Cuba Policy Draft Gains House Vote

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress has completed action on a resolution endorsing the use of force if necessary to prevent Cuba from becoming a military threat to western Hemisphere countries.

House adoption by a 384-7 vote Wednesday came after a full-scale debate on foreign policy and an unsuccessful effort by several members to have tougher language written in.

The Senate voted its approval last week, 86 to 1. President Kennedy is expected to sign the document. The administration already has endorsed its careful wording.

The resolution is intended as an expression of unified support for whatever action Kennedy considers necessary. In essence, he would be free to determine when and how the United States should act to block the spread of Cuban communism.

The President has declared he will do "whatever must be done" to protect the interests of the United States and its allies in this hemisphere.

By passing the resolution Congress went on record as being determined to prevent the creation in Cuba of a military capacity that would endanger the United States.

Help is pledged anti-Communist Cubans who seek self-determination for their nation.

Republicans who took the get-tough-line during debate wanted a more precise statement declaring that the Monroe Doctrine has already been violated in Cuba. The doctrine declared this hemisphere out-of-bounds for foreign powers.

A motion to send the resolution back to the Foreign Affairs Committee was defeated 251 to 140. All but three of its supporters were Republicans.

House debate reached a fevered pitch at times.

When Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., demanded an immediate blockade of Cuba and said "let the chips fall where they may," there were applause and cheers.

Rivers was echoed by a dozen colleagues who called for action, rather than words that signify—in the opinion of Rep. Katharine St. George, R-N.Y.—"just a pious hope."

Rep. Clarence J. Brown, R-Ohio, broke in with a call for action in the manner of "Teddy Roosevelt, who would have shorn Mr. Castro's beard within a week."

After more than five hours of oratory and debate, the House followed the advice of its leadership and voted for the resolution as presented to show, said Democratic Leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma, the common will of the American people.

Slant Probers Begin Final Public Hearing

AUSTIN (AP)—The Texas House General Investigating Committee began its final public hearing of the slant hole well probe today with testimony on the controversial salt water injection program in the East Texas field.

Committee counsel David Witts of Dallas said at the beginning of the hearing that the committee "is confronted with conflicting stories on the role of salt water injection in the East Texas field."

"It has been portrayed as a subterranean Robin Hood sweeping millions of dollars of oil from one side of the field to another."

By the beginning of World War II, Witts said, the field was producing more than 400,000 barrels of salt water a day, more than the total oil production.

Federal officials began to express fear during the war that pressure drops in the field would have had effects on oil production and subsequently on the war effort.

REASONS GIVEN

The decision to begin salt water injection back into the field was made both to dispose of the water and to keep up the field's pressure for oil production, he said.

The first witness was Bryan Payne of Tyler, former president of the East Texas Salt Water Disposal Co., formed by independent and major producers during the war to dispose of excess water. He outlined the problems oil producers faced at that time and the events leading up to the company's formation.

Payne said previous testimony before the committee that salt water injection was pushing the oil from the west to the east "is absolutely not correct."

"That would be physically impossible," Payne said. "Anyone who knows anything about the Woodbine Sand knows that it is a rock type sand and you can't push anything through it. Regardless of the amount of water you put down a well, it would not have any effect 1,000 feet from the well."

"The 400,000 barrels a day we inject into the vast amounts of salt water already underground is like spitting into a lake," he said.

OWNERSHIP

Payne and W. S. Morris, Kilgore, vice president and general manager of the salt water injection firm, testified the firm is owned and operated two-thirds by major oil firms and one-third by independents. They said four of the nine members of the present executive committee are representatives of independent oil firms.

Representatives of 14 major oil companies appeared at the hearing to testify on industry practices in the East Texas field.

Chairman Charles Ballman of Borger said after the committee met in Houston Tuesday that today's session probably would be the last public hearing held in connection with the oil probe.

The committee met in Dallas in late August after the attorney general and State Railroad Commission completed a preliminary investigation into reports of deviated well drilling practices.

The commission, attorney general's office and Department of Public Safety began investigation of slant hole drilling in the East Texas field last spring. Later federal investigators and the House Committee entered the probe.

The Celerina put 17 other survivors ashore Wednesday and they received medical treatment at Cork and Oxford, England. They were taken to Cork in a dramatic helicopter lift from the decks of the Celerina off the Irish coast.

Some suffered from severe chemical burns caused by gasoline-fueled waters after the plane ditched.

"I kept calling out 'Dick', and then I heard him answer—just in time. The raft was filling with water, with my face pressed into it. Suddenly Dick reached out, got hold of my head and supported it above the water. Except for that, I would undoubtedly have died."

He said he and his wife were bound for a holiday to Spain, Italy and Greece with two life-long friends and next-door neighbors, Capt. John P. Devlin and his wife, Naomi, of Philadelphia.

Gilbreth and Brown were both stretcher cases and were believed to be suffering from leg and internal injuries.

A total of 28 of the 76 aboard the Flying Tiger airliner, mostly service men and families bound for Germany, are known to be dead or missing and presumed dead.

Army Of Mississippi Officers At Ole Miss

Unarmed Forces Block Negro Entry

OXFORD, Miss. (AP)—An army of sheriffs and city policemen converged on the University of Mississippi campus today to join the guard against Negro James H. Meredith.

State police at the five gates to the campus carried gas masks and billy clubs and wore helmet liners.

More than 100 police cars stood parked around the gates—highway patrol cars, sheriff's cars and city police cars from the length and breadth of the state—and more were arriving.

The reinforced barrier of manpower against the 29-year-old Negro numbered an estimated 400.

Only the campus police carried guns.

As they did Wednesday when they turned back Meredith and a cordon of federal marshals at the gates, the state officers wore no sidearms.

County and city officers arriving during the morning stepped out of their cars, then unstrapped their guns and put them in their cars.

POLICE DOGS

Six police dogs remained in police cars about 200 yards inside the main gate.

Newsmen on the scene identified officers from such widely separated places as Harrison County on the Gulf Coast to the south and from Tupelo in extreme northeast Mississippi.

As classes opened for the day on the hilly, wooded campus, the students went about their business as normal. Newsmen spotted students going to classes, but saw none around the guard posts at the gates.

There were no indications that Meredith planned another attempt to enroll today.

His attorneys said he was in Memphis Wednesday night and would be in New Orleans today for a news conference.

The state officers got their gas masks this morning. They tried them on, then left them out of their bags, wearing them over their shoulders.

On the bags worn by one of the officers were these words: "Property of the U.S. Army."

No gas guns or bombs were in evidence.

OPENLY DEFIANT

Gov. Ross Barnett—twice openly defiant of federal court orders in personally rejecting Meredith's attempts to enroll—was on the campus. He arrived by car shortly after 8 a.m.

Gov. Paul Johnson, who turned back Meredith and a cordon of federal marshals at the main gate to the campus Wednesday, also was reported in Oxford.

It was Meredith's third unsuccessful try.

Johnson stood before a cordon of highway patrolmen at the campus gate. Five cars of federal marshals arrived with Meredith.

Johnson told the marshals his position was the same as Gov. Barnett's—that state law prohibits Meredith's admission. A few marshals tried to force their way through the human blockade.

It didn't work. They got back in their cars and drove off.

CALLING INSURRECTION

In Washington, Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., called Mississippi's actions a kind of insurrection. He told the Senate preservation of the federal union is at stake.

U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said the situation is serious. From 20 to 25 U.S. marshals have been arriving daily at the big U.S. Naval Air Station across the state line at Memphis—some 50 miles north of the Ole Miss campus. No soldiers have been reported.

"The question of federal troops is as it has been," Kennedy said. "That is, we'll use whatever is necessary to do the job, as I said three or four days ago."

The acid test may come Friday. The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has ordered Barnett, 64, to appear in New Orleans to face a contempt hearing.

It was this court that forced the State College Board to agree Monday to enroll Meredith or face a contempt citation.

A similar hearing is set for Lt. Gov. Johnson on Saturday before the same tribunal.

The key questions: Will Barnett appear in court? And if he doesn't, will the government arrest him?

IGNORES COURTS

Barnett has twice ignored federal court injunctions—once by turning Meredith back at Ole Miss; once by stopping him from entering the State College Board office in Jackson and appearing before Registrar Robert Ellis.

Barnett refused Wednesday to accept a telegraphed copy of his contempt summons—although the telegram was only a copy and was not the formal service of the order.

There was no announcement of what the court's reaction would be if Barnett didn't show up. It has the power to issue a bench warrant for his appearance.

Barnett is surrounded by a kind of police-guard cordon of state police. Some Mississippians feel they would prevent the marshals from hauling Barnett to court.

Use of federal troops would require a presidential proclamation. There was some indication at the Justice Department the President would use that power if the marshals met resistance by a force too large for them to handle.

Johnson decided to meet the marshals and Meredith Wednesday when bad weather delayed Barnett's arrival here from Jackson.

FIRST CONTACT

"We want to take him in," John Doar, U.S. Justice Department attorney said. He spoke up after four unsuccessful attempts to penetrate the grim line of highway patrolmen, who had left their pistols in their patrol cars.

"I heard you," said Johnson.

When a few marshals tried to gain passage, patrolmen closed ranks and shoved back—the first physical contact in the struggle.

"You are senseless in trying to show off in front of television cameras for the rest of the nation to see," Johnson said.

"I'm not showing off," Chief

Some 400 chickens are already beginning to smell like barbecue for the pre-opening game dinner to be served Friday by members of the Evening Lions Club.

Beans, salad and other trimmings for 800 meals are about ready as club members prepare for the biggest barbecue yet, according to Ernest G. Barbee. Last year about 800 meals were served and the number is expected to top 700 this year.

Members of the club have been selling tickets locally and some tickets have been sold in Snyder. Serving will begin at 5 p.m. at the high school cafeteria in advance of the first football game in Steer Stadium. The contest with Snyder begins at 8 p.m., giving plenty of time for spectators to enjoy a leisurely dinner out before settling back to the football game.

More than 500 tickets have been sold locally. The goal is 800, according to Cotton Mize, ticket chairman. They are available from any member of the club or at the Thompson Furniture Store and J and J Auto Supply.

VANDALS DEFACE LINCOLN MEMORIAL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vandals have defaced the white marble Lincoln Memorial, painting "nigger lover" in foot-high pink letters on the rear wall, U.S. Park Police report.

The paint has been scrubbed off, officials said, but specialists will have to be called in to blend the damaged area with the surrounding stone.

Nelson Murdock, deputy police chief, said the vandals apparently splashed the racial slur on the wall during the darkness of Sunday night or early Monday.

No arrests have been made.

The rains made a desperate attempt to stage a comeback Thursday morning and did generate enough power to operate a drizzle for about two hours. The official measure on the precipitation was "trace."

The temperature was definitely autumn-like with an official reading of 54 degrees at 8 a.m. which reminded residents that summer is over.

Partly cloudy skies were still in evidence at 10:30 a.m. although the drizzle had ceased. Almost continuous light rains have kept the countryside wet for the past two days.

U.S. Marshal Finds Dixie Trip Not Dull

WASHINGTON (AP)—It's a long way from the sidewalks of New York to the University of Mississippi desegregation struggle at Oxford. For Chief U.S. Marshal James J. P. McShane, little of the journey has been dull.

McShane, 53, was tapped by Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy to help enforce the federal court order that the university enroll James H. Meredith, a Negro, as a student.

Since arriving in Mississippi last week McShane has been involved in several brushes with state officials opposing Meredith's enrollment.

It was McShane who attempted Wednesday to escort Meredith onto the university campus, only to become involved in a brief exchange with state officials barring their way.

To a charge that he was showing off, he retorted:

"I'm not showing off but doing my job as ordered."

Doing his job, first as a New York City policeman and more recently as a federal marshal, has meant an action-packed career for the ruddy-faced, black-haired McShane. He joined the New York City police force in 1936 and within three years was involved in seven gun battles. In one, he killed a holdup man and wounded two others, earning the police department's medal of honor and promotion to detective rank.

After winning 14 commendations, McShane resigned from the department in 1957. He had incurred the disfavor of a superior by posing for a photographer on his day off, holding an umbrella over heavyweight boxing champion Rocky Marciano.

McShane, a familiar figure to New York boxing fans, was himself an amateur fighter and won the New York Golden Gloves welterweight championship in 1930.

He joined the staff of the Senate rackets committee in 1957 when Robert F. Kennedy was its chief counsel.

Last year, 10 days after becoming a U.S. marshal, McShane was assigned to Montgomery, Ala., to direct about 600 federal officers during "Freedom Ride" disturbances.

Earlier this year he made the newspapers when convicted Communist spy Robert A. Soblen, sitting across the aisle from McShane on an airplane flight, slashed himself in an apparent suicide attempt.

Israel had denied Soblen asylum and McShane technically was an unofficial observer as the plane headed for New York.

Soblen never got there. He was taken to a London hospital and died earlier this month after swallowing a dose of sleeping poison.

As chief of approximately 725 U.S. marshals, McShane is paid about $15,250 a year.

Action Sought Against Bean

EL PASO (AP)—Disciplinary measures and possible disbarment were being sought today against former County Judge Woodrow Wilson Bean of El Paso.

Bean was charged in a district court suit Wednesday on five counts of misconduct while holding a "position of high trust."

The suit, brought by the State Bar of Texas, is a civil proceeding and Bean will have opportunity to answer the charges and defend himself as in ordinary cases.

KEPT BY GOD'S POWER

When I say it is possible for a saved person to fall into a lost state, I am not questioning the power of God to keep one from falling. Jude writes of how God "is able to keep you from falling" (Jude 24). God is able to keep us; but he will not force us to stand against our will. Thus he offers his help conditionally.

"Who are kept by the power of God through faith unto salvation ready to be revealed in the last time" (I Pet. 1:5).

We are kept by God's power; through our faith. What, then, if one loses his faith? This is possible, Jesus tells of those "which

300 Cubans Rounded Up, 75 Shot In Castro Death Plot

HAVANA (AP)—About 300 persons have been rounded up and 75 shot in a purported plot to assassinate Prime Minister Fidel Castro and clear the way for an invasion, informed sources said today.

The informants said two counter-revolutionary groups were accused of plotting disorders in late August as a prelude to invasion and the overthrow of Castro's regime. Castro and other government figures were said to have been marked for death.

The two groups were identified as the anti-Communist Liberation Front known as the FAL and the Movement for the Recovery of the Cuban Revolution called the MRRRC. The regime accused both of working closely with the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

The sources said those executed went before firing squads last week at La Cabana Fortress across the entrance to Havana Bay. Twenty-seven others were sentenced to from 2 to 30 years in prison. All were tried by a revolutionary tribunal.

The sources gave this account of the charges:

The FAL's uprising, set for late August, would begin with sabotage of the big Havana Light and Power station near the docks. It would spread to all provinces, with landings in eastern Cuba.

The MRRRC, which included many active and retired police officials, would attempt assassinations of Castro and other leaders. It also would try to capture police stations near the presidential palace in Havana and at Santiago de Las Vegas, near the International Airport.

Informants identified six FAL men executed at La Cabana as Francisco Perez Menendez, Ventura Suarez Diaz, Sergio Valdez Sanchez, Pedro Silio Matos, Bernaba Corominas Portuondo and Cruz Alvarez Bernao.

They said these men, called members of the MRRRC, were shot Sept. 19 or 20: Tomas Ruiz Santana, Evelio Hernandez Horta, Jesus Lazo Otano, Otto Rodriguez Dias, Felix Nicenany Reyes and Guillermo Reyes Zizala.

Havana Radio said Wednesday night that Cuban security officers recently arrested five men in suburban Havana. They were accused of trying to unify all anti-Castro elements in Cuba. The broadcast said arms also were seized.

Reds Increase Terror Effort In Venezuela

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Bank robberies . . . assassinations . . . terrorism . . .

Dangerous because they are made desperate by the string of defeat, the Communists are dipping deep into their arsenal of lawlessness in an attempt to bring chaos to Venezuela.

In 15 months, if all goes well, Venezuela will make history. It then will have a duly elected government which lasted out its full term of office and permitted orderly transition to a new one. It never has happened before.

The Communist-Castroist combine, smarting from one serious setback after another, is throwing caution to the winds in this final round of a battle for perhaps the most attractive target in all Latin America—rich, restless Venezuela.

Like the Bolshevik bandits of Czarist Russia under Stalin and others, bands of wild-eyed young Communist thugs, each anywhere from six to a dozen strong, storm into country banks, nervous fingers on the triggers of Czechoslovak tommy guns smuggled to them from Cuba.

Openly they tell cowed victims that this raid is for the party. Other Communist bands steal radio and communications equipment.

Others carry out swift, senseless assassinations of ordinary policemen. At least 25 have been slain this year in attacks to destroy their morale.

The Communists know they are now turning the population bitterly against them and their Castroist allies. But they already have lost much in popular support in Venezuela. They failed in several successive leftist attempts to overthrow the Betancourt government. The people are annoyed. They are criticizing the government for not moving more drastically against the extremists.

LOST GROUND

What is the Communist aim? How do they mean to stop President Romulo Betancourt, their worst enemy in Latin America, from finishing out his term? A young Venezuelan politician put it this way:

"Although the country is still seething for various economic reasons, the Communist party has lost much ground in the last year, has alienated many of its former followers because of extremist acts of terrorism. In spite of itself, the Communist party has become a haven for all sorts of lunatic elements in the country, including young lunatics in the military."

