Give Rotary Minstrel Here Tuesday Night

By MRS. JOHN LEE
The Rotary Club is presenting The Ebony Boys, minstrels of all the minstrels. The curtain will go up on this show of fun and frolic at 8 o'clock, Tuesday evening, February 26, at the High School Auditorium. The proceeds from this show will be used to buy a piano for the auditorium of the Community Building.

Beside the antics of the colorful endmen the show is sparked with the outstanding musical talent of this area. Mayor L. B. Bratton is at his best; Mrs. Pat Swift and Miss Peggy Riggs give the show the ladies that makes the best come from the male members of the cast.

Raymond Horton and John King bring a duet combination that will delight the audience with their arrangement of The Gospel Boogie. Dr. Charlie Jones gets religion and delivers a typical "Darkie" sermon that will have you rolling in the aisles. Tom Bryant goes poetical and adds a chatter with only Tom could justice. The ever popular Horace Small will dance right into your hearts; as well as, Andrea Leach, Kaye and Gaile Peeples, and the charlestonists, Mary and Ruthie McCaskill. Elinor King recites as a colored child.

Throw the music of the Jazz Band with King Bowen performing on the piano, Bennett Goodloe on the bass fiddle, Peck White on the Drums, Odis Killingsworth on the

Annual Quail Junior High School Basketball Tourney Opens Feb. 27

The annual Quail Junior High Basketball Tournament will get underway Wednesday, February 27, and continue through Saturday night, March 1, Bill Phillips, coach, announced this week.

Twenty-one teams, both boys and girls, are entered in the tournament, to compete for first and second place trophies. A consolation trophy is also offered.

Arthur Dakils to McAlester, Okla.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dakil and son, Floyd, moved this week to McAlester, Oklahoma, where they are opening a dry goods store.

They have operated Dakil's Quality Store for the last four years.

"We sincerely hate to leave Wellington, and our friends here, but we had an opportunity to get an excellent location for a store and McAlester is booming," Mr. Dakil said. He added that they will return here to visit frequently.

They will operate their new store as The Fair.

Mr. Dakil was born in Lebanon and lived in Brazil a number of years before coming to the United States to make his home. Mrs. Dakil is from Detroit.

They have taken part in many phases of community life during the time they were here.

Under the tournament rules, the junior high boys team includes seventh, eighth and freshman students, with 16 as the age limit. Seventh and eighth grade girls play, with 15 as the age limit. This tournament is expected to draw some of the largest crowds of any sports event at Quail this year, Phillips said.

Teams entered are Quail A and B girls teams, the Quail Boys, and one girl's team and a boys team from Lelia Lake, Memphis, Turkey, Lakeview, Kellerville, Lela, and Alameed. Boys teams will enter from Hedley, Childress, Samnorwood and Clarendon.

The first games open at 6:00 p. m. Wednesday evening with the Kellerville and Lelia Lake girls playing the opener. At 7:00 p. m. the Lakeview boys will meet the Lelia Lake boys; at 8:00 p. m.

the Quail Girls A team and Alameed girls meet, and at 9:00 p. m. the Quail and Alameed boys.

Thursday afternoon at 1:00 p. m. Childress and Clarendon boys tangle and two other games will be played. Four games are scheduled Thursday night, starting at 6:00 p. m. There will be three games Friday afternoon; four Friday night; two Saturday morning, two Saturday afternoon, and four Championship games Saturday night.

The admission price for all sessions except the finals will be 35c for adults and 20 cents for students. The finals admission will be 50 cents and 25 cents. Tournament tickets, selling for $1.00, will enable the holder to see 25 games—all except the finals. Family tickets for all games except the finals will be $3.00.

Teachers Attend Reading Meet

Miss Bonnie Willis, county supervisor of Hall County schools, and Miss Sara Jones, Wellington fourth grade instructor, were in Dallas recently to attend the reading institute sponsored by Southern Methodist University, Texas Christian University, North Texas State College and East Texas State College.

"For a generation, teaching word attack skills has been a lost art. During the time some educators, in their anxiety to modify the false emphasis of the past, openly challenged the necessity of any word attack skills at all and particularly phonics," Dr. Artley of the University of Missouri told the group.

"Reading gradually deteriorated at this vital point, as a result children came from our schools poorly of not totally unprepared for independent attack on new words, and this badly crippled our reading program."

"Public pressure finally forced a revolution of word preception skills and demanded a properly balanced reading program that includes phonics."

Others among the outstanding list of speakers urged the need to bring every experience to the classroom and give vicarious experience drama. A basic reading program through the twelfth grade was also recommended.

Plans were originally made for 400 at this meeting, but more than 1200 Texas teachers attended.

Group to Direct County Red Cross Drive Named

Chairman for the various divisions of the Red Cross Roll Call, to be staged here during March, were announced this week by C. T. Roberts, county roll call chairman.

Duane Scott will head the advanced gifts committee. C. P. Mitchell is chairman of the entire county outside of Wellington, while Mrs. John Holton and Mrs. Henry Sullivan are co-chairmen of Wellington's residential area.

Claude Nelson heads the business section. Workers with him will be Austin White, businesses on Highway 83; O. D. Holton, Eighth Street east of the square; Floyd Hood, east side of the square and south on East Avenue.

Bob Leggett and Earl Clement, West side of the square and west on 9th street; Mack Saied Jr., north side of the square; and Ed Miller, west on 8th Street.

W. W. Monroe, Long-time Grocer, Dies February 15

W. W. Monroe, a groceryman in this area for 45 years, died at his home at McAllen Friday, February 15. He and Mrs. Monroe had made their home there since retiring from active management of their Wellington Store in 1947.

Mr. Monroe operated a grocery store in Vinson for 45 years and was one of the respected and loved merchants of the trade area of these two points.

His body was returned here, and funeral services were held at Vinson Monday afternoon, with Minister Wiley Henry officiating. Pall bearers were Jack Cristy and Leslie Wooldridge of Wellington; G. C. Smith of Vinson, and Lawrence Carpenter, Jimmy Duffy and Dolfus Goodman of Mangum. Burial was in the Independence cemetery with the Ellis Funeral home in charge.

Mr. Monroe was born in Morris-town, Tennessee, November 20, 1872, and at the time of his death he was 79 years, two months and 25 days of age. His parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Q. A. Monroe, moved to Fannin County, Texas, when he was eight years of age, and he grew up there.

On August 1, 1900, he was married to Miss Beulah E. Davenport by the Rev. R. W. Tarpley. They continued to live in Fannin County six years, then moved to Vinson, then in the Indian Territory, and established a grocery.

The principals on which he built his life, including his business relationships and his participation in community affairs, were honesty and helpfulness, but never did he seek recognition or acclaim for himself.

His generosity he kept equally as quiet, but those who have been helped by him, either by money, groceries or other means, are many hundreds. His family nor friends know the extent to which he gave, and he himself did not know. This was especially true during the depression years.

