

THE ARTESIA ADVOCATE

HELPING TO BUILD A GREATER ARTESIA

VOLUME FORTY-SEVEN

ARTESIA, NEW MEXICO, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1950

NUMBER 88

POT POURRI

A representative of a bunch of young people has approached us with a problem which has popped up time and again:

What is there for us to do in Artesia? We were asked.

We were told that the young people of about that age—out of high school, but not in the adult class as yet—are at a loss for good, wholesome entertainment.

They see the shows, it is true, practically every change. But what to do afterwards, or on other evenings, is the question.

Most of them like to bowl, which certainly is good, clean, healthful, wholesome entertainment and sport. But in order to bowl, they have to drive to Roswell or Carlsbad. And that all not only costs money, but it means money will be spent out of town.

Then roller skating was mentioned.

Well, we had a splendid bowling parlor here up to several years ago. But it did not pay. We have had skating rinks come in for short periods from time to time. But they move on, when business ceases to be as brisk as the owners would prefer. So there we have it. The young people, seeking recreation, don't find it at home, so they go out of town.

The particular group of whom we speak, we are sure, will not get into mischief. But perhaps other groups might.

Some of the churches have their recreation programs, but, according to our young friend, they do not go far enough to fill the bill. There is something lacking.

And no one church group can afford to go as far as the young folks would desire. They like to bowl. They would like billiards, we are certain. And, contrary to what many people think, billiards and pool are fine games of skill, games which some of the big churches in the larger cities provide.

But pool and billiard tables and bowling alleys are too costly for church recreation rooms. For one thing, they take up too much space. So what to do?

It all comes back to the old question of a community recreation (Continued on page three)

Chamber Plans On Monday for Coming Year

Marking the approach of a new year, directors of Artesia Chamber of Commerce cleared decks Monday night for action by taking up consideration of a budget for 1951, a membership campaign and nominations for directors whose terms will soon expire.

J. D. Smith, Doyle Hankins and Thad Cox were named by President Bill Siegenthaler as a budget committee.

A membership drive has been re-set for Nov. 21 with obtaining of new members and securing re-affiliation of members in arrears as the primary target.

There will be a less formal move made for renewal of old-time memberships.

In connection with membership the directors scanned a list of prospects with an estimate of dues of each.

A three-man nominating committee, consisting of Clyde Guy, C. T. Gaskins and A. C. Sadler, was named by the president.

Balloting will be conducted by mail. Six directors are to be elected, to take office Jan. 1, 1951. One of the six will fill out the unexpired term of Henry Caudle.

The directors discussed immediate appointment of a successor to Caudle, but decided to wait until the regular election, when all would be named.

Three Cotton Bales Damaged in Fire Early Last Night

Three bales of cotton were damaged about 5:25 o'clock last evening in a boxcar in which they had been loaded at the Santa Fe platform.

A passerby seeing smoke from the car turned in an alarm.

Firemen were called again at 7:30 o'clock last evening to the G. & G. alfalfa mill about two miles north of town, where a trash hay fire, which had been burning two or three weeks, was spread about in a high wind, the first heavy blow of the fall. Firemen felt at the time The Advocate forms were closed there would be no damage other than to the hay and possible prairie fires.

Gov. Mabry, Dwyre Recommend 21-Mile Blacktop Loop Road

Virtual assurance that the entire 21 miles of the oil-field-potash loop road connecting U.S. 62 with New Mexico Highway 83 was seen Tuesday, with the recommendation of Gov. Thomas J. Mabry and Burton Dwyre, state highway engineer, to the State Highway Commission that the construction be made a state project with the state and Eddy County co-operating in the cost.

Although the commission was favorable to the proposition, no action was taken immediately.

However, the state highway engineer was instructed to get a more complete estimate of the cost of the project than has been worked out.

Dwyre has figures for the cost of construction of the south 6.3 miles of the proposed road, compiled on an original proposition that the county furnish $40,000, provided the state match the sum.

At a meeting of the Eddy County Board of Commissioners Monday, it was agreed that the county will increase its part from $40,000 to $90,000, to be paid over a period of time.

In addition, it was requested that the state furnish the balance of funds necessary to pave the entire 21 miles from the Potash Company of America mine site past the proposed Southwest Potash Corporation shaft site and to Highway 83 approximately 12 miles east of Artesia.

This request was laid before the governor and state commission Tuesday, when Dwyre was told to complete estimates and to rush them. It was brought out that the commission will take up the matter (Continued on Page Eight)

National Conservation Executive Warns Here of Growing Problem

Don Dailey of Boulder, Colo., executive secretary of the National Association of Soil Conservation Districts, in two addresses here Tuesday, warned of the growing problem as the world's population increases, while the topsoil is being depleted.

He came here to speak Tuesday night in the basement of the city hall at a meeting announced by Dallas Rierson, Eddy County agent and G. L. Beene, district conservationist of the Soil Conservation Service.

Dailey spoke also at noon that day at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Artesia Rotary Club.

In his talks, Dailey stressed the conservation through organized districts, rather than alone through the Soil Conservation Service, which, he said, serves a great need. However, he said, should the service ever be discontinued, residents of soil conservation districts could continue with the necessary work of conserving soil and water.

Dailey said that in the United States topsoil is going out of use at the rate of 200,000 acres a year, or one out of every 250 tillable acres. He pointed out the great soil loss in the rivers and the erosion which is constantly going on.

The war in Korea, he said, is an important police action. But here there is another battle going on, less spectacular, but involving the saving of the six inches of topsoil upon which the economy of the nation rests.

"Why should we worry when we produce so much more than we can use," Dailey asked. But he pointed out that the population of the United States increased 42 percent from 1920 to 1950. And he stressed that if the same rate of increase is noted in the next 30 years, the population of the United States will be 214 million, while loss of topsoil continues and fewer acres are left to feed the increasing millions.

With the 1950 population of the United States set at 151 million, according to the recent census, there are now fewer than the necessary three acres per person required to feed the nation, for the (Continued on Page Eight)

Don't Say 'Ballot' At The Advocate For Few Days

If anyone says "ballot" to a group of workers around The Artesia Advocate, they had better run.

For eight days the presses have been groaning, there has been pasting and folding and a multiplicity of tedious chores as the job of turning out 27,500 ballots, 19,000 official, the rest sample, was in progress.

The ballots are for use in the general election in Eddy County on Tuesday, Nov. 7. On the reverse is printed "Official Ballot—Election Held Nov. 7, 1950—Mrs. R. A. Wilcox, County Clerk."

Official ballots are white. Sample ballots are yellow. Each measures small blanket size, 21½ by 28 inches.

Top corners are folded back. One of the is pasted down. Both corners bear a number. There is a perforation for tearing off one of the corners.

Listed on the giant-size sheet are two columns, one for Democratic candidates, one for Republican and a long-winded double column spread, in both English and Spanish, on a referendum on an act of the last Legislature. There are 25 candidates for 23 offices, representative down to county, on each ticket.

Besides the regular employees, the work has also called for the extra services of Faye Teel, Margie Bratcher and Mrs. G. F. Roberts.

There will be special exhibits. Music and art will be a feature.

Park is Artesia's largest elementary school with an enrollment of 500. Grades are one to six, ages of pupils 6 to 12. There are 18 on the faculty.

Does Artesia Want Organized Baseball?

AN EDITORIAL

Does Artesia want organized baseball? That is a pertinent question at this time, a question which must be answered by Monday, a question which has many ramifications.

Twice in recent days, the most recent on Tuesday, meetings have been held here with Dr. Marshall Dyke, who owns the franchise for the Ballinger, Texas, club, a member of the Longhorn League. And he would like to bring that team to Artesia for 1951 at least, and probably in subsequent years.

Briefly, Dr. Dyke will bring the class "C" club to Artesia, provided work is done at Artesia Municipal Park which will make it suitable for organized, professional baseball.

Improvements would have to include a solid fence, dugouts for the players, dressing rooms, and the like, which would cost in the neighborhood of $10,000.

As Mayor Oren C. Roberts pointed out at the earlier of the two meetings, attended by several dozen fans and businessmen, that although the park is municipally owned, it does not belong to him or the members of the City Council, but to you and us—the taxpayers, in other words.

The city administration at this time is seeking ways and means of making the improvements, provided you and you and you want organized baseball.

Advantages to the city chiefly include baseball games, about 70 during the season, for the benefit of local fans. But organized baseball would be certain to bring fans from other cities in the Pecos Valley to the games.

In addition, there would be about 16 resident players, whose salaries would be largely spent here. Organized baseball would advertise Artesia not only throughout the cities included in the Longhorn League, but much farther, at times, perhaps, nationally.

Neither the city of Artesia nor any group would take any risk on the venture, for the baseball club would assume that. In addition, the club would maintain the grounds.

The park would be available for other games on days or nights when the professional club is on the road.

Briefly, that is the proposition. And inasmuch as the park belongs to the people, the mayor and council members want to know if it meets with your approval. And they must know no later than Monday what your pleasure is.

Does Artesia want organized baseball?—A.L.B.

Like Him or Not, He's the President

AN EDITORIAL

No one needs to like Harry Truman. That is an American privilege. And no one need agree with anything he does, officially or otherwise.

But Harry Truman is the President of the United States of America, and as such is entitled to the respect which that office should carry.

Since the attempt on the life of President Truman, we have heard a number of remarks to the effect that "it is too bad they didn't get him," that "they should be shot for missing," and that "those fellows should have medals for trying."

It is just as true that an American citizen has as much right to make such remarks as it is for him to dislike Harry Truman.