"The party, however, is hoping for one thing now. The overthrow of the Betancourt government by an extreme right—not left—wing movement in the armed forces. It is hoping to provoke this by one means or another."

"The Communists hope that then the present leaders of Betancourt's Accion Democratica Party will be purged, exiled, imprisoned. That will leave the framework of the democratic action to be infiltrated by them. They hope then to take over that framework and work against the military junta, so that when it is overthrown, a Democratic Action Party, respectable in the eyes of the people but actually controlled by the Communists, can come into power."

GONE TOO FAR

But, say many Venezuelans, the Communists will not be able to do it.

"They have gone too far," says one Venezuelan who has become disgusted with the extreme left.

Brazos Project Expansion Asked

WASHINGTON (AP)—Army Engineers Wednesday recommended expansion of the Brazos River Project in Texas from a current authorized cost of $40,450,000 to $60,700,000.

The recommendations were made to the Budget Bureau. Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., said he was informed that the modifications asked by the engineers call for construction of two multiple purpose reservoirs for the north and south forks of the San Gabriel River; provide additional water storage in the Lake Post Reservoir, and to include fish, wildlife and general recreation as project purposes.

TEASIPPERS SET FINAL GAME PLANS

That special charter bus to Saturday night's football game in Lubbock is all booked up, and all the tickets are sold.

The bus was chartered by ex-students of the University of Texas. The exes will leave from the Gregg St. parking lot of The Herald at 3:30 p.m. Saturday, catch a quick bite in Lubbock, and will return immediately following the game between their Alma Mater and Texas Tech.

Individual tickets, which went on the market after the charter bus plan was formed, also are all sold out.

Approval Asked For West Texas Sugar Beet Pleas

WASHINGTON (AP)—Approval for two applications for West Texas beet sugar production in 1964 was asked the Agriculture Department today.

The Holly Sugar Corp.'s application called for production of 65,000 tons of sugar yearly at a proposed refinery near Hereford, Tex. The Colorado Springs, Colo., firm said beets would be produced on 33,129 acres in Deaf Smith, Farmer, and Castro Counties, Tex., and in Curry County, N. M.

Trans-Pecos Sugar Beet Growers Association asked for the production of 45,000 tons of sugar yearly beginning in 1965 with limited production in 1964. The applications were outlined at a department hearing to allocate the acreage reserve.

Marquez Gets Three Years; Habitual Charge Ignored

A district court jury declined Wednesday to find Richard Marquez guilty of assault with intent to murder with malice and also refused to hold, as the state had pleaded, that the 24-year-old Latin American defendant is an habitual criminal.

Instead it returned a verdict in which Marquez was found guilty of assault with intent to murder without malice. For this offense, the jury said Marquez must serve three years in the state penitentiary.

It completely ignored the request of the state the defendant be found guilty of being an habitual criminal—an action which would have automatically fixed his punishment at imprisonment for life.

The jury reported at 3:15 p.m. Wednesday. It had begun deliberations shortly before noon.

The verdict was a disappointment to Gil Jones, district attorney, who had determined to remove the youthful defendant from circulation on a permanent basis.

It was also a puzzle to observers in the court room. They observed that the state and defense had agreed in the trial that Marquez had been twice previously convicted of felonies and the verdict as rendered made it three times in a row for the defendant. Under state law, an individual thrice convicted of felony offenses becomes a candidate for the habitual criminal tag.

A juror said that the panel wanted to levy more time against the young defendant but that it could not find there was malice involved in his knife assault on Margarito Ortega.

Ortega was stabbed in the side on the night of April 14, 1962, as he and Marquez met outside a north side tavern. If the jury had found that malice had been involved in the attack on Ortega, the punishment could have been upped to as much as 25 years.

Three years is the maximum penalty for assault with intent to murder without malice.

Testimony during the two days the trial was in progress was that Marquez had been convicted in 1957 of theft and had been granted a probation sentence. Three days later that probation was revoked and he was sent to prison. He was paroled by prison authorities and on Sept. 21, 1959, he was convicted of burglary and sent to prison again. He had been out of prison only a short time when he was involved in the altercation with Ortega.

Ortega recovered from the stab wound in the side. He was a witness for the state in the trial this week.

The jurors who sat in the case were George Amos, Roy Dunlap, J. H. Woods, L. R. Nichols, R. A. Davis, Thomas Vernon Swafford, Mrs. Alton E. Underwood, Wayne Morris, M. O. Roberts, Elvis T. White, J. T. Knowles and Mrs. A. R. Kimble.

John Richard Coffee was attorney for the defendant.

Ben Bella In As Premier

ALGIERS (AP) — Ahmed Ben Bella took over as premier of Algeria today with a pledge to create prosperity and stability in "the Algerian Socialist Republic."

The head of the ruling political bureau was unopposed in voting Wednesday before the 195-member National Assembly and received 141 votes. But 48 deputies showed their opposition by voting no or casting spoiled or blank ballots. Six deputies were absent.

Lamesa C-C Elects Officers

LAMESA (SC)—R. B. Snell was named president of the Lamesa Chamber of Commerce Wednesday, replacing J. D. Harris, who will serve until Oct. 1.

Also elected by the directors of the chamber and Board of City Development were W. B. Beeson, vice president; and Dave Knapp, treasurer. Pat Ryan was named manager for another two-year term.

The following newly-elected chamber directors and BCD appointees were introduced: Bill David, Henry Norris, David Fry, Donnell Echols, Buddy White, Hal Boyd, Knapp and Skeet Noret. All assume office Oct. 1.

Holdover chamber and BCD directors are Beeson, Abe Holder, Snell, Wendell Strahan, Charles Bratcher, Tracy Campbell, Bill

PEOPLE IN THE NEWS

By The Associated Press

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and his daughter, Mrs. William Strawbridge Jr., previewed a new collection of primitive art at the Museum of Primitive Art in New York City with a mixture of pride and sadness. The collection was gathered in Dutch New Guinea by Michael Rockefeller, the governor's son and Mrs. Strawbridge's twin brother.

Michael, 23, disappeared in the New Guinea jungle 10 months ago and is presumed dead. Rockefeller and Mrs. Strawbridge, who supervised the search for Michael for a time, said they were proud of his work.

Mrs. Caroline Rogers of Philadelphia says if people want to live a long time they should "learn to live quietly and slow down." Mrs. Rogers is 100 years old.

Judge Edward J. Chapman of New York fined 16 parking lot operators a total of $785 for parking their overflow customers on city streets. The judge admitted that "if I owned a parking lot, I'd probably do the same thing."

Maggie Griffiths, pretty 23-year-old red-haired Welsh girl, has walked out as a model for the house of Dior. She told reporters in London that she found working for the top French fashion house tiring and not particularly well paying.

"Frankly, it all got to be a bit of a bore," she says. "Fittings from 10 in the morning until 10 at night; the same clothes in the same shows day after day. And I earned less in a week there than I can in one day in London."

There was no immediate comment from the house of Dior, in Paris.

Jules Wright, 19, a Yale University senior of Newark, Del., had a 600 billion-to-one shot come through right in his hand — a bridge hand of 13 spades. The hand was drawn at the home of a friend in Wilmington, Del. The probability of drawing 13 cards of any one suit is 158,753,389,900 to 1. The chances of drawing 13 spades are 635,013,559,600 to 1.

400 Spaniards Believed Dead In Flood's Wake

BARCELONA, Spain (AP)—The bereaved gathered their dead for mass burials in flood-ravaged Barcelona Province today as the death toll mounted in Spain's worst natural disaster of modern times.

Unofficial estimates placed the dead at between 350 and 400 from Wednesday's rain-triggered torrents. Officials said more than 200 bodies had been recovered and hundreds of persons were still missing. The injured totaled at least 1,000 and more than 1,500 were without homes.

The raging waters destroyed at least 25 factories and partly wrecked 50 others, leaving damage estimated at upwards of $80 million. About 10,000 were left jobless by the floods, which laid waste a thickly populated industrial complex covering 150 square miles north and west of Barcelona, chief port of Spain.

Fed by a nine-hour rain and driven by hurricane force winds, the racing waters quickly filled up river beds dry from a long drought, then swept far beyond the banks. They crumpled mills and bore off cottages. Many persons died in their sleep as the floods leveled their homes. Others perished at work as factories collapsed.

As the nation mourned, authorities tried to estimate the impact the floods will have on Spain's economy. Some of the nation's key textile mills were wrecked. In Sabadell, Spain's No. 1 textile center, flood losses were set at $30 million.

More than $32 million in foreign and domestic orders will have to wait until the plants are rebuilt. Tarrasa, an industrial community of 120,000 about 10 miles northwest of Barcelona, bore the brunt of the floods.

Residents had just wound up a weeklong celebration of the festival of Our Lady of Mercy and gone to bed when the storm struck. Some were crushed in their beds as walls collapsed and ceilings crashed down.

At one textile mill 78 night workers died at their machines as the flood waters knocked down the plant.

"It was something fantastic," said Carlos P. Martorell, one survivor. "I fought with all my strength to save my wife and two sons, and I finally did. I don't know what hell is like, but it could not be worse than that flood. There were bodies floating everywhere."

Also hard hit were the nearby communities of Rubi, Molins del Ray, Dardania, Moncada and Prat de Llobregat.

Barcelona and its two million inhabitants escaped the worst of the storm, but some areas were flooded and a few deaths were reported.

Three new adult classes are being launched soon at Howard County Junior College, and others may be attempted during the year.

Registration is set for Monday at 7:30 p.m. for two of the courses. One is a basic course in practical ceramics, designed to serve those who want to take up this form of art or to gain further skills in it. Mrs. Glenn Cootes is

Church Is Target For Burglars

Two breaking and entering complaints were investigated by Big Spring police Wednesday. One was at the Trinity Baptist Church annex building, and the other at the Arthur J. Lloyd office, 817 W. 4th.

W. E. McGaugh, janitor for the church, told officers someone picked the lock on the east front door of the building, and that the door to the pastor's study was forced. The file cabinet type safe, which was not locked, was opened and $8.50 in cash taken. Nothing was reported missing from the study.

Mrs. Pat Johnson called police from the Lloyd office. A screen was cut and the back door opened. A television set was turned over on the floor, several filing cabinet drawers opened and the desk drawers ransacked. The only thing missing was a .32 calibre revolver.

James N. Hamilton, Lubbock, recently purchased nine Hereford heifers from the herd of Charlie Creighton. Transfer of registry was noted by the American Hereford Association. Creighton operates a ranch west of Big Spring on US 80.

Telepathy May Abolish Warfare

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP)—Mental telepathy may some day make war impossible, says Dr. William Krogman, a University of Pennsylvania anthropologist.

"I foresee the average man of the future with brain waves so powerful he will send and receive mental messages just like a wireless radio," Krogman told a state conference on nursing education Wednesday night.

Krogman said this will mean no secrets can exist between men or nations and peace will come from this psychic status quo.

Vets Have Excellent Ways Of Telling Age Of Horses

By BOB GRAY, EDITOR
The Texas Horseman Magazine
Written for The Associated Press

"Doc, take a look at his teeth and tell me how old this horse is."

That request is the one probably put most often by horse owners to their veterinarians. And the vet's answer often surprises owners—particularly those of limited experience—who have just purchased horses. The horse may well have more age on him than they suspected.

Dr. E. H. Williams of Houston's Alamo Veterinary Clinic is one of the state's leading large animal specialists who finds that many owners think their horses are...

"Too many people," says Williams, "correlate age with condition. They think that if a horse is 18 he should be old and gray. If he's fat they think he's probably six or eight."

Actually, of course, well cared-for horses can reach 18 years of age and still look in their prime. That's where teeth come in. If you know what to look for, a horse's front incisors can be almost as good as a birth certificate in determining his age. This is no exact science, of course, but nearly any buyer—with some practice—can certainly tell whether he's bargaining for a mare of five or 15.

You don't have to be a dentist or a vet to do it. As a rule, those 12 incisors in front—six uppers and six lowers—tell the story.

Like people, horses grow a set of baby teeth. They start coming in from the time he's a few weeks old. Later he sheds them. By the time he's five and mature, a male horse will have 40 permanent teeth. Mares have 36 teeth—they don't have the four canine teeth located in male horses just behind the incisors.

At five years, all of a horse's teeth will be in "wearing" position. Those back up in his jaws won't help you much in telling how old he is once he's grown.

The things that will help you judge the age of a full-grown horse, as outlined by Dr. Williams, include:

(1) The condition of the "cups" in those front teeth, the 12 incisors. The "cups" are the indentations on the wearing surfaces.

How Old?

E. H. Williams "mouths" a horse to make an estimate of its age. In the early years, a trained vet can pinpoint age by the order of the appearance of temporary, then later, permanent teeth.

By the time he is eight years old the cups will nearly have worn away from the grinding action of the horse biting and chewing his food. At six, the cups will have disappeared from the central incisors—the four front teeth. At seven, the cups will be gone from the lateral incisors. Those are the next teeth out—two up and two below—from the central incisors. At eight, the cups will be gone altogether in most cases and you'll have what is called a "smooth mouth" horse.

(2) The length of the Galvayne's Grooves. These grooves are found only on the two upper corner incisors. They are vertical indentations that lengthen with age. As the horse approaches 11 years of age they appear as tiny triangles just below the gum line. At 15, the grooves are about half way down the teeth. At 21 the Galvayne's Grooves run the full length of the upper corner incisors.

"Past 11 or 12," says Dr. Williams, "you're really giving an educated guess. But I believe that I can 'age' a smooth mouth horse better than one with cups, by using those grooves." The grooves themselves are not prominent, being perhaps one-eighth of an inch wide.

(3) The forward slant of the incisors in the older horse. The more the front teeth point forward, in other words, the older the animal is. Examine the mouths of some very young and very old horses and the difference in the angle of the incisors is obvious.

Another clue to horse age is the shape of the incisors. As the teeth wear down in front they change from an oblong to a wedge shape until finally the very old horse has teeth nearly triangular, with the point of the wedge directed inward.

It's a fairly rare practice now but horse traders of past years often doctored those front incisors to make it appear horses were younger than they were. The practice was called "bishing" and involved gouging out artificial cups then darkening with silver nitrate. As a small boy Dr. Williams remembers seeing traders do this.

"Usually they would only bishop the corner incisors since an eight-year-old was in his prime anyway. They'd just put a spot in the lateral incisors, to make him look like a 'comin' eight'."

Veterinarians now can spot such alterations pretty quick. But it's still a wise buyer who can "mouth" an animal and figure out what that dental calendar shows. It takes practice—but if you're going to spend some good money, it's worth knowing.

Pershing Missile Test Successful

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The Army's Pershing missile was launched successfully on a flight of about 350 miles in a test which exercised most of the ground support equipment to be used by troops in the field.

The missile was erected on its tank-like mobile field carrier on Wednesday night when the countdown reached 30 minutes before firing. Other ground support elements were stationed on similar tracked vehicles.

It was the 40th test launching for Pershing, which is scheduled to be deployed in Western Europe next year. Thirty-two of the flights were rated successful.

Emergency Program In New Farm Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The new farm bill provides another emergency program for livestock feed grains in 1963 and then sets up a permanent program for 1964 and thereafter.

The bill was passed by the Senate Tuesday.

The 1963 program is much like that in effect last year and this. It seeks, as did its predecessors, to reduce feed grain surpluses by paying farmers to take at least part of their feed grain acreage out of production.

Next year's program would offer, as did the 1961 and 1962 programs, price supports at $1.20 a bushel for corn and supports for sorghum grain and barley at related rates.

But next year, unlike this year, the support would be extended in two forms—one a price support loan or purchase agreement at $1.02 a bushel and the other a supplementary payment of 18 cents.

Last year and this, the entire support was in the form of a loan or purchase agreement at $1.20. Sponsors said the object of the dual support method is to reduce the quantity of grain moving into government hands under the loan and purchase agreement programs.

The permanent program set to begin in 1964 eliminates the acreage retirement and payment program. It leaves farmers completely free to grow whatever acreage they wish.

But price supports would be lower. They would be between 50 and 90 per cent of the parity price of corn, but in no case could the support be high enough to encourage production which would add to the surplus. Under current conditions corn price supports likely would be 80 cents a bushel or just a little more.

Critics of the farm bill contend that the prospect of sharply reduced feed grain supports in 1964 was written into the bill to scare farmers and farm belt congressmen into voting for a program.

Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Thurs., Sept. 27, 1962 5-A

Profit Margin Considered Low

B. T. Faulkner of Pioneer Builders, a local general contracting firm, was in charge of a breakfast meeting Wednesday morning of the Big Spring members of the Associated General Contractors of America, held in Coker's restaurant.

Highlighting the program was an address by Harold C. Yelverton of West Texas Builders, Lubbock, who is president of the West Texas Chapter of the AGC.

"In our industry," said Yelverton, "the margin of profit—if indeed there is any profit—is dangerously low in even some of the biggest construction firms in the country. Some of the older, more experienced firms are closing their doors, for reasons due largely to poor management methods in this fast-changing industry."

