Hot Dogs And Beer Speech To Get Answer

Truman To Renew Demands In State Of Union Message

(By The Associated Press)

KEY WEST, Fla., Dec. 9.—Intimates said today that President Truman regards General Dwight D. Eisenhower as an active candidate for the presidency.

They added that he regards Eisenhower's recent "hot dogs and beer," speech as part of the former chief of staff's buildup for the Republican presidential nomination.

The President, they continued, will answer Eisenhower in his "State of the Union" message to Congress in January.

Considered Political Amateur

Charles G. Ross, the President's press secretary, said that speech will "fully expound the President's philosophies of government."

Ross would not even discus recent speeches of Eisenhower, now president of Columbia university.

Mr. Truman's long-time feeling of admiration for Eisenhower as an army man and a builder of morale was emphasized by those who are close to him.

But these same persons say the President regards the ex-soldier turned educator as strictly an amateur at politics.

Not even the closest day-to-day conferees of the President can say whether he will seek the nomination again in 1952. They are in agreement only in that they feel he has not made a decision and wants to await developments in the months ahead.

Demands To Be Renewed

Most of them tell reporters that he has been more than a little concerned by Eisenhower's recent speeches, in which the general has appeared to line up with former Secretary of State James F. Byrnes in criticism of the Truman "fair deal."

The President, it was made clear here, is drafting a "State of the Union" message which will reiterate his demands for a "fair deal" program. It will emphasize the very proposals at which Eisenhower and Byrnes are directing their ammunition.

The President, it was disclosed, will renew his insistence upon passage of:

1. His civil rights program.
2. A liberalized displaced persons bill.
3. A national health program.
4. Legislation expanding social

Extension For Pioneer Urged

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9. (AP)—James M. Verner, Civil Aeronautics board examiner, recommended today a five-year extension of operating rights for most of Pioneer Air Lines' routes in Texas.

He also proposed readjustment of the route pattern to increase available traffic and to eliminate a route from Amarillo to El Paso. He proposed a one-year extension of the Lubbock-Albuquerque route.

Suspension Is Recommended

Verner recommended that the board suspend for five years the present operating rights of Continental Airlines at Big Spring and American Airlines at Big Spring and Abilene. That would leave Pioneer as the only airline serving those points.

The five-year extensions, dat-

Demo Senators Seek European Aid Slash

Solons' Proposal Will Exceed Reduction Already Planned By ECA By $220 Million

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—Western Europe seemed destined today to take a cut of at least $1,000,000,000 in Marshall plan aid next year.

That was the minimum slice proposed in economic aid funds by three Democratic senators just back from a first hand look at the American experiment in combatting Communism by recovery dollars.

Two of the three—Senators McClellan (D-Ark) and Maybank (D-SC)—will have important appropriations committee notes when the foreign aid program comes to a showdown in the next session of Congress.

Exceeds ECA Proposed Cut

The third, Senator Robertson (D-Va), is a former committee member and has first call on any Democratic vacancy on its rolls. Another European visitor among committee members, Senator Thomas (D-Okla), called a news conference to give his views.

The proposed cut of a round billion dollars is $222,000,000 more than the reduction planned by the Economic Cooperation administration (ECA), which handles the aid program. Neil Dalton, the ECA's retiring information director, said yesterday that ECA plans to ask for around $3,000,000,000 for the fiscal year beginning next July 1. ECA got $3,778,000,000 for the current year.

Dalton said the $3,000,000,000 request is in line with ECA Administrator Paul G. Hoffman's hope for steady reduction in costs

Band Clinic Opens In Lubbock Today

Between 1,000 and 1,500 band members and directors from more than 30 West Texas schools were convening in four locations in Lubbock this morning as the seventh annual band clinic sponsored by Lubbock High school and Texas Technological college opened.

Purpose of the clinic is to study the 1950 contest numbers for bands of the Interscholastic League.

According To Classes

Bandsmen are meeting according to classes, with Raymond T. Bynum, director of McMurry college band, directing a Class AA group in Senior High school auditorium; Robert L. Maddox, Odessa High school band leader, a Class A session in J. T. Hutchinson Junior High school auditorium; Robert C. Davidson, Plainview band director, the Class B session in Texas Tech band room, and Joe L. Haddon, assistant director of Tech band, the Class C and Class CC groups, in J. T. Hutchinson Junior High school band room. The same schedules will be followed Saturday morning.

Attendance was difficult to estimate since musicians were scattered, but an estimate of more than 1,000 and possibly as many as 1,500 was given from the office of D. O. Wiley, director of Tech band.

Open To The Public

Sessions are open to the public. Bandsmen divided according to classes played numbers for their respective classifications this morning. Outstanding musicians from the various bands played in the divisional bands and other band members and directors listened.

From 1 to 3 o'clock this afternoon, a session was scheduled in J. T. Hutchinson Junior High school auditorium for bandsmen of all classes. Dr. D. M. Wiggins, president of Texas Tech, was to welcome band members. The Tech band was to play contest numbers of the different classifications during remainder of the session. The Tech band will play again from 1 to 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon

More promptness in sending in the names of needy children who should be on the Goodfellows Christmas list was urged today by the Chief Goodfellow.

The names are needed as early as possible, he explained, so that a special committee can eliminate duplications and check the accuracy of addresses.

Jail Term Of Six Months To 18 Is Imposed

Fine Is $10,000; Wife Announces For His Position

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9—Rep. J. Parnell Thomas got six to 18 months in jail and a $10,000 fine today for cheating the government by "padding" his office pay roll.

Immediately after the sentence was pronounced, Thomas' wife announced:

"I intend to seek the congressional seat about to be vacated by my husband."

Mrs. Thomas told reporters her husband's resignation is in the mails.

Thomas is 54. His wife is a little younger.

Ear-Burning Lecture

Federal Judge Alexander Holtzoff gave an ear-burning lecture to Thomas along with the jail term and the fine.

He told the little man who seven times was elected to the House as a Republican from New Jersey that he knew he had a good record in first world war and had done "much good work" in Congress as chairman of the House un-American activities committee.

But, the judge said sternly:

"These can't properly be considered mitigating circumstances."

Should Set Example

In fact, he said, as chairman of a congressional committee, Thomas "had a duty to set an example of upright living."

Holtzoff concluded.

"J. Parnell Thomas, it is the judgment of this court that you be imprisoned in an institution to be determined by the attorney general for a term of not less than six months and not more than 18 months, that you be fined $10,000 and that you stand committed until the fine is paid."

Thomas' lawyer, William H. Collins, had pleaded with the judge not to punish the congressman by

Amarillo Boy Chosen "Governor" Of Texas

AUSTIN, Dec. 9 (AP) — Charlie Thompson, 17-year-old Amarillo high school senior, was elected governor of the Hi-Y model legislature at the opening of a three-day session here today.

Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Doss J. Thompson beat out Beach Mott, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Beach Mott, Houston, in a run-off race, 124-76.

Mott automatically becomes secretary of state.

Thompson took a stand for more attention to traffic injuries and fatalities. He maintained alcoholic beverages are responsible for 60 per cent.

One Killed, Four Hurt In Collision

EL CAMPO, Dec. 9 (U.P.)—One man was killed and four others injured yesterday in the head-on collision of two automobiles nine miles west of here on state highway 59.

El Campo used car salesman Rudolph Cerney, about 25, was killed. He was alone in an eastbound automobile. Treated at a hospital here were Mr. and Mrs. Sammy Harbeeb, Tommy Alston, and Otis Peters, all of Houston, occupants of the other car.

NEW YORKERS GIVEN WARNINGS

"Save Water" Plan Stressed For City

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Dec. 9—New York today is a city with water on the brain, but very little in its reservoirs.

Like a broken phonograph record, the city was playing the words over and over again: "Save water, save water."

You read it on billboards. You heard it over the air. The newspapers handed out housewifely tips on how to be water-thrifty.

With the metropolis facing a serious water shortage, the campaign to keep the mains from going dry was moving into high gear.

Signs Are Prominent

Advertising panels of subways and buses were plastered with big red-and-white signs, like:

"Don't be a drip by wasting water."

Radio stations interspersed their programs with stern admonitions.

"Turn off that tap today," says an announcer, "or you may not be able to turn it on tomorrow."

Newspapers, including the Communist Daily Worker chorused similar advice.

The New York Sun front-paged this suggestion on how to keep clean with less water:

"Take a shower navy-style; five seconds of water to get wet, turn off water, 15 seconds to soap up, turn on water again, 20 seconds to rinse — and you're clean and fresh."

Warning Is Given

The top banner on today's New York Daily Mirror was a series of three "save water" boxes, with this footnote added below:

"It is your duty to cut out these warnings and paste one near every water outlet in your home! Save water; It is precious!"

Zero Weather In North U. S.

(By The United Press)

A wave of frigid air from Canada pushed south as far as Texas today and brought sub-zero weather to the Great Lakes and New England areas.

Wisconsin had the lowest readings—nine below at Wausau and at Green Bay. North of those two cities, woodsmen and farmers were searching for a plane that disappeared two days ago. They said if the pilot crashed in the woods he probably had frozen to death.

Five Above At Fargo

New England also had below zero temperatures. The mercury sank to minus 8 at Concord, N. H.

Warmer weather was moving onto the Great Plains as the cold swept east and south. At Fargo, N. D., the lowest reading during the night was five above zero.

A cold drizzle fell from Texas north to Kansas where it changed to light snow. The snow was reported as falling intermittently north to the Canadian border.

Ashen skies continued to darken the South Plains this afternoon, and the weatherman offered little hope of general clearing conditions before next Wednesday.

Light drizle which fell frozen at midnight and then continued intermittently through the early morning hours in liquid form was expected to continue intermittent-

Flock Of Meteors To Cavort Tonight

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9: (AP)—A whole flock of meteors with flaming tails are due to begin cavorting about the skies tonight.

The National Bureau of Standards figures the meteors, part of what astronomers call the Geminid shower, will be visible at more than one a minute from 8 p. m. until midnight local time, wherever you are.

The shower is set for a four-night stand. The Bureau of Standards forecasts a "spectacular" show.

Rate Controls Are Proposed

HOUSTON, Dec. 9 (U.P.) — The state will be asked to regulate charges on long distance telephone calls in Texas at the next session of the legislature, it was announced here today.

The Harris county association of mayors and councilmen, with the exception of Mayor Oscar Holcombe of Houston, has passed a resolution to that effect.

The resolution asked that legislation for state regulation of long distance and toll charges be introduced next month at the special session of the legislature.

Higher Rates Set

The step obviously was the outgrowth of higher telephone rates for Houston, set recently by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. When nearby Pasadena balked at installation of identical rates, the telephone company promptly reinstated the old toll charge of five cents for calls from Pasadena to Houston.

Gov. Allan Shivers, here to attend an insurance commissioners convention, said he thought the matter should be submitted during a regular legislative session—not during the special session.

"I am inclined to prefer a separate telephone regulatory board rather than have the railroad commission assume jurisdiction over telephone rates," said the governor.

Texas "Poster Girl" Selected By Group

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP)—Meet the 1950 March of Dimes poster girl: eight-year-old Wanda Wiley of Austin, Texas.

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis announced today that Wanda has been chosen to be pictured on millions of posters, coin cards and collection cans in the fund drive next Jan. 16-26.

Last year's poster child also was from Texas—Linda Iris Brown of San Antonio. The foundation noted that Texas has had polio epidemics for two successive years.

Wanda, one of six children of Mr. and Mrs. Earl N. Wiley, was stricken in July, 1948. Almost completely paralyzed at first, she now gets around with wheelchair and crutches.

Russians Are Sentenced By Slav Tribunal

Priest, Nun Among 10 Persons Judged Guilty Of Spying

(By The Associated Press)

SARAJEVO, Yugoslavia, Dec. 9. Yugoslavia sent 10 White Russians, including a Russian Orthodox priest and a nun, to prison today on charges of spying for the Soviet union against the regime of Premier Marshal Tito.

The ten also were convicted by a Yugoslav tribunal of having aided the Germans during World War II. They were given terms ranging from three to 20 years.

The gray-bearded, black-robed priest, Father Aleksei Krishko, was sentenced to serve 11 years and six months in prison. He had denied the charges. Arson Boremovic, a judge and state prosecutor under the pro-Nazi wartime government in Croatia, was sentenced to serve 20 years.

Answer To Trials

The trial of the White Russians, who fled the Red revolution in 1917, only to become Soviet agents after the last war, was seen as Tito's answer to iron curtain trials accusing his regime of trying to supplant Russia's influence over her east European satellites.

Most of the Russians admitted giving information to the Russian embassy in Belgrade and spreading anti-Tito propaganda among Yugoslavs.

With few exceptions, the defendants conceded in their weeklong trial they "felt guilty" of the charges. But mostly they took the position that they were acting as Soviet citizens, not spies. They contended they were supplying "information," not engaging in intelligence work.

Guilt Is Denied

However, both Father Krishko and Boremovic, who were given the stiffest sentences, denied they were guilty.

These were the other sentences:

Vladimir Ogniev, one-time captain in the czar's army and chairman of the White Russian colony in Sarajevo, six years; Ksenia Komad, the only woman on trial, once a Russian Orthodox nun, later a school teacher, three years;

Anatolyi Polyakov, ten years; Ilya Zherebkov, six years; Vasiliyo Kostryukov, five years; Vadim Gesler, five years; Peter Sokolov, four years and six months; Georgi Olyshevski, four years.

Paring Of $7½ Billions From Budget Urged

Senator Declares That Savings Can Be Easily Achieved

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9—Senator Byrd (D-Va) today sought to lead the nation away from the "economic primrose path of indefinite deficit financing" with a plan calling for a $7,500,000,000 slash in federal spending.

Byrd issued a 4,000-word statement which was virtually an abbreviated federal budget proposal for the next fiscal year, ending June 30, 1951.

Sharp Slashes Urged

It called for government expenses of only $36,000,000,000 during that 12-month period, compared with Byrd's estimate that expenses for fiscal 1950 will total some $43,500,000,000.

Even his proposed budget, Byrd argued, would be $2,000,000,000 more than President Truman's budget for fiscal 1948 — "which ended only 18 months ago."

"It can be achieved without superhuman effort," Byrd said. "It can be reached principally by foregoing nonessential increases and elimination of administrative inefficiency, extravagance and waste."

The senator issued the proposal as the latest step in his long battle to reduce government spending, which is expected to exceed income this year by more than $5,000,000,000.

Differs With Truman

He differed sharply with Mr. Truman's position that the only way to keep government income in line with outgo at this time is by raising taxes.

"To impose new taxes on top of the existing burdensome, and in many instances, almost confiscatory taxation would put us in a position where any minor business decline could easily be accelerated into a major recession," he said.

Byrd's statement came at a time when Mr. Truman and his financial experts were mapping budget plans for the 12-month period beginning next July 1. The Virginia senator left no doubt that he expects their budget proposals to be considerably higher than his.

Three Choices Outlined

"It is apparent that the federal government is headed toward an extended era of chronic deficit spending which may continue until the public debt crushes us into national insolvency," he said.

Byrd said Congress in January has three choices:

1. Increase taxes by more than $7,000,000,000.
2. Hold the spending budget to about $36,000,000,000.
3. "Authorize expenditures to-ling more than $7,000,000,000 in

HST Talks To Budget Chief

KEY WEST, Fla., Dec. 9 (AP) — Budget Director Frank Pace said after a conference with President Truman today he saw no prospect of a balanced budget next year without an increase in taxes.

Pace told a news conference:

"The probability of a balanced budget in 1951 is not great—lacking new taxes."

Pace said he was not aware whether Mr. Truman will ask higher taxes in his "State of the Union message."

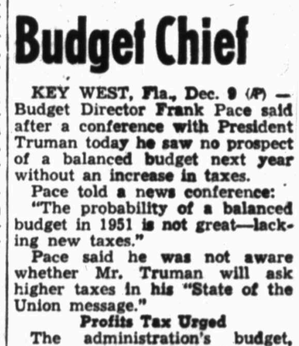

Profits Tax Urged

The administration's budget, which goes to Congress in January, this made clear, will require continued deficit financing unless new taxes are levied.

Mr. Truman has said he saw no way of wiping out the prospective deficit for this fiscal year of $5,500,000,000 without higher taxes.

He is being urged to discuss the prospective budgets for the Defense department, "large scale policy matters pertaining to foreign aid program" expenditures for the next year and the budget for the Interior department, including reclamation projects.

Pace would not forecast the size of the new budget—saying a final figure had not been arrived at—but he said it would not exceed $45,000,000,000 compared with a revised budget of $43,500,000,000 for the current fiscal year.

Never Suffers From Lack Of Boy Friends

Tallest Showgirl Says Height Added Attraction To Romance

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Dec. 9—Lovely Mildred Hughes, the tallest showgirl on Broadway, said today that her added height was an asset to romance.

Miss Hughes, 6 feet 2 inches tall, and beamed to scale, said she never has suffered from from a lack of boy friends although the head of the average man would barely reach her shapely shoulders.

"When a man is out with a beautiful girl," she said, "he likes everyone to see her. He's not particularly concerned about the remarks that are apt to be made about him. The idea is to make other men envious, when he escorts his beau in public."

Miss Hughes, now appearing in the musical hit "As The Girls Go," said a tall girl was "distinctive" and had "individuality."

"Those are very important characteristics," she said. "Every man demands them."

Miss Hughes fills the demands she referred to remakably well. Her official

UN Official Rejects Job Offer By Truman

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9. (AP)—Byron Price, assistant secretary general of the United Nations in charge of administration, has turned down an offer by President Truman to name him assistant secretary of state for public affairs.

Informed officials said today that Price had been offered the assignment recently as successor to George V. Allen, now American ambassador to Yugoslavia. On one or two previous occasions Price had also been picked for this job which includes direction of the Voice of America radio program and an influential role in determining state department public relations policies.

Customers Seek Best Quality For Money

Cautious Christmas Shoppers Decrease Sales, Stores Find

(By The United Press)

Prices on Christmas items are slightly lower than last year and customers are shopping around for good quality merchandise before buying, department stores in a dozen cities reported today.

Meanwhile, Federal Reserve officials reported that sales were down as much as 10 per cent in the same cities compared to last year.

A United Press survey showed that despite the lower prices, customers are taking their time about making purchases, looking around for the best quality at the cheapest price possible.

Durable items, such as television sets, refrigerators, and kitchen ranges are selling better than last year in most cities, however. Some dealers said their television sales were surprisingly good.

Store managers in several towns reported that they had shave their margin of profit due to the increased competition as purchasers hunted for bargains. Some stores were

PAYMENTS WILL START IN JANUARY

Vets' Dividend Plan Snarled By Men With Several Numbers

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9. (AP)—The Veterans administration has run into some problems in its plans to pay veterans a $2,800,000,000 insurance dividend in order of their serial numbers.

Some World War II veterans, it develops, never had a serial number. Some had more than one. Of those with more than one serial number, some had more than one insurance policy.

To Start In January

The first two problems have been solved, with only one hitch: the veterans involved can't tell when they will receive their money. Officials are still trying to decide what to do about vets with multiple serial numbers and policies.

For most veterans, the checks will start going out in January, with precedence based on the last three digits of the insured person's serial number. The "000" group will be paid first, the "999" people last.

That won't apply to some 15,000 former coast guard officers who got along without serial numbers during the war. They will be assigned numbers arbitrarily from a series never used by any service. But they won't know what the numbers are until they get their checks.

Complications Studied

Veterans who had more than one serial number—like enlisted men who later became officers—probably will be paid according to the highest number they had.

The complications develop when such veterans had more than one policy. No one yet knows how that will be handled.

One other group of veterans may collect its dividends slightly off-schedule. It consists of those whose last names are more than 15 letters long, and wouldn't fit on the special tabulating cards.

Their applications will be processed by hand, and there is a chance they will be paid ahead of schedule.

For the bulk of the applicants, the first checks will start through the mail around the middle of next month, with the final payments coming in April, or possibly later.

Two In Family Die Of Heart Attacks

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 9 (U.P.) Mrs. Ferdinand Ehlinger saw her husband and her mother die of heart attacks almost simultaneously.

Both were pronounced dead at a hospital.

Drive-In Features Four-Cent Coffee

DALLAS, Dec. 9 (U.P.)—The nationwide sweep of the 10-cent cup of coffee drew nothing but a sneer today from Hyman Fader, operator of a Dallas drive-in.

Fader said cafe owners could make money on nickel coffee, even if the commodity went to a dollar a pound.

To prove his point, Fader priced his steaming java at 4 cents a cup.

Fader's coffee business has tripled, and his other business was picking up, too.

James T. Donaldson Of Slaton Claimed

SLATON, Dec. 9 (Special)—Funeral arrangements for James T. Donaldson, 43-year-old Slaton service station employe who died at his residence of a heart attack at 9:30 p. m. Thursday, are pending the arrival of relatives.

Donaldson had been a resident of Slaton for the last three years.

He is survived by his wife, four sons, James Elvin, Slaton, Harold Loyd of Los Angeles, Calif., Homer of Slaton and Bobbie Lane of Slaton; and a daughter, Linda Kaye.

Funeral arrangements are under the direction of the Williams Funeral home.

Town Building House On Wheels For Santa

DECATUR, Ill., Dec. 9 (AP) — Santa, so accustomed to traveling by sleigh, will be living in a house on wheels, during his Yuletide stay here.

It's a new house, too, but because it's mobile doesn't mean the jolly gent can roll it back to the North Pole after Christmas. The local civic Yule arrangements committee is building the house on a trailer so it can be easily moved from Santa's Decatur headquarters to its storage place. Previous Santa houses were damaged often in transit, the committee says.

INTELLIGENCE WITH TITO CHARGED

Bulgarian Court Is Sifting Confessions Of Treason Plot

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Dec. 9. (AP)—A special court today raked through confessions of treason and sabotage by Communist leaders once prominent in the councils of Bulgaria's pro-Soviet government.

Six of the 11 on trial have entered guilty pleas. Most of them accused the chief defendant, former Deputy Prime Minister Traicho Kostov, of organizing the plots which the government charges were intended to extend the power of Yugoslavia's Primier Marshal Tito over Bulgaria.

The former government and business leaders are on trial here on charges of treason, sabotage, espionage and treachery. Such crimes are punishable by hanging and there is no appeal from the court's verdict.

Four of the defandants remain to be heard by their judges.

(Kostov, accused of being Bulgaria's major Communist traitor, has repudiated those portions of his pre-trial confession in which he admitted conspiring with agents of Tito and of Britain.)

Those who entered guilty pleas yesterday were Tsonov Tsonchev, former governor of the Bulgarian national bank; Nikola Nachev, former Communist deputy construction minister and member of the ministerial council's financial and economic committee; Nikola Pavlov, former administrative secretary of the Bulgarian politburo; Ivan Tutev, former foreign trade director, and Boris Christov, for three years a Bulgarian commercial representative in Moscow.

Ivan Stefanov, former finance minister, had entered his guilty plea earlier.

They unfolded before the court yesterday a story of information furnished to American and British diplomats and agents and of sabotage activities which some of the defendants said they carried out on Kostov's orders.

Tsonchev said he had furnished information, chiefly about Bulgaria's economy but all classified as state secrets, to five American legation officials including U. S. Minister Donald R. Heath.

(The U. S. State department has denied the charge against Heath, calling it a crude and fanciful tale.)

Pavlov outlined sabotage activities he said Kostov had directed to disorganize Bulgaria's economy and trade. He described conversations against the Bulgarian regime he said were held by Kostov, Tito and Yugoslav Deputy Premier Edvard Kardelj. He said Kostov also had directed him to British intelligence agents.

Tutev described espionage and sabotage he said he had carried on since 1936 as a British agent. He said he worked with Sultana Racho Petrova, whom he identified as a former mistress of the late Bulgarian King Ferdinand. Tutev said he also was paid to sabotage, at Kostov's instructions, Bulgarian-Hungarian trade talks.

(In London the official Russian news agency Tass said Stefanov testified Yugoslav Deputy Premier Kardelj told him in 1946 that Bulgarian President Georgi Dimitrov and other leaders "must be removed . . . even by means of physical extermination." Dimitrov died in a Moscow hospital last July, reportedly from diabetes and liver trouble.)

MECHANIZATION RELEASES FOOD FOR PEOPLE

Science, Wide Use Of New Machinery Double Production Ability Of Farmers In 50 Years

By ROBERT E. GEIGER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9—In 50 years science and machines have just about doubled agriculture's ability to produce.

That's the score-card of farm experts summing up progress in the first half of the 20th century.

They estimate each acre of American land can produce 89 per cent more of the foods and fiber needed for human consumption than it could produce in 1900.

And because of mechanization the farmer himself is 115 per cent more capable of producing materials for human use than was the farmer of 1900.

Machines More Efficient

Mechanization was well under way before 1900. This was the changeover from hand tools such as the scythe to horse-drawn machines like the mower. These animal-drawn machines made the farmer more efficient, but the animals themselves—mostly horses and mules—required hours of care, and many acres were needed to feed them.

In the early 1900s steam and gasoline vehicles began appearing on farms. This placed the farmer behind the steering wheel. It not only made the farmer more efficient but released additional acres for raising more food and fiber for human consumption.

While horses and mules were declining from around 30,000,000 head to about 8,000,000, farm tractors, trucks and automobiles were increasing from zero to 10,000,000.

Science Is Used

In the past few years science has become a full-fledged hired hand of agriculture. Better seeds were created, more knowledge was uncovered about the use of fertilizers and insecticides, better animals were bred and more know-how was accumulated about how to grow crops.

In estimating the efficiency of land and farmers the statisticians add up the total farm production. Then they subtract the products needed to feed the animals that supply farm power. That gives the efficiency factor in terms of the ability of land to produce needed foods and materials—for clothing, etc.

In 1900 this factor stood at 240 and now is around 455, an increase of more than 89 per cent. (The year 1870 was rated 100.)

The total farm output divided by the volume of agricultural effort (total hours worked) gives an estimate of the efficiency of each worker.

In 1900 this factor was 151 and now is around 325, an increase of more than 115 per cent.

MODERN TRACTOR plowing with two plows for optional use.

EARLY DAY plowing—the pioneer and his ox.

Actually, fewer agricultural workers now are producing far more feed and materials than were produced in 1900—and from approximately the same number of acres of croplands.

Breaking down the increases that have taken place, the experts rate each improvement as follows:

1. About 30 per cent of the increase in supplies for human needs has come from acres no longer needed to feed horses and mules. Almost 60,000,000 acres were transferred from raising livestock feed to producing things for humans.

2. Most of the other 70 per cent increase comes from improved farm seeds and animals, from the increased efficiency of machines and improvements in farming methods.

