Along The Waterfront

F. A. Coombs, deputy sheriff from Gregory, fishing from Sea Gun Sports Inn, near Rockport, out of his own boat, caught three big reds and a string of smaller reds, drum and trout.

Jimmy Warrach guided Mr. and Mrs. Archie Harrison, of Kerrville, and they brought in 75 trout. Mrs. Harrison didn't fish, but went along for the boat ride. Some of the fish ran around two pounds.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Barron, from Palm Village, and Mr. and Mrs. Arlo Hansen, fished with Herb Mills and caught 136 trout.

Herman S. Golub, of Houston, fished with Harry Mills, and came in with 57 trout and reds.

C. F. Nicholson, San Antonio, caught 15 mixed fish, and Mr. Woods, fishing with Al Hagy, strung 92 trout.

Fishing at Sea Gun Sports Inn picked up over the weekend, with some nice catches being brought in. On Saturday, Robert Grosskopf, San Antonio, caught 41 trout fishing with Herb Mills; Frank Dorsey, Athens, Texas, fishing with Jim Warrach, strung 43 trout; Hyman S. Golub, Houston, fishing with Harry Mills on Saturday and Herb Mills on Sunday, caught a total of 162 trout, reds, drum, sheepshead and gafftops. R. B. Schuster, fishing with Jimmy Greeson on Saturday and Jimmy Warrach on Sunday, caught 78 trout.

Mrs. Mabel Logue, San Antonio, fishing Sunday with Herb Mills, strung 12 reds and trout. H. C. Boyesen, Sr., of Yoakum, fished with Eddie Edmonson and caught 35 trout and reds.

Mrs. Hagy who gave the report, says that bait is not plentiful, but there has been enough to go around, and she doesn't anticipate any shortage.

Recent stories in the Waterfront column have given rise to other waterfront windies. The one about (continued on page 8)

FISHERMAN FOUND SAFE BY SEARCHERS

A 65-year-old Rockport fisherman with a heart condition, overdue since Monday afternoon was safely towed into port Tuesday morning after spending the night in his 16-foot outboard motor boat in Redfish Bay.

The man, Charles Gross, told Coast Guard authorities his engine failed.

Gross had been the cause of an all-night search by the 40-foot patrol boat from the Coast Guard's Port Aransas Life Boat Station.

Tuesday morning a plane from the Coast Guard Air Detachment at Naval Air Station took off at daybreak.

Lt. Calvin Langford, pilot of the patrol plane, and Gross was sighted and was in tow by another civilian fishing boat. Gross was towed into a bait stand near Port Aransas Causeway.

TEX-N-YOUTH MEET TO BE HERE NOV. 2

Further plans for the Tex-N-Youth meeting to be held Nov. 2 in Rockport were discussed Monday night by the Theta Rho Girls Club.

Girls from San Antonio, Ingle-side, Sinton, Kerrville, and Corpus Christi will meet with local girls in oral competition.

Trophies have been selected for the winners.

Girls are selling ads in the printed program for this meeting. Cost is $2.00 for two lines. Interested firms or individuals, please contact the advisory officer, Mrs. Betty Fausey, SO 4-2750.

Water Election To Be Saturday

An election, in which every properly qualified voter in Aransas County may cast his or her ballot, will get under way at 8 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 19, and close at 7 p.m. when the Aransas County Conservation and Reclamation District asks residents of the county to approve $70,000 in bonds to pay for preliminary surveys and investigation of possible sources for a permanent water supply to supplement the fast diminishing fresh water resources of both city and county.

Harold Picton, water board president, said that bonds from this would be issued only as needed, thus keeping interest rates and expense at a minimum, and that Board members did not anticipate that all of the money would be needed.

"However," he said, "it costs between $500 and $600 every time you have to hold a county-wide election like this, and we could use up a lot of money calling one every time we needed a few hundred dollars. Any bonds not needed will not be issued, however."

The ballots will bear only one proposition:

"Shall the Board of Directors of Aransas County Conservation and Reclamation District be authorized to issue the bonds of the said District in the principal sum of $70,000, and to levy and to collect annually an ad valorem tax sufficient to pay the principal thereof and the current interest thereon as due so long as the said bonds shall be outstanding and unpaid, said bonds to mature serially over a period of years not to exceed six years from their date and to bear interest at a rate not to exceed six percent per annum, payable annually or semi-annually, said bonds to be issued for the purpose of providing an engineering study of the District's present and future requirements for fresh water and possible sources thereof, as authorized by Senate Bill No. 299, enacted by the 58th Legislature, in 1963?"

The election is county wide, with every qualified voter in the county eligible to cast his or her ballot.

Polling places and election judges are as follows:

Precinct 1A: Aransas County Voting Center, with Mrs. Glen Ellis presiding judge.

Precinct 1: Rockport Fire Station, Mrs. Alvin Brundrett.

Precinct 2: Aransas County Courthouse, with Mrs. Elbert Mundine as presiding judge.

Precinct 3: Fulton Fire Station, Mrs. Harry McDow.

Precinct 4: Concession Hall at Goose Island State Park, Mrs. E. N. Adams, Jr., as presiding judge.

Absentee votes will be counted by a special canvassing board composed of Paul, Clark Sorenson, Thomas D. Picton, and Arthur Bracht.

Pirates Scalp Tulozo Warriors

In their first District 30AA game of the season, the ACHS Pirates traveled to Tulozo-Midway and scalped the Warriors of that school, winning by a 36-0 score.

The Tulozo-Midway team have not won a game this season, and this marks one loss in district play for them.

Coach Dave Segler said the Pirates played a real fine game.

"Our blocking and running were better than they have been all year," he said, "and we were able to move the ball real well."

"Twenty-one first downs for us against three for Tulozo-Midway speaks well for our defensive unit, too. Joe Hugenberg did a fine job, as did Hugh Morrison, but probably the key to the whole game lay in the blocking of Dale Leisenheimer, Alton Kinsel, Andy Everett and Gary Tuer, and in the pass receptions and blocking done by Martin Garcia.