"And when construction firms fail, the whole industry—including owner, architect, engineer, supplier, and subcontractor—suffers to some degree with those who fail. A management decision to bid a certain figure should be based upon hard facts of overhead, materials, and labor—and certainly not upon the fear of being beaten at bid-opening."

Other AGC members in attendance include J. D. Jones, Billy C. Suggs, Paul Kasch, A. E. Suggs, and Frank Fuller, chapter secretary. Monthly meetings of the local group will be held from now on, Faulkner said.

Building Waste Has Uses

DALLAS (AP)—What can you do with 10 stories of concrete, steel and brick rubble?

M. H. Miller, a superintendent with Morrow Wrecking Co. which tore down the old First National Motor Bank, said most of the debris goes right back into one part or another of other buildings perhaps miles away.

The doors, windows, piping, tiles and air-conditioning equipment taken from the building sold to a Fort Worth man for use in a new office building.

The many thousands of tons of stone debris were used for filling in low areas. These filled-in areas may be used for construction sites at a later date.

Nine hundred tons of structural steel taken from the building were sold for scrap, Miller said.

Hauling the rubble away proved a chore. An average of 15 trucks and sometimes as many as 23 worked 17 nights, from dusk to near dawn, to haul the 2,550 dump truck loads of the building to the dump sites.

It took over 100 men five weeks to tear down the 10-story structure, reduce its components to rubble and haul them away.

Austerity In Yugoslavia Is Felt, But Not Much

By EUGENE LEVIN
BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—Just off Marx and Engels Square the shops are selling Elvis Presley records, the cafes are dishing out whipped-cream cakes and the customers gaily invent political jokes.

There may be an occasional mention of austerity, but on the surface it's hard to find.

Through the eyes of visitors from other Communist countries, it does not seem to exist. To them Belgrade is a shopping and dining mecca.

However, the belt tightening is there. It started last spring when the Yugoslav economy started to lose momentum, and the country's foreign debt approached the $1-billion mark. President Tito's government ordered cuts in imports and moved to reduce industrial costs.

Plant executives felt the austerity. Trips they had planned abroad were canceled. Expense accounts were reduced. Factories had to find raw materials in Yugoslavia or soft currency areas, instead of importing from the hard-currency West.

Some imported cosmetics disappeared from the shops. The import of foreign autos was halted.

On the whole, however, austerity has meant nothing to the great mass of Yugoslavs. Shops are still filled with clothing, toys, leather goods, furniture and countless consumer items. Markets still provide plenty of meat and vegetables—the most varied and plentiful diet in Eastern Europe.

Many Yugoslavs can afford only to window-shop. Monthly industrial wages are around $50. But the glittering shop windows on Belgrade's tree-lined boulevards promise a better life.

Food, despite a 6 per cent cost of living increase between December and April, remains relatively cheap. Restaurants and sidewalk cafes are crowded. On Saturday nights the better ones, with gypsy violinists or jazz combos, lack room for all the fun-loving Serbians. The twist is catching on.

Visitors from the booming West may not be impressed, but visitors from the East are. Yugoslav Communists—who split with the Kremlin in 1948—enjoy watching Russian, Bulgarian and Romanian tourists.

The Eastern Europeans gaze at modernistic concrete and glass buildings going up in Belgrade alongside the heavy stone buildings left over from the Austrian-Hungarian empire.

Pretty Yugoslav girls, in Italian beehive hairdos and chicly dressed by East European standards, catch the eyes of the Iron Curtain visitors.

Soviet and Bulgarian athletes here this month for the European track and field championships went on shopping sprees, carrying home boxes of Yugoslav shoes and shirts.

A major reason things are so much better here is the $1.8 billion worth of economic aid given to Yugoslavia by the United States following the Moscow-Belgrade break. Surplus agricultural products worth $90 million pulled Yugoslavia out of a food crisis caused by last year's drought.

There has been another drought this year, and Yugoslavia will want more farm surplus products.

A picture of Tito gazes down from the wall of every shop, every restaurant, every public place in Yugoslavia.

Yugoslavs may criticize their government, or complain about taxes.

With austerity, Tito might seem vulnerable. He has half a dozen country lodges. But Yugoslavs willing to talk to Western visitors say he is rarely attacked in conversation. He seems popular, even beyond the Communist party.

At the most, Yugoslavs make good-natured jokes about Tito. Political joking is an old habit in the Balkans.

The Soviet Union and the United States do not escape the jibes. One of the latest: Who is the perfect Bolshevik?

The one who has the choice of taking Mrs. Khrushchev to dinner, or Mrs. Kennedy—and picks Mrs. Khrushchev.

Pig Show Dates Set

The Seventeenth Annual Howard County 4-H and FFA Pig Show will be staged in the fair grounds buildings Oct. 3 and 4. The show, expected to attract 50 to 55 entries, is sponsored by the Big Spring Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Prize money of $200 has been posted.

Trophies will be presented to the champion and reserve champion animals in the barrow division and to the champion in the breeding gilt division. A special award will be made to the boy or girl rated as the best showman of the event.

Herb Helbig, county agent, will serve as show superintendent. He said that Euel Liner, Lubbock, former professor at Texas Tech, will be judge and Dub Bryant, Big Spring, will be auctioneer at the sale Oct. 4, which will close the show.

Wayne Graham, president of the Jaycees, said that members of his organization are now busy lining up buyers to take part in the auction sale.

This year, Helbig announced, a new feature has been introduced into the show routine. The boys and girls who enter barrows in the two classes open for competition will be required to make a $2 entry fee. This money will be placed in the pot and be paid out as prizes to the winners in the events.

Heretofore, no entry fee has been charged for the shows.

No entry fee is made in the breeding gilt class, he said, because these animals will not be sold. The barrows for the most part will be offered at the auction. Thirty head of barrows will be placed on the block under present plans.

The calendar for the show calls for the boys and girls of 4-H Clubs and FFA chapters to be on hand to enter and weigh in their animals from 8 a.m. to noon, Oct. 3.

Judging will begin at 9 a.m. Oct. 4. The sale is at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 4 and will ring down the curtain on the show.

Helbig said the Jaycees are urging all persons interested in encouraging the boys and girls of the county to produce more and better pigs to attend the show.

Labor Meeting

A. R. Kinstley, assistant regional director of the AFL-CIO, Fort Worth, met with local labor union representatives Wednesday to discuss a Central Labor Council for Big Spring. The delegates voted to petition the AFL-CIO for a charter. A. G.

Goodson was elected temporary president; W. A. Fitzgerald, treasurer; Roy Watkins, secretary. Goodson named Steve Corcoran, Walter Schattell, H. D. Stewart and W. A. Fitzgerald to a by-laws committee.

Hill's Business Records Given To Texas Tech

LUBBOCK — The business records of the late Louis Hamilton Hill, longtime West Texas enterpriser, have been presented to Texas Tech's Southwest Collection.

The Hill Collection includes 400 bound volumes of letterpress books, cash books and other volumes reflecting the life and activities of the West Texas businessman.

The collection was presented to Tech by Mrs. J. Carter King Sr., daughter of the famed Hill, and her son, J. Carter King Jr. of Albany.

"The Hill Collection is the beginning of a stepped-up campaign to add business and personal records of West Texans to our program," said Dr. Seymour V. Connor, director of the Southwest Collection.

Hill, who came to Texas in 1870 from Alabama, began working as a sheepherder, rail splitter and cowhand. He later took a job with the D. F. York and Co. of Fort Griffin, a frontier merchandising firm.

After the successful merchandising venture, he moved to Albany where he began a long career as a businessman.

It was said at the time of Hill's death that the Hill Co. had sold nearly every tract of land in Shackelford County that had changed hands since 1853. He dealt not only in land, but in insurance, livestock, loans and collecting.

Another highlight in Hill's successful business career was his purchase of the Goethe and Fuchs ranch where he and Webb opened rock quarries on the Clear Fork of the Brazos River and laid off the town of Lueders, Tex. They then helped get the right-of-way for the Texas Central Railway, which was extended from Albany to Stamford.

Hill was also one of the organizers of the Oriental Oil Co. of Dallas.

Gov. Bill Daniel Leaves Guam

AGANA, Guam (AP)—Gov. Bill Daniel, bidding farewell to Guam, left for Texas today via the Far East and Europe. His family accompanied him.

Daniel, who resigned several weeks ago and has accepted an Interior Department post as consultant on territorial matters, served 16 months here.

He was the fifth governor of Guam in the last 12 years. None has completed the four-year term.

Daniel, a President Kennedy appointee, succeeded Republican-chosen Joseph Flores, a Guam newspaper publisher. He is the brother of Gov. Price Daniel of Texas.

Taxes May Be Paid Beginning Monday

Taxpayers have been advised they can begin paying their taxes for the county, Howard County Junior College, the state and the common school districts Oct. 1.

Mrs. Zirah LeFevre, county tax collector, said that statements have been sent out to taxpayers and that a considerable number have already been in the office. They were told that the office could issue no receipts for tax payments until Oct. 1. Some taxpayers made out checks and left them with the collector to be processed after Oct. 1.

Under state law, all taxes paid during the period Oct. 1 through Nov. 2 inclusive will receive a three per cent discount. During the period Nov. 3 through Dec. 2 inclusive, the discount allowed is two per cent and from Dec. 3 through Jan. 1, inclusive, the discount is one per cent.

No discount is allowed in the Jan. 2 through Jan. 31 interval and full face of the tax bill has to be paid.

Stock Market Shows Rally

NEW YORK (AP)—Selective buying pushed the stock market to the upside in a fairly vigorous rally late this afternoon.

Volume for the day was estimated at 3.4 million shares compared with 3.55 million Wednesday.

Enough key stocks met demand so that the averages were nudged into plus territory but there were many losers throughout the list.

All the auto stocks were up, the trend was generally higher among steels, and chemicals were on the upside. But the general performance of the list was spotty.

Early in the day a grinding decline was brought to a halt and prices recovered. The improvement held and expanded somewhat in slacker dealings.

The motor stocks posted gains of small fractions. Most of the leading steels did the same, although Wheeling advanced more than a point amid rumors of a possible stockholders' fight.

Gains were fractional among the chemicals as well, none of the big companies adding as much as a point.

Brokers saw the performance as still another technical rally which followed three sharp declines out of the past four sessions.

Enrollment Open For YMCA Courses

Enrollment is still open for three adult informal education courses which meet tonight at the YMCA, according to Francis Flint, general secretary.

Beginning ceramics, taught by Mrs. Howard Brown, and leathercraft, with Mrs. Charles Hodges the instructor, begin at 7 p.m. Cost for the ceramics course is $5 for Y members and $15 for others. It includes some supplies. Charges of $3 and $15 for the leathercraft course do not include cost of leather.

Beginning bridge begins at 8 p.m. with Mrs. Hudson Landers as instructor. High school students are invited to enroll.

Strike Banned

CHICAGO (AP)—A federal judge issued a temporary order today restraining trainmen from carrying out a strike tomorrow against the Santa Fe Railway.

Street Work Delayed By Truck Loss

City street crews have been working with graders, scrapers, and trucks, since the floods of two weeks ago, and have made considerable progress on damaged streets, but there is still a long way to go.

"Our graders have covered most of the damaged dirt streets," Ernest Lillard, city engineer, said Wednesday afternoon, "but there are a few impassable places yet. There are some places on the north side, where sand washed in, that need sand hauled out. Three of our four dump trucks are in the garage. One truck can't move much dirt, but as soon as the others are in service again it won't take long to get streets cleaned."

Work on the new sewage disposal plant, which is the only work being done at present under the Master Plan bond program, was delayed by the recent rains and floods. Work has resumed, Larry Crow, city manager, said Thursday morning, but the contractor is a little behind schedule.

Tentative completion date of the new plant is August, 1963.

Jury Raises ROW Award

A jury in Howard County court ruled Wednesday afternoon that J. O. McCrary is entitled to $4,735 for the 11.479 acres of his land taken by the state for right of way on US 87.

R. H. Weaver, attorney for McCrary, said the verdict returned by the jury was $735 larger than the award made by the special commission for the land. The original valuation set by the commission was $4,000 for the land and $800 damages to the crops and property. The damages were awarded to the tenant and the tenant was not a party to the appeal.

The case has been in progress since Tuesday morning. The jurors deliberated about an hour and a half before returning their verdict.

The suit was an appeal brought by the state against the findings of the special commission.

It was one of a number of such appeals which had been filed in county court in recent months.

Martin Grand Jury To Meet Monday

STANTON — The Martin County grand jury will be empaneled Oct. 1 by Judge Ralph Caton, 118th District Court, and will be called upon to consider four felony matters.

Gil Jones, district attorney, said the cases he intends to lay before the grand jury include:

John Angel, felony swindle: Albino Matta, murder with malice; Jimmy Hancock, felony theft, and Arnold Coward Preas, DWI, second offense.

The murder case dates back to June 30 when Victorino Dives was shot to death. The shooting occurred on a Martin County farm and Matta was arrested in the case.

Four minor accidents were investigated by Big Spring police over the past 24 hours, with no injuries reported.

Locations of accidents, and drivers of vehicles involved, were: 710 E. 15th, C. M. Long List Of Civil Defense Awards Given This Week

More than 60 Civil Defense award certificates are being handed or mailed to Big Spring individuals, firms, and institutions this week. W. D. Berry, director of the Big Spring-Howard County Department of Civil Defense, said the awards were being made in recognition of assistance and support in the community survival planning efforts.

"This is the first time in several years that we have presented awards in the county," he said. Letters are being sent with each certificate, he added.

"Your cooperation in furnishing personnel and implementing civil defense... has supported and assisted the community survival planning efforts to achieve organizational capability for community survival," the letters report.

Certificates went to the following firms, institutions, and individuals: Texas Department of Public Safety, Big Spring State Hospital, Cowley Clinic, Hospital, Medical Arts Clinic-Hospital, Howard County Hospital Foundation and Hospital, Medical Arts Foundation Hospital, Big Spring Independent School District, Big Spring Police Department, Howard County Junior College, City of Big Spring (Larry Crow, city manager), Winston Writable (Gibbs), Bob Lindsey (KWAB - TV), Jack Wallace

CAPT. M. J. STEFANELLI

Capt. Stefanelli Winner Of Award

Capt. Mario J. Stefanelli of the 3561st Pilot Training Squadron at Webb AFB has been named Instructor Pilot of the Month for August.

Capt. Stefanelli received his B. S. Degree in Electrical Engineering from the U.S. Naval Academy in 1954. He took primary flying training at Bainbridge Air Base.

After completing a two year tour as fighter pilot he returned to Webb as instructor and is currently instructing in the T-38. The captain has more than 2,500 hours of flying time—2,000 hours in jet aircraft.

The award was made Thursday morning in the office of Col. Harold C. Collins, Pilot Training Group Commander.

District Court Jury Dismissed

Jurors summoned for duty in 118th District Court were told there was no further work for them to do when court opened Thursday morning.

A civil case docketed for trial was passed when it was found one of the attorneys is in federal court on other litigation. The panel was thanked for reporting and dismissed.

One jury case was tried in the 118th District Court this week—a criminal complaint against Richard Marquez.

BREAKFAST TO LAUNCH UF DRIVE

The big gifts division of the United Fund, under the chairmanship of Douglas Orme, will kick off its campaign Tuesday morning. A dutch breakfast in the Settles Hotel at 7:30 a.m. is planned to give workers instructions on solicitation.

The Webb AFB portion of the drive will be launched Monday, under the guidance of Col. Charles W. Head, and the employees division gets started Thursday, under Randell Polk.

OIL REPORT

Explorers Test Slight Oil Shows

Two area wildcats tested slight oil shows in unreported zones on their way down to deeper play zones. Area fields also picked up two locations.

Fair No. 1 Justice Estate, a Garza County Ellenburger test, had a rainbow show of oil on test of a section between 4,728-55 feet, probably the Wolfcamp.

In Sterling County, Roden Oil and Cossden No. 2-A Reed, Montana prospect, tested slight oil shows in cores of a zone between 8,996-027 feet. It was previously identified as possibly the Woodford, but this has not been verified.

Locations are in the Garza, East (Glorieta) field in Garza County and in the Ackerly (Dean) field in Martin County.

Survey Results Are Tabulated

Two evenings of tabulating answers to a public opinion survey conducted by the Jaycees has shown that much more work remains before conclusions can be drawn.

Just over 600 local households were polled for their opinions of what is right and what is wrong with Big Spring. The survey was in two parts, one where particulars such as schools, public services, etc. could be rated and another where persons could express views about what needs to be done to improve the city.

Jaycees have tabulated the answers to the first part for all except the North Side. After this is completed, the harder task of evaluating the commentaries will be undertaken.

"At least another week will be needed. We will not be able to hold another work session until next week," Kenneth Pace, one of the Jaycees who has worked on the survey, said today. No results will be made public until evaluation is completed, he said.

Fire Prevention Urged By Crow

A step-up in the city's fire prevention, and inspection program has been ordered by Big Spring City Manager Larry Crow.