Of the savings in manpower, one Agriculture Department expert says:

If the farmers in World War II had used the same types of machines and methods commonly in use by farmers in World War I, it would have required 4,500,000 more farm workers to raise the crops this nation produced in 1944.

Girl May Lose Hand; Cheers Sick Brother

BROWNSVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 9. (AP)—Little Betty Marbury, whose faith won a nation's heart, must stay close to home the next few days. Her younger brother has come down with scarlet fever.

Nine-year-old Earl was ordered to bed yesterday. This made double trouble for the Marbury family. Doctors say they may be forced to amputate Betty's right hand soon after Christmas because of a malignant lesion.

Betty is spending most of her time at Earl's bedside reading him the thousands of letters she's received from throughout the country. More than 4,000 have been received since the 10-year-old child hit the nation's front pages last week with a plea for prayer to help save her hand.

Luncheon Is Staged

Mesdames W. C. Wood, R. L. Sigler and R. P. Coats were hostesses at a luncheon given Thursday afternoon at the Lubbock Country club. One hundred guests were on the list.

A Christmas motif was used in decorations. Centering the table was a large rose colored candle surrounded by rose Christmas balls entwined with ivy. Glistening snow and pine greenery complemented the arrangement. Other table decorations were of candy canes and Santa Claus boots filled with brightly-colored balls and greenery.

Places were marked with Christmas corsages made of artificial fruits, berries, miniature pine cones and clusters of Yuletide bells.

Mrs. M. Norvel Young spoke on the highlights of her trip to Europe and Asia. She was presented with a bottle of cologne by the three hostesses. Also speaking was Mrs. Charlotte Carter.

Out-of-town guests were Mesdames M. S. Boss of Seminole, R. B. Cowden, Foy Proctor, R. T. Germon, John Dublin and Wade Heath, all of Midland .

Biblical Version Of Christmas Is Given

The Christmas story as recorded by Luke was read by Mrs. M. L. Eagle for Jane Bickley circle of Asbury Methodist Woman's Society of Christian Service Thursda yafternoon at Mrs. A. S. Westbrook's, 1904 Ninth. Mrs. J. H. Rhea was co-hostess.

A review of a talk made by Dr. W. F. Faulkner at the Methodist National Seminar in Nashville, Tenn., last summer was given by Mrs. C. A. Bickley. Mrs. Bert Douglas offered a prayer and Mrs. Eagle presided.

The eight members attending made plans to help a needy family on Christmas.

Silver Key Club Will Give Yuletide Dance

An annual Christmas dance is being planned by Silver Key, men's organization at Texas Tech, at 8:30 o'clock tonight in the ballrooms of Hotel Lubbock.

Decorations will feature a holiday theme, with a large decorated tree centering the main dance floor. Adorning the ceiling will be brightly-colored streamers of metal foil paper. On one wall will hang the Silver Key emblem bearing the letters, "SK" on which will reflect revolving lights in various colors.

The Techsans orchestra will provide music for dancing.

STOCKING STUFFERS—Homemade jellies, jams and marmalade make wonderful Christmas gifts.

Give Jam As Personal Gift

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

A glass of your homemade jelly, jam or marmalade, be-ribboned and tinseled, makes a wonderful Christmas greeting.

Perhaps you want to make some now for Christmas giving. Then use these sure-fire recipes which have been carefully tested.

Begin with apple jelly, always a favorite. Apples are cheap and good.

Apple Jelly
(Makes about 12 six-ounce glasses)

Five cups fresh apple juice, 7½ cups sugar, ½ bottle fruit pectin.

To prepare the juice: Remove blossom and stem ends from about 3½ pounds fully ripe apples; cut in small pieces. Do not peel or core. Add 3 cups water, bring to a boil, and simmer, covered, 10 minutes. Crush with masher and simmer, covered, 5 minutes longer. Place in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice. Measure 5 cups juice into a very large saucepan. (With soft, very sweet apples, add juice of 1 medium-sized lemon to apple juice.)

To make the jelly: Add sugar to juice in saucepan and mix well. Place over high heat and bring to a boil, stirring constantly. At once stir in bottled fruit pectin. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard ½ minute. Remove from heat, skim, pour quickly into glasses. Paraffin at once.

What could be more Christmasy than red cinnamon candy jelly?

Cinnamon Candy Jelly
(Makes about 4 six-ounce glasses)

Two and one-half cups sugar, 1½ cups water, ¼ pound red cinnamon candies, ½ bottle fruit pectin.

Measure sugar, water and cinnamon candies into saucepan and mix well. Place over high heat and bring to a boil, stirring constantly. At once stir in bottled fruit pectin. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard ½ minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat, skim, pour quickly into glasses. Paraffin at once.

Naomi Class To Pack Basket For Family

Members of First Baptist Naomi class who attended a covered dish luncheon at the Activities center Thursday, voted to pack a Christmas basket for a needy family.

Mrs. R. D. Bumpass, a guest, offered the invocation and Mrs. H. V. Bigham gave a devotion on "Christian Living." The benediction was by Mrs. L. G. Haynes.

Thirteen members were present. Mrs. Mary L. Thompson presided for business.

As You Like It Club Has Yuletide Party

Mrs. C. T. Potts was hostess at a social and business meeting of As You Like It club Thursday in her home south of Lubbock. Gifts were exchanged, and gifts for children were brought for Milam's home. Games in the Christmas theme were played and refreshments were served to:

Mesdames L. C. Brown, Boyd Coleman, Tolbert Coleman, Ralpn Guthrie, J. L. Haynes, Theo Lide, L. F. Lincecum, O. O. Mabry, Jimmy McDonald, W. M. McFarland, G. C. Pitts, W. H. Richardson, J. L. Sossoman, J. F. Sullivent and H. L. Wells.

Needle Club Attends Christmas Luncheon

In the W. P. Clement home at 2606 Twentieth Thursday, a turkey dinner was given for 1911 Needle club. Mrs. Clement and Mrs. A. B. Conley were hostesses.

Corsages of holly tied with tiny Christmas bells formed the place cards for the 20 guests. Greenery and red candles were used to decorate for the Yuletide event.

Colonial Club Plans For Yuletide Party

Mrs. C. C. Taylor, 2507 Twenty-first, who was hostess to Colonial Needle club Thursday afternoon, served Christmas refreshments to eight members and one guest. The women spent the afternoon sewing

The social committee will be in charge of a Christmas party to be held Tuesday, Dec. 20, at 2:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. F. G. Treat, 1507 Arnett. Gifts will be exchanged.

Luncheons Predominate In Holiday Entertaining

The round of pre-Christmas entertaining continues here.

Mesdames Marshall Pennington and Frank Junell gave a luncheon at the Hilton hotel this afternoon. Covers were laid for 22 guests.

A red and silver Christmas theme was carried out with small silver trees from Juarez, Mexico, in which burned red candles, centering the table. Red candles i. silver containers were placed on either side of the centerpiece.

For Study Club

Garden Study club members attended a Christmas luncheon today at 1 o'clock with Mesdames W. T. Bradbury, P. T. Glazner and William G. Newton as hostesses.

A centerpiece of six red candles trimmed with pine, holly and multi-colored balls predominated. Other decorations included China Santa Claus boots filled with holly and holiday balls.

Mrs. O. L. Byrd reviewed "Mary" (Asch).

Farmerettes club, whose membership is made up of young women in the Acuff community, attended a Christmas luncheon Thursday at the home of Mrs. Brodie Darby.

Gifts, which had been placed on a white tree, were exchanged.

A yule party for husbands was planned for Dec. 16 at 7:30 p. m. at the Idalou clubhouse. The next regular luncheon meeting will be Jan. 11 at the home of Mrs. M. C. Darden.

P-TA Notes

A Christmas program, including music and the reading of the Christmas story from the Bible, was given Thursday afternoon for P. F. Brown Parent-Teacher association by pupils of the school. Helen Smith was reader.

One hundred seventy-eight persons attended. Mrs. Alfred Crosby presided for a brief business session.

Fourth grade pupils of Sam C. Arnett school, directed by Mrs. Frank Millican, sang Christmas carols for the Arnett Parent-Teacher association Thursday afternoon at the school. Other pupils, Lawanda Hazel, Arden Stone, Shirley Hamilton and Mike Robinson, gave readings.

Mrs. Lelton Hilton led the opening prayer.

Plans were discussed for Christmas parties to be held by each room of the school Wednesday, Dec. 21.

The book, "Cheaper by the Dozen," (Gilbreth) was reviewed by Mrs. R. P. Miller for Wolffarth Parent-Teacher association Thursday afternoon at the school. Mrs. Arthur Gafford presided. Thirty-six patrons were present.

The P-T unit will sponsor the showing of a movie at the school next Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock and 3:40 o'clock. A charge of 10 cents will be made for admission.

A Christmas Musical festival, in two parts, was given at the December meeting of J. T. Hutchinson Parent-Teacher association Thursday night at the school. Orchestra numbers were directed by Robert Pipkin and carols by the school Choral club were directed by Miss Nell Goodloe.

Following the program ,a business session was held.

Get Service With "Nice" Approach

Lubbock Women's clubhouse, 2020 Broadway, was scene of the turkey dinner and Christmas party given by Bud to Blossom Garden club Thursday night. Mrs. O. B. Ratliff and Mrs. Larry Kennedy were hostesses.

Vacation movies and slides of flower arrangements and yards were shown by Mrs. Kennedy.

Gifts were exchanged by the following: Mesdames J. W. Harrison, Ira Owens, G. W. Tate, F. J. Batsell, Vernon Matheny, L. R. Harrison, Perry Adams, C. W. Trippe, C. N. McGhee, Voris Myatt, Jim Roberts, Roy Wheeler, Sam Hitch, E. B. Herriage, J. B. Marion, Foy Johnson, C. E. Connally, J. F. Bennett, T. E. Milam, Carl Sutton and Miss Zera Dopson, and the hostesses.

Museum Group Plans Program, Dinner

Tonight at 7 o'clock the annual meeting of the West Texas Museum association will be held in the auditorium of the new museum building on the circle at Texas Tech college.

In charge of the informal reception committee will be Mesdames Roscoe Wilson, third vice president of the association, and Clifford B. Jones. Other members of the committee will be Retha Martin, president of the association; Dr. Clifford B. Jones, first vice president; J. D. Hassell, jr., second vice president; Chas. A. Guy, fourth vice president; Jess C. Levens, fifth vice president; Dean James G. Allen, secretary; Mrs. C. D. Eaves, treasurer and Dr W. C. Holden, director. Wives of the officers will also serve as receptionists.

Preceding the program, a ranch-style meal will be served informally from a U-shaped table, covered with red checked table cloths. Table decorations will be authentic articles of ranch life from the museum collection of branding irons, barbed wire, lanterns, ropes, and miniature chuck-wagons.

Dean Allen will give a summary of the museum's past, honoring those who have made the present building possible. The museum program, activities and policy for the future are to be given by Dr. Holden. Committees that will actively assist in carrying out this program will be appointed.

Special guests of the Museum association will be members of the Texas Tech Board of Directors and their wives, Messrs. and Mesdames Charles Thompson of Colorado City, Mark McGee of Fort Worth, Chanslor E. Weymouth of Amarillo, Leon Ince of Houston, A. G. Mayse of Paris, Robert B. Price of El Paso, Charles W. Wooldridge of Dallas, Raymond Pfluger of Eden, C. T. McLaughlin of Snyder, and out-going members of the board and their wives, Messrs. and Mesdames O. B. Ratliff and Kyle Spiller of Jacksboro. Other guests will be Pres. and Mrs. D. M. Wiggins, Vice President and Mrs. E. N. Jones and Rep. and Mrs. George Mahon.

Since the building is not entirely complete, Dr. Holden emphasizes that this is not an official opening of the museum. Tentative plans for a grand opening, featuring special exhibits and including all the Southwest, will probably be next fall. The museum will be open to the public and in active use by Jan. 15.

For First Time In Experience, Girl Made Play For Man Who Fled; She Asks Help

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Several months ago I met Ted, a very nice fellow whom I like very much, I think. After a few dates I made a fool of myself, unfortunately, by making a play for him, an error that I have keenly regretted ever since.

I had never before made a play for any fellow and am certainly at a loss to explain my actions. Due to my mistake Ted was careful to avoid my vicinity for the next six weeks, and only in the last few weeks has he been dropping into the office again. But even now it is very obvious that he is keeping out of my way, because when I walk in he departs and doesn't return until he thinks I've already gone.

He doesn't even speak to me nowadays, which makes a situation that is embarrassing to both of us, I feel. One of my girl friends tried to question one of Ted's boy friends about his behavior, but his friend simply said that Ted is a funny person and very bashful.

My problem is that I would like very much to make amends, as I like him very much; but I am at a loss to know how to proceed, or how to go about healing the rift. I had thought of talking to him, but wonder if this would be the correct thing to do. I would certainly appreciate your advice.
(Signed) S. L.

SEVERE CENSURE ISN'T JUSTIFIED

DEAR S. L.: As I understand, the popular interpretation of the term "making a play" differs according to whether it is a girl or a man who is making the play.

That is, if you say a girl is making a play for a man, usually it signifies that she is bidding for his serious interest, trying to induce him to love her truly, and the first moves consist in trying to get him to date her habitually and exclusively.

On the other hand, if you say a man "makes a play" for a girl, usually it means that his intentions are strictly dishonorable—that he is interested in sexual conquest, not love or marriage.

But as you use the term, in confessional tones of self condemnation, as if you'd been guilty of improper behavior, I gather your play was different from either of these—and that you are referring to an impulsive attempt to get inside bashful Ted's emotional reserve by aggressively using vampire-bait, namely, petting; and that Ted reacted in shock and fright, from which he hasn't recovered yet.

FRIENDLY SPIRIT IS COMMENDABLE

IF such is the story, it seems only fair to say on your behalf—just in case Ted reads this—that I'm sure your intentions weren't immoral, but rather romantically wistful, in the sense that you liked him so very much that you hoped to spark love in his heart too. And although your tactics were primitively gauche, nevertheless both of you should realize in retrospect that your mistake was due to lack of social training, and not to licentious character or dishonorable design.

So much for the nature of the blunder. As for making amends to Ted for the fright he got, my advice is—Don't bother. In keeping your mind and spirit open to the hope of reconciliation, you are demonstrating good psychological health, whereas he, is avoiding your vicinity as if you were the original serpent, is giving evidence of serious ineptitude in human relations.

In my opinion, it isn't compatible with the personal dignity and self respect that every human being is entitled to maintain, for you to tag after Ted figuratively wearing sackcloth and ashes, begging to be excused for your foolish impetuosity which affected him so peculiarly. Inasmuch as he hasn't the sense to meet you halfway in ordinary courtesy after an instance of mutual embarrassment, you'd simply be playing the fool twice over—to his greater dismay—if you tried to pursue the matter further.

Jaycee Is Speaker For ABC Meeting

Bill Tinney, a member of the Lubbock Junior Chamber of Commerce and an instructor in the dairy manufacturing department at Texas Tech, today asked support of the American Business club in combatting waste, duplication and corruption in government spending by adoption of the Hoover Commission report findings and recommendations.

Speaking at a luncheon meeting in the Hilton hotel which was also attended by Congressman George Mahon, Tinney assured members they would lose no services from the government if the Hoover Commission suggestions are enacted into law.

Congressman Mahon said he was in favor of cutting wasteful government spending.

Carl Baily, chairman of the club's nomination committee, presided over a session for nomination for club offices. Only one new nomination was added to the list already prepared by the committee. A. C. Sanders was nominated for the office of president.

Bailey announced that W. D. McCarty and Grady Knight are the committee's choices for candidates as secretary-treasurer.

President George Dale announced formal opening of the Boy's club will be Dec. 16.

Title Bouts Slated Tonight

Local Boxers Pace Tourney

Championships will be determined in all weight classes of the district TAAF boxing tournament at Sled Allen's arena tonight, with the first bout scheduled to begin at 8 p. m.

A chance to win an all-expense paid trip to the state TAAF tournament in Fort Worth rides on the outcome of the bouts tonight and several good scraps are in prospect for fight fans.

Dan Williams Impressive

Three technical knockouts and one kayo featured opening rounds at the arena last night, with Light Heavyweight Dan Williams of Lubbock turning in the spotlight performance. Williams cold-cocked Phil Withrow of Odessa to score the only knockout on the opening night card, witnessed by a slim crowd.

And while there were no teams entered as such, Lubbock fighters dominated first round bouts. Odessa, Plainview and Reese Air Force Base fighters were able to win only two of 10 bouts against local boxers.

Probably the top bout from the crowd's standpoint was the first one of the night, which pitted Pat McCarty of Lubbock against Steve Ward of Odessa in a fast lightweight scrap. Both boys abandoned caution to trade punches and had the crowd yelling for three rounds.

Three TKO's Chalked Up

Aside from Williams' knockout of Withrow, there were no other kayoes, although three technical knockouts were chalked up. Referee Bo Sexton stopped the middleweight fight between Homer Rudd and Jack Rodrique when it became obvious that Lubbock's Rudd could go on no longer. The TKO came at 1:17 of the third round.

Bantamweight Ray Thornton scored a TKO over Eldon McNutt of Plainview at 1:01 of the second round, after McNutt had been saved by the bell at the end of the first round. And Welterweight John Pritchard hung up a TKO over game Frank Campbell of RAFB at 0:29 of the second round. It was Campbell's first fight and he was game, but no match for the more experienced Pritchard.

Williams Has Easy Go

The McCarty-Ward fight was a standout. McCarty went down from a stinging right in the first round, taking a nine count, but bounced back to carry the fight. McCarty won the second round when Ward tired. There was action all the way, with both boys trading leather generously. The third round was a duplicate of the other two, with McCarty landing the more telling blows.

Williams, opening like a windmill, had little trouble with Withrow. He landed some telling blows below the heart that weakened the Odessa fighter and a straight left jab to Withrow's face had him loop-legged. Williams finally closed in for the kill early in the second round, pumping lefts and rights to the body and head.

Finals Tonight

It was a good fight card, all told, and the finals tonight should be much better. There will be nine bouts, with two fighters appearing twice in the middleweight and featherweight divisions.

The card brings together Bill Gillespie of Plainview and McCarty for the lightweight title; Thornton and Ken Nunnely of Odessa for the bantamweight title; Pritchard and Roy Forbes of Lubbock for the welterweight title; Withrow and Cotton Martin of Odessa in the heavyweight match; and Williams and Harry Meredith of Odessa for the Light heavyweight crown.

Hard-hitting Charles Robertson of RAFB meets Lubbock's Mickie Flood in the first middleweight bout, with Rodrique meeting the winner for the championship. Bill Lewis of Lubbock faces Bill Reeves of Odessa in the first featherweight scrap, with Don Scott of Odessa meeting the winner for the title.

Last night's results follow:

Bantamweight—Ray Thornton, Lubbock, decisioned Eldon McNutt, Plainview.

Lightweight—Bill Gillespie, Plainview, decisioned Douglas Turner, Lubbock; Pat McCarty, Lubbock, decisioned Steve Ward, Odessa.

Featherweight—Bill Lewis, Lubbock, decisioned Glenn Lunnie, Plainview; Don Scott, Odessa, decisioned LeRoy Way, Plainview.

Welterweight—John Pritchard, Lubbock, scored TKO over Frank Campbell RAFB, 0:29 of second round; James Forbes, Brownfield, decisioned Frenchie Cedotal, RAFB.

Middleweight—Charles Robertson, RAFB decisioned Jack Hinson, Lubbock; Jack Rodrique, RAFB, scored TKO over Homer Rudd, Lubbock, 1:17 of third round; Mickie Flood, Lubbock, decisioned Robert Stice, RAFB.

Light Heavyweight—Dan Williams, Lubbock, knocked out Phil Withrow, Odessa, 1:12 of second round.

NOVICE DIVISION

Flyweight—Ronnie Browning, Tahoka, decisioned Robert Briscoe, Brownfield.

Lightweight—Woody Mann, Plainview, decisioned Charles Cabbines, Brownfield.

FORMFUL—Pancho Gonzales, cracking down on a service ace, joins the prettiest swings in sports. The others are, of course, Ted Williams, left, going for the distance, and Sam Snead hitting a long iron.

TOTAL OF 36 PLAYERS AFFECTED

Action To Repeal Bonus Rule Fails

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Staff Writer

BALTIMORE, Dec. 9 — The failure of the minor leagues to wipe out the bonus rule affects 36 bonus players on major league rosters representing a total outlay of some $800,000.

Added to this sizeable bundle are 185 bonus-tagged minor league players to increase the total expenditure to well above the million mark. It is small wonder then the "stuck" major league club owners went all out to ditch baseball's most controversial law.

Leading the fight for repeal at the minor league's annual convention yesterday was Bob Carpenter, president of the Phalidalephia Phils, who own more bonus players than any other club The staunchest supporters of the rule were Warren Giles, president of the Cincinnati Reds, Fred Saigh, owner of the St. Louis Cardinals and Bill DeWitt, head of the St. Louis Browns.

Bonus Rule Retained

Needing 45 assenting votes of the 59 leagues, or three-fouhts, the proposal to repeal the rule got only 32 "yes" votes. There were 26 "no" votes and one league abstnaied. As a result, the bonus rule is here to stay—at least for another year.

The action means that the majors probably will make no real move in their joint meeting in New York next week except merely to discuss the situation. No vote is expected to be taken although a canvass of major league club owners showed them evenly divided over the rule.

Among the higher priced players "frozen" in the big leagues are Catcher Frank House, Detroit ($72,000); Pitcher Johnny Antonelli, Boston Braves ($65,000); Pitcher Curt Simmons, Phillies ($60,000); Pitcher Frank Quinn, Boston Red Sox ($50,000); Pitcher Paul Hinrichs, New York Yankees ($50,000); and Outfielder Jackie Jensen, Yankees ($45,000).

Rule Is Supported

Giles, chief spokesman for the retention of the rule, urged the minors to give it a chance to work.

"After all,' he said', "the rule has been in operation only three years. Sure it's not perfect, but no one can deny that it has helped to curb wild spending for untried players."

The bonus rule was adopted originally to stop big payments to promising players for their signature on their first contracts in organized baseball.

It clamps tight restrictions on players who are paid more than a set scale for signing contracts.

Regulation Clarified

Such a bonus player cannot be farmed out unless nobody claims him for the waiver price, which varies from $10,000 in the majors to $100 in Class D leagues. He is subject to unrestricted draft by clubs of higher classification as long as he stays in the minors.

The vote on the bonus was the big business of the convention, which closes today with a brief session.

The minor leagues also clarified yesterday the much-debated high school rule.

Under the old wording, a player could be signed by a professional team only "when his class graduates."

That phraseology was open to a number of interpretations.

The leagues nailed the whole thing down by adopting unanimously an amendment setting forth that a boy can be signed only after his "original class" graduates, even though he has left school or failed to get his diploma with his class.

Schedule For Teams Given

DALLAS, Dec. 9. (AP)—Football fans won't get to see much of the Cotton Bowl teams this time. In fact, in order to look over the Rice Owls, a fellow will have to have a ticket to the game and a ticket to the game is as scarce as the Rice Owls are going to be.

Sounds confusing but this is the situation as announced by the Cotton Bowl office today:

Rice, the Southwest conference champion and host in the bowl game Jan. 2, will come to town after the company arrives. The Owls will be here just long enough to pick up their check for $120,000.

North Carolina, the visitor, does a little better, arriving Dec. 28 and holding four work-outs before meeting Rice in the bowl battle.

Rice slips quietly into Dallas on Jan. 1. Could be the team members objected to being away from their studies any longer than necessary. Too, Rice already has played in the Cotton Bowl once this year and there's nothing new to see in Dallas.

Rice hasn't hit a lick since winning the conference title Nov. 26. But the Owls return to the practice field next Monday.

Meanwhile, a lot of folk are looking for tickets to the game, of which there are officially none.

Rice will be glad to know it's a 10-point favorite in first odds posted locally.

BOWL TILT SATURDAY

Unbeaten Cage Teams Tangle

Two undefeated basketball teams meet today at Boys club when the Fancy Five and Sorry Lot come together in the Junior league.

Both teams were idle yesterday as six games were played at the club, and today's schedule lists five tilts. Included are the Stampeders vs. Roughies, Eagles vs. Raiders, Basketeers vs. Five Fools and the Golden Gophers vs. Unconscious Five.

Yesterday's games were highlighted by the Independent vs. Barber college contest, with the Independents winning by a 48-42 score after trailing at the half, 22-20. Mickie Lawrence took scoring honors with 15 points for the Boys club team, and Melvin Johnson had 12 for the losers.

The Dirty Demons overcame the Seventh Street Thugs by a 30-28 score, with Davis Hopper's 12 points being the most help. Lyndell Bailey counted seven for the losers in senior competition.

An easy time was had by the Fungis Five as the quintet romped to a 22-10 triumph over the Junior Longhorns. For the winners John Blocker tallied eight points, and Jimmie Washington picked up five for the Longhorns.

Two Midget games saw the Palominos edge the Galloping Ghosts, 20-18, and the Raiders blast the Five Little Angels, 26-18.

Jim Hawkins led the Raiders with 16 points and Don Dunagan scored five for the Angels.

Dale Ball was hot in the last half, scoring 14 points for the Palominos, and Maxwell Noland picked up 12 for the losing Ghosts.

In the Pee Wee contest Paul Sikes made eight points to lead the Maulers to a 13-8 victory over the Buffaloes, with David Kelly scoring all points for the losers.

Today's schedule sends the Stampeders vs. Roughies, Eagles vs. Raiders, Basketeers vs. Five Fools, Fancy Five vs. Sorry Lot, and the Golden Gophers vs. Unconscious Five.

Bud Wilkinson Is "Coach Of Year"

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (U.P.)—Charles (Bud) Wilkinson, 34-year-old pilot of unbeaten and sugar bowl-bound Oklahoma, today was named "coach of the year" by the American Football Coaches association in a poll conducted by the New York World Telegram and the Scripps-Howard newspapers.

The Sooners' skipper polled 102 first place votes out of 382 ballots. He was named either first, second, or third, on 199 ballots, although many voters made only one selection.

Runner-up to Wilkinson with 69 votes was Lynn Waldorf, coach of unbeaten California, the Rose bowl team. Waldorf also finished second last year behind Bennie Oosterbaan of Michigan and third behind Fritz Crisler of Michigan in 1947. Waldorf won the first "coach of the year" award in 1935.

SWC Officials To Meet Today

DALLAS, Dec. 9. (AP)—Four college athletic conference open winter meetings in Dallas today with everything from rough football to expansion on the agenda.