But it is mighty unbecoming and un-American for anyone to show so little respect for the office which the man represents and for the President of the United States.—A.L.B.

Spooks, Goblins Play Halloween, But Most Behave

The spooks and goblins were out in great numbers on Halloween Tuesday night, but for the most part they were well-behaved goblins and spooks.

Dozens and dozens of boys and girls wearing masks of paper with painted faces and with costumes of every possible description went from door to door for the customary "trick or treat." And at most places they were well treated.

Police said there were no serious pranks reported and that Halloween went off quite peacefully. Practically every store window in town was soaped. But some of them needed washing anyway.

Only one act of destruction was reported and it may have been an accident, so rather than plant a seed in some youngster's mind for next Halloween, it will not be disclosed.

A highlight Tuesday afternoon, before it was time for all of the boys and girls to start on their rounds, was a parade staged by the students of Roselawn School, from the school on Roselawn to Main, up Main to Fifth and then back toward the school.

Every boy and girl wore a mask of his own making and most of them had on some sort of Halloween costume. And some of the teachers were also masked—or else there are some mighty big youngsters (Continued on Page Eight)

Clay and Briscoe Are Winners In G.P.A. Contest

Ivan Clay, an Artesia High School senior and a member of the Bulldog football squad, was awarded a .30-30 deer rifle Wednesday night at the regular November meeting in connection with a membership contest which closed at that time.

J. L. Briscoe won a fishing outfit for having signed up the greatest number of members during the contest. He was credited with 50 members out of a total of 124.

L. W. (Speed) Simmons, deputy state game warden, pointed out to members they should be good sports in hunting and asked them to use the greatest precaution while in the field so as to help prevent any hunting accidents. Be sure it's legal game before shooting. Warden Simmons said.

The game warden also told of his plans to form a patrol of special deputies for this area to assist in apprehending game and fish law violators.

Latest action is the recommendation that business places remain open Saturday, Nov. 11, as originally planned, but with the added recommendation that Monday, Nov. 13, be observed as Armistice Day with places closed on that date.

Dutch Doctor to Address A.A.U.W. Here Saturday

DR. KNOTTENBELT

Dr. Nel Knottenbelt, of the Netherlands, holder of an A.A.U.W. international grant for study in the United States, will be a guest of the Artesia branch of A.A.U.W. at an open meeting at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the auditorium of the First Methodist Church.

Young Dr. Knottenbelt, who is visiting A.A.U.W. branches on a "see-America" trip, has been specializing in gynecology and urology at the Johns Hopkins University Hospital in Baltimore, Md. She was advised by authorities in her own University of Leyden Hospital to carry on her studies at Johns Hopkins Hospital because of the unique work which that institution is doing in combining gynecology and urology in its women's clinic. Now, as a result of her year's work at Johns Hopkins, Dr. Knottenbelt will be the head assistant in gynecology and obstetrics at the University of Leyden Hospital, where a new department combining urology and gynecology, patterned after the Johns Hopkins model, is to be set up.

Dr. Knottenbelt is one of 49 young women from abroad to study in this country in 1949-50 on grants from the American Association of University Women. In speaking to the local A.A.U.W. members, who helped to raise funds for these international grants and to guests, Dr. Knottenbelt will tell of her experiences in the United States. She will also interpret what the war years meant to her generation of students in Holland and will speak on other phases of life in her homeland.

Dr. Knottenbelt, who is returning to Holland in December, is a graduate of the Utrecht and Leyden Universities, and was intern in the department of gynecology and obstetrics in the Municipal Hospital, The Hague, when she accepted the A.A.U.W. grant for study in the United States.

Prior to the speaking at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, to which the public is invited, Dr. Knottenbelt will be guest of honor at a luncheon at 1 o'clock for members of the local A.A.U.W. chapter only.

Baptist Youth Go All Out Tuesday For Halloween Fete

Young People of the First Baptist Church joined in the Halloween festivities this week when members of the Young People's Department met in the educational unit at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening for a spook round-up. Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Mitchell and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Little sponsored the group.

Most of the participants chose to come dressed as fugitives from a Western "hoss opry." Honoring the group with their presence were Don Golden as "Suzanne," the Mata Hari of the Golden West, Vera Holcomb, Janice Wood, and Vee Ann Mitchell as the "Corpus Christi Kid," the "Frisco Kid," and the "El Dorado Kid," respectively, three of the meanest gun-slinging varmints West of the Rio Grande.

Bruce Caskey, Ralph Mitchell and Sue Sudderth were more respectable law-abiding Westerners, and Joe Little and J. T. Mitchell were two bad men, the likes of whom the West had never before seen.

Other interesting costumes were provided by Sara Curtis as a Gypsy, Mrs. J. T. Mitchell as a little girl who had just been in a fight and lost a tooth, Mrs. Joe Little as "Scherazade," and Marian Vandevanter and Carolyn Sperry as two creatures absolutely out of this world.

Festivities had hardly started in the educational building of the church when two bandits crashed the party, blindfolded everyone, and took the entire group for a "ride." The destination proved to be J. T. Mitchell's farm machinery shop, where games were played, including the traditional bobbing for apples, popcorn, doughnuts, and soft drinks were served.

Those present were: Janice Wood, Vera Holcomb, Vee Ann Mitchell, Sandra Mitchell, Carolyn Sperry, Ralph Mitchell, Bruce Caskey, Leon Darst, Marian Vandevanter, Sue Sudderth, Carl Arnall, Bobby Jones, J. H. Jones, Truett Gyll, Merwin Morgan, Murray Boyd, Don Golden, Sara Curtis, Arlean Owens, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Mitchell, and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Little and son, Jimmy.

Bulldogs Confront "Mystery Eleven" in Game Here Tonight

School X, Thomas Jefferson of El Paso, colors, nickname and coach's name not supplied in advance, will furnish the ninth opponent for the Artesia High School football team when the eleven compete at 8 o'clock tonight on Morris Field here.

The Bulldogs have an unbeaten string of eight victories in as many games and have amassed 222 points while limiting the opposition to 42.

Thomas Jefferson has a 36-player roster. Out of the total 26 are transfers from Bowie and other El Paso schools. Ysleta, the team that Roswell will never forget, trounced the Jeffs at a 12 to 1 ratio and El Paso High beat the Jeffs 18 to 0.

Jefferson power in the line seems to be concentrated in its tackles. Joe Arrambide, 200 pounds, and Juan Felix, 212. Arrambide is listed as a probable starter but Felix is not.

Probable starters for the invaders are Armando Heredia, 137 pounds, back; Fernando Muniz, 150, end; Peter Martinez, 145, back; Henry Chacon, 135, back; Max Muniz, 148, center.

Joe Arrambide, 200, tackle; Peter Rodriguez, 160, guard; Ramon Baeza, 160, guard; Rudy Esparza, 165, tackle; A. Benavides, 150, end; Carlos Mendoza, 148, quarterback.

Officials will be Ray Barton, University of New Mexico; T. J. Hall, Jr., University of Missouri; Jim Marberry, Iowa; J. B. Mican, New Mexico Military Institute.

The Bulldogs enter the final lap of their 12-game schedule tonight with one more game at home, against Eunice here on Nov. 9, then a pair on foreign soil, against the widely advertised Carlsbad Cavemen there on Nov. 17 and the Turkey Day tussle against Hobbs there on Nov. 23.

Rugged Plains Farmers Tackle Highland Pokes

In their final home game the Highlands University Cowboys of Las Vegas square off against tough Panhandle A. & M. of Goodwell, Okla., in a return to New Mexico Conference action.

Panhandle dropped a close 9-6 decision over the week end to St. Michael. The Aggies will hit Las Vegas with a record of one win, two ties, and two setbacks and will be led by all-conference back Tommy Rice.

Highlands will play Saturday's game with its backs virtually against the wall as more injuries have cropped up to plague the squad. Halfback Ben Straughan suffered injuries which necessitated hospitalization. The little scatback is still confined to a flag-staff hospital.

The coaching staff is hard at work in an attempt to overcome these injuries by experimenting with the freshman crop at the various positions.

Billy Rapp, the Cowboys' great defensive halfback, was released over the week end from an Albuquerque hospital. Cal Wright, John Hickam, Straughan and Rapp will be definitely out the rest of the season. A highly improved Highlands University eleven played heads-up ball against Arizona State College at Flagstaff last Saturday night only to go down to defeat for the fourth straight time by a 26-19 count.

Coaches Ed Cleven and Robert Kelson appeared pleased at the crippled but highly-spirited Cowboys as they tackled and blocked with more drive than in their previous games. The Purple and White gridders were handicapped by the serious injuries to several of its key players as a result of the homecoming game two Saturdays ago against New Mexico Western.

Sports Supper Meeting to Be Held in Dexter

A five-theme meeting, which will include a junior high athletic program, sparked on the sports page of The Artesia Advocate, will be held at 6:30 o'clock Wednesday night, Nov. 8, at the high school in Dexter.

T. Stovall, Artesia High School principal, is vice president of District 5, New Mexico High School Athletic association.

In addition to junior high athletics, superintendents, principals and coaches will talk over a proposed re-districting of the state, officiating, proposed tournaments and officials and "athletic problems."

Benwood Field, Dexter superintendent, is in charge of the supper meeting. Cost is $1 a plate.

First Reunion Of Greyhounds Held in 1934

When the Greyhound gridmen of Eastern New Mexico University play St. Mike's tomorrow afternoon in Portales, more than the Pack's chances for the championship of the New Mexico Conference will be at stake.

The contest will mark the thirteenth gridiron match staged at homecoming festivities of ENMU. In previous years the Greyhounds have won nine of the 12 homecoming battles, lost only twice, and tied once.