Orphans found a warm spot in his heart, and two institutions to which he contributed generously were the Tipton Orphan's Home at

Immunization Program for School Children Planned

A city-wide program to immunize all school children against small pox, diphtheria, and typhoid without cost to parents, was announced this week by W. R. Ritter, Wellington City Sanitarian.

The only cost involved in this program is for the tuberculosis patch and there will be a charge of ten cents for that part of this program.

Students have already been handed slips at schools for acquiring written permission of their parents to take the free vaccinations against one, two or three of these dreaded diseases. Most of the slips have been returned to the schools but if any have been overlooked or should there be any existing absentees on the date that these slips were handed out to the students, they are urged to acquire one from their respective principal and return it to the school authorities at the earliest possible date.

Vaccines are being furnished without cost to this city program and this program is being made possible through the cooperation of E. K. Jones, Wellington City Health Officer, Charles R. Roberts, Superintendent of Schools, Texas State Health Department and W. R. Ritter, Wellington Sanitarian.

This immunization program is not compulsory but it is hoped parents will take advantage of the program which is aimed to cut the death rate in the county, particularly through eliminating much typhoid and diphtheria.

"This program will not include pre-school children but is available to only those who are enrolled in Wellington public schools."

"Thus remember that we all have to live in the community together almost to the point of being one big family when one or more of us are ill or have a disease, there is going to be an effect on some other person or group of persons in that big family. Immunization is one way to forestall any such happening . . . and it is up to each of us as individuals to see that we, and our family, are properly protected by immunization," Mr. Ritter said.

"The following statement is often heard 'I don't like to have needles stuck into the arms of my children or in my own arm either for that matter.' But it is far better to have a little pain for a few seconds, than you can soon forget, than to have a pain that may result in the loss of life. None of us want to see our children suffer from anything . . . and most especially anything that we could have prevented," he continued.

"Let's be sure that our children are given every chance to get started on the road of life in fine wealth, by giving them the proper precautions in advance. By immunization, large numbers of our people have been spared the suffering that might have been theirs, and their lives have been prolonged where early death might have resulted. By granting permission for your children to enter this free city-wide immunization program, their lives may be made free from such suffering in later years . . . and their lives may be made longer and happier by your thoughtfulness now."

The tentative date now set for the starting of this program is March 18th and it will take approximately 30 days to complete the program.

All parents are urged to get behind this program through their children's participation so that a higher plane of health may be obtained in our community.

Cochran Drug Becomes Walgreen Store Here

The Cochran Drug Store is holding a special observance Friday and Saturday, February 22 and 23 as a Walgreen agency store, Mrs. A. L. Cochran and Jimmy Cochran, owners, have announced.

"We are indeed happy to announce our association with the Walgreen stores. It will enable us to better serve those of you who have been our loyal customers through the years. It helps us come nearer to our goal of presenting high quality merchandise at popular prices," Mr. Cochran said.

The Cochran Drug was established in Wellington 27 years ago by the late A. L. Cochran, who before coming here was a druggist at Pauls Valley, Oklahoma.

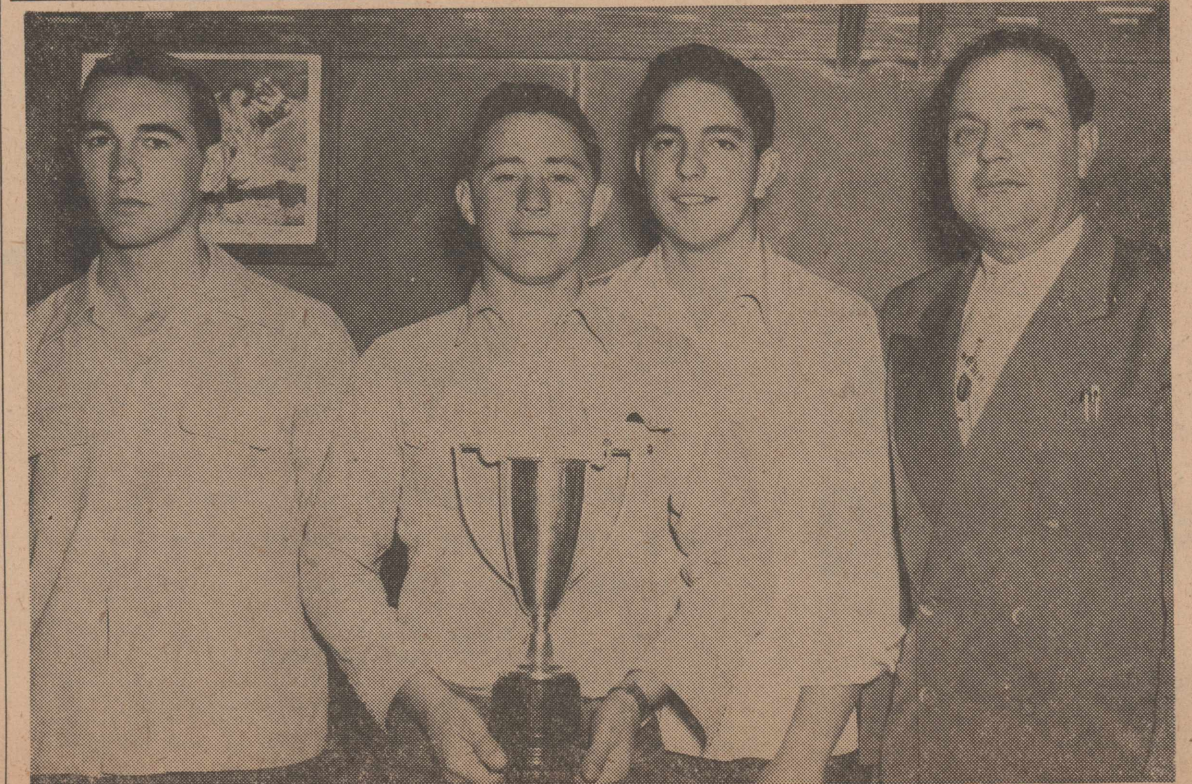

During recent months, considerable remodeling has been under way on the interior of the store, and still further improvement is planned, Mr. Cochran said.

Featured by the store are its prescription department, fountain department, which includes a sandwich grill, and its cosmetic lines, in addition to its many other departments.

The gift section of the store is one of the most complete in this area, featuring may fine lines.

The first Walgreen Store was established in 1901, as an independent store. Walgreen now owns 421 stores outright, and there are more than 1800 agency stores, of which Cochran Drug is one.

"We are very happy to have Cochran as one of us," F. E. Mangrum, sales manager for Walgreen in the West-Texas and Eastern New Mexico area, said. He is here this week to assist in the Walgreen opening.

The Four Pillars

We were interested in a pamphlet containing the text of a recent speech by W. G. Vollmer, president of the Texas & Pacific Railroad, with the title, "The Four Pillars of Freedom."