The Southwest conference coaches, athletic directors and business managers get together this afternoon. Tonight, the faculty committee, governing body of the circuit, holds its first session The windup will be tomorrow morning.

Topics Are Listed

Conference officials reported a short list of topics.

One is the protest of Dutch Meyer, Texas Christian university coach, over rough play by Arkansas in their football game last fall. Meyer charged too many illegal uses of the hands and arms and filed an official portest with James H. Stewart, secretary of the conference.

Another subject that could bring fireworks is the officiating situation. The coaches got together and made out a list of officials to be used in conference games. Only those getting unanimous vote were assigned to the games. It excluded some of the best known officials in the business. The officials association has promised to take the thing up with the conference.

Expansion Is Talked

Other conferences to hold meetings are the Lone Star, Gulf coast and Texas conferences and the Southwestern junior college conference.

The Gulf coast conference, made up of four schools—University of Houston, Trinity, Hardin and North Texas State—is talking expansion with Oklahoma City university mentioned as a likely addition.

Bears Pound Raiders

Tech Loses By 58-37 Margin

BROWNWOOD, Dec. 9 (Special) Texas Tech's Red Raider cagers continue their strenuous schedule here tonight against Howard Payne after losing Thursday to Baylor, 58-37.

The loss to Baylor was the third straight on the road for Coach Polk Robison's Tech quintet, and he will be out to step into the win column tonight.

Against the Bears, Tech put up a strong first-half battle before bowing under a terrific barrage of field goals in the second half.

Jackson Tops Raiders

Chester Jackson led the Raiders in the battle with their Southwest conference foe, hitting the basket for 13 points, most of which came on long shots. Jim Eddins and Charlie Pinnell scored seven and six points respectively.

High man for Baylor with three field goals and 10 free throws good for 16 points was Lanky Don Heathington.

The Bears and the Raiders matched goal for goal the first period, with the score 22-16 at the midway point. However, the second half the Bruins woke up and started hitting, sinking 75 per cent of their field goal attempts.

Leading the last half parade of points for the Bears was Gerald Cobb, junior letterman, who netted 11 points in the final frame. With five minutes to go, Coach Bill Henderson of Baylor sent in sophomore reserves to finish the game.

Heathington was playing his first game of the year for the Bruins, having missed Monday's opener because of influenza.

LUBBOCK BIDS FOR FIFTH WIN

Big Spring Tests Westerner Cagers

Indications are that the Westerners will be pushed to the limit tonight when the Big Spring cagers invade Chapman fieldhouse for a pair of games, with the big attraction at 8 o'clock.

Already victorious in four starts this season, two each over Abernathy and Plainview, Coach David Cook will send his Westerner squad after its fifth win of the year.

Cowhands To Play

In the opener at 6:30 p.m. the Lubbock Cowhands engage Big Spring's "B" team. Since organized with Dee Alexander as coach, the Cowhands have taken two straight, both at the expense of Plainview.

Some reorganization has been seen on the Westerner squad the past few days. Since the completion of football season several boys have been sent back to the Cowhands, and their places have been taken by former gridders. One of the last to report is Mac Taylor, and he joins Bobby Day, Wayne Noland, Garnet Reeves, Morris Turner and Dean White.

Footwork Stressed

Thursday at practice Coach Cook sent the team through drills on fundamentals and then into a 15-minute scrimmage. Following the scrimmage there was hard work on footwork and passing drills as the boys weaved up and down the court, topped off with laps around the court. All of which added up to a very tiring workout.

Coach Cook will probably send his regular starters into the game tonight, with Jimmy Sexton and Tom Cheatham at forwards, Richard Allen and Carl Ince at guards and Jim Wilson at center.

Alexander is faced with a big problem, that of trying to determine the better boys for his Cowhand team. Thursday there were 34 boys working out, and of this number approximately 12-14 will be kept on the Cowhands, with some finding berths on the Pioneer squad.

Probable starters for the Cowhands in the opener will be Sammy Adams and Bill Davis, forwards, Charles Brewer and Bobby Sexton, guards and Tommy Yelvington, center.

Admission to all Westerner non-conference game will be 60 cents for adults and 30 cents for students and children.

Idalou Drubs Post, 26-18

Post and Idalou opened the state-wide basketball tournament for girls at Rosevelt school last night, and 700 persons witnessed the four-game program.

Idalou a 5-5 first-quarter deadlock with the Antelopes and went on to defeat Post, 26-18, in the first game and advance to the quarter-finals as Butler scored 11 points. Stewart had eight for Post.

Bynum marked itself as one of the favorites by trouncing Meadow by a 69-34 count, with Dorothy Howard hitting the basket almost at will to roll up 32 points. Belew had 14 for the Broncos.

The host school, Roosevelt, swept to an easy, 42-14 win over Abernathy after a 25-6 halftime margin. Margaret Rucker's 18 tallies were high for the winners, and Abernathy was led by Vineyard.

Completing Thursday's schedule, East Chambers toppled Aledo into the consolation bracket with a 34-16 triumph. Ryan's 18 points led East Chambers, and Head and Kirk scored five each for Aledo's sextet.

In Friday's consolation bracket Post meets Meadow at 6 p.m. and Abernathy plays Aledo at 9 p.m. Idalou opens play in the winning bracket against Bynum at 7 p.m., and Roosevelt takes on East Chambers at 8 p.m.

Spur Beats Lakeview In Matador Tourney

MATADOR, Dec. 9 (Special) — Five games were played here Thursday as play in the annual Lions club basketball tournament reseumed after a night's inactivity.

Quarter-finals are scheduled Friday, with semi-finals and finals being played Saturday.

Three boys games were played, with Spur defeating Lakeview, 35-33; Roaring Springs downing Flomot, 37-9; and Tulia besting Crowell, 32-25.

In girls games Roaring Springs tripped Flomot, 35-12, and Spur defeated Lakeview, 31-27.

Revenge Goal Of Frenchman

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 9. — Robert Villemain is a typical prize fighter, a chunky, battered and scarred little man not given much to emotion, but his deep brown eyes glowed with fanatical zeal today as he promised to beat middleweight Champion Jake LaMotta "for ze honor of La Belle France."

Villemain is spurred by a frenzied fervor seldom connecte with the oft-brutal and ever-mercenary fight game. This bout, and a possible future shot at LaMotta's crown, has fired the Frenchman to the pitch of a holy crusade.

Friend Is Killed

It is a pledge to the memory of a friend snatched away by fate before he could do the job. That man was Marcel Cerdan. He died Oct. 28 when his plane crashed against a mountaintop in the Azores as he was enroute back to the United States for a title bout with LaMotta. Now Villemain has taken up the gage.

"When Cerdan lost his life," Villemain breathed heavily in his broken English, "he lose his chance — and the chance for France. I swear I will win it back. It is a vow I shall keep."

The handsome Cerdan and the plain Villemain were fast friends, an Athos and Porthos of the ring determined to bring gloved glory to the fleur-de-lis. Cerdan reached the goal first when he captured the middleweight title from Tony Zale in 1948. But when he lost it to LaMotta last June.

Wins Two Fights

They had a rematch slated for Sept. 28 and four days before the fight Villemain visited the optimistic Marcel at his training camp. They were together when the word came that the fight had been postponed to Dec. 2.

Cerdan, fit and confident, cried like a child. Villemain, with an arm around his friend's shoulders, wept bitterly. There was no jealousy in Villemain's soul, only a searing frustration for the loss of an opportunity by Marcel—and by France.

They went home with their disappointment. Cerdan never to return. But Villemain came back and won two fights—and earned another shot at the Bronx bull who had beaten both him and his friend.

LaMotta is not the type to get geared up by patriotic fervor—nor to be bothered by it. As he prepared for the fight tonight at Madison Square Garden he pulled a synthetic Gene Tunney.

Jake the bull, not exactly one of the literati, purportedly was reading Freud and the famed psychoanalyst's tome on the mental gymnastics of Leonardo Da Vinci.

Behavior Is Mystery

"I read the microbe hunters, too," he alleged.

"What's that about, psychoanalysis?" he was asked.

"Naw," the bull roared, "that other stuff, psycho-sompin,' you know."

It turned out that he meant psychology. But the phenomena of Villemain's behavior still is, and undoubtedly always will be, just a mystery to the burly Jake, a man whose instincts respond to a dollar sign.

The fight mob, a cautious, covetous crew in the dollar department, also finds Villeman difficult to understand. They can't fathom that flag waving in his eyes and have installed LaMotta as a 13 to 5 choice.

"Ze odds mean nothing," Villemain spat grimly. "I will prove that a Frenchman in good condition will always beat LaMotta. And when I win I will demand he will fight me for the title which belongs to France.

"I make the vow—for Cerdan and for France!"

It would be nice if the little guy could do it.

Rice Cagers Invade New Orleans Tonight

(By The Associated Press)

Two Southwest conference teams—Rice and Arkansas—take on intersectional foes tonight while Texas tackles North Texas State.

Rice's basketball team invades New Orleans to meet Tulane and Arkansas goes to Baton Rouge to take on Louisiana State.

Baylor last night won its second game in as many starts, dumping Texas Tech, 58-37, as Don Heathington scored 16 points.

Texas Christian came from behind to trounce Abilene Christian, 65-57, on the sharpshooting of sophomore Tommy Taylor, who scored 18 points.

Southern Methodist dropped a 67-53 decision to City College of New York at Madison Square Garden.

Littlefield, Olton See Action Today

Littlefield and Olton, the South Plains' last remaining candidates in the Interscholastic league football playoffs, both were scheduled to see action today.

Littlefield, District 4-A champion, was to square off against Ballinger, District 7-A titlist, in a state quarterfinal game at Odessa's Broncho stadium at 2 p. m.

Olton was to meet Kress for the Region One Class B championship at Plainview High stadium at 2:30 p. m.

Harry Davis Signed As Amarillo Pilot

AMARILLO, Dec. 9 (Special) — A former first baseman for the Detroit Tigers and St. Louis Browns, Harry Davis, has been signed as manager of the Amarillo Gold Sox in 1950.

Gold Sox officials, attending the annual convlave of the Minor Leagues in Baltimore, announced the appointment of Davis as successor to Jess Landrum, who was fired in midseason last year, and Buck Fausett, co-owner of the Sox.

Davis last year piloted Gadsen of the Class B Southeastern League and had been there two years after leaving the position as manager of Marshall of the Class C East Texas circuit.

Prior to that time, Davis had served as manager of Toronto in the International League and Greenville of the Class B Big State League.

Davis served with Detroit in 1932 and 1933 and with St. Louis in 1937. His home is in Shreveport, La.

Joe Louis Offered "Big Money" Bouts

DETROIT, Dec. 9. (AP)—Joe Louis, a terror of the prize ring for 14 years, is finding his retirement a problem.

He says—emphatically—he's not interested in a comeback, but the "big money" proposals again are being waved at him.

The management of Lee Oma, who withdrew from a scheduled exhibition go with the Brown Bomber here next Wednesday, offers $35,000 for a "real fight."

And Jake Mintz, co-manager of NBA Champion Ezzard Charles, wants a match next summer between his man and Louis. He sees a "million dollar gate."

This stems from Wednesday night in Chicago when Louis knocked out Pat Valentino in the eighth round of their exhibition match. Valentino lasted just eight rounds against NBA Champion Charles.

Oma's manager, after one look at a newspaper picture of Valentina's face, wired matchmaker Nick Londes that Oma was "pulling out."

He suggested instead a "real fight."

Ropesville Cagers Beat Sundown Twice

ROPESVILLE, Dec. 9. (Special) Ropesville basketball teams had the edge over Sundown here Thursday night in three basketball games, winning two and losing one.

The Ropesville "A" team took a 42-30 victory over Sundown, with Don Reynolds of Ropesville and Bob Clark of Sundown sharing scoring honors with 12 points each.

The girls won, 26-19, with Dale Tibbets getting nine for Ropesville and Burns scoring six for Sundown.

In a "B" team game, the Sundown boys won, 29-15.

DRIVE-IN WINS

Westerner Drive-In Theater defeated Tech Rodeo club by a narrow, 33-32 margin Thursday night in an overtime period of an independent basketball contest. David Lloyd paced the winners with 10 points, but scoring honors went to B. F. Yates of the losers with 14 markers.

Coach Ben Schwartzwalder of the Syracuse University football team is the 22nd head grid coach in Orange history.

Between the Lines by Joe Kelly

Tuffy Nabors, who used to play a lot of center for Texas Tech, is assistant football coach at Texas Western. Most everyone knew that, but it didn't stop several fans from becoming indignant at Tuffy last week. Tuffy probably would like to see Tech beat everyone except Texas Western—and he might even like that deep down within. But when it comes to gathering in players for Tech or Western, he's all for Western. After all, his bread and butter depends on that. So when he was interviewed following the Lubbock-El Paso game last Saturday and remarked: "That Bobby Dirmeyer played a whale of a game, I hope he comes to Western," a lot of Lubbock fans apparently became peeved at Tuffy. Hope those fans understand that Tuffy really is for the Raiders, but his business comes first.

There's a cartoon appearing in The New Yorker that might have been written especially for the Notre Dame-SMU game. The cartoon shows two men sitting in the stands watching a ball game. One of the men becomes excited and starts extolling the merits of one of the teams. Finally, the other man becomes irked with the demonstration and asks him: "Say, are you a Catholic or a Methodist?" The other fellow, startled, turns and says: "Neither. I'm an atheist. I just came here to see a football game."

Speaking of magazines, if you haven't gotten this month's issue of Sport, waste no more time. It's the usual well-filled issue, but it's more than worth the price alone for the tremendous article on Jim Thorpe, the all-time all-great in any sport. Thorpe, the great Indian-Irish player who startled the world with his feats while performing for tiny Carlisle Indian Institute, now is a greeter-bouncer in a West Coast night spot. It's one of the few semi-respectable jobs he's held since he left the athletic field. Fame, as they say, is fleeting and never was that more true than in the case of America's greatest athlete. He reached the athletic heights and then sank to the bottom, unbefriended and neglected. From time to time he rose, briefly, to regain his former prominence, only to sink back to the shadows.

Sport's article goes on to say that Thorpe is on the verge of making enough to retire for life, comfortably. One of the film studios virtually has promised to pay him several thousand dollars for his life's story. Moreover, he will be retained as technical adviser. We hope so. It would be fitting for the king of American athletes, the original American, to retire in honor and huzzahs.

There are several good anecdotes on Thorpe, telling of first one athletic achievement and then another. His football exploits were unbelievable. You'll love stories of his fights with Muggsy McGraw, New York Giant manager. And you'll get a big kick out of the track exploits. One of these that appealed to us concerned the time the Carlisle (Pa.) school was to compete against Lafayette, at that time in Eastern track power. A big welcoming committee went to the station to meet the Indian team. The train stopped and off got two Indians, a big one and a little one. The flabbergasted committee asked where the track team was. Thorpe smiled and said it was here. "You mean just two?" a spokesman asked. "No," replied Jim. "He's the manager, I'm the team." The committee and Lafayette didn't believe it until Thorpe went into action. He won eight first places, more than enough to beat Lafayette singlehandedly.

Lubbock comes in for some national publicity in this month's issue of the same magazine. There's an article by a pair of writers on Henry Frnka and his Tulane empire. We say "empire" because after reading the article, there's no question but what that is the case. The article mentions that Frnka coached at Lubbock High school and states the record here. In fact, Lubbock is mentioned twice. They point out the essentials of the Frnka record at each stop and tell what the situation at Tulane today is. And while they mention the Frnka family by name, they overlook one little item that might be of interest to local readers. The youngest Frnka son is named Dell. Nowhere does it say that he was named for Coach Dell Morgan, who worked with Henry and whom Henry has tried and tried to get to go with him.

The man we want most to meet in this world is Coach Jimmy Karam of Little Rock (Ark.) Junior college. Coach Karam is not modest. He's not even tactful. And for a coach he is refreshingly optimistic and outspoken. He arrived in Pasadena, Calif., Tuesday with his football squad for the Little Rose Bowl game Saturday against Santa Ana Junior college. Quoth Coach Karam after stepping off the choo choo: "We'll score a minimum of five or six touchdowns." Hey, coach, hey! That's blasphemy. You mean, don't you, that Santa Ana will score that many? "Santa Ana might make as much as 100 yards against us, but I doubt it." Oh, no, coach, please. The last stronghold of sports has been broken open. Here's a coach who not only doesn't believe in towels, he throws them away. He's an optimist. He's refreshing. But he's also dealt the "we-can't-win-because-we're-injured" and "we're-outweighed-too-much" and "my-kids-just- don't -have-it-this-year" school a deadly blow. Oh, coach, what you've done.

Levelland Defeats Brownfield, 24-23

BROWNFIELD, Dec. 9 (Special) —Brownfield's Cubs suffered their first 1949 basketball setback here Thursday night, losing to Levelland in a nip-and-tuck battle, 24-23.

The Cubs enjoyed a halftime lead of 15-6, but this was reduced to 19-15 at the end of three quarters, with Levelland barging ahead midway of the final stanza and both teams holding the lead in the closing minutes.

Levelland was able to secure the triumph mostly on the efforts of Glen Clarkson, big center, who scored eight points. High for the night was Brownfield's Sam Ritchey with nine markers.

In a "B" team game Brownfield scored a 42-22 victory over the Levelland team.

Brownfield takes on Denver City here Saturday, and Coach Faris Nowell will be after his third victory, having defeated Seminole and Tahoka earlier.

Purity Code To Be Discussed At Meet

ROANOKE, Va., Dec. 9 (AP)—The National Collegiate Athletic association's "purity code" is expected to be the subject of heated debate today at the annual meeting of the Southern conference.

Two of the league's 16 members —Virginia Tech and the Citadel— are included on the NCAA's "black list" of seven schools charged with violating the code. They face expulsion and a schedule boycott at the NCAA's meeting in New York next month.

Well-informed sources said the 16-member loop definitely would act one way or the other—stand behind VPI and the Citadel or adopt a hands-off policy.

RAFB, Hawkins Fives Win League Tussles

Two games were played in the City Recreation Department basketball league Thursday night, with Reese Air Force Base and Hawkins Service Station racking up impressive wins.

In the first game, the Airmen downed the Henely quintet, 40 to 29. Curtis Heath led the Air Base with 10 points and Buster Wylie was high point man for Henely's with 12 points.

National Guard bowed to Hawkins Service's fast-shooting team, 22 to 56. Saw Davis and Larry Sharpe led the winners with 19 and 17 points respectively. Norman Stear and Alvin Fatee led the Guardsmen with eight points each.

Bob Hamilton Leads In Miami Tourney

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 9. (AP)—A veteran campaigner and a pair of young professionals led the field today as Miami's 26th annual $10,000 golf tournament went into the second round.

Bob Hamilton of Landover, Md., who has been playing pro golf for more than 20 years, carded a six-under-par 64 in the first 18-hole round for a one-stroke lead over the field of 232 top ranking professionals and amateurs.

Gene Dahlbender, 26-year-old newcomer to the play for pay ranks, and Fred Haas, jr., 33-year-old New Orleans shotmaker, each carded five under par 65s.

WELLMAN TOPS BROWNFIELD

WELLMAN, Dec. 9. (Special)—Paced by C. S. Sloan, who scored 20 points, the Wellman Wildcats raced to a 41-31 basketball victory over Brownfield's "B" team here last night. Odell paced Brownfield with 21 points.

Florida-bred thoroughbreds won 64 races and earned $145,977 in purses in the first nine months of this year.

Grand Jury Is Called Monday

A grand jury will be impaneled by Judge Alton B. Chapman at 10 a. m. Monday in the 110th district court of Dickens county to investigate informal charges that three self-admitted hijackers robbed A. W. Wallace in Dickens county a brief time after they had robbed him the night of Nov. 26 in his Crosbyton drygoods store.

Jury Asked to Report

Judge Chapman, telephoned by The Morning Avalanche at his Floydada residence, said he had asked Dickens County Sheriff C. C. Kimmel to have the November term grand jury panel of 16 men report.

The jurist said it will be asked to investigate reports that William Robert Leeman, 22, Talmadge Monroe Bonham, 17, and James Thomas Scrivner, 21, robbed Wallace at point of a gun after releasing him from their car in Dickens county, taking five $1 bills from him.

Two Are Denied Bond

Two of the suspects, Leeman and Scrivner were denied bail in a Thursday afternoon hearing before W. H. Nickson, Crosbyton justice of peace, on robbery with firearms charges growing out of the drygoods store hijacking. Bonham was admitted to $15,000 bail, inasmuch as he claims he was a juvenile the night of the robbery, attaining his 17th birthday next day.

District Attorney John B. Stapleton of the 110th judicial district was at the hearing.

He informed officers present, including Sheriff Foy Addison, his deputy J. N. Poteet and County Attorney Lloyd A. Wicks, jr., all of Crosby county; Sheriff Kimmel, and District Attorney Lloyd Croslin of the 72nd judicial district which embraces Crosby county, that a speedy trial could be arranged in Dickens county.

Judge Chapman told The Morning Avalanche that, if there is no contest, any indictments that may be voted "could be tried the same day they are voted."

"If a contest were indicated, we would try to set the case for sometime later this month," he said.

"We try not to let our criminal docket get congested in this district."

Addison said the three suspects were "identified without hesitancy" in a series of lineups at which Wallace, his son, Orville, his wife, and his wife's mother appeared.

Thursday At Crosbyton

Leeman, Bonham and Orville Wayne Mann, 21, are charged in robbery with firearms cases in Lubbock county, as well. Those charges grew out of the Nov. 19 hijacking of Archie Skibell at Economy Department store.

All three waived examining trials on Wednesday in Lubbock. Bonds for Leeman and Mann were set at $25,000 each, while Bonham's bond was set at $5,000.

All have admitted the three robberies, but there has been no indication that the defendants had learned that they had taken Wallace outside Crosby county. Wallace claims he was shot in the head when released from the gunmen's car. The defendants claim that Leeman slugged him with a pistol, instead.

U. S. Spending

excess of revenue and go gayly along the economic primrose path of indefinite deficit financing."

The second choice—a balanced budget without new taxes—is the only wise one, he said.

Compared with the present year, Byrd proposed these major cuts: about $2,000,000,000 for domestic-civilian functions; $1,300,000,000 in veterans, chiefly for GI school and unemployment benefits; $1,500,000,000 in foreign aid programs; and $2,000,000,000 in national defense.

Byrd's criticism of high government spending echoed the sentiments of numerous business leaders who have been appearing before the Senate-House economic committee.

The committee has been holding hearings on what can be done to help small business get more loans and equity capital, but most of the testimony has concerned government fiscal policies.

That brought out a statement from Chairman O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) that talk of cutting government spending is just "arrant nonsense."

[illegible] told a reporter he is [illegible] economy advocate — but [illegible] should not criticize government spending unless they [illegible] where to cut it.

[illegible] remarked at [illegible] C. Josephs of the New York Life Insurance [illegible]:

"... is arrant nonsense to talk about cutting government spending unless you say not to defend ourselves."

Congress is no more eager to waste taxpayers' money than insurance companies are to waste policyholders' savings, O'Mahoney said.

Daily MARKETS

Stock Market

MINOR LOSSES IN MAJORITY

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP) — Past trading failed to lift the stock market out of a narrow price rut today.

Closing prices showed a majority of minor losses.

Most of the damage was done during the morning. After that numerous leaders merely seesawed in slightly lower price ground.

Turnover reached a rate of about 1,600,000 shares for the full session.

The market's action followed closely the pattern set in recent days — good business, a high degree of selectivity, and little overall variation.

Lower most of the time were U. S. Steel, Republic Steel, Goodyear, Montgomery Ward, Radio Corp., American Telephone, Kennecott, Du Pont, Standard Oil (NJ), and Celotex.

Texas Pacific Land trust showed independent strength with a rise of around 3 points at one time.

Others tending higher included Youngstown Sheet, Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, Admiral Corp., (new), Emerson Radio, Commonwealth Edison, Dow Chemical, and Universal Pictures.

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP) — Cotton futures were irregular today. The market showed early steadiness on aggressive mill buying and covering against export sales, but subsequently weakened on hedge selling and profit taking. A trade commission house interest was estimated to have sold between 15,000 to 20,000 bales in several deliveries which was attributed by some quarters to hedging operations.

Cotton loan entries for the week ended December 1 were 275,766 bales, against 197,068 the previous week. The loans were at their highest weekly total so far this year. Loans through December 1 totaled 1,501,300 bales, against 3,183,106 the same date a year ago.

Cotton futures closed 65 cents a bale lower to 25 cents higher than the previous close.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Dec. 9 (AP) — A sharp rally at the close left all cereals with fair-sized gains on the board of trade today.

The rally got underway in the last 15 minutes of trading and brought to life a market which had drifted along without getting anywhere most of the day. It began in new crop wheat futures and spread to other pits.

In part the rally was attributed to local traders who had sold earlier in the day. When they went to cover late in the session they found very few offers around.

Wheat closed ⅝-1⅛ higher, December $2.19⅝-⅞, corn was ½-1⅝ higher, December $1.20-$1.20⅛, oats were ⅛-1½ higher, December 77, rye was 1 to 1½ higher, December $1.43¼-½, soybeans were ½-1½ higher, December $2.32¼-½, and lard was unchanged to 10 cents a hundred pounds lower, December $10.05.

Coaches Derailed In Train Accident

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 9. (U.P.) — Four sleeping coaches of the Pennsylvania railroad's Penn-Texas express derailed last night while making a cross-over at Carnegie.

None of the passengers was injured. The undamaged section of the train continued on to Pittsburgh after a two-hour delay and passengers in the derailed coaches were transferred to other cars for the remainder of the run to New York.

Knapp Hotel Case Hearing Advanced

Hearing on the state's application for an injunction restraining operation of Knapp hotel as an alleged bawdy house was moved up from Dec. 13 to Jan. 4, in an order or 99th District Judge G. V. Pardue on file this morning.

The court took cognizance of an amended petition, which named Gene Sitz as a new party defendant. Roscoe Taylor, a negro porter, and others had been named defendants in the original application. Sitz is described as lessee of the building.

The petition, drawn by A. W. Salyars, assistant district attorney, charges that the place, at 1105½ Ave. G, is operated so as to constitute a nuisance, and asks that the court, upon final hearing, make the injunction permanent and, in addition, close the hotel a year unless bond in the penal sum of $5,000 is posted.

Heels Balls

Today's Morning Avalanche erroneously reported that I. C. Elliott, 53, of Shallowater route 1, had pleaded guilty Thursday of driving while intoxicated and been assessed a fine and court costs. Actually, Elliott pleaded innocent and fought the charge in a trial before County Judge Walter Davies and was acquitted. His case was confused with another. The newspaper offers its apologies.

