Coaches Win Tickets

Former OHS basketball coach, Jim Curtsinger of Lubbock, held onto a slim lead and claimed the grand prize in the 1974 Enterprise football contest. Earning two tickets to the Cotton Bowl Game New Year's Day and a check for $25 spending money, Curtsinger finished the season with 175 correct points.

Second place winner Jerry Wilson finished three points back of Curtsinger and only one in front of third place contestant, Coy Gullett.

Re-check of the entire 15 weeks' entries disclosed an error in Wilson's total score but the two-point margin proved not to affect the winning outcome. On two separate occasions, Wilson's entries had one more error than had been originally detected. Those two points would have still placed him one point back of Curtsinger.

Season totals for the top contestants were Curtsinger, 175; Wilson, 172; Gullett, 171.

For the final week, it was Wilson who proved to be the best predictor. He claims a check for five dollars for the first place finish, missing just six games.

The tie-breaker Los Angeles Rams - Buffalo Bills game was needed to determine other winners. Five contestants missed seven games each with Coy Gullett and Caleb McClure equally dividing second and third place monies. Each was eight points off the actual LA, 19 - Buffalo, 14 score. Their predictions were 24 - 17 and 14 - 17, respectively.

Others who missed seven games and their tie-breaker predictions were Curtsinger, 15 points, 27 - 21; David Turner, 26, 31 - 28 and Carl McClure, 30, 35 - 28.

Merchants who made the guessing game possible were Consumers, Walker Texaco, Leon's Grocery, Sherman Agency, Olton Butane, Olton State Bank, Sluder Insurance Agency, Production Credit Association, Olton Feedyards, Olton Coop Gin, Olton Trade Lot, Toro Grain, Rube & Sons Garage, Raymond's Auto Parts, Pay-N-Save Grocery, Don's Grocery, Thompson Chevrolet, G. H. Bley Service Station, Wood-Jordon-Davis, Enterprise Studio, and Olton Enterprise.

Local Man Shot, No Charges Filed

Jerry Peel, local farmer, is "doing well" according to a report from family members but remains hospitalized in Lubbock's Methodist Hospital where he was taken Sunday.

Investigations are continuing by Lamb County law enforcement officers and no charges filed in the shooting incident which occurred seven miles north of Olton at the Gary Oursbourn farm.

Peel suffered gunshot wounds to his head.

Traditions Recalled

Santa Claus was the visitor at school but Christkindli, the Christ Child, came to the Christmas programs at church. Thus are the memories of Art and Pauline Nafzger of Christmases past.

"We never had Santa at church," Pauline remembers. Programs at church were always a part of Christmas though with all the children having a part in the special occasion.

Lutherans, the Nafzgers attend Christmas eve and Christmas Day services which are still a tradition of their church. The Christmas eve services are presented by the children of the church.

Advent candles are also a traditional part of the nativity season.

Seven years old before he learned to speak English, Art recalls reciting Christmas verses in German. His parents, who came with their parents to America from Switzerland, urged their children to speak English.

"They were proud of their heritage but they were also proud to be Americans," he says.

Art recalls how, as children, he and his brothers and sisters hung their stockings by the fireplace for Santa Claus.

"There was always something in them, maybe a ball, but mostly clothing and practical things." Art recalls that Christmas gifts were to be shared.

"One year we got a wagon for the whole family - for all seven of us kids."

Art remembers the family would go out in the woods for a tree at Christmas and the trimmings were decorations created from what was at hand. Strings of popcorn were usually a part of the trimmings.

He recalls, too, the Christmas when his sister, the late Margaret Fent, was about three years old and her doll was placed at the top of the Christmas tree.

"Dad held her up to the tree and she knew it belonged to her, that it was 'Margaret's doll'."

Pauline's recollections of childhood Christmases are not of hanging stockings by a fireplace. "We always set the table before we went to bed Christmas eve and our gifts were placed in our plates. We always sat in the same place at the table, so we knew which plate of gifts was ours."

One of 12 children, Pauline recalls gifts were like clothes, "handed down" through the younger ones. "Mama would make the dolls new clothes but they were handed down when we outgrew them."

She also remembers her mother knitting mittens and stockings for the children at Christmas.

The older children were gone from home by the time the younger ones were little and Pauline says there were not many times when the entire family was together for Christmas.

"There are only six of us now and I realize we didn't really appreciate one another until it was too late."