Before we read the speech, we sat down and tried to figure out what we would list as the four pillars of freedom. When we finished jotting down our notes we had more than a dozen such pillars, all of which seemed indispensable.

Then we opened Mr. Vollmer's pamphlet to check on the four he listed. He summed them up at the conclusion of his speech this way:

"We have at our command the tools to preserve freedom, and to aid in restoring peace to a tired and unhappy world."

"Let's use these tools—Work, Save, Vote and Pray—patriotically and unself-

OTHER EDITORS SAY:—

Revolution in the South

Of interest to farm folks in Iowa who have badly eroded lands and worn-out pastures, and there are plenty of such in Marion County, is the revolution going on in the South. Conversion to grass and renovation of worn-out pastures is going by leaps and bounds, the states leading, North Carolina and Alabama. All the states are advancing. And with that goes rising beef cattle and dairy cows production.

Here are some interesting figures. Five years ago North Carolina had but 500 acres of improved "permanent" pasture. In 1950 there were 700,000 acres. In 1940 North Carolina livestock and livestock products were worth less than $34 million—in 1950 they were worth $147 million. In the ten years dairy and beef cattle numbers increased from 595,000 to 710,000. Fluid milk production increased from 30 to 78 million pounds. The livestock and products income in 1950 exceeded that from all the state's cotton, peanut, corn and truck crops.

Revolutionary, this change-over. And it's far from completed. The program calls for more retirement to grass, more beef and dairy cattle production, less planting to row crops.

Couple this picture with the fact that the South has developed grasses and legumes that flourish the year 'round and one gets an idea of the competition to come to Iowa livestock farmers in short years. Iowa can't have year 'round pastures but certainly the man who wants to compete with the southern farmer will have to make the most of his pastures. Old hide-bound blue grass pastures are not the answer.

Our own information is that farmers of Marion County are not retiring their rough land to grass. They continue to plow it. Some who have renovated pastures short years ago have already let them go to pot. Surprising, isn't it, that in the state where the farmers rank in first place in intelligence and know-how they would persist in disregarding the signs and portents coming out of the awakening Southland?

—The Pella (Oowa) Chronicle

It's There — If You Look

Along with the one-room school, many rural churches have felt the impact of an age that makes for larger farms, fewer farmers and as much more farm population.

As a result many a rural church has fallen by the wayside.

To the American Sunday School Union with headquarters in Philadelphia, these abandoned rural churches have come as a challenge. This group has busier it-fishly.

"Let's WORK hard and earnestly at the task of strengthening ourselves spiritually, morally and economically."

"Let's SAVE our free American way of life, no matter what the sacrifices may be."

"Let's VOTE at every election for people who place the welfare of their country above their personal welfare."

"Let's PRAY for the wisdom and the courage to do our duty as good Americans, faithful to God and our country."

There are the four pillars of freedom—Work, Save, Vote and Pray.

If we keep these four pillars strong, we don't need any more. The dozen or so we jotted down are superfluous if the American people will observe the four Mr. Vollmer suggests—Amarillo News.

self starting Sunday School in many of these churches.

As result, 270 new Sunday schools have been organized in areas formerly without this Christian facility. In the year just ended these schools attracted nearly 8,500 students.

During the year the American Sunday School Union was responsible for more than 2,600 Sunday schools. Out of these schools, some in areas of formerly abandoned churches and some elsewhere, came 23 new churches of various denominations.

All of which proves once again that hope is where one makes it—not where one finds it.

A tramp approached a prosperous looking individual one day. When he saw the man put his hand in his pocket the bum cried out, "May the blessing of God follow you all of your life." But when the wealthy one pulled out only his handkerchief, the tramp immediately added, "—and never overtake ye."

Adequate Spraying for Weeds

A trap through nearby areas in Minnesota last crop season has convinced W. H. Dolan, editor of the Milbank Review, that farmers there are not making a sufficient effort to eliminate weeds from their land.

The Register continues to rejoice that South Dakota farmers are taking an interest in the fight against weeds. It was particularly noticeable in Brookings county during the 1951 crop season. Field after field of small grain was almost completely free from weeds because adequate spraying had been done. Scientists have become convinced that there is no danger of impregnating the soil with harmful chemicals and it is believed that more spraying than ever will be done the coming season.

The Register is disposed to give considerable credit to C. J. Gilbert, in charge of the weed program, and his assistants for the expanding interest.

Jesus Washes the Feet of His Disciples

The 12 men whom Jesus gathered around Him as His first disciples had humble occupations, but they were no ordinary men. They were fired with great ambition and were quite capable of adventure. They thought themselves able for anything so long as their ambitions were attained.

One can see this in glimpses of the New Testament record. "The mother of Zebedee's children" requested that her sons, James and John, occupy the highest places in the earthly kingdom which she assumed Jesus would set up. The other disciples were furious when they heard of her request. At another time Jesus overheard His followers discussing which of them would be the greatest.

Jesus rebuked them again and again, saying that they must be like little children if they would enter the kingdom of heaven. He assured them that greatness in His kingdom was not according to worldly standards. He who would be greatest must become the servant of all and He cited His own example, "I am among you as one that serveth."

But despite the Master's teaching and example, it seemed the disciples would not learn. So Christ decided to give them one impressive lesson by an act of complete humility and lowly service.

Foot washing was a prevalent and very necessary custom in that ancient land and time. The disciples were well acquainted with the practice.

But in their high-toned notions of greatness and their eagerness to be first they would have scorned to perform such a service for one another. Imagine their surprise when they saw Jesus girding Himself with a towel and doing that very thing.

The later lives of these disciples proves that the lesson was certainly an effective one. Souls, as well as feet, were washed in that upper room.

INTEREST HIGH IN FOOD HANDLERS SCHOOL HELD HERE LAST WEEK

Forty four firms were represented and one hundred five individual certificates were issued following a food handlers' school conducted at the Wellington Municipal Building on February 11th through the 13th.

J. T. Warren, Field Sanitation Advisor of the Texas State Department of Health conducted classes twice daily and was high in his praise of the interest, cooperation and attendance in this school.

"This food handlers' school in Wellington just concluded, has been among the best schools I have ever held," Mr. Warren declared. "The cooperation was excellent and interest was good. The city of Wellington should be commended upon its alertness to health and sanitation problems and conditions."

Mr. Warren said the classes did not constitute merely a food handlers' school but a general health program.

"The public is becoming more and more health conscious and it is a certainty that the subjects covered in the classes held here, should enable all food handlers to satisfy the growing demand of the public by raising their standards of sanitation and health preservation," Wellington Sanitarian W. R. Ritter said.

Mr. Ritter added that he was highly pleased with interest shown and expressed his appreciation for the public's cooperation and participating firms in making the school such a successful project.

Represented at the school were 12 restaurants, three drug stores, four cafeterias, one private dining room, one bakery, eight housewives, one milk plant, one locker plant, one hospital, four public schools and eight groceries and markets. This represents 44 out of a potential 51 establishments eligible.

