The message said that both men were badly in need of medical attention.

FLINT RHEM IS INVINCIBLE IN 7-5 CARDS WIN

HITTERS FATTEN THEIR AVERAGES AS WANER GETS 100TH SWAT

(By Associated Press.)
Pittsburgh's Pirates today had their backs to the wall in the fight to retain leadership of the National league. The Cardinals were within half a game of the top.
The victory which cut down the Buccaneers' lead and focused eyes of all baseball fans on the bitter battle between the champions of 1925 and 1926 went to the Cardinals at Pittsburgh yesterday 7 to 5.
Good Pitching Aids Win
Better pitching as well as good hitting helped the Cards win. Flint Rhem outpitched the four Pirate hurlers who opposed him. Ray Kremer who tried last was the only one with much success.
Paul Waner of the Pirates made his 100th hit of the season and Frankie Frisch of the Cards slugged his 99th and stole his 22nd base. Waner now leads both leagues in hits, being the first to reach the century mark and Frisch tops all rivals in stealing bags.
Gehrig Hits 99th Safety
Lou Gehrig found a chance to make his own 99th safe hit of the season as his Yankees won 6 to 2 in their duel with their nearest rivals, the revised Athletics. Ruth was out of the lineup with his knee injury and the home run burden usually carried by him and Gehrig was borne for the day by Combs and Luzzetti, their circuit stunts helping to stave away the gates.

Washington and Detroit, just a jump or two behind the three leaders in the American league, both turned in victories. The Senators' 9 to 8 decision over the Red Sox on Tuesday's eighth inning signals was their fourth straight at Boston's expense, while the Tigers' 4 to 2 decision over the St. Louis Browns gave them a flying start in the series.

Reeds Is Named Assistant Grid Coach At Okla. U.

NORMAN, Okla., June 28. (AP)—Clay Reeds, freshman football coach, has been named assistant football coach at the University of Oklahoma to succeed Leigh A. Wallace, line coach, who has resigned to go into business. Ben Owen, director of athletics, announced today.
Lawrence (Jap) Haskell assistant freshman coach and Gerald baseball coach, will handle the fresh squad. Another man will be added to the staff to aid Haskell, who will come to Norman for the first time this fall.

Reeds graduated from the University of Oklahoma in 1914, after four years on Sooner athletic teams. During his under graduate career, he was a half back in football, first baseman in baseball and he was a track man.
Reeds coached the Southwestern State Teachers college, the Colorado Aggies and once played professional baseball in the Texas league.
He joined the Oklahoma coaching staff in 1924.

Washington and Detroit, just a jump or two behind the three leaders in the American league, both turned in victories. The Senators' 9 to 8 decision over the Red Sox on Tuesday's eighth inning signals was their fourth straight at Boston's expense, while the Tigers' 4 to 2 decision over the St. Louis Browns gave them a flying start in the series.

Berlenbach Opens Fight For Come-Back

NEW YORK, June 28 (AP)—Having secured a sensational one round knockout over Charles Rimmel, heavyweight, Paul Berlenbach today was out to prove to the pugilistic world that some of his best fighting days are still ahead.
It took the dynamite fists of the former light heavyweight champion just two minutes and 23 seconds of fighting in the first battle of his come back campaign last night to batter his opponent so badly the referee stopped the bout and awarded Berlenbach a technical "Knockout." The fight was scheduled for ten rounds.

PAINSTAKING BURGLAR

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—Mrs. Susan Denniston wanted to make sure that her savings were hidden where no one could find them. So, she put the money in a thermos bottle in a folding bed. But a burglar entered her home and pried open the bed. He smashed the bottle and escaped with the money, $30.

FOUR WESTERN CLUBS DEMAND SPLIT SEASON

MEETING CALLED FOR THURSDAY TO TAKE UP DISCUSSION

(By Associated Press.)
TOPEKA, Kan., June 28.—A meeting of Western league club presidents will be held here Thursday to consider splitting the league's schedule this season.
Announcing the meeting today, Dale Gear, president of the league, said it had been requested by four club presidents.
The Country Club shooters have not had any semblance of a tournament for several weeks and the veterans of the links have greeted the announcement with enthusiasm. John Jarrot, Jo Dick Slaughter, Buddy Stewart, Ross McWhorter, Henry McLarty, Frank Stevenson, Grady Higginbotham, O. L. Peterson, Eric Pusey, J. O. Smith, Spencer Wells, and Don Mitchell are among the known entries while Champion Ben Lee Boynton will also be on deck.

