from Fabens, Texas, died today in a Juarez hospital. His companions said the man who shot him fled across the border into the United States.

Stocks Given Reactionary Tone By Week-End Selling For Both Accounts

BY JOHN L. COOLEY

Associated Press Financial Writer.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28. (AP)—Week-end selling for both accounts gave stocks a reactionary tone today, although a late rally took the edge off the decline.

Shorts who had been watching for an opening decided that the poor January railroad earnings and the decline in pivotal issues yesterday offered an opportunity and stocks were sold rather briskly during the first hour. Carrier shares slipped off 1 to 5 points and fair recession developed in industrials and utilities as stop-loss orders were uncovered.

Strong support for some of the recent speculative favorites, notably radio and Columbia Graphaphone, stiffened prices in the last half hour and the close was only irregularly lower, with falls still heavy. Sales approximated 1,700,000 shares.

Grain markets were easy. Wheat closed unchanged to 1 1-2 off in sympathy with Winnipeg. Beneficial snow in Kansas also was a factor. Corn was influenced by a larger receipts and a small consuming demand and suffered small losses. Cotton rose 6 to 8 points.

Foreign exchanges were dull. Sterling cables and the French franc yielded slightly, but the German mark and Spanish peseta firmed.

Local Markets

These prices are furnished by the following Lubbock firms: Poultry—Lubbock Poultry & Egg company; delivered Lubbock; Dairy Products—Bell Ice Cream company and Mistletoe Creameries; Grain—S. R. Cone Grain and Seed company, basis from points noted; Cotton—Stocker Cotton company. All prices subject to change during day.

MIDDLEWESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 28. (AP)—Cattle trade this week was very slow with most killing classes sagging to new price levels for the season. The average cost of fed steers in Chicago was the lowest since 1922. Sharp losses of 1.00 or more were reported at several centers on vealers. There was a fair country demand for light weight stockers at strong prices but other replacement steers ruled steady to lower. Receipts were estimated at 145,000.

Supplies of hogs included a large proportion of weight averages under 230 lbs. and such offerings are unevenly 10 to 50c lower than last week. Strong weight butchers show slight declines at some markets and upturns of as much as 25c at others. Chicago and St. Louis had a late top of 7.25. Offerings numbering around 540,000.

Killing classes of sheep are unevenly steady to 25c lower than a week ago with most of the loss reported at the river markets on fat lambs. Choice fed wooled lambs on the close at Chicago cashed up to $9.00. The supply approximated 323,000.

A total of 840 animals were brought to town. The hunt was in charge of L. L. "Bill" Watson and Lee Hansen.

Crippled Children To Be Treated In Clinic In Amarillo

Next Saturday crippled children from entire Texas Panhandle, including the South Plains and the North Plains, will have a free clinic at Northwest Texas Hospital, in Amarillo, with Dr. W. B. Carroll, of Dallas, in charge, according to word from J. C. Paschall, chairman of the Crippled Children's council of Amarillo Civic clubs.

Dr. Carroll is head of the Scottish Rite Crippie Children's hospital in Dallas and is well known to many Lubbock and South Plains business men as well as physicians. He will have his staff with him for the clinic.

"Any one knowing of a crippled child is asked to get in communication with us and give us the name and address of the child and its parents," Mr. Paschall said.

A minstrel show is being given on March 10 and 13 in Amarillo to raise money for the work. A number from Lubbock are expected to attend the show.

A Jersey cow owned by W. H. Westcott of Occidental, Cal., produced its own weight in butterfat in a year. It weighs 750 pounds.

Grain

FORT WORTH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Feb. 28. (AP)—Practically all grains closed the week with losses on the cash market here, in sympathy with contract values. Dealers reported fair demand at the recessions. Estimated receipts included: Wheat, 22 cars; corn, 17; sorghums, 5, and oats and seed, 1.

Quotations ranged as follows, bags carloads delivered Texas common points freight paid:

Wheat: No. 1 hard of any protein 76@78c.

Corn—No. 2 mixed 66@68c; No. 2 white 71@72c; No. 2 yellow 70@71c.

Oats—No. 2 red 42@43 1-2c; (No. 3 white delivered group one 41 1-4@41 3-4c.)

Sorghums—No. 2 milo per 100 pounds, 1.17@1.19; No. 2 kaffir 1.15@1.17.

Cane seed—Nominal, around $1.00 per 100 pounds, according to type, germination, origin and clean-out 2.50@2.70.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Feb. 28. (AP)—New tumbles carried wheat quickly down today to 7 cents under last week's top level, and corn to a fresh bottom record for the season. Big deliveries of wheat Monday on Chicago March contracts were threatened, benefiting snowfalls and rains overspread much domestic wheat territory, and foreigners showed increased anxiety relative to entrance of the United States wheat into active competition with wheat from other countries. Receipts of corn in Chicago totalled nearly double those both of a week and a year ago.

Wheat closed irregular, 1 1-2 cents lower to 1-8 advance, corn 1 1-8 off to 1-4 gain, oats 1-2 down to 1-8 up, and provisions at a rise of 5 to 17 cents.

Downturns of grain prices began as soon as trading started. Rallies afterward lacked force, and it was especially apparent that announcement of Canadian wheat export business failed to act as a stimulus in Chicago, although the purchases from Canada for overseas account totaled 1,000,000 bushels. On the contrary, attention focused on unexpected relative weakness of Liverpool wheat quotations and on the fact that parts of Kansas had received more than a foot of snow. In the corn market a new low record for March delivery fell to below 60 cents, not only outdoing the season's previous bottom record but also that of any delivery since 1923—1924, when March ousted two-year-old March oats to under 30 cents, a new low on the crop.

Automatic House Reapportionment To Go In Effect

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28. (AP) — Automatic reapportionment of house seats on the basis of the 1930 census will go into effect at noon March 4.

Thirty-two states affected by the law making the new representation alignment then will receive official notice from William Tyler Page, house clerk, of the number of seats they are to have for 10 years beginning with the 72nd congress.

This became certain today when the house census committee tabled all proposals designed to change the reapportionment either by increasing the number of house seats or delaying enforcement of the law. The vote was 13 to 8.

Under the act of 1929, a reapportionment based on the 1930 census is automatic unless congress changes the law. Efforts were made by representatives from states losing seats to increase the number, but sufficient strength could not be mustered to force the bill out of committee even after prolonged hearings.

Under the new apportionment as announced by President Hoover in November, 21 states lose 27 seats to 11 states.

California gains 8, Michigan 4, Texas 3. Two additional seats each go to New Jersey, New York and Ohio. Connecticut, Florida, North Carolina, Oregon and Washington, each gain one.

TWO COMPLAINTS FILED

KERRVILLE, Feb. 28. (AP)—Two complaints charging extortion have been filed against Walter D. Price, 36, in connection with letters demanding $3,000 from L. A. Schreiner, local banker. Price was arrested several days ago and signed a statement admitting that he wrote the letters.

Tourists visiting Sequoia national park in California during the season numbered 129,221.

Doctors And Dentists Of City Join RMA Credit Group; 29 Are Members

Twenty-two local physicians and nine dentists have joined a medical and dental credit group as a part of the Lubbock Retail Merchants association, Garnett O. Reeves, secretary of the retailers organization, announced yesterday.

Purpose of the organization is to exchange credit information in the same manner that merchants and other business men of the city use in connection with the association, Mr. Reeves said.

Co-operating physicians and dentists, however, said that emergency cases would be taken care of as in the past, but that arrangements must be made for settlement. They declared that a committee would be appointed and if investigation indicated that a patient could not make arrangements for settlement, his work would be taken care of as charity.

Lubbock Camp Fire Girls Will Celebrate Birthday Of National Association

CAMP FIRE girls of Lubbock are looking forward now to celebrating the 19th anniversary of the founding of that organization and are planning programs to observe the occasion. March is Camp Fire birthday month.

Birthday project requirements were set by the city executive, Miss Margie Taylor, and these will be met before the celebration, which will fall during the week of March 15 to 20. An International Revue and Council Fire program, which will be a part of an international observance, will climax the program here and will be in the banquet room of the Hilton Hotel.

Rev. Walter P. Jennings, pastor of the First Christian church, will preach the Birthday sermon on the evening of March 15 at his church and Camp Fire girls of the city are to attend.

Choose Theme

'International Friendship' has been chosen as the theme for this observance and local members of the organization are "joining hands with Camp Fire girls around the world" in carrying it out, according to Miss Taylor.

Approximately one hundred Lubbock girls will participate in the program here, although only 82 were in good standing at national headquarters on January 1. About 125 are in some phase of the activities in Lubbock, Miss Taylor said.

Camp Fire work has continued in Lubbock since August 1925 when it was started under the sponsorship of the Junior Twentieth Century club. For more than a year now it has been outside the jurisdiction of that society and has been managed by a council made up of men and women of the town. Some of the young women who entered the groups as members when Camp Fire was formed are now serving as guardians for other girls and are thus carrying on in the work.

Gulicks Are Founders

Dr. Luther Halsey Gulick and his wife, Charlotte V. Gulick, are credited with giving Camp Fire its beginning in 1911 and are said to be responsible for the honor system, ideals, ritual and the use of symbolism in the organization. The name of their summer camp for girls in the Maine woods, Wohelo became the watchword of Camp Fire. The name was derived through using the first two letters of the words, Work, Health, and Love.

Other men and women in the East who were interested in giving to girls some sort of an organization for wholesome training during their adolescent years joined with Dr. and Mrs. Gulick in founding Camp Fire and incorporating it into a national association in 1912. Now there are Camp Fire girls in Asia, Bulgaria, Japan, Scotland, Spain, South America, England, Canada and the United States.

DR. MYERS

Doctor Myers' Daily Column On Child Welfare

BY GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D. Head Division Parental Education Cleveland College, Western Reserve University

GOOD MOTHER ON PULLMAN IS PRAISED

WHILE RIDING in a Pullman recently I sat not far from a mother who had with her two children. I should guess the older one was four and the younger three.

The children seemed to have good habits of self-control. They were not destructive. They did not run around to invite attention of the other passengers. They annoyed no one.

The mother manifested perfect poise. I never have seen any one more sympathetic toward a child. She read to them and, when they interrupted her reading to ask a question, she was not disturbed. She always answered patiently. When, bye and bye, they tired of the book and it was put away the children played—one with his dog, the other with his elephant, visiting with each other and their mother as if all of them were grown up.

Those children must have asked 300 questions in three hours, to all of which the mother made careful, cautious answer, without a sign of emotional disturbance, in her voice or in her face. One child wondered what their daddy might be doing, whether he would meet them at the station, and whether he would bring the dog along. "What is that?" was often stimulated by things seen from the window. The children often volunteered their own interpretation, adding often to the mother's.

Then from one child or the other there were scores of inquiries about matters which to the observer had no relation at all to things present. But there was a reason. Nothing merely happens. Something is the cause. The things which pop into the head of the little child, not unlike the things which flash into ours, have had a source, even when we are unfamiliar with that source.

Those little children's minds were working fast. The mother helped to keep them working. As she satisfied their curiosity they became more curious. They were getting intellectual training. No formal education will they ever get which will be nearly equal in its value to their mental growth from this experience on the train with their mother. They were learning from the greatest teacher in the greatest school they will ever attend. And they didn't know they were learning. Perhaps the mother didn't. She was just being a good mother.

Twentieth Century Club Members Are To Be Honored As Texas Fine Arts Association And Junior Twentieth Century Club Sponsor Art Exhibition In City

TUESDAY and Wednesday have been announced as dates for a public exhibition of thirty-one paintings by Texas artists. The canvases will be brought here by the Texas Fine Arts Association under the auspices of the Junior Twentieth Century club and will be hung on the mezzanine floor of the Hilton Hotel

This is the first time in the history of the fine arts association that Lubbock has been included in a circuit, which makes a number of the larger cities annually. Each artist in the group has one painting in the collection. During the two days, the exhibit will be open to anyone who wishes to call at the hotel and see it, the club members have announced.

On Monday a tea will be given by the Junior Twentieth Century club for members of the Twentieth Century club pioneer society, and the collection will be viewed. On the two following days the exhibition will be open to the public.

The collection include oils and watercolors from leading artists over the state of Texas and a portrait, "Doris", by Mrs. Chester Hubbard, of this city, who is a member of the association.

Mrs. Hubbard viewed the exhibit while it was being shown in Plainview.

A painting, "Summer Showers" by Charles T. Bowling, of Dallas; "May Morning", by Edwin G. Eisenlohr", also of Dallas, and "Noon, Taos Pueblo", by Frank Klepper, of McKinney, will be of special interest to patrons of art, who have read of their successes in a recent cabinet exhibition at the University club, Dallas. Bowling is coming to the front, according to criticism, and is rapidly becoming recognized as an outstanding artist.