"Defensively, Charles Picton, Tim Sanchez, Thomas Lewis and Hugenberg did exceptionally fine jobs, but the whole team was much improved."

REBEKAHS PLAN TO GO TO S. O. F. IN PORTLAND

At the regular meeting of the Rockport Rebekah Lodge at 7:30 p.m. Thursday Oct. 10, the members planned to attend the District School of Instruction in Portland, Monday night, Oct. 14, and agreed to submit some duties for the other lodges in the district to assume when the president of the Rebekah Assembly of Texas, Mrs. Ellen Kitzmeier, makes her official in Rockport, Nov. 1.

Mrs. Martha Mundine, noble grand, conducted the lodge meeting with 14 members present.

After lodge the committee of the month, Miss Katie Clarke, Mrs. Goldie Edmonson and Mrs. Gladys Mullan served open faced ritz sandwiches, chips, cookies cocoa while the members enjoyed a social hour.

Governor, Officials, Writers Invited To Fish Fry Tuesday

Governor John Connally, Will Odom, of Austin, chairman of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission, other board members, officials, sportswriters and other newsmen of Texas have been invited to a fish fry at the Sea Gun Sports Inn, at Lamar, by the Rockport Sportsmen's Conservation Association.

Also invited are State Representative Leroy Wieting and State Senator W. N. Patman.

The affair will start at 6 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 22, and Jimmy Hunt, president of the sportsmen's organization, said that between 100 and 200 people were expected to attend as invited guests, and that approximately that many more local people were buying tickets to attend.

"We hope to make this a most successful meeting," Hunt said. "In the past we have held similar fish fries at Mills' Wharf, which has been taken over, renamed, and enlarged by the Toddie Lee Wynn interests of Dallas, and those affairs have always been well attended."

"It is an excellent way to get these people we have invited familiar with the many advantages of this area, not only from the fishing and hunting standpoint, but also from the viewpoint of the tourist and vacationer."

Guests attending the fish fry will stay at the Sea Gun Inn, Hunt said, and will be taken on a fishing trip Wednesday morning, if they wish to go. In this manner, he said, they can get a first hand look at things.

"Of course a number of them have been here before," Hunt said, "but we have others coming not familiar with this part of the coast, and we want them to have a good look at it. The fishing trip will help. We want to make friends with all these folks, and hope they'll have so good a time that they'll return time and again."

Wives and families are cordially invited.

NAVIGATION DISTRICT OFFICE BIDS TO BE LET IN NOVEMBER

At a called meeting of Aransas County Navigation District Commissioners, engineers and the architect for the new Navigation District office, the design for the building was approved and the date for bid opening set at 11 a.m., Friday, Nov. 15.

The office will be located on the triangle of land owned by the Navigation District on which the Woman's Club, the Wee Putt Golf Course and the Chamber of Commerce are already located, on Rockport Harbor.

The building consists of the office, a storage room, and a conference room, capable of seating some fifty or more people, and will be air conditioned.

Construction will be of masonry, concrete, aluminum and glass. Architect is Robert G. Kipp; engineers are Lockwood, Andrews and Newnam.

EXTRA TELEPHONE CREWS AT WORK IN COUNTY

According to R. J. Garlington, of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, a crew of seven men from the Corpus Christi area have been in Rockport for the past two or three weeks and will be here another six or eight, improving outside plant conditions and giving the local lines a thorough overhauling.

Garlington said the crew is checking out all lines and other company installations, and making repairs wherever needed. The work, he stated, would include Rockport, Fulton, Lamar and all lines within Aransas County, to be sure that service and equipment are in first class condition.

GEM AND MINERAL SOCIETY MEETING

The Gulf Coast Gem and Mineral Society will have a meeting on Thursday, Oct. 17, at 7:30 p.m. in the Green Room of the YWCA Building in beautiful Corpus Christi.

The program of the evening will be a talk given by W. Armstrong Price, nationally known oceanographer, title: "The Giant Natural Engines of the Sea." There will also be a small discussion of the society exhibit in the Arts Fair, which is to be held on Oct. 18, 19, and 20, in the Exhibition Hall on Shoreline Drive by the bay, in downtown Corpus Christi.

All members and visitors are cordially welcomed.

LIBRARY TO BE CLOSED SATURDAY

The Aransas County Public Library will be closed Saturday, Oct. 19, because of the water election in which the courthouse will be used as one of the polling places.

MOVING TASK—Handling a gator seems to be no easy task as Roy Hurst grabs the body. The problem was to move the angry alligator from a trailer to a pen in Chicago.

Pirates To Play West Oso Bears Here Friday Night

The Pirates play the West Oso Bears here tomorrow night, and Coach Dave Segler said game time is 7:30 p.m.

"This is probably the lightest ball club we've played this year," he said, "but they have some good players. We may have trouble containing their fullback, Sammy Hill, who is 6 feet 4 inches tall and weighs 190 pounds."

"They also have a fine passer and runner in their quarterback, Garcia. All in all, I'd say they probably have the best team they've had in years. Nevertheless, we're hoping for a win in this, our second district game of the season. We did real well in our first, with Tulozo-Midway. I hope we can do as well in this one."

ASSEMBLY PROGRAM TO BE GIVEN AT HIGH SCHOOL OCT. 21

An assembly program will be given at 8:30 a.m., Oct. 21, with Canadian-born Richard Tetley-Kardos as the featured performer.

A typical piano program includes works such as Chopin's Nocturne, Debussy's Gallivog's, Cakewalk, Beethoven's Sonata Pathetique, a Bach Chorale Prelude and possibly Gershwin's Rhapsody in Blue.

An interesting part of Mr. Tetley-Kardos' program is his enlightening and often amusing comment about the selections, their composers and how each weaves into the pattern of life. In fact, Mr. Tetley-Kardos calls his concert "Music is Life" since he believes that music expresses all phases of life and all its emotions.

METHODIST OBSERVE LAYMEN'S DAY

In observance of Laymen's day the laity of the First Methodist Church will be in charge of the service on Oct. 20. The topic, "Your Neighbor as Yourself" will be discussed by a lady and two gentlemen.