Three Clubs Ask General Meeting

OMAHA, Neb., June 28 (AP)—Revival of the "split season" movement for the Western league was indicated today when a telegram was sent to President Dale Gear by E. B. Tracy, president of the Amarillo club, Dick Breen, owner of the Lincoln club and Barney Burch, Omaha owner, in conference here, asking for a meeting of Western league magnates.
A vote of 4 to 4 was cast on the proposal following its suggestion at the week ago. It is understood, five votes are required to carry a proposal. The three representatives here believe that at a meeting they can swing at least one owner over to their proposition. The split would go into effect about July 4.

Just The Gist And The Jest Of Sport

Brown top to bottom threatening to hit the ball out of the lot at any period of an average game, the New York Yankees are bludgeoned along, offering the most powerful offense seen in major league circles in recent years. Although the usual "Big Bertha's" Ruth and Gehrig were silenced yesterday "Dough Egan" Tony Lazzari, the "walling wop" and Earl Combs, the scintillant outer gardener, produced circuit clouds yesterday and the league leaders knocked the three-tening Athletics off, 6 to 2. It seems that when the time is ripe the Yankees produce the needed punch to breeze through to victory.

Donie Bush's Pirates haven't had such easy sailing on the National league seas recently. Defeated by the Cardinals behind Rehn yesterday the Buccaneers are clinging to the top rung of the ladder by a mere one-half game margin. Frankie Frisch, who seems now to be a shining example of lead judgment on the part of Mr. McGraw of New York, hit two for three and swiped a base in the 7 to 5 victory hung up by the St. Louisans.
Devoles of the Scotch pastime in Lubbock are to again "do their stuff" on the Country club links.

Country Club To Sponsor Tourney Independence Day

An "Independence Day" tournament, open to all members of the organization, is being planned by the Lubbock Country Club. President Henry McLarty and Floyd M. Bowen, who are making all arrangements, announced today. According to early indications all qualifying rounds will be played off by Friday and the finals run through on July 4th.

Basketball Is Now Paying For Itself

(By NEA Service.)
LINCOLN, Neb., June 28.—Football in the Missouri Valley is still king of sports, but basketball began taking care of its own bills this season.
The heavy drain on football profits by other sports was aided to some extent this year by the making of a substantial profit on basketball at four, perhaps more, schools.
Kansas, by virtue of its leadership of the valley in basketball, made the greatest profit, while Missouri, Nebraska and Kansas Aggies also showed a balance on the credit side at the end of the season.

Wholesalers Win In First Half Of City League Play

The Wholesalers, boasting a lineup composed largely of semi-pro or extremely fast amateur ball players, won the first half of the 1927 City League baseball schedule, managers of the club decided last night and in order to keep the race from being top-sided the season was divided by popular ballot. As a result of the vote teams take the field today on an even basis with the Wholesalers and the Laundrymen clashing at Tech park and the Bankers and Auto-Barbers contesting at Merrill park.

More Power To Umps

The managers voted to give umpires in the circuit more power than they have enjoyed prior to the split. "His Honor" will have the power to eject any obnoxious athlete from the playing field and should said athlete refuse to depart the umpire will have the power to forfeit the game to the opposing side.
Thus far the City League has enjoyed a most successful season and it is doubtful if a better organization of its type exists west of Fort Worth. With all the teams uniformed and a good brand of the national pastime offered, good crowds have been following the games, which have made up for the fact that the Hubbers have entered into fewer contests this year than usual.

Inspector Yates, Fifth Area Executive, Is In Anton, Littlefield and Sedan today where he is doing organization work.

The management of the Amarillo club of the Western league, together with representatives of some of the other weak clubs in the circuit, is craving for a "split season," due to the fact that Tulsa's Oilers undoubtedly one of the fastest teams in the minors, have been monotonously trouncing the other entries in the race ever since the opening of the season. The announcement that Amarillo is leading the fight for a split season, despite the fact that history has proved such a step to be detrimental to a class A circuit, revives memories of years gone by here. It's the same old spirit that was prevalent in the north Poudre valley when Lubbock's Hubbers enjoyed the same kind of success over Amarillo that the Tulsa club is enjoying now.