Some of the artists who will exhibit in the collection have shown their works in leading galleries of the United States and have studied extensively here and abroad.

Mrs. Hubbard Assist

The works include a wide variety of paintings varying from still life, which embraces a number of nature studies, to "Old Spanish Couple" by Henrietta Sanderson, of Austin. Mrs. Hubbard is assisting in the placing of the paintings and she will also answer questions concerning the pictures.

Waldine A. Tauch, Sculptress, Is Visitor In Lubbock

From an awed adolescent, protogee of a Brady women's culture club a dozen years or so ago, to a poised woman who has recognition across a nation as a sculptress, lies the success story of Waldine Amanda Tauch, who is probably the first of her profession to visit in Lubbock.

A native of Schulenburg, Miss Tauch started her career in the San Antonio studio of Pompeo Coppini, going with him several years later to New York where she has continued with her work, although her home remains in San Antonio. In Lubbock she is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar T. Neal, 2106 13th street.

Looking back now to the day when she first went to see Coppini — a small, teen-age girl with heart thumping beneath a pink carnation for identification in a city depot—Miss Tauch has a poignant memory of her introduction to a career.

That day's story reads like fiction.

Recognizing what they felt was ability amounting to probable genius in a high school girl, whose hobby was carving figures out of chalk and rock, the Brady Tuesday club, a woman's organization, decided to adopt Miss Tauch for one year and send her to San Antonio to study under Coppini. Correspondence was started with the sculpter and some specimens of the girl's work were sent to him before he agreed to take her as a pupil.

The day arrived and the girl prepared for her first trip into the city where she was to be met at the station by Mrs. Coppini and a pupil from the studio. Identification was arranged—a pink carnation was pinned to the little girl's coat lapel—and a wire was dispatched to the Coppinis to meet the 7:30 train.

But excited club women had omitted to say which 7:30 train. Puzzled Coppinis, pondering over a trio of trains which arrived simultaneously at three stations, waited in vain for a call from a station until after ten in the evening. Finally starting on a search for the young woman, they found her, frightened and sleepy, sitting disconsolantly in the station to which her train had brought her hours earlier, but still wearing the wilting flower.

To a country girl who had never visited an artist before, the Coppini studio, into which she was introduced the following morning, was an awe-inspiring sight. Accustomed as she was to tiny figures that she had carved from rock and chalk, she gasped over the magnificent figures which filled the room.

After this first year that was spent in San Antonio as a protogee of the women's club, Miss Tauch was later selected by the sculpter and his wife as their protogee and she remained in their home studying for four years. From pupil, she rose to

City Beautification Is Planned At City Federation Meeting

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN
Avalanche Woman's Editor

THIS is Return What You Borrow Day so if you find some anonymous packages on the front door step when you finally crawl out of bed this morning, just calmly take them inside and open them up. You may not recognize the things inside but someone else has remembered borrowing them in all probability.

The method of returning things isn't going to matter, just so they get home.

If this day is profitable enough, we won't have another for a year. If it isn't, we may have another one pretty soon. That question will go back to the founder, Mrs. W. C. Rylander.

FRYING FAT

IF FOODS take up too much fat when frying it may be because the fat is not hot enough. Test it with a cube of bread, which should fry a golden brown in three minutes.

THEY DO MARRY

WHEN Anita Loos said in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" that a Tiller girl never marries, she was wrong. The other day it was learned that nine of the thirty imported from London to dance in Fred Stone's show, "Ripples", had married and would remain in the United States.

Something tells me that Tiller girls are just about like the rest of the women—they marry.

ITS DISADVANTAGE

AT LEAST there is some consolation in not being a beauty. We have nothing to live up to!

Think of the responsibility of having a famous artist announce publicly that you have one of the most divine forms in the world in choosing beauties! That is what Cecil Beaton, London painter, said of Lilyan Tashman, film star, out in Hollywood the other day. There are blessings in obscurity.

THE COOLIDGES AGAIN

REFERRING to something I had written recently concerning Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, A. B. Mason came in just now and related an anecdote that he had picked up some place.

Once while the Coolidges were at the White House, so the story goes, a Washington newspaper woman approached Mrs. Coolidge about the gown she was to wear for a specific function. And, true to her simple ways, the President's wife explained that she was wearing a made-over frock.

THE FLOWER EXCHANGE

DON'T forgot the flower exchange that The Woman's Angle is sponsoring for the spring. Some plants and shrubs should be transplanted now instead of later. If you have an abundance of something and are lacking something else, you may be able to make the exchange by advertising it.

Calls can be made to the woman's department of the newspaper and this column will list the wants and the things that people have to exchange. This exchange is to be entirely without charge.

THOSE RECIPES?

OH YES, we are still wanting egg recipes. Cakes, new omelets, pies or simply new ways of preparing eggs may be sent in.

BACK-YARD GARDENS

MRS. EDGAR T. NEAL is advocating back-yard gardens—the kind that vegetables are grown in, as well as the ones with flowers.

Some day she is going to tell me a lot about the dignity of these gardens. It might help, she thinks, for everyone to have such a garden—those in moderate circumstances as well as the poor— because then the people who really need the garden for their vegetables wouldn't feel that there is any proletarianism in digging around in the dirt and cultivating things.

That is a good idea and it had not occurred to me, simply because I had never thought that plebeianism was indicated when one gardened. There is just as much pleasure in gardening as anything else. I like to get down and dig and plant things and watch them grow and there is no joy like the first bean or onion of the spring garden, if you happen to be that sort of thing.

* * *

Perhaps liking the soil is inherent. The other day a five-year-old, who was helping plants some flowers, told me that he loved the smell of fresh dirt. . . that pungent odor that invades the air when fields are fresh turned. And that's the sort of thing that poets write about!

Euzelian Bible Class Party Is Given On Friday Evening

Mesdames J. B. Black and Allan Harper were joint hostesses with Mrs. J. F. Wofford in her apartment on Fifteenth street Friday evening when members of the Euzelian Bible class of the First Baptist church gathered in a business session.

Later a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments carrying out a St. Patrick motif were passed.

Those in attendance were Mesdames W. A. Perry, Earl Thornton, Rhine Skipper, Davis Vaughn, W. E. Latham, J. P. Nelson, Mitred McCarley, J. L. Helm, F. J. Brown, Joe Rice, Paul Reed, J. D. Howze, L. Parks Among Topics Talked At Gathering

Highway Beautification Is Underway; Memorial Plans Submitted By The City Park Board To Federation

DISCUSSION of city beautification drew the major interest Friday afternoon at what was described as one of the most successful meetings of the City Federation of Women's clubs for this year.

The planting of parks and roadways, discussion of a Federation memorial to be placed in a park of the city and the bi-centiennial movement of the National Federation of Women's clubs to plant 10,000,000 trees during this year were topics for talks by those in attendance. Miss Mae Murfee, president of the Federation, was in charge of the meeting.

Plans Endorsed

Delegates of city clubs, who were in attendance, endorsed several of the suggested movements and will report on the talks at their clubs during the next few weeks before definite action is taken.

In cooperating with the General Federation in planting the 10,000,000 trees during 1931, Miss Murfee asked that anyone planting trees during the year report to her. She will issue certificates and send the reports to headquarters. This movement is under way to replenish forests and to beautify the country.

Mrs. Clyde F. Elkins talked on this topic during the meeting Friday, suggesting highway beautification as one phase of the work. It was announced that Dr. Fred Standefer has given the City Federation 100 trees in initiating a movement to plant trees along the Lubbock-Slaton highway.

Suggests Planting Plan

Following two readings, "Trees" and "Spring", by Mrs. J. E. Hamilton, Mrs. W. L. Baugh talked on flowers for the fall garden, suggesting winter daisies, chrysanthemums, French marigolds, nasturtiums, calendulas and others as late-blooming plants.

"Garden of Flowers" and "Memory" were sung by Mrs. G. N. Atkinson and Miss Hazel Kokanour played a piano selection.

Representing the city park board, Mrs. Fred Stubbs presented three plans for the Federation to place memorials in city parks. One suggestion was for a Spanish wellhead in the McCrummen park opposite the new high school building. Another was for a picnic shed in the park and the third was for a rose garden in one of the parks.

These plans are to be submitted to the Federation park committee, of which Mrs. J. S. Johnson is chairman, for consideration.

This committee is to pass on plans presented by a committee from the Lions club, which is asking the cooperation of club women in improving a park in Lubbock.

Mrs. Frank Winn talked on the necessity for the extermination of the dandelion, suggesting that the plants must be dug out of lawns as mowing or cutting fail to kill them.

Here It Is In Black And White; All Types In Fashion Book

BY JEAN PATOU
Written for NEA Service

PARIS, Feb. 28—Printed fabrics are of incomparable assistance to a style creator because of the continuous variations they bring to fashions in general. We cannot tire of them, despite the fact that at the end of every summer it is invariably decreed that prints are definitely going out.

I feel this lassitude myself, especially as it is necessary for me to study these myself at least three months before I actually see them worn by women.

It is because of their dual qualities of freshness and decorativeness that prints are not likely to disappear from fashion's orbit, and though other fabrics may disappear from the mode after a short-lived vogue, where prints are concerned one can always look forward to new compositions in design and coloring which make each season's offering look totally different from the last.

Texture is another element that enables a print to multiply its effects, which can be varied to suit the seasons besides the new ideas in color combinations.

Summer prints are an enchantment of delicate, sunny color schemes, facilitating the couturier's task in composing countless vaporous and dainty gowns, differing in this from the winter prints that are necessarily more restrained in color and of thicker texture, appearing as they usually do on such materials as moires, lames or velvets.

Spring Prints in Vogue

Prints are good for the spring time also, provided they are used in modernization. The early spring models in my new collection that are made up in printed fabrics are essentially discreet as regards design and coloring, whereas those destined for the summer months are more colorful. This, so far as evening dresses are concerned.

The carefully studied technique of cut to be found in the new models that feature prints enables me to use the more discreet of the range of color schemes offered. Black and white or a combination that gives one the impresion that black and white predominates are the best, as for instance, black combined with several shades of gray or black and white and some other pale shade in the pastel green or pinks that remain unobtrusive.

Any spring evening dress of printed fabric should, I think, always be accompanied by a wrap of heavier material in a solid color. I think that velvet, in this respect, is an ideal medium. It compensates the sheerness of the dress and supplies the necessary luxurious touch, devoid of fur as many of this season's models are, demanded of an evening ensemble.

Even more discreet coloring and design is required of printed fabrics for afternoon spring clothes. While later on in the season bolder designs and more vivid hues are permissible, black and white are obviously the only possible combination for the first warm spring days. Even here, the white design should not dominate, but the general impression of the ensemble should be rather one of black touched with white than a combination of both.

Heavyweight crepes are used for these outdoor models to cope with the varieties of the season, and in most cases, a long coat of plain fabric conceals the dress.

Pique and lingerie touches at collar and cuffs afford a vast field for new ideas and belts of supple patent leather are also a good finishing touch.

A new spring afternoon frock from Patou is made of marocain with a modernistic design in white on a black background and trimmed with a new type of white pique collar and cuffs, with four shiny black buttons fastening the cuffs. A new evening gown from Patou features the new three-color scheme in its print, which is pale green and pale pink on a black background, has a skirt made with the draped front that is a new note and a scarf type of decolletage.

SWAN

In Barbary With Gilbert Swan

MARRAKECH, Morocco, Feb. 28—For years I have read books and seen films in which the Foreign Legion boys were the heroes.

In fact, the last movie I witnessed before leaving New York was a picture concerning Morocco, featuring Marlene Dietrich. So here I was in Morocco and in a place where one of the largest Foreign Legion posts is kept. I stood at one corner of a square, amused by a motion picture theater which was showing a film a couple of years old. It concerned a Chicago gang war. And Legionnaires and Arabs were storming the box office trying to get in. They may not know New York out here, but they certainly know their Al Capone.

A few hours later I started out to gather statistics about these fabulous Legion gents. And, sad as it may seem to your illusions, 60 per cent are German—though I couldn't discover why—and 2 per cent are French and the rest are a mixture of the peoples of the earth. Americans and English are the rarest.

As I was soon to dicover.

The general in command had agreed to put on a review of the Legion boys and the Spahi fancy riders. When several hundred of them had been gathered on the field, I asked the commander if he knew any Americanos in the crowd. He didn't, but was willing to ask.

"Is there an American in this gathering?" he inquired in first rate French.