In many denominations all over the United States and Canada and in chapels wherever our armed forces are stationed around the world, laymen on this date will be conducting worship services.

ROTARIANS HEAR FLAG PROGRAM AT LUNCHEON

Rotarians, at their regular Wednesday luncheon, heard a very instructive program on the flag of the United States.

Royce C. Reed, Odom, assisted by Chester Johnson, discussed the origin, use, respect for, ceremonies, and what great value this symbol of our nation is to all citizens of the United States.

Last week's sponsor was Dudley instead of Fred Bracht.

Visitors were Don Daniel, Corpus Christi; Merritt Hulett, Saratoga Springs, New York; Frank Belken and R. D. Hatch, Aransas Pass; Roy Lutterell, Arlington; John Miller and Bob Redell, Sinton; Walter Dunham, San Antonio; and Lee Ballou, San Antonio.

STUDENTS TAKE PART IN FIRE POSTER CONTEST

Students of the Junior High School, as part of their participation in October Fire Prevention Week, have made and posted in the corridors a series of 35 or 40 fire prevention posters. These are on display, and point out many of the ways in which home fires can be prevented.

Lions District Governor Pays Official Call

At a Tuesday night dinner at the Sea Gun Restaurant, Bill Woods, Governor of Lion District 2 A3, paid his official visit to the three local clubs—the Rockport, Fulton and Seaman's Lions clubs.

J. D. Gray, Aransas County School superintendent and Deputy District Governor acted as master of ceremonies for the dinner which was attended by 47 members of the local organizations.

In addition to these, guests included Cy Grett, of the Downtown Corpus Christi Lions Club and director of the Crippled Children's Camp at Kerrville; Nat Friedman, a member of the same club as Grett, and also Deputy District Governor under Woods; and Howard Cummings, publicity director of Woods' cabinet, and a member of the Brownsville Lions Club. Cummings flew the plane in which Governor Woods arrived.

At the dinner, John Beasley was inducted as a new member of the Rockport Lions Club before Governor Woods spoke on the value of Lionism to members and the world, saying that this was best illustrated in a little poem which he quoted:

"I sought my God, but my God I could not find;
"I sought my soul, but my soul eluded me;
"I sought my neighbor and found all three."

In these few words, he said the essence of the organization was expressed. Belonging to the Lions, he said, gave an opportunity to serve, and to acquire friends of the finest kind, and he gave a number of examples of his meaning.

The meeting closed with a short discussion of the cabinet meeting of the governor and officers that will be held here in November. Carl Osborn, chairman of local arrangements said that if local motel owners would furnish him with schedules of their winter rates, his committee would see that these were passed along to the visitors.

Between 150 and 250 people are expected for the meeting, which will be held here Nov. 9.

ABSENTEE VOTING SET HERE MONDAY

Absentee voting will begin Monday at the county courthouse in the Nov. 9 general election in which four constitutional amendments, including one to abolish the poll tax as a requisite to vote, will appear on the ballot.

Voting will be from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. daily in the county clerk's office in the courthouse.

Anyone with a current poll tax receipt (marked 1962) or an exemption certificate can vote.

Bob Hope To Narrate Rockport Film Story

Area Only One On Gulf Coast of Texas To Appear In Travelogue Film Which Is Being Prepared By Industrial Commission

"Bob Hope Tells of the New Look in Texas," a full-size color film produced jointly by the Texas Industrial Commission and Filmcrafters, Inc., is being sponsored in the Rockport area by two individuals and four firms: Carl Kruger, Jr., Emory M. Spencer, Sandollar Motel, Central Power and Light Company, Little Bay Shores Corp. and Glass, Sorenson & McDavid.

Rockport and its surroundings will be the only portion of the Texas coast to be pictured in this wide screen industrial travel short subject which will be distributed nationally and which will have a minimum of 5,000 theater play dates during its distribution life. In addition, 16-millimeter reduction prints will be available at cost to subscribers for use in public and private showings and over TV.

Among the scenes that will be shown from the Rockport area are the wind-blown live oaks, Key Allegro, deep sea fishing in the Gulf of Mexico, the Sandollar Motel, Little Bay and its birds, the Sea Gun Sports Inn and its marina, and the Big Tree.

An original musical score for the film has been composed by Professor Jack F. Kilpatrick, chairman of the Department of Music and composer-in-residence at S.M.U., who has had 75 of his compositions published and who has arranged 25 musical scores for Warner Brothers Pictures.

The inimitable Bob Hope will be the narrator for the film.

Producer-director Irvin Gans, of Filmcrafters, and photographic director Olin W. Dalton, of the same organization, have produced 152 short films for Southwestern Bell Telephone, all of which deal with Texas, as well as 75 or 100 more for various organizations in the Southwest.

The film deals with various aspects of the Texas scene, and other subjects that will appear in it include the Texas State Fair, the Texas-Oklahoma football game, the Tyler Rose Festival, and the Huntsville Prison Rodeo.

Funds for the production come through the Texas Industrial Commission, whose directors are E. B. Germany, Ray Horton, John Ben Sheppard, and Harry Clark, all of whom have endorsed the film.

Others who are sponsoring portions of the film include the Red Ball Motor Freight, Continental Trailways and the Dr. Pepper Co., all of Dallas; the Santa Fe Railway, Uncle Ben's Rice Mills, and the Del E. Webb Corporation, all of Houston;

The Chamber of Commerce, the Merchants Association, and the Fat Stock Show, Fort Worth; the Amarillo and Midland Chambers of Commerce; General Telephone Co., San Angelo; General Electric Co., Tyler; and the Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation, supported by many of the light and power companies of the state.

Scout Fund Drive To Start Oct. 22

The annual Boy Scout fund drive will be kicked off Tuesday morning, Oct. 22, with a 7 o'clock breakfast at Corky's Restaurant, according to Dr. H. F. Elliot, who is one of the co-chairmen, along with Chester Johnson.

John E. Ross is general chairman of solicitations and Charles LaBounty is chairman of the audit.

Campaign workers will be under the leadership of Seth H. Steele, Chief of Police E. A. Stautzenberger, H. H. Dick, Matthew W. S. Scott and Robert Fleming.