Snow was almost always on the ground at Christmas time and Art remembers that his family used sleigh cutters for transportation. Cold weather was no determent for attending church. Art's mother heated a large stone which was placed beneath the lap robes of the cutter. He also recalls his dad keeping a lighted lantern beneath the robes and great care taken to keep from touching it.

Both Nafzgers recall cold wintery beds heated with warm sad irons or stones.

Neither recall candy as a special yuletide treat but rather the sweet breads and cookies of the old country. Pauline remembers the sweet breads her mother always made for Christmas and the rich, delicious cookies that Art's mother traditionally prepared.

Bretzel, a rich cookie made just for special occasions, was shaped in small balls and cooked in a little iron which left a design imprinted on the cookie. Making them took lots of time.

Art's mother also made another traditional cookie; a very fragile melt-in-the-mouth morsel.

Christmas had passed the winter that Pauline came with her family from Iowa to Texas. She recalls their arrival one cold March day to a desolate Plains which had been swept by a devastating prairie fire.

"Mother used to cry when Sundays came because there was no church. We had been used to going to church regularly."

Her first Christmas here is lost among other memories, but Pauline is certain it was a simple celebration but that it did include the family's singing Christmas carols.

"We never had any instruments but we always sang carols at Christmas."

Art's family came from Wisconsin in 1913 to their farm three miles south of Olton. Pauline and Art were married in January, 1921.

There have been merry Christmases through the years to enrich the Nafzgers' keepsake of memories. It is with a touch of sadness that Art compares those holidays passed with the celebrations of today.

"It seems, to my way of thinking, we've lost the real meaning of Christmas."

Warm Australian Christmases Compared With American

Temperatures may hover anywhere from 80 degrees and the century mark but inside the homes, celebrations are in the traditional keeping of Christmas. That is Christmas back home, says Dorothy Kirkpatrick, wife of Olton's Australian doctor James Kirkpatrick.

Except for falling in summertime, Christmas festivities are very much the same back in Sydney as they are in their small Texas town surroundings, Dorothy says.

"We have no Thanksgiving holiday in Australia so Christmas is the big time for families to get together. It's really a family occasion."

Despite the summer atmosphere, the holiday menu still features roast turkey and stuffing, roasted potatoes, green vegetables and the traditional English plum pudding.

The plum pudding, Dorothy says, may be served with the hot rum and butter sauce of "Merry Old England" or it may be topped with whipped or ice cream.

"You'd think a summertime meal might be Jello salads and such," says Dorothy, "but not so."

Ice cream is a popular treat in Australia but Dorothy says that the homemade product is made in the refrigerator. An ice cream freezer was one of their earliest purchases after they got moved into their own home in Olton. Dorothy admits that she'd never seen an electric or hand turned machine until her arrival in America.

"We love it," she says. "It is so very delicious."

Fruit is a part of Christmas for Australians too but not the citrus fruits found in the stockings of American children or in gift packages for holiday eating. There, the between-meal-treats will be peaches, apricots and cherries.

Typical holiday fare at Australian dinners does not include cranberry sauce. Canned or frozen cranberries may be purchased but Dorothy says she never saw fresh cranberries for sale in her homeland's food stores.

Christmas trees are just as much a part of the holiday celebration as here, Dorothy says.

"But fully well shaped trees are very difficult to find. The ones we can buy are more spindly and not as pretty. So there are lots of artificial trees sold."

A notable difference in Christmas decorations back home, Dorothy says, will be the use of fresh flowers. Because of summer, homes will include arrangements of fresh roses, hydrangeas, agapanthus and other flowers.

In addition, there will be decorations of flowers native to Australia.

"We have a tree we call 'Christmas bush' that has pretty, tiny pinky-red flowers. Those are used in our decorations."

"And there is a wild flower - rare as hen's teeth because it is a protected wild flower. Some people will have them though because some have them growing in their yards. They have gold and red bell shaped blooms and are called Christmas bells."

Christmas celebrations extend to the day after, the observance of "Boxing Day." Dorothy says she does not know the real origin of Boxing Day but that it is also a day of giving gifts. That day, many families will go down to the beach, she says.

When Christmas falls late in the week, many Australians make the occasion a four-day holiday.

"If Christmas Day is Thursday, then definitely it's a four-day holiday. Saturdays are just forgotten because they are only half-days anyway."

All businesses, Dorothy says, close at noon Saturdays with the work week ending at that time.

Frequently, she says, families take advantage of those four day holidays to spend the entire time at the beach and their Christmas dinner is a picnic lunch.