Hunter Loses To French Star In Quarter Finals

WIMBLEDON, England, June 28 (AP)—Laying one of the streaks of inspired tennis for which he is famous, Henri Cochet of France, came from behind to defeat Francis T. Hunter, American in their quarter-finals match here today.
Hunter dominated the courts for the first two sets, keeping the Frenchman away from the net with low deep drives to the base line and corners. Then Cochet stormed the net and ran off the last three sets to win at 6, 3, 6, 6, 2, 6, 3.
Cochet's victory put him in the semi-finals to which his fellow countryman, Rene Lacoste had advanced earlier in the day by beating the Czech-Slovakian Karl Kozeluh, in straight sets at 6, 3, 6, 4.
Miss Helen Wills, former American champion, reached the semi-finals in the women's singles by defeating Mrs. Peacock of South Africa in straight sets at 6, 3, 6, 1.
Miss Elizabeth Ryan entered the semi-finals of the women's singles today by defeating the English champion, Mrs. Kitty McKane Godfree 6, 2, 8, 4, 6, 4.
Miss Betty Nuthall, the English school girl, who created a sensation on Thursday last by defeating Mrs. Molla Mallory, was eliminated by Miss Joan Fry, who won at 1, 6, 6, 2, 6, 4.
William Tilden, the American star who defeated Jacques Brugnon of France in the quarter finals yesterday, now must dispose of Cochet before he can enter the final.
In the lower half Lacoste will meet the winner of the quarter final between Jean Borotra of France, and Hans Timmer of Holland.

Olympic Team Is Goal Of Star Of Depauw Athletes

GREENCASTLE, Ind., June 28.—Depauw University's greatest athlete can bring athletic honor to his alma mater in only one way hereafter—a member of the 1928 Olympic team.
Depauw's greatest athlete is Richard Sturbridge, of Gary, Ind., who received his diploma a few days ago after an athletic career rivaled by few athletes in America.
Sturbridge received national honors in track for three seasons and also acquired himself honorably as a football and basketball player at Depauw. He was also the best bowler, best tennis player and best hand ball player in school.
Sturbridge plans one more athletic effort for Depauw, indirectly though it will be. He plans to return to school for three months next fall to train for the Olympic trials.
Holder of several Indiana records and having placed well in the ten event decathlon in the U. C. A. meet for three years, Sturbridge is considered a good bet to be one of America's representatives in the Olympics next year.

Another Amarillo Field? No Sir!

In an old news report, published in the Dallas Morning News carrying a Sunday date line, an Amarillo correspondent of the East Texas daily, writes in detail concerning the Mullican shallow test well, which has proven a producer and which all men believe preceases the opening of a paying shallow field in this section of the Panhandle.

The Journal is waiting—and watching with interest—first reports which will herald the new field as an "extension of the Amarillo field" wherever that is, and is taking this opportunity to "bet it to the hilt."

The new field—if it is found to be a paying one—might be dubbed a Plainview field, a Lubbock field, or a Hale Center field—but it never will be rightfully claimed as an
"Amarillo field" or as an "extension of the Amarillo field" as have other areas, situated all the way from 60 to 120 miles away from the Potter county capital.

In the news report given the Dallas News for Sunday release under an Amarillo date line, at least one mis-statement was made. In midsection, the report says:
"Plainview is a pretty town of 8,000 and a thriving market center for a rich agricultural territory. Its people become the find but refuse to become stampeded over the future. Lubbock, another city of similar size, and also attractive in appearance, is claiming it, while Hale Center is throwing itself into the stakes. As for inhabitants already are claiming and boasting that Hale Center will be a second Berger."

Everybody in West Texas knows that Lubbock is not "similar in size" to any city of 8,000 population and everybody in the state of Texas who has read any of the newspapers of the state within the last several years knows it too! These last facts certainly do not speak favorably for a correspondent for one of the state's largest newspapers, if they indicate that he is trying to make his reports cover a territory of which he knows very little.

All newspapers big and little,
make mistakes and for that reason the Journal does not blame the Dallas News for allowing such a gross mis-statement to creep into its columns. A "news man" reading
"copy" of this nature should know better than let such a statement slip by him in fairness to the city of Lubbock. It must be remembered that it is fundamentally an East and Central Texas organ and can not be expected to cover the facts in West Texas with the same accuracy that West Texas newspapers would.

Regardless of how the newly discovered field pans out, the Journal wishes to call the attention of Texas and the world that it cannot and will not be known as part of the producing territory in the general vicinity of Amarillo. If an active field is brought in near Hale center either Plainview or Lubbock will get the "play" as headquarters, Lubbock having a distinct advantage in that it is very little farther from the discovery well than is Plainview and that is indisputably offers more metropolitan conveniences than does its sister city, the Hale county seat.
But, at any rate, it cannot, by any exaggeration of imagination, be considered as an annexation to Amarillo.