The goal set for the Aransas County area by the Gulf Coast Council is $1700. Dr. Elliot said. This is based on the number of boys of scouting age in the county.

Last year's campaign raised a total of $1077.26 in cash and pledges, Elliot stated. A planning session of the group was held Wednesday night at the Sea Gun Sports Inn, at which time final details of the drive were completed.

LOCAL SCOUTS TAKE PART IN REFUGIO FAIR

Local scouts of the Copano Chapter of the Order of the Arrow presented a number of Indian dances at Refugio County Fair last weekend.

Participants were Larry Nelson, Steve Russell, Domingo Pulido, Dennis Elliot, Edward Rinche, N. F. Jackson and Johnny Jackson.

Accompanying them were Dr. H. F. Elliot, chapter advisor, and Ronne Schultz, scoutmaster of Troop 49 of Rockport, and ceremonial team advisor.

AREA MARINE IS AWARDED AIR MEDAL

Marine Lt. Miles Gordon Gunter has been awarded the Air Medal and Gold Star in lieu of a second medal for 41 combat missions over Viet Nam.

Gunter returned Monday to Brooke General Hospital at Ft. Sam Houston after spending a convalescent leave with his mother, Mrs. Lottie L. Gunter, a teacher in the Aransas Pass schools.

Gunter was co-pilot of a helicopter that crashed and burned last March 2 while on a routine mission over the Zamboles Mountains on Western Luzon. He and the pilot survived, although seriously burned, and six others died in the flames.

Gunter said his squadron received the awards in September but his was delayed because of his confinement in the hospital.

Gunter attended school in Rockport and Aransas Pass. He is a graduate of the Aransas Pass High School and Texas A&M and joined the Marine Corps in 1959. He flew combat missions over Viet Nam for six months without incident and had been in the Philippines only a week prior to the helicopter crash.

Mrs. Hugh Morrison and Mrs. Cyril Sharpe, representing the Junior-Senior High School PTA, attended the PTA District 21 Workshop in Kingsville on Monday, Oct. 14. This was conducted in the Student Union Building of A&I College. They received many helpful ideas from the Workshop.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to take this opportunity to thank my many, many friends for all the prayers, cards, letters, visits and flowers during my recent stay in the Methodist Hospital in Houston. It was so greatly appreciated. I cannot begin to put in words what all this meant to me. Thanks to the Lord for answering our prayers. c29 Monroe Menke.

Editorial

The good old summertime, when swimming and water sports are the favorite recreation of a large part of the local population, is the time when a good swimming pool, for use by the youth of Rockport would really pay off, especially if there were water safety classes taught regularly.

The swimming pool that the Pilot advocated in another editorial some time ago, to be built at Aransas County High School and used in an extended physical culture program, would have really paid off this summer.

There is always a danger in allowing a group of children to go swimming. Because there are always some who cannot swim. In an area this close to the water this doesn't make sense. It should be the duty of every parent to see that their child can swim. And the youngsters shouldn't have to do this by the trial and error method, dodging the propellers of out-boards in the ski basin and shrimpers, yachts and commercial boats in the harbors.

A person who is a good swimmer can help teach a beginner to swim, but qualified teachers are recommended for best results. As soon as a child can stand on the bottom in the shallow end of a pool, the lessons should start. The younger the child is, the easier it is to keep him free from fear of water. After conquering this fear, the battle is won.

Next to traffic accidents, drownings take the biggest toll of lives during the summertime. Along our Gulf Coast, we often read about a child, or even a grownup, slipping into a hole or falling from a seawall. If these persons had been taught to swim, even to dog-paddle, their lives could have been spared. Drownings in lakes are caused mainly by panic, over-exertion, or cramps. As soon as a child learns to swim, he should learn to judge his capabilities and not overtax himself.

Too many youngsters try to swim across a large body of water. After progressing part way, they panic and try harder to swim faster. Thus they become more tired and soon sink from exhaustion. If they had been taught to lie over on their backs, study the closest route to shore and then slowly work in that direction, their lives would be saved.

The teaching of water safety should give the instructor a sense of satisfaction in his accomplishments. We should not rest, however, until the opportunity to learn to swim is presented to all our youth and we know they are safe around water.

After we are one hundred per cent advanced swimmers, perhaps someone will have the ambition to instruct a class in boating safety. With the number of boats heading to the bays and Gulf, it would appear that we are more than ready for such a course.

ENGINEERS NOTICES

The Cities Service Oil Company has asked the U. S. Engineers for permission to operate in Copano Bay, in State Tracts, 86, 93, 94, 95, 113, 114, 115, 116, and 117, at a point approximately 8½ miles north of Rockport.

The company proposes to install five 2½-inch pipelines at the location. Two parallel lines would be laid from existing well No. 1, State Tract 86, southwesterly across State Tracts No. 86, 94, 95, 113, 114, 115, 116, and 117, for approximately 11,910 feet to the southwest shore of the bay near the applicant's onshore tank battery; similarly, a pipeline would be laid parallel to an existing 2½-inch pipeline from existing Well No. 1 in State Tract No. 93 southwesterly across State Tracts No. 93, 116 and 117 for approximately 6,100 feet, from existing Well No. 1 in State Tract No. 115 southwesterly across State Tracts No. 115, 116 and 117 for approximately 6,240 feet and from existing Well No. 1 in State Tract No. 114 westerly across State Tracts No. 113, 114, 115, 116 and 117.

The proposed pipelines would be buried 1½ feet below the bottom of the bay except through shell beds or reefs where they would be buried one foot below.

The pipelines would be jetted, plowed, disced or placed by other similar methods whereby there would be a minimum displacement of the bed and no spoil deposit would remain.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Wright and family left Thursday for the Guianas in South America, where a new shrimp fishery has opened up, and where Johnny will be one of the trawler captains. The entire family will make the voyage on the shrimp he commands, and will live in Guiana.

No Fatalities In September Traffic Here

No fatal traffic accidents were reported from Aransas County in September, although six wrecks occurred during the month. In two of these accidents there were three people who sustained personal injuries, and the property damage sustained in the six wrecks amounted to $3,450, according to a report.