Texas Dairymen Far Below the National Figure

COLLEGE STATION, Texas dairymen have a long way to go before they produce milk as efficiently as the average dairyman in the nation.

This is shown by 1950 cost and production averages for members of Texas Dairy Herd Improvement Associations and for the average DHIA member in the United States.

Although the average Texas DHIA dairyman received more for his milk and had more money left after paying his feed bill than did the average U. S. DHIA dairyman, this was not the result of higher producing cows or a more efficient feeding program. Higher price for milk in Texas was the reason for this difference.

Cows in Texas associations produced an average of 6,781 pounds of milk in 1950, compared to 9,172 pounds for the average cow in associations of the whole nation.

Total feed cost per cow for Texas DHIA dairymen averaged $151. The U. S. average was $147—with 2,391 pounds more milk produced.

Too much dependence on feed from a sack is the reason for the Texas DHIA member's high feed cost, says, A. M. Meekma, dairy-husbandman for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Meekma points out that 100 pounds of total digestible nutrients from a concentrate mix feed costs approximately $5. The same pounds of total digestible nutrients would cost only about 50 cents from improved pasture, or $1.70 from silage.

Meekma emphasizes that the average Texas dairyman must have higher producing cows and feed more roughages if he is to raise himself to the ranks of the average U. S. dairyman in efficient milk production.

Your Manners Are Showing

COLLEGE STATION — Good table manners should be practiced at home if they are to become a habit in public. To be well-mannered at the table is to eat food without attracting attention and being rude to others says Jimmie Nell Harris, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Passing food correctly is an easy habit to acquire. Food may be passed from the right or left so long as all food is going in the same direction. The dish should be held close to the body as it is passed. Never take food first unless the hostess suggests it.

There are a few musts in personal table habits that should be observed continues Miss Harris. A few of these are the hair should be combed and hands clean; sit and rise from the left of the chair; unfold the napkin on the lap and not above the table; do not lounge at the table, sit erect; while eating keep the elbows close to the sides, when not eating keep the hands in the lap; do not butter a whole piece of bread at one time, break it into slices and butter as eaten; do not talk with the mouth full and take small bites; do not reach for food, ask to have it passed; never leave the spoon standing in the tea or coffee cup, and always dip the spoon away from you when eating soup.

Meal time can be a happy occasion for the family if every member will be as polite to each other as to visitors. Miss Harris says if due consideration for others is joined with common sense and self respect, everyday manners become a part of gracious living.

Income Tax Deputy Here February 25

Deputy Collector William E. Palmer will be at the county court house in Wellington Monday, February 25, from 8:30 a. m. to 5:00 p. m. to assist county residents with income tax problems if they desire it. This will be his only visit here before March 15.

The preparation of individual income tax returns for the year 1951 usually presents some problems to the average citizen with which assistance is desired, it was pointed out. This is the reason for the service to be offered by Mr. Palmer.

A. J. Rogers Rotary Speaker

A. J. Rogers of Childress, candidate for state senator from the newly created 30th senatorial district, was guest speaker at the Rotary Club luncheon Tuesday, February 19, discussing the importance of state and local government.

"Government is the business of all of us and we must take an interest in it or somebody else will," he told the Wellington business men.

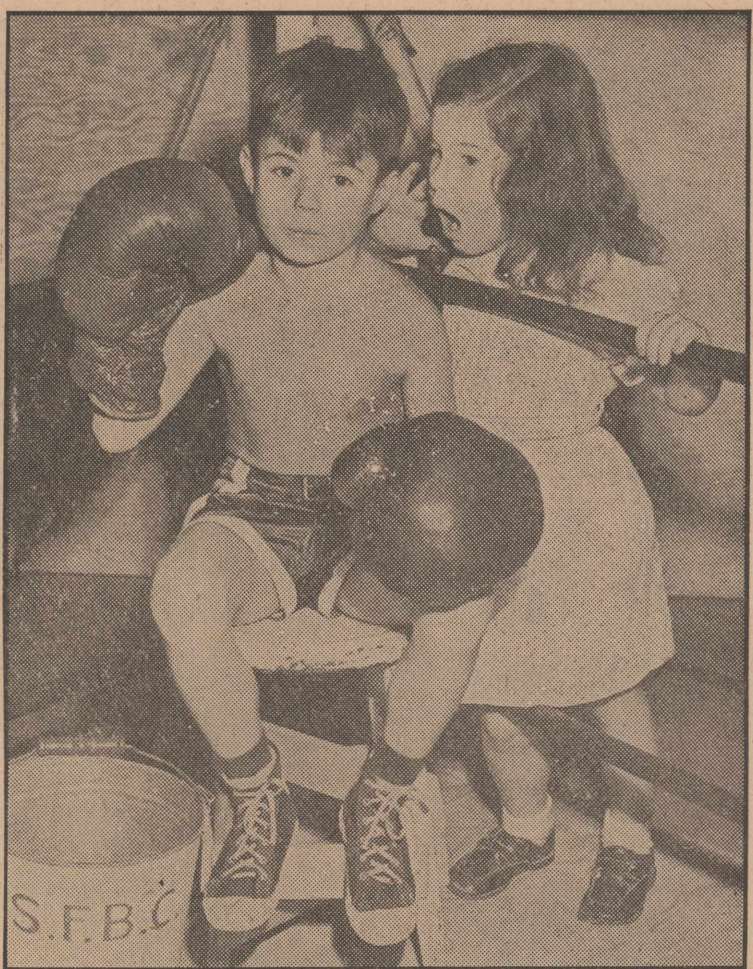

Rogers was reared on his father's farm near Childress, graduated from Childress high school and A&M College as an honor student, then served in the Air Force as a navigator during World War II. He was elected state representative from his district in 1948 and re-elected without opposition two years later.

In the legislature he has been a leader in the fight for taxes on natural gas exported from the state, for more and better roads, for an experiment station in the Blow-sand area of the Panhandle, and many other important pieces of legislation.

He also served on several important committees.

Beekeepers Meet Tues., Feb. 25

All farmers having bees who grow alfalfa are urged to attend a beekeepers meeting at the Court House Tuesday, February 25 at 7:30 p. m., John Thomas has announced.

Purpose of the meeting is to organize a Collingsworth County Beekeepers Association.

"Last year the Kaufman County Beekeepers Association, with all agricultural agencies co-operating, assisted migratory beekeepers in placing an estimated 10,000 colonies of bees at various farms in the county," Thomas said.

"The farmers were anxious to get bees because it is definitely clear that a hive of bees per acre will increase the seed yield. In many cases yields have been tripled where bees were abundant."

"This same thing can be done here in this county with alfalfa. There are two big reasons to present for organizing this association. They are to control and stamp out the number one disease among bees, American Foulbrood, and to bring more migratory bees into the county to pollinate alfalfa."