So with homecoming an added incentive and a victory a must to stay in the conference race, the Greyhounds are expected to be fired up to win their fourth circuit contest of the 1950 season.

The game, to be played amid all the added color of homecoming, will be at the Greyhound stadium in Portales, beginning at 2 p.m.

Homecoming games date back to 1934 for the Greyhounds. The college opened only that year but the little junior college of those days decided to have a homecoming anyway.

In the early years of football at Eastern New Mexico Junior College, the Greyhounds played freshman teams of the larger colleges and universities. The team's first homecoming game, in 1934, was a 35-0 victory over the New Mexico A. & M. freshmen.

In 1935, the Hounds defeated the University of New Mexico Freshmen 13-0. The West Texas State College Frosh were the victims in 1936, the Greyhounds winning over the last of the freshman teams, 6-0.

Since that time, the Greyhounds have defeated Highlands three times at homecoming, NMCI twice, and New Mexico Western once.

Western spoiled one homecoming for ENMU and in the other loss, St. Mary's of San Antonio handed a war-raided ENMU crew a 59-0 pasting in 1941. Adams State tied the Greyhounds last year 13-13.

Other scores of homecoming games are as follows:

1937—ENMU 21, NMCI 20.
1938—ENMU 7, New Mexico Western 9.
1939—ENMU 13, NMCI 12.
1940—ENMU 12, Highlands 0.
1942-45—War interruption.
1946—ENMU 13, Highlands 7.
1947—ENMU 15, New Mexico Western 7.
1948—ENMU 13, Highlands 7.

With this fine record of homecoming games behind them, the current gridmen wearing the Green and Silver determined their homecoming battle will be the tenth victory rather than one of three losses to mar the record.

Added to this is the grim reality that a loss would almost certainly knock them out of the running for the conference championship. At present the Greyhounds are on the top rung, but should they lose to St. Mike's, only a slim mathematical chance remains for them to win the title.

Should they lose this week, the Greyhounds would have to defeat NMCI Nov. 11, then hope for NMCI to eliminate New Mexico Western in that Thanksgiving game.

But the Greyhounds don't want to back into the title. They want to go in the front door. That means two victories in the next two weeks.

Hope Basketeer On Mustang Squad

Howard Forster of Hope is one of the seven returning basketball lettermen at New Mexico Western College, Silver City, where 17 players reported to Coach Harvey Oliphant as cage practice opened this week. Forster is a forward and a senior.

Two of the seven returning lettermen are presently on the football squad. Two non-letter vets and

Buffs Charge On Tech Torn Texas Western

Staggered by a humiliating defeat and a big injury list, the Texas Western Miners will be attempting to rebound Saturday against the conference leading West Texas State Buffs. The game will be at 8:15 p. m. MST on Tidd Field in El Paso.

Even Mike Brumbelow, the Miners' genial head coach who comes about as close to being an optimist as anyone in the coaching profession, is quite gloomy about the chances of upsetting the bustling Buffaloes.

"With five first-stringers on the injured list and no adequate replacements, we can only try to make it as close as possible," Brumbelow said.

Deflated by their failure to score from the one yard line in the first quarter of the game with Texas Tech, the Miners waited before a red-hot bunch of Red Raiders who could do no wrong. Scoring by every means except by field goal.

Tech waited to a 61-7 victory. It was the worst defeat suffered by a crew of Miners since 1922 when the New Mexico Aggies ran up a 64-0 score.

Although West Texas State received its first defeat of the season last week, falling to Trinity University 27-26, the Buffs are undefeated in conference play. West Texas will be shooting the works to stone for the 34-7 drubbing handed them by the Miners last year.

Texas Western's defense, which crumbled last week, will have tough task when the Buffs ramble down from the Panhandle. Heading the parade of supercharged backs on the Thundering Herd squad is little Bill Cross, the 150 pound Canadian Comet. Ranking with Cross are Charlie Wright, 195 pound halfback, and Gene Mayfield, an outstanding passer.

With Harvey (Pug) Gabrel, the Miners' leading ball carrier, out with injuries, Coach Brumbelow is having to revise the Texas Western offense. Replacing Gabrel will be Tom Steele, who has racked up 227 yards in the Miners last two games.

Bill Chesak, 206 pound halfback, who played only one down against Tech because of injuries, will again be on the sidelines.

Other Miners in the side-line crew are Don Slaughter, first string guard; Jimmy Hammond, ace defensive back; Jimmy Williams, speedy right half; and Billy Walsh, another defensive whiz.

The Miners' season record now stands at four victories and two defeats. A win over West Texas this week will move Texas Western into a tie for first place in the Border Conference.

Ground Grabber Gabrel Grounded, Out of Buff Game

Harvey (Pug) Gabrel, co-captain and star back for the Texas Western Miners, will be sidelined for at least three weeks because of five cracked vertebrae, it was announced today.

The hard-driving Gabrel was injured midway in the Texas Tech game last Saturday. X-rays were taken when the team returned to El Paso and doctors placed him in a cast Monday.

It is definite that he will miss the Miners' two important conference battles with West Texas State and Hardin-Simmons. His absence just about eliminates the Texas Western's chances of upsetting either the Buffs or Cowboys.

A 173 pound senior from Odessa, Gabrel has gained fame as one of the quickest starting backs in football. During his four seasons of play at Texas Western he lost a total of 11 yards. Considering he carried the ball 381 times for a total gain of 2422 yards, this ranks as a phenomenal feat. His average is 6.3 yards for each rushing play.

During the Miners' first six games in the 1950 season, Gabrel has sparked the team with a total gain of 471 yards without the loss of a single yard. His average is 7.2.

Two experienced boys are back and six frosh will report.

The Mustangs will play a 15 date schedule, including one against New Mexico Military Institute at Roswell on Feb. 23. Opening the season will be a tussle against New Mexico A. & M. at Las Cruces on Dec. 6. Concluding will be games Feb. 23-24 with Adams State in Alamosa, Colo.

All of Which Means I'm Fed Up With Points and Carlsbad Supermen

If I hear the word "points" again I'm going to run, not walk, to the nearest exit, and with a stiletto run amok.

It's gotten to the point where the Bulldogs watch the Associated Press yarns on so many points for various teams like a greedy capitalist watching a stock market ticker.

Now is the time to remind the Bulldogs that football games are still won on the field not in print or on stock market quotations. The payoff is still on touchdowns.

Incidentally the Associated Press yarns on the prowess of the Carlsbad Cavemen and the screwball argument that "what if we (Carlsbad) do lose, we're still champions," is tops in propaganda.

Playing Bookkeeper

Let's get the record straight. Repeatedly I've hammered away at the idea of deciding football games by the touchdowns scored instead of, as it seems to be, by some weird mumbo-jumbo of points for Team A if Team B has won 66.748 per cent more games than Team C, provided, if, as, with the exception of, etc.

In the name of common sense, why doesn't New Mexico have a playoff system like Texas to end all this constant sixth grade type argument?

Or must we still have bookkeepers tournaments to decide what the boys that take the battering, bruising punishment decide on the field?

Are we playing football in New Mexico or running an accountancy course?

Could Want to Win.
Taking up the Carlsbad Cavemen now. The Associated Press had a yarn published in the Daily Current-Argus of the big city to the south, headlined "What More Can Cavemen Want?"

They can and do want a victory over Artesia if they are sportsmen and not statisticians. And by victory I mean they beat the Bulldogs on the field, not on paper.

The Cavemen have a clever press and from reading the Associated Press story, published in the Oct. 30 issue of the Carlsbad paper, the idea seems to be to scare the day lights out of Artesia.

Powder, Puff Derby.
Listen to this prize specimen of sportsmanship:

"Even if the Cavemen should lose to second-running Artesia Nov. 17, Artesia would gain no more than a first place tie."

What kind of voodooism is all this? Sounds to me like a couple of babies squalling over a sand pile and one saying:

"I don't care if your house is bigger than mine—mine's still the best because I say so."

How about a good snappy game of hide and seek?

Given Brush-Off.
An argument of that kind would be like saying I could box husky Ivan Clay and Clay wouldn't have a chance, and even if Clay beat me to a pulp, which he could certainly do, I'd still be the best boxer because I beat Boxer B who won 45.947 per cent of his bouts whereas Clay has won only 44.386 per cent.

Judging from the Associated Press, the Artesia Bulldogs have been a minor league team that is airily disposed of with a shrug of the big town shoulders of swaggering Carlsbad.

Well, well! Bulldogs you're licked! Just walk onto the field and say "we give up." Don't try to play football. What's the use? The Carlsbad supermen have you whipped. You won't stand a chance. Even if you do score more touchdowns, Carlsbad is still the winner because someone dreamed up this "first place tie" deal.

Smack Them, Bulldogs!
That seems to be the deal. For my part I hope the Bulldogs smack down the Cavemen more than they did Roswell.

I want to see that hard charging.

Greyhound Coach Praises Defense Of Junie Russell

Defensive work of Junie Russell of Artesia and Pete Hurst, Clovis, both freshmen, has been praised by Coach Al Garten of Eastern New Mexico University, Portales.

The two are dubbed the "match charm guards of the New Mexico Conference."

Eastern New Mexico's victory over New Mexico Western, Silver City, 14-7 last Saturday, combined with Adams State 19-13 win over New Mexico Military Institute at Roswell, knocked the Mustangs and Broncos out of a tie for first place.

The Greyhounds hold the top place with three wins, one loss, for a 750 percentage. Western is second with a two, one, one record same as Institute, each with 625.

The Greyhounds must protect the conference lead tomorrow afternoon in a homecoming game against St. Michael of Santa Fe.

