Atomic Probe Again Points To Wallace

BY JAMES LEE
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6. — Former Rep. John McDowell (R.-Pa.), said today that ex-Vice President Henry A. Wallace was named in secret congressional testimony as the "chief figure" in clearance of wartime atomic material shipments to Russia.

McDowell's statement came as the House un-American Activities committee prepared to ask Maj. Gen. Leslie A. Groves, wartime atomic project chief, whether it is true — as charged by commentator Fulton Lewis, jr. — that Wallace "overruled" him on uranium shipments to the Soviet Union.

Meanwhile, G. Racey Jordan, ex-Air Force major who previously accused the late Harry Hopkins of speeding uranium to Russia, asserted that through a "stupid mistake" the Russians obtained secret U. S. radar equipment in 1943.

Testimony Revealed

McDowell, a former member of the un-American activities committee, said at his Wilkinsburg, Pa., home that he was naming Wallase "in view of Mr. Lewis' disclosures." The ex-congressman declared:

"I feel it is a duty to state that the chief figure identified to the committee as having urged and arranged the transfer (of atomic materials) was the then vice president of the United States, Henry Wallace."

McDowell said he could not recall Hopkins' name having been mentioned at any of the committee hearings.

Wallace Promised Hearing

Committee Chairman Wood (D.-Ga.), promised that Wallace will be given "full opportunity" to reply under oath to the charge involving him. Wallace has denounced the accusation as "sheer fabrication."

In New York, Wallace issued through the Progressive party the text of a telegram to Chairman Wood in which he said:

"I would be happy to appear before your committee at any time."

Tonight Wallace sent a second telegram to Wood demanding an opportunity to confront McDowell and former Rep. Richard Vail of Illinois in open session of the committee "in view of the continuous character assassination."

Wallace asked that Wood also invite Milo Perkins and "other

For Traffic Dispersal, Sewer System:

City Will Vote On Two Bond Issues

(EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the first of three articles discussing the $1,075,000 bond issue upon which the qualified citizens of the City of Lubbock will vote next Tuesday. The issues include $550,000 for enlargement of the sewage disposal plant and system and $525,000 to buy rights-of-way necessary to the completion of the City Highway Dispersal system).

By H. I. KIEFER

THE proposed sewage disposal and dispersal system bond issues will appear on the ballots as separate propositions next Tuesday. Those choosing to do so can vote for one and against the other.

Both are of great importance to the future of Lubbock. But, between the two, the one providing for enlargement of the sewage disposal plant and system is, by far, the most important.

KIEFER

It is doubtful whether any proposition of greater importance to the health security of this community ever has been submitted.

Lubbock has so far outgrown its present sewage disposal facilities that their inadequacies will be a continuing menace to health until the plant and collecting mains are enlarged.

The present plant was built in 1938, with a capacity sufficient for a city of about 50,000 population. Lubbock then had about 30,000 inhabitants. Expert opinion at that time was that the plant would not require enlargement before 1958.

Lubbock passed the 50,000 population mark long ago. The present plant attempts to serve more than 65,000 people. At least 10,000 to 15,000 others in Lubbock, or in areas now in process of annexation, want sewage connections as soon as they can get them.

Approval of this bond issue will mean that all of them will get sanitary sewage service a good deal sooner than otherwise.

People Do Not Know Problem

People, generally, are not apt to be conscious of the city's sewage problem during the cool and cold seasons. The flow of sewage is at its lowest point of the year during such times.

But, unless provision is made for enlargement of the plant and system before next Summer, everyone is likely to be almost constantly conscious of the existence of the problem.

They will be aware of this condition because of odors, because of overflows from sewage lines too small for the loads flushed into them and, if they visit the disposal plant in Southeast Lubbock, from the nauseating sights they will see there — sights more sickening than those which were of common occurrence last Summer.

CITY officials estimate that, unless the plant is enlarged, an average of more than 1,000,000 gallons or raw sewage will remain untreated each day. It will be dumped, raw, upon the city-owned lands surrounding the plant or behind an earthern dam which, officials hope, will not permit con-

Goodfellows Call For Contributions

(See Coupon on Page 10, Sec. 1)

This is the rallying call for all Lubbock Goodfellows.

For the 15th straight year, they are being enrolled to play Santa Claus on Christmas day to the needy children of the city.

There are about 4,000 such children this year. Most of their stockings will be empty unless the Goodfellows fill them—which, of course, they will do.

Face Big Job

But the Goodfellows are facing quite a job—one which will require generosity on the part of the people of Lubbock.

At least $3,000 will be needed. But, divided among 4,000 children, that isn't much.

It amounts to about 75 cents per child—75 cents for everything most of the children will receive from Santa Claus.

This small change will go a long way because the Goodfellows are in position to

Envoy Heads For Freedom

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 — Angus Ward and his American consulate staff presumaoly ended today their long isolation in Communist-held Mukden, Manchuria.

After more than a year under the guns of guards, Ward told the State department his group of 20 persons was leaving by special train at 3:45 a. m. Wednesday (1:45 p. m. CST today) for the port of Tientsin.

This was expected to be the last word until the party gets to Tientsin two to four days hence.

At Tientsin, three American merchant ships are to take the entire party to freedom at Yokohama, Japan. Plans are to use only one vessel, probably the Lakeland Victory, due from Japan Friday.

16 Are Americans

Sixteen of those leaving are Americans and four are alien Europeans, the State department was informed. All were ordered "expelled" by the Mukden municipal authorities within 48 hours beginning Monday, as an aftermath of the jailing of Ward and four members of his staff. The group includes six women and several children.

Ward's troubles began last November when the Communists occupied Mukden after routing the Nationalist defenders at the start of the Red sweep over China.

When the State department ordered the consulate closed last May, repeated requests were made for facilities to enable the group to leave. They were mostly ignored, and on Oct. 24 Ward and four aides were jailed on charges they had beaten a Chinese employe of the consulate. The State department denounced the charges as "trumped up." After a month in jail, the five were given suspended sentences ranging up to a year and ordered expelled.

The wind-up of the Ward case leaves four American prisoners in China and in Communist-run north Korea, for whose release repeated U. S. official demands have been made and ignored.

The group with Ward includes

Mahon Talks At Littlefield Meet

By EMMETT SHOCKLEY
Avalanche Staff Writer

LITTLEFIELD, Dec. 6—Rep. George Mahon tonight denounced the fear that is driving many Americans to seek material security while forgetting "how to live."

He spoke here at the annual banquet of the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce, held in the city's new country club, and attended by almost 300 townspeople and out-of-town guests.

"In the realm of material things," he said, "we are rich people." He referred to this year's South Plains cotton crop of 225 million dollars, its 100-million-dollar grain crop, and the billion barrels of oil represented in the new Scurry county field.

Must Know How To Live

"But our prosperity might rob us of something great," he warned. "We must emphasize not only the art of making a living, but the art of living as well."

He lashed out at fear, but warned that there was no easy road to security. The government is spending billions of dollars today to prevent a third world conflict and thus assure the security of each individual citizen, he said.

He was formally introduced by E. A. Bills, recently appointed judge for the 64th district. Preli-

Dallas Man Is Held In Slaying Of Wife

DALLAS, Dec. 6. (AP)— Police arrested Harold Blankenship today outside the door of the office where he had shot his attractive wife, Mrs. Rosemary Blankenship, to death just a few minutes before.

Mrs. Blankenship, 26, was a secretary in an insurance company office.

Blankenship, 25, told officers and a news reporter that he walked into the office, told his wife she wouldn't hurt anyone else, and started firing.

He said they had been separated two weeks and she had filed suit for divorce. He said he didn't want her to get their two boys.

Youths Nabbed For Blowing Up Mailboxes With Firecrackers

DALLAS, Dec. 6. (AP)—Asst. Federal Dist. Atty. William Cantrell, jr., today turned 15 Irving 'teenagers—two of them girls—over to county Probation Officer Sam Davis after they admitted blowing up 13 rural mailboxes with big firecrackers.

For the last few weeks Postal Inspectors H. D. Holmes and D. W. Boyd have been plagued with complaints from people living around Irving that someone has been blowing up their mailboxes.

The two postal investigators cracked the case on a tip from an Irving youngster who wasn't involved in the case. Confessions followed in rapid-fire order and the youngsters were ordered to appear with their parents for a meeting with Cantrell, and federal and county probation officers.

At the meeting Cantrell laid down the law to the youngsters and told them that he had decided not to take them into federal court.

By TOM DAVIS
Avalanche Staff Writer

THE steel doors of Lubbock county jail slammed shut early today on the four youths charged with armed robberies in Lubbock and Crosbyton and accused of blazing a trail of crime across Texas.

Escorted by two sheriffs, and a Texas Ranger, the once-swaggering young men were brought here from Dallas Tuesday night to face trial by jury on the charges which carry death as the maximum penalty.

Detective Captain Will Fritz of Dallas said the arrest of the four, all from Bonham, cleared up 12 robberies in widely scattered sections of Texas. He said other robberies cleared up include offenses in Dallas, Houston, Fort Worth, Sherman, Denison, Greenville and Commerce.

Charged at Crosbyton

William Robert Leeman, 22; James Scrivner, 21; and Talmadge Bonham, 17, are charged with the Nov. 26 robbery of the Wallace Drygoods store in Crosbyton which ended with the non-fatal shooting of A. W. Wallace, 45, store owner.

The fourth man, Orville Wayne Mann, alias Billy Mann, 21, is charged in Lubbock along with Leeman and Bonham in the Nov. 19 armed robbery of the Economy Department store which included the kidnapping of Archie Skibell, 43, store official.

The prisoners arrived in Lubbock under somewhat different circumstances than prevailed when they departed Lubbock and Crosbyton on successive Saturday nights with store officials as hostages.

Men Were Handcuffed

Handcuffed, the four were marched into the jail here at 12:15 a.m. today. While being booked, they talked and bantered among themselves. They were in good spirits in spite of their situation and the long ride from Dallas. Although they smiled frequently as they talked with each other, none of their actions indicated cockiness.

Sheriff Foy Addison of Crosby county, Sheriff Grady Harrist of Lubbock county and Ranger Captain Bob Crowder of Lubbock made up the official escort party which left Dallas early last night with the four suspects.

Addison was given custody of the four at Dallas after he promised officers from several other counties that "we won't wait all winter to try them," the Associated Press reported.

Officers from more than a half-dozen cities yesterday had scrambled for first custody of the youths.

Addison did not accompany the group into Lubbock. He stopped off in Crosbyton, with Harrist, Crowder and George Eubank, chief deputy sheriff of Lubbock county, bringing the suspects on to Lubbock. Eubank had ment the group in Seymour.

Expansion Is Studied Here

A GROUP of local citizens attended a meeting last night in Hotel Lubbock for the purpose of discussing the proposed purchase of a block of downtown property now owned by First Methodist church.

No definite action was taken at last night's meeting other than voting to hold another meeting at Hotel Lubbock at 7:30 p. m. Monday, Jan. 9, 1950. Approximately 23 persons attended last night's meeting.

The consensus of those attending the meeting was that the proposed acquisition of the Methodist property, at Broadway and Avenue M, to allow the "opening up" of Broadway as a retail business street should be a civic enterprise —one which should be of interest to all Lubbock citizens, since the future growth and progress of the city, especially from a business standpoint, might well hinge upon it in many respects.

Tax Values Affected

Chas. A. Guy, editor of The Avalanche-Journal, who served as keynote speaker for the meeting, pointed out that the tax values of midtown Manhattan property in New York City has decreased within the past few years, since traffic and other factors have caused "spreading out" of business into suburban areas.

Coming closer home, he cited Dallas as an example of the same thing. Business there has branched out into suburban shopping centers, he said, and the tax values of downtown Dallas have gone down. However, the tax values of the community shopping dist-

BOND ISSUE APPROVED

WICHITA FALLS, Dec. 6 (AP) — Wichita Falls voters approved overwhelmingly today a $3,250,000 bond issue for the first civic improvements to be paid for in that manner since World War II. About 4,600 votes were cast, with the bond issue getting a margin of slightly better than three to one. The money will be used for water, street, parks, fire station and sewer improvements.

Solid Front Of Coal Industry Cracked

Small Mine Owners Sign Up With Lewis

By PHILLIPS J. PECK
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6— John L. Lewis "breached" the coal industry's united front today by signing a two-year contract with a small group of owners that nearly doubles industry payments to the union welfare fund and boosts the miners' wages 95-cents-a-day.

The hard-bargaining United Mine Workers chief did not immediately identify the operators capitulating to the union's terms, but the group reportedly comprises some Pikesville (Ky.) truck mine owners who have been talking secretly with the UMW for the past week.

Lewis admitted the "break" in the industry's opposition to his 1949 contract demands is small. He said the companies signing the contract produce 2,333,800 tons of bituminous coal annually or less than one per cent of the national tonnage.

May Set Pattern

It is believed, however, that the UMW will insist that the entire industry accept the new pact as a pattern agreement.

Joseph Moody, president of the Southern Coal Producers association, declared Lewis' refusal to identify the operators signing the contract indicates they are "short-lived companies or marginal producers" who are trying to make "a quick dollar."

Moody added that the fact the terms of the new agreement are not effective until Jan. 1 "would seem to give time for a change in the contract when negotiated with

WTCC Officers Meet Here Today

Several officers of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce had arrived in Lubbock last night to attend a special meeting of top officers of that organization at 10 a.m. today in the directors' room of the Lubbock chamber.

The meeting was called for the announced purpose of setting up a work program for the WTCC for the coming year. Another purpose — and one with explosive possibilities — is to hear L. A. Wilke, who was recently discharged as WTCC service director, and Max Bentley, who resigned as organization director in protest of what he described as the "unfair treatment of Wilke by D. A. Bandeen, WTCC manager.

Resignation Is "Accepted"

Bandeen announced the discharge and the "acceptance" of Bentley's resignation.

Bentley promptly retorted that his resignation was submitted to directors of the organization and not to Bandeen. Bandeen's reply was the claim that he has blanket authority to hire and fire as he sees fit within the WTCC.

J. M. Willson of Floydada, president of the WTCC, will attend the meeting today. Also to attend are B. P. Bludworth of Brownwood, first vice president; Frank H. Kelley of Colorado City, second vice president; Homer D. Grant of Lubbock, third vice president; Ed S. Stewart of Abilene, treasurer; and John D. Mitchell of Odessa, past

Truman Talks Over Next Phase Of 'Fair Deal' With Advisors

KEY WEST, Fla., Dec. 6. (AP)— President Truman bulged at the waistline today while his temporary "White House" bulged with advisors working on the next phase of his "fair deal" strategy.

The chief executive, tipping the scale at 177 pounds, called off all bets with two of his even stouter aides growing out of a pre-Thanksgiving weight-reducing contest.

The contest was officially declared a "dead heat" when it was discovered each of the trio had dropped "about three of four pounds."

Cooler Temperatures Seen For Area Today

Cooler temperatures are scheduled to move into the area today on the heels of Tuesday's "Indian Summer" weather, the Weatherman said last night.

And on Thursday, he added, South Plainsmen will get a taste of winter again, with skies mostly cloudy and temperatures scheduled to drop considerably.

The U. S. Weather station north of the city said last night that a maximum temperature in the low 60's is in store for the area this afternoon, while this morning's low is expected to be around 32.

Thursday's early-morning temperatures are expected to drop to around 30 degrees, while the maximum for the day is expected to be in the high 40's.

Tuesday's high and low temperatures were 68 and 36 degrees respectively.

Red Army Units Menace Chengtu

CHENGTU, Wednesday, Dec. 7. (AP) — The Chinese Reds today stabbed deeper in their drive on this Nationalist capital. Some reports placed them within 75 miles.

Trustworthy reports said they captured the famed Tzuliuching salt fields, one of the main sources of revenue in Szechwan province. Tzuliuching is near Neikiang, 90 miles southeast of Chengtu.

Official as well as private reports agreed that Neikiang still is in Nationalist hands. But a small force was known to have bypassed that strategic town on the Tou river and to be menacing Tzuchung. Tzuchung is 75 miles southeast of Chengtu and on the main highway.

Many Refugees Flee

Travelers described conditions at Tzuchung as chaotic, with terror stricken refugees fleeing in large numbers.

Official reports said Nationalist warplanes attacked Chungking Monday—the second time since the city's fall last week. Nationalists probably are trying to destroy work shops which made Chungking the last important arsenal city the Nationalists had on the mainland.

On the favorable side, the Nationalists asserted the Red push

Youthful Bandits Take $4,438 In Holdup Of Louisiana Bank

KENTWOOD, La., Dec. 6 (AP) — Two youthful unmasked bandits brandishing sawed-off shotguns held up the Kentwood office of the Hammond Guaranty bank today, making off with $4,438.

Sheriff Tom Sanders said the holdup men escaped in a car, apparently headed east.

Road blocks thrown up right after the 12:15 p.m. (CST) robbery were still up at sundown, the sheriff said.

Bank Manager F. A. Sheffield said the pair, each about 25, appeared when only one customer was in the bank. One of them tossed a barracks bag into the teller's cage, demanding that Teller Wodford Sanders "fill it up."

Sanders said he raked all the money showing into the bag and threw it back to them.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6— Sen. Butler (R-Neb) called on Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower today to declare "at an early date" whether he is a Republican or a Democrat and if he would accept a presidential nomination in 1952.

Simultaneously, Butler welcomed the proposal of Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) that southern Democrats and Republicans unite on the same candidates in the 1950 congressional and 1951 presidential elections.

But Sen. Lodge (R-Mass.), opposed such a coalition. He said:

"An alliance of Republicans and southern Democrats would be a move in the wrong direction. The party of Lincoln must be the party of civil rights."

Butler said he was "a little surprised at the interest people generally have taken in General Eisenhower who has said he would not be a presidential candidate." The Nebraska Republican declared it was obvious "many do not believe Ike." Butler continued:

"I think it would be helpful if the general would say to which party he belongs.

ATOMIC ENERGY COMES IN BIG PACKAGES

AEC Official Says Any Hopes For Atom Powered Autos And Household Gadgets May Be Abandoned

(By The Associated Press)

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 6 — If you're waiting for an atomic powered automobile or sewing machine you are doomed to disappointment.

Atomic power doesn't come in small packages, a top atomic scientist explained today.

That's because a fundamental concept of atom work is the so-called "critical size."

Lawrence R. Hafstad, director of reactor development of the U.S. Atomic Energy commission, explained.

"This minimum or critical size happens to be quite large. As a result the machines for extracting atomic energy are all necessarily of relatively large size. This in turn limits the application to those in which power is used in correspondingly large amounts.

"Thus, atomic-powered automobiles, sewing machines and household gadgets should be promptly eliminated from our thinking."

Dr. Hafstad spoke before the atomic energy symposium of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers holding its 42nd annual convention here.

He said that although large electric power plants and atomic power reactors are of more nearly comparable size, cheap electric power from atomic sources is not assured. A reactor is a kind of atomic oven. Articles dropped into it become radioactive.

Dr. Hafstad declared:

"The money the consumer pays for electricity goes largely to cover costs of distribution. Relatively the cost of the coal or other fuel is small. Therefore, since atomic energy promises further reduction in fuel costs only, it is clear that even successful power production reactors could bring little, if any, immediate reduction in the cost of electric power to the consumer."

Dr. Hafstad said work is being concentrated on four types of re-

Lubbock Woman Dies Of Wreck Injuries

The body of Mrs. Luther Champion, 38, of Forty-seventh and the Tahoka highway who died at 4:55 a.m. Tuesday at St. Mary's hospital of injuries suffered in a car-truck collision Saturday night near Shallowater on the Lubbock highway, will be sent by Rix Funeral home to Henderson where services and burial will be held.

Three other persons, her husband and Mr. and Mrs. L. A. McGraw of Littlefield Star Route 2, passengers in the car, received minor injuries. Earl McMurray, 26, of Shallowater, driver of the truck was not injured.

State police who investigated the mishap said McMurray's truck skidded into the path of Champion's 1947 model car when the truck driver tried to avoid ramming into the rear of another car which halted suddenly.

The death of Mrs. Champion brought to five the number of fatalities resulting from weekend accidents in the area and increased the year's casualty list to 97. The death was the 40th in the area in the past 38 days.

Survivors include her husband; a son, Carl Garner of Dallas, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McGraw of Long Branch; five sisters, Mrs. Fay Alexander of Butler, Mo., Mrs. Norris Keeling of Kansas City, Mo., Mrs. Clyde Heartless of Timpson, Miss Ida Belle McGraw of Long Branch, and Mrs. Johnnie Floyd of Tatum; four brothers, Preston of Baton Rouge, La., Grover of Mesquite, Sid of Dallas and L. Hockley County Mother, Child Are Awarded Damages Of $3,000

A young Hockley county mother and her 10-months-old son were allowed a recovery of $3,000 in damages in an agreed judgment of 72nd District Judge Dan Blair placed on record Tuesday.

The suit, styled Patsy Evelyn Goen and others against Owosso Manufacturing company and others, grew out of the death of Mrs. Goen's husband, Kenneth Lee, 24, in a Feb. 3 collision five miles west of Lubbock.

Goen's car struck the rear of a truck driven by an employe of the defendant company, which is organized under the laws of Delaware. Mrs. Goen was 19 at the time, and the child was only two days old.

Winston Brummett was attorney for Mrs. Goen and others.

DENVER, Dec. 6. (INS) — Want to build an atom bomb of your own?

The U. S. Atomic Energy commission has authorized private purchase of uranium metal produced from Colorado ore.

Wilbur E. Kelly, manager of the AEC's New York operations, announced that 200 pounds of the refined metal, in rod form, will be produced and made available through normal commercial channels.

It will be manufactured by the Mallinckrodt Chemical works of St. Louis and will retail at about $50 a pound. The purpose — research and development "in the traditional manner by private institutions," said Kelly.

Subversive agents need not apply. An AEC license will be required to purchase even a smidgeon of the A-bomb ingredient.

Adcock said Gonzales has signed a statement confessing to the burglary. Gonzales revealed entry was made through the store's skylight. All the stolen goods, mostly clothing, has been recovered from a hiding place under a culvert 13 miles south of Lamesa.

The men were arrested Saturday afternoon in a rooming house here.

Ultramatic Drive

IMPARTIAL, independent technical observers gave us the idea for the name . . .

They reviewed the basic principles of this new Packard automatic drive . . . heard about the 16-year development and test program behind it. They drove it themselves . . . compared its performance with that of other leading types of drives. Then, out of their own experience, they told us:

"The best way to describe this Packard drive is to say it's the last word in automatic, no-shift control!"

★ New simplicity: Naturally, there's no clutch pedal. And that's only the first hint of the convenience of Packard Ultramatic Drive! There's nothing new to learn. Just step on the gas, and steer!

★ New smoothness, new quietness. No jerking or "clunking," because there's no gear-shifting anywhere. No "racing engine" sensation, because there's no slippage at cruising speeds.

★ New safety: No chance of involuntary unexpected "down-shifts," which might cause a prolonged skid on slippery pavement. Packard Ultramatic Drive gives you smooth, gradual engine braking power for safe deceleration.

★ New economy: Ultramatic Drive saves gas—because there's no slippage at cruising speeds. And thanks to its advanced design, Packard Ultramatic Drive requires no complicated maintenance.

★ More responsive: No lag, at traffic speeds or highway speeds, waiting for gears to shift. For instant bursts of safety-sprint acceleration—just "tramp down."

★ More positive, more flexible: Your choice of high-range, or low-range operation—with rapid acceleration, and slippage-free cruising, in each range. Easy shift from forward to reverse. Yes, you can rock the car in snow!

Come in for your introductory drive!

GOOD SHOWING REPORTED AT 11,469-FOOT LEVEL

Possibilities Of Petroleum Production Indicated In Central Terry County In New Deep Venture

Possibilities of petroleum production has been indicated in Central-South Terry county from a deep lime horizon at Tide Water Associated Oil company, and others No. 1 J. P. Nystel.

This venture ran a two and one-half hour drillstem test at 11,469-545 feet. Recovery was 1,220 feet of clean 31-gravity oil, 1,060 feet of oil and gas cut water blanket, and 180 feet of oil cut drilling mud. There was no sign of water.

The project drilled from 11,545-570 feet and then cored at 11,557 feet to 11,570 feet. The core showed good indications of production. Operators are now running another drillstem test.