The P-TA of the Frenship school at Wolfforth will have a box supper at 7:30 p.m., today, to help raise funds for playground equipment at the site of the new elementary school, according to Mrs. Dick Norman, president. The public is invited to attend.

Juan Guarduche, 43-year-old Odem, Tex., man, was injured slightly when his car hit the center section of the Ave. H underpass about 7 p. m. Thursday, police said. A passenger riding in the car was not hurt. Guarduche was given a ticket for negligent collision following treatment for a cut nose at Lubbock Memorial hospital.

A 20-year-old Fort Worth man who informed the sheriff's department early Thursday night that he didn't know how he got here—that he last remembered being on a Fort Worth city bus 13 hours earlier—was released to custody of his father this morning. The father said his son had been ill.

Theft of $180 worth of property from the parked automobile of Robert E. Hall of Dallas was reported to Lubbock police in the night. A door of the car was "jimmied," Hall said. His loss was listed as a brief case, important papers, a suit, and a wooden kit.

A singing convention will be conducted at the Acuff Church of Christ Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, Glenn H. Annear, minister, announced today. Horace Coffman of the Broadway Church of Christ staff will direct the singing. Annear said anyone interested in singing is invited to attend.

City firemen said damage was not heavy in a 1:20 p. m. fire that broke out in Tapp and Ballard garage at 911 Seventeenth. A leaky gasoline tank was blamed. A trash fire at 10:15 a. m. spread to a residence in the Avinger addition, damaging one side.

ly over the area this afternoon.

The western edge of the huge high-prssure area that brought stormy conditions to the Midwest was hovering over the South Plains, leaving considerable doubt as to exactly what might happen.

Long Range Forecast Given

For example, a Lubbock man returning from Las Vegas, N. M., Thursday afternoon reported clear blue skies as far as Shallowater, and skies were virtually clear at Reese Air Force base at 5 p. m., but Lubbock remained under a heavy layer of clouds.

Roswell, N. M., was only partly cloudy early this morning, but cloudiness increased during the morning, and Morton reported heavy cloudiness.

A long-range forecast for the Panhandle-South Plains area indicated temperatures would average near normal through Tuesday, with minimums ranging from 26 to 34 degrees and maximums from 54 to 61 degrees. A rising trend through Sunday was seen, with little change Monday.

It is expected to be colder Tuesday and Wednesday, with showers Monday night or Tuesday.

This morning's minimum temperature was 31 degrees about midnight. Today's maximum was expected to be near 42 degrees.

Persons To Get Food Baskets, Gifts

Salvation Army Planning Aid For Needy Families In City

Even though there has been much employment on the South Plains, many families will be unable to provide Christmas "extras" because of their low income, the Salvation Army reported today as investigations of needs opened.

Members of sociology classes at Texas Technological college were investigating needs of all persons referred to the Salvation Army for Christmas baskets.

Will Receive Food

Each family whose name has been submitted to the Salvation Army for Christmas remembrances will receive food and other gifts according to their need, it was stated by Capt. W. Thomas Gregory, Lubbock commander of the Salvation Army.

In addition to low income of some, causes of need include desertion of a family by one of the parents, sickness, indebtedness and others.

Captain Gregory said the average retail value of the Army's food baskets will be between $12 and $15, but because the food can be bought at wholesale prices the baskets will cost a little less than $10 per basket.

Fund Now $636

The toy shop to be operated by the Salvation Army will open Dec. 19. Parents in families to be assisted will visit the toy shop to select toys for their children. The toys will be wrapped and the parents will take them home. "This will save a great deal of inconvenience and embarrassment on the part of those concerned," said the captain.

The Salvation Army's Christmas fund totaled $636 this morning. The goal is a minimum of $3,250. The Salvation Army's kettles will remain on the street each day, except when weather makes it inadvisable, until Christmas.

Water Shortage

World-Telegram began featuring a daily illustration, showing the city's ebbing water supply, and headed:

"Watch that water level!"

It was an all-out campaign.

On top of the drive to make the public water-conscious, authorities were slapping on new restrictions to halt "non-essential" uses of water.

Auto Washing Banned

Forbidden uses, many of them punishable by fines, now include:

Auto washing, leaky fixtures, washing of subway station walls and railway cars; circulating swimming pools, continually running water in dentists' basins, outdoor skating rinks.

One Manhattan landlord yesterday was fined $100 on a "leak" charge after he was cited for allowing a defective faucet to flow at several gallons a minute.

With reserves in the city's reservoirs down to 34.7 per cent of capacity, the Jamaica Water Supply Co., a private system on Long Island, yesterday promised to help by contributing 10,000,000 gallons a day.

But this was only a drop in the bucket, since New York normally uses more than a billion gallons of water daily.

Yugoslav Trial

ants did not go to trial.

One was Vladislav Nehljudov, another Russian Orthodox priest who was said by the prosecution to have been the contact man between the Sarajevo group and the Russian embassy in Belgrade. When the court opened last week it announced that he had hanged himself in his cell to escape prosecution.

The other was 69-year-old Alexander Krasilnikov, one-time colonel in the czar's army who once was assigned as an intelligence agent to hunt down and assassinate Lenin in Finland before the Russian revolution.

He was too ill to attend the trial and will be called up later. Maenwhile, correspondents were taken to see him in his hospital cell. He was partially paralyzed and lay sucking bits of sugar and nibbling on white bread.

Rep. Thomas

No Emotion Shown

Collins described Thomas as "broken in body and spirit."

Standing before Judge Holtzoff, Thomas did, indeed, seem to bear scant resemblance psysically to the rosy-cheeked little man who once was the gavel-cracking chairman of the spy-hunting House un-American activities committee.

Weakened by a long illness, his face was drawn and he had the look of a man exhausted by extreme weariness.

But Thomas took the sentence with no show of emotion or change of expression.

Mrs. Thomas, the one-time Amelia Wilson Stiles of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., was almost cheerful as she talked to reporters outside the court after the case was over and announced her intention of seeking the congressional seat her husband is leaving for a jail cell.

The New Jersey attorney general has ruled that there will have to be a special election to fill Thomas' unexpired term. It runs to the end of 1950.

In Thomas'trial, the government produced testimony that Thomas pocketed more than $8,000 from salary "kickbacks" from fake employes he had put on his office pay roll and on the pay roll of the un-American activities committee.

Marshall Plan

as the program advances.

While they represent only three of the Senate's 96 votes, McClellan, Maybank and Robertson made it plain they intend to be extremely vocal about their idea that foreign aid spending can take a substantial cut.

With the treasury entering bigger figures in red ink every day, there are signs the trio's suggestions will be well received.

McClellan summed up their collective viewpoint in telling a reporter he doesn't think western Europe has done nearly enough to help itself.

"They have a long way to go before they can become self-sustaining," the Arkansas senator said. "They have got to correct some basic troubles with self-help and mutual help by lowering trade barriers, making their currency easily convertible and generally speeding up their distribution of products.

Surpluses Found

"We found surpluses in some countries of items which were in extreme shortage in others and nothing was being done about it. And the more we give them, the less they seem likely to do for themselves."

Maybank told reporters he thinks that this year's $3,778,000,000 can be "materially reduced." Robertson said it could be cut to $2,500,000,000.

Observing that this country may have spent too much already, Maybank said he might be willing to vote for an even smaller amount than that suggested by Robertson. Maybank said he thinks the program should be wound up the following year with an outlay of not more than $1,000,000,000.

The three Democratic senators agreed that Europe is making economic progress. But all said this country just can't afford to continue putting up the money in the amounts it has in the past.

Sales Drop

running mark-down sales to spur Christmas business.

Most of the stores said that more customers were taking advantage this year of installment credit plans although the increase in credit business was not large.

Federal Reserve officials said that department store sales declined in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Richmond, Va., Atlanta, Chicago, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Dallas and San Francisco.

Comparing sales for the week ending Dec. 3 with the same week a year ago, Cleveland showed the biggest drop 10 per cent. Minneapolis and Richmond had the smallest decline, 3 per cent. The average drop for all cities was 8 per cent.

A Cleveland store official said his customers were buying "only what looks good to them and are not throwing money away." He said his store hadn't cut prices much but another Cleveland merchandiser said he had marked down winter clothing because good weather lingered late in the season.

New York prices generally were lower because "competition is fiercer than last year." A manager said customers were "taking longer to make up their minds" on purchases. Some stores said they couldn't get enough television sets to keep up with sales, however.

A Boston store manager said "it's harder than ever to make a buck."

Tall Girl

measurements are: bust, 36; waist, 26 and hips, 37.

"Height," she continued, "enhances a girl's appearance. It gives her an opportunity to show off clothes to good effect and to make a nice presentation."

Miss Hughes admitted, however, that the upkeep on tall girls was somewhat higher.

She said she knew it took almost 28 additional skins (at $90 each) to make a mink coat for a girl of her height.

"The stage-door Johnnies know it too, she said. "But they don't ever seem to mind. After all, what's a few mink skins?"

Shotgun Kills Man Before Sale Made

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 9 (AP)—William J. Boston, 49, decided he would sell his shotgun and use the money to buy Christmas presents for his five children.

Yesterday, Boston got the gun out of a closet and began cleaning the barrel. His wife, working in the kitchen, heard an explosion and ran into the living room to find Boston shot dead.

Lackawanna County Coroner Paul E. Kubasko said the shotgun had been discharged accidentally. The charge struck Boston in the head.

Five States Hunting For Diamond Thieves

PERRYTON, Dec. 9. (AP)—Officers in five states searched today for thieves who yesterday stole $150,000 in diamonds and watches. But they have only two slim clues on which to work.

Sheriff Ray Phagan said the only clues were a linoleum knife found in the Burk Drug store kitchen and two unopened packages of cigarettes found behind the store.

The thieves cut a hole in the roof of the drug store on this little Panhandle town's main street and stole the sample cases of two diamond salesmen. The cases had been left in the store overnight. Thirty-one watches were also taken.

The diamond salesmen were John W. Sims, representing the Tynes company of Dallas, and Henry A. Maas, representing the A. Edward Fisher company of New York.

Workman Killed In Tulsa Plant Blast

TULSA, Dec. 9 (AP)—One workman was burned fatally in the explosion of a gasoline-blending plant that caused property damage estimated at $1,000,000.

Victor J. Henke died today. Four other workers were injured in the spectacular blast and fire last night at the west Tulsa refinery of the Texas company.

The spectacular blaze of highly-refined gasoline and nearby oil storage tanks leaped skyward seconds after the explosion which rocked the city.

Air Force Changes Explained At Meet

Complete overhauling of the air inspector general's department spurred by such cases as that involving former Maj. Gen. Bennett Meyers, was explained to Air Force reserve members by Major John E. Speer at a meeting on Tech campus last night.

Other pending changes in the Air Force setup were explained by Capt. James Ackley, 12th Air Force liaison officer. In accordance with these shifts, involving elimination of some intermediate commands, members of the 9172nd VART group were organized into functional flights.

Lt. Col. Harlan A. Hodges, group commander, announced that approximately 550 officers and 701 enlisted reserve personnel were available in this area for assignment. Efforts will be made to organize flights for these men in several South Plains towns, he said.

The group voted to hold weekly meetings beginning in January in order to receive 50 credit points by June 30.

Hockley County Fund Audit Not Completed

LEVELLAND, Dec. 9 (Special) — A formal audit report by a Dallas accounting firm checking into funds under the control of J. Warren Pearcy, ex-Hockley county auditor charged Wednesday with forgery, still has not been filed, officials here said today.

Pearcy was charged specifically with forgery of the name of a Dallas chemical firm salesman to a county warrant after a telephone report by the special auditors set a deficit in the funds of his former office at $17,757.18.

Pearcy, county officials said, has given them a check in the amount of $10,000. He offered to repay "the deficit that the special auditors charge me with," in a statement to newsmen Wednesday.

Hobbs Man Dies In Hospital Here

E. G. Woodward, 66, of Hobbs, N. M., died in Lubbock Memorial hospital Thursday night at 10:45 o'clock. He was admitted to the hospital early Thursday.

Formerly a resident of Lockney and Amarillo before moving to Hobbs, two years ago, he was engaged in the real estate business and farming.

Survivors include his wife, two daughters, Mrs. B. T. Fuller, Hobbs and Mrs. Clara Mae Smith, Tampa, Fla., and three grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted Saturday at 10 o'clock at the Rix Funeral chapel with Rev. Keating of Hobbs officiating. Burial will be in Tech Memorial Park cemetery with Rix Funeral Home directing arrangements.

UN-AMERICAN PROBERS CHECKING CANADIAN CASE

Leaks-To-Russia Investigation May Become Hot Political Issue In Congressional Races

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP) — House spy probers tracing reported uranium leaks to Russia turned their eyes toward Canada today amid indications that their inquiry may become a hot 1950 political issue.

Two investigators for the un-American activities committee were reported in Canada, where an official confirmed yesterday that 1,000 pounds of uranimum compounds were shipped to Russia via Great Falls, Mont., in 1943.

Committee sources insisted that these two developments were not related, but reports persisted that the committee may renew its once-abandoned effort to obtain records of a court action in New York by the Canadian government in connection with uranium sales.

Louis J. Russell, senior committee investigator, has said the probe of the Canadian angle has been "reactivated."

Wallace Protests Delay

Russell is one of two agents committee sources said left for Canada Wednesday night after the committee had questioned Lt Gen. Leslie R. Groves, retired, wartime head of the United States' atomic bomb project.

The investigators are due to return before the committee's next scheduled hearing on December 19, when two former minor officials connected with the lend-lease program are to be quizzed.

On that date, also, the committee may reach a final decision on former Vice-President Henry A. Wallace's request for a hearing.

Wallace made his request after radio commentator Fulton Lewis, jr., named him as a source of pressure to expedite wartime shipments to Russia. Wallace has denied that.

Last night Wallace objected to the committee's delay in hearing him. He told the committee the delay made the committee "a party to this attempt at character assassination.

Records Impounded

Russell told the committee last Monday that a Canadian company supplied 1,000 pounds of uranium compounds for shipment to the Soviet Union. Later, he said, the Canadian government filed a civil action in New York against an official of the company but the following settlement of the case.

The committee tried to get the records once before, Russell said, but gave up when the State department intervened "in the interest of the national security of Canada."

Confirmation of the Canadian uranium sales, about which the committee has received previous testimony, came yesterday from C. D. Howe, trade minister at Ottawa.

Groves has told the committee that in the years before the war limited amounts of uranium compounds were availing commercially. The Soviets, he said, did not get enough from this country during the war to make an atomic bomb.

Only Democrats Present

During Groves' appearance before the House committee only Democratic members were present —a circumstance which brought sharp protests yesterday from three Republicans, Reps. Nixon (Calif), Case (SD) and Velde (Ill.)

They told Chairman Wood (D-Ga) that they weren't given enough notice to be on hand, adding that this "can only lend credence to newspaper reports already published that the speed was prompted by a desire to 'whitewash' the former government officials accused."

Those officials are Wallace and the late Harry Hopkins, who was a friend and adviser to President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The GOP committee members indicated they don't intend to let the matter drop.

Another political development cropped up in the atomic controversy with a report that Groves is considering running for the Senate from Connecticut as a Republican. In that case, he would oppose Chairman McMahon, Democrat, of the Senate-House atomic energy committee.

Groves' associates say he has not been able to win the approval of party heads who currently prefer Rep. Lodge or former representative Clare Boothe Luce.

Commentators Argue

Meanwhile, a radio debate was in progress over another aspect of the secrets-to-Russia case. The Fulton Lewis, jr., (MBS) on whose program the atomic story first was told publicly, and Edward R. Murrow (CBS).

The subject: were C-47 transports equipped with radar around 1943 and 1944?

Former air force Maj. George Racey Jordan said on Lewis' program earlier this week that they were, and that the Russians got hold of one so equipped. Jordan was stationed at Great Falls, which was on the wartime lend-lease route to Russia.

Murrow said C-47s carried no radar during the period mentioned by Jordan.

Last night Lewis presented on his broadcast a former air force colonel who said some C-47s had experimental radar on them at the time, and one might have slipped into Russian hands.

A short time later, Murrow broadcast that his information "came from an air force general in a position to know." C-47s may have had identification radar in the mid-40s, Murrow said, but — according to his air force source— they carried no target-finding equipment.

State Senate Probe Of Board Is Urged

AUSTIN, Dec. 9 (U.P.)—John F. Maddox, discharged last week as chief claims auditor for Texas' board of control, wants the state senate to investigate the board.

Board Chairman Hall Logan said he would "welcome" an investigation.

"The board of control files are wide open, always have been and always will be," Logan said.

Maddox yesterday disclosed contents of a letter he sent to state Sen. A. M. Aikin, jr., chairman of the Senate general investigating committee.

He charged procedural irregularities and referred to "extravagant squandering of state funds."

Maddox lost his job Dec. 1 for alleged "gross insubordination" after serving with the board for seven years. As auditor, he was responsible for checking and approving invoices on all state purchases.

Since his discharge, he has circulated mimeographed material criticizing the board's conduct.

He wrote Aikin, "I am not interested in my discharge, but only in the actions that concern the welfare of the state."

Thier reportedly walked into the arc of the whirling blades while inspecting the helicopter as Santa distributed gifts to the crowd.

Australian Airlines Set Safety Records

SYDNEY, Dec. 9 (AP)—Australians like flying, and they feel safe up in the air.

The safety record for travel on regular Australian airlines in 1948 was 1.79 people killed for every 100,000,000 passenger miles flown. (A passenger mile is carriage of one person one mile).

Odds against a passenger being in a crash were 136,664 to one. There was one fatality in every 67,857 flights. The statistics were issued by the Civil Aviation department.

FIRST OAK RIDGE WALKOUT ENDS

Work On New Atom Plant Is Resumed After Short Strike

OAK RIDGE, Tenn., Dec. 9 (AP)—Work on a new $66,000,000 atomic plant swung back toward normal today following a four-day wildcat strike involving 3,000 construction workers.

The strike ended yesterday in a brisk back-to-work movement that saw about 65 per cent of the workmen on the job by nightfall. Contractors planned full-scale operations today.

Walkout Unauthorized

End of the first walkout in the history of this war-born atomic city came after union heads of the Knoxville building trades council (AFL) agreed Wednesday night to try to persuade members to return to work.

The strikers were members of the council, but its spokesmen disclaimed responsibility for the unauthorized walkout.

Cause of the strike was never stated officially. It was understood individual workers started the walkout because Oman Construction company of Nashville, Tenn., was using some non-union men in laying a natural gas pipeline into the Oak Ridge area.

Closed Shop Outlawed

The Oman company, which is trying to complete its $10,000,000 pipeline before Christmas, said its workers were "welcome" to join the unions but would not be required to do so. A Tennessee law outlaws the closed shop.

The strike halted all work on the huge gaseous diffusion plant (K-29) and related housing and public projects authorized by the Atomic Energy commission.

The plant is the third in a series of atomic installations designed to use the gaseous diffusion process to produce uranium-235, key element in the atomic bomb. Most of the strikers were employed by the Maxon Construction company of Dayton, O., contractor for the plant.

The walkout also delayed the Maxon firm's preparations to start work on a fourth atomic plant (K-31) estimated to cost $162,000,000.

Narcotics Ring Is Shattered

NEW YORK, Dec. 9. (U.P.)—A suave, mustached Broadway playboy was jailed today charged with being the ringleader of a multimillion dollar narcotics ring.

Angelo Ortiz, 27, was arrested by detectives last night who said they had trailed him for seven weeks as he nightclubbed in bright spots along the great white way. They said he offered them a $25,000 bribe to let him go when they finally closed in.

Drugs Are Found

Detectives said Ortiz led them to more than half a million dollars worth of marijuana and cocaine which he had hidden in his apartment and in a Bronx storeroom.

Also arrested with Ortiz were his wife Rose, 21, Joseph Rodriguez, 40, and Ida Zayas, 26, Ortiz was charged with possession and sale of narcotics and the other three were charged with possession of drugs.

Police said Ortiz began his operations last March after a series of raids broke up a $3,500,000 drug combine which also had operated along Broadway. Three men were arrested at that time.

The arresting detectives, John Cottone and George Zegers, said they found more than 1,000 marijuana cigarets on Ortiz' person.

The detectives said Ortiz obtained the drugs from South America and Mexico, flying them into the United States.

DROWNS HIS DEER

RUPERT, Vt. (U.P.)—A 14-year-old boy bagged a deer by drowning it. John McGraw fired two shots, the second wounding the deer so that he was able to drag it to death in a nearby stream.

MEET THE MANAGERS—Edward F. Rowan, left, and James E. Boase are partners and co-managers of the Edwards company, automobile painting establishment at 1511 Ave. H. Mr. Rowan was born in Wise county Dec. 11, 1904. He grew up there, finished high school and then went to Baylor university. He worked five years for Cicero Smith Lumber company at Decatur, then was in government work ten years with the War and Commerce departments and RFC. He came to Lubbock a short time after he terminated his government work to establish this business Nov. 3, 1948. He is a Baptist and his hobby is an occasional golf game. Mr. and Mrs. Rowan live at 2004-A Thirty-fourth. Mr. Boase was born at Bridgeport in Wise county Sept. 25, 1916. He too grew up and went through school there. He was with a Chevrolet dealer for 11 years, then served in the Navy during the war. In 1945 he started to work for the government, Department of Commerce and War Assets administration. He resigned to work for Southwest Chevrolet company in Fort Worth for two years. He resigned to establish the Lubbock business, which was named from his middle name and Rowan's first name. Mr. and Mrs. Boase and two children, Beverly Kay, 8, and Scott Edward, 3, live at 2009-A Thirty-third. His recreation is hunting. (Staff Photo).

Missouri Character Is Candidate For Year's Cleverest Confidence Trickster

JOPLIN, Mo., Dec. 9 (INS)—Joplin's candidate for the cleverest confidence scheme of the year follows:

An elderly man mooched a nickle from a tavern owner.

Using the nickle, he telephoned a restaurant, identified himself as the owner of the tavern and said he was sending "a poor old man" for dinner.

"Go ahead and feed him and put it on my bill," the restaurant owner was told.

The elderly man then went to the restaurant, ate a hearty meal, praised the tavern owner's generosity, and walked out.

Video "Ghosts" Are Image Duplications

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP)—Television may have its "ghosts," but they never frighten anybody.

Actually, they are an undesired duplicate of the original image, generally faint or negative, thus giving the appearance of a ghost. They are caused by the reception of more than one signal from the transmitter and are caused by reflections from some object, such as a tall building.

The reflected signal arrives at the receiver slightly behind the main one, but in time enough to register on the screen even if faintly. Where there are numerous buildings as many as a half-dozen ghost images have been registered in a single reception.

China Reds Turn Out Steel Ball Bearings

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 9 (AP)—Ball bearings, important in any industrial economy such as the Chinese Communists seek, now are being produced in Red China, according to a Red Radio broadcast heard by the Associated Press. The report said the Northeast Bearing Assembly Plant (location not given but possibly in Mukden) had been converted into a bearing factory. It had been built by the Japanese to assemble bearings made in Japan.

The broadcast said that workers had to conduct 600 experiments before they were able to produce steel balls, more than 26,000 of which have been turned out since September.

Russian scientists report finding a fossil skeleton of a reptile believed to be 200,000,000 years old, in the Vyatka River valley northeast of Moscow.

Make these delicious Doughnuts double quick—with Crisco

These easy-to-make Crisco doughnuts are sure of a rousing welcome! Every crisp, tender mouthful is a sweet treat . . . and best of all, Crisco doughnuts are as digestible as they are delicious!

Crisco—the one and only—brings you light, digestible fried foods!

All too often, fried foods are heavy and hard to digest. But when you fry foods light and crisp in digestible Crisco, you can serve them without a worry, to young and old! Even doctors—9 out of 10 of them—say Crisco-fried foods are easy to digest!

CRISCO'S "QUICK DROP" DOUGHNUTS
(Makes 14-16 small doughnuts)

All Measurements Level:

½ cup sugar
1½ cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon cinnamon
1 egg
½ cup milk
1 tablespoon melted Crisco
Crisco for deep-frying

Combine dry ingredients and seasonings. Beat egg, milk and melted Crisco together; stir lightly into dry ingredients until thoroughly blended. Drop from a teaspoon into deep Crisco heated to 365°F. (an inch cube of bread will brown in 60 seconds.) Fry until crisp and thoroughly cooked in center, about 3-4 minutes. Drain on absorbent paper, dust with granulated sugar, confectioners sugar, or shredded coconut.

For cakes and pies and tasty fries

use CRISCO

IT'S DIGESTIBLE!

IN HOLLYWOOD: BY ERSKINE JOHNSON

Movie Moguls Suspect That The Public Is Getting Wise

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 9 (NEA)—one of the big movie firms, I hear just took a survey of the country to find the reason for falling theater attendance. No. 1 reason, they discovered, was the public had been bitten too many times by gigantic promotions for pictures that didn't live up to the ad writers' adjectives.

Johnson

So maybe you'll live to see the day when a movie ad reads:

"This picture isn't so hot, but maybe you'll like it."

Gloria Swanson and her daughter, Michele Farmer, are discussing a mother-daughter story for the screen. Michele, who will be 18 in April, made a wonderful test at M-G-M, was offered a long-term contract but turned it down because it would prohibit stage plays.

M-G-M got mad about the whole thing and now is refusing to show the test to a couple of other studios, which are interested in the girl.

Paul Henreid is en route to Paris to do "The Charmed Circle," a comedy about a retired professor and a haunted castle. His semi-documentary about juvenile delinquents, "Escape If You Can," will be released by UA in February. It was filmed entirely in New York.

TOUGH GUY GOES COMIC

John Garfield will star in a comedy — his first—for Roberts Productions. It's "Lost Streetcar," by Arnold Manoff . . . Teevee Production will soon put a TV show on the air with the provocative title, "I Married a Dog." . . . M-G-M has offered Ella Raines a term contract, but the odds are against her taking it. She likes her freedom.

Jack Wrather and Bonita Granville write from Paris that an American tourist must be a millionaire to pick up the tabs handed out at a Maxims and the Tour d'Argent. A 1000 franc note, says Jack, who is lining up European distribution for his Cardinal Mindszenty film, "Guilty of Treason," is a barely acceptable tip at their hotel. What he doesn't say, of course, is that the franc ir now worth $0.002857 and a 1000-franc note is the equivalent of $2.86 in U. S. money.