Final loop contest is against Institute on Nov. 11, also in Portales. Garten praised every man who had part in the game against the New Mexico Western Mustangs.

These included John Adams Lovington, guard, who provided a hole in the Western line when it was needed; Charlie Painter, right well, fullback, ball totting star with 116 yards gained including two touchdowns.

Pistol Shooters To Vie in Juarez

Anybody in Artesia interested in making a trek down to Juarez Nov. 17-19 to take part in an international pistol tournament?

If so, Buck Fisher, 4006 Mountain Avenue, telephone 5-4531, would like to hear from them. Fisher writes that "we are hoping to get pistol shooting started again around the country."

"I know there are several good shots there around Artesia."

The tourney in Juarez is the "first big pistol tournament" (Tiradores del Norte Pistol Club) have had since the war," according to Fisher.

The tournament schedule calls for four courses fired daily, 22 caliber on Friday, Nov. 17; 38 on Saturday, Nov. 18; 45 on Sunday, Nov. 19.

Aggregate of the dozen matches will determine the international championship.

There will also be four-man team match daily. Medals will be awarded marksmen, sharpshooters, experts, and masters.

Firing each day will start at 8 o'clock in the forenoon, mountain standard time. National Rifle Association rules will apply.

A free banquet and dance will be given the last night of the tournament at the Juarez range clubhouse. Medals and trophies will be awarded at that time.

Toastmasters to Get Charter On November 25

Artesia's newest association, Toastmasters International, is to receive its charter in a program scheduled for Saturday night, Nov. 25, in Masonic Temple.

Complete program and time has not been arranged. Time will likely be 8:15. Irving M. Goldstein, as sergeant-at-arms, will automatically be in charge.

The 30-member club gives training in public speaking, study of current events, parliamentary law and leadership. First organizational meeting was held Oct. 4.

Officers are Clyde Gilman, president; A. C. Sadler, vice president; Rooster Durbin, secretary-treasurer; Irving M. Goldstein, sergeant-at-arms.

Cole Elected
G. Taylor Cole was elected deputy governor at the club's last meeting. The office means chairmanship of the interclub committee and liaison official with area and district.

Guests at the meeting were Bill Patton of Albuquerque, instrumental in starting the club here; George Ferriman, Homer Borland, Dr. G. P. Ruppert and E. P. Emerson.

W. W. Huber was topic master; Marshall Rowley, speech evaluator and Cole, toastmaster.

Political Talks
Timed with election day, will have "should a candidate for public office show his qualifications to hold that office before his name is on the ballot?" as their table topic at the meeting at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night, Nov. 7, in Artesia Hotel.

Bob Siegal will be toastmaster; Clayton Menefee, topic master; Durbin, speech evaluator.

Speakers: Ralph Lennon, J. B. Jackson, Sanders Terry, James Anderson, Ray Griffin.

At their last meeting, the club members discussed whether Red China should have representation in the United Nations.

Extemporaneous speeches by both guests and members were in answer to such questions as whether China had able leaders, if the country was self-supporting and what could the United States gain from such action.

While a majority were opposed to representation of Red China, Clyde Guy said dealing with the Russians was one way to find out what they were thinking.

Siegal was one with an affirmative answer. That the United Nations must take further steps for China, a land of five million persons, 90 per cent coolie class, swayed by mob rule, was the opinion of Goldstein, the club's sergeant-at-arms.

Appliance Award To Be Received By Local Citizen

An Artesia resident, Dr. Kathryn Behnke, 810 West Mann, is one of the two persons in the Eastern New Mexico-Southwest Texas El Paso district of Youngstown kitchen, who will receive a $350 48-inch Youngstown kitchen sink and dish washing machine.

The competition was sponsored locally by Nelson Appliance, 518 West Main. In the preliminary here on Oct. 14, miniatures of the device were given Marguerite Murphy of Lake Arthur; Mrs. M. L. Rhodes, Hagerman; Mrs. Mack Reusser, 206 Osborn, Artesia and Dr. Behnke.

Sequel was the Oct. 21 event at Crouch Appliance, El Paso, regional distributors. Out of the event in which names of those awarded the miniatures were entered, the Artesia woman and a man from Deming, Ben Field, 400 South Granite, were chosen to receive the kitchen equipment.

Denzil Nelson is owner of Nelson Appliance; William P. Moroski is sales manager of the El Paso concern.

It is estimated there are 25 million insects in the air above every square mile of the earth's surface.

Method of Voting Explained to Club

Kiwanians received instruction on procedures of voting in a brief talk by Buster Mulcock at the club's regular weekly luncheon at noon yesterday in Masonic Temple.

The meeting will be the club's last prior to the general election Tuesday.

Program at the luncheon was interrupted. There was a talk on socialism by Rev. Ralph L. O'Dell, president-elect, and a report from Tom Hymer and Justin Newman on the efforts of the club to obtain premium donations for the junior livestock show and sale to be held tomorrow in Carlsbad.

Hymer said $1200 had been obtained.

Next week's program will be in conjunction with American Education Week, Nov. 5-11, with Don Riddle, junior high, and Rufus Stinnett, Roselawn principals, in charge. Pupils from the local schools will appear on the program.

ROBERT BECKHART IS NEW ARTESIA OFFICER

Robert F. Beckhart, a former member of the Roswell Police Department, has been commissioned a patrolman on the Artesia Police Department. He assumed his duties this week and at present is assigned as desk sergeant on the early night shift.

Patrolman Beckhart fills the vacancy made by the resignation of Richard Peek, who was called back to Army service recently.

Two Senior Girl Scouts to Attend Council in Tulsa

Betty Jo Kaiser and Altha Crouch, two Senior Girl Scouts from Artesia, were selected this week to join two other Scouts from the area to represent the South-eastern New Mexico area at a Senior Scout council in Tulsa, Okla., Nov. 16-18.

The girls will be accompanied to the meeting by Mrs. D. M. Walters, president of the Artesia Girl Scout Association, and Mrs. Fred Jacobs, district Juliette Low chairman. The girls are from Troops 1 and 14 respectively.

The announcement was made at an appropriate time, as Artesia Girl Scouts joined the world this week in celebrating "Girl Scout Week," which is an annual affair in honor of the birthday of the founder of Girl Scouting, Juliette Low.

Mrs. Low organized Girl Scouting in Savannah in March, 1912, after seeing how English girls had taken up the idea of Girl Guides under her supervision. She vowed to spread Girl Scouting in America and today there are 1,540,000 Girl Scouts and adult leaders all across the United States.

Artesia has 22 Girl Scout and Brownie troops, two of which are senior troops.

Troop 1, of which Miss Kaiser is a member, is making a study of Mexico, her heroes, history, and language. Troop 14, Miss Crouch's troop, is devoting the year to community service.

water must be done quickly to conserve the dwindling resources, Dailey said.

Establishment of soil conservation districts started only 15 years ago, Dailey said. And in the period since, only 15 per cent of the job has been done. The work is progressing, but not rapidly enough, Dailey declared.

Through an act of 1937, such districts have been formed in New Mexico where there are now 60, the speaker said. Similar districts have been formed in all of the 48 states and Puerto Rico and each state has its association. These associations are banded together into the national organization, of which Dailey is executive secretary.

Dailey explained how conservation practices are carried out, saying if a farmer wants assistance, technical men are called in and a Soil Conservation Service makes a map, showing what work needs to be done for continuous high productivity of the land.

As a concrete example of the worth of the program, Dailey told of a certain tract on which a farmer spent $42 last fall as an investment and this year realized $200.

As the agriculture dollar turns over seven times and every time it turns it makes four times as much credit, soil and water conservation is good business, Dailey said.

"The figures are as certain as fate," he declared, "and unless we do something, someday we will be rationed and there will be hunger in the land."

Dailey was accompanied on his trip here by Lee Barte of Albuquerque, president of the New Mexico State Association of Soil Conservation Districts.

ter next week and hopes to be able to advertise for bids for the work on Nov. 15.

Dwyre said that based on the estimated cost for the 6.3 miles at the south end of the proposed loop road, the entire 21 miles should cost approximately $210,000 or $10 a mile.

This would mean that with the Eddy County Board of Commissioners providing $90,000 in the original $40,000 as set up and the additional $50,000 decided on Monday, the state's share of the project would be about $120,000.

However, it was pointed out, the figure may not run that high, as construction on the south end on which the original estimate was made would be more costly than at the north end.

Construction at the south end would be largely through sand, whereas there is a more firm base, much of it caliche, at the north end.

The improvement makes one more in a series of state road projects in North Eddy County in the last few months.

The most recent announced was the Cottonwood road of 13 miles, contract for which was let Tuesday to Wylie Brothers of Albuquerque for $208,246.89.

The contract calls for surfacing of 13 miles of State Roads 350 and 351 from Espuella at Highway 285 to the west and northwest.

At present work is progressing for the replacement of the old Eagle Draw one-lane bridge between Artesia and Hope with a two-lane bridge, an improvement which has been sought many years.

And within the last year the state paved First street through Artesia from curb to curb and constructed two miles of road on 13th. More recently the north portion of that street was scarified and treated with 6900 gallons of oil to carry heavier traffic made necessary because of the building development on North 13th Street.

This list of intervenors totals 15.

Answers to these petitions were filed by Braniff Airways, Inc., and American Airlines, Inc.

The final order:

"Accordingly, we adhere to our original decision with respect to the Amarillo-El Paso segment. In this connection, under our original order service over this segment should be discontinued by Oct. 30. "In view of the petitions for reconsideration filed and the fact Pioneer has continued to operate during this period, we will grant that carrier 30 days from the date of this decision and order in which to cease operations over this segment."