Out of the crowd stepped one man, a large lanky Swede. His name is Henry Olson and he hails from Minneapolis. Having gone overseas during the war, he decided to stay there, for he had no kin in the states and no particular reason for returning home.

The second Legion incident occurred, later, in Meknes, on the North African coast. It was a Sunday afternoon and the location was the new French quarter, perched nigh upon a hill back of "old town."

The Foreign Legion band was giving its weekly concert. At a nearby sidewalk cafe sat a group of impersonal French officers, reading their newspapers and sipping their "fins."

At the cafe bar was the best imitation I have seen in the flesh of the barmaid in "What Price Glory?" A shock of elegantly untrained hair fell loosely and rakishly over her left eye. She could—and did—leap on the bar and her English consisted of three cuss words. She crossed her legs with just the degree of naughtiness and gaminerie necessary to such an occasion.

At any rate, we amused ourselves watching her barmaid act until the band had finished its particular number. Wandering over to the square, I asked if there was an American in the Legion band. The director scarcely knew the names of his men, let alone their nationalities. So he addressed them.

"Is there one American in this group?" he asked in French.

Big boy—is they—an' how—" Up from the band chairs jumped about the blackest Negro I have yet to meet, including Harlem and way spots.

Yessah—whah you all from? Wall, sah, I'm from Frisco—What! You from Frisco?—Oh, baby, how am that town? Ain't seen it since de wah. Went out wa de big wah, and kept right on goin'. After she was over, ah joined up with this Legion—and here ah is. Yeah—ah got wounded up fightin' de Riff. So they stuck me in the band. Used to do a little horn tootin' out in Frisco.

"Wal, gotta get back to play another piece. If you see any of the boys from Hayes Valley, jus' tell 'em you saw Stubby Johnson."

And then the band went into another tune.

Sculptress Here

an assistant to Mr. Coppini and later was selected by him as his only helper when he was commissioned to create the Littlefield memorial group for the campus of Texas University in Austin.

Gains Recognition.

Since going to New York, where she now has a studio, Miss Tauch has gained nation-wide recognition and has pieces of her work in several different states. She is a member of the National Society of Women Painters and Sculptors, which is one of the oldest in the United States and one to which every artist wishes to belong. Recently she was asked by that body to serve on the sketch jury for 1931—the committee which passes on the works of other members before they are placed in the society's galleries in New York.

She is a member of The Society of Medalists, The Southern States Art League and the Artists' Professional League.

Among the things that she has done are the Soldiers and Sailors Monument in Bedford, Ind.; the Baptismal Fount in Grace Lutheran church, San Antonio; a bas relief in the children's reading room of the Jersey City library, and works in some of the outstanding museums in the nation.

As early as 1917, Miss Tauch had a place in the Texas Women's Hall of Fame and at that time her most pretentious work was the foundation on Commerce Street in San Antonio, presented to that city by the San Antonio Express.

Although her first interest is in sculptoring, Miss Tauch likes to work with colors and plans to do more painting some day when she has the leisure.

Buys Coppini Home.

Associating many of her most pleasant memories with the house in which Mr. and Mrs. Coppini lived when she first went to them in San Antonio, Miss Tauch later purchased that place and her parents reside there at this time, maintaining it as the permanent home of the sculptress.

From her earliest childhood when she carved from whatever medium she could find, Miss Tauch has never entertained a thought of seeking a career other than the one she is following now, and she believes that the day may come when people will regard art as a necessity, instead of a luxury, and will cultivate an appreciation of historical events through recording them in bronze or marble. The eccentric trends in art — modernistic and impressionistic—which have been in vogue during the last few years, are being superceded by more interest in real art, according to Miss Tauch, who says that "an age is just beginning when art, such as was known while the great Florentices lived, will blossom again, and it is hoped, with the taste cultivated."

Refreshments were served as at any other party.

Sandino's Aide

This is Colonel Augustine Faramundo Marti, chief aide to the Nicaraguan insurgent general, Sandino, whose troops recently killed eight U. S. marines in a jungle skirmish. Colonel Marti, captured in Mexico, deported to his native country, El Salvador, and exiled thence to the United States, was seized by American authorities as he reached Los Angeles. Highly educated, it is said that he has been the "brains" of Sandino's long campaign.

Let Sagging Wallpaper Ruin Your Home's Appearance

IS the wallpaper in your home sagging, bulging and drawing at the corners as it is in so many Texas homes? Don't think that you must tolerate this discouraging condition.

Now, by installing Metalock Sheetrock right over your present walls, you can have permanently smooth and beautiful walls and ceilings. Walls stay firm and rigid—do not crack or warp—because all joints in this modern wallboard construction are armored with a patented USG metal fabric. And Metalock Sheetrock is fireproof and vermin-proof.

In only a few days time you can cover that unsightly sagging wallpaper and decorate your rooms in any way you wish. Apply wallpaper if you prefer—it stays flat and unwrinkled. Or decorate with the same beautiful textures that you now see in the new modern homes by using Textone, the plastic paint.

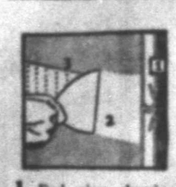

You will be amazed at the moderate cost of installing Metalock Sheetrock. Often the cost of re-finishing and decorating a typical living-room is as little as $75.

Now is the time to beautify your home in this modern way as thousands of other Texas home owners have done. Get in touch with your carpenter or contractor. Ask, too, about Sheetrock Tile Board for bathrooms and kitchens. Your dealer in lumber or building supplies can furnish the materials. Or write to us. United States Gypsum Company, Sante Fe Bldg., Dallas. Mill: Sweetwater, Texas.

It shows how Metalock Sheetrock is applied, and illustrates the beautiful decorative effects this armored joint construction makes possible.

1. End view showing how tongue and groove edges of half-inch Sheetrock meet to form a smooth, strong joint.

2. This joint is permanently re-inforced by metal fabric, which is then covered by a special cement.

3. This shows the metal fabric before cement is applied. This armored construction covered by U. S. patents.

Betterment Of Business Sentiment Seen

Spirit Looms Brighter Over Entire Nation

Continuance Of Rally In Bonds, Stocks And Expansion In Iron, Steel And Car Industries Noted

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—A distinct betterment in business sentiment since the beginning of the year noted by Frank Greene in his monthly review for Nation's Business, published by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

The brighter spihit that ruled in business circles in January, he says, presented a sharp contrast to the gloomy feeling that existed in the closing months of 1930. He ascribes the more cheerful tone to the fact that fifteen months of the depression have passed rather than because ony great natural changes have taken place.

"The development of the first 30 or 40 days of 1931," he observes, "were rather more than ordinarily mixed, and time will be needed to demonstrate the extent to which better feeling will lead to really better business.

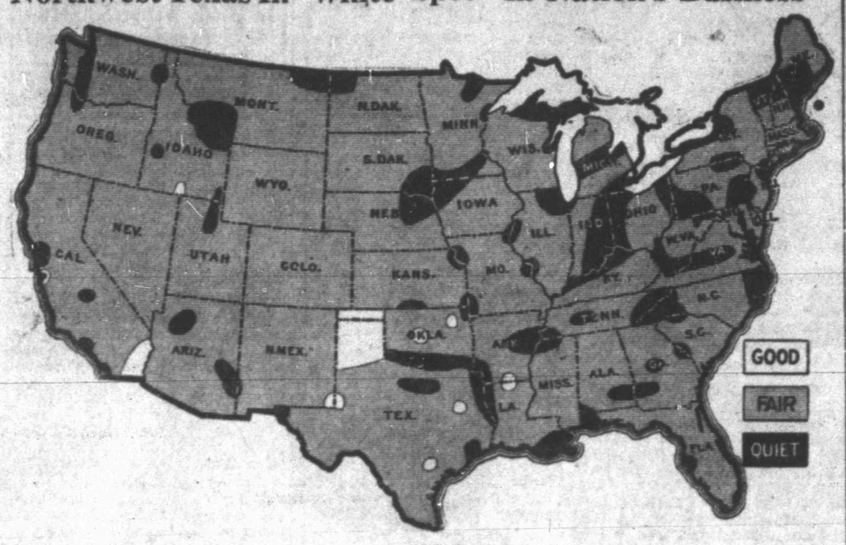

"The most immediate visible features of January were the continuance of the rally in stocks and the slower advance in the bond market, both of which were retarded by the fear that vast sums of money would have to be raised to pay in cash the soldiers' bonus.

"There was a slow, but fairly steady expansion, first in iron and steel and automobile production and later in other industries, notably shoes, cotton goods, silk, rayon and furniture. The relatively slow rate of expansion in iron and steel was largely expainable by the smaller volume of buying of steel rails which was partly offset by the reawakening demand for gas and oil pipe and buying heavy road machinery and expansion in the tin-plate industry. There was sharp cutting of prices of tires preceding gains in production. The automobile industry went forward at a fairly encouraging pace. Pig-iron production expanded slightly over December, the first gain over the preceding month since April, 1930. The gain in steel output was relatively larger, perhaps ten per cent. In few or no cases, however, was production equal to that of a year ago.

"Another development was the continuance of the liquidation in prices of commodities. January showed the sixteenth consecutive monthly decline and brought price indexes down to the levels of early 1913.

"Two other features were the rather marked steadiness displayed by two commodities, wheat and cotton. This reflected continued government operations in the markets, and, in the case of wheat,evident shortage of moisture. Prices of both held steady in the face of record supplies at home and abroad.

Northwest Texas In "White Spot" In Nation's Business

"In trade distribution a feature was the relatively better buying in the cities from chain and mail-order houses, balanced by evidently reduced buying power in rural districts. Wholesale and jobbing distribution went forward cautiously. Retailers found mild winter weather a bar to free sales of heavy winter goods and this affected sales of anthracite and bituminous coal.

Cars Increase

"Estimates of automobile production during January pointed to 175,000 to 200,000 cars and trucks, as against 155,000 in December, 1930 and 120,000 in December, 1929. In January, 1930 the automobile output was 275,000 cars and trucks.

"The commodity-price movement again disappointed those who have argued that prices have become stabilized. There was a decrease of 2.1 per cent from January 1 to February 1, a drop of 19.2 per cent from February 1 a year ago and 35 per cent from the peak point since deflation was reached on December 1, 1929. They have fallen from the peak of all time, established February 1, 1920, and have touched the lowest point since January 1, 1915. They are, however, 6.8 per cent above their level on August 1, 1914.

"Nine out of 13 groups of commodities moved downward in January, these including the textiles, provisions, nonferrous metals, rubber and tobacco. Breadstuffs and livestock also eased in a smaller degree. Fifteen articles advanced in January while 29 declined and 62 remained unchanged.

Cultivation of more than 40,000 acres of land on the borders of the states of Coahuila and Nuevo Leon, in Mexico, will shortly be started.

Amarillo To Be Scene Of Busy Events

Four Days This Week Will Be Filled With Activities Of Stock Show; 40 Towns To Send Princesses

Special to the Avalanche-Journal

AMARILLO, Feb. 28.—Two livestock conventions, three livestock sales, a giant exhibition of beef cattle and hogs unsurpassed anywhere for quality, a Horse Show on two nights under the arcs, a Beauty Pageant and Coronation of a queen and Princesses from 40 Panhandle towns, dances, wrestling matches and entertainment features galore, constitute high lights of the first annual Amarillo Fat Stock Show, to open here next Monday, March 2, and run through Thursday, March 5.

The Tri-State Fair grounds, where the exhibition will be held, have been vastly enlarged and improved. A big pavilion and sales ring have been added for the occasion, with powerful lights installed for night use. A small army of workmen are busily engaged in installing a modern wash rack and weighing scales, quarters for attendants, pens for the hogs, and a thousand and other details designed for the comfort of the animals and convenience of owners.

Parades Each Day

Parades will be held each day of the show, participated in by the bands and people of surrounding Panhandle towns. The Panhandle Livestock Producers association convention and the Panhandle Swine Breeders Association will hold their annual conventions during the show, and insure the attendance of thousands of people, attracted by the greatest combination of blooded cattle and hogs ever attempted in this region.

The Automobile Show, housed in a special building of its own, will exhibit and demonstrate the latest models of every known make of car. There will be something doing every minute of the four days, and Amarillo is preparing for one of the greatest crowds and most enthusiastic four days in her history.

Superintendents of departments and officials of five live stock organizations participating in the show met with Wilbur C. Hawk, president, on the grounds Monday afternoon, checked over details and announced "all set" and ready to go. Seventy head of registered Herefords, 125 head of registered pigs and 160 head of fat baby beeves will be offered at public auction during the four days.

