Perryton Will Decide Bond Issue Tuesday

Water, Sewer Facilities to Be Expanded

Perryton voters will go to the polls Tuesday, April 2, to decide whether or not the city will issue $400,000 in bonds to expand the city water and sewer system. The polling place is the city hall and the polls open at 8 a. m.

All qualified taxpaying voters are eligible to vote in this election. The bond election was called by city officials following an extensive study of the water and sewer needs as outlined by a professional engineering firm.

The $400,000 bond issue calls for the following: Two new wells to be drilled southeast of town; a 14-inch supply line to these wells; a 150,000 gallon concrete storage reservoir; a 250,000 gallon steel elevated water tank; more booster pumps at the present overhead towers; a complete chlorination system; addition of larger water lines and fire mains in the older areas of town; and two sewer lines, one to serve the older part of town and another for the newer part.

The report on Perryton's water condition shows that the city system cannot provide the required amount of water and maintain a fire reserve. Demand on peak days in 1956 was 2.4 million gallons while the system was able to provide only 1.8 million gallons of water.

The water for the expansion program is to come from wells drilled on Sec. 925, a mile east and a mile south of Perryton, where excellent water sands have been found. Two wells are contemplated now, but there is room for five on the tract of land.

In the older areas of town, the water mains are too small to allow the required pressure, since the volume of water than they were designed for when installed. The bond issue will pay for replacing these mains with pipe of larger size and installing larger fire hydrants for adequate protection.

The sewer lines in the older part of town are greatly overloaded, carrying much more of a load than they were designed to carry. The expansion program will provide for new and larger lines to serve the older area and also provides for laying of new lines in the southwest part of town.

The expansion program also provides for a chlorination system to replace the manual treatment now used.

DURING THE STORM—This picture, made early Sunday morning, shows the visibility and the weather conditions during the blizzard. The storm was the worst in at least 20 years, if not the worst of all time.

Fire Damages Pearson Home During Storm

Fire damaged the Roger Pearson home at 413 S. Drake during the week end storm, with fire fighting efforts hampered because of the blowing snow Saturday afternoon.

The fire broke out at about 12:30 p. m., and was discovered by Mrs. Pearson when she opened the door from her kitchen to the utility porch and was greeted with a wall of flame.

The alarm was turned in, but due to the high winds and snow, many of the firemen failed to hear the siren the first time. The siren was blown again, and many residents thought it was a storm alarm.

The fire burned out the utility porch, damaged the back porch, spread into the attic and damaged the kitchen. Water damage from the fire fighting efforts spread into the living room where the rug suffered some damage.

The Pearson family had to spend the week end with relatives in town after the fire.

All Boxes In County Open On April 2

All voting boxes in Ochiltree county will be open for the special Senate election on Tuesday, April 2, county judge Howard Slaughter has announced.

Citizens of Texas will elect a U. S. Senator to fill the unexpired term of present governor Price Daniel, and here are 22 candidates in the race.

Ballots will be cast at the courthouse, Huntoon, Alfalfa, Notia, Black, McMillen, Farnsworth and at the high school.

There are 20 Democrats and two Republicans in the race, but on the ballot, there is no distinction made between the candidates as to party or home town.

Leading candidates are considered to be Martin Dies of Lufkin; Ralph Yarborough of Austin; and Thad Hutchison, of Houston.

The candidates in the order they appear on the ballot, are: Elmer Adams, H. J. Antoine, Sr., Rev. M. T. Banks, Jacob Bergolofsky, Searcy Bracewell, John C. Burns, Sr., and others.

Two Locations In County As Play Continues

Ochiltree county drew two new locations during week as drilling activity continued. Actual operations, of course, were suspended during the blizzard, but crews are making their way down snow-clogged muddy roads to work now.

The Sinclair Oil and Gas Co. last week staked No. 1 Schneider in Sec. 75, Blk. 11, W. Ahrensbeck Survey, south and west of Farnsworth. The contract depth is 8,100 feet.

Phillips Petroleum Co. will drill the No. 1 Pehigoda in Sec. 572, block 43, H&TC survey, 11 miles southwest of Perryton. This is a 9,500 foot test.

Sinclair has staked the No. 1 A. F. Cook in Sec. 77, Block 4-T, T&NO Survey, five miles southwest of Farnsworth, just east of the Chunn gasser.

The Sinclair No. 1 George, just north of Perryton, was drilling below 4,000 feet this week.

In Beaver county, Cities Service has completed the Evans B-1 for 6,400,000 cubic feet of as per day from perforations at 8,874-80 feet.

No Leopard Cloth, But Maybe Sheena

Elza Kutch, proprietor of the KC Shamrock Service on South Main, thinks maybe Sheena, Queen of the Jungle, was a visitor to his station Wednesday at noon, but he's not sure. A trailer house loaded with a chimpanzee which looked suspiciously like the chimp in the TV Sheena series, was aboard, along with about 15 other monkeys of assorted sizes and kinds. However, Sheena and her escort were non-committal when asked if she were the television star. Kutch says he would have known her in a minute if she had been wearing the customary leopard skin, but in street clothes he was not so sure.

Two More Firms Locating Here

Two more companies are locating in Perryton and have completed lease agreements with the Santa Fe for lots along the track on Brillhart avenue.

The Indian Drilling Mud company has leased a lot just west of the ice plant and will construct a steel building as soon as possible. Lawrence Wilson is local manager for the company, which serves drilling rigs in a wide area around Perryton.

The Mud Control Laboratories has leased a lot next to the Indian Drilling Mud and plans are to construct a 50x100 foot steel building in the immediate future. Frank Gould is the local representative of the company.

Submarine Dentistry

GROTON, Conn. (AP)—They're not dentists, and it wouldn't do them any good to say "open wider, please," but certain key workmen on atomic submarines use dentists' drills and mirrors. They are shipyard chippers usually pictured as beefy individuals swinging a heavy hammer to cut apart sheets of welded steel.

You have to be a little more delicate, however, on the precision job of removing excesses or bumps left by the welders who themselves operate with surgical precision in joining the piping of craft such as the Nautilus and Seawolf, atomic submarines.

For that work, the chipper uses a drill identical with that employed by a dentist. And a dentist's mirror comes in handy when the work has to be done on the far side of a pipe.

More Oranges

LAKE ALFRED, Fla. (AP)—So many new citrus groves have been planted in Florida in the last two years, the State Plant Board reported, that orange planting stock has been used up.

Charles Poucher of the plant board said some nurseries are sold out of pineapple and Valencia orange stocks through next November.

Thousands of acres of new groves have been set out in the citrus section of central Florida in recent months, most of them oranges, Poucher says.

Faith, Hope and Skill Help Save Small Town

SHERWOOD, Tenn. (AP)—Nestled in a remote valley of Tennessee's Cumberland Mountains, folks are working grimly to save their town.

There's been no payroll since the community's only industry—a limestone plant—shut down eight years ago. The rugged terrain is not suited for farming.

Economic paralysis set in. The men drifted away, seeking work elsewhere, and the population melted from 1,400 to 900.

The women and children stayed on, along with a few men who maintained a few businesses.

Led by a youthful-looking Episcopal minister, the women of Sherwood began looking for a way to breathe new life into the began training as seamstresses to staff the proposed plant. Father Huske, 35, contributed the cloth and his mission acquired the machinery. The shirts they made sold readily and the income was used to continue the training program.

The plant is expected to employ 75 women initially. At a minimum of $40 a week, Father Huske figures their labors would pump $56,000 a year into Sherwood's deflated economy. Eventually, employment is expected to level off at 180 women, which would mean an annual $374,000 payroll.

When this occurs, the little candle at Epiphany Mission will be snuffed out, its symbol of hope town their Scotch and Irish ancestors settled prior to 1850.

The women gathered at the ivy-covered Church of Epiphany Mission, and Father Joseph S. Huske offered them hope . . . for better days.