"To this extent our original order is superseded. An appropriate order will be entered."

Reason Summarized

Gist of the board's reason for its latest action as applicable to Artesia is that "provision for service to Artesia would not produce the annual revenue anticipated nor could Pioneer operate the additional mileage at the figure calculated."

"Artesia, with its population of 10,000, is about the same size as Clovis, Las Cruces and Tucumcari, none of which has developed the revenues comparable to those forecast for Artesia."

Names of members of the board and their separate actions are listed. Full names and other identification are not given. Ryan, vice chairman and Adams, member, concurred in the opinion.

Josh Lee, member, concurred and dissented. Delos Rentzel of Houston, chairman and Jones, member, did not take part in the decision.

Backs Artesia
Lee made a statement on his action:

"I cannot agree with the majority's refusal to renew the Amarillo-El Paso segment of Pioneer's system because in my judgment this segment has not been given an adequate test."

"Alamogordo has not been available for service and Las Cruces did not fit logically into the traffic flow which this route was intended to serve."

"Yet in spite of these difficulties this segment, which is located in one of the fastest growing areas in the United States, has shown a constant increase in traffic."

"This, coupled with the traffic that can be developed at Artesia, an intermediate point that could be added to the route, holds out sufficient promise to justify the continuation of this segment in order that we may properly evaluate the traffic potential of this route."

Commenting on the 2-to-1 decision, McConnell, secretary to Fernandez, says:

"Pioneer Air Lines under the regulations can file a petition to reconsider this latest decision though I could not predict whether such a move would stand much chance of success."

"I mention this, however, because of the dissenting vote of Mr. Lee and it would be necessary to persuade one of the other members to change his mind about the reconsideration."

"Congressman Fernandez is not in Washington at present (Oct. 27, date of letter) but I know he will be disheartened because he has made every effort to obtain a favorable decision."

Crop Control Deal

For 1951 Outlined

Fifteen practices are offered through the 1951 agricultural crop production program to Eddy County farmers, it was made known today by N. W. Stiver, Carlsbad, administrative officer.

"Assistance is being offered,"

Practices listed are permanent pasture, irrigated; dams or reservoirs for irrigation; drainage ditches; reorganization of irrigation system.

Leveling; erosion or flood control; fences on irrigated pasture; with committee to review on each application; dams and reservoirs for livestock water.

Wells for livestock use; controlling competitive plants and shrubs; artificial reseeded for pasture; construction of fence; pipeline; supplemental water storage; control of perennial noxious weeds.

SAFEWAY ...

Each store that's in the business of selling food has to plan on serving a particular group in the community. That's because not all people are attracted by the same kind of food service. Some stores build their service around a credit and delivery plan. Some use trading stamps or telephone order service to attract customers.

Safeway, on the other hand, has chosen to develop a food service for folks who want to buy fine foods at the lowest prices possible. We think this plan appeals to the largest group of all, and we're sure it's a group that's increasing all the time. Our service is friendly and efficient, but it's stripped of all frills and fancy extras.

By doing business this way, we have eliminated all unnecessary expenses. Costs are held down to rock-bottom, so that every item can be priced as low as possible. It means cash savings for our customers ... every shopping trip.

If your primary interest in buying food is to get top quality at a cash saving, we invite you to try shopping regularly at Safeway. You'll find our service friendly, complete, pleasant, and fast. But please don't look for expensive "extras," because our stores are planned for people who want CASH savings ... as they go.

A REWARD FOR ANGUS WARD

"King of Golden River" to Play Here Next Week

Eagerly awaited by the small fry of Artesia, is the coming of the Clare Tree Major Children's Theater of New York dramatization of John Ruskin's exciting tale, "The King of the Golden River," scheduled to be presented in the high school auditorium at 9:30 and 1:30 o'clock Thursday of next week.

Presented here under the auspices of the Story League, Central School Parent-Teachers' Association and Girl Scout Association, this entertaining event is the result of many weeks of thoughtful planning on the part of the members of the company, the production staff and, of course, Clare Tree Major, the director of the Children's Theater.

Marian DePew, for instance, noted Children's Theater costume designer, created the quaint, gay Bavarian costumes in "The King of the Golden River" with even more care and research than is required for a Broadway production. The same applies to the settings. The mountain-side farm house, the prison and even the mountain whence the bountiful Golden River rises are as colorful and vividly created as John Ruskin himself must have imagined them to be.

From the very beginning of the Children's Theater, Clare Tree Major has maintained that a fast-moving action-packed story is not the only requirement of young theater-goers. In their plays they also want beauty and color, rich luxuriously fashioned costumes and gay scenic effects. Proving Clare Tree Major's contention entirely correct is the fact that with this season her companies will have been presenting plays for children from coast to coast over a 27-year span.

Mrs. V. P. Sheldon, chairman of the sponsoring committee announced that tickets to the performances are available at the door.

Miraculous Show Is Promised By The Great Virgil

Thrills galore and plenty of laughs and fun are in store for local people when The Great Virgil, Premier International Illusionist, with his skilled company of miracle workers, brings his show of miraculous and enchanting wonders to the stage of the high school auditorium, Wednesday, Nov. 8, under the auspices of the Artesia Lions Club.

The Great Virgil is considered the fastest and most mystifying illusionist on tour today, and it is said if one nods to a friend, he misses the trick, for he presents as many as nine mysteries in the course of three minutes.

Opening with such feats as cartwheels, and appearing in a puff of smoke, snatching birds, flowers, silks, and rabbits from thin air, and catching live goldfish visibly from the atmosphere, Virgil goes swiftly into the more spectacular illusions, such as sawing a woman in half, shooting a bullet through a girl, rescuing a jungle princess captured by cannibals, the Hindu princess asleep in space, being hung on a gallows by a band of Arabs, and countless other effects using tons of elaborate and costly equipment.

Lubrication and Cooling Systems Need Check-Up

The electrical, lubrication and cooling systems of your automobile must be examined now for the cold winter ahead, and a check-up on the car's safety factors should be made at the same time.

This is the advice of a specialist, who urges every motorist to visit his dealer or service station in preparation for winter.

"The advent of a new season brings new problems to motorists no matter what the climate of their localities is," he says. "In some parts of the country it means coolness and increased rain; in others, below-zero temperatures. No matter what changes are expected, your car must be prepared."

The fall check-up, as outlined, should include:
 Examination of battery for potency, and of battery terminals and cables for corrosion and proper contact.

A change to winter-grade lubricants in crankcase, transmission, and differential. Complete chassis lubrication.

A check on radiators for protection by anti-freeze liquid, whatever type is used, and on all hose connections to guard against leaks in the cooling system.

Inspection of the electrical system, to make sure sparkplugs, cables, and ignition systems are functioning properly, with no loose wires or worn insulation that may cause trouble during cold weather.

"Every driver should contribute to traffic safety by periodic inspections," the specialist adds. "A safety check should include brake and steering gear inspection, and adjustment if necessary; examination of tires for anti-skid properties, and replacement of worn windshield wiper blades to provide clear vision under all conditions."

The Great Virgil is said to be just one long thrill and laugh-packed evening that is more fun than a three-ring circus.

Uncle Bill Says

By Will Robinson

Ask the average person, male, female or both, as to the dating of "Sadie Hawkins Day," and you will be told right off the bat that it is Nov. 11. Also that there is such a thing as the observance of the day that it were all right to have the observance located one or several days before the 11th. The main thing is to observe it, which is why the big schools of the state are now running with preparations for the dance and the race that goes along with it, while there is exactly the same process in the high schools, and, to be fully correct in some of the grades in the sticks, where young people come alive earlier than they do in the cities. In all of these affairs there is the same process. If the girl catches her boy or man, he is hers. It is that simple. The tight grip that "Sadie Hawkins Day" has upon the average student is shown at the University of New Mexico, this though the downtown Tribune took advantage of a chance and took the Al Capp strip away from The Daily Lobo, the college publication. The Lobo has 50,000 circulation, approached near a high mark, but the syndicate seems to have felt an appeal in the direction of the other fellow, anyhow it didn't hesitate to take the "strip" away from the campus. Strip or no strip, the students at the university are going to observe Sadie Hawkins Day, with all the trimmings. There will even be the free-for-all race, and theoretically the same desperate attempt on the part of the Abners to escape being caught. Of course those who want to be caught are caught, and that is all there is to it.

Just why the Hawkins appeal? You tell. The hero is a plumb idiot, and the intelligence of Daisy Mae, the heroine, is but little if any higher. The whole "Dogpatch" picture is silly and impossible, but what of that? Everything in our social system is impossible and, silly, isn't it? Anybody who would waste any time reading the Capp strip should be bored for the hollowhorn. Who—see got the paper with the latest Capp strip?

First American Nobel prize winner was President Theodore Roosevelt, who won the peace award in 1906.

Better Buy Buick!

WANT to be free from that nervous tensing up for a jolt every time a rough spot looms in the road ahead?

Want to enjoy the relaxing feel of a sure-footed car beneath you, that stays level even when the road doesn't?

Well, sir, ease into a Buick and see how such matters are cared for.

See what a wonderful difference in level buoyancy coil springs can make when you have them on all four

Pretty Weak Argument

THERE IS A LOT OF TALK and a lot of conversation about how the standards of living have been raised under the Democratic administrations.

There are a lot of those being paid to preach this philosophy, pointing out how all of us are getting more money today for our work than we received back in 1930.

They are emphasizing we all have more than we had then. They contend we are living better; wear better clothes and have more.