Gang Of Livestock Thieves Reported Operating In Big Bend Territory Of Texas; Stock Killed and Sold Today

(By The Associated Press)

DEL RIO, Feb. 28.—From a point a few miles below Fort Stockton, in Pecos county, to the Sacramento mountains in New Mexico, a gang of livestock thieves has been reported operating with a daring equal to the historic raids of the old West.

On both sides of the Pecos river, the locale for may stories of real life cattle wars, this band of about 30 men is said to be operating. Estimates as to the number of cattle the thieves handle each year are difficult to arrive at, since the territory in which depredations occur is a area of many thousand acres in the Big Bend section. One livestock association sleuth placed the annual toll of the rustlers at "above 2,000" cattle, sheep and goats.

Raiders drift the stock through the fenceless country at night, kill the beef and wholesale their booty through butchers with more respect to "business" than to law. Seldom, nowadays, do the outlaws hold secret, silent moonlight sessions with the branding iron; new methods rule otherwise. Today the stock is killed, the hides burned or otherwise disposed of, and the meat sold. Some transportation of the animals is carried on in the motor truck.

Officers came in contact with the outlaw band recently when rumors of a big roundup of stolen livestock across the Rio Grande in Mexico, near Presidio, Brewster county, sifted across the river. Texas rangers who crossed the line at Presidio at the request of Mexican officers, reported they found some stock which had not yet been brand "burned."

The Parents' Cross

WHEN a young racketeer named Frank Marco turned up in a roadside ditch in New York recently, having been taken for a ride by other racketeers whose enmity he somehow had aroused, a perfectly respectable family back in Ohio got a very bad shock.

Young Marco had been away from home for years. He came back for a visit now and then, wrote occasionally, and seemed to be prospering. It was understood that he had a job as salesman. The family believed that he was "making good" in an honorable, praiseworthy manner.

But all the while he had been a gunman. He was in Chicago for a time, one of the roughest of that city's rough gentry; then he went to New York to pursue the same calling, and eventually he came to the predestined end of the gangster; and his family learned for the first time what he had been.

This sort of thing, tragic as it is, happens continually, though usually on a smaller scale. A young man leaves home, goes out to make his way in the city, and is supposed to be "doing well"; then, through some accident, his loved ones find out that he has been following a forbidden path, and there are heartaches for everyone concerned.

A consideration of such things emphasizes again the peculiar helplessness of parents; that exposure to shocks which is one of the prices people must pay for the high privilege of raising a child.

Throughout childhood the parent is more or less free from this danger. The youngster is under his eye most of the time. To be sure, there are exceptional cases; but these are generally the parents' fault, and a misfortune that we bring on ourselves is a little less cruel than one which comes in spite of everything that we can do.

But sooner or later there comes a time when the youngster has to go out on his own. And then the parents are helpless. They have done what they can to give their child a good start. They have pointed out pitfalls and snares, as well as they could see them, and they have provided what armor they could. Now it is all out of their hands. They are, literally, at the mercy of the fates.

For most of us it turns out rather well, for the world is not quite as bad a place as it might be. But there are tragedies enough, in all conscience. Youth is impetuous and hot-headed, and it will, now and then, take the poker by the hot end just to see if it will really burn.

And when it happens the chief sufferer, always, is the helpless one back home. Behind every one of the sorry newspaper accounts of crime, folly and stupidity there are invisible victims in the wings—watters off-stage, who can do nothing on earth to avert a tragedy that they do not deserve.

Practical Health Problems

CAUSE OF COMMON COLD SUBJECT OF RESEARH BY COLLEGE COMMITTEE

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE REPORT of the Wickersham committee fades into insignificance beside the report of a committee from Columbia university on the cause of the common cold. Unfortunately the two reports have much in Common. The Columbia report will satisfy neither the wets nor the drys among the noses interested in the common cold. The members do not know exactly what the cause of the common cold is, nor how to prevent it, nor how to stop it, once started.

Dr. Clendening

The most widely accepted idea of the cause of colds is that they are due to a sub-microscopic or filterable virus. This means a germ so small that it cannot be seen by any microscope now in our possession, and which passes through filters with such small pores that they would catch any of the bacteria we can see with microscopes.

The virus is highly contagious and implants itself on the membranes of the nose and throat with great readiness. After it alights there it has the curious property of stimulating any germ which may happen to be in the nose or throat to great activity. The result is that in the secretions from the nose or bronchial tubes in the later stages of a cold we find an enormous variety of germs, but they are not the actual cause of the cold.

Contagious as it is, the cold is probably not spread by a patient in the later stages, when the coughing and nose blowing and secretion running are at their highest. It is in the very early stage, perhaps even when the prospective victim does not feel badly, that he is most likely to give it to those he meets.

This makes it not very easy to keep ourselves from giving colds to others, and accounts for the rapid spread of the disease in epidemic times.

The incubation period, that is the time between when you get the cold from someone else and when you come down sick with it, is 36 to 48 hours.

The only way to prevent colds, one gathers from the report, is to shut yourself in a closed room. Your food must be brought by attendants who are surgically sterile. The eating utensils must all have been recently boiled. No one who has the sign or vestige of a cold, even if gauze is worn over the mouth and nose, must come in the room. You must not go to the movies, the theater or to church—in fact, you must not leave the room. You must not kiss or hug anybody. If you want to avoid colds that bad, there are the rules.

Dr. Shibley says: "The chimpanzee is the animal we are using, a most intelligent and co-operative animal when treated right." What d'ye mean, doctor, "treated right"—giving the poor thing one cold in the head after another?

Like Einstein Puzzle

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Trying to understand what will happen under the veterans' bonus loan act is like trying to understand Einstein.

Not only is it impossible for the ordinary individual to follow the mathematical processes leading up to an answer to the problem. The problem also is a mystery. Finally, after it has been solved, the solution likewise is incomprehensible.

In fact, it is worse than Einstein. Einstein is the only authority there is, on the subject of relativity; he invented it. On the subject of bonus loans there are many authorities who get results varying all the way from zero, as reckoned by Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, up to $1,700,000,000, according to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon's calculations.

ONE SEES, to be sure, how Secretary Mellon arrives at his estimate of the amount Uncle Sam will have to dig up in short order to make the veterans' loans provided for under the new law. The secretary assumes that most of the holders of adjusted bonus certificates will want to realize on them very soon up to the authorized 50 per cent of their face value.

Congressman Isaac Bacharach of New Jersey, the loan measure's author, thinks not, however. His theory is that the proportion of borrowers, out of the total number of certificate holders, will remain about the same as hitherto, at which rate immediate calls on the treasury will not exceed $400,000,000 to $430,000,000.

Brigadier General Frank T. Hines, who, as administrator of veterans' affairs, ought to be as good a judge as anyone, splits the difference between Congressman Bacharach and Secretary Mellon, with a guess of $1,000,000,000.

WHATEVER the figure may be (and it depends, of course, on how many veterans avail themselves of the 50 per cent borrowing privilege on their certificates), Secretary Mellon foresees heavy calls on the national strong box in the early future and, far from having plenty of money, he anticipates a $500,000,000 deficit, or thereabouts, at the fiscal year's end, June 30.

Thus, he, in turn, will have to borrow.

Maybe he will raise cash on shortterm securities; the new law permits him to do so. Or maybe he will prefer to sell bonds; he can do it under the terms of the second liberty loan act, authorizing $20,000,000,000 of them, of which only a trifle above $18,000,000,000 actually were issued, leaving a margin of approximately $1,892,000,000 the treasury is still in a position to offer for sale without fresh legislation, subject to the same old conditions.

SENATOR VANDENBERG'S formula, indeed, contemplates an intricate maze of "credit operations" by which the Wolverine statesman contends that provision for the veterans can be made to "take care of itself," necessitating "no additional treasury financing."

Suffice it to say (rather than attempt to explain it) that treasury experts admit it is deeper than they can get the drift of.

More than almost anything else in connection with the entire puzzle, it recalls Einstein—especially his theory of the fashion in which space bends back on itself, so that, at some stage in infinity, the mathematician finds himself once more at the point he started out from.

THE VANDENBERG hypothesis is only academically interesting, at any rate; more matter-of-fact philosophers are pretty certain there will have to be a bond issue (about $1,000,000,000) sooner or later, depending on the state of the money market.

Incidentally, the treasury declares an income tax increase inevitable.

Senator Vandenberg practically alone disputes this.

If it were deemed reasonable to expect that a majority of the veterans would pay regular interest on their borrowings, it is true that it would largely offset the government's interest on its bonds, but the idea is much more general that hundreds of thousands of them will take the specified 50 per cent of their certificates' face and regard the transaction as closed.

Maybe right there is where the plan is open to its worst criticism—

In 1945 the borrowing veterans, who have not kept up their interest, will find the remaining 50 per cent of their certificates eaten up by these accumulated defaults; little or nothing will be coming to them. And immediately, the critics prophesy, a demand will be made for pensions, which is exactly what the present system's authors were most anxious to guard against.

MEANTIME, how shall the veteran who wants his 50 per cent loan get it?

He should apply, with his certificate, at the nearest regional office of the Veterans' bureau, agree to the stipulated rate of interest and receive the amount due him. Arrangements have been made for the re-financing of loans made under the terms of the old law.

About 300,000 ex-service men never have applied for adjusted compensation certificates. Hitherto a two-year lapse has been required between the granting of a certificate and the initial loan on it. Administrator Hines' interpretation of the new law is that this interval is eliminated, but other authorities differ with him. The question is not yet settled.

Some New York magistrates, like a third-string ballplayer, seem to serve no other beneficial purpose than warming the bench.

The silent vote: The look on mother's face when dad is about to sign on the dotted line for something the h.-p. salesman has made him think he wants.

Sometimes a lot of brass shows in a silver tongue.

Free speech is of no advantage to the man who has nothing to say.

Andy Mellon, loathe to part with the cash voted for certain appropriations, might, of course, prevail upon Congress to observe Thrift Week.

A professor asks why it is good times always approach when women's skirts grow shorter. Well, in the old times it meant more hustle and bustle.

There's A Long, Long Trail—!

For GINGER'S SAKE

by ETHEL HUESTON

©1930 THE BOBBS-MERRILL CO.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

To keep life from growing too dull in Red Thrush, Iowa, GINGER ELLA TOLLIVER organized a Junior County Club. It was to be exclusive, no parents, no babies, just the "younger set." Accordingly Ginger, whose father was a minister and whose step-mother, the former PHILL VAN DOORN, was both wealthy and indulgent, purchased the Mill Rush farm, a 10-acre tract with an old house, and remodeled it.

Into Red Thrush came BARD HOLLOWAY, a young artist who was hoboing around the country. Attracted by Ginger, he agreed to stay and paint portraits and decorate the new club house. The Tolliver's made him their guest.

Bard thought "Joie de Vivre" would be a good name for the club. It was adopted. And he thought it would be splendid if they could import from Chicago one NICOLO CALLENO. For Nicolo was handsome and he could cook and sing and strum a guitar. He would make a picturesque addition to the club. He would be a knockout on the opening night, for which an elaborate dinner dance was planned.

But on the morning of the opening there arrived at the Tolliver's not one Italian youth but what seemed an army. Little ANGELO was a musician, and PIETRO could cook. And BENITO could sing. Nicolo, it seemed, could not come, so they had come in his place, to make themselves useful, glad to work for their board.

That night at the opening Bard realized he was falling in love with Ginger. The event was a great success. Pietro, Angelo and Benito added just the right touch of color, but EDDY JACKSON began to think that Ginger would have her hands full with them. and JENKY BROOKS, who with her husband, BENNY, were chaperons of the club, began to have misgivings. But the Italians soon won her over and they made plans to stay.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIX

They took a childish delight in their rural environment, planting flowers in small nooks in the rocks and in the rifts of fallen logs; slinging baskets of trailing vines from porch rafters and window ledges; spading up gardens wherever there was a bit of earth to be turned.

Mrs. Carter, the old mare, they groomed and curried as long as she had physical strength to endure it, and quarreled good-naturedly over turns at milking the cow. Every time Ginger appeared they handed her fresh lists of things they wanted brought out more seeds for the garden, food for the birds which they wished to tame, materials for the construction of birdhouses, yeast for the raisin cider they were experimenting with, more geranium slips.

In the general work of the house and gardens they were veritable treasures. Pieto concocted strange delectable dishes, most gratifying to Iowa palates a bit satiated with time-honored roasts and fries, and experimented continually with new combinations of fruits and vegetables in the cellar, because, as he told Jenky, "it's the use of these odd—ciders—and what-nots—that makes a cook a chef!"

Benito spent most of his spare time constructing odd, attractive little bird-houses in every available site, and every day—and many times a day—made a slow, joyous tour of the grounds, tossing enticing seeds here and there, filling small jars with water, and chirruping to the birds companionably.