During the first nine months of the year, traffic accidents in the county had shown an upswing over the same period in 1962. There were three fatal accidents this year, compared with one in the same period in 1962.

Accidents in which property damage occurred numbered 30 both years, and the total of all accidents in the first nine months of 1963 was 56 against only 43 in 1962. In the three fatal accidents this year, five people were killed, against only one person last year, and in the others there were 38 people hurt in 1963 against 14 persons in 1962.

Totals for District 3A were, in general, equal to totals for last September.

Four traffic deaths were reported during the month from Jim Wells County; Hidalgo and Nueces Counties each reported two, and there was one each in Calhoun, Cameron, DeWitt, Duval, Jackson, Lavaca and Willacy counties.

In addition to the 15 people killed there were 131 injured in 198 wrecks, in which the property damage was $122,165.

Comparison of statistics for the entire district between this year and 1962 revealed an increase of three in fatal wrecks, although deaths decreased by nine. There was a decrease of 27 personal injury wrecks, and 53 fewer people have been injured this year. On the other hand there was an increase of 24 in the number of property damage wrecks. However, overall wreck totals for the two years were exactly the same—1781.

GROWING ON TREES—You've probably heard of shoe trees, but here's something you may never have heard of: fish trees. Sound fishy? Well, it's just part of an exotic fantasy that was filmed by an Italian documentary director, who brought the scene from the place in the sun, Bora Bora, in the picturesque South Sea Islands.

SPOTS OF INTEREST

In and Around Aransas County
Rockport's Cattle Industry
Once Was State's Biggest

Rockport was one of the biggest shipping points for Texas cattle in days before trail herds began. John M. Mathis enlisted the aid of Capt. Charles Dean and the Morgan Steamship Lines to establish the port in 1870. Mathis was joined in the venture by T. M. Coleman and G. W. Fulton, and the company was known as the Coleman-Mathis-Fulton Pastur Company.

The plant was built on a rocky point where the First National Bank of Rockport now stands and consisted of a wharf, pens and other facilities for the shipment of cattle which came from as far away as West Texas.

Total cattle shipped amounted to about 50,000 head annually. The ships brought money for the cattle on their return voyages, and it was a common sight to see kegs of silver dollars sitting on the pier for several days until their rightful owner came by to pick them up.

But sometimes the opposite happened. Once Cal Skidmore came by and found only a freight bill, because his cattle had sold so cheaply they didn't bring enough to pay the freight.

Gambling dens flourished around the pier and plant. The most famous saloon was dubbed "The Finish," supposedly named this because more than once it had seen the finish of some cattleman's herds.

Once "Uncle" Myers, the Methodist preacher, went down to "The Finish" and told the boys he needed $500 to complete his church. They promptly dug down and presented him with this amount. He thanked them and invited them to hear his sermon, whereupon the saloon closed down and the gamblers adjourned to the church.

WATERFRONT—

the lake of maple sirup uncovered one about the uncle of a local man who lived in Texas during Indian fighting days.

His uncle, said this man, in a letter addressed to the "Waterfront", was out hunting one day when he saw six wild turkeys flying directly towards him. Unfortunately, he was out of ammunition, with only a blank cartridge left for the old single-shot Springfield rifle he was carrying. But he was a mighty hunter before the Lord, and knew what one of these rifles could do if it was properly handled.

He snapped the blank cartridge into the gun, dropped the ramrod down the barrel, drew a bead on the turkeys that were speeding right at him, and fired at the old gobbler in the lead.

The ramrod flew true and straight, and spitted all six turkeys like the meat in a shish kabob is spitted in a sabre.

That mighty hunter before the Lord, Baron Munchausen, accomplished the same feat, but in his case, the ramrod was so hot it roasted the birds as though on a spit over a fire.

Donald Smith, of Cut and Shoot, Texas, writes in about a fellow he knew who saw six turkeys roosting on a tree limb, underneath which a fine buck was feeding. Smith's acquaintance shot with such consummate mastery that his ramrod split the limb, trapping the turkeys by their toes when the wood closed together again, while the ramrod glanced off and killed the deer. The gun kicked so hard it knocked some of the buttons loose from the hunting jacket Smith's friend was wearing, and these killed seven quail out of a covey, and he lost his boots into the creek on whose bank he was standing, and they, too, caught fish.

George King, another friend of Smith's practically duplicated this exploit, except that King bagged not only the deer and turkeys, but also a big brown bear. The ramrod went on and split open a bee tree, and George collected two tubs of honey after he waded a creek to get to it. While wading, the pockets in his overalls acted as fish traps and were so full that when he came out on shore, some of the buttons flew off and killed three cottontail rabbits that happened along about that time.

Pat Bolton, Dallas, fishing with Harry Mills from the Sea Gun Sports Inn at Mills' Wharf, near Rockport, brought in 56 mixed fish.

The Reverend Schawe, of Poth, fishing with Al Hagy as guide, came in with 98 trout and reds. Msgr. Beck of Victoria, fishing with Jimmy Warrach, caught 62 trout and reds.

Father Lyssy, San Antonio, strung 51 trout, reds and drum, fishing with Harry Mills.

Copano Cove reports:

Fishing slowed down a little this week but still a lot of fish were taken. Conditions are still good with plenty of water in the bay.

R. J. Etheridge and F. M. White of Lytle, Texas, landed several nice reds and trout.

M. R. Navarro, Roy Reyes, and Q. S. Reyes all of San Antonio, brought in a string of 73 gafftop, trout, drum and redfish.

W. O. Smith and party of San Antonio, were guests in Copano Cove Cottages. Their catch included redfish and trout.

Our old friends Bill Hammett and Wiley McGill visited us again this week from San Antonio. They didn't catch many fish; but as Bill said, "this is just a friendly visit."

Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Robertson, San Antonio, caught a nice string of trout and golden croaker Wednesday night.

Buddy Rice went home (Pleasanton) with several nice redfish.