A lot of folks, who only think as far as the present and who aren't prepared to argue any, forget that the dollar they get today won't buy what the dollar would buy back in 1930.

They forget today that although they are drawing double the salary they received in 1930 that this salary doesn't take care of the increased costs of living expenses.

They forget that they could buy and could have considerable more back in 1929 and 1930 on the money they got than they can have today.

So it may be true we are getting more money, but it won't buy more—it won't even buy as much. In reality instead of our living standards being raised they have been lowered.

In a period of 20 years many of us have not accumulated as much as we would have accumulated under normal conditions and with normal salaries and normal prices being charged. A lot of us would be far better off today than we are if normal conditions had continued.

It isn't the number of dollars we have which matters so much as it is what those dollars would buy. And everyone knows that the dollar of 1930 was a better dollar and would buy far more merchandise than it will buy today.

Don't let them kid you about what the Democratic administration has done for the standard of living—they have lessened the value of your dollar and not increased it.—O.E.P.

Congress Sets Policies

AMERICA IS A DEMOCRACY with three branches of our government and each of these branches of government has a particular job to do.

Unfortunately for America this fact seemingly has been forgotten too often during the past 20 years. There have been times when it appeared we only had one branch of government—the executive branch.

There have been times when the executive controlled the judicial through appointments and when he controlled the legislative through policies.

That is not good for America. And that destroys our democracy. When this situation and this condition exists we do not have a democracy. When this situation prevails in any nation they have a dictatorship, not a democracy.

It is the Congress of the United States which has the authority to pass laws; to set up bureaus and agencies and departments. It is the legislative branch of the government which sets up the policies of these agencies, which provides for the funds for their operation and designates the manner in which those responsible for the operation of these departments are chosen.

It is only the legislative body, the Congress, which has the authority to levy taxes and to prescribe the manner in which these taxes are to be collected.

It is the legislative body which adopts the budgets and determines the sums of money which the various agencies, bureaus and departments are going to have. It is their responsibility to provide these funds and to prescribe the manner in which these funds are spent.

Far too long for the good of the nation this has not proven to be the case. It is about time that Uncle Sam has three branches of government.

We are not particular as to whether it is the Republicans or the Democrats who provide this but up to now the Democrats haven't done it.

You, of course, have your say in the affairs of our nation on Tuesday, Nov. 7. That is, you have your say if you take the time and the trouble to go to the polls and vote.

It is just as much your duty as an American citizen to go and cast your vote as it is for the congressmen of the United States to restore our government to a democracy.—O.E.P.

Cakewalk Idea Spreads

OVER AT LAS CRUCES on Oct. 20, when the Bulldogs met the Bulldogs, many of the Dona Ana County people were somewhat amazed not only at the large number of Artesia fans who attended the game, but that the Artesia High School band should have traveled so far in support of the team.

They knew that the school system could not underwrite the trip. And they'd like to take their own band on more trips. So the Las Cruces Band Mothers—similar to our Artesia Band Aides—asked a few questions.

And as a result, they are going to have a cakewalk over at Las Cruces.

Letters were written to friends and acquaintances of Las Cruces people in Artesia, with the result they now know just about how we do the job here. And as a result, there will be a band benefit cakewalk in Las Cruces in the near future.

Surely there is a lot of rivalry between Las Cruces and Artesia as to football teams and as to band, which is as it should be, just as there is rivalry between Artesia and other cities which we meet during the football schedule.

But in spite of that rivalry, there is a feeling of kindness one for the other, and it is only fitting and proper that little deals which help one community should be passed on to the other.

Our cakewalks, which were introduced to Artesia a few years ago by "Bus" Brown, as far as we know, have done very well for the Band Aides. And similar events have been staged each year by other organizations, such as the recent pie spin put on by the B.P.O. Does, merely a variation, with pies given instead of cakes.

There is no reason the Las Cruces Band Mothers should not do well with their cakewalk, if they only work at it, as do the Artesia Band Aides. And they should make mucho dinero in support of their fine musical organization.

It is through the passing on of the good things to others that we all grow and become better communities.

We sincerely hope the Las Cruces cakewalk is a great success. And if it is, we of Artesia can feel a bit of pride that we have shown a sister city how to do the job.

We cannot grow in spirit and live merely within ourselves.—L.B.

KOSCIUSKO SWINGS HIS SWORD

Gen. Thaddeus Kosciuszko, who sits astride his horse at South Eighth and West Becher Streets, has been waving his sword, according to Alfred L. Boerner, county landscape architect.

Boerner says that he saw the sword waving during a high wind and cites it as proof that the statue needs repairing.

The wind theory may have something to do with it, but, personally, with Kosciuszko's beloved Poland held in bondage by Soviet Russia, we wouldn't be surprised to see the general swing his sword in circles over his head—wind or no wind.—Milwaukee Journal.

FEDERAL CO-OPERATION NEEDED

In New Mexico there were 118 purchasers of special tax stamps for coin-operated gambling devices, although they are forbidden by law in this state. It is a difficult problem at best to enforce such laws locally, and the job would be eased considerably if the federal government would co-operate by denying federal license stamps to operators in all states where they are illegal. If and when Congress takes final action on the matter of interstate shipment, it would attach a provision prohibiting issuance of federal license stamps where these machines are barred by law, the enforcement problem would be simplified. Folks who are willing to take a chance on laxity of enforcement by local officials usually think twice risking prosecution by the federal government. This is not a new matter. Uncle Sam has always made law enforcement more difficult in the various states by similar disregard of state laws in the matter of liquor. It is high time the states demanded better cooperation by the federal government along these lines.—Gallup Independent.

'STOCKHOLM' APPEAL

We have noticed lately that communists, both in Sweden and abroad, have intensified their propaganda for the so-called Stockholm peace appeal.

I must confess that it is with feelings of considerable disgust that we here in Sweden witness the branding of the name of our capital in this way in the international communist propaganda.

Actually, of course, this so-called Stockholm appeal has no more connection with Stockholm or Sweden than earlier similar appeals, emanating from so-called peace conferences in Paris and New York, represented democratic opinion in France and the United States.

The overwhelming majority of the Swedish people have no sympathy to spare for the attempts of the communists to exploit, for their own ends, mankind's love for peace and abhorrence of war.

One of the main points in the Stockholm appeal is that the government who first uses the atomic weapon against any other country commits a crime against humanity.

Our attitude in this respect has already been conclusively stated by the foreign minister when in the riksdag, on March 22, he said that any government that starts a war of aggression, with or without atomic weapons, commits a crime against humanity.—Tage Erlander, Swedish prime minister, in an address at Lundsbran, Southern Sweden.

NO NEED FOR STATE INSURANCE

One of the resolutions adopted at the meeting of the New Mexico Press Association in June urged that the state of New Mexico discontinue the practice of buying insurance and instead carry all risks itself.

A few days ago figures were made public in Santa Fe showing that the state had paid a total of $432,828 in premiums for insurance the past year, the bulk of it going to agents with political connections. An insurance adjuster, Dale B. Dilts, who is a candidate for state representative from Bernalillo County, has announced as part of his platform his intention to urge that the state do away with its insurance. Apparently he endorses the stand taken by state editors in their convention, who pointed out that insurance is designed to spread losses for small individuals to whom such risks are hazardous, and that this condition does not apply to a state with 677,000 population, able to assume all risks itself. The federal government does not carry insurance for this reason and many states do not. Even some municipalities carry their own risks. It is estimated that the state could save at least a quarter million dollars over all losses sustained, by discontinuing the payment of premiums and assuming its own risks. This is not putting the state into private business but taking it out. You can bank on it there will be plenty of lobbying to head off any such movement if the proposition ever is brought up in the legislature. It's too juicy a handout for politicians.—Gallup Independent.

Assignment New Mexico

By G. Ward Penley

At the teacher's convention last week in Albuquerque, that University of New Mexico Coach Dud DeGroot jabbed a punch square dab into the mid-section of modern-day parents.

We, said the learned doctor, coddle, pet and spoil our kids to the point that they are discourteous, cynical, critical, and thoroughly undisciplined.

The kids, he continued, walk too little, ride too much, attend too many midnight movies, and eat their daily sustenance out of food-vending machines instead of off the regular dinner tables.

"Discipline is a vanishing thing in the American home of today," he concluded. "Parents think it is a problem for the schools, and the schools ordinarily pass it on to colleges and universities."

In Short

To sum it up, you and I are tremendously sorry excuses as parents.

The Parents' Side

Being the father of two robust kids (19 and 16—a boy and a girl) I would like to plead guilty to a lot of truth in the fact that we are not the same kinds of parents our grandfathers were. We've loosened up much from the type of discipline our parents exhibited.

I lived on a farm and had chores to do before and after school. Automobiles were almost unknown and movies were still thought of as a bit risqué. We worked; we walked; we studied.

Now, we have all moved to town where there are no cows to milk, no wood to chop for the early morning fire, and our schools are so organized that four "top" events are scheduled for each night of the week to keep the kids away from home.

What can parents do except fall in with the trend of the times?

Kids' Side of Argument

If every other Johnny and Mary attends operettas, "Peppers Club" meets, pep rallies, games, honor societies, and class plays, our kids feel "sat upon" if we refuse them the same privilege.

Church socials, Jobs Daughters, and orchestra rehearsals absorb the few other free nights of the youngster.

To Go or Not to Go

It's true we eat few meals together. We are so engrossed with letting our kids keep up with the Joneses that we are branded as old-fashioned and "out of date" if our youngsters are not permitted to go.

Where to draw the line? We as parents wish we knew the answer.