'63 CHEVROLET IMPALA SPORT SEDAN

Tomorrow-GO JET-SMOOTH CHEVROLET for '63

Here's the Jet-smooth way to dress up your driveway, dress down rough roads. Cover this car's price tag and you might think it cost a thousand dollars more. It offers luxurious styling, extremely comfortable, spacious and silent interiors . . . plus ways to keep it looking and running like a new car when a lot of others have started to sag and sigh: a new way to flush and dry rocker panels under the doors of its Body by Fisher to guard against rusting . . . self-adjusting brakes to save you time and expense . . . Delcotron generator for longer battery life. If you ever wondered why Chevrolet leads its field, a drive in this '63 should answer all your questions.

GO CHEVY II for '63-IT'S EXCITING!

'63 CHEVY II NOVA SPORT COUPE

GO CORVAIR for '63-IT'S EXCITING!

'63 CORVAIR MONZA CONVERTIBLE

Hard as it may be to believe, this year's Chevy II is better, better than last year's and better than anything in its class. It shares all of the new car-saving easy-care features of the big Chevrolet and combines them with its own wonderful attributes of parkable size, four- or six-cylinder fuel economy and interiors that'd do justice to cars that cost twice as much as the '63 Chevy II with half the charm.

Change it? Calm yourself, nobody's going to mess with a winner like this one! We did add self-adjusting brakes and a more fully aluminized muffler; interiors are refined a bit, and you'll notice some trim changes. But the rest is pure untampered-with Corvair with all the over-the-road goodness that implies. Oh yes, we changed the rings around the taillights so all those people you pass will know you're driving a '63.

It's Chevy Showtime '63! See four entirely different kinds of cars at your Chevrolet Dealer's Showroom

Lions Plan Bulb Sale Next Week

Blinky the Lion will be going on the prowl next week when the Big Spring Downtown Lions Club conducts its annual light bulb sale.

Teams will be covering every area of the city to offer the $2 package of bulbs to householders. All profits from the project go to the Lions welfare fund, which stresses sight conservation and blind work and the state Lions crippled children's camp as major programs.

Final plans for the bulb sale were discussed at the Wednesday meeting of the club. Team captains are Milton Barnett, Bob Dean, Don Young, J. Doug Ward, Phil Hines, Pete Cook, Wayne Bonner, Wayne Bartlett, Russell Bennett, L. D. Carothers, Bill Sneed and M. R. Turner.

The week following, Oct. 8-13, the club will sponsor a fun-run here, with various rides for the kiddies and with booths to be operated by various other organizations.

Pins for 100 per cent attendance records during the past year went to Wayne Bartlett, Milburn Barnett, Eb Boulioum, John Dibrell, R. E. Dobbins, Ludwig Grau, Joe Pond, R. H. Snyder, Willard Sullivan and James Tidwell.

Camella Rhine was introduced as an outstanding student to be recognized by the club during the month, and Miss Lorie McAlister as the outstanding teacher.

I. David M. Hodson, assistant information officer at Webb AFB, presented a film showing latest Air Force developments. He also paid tribute to Big Spring as "the friendliest town I've ever seen."

JFK Lauds Free Economy, Sees Victory Over Red Type

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy, singing the praises of the free market economy, predicts it will ultimately win out over Red regimentation.

"The free market is a more efficient decision maker than even the wisest central planning body," Kennedy told about 350 editors and publishers of business magazines Wednesday.

He spent about a half hour telling the executives that the administration was by no means anti-business.

Held in the State Department auditorium, the session was like a news conference, with no live television or radio.

"Mr. President," one questioner wanted to know, "do you believe that your administration is unduly sensitive to the alleged hostility of the business world?"

"I would think," the President replied, "that we are sensitive naturally to hostility, if that were the appropriate description, by any segment of the economy. This system of ours really depends upon comity, upon cooperation, if it is going to function."

Another questioner, noting the President's remark that inflation had been avoided under his administration, asked if he really didn't believe that the law of supply and demand had more to do with this feat than government action.

Yes, that was a factor, the President acknowledged. But everybody laughed when he added that "I think we made a contribution which was unacknowledged and comparatively unsung last spring."

This was a reference to the hassle in which steel companies rolled back a price increase under pressure from Kennedy.

How, another questioner asked, does admiration for the free market jibe with price support operations, international and domestic? There have to be limitations on the free market, Kennedy explained. If no agreement is attained on coffee for example, he said, the drop in coffee prices will "threaten, in my opinion, the security of the entire hemisphere."

As for U.S. farm price supports, Kennedy said: "We have been attempting in this Congress, with some success, but not total success, to provide that those who receive the supports will not plant an unlimited amount."

But he said, total withdrawal of supports "would bring an economic collapse in the Middle West which would adversely affect the entire economy."

There was little hard news in the session, but the President did disclose he would take a "good look," before making up his mind, at a pending bill for tax assistance to self-employed and professional people, to allow them to establish personal retirement plans.

The idea has equity to it, he said, but on the other hand, it would mean a budget loss of $100 million or $125 million, and might better be made a part of a tax reform bill he will present next January.

Hodge-Podge Of Weather

By The Associated Press

A hodge-podge of weather—featuring hit-and-miss showers, cooler temperatures in the south and warmer readings in the north—is forecast for Texas for the latter part of the week.

The mixed up weather follows scattered rain that has fallen over much of the northern half of the state most of the week.

The outlook is for cloudy to partly cloudy skies in South and Northwest Texas. Northeast Texas will be clear to partly cloudy while the coast and Southwest Texas areas are expected to receive scattered showers.

Northwest Texas will get more rain by Friday.

Temperatures will be a little cooler in the extreme south and a little warmer in Central and North Texas, the Weather Bureau said.

Early in the day, skies were cloudy in South and West Central Texas and generally clear over North Texas. Thunderstorms hit the southern part of South Texas during the morning hours and some rain fell in the southwest section of the state.

Baptist Elder Statesman Named

WACO (AP)—Veteran educator-historian Rupert N. Richardson has been named Texas Baptist Elder Statesman of the Year.

Dr. Richardson, 71, was honored for contributions as writer, teacher, educational administrator, Baptist lay leader and historical researcher.

Dr. Gordon G. Singleton, president of the Independence Homecoming Association and education professor at Baylor University, made the announcement Wednesday.

The elder statesman for the year, who is senior professor of history and president emeritus of Hardin-Simmons University, will receive the award at the association's annual meeting Saturday. The reunion is held on the site of the original Baylor University.

Rice And Death Abundant In South Viet Nam

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Vo Van Thien were asleep in their Mekong River delta home when a stray mortar shell came through the thatched roof and blew them to bits.

Rice and death are abundant in South Viet Nam, and they come together.

In a fly-infested hospital at the central coastal town of Quang Ngai, and 18-year-old girl lay sullenly, refusing to talk to anyone.

Her graceful legs were shattered by .50-caliber bullets, and she was awaiting a skin graft. She had been chasing pigs out of an open field, but got out of the way too late. A fighter-bomber swept down, guns chattering.

TEACHER'S DEATH
A young, secondary school teacher just graduated from the university was pedaling his book-laden bicycle along a sun-drenched road from the provincial capital where he lived to his school a few kilometers away.

The Viet Cong, as the Communist guerrillas are called, had an adobe guard post at one point just off the road, and often stopped traffic to check credentials. The teacher had to pass the spot twice a day, and at times the Communists would threaten him. It was frightening, but he needed the salary and the government insisted he teach in the provinces.

On this day the Viet Cong did not call out to him. Seven puffs of smoke spurted from the guard post, and the teacher and his bicycle crumpled into a muddy ditch.

FROM ANYWHERE
Death can strike anywhere and from any direction. It can be a Viet Cong assassin who rips open a door, torch in one hand and tommy gun in the other. Or it can come from a swarm of American helicopters.

No one, except possibly the Viet Cong, likes the shape of this war. The Saigon government and its American ally would like to remove the division sharper, with government forces on one side and a clearly defined Communist enemy on the other.

Hundreds of fortified communities called strategic hamlets are being built to help do this. It is too early to tell whether the idea will work. Apparently the Communists feel it is working well enough; they are building what they call combat hamlets.

In some parts of the country, a peasant has a choice of where he will live—a government strategic hamlet or a Viet Cong combat hamlet—often only a few kilometers apart.

NO-MAN'S LAND
In between is no-man's land, where every human being regardless of age or sex is a potential target.

But this is a roving war. It comes to a district, rages furiously for a few hours, and then moves on. Most the time, life is relatively normal, and the possibility that the war will come tomorrow is just another natural hazard, like periodic inundations of the Mekong River.

It has been going on, more or less, since the mid-40s.

Many U.S. and Vietnamese officials would like to remove the war from the purely civilian population. Accidental civilian casualties tend to help the Viet Cong recruit new fighters from bereaved families. There is growing official sentiment against air strikes against any but known military targets.

CRUEL TRAP
"But to slack off on the military drive at all would be to play into the Communists' cruel trap," a high-ranking Western diplomat said. "The Saigon government must make it clear to the nation that it is master of the land. The war must be waged on political, economic and social fronts as well. In any war, people will be killed."

To Be Speakers
MEXICO CITY (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon and Republican Sen. Jacob Javits will be featured speakers at meetings of the American Chamber of Commerce here. Dillon will speak Oct. 25, Javits Jan. 28.

Big Parade Of Chevrolet Models

Chevrolet's parade of new products for 1963 includes four lines, to be seen Friday at Pollard Chevrolet, 1501 E. 4th. Heading the list is the luxurious Impala sport coupe (bottom); Chevy II 4-door sedan (left center), Corvair Monza club coupe (right center), and the new and startling

Corvette Sting Ray sport coupe, a high mark in advance styling. Chevrolet's wide choice of passenger cars includes 33 models in addition to six variations with special optional power-train combinations.

AT POLLARD SHOWROOMS

Chevrolet Shows Friday With 4 Distinctive Lines

Four distinctive lines of Chevrolet automobiles go on public display Friday, and the 1963 lines are offered locally at Pollard Chevrolet, 1501 E. 4th.

Offering 33 models in four separate categories—each aimed at a specific segment of the market—the 1963 cars represent faith in a continued strong national economy by Chevrolet, which is already on its way to setting an all-time industry sales record for 1962.

There are significant styling changes in the regular Chevrolets, a continuation of their unique automotive personalities by the Chevy II and the Corvair, and two entirely new bodies and a new chassis for the Corvette sports car. All models have significant mechanical improvements.

REGULAR CHEVROLETS
The traditional big car emphasis upon luxurious styling and transportation is continued in the 1963 regular Chevrolets, offered in 13 models in the Impala, Bel Air and Biscayne series.

There is a sleek, longer look with all-new styling. The Impala sport sedan has a fleet, new roofline and an optional vinyl top is available for the Impala sport coupe. Fifteen solid colors and eleven two-tone combinations are available in the regular Chevrolets. Interiors of the cars are entirely new and more luxurious for 1963.

Mechanically, there are the following new features:
—A new six-cylinder 140-horsepower engine, higher in horsepower and yet 23 per cent lighter than its 1962 counterpart, teams with a revised 238 cubic inch V8 and five other V8 engines to offer engines ranging from 140 to 425 horsepower.

—Brakes are self-adjusting, mufflers will have longer life, and the lightweight Powerglide transmission used with the 327 cubic inch engine option in 1962 is extended to all models.

—Delcotron generators are standard on all models, assuring ample reserve electrical power for added accessories and longer battery life.

CHEVY II
In its second year on the market, Chevy II continues the basic styling of the previous model with new exterior and interior appointments. There are ten models in three series.

For 1963, Chevy II offers Super Sport options on its Nova 400 sport coupe and convertible, featuring bucket seats and all-vinyl interiors. Fifteen solid colors and eleven two-tone combinations are available on Chevy II models.

Mechanically, the Chevy II has self-adjusting brakes and Delcotron generators. Four- and six-cylinder engines again are offered, with minor improvements. Longer-life mufflers are standard on all models. Radios are completely transistorized.

CORVAIR
Chevrolet's distinctive small car enters its fourth year on the market with an ever-growing following among those who want a sports car feel in a less expensive car.

Styling changes are confined to ornamentation and molding details. Otherwise, America's first rear engine car continues its unique personality.

There are eight models of Corvair, ranging in variety from the Monza Spyder convertible to two models of the popular Corvair Greenbrier sports wagon. Fifteen solid colors plus two-tone combinations are offered.

CORVETTE
In its tenth year on the market, America's only production sports car is redesigned and re-engineered for the first time. In addition to the convertible (with optional hardtop) model offered in the past, there is a new "fast-back" sports coupe.

For the first time, Corvette offers optional power steering, power brakes and air-conditioning for the customer who wants a sports car but also wishes to retain the driving conveniences to which he has become accustomed.

Mechanically, there are a host of improvements, including a completely new chassis, four-wheel independent suspensions, self-adjusting brakes, improved steering and Delcotron generators.

Junket Tab-Keeper Doesn't Travel Much

By TEX EASLEY
AP Special Service

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Omar Burleson, D-Tex., who keeps tabs on the costs of all congressional junkets, is one of the least traveled members in the House.

Burleson is in the spotlight now because of his inquiries into the recent highly publicized European tour of Rep. Adam C. Powell, New Negro Democrat.

Many House members concerned that the meanderings of Powell and two attractive women aides around Parisian night spots would adversely affect public opinion regarding all congressional trips abroad, regardless of their merit, urged Burleson to pull in the reins on Powell.

NO WORRY

The public reaction to congressional trips shouldn't worry Burleson. He's been on only three since taking his seat in the House on Jan. 3, 1947. In 1948 he went to Europe to check on war recovery; in 1950 to Haiti and Venezuela; and in 1961, he attended a trade conference in Bermuda to report on harmful effects of oil imports to the U. S. petroleum industry.

Burleson, as chairman of the House Administration Committee, which must authorize travel funds for all House members, reminded Powell that: (1) the Education and Labor Committee that he (Powell) heads is authorized to spend appropriated funds only in the U. S. and its possessions—and no voucher will be honored if submitted regarding European travel; (2) any bills to pay "contract" employees which Powell's committee may have hired won't be honored unless justified.

MUST JUSTIFY

At the convening of a new Congress, chairman of all other House committees must justify to Burleson the funds they need to operate during the next two years. Powell's committee, for example, was allowed $633,000 for the current Congress, now nearing its end.

"You can be sure that when he submits his request for operating funds next January, we'll make him justify every cent he gets," Burleson said.

Use of counterpart funds abroad—foreign currencies credited to the U. S. for help this country has extended, does not come under control of Burleson's committee. Their use is authorized by the State Department. However, all congressmen must report to Burleson's group the amount of such funds they receive.

AROUND THE CAPITAL:
Capitol Hill's weekly newspaper, Roll Call, in a tribute to the late Mrs. Lucille Spain, who had worked on the staff of Rep. Wright Patman, D., for 32 years, said:

"Her faithful, devoted service to her congressman was so outstanding that she was known as the hardest working secretary on Capitol Hill."

"She was a secretary who had the answers. She was a secretary whose excellence was achieved and maintained."

The new pajamas cost more but they give the patients a lift, Sister Aileen, the assistant administrator said Wednesday.

Sexes All Crossed Up On Occupations

HONOLULU (AP)—Five women are working as stevedores in Hawaii and 40 others list their jobs as truck and tractor drivers.

The Hawaii Department of Land and Natural Resources said today a census study also showed 11 men working as chambermaids, without sacrificing the best qualities of womanhood."

She was buried in her North Texas hometown of Paris.

Miss Alla Clary, who was personal secretary to the late Speaker Sam Rayburn, D-Tex., for 42 years and retired only after his death last fall, participated in ceremonies regarding issuance of the 4-cent Rayburn commemorative stamp. Local papers carried a picture showing the Arlington, Va., postmaster, C. F. Simpson, selling her a sheet of the stamps.

Deputy Postmaster General Frederick C. Belen, who participated in the Rayburn stamp issuance ceremonies at Bonham on Sept. 16, returned to Washington proudly displaying these three Texas souvenirs:

A certificate of honorary Texas citizenship; a broad-brimmed Texas-style dress hat, and a box of plastic fish lures.

Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., has promoted his Austin office manager, H. Ed Munden, to be his administrative assistant.

Munden, 37, a classmate of Tower's at Southwestern University in Georgetown, has moved his family to Washington. He is married to the former Dorothy Bradbury of Kilgore. They have three children—Jane Ann, 13; Janice, 10; and Ed, 7.

Munden takes over the job which has been held by LeRoy (Pete) LaMaster of Perryton, who resigned to enter private business.

John Moore, U. S. Weather Bureau meteorologist at Fort Worth's Amon Carter International Airport, timed his vacation East with doings in the field of his hobby.

A Civil War buff, he visited Antietam battlefield and Harper's Ferry during centennial celebrations.

He and his wife toured the area after visiting the nation's capital, and their daughter, Nancy, entered American University here as a freshman.

Congress In A Glass House On Withholding Information

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress, which criticizes executive agencies for withholding information from the public, often is much less than frank about its own activities.

This is particularly true of official travel, or junketing or other expenses of the members.

The practice is more prevalent in the Senate than in the House. It is almost impossible to find out how much money a senator spends. Unlike the Senate, the House makes available at all times the staff payrolls of its members, including the names of individuals and their salaries.

The House also publishes annually a statement of foreign travel spending by its members and committees, but the document lacks details.

When it comes to payrolls and office expenses, any newsman may look at House payroll records and find out who is on a member's payroll and his salary. He also may find out whether members are actually using their annual $1,800 stationery allowance for office supplies or are drawing it in cash, as the law allows.