THE PLAINSMAN

The discovery of crude oil in the Mullican-Kegans wildcat test 24 miles northwest of Lubbock, precedges the opening of another shallow field, possibly one which in time will rival that just brought in near San Angelo, oil section 18, county 10.
The oil, tests of which show it to be of fair gravity, was discovered at a depth of less than 500 feet. Other wells are to be drilled soon and the fore long the people of the South Plains will know more definitely than ever before, just what the prospects for oil are in this section.
The discovery may mean something big for Lubbock and Hale counties
—then again it may mean nothing except a few more minor operations
—but at any rate it will in time serve to show just what is what and "where we're at" from a petroleum standpoint.

Should a field be brought in in the vicinity of the new discovery
it will mean just this: Hale Center will probably be the 'oil field town'
and either Lubbock or Plainview will be 'headquarters', and will get the 'big play' for office space and operations. That is something to think about.

Of course we, in Lubbock, think that our city will undoubtedly get the play instead of Plainview, in spite of the fact that we are a little farther away from the discovery well than is our sister city. We are probably right in the contention up to a certain point. Lubbock is larger than Plainview. It offers more facilities for a business man or firm in that it has more room, more buildings, more rail and stage outlets, and due to its larger population, more money. Yet, on the other hand, while Lubbock people believe that their city possesses these natural advantages they must take into consideration that Plainview is a 'cracker-jack' little city of no mean proportions and that her citizens, as we know from experience, is 'up-and-coming' all the time. We know that if a field is brought in near Hale Center that Plainview will be 'in there scrapping' for her rights, more business, more growth and that if Lubbock wants to lead or even share in the benefits of oil
we MUST BE ON OUR TOES—ALL THE TIME!

The Plainsman knows the oil country and all people—and knows them well—for he was brought up within hearing distance of speaking bull whistles and rattling sucker rods.
His experience with them has taught him this much: that is oil country, just like any other class of people, appreciate courtesies, appreciate being wanted, and, above all, they appreciate having their business welcomed. What Lubbock needs to do is to let the oil people who are already with us and those others who are arriving every day, KNOW that they are wanted and welcomed.

General lawlessness of oil field towns—those hastily thrown together camps in the midst of drilling wells—and the operations of a few suave grafters have tended to cause the general public to look upon all oil men with suspicion.
Taking the fraternity as a whole there is no better, squarer, freer spender in the world than the honest oil man and while not as much publicity has been given that type as has been given his scape-grace brother, those who have had extensive dealings with oil men know that such is the case. Lubbock does not for a minute care to become a 'camp town' but such an occurrence is impossible. In the first place the city is too large to become such.
Furthermore its basic population would not countenance such lawlessness from law and order as appears to be essential to the flourishing of such a place. But, in The Plain-sman's opinion at any rate, Lubbock does want to be the oil capital of the South Plains if such an opening presents itself and the city should do everything in its power to assume such a leadership should the opportunity come.

Science has gone far, but the stairs still creak under the softest pressure at 2:30 a. m.

WASHINGTON LETTER

EVERYONE CASHED IN ON LINDBERGH HEROISM EX-CEPT THE HERO HIMSELF

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, June 28.—No one desires to mingle a sour note with the echo of Lindbergh's reception here, but unless Congress has prevented it in special session overnight, it is no crime to chronicle
the interesting and the amusing.
Young Mr. Lindbergh had failed to capitalize or commercialize his great feat, but as he stepped onto American soil he found that he was almost as lonely in this respect as when he flew to Paris.

A Thought

There is no respect of persons with God.—Romans ii, 11.

Just a Jingle

Said he, "I'll take that tire off
And lay it on the shelf."
Out then he didn't have to bang!
The thing came off itself.

BARBS

A soft-crumbed cracker, a non-shoulder-pricking cracker, a cracker that the most timid of men can eat boldly in bed, has just been invented, a dispatch from Chicago discloses. Those who hitherto have refrained from the delicious delight of having their wafers in the hay, through fear of wounds, bruises, neckstoles or seven-year-itch can gratify their passion now. . . . We are feverishly awaiting the full page and showing Senator J. Boomboom McWhorter with a broad smile, saying "They feel fine!" Alongside is a less fortunate fellow who has eaten his crackers hard. He has his shoulders to the post. He winces, grimaces, scratches. "Probably half this man's life is spent scratching the tickling abrasions that result from the friction of non-resilient cracker crumbs in bed," the ad will tell you. Verily, America is the seat of wisdom.

But the 50,000 to 100,000 visitors here on Lindbergh day found that business folk of the capital had apparently undertaken to raise a hundred times as much from both tourists and natives. Virtually every reliable commodity has borne the name of Lindbergh all week long.
Clothing, telegraph companies, railroads, hotels, jewelers, hot dog magnates fountain pen makers, restaurants, automobile salesmen—
these and many more made money out of the youth who himself had refused to commercialize his heroism for the occasion had been collected.