Over the years, plans were evolved for the erection of a shirt factory. To symbolize the town's determination to survive, a candle was lit in the church with the promise that it will burn brightly until Sherwood's future is assured.

First off, the rector and the women formed the Epiphany Corporation, a general welfare organization, to assist in securing the factory. To finance the venture, the corporation offered for sale $50,000 in bonds bearing 3½ per cent interest.

Pipeline Planned To Move Oil In Panhandle Area

Welcome news to the Oklahoma Panhandle area and Southwest Kansas came from Wichita last week when it was announced that arrangements are under way to construct a pipeline to handle the area's crude oil supply.

George H. Bruce, president of Aladdin Petroleum Corp., Wichita, has filed an application for Southern Kansas Pipe Line Co., Inc., for a certificate of convenience and authority to construct and operate a pipe line.

The line, according to the application, is for the transportation of crude oil and distillate from a receiving terminal in southwestern Meade county to a delivery terminal in western Cowley county, Kansas.

The delivery terminal would be in the Arkansas City area where refineries are located.

Hearing on the application before the Kansas Corporation Commission was scheduled for March 29.

Groendyke Petroleum and Shamrock Oil and Gas Co. have notified producers in the area that there will be no market for crude oil and distillate after April 1.

Ochiltree county producers have been notified of a cut of 50 percent in the production in the Farnsworth field, also being processed

The Shamrock refinery has a capacity of 20,000 barrels a day and has been buying about 32,000 barrels a day.

TAKE YOUR PICK—If you like fishing from a dock, stop dreaming about all the fancy tackle the fellow in the boat is using. He too often gets skunked. The above lures are supposed to be good for striped bass but when they're not biting there's nothing you can do.

Striper-Less Bass Angler

By FRANK ECK
Ochiltree County Sports Editor

COLD SPRING HARBOR, N. Y.—One year ago at the tail end of boating season I caught two striped bass, one three pounds and the other nine. All I can say now is that I'm thankful I had witnesses because this year more people have come to know me as the strip-less bass fisherman.

I tried everything. I fished with three in a boat and when the days got shorter I tried two in a boat. I tried for stripers with a fishing tackle expert, a photo engraver, a telephone worker, a banker and an aircraft plant foreman. I even took the engraver's wife, a large mouth bass expert from Ocala, Fla., and took my own wife.

I tried all kinds of tackle—buck-tail lures, a rigged eel, a June bug spinner, a feather lure with and without sandworms, bloodworms, pork rind and a silver minnow. I tried light lures for the top and heavier lures for the bottom. A few perches, several snappers (young bluefish) and a 2½-pound fluke was the total catch for three months fishing. But no stripers.

I saw stripers break water 15 feet from my 16-foot outboard. I say other fellows catch them. I even saw Jim Dinklercatcher have one on his line but it turned out to be my biggest mistake. I had given him 6-pound test line and a reel without a drag, either of which is enough to make anybody lose line and tackle. But they weren't striking and I never thought Dinklercatcher would hook into a stripers. Next year he's bringing his own tackle. He doesn't trust me.

Why I even tried to help fishermen I didn't know. A boy and his father were trolling in a rowboat. They were going too fast to catch stripers. I told them. They slowed down. A half-hour later they passed my boat and the boy yelled:

"Look, my first one."

He had hooked a 5-pound stripers and had all he could do to hold it up with both hands. The boy wasn't weak, he was that small.

A fellow in the office has been going to Montauk Point for five years. He casts from the beach. He feels so badly about his luck that he casts alone. He has seen strangers pull in stripers from the surf but all he ever got was a seagull. He had a devil of a time releasing that seagull. Twenty fellow gulls dove for the angler and chased him from the beach. All he could do was cut the line. This same fellow suggested I charter a boat for $68 and try Montauk for stripers. He has never done it himself. Ask him why and he replies:

"I like casting for stripers."

That's the trouble with striped bass fishermen. They are stubborn—but so are the stripers.

County Residents Buy $118,572 In Savings Bonds

Ochiltree county residents have purchased a total of $118,572.06 in Series E and H United States Savings Bonds through February, county chairman F. B. Sumpter has announced.

This amount is 25.8 per cent of $459,996.00.

Texasans invested over $14 million dollars in Savings Bonds during February and Texas reached 15.6 per cent of the 1957 goal of $193,196,000.

Primary emphasis during the spring months is on Payroll Savings. Sumpter said. Hundreds of firms throughout the state are installing the Payroll Savings Plan which will offer their employees a plan by which they can save systematically. More than eight and a half million Americans and 250,000 Texans are now using this method of saving.

Snowbound Choir Performs Tuesday

The North Texas College A Cappella Choir, which was scheduled to give a performance in the school auditorium Saturday, was "blizzard out" and became storm-bound for three days.

After sitting out the blizzard for three days, the choir put on their performance in the auditorium Tuesday night.

The 36-member choir, under the direction of Frank McKinley, is one of the most famous musical organizations in the Southwest.

From Your City Council Regarding the $400,000 Water Bond Election

Offered for Your Consideration at the Polls on TUESDAY, APRIL 2nd.

IN PERRYTON

(POLLING PLACE: CITY HALL)

Your city officials, knowing first hand the inadequacy of the water facilities of Perryton, have determined that the only method possible to provide more water is by bond issue. If the voters of Perryton want adequate facilities for present needs and for any future expansion, then money for this purpose must be provided by the sale of bonds. THERE IS ABSOLUTELY NO OTHER WAY TO OBTAIN THESE NEEDED AND NECESSARY IMPROVEMENTS.

We submit the following facts and figures for your study before voting time, April 2nd.

The Proposed Expansion Program Calls for the Following:

Two new wells; a 14-inch supply line to the wells southeast of town; one 350,000 gallon ground storage tank; one 250,000 gallon steel water tower; more booster pumps at the present water towers; a complete chlorination system; larger lines and fire mains in the old area of town; two outfall sewer lines.

The last general water and sewer expansion program was in 1948. Since that time, our water deposits have increased from $7,926.00 to $12,792.00, an increase of 62 per cent. During this period, water consumption has increased from an average of 90 gallons per day to 140 gallons per day.

The water system reached its capacity in 1951. Since that time, the city has added approximately $130,000.00 from current funds to install one well, boosting pumps, ground storage reservoirs and fire mains. These additions have carried us through each summer without water rationing, but expansion can no longer be financed this way.

Perryton's water system has available 1.8 million gallons of water for fire reserve. Our demand this year will be about 2.6 million gallons, leaving the city deficient by .8 million gallons.

Perryton used on peak days in 1956 about 2.4 million gallons of water and a peak of 2.8 million gallons is expected this year. This amount of water cannot be furnished with present facilities and have anything left for fire protection.

The lines in the old area of town are "catclimbing-up" construction to provide for adequate water pressure and fire protection. As the town has grown, the pressure in the old area has decreased, making larger lines necessary. The proposed program will put in new and larger lines, install fire mains on East Brillhart and add new 6-inch fire hydrants. This phase of the program will cost $100,000.00.

The sewer lines into the old areas of town are overloaded and a new line must be installed in these areas. There will be another sewer line added at a later date to serve the areas south and west of the Stark additions.

This water and sewer construction program is designed to serve a population of 7,050 people.

The amount of water supplied when the new wells are drilled will supply the general use of the community, and is not designed to supply industrial users. It is common practice for industries to locate plants where they can develop their own supply of water.

This program will cost $400,000, with the bonds to be completely supported by water revenue. The water rates in Perryton are only 6 per cent more than they were in 1934. Perryton's water rates are 31 per cent less than the average in Dalhart, Dumas, Canyon, Borger and Pampa, cities which also get their water from deep wells.

The City Council has employed professional engineers to aid the administrative staff in designing a program which we feel is to the best interests of Perryton and its citizens. The program is financially sound, it is flexible, and we think it is adequate.