With no little effort, he contrived at last a genuine bird fountain lined with small rocks, and within a few days he almost wept with joy to find his small feathered friends had accepted its proprietorship. Indeed, in a short time every wild creature on the place had lost all fear of the huge Italian, who moved so softly, stood so motionless, chirruped to them so affectionately with strange guttural sounds deep down in his melodic throat.

They looked after Ben with a deference and a polite attentiveness that quite went to the head of that humble person, so used to being overlooked in the pressure of more dominating types.

Within a short time he had perked up and was giving orders as if he really were somebody around there. To Jenky they were warmly subservient, leaping to do her will with a competitive eagerness that she found irresistibly flattering. She confided to Ginger that she had to admit she had grossly misjudged them, and were it not for the language into which they always lapsed when they were excited she wouldn't believe they were foreigners at all but just like everybody else.

When the carpenters had finished work on the house and outbuildings, Ginger had them put in a small boat-landing on the rocks by the river directly back of the house.

Ginger had a use for that boat-landing, for she had bought at a great reduction from the Holiday Hardware Store three canoes which they had been displaying every summer for five years at steadily decreasing prices. There wasn't much navigable river in that part of the country, but at least there was the pool opposite and a small stretch of good stream. Besides, the landing was effective and the boats lying bottom-side up lent a great deal of country-club atmosphere.

Benito was very fond of boating. And on the second day after his arrival, although he admitted that the boat was "queer shaped," and he didn't altogether understand the use of one oar, he ventured bravely forth in one of the canoes.

"You can't row with one!" he shouted back to the group on shore. "She turns around."

"Don't row, don't row," called Bard. "Paddle—stand up in the end and paddle! It isn't a rowboat."

Benito boldly stood up and thrust the paddle into the water. The canoe spun around once and slid neatly out from under him. Bard pulled the crestfallen man safely back to shore, amid the derisive jeers of his fellow countrymen. He took it in good part.

"I like water," he said to Bard simply. "And I like running boats. But I like the cars that run both sides at once."

The next morning, having gained the consent of Jenky, he hitched up Mrs. Carter to the old buggy and spent a great many hours jogging slowly around the neighborhood from farmhouse to farmhouse making inquiries, until he discovered an abandoned old boat of the familiar, two-oared type, lying bottom-side up in the barnyard of a farm two miles away.

For the trifling matter of 50 cents it became his own, and with the help of Pietro and Angelo he got it up on the set of wheels lent by the farmer for the purpose, and towed his treasure home in triumph.

For hours, every day he worked on it, pounding, painting, screwing, tarring, adding constant odd improvements of his own, and at last after a week's soaking in the river, he pronounced it water-proof, what Ginger called a Rabbit-worthy craft

At heart Benito was a genuine navigator. He liked the lazy lap and roll of water beneath him, but for the arduous work of rowing had small inclination.

He removed the seats from the boat—an easy matter, for they were rotting away to soft splinters—and filled the bottom with an old cot mattress, a pile of blankets, old rugs, old clothes, and then, when he had rowed across the river to the deep pool, anchored at once and stretched himself out full length in the boat upon the soft bed beneath, and with a fishing line attached to each wrist, lay in the warm sun, listened to the lap of water against the boat, dreamed dreams and saw visions, and kept the camp supplied with fresh fish.

Nor did he keep his piratical craft bottom-side up on the landing with Ginger's white canoes, but let it ride the tide at the end of a long rope secured just out of sight of the cottage.

"A real bow-line mooring," approved Bard.

"A real river boat," said Benito, "look best in water."

And on his next list for Ginger was "pipe and smoking tobacco," for as he said, "pipe look best on

On The Diplomatic Firing Line For Uncle Sam

In Which Walter S. Ruffner, Lubbock Man, Describes His Experiences During Japanese Consular Service

EDITOR'S NOTE: Below is another of a series of articles being written by Walter S. Ruffner for the Sunday Avalanche-Journal. Mr. Ruffner, former consular official for the U. S. Government on three continents, is now an executive for the West Texas Gas company. Other articles on his experiences are to follow on this page on successive Sundays.

RIDING THE BLINDS

I had never heard whether the Department of State approved of consular officers riding freight trains or not but, knowing that he very often is expected to act, and then tell the Department, caused me to ride my first one within forty-eight hours after I had landed in France.

Finding a passenger train ready to leave Brest for St. Nazaire, as I had been informed, I got aboard and settled down for a real rest.

After a number of hours of slow traveling, we arrived at Nantes. Getting up from my seat I made a number of inquiries and was assured that St. Nazaire, about 35 miles distant, was the next stop.

Train Is Stopped

Sitting down, I began speculating concerning what St. Nazaire would be like. All of a sudden the train stopped at a hamlet 20 miles from my goal, and I was politely informed that the train would not aller (go) any farther.

It was about 10:00 P. M. and raining hard when I stepped from the train at this wide spot in the road.

Making inquiries, I soon learned that there was practically no chance of getting accommodations of any kind for the night.

It continued to pour down, and there I was stranded momentarily with a heavy traveling bag. Wandering down to the station, I saw a freight train which I thought would soon be on its way. Right there and then I decided to travel, regardless of direction, although I felt that the train might be enroute to St. Nazaire, there being a number of seamen already occupying a number of the cars.

I climbed into a small cupola at the end of a car, and the freight soon started out. We had gone for about an hour when we stopped. Of course, I didn't know where I was; so jumped down and walked up toward the engine, hoping to be able to elicit some information from the wooden shoed conductor. When about 100 feet from the engine, the conductor blew his fish horn to announce that the caravan was on its way. I was forced to abandon my idea of talking things over with said conductor, and made a hasty retreat to my quarters, juggling my bag as I went.

Luck With Him

After about one hour of very slow riding, I looked out and saw bright lights straight ahead on the line. This time, I decided to quit my train for good and picking up my bag, started to investigate the lights. It didn't take me long to realize that there was a station in the distance, and hoped that it was St. Nazaire. It was. Luck had certainly been with me.

My luck remained with me until I found, in an unlighted city, the best hotel. It then deserted me, as I was promised a room if I waited until 7:00 A. M. I waited all right, but never got the room.

On Queen Charlotte Islands

I recall distinctly a little job that was given me which could have very easily proven a monumental task, but fortunately it didn't.

In the consulate at Prince Rupert, B. C., we received a summons and complaint with the request that a reliable American be appointed to serve it on Wilbur Henning who worked for a logging camp on the Queen Charlotte Islands, about 135 miles distant.

It was difficult to find a reliable man who could leave his business; so the consul generously suggested that I do it. Naturally, I was willing to go, and started out from Prince Rupert on the S. S. Prince Albert.

After approximately 12 hours of hard sailing, we entered a small bay. After dropping anchor alongside a private floating dock—a crude affair made of a number of spruce logs lashed together, I learned that myself and quite a lot of cargo were to be discharged. Happy I was, when I learned that the dock belonged to the company for which Henning worked.

With a light heart I jumped about six feet down to the dock where a launch awaited to take me ashore.

Located Him

About this time I began to realize just how difficult my mission might prove; so lost no time in making inquiries concerning Henning's whereabouts. Fortunately I met the general superintendent who told me that Henning was aboard the launch on which I was riding. Keeping my eye on him until we got ashore, I then approached him, explained matters and finished my work in 15 minutes. He decided not to appear at Reno, Nevada, where his wife was suing for a divorce.

My work being finished, I found to my dismay that it would be another seven days before a ship left the Island for Prince Rupert.

Where I would stay, I didn't know. Henning, however, volunteered to fix me up with quarters and meals in the mess. He was with me so often and so solicitous for my welfare that the loggers, it appeared, thought that I was a long lost friend.

My ship appeared on schedule, and I returned to Prince Rupert satisfied that I had been a lucky human.

It is amusing for me to look back and realize that the Islands were many hundred square miles in area, that there were about 1,000 camps on them; and that the company with whom Henning worked operated about 20 camps—strung out for 50 miles along, and near, the bay. Was I lucky? I should say I was.

Consul General Johnson

The best all around man I ever worked with in the consular service was Consul General Nelson Trusler Johnson, now assistant Secretary of State. He possessed all those faculties, and accomplishments, which are necessary for a most competent man.

Mr. Johnson's ability was unquestioned, and his resourcefulness was often the talk of the mess and foreign population. There apparently was nothing that worried him and, as a result, made the most difficult problems appear easy. While the average officer would have been thumbing the volumes of regulations, Johnson was acting in a clear cut manner, using good judgment and "horse sense" as his guide.

He was the life of the mess; always courteous to his associates; and ever ready, after a hard day's work, with a broad smile to relieve the monotony with many songs—accompanying himself on the ukelele.

Sing And Smile

As I believe I mentioned before, it was Johnson who woke up the compound with the first bars of "Yes, We Have No Bananas." With a broad smile he would sing at the top of his voice, and that smile of his, very contagious, stayed with him at all times—no matter what he was doing.

Very often a consular officer is inclined to let dignity interfere with his work. At times this trait is so noticeable that he appears to be officially insane. Johnson could be really dignified, but that never prevented him from hustling furniture, diplomatic pouches, etc., when coolies were not on hand.

I recall one afternoon we had arranged a double funeral for two victims of the earthquake—ex-war veterans. Both had married Japanese women.

An American preacher, from Tokyo, promised to perform the last rites, while some coolies agreed to be at the consulate in time to go with us to the cemetery to prepare two graves for the urns.

The preacher we were sure would be on hand but the Japanese did not appear at the consulate, as they had promised. Mr. Johnson came to me and said "Ruffner, we can dig those graves ourselves, can't we?" "Of course we can," I replied. Without any hesitation we left for the Naval Cemetery, and worked in a hard rain—with the widows watching us—and the funeral services were held at the time we had assured the women.

Personally, I think it was a beautiful tribute to the deceased veterans for two Americans to assist in such a manner, but regret to say that it would have been beneath the dignity of many officers.

SCOTCH RELICS SHOWN

Many relics and heirlooms rich in tradition are to be lent by prominent Scotch families for the Exhibition of Scottish Art and Treasures in London in February. The Countess of Linlithgow is lending a jeweled stomacher and a rope of pearls which were the property of Mary Queen of Scots. The Earl of Arlie will lend the Garter Ribbon of Prince Charlie, and Lady Carmichael will supply the cap worn by Charles I, when he went to the scaffold, a handkerchief, and his beautifully illuminated prayer book. One section of the exhibition will be devoted to weapons of different periods. Hugh Walpole, the novelist, is lending the death mask of Sir Walter Scott, and there will be relics of Robert the Bruce, John Knox and Burns.

About one-fourth the population of Argentina is of European origin.

Douglas Fairbanks Will Be At Lindsey Starting Today; Comedy Featuring Charles Ruggles Coming This Week

MALE stars seem to have a corner on the movie market, as far as Lubbock's theater calendar is concerned this week.

In the offerings are included such film notables as Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Charles Ruggles, Charles Farrell, Chester Morris, Phillip Holmes, Slim Summerville, Harry Langdon, and Lloyd Hughes. But with all of these it cannot be overlooked that such favorites as Janet Gaynor, Alice White, June Collyer, Marie Prevost and Bessie Love also are included in the casts.

Most of the followers of the one and only Douglas Fairbanks will thrill at the announcement that he has returned to the screen—and to the talking screen at that. Fairbanks, who really is too old to do such things, does them and gets away with them in "Reaching for the Moon" which starts a three-day run at the Lindsey today. As always he is the active, jumping, bouncing rubber ball, bubbling over with intense vitality. Bebe Daniels is in the cast. Enough said.

Charles Ruggles to Show

Almost everyone who has ever been anywhere has at one time or another witnessed the production of "Charley's Aunt". Well, it is with us again. And this time none other than Charles Ruggles plays the title role. It is a hilarious comedy of student life at picturesque Oxford university. Needless to say, Ruggles is supreme as the "aunt from Brazil". Opposite him plays June Collyer.

"The Man Who Came Back", co-starring the famous movie team of Charles Farrell and Janet Gaynor, comes to the Lindsey Friday and Saturday. Produced by Raoul Walsh, the picture deals with a wealthy financier's son who travels the road to degradation and then stages a "comeback" through love and faith of a girl he met in Shanghai.

Two Pictures a Year

Miss Gaynor and Farrell have mutually agreed to appear opposite each other in not more than two pictures a year, believing that the fewer times people see them together the more they will want to see them.

Another of those stories in which both of the characters is under suspicion at various times for some atrocious crime is now showing at the Palace. It is "The Bat Whispers", with Chester Morris in the leading role. It shows how a dare-devil criminal holds an entire city in terror. And it is not until the last minute that the secret of his identity is revealed.