Shall it be hard, rigid discipline? You remember the analysis of the Britisher who saw all America's wonders and, when asked what was most striking about our nation, answered: "I am amazed at how strict American children are with their parents."

I give up. This modern civilization has me whipped.

Cabbages and Kings

This old bald-headed professor, even at the expense of leaving a good argument, must now turn to a typo howler or so.

Edna Shields of the Ruidoso News wrote about the telegram the wife received from her convention attending hubby: Having wonderful time; wish you were here.

The Carlsbad Current-Argus found one in The Artesia Advocate: "Lionesses plan to have husbands for barbecue." Good idea, we think. Classified in The Portales Tribune: "Wedding band and engagement rings for sale; she said NO."

That's all, except to remind you that if this kid discipline problem keeps worrying me, I'm going to be like the guy reported by Ed Guthmann in The Springer Tribune: I'm going to need a sanitary hearing.

Last week I elaborated on the merits of the American Legion and the benefits that could be derived of we could get together and get some revenue from our Veterans Club.

I have just been informed that Bob Cornett has been appointed building manager of our United Veterans Club, having full charge of all activities.

I want to commend the central committee on their selection. Now, let's get down to business. What's the use of employing a man to take charge of a business as large as the Veterans Club if we don't back him up—I mean back him to the limit. All of us know that there will always be some opposition to any move to get some club or organization moving along smoothly.

There is only one way we can attain results from our Veterans Club, and that is that all three organizations, the American Legion, the V.F.W., and the D.A.V. get behind Bob and back him up in his efforts.

About 75 to 90 per cent of our members pay their annual dues and that is as far as they go. I have

MARCH OF EVENTS

Secretary Marshall to Stay | Oil Shipments to Red China
Until UMT Wins or Loses | Discovered Through Error!

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Original word that Gen. George C. Marshall would be secretary of defense only three or four months is being altered slightly by his closest associates. They now say he plans to stay on until Congress passes or definitely rejects Universal Military Training. Marshall has advocated UMT since World War II and is determined to get it. He rejects Universal Military "Service" as a substitute.

Former Defense Secretary Louis Johnson erred in demanding UMT just when Congress was getting ready to quit. Marshall plans to offer the bill early and work it carefully through both Houses. That may keep him in as defense secretary until next June or July. And he'll continue as president of the American Red Cross.

● ERROR LAUNCHES PROBE—The investigation of oil shipments to Red China was touched off, says the Army, by an error.

Quincy Adams, of the Army's office on occupied areas, said the Army boarded the freighter Flying Cloud in Yokohama because it had been tipped the ship was carrying armor plate to China. But the Army representative found this to be mild steel plate, not armor plate.

However, in looking for the armor plate, the Army ran into some 6,000 drums of lubricating oil destined for Communist China. Adams said Gen. Douglas MacArthur's command ordered this oil unloaded and impounded.

● PEACE OR WAR—Although military leaders have warned against a let-down in United States preparedness after the Korean war ends, they privately don't look for any new outbreak of Communist aggression right away.

Only the Kremlin has the answer. However, the attitude in Washington has been more optimistic since the United Nations forces have gained the offensive in Korea.

Most military leaders feel that sooner or later we're going to have more armed clashes with the Reds. They don't believe that another fight will start just as soon as the Korean Communists are defeated.

This reasoning is two-fold: (1) The Reds will need time to regroup and recover some "lost face" from the Korean defeat; (2) United States armed strength is being increased each day and the Reds will be more wary before they start a new war.

● ANOTHER HOUSECLEANING PROGRAM—Congress may soon be asked to approve a program to rid the government of sexual deviates—modeled on the loyalty program. The Senate subcommittee under Clyde R. Hoey (D), North Carolina, has kept its investigation of the problem quiet, but is now readying a report.

Subcommittee sources say they are convinced that perverts and deviates can be found out and removed by use of the same investigative techniques employed in the loyalty program.

The group particularly wants to recommend a fair procedure, probably including the right of appeal by the individual concerned. It feels it would be impossible to investigate all job applicants and weed out the undesirable before they get on the payroll.

However, it also believes that department heads, lacking guidance, have been failing to deal with the problem when it crops up.

● PREPAREDNESS—Thanks to the Korean war and the "cold war" generally, United States steel makers and fabricators claim they are in better shape today than ever before U. S. S. R. in history.

For every ton of steel poured by Russia and her Over U. S. S. R. satellites in the first six months of this year, nearly 10 tons were poured in the United States.

Steel production already has surpassed the peak World War II total of 242,000 tons a day. Today's daily output is estimated at 275,500 tons.

By the end of 1952, steel companies here will be able to produce 22 per cent more than the wartime peak by raising their annual production by 9.4 million tons.

been an active member of the American Legion for the past 16 years, having served as adjutant, service officer, and commander. I can truthfully say that unless we all get together we will never have a successful post.

A great many of our world War I veterans are not taking an active part in our organization. I wonder why. Let's get together and see that we have the best post in the state. I know the auxiliary will back us up. You have to hand a bouquet to the ladies. If you don't believe me just compare their activities with that of the legion. Let's give the ladies their just dues and have them visit with us at the club—let's have a place where we can all meet and enjoy the comradeship of our organization.

Don't forget—the annual drive for American Legion dues will be from Nov. 1 to Nov. 11. Let's get our quota at that time.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

SIXTY YEARS AGO, the classified ad section of a Chicago newspaper contained a three-line insertion stating that a watchmaker, with proper references—and his own tools—could find a job waiting for him.

The man who placed the ad was named Richard Sears. The man who answered it first was named A. S. Roebuck.

It was an association that did not lack results. The heirs of the business Sears-Roebuck built up a billion and a half dollars' worth of merchandise in the past twelve months!

Bernard M. Baruch, our famous "elder statesman," likes his secretaries to be smart as a whip. He also insists that they be good looking. He's admired lots of ladies in his day—and every one of them could have been a cover girl with no effort whatever.

Recently a friend of Herbert Bayard Swope brought a young woman down to Long Island in the hope that Swope might persuade Mr. Baruch to give her a job. She was a remarkable market analyst, a mathematical wizard, and an accomplished linguist—but she was also ugly as a mud fence. Swope gave her a quick once-over and sighed, "Ah, no! The lady's not for Bernie."

Health Major Stamp Theme Of New Zealand

By C. Gottfried Finke

New Zealand is the most popular country when it comes to collecting health stamps, although there are many other countries that issue semi-postals where part of the money goes for health benefits. You will find in most of the other countries, stamps are issued for buildings, bridges, floods, miners, races and many other things, some for just propaganda and the extra money it will bring.

The rarest of New Zealand issues is the so called "Laughing Boy." It was issued in 1931 and it catalogued today at $35 for the two stamps. The first issue in 1929, showed a nurse and was inscribed "Help stamp out tuberculosis, 1929."

In 1930 the same design was used with the exception that the inscription was changed to read "help promote health."

In 1932 found Hygieia, goddess of health on it while the 1933 issue showed the road to health.

In 1934 a Crusader appeared on it in 1935 a child at the bathing beach. In commemoration of the 21st anniversary of the landing of Gallipoli by the Anzacs in 1936 the picture of Anzac appeared on the health stamp of that year. Also that year appeared another with a country background showing a life preserver in the center of which was a young girl's head. In 1937, the boy hiker. Children at play appeared on the 1938, while the 1939, 1940, 1941 all with children playing volleyball and only the date changed on each one.

Children on a swing appeared in 1942, while in 1943 the pictures of Princesses Margaret Rose and Elizabeth appeared on two values which were triangular in shape.

Both appeared again in 1944, on two values but this time shows them both on each stamp.

Peter Pan statue appeared on the 1945 issue followed by soldier helping a child over stile in 1946; 1947 the Statue of Eros, London. While 1948 finds a picture of the children's health camp; 1949, mother holding her child.

Princess Elizabeth. It has received from Princess Elizabeth for use on the 1950 health issue, the honor of showing for the first time on a postage stamp.

stamp the royal prince of England. On Oct. 2, the picture of Princess Elizabeth and her son Prince Charles, appeared on the two health stamps of New Zealand.

These are the regular annual health camp for children stamps and the extra charges go toward the children's outdoor funds.

This concluded a brief review of the New Zealand health stamps and one of the many topical collections that can be had from collecting various groups of stamps.

A lot of collectors collect only stamps pertaining to health, some of which is just poster stamps, not good for mail delivery.

In this category you find the United States Red Cross Christmas seals available each year at Christmas time.

These stamps in itself make a nice collection starting in 1907 and coming up to the present day.

Some of the earlier issues are scarce and hard to get but not too high in price if one wishes to buy them.

A complete collection of U. S. Christmas seals can be had for around the $20 mark. This is not possible on the issue of New Zealand.

Leyden University

To those interested in the story behind the Leyden University stamp of Netherlands issued this past month here is the story.

William, Prince of Orange, founded as a permanent token of the prince's appreciation of the important part the town had played in the war of liberation against Spain.

To commemorate this occasion, the Netherlands has issued two new stamps. The 10-cent olive brown bears a likeness of Janus Doua, scientist, who was a leader in the resistance movement. He was the first governor of the university. The 20 cent blue gray depicts Jan van Hout, secretary of the Leyden Tribunal.

Boycott of Spain

Collectors, dealers and the lay public of Spain has requested that the collectors of the world lay off the buying of the Spanish Centenary issue. The set in the amount of 74.75 pesetas face value a sum equivalent to $6.75 in United States currency.

The Spaniards object to this high face value plus the fact that the stamps were offered via a restricted sale, which made it hardly possible for local collectors to purchase a set.