E. L. Kurth Heads 1952 Cancer Drive

AUSTIN — Acceptance by Ernest L. Kurth, Keltys lumberman and founder of the South's newsprint industry, of the state chairmanship of the 1952 Texas Cancer Crusade, has been announced by Frank C. Smith of Houston, president of the American Cancer Society, Texas Division.

Mr. Kurth will head the greatest educational and fund-raising drive against cancer ever staged in Texas, Mr. Smith said, in making the announcement.

"During April, county units of the Cancer Society throughout Texas will launch a vigorous educational drive to remind Texans that cancer can usually be cured if discovered in time and adequately treated," Mr. Smith said. "Volunteers will also solicit funds for cancer research, for service to cancer patients and for a year-round educational program to acquaint Texans with facts about the disease," he added.

Mr. Kurth's acceptance of the chairmanship of the 1952 Texas Cancer Crusade follows a life-long pattern of civic and community responsibility.

In December of 1949 he was named the South's "Man of the Year" in recognition of his role in developing the East Texas pine pulp newsprint industry. Mr. Kurth is president and founder of the Southland Paper Mills of Lufkin.

Recently, he was awarded the Mexican government's highest decoration for a foreign civilian — "The Order of the Aztec Eagle"

See the new Spring line of — presented in recognition of his service in the cause of inter-American understanding and friendship. Commenting on Mr. Kurth's alliance with the 1952 Cancer Crusade, Mr. Smith said, "He has been hailed as a native son who is a living example of what free enterprise can accomplish. The Society feels he will provide the leadership and inspiration for Texas' greatest voluntary effort to educate its citizens to the true facts of cancer, and to raise the funds necessary to continue the battle against it. The organization is most fortunate in securing the leadership of a man so highly regarded."

New Summer Footwear at a Budget Price

BY EDNA MILES

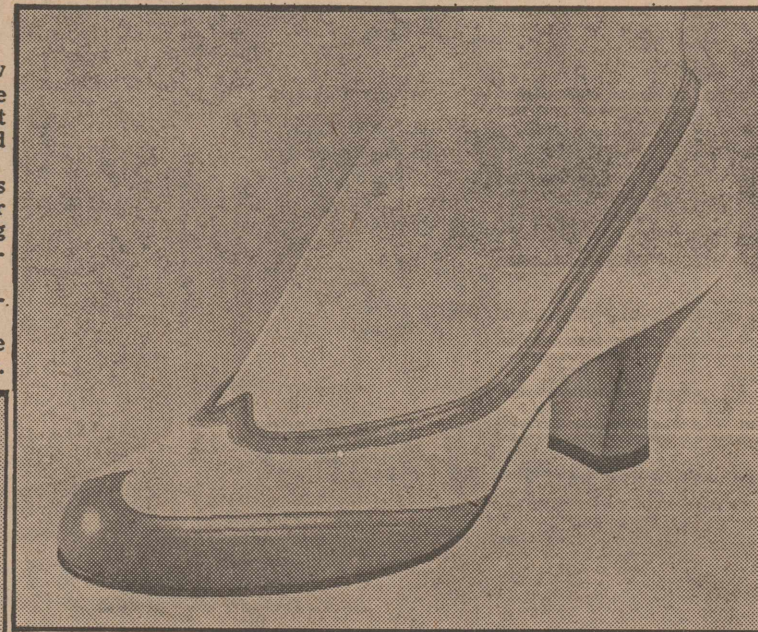

THE spectator pump, for the resort and summer season, has a new and airy look—and all at a budget price. This new look is due largely to the mid-height shaped heel and the peaked vamp. But freshness in treatment comes also from use of Panama straw and harlequin color combinations.

In one collection of shoe designs, done for A. S. Beck, emphasis is placed on the textured look in fabrics. Checkerboard weaves appear on the vamps and heels of pumps and sandals, rows of fine pleating are used at the sides of sandals. White lace embroidery gives a delicate look to fall in color combinations.

Color stands out, both in combinations of two tones and in the multi-color pastels, often frosted with sparkling white. Straw mesh, handled with overlay embroidery, and nylon porthole lace lend a feeling of lightness to the vamps of pumps and sandals.

This light and airy spectator pump gets a toe of cool-looking Panama straw. This version has a shaped mid-height heel and a rounded throat. It's done in navy calf with natural straw.

The ever-popular spectator pump goes demure, with a little Louis heel and a prettily peaked vamp. It's shown here in white suede with a tan calf trim.

Fagot stitching is used to gain the French dressmaker air. Very dressy linen pumps and sandals often have multi-color flowers embroidered on lace and one open ankle-tie sandal in shantung has embroidered eyelet daisy trim. On pastel kid wedges and flat-heeled shoes, tiny colored circles create a confetti effect.

Clogs appear for the first time this year in wood as well as in cork. The wood base clog that's high but lightweight, is done in mule and sabot versions and in gold, silver and pastel combinations.

The bareback feeling is present throughout this entire collection and looks best with narrow stripping and open back and instep straps, done up in a wide variety of solid pastels and multicolor combinations.

COLLEGE STATION — The Texas 4-H Electric Program, conducted for the past three years, will be continued.

This announcement was made by Floyd Lynch, state 4-H club leader, following a recent meeting of representatives of Texas electric service companies at College Station.

The Texas phase of this program, sponsored by the 12 electric service companies of the state, is in addition to the 4-H farm and home electric program sponsored on a national basis by the Westinghouse Educational Foundation, Pittsburgh, Pa.

This activity helps 4-H club boys and girls find a better way of doing things on the farm and in the home through electricity.

The first place winner in each of the 12 Extension districts receives a $50 cash award. Second, third and fourth place winners receive $30, $20 and $15.

The two counties in each Extension district with the best organized 4-H electrification program will receive cash awards also — $75 for first place and $50 for second.

Approximately 4,500 Texas 4-H club members participated in the 1951 program.

"This program has a bearing on all phases of farm living and farm production," says Lynch. "With the good foundation laid during the last three years, we can look forward to a much more constructive program in the future."

Looking Ahead

With George S. Benson

When a nation has a sound economic system, with incentives and freedoms such as we have in the United States, there still may be some backward areas where there is lack of leadership and vision and where improvement in the standard of living for the whole population drags very slowly. Nobody has been starving, of course; but there has been a noticeable lag in progress and general betterment in some few areas.

In my journeys through our country I've seen some of these slow-to-progress areas. This column today is a report on what has happened to one of them. The report reflects great credit on 1,000 Arkansas business and professional men who have provided leadership and vision and a willingness to spend their energies, and resources for the common good.

A COMMUNITY AWAKENS

A few years ago I visited a small city in Arkansas and found its commerce, its economic and social life to be standing still — making no visible progress. The leading hotel had frayed carpets on the lobby floor, the Main Street buildings were droopy-looking and in need of paint, many dwellings and yards were untended, and it seemed to me that even the people themselves moved about the streets listlessly. There appeared to be no pride, no ambition present.