Comedy At Lyric

Alice White, Lloyd Hughes and Marie Prevost head the cast in "Sweethearts on Parade" which starts a three-day run at the Lyric theater today. It is a hilarious comedy built about the amusing situation of when the "gobs and the leathernecks" come ashore to make whoopee." Alice White is seen as a small town girl who goes to the city to marry a millionaire. While her ambition is realised she does encounter romance and finally falls in love with a dashing U. S. marine.

"Man to Man" comes to the Palace Tuesday and Wednesday. The cast includes Grant Mitchell, Lucille Powers, Phillip Holmes, George Marion and a flock of other un-

At the THEATERS

Frances Gunn, left, and Brooks Penny, right, are to have the leading roles in the local talent movie, "A Romance of Lubbock" that will be at the Lindsey Theater on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Alice White, above, is in "Sweethearts on Parade" at the Lyric today, Monday and Tuesday. Lloyd Hughes plays the lead opposite Miss White.

Douglas Fairbanks, above, is now showing at the Lindsey in "Reaching for the Moon" with Bebe Daniels as his leading lady.

knowns. Two types of love are depicted in the film. One is the love of man and woman and the other of father and son. It is a powerful, swiftly moving drama.

Satire Coming

"See America Thirst", a supercomedy, shows at the Palace Thursday and Friday. The cast is headed by Harry Langdon, Slim Summerville and Bessie Love, which is enough to insure the success of any picture. It is a complete departure from the usual type of feature length comedies. Picture Summerville and Langdon, two of the screen's most mirth-provocative actors, mistaken for two notorious gunmen hired by a rum running gang to "bump off" a rival leader and you have the essence of the plot of this hilarious satire.

ANTI-PIRATE BOAT LAUNCHED

Equipped with the most up-to-date equipment for combatting piracy in Chinese waters, the motor ship Anshun has been launched at Greenock, Scotland. Rapid-fire guns are among the anti-pirate apparatus. The Anshun, which was built for the China Navigation company, is intended for native passenger and cargo trade between Singapore, Hong Kong, Swatow and Amoy. She will be one of the largest and best equipped vessels on this particular trade. Her dimensions are: Length, 350 feet; breadth, 50 feet; depth to awning deck, 33 feet; with a gross tonnage of 3,200 tons. The vessel is expected to maintain a sea speed of 12 knots. The propelling machinery incorporates a new design of main engine. The installation comprises one six-cylinder heavy oil engine, working on the two-stroke cycle, with airless injection of the fuel.

The BOOK SURVEY

"Wilson The Unknown" Gives View On War President; Author Unnamed New York Lawyer; Events Recalled

FOR a startling new explanation of the tragic downfall of Woodrow Wilson you should read "Wilson the Unknown," written by an unnamed New York lawyer who uses the pen name of Wells Wells.

This writer, in brief, explains Wilson somewhat as follows:

Wilson took office as the head of a minority party. To carry out his liberal policies he had to be re-elected in 1916; but in the ordinary course of things he was bound to be defeated. Hence he used the "kept us out of war" slogan, even though he knew that America must eventually enter the war; and he deferred this entry into the war simply to get a chance to bring the nation in on his own terms.

Gave Him Chance

The defeat of Russia and the anti-submarine campaign gave him the chance. America went to war. Then the war was won and Wilson went to Paris. There he tied the peace treaty and the League of Nations covenant together inextricably—not because he was out-generaled by shrewd Europeans, but because he wished it so, for reasons of his own.

Both the covenant and the treaty were sadly imperfect. Wilson knew it, and was not dismayed. It was his idea that America, by taking an energetic part in the league's activities, could remedy both matters. But it could not do that with anyone but himself as president. Consequently, as early as 1918, Wilson was after a third term.

Was Good Politician

Meanwhile, in the congressional elections of 1918, he amazed the country by asking for a Democratic Congress. Why? Because he was a poor politician? No, says Mr. Wells—because he was a superlatively good one. He knew there would be a terrific reaction from war-time loyalty to the administration. He wanted this reaction to come in the 1918 election, so that by 1920 the pendulum could swing back the other way and make a Democratic victory possible.

Then the treaty of Versailles came up in the Senate, and was defeated. This again, says our author, was Wilson's own doing. He wanted the treaty beaten—so that he could go to the country with it as his issue in 1920. Furthermore, if the treaty was beaten the country would still be at war and the sedition laws would still be in effect—which would give a campaigning president a weapon of inestimable power.

His Health Broke

The plan failed because Wilson's health broke down. Mr. Wells believes that if the man had retained his physical vigor he would have succeeded. He would have been our first third-term president, the Democratic party would have become the majority party for at least half a century and world history in the last decade would have been much smoother and happier all around.

It is relatively easy to pick flaws in this theory, but at any rate it is extremely interesting, and certainly provides one with a new angle of vision on Wilson. The book is published by Scribners.

"Mrs. Fischer's War" Gives New Angle To Affair

IN "Mrs. Fischer's War," Henrietta Leslie has tackled the stupidity and cruelty of war from a new angle. Her heroine, Mrs. Fischer, is the English-born wife of a German business man, who has moved to London and who has established himself there so thoroughly that he and all of his intimates consider him an Englishman.

Miss Leslie

Then comes the war, while the Fischers are on a vacation trip in Germany. They hurry for the Dutch border; but at the last moment an unsuspected loyalty for the fatherland comes to life in Fischer's breast and he stays behind, sending Mrs. Fischer to London while he remains to become a German soldier.

Her Torture Complete

Thus Mrs. Fischer, torn between two loyalties, makes the best of it in London alone. Meanwhile, their only son enlists in the British army, and Mrs. Fischer's torture is made complete.

The novelist gives us, at this point, an excellent picture of the stupidity that wa rengenders among ordinarily intelligent folk. Mrs. Fischer becomes a social outcast. She is trailed by the police. Her old friends drop her. She is not allowed to engage in war work. It matters not that she is an Englishwoman; the mother of an English soldier; her husband is a German, and no one can forget it.

Mrs. Fischer is well drawn. The husband is never quite convincing, and the son, unfortunately, is even less so; his sudden, enduring hatred of his father is not in the least believable.

It is offered by the Houghton-Mifflin Co. and is the March choice of the Book League of America.

Gloss Rubbed Off

"The Course of Empire" provides a series of first-hand glimpses of the great California gold rush of '49. Valeska Bari has taken extracts from a dozen or more articles published by writers of that day and has tied them together in a book which makes that colorful era real and vivid.

Not all of the quotations show the 49-ers as heroes. The old Spaniard, for example, saw them as a horde of unscrupulous pirates bent on pillage. The man who actually found the first traces of gold at Sutters' Mill has a sad story to tell, likewise, of rapacity and lawlessness. Various "argonauts" who were among the first to come to the new empire have left bitter accounts of their disillusionment. The founder of the Vigilantes has a good deal to say about crime and corruption.

But if the book takes a little of the tinsel off of a profoundly interesting epoch in American history it is, for that very reason, all the more valuable. It shows one the gold rush as it looked at the time, before the romancers had had time to prettify it. It cannot destroy its true color and excitement.

"The Course of Empire" is published by Coward-McCann.

Agitation For Garden Given Impetus By Rainfall; "Now Is Time To Plant" ---Advice

Rainfall During The First Two Months Of Year Have Added To Potential Production Of Vegetables Here

BY J. SAM LEWIS
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

"IN THE Spring a young man's fancy—" sang the poet of old.

Paraphrasing this old adage, "in the spring the gardener's fancy, quickly turns to thoughts of seeds."

What to plant and what will best grow in this section, are two of the questions that are being raised on every hand.

Agitation Greater

Greater agitation has been had among farmers and home owners about planting a garden in order to supply the table with fresh vegetables this winter than in any previous year. On every hand, from bankers, farm and home experts, from business men and organizations, has come the advice to plant a garden.

One of the essentials of a successful garden is plenty of water and another is pure seed. With these and with the proper care and attention, a great deal of home grown produce can be raised on a relatively small area.

Most windmils will supply the farm garden of from a half to several acres with plenty of water. City water is available for most town people who desire to plant a garden.

Wet Spring Aids

A wet spring will cut down on the amount of artificial watering to be done. The deeper the rain goes into the ground the less water necessary. Sometimes it may not be necessary to water the garden oftener than once every two or three weeks; other times once a week is better.

One good soaking once a week is better than a number of small waterings. The water in the first instance has a chance to get down deep in the ground, touch the subsoil and this provide the roots with enough moisture.

Hotbeds Can Be Started

Hotbeds may be started now and these will provide within five or six weeks a good supply of early leafy vegetables. Also in the hot beds such plants as tomatoes, cabbages, sweet potatoes and others that are transplanted, may be started. These can be transplanted later when danger of frost is over. Or they may be left in the hotbed, if the space is large enough, and permitted to grow without being transplanted. This method will save several weeks in the ripening.

For from $2 to $4 or more sufficient seed for a family of six or eight may be purchased. The amount spent depends upon how much it is desired to grow and whether only the needs of the spring or of the entire summer season are to be satisfied. Another item is whether or not it is desired to have enough vegetables to can for use in the fall and winter.

The most popular vegetables and the best varities for this section of the state include the following for a family of six.

Lettuce: Los Angeles or Big Boston, half an ounce; spinach: Bloomsdale Savoy or Long Standing, one ounce; Mustard: Giant Southern Curled, an ounce; Radish: Scarlet Globe or Chartiers, half an ounce; Onions: Bermudas or Australian Brown, half an ounce; Beets: Crosby's Egyptian or Detroit Dark Red, one ounce; Carrots: Chantenay or Denver's Half Long, half an ounce; English Peas; Laxtonian or Stratgem, one pint; Cabbage: Early Jersey Wakefield, Copenhagen Market or Glory of Enkhuisen, one fourth ounce.

Beans: snap, Bountiful or Burbee Stringless, one pint; Pepper: Ruby King, one packet; Eggplant: Florida High Bush and New York Improved, one packet; Tomato: Marglobe, Gulf State Market or Globe, one packet; Cucumbers: Kirby or Davis Perfect, one ounce; Cantaloupes: Perfecto, Texas Cannonball or Tip-Top, one ounce; Squash: Pumpkin Cushaw (for fall) Lellow Crookneck, one ounce; Okra: White Velvet or Dwraf Green Prolific, one ounce.

Other popular vegetables include: Sweet corn: Country Gentleman or Early Adam, half pint; Asparagus: Mary Washington or Martha Washington, 50-75 plants; Endive: Green Curled or Escarolle, half ounce; Kohl-Rabi: Early White Vienna, half ounce; Chard: Lucullus, half ounce; Lima beans: Fordhook Bush or Henderson Bush, half pint; Watermelons; Kleckley Sweet or Tom Watson, one ounce.

POWER PLANT IN ART

"Night's Candles Are Burnt Out," a painting by John Keating of the Royal Hibernian Academy, depicting the expected results of the Shannon hydro-electric project in Ireland, has caused a sensation wherever shown in Europe. Keating lived in huts with the construction men, and, he says, "painted all day in the mud." His description of the picture is: "In the background of the picture is the big camp; in the foreground figures to represent all the Irelands—past and present. The Connemara laborers are worn out with poerty and fatigue. The skeleton of the stage Irishman is hanging from a transmission standard. In the middle is the prosperous practical man of affairs whom experience justifies his supercilious attitude towards irresponsible idealism, represented by the rude young man. Down in the corner is a priest, unconcerned with the things of this world. He represents the unchanging Church."

Crosbyton High Vocational Boys Aiding Terracing

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

CROSBYTON, Feb. 28.—Approximately 2,800 acres of land in Crosbyton territory have been surveyed by students of vocational aggriculture for the purpose of terracing and contouring rows. This is the result of action taken by about twenty farmers as a means of conserving moisture for this year's crops. These men no longer consider such practice an experiment or a demonstration, but regard its value as an established fact.

While terracing or even running rows on contour lines in this section is primarily a measure of moisture conservation it has proven very valuable in the prevention of sheet erosion of the soil. Sheet erosion is less noticeable than gully erosion common on more rolling or hilly land, but probably does more damage than the average farmer thinks.

A few farmers are abandoning lines run last year since they were unable to note any appreciable advantages derived from their use. It would be interesting to have results on those same fields with the average rainfall with the rows run as they were last year, then results with last year's drouth on these fields had they not been contoured.

Co-Op Advocates To Carry On For Legge On Board; To Keep Policies

BY FRANK I. WELLER
(Associated Press Farm Editor)

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Scheduled retirements from the farm board, including Chairman Alexander Legge, whose often blunt language has been the delight of his friends and an added irritant to his foes, leave a foundation personnel noted for quiet fighting.