PROFESSIONAL SPORTSMANSHIP

When Lindbergh was a student in the University of Wisconsin, the English department had a rather discouraging time with him about such matters as grammar, spelling and punctuation. The professor in charge of English composition kept insisting on more careful work.

The days of our youth are the

And the myrtle and ivy of

Are worth all your laurels,

IN NEW YORK
SEE-SAWING
and BROADWAY

NEW YORK, June 28.—For the newly arrived immigrants, America begins with a lovely, rolling slope of green. From the liner on which they have arrived, these immigrants see the wooded hills that roll gracefully back of Staten Island. Here it is that most of the big ships come to anchor in the early hours of the dawn.

Manhattan is still a vague blur and only on a clear day can the Statue of Liberty be seen. Many minutes pass before the skyline rises as the monster that is to swallow their future lives.

The steership deck is ablaze with the color of peasant blooms, gay shirts and smocks.

Swinging in the custom's tug about the stern of a liner the other morning I saw them lining the rail —women with faces browned by many suns, earth women, tired women, tired from years of fighting stubborn soil.

Darkly those who lived in wonder was the color of their costumes—a splash of purples and greens and yellows. And I sighed—for soon they would take on the toneless dress of those ashore. Soon they would join the herd of conventional dress.

I have often wondered what an immigrant feels when he is plunged suddenly into the Battery station.

From the pastoral green of the shore line he is thrust; onto one of Manhattan's most hectic spots. Here departs and taxis hurry about. The Wall Street bell lies just ahead and the skyscrapers rise in a solid, mountainous block. The newcomers stand blinking and staring. . . . a certain terror is in their eyes. . . .
confusion has seized them. . . . here is the city at its worst.

Jumping Breath

THIS HAS HAPPENED
Posing at times as a barber, at others as ATTORNEY DAVIS, a curious man called VILAK has come to the quiet little town of PORTO VERDE, in west central Brazil, to help his cousin, ELISE MARRBERRY, solve a strange mystery.

Elise, a beautiful American girl, has inherited a coffee plantation and other property adjoining Porto Verde. Several mysterious deaths occur, including that of one of her foremen. She herself has been threatened and warned to leave. Vilak, learning that LINCOLN NUNNALLY, a famous American chemist, and once a teacher of his, is in South America, sends for him.

Vilak believes that GAYLORD PRENTISS, a mysterious and forbidding man, is somehow involved in the deaths. He tries to visit Prentiss but is ordered to stay away. Elise's two-year-old orphaned nephew is kidnapped and Prentiss is suspected. Vilak tracks his kidnappers, and recovers the child, unharmed, without finding its abductors.

Vilak tells Elise she and the child must leave on the next boat. He decides to close his barber shop and stick to the character of Attorney Davis. He, Elise and Nunnally are breakfasting when word is brought that a messenger has come to see her from WILSON, her overseer at VILLAPA.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY
CHAPTER XX
Elise put down the fork with which she had been nibbling at an omelet. "Send him in at once, please."

The maid hurried out. In a moment she returned with the kitchen opened again. In a doorway half breed Brazilian, clad in thick heavy blue overalls and hip boots, stamped into the room, leaving great splashes of mud on the floor at every step. He strode up to Elise and, talking off his hat, stood awkwardly before her.

"You have news for me, amigos?" she asked politely, when he did not speak for a moment. "Yes, senhorita." He rubbed his thick fingers along his muddy trousers. "I come from your fazenda at Villapa. Meester Wilson have sent me. Tell me ride fast as can. He say tell you flood getting very bad Villapa. Say too he very seek and can do not much, afraid you come quick. He not say, but he very, very seek. I, Miguel, all others, think he die."

Elise rose from the table. "You'll have to excuse me," she said to her guests. "I'll have to go off to Villapa at once. It's been original of me to have left poor Wilson there all alone. Criminal." She called to Maria to have her horse made ready.

"Just a minute, Elise," Vilak said coolly. He gazed sharply at the mud splattered messenger. "Are you sure this chap works on your fazenda?" Here forward, knitted into a frown. "What do you mean? Of course he works on the fazenda!" "You've seen him?"

"He hesitated, then nodded. "I'm sure I've seen him. Several times. Anyway, even if I haven't, what difference would it make? I can't know every one of the 500 laborers at Villapa, can I, when the change so often? What on earth are you driving at?"

"Nothing, if you're sure you know your man. Only, it's faintly possible that this messenger may not be what it appears to be, and that you'd better let me go to Villapa in your stead."