We are all well aware of how the lack of water can affect the economy of our community. A community cannot stand still—it either has to go forward or backward. If we refuse to take care of our water needs, we can only go backwards.

We feel that this bond issue merits the full support of the citizens of Perryton and ask you to go to the polls on April 2 and express yourself by voting FOR this Bond Issue.

ABSENTEE VOTING WILL CONTINUE UNTIL 12 MIDNIGHT FRIDAY, MARCH 29

Recent disclosures from testimony:

(1) Former Insurance Commission Chairman J. Byron Saunders received some $7,000 from ICT Discount Corp. in monthly checks.
Saunders said it was in payment for his interest in Wood County oil wells. Atty. Gen. Will Wilson questioned Saunders closely as to why the money was listed on his income tax return as legal fees rather than money from a property sale.

(2) Two former Insurance Commission examiners were asked to explain if they were the same men whose names appeared on checks from a BenJack Cage interest. A doctor certified the two, L. W.
Blanchard and Robert Butler, were too ill to testify. Both had been discharged from the commission for alleged connections with another company that went broke.

(3) Renee Allred Jr., court-appointed liquidator for ICT, charged the company was organized with borrowed money, a procedure contrary to state law. He also said year-end statements were fattened by short-term loans.

(4) Several legislators and former legislators testified concerning fees from ICT. Most were small in amount and received some time ago.

COKE'S CO. in Trouble—Physicians Life Insurance Co. of Dallas is to appear before the Insurance Commission Thursday (March 28) to show cause why it should not lose its license.

This is the only one of the difficulties faced by the company headed by former Gov. Coke Stevenson.

It is one of several Dallas-based insurance companies that are to be investigated by a special Dallas County grand jury.

Governor Stevenson said the original founders of the company sold some of their stock through the company at a tremendous profit and retained the money themselves. None of these people is in authority now, he said, and the company has sued for recovery of the money. "It will go a long way to get things straightened out," he said.

Stevenson also told stockholders the company's future solvency requires it to get loose from a commitment to take over assets of American Atlas Ins. Co. from the state receiver. Federal tax liens against American Atlas were discovered after the deal was made.

Dallas until April 15 to clear up charges it falsified its books to show assets in excess of their true value.

CONFUSED HISTORY—House bribery investigators are having slow going with the Texas Naturopathic Association.

Efforts to uncover details of the TNA's past legislative activities have been repeatedly balked by faulty memories and lack of records.

On the Committee's recommendation the House formally censured ex-Rep. James E. Cox of Conroe.
Cox has been indicted on charges of agreeing to accept a bribe from the TNA.

Panel then turned its attention to reports of a fund raised by the Naturopaths to "educate" the Legislature in 1955. Fund was variously estimated from $8,000 to $59,000.

But only hazy and conflicting testimony was received. No records were kept, said a former office secretary.

Irkled by it all, the committee prepared contempt charges against a Dallas naturopath, Dr.
Robert Spears, for refusing to answer questions about his background.

Texas Railroad Commission cut the April allowable by 224,710 barrels a day. It is to be at 3,564,665 barrels a day. This puts things back about as they were in February before the big jump to 18 producing days in March.

Major oil companies had strongly urged increased production on the commission. But after three weeks under the higher pattern, they were unanimous in asking a cutback.

News of the lower allowable brought uneasiness to legislators.
They had been counting on high oil production to bring in the increased revenue to put over half their record spending program without new taxes.

State Comptroller Robert S. Calvert had forecast an extra $100,- 000,000 for the next biennium. After the Railroad Commission order, Calvert said he was not changing that forecast yet. It included some leeway for fluctuation in oil revenue, he said.

MALONE'S

AID AFTER THE STORM—Jim Lamb of the Boswell Bros. ambulance service followed the bulldozer as it plowed along Highway 15 southwest Monday to rescue stranded motorists, several having been isolated for 36 hours and longer. Here Lamb and a Jeffries dozer operator, Lloyd Langley, approach one of the many vehicles stalled between Perryton and Farnsworth.

PRETTY PICTURE—The snow painted many portraits of white after the wind subsided early Monday morning and this home of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Spicer, 302 S. Baylor, is a good example.

MOUNTAINS OF SNOW—This city bulldozer, operated by W. B. Barclay, had to open up the huge snowdrifts north of the city warehouse before city vehicles could go to work Monday morning.

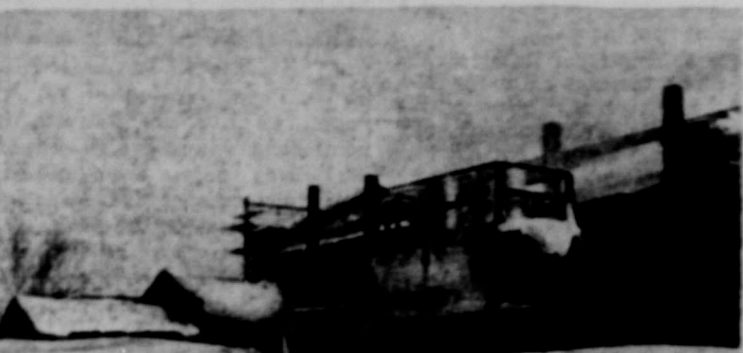

FIRE DAMAGE—Perryton firemen had a tough time fighting this fire at the Roger Pearson home, 410 S. Drake, during the snowstorm Saturday afternoon. Damage was heavy to the house when fire broke out on the utility porch and spread to other parts of the house.

CLEAR SAILING—Joe Cox, 817 S. Baylor, had his driveway scooped out early Monday morning and the only problem then was how to get this pickup down the street through the drifts.

HOW TO GET OUT—This picture was taken at the intersection of Fordham and 6th avenue and the drift in the foreground is about six feet deep. The cars at the right were snowed in for two days.

DEEP DRIFTS—These drifts that nearly covered the Community Public Service Co. plant were an estimated 20 feet high Monday morning. An automobile is under the drift at the left.

WINTER SCENE—This is a typical winter picture scene following the snowstorm which visited the area this week. This is the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hill, Amherst and 7th avenue.

SLED TIME—Jack Bell and Danny Witt broke out these seldom used sleds Monday morning to take advantage of the deep snow. Monday and Tuesday turned into a youngster's paradise with no school and plenty of snowdrifts.

AID FROM THE ARMY—This helicopter is one of three flown into Perryton Tuesday to aid in work following the big blizzard. This helicopter came from Fort Sill and is a 12-passenger plane. Crews of the three machines worked all day Tuesday visiting isolated farms and ranches as well as rights.

RESCUED AFTER 40 HOURS—Russell Powell, one of the four state highway employees stranded by the blizzard some six miles southwest of Perryton, here is being assisted from his cab to a patrol car for rapid transfer to a Perryton hospital. Jim Lamb, ambulance driver, was assisted in operations by highway department workers and by three dozer operators of the Jeffries Company on the mercy mission by Sinclair Oil officials.

TRACTORS STUCK TOO—Even the tractors become mired in the snow Monday morning in the blizzard. Here Alex Barlow is trying to get his tractor mired across the intersection of Amherst and 7th avenue with the aid of these spectators.

NO TRAIN SERVICE—These drifts around the Santa Fe depot point out one reason there is no train service during the storm.

Many Unselfish Acts Seen During Bitter March Blizzard

So many acts of heroism and suffering and unselfish service were recorded during the blizzard, that it is impossible to single out any one above another.

But there are some that bear recounting.

There was Bill Cochran, pusher for the Jeffries bulldozer operators who was on the job from Friday morning through Monday. It was Cochran who opened the road west to rescue motorists on highway 15 Monday morning.

There were bulldozer operators E. L. Blevins and Lloyd Langley. Blevins had started in his pickup Friday evening with fuel to the Cree No. 1 well, George lease, 2½ miles northwest of Perryton. His pickup drowned out only 300 yards from the rig, and he kept a lonely vigil there, without heat or food, until 7 p. m. Sunday, finally walking and crawling the almost "impossible" 300 yards to the rig where seven men completed their fifth shift by 9 a. m. Monday.