Lime Not Identified

Definite identity of the lime which showed the oil has not been officially established. Some geologists think it is possibly Siluro-Devonian.

The last marker reported was the base of the Woolford shale, at 11,475 feet. Elevation is 3,171 feet.

Location is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 9, block C-38, psl usvey. That makes the project 14 miles southeast of Brownfield, and four miles east of the Adair-San Andrews field.

Sun Oil company No. 2 Pulliam, Central Tom Green county wildcat, seven miles west of San Angelo, has shown for a likely discovery from the Strawn lime of the Pennsylvanian and is to set casing and make production tests.

Located 660 feet from south and east lines of section 14, block 4, H&TC survey, this project is on a total depth of 5,549 feet, and will cement 5½-inch casing at 5,520 feet—leaving the bottom 29 feet of the hole open to test.

Makes Good Showing

The latest and best show of oil came in a four hour drillstem test at 5,524-49 feet. Gas showed at the surface in 18 minutes. The gas volume was not gauged or estimated.

Recovery was 1,665 feet of clean 37.8 gravity oil. There was no water. Open flowing bottom hole pressure was 450 pounds. No shutin pressure was reported.

The above drillstem test was taken after an electric log and a measurement of the drill pipe had corrected the previously reported total depth of 5,556 feet, to make that point 5,549 feet.

A drillstem test was run—before the measurement was corrected—covering the zone at 5,536-56 feet. The tool was open one hour. Recovery was 180 feet of 40 gravity oil and 60 feet of oil and gas cut mud, which was estimated to have been 50 per cent oil.

Gas showed at the surface in 26 minutes. The volume was not gauged or estimated. The zone is at 5,529-49 feet, corrected measurement.

WEST CENTRAL SCURRY TEST IN GOOD SHAPE

Wilshire Oil company No. 1 Rinehart, on the northwest side of the northeast sector of the Kelly-Canyon field in West-Central Scurry county has shown for one of the best producers, and one of the thickest pay zone of any of the explorations so far drilled in that region.

This development, located 660 feet from north and east lines of the east 150 acres of the northwest quarter of section 251, block 97, H&TC survey, flowed 168 barrels of pipe line oil in one hour, natural, through a one-inch opening on two and one-half inch tubing, after having flowed steadily through various sized checks for ten and one-half hours.

Operator is now preparing to take potential test and complete the well, which is one-half mile north and slightly east of the nearest completed oil well.

This project topped the Canyon lime reef, at 6,397 feet. That point was also the top of the pay. That give the well a datum of minus 4,180 on that point.

The venture was diamond cored all the way to the total depth of 6,800 feet. The entire section was very porous and was well saturated with oil.

Operator drilled the plug and swabbed the well until it kicked off. It flowed approximately 1,200 barrels of oil in 11½ hours, through various sized chokes—including the 168 barrel flow in the last hour of the 11½-hour period. No water has been shown.

THREE NEW PRODUCERS COMPLETED IN SCURRY

Completion has been reported on three new producers from the Canyon reef lime in Kelley field of Central Scurry county.

On the northeast side of the field J. S. Abercrombie No. 1 W. J. Coonred was completed for a initial daily production of 610.2 barrels of 43.6 gravity oil from pay between 6,652 and total depth of 6,698 feet. The 7-inch oil string was set at 6,652 feet.

The flow was natural, with no water reported. Gas-oil ratio was 710-1.

Location is 467 feet from north and east lines of section 39, Kirkland & Fields survey.

Lone Star Producing company No. 1 Von Reeder, 612.5 feet from east and 660 feet from north lines of tract 20, section 40, Kirkland & Fields survey, flowed 12 hours through an 8/64th inch tubing choke to rate a calculated potential of 584.28 barrels of oil daily. Gravity was 43.3 degrees and the gas-oil ratio was 623-1.

No formation water was reported.

The production came from perforations in the 7-inch casing between 6,653 feet and 6,868 feet. Total depth was 6,869 feet. The 6,635-6,868-foot interval was treated with 500 gallons of acid.

Also in Kelley field Magnolia Petroleum company finished its No. 1 A. B. Eicke for a 24-hour production of 254.07 barrels of 42.6 gravity oil.

Gas-oil ratio was 851-1. No formation water was encountered.

The flow was through a 23/64th-inch tubing choke from pay between 6,733 and total depth of 6,758 feet. The 5½ inch oil string was cemented at 6,730 feet.

SKELLY OBTAINS LEASES ON PLAINS COUNTY LAND

Skelly Oil company has acquired a 10-year commercial oil and gas lease on a solid block of 31,000 acres which centers on the common corner of Kent, Dickens, King and Stonewall counties.

The lease was taken from the George Beggs Trust estate of Fort Worth, owner of the entire spread.

No information has been released regarding the consideration involved in the deal. It was learned that no drilling obligation was called for in the transaction.

The AMA house of delegates voted him a gold medal for having "rendered exceptional service to his community."

Chicago Girl Wins Contest With Death As Long Race Ends

CHICAGO, Dec. 6 (INS) — Little Patty Owen's cross-country race with death ended in victory today as the tiny, withered victim of a rare malady came home to Chicago—and to hope.

Patty, 5, arrived, her face covered in the usual oxygen mask, after a trip from Sunnyvale, Cal. aboard the streamliner City of San Francisco.

She had been placed on the train Sunday night at Oakland, Cal., after almost dying on the way to the station while away from her oxygen mask.

Patty's case had been diagnosed as fibrocystic disease of the lungs and pancreas.

She was rushed from the train to Illinois Research hospital, where she will be under the care of Dr. Gordon Gibbs and Dr. Henry G. Poncher, head of the department of pediatrics at the University of Illinois medical school.

Dr. Poncher said that if Patty survived the exhaustion of the train trip a new diagnosis would be made in two or three days. He added:

"Her chances are improved by the anti-biotic medicines."

Doctors had said that pretty, brunette child had less than a month to live because the disease is gradually closing her lungs, forming a material that cannot be dislodged.

Her parents, Robert and Margaret Owen, moved to California two years ago in hopes that a milder climate would help the child. But they decided to bring her back to Chicago for her last Christmas.

Her mother and two brothers, Robert, 8, and Roger, 3, made the trip with Patty, but her father had to remain in Los Angeles because the child's illness has eaten so deeply into his savings that he could not afford another ticket.

Lookouts are posted in 3,200 watch towers in U. S. national forests during the fire season.

U. S. Press Protests New Telegraph Rules

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6. (AP)—Gen. Julius Ochs Adler, vice-president and general manager of The New York Times, today urged the Federal Communications commission to "minimize the harmful effects" of new international telegraph regulations.

Adler is chairman of the press communications committee of the American Newspaper Publishers association. His statement was presented to the FCC by Cranston Williams, ANPA general manager.

The committee head said his group was "greatly disturbed by the threat to world-wide freedom of information inherent in the regulations dealing with press communications adopted last summer by the International Telegraph conference in Paris."

U. S. Plan Rejected

Nearly all of the American press and communications firms supported two proposals at the conference, Adler said, but both were rejected. They were:

"1. Revision of regulations on press telegrams which would have extended on a world-wide basis the general practice of American carriers to handle press queries, press orders and press administrative messages at the press rate tariff.

"2. Complete revision of the article regulating 'radio communications to multiple destinations' to bring it into line with American practice, including authorized reception in all countries by private radio receiving stations."

Minimum Protested

The conference adopted one proposal objected to by the American press, the fixing of a minimum of 10 words for press telegrams, Adler said.

"What is even more important," his statement continued, "The Paris conference devised an insidious regulation which will result in automatic increases in most overseas press rates.

"This is the regulation whereby these press rates are to be fixed arbitrarily and without any consideration of economic or other factors, at one-third of the full commercial rate."

YULE DECORATIONS

WE KNOW these balmy days you find yourself thinking of picnics and swimming parties, rather than Christmas preparations, but we'd like to remind that time is hurrying along toward the deadline for the Christmas lighting contest sponsored by The Avalanche-Journal. If you plan to enter the contest, give it a thought will you please?

The divisions are: most beautifully decorated exterior of home; most beautifully decorated window; most beautifully decorated doorway; most beautifully decorated living outdoor tree. A total of one hundred dollars is being given in prizes. Judges are three members of the Lubbock Garden club who will remain unidentified until the winners are announced.

What if the days are merry and bright? This time last year we were digging out after a terrific sandstorm that ripped decorations downtown to shreds. And people in Southern California have this brand of sunshine and warmth almost every Christmas.

WHEN you consider decorating your home, remember you don't have to spend all of your Christmas savings and you can decorate without straining the family budget. It's remarkable what women with an artistic flair can do with pine and fir tree branches, holly, lights and ornaments. There is warm hospitality reflected in cheerful lights and displays such as have been arranged in Lubbock yards and on homes in past years.

This outdoor decoration idea originated 30 years ago in Minneapolis. We are glad it has spread over the country.

LIGHTING TIPS

IF YOU are tired of traditional holiday doorway arrangements, perhaps you would like this novel arrangements that will intrigue youngsters and adults alike.

Choose a window near the entrance and firmly "plant" a jolly Santa cutout behind a card table. (Don't use your best one, of course — any old table will do.)

Then thumb tack paper and envelopes to the table top and in a few minutes you've "captured" Santa in the midst of his Christmas mail.

Naturally, the setting needs to be lighted to show it off to best advantage and lighting specialists recommend concealing a projector spotlight in nearby shrubbery and aiming it on the figure as shown in the sketch on the right.

An upstairs porch can become the high point in your outdoor decorations. Try placing a masonite or commercial wallboard cutout figure of Santa on a ladder which has been securely anchored to the roof as shown in the sketch at the left. Lighting specialists recommend a 150-watt PAR spotlight to highlight the arrangement.

If you have an attractively shaped window why not plan to feature it in your outdoor decorations. The drawing on the right shows one way to decorate a window with strings of outdoor bulbs outlining the window. Lighting specialists suggest that a lighted candelabra might be used to complete the arrangement.

THE deadline for entering the contest is Dec. 17. Before that date, if you are interested, please telephone the office, number 4343, and ask for Mrs. Naomi Caddel. If you haven't a telephone, drop her a card, or if you'd like to call by the editorial offices and leave your name and address, that is all-right, too. If you hesitate about listing your name in the contest, ask a friend or relative to do so.

We know a lot of time and talent is involved in decorating a home for Christmas, but it stimulates the spirit of the holidays. We'd like to hear from you.

FOR WHO-DUN-IT FANS . . . "Clue," a new game employing the latest techniques of modern crime detection.

Games For "Tycoons"

AP Newsfeatures

We may expect a new generation of financial wizards and business tycoons, if the new trend in games is an indication.

Most popular parlor games this Christmas are those that deal with the fields of big business, foreign trade, real estate, the stock market, newspaper publishing, oil prospecting and political lobbying. The games ftature the exact business formula for each, and should inspire small fray to gargantuan feats in the world of finance.

There is a new trend toward extreme realism in all the new games of the season. The details of crime detection are presented in "Clue," a board game that represents the rooms of a house and supplies a rope, a candlestick, a pistol and other possible weapons as playing pieces. With the aid of a variety of clues, who-dun-it fans must figure out the solution to the crime.

The lobbying profession gets a thorough overhauling in another new game, while the former big-money favorites such as Monopoly, Make A Million, Rich Uncle, and Finance are still high on the list of fireside hits.

For the youngest set there are games which require no knowledge of either reading or writing —for instance, "Over the Garden Wall," a board game in which each player gets a garden plot and plants, trees, fruits and flowers illustrated by picture cards. Such pests as cutworms and rocks inflict losses and rain increases the crops.

There are many streamlined versions of old favorites. "Skudo" gives a new twist to the classic track game by introducing turntables with color signals which may be operated to bar other players. There's a new magnetic edition of "Pin the Tail on the Donkey," eliminating the need for pins. Magnetic dart boards also are popular, as are parlor-game versions of football, hockey, basketball, baseball and horse racing.

Calvary Circles Hold Meetings

MRS. ROBERT COBURN of Babylon, New York, says:
"VEL* cuts dishwashing time in half!"

MUCH MILDER TO MY HANDS!

"My dishes and glassware gleam without wiping!"

Mothers and housewives are telling us just how great this new Colgate-Palmolive-Peet product is! Mrs. Robert Coburn, mother of two boys, writes: "What a work-saver! Vel cuts my dishwashing time in half! Now, I just wash my dishes in Vel . . . and rinse! Even my glassware dries really sparkling clear — without wiping!

"Vel saves up to half my dishwashing time . . . cleans my dishes cleaner than soap! There's no soap scum to polish away — no dishpan ring!"

Milder to hands than any leading product made for washing dishes and fine fabrics!

Actual skin tests made by an independent laboratory —name on request—prove Vel milder to hands than any other leading product made for washing dishes, fine fabrics.

*VEL is the trade-mark of the Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Co.

"It's hard to believe . . . but my pots and pans get shiny-clean without hard scouring!"

You'll echo Mrs. Coburn's raves when you try this Vel method. Just soak your pots and pans with Vel suds while you do the other dishes.

Then pour off the suds and you can wash them so shiny clean . . . no hard scouring is needed! Vel cuts grease faster and more completely than soap—yet dishwater never feels greasy!

EQUITY CAPITAL MAJOR PROBLEM

Financier Urges Investment Of More Money In U. S. Business

By JAMES RUSSELL
INS Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 6.—A top financial leader warned today that the survival of the free enterprise system may depend upon the investment of more money in American business.

Benjamin A. Griswold, III, president of the Association of Stock Exchange firms, also declared that a "sound federal tax structure" is needed to stimulate the investment industry.

Capital Funds Needed

Griswold, member of the five-man forum on "cooperation within the securities industry" at the 38th annual convention of the Investment Bankers Association of America in Hollywood, listed equity capital (investment funds) as the biggest problem facing the investment industry today. He explained:

"It is questionable whether the free enterprise system can exist unless this problem is solved and equity capital is greatly increased."

Francis Adams Truslow, president of the New York Curb exchange and another forum speaker, said the securities industry "bears the greatest responsibility in America today" and called for a "growing seriousness among the people within the industry."

Truslow said the United States "will become less and less the kind of a nation we want to live in" unless the investment industry, which finances American business, assumes a greater responsibility.

High Standards Urged

Dorsey Richardson, of the National Association of investment companies, said investment companies must keep their standards high and their methods above reproach in order to avoid another stock market collapse.

Earlier, the association's oil and natural gas securities committee predicted that gasoline prices are due for a decrease in 1950.

The committee's report said in part:

"The present level of gasoline inventories and the expected seasonal build-up which will occur in these indicates, at this time, the probability that considerable pressure on the wholesale gasoline structure will occur in coming months and may be described as almost intense by the time that gasoline stocks reach their peak next spring."

The reason sound makes less progress when traveling through sea water than through fresh water is thought to be due to slight amounts of magnesium sulfate in the salt water. This chemical seems to have unusual sound-absorbing ability.

Failure Of 'Crusade' Against Tito Seen

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Dec. 6. (AP).—Yugoslavia's official newspaper predicted today the Cominform's demand for a world Marxist crusade against Yugoslavia will boomerang.

Borba, organ of Marshal Tito's government, said in a four-column editorial the Communits Information bureau's latest manifesto completed the bankruptcy of the so-called Soviet peace policy and marked collapse of its wishful reliance on a internal Yugoslav revolt.

The editorial was the first detailed reaction there to the resolutions adopted in a meeting of the Cominform in Hungary and published just a week ago. The resolutions laid it on the line that it is the "international duty" of Communists and workers everywhere to help overthrow the Tito regime.

Borba said this was a monstrous plot to make the world's workers the "tools of the non-peaceloving policy of the Soviet government." These workers, the paper added, have been given the international task of swallowing "another poisonous pill."

The Cominform's resolution of June, 1948, throwing Tito out of the organization was at least disguised as "some kind of Marxist document," Borba said, but the latest one dropped such pretenses and resembled the "sentence of some court martial."

The editorial said this action by Russia and her satellites will "only deepen and increase" disapproval of such tactics among working masses.

Frank Grimes, Abilene Editor, Honored For 35 Years Service

ABILENE, Dec. 6. (AP)— Frank Grimes, editor-in-chief of the Abilene Reporter-News, has entered his 36th year of service with that West Texas daily.

The Reporter-News marked the 35th anniversary Sunday with a front page surprise tribute to the gaunt philosopher who has built up a nationwide reputation from his editorial rostrum.

"We didn't dare risk interviewing him," said Katharyn Duff, who wrote the tribute. "You can tell . . . that he'd never stand hitched to such a notion."

Grimes, a native of Bell county, came to The Reporter-News as city editor December 4, 1914. Five years later he became editor-in-chief, succeeding George S. Anderson, who now is chairman of the Reporter Publishing company.

McMurry college of Abilene a few years ago conferred its highest degree— doctor of laws— on Grimes.

HERO MEETS ADMIRAL'S WIDOW

Pacific War Ace Leaves Hawaii In Race To Set Flight Record

HONOLULU, Dec. 6. (INS) — Pacific war ace Thomas Lanphier, jr., left Honolulu at 11 a.m. (PST) today on the last over-water lap of his attempt to circle the globe in record time by commercial airline.

Lanphier, whose flight is being sponsored by the Air Force association, hopes to set a new speed record with a round-the-world air line ticket of at least four days, 23 hours and 50 minutes.

He is scheduled to arrive in San Francisco tonight aboard a United Airlines plane and then leave for Chicago, still via United, at 9 p.m.

Switches Airlines

Lanphier switched from Pan-American to United when he learned that a mixup in crews' rest times would delay his departure several hours.

At Chicago he will transfer to an American airlines plane for the final lap of his journey to New York where he is expected to land at La Guardia field, his starting point, tomorrow night.

He left Honolulu pondering an enigmatic meeting in Tokyo with the widow of former Japanese Admiral Isoruku Yamamoto, commander of Japan's wartime Pacific fleet, whose plane he is credited with having shot down over the Solomons in 1943.

The meeting produced mixed reactions.

Brought To Hotel Room

Mrs. Yamamoto was brought to Lanphier's hotel room by enterprising Japanese newsmen who also carried with them a huge bouquet of chrysanthemums. They asked him to present the woman with the flowers and when he did so flash bulbs popped all over the room.

An angered American present at the meeting charged the flyer had been "tricked." He said Lanphier had agreed to hand Mrs. Yamamoto the flowers only on condition there would be no publicity.

There was plenty.

The surprised Pacific war veteran complied with a request he describe the battle in which the admiral died. The evening newspaper Mainchi Shimbun quoted Lanphier with having asked the widow to "dedicate the flowers to Admiral Yamamoto's soul" and then quoted the widow with having said after the meeting:

Acted For Country

"I do not hate him, for after all he did it for his country."

The newspaper also reported that Lanphier had agreed to help Mrs. Yamamoto get her son into the United States to attend an American college.

Lanphier is attempting to break the old commercial airline record of six days, three hours and 15 minutes set by Eddie Eagan chairman of the New York State Athletic commission.

Wealthy manufacturer Milton Reynolds failed in a similar attempt recently when he was balked by bad weather over Guam.

RECEIVES PICTURE OF PRESIDENT — Laurence Goldstein, 11, looks at an autographed photo of President Truman sent to him in Lynn, Mass., from the White House. In a letter that received national attention the boy's mother, widow of a soldier killed overseas, sought an answer to her son's query "Why did my Daddy have to die?" The letter was written after Laurence told his mother he had been beaten up by older boys and called a "dirty Jew." (AP Wirephoto.)

Mass Screening Of Population Urged To Find Stomach Cancers

CLEVELAND, Dec. 6. (U.P.)— Three Johns Hopkins university doctors today proposed a mass screening of the population for cancer of the stomach.

The three — Drs. John F. Roach, Robert D. Sloan and Russel H. Morgan — proposed the use of photofluorographic methods for the screening.

Dr. Roach told the convention of the Radiological Society of North America that judging by a pilot study of 8,500 persons at Johns Hopkins, gastric photofluorography can be used with confidence.

He said that in the university tests the method appeared to be virtually as accurate as standard X-ray examinations.

Dr. Roach said that if any real progress is to be made in the treatment of gastric cancer, the patient must be brought to the surgeon when he is in a curable stage. Mass use of gastric photofluorography, he said, will help find such cancers before they give the usual symptoms.

Nation's Crude Production Drops After 10-Weeks Climb

TULSA, Okla., Dec. 6. (U.P.)—A 10-week climb of U.S. crude oil production ended last week when daily average production dropped 103,850 barrels, the Oil & Gas Journal said today.

The trade publication said the nation's oil production averaged 5,060,250 barrels per day for the week ending Dec. 3.

Texas accounted for 80 percent of the net loss, dropping 82,900 barrels to 2,086,525. Oklahoma was second in the decline, decreasing 9,750 barrels per day to 416,750. Illinois was down 9,600 barrels to 172,600.

Lubbock Trounces Plainview To Gain Fourth Victory, 47-30

Wilson Hits Hoop For 16 Markers

PLAINVIEW, Dec. 6. (Special)—The Plainview Bulldogs were unable to cope with the Lubbock Westerners here tonight in a Class AA non-district basketball contest, losing 47-30 to the visitors at Wayland gym.

It was the second defeat at the hands of Lubbock, which earlier posted a 54-24 victory over the Bulldogs. The Westerners have won four straight contests.

Big Jim Wilson, Lubbock's all-state center, paced the scoring in the game with 16 points, hitting seven field goals and two extra points. Runner-up was Guard Richard Allen with eight tallies and Forward Jimmy Sexton garnered seven points.

Lubbock Jumps Into Lead

High for the Bulldogs was C. Harris with seven markers, and he was pressed by Bryan Bell and Jack Howton with six points each.

There was never any doubt as to the outcome of the ball game as the Westerner squad jumped to an early lead and pushed it higher as the outmanned but fighting Plainview squad sought to hold the score down. They succeeded only i cutting the margin of victory to 17 points, compared to the 30 point gap in the first game between the two quintets.

The Westerners scored eight points before Plainview was able to hit the basket and took advantage of rebounds to lead 27-17 at the half.

Strong Third Quarter

During the third quarter Lubbock regulars hit the basket for 15 points while allowing the Bulldogs but four and led 42-21 at the conclusion of that period. Lubbock substitutes entered the game at this point and finished the contest.

The game was ragged at times, with each side making blunders which always show up in early season. Many shots were missed.

Wilson's performance was the best of the year after a shaky start, and little Carl Ince was outstanding as a ball handler and defensive player.

Lubbock's next opponent is a home stand against Big Spring on Friday night in another non-conference game.

The Westerners "B" team came out with a 32-18 victory over the Bullpups as Tommy Yelvington bucketed 12 points.

GIANTS SEEKING BRAVES' DARK

Trade Talk Stirs Majors As Yankees Give Keller Release

BALTIMORE, Dec. 6. (AP)—The New York Yankees cleared the decks for a trade today by releasing Charlie (King Kong), Keller, an old standby.

Once a member of one of baseball's greatest all-around outfields with Joe DiMaggio and Tommy Henrich, Keller bows out of the Yankee picture after 10 years of valorous service. The Maryland strong boy with a lifetime record of 184 home runs was a member of six Yankee pennant clubs and appeared in three all-star games.

Keller never was the same after suffering a back injury in 1947 although he gamely tried to make a comeback.

Keller went home to Frederick, Md., to "think it over for a few days" before deciding what future course to take.

With Keller definitely out of the picture, Manager Casey Stengel would like to move Tommy Henrich back to the outfield from first base.

Stengel and Manager Bucky Harris of Washington held a conference yesterday afternoon, setting up the groundwork for a Yankee-Washington deal that would bring first baseman Eddie Robinson and possibly Pitcher Rae Scarborough to the stadium. Owner Clark Griffith of Washington was in town today, not just by accident.

Robinson, traded to Washington by Cleveland at last year's winter meetings, might fill the bill at the stadium. He hit .294 as a Senator and drove in 77 runs.

Scarborough Prize Bait

Scarborough, of course, is prize bait for any team in the league. He can be had—but only for a front line player and a wad of dough. His 13-11 record with a last place club in 1949 fails to do him justice.

The Boston Braves and Chicago Cubs have been talking business with no names mentioned. The outcome seems to hinge on the final decision in the Boston-New York Giants proposed swap.