JAMES C. STONE

It will be headed by James C. Stone of Kentucky, the vice-chairman, and will include C. B. Denman, representing livestock Carl Williams, representing cotton, and Charles Wilson, representing fruits and vegetables.

Some believe the president may name Stone to succeed Legge, and advance Denman to the vice-chairmanship.

Those whose terms expire are Sam R. McKelvie, representing wheat, and William F. Schilling, representing dairy interests. Chairman Legge and C. C. Teague, representing fruits and vegetables, are retiring under agreement with the president that they would quit at an opportune time after accepting reappointment last June.

C. B. DENMAN

Friends say the selection of Stone as chairman would be welcomed by the grain trade, which admires his "sound business judgment" and by co-operatives which well know his "zealous confidence in co-operation."

Denman, a Missourian and prominent livestock producer, was the inspiration of one of the first and most powerful co-operative livestock marketing associations.

Williams, of Oklahoma, long has promoted conservative development of the cotton co-operative, and Wilson, of New York, is an advocate of practical co-operative organization.

CARL WILLIAMS

This quartet has been committed to and has voted unanimously with Legge's policies and plans. Friends do not expect it to veer from the course set by hard-hitting chairman, but they say it can be counted upon to "put on the brakes" if new members become radical in speech or action.

Chairman Legge set a precedent in Washington official life by his open-handed dealing with the press, his witticisms in public utterance, and his stinging rebuke of foes of the agricultural marketing act. His colorful "go to hell" and "unmitigated liar" episodes have given him the reputation of a truculent warrior.

In Stone, the board would be headed by a quiet although rugged champion of all that Legge stood for. He hits just as hard, but his language and tactics are a palliative to the wounded foe. He hews to the line, but he also is careful where the chips fall.

Chief opposition to the board comes from the independent grain and cotton trade whose profits but not facilities co-operative marketing would erase. Friends of Stone and the three associates left with him say that in promoting the board's program they would seek public confidence in what they were doing and fight opposition chiefly by persuading it to their viewpoint.

Program For Year Covers Vast Acreage

County Agent Eaton Reports Much Interest Being Manifested In Contour And Terracing By Farmers

LUBBOCK county farmers this year will contour or terrace nearly 100,000 acres of land this season, according to the estimates of D. F. Eaton, county agent.

"We have just about completed our terracing work," says Mr. Eaton, "A large number of the farmers did contour work this year. That is all right if they will follow it up later, in a couple of years, with terracing.

Levels Free To Farmers

"The county owns a number of levels. There are four in the office here and each of the four county commissioners have one. These are free to farmers and they have been busy nearly every day this winter. Sometimes a farmer would come in and get a level and work for himself and one or two of his neighbors.

"The chamber of commerce at Slaton has a level. It has been kept busy in that part of the county.

"Besides these, there must be 20 or 25 levels owned by farmers over the county. I have not been able to keep track of all of these but my estimate is that we have handled this year somewhere between 80,000 and 90,000 acres."

Several Men Assisting

Mr. Eaton has been assisted by a number of men over the county. These men have charged a small fee for their work and they have done a great deal of terracing and running of levels. According to Mr. Eaton they could have handled more had they had the time.

Among those who have helped in the work are: John Patterson, James Burroughs, Glen Blackmon, Klaton Hawk and Fred Elliott.

Conservative estimate is that an acre of land terraced will add approximately $5 per acre to the gross income of the farmer.

Wheat Being Pastured Until March 20 In Crosbyton Area

(By Staff Correspondent)

CROSBYTON, Feb. 28—Many farmers are reported as planning to keep cattle and livestock on their wheat until about the 20th of March or as late as April 1, depending upon the growing conditions at the time.

Wheat now has a good stand and indications are there is moisture enough in the ground to insure a good crop. Roots are deep into the earth and there is considerable moisture in the sub soil.

Many persons are quoted as stating that their wheat pasture this winter has been the means of saving them considerable money. One farmer said that with 35 head of cattle he had spent but $25 for feed all winter long.

Much Oats And Barley Being Planted In Plainview Area

(By Staff Correspondent)

PLAINVIEW, Feb. 28—Between 10,000 and 12,000 acres of oats and barley will be planted this spring in Hale county by farmers according to Roy B. Davis, county agent.

Acreages will be mostly small from 10 to 25 or 30 acres, depending upon the number of animals on the farm. Quite a few farmers plan to get the oats in early so that they can pasture their stock on the crop until there is enough feed or other pasture in sight.

Stock has wintered in good shape in Hale county. There has been plenty of pasture and the animals have not suffered from the light feed crop.

LONDON RAPS FRENCH PLAYS

Following the presentation of "Cheri," an adaptation of a pre-war Parisian novel by Colette, London theatregoers are protesting against the production of certain French plays. The objections are strongest against sordid works which are supposed to show "life as it is," but really are only unpleasant perversions that evoke repulsion in the English mind. Plays or books which do not lend themselves to translation are also scored. One London dramatic critic declares that dialogues such as "You are an ass," with the answer, "That's my profession," as given in "Cheri," may be wit, but it is not worth going to a theatre to hear. "Cheri" tells of the mutual attraction of a youth and a woman old enough to be his mother, with a sordid background of old women who cackle of their triumphs in the past.

LONDON ART UNDER FIRE

With criticisms of figures on the subway mansion still in the air, ar critics of London have turned their heavy fire on the sculpture representing the "Old Lady of Thread needle Street," which has just been uncovered on the pediment at the summit of the new Bank of England. "Hideous" and "grotesque" are some of the epithets cast at it. The figure is that of a burly woman in loose draperies, seated in a very awkward position. Her muscular right arm is beside her head, while on her lap she holds in her left hand a model of a pillared building. To her left the drapery blows out in stiff folds, resembling a wing. "She is the strangest 'Old Lady' I have seen," declares one critic. "She looks for all the world as if she has sat on a needle by accident and was risting in agony. I cannot imagine a pose less likely to suggest stability."

ALL THE PEOPLE WHO EVER LIVED COULD BE SEEN FROM THE WASHINGTON MONUMENT

The German mathematician Tieck has calculated that 8,533 generations of Man have lived on this earth since the advent of the Heidelberg Man (oldest primitive human), 250,000 years ago. The grand total for all these generations is given by him 133,000,000,000 souls.

The top of the Washington Monument, at an altitude of 555 feet, commands a radius of vision of 72 miles, corresponding to a total surveyable area of 16,286 square miles, or 454,027,622,400 square feet.

Thus a grandiose scene could be staged around the Washington Monument, accommodating almost four times the total of humanity that has lived and died on our planet.

Charges Of Intent To Murder Dropped Against Charles Boortz And Former Wife In Floyd County

By Staff Correspondent

FLOYDADA, Feb. 28.—Finis has been written to one of the sensational court cases in recent years in Floyd county with the dismissal by Judge Kenneth Bain of the charges of assault with intent to murder filed against Charles Boortz and his former wife Erna Boortz.

Erna Boortz was tried last fall in district court and the jury is reported to have stood 9 to 3 for conviction. The case was again docketed but has not been tried.

Divorce Granted

Meantime divorce actions were brought and a decree granted to the wife. Both parties are reported as still living in their respective communities. The shooting occured at the home of the husband and both were wounded.

Judge Bain dismissed the charges at the request of A. J. "Jack" Folley, district attorney. The case was not brought up at the January term of court which has just closed. For this reason, the district attorney holding there was a doubt about securing a conviction, asked the court to dismiss the charge. Mr. Folley said he did not believe it advisable to continue the case on the docket any longer.

ABERNATHY, Feb. 28—Thirty-five girls of the Abernathy high school are taking vocational work in home economics under Miss Lillie Belle Woods, instructor in the department.

There are nine girls in the freshman class taking the work, 13 in the sophomore class and 13 in the junior class. Recently the girls prepared and served the banquet for the annual meeting of the Abernathy chamber of commerce.

At different times in the year the girls have served other banquets for out of town groups.

Spring Term To Be Busy Period For School Students

Full Program Of Events To Be Conducted

Contests, Conferences, Frolics, Tournaments Will Be Held During Coming Few Weeks; Many To Take Part

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

EXTRA-curricula activities, drawing upon virtually every phase of actual school programs here, are slated to keep the interest of high school boys and girls alive during the spring months.

Contests, conferences, frolics, tests of scholarship and forensic skill, athletic tournaments, simple entertainment and the formalities of graduation are to parallel academic pursuits during March, April and the early part of May in the Lubbock High school.

One Event Follows Another

Beginning with the South Plains Music Festival this week and continuing through the State Clothing contest early in May, one occasion will follow close on the other during the period of a few short weeks.

The Festival, which is sponsored by the South Plains Music Teachers association but draws contestants from the ranks of public schools, is to be on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week. Several hundred entrants are expected from towns over the South Plains area. This is the eighth annual festival of this nature to be held here.

March 20 is the next big date on the High school calendar and on this occasion the Hi-Y association is presenting a play, "Howling Success", with an all-male cast. Proceeds from this comedy are to be used for two causes. A part of the money will go into a fund with which the association is purchasing Bibles to be placed in every room of the new high school building and the remainder of the money will go into a fund that will send some man from Texas to a good will conference in Europe later in the season.

Dan Powers, high school teacher, is to direct the play in which Hi-Y men will take male and female roles. Other Hi-Y faculty sponsors who will lend their assistance are M. E. Witt, J. W. Reid, Sam Leifeste and J. C. Brown.

April Is Busy Month

Several events are marked on the calendar for April. One of the first of these is the annual Latin tournament which is to be held here on April 11. About 15 towns in this section are expected to send competitive teams for the event, the numbers depending upon the enrollment of the schools and the number of classes in Latin. This tournament was conducted last year in Lubbock, although meets have taken place in Amarillo, Canyon and other points in the section.

The annual triangular debates between Lubbock, Amarillo and Plainview High schools will follow later in the month. Lubbock and Amarillo forensic teams will clash in the latter city on April 21 and the Plainview and Lubbock debaters will meet here on the next evening.

District Meet Next

District interscholastic contests will be staged here on April 24 and 25 with Dr. A. W. Evans, of Texas Technological college as director. This is another annual occasion and Lubbock will enter the district meet without the preliminary of county contests as high schools of 4,000 and more have this privilege.

The one-act play for Lubbock High school is to be given under the direction of Mrs. W. P. Clement, a teacher in the school. Track and literary events will fill the two days, with the Lubbock schools having entries in every contest, R. W. Matthews, principal of the High school, has announced.

Home Ec Girls Coming

Early in May the State Clothing contest, entered into by home economics students in public schools, is to be conducted here under the sponsorship of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, the Parent-Teacher associations and the public schools. Lubbock school girls have been entering these contests for a number of years and have been consistent winners. Last year's contests, which were held in Houston, drew an attendance of between five and six houndred high school girls.

A list of awards for the last three years in Lubbock includes first award in traveling costume and second places with general exhibit and in total awards in 1928; a sweepstakes award in 1929 which included first places with tailored and travelling costumes, second place with the ideal school girl's dress and third with a general exhibit; a tie with Denton and Vernon for first place in sweepstakes in 1930, which included first place with the ideal school girl's dress and second in general exhibit.

Further programs for this contest are to be announced later in the spring, Miss Gertrude Watson, of the High school home economics department, has announced.

To Distribute Yearbook

The High school Senior Year book is to be distributed about the first of May, according to announcements that were made last week. The last pictures have been sent to the engravers and as soon as they are returned the book will be sent to the printer, Mr. Matthews said.

Martin Hamilton, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Hamilton, 2602 22nd street, is editor-in-chief of the book with Miss Lucy Gene Cook, daughter of Mrs. E. J. Cook, 1918 16th street, as business manager. Miss Hazel Arnold is faculty advisor for the editorial department.

This book, which records activities of the senior class each year, is supplemented with pictures and stories concerning events of general interest at the high school. Following a custom that has been in effect during the last five years, the class members finance their volume without seeking advertisements and none of these appear on the pages.

Proceeds from the annual junior play given last May, which amounted to $121, were used in starting the book last fall. Two hundred and ten annuals were sold to the seniors, approximating 230 in number, and the $200 which a senior play, "Adam and Eva", netted recently will finish the financing of the book. This financial policy has been followed with success in the high school for the last five years.

Each senior has a picture in the book, there is a faculty panel, clubs are pictured in groups and the athletic history for the year is recorded in pictures with letter men in individual poses.