This crew was more fortunate than some, having some food—celery soup, green peas and green beans. After his ordeal, Blevins joined with Langley and Cochran to put the Jeffries dozer into use ferreting out the stranded highway travelers.

The blizzard was of such intensity that roughnecks told of walking over snow-covered slush pits containing six feet of water, never realizing their danger.

And there were Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Lawson, elderly couple of Spearman, who survived the storm in their car east of Farnsworth. Theirs was the first rescue made by the group opening Highway 15 westward.

And in Perryton, there was A. A. Lynn of the Lynn Drilling Co. who in the absence of the Hotel Coffee Shop personnel, took over as cook during the storm, serving food to the stranded guests. Travelers Clarence Thompson of Enid, Okla., Mrs. Jack Young of Marshall, Texas, and Mrs. A. C. Lamar of Hugoton, Kansas, were among those who helped.

There were Joe Burge and Virgil Devers in a truck; Bob Doffer and Roy Bohn in the city police car; John Blanton, Charles Parker and Tommy Dower in a motor grader which made the rescue of stranded highway patrolmen north of town Monday morning.

Another crew broke open the highway toward Canadian Tuesday, including Charles Parker, Alton Witt in the grader; John Ferguson and Harold Webb in a truck; Bob Loving and Roy Bohn in the patrol car; Jim Lamb and Max McLarty in a Boxwell Bros. ambulance.

Rev. and Mrs. Joe Frederick and children were returning home from Fort Worth Saturday afternoon, when they became stopped by the blinding storm about 25 miles north of Canadian. They made their way back down the highway until they came to the Arnold Good home, where they were taken inside to remain during the blizzard.

Mr. and Mrs. Good had a house full of food, preparing for a birthday party, and they provided plenty of food for their guests.

Halie Payne, General Telephone Co. operator, remained at her post Saturday night, and found out how strong the wind was when she attempted to cross Main street and go home early Sunday morning. As she reached the street, the wind blew her to the pavement, ripped off her shoes and blew away her purse, and she finally had to crawl on hands and knees to reach shelter across the street. She made her way home without shoes. The purse was found Monday in the Ken Fuller service station, a block south of where she lost it.

R. H. Holland lost 18 head of registered Shetland ponies during the storm. The horses were in a barn, but became imprisoned by the packed snow and suffocated. One mare was bought last year for $3,000 and the value of the animals was estimated at $12-15,000.00.

Ause Stroud had a milk cow in the barn, and during the storm, the cow walked around, packing down the snow which sifted in, until by the time Stroud got to the barn Monday, the cow was scraping her back on the rafters.

Hot Hargroves and Bob Saker, Halliburton employees, solved the heating problem when stalled during the blizzard in a new car west of town. They ripped off the upholstery and burned it to keep warm after the motor gave out. Damage to the car was extensive, but the men kept from freezing to death.

Wheat Measuring Is Half Through

Measuring of wheat allotment land in Ochiltree county is about half through, reports county ASC secretary Elliott Lee. Every land owner and tenant will be notified by May 1 if he has overseeded his allotment and the deadline for destroying excess acreage is May 20.

No crops of any kind may be grown on land placed in the Soil Bank, Lee reminded. Some farmers had wheat planted in land placed in the Soil Bank and others have unintentionally seeded in land placed in the Soil Bank.

The rest of the $400,000 bond issue will go to construct the ground storage reservoir, the overhead steel tower, and the lines from the new wells to town.

It is planned to make this a four year construction program, with the drilling of the new wells first on the list. The new wells, plus the new line into town and booster pumps will give adequate water by the summer of 1958. The next schedule of work provides for the laying of the replacement lines and then the sewer lines. The overhead tower is planned for construction in 1960.

Shamrock Wins Play Contest

Shamrock high school won first place in the district 3-AA one-act play contest, held Friday night in the Perryton school auditorium.

Perryton won second and Wellington third.

Shamrock's winning play was "Birthday of Infanta," and they placed three members on the all-star cast.

Perryton's entry was "The Silver Whistle," and chosen for the all-star cast were Neal Flathers and Clea Carter.

W. A. Moore, head of the drama department of West Texas State College, judged the plays.

WTSC Choir to Appear Wednesday

A concert, featuring the famed 60-voice A Cappella Choir of West Texas State College, will be presented at 10 a. m. Wednesday, April 3, in the Perryton school auditorium.

Directed by Dr. Houston Bright, the big choral group is on its annual spring tour of Panhandle cities.

Two small ensembles within the choir will present novelty and specialty numbers. They are a girls' trio, the Harmonettes, and a men's quartet, the well-known Hi-Fi's.

Area Singers To Meet Here

Perryton will be the site for the Regional Fifth Sunday Singing Festival on Sunday afternoon, March 31, in the school auditorium, chairman Howard Manross has announced.

The singing will be from 1:30 to 4:30 p. m. and will feature quartets, solos and ensembles from a number of area cities, and singers are expected from Pampa, Amarillo, Borger, Booker, Range, Fallett and other towns.

Congregational singing will be directed by various members of the group. All the favorite hymns will be sung, Manross said.

The public is cordially invited to attend. There is no admission charge and no collection will be taken.

The exhibit will include such painters as Wayman Adams, nationally known portrait painter; David Adickes, a member of the art faculty of the University of Texas; Joseph Cain, an art critic of Corpus Christi; Mrs. Dorothy Bryan of Lubbock; Constance Forsyth, assistant professor of art, University of Texas; and DeForest Judd, a member of the faculty at Southern Methodist University. Meeting On New Road Indefinite Another meeting date will be set for the county commissioners and Charles Smith, district highway engineer of Amarillo, regarding the proposed industrial road along the east edge of Perryton.

Smith was to have met with the commissioners and members of the Chamber of Commerce industrial committee this week, but this was cancelled due to the severe blizzard.

The Perryton meeting will have to wait until the storm damage is cleared in the Panhandle area.

The road has been asked by the industrial committee of the Chamber of Commerce as an aid to developing the industrial tract which is being sold to industrial firms on a non-profit basis by the Chamber.

Mrs. LaMaster Tells of Visit to South America

Highlights of recent South American travels were vividly told by Mrs. W. B. LaMaster Thursday evening at the "Ladies Night" program of the Perryton Rotary Club. Mr. and Mrs. LaMaster were special guests at the dinner meeting held in the Ranch House dining room.

Mrs. LaMaster dispelled the popular conception of South America as being a backward civilization, citing the modern cities of Sao Paulo, Montevideo, Rio de Janeiro and others with their skyscrapers, modern retail centers, and related industries of the English, Spanish, German and American.

President Otto Castle presided over the meeting attended by 48 Rotarians and wives.

Several Rotarians were recognized for perfect attendance records. Five-year pins were awarded Bob Drake, Gilbert Mize, Dr. Reese Nowlin and Lester Baumann. Six years of perfect attendance were announced for Cecil Dodd, Walter LaMaster, Raymond Powell and C. E. Whippo. Tom Evans and J. H. Bransbears were recognized with 16 and 17 years perfect attendance respectively.

Nationalization of Schools

For more than 25 years, shrewd promoters have been plugging federal aid for education, under the guise of bringing equal educational facilities to children of the poorer states that cannot afford to educate their own.

Substantially the same sort of bill is in Congress now, and the principal block in its passage is the restrictive clause denying funds to states with segregated schools.

Actually, what the nation faces is not a federal school construction aid program, but the first and fateful step in the nationalization of the public schools.

Proponents of the program say the federal government will eventually spend several billion dollars a year for aid to education, and the only place the federal government has to get its money is from the pocketbooks of the very people who are paying local school taxes now.

We doubt if it is sound reasoning to say that the people of Mississippi, Kentucky, Georgia and Texas, among others mentioned, must have federal aid in order to bring their schools up to standard.