That nasty man—Richard Widmark—is back with us again. The prize heel in "Kiss of Death" became a goody-goody boy for a couple of films, but now he's spittin' nails again in "No Way Out." He's tougher than ever, in fact.

He flogs Linda Darnell with a heavy chain, starts a race riot and commits murder. Nice wholesome kid.

They're trying to de-glamorize Linda Darnell for her role of a car hop in the same film, but the gal is so beautiful that all they've been able to do is stop her from glowing.

A TOUGH JOB

The make-up department gave her a hard mouth and eyebrows to match and the wardrobe boys outfitted her with bargain basement specials. But she still looks good to me.

Linda told me a funny story about the home movies she and Pev Marley take of their 2-year-old adopted daughter, Lola. Marley is one of Hollywood's top cameramen, but Linda has to work the movie camera at home. She explains:

"He pans too fast and forgets to focus. Unless he has 75 grips working with him, he's unhappy. So I take the movies."

Here's the topper to Hollywood's new economy:

A major studio is shooting a series of westerns starring a well-known cowboy singer. All the chases and fights in the pictures are being clipped out of a Hoot Gibson series filmed 20 years ago. The film was gathering dust in the studio storage vaults.

Margaret O'Brien and her mother just hired a press agent. His first chore will be to straighten out their tangled domestic troubles, started by mama's marriage and divorce.

Short, short story: Joseph Mankiewicz, the director-writer, once spent a vacation from college as dramatic counselor at Camp Wayne, N. Y. He tried to interest a 15-year-old boy named Leo Jacobs into becoming an actor for one of his junior plays. But Leo was the champion harmonica player of New York stage and refused to do anything but play his harmonica. Later, the boy changed his mind, threw away his harmonica, changed his name and this year was a hit in the Broadway play, "Death of a Salesman."

His name now is Lee Cobb.

Hike In Allowables For Month Reported

AUSTIN, Dec. 9 (AP)—Increased December allowables for 10 Texas oil fields, upping their permissive flow 10,755 barrels per day on the 18-day producing schedule, were announced by the railroad commission yesterday.

The increase was based on engineers' studies showing the fields ability to produce more oil without waste and a market demand for the additional crude.

The new allowables: Stewart field, Jackson county, 355 barrels daily, up 44; Kelsey deep zone 18, Jim Hogg county, 1,100, up 102; Noodle reef lime, Jones county, 575, up 175; Reddin, Taylor and Jones counties, 4,390, up 860; Wimberley, Jones county, 5,233, up 991; Abell Silurian montaya, Pecos county, 2,200; up 1,470, and Ector Ellenberger, Ector county, 20,857, up 3,916; crossett devonian, Crane county, 715, up 115; keystone Colby sand, Winkler county, 4,264, up 728; and Martin Ellenberger, Andrews and Ector counties, 11,054, up 2,315.

CIVILIZATION NOT SO GOOD

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (U.P.) — The white man's way of living apparently has increased the rate of tooth decay among Indians in Wyoming. The state health department reports "a very high rate" of tooth decay among young Indian children.

Census Staff Will Be Large

DALLAS, Dec. 9 (U.P.)—The job of counting noses in Texas for the 1950 census will require a staff of 8,650 persons.

They will work out of 22 district offices, set up especially for the census.

Hiring will be done, on a temporary basis, in January and February.

Staffs in the district offices will vary in size from 651 at Houston, to enumerate Harris county's population, to 125 at Odessa, headquarters for a 13-county district.

The Texas breakdown, including location of the district office, number of workers, and counties to be covered:

Abilene, 315, twelve counties.
Amarillo, 341, twenty-eight.
Austin, 389, ten.
Beaumont, 470, eleven.
Brownsville, 435, thirteen.
Corsicana, 356, eight.
Corpus Christi, 491, nineteen.
Dallas, 491, one county (Dallas).
El Paso, 249, six.

AGRICULTURE OFFICIALS STUMPED BY PROBLEM

U. S. Hoarding Important Food Nutrients, But Fails To Do Anything About Situation

By VINCENT J. BURKE
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 — The government is hoarding huge stocks of an important food nutrient.

Agriculture Department experts say it is most needed in the national diet.

Department officials are getting gray wondering how to make the food available to consumers.

The nutrient is calcium. Rich supplies of it are contained in the 230,000,000 pounds of dry skimmed milk now locked in the government's price-support stocks.

Manufacturers of the milk powder say bakers should use more of it to enrich their bread. But bakers are reluctant to add to their production costs. They say the powder costs too much because the government is holding up the price.

Manufacturers represented by the American Dry Milk Institute, Inc., counter by asking that the government subsidize increased use of the powder in bread-baking.

Bakers Opposed

The bread-makers oppose this plan. The American Bakers Association declared recently that such a subsidy might lead to government regimentation of their industry.

The government has big stocks of the powder because of a standing offer to buy it at a relatively high price. The government could stop propping the price. The law doesn't require it.

But if the government withdrew price props for skimmed milk, agriculture officials fear the price would collapse. Many Midwest dairy-hog farmers would save cream for butter and feed the skimmed milk to hogs instead of taking whole milk to market.

Agriculture officials also argue that if price supports were eliminated for skimmed milk powder, the price of butter, and end milk by-products, would go up. Under the milk support law, the government props the milk price by buying butter and skimmed milk powder. If it dropped powder supports, it would have to boost butter supports to keep up the price of milk.

Stumping Country

The dried milk manufacturers are stumping the country to convince bakers they should "enrich" bread with more skimmed milk powder. But they admit it's a slow "educational" process.

To give the move a shot in the arm, the manufacturers suggest that the government re-sell the powder it buys to bakers at lower prices. They propose that bakers using in excess of a national average of 2.5 per cent dry skim milk should be subsidized to the extent of half the cost of all additional quantities they use in bread-making.

The board of governors of the American Bakers Association, meeting at Atlantic City, N. J., recently made it clear they want no part of such a plan.

In official agriculture department circles there are two schools of thought. Some officials think it's a fine idea. They say it really wouldn't be a subsidy. It would merely allow bakers to get the powder at a price closer to what the price would be if the government wasn't propping it.

But other officials believe the bakers eventually will have to increase enrichment of their bread with or without a subsidy. If that's going to happen, they ask, why pay them a subsidy?

Texas Tech Planning 1950 Summer Session

Course schedules and departmental budgets for the 1950 Summer session at Texas Technological college were discussed at a meeting of deans, department heads, and administrative officials at 4 p. m. Thursday in Aggie auditorium.

Courses for the summer months will be offered in accordance with a current survey among students expecting to attend school during that time. Those subjects for which the most preference is stated will be offered so far as possible, according to Dr. E. N. Jones, vice-president of the college.

Bulletin for the summer session will be released some time in February, he said, and the college catalog for the 1950-51 long session is scheduled for printing in April.

Australian Actor Says Film Making In "Bush" Rugged

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 9.—Rugged is the word for film making in Australia.

This testimony comes from John O'Malley, a tall Australian just arrived to seek his fortune in Hollywood. O'Malley is one of the performers in the film, "The Rugged O'Riordans," which was 18 months in the making, most of it in the plains of Queensland.

Out In Bush

"But it wasn't as bad as it sounds," he added. "I was out in the bush, which I like, and on a horse, which I like. They flew in movies twice a week and we had no particular worries. The only bother was wearing a beard for a year and a half."

Australian films cost anywhere from $14,000 all the way up to $200,000, which was the tab on O'Riordans." Most of the pictures are made on location, since the largest studio has but one stage. That accounts for the lengthy shooting schedules.

Australia produces only about two films a year, O'Malley said, so there are no actors who perform in pictures alone. Nor do they confine themselves to the stage.

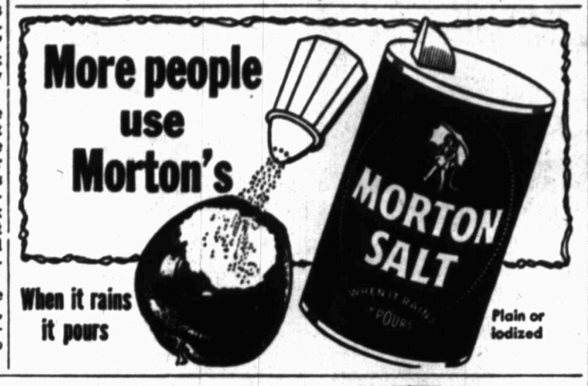

Radio Big Thing

"The big thing is radio," he declared, "but most actors take part in all mediums." He added that television has not progressed beyond the experimental stage.

Other comments: Australians are good movie fans, but quite critical. Big U. S. favorites are Bob Hope, Alan Ladd, Humphrey Bogart, American films are generally favored, but the best English films draw good business. The down-under public is pretty well fed up with the brightly colored fluffy musicals coming from here.

FLIER IS KILLED

HAMILTON AIR FORCE BASE, Calif., Dec. 9. (U.P.)—First Lieut. William J. Sharpe, 25, of Marked Tree, Ark., was killed yesterday when his F-84 Thunderjet fighter plane crashed and disintegrated near Skagg's island naval radio station.

Formal Opening Of New Forrest Lumber Company Set Saturday

Formal opening of a completely remodeled and new Forrest Lumber Company store at 1300 Fourth street will be held Saturday between the hours of 10 a. m. and 9 p. m. and Sunday from 1 to 6 p. m.

Musical entertainment and movies will feature the program and coffee and doughnuts will be served visitors. Each adult person attending the opening will be given a pine seedling and there will also be souvenirs for the children.

The new building represents many years of planning and a long-standing aim of the company. When the Lubbock store was purchased in 1943, the company issued a statement to the Avalanch-Journal: "We are coming into Lubbock at this time because we believe in the future of Lubbock and the South Plains. We believe that when the war is won, Lubbock and the South Plains will resume its normal trend of growth, and we want to have a part in that development."

Back in 1906, the first Forrest Lumber company was established in Texico, N. M., by S. S. Forrest, sr. In 1908, he went to Clovis, N. M. and established the first retail store in that city, known as the Forrest Hardware Compan, which he operated until 1920 when he entered the lumber business in Slaton.

In 1923, S. S. Forrest, sr., entered into partnership with his son, the late S. Lamar Forrest at Slaton and Lamesa. S. Lamarr Forrest was the founder of the present business known as the Forrest Lumber Co.

He began adding yards back in 1930, and established stores at Andrews, Seminole, Morton, and Whiteface between then and 1942. The Lubbock store was acquired in April 1943, when the company bought out the Builders Lumber Company from Sam H. Reid, Jr., and associates.

S. Lamar Forrest died in February 1948, and the presidency of the company was taken over by S. S. Forrest, Jr., who had been acting as general manager for several years.

S. S. Forrest, Jr., president of the company is a graduate of Texas Tech, and did post-graduate work at Northwestern University of Chicago. He moved to Lubbock in 1945, and presently makes his home at 3119 Nineteenth.

Covers 12,000 Square Feet

The growth which this company envisioned in 1943 has certainly come to Lubbock in 1949. The new store building covers an area of 12,000 square feet, and is constructed to carry a second store if needed. The district offices of the company are adjacent to this store. These offices occupy over 3,000 square feet and handles the operation of the various stores.

This store and the adjoining warehouses and five acres of land go to make this the largest retail building materials store in West Texas. It has a wide variety of departments, including a builders hardware department that in addition to a complete stock of residential hardware of every type, also has a contract hardware department to handle schools, churches, hotels and office buildings.

The store has a plumbing department which carries a complete stock of plumbing fixtures, water heaters and floor furnaces. The floor covering department handles linoleum, asphalt tile and rubber flooring in many patterns.

Other Departments Featured

The new store will feature one of the most complete stocks of paints and paint products in any retail building materials store. A new color arrangement makes it possible to match hundreds of shades of colors, while a new improved paint shaker assures a perfect mix of the pigments.

Outstanding in the store are the metal and wood kitchen cabinets on display in the cabinet department. These cabinets are factory-finished and constructed in units that can be arranged to fit any kitchen, regardless of size or shape.

Other Special Departments

Forrest has put in a Plywood Department that features plywoods from many beautiful native and imported woods. Philippine mahogany, Bird's Eye Maple, Figured Red Gum, Canadian Cedar, American Elm, American Walnut, and many other unusual woods are available from stock.

Another special feature is the special order hardwood department. This department features woods from far-away places like Borneo, Australia, France, Africa, India, South America, England, Guatemala, and the West Indies. Samples are on display, and each order placed separately.

Out in the lumber yard itself lumber is handled by means of a mechanical unloader, capable of lifting 15,000 pounds with ease. This type of handling means faster, more economical handling of all types of building materials, both in loading and unloading.

Power Tools Rented

Among the new features of the store are the power tool rental department, which rents power saws, sanders, hedgeshears, floor waxers and other power equipment by the hour or by the day.

Sam Lemons is in charge of the Home Planning Center of the store. He is also in charge of real estate, and handles the "one-stop" service that handles all of the home builder's problems in one office, including loans.

J. Ben Cole Manager

Personnel of the local store includes J. Ben Cole, Jr., manager, G. A. Martin, assistant manager, Mrs. Geraldine Spears, bookkeeping, Sam A Lemons, Home Planning and real estate, J. C. Ross, office manager, Larry Copenhaver, cabinets and built-ins, Winston Robertson, paints, Don Britt, merchandising, C. P. Strain, repair and remodeling, Bill B. Wheeler, shipping, H. A. Wyatt, hardware, Ed L. Cain, Manuel Aguilar, Elvin Levels, Fred McCrummen, W. D. Hale and M. F. Carr, sales and deliveries, Neal Williams and Jessie Aguilar, mechanical unloading.

Officers of the company are S. S. Forrest, Jr., president, Edwin L. Forrest of Slaton, vice-president, and Hark Hailey, secretary-treasurer. At the present time Forrest Lumber Company has stores at Andrews, Seminole, Lamesa, Morton, Whiteface, Anton, Snyder and Lubbock. After January 1 the firme will assume ownership and management of stores at Slaton and Post, giving the company a 10-store coverage of West Texas.

LUBBOCK MAY BECOME CITY OF PINES—More than 10,000 seedling loblolly pine trees will be given away as souvenirs Saturday and Sunday in formal opening of the new Forrest Lumber Company, 1309 Fourth. Directions for transplanting the pines is offered in a booklet tied to each paper pot, so who knows someday Lubbock may be known as a city of pines. Pictured above preparing the pines for the opening are employes and officials of the company, left to right: Kathryn Smyer, Mrs. Don Britt, Fran Hale, J. Ben Cole, jr., store manager; and S. S. Forrest, jr., company president. (Staff Photo).

RUSSIAN-ARAB BLOC BACKS PLAN

America, England And Israel Fight UN Rule For Jerusalem

By A. I. GOLDBERG
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 9—Israel, the United States and Britain begin their final stand in the United Nations assembly today against international rule for Jerusalem.

Beaten in the special political committee, which also overruled Hashemite Jordan's objections against international occupation, Israel and others kept dinning into delegates' ears that it might cost more than $34,000,000 a year to carry out U. N. rule.

Lobbying Intense

There was intensive lobbying late yesterday and last night, with the United States reported lending strong efforts to upset the 35-to-13 committee vote

That vote supported a joint proposal of Australia, El Salvador, Russia and Lebanon to carry out assembly decisions made in 1947 and 1948 that the city be placed under U. N. rule.

Israel occupies the new city of Jerusalem, Hashemite Jordan the old city on the armistice lines now prevailing. Jordan is not a member of the U. N., but its representative was permitted to state King Abdullah's opposition to giving up its walled portion of the Holy City where most of the religious shrines of Christians, Jews and Moslems are located.

Dutch Propose Debate

Some nations that voted against the proposal in committee agreed with Israel's warning that the city population would never accept outside rule.

One nation active in the brewing revolt was the Netherlands. The Dutch were reported leading a movement to argue in the general assembly that the plan everybody can agree on—and which Israel has offered to go along with—is international supervision of the holy places only.

The Arab states were counted on to remain solid for the international rule proposal. But there were some reports that enough Latin American Catholic countries would come out of their role of abstention or even back down on their support to prevent the resolution from getting a necessary two-thirds majority.

Foes Win Victory

Foes of the internationalization plan won their first victory in the budget discussions. The budget committee refused to recommend any annual operation figure for a U. N. administration and voted only to inform the general assembly that the U. N. advisory commission thought that the smallest figure that could be considered was $8,000,000.

The Soviet and Arab blocs insisted that it ought to be done for from $3,000,000 to $4,000,000 a year. Israel had a notation inserted saying that any low figure was unrealistic, and cited its own estimate of $34,000,000 for running the city.

An assembly was called into session at an early hour—in a drive to complete its work tonight or tomorrow. Some assembly officials said they expected the Jerusalem debate to run into Saturday morning but predicted a windup by Saturday noon.

Auckland harbor, New Zealand, recently had its biggest postwar tonnage of shipping—198,261 tons represented by ships there at one time.

Patrolman And Prowler Slain

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 9. (INS)—A special policeman and a prowler were shot to death in Portland today in a struggle over the patrolman's gun.

The dead are Special Patrolman Aaron Robert Ball, 39, and Louis C. Fugent, 46, a former convict.

Detectives said Ball surprised Fugent in a tire shop, drew his gun and handcuffed the prowler's hands behind his back.

Snatched His Revolver

The special patrolman then apparently began to telephone the owner of the shop. While he was at the telephone, Fugent backed up to him and snatched his revolver from the holster.

Ball whirled and the two wrestled for the gun. In the struggle it went off, fatally wounding the patrolman.

Although the bullet had entered h' groin, Ball fought the prowler through a hallway and three rooms and finally regained the gu. Fugent made a break for freedom and Ball shot and fatally wounded him.

Evidence indicated that Ball fired while he was lying on the floor.

Fugent fell on his face. Ball fired another shot into the ceiling, hoping to draw attention, then staggered to the street and collapsed.

A neighbor heard the shots and called police. Fugent was dead on arrival at a hospital, and Ball died a few hours later after four blood transfusions.

Iowa Housewife Is Early For Charity

IOWA CITY, Iowa, Dec. 9. (INS)—One Iowa City housewife believes in getting her Christmas charity early.

The junior chamber of commerce distributed 43 baskets to grocery stores and invited shoppers to contribute food to "help the needy people of Iowa City."

At one store, someone placed a can of food in a basket. A few minutes later, another shopper walked by, glanced at the sign, took the can of food and left.

Two Airmen Killed In Oklahoma Crash

ARDMORE, Okla., Dec. 9. (AP) An air force fighter plane crashed and killed its two crew members 12 miles east of here last night.

Capt. Harold M. Sawyer, 27, Lincoln, Neb., pilot.

S-Sgt. Conrad Liebsack, 48, Orchard, Neb., mechanic.

Bergstrom officials said the plane was from that base and crashed on its way back from Lincoln, Neb.

Rain and snow had been reported in the flight area.

Purge Stepped Up By Czechs

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Dec. 9. (AP)—The purge of Czechoslovakia's Communist party hit the Reds high command today with the official announcement that Vilem Novy had been fired as editor-in-chief of the party organ, Rude Pravo.

Novy was fired, an official announcement said, for "a crude violation of Bolshevik watchfulness." He was a veteran party member.

Earlier this week Novy's resignation from the national parliament, "because of illness," was announced.

Novy's ouster was announced only a few hours after Rudolf Slansky, Communist party general secretary, had declared in a speech that Czech Communist ranks had been infiltrated by "hostile agents and imperialist spies" and must be thoroughly purged.

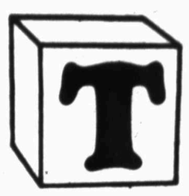

Other Purges Rumored

Observers thought Slansky's speech might indicate Czech plans for treason trials of major figures similar to the trials of Lasglio Rajk in Hungary and Traicho Kostov in Bulgaria.

One other major Czech Communist already has been fired from his post. He was Evzen Loebel, deputy minister of trade. Nnofficial reports said he had been jailed.

Another rumored purge was Milan Reiman, chief of cabinet in the office of Prime Minister Antonin Zapotocky. He was said officially to be sick.

The government did not disclose what it considered wrong at Rude Pravo. Recently however an unusual number of police guards—three or four uniformed patrolmen and several plainsclothesmen—have been on duty in the lobby of the paper's offices to check all visitors.

EXPENDABLE EMPLOYES QUESTION

Capital Workers Divided Into Groups In Case Of Atom Blow

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9—A secret committee of top government officials is sorting all federal employes in Washington into two groups—the expendable and the non-expendable.

The idea is to try to determine whether it is possible to move the non-expendable workers into widely scattered office buildings 10 to 20 miles away from the city as a defense against an atomic bomb attack. If the plan proves workable, the expendable employes would be left to occupy the present government buildings in the heart of the city.

The committee's study was inspired by a recent Atomic Energy commission report pointing out just how vulnerable the nation's capital is to A-bomb attack as it exists today.

Cost Too Great

Cost of the project is the big problem. Officials have already decided that the calculated risk of an atomic bomb attack isn't worth the staggering cost of moving all of the federal workers out of the District of Columbia proper. The remaining question is whether it might be practical to start moving out just a few key agencies such as Army, Navy, Air Force or maybe State Department.

Dividing Washington's government workers into expendables and non-expendables isn't as cold-blooded as it sounds. If the non-expendables were moved out it would make the city a much less attractive target for the enemy, and the expendables would be much safer than they are now.

The committee has just started trying to figure who the most vital federal workers would be in case of a war. It actually boils down to what agencies are most important for defense purposes. Chances are it will be discovered that the federal government in Washington has become so integrated it will be impossible to say that any one department's workers are expendable. In that case the committee is back to the fact that the cost of total dispersion is greater than the risk.

Dispersion Sought

As a matter of fact, for the past 15 years there has been a conscious dispersion of the government's activities here, but for reasons of traffic and city congestion rather than as an atomic bomb defense measure. Much of the Census bureau has been put in Suitland, Md., seven miles from the center of the city. A federal medical center is being built beyond Bethesda, Md., eight miles from town. Various government research laboratories have been put in distant rural areas around the capital.

If it is finally decided to disperse the non-expendable workers, it would mean a wholesale shifting of quarters. Key war agencies, at least, would move to outlying buildings. The non-war agencies now on the outskirts would move into the Pentagon and other buildings.

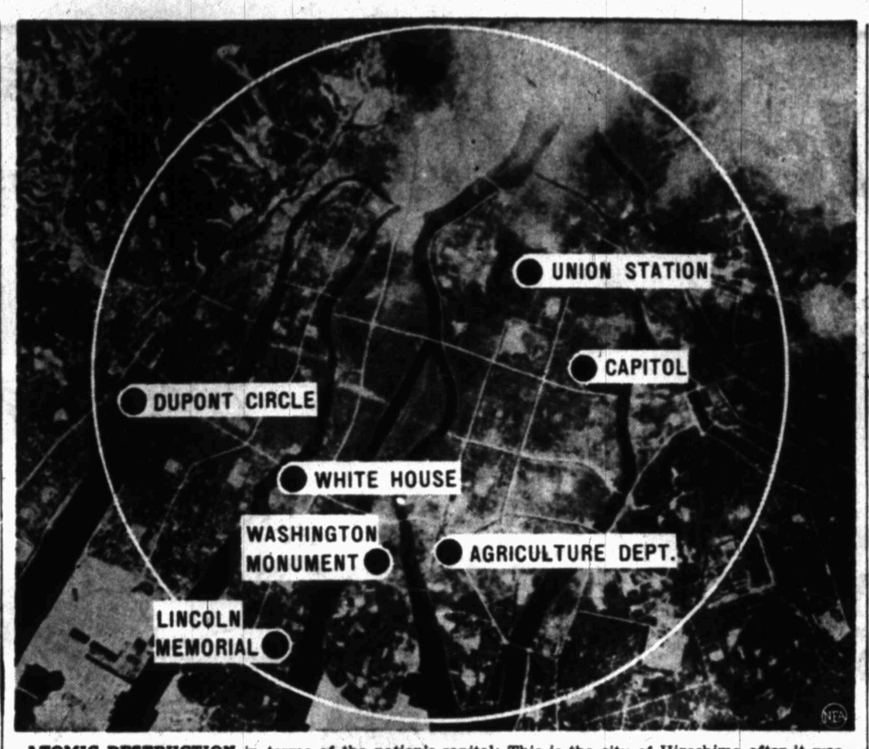

All new construction of government buildings would then be planned on about a 15-mile perimeter of the city. In this way the cost of such an effort could be kept at a minimum. It would be done over a period of years, depending upon whether the threat of attack increases or decreases.

Other Problems Cited

The cost of building express highways to outlying buildings, providing suitable water supplies and taking care of sewage is a big factor in dispersion. Another problem is locating the homes of workers. If the employes all drove back to homes in the District after work the enemy could just drop his bombs at night to paralyze the government.

Another basic problem being investigated by the secret committee is the possibility of maximum decentralization of governmental activities. Right now there is more decentralization than most people realize. There are only 212,000 federal workers in Washington with 1,800,000 others in various parts of the country.

All federal officials are trying hard to play down the scare of an atomic bomb attack on the city. Nevertheless, for the first time in the history of the federal service, career employes in the field are no longer struggling to get transferred to Washington.

ATOMIC DESTRUCTION in terms of the nation's capital: This is the city of Hiroshima after it was blasted by an atom bomb. Everything inside the circle was vulnerable to the single bomb's explosion. And over the picture of Hiroshima, in the same scale as the photo and circle, are superimposed some key positions in Washington to show what the bomb would mean there.

Jaundice Cases Are Reported At Tech

Several cases of hepatitis (yellow jaundice) reported at the Texas Tech infirmary recently do not constitute an epidemic, Dr. Embree R. Rose, director, said Thursday.

Dr. Rose said as many as 12 to 15 cases have been reported at the hospital this fall, with an upsurge during the past week, but that an epidemic of the disease has in no way been reached.

Yellow jaundice is a disease common in young people at this time of year, he said, and is characterized by a feeling of weakness and perhaps an upset stomach. Cause of the disease has never been determined and a long period of rest is the only cure. It is not known if the disease is contagious, but indications are that it is caused by a virus of some sort, the physician stated.

Period of recovery from the disease is from one week to three or four months, he said, with the average time taken this fall by patients at the Tech infirmary being about 10 days.

"Yellow jaundice can be serious," Dr. Rose stated, "but only rest and plenty of vitamins are needed for the type we have treated so far this fall."

Women in Pretoria, South Africa, marched in protest against a margarine shortage.