Her black eyes flashed, her breath came quickly. "Vilak, there is one thing I won't let you do and that is try to relieve me of what I consider my duties and responsibilities on the fazenda. I've taken orders from you in other things, but not there, that's final. My sister's husband and I need to quarrel about the same subject and merely succeeded in making matters uncomfortable for everybody. Let's don't you and I do it. I must go to Villapa. Myself."

Vilak tranquilly munched his cereal. "Very well, I won't argue with you. But in that case I insist on going with you. Perhaps it's just as well that we go, for possibly we can get rid of her."

She shrugged her shoulders resignedly. "All right, if you must. But I don't think it's at all necessary. You make me feel like a child."

"What will you do with Tinky?" "I'll take him with me."

"I wouldn't. Seems to me an unnecessary risk. I think for the time being he's safer in the house. Hannah can be depended on not to let him out of her sight. I've talked to her. She's more than an ordinary servant. She can be trusted. And if anything came up requiring physical strength, she could do far more than you. I say absolutely that it's safer to leave him here than to take him along."

its window blinds drawn, a broken match, a rusty nail lying in the road. How you could put some hidden meaning into this message from Wilson is beyond me. If I weren't your cousin, and polite, I'd call it fantastic."

He put a pellet of betel on his tongue. "I sincerely hope you're right," he said laconically.

He withdrew a bar of chocolate from his pocket and distributed it among his companions as a substitute for their meager breakfast. He himself took none of it, contenting himself with a second pellet of betel. Suddenly at a point where a narrow trail crossed the road, he looked down at the ground and pulled up his horse. "Humph," he murmured. "There's that unusual hoof mark of Prentiss' horse again. And there are the prints of two other horses running along with it this time." He straightened up in his saddle once more.

They traveled on in silence. At times the chemist felt inclined to speak either to Elise or Vilak but was checked by their expressions, one nervous, impatient, worried, the other cool and grimly watchful.

Their course for a short distance became a creek which the violent rains had flooded into a small river. They plunged in and followed it with some difficulty, the water occasionally rising past their stirrups. Here and there where the red volcanic rocks of the region formed a pool of clear water, they could see curious fish sporting; here and there a fat ponderous turtle plodded along the bank. Once a great alligator lifted its head as they passed, menacing them with its red jaws. Vilak stopped to kill it with a well directed bullet, for the creek was part of a fairly frequently highway and any of the gigantic lizards who strayed there were a distinct danger.

At length they left the stream and came out onto a muddy road again. The noise of their horses frightened a family of armadillos that evidently had been quietly reposing somewhere behind the thick palms for they darted across the road in such panic that it was only by suddenly checking his horse that Vilak was able to avoid crushing them.

The road rose gradually up a low hill, fell to a ravine, then went up a short but fairly steep slope of another hill. As the riders rounded a bend, seven mounted soldiers came into view on the hilltop. They came slowly riding toward the Americans. Vilak's bushy, blond eyebrows lifted.

As the soldiers approached he saw that they were garbed in tattered blue and red uniforms of a design much like that of the granddames. They were distinguished from the latter, however, by the fact that they all seemed white men, tanned by the equatorial sun. Their faces were distinctly unpleasant, the eyes of this one puffy with dissipation, the face of that one swarthy with knife cuts or the ravages of some skin disease. Nevertheless, despite their unprepossessing appearance, they saluted the travelers amiably.

"Good day, senhors, senhorita," said the leader of the troopers, a tall, sallow man, with a great brilliant mustache who would have looked exactly like the typical Prussian officer had his hair been blond instead of black. "You go to Villapa?"

Vilak took out a cigarette and pretended to search in his pocket for a match in order that his hand be near his pistol. "Yes, amigos," he answered, smiling. "They say at Villapa the water is very high. Do they tell the truth?"

The officer twisted one end of his mustache around his finger. "Yes, the water is most high at Villapa. Take your hand away from your pistol, amigos. There are five soldiers in the bushes in back of you as well as the seven of us in front."

Vilak finds that the odds are overwhelming against them and that they are prisoners of murderous men.

COMMUNISTS TO EXILE TROTSKY AND ZINOVIEFF

LEADERS ARE CHARGED WITH ATTEMPT TO BREAK UP PARTY

(By Associated Press) MOSCOW, June 28.—Charged with treasonable speeches and violation of party discipline, Leon Trotsky and Gregory Zinovieff, once powerful figures in the councils of the all-Russian communist party, now are threatened with final dismissal from the party.

Prasidium Acts
Their expulsion has been asked by the prasidium of the central control committee, and inasmuch as they have been demoted, disciplined and warned several times in the last few months, there appeared little doubt today that the prasidium's recommendations would be followed by the party as a whole.