"Children are out of school for their summer holidays and many of the large businesses close between Christmas and New Year so the fathers have time off too, so many families take their summer vacations then."

Santa does make appearances to some of Sydney's large department stores and a "toyland" area is provided for children to walk through and see the wondrous sights of the holiday. One large department store, Dorothy says, decorates all its windows in keeping with one particular theme that offers special appeal to children at the Christmas season.

Dorothy recalls the Christmases they spent in England. "It was before the energy and the economic crises. Regent and Oxford streets were really decorated and it made the most beautiful sight. People would make special trips into London just to see how pretty it was."

A holiday to Austria just after Christmas one year is still vivid to Dorothy also. "We flew over Munich and all the lights for Christmas were still up. Amost every house had at least a small tree in the window and lights decorating the city but the unusual thing, they were all white lights, no colored ones at all. It was most beautiful and I think especially so from the air."

Christmas in Texas is awaited eagerly by the Kirkpatricks because it is young Andrew's first Christmas. The family's Christmas tree had to be elevated above the heighth of the table where it's placed to escape the reach of the curious hands of the nine-month-old youngster.

Although it will be observed with tradition and be a Christmas never forgotten, it will not be one in which Dorothy and Jim lavish toys and gifts upon their young son with doting extravagance.

The Cost of Natural Gas

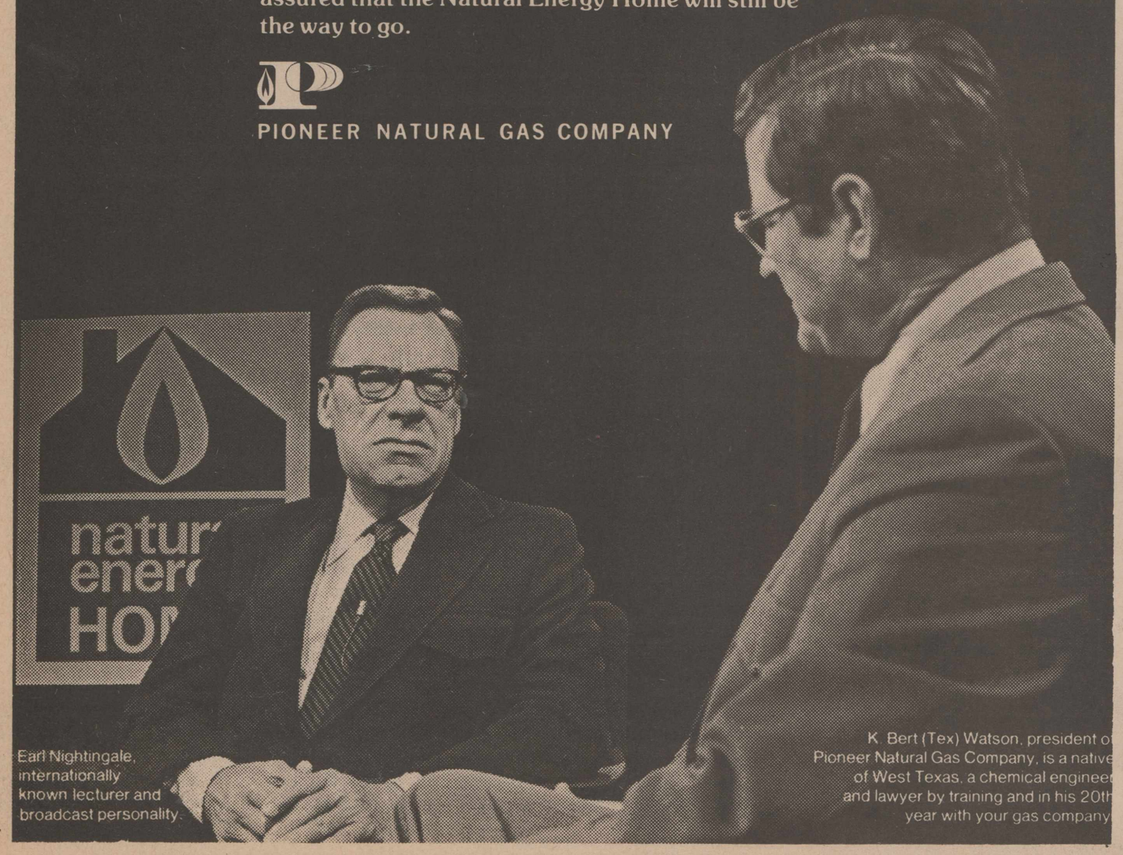

It's logical that Pioneer customers should ask why they are paying more for the energy they use in their homes. We are eager to have them understand why.