THE ROSE YOU GAVE ME
By James J. Metcalfe

I took the rose you gave me and ... I put it in a vase ... Along with all the memories ... I never could erase ... And it was red and beautiful ... And fragrant as could be ... And happily I told myself ... That you remembered me ... But one by one the petals fell ... As shadows touched the dawn ... And in the purple of the sky ... I knew that you were gone ... And now the day is lonely and ... I wonder in my heart ... Why you and I were meant to meet ... And why we had to part ... And now I save the petals of ... The rose you gave to me ... And each is soft and gentle as ... A loving memory.

THE officers of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce labored here throughout most of Wednesday and, in full keeping with tradition of the organization, brought forth a mouse. They gave the WTCC's perennial general manager, D. A. Bandeen, a "vote of confidence," then wound up by approving a "realignment of a program of work"—whatever that may be.

What actually happened was that Manager Bandeen's 20-year reign was threatened by a general collapse of staff personnel which finally forced the organization's high command to take notice of the deterioration which has been going on slowly for years. But "taking notice" apparently was all that they did. If the officers worked out any plan to reorganize, revitalize and generally bolster up the WTCC, they kept quiet about it.

But even if nothing forward-looking was done at the Wednesday meeting in Lubbock, the occurrence, itself, may prove valuable to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Publicity attendant upon the meeting, and upon the events which forced it, has further drawn attention of members and directors, alike, that all is not well within the WTCC—and hasn't been for a considerable length of time.

Perhaps it is too much to hope for, but it is within the realm of possibility that recent explosive events inside the WTCC could result in a new deal at the next convention in late November of 1950.

REGARDLESS of whatever else the next convention of the WTCC does, or doesn't do, its constitution, or bylaws, should be changed.

Under present regulations, a general manager is selected by the convention and no matter what he does, or doesn't, do, he cannot be removed except by action of the next convention. The board of directors, or its executive board, is powerless to act.

That certainly doesn't make sense. There should be some authority, somewhere, greater than that of an employe. It should set it up as soon as legally possible.

Between now and next November, it is to be hoped that the elected leaders of the WTCC—the non-paid group—will give more thought to the organization and its needs than has been given in the past and will either put the WTCC back on a sound, productive basis, or disband it once and for all.

A FEW minutes after noon last Saturday we were wending our way from the office toward Connie Hilton's boardinghouse, along with C. W. Ratliff and Jasper Wayne (Mickey) Henly.

Just as the three of us were trudging westward across Texas avenue, between Ward's and the Citizens bank, we noticed the traffic cop working the corner. The light had changed, a car had started into the intersection and its driver was attempting to make a right turn, usually permitted at that intersection, but not permitted at that particular time due to heavy traffic.

The cop blew a blast on his whistle, then started bawling at the confused driver. Then the cop strode over toward the car, marooned in the intersection, simply exuding aggression as he walked.

The three of us stopped and watched the proceeding.

The cop reached the car on the driver's side and, conversationally, "went to work" on him. We couldn't hear what the cop was saying. But we could see his face and we could see all his gestures.

He was giving the driver "the works"—and all because the guy got caught in a light change and didn't understand that a right turn temporarily was prohibited.

Last Saturday afternoon was a very busy time in Lubbock.

The streets were loaded with cars. The sidewalks were jammed with people.

Beyond doubt, the policeman at Broadway and Texas had a job on his hands. Very probably he'd had 407 instances of exasperation prior to the time the motorist in question aroused his ire. Being human, probably the cop was "fed up." But being a policeman, on the job, he made a mistake of showing it—and of adding further to the confusion of the luckless driver in question.

BUSY on his job, the policeman probably didn't stop to think that by the way he handled that particular incident he (1) built up in the minds of the driver and those of his family a psychological dislike for and distrust of all policemen; and (2) that he built up a similar dislike and distrust in the minds of those scores of pedestrians who saw the thing happen. Further, he didn't stop to think that the people for whom he is working—the taxpayers of Lubbock—weren't paying him to confuse and berate anybody, nor were they paying him to handle his job so he would drive people away from our city.

But in less than five minutes time, the policeman in question contributed first to lessening the respect for law and all the law's representatives, as well as acted in a way to drive business away from the city that employs him—and which probably wouldn't be employing him if it didn't have as many drivers and pedestrians on its streets as it luckily has.

As we said before, the policeman is a human being and probably had plenty of reason to be exasperated after several hours rassling with recalcitrant pedestrians and drivers on that busy intersection.

We don't think he should be fired, or even too harshly reprimanded, because his job certainly is no bed of roses.

But we do think—and we believe most people think—that Lubbock policemen should be trained not to disport themselves in such fashion; so it is second nature with them not to "blow up," and by "blowing up" engender enmity and general dissatisfaction.

BY DREW PEARSON: CONGRESSMEN OWE IT TO COUNTRY TO BE HONEST AND ABOVEBOARD

Parnell Thomas Inspires Pity In The Courtroom

(ED. NOTE—Drew Pearson's column today takes the form of a letter to his daughter, Mrs. George L. Arnold of Los Angeles.)

Washington, D. C., Dec. 5, 1949

Dear Daughter,

The other day I went down to the trial of Congressman J. Parnell Thomas and sat in the courtroom while the jury was being picked. He was there making a show of being unconcerned and confident, but somehow or other I felt sorry for him. I felt almost sorry that I had brought out all the stuff about his kickbacks.

PEARSON

Thomas was a lot different in the courtroom than when he blustered over witnesses in his own un-American activities committee. He had sent a dozen or so witnesses to jail himself chiefly for refusal to answer questions. And he had denied them the right of counsel and had hauled them before his committee from as far away as California at any time of the day or week that suited him.

In contrast he now enjoyed all the carefully built-up American privileges of a free trial. He was represented by a good lawyer. He sat before a good judge, Judge Holtzoff, who was very fair. And he had the right to exclude certain jurors—though a witness before his committee had no right to exclude any committee members.

Furthermore, the Justice department had given Thomas one year's delay in his trial, and had sent him to an army hospital at government expense to get his health completely restored.

So perhaps I shouldn't have felt sorry. But nevertheless, as he sat there, one little guy in the crowded courtroom facing certain conviction, I did. After all, there isn't any fun in sending a man to jail.

Morality Between Wars

In retrospect, however, there are a lot more important considerations in our lives and in our nation than pity and the discomfiture of one man.

A military commander in time of war sometimes has to sacrifice whole companies and regiments of fine men in order to save the rest of his army. And in peacetime we have to make an example of one in high position who betrays a public trust—if we are to save our democratic system.

Some people forget that our morality and respect for clean government between wars is just as important as our ability to win wars. If that wasn't so, then wars wouldn't be worth winning.

A lot of boys died to defend our democratic system only four short years ago; and we are still spending billions in the cold war to uphold it. So if the man at the head of a committee supposed to be an example of good Americanism practices cheap, tawdry and illegal Americanism, then I suppose I should not, in a weak moment, feel sorry for him.

However, I couldn't help thinking of some of these things as I sat in the court room.

THOMAS'S excuse, of course, is that he had to augment his congressman's salary. But there can be no excuse for helping soldiers escape combat duty in wartime and then collecting cash from their parents afterward. Nor is there any excuse for putting a charwoman and a girl who never came near the office on the secretarial payroll and then pocketing the money. It's bad enough putting a wife, a daughter-in-law and a bedridden aunt on the payroll.

I can sympathize with the problem of our public servants in making some extra money, but there are other ways of making it. I remember when William Jennings Bryan was secretary of state, your Grandfather Pearson invited him to speak on the Swarthmore chautauquas which were then in Maryland, Virginia and Pennsylvania, not far from Washington.

Bryan, not a wealthy man, accepted, and filled about twenty speaking engagements at $250 each. Your father was a tent crew boy at the time and used to carry water for "The Great Commoner." I remember that for most lectures, I only supplied a bucket and dipper, but for Bryan I borrowed a glass pitcher.

Well, the Republican newspapers let out a terrific howl—not about the bucket and dipper but about the secretary of state appearing on the same platform with Tyrolean Alphine yodlers, which was not exactly true. However, I still think it was a good idea for the smaller towns of the U.S.A., which seldom see a secretary of state in person, to learn about our foreign affairs from the man who runs them.

And compared with the lecture fees of today, Bryan's $250 a lecture was chicken feed. In fact, Parnell Thomas used to collect much more than this himself as a lecturer; and, as chairman of the un-American activities committee, he was in big demand—a perfectly legitimate way to increase his income.

Most Congressmen Don't Cheat

Contrary to general gossip, I don't think that there are many congressmen who resort to Parnell Thomas's cheap and tawdry day of making money. I pride myself on knowing Congress pretty well, and I am convinced that the great majority of both houses are honest, sincere and have the welfare of their country very much at heart. They recognize that the money allotted them for secretarial help comes not from their own pockets but from the taxpayers' and that it has to be spent as a public trust.

When you look around the world today, there are not many democratic legislative bodies left. Ours is one of the few. And sometimes we forget that the right of the people to govern themselves is something your great-grandfathers have been fighting for ever since the 1700's, and we've got to preserve the integrity of what they won.

Congress is merely the medium by which people exercise the right to govern themselves. Some day I want it to be governing for, with and by my grandson, and in the interim I don't want a Parnell Thomas or anyone else to destroy its good name.

Love,
From the Old Man.

So you think you have it tough, do you? Well, suppose you were the Pennsylvanian with a family of 14 who is holding down four jobs in order to support them?

HORSE STONES PARSON

SPARTA, Ill., (U.P.)—The Rev. B. E. Green has been hobbling around on crutches, claiming that a horse threw a rock at him. The minister said he was visiting a farm when a horse bolted out of the barn and stepped on a stone which flew up and struck him in the leg.

Every Day Is Christmas

BY RUTH MILLETT: TO THE LADIES

The Feminine Viewpoint

RECENTLY I read a news item which stated: "Frustration is causing stomach ulcers in dogs at the University of Illinois College of Medicine.

Seems the dogs are taught to expect food every time a bell rings. Then when they've come to expect food with the ringing of the bell, the set-up is changed. Sometimes they get food when the bell rings, but more often they don't. Result: ulcers.

MILLETT

It seems to me there's a lesson there for housewives.

If it can happen to Fido, maybe it can happen to Papa.

The first year of wedded bliss and Papa comes home happily expecting to be met at the door by a freshly lipsticked bride, the delightful aroma of a roast about ready to be taken from the oven, and a happy, quiet evening at home, with the evening paper, the radio, and his loving wife.

But time passes . . .

BLISSFUL SCENE CHANGES

AND more and more often, still expecting this blissful picture, he comes home to an empty house because his wife didn't stop playing bridge soon enough to beat him home.

Or he walks into the house and finds his wife reading a movie magazine from which she glances up long enough to say: "What are you doing home so early? Why, it can't be six o'clock! Well, I'll make us a sandwich."

Or instead of being met by a smiling wife he's met by one who has had a hard day and wants him to hear all about it.

Now if not getting food when a bell rings, just because he has come to associate the ringing of a bell with food, can give Fido ulcers what can such frustration as I've just outlined do to a man?

I don't think the University of Illinois College of Medicine is trying to answer that question. But maybe wives ought to consider it.

If it shouldn't happen to a dog, it certainly shouldn't happen to Papa.

"Try And Stop Me"

A GENTLEMAN with an unwieldy box of flowers under his arm was about to board a Madison Avenue bus recently when Mignon Eberhart, the mystery writer, hailed him. She was sure she recognized him, but for the life of her couldn't recall his name. He looked equally puzzled, but let the bus go by, and shook her hand warmly.

There followed one of those animated, super-cordial exchanges of amenities that always feature the meeting of two people who aren't sure of each other's identity. Finally, the gentleman said, "It's been fine seeing you again, but I really must run." Just as he stepped on the bus, Miss Eberhart remembered, in a frightening flash, one, why his face was familiar, and two, that she never had met him in her life.

It was ex-President Herbert Hoover.

BY ROBERT C. RUARK

Quick Success Is Predicted For Negro Singer In 'Frisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 9.—I have been studying modern music lately—modern music being approximately one-half "Mule Train" and the other half bop—and I may have found an antidote for the whole business.

This antidote would be a young colored gentleman, originally of Los Angeles, whose name is Connie Jordan.

RUARK

Jordan is in his late 20's and he looks rather like a sunburned Sinatra. He is a reformed drummer, and he sings in a little joint called the "Say When" here in town. The "Say When" finds itself stacked to the eaves each evening when Jordan begins to roll, and remains stacked until Jordan goes away.

This is because Jordan has a voice that combines something of the old fashioned Georgia camp meeting with a sly sophistication and even a wistful tenderness—good gawd, Ruark, lay them adjectives down, boy— which makes him about the best parlay in entertainment I have clocked since Crosby had hair.

When Connie is singing hot he opens up his mouth like a sinner come to mourn and he whacks his hands between phrasing and when he rocks on his heels and whacks his hands and opens up his mouth you can see the whole jampacked crowd whack hands and rock on heels and follow him with silent, open mouths.

Does Not Croon

When Connie renders "Saturday Night Fish Fry" unto his faithful, there is no doubt at all that the young man has a song in his lungs. He does not croon.

Connie can stroke a ballad as soft and sexy as Sinatra in his better days and he doesn't have to fake a falsetto. He can turn loose on a ditty with as much or as little noise as the ditty needs and knock the crowd dead with one reaction—namely, that a pleasant looking brown youngster named Jordan has just cornered the market on all the rhythm in the world.

On top of that he looks nice. There is a touch of the choir boy about him, and a clean good humor. This is a refreshing change from the nasty-looking men with the berets and the little goatees who holler "oooo" and 'eeee' in leiu of words, and whose whole repertoire seems slanted at the marijuana, or happy-stick, set.

I AM just about caught up on this bebop kick. Paul Weston, a rare band leader who plays soft and pretty, was telling me the other day that bop has become so esoteric that when a player gets up now to take a solo break, all he has to do is stand there for most of his 32 bars and the applause is just as heavy as if he were playing.

This is known as performing to a "cool" audience, a cool audience being one which is so hep that it does not need to hear the music at all, but can imagine what the music would sound like if it were actually being blown out of a horn or thumped from a drum. It is somewhat like paying a singer not to sing or a football player not to run, and may have some advantages, at that. I mean that is the proper place for bop, anyhow—in the heads of its fanciers and not in the public eardrum.

Success Is Predicted

My man Jordan comes from a musical family and hence has some respect for sharps and flats. His stuff ends on the beat and he is so old-fashioned he even sings in tune. This is a modern miracle in jazz singing, since most of the ones I hear lately wander around the melody like a drunk in the subway.

Ordinarily I do not make a habit of going about discovering people, since this sometimes earns you a rap on the snout or additional financial obligations, but I break the rule in favor of Connie Jordan.

If this young gent isn't the hottest thing in the vocal business before he's much older I will take up bop myself and try to make it popular with people who speak English.

Area Farmers Attend Meeting At College

A total of 110 area farmers attended a program at 7:30 p. m. Thursday at the Tech stock judging pavilion sponsored by the Lubbock County Production and Marketing association and the Texas Extension service. The program was one of a series of eight designed to familiarize county farmers with the 1950 farm program.

W. R. Tilson, of Meadow, district director for the farm bureau, explained the purposes and aims of the bureau to those at the meeting. He showed how the bureau trys to help the farmer prepare agricultural products.

D. W. Sherrill, county agent, showed educational ffims on livestock management and soil conservation.

Walter Y. Wells, administrative officer of the association, explained the cotton allotment program and marketing quotas for 1950 to the meeting.

Refreshments, furnished by the Farm bureau, were served by the Tech Dairy manufacturing class.

ANOTHER HONOR FOR HOOVER!

J. Edgar Hoover has received many honors during his long service as head of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

One of the most outstanding came the other day from the National Lawyers Guild. Spokesmen for that radical organization announced plans for a campaign to drive Mr. Hoover from office.

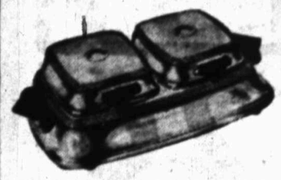

A finer tribute never has been paid to the quality of the patriotism of the FBI chief, nor the effectiveness of that agency in identifying and bringing to justice the undercover enemies of the American form of government.

Neither Mr. Hoover, nor any public officials, could desire a better recommendation to real Americans than a confession of hate and fear by a radical group like the Lawyers' guild.

Area Tripled At San Angelo

By TIM PARKER
Associated Press Staff Writer

Probably only one Texas city can claim to have tripled in size overnight.

That city is San Angelo in West Texas. San Angelo tripled its area—though not its population—in an annexation last Sept. 29.

Annexations, important to any population survey, have helped many Texas cities boost their population claims quickly.

San Angelo grew from eight square miles to about 28, but boosted its population only about a third. Nevertheless, the West Texas wool center now expects at 1950 federal census count of 55,000, up from 25,802 in 1940, or more than double.

15,000 Are Added

Before annexation, San Angelo's population was estimated at 40,000 which alone was a sizeable gain over 1940. Annexation brought in about 15,000 people.

Cities in whose growth annexation was a factor include:

Austin—The state capital grew from 53,000 in 1930 to 87,930 in 1940. City officials believe the 1950 census will show 150,000 residents. Austin has added about seven square miles to its area since 1940 by taking in subdivisions.

Beaumont—This coastal city has about doubled its size since 1940, when it was listed as 59,061. Estimates include: Mayor Otho Plummer, 125,000; chamber of commerce, 110,000; Postmaster F. S. Braden, 95,000 to 100,000. About 20,000 persons were brought into the city by annexation of 20 square miles in 1946, doubling the city's area. The annexation was bitterly opposed by some of the residents of the annexed area. It was by city commission action. A growth diversified industries boosted Beaumont population.

Population Hikes Seen

Bryan—Using water taps as a basis, City Manager Mills P. Walker estimated Bryan's population at 21,879, almost double the 1940 figure of 11,842. Bryan has annexed several years, but the population growth in them has been greater since than before annexation.

Corsicana—Corsicana added 1,300 persons by annexing the state orphans home and the IOOF home and 7,500 more by taking in an area called Zion's Rest. But there was considerable growth within the city limits from the 1940 figure of 15,232. With the annexation Mayor Hubert T. Braselton estimates the population at 25,000.

THE QUESTION

Do you believe that hoarding of coffee contributes to rise in prices in face of reported scarcity?

THE ANSWERS

MRS. GEORGE B. MELOT, 1101 E. Sixteenth, clerk in Neisner's: "It could be. I think that they will keep prices up for awhile and not let coffee out on the market. I think that hoarding is probably the cause for the high prices."

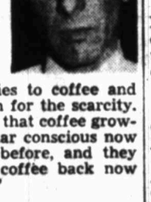

MRS. REX ANDERSON, Shallowater, employe of Shaw's: "Yes, I do. Naturally if a product is hoarded, it will cause the prices to go up and that is what has happened to coffee."

MRS. RALPH SIMMONS, Brownfield, farmwife: "Yes, I do. It makes a shortage on the market. In my opinion, I think it is the house wives that are doing the hoarding, not the cafes."

MRS. JOHN W. SALMON, Route 5, housewife: "Yes, I do. If is were more plentiful, they wouldn't have to raise the prices. I think that hoarding is definitely the cause for the high prices.

K. A. RAMSAUER, Hilton Hotel, manager of Wylies: "Yes, and no, it doesn't. Housewives are the ones that are hoarding it, not the restaurants. It doesn't have anything to do with high prices though. During the war, Americans educated the European countries to coffee and that is one reason for the scarcity. Another reason is that coffee growers are more dollar conscious now than they were before, and they are holding the coffee back now to get the price."

MRS. J. H. ASCHENBECK, Brownfield, housewife: "High prices have resulted possibly because people got excited because they feared a shortage and started stocking up. I believe that housewives are worse about hoarding than the cafes are."

Man Is Killed In Car Crash

(Special To The Journal)

LAMESA, Dec. 9 — Roy David Smith, 42, a resident of the Woody community near Lamesa, was fatally injured in a car-truck collision about 3 p. m. Thursday six miles south of here on Highway 87.

Smith's death pushed the South Plains' and area traffic mishap toll for the year to 99 killed. More than 640 persons have been injured.

Smith was killed when the 1947 Plymouth he was driving sideswiped a large truck loaded with cotton. He died several minutes later en route to a Lamesa hospital.

Truck Driver Not Hurt

Santos Gaipon of San Angelo driver of the truck, was not injured.

The traffic fatality drove the year's total for the area within one of the 100-mark and set the 1949 record at seven more than the 92 predicted for the South Plains in January by the Texas Highway patrol. Smith was the 42nd to die in automobile accidents in the region within the last 40 days.

(Robert Lee Mimms, 56, of Robertson, died earlier in the day at the Crosbyton clinic from injuries suffered in an auto mishap west of Ralls on Dec. 1 to send the year's total to 98.)

Unable To Pass Car

Dawson county Deputy Sheriff Lawrence West, who investigated the accident, said Smith apparently tried to pass a car as he drove south along the highway and was unable to pull back into his own lane before meeting the northbound truck.

Smith had been employed as a night watchman for the Bill White gin in Lamesa. He suffered head injuries in the wreck and all his arms and legs were crushed. He died before a Higginbotham Funeral home ambulance from Lamesa could get him to the hospital.

Funeral services probably will be conducted Sunday in the Higginbotham chapel here. Burial will be in Lamesa Memorial park.

It was not immediately determined where the dead man was going at the time of his death. His home in the Woody community is located approximately 10 miles north of Lamesa. He was a World

BIDS ON PAVING WORK ACCEPTED

Lower Gas Rate To Be Sought By City

The question of lower gas rates in Lubbock was revived unexpectedly at the semi-monthly meeting of the city commission Thursday afternoon after having been dormant for many months.

The commission also accepted bids but deferred the award of contracts for 101 blocks of pavement under a new arrangement which would increase the cost to the property owner about 10 to 15 per cent, but would greatly hasten such improvement.

Members of the commission likewise took action designed to plug suspected "leaks" in some of the competitive bidding for the city's business. Mayor W. H. Rodgers was asked to notify city employes that the disclosure of the amount of any bids before the deadline set for their submission will be cause for immediate discharge.

Final action on 10 ordinances providing for extension of the city limits was deferred because of the absence of Commissioner W. B. Price.

The ordinances were passed on first reading after public hearings last week. Members of the commission said they did not want to act finally on the proposals until all are present—which is expected to be at a special meeting late next week. The proposed "Westchester" annexation ordinance along the Levelland highway west of the city limits still hangs fire, with no action taken for or against.

The gas rate question was revived when C. I. Wall, vice president of the West Texas Gas Co., proposed the renewal for two years of the contract under which the company supplies gas for municipal uses at 11 cents per 1,000 cubic feet.

Subsequent discussions brought out that the city paid the company $73,798 last year for somewhat less than 700,000,000 cubic feet of gas—with this year's bill sure to be considerably higher.

The proposal quickly snagged on two points:

One was the commission's contention that the rate to the city should be reduced to 10 cents—the amount paid by Southwestern Public Service Co. for the fuel. Officials estimated that a 1-cent cut in the rate would aggregate a saving of $7,000 to $8,000 next year.

Rate Reduction Question Raised

The other snag was the question raised by Commissioner E. K. Hufstedler as to "what has become of the general gas rate reduction we were asking last spring?"

He referred to a demand made upon the gas company officials at that time to show cause why the domestic gas rate in Lubbock should not be in closer conformity to those of Amarillo.

According to the information laid before the city commission at that time, gas users in Lubbock were paying a base rate of 45

Museum Meet Is Set Tonight

A 13-year-old dream will officially come true at 7 p. m. today as members and guests of the West Texas Museum association attend a dinner in the almost completed Texas Tech museum.

Honoring all those who had a part in completing the new two-story structure after planning since 1936, the ranch style dinner will be attended by approximately 150 persons, mostly from Lubbock.

Actual opening of the museum for public use will not be made until some time during early 1950, according to Curator W. C. Holden, since a great deal of interior work is yet to be completed.

Board Members To Be Guests

Tonight's dinner will be attended by several members of the Tech board of directors as honored guests. To be held on the second floor of the north wing of the building, the dinner will be provided by the museum association.

Built in an effort to give visual evidence of South Plain-Panhandle history, the Tech museum is constructed along the same Spanish achitectural lines as other buildings on the campus. It is located across the street northeast of the central circle on Tech campus.

Dean of Men James G. Allen will deliver the principal address tonight, officially thanking all those who had a part in constructing the new building. Dr. Holden will outline policies and plans for operating the museum and several committees will be appointed.

Standing committees, with their chairmen, which will be officially set in motion tonight include the pioneer rotunda, James H. Milam; accessions, Mrs. W. P. Clement; donor, Roy Furr; murals, W. C. O'Mara; musical programs, Dr. Gene Hemmle; ceramics and objects of art, F. A. Kleinschmidt; lecturers and special programs, Dr. E. N. Jones; and com-

VOTE IS SCHEDULED TUESDAY

Dispersal System Must Be Finished

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the third of three articles discussing the $1,975,000 bond issue upon which the qualified citizens of the City of Lubbock will vote next Tuesday. The issues include $850,000 for enlargement of the sewage disposal plant and system and $525,000 to buy rights-of-way necessary to the completion of the City Highway Dispersal system).

By H. L. KIEFER
Avalanche Staff Writer

FIVE major projects remain in the uncompleted portion of the Lubbock Highway Dispersal system.

They cannot be built until the City supplies rights-of-way for them; and the city cannot supply rights-of way unless the $525,000 bond issue proposed for that purpose is approved next Tuesday.

KIEFER

Here are the projects:

1. Nineteenth street eastward from Texas avenue to a conjunction with East Broadway at a point about two miles east of the entrance to the Fairgrounds; this would enable much through and heavy traffic to skirt the central business district.

2. Thirty-fourth street entirely across the city from the east to the west city limits, linking the Levelland and Tahoka highway.

3. Northeast Avenue Q from Third street through the Country club addition to the Plainview high way.

4. Avenue A from Broadway to Nineteenth street.

5. Four railroad underpasses, each of four-lane width, as follows: Avenue A at Fourteenth; on Fourth street at Avenue J; Nineteenth street near Avenue A; and Northeast Avenue Q at North Second street.

This program will involve the construction of approximately 10 miles of paving, all of 64-foot, four-lane width.

Every penny of the construction costs estimated at $1,611,000 will be paid by the State and Federal highway departments.

They have advised the City repeatedly that they are ready to get busy as soon as complete rights-of-way for the various projects are supplied. But they won't move an inch until the titles to the necessary property are laid before them.

THESE projects will mean a great deal more to Lubbock than traffic convenience. They will mean much in terms of the enhancement of property values; in the accessibility of many portions of the city—particularly east and north—which now are difficult to reach.

They also will mean a great deal in terms of traffic safety by eliminating grade crossings which become increasingly hazardous with growth and by providing thoroughfares which are safer because of their width and their engineering, particularly at curves.