Today this little Arkansas city which was fast asleep a few years ago is wide awake and soundly prosperous; living standards throughout the population are high, opportunities are wide open for everybody. It is probably the fastest growing community in the South. You immediately ask—What has happened? The answer is that its business and professional men were awakened and prodded into civic action by an organization called "The Arkansas Economic Council." In its ten years of existence the Council has proved to the whole state that people can "pull themselves up by their own bootstraps."

NEW WEALTH WANTED

The Council was founded by a handful of public-spirited business men. The primary purpose was to get new manufacturing plants started to boost the production of wealth in Arkansas — locally financed home industries to process local raw materials, and large out-of-state factories with big payrolls. The handful of leaders went over the state buttonholing business men in the 75 counties. Soon they had enlisted 1,000 men. A technical staff was employed and a resources inventory was made in every county.

The business men in each community then held "Build Your Own Home Town" clinics. All kinds of people attended — from women's clubs, the schools, the churches, from all phases of the community's life. Local projects were scheduled on a priority basis and the citizens literally rolled up their sleeves and went to work. New industries began to pop up all over the state; new parks and playgrounds appeared, school and health facilities were expanded and improved; downtown areas were modernized; new job opportunities opened up in more than 100 Arkansas communities.

A GREAT ACHIEVEMENT

The Council has just held its annual statewide meeting in Little Rock. More than 700 of the original 1,000 business and industrial executives and professional men interrupted busy schedules to attend. They all have been giving as much as several weeks each year to the "community development" clinics and to providing leadership in pushing to completion the projects selected in these clinics.

The progress report made at the statewide meeting shows what people can do with this kind of leadership and inspiration. In ten years Arkansas has made the greatest economic growth in the nation, has led all states in per capita income increase. Hundreds of new industries — big and little — have been established, thousands of new jobs created, millions of dollars in new payrolls created. In the past three years, 138 Arkansas communities have held the clinics and have begun to improve themselves — modernize, pave streets, build playgrounds, improve their schools, and to do the other things that go along with wholesome progress.

The Socialists and their followers are always hammering away at the American business man. Yet, when all the facts are known he is revealed as the truly great progressive force, providing vision, leadership, know-how and willing service in America's march toward a still better life for all.

COLLEGE STATION — High acre yields, efficiently produced, determine the profit from growing cotton. One of the more important determining factors in high cotton yields is keeping the damage caused by insects to a minimum. Another mighty important item is the weather but man has been unable to do much about solving this problem. He can, however, through the use of the right insecticides at the right time materially increase the production of quality cotton.

It is not too early to make plans now for carrying the fight to the cotton insects, says A. C. Gunter, entomologist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. He suggests that every cotton producer in Texas obtain a copy of C-182, "1952 Guide for Controlling Cotton Insects in Texas" from his local county agent's office.

The recommended control program for 1952 is divided into three phases; early season control, late season control, based on actual infestation and early stalk destruction and farm cleanup, says Gunter.

Right now, the specialist says is the time to get the spraying or dusting equipment repaired and ready for use. Labor is expected to be in short supply when the heavy work season arrives and unless everything is in readiness, valuable time may be lost getting equipment ready for fighting the bugs. Time is on the side of the bugs, adds the specialist and unless cotton producers get in the first "lick," the job of controlling the harmful insects is made more difficult and expensive.

It's just good management to plan ahead, says Gunter and especially in view of the expected shortages in labor and farm equipment.

The Buck Creek Philosopher

The Buck Creek Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm. Buck Creek won't get anywhere with his proposal this week, but it may have its attractive side. Dear editor:

I was out here yesterday sweating over my income tax records, it's a good thing they don't hold elections at this time of the year, wouldn't anybody get elected, when a friend came by and suggested we go fishin and I let my pencil drop from where it was in mid-air and went with him.

While we were fishin he got to talkin about how his income tax was and what a lot of trouble making in out a government report is and I told him about a suggestion one of my readers made recently and one thing led to another and we worked out a system of eliminatin all this annual figurin and self-demoralizen which I am surprised somebody in Washington hasn't thought of before now.

As I understand it, under the present system there is considerable complaint over withholdin taxes, social security taxes, income taxes, payroll taxes, etc., not only over the fact it takes money to pay em but because it's such a nuisance to keep books on the whole shebang. Time a man keeps all the forms and records necessary to satisfy the government he ain't got enough time left for any original thinkin in his business or ain't in the mood.

Now under this new system I'm workin on all the bookkeepin and form-fillin-out would be eliminat-ed. All tax frauds would end. Instead of a business man withholdin part of an employee's pay, making in out a form for the government and one for the employee and one for himself, then sendin the withheld money to the government and the employee balancin their books at the end of the year, with generally considerable argument and dissatisfaction and glowerin over which one owes the other one, there wouldn't be any records at all. He'd just withhold everything.

Under this system, whenever anybody makes any money, worker, owner, or what not, it's turned over to the government right then, all of it. No deductions, no withholdin, nothin kept back.

Everything a man bought would then be charged, and all grocery ills, drygoods bills, drug bills, etc., would be turned over to the government for settlement. Anything left over the government would hold for your old age, if it couldn't think of any new dams to build.

This would virtually eliminate the need for any cash, except maybe pocket change for tippin and carfare in the cities and something to put in the cold drink machines, nobody would have to keep any records, no more overdrawn bank accounts, very few banks. It would be impossible to cheat on your income tax and impossible to make an error, since there wouldn't be any more income tax reports, would eliminate fraud among tax collectors and the temptation to fraud by simply eliminatin the tax collectors, and would free everybody's mind for deep thinkin on world problems.

If you think this program has any merit, what's Congress hung on?

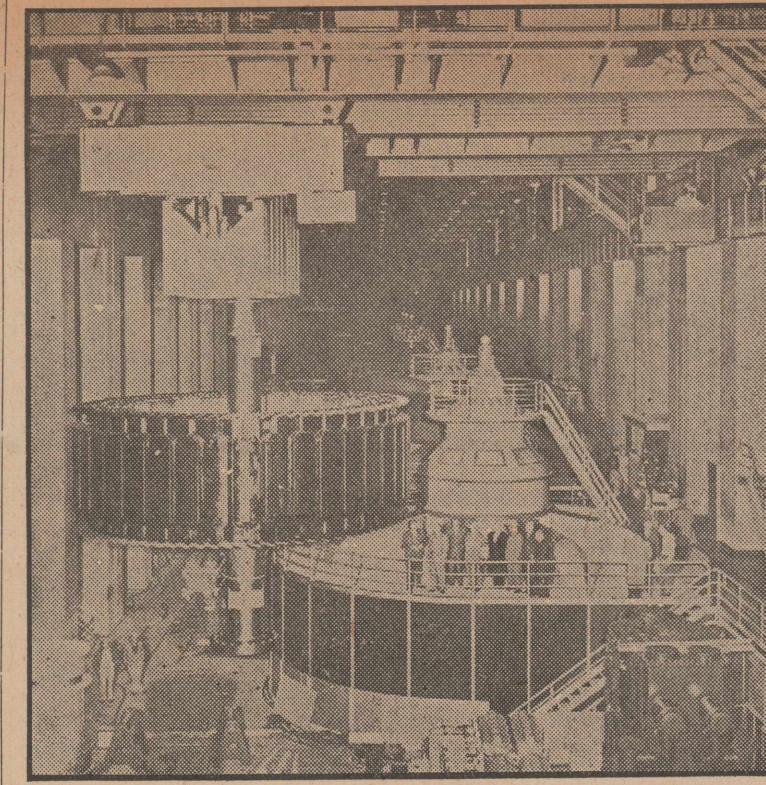

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Wildlife Deserves Better Treatment

COLLEGE STATION — Texans, young and old who like their hunting and fishing, can make contributions that will improve the wildlife of the state.