The $6.75 face value would in any event be a sizeable financial hurdle for 88 per cent of the collectors in the United States where generally Spanish issues have little popularity.

But to the Spanish collectors, where the average pay of a individual is but 25 pesetas a day, the purchase price of a set of the centennial stamps at face value is equivalent to three days pay.

Reliable sources in Spain indicate the government realizing the financial profits to be gained from the celebration issued for that reason. Thus again appears one of the undesirable issues. There will be but 40,000 of these sets complete, although 100,000 low values were printed.

Petroleum Industry Can Meet Needs In Case Major National Emergency

If a major national emergency arises, the petroleum industry can meet military and essential civilian needs, and supply civilians simultaneously with a higher quality gasoline than was available during World War II.

That, in effect, was the consensus of a panel of experts.

Industry experts agree that the military must give them sufficient notice of what is expected. They said the military must specify its requirements clearly so that the various endeavors necessary to meet a national emergency can be properly coordinated.

The oil men also said that the military and federal agencies must see to it that the necessary amounts of steel, lead, chemicals and other materials are allocated in sufficient quantities for them to follow through on drilling, production, refining and transportation operations.

The allocation point was emphasized because the shortage of essential materials hampered and restricted the oil industry's drilling, production, refining and distribution operations in World War II.

In general, the oil men did not see eye-to-eye with one military estimate on the composition of gasoline for civilian consumption, should an all-out effort involve this country.

Major Ray W. Whitson, of the Munitions Board Petroleum Committee, suggested that it may be necessary to cut civilian gasoline to 74 (motor method) octane, in order to make available the full quantities of aviation gasoline, diesel fuel and other petroleum products required in wartime.

Oil men said there was no need to trim the octane down this far, and expressed belief that a higher level could be supplied for essential civilian consumption.

Dr. Graham Edgar, vice president of Ethyl Corporation, New York, told the panel forum that a substantially higher anti-knock quality of gasoline can be expected than during World War II. He said the supply of tetraethyl lead can be diverted from civilian to military use almost overnight, and that a very small reduction in the octane number of civilian gasoline would provide very substantial quantities of this for military use.

His thoughts were echoed by John R. Sabina, technical manager of the Du Pont Company's petroleum chemicals division. Sabina said:

"We and others in our industry believe that military and civilian demands can be met with a minimum of sacrifice on the part of the latter, provided the requirements are clearly stated so that the various endeavors necessary to meet a national emergency can be properly coordinated."

Dr. Gustav Egloff, research director of Universal Products Company, Chicago, noted that the oil industry is producing three million barrels a day of motor fuels, and can produce another half million barrels a day from crude now shut in. He continued:

"In an emergency the gasoline demands for military, industrial and necessary civilian use will be far higher than normal. The oil industry can supply any demand made by the armed forces for motor fuels, and the chemical industry can supply anti-oxidants, metal suppressors and tetraethyl lead."

"However, these industries need to know a sufficient time in advance what volume and quantity of motor fuels will be required for military and civilian purposes. If fuel demands increase markedly, allocation of steel will be necessary for increasing crude production, transportation, refining and distribution of products."

Departing from his prepared paper, Dr. Egloff repeated his statement that the industry must have advance warning from the military. He declared:

"We can't emphasize too sharply that the industry must be advised as to requirements. The military can't push a few buttons and expect millions of barrels of products to be rolling to distant points in a few days. There is no question that the oil industry will play ball if the military advises us in sufficient time to permit us to provide the necessary facilities."

On the subject of distillate fuels, C. M. Larson, Sinclair Refining Company, said the large quantities of jet fuel needed for an all-out war "will cut deeply into the kerosene, range oil and No 1 fuel production." Higher end point diesel fuels and gasoline will have to take the place of diesel fuels and light distillate type farm tractor fuel, he said.

Others participating in the panel discussion were Capt. C. W. Latrobe of the Bureau of Ships, T. J. Apjohn, Socony-Vacuum Oil Company, New York, and E. O. Campbell of the Munitions Board Petroleum Committee.

Auto Dealers Hit New Credit Rules

Artesia automobile dealers, members of the National Automobile Dealers Association, Washington, D. C., have received copies of a circular letter sent to area chairmen, protesting automobile credit terms that went into effect Oct. 16.

The letter slashes at the Federal Reserve Board for reducing the time limit on payments for all new and used cars from 21 months to 15 months.

Claiming the action "discriminates against many who are working in essential occupations," the association says "many workers will be unable to purchase needed cars until monthly payments are again reduced to the sensible levels at which they were formerly purchased.

Moreover, the new harsh terms will force a serious slow-down of the vast automobile industry and a drastic curtailment in employment affecting almost every community.

"One out of every seven workers in the country is employed in some branch of the automotive industry and, if cars cannot be sold, factories will have to slow down production and every segment of the industry and its suppliers will be forced to cut payrolls."

"The new terms by creating havoc with essential transportation and crippling one of the nation's greatest industries will obviously have a grave effect on our entire economy that will affect everyone."

not just those directly connected with the automotive industry."

Petroleum Peggy

I don't know who first cautioned, "Never underestimate the power of a woman," but it isn't hard to see how businessmen have recognized the wisdom of that statement. And well they might when they consider figures such as those I came across recently.

Women buy virtually all of the groceries, considerable hardware and 98 per cent of the home furnishings sold. In fact, women even buy most of the ties men wear and most of their underwear too. And we don't need figures to prove that women influence the purchases of many other items.

These figures explain why businessmen pay special attention to the wants and wishes of the family member who determines where each pay check goes. Service to the woman shopper is paramount. It's even emphasized by many businessmen who once dealt almost exclusively with the man of the house.

Take the oil business, for instance. It used to be a man's job to care for the family car—have it fueled, keep it clean, and pump up the tires. Nowadays, the woman driver can count on her service station attendant to keep her chariot in tip-top working order. In fact, the combination of gasoline and automobiles has given women a freedom of movement unknown in the days when going out meant walking or harnessing a horse. And in many homes, where once it was a man's chore to keep the furnace going, oil and gas have made home-heating almost a pushbutton job.

Whether we're in the kitchen, the bedroom, the living room or the basement, petroleum—a raw material for some cosmetics, nylon, plastics, waxes and scores of other household products—is our willing and capable servant. In the jobs it does and the way it does them, oil shows that it hasn't underestimated the power of a woman.

Political name-calling and mud-slinging at election time is always good for a few laughs, but I sometimes wonder if it is good for bettering our state and local governing bodies.

How are we, "the voting public," to make a choice between two or three possible candidates for a public office when not one of them has the decency, intelligence, or intestinal fortitude to stand on their own merits instead of the shortcomings of the other party?

How can we expect an efficient state government when we allow a political circus "such as the one being conducted now" to be carried on in New Mexico?

I, for one, do not relish the idea of deciding upon the lesser of the two evils in a matter so important as the election of our state officials.

Who Are the Puppets of Power and Privilege?

THE PUPPETS ISSUE

Now more about the charge of Tibo Chavez, Democratic nominee for lieutenant governor, that the Republican candidates are "the puppets of power and special interests."

The memory of man sometimes is short. But we suspect that not all citizens have forgotten about an incident as of last March 25. On this date Rep. John E. Miles returned to New Mexico in a private plane to further his gubernatorial nomination candidacy.

Mr. Miles, returning here from Washington via Dallas, Texas, arrived here in a plane registered in the name of Clint Murchison, one of Southern Union Gas Company's chief stockholders. Time Magazine has referred to Murchison as one of the seven big men of Texas.

When this private plane landed in Santa Fe, Mr. Miles was greeted by Jim Cole Jr., Southern Union's chief in this area.

Mr. Miles, questioned about the incident, replied that Mr. Murchison was his personal friend of long standing.

Southern Union, with headquarters in Dallas, supplies Albuquerque and other major New Mexico cities with gas. It's one of the wealthiest and biggest public utilities operating in New Mexico.

What was it, Mr. Tibo Chavez, that you said about the "puppets of the power and special interests?"—Albuquerque Journal, 10-20-50.

DONNELL BEING PAID TWICE?

The Republicans appear to be probing a sore spot with their charges against the Dee Donnell state-wide tax re-assessment and equalization survey.

Republican candidates are critical of the state tax office for hiring Donnell at $333 a month as a "re-assessment director" to help county officials with the findings of his survey.

As the Santa Fe New Mexican points out, Donnell went on the state payroll on finishing his $650,000 re-assessment contract, "and the GOPs are gleefully reading the law to anyone who will listen." It says: "The contracting party (Donnell) shall also be required to render supervision and guidance to county assessors in placing re-assessment values on the tax roll and service and surveys shall be considered part of the contract."

It looks as if the Republicans have a point in their charges that Donnell is getting $330 a month for doing something he has already been paid for.—Carlsbad Current-Argus.

DULL AND SILLY?

Governor Mabry dubs the Republican campaign in this state as dull and silly.

He deplores the tactics of the opposition in denouncing Democratic "achievements."

If it is dull and silly to expose the flagrant use of state cars for private use, then the governor is right.

If it is dull and silly to cry out against a purchasing system that gives big state orders to favored firms without free bidding, then the governor is right.

If it is dull and silly to expose the fact that "deadhead after deadhead" adorns the state payrolls, then the governor is right.

If it is dull and silly to deplore the one-man liquor czar system in this state that makes no more than a mockery of our liquor control set-up then the governor is right.

If it is dull and silly to decry about a long period of waste, extravagance, favoritism in government, then the governor is right.

If it is dull and silly to step on guilty toes and plead for a return of the good and efficient government, the governor is right.

Dull and silly, is it governor?—Albuquerque Journal, 10-28-50.