There is a lot of natural gas in West Texas, but we still must buy the gas in competition with other gas users across the country. To assure the people of West Texas that they will have the gas they need, now and in the future, we must pay the going price for new gas. Not only gas for our homes is involved, but most people's jobs depend on gas to run business and industry.

The gas is available, but we must pay the going price to get it. That price is reflected on your gas bill as a "cost of gas adjustment." I'm sure you don't like it. Neither do I. But I'm sure you agree that we must have the gas to run the homes and businesses of West Texas.

All energy will cost more in the future, but be assured that the Natural Energy Home will still be the way to go.

MRS. GLYNN WAYNE RAGLAND

Ragland-Williams Vows Read In Candlelight

Monterey Church of Christ was the scene Friday, Dec. 20 for the wedding of Miss Jean Yvonne Williams and Glynn Wayne Ragland. A.C. Williams of Belle, Mo., grandfather of the bride, officiated the double ring vows.

The bride is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don D. Williams of Lubbock, former residents of Olton.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Ragland are parents of the bridegroom and Mrs. Stephen Smith is his sister.

Nuptial music was presented by a chorus from Lubbock Christian College. W.H. McLeod, grandfather of the bride, sang "I Can't Help Falling In Love With You," and, as he presented his daughter in marriage, her father sang "Sunrise, Sunset."

Mrs. Gail Jones of Dallas, sister of the bride, sang "The Lord's Prayer" at the conclusion of the ceremony.

Presented at the altar, the bride wore a traditional gown of white satin combined with a sheer a-la-mode. The moulded bodice featured a slightly hi-rise crescent waistline appliqued in Venise lace daisies.

The deep yoke of English net was framed in Bobbin lace and the lace was repeated at the high Duchess neckline. Long sheer sleeves tapered to petal points over the hands and were edged in Bobbin lace. The full circular skirt was accented in graduated petals of sheer appliqued lace flowerettes, forming a window pane effect. Each insert was outlined in a wide border of satin to the floor and swept to a Cathedral train. The entire hemline was edged in Venise lace flowerettes.

Tiers of lace edged silk illusion fell from a Camelot cap of satin and Venise lace forming the bride's full veil.

For "something old", and "something borrowed", the bride wore her mother's wedding ring. "New" was her attire. She wore the traditional "blue" and carried, in her shoe, a penny minted in the date of her birth.

Serving as her sister's matron of honor, was Mrs. Gail Jones of Dallas. Bridesmaids and matrons were Mrs. Nancy Cope of Lubock; Mrs. Donna Smith, Olton, sister of the groom; Miss Kathy Williams, Albuquerque, N.M., cousin of the bride; and Miss Jean Lynch of Lubbock.

Flower girl was little Miss Dona Williams of Lubbock, sister of the bride.

Feminine attendants were gowned in chiffon orchid formal length dresses of Empire line. Purple velvet bodices were styled with square necklines and carried out the bride's chosen colors. Attendants carried votive candles.

Serving as best man was Martin Nunley of Lubbock. Groomsmen were Bryan Ragland, brother of the groom; Rick Wasson and Phil Allison, both of Lubbock and Stephen Smith of Olton, brother-in-law of the groom.

Guests were seated by Dr. Mike Williams, Dallas, brother of the bride and Jeff Jones, Dallas, brother-in-law of the bride.

Candles were lighted by Tim Williams, Lubbock, brother of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Williams chose a pale blue chiffon gown with matching accessories. The mother of the groom wore pale green chiffon gown with silver accessories.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in Fellowship Hall of the church.

The bride's table was laid with a white ruffled net cloth with orchid underlay. The three tiered wedding cake was touched with orchid and purple, and topped with wedding bells. Crystal appointments were used.

The groom's table, covered with a white linen cloth, featured chocolate cake and silver service for coffee.

Members of the house-party were Mmes. Jack Agnew, Dwight Corbell, Foy Kirkpatrick, E.C. Leslie, J.A. Nunley, O.D. Wadsworth and Walt Moeller; and Misses Kathy Smith, Pam Ellis, Leigh Leslie, Susan Burks, Vicki Moeller, Dottie Beasley and Marsha Haynes.

Leaving for the wedding trip, the bride wore a white polyester dress. She added red accessories and the orchid corsage lifted from her bridal bouquet.