Giants Want Dark

Alvin Dark, brilliant Boston shortstop, is the man the Giants are after, not second baseman Eddie Stanky. The Braves are reluctant to part with Dark unless offered a real star in return. So far the Giants have turned a deaf ear on any talk involving outfielders Bobby Thomson or Whitey Lockman.

Bob Dillinger, one of the available St. Louis Browns, may wind up in Cleveland although the Indians will not pay the asking price at the moment.

The Chicago Cubs looped Bob Muncrief, 33-year-old righthanded pitcher, off their roster, selling him to their Los Angeles club of the Pacific Coast league. Muncrief, formerly with the St. Louis Browns, Cleveland and Pittsburgh, came to Chicago at the waiver price in June. His season record at Chicago and Pittsburgh was 6-11.

While the majors gossiped about trades, the minors continued their draft meeting with the Class B and Class C teams taking their picks in the player lottery.

Class B culled 76 men for a total of $72,000 and the Class C clubs selected 39 men from Class D for $27,300.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 6. (AP)—Players drafted today at the minor league selection meeting included:

Graziano Pushed To Defeat Horne

CLEVELAND, Dec. 6. (INS)—Rocky Graziano was pushed to the limit tonight to beat Sonny Horne of Niles, Ohio, in a 10-round middleweight bout witnessed by a record Cleveland indoor boxing crowd.

A total of 14,202 fans jammed the arena and contributed to a gate gate of $87,374 to witness the reformed ex-middleweight champ of the world make another stab on his comeback road to the title.

Graziano almost felled Horne in the third round and again in the fifth, but the bell saved the rugged Niles fighter, who has dropped two previous decisions to the Rock.

Horne rallied in the latter rounds but was not able to land enough telling blows to take the margin back.

In another 10-rounder for the Junior Lightweight crown, Sandy Sadler, ex-lightweight king, took a split decision over Orlando Zulueta of Havana, Cuba.

Top bout of the evening as far as thrills went, was the 10-round light-heavyweight match between Cleveland's Chuck Hunter and Dick Wagner of Portland, Ore. Hunter took the unanimous nod of the judges but Wagner had him hanging on at the final bell.

Shallowater Cagers Top Levelland, 35-30

SHALLOWATER, Dec. 6 (Special) — Shallowater's Mustangs, picking up where their Class B district and regional winners left off last year, won their 18 basketball game of the year without defeat last night by beating Levelland 35-30.

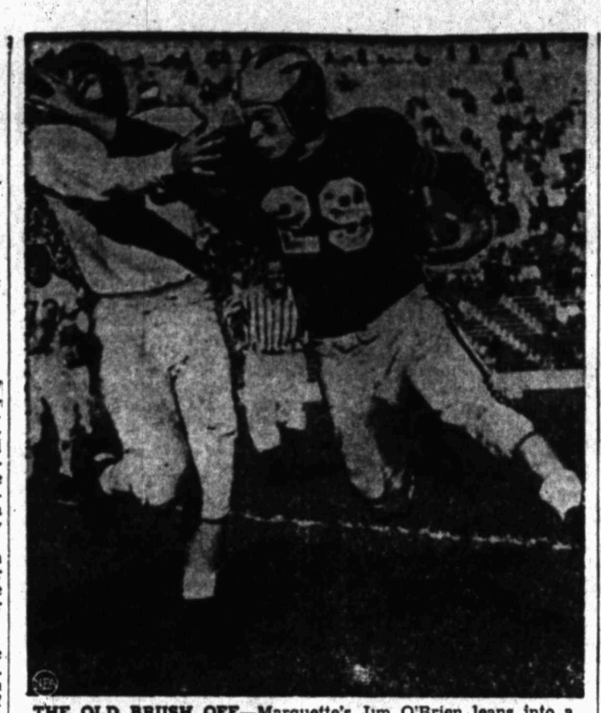

In a girls game preceding the varsity tilt, the Levelland girls won in a close game 23-21.

Bobby Reed, elusive successor to Derrell Murphy, fired the goals that gave the Mustangs their victory. Reed drove in for two quick goals with the score tied at 25-all and the Ponies never were headed after that.

Reed was the night's high scorer with 14 points, while a trio of Lobo shooters, Bailey, Guinn and Spence, each had seven for the losers.

The game was close all the way. The Mustangs and Lobos were tied at 6-6 at the end of the first quarter. They were locked at 15-15 at the intermission. And the third quarter ended with the score tied at 25-25.

Wednesday and Thursday nights the Shallowater girls will play Slaton here in conference games. Saturday night the Ponies play Roosevelt in an exhibition game as part of the state-wide girls basketball tournament there.

THE OLD BRUSH OFF—Marquette's Jim O'Brien leans into a straight arm, catching San Francisco Halfback George Carley flush in the face, as he travels for a 12-yard gain in Kezar stadium. The Dons completed a seven and three season with a 39-20 victory over the visitors from Milwaukee. One of the teams the Dons beat was San Jose State, which will oppose Texas Tech in the Raisin Bowl at Fresno, Calif., Dec. 31.

Brock, Stroud Are Co-Captains Of 1949 Westerner Grid Team

Tackle Joe Brock and Halfback Wayne Stroud were elected co-captains of the 1949 Lubbock Westerner football squad Tuesday at a special meeting in Chapman fieldhouse.

BROCK

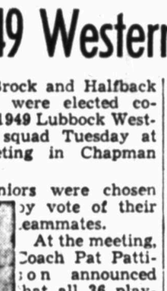

The two seniors were chosen by vote of their teammates.

At the meeting, Coach Pat Pattison announced that all 36 players on the squad at the close of the season will be awarded letter jackets. Of this group, 19 are seniors and 17 will return next season.

The Westerner grid managers, Merle Burchett and Don Lester, also were awarded letters.

The jackets, for which measurements were taken after Tuesday's meeting, will be presented at a school assembly as soon as they arrive, Pattison said. Delivery is expected in about six weeks, he added.

Brock and Stroud were outstanding performers on the Westerner team which finished the season with a 10-1 won-and-lost record, bowing only to Austin High of El Paso in last week's bi-district playoff round. Both were named to the Avalanche-Journal All-District 3-AA first team. Brock also was selected on the Fort Worth Star-Telegram all-state team, while Stroud gained a berth on that newspaper's third all-state team.

STROUD

The complete list of 1949 lettermen: Curtis Roberts, Bob Brown, Weldon Cobb, Garnet Reeves, Dale Young, Doug Wienke, Malcolm Young, Tommy Fisher, Freddie Gray, Sam Modrall, Joe Brock, Wayne Stroud, Charles McCown, Billy Wright, Billy Tooke, Morris Turner, Charles Williams, Douglas Poss and Wayne Noland, all seniors, and lower classmen Gene Nelson, Delwin Doyle, Jack Weldon, Jerry Van Pelt, Ross Craig, Bob Newell, Don Rawls, Deverle Henslee, Mac Taylor, Don Hufstedler, Frank Hill, Billy Presley, Lyndell Ross, Dick Cobb, Dean White, Bobby Dan and Don Herriage.

Kenneth Means scored 13 points and Donnie Reynolds netted 11 to spark Ropesville's attack. Robert White was high for Meadow with 10. The halftime score was Ropesville 23, Meadow 9.

With Henson chalking up 17 points, Meadow gained a 36-30 victory in the girl's game. Glenda Bevers paced Ropesville with 12.

Rice Owls Trounce Tech 57-45 In Spite Of Jackson's 21 Points

Red Raiders Lose Seven Point Lead

HOUSTON, Dec. 6. (AP)—Rice's Owls clamped a tight defense on Chester Jackson, sharp shooting Texas Tech forward, tonight to overcome an early deficit and defeat the Red Raiders, 57 to 45.

Jackson, a senior from Monument, N.M., scored 11 points in the first eight minutes to give the Red Raiders a seven point lead before the Southwest Conference team started connecting.

Rice Pulls Away

Rice drew even 19-19 and 23-23 before shooting into a 32-28 half time advantage.

In the second half, Jackson was held to one field goal and Rice cashed in on 13 out of 18 free throw chances to increase its lead. Tech managed to match Rice's six field goals the final 20 minutes, but made only five of its 12 charity chances.

Jackson finished with 21 points to lead in scoring, followed by Rice's Big Joe McDermott with 19.

Tech Leads Early

Jackson's sharp eye for the basket and Tech's height under the backboards made things look like a West Texas runaway in the early minutes. With Tech leading 19-12, a quick five points by Rice's Warren Switzer and J. D. White pulled the Owls even at 19-19. But Jackson sank three more points to send the Raiders ahead again.

A field goal by McDermott and a free toss by Jim Gerhardt made it 23-23 and Tech never regained the lead. McDermott sent the Owls ahead for the first time at 25-23.

Fouls Hurt Raiders

Jack Alderson knotted it at 25-25 before Gerhardt made it 26-25 From that point Rice never was behind. Gerhardt, Switzer and Grawunder made it 32-25 for Rice before Alderson connected for three poin's seconds before the half ended.

Second half roughness gave Rice the chance to pull ahead gradually.

ROUGH PLAY MAY BE DISCUSSED

Fireworks Expected When SWC Officials Hold Winter Meet

DALLAS, Dec. 6. (AP)—The annual winter meeting of the Southwest conference will be held here Friday and Saturday with fireworks likely over the so-called "blackball" of officials and a protest by Texas Christian's football coach, Dutch Meyer, of Arkansas' rough play.

At a secret meeting last spring, conference football coaches selected officials for the season by vote Those failing of unanimous support were not allowed to work conference games. The officials' association promised some "recommendations."

Too Much Hands, Arms

Coach Meyer filed a protest with the conference secretary, James H. Stewart, over "rough play" by Arkansas in its game with Texas Christian. He charged too much use of the hands and arms, alleging that most of the Arkansas play was illegal. Coach John Barnhill of Arkansas said his team did not play dirty football.

Stewart had no comment on possible topics of discussion due to come before the conference faculty committee.

The coaches, athletic directors and business managers of athletics of the seven conference schools will meet Friday afternoon at 2 holds its first session Friday night at 7:30 o'clock and its windup meeting Saturday morning.

Dean Robert A. Leflar of the University of Arkansas is conference president.

Tag Team Bout Heads Mat Card

In an effort to please the wrestlers on tonight's card and provide plenty of excitement for the fans, Promoter Sled Allen has lined up a tag team match with four of the area's top grapplers slated for action at the arena.

Opening the program at 8 p.m. will be Jack Pappenheim against Gust Johnson. Both matches are tagged for an hour time limit.

Two exponents of the clean type grappling, Herb Parks and Andy Tremain, will go against two of the bad men, Alex Kasaboski and the Grey Mask, in the final.

For the past few weeks upsets have been occurring at the arena, and wrestlers have been demanding rematches with previous opponents in an effort to salvage their prestige. Everybody wants to fight someone else.

The Mask has his sights set on Tremain, who pinned him in two straight falls two weeks ago, and Parks wanted a shot at Kasaboski. George Overhull, who has been appearing here regularly, also was after the Russian, and Tremain just wanted to fight. So tonight some of these men will get a chance to settle their grudges in the tag team match.

It is doubtful if the match will stay clean very long, although Parks and Tremain prefer that type of bout, because Kasaboski and the Mask are definitely inclined to the shady side of the grunt and groan game.

Johnson is making his appearance here for the first time in many months and will meet another West Coast product when he ties into Pappenheim in the opener. This should be an exhibition of skill.

Tickets will be on sale until 8 p.m. at the arena and also may be picked up at the gate.

CUBS WANT YANK CLUB

BALTIMORE, Dec. 6. (AP) — Frank J. Shaughnessy, president of the International league, said today the Chicago Cubs were negotiating with the New York Yankees to by the Yankees' Newark club and move the franchise to Springfield, Mass.

Bowl-Bound Raiders Face Tough Team

San Jose Has Won Crown Five Times

The San Jose State college Spartans that Texas Tech will face in the Raisin Bowl at Fresno, Calif., Dec. 31, will present an all-veteran team that has rolled to eight victories in 12 games.

A total of 22 lettermen returned this fall to answer Coach Wilbur V. "Bill" Hubbard's call for varsity candidates. And of the 54-man squad that the 1930 Stanford graduate carried through the season, 15 were juniors, 15 were seniors and 24 were sopohomores.

The Golden Raiders, using the nucleus of 22 lettermen, won the championship of the California Collegiate Athletic Association for the second consecutive year. It was the fifth title for the Spartans, or Golden Raiders, since entering the circuit in 1939.

Other members of the CCAA are Fresno State, San Diego State, Santa Barbara college, California Poly and Pepperdine. Just as Tech won all five of its Border Conference games, San Jose won all five of its CCAA games this season. Other titles went to the Spartans in 1939, 1940, 1946 and 1948.

Despite the large number of lettermen returning, Coach Hubbard lost heavily after the 1948 season. Principle loss was Center Bob Pifferini. Pifferini was such an outstanding player that he performed at center on the West team in the Shrine Bowl game. Nine other veterans also were lost by graduation. And in this gorup was the Spartans' top quarterback of 1948.

But this year's eleven is almost as strong as the 1948 crew that scored 373 points while holding the opposition to 168. And while the 1948 team won nine games and lost three, this year's team won eight and lost four.

A glance at the San Jose roster shows that the Spartans have a husky team. The starting line averages 201 pounds and the backfield tips in at an average of 181 for a team average of 194 pounds. That gives the Golden Raiders a weight edge over the Techsans.

San Jose has only one end who hits the 200-pound mark, but the rest are mainly six footers weighing 185 to 190 pounds. The tackles all weigh over 200 pounds, scaling up from 210 to 230. Four of the guards weigh over 190, while the other six weigh-in from 200 to 215 pounds.

Three of the four centers weigh over 200 pounds, while the other ball snapper weighs 190. The three quarterbacks are all light, weighing from 145 to 165 pounds. The heaviest halfback is 180-pound John Steele, while the lightest are 155-pounders Buddy Traina and Al Cementina, two of the stars. The fullbacks tip the beam from 178 to 200 pounds.

Outside of two players, the entire squad is made up of Californians. Halfback Harry Russell, top rusher on the squad and second highest scorer, comes from Pittsburgh, Pa. Fullback Max Coley, a third stringer, comes from Miami, Okla.

The Golden Raiders operate from the explosive T formation and under Coach Hubbard's direction, it is explosive. It was good this year for 457 points, an average of 38 a game. In no victory did they score less than 40 points. And the only time this year they were blanked was when Stanford beat them 49-0.

It shapes up as an offensive battle in the Raisin Bowl, with the offense-minded Spartans playing the defense-minded Red Raiders. It might be, in all probability, a repetition of the Tech-Hardin-Simmons game, except that each school knows little about the other.

KFYO WILL BROADCAST TECH-SAN JOSE BATTLE

Gordon Thompson, manager of radio station KFYO, last night announced that The Avalanche-Journal station would carry the Raisin Bowl game Dec. 31 direct from Fresno, Calif.

Thompson said that R. B. McAllister, former KFYO sports announcer and more recently operator of a radio station in New Mexico, would do the play-by-play broadcast. Thompson will serve as engineer.

Broadcast time has not been set yet, but the game probably will begin at 2 p. m. (PST), with the local station going on the air direct from the field 10 minutes earlier.

Banquet Honors Local Gridders

"Good football players are the result of good coaches; and good men are the result of following the greatest of all coaches," Rev. H. I. Robinson, pastor of the First Methodist church, declared last night at a dinner honoring Texas Tech and Lubbock High school football squads.

The Methodist pastor, serving as principal speaker at the dinner given by the T.N.M.&O. bus lines and Jess C. Levens, president, spiced his talk with humorous references to his own playing experience. He also declared that he could see why a man would choose law, teaching, business, or even the ministry, but he couldn't see why he'd choose coaching.

Religion Like Coaching

Rev. Robinson said that there was a great parallel between coaching and religion, for no player was any good without a coach and every man was responsible to the One Great Coach.

He cited the story of Pilot in the Bible asking the crowd who was their king? And the crowd's answer that they had no king. He said that the term "king" and "coach" were allied closely, could even be substituted for each other, and that any crowd lacking a coach naturally was lost.

Preceding Rev. Robinson's speech, players of both squads were regaled with several clever tricks, mainly the machination of D. M. McElroy, Texas Tech alumni secretary.

Assistants Introduced

Coach C. R. Pattison of Lubbock High school introduced his assistant coaches and thanked the crowd for their support this year. Coach Dell Morgan of Texas Tech followed with an introduction of his coaches and also thanked the people of Lubbock for their support. He also praised the Westerners for their fine season.

The Westerner season was given in tableau form as "A Dream," with an actor impersonating Coach Pattison having a dream. Two players pantomiming Lubbock's victory successes and Joe Meador, Lubbock Chamber of Commerce member, impersonated Austin (El Paso).

The skits concluded with a quartet composed of Lou Jones as Morgan, Arch Lamb as Coach G. B. Morris, McElroy as Coach Tipp Mooney and Dub Rushing as Coach Polk Robison, singing two songs. The songs follow:

(To the tune: "Far Away Places")
"The Southwestern Conference, far away under the plains;
The Southwestern Conference, with its big sounding names.
Ain't calling, ain't calling me.
Ballots are secret, they swear not to tell;
I'd like to see for myself.
Just how they voted, and who was our friend,
When they voted and noted you're not in,
I start getting restless whenever I hear,
'Maybe they'll vote again.'"

"I pray fo rthe day, when they all will vote year,
And we can play them again and again.
They say they are for me, and maybe they are,
But their ballots are burning you see.
That Southwestern Conference with its big sounding name,

Boys Club Gophers Beat 'Demons' 26-21

Closest basketball game of the day at Boys club Tuesday was the Golden Gophers' 26-21 victory over the Dirty Demons in Senior competition.

Billy Diamond's seven points was high for the Gophers, and Davis Hopper sent six points through the mesh for the Demons.

Scoring honors went to Bobby Tollison with 23 points as he paced the Sorry Lot to a 50-24 triumph over the Basketeers. Jim Johnson was high for the losers.

Two games were unreeled in the Midget loop, with the Alley Rats, paced by Jimmy Washington's 22-point total, taking a 36-28 verdict over the Palominos. For the losers Dale Ball was tops with 11.

Jim Hawkins helped the Raiders defeat the Galloping Ghosts, 25-9, by hitting the baskets for 12 points. Doug Tucker's three free throws was high for the losers.

In the Pee Wee game the Buffaloes kayoed the Roughies by an 8-0 count as Roy Rucker and Kenneth Marmaduke scored four points each.

Only three games will be played today, two in the Midget league. The Five Angels face the Alley Rats and the Eagles meet the Galloping Ghosts in that bracket, and the Pee Wee Mustangs will try to trample the Wildcats.

SPORTS Slants

BY CHOC HUTCHESON

Southern Methodist's Mustangs performed a tremendous service for Southwest conference football last week with their magnificent stand against Notre Dame's awesome Irish.

When a team that finished fifth in a seven-team circut plays the nation's top-rated outfit right off its feet — well, it's enough to make fans throughout America realize the fact that some of the finest football is played down Texas way.

This columnist was one of the many who thought that the Ponies didn't have a ghost of a chance against Notre Dame, particularly since injuries had sidelined several key SMU players — including the incomparable Doak Walker.

But the Mustangs came through in fine fashion, and fully deserve the accolade of the entire area for a job well done.

Oddmakers still list Port Arthur as the outstanding candidate for the state Class AA grid championship, with Abilene rated the next best bet . . . New Braunfels is listed as the Class A favorite, closely trailed by Littlefield. A team worth watching in the Class A division is Mexia, coached by ex-Texas Tech Capt. Ty Bain. If Mexia gets by New Braunfels this week, I expect a Mexia-Littlefield finale . . . Littlefield may run into its share of trouble with Ballinger, which boasts one of the state's best ball carriers in 175-pound Daniel Hallmark. I'm anxious to see what happens when Hallmark and Littlefield's Tommy Bailes match talents Friday afternoon at Odessa . . . Bailes has carried 31 times from scrimmage in the Wildcats' two playoff games, averaging 12.7 yards per try . . . Weinert, which beat Wilson in the area six-man bi-district playoff, went on to take regional honors by nosing out Gruver, 8-6 . . . In a recent speech at Dallas, TCU Coach Dutch Meyer remarked, "I hope before I die I can see one game wren the entire crowd cheers a kid when he makes an excellent play, regardless of what side he's on." To which I add a hearty "Amen."

Robbery Suspects Returned Here

all four suspects in one car from Dallas to Seymour reported the youths joined in "small talk" and gave no trouble. Two were in the front seat and two were in the back.

At Seymour, the party split up, two of the suspects riding in each car with officers.

Legal machinery to bring the youths to trial was expected to go into motion today.

Judge Dan Blair, whose 72nd District includes Crosby county, said last night that he may render a decision today on the matter of calling a grand jury in Crosby county to hear charges against the three men.

Blair explained that he must first consult with officers to "see what the score is," before he would decide on calling a grand jury.

A busy calendar of court business might affect the date of such a jury call, along with the calendar of the district attorney's office.

Most officials agreed that no trial was probable until after Christmas.

Principals and witnesses in both the Lubbock and Crosbyton robberies are expected to be asked to identify the four men, with action on this probable today.

Mike Wicks, jr., Crosby county attorney, said last night that since Wallace was still in the hospital, his suspected assailants may be taken to the hospital for identification. However, other witnesses to the holdup may be asked to view the suspects if the hospital trip cannot be arranged.

Anxious to Begin Trial

"We are anxious to bring these men to trial as soon as possible," Wicks said, "but we are governed by the law."

He also pointed out that a full court schedule might cause some delay.

Under Texas law, robbery by firearms is a capital offense, with a maximum penalty of death upon conviction. Even should the men enter a plea of guilty, a jury trial would be required since the charge is an offense carrying the death penalty as a maximum.

Wicks said there was little chance that the men would be charged with assault with intent to murder, since that charge carries a maximum penalty of 15 years upon conviction.

Although Wallace reported that one of the trio had shot him, all three men would be held accountable for the act since they were principals.

Four Brought Here

Wicks said he believed all four men were taken to the Lubbock county jail because it was considered "safer" than the jail in Crosbyton.

"While there has been high feeling in the county over the robbery and shooting, it does not appear to be sufficient to expect violence," he said.

Judge Blair is scheduled to be in Morton today for the arrangnment of Leo Nichols, charged with the Oct. 14 fatal shooting of his wife. On Thursday, Blair will be in Crosbyton for a regular call of the civil docket.

There was a possibility that the Lubbock trial might be held before the Crosbyton trial, since a 99th District court grand jury will meet on Jan. 2 at the call of Judge G. V. Pardue.

Should grand jury indictments be returned against the four suspects, at least two weeks more is expected to pass before trials begin, since time must be allowed for a defense to be prapared or run the risk of a reversal in an appeal court.

Captured After Chase

Scrivner and Leeman were captured early yesterday after a 90-mile-an-hour chase through Dallas. Bonham, a halfback on the Bonham High school football team, was arrested at school. Mann was arrested in Bonham last night.

Scrivner and Leeman were returned to Dallas today after being arraigned in Corsicana on a charge of robbing a drive-in grocery. Justice of the Peace W. H. Johnson placed them under $25,000 bond each.

The four youths operated sometimes by twos and sometimes as threesomes. Their hold-up victims described them as neat appearing young men who acted surely and swiftly.

Leeman and Scrivner also are charged with the $1,000 armed robbery of a grocery store in Houston. In addition to the Crosbyton job.

Youths Needed Money

Don Morrissey of the Corsicana Sun interviewed Scrivner and Leeman today in the presence of Police Chief Bruce Nutt and Sheriff David Castles.

He said Scrivner told him: "We needed more money for the kind of life we wanted to lead and we thought stealing it was the easiest way to get it."

Morrissey said both Scrivner and Leeman readily admitted participation in the holdups over the state. Scrivner signed a statement but Leeman refused to make or sign a formal statement.

B. B. Cowart, assistant manager of a Cabell's drive-in grocery in Corsicana, identified Leeman and Scrivner as the two men, both armed, who had robbed him Sunday night. The prisoners readily admitted the Corsicana robbery and gave details, Morrissey stated.