On the Senate side of the Capitol, records dealing with senatorial payrolls and expenses aren't available, unless the individual senator cooperates.

Aside from the official financial activities of its individual members, Congress throws few roadblocks in the path of those seeking to keep up with its activities.

Executive committee meetings—those from which newsmen and the public are excluded—are numerous. But there's an old saying that if more than one congressman was present, the news would leak out in a hurry. It usually does.

The excuse for numerous executive sessions is that witnesses can feel more at ease in discussing legislation behind a closed door. Sometimes the matter of classified information and military security is involved.

The House Appropriations Committee, which holds all hearings behind closed doors, later publishes tens of thousands of pages of transcript.

In another area, the public may never know the exact cost of the new House Office Building being erected at an announced estimated cost of $100 million. The reason is that plans are altered frequently.

As an example, the original plans didn't provide for a swimming pool for members. The late Speaker Sam Rayburn—for whom the new building is named—ruled that out. After he died the blueprints were revamped to provide for the pool. They may be changed again to provide a separate pool for women members and employees.

When the over-all cost of the new building becomes known—it will be an historical rather than a news item.

The House also publishes annually a statement of foreign travel spending by its members and committees, but the document

First Family Enjoys Show About Fictional President

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedys, who live in the White House, said they liked "Mr. President," the new musical comedy about a fictional chief executive.

They saw the show Tuesday night and the President said he thought it "very good."

The hep Washington audience didn't seem to take too happily to the mythical "Mr. President." But no matter what anybody thought of the show, which brought songwriter Irving Berlin, 74, out of retirement, the preview benefit was a smash hit.

Celebrities, socialites and top officials in glamorous black tie attire jammed the National Theater to see the fictional First Family on the stage and President and Mrs. Kennedy in person.

Robert Ryan played the president and Nanette Fabray his wife in the Russell Crouse-Howard Lindsay musical.

The glittering benefit audience contributed more than $70,000 to a favorite Kennedy family charity to aid retarded children.

The 600, who bought orchestra seats at $100 a ticket, joined the Kennedys at a jammed but gay champagne supper dance at the British Embassy.

The President and his wife stayed until 2:40 a.m. joining in the dancing to many Berlin tunes of yesteryear.

lacks details and is long outdated when made available.

Executive agencies sometimes invoke "executive privilege" in withholding information, a practice criticized by a special House committee on government information. President Kennedy has taken the position that this privilege may be invoked by agencies only if he authorizes it.

Although Congress has erected few, if any, direct roadblocks in the path of the public's right to know what's going on in the government, it is one of getting access to congressional documents. They are a matter of record somewhere.

Frustrations, difficulties and delays often plague newsmen trying to find out what's going on in the way of congressional junketing or the expenditure of public funds. The information may no longer be news when finally obtained.

For example, the law requires an annual accounting by all congressional committees and legislators on expenses incurred while traveling on official business, either inside or outside the United States.

Beginning New Year

Mrs. Raymond Dyer, left, is shown receiving the charter for the new year for Women in Construction from the past president, Mrs. E. O. Worthan, at a dinner Wednesday evening at Cosden Country Club.

Women In Construction Install New Officers

Mrs. Raymond Dyer was installed as president of Women in Construction Wednesday evening when members met for dinner at the Cosden Country Club. Mrs. H. J. Morrison was the installing officer for the new ceremony that placed Mrs. Tom McAdams as vice president; Mrs. Bob Kelly, secretary; Mrs. Gene Haston, treasurer; Mrs. C. C. Choate, Mrs. Tom Enloe, Mrs. Tim Jones and Mrs. H. D. McElrath directors. Each officer was given a jewel representing her office. Corsages were given the officers by Dyer's City Plumbing Co.

Mrs. Dyer presented Mrs. E. O. Worthan with her past president's pin and also a charm bracelet, a gift from the club members.

Mrs. Worthan, who presided, gave Mrs. Dyer the president's pin, the gavel and the charter for the new year.

Seventeen members were present. The speaker's table was centered with a gilded driftwood log which was colorfully decorated with small flowers and drapes of jewelry.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Moderation Is Keynote In Laraine Day's Life

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD — Laraine Day started in pictures a score of years ago, but she doesn't look it. We were sipping cool drinks and talking about the holiday weekend and how to get a clear, even tan.

"I keep a tan all year," Laraine confessed. "If I can't be in the sun, I use my sun lamp. I start slowly and never overbake myself. I think a little sun is good for your skin—it's the excess that ruins it."

"My religion (Laraine is a Mormon) teaches us moderation. That is why we are forbidden coffee, tea and liquor. They don't want us to become addicts to anything habit forming. Rules of health have been handed down, and we are advised to eat naturally with fruits in season, not too much red meat in hot weather and never to overeat. I have never been in a hospital, and I have never had a serious illness."

"Sometimes people don't appreciate health until it is taken from them. Our religion tries to keep us disciplined and aware of our blessings."

Speaking of excesses, I remarked that the ancient Greeks were told by Socrates to value temperance as the top virtue. "It's when we go to extremes that we get into trouble," Laraine agreed. "I have a terrible fault of not being able to put down an interesting book. When I start to read at night, I sometimes find it's early morning before I put my light out. But I don't do that too often."

"Snacking with T. V. can become a bad habit. I check my weight every morning, and if I'm up two pounds I put myself on a diet immediately."

"If I eat cottage cheese and fruits three times a day, I can get back to normal in 24 hours. I am careful to keep carrot, celery and cucumber sticks in the refrigerator. An iced bowl of these are delicious and a low calorie way of snacking."

I looked around the garden remarking, "I smell sweet peas."

Laraine laughed, "You smell me. It's my favorite perfume. I've never wanted to go steady with any one scent before, but everyone seems to enjoy this. It is a French perfume and wears very well."

TENSE NERVES?

You can release tension when you know a few simple rules. These rules are contained in Leaflet M-98, "How to Release Nervous Tension." For a copy, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Lydia Lane, Hollywood Beauty, Big Spring Herald.

On Moderation

Laraine Day believes that there is enough trouble in the world without the individual making himself miserable with personal emotions. She believes, too, that keeping on an even keel in all respects prevents upsets of most kinds. In today's Hollywood Beauty column she gives a sensible diet.

'Flowers In Flight' Is Planned At BS Garden Club Council Meet

Plans for a forthcoming flower show, "Flowers in Flight," were discussed by members of the Big Spring Garden Club Council Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. J. W. Trantham, 1319 Stadium.

The show is scheduled for Nov. 3 at the Big Spring Country Club, open to the public from 3-7:30 p.m. All clubs in the council are participating in activities. Mrs. Joe Horton, president, announced the names of show chairmen.

Named were Mrs. Trantham of Planters Garden Club, general chairman; Mrs. B. W. Tubb of Four O'Clock Club, schedule; Mrs. W. D. Caldwell of Spaders Club, staging; Mrs. Tom Ivey of After Five Club, publicity; Mrs. J. E. Hogan of Big Spring Club, judges and hospitality; Mrs. Dick Lane of Rosebud Club, clerk and award; Mrs. John Knox and Mrs. D. S. Riley, both of Big Spring Club, classification chairmen; Mrs. R. O. Carothers of Planters Club, entry; Mrs. Guy T. Cook of Four O'Clock Club, education; Mrs. John Balch of Junior Garden Club, junior.

A guest of the council, Mrs. Tubb, explained the schedule planned for the show. She told that Cosden Petroleum Corp. has offered to furnish show programs. Other business discussed was prospective council projects for the year. Proposed projects will be presented to individual clubs at their respective meetings.

It was announced that the Oasis and Spaders Garden clubs will sponsor a class on landscaping at the YMCA, Oct. 11. All council club members are invited to hear Mrs. O. R. Little, district governor and a former national flower show judge, speak.

'ROUND TOWN

With LUCILLE PICKLE

Two Texas Tech juniors from Big Spring have pledged Alpha Chi Omega according to word from the Lubbock college. MARYLYN BIGHAM, daughter of MR. and MRS. IRA BIGHAM, and PRIS RIORDAN, daughter of MR. and MRS. C. V. RIORDAN, are both English majors.

There's great joy in the homes of MR. and MRS. C. E. (PERRY) JOHNSON and MR. and MRS. RICHARD J. SHIELDS. They are grandparents as of Tuesday, MR. and MRS. CHARLEY JOHNSON became the parents of a son, CHARLES CRAIG, who arrived at 11 a.m. at St. Mary's Hospital in St. Louis, Mo. The boy was named for his father and uncle, Kenneth Craig Johnson, both of whom played football for the Big Spring Steers as did their father.

Mrs. Johnson is the former Barbara Shields.

Charley plays football for the St. Louis Cardinals as one of the quarterbacks for the National Football League team.

MRS. AL KLOVEN and her grandmother, MRS. P. C. RAGSDALE, left Wednesday morning for Springfield, Mo., where they will make their home while Mr.

Kloven is stationed at nearby Ft. Leonard Wood.

MR. and MRS. H. H. SQUIRES are in Marshall where Mr. Squires has been admitted to the T&P Hospital for observation.

Recent guests of MR. and MRS. JAKE BRUTON have been her sister, MRS. TOM JENNINGS and Mr. Jennings of San Angelo, and a niece, MRS. H. L. PHINNEY, Mr. Phinney and their son, Mike, of Godley.

MRS. G. E. FLEEMAN has returned from Amarillo where she was the weekend guest of her daughter, MRS. WAYNE PARRISH, and Mr. Parrish. She accompanied another daughter and son-in-law, MRS. C. W. SHAFFER, and Mr. Shafer who live in Lamesa.

MRS. THEO ANDREWS writes from Pecos that she has taken a new lease on life. She has been convalescing from a broken hip suffered in a fall early in August while visiting in the home of a daughter in Pecos. During the past week, she has been able to get around by herself with the aid of a walker, and it has been a big event.

Housewife Vs. Career Woman

By JANICE NELSON

Basically, all women can be placed in one category—they are members of what they prefer to call "the stronger sex." Beyond that stage, there is usually a world of difference between each unpredictable one of them. Today, the greatest chasm in the feminine realm is between the career woman and the housewife.

"GRASS LOOKS GREENER." The grass always looks greener on the other side of the fence." Whoever originated this old phrase must have been referring to the two classes of women. The career woman, regardless of how content she is with her job, occasionally yearns to stay at home, wrapped in her housecoat until after the neighborhood women drop in for coffee at mid-morning.

Clad in fetching casual wear, she can sit around and take it easy. In this dream she imagines having all day to be beautiful for her husband, who will arrive with nothing in mind except to take her out. She views the children, polite at all times, forever healthy; the meals, delicious; the washing, white billowing clouds, like on TV; the ironing, always done, etc. One realistic thought would burst her imaginary balloon into a thousand pieces.

"OH—FOR A COOL OFFICE." "What could be better than a neat, uncluttered desk in the quiet solitude of a cool office, with nothing to do except keep my hair in place and drink coffee?" This ridiculous idea runs through the mind of many a housewife when Johnny runs in with a freshly-punched nose just about the time the beans boil over and the phone rings. Before she realizes that this is just one cloud in a clear sky, she thinks about the serenity of that "working woman" across the street, who is always attractive and fashionably dressed. On the other hand, that immaculate woman, given the chance, would most likely tell her a thing or two.

For instance, she could say that frequently, prying herself out of bed, she goes to the closet to find absolutely nothing to wear. What then? She erects that familiar ironing board and selects something from that mountain of ironing. It usually has a button missing or a few inches out of the hem. By some miracle, she gets to the office, sometimes on time, sometimes not.

Upon her arrival, she sits down to her desk, and what happens? She snags a rumble in her hose, bought the day before. Next, she starts digging through the litter on her desk, and finds a letter that should have been mailed the day before, but was "somehow forgotten." She might also clue the neighbor in on the other problems of the working woman, having flats on cars and running out of gasoline.

BOTH LUCKY

All American women are lucky; they're lucky to be women, most of them being able to choose the life they want to lead, whether it be that of a housewife or a career woman. Both sets have their "dog days," and they must learn to deal with them.

Junior Tri-Hi-Y Elects Officers

Officers for the Runnels and Goliad seventh grade Tri-Hi-Y were elected and a report was made by the Runnels Council member when the meeting was held Tuesday evening.

Jeanie Johnson is president; Connie Carver, vice president; Janie Irwin, secretary; Jan Lane, treasurer; Jerry Stroup, chaplain; Linda Walker, historian; Laura Parks, parliamentarian; Virginia Wise, reporter.

Ann Heith and Sonia Whittington are council members from Runnels and Goliad Junior High Schools.

Miss Heith told the members of the spring conference that will be held in Big Spring the first week in May. Members are expected from El Paso, San Angelo, Midland and Odessa.

Four social affairs are allowed each semester and a discussion was held on the types members desired. A membership drive is now in progress. Those bringing in the greatest number of new members will be given a free membership.

Lane Family Has Reunion

The reunion of the Lane family is to become an annual affair, it has been announced. The gathering of the descendants of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Russell Lane, pioneer settlers in Comanche County, was held recently in Abilene. Roy Tubbs, Big Spring, is a vice president of the reunion, and Mrs. Juanita Lewis is the publicity chairman. Tammie Lee Cole, Big Spring, was the youngest person to attend the reunion and Mrs. Joe Cole, Big Spring, had the most children present. Other local participants included Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Wright and children, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Wright and children, Mrs. Milton Lewis and children, Mr. and Mrs. Max Cole and children.

Mrs. Lewis Is Elected

WESTBROOK (SC)—Mrs. T. E. Lewis was elected president of the Ruth Sunday School class of the First Baptist Church at a Tuesday morning meeting. Also elected were Mrs. H. E. Sullivan, vice president; Mrs. W. E. Smith Jr., secretary; Mrs. Jerry Cunningham, assistant secretary; Mrs. Charles Ranne, treasurer; Mrs. Herman Parsons, reporter; and Mrs. Rex McKenney and Mrs. Royce Moore, recreation.

Mrs. Troy Lankford and Mrs. Smith were co-hostesses with the meeting being held in Mrs. Lankford's home. A short business meeting was held during which members voted to have secret pals for the next month. Mrs. Ranne, Mrs. Bell and Mrs. Gerald Rollins were appointed to make the new year books.

Nine members were served refreshments during the social hour. Next hostess will be Mrs. Bell.

Mrs. Arnor Named Methodist Leader

Mrs. Frank Arnor was elected chairman of the Evening Circle of Kentwood Methodist WSCS, Monday evening at the church.

Other officers named were Mrs. Weldon Nuckolls, vice chairman; Mrs. John Whitaker, secretary-treasurer.

The group began a new study course, "The Rim of East Asia," with Mrs. Raymond Hamby, study leader. Mrs. Cliff Hale took part on the program. Six members attended the meeting.

B. D. Taylors Have Visitors In Home

WESTBROOK (SC)—Guests of Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Taylor last week were her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Davis, Roswell, N. M., Mr. and Mrs. Yancy, Mr. and Mrs. Smith, Big Spring, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Earl D. Taylor and family, Colorado City, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Taylor and children, Mrs. Robert Wood and Robert Jr., Abilene and Tine Sparks, Spade.

Mrs. Birkhead Complimented

COAHOMA—Mrs. K. G. Birkhead, who has taught school for 24 years, 17 of them in Coahoma, was honored at a retirement party, Monday evening, in the activity room of Coahoma High School. Mrs. Birkhead retired at the end of the spring term this year.

Fifty guests were received by the hostesses, Mrs. Perry Moring, Mrs. Ernest Garrett, Mrs. Henry Beard, Mrs. J. A. Westmoreland and Mrs. B. B. Birkhead.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Ray Smith of Big Spring.

Refreshments were served from a table featuring a combination of the school and autumn themes. The table, laid with a hand-stitched cloth applied with autumn leaves, was centered with a miniature red school house placed on a pedestal above an arrangement of apples and leaves.

Presenting at the crystal service were Mrs. Gerald Oakes and Mrs. Paul Allen. Other members of the house party were Mrs. Phil Wynn, Mrs. Bill Easterling, R. S. Higgins and Rob Etheridge.

Master of ceremonies, W. A. Fishback, presented a gift to Mrs. Birkhead. Mrs. Moring read a poem, which she composed, in tribute of the honoree, and Mrs. Beard gave a sketch of Mrs. Birkhead's teaching history. Games, representing school subjects, were played by the group.

Man-Made Breakfasts Should Be Praised

By The Associated Press
Even men who say they spurn cooking will, on gentle prodding, reveal a secret recipe.

It was just such prodding that got us this really excellent recipe for griddle cakes.

The man who gave it to us never goes near the kitchen on week days. But come Saturday or Sunday, he's likely to get up earlier than the rest of his family and produce a simple breakfast that includes these pancakes.

Our Man is efficient, takes shortcuts—and enjoys himself. First thing he does when he gets into the kitchen is to start the coffee. That's so he can sip a cup of the strong hot brew in luxurious quiet while he's cooking.

Next bacon goes on his electric griddle. Then out comes a can of frozen concentrated orange juice from the freezer to be diluted and aerated. Yes, Our Man is great on aeration. He says that you pour the orange juice at a height from one container to another, you aerate it and improve the flavor. Maybe yes, maybe no; try it and judge for yourself.