Federal aid should be a last resort, used only when there is no other resource. Certainly our public schools of this nation are not down to bed rock and will not be in the foreseeable future if the federal government will take its hands out of the taxpayers' pocket long enough for the state and local school districts to get their in.

History teaches that political power inevitably follows the power over the purse.

What Is Prosperity?

There may be among Herald readers those who are old enough to recall when the American dream consisted of a bathroom in every home, an electric light in every room, a car in every garage and a chicken in every pot.

That was the goal of prosperity.

Another goal was the 5-day, 40-hour week.

This dream must now be revised to fit current standards.

The new goal must include two television sets in every home, a bathroom for every bedroom, winter and summer air conditioning, home freezers, power lawn mowers, underground lawn sprinkling systems, wall-to-wall carpet, two cars in every garage, one of them a station wagon, and charge accounts in every store.

This is to be accomplished on a four day work week.

The present prosperity is so great that in an increasing number of families it has wrought great change. It used to be that the father of the family made the living. Now it takes two, the wife and husband, and if our prosperity goes much higher, it will take the children bringing home a paycheck.

There are other by-products of this great prosperity, too.

One out of every two hospital beds in this country is occupied by a mental patient and one out of every 12 children born today will suffer a mental ailment.

The sale of aspirin has risen steadily with the rise in living standards until now one of the most profitable drug fields is in the sale of various headache remedies.

The price of prosperity seems to be worry—witness the rise in the sale of "tranquillizer" pills, sleeping pills and various other drugs.

This is a strange paradox—half the people in America are sick because they haven't been able to find contentment while surrounded by more material comforts than any other people in history.

Vote for Progress

Citizens of Perryton have an opportunity to vote for progress on Tuesday, April 2.

The $400,000 bond issue to finance the expanding of our water and sewer system is to be decided that day, and we hope that the issue carries by a large majority.

We fail to see how any reasonable person can be against such a bond issue. It has been carefully planned, it is designed to take care of needs for a long time, and it is certainly something we must have.

The city is in a very sound financial position to pay off these bonds without strain. The need is there, and the ability too.

A vote for the bond issue is a vote for progress and we believe most Perryton citizens are progressive.

We're for Martin Dies

There are 22 men in the race for the U. S. Senator, and most of the mob will be below on the list of vote totals come next Tuesday, April 2.

The race seems to narrow down between Democrats Ralph Yarborough and Martin Dies, with Republican, Thad Hutcheson also running strong.

We will choose Martin Dies.

Dies is a conservative, he has the necessary legislative experience and he has a long record of political integrity.

We think Texas will be best represented by a conservative than a so-called liberal, and Martin Dies has the best chance to win over Ralph Yarborough.

with HAROLD HUDSON

There are countless heroes of this storm, and any list would be incomplete. The highway department men who tried so hard to open the roads Saturday, the patrolmen and truck drivers who tried to rescue the bus passengers north of town and became stranded themselves, the plant operators who spent 36 hours without sleep in order to keep emergency electricity going. As time passes, the list will become longer.

If the moisture pattern continues in 1957 like it started out, the newly launched Soil Bank may go broke due to lack of depositors.

When the fire alarm sounded for the Roger Pearson home fire Saturday afternoon during the storm, it scared a lot of folks. The regular three blasts from the siren were sounded first, then a few minutes later a long, steady blast was issued. Plenty of people thought the last one was the signal for a tornado. Actually, the alarm was sounded again because the first alarm didn't get enough firemen on the scene.

We never saw snow melt as rapidly as did this gigantic one. All day Monday the streets were running nearly bank-to-bank with melted snow water, and many of the fields, pastures and yards were bare by nightfall. Only the drifts remained, and it appears that it will take some thawing to get rid of them.

Things were about back to normal by Tuesday, and it won't be long until this great spring blizzard of 1957 will be put into the realm of memory. But man, what memories! Wouldn't you like to be around when someone tells his grandchildren of this blizzard, say in about 25 years? It will get better with the telling, you can depend on that.

A very unusual occurrence was noted during the blizzard Sunday night. Several people noted what appeared to be flashes of lightning during the storm. Occurred about 10:30 p. m. We didn't see anything like this and never heard of lightning during a snowstorm. But stranger things have happened.

In the excitement of the storm, we hope that no one forgets to vote in the election next Tuesday, and after all, the storm will have been almost forgotten by then. There are several important elections for us on April 2, including the special Senate election, the city council election and the city bond election to take care of water and sewer needs.

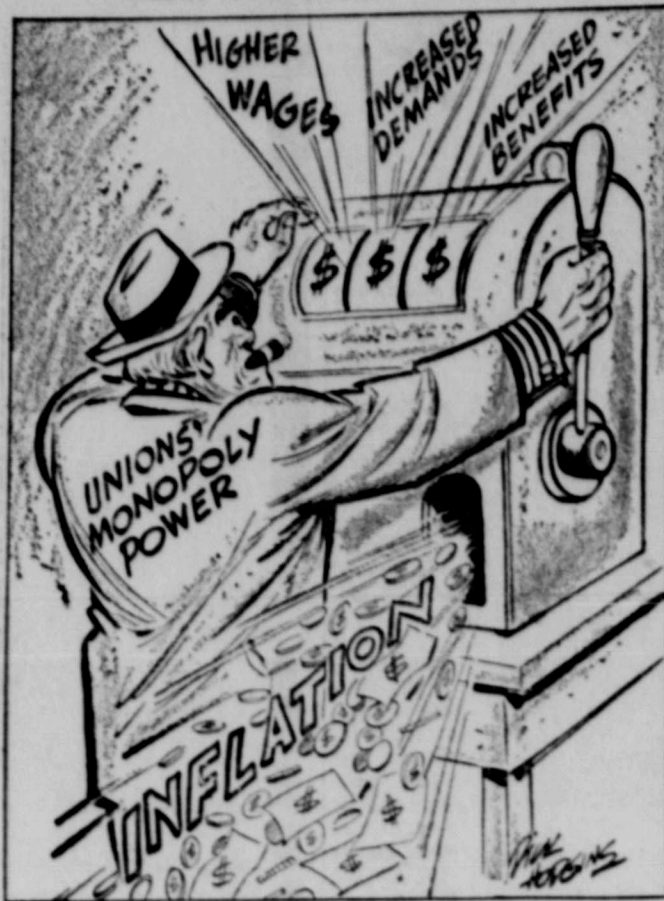

The latter is probably the most important to those of us in Perryton. Certainly we cannot expect to grow and take care of our needs without expanding the water and sewer system. So what if it costs a little bit? We would be extremely suspicious if it didn't. Those of you who are concerned about the future of Perryton and those of you who want to be sure of drinking water from now on had better go down to the city hall and cast your ballot Tuesday, April 2.

Another word for our cigaret smoking friends: Did you see the report of seven scientists, released March 22, that there is a direct relationship between cigaret smoking and lung cancer? Said they: "The sum total of scientific evidence established beyond reasonable doubt that cigaret smoking is a causative factor in the rapidly increasing incidence of human epidermoid carcinoma (cancer) of the lung." We just wanted to be sure you read this.

Old timers had to dust off their memory albums to find a blizzard as fierce as the one that hit the Plains area this time, and we doubt if there were any that could compare, except maybe the famous "blue blizzard" of 1898 which killed thousands upon thousands of cattle from Kansas to the Canadian River in Texas. Under the same shelter conditions, this 1957 blizzard may have done the same thing, who knows?

One thing about it—people in Perryton learned how to live without some of the modern conveniences—mainly electricity. Home owners learned how to disconnect the electric thermostat on their floor furnaces so the heat could be controlled manually and there were many meals heated over a bathroom heater or a candle-operated chafing dish. We were lucky—being on one of the electric circuits in operation from the local plant, we had electricity practical-

by all of the time.

It was almost a terrifying experience for some families—huddled in their homes with only candles for light, listening to the howling blizzard outside and not knowing how long it was to last, being cut off from all outside communications.