Some questions have been raised during discussions of the proposed bond issue as to whether Lubbock's credit is good enough to allow these new obligations.

No one should be uneasy on this score. City of Lubbock bonds are among the soundest of any city in this country.

Significant proof of the City's credit standing was supplied a few months ago when some Lubbock bonds were offered for sale. More than 45 investment houses wanted to buy some or all of them. They were sold at an average interest rate of 2 1/2 per cent—a remarkably low rate for any city bonds.

With these new bonds voted and sold, the City's tax bond indebtedness still will be less than 8 per cent of its assessed valuations. A city with a 10 per cent debt is considered within sound and conservative limits.

As a matter of fact, Lubbock will be a considerably better credit risk if these bonds are voted than if they are rejected.

Defeat of the sewage disposal plant bonds will be risking the community's health.

Defeat of the Highway Dispersal system right-of-way issue would be a barrier to progress.

The City which would do either of those things is not likely to be regarded as a good and safe place for investments.

Nagging Wife Gets Free Painted Face

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 9. (U.P.)—A Milwaukee wife says she's willing to fogive and forget if her husband promises not to use her face as a painter's palette.

With traces of white paint in her hair, Mrs. Dorothy Grace, 22, came before Judge Harvey Neelen here and charged that her husband slapped paint in her face.

She said the incident occurred when she asked him to stop painting woodwork. He had been drinking, she explained, and she feared he'd splatter the walls.

Mrs. Grace said she planned divorce action. But she agreed to give her husband another chance, and the judge placed Grace on probation.

AWOL Soldier Found Living In Forest With German Girl, Baby

FRANKFURT, Germany, Dec. 9. (AP)—The American Army has pulled up the stakes on a GI's idyll of love in a tent with his beautiful German sweetheart and their baby.

Army officials announced yesterday the soldier, recruit Melborn C. Moffitt of Hominy, Okla., had been arrested after being absent without leave since last March 31.

Moffitt, the Army said, had had a "fine record," but when his unit got ready to head for the United States he apparently decided to pull out in order to be with his girl and baby.

The announcement said the family had been living in a house in the Grafenwoehr area until about two months ago. Then, an official said, the soldier got scared and moved his family into a homemade but well-camouflaged tent in the woods in the area.

Moffitt was arrested after a German forester reported a "strange man who looks like an American is living in the woods at Grafenwoehr."

Army police took the girl and her baby to Nuernberg for questioning, but they said the girl was not put under arrest.

Falling Tree Causes Death Of Farmer, 67

YORK, Pa., Dec. 9 (AP)—Sixty-seven-year-old Edwin Young chopped down a tree on his farm at nearby Freysville yesterday. The tree fell on top of him.

Forty-five minutes later, Young died at York hospitl. Deputy Coroner Ralph Keech said both his legs had been fractured.

Tennessee Milk Delivered Fresh In Modern Refrigerated Trucks

Don't let the name fool you. Tennessee Milk company is a Texas institution and has been since 1907.

And since May 1, 1949, Tennessee milk products have become a by-word for freshness and high quality in Lubbock and on the South Plains.

A Tennessee farm boy came to Dallas, began marketing his hay crop as milk, and called the new business Tennessee Farm Boy's Dairy. Later, the name was shortened to Tennessee Dairies.

Headquarters are still in Dallas —and the milk distributed daily in the Lubbock area comes from the territory known as the Dallas milkshed.

In spite of the distance, the milk is just as fresh when distributed here as if it had been produced locally.

Here is how it works as the company follows the policy of first getting a quality product from the producer and then providing the highest protection possible in getting that product to the consumer.

Milk is picked up in the Dallas milkshed in refrigerated trucks this morning, pasteurized, cooled and bottled in the Dallas plant. By noon, the milk, in cartons, is loaded into huge refrigerated transport trucks.

These trucks actually are refrigerated vaults on wheels, which arrive in Lubbock around midnight, ready for home and store distribution early the next morning.

If the milk were produced locally, it would sit all night in refrigerated vaults. Instead, it is in vaults on wheels, enroute to Lubbock from Dallas.

Manager of the local distribution plant, located on the Idalou highway at Fourth street, is M. F. Cowan. All seven employes, including Cowan, are Lubbock residents.

Three wholesale trucks service stores in Lubbock, New Deal, Abernathy, Levelland, Sundown, Wolfforth, Ropesville, Brownfield, O'Donnell and Tahoka.

Two retail trucks are used in providing delivery service to Lubbock homes. And here is a point of pride for the Tennessee Milk company.

The two retail trucks are the only two of their type in all of Texas, Cowan said, and absolutely the latest thing for distribution of packaged milk products.

The trucks have self-refrigerating units which chill the heavily insulated interior. At night, the unit is plugged in to an electric switch, and coils in the top of the truck build up cold in storage plates which last through the day.

What's the advantage? Dry refrigeration eliminates the mess and wetness of the old method of using ice to cool milk. Further, the truck is sealed, keeping dust and sand off the products.

All the milk is kept uniformly cold. The route men put their carriers loaded with milk and other products back into the refrigerated compartment after each house stop, preventing warmups and a bacterial buildup. Ordinary ice can't keep milk temperatures uniformly below 50 degrees. The new Tennessee trucks keeps it all around 40 degrees.

Milk isn't the only product protected by the Tennessee Milk company's careful handling and refrigeration. Here is the complete list of products carried by the friendly and courteous Tennessee route men:

Homogenized and cream-line milk, buttermilk, whipping cream, half-and-half, cottage cheese, sweet cream butter and eggs.

Lubbock home deliveries are made every other day to individual customers. Wholesale deliveries to stores are made daily. If your grocery doesn't have Tennessee milk, ask for it. And if you are missing the high quality and freshness of Tennessee milk in your home—dial 2-3311. That's the Tennessee Milk Company—a Texas institution.

The Lubbock Bag company at 304-310 Ave. L buys second hand bags.

C. H. Scales Implement Co. Has Quality Farm Machinery

It's the Christmas shopping season, to be sure, but it also is time for South Plains farmers to get their farm machinery. The C. H. Scales Implement company at 2214-16 Ave. G is a good place to start.

This company, owned by C. H. scales, completed its tenth year in Lubbock this month.

Here the farmer can find J. I. Case farm machinery, irrigation supplies, milking machines, Mayrath grain loaders, Shafer one-way plows and Jeffroy chisel plows, along with many other essential items of farm equipment.

Whatever crop the farmer specializes in, the C. H. Scales Implement company has the right machine for the right job.

In addition to new machinery, the company has a complete stock of parts and offers shop service on those makes of merchandise sold by the dealership.

While in Lubbock, farmers should go by the C. H. Scales Implement company at 2214-16 Ave. G to see the complete line of quality farm machinery.

LABOR PARTY POWER AT STAKE

Australia To Decide Issue Of Socialism In Saturday Ballot

By GORDON TAIT
Associated Press Staff Writer

SYDNEY, Australia, Dec. 9.—Socialism or free enterprise?

That is a clearcut issue in Australia's critical general election tomorrow.

The Labor party of Prime Minister J. B. Chifley, a former locomotive driver, has been in power eight years. It has a longrange program of nationalization. It believes government controls are needed to stabilize the nation's economy and insure full employment.

The opposition promises to halt nationalization and the Australian leftward trend. Labor and socialism went down to defeat in neighboring New Zealand last week and the opposition here hopes that is a sign of the future.

Five Million Votes Seen

The anti-labor opposition in Australia comes from two parties, the Liberal party and the Country party, which promise to work in unison should labor be defeated. The Liberals are led by former Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies, a lawyer. Leader of the Country party—strong in rural areas—is Arthur W. Fadden, an accountant. Menzies would be the next prime minister should the coalition win.

Nearly 5,000,000 voters will ballot in the two-house parliamentary election, which is held every three years.

This election has stirred the public more than any since the commonwealth was born.

The empire and many countries outside the empire look to the result to see if Australia will follow New Zealand's anti-socialist decision last week. The neighboring dominion tossed out the 14-year-old Labor government of Prime Minister Peter Fraser in favor of a free enterprise nationalist regime.

May Affect Britain

The election also may have some bearing on the British general elections next year, when a five-year-old socialist government appeals for endorsement of its policies.

In Sydney and Melbourne this week, correspondents met many people who said they are going to vote against Labor for the first time. Betting odds varied widely in a nation of many bettors.

One thing seemed certain. Labor is facing its stiffest fight since the late John Curtin assumed leadership of the nation when the present government came to power in October, 1941. Curtin died in 1945 and Chifley has been prime minister since.

Have the people changed their minds since the Chifley Labor government was returned three years ago?

Many are unhappy about the rising cost of living. Some blame socialist policies for the British commonwealth's present economic plight. The New Zealand decision will affect the thinking of a large number of voters.

Voting Compulsory

But don't be too surprised if Labor is returned. It held 43 seats in the last house of representatives out of a total 74. The house has now been enlarged to 121 seats, all of which are being contested in tomorrow's elections.

Voting is compulsory in Australia and complicated. The house of representatives is chosen by a preferential system. That is, the voter marks his first choice by putting "1" after the name of the candidate he prefers. "2" goes by the name of the candidate he nominates as second choice and so on.

These expressed preferences have a major effect on the final standing of parties.

Labor has a stranglehold on the elected senate. It had 33 of the Senate's former 36 seats. The Senate is now enlarged to 42 seats and voting for the first time will be by a proportional system.

New South Wales is regarded as a key state. Whichever party gains the majority in this important industrial and agricultural state—with 39 per cent of the electors—will probably carry the election. The state government of New South Wales is in the hands of Labor.

Husband Shoots Wife And Commits Suicide

VICTORIA, Dec. 9 (AP)—Joe L. Ludwick, 68, of Austin, shot and killed himself yesterday afternoon after his estranged wife was shot three times.

Justice of the Peace Alfred C. Baass said he would return a verdict of suicide.

Baass said Ludwick shot his wife at a ranch home 20 miles east of here.

Irma Ludwick, about 45, was in a critical condition at a Victoria hospital.

Baass said Mrs. Ludwick had been working as a nurse at the J. N. Keeran ranch for more than two months. He said Ludwick came to the ranch and asked for her to sign a deed on a home in Austin.

When she refused to sign the deed, Baass said, Ludwick shot her three times in the neck and then fired a shot into his head.

Rites Set Saturday For Wreck Victim

DICKENS, Dec. 9 (Special) — Funeral services for Robert Lee Mimms, 56-year-old farmer of the Robertson community who died at 10 a. m. Thursday in the Crosbyton clinic-hospital of head injuries received Dec. 1 in an automobile accident west of Ralls, will be held at 2:30 p. m. Saturday in the Dickens Church of Christ.

Leonard Dennis of Crosbyton and R. N. Slack of Lorenzo will officiate. Burial will be in Dickens cemetery under the direction of the Marr Funeral home of Ralls.

Mimms had been a resident of the Robertson community for the last two years, moving there from Dickens.

He is survived by his wife; three sons, Jerry Eugene, Donald Lee and Jacky; a daughter, Carolyn; two brothers, Ray of Stockton, Calif., and O. M. of Ralls; and four sisters, Mrs. O. E. Minix of Spur, Mrs. Harmon Folley and Mrs. Ozella Lee, both of Stockton, Calif., and Mrs. J. D. Graham of Dickens.

Pallbearers will include E. J. Nichols and Jack Gibson of Dickens, E. S. Lee of Spur, R. L. Kidd of Ralls, Deroy Andrews of Lorenzo and C. A. Buffington of Lorenzo.

His death brings the total of South Plains accident fatalities for the year to 99.

Paper Strikers Are Dismissed

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 9. (AP)—Forty-three mail room employes of the Louisville Daily-Courier Journal staged a three-hour sit-down strike late last night and were discharged after police were called and requested them to leave the newspaper building.

Publisher Mark Ethridge termed the work-stoppage an "illegal sit-down strike," and said the 43 had been dismissed. They had quit work, he said, about 10:45 p. m. (CST) and locked themselves in the mailing room for about three hours. The stoppage stemmed from a dispute over a new contract.

Company executives took over the mailing room jobs after the employes had left and handled the late editions of the city's only daily morning newspaper. The regular mail room employes quit work after early editions of the paper had been run off.

Ejection Threatened

Ethridge, accompanied by police, was admitted to the mailing room at 1:40 a. m. today and read a letter to the employes. He told them they would be ejected by police, if necessary. However, they left the plant without any disturbance.

The 43 who quit work are members of local mailers union 99, an affiliate of the international mailers union, (independent).

Henry M. McClaskey, assistant general manager of the Courier Journal, said the company had offered the mailers a contract along the same pattern already accepted by other unions at the newspaper. He said agreement had been reached on all issues except wages and length of contract.

Negotiations on a new contract have been underway since June, McClaskey said. The old contract expired in August.

No comment was available immediately from union officials.

BARTENDER'S HOLIDAY

DECATUR, Ill., (AP)—When bartenders and waitresses get through working, they like recreation, too. But usually all the places in town are closed.

The Decatur Bartenders and Waitresses union has solved its after-work "play problem." It has opened its own recreation rooms. Do they employ their own waitresses and bartenders? Why, no, not with all the available talent.

O'Donnell Banker's Rites Set Saturday

O'DONNELL, Dec. 9 (Special) —Funeral services for C. H. Doak, 76-year-old retired banker of O'Donnell who died at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the home of his daughter, Mrs. Major Rodgers of Vista, Calif., after a long illness, will be held Saturday in Vista, relatives here have been notified.

Doak, who has been a resident of the area since 1901, was a former resident of Lubbock and the first sheriff of Lynn county.

He is survived by his wife; another daughter, Mrs. Morris Sanderson of Seagraves; two brothers, I. S. of Lubbock and T. S. of Seminole; and a sister, Mrs. Z. F. Sample of Pharr.

Doctor's Card Just Blank Prescription

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP)—You might say that this calling card is just what the doctor ordered.

A visiting doctor at the AMA convention told a reporter to look him up sometime if the newsman came to his town.

Texas Census

filled in to allow a small new district for development. Chamber of Commerce estimates population at 79,900, up from 60,862 in 1940.

Kingsville — Annexations this year have expanded city area from 1.7 square miles to 3.5. Chamber of commerce estimates population is 18,000, up from 7,780 in 1940.

Lubbock—Has doubled its area since 1940 by annexations which have added about 15,000 to total population. Chamber of commerce and city commission estimate population at 66,000 in city limits compared with 31,853 in 1940. Further annexations soon expected to add 10,000 to 15,000 residents.

Large Area Annexed

Waco—City water department estimates population at 95,845, compared with 55,962 in 1940. Twelve square miles annexed since 1940 but no estimate of population in annexed areas available. Population estimate based on water meters.

McAllen — Population almost doubled since 1940 figure of 11,677. Based on utility connections and scholastic enrollment, city now estimates population at 23,000. About a third of the city's 3.2-square miles area annexed since 1940, adding 3,000 persons.

Brownsville — Texas' southernmost city has more than doubled since 1940, according to chamber of commerce which estimates population at 44,310, compared with 22,083 in 1940. Estimate based on increase in telephones. Only about 40 acres of city's 5.8 square miles area annexed since 1940.

Lufkin—Grew from four to nine square miles by 1947 annexations. People in other outlying areas asking to be annexed but city reluctant to act because it could not quickly extend city services. Chamber of Commerce estimated the population at 17,500, compared with 9,567 in 1940, and says greater Lufkin has more than 21,000 residents.

Paris—Annexed 140,550 square feet in 1949 over heated opposition of some residents of the built-up areas. But growth from 18,678 in 1940 to estimated 25,500 not principally a result of annexation. The 1949 population was estimated by the chamber of commerce.

Pecos—Took in three square miles since 1947, bringing total area to about five and a half square miles, and adding about 1,500 persons. City Secretary Bob Davis estimates present population at 9,931 persons compared with 4,855 in 1940.

Port Arthur — Annexed one square mile and 6,000 people in 1948, one and a half square miles and 5,000 people in October, and may annex an area with 10,000 more residents before the census is taken. Listed at 46,150 in 1940, the Gulf City's population is estimated by Mayor James W. Long at about 80,000. Widescale waterworks and sewer improvements will be necessary to care for the new areas.

Texarkana—City council of the Texas side of this border city recently won voters' approval to annex by city ordinance and promptly used the new authority in three sweeping annexation moves. Texarkana, Ark., has not annexed to such a degree. Texarkana, Tex., with a 1940 population of 17,019, is now estimated by Mayor Bruce Cunningham at 30,800. The two-city area, counted at 28,840 in 1940, is now estimated by the chamber of commerce at 51,800.

Hollywood Will Film Two Movies In India

NEW DELHI, India, Dec. 9 (AP)—Hollywood is coming halfway around the world to make two pictures in India. Producers are after Indian backgrounds — distinctive topography, rivers, monsoons, elephants and camels.

International Films, Ltd., plans to make the first technicolor picture filmed in India. It will be "The River," based on Rumer Godden's novel about a British family on an Indian plantation.

Part of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's technicolor production of Rudyard Kipling's "Kim" will be photographed in India. Dean Stockwell will play Kim and Errol Flynn will portray his friend, Mahbub Ali.

The Malden, England, Amateur Dramatic Society split on a proposal for a 30-year-age limit for membership.

CRIMINAL ACTIVITIES CHARGED

Yugoslav Mission In Berlin Is Blockaded By Communists

BERLIN, Dec. 9. (AP)—German Communist police have thrown a cordon around the home of the Yugoslav military mission in the Russian sector of Berlin and imposed what amounts to a blockade.

Marshal Tito's delegation in Germany was disaccredited last night by the Communist east German republic and denied permisison to travel in the Soviet zone.

One Member Free

A dozen members of the misison live in the Soviet sector of Berlin but maintain their business offices in the British sector. They split their activities, moving their offices to the west after relations between Tito and the Kremlin deteriorated.

One member of the Yugoslav delegation remaining in west Berlin last night was free to report what happened.

Asking not to be quoted by name, he said his comrades told him by telephone they were virtually imprisoned in their house in the Nieder-Schoenhausen, a suburb in the Soviet sector.

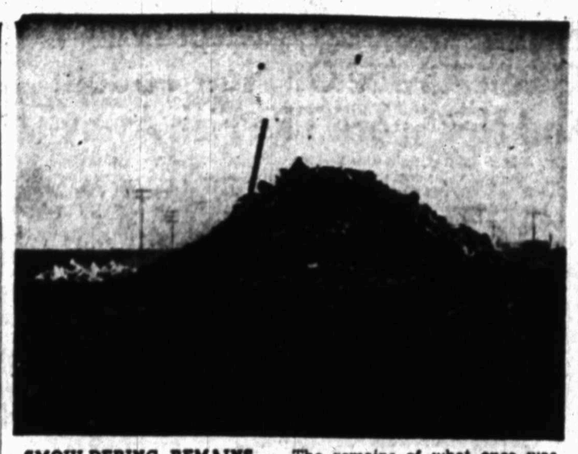

The east German "people's police" arrived about midnight and ringed the house. Anyone trying to leave was turned back, this source said.

Reporting the disaccrediting of the mission, the Russian-licensed news agency, ADN, charged the Yugoslavs generally with trying to disturb the order of the east zone republic and with using their office to commit unspecified "crimes."

Lieut. Col. M. I. Sibinqvich, chief of the Yugoslav mission, decided to move the entire delegation—seven families including 16 persons—to western Berlin last night but didn't get a chance.

East zone police arrived as they were leaving the main building and surrounding cottages. They were reported to have seized the mission's property, including luggage and clothing, and permitted none to leave.

Several who tried to go out this morning to buy milk for children in the delegation's families were turned back by police.

Eisenhower Urges Dignity And Equality For American People

GALVESTON, Dec. 9. (AP)—General Dwight D. Eisenhower turned hunted today and that's what he intends to be for the next several days of his visit to Texas.

The wartime leader of American forces in Europe yesterday called for preservation of the dignity and equality of every American.

"If all Americans want is security, they can go to prison," he told a combined meeting of this resort city's luncheon clubs.

"But if an American wants to preserve his dignity and his equality as a human being, he must not bow his neck to any dictatorial government."

Recommends Voting

He urged the people to vote in every election "from school board members to presidents."

"America will never be lost if we vote," he said.

He quoted Patrick Henry's "give me liberty or give me death," and said that regardless of race, creed or color, "the dignity of the human being should be preserved."

The general injected a Texas note in yesterday's speech when he said he liked to think of David Crockett, one of the heroes killed in the Alamo, as "a man who had the interest of his country deep in his heart."

Another Speech Set

Eisenhower is a guest of Sid Richardson, Texas oilman, at St. Joseph's island in the Gulf of Mexico. His next speaking engagement is Dec. 15 at the annual dinner of the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Eisenhower accompanied her husband on his visit here. A reporter asked her "would you like to be the wife of the president of the United States."

She answered:

"What American woman wouldn't want her husband to be president?"

STORK GETS IN RUT

CHICAGO. (AP)—A nurse popped her head in a room and told a new father: "It's a boy." Another nurse popped her head in a room and told another father the same thing. So it went at Walther Memorial hospital—one boy baby after another until 16 in succession had been delivered. Then, at the end of 30 hours, the extraordinary run was broken by the birth of a girl.

Loss In Fire Hits $32,000

ROPESVILLE, Dec. 9 (Special) Allen Johnson, manager of the O. K. Grain Storage elevator here, which was destroyed by fire Thursday afternoon, today estimated loss of maize, equipment and the elevator at $32,000.

The elevator and grain were fully covered by insurance, according to Harvey Allen of Amarillo, co-owner of the Amarillo Oil Mills company, which owned the burned elevator.

Short Circuit Blamed

Johnson said the elevator and equipment destroyed by the fire were valued at $12,000 and that 10 carloads of maize lost to the flames were valued at $20,000.

Cause of the fire, which was discovered at 2:15 p. m. Thursday, was believed to have been due to a short circuit in the area of the electrical hoist motors at the top of the frame elevator.

Firemen Are Hampered

Lubbock and Brownfield dispatched fire fighting units to the scene but a lack of water hindered their efforts. Ropesville does not have a municipal water supply. The water carried by the trucks was used to extinguish nearby burning railroad car doors.

Levelland firemen, equipped with tank trucks, snuffed out flames enveloping a pile of grain Thursday night. The elevator was destroyed by 4 p. m.

Briton Awed By U. S. Private Automobiles

LONDON, Dec. 9 (AP) — Buses and streetcars in the United States are just Cinderellas without a fair chance in traffic, says Lord Latham, boss of London's vast transport system.

Latham chairman of the London Passenger Transport board, has just returned from an inspection of transport and industry in America. He told newsmen he was awed by the number of private automobiles there.

HOMES WIRED FOR FIRE

CLEVELAND, O. (UP) — Home automatic fire alarms that sound when the temperature around them gets too high have been developed by a Cleveland firm. Detector units are put in spots in homes most likely to catch fire.

Changes In Traffic Code Are Adopted

ATLANTA, Dec. 9 (UP)—Margaret Mitchell, who gained world fame with one book, "Gone With the Wind" indirectly wrote an important city document when she was struck down by a speeding automobile last August.

The death of the beloved author prompted the city council to adopt an entire new traffic safety code, designed to reduce deaths and injuries from accidents on Atlanta's streets.

A full-time traffic engineer was appointed and a 12-member traffic commission was given broad powers to provide better safety devices. The new code went into effect Thanksgiving Day.

One of the first steps was to review the records of all drivers of public vehicles and to revoke the licenses of those with excessive traffic law violations. (Miss Mitchell was hit by an off-duty taxicab driver with a long traffic court record.)

All public drivers also were required to take out a city permit which would not be issued until the applicant had been fingerprinted for a check with police records.

Seven private citizens, appointed by the mayor, serve on the traffic commission with five city officials. They will hold semi-monthly meetings to receive suggestions and complaints that might prevent others from losing their lives in the way that Miss Mitchell was killed.

WOMAN GETS DAY IN COURT

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UP)—Florida's court rooms are getting the woman's touch. Under a new law, allowing women on juries for the first time in Florida history, courts are busy appointing women bailiffs.

SIX STATES MAY BE AFFECTED

Telephone Installers Stage Walkout; Spread Is Rumored

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 9. (UP)—J. H. Brashear, president of local 70, CIO American Communications Equipment Workers' union, said today a local telephone installers' walkout here may spread to cities in several other southwestern states.

Brashear named Missouri, Kansas, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas as the states likely to be affected.

The 200 installers, employed by the Western Electric Co., a subsidiary of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., walked out Tuesday.

The union head said the dispute with Western Electric has resulted in a deadlock. He added that while the walkout is unauthorized it does have the support of the union.

Brashear said that if past policy is followed, other installers will walk out, too.

Union members are reported to be dissatisfied with a $4.25-a-day subsistence allowance the company wants to pay the men for a six-month installation job in Kansas City which will follow the one here. The union contends the allowance is not sufficient.

Contract negotiations are now under way between Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., an A. T. and T. subsidiary, and the CIO Communications Workers, a separate union.

The 50,000-member union of regular telephone employes is now taking a strike vote by mail.

China's Civil War Is Believed Entering More Terrible Phase

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Staff Writer

China's civil conflict appears to be entering a new and perhaps even more terrible phase—the waging of guerrila strife by the Nationalists against the now victorious Communist armies.

This means underground fighting. It means stealthy blows struck under cloak of night when no man knows whether he is facing friend or foe. It means destruction by the torch. It means the awful plague of the scorched earth for the hungry masses.

Island Used As Fortress

The orthodox phase of the protracted warfare was formally ended yesterday when the Nationalist government abandoned its temporary capital at Chengtu, western China, and flew to Formosa. This great island off the southeast coast has been turned into a fortress by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and is defended by some 300,000 troops, supported by an air force.

Formosa long ago was prepared by the "Gimo," as they call Chiang, for his last ditch stand. There the government will have its seat. From there the Nationalist forces on the continent will be directed.

Thus Formosa becomes the symbol of all Nationalist China. So long as the flag still flies over this strategic island, and guerrilla Nationalists continue the fight on the continent, just so long can Chiang still maintain that his government is a going concern.

Chengtu Big Loss

The loss of Chengtu and surrounding territory is a serious blow to the Nationalists. My colleague Charles A. Grumich, who served as an AP correspondent in China and now is on the AP staff with the United Nations, says the Chinese Reds in their sweep on Chengtu are grabbing probably the richest farmlands in the world.

Nationalist tactics, as envisaged by observers, may involve creation of a considerable number of guerrilla "pockets" on the mainland to harrass the Communist forces. These pockets could be supplied by airplanes from Formosa. Paratroopers from the island might also be dropped at strategic points to help organize peasant uprisings against the Communists.