When the bacon's crisp, he drains it on brown paper and keeps it hot in the warming oven. Then he carefully wipes off (with paper toweling) the salted bacon grease from the griddle and re-anoints the surface with vegetable oil.

While he's cooking the bacon, he dumps the pancake ingredients into an electric blender. When the he's ready to receive the batter, he whizzes it together and starts his baking.

No calling the family necessary! By this time the good smell of percolating coffee and frying bacon have sent their messages. Everyone's in the kitchen downing orange juice. Bacon and griddle cakes are ready! Plates in hand, the family's ready to eat, grin and praise.

MAN-MADE PANCAKES
2 cups milk
1 cup flour
1/2 cup wheat germ
2 eggs
1 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt
2 tsp. salad oil

Put all the ingredients, in the order given, in the electric blender. Blend until well mixed. Let batter stand a few minutes to reduce aeration. Ladle pancake batter onto a hot (350 degrees) electric griddle that has been greased with vegetable oil. When the top surface of the pancakes is almost dry, turn the cakes. If you haven't an electric blender, use a rotary beater (hand or electric) to beat all the ingredients together thoroughly.

Food Editor's Note: Don't worry if this griddle cake batter seems on the thin side. It bakes beautifully. For a regular size family, use the recipe as is. For two or three eaters, halve the ingredients.

Bake Round-Up Casserole On Spur-Of-The-Moment

Chill winter winds bring the crowd around more and more often for gab-sessions over cups of piping hot coffee. And, not infrequently, the whole gang may stay on for dinner. This being the case, you'll want to be prepared with ingredients for several quick and easy entrees. And what could be more practical than selecting your menu from an assortment of easy-to-prepare packaged dinners—macaroni and cheese, chicken noodle or spaghetti and sauce. All are tasty, nutritious and economical—and too, they take so little shelf space.

One of our favorite spur-of-the-moment entrees is this Round-up Casserole. All you need is a macaroni and cheese dinner and a packet of dried beef. It's so flavorful and just right for satisfying cold-weather appetites. You'll love the tender macaroni and the creamy good cheese sauce mixed with chunks of dried beef. Serve with assorted relishes, salad and hot buttered bread.

ROUND-UP CASSEROLE
1 pkg. macaroni and cheese dinner
1 pound sliced dried beef
1/4 cup margarine
1/4 cup flour
2 cups milk

Prepare the packaged dinner as directed. Sauté the dried beef in the margarine. Blend in the flour; add the milk and cook until thickened. Combine the macaroni and cheese dinner with dried beef mixture.

Plan Ahead Tip

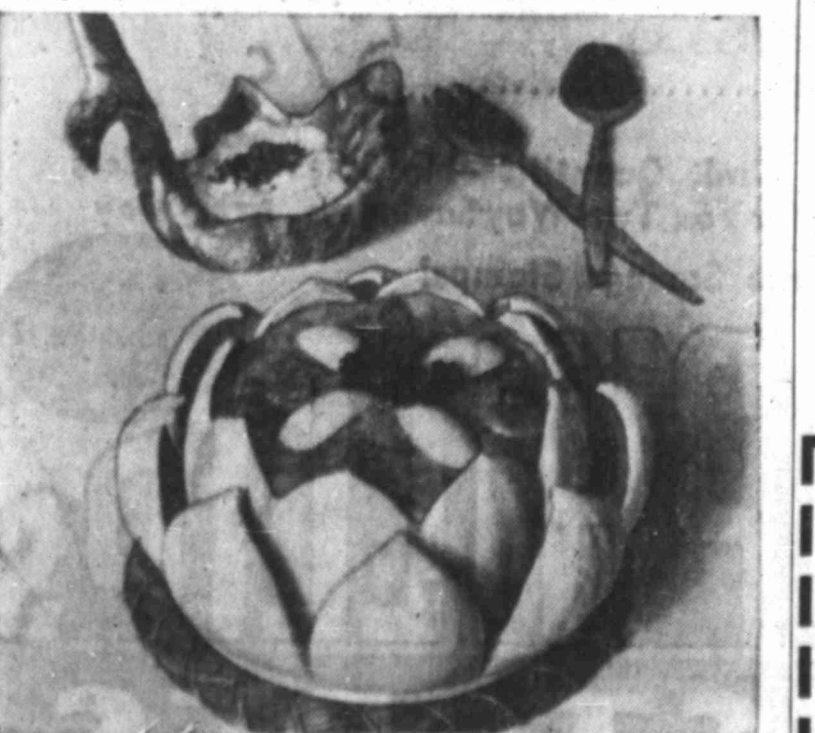

With time on your hands plus a freezer, you can make ice-cream balls out of various flavors, then freeze-wrap and freezer-store them. Nice to have on hand when guests come. All you have to do before serving is to add a sauce; or use the ice cream balls in a cake or pie dessert.

Salmon-Egg Casserole Inexpensive-Elegant

Here is a dish, delicious at any time of the year, in which tender, appetizing flakes of salmon are blended and baked with rice, eggs, and delicate spices. Simple to prepare, this casserole is inexpensively elegant and eminently satisfying as a main course for luncheon, dinner, or supper. It may be made early in the day and heated half an hour before mealtime.

SALMON-EGG CASSEROLE
1/4 cup butter
1 medium onion, chopped
1 cup chopped celery
1/4 cup flour
1/2 tsp. basil
1/4 tsp. thyme

1 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
1 1/2 cups milk
2 cups cooked rice
1 lb. can salmon, drained and flaked
6 hard-cooked eggs, quartered
In a saucepan melt butter. Add onion and celery and cook for 10 minutes. Stir in flour, basil, thyme, salt and pepper. Gradually stir in milk and cook over low heat, stirring, until sauce is smooth and thick. Arrange rice in bottom of a 2-quart greased baking dish. Top with salmon and eggs. Pour in sauce and bake in a preheated 350 degree F. oven for 25 to 30 minutes. If desired, serve with sour cream. Serves 6.

You Eat It, Too

Although the salmon-egg casserole is picture-pretty, it's a delectable dish. It's easy to make. Serve it with hot French bread or rolls and a tossed salad.

Kasch Named To Board Of State National Bank

Fred Kasch, general manager for A. P. Kasch & Sons, has been named to the board of directors of the State National Bank.

R. W. Currie, president, announced his election Wednesday following a meeting of the board of directors to name a successor to the late A. L. Cooper.

Kasch is associated with his father, A. P. Kasch, and his brother, Paul Kasch, in general contracting.

Reared in Big Spring, he was graduated from the high school here in 1937 and attended Texas A&M College, Midway in his senior year, however, he entered service and did not get to complete work on his BBA degree until 1947.

He returned to Big Spring and joined with his father, who long had been a plumbing contractor, in bidding on small jobs as general contractor. The following year Fred Kasch completed his schooling and became associated with the firm. Its growth has been steady and substantial, and today it is one of the largest general contracting firms in this area. Currently jobs, aggregating several million dollars, are underway at Canyon, Lubbock, Austin, Ennis, Munster, Ballinger, and Brownwood as well as Big Spring.

Fred Kasch was married in 1946 to Maudine Majors in Bryan. They have three children, Cheryl, Don and Karen, and make their home at 518 Edwards. They are Methodists, and he is a member of the A&M Club and of Associated General Contractors.

Arab Nationalism May Keep Communism Out Of N. Africa

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP)—Algeria will not go Communist, largely because of the wave of Arab nationalism in North Africa, Richard K. O'Malley told the Associated Press Managing Editors Association.

"I don't think the Communists will ever get a great foothold in North Africa," O'Malley, chief of The Associated Press bureau in Paris, said Wednesday. "The Reds have done badly there, and elsewhere in the Arab world. And they also have not fared well in Iraq."

O'Malley, who directs the AP coverage in North Africa, said he feels the United States was "very astute to recognize an independent Algeria, but not to recognize a government there."

"Which way Algeria will go remains to be seen," he said. "I of Moslems who lived in the hills. He said Ahmed Ben Bella is in a good position to hold his government as long as the army under Col. Houari Boumediene backs him.

O'Malley described Boumediene as "a man to be careful of. He is an admirer of Mao Tse-tung, Castro and Khrushchev. He doesn't like Caucasians. His political future may determine which way Algeria will go, and he has a great deal of influence."

North Africans, he said, have a concept called "Maghreb," of merging Tunisia, Algeria and Morocco. "I don't know if they will ever join, but if they do it could be a force for good or evil for us. These new nations will have a lot to say in the East-West struggle."

Negro Gets Degree At Georgia U.

ATHENS, Ga. (AP)—The University of Georgia has awarded a degree to a Negro for the first time in its history.

Miss Mary Frances Early of Atlanta received her master's diploma in music education last Friday.

Miss Early, now teaching in Atlanta, attended three terms of the university to do her graduate work.

The university was desegregated under federal court orders early last year.

Bait-Caster, Blood-Letter

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Charles Kennemur of Little Rock, an avid fisherman, donated a pint of blood and practiced casting at the same time.

He said he was trying to demonstrate how easy it is to give blood. The University of Arkansas Medical Center, where he donated the blood, absolved itself of blame for the stunt with a written release signed by Kennemur.

Kennemur stood on a hospital patio Wednesday and practiced casting with his right hand while a nurse inserted the needle into the left arm.

He said he had given blood 23 times. The Arkansas Heart Association said it was having trouble getting people to give blood for open heart operations.

My Fair Lady Still Swamps Box Office

NEW YORK (AP)—A clamorous jam of women show fans delayed Wednesday's matinee performance of "My Fair Lady" for 15 minutes.

The musical closes Saturday night after the longest run in Broadway history, 2,717 performances. There has been a sharp surge of box-office activity all week, and a management spokesman said the rush reached a peak for this afternoon's showing.

The curtain was held up until the lobby congestion eased and all ticket-holders had a chance to get through the crowd into the theater.

Seeking Purchase

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The Federal Electricity Commission says it is negotiating for the purchase of the City of Tijuana's electric system. A commission spokesman said the commission seeks to operate the Tijuana system in connection with the plant the commission is building at Rosarito, south of Tijuana.

Time-Saving Discovery Made By Housewife

Late last fall, a Florida housewife wrote to the No-Roach Co.—"For years now, I have been adding a cupful of No-Roach to the rinse water, when mopping my floors. This has kept roaches, ants, and spiders out of my home. What puzzles me—is why don't you ever mention this?"

Well, dear readers, it just goes to show... The manufacturers of No-Roach had never thought of it before. They experimented, it works, and now this advice is featured on their new No-Roach label. Thanks to a very bright housewife.

If you've got bugs at home, get a bottle of Johnston's No-Roach and try it.

How To Ascertain How You're Doing

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Because Gus Kooles had spent such an uncomfortable night in a hospital, he began to worry about his condition.

Wanting to find out first hand what his condition really was, Kooles said he went to a telephone in the corridor and dialed the hospital.

"Could you tell me the condition of Gus Kooles?" he asked.

"His condition is good and he had a very good night," was the answer he got from the hospital.

U.S. Agrees To Sell Israel Hawk Antiaircraft Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has agreed to sell Israel Hawk antiaircraft missiles to strengthen its defenses against the growing military capability of neighboring Arab states equipped with arms supplied by the Soviet Union.

The deal is expected to be completed soon and the United States plans to train Israeli operators for the missiles in this country. Officials disclosed the agreement in principle Wednesday night and described the Hawk as a purely defensive weapon which will be provided to Israel on a straight sale basis, not involving U.S. military aid.

For years, the stated policy of the U.S. government has been not to add fuel to the Middle East arms race. But, under this policy, the United States has sold limited quantities of military equipment to Israel and to the Arab states, declaring the arms were defensive in nature.

Egypt and Syria have been building up supplies of Soviet arms, including jet bombers, during the past two years or so. Recently, U.S. officials said, Iraq obtained short range antiaircraft missiles from Moscow. Officials said this was the decisive event in Washington's decision to sell missiles to Israel.

Israel and the Arab states are still technically in a state of hostility and it appeared to be a foregone conclusion Arab governments would object violently to the U.S. action.

This Chipmunk Is Show-Stopper

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — A chipmunk stopped the show at a movie theater here amid the screams and squeals of a lady shoppers audience.

The little rodent made its appearance in the balcony Wednesday after the show had started.

The ladies promptly charged for the exits, the lights went on, and the projector stopped. One woman incurred a bloody nose in a fall down some stairs.

The chipmunk disappeared. And the show started again.

DEAR ABBY

Mother's Corner

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 and am having mother trouble. I am treated like a slave around the house. I have to do all the dishes and clean my room thoroughly every day. I am made to hang up all my clothes the minute I take them off. What are mothers for anyway? Once I decided not to do anything right hoping my mother would get disgusted and do it herself, but she made me do it over again. Now I have to look after my little brothers because the doctor said my mother needs more rest. I have my school work to do and would like to get out of the house to be with my friends once in a while. My mother reads some letters out loud to me from your column. Please be on my side so I can read your answer to her.

SLAVE
DEAR SLAVE: I'm afraid this is another one your mother is going to read out loud to you: Anything you can do around the house to lighten your mother's burden, you should do willingly. You are getting excellent training in housekeeping, personal neatness and child care. Appreciate your mother and her efforts to make a tidy, well-organized young lady of you. You will never live long enough to repay her. And, unfortunately, neither will she.

DEAR ABBY: Our daddy is in his second childhood. He is 51 and the woman he is dating is 28, and people are talking. We are two sisters, 24 and 27, both happily married. Mamma died two years ago. We don't object to daddy's seeking companionship, but don't you think he could find someone nearer his own age? Could he be mentally off? We are too embarrassed to discuss this with our pastor.

CONCERNED
DEAR CONCERNED: Perhaps your daddy is a "young" 51 and the woman he's dating is a mature 28. When two "grown-up" people are mutually attracted, age is only a number. Be glad your father isn't camping on your doorstep, moping and growing lonelier and more miserable with the years.

DEAR ABBY: I am 12 years old and all my life I have wanted to be a doctor. My only trouble is I can't stand the sight of blood. I get sick at my stomach just looking at the needle the doctor is going to give me a shot with. I can't bear to put a fish hook through a worm and I get weak in the knees when I watch my father clean fish. Does a person outgrow this feeling or do you think I ought to teach school?

BRUCE
DEAR BRUCE: You'll never know until you try. Take biology in school. If you can dissect a frog without getting jumpy, you've outgrown it.

Unload your problems on Abby. For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, care of the Big Spring Herald.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Nimble Fingers

The nimble fingers of Mrs. Bedford Underwood, today's culinary artist, have been busy recently cutting out and stitching choir robes for the Webb AFB Chapel. She is shown above displaying the finished product.

Newcomer To Town Is Busy Cooking, Sewing

A Big Spring resident of a few weeks, Mrs. Bedford Underwood is already caught up in civic and church affairs. At present, she is busy herself sewing 50 choir robes for the Webb AFB Chapel; although she still takes time out for her favorite hobby, cooking.

Although she cooks only for herself and her husband, a colonel at Webb, the results are appreciated, for he is a hearty eater. Native East Texans, both are pleased to return to the land of black-eyed peas. There is nothing more appealing to their appetites than a meal centered around fresh vegetables.

The Underwoods enjoy dining at a Mexican restaurant; however, it is unnecessary for them to go out to eat that type of food. She lists enchiladas, tacos, fried beans and Spanish rice as some of her "exotic" specialties.

Though Mrs. Underwood's home boasts a few souvenirs of her 20-month visit to Japan, she prefers the American style of cooking to that of the Japanese.

She lists recipes for a meat dish, vegetables and a dessert for today's readers.

Buy Holiday Turkey At Low Price

By The Associated Press

Now's a good time to talk turkey at supermarket meat counters.

Stores are seeking to clear-out the 103.6 million pounds of birds now in storage to make way for the 1.3 billion pounds coming from the new fall crop.

Several national chains are featuring turkeys this weekend at prices ranging upward from 29 cents a pound.

Other poultry features this weekend include large baking hens — especially in the Southwest, whole broiler-fryers and fryer parts.

Red meat attractions include selections for beef, pork and lamb.

In the Northeast, beef attractions include round roasts, chuck roasts and steaks and rib steaks.

Baby beef steaks and roasts are featured in the Southeast, while beef pot roasts and rib roasts are the stars of Midwestern markets.

Pork attractions regionally include loin roasts, chops, bacon, sausage, shoulder steaks and Boston butt roasts.

Other features include leg of lamb chops.

Fruit selections include apples, grapes, pears, plums and melons.

Vegetable features include green beans, cabbage, carrots, celery, cucumbers, onions, peppers, fall potatoes, squash, sweet potatoes and turnips.

Eat 'High On The Hog' By Serving Hamburger Of Frosting

AP Newfeatures
Hamburger is still the best buy at the meat counter, advises a man who ought to know.

A butcher 50 years, Henry Clint Bennett will retire soon after serving factory workers, famous personalities and New York commuters in Fairfield County.

"Meat is very high, but it is possible still to cut the food budget," he says. "Breast of veal and lamb and beef plate have too much waste, but a pound of hamburger will assure you of four large or six small patties. Or a meat loaf."

You can live high off the hog, cow or lamb, however, by taking advantage of good meat buys in season, learning to use leftovers, and understanding meat cuts, he points out.