We tried to walk to the newspaper office Sunday morning, but had to turn around and go back after negotiating two blocks against the fierce, snow laden wind. We didn't meet anyone on the road during this effort, either.

There is plenty to be thankful for—the heavy snow put an abundance of moisture into the ground. The temperature was not bitter cold, ranging just below the freezing mark most of the time, and this saved much loss of life for livestock.

Abraham Lincoln, 6 feet 4 tall was the tallest U. S. President.

Wolf Creek Philosopher Take Cities Into The Country?

(Ed. note: The Wolf Creek Philosopher is talking about something that's probably none of his business, his letter this week reveals.

Dear editor:

Where I live, there's not much danger of any city ever bringing my farm into its city limits, cities may be hungry for more area but no city could be that hungry, yet a lot of cities throughout the country are growing and expanding and taking in land all around them, and I understand it creates a problem, especially for a farmer who wakes up some morning to find his barn on the city tax rolls.

I was reading last night in a newspaper which some city man threw out of his car along with some tin cans while he was driving through the countryside out here earlier in the day where a big New York real estate developer says a city ought to have the right to annex the area around it. It's not fair, he said, for people living near a city to enjoy its advantages and not pay any of its taxes, and he said he city should have the right to take in the territory without the consent of the people taken in.

Now this may be a good idea, if it's allowed to work both ways.

For example, take city people. They enjoy the advantages of the land around them, at least they still enjoy food, and if they've got the right to urbanize the country, the country ought to have the right to ruralize the city.

A lot of city area would be hard to plow, but many's the time I've driven through a big city and thought about what my hungry cows could do to all the grass they've got growing on those city lawns. If the city has the right to rope in a country barn, the country people ought to have the right to fence off some of those lawns, although as I say the question is really none of my concern as any city that got so hard up for space it had to take in my farm would be faced with indignation anyway.

However, the way I look at the problem is, if the country people want to move to the city, let em; and if the city people want to move to the country, let em; but when the city itself wants to move to the country's that's a different matter, although I don't know of anything anybody can do about it. You can't stop progress. If you could, they'd back up on the hydrogen bomb. I wash my hands of the problem. It's not my fault if everybody in the country wasn't as farsighted as me and didn't pick out a piece of land nobody, farmer or city man, can do anything with.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

ON THE HOUSE

Newsfeatures

FEDERAL HOUSING Administration inspectors have many ways of determining the quality of work done by home builders. Some of them are much too technical to be used with any advantage by the average prospective house purchaser. But others have a definite value in an over-all appraisal of a new home.

If an FHA inspector notes, for instance, that there are hammer marks, chipped edges and unset nails on the trim, he regards it as evidence of careless workmanship. If the hardware is neatly and accurately installed, the wallpaper carefully butted and matched, the paint with no brush marks or drips, he knows that the job has been done with care and pride.

These are seemingly small matters in construction work. And they would be useless without the more precise tests necessary for judging quality. Yet it is surprising how often the impression gained from observation of these little things is born out by the kind of work done in the more important construction features of the same house.

The stapler has moved from the office to the construction industry to the home. Its story gives further evidence that the manufacturer often follows the lead of the public, even in the use of his own products.

Staplers once were made primarily for the office. When carpenters and roofers began to make some use of them, heavy-duty staplers had to be turned out for such jobs as installing insulation and sheathing, fastening shingles to roofs and attaching ceiling tiles to mention just a few. Then the home handyman began to find staplers useful for fastening screening to frames, repairing window shades, attaching upholstery, while the lady of the house discovered they could be used for tacking shelf paper, fastening lunch bags and dozens of other things.

The use of staplers in the home has become so popular that the world's largest manufacturer of these machines is putting out one designed exclusively for the home. It comes with a bracket which can be mounted to the wall, so that it can be used either mounted or detached.

Despite the galaxy of modern cleaning implements on the market, the broom is still being used extensively by housewives. And do you know why? Here's why, according to Social Research, Inc.: "Brooms symbolize an aggressive approach to dirt, and sweeping involves many assertive aspects."

The insulation of concrete block buildings and foundations has been made easier with the use of perlite, an extremely light material of a volcanic lava substance that has been crushed and then "popped" under heat like popcorn. It weighs less than one-tenth as much as sand, is pure white and is poured directly from bags into the cores of the concrete blocks.

Perlite is stocked by building supply dealers under various brand names. It is said to be rot-proof, resistant to settling and not structurally affected by water.

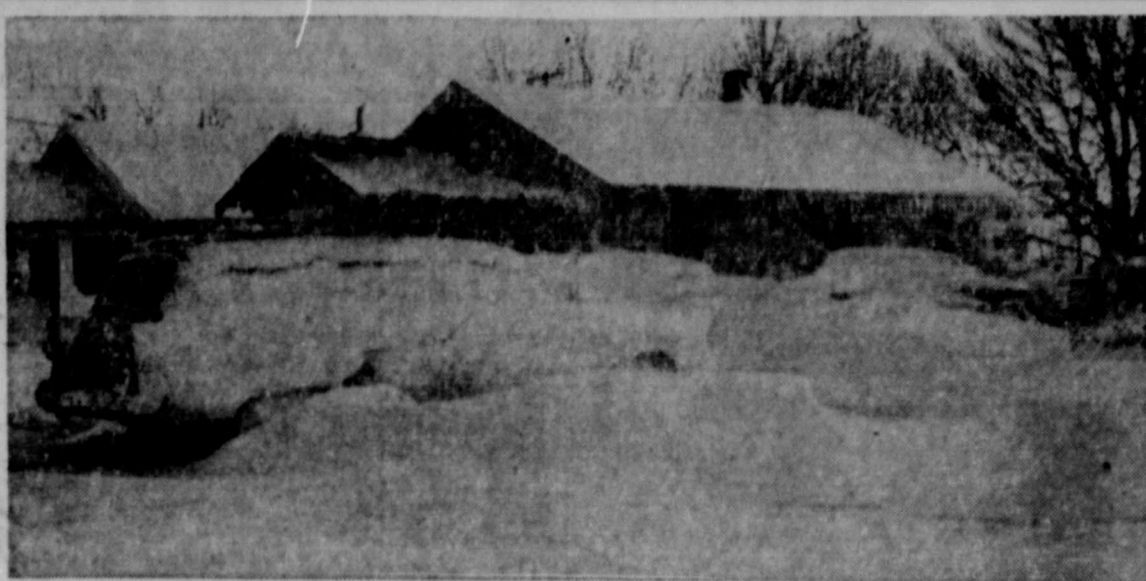

Nearly 12 million power lawn mowers were used by American home owners in 1956. Three million more are expected to be sold this year.

Of three million house-holders at least half will commit the most common mistake of new power mower owners—cutting the grass too short.

With the exception of bentgrass lawns, grass which is to remain healthy should be cut not less than 1½ to two inches above the ground in moderate weather, three inches above the ground during hot spells. Bentgrass may be safely trimmed three-quarters of an inch high.

Unless your bathroom has some means of ventilation, you probably notice, after a shower, that the window and mirror are clouded with steam.

That's a warning to open the window; just a little and for only a few minutes will be sufficient. If you don't open the window, the

Nationalization of Schools

For more than 25 years, shrewd promoters have been plugging federal aid for education, under the guise of bringing equal educational facilities to children of the poorer states that cannot afford to educate their own.

Substantially the same sort of bill is in Congress now, and the principal block in its passage is the restrictive clause denying funds to states with segregated schools.

Actually, what the nation faces is not a federal school construction aid program, but the first and fateful step in the nationalization of the public schools.

Proponents of the program say the federal government will eventually spend several billion dollars a year for aid to education, and the only place the federal government has to get its money is from the pocketbooks of the very people who are paying local school taxes now.

We doubt if it is sound reasoning to say that the people of Mississippi, Kentucky, Georgia and Texas, among others mentioned, must have federal aid in order to bring their schools up to standard.