During the robbery police Sgt. W. D. Thedford and his wife drove up to the grocery. She went inside to get groceries. The robbers came out and walked to their car. Informed of what had happened, Thedford sped off in pursuit. The youths got in their car. Thedford drove up alongside and he said they fired at him. He exchanged shots with them. They hit the radiator of his car and put it out of commission. Early the next morning they were arrested in Dallas.

Served In Army

Leeman told Morrissey he had served a year with the Army and had "purchased" his discharge from an officer at Sheppard Field, Wichita Falls, for $300 in 1945.

Commenting on the gun fight with Thedford Sunday night, Scrivner said: "We didn't intend to kill him, we just wanted to escape. That was the first time we had been fired on and we were plenty excited. We shot several holes in our own car."

Scrivner said he had helped plan an armed robbery in Lubbock but did not participate in that one, saying he "backed out" before the robbery was pulled.

Officers said one or more of the youths had made oral statements about robberies in Dallas, Denton, Sherman, Commerce and Houston.

Denison and Greenville officers said they believed some of the youths would be charged with robberies in their cities.

Sheriff Addison of Crosbyton asked first custody of the trio charged in the holdup there.

"We know how to give them a speedy and fair trial out in my country," he said. "It won't take us all winter long and besides they shot a man out there. In fact, they shot him twice."

In the Lubbock robbery, the three bandits escaped with $714, while at Crosbyton the trio got $152 from cash registers.

responsible collective bargaining groups."

The SCPA president charged that the small owners meeting Lewis' demands "are willing to sacrifice their own position and hope to weaken that of the industry on the chance that they will have a short term advantage over the other companies and can make a 'quick dollar.'"

Position Unchanged

Moody said it is difficult to believe the UMW takes this contract "seriously" and declared it "does not in any way change the position of the SCPA."

The companies signing the contract agreed to raise their contributions to the UMW welfare program from 20 to 35 cents a ton and increase their employes wages — probably less than a thousand miners—from $14.05 to $15 a day, effective Jan. 1.

In return, they get a two-year contract—running to Sept. 1, 1951 unless canceled by either side on 30 day's notice—and they are relieved from the three-day work week which Lewis instituted Monday to force the mine owners to meet his terms.

Announcement Expected

Lewis' announcement had been expected. Spokesmen for major coal interests declared in advance it would not alter their position. They have resisted, through three strikes and seven months of deadlocked negotiations, any contract changes which would boost coal production costs.

If Lewis can force acceptance of the new contract on an industry-wide basis, he will score a major triumph. A presidential fact-finding board recently ruled against a fourth round wage increase in the steel dispute as unwarranted and the CIO steelworkers ended their strike for a welfare program which the miners have had for some time.

The union said that "additional companies will execute the agreement as convenience permits."

Increased Costs Seen

The UMW estimated that the new contract will increase coal production cost an average of 25 cents a ton, with the cost less in modern mechanized mines and stripping operations.

Announcement of the contract came as UMW district leaders in western Pennsylvania and Indiana disclosed that groups of operators in their states also are preparing to sign with the union.

At the same time, Robert R. Young, president of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad, announced in New York that he is acting as an intermediary in attempting to promote a settlement of the coal-wage controversy which has resulted in four strikes of the miners this year.

Meanwhile, John D. Battle, executive vice president of the National Coal association, charged that the union is engaged in a "fishing expedition for suckers" in the form of small operators who could not endure the three-day week and would have to capitulate to the union's terms.

The new contract continues the eight-hour day unchanged and a five day work week with Saturday, if worked, being paid for at time and a half. The contract also contains a clause allowing either party to cancel it on 30 day's notice.

The union announced that trustees of the UMW welfare fund under the new contract will be Howard W. Showalter, of Fairmont, W. Va., president of the Monongahela Rail and River Coal corporation, representing the operators; Josephine Roche, of Denver, Colo., president of the Rocky Mountain Fuel company, representing the public, and Lewis representing the union.

The union gave no explanation as to whether these three would be the trustees of the welfare fund in event the entire coal industry agrees to the new contract.

Sen. Bridges (R-NH), has been the neutral trustee, while former Federal Judge Charles I. Dawson, is industry trustee.

Fort Worth Rabbi Speaks At Meeting Of Zionist Group

Rabbi William S. Malev of Beth Yeshurun in Fort Worth was principal speaker at a joint meeting here last night of the Lubbock Zionist district and the local chapter of Hadassah, a women's organization.

Rabbi Malev, who was in the same party with Rabbi Julius Kerman of Lubbock in a recent visit to Europe and Israel, spoke mainly on the impressions he received in European countries in comparison with those he felt while visiting Israel.

He said most European nations seem to be tired and jaded and the people old and sad, while the new Israel was young and hopeful, and willing to work for the future.

He also spoke on the work of the Jewish women's organization, Hadassah, in the new nation. He was introduced by Rabbi Kerman.

Mrs. Louis Freed, president of the local chapter of Hadassah, presided. Members of the organization served refreshments during the meeting.

Expansion Talked

ricts have not risen enough to compensate for those losses.

The same could conceivably happen in Lubbock, he pointed out, if some plan for orderly downtown business expansion were not mapped out.

Natural Trend To West

"There is really only one natural way for Lubbock to grow," Guy said. "That natural trend is to the west."

The westward extension of Broadway for retail business would tend to give Main street to the north and Thirteenth to the south a "shot in the arm," he observed.

"I believe that if this proposition is laid properly and intelligently before the people of Lubbock, you will find they are personally interested in the project for the growth and progress it could mean for the city," he said.

George S. Berry, Lubbock attorney who is acting as temporary chairman of the group proposing the purchase of the church property, presided at the gathering and acted as moderator for the general discussion which followed Guy's talk.

Not All Property Owners

Not all those who attended the meeting are property owners in this Broadway-Main-Thirteenth area, but came because of their interest in seeing Lubbock's downtown retail district given impetus through orderly, planned westward expansion.

The proposal to purchase the church property was made with aim in view of eliminating a "stumbling block" for the business district in that area.

With announcement recently that Lubbock Memorial hospital will erect a new building soon on west Nineteenth and the present property converted to commercial enterprises, and with the First Baptist and Broadway Church of Christ properties on the market, the group of citizens saw possibilities of expanding the downtown retail area in a manner that would attract many new businesses to Lubbock and greatly improve the downtown section.

Church To Receive Bids

According to announcement made at last night's meeting, the Board of Stewards of First Methodist church has instructed the church finance committee to act as receiving body for any proposition concerning the sale of the church property.

A. B. Brown, downtown property owner, spoke briefly, stressing Lubbock's vast potential that "from traffic and business standpoints, Broadway, Main, and Thirteenth are logical ways for the natural westward expansion."

John Toles declared that "the better Broadway you have, the better Main street and Thirteenth street you will have, also."

Others who commented briefly at the gathering expressed their belief that the proposed westward expansion of business via purchase of the church property should be a community project because of the ultimate benefits to the city as a whole.

Each of those attending the meeting agreed to bring two other interested persons to the Jan. 9 gathering.

City Bond Vote

taminating leakage downstream in Yellowhouse canyon.

The disease danger represented by untreated sewage is too obvious for discussion.

Fortunately, the condition will not be particularly difficult to correct. The present plant was designed in a manner so that sections can be added as needed.

Good Until 1953

The bond issue proposed, according to engineering estimates, will be sufficient for Lubbock needs until about 1953, or for approximately 86,000 people.

Members of the city commission have given assurance that, if the bonds are approved, they will proceed with all possible speed to get the work started and finished! They believe enough progress can be made to provide for the peak needs of next Summer, although the entire project probably will not be finished until next fall or winter.

The proposition has all the appearances of an absolute must for approval unless the people of Lubbock are willing to risk epidemsis of many kinds which often have their origin in improperly treated sewage.

Mahon Is Speaker

minary introductions were made by Mayor A. C. Chesher of Littlefield, and W. D. T. Storey.

Barbershop Quartet Sings

Special music was provided by a barber shop quartet from Lubbock, composed of I. L. Jones, Dick Richards, Jim Black, and J. Ray Dickey. The quartet sang four numbers, and then returned for one encore. Hardy Shelby, president of the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce, served as toastmaster and introduced guests. The Rev. Carter McKemy offered the invocation.

Rep. Mahon is remarking on the new country club said it was representative of West Texas because there was "plenty of room on the outside and plenty of room on the inside," thus allowing for expansion.

In making a short report on the work of Congress, he brought out the point that the whole object of the government is to help the people. "The government is you," he said. "When the government helps you, it helps itself."

Comments Are Applauded

His comments on the budget brought considerable applause from the audience. In effect, he told them that the government must balance the budget. "We cannot continue to operate on a deficit," he said.

Although the armed services budget was one of the largest, he explained that the appropriations committee had deemed it wise to make budget cuts elsewhere, in view of the world situation.

He also made a short report on the progress of the Canadian Dam bill, the REA telephone proposal, and the farm program, which he said seemed to be working out with considerable fairness to most of the farmers in the area.

He closed with an expression of his belief in the determination of the American people to learn to live peacefully not only with themselves, but with the people of the rest of the world as well.

Guests included Carl Maxey, Raymond Burford, and Jim Crook, all of Lubbock; Bill Sansing of Amarillo; Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Woodall and D. Davis, all of Tulia; Mr. and Mrs. Dick McFarland of Dimmitt; Robert H. Crowell and J. M. IDALOU, Dec. 6 (Special) — Approximately 150 Lubbock county farmers attended a program sponsored by the Lubbock County Production and Marketing association and the Texas Extension service at the Idalou clubhouse here at 7:30 p.m. today. The program, the second in a series of eight, is for the purpose of familiarizing the area farmers with the 1950 farm program.

members of the Board of Economic Warfare." Wallace was chairman of the board while serving as vice president.

Lewis brought out on his nation wide broadcast tonight that: 1. A wartime ground crewman at the Great Falls, Mont., air base said he saw an inspecting officer open an unsealed package in Russian possession which contained "plans and blueprints" of a new general Electric plant at Lynn, Mass.

Lewis said the plant manufactured turbo superchargers.

2. The field's wartime commander, Col. Russell Meredith, protested to Washington "three or four times" about the "ten tons of printed matter a month" that the Russians carted through the lend-lease airlift. Meredith said the "high brass" decreed that he "lay off."

Assistant Interviewed

The Mutual network commentator interviewed one of his press assistants, Russell Turner, who said he obtained the information last week from the persons concerned.

Sen. McMahon (D-Conn), chairman of the joint Congressional Atomic committee, arrived in Washington to confer with Army officers and committee investigators on Jordan's charges. McMahon declared:

"There will be no let-up in the investigation until every aspect of it has been completely and thoroughly explored."

At Hamilton, Ohio, Lt. Col. J. D. McFarland, who served with Jordan at Great Falls, declared Jordan was transferred from the base "after raising hell about the handling of air shipments to Russia."

Names Not Mentioned

McFarland said he believes he can "substantiate" everything Jordan has said about shipment of atomic materials but added that he never heard the names of Wallace, Hopkins, or any other government official mentioned at the base.

Jordan, at a New York news conference, said meanwhile that on orders of a superior officer he personally "ripped out" radar equipment from four lend-lease planes enroute to Russia but that a fifth radar-equipped plane got through to Moscow when a Russian general virtually "kidnapped" it.

According to Jordan, he spotted "strange looking gadgets" in lend-lease C-47's at Great Falls. He said he telephoned Col. C. H. Gitzinger, lend-lease chief at Wright field, Ohio, explained the situation, and got this reply:

"Must Be Radar"

"Good God! It must be radar. Rip it out immediately—Rip it out with your own hands."

Jordan said he obeyed, ripping the radar apparatus from four C-47's. But he said that a fifth C-47, flown by Russian Maj. Gen. A. I. Velyaev, by-passed Great Falls and sped to Russia with the secret equipment.

The ex-officer admitted he didn't know who was responsible for allowing planes earmarked for Russia to be equipped with radar. He indicated that the "stupid mistake" might have been made by a lend-lease official in Oklahoma City, where the aircraft were prepared for flight.

Jordan said he had intended to disclose publicly the names of "X" and "Y," state department officials whose names he said he saw on documents sent to Russia via Great Falls in 1943-44. But he explained that the un-American activities committee had requested him not to make the names public.

Chairman Wood declared by telephone from his Georgia home that committee investigators are "pursuing every angle" in the probe touched off by Jordan and Lewis.

Wood told reporters that one uranium shipment sent to Russia may have been "doctored" so as to make it useless in producing an atomic bomb. But the congressman did not say whether the "doctoring was in a deliberate attempt to prevent such use of the uranium.

Dr. Harold Urey, noted chemist who was an A-bomb pioneer, declared in Chicago that the amount of uranium sent to Russia in 1943 was "insignificant."

Urey also pointed out that Russia's suspicions might have been aroused had uranium shipments been shut off, since the chemical was fairly common at the time and its relation to atomic weapons was a secret supposedly known to only a few trusted American experts.

Two other atomic scientists, Dr. Thorfin R. Hogness of the University of Chicago and Dr. Samuel K. Allison of the University of California, insisted that the uranium sent to Russia would have been useless in launching an A-bomb program.

Suspect Faces Liquor Charge

Charges of Liquor law violation will be filed today against a 29-year-old Lubbock man arrested Tuesday afternoon as he allegedly was making deliveries, police said.

The suspect was taken into custody in the 2000 block Broadway by City Detectives L. W. Forrester and Lee Rice, jr., who said they had watched him take a package into a nearby business place.

The man, stopped by the officers shortly after he had driven from the place in a car, readily admitted "you've got me," it was reported.

A search of the car uncovered 14 four-fifths quarts of whisky and two cases of beer, records showed.

$30 Reported Taken

Police said approximately $30 had been taken from two marble machines at the Pleasure gardens at 2101 East Ave. D by intruders who kicked in a side door to gain entry. An undetermined amount was believed taken from a juke box. The burglary apparently occurred during the early morning hours Tuesday.

A Texas Tech student, Harris Hill, of 327 West hall complained to officers that a hydraulic bumper jack had been taken from his car while it was parked in the 900-block Main Tuesday. Value of the jack was placed at $10.

Sheriff's officers said meanwhile that Raymond Osburn, 38, of 1715 Ave. N, had been arrested on a charge of child desertion filed recently in Nueces county.

Roy Graves, 36, who had pleaded innocent Monday of theft over $5 from the Mark Halsey drug store at Nineteenth and Ave. Q, changed his plea Tuesday and was fined $1 and sentenced to one day in jail.

Another Lubbock man changed his plea on charges of drunk driving and was fined $75 and costs of county court, records showed. He was J. R. Thomas, who was arrested on the charge Dec. 27, 1948. His driver's license was revoked for six months.

president.

No others are to attend the session, it was said. Wilke told newsmen last night he was disappointed that the entire executive committee of the WTCC would not be in attendance at the meeting. Wilke had no other comment to make on the impending hearing.

Bandeen, WTCC manager, had no comment to make here last night.

Announcement of the meeting to be held here was made by J. M. Willson, WTCC president, of Floydada.

Those in position to know have said that Bandeen's handling of the matter had resulted in numerous criticism and protests, many demanding the removal of the present manager.

Bandeen's direction of the WTCC has been under fire increasingly during recent years.

Wilke was manager of the Sweetwater board of city development prior to joining the WTCC staff in 1947. Bentley, a former editor and radio station manager, has been a member of the paid executive staff for many years.

WTCC headquarters are in Abilene.

stretch it. They get everything they buy at rockbottom prices, and a goodly part at no cost at all.

Consequently, there is no 75 cents anyone can give that will go further toward providing the joys of Christmas for children than a donation to the Goodfellows.

Will Supply Gifts

This small sum will supply at least one nice toy, selected especially for the child receiving it, and generous supplies of fruits, nuts and candy. The average cost of the toys, bought at retail, probably would average $2 to $3—sometimes more.

But the Goodfellows are going to need a lot of help from a great many people. They are off to a good start today with donations totaling $111, headed by S. E. Cone, Lubbock business man, with $50.

The Chief Goodfellow wants to finish the fund within the next two weeks. He urges, therefore, that donations be made without delay.

They should be brought, sent or mailed to the Chief Goodfellow, care The Avalanche-Journal, 1211 Texas avenue.

And don't forget the coupon. Read it carefully. If you know any child, regardless of race, color or religious creed, who might be forgotten by Santa Claus, send in the coupon.

If you do that, the child will not be forgotten.

Metropolitan Soprano Gives Tech Artist Course Program

Arias from famous operas were presented by Licia Albanese, Metropolitan soprano, before a small but receptive crowd in the Lubbock High school auditorium last night.

Mme. Albanese appeared on the Texas Tech Artists course series.

Among selections presented were an aria from La Traviata, a Russian group of songs in English, and other selections in French Italian, Spanish and English.

Mme. Albanese has been a member of the Metropolitan Opera troupe since 1940, when she came to America from her native Italy. She became a citizen of the United States in 1945.

Peach Grower Tells Heirs To Vote Demo Ticket, Then Dies

(By The Associated Press)

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Dec. 6. — The will of a prominent northern California peach grower left most of his $750,000 estate to his brothers and sisters — and told them to become Democrats.

Harvey B. Whitten, who died Nov. 17 at the age of 69, said this in his will filed for probate today:

"I have specifically requested my brothers and sisters to renounce the Republican national party, its policies and platform and to vote henceforth a straight Democratic national party ticket.

"The reason for this is that my estate was accumulated solely under the democratic administration. It is, therefore, my desire that no Republican party member receive anything from the distribution of my estate."

The will did not say, however, the Republican members of his family would be disinherited.

NORTH KOREA OFFERS TO RELEASE TWO AMERICANS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6. (INS)—Communist North Korea agreed today to release next Saturday night two American officials of the Economic co-operation administration who disappeared several months ago.

The Korean Reds specified, however, that the U. S. embassy in South Korea must pick up the men at a special place, Yokyon Station, on the dividing line between North and South Korea at 9 p. m. (CST). This is 11 a. m. Sunday, Dec. 11, Korean time.

The Americans, Albert Willis of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Alfred Meschter of Kinderhook, N. Y., disappeared several months ago when a South Korean ECA vessel unexpectedly put into a North Korean port.

The United States previously asked Russia to intervene with the North Korean peoples republic to arrange the release of the two ECA representatives.

The release offer was broadcast over radio Pyongyang from the North Korean capital. It said the ministry of foreign affairs was willing to return the two men providing the U. S. embassy at Seoul would pick them up at Yokyon Station at 11 a. m. Dec. 11.

Yokyon station is on the 38th parallel, dividing line between North and South Korea. The radio message said U. S. embassy representatives must bring a power of attorney with them.

Red Army Units

had been checked on another approach—near Suining, 90 miles to the east.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek talked with the defender of Chengtu, his old friend, Gen. Hu Tsung-Nan.

Trustworthy private reports said Hu had extricated the bulk of his army—the best equipped in the Nationalist camp—from a potential death trap north of fallen Chungking.

Waited In Vain

The army had been in the Chin Ling mountains awaiting the expected blow at Chungking from the north, a blow that never came.

General Hu's army never has been seriously tested in battle, either during the war with Japan or the struggle with the Communists.

The Nationalists denied as completely without foundation reports that the Communists had seized Suining and Neikiang, about 100 miles southeast of Chengtu on the road to Chungking.

A report from Gen. Yang Sen, whose headquarters are at Suining, asserted the situation near the city had been stabilized. Yang commands in eastern Szechwan province.

War Claimed About Over

(The Communist radio in Peiping quoted Red leader Mao Tze-Tung as saying the civil war was about over. Mao issued a directive to the troops to engage in agriculture and industrial work in their spare time.

(Red troops were nearing the border of Yunnan province in China's southwest corner. Press reports to Hong Kong said provincial army units mutinied at Yuku, 30 miles south of Kunming, the capital.

(The size of the mutiny was not given. It reflects, however, reports of wavering and restlessness in Yunnan as the Communists approach.)

On the political front, there was clamor from politicians for Chiang to take over the presidency now that Acting President Li Tsung-Jen has gone to the United States. (Li dispatched final orders to Chengtu before he left Hong Kong emphasizing he considers himself still chief of the government.)

Fear of looting, arson and other violence seized the 750,000 populace of Chengtu as the Reds neared the city.

early date as to what party he really belongs to and whether he is or is not receptive to suggestions he be a (presidential) candidate."

Eisenhower, who is now president of Columbia university, said prior to the 1948 presidential conventions that he was not a candidate for the White House.

Party Ties Secret

However, he never has disclosed his political affiliation. His silence in this respect led members of both parties to boom him as a presidential candidate at one time or another.

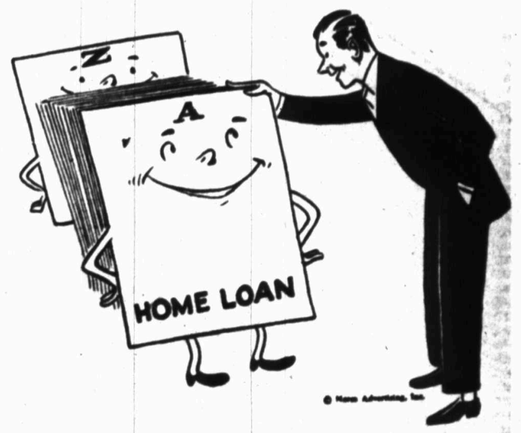

Predictions by Democratic leaders that President Truman will be a candidate to succeed himself in 1952 currently has killed off talk of "Ike" running on the Democratic ticket.

But the former Army chief of staff still figures prominently in GOP speculation.

Butler predicted that Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) will win the GOP presidential nomination in 1952. Butler said:

"I think I will have an opportunity to vote for Taft for President in 1952."

He said, however, that if Sen. Wherry (R-Neb), should seek the GOP nomination, "I would be strong for him."

INCREASED DEMAND REPORTED

Christmas Turkeys Expected To Be Higher Than At Thanksgiving

FORT WORTH, Dec. 6. (AP)—Your Christmas turkey is going to cost more than the one you sat down to at Thanksgiving.

Disease, a smaller crop and demand for the birds have combined to boost prices. Quality, however, is reported better.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture reported today the market has hit a "very firm tone."

The department said the market is so good that it is releasing for sale frozen turkeys it bought before Thanksgiving in a price support move.

Disease Reduces Flocks

Wholesale prices on the Fort Worth market ranged from 36 cents to 38 cents for No. 1 young hens and 26 cents to 28 cents for smaller birds. Old toms ranged 10 to 12 cents lower.

Disease struck Brownwood's turkey crop a hard blow. It was estimated one-third to two-thirds of the big flocks died in the early season. Birds on hand, however, were reported of extra quality. Heavy toms were bringing 26 cents a pound, light toms 28 cents and hens 36 and 37 cents.

Ballinger also reported a lighter crop than in previous years. About three thousand birds were ready for the Christmas trade. Prices ranged from 23 cents for toms to 33 cents for hens.

Brady reported a good crop of quality birds. More turkeys were being marketed than at Thanksgiving. No. 1 toms were bringing 25 cents a pound and No. 1 hens 35 cents.

Cuero, which calls itself the turkey capital, also reported turkeys still plentiful. It was estimated that from 25 per cent to 45 per cent of a 150,000-bird crop is yet to be marketed. No. 1 hens were bringing 35 cents, a cent higher than at Thanksgiving. No. 1 toms were selling for 25 cents. The birds were reported better than those marketed at Thanksgiving.

Generous Residents Of Dallas To Build Home For Family

DALLAS, Dec. 6 (AP)—A home for Christmas—that's what they want for a widow and her seven children now living in a floorless shack on a muddy lot near Lancaster.

"They" are the people in Dallas and Lancaster who heard about the gallant widow and her struggles since her husband died recently in Lisbon veterans hospital.

Mrs. Helen Doughtery and her husband had been building the shack themselves but hadn't gotten a floor in until he had to go to the hospital with a brain tumor. Their seven children ranged in age from 10 years to 21 months.

"It's just a shanty, not even worth putting a floor in," Justice of the Peace W. E. Richburg said. He's one of the Dallas citizens who heard about the widow's struggles and pitched in voluntary to help.

"And the thing about it all is that she's been trying to make it all right by herself, hasn't gone around asking anybody for help.

"We're going to build that woman and her children a new home. Gonna get it up by Christmas. We've got the labor donated, the wiring, some of the lumber and the rest at half cost. She's going to have a home."