Since wildlife cannot always be controlled on the land where it is produced, R. E. Callender, specialist in wildlife conservation for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, points out that it is often desirable for neighboring landowners to pool their lands and operate their combined holdings as a unit. A program of protection, habitat improvement — providing food and cover — together with a regulated harvest during the open seasons can be more easily carried out by an organized group, says Callender.

Large cooperative areas where suitable habitats are found make a program of restocking possible. Deer and wild turkeys have been returned to many areas of the state through restocking programs, and many of these areas now offer some of the state's best hunting. The specialist cites as an example the area in southern Robertson county. Deer from this re-stocked area have populated considerable sections of adjoining counties until this central Texas area has become a hunter's paradise.

TOOK A LOT OF DAM POWER—Government officials at Boulder City, Nevada are dwarfed by this huge rotor which is being moved by two 300-ton capacity cranes at Hoover Dam. The generator rotor is being lifted from the assembly pit at one end of the Arizona wing and being shuttled to its place half way to the other end of the wing. Those two cranes can share a burden of 600 tons—equivalent to the weight of three railroad locomotives.

In the case of bobwhite quail, Callender says they are well distributed over the entire state but in many areas the population is down to seed stock levels. He urges landowners and hunters to save these stocks and to begin a program that will improve their chances for multiplying. This can be done, he says, by improving the supply of food and cover in the area. He suggests that waste lands, nooks and corners be allowed to grow up with native plants. Strips of grain, he continues, may be sown around the margin of fields and left unharvested for the quail. Plowed or disced strips or contours in pasture lands will often increase the growth of dove and other weeds that provide food for game birds. He points out that, this is also a good soil and water conservation practice and will increase the production from grazing lands. Since quail are ground nesting birds, they are subjected to many natural hazards — floods at nesting time, short food supplies and scanty cover during droughts and they also suffer from predators. It is Callender's opinion that every one can have a part in conserving and more wisely using the wildlife resources of our state. He urges homeowners to lay out the welcome mat for the insect eating song birds by providing good homes for these feathered friends. Planting ornamental shrubs which produce food, providing water and supplemental feed will help keep desirable birds around the house the year-round, says Callender.

Last but not least, he adds, the income from wildlife resources including hunting leases, fishing permits and the sale of furs amounts to many millions of dollars annually to say nothing of other benefits. The wildlife of Texas, he says, deserves better treatment and urges that it be added to the list for improvement in 1952.

Car Inspection Rules Revised For Leniency

Car inspection requirements have been cut to a minimum by the Texas Department of Public Safety.

The revision spang from a request by Gov. Allen Shivers that the department make the controversial new law more workable.

The governor said it now appears that every car which will roll should pass the inspection and be issued a permit for operation.

A two-page condensation of regulations was issued by the State Public Safety commission headed by Hoxie H. Thompson. The boileddown version elimated all but nine pages of a 30-page manual previously detailing inspection standards.

Trompson wrote Shivers that the modification were made following a review of Pennsylvania's long-standing inspection system.

Shivers called for cooperation of inspection stations enforcement officers and the motoring public to make the law workable—"a real safety measure and a means of saving lives."

The adjustment requirements include the following:

Vehicles with brakes on all four wheels must stop in 30 feet at 20 miles per hour, and others must stop in 40 feet at 20 miles per hour. Brakes must be equalized.

All motor vehicles must have 2 headlights of 3,500 or more candlepower. High and low beams must operate.

GAMMA CORN—Dr. Ralph Singleton of Brookhaven National Laboratory, Upton, N. Y., examines genetic changes, or mutations, in kernels of corn which have been exposed to varying amounts of Gamma rays. The kernels in the large piles remained unchanged. Those in the small piles, being closer, were changed. Some of the mutations were for color and some for sweetness.

Tail lamps—at least one emitting a red light, and a white light over the rear license plate.

Stop lights — required on any motor vehicle sold after January 1, 1948, and on all commercial motor vehicle, busses, trailers and semitrailers.

Horn—inspection only for signal that can be heard 200 feet.

Steering—Inspection for looseness of gear box on frame, condition of drop links, tie-rod ends, jecton if play any point in steering arms is excessive.

Wheel alignment—Inspection by visual examination and by test, with rejection if front wheels have sideslip or scruff in excess of 30 feet per mile as indicated on sideslip or wheel alignment indicator.

Windshields—Inspection for serious discoloration, cracks and break that would seriously impair vision. Vehicles not having any windshield should not be rejected.

Windshield wiper—Inspection only if vehicles is equipped. Windshield wiper on driver's side must be in good working order. Manually operated wipers permissible.

Mirror limited to, commercial motor vehicles — Inspection for mounting, condition of reflecting surface and view to the rear.

Muffler and exhaust system — Inspection to see that there are no serious leaks in the exhaust system with rejections for serious leaks, straight pipe or gutted muffler.

Stickers—Those for indelification purpose, such as military installations, defense plants and parking lot stickers in lower right hand corner of the windshields, allowed to remain there for this inspection. Stickers identifying handicapped veteran permissible. None others permissible. Operators of vehicles not having windshields shall have the inspection approval sticker in their possession and able to present it upon demand.

News Letter

From Congressman WALTER ROGERS

EXTENSION OF BENEFITS UNDER THE SERVICEMEN'S READJUSTMENT ACT TO KOREAN VETERANS: The hearings have commenced in the Veterans' Affairs Committee on legislation designed to extend to Korean veterans the educational, on-job training, housing and other benefits granted and extended to World War II veterans under the Servicemen's Readjustment Act. The benefits under this act are about the only benefits not yet extended to Korean Veterans, but are in my mind of perhaps greater importance than those benefits heretofore extended. It is my opinion that these benefits should have been extended to Korean veterans during the first session of this Congress. This would have been done except for an investigation of some immoral, if not, illegal, practices and abuses that are being carried on under the original act. The committee investigating this uncovered much informative information concerning questionable fly-by-night schools allegedly set up for the purpose of imposing on veterans and milking the public treasury. Such vicious and shady schemes were not only an imposition on the World War II veterans, but were the basic cause for the delay in the extension of the benefits to the Korean veterans. These hearings are being speeded up so that this legislation can be presented to the entire House of Representatives for immediate action.