The prasidium based its recommendation, among other things, on the allegation that Trotsky and Zinovieff had engaged in attempts to break party unity at a time of serious international complications aggravated by partial failure of the Chinese revolution, and of facilitating the activities of anti-soviet agitators within the soviet union.

Says Party Deceived
The prasidium expressed the view that the contrite attitude displayed by both men after having been censured for their activities and attempts was merely a maneuver to deceive the party, and the offenses were stated to be practically unpardonable through being

Love Tryst Between Paul Kelly And Dorothy Mackaye Charged By Deputy Sheriff On Witness Stand

(By Associated Press) LOS ANGELES, June 28.—A deputy sheriff's story of a tryst between Dorothy Mackaye and Paul Kelly after the latter had been convicted of manslaughter in the death of Ray Raymond, her husband, added spice to the conspiracy trial of the actress here today.

Attorneys for Miss Mackaye, who were programmed to make their final arguments in her behalf assailed the report as "a plot to prejudice her case," which was expected to reach the jury before night.

Frame-up Charged
"If Miss Mackaye and Kelly were together, as reported, it has all the earmarks of a frame-up," declared her attorneys, Jerry Geiser and Roger Marchetti.

"It is our belief that, if the reports are true, this meeting of Kelly and Miss Mackaye was so arranged just before the case went to the jury to leave the incident unexplained to them before they begin their deliberation as to her guilt or innocence," the attorneys said.

Charge is Denied
The meeting of Kelly and Miss Mackaye was committed to a period when the soviet, in the face of the international menace, was trying to achieve greater strength.

The prasidium declared that the patience of the party heads had been exhausted as the infractions had extended over a period of four years in spite of numerous warnings.

Last month Trotsky and Zinovieff were censured by the communist international for having criticized Russia's policy in China.

Mackaye denied by both of them, took place, according to the deputy sheriff in whose custody Kelly was released from the county jail here, at a chicken dinner at the home of a motion picture director.

The officer, Claude Peters, in a report to Superior Judge Charles Burnell, presiding judge at Miss Mackaye's trial, and who signed the order to release Kelly so he could attend to some business affairs, said the couple was together three or four hours. He said they gave no sign of affection on meeting but parted rather sadly when Kelly was returned to his cell.

Wanted Term Started
Peters said Kelly told Miss Mackaye he wanted to go to the penitentiary to start serving his one to ten year sentence immediately rather than to lose any time by remaining in the county jail while his appeal is pending. This time would be lost if an appeal were denied.

Deputy District Attorney George Kemp completed yesterday afternoon his argument before the jury. Miss Mackaye is charged with compounding a felony in having conspired with Dr. W. J. Sullivan, physician attending Raymond for two days before his death, to conceal facts in connection with the latter's death. Dr. Sullivan, indicted jointly with Miss Mackaye, was awarded a separate trial.

LEGION HEARS GOOD PROGRAM

DELEGATES NAMED FOR STATE MEETING AND PICNIC PLANNED

The Allen Brothers Post of the American Legion, in regular meeting here Monday night, enjoyed one of the best programs heard for some time in addition to electing delegates to the state convention in Houston July 4, 5 and 6 and laying final plans for the joint picnic of the Legion and Auxiliary July 4.

Delegates Elected
H. D. Woods, former commander of the post here, now executive committee member from the 18th district, and Clark M. Mallica were elected delegates to the convention, together with others who possibly may go, but who were not announced at the session. The delegates were instructed to take a stand at the convention against the proposed resolution legalizing betting in the state, if such is brought up for discussion. Such a resolution was passed at the last state convention in Amarillo, but was never offered in the state legislature as it was understood it would be.

A committee was named to perfect plans for the picnic next Monday, in which the Auxiliary will entertain the Legion at Ico ranch property of H. L. Johnston, sheriff, about 15 miles southeast of the city. The party is to gather at the court house here at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and go in a body to the camp grounds, where a general good time is promised, including plenty to eat and drink.

Meet at Court House
Those who do not have cars are urged to be at the court house not later than 2 o'clock, and conveyance will be provided. It is expected that probably 100 will attend the picnic.

The program, arranged by Lieut. A. H. Waite of the Tech college, was pronounced by legionnaires as exceptionally good, featuring W. R. Wagborne, head of the music department of the college, who led group singing for a few minutes, then presented a musical narrative, centering around a youth of a musical bent who eventually was killed in action in France.

A committee also was named to investigate the purchase of a piano for the hall, and according to F. D. Rupp, post commander, "we will accept a piano for nothing if someone wishes to donate one."