And Mrs. Doughtery—when the help started coming all she could say was: "A floor—that would be the best Christmas we could imagine."

Postal Receipts Here Reach All-Time High

Postal receipts in Lubbock during November totaled $59,331.62 and set an all-time record for November in the city, Postmaster Amos H. Howard has announced.

The figure compared with $49,655.97 in November last year and $43,704.44 in November of 1947.

Postal receipts for the first 11 months of this year have totaled $603,611.11, compared to $523,820.80 in the corresponding period last year.

Receipts for November were not the largest of any month of the year. Receipts in October totaled $67,190.76.

December is the heaviest mailing period of the year and the postoffice is preparing for the Christmas mailing rush.

The record during November was in keeping with a new record set in the state for November receipts. The increase in Lubbock over the corresponding period of the previous year is normal, since Lubbock's receipts increase from year to year. That has been attributed to increase in population and also to the fact Lubbock is a "white spot" on the business maps and receives a large amount of mail for that reason.

Houston Police Move To Check Violence In Airways Cab Strike

HOUSTON, Dec. 6 (AP) — Special police protection was ordered today at the Municipal airport and downtown hotels after violence flared last night in a three month old strike of Airways limousine service drivers.

One airport limousine was turned over in front of the downtown Rice hotel, and four non-union employes of the company told police they were beaten. A fire of unknown origin caused minor damage to a limousine at the Municipal airport.

Police Chief B. W. Payne said extra police have been stationed at the airport and at hotels where passengers are discharged. Patrol cars, he said, will be on the lookout for trouble while the vehicles are enroute to and from the airport.

A 40-year-old taxicab driver is being held for questioning. He was arrested at the site where the limousine was overturned.

AFL drivers for the service went on strike three months ago, demanding a pay hike and working hours adjustments. The company began operating with non-union employes several weeks ago.

Employes who said they were beaten were Gene F. Martin, 22, W. E. Lasater, 37, A. D. Cole, 35, and W. C. Vinson, 35.

Lasater and Martin said they were waiting at the airport when 10 men charged them and began beating them. They said Cole and Vinson arrived during the fight and also were attacked.

Martin said a similar number of men later beat and stomped him as he was unloading baggage at the Rice.

The origin of coffee is uncertain, but one story is that it was first made in Abyssinia about 875 A. D.

Henderson Publisher Dies After Long Newspaper Career

HENDERSON, Dec. 6 (AP)—D. R. Harris, 78, of Henderson, pioneer publisher and former president of the Texas Press association, died today. He had been in ill health several months but only recently did his condition become critical.

Harris had been in the printing and publishing business 68 years.

He started with a weekly when he was 11 years old as a printer's devil. He became editor and business manager of the paper when he was 19. Two years later, in 1882, he acquired the Rusk County News.

In 1931, with the discovery of the East Texas oil field, he established the Henderson Daily News with George Bowman, Cleburne, his partner.

He was the last of four brothers who were all identified in publishing and printing business.

He was mayor of Henderson for 10 years. For 50 years he had been a member of the board of stewards of the First Methodist church. He also had served on the Henderson school board many terms.

Two Air Force Men Charged In Texas Filling Station Robbery

WICHITA FALLS, Dec. 6. (AP)—Felony charges of armed robbery were filed against two teen-age Air Force men here today by Assistant District Attorney George Anderson.

Charged in Justice of the Peace C. B. McConnell's court were Pvt. Richard M. Nelson, 16, and Robert D. Rodenwald, 19. The pair are accused of robbing a Wichita Falls filling station attendant of about $95 and striking the man with a blackjack.

Police recovered most of the money today along with the blackjack and a pistol believed used in the robbery.

Air Force investigators arrested the two.

Nelson and Rodenwald were held in the Wichita Falls city jail tonight. No bond has been set.

Lubbock Stores Report Sharp Hike In Credit Buying

Editorial Comics Classified Section 2

"Start the Day on the South Plains"

LUBBOCK MORNING AVALANCHE

Lubbock, Texas, Wednesday, December 7, 1949

FIRE-HOUSE BURNS—A blaze believed to have started in an overheated stove sweeps the Albion, Pa., fire hall. Flames from the night-time fire destroyed the building and badly damaged two others. (AP Wirephoto.)

Christmas Rush Picks Up Speed

Old St. Nick's Christmas bag will be filled to capacity when he arrives on the South Plains this Christmas, but most of its contents won't be paid for at the time, a survey of Lubbock business establishments has indicated.

A sharp increase in credit buying and a tendency of consumers to spend money before they get it, are straws in the wind that show money isn't quite so plentiful even though 1949 will be close to a record-breaking Christmas on the South Plains.

Credit Buying Soars

Credit managers of Lubbock department stores report noticeable increases in credit buying. This is confirmed by Mrs. Gladys Workman, manager of Retail Merchants associaton, who says a gradual increase in credit investigations to the point where her office is handling 30 to 40 per cent more volume than last year at this time.

With the larger volume of credit business is coming a larger number of credit defaults, "bad" checks and even counterfeit money.

Bankers say they are talking to more people about small loans in the $50 to $100 category, but banks are cautious about making "unsecured personal loans" and it is doubtful that the dollar volume of loans has been affected by the pre-Christmas season.

Few More Notes Taken

A few more co-signed notes are being taken for Christmas shopping purposes, but scarcely anyone is mortgaging property or automobiles to get Christmas shopping funds, bankers say.

B. Watkins, credit manager of Dunlap's department store, is one of numerous Lubbock executives who closely observe buying trends. He has noticed that even in "soft goods," meaning suits, dresses and the like, there has been a marked increase in long-term installment buying..

Some stores, for example, will take one-third down on ready-to-wear and other soft goods, and accept payment for the balance on three-months installments without carrying charges, or up to six months with carrying charges.

For a number of years there had been little if any demand for that type of credit on soft goods.

In the appliance field, refrigerators, radios, kitchen ranges and automatic washing machines may be hung on the Christmas tree with smaller down payments than at any time since the mid-30's.

Many dealers are offering those appliances — and others — at $5 down for anything costing up to $200, for $10 down on anything above $200; last year at this season

TEC Finds Area Labor Surplus

More persons are now seeking jobs in Lubbock than there are jobs open, and while the situation is not "alarming" yet, it is definitely a matter of concern for the next two to three months, the Texas Employment commission has announced.

Following an acute shortage of farm laborers in the early fall, a point of balance in labor supply and demand was reached about Nov. 11 and the surplus of labor has been gradually increasing in nine counties around Lubbock since that time.

Applications Increase

By way of example, B. T. O'Connell, manager of the Lubbock office, explained that on Nov. 7 there were 190 applications for work here, with 60 so-called "new" applications, and a month later, on Dec. 5, the number of applicants had increased to 395, with 60 new applications.

This widespread unemployment is partly seasonal and will unquestionably resolve itself in the early spring. However, there may be some discomfort or distress between now and early 1950, the experts believe.

Immediate relief in the non-agricultural labor field is seen in additional hiring of Christmas sales personnel by local firms. This hiring has not yet reached its peak.

Post Office To Help

Similarly ,the Lubbock Post Office will help considerably by hiring large numbers of workers temporarily to help with the huge volume of Christmas mail.

In the agricultural field, the main relief will come from the departure of transient workers, many of whom have already begun their exodus, according to Vernon L. O'Ferrell, farm placement manager of the TEC.

Workers from the Rio Grande Valley and Laredo are being sent back to that area, where a shortage of workers exists during the harvest of the citrus, radish, tomato, green bean and spinach crops. It is estimated that the 79,000 farm workers who have been in the nine counties around Lubbock this harvest season, 66 per cent of them are from the valley, Central and South Texas.

Twenty-five per cent of the 79,000 were estimated to be native Texans who work seasonally in OPERA STARS RELAX—Stars of the operatic production, "La Traviata," which will be presented at 8:15 o'clock tonight in Senior High school auditorium under the auspices of the American Legion, relax backstage before one of their performances. They are from left to right: John DeMerchant, who plays the role of Germont; Elvira Helal, who sings the main role of Violetta, and Frank Eckhart, who has the role of Alfredo in the opera.

'La Traviata' To Be Presented Tonight

First Of Two Operas Slated Here Tonight

"La Traviata," the first of two operas to be presented in Senior High auditorium under the sponsorship of Allen Bros. American Legion post here will start at 8:15 o'clock tonight. The other opera, "Carmen," will be staged at the same time Thursday night.

Elvira Helal will fill the role of Violetta in "La Traviata."

Leonora Corona, dramatic soprano and leading star of the Boston Grand Opera company, will play the title role in "Carmen" instead of Lilli Valli as originally scheduled.

Announcement that Miss Corona would appear in the roll here came as a surprise Tuesday. The manager of the Boston Grand opera notified Floyd Lebow, finance officer of the Legion, from Amarillo that Miss Corona, a native of Dallas, would make her initial Texas appearance when the curtain goes up Thursday night.

She has appeared with the Metropolitan opera and has been billed as the most beautiful star on the operatic stage today. She is the youngest singer from Texas to star in the Metropolitan opera and the La Scala in Milan.

The opera company arrived in Lubbock late Tuesday.

With three singers prepared for the leading roles, the casts vary during the southwestern tour of the opera company. Miss Corona did not appear in New Mexico engagements last week but rested for appearances in Texas, the manager said.

Miss Corona gives a different impression of Carmen to that given by many singers appearing in the role. Believing Carmen to be traditionally accepted as a "low-class" heroine, she seeks to capture loyalty and true love of Carmen for the Toreador in her portrayal of the role. Referring to her portrayal of Carmen, she once said, "I will die with Escamillo's name on my lips."

Role of Escamillo, the Toreador,

Area Farm Road Projects Slated

Bids on highway jobs that will total nearly $6 million and include work in Hale, Swisher, Cottle, Andrews, Martin and Gaines counties, will be opened here Dec. 13-14, the State Highway commission announced Tuesday, according to the Associated Press.

The commission will study offers on work including 290 miles of highways and structures.

Farm roads included in the bidding will total 238 miles to cost around $2,452,500. Federal aid highways on which bids will be taken will cost around $2,956,800 for urban and primary routes, and around $788,700 for secondary highways.

Work On Four Roads Set

Work in Hale and Swisher counties will be on farm roads 594, 1071, 1070, 145, 20.61 miles grading, structures, stabilized foundation course, prime coat and base preservative from U. S. to two miles west of Halfway, 8.8 miles south to Cotton Center road; from Farm 594, five miles south of U. S. 70 west two miles to road intersection; from the nine miles west of U. S. 87 at Kress, four miles east to county road intersection; from 11 miles west of U. S. 87 at Kress, two miles east to county road intersection.

Work in Cottle county will be on farm 1038 and 1037, 10.37 miles grading, structures, flexible base and single asphalt surface from U. S. 83 in Paducah southeast to Saltcreek school and from end of pavement on Baccus street in Paducah west to U. S. 70.

In Andrews, Martin and Gaines counties, work will be on Farm 703, grading, structures, flexible base and double asphalt surface from farm 87 east of Andrews northwest to Dawson county line.

Texas Man Fatally Injured In Railway Crossing Mishap

LEONARD, Dec. 6 (AP)—B. J. Giles of the Tidwell community, near Greenville, was killed today when his car and a Missouri-Kansas-Texas passenger train crashed at a crossing two miles south of here.

The accident occurred about 10:30 a. m. at the Prairie Hill crossing. The highway view is good in both directions.

Giles was thrown from the car by the impact. His '41 Ford was slammed against a telephone pole and demolished.

Carr Explains Hoover Report

County Attorney Waggoner Carr urged members of the Hub City Kiwanis club to push passage of the Hoover Commission report, in an informative speech during their noon luncheon at the Lubbock hotel Tuesday.

"The two-million word report now before the Congress is not designed to cut any of the services we are getting from the federal government," explained Carr, "but will eliminate only waste and duplication."

Taxes Are High

He said the government could save three billion dollars a year by cutting red tape with the methods prescribed in the report.

"Approximately a third of our salary goes for taxes throughout the year," he said, pointing out that Lubbockites pay hidden taxes on almost everything they buy, from automobiles and homes to cigarets and bread.

For example, Carr said that the Department of Agriculture could lop off 80 million dollars per year from its budget and lose nothing but some red tape. "Government waste makes a five-cent pencil cost the taxpayer $10, by the time it is purchased through requisition and red tape," he revealed.

Report Available

He said that the library of Texas Technological college had pamphlets explaining the report for those who care to study its provisions.

Carr urged members to let their congressmen know that they are behind passage of the commission report. Members had an informal discussion after the talk.

Jason O. Gordon, president of the club, was back from a Kiwanis Midwinter conference at Fort Worth. George Wilson introduced Carr, Prof. Howard Golden offered the invocation.

Miss Amelia Anthony, founder of Girl's oTwn, who was scheduled on the program today, could not be present because one of her girls is suffering from poliomyelitis in a Fort Worth hospital.

Texas Hygiene Officer To Speak At Lubbock County Group Meet

Mrs. Elizabeth Gardner of Austin, executive secrgtary of the Texas Society of Mental hygiene, will speak at a meeting of the Lubbock County Society for Mental hygiene at 7:30 p. m. today, in the parlor of the First Christian church, Dr. Travis White, acting chairman of the society, said.

The meeting will be open to anyone wishing to attend.

Dr. White said plans have been completed for a six weeks' series of lectures to be given in January and February by Dr. R. K O'Laughlin, psychiatrist at Lubbock memorial hospital.

DONATIONS FAR BELOW NEEDS

Tech Ex-Students Association Reported In Financial Straits

By KENNETH MAY
Avalanche Staff Writer

Possibility that the Texas Tech Ex-Students' association may fold up unless additional contributions are received to the Loyalty fund was hinted Tuesday by D. M. McElroy, executive-secretary for the organization.

He said that less than half enough money has been received for the past two years to operate the association.

"Only 928 alumni have donated to the Loyalty fund this year," he cited, "Out of of over 11,000 ex-students."

Quoting figures from a bulletin of the American Alumni council, the secretary said that only 21 colleges out of 141 had a smaller percentage of contributors to their ex-students' chapters. Of those 21, a larger amount of money was reported by 17.

The 141 schools used for comparisons are all those in the AAC operating their alumni associations on a donation basis and not carrying on capital gift campaigns last year. There were 19 of the schools which reported a smaller amount of money than Tech, but 17 of those are "considerably smaller" institutions, McElroy said.

Begun in its present form a little over two years ago, the Tech association was originally endowed with $18,000. That original fund plus the approximate $7,000 do[illegible] per has been almost completely depleted, the secretary asserted.

"It takes $14,000 a year to operate the association," McElroy pointed out "including the salary of three workers, office maintenance, printing and mailing of the Ex-Students News and other data and publications, and Homecoming activities."

Comparing Tech with the Texas school nearest its size, McElroy said that 4½ per cent more exes of Texas A. and M. donated to their Alumni organization last year than did Tech's. The amount given was over 10 times as much. Since A. and M. is a much older school it reaches about twice as many alumni as does Tech, he said.

The Tech Loyalty fund is oper-

DEFENSE GAINS MINOR VICTORY

Verbal Fireworks Flare Again In Perjury Trial Of Bridges

BY CONSTANCE HITCHCOCK
INS Staff Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 6.—The defense in the Harry Bridges perjury trial won a minor victory today but it apparently did not produce the desired results.

Defense Attorney James Martin MacInnis had hoped to impeach the testimony of government witness Henry Schrimpf, an ex-Communist longshoreman called to support the government's charge Bridges lied when he swore in 1945 he had never been a member of the Communist party.

Judge Overrules Attorney

MacInnis had charged that records of Schrimpf's own naturalization in 1943 would show he falsely testified he had never been a Communist. The government had objected violently to this attack and late in the day Federal Judge George B. Harris ruled in favor of the prosecution.

Then, without warning, associate prosecutor William F. Paisley reversed his position and handed Schrimpf's application for citizenship over to the defense.

The application, which made no mention of the witness' admitted membership in the party, was read to the court. Schrimpf, himself, suddenly interrupted to say:

"They also asked me orally if I was a Fascist, Communist or a member of any group that advocated violent overthrow of the government."

1934 Strike Recalled

He said that he had testified that he was not a member of such a group at that time. In earlier testimony Schrimpf had said he saw Bridges at Communist meetings during the days of the bloody 1934 waterfront strike in San Francisco.

Chief Prosecutor F. Joseph Donohue said that the only reason he could think of for the absence of such a question in the application form was that the government was using obsolete blanks.

Prior to this action, MacInnis, attempted to show Schrimpf hated Bridges, forced the witness to admit he had called the heads of the longshoremen union "lousy slimy politicians."

Schrimpf said the statement could apply to Bridges and added:

"Bridges told the membership I was getting $10,000 a year from the shipowners." MacInnis jabbed:

"How much were you getting?"

Witness Roars Denial

Schrimpf, a bull-necked, barrel-chested waterfront walking boss, roared an angry denial. Judge Harris, himself, interrupted his outburst to ask:

"Were you given anything?"

The witness again denied the charge but this time he was more calm.

Tempers also flared earlier in the day when Schrimpf refused to budge from his testimony that all "important issues" in the 1934 strike were "passed at meetings of the Communist party."

Schrimpf, a relatively minor witness called to support the charge Bridges lied when he swore in 1945 he was not a Communist, roared angrily when MacInnis pressed him about details of his testimony. The witness shouted:

"Are you asking me to put the same words verbatim that I said before?" Glaring at the attorney before him, Schrimpf went on:

"If the intent of your questions is to make me give verbatim answers, I haven't that kind of memory. I haven't got no crystal ball up here to tell me just exactly what words I used before."

The proceedings were also marked by a sharp exchange between MacInnis and Judge Harris who scolded the attorney in a dispute over a point of evidence.

MacInnis was successful, however, in drawing from the witness admissions that the longshoremen selected their own dock leaders during the prolonged and bitter strike.

Schrimpf also admitted that the strike terms were approved by the waterfront workers without Communist dictation and that a legal defense committee and a joint maritime strike committee did not have Communist members.

He insisted however, that the Communist party made its policy effective in other ways.

Lindbergh To Receive Award For Service To U.S. Aviation

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6. (AP) — Charles A. Lindbergh will get an award this month for "significant public service of enduring value to aviation in the United States."

The National Aeronautics association said Lindbergh will get the Wright Brothers memorial trophy at a dinner Dec. 17 sponsored by the Aero club of Washington.

He was picked for the honor by a group of aviation leaders who listed his achievements from the time he crossed the Atlantic in "The Spirit of St. Louis," through his service to the Air Force in World War II, and up to his present secret activity as a special consultant to the Air Force chief of staff.

Byrnes Urged As Head Of New North-South Conservative Bloc

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6. (AP)— A suggestion that James F. Byrnes take over leadership of "the North-South conservative coalition" came today from Americans for Democratic Action (ADA), a group on the other side of the political line-up.

Byrnes, who has served as a senator from South Carolina, Supreme court justice and secretary of state, has been critical of the Truman administration for months.

Charles M. La Follette, former Republican member of the House from Indiana who now is national director of the ADA, made its proposal. The ADA is a political organization including a number of persons who were active in the Roosevelt New Deal and, La Follette said, is based on "liberal principles."

More Nations Swing Into Line To Recognize China Communists

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
Associated Press Staff Writer

Despite U.S. reluctance, the ball of recognition for Communist China is rolling along.

Notice that Burma will establish relations with the Peiping regime follows by a day the word from Prime Minister Nehru that India cannot delay much longer. Reports from Britain say that she will do so next month.

U.S. Decision Urgent

That is expected to break the dam throughout the former British world, making the American decision more and more urgent.

Nehru was friendly enough during his recent visit to the United States to get himself denounced by Pravda, but he has recently voiced an attitude toward the Chinese Communists which typifies the difference between American and Oriental thinking on the subject.

He described Communism in China as part of the many ways in which Asia is working toward independence and democracy. He says the Peiping regime is Communist all right, but that it is working within the framework of Chinese conditions and setting up a mixed economy which is neither Communist, Socialist, nor yet Capitalistic.

That economy business is what is working on all the countries. In the case of a country like Burma, the government may also have in mind appeasement to prevent invasion.

The United States is still involved in its relations with the Nationalist government. Switching away from a former ally is not pleasant, especially under pressure. Washington would rather not do so as long as the Nationalists control an important segment of China. Their enclave still encompasses perhaps something less than 100,000,000 people.

If the Nationalists could stabilize their lines at any point and give any appearance of permanent tenure, there is at least a possibility that they would receive American help in holding on.

There seems to be a good chance, however, that the U.S. will yet be forced to compromise between its present balancing act and the importance of maintaining a solid front with Britain and the as-yet non-Communist but not anti-Communist countries of the east.

Wide-scale smuggling of contraband merchandise into Colombia has brought new and severe penal measures, imposed in an effort to halt such operations.

RAFB Commanding Officer Is Speaker At Lions Club Meet

"Our relations with the community have been excellent and our people are very happy in Lubbock," Col. Geo. W. Pardy, commanding officer of Reese Air Force Base, declared in an informal talk, preceding the showing of an Air Force motion picture at the luncheon of the Lubbock Lions club at the Hilton hotel Tuesday.

"I was a little afraid some of our people would be unhappy here after serving at Barksdale, a fine permanent base," Col. Pardy said, "but everything seems to be going along fine. You've come across handsomely in the matter of housing.

Auxiliary Field Problem

"Our only problem is this one regarding use of your municipal airport as an auxiliary field," the commanding officer said. He declared that unless some sort of plan can be worked out for use of the field, training capacity of the base would be appreciably reduced.

He extended an invitation to the Lions to attend the open house scheduled for Jan. 22.

"Send your children out to see us," he said. "One of these days in the future we're going to stage a kids' day and we want them all to come out and see us," Col. Pardy said.

He was introduced by Jim Crook. Two new Lions, Ray Burkhardt and Jack Whitley, were introduced. Out-of-town visitors at the luncheon included: M. Hubter, Dallas; E. A. Deering, Wolfforth; Wm. H. Stern, Gary, Ind., Eddie Edwards, Los Angeles; and Tom Crooks, San Antonio.

Aldrich Funeral Services Are Scheduled Here Today

Funeral services for Roy A. Aldrich, 30, of 505 Hub Homes, who took his own life after shooting his estranged wife to death Sunday, will be held at 3 p.m., today, in the McDonald Funeral Home chapel.

The Rev. Floyd Dawson, pastor of the Four-Square Gospel church, will officiate, with burial to be in Tech Memorial park under the direction of the McDonald Funeral home.

Pallbearers will be Joe D. and H. L. Phares, W. D. Wilkins, Dayne Ledford, Gale Adams, and Floyd McCall.

Services for his wife, Mrs. Velma Louise Aldrich, 23, of 210 Hub Homes, were held Tuesday in the Rix chapel, with burial in Tech Memorial park.

Verdicts of murder and suicide in the double death were rendered Monday by Lubbock Justices of the Peace C. E. Lynn and D. W. Robertson.

Sales Here Reflect National Pattern

Religious Theme Increase Noted On Christmas Cards

The manger scene, churches, angels, shepherds and other religious scenes decorate Christmas cards this year to greater extent than ever before.

Checks with five greeting card salesmen in Lubbock indicated that greetings in the religious theme, which are leading nationally, are available in greater numbers and are being sold in greater numbers and that fewer modernistic cards are available even in cards that do not emphasize the religious theme.

The survey indicated cards in the religious theme still represent a small part of the total cards sold.

Religious Christmas cards have been gaining steadily in public favor since early in World war II and this year are on top for the first time in greeting card history, the Associated Press reported. National estimates place at 300,000,000 the number of religious greetings that will be exchanged this Christmas.

Nationally, floral cords are rated second; outdoor winter scenes, third, and cards decorated with dren and candles, runners-up.

One Lubbock resident who sells numerous cards expressed disappointment that she received fewer orders for cards in the religious theme than other cards, but said she had sold more religious cards than in previous years and had particularly noted choice of such cards by persons who had not previously chosen them.

She said red and green cards bearing a variety of symbols seem to attract interest. She had noted that green and red are emphasized, but not blue, yellow, pink or brown as in some years when more modernistic cards have been available.