Upon their return, the young couple will be at home in Lubbock, where both are students. The bride, 1972 graduate of Lubbock Christian High School, is a senior at Lubbock Christian College, majoring in elementary education. Ragland, graduate of Monterey High School, is a senior at Texas Tech University, majoring in Construction Engineering Technology.

Entertaining rooms were bedecked with Christmas decor. The refreshment table was laid with a red felt underlay, and a red net cloth embossed with sequins in multi-designs of poinsettias and candles.

Centering the table was an arrangement of holly berries, pine cones and votive candles, with a lighted angel atop.

German chocolate cake, cheese rolls, Christmas mints, winter strawberries and toasted pecans were served using silver services and milk glass. Presiding at the table were Mrs. Glenn Loveless and Miss Susan Rape, of Lubbock.

MRS. SHERMAN LAWSON

Cook Of The Week

A resident of Olton just four months, our Cook of the Week is Mrs. Sherman Lawson, wife of the pastor of Hopewell Baptist Church. The Lawsons came to Olton from Arkansas.

Willie and Sherman have a son in the U.S. Army. Lyle, 19, is stationed at Ft. Lewis, Wash. A married daughter, Deborah, lives in Forest City, Ark. She has two little sons, Sherman Wade and Darin. Shelly, the Lawsons' youngest, is a junior at OHS.

Almost a member of the family is the family's pet, a white toy poodle nicknamed "Fibber."

Working along side her husband in the work of the Lord holds first place in Willie's busy schedule as a preacher's wife and helpmate.

"The Lord's just blessed us so in our work here," she says.

Willie works with the GA's and RA's and is helping both groups make Christmas gifts. Molding the plaster plaques herself, Willie then offers advice or assistance, as the young people paint.

Molding different art objects and painting them is a favorite pastime of Willie's. She has done some truly realistic objects d'art.

Willie also helps where needed with the WMA which meets each Wednesday and with a ladies Friday night share group which has cancelled meetings until January.

BRYAN ALLCORN AND FREDDY STOCKDALE

Merry Christmas everybody! We bet you can't wait for the 24th of December when you know who tramples down your chimney. No, not Glen Crawford! This year the chubby ole man happens to be the Lord of the Flies. Also beware of his helpers; Piggy Ralph, Jack and Simon coming through the vents. We have been informed not to leave cookies and milk but a pig's head on a stick. Euell Gibbons says they are very edible.

Anyway, bouncing our way to the basketball section, the Fillies beat Hale Center in their tournament and captured first place. The Fillie roundballers placed three on the all tournament team in Laurie Gallagher - guard; Kim Barnett - guard; and Susie Culwell - forward. Donna Hodges captured the Most Valuable Player award at her forward position. The Mustangs came home with a Consolation trophy after defeating the Kress Kangaroos. Both girls and boys go to the Muleshoe Tourney on January 2, 3 and 4.

As an equal opportunity column, one that tries to be fair to everyone, and not offend anyone, we must apologize to a certain Fourth Period class for the little publicity that we gave them last week. As of now, W.I.T.G. has officially cut off all relations with this class. We invite all classes that wish to be in our column to inform us of any happenings that you wish to be published. Thank you.

Sophomore of the Week - Janet DePrang
Junior of the Week - Mike Franks
Senior of the Week - Keith "Cool" Austin

Ferd and Byron
P.S.
We at W.I.T.G. wish all of you a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. And always keep ten toes up and ten toes down.

Dear Santa,
First I want to tell you I've been a good little boy this year. I haven't called anybody any names or anthing. This Christmas I just have two things I want. First I'd like a '62 4-door, flat faded pea green, slant-6, 3 on-the-column, black-walls & half caps, Plymouth Valiant, with tom plaid seats. Next I'd like a '63 Vesca scooter, with forward kick starter, complete leg fairings, 50 cc engine, square headlight, and no brakes.
Your friend,
Greg

Dear Santa,
You've heard the song, "All I want for Christmas is my two front teeth," haven't you? Well, I have my two front teeth but I wish I didn't because they, as weel as the rest of my choppers, are covered with braces. I'm tired of people calling me "metal mouth", or "Rin Tin Tin Teeth," or worst of all, "the thousand dollar mouth with the twenty-five cent throat." (I don't sing very well.) In case you haven't figured out my first wish, I want these braces off! I was told by our science teacher that you have your degree. She said, "Santa was charged with something in the first degree after some accident at Christmas last year." I sure hope you can help.
Also, I wish that you could put some braces on a few people so maybe they would shut-up.
There are more things on my list that I want, but they are not for me, they are for the good of the world.
First of all, I wish Co-op would quit taking over the world and give everyone else a chance.
Second, I wish for the miracle of all miracles to occur, that is, a study hall just once in English.
And last but not least, I wish that the President of the United States would make a law that said that little boys and girls could have free pies with ice cream.
Sincerely,
K.L.
P.S.
I am going to lave a Fillie Burger and a ½ pint of frozen milk for you. Eat hearty!