May 6 Senior Day

May 6 has been set as annual senior day and on that occasion, which will mark the last assembly for the year, seniors will be in charge of the chapel program. The following day will be devoted to a senior picnic and, although a site has not been chosen, it probably will be at Silver Falls Lake in Crosby County. Seniors have had outings there for the last four years.

On May 8, all seniors are to get their caps and gowns, preparatory to the graduation exercises, which will start on May 11 with a baccalaureate sermon.

The annual junior play will be on May 12 and proceeds will be held in reserve for the 1932 senior year book.

On May 13 the commencement exercises for the senior class will draw a curtain on activities for the school year. This will be an evening program.

In the meantime there will have been other events for which no definite dates have been set. Juniors will have one afternoon during the last term of school for an annual picnic and sophomores and freshmen will each be privileged to devote designated afternoon periods, to be selected, to annual outings.

HOW TO READ
Your Gas Meter

There is nothing mysterious about the reading of a gas meter. The ability to read a meter will acquaint patrons with the rate with which gas is being consumed on their premises. A meter also is valuable in detecting leaks.

The accompanying illustrations shows what is known as a four dial meter, such as is in common use in Lubbock. The small dials at the bottom are disregarded in reading meters.

EASY TO READ A METER

To read the above meter, first take the dial at the left marked "1 million". It is divided into 10 parts of 100,000 each. Look at the pointer. It is between the numbers "1" and "2". So put down the number "1" which the pointer has just passed.

The second dial is marked "100 Thousand," having 10,000 to each division. The pointer is just past the cipher, so put down the cipher after the "1" from the first dial, and you have "10".

The third circle is marked "10" Thousand," each division representing 1,000 cubic feet. Put down the number the pointer has just passed, which is "8" and you will have the number of thousand feet consumed, 108.

The last dial to the right is divided into 10 sections of 100 each. The pointer has just passed "4", so the complete reading is 108,400.

The West Texas Gas Co., however reads the meters for billing purposes in even thousands, so you would be billed for the month for the difference between 108,000 and the previous month's reading. You can check your gas consumption at any time during the month by comparing the previous month's reading given on your gas card with the present state of meter.

LOWER DIALS ARE USEFUL

The lower dials will help you determine whether there are leaks in your gas pipes, or in finding the rate at which any of your gas appliances is consuming gas.

To find leaks, turn off all gas outlets tightly and then note whether the hand on one of the lower dials move. If it does there is a leak somewhere. But DONT LOOK FOR THE LEAK WITH MATCHES. Use a heavy soap suds on the connections, and see whether the gas bubbles through. Then, if you dont know how to mend the leak yourself, call a plumber—for gas leaks are dangerous and expensive.

The rate of any gas appliance may be determined by shutting off all other outlets and then noting how long it takes the appliance to consume a certain number of cubic feet of gas.

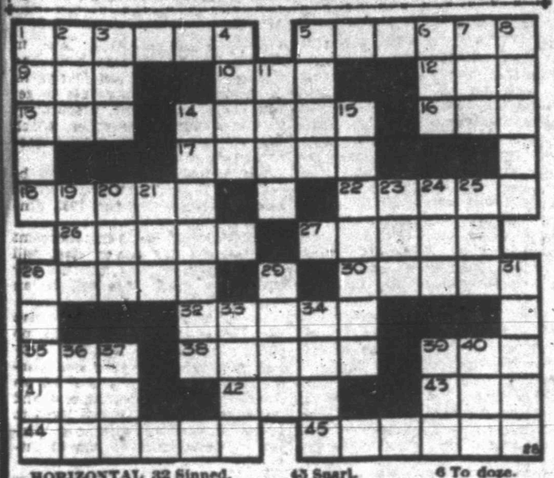

The West Texas Gas Co., Service department always is glad to cooperate with consumers to the end that they may obtain the greatest possible heat return from the gas which they purchase.

Poor Clowny! He was soon tired and, as the monkey ran about, sat down on the ground and ed. "All right, monk, have your n. I think you're rather cute, at t, but please bring back my le hat. I know I'll never catch with the speed that you can ."

The monkey stopped and chatd loud, which pleased the ghing Tiny crowd. And then the nkey's keeper came and said, 'll help you, lad." He then called the monkey, who did just as he told to do. He shortly gave up owny's hat, but seemed to look l sad.

"Aw, gee, he wants a hat to wear. leave him this way isn't fair." d Scouty. "I will buy him one, I can find a store. The rest of u wait here for me. If I can find hat you'll see the friendly little nkey feeling very good once re."

He soon returned and cried. "How's that?" And, in his hand, he held a hat. The monkey gladly took it and then put it on his head. Said Scouty, "We'll leave you alone 'cause that hat is your very own." "My, that was very kind of you," another Tiny said.

And then they left the monstrous zoo and soon found other things to do. A short walk took them to a spot where papaws grew. "Oh, my," cried Carpy, "let us all buy one. To eat them will be lots of fun. I've heard about them and they're something I would like to try."

The Travel Man said, "I'll be glad to buy one now for every lad. They taste much like bananas and they're really rather sweet." "All right," snapped Coppy, "we have pluck enough right now to try our luck." And so each ate one and they found they were quite a treat.

Latest Models To Be Shown At Auto Show This Week

Six Different Lines Of Cars Will Be Shown

Annual Event To Be Held In Dance Palace, Friday And Saturday; New Cars Are Arriving Daily

APPROXIMATELY $30,000 worth of new automobiles, representing six manufacturing concerns and as many Lubbock dealers, will be on display next Friday and Saturday at the Uptown Dance Palace as the annual Lubbock automobile show holds forth for two days of display and entertainment.

The doors will open at 9 o'clock Friday morning and will close Saturday night with the strains of "Home Sweet Home" from the popular orchestra that will furnish music during the show.

Palace To Be Decorated

The dance palace, just across Texas Avenue from the Lubbock Auto company, will be specially decorated this week and the floor will be marked and divided to suit the occasion. Considerable time and money will be spent toward beautifying the large hall and arranging lights for the best effects.

Two carloads of new cars arrived last week and dealers expect the arrival of other loads this week in time to get the new models serviced and on the floor in time for the show. Two automobiles, the new Oakland 8 and the Chrysler series, 6's and 6's, will be formally introduced at the show. Loads of these cars arrived late last week.

Late Models Feature

Lubbock dealers hope to make the 1931 show one of the best of all time. In comparison with other years the show may be smaller as far as the number of cars on display and the number of dealers participating are concerned, but with flashy new models, picturing the modern trend in automobiles and the latest development of passenger travel local distributors are of the opinion that this year's show will be highly successful.

Four-wheel brakes four-speed transmissions, balloon tires with attendant changes in steering, suspension and wheel construction; the use of corrosion-resistant metals; shatter-proof glass and the development of pyroxlin lacquers are some of the milestones which make the highway over which the automobile passenger car has traveled during the last ten years and which will be shown in the Lubbock show. Countless minor improvements have kept pace with the forward march making the present day automobile, by comparison with the 1920 models, exceptional in beauty, efficiency and comfort.

Engines More Powerful

Sixes where there have been fours, eights where sixes prevailed before and fours where none previously were built show the trend toward multi-cylindered automobiles. Some cars go farther, into twelves and sixteens, but Lubbock will see none beyond eights at the 1931 show.

Lubbock companies to be represented in the show and their models are as follows: Kuykendall Chevrolet company Ratliff-Rogers Buick company Scoggin-Dickey Oakland and Pontiac; Hub Jones Chrysler company, featuring the new sixes and eights just arrived; Lubbock Auto company, Fords and Lincolns, and Royalty Motor company, distributors of Dodge and Plymouth products.

Lubbock dealers, in displaying their respective models, will stress care of the automobile. Placards and mottos suggesting how to care for cars will be situated in the showroom, and the urge will be made for car owners to patronize authorized service houses.

It is said that red-haired persons are seldom found in insane asylums.

Court Ruling Spurs Drive On Air "Rackets"

Stations Are Given Warning On Practices

Public Interest Is Held To Be Paramount In Broadcasting, Court Decides; Methods Are Cited

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—From radio's high tribunal comes a warning to broadcasters that they must limit the amount and kind of advertising.

The decision of the court of appeals of the District of Columbia, upholding revocation of the broadcast licenses of Dr. J. R. Brinkley, of Milford, Kas., is construed by members of the radio commission as a mandate to broadcasters to keep advertising within the limits consistent with public service.

The court held that KFKB, over which Dr. Brinkley broadcast prescriptions, was conducted solely in his personal interest.

Public Interest Paramount

Justice Charles H. Robb, who wrote the opinion, said: "When congress provided that the question whether a license should be issued or renewed was dependent upon a finding of public interest, if evidently had in mind that broadcasting should not be a mere adjunct of a particular business, but should be of a public character."

The commission has had under surveillance for some time the activities of several other stations, alleged to be operating primarily for the promotion of "rackets" conducted by their owners. The decision of the court in the Brinkley case is expected to give impetus to commission action against these supposed "radio racketeers."

Warn Station Owners

Maj. Gen. Charles Saltzman, chairman of the commission, recently warned a national convention of station owners of the danger of "overloading listeners with advertising propaganda." A more scathing denunciation of the sales talk trend of programs came from Dr. Lee Deforest, president of the Institute of Radio Engineers.

"From the ecstacies of Beethoven, listeners are suddenly dumped into a cold mess of soft drinks or cigarets, while the softly fading ne[ed] of an opera emerge into a discour[se] on sanitary plumbing or whi[te] wheat bread," he said. "Such [ad]vertisers are not clever salesm[en]. They are uncouth sandwich m[en]

On Auto Row In Lubbock

Bits Of News And Personal Mention Gleaned From Motor Car Dealers In Plains Capital

VISIBLE PROOF

Eight new automobiles have been delivered by Lubbock dealers during the last week. About twice as many used cars were moved off the lots. Local dealers offer those figures as visible proof that business is picking up.

NEW MODELS INTRODUCED

The first new Oakland "eight" and Chrysler "six" were introduced to Lubbock and the South Plains last week with the arrival of car loads of the first models of the 1931 automobiles. The new Oakland arrived Thursday in the company of three new Pontiacs, a sedan and two coupes, and is on display at Scoggin-Dickey Oakland and Pontiac company's show room.

JONES CHANGES LINES

Hub Jones, one of the oldest automobile dealers in Lubbock, as years of service and not years of age go, officially announced last week his change from Hudson-Essex to the Chrysler line. A car load of new Chryslers arrived about the middle of the week and attracted numerous automobile admirers to the display room. A Chrysler 6 sport roadster is attracting unusual attention. It will be entered, along with the new "eights" and "sixes" in the automobile show next Friday and Saturday.

SHOWROOM REMODELED

Work on the remodeling of the Davis Oldsmobile house here continues and is rapidly nearing completion. The removal of Frigidaire stock to the automobile house on Main Street necessitated the rearrangement and rebuilding of the inside fixtures. The building will be completely refinished in the course of another week.

REPORTS CONDITIONS BETTER

K. M. Chase, zone sales manager of this area for Chevrolet Motor Co., with headquarters at Amarillo spent two days here last week looking over the interests of the Kuykendall Chevrolet company here. Chase reaches Lubbock about four times per year. He reports that business is looking up wherever he has been on the present run.

COMMITTEES NAMED

Plans for the annual Lubbock automobile show have progressed rapidly during the past week, Ray Dickey and Hub Jones were named as a finance committee early last week and report that things are going good. Six local automobile firms, Kuykendall Chevrolet; Ratliff-Rogers Buick; Lubbock Auto Ford dealers; Hub Jones, Chrysler; W. W. Royalty, Dodge and Plymouth; and Scoggin-Dickey Oakland and Pontiac companies will be represented in the two-day show Friday and Saturday.

NEW CARS DELIVERED

Encouraging was the sale and delivery of new cars during the last week, and Lubbock dealers, nearly every one, reported that some "good prospects were on the line" for future deliveries. Chevrolets were delivered to G. T. Decoy and L. L. Thomas, both of Lubbock. Two Ford trucks, the largest type made, incorporating a 257-inch wheel-base, were sold to the Great Plains Potato company and to B. E. Needles. The second Ford Victoria to be sold in Lubbock was delivered last week to Mack B. Hume of Post. C. E. Ferguson of Snyder drove home a new standard Ford coupe from the Lubbock Auto company. Bill Bray and France Baker are driving new Buick sedans delivered by Ratliff-Rogers company.

OPENS TIRE SHOP

Auto Row welcomes the debut of W. B. Hearrell of Lubbock into the tire business. Hearrell is a Lubbock resident of ten years' standing, having been identified with the W. B. Hearrell company, wholesale tobacco concern, for the past two years. He will represent the Hicks Rubber company here, selling Star De Luxe tires.