E. M. White from Sinton, caught an eight pound red and a four pound trout on a Mirrolure.

A big "Howdy!!" to Frank Addington from Dallas. Enjoying a few days fishing with him are his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Don Austin, and his grandson Ricky, Austin.

Also fishing on the 500' light pier were Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Bee from Dallas.

Fishing hasn't been as good this week as it was last week. Trout, redfish, drum, and golden croaker, are being taken, though. Lures, jigs, silver spoons, and dead bait seem to be the best bet at night.

B. T. Lail and Clarence Wicklin and wife of Pauls Valley, Okla., caught 26 golden croakers in two hours fishing in the new boat basin in Port Aransas, Wednesday.

State Menhaden Fishery Declines

The menhaden fishery in Texas is highly localized, being largely carried on from Port Arthur, yet during 1962 it ranked first in the volume of Texas fishery landings and second is dockside value, according to figures assembled by the statistical division of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Orman H. Farley, who supervises gathering of such statistics, said landings totaled 103,800,000 pounds in 1962, with a dockside value of $1,400,000. However, he pointed out that this was a decline of 23% in volume and 19% in value compared with 1961 landings.

At the onset of the menhaden season in May, Farley said, strong onshore winds from the southeast interfered with the fishery so much that landings for the first 30 days of the season were practically nil. When purse seining was resumed about the first of June, fish were small and scattered but as the season progressed, conditions improved and in view of the fact that only 12 boats were operating in 1962 compared with 14 boats the previous year, average catch per operating unit remained fairly constant.

Jefferson County, in the southeast corner of the state, is the only Texas area that processes menhaden fishery products. The legal season for taking these fish was from April 1 to Dec. 1 in 1962; however, as usual, the plants closed in October with the disappearance of fish in any volume from coastal waters of the state.

Two vessels equipped with pneumatic power blocks marks the first appearance of this new and expensive innovation in purse seining in the Texas fleet, Farley said.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Shults, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Harrell, and Sue spent Saturday and Sunday on their deer lease near Hebbronville.

In and Around Aransas County

George W. Fulton Was Early Surveyor Here

George W. Fulton came to Rockport shortly after the Texas Revolution as a surveyor, and the survey lines run at that time later allowed him to tie in Aransas County to locate the lands of Henry Smith, first governor of Texas. Smith's home was on the southern shore of Copano Bay, not far west of the present site of the Copano causeway.

And while Fulton was attending to matters like this, he also found time to woo the governor's daughter, to such purpose that she later became Mrs. Fulton.

Somewhere between the fifties and seventies, he acquired the courtesy title of Colonel and, envisioning the potentialities of a port in Aransas Bay, located the community of Fulton. He here built the legendary Fulton Mansion which still stands, although shorn of much of its glory.

The area became a shipping point for shallow draft vessels running between Galveston and old St. Mary's and other points around Aransas and Corpus Christi Bays.

He later became a partner in the Coleman-Mathis Pasture Co., which eventually became one of the largest firms of its kind in the south.

The Colemans were Golad County pioneers. Thomas M. Coleman was senior partner in the firm and his son, Thomas Atlee Coleman, later became a well-known cattleman in the country southwest of San Antonio.

The other member of the firm was Thomas Henry Mathis, whose home still stands in Rockport.

Founding of Lamar

Back in the days when the cannibal Caranchuas still held sway on the Texas coast, James Byrne, with typical Irish stubbornness, settled in the angle of land formed by St. Charles and Aransas Bays now known as Lamar Peninsula. This was about 1837, and the place was called Point Lookout.

Immediately across Aransas Bay, on Live Oak Point, about where the southern end of Copano Causeway touches the shore, was another settlement called Aransas, founded by Col. James A. Powers. This, in those days, was the site of the customs house of the Republic of Texas, under command of Col. Geo. W. Fulton, first customs collector of the infant republic.

Byrne, in a typical Irish she-nanigan, renamed his town Lamar, after the then president of Texas. Lamar, flattered, transformed the customs house, despite wails of the outraged citizens of Aransas, who viewed "with deep and fearful concern this step of the Executive as making use of a power not granted him by the constitution or laws, a power inimical to the best interests of the country and subversive to the rights and freedom of this people" at Aransas.

By 1839, perhaps because of the customs house, a report to president Lamar said that the city consisted of twenty houses.

More people continued to come, and by 1861 the town had two stores, a church, a post office and other regular appurtenances of a frontier community, including a cemetery.

Probably the first settlers on Lookout Peninsula, as it was called, were the Ballou family. Seth Ballou had been a seafaring man, and had previously operated a ferry in East Texas. He established the first steam ferry in this area, between Lamar and Aransas City.

Arms Plant at Lamar?

Did Samuel Colt once plan a great arms plant at Lamar, where he could be close to some of his best customers? No one knows for sure, but old records in the Aransas County courthouse show he once owned thousands of acres on the peninsula, as well as a number of lots in the town for which the peninsula was named.

One old-timer in Rockport maintained for years that Colt actually operated a blocksmith shop there, in which he perfected the Walker Colt, designed by a Texas Ranger for use against the Comanches and other enemies. But his story and the records don't jibe.

Colt invented the first American revolver in 1835, but early expectations of business failed to materialize, with the result that Colt and his brother were facing financial difficulties in 1842, and practically suspended business.

Some historians claim that the Walker model was perfected in 1840, in time to be used in an Indian fight in May that year. However, facts indicate that it was not until July, 1847, that the first 1,000 were ready for delivery.

In the six or seven years that intervened between Colt's first model and manufacture of the Walker, devotees of the Lamar theory claim that Colt dropped out of sight in the east, and left for some place unknown. This place, they claim was the blacksmith shop they claim he had at Lamar. Here, they say, he met Walker, a Texas Ranger, and whittled out another design that eventually became the Walker Colt.

Attractive as theory may be as a bit of folk lore, letters of the Connecticut Historical Society collections place Colt in that state at the time Walker contacted him, and it was not until seven years later that the Colt brothers acquired land on Lamar Peninsula.

Mrs. Hugh Morrison and Mrs. Cyril Sharpe attended the PTA Workshop held in Kingsville Monday.