In one book store, it was said that cards decorated with poinsettias, Santa Claus, bells, reindeer and sleds have led.

One greeting card salesman said, "So many like bright cards" and that cards with music across the front are popular. "Anything that has a carol on it is popular," she said. Numerous cards decorated with portions of carols or with choir boys are being shown.

Such cards emphasize the religious theme in varying degrees. One folder showing choir boys singing contained the following verse: "May He for whom the angels sing, And wise men journeyed long, Bless your Christmastide with joy, And fill your heart with song."

Salesmen said they have little success in selling humorous cards, except in children's greeting cards.

One salesman from whose counter thousands of cards have been sold said, "One day, we have a run on religious cards. The next day you couldn't sell a religious card." She said more elderly persons than young persons have chosen cards in the religious theme at that counter.

She added that the biggest selling group of cards is the lower priced group and that she finds customers "more price conscious this year than last."

One clerk said assorted religious cards are available by boxes this year for the first time in that store and that more religious cards have been sold this year than last year.

DOCTORS FACE ANNUAL LEVY

AMA Trustees Urge New Plan To Fight Socialized Medicine

By FELIX COTTEN
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 — American Medical association trustees called today for a mandatory levy on its members of $3.5 million annually for an unprecedented, all-out battle against "socialized medicine."

Dr. Ernest E. Irons, AMA president, told the organization's 191-member house of delegates that the administration is making a new attempt to "nationalize medicine."

Dr. Irons charged the administration with "sending a bureaucratic mission to Europe at taxpayers' expense for a renewed assault on medicine and free enterprise" and warned that "the administration has not surrendered."

$25 Annual Dues Planned

The proposed dues program would collect $25 a year from each of the AMA's 145,000 active members, with a penalty of membership forfeiture if payment is not made within 30 days.

The proposal came soon after the assembled doctors chose an 85-year-old country physician, Dr. Andy Hall of Mt. Vernon, Ill., as the "outstanding general practitioner of the year."

Dr. Hall, the father of three sons practicing medicine, was selected over Dr. Lyle Hare of Spearfish, S. D., and Dr. Thomas Edward Rhine of Thornton, Ark., for the honor.

Drug Experiments Urged

Those two events highlighted the second day's program of the third annual AMA clinical session which included:

1. A declaration by Dr. Austin Smith, AMA's chief scientific spokesman, that there should be further "controlled" experiments with the drug counter anti-histamines before the public generally accepts the cold remedies.

Dr. Smith, who succeeded Dr. Morris Fishbein as editor of the AMA Journal, said the drugs arouse "drowsiness" and warned that persons using them should stay home from work and not drive their cars.

2. A Telecast, in color, of a "blue baby" operation performed at Johns Hopkins hospital in Baltimore on 10-year-old Joney Larrimore of Labor's Finey, N. C. It was the first time an operation was color televised from one city to another.

In physician's opinion, the technique will eventually eliminate the surgical amphitheater because the color picture gives a much better view. The surgeon was Dr. William Scott, jr.

3. An assertion by Dr. Elliott P. Joslin of Boston that the life span of diabetics has trebled over the past 50 years with a prospect of a further doubling of life in the next 50. The nationally-known diabetes specialist warned, however, that diabetics should be kept "constantly under observation."

4. A report that a large number of patients suffering nervous system disorders can be rehabilitated through retraining programs instead of being "allowed to become complete invalids."

5. A report by the trustees that Dr. Fishbein's retirement at an "adequate lifetime remuneration" was officially accepted.

Young was brought here from New Braunfels for questioning.

War Prisoners Must Apply For Payments

Persons who were prisoners of war must file applications with the Texas adjutant general's office before Jan. 1 in order to be eligible for $1 a day compensation authorized by Congress, F. C. Rector, veterans employment representative of the Texas Employment commission, said Tuesday afternoon.

He said servicemen or their dependents or survivors, civilians and religious workers who were prisoners of war may be eligible for the compensation at the rate of $1 for each day they were imprisoned.

The procedure for application is to write the adjutant general's office, Austin. A printed form will then be sent for the applicant to fill out.

Holiday Sales At High Level Here

20 per cent down was required.

One leading department store has tried a new merchandising tactic which executives say is paying off in a satisfactory manner.

Service For Veterans

The store has advertised that veterans due to get insurance rebates from National Service Life Insurance, may make purchases against it now, and pay when the check comes, without carrying charges or penalties. The usual good-credit risk requirements are made, of course.

It is believed that there are 200,000 veterans in 79 West Texas counties who will receive insurance rebate checks averaging $173, although the checks will range from 94 cents to $500.

That would indicate that Uncle Sam is going to pass out $35,000,000 in insurance rebates in West Texas, a sum that should be of considerable help to those veterans in clearing their Christmas indebtedness.

At Hemphill-Wells company, W. T. Fain, manager, has noticed several interesting trends in this year's Christmas shopping.

Proportion Is Reversed

Last year the buying was 45 per cent credit-buying as compared with 55 per cent cash sales. This year the proportion has reversed, with 55 per cent credit sales as against 45 per cent cash sales.

Stores that employ the 30 or 60-day open charge account system report increasing numbers of applications for accounts.

Here's an interesting trend which many Lubbock merchants have observed: While the year in general has been 5 to 10 per cent under last year in retail sales, the first few days of December have shown at least a 10 per cent increase over the corresponding period last year.

W. C. O'Mara, manager of Sears, Roebuck and company, says October and November were also heavier than last year.

Get More For Money

He points out that while the year's dollar volume of sales may be off it doesn't necessarily mean people are buying less. They are getting more for their money. There is a wider selection, and even Christmas shoppers have a choice between qualities and prices on similar items.

Last year's inventories were generally recovered from wartime shortages, and are even more complete this year, but a few last-minute shortages are expected, particularly in nylon products and steel products, even this year, merchants say.

Last Saturday was the largest day from the standpoint of dollar volume of sales in the history of the Sears store here, even including the shopping days during last year's record Christmas season.

Many merchants said Monday, Dollar Day, was the largest from the standpoint of dollar volume, they've experienced in recent years.

Jewelry Moves Rapidly

Jewelry in the under-$50 bracket is moving rapidly in Lubbock stores, despite the continued 20 per cent luxury tax. Furs and other expensive goods are also moving well although many of these items, too, are being purchased via the credit method.

Several merchants have noticed an increasing tendency of Lubbock shoppers to make Christmas purchases by mail or telephone, probably to avoid the downtown traffic jams. In connection with these and also with over-the-counter shopping, Lubbockites are taking advantage more and more of free wrapping and delivery services. Most stores like to do it that way, for it gives an air of finality to the sale and takes some of the pressure off gift-wrapping departments when the customer isn't standing on first one foot, then the other, waiting for the wrapped package.

Traffic Is Heavier

Downtown traffic has been heavier than in previous years, and parking is at more of a premium than ever before, partly due to the introduction of parallel parking generally since last Christmas.

Stores that have parking space are wishing they had four times as much. For several days Sears' huge 360-car parking lot has been filled to capacity from morning to night. Commercial parking lots find they are turning cars away increasingly from 9 a. m. on during the day. City bus traffic is heavy.

The Retail Merchants association has been swamped most of the year on credit investigations, particularly since large numbers of Reese Air Force base people have been purchasing all types of goods on credit. The rush has been intensified as hundreds of shoppers open new accounts to tide them over the holiday spending period.

Tech Ex-Students

ated on a strict donation basis and no dues are required for membership in the association. Exes are mailed the Ex-Students News free of charge whether they donated or not and free activities are furnished for those attending Homecoming each fall. Occasional large donations are thus tax free.

Lubbock Residents "Worse"

Alumni living in Lubbock fare even worse than others in percentage of contributions, the secretary said. He disclosed figures which showed that only 189 out of approximately 2,500 alumni living in Lubbock have contributed this year. That is less than eight per cent, compared to an overall of nine per cent. The national average of contributions is 25 per cent, he said.

Persons graduating in the early years of Tech's history are the best contributors, according to McElroy. In contrast, he showed several drawers of mailing-list names with hardly a contribution marked.

"Many of our services will have to be either discontinued entirely or sharply reduced unless more of the exes send donations," he declared.

Besides its service to the alumni in keeping them posted of the growth of the college, the association was set up to promote scholarship and progress on the part of the college and to aid it in maintaining a high rating both athletically and scholastically throughout the nation. It offers several scholarships to "second generation students. Active members of local chapters throughout the state have been instrumental in persuading outstanding students to attend Tech.

Labor Surplus

Minnesota, Michigan, Nebraska, Montana, Ohio, Colorado and Washington state. These are the persons who will be likely to want to remain on the South Plains during the winter unless they are referred to other areas for work.

Another 12 per cent of the total farm labor supply consisted of local persons who unquestionably will remain in the area. Four per cent are Mexican nationals who are being returned to Mexico and the remaining 3 per cent are natives of California, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Minnesota and New Mexico who may also return to their respective homes.

The farm unemployment problem will be relieved to some extent this month as farmers hire their year-around labor for the coming season, O'Ferrell believes.

In the non-agricultural labor market, the unemployment is most acute in common labor and unskilled workers.

There is an adequate supply of salespersons and clerical help also, however. The construction trades are well employed, mainly to heavy volume of work on several large building projects which may expect to continue for several months.

Eddie Sawyer, placement manager of the TEC, has had "open orders" for non-agricultural workers which he has been unable to fill for months. "And now, suddenly, we have people to fill all our vacancies," he comments.

The TEC is more cautious and pessimistic in its labor market forecasts because of extremely bad weather during last January and February which caused considerable suffering and taxed relief agencies to the limit. If similar prolonged bad weather is experienced this year, the situation could become alarming, it is believed.

The Lubbock office of TEC oversees Lubbock, Hockley, Crosby, Cochran, Dickens, Garza, Kent, King and Stonewall counties.

Opera Star

will be filled by John De Merchant.

The cast for "La Traviata," in addition to Elviro Helal, is to include: Alfredo, Frederick Eckart; Germont, John De Merchant; Flora, Laureen Butlar; Dr. Grenville, Frank Ferrero; Baron Dauphol, Ricco Froelich; Gastone, Ross Hunt; Marquis, Paul Farber, and Annina, Jeanne Comfort.

Lebow said approximately 500 tickets had been sold for each of the two operas. He predicted a "near sell-out crowd" for each performance. He asked that persons who made reservations and have not received tickets call at the Legion hall to pick up tickets. Delivery of tickets has been attempted, he said, but in some cases Legion representatives were unable to find persons at home.

The box office at the high school is to open at 6 p.m. both nights, with tickets remaining on sale until that time at a booth being operated in Hilton hotel and at the Legion hall.

LEAVES FOR HOME

NEW YORK, Dec. 6 (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky sailed for home today, waving his hat and wishing "all the American people a happy new year." He had a smile for the newsreels as he boarded the liner America.

Switzerland's financial experts predict that no "tourist franc" will be created, but foresee some form of government aid to tourism as "unavoidable."

Holiday Sales At High Level Here

20 per cent down was required.

One leading department store has tried a new merchandising tactic which executives say is paying off in a satisfactory manner.

Service For Veterans

The store has advertised that veterans due to get insurance rebates from National Service Life Insurance may make purchases against it now, and pay when the check comes, without carrying charges or penalties. The usual good-credit risk requirements are made, of course.

It is believed that there are 200,000 veterans in 79 West Texas counties who will receive insurance rebate checks averaging $175, although the checks will range from 94 cents to $500.

That would indicate that Uncle Sam is going to pass out $35,000,000 in insurance rebates in West Texas, a sum that should be of considerable help to those veterans in clearing their Christmas indebtedness.

At Hemphill-Wells company, W. T. Fain, manager, has noticed several interesting trends in this year's Christmas shopping.

Proportion Is Reversed

Last year the buying was 45 per cent credit-buying as compared with 55 per cent cash sales. This year the proportion has reversed, with 55 per cent credit sales as against 45 per cent cash sales.

Stores that employ the 30 or 60-day open charge account system report increasing numbers of applications for accounts.

Here's an interesting trend which many Lubbock merchants have observed: While the year in general has been 5 to 10 per cent under last year in retail sales, the first few days of December have shown at least a 10 per cent increase over the corresponding period last year.

W. C. O'Mara, manager of Sears, Roebuck and company, says October and November were also heavier than last year.

Get More For Money

He points out that while the year's dollar volume of sales may be off it doesn't necessarily mean people are buying less. They are getting more for their money. There is a wider selection, and even Christmas shoppers have a choice between qualities and prices on similar items.

Last year's inventories were generally recovered from wartime shortages, and are even more complete this year, but a few last-minute shortages are expected, particularly in nylon products and steel products, even this year, merchants say.

Last Saturday was the largest day from the standpoint of dollar volume of sales in the history of the Sears store here, even including the shopping days during last year's record Christmas season.

Many merchants said Monday, Dollar Day, was the largest from the standpoint of dollar volume, they've experienced in recent years.

Jewelry Moves Rapidly

Jewelry in the under-$50 bracket is moving rapidly in Lubbock stores, despite the continued 20 per cent luxury tax. Furs and other expensive goods are also moving well although many of these items, too, are being purchased via the credit method.

Several merchants have noticed an increasing tendency of Lubbock shoppers to make Christmas purchases by mail or telephone, probably to avoid the downtown traffic jams. In connection with these and also with over-the-counter shopping, Lubbockites are taking advantage more and more of free wrapping and delivery services. Most stores like to do it that way, for it gives an air of finality to the sale and takes some of the pressure off gift-wrapping departments when the customer isn't standing on first one foot, then the other, waiting for the wrapped package.

Traffic Is Heavier

Downtown traffic has been heavier than in previous years, and parking is at more of a premium than ever before, partly due to the introduction of parallel parking generally since last Christmas.

Stores that have parking space are wishing they had four times as much. For several days Sears' huge 360-car parking lot has been filled to capacity from morning to night. Commercial parking lots find they are turning cars away increasingly from 9 a. m. on during the day. City bus traffic is heavy.

The Retail Merchants association has been swamped most of the year on credit investigations, particularly since large numbers of Reese Air Force base people have been purchasing all types of goods on credit. The rush has been intensified as hundreds of shoppers open new accounts to tide them over the holiday spending period.

Tech Ex-Students

ated on a strict donation basis and no dues are required for membership in the association. Exes are mailed the Ex-Students News free of charge whether they donated or not and free activities are furnished for those attending Homecoming each fall. Occasional large donations are thus tax free.

Lubbock Residents "Worse"

Alumni living in Lubbock fare even worse than others in percentage of contributions, the secretary said. He disclosed figures which showed that only 189 out of approximately 2,500 alumni living in Lubbock have contributed this year. That is less than eight per cent, compared to an overall of nine per cent. The national average of contributions is 25 per cent, he said.

Persons graduating in the early years of Tech's history are the best contributors, according to McElroy. In contrast, he showed several drawers of mailing-list names with hardly a contribution marked.

"Many of our services will have to be either discontinued entirely or sharply reduced unless more of the exes send donations," he declared.

Besides its service to the alumni in keeping them posted of the growth of the college, the association was set up to promote scholarship and progress on the part of the college and to aid it in maintaining a high rating both athletically and scholastically throughout the nation. It offers several scholarships to "second generation students. Active members of local chapters throughout the state have been instrumental in persuading outstanding students to attend Tech.

Labor Surplus

Minnesota, Michigan, Nebraska, Montana, Ohio, Colorado and Washington state. These are the persons who will be likely to want to remain on the South Plains during the winter unless they are referred to other areas for work.

Another 12 per cent of the total farm labor supply consisted of local persons who unquestionably will remain in the area. Four per cent are Mexican nationals who are being returned to Mexico and the remaining 3 per cent are natives of California, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Minnesota and New Mexico who may also return to their respective homes.

The farm unemployment problem will be relieved to some extent this month as farmers hire their year-around labor for the coming season, O'Ferrell believes.

In the non-agricultural labor market, the unemployment is most acute in common labor and unskilled workers.

There is an adequate supply of salespersons and clerical help also, however. The construction trades are well employed, mainly to heavy volume of work on several large building projects which may expect to continue for several months.

Eddie Sawyer, placement manager of the TEC, has had "open orders" for non-agricultural workers which he has been unable to fill for months. "And now, suddenly, we have people to fill all our vacancies," he comments.

The TEC is more cautious and pessimistic in its labor market forecasts because of extremely bad weather during last January and February which caused considerable suffering and taxed relief agencies to the limit. If similar prolonged bad weather is experienced this year, the situation could become alarming, it is believed.

The Lubbock office of TEC oversees Lubbock, Hockley, Crosby, Cochran, Dickens, Garza, Kent, King and Stonewall counties.

Opera Star

The cast for "La Traviata," in addition to Elviro Helal, is to include: Alfredo, Frederick Eckart; Germont, John De Merchant; Flora, Laureen Butlar; Dr. Grenville, Frank Ferrero; Baron Dauphol, Ricco Froelich; Gastone, Ross Hunt; Marquis, Paul Farber, and Annina, Jeanne Comfort.

Lebow said approximately 500 tickets had been sold for each of the two operas. He predicted a "near sell-out crowd" for each performance. He asked that persons who made reservations and have not received tickets call at the Legion hall to pick up tickets. Delivery of tickets has been attempted, he said, but in some cases Legion representatives were unable to find persons at home.

The box office at the high school is to open at 6 p.m. both nights, with tickets remaining on sale until that time at a booth being operated in Hilton hotel and at the Legion hall.

LEAVES FOR HOME

NEW YORK, Dec. 6 (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky sailed for home today, waving his hat and wishing "all the American people a happy new year." He had a smile for the newsreels as he boarded the liner America.

Switzerland's financial experts predict that no "tourist franc" will be created, but foresee some form of government aid to tourism as "unavoidable."

NEEDY FAMILIES TO BE AIDED

Salvation Army's Christmas Cheer Fund Climbs To $490

Captain W. Thomas Gregory, local Salvation Army commander, announced Tuesday night that the Salvation Army's Christmas Cheer Fund had grown to $490.

The money will be used to provide food baskets, Christmas dinners, toys, and other gifts that go to make the Christmas season a holiday.

Contributions are being received daily through the Army' kettles which are stationed on downtown street corners and through the mail.

In the meantime, applications are being accepted from interested friends who know of families and individuals who would be in need of such Christmas gratuities. Also, families are making application direct to the Army headquarters at 1112 Seventeenth.

Several dozen of the dolls which were purchased by the Salvation Army a few weeks ago have been dressed and returned to the Army. Women of the various home demonstration clubs in this area have undertaken to dress the dolls which will be presented to the less fortunate children in the community. Mrs. O. R. Copeland is chairman of the committee dressing the dolls.

Chest Okays Activities

Captain Gregory pointed out that the Christmas activities have the full approval of the Lubbock Community Chest since funds raised through the Chest's annual campaign provide for the year round service of the Salvation Army.

It is our hope to be able to provide for every needy family in the Lubbock area on Christmas day, Gregory said. Excellent co-operation has been received from various church groups and Girl Scout troops in clearing with the Army headquarters the names of families and children they will provide for. This eliminates a lot of duplication and will assure that every individual will be remembered on Christmas day, he added.

Rites To Be Held In Shamrock Today For Texas Tech Student

SHAMROCK, Dec. 6. (Special) — Funeral services for Edward Lee Briggs, 19-year-old Texas Tech freshman who was found shot to death Monday morning in the basement of the Shamrock First Methodist church, will be held at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday at the First Baptist church here.

Rev. S. N. Dunham will officiate and burial will be in Shamrock cemetery under the direction of the Clay Funeral home.

Justice of the Peace John Templeton is withholding a verdict for several days to gather additional information.

SERVICES ARE SET

HOUSTON, Dec. 6. (AP)—Funeral services will be held here tomorrow for Frank A Putnam, 82, poet and retired newspaperman and magazine editor. He died at his home here yesterday. Putnam formerly worked on newspapers in Houston, St. Louis and Chicago and at one time was editor of the National magazine at Boston.

Oil Men To Air Views On Industry Problems Before Congress

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6. (AP).—The 1950 session of Congress may be an important one to the country's oil industry.

Controversial proposals are pending or in prospect which would affect both independent operators and major companies.

Industry representatives are getting ready to air their views before Congressional committees.

The Treasury is reported to be studying the possibility of asking Congress to eliminate from tax laws provisions allowing oil and gas producers a 27½ percent reduction from gross income for depletition allowance, or to reduce the percentage.

"We have been told that the Treasury wants to reduce or knock out this allowance and I am sure the entire oil industry will oppose any change in the 27½ percent, as it has done in former years," an official of the Independent Petroleum Association of America told a reporter.

The indepedent operators, this official said, also will urge Congress to complete action next session on the controversial bill to prohibit the Federal Power commission from taking jurisdiction over production and gathering of natural gas or fixing price of gas before it is in interstate pipelines.

The bill, introduced by Rep. Harris (D.-Ark.), and others, passed the House this year.

Another major bill of interest to the independent producers is one by Sen. Elmer Thomas (D.-Okla.), and others to limit imports of oil and oil products to five percent of the domestic demand.

Asserting that imports are increasing and domestic production is being more and more curtailed, the independents again are urging action.

Rep. Gossett (D.-Tex.), has suggested the possibility of an import tax of $1 a barrel on oil.

AID TO GERMANY

HAMBURG (AP)—Since the end of the war every man, woman and child in the United Kingdom has contributed four pounds to the feeding and maintenance of the Germans, an official British report revealed. The report said that Britain has spent over 200,000,000 pounds since 1945.

Trinidad, British West Indies, is seeking foreign capital to develop its timber.

Gas Supply Is Secured For New Texas-Illinois Pipeline

CHICAGO, Dec. 6. (U.P.)—A minimum daily supply of 300,000,000 cubic feet of gas has been secured for a proposed new pipeline from Texas to the Chicago area, it was announced today.

James F. Oates, jr., chairman of the People's Gas, Light and Coke Co., said that an agreement was reached with Gulf Coast Northern Gas Co., of Tulsa, Okla., which will supply the gas.

In return, Oates said, the Tulsa company will receive a one half interest in the Texas Illinois Gas Pipeline Co., a subsidiary of People's Gas and Light which was organized to construct and operate the proposed $150,000,000 pipeline.

Oates said that the Illinois Pipe Co. will take over the assets of Gulf Coast Northern and that the Tulsa company will then be dissolved.

People's Gas & Light, according to Oates, has retained the right to appoint six directors of the pipeline company as against five to be appointed by the former stockholders of Gulf Coast Northern.

The new pipe line, the third serving this area, will be 30 inches in diameter and will run from the Rio Grande valley of Texas to Joliet, Ill., about 1,400 miles.

Oates estimated that the new pipeline might be in operation by 1951.

Peru now has a coco control monopoly.

CROCKETT MAN DIES

JUDGE VS. JURY

Each Has Its Field

IT IS NOT particularly unusual for presiding judges to criticize the verdicts of juries in criminal cases. Judges have been known to have disagreed so violently with a verdict they have barred the jurors involved from ever again serving in their courts.

An extreme example of a clash of opinions between judge and jury occurred in Philadelphia the other day, where an all-woman jury acquitted an accused slayer. The judge berated the jurors so severely, news accounts said, that several "burst into tears" and one fainted.

The personalities and issues in this case were not important except to those concerned. Possibly the jurors deserved rebuke.

But the question of the propriety of the judge in this or any case in going to extremes of criticism of a jury's verdict is important. The Philadelphia jury presumably returned the verdict it deemed proper. There was no suspicion of corruption, or bribery. The jurors apparently performed their duty as they saw it—exactly as they should have done.

It is not the duty of a judge in such cases to dictate the verdicts that juries shall render. He oversteps both the letter and the spirit of the law when he undertakes to do that. Yet the outburst of this Philadelphia judge, while not altering the particular case, might cause hesitancy among juries in future trials before him to return verdicts which, in their opinion, might arouse his wrath.

The judge in this case—Joseph Sloane is his name—clearly exceeded his authority. It should not deter future juries in this or any court from returning verdicts which, in their opinion, are appropriate to the cases before them.

No Quibbling Now

IN THEORY, there can be no question as to whom the supreme commander should be if the North Atlantic Alliance should be forced into war. He should be the ablest man available, regardless of nationality.

But an agreement as to whom that individual might be is likely to border on the impossible. Americans would be likely to favor an American, the British a Briton, and so on.