Letters to Santa Claus are good and well and all that. But what would Christmas be without a traditional Christmas carol? This Christmas your dynamic-duo of writers have composed a little carol of our own entitled:
SILENT NIGHT, BORING NIGHT
(Sung to the tune of Silent Night, Holy Night)
Silent night, boring night, All is calm, a sickening sight, Round yon pool hall Ray and Joe, Shooting snooker, oh boy what a show, Put the seven in Ray, Put the seven in Ray.

Silent night, boring night, Police quake at the sight Michael Don is racing his car, Trying to earn a skull or a star. Spin those wheels Don, Spin those wheels Michael Don.

Silent night, boring night, Look here comes a meteorite, Coming down from the heavens it streaks, Eva Walden's house it seeks. That will learn you teacher, That will learn you teach!

Silent night, boring night, All are drunk, high as kite, Christmas eggnog is the key, drink too much and soon you'll see: Heaven is waiting is waiting you, Heaven is waiting you!

Mrs. Caddell Gets Certificate

Mrs. Joe Caddell of Fieldton recently received a certificate of commendation from the Texas Association for Mental Health for her outstanding work as chairperson for their Bellringer fund raising campaign.

Mrs. Caddell raised $66.00 with her Bellringer workers during the May campaign for mental health. Fieldton took 2nd place in largest per capita (48.5 cents) dollars raised in all communities in Texas.

The Bellringer Campaign, held from May 4-31 of this year, was a door-to-door fund drive seeking contributions to fight against Texas' number one health problem, mental illness. A total of $17,200.00 was raised in this single campaign throughout the state.

TAMH is a voluntary citizens' organization working not only for better mental health and mental health services, but also for public education and information. To this end, TAMH has cooperated with the Office of Early Childhood Development, Texas Department of Community Affairs, in putting out the successful newsletter "Pierre the Texas Relican". This newsletter reached 80,000 new parents in Texas as of August, 1974.

The chief priority in the association during 1974 has centered around the needs of children in Texas. TAMH has had members to testify before the Governor's Interagency Task Force on Youth Care and Rehabilitation and the House Committee on Human Resources concerning the 14 recommendations the Task Force has presented to the Governor. Among the recommendations strongly advocated were early screening, education for parenting, initiating a child abuse prevention campaign, and nutrition for pregnant mothers and young children.

The Texas Association for Mental Health receives no public income. As a completely voluntary organization, it is funded entirely through contributions and fund drives such as the Bellringer Campaign.

Robert Cooper Listed In Edition 'Who's Who'

Robert L. Cooper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Cooper, is among the thirty-four Tarleton State University students who will be listed in the 1975 edition of "Who's Who Among Students In American Universities and Colleges."

Cecil Ballow, Dean of Student Personnel Services, announced selections to the annual directory.

Editor of the publication certified all TSU nominees on the basis of academic achievement, community service, leadership in extracurricular activities and future potential, Ballow said. These students were judged to be among the nation's outstanding campus leaders.

The TSU students will join an elite group selected from more than 1,000 institutions in the U.S. and several other countries in North and South America.

A Lasting Christmas by Garnett Ann Schultz

I keep a part of Christmas
For it helps to add a glow,
To the January darkness
And the February snow.
If March is cold and blustery
And though April brings us rain,
The peace and warmth of Christmas
With its happiness remain . . .

There's a beauty when it's Christmas
All the world is different then,
There's no place for petty hatred
In the hearts and minds of men.
That is why my heart is happy
And my mind can hold a dream,
For I keep a part of Christmas
With its peace and joy supreme.

Star Of Glorious Beauty . . .

'We Three Kings of Orient Are. . . bearing gifts we travel afar.'

Guided by a star most bright, the Magi came upon the Christ Child. Bearing precious treasures of gold, frankincense, and myrrh they paid homage to the Infant.

Christmas continues to bring starry excitement, enchantment to young and old. . . a feeling of brotherhood.

It is the time when people of the world are brought together with their gifts of praise

May this Yule be a blessing for all.