The theme for the workshop was "Focus on the Family."

Word has been received from Rev. and Mrs. Asa Avant of San Antonio that Mrs. Avant fell and broke her arms.

Fishery Processing Increased In Texas

Fishery products destined for human consumption in Texas during 1962 amounted to 64,000,000 pounds, valued at $59,400,000 by the processing firms, according to figures recently released by Orman H. Farley, supervisor of statistical information for the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service in the state.

This was an increase of seven percent in volume and 23 percent in value compared with 1961, Farley said. Packaged, frozen, breaded, peeled and deveined shrimp accounted for 94 percent of the value in 1962. The wholesale value of packaged shrimp ranged from 60 cents to $1.50 a pound, Farley stated, with an average price of 91 cents per pound received for all shrimp packaged in Texas.

Of the 60,100,000 pounds of packaged shrimp produced, fresh-frozen raw headless accounted for 48 percent; breaded 40 percent; peeled and deveined, 12 percent; compared to 44, 44 and 12 percent respectively in 1961. Canned shrimp, crab meat, shucked oysters and a host of specialty items totaled 3,900,000 pounds, valued at $4,700,000, contributing 6 percent to the poundage and 8 percent to the value of processed fishery food items in 1962.

Farley said that dockside buyers and processors, for the second consecutive year, had failed to obtain the desired margin of profit. The ex-vessel price of three sizes of shrimp (31/35, 36/42 and 43/50) soared to record highs at the outset of the 1962 season, and maintained this high level throughout the year. Thus, he stated, limited volume landings forced buyers and packers to rely on returns from sources normally considered extra profit margins, such as increased demand and consumption of packaged shrimp, etc.

Fishery by-products manufactured by firms along the Texas coast amounted to 30,100,000 pounds in volume and about $600,000 in value compared to the preceding year.

About 3900 people, expanding 3,200,000 man years (based on standard work week) were employed by some 160 wholesale establishments. Of this number, the statistician said, 90 firms were engaged in process-packaging of fishery products.

The U. S. Secret Service Service was established in 1860.

One thing that adds to the cost of shrimp before it reaches the table is plain old paint or, if you listen to John Beasley, maybe it's not so plain after all.

"If your shrimp is built of wood," he says, "you have to paint to keep the teredoos from riddling the planks on the hull by eating the wood; if the boat is steel, you still have to paint to keep corrosion from eating holes in the steel. Either way it costs money, for you can't put it over on the ocean. A cheap paint is like cheating in golf. Your opponent may not see you, but someone else will. The owner may not be able to see a cheap paint job, but the sea will find it out."

Beasley, for a number of years

Corrosion Boat Enemy, Says John Beasley

associated with the Ashley Paint Company of Corpus Christi, finally decided he didn't know enough about paint, and took some time off to go back to school and learn all he could about controlling corrosion. Once he'd done that, he returned to Corpus Christi and formed his own coating company, which specializes in painting of boats, barges and industrial work where heavy corrosion is a factor that must be combatted.

Latest job is a contract with Rockport Yacht and Supply Company to protect seven big steel shrimpers being built for a Japanese Company from the ravages of the sea.

He and his crew start with a thorough sandblasting of the hull. The grains of sand, driven at high speed, rip ever trace of rust loose from the steel plates of which the shrimper is built, leaving clean steel, which is a little rough, and thus holds paint better.

He can only sandblast the steel that he can cover in the same day with paint, and he must pick a dry day. Otherwise, if the clean steel is left exposed to dew at night or fog and dampness in the day time, a thin film of rust starts to form almost immediately and in just a few hours is sufficient to wreck the finest paint job.

"You may not be able to see the rust," Beasley said, "but it's there just the same, and if you paint over it you are just wasting your time. That little bit of rust will spread beneath the paint and cause it to come off, or the steel to rust through. So we blast just enough to take care of at one time, and that way we're sure that the paint is going to stick."

Once the sandblasting is done, the first coat of paint is almost like galvanizing, for it carries so much zinc (the same metal used for galvanizing steel) that when it dries it presents much the same appearance and performs essentially the same functions as galvanizing. When this first coat has been spray applied, it dries rapidly and the hull soon takes on a light gray matte finish, much like galvanized iron.

Abrasion resistant and adhesion properties of the paint are outstanding, Beasley says, and the finished zinc silicate film is harder than most objects it will encounter in service. Even if accidentally scratched through to the bare metal beneath, he says, it doesn't peel back, and will protect steel with a single coat, giving full and lasting protection against high humidity, sea air, salt water, spray, and most industrial atmospheres.

"However," said Beasley, this is only the first coat on these vessels. We use a bottom paint that helps inhibit electrolytic corrosion and we also use two or three coats of epoxy resins to finish off. The first zinc coating bonds permanently to the steel, the primer and top coat or coats that follow afterwards protect the zinc coating and the steel from acid and alkaline atmospheres and make it possible to get by with less maintenance."

This clipping when presented at the Cove Drive In box office will admit Curtis Harist and guest to attend the show on Sunday, Monday or Tuesday, of this week, free of charge.

PRESBYTERIAN CIRCLE NO. 1 MEETS

Circle No. 1 of the First Presbyterian Church met at 9:30 a.m. on Oct. 10, with the chairman, Mrs. A. L. Bachman.

The following officers were elected: Mrs. L. V. Clark, secretary; Miss Winona McFall, treasurer. The film strip "Profile of a Steward" was shown to the group by Rev. Lang. Mrs. Clifton Tidd read the Emphasis "Church Extension and Stewardship."

All members are urged to observe a moment of prayer each day at 10 a.m.; also to use the Day of Days for daily devotion.

Delicious refreshments of cake and coffee were served to eight members.

CIRCLE NO. 5 MEETS

Circle No. 5, Women of the Presbyterian Church met at the home of the chairman, Mrs. Volney Cavitt, on Thursday morning, Oct. 10, for the first meeting of the new church year for the organization. A social hour was enjoyed by the following members present:

Mesdames Harry Mills, Ted Little, Travis Bailey, Manch Brundrett, Cecil Lang, Jr., Pat Greene, M. D. Oliver, Lloyd Smith and W. T. Suttles.