Participants in the recent strategy conference in Paris therefore followed the safe and sound course of handling the problem of nationalities with extreme care. They made no announcements as to the identities of the planned emergency leadership which might cause Americans, British, French and others of the Alliance to start bickering among themselves because one of their own nationality was not chosen.

The assumption is, however, that someone would step into command instantly if an emergency should occur. Any sort of planning obviously would require provision for the leadership at such a time. The logical supposition is that the identities of those in the top command might be determined by the place and nature of the first assaults.

But probably it will be just as well if the identities of those intended for positions of command are hidden in the topmost of secret drawers until the last possible moment. At such a time, nations confronting a common peril would be less likely to let national pride sway their judgment in their choice and/or acceptance of a supreme commander.

They would be less concerned with his nationality than their realization of the necessity for someone who would give orders which all would obey in their common struggle for survival.

The Cameo

By VIRGINIA TEALE
Distributed By NEA, Inc.

(THE STORY: Investigating the murder of Martin Faller, Charlie Reddy calls upon Stephanie Smith, employed at a gift shop owned by Hagar Blair, at whose home Stephanie lives. Stephanie tells Reddy about a valuable cameo which is a clue in the murder. Returning to Hagar's house they discovered Nell O'Neill, who claimed to own the cameo, murdered in Hagar's sculpture studio. Stephanie tells Reddy that she is Nell's niece.)

XXI

THE amber light from what had been Nell O'Neill's favorite Chinese lamp shone down on the carnelian cameo, on the delicately carved outline of the weeping woman; the pearls and small diamonds surrounding the stone plucked the light and threw it out as a nimbus on the glass table top.

Four men were staring down at the jewel. Chief of Police Peters spoke first:

"Tom," he said quietly, "are you sure you don't want to see the girl and give back the pin personally?"

Tom O'Neill backed away from the group and sank onto a squarish teakwood bench, he clasped his hands and allowed them to hang loosely between his knees.

"Take it out of my sight," he mumbled. "Give it to Nell's niece. She wanted it had enought to kill Nell for it, didn't she? Well, give it to her!"

Charlie Reddy took a step toward him: "Now look here, Tom!" He stopped speaking as Chief Peters gestured him to silence.

"Tom," Peters put in patiently, "we've told you the story as we know it, the business of Mrs. O'Neill's theft of the cameo—" he paused as Tom made a belligerent move. "Well, let's say her 'appropriation' of the cameo from her sister, who, as you now know, was Stephanie Smith's mother. It should be clear that the girl could not possibly have killed her aunt. The time of death precludes that. Mrs. O'Neill died in the middle of the afternoon. Stephanie was at the Three Wishes Shop all day."

Tom's face was set in ugly, stubborn lines; he shook his head: "Take it out of my sight!" he repeated thickly. "Take it away or I'll throw it in the ocean! Give it to her, put it in her murdering hands!"

Chief Peters hooked his thumbs into his Sam Brown belt and addressed the ceiling: "Squirrel cage," he grunted. "Two people stabbed. Murderer running loose. Town in an uproar. Sightseers all over like ants. Ten-thousand-dollar cameo getting tossed back and forth like a badminton bird!" He shook his head in disgust.

Lansing Trotter, who had been sitting by smoking his pipe in silence, rose from his chair:

"I'll make some coffee."

Reddy sat down as Trotter walked from the room. Catching Peter's eye, he raised his eyebrows. The Chief inclined his head.

"Tom," Reddy began, "when did you last see Nell?"

O'Neill shook both fists at Reddy.

"Told you!" he sobbed. "Told you, yesterday noon! I left her here with Hagar Blair." He bent his head and his tears rained on the floor, "Didn't see her anymore. Not anymore."

REDDY got up wearily and began to amble around the room. Though it was only a little past midday, Tom had the shades drawn and the lamps lit.

Strolling to the other side of the patio, Reddy paused at the door of Tom's studio then crossed the threshold and glanced around the big room. Rough-hewn, clay-spattered shelves containing a jumble of glazed and unglazed pieces occupied one entire wall. There was a brick kiln in a corner of the room. Reddy walked over and opened its iron door.

Inside, resting on an iron rack, were a pair of figurines about 12 inches high and nine wide. The contours, extravagantly block-like, seemed to represent stylized female figures, the heads were bent forward in a sleeping or weeping posture. He touched one of them gently, it had a powdery surface. He knew enought about ceramic manufacture to judge that these pieces had been given only their inital firing. Bisque firing, it was called. He decided that possibly Tom had been at work on them when he received the news of Nell's death.

Rambling through the studio, Reddy came upon a large barrel containing liquid clay. Experimentally, he dipped a finger into it — the consistency was like the cake batter he used to sample once upon a time in his mother's kitchen. He wiped his finger on a clay-caked towel hanging over the edge of the barrel.

He stepped back into the O'Neill parlor and found Trotter, Chief Peters and Tom forming a close group. Tom was sipping hot black coffee, holding the cup precariously in both shaking hands.

Peters looked up: "Charlie, no use both of us hanging around here. I want you to check up on Hagar Blair. Phone. Or better yet, take a run over there. If Hagar's present, better bring her around to the station for questioning."

STEPHANIE SMITH answered Reddy's ring almost before he'd taken his finger off the doorbell:

"I was looking out the window and saw you drive up," she explained. "I'm so glad you've come — I tried to reach you by phone all morning. Did you go past the shop?"

He followed her into the cheerful atmosphere of Hagar Blair's living room: "Yes, I was worried when I saw the place closed. We've been with Tom O'Neill all morning. Did Hagar get home all right?"

"Of course I came home," a hoarse voice called from the front bedroom. "I'm here, aren't I? What's left of me, that is. Come on in and view the remains!"

Looking At Life -- By Erich Brandeis

DO you know what I have found to be one of the most unpleasant shortcomings in my own make-up and one of the most difficult to overcome?

Lask of Self-Control.

BRANDEIS

You are not interested in my virtues nor my vices.

The only reason I talk about this particular vice of mine is that it is so universal and so many of us are trying our darndest to get rid of it.

We all know that we are supposed to turn the other cheek when someone smites us on this one.

But most of us not only do not turn the cheek but we don't even wait until we are smote or smitten or whatever the proper word is.

Take my own case.

Every time I get a letter from a reader censuring me for something I have written, I sit down at my typewriter and knock out a letter twice as nasty as the one I received.

Then comes my struggle with myself.

First I show the letter to my wife.

"Don't send that," she says. "You only make an enemy and let your blood pressure go up."

So, I lose my self-control again and say to myself, (but not to her—I have learned better than that in twenty-eight years of marriage). "She doesn't know what she talking about."

Then I lay the letter aside for a day or two.

I read it over again—and it goes into the wastebasket.

For a couple of days I made a little check-up.

Every time somebody came to our house or I met a friend or an acquaintance I steered the conversation to someone we both knew.

It was a bit of a trick—but

U.S. AVOIDS ISSUE

Hopes For UN Fading

By RAY TUCKER
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON: "It looks to me," writes F. A. of Cincinnati, O., "that the United Nations is turning out to be quite as futile as the League of Nations was in settling world problems and paving the way for permanent peace and the brotherhood of man. How about it?"

Answer: In some respects the United Nations is even more futile than the old league, and with less reason.

TUCKER

The League did have the courage to condemn Mussolini's invasion of Ethiopia and Japan's slow - motion conquest of Manchuria, although the great power's supineness prevented any effective action. But Rome and Tokyo were shamed into resigning from the international organization.

BREAKDOWN: Our recent refusal to support China's indictment of the Russian-Chinese Communist as violators of the U. N. Charter and the Sino-Russian Treaty shows how ineffective the U. N. has become. When the United States dare not or will not take the a courageous stand in such a crisis, it seems that there is little to be hoped from the larger agency.

The League's failure was blamed on this country's refusal to become a member. But our recent behaviour as a member of the U. N. seems to answer that old charge.

Washington, of course, although privately expressing disappointment in the U. N.'s achievements, holds Moscow responsible for its breakdown.

These two experiences in international crusading prove what everybody knows—namely, that if the nations and statesmen are unwilling to co-operate for peace and world welfare, the mere creation of a debating society is an empty gesture. It is even worse in that it tends to nourish illusions and delusions.

PEACE-BREAKER: Although Russia's extraordinary use of her veto power in the Security Council has blocked any major postwar agreement on basic problems, it is probable that the General Assembly does serve a useful purpose.

It acts as a semi-official, international court and bar of world opinion before which the Soviet's selfishness, brutality and terrorism can be indicted and condemned.

Should there be a World War III, the debates and exchanges recorded in the Assembly minutes would provide a formidable body of evidence to prove that Russia had been the original peace-breaker and aggressor in the postwar era.

INDICTMENT: The fact is that Russia, or possibly the United States, would probably withdraw from the U. N. except that it would leave the resigning nation vulnerable to charges of international ill will.

If we walked out, for instance, Stalin's Charley McCarthy, Mr. Vishinsky, would maintain that we had abandoned the attempt at world peace, and were preparing for war. We would level the same indictment if Russia quit, I suppose.

Moreover, membership in the same club enables each power to keep a close eye on a rival's maneuvering.

TAXES: "What is there," asks G. W. M., a former small business man of Grand Rapids, Mish., "to stop the trend of college and religious institutions from purchasing corporations and business properties to avoid all income taxes? Also, what about the many enterprises which can be converted into co-ops and likewise sidestep taxes that their competitors have to pay?"

ANSWER: It has always been a wonder to me why Congress has not closed this loophole before. However, various influential members, including Senator George of Georgia, believe the time has come for a reexamination of the tax-exempt problem.

It has been estimated that taxation of the so-called "dodgers" would produce between one and two billions a year in revenue. Many place it at a higher figure. These additional collections would permit Congress to wipe out the "nuisance" taxes. They would obviate the need for the tax boost wanted by President Truman, assuming a real economy move by Congress.

IRONIC: On an equity basis, there seems to be no reason why co-ops should not be taxed on earnings, and not merely on dividends to members. But an even more reprehensible escape is the manner in which colleges, religious institutions and philanthropic foundations invest in corporations solely to reap extra profits by avoiding taxes.

When Congress provided exemptions for educational, religious and charitable movements, it did so to further their good works by reducing their expenses to a minimum. It never intended that they should use this privilege in the way they have.

It seems ironic that great universities dedicated to inculcating high ideals in the nation's youth should stoop to such practices, even if a short-sighted and high-pressured Congress, not to mention the Administration, gives it a legal wink.

It is hoped that the prediction the world will end this year is in error. With all its faults, the world is a handy thing to have around, and if it were to disappear we believe quite a number of people would miss it.

"Undoubtedly Mars is inhabited by intelligent beings," asserts an astronomer. Steps should be taken at once to rig up a space ship and import a few of these intelligent beings and get them to teach us earthlings some sense.

WOULD JAIL TRAITORS

Editor, The Avalanche: In a recent Avalanche is an article by Rep. Omar Burleson (D-Tex) urging banishment of traitors and criminal conspirators including convicted communists, to a special Pacific Island prison. To this I heartily agree 100%.

To banish is the right term to use for traitors, and let's add forever. We don't need such trash in our American way of life, it is un-American. If we who love America, don't get tough with such rats there will be no America left for our posterity.

Five years is no sentence at all for such traitors. Give them a life term at hard labor, and they won't have idle time on their hands to plot the overthrow of our government.

They are not worthy of the name "American." We need another Alcatraz, right in the middle of the blue Pacific for each and everyone found guilty with no chance for a second trial, including Axis Sally, Tokyo Rose and all who fall in the same category.

How can all loyal Americans help Rep. Burleson push such an idea into a reality? And sooh?

Yours for America first, last and always.

Mrs. M. Lynch, Shallowater

PLACES THE BLAME

Editor, The Avalanche: Having heard the statements made by Major George Racey Jordan on Friday afternoon over Mutual Broadcasting company network, I had hoped that you would make some mention of this startling disclosure. Consequently, you may imagine how pleased I am to see that space on the front page was given the broadcast.

In my opinion, the great peril we now find ourselves in, from an international standpoint, is the direct result of the "ultra liberal" policy of Alger Hiss, Harry Hopkins and Franklin Roosevelt toward Russia at Yalta, together with the Russia "can do no wrong" policy adopted by the White House during the recent war, and the halting of Patton's army at the Oder River to permit "Uncle Joe" to get to Berlin first.

The debacle in China is the result of "Yalta" and Russia's possession of the Schnorkel 21 submarine, together with many atomic secrets is the result of being permitted to "sack" Berlin. Our stupid policy toward Communists and Communism here at home has resulted in Russia obtaining, in my opinion, all our atomic secrets and I do not doubt that Stalin's agents are in every atomic plant in our land today. During the war, FDR went so far as to refer to Red Russia as one of the "democracies." Stalin was almost sainted and Communism was regarded as practically holy. To dissent from that school of thought was an act nearly akin to treason and any person guilty of such conduct was branded a Fascist, or a German sympathizer.

I greatly fear that the time is not far off when we shall reap the folly of having permitted such stupidity to govern our nation's policies. In fact, we are now paying for those tremendous blunders by ever-increasing tax burdens to arm Europe and stave off Communism through the "Marshall Plan."

Yours very truly,
Sue Stevens

HITS FEDERAL AID

Editor, The Avalanche: Thank you so much for your editorial in regard to federal aid to our schools.

We have just recently moved to Lubbock and already feel a deep sense of pride in this fine city. We are so impressed with the fact that the citizens of Lubbock apparently still believe in private enterprise. While other towns are draining "the government" (which is, in reality, US) for everything possible, groups of Lubbock men develop splendid housing units! I sincerely hope they make millions—their belief in, and loyalty for, this country should be rewarded. Elsewhere, the prevalent feeling seems to be "grab it (federal aid) before someone else does!" That leads to Socialism and Communism; to government control; and to a general deterioration of our citizenry.

How can we fail to see where government help with schools could soon mean government domination? With so many government workers inclined to Communism, the time may come when Communists might be openly teaching our children. God forbid that! My ancestors met the Mayflower and were a little rough on the new invaders for a while. It would behoove us to be plenty tough on the vast number of persons coming to our country now. I believe in freedom of action and speech but only so far as they do not advocate and precipitate the downfall of our United States—that is treason!

I enjoy most of your editorials and hope you will continue to carry the torch for democracy. Wake us up!

Sincerely yours,
Ruth C. Bivins,

SOLON SAYS SLOGAN NEEDED

GOP Leaders To Map Platform For 1950 Congressional Drive

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6. (AP)—Two GOP senators said today the Republicans are going to draft a 1950 congressional campaign platform despite the difficulty of agreeing on issues.

Senator Brewster of Maine, who heads the party's senatorial campaign committee, told a reporter he thinks congressional leaders will fall in line behind the proposal of Guy G. Gabrielson, the GOP national chairman, for a statement of party principles.

Brewster said that even Senator Taft of Ohio, who has opposed the move, has agreed to draft a brief statement of his ideas and pitch it into the pot for study by a committee Gabrielson is expected to name soon.

Taft heads the party's Senate policy committee and disagrees sharply with some of his GOP colleagues, particularly on foreign policies.

Slogan Is Talked

In a separate interview Senator Butler of Nebraska threw his support to the policy statement plan. Butler was named, along with Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, earlier in the year as a Senate representative on a policy committee which former GOP Chairman Hugh D. Scott, jr., was forming when a revolt within the national committee cost Scott his job.

"What we need more than a platform is a slogan that we can take to the people in the election, something that will put our ideas across," Butler said. "We'll have to draft a statement of principles, too, but it should be brief and to the point."

Lodge recently called on Republicans to adopt a "positive" program, asserting that the party can't win next year if it has a "say-nothing" attitude and merely opposes Democratic proposals.

Taft May Fight

Some of the pressure for a Republican statement apparently is coming from potential contributors who have demanded that the party say what it stands for before they dig down to support it.

Most of this group are said to want a statement attacking about everything that President Truman has included in what he calls his "Fair Deal" program.

In this they have the support of such party members as Senator Bricker of Ohio, who has told colleagues here that he is coming back to Washington in January with both political fists swinging against what he dubs "socialistic" proposals.

On the other hand, Taft is likely to fight vigorously any Republican attacks on public housing, aid to education and some of the other measures he has sponsored in the Senate.

Even with a compromise statement of principles in hand, Brewster said he thinks Republicans will have a good chance to regain control of the Senate in next year's elections.

"We've got good prospects in Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Illinois, California and Idaho," he said. Two Democratic seats are at stake in Connecticut and one each in the other four states.

Brewster added that there are "encouraging reports" on prospects of the Republicans to retain seats in Indiana, Wisconsin, Missouri, Colorado and Iowa.

Even if the Republicans won all six Democratic posts Brewster mentioned, however, the Democrats would keep the control of the senate since Vice President Barkley could break the 48 to 48 tie that thus would develop. The Democrats now have 54 Senate members, the Republicans 42.

Less Than Seven Out Of 100 Convicts Fail Parole Rules

AUSTIN, Dec. 6. (AP)—Less than 7 per cent of Texas convicts released on parole last year failed to live up to parole requirements.

That was reported by the board of pardons and paroles yesterday to the governor, the Supreme court and the Court of Criminal Appeals.

The other 93.29 per cent, or 695, were reported making "satisfactory progress toward rehabilitation."

The report covered the fiscal year Sept. 1, 1948, through Aug. 31, 1949.

The report also showed that 98.34 per cent of the convicts released on emergency paroles returned voluntarily to prison at the end of their leaves.

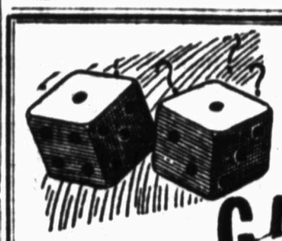

There were 2,170 inmates free on conditional pardons or reprieves at the end of the fiscal year, another 384 parolees from other states under Texas supervision, and 273 paroled Texas convicts in other states.

Supreme Court To Study Court Martial Of Yank In Germany

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6. (U.P.)—The Supreme court has agreed to do something about a rash of complaints by imprisoned former GI's that they were convicted unfairly by Army courts martial overseas.

The court announced yesterday that it will review the case of Eugene Preston Brown, Hendersonville, N.C., who was convicted by an Army tribunal in Mannheim, Germany, of killing a Polish guard in a fight over a German girl.

Rent Law Test Slated

It was one of several routine decisions handed down after a two-week recess. The court now will hear two weeks of arguments, including a test of the federal rent law's constitutionality.

Brown claimed that the Mannheim court martial was improperly set up and sought a writ of habeas corpus in federal district court of northern Georgia. He won his case there and also in the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals. He is at liberty while the case is decided.

Sixty other prisoners, most of them confined in the Atlanta federal penitentiary where Brown also was held, have filed similar actions.

Many Reported Jailed

The Army could not tell how many soldiers were jailed under similar circumstances, but said there were "a great number." The decision in Brown's case would affect all of them.

The district court based its decision on failure to obey an Army regulation telling how courts martial shall be constituted. The appeals court went further, ruling that there were so many errors in the proceedings that Brown "has not been accorded a fair trial, even under military law."

The government argued that civil courts have no right to review military trials.

Citizenship Case Slated

The court also agreed yesterday to decide whether the United States should deny citizenship to a man who refuses to wear its uniform.

The court already has found that an alien willing to do non-combatant duty is eligible for naturalization. But Martin Ludwig Cohnstaedt, Sterling, Kan., teacher whose case is up for decision, has said he has conscientious scruples against donning a uniform under any circumstances.

Cohnstaedt is a Quaker of German birth. The district court of Barton county, Kan., first decided he was eligible for citizenship but later reversed itself without explanation. The reversal was upheld by the Kansas supreme court.

Conditions In State Childrens Schools Hit

AUSTIN, Dec. 6. (AP) — Child patients in state schools are "starved to death for training," the institutions are very overcrowded, and the shortage of personnel shows up strongly.

These were the findings of H. Thomas McIntire, authority on training of mentally defective children, in a survey of the Austin state school, Mexia state school, and the Abilene State hospital and school.

McIntire, director of the Arizona children's colony at Phoenix, Ariz., reported to state hospital board director Moyne Kelly after making a survey at the request of the board.

All three institutions are lacking in recreation facilities and day rooms, he told Kelly.

On the brighter side, McIntire found the schools and hospitals clean, the food good and the care of the children good.

He said there were astoundingly few trained people on the staffs but many employes wanted to learn and would take all training offered them.

Kelly said the board will postpone a Dec. 19 meeting until January pending completion of written reports on the numerous surveys being made of state hospitals and schools.

Expansion Of Cotton Research Is Urged

AUSTIN, Dec. 6. (AP)—Cotton research aimed at finding new uses for the staple was urged today by Sen. George Moffett of Chillicothe.

The recently-announced heavy cut in cotton acreage for 1950 emphasizes the need, said Moffett. He is chairman of the Senate Agriculture committee.

"Only pocket change has been spent thus far on cotton research," Moffett said in a written statement.

"Cotton research activities up to this time have either saved, or created, a market for a million bales of cotton each year. We need .. market outlet for four million bales more than we have now."

Moffett noted that many big industries—such as automobile and rayon—spend millions of dollars a year on research to make their products more saleable.

"They consider it money well spent," the senator said.

"It is now clear that both the state and federal governments should expand cotton research efforts. Cotton is the most important farm crop in ten states. If cotton acreas become idle acres, as they may do, income will decrease throughout the cotton belt. Jobs will become scarcer, land values will slide, taxes will be harder to pay and a creeping depression may visit us again. The best way to head off these conditions is to develop a bigger market for our principal southern crop."

In 1948, more than 85 pounds of steel wire were produced in the United States for each person in the country.

STOCK MARKET BACKS DOWN

NEW YORK, Dec. 6. (AP)—The stock market backed down a little bit today from its highest average level of the year.

Share prices were swept narrowly up and down throughout an irregular session that ended on a mild downswing. Demand for a few railroad issues helped limit the general retreat.

At the close the Associated Press 60-stock average showed a decline of .1 of a point to 69.5. This exactly erased Monday's advance which had carried the market to a 13-month high.

Transfers reached 1,430,000 shares compared with 1,820,000 yesterday.

Wall Street's customers found little in the news to stimulate buying enthusiasm.

The mixture of gains and losses in stock prices today extended into the list of active issues. Westinghouse Electric, most active of the day, registered a climb of ½ at 29⅝, next in line were Packard and U. S. Steel, unchanged at 3⅞ and 35⅛ respectively. Bengues Consolidated Mining, off ⅛ at 2, was fourth most active.

Most price changes were held to fractions. But gains of a point were scored by Santa Fe at 97 and Union Pacific at 83⅜. Holding lesser advances were Swift International 9⅛, Dow Chemical 84⅛, General Motors 69⅛, Geodrich 72, and General Electric 40⅞.

Standard Oil (NJ) dropped ⅛ at 69¼. Also lower were Gulf Oil at 66½, Texas Co. 61⅝, Du Pont 60⅛, American Can 99½, International Nickel 15⅝, American and Foreign Power second preferred skidded 1¼ at 17⅜; U. S. Gypsum was off a point at 107.

A leading spot sold about 5,000 bales of nearby March deliveries in early trading which was attributed to hedging. There were considerable switching operations.

Futures closed 80 a bale lower to 20 cents higher than the previous close.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Dec. 6 (AP) — Grains developed a weak tone at the board of trade today, influenced by more liberal country offerings, and lack of commercial demand. Toward the close there appeared to be some mill buying in wheat, in expectation of sales of flour overnight to the Production and Marketing administration.

Some of the selling was traced to a statement by Ralph Trigg, president of the Commodity Credit corporation, that the agency is nearing its borrowing limit.

At the close wheat was ⅝ to 1⅝ lower than yesterday's close, Dec. $2.20¾-1⅛. Corn was 1⅛ to 1¾ lower, December $1.29-29⅛. Oats were unchanged to 1⅛ lower, December 75½. OIL COMPACT GROUP MEETS

Shivers Praises Conservation Practices Enforced By States

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 6. (U.P.)—Texas Gov. Allan Shivers in a speech prepared for delivery before the Interstate Oil Compact commission today praised conservation practices enforced by state governments.

Shivers pointed to cycling plants as an example of the increased recovery the states are enjoying from their natural resources as a result of state-sponsored conservation programs.