COOKING TIPS

"The first cut of chuck can be cooked in the oven like roast beef. This is true too for the lean bread-and-butter cut from the shoulder called cross rib or arm roast. Broiled flank steak is delicious all solid meat. Pork is cheap in winter. Lamb is a good buy in spring. Beef liver is always a bargain. Chicken always helps balance off the meat budget," he says.

Bennett began butchering at 15 years of age when butchers made their own sausage, hot dogs and baloney.

"But price really isn't a big item as it was in the olden days when my father-in-law threatened to close his butcher shop because the price of beef carcasses went from six to nine cents a pound," he says.

Bennett, an Army cook in World War II, claims his late wife, a domestic science teacher, was a good cook.

LAZY COOKS

"But women don't go to much trouble anymore," he says, "some prefer ready-cooked or frozen dinners and do not know how to prepare leftovers."

Some of his customers managed to save on their meat bills by returning the meat after they'd eaten a little. A woman who shops for price rather than quality can get stuck. He explains:

"Some butchers buy a cattle carload, getting only a few good pieces out of maybe 30 head. Wholesalers save the quality meat for butchers who must have it, and give lower grade meat to 'price' butchers."

Difference, though, between "prime" and "choice" beef is negligible—one man's opinion, the grader's, he emphasizes.

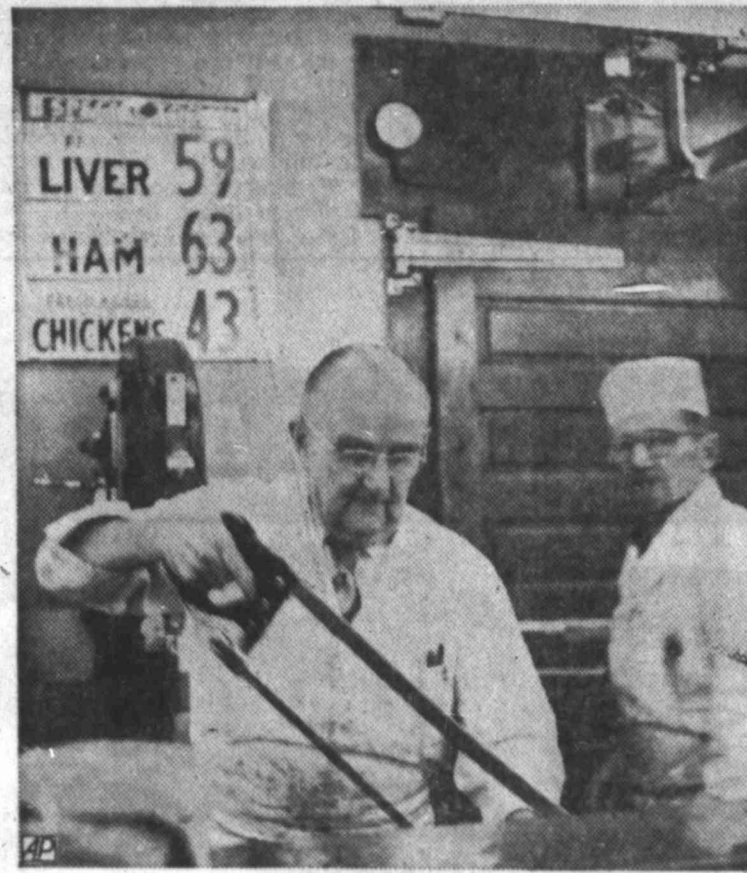

He piled a butcher wagon through these hills until 1943, when more people had cars and could get to the market," he says.

THE OLD DAYS

"But today's meat doesn't have that old-time flavor. They don't grow cattle to maturity—two or three years—as in the olden days. They are too eager, taking them at about 18 months, growing them faster and bigger, but that's all."

Talk about the cholesterol content of meat hasn't cut into sales.

Mellowness Is Secret Of Frosting

When you're expecting a gathering of the clan — friends, relatives or neighbors—treat them to an old Scottish favorite, a butter-scotch frosted cake. As traditionally Scotch as the thistle, butter-scotch has a sweet mellowness all its own, and the tawny frosting lends opulence to the simplest cake.

With butterscotch morsels, you can whip up a light and delicious frosting in minutes. Thanks to the morsels, the frosting captures all the old-fashioned butterscotch flavor while by-passing all the old-fashioned risk of burning sugar. Make your cake from a mix if you're short of time, and just blend the easy-melting butterscotch morsels with cream cheese and confectioners' sugar for the frosting. To give the cake a special flair, set a tiara of walnuts into frosting swirls around the top.

BUTTERSCOTCH FROSTING
1 6-oz. package (1 cup) butterscotch morsels
1 pkg. (8 oz.) cream cheese, softened
1/4 tsp. salt

2 1/4 cups sifted confectioners' sugar (approximately)
Melt butterscotch morsels over hot (not boiling) water. Blend cream cheese and salt. Stir in melted morsels until smooth. Gradually beat in sugar until of spreading consistency.

Yield: Frosting for two 8 or 9-inch cake layers.

A Devotional For The Day

You do not get what you want, because you do not pray for it. Or, if you do, your requests are not granted because you pray from wrong motives, to spend what you get on your pleasures. (James 4:2-3. NEB.)

PRAYER: Our Father, we thank Thee for Thy loving care toward us. We praise Thy name for victory over sin through Jesus Christ Thy Son. Help us to remain in communion with Thee, always watching in prayer. In the name of Christ we ask these things. Amen.

(From The 'Upper Room')

Encouraging Paving Developments

A gratifying development is the reception thus far given the continuing assessment program. The city commission has ordered hearings in the initial increment of 26 blocks.

Included in these are some urgently needed projects such as the stretch on Goliad from the Goliad Junior High to Marcy Drive.

A particularly heartening development is the number of streets on the northside which are included in the program. Half of the blocks approved by the city commission are in that part of the city, notably the northwest quarter. Some of the latter work will make the Banks Addition far more accessible.

Few things can provide as much incentive for additional improvement as can pavement. While there is nothing sociological in an inert mass such as paving, curbed and paved streets can stimulate a civic pride that does have its own expression.

Results are not assured until the hearings are held, but we are encouraged at the showing so far made.

Quality As Well As Equality

The United States Supreme Court's Baker vs. Carr ruling is expected in time to give America's urban voters fairer representation, numerically, in state legislatures. But that in itself will not assure more intelligent legislative handling of municipal problems and state-city relations.

What is as widely needed in this country as equality of representation is a higher quality of representation. For constructive consideration of their problems in state legislatures, the urban areas need not merely more votes in the legislatures but representatives who understand those problems and are competent to contribute to their solution.

In the recent convention in Philadelphia of the American Municipal Association, the point was made bluntly by Speaker J. D. McCarthy of the Oklahoma House of Representatives. "As a member of the Oklahoma Legislature for 22 years, I have often wondered why some of the members from even the largest cities know so little about municipal problems." The performances of all too many urban representatives in the Texas Legislature could evoke the same wonder.

It is a rare state legislator who is thoroughly well informed on the problems with which municipal government must deal daily, or even spends enough time in city hall to find out what those problems are. It is not untypical for the state legislator to consider municipal officialdom as just another lobby whose influence must be expediently weighed, rather than as a public interest which he should represent.

All this is not said to the disparagement of any particular legislator. It is said as an admonition to all legislators from urban areas to recognize their responsibility for better municipal government, and to city voters to seek out legislative candidates who evidence genuine interest in and knowledge of municipal problems. Without that, the anticipated reform will prove disappointing in concrete results.

Fateful Decision On Cuba

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy in his speeches likes to refer to his troubles — particularly Cuba — as having been "inherited" from the Eisenhower administration. Former President Truman says in his political outbursts that Mr. Eisenhower was a "lazy" President. The real question is not how much time a President gives to golf or yachting or campaigning or social events, but how he uses the time he does give to official business — the kind of decisions he makes.

MEMBERS OF CONGRESS have in the last few days put into the "Congressional Record" a lengthy article that was published two weeks ago in "U.S. News & World Report" giving a comprehensive account of the fateful decision President Kennedy made when he first withdrew and then — when it was too late — actually approved of air support for the Cuban exiles in their invasion of their homeland in April 1961.

Ever since that time there have been attempts to blame the whole fiasco on the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff or on the Central Intelligence Agency. But President Kennedy told the truth when he himself assumed full responsibility. What hasn't been generally known, however, is how he came to make the mistake he did. The magazine article was the result of many weeks of investigation and research among official sources, particularly among persons who were in the know at the time. Certain administration officials have since conceded the accuracy of the article. It reads in part as follows:

"A FATEFUL DECISION, made by President Kennedy on Sunday, April 16, 1961, is rising now to plague the U.S. On that Sunday evening, an armed force of Cuban refugees, trained secretly by the United States, was at sea, sailing secretly to invade Fidel Castro's Cuba. The American President, a few hours earlier, had given final approval to that invasion.

"Only the day before, on April 15, a surprise attack by B-26 bombing planes belonging to the invaders had knocked out all but seven planes of Castro's tiny air force.

"A SECOND AIR strike was scheduled for Monday morning, April 17. It was to coincide with the landing of the invaders. It was supposed to finish the job of wiping out Castro's planes and to provide air support for the invasion.

"Secure in the assurance of air support, the invaders went ashore in the early-morning darkness of Monday, April 17. Their landing was successful: 1,400 armed men reached the beaches of a place called the Bay of Pigs.

"In the battle that followed, Castro's troops suffered heavy casualties. Castro's tanks, coming up to the battle, were sitting ducks for an attack by air. Confidently, the little invading force waited for its air support to arrive. Its leaders had assurance of that support. It was provided in the pre-invasion planning.

"HOURS BEFORE, on Sunday evening, a small but potent force of B-26's was sitting in readiness on an airfield 500 miles away (in a Latin-American country), waiting to take off for the Bay of Pigs. Those were planes of the invasion force, with Cuban pilots. But those planes didn't take off. The reason: President Kennedy forbade their use.

"When the invasion began, in the pre-dawn hours of Monday, the need of air support became apparent. Worried, the nonmilitary officials in Washington who were running the invasion went to President Kennedy for a new decision. They suggested that U. S. Navy planes from a U. S. aircraft carrier be used to fly air support for the invaders.

"IN THE PLANNING of the invasion — planning begun under the Eisenhower administration — the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff had recommended the use of U. S. air support. President Kennedy vetoed the idea. He insisted that there was to be no direct American participation. Now, with the outcome possibly hanging in the balance, military and nonmilitary men joined in renewing the plea.

"Once again, in the early-morning hours of Monday, April 17, President Kennedy made a fateful decision. He said 'no' to the use of U. S. planes.

"WITH NO AIR support, the invasion soon began to run into trouble. . . . In the face of this situation, President Kennedy took the wraps off the Cuban fliers. On Monday noon he said they could go into action. But bad weather interfered at first. Finally, an air strike was set up for early Wednesday.

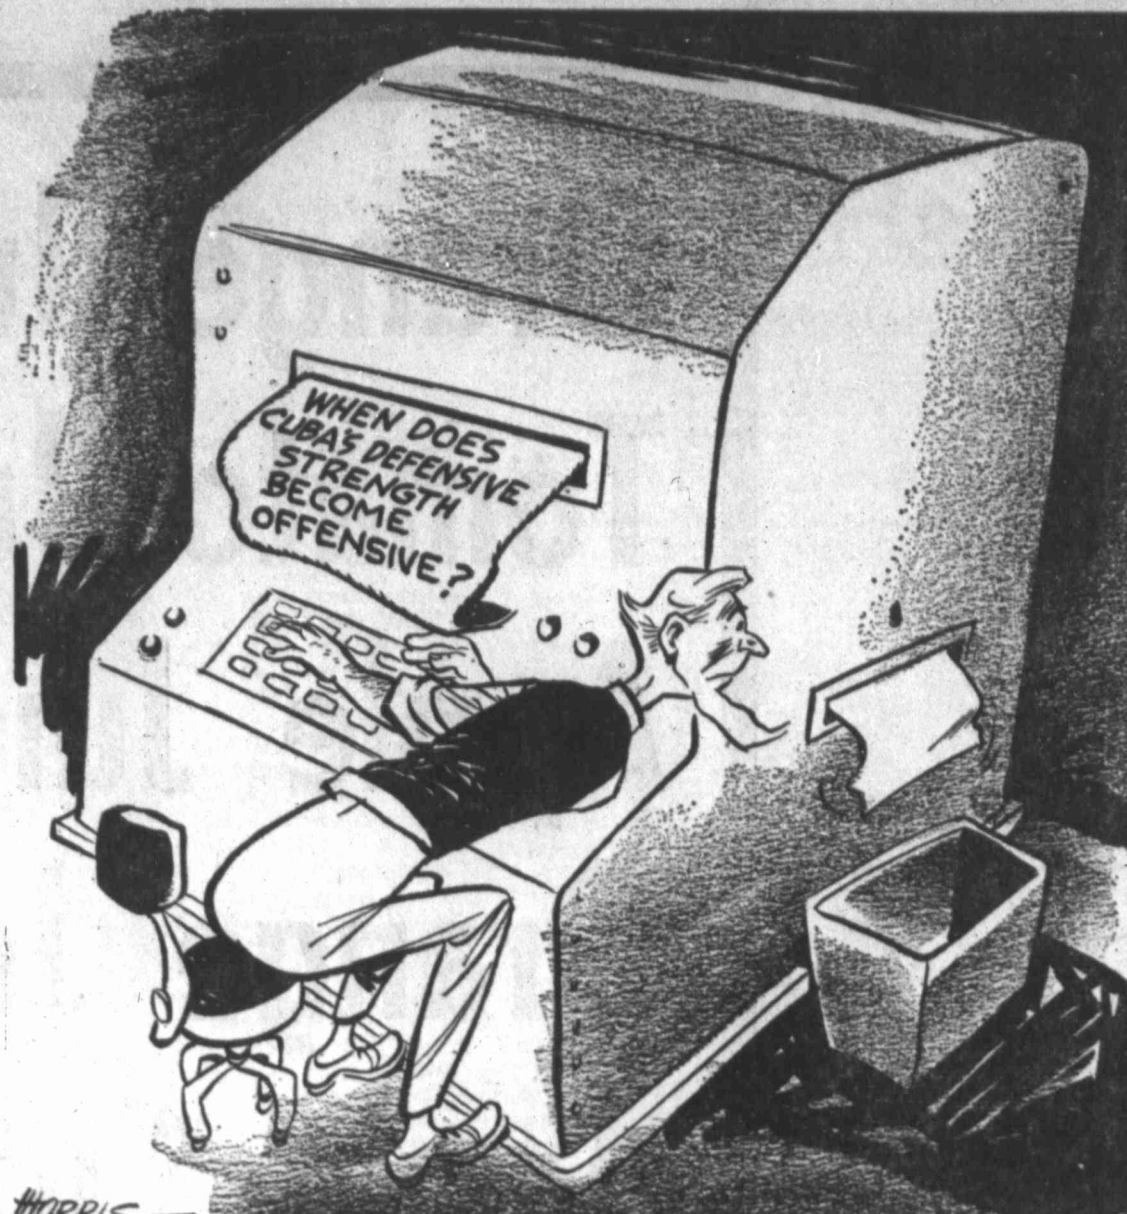

"On Tuesday, however, the situation continued to deteriorate. . . . By Tuesday night, April 18, a crisis was clearly at hand. Once again there was an appeal to President Kennedy. On this night the President, in white tie and tails, was playing host at a congressional reception in the White House. He left the party to confer with his advisers — both civilian and military. Again it was proposed to use U. S. planes to save the invasion.

"THIS TIME the President relented slightly. He consented to using one carrier's planes for just one hour on Wednesday morning — just long enough to provide cover for the invaders to land some supplies and for their planes to make a quick strike. U. S. planes, still, were not to attack land targets.

"Even this limited plan for U. S. aid went awry. There were communications mixups. The Cuban fliers mistimed their strike. The U. S. planes never got into action. And anyway, it developed, it was too late. By sundown of Wednesday, April 19, the invasion was a failure. The invaders inflicted close to 2,000 casualties on Castro's forces, suffered only a hundred or so casualties of their own. But without air support, the invaders could not hold out. Most of them wound up as Castro captives."

CRITICISM and analysis in retrospect by those who know the whole story is concentrated today on one point — full authority should be given in advance and a military operation should be handled by military men near the battle scene and not many hundreds of miles away in the White House or even in the Pentagon.

Kennedy Reflects Business Thoughts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Almost any question-and-answer session with President Kennedy has some kind of bang in it. But Wednesday's, for business editors and publishers, hardly produced a bang.

Newsmen who cover the regular news conferences were barred from quizzing the President Wednesday, although there was much they would have liked to ask about Cuba, Mississippi and other places. There was no television or radio broadcast.

This was strictly for business editors and their bosses and only they could ask questions. Naturally enough, they asked business questions.

AND THE President answered them pretty much in a business-like way but still in a way that gave a foretaste of some ideas he'll try to put across in this year's election campaigns.

Before anything was asked he admitted the economy was not in an ideal condition yet but said it had been moving under him to ward fulfillment of a number of goals.

He said unemployment is still too high, this country's ability to produce isn't being used to its fullest and there is still economic distress in certain regions.