The business meeting was presided over by the chairman, and other officers named were Mrs. Ted Little, co-chairman; Mrs. Harry Mills, secretary; and Mrs. Lloyd Smith, treasurer.

A moment of silent prayer was observed for the church extension season, which is especially emphasized during the week of Oct. 13-20, and also for the spiritual growth of the church. It was requested that a 10:00 a.m. prayer time be observed daily during the year in the interest of the latter cause. Mrs. Harry Mills gave further emphasis to church extension, and the Rev. Cecil Lang, Jr., presented a film on Stewardship, and took part in a discussion of this phase of the church program.

Mrs. Ted Little gave an interesting introduction to the Bible study for the new year, which will be on The Psalms.

Mrs. M. D. Oliver will be hostess for the November meeting, with Mrs. Harry Mills as moderator for the Bible lesson.

"Electricity helps us live better in 56 wonderful ways"

...Says the Julian H. Ward family of Natalia

"Counting up our appliances, we were amazed to find we have 56 electric helpers in our home—and we wouldn't part with a single one of them," Mrs. Ward says.

"We like everything about our Cold Medallion Home, but I'm particularly happy with the electric heating," Captain Ward says. "Our electric heat pump provides clean, even heat, and it's a comfort to me to know how safe it is."

"Considering the many ways we use electricity, our electric bills have been very reasonable," he says. "We're certainly sold on all-electric living."

Like thousands of other CPL customers, the Wards live better because they make generous and effective use of modern electric service—today's biggest value.

she is 95 and still active and alert. She has lived in Rockport for 72 years and enjoys nothing better than sitting down for a chat about old times.

Mrs. Bailey was born in 1868 in Bee County "out in the sticks" on the Pettus Ranch in the home of her grandfather, John Freeman Pettus, for whom Pettus was later named.

"I was raised by my grandmother and an old maid auntie on that ranch," she recalls. When she was 15, she moved to Goliad where she attended Brooks College.

"Goliad had a grocery store, a dry goods store and a few others. While I was going to school I stayed at a boarding house. There were about 16 of us girls and boys both," she said.

At the college, Mrs. Bailey studied piano.

"Once I entered a piano contest and when the judges tried to pick a winner, they couldn't decide between me and a boy from New York. He was the nephew of the president of the college.

"The judges decided we should draw straws for the winner's medal. The boy drew first and got the short straw and the medal. All my friends thought that he should have let me draw first. Before he left town, several of the boys took him out and roughed him up a bit. About two weeks later, the president gave me a medal too," she said.

Mrs. Bailey is one who believes in "love at first sight"—that's how it happened to her.

"I was getting off the train in Rockport to spend two weeks with a girl friend, when I noticed a young man was staring at me just like he was spellbound. Later my friend introduced me and we were together most of the two weeks I was there.

"He had a dry goods store in Rockport and after he met me, he moved the store to Goliad. We courted about two years before we got married. He told me later that he fell in love with me the first time he saw me," she said.

Mrs. Bailey was married in February, 1891, in Goliad and moved to Rockport the same night. When they arrived a reception was waiting for them in the home of Mr. Bailey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Bailey at the Bailey Hotel.

When it came time for the Baileys to build their house, Mrs. Bailey insisted the house have two chimneys.

"My auntie told me to build my house high off the ground to avoid the water and my daddy told me to build high ceilings to make the house cool," she said.

The house has both — 14 foot ceilings and approximately a four or five foot foundation.

"It has been cool, all right. When the 1919 storm came, no water got into the house. The chimney was blown down, that's the only damage. We were at our ranch outside Rockport during the storm and when we came into town the next morning, we found a boat in our front yard and an ice box beside the house and 40 people who took refuge from the storm inside," she said.

In 1914 the Baileys got a Model T Ford.

"We made a lot of trips in the Ford. One was to Beeville. We got as far as Skidmore and had to stop and clean the spark plugs before we could go on. It is over 60 miles to Beeville from Rockport and we started early in the morning and got there in the afternoon. To keep the dust off of us we wore dusters and caps," she said.

Not long after the Baileys got settled in Rockport, Mrs. Bailey entered the social, civic and religious life of the community.

She is a charter member of the King's Daughters, a philanthropic group who "helped the sick and destitute of the town and cared for the underprivileged children."

"Since trained nurses were not available, we sat up with the sick and made shrouds for the dead," she said.

Mrs. Bailey continued her interest in music by inviting every musician who came to Rockport to give a concert at her home.

"I played the piano myself until two years ago," she added.

She was also active in the Presbyterian church which was minus a building. In 1906 a building campaign was started and Mrs. Bailey took the lead in sponsoring dinners, concerts and tacky parties to raise money for the building.

The Bailey's life in Rockport was interrupted for four years when they moved to Austin.

"My husband was with the game, fish and oyster commission there. He resigned when Pa Ferguson was elected governor. When he was impeached my husband was called back," she said.

In Rockport, Mr. Bailey was sheriff for 14 years.

Mrs. Bailey's son and daughter are Travis Bailey and Mrs. Byron Bushart, both of Rockport.

NOVEMBER DRAFT CALLS FOR 847 TEXANS

Austin.—The state draft quota for November calls for 868 men, compared to 847 for October, Col. Morris S. Schwartz, state Selective Service director, said Tuesday.

State draft calls, on the rise since August, when 552 men were requested, were much lower earlier in the year. The state quotas in July and June were 349 and 187, respectively.

The state quota of 868 for November is the Texas share of a national call for 17,000 men, all for the Army.

More than 3,000 men over the state will be called up for pre-induction physical and mental examinations in November, also, the state director of Selective Service said.

Local board quotas for the November call already have been figured and sent to the state's 137 local boards.

The November quota will be filled mostly with men who are volunteers under 26 years old and non-volunteers ages 19 through 25. Most of them will be 22 and 23 years old.

No man whose draft board file reflects that he is maintaining a bona fide family relationship with a wife or a child or children will be selected in response to this call.