He said cycling was a lusty young industry with nearly a quarter billion dollars plant investment located in Texas gas fields.

Gas Is Saved

By maintaining pressure within certain type gas reservoirs, the cycling plants extract the major portion of the liquid hydrocarbons such as natural gasoline, butane and propane, and return the "dry" gas back to the producing sands where it is stored for further demand.

"We have proved that we, the states, can handle the problems incident to oil and gas production," the Texas governor said. "With this proof in our hands, I think we have the right to insist with all the vigor at our command that future development of our natural resources be conducted by private enterprise, subject to regulation by the state conservation bodies."

Plants Capacity Increased

Shivers said the capacity of cycling plants in the United States has grown 38 per cent in the past year. Thirty-five of the nation's 48 cycling plants are in Texas.

The governor cited figures to demonstrate the conservation aspects of cycling. Some 65 billion cubic feet of gas are cycled in the Texas plants each month.

After approximately 78½ million gallons of natural gasoline and butane and propane are stripped from the gas each month, approximately 75 per cent of the gas is returned to the sands for future use as fuel.

Process Benefits Many

He said that producers, land and royalty owners, the general economy and the various local and state government agencies benefit from the enhanced value which the cycling plants give the gas.

"During 1948, the recycled gas value for tax purposes amounted to about 20 cents per thousand cubic feet of input gas — four times the average market price for dry gas marketed during the same period," he said.

Concluding his talk on the second day of the compact's meeting, Shivers said that:

Cycling plants have increased the supply of motor fuel; provided liquified petroleum gas for rural homes; provided raw material for the chemical plants located in the gulf coast region, and given local communities a decided economic boost.

Parade-Hating Deer Moved Out Of Air Force Into Army

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 6. (U.P.)—Smokey, a three-year-old deer that just couldn't adjust his habits to the U. S. Air Force, was transferred to the infantry today.

The eight-point buck became a mascot of Lackland Air Force base's 20,000 airmen when he was only a fawn. He won the name as the greatest pastry sponger and drinking fountain user on the base. Outside of an inclination to attack off-key bandsmen, his behavior was exemplary.

But suddenly Smokey turned into a parade-hater, and unforgivable sin in Air Force books.

He broke up several otherwise neat parade formations by ramming men in the ranks. A case of near-assault and battery on a basic airman by the deer brought matters to a head.

Lackland's veterinarian ordered Smokey transferred to Fourth Army headquarters at Fort Sam Houston, a focal point for Army "brass."

The deer was convinced immediately that the "brass" wouldn't stand for his shenanigans. He was confined right away in a quadrangle surrounded by a deer-defying fence.

YOU NEED TO GROW, LITTLE JIM — "Little Jim" Folsom, the seldom-photographed, six-month-old son of Alabama's governor, tries his daddy's big chair in the state capitol in Montgomery, Ala., for size. And inasmuch as his famous dad is a giant of six feet, eight inches and well porportioned, it will take some growing before the governor's heir will be ready to fill this particular seat. There's Still A Lot Of Coffee In Brazil, Crop Expert Claims

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6. (AP)—Unfounded rumors of drought in Brazil got part of the blame today for sky-rocketing coffee prices.

Countering coffee-drought shortage reports with U. S. crop estimates, a government expert agreed with investigators for a Senate agriculture subcommittee that sharp price jumps are largely the result of rumor rather than fact.

Brazil, he told the Senate group, is expected to have a larger crop of coffee beans for export next year than it did this—when export was larger than last year.

Small Town Doctor, 85, Gets AMA Award As Best In Nation

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6. (U.P.)—Dr. Andy Hall, a small town physician of Mount Vernon, Ill., today was named the outstanding practitioner of the year by the American Medical association.

Hall, who will be 85 next month, was first choice of the AMA's house of delegates meeting here this week in their interim session. Second choice was Dr. Thomas Edward Ryan of Thornton, Ark.

Dr. Hall, who was born in 1865 on a farm in Hamilton county, Ill., still has an active practice in Mount Vernon. He is in Washington to attend the AMA's sessions.

IT is much easier to tear down a building than to erect a new one.

It takes years to build a reputation—a trice to destroy one by slander or libel.

That precious asset can be wrecked in no time by gossip and malice.

Every one of us (at least us men) has had the impulse to punch someone in the nose.

But usually we have sufficient self-control to check our impulse. First there is a law against assault and battery, and then there is the fear of getting a black eye.

Assault and battery against a person's character or reputation is worse than physical assault. It is cowardice and lack of self-control.

One may not get punched in return. But one's Conscience can hurt much more than any black eye.

Canada Amends Criminal Code In Move To Check Sex Crimes

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 6. (U.P.)—Highly-colored reports of sex crimes could make newspapers liable under the newly-amended Canadian criminal code as well as publishers of obscene literature and crime comics, it was learned today.

An amendment to the code, providing two years' imprisonment for persons convicted of publishing or selling obscene literature, pictures, models or crime comics won unanimous passage in Commons yesterday.

A high government source said newspapers could be prosecuted if provincial attorneys-general found that news stories were obscene or that they offended good taste. He said it would be up to the courts to rule on such reports and that this would be "a difficult process."

Man Found Shot To Death On Golf Course; Accident Ruled

GEORGETOWN, Dec. 6. (AP)—R. L. Galloway, about 60, was found dead near the number nine green of the Country club golf course here yesterday, a rifle wound in his stomach.

Justice of the Peace W. H. Davis, jr., returned a verdict of death from an accidentally inflicted gunshot wound.

Galloway, a prominent Georgetown insurance man, had been firing at a target about 75 yards from the green with a .35 automatic rifle. Deputy Sheriff Henry Matysek said.

S. & Q. Clothiers Started Back In 1915 With Store At Ada, Okla.

In the year of 1915 when cotton was selling for five cent per pound, when a national movement towards helping the South was instituted, and the "Buy a Bale" slogan was adopted, a young man who had the confidence of youth and the vision of economic strength and the future prosperity of the Southwest took over a half interest in the management of a clothing store in Ada, Oklahoma on February 22, 1915, and planted the seed of which todayis the largest and finest groups of men's and boys' apparel stores in the Southwest.

Edward Quicksilver, who is president of Quicksilver-Smith Company owners of S and Q Clothiers, was the original manager of the first S & Q store.

The business at that time was operated under the firm name of Schienberg & Quicksilver. Ben Schienberg, one of the original partners, died in 1923. The surviving founder of this business, Edward Quicksilver, demonstrated from the inception of this first store that he had a clear understanding of the necessary fundamentals to operate the kind of a store that would create confidence and good-will.

It was more than just an idea, it was a policy of service and quality that entered into every detail in the conduct of his business. He w s a pioneer, a man of vision, a creator. Evidence of his soundness of judgment and character is represented by the group of splendid stores in Texas and Oklahoma, and the policy of putting these principles into practice. These stores represent the largest distributors at retail of men's and boys' apparel in the entire Southwest.

Style Is Featured

Deeply rooted in the policy of this business is it's stock of high-grade merchandise of style and quality. Style has been one of the hobbies of Edward Quicksilver, as it is the contention that style is one of the essentials of our modern civilization and its' creative origin is not in any one center in particular. The boy and his daddy are today as style conscious as the girl and her mother.

As to quality, this has been one of the principles upon which the founder has built his foundation. It is his belief that quality has no substitute and he insists upon its strict observance.

Quicksilver, when questioned as to the success of his S & Q Clothiers and his idea for successful merchandising, gave this as his formula—"Through about 30 years of service the S & Q Clothiers have stood for integrity and fair dealings, perpetuating the ideals of its' founders. Even in confused times our course is clearly marked. No magic is available to successful modern merchandising that will serve as a substitute for integrity. That precious ingredient underlying our operations and traditions, earns us the confidence and respect of our public."

LIKE A CONSTRUCTION MIRACLE

Around-The-Clock Work Used In Completing New S. & Q. Clothiers

Completion of S and Q Clothiers' gleaming new building in just 90 days' time sounds like a construction miracle—and that's just what it is, although a lot of planning and around-the-clock work helped it along.

When Robert E. Maxey's workmen arrived at the S and Q location the first day of September, the task looked difficult. A 50-by 125 foot basement had to be dug without removing the roof of the building.

Front And Floor Removed

The first thing the contractor did was to remove the front of the building and take up the floor. With the timbers out of the floor, huge A-shaped frames were built, with the legs braced against the foundation and the apex end supporting the longitudinal roof beam.

Then came the bulldozer and the power shovel, right into the building, and the basement rapidly took shape. Soon the power shovel was in a hold the depth of the basement where it could remove the dirt and caliche, load it into trucks and speed it away. With the roof still intact over the pit, rain did not interfere with the work and the job progressed rapidly.

As soon as the excavating was finished the steel arrived on a Saturday morning and by Sunday at 6 p. m. the steel erectors had set steel beams, stanchions and floor joints firmly set in place.

From that point the work really hummed. In six week's time the excavation, steel and concrete floor work were being completed and the store was taking shape. Then the ceiling over the balcony was raised and the balcony floor was strengthened.

In his effort to have the store done in 90 days, the contractor put on the steam and workmen did plenty of overtime, nights and Sundays.

But the result, as visitors may now see for themselves, is one of the largest, most beautiful, convenient and up-to-date men's and boy's stores in Texas.

Window Displays Are Featured In New Store; Designs Are Latest

MRS. LOUISE JACKSON
Credit Manager in charge of main office.

The S and Q Clothiers company has always appreciated the part that window displays and honest advertising played in their successful operation.

When the new store was planned for Lubbock, the architects were asked to lay out the store windows so they could be the most outstanding in town and the greatest help to the prospective customer.

Four Large Windows

The result of that request provided the new store with four large display windows and one smaller one. One of the four large ones is original in design, being more like a patio, with floor on sidewalk level, a beautiful "honed flagstone" floor and no back, which permits window-shoppers to see right through it into the store.

In all the windows the ceilings are covered with an "egg crating" that completely hides the source of light. Painted a dark gray, ceiling does not distract the attention of shoppers from the window displays.

Workshop Is Complete

Along with these spacious and beautiful windows, the store has provided the display man with one of the finest and most complete display and advertising workshops in the country.

Some display men are said to work in a basement or a hot and dirty attic, but in the new S and Q the display man has a room all to himself—33 feet long and 18 feet wide, air conditioned, insulated, heated, equipped with running water, telephone, buzzer for window calls, a modern card printing machine and a stage window where displays can be developed far in advance.

Display Room Above

The display room is over the windows and a private stairway leads down to a "window well" where the windows can be reached without anyone from the main floor being aware that a new display is being installed.

Good work cannot be accomplished without the proper tools and suitable working conditions, the management realizes, and that is why they have provided the display man with this modern and up-to-date department.

CHARLEY DYE
Men's Clothing Department

Charley is one of the familiar faces at S and Q. He really needs no introduction. . . Charley has been in Lubbock a long time and is looking forward to serving you in the Clothing Dept. of this new S and Q.

S. & Q. Features Its Boys' Shop

In planning the new S. & Q. Clothiers for Lubbock and surrounding trade territory, special emphasis was placed on the Boys' Shop.

"We like to get the boys early (at two years of age) and sell them the type of merchandise that will interest them and bring S. and Q. customers years later," Alvin Goldstucker, S. & Q. manager, said.

Merchandise Displayed Prominent

Not only will the Boys' Shop be roomy and conveniently arranged, but it will be air-conditioned and centrally heated, with open clothing racks where merchandise can be easily inspected. Modern glass top tables, making the pleasure of selection a pleasure; the sport jacket racks, the modern shirts, pajamas, socks and underwear tables where all merchandise is out in the open and can be found easily will make shopping in the boys shop a pleasure.

"Another important factor of more than usual interest, due to our affiliation with a large group of stores operating successful boys shops in practically every section of the country, we are in a position to buy the outstanding lines in fine quality, high style merchandise that usually is to be found in much larger cities, and at prices that bring real savings to S. & Q. customers," Goldstucker continued.

"You will find many nationally advertised brands represented here, which is your assurance that you can always shop here with confidence as to style, quality and correct prices.

"With our courteous and efficient salesmen who know best where and how to sell and fit boys, we feel that you will enjoy shopping in our new modern and efficient S& Q Q. Boys' Shop," Goldstucker added.

Scientists At Texas U. Seek New Super-Power Insecticide

AUSTIN, Dec. 6 (INS)—University of Texas scientists are helping pave the way for possible new insecticides combining in one molecule both instantaneous killing action and the lingering effects of DDT.

The new insecticides, if developed, will be more powerful than "bug killers" of pyrethrum—DDT mixtures now on the market.

Dr. Lewis F. Hatch, chemistry professor, is directing graduate researchers David William McDonald, Houston, and Virgil L. Tweddie, Austin, in allylic chlorides research toward seeking that goal.

The two graduate researchers are on $3,400 fellowships given by the Research Corporation of New York. The grants are the third renewal by the corporation of such work here.

Allylic chloride research at the university prior to the latest fellowship extensions provided means for the U.S. Department of Agriculture scientists to discover the molecular structure of cinerin I. The material is one active ingredient of pyrethrum, a poisonous substance taken from an African flower bearing the same name, and considered by many scientists to be the best known insecticide.

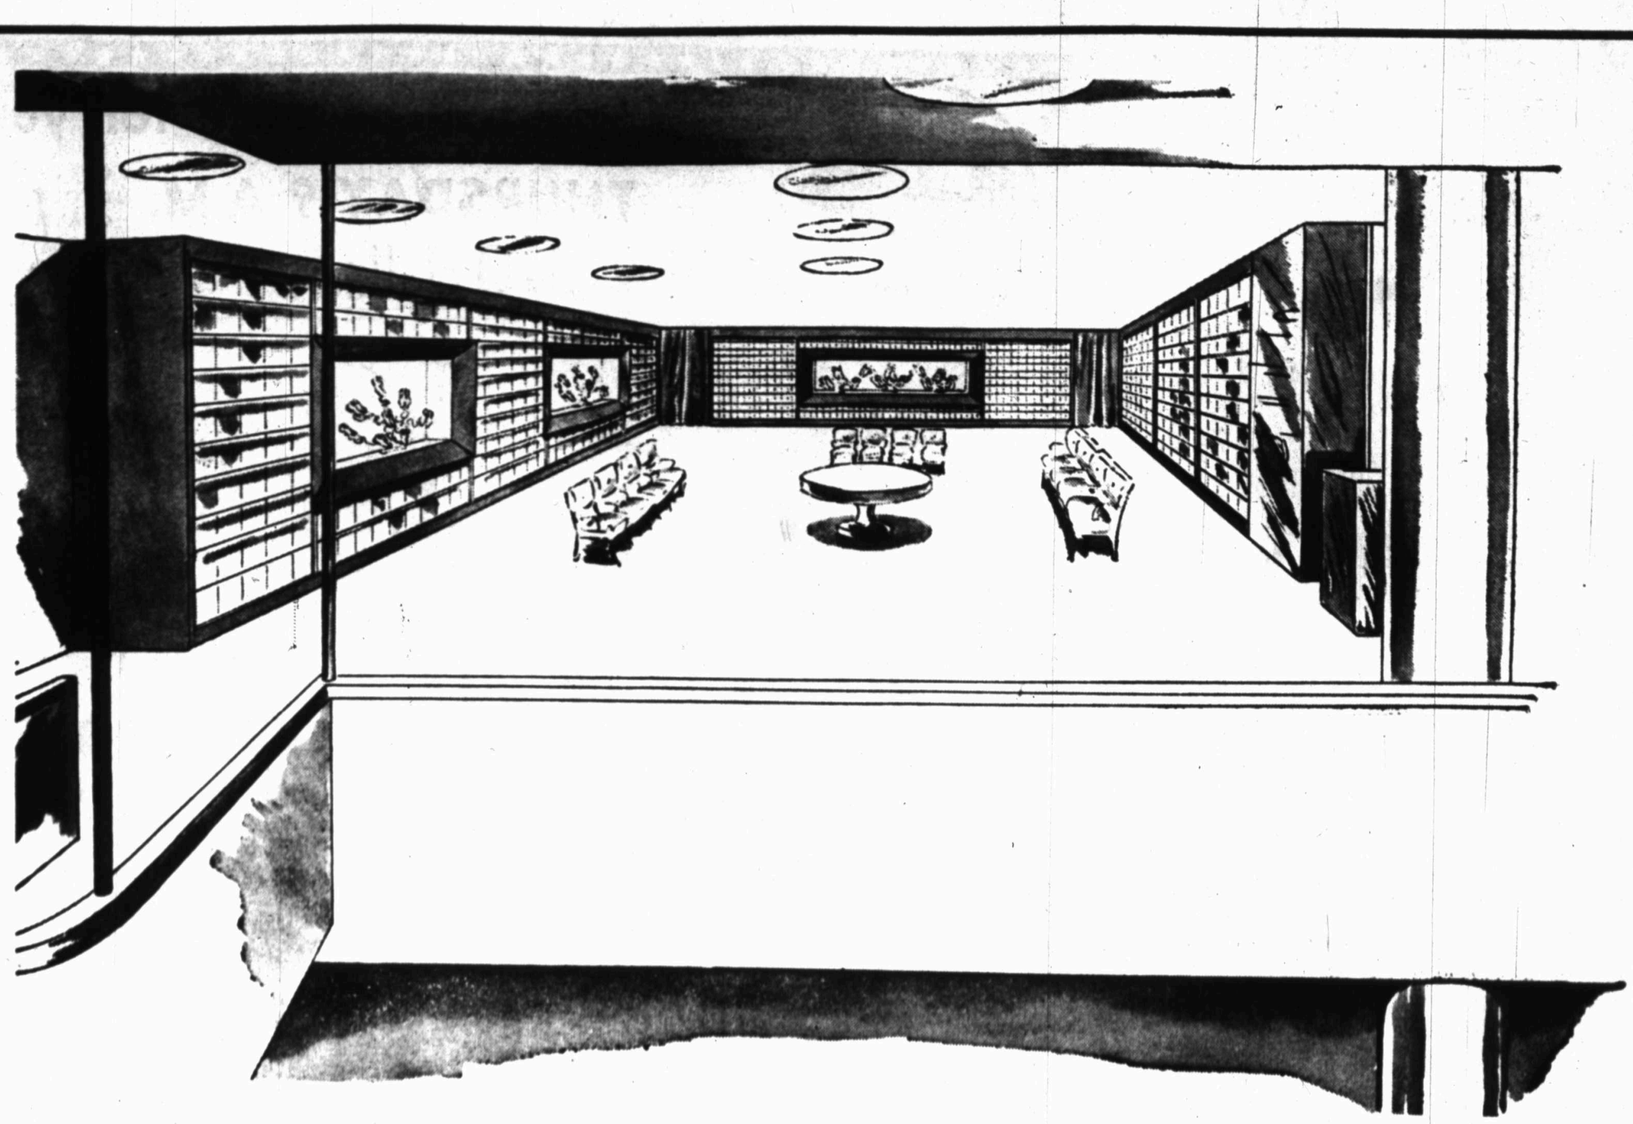

Texas U. Resumes Service With Booklet On Mohair Industry

AUSTIN, Dec. 6 (INS) — A brochure on the Texas mohair industry marks resumption by the University of Texas Bureau of Business research of its series of publications intended to assist the state's industries.

The monograph, "Production and Marketing of Mohair in Texas," is by Dr. Stella Traweek, assistant professor of business services and a native of the West Texas goat country.

The brochure recounts the history of the industry, deals with its marketing problems and mechanism, and discusses the industry's future with its attendant problems. It is the first new booklet since 1940 in the bureau's monograph series.

Copies of the new publication may be obtained for $2 each from the Bureau of Business research, University of Texas, Austin 12, Texas.

Rattlesnakes Mar Day For Peanut Farmer In Alabama

COLUMBIA, Ala., Dec. 6. (U.P.)—Willis Cochran, peanut farmer, saw snakes and got them both.

While pulling weeds from among his peanuts, Cochran saw a rattlesnake near his hand, poised ready for the strike. Cochran was too quick and smashed its head with a rock.

Slightly unnerved, Cochran went home for a rest. When he suddenly looked up from his bed, he saw a rat snake dangling from a rafter above him. He called for a rifle and picked the reptile from its perch.

Years Of Planning, Experience Go Into New S. & Q. Clothiers

The man who goes into a store for a suit or a pair of sox would be amazed to know how much planning has gone into designing a store to make shopping easy and pleasant for him. The new S & Q store is an excellent illustration of the years of planning and experience that go into a pleasing store arrangement.

When the heads of S & Q Clothiers signed the lease for their new location four years ago, they immediately got busy with the architects and store planner with one purpose and intention in mind: To give shoppers of Lubbock and the surrounding area the most up-to-date and enjoyable store for men and boys that money could buy.

Shelves Behind Fixtures

For those who visit the new S & Q store and wonder why certain new ideas have been employed, this explanation should give an answer. Many of the new arrangements took days and weeks of planning before a decision was reached and plans drawn.

In the new store the wall fixtures are set out from the walls with the shelving behind them. This was done to make room for extra stock close to the selling area, thus making it posible to serve the customer more quickly with goods not in the front stock.

Allows More Aisle Space

The show cases all slope inward from top to bottom, to allow the customer to stand closer to the merchandise under consideration and to allow more aisle space for other patrons.

Two 15-ton air conditioning units were installed rather than one 30-ton unit. This was done so that one unit could cool the front of the building and the other the rear of the building, thus giving a more even distribution of temperature control and better comfort for the shopper.

One question that will come to the minds of some who look at the beautiful show windows is, "why are the show window ceilings painted dark gray?"

This was done to avoid distracting from the merchandise on display and to make the source of lighting in the windows less obvious.

Lighting Is Combination

Ceiling lighting is both fluorescent and incandescent, in order to blend the lighting to give a truer picture of colors.

The store will feature a Lamson tube system to carry change and sales tickets to a central cashier. This was done to enable wrapping to be scattered out to four or five spots rather than use the old sytem of having one central wrapping counter and cash register. It also eliminates long waits at the wrapping stand.

Solid Glass Doors

Other S & Q stores use solid glass doors, but the management decided on glass doors in aluminum frames for the Lubbock store to make the doors lighter and easier for women and children to open.

The traditional place for the hat department—near the front door—has been avoided in the new store. The architect reasoned that men like a little privacy when selecting a hat, and with the hat sales area away from the front of the store, the hat customer can select his headgear without interruptions.

The men's clothing department in the new store is a huge semi-circle with every garment showing, to enable the customer to see every garment in stock. There will be no backing out of the way while a salesman turns an old-fashioned clothing rack around, the management says. Everything is right in front of the customer for his selection.

Departments On Balcony

The boys' department and children's shoe department are on the balcony, and this influenced the selection of a solid wall along the front of the balcony rather than an ornamental one, for safety's sake.

Rubber tile was chosen for the floor covering of the new store main floor because of the beauty and comfort it affords. The salespersons, too, will enjoy the comfort of rubber tile because it is restful for those who stand for long periods of time.

Noise Is Reduced

In the clothing department, with the ceiling covered with acoustical tile and the floor with rubber tile, a double combination for eliminating noise has been made. The management says many different groups can shop in the spacious clothing department and not be conscious of the others.

This is one example of the engineering that was employed to make S & Q Clotheirs a nice place to shop.

Store Departmentalized

The floor plan of the store makes it 100 per cent departmentalized. The luggage department is conveniently located in the front of the store in rubber-covered bins that protect the luggage from becoming shopworn.

The sportswear department is convenient to the front door, and unified in one department, thus eliminating going from place to place to examine kindred merchandise.

Boys' Department Complete Store

The boys' department, large and spacious, is really a complete store within itself just for boys. Mothers can take their boys to this new and larger department and shop with leisure and comfort.

The men's shoe department is greatly enlarged and located on the balcony for more privacy and space.

Modern merchandising calls for plenty of merchandise on tables where the customer can examine it at his leisure or see enough merchandise to make an intelligent selection.

Has Four Aisles

The main floor of this store has four aisles from front to back, eliminating traffic congestion. Between these aisles are plenty of tables loaded with seasonable goods where shoppers can browse around and find what they are searching for. In fact, every piece of merchandise is out in plain sight.

These and many other design innovations will be open for public inspection and the new and greater S & Q Clotheirs formal opening at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday night.