If these things materialize, the country's 400 millions may go through a hell which will make past trials seem mild. It depends on how well the Nationalists are able to implement the plans which they have in mind. We mustn't overlook that they are in a bad way and are contemplating a last ditch stand.

Thailand's Air Raid Shelters Preserved

BANKOK, Dec. 9 (AP)—Thailand isn't too sure about perpetual peace. The Interior Ministry sent out circulars ordering that air raid shelters not already demolished be retained for possible future use.

The ministry said it had agreed with the Defense Ministry that solidly built, still usable shelters which do not constitute, a traffic hindrance should be maintained.

Opera Of "Carmen" Well Received By Lubbock Audience

Bursts of spontaneous applause at intervals throughout the performance and prolonged applause at the close of Thursday night's presentation of "Carmen" by the Boston Opera company in Senior High school auditorium showed appreciation of the audience of approximately 900 persons.

Leonora Corona, one of the two Texas singers who ever achieved distinction of being a leading singer in the Metropolitan Opera Co., showed herself to be the possessor of a beautiful voice of extraordinary range and flexibility.

Carmen Graceful, Charming

Her voice was round and rich in texture and apparently completely at her command. Appearing as the gypsy girl, Carmen was graceful and charming and flirtatious in the first two acts, turning into a sinister and dangerous woman in the third and fourth acts, when she had tired of Don Jose because of her love for the toreador, Escamillo.

Don Jose, played by Rene Castelar, sang with a strong voice often appealing in quality and displayed a strong stage personality which with his voice qualities made him popular with the audience. In the last act, his heartbreak at having killed the woman he loved was communicated to the listeners.

Toreador Wins Favor

John De Merchant, appearing as Escamillo, also won favor with the audience with his redition of the Toreador song.

At close of the performance, the three leading singers answered a curtain call together, then individually, then with Francesco Foti, who directed the orchestra of 24 players which excellently supported the stage performance. They answered another call as a threesome.

Mara Gordon, appearing in the role of Micaela had sweetness and flexibility. The secondary parts were taken by Laurene Buttlar, Dorothy Schauer, Ricco Froelich, Paul Farber and Michele Ladique.

Wayne Groce, commander of Allen Bros. post of the American Legion, which sponsored Wednesday night and Thursday night operas by the company of 90 expressed himself pleased. "We accomplished the purpose we set out to accomplish," he said.

More Gripes About Men Disturbing Schools Of Fish Are Heard

Fishermen Are Given Advice On How To Join Lucky Angler And Not Scare The Fish Away

By RONNIE LUSTER
United Press Guest Columnist

There are more gripes along the coast about fishermen disturbing a school of fish that some other chap has been skillful enough or lucky enough to locate.

These intruders see a fellow-fisherman getting a fish on every cast. Without thinking, they crank up the motor, rush over and nine times out of 10 throw out the anchor where the fish were before they scared them away.

The result: No more fish for anybody at that spot.

The fisherman who found the fish is running a temperature of about 110 degrees and in condition for a padded cell.

Offenders Lose Interest

The offenders, blissfully unaware of how close they came to causing mayhem, soon lose interest in that location and rush away to bird dog someone else who is catching fish.

The offenders usually are entirely innocent of deliberate sabotage. They just didn't think—or didn't know any better. But, if some fisherman did the same thing to them. Wow!

Of the hundreds of good fishermen we know, every one would welcome assistance in holding a school of fish. The more baits there are in the water, the more chance of keeping the fish there.

But, he wants you to come in without scaring the fish away.

So, when you see a fisherman in fish, don't rush in. Stop and figure things out.

If he's fishing from a boat, go far around back of him at slow speed. If the wind is right, drift to where he is. If not, paddle there, being careful not to hit the boat with the paddle or make any noise in the boat.

Anchor Is Problem

Get as close as you can without interfering with his fishing. As you are coming up on him, see where his anchor lays and come in so that when you anchor you will not drift into or ahead of him.

Ease the anchor over, being sure it doesn't hit the side of the boat and pay the line out until the anchor rests on the bottom. Nothing scares fish quicker than a carelessly thrown anchor.

Do not get closer to the fish than he is. Stay a few feet further away and cast the extra distance.

If you cannot cast far enough don't try and get closer. Wait and keep casting. As he catches fish the school will gradually work closer and your chance will come.

Try cutting dead bait up in very small pieces and throw it overboard. It is possible to chum fish right up to the boat at times.

Remember, the smaller the test line you use, the farther you can cast. If you are using dead bait an extra sinker will give you more distance.

Directions Are Given

If you see a fisherman wading and catching fish, check and see if he is waiting a ledge and fishing deep water or wading a flat and chunking in shallow water.

If the former, and he is moving along casting ahead, do not try to get ahead of him and fish water where he has not fished. Remember, he found the fish and is entitled to some consideration.

Land your boat at least 300 feet behind and start fishing in either direction. You will ordinarily catch as many fish following someone as you will ahead of them—if you are equal in ability to the other fellow.

If the fish are out from the drop-off in deep water and the fisherman is standing in one spot, or if he is wading flat and casting ahead in shallow water, move alongside from the rear and fish the same way.

But, come up quietly, shuffling your feet easily along the bottom instead of picking them up and laying them down. This might cause a jar and the chances are the fish will feel the vibrations and get spooky.

Chance For Friendship

If the water is very shallow, long casts are absolutely necessary. If you can't cast far enough, don't try to walk the fish down because as you move up the fish move away and finally leave altogether.

If you are unable to reach the fish, back away quietly, wish the other fellow luck and go find some fish you can reach.

This method will make you many friends and keep the sulphur content of the air down to normal.

When you first come up to the fellow who has found the fish, he will naturally be a little churlish until he realizes you are not going to spoil his fishing.

After you both have caught a fish or two, his relief will be so great he will do most anything for you in order to make up for his misjudgment at first.

A great many lifelong fishing partnerships have been formed in this way.

City Will Renew Efforts To Get Reduction In Gas Rates

cents per 1,000 feet for the fuel while those in Amarillo, served by the same company, paid only 25 cents. City officials said Thursday this same discrimination continues.

Query Gets No Answer

There was no answer to Hufstedler's query except, "we just haven't followed through on it," due to the rush of other business.

"But we'll follow through on it now," the mayor declared after the meeting.

The upshot of the discussion was a motion by Commissioner Clarence Whiteside that the gas company be notified: First that the city will renew its contract for 2 years at 10 cents per 1,000 feet; and calling upon officials of the gas company to justify, if they can, the discrimination against Lubbock gas users in favor of Amarillo consumers in the matter of domestic gas rates.

Hufstedler seconded Whiteside's notion and the mayor and Commissioner John Spikes voted for it.

Paving Plan Announced

Under the new paving plan considered, officials explained, individual projects will be broken up into units of about 50 block each and let to individual contractors who will carry the "paper" involved—meaning the liens which allow the individual property owner to pay for the paving in front of his property in three installments. Under the arrangement, the first payment would be due when the work is finished and the next two in one and two years at 6 per cent interest.

In the past the city has carried all the paper and, until recently, property owners were allowed five years in which to pay for pavement.

R. L. Oldham, city director of public works, explained that the paper ties up so much money that pavement work will be limited sharply next year unless some new plan of financing is devised.

So officials came up with the plan of letting the contractor handle the liens. Under this arrangement, the contractor would collect them and his cash would be tied up.

As a test, bids were called for opening Thursday on two projects —one involving 54½ blocks of paving in South Lubbock and the other 46½ blocks in the northern portion of the city.

Bidders for the South Lubbock project were Kerr & Middleton, $148,927.52 and J. R. Fannin, $152,992.71.

The only bid on the North Lubbock project was $138,276.61 by Warren & Purtell. All the bidders are Lubbock residents.

According to the tentative computations of C. J. Griggs, assistant city engineer, this would make the property owner's cost of paving a 30-foot street about $2.14 per front foot or $107 for a 50-foot lot.

Under the plan which has been followed, the cost has been about $1.96 a foot—about $88 for a 50-foot lot.

Griggs estimated that about 85 per cent of the paving in Lubbock is 30 feet wide.

27 Miles Are Paved

He and Oldham reported, as a sidelight, that about 27 miles of streets were paved and nine miles resurfaced last summer. Lubbock now has 105 miles of street paving, they estimated.

Members of the commission agreed that the question now before those wanting pavement in Lubbock is this:

Are they willing to pay 10 to 15 per cent more to get paving next summer, or do they prefer to wait until the city accumulates the money to carry the liens?

The answer to this question, as expressed to members of the commission within the next few days, probably will determine whether contracts will be awarded on the basis of the bids opened Thursday.

If the plan meets approval, officials said, more paving probably can be laid next year than this year—which set an all-time record for any year in any West Texas city.

Program May Be Delayed

If the plan is not favorably received, members of the commission declared, next year's paving program will be very small.

The term "leaks," in connection with bids submitted to the city was mentioned when M. D. Lakey, city purchasing agent, submitted proposals to supply Lubbock with 480 electric meters.

Lakey said that last Monday was set as the deadline for submitting bids. At that time, he continued, five were received, four proposing to supply the meters at $11.30 each. The other set $11.45 each as his asking price.

After the deadline, Lakey continued, one of the bidders—G. E. Jones, of Amarillo—submitted a new bid of $10.84.

The members of the commission were frankly curious as to why it happened that Jones' came in with a lower figure after his and the other bids had been opened by the purchasing agent.

Mayor Rodgers bluntly declared his suspicion that "somebody" on the city payroll has been tipping off some bidders as to the amounts of the bids of others competing for the same business.

The mayor and others of the commission made clear that Lakey is not under suspicion. But the purchasing agent acknowledged that others sometimes have access to such figures. Many bids, he said, are submitted in envelopes with nothing to indicate their contents.

The result of the discussion was instructions that any city employe who discloses any bid in advance of the deadline date for submitting it will be subject to instant discharge.

he meters were ordered from the General Electric Supply corp., the only Lubbock bidder. The total amount of the cost was computed at $5,424.

The commission also authorized the purchase of 70 leather jackets at $23.50 each from Levine's department store for members of the police department. The bid was the second lowest of six submitted. The lowest, $21 by J. C. Penney company, did not meet specifications set out in the call for bids, officials said.

The purchase of two station wagons from Kuykendall Chevrolet company for the engineering department at a net total cost of $2,844.70 likewise was approved. The bid was the lowest of four for that type of car.

Other Business Transacted

Other business transacted by the commission included:

The recommendation by Marion Sanford, chairman of the City Civil Service commission, that the compensation of police detectives be increased by an unspecified amount. They now are paid $160 a month plus a cost of living bonus of about $80. The amount is only $10 more than is paid uniformed officers, whose uniforms are supplied.

"After a detective pays for his own clothing, he is worse off financially than if he had not been 'promoted' from the uniformed ranks," Sanford commented.

The commission's reaction to the recommendation was highly favorable, although no action was taken upon it immediately. Members took occasion to praise warmly the work of the civil service commission, comprised of Doyle Justice, Alex McDonald and Sanford.

The commission approved the lease of the officer's club building at the former South Plains Army Air field to the new Lubbock Elks club at $190 a month. The rent for the first two years, totaling $4,560 is payable in advance and will be used for repairing the building. Ed Colby, municipal airport manager, said the structure is in such bad condition now that it will become worthless unless repairs are started soon.

A proposed ordinance was approved under which any construction started within 30 days in any area annexed to the city can be completed within two years.

MAYOR TWISTS PRETZELS

CANTON, O. (U.P.)—Mayor Harry W. Stucky of Dover, O., is champion pretzel-twister of the state. He got his title in a contest between mayors and police chiefs of Ohio held in Canton. Stucky's time for the tantalizing twist was 45 seconds.

mittee to plan the formal opening, Dean Allen.

The formal opening itself probably will be staged next fall in conjunction with the college's Silver Anniversary celebrations, Dr. Holden has announced.

Plans for erection of the museum actually dates back farther than 1936, the year in which funds for the foundation of the building were raised. That drive was followed by one on the campus during the war years, while an appropriation by the state legislature last year allowed final completion of the project.

DESCRIBES SHORT CUT TO RUIN

Socialism In England Almost Communism, Publisher States

BY RICHARD FISKE
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 9—The British government's nationalization of industry was described by a British publisher today as a short cut to ruin that may lead his country into Communism.

Cecil Palmer told the National Association of Manufacturers that "where Socialism takes hold, even in its mildest form, Communism soon follows with all its destructive force."

The Britisher spoke before 3,000 leading American industrialists and businessmen at the NAM's 54th Congress of American Industry.

He called social security "Socialism's greatest racket."

Praises U. S. Aid

"It seduces the people into allowing the state to do for them the very things they should do for themselves," he said.

The sentiment was one of the criticisms American businessmen have voiced of the "welfare state" in speeches before the NAM during the past two days.

Speaking on the last day of the three-day meeting at the Waldorf-Astoria, Palmer called the National Health service in Britain an "integral part of the Socialist frame-up."

He praised the financial aid of the United States and Canada, "without which Britain surely would meet with unthinkable disaster."

"This aid is borrowed money running into billions of dollars, borrowed from hated capitalistic systems which the borrowers are so energetically trying to destroy," Palmer said.

Communism's Twin

He said Socialism was "the proper appellation for nationalization" and he termed Socialism and Communism "identical twins."

At the close of yesterday's session, the industrialists heard Senator John W. Bricker (R-Ohio) call "big government' 'the greatest threat to American institutions.

Bricker said "the inevitable end is state Socialism, a dictatorship of the few over the many.

The Ohio senator suggested a program of "permanent progress," including such items as cutting the cost of government; reducing the national debt in good times, and reducing taxes to encourage incentive.

Again today a speaker saw dangers in "big government."

Business Harmony Cited

Raymond Moley, who was an adviser to the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt in the early days of the New Deal, said:

"The trend toward big government, with its tenacles on every aspect of business, has been a constant enemy of small business."

Large and small business, he said, exist side by side with no real threat to either.

"Rather," he said, "they complement each other in the complex life of the nation's economy."

Big business units have promoted the general economic welfare, Moley said.

"Bigness has benefitted consumers in scores of lines by providing, at lower and lower prices, better and better products," he added. "And bigness has been good for labor."

President Elected

The NAM elected its president for 1950 last night after the close of the second-day session. Claude Adams Putnam, a small manufacturer who began his business career as an apprentice machinist, was chosen for the position.

President of the Marken Machine company of Keene, N. H., a plant employing 200 workers, he became the second NAM head in succession to be chosen from the ranks of small businessmen.

He succeeds Wallace F. Bennett, Salt Lake City paint and varnish manufacturer, as head of the NAM, which numbers over 15,000 members and includes many of the top men in the nation's economy.

Dance Set Tonight At Recreation Hall

"Skitch" Henderson and his orchestra will furnish the music in the Texas Tech Recreation hall for an all-student dance beginning at 8 p.m. today.

Marking the first attempt by the Recreation hall committee to secure name bands for dances on the campus, tonight's admission charge is $1.80 couple or stag. Tickets have been on sale in the dean of men's office this week on a first-come first-served basis, with only the capacity of the hall being sold.

A piano concert will be presented by the bandmaster himself at 5 p.m. today, with tickets costing 60 cents each, including tax.

The British-born 30-year-old band leader billed for tonight's program studied at Lord's School of Music in England with the ambition of becoming a concert pianist. He came to America at the age of 16, however, heard this country's popular music, and set out to make himself a career in that field.

Appearing with such big-name artists as Frank Sinatra, Bing Crosby, Tommy Dorsey and Artie Shaw, Henderson waited until after service in World War II to orgnize his own band. Since doing that he has made personal appearances at such places as the Stevens hotel in Chicago, the Hotel Pennsylvania in New York, Surf club at Virginia Beach, and others.

The orchestra's first recording hit was "Five Minutes More" on a Capitol disc, while Henderson had charge of the musical score

Bob Harper, 49, Considers Himself Just One Of The Boys

Commanding General Of Training Command Runs Vast Organization By Unorthodox Means

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Writer

SCOTT AIR FORCE BASE, Belleville, Ill., Dec. 9—The Air Training command clicks from the top down.

The guy who makes it click is handsome, affable Maj. Gen. Robert W. Harper. I don't use the word "guy" with any disrespect for two-star rank, because Bob Harper considers himself one of the boys—and he is.

You could tell that when he took the rostrum at headquarters here to open a public information conference attended by officers from the 17 air bases in the command.

Dislikes Channels

The 49-year-old general runs the biggest business in the Air Force in a most unorthodox manner. He figures he can get more out of his men with a friendly smile and a warm handshake than with a scrowl and a slapping down—not that the general can't get rough when the occasion demands. He certainly can, and does.

Bob is a constant source of amazement and often bewilderment to those under and above him.

Hardly a day goes by that he does not shock some rank in Washington.

He doesn't like the word "channels."

"I'm not even sure I know what the word means," he says.

Cuts Red Tape

He's probably the greatest cutter of red tape in the world. He can see no sense in writing a letter, with multiple copies, when there is a telephone handy.

"If I have to go through a dozen different sources to get a simple job done—I'd just as soon forget about the [illegible]," he says.

When the general had his headquarters at Barksdale Air Force base in Shreveport, La., he found the routine of getting a memo to Washington unthinkable. It went like this—if you like channels. He'd write a letter addressed to the capital. It would have to go to a base in Texas, where doubtless it would rest in some cubbyhole for a couple of days or weeks. Then it would come back to Barksdale to an office the general could see out of his own window.

Door Always Open

It might sit there for awhile longer before it even went on its way to Washington. All by airmail, of course.

He scissored through all that nonsense by picking up the phone. Like as not he would shock some general out of his swivel by informally opening the conversation with:

"This is Bob Harper in Barksdale. I've got a little matter here that won't wait for the mails. Let's settle this over the phone."

The general's door is always open. When I dropped in on him yesterday, expecting to have to do a lot of heel clicking he waved me past a couple of aides and waved me to an overstuffed chair.

"Call me Bob," he said. "Everybody else does. And what's your nickname?"

Informality Stressed

That is not to say that the 1,000 officers, airmen and civilians on the staff here do not follow the orders of service discipline. There is as much yes sirring in this command as in any other. But there also is more informality than anywhere else. After the correct salute, more often than not the bars are down.

On the surface, the entire operation seems technically precise and simple. Actually, the Air Force training is the most nerve-shattering end of Air Force operations. But with Bob at the controls the operation is simple.

You may get the idea that the general sold me a bill of goods. He did.

PITY POOR COP

LOS ANGELES, (U.P.)—A UCLA campus policeman found a gold mine of illegally parked students' cars, so many that he ran out of tickets. "I got writer's cramp after the 10th," the Daily Bruin, campus newspaper, quoted the officer as saying. "After the 22nnd my book was empty."

Flowing Production Hit By Gaines Well

Samedan Oil corporation of Tulsa No. 1-E. A. Andrews, central-south Gaines county wildcat which has apparently assured discovery of commercial production from both the Ellenburger and from the Devonian, was swabbing at the rate of 20 barrels of oil per hour natural from perforations in the Devonian at 10,056-070 feet.

The venture, located on the northwest side of the Robertson field, has shown for flowing production from the Ellenburger, when it flowed seven barrels of oil hourly from perforations between 11,900 and 11,960 feet

SOUTHEAST TERRY WELL TAKES DRILLSTEM TEST

Tide Water Associated Oil company No. 1 J. P. Nystel, Southeast Terry county prospect from the Silurio-Devonian, was taking bottomed at 11,595 feet and was taking a drillstem test.

Operator took a core from 11,570-595 feet. Recovery was 15 feet of lime which was bleeding oil. Increased signs of gas were shown by a mud logging unit. The zone at 11,510-570 feet made 2,720 feet of free oil during a four and one-half hour drillstem test.

This prospective discovery had a recovery of 1,220 feet of clean 31 gravity oil, 1,060 feet of heavily oil and gas cut water blanket and 180 feet of mud cut oil in a drillstem test in the Silurio-Devonian from 11,469-545 feet.

Previously the venture showed gas and yielded 970 feet of clean oil in a drillstem test in the Pennsylvanian from 9,350-375 feet.

No. 1 Nystel is four and one-half miles northeast of the shallow Adair pool and 14 miles south of Brownfield.

Location is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 9, block C-38, psl survey.

NORTH CENTRAL SCURRY TEST DRILLS DEEPER

Seaboard Oil Company of Delaware No. 1 Lunsford, on the south extension of the North Snyder field of North Central Scurry county, was drilling deeper after flowing at the rate of 30 barrels of oil per hour.

The flow came in a drillstem test from 6,404-504 feet. The tool was open one hour. Gas was at the surface in six minutes, mud in 17 minutes and oil started flowing out in 23 minutes. It was flowed to pits to clean for an estimated 30 barrels per hour.

It is slated to drill to 6,800 feet and try for completion.

No. 1 Lunsford topped the Canyon lime reef at 6,380 feet to give it a datum of minus 3,947 feet on that marker.

The development is 467 feet from north and west lines of the southwest quarter of section 19, block 1, J. P. Smith survey.

Three and one-half miles north of the Diamond-M Canyon field, Seaboard No. 1 Bart Branson, wildcat to test the Canyon lime reef, was drilling below 6,178 feet in lime and shale and was boring deeper.

This venture is 1,667 feet from north and 467 feet from east lines of section 258, block 97, H&TC survey.

LONE STAR COMPLETES NEW SCURRY PRODUCER

Lone Star Producing Company has completed its No. 2 O. C. Rosson in the Kelley field of Central Scurry county for a calculated 24-hour potential of 540.88 barrels of 43.6-gravity oil and no water.

Gas-oil ratio was 848-1.

Open flowing tubing pressure was 1,020 pounds. Shutin casing pressure was 1,080 pounds.

The flow was through a one-quarter inch tubing choke.

The new well is 660 feet from north and east lines of the lease in section 209, block 97, H&TC survey.

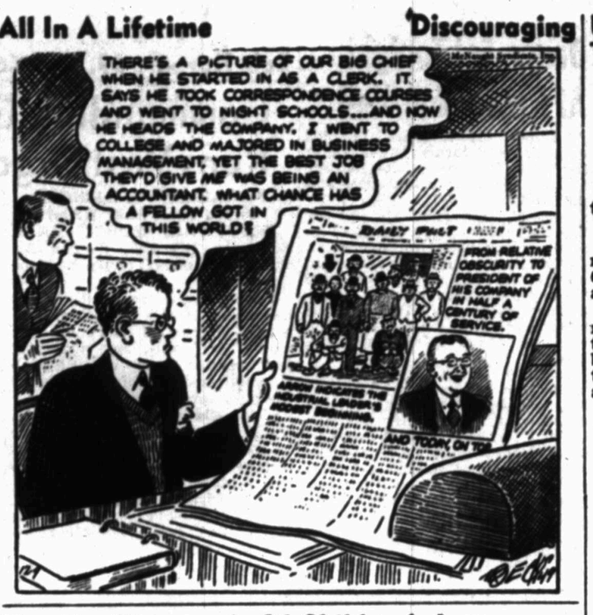

EXTENSION TO NORTH SNYDER FIELD SET

Standard Oil Company of Texas No. 3 G. E. Parks, stepout from production on the northeast side of the North Snyder field, has been completed for a calculated 24-hour potential of 1,988 barrels of 43-gravity oil, following natural with no water through a one-half inch tubing choke.

Location is 680 feet from west and 1,960 feet from south lines of section 448, block 97, H&TC survey.

Handles Thousands Of Children's Letters

Danish Girl Acting As Santa Claus's Greenland Secretary

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Dec. 9. (AP)—If you send a letter to Santa Claus at "the North Pole, Greenland" maybe you will get an answer from his secretary.

She is a pretty, 25-year-old Danish brunette, Gerda Stauning, employed in the Copenhagen office of the Danish Greenland administration.

Greenland being Denmark's only colonial possession, the colonial administration every year gets thousands of letters from boys and girls addressed to "Santa Claus, the North Pole, Greenland." Miss Stauning has been delegated to reply for Santa.

Can't Answer All

"It's nearly driving me crazy," she said as she surveyed the mountain of letters, many of them from America and Britain.

She tries to send the children pictures of Greenland and tell them Santa will come, but adds, "of course, I cannot possibly answer them all."

Sometimes she wishes the colonial administration would circulate this advertisement around the world:

"Santa Claus, who has until now lived in Greenland, has changed his address. His new headquarters is unknown."

Uses Searchlight Eyes To Cheat In Dark

Mad Checker-Playing Gorilla Visits Sick Newsman Nightly

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK—Bongo came back the other night.

I hadn't seen him for a year.

Quickly I put my pillow over my face and counted: "1-2-3-4-5-6-7-8-9-10." But when I looked again he was still there.

Bongo is a phosphorescent gorilla with searchlight eyes and teeth like translucent baseball bats. He waddled noiselessly over to the bed, sat down on my knees and opened a checkerboard.

"Play!" he commanded. It is the only word Bongo knows.

Reluctantly I made the first move. Back and forth the checkermen marched. Just as the alarm clock rang Bongo finished winning his 17th straight game. He sneered, and ambled out.

Coming Since Childhood

My wife awoke and saw me shivering and haggard-eyed.

"What's the matter with you?"

"I been playing checkers with Bongo."

"Oh, dear," said Frances, "you're sick again."

So for the next two days she stoked me with orange juice and aspirin.

Each night Bongo came back.

When other people I know fall sick, roses and boxes of fruit and scores of friends come to call on them. But when I get ill the only one I'm sure will come is Bongo with his checkerboard.

He first came when I had the measles as a child, and he's been coming ever since.

Bongo plays worse every year. He also cheats. Whenever he thinks I have him cornered, he turns his searchlight eyes away and makes a few sudden moves in the darkness. When he turns his eyes back to the board—he's got me cornered.

And I am haunted by a fear that sometime I'll make a mistake and win a game. I don't think Bongo would like that. Once I had his last checker surrounded by three rings, and Bongo's fangs began to glow. I managed to drop the game.

Well, last night I looked at the board and saw in horror that he had brought a chess game instead of checkers.

Silently I slid my hand over and turned back the alarm clock. It shrilled, "brrr . . . rrr . . . rrr . . . rring!"

Bongo flew into a rage. But Frances began to awaken and Bongo, with a final menacing growl, folded his game board under his arm and stomped out.

"Now, what's the matter with you?" asked Frances.

"Not a thing," I sighed. "Bongo was here, but he's gone now."

And I got up and came to work. I'd rather die on my feet than play Bongo chess. There is no way even a sick man can be sure of losing tht game to a feeble-minded ape.