Federal aid should be a last resort, used only when there is no other resource. Certainly our public schools of this nation are not down to bed rock and will not be in the foreseeable future if the federal government will take its hands out of the taxpayers' pocket long enough for the state and local school districts to get theirs in.

History teaches that political power inevitably follows the power over the purse.

What Is Prosperity?

There may be among Herald readers those who are old enough to recall when the American dream consisted of a bathroom in every home, an electric light in every room, a car in every garage and a chicken in every pot.

That was the goal of prosperity.

Another goal was the 5-day, 40-hour week.

This dream must now be revised to fit current standards.

The new goal must include two television sets in every home, a bathroom for every bedroom, winter and summer air conditioning, home freezers, power lawn mowers, underground lawn sprinkling systems, wall-to-wall carpet, two cars in every garage, one of them a station wagon, and charge accounts in every store.

This is to be accomplished on a four-day work week.

The present prosperity is so great that in an increasing number of families it has wrought great change. It used to be that the father of the family made the living. Now it takes two, the wife and husband, and if our prosperity goes much higher, it will take the children bringing home a paycheck.

There are other by-products of this great prosperity, too.

One out of every two hospital beds in this country is occupied by a mental patient and one out of every 12 children born today will suffer a mental ailment.

The sale of aspirin has risen steadily with the rise in living standards, until now one of the most profitable drug fields is in the sale of various headache remedies.

The price of prosperity seems to be worry—witness the rise in the sale of "tranquizer" pills, sleeping pills and various other drugs.

This is a strange paradox—half the people in America are sick because they haven't been able to find contentment while surrounded by more material comforts than any other people in history.

Vote for Progress

Citizens of Perryton have an opportunity to vote for progress on Tuesday, April 2.

The $400,000 bond issue to finance the expanding of our water and sewer system is to be decided that day, and we hope that the issue carries by a large majority.

We fail to see how any reasonable person can be against such a bond issue. It has been carefully planned, it is designed to take care of needs for a long time, and it is certainly something we must have.

The city is in a very sound financial position to pay off these bonds without strain. The need is there, and the ability too.

A vote for the bond issue is a vote for progress and we believe most Perryton citizens are progressive.

We're for Martin Dies

There are 22 men in the race for the U. S. Senator, and most of the mob will be low on the list of vote totals come next Tuesday, April 2.

The race seems to narrow down between Democrats Ralph Yarborough and Martin Dies, with Republican Thad Hutcheson also running strong.

We will choose Martin Dies.

Dies is a conservative, he has the necessary legislative experience and he has a long record of political integrity.

We think Texas will be best represented by a conservative than a so-called liberal, and Martin Dies has the best chance to win over Ralph Yarborough.

From the SIDELINE

with HAROLD HUDSON

There are countless heroes of this storm, and any list would be incomplete. The highway department men who tried so hard to open the roads Saturday, the patrolmen and truck drivers who tried to rescue the bus passengers north of town and became stranded themselves, the plant operators who spent 38 hours without sleep in order to keep emergency electricity going. As time passes, the list will become longer.

If the moisture pattern continues in 1957 like it started out, the newly launched Soil Bank may go broke due to lack of depositors.

When the fire alarm sounded for the Roger Pearson home fire Saturday afternoon during the storm, it scared a lot of folks. The regular three blasts from the siren were sounded first, then a few minutes later a long, steady blast was issued. Plenty of people thought the last one was the signal for a tornado. Actually, the alarm was sounded again because the first alarm didn't get enough firemen on the scene.

We never saw snow melt as rapidly as did this gigantic one. All day Monday the streets were running nearly bank-to-bank with melted snow water, and many of the fields, pastures and yards were bare by nightfall. Only the drifts remained, and it appears that it will take some thawing to get rid of them.

Things were about back to normal by Tuesday, and it won't be long until this great spring blizzard of 1957 will be put into the realm of memory. But man, what memories! Wouldn't you like to be around when someone tells his grandchildren of this blizzard, say in about 25 years? It will get better with the telling, you can depend on that.

A very unusual occurrence was noted during the blizzard Sunday night. Several people noted what appeared to be flashes of lightning during the storm. Occurred about 10:30 p. m. We didn't see anything like this and never heard of lightning during a snowstorm. But stranger things have happened.

In the excitement of the storm, we hope that no one forgets to vote in the election next Tuesday, and after all, the storm will have been almost forgotten by then. There are several important elections for us on April 2, including the special Senate election, the city council election and the city bond election to take care of water and sewer needs.

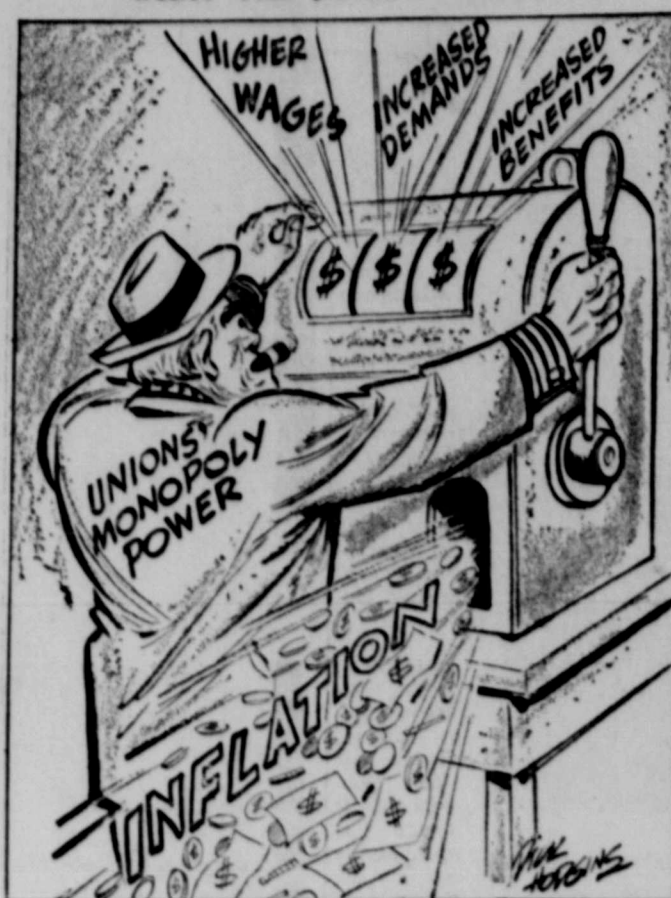

The latter is probably the most important to those of us in Perryton. Certainly we cannot expect to grow and take care of our needs without expanding the water and sewer system. So what if it costs a little bit? We would be extremely suspicious if it didn't. Those of you who are concerned about the future of Perryton and those of you who want to be sure of drinking water from now on had better go down to the city hall and cast your ballot Tuesday, April 2.

Another word for our cigarette smoking friends: Did you see the report of seven scientists, released March 22, that there is a direct relationship between cigarette smoking and lung cancer? Said they: "The sum total of scientific evidence established beyond reasonable doubt that cigarette smoking is a causative factor in the rapidly increasing incidence of human epidermoid carcinoma (cancer) of the lung." We just wanted to be sure you read this.

Old timers had to dust off their memory albums to find a blizzard as fierce as the one that hit the Plains area this time, and we doubt if there were any that could compare, except maybe the famous "blue blizzard" of 1898 which killed thousands upon thousands of cattle from Kansas to the Canadian River in Texas. Under the same shelter conditions, this 1957 blizzard may have done the same thing, who knows?

One thing about it—people in Perryton learned how to live without some of the modern conveniences—mainly electricity. Home owners learned how to disconnect the electric thermostat on their floor furnaces so the heat could be controlled manually and there were many meals heated over a bathroom heater or a candle-operated chafing dish. We were lucky—being on one of the electric circuits in operation from the local plant, we had electricity practically all of the time.