Ever since last spring when Kennedy angrily pushed the steel industry into calling off its sudden and unexpected price increase, relations between business and the Kennedy administration could hardly be described as happy.

SO THE business editors, or some of them, probably expected Kennedy to turn the conference into a kiss-and-make-up get-together. He didn't.

It was all pleasant enough. Certainly it was polite. Kennedy drew laughs several times with his quips. And he did nothing to antagonize the men and women facing him.

But, when it was over, it was clear Kennedy hadn't tried to be cozy, either.

Right at the start one editor handed him an opportunity which Kennedy must have been hoping for: A chance to talk about relations between his administration and business.

He was asked about being sensitive to the "alleged" hostility of the business world. Kennedy's answer was like saying, "I'm glad you asked. The frankness of his answer may have surprised his listeners."

HE SAID there has been a traditional difference between Democratic administrations and most businessmen and the former haven't barked very heavily on the amount of political support they could expect from business.

Then he rebuked businessmen for failing to give him the kind of support he felt should have been forthcoming for his tax revision bill which Congress badly chafed up.

The White House had sponsored this conference of business editors and publishers just as in the past a number of times it has arranged conferences here for newspaper, magazine, television and radio people.

In such sessions a number of top government officials talk to the visitors and answer their questions. At the windup the President does the same.

THIS MAY provide these molders of public opinion with some insight into the administration's problems and thinking.

Get Off The World

NEW YORK (AP) — Sidewalk comments of a Pavement Plato: Sometimes modern civilization seems like two fellows riding on a roller coaster and each screaming in the other's ear, "What we need to do is relax!"

But neither wants to be the first to get off the roller coaster, although they don't seem to be riding to any place in particular.

The go-getter—the eternal hustler—is the 20th Century American hero, and that may explain most of the things that are wrong with the 20th Century.

There was a long period in our history when the dawdler, the lunker, the man who sat down and whittled while he thought a thing through, was our national folk hero.

He became part of the American legend, but now he seems either to be forgotten or a figure of amused contempt.

How long has it been since you actually saw a man sit down, take up a piece of wood and whittle on it? How long since you did this yourself? Can you even remember?

The motto today is: "Don't just stand there. Do something. Anything!"

If you can't do anything else, have a nervous breakdown. At least then you're getting something done.

Man still doesn't know how his glands operate, but he is involved in a vast and costly race to see who can get to the moon first. Before he even understands himself, he wants to be a go-getter on a cosmic scale.

It takes a lot of courage anygarded as either downright immoral or a roadblock in the path of progress. This is because we tend to confuse mere bustle with actual achievement.

Actually, it is the constructive dawdler who is the real mainspring of progress. He is no craven prisoner of an endless sense of hurry. He has time to puzzle and ponder how to make things better.

The invention of the steam engine, we are told, was speeded by James Watt's daydreaming while watching a kitchen teapot bubble. Such original ideas spring from a sense of wonder, and ideas are stubborn things that refuse to be rushed.

Your typical go-getter often is too impatient to pause and wait for the fruition of his ideas—if he has any at all. He is too busy running to keep appointments, waving his hands and making loud noises, or pushing buttons better left unpushed.

That's the real danger with the go-getter philosophy: It sometimes results in getting things done that were better left undone.

Wouldn't all of us in this nervous, restless life we live get more zest out of our years—and perhaps have more years to enjoy that zest—if we spent more time in placid, creative, restful dawdling?

The next time you meet an eager beaver go-getter, grab him firmly by both lapels and slow him down long enough to ask him, "Why so eager, beaver? Where are you going? Is what you're trying to get really worth getting?"

Heating Pad Can Be Good For Arthritis

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: Is a heating pad good for arthritis? It seems to relieve the pains in my arms and back at night and in damp weather.

But I was told its use dries up the bones. Now I am worried.—A. M.

Go right ahead with your heating pad. It won't dry up the bones or do any other damage.

Heat is one of the universally approved ways of helping arthritis victims. It doesn't make very much difference how the heat is applied—by pad, hot water bottle, heat lamp (with discretion), sitting near the fire, or whatever. Any method that is handy is fine.

I hope whoever gave you the dismal misinformation about the bones "drying" sees this article and stops passing that story around. It would be too bad if anyone sacrificed the help of heating pads because of such an incorrect scare-story.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please explain impetigo? Once someone has it, how do you get it out of the house?—Mrs. E. R. L.

It's caused by the staphylococcus germ, and if it keeps recurring in your home, suspect a "staph" carrier.

Meantime a patient should be isolated in one room, with utmost attention to prevent contamination from spreading.

In nurseries where impetigo recurs the cause has been traced to attendants who, although not ill themselves, carry the staph germ in their noses and innocently spread it to others.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a desire to eat orange peel along with the orange. Is it wholesome to do so?—D. S. L.

Sure, but wash it first. Many people like candied citrus peel. Some grind whole oranges in a blender.

Dear Dr. Molner: While hospitalized I heard a well-known physician tell a patient that it was not possible to transfer athlete's foot (which she had) to other parts of the body, or for her to give it to other people if she walked on hospital floors without slippers. He may be right, but a number of people will be waiting to hear what YOU say on the subject.—A. L. B.

If he said not "probable" instead of not "possible," I'd go along with his view. Athlete's foot is a popular name for a fungus (as opposed to germ, yeast or virus) infection.

We don't know exactly how fungus infections are transmitted. But we DO know that the athlete's foot fungus thrives on warm, moist skin. For a simile, moss may grow in a shady, moist corner of your back yard, but try to "plant" it in a dry, sunny corner, and it dies.

Thus walking in a hospital corridor barefoot isn't likely to give the ailment to anyone else. The floor is dry and 30 degrees cooler than your foot!

I prefer slippers for adequate and sanitary reasons, but I think athlete's foot spreads only under circumstances which let the fungus jump from its habitat to another area of skin adequately warm and moist. And that's also the reason why it doesn't spread all over the body. It's only on the feet that we wear shoes and socks. (Barefoot natives of the Central Pacific islands don't seem to have this trouble.)

NOTE TO X: Twins are usually born about two weeks earlier than single babies, so your doctor was perfectly right in revising his estimate of when you would probably go to the hospital.

Around The Rim

If You Would Only See...

In the coming weeks, Howard County residents will be asked to participate in the United Fund, the annual effort by hundreds of residents to raise the necessary support for some 13 welfare and youth guidance agencies.

Each year, it seems almost miraculous that the giant organization will be whipped into shape for the drive effort. Hundreds of people are necessary to conduct this campaign and they are all volunteers. If the work done by these people was paid for at their regular pay-scales, the UF goal would have to be multiplied many times to take care of the added expense.

BUT THESE PEOPLE donate time away from the office or out of their leisure hours to see that the job gets done. This is even more significant in that most of the workers in the drive are salaried or wage earners. It is not easy for them to leave their jobs to do their part in the drive. But they have done so in the past and will do so in the forthcoming campaign.

In our drive here, practically everyone in town gives, a notable achievement. I suspect our success is due to the fact that most of us are aware of the job being done by the agencies who benefit by the drive. At the same time, I wonder how many folks have actually visited in some of the offices of these agencies and seen them in action.

IT WOULD BE impossible to conduct a tour of all 40,000 plus residents of the county to these various agencies, but I think it would be effective. We take most of these agencies for granted and rarely ever stop for a personal look-see. Particularly, I would like to see the hesitant residents invited for such a tour.

No matter what we read or hear about certain agencies, it is not often the whole story. We know, for instance, that children get treatments at the Howard County Rehabilitation Center; but do we know about that youngster who moved a leg for the first time, ever so slightly, after many, many treatments? What a singular triumph such a sight must be to those who work there.

THAT IS ONLY ONE of many sources of gratification that might be seen on a tour of our 13 agencies. Some times in the rush and push of a fund raising campaign, we lose sight of the results of our efforts, as we work to reach goals which are merely figures on financial statements or charts.

I think the real goal of our campaign, the real fruits of our efforts is measured in the results achieved by our various agencies. And many of us have never seen them.

Dirty Hands In Clean Work

MARSHALL SPACE FLIGHT CENTER, Huntsville, Ala.—Dr. Werner Von Braun has a maxim which says that what the "green thumb" is to the gardener, "dirty hands" are to the Space scientists.

Dr. Von Braun's great success both as a rocket designer and promoter, but in recent years as an administrator as well, appears to be his abhorrence of the scientific egghead or theoretician.

IT IS NOT GOOD enough at the Marshall Center for the star performers to think or write in abstractions. Director Von Braun keeps his men busy at bench work where they get their hands dirty doing much the same work that is done in the Space industry. For this purpose Von Braun keeps about 15 per cent of the annual allotment of $1.5 billion for "in house" construction of space rockets, as well as research and development in fuels, engines, communications, guidance and much else. The remaining 85 per cent is spent to pay American industry for Space work.

MARSHALL CENTER is relatively new, having been taken away from the Army and reconstituted as a part of ASA in 1960. It is relatively small, with less than 7,000 employees.

"We have a phobia against getting too large at Marshall," says Von Braun. "We have had, I think, a number of rather noteworthy successes on several assigned rush projects because we are a moderately-sized but well-integrated organization."

"THE MARSHALL CENTER designer can leave his drawing board and go across the street to consult with the person doing components testing, or talk to the vehicle fabricator in the next block, while the static test tower is just over the hill."

Von Braun is a rare combination of intense concentration and relaxing humor. One of the few intervals in his long working day when he is alone is the half-hour drive between his Huntsville home and his office at the Center. His associates were horrified when they discovered that he was reading books while also operating the car.

SOME OF HIS jokes are a little involved, and all of them seem to be used to teach a lesson. To illustrate the effect of free advice, he tells about the boy whose mother advised him not to eat green apples. "I ate them to find out why she told me not to." His definition of a buck-passing executive who does things the hard way instead of the simple way is illustrated by the caveman who decided it was too much trouble to go outside to find out if it was raining. "Why don't we just call in the tiger and see if he is wet?" Another type of busybody executive irritates Von Braun, who says: "He reminds me of the victims of a custom practiced by the people in one section of ancient Greece. Whenever one of their leaders tried to ram a new program down their throats, they made him submit his proposal from a platform . . . with a rope around his neck. If his proposal worked, they removed the rope. If not, they removed the platform."

HIS HUMOR is useful as a tension breaker, and very likely it has the secondary purpose of industrial diplomacy. Von Braun can be very tough on the manufacturers whose products go into the Space work. He has found from experience that accidents and failures in this work usually do not occur from scientific miscalculation. The most frequent reason is much more mundane, for Von Braun says bluntly that trouble often comes from poor quality of the manufactured hardware. He lets it be known very plainly that astronauts risk their lives, and whole national programs are jeopardized, by sloppy work in the big companies which make these vehicles.

One main purpose of the Marshall Center is to develop dirty-handed technicians who know when the companies are turning out good work—and when they're not. (Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Warfare On The Playing Fields

It is my hunch that the third World War—heaven forbid!—is not apt to erupt over Cuba, Berlin, Laos, Vietnam, Katanga or any of the other sore-as-a-bol trouble spots.

When World War III comes, says my clear-as-crystal ball, it will geyser forth on some far-flung playing field of Eton. Suddenly in some vast sports arena—where men learn to be knights, live by the noble rules of fair play and seek the lofty spiritual perfection of a muscular Galahad—two opposing teams will fall upon each other and the umpire with murderous intent, even as partisan fans swarm onto the field and do likewise.

AND BEFORE ANYONE can blow the whistle, international amity will be stone-dead on the field and there will go the atomic ball game.

That the brotherly love and hands-across-the-national-barriers spirit of international sport will eventually loose the holocaust is a prediction based on as far more than tea leaves. Only last week, Gabon, one of Africa's new nations, expelled 3,000 Congolese residents within its borders because a Congo Republic soccer team was sufficiently tactless to beat the Gabon team.

AND AS THIS IS written, Gabon residents of the Congo Republic have sought police protection from any retaliation devised by the sports-loving Congolese.

By this time half the world might be laid waste if either Gabon or the Congo Republic possessed an atomic arsenal.

Nor is the Gabon-Congo Republic soccer game the only recent gathering of fun-loving, internationally-minded sportsmen, sans peur et sans reproche, that brought the world to the brink of war. During the recent Asian Games in Indonesia, angry citizens of the host nation stoned the Indian Embassy and otherwise expressed their sportsmanlike disapproval of India's belief that athletes from Nationalist China and Israel should not have been barred from the games.

HOWEVER, I don't want to leave the impression that such examples of sportsmanship and goodwill are confined to nations east of Suez or even east of Casablanca. Ever since I can remember, the internecine wrangling that accompanies the choice of Olympic candidates in the United States (and often, members of the Davis Cup team) is enough to convince any innocent bystander that muscles and misanthropy go hand-in-hand.

One other aspect of the Gabon-Congo Republic soccer game led me to believe that the new nations have been looking to the West for athletic leadership. At the end of the game fans from both nations were so furious with the referee that they fell upon him before they took after each other.

JUST AS IN the West, a phalanx of police, to insure the referee's safety and survival, escorted him off the playing field. (When Guinea lost a soccer game to neighboring Mali recently, Guinea arrested half its own players for allegedly breaking training before the big game.)

If the attempt to build international friendship through sports continues, World War III seems inevitable. It is high time that the United Nations intervene. As a first step toward preserving peace, the U.N. ought to order translators to every known language and distributed to every known nation, the late Grantland Rice's lofty couplet: "When the One Great Scorer comes to write against your name, He marks—not that you won or lost—but how you played the game." (Copyright, 1962, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Getting The Lead Out

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Upwards of 680 tons of lead are believed lying in Lake Michigan just off the lakefront here, and a group of young SCUBA divers has set out to recover as much of it as they can.

For more than 40 years, members of the Milwaukee Gun Club have been firing at clay targets at the club's lakeside headquarters. One mathematically inclined member said gunners fired about 500,000 shells a year. Each contains one and an eighth ounces of shot. So the yearly total roughs out at 35,156 pounds or more than 17 tons a year. This would mean 680 tons of lead under the waves.

The divers said they had obtained exclusive salvage rights from the Army Corps of Engineers.

Little Theatre Membership Rates Listed

Season tickets for the 1963 season of the Big Spring Civic Theatre will come in three varieties, according to action by the board of directors recently.

The family membership will be the most popular, directors predicted, as they set the cost at $8. This membership will give the family 12 admissions during the year and these can be used two at a time for each of the plays or all at once for any one play.

A single membership is tabbed at $5 and pays for five admissions, setting the per-play cost at $1. Admission at the door on any play night will be $1.50 for adults, 75 cents for students.

Sponsor memberships sell at $15 and pay for 20 admissions. These are designed for business firms who purchase blocks of tickets for employees.

Residents who purchase tickets during the current membership drive will get the added bonus of the remaining play to be staged this year. Although tickets will give admission to the play, such admissions will not be chalked up against the ticket holder.

Next play for the BSCT will be "The Gazebo," to be staged Nov. 30, Dec. 1. David Guy, who has earned many acting credits with the organization, will be director for the play. Readings for parts will be held in the near future.

Allen's Mother Dies

Remote Control For Pipeline

DALLAS (AP)—Operation of a 540 mile, 260,000 barrel a day pipeline system was converted to remote control Wednesday by Magnolia Pipe Line Co. of Dallas.

An electronic computer developed and engineered the transistorized system for central control, L. H. True, president of Magnolia, said.

The system is between Midland, Corsicana and Beaumont.

Twenty-three microwave relay towers and stations on the system carry electronic signals from the Dallas dispatch center to 12 pump stations.

The system includes three lines from Midland to Corsicana, a 12-inch loop and a 14-20 inch tele-scope for crude oil and an 8-inch for natural gas liquids, and two lines from Corsicana to Beaumont, a 20-inch for crude oil and a 10-inch for natural gas liquids.

True said that Magnolia's centralization was expected to achieve "substantial savings through reduced operating expenses and more efficient use of this pipeline."

Re-Write Okayed

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Author Oscar Lewis is willing to make some changes in the script of the movie "The Children of Sanchez" so it can be filmed in Mexico, the newspaper Ultimas Noticias reported today. Italian Producer Carlo Ponti was reported to have had trouble with government officials over some sections of the story when he talked with them earlier about making the movie here.

Army Reportedly Wins Okay To Boost Antiguerilla Units

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army reportedly has won approval to boost its elite antiguerrilla Special Forces to about 15,000 men—roughly three times their present strength.

Scope of the projected increase in these tough, versatile fighters was disclosed today by Pentagon sources.

A spokesman confirmed that Defense Department chiefs had okayed an increase in ground elements of Army antiguerrilla forces. But he gave no details.

This development tended to bear out an impression that the Army has just about established preeminence in this important phase of U.S. military operations.

For months, the Air Force has sought permission to increase its "Air Commando" force from about 650 to 5,000 men and to develop special aircraft suited to fighting Communist guerrillas.

The Defense Department said this still is under study. But Air Force sources said they believed their service's request for an expanded role in counter guerrilla work in effect has been rejected.

The Special Forces have flourished since the Kennedy administration decided this country should beef up its ability to deal with Communist threats of subversion and insurgency.

The chief cold war role of the Special Forces is to train native troops to cope with and overcome Communist guerrillas trying to take over their countries.