During one of the recent hearings an argument arose between a witness and several members of the committee as to whether or not the Korean action was a "war" or a "police action". It was my observation that this was a question that could be answered unequivocally by some of the boys who have been over there. No matter what you call it, the weapons used are the same and are capable of dealing the same kind of death, the same kind of maiming, the same kind of destruction. Actually, we are in it and I say, "Call it whatever you want, but for the sake of humanity, let's get it over with." If we were not in Korea, but merely contemplating entry, there would be ample justification for the continuing debate, simply because the difference between a war and a police action is this: In order for this country to engage in war a formal declaration of war by the Congress is required. A police action merely means that troops and equipment and arms may be committed to certain sectors by executive order without a declaration by the Congress. Our responsibility at the present time is to get this Korean conflict over with and stop the senseless slaughter, maiming and destruction. We can argue about words later on.

COMPTENT CITATION AGAINST EX-COMMUNISTS: The House voted 314 to 0 on House Resolution 517, citing Sidney Buchman for contempt of Congress for his refusal to comply with a subpoena issued by the Committee on Un-American Activities. CITATION BY PUBLICATION

THE STATE OF TEXAS
TO: Elbert Kennedy, if living and if dead, his unknown heirs and legal representative, GREETING:
You are commanded to appear and answer the plaintiff's petition at or before 10 o'clock A.M. of the first Monday after the expiration of 42 days from the date of issuance of this Citation, the same being Monday the 24th day of March, A. D., 1952, at or before 10 o'clock A. M., before the Honorable District Court of Collingsworth County, Texas, at the Court House in Wellington, Texas.

Said plaintiff's petition was filed on the 20th day of October, 1952.

The file number of said suit being No. 3542.

The names of the parties in said suit are: V. H. Breedlove as Plaintiff, and Elbert Kennedy, if living and if dead his unknown heirs, and legal representatives, as Defendants.

The nature of said suit being substantially as follows, to wit: Suit in Trespass to try title to all of lots 22, 23, 24, in Block 115, in the town of Wellington, Collingsworth County, Texas, as known and numbered on the original plot or map of said town, recorded in Volume 1, at page 145 of the Deed Records of Collingsworth County, Texas.

Plaintiff specially pleads the three, five, ten and twenty-five year Statutes of Limitation, as provided in Article 5507, 5509, 5510 and 5519 of Vernon's Annotated Civil Statutes of Texas, and prays for Title and Possession of the above described premises, as well as general relief.

There is quite a bit of talk around Congress for a resolution calling for disbarment proceedings against his attorneys, Pepper and Siegel of New York City, for seditious and sharp practices allegedly indulged in by them before the committee. The danger of the Congress is up, and he likes of Sidney Buchman and his associates can expect to be dealt with accordingly.

George Washington's words, spoken at Valley Forge during the trying winter of 1778, apply equally to our Army in Korea today. Led on by the spirit of our first commander-in-chief, that Army is fighting an enemy whose wish it is to enslave millions, born and unborn.

More Students A Pressing Problem Of Texas Schools

AUSTIN, Texas schools are facing one of the most critical periods in their history, Charles H. Tennyson, executive secretary of the Texas State Teachers Association, said today as he outlined pressing needs for new buildings and more teachers over the entire state.

The school population, particularly on the elementary level, is growing at an alarming rate, he pointed out. For example, births in Texas in 1945 — this year's first graders — numbered 156,000. In 1947, births in the Lone Star State jumped to 197,000, an increase of 65,000. If this additional group could be divided into classes of 30 children each, Texas would still need 2100 additional teachers and classrooms in just the first and second grades.

And the birthrate continues to climb. In 1950, live births numbered 203,678, and the number for 1951 will exceed that figure.

In addition to the birthrate, educators worry about the size of the graduating class as compared to the number of children entering first grade. For instance, this year 156,000 youngsters crowded into first grade rooms over the state, but only 90,000 graduated from the eighth grade. This left already over-burdened teachers with 66,000 additional children to accommodate in one year.

"The gain is going to continue to increase until at least the 1956-57 school year, Tennyson added. "By that time, the elementary schools must take care of 300,000 children in addition to the ones now enrolled. If 75 per cent of this number enters public schools, it will mean 8654 additional classrooms."

The average cost of each classroom and related facilities now exceeds $23,000. Thus Texas must spend $242,312,000 for buildings and facilities alone if the children are to have desirable schools. And this does not take into consideration the need for new facilities to replace undesirable buildings and to relieve already over-crowded conditions. A recent survey made

"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN"

This scene from the old, original film classic, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," showing Eliza crossing the river on a log, is undoubtedly one of the greatest scenes ever produced in the history of the motion picture. The power and punch portrayed in Harriet Beecher Stowe's immortal story, making it a picture that will live for ever, will have a re-showing at the Kitz Theatre in Wellington February 28 and 29.

by the Texas Education Agency shows that Texas needs to spend $540,294,500 to bring school buildings, facilities, sites and busses up to ideal conditions.

After the 1956-57 school year, the elementary enrollment over the state should begin to level off, but high schools will then face the problems of increased enrollment.

Texas does not face the educational problem alone. A nose count among elementary children over the entire nation showed that grade school population rose nearly three million from 1947 to 1950. In October 1950, the U. S. Census Bureau reported that enrollment in all schools and colleges was at an all time high of slightly over 30 million persons. This represents a fifth of the nation's total population and half of the population between 5 and 29 years of age.

Baptists Improve Lone Md Church

By MRS. E. L. RANKIN
The members of the Baptist church will have a pretty church and grounds when the work is all finished.

When the Lone Mound school was contracted to Samnorwood, members of the Baptist congregation bought the building that had been the school house for many years. Recently they moved the church building and joined the two together. We understand the school house, a stuccoed structure, will be made into Sunday School classrooms.

Common Sense

We learn in grade school physiology that the body is made up of a bony framework enclosing organs, and controlled by the nervous system.

Peculiarly, many forget this fundamental fact, and as time goes on, and when sickness is present in our own bodies, we may think of the affected area as a lone structure in the body, rather than connected with the nervous system.

For example, in a case of heart trouble, the heart fails to function normally; consequently, symptoms of pain, shortness of breath, dizziness etc., result. It is only common sense to locate the cause rather than to try to care for the heart as a separate part of the body.

When one stops to think that the heart has a hookup or nerve connection in two ways, one set of nerves act as an accelerator to speed up function and the other as an inhibitor to slow down function, it becomes clear why the "machine" must all be in order to receive perfect results. How much better it is to restore the nerve supply for normal function. This example is true of every organ that we have in the body.

It should be remembered that when any organ fails to receive its normal nerve supply from the brain through the nervous system it will cease to function normally.

This, then is the basis for sickness or disease. Correct the cause through Chiropractic adjustments and health is the natural result.