It was almost a terrifying experience for some families—huddled in their homes with only candles for light, listening to the howling blizzard outside and not knowing how long it was to last, being cut off from all outside communications.

We tried to walk to the newspaper office Sunday morning, but had to turn around and go back after negotiating two blocks against the fierce, snow laden wind. We didn't meet anyone on the road during this effort, either.

There is plenty to be thankful for—the heavy snow put an abundance of moisture into the ground. The temperature was not bitter cold, ranging just below the freezing mark most of the time, and this saved much loss of life for livestock.

Abraham Lincoln, 6 feet 4 tall was the tallest U. S. President.

Wolf Creek Philosopher Take Cities Into The Country?

(Ed. note: The Wolf Creek Philosopher is talking about something that's probably none of his business, his letter this week reveals.)

Dear editor: Where I live, there's not much danger of any city ever bringing my farm into its city limits, cities may be hungry for more area but no city could be that hungry, yet a lot of cities throughout the country are growing and expanding and taking in land all around them, and I understand it creates a problem, especially for a farmer who wakes up some morning to find his barn on the city tax rolls.

I was reading last night in a newspaper which some city man threw out of his car along with some tin cans while he was driving through the countryside out here earlier in the day where a big New York real estate developer says a city ought to have the right to annex the area around it. It's not fair, he said, for people living near a city to enjoy its advantages and not pay any of its taxes, and he said he city should have the right to take in the territory without the consent of the people taken in.

Now this may be a good idea, if it's allowed to work both ways. For example, take city people. They enjoy the advantages of the land around them, at least they still enjoy food, and if they've got the right to urbanize the country, the country ought to have the right to ruralize the city.

A lot of city area would be hard to plow, but many's the time I've driven through a big city and thought about what my hungry cows could do to all the grass they've got growing on those city lawns. If the city has the right to rope in a country barn, the country people ought to have the right to fence off some of those lawns, although as I say the question is really none of my concern as any city that got so hard up for space it had to take in my farm would be faced with indigestion anyway.

However, the way I look at the problem is, if the country people want to move to the city, let em; and if the city people want to move to the country, let em; but when the city itself wants to move to the country's that's a different matter, although I don't know of anything anybody can do about it. You can't stop progress. If you could, they'd back up on the hydrogen bomb. I wash my hands of the problem. It's not my fault if everybody in the country wasn't as farsighted as me and didn't pick out a piece of land nobody, farmer or city man, can do anything with.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Perryton Digs Out After Record March Blizzard

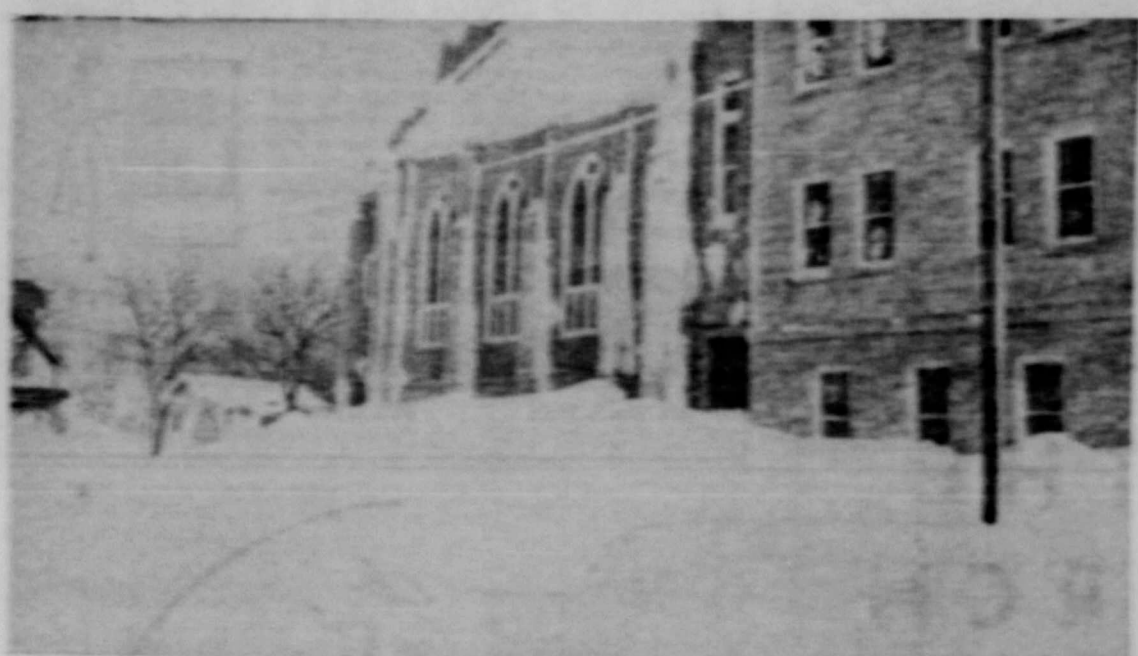

UNCOVERED AT LAST—Sidney Jones, 908 SW 7th avenue, thought his car had been blown away, but he uncovered it from this drift Monday morning.

NO GO—This pickup, stranded at the corner of Calgate and 7th, shows the depth of the drift.

SNOWBOUND—Travelers at the Hotel Perryton could see practically nothing but this outside the main entrance which covered up the entire half block of automobiles.

NO SERVICES—This huge snowdrift blocked the door of the First Methodist church and it's easy to see why there were no church services Sunday.

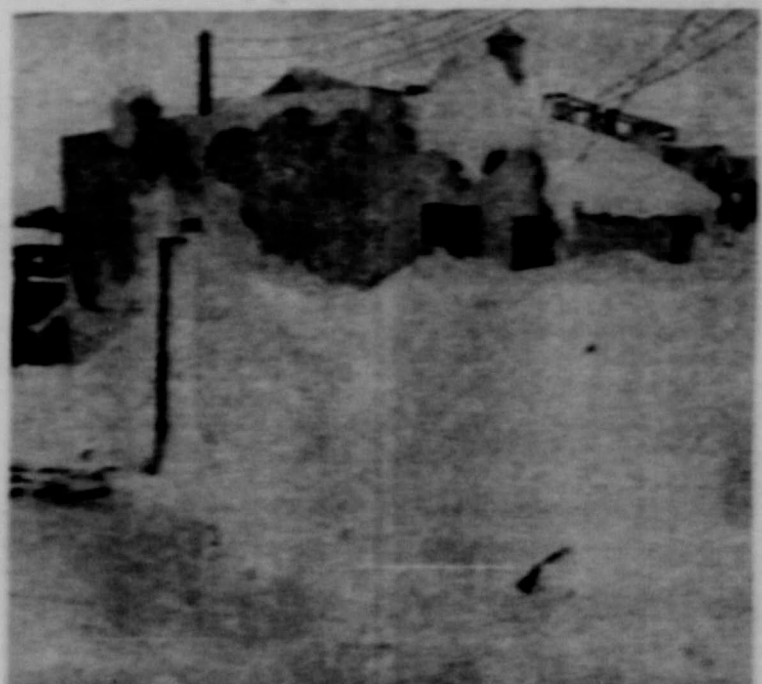

COMMON SIGHT—This car failed to buck the drift at Anshers and 8th and had to have assistance.

HIGH WINDS—Evidence of the high winds, estimated up to 70 miles an hour during the storm, shown by this television tower which blew down on top of the Calvin Flowers home, 514 S. Anshers.

COVERED UP—All of the vehicles of the Community Public Service Co. were covered up in the blizzard, and here they are digging out a pickup Monday morning by the warehouse north of the railroad.

CLOSED FOR THE DAY—This Texas office of G. E. Stackelberg was nearly buried by this drift.

NO MAIL DELIVERY—Postmaster Irvn Hengert, far right, was greeted with the sight of the snowdrift when he got to the Post Office Monday morning. Mail deliveries were halted from Tuesday because of blocked highways.