Grain Market

CHICAGO TRADING CHICAGO, June 28 (AP)--Wheat and corn both reached today after up turns at the start. Selling which increased on bulges was based largely on talk that corn market advances had been too rapid and that profit taking sales were in order. Opening unchanged to 1/4 higher, wheat rose a little further and then sagged to about yesterday's finish. Corn started at 2 1/2 cents off to 1-8 cent up and later showed a decided setback. Oats were easy; provisions tended down grade.

OIL MAGNATE DIES MONDAY

HENRY CLAY PIERCE IS CALLED BY DEATH IN NEW YORK HOME

NEW YORK, June 28.—Henry Clay Pierce, 78, who began his career as a bank messenger in St. Louis at the age of 16, and became one of the country's leading oil magnates, died at his home here yesterday.

The cholera epidemic in St. Louis in 1866 was held by Mr. Pierce as largely responsible for his entire career. He went to that city at the age of 16 to visit with a sister and took a job as messenger in the Second National bank. The next year, when the bank's personnel was depleted by an exodus during the outbreak of cholera, he was made acting cashier, at 19 he had a brick business.

Fellows Oil Industry He switched to the oil industry, distributing oil refined by John R. Findlay owner of the first refinery west of the Mississippi river. In 1871 he took over the business and as railroads were built in the south and west, he followed them into Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana.

Controlled Railway He acquired control of the Mexican central railway in 1909 and held it for several years until it was merged into what is now the National Railway of Mexico. Even then he retained an interest in the lines and for a number of years was chairman of the New York board.

In 1913 his oil business became the Pierce Oil corporation, with Mr. Pierce as chairman of the board.

He was a director of many railroads and banks but retired from active business in 1923. He is survived by his widow, the former Mrs. Georgianna Prickett Burrows, whom he married in 1909, and four children by a previous marriage.

Overhead, circling and swinging about the field were several army service planes. As soon as the Fokker cleared the ground these escort machines straightened out on a westerly course and went behind the Fokker as she passed over the San Francisco bay, heading toward the Golden Gate.

A fleet of escort planes left the Fokker as she swung out over the sea at an altitude estimated at 2,000 feet.

The secondary question was "when will Smith leave?"

All night mechanics worked on the Smith plane to correct final details. Smith and his navigator, Charles H. Carter of Los Angeles, arrived at the camp shortly before the army plane took off. They said they had enjoyed four hours' sleep during the night and were ready to leave as soon as their plane was pronounced complete in all details.

An unexpected delay was encountered when Smith found he needed a new altimeter. Army air service officials offered Smith the use of one of their altimeters and a plane was dispatched to the field with the instrument.

Army officials also loaned Smith smoke and flare drop bombs with which he might check his drift during the day and night.

Smith declared he hoped to be able to take off during the morning.

Lieutenant Maitland's parents Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Maitland of Burlingame, Calif., were on the field to witness the take off. To them went the final hand wave from the pilot as the plane started rolling along the runway. Neither the father nor the mother would discuss their son's venture after the plane departed.

Army Plane Gets Early Advantage

OAKLAND, Calif., June 28. (AP)—Despite the fact that the airplane of Ernest L. Smith, civilian contender in the impending air race from the mainland to Honolulu, was completely fueled and made ready for the flight early today, Edmund J. Moffett, one of the backers of this project, announced to newspaper men that the take off would not be made until 10 a. m.

"If present indications are correct, would give the army entry of Lieutenants Lester J. Maitland and Albert Hegenberger, the advantage, as orders were issued to clear the runway at 7 a. m. for their hop off."

"We wish the army fliers luck in their Honolulu hop but we want to beat them to it if we can. If we can land in Hawaii five minutes ahead of the army plane we will be satisfied," Smith was quoted as saying. "I can't say that, the army wins but we will seek distinction of being the first civilians to make it."

Smith believes the speed of his plane will enable him to beat the army plane even if they get a six hour start on him.

Patrick To Stay In San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, June 28. (AP)—Major General Mason M. Patrick, chief of the army air service, informed the Bulletin today that he would not be a passenger in the army's flight from the Golden Gate to Hawaii.

the army air service, who shook hands with them with a warm, hugging clasp.

"Good-bye you, my boy," the general said to the two fliers. "I know you are going to do your best."

Lieutenant replied: "General, you know I'm going to do my best."

Then he and Hegenberger waved the crowds and climbed into their plane.

"Good luck," Smith shouted at the top of his voice, and the friendly rivals who were beating him to the take-off smiled and nodded.

The plane started down the runway, rising such a great cloud of dust that the spectators could not see the machine.

Several Women Scream The screams of several women could be heard amidst the cheers of the spectators. They feared the huge machine might not leave the ground successfully.
